By B. D. D.

"I hold every man debtor to his profession; from the which as men of course to seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and ornament thereunto."

So wrote wise Francis Bacon long ago.

If he were writing today he would add to profession, trade or occupation.

We despise no one so much as the man who by his conduct and practices, far from being "a help and ornament thereunto," brings disgrace upon himself and discredit to the profession or trade which is ours. Every man or every profession and trade ought to want to see the highest standards possible maintained in his particular trade or profession.

The barbers of Texas have sought to raise the standards in their trade by sponsoring the enactment of a barbers' license law. Wichita Falls barbers are now making their applications for these licenses.

In order to obtain a license to practice the trade of a barber the applicant must be at least 18 years of age, of good moral charcter, and unless they have been actively at work at the trade for two years, able to pass a test given by a state board of examiners. Their license will be subject to revocation of incompetency, malpractice and a number of other things.

A fee of $10 is charged for a license with a renewal fee of $2 annually.

The validity of the law has been attacked in the courts, but in the meantime many barbers are forwarding their applications to the state board of barber examiners.

Despite rulings that the law does not authorize the issuance of automobile licenses before Jan. 1 County Tax Collector Guy C. Raley and many other tax collectors throughout the state are preparing to issue licenses as soon as they receive the necessary forms and supplies.

The law requires that automobiles and other motor vehicles bear 1930 licenses on and after Jan. 1. If the tax collectors were technical about it they would have to attempt to issue all such licenses in one day. Imagine attempting to issue something like 25,000 licenses in Wichita county in one day. In the absence of any penalties for so doing most tax collectors are going to use common sense and have as many licenses issued and out of the way as possible before Jan. 1.

If President Hoover could be called a philosopher he would have to be called a practical one. "I have no desire to preach," he said to a group of several hundred business men called to Washington to attend a meeting of the chamber of commerce of the United States. "I may, however, mention one good old word—work."

Work simplifies a lot of our individual problems and also public problems. There is nothing like plunging into work to forget troubles and nothing like it for getting rid of them. Some of us need to improve the opportunity we have to work and others need the opportunity.

Eighteen years ago Henry Ford curtly refused to be introduced to Frank Coffyn, one of the original members of the Wright flying team. His refusal was uncompromising and made on the ground that he did not believe in flying and did not want to meet an aviator. Mr. Coffyn recalls the incident in an article in the current issue of Review of Reviews.

Thirteen years ago Guy Britton laughed when Fulcher Armstrong told him he would sell him an airplane some day. Yesterday Mr. Armstrong sold Mr. Britton an airplane.

Most of us can remember when we told our friends we would never start anywhere in an automobile because we wanted to get there.

Today Henry Ford is spending millions of dollars in the promotion of aviation and is looking to the day when the manufacture of airplanes may be as important an industry as the manufacture of automobiles.

A Republican senate is about to hold that the election of William S. Vare as senator from Pennsylvania was regular but that his nomination was obtained by fraud. They are therefore about to declare his seat vacant which will mean that a Republican governor of Pennsylvania will appoint a Republican to the vacant seat.

Looks like an expedient to keep a Democrat out of the senate.

SINGLE TRADE FILLS UP FOUR YAWNING GAPS

Scintillating Quartet Purchased by Huff Gave Oilers Flag

ALL OF THEM YOUNG

Second Baseman Storti Is Owner of Especially Fine Record

By AL PARKER
Staff Correspondent

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 5.—The foundation for the 1930 Spudder entry in the Texas league marathon was laid here today when the pennant-winning infield quartet of the Tulsa Western league club was transferred at one swoop to the Wichita Falls roster.

Irving Burns, first baseman; Lindo Storti, second baseman; Jim Levey, shortstop, and Walter Euler, third baseman, were obtained from the Tulsa club, according to announcement of Prexy William E. Huff. With the exception of Levey, who went to the Oilers late in the season, the quartet represents the infield that won the Western pennant for the Tulsa club.

All Four Young

All four are youngsters, none having been in the game longer than two years, and their addition to the roster carries out the plans of the Spudder powers that be to construct a young, hustling club. Included in the quartet are the Western league leaders in home runs, total number of hits, total bases, two-base hits and chances accepted for second basemen.

Storti, the second baseman, probably is outstanding among the new additions, and Huff and Skipper Carl Williams believe they have found a man who can fill the capable shores of Pete Turgeon. Storti led the Western league in chances accepted for second basemen and was second in fielding average. As well, he led the circuit in number of hits, 230; in total bases, 389, and in doubles, 61. In 161 games, he registered 146 runs, seven triples and 28 home runs. He was close to the top in batting average with a mark of .341. He is switch hitter facing the southpaws from the right side and the righthanders from the opposite respectively.

Big First Baseman

Burns is a big scrapping New Englander who bats from the left side, was quite a walloper for the Oilers. Hitting in the cleanup position he compiled an average of

Fatal Attack on Woman Related to Lester Murder Jury in Lubbock Court

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Dec. 5.—Nine state witnesses testified today in the Clay Lester trial in which the defendant is charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of his estranged wife here Oct. 24.

On cross-examination of witnesses, defense attorneys attempted to bring Jess Denning, local owner of a potato chip factory, who sold his products to a small cafe operated by Mrs. Lester, into the case, while prosecuting attorneys attempted to show through questioning witnesses that no other man was near the place when the shooting occurred.

Witnesses testified that Lester shot his wife and while she was lying on the ground that he stood over her body and beat her in the head with the barrel of a pistol.

The defendant nearly collapsed at the close of the morning session of court and was taken to a doctor's office to be examined. He laid his head down on the table during a good portion of the trial this afternoon.

Those who testified today included: Mrs. Eva Paschall, Luther R. Slaughter, I. H. McKaughan, Mrs. I. H. McKaughan, Thomas H. Brown, L. E. Barber, E. E. Stone, J. R. Cross, and J. D. Tedford.

HOUSE QUICKLY VOTES TAX CUT

$160,000,000 Slash Rushed To U. S. Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (US)—The house today passed the $160,000,000 tax-reduction bill by a rising vote of 282 to 17.

The "noes" were almost drowned out in the voice vote, but on the rising division of a handful of Republicans from the West and Democrats arose in opposition.

Only three members spoke in opposition to the relief for the taxpayers—Ramseyer, Republican, of Iowa; Hooch, Republican, of Kansas, and Rankin, Democrat, of Mississippi.

The argument of the opposition was that the treasury surplus should be applied toward reduction of the national debt and that the proposed slash in taxation might result in a deficit.

Republican and Democratic leaders, joining hands in pushing through the measure, answered that treasury department experts had assured there would be no deficit as a result of the slash. Besides, the country is entitled to tax relief, they held.

So evident was it that the overwhelming sentiment of the house was in favor of the measure, that scarcely a dozen members joined Howard, Democrat, of Nebraska, in asking for a roll call vote—not enough.

The joint resolution now goes to the senate, where Republican and Democratic leaders plan to expedite its passage. Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, said he was hopeful the measure could be sent to President Hoover for his signature before the Christmas holidays.

HOOVER TELLS U. S. INDUSTRY NEED OF WORK

Leaders in American Commerce Outlines Plans to Pep Up Trade

UNANIMITY PRAISED

President Stresses Responsibilities Resting Upon Industrial Heads

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—American industry in all its immense ramifications took stock today of prospects for business in 1930—and found them encouraging.

Leaders of its scores of industrial associations and corporations heard President Hoover outline briefly reasons for their assembly, and gave the views they held as to the outlook in their particular field.

The president told them the recent crash in the stock market had been followed first by a recovery of confidence in money markets, and second by a movement of leading employers to maintain wages and activity.

Construction Expansion

"The third line of action has been to undertake through voluntary organization of industry the continuity and expansion of the construction and maintenance work of the country," Mr. Hoover continued. "The extension and organization of this work are the purpose of this meeting."

He remarked that in preliminary meetings representatives of the country's leading business enterprises had "shown an unanimity I have seldom seen in our country" in the endeavor "to assure employment and to remove the fear of unemployment."

Work Suggested

"The very fact that you gentlemen come together for these broad purposes represents an advance in the whole conception of the relationship of business to public welfare," he said. "You represent the business of the United States, undertaking through your own voluntary action to contribute something very definite to the advancement of stability and progress in our economic life. Beyond this, a great responsibility for stability and prosperity rests with the whole people. I have no desire to preach. I may, however, mention one good old word—work."

After applause, the meeting heard from Secretary Lamont, and his assistant secretary of commerce, Julius Klein, and elected Julius H. Barnes, its permanent chairman.

Lowman Blames Women 'Buccaneers' For Majority of Luxury Smuggling

Milady Usually Is Unable to Resist Temptation to Bring In Fine Coat or Jewels Without Duty

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—Women who smuggle jewelry and fine clothes into the United States should be classed as pirates and buccaneers, in the opinion of Seymour Lowman, in charge of the customs service, who revealed tonight that milady returned from abroad was the chief offender in such smuggling.

A new fur coat, a glittering necklace and the like hold such attraction for many women that Lowman said some "seem unable to resist the impulse" to try and slip them past the customs agents. His supervision over customs results from his post as assistant secretary of the treasury. He set forth his views in an address before the First Presbyterian church, in which he also touched upon prohibition shootings.

Lowman said he was proud there had been so few killings in enforcement of the customs and prohibition laws since last January and said the inflow of spirits was "as much exaggerated as the supposed flow of diplomatic liquor" in Washington.

Enforcement officers, he emphasized, were instructed to shoot only in self-defense or to prevent a felony. He said there had been only eight deaths resulting from shooting by enforcement agents in 1929.

It must be remembered, he added, that agents deal with a "smart and desperate class of criminals," and often it is simply a question of whose gun barks first as to who lives.

Summarizing conditions, Lowman said liquor clearance figures from Canada were decreasing; that all cleared did not reach the United States; that even the total clearance was far below America's $2,500,000,000 drink bill in the last year before prohibition, and that of the 750 men assigned to border patrol work, two-thirds were on the northern border.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Dec. 5. (UP)—The federal government tomorrow will open an inquiry into the general election of 1928 in Hidalgo county, which has been the basis of charges of election irregularities for a year.

To the complete surprise of all this section, U. S. District Attorney H. M. Holden announced here today that Special Assistant U. S. Attorney General Horowitz will arrive in the morning to begin the investigation.

Probers Meet Today

Coincidentally, it was announced today that the federal grand jury will re-convene tomorrow morning for the specific purpose of inquiring into the Hidalgo county election. A delegation of Hidalgo county citizens conferred today with Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson and District Attorney Holden.

The probe comes on the heels of the R. B. Creager $1,000,000 libel suit against Collier's Weekly for statements made involving his name in the allegedly corrupt political conditions in Hidalgo county.

In its report made after an inquiry at McAllen a year ago, the Lehlback congressional committee said that "the committee finds that the voting of thousands of Mexicans who are citizens or naturalized Mexicans for whom the Baker machine paid poll taxes was overwhelmingly established by the evidence." Santa Claus Leaves Polar Home Early Today on Trek to Wichita

Just about the time The Record News reaches Wichita Falls homes Friday morning to remind boys and girls here that Santa Claus is to pay a visit to this city Saturday morning, the warmly booted and bewhiskered old saint will be leaving his far-away home by the north pole, headed toward the land of sunshine in the very fastest airplane that was ever made.

For Santa Claus will have worked late Thursday night and will be up to a very early start on this early visit to Wichita Falls. There is no time to be wasted at this time of the year when there are so very many boys and girls to be remembered on Christmas eve. So, long before the children here jump out of warm beds this morning to get ready for school or play, Santa Claus was sailing almost too fast to be seen, away from the midnight sun, over the snow and ice, all the while planning just how all the thousands of girls and boys below him can be made happy on Christmas day.

All through the day Friday, and under the stars all through Friday night, nearer and nearer to Texas—for he has promised to be here in Wichita Falls by 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and he always keeps his word. He will be here.

TEXAS TAX SUIT CITED IN TRIAL

Abilene Case Reviewed In New Orleans Trial

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5. (AP)—An amicus curiae brief filed at the hearing of the Louisiana community property tax case in the fifth United States circuit court of appeals here yesterday by Charles E. Dunbar Jr., introduced a similar case from Texas in the arguments.

The Texas case was brought originally by W. C. Bacon of Abilene before Judge William A. Atwell. A decree was rendered in favor of the taxpayer and upholding the Texas community property laws in application to income tax returns.

George C. Hopkins, collector of internal revenue at Dallas, appealed from the decision.

Amounts involved and the character of the income of Bacon and his wife were similar in facts with the case set forth by William Pfaff of Louisiana as a test case in this state.

Bacon and his wife filed returns reporting a combined net income of approximately $42,000. By separate returns, dividing the income, they were relieved of payment of higher tax rates in the advanced brackets of the income tax scale.

The collector, on advice from Washington, filed a deficiency assessment against Bacon and collected almost $2,000 additional income tax. This was paid under protest, and suit was filed in district court at Abilene to recover the $2,000. Judge Atwell granted the refund of the deficiency assessment.

Estimates placed the amounts involved in the suits at $10,000,000 additional by Texans in federal income taxes and $3,000,000 by Louisianans.

Rehearing on Bridge Case Not Planned

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 5. (UP)—Attorney Genral J. Berry King, today said no petition of a rehearing in the Postal Bridge company case would be filed.

At the same time he criticized the movement to draft Highway Commissioner Lew Wentz for governor.

King said:

"This office has no reason to punish the majority stockholder in this case (George D. Key), because he happens to be head of the state Democratic party, nor do we have any reason to advance the political fortunes of the accepted leader of the Republican party. This merely is a lawsuit and not a political question.

"Legally, the Postal Bridge company, under the opinions of the court could resume toll collection today unless this office sees fit to take another course. I have observed in press reports that the bridge owners say they do not intend to collect tolls as long as there is any possibility of selling the bridge to the state, as provided in the last legislature.

"I am not going to practice demagogery to the extent of asking a rehearing in order to popularize myself with bridge patrons."

Key was enjoned from collecting tolls April 1. The supreme court reversed the Oklahoma county court and the last extension for filing a rehearing petition expired today.

San Diego Urged As New Dirigible Base

DES MOINES, Iowa, Dec. 5. (INS)—Charles H. Diggs, regional director of the Los Angeles Planning commission, formerly of Iowa, has appealed to citizens of his native state to organize in favor of locating the new federal dirigible base at San Diego.

In a letter to W. C. Merckens, secretary of the executive council, Diggs states, "there are more than 40,000 Iowans in Southern California, who are anxious to see the new base located in San Diego, and I hope Iowa will lend us all help possible."

INTERIOR DEP'T NEEDS LISTED

Bill Asks for Less Than Hoover Budget

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—A $283,198,973 bill for carrying on activities of the interior department for the next fiscal year was reported to the house by its appropriations committee as the first of the big supply measures to be worked into shape for action by congress under the Hoover administration.

The measure compressed the budget estimates for the department to $148,674 less than the sum recommended under the president's program and was $2,444,102 smaller than for last year. It allowed $20,963,700 for the permanent and indefinite appropriations bringing the total outlay for the department to $304,302,347 for the next fiscal year.

Two outstanding features of the measure were the reductcion by $8,111,913 of requirements of the pension bureau, due to the increasing number of deaths of civil war veterans, and the increase by $3,112,913 for the bureau of Indian affairs, as compared to the outlay last year.

For the reclamation bureau, an expenditure of $8,321,000 was provided along with a reapportionment of unexpended amounts. It was estimated the cash balance in the reclamation fund of $5,400,000 would be reduced to $1,250,000 at the end of the fiscal year 1931.

The committee overrode the budget estimate for the national park service, recommending $8,070,935 as compared with the estimate of $7,732,515. Constant increase in visitors to the national park necessitated expansion of facilities.

A large decrease was shown for Secretary Wilbur's office. The sum of $821,500 was asked, compared with $929,000 for 1930. And it is $737,000 less than the budget provided.

George Kelly Wanted In Only One Murder

BORGER, Texas, Dec. 5. (AP)—George Kelly, reported to have died Sunday in Seminole, Okla., of alcoholism, was sought by Hutchinson county officers in connection with the death of A. A. Ray.

Ray died at "Eight Mile Blackie" Cleveland's restaurant near here. For a time it was undecided whether he died of heart disease or from a blow on the head.

A report that Kelly also was wanted in connection with Cleveland's death was declared erroneous, former Deputy Sheriff Jim Crane saying Cleveland is not dead but is serving a prison term on a liquor law conviction.

KIRBY DENIES LOBBY CHARGE

Houston Capitalist Flays Two Congressmen

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5. (AP)—John H. Kirby, president of the Southern Tariff association, today denied before the convention of the organization's state presidents that the association had engaged in "lobbying" in Washington as charged by the senate lobby investigating committee.

Mr. Kirby said headquarters were established in Washington "merely for the purpose of being in closer touch with tariff making," and "there was no button-holing of members of our staff."

He assailed Congressman Garner of Texas and Senator Caraway of Arkansas as being inimical to the best interests of the South in tariff making.

Both, Mr. Kirby declared, "demanded protection for industries in which they were respectively and personally interested, but stopped there. The rest of the industries of the South failed to find a friend in either."

"Garner has a goat farm," Mr. Kirby said. "He got protection on goat's hair. Caraway was interested particularly in rice. But he didn't seem to see that other interests of the South had an equal claim with rice to protection from foreign competition."

The Tulsa committee selected for arrangements are Sheriff Bob Price, Police Chief George Blaine and U. S. Marshal Vickery.

STATE'S ROAD PLAN FAVORED

Childress Groups Ask Resumption Highway Work

Special to The Record News

CHILDRESS, Texas, Dec. 5.—Declaring that proposals of the state highway department was very liberal and that no object of material value could be accomplished by further delay in the road program in this county, the chamber of commerce and board of city development went on record here today in favor of immediate action to complete the work on highways 4 and 5 through the county. The men unanimously agreed to request the commissioners' court in session Monday to accept the proposal of the highway department and use their influence to draw the work to a successful conclusion.

The work on both highway 4 and 5 has been at a standstill since the commissioners' court voted recently to withhold more county funds for either highway pending the decision of the state department on the routing of highway 5 east of Childress to the Hardeman county line.

The state highway department recently made two surveys through Kirkland, both running over Cleveland street in that town.

The two local organizations today agreed to accept either survey, as well as the proposition to complete highway 4 which runs north and south through Childress from Cottle to Collingsworth counties. That highway department recently agreed to release sufficient amount of the counties' funds to build a road from a point on the proposed route of highway number 4 southwest of town to connect with the pavement on South Main street here. Number 4 would run four miles east of Childress.

New Hidalgo Vote Probe Is Ordered

eral." Horowitz was appointed to conduct the probe, pursuant to the committee's request.

There was a determined effort on the part of the Good Government league of Hidalgo county, an independent party which sprang up overnight in the county, to overthrow the incumbent county officers, particularly Sheriff A. Y. Baker and District Judge J. E. Leslie, at the election.

Baker was re-elected, and Leslie claimed a majority over Gordon Griffin, his independent opponent, when the Weslaco box, in which Griffin claimed a large majority, was thrown out by the canvassers because the box was not sealed. Griffin has been contesting the election ever since, and the case is on appeal now.

Montgomery Opposed

The Independents also opposed Representative W. R. Montgomery, unsuccessful candidate for speaker of the house of representatives last winter, and an entourage of some 500 Hidalgo county citizens marched on the capitol last January and demanded that he resign.

LIBEL TRIAL TO START JAN. 13

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Dec. 5. (UP)—Attorneys for P. F. Collier and Son company, publishers of Collier's Weekly, and R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman from Texas, virtually agreed today to begin trying Creager's $1,000,000 libel suit against the company on Jan. 13.

Federal Judge Estes of the eastern district of Texas is expected to hear the case, since Federal Judge Hutcheson has said he preferred not to hear it because of his confidence in Creager.

Judge Hutcheson still has under advisement a motion to quash service on the so-called Houston agent of the Collier Distributing corporation. Collier attorneys are seeking to have the distributing corporation, instead of the publishing company, the defendant in the suit.

H. M. WURZBACH FILES ANSWER

Former Congressman Cites Hoover's Trip

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—Former Representative Harry M. Wurzbach of Seguin, Texas, indicted for violating the corrupt practices law by accepting contributions from government office holders in his primary campaign for renomination as Republican candidate in the 14th Texas congressional district, used the recent trip of President Hoover to Louisville to illustrate the invalidity of the construction of the law contended for by the government in a brief he filed today.

Federal district court for western Texas in San Antonio quashed the indictment, taking the view that it did not apply to primaries, and the government appealed to the supreme court.

Asserting "there are limits to which congress may go in restrictions and prohibitions upon and regulating and controling conduct of officers and employes of the United States," the brief declared that if government employes could legally be prohibited from soliciting contributions "for any political purpose whatever," as the act reads, then any postmaster or other government employe who solicited or received voluntary contributions to defray expenses incident to the president's trip to Louisville, such as rental of buildings, broadcasting of his speech or for other legitimate purposes, would be guilty under the act, because they would be receiving contributions for a political purpose.

Asserting the principal issue was the power of congress to legislate concerning primary elections, the brief declared congress had in mind when it amended the corrupt practices act the decision of the supreme court in the Newberry case. Explaining the court in that case had definitely placed primary elections outside the field of congressional power, the brief contended it was the intention of congress to eliminate primaries entirely from the statute and to confine it to the raising and distribution of campaign funds in general and specific elections.

Oklahoma University Regent Resigns Post

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 5. (UP)—Resignation of W. E. Utterback as a member of the board of regents of the University of Oklahoma was announced today by Governor Holloway.

George Bowman, Kingfisher attorney, and one time Democratic national committeeman, who previously has served as a member of the board of regents, was appointed to Utterback's place.

Utterback resigned, as he has been elected a member of the board of governors of the Oklahoma state bar and is not eligible to membership in both boards, Governor Holloway explained.

Who Killed Rothstein? And Also Who Is to Blame for Cock Robin's Death?

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (UP)—The case against George McManus, the smiling gambler who was charged with the murder of Arnold Rothstein, was ended today upon instructions of the judge for an acquittal verdict.

The district attorney put up hardly a struggle. He admitted he had proved almost nothing, when the defense moved for an instructed verdict. The court agreed and in five minutes' time it was all over, leaving the question of who killed Arnold Rothstein as free from an answer as the one about the death of Cock Robin.

The court was very nice about it, of course. Judge Charles C. Nott Jr., felt that the district attorney had worked under a tremendous handicap, but that he had failed, nevertheless, to establish a hypothesis of guilt.

McManus, when court adjourned shook hands with all his friends, kissed his wife, and smiled his big, open-faced smile on everyone within smiling distance. Mrs. McManus flushed and happy, clung to his arm.

The whole proceeding was over in record-breaking time. Judge Nott came into court, wearing his black robes, nodded to the jury, seated himself on the bench and looked at the prosecution table.

"I would much prefer, gentlemen of the jury to have you weigh the circumstances of this case and take the responsibility from my shoulders. I would rather pass the responsibility on to you," the judge said.

"But in view of the facts I can not do other than instruct you gentlemen, to return a verdict of not guilty in this case."

And that was all.

Firms Underbilling Produce Fined $60,000

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Dec. 5. (AP)—Fines totalling $60,000 were imposed here today in federal court by Judge J. C. Hutcheson Jr., on pleadings of guilty of underbilling produce shipped.

Jill Bros., Inc., of New York, was fined $45,000, and Joseph F. Byrens, former employe of the company, was sentenced to one year and a day in the Leavenworth prison. Byrnes' sentence was suspended for five years on condition he pay a $15,000 fine within on year and on good behavior.

STAMFORD TO GREET SANTA

Monster Celebration Due Friday Night

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Dec. 5.—Arrangements are completed for a monster celebration in this city Friday evening to welcome Santa Claus on his official appearance here. An elaborate program including a parade, an unveling of all down town show windows, a municipal program and a distribution of small gifts to all children by Santa has been arranged.

Details of the program have been worked out by the retail merchants committee of the Stamford Chamber of Commerce and that organization is sponsoring the appearance of Santa Claus. A special committee headed by Rev. M. B. Harris has visited the rural schools in the north half of Jones county and the south half of Haskell county during this week and told the students of the coming of Santa Claus and that committee reports that at least 5,000 children from the rural sections will be here for the occasion.

Several hundred students of the Stamford schools will take part in the welcoming program and the Christmas lighting system sponsored by the American legion for the business district will be turned on Friday evening for the first time during the holiday season.

Investigation of Two Oklahoma Fires Start

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 5.(UP)—Two recent fires, one at Enid and another in a rural community near Maud, were investigated today by the state fire inspectors, Fire Marshal O'Neil said.

Investigations were requested by officers of the two cities.

Neuralgic Pains Stopped By Capudine

Capudine quickly relieves the neuralgic headaches, rheumatic pains, and the aches accompanying colds that make life so miserable for so many people, especially during the winter months. It soothes the tense nerves, quickly stops the pain and affords peaceful relaxation. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instanly—much quicker than tablets and powders. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach, therefore is most desirable.

The next time you suffer from such pains take two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in a little water and note how quickly the pain fades away. Capudine has been sold by druggists for more than 30 years. 30c and 60c bottles.—Adv.

Here's What North Texas Leaders Say About The New Deep Oil Project

J. A. Kemp: "We are just now on the threshold of an era of great development. There is no doubt in my mind but that this deep oil drilling campaign will prove the greatest economic movement ever completed in this community. I have not yet heard anyone knock it, and I believe I never shall."

J. T. Harrell: "We have long overlooked our greatest opportunity in this community. More than anything else, we have needed a strong oil company. Not more than 25 per cent of the production in this area is owned here; returns from the other 75 per cent go away from Wichita Falls. This new deep oil company will give us 100 per cent ownership of its production, and we should keep it that way."

James E. McKanna: "I believe oil is here. My geologist tells me it is, and tells me to invest. I should like to cooperate with this new company in drilling deep wells, and am sure I shall have no complaints about the results."

R. E. Huff: "I have a great deal of faith in the men here who know the oil business, and I have faith in the citizens of this community. They need only to come to life again and sell themselves thoroughly on Wichita Falls and the surrounding territory. There is nothing we can not do if we will but set ourselves to it. Don't say 'they' when referring to this deep oil drilling project. Say 'we.'"

C. H. Clark: "This fund we are making up will be wisely administered by men whose judgment I am more than willing to trust, and will prove the best investment we have ever made in this section of the state, in my judgment.

"When this oil company's formation is completed, these wells can be drilled for a very small part of the $1,000,000 which we are raising. This is a community affair. It is worth more to the average small investor as an avenue for profitable investment than to the oil operator. The oil business has just passed its 'dead time!' Investments in oil property wisely made today should be worth twice their present valuation within a year, by natural improvement in the market."

United We Build--United We Profit!

Harry Hines reviewed the development of the producing areas in this territory, stating that oil was found at 900 feet near Electra more than 20 years ago; and that the drill has uncovered producing sands since then to a depth of 2600 feet from which horizon splendid production is now being had in the South Wilbarger and Electra fields.

Why then should we consider 2600 feet the final depth at which oil can be found in this territory? We now have some 14 producing sands and in the search for deeper oil by this company when any of these known sands are encountered they will be developed. Nice profits are expected from this source.

There is no reason why we cannot expect the expenditure of many millions of dollars by outside interests during 1930. When the $1,000,000.00 is assembled and the exploration work is started, there will be an unprecedented influx of capital and people into this territory that will directly benefit every citizen of this area. This prosperity should be reflected in the cash register of every merchant.

DEEP OIL FUND SHOWS GAIN

More Than $512,000 Stock Is Subscribed

Subscriptions to the capitalization of the Deep Oil Development company mounted to a total of more than $512,000 Thursday, according to information given by J. D. Bright, who is in charge of the company's offices in the Hamilton building.

More than $4,000 of the stock placed Thursday was subscribed by citizens of the Henrietta community in a meeting held at the chamber of commerce hall in Henrietta Thursday afternoon at 2:30, it was said. A large crowd was present for the first community effort toward completing the $1,000,000 capitalization set for the deep oil drilling enterprise, according to Wichita Falls citizens who attended the meeting.

W. L. Robertson will head a delegation of local citizens who will go to Burkburnett Friday afternoon for a meeting there at 2:15 o'clock at the office of the Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce. Members of the Deep Oil Development finance committee living in Burkburnett, including I. E. Harwell, J. H. Brumley, Paul Browning, E. J. Williams and Rex Smith, will meet the Wichita Falls representation and the group will conduct a mass meeting of Burkburnett citizens in the interest of the deep oil drilling project.

Another group, headed by Harry Hines, finance committee chairman, will go to Olney Friday night for a mass meeting to be held in the city auditorium there at 7:30 Friday night.

Airport Notes

The new gravel road leading from the Burkburnett highway to the Municipal airport was completed Thursday afternoon, making the landing field accessible to motorists in any kind of weather. The road is of hard packed gravel, almost like a hard-surfaced highway, and will become more closely packed with use, it was said. Its completion marked the advancement of another step in the extensive program of improvement now under way at the port. The administration building is nearing completion and should be occupied by the first of the year, it is thought. The next step will be the laying of the concrete apron and runway to front the hangar and the building, allowing incoming and outgoing ships to taxi to the door of the waiting room in any weather and providing ease in removing ships from the hangar.

Two fleet Kinner powered ships landed at the Municipal port Thursday afternoon about 4:10 o'clock bearing representatives of the Kinner Motor Service company of Glendale, Calif., en route from Omaha, Neb., to El Paso. The party was to spend the night here and takeoff early Friday morning.

L. Bi Frits, general traffic representative of the Safeway airlines, landed at the Municipal port about 11:40 o'clock Thursday morning in his Lockheed Vega, Wasp powered ship en route from Tulsa to Sweetwater, Texas, on business. With him landed Mrs. Fritz and Mrs. Bob Cantwell, wife of the chief pilot of the Safeway lines and son of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of Wichita Falls schools.

Mrs Ollie Walker

Houston Lady's Skin Nice and Clear Now

"My complexion used to show how bad I felt. Now it shows that I am free from those depressing headaches and nervous spells," says Mrs. Ollie Walker, who lives at 2424 Morse St., in Houston.

"I suffered from constipation, I might say all my life. I couldn't throw off the wastes and they gave me headaches, and a very sallow complexion. Ever since I started taking Nature's Remedy, all that is gone. I reckon the real reason is that NR Tablets are so pleasant to take that I continued taking them long enough to get results."

NR Tablets are so effective because they soothe, sweeten and stimulate the stomach and bowels. Then the starch and sugar wastes from the food you eat can't remain in your system to form the acids which sour your stomach, bind your bowels and rob the blood of the red corpuscles it must have plenty of to keep you from losing weight and strength, and from becoming bilious, headachy, dyspeptic and rheumatic. Get a 25c box of NR Tablets at any drug store.—Adv.

An 18-year-old negro youth, already under a five-year suspended sentence for burglary and scheduled for trial Monday on a charge of theft, had another offense added to his list Thursday when he was arrested by police in connection with the theft of $10 in cash from a white woman last Tuesday. The arrest was made by Plainclothes Officer A. L. $10,000 BOND FREES GRUNDY

Alleged Slayer Leaves Jail Late Thursday

Roy Grundy, indicted for the murder of June Hilburn here last Oct. 17, and whose first trial resulted in a hung jury, was released from the county jail about 7:15 o'clock Thursday evening following approval of a bond of $10,000 made through the efforts of his attorneys. Sheriff W. G. Bralley approved the bond.

Grundy had been in the county jail since the day of the killing, having been removed only during his trial. A jury in the 89th district court failed to agree and was released the morning of Nov. 28. A new trial was set for Jan. 16. Attorneys for the defense are Cedric Taylor and R. E. Taylor.

Hilburn was shot on the morning of Oct. 17 in the business section of the city. He died with three charges from a shot gun in his body. Grundy pleaded emotional insanity which he claimed was brought on by the belief that his wife was unfaithful to him, according to evidence submitted in the first trial. Sam B. Spence, district attorney representing the prosecution, had no comment to make on Grundy's release Thursday night.

HUNTER FINDS BODY OF PILOT

Mail Flier Killed in Crash Near Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5. (US)—The body of Pilot Thomas P. Nelson of the National Air transport, and his wrecked plane, were found today in a field near Chagrin Falls, 35 miles southeast of this city.

Nelson's plane crashed last Monday while he was flying the mail from Bellefonte, Pa., to Cleveland when he became lost in a blinding snow storm that swept the route.

The discovery of the body and plane ends one of the largest and most intense searches ever held for a lost pilot.

More than 20 old-time pilots, led by Col. Charles Lindbergh, had covered more than 150 square miles of territory since Nelson was reported lost.

The body, thrown clear of the plane wreckage, was found by Joseph Vincent of Chagrin Falls while hunting. The wreckage lay in a ravine approximately 30 feet from a main highway along which hundreds of automobiles pass daily. The wreckage, however, was hid from view of the highway by the ravine's sides and the snow.

Nelson, one of the old-line pilots of the National Air transport, was at one time a flying buddy of Lindbergh's on the old Chicago-St. Louis run.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Words cannot explain what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. My mother always kept it in her house for years. She calls it "the old reliable." Before my first baby was born she urged me to take it because I was so terribly weak, and I gave it a good trial. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. At one time I had to lie down four or five times a day. I still take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for I feel that it gives me strength to be a good mother to my little family. I will gladly answer letters asking about it."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings.

"When my little daughter was born, we were living on a homestead way up in northern Alberta, Canada. I had four other children and I worked so hard that I suffered a nervous breakdown. The doctor's tonic didn't seem to help me and when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to take that instead. One day I felt good, the next day I might feel bad but I kept on with the Vegetable Compound until I felt well again. It is a wonderful medicine for it surely brought back my strength. Today I can do anything, thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any woman will write to me I will tell her all I can about this medicine."—Mrs. William Parent.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel 100% stronger. I am not so nervous and my appetite is better. My head only bothers me once in a while for which I praise your Vegetable Compound. I am always recommending it to other ladies when we get talking together."—Mrs. Della Hutsell.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Thomas Jefferson said each man had an inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

◇ ◇ ◇

It is such a pity that one's pursuit of happiness sometimes interferes terribly with another's. How can such an endless chain sort of pursuit be adjusted when it is something in which the law will not take a hand?

◇ ◇ ◇

For instance, in pursuit of the happiness that finding 10-cent Christmas presents gives us, we enter one of the 10-cent emporiums and have a perfectly rapturous time until the phonograph starts.

◇ ◇ ◇

Considering others' likes, we bury our disapproval in the depths of a self righteous soul and stand nobly the love lyrics and camp meeting songs and prayers.

◇ ◇ ◇

But unfailingly, (and because unfailingly it must be a popular record) there is one put on sung by a character who leaves his love for Georgia. Determined on excitement, he shoots the sheriff, is put in prison "with ball and chain,"—so far in a bright and cheerful tone—but from what we gather as we hastily push toward the door, is to be executed, for the last lines reaching our cars as we go out are a dolorous wail about never seeing his Liza any more.

◇ ◇ ◇

Now what we wish to know is would you consider that a proper Christmas carol?

◇ ◇ ◇

And speaking of Christmas carols we know a group who are going about Christmas night to sing Christmas carols.

◇ ◇ ◇

We hope it is a clear night, with perhaps a little snow on the ground and that we hear them. We can imagine nothing more beautiful than hearing under such conditions, "Holy Night, Silent Night."

◇ ◇ ◇

Christmas gifts like that are uplifting. But gifts can be given from the goodness of a heart any time. We know a lawyer in the city who is giving an enormous amount of pleasure.

◇ ◇ ◇

T. F. Hunter is taking a delighted and delightful party from his office to the plains on a hunting trip. With Mr. and Mrs. Gose Waggoner and Misses Callie Turpin, Callata Morrison and Katherine Weldon, he will leave in a luxurious sedan for the plains.

◇ ◇ ◇

Headquarters have been engaged in a hotel, and the party will not return until the latter part of the week. Glorious weather for glorious sport. We believe, with a man to whom we spoke of him, "he's a wonderful fellow."

Record News Daily Pattern Service

APRON FROCK FOR MORNING
Pattern 1743

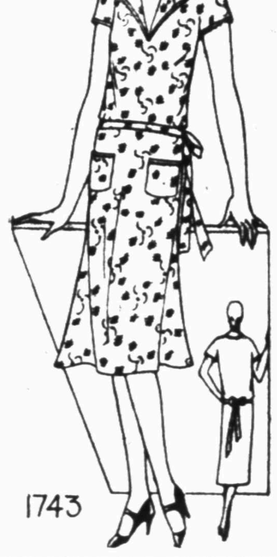

The model sketched today may be used as an apron to protect one's frock, or may be used in place of a frock for morning household duties. It is very easy to make, and the effect is charming. The collar, sleeve ends and pockets are bound in contrasting color.

Design 1743 should be fashioned of gingham, percale or rayon as these fabrics are practical and sturdy. Printed patterns of flowers, checks, plaids and dots are most attractive vividly colored on white grounds.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 36-inch material.

Pattern will be delivered upon receipt of fifteen cents (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

The new winter fashion book is ready for delivery. Price 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to The Record News Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

U. S. COURT TERM ENDS

Judgment for $8,000 Made In Civil Suit

Judgment in favor of the plaintiff in an $8,000 suit for debt brought by the Oil Well Supply company against the W. P. Delaney estate Thursday afternoon brought the fall term of the United States district court for the Wichita Falls division to a close. Judge W. H. Atwell adjourned the court for the term as soon as the judgment was entered at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The decision in the case involved the sale of 112½ shares of stock in the Petroleum Producers company. M. E. Peters was named trustee to sell the shares, pay a debt of approximately $8,000 to the Oil Well Supply company, and pay any remaining sum into the Delaney estate. Judge Atwell ruled that the transfer of the stock by the late Mr. Delaney to his daughter, Miss Emma Delaney, would not hold against the claims of the creditors and ordered its sale.

During the term the court has disposed of 52 criminal cases, 31 law suits, and two controversies in equity since Nov. 18. The next session of the United States court for this district will be convened early in March, 1930.

A GLORIFIED CLEAR SKIN

A CLEAR, smooth, lovely skin enhances personal attractiveness! Men admire it. Women praise and secretly envy. More happiness and friends may depend upon it.

The way to the skin is through the blood. Rich, red, healthy blood nourishes the body and aids in protecting it against infection and disease.

Skin troubles and sallow complexion are usually but symptoms of a deeper, a more dangerous trouble—a lack of the normal count of red-cells in the blood.

When you take S.S.S. to get rid of these outside blemishes you are building up the system to ward off graver diseases.

S.S.S.

© S.S.S. Co.

If you are one of the embarrassed—and men are not exceptions—with skin blemishes that linger, and sometimes leave scars, you will want to possess body power to clear up your skin.

S.S.S. will help Nature give you this power. Internal healthfulness will then reflect in your skin a natural loveliness—a skin glorified.

Millions of people have taken advantage of the wonderful medicinal properties in S.S.S. It gives to Nature what it needs to build you up so that your system may throw off the cause.

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, the body's power of resistance to infection and disease is raised. Your appetite should improve. Firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should sleep soundly. You should feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. It promotes healthy body building. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the great blood tonic which is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years. All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

PADLOCK THE ATTIC

Daily Editorial

THE LATE Dean Johnson of New York university, delighted to recite the story of a reporter on the Springfield Republican, who so exhausted the hyperboles of vocabulary in his eulogy of a Patti concert, that Sam Bowles told him to withdraw a few headline superlatives and keep them handy in case the pope should decide to drop into town.

Marvels are crowding upon marvels at such a lickety-split rate that news begins to find itself in that young man's predicament.

The phrases that should have been preserved for amazements like Byrd's subarctic flight, have been squandered so often on lesser achievement, that they now fail to furnish printers' ink with a thrill commensurate to the event.

The real significance in Byrd's exploit does not lie in reaching the south pole, but in reaching it by aeroplane and under the most hazardous conditions—in attaining his objective through the use of precision and meteorological instruments, whose perfect working vindicates the claim that aviation is entering the kingdoms of safety and exactness.

And in the knowledge that soundly constructed flying machines, using proper appliances and directed by expert pilots, are as trustworthy as marine and land vehicles.

The expedition's ability to maintain unbroken communications with base headquarters, even while traveling through the magnetic areas, also disperses any doubt that radio has surmounted its worst difficulties.

Shakespeare let Pluck speak out of time, when he prematurely drew a girdle around the world—it waited upon Marconi's invention to do that.

AND, DESPITE the hesitancy of some local wizards to endorse Dr. Robinson's discovery of ethereal routes, over which five thousand, instead of 25, stations may broadcast without interference, the day is on the calendar when telephony will entirely dispose with wires, and an explorer at the headquarters of the Amazon will find it as easy to connect with his home in Melbourne or Madrid or Manhattan as you talk between apartment and office.

Nobody knows what's in the air, but the glimpses we have caught of its contents, urge legislative caution in concluding irrevocable contracts for its use.

Prediction draws no long bows when we are warned that the Hertzian waves will eventually be transformed into illumination and motive power; that they will soon drive all locomotives and automobiles—move all factory equipment and even replace the Zeppelin's gasoline tanks.

Not billions, but quintillions' worth of unapplied force are surging through the atmosphere, ready to serve utility at costs which will make balance sheets squirm in ecstasy.

And congress has no more insistent duty than to preclude the possibility of minority monopoly over resources that can still be conserved as a common asset—resources destined to exceed the combined value of our coal mines, oil fields, waterways, forests and minerals.

The future pleads with Uncle Sam to restrain his Santa Claus proclivities, before he stuffs many more Christmas stockings with national air rights.

A Kind Word for Congress

AT THE RISK of drawing a round of guffaws, we wish to say a kind word for congress, as it starts another session—one of vital interest to American business, world peace and incidentally the Hoover administration.

Lately, much criticism has been directed at congress. There seems to be a tendency to blame it for everything, from the stock market crash down the line. We are told that the nation's legislative body often argues over unimportant matters, that it is slow in providing needed legislation, and that its members are constantly playing politics.

Congress undoubtedly deserves considerable criticism. True, it is unwieldy, inefficient and is made up of men who often try to further their own political interests—which it might be said they have to do or they wouldn't stay there very long.

But there are several good points concerning congress. Under our system of government, it still stands as a real guardian of the public interest, a forum where the efforts of special interests to gain privileges at the expense of the public are disclosed.

As you know, congress consists of the senate and the house and the present difference between these bodies strikingly illustrates one of the best points concerning the value of congress.

The house works fast with an efficient party organization absolutely controlling legislation. In recent years, this has been true whether Republicans or Democrats are in power. Debate is limited, often to five-minute discussions by members. Possibly, it is well or nothing could be accomplished, but the house, far more than the senate, lives up to the idea of how the average person thinks congress should operate.

A house committee framed a tariff bill in short order and it was pushed through with only a few days' debate, despite the fact that it was a measure that was considered one of the two most important tasks of the special session. It then went to the senate and what happened?

The senate refused to be hurried and drew criticism from many groups of business men. Debate there still is practically unlimited. The Republican senators split into various groups. But the net result of all this was that the country gradually began to find out what was in the tariff bill, who wanted the higher tariffs and how they campaigned for them.

Thus followed the lobby investigation, including the discovery that Senator Bingham of Connecticut allowed a representative of a Connecticut manufacturers association to sit in on the framing of the bill as his secretary and the fact that Washington is crowded with lobbyists, seeking governmental favors for private interests. Now, radical changes seem certain to be made in the tariff bill, but the important thing is that the spotlight of publicity has been turned on the mammoth Washington lobby. One lobbyist at the Geneva conference, apparently financed by shipbuilders and seeking to prevent agreements looking toward arms limitation, was denounced by President Hoover, but it was Senator Borah's curiosity concerning a suit growing out of that affair that led to the presidential denunciation.

The senate has the habit of turning the light on the efforts of many to gain special privilege and on fraud and corruption. It was a senate investigation that brought the sensational disclosures concerning government oil lands a few years ago.

For many years, nearly all disclosures of this kind have come from congress. It is the tendency of all administrations, regardless of party affiliation, to conduct much public business in secret. Obviously a certain amount of secrecy is necessary. Conscientious executive officers often believe they can correct abuses more satisfactorily by not making the facts public, and thus avert possible criticism of their conduct.

The American public has a habit of correcting governmental abuses whenever the facts become known. Hence, congress and particularly the senate in acting as a reporter to the public of conditions in the federal government is performing a service that makes for better government. Congress should carefully consider all matters brought before it, and time and again the value of its decidedly slow method of enacting legislation has been demonstrated.

The Old Men Make War

THE DEATH of Georges Clemenceau removes yet another of the great figures that occupied the spotlight during the world war. One by one they are passing on—Wilson, Foch, Haig and the others; in a short time all of the war-time leaders will be gone.

Which, once more, serves to remind us—that it is the old men who make war. The young men, to be sure, do the fighting, do the dying; but it is the old men who call them out and tell them where to fight and when to die.

The world war is not so very far back in history. It is a scant 11 years since the fighting ceased. Yet the leading figures are rapidly leaving us. In another decade all of them will be gone.

The young men do the fighting—but the old men make the war!

When I Was Seventeen

When I was seventeen, and versed
Beyond the wit of seventeen
I thought: There's no love like the first,
Nor any kiss as keen;

When I was seventeen, I swore
To him I loved above all men
That I had never loved before
And never would again.

But that was seventeen—and this
Is what I've learned these ten years past,
That every kiss is the only kiss
And each new love's the last.

Gag

Sam Hearn passes along the silly about the chap named Goldberg who entered a cross-continent marathon. When he got to Cleveland he noticed a man running closely behind him. This made Goldberg angry. When they reached Kansas City the same pest was still running behind Goldberg, who stopped and breathlessly chirped: "Lissen here! I'm running across de country for a $1,000 prize and you are chasing me since Clivvlend, and you are making me noivous. What do you want from he and who in hal are you anyhoo?"

"Plizz dun't be med wit' me," was the reply, "I vant to be you stowaway."

"Yeah," flipped the other, "who's the lucky man?"

While love itself goes by.

For Mencken's Americana

Among other reasons why prohibition is a laugh in these United States is this report of a W. C. T. U. meeting from the Providence (R. I.) Journal: "Programs were distributed as prepared by Mrs. Richardson, with the letters W. C. T. U. around the borders and a design representing a white ribbon at the top. In appreciation of her efforts in preparing the program Mrs. Richardson was given the 'white ribbon salute.' All the members rose and faced Mrs. Richardson, and extending their right hands toward her three times called: 'White ribbon, white ribbon, white ribbon, hurrah, hurrah, hurrah! Mrs. Richardson! Mrs. Richardson! Mrs. Richardson!'"

Joke

In a local synagogue the other Sabbath, the rabbi eloquently discussed Nature. He passionately cried: "And let me tell you good people this. The world will come to an end in 150,000 years!"

"Wot did you sad?" interrupted an interested Jewish gentleman, who stood up.

"I said," replied the rabbi, "that the world would come to an end in 150,000 years."

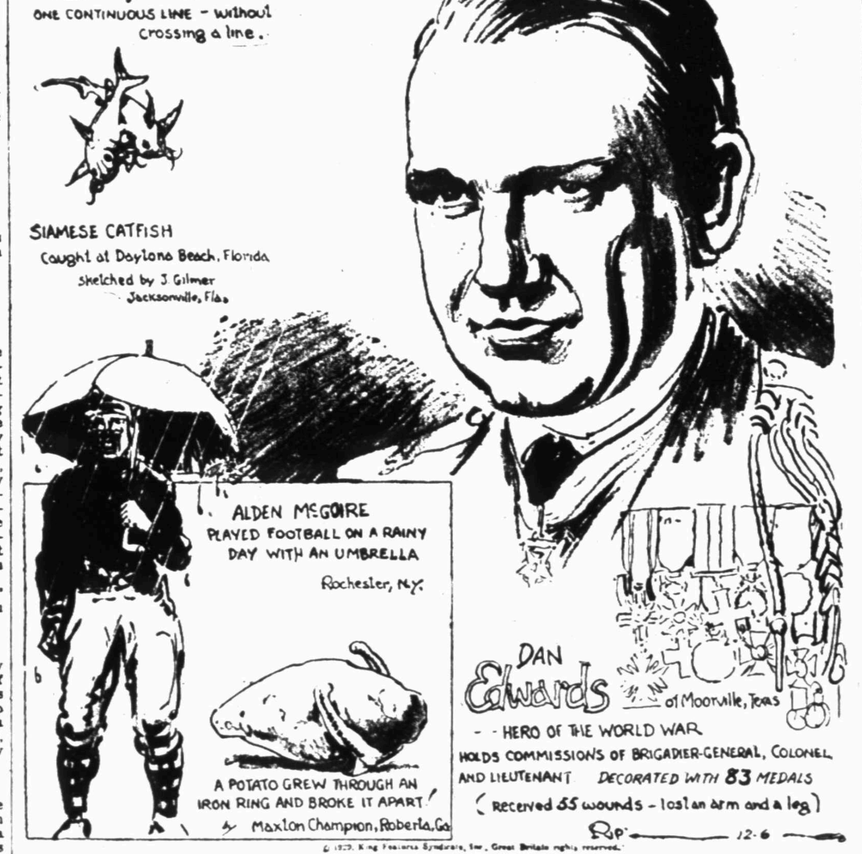

"Oh, I beg you poddon," apologized the greatly relieved disturber, "I tutt you sad fifteh tousand."

There Should Be a Law

The N. Y. World and other newspapers reported the excitement following a playlet performed by Station WMCA the other evening. It appears that the radio "entertainers" offered a sketch burlesquing the Mexican elections, and as the winning candidate offers his acceptance speech he is shot dead. Radio lesteners misinterpreted it all and excitedly telephoned newspapers inquiring about the assassination of the new Mexican chief.

This is more obnoxious than you might think, considering that station WMCA brought itself down to the level of columning-burglars, the sketch having been boldly thefted from the current George White's "Scandals."

Marriage for Two-- By Arthur Somers Roche

Shortly after an interview in which Helen Wilson tells Larry Tracy that she wishes to break their engagement so that she can marry the wealthy, middle-aged Frank Burton, and Larry swears, in pique, to marry the first girl who will have him, he rescues from a park bench a starved but beautiful girl, Joyce Carroll.

Realizing that she is penniless and ill, and respecting her desire to hide her poverty from the world, he takes her to his own home, where he lives as a bachelor.

That same day a newspaper reporter arrives with Mrs. Wilson's announcement of the breaking of an engagement. Larry incensed by the notoriety Helen is causing him, and thinking only of his desire to hurt her, asks Joyce to marry him.

She consents, and they are married, agreeing that their marriage will in reality be only a friendship.

Dismayed by the sensation his marriage is causing, Larry decides to take Joyce abroad.

Knowing nothing of his wife except her name, Larry suspects the ease with which she secures the reporters that she has known her husband for months. Shortly afterward a man named Ratty Rogan attempts blackmail by threatening to disclose Joyce's past. Larry knocks him down.

Of his wife Larry knows nothing, except her name, but the attempts of a man named Ratty Rogan to obtain blackmail by threatening to disclose Joyce's past arouse distrust in him.

Shortly they sail for Biarritz in order to escape the notoriety their marriage has caused, and Larry's mood continues to alternate between doubt and admiration.

Larry's Kiss

"Am I—is it—too daring?" she asked.

On the chair lay a carelessly tossed beach gown, but she stood there attired in a one-piece suit that revealed nearly all of her body and that showed every line where it hid the flesh.

Tracy had seen his wife in negligee; he had seen her in pajamas. For that matter, modern street or evening dresses reveal practically all of a woman's body. He had known that her figure was delightful, but he was not prepared for the utterly enchanting revelation that met his eyes now. To begin with, she was not, in bathing slippers, quite as tall as he had fancied, but she was even slimmer where slimness was desirable and rounder where roundness is no detriment. She was too ineffably entrancing. His eyes, wide with ardor, told her as much.

"I take it, without too great vanity, I trust, that I'm not offensive to the eyes," she laughed.

"You're a delight," he muttered. "And not too bold?" she asked.

Upon an unshapely woman her scanty costume would have been inevitably bold. But upon her it was the only possible dress for swimming.

He shook his head. She became suddenly self-conscious and picked up her dressing-gown. He took it from her and placed it about her shoulders. An impulse which he many times restrained conquered him now. His hands tightened upon her shoulders, twisted her around, and his lips greedily sought hers.

He had dreamed of doing this many times in the last 10 days or so. Though he told himself that he would never yield to inclination he knew that he deceived himself, knew that sooner or later he would do this very thing. And he had wondered, as a man must, how she would receive his first advance.

Would she struggle? Would she yield? Would she become indignana, embarrassed, or what? But he had never anticipated her reactions as they would really be.

For the body that he drew to him seemed suddenly turned to marble. Pliable marble, if such a thing be conceivable, but cold and stony. She made not the slightest resistance, but the shoulders he gripped were suddenly cold, and the lips he kissed were as unresponsive as the lips of a painting. Even the eyes into which he gazed—and which did not turn away from his own—were as expressionless as those of any statue.

Joyce's Threat

Reluctantly, shamefaced, he released her.

"I'm sorry," he muttered.

"Oh, no you're not," she said.

"I—I couldn't help it," he stammered.

"Oh, yes, you could," she told him coolly. "Well, is it over?"

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"My words are clear, I think," she retorted. "I mean—is this ended?"

"Is what ended?"

"What has just occurred," she explained.

Beneath her quiet contempt he grew angry.

"My God! I'm only human, after all."

"And not very original," she said. "I suppose Adam said to Eve that he was only human, after all. In other words, she was the only woman around, just as I'm the only woman around——"

"That isn't so," he stammered.

"No?" Her eyes derided him. "I suppose I should be flattered at that. With half the demi-monde of Europe in the Casinos here, I should be overjoyed that you selected me."

"I won't offend again," he said. "Until the next time that you feel like it," she mocked.

Her contempt enraged him now.

"After all," he sneered, "you know perfectly well that sooner or later it would come to this."

"That is quite true," she admitted.

"Then why, if you knew it was inevitable, be angry?" he demanded.

"Does the fact that a thing is inevitable make it any more pleasant?" she inquired. "Of course I knew what you'd do. You say you're only human. Well, I say that you're only a man, and from a man a woman expects only one thing. You paid for me—therefore I belong to you."

"I don't feel that way at all," he tried to assure her.

"You mean that, being a man, you can't be honest even with yourself," she said. "You feel exactly that way, but remnants of chivalry constrain you to deny that feeling."

"I've said it won't happen again," he said.

"You've said it. But now I say it," she told him. "Because, the next time, I'll leave you. Oh, I don't suppose that's much of a threat. After all, I came with you willingly enough, took what you had—now, I'm going to be honest. I—I'm not a fool. I've met men, I—knew perfectly this would happen. I—I'm going to be honest as few women would be with you—I wanted it to happen. Because I wanted to know whether or not I could—please don't make me go on," she ended abruptly.

"You needn't," he said. "I think—you're fine to—be so honest. I'm only sorry that—I'm so distasteful—"

"You're not," she interrupted. "It's only that—you see, if you were in love with me—really in love—you're my husband, after all——"

"You'll not have to leave me," he cut in. "And—I do love you."

Her misty black eyes brightened incredibly. Her lips curled deliciously.

"You're sweet," she cried. "You—take the meanness, the hurt—out of everything. You didn't have to say that—that you loved me. I know you don't—and don't want you to, but—I'm glad you said it. You wanted to save my pride and—shall we go bathing?"

A Rescue!

They hailed a cab outside their walled garden, and the cabby beamed upon them. Here was youth, arrayed in dressing gowns and bathming suits, out for an hour of play in the surf, and the cabby approved. The man was young and good-looking; the girl was young and beautiful. This was life as it should be lived, and the cabby approved. People like these young Americans, who lived in such a magnificent villa, would be generous with old Antonio, and would enable his dream of a farm back there in the Pyrenes to come nearer realization.

He cracked his whip with a great flourish, hurled incredible Basque insults at his bony old horse, and they dashed down the steep hill toward the ocean at an unbelievable pace. Joyce terrified at the downhill speed, and not knowing that every cab in Biarritz is equipped with powerful brakes, shrank toward Tracy, and the very movement seemed to assure him of forgiveness.

Damn it, what a beast he was! A girl as fine and sweet and trusting as Joyce. Then doubting commonsense returned to him. Every one knows that favors withheld assume greater value than favors easily granted, and perhaps Joyce knew exactly what she was doing in the very moment that he was terming her noble, wonderful.

The vision of Rogan obtruded itself and the arm with which he held the frightened girl had nothing of ardor in its embrace. She seemed to sense the change in him and struggled back to her own side of the seat.

"Silly of me—I guess we're all right," she managed to laugh.

But her laught didn't ring true, and Tracy, a windmill in the conflicting winds of emotion, veered again toward complete sympathy and understanding. But one couldn't say to one's wife—a wife that had been acquired as strangely as his wife had been—that one minute one had faith in her, and that the faith was lost and regained every moment or so. So Tracy said nothing.

To an old woman in front of the Casino they surrendered beach robes and slippers, and ventured into the waves. Life guards waved trumpets, when they were not blowing them, and an Englishman volunteered an explanation to Tracy.

"Too many people drowned here each season," he said. "If the trumpet blows it means that someone had gone out too far, and will be arrested if he doesn't come in nearer shore. The wave indicates the direction to take."

Joyce laughed gayly. "And the only way to avoid arrest is to be drowned?"

The Englishman grinned. His brown eyes beamed approval upon the slim American girl. Tracy felt a sudden jealousy. Why should any other man be permitted to gaze upon Joyce? Damn! He was a fool. To hide his chagrin—he had an absurd belief that she could read his inner thoughts from his outer expression—he dashed into the surf, swam under a huge roller and came up to hear the blasts of a trumpet and to see two life guards frantically waving. He glanced over his shoulder. No one else out beyond himself. Well the silly fools must mean himself.

But one didn't care to be arrested. So he started to swim inshore. And then, laughing at his elbow, he found Joyce.

"Fearful current," she said.

Tracy had already discovered this. Things that were alive seemed pulling at his legs, his waist. His face whitened and he burned with chagrin as he noted Joyce's quick alarm.

"Listen," she said quickly, "flatten out. Get on top of the water. It won't pull then so much."

She herself, he noted, was at complete ease. He tried to follow her advice, felt that quick touch of panic which may seize upon the most hardy swimmer, and fought it down. But she—he was right; she knew his inner thoughts—touched his elbow. Her hand slipped under his chest.

It was all over in a second. Somehow they evaded the gripping current, were in the eddy, were being rushed to shore in a tumbling hilarious surf that seemed to take great joy in the fact that it had just frightened a couple of human beings.

She hadn't saved his life, he'd been in no real danger. But that touch upon his chest, that seemed to straighten him out, had restored his confidence, or his pride, or his strength. She'd done nothing at all really, but she had shown that she would have been ready to do much.

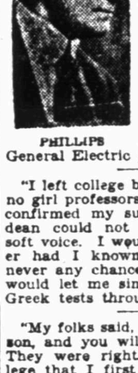

"Quits"

After the angry lifeguards had been soothed by many francs and had departed to warn other rash bathers that the Bay of Biscay permits no liberties, Tracy looked at his wife.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

PHILLIPS

"Everything that I am today," said Mr. Vallee, as he was cornered in a safety deposit vault, "I owe to hard work. I was born in Maine but left the state in plenty of time. I went to Yale to get a college education and it was only through good luck that I didn't get it. Another year or two in college and I would have been a bond salesman or an engineering assistant at the General Electric plant.

"I left college because there were no girl professors and as soon as I confirmed my suspicions that the dean could not be swayed by a soft voice. I would have left sooner had I known that there was never any chance that the faculty would let me sing my answers to Greek tests through a megaphone.

"My folks said, 'Go to college, my son, and you will never regret it.' They were right. It was at college that I first played the saxophone. Had I played it anywhere else I might have been summarily stopped. No, I never went in for football. It is probably just as well as the best I could have done was to make the all-American.

"My father wanted me to become a professional man and he used to go into a quarry and pound his head against the granite slabs whenever he heard reports that I considered there was a great future for me in the world of jazz music. The news that I had spent several hundred years at Yale and then had been turned out as a first-class orchestra musician nearly killed him.

"It has been a hard struggle and my advice to young men is to hue to the line, let the checks fall where they may. At first it was a bitter struggle and I found it hard to make more than $200 or $300 a week singing over the radio. I remember one cold wintry night, after a hard season's work, I found myself with only $20,000 in my pockets.

"I kept plugging away dauntlessly and managed to draw down $1,000 a week. Then $2,000 and then $3,000. But was I discouraged? No! Did I give up like a weakling? No! Did I say, 'There is no use trying to succeed. Luck is against me?' No!

"Night after night I climbed to the radio studio and sang to my unseen audience. Often it meant a half-hour's work, but I didn't mind it. I was determined to succeed.

"Well, then came phonograph records and talking pictures just when it seemed I would never really be a success. My weekly income soon went into enormous figures. I am a rich man. But it was a close call. There were dark hours when I feared I might grow up to become president or something.

"Yes," said Mr. Vallee in conclusion. "It is determination that counts, determination and hard work."

Go Slow

Housewives in Kingston, New York, have discovered it is a convenience to boil eggs by the traffic lights. It is possible to fry them, too, but one must first note whether the lights bear the warning, "No Turns On Red."

Over the wastes ever hostile to man—
Byrd, June, McKinley and "Balch";
First from the skies such a vista to scan—

On to the pole through the uncharted blue,
Meeting each crisis and seeing it through,
Doing the thing that they set out to do—

How do you suppose "Red" Cagle, Army football star, is going to feel when he quits football and has to go an entire week-end without anybody kicking him in the head, jumping on his ribs, twisting an ankle or poking a thumb in his eye?

GOLDEN SANDIES EMBARK FOR BRECK WITH TITLE HOPES

25 TEAM MATES MAKE THE TRIP

Special Train Will Bear Fans

Special to The Record News

AMARILLO, Texas, Dec. 5.—Coaches Smith and May left here tonight with 25 members of the Golden Sandstorm with their immediate destination indicated as Breckenridge. Friday the local football squad will practice on the Buckaroos' gridiron for their last get-together before the bi-district game Saturday in Breckenridge.

Physically the Sandies are in top-top condition, not a man being on the sick list. And the morale of the team is thought to be better than at any time since the close of last season. Last year, as in all previous falls, the Sandstorm entered the bi-district game with a decided inferiority complex, but this year's harbors no sort of fear for the Bucks. There are 19 last year men in the group and all have the experience of two important clashes behind them.

Sandies are looking forward and pointing for this game, a thing they have not done all season.

Nine-Year Tradition

The nine-year-old tradition that has spelled defeat for district 1 teams each year has been put up as a bugaboo by down-staters to frighten the Sandies, but the entire gang feel that this is the year and are determined to wipe out the inglorious past in this one game.

A special train of over 1,000 fans will leave Amarillo Saturday morning at 4 o'clock carrying the pep squad, high school band and practically all the high school students.

Tickets Sell Out

The fact that over 1,000 tickets alloted Amarillo for the game was sold out in less than a half day indicates that Sandie followers are staunch in their belief that the club is destined to break the jinx and overpower the flashy Bucks.

The Sandies' offense will center around power plays and line drive of the same sort used to plow through district 1 to their third straight title. The Buck offense will be centered around the tricky running of Boyce Magness and Graham. The coaches have spent the past few days drilling on a defense calculated to stop Magness and his long running habits. If this is accomplished, local fans believe the game is in the sack.

LIGHT WORKOUT SLATED FOR FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Special to The Record News

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Dec. 5.—Twenty-five Amarillo Sandies and their two coaches, Dutch Smith and May, are due to arrive in Breckenridge Friday morning and will continue their practice on the local field, in preparation for the outstanding high school game of the state this year.

The Sandies are getting on the ground floor in time to become somewhat acquainted with any difference in atmospheric conditions which they might encounter here. On the eve of the greatest battle that they ever participated in, the Oil Belt champion Buckaroos were in high spirits and good physical condition. Coach P. E. Shotwell, after drilling his charges on Amarillo plays and ways and means of stopping the hefty Amarillo line, will taper off his practice Friday afternoon with a light workout, followed by last minute suggestions in a night session.

Although many good seats remain yet to be sold, it is assured that a good day will see 10,000 fans from over the entire state here for the game. More than 5,000 reserved seats have already been sold. Betting on the game appears to be even with many students of the game giving the smooth working, fast stepping Oil Belt champs the edge over the strong Panhandle opponents. Fans are due to see plenty of foot work Saturday when the touted ball lubbers of these two powerful elevens start their fireworks. Everything has been done here that is possible to make the visit of the 1,200 or more Amarillo fans expected Saturday about 1 o'clock on a special train pleasant. The Amarillo special of 12 coaches leaves Amarillo early Saturday morning. Many more fans from that section are expected to drive through in their cars. As far as is known now, coaches of both elevens will start their strongest elevens intact.

AUTO "SOAKED"

Youth Held for Alleged Theft of $25 Car Pending Loan

A venerable Ford coupe, put "in soak" to a local pawn broker for $14 two days ago, Thursday occupied the attention of the county attorney's office and led to the arrest of a young Wichitan on charges of theft.

It isn't often that automobile theft complaints fall within the jurisdiction of the county attorney, and pawn brokers rarely handle used cars, but the owner valued his hoary vehicle at $25 and the broker admitted that he risked $14 on the loan because all four wheels still turn. Meanwhile a local youth is under arrest on charges of theft under $50 for the alleged theft of the aged car.

Officers Deny Torture Victim Still Lives

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 5. (UP)—Stories that Connie Franklin, reformer who allegedly was beaten and burned to death by mountain clans near here, still lives were branded by officers today as a move to exonerate five men charged with his death.

Franklin's disappearance was unexplained until recently when illiterate cabin folk told Sheriff Sam Johnson here that he had been murdered and that they concealed the crime under threats of death. The incident led to charges that landowner clans were holding the Ozark mountaineers in virtual bondage.

Santa to Visit Wichita Today

and will ride at the head of a parade through the downtown business district. Of course he will be very tired, but not too tired to wave and call "Hello!" to boys and girls who remember him from last year's visit, and who will be up town to greet him.

After the parade, Santa may take a little rest, for he is to be downtown again at 6 o'clock Saturday evening to see all the Christmas lights turned on. It may not look just like the northern lights that he's used to, with all their brilliant rainbow colors and dancing floods of light, but he will know that Wichita Falls is really dressed up for his party. The sidewalks all will be lined with small Christmas trees, and along both sides of the main streets up town, four strings of many colored lights will be flashed on all at once when the store windows are lighted.

It will be remembered that Santa Claus came to Wichita Falls last year only a few days before Christmas day, and asked boys and girls of the city to meet him out at the airport. There were so many thousands of automobiles and many more thousands of people crowded on the road out there that Santa Claus almost never got to the city at all. He isn't going to do that again. He will be right down town, where everyone can see him, and he can see in just a short time what preparations are being made here for the biggest Christmas Wichita Falls has ever had.

There's another reason for his coming early. Santa Claus has heard that there were quite a lot of children here who were almost completely overlooked last year. Well, that made everybody unhappy, said old Santa, and to make sure that it won't happen again, he is coming early, and has arranged for a large group of men and women here to help him provide gifts for everybody.

Members of the Advertising club and radio station KGKO have been very active during the past few days making plans for assisting Santa Claus, according to information which they gave Thursday. A radio program put on Wednesday night, with R. E. Shepherd in charge, resulted in $172 coming in, along with 50 pounds of candy, to help out Santa in his big task. Twenty-eight dollars more came in from the Lions club, making the total $200. Members of the Ad club, and the radio station, are going to keep on this job from now until Christmas Eve, they said, and invited everyone who can to help build up a large candy-and-nut fund.

Boy Scouts are also taking a part. They are repairing and painting any old toys which they can secure so that such playthings, made new again, may be given to other children of the city. They ask that any one having such toys call Frank B. Creighton, scout executive at 2-2183, so that the toys may be called for.

The Christmas eve party will be held in the Memorial auditorium, and tickets will be distributed to local children by various welfare organizations of the city.

More than 80,000 short tons of lime, valued at more than $750,000, were produced in Texas last year.

Why not bring your family into a beautiful garden home where the table could be furnished direct from the garden? Then by putting in a few hundred choice high-record hens the little farm should become self-supporting, furnishing employment for the entire family while the head of the household still continued his job in the city by commuting to his farm.

Old Bill Nash

In the daily yield by the press revealed
In prose, in verse and in skit,
We read how such an old-timer could field
And how someone else could hit.
So we'll not dispute what we can't refute,
For some of it's true, past a doubt,
But a great third baseman passed from sight
When old Bill Nash went out.

Of the long gone years some loom through tears
And some laugh back through joys
But the thought of Nash and his trusty ash,
Makes us old 'uns barelegged boys.
We can still see Bill as he socks the pill.
He could field, too, but how he could clout!
Yes, a great third baseman passed from sight
When old Bill Nash went out.

Now the boys say, "Stop" or "Horsefeathers, pop";
You're peddling the same old junk.
The trouble with you is you take the view
That all players today are the bunk.
That's how modern lads sass back to their dads,
But I'm right, I don't have to shout
For a great third baseman passed from sight,
When old Bill Nash went out.
—Matthew S. Kelley.

The Winter League

Another old-timer wants to know whether an all-star team made up of those who starred before 1910 would have a chance against a ball club made up of those who broke into the game later on.

Being neither an old-timer nor yet a freshman, as one might say, it all gets down to a matter of poking into the dope. Here would be a pretty fair team of those who starred before 1910:

Catcher—Johnny Kling, Chicago Cubs.

Pitchers—Mathewson, New York; Johnson, Washington; Walsh, Chicago; Waddell, Philadelphia.

First base—Chase, New York.

Second base—Lajoie, Cleveland.

Shortstop—Wagner, Pittsburgh.

Third base—Jimmy Collins, Boston.

Outfield—Cobb, Detroit; Speaker, Boston; Sheckard, Chicago.

There is no team that has come along since that could beat this outfit. There are no pitchers who could even come close to the general and continued effectiveness of the four named.

No first baseman has come along to equal Hal Chase. No shortstop has come along to even approach Hans Wagner, a ball player still rated by John McGraw and many others as the best all around ball player that ever lived, or at least the most valuable.

Lajoie will do well enough at second and no third baseman has stepped in to take the crown away from Jimmy Collins. Cobb, Speaker and Sheckard speak for themselves.

The best ball player since 1910 is Babe Ruth—and there is none better. Alexander, Vance, Pennock and Grove would probably be the best four pitchers. Eddie Collins arrived around 1908 but he wasn't a star until 1910. The bunch who came along before 1910 had the call. Most of them were still starring 10 years later—some of them as late as 1925.

Concerning Schedules

Schedules arranged last winter failed to work out as predicted. Some were tougher than they looked—others much softer.

Notre Dame looked to have the toughest schedule of the lot but several teams on the list that were strong last season happened to be weak last fall—notably Georgia Tech, Indiana and Wisconsin who lost most of their games—12 or 13 all told.

Carnegie Tech was also far below last season's form. The Navy, in its first four big games, failed to win a start. The same was true of the Army against Harvard, Yale and Illinois.

Iowa came close to having the toughest schedule in the country.

This team had to meet in succession Ohio State, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Purdue and Michigan.

No one team had to meet two teams as hard to beat as Illinois and Purdue, who on average form rank with the best in the game.

When you consider the ranking of any team you must give the schedule major consideration. I know of more than one unbeaten team that almost surely would have taken a good trimming if it had added one of two hard games, coming after other hard games. No team that did not play from four to six hard or battering games with opponents of standing can be given equal consideration with others that did. In the South, Georgia and Georgia Tech played the hardest schedules.

Consider Yale's hard march: Georgia, Brown, Army, Dartmouth, Maryland, Princeton, Harvard.

Or Harvard's, with Army, Dartmouth, Florida, Michigan, Holy Cross and Yale.

There were other schedules as hard—or harder. Michigan had a holy terror. Michigan had to meet Purdue, Ohio State, Illinois, Harvard, Minnesota and Iowa in a row. This was an even tougher march than Iowa faced. The schedule tells the bigger part of the story. Those that faced the tough ones usually dropped at least one game, often two or more. The big explosion usually comes after two hard games. But only three or four hard games a season is now only a picnic, so far as nerve strain and stamina are concerned.

PLAYER CAUSE OF DISPUTE

Executive Committee in Statement

By W. G. CHAMBLESS
Record News Sports Editor

The triumphant march of the 1929 Olney high school football team to the championship of district 3, class B football, has brought forth a protest from the Seymour high school officials as to the eligibility of a member of the Olney team. At a meeting in Dallas several days ago of the executive committee on rules for district 3, class B Texas interscholastic football, a formal protest was entered by Supt. J. F. Kemp of the Seymour schools as to the eligibility of one Gus Kuehn, Olney high, for participation in the conference football competition.

The executive committee on rules heard the case of the Seymour school superintendent and ruled in favor of the Olney high school player, declaring him as not having violated the conference prescriptions.

Open Challenge

In an open letter Superintendent Kemp has challenged the Olney school heads to play Kuehn in the coming bi-district game with Jacksboro on Friday and thereby render the question of Kuehn's eligibility liable to inspection by the state executive committee.

It is the contention of the Seymour official that the playing of Kuehn against Jacksboro would be tantamount to carrying the case to the state executive committee and a rehearing of the matter.

Superintendent Schulkey of Olney would not say Thursday night whether or not Kuehn would play in the Jacksboro game.

In a playoff for the championship of district 3 on Thanksgiving day the Olney Cubs defeated Seymour by a score of 13 to 0.

Committee Silent

In the telephone conversations with the sports editor of The Record News, Superintendent Schulkey of Olney and members of the executive committee refused to discuss the Kemp letter. Their formal statement follows:

"Mr. Schulkey and the executive committee of the district 3 rules committee refuse to be drawn into a controversy in regard to the proposal by Mr. Kemp. The committee stated that both parties agreed that the matter would not be discussed after the decision of the executive committee which was final according to interscholastic rules. An attempt to discuss this matter would be a breach of the agreement entered into by the committee and the schools concerned."

The letter written by Mr. Kemp follows in full:

Messrs. Westerfield, Childress and Cullar, executive committee in football, district No. 3.

Gentlemen:

The other day at Dallas you sat as the executive committee in football for district No. 3 to decide the protest which I had brought against the eligibility of Gus Kuehn of Olney. I showed most positively that he violated all of section 14, article 5111 of the constitution and rules. To prove that he violated that part of section 14 which stipulated as follows "a contestant in football who has changed school systems during the past year is not eligible if he was ineligible when he withdrew from the former school." I introduced in evidence signed statements establishing the facts:

1. Gus Kuehn was a student in the Haskell high school from the resumption of school after Christmas until about March 1.

2. He got a report for the first six weeks period of the second semester.

3. This report showed him failing and failing in three of his four subjects. Although section 14, article eight puts the burden of proving that Gus Kuehn was passing at Haskell squarely upon the shoulders of Mr. Schulkey. This he did not and cannot do. He presented a purely negative statement from the present principal of the Haskell high school (a man who was not connected with the school at the time to which his statement referred) to the effect that there was nothing upon the record to prove that Kuehn was failing in his work. Quite true, since his name is not on the record. It is equally true that there is nothing on the record to prove that he was passing in his work. By failing to prove that he was passing, the logic of the situation forces him to admit that he was failing.

To prove that he was ineligible under that part of section 14, article 8 which requires a transfer certificate, I introduced in evidence the telegram from Mr. Roy Henderson, athletic director of the university interscholastic league, which stated that no transfer certificate had been filed, and that the contestant had taken part in four conference games, the games with Archer City, Chillicothe, Iowa Park and Burkburnett.

Section 16 of the football plan stipulates, as follows: "In addition, the contestant does not become eligible in the new school until he files in duplicate, in the state office, a transfer certificate from the superintendent or principal of his former school, containing the following information: date of birth, date of withdrawal, courses past, the last semester, etc."

Section 16 of the football plan stipulates as follows: "Each team shall observe faithfully all rules contained in article eight of the constitution and rules. In case an ineligible man is used in any league game knowingly or unknowingly, the minimum penalty shall be forfeiture of the game." Confronted as you were by Mr. Henderson's telegram you had to admit that Mr. Schulkey had offended at this point but instead of imposing the minimum penalty of the constitution which required forfeiture of each of four games you were arbitrary enough to impose a substitute to the effect that Mr. Schulkey was deserving of mild censure for carelessness in the matter. You would not have dared to thus treat with such contempt a plain mandate of the constitution, if you had not felt fortified by the despotic power of article eight which authorizes you to settle without the right of appeal all eligibility contests within the district. As a result of you, action football in the third district has been reduced to a state of anarchy. No longer can we say that the requirements for eligibility and penalty for their violation are prescribed by the constitution. Henceforth we are at the mercy of the favoritism, the whims and caprice of whoever happens to compose the executive committee.

In conclusion, if you men really think Gus Kuehn of Olney eligible to the extent that you are willing for your decision to come before the state executive committee, I am asking you to meet the test. You know that if he plays in the Jacksboro game the question of his eligibility will be decided by the state executive committee. Knowing your influence with Mr. Schulkey I will give you $50, this $50 to be given by you to any individual, institution or cause you may elect if you can and will persuade Mr. Schulkey to play Gus Kuehn in the first kickoff of the Jacksboro game. He to be free to send in a substitute immediately thereafter. This money I will put up for you on acceptance of my proposition at any bank in Wichita Falls to be paid you when you satisfy the conditions.

Awaiting your acceptance of this challenge, I am, Yours very truly,
J. F. KEMP,
Supt. Seymour schools.

Waggoner's $1,000,000 Offer For Reigh Count Refused By Hertz

By ALBON HOLDEN

CHICAGO, Dec. 5. (US)—One million dollars in cash for a race horse that will never race again.

That was the offer that John D. Hertz, Chicago taxicab magnate, refused today for the pride of the Hertz stables, Reigh Count, winner of the Kentucky derby of 1928.

The offer was made by W. T. Waggoner, Texas oil multimillionaire, through his former trainer and racing stable business manager, Charles E. Durnell.

The only comment that Mr. Hertz made on his refusal to sell Reigh Count at the biggest price ever offered for a thoroughbred horse was brief.

"Such an offer," said Mr. Hertz, "could come only from the biggest fool in the world. I never go half way. I will be a bigger fool. Reigh Count belongs to Mrs. Hertz and myself and he always will. No money can buy him. That is final."

Waggoner, who with his two sons, operates the Three D's stable, have made millions. Originally Texas cattle men, they owned lands under which uncounted fortunes in oil were discovered and for the last three seasons they have been the biggest investors in thoroughbred horseflesh in the nation.

A year ago they bid and won a yearling colt at the Saratoga sales, a son of Man O' War which they named Broadway Limited, after paying $65,000 for the baby horse, which failed to win a race in 1929, his two-year-old year.

The offer of $1,000,000 for Reigh Count surpasses by more than a hundred per cent, any previous offer for a thoroughbred race horse. The top price in previous sales was $260,000, which an Argentine syndicate paid for Tracery 15 years ago. Tracery was an American bred horse from English blood lines and was wanted by the South Americans purely for breeding purposes.

Two offers of $400,000 have been refused, one for Man O' War, considered the greatest horse of all times on the American turf, and a similar figure for Bayardo, winner of the Epsom downs derby in England a decade back.

It was the intention of the Waggoners to install Reigh Count as the head of their stud farm in Texas, had the sale been consummated.

The history of the turf is filled with many instances of champion race horses that proved failures for breeding purposes, just as it is filled with cases of unfashionably bred horses that accomplished little in racing, which later proved to be great animals in the stud.

This was the chance that the Waggoners were to take, the chance that Reigh Count would reproduce himself and sire other derby winners and stake champions. It was this that prompted Mr. Hertz to refuse the offer, to which is added the affection of Mr. and Mrs. Hertz for their turf champion.

The Hertz colors have been seen on the turf for only a short period, but during that time have been worn by two of the greatest horses of the present generation, Reigh Count and the filly Anita Peabody. Both will remain on the Hertz farm near Gary, where it is hoped that they will reproduce their kind.

Waggoner astounded the turf world this fall when he built a race track on one of his own ranches midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, ran a private meeting with $1,000 purses and assumed the entire expense of operating the meeting without any revenue from either mutuel or oral wagering. The meeting was a big expense and many of the leading stables of the country shipped their best horses to the private track on the Plains of Texas.

The Ferguson Ice Cream company bowlers took two out of three games from the Cinderella Boot shop Thursday night at the Spudder alleys and by virtue of the triumph went into a tie with Ludlam & Riggs for second place in the City league standing. Oriental cafe took two out of three from Ludlam & Riggs. Laughlin of Ludlam had high three games with a total of 571 points and Turgeon of the same team had high single game with a 222-point score.

Two other teams have been added to the B. & A. league and they rolled their first games Thursday night. Groves Shoe Repair bowlers took two out of three games from Conoco. Poll of Conoco had high three games with 440 points and also had high single game with a 181-point score. Plans are now being made to make the B. & A. league an eight-team affair, bowling on Thursday and Friday nights.

Tunney-Muldoon Trophy Awarded Foreign Boxers Scrap for U. S. Honors

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyr't, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW York, Dec. 5.—In his role as one of the donors of the Muldoon-Tunney trophy, Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, just back from abroad, has been invited to view a brace of the contestants for the honor of having his name emblazoned on that trophy. He has been invited to see Otto von Porat, of Norway, and Phil Scott of England at Madison Square garden Monday night, and may accept.

I believe if he attends Tunney will see the man most likely to succeed to his vacated title, and to win place on the trophy, in Otto von Porat. After viewing Otto work out at Stillman's gymnasium Tuesday, I am more than ever convinced that his fight with Scott will be of short duration.

Von Porat Is Puncher

This is the mightiest puncher developed among the giants of fistiana in many a year, my friends. Moreover, he is 50 per cent improved over his last appearance in New York. From a long string bean of a fellow he has grown to over 200 pounds of brawn and sinew. From a hesitant, at times reluctant type of gladiator, he has become aggressive, and "ornery." He walks into his sparring partners without mercy, and strikes them down with powerful smashes.

The sharpshooters who packed Stillman's Tuesday watching him work were pop-eyed with amazement over his improvement, and several very astute gents were muttering:

"Don't be surprised if he finishes the Englishman in the first round."

Von Porat's right hand drive has always been regarded as his chief asset. I expect to see him crumple the champion of old Albion with left-hand body punches. He has developed a corking hook to the body.

Outweighs Phil Scott

He is a tremendous big fellow now—bigger than Scott. He has strength proportionately to his size. He delivers his smashes with all his heft behind them, and I do not see how Scott can possibly stand up under them for more than a few rounds.

I confess I always like the puncher in a fight. He can lose nine consecutive rounds by a wide margin to a boxer, and then win the fight with a single punch. Compared to the Von Porat of today, Sharkey, Schmelling, Paolino, Christner, Risko, and all the other heavyweights are mere feather dusters in the matter of punching.

"You think I am better?" Von Porat asked. "Ah, well, but this is only the gymnasium. I will show you how much better I am Monday night. I will knock out Scott very promptly. Then I will knock out Schmelling. Then I will knock out Sharkey, and after that I am champion, yes?"

"Yes," I said. "If you do all that, double-yes, in fact."

Britisher Looks Good

Over at the Pioneer, the British champion also looks very good in training, but he doesn't impress me as having anything like the punch possessed by Von Porat. He is big, and shifty, and hard to hit, and knows plenty about boxing. His left hand may bother Von Porat at first. But in the end I expect to see Von Porat smashing through the Scott defense to a knockout.

Training in the same gymnasium with Scott is Yale Okun, who will fight Smacksie Maxie Rosenbloom in the companion piece to the Von Porat-Scott battle, a bout that is generally accepted as being for the light heavyweight title, or at least for the position of leading contender, which amounts to about the same thing just now.

Okun is boxing superbly, and I decline to alter my prediction that he will chop Rosenbloom to pieces. Okun seems to be fired by the importance of the occasion, especially as he knows he is out of the light heavyweight tournament if he loses. It is really Okun's first big opportunity, and he swears he will take advantage of it.

Though he has retired from the boxing game, the return of Gene Tunney has added sudden new interest to the heavyweight division, especially as Tunney's old sparring partner, William Harrison Dempsey is in town.

The striking bronze trophy that Tunney and William Muldoon presented to fistiana as emblematic of the world's title, has been standing in the lobby of Madison Square garden for some time now, yet the battle Monday night will be the first occasion apt to be productive of a new name for the trophy. Herr Max Schmelling, the black Uhlan of the Rhine, might possibly have had the moulders making ready the bronze letters of his name had he remained in this country and taken advantage of his opportunity.

But Schmelling ran away from a meeting with Phil Scott, and in the meantime Otto von Porat has come along with a punch far more devastating than Schmelling's best, and a new German sensation has sprung up in Chicago in Heinie Mueller, who was Schmelling's rival at home, and the black Uhlan is out of the limelight.

Boxer vs. Slugger

The fight between Scott and Von Porat brings together men of the same general type of Tunney and Dempsey—a boxer and a slugger. There is no doubt that Von Porat is a more deadly one-puncher than Dempsey, and Scott isn't far behind Tunney in the matter of boxing skill.

When I say that Von Porat is a more deadly one-puncher than Dempsey, I mean that the Norwegian can bring 'em down with a single smack, whereas Dempsey mauled 'em down. Dempsey hit the boys a lot of times. He would throw 10 punches to Otto's one, though the general result would be about the same.

SPUDDERS BUY TULSA'S STARS

Flashy Infield Quartet Is Purchased

.337 in 161 games. His 36 home runs in small Tulsa park led the league. He gathered 251 hits that included 31 doubles and 10 triples, besides the hefty crop of homers. He is expected to give the Spudders their first hard hitting initial sacker since the days of the Fred Beck and Hook Cotter. His fielding average was .988, placing him high among the first basemen.

The third baseman, Euller, finished up the campaign with a batting average of .314 in 126 games. He scored 79 runs and his collection of 143 hits included 35 doubles, five triples and 24 home runs. His fielding average was .927, being outranked by three others in the league who played more than 100 games.

Former Marine

Levey joined the Oilers in the middle of the season, stepping directly from the United States marine corps into the regular shortstop's position. Though not as lusty a walloper as the other members of the infield he finished 85 games with an average of .287, a highly acceptable figure for a capable defensive shortstop. He hit 119 doubles, three triples and seven home runs. He is particularly speedy and rangy in the field, according to Huff, and off-sets his inexperience and unsteadiness with his great ground covering ability.

Wichita Falls infield problems are solved with the coming of this quartet. Huff believes, and with Larry Bettencourt still to be reckoned with, he gives assurance that the Spudders will have one of their greatest infields of all time.

The Dallas club again stepped into the limelight today when Prexy Fred McJunkin sold a ball player for two barrels of oysters. The player is Joe Martina and, as well, he is the purchaser. Martina was offered his release for the oysters and he wired back his acceptance, thus completing one of the strangest bona fide deals ever made in baseball.

J. Alvin Gardner, Texas league president and former Spudder owner, was elected a member of the national board of arbitration today to take the place of the late J. Doak Roberts. The national board consists of representatives of each class of the minor association, along with the president and secretary, and acts in disputes involving the minor league members.

SPORT Loose Ends

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

Nearly all the fans and scribes over the state reckon as how Breckenridge is going to win that game Saturday but we like the Amarillo Sandies to win. They're not so hot down there in the Oil Belt. Pretty good football was played up here in District One this year. One of the biggest arguments or points that some of the prognosticators can think up in favor of the Buckaroos is that the Oil Belt champions always have won over the District One champions. Horse collar. T. C. U. always had not won a Southwest title until this year; Tulane always had been an "also ran" in the Southern conference until this year, but see what they did.

Our evening co-columnist of Thursday has a level head on his shoulders. From his serene post at the "Lookout", he says that the game is a toss up and goes on to cite whereof he speaks. Now that's more like it.

Both Amarillo and Breckenridge have their impressive season records to back up their pretige. And from a glance it can be seen that the weight of the impressiveness favors the Sandstorm. The figures—whatever they mean—on both teams follow:

Amarillo—
Amarillo 13, Norman, Okla., 0.
Amarillo 34, Central high, Oklahoma City 7.
Amarillo 28; Liberal, Kan., 0.
Amarillo 19, North Fort Worth 2.
Amarillo 46, Plainview 0.
Amarillo 85, Quanah 0.
Amarillo 13, Lubbock 7.
Amarillo 26, Electra 0.
Amarillo 27, Wichita Falls 0.
Total points for Amarillo—311; for opponents 16.

Breckenridge—
Breckenridge 58, Big Spring 0.
Breckenridge 25, Mineral Wells 0.
Breckenridge 12, Eastland 0.
Breckenridge 59, Brownwood 6.
Breckenridge 21, Cisco 0.
Breckenridge 32, Sweetwater 6.
Breckenridge 26, Abilene 0.
Breckenridge 15, San Angelo 6.
Breckenridge 40, Ranger 7.
Total for Breckenridge, 288; total for opponents 25.

RAY MORRISON TALKS ON GAME

Green Was the Jinx to Mustangs

DALLAS, Dec. 5. (AP)—So far as Coach Ray Morrison is concerned, it was Harlos Green, T. C. U. sophomore, who knocked his Southern Methodist eleven out of the Southwest conference football title.

Speaking at a high school football banquet here, the Mustang coach heaped praise upon Green for his feat in kicking the extra point that gave the Frogs a 7 to 7 tie in the championship fray.

"With all those people watching him and the title at stake on that one kick, it took nerve," Morrison said. "We knew when he got back to kick, though, that we had lost. We knew he had spent hours every day perfecting himself in that one thing and that he was letter perfect."

Morrison also paid tribute to Jerry Mann, star quarterback of his 1926 and 1927 teams. Mann, like Green, he said, worked long and tirelessly to improve his play. Each summer Mann spent a month with Morrison, and every afternoon went over to Ownby stadium to practice by himself.

He would collect a dozen footballs and spend an hour pegging them at a goal post. When he got to where he could hit his target almost every time, he started passing with his left hand, and soon was equally profficient from that side, Morrison said. Tiring of that he would place hurdles at various intervals around the cinder track and zig-zag through them until he was exhausted. He got results.

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright 1929, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, Dec. 8th:

Sunday

Dinner—Roast mutton, baked minced beets, salad of tomatoes, celery and lettuce, jell-o or jellwell.

Wednesday

Breakfast—Oatmeal with butter or cream (no sugar), Melba toast.

Lunch—Cooked turnips, string beans, salad of chopped raw cabbage.

Dinner—Vegetable soup, boiled fresh beef tongue, cooked celery, spinach, salad of sliced tomatoes, prune whip.

Thursday

Breakfast—Coddled eggs, retoasted shredded wheat biscuit, stewed raisins.

Lunch—Potato soup, cooked beets, raw celery.

Dinner—Roast pork, steamed carrots with peas, salad of raw spinach leaves, baked apple.

Friday

Breakfast—Re-toasted breakfast food with milk or cream, stewed apricots.

Lunch—Baked squash, cooked lettuce, asparagus.

Dinner—Tomato bouillon, baked sea bass, cooked spinach, egg plant, salad of tomatoes and cucumbers, no dessert.

Saturday

Breakfast—Baked eggs, crisp bacon, Melba toast, stewed prunes.

Lunch—*Creamed sweet potatoes, string beans, lettuce.

Dinner—Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, cooked okra, combination salad of tomatoes, celery and cold cooked string beans, pineapple whip.

*Creamed sweet potatoes: Peel and grate the desired number of sweet potatoes. Add fresh cream, or canned cream thinned with a little water, to bring potatoes to the consistency of a thin custard. Place over slow fire tightly covered for about three minutes, then remove cover and scramble the potatoes like eggs until the desired amount of moisture is cooked away, the whole procedure requiring about five or 10 minutes. The result is a thick, creamy mixture resembling a pudding. Serve with a generous amount of butter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Strengthening Ankles

Question—Mrs. L. W. asks: "How may I strengthen weak ankles in a little girl of 8 years? She has always worn low shoes, gone barefoot in summer, lives outdoors a great deal and is an active child."

Answer—There are many different exercises which can be taken to strengthen the ankles and also certain exercises for strengthening the arches of the feet which is equally important. I will be glad to send you some of these exercises if you will write again, sending your full name and address.

Butter on Vegetables

Question—G. H. writes: "I am on your diet for constipation, and would like to know whether butter should be used on Melba toast, and whether butter and salt is correct for the vegetables. If salad dressing is used on the salads, what kind?"

Answer—It is all right to use butter on Melba toast, also on vegetables, and it is all right to use salt on the vegetables if they have not been cooked properly. With proper cooking very little salt is needed. I have a special article on salad dressing for free distribution.

Rattlesnake Oil

Question—L. A. writes: "I have deafness with occasional pain in ears, drums slightly affected. Have been advised to use a combination of warm bear, skunk and rattlesnake oil in ears each night, syringing in the morning with castile soap added to water. Would you advise this?"

Answer—A warm oil treatment is often helpful in making the eardrums more flexible, but I cannot believe that the combination of oils you write about would be any more effective than warm olive oil.

Methodists Ask Probe Of All Dry Law Lobbyists

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—Investigation of all associations or societies which appear before congressional committees either for or opposed to prohibition is suggested by the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church if that organization is to be investigated.

This attitude was expressed in a resolution adopted at the annual meeting of the board of managers and made public today. It suggested to Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, chairman of the senate lobby investigating committee, that this be done "in order that the United States congress may not seem to give currency or sympathy to any unworthy motive."

OUTPUT IN O. C. FIELD GAINING

Production Reaches 100,000 Barrels Daily

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 5.—Just one year ago Wednesday, the Oklahoma City field had its first producer and during the year has reached an output of over 100,000 barrels of oil. The field due to proration has been held back to 40,000 to 55,000 barrels of oil daily. Sixteen wells in the "A" group produced 53,640 barrels.

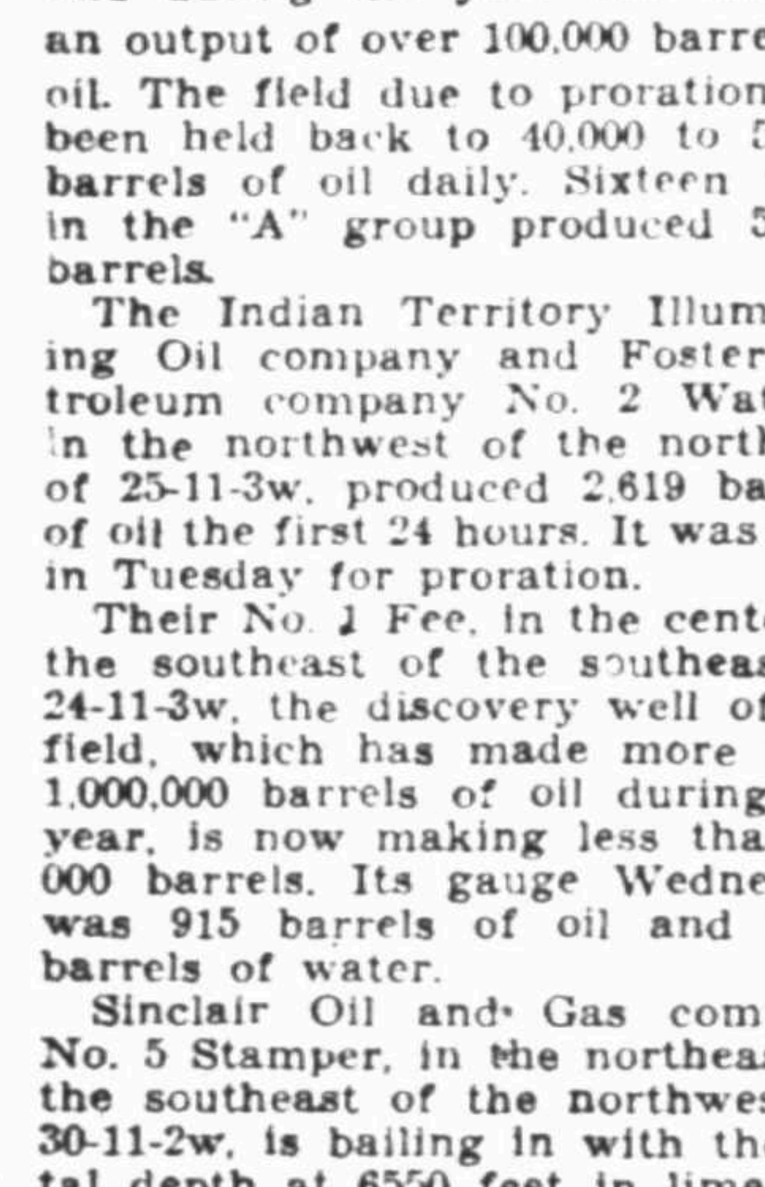

The Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company and Foster Petroleum company No. 2 Watters, in the northwest of the northeast of 25-11-3w, produced 2,619 barrels of oil the first 24 hours. It was shut in Tuesday for proration.

Their No. 1 Fee, in the center of the southeast of the southeast of 24-11-3w, the discovery well of the field, which has made more than 1,000,000 barrels of oil during the year, is now making less than 1,000 barrels. Its gauge Wednesday was 915 barrels of oil and 5,213 barrels of water.

Sinclair Oil and Gas company No. 5 Stamper, in the northeast of the southeast of the northwest of 30-11-2w, is bailing in with the total depth at 6550 feet in lime.

Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company made a location for No. 1 A. D. B. Trosper, in the center of the southeast of the southeast of the southeast of 24-12n-2w, northeast of Oklahoma City, in the Nicoma Park area.

Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company and Foster Petroleum company made locations for No. 1 Mae Knox, in the northeast of the southeast of 14-11-3w, and for No. 2 Knox, in the southeast of the northeast of the southwest of 14-11-3w.

GRAY COUNTY PRODUCER

Texas company No. 3 Coombs-Worley in the Lefors district of Gray county is flowing between 50 to 60 barrels per hour. The well which is located in the southeast corner of section 36, block 3, I. & G. N. R. R. survey, drilled four feet into the granite wash topped at 2766 feet.

NORTH WICHITA COUNTY

Bateman & Dingee No. 1 E. J. Taylor located in the center of the north 100 acres of the E. J. Taylor land west of the Hirschi pool, in James Cole survey, abstract 37, Wichita county, is rigging up and ready to spud. The test is a 2100 foot rotary test.

ELECTRA UPS PRICE OF SEED

$33 Posted by Buyers; Gins Continue Busy

Cotton ginnings which have been described weekly during the past month as nearing the end of the 1929 crop continued at a healthy rate throughout the county on Thursday, with a total of 246 bales reported. The county's total for the season now is 20,452 bales, an excess of more than 5,000 bales over the 1928 record and about 8,000 more bales than was predicted by leaders in the industry here in August.

Electra continued to set the pace, ginning 103 bales Thursday, with the Red river gin leading with 41 bales. Following the decline of $1 in the price of cottonseed at other points near Wichita Falls, the Electra community posted a price of $33 Wednesday, according to information received from that city Thursday evening.

Despite reports of large numbers of 1929 turkeys still present in the rural districts of this section, deliveries to local plants for the Christmas pack continued to be very desultory throughout the day. Farmers and turkey raisers in the South Plains are were reported much more active in marketing their birds. Two carloads of turkeys from Memphis arrived at the Armour creameries plant Thursday night.

Milk deliveries are holding up better than is expected at this season, according to statements made by local dealers Thursday. Deliveries to the Ferguson Ice Cream company, Lehrack Ice Cream company, Producers Creamery, Chapman Creamery and Dairyland total almost 60,000 pounds daily, reports indicated. Cream production is off, largely due to the number of cows now waiting to fresh in the early part of 1930, it was said.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (AP)—Cotton was comparatively quiet today with prices lower under further realizing or liquidation by recent buyers who appeared to be disappointed over the failure of private crop estimates to show a greater falling off and who may also be influenced by reports of freer offerings from the South. January sold off to 17.24 and closed at that figure with the market closing barely steady at net declines of 13 to 17 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 to 4 points. Some buying was reported on relatively steady Liverpool cables. A private report placed the crop at 14,951,000 bales and the ginnings prior to Dec. 1 at 12,950,000 bales. This crop figure compared with an end-October indication of 15,020,000 bales by the same authority, but the reduction was evidently less than anticipated by people who had bought on the unfavorable weather reports of last month, and no doubt accounted for some of the selling.

Otherwise no particular news factor was mentioned in connection with the decline, but demand was limited and southern selling was a little more in evidence during the late trading.

December sold off to 17.13, March to 17.52 and May to 17.78 with active months generally showing net losses of about 14 to 19 points. Closing prices were the lowest of the day on the active positions.

Up to the close of business today seven of the private crop reports had been published with figures on the indicated yield in bales of 500 pounds gross ranging from 14,635,000 up to 15,035,000 bales and averaging in the neighborhood of 14,872,000 bales.

Private estimates of the ginnings prior to Dec. 1 ranged from 12,887,000 up to 12,989,000 bales and averaged 12,942,000 bales.

Liverpool cable advices said scattering liquidation and hedging had been absorbed by trade calling in that market but added that sales of cotton cloth were running below production and that stocks of goods were accumulating.

Exports today 13,673 bales making 3,442,180 so far this season. Port receipts 31,740. U. S. port stocks 2,594,375.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5. (AP)—Narrow trading again characterized cotton today, about the only incentive to business being the desire to even commitments in advance of the government crop report.

The general trend to prices was downward although around mid-session the market scored a good recovery on covering and buying but values receded again in final trading, January contracts selling off from 17.23 to 17.19 and closing at the latter figure, 12 points net lower. The general market closed steady at net declines of 9 to 15 points.

Although Liverpool cables were favorable the market here opened irregular, first trades showing no change to one point decline compared with yesterday's close. A disappointing private crop estimate of 14,951,000 bales induced some liquidation and selling after the start, which carried January down to 17.17, March 17.43 and May to 17.69, or 14 points on all months below the previous close.

The market steadied around mid-session and during the early afternoon prices advanced 8 to 10 points from the lows covering by shorts in advance of Monday's crop report and on rather liberal buying reported in the New York market. On the bulge March hit 17.55 and May to 17.78.

In final trading, however, the market weakened again under renewed liquidation and prices practically reached the low points. The close was near the lows with March at 17.48 and May 17.71.

Profit-Taking and Short Selling Causes Stock Prices to Decline

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (US)—Stocks sold off at the close of another fairly active session on the stock exchange today. Decline was due to profit-taking and some short selling influenced by the belief that the rally had proceeded too fast and that the market was entitled to settle down momentarily. Steel finished with loss of 2¾, while General Electric dropped 6, Western Electric 4, Can 2¾, and Central lost 2⅜. Columbia Graphaphone held 2 points of its early gain to the close while Brooklyn Union Gas finished 3½ higher. Simmons gained 8½, United Corporation 2¼ and U. S. Freight advanced a similar amount. Oils held to very narrow price range while Coppers dropped about a point on the average. Trading fell a little below the 4,500,000 share level. The call rate again was held at 4½ per cent with some loans on the outside at 4 per cent.

The meeting at the U. S. Chamber of Commerce at Washington resulted in even more bullish influences than was expected. President Hoover's statement to the business leaders was looked upon as the most constructive utterances made thus far. Statement of Utility and Railroad heads as to the billions of dollars to be spent by those industries, together with the forecast of John J. Raskob that automobile output would increase next year, add to the good feeling of the speculative community. Secretary of Commerce Lamont was quoted erroneously by the tickers, early in the day. They reported him as stating: "There should be in hesitation in buying securities now," whereas the belief he expressed was that the improvement in money credit conditions would tend to influence a better bond market.

Operations in the Utilities continued in aggressive manner following announcement that Public Service of New Jersey was permitted to charge a higher fare on busses and trolleys. This was the signal for the Electric Bond interests and other insiders to take more vigorous action against the large short interest that has been outstanding in Foreign Power and other of their pet stocks. Merger rumors which have been revived since active demand for Utilities was resumed last week were added to by report that the United Gas group have plans for consolidating properties in which they are interested.

There was rather concerted drive on Fox early in the session coincident with flotation of several rumors. Dividend question settled when the directors called meeting in the afternoon and declared the regular payment. There was further reports of the increasing income being enjoyed by A. M. Byers by reason of its new process for making wrought iron. Large holders of Simmons expressed belief in larger revenue over the next several months pointing out that the company has built up a world-wide organization in the furniture industry that is second to none. Automobile interests maintain the absorption of Chrysler and Nash recently has been the best in the motor group.

Decline in brokers' loans is just about as expected. Drop of $58,000,000 during the week to $3,392,000,000 just about completes the "correction." At least, the majority of bankers and leaders in the street believe it has been completed. They regard the speculative credit situation in so far as the stock market is concerned as in the soundest condition in the last six years or more. No matter what increase in loans may be experienced over the next few weeks, it is maintained, it should have little influence on price fluctuations. Another factor toward reduction in the loan account is the reduction of capital by recently formed investment trusts. Now that three leading companies has taken such action it is believed that others will follow their example. The drastic correction in loans has caused belief that money will remain exceptionally easy. The full result in the way of low money rates, however, will not be witnessed until after the first of the year.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Dec. 5. (AP)—Swinging downward to nearly 6 cents a bushel below recent top prices, wheat today gave plain evidence of having been over-bought. The upset in values followed assertions by a British authority that the Argentine new crop exportable surplus would be about 50,000,000 bushels in excess of the average of recent unofficial estimates. Besides a leading Chicago house figured North America alone could ship all the wheat needed by importing countries, and still have on July 1 next a carry-over of 200,000,000 bushels regardless of Argentine or other countries.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at almost the bottom level reached 2⅛@2⅜c per bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅜@¾@1⅛c down, oats ⅜@1c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 17 cents.

At times, buying of Chicago wheat future deliveries broadened out today after price downturns but the consequent rallies failed to last.

Word that the French government was rebating import duties under certain circumstances was construed in some quarters as a sign the French wheat crop was of less volume than has been represented.

Corn offerings today from the country increased in the late dealings. This development, together with reports that a somewhat larger movement of the new corn crop appeared probable, had a bearish effect on the corn market. Oats were governed chiefly by the downward course of other cereals.

Provisions took their cue from declines both in hog values and in grain as well.

DAILY TIMES-RECORD NEWS

Condensing of Milk at Wichita Plant to Start About Dec. 15

Offices of the Southwest Dairy Products company from which operation of their three plants in this city will be directed were moved from the Dairyland building on Virginia street to the Producers' Creamery on Wednesday, according to information given Thursday.

The Producers Creamery company is the latest acquisition of the Southwest Dairy Products company in this city, possession having been given about three weeks ago. Prior to that time the purchasing concern had bought the Kraft cheese manufacturing plant and the James Brothers' creamery.

Alterations on the Kraft plant and installation of new equipment will be completed for the beginning of milk condensing operations about Dec. 15, according to P. R. Freeman, local manager. During the past two weeks, milk producers who formerly marketed their whole milk with the cheese manufacturing company have been making deliveries amounting to about 7,000 pounds daily to the Dairyland plant.

Rex Regal, who superintended the setting up of cheese manufacturing machinery here two years ago when the Kraft company began local operations, has arrived in Wichita Falls with his family, and will be superintendent of the new condensing and powdering plant, it was stated. The past two years have been given by Mr. Regal to study of these manufacturing processes in eastern centers, according to Mr. Freeman.

H. G. Pew, productive engineer for the Southwest Dairy Products company, will arrive in this city next Tuesday, and will begin at once a campaign for building up the production of whole milk in Wichita and surrounding counties for the milk condensing plant, it was stated.

With the opening of condensed milk manufacturing at the former Kraft plant, the Dairyland plant on Virginia street will be closed, it was announced, and all grade A milk will be handled at the Producers' Creamery. Extensive alterations are being made in the latter plant, including installation of new holding vats, ripening vats in the butter-making department and new sanitary lines.

Mr. Freeman stated that he is now making plans for bringing to this city the herd of about 20 blue ribbon Jersey milk cows which he has had on display at various fairs throughout the South during the past several months.

REESE TRIAL SET DEC. 16

Olney Man to Face Court In Constable's Death

John Reese, charged with the fatal shooting of Ed Langford, Olney constable, about two weeks ago, Thursday morning entered a plea of not guilty in his formal arraignment before Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court at Graham. Trial of the case was set for the week of Dec. 16 and 48 special veniremen were summoned. Langford died from bullet wounds received through a doorway leading into the office of the Olney justice of the peace. The justice and Langford had been sought by Mrs. Reese in the course of a family dispute, according to information given investigating officers.

The criminal docket for the Young county 30th court will be opened Friday morning when the case of Frank House, charged with automobile theft, is called before Judge Montgomery. The defendants named in 11 indictments returned by the grand jury late Wednesday will probably not be called immediately, the calendar being full for most of the term, according to the estimates of Sam Spence, district attorney, who has been in Graham all week.

Men Face Charge For Giving Girls Liquor

Charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors were filed Thursday afternoon against the two male companions of two young girls, 14 and 16, who were found drunk on the streets late Wednesday night. The complaints were filed by James A. McDonald, county juvenile officer, who is holding the two girls in the juvenile ward at the county courthouse. Action against the youthful delinquents will be deferred until the other charges are disposed of, the officer explained. Neither girl remembers the arrest or the hours of the night spent in jail, they told investigators.

500 Letters Mailed Delinquent Taxpayers

Another batch of 500 letters, urging Wichita county property owners to meet delinquent tax assessments were mailed Thursday afternoon from the office of Wayne Somerville, county attorney. The county attorney's department is concentrating this month on the delinquencies of 1927 and prior years, a total of 1,000 suits for collection having already been filed, Mr. Somerville declared.

Lubbock Housewife Testifies

"I've Suffered 15 Years and Since Taking One Bottle of Orgatone Feel Fine"

"I've had a long, hard struggle with ill health but by the help of Orgatone I have found relief at last," said Mrs. J. C. Harper of 506 Avenue K, Lubbock, Texas, while talking with the Orgatone representative recently.

"I've had stomach trouble so bad for 15 years that my life was miserable," she continued, "but I'm a lot better since I began taking Orgatone. I was in such a run down condition I couldn't eat anything I wanted and was losing in weight and got weaker every day. After eating even the smallest meals I would bloat up and my heart would beat so fast I was afraid something serious would result. I would have a severe headache and was weak and nervous and sometimes thought I would be compelled to stay in bed. I took all kinds of medicine but kept getting worse until I was discouraged and almost lost hope of finding anything that would help me.

I read so much about Orgatone that I decided to try it. It may be hard to believe, but it is the truth I feel better than I have in 15 years, and I've just taken one bottle of Orgatone. I am no longer bothered with my awful headaches, my appetite is splendid and I can eat anything I want without it hurting me in the least. My heart doesn't bother me as it did and I feel better in every way, my nerves are quiet now and I sleep fine every night. I give Orgatone credit for straightening me up and I am glad to give this statement and to recommend it to my friends."

STRAND: Last day, "The Cock Eyed World." Vic McLaglen, Edmund Lowe, Lily Damita. Paramount saund news.

MAJESTIC: "Dynamite," three-ply fairy tale by Cecil B. DeMille, enacted by Charles Bickford, Conrad Nagel, Kay Johnson and Julia Faye. Movietone news.

OLYMPIC: Gypsy Strollers company on stage. Tim McCoy in "Sioux Blood." Comedy. Pathe news.

GEM: Bob Steele in "The Invaders." Chapter 10 of "Queen of the Northwoods." Chapter 1 of "Tarzan the Tiger." Comedy.

Sport writers are prone to give special mention to the pitcher who wins a flock of games in spite of being hitched to an eighth-place club. Moved by the same spirit of justice, we may with propriety recognize the histrionic achievements of Charles Bickford, Julia Faye, Kay Johnson, Conrad Nagel and others who were chosen along with a glass bathtub and aerowheels for Cecil B. DeMille's "Dynamite."

◇ ◇ ◇

Shifting Mr. DeMille's batting order according to demonstrated hitting power, consideration may be given first to Charles Bickford, who seems to be making his debut on the screen by perpetrating a downright theft. Conrad Nagel, suave product of Keokuk, Iowa, was billed as lead-off man. Mr. Bickford puts in his off-seasons running a big hog ranch up in Massachusetts, and has developed in that pursuit a gigantic physique and reverberant voice which "made" the character of "Hagon Derk." Clearly enunciated dramatic brevities, delivered in a deep-chested bass, are strongly suggestive of George Bancroft (of "Thunderbolt"). The role to which he was assigned in "Dynamite" is certainly much more impressive than any other, despite Mr. Nagel's last minute decision to bump himself off for the good of society.

◇ ◇ ◇

Mr. Bickford has behind him a long career with stock company productions, and a successful whirl on Broadway. Likewise, Kay Johnson has turned from the legitimate stage recently to the talking screen, "Dynamite" being her second venture. Called upon to run the entire gamut of situations which promised the element of sensation, she redeemed the role with a voice which excels most of the field as far as it falls short of Ruth Chatterton's inimitable screen speech. Her lines contained most of the humor written into the script of "Dynamite" and her treatment of those passages dispelled momentarily the overhanging clouds of "stark drama"—this is what Mr. DeMille called it in an interview. And how really stark it is!

◇ ◇ ◇

Aside from being the handsome male around whom the bickering of Cynthia and Marcia was cleverly constructed, Conrad Nagel had practically nothing to do with the story, and acted exactly that way. Blotting himself out in the finale was rather a new and unnatural consignment for Mr. Nagel in the way of screen performances, but he should have felt adequately unnatural by that time. Driven to desperation for a motif which would carry Roger and Cynthia into the treacherous lower levels of the mine, Mr. DeMille solved the problem with his usual genius by having Roger introduce a new standard of ethics for wife-stealers. "No fine, handsome fellow like Roger would think of going away with Cynthia without first thanking her husband for the gift, and receiving his good wishes," thought Mr. DeMille. Another coup d'art.

◇ ◇ ◇

DeMille pictures never fail to present some new spectacle. "Dynamite" follows the rule. Forgetting how sequence was put through the most fearful contortions to bring in the underground scene, the pageantry of far-reaching caverns was accomplished with a tremendous degree of realism. Braces and supporting timbers buckle and crash as tons of earth pour into the tunnel with a sickening din. In this, as in other portions, the picture admirably represents the combination of motion picture and sound picture—a medium which close students of cinematic progress predict must be adopted if talking films are to survive. Another striking illustration is the aero-wheel contest, when effete daughters of wealth wheel rapidly down the course as dialog continues.

◇ ◇ ◇

Both the action and photography of "Dynamite" have the faculty of comprising worthwhile entertainment of one can overcome the severe case of intellectual astigmatism which Mr. DeMille's story precipitates.

◇ ◇ ◇

Settings for the "Padlocks of 1929," which shows with 75 persons at the Memorial auditorium on Tuesday, Dec. 10, are attributed by its producers to Texas Guinan's famous New York night club. The atmosphere of that well-known center of gayety has been transferred to the stage for the George Wintz spectacle which comes here next week, it is said.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS ATWELL

Boys Need More Than Annual Dinner, Says Jurist

Four factors in the mainspring of human activity were delineated by Judge William H. Atwell of the federal district court before members of the Rotary club Thursday noon at the Kemp hotel as the "proper avenues of approach to a boy's interest."

Economic independence, attractive personality, social recognition, and domestic happiness were named by the speaker as the principal objectives which arouse individuals to efforts toward self-development.

"A huge holiday dinner once a year never can offset the daily congregating of young children of this city on the front seats of a certain amusement place," the speaker continued.

Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, president, directed the program in the absence of William B. Ward, boys' work committee chairman, who is confined to his home by illness. R. E. Shepherd led a singsong, with Mrs. Shepherd accompanying.
