COVERING FOOTBALL games become pretty much of an art. The stadiums over the country—particularly the colleges—have become a maze of luxury press boxes with all the conveniences of home. They have telephones, telegraph hot lines, cold running water, and sometimes a coffee bar.

SOME OF THE boys were kids yesterday when there was no room in the Cisco stadium for members of the press. Two radio stations took up the room. Each had two announcers—one for the game, one to read commercials—and at times two spotters.

JAY GARRETT, the announcer for the PA system, took a bottle of coffee out to help him keep warm. Somehow, a cigarette was dropped on the floor and started a small fire. And before Jay knew what was happening, somebody grabbed his bottle of coffee and poured it on the fire, putting the blaze.

BACK IN THE old days, covering football was much more interesting. Reporters had clip boards and got out in the middle of the field and followed the players around. Once, we were following the offensive team and there was a fumble. The ball rolled straight at us. And before we knew what was happening, we were on the bottom of the press. The clip board and papers were scattered everywhere.

THE ARMISTICE Day program was very impressive indeed. Post commander E. L. Jackson made a fine talk. The firing squad was led by Gene Dameron. Post captain Stuart Rohrer paid tribute to deceased service men.

AND THE BANDS did a wonderful job. If there's anything we're proud of it's the Cisco High Band. We haven't seen or heard of high school band this year that has been so good. Director Fred Gardner and his band deserve the applause of the entire community.

COMES A LETTER today from a number. That may sound funny, but it was from the editor of The Cisco, newspaper published by inmates of the Texas Prison System. And the editor's name is 10468. From time to time, we get to a weekly radio program broadcast from the Huntsville Prison. Only inmates appear on the program.

DON'T KNOW IF it's a fact, but we've heard of fellows on the program landing grand jobs in the city upon their release. We've heard of one case where an announcer with a mellow voice got a mail from a wealthy lady. When he got out, they were married.

Russell, LaBelle, Fla., and Mrs. W. P. Stevens, Nogales, Ariz. Pallbearers were O. J. Cisco Bowlers Defeat Crack Abilene Team

After defeating the strong Abilene quintet on their own alleys at Abilene, Oct. 31 by a 7-pin margin, the boys from Cisco cut loose with their big guns last Sunday on their home alleys and sent the visitors home in the short end of a score 2798 to 2604.

The local team's line up consisted of Tut Tabor, Dick Bearman, Glen White, Howard Langford and R. E. Kenney.

A second contingent of Abilene bowlers unexpectedly arrived in town at the same time and were matched with five other Cisco bowlers who were hurriedly notified of the last minute arrangements and bowed to Abilene in defeat. The Cisco participants were Harvey Haynie, Van Gardenhire, Roy Fonville, Jack Farleigh, and R. L. Ponsler.

Tentative arrangements have been made for both teams to meet Abilene on their home alleys November 21.

Tribute Is Paid Judge Russell

BAIRD. — A tribute was paid the late Judge B. L. Russell, Sr., long time resident and civic leader in Callahan County, last Monday in a resolution read at the opening of the 42nd Judicial District Court.

The resolution was prepared by a committee composed of L. B. Lewis and Randall Jackson, Baird attorneys, and Edmond C. Yates, Abilene attorney. The resolution described Judge Russell as "an able advocate and a wise counselor and a Christian gentleman, strong in principle and devotion to duty."

Judge Russell was the father of O. J. Russell of Cisco.

Injured Newspaper Carrier Released From Hospital

Johnny McCanlies, 9-year-old newspaper carrier, who was admitted to a Cisco hospital after being struck down by a blinded motorist late Tuesday evening, was dismissed from the hospital Thursday.

The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. McCanlies, suffered only cuts about the face and bruises. His condition is reported as "greatly improved."

Young Johnny will remain at his parents' home, 911 Avenue H, for the remainder of the week before returning to his school studies.

Eastland County Youth Enrolled At Wayland College

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 11 — One student from Eastland county is among the 541 enrolled at Wayland College, President J. W. "Bill" Marshall announced today.

University endowment will be increased by $10,000,000, Dr. Humphrey Lee, president of SMU said to provide funds for scholarships and special professorships.

The other $5,000,000 will go into plant expansion, including the construction of an additional girls' dormitory and a building for the planned Law School quadrangle of SMU.

The $15,000,000 fund drive was proposed by a newly-organized planning and development committee of the board of trustees.

Dr. Lee said the committee's recommendations are the result of a detailed study of the future needs of SMU. No time limit has been set on raising the required funds.

Reporting to the 51 members of the board, Dr. Lee said that SMU's assets have increased 300 per cent, including construction now in progress, over what they were in 1935—from $6,000,000 to $18,000,000.

Since 1940, he added, approximately $1,000,000 a year has been added to the assets of SMU.

Odessa Banker Is New WTCC Leader; Banderet Retained

ABILENE, Nov. 12.—A West Texas banker and a group of well-known business men will direct the activities of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for another year in what has been declared the most outstanding work program in the history of the organization.

John D. Mitchell, president of the First National Bank of Odessa, is the new president of WTCC. He formerly was a Lubbock banker and has been active in West Texas financial affairs for a number of years.

J. M. Willson, Floydada, owner of a dozen lumberyards on the plains, and a trustee of SMU and McMurry College and active in Boy Scout work, is first vice president. B. P. Bludworth, outdoors advertising man of Brownwood is second vice president and Frank Kelley, Colorado City oil land man, is third vice president. Ed S. Stewart, Abilene candy manufacturer was elected treasurer.

D. A. Banderet was reelected to the general managership where he has been for 20 years, with a rising ovation to his long leadership in West Texas activities.

Principal activity of the organization for the ensuing year will be in its fight for protection of domestic water rights and attempt to increase water development in the area, according to the convention program.

At the annual meeting in Abilene Monday, the WTCC directors authorized the creation of two strong groups. One is a Municipal Water Rights Committee, which will be made up of city officials in West Texas towns needing additional domestic water and to work for protection of existing water rights.

The other activity will be the formation of the Soil Conservation Enactment Committee which will be "composed of representative agriculturists, county judges and mayors of West Texas which committee shall be charged with the responsibility of assisting in the passage of the enabling act of the 51st Legislature, and in assisting the respective counties of West Texas in securing the maximum local benefits from the act."

Mineral Wells Scores 7-6 Victory Over Lobos In Armistice Battle

Wranglers Ready For Weatherford Team Saturday

It's on the road again for the Cisco Junior College Wranglers after successfully spectacular victories over Decatur Baptist, 26-6; and over Henderson JC, 20-0.

Light Armistice Day workouts and today's pre-game practice concluded the fitness routines for Coach Jack Everett's 44-man traveling squad, which is scheduled to leave Cisco early Saturday morning for Weatherford. Once arriving, the Wranglers will be bidding once more for district rating against a heavy Weatherford JC eleven.

Kickoff will be at eight o'clock at Weatherford High School's Fairmount field.

Latest reports from the Hill disclosed the injury status that might be a deciding factor in the game. In Saturday's match, the Ciscoans' spurring power, lessened by recent injuries, will be crippled.

Doug Garner, his condition slightly improved since Wednesday, will be in the game, coaches declared, "only when the time seems ripe." Garner, who was in form sufficiently to start with the Varsity squad against the Cardinals, is still favoring an ankle twist, sustained at the season's start.

End Wesley Rutherford wrenched a knee in practice sessions Thursday and coaches expressed concern. Rutherford will be replaced by George Owens, blossoming 164 pound newcomer.

The weather man, presenting only slight flurries of mist, offered little or no help to the mentor's pressing problems. A clear and mild evening is predicted for Saturday's bang-up.

The Wranglers were still managing to retain fine spirits as they moved through final drills Friday and the prolonged offensive tests were termed by Everett as "very satisfying."

In Jarrell Carman's pivot position, Gene Millsap has been named as replacement, since the varsity center will definitely see no action. Johnson and Paul Mosley will see more action, as both have edged from the injury list and are showing signs of improvement.

Saturday's Cisco-Weatherford JC will be the hometowners' final conference slating, and both are revamping virtually all line and back departments for the kill.

BY JIM EWELL, JR.

Braving a chilling West Texas norther that whipped across Chesley Field here Thursday afternoon, approximately 2,000 blanket-wrapped football fans saw a stalwart Cisco Lobo eleven retain a six point lead at the half's close and then minutes afterwards, saw it shattered.

For in those fatal minutes, the Mineral Wells Mountaineers, in a most unpoetic manner, nosed out the Lobos, 7-6, as the final phases of the game rolled to an eventless climax.

The better team did not win, although you had to admire the struggle and courage of the mountaineers who simulated the pay-off rally in the last stanza after being trampled under by a hometown team that didn't know the meaning of the word "underdogs"—a term that was gradually becoming a part of them.

All the nearbreak, all the hope and all of the game's threatened play were absorbed in those few closing minutes. Mineral Wells led by the final score and was operating off the Lobos' 30-yard line when the game's end was sounded. Even with less than a minute to play, it seemed almost certain the Ciscoans would turn on the charm so well employed in the first half and surge back to clinch the win.

But you must admit, the Mountaineers had the stuff to take advantage of the breaks when they were offered. All in all, it just wasn't meant to be a celebrated Armistice Day battle for the Lobos. It turned out to be one of the worst games they have played since the season opened. It seems unusual that they picked their hometown soil to make mistakes—costly and just the amount to hand the Mountaineers the crown.

It resulted from one of the many bobbles that spoiled Cisco's spurring power. Midway of the third quarter, Darwood Smith faded back after the snap of the ball and fired an angling pass intended for Russell Johnson, when an alert line backer—Dave Daves—leaped into the air, retrieved the ball and dashed unimpeded to the goal posts 65 yards away.

Daves, knowing not that his accurate place kick meant the game for his team, again notched the Mountaineers score up the bracket, splitting the up-rights for the winning one-point conversion.

From then and there on, the Mountaineers assumed command of the field. But the hometowners never gave up.

Seconds after the game was begun, the Lobos, winning the toss, lost little time in pushing the Mountaineers back on three thrusts deep into enemy soil. Operating from their own 20, Robert Randall, who played a burising game, boomed off tackle for 7 yards, Johnson smashed head first for 5 and George Watts inched the Lobos down the field in 19 rip snorting plays, ending on the Mountaineer 20.

Backing the visitors to their 5 and with a fourth down on the way, Johnson, on the passing end, was smothered under for a 13 yard set back after failing to sight his receivers. Thus, their first threat failed.

In the second quarter, the Lobos went on the march again on what seemed a touchdown drive. Johnson rited a pass to Gene Ryilee who knifed his way to the mountaineers' 31. Here, three plays later, the Lobos were again camping in the visitors' red zone. Then late waned its wane at the pressing Lobos as Johnson spent the remaining downs vainly trying to connect his passes. And, as before, a second thrust bogged down just short of the goal.

With two minutes of playing time in the second quarter, Jim Brown took a pass from Doc Mason and raced 26 yards for the Mountaineers' first down. On the second play, he again grabbed the ball from the air and sprinted 17 yards to the hosts' 45 yard line. With Mason again letting loose his aerial antics, Watts stepped into the picture, intercepted the pass and worked his way back to the 23 yard line before being knocked out of bounds.

On the following play, Johnson shuffle passed to Smith and he plowed over for the Ciscoans' part of the score. A try for extra point by running was turned back when the Lobos drew an off side penalty.

The statistics were virtually even, but the Mountaineers edged out in front on drives late in the game.

The final outcome offers little to the real clue in the manner in which both teams played.

FIREARM ACCIDENTS

About twice as many persons are killed by firearm accidents within the supposedly safe confines of home than in the acceptedly hazardous sport of hunting, according to a study by life insurance statisticians. Two fifths of the victims of home firearms accidents were children under 15 years, and more than half of the child deaths were caused by children playing with guns.

The study underscores the caution that it is doubly important to keep firearms locked up if there are children about, the statisticians comment. Handling, exhibiting, or examining guns in the home by adults or children caused 32 of the deaths in the insurance experience, and the cleaning of guns was responsible for an additional 19 deaths. Playfully pointing "unloaded" guns and scuffling for guns added to the toll. Other persons were killed when they brushed against or moved loaded guns which had been stored behind doors of closets, behind beds, or elsewhere in the house.

Hunting accounted for 64 of the deaths in this essentially urban insurance experience, and of this number somewhat less than one third accidentally shot themselves and more than two thirds were fatally wounded by others—some when they were mistaken for game, or when they crossed into the line of fire, and others when the guns of their companions were accidentally discharged.

Incredibly, five lives were lost by individuals playing or demonstrating "Russian roulette," in which the cylinder of a revolver containing but one cartridge is spun around, and the participant points the gun at his own head and pulls the trigger on the gamble that the firing pin will strike an empty chamber, the statisticians report.

It is clearly indicated that firearms are a serious hazard, both indoors and out, conclude the statisticians, and that the annual toll of 2,500 lives in the general population of the United States from firearm accidents can be greatly reduced. There are many precautions the possessor of a gun should know and observe in the interest of his own safety and the safety of his fellows. One of the most important is that all guns should be kept unloaded, and preferably locked safely away, until they actually are to be used.

... and about the only way, to find out about a land title is to get an abstract. The logical time to get an abstract is before the property is purchased. THE CHURCH NEEDS YOU — YOU NEED THE CHURCH

We sent our finest manhood to pay the price of war on land and sea and in the air; and it was a great price as many of us shall always know. But war is a terrible tragedy unless peace lies beyond its sacrifice and death. We have all had a share in paying for the war, though for many of us it was only a few additional dollars in taxes. In fact some have profited greatly by the sufferings and heroism of the dead. Never have we had so much money to spend on ourselves and on our families. But we need to look at the cemeteries of the world to know the supreme sacrifice that was called for, that we might be secure and comfortable. It required the giving of life itself for many a man; and it called for sorrow and heartache for many a mother and father around the globe. The war cost enough for some of us.

The time has come for heroism in the cause of Peace; and it must be shown by every woman and man in our country. We must oppose with all our might the antagonisms that are growing between peoples; we can substitute understanding and good will if we will dare to say the truth when we know men are telling falsehoods about other fellow men. We must become ambassadors of tolerance and spokesmen for kindness and generous treatment of every man. Peace calls for more than money; it calls for courage and well informed effort for making the world into the Kingdom of God. We must see all men everywhere as our brothers; we must practice democracy which allows every other man the freedom that we demand for ourselves; we must be Christian in thought and in speech and in deed; for Jesus of Nazareth is the Prince of Peace. They who enroll under His leading and join Him in pleading for the Good Time of world friendship; they who are willing to suffer for goodness and truth and love; these are the makers of peace. "Blessed are the peacemakers; for they shall be called the children of God."
