Ninth Inning Tie Ends In Glory for Veteran Outfielder

YANKS FOUGHT HARD

Hoyt Fails to Duplicate His Last Year Series Record

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Swinging his bat in that fabled setting of the diamond—the ninth inning, with score tied, two out and the count "two and three"—Casey Stengel blasted his way into baseball hall of fame today with a home run drive that gave the New York Giants a spectacular victory over the Yankees, 5 to 4, in the opening clash of the 1923 world's series.

That mighty and heroic blow by Stengel who came back after being relegated to baseball's scrap heap not long ago, ended a gripping, pulse throbbing drama, a thrilling battle in which the wits, decisive punch and brilliant defense of the Giants triumphed over the courage, brawn and fighting spirit of the Yankees.

Crashed to the extreme left center field stretches of the vast Yankee stadium, that herculean smash broke the heart of Joe Bush, fork ball star, who had held the Giants in check after seeing his teammate, Wate Hoyt, battered from the mound and who otherwise might have stood out tonight as the hero of a Yankee triumph instead of but a courageous figure in defeat. It was a heart breaking end to Bush's gallant stand, yet he spelled his own downfall by his tactical error in "grooving" the ball for Stengel's dramatic feat.

A vast throng of 55,000 that shattered all records for world's series attendance and gate receipts and filled close to capacity the fat flung reaches of baseball greatest monument witnessed the opening of the third successive struggle between New York's rival clubs for premier honors of the diamond.

That colorful gathering of fans from all walks of life and all parts of the compass was whipped to a frenzied pitch of excitement as it saw unfolded before it one of the epics of the game. It saw the Yankees, smarting from the memory of having been beaten for two straight years by their National league opponents, rush spectacularly to the

Kneel in Prayer To Escape Forest Fire in Michigan

By International News Service.

SUPERIOR, Wis., Oct. 10.—The northwestern wooded territory was threatened today by the most serious forest fires that have visited the section since 1918. Superior was practically hemmed in but not in danger. Smaller towns nearby, however, were menaced.

At Ontanagon, Mich., according to reports, inhabitants spent the night alert. Many persons kneeled in their homes, and prayed. Fully 60 square miles of timberland in Ontanagon county were ablaze and a stiff breeze was fanning the flames. The town of Green, Mich., was menaced. Reports from Houghton said several farm houses had been destroyed.

Refugees were being cared for in school houses and in some instances, in barns.

One child was reported to have been burned to death. Navigation on Lake Superior was seriously hampered due to dense clouds of smoke which made the air thick. Freighters were keeping far off shore.

Prospects of halting the flames were disheartening. Forecasts were for fair weather. A heavy rain would be necessary to quench the flames.

TRIAL OF WAR VET ON AT BROWNSVILLE

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 10. The trial of Francisco Riviera, charged with homicide, started in criminal district court today. Riviera is alleged to have killed a man with a knife and to have assaulted another last March. Attorneys for the defense entered a plea of homicide mania.

Riviera, a world war veteran, served in France and was shell-shocked. After being returned to the trenches from the hospital his comrades said he seemed to be possessed with a mania to kill and on three occasions slipped from the trenches and returned with the bodies of Germans whom he evidently had killed in hand to hand fights in "no man's land."

An effort will be made by defense attorneys to have Riviera taken to a federal institution for treatment.

Sensational Turn In Stokes Case

"That's a Lie," Defendant Shrieks as Chauffeur Drags Her Name in Mire.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—A court room crowd of the curious, today watched Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes meet with sobbed out-shouts of "That's a lie," the repeated but almost instantly retracted insinuations of intimacy made by Elmer Henshaw, her former chauffeur, who took the stand as an unexpected star witness for W. E. D. Stokes in the retrial of the wealthy hotel owner's divorce. Tears rolled down the cheeks of Mrs. Stokes, seated a few yards from his wife, and he covered his face with nervous hands.

Henshaw, who appearance took the defense completely by surprise, had testified to having driven Mrs. Stokes frequently to the apartment house at 13 East Thirty-Fifth street, where Edgar Wallace, one of the co-respondents, lived. Samuel Untermeyer, chief counsel for Mrs. Stokes asked him why he wrote her, instead of his employer, when he decided to leave his job.

"I was very friendly with Mrs. Stokes," the witness answered.

"Do you mean anything by that?" the attorney asked.

"I mean just what I said."

"Then you mean to imply—?"

"Yes, I do."

Mrs. Stokes' mother, Mrs. I. B. Miller of Denver, was seated a few feet from her daughter. She jumped to her feet and advanced to the witness stand, hands threateningly in the air. Friends held her back.

Mr. Stokes buried his face in his hands. Henshaw folded his arms and smiled. Several court attendants rushed to the side of Mrs. Miller, who still was struggling with restraining friends. She was told she must quiet down or leave the room. She was moved to a seat nearer the door.

Mr. Untermeyer was questioning the witness in a second.

"Did you mean to say you committed adultery with Mrs. Stokes?" he shouted.

"Not absolutely not," Henshaw answered.

"Then did I understand you to say you had improper relations with her?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes, I did," came the answer. "She was giving me money to frame up Mr. Stokes and get a divorce. That's what I meant by improper relations."

"I never gave him a cent in my life," Mrs. Stokes shouted.

The crowd was visibly angered. One of the jurymen, his fists clenched, half rose as though ready to spring over the rail at the stand.

CONGRESS CAN'T REGULATE OIL

Ames Tells Association No Federal Control Is Possible

By The Associated Press

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 10.—The federal government is totally without constitutional authority to regulate the petroleum industry, though the various states have the power to control production to prevent waste, C. B. Ames, chief counsel for the Texas Company declared tonight in an address before the Midcontinent Oil and Gas association, a unit of the International Petroleum Exposition and Congress in session here this week.

His address followed that of E. W. Marland, president of the Marland Refining company, at the morning session of the congress proper, on the powers of the states to prevent overproduction.

Mr. Ames referred to the recommendation contained in the July report of the senate committee headed by Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, which inquired into the oil business. His conclusion, he said, was that "all the government can do in respect to prices is to keep open the channels of competition. This it should do, and more than this, it should not undertake."

"The only point at which the United States can touch the oil industry is under the power of congress to regulate interstate commerce. It is well settled that production of minerals, even if intended for shipment outside the state, is not a part of interstate commerce and congress has no power therefore to regulate oil production.

"The several states, however, have a measure of control. The state can prevent waste."

These figures from Mr. Ames' address show the present magnitude of the petroleum industry in the United States:

There are 285,000 producing wells scattered in 200 distinct fields in 18 states.

Average daily production of crude oil now running close to 2,250,000 barrels, approximately 700,000,000 barrels annually.

Production of crude is carried on by 15,000 individuals and corporations (not including stockholders in large corporations).

Operating refineries numbering 500 owned by 250 different companies and individuals.

Gasoline consumption is close to 8,000,000,000 gallons annually, distributed through 90,000 filling stations, and 8,000 portable tank pumps.

Crude distribution maintained by thousands of miles of pipe lines and more than 300,000 tank cars.

More than 20,000 persons have passed the turnstiles at exposition grounds since the congress convened three days ago.

GRAND DRAGON WINS HIS CASE

Court Turns Jewett And Companions Loose On Riot Charges

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 10.—Rioting charges against N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the ku klux klan in Oklahoma and two other men, were dismissed late today by Justice of the Peace Leo B. White after a preliminary hearing.

The court ruled the evidence insufficient to hold the men for trial.

The charges grew out of the flogging here more than a year ago of E. R. Herriman, in which the defendants were alleged to have participated.

L. L. Rohde and C. Whitlock, both of Oklahoma City, were the other two men.

Grand Dragon Jewett denied on the witness stand today the accusation of Dr. A. A. Maupin, a local dentist, that he (Jewett) had led the band of masked men who abducted Merriman and lashed him severely for his alleged relations with a married woman. Dr. Maupin, according to transcript of testimony made public by Governor J. C. Walton, told the military court of inquiry investigating mob violence that the grand dragon had admitted to him that he himself had applied the whip to Merriman's bare back.

Questioned by counsel for the defense at the hearing, however, the dentist repudiated certain parts of testimony attributed to him by the governor.

The defense then demanded the official transcript of the military court testimony. The county authorities declared it had been taken recently by Charles McCloud, one of Governor Walton's secret agents.

The court then issued an attachment for McCloud and recessed the hearing until the writ could be served.

After deputy sheriffs later reported that McCloud could not be located the charges were dismissed.

HAS GUN THAT SHOT BALLEW

Is Now Relic At Ranger Headquarters

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 10.—The pistol from which was fired the bullet which ended the career of Bud Ballew, when Police Chief McCormick of Wichita Falls cut short Ballew's reach for his own gun, is now the prized possession of R. W. Aldrich, ranger quartermaster captain. McCormick was formerly a ranger captain, and had used the gun during his days with "the force." After the killing of Ballew the revolver was sent here.

It is a dainty pearl-handled nickel-plated .38 calibre revolver. there is little about its appearance to hint of the grim struggle when its spit-fire bark was to say which of two men should live and which die. It was however, an ordinary appearing blue-finish gun when McCormick shot the outlaw. The fancy finish was given it since then, to harmonize with the expensive pearl handles.

TEXAS WILL NOT PURCHASE ALL OIL

The Texas company will not take on any new oil for purchase, it was announced from the Wichita Falls offices of that company last night in explanation of previously posted prices and notices.

This is to be construed that the Texas company does not mean that they will purchase any new production or any other oil that they have not been purchasing in the past, except that oil which the Texas company has been storing for various producers, was the gist of further advices given out last night.

Present gravity prices of this company as announced will be for 33, 90c; 33 to 39.9, $1.10; 40 and above, $1.25. These prices as compared with the last prices of the Humble Oil and Refining company posted Monday are lower.

GALLOWS DEATH FOR MURDERER

California Butcher Sentenced to Hang Friday, January 4

By The Associated Press.

STOCKTON, Calif., Oct. 10.—Death on the gallows at Folsom state prison Friday, January 4, was the sentence imposed today on Alexander A. Kels, Lodi, Calif., butcher, who confessed to the murder of Edward Meservey, aged itinerant laborer on a leased pasture of the Kels ranch in the prosperous Lodi district Sept. 12.

Kels staggered slightly when the words of the extreme judgment broke the hush of the packed court room. He recovered himself at once, however, and when it was over sat down with the despairing slump that has become characteristic of him since the law hunted him out and drew from him the lurid story of the shooting and burning of the aged wanderer.

Kels is insured for $80,000 and the policies are said to contain a provision that if he meets with a violent death that his beneficiary will receive $10,000. He has a wife, who is seriously ill and a daughter, 11 years old. Neither has as yet been told that Kels has been arrested, the last word they received of him being that he had been found after he was supposed to have been burned to death in the fire that all but incinerated his victim. His victim received an elaborate funeral under the impression of the mourners that it was Kels who had been killed in the fire.

FRANCE REJECTS GERMAN OFFER IN RUHR SOLUTION

Attempt to Open Up Direct Negotiations From Berlin

SITUATION SAME

Claim Berlin Now Wants Active Hand In Situation

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The reparations problem as a whole is still where it was before the German government announced cessation of the passive resistance in the Ruhr. This is the conclusion in French official circles after today's visit to the French foreign office of Herr Von Hoesch, German charge d'affaires.

Herr Von Hoesch told Premier Poincare he was instructed to open direct negotiations between the Berlin and Paris governments and to offer Germany's co-operation toward the resumption of the normal economic life of the Ruhr.

The Germans are credited in French circles with being ready to negotiate only in order to have a hand in the Ruhr regime now that the resistance has ended, and Premier Poincare told the German envoy that inasmuch as negotiations were in progress between the allies and groups of industrialists and labor leaders in the Ruhr, he did not consider it advisable to undertake further conversations with Berlin on the same subject.

STAR IN WIFE-BEATING LEAGUE?

If So Get Rule From Judge Martin

Wife beating as an indoor sport will not be so popular for Wichita Falls husbands who follow this past-time, as a result of a new rule of the game laid down by District Judge P. A. Martin of the Eighty-ninth district court Wednesday afternoon.

A woman appeared before Judge Martin Wednesday and asked for a divorce on grounds of cruel treatment. She alleged her husband, a local automobile man, had beat her on numerous occasions. She said he had beat her not later than last Monday, Oct. 8.

Judge Martin after listening to the plaintiff's testimony, very deliberately delivered the following "The wife beating business has gone out of practice many, many years ago in civil communities. I am going to grant this divorce on condition that you (speaking to the plaintiff) file a complaint against this man for aggravated assault and battery on you for one of these beatings. You must go before the county attorney and file a complaint against him for aggravated assault and appear as a witness and testify against him.

"The state has some rights in this matter as well as you. You are entitled to a divorce but the state has the right to prosecute and punish a man who treats his wife that way" the court concluded.

The woman went at once before Wayne Somerville of the county attorney's department, who filed the complaint. The divorce was granted.

BOTH HOUSES HAVE ORGANIZED FOR FINAL FRAY

Rumor That Walton Will Not Be Allowed To Address Solons

M'BEE IS SPEAKER

Will Fight to Last Ditch, Walton Says As Time Draws Near

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 10.—The Oklahoma legislature tonight completed final arrangements for launching impeachment charges against J. C. Walton tomorrow.

In separate caucuses both houses of the legislature chose their leaders for the session which begins tomorrow; and afterwards the lawmakers announced ready for the fray.

Both meetings were brief.

The house members organized as had been predicted, with Representative W. D. McBee of Stephens county, as speaker.

The senate made no changes in its lineup for the regular session.

Only the formal announcement of officers elected was made by the legislators after the caucuses. No statement as to their plan of action was issued.

The house was in session less than two hours, while the senate met but 20 minutes.

Rumor was current in political circles tonight that the legislature will oppose any attempt of Governor Walton to address the body when it convenes tomorrow. This was denied, however, in official quarters. It is known that the governor has prepared a message in which he will urge the passage of his bill to unmask the klan in Oklahoma. Should the legislators refuse to call on the governor as is the custom close followers of the situation declared that the executive would resign unconditionally.

Administration supporters denied that such a move is contemplated. They further declared that Governor Walton's offer of compromise would not wholly be disregarded by the lawmakers.

Governor Walton also denied the report of his unconditional resignation in a statement declaring that he would "fight to the last ditch," if the legislature fails to enact the anti-klan legislation.

"I have absolutely no intention of resigning my office on any other basis than the one already announced," he said. "The threat of impeachment does not worry me in the least. If the legislature fails to pass the anti-klan bill when it meets I will fight to the last ditch.

"This is final."

Contrary to previous reports the house members declared tonight that the entire membership of the lower house will be admitted to the caucus.

KLANSMEN DENY AMARILLO CHARGE

By The Associated Press.

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 10.—T. W. Stanford headed a party of klansmen who waited on E. T. McDonald and ordered him to leave the city without authority of the local klan, W. M. Adams, secretary of the Amarillo chapter, today testified in the case of Stanford on trial in district court on a white capping charge. Adams and other local klan officials were placed on the stand by the state in proving that Stanford had been issued a number of robes on the day that McDonald was ordered by masked men to leave the country. Testimony was to the effect, however, that they had been told by Stanford that he was going to attend an initiation service at Panhandle and wanted the robes for a party going from Amarillo.

Twenty witnesses were used by the state during the day. It rested at 5 o'clock and the defense will begin its testimony Thursday.

Stanford is being tried on a charge growing out of a threat made to McDonald prior to a lashing given him by five men who first kidnapped him as he walked down a business street on the night of August 9. The state is attempting to prove that the same men waited upon McDonald on both nights and that their actions were sanctioned by the klan.

O. B. Chesshir, Texas ranger, was on the stand. He was sent here by Lieutenant Governor Davidson following the flogging and assisted in uncovering evidence which resulted in the arrest of the men now under indictment.

"TRUTH SERUM" IS ALSO LIAR?

Authorities Are Now Doubtful As To Its Veracity

By International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. Oct. 10.—Did the "truth serum" tell the truth?

Wyandotte county authorities today were admittedly puzzled over results of the "new fangled" criminologist's aid. Scopolamin, credited by Dr. R. E. House of San Antonio, its propounder, with bearing truth-impelling properties, was administered to two prisoners here and both denied the crime charged to them while under its influence.

The subjects were Link Sykes, convicted of murdering a street car conductor, and Blas Castillo, charged with attempting to wreck a train.

While under the influence of the drug Sykes answered all questions freely, but steadfastly denied his guilt. He placed blame on a negro who had been mentioned frequently during Sykes' trial.

Castillo said he was many miles from the scene when the Santa Fe train was wrecked.

The test was conducted by Dr. House, assisted by Dr. F. S. Carey, county physician, and both insisted the men were completely unconscious throughout the examination.

Attorneys for Sykes declared today they would ask a new trial as a result of his declaration of innocence while under influence of the truth serum.

According to Dr. House the serum works on the principle that the subject is questioned while all senses excepting hearing are deadened, the brain functioning but without power to reason deceitfully. The subject has no time to compose a lie, it is said.

Since entering criminal work, Dr. House said he has performed the test upon 29 prisoners, five of whom were exonerated and nine admitted guilt.

SLATON, Texas, Oct. 10.—A prohibition argument, according to reports to the police, led up to a cutting affray today when O. S. Lanham, business man, was killed. The body will be buried as soon as relatives from New Mexico arrive. James Walker surrendered to officers.

Don't Judge Pictures By The Frames Around Them

Most people are so heartless and possess so little of the quality of human kindness that all they see in anyone is what is on the outside. Naturally those who are handicapped in presenting a pleasing appearance by pimples, blotches, breaking out," eczema, etc., on their skin are not going to get any attention. That is the reasons you find such folks so backward and shirking from the "cold shoulder" they have come to expect.

You can "make the frame as lovely as the picture really is" by simply getting rid of those skin disfigurers, if you will just use the wonderful Black and White Ointment. Then your good nature and sweet ways will stand out without any drawback, and folks will want to be around you. It is economically priced, in liberal packages. The 50c size contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have it.—Adv.

Manly Art On Texas Athletic Card

AUSTIN, Texas. —"Tentative boxing matches with other colleges of the southwestern conference, and with the army clubs of Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio are being arranged for the University of Texas boxers this year," said E. P. Rumph, instructor in boxing at that institution for the 1923-24 session. Boxing as an official course in physical training for men at the university has been resumed after four years absence from the list of courses.

Instruction and class practice will be the program for the fall term, and intramural matches are scheduled for the winter term's work. After two terms of such practice Rumph expects to have some good material from which to pick the varsity teams, which will represent the school in matches yet to be scheduled.

In 1919-20 Rumph coached the only team participating in intercollegiate boxing which the university has produced. Only one man on his team, George Luhn of Taylor, was awarded the unqualified "T". He is now playing on the Longhorn football squad. He is again in the intercollegiate boxing ring, however, and with him are Walter Craddock of Austin, champion heavyweight wrestler of the southwestern conference.

GOV. M'CRAY NOTES ARE UNDER FIRE

By International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 10.—The affairs of Gov. Warren T. McCray, of Indiana, were again under fire today. Developments were coming fast and a climax was believed rapidly approaching.

Notes of Gov. McCray bearing his endorsement are reported to be in many banks throughout Indiana. These notes, it is reported, total several million dollars.

The investigation of the financial crisis was given a new turn by the testimony of two men in a court hearing in Kentland. These men, Alva E. Herrimann and Henry A. Reinhart, testified they never signed notes bearing their names, which had been negotiated by the governor. They had been called for examination in connection with suit for recovery on the notes.

The firm names of A. E. Herrimann and company and H. A. Reinhart and company appear on several of the notes indorsed by Gov. McCray. The governor is a partner in both companies.

Woman Victim Of Mystery Shot In Critical State

By International News Service.

CAMERON, Texas, Oct. 10.—Mrs. R. D. Wharton was in a critical condition here today following a mysterious attack by an unknown assailant shortly after eleven o'clock last night when she was shot through the right side while asleep.

Her husband returned from a lodge meeting to find the woman and two children concealed beneath the bed where she had crawled after the attack. In a hysterical condition today, she was unable to give any definite account of the shooting.

LONGSHORE STRIKE BRINGS BLOODSHED

By The Associated Press

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 10. — Bloodshed marked the inauguration of the stevedores' open shop policy for longshoremen here late today when a truckload of negro laborers, returning from the pier where they had replaced union longshoremen was fired upon by unidentified negroes in an automobile.

William H. H. Ashley, negro, was fatally wounded, dying two hours after reaching a hospital, and Ernest Jackson, negro, was shot in the knee. The thirty or more laborers in the truck leaped from the vehicle and sought safety in shrubbery by the roadside when the attacking party opened fire.

Two negroes both of whom police claim have admitted that they were striking longshoremen, are held for investigation in connection with the shooting.

Five men are said to have been in the attacking party.

LARGE PLANS FOR GOLF CLUB

Lengthening of Course And Membership Drive Planned

Two hundred members and control of the Municipal club house and larger golf course is the aim of the Wichita Falls Municipal Golf club reorganized last night at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

This came upon the urge that systematized control of the links and club house was the only feasible as well as the better way for playing on the municipal course. Mayor Frank Collier, presiding, offered the support of the city, which now has charge of a portion of the course.

Discrimination against these men now playing or others wishing to play on the course who do not wish to join the club will not be made and is not appearing in the plan, it was strictly decided. At present, the club house is under private lease and all the course is not under one management. The club plans to lengthen the course from thirteen to eighteen holes, place the club house at the disposal of members, and otherwise get the direction under a single management.

All these plans hinge upon whether or not the required number of at least one hundred and fifty men is obtained in the membership drive by the first of the year. Should this number be obtained, the dues for a year will be $25, it was decided, but all money received will be held and returned if the desire quota is not made. Charges for playing for those not members will be fifty cents a day, providing the plan is consummated.

Temporary officers elected last night were as follows: Chairman, Mayor Frank Collier; first, second and third vice-chairman, R. G. Sharp, Charles Kiersey, and J. T. Yeargin; secretary-treasurer, W. E. McBroom.

The membership committee in the new drive for two hundred members as chosen are: Frank Collier, W. E. McBroom, F. H. Williams, C. C. Brannenberg, S. C. Francis, Arthur Salmon, P. G. Sharp, H. W. Dempsey, Charles Kiresey, J. T. Yeargin, H. S. Davis, C. B. Whitley, M. P. Rogers, S. H. Rider, R. K. French, H. B. Bradley, T. E. Hale, Jr., I. R. Sheldon, Fred T. Kingery, Edwin Weldon, L. L. Hockersmith.

The next meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms the night of October 24.

CHINA PRESIDENT TAKES OFFICE OATH

PEKIN, Oct. 10.—Tsao Kun the war lord of north China, today took the oath of office as president of the republic amid the formal ceremonies which accompany the inauguration of a new executive.

Following the ceremony at the palace, the president proceeded to the house of representatives where he attended the promulgation of the new Chinese constitution before the full membership of parliament. When the oath of office was taken, many distant guns boomed the presidential salute.

SWAN SONG FOR DUCKS NEXT OCT. 16

Duck hunting season begins next Tuesday, October 16 and a number of local sporting gentlemen are already working on their ancient carbines and rifles in the hope they will shoot true when the legal restrictions are removed which limits the slaughtering of ducks.

Local sporting goods dealers and those who sell ammunition report sales of apparatus that means ducks that are now enjoying their liberty, will soon go the way of the dinner table. Of course all the ammunition will not find its mark but the practice will be worth something to the nimrods.

Bexar Officials Arraigned On Shortage Charge

By The Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 10.—Bond of $500 each was fixed by Justice of the Peace H. W. Ball in the cases of Mayor John W. Tobin, County Attorney T. J. Newton, County Clerk John A. Bitter and District Clerk O. B. Archer charged with misappropriating funds of the state of Texas and converting said funds to their own use.

Newton, Bitter and Archer were arraigned and made bond late today. Mayor Tobin had not been taken in custody but the amount of his bond was fixed by agreement. Jack H. Burk, county clerk, also is faced with arrest upon a similar charge when he returns here in about 10 days, he being out of the city at present. The complaints were sworn to by B. C. Baldwin, ranger captain.

Mayor Tobin formerly was for a long period, sheriff of Bexar county. The funds in dispute are said to be fees declared by the officials, who have been taken in custody, to be retained rightfully by them as prerequisites of officials over their regular salaries.

Three complaints allege the conversion of money which came into the hands of the officials in performance of their duties and that they failed to turn the same over to the county. The complaint against Mayor Tobin alleges that he collected the money while sheriff.

The charges were aid to have grown out of a dispute between the officials and the county commissioners over the amount of fees.

FORMER AMERICAN GIRL DEAD IN PARIS

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Baroness Romano Avezzano, wife of the Italian ambassador to France, died suddenly here today. The Baroness before her marriage was Miss Jacqueline Taylor of St. Louis. Baron Avezzano was ambassador at Washington in 1919-1920.

Automatic Camera To Be Used to Snap Olympic Winners

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The French Olympic committee is experimenting with a mechanical photographic device to record the finishes of the running events during the 1924 Olympic games. Thus far the experiments have been successful, and there is every likelihood that a camera will be on hand at the finish line of all races to confirm or infirm the ruling of the judges.

The arrangement is practically the same as that in use for some years in Belgium to photograph the finishes of horse races, and which is likely to be adopted at French race tracks next season.

A camera is set just over the finish line about three feet from the ground, and a string is stretched out across the track about the same height, and three feet from the actual finish. The string, upon being broken by the chest of the arriving winner automatically release the kodak, which snaps the runners just as they cross the line. The negatives are developed in two minutes.

The photograph also will record the time of the race to one-twentieth of a second. A huge clock nine feet in diameter will be installed right opposite the finish line inside the track in direct line with the camera. Through an electrical arrangement it will be released by the firing of the starting pistol and stopped by the breaking of the string at the finish line. The second hand, making a complete revolution splits the seconds in 20 fractions, while a smaller hand records the seconds and another the minutes.

BE BEAUTIFUL! DARKEN HAIR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—Adv.

SAUNDERS NO. 1 TO DRILL IN SOON

The Saunders No. 1 cemented yesterday afternoon and is expected to drill in by Saturday, stated J. J. Perkins last night, contrary to the report that it had been brought in. Indications are favorable to pick up the sand within a few days.

The Potter No. 3 is reported in with a good showing. This well owned by the McDabb company is also on the edge of the old field at on the new sand. More specific reports last night were that it was on the sand and would probably be drilled in this morning.

ELECTRA GRID TEAM AT WORK

ELECTRA, Oct. 10.—The football game scheduled for Saturday between Crowell high school and Electra was forfeited by the former. As a consequence the local squad will have no game this coming Saturday.

This will be only a practice game and will have no bearing on the interscholastic league race. All efforts of the local squad are being centered for the game with Wichita Falls which should be a remarkable good contest this year.

For the past week Coach McGlathery has been putting the local squad through the hardest kind of practice with considerable scrimmage work.

The game last Saturday between Fairview high school and the local boys was not particularly satisfactory as this was Fairview's first football team and they were unable to offer much resistence, Electra winning 97-0.

Oil Equipment Devise Used In Burk Oil Fields

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Oct. 10.—Among the many interesting developments in the oil industry in and around Burkburnett the devise invented by J. H. Wilson of the Wilson Hydraulic company, is proving a wonderful labor and equipment saving improvement which is used for cleaning out oil wells, pulling tubes and rods, etc.

This invention is used on a Fordson tractor operated by hydraulic pressure thus eliminating the need of a derrick and hoisting rigs.

A second invention of Mr. Wilson is perfected as a casing head pulling machine; and most interesting also is the fact that these machines are all manufactured here by the Wilson company. Exhibits of the invention were made at the Texas-Oklahoma Fair and a number of sales made.

MUST BE REAL FARMERS.

The organization of the land owners of the Wichita Valley for the colonization of the lands in the irrigation district has started in the right direction. The meeting at Iowa Park promises to bear fruit, if for no other reason, because it gave the opportunity for an exchange of ideas of some of the men who are the most interested in the development of the fertile Wichita Valley.

One point which was brought out by Judge Edgar Scurry is worthy of the consideration of every land owner in the district. That is, that it is not necessary to bring experienced irrigation farmers into the district; that what is needed most is intelligent and successful farmers who are willing to learn irrigation farming.

After all, as Judge Scurry said, it is largely a matter of intelligent work on the part of men who are real farmers; they may come from West Texas and they may hail from Illinois or Indiana, but a successful farmer is a successful farmer, and a farmer who has achieved reasonable success in the rain belts can learn to farm the irrigation way.

The trouble with trying to colonize the district strictly with irrigation farmers is that the ones who are making a success in the irrigation districts where they are now located, have no incentive or desire to move. That means that many of the irrigation farmers who could be brought here would be men who have failed with irrigation elsewhere, either because they were not adaptable to it, or because they were naturally shiftless and inefficient.

Judge Scurry has had considerable experience with irrigation farmers. He says that it depends entirely on the man as most other things do. The efficient farmer, once he has learned the art of farming by irrigation, meets with success just as he would meet with a fair degree of success in the regular manner of farming.

It is argued too, that many farmers who live in the rain belt have tired of the uncertainty of weather conditions, of a condition of floods or drouth, and that many of them welcome the more certain irrigation method. The education of competent men on irrigation farming can be accomplished through demonstration farms and through instruction by men who are learned in irrigation farming.

The biggest problem now, in this matter of irrigation, is in colonizing the Wichita Valley with the right kind of farmers to develop the land. This is the problem which confronts the land owners, and all others who are interested in the perfection of this mighty project.

Whoever they are to be, they must be real farmers.

TEACHING MEN TO THINK.

Harvard college will "teach freshmen to think" we are told. If Harvard college or any other agency of learning, can teach men to think, much will be accomplished.

Personally, we do not believe Harvard or any other school and do this. We will go even farther and say that we do not believe men can be taught to think.

Men who have the ability, and who are capable of thinking, can be "made" to think, but we doubt very seriously if anyone who hasn't thinking ability, can be taught to think.

Thought can be stimulated, if there is a foundation for thought, but some folk just haven't anything with which to do their thinking, and others insist on letting other people do their thinking for them. It is the easiest way.

MIGHT GET LISTENING EAR.

Representatives of the western farmers, more particularly the wheat farmer, are making it interesting for the Coolidge administration. These men from the west say that the coming congress will vote a bonus of three billion dollars to the former service men and they can not understand why the same congress should not agree to a price fixing scheme whereby the American wheat grower may receive $1.75 for his wheat and thus escape financial "oppression and perhaps bankruptcy." If the farmers of America were as thoroughly organized as the former service men of America, congress might extend a listening ear.

PRICE A SINGING MINSTREL.

Theodore Price of New York and the world is an optimist. His latest is that prosperity is sweeping over the western world, farm products all over the country are bringing high prices, credit is plentiful and the reserve ratio of the federal reserve system is nearly the legal minimum.

Incidentally he remarks that corn, our most valuable crop, is selling at 91 cents, the highest of the year and 22 cents above its value two months ago, while cotton, the second most valuable crop, has hit the 30 cent mark.

He admits that a New York grand jury has made the operators of New York bucket shops very pessimistic, but regardless of the despondency of the sheep shearers and lamb slayers Optimist Price is of the opinion that there is every reason why the merchants, manufacturers and farmers of the United States ought to be satisfied and hopeful.

Theodore Price knows his America; he knows conditions; he knows that Wall street only covers a small spot on the map; he knows that the bucket shop buccaneers are getting just what was coming to them.

And probably he knows that prosperity often is as much a mental condition as a material condition.

A campaign fund of one million dollars will be provided by the American Federation of Labor to unionize the 350,000 workers in the steel industry in America. If the congress closes the ports of entry to alien labor, as recommended by the executive council of the federation, it will be unnecessary for the organizers of the federation to spend a dollar for the unionization of the workers in the steel industry.

A labor famine in the steel districts of America will accomplish the desired results.

A Romance of the Redwoods

"So far, so good. But there's another thing. This man is absolutely capable of laying down on us, no matter what agreements we may have."

"What do you mean?"

"Refuse his formula."

"But you can ruin him."

"He'll stand that. He'll stand for anything now he's got his head set! That's the sort they used to use the thumb rack on without much success. Could you analyse this battery, if you had it, and reproduce the formula?"

"Certainly, if what he says is true, that the plates are a simple alloy, and there is no further secret. It will only be necessary to analyze them, measure their exact proportions, determine their specific gravity, and observe carefully any peculiarities of their shape and position."

"Remember their distance from each other is important."

"That of course. I see your idea. We are to steal the battery."

"That's it."

"It must weigh 40 pounds," objected Gardiner. "Do we hide it somewhere?"

"No, you'll drive it out. The roads will now carry you I've been watching them. Put the battery back in that rattletrap of his and drive it out."

Gardiner pondered.

"When we stop that self-starter it will be noticed," he objected, "and there'll be a lot of noise getting away. Simmins sleeps right next door. What do I do with him?"

"Simmins is already taken care of," said the pirate chief calmly. "He will continue to sleep. That drink I gave him will fix that."

"Doped?" surmised Gardiner.

"Just that. Morphine from the medicine case. And we'll feed Davenport a little of the same."

"Chief, you're a wonder! You think of everything!" cried Gardiner admiringly. "I'd suggest you tie him up after he goes under or he'll likely raise hell when he comes to."

"I expect to," said Grimstead. "Look out; here they come! You understand your job, and remember, it's the biggest stake in the world!"

CHAPTER XXI.
Punketty-Snivvel's Revenge.

Events ran smoothly along the plain laid out for them by the pirate chief. Burton and Davenport returned shortly to the campfire. At a suitable time a night-cap was proposed and drunk. Soon after, with Burton in her darkened tents and Davenport deep in stupor, the conspirators had the place to themselves.

Gardiner arose, buttoned the agreement on his inside pocket, shook hands with Grimstead, and took his departure down the meadow. He carried the pocket flashlight, and by its aid he soon disconnected the self-starter.

Silence rushed in upon the dying clatter as into a vacuum. Gardiner paused long enough to look in on Simmins. That worthy had not stirred.

It was the work of but a few moments more to reinstall Davenport's strange battery in the other car.

Gardiner found the engine much more flexible than any gasoline car he had ever driven. For a few minutes he amused himself by bringing it almost to a stop and then picking up smoothly and positively by merely opening the throttle. He then started out and settled down to the sheer pleasure of driving as fast as his skill would permit.

He was a good driver, and he understood well how to pick up on the straightaways and just how much to check at the curves. And he was a safe driver, as genuine skill is usually safe.

But Gardiner was not alone in the car. No less a personage than Punketty-Snivvles occupied the seat next to him, but the little dog's protective coloration had concealed him from Gardiner's notice.

Now Gardiner had once cuffed Punketty-Snivvles soundly when that personage had been left in his charge. So crouched in his place, Plunketty-Snivvles, fixed his beady eyes in malevolence on his enemy, and worked up a fine big hate.

The road would be between the great redwoods, steadily descending. It had no abrupt curves but one could never see more than a hundred feet or so ahead. As the bottom of the declivity was neared the noise of another, and evidently large stream could be heard, flowing at the bottom of the cañon.

Gardiner flashed around a last corner to see ahead of him a straight bridge. The lights showed him its approach on a slight rise, and that it was built on a high trestle. Then the nose of the car touched the slight rise and the lights lifted.

At the same instant Punketty-Snivvles, whose hate had worked up to a point of action, reached out and bit Gardiner in the wrist!

Gardiner, who had not known of the dog's presence, jumped in surprise and alarm. The car swerved, but he was too cool a driver to permit it to leave the road. However, for three seconds his attention was deflected, and that time was sufficient to shoot the car on to the planking of the bridge.

Gardiner saw all this with the corner of his eye and steered straight and true, while at the same time his direct vision was occupied in identifying the cowering little dog. Then he looked back to the front.

Before him yawned an abyss. The bridge had been carried away by the flood!

Even while he reached for the brake his brain photographed clearly the jagged edges of the bridge, the opposite bank picked out clearly by the lights, and dimly far below a white and phosphorescent tumble of waters hastening to the sea.

The brakes checked the momentum almost but not quite enough. The car slowed, ran off the edge, seemed for an instant to hover right side up like a bird.

Then down it plunged and the foaming, turbulent waters seized it and bore it shouting away.

CHAPTER XXII.
And Rapscallion Does His Stuff.

By the campfire Grimstead strained his ears to catch the last sounds of Gardiner's departure. Things were going very well. They always did go well he had found, when directed masterfully.

Burton, as he had foreseen, did not stir in her tent. She was young and slept soundly, especially in the first part of the night.

After a while he threw away his cigar, stretched and arose. First, he leaned over Davenport, for a moment, listening to his rather stertorous breating. Then he sauntered to the big redwood at whose base the kitchen had been made.

Here he deliberately unknotted a short piece of line that had been used to suspend a shading bit of canvas, and with it returned toward the sleeper. He was thoroughly satisfied and was humming a little tune.

In his brief absence another had added himself to the scene. Rapscallion had shared the tent with Burton. Now, however, urged by some vague restlessness, some telepathic uneasiness, some trickle from the current searching out a channel of his doggy mind, he had deserted the warm and grateful nest and had come forth to sit by his master.

Grimstead paid him no attention; but, cord in hand, advanced upon the sleeper. Now the queer thing happened.

Rapscallion was the most friendly of dogs, ever polite and eager, whose experiences with humans had always been courteous. Also he was, of course, thoroughly familiar with Grimstead.

Now, however, he arose to stiff legs, his eyes blazing the coarse hair of his back and neck erect, his lips snarled back. Grimstead paused.

"Here, Rap, you old fool!" he admonished in a low voice. "What ails you?"

And again stepped forward.

Instantly Rapscallion uttered two sharp and challenging barks.

The sleeper did not stir. no sound came from the tent. Grimstead stepped forward again.

Now Rapscallion did not know what it was all about. Only his simple dog mind had received the impression that, unexplainedly and for the first time, the proximity of this large human meant trouble to Master; and his simple dog code told him to stick tight, say as much as he could about it, and, in extremity to do his utmost.

If he had a private thought apart, which is improbable, it was fleeting one of despair at relative sizes and powers; but it did not affect his course of conduct. He began again to bark rapidly and warmingly.

As Grimstead continued to advance he bobbed forward and back a few inches as though propelled by a spring.

These things impressed Grimstead just so far as to cause him to pick up a heavy, club-shaped billet of wood a weapon that plainly outgunned the armament of a little red-dog who fought at 15 pounds!

"Dad!" she cried, "what are you doing with that club and that rope? I'll keep him quiet!"

Her first sleepy thought was that the dog's barking had awakened Grimstead and exasperated him to the point of canicide.

As her mind cleared and focussed, however, her eyes widened with terror. Davenport's immobility amid all this noise, Grimstead's day attire; what did it mean?

She dashed forward to Larry, and, undeterred by Rapscallion, fell on her knees at his side.

"What have you done? What have you done?" she cried, terror-stricken

So Goes It

By M. M.

Pies Crouch, of the firm of Shapard-Crouch, Staley building, is a consistent and care reader of the Record News. We know he is, without his saying so.

The other morning the Record News said in an editorial that Luis Angel Firpo, who acquired $200,000 by letting Mr. Dempsey rock him to sleep, "had taken out his first naturalization papers and is to become a citizen of this republic." Mr. Crouch read that editorial and then he read a news item regarding Mr. Firpo.

The news item appeared on the same morning that the editorial caught Crouch's watchful eye, and said in effect that Firpo was pleading for return of his application for citizenship, on the grounds that he had signed it under a misapprehension. He explained he thought he was signing a paper such as is issued by some foreign governments to strangers touring strange lands.

Having read these conflicting lines, Mr. Crouch very carefully pasted the editorial paragraph and the tell-tale headline of the news story on a letter head and mailed it to the editor with the brief comment that "we receive our cigars at 905 Staley building." Mr. Crouch doesn't do anything of the sort.

We cheerfully admit that the cigars are on us, but if he wants them or it, he will have to call at the Record News and stand in line until the editor can get to him. By the non-delivery system we are able to cut down our overhead and reduce expenses.

Meantime we are pleased to note that Mr. Crouch, along with approximately nine thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine other folks, is a devoted reader of the Record News.

The explanation of the incident is a simple matter. Therefore we shall not attempt to explain it. The editor who attempts to explain things has no business being an editor.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Making Introducing Easy.

One Mother Says:

I found that it made my little boy very self-conscious to be called into a room to say "How do you do" to callers. Now I use a different method. When I have a visitor and wish Bob to come in and be seen I ask him to bring me a book or come find my thimble, or perform some other trifling service. The fact that his mind is occupied with something real to do makes it possible for him to greet the guest with entire lack of self-consciousness.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

LIBRA.

The indication of today are of a benign nature, but they condnce to activity, and care must be exercised to restrain impulsiveness and hasty judgment, which is very apt to prove erroneous. Avoid speculation and be conservative.

A child born today will be shy and responsive only to genuine sympathy and affection and should be humored more than the average child.

You are quiet if today is your birthday and naturally so reserved as to be shy and bashful to large gatherings. But if you recognize this failing in time you can correct it, for you have an indomitable will even if it does take you some time to get it into full swing. But you will always be your counsel and your own best friend, for you are born the solitary self-sufficient type.

You are stern in temperament, but just as severe with yourself as you are with others. A little more gaiety and merriment would do you a world of good, for it would teach you that severity is unnecessary and unusually inefficient.

You are both analytical and creative. What you dissect you can reassemble and usually improve because your mind is logical and reasonable. In fact your mind is naturally equipped for science and a literal profession like the law, but for the latter you have on the whole too nice a sense of ethics to be successful except in the most legalistic way.

You have a sense of humor which although latent, if not entirely suppressed, is rich in absurdity and contrast, and like all grave people when you permit yourself the indulgence of a jest, you do so whole-heartedly and explosively.

You are capable of tact and diplomacy when you cannot have your own way by more direct methods, but it is a strain you do not undergo gracefully, and you are apt to become peevish when it does not instantly bring the desired results.

Emotionally, the less said about you the better.

Successful people born on this date are, Henry J. Heinz, pickle manufacturer; Theodore Thomas, founder of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra; John D. Runkle, Mathematician.

PLENTY PICKERS FOR ELECTRA CROP

ELECTRA, Oct. 10.—Within the past few days, a large number of cotton pickers have been coming into Electra and going out to the cotton sections to the north and west of here. Most of them are travelling in wagons and have come from the districts to the south of here where the crop has already been picked.

Reports from this district are to the effect that there are now plenty of pickers to handle the crop in good shape.

THE KID

A little of Fiji,
A little of Turk,
A touch of the red-man's
Aversion to work;
A love of a fight,
And a loathing of soap;
A view of a future
Of limitless scope;
A hatred of doing
What parents may bid—
That Willie or Tommy
Or any old kid,
Of her dear little child
And says that her darling
Is dreadfully wild,
And even his father
With sorrow may sigh.
He'll learn to be gentle
Enough by and by.

It isn't the movies
That makes him that way;
All kids have been savage
Since Cain had his day.
A tough proposition?
Be that as it may,
He soon must proceed
In the civilized way.
Though mother despairs
Convention will chain him
Some time to her wheels
No longer he'll caper
And kick up his heels.
Grim worry and sorrow
Will furrow his brow
So let him be rough
When he feels like, now.

WASTED WEALTH

If Germany hadn't wasted all that money of futile propaganda in America she'd have enough on hand to pay at least half the indemnity.

HARD LUCK

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor the Record News.

It will be appreciated if I am allowed to correct comment appearing in this morning's issue as to the so-called "No-man's Land" territory and tax comments at University club yesterday.

While saying that accurate handling of all property for taxation, especially real estate, aided in proper control, I made no comment of river bank land being rendered on an acreage basis when lots were sold on lot basis several times the rendered value per acre. I did make such remarks refering to other additions to the city, and such were confused with the river banks. As to the latter I have no information as to how rendered or taxed, other than tax officers have admitted difficulties in handling.

With reference to acreage renditions and lot sales, I call attention to say Hillcrest addition. That has been rendered on a lot basis for past several years, and most of lots in the addition are delinquent for about three years as recently advertised for school taxes. On the basis of lot assessments, adding the penalties separately per lot for the school delinquent taxes each year, then the city, and then the state and county, the lots have no market value at this time equal to the combined total of all delinquent taxes and individual penalties per lot.

Other additions of equal value, small or large as it may be, are rendered on acreage, though lots were sold at prices that gave lot appraisals repeatedly, considerably above the acreage renditions. It is a matter of indifference to me, whether all additions of small lot value are rendered on lot or acreage basis. The point is, they should all be rendered or assessed on same basis, regardless of ownership of one or more lots. Likewise that assessment on lots should not be so high that two or three years delinquent taxes wipe out all value, when other similar tracts are handled (and of equal value) on basis that gives taxation an much lesser percentage of whatever value may exist.

To cancel small account owed me by party deeded me two lots in one of these additions. When assessed I told tax assessor, I'd sell at their valuation or less. The valuation was nominal in amount and any expense of any court action to correct more than amount involved. The taxes were paid, but it has been a question whether lot owners in additions where lots have little market value should not combine to take action to either have rendition values reduced, or see that other additions and lot owners pay on same basis, when uniformity thoughout city would increase values and tend to lower tax rates.

F. G. SWANSON,

THE COLONIZATION QUESTIONAIRE

The Land Owners and the Chamber of Commerce

During the past summer the colonization committee of the local chamber of commerce held several meetings to determine as near as might be what could be done to assist the land owners in disposing of their surplus lands.

It was rumored among many of the owners that the chamber of commerce would either foster the formation of a local selling company or undertake the sale of the land themselves.

This fast led to the insertion of the following question in the questionaire: "Do you think that the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce should handle the sale of your 'anda for you?"

The answers are diversified but can be grouped under four heads:—

Two said "Yes."

Two said "Probably."

Eight replied that they "Didn't know."

Twelve said "No" and all the others passed up the question without answering.

It would seem that some of the land owners have but little faith in the ability of the chamber of commerce to act as a selling organization.

It is evident from the above returns that the chamber of commerce has acted with considerable wisdom in turning over the question of colonization to the land owners themselves.

DUCKS PLENTIFUL IN ELECTRA VICINITY

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Oct. 10.—The large amount of water in this district along with the cooler weather of the past few days has brought some ducks into Red River north of here. Most of the ducks seen so far this year are teal. The larger ducks like the mallard and widgeon are not expected until colder weather arrives.

Fur Coat Slashing Common

More cases of fur slashing in the streets of London are reported. A woman took to the Brixton police her beautiful fur coat which had been slashed in several places on the back. A similar complaint has been made to the police at North London.

Pupil's Autos Jam Curbs

The number of children driving automobiles to school in Grand Rapids, Mich., has so increased the parking problem that the city safety department officials are considering placing a two-hour parking limit around all school houses, thus banning the practice of the children.

Electra Farmers Combine to Fight Increased Rates

ELECTRA, Oct. 10.—At the meeting which was held last week by the grain men of this district, it was decided to mail out questionaires regarding the cost of growing wheat here as one means of preventing the increase of freight rates which is contemplated here.

The meetings was under the direction of Ferd Keller, Jr. It was brought out at the meeting of the wheat growers that a raise of nine cents a bushel was contemplated by the railroads in this district. And that it was up to the farmers themselves to show that the rate was not justified.

Mr. Keller said that the local wheat growers received 70c to 90c a bushel for their wheat this past year. And if the farmers had kept books, that this same wheat cost them from $1.50 to $2.00 a bushel to raise. This past year has been especially bad; but Mr. Keller believes that an increase in freight rates would not even be justified in the best of years.

Mr. Keller along with two grain men from Amarillo expect to leave for Austin shortly where they will take the matter up with the state railroad officials.

Four Prima Donnas With Circus

Miss Lottie LeClair, one of the four prima donnas with the Al. G. Barnes 4-ring wild animal circus, is shown above as she appears in the spectacle, "Alice in Jungleland," that will open the circus performances here Saturday, Oct. 13.—In addition to the four prima donnas, a singing and dancing chorus of California beauties, hundreds of people and almost countless animals combine to make "Alice in Jungleland" the most elaborate extravaganza ever offered under a circus tent, the Barnes press agent declares.

ZONA GALE In Collaboration With Russell Gore Writes On A PROPOSAL.

In that survival of the Roman circus known as "the ring," said a man, "that souvenir of the days when cruelty was an auxiliary to any form entertainment, there is one great and satisfying suggestion:

"Why not substitute fighting with the hands for the present method of war-fare? If they are bound to keep fighting alive among the nations, why not have civilized fighting have this mere remnant of old barbarian days, instead of all this new and elaborate barbarism, beside which Roman methods were so decent?

"Then let two armies or a dozen armies go out and fight with the weapons nature gave them, ruling out all death-dealing devices. There could be no danger of death, there would be no expense for weapons, and gunpowder or any armament, there would be none of the cowardly bombing or sub-marining, no trenches or barber wire entanglements, no such unthinkable stuff as gas, none of the exposure and weariness and long-drawn out suspense, no destruction of towns and relics, no molestation of anybody else. All these would be forgotten.

"Instead there would be enormous grassy plains where, on a sunny morning, all the opposing armies would be drawn up. The whole time would bear an air of holiday.

"Here would be the youth of the land, clean and sinewy, trained for years—not to bayonet one another in the proper spots, but by physical education equipped to attack one another in the spirit and form of sports manship, governed by rules which 'the ring,' unlike the nations does not 'scrap' the moment that a real combat gets under way. Now would be given free rein to the boy instinct, the instinct which has belonged to all boys from early school age up, for a fist-fight.

Nobody would need to be conscripted for this! No need to beg and plead for recruits, and promise them pay and lure them with pictures! For here would be sport, and the training for sport as evidently American understands it.

"And think of the fun for the spectators! It must be—or eighty-five thousand wouldn't gather about a ring. Here could be giant bleachers for all the nations—and they might ask admission and so defray the cost of the uniforms and the transports! And there might be—"

The man stopped, breathless, immersed in his dream. And at the last he brought out with conviction:

"If all these people who are so horrified at a prize-fight would just substitute a wholesale performance for the murder-fight which they don't mind supporting—we'd do away with war in no time. For a holiday!"

Sub Rosa

By AIMI

The American Princess.

For the girl who would be considered a Belle too much stress cannot be put on the value of excellent manners.

She should have a superior gracefulness in all that she says and does, an irresistable charm in conducting herself when she is in the company of other people.

She should observe with care the established morals of good breeding and act accordingly.

Whatever pleases her in others will, without fail, please others in her.

Her talents she should use gracefully, and not wait to be "begged" to perform for the pleasure of other people.

All the reigning Belles of history and all times were noted for their graciousness and culture.

A girl scout or an up-to-date flapper needs to remember good breeding just as well as a princess in some other land. Because they are our Princesses and their manners are as important as any queens.

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could barely do my housework and washing I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do every thing that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAIECHECK, 944 28th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

STAGE AND SCREEN

By JOSEPHINE FISK

STRAND—"Rupert of Hentzau" with Elaine Hammerstein, Lew Cody, Bert Lytell, and Claire Windsor.

OLYMPIC—Kenneth Harlan and Miriam Cooper in "The Broken Wing."

EMPRESS—"Daytime Wives."

GEM—Ray Stewart in "The Sagebrush Trail."

Motion picture statisticians, in a current survey of movie production in Los Angeles, have revealed the interesting fact that a film star of the first magnitude appears in about four pictures in one year. Lesser lights often make as many as ten.

Thus Mae Murray, noted Metro comedienne, is scheduled to make three for the coming season. Miss Murray is now engaged on her second, "Fashion Row." Her first, "The French Doll," is now a big Broadway (New York) success at the famous Capitol theatre and is showing next Wednesday at the Strand.

Rex Ingram, Metro's noted director, whose name on a production is filmdom's most valuable trade mark, takes as long as six months to make one mammoth picture. He has just completed "Scaramouche," a Metro picturization of Rafael Sabatini's famous romance of the French revolution. He will make one more this year.

Jackie Coogan, now also a Metro star, who has just finished "Long Live the King," is to make two more for this year's Metro program. One will be a picturization of Ouida's famous novel, "The Dog of Flanders."

Tom Forman has achieved a real success in his production of "The Broken Wing" a play that ran for a long and successful season on Broadway, and is playing now at the Olympic.

Forman wrote the continuity of the story—one sure method of impressing his own personality upon the production. He also had the task of selecting the cast.

The play is written around the adventurous cross-country flight undertaken by Philip Marvin, a handsome young aviator of New York, who comes to grief in his plane, ending up his flight by crashing through the roof of a Mexican ranch house, landing almost in the lap of a fascinating little Spanish maiden, who has been praying for a fair skinned "Gringo" husband.

After half a dozen possibilities had been canvassed, Harlan finally was selected as the ideal type of a young American aviator. With that part safely taken care of, it looked as if the casting troubles were over and that all that remained was to get a capable company and start "shooting."

But the troubles began multiplying instead of diminishing. It was found that the part of Ines Villera, the romantic and high spirited Spanish girl, demanded an actress of unusual capabilities. Miriam Cooper, who looks the part, was the logical choice. Miss Cooper is a star, too, and has any number of screen successes after her name. With two stars it looked like smooth sailing. With a good story and Miriam Cooper and Kenneth Harlan in the leading roles, Forman felt that the most discriminating audience ought to be satisfied.

Troubles were only started however, for a suitable villian could not be found. He must be clever, for he plays the role of leader of a large and ragged band of Mexican revolutionists who loves the heroine. Only three men were fitted for the role and none were available. Owing to delays however in filming the picture, Walter Long was able to take the part much to Forman's delight, for he is one of the most villainous villains on the screen. The supporting cast is quite as excellent.

Mae Murray in a striking pose from "The French Doll" opening for four days, Wednesday, Oct. 17, at the Strand.

Property men are the modern Aladdins of the motion picture studios. Time and again demands are made upon them by directors for seemingly the most preposterous of objects but their duty, to twist an immortal phrase, is "not to question, their's is but to do and say nothing."

After having already secured countless relics and antique for "Scaramouche," Rex Ingram, the famous Metro director, called upon his property man, Perry Lester, for two Russian parsoys for a particular scene in "Scaramouche," his Metro picture.

It took Mr. Lester two days to find out that a parsoy is a large, brawny, white Russian hound similar except in color to the Great Dane. In two days more Mr. Lester had located two parsoys in Los Angeles and when Mr. Ingram called for them they were ready.

Mary Robert Rinehart, famous author, is expected to be in California shortly to attend the premiere at Los Angeles of Jackie Coogan's Metro picturization of her renowned romance, "Long Live the King." She is now in New York, where agents of Jack Coogan, Sr., are negotiating with her for an original screen story for Jackie.

Theodore Roberts, featured in Cecil B. DeMille's Paramount picture, "The Ten Commandments" says the six pictures he liked best are: "Robin Hood," "Joan the Woman," "The Cinsman," "The Miracle Man," "The Whispering Chorus," and "Grumpy."

More than 1,000 letters from admirers of Thomas Meighan contributed to the development of his starring role as Tom Rockwood in "Woman-Proof," a George Ade story now being produced by Paramount.

These letters came from points throughout the United States and were carefully perused. It was found that the majority of the letterwriters liked Mr. Meighan in the role of an out-of-doors man who didn't care much about drawing rooms and dances.

So in the development of the character of Tom Rockwood of views of these 1,000 motion pictures fans were taken into consideration. It is stated that in the finished picture, Tom will have an almost universal appeal to members of both sexes.

He will be the ideal of motion picture audiences all over America. Tom Rockwood is a young engineer who is too busy to think of matrimony. He is "woman-proof" to the many attempts to ensnare him in matrimony until—but that would be giving the story away.

Al Kaufman, former European production manager for Paramount, was so impressed by the Biblical prologue to Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments," which he has just seen at the West Coast Studio that he wired the New York office as follows:

"When the Red Sea opens and permits the Israelites to pass through you gasp. When it closes, drowning the hosts of Pharaoh, you shriek. This scene would be worth five dollars to me if the rest of the picture were only rough house comedy."

First Community Players' Luncheon Held Wednesday

"Daddy Long Legs" was chosen to be the first play put on by the Community Players at the first luncheon of the season given at the Kemp yesterday afternoon.

The play, submitted by Mrs. Fulton, consulting director of the society, was chosen because of its long popularity and its favor with all ages.

In addition to the discussion of the new play, Mr. Paul Burnett, president, called for short talks from new members on their previous work in the Little Theatre movement. Among those new active and associate members admitted to full membership yesterday, Was Mrs. Carl Lobrits of the Little Theatre of Baton Rouge and Shreveport. Mrs. Lobrits is expected to prove a valuable addition to the Wichita Falls club, and was welcomed for her previous success in this work.

Ernest Green, formerly with the Green Mask players of Rice Institute was another valuable member received, he having directed and appeared in successful plays there. Temple Shelt was welcomed back from state university, whom it will be remembered appeared in one of the first plays staged here by the club.

The luncheon will be held regularly every Wednesday at 12 o'clock at the Kemp.

Married Women's Rights Defined

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 10. A bill defining "rights of married women" has been drawn by the Texas League of Women Voters, and will be offered at the next session of the legislature, Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames of Georgetown, president of the league, announced.

This bill will be considered and discussed in the state convention of the women's league at San Antonio, October 22 to 26, Mrs. Ames said.

The bill is a revision of the old property rights bill for married women, it was said, which women claim was so amended when passed that "it results in more confusion than clarification."

"Some of the members of the joint legislative committee advisory council are already seriously admonishing us," Mrs. Ames said, "that the proposed law would be unfair to men, while others, with equal warmth, say it would be unfair to women." She admitted that the League of Women Voters does not expect the bill to receive unanimous support of legislators.

The league's invitation to prominent Texas lawyers for opinions and suggestions on the proposed law has been responded to by Former Senator W. L. Dean of Huntsville; Judge W. B. Speer, of Waco; R. E. Thomason of El Paso; R. H. Dooms, of Austin and Alex Spence of Dallas, Mrs. Ames said. The opinions, she pointed out did not indicate attitude of the particular lawyers toward the measure.

SCIENCE ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained And Improved—Perfected Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The triumph of scientific pharmacy is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines thus enters upon a wider field of popularity—purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

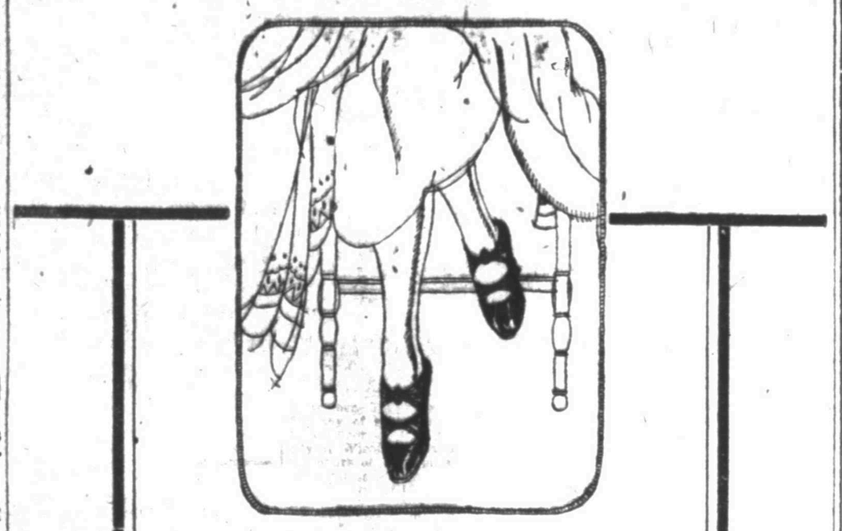

In biliousness, constipation and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach, and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab on the tongue at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Genuine Calotabs are sold only in trade-marked packages, price 10c and 35c. Your druggist offers to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—Adv.

Kansas City Wins First In Junior Series

WALK OVER ORIOLES EASILY BEFORE A CROWD OF 13,000 WHO CHEERED BLUES TO WIN

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 10.—Kansas City, champions of the American association, defeated Baltimore, 9 to 4, in the first game of the inter-league series, here today after the International league champions had taken an early lead. In spite of a tendency to wildness at times, Ferdie Schupp scattered Baltimore's hits and pitched air tight ball in the pinches, collecting nine strikeouts, many of them made when he was in the hole.

Baltimore ran into a tough break in the third inning when Ogden, who replaced Farnham, was knocked down by a liner from Becker's bat. He recovered the ball and forced a man at second, but the injury slowed him up considerably. Thomas, who replaced Ogden, after the latter had given way to a pinch hitter in the eighth, was nicked for four runs in Kansas City's half of the inning.

Up until that time the game had been very even.

Although the attendance did not reach the expectations of officials, approximately 13,000 being present, the field is expected to be packed to capacity tomorrow. An erroneous announcement that all of the seats had been sold kept many away from the park. Groves is expected to pitch for Baltimore tomorrow while Caldwell probably will work for Kansas City.

front in the first two innings, only to be overhauled by a sensational rally, a masterpiece of strategic attack that gave the world's champions four runs and the lead in the fourth inning; it saw the American leaguers after being turned back time after time by an amazing defense, finally tie the score in the seventh inning, then go down to defeat as the crack of Stengel's blow was drowned in a thunderous ovation.

The attendance eclipsed by more than 13,000 the highest previous mark, while the gate receipts of practically $182,000 surpassed the old record by more than $50,000.

The Giants, though victorious, came out of the initial fray with but a slight margin in their favor. In the rejuvenated Yankees, led by the dynamic personality of Babe Ruth, they faced stiffer and more resourceful opposition than at any time in the three seasons of strife between these rivals for ittal honors. The closeness of the struggle today fulfilled the predictions of those who anticipated a bitterly waged contest, a duel that may go the limit of seven games before either team is returned victorious.

But in the end today it was the story of previous defeats the Giants have administered to the Yankees, the triumph of a machine guided by the "master mind" of John Joseph McGraw over brilliant individual resistance.

As a team the Yankees today played better than at any time since their brief days of ascendancy in the 1921 series, but at the critical moments they were out-thought, out-generaled and out-played.

Wait Hoyte, youthful twirling star of the Yankees and hero of the 1921 series, opposed John Watson, whose selection by McGraw came as a last minute surprise in the opening mound duel, but neither lasted long. Watson, the veteran, was unsteady from the start and after being bombarded for four hits and three runs in the first two innings, was withdrawn when an array of Giant reserves was rushed into the attack in the third inning. He was relieved by "Rosy" Ryan, a younger star who stayed the limit and received credit for the victory, though he was saved on many occasions only by spectacular character of his defense.

Hoyt after an impressive start in the first two innings was shelled into retirement in the third inning after the Giants had tied the score. Bush and his red flannel shirt came to the rescue and "Bullet Joe" after being found for a fourth run in that inning settled down brilliantly. He held the Giants to three hits in the remaining six innings, allowing only one runner to get as far as second base until the ninth, when Stengel came through with the winning punch.

The Yankees got away to a flying start in the first inning. The central figure was Babe Ruth, whose attempt to come back after previous world's series failures and crown with glory the greatest season of his career, has absorbed almost as much interest as the outcome of the championship fray itself. With one out, Ruth forced Joe Dugan, who had walked, and then on a hit and run play scored on Bob Meusel's two base smash to center field. It was a daring and spectacular bit of base running by the Bambino and he was accorded an ovation as he slid across the plate with the first run of the series.

Geared into action, the Yankees came back in the next inning and secured two more runs. Ward and Schang opened with singles were sacrificed along by Scott and tallied when Whitey Witt drove a whistling drive across second base that Frisch dove for, but could not stop.

Groh's single in the first inning was the only hit garnered off Hoyt when the erstwhile "busy wonder" looked upon as something of a giant nemesis "blew up" unexpectedly. Four runs clattered across before the inning ended and the entire complexion of the battle was changed.

Kelly, first, up singled sharply to center and when Gowdy walked, the Yankees held a hasty conference in an effort to settle Hoyt. Then came the real turning point of the game, a masterpiece of generalship by McGraw that gave the Giants a formidable advantage. Quick to sense Hoyt's weakening, the Giant pilot decided to retire his battery and sent Bentley, a slugger, to bat for Watson, while Maguire ran for Gowdy.

The Yankee outfield, playing back for Bentley, was caught unprepared when he popped a Texas leaguer over the infield. It fell safe and the bases were filled with the heavy artillery of the Giants in the offing. Kelly came in with the first score when Bancroft forced Gearin, who was running for Bentley. Heinie Groh followed with a booming triple down the right field line that tallied Maguire and Bancroft, tying the score and completing the downfall of Hoyt. Bush came to the rescue, but before he could retire the side Frisch shot a single to right that brought in Groh with the fourth run.

Then began the desperate fight of the Yankees to overcome the lead. Out hitting the Giants altogether by a margin of 12 to 8, they had golden opportunities to score in five of the six remaining innings, but in only one of them did they make good. That was in the seventh, when Bush, who had singled, scored on Dugan's terrific three-base clout to right that "Pep" Young juggled for a fatal few seconds. Ruth had an ideal setting when he came to bat, but though the Babe tried hard, his effort went for naught through a spectacular bit of work by "Long George" Kelly.

Ryan, cutting the corners with his sharp breaking curves, had Ruth swinging prodigiously until the big slugger caught one that whistled down the right field foul line. It was labelled a hit, but Kelly with a quick dive got his bare hand on the ball, batted it down and then with a quick throw to Snyder caught Dugan at the plate.

Kelly's sparkling play was but one of several by which the Giants turned back their rivals at threatening junctures. Twice double plays checked the rallies of the Hugmen, while twice it was the sensational work of Frank Frisch, brilliant second sacker, that averted possible disaster for the champions.

In the fourth Schang walked and after Scott fanned, Bush doubled to left. Witt bounded to Ryan, who trapped Schang off third, Groh making the put out and then doubling Witt at second base as the little Yankee outfielder tried to make an extra bag on this tap.

Ruth again entered the limelight in the fifth, when, with one out, he drove a wicked liner to left, making third in another daring exhibition of base running when Irish Meusel handled the hit slowly in the belief that the Babe would pull up at second. Bob Meusel lifted a looping fly over second base which Frisch grabbed from over his shoulder while running at top speed. Turning quickly, the Giant second sacker lined the ball to Snyder, who blocked and tagged Ruth several feet from the plate to complete the double play. Base runner and catcher both rolled to the ground.

The Yankees were retired in order in the ninth and thus concluded the first act of the drama of 1923, the drama in which McGraw, the "little Napoleon," who is seeking his third successive world's championship, triumphed over the sheer power of the Yankees and Babe Ruth—their star of stars. For, above the team play, fans are watching with intense interest the struggle between these two types—Ruth, the greatest hitter of all, the main spring of the Yankees, and McGraw, the silent, masterful tactician, juggler of baseball's tricks.

The victory incidentally was the eighth in succession gained by the Giants over their metropolitan rivals in world's series play, a streak interrupted only by the tie game of 1922. The Giants won the last three games of the 1921 title struggle to gain a margin of five out of eight games, routed their opponents in four games last year and added another triumph today. So far McGraw's is a record unparalleled in diamond annals.

The probable pitchers for the second game tomorrow are Pennock or Jones for the Yankees and Nehf or Scott for the Giants.

Will This Football Season Produce Thrills Of 1922?

OWEN'S 62 YARD RUN SPELLS DEFEAT FOR YALE

Princeton defense line. The pass was successful and the ball was returned by Gorman to midfield.

Again, in that same game, Gray, Princeton end, grabbed a Chicago fumble in midfield and ran all the way for a touchdown—while Chicago stood by paralyzed.

On Oct. 20, Fielding Yost led his Michigan team to Columbus to help Ohio state open its new mammoth stadium. State had the attack to win. They showed that early. Fumbles alone handicapped them. So Yost turned to Harry Pipke, punter and triple threat man. Kipke's true toe drove the ball out of danger every time the Wilcemen threatened. These long, ground eating punts, and State's costly fumbles, were enough to baptize the stadium with a defeat for U. S. U.

It was George Owen idol of Harvard, who started the Crimson team on the road to its 10 to 3 victory over Yale. Owen grabbed up the ball in the first period and ran 62 yards with it before a Yale defense man downed him. Three line smashes put the ball over. That touchdown was enough to blast Yale's hopes.

A score or more of equally brilliant plays punctuated the season. What will this fall produce?

His Toe May Keep Goal Line Uncrossed For Second Season

Marquette University, on the strength of its showing last season, is taking on a hard schedule this year and counts on its team, led by Capt. "Red" Dunn, going through another season with its goal line unsullied. The Milwaukee eleven will tackle the University of Vermont in Milwaukee and Boston college in Boston.

LEGION BOXERS AT OPERA HOUSE

Tonight's Indoor Program One of Fastest Yet Offered

The opera house, at Tenth and Indiana, will be the well fitted place for one of the best boxing exhibitions ever put on by the American Legion here tonight, when Jimmie Carroll of Fort Worth meets Slam Tucker of Abilene in what promises to be the class of the squared ring encounters to appear here.

Seating capacity of the new building location far surpasses the open air park formerly used, in every particular.

Carroll and Tucker are the finished type of amateur boxers. In the 150-5 pound class, they each are known to pack a punch or maybe more which will keep fans expectant. Their separate appearances before the Brownwood Legion has received recommendations as being of the highest order, and their meeting here is announced by officials to look the best.

A change in the program which should alone bring fans with an added interest is the substitution of Pat Barton for Wells of Fort Worth against Kid Snyder. Barton is the local boy who threw a sudden scare into the many Snyder backers here three weeks ago when the showed a surprising gameness and aggressiveness, against the Burkburnett flash. A scrappy battle only ended when Barton forfeited on account of an injured hand. The Wichita boy requested that he be placed on the program opposite Snyder, which desire the boxing officials readily granted. It will certainly add zest to the affair tonight.

Other scheduled bouts are ready for the bell, the Lance-Williams affair growing in interest. Lance stated last night that he was in o. k. condition and that Williams looks good for a strong go. Williams maintains that he will go strong to make up for all past accounts, it is reported.

The Andrews-Martin affair grows in proportion several ways, the 190-pound mix-up demanding a large share of attention. These big men know their stuff, much experience being had by each, and they will occupy the "biggest" part on the bill.

Legion exhibitions have recently received much commendation from visiting fans who claim that they are of better quality than many of the larger attended eastern and far western affairs.

Science Appealed To in Red River Boundary Muddle

Special to The Record News.

AAUSTIN, Tex.—Scientific investigations made in connection with the Texas-Oklahoma boundary suit are contained in a bulletin of 174 pages which has just been issued by the University of Texas. The authors are Dr. E. H. Sellards, chief geologist in the bureau of economic geology; Prof. B. C. Tharp, of the department of botany; and Dr. R. T. Hill, formerly of the University of Texas. The bulletin was published by the bureau of economic geology of the University, a special fund for charges for the maps having been provided by the board of regents. A list of maps included in the bulletin shows that 40 original maps and drawings were made by the state of Texas to illustrate testimony submitted; of these six maps and two drawings have been reproduced in the publication. Of 230 photographs submitted, 16 have been reproduced.

The boundary suit which was instituted by Oklahoma, the United States becoming intervener, was for the purpose of defining more exactly the boundary line on the Red river between Oklahoma and Texas. Although somewhat indefinitely defined by a United States and Spain, the actual treaty made in 1819 between the boundary line on the Red river had never been marked on the ground. The United States and Oklahoma claimed under this treaty all of the river valley land to the foot of the Texas bluff as a part fo the state of Oklahoma, to which Texas citizens now living on the land had no legal claim. This extension of the boundary line to the foot of the Texas bluff would have included as a part of Oklahoma valuable oil lands as well as the homes and farms of Texas citizens.

Investigations made by Texas were directed particularly to a determination of the age of the river valleys and to the habits of the river in building the valley lands. As a result of these investigations, it is shown in the bulletin that the valleys of the river are for the most part more than 100 years old, and hence war in existance 100 years ago when the treaty was made with Spain and thus are a part of the state of Texas. In the determination of the age of the river valley land evidence was obtained from the timber and plant growth in the valleys, from the thickness, diversity and character of the soils, from the methods of the accumulation of sand dunes, and from the fossil bison remains found in the valley. The habits of the river in building its valley land are likewise fully described, in the bulletin.

The decision of the supreme court rejects the "Island Building" theory advanced by the United States and Oklahoma and accepts evidence as to the methods of land building and age of the land presented by Texas. Under this decision all of the river valley lands on the Texas side including grazing and farm lands and homes remain in the state of Texas, throughout the entire course of the river, where it forms the boundary. Of the oil wells involved in the controversy the greater number including all of those located in the river valley are restored to Texas ownership while a smaller number located in the bed of the river become the property of the United States.

S. M. U. Defeats Austin College In Close Contest

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 10—Southern Methodist university snatched a victory out of a seeming tie in the last few minutes of play at Owny oval this afternoon after being battled to a standstill by Austin college's line. S. M. U. won 10 to 3. Captain Wilton Daniel raced across the goal line for the only touchdown of the game after Sidney Henry had blocked Saxon's punt on the Kangaroos' 15-yard line just before the whistle blew.

Both elevens scored field goals in the second period. Stollenwerck, then three minutes later Tuck, a substitute for the Kangaroos, booted a beautiful place kick from the 31-yard line.

CUBS WIN 1ST IN CHI. SERIES

Teddy Lyons, Former Baylor Star, Checks Rally

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The Cubs of the National league won the first game of the city series today, defeating the White Sox of the American league, 8 to 4.

Charley Robertson of "perfect game" fame, paved the way to defeat for his club in the fourth inning. With the bases filled and one out, Alexander grounded to Robertson, who threw wild to the plate in an attempt to force Friberg, before the ball could be recovered, Miller followed Friberg across the plate. The play upset the White Sox ace and Statz shot a single to center and Adams followed with a double, scoring two more runs and giving the National leaguers a commanding lead. Ted Lyons, a recruit from Baylor University, replaced Robertson and checked the rally.

Regular Indian summer weather was on hand and a crowd of 24,088, one of the largest crowds to attend an opening game at the Cubs park, witnessed the game.

The two clubs have met 10 times, the American leaguers being victorious in seven series.

Total receipts $22,845.32.
Commission's share $3,420.80.
Players' pool $11,651.11.
Each club's share $3,883.70.

The players will share in the receipts of the first four games, the winners receiving 60 per cent and the losers 40 per cent of the pool.

The scene of activities will shift tomorrow to Comiskey park, home of the American league entry.

Texans Will Attend Scottish Rite Council

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 10.—Many Texans and Oklahomans are expected here for the meeting of the supreme council, 33 degree, southern jurisdiction, Ancient and Accepted Scottish rite, in this city during the week of October 15. The Scottish Rite holds no conventions or other spectacular gatherings, and its ceremonials are always held within its tyled sanctuaries. Therefore little is known by the general public concerning its organization and activities.

The supreme council of the Scottish Rite of freemasonry, 33 degree, southern jurisdiction, whose Sec. is at Charlestown, S. C., but whose administrative offices are located at the house of the Temple, Washington, D. C., was organized in May, 1801. Owing to its priority it is known as the Mother Supreme Council of the World. Recognition by this supreme council gives unquestioned standing to the other supreme councils of the nations.

Scottish Rite supreme councils exist in the northern jurisdiction, U. S. A., Canada, England and Wales, Scotland, Ireland, France, Belgium, Brazil, Peru, Columbia, Uuuguay, the Argentine, Italy, Cuba, Mexico, Portugal, Chili, Greece, Switzerland, Egypt, Venezuela, Dominician Republic, Central America, Ecuador, The Netherlands, and Servia. In the truest sense, it is universal in its scope and work.

Supreme councils have been established in Spain, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Roumania and the Republic of Panama, but these have not yet been recognized by the southern jurisdiction.

An international council of Scottish Rite supreme councils was held at Lausanne, Switzerland, last year. The next ecumenical conference will be held in 1927 in Buenos Aires.

The 33rd degree is the governing and administrative degree, and is composed of the sovereign grand inspectors general, of whom in the southern jurisdiction there can be no more than 33. Honorary inspectors general may be elected by the supreme council on the basis of one honorary inspector general for each 250 thirty-second degree Masons.

SEYMOUR TEAM LOOKING GOOD

Baylor County Lads Will Be Serious Championship Contenders in District

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Oct. 10.—Coach Wilkerson's Seymour Zebras are looming as dangerous contenders in this section of the interscholastic league after two consecutive top-heavy wins over Olney and Fairview. The Olney affair was a 70 to 0 set-up for the Seymour club, while the Fairview contest Saturday became still more of a field meet, the Zebras piling up one touchdown on top of another for the count of 114 to 0. The playing in each event was very much like that of other strong teams as far as Seymour was concerned, the Zebras running into some stiff opposition in early minutes of play and then coming into shape with a run away for a big score.

Particularly in the Fairview game did the Zebras stick to a determination to pile high the count, and when a team is that good and tries for touchdowns with the game sewed up, then is when the championship dope begins to form.

As yet no team has been able to stop the Zebra backfield, composed of Sidden, quarter; Dixon, full; Quisenburg and Cox, halves. Siddens made the modest sum of 8 touchdowns against Fairview, the remaining trio pushing close and piling up yardage. Captain Morris, center, is going strong. The entire team shows a well balanced machine, and hope is high in Seymour for a winner.

Junior High Cubs Win a Second Game

The Junior high school Coyote Cubs emerged victors in a hard fought game with Fairview high school yesterday at Fairview, winning their second start of the season 25 to 12.

The sensation of the game was a 45-yard return of a kick-off by Quarterback Shorty Hicks of the Cubs.

Starring for Wichita Falls in scoring were Strange and Collette, backfield, and Cane, end. For Fairview Captain Stone scored both touchdowns. The only injury of the game came to Levine, half for the Cubs, who went out after a lick on the head which did not prove serious.

The other game this season for the Cubs the junior high was a 6-all tie with the newly organized Archer City team.

Personal Property Exempt From Board Ruling

AUSTIN, Texas.—County boards of equalization are powerless to add personal property to tax renditions, or to list personal property for taxation, the attorney general department ruled in an opinion given Monday to Comptroller Lon A. Smith, in answer to a question raised by Clyde Shofner, Nacogdoches county tax assessor.

Neither has the board of equalization power to summon persons to appear before it or otherwise to consider evidence for the purpose of investigating whether or not personal property should be listed or rendered for taxation, the opinion further held.

The opinion dealt only with "personal property" it was pointed out, and was raised in Nacogdoches county through employment of experts to locate notes which had not previously been rendered for taxation, it was stated.

Saghalien Rich in Oil

He describes the habits of these people, but more interesting is his statement about oil. He says petroleum is oozing out of the ground all over the northern part of the island, and that oil pools of great size are found everywhere.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—While somewhat irregular during today's earlier trading, the cotton market was generally higher and showed increasing firmness in the late afternoon on the bullish spot advices and trade buying. December contracts advanced from 27.45 to 28.02, or 52 points net higher, and closed at 27.90, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 25 to 58 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 12 points to a decline of 2 points, most months being higher on relatively firm cables. There was considerable selling at the start on reports that the gulf storm had disappeared and the favorable showing of the early weather map in other respects. This sent prices about five to eight points net lower, with October declining to 27.80 and January to 26.83. Trade interests were reported good buyers on this dip, however, and the market firmed up during the middle of the day. There was bullish comment on the showing of the weekly report of the weather bureau as to Texas and Oklahoma, and the market was also influenced on reports of a higher spot basis in the southwest.

Offerings were comparatively light late in the afternoon when October sold up to 28.30 and January to 27.45 or 45 to 67 points net higher on the general list. March and May deliveries were relatively firm. The close was a few points off from the best under realizing.

Exports today were 9,154 bales, making 1,071,414 so far this season. Port receipts 44,268. U. S. port stocks 589,626 bales.

New Orleans Cotton.

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 10.—After declines of 6 to 9 points around the opening today, it was a prolonged rise in the cotton market, with pronounced hardening of prices in the late trading when the highest levels of the day were reached here the trading positions were 58 to 66 points higher than the close of yesterday, with December up to 27.57 after having traded as low as 26.88. The close was at net gains on the session of 48 to 59 points with December sales ranging from 27.46 to 27.49.

The outstanding reasons for the late advance were reports of showers here and there over Texas and rumors that large mills in this country were heavy buyers of spot cotton. The weekly crop reports were construed very bullishly and on statements in them regarding picking and ginning being nearly completed in many important sections of the belt, the conclusion was reached that the ginning figures for the ginning period which will end with the close of business next Wednesday will be very small.

The early declines were due mainly to the better weather map than expected.

Fort Worth Livestock.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 10.—Midweek trading in the cattle division dragged considerably and buyers were bidding lower on practically all kinds, although canners and good calves sold to a fairly broad call and were generally steady. Steers lost 15@25 cents on a very dull market and on fat cows there was a loss of 10@15 cents. Bulls again sold on a steady basis. Receipts were estimated at 4,500 head of cattle and 2,000 calves. A string of cutters sold at 2.25 and a large number of canners went at 1.75. Strong canners are making 1.85 @2.00. Some choice fat cows in car lots are still making 4.50@4.75, but a range of 4.00@4.35 is catching most of the really good kinds. Fair to medium cows are selling at 3.00@3.75. Best heavy bulls are bringing 3.75 to 4.00, with an occasional sale at 4.25. Medium to good bulls are going at 3.00@3.75. The fair to medium kinds are being taken at 3.25 to 4.00. Good South Texas calves in the native yards sold up to 7.00. Most of the good heavies cleared at 5.25 and 5.85. Useful steers met with a ready demand, the best clearing around 6.00 @6.25; and the fairly good grades brought 5.00@5.50. Stocker cows sold around 2.00@2.25.

Hog receipts were more liberal than usual, the count calling for 2,500 head. Shippers and order buyers made purchases that were mostly 15 cents down, but the packer market was 15 to 25 cents lower. The shipper top was 7.85. Packers bought hogs at 7.75, but their carlot top was 7.60. They bid 7.75 for hogs that went to shippers, however, bulk sales made a range of 7.50 to 7.75. Pigs were snapped up on a steady to strong basis, the top being 7.00 with bulk sales at 6.25 to 6.57.

Steady prices were paid for sheep, several decks of good wethers clearing at 7.25. Feeder lambs were 50 to 75 cents lower, sales being made at 9.50. Receipts amounted to about 1,300 head.

MONEY At Work

Brief, but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Bonds and Investments.

Wheat wouldn't be cheaper in the long run if we abolished the exchange. It probably would be higher to the consumer, and yet the farmer would get less.

Some people will claim that if we could only do away with the exchange, prices of wheat would not be manipulated.

What would be the result if we abolished it? There would be fewer buyers and sellers.

No one could sell unless he had wheat. No one could buy unless he had a place to store it.

The first effect would be to lower prices because there would be no speculative buyers but eventually a few buyers and sellers would control the market.

It would tend towards monopoly. The farmer would get less money because he would have to sell to a few buyers. The consumer would pay more because he had to buy from a few sellers.

By abolishing the exchange we would have the very manipulation we were trying to avoid.

WHEAT MARKET TAKES UPTURN

Corn May Soon Be Selling Fraction Higher Than Wheat

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Wheat took a decided upturn in price today owing chiefly to bullish aspects of the government crop report and as a result of notable strength in the corn market. Wheat closed strong at the day's best level, 1 1-2 to 2 1-8 net higher, With December 1.09 3-4 to 1.09 7-8 and May 1 1-2 to 1.14. Corn finished 1 1-2 @1 3-4 to 4 7-8 cents up, oats at 1-2 to 7 1-8@1 cent and provisions ranging from seven cents decline to 20 cents advance.

Scarcity of current supplies of old corn became so pronounced that talk was heard as to a liklihood of corn soon selling higher than wheat, although some new corn is already being booked for early shipment to Chicago from nearby farms. Oats ascended with corn and wheat.

Improved shipping demand helped to lift the provision market.

MARKET SHOWS NEW REACTION

Temporary Strength Is Lost In the Last Hours

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Short covering operations imparted temporary strength to leading stocks in today's market but free offerings of some of the speculative favorites in the last hour brought about a general reaction.

A heavy tone was apparent in the first few minutes of trading but all offerings were well absorbed and it was not long before a moderate rally was in progress with several of the leaders selling a point or more above yesterday's final figures. The high prices, however, brought about a sharp contraction in demand which encouraged a renewal of selling operations by bear traders accounting for recessions of a point or more from the top prices in Studebaker, American Can, United States Steel and some of the railroad shares.

The most favorable development of the day was the declaration of the regular dividends on Sinclair common and preferred. Wall street had considered the possibility of the reduction or omission of the common with the result that the announcement of the dividend action brought about a sharp rally in the stock which crossed 19 and then eased to 18 7-8, up one point on the day. Other oils improved in sympathy but they were unable to maintain their gains.

This New Treatment Never Fails To End Piles

Many sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES." One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allay the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's simply wonderful how speedily they act. Blessed relief often comes in two days. Even in cases that have steadily resisted all known treatments, marvelous results have been obtained.

All druggists dispense MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES in the original box or can get it for you on short notice. Palace Drug Co. and Central Drug Co. will supply you. Mail order accepted. —Adv.

PRAISE WICHITA ROAD SYSTEM

Lions Told Local Highway System Equal to Best In Country

"Wichita Falls has the best roads in the entire southwest and comparable to those of any county in the United States," said J. D. Parnell, who addressed the Lions club at the weekly luncheon yesterday at the Kemp.

Work is beginning on roads that lead from Wichita Falls to other cities. When the present plans are worked out, there will be paved roads leading to different points in Oklahoma. The routes will lead to Oklahoma by Charlie, another through Byers, a third road from Electra north to Frederick, and number five, the Colorado to the Gulf highway which will lead to Denver. Other roads to Texas towns that will be permanent are those to Fort Worth, Seymour, Archer City, and to Mineral Wells. "Good roads will make Wichita Falls the hub and the center of population, not only in name, but in reality," declared Mr. Parnell.

In his talk to the club, Mr. Parnell told of the growth of Wichita Falls from 1918 when the city had a population of 15,000 or 16,000, and in the latter part of that year the boom came to Wichita Falls. In two years the population had reached 40,000, and in building the roads and pavements in and near the growing city, expenditures were such that the city was in debt. He urged the members to stand behind the officials who are trying to do their best for the growth of Wichita Falls.

The speaker paid a tribute to Judge R. D. Sartin whom he said was working both night and day for the growth and welfare of the city and county.

The regular luncheon of Wednesday of next week will not be held, but will give way to the Father and Son banquet which will be held Friday evening at the Kemp, 7:15 o'clock. The program for the banquet will be in charge of Rev. Lamberth Hancock.

Our little girl friend who is visiting us from Denver says, "How graciously courteous your Texas men are; in a crowded Denver office elevator no one would even think of removing his hat between floors, but I stepped into an elevator in the City National Bank building this morning, and every man's hat came off quite as a matter of course."

Orville Huffington is spending a few days at his ranch in McLean, Texas. He is expected to return Saturday or Sunday.

C. C. McDonald is returning today from Quanah where he has been on business.

Judge A. H. Carrigan is expected to return Friday from a business trip to Tulsa.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Matley left Wednesday for Dallas to visit their daughter. Mrs. M. E. Hart and attend the state fair.

BURK CITIZENS SUE FOR LARGE AMOUNT

A suit involving $20,000 began in Judge P. A. Martin's Eighty-ninth district court Wednesday with the co-operative Supply company as defendants and F. P. Gormley and others plaintiffs.

Plaintiffs allege they went into the co-operative store proposition at Burkburnett with their capital and that the store burned. They allege further they did not get benefit of their capital. They seek to find what became of the original capital invested in the concern.

Every Kind of Bag Milady Admires Now Displayed At Local Ladies' Shops

There is an innate desire in every woman to carry a bag.

It matters not whether it is 9 o'clock in the morning and she is bound for the movies, her bag may be roomy and serviceable, of the shopping variety. Perhaps she's on her way to a matinee; her bag may be of dainty brown suede in keeping with hat, gloves and shoes that make her afternoon gown. In the evening she carries one in the form of a silver silver mesh bag, delicate and shimmering. Nothing quite delights Milady like an attractive variety of bags to supplement her wardrobe.

Bags have even proven an interesting field for fads.

There are two leading models for fall wear under which new designs are classed. These two types are well represented in the local shops and will lead autumn fashions in correct bags.

One clever style that is proving immensely popular among Wichita Misses is the "Irene" beauty box. The box is usually circular and hangs suspended from a looped strap and ring. When a slide on the strap is raised one side of the box opens, disclosing mirror, puff and coin purse. The boxes are most popular in jades, reds and blues with Egyptian motifs and sides in variegated color designs, some have been developed in diamond and square shapes, but all hang from the strap and ring.

The other, a more conservative style is quite the loveliest purse model that has been introduced the past few years. It is a pleasant relief from the long run of cumbersome boxes. The purse is fashioned in almost a pouch effect with a filigree or jeweled metal top and carrying strap or self material. Suede and kid leathers in colors are used, as well as a wide variety of silks, broendes, and some attractive beaded models. One of the local stores has featured this model exclusively this past week with great success. The pouch purse is undoubtedly the last word in correct accessories.

DALLAS GOT THIS IDEA FROM WICHITA

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 10.—Boy scouts today ran Dallas for one day as the city and county fathers sat back for a smoke.

A boy judge fined a negro for misconduct. At the court house Sheriff Dan Harston did his good turn for the day by having the scout county officials as his guests at lunch. Scout Sheriff Brown declared the actual sheriff is a good sport, as he proudly displayed a sheriff's badge and fondled the six-shooter allowed him by the "regular."

Harmony and progress marked the one-day's administration.

Instruted Verdict in Eighty-Ninth

An instructed verdict for P. H. Williams in his suit against B. C. Anthalus and others for recovery of $6,000 on notes was given by Judge P. A. Martin of the Eighty-ninth district court Wednesday.

The suit had been in court several days.

Radio Messages Do Not Locate Morgan Girl

Mercedes Morgan, 14-year-old girl who disappeared from her home in Wichita Falls has not been heard from according to her mother, Mrs. Edith Morgan, at 604 Scott street.

"I have sent radio messages to six different places in Oklahoma in search for my daughter, but I received only one answer," said Mrs. Morgan Wednesday afternoon. "I have also sent her description and a story of her disappearance to Oklahoma newspapers, and no result has come from them yet."

It was reported that Mercedes Morgan was seen on the Burkburnett road about two weeks ago, but the mother does not think it was her daughter. "I do not know where she is," was Mrs. Morgan's answer to inquiry concerning the girl.

WELFARE HEAD WILL ADDRESS LOCAL BODIES

Dr. Garrie Weaver Smith, superintendent of the Girls Training school at Gainesville, will be in Wichita Falls today. She will speak at the Kemp library at 10 o'clock to the Federated Missionary society, and at 12 o'clock she will address the Rotary cclub at the noonday luncheon at the Kemp.

While she is here, Dr. Smith who is president of the Texas Conference of Social Welfare will make some arrangements for the conference which meets in this city November 4 to 7.

PALACE THEATRE
MONDAY TUESDAY OCT. 15-16
MATINEE TUESDAY

Editorial in Fort Worth Record, September 12

The married will forget their troubles and the single will avoid some of them by attending a performance of "The First Year," now playing at a local theatre. For sheer, clean, unadulterated fun, shot through and through with philosophy that the married will recognize and the single even may comprehend, the play has few rivals.

Laughter, the doctor tells us, is good for man, and woman, too, from the standpoint of health. The folks who see "The First Year" ought to come away cured of all their ills. And when common sense can be driven home with laughter you have an ideal dramatic combination.

Finally, Fort Worth will not become the amusement center of the state, will not attract to it people desiring clean entertainment, unless it can have, along with its excellent motion picture attractions, and vaudeville, "road shows" of the best sort. Fort Worth is getting them right now and if it wants to keep them, and benefit from them, it must patronize them well, and now.
