Rain breaks 55-year-old record for October total

By JANE MARLER DEES
Staff Writer

If rain would just start selling for $30 a barrel, a full-fledged boom would be back in Midland in no time.

Midland broke a 55-year monthly total rainfall record for October Friday with steady downpours pushing the rain levels over the previous 1985 record of 5.93 inches, a National Weather Service official said.

While there was no heavy flooding reported Friday, a little more than ½ inch of rain fell steadily throughout the day and night, Constantine Pashos, a NWS meteorologist said.

The Midland Police Department recorded eight minor traffic accidents Friday, though an officer said he knew of no streets being closed due to the rain.

Department of Public Safety officials reported a relatively quiet night.

We've had no streets closed, no flooding and just a couple of minor accidents that I don't know were related to the rain or not," a DPS official said.

No high school football games had to be cancelled because of the weather, but Midland High School's halftime homecoming festivities were delayed until 11 p.m. Friday evening due to the inclement weather, a school official announced.

Pashos said the rain Midland has been experiencing lately is due to a combination of factors.

A week ago we had so much rain because we were experiencing the remnants of Hurricane Paine (which hit parts of Mexico and southern California)," he said.

This week, a front has been "stalled out" over the area and moisture has accumulated on top of the front, causing all the rain, Pashos added.

Another front from the northern and central plains states is expected to breeze down this way next week, Pashos said.

If it stalls out over West Texas, we can just expect a lot more of the same."

The NWS said the clouds most likely will stay for the weekend.

Today there is a 40 percent chance of thunderstorms which should keep the high in the upper 60s.

Winds will be from the south in the earlier part of the day at 10-20 mph. In the afternoon, though, winds will come in gusty from the north at 10-20 mph.

Quake strikes San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A strong earthquake and aftershocks wrecked buildings in downtown San Salvador on Friday, and unconfirmed reports said scores of people had been killed and hundreds were injured.

Dazed residents wandered the littered streets. A young woman clutched a bleeding child to her breast as she searched for medical help.

Radio station YSU said more than 150 people were killed in the collapse of the 10-story Ruben Dario building.

Radio Cuscatlan said about 45 people were known dead, including at least 30 youths whose bodies were found in two schools. Other schools were reportedly damaged as well. The radio also said hundreds of people were injured.

The casualty reports could not be confirmed immediately, and there was no official toll. El Salvador's capital was almost completely cut off from the rest of the country and the world.

Vacationing Americans Robert Annadle and his wife Pam Ascanio, who were inside a pizza parlor when the initial jolt hit, said the tremor damaged Bloom Children's Hospital across the street.

"They were digging out from the hospital kids, babies," said Ms. Ascanio of Rockledge, Fla. "I helped carry a dead baby."

"We were the only ones who got out of the pizza parlor when it was happening. The roof fell," she said.

Some buildings were reduced to rent and twisted steel, and officials said other buildings in this city of 800,000 people might collapse later. President Jose Napoleon Duarte, speaking on Radio El Salvador, urged citizens to stay away from damaged buildings and appealed for calm.

Duarte said damage was confined to the capital area. Earlier radio reports said there was also damage in the western province of Santa Ana and in the eastern departments of Usulutan and San Miguel.

Volunteers dug in the rubble toward victims trapped in a San Salvador store where a five-story building collapsed.

Helicopters ferried the injured to hospitals, which were reportedly filled with quake victims. Ernesto Ferreiro, spokesman for the Salvadoran Red Cross, said about 200 people sought shelter or treatment for injuries at the organization's headquarters alone.

"Within five minutes after the quake we were filled," he said.

Gorbachev urges 'serious, decisive' action on arms control

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — President Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev made final preparations Friday for their weekend summit, with Gorbachev urging "serious and decisive action" on arms control and Reagan readying an offer to limit nuclear weapons testing.

On the eve of their second summit, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said that Reagan was ready to seek Senate ratification of two long-pending treaties limiting nuclear tests, if the Soviets agree on verification procedures.

Speakes revealed Reagan's plan not long after the president cleared a potentially hazardous superpower negotiating hurdle with successful long-distance negotiations with Congress on several arms control disputes.

Acknowledging that the new administration proposal doesn't substantially alter U.S. policy on nuclear testing, Speakes said it gives both countries "more impetus toward reaching agreement on verification, which has been a sticking point."

Gorbachev and Reagan did not cross paths Friday, but each spoke optimistically of prospects for reaching some understandings here.

Gorbachev, on his arrival, said he was ready to join the United States in a quest to "remove the threat of nuclear war." Reagan, asked by reporters about the Soviet leader's remarks, replied, "I hope their hopes are realized."

The Soviets, who are pressing for the United States to join them in their unilateral moratorium on all nuclear tests, have never formally responded to Reagan's proposals on the verification problem.

Speakes said Friday that Reagan would tell Gorbachev that he would submit longstanding nuclear test-limiting treaties for Senate ratification as "the first order of business" when the new Congress convenes in January.

But a White House statement said if the Soviets don't approve acceptable new verification technology, Reagan will reserve the right to block the treaties.

"We are prepared to seek solutions to the most critical problems that worry people and, most of all, those solutions that would remove the threat of nuclear war," Gorbachev said.

The Communist Party chief added that he will go to his meeting with Reagan with a sense of responsibility for the fate of the world, and he expressed hope that Reagan shares that view.

"We believe that the time has come for action, serious and decisive action," Gorbachev said, adding that he wants to to reduce the threat of war in order to "allow us to get down to business on disarmament questions."

Man damages cases with Constitution, U.S. Bill of Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man wielding a hammer damaged the glass-encased display of the U.S. Constitution and the Bill of Rights at the National Archives on Friday, but the documents were not damaged, authorities said.

The man, identified as Randall Husar, 36, of Fort Collins, Colo., was wrestled to the ground after striking the display twice and told guards "America is an imperialistic country" before he was arrested, said archives spokeswoman Jill Brett.

The documents, sealed under airtight glass in a bronze and marble case, were not touched, she said.

"The glass, only one of several materials protecting the documents, was broken," Mrs. Brett said. "Neither the other protective layers nor the documents were harmed. The documents are sealed in cases which are beneath this structure and were in no way affected."

The yellowed original of the 199-year-old Constitution and the 194-year-old Bill of Rights were immediately lowered into a security vault.

Archives officials expect the documents to be returned to the public viewing in a few days, the spokeswoman said.

Husar was charged with destruction of federal property, said officials of the Federal Protective Service, which guards government buildings.

Husar's mother, Evelyn, contacted in Fort Collins, said her son, who has suffered from mental illness, left home about a week ago heading for Valley Forge, Pa. She said he is a history buff with degree in psychology.

Husar had been taking medication for six years but stopped 18 months ago, said Sam Farrar, a family friend in Fort Collins.

"Randy was always for the government, although he didn't like the Republicans," Farrar said. "He was a strong supporter of the government."

The attack happened as the room displaying various historic documents opened to the public at 10 a.m. EDT.

Mrs. Brett said the attacker apparently carried the 16-ounce claw hammer under his heavy jacket past guards when the building opened. The only other people in the area were a busload of tourists.

Snelson: It's imperative to develop oil reserves

By JANE MARLER DEES
Staff Writer

Snelson

It was a nostalgic Friday afternoon for congressional hopeful Pete Snelson as he returned to the place he said gave him his start in public service.

Addressing the weekly Midland Jaycees luncheon at the Midland Hilton, Snelson told the group of young men and women that the Midland Jaycees — all men at the time — had told him to run for the Texas House of Representatives in 1960.

Snelson, a past recipient of the Clayton Frost Award for outstanding Jaycee state president in the nation, said "service to humanity is the best work of life."

"Never in the history of Texas has the need been so great for us to join and work for Texas and its future," Snelson said.

Speaking on what he said was the agenda for the nation, Snelson said it is imperative area oil reserves are developed or all can expect to remain at the mercy of foreign oil suppliers.

Without the stabilizing force of a national energy policy to get exploration going, we'll be in trouble if we suddenly need fuel for our tanks and airplanes in a time of a national crisis," Snelson said.

Snelson said agricultural subsidies — which increased from $3 billion to $31 billion in the past five years — may not be the answer to curing the farming industries in the area which have been hit just as hard.

"We're unable to sell our own commodities.

"Take Brazil. We lend money to Brazil, they subsidize their own orange growers and then turn around and sell orange juice cheaper to America than the American farmers can.

"We are subsidizing our own demise," Snelson explained.

The future lies in education and research, Snelson said.

He said oil and gas will no longer be the pillar of the economy, and pointed a hopeful finger in the direction of the study of biotechnology — making products out of living things.

"The federal government last year handed out a total of $36 billion in educational grants," Snelson said, but added that Texas universities got only a little less than $3 million.

Authorities conduct 'designer' drug bust

By JANE MARLER DEES
Staff Writer

The game played Friday night between Sheriff Gary Painter and suspected drug dealers was not rained out. Painter won 2-0.

A "designer" drug bust occurred at 6:45 p.m. Friday night, Midland County Sheriff's Department investigator Alex Nava said.

"We executed a narcotics search warrant issued by Judge (Robert) Pine tonight and confiscated 18 pills," Nava said.

The pills are called "ecstasy" on the street, Nava said, and have effects similar to an amphetamine.

"They make you go fast," Nava said referring to the side effects of the drug.

Nava said two white men believed to be in their 20s were arrested at an apartment complex at 1907 Tarleton St.

"One man will be charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver and the other man will be charged with possession of a controlled substance," Nava said.

Nava said arraignment should take place on Monday.

Ecstasy, chemically referred to as methlenedioxymethamphetamine, is a big problem in Midland, Nava said.

DRUGS

"It's the designer drug of the day and its availability is really out in the open.

"We've been working hard on this (curbing supplies)," Nava said.

Two drugs similar to ecstasy have hit the streets of Midland as well — "Eve" and "Heaven" — but are not yet illegal, Nava said.

"They haven't been put on a controlled substance schedule yet," Nava said.

Through a complicated-sounding process, a substance is put on a "schedule" which groups it into a penalty category, Nava said.

This category is set depending on the drug's potency for addiction as well as its medical use, if any, Nava said.

While Nava didn't have the information at the time to say what penalty group ecstasy was in, he said it was not classified in the group with heroin or LSD, because in the past, there had been medical uses of the drug equivalent to the street drug called ecstasy.

Another drug bust took place earlier Friday afternoon, Sue Rudy, a sheriff's department investigator said.

"We arrested a black male, 62, at his residence on East Texas Avenue," Ms. Rudy said.

He was arrested for misdemeanor possession of marijuana and preludes (an amphetamine-like substance) and for felony possession of cocaine, Ms. Rudy said.

The man has not been arraigned yet nor has bond been set, Ms. Rudy said.

West German official assassinated

BONN, West Germany (AP) — A masked assassin shot a senior official of the West German Foreign Ministry late Friday as he returned home from work, police said. A leftist terror group claimed responsibility.

Gerold von Braunmuehl, director of the ministry's Political Department, was shot and killed after he emerged from a taxi outside his home Friday evening, a Bonn police spokesman said.

Braunmuehl had been one of Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher's closest colleagues for years, ministry spokesman Juergen Chrobog said.

A seven-page letter found at the scene claimed the Revolutionary Front of Western Europe, commando Ingrid Schubert, was responsibile for the slaying, a police spokesman told The Associated Press. No information about the group was available immediately.

But a spokesman for the chief federal prosecutor said the letter was considered authentic and that the leftist terror group Red Army Faction was responsible. "Everything indicates that the attackers are underground members of the RAF (Red Army Faction)," said Alexander Prechtel, spokesman for the office in Karlsruhe.

Police said Braunmuehl and the taxi driver had gone to the trunk of the car to get Braunmuehl's briefcase when the gunman opened fire.

The man fired two shots and when Braunmuehl and the taxi driver started to run, fired at least two more times, the spokesman said.

"Braunmuehl died there of his injuries," police spokesman Helmut Engelke said.

The taxi driver, who was unhurt, saw a second person driving the getaway car, a red Opel, the police spokesman said. "We have no trace of them," Engelke said.

Braunmeuhl had left the Foreign Ministry at about 9:15 p.m. (4:15 p.m. EDT) in the taxi and the shooting happened a few minutes later, the police spokesman said.

Braunmuehl, about 50 years old, was one of the most important and respected officials of the Foreign Ministry, Chrobog said.

The ministry's Political Department is one of the largest, handling basic foreign policy questions such as European unity and relations with the United States, the Soviet Union and the United Nations.

Braunmuehl had been Genscher's personal office director until 1980 when he was re-assigned to East European section, said Klaus-Peter Gottwald, also a Foreign Ministry spokesman. He had been in his current job for about a year.

Genscher went to the scene of the crime and also spoke with Braunmuehl's wife, he said.

Genscher "learned of this new, brutal attack of political terrorism with consternation," Chrobog said.

The office of chief federal prosecutor Kurt Rebmann was called in to begin an investigation, police said.

The slaying was the latest in a string of suspected Red Army Faction attacks in recent months, including the July 9 assassination of Siemens company executive Karl Heinz Beckhurts and bomb blasts at several government buildings in August and September.

Ms. Schubert was one of the original members of the Red Army Faction, police said. She was arrested in 1970 and sentenced to six years in jail for attempted murder. Several bank robberies were later traced to her, and she was sentenced to another 13 years.

She hung herself in her prison cell on Nov. 12, 1977 in Munich, four weeks after three other members of the group, Andreas Baader, Gudrun Ensslin and Jan-Carl Raspe, committed suicide in their cells in Stuttgart's Stammheim prison.

Another convicted terrorist, Ulrike Meinhof, had been found dead in prison in May 1976, in circumstances that were never made clear. Red Army Faction sympathizers claim she was murdered.

Baader and Ms. Meinhof founded the group, which originally was known by their names and later became the Red Army Faction. It has attacked American and West German military, government, business and industrial leaders and installations since the late 1960s.

Ms. Schubert was one of four armed terrorists who freed Baader in May 1970 when he was serving a prison term for setting fire to a department store.

The terrorists stormed into a Berlin social sciences institute where authorities had allowed Baader to do research. They seriously wounded an institute employee and fled with Baader.

Police later captured both Baader and Ms. Schubert.

QUAKES

Some high-rise buildings sunk into the ground, and glass remnants hung in their window frames. Streets were strewn with downed power lines and broken glass.

Associated Press engineer Gerardo Luis Martinez and AP reporter Annie Cabrera were on the fourth floor of the Antel international communications building about a half-mile west of downtown when the first quake hit.

"At that moment...part of the building sank about 16 inches and I was left on the high part," Luis Martinez said. "The electricity went off immediately and the only thing I could say was, 'let's run out of here.'"

Shanties of tin and wood collapsed in slum areas but wealthy neighborhoods in the hills appeared to have escaped undamaged. Army units and the national police were deployed to control crowds and prevent looting.

Both the presidential palace and the national palace, which houses government offices, were reported damaged. A statue of Christopher Columbus outside the national palace was beheaded.

Jesus Fernandez, Costa Rican ambassador in San Salvador, was quoted by Radio Cuscatlan as saying the bodies of at least 30 young people were taken from the Santa Catalina school and another school. The broadcast was monitored in neighboring Honduras.

Military sources said the bodies of 15 children were pulled from a school in southeastern San Salvador. It was not clear whether the 15 were among the 30 youths reported dead by Radio Cuscatlan.

Radio station YSU said in a report heard in Bogota, Colombia, that at least 150 people died in the collapse of the Ruben Dario office building, which also housed a movie theater.

Maria Jimenez, who identified herself as a resident of the Satelite neighborhood of southeastern San Salvador, told a radio station in Honduras she saw at least nine bodies and that other people were injured. Another caller, who did not give his name, said many areas of San Salvador were without electricity and that roads were cracked.

An official from the Salvadoran Health Ministry said many injured were being admitted to hospitals. He made an urgent call for doctors and nurses to report immediately.

Patients lay on mattresses in the parking lot of the Social Security Hospital.

Radio Cuscatlan said wounded soldiers were evacuated from a military hospital in San Salvador to make room for civilians. The soldiers were apparently casualties of El Salvador's seven-year-old civil war.

The U.S. Geological Survey said an earthquake measuring 5.4 on the Richter scale, centered about 10 miles northwest of San Salvador, struck at 1:49 p.m. EDT, 11:49 a.m. Salvadoran time. At least seven or eight aftershocks were felt in San Salvador over the next three hours.

According to the Guatemalan Seismological Station in Guatemala City, a second tremor registered 4.5 and struck at 2:04 p.m. followed by one measuring 4.9 at 3:27 EDT and another at 3:42 EDT.

Peter McPherson, administrator for the U.S. Agency for International Development, said in Washington that a disaster assistance team was on its way to El Salvador. He said the United States also will send tents, blankets and a 12-person medical team from Panama.

The government convened the National Emergency Committee, and Duarte met with U.S. Ambassador Edwin Corr to assess the damage.

EFE said Salvadoran radio stations reported the movie theater, a high school, the Hotel San Salvador and some buildings across from the U.S. Embassy had collapsed.

Fernandez, the Costa Rican ambassador, told Radio Cuscatlan that two buildings at the National University caught fire, but firemen quickly extinguished the blazes.

The U.S. Embassy was closed and operations transferred to Corr's home, said a State Department spokesman in Washington. Damage to the city and the presidential palace was "substantial" and the streets were impassable, spokesman Teddy Taylor said.

Americans working at the embassy were not hurt, he said. He said he had no estimate of casualties.

The Associated Press was forced to evacuate its office in the Camino Real hotel after government officials said it was unsafe. There were severe cracks on the upper floors of the hotel. The initial jolt sent television sets flying across rooms in the building.

The Guatemalan Seismological Station said the quakes were felt in Guatemala City as well, although there were no reports of damage in that neighboring country.

SUMMIT

Asked if he and Gorbachev could do business, Reagan replied, "We're going to find out."

Gorbachev, wearing an overcoat, plaid scarf and his trademark fedora, stepped from a Soviet Aeroflot jet into a brisk chill on this wind-swept island nation, followed by his wife, Raisa, and top Soviet officials.

Standing on a red carpet at the foot of the plane ramp, where local officials had waited 20 minutes past schedule for the Soviet leader's somewhat tardy aircraft, Gorbachev delivered a short, extemporaneous speech into a television reporter's hand-held microphone.

Reagan spent most of the day meeting privately with his top foreign policy advisers at the home of U.S. Ambassador Nicholas Ruwe, who turned his official residence over to Reagan for the weekend summit.

After meetings and lunch with his advisers, Reagan paid a courtesy call Friday afternoon on Iceland's president, Vigdis Finnbogadottir at her bayside residence, a medieval manor on the outskirts of the city.

Reagan's offer to submit the nuclear testing treaties for ratification if the Soviets meet certain conditions apparently was an attempt to deflect the propaganda advantage gained by the Soviets' unilateral imposition of a comprehensive nuclear test ban.

That ban has been in effect for more than a year, and Gorbachev has repeatedly urged the United States to join it. But the administration has refused on the grounds that it needs to continue to test weapons to maintain a strong national defense.

In Washington, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said he shared Reagan's satisfaction that the administration and congressional Democrats had substantially narrowed their differences on arms control strategy.

O'Neill, who led the Democratic struggle for restrictions on Reagan's arms control policies, acknowledged that he gave ground because Congress "cannot sit at the bargaining table in Iceland."

O'Neill said he told Reagan by telephone, "Bring back something solid and strong, and the American people will be proud of you."

"The dispute threatened to give General Secretary Gorbachev the false impression of a divided America," Speakes said. "We are satisfied that the agreement with Congress puts Congress and the president on the same wave-length in dealing with the Soviet Union. We enjoy a unified support as we go into this."

Gorbachev has sought to make the testing issue a centerpiece of his two days of talks with Reagan, but he did not specifically raise the point upon his arrival in Iceland.

Also, the leaders of Iceland went ahead with the tradition-laden opening of the 1,056-year-old Parliament, although Prime Minister Steingrimur Hermannsson said they regretted having been put into the position of doing that.

He said "it is unfortunate" that Gorbachev and his party did not revise their travel plans so that the Soviet leader's arrival at Keflavik airport would not have conflicted with the opening of the "Althing," the world's oldest legislative body.

"The Althing comes first," Hermannsson said, noting that Foreign Minister Matthias A. Mathiasen was dispatched to greet Gorbachev in his stead.

DEATHS

Bessie Stump

Services for Bessie Stump of Midland were to be today at 3:30 p.m. at the Ellis Chapel with James Bearden officiating. Burial was to follow at Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were to be Oscar Fegett, Button Estes, Alan Barron, Fred Roberts, Randall Stump, and Danny Pinkerton.

Pallbearers will be Gilbert Martinez Jr., Johnny Costilla, Jesse Carrasco, Artero Reyes, Chris Rodriguez and Henry Valenzuela.

Melvin Flagle Jr.

FORT WORTH — Services for Melvin McHenry Flagle Jr. of Fort Worth will be held today at 11 a.m. under the direction of the Robinson Mueller Harper Funeral Home in Fort Worth.

Flagle died Thursday in Fort Worth after a long illness.

He was retired from the land department of the T.P. Cole Oil Co. in Fort Worth and had been a founding member of the Fort Worth Petroleum Club.

He is survived by his wife, Dell Perkins Flagle, Fort Worth; a son, M.M. Flagle III, Tyler; a daughter Karen Medley, Lipan; two grandsons and four granddaughters.

The family requests that memorials be made to the American Heart Association.

Jolie Roberts

Jolie Renee Roberts, daughter of Steve and Randi Roberts of Midland, died Wednesday in a Dallas hospital.

Services were to be today at 11:30 a.m. at the First Baptist Church with Dr. Daniel Vestal, pastor, officiating. Arrangements are being handled through Ellis Funeral Home.

Jolie was born Nov. 11, 1981, in Midland. She attended Sunday school at the First Baptist Church and attended Grace Presbyterian Day Care Center.

Survivors include her parents; two sisters, Brandi D'Ann Roberts and Jaime Rochelle Roberts, both of Midland; and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rudolph Wright of Midland.

Snelson said Texas needs to put educational research high on the agenda for the future.

Snelson later answered questions from the floor and one concerned him falling prey to a "Gramm-Hance" syndrome — going into office a Democrat and coming back a Republican — or instead, ending up "towing the liberal Democratic line."

"One will always have pressure on him; it's just up to the backbone of the individual.

"Kent Hance was an effective Democrat. He changed parties to run for governor," Snelson said.

"A man can be effective and not compromise his principles," Snelson said.

DOCUMENTS

"Apparently, when he got near the exhibition he vaulted the ropes and took two hits at the case. By that time he was on the ground," said Mrs. Brett.

The Constitution is the original copy that was signed by 39 members of a constitutional convention in Philadelphia in 1787, soon after the birth of the United States of America and four years after the end of the American Revolution.

The signers included Benjamin Franklin, Alexander Hamilton and James Madison, who wrote the Bill of Rights, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution carrying guarantees of such basic American rights as freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of religion.

The National Archives displays only the first and last pages of the four-page document. The middle pages are kept in a vault.

Guards at the door of the building check packages and handbags, but do not frisk visitors and there are no metal detectors at the public entrance, Mrs. Brett said.

Police investigate two robberies

From Staff Reports

Midland Police Department had its fair share of minor traffic accidents all over the city Friday, but luckily, reports showed none were major and there were no injuries.

The rain kept burglars in as well, Friday.

Police reports show that about an hour after noon Friday, an $800 air conditioner was stolen from a window in the home of Wayne Martin, 1306 Keith St.

Later Friday, a video cassette recorder of unknown value was taken from the J.C. Penney store at 4511 Midkiff.

Committee member offers plan to close two black state universities

STATE

AUSTIN (AP) — A member of the Select Committee on Higher Education offered a long-range plan Friday to close two historically black state universities and convert the University of Houston's downtown campus into a community college.

"Texas Southern University, UH-Downtown and Prairie View A&M are perpetuating segregation, and the time is fast approaching over the next 10-20 years where this should be eliminated," George Mitchell of Houston said in a report to a select committee task force.

He said consideration should be given to "eventually phasing out" TSU and Prairie View. UH-Downtown "should be phased out and converted to the flagship of a new community college system," according to Mitchell.

Committee member Wilhelmina Delco, a state lawmaker from Austin, said some of Mitchell's recommendations show an "effort to remove some of the individuality of state universities.

"We ought to be able to accommodate different strokes for different folks," she said.

Ms. Delco said efforts should be made to "develop" TSU and Prairie View "rather than abandon them."

"I am disturbed by the perception that the only reason they have for being there is to perpetuate segregation. I think they were created necessarily for that purpose, but I don't think they need to be, in the future, those kinds of institutions," Ms. Delco said.

The panel is working on recommendations that will be forwarded to the full select committee.

Mitchell also said North Texas State University and Texas Woman's University, both in Denton, "will be consolidated over a period of years, and the University of Texas Arlington and UT-Dallas may be combined."

Overall, Mitchell said the state's higher education system has "several serious flaws that must be corrected."

His recommendations came in a Senate chamber packed with Texas Woman's University supporters. Ten busloads of TWU backers, students and staff came to Austin to fight any proposal to close or merge their school. The select committee is trying to determine whether merging TWU and NTSU would save money without hurting programs.

TWU President Shirley Chater said TWU must remain a separate entity in order to preserve the "individual touch approach" it now uses.

FBI to continue investigation of Clements' bugging

AUSTIN (AP) — FBI agent Bryan Sage said Friday his office is continuing its investigation of the electronic bug found in the office of Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements' campaign consultant.

"We are continuing our intereviews in cooperation with the Department of Public Safety," said Sage. "We have nothing to report. There are not really any earth shaking developments."

Sage said earlier the FBI would not release results of tests that had been performed on the device.

An electronic sweep of the Austin office of Karl Rowe, top strategist for Clements, discovered the matchbook-sized radio transmitter behind a picture near Rowe's desk telephone.

The discovery was made by investigators hired by the Clements campaign.

The FBI and DPS have been attempting to determine when and who placed the electronic transmitter in the office.

Hobby turns can collecter into connoisseur

LIBERTY CITY (AP) — Collecting beer cans can barrel out of control if you're not careful, according to beer can connoisseur Andy Guinn.

"It might start off with you collecting all kinds of different brands of beer cans. Then you might start specializing and collecting only one particular brand.

"Then there are all the other things that get involved. Like the beer coasters, post cards, glasses, steins, can openers, bottles, advertisements, posters, salt and pepper shakers," Guinn said. "I've even got neon signs."

Guinn, of Liberty City, started collecting all types of beer cans around 10 years ago, he said. Then, about four years ago, he started collecting only beer cans made in Texas. Two years ago he started collecting only Schlitz cans because "I started running out of space. I had to specialize and I chose Schlitz because the majority of Schlitz cans have dates on them. They dated their cans until 1976."

According to Guinn, Schlitz was the only brewery that had a thorough dating system. "Another reason I chose Schlitz was because you can collect Schlitz cans without spending a lot of money, since they were the top seller for so long."

Guinn has beer cans that range in value from 25 cents to $700. Included in his collection is the first version of Schlitz Lager ever made. The can, which sells for $200, was found in the attic of an old hotel in Illinois, Guinn said. The can is yellow and brown and has the words "Scientific Sanitary Safe" written in small letters on the side, while "Sunshine Vitamin D" is printed in bold letters on the front.

An employee of an Australian based oil company, Guinn is especially proud of a 16-ounce Burgermeister can made in Longview. "You see, Burgermeister is a west coast brewery that Schlitz bought out in the early 1960s. They say that Bergermeister was never made except in California, yet I have a Burgermeister can with a Longview label on it. It's a pre-1966 can."

Guinn also has a 16-ounce Schlitz can made in Longview between 1966 and 1968 before 16-ounce cans could be sold in Texas. "They made them and shipped them out. I found this one in Hot Springs, Ark.," said Guinn, who also has a 10-ounce Schlitz can never sold in Texas but made in Longview. "I found that one in Ohio.

The first beer can ever made is a Krueger's Special Beer with the date 10-15-33 scratched on the top. In January 1935 Krueger Finest Beer became the first beer can ever marketed. Schlitz produced the first cone-top can in the summer of 1935, according to Guinn. "Schlitz was the first to put beer in 16-ounce cans in 1954," Guinn said.

"In 1956 they were the first to put beer in 24-ounce cans. Schlitz was the first to have the flat top and easy-to-open super-soft top cans in 1960. In 1962, they were the first to use the pop-top can."

Stone cutter's job done by method of past

By NANCY PERDUE

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Members of the construction crew working on the expansion project at First Presbyterian Church downtown have their work cut out for them. But it is Sonny Valenzuela who is doing the cutting.

Valenzuela, 22, practices a craft that seldom is performed today during a time of manufacturing sophistication. He cuts stone by hand for bricklayers to insert into the building facade.

"I like it because it builds me up," Valenzuela said, talking over the hum of his electric handsaw. "You get a lot of exercise. You use your legs, your arms and your back. It builds muscles."

While the job has physical benefits, it also carries some health risks as the former Kennedy High School student quickly learned during the six weeks he has been doing his craft.

Each large chunk of limestone he carves weighs about 35 pounds, the rock crumbles easily, and it produces a lot of dust when cut.

"I have to be careful so I won't drop the stone on my foot and have to be off work," he said. "The dust used to bother me when I started. It gave me a rash. But you get used to it."

Valenzuela said he has been involved in construction work since he was 15 years old, but his job on the church project is the first in which a stone cutter has been needed. He said most of the time rock is cut for decorative purposes.

But, he said, the toughest part of his job was learning how to move the stones without chipping them. The rocks can not be used unless their surfaces are cut perfectly.

It took a lot of practice, but Valenzuela said he finally concluded the easiest way to make uniform cuts is to mark the rock before sawing to prevent too much limestone from being chiseled away. And he tries to pile his finished stones in such a manner that they can not bump against each other.

Meanwhile, he said he thinks his work has turned out rather well and is beginning to look spiffy as each stone is cemented into its place in the church wall.

"This building will be here for a long time," he said. "It makes me feel proud that I had a part in building it."

Dead fish

Hundreds of thousands of surf-zone fish killed by a spreading red tide were found dead Friday along 5½ miles of the National Seashore in Corpus Christi. The intensity of the red tide is diminishing at Malaquite Beach, but it's continuing to spread down the coast, said Park Ranger Max Hancock.

Professor says Lockshin used to be recruiter for U.S. Communist Party

HOUSTON (AP) — Arnold Lockshin, who defected to the Soviet Union with his family, is a competent scientist who for years was involved in leftist politics including a stint as a Communist Party recruiter, a retired professor said.

Robert Burris, a biochemistry professor emeritus at the University of Wisconsin where Lockshin studied, disputed statements that the cancer researcher's job performance had been declining.

"The guy is not incompetent," Burris said. "Why don't you ask Dr. John Stehlin why he was happy to co-author five papers with him?"

Lockshin worked for Stehlin at the St. Joseph Hospital Laboratory for Cancer Research, the research facility for the Stehlin Foundation.

"He was not a wild-haired scream-ing individual," Burris said. "He was a rational guy — he just had different ideas than the rest of us."

Burris gave telephone interviews with The Houston Post and the Houston Chronicle Thursday.

He said he directed Lockshin's master's thesis and doctoral dissertation at Wisconsin during the early 1960s and corresponded with him after that.

As a graduate student, Lockshin showed an interest in leftist politics and went to Cuba at a time when Americans were barred from traveling there, Burris said.

"He was very sympathetic to left-wing causes so he got into extreme arguments with other fellows in the laboratory," Burris said.

Lockshin left Madison to become national secretary of the Anti-H.U.A.C. Committee at Harvard University, Burris said. The group opposed the House Un-American Activities Committee which investigated leftist groups and individuals during the 1950s and 1960s.

Lockshin later sent Burris a Christmas card in the early 1970s announcing he had become a full-time recruiter for the Communist Party in Cleveland, Burris said.

Then he decided this was sort of a rough racket, recruiting for the Communists in the U.S., so he decided to go back to science, according to the retired professor.

Lockshin returned to cancer research, working at the University of Southern California from 1977 to 1980, when he came to Houston.

Shootout ends with arrest of smuggling suspect

EL PASO (AP) — A shootout between federal authorities and smugglers across the Rio Grande ended with the seizure of 227 pounds of marijuana and the arrest of one Mexican national, an official said Friday.

There were no known injuries, said Charles Conroy, public affairs director for the Southwest region of the U.S. Customs Service in Houston.

Santos Estrada Alvarado, 22, of Chihuahua City, Mexico, was arrested after the confrontation between two Customs agents and nine suspected smugglers at a point of the Rio Grande east of Fabens, a small farming community near El Paso, Conroy said.

The two Customs agents were on a routine surveillance of the area at about 8:30 p.m. Thursday when they spotted nine people wading across the Rio Grande into the United States, he said.

Five were carrying large bundles and four were spread out, acting as lookouts and guards, said Conroy. The two agents on foot moved in and all of them (smugglers) fled towards Mexico.

Jewish protesters disrupt Soviet speakers

WORLD

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Jewish protesters disrupted a Soviet event Friday as American Jewish leaders flew in to "stand behind" President Reagan on human rights issues.

Despite the Icelandic government's initial appeals to demonstrators to stay away, about 50 were in Reykjavik, and a propaganda struggle was evident between Soviet officials trying to present the new face of Russia under the leadership of General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev, and Jewish campaigners trying to keep the spotlight on human rights abuses.

Six Soviet officials on a panel at Reykjavik's Saga Hotel were telling Western journalists about economic reforms and the greater freedom of the media since Gorbachev became the Soviet leader last year.

They fielded some tough questions on human rights, but abruptly ended the discussion when Jews in the audience held up signs urging the release from the Soviet Union of their relatives.

Igor Tufeld, who emigrated to Israel in 1977, asked whether his parents, Vladimir and Izolda Tufeld, could leave the Soviet Union in keeping with the 1975 Helsinki agreement calling for reuniting divided families.

Samuel Zivs, a Soviet attorney who fielded most of the human rights questions, replied: "I do not believe that your case is an example of a reunion. It is a case of division. When you left the Soviet Union, you left your parents and created the situation."

The exchange was unusual because critics of Kremlin policy rarely get a chance to confront senior officials in the Soviet Union, and this is the main reason why they come to summits like these.

They usually get themselves accredited as reporters, to the annoyance of some journalists who feel it compromises their profession. The dissidents say they have no other way of getting their directly before senior Soviet officials.

The Soviets curtailed the panel discussion after an hour, when Tufeld and other Jewish emigres brandished for TV cameras photographs of relatives unable to leave the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, Mikhail Shirman, a Soviet Jewish emigre dying of leukemia, said he still had no news on whether his sister had won permission to bring her husband with her on a trip to Israel to give him a bone marrow transplant.

At an emotionally charged news conference, Shirman said he had come to Reykjavik hoping to see Soviet officials, including Gorbachev, "the man who is murdering me."

He said his sister, Inessa Flerov, had permission to emigrate, but her husband Viktor could not leave with her unless his 75-year-old father signed a waiver of financial debt.

If she left without him, she might never see him again, said Shirman, who is almost completely bald at 35 from anti-cancer treatment. "And I would never agree to save my own life at the cost of my sister's family's destruction," he said.

Shirman said the father was afraid to sign the waiver in case Soviet authorities took reprisals.

"I would like Mr. Gorbachev to call the father and say, 'Don't be afraid, nothing will happen to you if you sign the paper allowing your son to leave,'" Shirman said.

Yosef Mendelevich, who spent 11 years in Soviet prisons for Zionist activities and now lives in Israel, said police had allowed him and his group to conduct traditional prayers today near the Saga Hotel, where many members of the Soviet delegation are staying.

He said he also planned to lead a demonstration on Sunday.

Mendelevich said police refused a request to hold prayers near the Hofdi, the bayside house where Reagan and Gorbachev will begin their talks today.

Meanwhile, an eight-member delegation of Jewish leaders from the United States flew in for a day to hold a news conference. At the session, they declared their confidence in Reagan's willingness to raise human rights issues with Gorbachev.

Morris B. Abrams, the senior Jewish community representative in the United States, said in a prepared statement that Reagan and his team in Reykjavik were "the best-prepared and most motivated group who have ever met with top Soviet representatives on this issue."

The group represents the National Conference on Soviet Jewry, and Abram heads the Conference of Presidents of Major Jewish Organizations.

Abrams said the conference had handed Admiral John Poindexter, head of the National Security Council, a list of 11,000 Jews refused permission to emigrate.

Asked whether Poindexter promised to hand over the list to the Soviets at the summit, Abram said: "They did not say that explicitly, but the implication was clear."

Tutu to allow blacks picnic on his grounds

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu has invited parishioners in black townships to use the extensive grounds around his home in a white area for picnics.

Tutu, installed last month as the first black head of the Anglican church in southern Africa, lives in a white area because that is where the archbishop's residence is located. He does not need a permit, as most blacks do, to live in a white area.

Tutu said in opening a synod of the diocese that township residents who couldn't easily get into the countryside should use the grounds at Bishop's Court for picnics and outings.

He said township children would be given swimming lessons at the swimming pool at his residence.

Tutu criticized the government's actions this week which banned foreign funding of the United Democratic Front, the largest anti-apartheid coalition, and barred further hiring of Mozambicans. Mozambique's government was said to have allowed African National Congress guerrillas to operate across the border into South Africa.

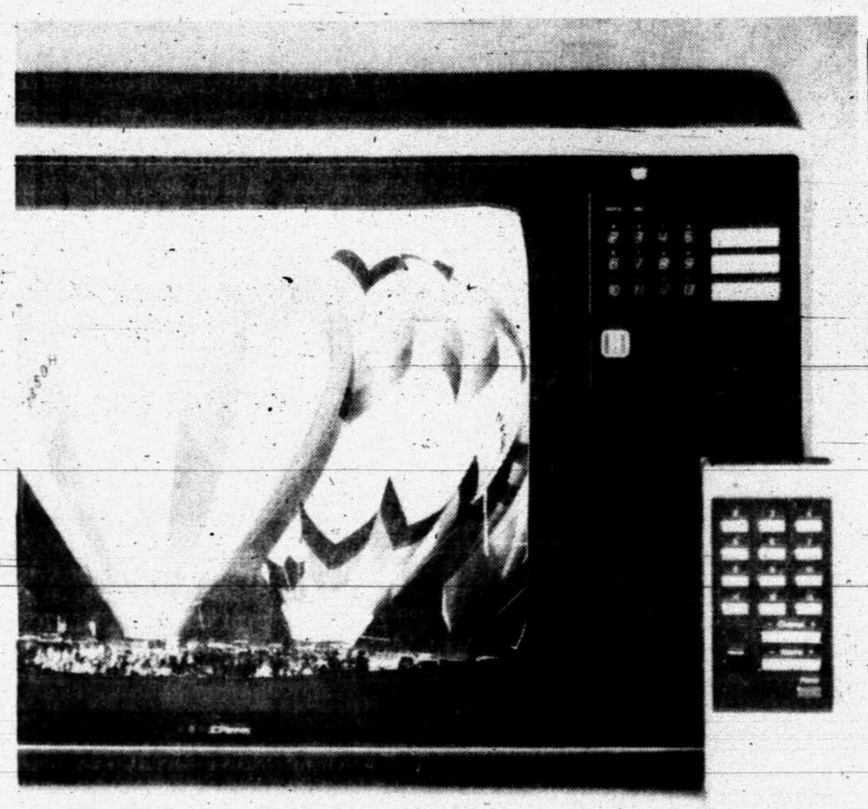

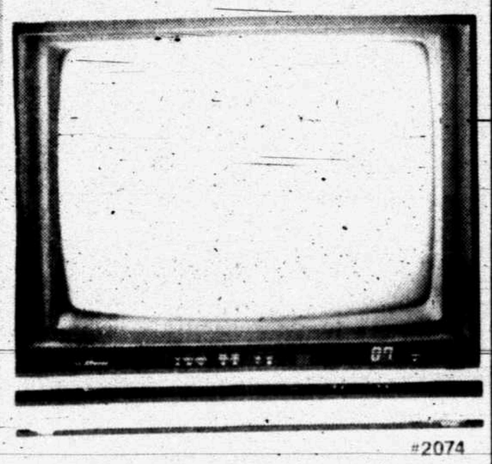

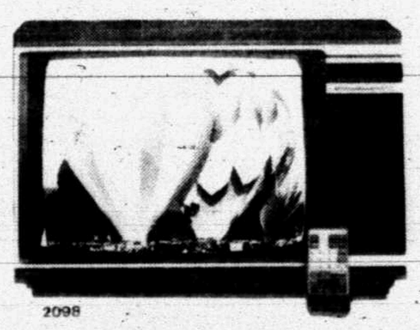

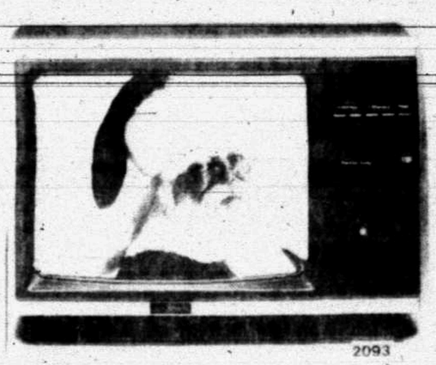

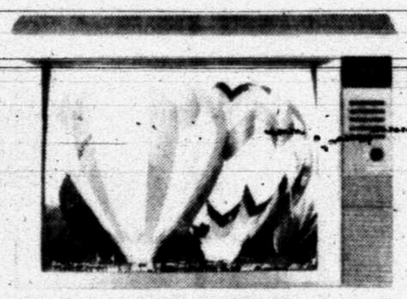

Tutu said neither action would eliminate South Africa's problems, which he blamed on the "iniquity that is apartheid," not "agitators and communists."

Bangladesh ferry sinks

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — A river ferry carrying as many as 300 people and heavy cargo capsized in western Bangladesh and about half those aboard were feared dead Friday, trapped in the hull under 45 feet of water.

Harendra Nath Howlader, chief of administration for the Narail district 170 miles west of Dhaka, said the wooden ferry carried 100-150 people and about 70 were believed drowned, most of them women. The single-deck vessel went down Thursday in the Kajla River.

But two newspapers, one owned by the government and the other independent, put the number of people aboard at 300 and said 200 were missing. The state radio said the ferry was carrying 200 people and half were missing.

Howlader, who was supervising rescue operations, said Friday night that 70-80 people swam to safety from boat, which was carried about two miles downstream after capsizing.

He said up to 70 people could be trapped inside the hull on the river bottom at a spot where the Kajla "is deep and the current very fast."

"All our efforts to pull the ferry out of water have failed. We are now awaiting arrival of a rescue vessel controlled by inland water transport authority," Howlader said, and rescue operations would resume today.

Angry Bolivians chase away drug agents

SANTA ANA, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivian and U.S. drug agents raided this town Friday in search of cocaine traffickers, then fled during a protest by hundreds of angry residents, some shouting, "Kill the Yankees."

No arrests were made and no cocaine was seized. Authorities said there were no reports of injuries.

Bolivian officials, assisted by U.S. troops, have been raiding cocaine laboratories at jungle ranches in Bolivia for past three months.

The raid was prompted by reports that several major cocaine traffickers were hiding in Santa Ana, a town of about 5,000 people in the Beni tropical flatlands where most of the country's cocaine laboratories are based.

Bolivian authorities also suspected the traffickers were hiding cocaine in Santa Ana, said German Linarez, commander of the Leopards, a Bolivian anti-narcotics squad trained and funded by the United States.

Santa Ana's economy originally was based on cattle-raising, but many residents have prospered because of cocaine trafficking.

About 80 Leopards and 30 Americans, including agents of the Drug Enforcement Administration, participated in the early morning raid.

Bolivian officials, armed with 20 arrest warrants, searched homes and cars and questioned residents. Two of Bolivia's top 10 drug traffickers, Roberto Suarez Gomez and Oscar Roca, live in Santa Ana, but were not there during the raid, officials said.

About an hour after the raid, about 3,000 residents, drawn by the constant pealing of church bells, gathered at the town square to protest the raid.

Some shouted "Kill them, kill them, don't let them leave," and "Yankee go home, kill the Yankees."

The protesters surrounded the Bolivian officials and chased them to an airfield about three miles from the town square.

The DEA officials had made a getaway about half an hour earlier and were already inside six Black Hawk helicopters staffed by U.S. soldiers and a Bolivian air force troop carrier when the mob arrived at the airfield.

Bolivian authorities fired tear gas and bullets into the air to disperse the crowd but did not succeed.

The demonstrators surrounded the troop carrier, preventing it from leaving until the mayor of Santa Ana, Amadeo Barbosa, was allowed to come aboard and verify that no residents had been arrested.

WEATHER SUMMARY

RAIN

The chances for showers will have decreased to 20 percent tonight and the low should be near a chilly 50.

Sunday, look for more clouds and a high in the mid-60s.

Record temperatures for today ran the gamut from a high of 94 in 1965 to a low of 44 in 1977.

STATE

Showers continued to spread over West Texas as an upper level storm system approached from Arizona and New Mexico Friday afternoon.

The rain covered most of the Trans Pecos and the western half of the High Plains. The heaviest rainfall reported since early morning was 1 inch at Wink.

The forecast called for increasing cloudiness with showers and thunderstorms spreading from west to east across the state, the National Weather Service said.

In North Texas, rain and scattered thunderstorms were expected through Sunday.

West Texas will be mostly cloudy, except partly cloudy in the far west and Big Bend. Scattered showers with some heavy rains in the Permian Basin and Concho Valley are expected today.

South Texas should have widely scattered showers.

NATION

Winter pushed westward on Friday, dropping temperatures on the northern Plains and across the north half of the Rockies into the 30s and 40s, with wind chills pushing readings below freezing.

Scattered rain and snow showers were reported over southern Montana and northern Wyoming. The higher mountains of Montana received up to 4 inches of snow overnight.

Overnight livestock advisories were issued for Wyoming and all but southeastern Nebraska because of a combination of cold rain, snow and gusting winds. The northern half of Wyoming was expected to receive up to 2 to 4 inches of snow by this morning.

Stock raisers in Nebraska and northwest Kansas were advised to keep watch over their animals on Saturday.

About an inch of hail fell on Bartlett Dam northeast of Phoenix, Ariz., and Avondale and Tucson reported marble-sized hail.

The northern and middle Atlantic Coast states had cool, breezy conditions Friday, with gale warnings in effect along the middle coast and flood watches posted for the coastal areas of Virginia, Maryland and Delaware.

Frost and freeze warnings were issued for Friday night over southern New England, parts of the Susquehanna Valley and northeastern Pennsylvania.

Angels take 2-1 lead with 5-3 victory

By BEN WALKER

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Dick Schofield and Gary Pettis hit home runs to break a seventh-inning tie and the California Angels, fired up by a controversial call that nullified a run, beat the Boston Red Sox 5-3 Friday in Game 3 of the American League playoffs.

The Angels, who tied the score 1-1 in the sixth on Reggie Jackson's run-scoring single, now lead the best-of-seven series 2-1. Game 4 will be Saturday night with Boston ace Roger Clemens, shelled in the playoff opener, opposing Don Sutton.

California had been denied the apparent-tying run in the fourth when third-base umpire Rich Garcia reversed home plate umpire Terry Cooney's call and ruled Wally Joyner out at the plate in a bizarre play.

Garcia's decision infuriated California Manager Gene Mauch and, during a stormy 10-minute argument in which all six umpires were encircled by Angels, Mauch became the first manager ever ejected from an AL playoff game.

Boston starter Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, who had to be restrained by teammates when Cooney originally called Joyner safe, was locked in a 1-1 duel with John Candelaria entering the seventh.

Then, after Boyd retired Ruppert Jones on a grounder to the mound and stuck out Bobby Grich, the Angels suddenly exploded.

Schofield hit Boyd's first pitch beyond the left-field fence to put California ahead. Bob Boone singled and, after Boston pitching coach Bill Fischer visited Boyd, Pettis drove a 2-1 pitch over the right field wall for a 4-1 lead.

The Red Sox struck back for two runs in the eighth against California relief ace Donnie Moore, who relieved Candelaria at the start of the inning. Marty Barrett singled, took third on Jim Rice's double and scored on Moore's balk.

After a walk to Dwight Evans, Rice scored from third on Rich Gedman's RBI single to make it 4-3. But Tony Armas lined out to Pettis in center to end the inning.

California added another run in the eighth off Boston reliever Calvin Schiraldi. An error by Wade Boggs allowed Jackson to go to third base, from where he scored on Jones' sacrifice fly. Moore closed out the Red Sox in the ninth.

Until the late-inning excitement, which roused the crowd of 64,206 into a frenzy, the loudest noise of the game came during the furious fourth-inning argument.

The Red Sox led 1-0 when Joyner singled with one out for the Angels' first hit and took second as Downing followed with a single.

Blackmar leader

PENSACOLA, Fla. — Phil Blackmar shot a 7-under-par 64 for a one-stroke lead Friday as the second half of the field completed the rain-delayed first round of the $300,000 Pensacola Open. The 29-year-old golfer from Corpus Christi, Texas, blistered the back nine holes with a 6-under-par 30, vaulting ahead of Curt Byrum, Jeff Sluman and Ernie Gonzalez who had tied for the lead at 65 Thursday on the par-71 course before a driving rain suspended competition. Joining that group at 6 under par was John Cook....

Rodriquez leads

MELBOURNE, Fla. — Chi Chi Rodriguez, the PGA Senior Tour's hottest player, shot a 4-under-par 68 Friday to join a log-jam atop the first-round leader board at the Fairfield-Barnett Seniors Classic. Rodriguez, winner of three tournaments and nearly $335,000 in his first season on the Senior circuit, was joined by Miller Barber, Dale Douglass and Bob Erickson as leaders in the oldest continuing tournament on the Senior Tour.

"I'm looking forward to my next round," Rodriguez said. "I'll be more agressive. I hit every green except one and I had some putts lip-out. If the weather stays nice, the tournament record could fall."

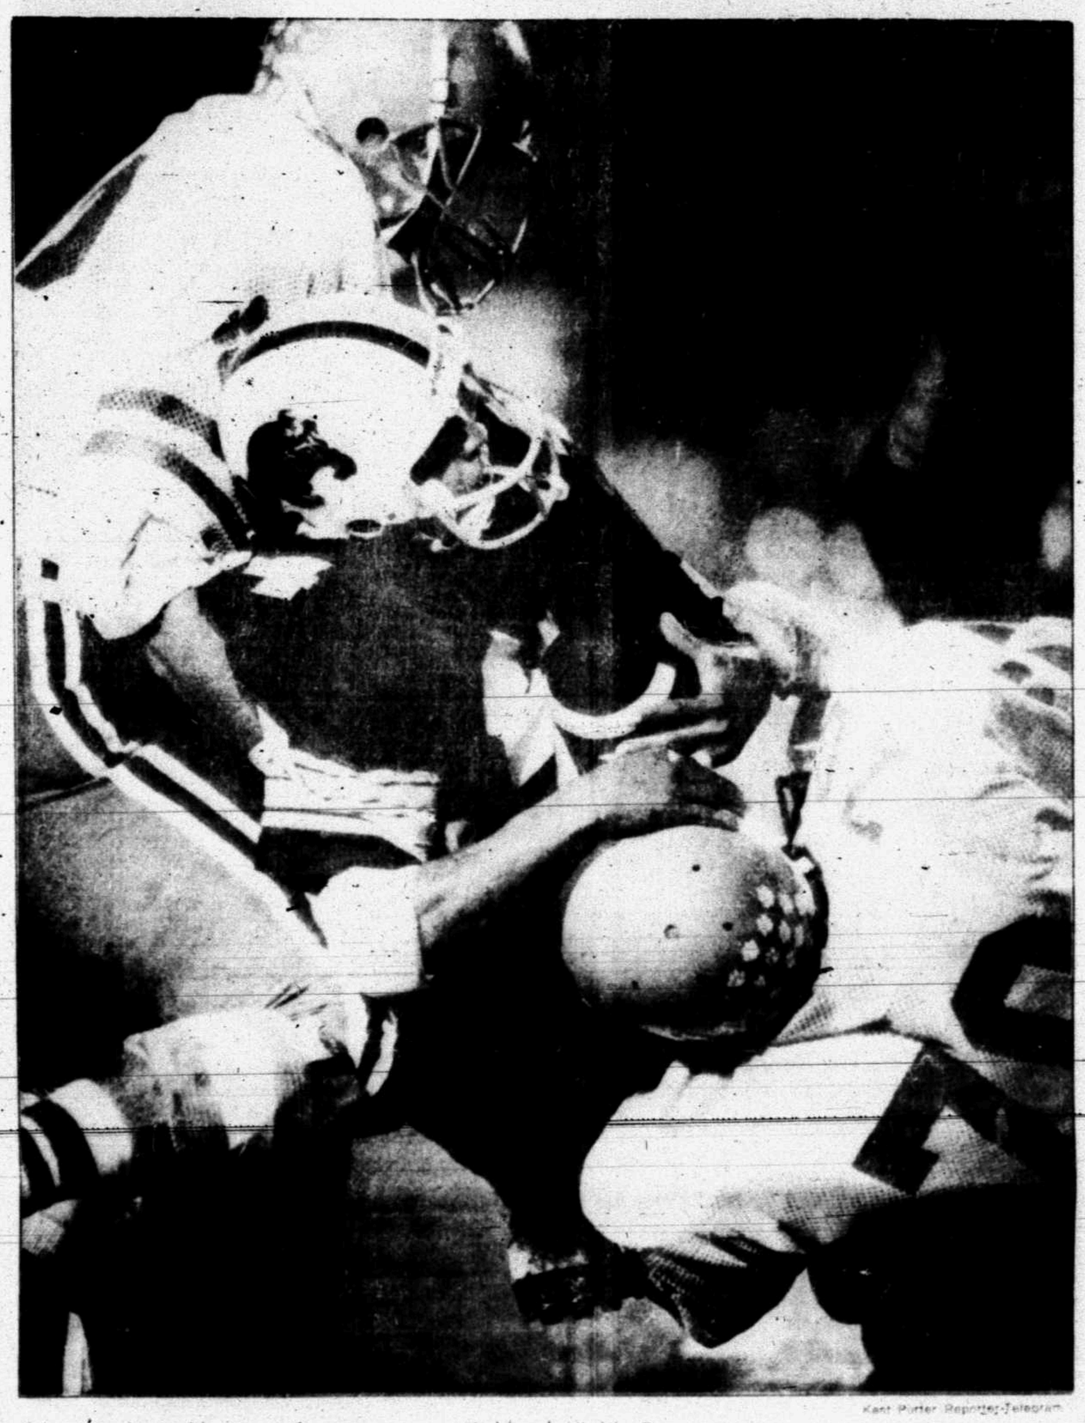

The weather didn't cooperate during the first round. The tournament was delayed by 54 minutes as rain and lightning moved through the area and that setback had the final seven groups of the day finishing in darkness.

Piniella signed

NEW YORK — The New York Yankees signed Manager Lou Piniella to a new two-year contract. Piniella, who received a one-year contract last October, managed the Yankees to a 90-72 record. The team won 18 of its last 25 games to finish in second place in the AL East, 5½ games behind Boston.

Cowboys in front

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Oklahoma State led a 23-team field with a score of 294 in the first round of the 14th Annual Buckeye Fall Classic on Ohio State University's scarlet golf course Friday. Indivjdually, Tim Fleming of Oklahoma State and Deron Jennings of Lamar are tied for first with a score of 71. Michael Bradley, also of Oklahoma State, is third at 72. Texas A&M and Arkansas are tied for second at 302. In fourth place, Florida has 306. Ohio State and Houston are tied for fifth with 307. Texas is seventh with 308...

San Angelo tacklers put the squeeze on Midland High's Tommy Yarkmon.

San Angelo rips Bulldogs, 42-0

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

History does repeat itself. Midland High's District 4-5A Alamo ended in another rain soaked tragedy at Memorial Stadium Friday night in a 42-0 loss to the wall storming troops of the San Angelo Bobcats.

It was the second week in a row that the Bulldogs suffered a 42-0 score and have now been outscored by a 122-6 margin in their last three outings. And this was probably the last straw for MHS since it killed any hopes of going to the playoffs in 1986. The gold guys fell again in the Alamo.

San Angelo's victory along with wins by Midland Lee and Odessa Permian Friday left the "Big 3" with perfect district records and there just aren't three losses between those teams left on the schedule.

A STEADY rain poured throughout the ill-fated contest, not only washing away the Bulldogs' playoff hopes, but also spoiling Homecoming activities. Not even the MHS band or Homecoming queen could take a bow at the half. It was at best a "forgettable night" as less than 100 fans remained in the stands by the final gun.

The Bobcats, however, pranced through the soggy Memorial Stadium turf like they were taking a spring shower, beating the Bulldogs in almost every phase of the game.

San Angelo coach Jimmie Keeling scrapped his game plan and just gave the ball 19 times to fullback Bronza Moore, who responded for 130 yards and two touchdowns.

"We got the early lead and just got away from the game plan," said Keeling. "We just ran at Midland High and threw the ball a lot less than we had planned.

"As far as I know, it was raining on both sides of the field, but yes, I think the rain might have been to our advantage."

MHS COACH Doug McCutchen said, "We can't make any excuses because we got whipped, but San Angelo is a big, strong team and were able to come off the ball and whip us. The rain probably hurts us more against a team like San Angelo than it would against some other teams. We're an option team that likes to throw the football and you just can't run into the muddle on a team like San Angelo."

But Moore could run against the Bulldogs. He had 114 of his 130 yards by the half and his Bobcats already owned a huge 28-0 lead.

"It's nice to get a lead like that, but I really can't take anything away from Midland High. They came back tough as nails after the half," said Keeling.

The MHS offensive woes however continues and the defense is on the field a lot. Last week against Permian, MHS couldn't muster a first down in the first half. Against San Angelo, MHS had two first downs at the half and only 27 yards total offense to 226 total first half yards.

MHS ENDED the night with 110 yards rushing and 28 passing while San Angelo climbed to 6-0 on the season and 2-0 in 4-5A play with 352 rushing yards.

San Angelo's Rob Leathers set the tone on the opening kickoff by racing 88 yards for a 7-0 lead. MHS ran three plays, punted and the Bobcats rolled back 63 yards with Moore scoring from 30 yards out. It was 14-0 with 7:59 still left to play in the first period.

The Bulldog offense had a lot of trouble taking the snap from center, wasting six plays and losing one fumble. But that wasn't the only problem. San Angelo recovered an onside kick and once turned a fourth and 10 situation into a 40-yard run by Sean Scott to the MHS four-yard line after the snap had sailed over his head. It was not a night for the Bulldogs.

Tyrone Oliver led the Bulldogs with 64 yards rushing, but San Angelo had three players with more than that. Anthony Adkison had 89 yards rushing.

Midland High never seriously threatened the Bobcat goal line. The Bulldogs had a couple of promising drives in the second half, but couldn't convert on fourth down.

Unbeaten Rebs roll over Abilene Cooper

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

ABILENE - According to Midland Lee coach Earl Miller, the early game rain and the wet field wasn't as effective at slowing down the Midland Lee offense as Abilene Cooper. It showed in the first half of play.

The highly favored Rebels came into P.E. Shotwell Stadium Friday night and sputtered their way to a 6-3 halftime lead. Not the kind of showing the playoff hopeful Rebels had in mind.

"His (Cooper coach Larry Peel) kids fought every play, from the first to the last and he should be very proud," said Miller after Lee's second half outburst produced a 27-3 District 4-5A victory and a 6-0 overall and 3-0 4-5A records.

"The only problem with us was our kids wouldn't believe me when I told them Cooper had a heck of a defense and it was getting better every week."

The Rebels found out quickly their first five possessions ended in two fumbles and three punts. The sixth, however, ended in a touchdown.

The Cougars opened the scoring on their initial possession with a 32-yard drive that stalled on the Rebel 20. Jeff Ireland gave Cooper the lead with his 37-yard field goal and fired hopes of a major upset similar to the one in 1983 when they knocked off the eventual state runner-up Rebels.

The Rebels finally mounted a scoring drive late in the second quarter, taking the ball on their own 34 and marching 66 yards for the TD.

Junior backup quarterback Geoff Rich kept the drive moving with three key passes, an eight-yarder to Freddie Dawson, 16 yards to Jimmy Fennell and a 26-yarder to the one to Durian Jenkins. Dennis Sterling took the ball the final yard for the 6-3 lead with 14 seconds left until intermission. Jeff Connally's PAT was no good.

Cooper's defense wasn't the only reason Lee's offense looked foolish in the first half. Over-confidence, apparently, also played a big part.

"We didn't have a good practice this week," said Rich, who started the game for for injured Rodney Johnson. "We were looking forward to Permian more than Cooper. We weren't really looking toward Cooper."

"I felt like, with the way we played the first half, we should have done better with the opportunites we had but we kept fumbling the ball," said Sterling, who led all rushers in the game with 83 yards and made the biggest gain of the day with a 46-yard run.

"Coach (Van Tom) Whatley told us to hold onto the ball and we started holding on like we should and Coach (Ronnie) Stephens did an excellent job showing the Hogs what defense Cooper was in."

And the result of the halftime talks?

"We didn't fumble the ball in the second half," said Miller. "That's attitude, mental concentration. You can use excuses about weather and preperation only so long and then you have to do something positive, make something happen."

On the opening kickoff of the second half, Rebel special teamer Marcus Mayberry made that "something happen."

Mayberry his Cougar return man Lane Ingle and jarred the ball loose for Billy Wagner to recover.

Two plays later, Johnson scored on a 15-yard keeper.

"It was a really big play for us," said Rich. "Coach told us to go out

OU-Texas, the pressure's on

Just going into this game a 23-24 point underdog can be hazardous to a coach's health, and Texas' Fred Akers already reportedly was in trouble.

If the Steers lose big, the rumors about Fred Akers' departure as coach at the University of Texas will move into the speculation stage, speculation as to whether it will be Miami's Jimmy Johnson or Iowa's Hayden Fry.

Of course, the Horns could pull an upset and Akers' job would be safe until the Texas A&M game, another must win for the Longhorns.

Why would Johnson leave Coral Gables, where national champions and Heisman Trophy candidate passers make the Hurricane something of a modern-day Notre Dame? Precisely, Notre Dame. The Irish come back on the Hurricane schedule next year and after what happened last year, Austin might offer a safe haven.

The mere mention of former Odessa High Coach Fry as coach at Texas is ironic. It wasn't too many years ago that Hayden, then coach at North Texas State, was begging Texas to give him a game. It meant the difference between making and losing money for the Eagles grid program.

As for leaving the high-profile Big 10 for the SWC, at least it would relieve Fry of the necessity of facing the Pac-10 champion in the Rose Bowl.

The SWC...

Texas plus 23 1/2 over Oklahoma— The half point could be critical, if it's close.

Arkansas minus 22 Texas Tech— Raiders could consider going fishing.

SMU plus 8 1/2 over Baylor— One of my favorite SWC rivalries. Usually, a hotly-contested thriller, why should this year be any different?

TCU minus 16 at Rice— Last week I refused to believe the games could be as one-sided as the point spreads. I was wrong.

Aggies minus 18 over Houston— Actually, I like the points, but.....

The others....

NC State plus 5 over Georgia Tech— Wasn't Wolfpack ranked in top 20 recently?

Pitt plus 7 over Notre Dame— It's at Pitt and Irish already are travel-weary.

Arizona plus 2 over UCLA— Arizona State beat UCLA and Arizona and Sun Devils are same caliber.

Stanford plus 11 1/2 over Washington— Huskies are murder against weak teams, but suspect against quality opposition.

South Carolina plus 3 1/2 over Virginia Tech— Gamecocks again the underdog, but ask Georgia how tough they are.

LSU minus three over Georgia— Ask Texas A&M about the Baton Rouge viper's den.

USC minus 10 1/2 over Washington State— Trojans nationally ranked. Cougars will be impressed.

The pros....

Washington even over Dallas— Cowboys have too many ifs, ands and buts.

Bills plus 6 1/2 over Dolphins— Kelly vs. Marino...will probably wind up 7-6 the way these two guys have been going.

Eagles plus 7 over Giants— Believing what I read in the papers that Buddy Ryan has Philadelphia in the groove.

Vikings plus 9 1/2 over 49ers— Come on, now, 49ers have got to start missing Joe Montana one of these days.

Bears minus 13 over Oilers— Houston has about as much chance as the Man in the Moon.

Chiefs plus five over Browns— Points in a game involving teams like these look good.

Falcons even over Rams— Simply because it's at Atlanta.

Lions even over Packers— This is one of those games where both teams deserve points.

Bucs minus 2 1/2 over Cardinals— Another study in futility.

Raiders minus 3 over Seahawks— Seattle comes back to earth and Dokie Williams, and Replay camera, gives Raiders edge.

Chargers plus 3 1/2 over Broncos— Big question is can Denver stay as high for San Diego as it was for Dallas last week.

Last week the pro record was 7-1, making it only 17-10 for the year. After going 8-12 in the colleges, the record is 19-14-1.

Monahans routs Andrews, 27-6

From Staff Reports

MONAHANS — The Monahans Loboes won a 27-6 District 2-4A victory over the Andrews Mustangs here Friday night to remain unbeaten at 5-0.

The Loboes now own a perfect 3-0 district record after Charles Thompson and Dana Amos both had over 100 yards rushing against the Mustangs.

Amos scored on a two-yard run in the first quarter and quarterback Jeremy Denman hit Thompson with a 47 yard scoring pass late in the second period for a 14-0 lead at the half.

Thompson scored again on an eight-yard run to open the fourth period and Andrews answered with its only TD of the night when David Criswell scored from a yard out. Amos scored again for Monahans late in the game from 35 yards away.

Andrews is now 2-4 on the season and 2-2 in district play.

The Loboes take to the road at Lake View next week while Andrews is back in the Mustang Bowl against Snyder.

Badgers notch wet win over Presidio

From Staff Reports

McCAMEY — McCamey's Badgers slogged to a 54-0 win over Presidio in a game played during a three-inch monsoon spiced by spectacular displays of lightning.

McCamey ran its record to 5-1 in opening District 5-2A with a victory over 1-4 Presidio. Danny Baiza opened the scoring with a 13-yard run with 5:39 left in the first period and then Humberto Pacheco scored on a nine-yarder with 1:56 left in the opening quarter.

McCamey uncorked a 20-point second period salvo as Baiza scored from the four, Roman Zarate stepped over from the four and Luis Lopez registered from nine yards out with 3:51 to go.

Pacheco's six-yard run was the only third period score, but Zarate went in from the one and Chris Chunn tallied on a four-yard dash with 41 seconds left in the game.

The Blue Devils managed just two first downs to 18 for McCamey. McCamey never threw a pass during night, rolling up a 274 to minus 65 yard edge in rushing.

Owls' big last half beats Devils

From Staff Reports

RANKIN — Reagan County's Owls pushed over three second half touchdown to beat Rankin's Red Devils, 19-0, in a District 6-2A opener for both teams. The wins gives Reagan a 5-0 record for the season and Rankin slips to 4-2.

Quarterback Scott Lipsey broke a scoreless tie with a two-yard run with 3:17 left in the third period and Roland Saldibar kicked the extra point.

Lipsey broke loose for 57 yards with 11:47 left in the game to give the Owls a 13-0 lead on this wet, slippery night.

The final TD came with 2:35 left as Junior Romero went in from the three and the run for two failed.

Reagan rolled up a 15-4 edge in first downs and a 232-62 margin in first downs. Only one pass of the five attempted was complete.

The Owls fumbled seven times, but lost only two.

Lipsey rushed 14 times for 107 yards and Bruce Hooker led Rankin rushers with 29 yards in eight carries.

Rankin swings back into action next week against Stanton.

Sweetwater 18, Fort Stockton 0

From Staff Reports

FORT STOCKTON — Sweetwater went home with yet another victory Friday night on an 18-0 rout of Fort Stockton.

Sweetwater's first scores both came in the first quarter, to set the tone for the rest of the night. Chris Douir scored on a 3-yard run to cap off a sustained drive, and minutes later Douir threw a touchdown pass to wide receiver Doug Noonan from 14 yards out.

The second quarter was scoreless, leaving the game 12-0 at halftime.

Sweetwater's final scoring drive came in the fourth quarter when running back Rufus Smith punched in a seven yard run.

Fort Stockton, 1-3, 3-3, tries to get back in the district win column next week on the road at Big Spring. Sweetwater, 2-1, 4-1, returns home to face Pecos.

Crane knocks off Fabens

From Staff Reports

CRANE — Tailback Gerald Mitchell was a one-man riot in breaking loose for four long touchdowns runs to lead Crane's Golden Cranes to a 35-0 District 7-3A victory over the Fabens Wildcats.

Mitchell had a dizzying 314 yards on 14 carries.

With 4:24 left in the first period, Mitchell began his show, running 75 yards for a TD. That was the longest run of the night, but not by that much.

In the second period, Mitchell burst 52 and 47 yards for scores and then with 3:25 left in the third period, erupted for 60 yards.

Crane's final score came with 11:40 left in the game when Sherod Vaden escaped for a 27-yard TD run.

The Crane's leveled their record at 3-3 with this district opening win while Fabens sliped to 3-2.

Crane's next stop on the district trail is in Clint next Friday night.

MARATHON— Frank Shorter, the 1972 Olympic marathon champion, has entered the Nov. 2 New York City Marathon.

GOLF— Naomichi Ozaki fired a 68—137 to lead $390,000 Japan Open, carding six birdies and two bogeys. Australian rookie Brett Ogle, who was packing pumpkins for a living just 12 months ago, shot a 6-under par 66 Friday to take a two-shot lead after two rounds of the $63,000 Queensland Open at Tweed Heads, Aust.

FOOTBALL— Four-time Pro Bowl free safety Dwight Hicks, unable to latch on with another team since the San Francisco 49ers released him in June, says the 49ers knew of his cocaine use as far back as 1981. Coach Bill Walsh denied knowing about Hicks' early use of the drug. He said the club became aware of the problems in "late 1983 or possibly 1984. We had such little knowledge about cocaine in 1981 that we couldn't tell."

The University of Nebraska has been notified of the NCAA's ruling on alleged violations in football and softball, but the decision won't be announced until Monday, football coach Tom Osborne said. Osborne said earlier that the allegations in football concerned a car leased by running back Doug DuBose, who is injured and has ended his career at Nebraska.

HORSE RACING— Jockey Eddie Maple will be bidding for his third victory in four runnings of the Young America when he rides Conquistarose in the $500,000-guaranteed stakes for 2-year-olds tonight at the Meadowlands.

BASEBALL— Woody Woodward was named vice president and GM of the New York Yankees replacing Clyde King, who was named as special assistant to George Steinbrenner, the club's principal owner. Bob Quinn, who joined the Yankees in September, has taken over Woodward's former position as vice president, baseball administration. Woodward was an infielder in the major leagues for 8½ seasons with Milwaukee and Atlanta Braves and Cincinnati. He had been a player and coach at Florida University.

Dick Howser, who underwent surgery for a malignant brain tumor in July, will return next season as manager of the Kansas City Royals and Hal McRae will become a player-coach. Third-base coach Mike Ferraro, who finished the season as interim manager after Howser fell ill, has been replaced by former Minnesota Twins Manager Billy Gardner. Hitting instructor Lee May also was released.

Mets, Astros clash at Shea

By JOHN NELSON

NEW YORK (AP) — There is a world of difference between split-fingered pitches, Ron Darling admits. For example, he says, "mine doesn't strike out 14 batters."

Darling drew the starting assignment for the New York Mets in Saturday's third game of the National League playoffs against Houston's Bob Knepper. The two teams split the first two games of the best-of-seven series in Houston.

MIKE SCOTT, baseball's chief exponent of the splitter, pitched a five-hitter to beat the Mets 1-0 in the opener, striking out 14. Bob Ojeda pitched the Mets to a 5-1 victory in the second game.

"Mine's a lot different pitch than Mike's," Darling said. The biggest difference is in the size of the hands.

Roger Craig, now manager of the San Francisco Giants, taught Scott his split-finger fastball, "and Craig likes to teach players with big hands. Mine are too small, so I taught myself the pitch."

DARLING, who uses his splitter as a change of speed, says he decided to learn the pitch after he was unsuccessful at learning the Tom Seaver changeup, the one where the index finger and thumb meet to grip the ball with an "OK" sign.

"I tried to learn the pitch, but I just couldn't manage it," Darling said. "I don't think anybody can."

Using the split-finger, plus a 90 mph fastball and a hard curve, Darling compiled a 15-6 record this season, winning three of his last four decisions. Darling had 13 no-decisions, but in his outings, the Mets had a record of 26-8, the best for any pitcher ont he staff. Darling was 1-1 with a 2.63 ERA against the Astros this season.

KNEPPER, on the other hand, was 3-1 — one victory coming in relief — with a 1.67 ERA against the Mets. After Aug. 20, however, Knepper was 1-4 in eight starts to finish 17-12, and he missed a turn in the rotation to work his way out of the slump.

"My mechanics were all messed up," Knepper said. "And I'm the kind of pitcher who approaches the game from a mechanics and rhythm standpoint. I had a totally incorrect picture of what I was trying to do with the ball. My folks sent me some videotapes, and I saw from them that I was going about it all wrong."

Offense is ready, Rangers nip Bucks

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

GREENWOOD — It's the district season, and true to his word, Greenwood coach Maurice Hodges finally has the Rangers offense fully installed.

Too bad the weather conditions wouldn't allow the Rangers to unveil the full force of their offensive scheme, as Greenwood needed a fourth-quarter touchdown to pull out a 14-7 win over Alpine at J.M. King Memorial Stadium Friday night.

"If we could've thrown the ball," Hodges said, shaking his head, thinking about what could've been. "It's too bad because our passing game is just starting to blossom. The elements and penalties kept us from blowing them out, really."

For the most part, that was true. The Rangers manhandled the Bucks up and down the field for four quarters, but with a steady rain falling throughout, the Rangers had three drives halted because of lost fumbles and left several others sputtering in penalties or sacks.

And with the slippery pigskin, passing the ball was non-existent. Quarterbak Glen Teal attempted just two passes as neither side completed a pass all night.

SO IT was a good thing Greenwood had Steve Popham to fall back on.

It was Popham that punched in the winning score less than a minute into the final period, capping an 80-yard, eight-play drive with an 11-yard scamper. Popham, the elder of the Rangers brotherly backfield combination, fueled the long drive with runs of eight, nine and 15 yards to set up the 11-yard score. Brother Garry, a sophomore, added an 11-yard run of his own.

But it was Steve Popham bursting into the Alpine secondary all night long that proved too much for the Bucks, 0-1, 2-3. Popham carried 19 times totaling 187 yards — nearly 10 yards a carry.

"I had some real good holes to hit," Popham said. "We had some good holes last week against Ozona, but they were there tonight."

It was Popham's second straight week topping the 100-yard barrier after suffering a bruised sternum against Stanton earlier in the season. And despite some nagging pain, the senior seems to be hitting stride at just the right time — as do the Rangers.

It was the second Greenwood victory in as many weeks after a painful 0-4 start. It also puts the Rangers in a three-way deadlock atop the 4-3A standings after the first week of play — their first season in Class 3A.

BUT IT almost didn't turn out that way.

The Bucks, behind the firepower of option quarterback Noel Salas, drove the length of the field on their first possession. Salas went the final six yards on the first play of the second quarter, giving the Bucks a short-lived 7-0 lead and it looked like the Rangers could be headed for trouble.

But the Ranger defense stiffened in the second quarter, holding Salas, who had 80 first-quarter yards, to just 19 in the second period.

"The defense played a great game all night," Hodges said. "We finally had Salas under control — he kind of got away from us in the first quarter."

But Alpine lost its spark early in the second half when Salas went down at midfield after a sharp hit. The fiery 5-foot-5 senior didn't get up. He was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital and was still under evaluation late Friday.

By then, however, the game had turned into a scrum. Eleven fumbles littered the field as players slipped and slid from one sideline to another. Passing the ball was out of the question. Alpine put the ball in the air eight times — mostly out of desperation — and three times it was intercepted; none were completed. Greenwood attempted two passes; neither was caught.

SO HODGES played the game close to the vest, churning up 343 yards and 19 first downs.

And why not? To go with Popham's 187 yards, Wes McDonell added 86 yards and Todd Martin pitched in 42 — almost all in the first half.

Hodges and the Rangers are just hoping for a dry field next week in Fabens — then maybe the real Greenwood offense will step forward.

Stanton comes back to defeat Eldorado

From Staff Reports

ELDORADO — The Stanton Buffaloes may have started a little late here Friday night, but the once beaten Buffs stormed to 27 second half points to defeat the Eldorado Eagles by a 27-6 margin in a non-conference outing.

Eldorado scored first in the third quarter to take a 6-0 lead when Russ Dacy hit Martin Espinoza with a 64-yard TD pass, but then Stanton exploded.

Greg Barnhill tied the score at 6-6 on a three-yard TD run, the first of three on the night. Stanton took the lead, 14-0, when Robert Schoolcraft blocked an Eldorado punt and George Reyna recovered it in the end zone. Barnhill then ran for a two-point conversion.

Barnhill went on to score on runs of 11 and 27 yards to put icing on the cake. Barnhill had 152 yards rushing on 23 carries and Eddie Jordan had 121 yards on just 12 carries for the Buffs.

Not only did Eldorado take a third quarter lead, but the Eagles blocked a Stanton punt at the four-yard line and failed to score when Hector Ramirez recovered an Eldorado fumble.

The Buffs come home for their first district game next Friday against Rankin.

LEE

and cause a fumble on the kickoff and put it in the end zone and we did. That hit (Mayberry's) was the first really big hit of the ball game."

Shortly before the third quarter ended, the Rebels posted another score, this time driving 45 yards to set up Rich's 10-yard run. Connally made it 20-3 with the kick.

Midway through the fourth quarter, Lee mounted its final drive of the game, thanks to a coast-to-coast, 80-yard march that ended in Joe Woodard's one-yard plunge into the end zone. Sterling's 46-yard run was the big gainer to help set up the score.

Defense was the big star for the Rebels, holding Cooper's offense at bay the entire game.

In all, the Cougar attack claimed only five first downs and a meager 100 total yards, 43 rushing and 57 passing.

Even though Lee's offense didn't start clicking until the second half, the defense was ready from the opening gun, holding Cooper to only 23 first half rushing yards and 24 through the air.

Offensively, Lee picked up 211 yards on the ground and passed for another 84. While Sterling was the top rusher with 83 yards, backfield mate Durian Jenkins and split end Jimmy Fennell were the big gainers through the air. Jenkins caught three passes for 34 yards and Fennell two for 31.

Both Rich and Johnson saw time at quarterback but Rich was the only one to throw a pass, completing 8-of-13 for 84 yards. Johnson, who was in on a couple of series in the second half, never attempted a pass, but did fake a couple of times like he was going to.

"I thought about it," said Johnson on the play he took into the end zone from 15 yards out.

And, if you would have, what about your injured passing shoulder?

"I probably would have wrecked it," said Johnson.

Not something a quarterback wants to do, especially with Odessa Permian next on the schedule in two weeks.

Besides Moore, San Angelo got 68 yards rushing in the fourth quarter from Sergio Alcala, a reserve back, and two touchdowns. One was a 44-yard run. Charles Kelly had 67 yards rushing and a touchdown.

Keeling would not allow members of the press talk with Moore after his 130-yard performance, saying, "That's just the way we do it with this team."

ODESSA — With Sean Crow gaining 178 yards in 23 carries, Odessa Permian remained undefeated with a tougher-than-expected 20-6 win over Odessa High at Ratliff Stadium Friday night.

Odessa hasn't beaten Permian since 1963 when Larry Gatlin quarterbacked the Broncos to victory.

Crow was the star this time, galloping 64 yards in the third quarter to break a 6-6 tie. Mike Berryhill caught the pass for two to make it 14-6.

Odessa, taking advantage of a mishandled punt, set up shop on the Permian 25 in the second period and George Fuentes, called up from the JV this week, booted a 38-yard field goal.

Crow crashed in from the two with 2:06 left in the half to tie it. Crown ran 19 yards and then a 17-yard pass put the ball on the three.

Roland Rodriquez recovered a fumble for Odessa on the Permian 26 and Fuentes kicked a 39-yard field goal to give OHS a tie with 1:30 gone of the second half.

Permian's final TD came on a two-yard run by Herman Stance. It was set up when Crow ran 22 yards and Stance 10.

Permian remains home for a date with Abilene Cooper next weekend, while OHS travels to San Angelo.

Eden 14, Garden City 6

From Staff Reports—

EDEN — Garden City fell to 0-4 in District 6-A play here Friday night in a tough 14-6 loss to Eden, who is now 2-1.

Eden took an 11-0 lead at the half on a touchdown by Brandon Mideska, a two-point conversion and a 30-yard field goal by Clayton Taylor.

Garden City struck back in the third period when Mike Kenyon scored from six yards out after a 65-yard pass from Weldon Hillger to Doyle Schaefer set up the score. The Bearkats couldn't convert the PAT and Eden got another field goal of 22 yards to nail down the decision in the fourth period.

The Bearkats come back home next Friday to face Bronte in another District 6-A game.

Pass the gumbo...then brush up on your French for skiing

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

Snow in the high elevations of the Rockies and the weather that is threatening to turn West Texas into bayou country and replace traditional barbecue cuisine with a cowboy version of gumbo as the favorite dish also has people thinking skiing, even if it is with a French accent.

Some of us would prefer that the moisture laden skies of the last two months had postponed their arrival until their burden could accumulate in drifts on a New Mexico or Colorado slope, but admittedly the skies are pregnant with the potential for a good season.

It's one reason why the Flatlanders' Ski Club is already making plans for the coming season, a season that "schlusses" off with a Thanksgiving weekend trip to Keystone.

For appetizers, however, the Flatlanders will hold a Garage Sale Oct. 25 at Permian Mall in Odessa, where extra baggage, ski equipment and gear will be offered for sale. Then, the next meeting will be the Style Show at the Odessa Hilton Nov. 6 where the latest in style, color, and equipment will be on display.

However, Keystone is just one of several trips lined up for the coming season and the sites include Steamboat and Texas Ski Week Jan. 10-17, a New Year's weekend trip to Taos and also a President's weekend trip to Taos Feb. 13-16; Crested Butte Feb. 1-8.

The season's unique adventures will be the Cortina, Italy, trip Feb. 20-28 and the March 7-14 to Heavenly Valley, the resort on Lake Tahoe.

DON LAWRENCE (367-0046 home or 367-0678 work) is Keystone trip captain and advises that close out date is Oct. 15 for the Nov. 26-30 trip that will bus to Lubbock and fly Aspen to Denver.

Mike and Brenda Nance (694-9909) are heading the TSW to Steamboat (American Airlines). A new gondola capable of handling 2,800 per hour has been added. With 27,000 per hour lift capacity, Steamboat promises few lift lines to fray the nerves. Only 10 to 12 vacancies of the original 50 reservations for the FSC remain.

Will Green (683-2141 office, 697-4203 home) is the one to contact about the Crested Butte trip ($475 chartered bus or $200 Feb. 4-8 drive yourself version).

Sandy Flournoy (683-6996 day and 697-0174 evening) is in charge of the Cortina adventure. The Alps resort offers 80 miles of downhill skiing. The $1,025 Midland to Italy price includes hotel accommodations, continental breakfast and dinner daily and six-day ski pass among the features. Sandy reports that free demo rentals with option to buy at the end of the week are available.

THE PIECE de resistance, Mark Clark (367-7253) insists, is simply Heavenly. For $710 transportation—rooms and lift tickets are taken care of and breakfast buffet, all you can eat at $2.95, and $4 steak dinners—are the lures to get you to the tables of Tahoe and Reno. But safety from temptation is close by: the slopes and there are five ski areas. Heavenly Valley, Squaw Valley, Kirkwood, Alpine Meadows and Northstar. Reservations for 50 spots have been made so don't tarry, even though the trip isn't until March 7-14.

With the season still six weeks away, plenty of time remains to get into shape, the Midlander is offering a ski fitness course (682-0813) and Debbi Morgan of the Midland Town West YMCA is conducting a six week course, 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., beginning Oct. 14 to emphasize strength, muscular endurance, agility and flexibility to avoid those injuries that result from poor conditioning.

Now, off to the draw to collect some crawfish for dinner tonight.

Jo Jo White, ex-Tiger, dies

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Jo Jo White, an outfielder who played nine seasons in the major leagues, seven with the Detroit Tigers during the 1930s, died Thursday from complications following heart bypass surgery two weeks ago. He was 77.

White had his best season in 1934 when he batted .313 with the Tigers.

He played for Detroit from 1932-38 and played in the 1934 and 1935 World Series. White played with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1943 and the Cincinnati Reds in 1944.

Excellent range conditions may work against the hunter

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

Excellent range conditions through the summer may work against the hunter, causing deer to move around less during the hunting season, but prospects for the whitetail, Nov. 8-Jan. 4, and mule deer seasons (Panhandle Nov. 22-30 and Trans-Pecos Nov. 29-Dec. 7) hunting, claims the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept., will be excellent over most of the state.

However, the season will have to be good to beat last year when an all-time record harvest of 383,000 was chalked up, including 129,400 antlerless deer.

Biologist Ernie Davis says prospects are especially bright in South Texas and the Edwards Plateau, two of the state's most popular areas. Bucks in the Edwards Plateau that were part of an outstanding fawn crop in 1982 are now four years old and sporting good antlers.

Horace Gore of the TPWDA says, despite 1985's record antlerless deer take, deer populations remain too high in many areas. "We urge hunters to take all the antlerless deer they are permitted."

In the Trans-Pecos area, mule deer hunting prospects are fairly bright with the mule deer numbers increasing in the past few years. "Antler development should be average to slightly above average and all deer are in good condition," says biologist Mike Hobson of Alpine.

Hobson says good range conditions may make hunting more difficult, but hunters should equal last year's harvest of 9,200 deer.

Maryland gets tough with Terps

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — University of Maryland athletes will have to meet tougher admission requirements and will have to maintain higher academic standards to remain eligible for play under guidelines set forth in a study released today.

The recommendations of the university task force on academics and athletics do not include any recommendations about personnel, according to sources cited in today's Baltimore Evening Sun.

Chancellor John Slaughter was meeting in executive session with the university's Board of Regents today. Sources told the newspaper the status of basketball coach Lefty Driesell could be discussed in that closed meeting.

Slaughter has said he won't comment on Driesell's future as coach until a Prince George's County grand jury completes its report on the cocaine-induced death of All-American Len Bias. Driesell has said he plans to complete the nine years left on his contract.

ANGELS

With two outs, Doug Decinces hit a slow, spinning roller up the first base line that started out in foul territory but curled back fair and hit the bag. Boyd bobbled the carom and first baseman Bill Buckner picked it up as Joyner headed home.

Buckner's throw to catcher Rich Gedman beat Joyner to the plate, but Joyner twisted his body and touched the plate standing up as Gedman applied a swipe tag.

Cooney, the home plate umpire, had followed the ball up the line and was about 40 feet away when he waved Joyner safe. As Boyd, McNamara and other Red Sox raged, Cooney walked toward third base umpire Rich Garcia and appeared to ask for help. At that point, Garcia overruled the call and declared Joyner out.

That made it time for Mauch and the Angels to go berserk. Mauch took on several umpires and screamed at them from inches away, and finally second base umpire Nick Bremigan ejected the veteran manager.

The Angels, denied that run, broke through against Boyd to tie it in the sixth, and it was "Mr. October" who provided the key hit.

Boyd began the inning by striking out Pettis, but walked Joyner.

Downing followed with a bouncer to third. Boggs disdained an easy out at first and instead tried for a force at second. But his throw was a shade late as Joyner slid in safely.

That brought up Jackson, who had only two hits in his last 28 playoff at-bats since 1981, and had managed just two hits in his previous 34 tries this season.

Jackson took a strike before singling sharply through the left side and Joyner scored without a throw.

Braves escape with 28-28 tie

From Staff Reports

IRAAN — The Iraan Braves escaped with their lives, pushing over a two-point conversion with 3:21 remaining to clinch a 28-28 tie with Van Horn here Friday in a key District 5-2A opener.

The highly favored Braves scored the final 14 points to erase a 28-14 deficit early in the third period. The tying scores came on a two-yard touchdown run by quarterback Mic McCravey and a two-point try from Jody Acosta.

Van Horn jumped into the lead with three straight TDs from tailback Alfredo Mendez. Mendez threw a 40-yard pass to Brent Easley for the first one, then scored on runs of 19 and 13 yards. The versatile Mendez also ran back the opening kickoff 88 yards for the first score of the game.

Chewy Ulate led the Braves back with 120 yards and two touchdowns on 19 carries.

The Braves continue in District 5-2A play with another home game next week against Marfa. Van Horn returns home to play Presidio.

Flight attendants ratify agreement

DENVER (AP) — Members of the Association of Flight Attendants who had worked for Frontier Airlines have ratified an agreement with Continental Airlines that would provide job guarantees at Continental for most Frontier employees.

Two other unions — the Air Line Pilots Association and the Transport Workers Union — already have reached agreement with Continental.

Members of a fourth union, Air Line Employees Association, began voting by mail earlier this week, said master chairwoman Carolyn Boller. That vote should be completed by early next week, she said.

"Flight attendant approval is an important step toward completion of a win-win agreement that assures a future for Frontier employees while enabling Continental to extend its low-fare, full-service flights to even more communities," a Continental spokesman said of the agreement reached Thursday.

People Express, parent company of Frontier Airlines, grounded Frontier on Aug. 24, and four days later Frontier filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

Continental has said it will begin hiring Frontier employees and flying the first of up to 42 Frontier planes on Nov. 1, renewing service by the end of the year to at least 17 cities formerly served by Frontier, if all approvals are received and other conditions met.

In anticipation of the startup, more than 100 Frontier pilots have begun FAA-required training in Continental's aircraft procedures and policies.

"We are pleased that Frontier employees are supporting the job guarantee agreement," said Don Osmundson, a spokesman for the Frontier Airlines Union Coalition. "It is especially gratifying that even those who are electing to leave the rapid-paced airline industry have chosen to protect jobs for their fellow workers by giving their approval to the agreement."

Up to 4,000 Frontier workers could be hired at Continental if the agreement is approved and workers waive certain bankruptcy claims against Frontier and People Express.

SMU-Baylor only close contest

Associated Press

Every football game involving a SWC football team this weekend is projected as a blowout by the oddsmakers.

The Baylor-Southern Methodist meeting in Waco is the only game that rates as little as a touchdown difference. The Bears are eight-point picks in a game that could be much, much closer.

In the other games Texas A&M was an 18-point favorite over Houston in a noon (Raycom TV) matchup in the Astrodome, Arkansas was a 22-point favorite over Texas Tech and Texas Christian was a 16-point favorite over Rice in Amon Carter Stadium.

Texas was a whopping 23-point underdog to Oklahoma in the only non-conference game, a 2:30 p.m. regionally televised (ABC) clash in the Cotton Bowl.

Texas A&M has never won at the Astrodome and Texas Tech has never won in Fayetteville.

The SMU-Baylor game shapes up as another wild one in their series which has been overshadowed because it is played on the same day as Oklahoma-Texas.

"I think schools should give some thought to move the date of this game," said SMU Coach Bobby Collins. "It's too fine of a series not to have a spotlight of its own."

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff says it is one of the best matchups in college football.

"Historically this series has had more close, hard-fought battles than any other in this league," Teaff says. "I remember in 1978 we jumped to a 21-0 lead and fumbled on the one trying to score again. We ended up losing 28-21.

"Again, in 1980 the same thing happened but on an opposite scale. We made the last-minute comeback win. You get the idea. This game with SMU will be exciting."

Teaff is 6-8 against SMU and 2-5 in Waco. SMU leads the series 35-26-7.

Baylor and SMU are 2-0 in SWC play, but the Mustangs, who are on NCAA probation, are just playing for the fun of it.

Ten of their last 14 meetings have been decided by a touchown or less.

The Aggies are aware they've never won a game in the Astrodome in four tries.

"A&M has not been very successful playing in the 'Dome," said Aggies' Coach Jackie Sherrill. "Houston will play us extremely hard."

Arkansas, the only unbeaten team in the SWC, will be meeting a Texas Tech team that has been blown out by Miami, Baylor and A&M.

"We remember how Tech got after us last year," said Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield. "After this game, we will be on the road for four of our last six games. We want to finish the homestand on a high note."

Arkansas has beaten Texas Tech nine straight years.

College grid parity...what's that?

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

If there really is parity in college football you cannot tell it from Saturday's schedule.

Eight members of the AP Top Ten are favored by more than 20 points and only fourth-ranked Michigan, which entertains Michigan State, is favored by less than 10. The Wolverines are 9½ points over the Spartans, who will be without star running back Lorenzo White.

Alabama's Ray Perkins summed up the feelings of his coaching colleagues after last week's 28-10 victory over Notre Dame. Asked about this week's game with winless Memphis State in Tuscaloosa, Perkins ignored the fact that Alabama is favored by 36½ points and quoted the coaches' party line.

"You have to have a certain respect for every team and realize that on any Saturday any team can beat you if you're not ready to play," he said. "They've got everything to gain and nothing to lose."

So do West Virginia, a 23-point underdog at home against No. 1-ranked Miami, Fla.; Oklahoma State, which visits third-ranked Nebraska for a night game as a 28-point underdog, and Cincinnati, which plays at No. 5 Penn State, a 23½-point favorite.

College Football

Rounding out the Top Ten, sixth-ranked Oklahoma is 24 points over Texas in their annual shootout at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas; No. 7 Auburn is favored by 21½ at Vanderbilt; eighth-ranked Arkansas plays host to Texas Tech as a 22-point favorite; No. 9 Southern Cal is a 10½-point pick at Washington State and 10th-ranked Iowa is favored by 21½ over Wisconsin at home.

IN THE Second Ten, No. 11 Arizona is at UCLA, No. 12 Washington visits No. 18 Stanford — Saturday's only pairing of Top Twenty teams. Southern Methodist is at No. 13 Baylor for a night game, No. 14 Texas A&M at Houston, No. 15 Arizona State at Oregon, Georgia at No. 16 LSU under the lights, No. 17 North Carolina State at Georgia Tech, Division I-AA Arkansas State at Mississippi State and No. 20 Clemson at Virginia at night.

West Virginia Coach Don Nehlen espouses the nothing-to-lose, everything-to-gain philosophy as his 2-3 Mountaineers take on 5-0 Miami.

"Everything we've lost the last three weeks we can get back in one shot — on national television," he says. "Miami is a very unique college football team. They not only have the single finest performer in the country at quarterback (Vinny Testaverde), they also have excellent performers at every position."

The Memphis State game is Alabama's homecoming and will feature a halftime ceremony celebrating the upcoming December induction of the late Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant into the College Football Hall of Fame.

Nebraska will try to continue its domination of Oklahoma State, a team it hasn't lost to in 24 years (23-0-1).

Michigan, meanwhile, will be trying to make it two in a row over Michigan State. Michigan's Bo Schembechler, who got his 200th coaching victory last week, predicts the game will be "a great classic."

"Really, Michigan State could easily have won the two games that they lost (20-17 to Arizona State, 24-21 to Iowa). They were down in there both times with a chance to win them, so there isn't any question that they're one of the top teams in the country."

Penn State suffered a stunning upset at the hands of Cincinnati three years ago and Coach Joe Paterno will make sure the Nittany Lions don't forget it.

"We've been fortunate that people have made some mistakes," Paterno says. "The Rutgers kid alls down on the 2-yard line, East Carolina throws the ball to us, Boston College fumbles the opening kickoff and Temple was pretty much in the same boat. The other people have given us great opportunities."

Although Auburn and Vanderbilt are members of the Southeastern Conference, this marks just the third meeting in 35 years, which may explain Vandy's 19-9-1 series lead. Some more interesting trivia — Vandy Coach Watson Brown's first full-time job was on Auburn Coach Pat Dye's first staff at East Carolina.

Washington State has dropped its last 16 meetings with Southern Cal since a 13-12 triumph in 1957. And Coach Jim Walden says USC has "added a dimension that they have not had since I have been at Washington State (nine years). Their quarterback, Rodney Peete, can really stretch the field. He can bootleg and he can run himself.

"It's not so much that they throw more, it's that they've got a guy who's such a good athlete with a good arm. He could be flushed out of the pocket and run the distance. He's like a running back."

SAM RAYBURN reservoir was the most productive bass tournament lake in Texas in 1985, says the TPWD. Some 122 clubs turned in reports of 651 tournaments on some 77 reservoirs.

Data is analyzed by computer in five categories: percent success; average weight; number of bass per fisherman; pounds per fisherman and hours required to catch a trophy (six-pound) bass.

Rayburn jumped from third in 1984 to first in 1985. In 34 tournaments reported, anglers caught 1,937 bass with an average weight of 1.51 pounds, equalling a 77 percent success rate and more than 17 percent caught their limit. Anglers caught five bass weighing more than six pounds in tournament competition.

Amistad made the most dramatic jump, ninth to second place, due primarily to percent of success, bass per fishermen and hours per trophy bass.

RAIN SLOWED fishing at Lakes J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence last week, but it boosted prospects for excellent fishing next summer. Thomas caught about 2½ fee and was at elevation 2231.00, highest since autumn of 1982. Spence took 4.50 vertical feet and was at 1880.13, highest since 1980.

Yellow cat and crappie were biting at Thomas and some black bass. At Spence, there was a fair variety, mostly in the small to intermediate range, with a 22-pound striped bass breaking the monotony.

The big prize, the 22-pounder, was reeled in by Midland's Steve Hendricks.

The Mets finally got their offense going in Game Two against Nolan Ryan. Ryan retired the first 10 batters, one shy of the playoff record set by Vida Blue in 1974, then gave up two runs in the fourth and three more in the fifth. That broke a string of 12 scoreless playoff innings for New York.

Keith Hernandez had two hits, including a two-run triple, and Gary Carter drove in a run with a double, but the key was New York's tablesetters. Wally Backman had two hits, scored twice and drove in a run. Lenny Dykstra had two hits and scored once.

Houston's No. 1 and 2 hitters, meanwhile, were ineffective. Lead-off hitter Billy Hatcher and the man who follows him in the order, Billy Doran, each were 1-for-8 for the two games, and only Hatcher scored a run. The Astros stranded 17 runners in the first two games, and it could have been worse but for three Mets double plays.

"We scored two runs in the first two games of the players, so we've got to feel lucky just to win one," Astros Manager Hal Lanier said.

With the lefty Knepper going in Game Three, Mets Manager Davey Johnson planned to use his right-handed hitting platoon for the first time, thus taking both Dykstra and Backman out of the lineup. Switch-hitter Mookie Wilson will hit leadoff, moving from left into Dykstra's center field spot, Tim Teufel replaces Backman at second and hits second, and Kevin Mitchell plays left and hits sixth.

Historical markers immortalized in book

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas historical markers, the black-and-white blurs caught out of the corner of the eye on roadsides and, venerable stone walls, serve helpings of the past a la carte. At their best, they are as light and tantalizing as nouvelle cuisine.

Unfortunately, many are doomed to a black-and-white-and-unread-all-over existence, signposts to lands seemingly traveled only by ghosts.

Claude Dooley, a retired businessman in Marble Falls, brought attention to the oft-underappreciated markers in his book "Why Stop?" The 1985 edition contains the text of 2,600 historical markers. The title notwithstanding, Dooley urges travelers to visit the sites. Part of the magic is looking out over the parking lot or pasture behind a marker and reliving a battle or peopling ruins in your imagination.

"We hope that these inscriptions about the great and not-so-great events that made this legendary state what it is will inspire you to learn more and maybe even stop awhile," Dooley wrote.

James Mulkey Owens, marker dedication chairman for the Travis County Historical Commission, is another great advocate of the marker medium. "If you don't know where you've been, you can't project where you're going," he said. The garrulous author of "Travis County in Stone, Bronze and Aluminum and Travis County Historical Marker Texts," both out of print) will gladly tell you about every one of the 305 markers in this and surrounding counties.

"Hondo Crouch asked me to help him put up a plaque in Luckenbach," he said. "Then he kidded me that I was responsible for all the traffic coming through the tiny town. The residents can't display the marker on the road anyway because it gets ripped off."

Two local favorites are the plate on the east side of the old Zimmerman home at 1600 Peyton Gin Road and the marker in the ghost town of Nameless northwest of Austin.

At face value, the Zimmerman plaque isn't terribly exciting. The finely pared thumbnail sketch describes the construction of the cream-colored rock home and its location on the Shawnee Trail. The last sentence, however, conjures colorful images: "Regina once shot a bear at back door." Regina Reinhard Zimmerman, a German immigrant and mother of five, clearly possessed considerable gumption.

The dedication of the Nameless marker in 1970 caused a minor stir because of is unusually (for the genre) salty language. It should ring the chimes of anyone who has ever tilted against a bureaucratic windmill.

A man got on an elevator and noticed two sets of control buttons. One set was at normal height. The other was waist high. Those didn't do anything. There was a sign which read, "Little buttons for little people" How much of our time is spent pushing buttons that don't do anything. Discover with us which buttons are important and which are not.

ON JUDGING

William Barclay calls our attention to one of Montaigne's gruesome stories about a Persian judge who, confident that he had been bribed to render an unjust and biased verdict on a certain case, betook himself

After Cambyses, the king, learned what had happened he ordered the judge executed. He decreed that the judge's body be skinned and tanned and used to cover the seat where the judges sat in judgment, a grim reminder to them that they should never allow prejudice to affect their verdicts.

We should like at such a moment to say that does bring into clear focus the awesome responsibility some among us have in the task to render justice to all

Jesus was clear and plain about judgment. Said He: "Judge not that you be not judged. For with the judgment you pronounce you will be judged, and the measure you give will be the measure you get." (Matt. 7:1-2)

He was not speaking of civil courts, but surely it is the task of civil judges to administer justice without prejudice. The same principle applies to juries, whether in the jury box or the jury room. Justice is for all, regardless of race, creed, color, sex, or economic status.

Sales in Christian literature soar, expected to 'mushroom even more'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Anderson

NEW YORK (AP) — Religious book publishing has become a vast and swelling industry in this country, with annual commercial sales estimated at more than $500 million and 130 million volumes.

By a key yardstick, that's nearly twice as many volumes as were sold 10 years ago and five times the dollar amount. The total has been figured at more than a third of the commercial market.

While the statistics, compiled from various sources and perhaps not complete because of the diverse scope of the industry and no comprehensive tabs on it, the phenomenal growth is shown by a central source.

That is the Christian Booksellers Association, based in Colorado Springs, Colo., sales of whose 3,400 member stores climbed to about $1.3 billion last year, five times the 1975 total, almost twice what it was five years ago.

At the same time, calculations of the number of religious books sold by those stores, figured at about 27 percent of the total business plus about 16 percent in Bibles, has nearly doubled to about 42 million copies.

That includes about 7 million Bibles, still the all-time best seller every year, the annual total of which probably exceeds 15 million, including various other outlets.

A big chunk of the additional Bibles are distributed through the American Bible Society, which last year sold domestically via its own low-cost channels 1.9 million full Bibles and 1.6 million New Testaments.

Other Bibles flow through denominational conduits, specialty publishers and house-to-house salespeople.

For various kinds of religious books, the Book Industries Studies Group estimates 1985 annual sales at $516.3 million, involving 131 million books, not counting denominational output. "Megatrends" analyst John Nesbitt says the total is more than a third of the total domestic commercial book market.

William H. Anderson, president of the Christian Booksellers Association, says the business has soared, "and in the next five years will mushroom even more."

He attributes the growth to rising religious interest, to better, more sophisticated marketing and display by stores, and to a more appealing quality of religious books turned out by publishers.

"A decade ago, most new religious books were theological, but now they're coming from psychologists, sociologists, pastors, other specialists and lay people," Anderson said in a telephone interview.

"They're aimed at the average American, while a decade ago they were aimed at the theologian."

He said current books deal with religious aspects of all sorts of social issues, human relations, art and culture, along with personal experiences.

"Primary interest is in life-related problems, of Christians solutions to such things as death, living with cancer, raising kids, dealing with a marriage falling apart," he said.

"It's not the old self-help sort of books, but those that offer sound values for facing difficulties and gaining strength through them. This kind of book draws a great deal of attention."

Next to that genre, he said religious fiction is commanding increased demand, with more good writers and more people looking for that sort of light reading with religious elements.

Anderson said that religious best sellers outsell general best sellers by a "2:1 or 3:1" ratio, although only occasionally listed on secular best seller lists, such as those of the New York Times or Time Magazine, since they are compiled from surveys of general trade stores.

"There's a big gap on those lists," Anderson said, with many unlisted religious books selling more than books listed.

As a result, the association has started compiling from its stores its own best-seller lists, now being carried supplementally by the Los Angeles Times, some smaller papers and occasionally by Publishers Weekly.

Anderson said the association's member stores in the past tended to reflect denominational stamps, but now generally have a more inclusively ecumenical approach, handling materials "across the board, mainline and evangelical."

They're serving the whole community," he said.

The association includes 675 associate members, publishers and suppliers, about 125 of them publishers of religious books, with about 35 to 50 of them publishing more than 100 titles annually.

Among major houses are Zondervan of Grand Rapids, Mich., Thomas A. Nelson of Nashville, Tenn., Word, Books of Waco, Texas., Tyndale House of Wheaton, Ill., religious departments of Doubleday of New York and Harper & Row in San Francisco, Multnomah Press of Portland, Ore., Harvest House of Eugene, Ore.

Catholics feel sting of papacy in two recent Vatican actions

Hearst News Service

American Catholics who seven years ago lauded the visit of Pope John Paul II to this country, have started feeling the flip side of his papacy in two recent actions from the Vatican. American Protestants may find that these actions will affect them, too, as some furious minorities rise from the past.

In August, the Vatican suspended the Rev. Charles Curran as a licensed theologian of the church because of his teachings on sexual issues. Curran, a professor of moral theology at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., is the most American Catholic academic to experience such trouble.

The Vatican Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, headed by Cardinal John Ratzinger, said that Curran was not right in his views that the church teachings on sexual issues that have not been declared infallible by the pope.

Another action, more significant than the Curran affair occurred when the pope ordered Archbishop Raymond Hunthausen of Seattle to turn over complete and final decision-making power to Auxiliary Bishop Donald Wuerl in five key areas of authority. The areas included the tribunal that deals with annulments, worship, moral issues concerning real estate transactions, and seminary education.

Hunthausen's support for homosexual Catholics in church life and his outspoken opposition to the nuclear arms race. A two-year investigation of Hunthausen by the Vatican resulted in a letter from the pope's ambassador to the United States, Archbishop Pio Laghi, declaring him a self-doubted bishop of the church eager to implement the renewal called for in the documents of the Second Vatican Council from 1962 to 1965.

While the Vatican has asserted its authority over its bishops in the past for reasons of moral or administrative incompetence, it rarely has asserted power over bishops in doctrinal areas established since Vatican II called its bishops "vicars of Christ," a term used for the first 1,000 years of Christianity.

The reactions from supporters of Hunthausen and Curran has been swift and strong. Hundreds of priests, members of religious orders and laymen in the Seattle archdiocese have protested what they believe is an unwarranted intrusion by Rome against a properly functioning church.

After Curran's suspension, more than 200 members of the Catholic Theological Society and the College Theology Society signed and sent a letter to Rome saying that the action "does not conform to the practice of the church in the United States" and asking why Curran can be singled out for censure when other theologians have written and spoken on the same issues.

Curran's supporters say that the Vatican's actions will affect them, too, as some furious minorities rise from the past.

He's different because he teaches priests about the difficult pastoral decisions they must make, says the Rev. Joe DeFrancisco, chaplain of the Catholic Student Center at Lamar University, who studied under Curran.

"Charles is quite an orthodox teacher," he said. But to develop the pastoral side of his work, Curran conducted evening theological rap sessions to thrash out what Roman Catholic objections to abortion, birth control and homosexuality mean for priests who would deal with such matters in their parishes, he said.

Defenders of the Vatican's actions assert that an institution, and the leaders of that institution, have the right and duty to see that its members conform to its teachings and practices.

Damian Fedoryka, president of Christendom College, a small, traditional Catholic school in Front Royal, Va., put the matter bluntly when he said: "A company such as Kentucky Fried Chicken would be fully justified in demanding that a franchise using its name also use the authentic recipe, not a substitute."

The Polish-born Pope John Paul II, whose piety and commitment are above reproach, has decided how to deal with authoritarian "counterattack." Yet this approach may undermine the real battle Christians claim to fight.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

First Church of Christ to sponsor God's Law lecture

Holliday

The First Church of Christ Scientist, Midland, is sponsoring a lecture, "God's Law of Opportunity," by Barbara B. Holliday, C.S. The lecture will be held at noon Oct. 24 at the Midland Center.

Ms. Holliday, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, emphasizes her belief that "the need to displace despair with opportunity is great."

The lecture is open to the public and child care will be provided.

Women host fundraiser

The Episcopal Church Women of Holy Trinity will host their second annual fundraiser, a "Tasting Extravaganza," from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the parish hall at 1412 W. Illinois.

This year's theme, "Making Memories," will recreate a Victorian ladies' tea. Antique furnishings and Victorian memorabilia will carry the theme throughout the hall.

Events of the day will include a benefit luncheon, bake sale and door prize give-away. There will also be a "Table-Top Fashion Show," which will feature year-round table settings, and a silent auction. A "St. Francis" by Ben Ortega of Santa Fe, N.M., and a pedicure, facial, manicure and haircut donated by a local salon are among other items up for bids at the auction.

Tickets are $6 and will be available at the door.

Proceeds from the "Tasting Extravaganza" support the ECW and its outreach projects such at Meals on Wheels, Hospice, Hearthstone, and the Permian Basin Center for Battered Women and Their Children.

Assembly to be in N.M.

For the first time since Texas and New Mexico Disciples merged in 1974, the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in the Southwest will hold its biennial assembly in New Mexico.

The Oct. 17-20 event in Albuquerque will take not of the centennial of organized Disciples work in the region — the 100th anniversary of the founding of CCSW's predecessor, the Texas Christian Missionary Fellowship, and the parallel development for much of that time of the Christian Church in New Mexico.

The event is expected to attract up to 1,000 Disciples to the Albuquerque Convention Center, said Carole Coffey, of the Fort Worth office of CCSW.

The theme "Disciples, Go Forth!" will be presented by six major speakers. They are Jerrell J. Crosby of Arlington; Ronald E. Osborn of Seaside, Ore.; Nancy Claire Hawley of Dallas; Howard B. Goodrich of Indianapolis, Ind.; Jessie G. Truvillion of Fort Worth and Michael K. Kinnamon of Indianapolis.

Participants will confront business matters, attend Bible study classes and have available to them 22 workshops intended to strengthen congregations and increase understanding of current issues.

Company showcases plays

The A.D. Players, a professional repertory theater company from Houston, will be bringing a one-hour showcase of its plays to St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton Ave., at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Abundant Life" is a grouping of short plays that focus on the many dimensions of abundant life in Christ.

Scheduled for the Midland performance are:

"Item," a play about Christian growth which focuses on a determined woman who wants all the benefits of God's gifts without the disciplines.

"Mary and Martha," a captivating piece about two very different sisters who have a common friend in Jesus Christ.

"The Message," the story of a young Christian who deals with the pressure of compromise while trying to send out a message that says it all.

"A Pair of Ables," an entertaining account of stewardship based on two parables.

and "Tableau I," the parable of the lost sheep told thorugh narrated mime.

The A.D. Players was started 19 years ago in Houston by Jeannette Clift George. Calling themselves the "After Dinner Players" because they hoped to be fed prior to each performance, the company now has grown to 20 full-time and six part-time members, according to Ms. George.

Christian theater, said a spokesman for the group, is unique in that it purposes to glorify Christ.

"It claims theater as a means for illustrating those principles by which all may live the abundant life."

The St. Nicholas performance is sponsored by Episcopal Church Women. Tickets, priced at $5 each, may be purchased at the church or by calling 687-4761 or 686-8497.

'Papa Was Preacher' here

"Papa Was a Preacher" opened Friday at Midland Park Mall.

Based on the novel "Papa Was a Preacher" by Alyene Porter, the movie stars Robert Pine, the sergeant in the "Chips" TV series, as Papa; Georgia Engel, many years a member of the "Mary Tyler Moore Show," as Mama; Imogene Coca as Missy B; and Dean Stockwell, last seen in "Paris, Texas" and "To Live and Die in L.A.," as John White.

Music is by Ken Sutherland, who also wrote the music for "Savannah Smiles." The theme song, "The Door is Open," is sung by Sandi Patti, Grammy Award winner.

Steve Feke wrote the screenplay and directed the movie, which was produced by Martin Jurow, who produced the Midland-filmed "Waltz Across Texas" and co-produced "Terms of Endearment," winner of the 1984 Academy Award for Best Picture. Executive producer is Rose Marie Benton, wife of the Rev. Don Benton, pastor of Lovers Lane United Methodist Church, Dallas.

The movie, which is based on the lives of a Methodist minister, his wife and their family of eight, tells of the story of one year in the life of this family.

An emergency situation occurs and the family is moved from a large church to a smaller church which is on the verge of closing because of financial difficulties. The joys and trials of the family are shown in, including the emotional impact the oldest daughter feels when she leaves the young man she loves.

The idea for the movie came from Mrs. Benton, Ms. Porter, the author of the book, belongs to Lovers Lane UMC, and the two women agreed that, Mrs. Benton said, "Papa Was a Preacher" would make the kind of gentle, romantically nostalgic entertainment which Hollywood has been neglecting of late.

"My husband raised the financing in 40 days," Mrs. Benton said. "With some 147 million people church affiliated today, we know we can count on an enthusiatic audience."

Rated G, the movie was filmed on location in a number of small Texas communities.

Evangelist pair speak

Cornerstone Christian Fellowship will host the Rev. Dick and Linda West, Spirit of Faith evangelists at 10 and 11 a.m. Sunday services.

Based in Nairobi, Kenya, for the past three years, the Wests founed the Mwimoto Christian Life Center. The center consists of a church, a school and an orphanage. They define the center's mission as "serving the helpless in Kenya."

JEANE DIXON'S your horoscope

© 1986 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

By Jeane Dixon
Sunday, October 12, 1986

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Unexpected developments in December or March could turn your whole life around. Take a positive approach to a job hunt. A new sense of hope brings family members closer together. A stroke of luck turns a financial deal to your advantage. Real estate investments are favored. Consult with a professional you can trust when making major decisions. Friends may not have the background to advise you correctly.

CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: New York Mets pitcher Sid Fernandez, operatic great Luciano Pavarotti, comedian Dick Gregory, Susan Anton, Boston Red Sox player-manager Joe Cronin, travel writer Stan Delaplane, NBC sportscaster Tony Kubek, golf's Sally Little, football's Jerry Hill, auto racing's Ned Jarrett, newsman Chris Wallace, Sen. Jake Garn (R-Utah).

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are at your best when your family is nearby. Share any good news you receive today. Plan recreational activities that will bridge the generation gap.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): As your confidence grows, you will be more relaxed. Showing greater tolerance will help to keep your temper under control. Be as financially generous with your children as you can.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be patient with family members who do not understand you. Talk things over. Positive changes and good times lie just around the corner. Maturity will bring greater wisdom.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Take time to evaluate where you are going. Your intuition and common sense will point you in the right direction. Travel increases your chances for a happy romance. Good luck follows you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Try to avoid public confrontation with another family member. Wait until you are alone together to discuss a touchy subject. Rest up for the busy week ahead.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Iron out important disagreement with respective parties before departing on a trip. Return phone calls or you could miss out on a gala social event. Be a good listener.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Set your sights high today! Favorable new trends help you achieve your goals. Social activities that include children are popular with young parents.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Hard work and dedication can take you where you want to go and help to make your dreams come true. Seek out those who share your goals, and success is yours.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Think twice before making an impulsive purchase or extravagant gesture. You find something that was misplaced. Reading could prove the most satisfying way to relax today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Move away from negative people who think only about their own goals. Share your expertise with others. Participating in a community celebration wins you new friends and admirers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Consult your mate before making a major decision. Travel proves very rewarding in many ways. Someone will pop up at the right time. Show your appreciation for a favor.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be sure to explain your intentions before acting or your desire to help a friend could be misconstrued. Safety precautions can prevent a costly accident. Let children help you plan a special event.

'Star Trek' to return with new cast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Star Trek," which became a show business legend after its cancellation nearly 20 years ago, will return to television next September with a new cast in a first-run syndicated series.

"Star Trek: The Next Generation" will begin with a two-hour first episode. After that, there will be 24 one-hour episodes, Paramount Television Group announced at a news conference Friday.

The new show will adhere to creator Gene Roddenberry's "vision, credibility and approach," said Deborah Rosen, a spokeswoman for Paramount. Roddenberry will be executive producer of the series.

Full details have not been worked out, but it is anticipated the show will be set a century after the time of Captain Kirk, Mr. Spock and the Enterprise. The original "Star Trek" was set 200 years into the future.

"Twenty years ago, the genius of one man brought to television a program that has transcended the medium," said Mel Harris, president of Paramount Television Group.

"We are enormously pleased that that man, Gene Roddenberry, is going to do it again. Just as public demand kept the original series on the air, this new series is also a result of grass roots support for Gene and his vision."

"Star Trek" made its debut on NBC on Sept. 8, 1966. Nearly canceled at the end of its second year because of low ratings, it remained for a third year, then ended in September 1969.

But those original episodes are still broadcast in this country on 145 stations, and those stations have bombarded Paramount with requests for new episodes, Miss Rosen said.

"Star Trek" has also been made into four big-budget motion pictures, with the fourth due out this Christmas. The movies have starred the original cast of William Shatner as Capt. James T. Kirk, Leonard Nimoy as Mr. Spock, DeForest Kelley as Dr. Leonard McCoy, George Takei as Sulu, Nichelle Nichols as Uhura, James Doohan as Montgomery Scott and Walter Koenig as Ensign Pavel Chekov.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jane Pauley, who has been on maternity leave from NBC's "Today" show, planned to mark her 10th anniversary on the program Friday with a cameo appearance. Instead, she returned as co-host.

The show opened with a tape of Ms. Pauley's last appearance before her leave, at the July 23 wedding of Prince Andrew and Sarah Ferguson in London. She promised then to come back Oct. 10 "for a hello" and to return to work Oct. 13.

Pauley

But Tom Brokaw, who was to substitute for Ms. Pauley this week, had to go to Iceland to cover the Reagan-Gorbachev summit. Ms. Pauley stepped in, calling it "my sacrifice for the cause of world peace."

Her partner, Bryant Gumbel, welcomed her back and commented on her 10-year tenure by saying, "You've aged gracefully in the role."

Ms. Pauley's third child, Thomas, was born Aug. 27. She and her husband, Doonesbury cartoonist Garry Trudeau, also have 3-year-old twins.

NEW YORK (AP) — A young, malnourished malaria-stricken boy, from the deserts of Africa, who once wondered whether he'd live to see tomorrow, is spending the weekend in Manhattan on a tour guided by CBS's Diane Sawyer.

Mohammed Ag Albakaye, who doctors estimate is between 13 and 17 years old, was rescued from a famine-refugee camp in Mali after he was interviewed by Ms. Sawyer for a January 1985 "60 Minutes" piece on the drought there.

Charles and Cheryl Shotts of Indianapolis saw the segment repeated in August 1985 and decided Mohammed was their responsibility, Ms. Sawyer said.

With four months of hard work, a $2,000 phone bill and the help of a missionary, the Shotts located the boy and brought him to America last Christmas.

After living for 10 months in suburban Mohammed now speaks television English, Ms. Sawyer. He rides his bike around his neighborhood and says he wants a limousine when he grows up. From a boy who had nothing to eat in the desert, it's amazing how quickly America affects your values.

The story of Mohammed, who still suffers complications from malnourishment, will be featured on "60 Minutes" Sunday night.

Sadat

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Jihan Sadat, the widow of former President Anwar Sadat, has earned a doctorate in English literature from Cairo University.

Mrs. Sadat, 53, wrote her dissertation on the influence of English literary criticism on Egyptian critics. A panel of three professors awarded the degree with honors after a 2½-hour discussion on her dissertation, Thursday.

Mrs. Sadat served as visiting professor at the University of South Carolina last year, teaching a course on women in Egyptian culture. She also has taught at the university's School of Arts.

Glenn

ROME (AP) — Actor Scott Glenn is used to playing tough guys, but he says his latest role breaks out of the mold of the avenging, machine-gun-toting war hero.

"This isn't another Rambo character. That's a cartoon," said the 41-year-old Glenn, referring to his latest role as an ex-CIA agent stationed in Beirut who is on the brink of a nervous breakdown because his last assignment accidentally killed a group of children.

"This is a live human being who has been traumatized by a life of violence," he said in an interview on the set.

The movie, "Man on Fire," is adapted from a book by A.J. Quinnell and scheduled for release in the United States next year.

As with some of his previous roles — as an astronaut in "The Right Stuff" and a gunslinging cowboy in "Silverado" — Glenn spent hours practicing for the part.

Glenn's character undergoes a transforming process after accepting a responsibility for a 12-year-old girl. But he soon finds himself drawn to the violent lifestyle after she is kidnapped and he must find her.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Actor-comic Gabe Kaplan, the teacher with a room full of characters in his sitcom "Welcome Back, Kotter," was a victim of his own here.

Kaplan, who is starring in a production of "Fiddler on the Roof" at a local theater, had to pay a parking fee after his borrowed truck was removed from a parking lot with signs apparently obscured by trees.

The 40-year-old Brooklyn native and fellow actor Matt McQuaid were picked up when they decided to make a U-turn and pulled into a drugstore parking lot.

"We didn't think they'd tow. We thought the signs were for the daytime," Kaplan said.

Senators think NSC involved with arming Contras

NATION

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic senators said Friday that members of the National Security Council may have organized a private supply network to arm Nicaragua's Contra rebels in violation of U.S. law and the decrees of Congress.

Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., said he has "evidence there have been violations of the Neutrality Act and the Arms Export Control Act over the course of the last year and a half to two years by people acting with the open encouragement of the Reagan administration."

"And I have some evidence there are some people within the reaches of the administration, or in other words the NSC (National Security Council) or people who work in connection with them, who have also violated those laws," Kerry said.

Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, said it is becoming apparent that "perhaps it's the National Security Council and not the Central Intelligence Agency where we ought to be looking" to learn who was responsible for a cargo plane shot down over Nicaragua this week.

Republican Sen. David Durenberger of Minnesota, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said all of the Americans involved in the flight of the cargo plane had been involved with the CIA at some time in the past, but that none was a current CIA employee.

He said that while it now appears the CIA deliberately stayed out of efforts to arm the Contras over the past two years, the same cannot be said "for the president of the United States and other people who by their own admission have been encouraging these private operations."

"I think the White House knows, has not been telling the world and probably should at some point to help the CIA," Durenburger said.

But Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said in a statement delivered on the Senate floor that Americans are also in Nicaragua helping the Sandinistas. He also said there would have been no need for private U.S. help to the anti-Sandinista Contras if a "small willful minority" in the House had not held up final action on $100 million in U.S. aid for the rebels.

The State Department, meanwhile, complained that the Nicaraguan government had delivered the bodies of two Americans killed when the cargo plane was shot down by dumping their sealed coffins at the front door of the U.S. Embassy in Managua in "a circus-like propaganda maneuver instead of the respect for the dead one would expect from a civilized nation."

The bodies of William J. Cooper and Wallace B. Sawyer were being flown to Miami, the State Department said.

Nicaragua's embassy said a captured American survivor, Eugene Hasenfus, was being allowed a visit Friday by the U.S. consul in Managua, Donald Tyson. American officials had complained that they had had no access to Hasenfus but that he had instead been displayed to reporters, telling them that the CIA had arranged the flight.

State Department spokesman Pete Martinez asked about Nicaraguan statements that Hasenfus would be put on trial, would say only that the United States was continuing to insist that he "be treated fairly in accordance with law and due process."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has opened an investigation into who was responsible for sending the cargo plane over Nicaraguan territory. Kerry and other members of the committee were briefed in private Friday by CIA and State Department officials.

Kerry told reporters after that meeting he believes it is imperative that testimony be taken under oath from members of the National Security Council, including Oliver North, deputy director of policy development and political-military affairs. Kerry said North has been linked in published reports to a private effort to arm the Contras.

"It is important to get to the bottom of this," Kerry said.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., the committee chairman, said he has no intention of issuing subpoenas to compel the appearance of NSC members, but Kerry said, "I hope the chairman can be persuaded to change his mind."

Harkin, speaking on the Senate floor, said it appears the administration used the National Security Council to get around laws restricting U.S. support for the Contras.

"What good does it do for us to pass laws restricting the CIA if the White House does an end run through the National Security Council?" Harkin asked. "Obviously it looks like an end run has been done."

He complained of "Rambo types in the White House trying to carry out this thing."

Kerry said he wants to learn who paid Hasenfus a reported $3,000 a month.

"We could answer a lot of questions if we could find the bank record and find out where that money was coming from," Kerry said.

BankAmerica Corp. president resigns

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Samuel H. Armacost, president and chief executive officer of embattled BankAmerica Corp., announced his resignation Friday after five stormy years at the helm of the nation's second-largest banking concern.

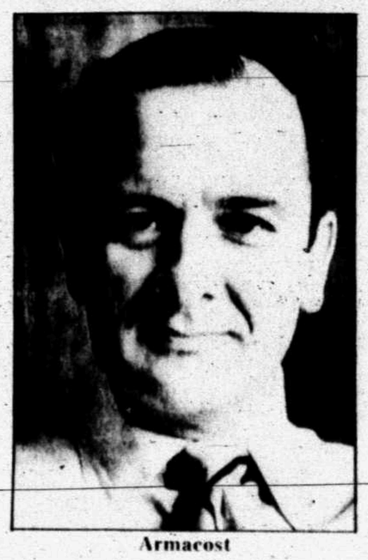

Armacost, 47, said in a news release that he ended his 25-year career at BankAmerica because the bank's image had been "so eroded by rumor and speculation that a change in management is necessary to help restore confidence in this organization's capabilities and future."

"The best interests of our shareholders, customers and employees have always been my principal concern, and if my stepping aside serves that purpose, I do so willingly," he said.

The company has suffered from loan losses, was assessed a record $4.75 million fine in January for violating government regulations on currency transaction reporting, and several weeks ago saw its stock price plunge because of unconfirmed rumors about its financial status.

The company's board of directors will meet on Sunday to act on the resignation and to name a successor, according to spokesman John Keane.

The announcement fueled rumors that Armacost's predecessor, former World Bank president A.W. Clausen, would replace him. Banking industry officials also said that Thomas Cooper, president of the corporation's Bank of America unit, was an equally likely choice.

Armacost

Clausen declined to comment on the rumors at a news conference at the Business Council's semi-annual meeting in Hot Springs, Va.

BankAmerica chairman Leland S. Prussia also may quit, but his resignation has not been forced, according to unnamed industry sources quoted in Friday's editions of the Wall Street Journal.

BankAmerica common shares closed at $14.87½ Friday, up 62½ centers from Thursday.

Armacost has spent his entire career with BankAmerica, which trails only New York's Citicorp in size among U.S. banking companies. He joined the company at age 22 as a trainee lending officer, rising through a series of jobs before succeeding Clausen in April 1981.

From 1981 through the first half of this year, BankAmerica has suffered loan losses of about $4.6 billion, and earlier this year eliminated its common stock dividend for the first time since the Depression.

While Armacost inherited a number of the problem loans from Clausen's term, analysts said that many were made under Armacost's tenure.

Questions about Armacost's grip on his office, widespread for some time, intensified following BankAmerica's $640 million loss during the second quarter of this year.

BankAmerica suffered a $337 million loss for 1985, largely because of problem loans.

Several weeks ago, rumors circulated that the company was in serious financial trouble and holding talks with federal regulators about a bailout. BankAmerica and regulators strongly denied the reports, and the company said it asked for a federal investigation of the rumors.

Armacost in March convinced the BankAmerica board to reject a proposal by Sanford Weill, former president of American Express Co., to raise $1 billion in capital in exchange for leadership of the company.

In addition, Armacost twice earlier this year rebuffed informal merger overtures by First Interstate Bancorp., which made a formal $2.77 billion merger offer on Monday.

A First Interstate's spokesman was not immediately available for comment on Armacost's departure, nor was a spokeswoman for Security Pacific Corp. which has offered to help BankAmerica remain independent and indicated it might be willing to buy some BankAmerica assets.

But a banking source close to the situation said the departure of Armacost "probably would cause some intensification" of First Interstate's merger proposal.

Armacost, who received $575,000 in compensation last year, had been covered by a "golden parachute" severance agreement valued at $1.7 million, but Keane said Armacost would not receive it.

The BankAmerica board quietly approved such severance agreements two months ago for top officers to take effect in the event of a management change due to a hostile takeover bid.

Experts endorse NASA's decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — An independent panel of scientific and engineering experts has endorsed NASA's decision to continue testing its redesigned shuttle booster rockets in the same horizontal position as before the Challenger explosion, a NASA source said Friday.

The expert panel was organized by the National Research Council at the recommendation of the Rogers Commission, which studied the Jan. 28 shuttle explosion. The Rogers group urged that NASA give serious consideration to full-scale vertical tests of the new booster rock design to "duplicate the actual launch configuration as closely as possible."

But on Oct. 2, NASA rejected that suggestion. "It is NASA's belief that testing in the horizontal attitude is the most demanding test of the redesigned joint for pressure and flight-induced loads, and thus best satisfies the commission's intent," the agency said.

The experts' review of that decision was presented to NASA Administrator James C. Fletcher on Friday afternoon and is to be released publicly on Monday morning.

A NASA source, speaking on condition of not being identified by name, said the expert report "concurs with the decision to do horizontal testing as opposed to vertical."

No other detail of the experts' report could be obtained.

Gail Porter, spokeswoman for the National Research Council, declined to comment on its contents.

NASA's acting director of propulsion, David L. Winterhalter, had said that constructing a vertical test stand for full-scale firing of the 149-foot-long solid fuel rockets would have added at least a year to the length of time it would take for the shuttles to resume flight.

Winterhalter also said such a test stand could cost about $30 million.

The Rogers commission determined that a leak from a joint in the right booster rocket allowed hot gases to escape to the adjacent shuttle fuel tank, causing the explosion. It demanded that the booster rockets be redesigned to eliminate such flaws.

Winterhalter said the first test of the new design will come in December at the Brigham City, Utah, plant of the manufacturer, Morton Thiokol.

Researchers say meteorites may be pieces of Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A group of eight similar meteorites found scattered on several continents may be pieces of Mars, say researchers at the California Institute of Technology.

A large asteriod or comet could have boosted the Martian pieces into space after striking the surface of the planet nearest Earth, wrote John D. O'Keefe and Thomas J. Ahrens in Friday's issue of the journal Science.

The scientists said that a Martian origin was suspected because of the meteorites' geological characteristics and chemical composition.

The scientists had been puzzled by the manner in which the material could have escaped from Mars. They said large boulders would need to accelerate beyond the Martian escape velocity of 11,300 mph to get into space.

At the institute, the scientists experimented with a 100-foot-long, 35-ton gas gun. They shot one-ounce plastic bullets at speeds up to 16,000 mph.

Using data gathered in the experiment, the scientists determined the angle an object striking the Martian surface would need to blast parts of the Martian crust into space.

They found that a strike at an angle of 25 to 60 degrees from the horizontal surface would vaporize rocks, trapped water, carbon dioxide and other gases trapped in the Martian crust.

The blasted material could produce a jet of hot gas that would propel objects up to one meter in diameter off the surface of mars and out into space, the researchers said.

"They probably don't get a high enough velocity to escape the solar system and they go into orbit around the sun," Ahrens said. "A small number leak out of the zone around Mars and eventually go into Earth-crossing orbits."

The meteorites are unlike 10,000 or so others in museums, wrote O'Keefe, a planetary scientist, and Ahrens, a professor of geophysics.

The scientists said that the meteorites crystallized from molten rock only 1.3 billion years ago.

Asteroids, which form the source of almost all other meteorites, cooled completely about 4.5 billion years ago and volcanic activity on the moon ceased about 4.2 billion years ago.

In addition, the meteorites have spent only 2 million to 10 million years in interplanetary space as judged by their cosmic ray exposure times, the scientists wrote.

Students expelled for selling stolen goods at school

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Three high school students were expelled and 11 were suspended in an alleged scheme by students at a private school to take orders for merchandise they stole and sold at school.

Two of the expelled students, both 10, were arrested at a shopping mall, police said.

The thefts "were not the sort of thing we expected to happen here with these students," said Patricia McCart, principal of the upper school at St. Paul Academy and Summit School, where annual tuition tops $6,100. The upper school has pupils in grades seven through 12, but the 14 students disciplined were sophomores and juniors.

Although the school has a "rich kid" reputation, McCart said Thursday that 22 percent of students receive financial aid. The thefts, she said, "were not based on need. I didn't get that impression."

The expulsions prompted a peaceful protest Thursday by about 80 of the upper school's 510 students who considered the administration's response too harsh.

"We understand that what these kids did was really wrong," protester Mark Levine said. But he and several classmates said officials should have tried to help the students rather than expel them.

The mother of one of the arrested youths, who asked to remain anonymous, said her son had received about $155 from selling stolen goods, mostly blue jeans.

The teen-agers did not need the money, she said. "I think part of it was the excitement of it. Part of it was the status of it."

Last weekend, a guard caught two teen-agers stealing in a department store, said Edina police Lt. Bill Bernhjelm. Later that night, police recovered $585 worth of stolen goods from them, he said.

School officials don't know how much merchandise was sold on campus, McCart said.

Peres resigns as prime minister; Shamir takes his place

JERUSALEM (AP) — Shimon Peres resigned as prime minister of one of Israel's most popular governments Friday to make way for his political foe, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, in an unprecedented job swap.

Peres warned, however, that the coalition government under Shamir would not survive its 25-month term if it doesn't advance Middle East peace.

In keeping with a September 1984 job-swapping pact, Peres is to become foreign minister and Shamir prime minister. The arrangement was part of a power-sharing accord worked out after a national election gave neither Peres' left-leaning Labor Party nor Shamir's conservative Likud bloc enough votes to form a government on its own.

"I am very proud right now," Peres said after honoring his agreement to resign. He said he stepped down "for the good of the country, its needs and requirements."

Peres, 63, remains caretaker prime minister until Shamir presents his government to parliament next Tuesday or Wednesday and wins its approval.

Shamir, 70, is to serve until November 1988. He is unlikely to make significant changes in the composition of the new Cabinet and has vowed to stick to policies agreed upon in the coalition accord.

But Shamir's hard-line views toward Arabs are expected to alter the tone of the government, which appeared more willing to make concessions under Peres. Peres held the first summit with Egypt in five years, met with Moroccan King Hassan II and agreed to an Arab demand for an international conference on the Middle East.

Peres warned that his party would topple Shamir's government unless it "continues the peace process."

"If the government will follow the agreed guidelines it will last for the duration. If not, there may be a problem," Peres told reporters at President Chaim Herzog's residence after handing in his resignation.

Pollster Mina Zemah of the Dahaf agency told Israel radio that surveys over the past year consistently indicated that 75 percent of Israeli voters wanted the coalition government to survive, despite its internal bickering.

"The public is thirsty and hungry for stability," she said, "and that's what our surveys reflect."

Peres' seven-party governing coalition curbed triple-digit inflation and reduced Israel's military involvement in Lebanon, but was shaken by a dozen crises that threatened its survival.

Labor and Likud deputies remained divided Friday over Labor demands for more say in economic policy and Likud plans to put Yitzhak Modai back in the Cabinet.

Peres fired Modai as justice minister in July for criticizing the premier's policies, and opposes his reinstatement to the government.

The disagreements were not expected to hold up Shamir's takeover, but aides feared the disagreements could topple the new government within two months.

One key difference between Likud and Labor is Likud's promise to build more Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, a move that would antagonize efforts to reach the negotiating table with neighboring Jordan.

Dan Meridor, a Likud member of the Knesset, said Shamir's government could fall if King Hussein of Jordan expressed readiness to accept Labor's platform for territorial compromise in the West Bank in return for a peace agreement.

"If Hussein says he's ready to come and consider Labor's compromise plan, this is a reason to go to the people (call new elections)," he said.

Shamir, who stepped in as prime minister in 1983 after Likud's Menachem Begin resigned, has promised to pursue peace efforts.

But as a Parliament member Shamir voted against Israel's 1979 peace treaty with Egypt, and he has opposed giving up any territory captured in the 1967 Middle East War.

By law, Shamir will become prime minister only after Herzog chooses him and he wins a parliamentary vote of confidence.

Herzog must consult formally with the parties in Israel's 120-seat Knesset, but this is a formality since the seven parties in the coalition already have agreed to serve under Shamir.

Herzog began consultations Friday, but they may take until Tuesday because of the intervening Jewish Sabbath and Yom Kippur.

They Place The World At Your Feet

When your Reporter-Telegram carrier delivers the paper to your home or office each day, he or she is placing the latest news and information of the entire world right at your feet.

That's what you can and should expect as a Reporter-Telegram subscriber.

That's also what makes Reporter-Telegram carriers so special. To meet their daily responsibility of delivering the world to you, Reporter-Telegram carriers must be dedicated, ambitious, enthusiastic, and determined. For these fine qualities as exemplified in their faithful service, it's only right that we set aside a day each year in their honor. So join us this International Newspaper Carrier Day 1986 as we pay tribute to the thousands of newspaper carriers across the United States and Midland who so reliably place the world at your feet everyday.

THIS DOESN'T FIGURE IN VOLVO'S 3-YEAR NEW-CAR WARRANTY.

When you buy one of our Volvos, there's no limit to how far you can go. Because Volvo is the only car sold in the U.S. backed with a 3-year new-car limited warranty that puts no limit on mileage.

And unlike some other car warranties, the Volvo warranty is not limited to the engine and drive train. It covers every part of your new Volvo against defects in material or workmanship ... which means you won't have to worry about a single thing.

Even if another carmaker were to offer a warranty this good, they wouldn't have what it takes to back it up: a 1986 Volvo.

LET'S TALK ABOUT CORPORATE PROPERTIES...

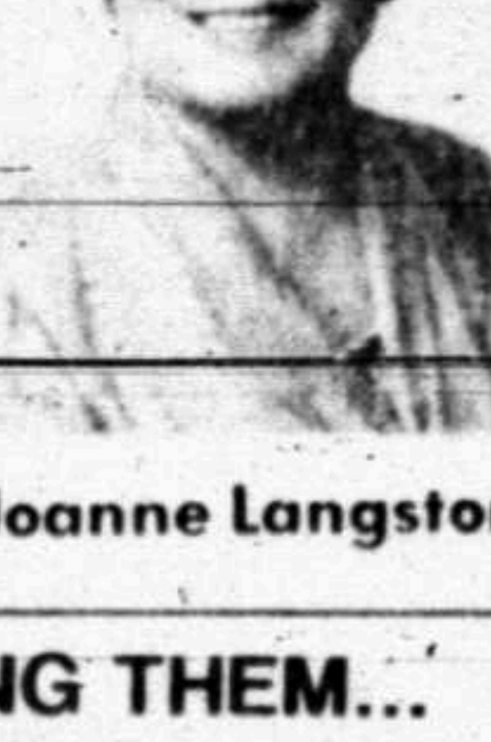

This Sunday, Many of our corporate properties will be featured on open houses, giving rise to the question, "What are corporate properties?" Simply put, they are homes bought by an employer, at an appraised value, from transferred employees.

While these transactions are costly to employers, they may save money in the long run because they enable Corporations to have transferred employees on the job, where and when needed, without the worries of homes that must be sold, and usually with the family units intact.

Some Corporations have "in house" departments to negotiate these purchases and resales, but most contact with banks or third party companies to handle these transactions. That way you may also hear these homes referred to as third party properties.

Because purchases of employee homes tie up valuable business dollars, and because each day of holding time adds to the costs of purchase, corporate homes are usually priced most competatively and are put in top condition so that they will resale as quickly as possible.

"Corporate homes are among the best buys on the market, drop by and see for yourself this Sunday!"
