Saudis Supporting U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)-The United States is getting strong support from Saudi Arabia in its confrontation with Iran.

"We appreciate the wisdom of the way the United States is dealing with the situation," Saudi Ambassador Faisal Alhegelan said Monday as he left the State Department after a meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

The Carter administration is going to great lengths to gain the understanding and support of the Saudis, who wield both religious and monetary influence in the Islamic world.

Incentive Coupons For Dealers

DETROIT (AP)-In an effort to clear out inventories, Chrysler Corp. is giving its dealers $200 coupons for many 1979 cars and trucks, and Ford Motor Co. has added luxury cars to its program of dealer rebates.

A Chrysler spokesman said Tuesday its coupons are offered on "larger engine vehicles." The coupons are in addition to previously announced cash rebates of $300 which the company pays to customers of 1979 vehicles.

If the dealers pass on the $200 coupons to customers when they make a purchase, prices could be reduced by $500 per vehicle.

Teachers Paychecks Delayed

CHICAGO (AP)-Despite a last-minute $37 million advance in state funds, this week's paychecks for teachers in the cash-strapped Chicago public school system will be five days late.

A Chicago Board of Education spokesman said payday must be delayed until next Tuesday so enough funds will be available to pay off $89 million in short-term notes due Monday.

"The delay was a priority because defaulting on the notes would endanger all future funding," said Thomas Maloney, board spokesman.

Khomenini Repeats Threat

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini declared today the remaining 49 American hostages in the occupied U.S. Embassy here will be tried as spies if the United States does not return the ousted shah to Iran.

"The hostages will remain in the nest of spies and after that President Carter will understand what a mistake he has made," said a statement by Khomeini broadcast by Tehran Radio.

The proliferation of football bowl games is causing headaches for promoters and the television networks. There are so many bowl games now that the Christmas-New Year season has nearly as many attractions as a regular-season weekend.

In their rush to sign up the most attractive teams, the promoters begin "scouting" as soon as the season begins, and by the time November arrives, they are traveling in packs to the big games every weekend.

The past weekend was of supreme importance to these bowl promoters because they could actually announce selections when games were completed Saturday evening.

The Southwest Conference apparently has reaped a bonanza in bowl games this time. No less than four teams from the conference are lined up for the post-season fling, all of them in attractions that have good television contracts. That means money for the conference members, because they have an arrangement in which all members get a cut of bowl receipts.

The only problem remaining now is that three of the four bowl-bound Southwest Conference teams don't know precisely where they are going. If the conference standings remain as they are today, Arkansas will be in the Cotton Bowl, University of Texas will be in the Sugar Bowl and Houston University will be in the Sun Bowl, but that can change. Baylor is reasonably certain that it will play in the Peach Bowl against Clemson, but the powers that be reminded this week that even Baylor has a mathematical shot at the Cotton Bowl. So they're not wholesaling tickets to Atlanta, yet.

It was news of an infrequent type that emerged from Baylor following its 45-14 victory over Rice. The Bears got invitations to three bowl games. They accepted the Peach Bowl, where Clemson will be the opposition, because it will have nation-wide TV coverage on the CBS network. They could have gone to the Tangerine Bowl to play Wake Forest in an all-Baptist battle, or to another which Coach Grant Teaff did not identify, but said it was "out west."

But the most disturbing news from Baylor over the weekend was that Teaff, the former Snyder High football star, is "high on the list" at Louisiana State University for the head coaching job there. Since going to Baylor in 1972, Teaff has taken himself out of consideration for the head coaching jobs at Texas Tech and at Oklahoma State. The question is, can he reject a third offer from a big, state university? A lot of Baylor folks are nervous about the situation. He not only produced Baylor's first conference champion in 50 years in 1974, but has had excellent luck in defeating some of these big state schools since he went to Baylor. For example, in 68 games between Baylor and the University of Texas Longhorns, the Bears have managed to win only 14 and tie four. Yet, in seven years at Baylor, Teaff's teams have accounted for three of those victories over UT. Three out of seven against the "Horns is nothing to be sneezed at. Not many coaches anywhere can match that record.

Appear In Good Shape...

Iran Frees 10 More Today

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-Ten more Americans freed after being held hostage for 16 days in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran were flown to Europe today to join three others released Monday.

An Iran Air jetliner carrying the 10 landed at Orly Airport in Paris. They then were flown to Frankfurt, West Germany, in a U.S. Air Force hospital plane and taken by car to an Air Force hospital in nearby Wiesbaden for medical examinations and questioning by U.S. officials. There was no word on whether they would be home in time for Thanksgiving.

According to French security agents at the airport, the Iranian jetliner arrived with one engine smoking.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur A. Hartman said the six men and four women "looked in good shape, considering what they have been though." Hartman went on the bus that carried the released hostages to the Air Force plane.

Also on the bus was Ann McKeown, a former secretary to the U.S. ambassador in Tehran, who left shortly before the siege began. Ms. McKeown, fighting back tears, saw old friends among the released hostages and said they looked remarkably well.

Before leaving Tehran one of the freed captives, Joan Walsh of Ogden, Utah, told reporters at Mehrabad Airport that the remaining 53 hostages were in "greater danger than we were."

The U.S. government said two women were among the 49 Americans still held in the embassy by students demanding that the United States hand over deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime for trial. One black man also was believed among them.

The Carter administration renewed its demand for the release of all the hostages and said if Khomeini carried out his threat to put some of them on trial as spies, it would be a "further flagrant violation" of international law as well as a violation of "elementary human rights."

Foreign Press Director Abolghassan Sadegh told The Associated Press it had not been decided whether any of the hostages would be tried. But "If there is going to be a trial," he continued, "It will be carried out by the country's legal courts, either the special revolutionary tribunals which have sentenced more than 600 persons to death by firing squad or the ordinary courts. There will be no trial by the students in the embassy compound."

"Even if some of the Americans are tried and found guilty and sentenced to death for spying," he added, "The Ayatollah Khomeini is empowered under Islamic law to pardon them."

City Council Awards Ambulance Franchise

Kerrie Palmer, 21, an emergency medical technician who has resided here for the past month, was awarded an ambulance service franchise here last night by the Snyder City Council.

Mrs. Palmer's application was accepted at a special session of the council. She is scheduled to take over operation of the ambulance service here at noon Wednesday. She will succeed Tommy Galyean as the operator. Galyean, the ambulance service operator for the past six years had advised the city and county earlier of his intentions to give up his contract.

Mrs. Palmer announced that she had employed Bobby Lee, another applicant and also an emergency medical technician, from Colorado City, to assist in the operation of the service here.

One of the requirements in the new franchise agreement is that at least two EMT's be employed.

Mrs. Palmer and Lee were conferring with City Manager John Gayle this morning as they worked out details of the new contract. The city and the county share in a subsidy

Mike Kozelsky Receives Fireman-Of-Year Award

Mike Kozelsky was named Fireman of the Year last night during the Snyder Fire Department's 51st annual Thanksgiving dinner and banquet.

The dinner was held at K-Bob's Steakhouse and was attended by approximately 75 persons.

The award to Kozelsky was presented by Roy Meador, on behalf of Mrs. Flora Hughes and Snyder Broadcasting Co., sponsor of the award for the 23rd consecutive year.

Service awards went to G.L. Autry, 30 years; Benny Benitez, 20 years; Kelly Wright, five years; and Alfred Kohl, fire chief, and Darby Scott, both 15 years.

Firefighters recognized for their 100 percent attendance in fire drills were Kenneth Wood, Odell Cox, Benny Benitez, Tommy Guynes, Alfred Kohl, Buddy Whittenburg, Kenny Wood, Bruce Beal, Clint Doty, G.L. Autry, and Albert Cannon.

In presenting his annual fire report, Kohl noted that 228 runs were made by the department this year. Precinct-wise, 17 run were made in Precinct 1, 25 in Precinct 2, 20 in Precinct 3, and 18 in Precinct 4. The remaining runs were limited to inside the city.

Showing an increase this year over last year was the number of house fires. This year, said Kohl, 14 house fires were reported inside the city limits while 12 more calls on house fires came from the county.

The invocation was delivered by Howard Robinson who also acted as master of ceremonies during the banquet.

Providing entertainment was Cindy Hataway.

United Way Urges All To Contribute

Scurry County United Way edged closer to its goal today, and campaign leaders urged everyone who has not contributed to make a special effort to help close out a successful drive.

Contributions and pledges now total $46,970.70, or 82.4 percent of the goal, it was announced at a report session this morning.

"We hope the people of Snyder and Scurry County will not let us down," said Brenda Hedges, campaign co-chairman. "They haven't before and we feel sure they won't this time."

The campaign was extended following last week's report session so that workers could complete unfinished assignments and more people could have an opportunity to give.

"We need the support of everyone for these worthwhile agencies," said Mrs. Hedges. The United Way provides financial assistance to 14 agencies.

Three divisions of the campaign had reached their goals this morning. The rural division has accounted for $2,321, or 116 percent of its goal; the public employees division has turned in $2,160, or 108 percent of its goal, and the educational division has collected $4,421, or 104.7 percent of its goal. Other divisions include the utility, $3,941, or 94 percent of its goal; advance, $16,095, or 89 percent of its goal; professional, $1,663, or 83 percent of its goal; branch house-commercial, $8,010, or 80.5 percent of its goal; royalty owners, $1,135, or 71 percent of its goal; oil and industries, $7,224.40, or 55.5 percent of its goal.

Settlement Reached In School Cafeteria Case

A suit against the Snyder Independent School District, administrators and board members filed by two former managers of school cafeterias was settled late Monday in Federal District Court in Lubbock.

Mary Beth Hicks and Joyce Smith filed the suit following their dismissal in the spring of 1977 by Charles Ketchum, who was director of school food service at that time.

They had sought reinstatement to the jobs, plus back pay and damages, with the total monetary award sought calculated at $923,163.60.

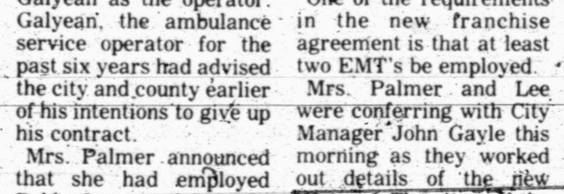

Following testimony presented on behalf of the plaintiffs it was announced that a settlement had been reached for a total of $10,000.

The settlement was proposed by Tom Milam, attorney representing the insurance carrier for the school personnel and board members named as defendants. School trustees earlier had been reluctant to negotiate a settlement, indicating as they went into court that they preferred to let the court settle the issue.

Forest Bowers of Lubbock and Dan Cotton of Snyder were attorneys representing the school district.

The two plaintiffs had alleged that they were dismissed without cause. They appeared at a hearing before the school board in June of 1977, and following the hearing the board in a split decision upheld their dismissal. The suit was filed several months later.

Meanwhile, the school no longer operates its school cafeterias, having contracted this year with Greyhound Food Management Co. to operate the school food service program.

West Texas -- Winter storm watch in effect for the Panhandle tonight. Cloudy with scattered showers and thundershowers through tonight. Wind with rain changing to snow in the Panhandle tonight. Partly cloudy and colder most sections Wednesday. Highs near 60 north to near 80s south. Lows lower 20s north to upper 40s extreme south. Highs Wednesday near 50 north to near 60 south.

Ask Us

Q--Why doesn't Snyder-Scurry County have a humane society?

A-The only reason we have been able to determine is that nobody has been interested enough to organize one. A human society, incidentally, is not a government function.

School Holidays Begin Wednesday

Thanksgiving holidays will begin Wednesday afternoon in area schools.

Also, Western Texas College will dismiss classes at 1 p.m. and dormitories will close at 2 p.m. Wednesday for the Thanksgiving weekend.

Snyder Public Schools will dismiss classes at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, with classes scheduled to resume Monday morning.

Football Contest Ends Season Today

This year's Snyder Daily News Football Contest ends today with three final winners.

Stanley White, 2301 Ave I, is the first place winner while Cary Coffee, 217 34th St. and Mrs. Naida White, 2301 Ave I, tied for second.

Stanley White miscalled games between N.Y. Giants and Tampa Bay, Highland and Ira, Navy and Georgia Tech, Pittsburgh and San Diego, and Dallas and Washington.

Coffee and Mrs. White each mispredicted the outcomes of six games to win second place.

White will receive $12.50 while Coffee and Mrs. White will divide the second prize of $5, giving each $2.50. Winners may pick up their money at the SDN office.

Although this week's contest marked the last for the year, football fans may start priming their skills ----next year's football season is less than 10 months away!

keep moving ahead

When the stock market collapsed 50 years ago, people everywhere realized a major disaster had occurred, but they could not know they were witnessing the beginning of an economic catastrophe without parallel in American or modern world history.

The "Panic" of October, 1929, quickly deepened into the Great Depression that was to afflict and partially paralyze the entire earth for 10 years, until it was interrupted by an even greater calamity, World War II.

Some historians and commentators have ranked the Great Depression and the Civil War as seminal events that have most shaped the American experience. Although such judgments may be debated, there is consensus that the non-legendary '29 crash was the point at which whole ages turned, where faith in the American dream wavered, and where national innocence was called into question.

That innocence was expressed by President Herbert Hoover who predicted not long before "Black Thursday" the abolition of poverty and presented a vision of unlimited abundance.

Such a rosy perspective seemed true enough early in that fateful fall a half-century ago. Stock market fever gripped the entire country. Bootblacks and ditch diggers joined financiers in buying stock on thin margins. Investments were often based on no more than tips and rumors. The speculative orgy was fueled by ever-rising quotations that guaranteed rich quick profits and by easy money from bankers and stockbrokers who made loans with reckless abandon.

More than $30 billion in stocks vanished in the collapse. Before the market bottomed out in 1932, it had fallen by 90 percent, leveling off at 41 after having reached the then-unprecented high of almost 400. A share of General Motors stock that sold for $91 in 1929 went begging at $8 three years later.

The financial crisis, which had been precipitated by public folly and a grossly mismanaged banking and corporate structure, was vastly magnified by misshapen federal policies. The Federal Reserve System tolerated and indeed induced a sharp reduction of the money supply at the very time it was needed. Then the Hoover administration and Congress committed the supreme folly of enacting the Smoot-Hawley tariff, imposing the highest import duties in history in a self-defeating effort to protect U.S. industry and agriculture. Later generations can scarcely imagine the ensuing economic paralysis and resulting joblessness: bank failures, bread lines, hunger, stark fear and desperation.

Twelve million Americans were out of work in a national population of 123 million. Most of the unemployed were family bread-winners so that the economic dislocation ultimately touched nearly everyone in some way. And in the days before unemployment compensation or federally funded welfare, neighbor helped neighbor, hungry Americans lined up at soup kitchens or obtained hand-outs at back doors. At the same time, food crops rotted in the fields for lack of a market.

What does 1929 tell 1979? What is different now?

To a large degree, government has replaced business as the business of Americans. The Great Depression gave rise to too much government, too much spending, too much regulation. Instead of a 1929-type deflation, we are afflicted by government-induced inflation.

And the passing years have brought a new set of problems to this generation - energy shortages, the cosmic threat of nuclear destruction, and unchecked communist agression. But the real message from 1929 is that our problems, intractable as they seem, are not insurmountable. We are advised by our fathers and grandfathers to go forth, fearing nothing but fear, and meet our challenges.

And don't look back.

bunnies on tv

You've heard by now that Hugh Hefner of Playboy magazine plans to put his naked playmates on television.

He plans a series of television shows called "Electronic Playboy" -- a TV version of his girlie magazine--to be released on cable television next year.

He intends to make Playboy Enterprises a major supplier of TV programs.

Subsequently, the programs will be available on video tape or video disc which you can purchase for frequent replay -- video version of the magazine, a new one each month.

The major challenge of this era of accelerated change for a professional observer is to keep his intellectual arteries sufficiently pliable to accept and adapt to inevitable change--without losing all sense of direction.

A Commerce Department survey seeks to explain the significant audience for television's daytime soap operas and titillating quiz contests. It concludes that "Americans apparently like a little sex in their entertainment diet, but not too much."

How much is "too much"?

With our highest court unable to define pornography, we've let it all hang out on the newsstand. Why not on TV?

The dictionary defines prurience as "lustful itching desire."

I itch. I am not opposed to sex or desire.

But I am offended--and if I were a woman I would be enraged--by the manner in which exploiters of pornography for profit degrade the female for the erotic stimulation of the male.

Though the Supreme Court has never been able to define hard-core pornography, Justice Potter Stewart once said, "I know it when I see it."

And what you can now see in X-rated publications and performances are persons, usually females, stripped, bound, raped, tortured, mutilated and murdered--in the name of entertainment and free speech.

Pornography is sometimes defended as "a victimless crime." It's argued that nobody is forced to purchase those magazines; it will be argued that nobody will be forced to watch Hefner's television programs.

And you can watch the near-nudity on some programs already on television and wonder if it is not hypocritical to resist removing the seventh veil.

I don't know. I resist the notion of censorship because I would not know whom to trust with the responsibility and because the history of censorship militates against it.

But I am opposed to putting garbage on television for the same reason that I would oppose open sewers in our streets.

It can be argued that what's in those sewers is "natural" and "normal" and "everybody does it" and that it's "not dirty."

But everywhere in the world where that sewage flows unconfined it breeds disease.

Today the dateline is Tehran.

In the past it has been Kabul, Beirut, Nicosia, Khartoum, Port-au-Prince. And Tehran.

The stories in every case have involved outrages to American diplomatic personnel and property.

Take Port-au-Prince. That was back in January of 1973 when terrorists held U.S. Ambassador Clinton Knox and Consul-General Ward Christensen hostage in the ambassador's residence until the Haitian government met their demands - release of 12 jailed colleagues and a ransom of $70,000.

In March of the same year, but half a world away in the Sudanese capital of Khartoum, Palestinian guerrillas seized the Saudi Arabian embassy where a reception was in progress. U.S. Ambassador Clio Noel and a deputy were among the murdered.

Another ambassador, Roger Davies in Cyprus, and his secretary were killed in August of 1974 when rioters fired on the U.S. embassy and residence in Nicosia.

And yet another in May of 1976 in Lebanon when Ambassador Francis Malloy Jr., an embassy counselor and their chauffeur were kidnapped and murdered in Beirut.

Feb. 14 of this year was a banner day for diplomatic terrorism - a black banner. In Tehran, revolutionaries seized the American embassy, holding then Ambassador William Sullivan and more than 100 other personnel hostage until aides of the Ayatollah Khomeini interceded.

On the same day in neighboring Afghanistan, U.S. Ambassador Adolph Dubs was abducted by Moslem extremists. He was killed as Afghan security forces stormed the hotel in which he was being held hostage.

Those are the most prestigious victims. There have been others, such as U.S. Consul Clarence Leonhardy, kidnapped by student revolutionaries in Guadalajara, Mexico, in May 1973 and released upon payment of $80,000 in ransom by the Mexican government and the freeing of 30 political prisoners.

John Egan, consular agent in Cordoba, Argentina, was not so lucky in February 1975. When the Argentine government refused to meet his kidnappers' demands, he was murdered.

Barbara Hutchinson is only one of scores of representatives of the U.S. Information Service who have experienced terrorism firsthand. Along with six other visitors to the Venezuelan consulate in Santo Domingo in September 1974, she was held hostage by terrorists demanding the release of jailed comrades and $1 million in ransom. The Dominican government declined the deal and after 13 stalemated days, the hostages were freed unharmed in exchange for their captors' safe passage out of the country.

And then there are the miscellaneous bombings and sniper attacks on American diplomatic premises and personnel that are almost routine in some parts of the world but rarely make the headlines. It all suggests that while terrorism may not be precisely an everyday affair, it is frequent enough to rank the diplomat's occupation among the more hazardous.

And American diplomats are not alone. Britain has lost two ambassadors in recent years, those to Ireland and, just this past March, to the Netherlands. Killed with the Americans in Khartoum was the Belgian charge d'affaires.

What does it all add up to? Certainly not a solution to the latest outrage in Tehran. But it may serve to put the event into better perspective.

This is not a unique occurrence - although it may represent a new extreme in the active involvement of what currently passes for authority in Iran. The outrages of the past have not in the long run significantly affected the long-term policies of the United States or its ability to regroup and reapply its power and influence where needed.

Back to Khartoum, that was outrage following upon outrage. The Sudanese government eventually released the murderers, plunging relations with Washington from cool to frigid.

Today, Sudan has largely replaced newly Marxist Ethiopia as Washington's associate in East Africa.

family farm image

NEW YORK (AP)-The family farm, in which the dutiful contributions of mother, father and many children add up to a wholesome, hearth-centered and somehow profitable way of life, is a myth, says Walter Russell.

Soap operas depict it as fact. Politicians rapturously defend it. Many millions believe religiously that it is a fortress of basic American values. The Agriculture Department gives it official recognition.

"It is my opinion," says Russell, "that the 'family farm' - that whole image - has never existed, and certainly not since the Great Depression." It's a myth, he says again. "It's a perception."

Is such talk mere braying? Who is this man Russell?

He was born on an Iowa farm that has been in his family for more than a hundred years. He holds a doctorate in agronomy and once was a U.S. Agriculture Department scientist.

Now vice president of Oppenheimer Industries, he helps manage hundreds of thousands of farm acreage for the Kansas City-based agricultural services company.

There do exist families seeking to operate acreage in the manner many people perceive as traditional, says Russell. But their life is hardly idyllic and their efforts are unprofitable, he says.

"The system doesn't lend itself to accepting modern technology," he explains. "To be competitive today you must accept more technology and capital and management."

"The type of farming envisioned as the traditional family farm is done for tradition, not for good economic reasons. They might grow cotton, for instance, because the land always was in cotton."

Time marches on, and in farming it marched swiftly. Much of U.S. agriculture, says Russell, is made up of three categories of farms.

First, he lists the uneconomic family operation in which the husband and wife might hold part-time jobs elsewhere. They operate little acreage. They farm because of tradition and perhaps for enjoyment.

Next is the family team, perhaps made up of two brothers or a father and son or a father, son and uncle who manage perhaps 600 to 1,000 acres, half of which might be rented. They're a business.

And then there is the tightly help group, perhaps made up of family members, that operates thousands of acres. It is highly leveraged and very economic. It is a business, and good business practices govern.

my turn

by john dunnam

One disadvantage of living a community instead of town is that there are no zoning laws. This leads to some incompatible entities being placed alongside one another. I'm referring in particular to the proximity of cotton gins and churches that exists in many of Scurry's provincial settings.

Even in my own Fluvanna, the gin and Baptist Church are side by side. We have already almost had one devastating blaze this season and I would like to take this opportunity to ask Brother Cunningham to refrain from preaching any fire and brimstone sermons until the harvest is all bundled up and shipped away.

I would also like to issue a warning to Tom Wadley and all other hang-gliding enthusiasts in the area. It might be prudent to keep your wings tucked away in the garage, at least, until the quail season is over.

A reporter from another town went to check out a tip that someone was shooting at a hang-glider. When he arrived at the location he found an old farmer cleaning his gun.

"Was that you doing the shooting," he asked.

"Yep," said the farmer. "That big bird got away, but I made him drop that man he was carrying."

Here a few seasonable tidbits:

THANKSGIVING — Did you know that turkeys did not come from Turkey. They were brought to Turkey from Mexico.

FOOTBALL — Footballs are made of cowhide, not pigskins.

POLITICS — Depression president, Herbert Hoover was attacked for the promise and empty slogan "A Chicken in Every Pot." But Hoover claimed he never uttered those words. The phrase appeared in a 1928 campaign ad and stuck.

In his 1961 inaugural address John F. Kennedy used the memorable line, "ask not what your country can do for you--ask what you can do for your country." Kennedy's inspiration was similar to a phrase used by Wendell Holmes Jr. in 1884. And according to the Lou Grant show, Warren G. Harding also employed the famous exhortation.

Serious Talks Planned

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

Everybody, and I mean everybody, is getting rich off the people who are old and sick. They come up with this malarkey about giving the old people a discount on things they had to buy. Do you every hear of the electric or the gas company, or the doctors and hospitals giving them a discount? I see in the AARP News Bulletin that Blue Cross and Blue Shield (who has the Medicare insurance on the retired) are going up again in 1980.

Also, the "Advisory Council" on S.S. are wanting to tax the "old" folks for federal, state, local income tax. We don't have enough of a burden on us already. I hope everyone who reads this will write our government officials and raise old Billy about this most unreasonably thought "thing" that could be thought up.

If they would get some people off S.S. that are not supposed to be on it, it wouldn't be in the shape it is in. The best place to start would be in the offices of distributions. They have twice as many in those offices as they need. You only have to walk in and look for two minutes to see who is working who isn't. One other thing I have noticed since I retired is the fact that just two months before the old folks get a raise on their S.S. checks, the merchants start going up on things they have to sell. That makes me think back to what I happened to hear a local merchant tell a woman one Sunday morning. They were talking about prices being so high. He told her that the biggest majority of the high prices was in your local merchants. Just talked to a man who, he and his wife are on S.S., and her drug bill is $135 per month, and the A.C.-O.S.S. wanting to tax our S.S. We have paid taxes on that money already.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a successful, prominent professional man who frequently works under severe pressure. Once or twice a year he would erupt into a violent rage, and it seemed therapeutic (for him) to "punch me out."

For years I suffered in silence, hiding and making up excuses for not appearing in public until my cuts and bruises healed. I was too ashamed to let anyone know the truth, so I kept quiet.

I felt that I must have done something terribly wrong to deserve this kind of treatment. Meanwhile, by my silence I was protecting my husband, whom I continued to love in spite of his occasional animal behavior.

I began to ask myself why I took so much abuse and let him get away with it. Then, suddenly, a solution came to mind.

That evening I calmly told my husband that if he ever beat me again, I would hire a professional photographer to photograph me after the battle. Then I would place these 8 by 10 photos in strategic places all over town—identifying myself in living color as his beloved battered wife!

My husband was shocked at this idea; he knew I really meant it.

Needless to say, it worked. It's been four years since he has laid less than a loving hand on me, and our marriage is more solid than ever.

Share this with your readers, Abby.

PEARL THE PINUP

DEAR PEARL: Thanks for a helpful letter. It's been said, "One picture is worth 10,000 words." A picture of this kind should be worth at least $10,000.

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years, and was very disappointed to learn that you are so closed-minded about snakes.

Obviously, your fear stems from prejudice and ignorance. If you ever got to know snakes, you would learn to love them. Most people would kill a snake on sight just because it is a snake! How cruel. Snakes are gentle and harmless by nature, and avoid confrontation. They strike only when threatened, and don't deserve to be run over by cars, or decapitated and hacked to pieces by garden tools.

Snakes perform a valuable service by eating rodents and pests that threaten crops and the ecology.

Snakes make wonderful pets for retired people and apartment dwellers. They're odorless, clean and quiet, and don't need to be groomed or walked.

C.J.

DEAR C.J.: Another plus: You don't have to worry about anybody stealing them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently bought a home from a nice, middle-aged couple with two children.

They very generously left several pieces of their old furniture for us since they knew we were very low on furnishings.

After moving in, we came across some snapshots they inadvertently left behind in a drawer. Among the photos are several shots of the woman—in the buff—taken while she was eight or nine months pregnant.

Should we destroy the photos, or return them? The couple still reside in town and we have their address.

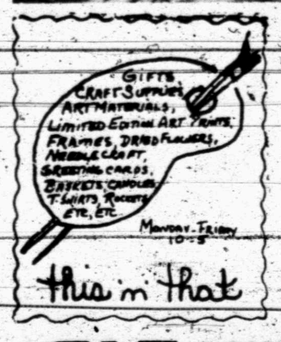

If you think we should return these pictures, have you any suggestions as to the least embarrassing way to do so?

BLUSHING IN N.Y.

DEAR BLUSHING: Mail the photos to them—without comment.

If South can see the singleton jack of hearts in the East hand he will make seven.

Today's South won the diamond, drew trumps with one lead, led his nine of hearts and let it ride to East's jack. East returned a club. Now South led a second heart, rose with dummy's ace and wound up with egg all over his chin.

South explained to us that he was the most unlucky bridge player in the world and that only the singleton jack of hearts in the East hand could have led to his defeat.

South had been unlucky, but he had overlooked a perfect safety play that would have guaranteed his contract against any and all combinations of adverse cards. That safety play would have been to cash dummy's ace of hearts instead of leading the nine for a finesse. If neither honor dropped South would return to his hand, lead the nine of clubs and let it ride.

Suppose that it lost to the jack. The defenders would only have two hearts left. Two of dummy's hearts could be ruffed and eventually the fifth heart would set up.

You can check on all other combinations and will see that South is sure of that club discard once he has made this safety play.

To shape up a too-flat bottom as well as to firm a flabby one, try this exercise: Lie flat on your stomach, chin outstretched, arms by your sides. Lift one leg, keeping your pelvis flat. Hold for a count of three, then lower the leg. Now raise both legs at once keeping your knees straight. Press down with your fists. Hold and lower. Repeat the exercise starting with the other leg.

Kaysers' Global Tour Program At Club

The Altrurian Daughters Club met at Martha Ann Woman's Club Nov. 14 for a program by guest speaker Dorothy Kayser. Doris Beaver served as hostess and Frances Thompson was chairman.

Mrs. Kayser told of a trip which she and her husband, J.M., made around the world during the summer. Mrs. Kayser's commentary was accompanied by slides.

Their trip began as a planned visit to Manilla where Kayser's son, Ray, was living. He is engaged in the banking business. While planning this trip, they decided to go east to Manilla and come back to Texas from the west, thus completing a circle of the globe.

Beginning the trip, they flew from Dallas to London, from which they went by train to St. Austill to visit friends.

Returning to London, they next went to Amsterdam by train via Holland boat service. From Amsterdam they traveled by train via Hengelo to Berlin visiting both East and West Berlin.

From Berlin their course took them to Warsaw and thence to Moscow. Leaving Moscow on "The Big Red Train," they traveled across Siberia, touching at Irkutsk, Khabaroosk, and Nakhodka which they left by ship, calling at Yokohama and Hong Kong, they arrived at Bangkok, from which they took a rain to Butterworth, Kuala-Lumpar, and Singapore. From Singapore they flew to their destination in Manilla. After enjoying their visit there, they returned to Dallas via Honolulu and San Francisco.

During this entire trip, the Kaysers' engaged in rather extensive sight seeing, but, as Mrs. Kayser related, they most enjoyed meeting the people, observing their lives and customs.

The Alaska Highway to the continental United States was completed in 1942.

Texas Alleges Montana Being Bad Neighbor In Energy Starved Nation

HELENA, Mont. (AP)— Texas, which claims to have led the nation in energy production for 50 years, has suggested that a new roustabout in the field, energy-rich Montana, is not being a good neighbor in an energy-hungry nation.

The allegation underlies written "friend of the court" arguments submitted by Texas with the Montana Supreme Court. Texas has joined a lawsuit against Montana by several midwestern and southern coal-using electric utilities who claim Montana's tax on coal production is unconstitutional.

A state district court in Helena ruled against the utilities earlier this year, and they have appealed to the Montana Supreme court.

Stuart Fryer, assistant attorney general for Texas, argues that Montana's tax violates the "supremacy clause" of the U.S. Constitution because, he claims, it frustrates national energy policy to increase the use of coal.

The supremeacy clause states that federal laws take precedence over state laws when the two are in conflict.

Montana law requires 30 percent of the market value of coal, measured as it leaves the mine, to be paid as a tax to the state. Montana's coal severance tax is the highest in the nation.

Fryer began his argument by noting that Texas has provided one-fourth of the energy ever produced in America, mostly in the form of oil and gas.

He said that this historic ready availability of energy in Texas has also made the state the leader in energy consumption.

Those two facts put Texas in a pinch when Congress began passing legislation requiring conversion from petroleum to coal in reaction to the Arab Oil Embargo and other "events of this decade which have altered th course of energy production and consumption," Fryer said.

The object of all the congressional action, he said, is to decrease the amount of petroleum consumed in the United States, and since exotic energy sources are only distant solutions and nuclear power has hit the rocks, coal remains the only immediate substitute for oil.

To say that this switch in energy sources has affected Texas is "a gross understatement," Fryer said, citing a federal study showing Texas will bear half of the total national cost of oil-to-coal conversions.

He said Texas is now in an "ironic, but difficult position" of selling less oil and gas to places outside its own borders because of federal allocation demands, while at the same time it is forced, by federal demand, to buy more coal from the outside.

"Texas' position in the federal scheme as well as the enormous impact made upon Texas by the federal decision to move coal to the forefront of energy policy compel the state of Texas...to submit its views of the Montana coal severance tax," Fryer said.

Your Birthday

November 21, 1979

Through careful and clever planning this coming year you will be able to make a great deal out of spare beginnings. Your fine head will pave the way for a large reward.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could turn a fun meeting with old pals into a sad affair for you if you begin to judge your worth by their successes. Your turn will come. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, NY. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're better off today if you stick to your own plans than to allow others to lay out your itinerary. Lead your own life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take care of today's responsibilities first before you turn your attention to more frivolous matters. You'll be glad they're out of the way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A friend isn't too anxious to have you know the full details of a secret of hers. Help her maintain her dignity by not being too curious.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Place your major emphasis on working out the answers to a large issue today instead of arguing about it. Think, don't fight.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today is an excellent time to begin looking for fresh approaches to an old problem. Clinging to unworkable ideas is unproductive and wasteful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Silence is adding fuel to a disturbing issue involving someone important to you. Have a meeting of the minds today and discuss things openly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A change in habit patterns or routine for you and your mate may be a good idea today. Make plans to do something different — it'll do you both a world of good.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Chores may be more of a handful today than usual and you might have a problem coping with them. Incorporating a gamelike attitude would help tremendously.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You can avoid some small expenses around the house today if you're more careful in managing things. Try to stretch what you have farther.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) No use grumbling about a responsibility you're going to be asked to take on. You are going to wind up accepting the job anyway.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Formulate a game plan and stick to it all the way today, no matter how tough things start to look. You'll truly have a mess if you allow yourself to be side tracked.

Coffee not recommended

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My grandmother read one of your columns and interpreted it to mean that you advise all children to drink some coffee as it is good for them and will help calm them down. I feel that children can become addicted to the caffeine in the coffee and that caffeine can have a stimulating effect. Therefore, it would not be advantageous to force a child to drink coffee if the child had no taste for it. Who's right?

DEAR READER — I have no idea why your grandmother would draw that conclusion from my column. The only time I have ever said that coffee would be useful for children was in hyperactive children. In that case, the caffeine in the coffee has an effect similar to some of the medicines used for children with such disorders.

No, I certainly do not recommend coffee for normal children who are normally active and do not have any other disorders. In fact, I really think most normal adults would get along much better in life if they didn't use coffee at all. The same applies to tea and colas containing caffeine.

To give you a better idea of the effects of coffee upon the body, I am sending you The Health Letter number 14-4, Coffee, Tea, Chocolate and Colas. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The caffeine in coffee is a stimulant. Basically, a cup of coffee is a liquid "go pill." It can increase anxiety and nervousness.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor informed me I had a soft systolic heart murmur at the apex. This condition was found by a stethoscope during an examination. Could it lead to serious problems later on in life? Do you think a periodic examination is necessary? Also could this symptom appear or diminish upon exercise and cause some pain in my chest?

DEAR READER — The description that you give sounds like it may not be too important. Systolic means that it occurred during the time that the heart was contracting to squirt blood out. And apex refers to hearing it near the tip of the heart. Such faint murmurs during contraction of the heart often occur in individuals who have no heart disease at all. They're particularly common in children and in young active people.

Many such murmurs are produced by exercise and may be heard only when the heart is beating rapidly and forcefully as from vigorous exercise. Such faint murmurs may be heard on some examinations and not heard on subsequent ones.

Murmurs, after all, are merely the sound of the flow of blood. And if you have a fairly active circulation, that can produce the sound just like a rapid stream down a brook can create more sound than a slow running stream.

You certainly should find out whether your doctor thinks the murmur is important or not. If you don't get a clear answer, have an evaluation at least every year or two to see if there's any change. You should lead a completely normal life being as active as you feel like, unless your doctor specifically tells you otherwise.

Woman Seeking Link To Past In Snyder Area

By JOHN LONG

Pat Kelley, an adoptee living in Fort Worth, is searching out the Snyder connection to her past.

Although born in Dallas, her research has shown that her maternal grandmother lived in Snyder, and was a telephone operator here about 1948-49. She wants to know if there is anyone here who can help her locate her folks.

From 10 years research, Mrs. Kelley (her married name) has learned that she was born at her mother's aunt's house in Dallas on Feb. 2, 1948. This aunt of her mother's worked for the telephone company in Grand Prairie during that time.

Pat's natural mother was in her early 20s when she was born. Pat was placed at Hope Cottage in Dallas when she was eight days old. At the time of her placement her mother stated, "I want to get myself together." The placement was supposed to be temporary.

According to records at Hope Cottage, her mother then left to go to Snyder. It is assumed that she went to visit her parents.

Pat's natural grandmother was a telephone operator in Snyder at that time. That is the reason for the assumption her mother went to visit her parents here.

Pat's natural mother then left Snyder and traveled to Phoenix, Ariz., where it was understood that she had relatives living. It was the last contact Hope Cottage had with her.

It took a year for Hope Cottage to free Pat for adoption. She was placed in an adoptive home Feb. 16, 1949.

In a telephone interview Mrs. Kelley stated she is married and has a 3-year-old daughter. She is interested in finding out about her family history both for herself and for her child. She entered into the search for her past with her husband's encouragement.

PAT KELLEY
...Searching For Kin

An adoptee's history, formally begins at the point of adoption, she noted. Before that time, she said, "It's like you don't exist, or didn't exist before you were adopted."

Although the reaction varies within each adoptee, Mrs. Kelley feels she was "kind of cheated out of a past."

Mrs. Kelley has thought about the reunion she may have someday with her mother, but she isn't sure how she will act or react. She said she plans to thank her mother for giving birth to her and for having the courage to give her up for adoption.

"She kind of gave me up, but not really," Mrs. Kelley mused. She feels her mother, even now, may be wondering how her child is doing.

"If she is anything like me, then some part of her is wondering," said Mrs. Kelley.

Mrs. Kelley asks that any local people having information about her grandmother contact her at 3114 South Riverside Drive, Fort Worth, 76119.

Also aiding in Mrs. Kelley's search for her past is Peggy Evans, a placement worker at the Texas Department of Human Resources in Fort Worth.

Persons not wishing to contact Mrs. Kelley directly may contact Mrs. Evans at 1917 Clearview Drive, Bedford, Texas, 76021.

Aggies Astonished That Feds Think Drill Team Off-Limits To Females

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Texas A&M University officials say they are "astonished" that the U.S. government thinks the Fish Drill Team and other university organizations are closed to females.

The government made its position clear Monday, charging in a test case on women's rights that the Texas school has discriminated against women students by barring them from the frill team and three other organizations.

The Justice Department sought to join a private class action suit filed last May by Melanie Zentgraf, a member of the Texas Corps of Cadets.

The department's proposed suit marks the first time that the government has tried to enforce Title IX of a 1972 law forbidding sex discrimination by schools which receive federal aid.

James Bond, representing Texas A&M, said that he has not seen the Justice Department's motion. Bond said Justice Department lawyers had been at A&M because they would have to represent Corps Commandant Col. James Woodall, one of the plaintiffs in the suit, since he was a regular Army officer.

Bond said it now appears Woodall has been dropped as a plaintiff so the Justice Department could enter on the side of Miss Zentgraf. Bond said "this type of activity is incredible and leaves us all bewildered."

Bond said he was "astonished that the Department of Justice has seen fit to reach an agreement with the plaintiffs to have Col. Woodall removed as a defendant in the pending lawsuit."

Bond said A&M has filed a reply to the suit denying all allegations. "Texas A&M is proud of its female contingent in the Corps and is dedicated to its growth and success."

The government contended otherwise.

"Every female who has evidenced an interest in the Aggie band has been actively discouraged or dissuaded from joining the Aggie band by band and/or faculty members," the Justice Department said. "Other than a desire to keep the band all-male, there is no reason for the current effective restriction of the Aggie band to males only."

Assistant Attorney General Drew S. Days III, head of the civil rights division, said excluding the women from the band and other organizations "deprives them of an opportunity to participate in activities at the heart of the university life at Texas A&M."

The other organizations are called the Fish Drill Team, the Ross Volunteer Company, and Parsons' Mounted Cavalry. The organizations are open to the 2,200 Texas A&M students enrolled in the Corps of Cadets. There are about 30,000 students enrolled at the university. No females presently perform in any of the groups named.

Texas A&M admitted females 20 years ago and they now constitute about one-third of the student body. Women were admitted to the Corps of Cadets earlier this decade and there now are some 60 women in the corps.

Pat Nixon Released

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP)-Former first lady Pat Nixon gave her flowers to other patients, then left San Clemente General Hospital, where she had spent a week being treated for bronchial pneumonia.

"Mrs. Nixon distributed the overload of flowers via hospital personnel to other patients and nurses who cared for her," hospital administrator Malcolm Johnson said Monday.

Willie Nelson Named In Suit

NEW YORK (AP)-Country music singer-songwriter Willie Nelson has been sued by his old management firm.

The suit, filed in state Supreme Court in Manhattan, seeks an accounting of Nelson's finances, or as an alternative, a default judgment of $1.1 million.

The lawsuit was brought by Media Consulting Corp. against Nelson, Abbott Ltd., Lone Star Records Corp., and Willie Nelson Music, Inc.

Attorneys for Media Consulting Corp. would not comment on the nature of the dispute.

Huldreich Zwingli, the Swiss religious reformer, was executed in 1531.

Museum Holiday Begins Wednesday

The Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College will close for the Thanksgiving holiday at 12 noon on Wednesday, Sharon Sutton, director, has announced.

The museum will be closed until 9 a.m. on Monday, Nov. 26.

Watercolors by Clint Stokes of Fort Worth are being featured in the museum in a show scheduled to close on Nov. 26. The fourth annual Christmas Exhibit will open on Dec. 2.

Hunt For Cattle Lost In Predawn Abilene Stampede

ABILENE (AP)-The Triangle Cattle Co. ordered about 20 cowboys on horseback to criss-cross the brushy prairies north of town today in search of cattle lost in a wild, predawn stampede.

About 700 head of cattle, possibly spooked by wild dogs, thundered through fences and galloped along a busy highway where passing vehicles struck some of them Monday.

Two persons - a truck driver and a passenger on a bus - suffered minor injuries.

At least 11 cattle were killed on the highway.

State troopers, animal control officers and sheriff's deputies helped cowboys round up cattle until about 10 p.m. Monday. Triangle manager Walter Wilemon said between 300 and 350 head were rounded up and the rest remained at large today.

"We're sending about 20 cowboys back through the brush and pastures, but it'll take a week to gather them all up - if we're lucky," he said.

"We figure a bunch of wild dogs stampeded them" Wilemon said. "They get to chasing the cattle and having a lot of fun. The cattle resent it. It terrifies them and they'll stampede. They broke down all the fences."

He said he has hired a rifleman to stand guard over the cattle all night from now on in hopes of keeping the wild dogs away.

The escaped animals spread out along a 10-mile stretch of Interstate 20 north of this West Texas city after the stampede. Some were herded successfully into trailers by officers using squad cars instead of horses.

Bob Warren, maintenance supervisor for the state highway department said his crews carried 11 dead cattle to the dump Monday. He estimated they weighed 300 to 500 pounds each.

A group of six cattle were struck and killed by an 18-wheel truck driven by Lester Bassham of Winter Haven, Fla., who was tossed out of his vehicle by the impact.

"A bunch of cattle came right across the road at 4:40 a.m. I swerved to miss them and almost turned over," said Bassham, who was treated for a back injury.

A Trailways bus en route from Midland to Dallas, driven by Bob Lovett of Dallas, struck and killed five cattle. A passenger, Tennie Mae Williams of Dallas, was treated for an eye injury.

Which name is stronger for the party, Carter or Kennedy? Comparing the voting percents of Jimmy Carter (1976) and John F. Kennedy (1960), you can get an idea of pulling power. As an example, Carter drew 67 percent of the Georgia vote in 1976, compared to 63 percent for Kennedy in 1960. Advantage, Carter.

Kirkland Draws Fire From Some Outcast Unions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO's new president, Land Kirkland, says the Teamsters, United Auto Workers and other disaffiliated unions belong under one labor roof. But his strident call for reunification is turning some outcast unions off.

"To borrow from the New Yorker's alleged view of the world: Everything outside the AFL-CIO really is Hoboken," Kirkland, 57, said Monday after his elections as only the second federation president.

That did not go over very will in Hoboken.

"I think he was arrogant as hell," said a UAW official, who declined to be named. "I don't think his comments will help affiliation very much.

"We would rather be wooed than booed," said Rozanne Weissman spokeswoman for the National Education Association, which also is independent of the AFL-CIO.

Kirkland, who succeeded retiring George Meany, 85, as leader of the 13.6-million-member labor federation, vowed in his acceptance speech to pursue a goal that Meany was unable to achieve during his 24-year reign, a united labor front.

Although the AFL-CIO has 105 affiliates, it does not represent the nation's three largest unions - the Teamsters, NEA and UAW, which have a combined membership of more than 5 million. The 270,000 member United Mine Workers is another major independent union.

Kirkland promised the 1,000 delegates at the AFL-CIO's convention here that he would explore the possibility of affiliation of "those organizations now outside our ranks."

The 1920 Chicago White Sox and the 1971 Baltimore Orioles both had four 20-game winners on their pitching staff.

Iran Issue Dominates GOP Governors Meet

AUSTIN, (AP)—Republican governors are forging a 1980 campaign theme for the party by blaming Democrats for "leaving" the country without an energy program when Iranian oil is being shut off again.

Foreign policy, linked by Iran to the coming winter and feared fuel shortages at home, has become a dominant theme at the governor's annual meeting, and it continued today with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger a featured speaker.

The governors and their guests have been careful to avoid direct intrusion into President Carter's handling of the Iranian crisis, but they're clearly blaming Carter and the Democrats for the overall situation.

Former President Gerald Ford took up the governors' tune on Monday when he said the Iranian problem and the lack of a national energy program are making the country ripe for new leadership - preferably Republican.

"We'd better get to the job of rebuilding our military capability and giving the kind of strong leadership that's necessary to reassure our allies and to be an adequate warning to our adversaries," Ford said.

"The American people want that kind of leadership and action, and I hope that the voters perceive it and act accordingly in 1980," Ford told the governors.

Ford called the crisis, which arose when the U.S. embassy in Tehran was seized two weeks ago, the most serious challenge the country has faced since World War II. He said he would not try to second guess Carter in handling it "because it is too important and the dangers are too great.

"Having said that, let me just make this observation," Ford continued. "There is no doubt about it that the United States in recent years has lost prestige and has lost a capability to handle difficult challenges around the world."

Ford cast most of the blame for energy problems on the Democratic Congress, saying he and Carter both had proposed legislation, but Congress had enacted only bits and pieces of it.

"The United States doesn't have an energy program that will solve all problems, that will make us more independent of the OPEC oil cartel," Ford said.

Texas Gov. William Clements Jr. laid the blame directly on Carter, however, saying the situation in Iran already is affecting oil supplies in the United States.

"While I can appreciate and agree with the administration's decision to cut off our oil imports from Iran, I cannot excuse the fact that after nearly three years in office, Mr. Carter has failed and is failing to develop a national energy plan which could free us from this kind of control by the OPEC nations" Clements said.

"Will we ever learn?" asked Gov. Pierre duPont of Delaware.

"The 1973-1974 oil embargo, the 1977 natural gas shortage, the 1978 coal strike, the 1978 Iranian oil cutoff, the 1978 Three-Mile Island problem, the 1979 second Iranian oil shutoff," duPont listed.

"All these things are happening to us," duPont said.

"These signals are coming to us, and we are not doing very much about it in terms of solving our energy problems," he said.

Gov. Lamar Alexander of Tennessee said almost one-third of the oil lost from Iran could be made up if nuclear power plants already completed but not operating in this country could only get federal licenses. And he, too, took the ultimate blame to Carter.

"In most of these important decisions that need to be made, presidential leadership and presidential decision-making is required," Alexander said.

Waiting Difficult For Mother Of Hostage

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Florence Robinson tried to go about her household chores as usual Monday.

But it was admittedly difficult as the Wichita woman waited nervously for word about her son, one of the Americans taken hostage earlier this month by Iranian students in Tehran.

Air Force Capt. Neal T. Robinson, 27, of Houston, Tex., was one of 10 black hostages released early today by the Iranian government.

"No one has called. I have nothing to report," said Mrs. Robinson late Monday, before news of her son's release was confirmed.

"I'm not going to say anything until I know he is out of Iran," she explained. "I'm afraid to say anything that can hurt him or any of the other hostages still there. Do you understand why?

"My birthday is in November, and when you get to be my age (which she did not reveal) you like to forget it...I'll never as long as I live, forget November 1979."

Robinson and others scheduled to be released appeared at a mid-day news conference Monday arranged by their captors in the U.S. Embassy.

Mrs. Robinson caught a glimpse of her son on the television news and giggled when she saw him being hugged by several other women captives. Robinson said at the news conference that another black man and two women still were being held along with 46 white male Americans.

"We were told by the Ayatollah's representatives that the rest of the Americans here would not be harmed and would not be tried or go through any other process," Robinson said.

Robinson, a graduate of Wichita Heights High School and the U.S. Air Force Academy, provided a detailed description of his captivity in Iran.

"They indicated that we are being released, not as a compromise but because they felt some type of feeling for us as blacks and women," Robinson said. He added that during their captivity, the men's hands were tied while they were sleeping.

"That occurred off and on, and on and off, for 15 days. The people who are still here are still going through that."

Miller May Seek Union Post Again

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)-Arnold Miller, the United Mine Workers president who resigned last week because of bad health, says now that he may run again for union president in 1982.

"If I take it real easy, I might be able to get my own health in good shape and come back and run for the presidency again," Miller said Monday in a telephone interview from his hospital bed.

John Brown, spokesman for Charleston Area Medical Center, said Miller was in satisfactory condition recuperating from his second heart attack and could be released by the weekend.

Miller, 56, entered the hospital last Monday complaining of chest pains, and doctors later said he had suffered a mild heart attack. Last year, he suffered a heart attack and a stroke shortly after the end of a 111-day nationwide strike by the union.

Miller, who took office in 1972, submitted his resignation Friday to the union's International Executive Board, which made him president emeritus. Vice President Sam Church was elevated to the presidency.

Hawaiians Drying Out

HILO, Hawaii (AP)-Hawaiians are drying out after weekend rains that washed out crops, destroyed homes, flooded highways and forced the helicopter rescues of 50 people from Hawaii Island.

No deaths among residents was reported, but damage was estimated at more than $1 million. More than 15 inches of rain fell on Hilo, the island's largest city, and the northeastern Hamakua Coast.

Texas Electric TIPS help keep home electric bills down.

Saving energy–and energy dollars–in your home can be as simple as using energy wisely.

For example, make sure filters are kept clean in your furnace, air conditioner and clothes dryer. This ensures units are operating efficiently. And using less energy.

For additional savings on heating and cooling, keep drapes closed for extra insulation on overcast winter days and hot summer days. But on sunny winter days, open them to let the warm sunshine in.

And, turn off ALL appliances when you're not using them. When you stop and think of the many ways you use electricity, you'll see what an energy saver this can be!

For more information–and a lot more tips – get the TIPS booklet from Texas Electric. Just call Texas Electric or ask for the booklet on the comments section of your next electric bill.

At Texas Electric, we're trying to help you keep your electric bill down.

Westerners, Dusters Win Big...

WTC Spanks Visiting Duo

Western Texas College chalked a pair of victories here last night, bringing the women's record to 6-2 and the men's to 6-0.

The most surprising outcome came in the Dusters' 94-70 victory over highly-touted Tarleton State University. The Joe Cushing coached locals were expected to give the Texanns a tough match - perhaps even notch a slim win - but as it turned out, the Dusters blasted the visitors by 24 points.

Meanwhile, Coach Nolan Richardson's Westerners continue to keep rolling over opponents, defeating San Angelo State last night, 109-59.

WTC eeked out a scant 38-36 halftime lead over Tarleton, and the second half was expected to be just as tough. It wasn't.

With 15 minutes left in the second 20-minute half, the Dusters had opened the lead to 54-44, and it never dwindled to less than 10 points for the remainder of the game.

The Dusters took advantage of a number of Texanns turnovers, utilized the fast break when the opportunity arose, and had a 52 percent shooting night from the floor.

Former Duster Jackie Rose led Tarleton State with 20 points, but she fouled out mid-way through the second half, and the Tex-anns all but stopped shooting from outside. Constantly harrassed by the Duster defense, Tarleton State began to make wild passes and its offensive attack disentegrated into abandon. The Dusters took advantage.

Eleven WTC players put points on the board, paced by Shari Teal and Liz Hooper with 16 each. Linda Holubec and Joyce Plagens notched 14 apiece, while Katie Fisher had 12 and Jennifer Gregg scored 8.

The Dusters shot 41 percent from the floor in the first half, but sank 62 percent of their efforts in the second, and out-rebounded Tarleton State for the game, 42-39.

Seventeen steals, including five by Gregg, kept the Tex-Ann offense bewildered. Hooper, Gregg and Plagens had seven rebounds each.

Later in the evening, 13 Westerners combined on the boards to slap Angelo State by 50 points. Phil Spradling scored 22 points while Greg Stewart had 13, Donald Warren added 12 and Bill Patterson, and Franklin Bennett scored 10 each.

Paul Pressey, who accounted for 7 points, had 11 assists, seven steals and garnered 12 rebounds.

Permian Sweeps Tiger Cage Trio

ODESSA—Snyder basketball teams dropped a trio of games here last night as the 1979-80 season officially opened for the Tigers.

Odessa Permian smacked the Tiger varsity 94-69, defeated the junior varsity 57-38, and downed the sophomores 58-52.

"Permian has a good ball club," noted Coach George Byerly, speaking of the varsity group. "We knew it was going to be tough. They just took it to us. We had the lead and I thought we had a chance to build up a pretty good lead, but we didn't take advantage.

"We played their game too much. They put on a lot of pressure. It didn't bother us getting down the floor as much as it did hurrying our shots. And, we didn't play much defense either as the game progressed."

Snyder took a 15-14 lead at the end of the first quarter, but fell behind 40-32 by intermission and was outscored 55-37 in the second half.

"I still think we can be a good basketball team," assured Byerly. "But we've got a lot to work on."

The Tigers, 0-1, will enter the Plainview Tournament on Nov. 29, taking on Crosbyton at 4:30 p.m.

Eric Arnold scored 18 points for Snyder while Brad Richardson added 14 and Kris Seale had 12. Arnold pulled down nine rebounds, Barry Blackmon seven.

Danny Ramos scored 26 points and Ralph Hernandez basketed 10 though Snyder sophomores fell by six points to Permian. Snyder outscored the hosts 36-32 in the second half, but was behind 14-5 at the end of the first quarter.

In the only other game, Permian defeated Snyder JV 57-38. Nolan Richardson led Snyder with 16 points. Brad Robertson had 6.

Rams Outlast Falcon Effort

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The six-time division champion Los Angeles Rams are 6-6 and tied for the National Football Conference West lead with New Orleans, but Rams' Coach Ray Malavasi is still counting his blessings.

"With all the injuries we've had, I just feel fortunate to be in the position we are in right now," Malavasi said after Monday night's 20-14 Ram victory over NFC West foe Atlanta. "I feel we can win the division, just like I felt at the beginning of the season."

The loss dropped the Falcons to 4-8, putting them two games off the lead with just four contests remaining. However, in what is the NFL's weakest division this season, there are no foregone conclusions.

Atlanta Coach Leeman Bennett refused to concede anything, saying, "As far as the race is concerned, we're still not out of it."

One of many Los Angeles' reserves pressed into a starting role, quarterback Vince Ferragamo, guided the Rams to the important victory over the Falcons. Making his first NFL start, the third-year pro out of Nebraska passed for two first-half touchdowns and set up the clinching score - an 11-yard run by Cullen Bryant in the final quarter.

Henderson No Longer With Dallas Cowboys

DALLAS (AP)-Thomas Henderson finally got too "Hollywood" for his own good.

He mugged for the national television cameras once too often on a day the Dallas Cowboys were fighting for their lives.

His sideline antics coupled with a lack of enthusiasm on the field during Washington's 34-20 rout of the Cowboys Sunday was too much for some teammates, and definitely irked the Dallas coaching staff.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry called strongside linebacker Henderson into his office Monday and told him he was being placed on waivers. Henderson said he would just retire from professional football. Landry said clean out your locker.

"Thomas had no intensity and his sideline escapades didn't help," said mild-mannered linebacker coach Jerry Tubbs, who was watching when Henderson held up a forefinger to say the Cowboys were No. 1, then pointed to a bandana tucked in his belt.

"I saw it on the television monitor and I mentioned it to him," said Tubbs. "He (Henderson) wasn't too happy about it."

Safety Cliff Harris was asked if Henderson's lack of concern bothered him. "Yea, it made me mad."

On the field, Henderson made one tackle.

"He didn't hustle," said Tubbs. "I think it was the way he played that was the straw that broke his back as far as Coach Landry was concerned. He wasn't performing...then he went on TV."

Henderson said he was ill with the flu and had a pulled hamstring.

Landry refused to give the details of what amounted to Henderson's firing.

However, Landry said he was aware of Henderson's mugging the camera. He also said Henderson had a bad game.

"This is just an accumulation of things...he would try hard...then he would slip back... then he would start again," said Landry. "Maybe Sunday was the last straw. It was not a good performing day for him."

Felines Try Jayton Here

Coach Ken Housden's Felines will host Jayton High School at the Snyder gymnasium tonight in triple-header action.

Tickets are $1.50 for adults and .75 for students.

The night's agenda will begin at 5 with a freshman game, followed at 6:30 with respective junior varsities, and at 8 with a varsity tilt. Snyder varsity is 2-0 on the season.

Americans' Income Continues To Lose Ground

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - American incomes continued to lose ground to rising prices last month, while homebuilding began what may be a long, steep slide due to rising interest rates.

The Commerce Department reported Monday that personal, pre-tax income rose 0.8 percent in October to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.975 trillion. That means that every American received, at an annual rate, an average of $7,495. The figure includes all income, ranging from wages to welfare to dividends.

But the increase in income was less than the rate of consumer price inflation, which has been rising at about 1 percent a month, or more than 13 percent a year.

Despite double-digit inflation, Americans in October saved much more of their new income than in recent months, the Commerce Department said.

Consumer spending increased only $2.7 billion during the month, compared to a $26.1 billion increase in September, the department reported. Meanwhile, savings rose $7.5 billion last month, compared with a $20.3 billion decline in September.

"The cautious consumer spent less and saved more in October, a typical characteristic of a recession," said Jack Carlson, chief economist of the National Association of Realtors.

Commerce Department economist William Cox said the drop in spending reflected steep declines in auto sales.

Car sales in October plunged 17 percent and industry analysts believe volume may fall even more this month, with the financially ailing Chrysler Corp. feeling the tightest pinch.

A continued savings surge would certainly hurt U.S. auto-makers, but could temper inflation, which is caused partly by heavy spending and credit use.

On Oct. 6, the Federal Reserve Board took sweeping anti-inflation action, largely to tighten credit.

But the move boosted interest rates to nearly 16 percent for the very best bank customers. And mortgage rates have exceeded 13 percent in those states where banks are still making home loans.

The impact of these record-high interest rates shows up clearly in October's housing starts report, Cox said, and homebuilding activity will slow more precipitously in the coming months, housing experts say.

The Commerce Department said housing starts in October totaled 1.76 million units at a seasonally-adjusted annual rate - down from September's 1.91 million annual rate.

The number of building permits issued for future home construction fell even more steeply - 13 percent, the Commerce Department said.

Michael Sumichrast, chief economist of the National Association of Home Builders, said the decline in homebuilding last month is only a hint of things to come. The "real scary numbers - 20 percent to 25 percent drops per month - will show up by January, he said.

His association predicts that housing starts next year could plummet to 1.1 million, nearly a million units less than in 1978. Other economists put next year's rate of starts at 1.3 million to 1.5 million.

Ambulance

for the ambulance service. Both agencies had approved an increase in the subsidy last month to provide for an additional employee.

The council voted twice in proceedings Monday night, and one motion died without a second. Councilman Milton Ham made a motion to award the franchise to Lee. It drew a second by Bryce Booker, but failed on a 4-2 vote. Councilman Joe Reaves then made a motion to award the franchise to Lonnie Payne, but his motion failed to get a second.

Then, Councilman Vernon Rannefeld made the motion to award the franchise to Mrs. Palmer and it was seconded by Reaves. Councilman John Best joined them in voting for it, while Councilmen Ham, Booker and David Holt opposed it. Mayor John Fagin voted off the 3-3 tie in favor of the motion.

Mrs. Palmer is a former employee of the Abilene Emergency Medical Service and Sweetwater EMS.

Still undecided is the type of equipment to be operated. The city council at its last meeting postponed action on a bid to purchase a new ambulance, pending a decision on the type of equipment to be provided. The council indicated that it might want to upgrade the level of the equipment.

Some 10 applications were considered by the council.

OBITUARIES

Walter Suttle

Funeral arrangements were pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home for Walter Suttle, 75, a former Snyder police chief. He died this morning at Snyder Oaks Care Center. He was the father of Walter Suttle Jr. of Snyder.

Theft, Mishap Reported Here

A theft and minor traffic aeccident were worked by the city police department Monday.

Reporting the theft was Dick Shaw. He told officer Buddy Kinney he was missing a tow-bar valued at $100.

The traffic accident occurred at 4 p.m. in the 2100 block of 27th St. and involved a 1973 Ford driven by Bacilio Garza Ruiz and a 1973 Pontiac driven by Eleese Chavaria Campos. It was worked by officer Bill Armstrong.

Sentence Levied

Richard Lynn Christesson was sentenced Monday in county court.

Christesson, 2603 Ave. F, was charged with driving while intoxicated. He received a $200 fine and a three-day jail sentence.

He had pleaded guilty to the offense.

Fishing Trip Ended In Capital Murder Charge

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Scott David Minnick says he thought he was going fishing on South Padre Island with his uncle in a February outing that ended with both men being charged with attempted capital murder.

Minnick testified Monday he took his fishing poles from Pasadena when he followed his uncle, S.J. Wilburn, to the South Texas resort community Feb. 11.

"I just didn't know what he was doing," said Minnick, a co-defendant with Dr. Archie Herman Burkhalter in the Feb. 15 shooting of John Hensley. "He Wilburn said he was going to pick up some dope. He didn't want me involved at all."

Burkhalter is accused of hiring Wilburn and Minnick to kill Hensley, who married the physician's ex-wife Oct. 30, 1978.

Hensley survived a rifle bullet that pierced his eyes as he unlocked his car outside his condominium. He was blinded by the attack.

Wilburn was convicted in July and sentenced to life imprisonment in the case.

State District Judge Darrell Hester said after testimony ended in the case Monday that he would give the jury its charge today and schedule closing arguments in the afternoon. Hester said he expected jury deliberations to begin Wednesday morning.

Burkhalter's lawyers had called eight witnesses before resting their case at mid-morning Monday. The doctor did not testify.

Three employees of Pasadena Memorial Hospital, which Burkhalter owned until this summer, testified Monday that a call between 11 p.m. And 7 a.m. went through a nurse's station. The switchboard was closed those hours, they said.

Telephone company records indicate the hospital received calls before 7 a.m. from two South Padre Island motels the morning of the shooting. Defense lawyer Warren Burnett has said Burkhalter could not have received those calls.

Minnick was the only witness in his defense. He denied ever talking to anyone about "doing a deal" on someone at South Padre Island, as one state witness has testified he said.

Under cross-examination from Assistant District Attorney Joe Hendley, Minnick was unsure and later corrected himself on questions about a red and black Cadillac his uncle drove to South Padre Island.

Wilburn was arrested in the car, which was equipped with gun mounts and portholes in the trunk. The back seat had been removed to allow someone to lie down in the trunk and fire a weapon unseen, police witnesses have said.

Minnick initially said he first saw the car when he followed his uncle to South Padre Island. He then said he remembered taking the red car for repairs in Pasadena earlier.

Hendley asked him about the morning of the shooting.

"You both got in the red-and-black car, didn't you?" Hendley asked.

"No, sir," he said.

"You drove the red-and-black car to the South Padre Marina and parked it beside the white Mercedes diesel, didn't you?" the prosecutor asked.

"No sir," he answered.

"They Jay entered the trunk and he fired the shot from the trunk. Isn't that right?" Hendley asked.

"No," Minnick said.

He said he waited for his uncle at a motel parking lot and then followed Wilburn when he returned 15 to 20 minutes later.

The 21-year-old high school dropout kept driving when his uncle was stopped by police on the mainland side of the causeway to South Padre Island.

Minnick said Wilburn had told him to keep on going if he was pulled over.

Minnick was arrested later in the day in Refugio and returned to Cameron County by a Texas Ranger and Hendley.

46 Farmers Get $10 Million In Disaster Relief

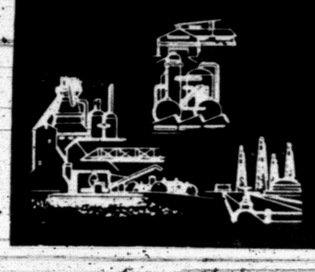

WASHINGTON (AP) - Forty-six farmers have received a total of more than $10 million in disaster payments from the Agriculture Department in the last three years, Sen. Robert Morgan, D.N.C., said today.

In California, one farmer received a check last year for more than $812,836 and another was paid $721,078 to cover crop losses, according to Agriculture Department documents released by Morgan.

Under present law, grain and cotton growers who cannot plant a crop or who harvest an abnormally small one because of drought, flood or other disaster are partially reimbursed by the federal government if they have cooperated with land idling programs.

Show How Much You Care With A Gift From Dollar TV & Rental

Christmas is the time of year to show someone special how much you care.

Gifts from Curtis Mathes say "you're special" in a way that nothing else can.

The place in Snyder to buy such an exclusive gift as Curtis Mathes is Dollar TV & Rental in Varsity Square.

Owner and manager Kenny Dollar recommends a Curtis Mathes product as your gift to someone special for several reasons.

Curtis Mathes sets offer many features which make it not only the elite, but also one of America's mot popular television sets. They are built with 100 percent modular chasis construction, which means that in almost every case there will be no expensive shop bills.

Curtis Mathes also has the only 100 percent electronic tuner in the major television industry. Electronic turning features selector sensor or sequential tuning, which means trouble-free tuning.

Dollar TV & Rental's Custis Mathes sets offer all this and more to make it the unique select Christmas present you'll want to impress your someone special. They come in beautiful cabinets in Mediterranean, Spanish, Early American or Contemporary styles to compliment the decor of any home.

One of the nicest things about Dollar TV & Rentals is that Kenny has so many Custis Mathes models to choose from, including portables, consoles and home entertainment centers. He also has the ever-popular video cassette recorders which make ideal Christmas gifts that will be appreciated year-round.

An additional gift, and one that lasts long after the Christmas decorations have been taken down, is the four-year unlimited warranty Kenny will offer you.

Kenny makes his unlimited warranty good not only to the original owner, but also to the successive owner. The warranty covers all electrical parts, the electronic circuit assembly, the electro-mechanical assemblies and the picture tube.

Another special service of Dollar TV & Rental is that they don't fix your TV parts should something ever tear up--they simply replace the part, which only takes a few minutes.

Kenny originated the rent-to-own program in Snyder, and says he is still the only one in town who gives you the option to buy the set you rent.

Credit terms are available and there is no credit check on rentals.

"YOURE SPECIAL"--This home entertainment center, shown by new employee Steve West at Dollar T.V. & Rental in Varsity Square, has everything on it to say "you're special" to someone this Christmas. The set features a 25" color screen, 5" TV speaker, remote control, VIR automatic Color Control, 68 am-fm stereo receiver with built-in eight track recorder-player, 2-speed, belt-drive record changer with a ceramic cartridge, 11 in. machined aluminum turntable, two-way viscous damped cue control, 24-pole synchronous motor and anti-skate control. (SDN Staff Photo)

Let Kenny, his new employee Steve West, or service technician, Ed Byington, introduce you to the quality of a Curtis Mathes set today. You'll understand why Curtis Mathes is the best way to say how much you care this Christmas.

T. E. Shelburne & Son Finds Pre-Planning Service Popular

"If you have a building problem, you need to see us," says D.D. Shelburne of T.E. Shelburne and Son Inc.

The firm handles residential and commercial building, and remodeling, and they sell custom built cabinets and Gulf States Metal Buildings.

Actually, T.E. Shelburne and Son Inc., do everything that most contracting companies do. But they do it differently.

At T.E. Shelburne and Son the customer is first and his interests and wants are foremost on D.D. Shelburne's list.

"We work with people to accomplish what they want," he said. "If you contract with me, I feel like you're entitled to as close as possible to what you want as we can get."

Shelburne said the firm will be happy to offer suggestions, but "we want to build the house that you want, not the one we want."

Often a building or remodeling project is postponed simply because the home or business owner thinks that he will have to coordinate the work of several different facets of the job and he feels that this will be a real headache for him.

This worry isn't necessary, however, because Shelburne can take care of the whole job from beginning to end.

The firm feels that each project is individual and different, so they strive to handle each job in a way that is right for it.

A pre-planning service is probably one of the most appreciated if not the most important service T.E. Shelburne & Son offers.

Many times a contractor is more important before a project is started than during the building or remodeling phase.

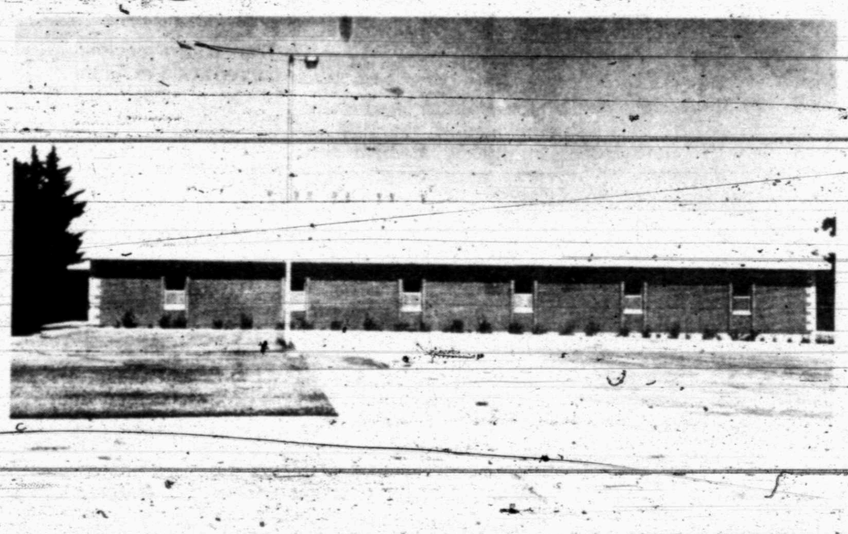

This is true in most cases because planning a project can mean more efficient use of space, thus you are happier with the completed project.

If your business has grown larger than the facilities you have now, then you should consider a Gulf States metal building by T.E. Shelburne & Son.

These buildings can be erected in a short period of time and you can maximize the space for your benefit.

You can feel comfortable trusting your building project to the firm--they have been in Snyder since 1955, and D.D. Shelburne has been in the business for 42 years.

Whatever your building needs--call T.E. Shelburne & Son, Inc., 573-6359, or go by 1611 24th St.

LATEST PROJECT--The new educational building at Colonial Hill Baptist Church is the most recently completed project of T.E. Shelburne & Son Inc. (SDN Staff Photo)

How to get rid of Roaches and Ants

Spray No-Roach for fast quick kill of roaches and ants. Apply Brushon No-Roach for long term control. Take your choice, or better yet ... take them both.

Johnston's No-Roach. Available at: Furr's, Safeway and other supermarkets. Dist. by Kimbell.
