Bomber crash

DAVIS, W.Va. — The wreckage of a Navy bomber that crashed Thursday while on a training mission was found Friday in a rugged area of northeastern West Virginia. Both crew members died, the Navy said. The A-6E Intruder was found near the Stony River Reservoir, about 150 miles west of Washington, D.C., said Col. Dave Caudill of the West Virginia Civil Air Patrol in Charleston. The bodies of Lt. Robert Louis Zouhar, 27, of Albuquerque, N.M., and Lt. Ricky Alan Serex, 32, of Salem, Ore., were found in the wreckage, said Cmdr. Steve Honda, a Navy spokesman in Norfolk, Va.

Shepard's space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Alan Shepard, America's first man in space, returned Friday to the site of his triumph three decades ago this week. Shepard's recollection of the early days of space flight was heard by about 75 people at the Air Force Space Museum next to Launch Pad 5, where he blasted off in a Mercury Redstone rocket on May 5, 1961, for his 15-minute historic suborbital hop. Shepard, 67, noted that President Kennedy awarded him a medal. "The accolade should go to the hundreds, no, thousands who made the flight possible."

First Bankers Trust & Savings was closed by the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) Friday afternoon and will be liquidated over the weekend.

The 36-year-old institution, located at 500 W. Wall, was placed in the receivership of the Resolution Trust Corp., (RTC) which will oversee its liquidation.

Warren Hastings, closing manager for the RTC out of San Antonio, said that checks to those with insured deposits in First Bankers will be made out and mailed Sunday. This includes those with IRA accounts, he said.

The thrift was one of 90 put on the sales block by the RTC in March, and Hastings said when no bids were received, it was decided a payoff of insured deposits was required.

"No bids were received for its purchase, so deposits will be paid out," he stated. It is estimated that liquidating First Bankers' assets will cost the RTC $26 million.

First Bankers has approximately $79.4 million in about 10,000 accounts. Uninsured deposits are believed to be minimal, and will share proportionately with the RTC in the proceeds of the liquidation of the S&L. First Bankers had assets of about $68.2 million and liabilities of approximately $80.6 million.

"People with safety deposit boxes at the branch on "A" and Louisiana will receive letters telling them when and how they can retrieve the contents of their boxes," Hastings added.

Those having loans at First Bankers should continue to make their payments to the same address according to the terms of their loan agreement until notified otherwise by the RTC, he said.

Hastings said there will be some inconvenience for customers with checking

Softball-sized hail pounds area towns

By Brian Pearson
Staff Writer

Softball-sized hail pounded Monahans, Wickett, Pyote and other surrounding communities Friday, causing major damage to vehicles and homes, police and weather officials said.

A storm lasting almost three hours relentlessly dropped the hail, which some people reported to be as large as six inches in diameter, a Midland-based National Weather Service official said.

The reports started rolling in about 4:20 p.m., when Pyote residents began seeing progressively larger doses of ice balls, the NWS spokesman said. What started as dime-sized hail turned to softball size and larger by 5:30 p.m., he said.

The storms, he said, then assaulted Monahans and Wickett, pelting the cities with huge balls of hail.

There was a report of a Wickett grocery store roof being blown off by wind, and that accompanied stories of damaged homes, shattered windshields and dented vehicles, the NWS official said.

A federal judge sentenced a Midland man to four years in prison Friday for his part in an LSD smuggling operation. Another man pleaded guilty Friday in U.S. District Court to concealing evidence in connection with the same operation.

Kirk Thomas Morrow, 19, had pleaded guilty March 29 to using a phone to make travel arrangements for a man who smuggled LSD into Midland from Albuquerque, N.M.

The man, 21-year-old Kyle Lee Harris, was sentenced in March to five years in prison on LSD distribution charges.

Although heavy gusts of winds kept a wind sock in a perpetual horizontal position, the 19 pilots entered in the competition prepared to take to the skies undaunted.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Thunderstorms forecast

Staff Report

Today's forecast calls for mostly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thundershowers and turning partly cloudy with a high in the high 80s and 15 to 20 mph and gusty south winds, the National Weather Service in Midland said.

Tonight is expected to be partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of rain and a low in the mid-60s, NWS said. Sunday's forecast calls for partly cloudy with a less than 20 percent chance of rain and a high near 90.

The record high of 103 for Friday's date was set in 1958, while the record low for today's date was 51 was in 1975. Friday's high was 91, with a low of 72.

STATE

Most of Texas had cloudy skies, mild temperatures and humid conditions Friday as thunderstorms returned to West Texas.

An approaching frontal system prompted officials to issue a tornado watch until 10 p.m. from the western Panhandle through the western Permian Basin.

Showers were scattered across North Texas, the Southeast and West. Thunderstorms occurred in the extreme Southeast. Other showers developed in south Central Texas near Austin.

Skies were mostly sunny from the Permian Basin westward.

Temperatures were in the upper 70s to lower 90s. Readings at mid-afternoon ranged from 94 degrees at Laredo to 74 degrees at Kerrville.

Forecasters expected Saturday would be foggy, cloudy and drizzly with an increasing chance of thunderstorms in West and North Texas. High temperatures in the 80s and 90s were predicted.

NATION

Rain kept falling Friday along the flood-plagued Gulf Coast and high winds blew over central and western parts of the nation, while much of the country basked in sunshine.

Nearly a month of rain in Louisiana has flooded more than 6,000 homes and covered more than 700,000 acres of farmland. Parts of Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia also have been flooded.

On Friday, more rain fell, including 1.87 inches in Baton Rouge, La., between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. EDT. Rain Thursday pushed the total for the year at Shreveport, La., past the normal yearly total of 43.84 inches. By midnight Thursday, 1991 rainfall stood at 44.82 inches.

Temperatures dipped below freezing overnight in the Great Basin, the northern and central Rockies and northern Maine. The low for the nation was 21 degrees at Elko, Nev.

The Associated Press also contributed to this report.

Ex-Texas Rangers president kills intruder

FORT WORTH (AP) — A woman fatally shot by former Texas Rangers president Mike Stone Friday morning had been implicated in a church break-in hours earlier, police said.

Jenice Miller, 46, was shot once in the neck with a .38-caliber handgun after she ignored Stone's warnings to "get the hell out" and kept climbing a staircase toward his bedroom, police said.

She was pronounced dead at the scene of the shooting, which occurred about 5 a.m.

Police said Ms. Miller, who lived in Stone's Arlington Heights neighborhood, was questioned in a 1:50 a.m. disturbance several miles south of the Stone home.

A resident had reported a suspicious person in the neighborhood. Ms. Miller was spotted nearby, but was not arrested because no crime had been committed, police said.

Chief Thomas Windham said police also had determined that Ms. Miller had broken into Connell Baptist Church earlier in the night.

He declined to elaborate on how the woman had been linked to the break-in, what time it occurred or whether anything had been taken from the church.

However, a church official who declined to be named said the woman had left behind some personal items that led police to identify her as the burglar.

Windham said results of the shooting investigation would be routinely forwarded to the district attorney's office and grand jury for review.

But, he added, "I do not anticipate that any charges will be filed against Mike Stone."

Windham said people breaking into someone's home "do so at their own peril."

"I have some problem with the availability of guns, but I have no problems with an individual protecting himself and his family from someone who has broken into their home," he said.

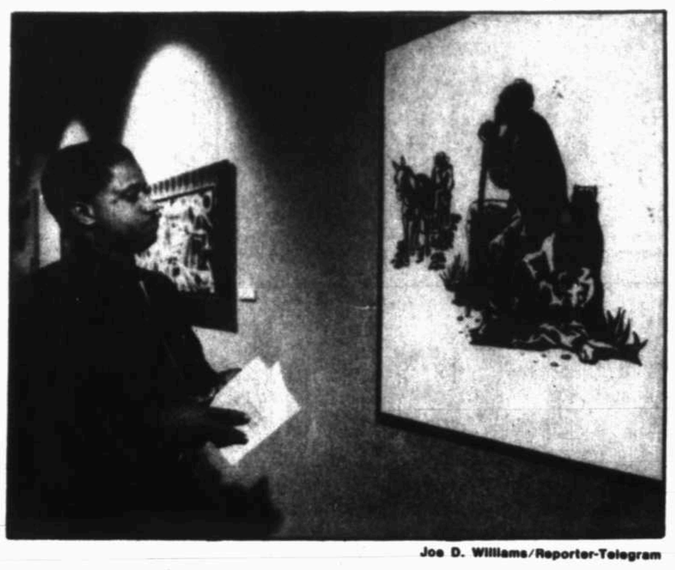

Stone told police he was awakened by a noise. Looking through a bedroom window, he saw someone open a door and come up the stairs, said Lt. Alvin Allcon.

Stone told police the house was dark and he could see only an approaching "shadow."

When the intruder kept climbing the stairs, ignoring Stone's warnings to leave, he fired once as she reached the top of the stairwell, Allcon said.

The woman was unarmed, Allcon said.

Stone was fired as president and chief operating officer of the Texas Rangers baseball team last September, a week after managing general partners George W. Bush and Rusty Rose demanded his resignation.

Artwork on display by Texas' black artists

Staff Report

The Eighth Annual Juried Texas Black Artists' Exhibition, on display at the McCormick Gallery in the Austin Fine Arts Building at Midland College, features 34 works.

The paintings by 18 artists, 17 of whom are black, will remain at the school through Sunday. The public can view the works free from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Thelma Poole, project director, said the paintings were selected by the Dallas Museum of Art curator, who reviewed more than 100 pieces entered for the exhibition.

The artists come from a wide variety of backgrounds, Ms. Poole said.

"Most of them are experienced artists," she said. "One thing they have in common is they're pretty much from ethnic backgrounds."

Robbyne Fuller, president of the Black Chamber of Entrepreneurs, which helped bring the exhibit to Midland, said the display is a rarity to West Texas.

"West Texas is on the edge of everything," Mrs. Fuller said. "We don't always get to experience art such as this because we're so far out here."

The presentation is being sponsored by the chamber, the Black Arts Alliance and the McCormick Gallery.

Works by Brian Joseph, an Austin-based artist who created last year's Midland Juneteenth Celebration poster for the chamber, are on display.

The exhibit comes from Austin and is in its eighth year, with Midland expected to become a regular stop for future shows, Mrs. Fuller said.

(From 1A)

Police arrested him on Sept. 22, 1990, at Midland International Airport after finding about 389 "hits" of acid in his possession.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Tom Beery said Morrow was at the airport on Sept. 22 but was not immediately arrested. He was later indicted for using a telephone to facilitate a drug transaction.

U.S. District Judge Lucius D. Bunton III handed down the maximum sentence in Morrow's case.

Morrow, described by defense attorney George Patton as a troubled young man with a history of drug and alcohol abuse dating back at least seven years, was contrite.

"I know I'm guilty of what I did," he told Bunton. "I have no choice but to accept what you give me."

Another suspect in the LSD smuggling scheme, 19-year-old Chris Davidson, pleaded guilty Friday before Bunton to charges of misprision — concealment of a felony from authorities.

Beery said Davidson was at the airport with Morrow when Harris was arrested and knew about the plan to bring LSD from Albuquerque.

Davidson faces a maximum of three years in prison and up to a $250,000 fine.

Davidson's plea and Morrow's sentencing are the result of an ongoing investigation of LSD distribution in Midland County.

The Department of Public Safety, the Drug Enforcement Administration, the U.S. Attorney's Office and the Midland County District Attorney's Office have been cooperating in the investigation, which began last fall.

The probe to date has led to five convictions in federal court, including Harris', Morrow's and Davidson's.

Robert Shane Jenkins, 20, pleaded guilty April 23 to using a phone to facilitate a drug transaction in connection with the LSD investigation. Beery said Jenkins paid Harris' plane fare from Albuquerque to Midland.

Clayton Wade Williams, son of former Republican gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams Jr., pleaded guilty to LSD possession last December. Bunton sentenced him to 12 months in federal custody — six months of which is to be spent in a boot-camp style prison in Pennsylvania — on Feb. 25. Williams has appealed the sentence.

In state district court in Midland, the probe has led to the conviction of Matthew Lynn Wallace and Rodney Lynn Foster, ages unavailable. The men have been sentenced to probation for LSD possession, court records show.

Trial for another man arrested in the investigation, Jimmy Mack Haggard, is pending in state court, officials said.

He pointed out that small businesses currently comprise 21.5 percent of the current gross national product, or $1.3 trillion, employ half the private sector, and that 9.5 percent of all Americans are their own bosses. He added that women make up one-third of U.S. entrepreneurs today.

As already record-level business start-ups continue to climb, Castro cautioned that for each successful entrepreneur, there are a number of failures. And he applauded "those of you who have survived that first year. You are passing on your experience, the techniques that lead to success. It's up to you to defend and support new business start-ups."

Mrs. Vargas owns, with her husband, Ruben, Trendy T's in Midland Park Mall. The mother of two sons, she and her husband have had their own business, selling computer portraits, since 1979.

Celia Morales was one of the first 20 members of the chamber and has served on every committee within the chamber. She currently serves as secretary of the organization.

Clayton W. Williams Jr. Companies was one of the chamber's first corporate members, and, as MHCC President Elvia Hernandez noted, "Clayton has been generous with his time and money."

The four will compete for state honors at the state convention of the Texas Association of Mexican-American Chambers of Commerce this July in Lubbock.

In addition to honoring the four, the chamber announced the awarding of 10 scholarships. They go to Patricio Carrasco, Rene Cuellar and Rebecca Duran of Lee High School, Melissa Castaneda of Midland High School , Sandy Dunn of Greenwood High School, Michael Monclova of Franciscan University, and Veronica Martinez and Diana Yorkman of Midland College.

The liquidation brings to an end a year of struggle for the thrift, which was declared insolvent and placed in the receivership of the RTC in June 1990, at which time the RTC decided to either sell or close the thrift.

When it was placed in receivership, the OTS formed a new federal mutual association to assume deposits and certain assets and liabilities, First Bankers Trust and Savings Association, F.A.

The RTC was appointed conservator and appointed a managing agent responsible for minimizing operating losses, limiting growth, and ensuring operations were conducted in a safe and sound manner. At the time First Bankers was placed in receivership, it had $110.4 million in assets, of which $97 million was in 10,972 deposit accounts.

The RTC had three months earlier placed restrictions on First Bankers and prohibited the thrift from making new loans as a result of the denial of a capital requirement plan filed with the OTS. At that time, then-president Howard Jones blamed non-performing loans for the thrift's troubles.

First Bankers was founded in 1955 as First Savings and Loan and was locally owned until 1980, when it was bought by Southern Union Oil & Gas Co. In 1988, Southern Union spun the institution off as a public entity to its 6,800 stockholders.

To date, the RTC has closed or sold 378 savings institutions and received more than $143 billion in asset sales and collections. The RTC was formed in August 1989 by Congress to contain, manage and sell failed savings institutions and recover taxpayer funds through the management and sale of the institutions' assets.

he was the first competitor in the intermediate category. As Treat suited up in a jumpsuit and prepared his black Pitts airplane for takeoff, he explained his mission.

"The wind dummy flies a low line to give judges a reference to go by for the low altitudes," Treat said. "The first person to fly out in each category does this."

Star Dusters, Pitts airplanes and other certified aerobatic planes took to the air as their pilots performed spins, hammerheads, loops and rolls in the competition Friday which will continue from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. today.

Pilots are competing in four categories — sportsman, intermediate, advanced and unlimited (freestyle) — for trophies.

"All pilots will fly the same maneuvers in all the categories, except for unlimited," said Connie Day of Midland, volunteer coordinator of the event. "We will award first, second and third place trophies in each category," she said.

"This is the first time the annual event has been in Odessa," Ms. Day said. "We have competitors from Colorado, Texas and even one from Australia."

When asked how long organizers have been gearing up for the event, Jones joked, "All my life."

"Actually we have been getting this ready since last November," he said.

"As soon as we finish one event we usually begin working on the next event," Ms. Day said.

The event is open to the public free of charge. Persons wishing to watch the air show, however, should bring their own chairs.

Woman: Family harassed after shaving incident

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

GREENWOOD — Reporting that a Greenwood principal allegedly shaved their son's upper lip resulted in minor harassment for the Evans family, according to the boy's mother.

Christina Evans said the family's house was "wrapped" with toilet paper Thursday night and notes with drawings of a boy with a mustache were left in various places on the property.

The notes said, "Greenwood, love it or leave it" and "Leave our school alone," according to Ms. Evans.

"Other parents have told me that the school district will make things difficult for us now that we have complained," Ms. Evans said. "I'm just afraid for my son."

Ms. Evans said the trouble began after she reported that Greenwood Middle School Principal Don Dulin shaved her 13-year-old son's upper lip against his will at school Monday afternoon.

The mother discussed the incident with the principal, Greenwood superintendent, the news media and an attorney.

The sixth grader had never shaved before when the principal called him into his office Monday.

He said the principal shaved part of his lip with an electric razor and told him to finish the job.

Dulin said the sixth grader shaved himself voluntarily.

"I don't speculate on why he said I shaved him," Dulin said when questioned about the incident. "I did not shave him."

"Greenwood is a small community," Ms. Evans said, "and people know they have to live here, so they are afraid to speak out. But this is my son and I am not going to just shut up."

Ms. Evans said the family moved to the rural community — located 10 miles east of Midland — from Houston last year.

Ms. Evans and her husband, Ron, said their son had peach fuzz on his upper lip and they thought it was too sparse for him to begin shaving.

Seniors can win scholarship to study journalism

Staff Report

Midland and Lee high school seniors have an opportunity to win a $500 college scholarship, it was announced this week by Charles Spence, publisher of the Midland Reporter-Telegram

The Reporter-Telegram is a member of the West Texas Press Association, the world's largest regional press group, and that organization is seeking applications from a future community journalist to receive a $500 college scholarship.

Through the "Bob Craig Memorial Scholarship" program, named in honor of longtime Hamlin Herald publisher Bob Craig who died in 1981, the West Texas Press Association is sponsoring an essay contest based on the theme, "My Future and Career Plans in Community Journalism."

High school seniors interested in pursuing a career in community journalism may submit their essays to the WTPA Scholarship Committee, Stephen Henry, chairman, Drawer 1628, Levelland, Texas, 79336-1628.

The essay and application must be postmarked no later than May 15.

The essay is limited to a maximum of 500 words. No letters of reference will be accepted for consideration but an application must be filled out. They should be available from the journalism departments at the two local high schools on Monday.

In addition to being a senior in high school, applicants must have at least a "B" average and plan to study journalism in college. Once a winner is selected, the student must be enrolled in at least three hours of journalism each semester he or she receives a scholarship payment.

The scholarship will be divided into payments of $250 per semester for two semesters for the student.

The essays will be judged by the board of directors of the West Texas Press Association.

Menu manufacturer dies in Eastland

ABILENE (AP) — Victor Cornelius, whose Eastland company, Victor Cornelius Menus, is said to be one of the nation's largest manufacturer of restaurant menus, died Friday of a heart ailment and kidney failure. He was 86.

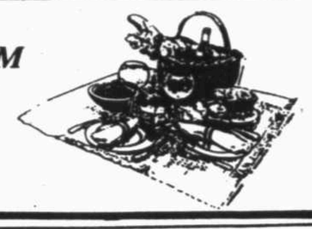

Cornelius was born July 15, 1904, in Limestone County. His family lived in Rockwood and Santa Anna before moving to the West Texas oil boomtown of Eastland in 1918.

In 1938, he patented an invention he called the Nap-Ad. It attached to napkin holders in cafes and could be used to display selections on the jukebox or advertising for movie theaters. He sold the ads for the holders at a printing company he started in his garage.

Another invention, the Redi-Clip, was patented in 1966 and allows cards advertising "daily specials" to be clipped to the menu. He sold millions of the clips, he told the Abilene Reporter-News in an earlier interview.

Survivors include his wife, Inez Cornelius of Eastland; two daughters, LaVerne Meeks of Fort Worth and Catherine Germany of Eastland; five grandchildren; and seven great-grandchildren.

TSTA president advocates site-based management

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

Olivia Besteiro brought Midland teachers a message to restructure public schools Friday night.

Ms. Besteiro, the Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA) president, addressed Midland educators from several professional organizations at a banquet in Venezia's restaurant.

The TSTA president said Midland teachers must push for site-based management which was outlined in Senate Bill 1.

"We must restructure schools from the bottom up," Ms. Besteiro said in an interview prior to the banquet. "Starting from the bottom up means allowing decisions to be made on campus. By putting accountability at the campus level there will be no excuses for failure."

Ms. Besteiro said when teachers make decisions about academics themselves they can't blame administrators or persons outside the campus for failures.

"This will give teachers an opportunity to really upgrade their schools so that every child in Texas can get a first-class education," she said.

Site-based management is a concept that can be implemented now, said the TSTA president. She also said that administrators and teachers shouldn't wait around to see how schools will be funded before taking action to restructure schools.

"We are probably looking at two special sessions to consider how schools will be funded," Ms. Besteiro said. "Legislators won't even deal with school finance until auditing of all state agencies has been completed."

The good news for educators, according to Ms. Besteiro, is that Senate Bill 190 passed Friday and was signed by Gov. Ann Richards. The bill will allow school district employees to have their professional fees or dues automatically deducted from their salaries.

"The bill finally passed after 20 years," Ms. Besteiro said. "It always passed the House and not the Senate or it was vetoed by the governor."

The TSTA president said the bill's passage will be a boon to support personnel in school districts who don't have checking accounts or credit cards. "Allowing them to deduct professional fees from their paychecks will eliminate one hardship for these people," she said.

Ms. Besteiro said teachers also supported the measure weakening the no-pass no-play rule. The measure, which decrees that a student who fails a class cannot take part in extracurricular activities for at least six weeks, was amended to shorten the suspension to three weeks. The amended version passed the Senate Friday.

"We support the measure under one condition only," Ms. Besteiro said, "that it adds no additional paperwork for teachers. Other than that, we think three weeks is sufficient time for a student to bring his or her grades up."

She also said that teachers were distressed with Gov. Richards' omnibus bill since it weakens site-based management.

"It really waters down site-based decision making and doesn't require that it be implemented until 1995," Ms. Besteiro said. "We want to see the bill amended to implement it by 1993."

The TSTA officer decried the concept of school choice or the voucher system. "School choice would result in a system of economic segregation," she said.

"Only those parents who could afford to drive their children across town will have a choice about which schools their children attend," she added. "People without transportation won't have a choice. Schools will improve only when each campus becomes accountable."

Ms. Besteiro, an educator for 29 years, said that she resides in Brownsville when the Legislature is not in session. "The rest of the time — when I am not in Austin — I am traveling around," she said.

Other than deposing the top-down structure of public schools, Ms. Besteiro said Midland educators should "put politics on their professional agendas."

"Do some research, know who you are electing and get involved with politics," she advised.

STORM: Hail hits area

Telephone calls about hail-bearing storms flowed in until 7:30 p.m. from as far away as Hobbs, N.M., the official said.

The storms, he said, were caused by dry air from the west clashing with moist air in the area.

However, lightning set an apartment roof afire, causing minor smoke damage to some units, she said. Other residents reported that hail damage to vehicles was widespread, she said.

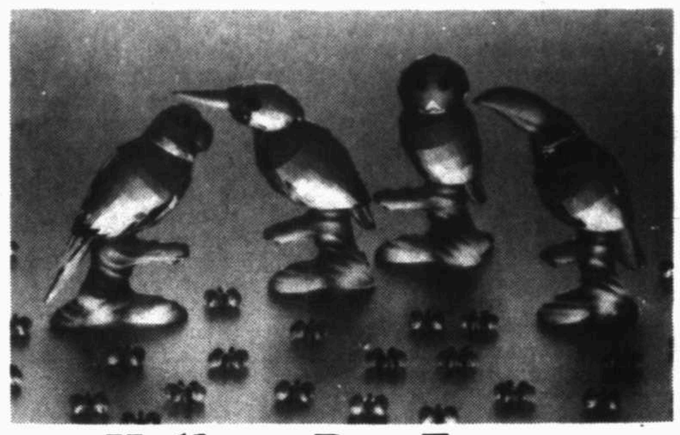

The NWS official said the storms were not expected to continue today.

Morales authorizes extra pay for legislators

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers have learned how to give themselves a pay raise, but there's some question whether they will do it.

A Texas attorney general's opinion requested at the urging of House leaders authorizes legislators to claim an additional $85 a day in legislative expenses when they are in session.

Legislators earn a salary of $600 a month, plus mileage and $30 a day when they are in session. Those amounts are specified in the Texas Constitution and can be increased only if voters agree.

That option was last rejected by voters in 1989.

With the $85 increase, total compensation for a 140-day regular session would jump from $7,000 to $18,900 if lawmakers claimed a maximum $85 a day in additional expenses.

"It's pretty simple math that if a legislator makes $600 a month, receives $30 a day per diem and is authorized to collect additional expenses of $85 per day, it has the effect of practically doubling their existing compensation," said Andy Welch, spokesman for Comptroller John Sharp, who requested the ruling.

Taxpayers would pay an additional $2.1 million during a regular session if all 181 lawmakers took full advantage of the new expense allotment.

Some legislators appeared to be in no hurry to tap their new source of compensation, fearing that a public backlash could result at a time when the House has yet to approve an ethics bill.

"I think everybody's going to take a wait-and-see attitude to see how the public reacts to this," Rep. Bruce Gibson, D-Godley, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

A spokesman for Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said the 31 senators likely will pass on the opportunity to claim additional reimbursements.

"This was requested by the House. The Senate will not take advantage of that in all likelihood," said Bullock spokesman Rafe Greenlee.

Sharp requested the opinion at the behest of Speaker Gib Lewis and other House leaders, who wanted to know whether lawmakers were entitled to the $85 in expenses on days when they are in session. The $85 a day, authorized in state law, had been paid to legislators when they conduct state business but are not in session.

The opinion by Attorney General Dan Morales said lawmakers are entitled to additional compensation for "legislative expenses" beyond what the Constitution allows, regardless of whether the Legislature is in session.

Welch said no lawmakers have yet claimed the additional expenses.

Sharp will not reimburse them until legislative leaders define what they mean by legislative expenses, Welch said.

Gov. Ann Richards said, "I think it is appropriate under the Morales decision, for the per diem during the period of time that these people are in Austin to attempt to pay their expenses adequately."

"When you are here serving in this Legislature, making the piddling amount that the state of Texas pays you, it is absurd to suggest that these people can do their job and do the job adequately and ethically and not be compensated for the amount of money it costs them to live here," she said.

Lewis said any extra money for living expenses would be documented and controlled. "It's unfair to ask that person to expect to live on $30 a day per diem, and a hotel room is going to cost them $57 or $60 a day," he said.

"I think that's very unfair, because what you're doing if you have that mentality, that you expect people to pay to serve in the Legislature that's going to prohibit 90 percent of the people in this state from ever serving in any level of public office," he said.

The State

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas will lose a chance at the Super Bowl unless lawmakers create a separate state holiday honoring the late Martin Luther King Jr., a lawmaker said.

"I guarantee you the Super Bowl will not come to this state if this bill does not pass," said Rep. Ron Wilson, sponsor of a House bill that would create a King holiday.

Wilson, D-Houston, said supporters of a King holiday would have no qualms about pressuring the National Football League to keep the Super Bowl out of Houston if the bill does not become law.

NFL owners are considering awarding the 1995 Super Bowl to Houston, New Orleans, Miami or Tampa. The decision is expected next year.

"Houston does not need and does not deserve a Super Bowl if we don't get a full-fledged holiday, and I will do everything in my power to stop it if we don't have a holiday," Wilson said.

Wilson, Sen. Frank Tejeda, D-San Antonio, and other backers of the bill asked House Speaker Gib Lewis to help get the bill to the House floor.

Lewis later told reporters that he favors the bill and has spoken with State Affairs Committee Chairman Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, about it. Laney said it probably will be voted out of committee Monday.

"Right now, what passes for a King holiday in Texas is a joke," said Wilson, whose bill would set aside the third Monday in January as a full, paid holiday for state workers.

STATE IN BRIEF

■ Private agency to collect support

AUSTIN — The former head of the state's child support collection agency has started a company that charges divorced parents a commission to collect overdue support payments.

Casey Hoffman from 1986 through 1990 oversaw the child support enforcement division of the Texas attorney general's office, and is now president of Child Support Enforcement of Texas Inc., a private collection agency in Austin.

Hoffman told the Austin American-Statesman his company could help fill a void by taking some of the child support cases from the state attorney general's office.

The Association for Children for Enforcement of Support, or ACES, has reservations about private firms collecting child support.

"We're concerned about it, because they're making money off the bad fortune of people who have been unable to collect child support through government agencies," said ACES member Kay Ingraffia.

■ Richards excited about queen's visit

AUSTIN — Gov. Ann Richards said security still must be worked out for the visit of Queen Elizabeth II on May 20 but added that "it's going to be a wonderful event, it really is."

Richards said she had a briefing Thursday on the queen's visit.

"Of course there are security questions that have to be resolved. There are other questions. I think that we ... will make the queen happy about her visit, and it's going to be great," Richards told reporters Friday.

"The fashion in which we present ourselves to foreign countries has a lot to do with the business and economic trade with those countries."

Asked if she had to learn any special "social graces" for the visit, Richards said, "The only thing I know is, she is referred as to as 'Your Majesty' the first time that you see her and she is referred to as 'Ma'am' in any subsequent exchange."

■ Two people injured in bus shooting

HOUSTON — A gunman allegedly chasing a woman who shorted him money during a drug deal on Friday wounded two people aboard a Metro minibus when he fired from his car, police said.

Police have arrested a man in his 20s in connection with the shootings. In addition, authorities arrested a 15-year-old boy who allegedly was driving the white Monte Carlo when the shots were fired.

Officers said a woman argued with a man at a nearby crack house minutes before the 11 a.m. shooting. She had walked to a bus stop, but stepped inside the adjacent store just before the bus arrived, said police Sgt. R.W. Zalud.

The back window of the bus had been shot out.

A 22-year-old woman was shot in the back shoulder, while a 16-year-old boy suffered a gunshot wound to the arm.

■ Austin homicide rate increases to 22

AUSTIN — In a week's time, five people have been killed in Austin, raising the homicide total to 22 as of Thursday — seven more deaths than this time last year.

"If we continue to head the way we are now, we'll probably have a record year," said Sgt. Mike Huckabay, a homicide investigator with the Austin Police Department. "But there is really no way to tell for sure. You can't predict what people are going to do."

There were 49 homicides in 1990, short of the record 62 in 1984.

This year's figures to date represent nearly a 32 percent increase over the same period last year.

There has been a steady increase in Austin's homicide rate over the past few years, say investigators, who attribute the increase to the rise of gangs and persistent drug trafficking.

■ Nude motorcyclist escapes police

UNIVERSAL CITY — A man believed to be a nude motorcyclist wanted by police for accosting women eluded law officers from three cities by escaping into some brush on his dirt bike, authorities said.

Police said a woman spotted the man Thursday hiding in some brush in this San Antonio suburb. "She remembered the publicity and recognized the red helmet," police Lt. Ron Meek said.

Law officers, who have dubbed the motorcyclist the "Lone Ranger," said he wore a red helmet and nothing else when he accosted women on four occasions in less than a week.

On Thursday, officers said, the man they chased wore shorts and a T-shirt in addition to a red helmet.

Compiled from Reporter-Telegram wire services.

Legislators introduce workers' comp plan

AUSTIN (AP) — A plan meant to prevent a collapse of the state workers' compensation system was introduced Friday by House Speaker Gib Lewis and other lawmakers.

The measure would create a new state workers' comp fund that would be initially financed by $300 million in revenue bonds. The bonds would be paid for by a 1 percent surcharge on all workers' compensation policies.

It also would phase in a new rate system.

"The workers' compensation reform bill passed by the Legislature in 1989 should eventually solve the problems with our system — if the system does not collapse before the reforms can begin to have a significant impact," Lewis said.

He said the legislation is meant to "hold the system together until the reforms can begin to bring down costs."

Employer-paid workers' comp insurance is used to provide medical benefits and lost wages to employees who are injured on the job.

Texas is one of the largest workers' comp markets in the United States, with approximately $3.5 billion worth of premiums.

Lawmakers reformed the workers' comp system in 1989, responding to business interests' complaints about skyrocketing premiums.

A state judge on Thursday declared the reforms unconstitutional, but the bill does not address that ruling.

The bill comes after a warning last week from the state's chief insurance regulator, Commissioner Phil Barnes. He said the system has deteriorated and could break down.

Barnes said the immediate problem is a deficit topping $1 billion in the assigned risk pool, which sells insurance to employers who cannot get coverage on the open market.

The pool assesses all insurers a share of the cost, based on their share of the market for workers' comp insurance.

The deficit is causing private insurers to drop out of the Texas market, and making it harder for employers to buy insurance, the speaker's office said.

Insurers say the pool has developed the deficit because of escalating claim costs, and the State Board of Insurance's reluctance to raise premiums as high as insurers believe is necessary.

The new fund proposed by Lewis and other House lawmakers would work like a private insurance company. It would begin operating Jan. 1, and would eventually replace the assigned risk pool.

BAYTOWN (AP) — A 65-year-old teacher who was stabbed by a student the day she was scheduled to attend her retirement party said she feels sorry for the youth.

"He has troubles, and I want him to get help," said Julia Tromblee, who was stabbed Thursday at Highlands Junior High School. "I'm also concerned for the other students and don't want to let one student's behavior reflect on them."

Ms. Tromblee was stabbed by a 14-year-old student she had told to sit down. Twenty students in her seventh-grade science class witnessed the attack.

"It's a pretty good wound, but it didn't hit anything vital," said Ms. Tromblee, who was hospitalized at San Jacinto Methodist Hospital in Baytown. "The doctor wants to keep me here a few days just to make sure it didn't nick a lung."

"I'm lucky because my rib deflected the blade," she said. "It went in a couple of inches, just missing my lung."

The boy, whose name was withheld because he is a juvenile, was taken to the Harris County Juvenile Detention Center in Houston, Sheriff's Sgt. Skip Oliver said. He said officers intend to charge him in juvenile court with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

By late Friday, the charges had not been filed. A spokeswoman at the juvenile center indicated there would be a hearing for the student on Monday and he would remain incarcerated until then.

Ms. Tromblee was only 15 school days away from retirement when she was attacked by the boy with a folding knife, school officials said.

The teacher said that in her 27 years of teaching in Baytown's Goose Creek Consolidated Independent School District the worst violence she had seen was a fistfight.

"I know I've seen a big change in kids since I first started teaching. It must be the times," she said.

The youth was upset because Ms. Tromblee had ordered him to return to his assigned seat, Oliver said.

The investigator said that when several attempts to corral the youth failed, the teacher said, "I'm a little tired of your behavior."

"I'm tired of you, too!" the youth reportedly replied.

"He had been talking back," said investigator Robert Tonry. "But students said that the teacher had been rather nice and polite. The students were real upset because they seemed to have a good opinion of the teacher."

The teacher said that as she left to go to another classroom for help, the attacker threw his knife at her. It glanced off her back, leaving only a superficial cut.

"He followed me from the room, but the teacher next door slammed the door in his face. He didn't try to enter after that," Ms. Tromblee said.

A male teacher persuaded the boy to give up the knife and the pupil was held for authorities.

Ms. Tromblee said she is not sure whether she'll be able to return to her classroom but hopes to be back for the last day of classes, at least.

Richards endorses Senate's no-pass, no-play measure

AUSTIN (AP) — A measure passed by the Senate on Friday that could weaken Texas' no-pass, no-play rule has been endorsed by Gov. Ann Richards.

Sen. Carl Parker, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, and one of those who crafted no-pass, no-play, said the proposed change represented a retreat in trying to improve education.

"When you send this signal, you say that varsity sports are more important than academics," said Parker, D-Port Arthur.

The proposal could cut in half the time a student who failed a class would have to miss extracurricular activities.

But Richards said the amendment to an education bill approved by the Senate "appears to me to offer an opportunity to reward kids who are trying to get their act together."

The no-pass, no-play rule was one of the most controversial parts of sweeping public school reforms passed in 1984.

The proposed change Friday was written by Sen. Temple Dickson, D-Sweetwater, who said Richards had earlier accepted it. But Richards said the amendment came "out of the blue."

Currently, a student who fails a class cannot take part in extracurricular activities for at least six weeks. Under Dickson's amendment, the suspension could be lifted after three weeks if the student passes performance standards that would be set by the Texas education commissioner.

Parker said those standards could make the rule tougher, but he added that re-evaluating a student in the middle of a six-week period could put pressure on a teacher to pass a star athlete.

"It's going to put tremendous pressure on a teacher to write a letter saying little Johnny is doing OK when he can't read, write or do math," he said.

But Dickson said the six-week suspension was causing students to take easy courses to ensure they could participate in sports, or other extracurricular programs.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, presiding officer of the Senate, said through his spokesman Rafe Greenlee, that he was disappointed the measure passed and would work to defeat it.

A motion to kill the proposed change failed 10-20. The amendment was added to an education bill pushed by Richards that would create local school councils and set up "SWAT" teams of educators to help schools improve.

The bill now goes to the House for consideration.

"It's going to put tremendous pressure on a teacher to write a letter saying little Johnny is doing OK when he can't read, write or do math.'

Sen. Carl Parker

Plan would create races among 16 incumbents

By John Powers
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The House Redistricting Committee unveiled a plan Friday that would create a race between incumbent representatives Troy Fraser of Big Spring and David Counts of Knox City, if both choose to run again in 1992.

The plan would pair the two legislators because a loss of population will reduce the number of districts in the area. The ideal-sized House district would have 113,243 residents.

The plan, announced by committee chairman D.R. "Tom" Uher, D-Bay City, would pair seven other areas, or a total of 16 incumbents including Fraser and Counts.

It does not include Harris and Dallas counties. The committee still is working on proposed new districts lines for the state's two most populated areas.

Uher said the committee "made every effort to maximize minority districts and keep pairing to a minimum, which respecting communities of interest throughout the state."

The committee will hold public hearings on its plan Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the John H. Reagan Building on the Capitol grounds.

It then will go to the House for debate and approval, and most legislators believe numerous changes will be made in district boundary lines before a final version emerges. It also must be approved by the Senate — although the Senate rarely makes changes in the House's plan and vice versa — and signed by the governor.

It is also very likely that minorities or Republicans will challenge whatever plan is approved, and the final version may be determined in the courts.

The plan by the Senate Committee of the Whole on Redistricting, headed by Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, does not pair incumbents.

Redistricting is required every 10 years to match the Legislature with changing population patterns. Legislators also will draw boundaries for the U.S. House of Representatives, but that job will be completed in a special session this summer.

Soviets work for Mideast peace

JERUSALEM (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh, on a historic first visit to Israel, said Friday his country and the Jewish state have agreed to work together for Middle East peace.

Bessmertnykh said his meetings with Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir and Foreign Minister David Levy "allow me to speak with greater conviction about the fact that the chance for achieving peace ... for starting talks, is quite great."

The Soviet official also said his trip was "an important stage in renewing ties between Israel and the Soviet Union."

The six-hour visit, the first by a Soviet foreign minister, underscored the transformation of Soviet-Israeli relations since President Mikhail S. Gorbachev came to power. The superpower that armed the Arabs and boycotted Israel for nearly 24 years was hailed Friday as an ally in peacemaking.

"Whoever thinks the Soviet Union will play a role that leads to war in the Middle East is an enemy of peace," said Levy. He added the Soviet Union was working for peace "to make its contribution, and Israel welcomes it with joy."

After his two-hour discussion with Levy, Bessmertnykh said the two countries would cooperate on organizing a Middle East peace conference.

"We have agreed to continue the talks and to be in constant touch on the issues in every way possible ... to move in the direction we all wish, and that is peaceful settlement of all issues that trouble the region," he said.

Bessmertnykh came from the Jordanian capital of Amman and left later for Cairo, where he was to meet Egyptian officials and U.S. Secretary of State James A. Baker III. With Baker, he was to discuss prospects for American- and Soviet-sponsored peace talks.

His visit here seemed to dispel the uneasiness over his remarks Thursday in Jordan, in which he hinted that the Soviets might use their control over Jewish emigration as a weapon to halt Jewish settlement building in the occupied territories.

At a news conference, Bessmertnykh denied he intended to put pressure on Israel over the settlement issue, and Israel radio reported his discussions with Levy did not touch on settlements or other contentious issues.

The Soviet Union broke relations after Israel captured land from its Arab allies in the 1967 Middle East war. It has since insisted the occupied territories be returned.

Both the Soviets and the United States have objected to Jewish settlements in the territories as obsta-

In Amman, Bessmertnykh had said he "can't accept a situation where a peace conference is in session while settlements are being built" in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

But a top aide to Shamir, Avi Pazner, said Bessmertnykh did not bring up the settlements during a meeting with the prime minister and a group of advisers.

Spanish opera stars win Queen Sofia's applause

SEVILLE, Spain (AP) — Not far from the corner where "Carmen" sold cigars, a sellout crowd roared with approval at the debut of the first opera house in this storied city — backdrop for "Carmen," "Don Giovanni," and of course, "The Barber of Seville."

Domingo, in white tie and tails, led a lineup that included Jose Carreras, Alfredo Kraus, Montserrat Caballe, Teresa Berganza and Pilar Lorengar.

Caballe and Carreras performed the Spanish standard "El Duo de la Africana" in a stirring duet and Kraus won roaring approval for his version of "La donna e mobile" from Verdi's "Rigoletto."

The evening ended with a champagne toast by all on stage and a rousing version of Verdi's "La Traviata." All the singers took a solo opportunity, and the queen was the first to jump up and applaud enthusiastically.

The new cylindrical structure, seating 1,800, stands in the same neighborhood where composer Georges Bizet's fictional Carmen sold cigars, and next to the city's famous Maestranza bullring.

Architect Aurelio del Pozo said the Maestranza has Spain's first completely motorized stage and a motorized system of fiberglass sound absorption units that allow it to change its acoustics quickly for opera or symphonic performances.

Theater construction took five years. Expo '92, the world exposition scheduled to run from April 20 to Oct. 12 next year, provided the impetus for the multipurpose theater.

"It is a dream to see all the great artists that have carried the banner of Spain's name for 20 years on the world's finest stages here in Seville for this historic occasion," Domingo told TV in a preshow interview.

GOP evicts 'Stros

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros will be playing all their home games at the Astrodome in 1992, but likely will have a 28-day road trip to accommodate the GOP's National Convention.

Astros vice president Ted Haracz met with the National League scheduling committee in Chicago on Wednesday.

The Republican National Convention, scheduled for Aug. 17-20, originally sought access to the Dome for a six-week period before the convention and a week afterwards. But the GOP agreed with convention supporters to limit the time to four weeks because of the baseball schedule.

Tarpley pleas

HOUSTON (AP) — Troubled Dallas Mavericks basketball player Roy Tarpley on Friday was given two weeks to decide on an attorney who will represent him on assault charges stemming from the beating of a woman who claims to be his girlfriend.

Tarpley, 26, appeared briefly before Harris County Criminal Court Judge Michael Peters and entered an innocent plea at his arraignment on charges of assault with intent to do bodily injury.

Dogs, Rebs triumph

Lee's Rebels unpack the bats for 11 hits in 9-7 victory

Joe D. Williams/Reporter-Telegram

By Bill Price
Staff Writer

At least Midland Lee did not have to come from behind to win this one.

Hosting Lubbock Coronado in the first game of a best-of-three bi-district baseball playoff Friday at Johnson Field, the eighth-ranked Rebels eschewed their usual bottom-of-the-seventh heroics by never trailing in an offense-filled 9-7 victory over the Mustangs.

The game, however, was tied in the fifth inning and it took yet another Lee rally to pull the win and the 1-0 series lead out of the bag.

The series now moves to Lubbock today, where the Rebels (19-8) and Mustangs (17-12) play Game 2 at 2 p.m. on the diamond at O'Banion Field. Game 3, if necessary, will immediately follow.

Friday's contest also saw Rebel pitcher Jeff Johnston try to shake some of the rust off his location. Johnston, who had not thrown against anybody but his teammates in 16 days, found four of his pitches launched over the left-field fence with a little help from the wind and a lot of boost off the Mustang bats.

The Lee offense countered with only one long ball, but 11 total hits that manufactured eight of the nine runs. That feat coincided with Allen Chase's return to the lead-off hole in the batting order. Chase, who had been sidelined with an injured left

Madrid allows just three hits in win

■ A three-run rally in the fifth inning puts Midland High on the bi-district drivers seat.

By Joe Wyatt
Staff Writer

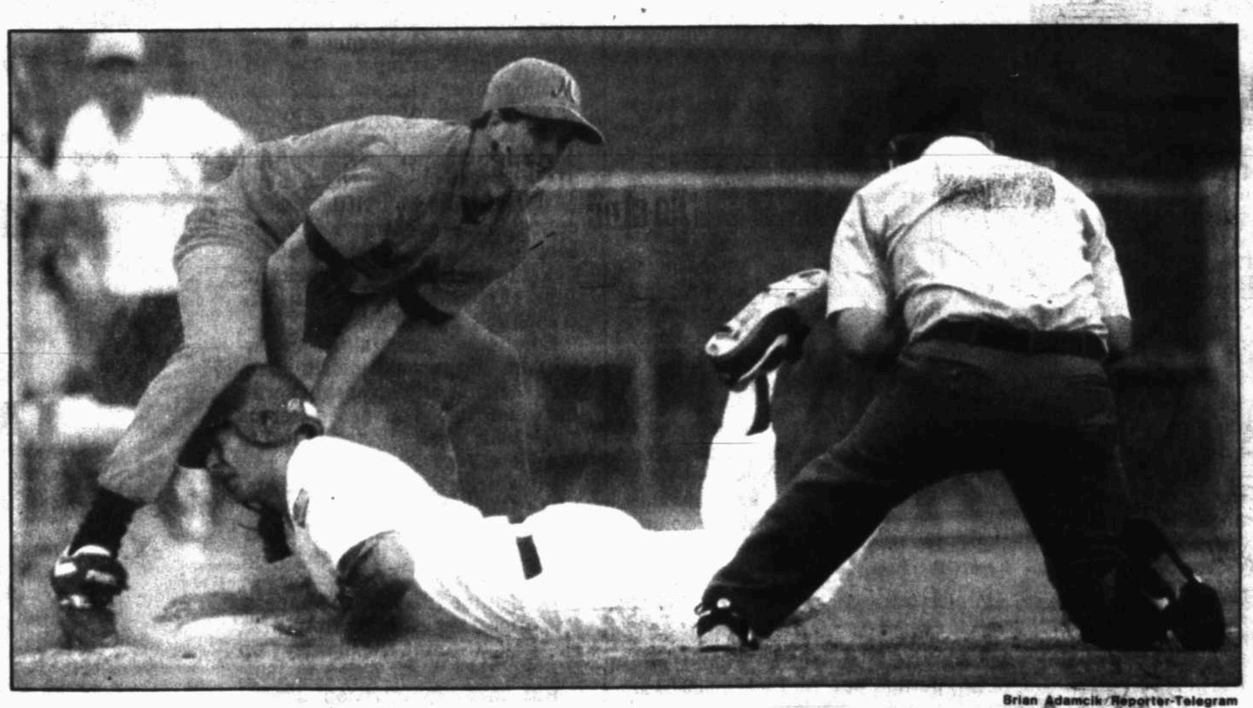

Midland High used a near disastrous missed squeeze bunt to ignite a three-run fifth-inning rally and James Madrid put the squeeze on the Lubbock Monterey batting order Friday as the Bulldogs fashioned a 3-1 bi-district victory over the ninth-ranked Plainsmen at Angels Stadium.

Madrid (7-2) allowed just three hits and did not walk a batter in going the distance, and MHS grabbed a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three series that is scheduled to be decided in a possible double-header at Lubbock's Lowrey Field starting at 1 p.m. today.

"It was important for us to win this first one to take a little pressure off us," said Midland head coach Rick Wood, whose Bulldogs take a 14-10 record into Game 2.

"I think now our emotion can carry

Jasper makes hand-held history

■ Midland Lee's two entrants at the State Track Meet in Austin — Jovan Tellez and Traci Logan — enter compete this evening at Memorial Stadium.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

AUSTIN — There has been some hope this year that Odessa High's sprint relay might have a shot at breaking the 40-second barrier. Class 4A Jasper showed them how to do it here during the opening day of the University Interscholastic League State Track Meet at Memorial Stadium.

Jasper clicked off a hand held 39.9 seconds to break the national record of 40.0. The only fly in the ointment is the fact that Jasper's automatic time was 40.09.

"We knew we could do it (break 40 seconds) even though 40.3 was our previous best," Jasper's Charles Adams said. "We've had this goal since early in the year and things just went perfect. It has to, to get a 39."

Class 4A was doing a lot of crowing after opening night with Jasper's national record, a tied national record in the 400 and a just-missed run at the national mark in the girls high jump.

Paris' Deon Minor posted a hand held 45.5 in the 400 to tie the national mark while sophomore Amy Acuff of Corpus Christi set a state mark of 6-2¼ in the high jump, just missing the record of 6-2¾.

"I just got really tired and my legs were gone when I was trying for the national record," Acuff said. "Just being a sophomore, I think I still have time to get the national record."

Levelland's Twylana Harrison had a field day, winning three individual events and earning a medal in another.

Harrison defended her crown in the 400 with a 54.4, but she also won the triple jump (41-9¾) and the long jump (19-0½). She was third in the 100.

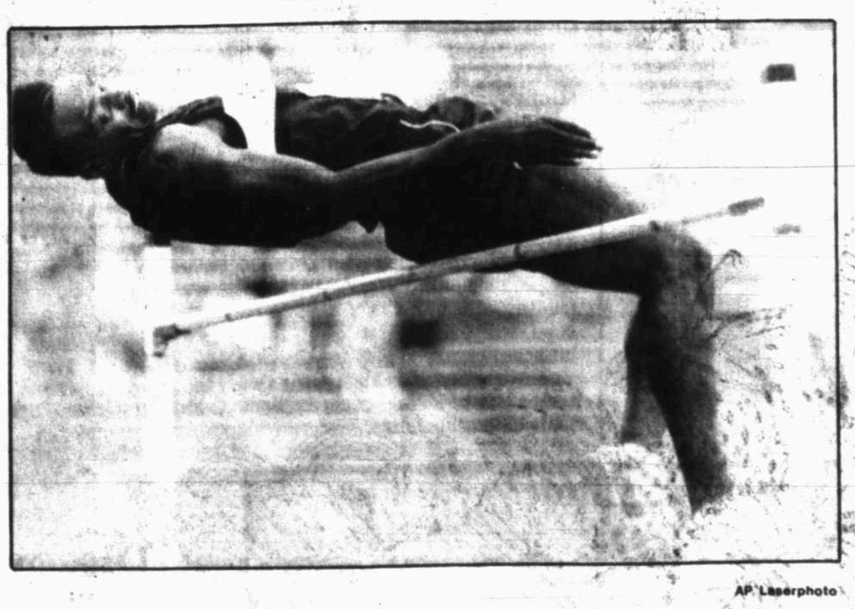

What kind of day was it for Harrison?

"It was an OK kind of day," Harrison said matter of factly. "I guess I could have done a little better."

Harrison's only loss in the 400 this year was to Midland Lee sophomore TaNisha Mills in Plainview.

"I did lose to the Lee girl, but I had pulled a muscle that day. Still, she (Mills)

Lady 'Stang golfers win third straight

Staff Report

AUSTIN — The Andrews girls golf team won its third consecutive state Class 4A golf title here at the Jimmy Clay golf course Friday, beating second place Bastrop by 53 strokes.

Lisa McQuarters led Andrews with a 74-79—153 to place third in the medalist race. Other Andrews efforts were Nikki Martin, 85-91—176; Robin Martin, 92-85—177; Andi Lehman, 83-85—168, and Valerie Brown, 85-96—181.

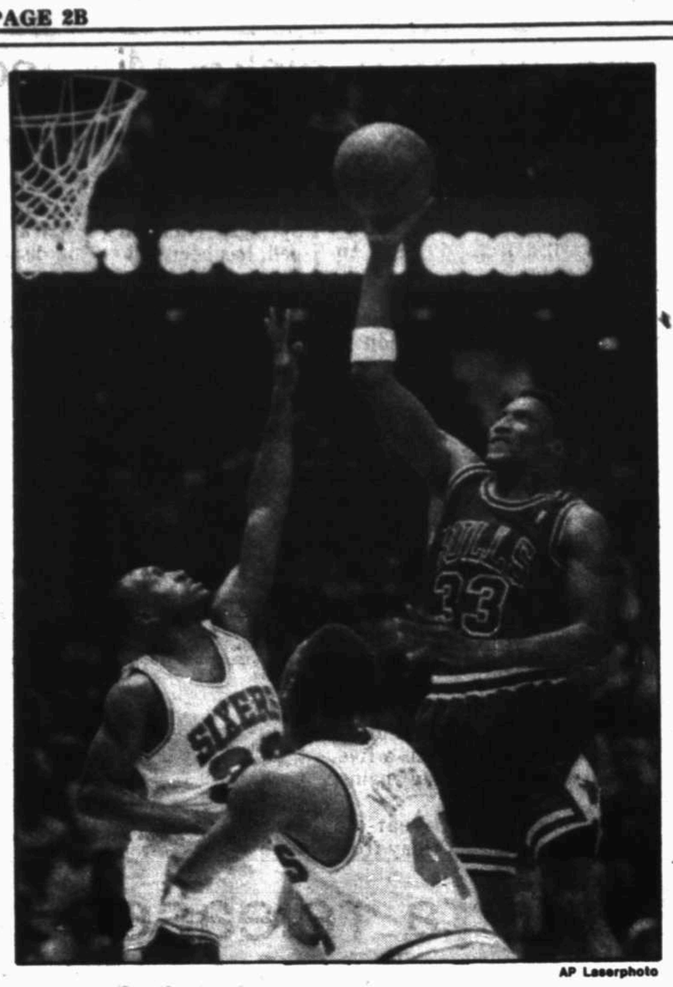

The Big Spring boys placed seventh in the 4A boys with a 655 as Eric Lusk led with an 82-79—153. Dallas Highland Park won the 4A title with a 608.

The 3A boys title went to Texarkana Pleasant Grove with a 637, 11 strokes better than second place Abilene Wylie. Yoakum was the 3A girls winner with a 685 while Graham was second with 709.

Associated Press

NBA

PHILADELPHIA — Charles Barkley said he read Michael Jordan's mind before Hersey Hawkins' game-winning 3-point shot.

Hawkins, taking advantage of Jordan leaving him alone, swished the 3-pointer with 10 seconds left Friday night, giving the Philadelphia 76ers a 99-97 playoff victory over the Chicago Bulls, who still lead the series 2-1.

"I told Hawk that I knew Michael Jordan like the back of my hand," Barkley said.

On the game-winning play, Barkley was supposed to drive for the basket. Hawkins, who was guarded by Jordan, was a safety valve.

"I told Hawk that Jordan would leave him and go for me and go for the steal," Barkley said. "I said 'Spot up for the three because Michael will go after me and you'll be open.'"

"The play was designed for Barkley," said Hawkins, who finished with 29 points. "I was supposed to go to the corner. Charles said I might be open."

The victory gives the 76ers a chance to pull even in the best-of-7 series Sunday in Philadelphia. The Bulls won the first two games in Chicago.

Chicago coach Phil Jackson said the Bulls didn't expect the Sixers to take a 3-point shot.

"The general rule of thumb is that you go for two at home and three on the road," Jackson said. "To base a season on a 3-point shot is interesting."

Jordan, who scored 46 points, said, "The 3-point shot was a good shot. I had to help out on Barkley, but he kicked it to the corner. I tried to get over there."

The score was tied 93-93 on a drive by Jordan with two minutes left, and the Bulls' magician then boosted Chicago to a 96-93 lead on a three-point play with 1:24 remaining.

Andre Turner's jumper closed Philadelphia within one before Jordan converted one of two free throws with 14 seconds left for a 97-95 lead.

Armon Gilliam had 25 points and 11 rebounds, while Barkley scored 19 points for the Sixers. Scottie Pippen had 22 points and 13 rebounds for Chicago.

The 76ers were 31 for 40 at the foul line and Chicago 12 for 19, which prompted a response from Jackson.

"I didn't like the crew and I didn't like the result," Jackson said.

After the game, Jordan complained that he was bothered with "chronic tendinitis."

"When I started playing tonight, it was really bothering me," he said. "I really couldn't push off my leg like I wanted to. I was basically in pain during my free throws. I couldn't bend my leg to shoot free throws or my perimeter shots. But I could post up and get my inside shots. I hope it goes away. I really can't do anything about it."

Jordan was 6-for-9 from the foul line but missed three of four down the stretch.

After Hawkins' go-ahead 3-pointer and a timeout, Pippen's off-balance shot in heavy traffic from the top of the key bounced off the backboard without hitting the rim.

Gilliam grabbed the rebound and was fouled with 1.8 seconds left. He made one of two free throws to complete the scoring.

In the final period, Hawkins scored the 76ers' first 11 points. He tied the game 81-81 and 83-83 before giving Philadelphia its first lead since the second period, 86-85, on a 3-point shot with 7:18 left.

Barkley then scored his first points of the quarter on a pair of free throws and Gilliam's jumper gave Philadelphia a 90-89 advantage with 3:30 to go.

After Philadelphia edged ahead 93-91, Jordan tied the game with a drive and gave the Bulls a 96-93 lead with a three-point play on which the 76ers' Manute Bol was ejected for protesting the personal foul.

The score was tied 26-26 after the first period, and the Bulls, with Jordan scoring 12 points in the second quarter, led 51-47 at halftime.

Chicago boosted its lead to 61-51 with 8:06 left in the third quarter, but Philadelphia rallied to trail 76-75 after three quarters.

MHS: Culpepper provides game-winning RBI

The Plainsmen (25-7) touched Madrid for their only run on Chris Shuffield's RBI single in the first. And Monterey hurler Allan Wolf (15-5) kept the Bulldogs' in check early on, giving up two harmless hits through the first four innings.

But MHS loaded the bases in the bottom of the fifth, and Wood called for a squeeze bunt with Jeremy Burton at third base and Adrian Mills at the plate.

With all the 'Dogs running, Mills failed to get a piece of the ball and Monterey catcher Joey Gonzales had Burton hung-up between home and third. Gonzales' throw clipped the retreating Bulldog on the back and the ball skipped down the left-field line.

Burton turned back to score the tying run, and a sacrifice fly by Dewayne Culpepper and Mike Melzer's RBI double that followed put MHS out front to stay.

"When the bunt wasn't laid down my first instinct was to go back toward third and try to get into a rundown so the runner on second could at least get to third," said Burton, who led off the big inning with the only walk Wolf allowed.

"Baseball is a game of breaks and luck," Wood said. "It looked unlucky for us at first, but it turned out to be a good play for us in the long run."

Then Madrid made the lead hold up. The senior righthander surrendered nothing more than a one-out single to Shuffield in the sixth. In the seventh he fanned the side in order and finished the game with four strikeouts.

"I was feeling good the last inning. I was pumped up," Madrid said. "But I'm used to giving it all I've got in the last inning.

"I knew Monterey was going to take advantage of every situation, so I thought all along that I had to keep the game close."

One of Madrid's very few mistakes came against the first batter he faced. Heath Andrews was behind 0-2 in the count when Madrids's third pitch hit him.

Andrews promptly stole second and reached third on a passed ball. Shuffield, who had two of the Plainsmen's three hits, blooped his RBI single into shallow left field and Monterey led 1-0 with no outs in the first inning.

But Madrid responded by getting the next three outs in order to strand Shuffield, and he faced the minimum number of batters in the second, third and fourth innings.

"I just can't say enough about James," Wood lauded his ace. "He's one of the most competitive young men I've ever seen. He likes pitching in big ball games, and the good thing about that is he comes through."

After Burton walked to start the bottom of the fifth, catcher Jeff Casbeer moved him to second base with a perfect sacrifice bunt. Shortstop Richie Greth was awarded first base on a catcher's interference call, and Jimmy Stanton's single to right loaded the bases for Mills.

After Burton scored the tying run on the Monterey throwing error, Culpepper popped a ball deep behind shortstop that allowed Greth to tag up and score from third.

NOTES: Midland High has never lost to Lubbock Monterey in three previous bi-district meetings. The Bulldogs dropped the first game of a three-game series at home to the Plainsmen a year ago, but rebounded by sweeping the subsequent double-header in Lubbock. Wood said he would not decide on today's starting pitchers until just before game time.

wrist, was 2-for-4 and reached on an error to score three of the Rebs' runs.

He also drove in the go ahead run in the fifth with a looper down the line to right field, his second of the game, for a double that sent Smily Hinojos across the plate.

"It's just good to play again. I didn't have the bat speed I usually do, so I just wanted to make good contact and not let the team down," Chase said. "We knew we had to score some more runs because the wind really played a big part."

First baseman Brad Sanders started the fifth by capping a 3-for-3 day at the plate with a lead-off single up the middle, and Hinojos reached on a fielder's choice when Jimmy Patton, a pinch runner for Sanders, was thrown out at second.

Then Buddy Jones moved Hinojos to second with a sacrifice bunt and David Sullivan drew a base on balls off reliever Gilbert Rodriguez to set up Chase.

Third baseman Keith Bell, whose solo homer in the fourth gave the Rebels a 6-4 edge, followed Chase by taking a 2-2 pitch to left field to score Chase and Sullivan before being thrown out trying to advance to second.

"Today I felt pretty good at the plate. I was pretty upset after my first at-bat (a hard liner to third that resulted in an out). But the home run felt real good," Bell said of his first four-bagger of the season.

"We didn't really feel any pressure (despite Johnston's unusual lack of control), because when Jeff pitches we're just so confident. It does seem like we unpacked our bats today."

"I knew we were going to hit the ball today," said Lee head coach Jesse Benavidez. "I figured with the wind that it would be more to our advantage, but it turned out to be more of an advantage for them."

Did it ever.

The Rebels jumped out early as Chase scored the first run of the game on a passed ball by Mustang catcher Billy Fairchild, and Sanders hit a two-run single for a 3-0 lead after one inning. Lee padded the margin in the second with a sacrifice fly by Bell and an RBI base hit by Shane Greeley to go up 5-0.

But in the third inning the Mustangs began playing some serious long ball. Center fielder Billy Lightner and third baseman Wagner Wicks both hit two-run homers to get Coronado right back in the game with the score 5-4.

Then Wicks hit another two-RBI home run that tied the game in the fifth, and Lightner hit a bases-empty shot in the sixth for the final run of the game. All five homers in the game went the way of the wind — to left.

Despite Coronado's four dingers, Johnston (13-1) lasted the full seven innings to pick up the win while Rodriguez took the loss to go 2-3.

"I think the layoff did affect Jeff. He just wasn't hitting the corners like he usually does. He was trying to put the ball right down the middle of the plate and you see what happened," Benavidez said.

"I didn't know we would be able to hit Jeff that well, but unfortunately Lee also has a great offensive ball club that scores a lot of runs," said Coronado coach John Dudley. "Those guys (Lightner and Wicks) have shown the capability to hit homers before, but it was very timely today. I just wish we had gotten one in the fourth inning (when the Mustangs stranded two runners)."

North Stars continue playoff run

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — The Minnesota North Stars' incredible playoff journey is now three-fourths complete. The Edmonton Oilers' glorious ride as one of sport's great dynasties is apparently over.

Bobby Smith snapped a tie with 15:01 to play as the North Stars beat the defending NHL champions 3-2 Friday night, giving Minnesota a five-game triumph and a ticket to the Stanley Cup finals for just the second time in the franchise's 24-year history.

Edmonton's first failure in seven trips to the semifinals guarantees the first championship series between two U.S.-based teams since 1981, when Minnesota lost to the New York Islanders.

Pittsburgh leads Boston 3-2 and hosts Game 6 Saturday night in the other semifinal series. The finals begin either Wednesday or next Friday.

In the nine finals since Minnesota's appearance, Edmonton went six times, winning the Stanley Cup in 1984, 1985, 1987, 1988 and 1990.

But through attrition, trades and defections, the Oilers have lost superstars like Wayne Gretzky, Jari Kurri, Paul Coffey and Andy Moog; the nucleus that remains from their glory years has dwindled and aged.

Edmonton finished at .500 during the regular season and its playoff victories over Calgary and Los Angeles were considered surprises.

If Edmonton's postseason success was somewhat surprising, Minnesota's has been downright stunning. The NHL's 16th-best regular-season team has polished off the top two clubs, Chicago and St. Louis, as well as the defending champions — and needed only 17 games to do so.

The North Stars, who finished 38 points behind Norris Division-leading Chicago with a 27-39-14 record, will be the first losing regular-season team to play for the title since Vancouver in 1982. Only two teams with losing records have won championships.

San Antonio sinks Midland

Staff Report

SAN ANTONIO — Four Midland pitchers combined to allow 16 hits Friday night as the Angels dropped a 12-6 decision to San Antonio Missions.

The loss dropped Midland to 8-21 for the season, and it evened the current series with the Missions at two games each.

Tim Salmon cracked his eighth home run for the Haloes and Mark Howie and Ken Rivers had two hits each, but it was not enough to keep Clemente Acosta from losing his second game in as many decisions.

■ TL Stats/8B

Isidro Marquez pitched 1⅔ innings to pick up his first win of the year as the moved to 11-17 on the season.

The Angels and Missions will complete the series today. Midland has Sunday off, then opens a five-game set at home Monday against Jackson.

Allen Sontag, a 27-year-old righthander acquired Friday from the Palm Spring Angels, is slated to pitch in tonight's game.

In other Angel moves: Pitcher Steve King has been sent to Palm Springs, relief pitcher Mark Zappelli has been put on the disabled list, and Don Vidmar — owner of a no-hitter this season against the Bakersfield Dodgers — has been moved up from Palm Springs.

Dykstra released from Philly hospital

Associated Press

BRYN MAWR, Pa. (AP) — Lenny Dykstra of the Philadelphia Phillies left the hospital Friday, four days after a car accident that also injured teammate Darren Daulton and left Dykstra facing a drunken-driving charge.

Dykstra declined to talk about the accident but said he would make a statement about it when he feels better.

"I don't feel up to making a comment on the matter. I will make one in the very near future," said Dykstra, who walked out of Bryn Mawr Hospital shortly after 1 p.m. EDT with his wife, Terri, by his side.

"I'm very tired."

About 30 people outside applauded briefly when he came out the door, also accompanied by his mother, Marilyn Dykstra, and his brother Kevin.

"I want to thank all the great fans of Philadelphia for their support," said Dykstra, who paused briefly near photographers and TV cameramen, then got into a car and was driven away.

Neither Dykstra nor Daulton has publicly discussed the one-car accident, which happened early Monday in suburban Philadelphia after an impromptu bachelor party for teammate John Kruk. Dykstra has been charged by Radnor Township police with driving under the influence of alcohol.

"It was an unfortunate incident, and we've got to make this into a positive incident," Phillies spokesman Larry Shenk said at the hospital after Dykstra left. "Kids look up to ballplayers, and we've got to show them, 'Look what happens when you drink and drive.'"

Dr. David Rose, a Bryn Mawr surgeon who treated Dykstra, said the player was "a good patient and he will be as good as new when he heals."

"He's doing quite well from a medical point of view. His fractures will heal over a couple of months," Rose said.

He said Dykstra is using a sedative to relieve pain. He said he will be "quite sore" in the coming week.

"He hasn't done a lot of walking in the hospital and will find out quickly that he's weaker than he thinks," Rose said.

Asked when he thought Dysktra would be able to return to the Phillies lineup, Rose said that decision would be made by the ballplayer and the team's physician, Dr. Phillip Marone.

While he was in the hospital, media and fans tried in vain to reach Dykstra.

One writer from Connecticut faxed an interview request to him at the hospital, reminding Dykstra that as a member of the New York Mets he would grab the reporter and say, "Hey, dude, I need some pub." The reporter's message to Dykstra: "I need just 10 minutes."

UT frosh Kieschnick receives top awards

DALLAS (AP) — In a rare "double" honor, Texas freshman pitcher-designated hitter Brooks Kieschnick of Corpus Christi has been named as both the Outstanding Player and the Outstanding Newcomer on the Associated Press All-Southwest Conference baseball team announced Friday.

Kieschnick wrapped up the dual laurels and was also selected as the team's designated hitter with his .345 batting average, 17 doubles, three triples and Texas freshman-record 11 home runs going into next week's SWC post-season tournament in College Station.

TCU coach Lance Brown was chosen by his peers as AP SWC Baseball Coach of the Year for the first time.

The three-man "starting rotation" is made up of righthanders Kieschnick and junior college transfer Jeff Brandenburg of Texas Tech along with Texas A&M freshman standout Jeff Granger, a lefthander with a conference-leading 105 strikeouts in 83 innings pitched.

Arkansas pitcher Phillip Stidham, who was named the league's outstanding player a year ago, heads a two-man relief staff that also includes Houston senior righthander Al Benavides.

Mark Johnson of Arkansas, whose .432 batting average in conference games led the league, is among the outfielders selected for the all-conference team. He is joined by Rice's John Eierman, TCU's Scott Malone, Texas A&M's Mike Hickey, and Houston's Rusty Smajstrla. Malone leads the SWC in all-games' batting average with .392.

Smiley gets fifth win

Associated Press

NL

PITTSBURGH — Rookie Orlando Merced continued his hot hitting with a tie-breaking home run and John Smiley became the National League's second five-game winner, leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves on Friday night.

The Braves entered the matchup of division leaders with an .006 lead over San Diego in the NL West, the first time since May 26, 1984 that they have led the division in May.

Smiley (5-1), who won his first four starts, allowed five hits, a run, struck out five and walked two over seven innings in joining Ramon Martinez of Los Angeles as a five-game winner. Stan Belinda worked the final two innings, giving up a pinch-hit homer to Sid Bream, his fourth, in the ninth before finishing for his fourth save.

Last year, Smiley (9-10) didn't win his fifth game until Aug. 2.

Barry Bonds, batting .165, singled, stole second, advanced on a force-play grounder and scored on John Smoltz's wild pitch as Pittsburgh gained a 1-1 tie in the fourth. Terry Pendleton doubled and scored in the top of the inning.

Merced, who was 2-for-5, made it 2-1 an inning later with his third homer in five games, a drive into the center-field seats. Merced is 9-for-18 with three homers, five RBIs and six runs scored during a five-game hitting streak.

The Pirates, winning their fourth in a row, made it 3-1 in the sixth on Bobby Bonilla's leadoff double, Smoltz's third wild pitch of the game and Jose Lind's run-scoring grounder.

Lloyd McClendon's two-run homer, the fifth pinch-hit homer of his career, gave the Pirates a 5-1 lead in the eighth.

Smoltz (1-4) was constantly behind the hitters, walking four in addition to his three wild pitches. He gave up six hits, three runs and struck out four over seven innings.

Pittsburgh has won 14 of its last 18 games and leads the majors with a 19-9 record.

Cardinals 7, Astros 5

HOUSTON — Pedro Guerrero's two-run 10th-inning single lifted the St. Louis Cardinals to a victory over the Houston Astros.

Juan Agosto (2-0) was the winner with one scoreless inning of relief. Lee Smith pitched the 10th to record his 10th save.

Curt Schilling (0-2) was the loser, going 1 1-3 innings and giving up two runs on five hits.

With the score tied at 5, Ray Lankford singled with one out in the 10th. Singles by Ozzie Smith and Bernard Gilkey loaded the bases for Guerrero, who lined a single to center.

With the score tied 2-2, St. Louis scored three seventh-inning runs. Lankford reached on an error by first baseman Jeff Bagwell, then stole second and scored on a single by Smith.

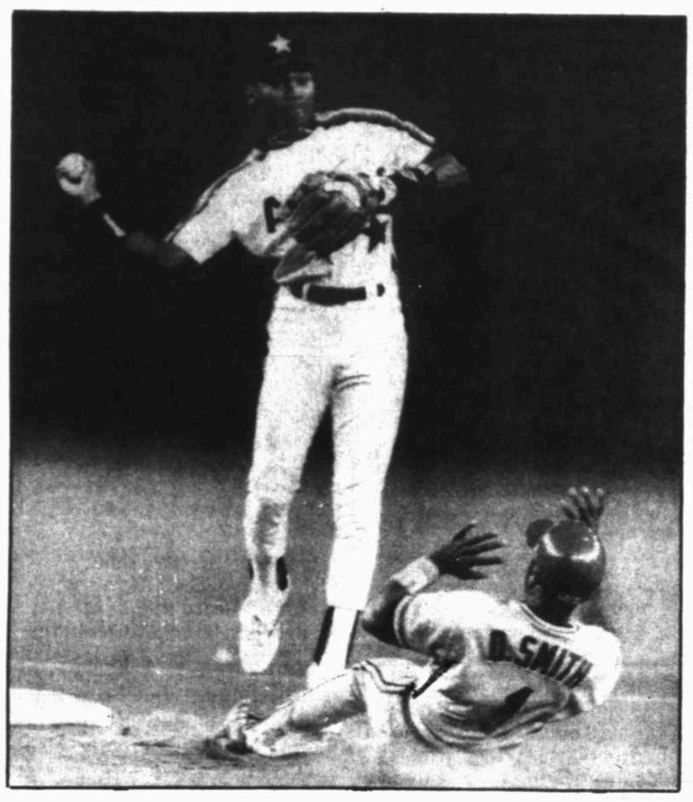

Smith moved to second when third baseman Ken Caminiti misplayed Gilkey's ground ball for Houston's second error of the inning. Guerrero singled in Smith and Felix Jose doubled in Gilkey.

Houston tied the score 5-5 in the seventh on an RBI single by Craig Biggio and a two-run single by Luis Gonzalez.

St. Louis took a 2-0 lead in the first on a bases-loaded single by Jose following a single and stolen base by Lankford and walks to Smith and Guerrero.

Houston cut the deficit to 2-1 in the bottom of the inning on an RBI double by Biggio.

Cubs 6, Reds 5

CHICAGO — Pitcher Rick Sutcliffe doubled in two runs, Ryne Sandberg had a two-run homer and the Chicago Cubs withstood Hal Morris' five RBIs in a victory the Cincinnati Reds.

Morris had a three-run homer in the first inning, a sacrifice fly in the sixth and a run-scoring single in the eighth.

Shawon Dunston had a solo homer off Tom Browning (4-2) in the sixth to put the Cubs ahead 6-4.

Sutcliffe (2-3) snapped a three-game losing streak, while running his career record over Cincinnati to 13-4. He gave up four hits in six innings for his 100th victory in the National League.

Dave Smith allowed a single in the ninth, but got the final three outs for his fourth straight save and eighth overall.

In the fourth, Andre Dawson led off with a single and stole second. Two outs later, Gary Scott was walked intentionally to pitch to Sutcliffe, who doubled down the right-field line. It was his first hit since Aug. 17, 1989, also against the Reds.

Yanks break spell against A's

AL

NEW YORK — The New York Yankees snapped a 16-game losing streak against Oakland when Don Mattingly and Kevin Maas homered on consecutive pitches in the seventh inning Friday night to beat the Athletics 5-3.

Not since Dale Mohorcic decisioned Dave Stewart on Sept. 8, 1989, had the Yankees defeated Oakland. The Athletics won 12 times last year, becoming the only team to sweep a season series from New York, and took the first two meetings this season in Oakland.

The major league record for consecutive victories by one club over another is 23, set by Baltimore in 1969-70 against Kansas City.

After Rickey Henderson's speed set up a run that put Oakland ahead 3-2 in the seventh, the Yankees rallied against Bob Welch and Joe Klink.

Mattingly had a run-scoring single earlier in the game. He began the day with only six RBIs this season.

Red Sox 5, Rangers 3

BOSTON — The Red Sox continued their hot play behind the pitching of Matt Young and clutch hitting of Jody Reed and Mike Greenwell in a victory over the Texas Rangers.

Wade Boggs broke a scoreless tie with a run-scoring double and Reed followed with a two-run single in the fourth as the Red Sox posted their third straight win, sixth in seven games and ninth in 11.

Left-hander Young, 2-1, allowed two runs and eight hits, striking out eight without issuing a walk, before needing relief help in the seventh. Jeff Gray replaced Young after Mike Stanley and Steve Buechele began the inning with singles.

Jeff Huson sacrificed. Brian Downing then grounded to third and pinch runner Gary Pettis was tagged out in a rundown between third and home. Gray ended the threat by retiring Jack Daugherty on a slow grounder to first.

After Greenwell drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the eighth, Jeff Reardon pitched the ninth for his ninth save. He allowed an RBI single by Downing.

Texas starter Bobby Witt, 1-3, allowed seven hits, including a pair of doubles by Tony Pena, and walked seven in five innings.

Royals 2, Brewers 1

MILWAUKEE — Bret Saberhagen pitched a seven-hitter for his 100th career victory as the Kansas City Royals beat Milwaukee to send the Brewers to their fifth straight loss.

Saberhagen (3-3) walked none and struck out seven as the Royals snapped a three-game losing streak. He has a career record of 100-73 in eight seasons.

The loss was Milwaukee's third straight by a 2-1 score and the Brewers have scored only two runs in their last 29 innings.

Milwaukee starter Chris Bosio became the latest Brewers pitcher to be injured when he hurt his back trying to field Nelson Liriano's bunt in the fourth, when Kansas City scored both runs. Milwaukee already has four pitchers on the disabled list.

After Bosio fumbled the bunt for an error, Kirk Gibson doubled. Liriano scored on Danny Tartabull's sacrifice fly. Terry Puhl's first American League hit, a single, made it 2-0.

Bosio did not return to start the fifth and was replaced by Don August.

Angels 12, Indians 2

CLEVELAND — Wally Joyner hit his third career grand slam and Mark Langston pitched seven strong innings as the California Angels beat the Cleveland Indians.

The loss was the Indians' third straight since they outscored Oakland 35-12 in a pair of weekend games.

Joyner's grand slam with two outs in the seventh inning finished Eric King (3-3) two pitches after pitching coach Mark Wiley visited King to discuss the bases-loaded situation. Joyner also had an RBI single in the ninth.

The Angels scored a run in the second when Gaetti doubled and came home on a checked-swing single by Lance Parrish. They made it 2-0 in the sixth on Dave Winfield's sacrifice fly to the warning track in right.

Twins 5, Tigers 2

Mark Guthrie (2-2), won his second straight start in May after an April in which he went 0-2 with a 16.88 earned run average. He went six innings, allowing seven hits, including Travis Fryman's two-run homer in the sixth.

Rick Aguilera got his fifth save.

Detroit starter Walt Terrell (1-4) was ineffective from the start and allowed five runs on nine hits in 4 1-3 innings.

Pagliarulo, 31, signed as a free agent during the offseason and assigned the unenviable job of replacing Gary Gaetti at third base, had just one extra-base hit before doubling twice Friday. He started the season slowly but is 7-for-14 in his last five games, raising his average from .179 to .243.

Terrell allowed Minnesota's leadoff hitter to reach base in each of the first four innings. Dan Gladden opened the game with a triple and scored on Kirby Puckett's one-out single.

The Twins expanded the lead to 3-0 in the third on Brian Harper's run-scoring double and Pagliarulo's RBI single.

White Sox 5, Blue Jays 3

TORONTO — Sammy Sosa hit a two-run homer in the 12th inning to lift the Chicago White Sox to a victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

The Blue Jays had rallied to tie the game twice in the ninth and 11th innings — both on home runs by Roberto Alomar — before the White Sox pulled it out.

Carlton Fisk reached on his fourth single of the game before Sosa drove in pinch-runner Ron Karkovice with his fifth homer of the season, a shot to deep left.

Scott Radinsky (2-1) got the win, allowing one run on one hit over two innings. Willie Fraser (0-1) gave up three runs on four hits over 2 2-3 innings. He struck out one and walked two.

A.J. Foyt writes of qualifying at Indy

By A.J. Foyt
For The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — This is the weekend I try to qualify for my 34th straight Indianapolis 500.

To be truthful, I can't believe I've been here that long. I can still remember how proud I was to qualify for the race the first time. I ran 143 miles an hour. On the timing equipment they have here now, it doesn't even tell you lap speeds if it's under 150 — it just reads "Under 150 mph."

Back when I started, 150 was the magic number to reach. Now 200 won't even make the race. Hard to believe I'll have to run 225 just to start up front.

Pole Day. It's always a tough day on a driver. It's very important to try to get qualified the first day because if you don't, you have to start behind all those that do. If 30 cars qualify the first day, and you run 300 miles an hour the second day, you'll start 31st.

So, a lot of times you'll settle for less speed than you normally run just so you get in the field. It's not worth the gamble.

This year's going to be a tough one for me, and not because it'll be my last as a driver. Actually, I'm not even looking at it as my last time. I can't. And I don't look at Indy as the biggest, most important race of the year. I look at it as just another race. Or at least I try to.

This year'll be tough because it'll be my first race behind the wheel since my accident last September.

I've been easing into it this week. I've never been the type to get too pumped up early in the week because the track changes constantly. By Thursday, I started getting serious.

My Copenhagen Racing Lola has been driving pretty good so far, but we did have a problem with buffeting earlier this week. It's a problem for everyone here at Indianapolis because your head sticks up in the wind. It'd be like sticking your head out an airplane at 230 miles an hour. It shakes your head where you can't even see and tries to suck your helmet off. But we made some changes on the windshield and fixed that.

Some people tell me I seem more relaxed this year. I don't know about that. I know I can't be-bop around like I usually do because I've still got quite a bit of pain in my feet.

The last time I was in a situation like this was in 1965. I had a bad accident in a stock car at Riverside, Calif., in January. I broke my back, my leg and had chest injuries. They said I'd never make it to Indy.

I wondered myself that first week in practice at Indy when the suspension on my Lotus broke and sent me spinning. I remember what the doctors had warned me about: Any licks I took could paralyze me. Luckily, I just brushed the wall. We fixed the car and I set a new record when I won the pole.

How'd I do it? I don't know. Determination, I guess. A lot of things have changed about A.J. in the last 26 years, but that's not one of them. Because, you see, Indy really isn't just another race.

Andretti backs off top speed at Indy

Staff Report

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — John Andretti, driving the Midland-based Hall/VDS entry in the Indianapolis 500, backed off his rapid pace in Thursday's practice laps by posting a time of 219.56 mph.

With only one practice day left before time trials begin today, Andretti has a recorded top speed of 221.495, which he ran Wednesday.

Car co-owner Franz Weis arrived here Thursday to add his expertise to that of crew chief Larry Curry and team co-owners Jim Hall and Jim Hall II in searching for a horsepower-robbing glitch. Fourth team owner, Count Rudy van der Straten, is in Palm Springs, Calif.

"There is nothing wrong with 221 miles an hour, if John can run run that quick quick all day long on race day," Weis said.

"Most of these top speeds are happening in 'happy hour' (between 5 and 6 p.m., when track conditions are fastest), and that has nothing to do with qualifying, which will probably all be over between 1 and 3 Saturday afternoon."

A fast lap by Emerson Fittipaldi and two crashes, one of them sending rookie Mark Dismore to the hospital, punctuated Friday's action on the final full day of practice before qualifications open for the May 26 Indianapolis 500.

■ More Sports/8B

2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway oval, the fastest unofficial lap since the track opened for practice on May 4.

It wasn't as good a day for his Penske Racing teammate Rick Mears, who crashed his primary car after a broken wheel nut led to a puncture of his right rear tire, sending the Penske 91 Chevrolet hard into the first turn wall.

The three-time Indy winner walked away from the incident with a limp. X-rays of his right foot proved negative and Mears got back to the track quick enough to run a lap of 226.557 in his backup car. That was just a tick slower than his fastest of the month — 226.569 in the primary car.

Dismore, a 34-year-old driver from Greenfield, Ind., did not walk away from his devastating fourth-turn crash, although his injuries did not appear to be life-threatening. He was taken from shattered 1988 Penske-Buick by track medical workers and airlifted to Methodist Hospital.

Adjustments help Trevino

PGA Seniors

FRISCO, Tex. — Lee Trevino cashed in a retooled swing for a 4-under-par 67 and a 1-stroke lead Friday in the opening round of the $400,000 Reunion Pro-Am seniors golf tournament at Stonebriar Country Club.

Jim Ferree, 59, sank a 3-iron from 225 yards for the senior tour's first double eagle of the year and a 68, one shot ahead of defending champion Frank Beard, Tommy Aaron, Gibby Gilbert and Jim O'Hern.

Trevino credited his score to two minor adjustments. Increased hip movement "put the distance back in my drives and gave me my confidence back," Trevino said. A shorter putting stroke enabled him to sink birdie putts of 60, 30, 15, 10 and 10 feet.

Even a double-bogey 6 on 18 "didn't put damper on it," Trevino said. "I'm really pleased with the round. I haven't shot a lot of low scores this year."

Ferree said he rode a strong tailwind for his 2 on the 546-yard, par-5 12th. He said it's the fifth or sixth double eagle of his career but first in 11 or 12 years.

"Even being weak and old, (the shot) looked doggone good to me," Ferree said. "When it came down, I couldn't see it, but people started doing flips and throwing their arms up like a touchdown, and that's usually a good sign.

"What it is, is luck. You hit a good shot, and it goes in the hole. It's much more difficult to make a double eagle than a hole-in-one."

Beard sank a 30-foot putt for a birdie and pitched a sand wedge to within six feet for four other birdies and his fourth straight sub-par round in the Reunion.

"I've got to believe there's something here," Beard said of his play at Stonebriar. "If I could get in the top five going into Sunday, I'd have as good a chance as anyone. Of course, nothing Lee does surprises me. He could run away with it. I don't think anybody else could."

Gilbert made four birdies on his first nine to end a string of high first-day scores.

"That's the best first round I've had this year," the Chattanooga, Tenn., senior tour rookie said. "I was a little more determined today not to have a bad round."

O'Hern, from Louisville, Ky., who is 76th on the tour money list with $6,025, shot his best round of the year with four birdies and one bogey. Aaron offset a triple bogey and a double bogey with eight birdies for his 69.

Arnold Palmer shot 1-over-par 73.

Springer bolts into PGA lead

Associated Press

MARIETTA, Ga. — Mike Springer, plying his trade last year on the Ben Hogan Tour, opened with five birdies in a row on his way to a 9-under-par 63 for the second-round lead Friday in the Atlanta Classic.

Springer had a 36-hole score of 131, 13 shots under par on the 7,018-yard Atlanta Country Club course. It gave him a one-shot lead over Tom Kite, who had a 68-132.

After twice failing to get his PGA Tour card in the qualifying school, Springer, 25, made it by finishing fourth on the Hogan Tour money list last year.

He's not surprised to be leading after two days of golf on the rain-soaked Atlanta layout.

"Not with the way I've hit it in the last two days," Springer said. "I've hit it extremely well. My playing partners can vouch for that."

Springer's best finish in his rookie season was a tie for seventh at Hattiesburg, Miss., the week of the Masters. His biggest payday came when he tied for 20th in the Los Angeles Open. He won three Hogan events last year.

"It's kind of nice to birdie half the holes," Springer said.

He could have birdied more.

The former University of Arizona star missed three putts of 10 feet or less. He had only one putt of more than 20 feet all day, a 35-footer with a big break that he got within 5 feet to save par on the 7th hole.

"This year has been a little bit of a struggle, but the last month, my game has been coming around," he said.

Springer opened his round with a 6-foot birdie putt on the 10th green. He scored from 10, 16, 12 and 15 feet on the next four holes before the string of birdies ended when he need two putts from 20 feet on the 15th green.

Kite had six birdies, half on putts in the 12-18-foot range, but also had a pair of bogeys, one when he three-putted from 30 feet on No. 17.

"I didn't play quite as well as yesterday, but 64s don't come around very often," Kite said. "All in all, a real good day. I'm very pleased with 68."

First-round leader Fred Funk ran into trouble early, taking a double bogey-6 on the 1st hole and a bogey-4 on the 3rd to fall back in the pack. He skied to a 77 on the heels of his opening-round 62.

Andrew Magee used an eagle-3 on the 18th hole for a 66 and was tied at 135 with Corey Pavin, who shot 67, and Mike Standly, who had a 70.

The event is sponsored by BellSouth.

Aces on 16 decide LPGA lead

Associated Press

CHESAPEAKE, Va. — Welcome to the Crestar-Farm Fresh Classic, where you better ace the 16th hole if you want to get to the top of the leader board.

Jayne Thobois did it Thursday en route to a 4-under-par 68 that gave her a share of the first-round lead.

On Friday, it was Tammie Green's turn. Once again, the club of choice on the 146-yard hole was a 7-iron.

"I kind of attribute that to my caddy," Green said. "I was going to hit a knock-down 6-iron, but he talked me into hitting a strong 7-iron instead. Good thing, too."

Green's ace-assisted 66 left her at 7-under 137 midway through the $400,000 event at Greenbrier Country Club.

One stroke back was Elaine Crosby, who shot her second consecutive 69 on the 6,412-yard layout.

Dottie Mochrie, who won this event by nine shots last year, the largest margin of victory on the LPGA Tour in 1990, moved into contention Friday but was nonetheless annoyed at herself. She was at 139 after a bogey-free 68 that she said should have been a 63.

"I feel like I shot par today," Mochrie said.

TRACK: Stanton's Stallings favored in the 800

(From 1B)

Linster, however, posted a 21.9 in the 200 to finish fourth.

"I didn't have a good race in the 100. I came out late, but I was determined to do better in the 200," Linster said.

Midland Lee's Traci Logan and Jovan "Chico" Tellez both compete in the 5A events tonight.

Competition in Class 3A and Class A compete at noon today while 5A and 2A run at 5:45 p.m.

Stanton's Jeremy Stallings is the favorite to win the 800. OHS' sprint relay is also hopeful of a state crown in the sprint relay. Here's hoping the Bronchos were taking notes when Jasper came out of the blocks here Friday.

In other events, Dallas South Oak Cliff's Sheddric Fields set a state record in the Class 4A long jump but Dallas Adamson's Jimmy Oliver kept him from becoming a double winner with a state record leap in the triple jump.

■ Tennis, Golf Results/3B

Fields started the day with a state record leap of 25-0¼ in the long jump to break the third oldest Class 4A record on the UIL books. He broke the record of 24-8¾ set by Harold Perry of Bonham in 1975.

Fields was the leading qualifier to the state meet in the triple jump with a leap of 50-3¼, but he finished fourth after Oliver, from Dallas Adamson, leaped 49-1 to break his own record of 48-5½ set at the 1990 meet.

Fields went from first to fourth in the competition in the space of three leaps, culminating with Oliver's state record on the final leap of the competition.

William Porter of Austin Reagan broke the existing state record with a leap of 48-0½ and two minutes later Oliver set the record. Fields scratched on his final jump.

La Marque's Vincent Hypolite, who set the Class 5A long jump state record last year before the school dropped to 4A, was second to Fields at 23-10 and William Port of Austin Reagan was third at 22-10.

The oldest record in Class 4A is the discus toss of 190-11 by Clifford Larson of Beaumont Forest Park in 1965. Falfurrias' Robert Gonzales set the 4A 1,600-meter run record of 4:05.8 in 1967.

The Associated Press contributed to the story.

Shattered seawall leaves lives in ruin

CHITTAGONG, Bangladesh (AP) — A half-mile inland from what used to be this city's embankment, Piyer Hamed smoothed a carpet of muddy grains of rice on a dry patch of ground next to where his house used to stand.

His family had retrieved the rice, handful by handful, even grain by grain, from pools of sea water swept inland by last week's cyclone.

The embankment that was supposed to protect the 3 million people of this bustling river port from tidal waves is now a heap of mud, level with the sea in dozens of places. The 18-foot-high wall was simply too short: the tidal wave from the furious cyclone was 20 feet high.

Hamed said the salty water and mud had probably ruined the rice, but it was all that was available to replace the food the family lost in the storm.

"We don't know if we can eat it or not, but we're trying. We'll dry it, then we'll wash the mud in clear water and see if it's edible," the 32-year-old Hamed said.

Clasping his 2-year-old son, Mohammad Elias, to his chest, Hamed said his immediate family had been lucky — they were alive.

"We floated on the roof of our house for maybe a half-mile and then it got stuck in the top of a coconut tree, and we stayed there all night until the water went down," he said. The roof, made of bamboo thatch, was an excellent raft, he added. "If we'd had a tin roof, we'd be dead."

Riding a wave of water about 10 feet high, Hamed and his wife clung to Mohammad and their 4-year-old daughter, Shahanaz. But somewhere along the way they lost a 5-month-old nephew, so young he hadn't even been named, as sometimes happens with poor families who wait for an auspicious time to formally bestow a name.

Most of the 125,000 people who died in the April 30 cyclone and tidal wave lived on or near a 150-mile stretch of seacoast west and south of Chittagong, which sits in a corner at the top of the Bay of Bengal.

On happier Fridays, the Islamic day of rest, the shore teemed with thousands of people in what seemed a carnival atmosphere.

The embankment was an improbable picnic spot. There was no sandy beach, just a reinforcement of slag from a nearby steel mill, but it was the best Chittagong had to offer for a seashore outing. The salty breezes provided a refreshing break from the steamy heat that envelopes Chittagong most of the year.

The middle-class families who perched in their Friday finery on the slag —porous gray rock-like lumps the size of basketballs — bought soft drinks, snacks and trinkets peddled by small boys and young men from the thatched-hut villages.

The vendors' meager profits usually assured their families of two meals of rice and vegetables a day, maybe even a little fish.

This Friday, 18-year-old Ataur Rahman was selling Coca-Cola and cigarettes from a table at the same spot he has held for six years. But he said his sales seemed unlikely to top $8, compared to the usual Friday sales of $42.

Only a few dollars will remain for profit after he subtracts the cost of his merchandise, the bus ticket he needed to buy it and the three-wheel motor scooter taxi he had to hire to haul it to the shore.

But Rahman said he was lucky. All 14 members of his family survived the tidal wave, even though their village of Fulchipara is barely 500 yards beyond the breached embankment.

"We're all okay," he said. "I don't know how. The water came. It took everything. So many of my neighbors died."

Indeed, the amazing thing about the cyclone, which raged ashore at 140 mph, seems to be not that so many people died and so many buildings fell, but that so many survived.

Among the dozens of people who trooped down to the muddy, storm-roiled coastal waters on Friday was Anwara Choudhury, a 21-year-old student nurse, and seven of her nursing school friends.

"It seems like the demise of civilization," she said as she picked her way through the mud in her best sandals, then turned to stare at the flooded fields and squashed huts of the villages behind her.

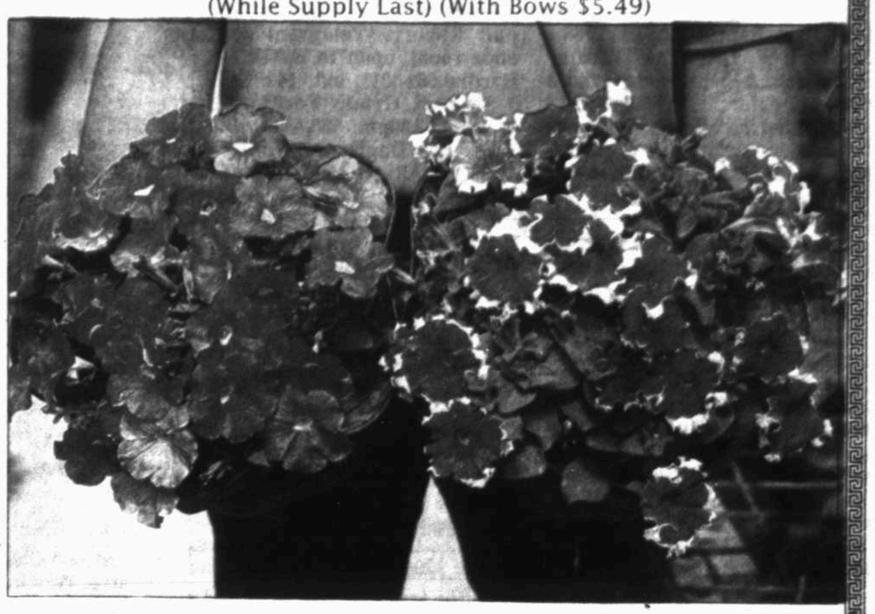

"We heard about the horror, so we came to see it," Miss Choudhury said.

Rhythms ...

Back and forth . . . the relaxing rhythm of the rocking chair . . . entrancing, tranquilizing . . . like the rhythms of nature; the ebb and flow of the tides . . . day after day . . . year after year . . . century after century; sunrise . . . sunset; the beating of a heart; our breathing out and our breathing in . . . as dependable and effortless as the dance of the seasons . . . one following the other; all choreographed by God, our Source.

We read of war and crime, yet nothing is, or has ever been as certain or as powerful as the influence of God as He moves in our midst, as we see Him all around us and feel Him each moment in the rhythmic constancy of our lives. "In Him we live and move and have our being." (Acts 17:28)

In Lowell's "The Changeling," a tiny violet speaks:

"For the whole year long I see
All the wonders of faithful nature
Still worked for the love of me.
Winds wander and dews drip earthward,
Rains fall, suns rise and set,
Earth whirls, and all but to prosper
A poor little violet."

Experience the infallible love of God as you worship Him each Sabbath. God cares for the violet. He will care for you.

Judge, priest confesses to liking both roles

By Laura Wisniewski
Associated Press writer

DETROIT — On one day, Judge Michael Callahan stands behind a large chair, black robe flowing behind the bench. Gently, he prods testimony from a 12-year-old boy who accidentally killed his friend with a BB gun.

On another day, the Rev. Michael Callahan lights the candles for Mass, stopping to adjust his vibrant purple-and-white robe. He shows the altar boy the day's reading. Soon, some 60 troubled boys will pile into the chapel.

One man — two very different sets of robes. But Michael Callahan insists that he can wear both confortably.

"It's unusual, I'll grant you that," said Callahan, 47. "(But) I don't think that anything I've done is inconsistent with the ministry."

Callahan works as a Roman Catholic priest in the Saginaw Diocese, about 100 miles northwest of Detroit. He was elected to the Wayne County Circuit Court in November after nearly four years as an assistant county prosecutor in Detroit.

Callahan serves on the bench during the week. On Saturdays, he celebrates Mass at Boysville Inc. of Michigan homes for troubled youth.

There is some question about how long Callahan will be allowed to do both.

"We're eventually going to have to take a look at this," said Callahan's superior and high school pal, Bishop Kenneth Untener. "Canon Law does not allow priests to exercise civil power. As prosecutor, I allowed exception to that, but obviously exceptions don't go on indefinitely.

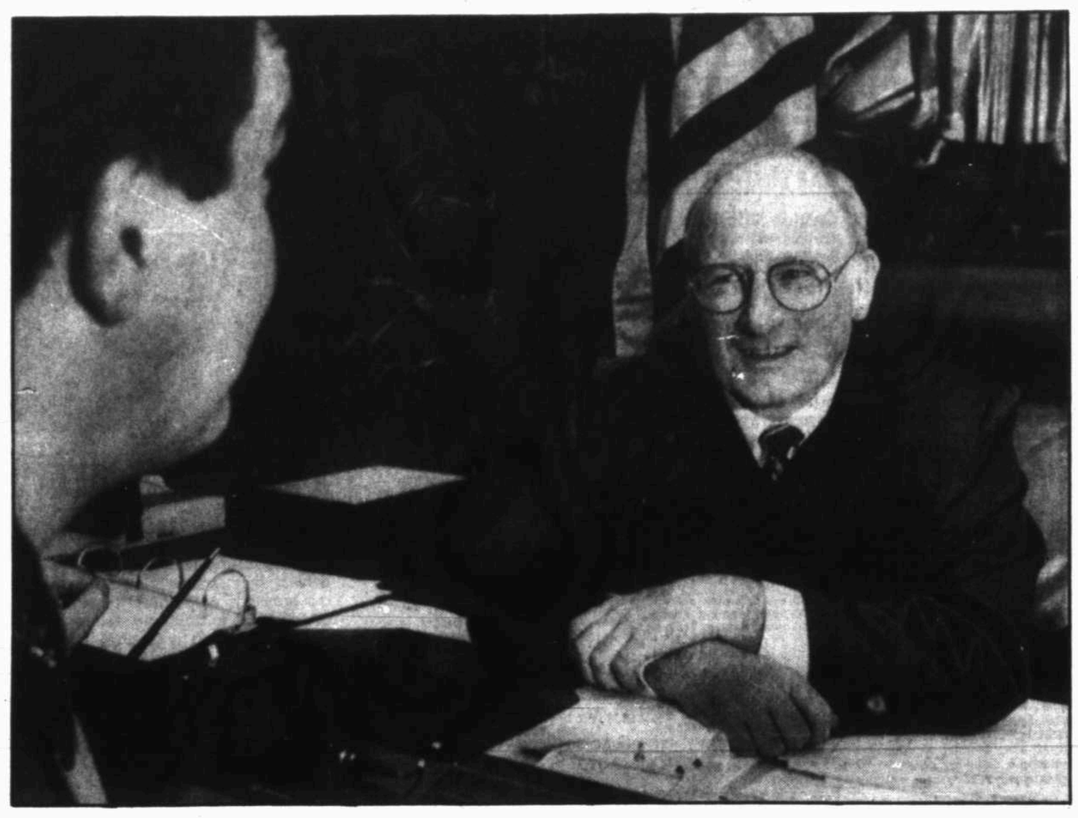

"In principle, it doesn't seem a good idea to blend civil and religious power," Untener said. "A priest is a shepherd more than a judge. You can't do everything in life. It's as simple as that."

Callahan has had multiple directions in life for as long as he can remember. He grew up one of three children in a Roman Catholic household in Detroit, attended Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit and then Catholic University of America in Washington D.C., where he earned a degree in theology.

While assigned to St. David's in Detroit in 1969, he participated in anti-Vietnam War demonstrations.

At right, Judge Michael Callahan is shown in his robes in the Wayne County Circuit Court in Detroit recently. Above, Callahan — the Rev. Michael Callahan — talks with an altar boy in Saginaw, Mich., about 100 miles northwest of Detroit. There's some question about how long Callahan will be allowed to be both jurist and clergyman.

"I realized that with my temperament, the best thing to do was get professional training and do what needed to be done in society," he said. He earned a law degree from Wayne State University in May 1975.

Callahan was assistant prosecutor in St. Clair County from 1979-81. Then Untener persuaded him to join the Saginaw Diocese and become vicar for Hispanics at Sacred Heart Church. He became a defense lawyer at the same time, using his office at the rectory for parishioners and clients.

Callahan continued to feel drawn to the legal world, but Untener refused him permission to become a Saginaw County assistant prosecutor.

"He said, 'How would it look to put people in jail who are your parishioners?' And I said that if my parishioners commit crimes, they ought to be in jail," Callahan said.

In March 1987, Callahan tested for assistant county prosecutor in Wayne County and was offered the job. The bishop reluctantly assigned him to Detroit.

Then came the judgeship. He insists that his work as a judge helps him in his priestly duties to troubled teen-agers at Boysville. He tells them about the criminals he must deal with, about their sad and ruined lives.

Still, some see a conflict of interest. Madalyn Murray O'Hair, founder and spokeswoman of American Atheists in Austin, Texas, said, "There's an oath of obedience to the pope first, then the Constitution. He has a built-in bias."

But Rob Boston, spokesman for Americans United for Separation of Church and State in Silver Spring, Md., said while his group advocates a strict barrier between church and state, he sees no problem with Callahan's dual roles.

New Bible translation is major remodeling

By George W. Cornell
AP Religion writer

NEW YORK — New Bible translations come out often these days and usually make only moderate, clarifying changes to avoid jarring readers attached to previous styles. But the latest one goes further.

It's a more drastic overhaul. It tosses out heavyweight theological terms for simpler substitutes, reshuffles sentences, and generally reconstructs the phraseology, seeking to make the meaning plainer.

That's the aim and method applied in turning out the new Contemporary English Version of the New Testament, issued this week by the American Bible Society after about six years work.

"It's conversational English, the way people use the language," said the Rev. Barclay M. Newman of Springfield, Mo., the Bible scholar who headed the translation team.

Here's an example of the revision of Acts 20:32 compared with the Revised Standard Version, which is widely approved and used by major Protestant, Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox denominations:

RSV — "And now I commend you to God and to the word of his grace which is able to build you up to give you the inheritance among all those who are sanctified."

CEV — "I now place you in God's care. Remember the message about his great kindness! This message can help you and give you what belongs to you as God's people."

In another, more familiar, instance the Lord's prayer in Matthew 6:10 starts out this way in the RSV — "Our Father who art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name, Thy kingdom come, thy will be done. . .."

The CEV says it this way, "Our Father in heaven, help us to honor your name. Come and set up your kingdom, so that everyone on earth will obey you."

In producing the new translation, scholars worked from the ancient Greek texts rather than adapting any existing translations, but used a system applying the "principle of functional equivalence."

First defined by the society's dean of translators, the Rev. Eugene Nida, "functional equivalence" allows breaking up sentences and changing their order as well as words, so long as the original meaning is preserved.

The original structure of phrases and sequence of ideas need not be followed when a rearrangement is felt to convey the same meaning more clearly.

Consider this example from John 15:26:

RSV — "But when the Counselor comes, whom I shall send to your from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, who proceeds from the Father, he will bear witness to me."

CEV: "I will send you the Spirit who comes from the Father and shows what is true. The Spirit will help you and will tell you about me."

Newman said that in trying to make the phrasing more readable and easily understood, especially when heard, a predominant concern was to remain "faithful to the meaning."

"You're dealing with the Word of God, and you do it with genuine fear and trembling," he said in an interview.

Newman headed a four-member team that did most of the initial translating, subject to review, adjustments and refinements by a panel of about 100 Protestant and Roman Catholic Bible specialists and linguists.

The CEV New Testament, sometimes titled "Bible for Today's Family," was issued as the interdenominational society this week marked its 175th anniversary.

With work now proceeding on the Old Testament, a complete CEV Bible was expected to be ready in 1996.

As for other comparative renderings in the New Testament, consider Luke 22:25:

RSV — "The kings of the Gentiles exert lordship over them, and those in authority over them are called benefactors."

Or First John 1:9:

RSV — "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just, and will forgive our sins and cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

CEV — "But if we tell God about our sins, he can always be trusted to forgive us and take our sins away."

Group rejects recommendation

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Eight former moderators of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) have urged rejection of a sexuality committee's recommendation that the denomination abandon its stand against sex relations outside marriage.

The committee's views "are completely at variance with the biblical mandates and 2,000 years of Christian teaching and church practice," said the latest statement by two former moderators.

The Rev. Ben Lacy Rose of Richmond, Va., who held the top presiding post in 1971, and Jule C. Spach of Winston-Salem, N.C., moderator in 1976, urged the church's government assembly in June to reject the committee's report.

"If passed, it could be the most disruptive document in the history of the denomination," they said.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Youth choirs to perform Sunday

The children's Choirs of First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave., will be presenting "Moses and the Freedom Fanatics" by Hal Hopson, at 7 p.m. Sunday in the sanctuary.

A brief concert will be presented by the three younger choirs followed by the story of Moses and the slaves' attempts to leave for the Promised Land as told by the Junior, Elementary and Carol Choirs.

The Children's Choirs, under the direction of Rebecca Engelstad, present two musicals each year as well as music for worship services on Sunday mornings.

A reception will follow and child care will be provided.

Perrigo named president

Byron W. Perrigo of Midland has been called to be the new stake mission president for the Odessa Texas Stake of The Church of Latter-day Saints.

Perrigo

Perrigo, an area manager for Betz Industrial, has served as Young Men's president, seminar teacher and bishop prior to his calling in the stake mission presidency.

Dove

Dove, a manager with Roadway Express, has been a Sunday school teacher, worked with the Young Men's program and served as a financial clerk.

Ormsby

Jimmie David Ormsby of Odessa is the second counselor. Ormsby is employed by the United States Postal Service and his previous church work includes Scoutmaster, Sunday School teacher and stake missionary.

The responsibility of the stake mission presidency is to supervise and train 28 stake missionaries. Stake missionaries are personally involved in missionary work by finding people for the full-time missionaries to teach, helping full-time missionaries teach investigators and fellowship new converts.

Divorce seminar June 8

A seminar for all divorced or separated Catholics is being presented June 8 at St. Ann's Catholic Church.

Hours for "The Role of the Separated/Divorced Catholic in Today's Church" are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the parlor, 207 N. M. St.

Speakers and their topics include Alexandria Rose, "Choosing Your Own Greatness;" Norb Dickman, "Current Church Teaching on Separation and Divorce;" and the Rev. Larry Droll, Marriage Tribunal, Diocese of San Angelo, "The Annulment Process in the Church."

Free child care will be provided at 1900 Texas. Children are to bring a sack lunch. Drinks will be provided.

Those attending will be invited to the church's 5:30 p.m. Mass.

A $5 registration fee includes a catered lunch. Financial assistance is available. For more information or to reserve child care call 689-7700 during the day or 682-6060 in the evenings.

In concert

The Youth Ministries of Temple Baptist Church will present the 1991 West Texas SuperRally VI May 17 from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. featuring The Archers in concert. The all-nighter will include: basketball, flag football, volleyball, bowling, ping pong, billiards, aerobics, weight-lifting, swimming, racquetball, skating, arm wrestling, and great food. Ticket prices for the SuperRally All-Nighter are $8, advance concert only $5, and at the door $6.

Rape seminar slated

Chamberlin

The Unitarian-Universalist Church of Midland will sponsor a presentation entitled "Myths and Facts About Rape."

Andra Chamberlin, education director for the Rape Crisis Center of Midland, will speak from 9:45 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. on Sunday. The public is invited to attend.

Sunday's Children's Day

There are 10 workers in the Children's Sunday school whose work is very important in the lives of the children at FTBC.

The second and third grade choir from FBC in Odessa will be presenting several special songs Sunday at 6 p.m. This group of children is directed by John Conlon, FTBC's interim music director.

The Rev. John S. Rasco will be speaking on "The Making of a Good Home" during the 11 a.m. worship service. Sunday evening at 6 p.m. in addition to the special music from the FBC, Odessa Children's Choir, the church Planning Committee will present long range plans for Fannin Terrace Baptist Church.

Youth program Sunday

The Rainbow Kids Choir of the Christian Church of Midland, 2608 Neely St., will present "Get On Board Children" at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The public is invited to attend.

Service times change

St. Paul's Anglican church, 3001 Golf Course Road, has changed its service times.

Church services are now held each Sunday at 10:30 a.m., and will be in accordance with the 1928 Book of Common Prayer. Sunday school for pre-teens will coincide with church hours. The church will have an additional 5 p.m. service on the first Sunday in each month.

Beginning Sunday, the church will hold a series of classes entitled "Discover Anglicanism." The classes are scheduled for 30 minutes and start at 12 noon. For information call 684-5438.

Organ recital Friday

LUBBOCK — Neil Chippington, Guest Artist-in-Residence at First United Methodist Church, Lubbock, will present an organ recital at 8 p.m. Friday in the church sanctuary.

This will be the final concert in this year's Vesper Concert Series sponsored by the Music Department.

Chippington is the third Cambridge University graduate from England to serve as Guest Artist at First Methodist.

Musical selections will include: J.S. Bach's "Toccata and Fugue in D minor;" the first movement of Elgar's "Organ Sonata;" "Variations on the tune 'America' by Charles Ives; and Marcel Dupre's "Prelude and Fugue in B Major."

There is no admission charge for this concert. Parking is available on the church parking lot at 13th and Avenue N, and child care will be provided. A reception hosted by members of the Chancel Choir will be held in the parlor following the recital.

Church to honor pastor

First United Methodist Church is hosting an appreciation dinner in honor of the Rev. Bill Weir, the church's minister of program, at 6 p.m. May 26.

Weir

Weir is planning semi-retirement and will relocate to Sulphur Springs.

Associates and friends are invited to join First UMC in expressing gratitude to Weir and his family for 15 years of "devoted" service to First UMC and to the Northwest Texas Conference, said a release from the church

Casual dress is appropriate. Dinner is $2. For reservations call First UMC, 305 N. Baird St., 682-3701.

Spring crusade planned

The Rev. Roy Fish and Fritz and Shirly Smith are the evangelists for the First Baptist Church, 2104 W. Louisiana St., Spring Crusade beginning Sunday.

Fish, who is professor of evangelism at Southwestern Baptist Seminary, is in great demand as an evangelist, said a release from the church.

"Fritz and Shirley Smith have given their lives to the ministry of music evangelism," the release said. "The services will celebrate the good news of the saving relationship with Jesus Christ."

The crusade schedule of worship is 8:20, 9:40, 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday. The crusade begins at 7 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.

Fish will lead a noon meeting in the Fellowship Hall which is scheduled for Monday through Wednesday with the subject "Personal Evangelism." Lunch is served at 11:30 a.m. The public is invited to attend the crusade.

Church extends invitation

The public is invited to attend the San Angelo District UDCA convocation Monday through Friday at Alexander's Temple Church of God.

Services begin at 8 p.m.

"The week will be a time of Christian fellowship and auxiliary presentations," said a release from the church. The Rev. C.S. Johnson is host pastor and district superintendent.

Special brunch planned

Hope Lutheran Church, Scharbauer Drive and A Street, is celebrating Mother's Day Sunday with a brunch following the second service.

Sunday morning services are held at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. The Mother's Day Brunch will be hosted by the men of the church. Members, visitors and guests are welcome to attend.

Lengyon comes to town

The Rev. Lee Roy Lengyon has accepted the call to come to Midland to minister to the Goodwill Baptist Church, 1508 S. Main St.

Lengyon attended the Theological Seminary, Monroe, La., and the National Outreach Bible Institution, Tulsa, Okla.

"Having worked and studied with many different stripes of Christians, he believes in the unity of believers through fulfilling Christ's commission to make disciples learners and followers," said a release from the church.

Allies negotiate with Iraq for Kurd return to Dohuk

SILOPI, Turkey (AP) — Coalition forces are negotiating a plan with the Iraqi military to let Kurds return to an Iraqi provincial capital without using U.S. ground troops to occupy the city, a U.S. military negotiator said Friday.

Talks over the future of Dohuk are a critical element in the success of Operation Provide Comfort, the allied program to save the Kurds.

The allied forces have sought control of Dohuk to encourage Kurdish refugees to return home. At the same time, allied officials have sought to avoid becoming embroiled in a new struggle with Iraq, which considers Dohuk of strategic importance.

To the south, meanwhile, U.N. peacekeepers formally proclaimed the Iraq-Kuwait border a demilitarized zone and said no reports had surfaced of cease-fire violations. But confrontations have been reported in the town of Safwan among Iraqi supporters and opponents of Saddam Hussein.

The U.S. Army said Friday that Iraq had pulled some forces from Dohuk, reducing chances of a confrontation with allied soldiers who had planned to secure the city as part of the Kurdish relief effort.

Dohuk, which had a predominantly Kurdish population of about 380,000, would be a magnet to returning refugees if the allies could persuade them it is safe. About 5 percent of the original population are estimated to remain in Dohuk following the failed Kurdish uprising against Saddam.

"There are a lot of ways we can provide security without going into the city," U.S. Army Col. Dick Naab, leader of the allied negotiating team, told a news conference in the Turkish border town of Silopi.

Naab said the allies and the Iraqis traded suggestions about the future of Dohuk, 35 miles south of Iraq's border with Turkey. He said he expected a response from Iraq's chief delegate, Brig. Gen. Nushwan Danoun, at their daily meeting on Saturday.

Naab termed the Iraqi proposals "very attractive." Meetings about Dohuk began last week. On Thursday, Lt. Gen. John Shalikashvali, commander of Operation Provide Comfort, met with Iraqi Maj. Gen. Abu Firas on the issue.

Naab said the allies envisoned a kind of demilitarized zone in the city. He said an Iraqi police force might preserve order, "maybe with some international body, perhaps a military coordination center." He offered few details.

He said he was "disappointed" by reports that Saddam's government rejected the idea of a U.N. police force in northern Iraq.

Naab said the Iraqi military strongly opposes any allied plan to occupy Dohuk because it is a provincial seat.

"It is ... embarrassing to them ... It's an insult to their sovereignty," he explained.

U.S. officials have wavered in the months since the Gulf War in their attitudes toward Iraq's internal affairs — at first calling for a hands-off policy but later sending troops to protect Kurds in northern Iraq.

Allied officers say Iraq is also worried about Dohuk because south of the city, Iraq's terrain flattens, making it easy going for an invading army.

Allied intelligence officers had said Iraq was toughening its position around Dohuk, placing more than 1,000 soldiers on the surrounding hills and bringing units from southern Iraq to highways leading into the city.

However, Army Lt. Col. Lee Ryals, a spokesman at Incerlik air base in Turkey, said Friday that Iraqi troop withdrawals from the vicinity of Dohuk were "being consistently reported by intelligence people."

He said by Friday only about 100 soldiers remained in the city and immediate vicinity.

The allied officers said the headquarters of Iraq's 66th Special Forces Brigade remains staffed just south of the city, but most agree the Iraqis are unlikely to put up a fight should the allies decide to take the city.

Coalition forces have already occupied a 3,600-square-mile chunk of Iraq. The question of whether Kurds can be persuaded Dohuk is safe will become increasingly important over the next week as more Kurds descend from their miserable mountain hideaways.

So far, more than 50,000 Kurds are believed to have come down from the mountains. The U.S. military's Operation Gallant Provider, expected to start in a few days, aims to bring more than 100,000 Kurds home.

The allied-run refugee camp in Zakho, an Iraqi border town, reached its capacity Friday of about 20,000 people. An estimated 75 percent of the inhabitants are from Dohuk area, according to Lt. Col. Jim Christophersen, commander of the U.S. Army's 432nd Civil Affairs Company, which runs the camp.

The 432nd on Friday opened another camp about a mile away and Christophersen said most of its inhabitants would also be from around Dohuk. He said the second camp also could house up to 20,000.

Christophersen said the relief organization CARE International has contracted to take over management of the first camp, calling this "a very important step to allow the U.S. Army to disengage from the relief operation."

In Baghdad, U.N. envoy Marrack Goulding said Friday that Iraq welcomed humanitarian aid in the north, but not help with security.

"They expect a successful outcome to talks and feel the only role of international agencies is humanitarian," Goulding said.

Turkish border problem resolved, U.S. reports

SILOPI, Turkey (AP) — U.S. officials said Friday they had ironed out a customs conflict with Turkey that slowed delivery of supplies for Iraqi Kurdish refugees and allied troops in Iraq for a week.

By Monday or Tuesday, the flow of supplies will be smooth, predicted U.S. Army Maj. Mark Paun, logistics chief for the refugee operation's main supply depot.

Other tensions between Turkey and the anti-Iraq allies could disrupt the operation again, observers said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Turkey's military is worried about the allied plan to repatriate Iraqi refugees to an allied-protected "security zone" in northern Iraq. Some officals feel the allied forces are secretly aiming to bolster the Iraqi Kurdish guerrillas.

Some officials feel that strengthening the Iraqi Kurdish rebels is likely to encourage Turkey's Kurdish guerrillas, who have been fighting in the same region for seven years.

Turkey's military chief of staff, Gen. Dogan Gures, told journalists this week there was a "possibility that these arms (being shipped to Iraq) will go to the Kurds."

Allied officials dismissed his remarks. But the comment showed the depth of suspicion in Turkey, where memory persists of the attempts by Western countries to carve up Turkey after World War I.

Last week, Turkey effectively shut down the border crossing with Iraq, blocking relief aid and supplies for allied troops. It said it was merely enforcing customs regulations that had not been applied stringently before.

But relief workers and government officials complained of red tape in sending tents and medicine to the new camps in Iraq, and ammunition to the coalition forces, which Turkish officials apparently feared was going to the Kurds.

Paun said U.S. and Turkish customs officials met and "ironed out a bunch of procedures." He said the U.S. forces sent bilingual officers to the border to speed up paperwork and planned to open three transportation offices.

Humanitarian groups also complained of difficulties in shipping aid through Turkey.

In one case, U.S. Marines sent two helicopters to transport medicine to Iraq for the international group Doctors Without Borders because the group had customs problems in Turkey, aid officials said.

Two-year-old recovering from rattlesnake bite

By Lynn Bulmahn

GATESVILLE (AP) — Three weeks after moving from Waco to a home near Mound, Diane and Jack Gaston's dream of living the idyllic life in the country turned into a nightmare.

During a family nature walk, their 2½-year-old son, Matthew Tyler, suffered a potentially life-threatening rattlesnake bite.

Despite doctors' initial grim prognosis, Little Tyler, as he is called, lost neither his life nor his left leg. His muscles, once blackened from the poisonous venom, have turned pink again, and he lost very little tissue, his mother says.

Tyler's parents give all the credit to their faith in God — and to the medical care their son received.

The accident occurred April 22, when Jack had taken the family's only vehicle to Waco to run an errand.

The family recently moved into a farmhouse along Farm Road 1829 near Mound. Surrounded by acreage, the house is owned by Dr. James West, who is on the Baylor Health Center staff.

The Gastons' four children had been playing inside, but they wanted to go outdoors. Up until that day, Diane said, she had been extremely wary of letting the children play outside without their father near lest they encounter a rattlesnake.

Realizing that the errand might be a long one, Diane gave in to her restless children and organized a nature walk.

Strapping 5-month-old Michael Amos in a baby carrier on her back, she held Tyler's hand as they and her older children, Trey and Courtney, began their trek around the farm.

"I held his hand the whole time, and we stayed in the clearing pretty much," Diane said. "I know rattlesnakes are out this time of year."

As they strolled through the fields, she said, she kept scanning for possible signs of snakes or other hazards.

Near the fence, the children began picking wildflowers. Courtney and Trey called to their mother to come see something. Thinking they may have found a snake, Diane dropped Tyler's hand only for a moment.

Then she heard what sounded more like a swarm of bees than a rattlesnake. Immediately, she ran to the toddler.

A rattlesnake had bitten Tyler above the left knee. His mother said the snake appeared to be between 3 and 4 feet long. And its fang marks measured 1½ inches apart, hospital personnel said.

"I picked Tyler up and started running to the house," Diane said.

The trek was not easy. She had to race up a hill a distance she estimates to be a quarter of a mile, and she had the baby in the backpack weighing her down.

"I was hysterical," she admits. "I cried out to God to help me. I felt like the Lord told me to put a splint around his leg."

"As I was going toward the house, Tyler was telling me he wanted me to pick him up like a baby," she said. "I started to, and then I felt like the Lord told me not to, so I said 'No, Tyler,' and I made him get back down."

This kept Tyler's leg down. Had she carried him as he'd asked, officials later told her, the venom would have spread further throughout his body — and he could have died.

By the time the panicked family reached the house's long uphill driveway, Diane had run as far as she could. Exhausted, she had to walk the rest of the distance.

Still unfamiliar with the area or their new neighbors, the Gastons didn't know how to get help. Not knowing that 911 service is not available in the Mound area, east of Gatesville, Diane tried unsuccessfully to get an emergency operator at that number.

So she called the West's Waco home, where Jack was scheduled to be. He was not there, but she told Mrs. West what had happened.

"I told her our route number, which I had just learned," Diane said. "I knew it was on FM 1829. She asked which direction from the hospital. I didn't know where the hospital was, so I couldn't tell them."

"I told her when she got to the driveway there was a 'JESUS IS LORD' sign," Diane said. "She asked me what the sign said. I had to repeat it three times."

Finally, the operator understood what she was saying.

"Someone in the ambulance remembered," Diane said. "Dr. West had worked at the Gatesville hospital, and one of the guys was familiar with the house. They got here real quick."

"A doctor sat me down and explained what was happening," Diane said. "He said, 'I want you to know he could die.'"

The Gatesville medical team made arrangements to transfer Tyler to Scott & White Memorial Hospital in Temple for surgery. This time, Diane was not allowed to ride in the ambulance, so she got a ride back to the house. By then, her husband was home, and she told him the news.

As they prepared for the trip to Temple, Jack said he began praying.

"I felt like we needed to pray that the Lord's will be done, whether he take his life or save it. I squeaked that prayer out. It was a hard thing to do."

By the time the couple arrived at the Temple hospital, they had time only to sign the papers allowing the surgery.

"Tyler went into shock when he got to Scott & White," Diane said. "His leg was three times its normal size."

"His leg was wide open," she said. "The venom destroys everything it hits, and it can get into the cartilage. They had to cut his leg so it could continue to expand. Otherwise, it would have burst."

Dr. Dennis J. Lynch, chairman of the department of surgery at Scott & White, said, "A snake bite is always worrisome in a 2-year-old. He was bitten by a pretty good sized snake."

When doctors began treating Tyler, Lynch said, they found the venom had entered the knee joint and the muscle compartment of the thigh.

The surgeon said rattlesnake venom is an enzyme that dissolves protein. It can destroy muscle, which is protein, as well as other tissue. It also can get into the body's circulatory system and affect blood clotting.

"The main thing was to get the muscle compartment drained and compressed so the circulatory system wouldn't be affected," he said.

Although Scott & White handles an average of 13 or 14 snake bites a year, death is a rarity, Lynch said. More commonly, the victim loses part of his hand, his fingers or another extremity.

Once the muscles become black as Tyler's had, Diane said, doctors usually have to excise the dead muscles, disfiguring the patient.

However, Jack said, Tyler's condition improved after several prayer chains went into motion.

"Tyler went to surgery the next day, and all the muscles had turned pink again," Diane said.

Anyone bitten by a snake should go to the hospital immediately, Lynch said. Snakebite victims need to get medical attention within an hour of the accident, he said.

Business leaders glum on economy

HOT SPRINGS, Va. — (AP) — Top business executives sounded downright gloomy Friday about the economy, saying they saw few signs of an end to the 10-month-old recession.

In contrast to the view from the Bush administration, the chief officers of such corporate giants as American Telephone & Telegraph and General Motors said they are not all that certain about when the country's first downturn in eight years will end.

While many expressed the hope that the economy will begin growing by this summer, some put the odds of that occurring at less than 50-50.

They said that until consumers start spending again, especially for expensive items like housing and autos, the economy is likely to remain in the doldrums.

"At the moment, U.S. business remains very weak and there are not many signs of an upturn," said John Young, chairman of Hewlett-Packard, the giant computer-maker.

The somber mood prevailed as the Business Council, composed of executives of 100 of the country's largest corporations, gathered at a mountain resort for two days of discussions with Washington policymakers.

Cummins chairman Henry B. Schacht said his company has laid off 14 percent of its workforce since last fall and that came on top of a 35 percent job cutback taken as part of a restructuring effort.

"The people who buy industrial equipment are just not buying," he said. "There are no signs of a recovery, none whatsoever."

Motorola Chairman George Fisher said that he had originally believed the economy would hit bottom during the current quarter, but that he now thought the rebound may be delayed until September.

"I honestly don't know when the economy is going to turn around," he said.

Members of the Bush administration who addressed the business executives said the administration is sticking to its forecast that the recession will be relatively short and shallow with growth quickly returning to more robust levels.

"We are still in a recession," said Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher. "I think we will be coming out of it by this summer, but May is not summer."

House Republican Whip Newt Gingrich, who also spoke to the executives, conceded that the GOP has a big stake in seeing a quick end to the recession.

"Any thought that George Bush is automatically re-elected goes out the window if we still have a recession in 1992," he said.

Mosbacher maintained that continued strong demand for exports would help offset weak domestic demand, but several of the executives worried that many countries in Europe, one of America's biggest foreign markets, appeared headed for their own recessions.

There was widespread agreement among the business executives that when the recovery begins it is likely to feature decidedly sub-par growth because of many lingering problems such as the huge overhang of debt built up in the 1980s.

H. Brewster Atwater Jr., chairman of General Mills, said, "It will be a rather slow and painful recovery out of this recession."

John F. Welch Jr., chairman of General Electric, said the best word to characterize the economy at present was "fragile." But he maintained that the seeds for a recovery were in place in the form of rising consumer confidence following the Persian Gulf War and falling interest rates.

Walter Shipley, chairman of New York's Chemical Bank, and several other executives said interest rates need to fall still further to bolster consumer and business demand, a view that the executives will no doubt express to Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan when he speaks Saturday.

While some executives said the major restructuring U.S. industry went through in the 1980s had made corporations better able to cope with the downturn, others said the layoffs associated with the restructuring were adding to consumer unease.

"It is very difficult for the consumer to be more optimistic as long as he sees more layoffs," said AT&T Chairman Robert E. Allen.

Senator says rape wasn't mentioned

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy reacted Friday to reports that he failed to talk with police about an alleged rape on the family's Palm Beach estate by saying he never knew his nephew was being accused of rape.

A Palm Beach police affidavit released Thursday says detectives asked to interview the senator at the seaside mansion but were told that he was out, and later that he had left town. In fact, the senator did not depart until the next day, police say.

Speaking at a news conference Friday, Kennedy did not deny on Friday that he failed to respond at least twice to police inquiries the day after the alleged rape. He said that was because he was unaware the questions concerned an alleged rape involving his nephew, William Kennedy Smith.

Smith was charged this week with second-degree sexual battery, Florida's equivalent to rape, and misdemeanor battery in connection with the alleged attack at the Florida estate early March 30.

"I was never, never told that weekend that there would be an alleged charge against Willie Smith that he had raped a young woman," Kennedy said. "I was never, never told that."

But Kennedy said the estate's chief of security, former FBI agent William Barry, told him "there was going to be a sexual harassment (charge) — never used the word rape, never used the word rape — against my nephew, William Smith."

"I have great love and affection for Willie," the senator said. "I'm absolutely satisfied, I'm absolutely confident that when all the facts come out, he will be vindicated."

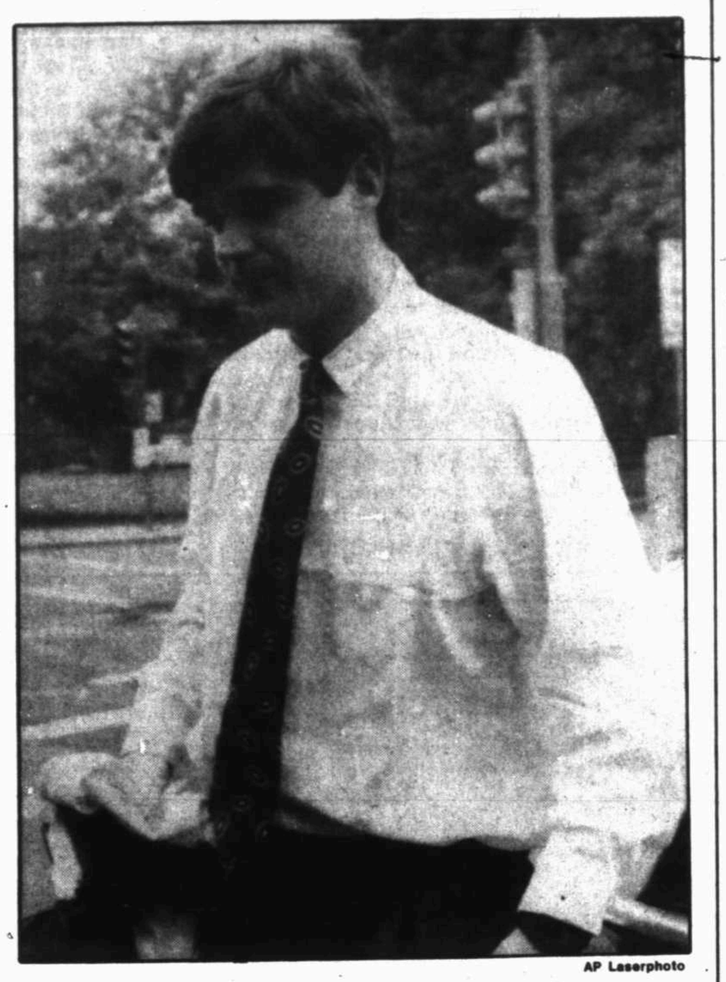

Palm Beach police repeated Friday they were investigating possible witness tampering and obstruction of justice in the case, but stopped short of implicating the senator.

"He's still a witness, not a suspect," Sgt. William Atkinson said.

Atkinson denounced a report that stated police were planning to file charges against the senator, calling the report "statements strung together out of context."

Kennedy said after police first came to the kitchen of his family's estate, "I was told was that there had been stolen property, my mother's stolen property, (and it) had been recovered. I had no knowledge that my mother's property had been stolen. I was going to take steps to have someone go down (to identify the property, an urn) the next day."

Palm Beach police said in the affidavit that Kennedy was asked to contact the department, but the senator said: "I was never told to call the police about any allegation of rape by Willie Smith."

DETROIT (AP) — A 73-year-old man's nine-month fight against murder charges in the death of his terminally ill wife — a death he says was suicide — ended with his acquittal Friday.

"Thank God for that. It's over," said Bertram Harper, of Loomis, Calif., tears welling in his eyes as he left the courtroom where he had been on trial since Monday.

Harper, his 69-year-old wife, Virginia, and her 40-year-old daughter, Shanda McGrew, traveled to Michigan from California on Aug. 18 because Michigan has no law against assisting suicide, which is a felony in California. A law to bar assisting with suicide has since been proposed in the Michigan Legislature.

Mrs. Harper, diagnosed with liver cancer, died of suffocation on Aug. 19 in a suburban Detroit motel room.

The jury deliberated less than two hours Thursday and Friday before finding Harper innocent of second-degree murder.

"It was an easy decision," said juror Dean Glossop, 26. "In my opinion, this was not an important enough case to waste the taxpayers' money on."

Harper originally was charged with first-degree murder. After discussions with attorneys Thursday, Judge Isidore Torres instructed the jury only on a charge of second-degree murder, punishable by up to life in prison.

Harper and McGrew sobbed when the verdict was read.

"This is wonderful," Harper said afterward. "I feel like I just won the lottery or something. This has been hanging over my head for nine months now."

"We knew what was right, but we were grateful to be exonerated by the law," said McGrew, who wasn't charged.

Harper and his wife were members of the Hemlock Society, a Eugene, Ore.-based group that advocates the right to suicide. The couple read in a society article that Michigan was among states that had no law against assisted suicide.

In a tearful statement given after he notified police of his wife's death, Harper said his wife washed down sleeping pills with coffee liqueur and pulled a plastic bag over her head. The bag was fastened loosely around her neck with a chain of rubber bands.

Harper said his wife became uncomfortable and several times asked that the bag be removed. He said he did so each time until she became unconscious, when he made the decision to pull the bag over her face the final time.

Glossop said the jury originally voted 8-4 for acquittal.

Mideast shuttle may be Baker's last

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Secretary of State James A. Baker III "feels he is being strung out," the trip beginning Friday night to the Middle East is likely to be his last, a senior U.S. official says.

"I think his inclination is that four trips ought to be enough," the official told The Associated Press before Baker's departure for Damascus for talks on Sunday with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Baker, himself, declined to assess his chances. He told reporters at the State Department: "Let me finish the trip before I determine what might come of it."

At the same time, Baker did not insist that the Soviet Union establish full relations with Israel as a condition for co-sponsoring peace talks with the United States.

Baker said a restoration of ties after a 24-year break was never a U.S. condition. But, he said, "it would be extremely good" if the Soviets took that step.

Baker's chances of setting up Arab-Israeli negotiations could depend on whether the hard-line Arab leader is willing to give ground on his demand for a decisive U.N. role in the peace talks.

Israel objects to involving the United Nations as potentially one-sided but has agreed to consider European participation. Baker met with West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher before leaving.

Another problem confronting Baker is which Palestinian Arabs would be part of a joint delegation with Jordan. Israel is trying to screen out Palestinians with strong links to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

"If he feels he is being strung out he is not interested" in returning to the region again, said the U.S. official, who spoke on condition of anonymity. "But if everyone is serious he'll obviously have to make a judgment what to do next."

Baker will go on from Syria to Egypt and then to Jordan and Israel. He is due to return to Washington next Thursday night. But every Baker schedule is tentative, and he almost always adds stops along the way.

The official countered, meanwhile, an implied threat by Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander A. Bessmertnykh to limit the emigration of Jews as a way of halting Israeli settlements on the West Bank and thereby spurring negotiations.

"Obviously, emigration is an issue we've cared about independent of the Middle East," the U.S. official said. "This is an issue that stands on its own as far as we're concerned."

Bessmertnykh, who on Friday became the first Soviet foreign minister to visit Israel in the 43-year history of the Jewish state, said Thursday when asked in Jordan about slowing down emigration: "I do not exclude anything when we come to the construction of those settlements."

Baker will meet with Bessmertnykh on Sunday in Cairo. Together they hope to cosponsor a peace conference if Israel and the Arabs can agree on a format and on which Palestinians would attend.

Baker: U.S. may ask for Iraqi peace force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may ask the U.N. Security Council to authorize sending a police force into Iraq to protect Kurdish refugees and to permit allied forces to depart, Secretary of State James A. Baker III said Friday night.

"We would like very much to turn this over to the U.N. as soon as possible," Baker told reporters. Moreover, he registered confidence the resolution would be adopted.

"I am not willing to accept the judgment of some that is impossible," Baker said. "I think the countries of the Security Council are concerned about the humanitarian situation there."

Baker referred to the widespread notion that the Soviet Union and China might veto a resolution in order to bar further intervention in Iraq. Both countries have restive minorities of their own and could be expected not to want to establish a precedent for the dispatch of U.N. police forces over the objection of the destination country.

As a result, the general impression in Washington was that the United States could not turn to the Council now that Iraq had rejected a police force.

But Baker said if other efforts fail, "I think we should seek one."

At the same time, he rejected the suggestion the Bush administration was getting involved in a "quagmire" in Iraq by sending troops there to protect the refugees.

"I don't think we are in a quagmire," Baker said.

And he defended the decision by the United States, Britain, France and other allies to intervene on humanitarian grounds. "There wasn't anybody else who could do this," Baker said.

Earlier, the State Department urged Saddam to reconsider his rejection of a U.N. police force to protect displaced Kurds in northern Iraq.

The Iraqi stance has raised the possibility that there may be a delay in the withdrawal of allied forces, including more than 3,000 Americans, from the safe havens being set up for Kurds who were forced from their homes by the Iraqi Army.

U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar passed word of the Iraqi position to President Bush on Thursday.

"We are seriously concerned by Iraqi intransigence on security for displaced persons camps in northern Iraq," State Department deputy spokesman Richard Boucher said.

He said the administration strongly supports United Nations efforts to make arrangements necessary to meet the needs of the Kurds so they can return safely to their homes from mountain refuges along the Iraq-Turkey border.

The U.S. ambassador to the United Nation, Thomas Pickering, relayed the U.S. position on the issue Friday morning to Iraqi diplomats in New York, Boucher said.

Bush has given high priority to withdrawing U.S. forces as quickly as possible from Iraq and Saddam's tough stance was seen as a setback. The president has said he is determined not to let American troops become bogged down in Iraq.

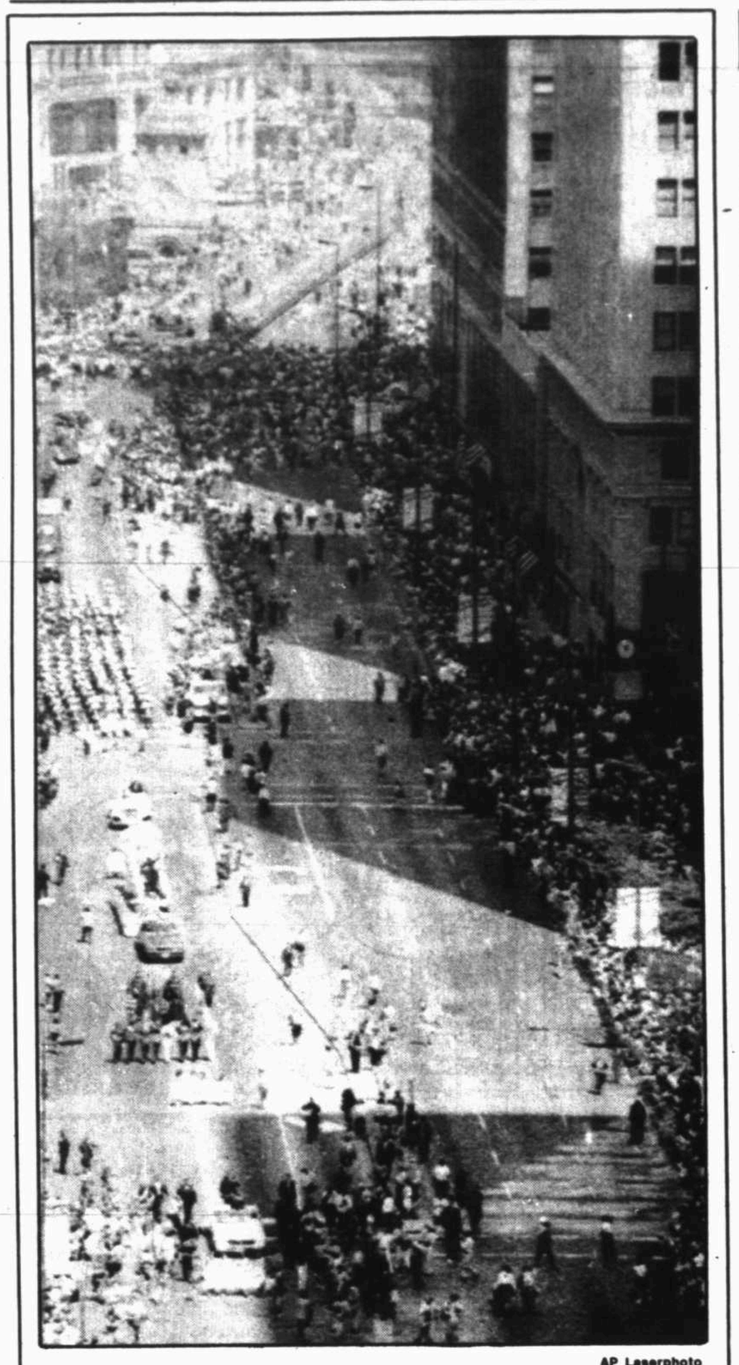

Bush has said he wants to see the day when all refugees can return home "free from fear," but it is not clear how that goal can be achieved without a continuing allied military presence at this point.

Privately, one official said the administration has a number of proposals in mind but he declined to discuss them.

The administration contends that a U.N. police force could be set up without either Baghdad's permission or further action by the United Nations.

Boucher, indicating hopes for Iraqi flexibility, noted that Perez de Cuellar's special envoy, Saddrudin Aga Khan, is due in Baghdad for talks early next week.

Still, Perez de Cuellar suggested on Thursday that the Iraqis were in no mood for compromise, saying they had delivered a "very clear rejection" of the U.N. police force proposal.

Powell

Spectators lined up 15-rows deep, waving flags, tossing confetti and cheering the war veterans marching about a mile down Michigan Avenue. Parade organizers said the event was held on behalf of veterans of all wars, including the Gulf War.

Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff served as grand marshal. He saluted the 540,000 U.S. servicemen and women sent to the Persian Gulf.

"The pride you demonstrated to us ... was what made our victory so decisive and so overwhelming," Powell told the cheering crowd.

Louder cheers greeted a serviceman driving a Patriot missile battery down the street. Organizers expected 20,000 people to attend, but thousands more showed up. Police estimated the crowd at 300,000, First Deputy Chief Richard Grishaber said.

"It's just wonderful to see the soldiers back in their homeland, knowing that not too many lives were lost," said Melida Landor, who handed out 200 "Desert Storm" T-shirts to marching veterans. She said she paid $800 for the shirts featuring a map of the Middle East.

"I think this is a great day because we've all finally come together," said Stephanie Howard, who wore a red, white and blue skirt and matching stockings.

Veterans and high school marching bands playing patriotic songs passed the reviewing stand in front of the Chicago Art Institute. Powell was joined on stage by Illinois Gov. Jim Edgar and Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley.

Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner, Labor Secretary Lynn Martin and Veterans Secretary Edward Derwinski also made appearances on the grandstand during the three-hour parade.

Justice Department studies Cavazos' travel practices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The travel practices of former Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos are being jointly investigated by the Justice Department and the Education Department's inspector general, an administration source said Friday.

Cavazos came under scrutiny in mid-1990 when officials learned he may have used "frequent fliers" credits earned from official travel to obtain free airline tickets, said the source, who asked not to be identified.

Cavazos could not be reached for comment. A former Education Department official under Cavazos said he was in Boston. Directory assistance did not have a listing for Cavazos.

Etta Fielek, chief spokesman for the Education Department, said she did not have any first-hand information about an investigation of Cavazos. Justice Department spokesman Doug Tillett refused to confirm whether a criminal inquiry had been started.

The investigation, first reported in Newsday, came to light as the White House issued a new travel policy for its top officials following disclosure that chief of staff John H. Sununu had taken more than 70 trips on military aircraft during the past two years, including trips to his Boston dentist and to two ski resorts.

The Public Integrity Section of the Justice Department's Criminal Division is conducting the inquiry of Cavazos, along with Education's inspector general, the source said.

The source said the FBI has been asked to examine records and conduct interviews.

The Associated Press has requested Cavazos' travel logs. The source said the documents are not being released because of the investigation.

The source confirmed reports in Newsday that Cavazos and his wife often traveled on TWA even though the flight schedule at times involved complicated and time-consuming connecting routes. Mrs. Cavazos could fly free since one of their sons is a pilot for the airline.

Cavazos, 64, former president of Texas Tech University, had led the Education Department from 1988 until last December when he was forced to resign during a meeting with Sununu.

Advisory lifted against popcorn

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Health Department on Friday lifted its advisory on eating Jolly Time Microwave Popcorn, saying there was no evidence it caused any illnesses.

Complaints of stomach problems began surfacing over a week ago in several states, including northeastern states, said department spokeswoman Vicki Zeldin.

Consumers reported severe diarrhea or vomiting almost immediately after eating the popcorn, or about 24 hours later, she said.

A week of tests on the popcorn and patients was conducted by the manufacturer of the popcorn, American Popcorn Company Inc. in Sioux City, Iowa, the Food and Drug Administration, and individual states.

"The reported illnesses appear to have been coincidental reports of temporally associated illnesses which were probably due to multiple unrelated causes," the Health Department said in a statement.

Over the past week, about 70 cases were reported in Nassau County, 32 in Suffolk.

In December, you can improve your lifestyle by simplifying it. Loved ones rally around and offer their support. Business travel is a must in February 1992. Renew your passport.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Refuse to do anything you are confused about. You need to review your financial situation and recent investments. Look for ways to help a loved one in need. Your generosity will be richly rewarded.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A lovely conversation with an old friend puts you in a nostalgic mood. Pay more attention to a loved one's special needs. Mate may seem overly emotional. Be a good listener; offer reassurance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Arguments with partners will hamper your efforts to get what you want. Keep a close watch on expenditures. Give a wide berth to speculative financial ventures involving friends or relatives.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your living quarters require attention. Grab a paint brush and a can of paint. Enlist family members' cooperation in sprucing things up. A new relationship may not pan out.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You should be fortunate in your financial dealings now. Things begin to happen on a grand scale. A candid conversation improves a parent-child relationship. Dress up and step out tonight!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Steer clear of mysterious undertakings today. You can make greater progress in familiar areas. Comparison shopping will help you locate wonderful bargains. Romance thrives on considerate gestures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Avoid making any drastic changes today. Settle in at home and find your comfort zone. Sports events and local affairs hold special interest this weekend. Entertain a few friends at home tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Spending the day on household chores could prove frustrating. Catch up on what has to be done, then allow yourself a carefree and lighthearted evening. A blind date could delight you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Staying home could prove too confining for your restless nature today. Pursuing a favorite hobby or sport will suit you better. Money spent on self-improvement activities is a wise investment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A financial plan could have snags; go over it with a fine-toothed comb. Coast along quietly; hasty words could backfire. Staying home tonight will suit you to a T. Confide in loved one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): It feels good to be part of a team now, giving whatever you can. You know the importance of building people up with praise instead of tearing them down with criticism.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your ability to take charge in a crisis has never been stronger. Participate in lively discussions, but sidestep arguments. A conflict could strengthen a close relationship.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are loving, proud and practical. Their ability to keep many balls in the air at one time make them wonderful business executives. Although these Taureans make lightning-swift calculations, they will take their time when announcing their decisions. Their sense of timing is excellent! Family and friends will be treated like crown jewels by these affectionate, loyal Taureans. They will do almost anything for someone they love.

Banned video by Garth Brooks raises funds for assault victims

SAN ANGELO (AP) — A controversial music video by country star Garth Brooks, about domestic violence, will help some Texans deal with the problem.

Brooks

The video for the song "The Thunder Rolls" has been banned by some cable networks, including Country Music Television and The Nashville Network.

Complaints were raised about the video depicting extramarital sex, domestic violence and a woman shooting her spouse.

But Wednesday night in San Angelo, the video was shown at a club as part of a fundraiser. More than $500 dollars was raised to help two agencies that assist victims of violence, organizers said.

The money will benefit Assault Victim Services and the ICD Family Shelter.

MIAMI (AP) — When "60 Minutes" correspondent Lesley Stahl came to Miami for a news story, she learned an important safety tip: Keep your car doors locked.

Stahl, in town this week to report on the 1988 beating death of a drug dealer by police, was driving with producer Barbara Dury when an intruder flung open an unlocked back door and jumped in.

Ms. Dury struggled with the intruder, police spokesman David Rivero said of the Wednesday evening incident, adding, "Lesley was in shock, and Barbara started weaving in traffic."

Deliberately trying to cause a commotion, Ms. Dury accelerated and crashed the car into a wall. The mugger fled, stealing Ms. Dury's purse, about $100, a checkbook and a briefcase with newspaper clippings.

Less than three hours after the incident, it almost happened again to Stahl and producer Jim Jackson. Another thug pounded on the car. This time, they had the doors locked.

As of Friday, police had made no arrests and had no suspects, said spokesman Fernando Cabeca.

In early December, a federal jury found six police officers innocent of 17 of 24 counts and reported itself deadlocked on six civil rights murder counts in the death of Leonardo Mercado, a small-time drug dealer.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The more things change, the more they stay the same, says folk singer Pete Seeger.

Seeger, 72, was in Nashville for Thursday's opening of "Some Sweet Day," a musical drama about Arkansas sharecroppers who strike for better wages.

"It's a subject that's completely timely even though the subject is 55 years old," said Seeger. "It's right up to date."

Seeger was here to lend moral support to fellow folk singer Si Kahn, whose songs provide the basis for "Some Sweet Day."

Seeger, who recorded American folk, gospel union songs for posterity, said improved race relations are one hopeful sign he sees in modern times.

"I just watched a group of about 20 black and white sub-teens walking through here, laughing and talking together, and it wasn't so long ago that you would have never seen that in Nashville," he said.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Prince Charles wrapped up his visit to Czechoslovakia on Friday with a tour of one of the country's most polluted regions, the state news agency CTK reported.

Prince Charles

Prince Charles, who was accompanied by Chancellor Karl von Schwarzenberg, visited the castle of Jezeri, about 45 miles northeast of Prague in northern Bohemia.

An essential part of the castle's garden has disappeared due to expanding coal mining in the region, CTK said. The castle is under reconstruction, but the work is not expected to be finished before 2020.

• • •

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — John Denver is worried that the sunshine on his shoulders these days may be a sign of global warming.

"In this decade, we're going to determine whether or not the human race can sustain itself on this planet," the singer said Thursday. He later gave a concert to benefit Grand Valley State University's Water Resources Institute, which works to improve area waterways.

Denver, 47, who has been involved in many environmental activities, said he's most concerned about ozone depletion and global warming.

"Those are the ones that have the greatest ramification for the greatest number of people," he said.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Actor Gary Cole, who plays a late-night radio talk show host in NBC's series, "Midnight Caller," will become a real radio man when he visits Denmark in July.

Suitcase exhibits fight illegal animal contraband

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Have suitcase, will travel.

That's the latest offer to New Mexico students by the Rio Grande Zoological Park as part of a nationwide effort to send smugglers packing and close the lid on the burgeoning illegal trade in protected animals.

Young people around the state will be able to view purses made of crocodile skin, figurines carved from elephant tusks and other illegally imported wares from one of 40 "Suitcases for Survival" when the zoo van hits the road later this year.

Through the zoo's traveling outreach program, children whose teachers request a suitcase will learn how the multimillion dollar industry in animal contraband is pushing some endangered species toward extinction.

The suitcases were sent to zoos around the nation by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Washington, D.C.

The Albuquerque zoo was one of 12 chosen to participate in the pilot program, aimed at educating youngsters so that as adults they will help combat the problem, which has doubled in the past decade.

"There's a lot more environmental awareness now and hopefully by reaching out to children we will have a long-term ripple effect," says Ann Haas of Fish and Wildlife's Division of Law Enforcement, which oversees the export and import of animal products at 10 designated ports of entry around the country.

The suitcase contains such confiscated products as bracelets made of sea turtle shells, necklaces of endangered black coral, rhinoceros horn pills used as aphrodisiacs, purses from the skins of endangered reptiles and spotted cat pelts.

"These are items Fish and Wildlife has seized through ports of entry that were either smuggled or inadvertently brought in," says Tom Smylie, Fish and Wildlife assistant regional director in Albuquerque.

"Our responsibility is that we can't tell another country how to manage their wildlife, but we can make sure Americans don't contribute to the extinction," Smylie says.

He says tourists traveling overseas often buy attractive animal products unaware of the consequences of bringing them home through U.S. customs. A conviction on illegal importation of even the smallest item can mean fines and jail.

"It's important to think about this at this time when so many people go to foreign countries as summer tourists," he says.

Smylie says buyers shouldn't be fooled by the argument that since the animal is already dead it's OK to buy something made from it. He says a sale keeps the market demand up, so more animals are killed to meet expected demand.

"This country is such a consumer that by just one little fad we can wipe out a lot of animals," he says. "In the Roaring '20s everybody loved plumes on their hats and that almost wiped out the snowy egret."

The "Suitcases for Survival" also contain alternative products: letter openers made from bone instead of ivory; purses of synthetic skins; belts from cowhide instead of alligator or snake.

"Kids can see there are alternatives that can help preserve wildlife," Haas says.

Smylie says awareness of the illegal trade is important in the Southwest where many endangered animals are prized for the boot trade. Popular skins include those of some species of lizards, crocodiles and other threatened reptiles.

MARATHON, Fla. (AP) — The golf-ball size growths, resembling moldy cauliflower, bulged from the green sea turtle's head and body.

"You can see why it's so hard to ignore," said conservationist and Florida Keys motel owner Tina Brown as she held up the turtle, its eyes concealed by the grotesque fibropapilloma tumors.

Indeed, Brown and her boyfriend, Richie Moretti, have not ignored the mysterious ailment, which is baffling scientists and threatening to wipe out the species.

For the last few years, they have devoted part of their Hidden Harbor Motel, all of its proceeds and countless hours to finding the cause of the disease — and a cure.

Despite the widespread occurrence of fibropapilloma tumors, however, little was done to determine the cause until the last couple of years. Only a few scientists across the country are actively working on the problem.

First observed in the late 1920s, the disease has reached epidemic proportions in Hawaii and Florida, scientists at the National Marine Fisheries Service said. In the last few months, cases have been reported in Australia and the Caribbean Islands.

It was long believed to be a cosmetic affliction; veterinarians treated it by tying off the tumors. But the growths often reappeared.

Turtle experts now believe fibropapilloma could be caused by a virus, a virus in combination with pollution, or by a parasite that either conveys a virus or causes the tumor directly.

The study received a boost in December when 10 scientists met in Hawaii to coordinate a national research plan.

"The timing of the workshop was critical," said George H. Balazs, a zoologist with the Honolulu Laboratory of the National Marine Fisheries Service."The number of reported cases of the disease is mounting, and the disease is spreading geographically."

One focus of the fibropapilloma study is the marine research center Moretti and Brown, 33, have created out of an old saltwater swimming pool at their motel.

With the help of Elliott Jacobson, a veterinarian professor at the University of Florida, Moretti and Brown built the Marine Environmental Project last year.

Jacobson last year injected tumor cells into various parts of seven healthy turtles. They injected five other turtles with placebos. They hope to be able to isolate the virus that causes the tumors as it reaches the stage of transmission.

According to Jacobson, though, the disease has not been transmitted through the injections.

The scientific struggle is only one of the battles fought by researchers. Another is money.

"Up until recently, it wasn't recognized as a very significant problem by government agencies," Jacobson said. "I think everybody in a position of administrative responsibility had no idea the extent of this disease."

Balazs said the problem may stem from a more general problem.

"Some of the frustrations are that diseases of reptiles don't seem to carry very high priority in any realm," he said. "Its sort of the looking-down-your-nose-at-lower-animals-and-cold-blooded-animals (attitude)."

Jacobson said a cure is a long way off, even with greater success in the lab and better funding.

Undaunted, Moretti and Brown continue their mission. They've attracted a veterinarian to the motel to serve as a vet-in-residence, and are hoping to turn an old strip bar next door into a turtle hospital.

■ Suspect kills self after standoff

At least two guns were found in the apartment, Sherl said.

Bastion was charged Friday in the slaying of a Tulsa couple. A 17-year-old friend also was charged with murder and arson, police said.

■ Exxon agrees to give depositions

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Exxon Corp.'s chairman and two of his top executives agreed for the first time to give depositions in a lawsuit over the Valdez oil spill.

The three agreed Thursday to be questioned by lawyers for Alaska Natives suing the company, contending the nation's largest oil spill damaged the natural resources they depend on for subsistence.

Exxon Chairman Lawrence G. Rawl will be questioned June 6. Augustus Elmer, president of Exxon Shipping Co., and D.G. Warner, president of Exxon Pipeline Co., will be questioned June 11-12 in Houston.

Their sworn statements will be taken by lawyers Lloyd Miller and Michael Hausfeld, who represent 18 Alaska Native villages that are suing the oil giant for $500 million.

"The purpose is to be able to understand what each witness knows and doesn't know and what he'll say and what he'll deny" during a trial, Hausfeld said.

The lawsuit is being heard in Washington by U.S. District Judge Stanley Sporkin, who in late April approved Hausfeld's request for statements from the Exxon executives.

■ Six killed in New York house fire

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — An overloaded extension cord sparked a searing blaze that melted metal on a firefighter's helmet and killed a woman, her daughter and her four grandchildren early Friday.

Fire Chief Donald Moriarity said the fire started accidentally when a faulty extension cord ignited a rug covering it.

The flames spread from the living room throughout the 2½-story wood-frame house within minutes, trapping the victims and generating such intense heat that firefighters were unable to reach them, he said.

"They managed to get inside. They got to the first room and it was just too much," Moriarity said. "It was fully engulfed when they got here."

Deputy Fire Chief Roland Nortman said the people inside the house died in temperatures that reached 2,000 degrees.

"It was so hot that a fireman had melted aluminum on his helmet," Nortman said.

One resident escaped the inferno. Monica Donovan, 14, was sleeping in the house when the fire started. She jumped from the second-story window and landed safely.

It was the deadliest fire in Syracuse in nearly a decade. Seven people died on July 6, 1981, when an angry husband set fire to his home after finding himself locked out.

■ MIT inaugurates its 15th president

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A new president officially took charge Friday at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology amid a controversy over the misuse of federal funds for research.

Charles M. Vest, 49, who has been serving in the office since last fall, was inaugurated as MIT's 15th president. He succeeded Paul E. Gray, who now serves as chairman of MIT's Board of Trustees.

Vest promised new initiatives to develop a high frequency optical communications network, to assess whether teaching has become subordinate to research and increase efforts to attract minorities and women.

He said charges that MIT and other universities misused federal research money "must not be allowed to weaken the basic concept of the American university system."

MIT is under investigation for the possible misuse of taxpayer money spent on overhead costs related to research. It already has returned some federal money that was found to have been used for receptions, gifts and legal fees.

"Public confidence in our universities must be fully restored," said Vest, former vice president of academic affairs at the University of Michigan.

■ Man wins second lottery in Ohio

MILFORD, Ohio (AP) — A man who won Ohio's Super Lotto jackpot twice in seven months celebrated Friday by planning a party and deciding whether to quit his job. And he's thinking about taking a trip — to Las Vegas.

Thomas Burton, 43, turned in his second winning ticket Thursday, bringing his combined lottery winnings to $8.1 million.

"I'm going to party a little," he said during an interview at his home, which he bought after he won a one-third share of a $13 million jackpot in August.

He took the day off Friday from his job at Ford Motor Co.'s Sharonville Transmission Plant near Cincinnati to spend it with his son Jamie, 20, daughter Shannon, 18, and his mother, Gertrude Burton, of West Palm Beach, Fla.

"When he told me, I just couldn't say anything. I just about fell out of my chair," Mrs. Burton said.

Burton, who is divorced, won a $4.3 million share that pays him $165,751 a year for 20 years in a lottery jackpot drawn Aug. 18. On Thursday, he won a $12 million jackpot from the March 23, 1991 drawing.

■ Baby gorilla born at National Zoo

WASHINGTON (AP) — A gorilla was born Friday to two members of a group assembled at the National Zoo to increase the population of the endangered species.

Mandara, a 9-year-old western lowland gorilla, gave birth to a full-term infant in the early hours of the morning, the zoo said. The last gorilla birth at the zoo occurred in 1972.

"At this time, mother and newborn are doing well," the zoo said in a statement.

Non-related gorillas of different ages and sexes from several zoos were brought together in 1986 to form an artificial family similar in social structure to gorilla groups in the wild, the zoo said.

Mandara reached puberty last year, but Gus, although capable of reproducing, was not expected to become a father for some time.

UFO Congress attracts 'space visitors'

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Omnec Onec, who landed here from Chicago, says life on her native planet, Venus, isn't all that different from life on Earth.

"It's like the desert areas here. It's amazing how adaptable the human species is," said Ms. Onec, one of 30 speakers at The World UFO Congress that landed here this month.

The conference drew about 400 people to a Tucson hotel and included speakers from 14 countries — and, uh, elsewhere — plus exhibits and copious amounts of literature for sale.

"Elvis: The UFO Connection" and "Why They Need Us, We Don't Need Them" were among available books, along with "Beamship Trainee" bumper stickers, "UFOs are Real" baseball caps and UFO yo-yos.

The mastermind of the extravaganza held May 3-7 was Wendelle C. Stevens, a 68-year-old retiree from Tucson who plunked down much of the $61,000 conference budget.

"We tried to introduce an exotic phenomena at an acceptable level," Stevens said, defending the credibility of all the speakers.

Many of those who showed up swapped UFO experiences. On the conference's second day, a woman burst into the hall claiming to have videotaped a mysterious object in the sky outside the hotel.

Tim Petro of San Francisco said he had attended several UFO lectures in the Bay area and had concluded "this is too far out for me." Some of the events at the Tucson gathering "raised sufficient doubt in my mind," he said.

Exhibits included samples of Moldavite — billed as a "gem that fell to Earth" — pyramid power and a demonstration intended to show how gravity is a push, not a pull.

"This one here some say is a bird," Ms. Braatelien said, pointing to a photo, "but when you blow (the photo) up, it looks like 'Star Trek.'"

Lecture subjects included the appearance of mysterious crop circles in England, underground UFO bases in the United States, cow abductions in Missouri and the kidnapping of witness Paula Watson of Mount Vernon, Mo.

Ms. Watson described how she was canning in her basement about seven years ago when she noticed a silvery alien with large eyes staring at her through a window after she witnessed a cow abduction by aliens earlier in the day.

Ms. Watson said she called out to the alien, who backed off, but she went to sleep and awoke on a spaceship.

"I was standing up on a white table and the ... alien was running his hands down my body, scanning my body," she said.

The speakers were a "Who's Who" in extraterrestrial phenomena, coming from Japan, the Soviet Union, Italy, Canada, Latin America and other countries, Stevens said.

Ms. Onec — who in her Earth life lives in Chicago and is known as Sheila Gipson — said she is from Teutonia, Venus, where her kind live in the astral-plane, as opposed to the physical.

Kennedys, Pulitzers, counts the talk of Palm Beach

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Even though the Kennedy rape case has monopolized the headlines, another scandal involving Roxanne Pulitzer has unfolded here, as life in this dazzling but often naughty town goes on.

As police issued an arrest warrant for William Kennedy Smith this week, Pulitzer returned to a familiar venue: the county courthouse where she is the "other woman" in a messy divorce and custody battle between her married boyfriend and a Canadian heiress.

Pulitzer, 40, took the stand in defense of her latest love, 30-year-old French count and sometime race car driver Jean de la Moussaye. She testified for three hours this week in a case involving accusations of cocaine and alcohol abuse, sex parties, bisexualism, physical abuse and suicide attempts.

Over lunch at Hamburger Heaven on Friday, a favorite with the town's Old Guard, Pulitzer said she regrets the similarities to her divorce from publishing heir Herbert Pulitzer in 1982.

"It's a very small town so people are talking about me in connection with this," she said, interrupting the conversation at times to blow kisses at friends. "Everyone knows everyone's business. But I think they see me differently now. They don't see me as a bimbo anymore."

Bimbo or not, Pulitzer still has a knack for attracting attention. During her testimony, she complained that her lover's wife has taught their daughter to call her bad names.

"She has three names for me — the slut, the whore, and 'piggy,' " Pulitzer testified.

Mrs. de La Moussaye said Friday that Pulitzer appeared in court to spite her. Mrs. de La Moussaye called her husband a lousy race car driver whose philandering drove her to drink.

"I was in such misery that whole marriage that I got smashed a few times, I couldn't help it," she said. "I was supporting the whole family on my trust fund and he was out cheating on me. Then he calls me an alcoholic."

Talk of the the Pulitzer case has begun to circulate in the town's tony restaurants, beauty salons and posh boutiques.

"People don't have anything to do here," said Pam Perry, the great-granddaughter of one of the founders of Miami Beach and a friend of Pulitzer. "They don't work so they sit around and gossip all day. The gossip in this town is out of control."

The start of summer is normally very slow for Palm Beachers. Even the local newspaper, The Palm Beach Post, does without a society columnist during the hot months when many flee to their summer homes in Newport, R.I., or Southampton, N.Y.

If it weren't for the Kennedys and the Pulitzers, the only real news would be the annual three-week invasion of sea lice, which even keep the lifeguards away from the ocean.

"It seems like there's always some weird thing going on here," said Wahid Mahmood, 28, of Boca Raton, who was shopping with a friend on ritzy Worth Avenue. "First I see all the stuff about the Kennedys and now Roxanne's in the papers again."

Pulitzer, who has written several books and does motivational lectures on divorce and custody battles, now speaks with the fervor of an evangelist.

"I didn't want to even get into this," she said about the divorce trial of de la Moussaye, who is battling his wife for custody of their two children, ages 1 and 3.

"I didn't want my kids to have to hear about their mother again. But I feel what I'm doing is right."

Stanford dismisses professor

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Stanford University fired a computer science lecturer Friday after he flaunted his drug use and told the nation's drug czar he wanted "to make fools" of those leading the war on drugs.

Senior lecturer Stuart Reges accused Stanford of bowing to political pressure from Bob Martinez, director of the office of national drug control policy, who complained about Reges in a letter to Stanford President Donald Kennedy last month.

Reges, 32, had written Martinez in March, saying he often carried drugs in his backpack while on campus and criticized the federal anti-drug efforts.

Martinez responded by threatening to pull federal funding if Stanford kept teachers such as Reges on campus in violation of new federal rules that require anti-drug policies at schools.

"Stanford didn't care about what I was doing until they got a letter from Martinez," Reges said after he was fired. "I'm not entirely surprised by this, but it's clear they're doing this out of government pressure."

Reges, who had been at Stanford for nearly a dozen years but was not tenured, said he planned to fight his dismissal. He said he never taught while on drugs.

Stanford administrators say Reges was fired not for advocating drugs, but for carrying them in his backpack and for letting some underage students drink alcoholic beverages during a school outing.

"These violations of policy coupled with your refusal to undertake to observe the (anti-drug) policy in the future, in my view, constitute very serious professional misconduct," the engineering school dean, James Gibbons, wrote to Reges in his termination letter.

Reges said he let students drink alcohol on the recent school outing because they were at least 18 years old and making their own adult decisions. And he refuses to apologize for his drug use.

Reges began publicly speaking about his recreational drug use last fall, telling the campus newspaper he favored an amphetamine derivative MDA, commonly known as Ecstasy.

Stanford administrators appeared to have ignored Reges until he wrote Martinez. But Associate Engineering Dean Ken Down said Friday that the university actually had started investigating Reges several months ago.

MALE PERSONAL ADS

I am a 31-year-old divorced Caucasian male, 6'2", 174 lbs., nonsmoker or drinker, nice looking, clean, well-groomed and neatly dressed. I have brown eyes, black hair, and black trimmed beard. Don't go to bars or clubs. Tired of being hurt and used by women with no feelings. I have lots of love and a home to give to the right woman. Must be willing to have a one-person, lasting relationship. Own my home and have no dependents and want someone special to share my life with. Please include phone number when responding.

NOW May Just Be The Best Time To Buy A New Car, Truck or Van!

HERE'S WHY:

You AUTO Buy Now

DEALER INVENTORIES ARE HIGH
Dealers anticipated better sales earlier this year, and inventories are much higher than expected. When dealers say they are overstocked and have to move cars out, it isn't hype.

FINANCE RATES ARE FAVORABLE
The Permian Basin is getting stronger every day. The Midland Auto Dealers are wanting to make it even better by offering better selections and better prices. And since interest rates have been coming down, you'll find financing rates in your favor.

DEALER COSTS

TRADE-IN ALLOWANCES ARE GOOD
Dealers want clean, quality trade-ins to keep for their used car inventory. Consequently your current car is worth more as a trade-in than in recent times.

Call 687-8807
Chris Bradford
For More Information

PART-TIME INCOME AVAILABLE

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which need to be filled with qualified, responsible individuals.

OFTEN ASKED QUESTIONS:

Is it worthwhile for adults also?

Yes! Our current carrier force is already 90% adult and 10% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
- ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a carrier, you do not need daycare!
- COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends.

The actually delivery takes 1 - 2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2 - 3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many carrier's choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!

When do papers have to be delivered by?

6 a.m. Monday - Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Do I ever get a day off?

The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, carriers do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!
