Texas politics, often likened to a three-ring circus, has added attractions this year, and it appears that the end is not in sight.

It is difficult to quarrel with the State Supreme Court's ruling on state financing of primary elections. If anyone besides the legislature can appropriate state funds for any purpose, it is high time that somebody plugged the gap. The legislature itself does so well in this field that it doesn't need any help.

Also, it is difficult to justify the state paying for primary elections, regardless of how and by whom the money is appropriated. This should be the responsibility of the political parties.

Dolph Briscoe is right on target when he says that the political parties should have assessed reasonable filing fees some time ago, back when it was first discovered that some of them were getting out of line. Filing fees have not been ruled out altogether. The Federal Court ruling on this issue did throw out the filing fee system as it had been applied in Texas, but only because some of the fees had gone so high that potentially serious candidates for office could have been frozen out.

If filing fees are indeed out altogether, then perhaps we should go back to the convention system of nominating candidates and forget the primaries.

At this stage it appears that a special session of the legislature will be required to appropriate money to finance the primary elections. It is too bad that the money which will be required to pay for the special session cannot be applied to the primary election expenses. If the state must pay for them, this would be quite a saving.

St. Patrick's Day is just around the corner and a recent delivery of mail brought an invitation to join the "Committee to Make St. Patrick's Day a Legal Holiday."

Pat O'Brien, the actor and operator of an establishment in the New Orleans French Quarter, is the honorary national chairman of this "committee," which appears appropriate.

It also appears appropriate that such people as the O'Keefes, the O'Hallorans and O'Learys should be active members of the committee. But the spirit of true brotherhood must be involved, because one committeeman is listed as Ziggie Czarobski.

The committee is not lacking in optisim. They are advising calendar printers to mark time on their 1973 issues until their case gets action.

But this is only the first of a long line of objectives the committee has in mind. Once the holiday issue is resolved they have served notice that they will seek to build an undersea tunnel connecting the River Shannon with the Mississippi. They also hope to develop green oranges and have expressed a desire that baseball teams like the Chicago Green Sox and Boston Green Sox play their games on Astro Clover.

SHARPEST RISE IN A YEAR

Wholesale Prices Climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices of food and a wide range of industrial products climbed an over-all nine-tenths of one per cent last month for the sharpest rise in a year, the government reported today.

Prices of farm products and processed foods, some of which are exempt from federal price controls, rose 1.9 per cent and prices of industrial raw materials and manufactured products went up five-tenths of one per cent, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The over-all February wholesale price rise, generally a signal of rising consumer prices later, was a little less—seven-tenths of one per cent—on an adjusted basis for expected seasonal price changes. On the seasonal basis, the increase was the largest since December.

The report also said that the unadjusted rise of nine-tenths of one per cent would have been seven-tenths if agricultural products not subject to federal controls were eliminated.

It said that of the 1.9 per cent climb for farm products and processed foods, one per cent of it was for uncontrolled agricultural products such as raw fruits and vegetables, eggs and livestock.

The report said that the average monthly rise in the Wholesale Price Index since President Nixon imposed the wage-price freeze last August was four-tenths of one per cent, compared with a monthly average hike of three-tenths in the six months before the federal control program.

For the three months since Nixon's freeze gave way to the more relaxed control program, the monthly average rise was six-tenths of one per cent, the bureau said.

The February increase lifted the Wholesale Price Index for all commodities to 117.3 per cent of its 1967 average, four per cent above a year earlier.

The index figure means it cost wholesalers $117.30 last month on the average for goods worth $100 five years ago.

Southern Pacific Struck By UTU

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The United Transportation Union struck the Southern Pacific Railroad today in a dispute over eliminations of switchman's jobs, George Lechner, UTU vice president said.

The surprise strike at 6 a.m. left nearly 11,000 commuters stranded on the San Francisco Peninsula as picketing began throughout the Southern Pacific system from El Paso to Portland, Ore.

About 20,000 employes of Southern Pacific are represented by the UTU, Lechner said, including conductors, trainmen, enginemen, brakemen and switchmen.

Lechner said the strike was called without notice to the carrier because Southern Pacific had "eliminated switchmen's jobs contrary to a national agreement made Jan. 27."

About 20 of some 250 SP Switchmen's jobs have been eliminated and more were to be abolished, Lechner said. He said the railroad was assigning the switchmen's yard work in "herding" trains to brakemen as an additional brakeman's duty.

A Southern Pacific spokesman said only the first two commuter runs from San Jose to San Francisco were completed today. Twenty others were on the schedule.

"Our major concern is the effect of commuting operations in the Peninsula," the spokesman said. "There was absolutely no advance notice."

The strike is affecting all of SP's Pacific lines, which served Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, California, Oregon and El Paso, Tex., SP said. The Texas-Louisiana service and service on the Cotton Belt subsidiary into Missouri are not affected, a spokesman added.

Cargoes of perishable freight will be kept moving with supervisory personnel, the spokesman said.

Priest Testifies Sharp Encouraged Investment

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — A Jesuit priest testified today he did not know the market value of stock he bought from House Speaker Gus Mutscher and others in 1969.

The Rev. Michael Francis Kennelly, his clasped hands constantly in motion as he twisted his fingers, testified at Mutscher's bribery conspiracy trial.

He said Mutscher and one of the co-defendants, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth, were present in the Sharpstown State Bank on Sept. 11, 1969, when the Jesuit Fathers of Houston Inc. paid $20 a share for 33,800 shares of National Bankers Life Insurance Co. stock.

This was two days after the legislature approved banking legislation sought by Houston promoter Frank Sharp.

Earlier testimony showed the average market price of the stock that day was $14.75 a share.

Father Kennelly said Sharp told him it was a good investment.

"I generally sought his advice on matters financial," Father Kennelly said.

The former president of Sharpstown State Bank, Joe Novotny, testified Thursday that Sharp personally ordered the bank to make $589,758 in unsecured loans to two of the state's top three officials and four other aides or associates.

"I was presented with a list of names by Mr. Sharp," Joe Novotny testified Thursday in a barely audible voice at the bribery conspiracy trial of Speaker Gus Mutscher. "He told me to fund the loans in the amounts shown by the names.

"I was to have checking accounts opened for those names, and I was to be given instructions later on what to do with them."

Novotny, a modish young man with wide-set brown eyes, said the list Sharp gave him contained these names and amounts:

—Gov. Preston Smith and his financial confidant, then state Democratic chairman, Elmer Baum, $275,000.

—Mutscher $130,250.

—Mutscher's father, Gus F. Mutscher Sr., $62,250.

—Rep. Tommy Shannon, Fort Worth, Mutscher's chief House lieutenant, $49,929.

—Rush McGinty, Mutscher's top administrative aide, $49,929.

—F.C. "Sonny" Schulte, another Mutscher aide, $22,400.

Mutscher, Shannon and McGinty are being tried on a charge of conspiring to accept a bribe from Sharp in exchange for their help on banking legislation Sharp wanted passed by the Legislature.

Churchmen Plead For Prayer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Roman Catholic and Protestant prelates of Ulster appealed today to the Irish to resort to prayer instead of bombs.

The church leaders' pre-Easter plea, however, coincided with the latest bomb blast, which wrecked a wallpaper store in Belfast. No one was injured.

The Most. Rev. George O. Simms, Protestant primate of all Ireland, and the president of the Methodist Church, Dr. Charles H. Bain, called on "all Christians in this island to mark Good Friday—March 31—as a day of national mourning, repentance and renewal."

William Cardinal Conway, Roman Catholic primate of all Ireland, said he wishes to be associated with the appeal. Cardinal Conway also called for three days of prayer to "save our country from its present grave troubles."

As the churchmen made their plea, the army said two men planted a bomb in a shop owned by Belfast's mayor designate, William Christie. The bombers gave the staff 25 minutes to escape the blast.

Hearings Resume On Deferments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service told local draft boards today they may resume hearing the appeals of thousands of young men seeking deferments or exemptions.

The action ended a three-month freeze on such hearings before 4,100 local boards.

Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr said the move completes a two-year overhaul of the draft system, moving it from a state-local focus to President Nixon's goal of a national system.

With Tarr's order, action can be taken on the 22,486 men who at last count on Jan. 31, had pending requests for personal appearances before draft boards or appeals to state and national boards. Several thousand others have applied since then and are awaiting action.

Tarr suspended all deferment hearings on Dec. 10 to re-evaluate the original reclassification proposals that had been criticized as unfair. When revamped rules were issued Jan. 12 he kept the brakes on so those seeking deferments or exemptions could take advantage of the revised rules.

One of several new rules announced today allows a registrant who has his draft callup postponed to receive consideration from his local board for a reopening of his classification proceedings.

This is an amendment to the Jan. 12 rule that gives a man 15 days after his draft classification is mailed to request a personal appearance or to appeal.

The new rules also require state appeals boards and the national appeals board to give at least 15 days notice when a man is granted a personal appearance. Previously no personal appearances were granted before appeals boards.

Another change permits draftees to bring witnesses on their behalf before local boards.

The new rules also require:

—A quorum of board members to be present during a man's personal appearance.

—At least 15 minutes for each appellant's presentation. The limit is to prevent harassment of boards but the board may grant more time.

—A man's local board—as well as appeals boards—to give him the reasons for rejection of his classification request.

FDA Bans Most Lead In Paint

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration today banned all except trace amounts of lead in paint by the end of 1973 "to minimize the health hazard to future generations."

Over vigorous protests from the paint industry, the FDA ordered reduction of lead in paint from one per cent to five-tenths of one per cent by the end of 1972 and to six-hundredths of one per cent by the end of 1973.

An estimated 400,000 children suffer from lead poisoning which can cause brain damage and death. Flaking paint in pre-World War II housing has been identified as a major source of lead poisoning.

Dr. Merlin K. DuVal, assistant secretary of Health and Scientific Affairs in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, told a Senate subcommittee today that lead paint poisoning results in 200 deaths annually and costs the nation $200 million a year in lost earnings and care of victims.

FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards said he may decide later to speed up the de-leading order after the industry has provided additional information by April 7.

"Consideration will also be given in late 1973 to petitions for extension of the implementation date upon a showing that the public health will not be jeopardized and that technological necessity requires additional time to meet the six-hundredths of one per cent maximum lead level," he said.

The FDA said some paint companies have reported they could meet the requirement sooner than the deadline.

The ban will apply to paint intended for use on residential interior surfaces, toys and other childrens articles.

Dole Makes Counter Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Dole, the Republican national chairman, said today the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. appears to have violated the law twice by agreeing to install telephones at the Democratic National Convention in Miami despite a $1.5 million outstanding debt from the 1968 convention.

In a news conference in which he presented a Republican counter-attack against claims the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. agreed to underwrite part of this year's GOP convention in favor of handling federal antitrust cases against the firm, Dole said of the alleged AT&T arrangement:

"This is a very substantial contribution to the Democrat Committee from one single corporation—substantially more than the $100,000 guarantee to the city of San Diego which has been falsely alleged to have been given to the Republican National Convention."

EPA Orders Ban On Pesticides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency ordered an immediate halt today to interstate shipment of pesticides registered for predator control and began a recall of existing stocks.

Included in the ban was thallium sulfate, a rodent poison often misused to control livestock predators.

The federal government last Feb. 8 barred the use of poisons for predator control on public land and in federal programs except in emergencies.

The action by William D. Ruckelshaus today, however, takes these poisons off the commercial market immediately while opening action toward their permanent cancellation from the federal registration program. Ruckelshaus is administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The action affects 19 products containing four poisonous compounds: thallium sulfate, cyanide, strychnine, and sodium monofluoracetate, commonly known as "1080."

Two more thallium sulfate products were suspended last June as the probable cause of 20 eagle killings in Wyoming.

Ruckelshaus said the predator poisons "represent an imminent hazard to the public welfare through the indiscriminate destruction of our valuable wildlife resources."

Farmers and ranchers have often used the poisons in bait set out to kill animals which attack their cattle and sheep, but the poisons sometimes find their way to other innocent species killing them instead.

Arkansas Suit Is Dismissed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A suit challenging the 1971 Arkansas legislative redistricting was dismissed today by a three-judge federal court panel.

William Kelly of Little Rock, chairman of the Pulaski County Republican Committee, had filed the lawsuit contending the redistricting plan was unconstitutional.

The plan was drafted by the state Board of Apportionment, which is composed of three Democrats—Gov. Dale Bumpers, Atty. Gen. Ray Thornton and Secretary of State Kelly Bryant.

Hypochondriac's hubby needs a doctor, too

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a hypochondriac. She complains night and unfortunately, day. If one thing doesn't hurt her, something else does. She either can't sleep or she can't stay awake.

I have been sympathetic, but I am all worn out from listening to her. I can't get a good night's sleep, and the hours awake with her are a bore.

Her doctor said there is nothing wrong with her, but he keeps her well supplied with "tranquilizers" which are really just pills with nothing in them. [She complains about the "reaction" she gets from them, too.]

There is an Alcoholics Anonymous and a Gamblers Anonymous. Tell me, is there a Hypochondriacs Anonymous?

THE REAL SUFFERER

DEAR SUFFERER: One who complains night and day about pains, imagined or real, can't sleep and can't stay awake, and has "reactions" from pills with nothing in them, is suffering in every sense of the word. Ask the doctor who said there was nothing wrong with her to recommend a doctor who treats "healthy" people with your wife's symptoms. And don't put it off, or you'll need treatment, too.

DEAR ABBY: I am a well-adjusted male homosexual who occasionally needs a female companion to accompany me to business and social functions. Conversely, I have female homosexual acquaintances who also need a male escort for certain occasions, and therefore we "help each other out."

The problem arises when I go out with the girl as a favor to her. Should I be expected to pick up the check for the entire evening?

I have had evenings which have cost me $30 and more. I hate to be a cheapskate, but I can't afford many of these outings. How do you suggest this be handled?

PERPLEXED HOMOSEXUAL

DEAR PERPLEXED: Since you obviously are perfectly candid about why you "help each other out," level with each other in the matter of the finances. The one who needs the favor should pick up the check.

DEAR ABBY: We have a neighbor who is constantly painting his house. Altho he has aluminum siding, he keeps painting the trim around the windows.

He uses a very small brush and keeps going round and round the house, and when he's finished he scrapes off the paint and starts to paint it all over again.

Another odd thing he does: When he paints the second story trim he leaves the can of paint on the ground, dips his little brush into the paint, climbs up the ladder and paints. And when he needs more paint he descends the ladder, dips his brush into the paint and climbs the ladder and paints some more.

I have watched him by the hour, completely fascinated. I wonder, is there something wrong with this man?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Possibly not. Maybe he just enjoys the fresh air and exercise. Or likes to paint!

CONFIDENTIAL TO B. B.: From constantly rubbing up against a rich man, a poor man will get a hole in his sleeve.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Keysor Authors Swearing Bill

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — It would be legal to swear in front of a woman under a bill introduced in the state Assembly.

Assemblyman Jim Keysor, who authored the bill, said a state law making swearing in the presence of women a misdemeanor is "demeaning to women." He added, "In the groups I travel around in everyone uses expressive language."

3 Jailed In Bank Robbery

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Two women were home safe, three men jailed and two other men being hunted early today in the wake of a bank robbery, kidnaping and cross-county auto chase.

A four-hour drama began at noon Thursday, when four armed men held up University State Bank here and fled with two women bank employes as hostages.

After fleeing in a private car to a south side residence, the men held guns to the women's heads while they highjacked a Fort Worth police car that had pursued the robbers.

What followed was two and a half hours of terror for the hostages—Mrs. Della Green and Mrs. Joan McCullough—as the men drove the commandeered police car for about 40 miles around northern and eastern Fort Worth in an effort to escape.

The women and the robbers alternately talked to the Fort Worth central police dispatchers, the women begging for the police to be called away from the car and the robbers threatening to kill their hostages.

At about 1:45 p.m., one of the men left the car and about 45 minutes later the remaining three men released their hostages, giving them the police car.

An hour later police, Texas Rangers and Department of Public Safety officers found the three men hiding in a storm drain just off the Eastside Freeway where they'd fled the car.

The men were taken from the drain without resistance.

Arraigned were Lovell Lewis, 21; O. C. Washington, 32 and Eddie Glenn Griffin, 25, all of Fort Worth.

An intense manhunt remained underway late Thursday for the fourth man and a fifth man police said was part of the robbery plot, but who fled the scene at the bank.

The robbers took an amount estimated at well over $15,000 from the bank. Most of the money was recovered with the captured men. Police said they believed the missing fourth man has the remaining money.

Brain Surgery Criticized

HOUSTON (AP) — An enraged critic of behavior-control brain operations confronts government-sponsored practitioners of the surgery in a medical showdown at a symposium today.

Dr. Peter R. Breggin, a Washington, D.C. psychiatrist, is scheduled to present a paper highly critical of the brain operations performed, he says, "for the avowed purpose of managing and controlling the difficult individual, both the aggressive ... child and the violent adult."

He will speak before a symposium on the neural bases of violence and aggression. The audience will include a number of doctors who perform lobotomies and other behavior-control operations.

In an interview Thursday, Breggin said there has been increased numbers of such operations, called psycho-surgery, in recent years, despite the fact that they are of questionable value.

Doctors performing psycho-surgery use electrical heat or other agents to kill parts of the brain, he said.

Breggin said the operations in the United States now number 400 to 600 a year and include children five years old and younger.

He said many of the operations have recently been performed under a U.S. Department of Justice grant to explore ways of screening violence-prone persons.

Breggin said the operations are being performed on "people who have relatively intact personalities" and often result in a severely altered personality.

"To mutilate them in order to calm them down is a terrible thing," he said.

The operations were frequently performed at institutions three decades ago, he said, but declined in use in the 1950s with discovery of new drugs. Now, he said, the operations are enjoying a revival.

"We're just at the beginning of a second wave (of such operations)" Breggin said. "The first one took 50,000 victims."

The largest group receiving the operations, he said, are neurotic women in their 40s and 50s. This is because, he said, they can suffer brain damage and yet return to their homes and continue to function as housewives.

"A man will put up with a very brain-damaged housekeeper," he said.

Breggin said the operations generally have proven to be of no real value.

"You can't help a man by putting a defect into his personality," he said. "It's like treating a car which has a knock by firing bullets into it. Lobotomies are partial abortions of living individuals."

Plea Is Entered

George R. Fuqua of Abilene pleaded guilty Thursday in county court to a charge of giving a check with insufficient funds. He received a 30-day jail term plus court costs. The offense occurred Dec. 6, 1972.

Nixon Show Premieres

MIAMI (AP) — President Nixon's campaigners have come up with a political vaudeville show that features musicians, comedians, pretty girls and politicians, all seeking a performance at the polls by loyalist Republicans.

It played Miami Thursday night, with Lionel Hampton on the vibraphone, Red Skelton providing the comedy routines and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California heading the political troupe.

Reagan, once an actor, was prompted to remark that he felt "a little like I did when I was back in the business and doing benefits."

The political benefits are staged in search of votes for an absent President who seeks re-election but has foresworn personal campaigning until late next summer.

The Nixon campaign showmen staged their first one-night stand in Manchester, N.H., a week ago.

Except for Hampton and his band, the cast was different in Miami, but the objective was the same: turn out a crowd, urge out the GOP vote and seek a primary election landslide for the President.

Nixon got 70 per cent of the Republican vote in New Hampshire Tuesday, with liberal Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California second at 20 per cent and conservative Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio capturing x0 per cent.

Six Tax Experts' Results Differ

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Six tax consultants here came up with six different results when asked for help in filling out a federal income tax return.

The maximum difference was $454. One consultant said the taxpayer owed $77. Another said a refund of $377 was due.

An Associated Press writer and his wife went to the consultants for advice on filling out their joint return with itemized deductions. The couple pretended to know little about possible deductions but gave the same information to each consultant when asked for it.

Some of the consultants found legitimate deductions, such as damage to the family car that was not covered by collision insurance.

Others listed deductions such as ordinary sunglasses, which the Internal Revenue Service says are only deductible if worn on jobs where they are an absolute necessity.

Some of the consultants say in their advertising that they will appear with the taxpayer if he has to go to court over his return.

David Kestler, chief tax auditor for the IRS office here, noted in an interview that "the person who signs the return is responsible for everything that's in it."

One consultant failed to suggest many legitimate deductions that the couple was entitled to, such as the husband's alimony payments.

Only one of the consultants went beyond the usual question about doctor bills and medicine costs to discover that the newsman was entitled to a deduction for the cost of crutches and special shoe supports needed because of a broken leg.

The deductions and the final figures weren't the only places where the tax experts differed. The fees ranged from $27 to $50.

One firm of a national chain charged $50, while another office of the same chain a mile away charged $35.

One IRS consultant was stumped by a question of whether the newsman's education expenses to better qualify him for his job were deductible.

"Gee," said the consultant. "That's a tough one. Let me ask someone else."

After 14 minutes of reading the IRS instructions and much debate among three consultants, it was decided that the education expenses might be deductible.

The newsman was sent to see the IRS' Kestler, who apologized because he would have to take time to consult with another auditor before giving an answer the next day.

Interior Decorator Predicts Trend Towards Romantic

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

If you want to know how a trend in decorating begins, just ask Ellen Lehman McCluskey, one of the world's most versatile interior designers. She predicts we are heading toward a romantic age in decorating. And she is helping it evolve.

"It is happening because the world needs coziness. People are ready for it because we all want to shut out unpleasantries and envelop ourseves in cocoons," says the blonde dynamo who began the tented look in furnishings.

Restaurants, clubs, yachts, health spas and homes are being swaddled in tents, upholstered walls and nostalgic accessories. Mrs. McCluskey also sees a revival of lace curtains and peach bedrooms, all part of a romantic scene. And in the dining room the use of multitables will provide intimacy and coziness for home dinner parties.

Whether it is a pied-a-terre in New York City or a 54-room Tudor mansion in Greenwich, Conn., or hotels in Hamburg, London, Nassau and Caracas each place Mrs. McCluskey has decorated with that romantic look will have its stamp of individuality.

It may take a cultural twist as it did in the lobby of the Oaks Hotel in Houston, Tex., where the walls are decorated in 18th century art bought at local art galleries. It might be an old German look for a hotel in Hamburg, a hunting lodge look for a hotel-motel in Toronto.

Years ago when she began the tented look, it went into the bar of the Regency Hotel in New York. More recently a striped tent "reminiscent of the lavish field headquarters of Wellington" was used in the dining room of the newly built Churchill in London.

The restaurant Le Pavillon has been redone with a tent of grey, red and white stripes with romantic banquets and alcoves. And a recently reopened night club, El Morrocco, was given the piece-de-resistance of romantic intrique—a Casbah room swathed from ceiling to floor in bright paisleys.

The American Stock Exchange, where she decorated four restaurants, one frequented by women has murals reminiscent of old day liners, curlicue Thonet chairs, gingerbread bric-a-brac, old lamps and Victorian glass.

Men like her decoration because it isn't frilly. Women like it because the backgrounds flatter their fashion and makeup. She uses red, a flattering color for women, in many man-frequented public places.

Mrs. McCluskey's biggest office job to date—20 executive offices and 20 dining rooms for McGraw Hill—will stress the eclectic look because "all the men except two chose traditional furnishings." Each coffice will be different, but each one will be as warmly decorated as possible.

Nowhere is Mrs. McCluskey's tent look more precisely emphasized than in the dining room of her daughter, Sharon. Draperies fall from the blue and white striped tented ceiling, and the flaps hanging from white rods envelop the room but can be draped easily around doors, windows, and mirrors.

Her own Park Avenue apartment is eclectic—mainly 18th century with abstract art. The walls are lacquered in a claret color. Quick to spot a furniture trend, the decorator has just bought a sofa designed by Vladimir Kagan that she considers the newest idea for youth—it has arms and a back that one can sit on or lean on.

"This is what it is all about. Being comfortable and cozy is part of the whole romantic decorating theme," she points out. "Youth recognizes it right away. They are ready for charming things. ..."

A graduate of Vassar with a Masters degree from Columbia, Mrs. McCluskey studied at the New York School of Interior design.

With her brother Orin Lehman, she founded "Just One Break," the charitable organization that provides job training and placement for the physically handicapped.

Alpha Study Club Meets

Alpha Study Club met Feb. 8 at Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. John E. Sentell as hostess to sixteen members and one guest Mr. Joe Sentell.

Mr. Sentell gave a talk "New Light on a Hidden Killer" and showed a film on the heart, noting that heart disease is the number one killer.

The study club met Feb. 22 at the clubhouse with Mrs. Ixon Joyce as hostess. Mrs. Roy Carter gave an interesting program on "Our Poison Planet." Her talk on ecology was very informative to the group.

On March Alpha Study Club and Twentieth Century Club met jointly at Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. Amil Kruse and Mrs. Earl McWhirter as hostesses.

Miss Virginia Groves introduced Emilio Vargas, the foreign exchange student from Costa Rica. Emilio gave a very colorful talk on his country and told the group of some of the problems his country faces today. He also showed slides in conjunction with his talk.

A Season For Love

SUMMER SITUATIONS. By Ann Birstein. Coward, McCann. $5.95.

There are three novellas in this book. In each case women are the central figures, and quite bitchy types they are, too. The title happens to refer to the fact that the scenes are in summertime, which may or may not be an excuse for what the characters do.

"Love in the Dunes" is about two families from a faculty background, sharing a summer house at the beach. One of the wives, Shirley, has an itch for the other husband, Charlie; she doesn't particularly care whether her husband Max flirts with Charlie's wife Marlene. The cautious Charlie is seduced by Shirley, but the twist is that she realizes it's only a summer game, unlikely to continue when they all return to the campus.

"How I Spent My Summer Vacation" is a depressing little tale set on Cape Cod, in which a second wife messes up everything when her husband's son by his first marriage arrives, not very willingly. It is a case of a second wife versus a first wife.

"When the Wind Blew" takes place in Paris, in June of 1952, in which a young woman on a Fulbright scholarship, who is living with a very handsome male classmate, tells about the tricks of the arty crowd. But the real oddball in this yarn is a bossy old biddy who was their former teacher, who turns up for the purpose of carrying off the young woman's handsome friend.

It would be inaccurate to say that these stories appeal to soap opera fans. They are too full of smart talk, and keyed too much to the "in" things to suit the ordinary fans. All the same, and despite the overt sophistication, and the catty observations, they come right down to what used to be called the sob sister act.

WOMEN

Man's Best Friend

UNDERSTANDING YOUR DOG. By Dr. Michael Wm Fox. Coward, McCann. $7.95.

Dogs, for thousands of years, have been close to man, often sharing a togetherness hardly found between two people.

Fox, who holds a degree in veterinary medicine and psychology, is the author of a rather unusual book on dog psychology, based on his study of canine behavior and temperament. He frequently refers to wolves, considered to be the closest cousin of dogs.

The doctor emphasizes that a trainable puppy depends upon his early environment and first impressions of the world. An environment that stimulates puppy curiosity and activity should make him easier to train, to become a valuable work-dog or companion.

The book discusses theories of dog ancestry and has interesting illustrations and pictures of their body language and facial expressions, such as the curious dog grin, not a snarl that Fox says might have been acquired by imitating man.

Man's reluctance to be separated from his dog is obvious, especially in crowded urban areas. For many people, living without a pet dog, even if the apartment is tiny, is unthinkable. Besides, a barking dog has unnerved many a potential burglar.

How well can a dog adjust to the confines of high rise apartments, without so much as a flight of stairs to exercise his limbs? Maybe, with the love and care of a well informed dog owner, he'll survive.

Spending Paradox Is Reversed This Year

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — At this time last year the question was why business spending wasn't picking up, even though consumers were giving tentative signs that they were willing to expand their spending plans.

If consumers were getting ready to spend more, shouldn't business also spend in order to expand and meet the demand? It would seem so and that is why some economists couldn't make sense out of the pattern.

This year the paradox is reversed. Consumer spending, though fairly strong, isn't showing the increase that many government and industry forecasters had looked for. It still could develop.

Business spending, however, is almost certain to be much stronger than a year ago, if the surveys are to be believed. One after another survey shows the same thing: Plans are big and growing bigger.

It is for this reason that some economists are holding to their projections of a $100-billion advance this year in the Gross National Product, unswayed by the nervousness of those who are concerned about sluggish retail trade.

William Freund, vice president and chief economist of the New York Stock Exchange, expresses his view this way:

"Durable goods orders are higher; contract awards are rising; and (business) spending intentions, whether measured by the Department of Commerce or private agencies, all point strongly in an upward direction.

"With corporate profits increasing some 15 per cent after taxes, with cash flows up even more, business outlays for new plant and equipment will rise at least 10 per cent in the year ahead.

"In the annals of our economic history, there have been few times when the ground seemed to be quite so ripe for a broad-based and vigorous cyclical expansion as now."

You can't be more specific than that.

Last year capital spending showed a 1.9 per cent increase over a year earlier, worst in a decade. This year, a Commerce Department survey indicates a gain of 10.5 per cent, or $8.6 billion, to a total of $89.7 billion.

An earlier Commerce Department survey issued in January indicated the gain would be only 9.1 per cent. And a projection by the President's Council of Economic Advisers, also issued in January, reached only 8 per cent.

In the view of many enonomists the anticipated increase in spending by business will largely offset the disappointing figures for consumer spendingm Retail sales are described as unexciting, and consumers are somewhat reluctant to increase their use of installment credit.

Who's right? Consumers or industry?

Echeverria Gets Big Welcome

TOKYO (AP) — President Luis Echeverria of Mexico received a red carpet welcome from Emperior Hirohito and other members of the Imperial family on his arrival for a six-day state visit.

The visit, which began Wednesday, is the 50-year-old president's first trip overseas since he took office in 1970. Much of his activity in Japan will be aimed at increasing trade and economic links between Mexico and Japan.

Freeze Extended On Utilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission says it will announce new regulations on utility rates next week, but meanwhile it's keeping the freeze on an extra 15 days.

The freeze on utility rates was to have ended Friday, but the commission Wednesday ordered an extension to March 25.

Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said the extension would allow additional time to implement proposed changes in rules governing rates of electric, telephone, telegraph and gas firms, and railroads, airlines and other regulated transportation.

The freeze holds rates at the level of Feb. 10, when the freeze was announced.

After hearings last week, a commission staff member said commissioners felt there was strong evidence supporting the contention of electric and telephone utilities that they need large rate hikes to catch up with rising fuel and equipment costs and higher interest rates.

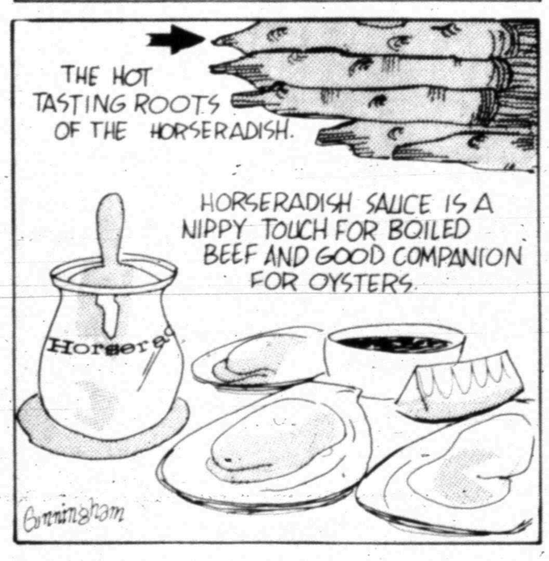

Powell To Leave Hospital

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell, the former Harlem congressman, is expected to leave Jackson Memorial Hospital by week's end.

Powell, 63, was airlifted from his Bimini retreat by a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter Monday after a four-month-old prostrate operation developed complications and began bleeding, hospital officials said.

Powell, who was listed in fair condition, said Wednesday he will have to undergo further surgery at a later date.

Junior Editors Quiz on HORSERADISH

QUESTION: What is horseradish?

ANSWER: Horseradish is a herb which belongs to the mustard family. It is a perennial plant native to South and Central Europe. The plant is now cultivated everywhere. It has large leaves on long stalks and a large root. It is this root which is used to make the relish. Farmers collect the roots, leaving some part of the root to start next year's crop.

The root will hold its potency for a long time before it is ground. After the root is grated, it is preserved in vinegar to hold its sharp taste until it is ready for use. Horseradish has such a strong, biting taste, it appeals to many people as a garnish for meats. It is also used in cocktail sauces for shellfish.

It is raised in the United States on farms and in gardens. Many people like to secure the horseradish fresh from their market and grate the root themselves. Many of the commercial horseradish relishes are toned down with oils and other ingredients and lack that sting or bite so dear to the epicure.

STEAK SUPPER—Members of the Snyder High School varsity and junior varsity basketball teams for the past season and their dates were honored by their parents at a steak supper held last night in the Christian student Center at Western Texas College.

Lobos Invade Towle Diamond

Snyder's Tigers, trying to improve on a perfect 3-0 record, will host Monahans' Lobos at 4 o'clock this afternoon on the Towle Park diamond.

Coach Speedy Moffett of the Tigers has given the pitching assignment to Marvin McClanahan. It will be the junior right-hander's first start. Since McClanahan usually plays third base some changes in the lineup were necessitated. Moffett changed the batting order and has installed Charles Anderson at third with James Hood at second.

Probable starters, according to batting order, are Butch Buchanan cf, Tommy Washington ss, David Thompson lf, Albert Hernandez rf, Scotty Sullivan 1b, James Hood 2b, Charles Anderson 3b, Louis Loyd c, and Marvin McClanahan p.

The same two teams tangle Saturday in a doubleheader.

Mitchell Has Slim Lead At Orlando

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Mitchell gambled and won—this time—but pro golf's grim-eyed high rollers were in hot pursuit of the drawling Virginian today in the second round of the $150,000 Florida Citrus Open golf tournament.

Mitchell, who went six under par with a gambling birdie on the 15th hole at the wind-swept Rio Pinar Country Club course, had an early first round 66 Thursday and it stood up for the lead all day.

But Lee Trevino was just two strokes back at 68 and warned:

"The putts are starting to fall. I've got the right speed and I'm beginning to make some, just like I said I would."

Gary Player, the South African who always ranks as a major threat, was another stroke back in a group of a half dozen at 69. So was veteran Tommy Bolt.

Jack Nicklaus, 59-year-old Sam Snead and Masters champion Charles Coody were in a big bunch at 70.

"Actually, it was a pretty good round of golf," said Nicklaus, the only two-time champion this year and the man who just took over Arnold Palmer's accustomed spot atop the all-time money winning list.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — First round scores Thursday in the Florida Citrus Open golf tournament on the 6,872-yard, par 72 Rio Pinar Country Club course:

76ers Defeat SuperSonics

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle SuperSonics, their playoff hopes perhaps washed away by the rain, were pelted by the Philadelphia 76ers and could be put in the deep freeze today by Golden State.

The 76ers, zipping through the wet spots on the Coliseum floor, slipped past Seattle 128-124 Thursday night in the second game of a National Basketball Association doubleheader to drop the Sonics 1½ games behind Golden State in the Pacific Division race and three games back in the loss column.

Houston's Rudy Tomjanovich scored 16 points in the fourth quarter to lead Houston to a 114-111 victory over Portland's Trail Blazers in the opening contest.

"We just about have to win them all now," Rod Thorn, assistant Seattle coach, said. "I figure Golden State could lose three more, and we can't expect any more help than that."

The Sonics wind up the season with six games on the road. And to make things even more bleak Seattle will be without the services of Spencer Haywood, its leading scorer, as well as Dick Snyder and regular center Don Smith.

Haywood stretched ligaments in his right knee when he slipped on a wet spot last Sunday.

Even so, the Sonics opened up a 12-point lead over Philadelphia with five minutes to play in the half, then blew the game when they missed 12 foul shots in the final two periods.

ChiSox Okay Player Strike

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

If major league baseball players go on strike, Joe Torre will be one of the country's highest-priced pickets.

Torre agreed to a two-year contract with the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday, ending his spring holdout a few hours after the Chicago White Sox had voted 31-0 to authorize a possible player strike.

The unanimous White Sox vote came following a 90-minute meeting with Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association.

The bone of contention is an acceptable increase for the current pension agreement which expires March 31. Miller, who is touring the spring training camps of all teams, asked for the vote following a Wednesday meeting with John Gaherin, chief negotiator for the owners. According to Miller, the owners scaled down a $372,000 increase offered in January to $250,000 at Wednesday's meeting.

The reduction, according to Miller, meant the owners were "deliberately trying to provoke a players' strike. That's the only way you can explain that kind of negotiating behavior," Miller said.

Miller said the strike could take several forms. The players might refuse to work after March 31 or refuse to play in any Saturday afternoon or Monday night game scheduled for national television, according to the players' negotiator.

Cecil Upshaw, Atlanta's player rep, who ended his holdout only a few days ago, said, "I will take no action until I hear from Marvin. I haven't heard of the possibility of a strike, but I don't think any player wants to go that far."

"We'd rather have everybody's mind on baseball rather than thinking about the possibility of a players' strike," said Harry Dalton, general manager of the California Angels. Billy Cowan, the Angels player spokesman, said, "no one has really given it much thought. We're just sitting back, waiting to see what happens."

Buzzie Bavasi, president of the San Diego Padres, said he expected to have full details of the conflict when the National League owners meet in St. Petersburg March 22. "It's nice to know," said Bavasi, "that the players are in a position where they feel they can afford to strike."

Meanwhile, Torre, the National League's Most Valuable Player last season, finally agreed to terms with the Cardinals. The slugging third baseman, whose .363 batting average and 137 runs batted in led the league, accepted a two-year contract that reportedly calls for $130,000 in 1972 and $150,000 next season.

In Thursday's exhibition games, Pittsburgh edged the New York Mets 5-4, the Chicago Cubs downed Cleveland 5-3, Oakland topped San Francisco 5-1, Boston shaded the New York Yankees 2-1 and Minnesota routed the Chicago White Sox 10-1.

New Mexico Elevates King

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Bob King, head basketball coach at the University of New Mexico for the past 10 years, was named UNM assistant athletic director Thursday night.

King's assistant, Norm Ellenberger, was chosen as head basketball coach.

King will work with assistant athletic director John Dolzadelli, who will retire July 1, a spokesman said.

Owl Linebacker Dies At Age 19

HOUSTON (AP) — Freshman linebacker Bill English, scheduled to begin spring training at Rice next week, has died of a cardiac arrest.

English, a second team all-state quarterback from Refugio, died in the intensive care unit at Methodist Hospital Thursday. He had been taken to the hospital Wednesday after he collapsed in a doctor's office.

Officials said English had no previous heart condition.

English, 19, threw 34 touchdown passes for Refugio in 1970, was president of the student body and maintained an 87 grade average.

"I speak for everyone in the Rice Athletic Department when I express our deep grief at the tragic news of Bill's passing," Rice Athletic Director Red Bale said.

Wildcats Slip By Tennessee, 67-66

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The buzzer boomed and Adolph Rupp bounded off the bench, rushing to the side of his sweet Kentucky babes.

There was no sign of chronic bad legs.

"I was mighty proud of my boys," said the basketball monarch after his Kentucky Wildcats beat Tennessee 67-66 Thursday night for a share of the Southeastern Conference title and a berth in the NCAA playoffs.

Rupp was just a kid again, shaking countless hands and twitching animatedly through his grinning players.

"We knew Tennessee would be tough," said Rupp, tasting the joy of another SEC winner at the age of 70. "We had to scrap all the way."

Rupp's 27th conference title wasn't fashioned easily. Preseason favorites, the Wildcats had to play catch-up to Tennessee in the last few weeks.

"They simply outfought us and deserved to win," said Tennessee Coach Ray Mears, whose squad wound up in a dead tie with Kentucky but lost the NCAA berth because of an earlier loss to the Wildcats.

While the SEC finally settled things for the NCAA's post-season tournament, the Atlantic Coast Conference began its playoff Thursday for a tourney berth.

Two of the teams that were supposed to win the first round did—Maryland defeated Clemson 54-52 and Virginia beat Wake Forest 74-65. But Duke upset favored North Carolina State 73-60 to earn a semifinal berth.

The day's results set up pairings tonight between Duke and North Carolina, the regular-season league champion, and Virginia against Maryland. Finals will be played Saturday.

Tennessee and Kentucky played it close right to the end in a tense game staged before a disappointed full house at Knoxville, home of the Volunteers. John Snown who scored 17 points for the losers, missed a 12-foot jumper as the final gun sounded.

Kentucky used but five players and got double figure scoring from four of them. Jim Andrews was high for the winners with 20 points.

Len Kosmalski, Tennessee's seven-foot sophomore, led all scorers with 24.

Jim O'Brien's two free throws with 10 seconds left enabled Maryland to squeeze past Clemson, the last-place team in the ACC.

Virginia came from behind to beat Wake Forest as Barry Parkhill scored 24 points and Scott McCandlish had 20 points and 16 rebounds.

Duke outscored North Carolina State 16-3 in the last three minutes to whip the Wolfpack.

Stu Yarbrough and Bill Melchinonni each scored 16 points and Alan Shaw added 12 points and 10 rebounds for Duke. Tom Burleson led North Carolina State with 18 points.

Lamar Girls Win 3 Games

Lamar Junior High won three girls volleyball games over Big Spring teams here yesterday.

Lamar 8th A defeated Goliad A 15-11, 15-9 and Lamar 8th B bested Goliad B 15-6, 10-15, 15-5. Lamar 9th beat Big Spring Black 17-15, 15-12.

Los Angeles Will Be National Contenders

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The kids have matured and the Los Angeles Dodgers should make a solid bid for the National League baseball championship this summer.

They finished just a game behind San Francisco in the torrid Western Division battle a year ago.

This time they have added Frank Robinson for hitting power and Tommy John in the pitching department for perhaps baseball's best left-handed hurling array.

Manager Walt Alston embarks on his 19th season at the helm of the Dodgers and he points to such maturing players as Bill Buckner, Bill Russell, Bill Grabarkewitz, Bob Valentine, Steve Garvey and Willie Crawford, the latter an outfielder whose been around a long time but came into his own last season.

John joins a left-handed crew of starters including Al Downing and Claude Osteen.

In 1971, Downing posted a 20-9 record and Osteen the past three seasons has been 20-15, 16-14, 14-11. Add a healthy Bill Singer and Don Sutton pitching from the right side and you have a solid group of starters.

For the bullpen, the Dodgers added Pete Richert who renews old acquaintances in Los Angeles, and they'll have that rocking chair escapee Hoyt Wilhelm who aided in the 1971 stretch drive.

Jim Brewer and Pete Mikkelsen also return to the bullpen and the Dodgers must take a long look at rookie Ted Gilje.

Alston's big problem in the infield is what to do with whom. He has Golden Glove Wes Parker at first base and a battle at second with Grabarkewitz, Russell and Jim Lefebvre. Maury Wills, with a $100,000 contract, owns shortstop except that Russell stands out as the heir apparent.

At third there is the ever-recurrent questionmark. Garvey, Bill Sudakis, Grabarkewitz, and perhaps Russell could handle the job.

Valentine can play second, third or shortstop and could start at any one of the spots.

Duke Sims, who finally found his batting eye late in the 1971 season, rates the No. 1 catcher since the Dodgers sold Tom Haller. The Dodgers also acquired Chris Cannizzaro from the Chicago Cubs and have young Joe Ferguson.

Robinson from the world champion Orioles rates as the power hitter in the outfield although his line drives may be much more instrumental as timely base hits than home runs in spacious Dodger Stadium.

Willie Davis is the centerfielder and hit .309 a year ago. Willie Crawford should be the left fielder in a battle with Bucker, Manny Mota and Larry Hisle.

Mota, lifetime .300 hitter, probably will be platooned against left-handed pitching.

Only rookie with an outfield chance is Tom Paciorek who hit .305 with Spokane.

A healthy Singer could make the big difference for the Dodgers.

He recovered from hepatitis in 1970 but was beset by other ailments in 1971 and posted only a 10-17 mark.

Dream Match Shaping Up

DALLAS (AP) — Tough, determined Billie Jean King stood as the main barrier today to the season's dream tennis match between school-girl Chris Evert and the court darling from Australia's outback, Evonne Goolagong.

"I'm playing better—I just don't know what to expect of myself," Billie Jean, 28, the reigning U.S. Open champion and three times winner at Wimbledon, said as she surveyed her quarter-final match against the 17-year-old Miss Evert.

The 20-year-old Miss Goolagong, sensational winner at Wimbledon last year, faced Wendy Overton of Chevy Chase, Md., who is playing at the top of her game, for the right to meet the King-Evert survivor in Saturday's semi-finals of the $30,000 Maureen Connolly Brinker Memorial Championships.

Miss Goolagong displayed both brilliant form and costly lapses in concentration in beating another Australian, Helen Gourlay, Thursday night, 6-3, 7-6.

Miss Evert was the epitome of poise and discipline as she erased Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego 6-0, 6-3.

All-America Tourney Set

HOUSTON (AP) — The top three teams in last year's NCAA golf tournament, Texas, Houston and Florida, headline 24 teams from 12 states entered in the 14th annual All-America Intercollegiate Golf Tournament April 12-15.

Defending NCAA individual champion Ben Crenshaw leads the Texas team.

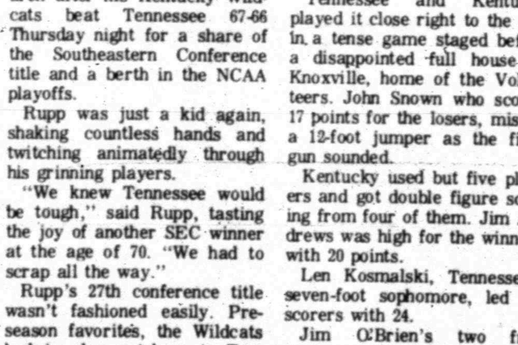

Houston Coach Dave Williams said the 72 hole medal play tournament at the Atascocita Country Club would determine five and possibly six championships.

Other entires include Alabama, Arizona, Arizona State, Arkansas, Baylor, Brigham Young, Colorado, Florida State, Indiana, Louisiana State, New Mexico, New Mexico State, North Texas State, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Oregon, Rice, Southern Methodist, Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Texas Christian.

All Southwest Conference teams are entered. Texas Tech is the defending SWC champion.

Florida is the defending champion in the annual meet, losing only in team match to Texas.

NY Firms To Experiment With Raw Nutria Pelts

By DAVE STEINBERG
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Louisiana, hoping to promote the specialized art of fur dressing in the United States, is giving 300 raw nutrial pelts to three New York firms for experiments.

But several Louisiana raw fur dealers think the whole idea is a waste of time—and skins.

Nutria are small beaverlike rodents which abound in the swamps of south Louisiana. Trapping nutria is big business in the state, with the biggest market in Europe.

An important step before the skin becomes a finished soft furry coat or lining is fur dressing and dyeing. That involves plucking coarse hair and reaching a desired shade of color.

So specialized is the work that only two firms are the acknowledged "best dresser." One is German, the other Italian.

"Why are we doing this? Just to prove it can be done," said Ted O'Neil, head of the fur division of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

"If they can operate and make money in Europe dressing and dyeing, our dressers think they can do it," O'Neill added.

The commission, in authorizing the American firms to experiment with the free pelts, signed up to get a few finished nutria coats of their own at wholesale price, he noted.

Reaction to the experiment idea came hard and fast.

"These professional politicians, they get together, laugh and joke." They don't know how to dress a cat right," said Julian Steinberg, a New Orleans dealer in raw nutria and muskrat skins.

"It's a waste of time," he snapped.

Albert Mirandona, another New Orleans nutria dealer, added: "It's technical business.

This is Ted's idea. I don't think it will do any good, may be will."

The pelts come from nutria trapped on state-owned lands and will be sent to the firms for an unlimited time, O'Neil said.

"They don't need 100 pelts from him. They can go ahead and buy cheap skins. The main thing is to get proper leather," Mirandona noted.

"Steinberg fumed: "This is conflict of interest. He's head of the fur department and he's my competitor. They ought to look into that."

The nutria, a native to South America, were imported into Louisiana in the 1930s and predominate in the coastal parishes.

The experiment, O'Neil said, is partly based on Louisiana fur dealer. complaints of having their money tied up for so long in Europe."

"They have to buy $100,000 to $200,000 worth of fur and they don't know what they have until the next year. If we dress them in this country, they can find out where they are right away," he said.

The experiment has prompted related criticism of the commission's handling of the nutria season.

The start of the season was postponed 15 days in December and 10 days were added on at the end, to the middle of March.

Steinberg said the commission is obviously uninterested in conserving the animal by extending the season.

"They know very well this time of the year the animals are breeding ... Killing them now is a crime against nature," he said.

What it all means, Steinberg explained, is that the already reduced number of nutria will be even less available next season.

Statewide, said Mirandona, there was a 40 per cent reduction in nutria this year over the last. But he thinks the animal can't become extinct for a simple reason.

If they thin out, trapping them won't be worthwhile. The present average price a trapper gets is $1 for each carcass, Mirandona said.

O'Neil offered a different explanation for the reduction.

The reduced numbers caught means the nutria's habitat is being destroyed. Storms and the freeze have killed off many, he said.

"I think if we have a proper growing season, proper vegetation and the trappers get out and cultivate the market by burning off dense vegetation most likely the population will be on its way back to its peak, about two to three million nutria," O'Neil said.

Nutria, O'Neil pointed out, damage the environment. They eat the roots that are a natural banks for waterways and canals, he said.

No Evidence That Cancer Is Infectious

HOUSTON (AP) — A Wisconsin scientist says there is "absolutely no evidence that any kind of human cancer is infectious."

Dr. Howard M. Temin said a lot of complicated laboratory work remains to be done before scientists can really understand the origin of human malignant diseases.

Temin commented at a news conference Thursday following an appearance at the 25th annual Symposium on Fundamental Cancer Research. The symposium was sponsored by the University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

Temin, 37, one of the youngest major virology contributors in the world, is head of the viral oncology at the University of Wisconsin's McArdle Memorial Laboratory in Madison.

He said no one should expect virology research to offer hope of any improved cancer treatments.

Gas Crisis May Blanket Nation

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A critically short supply of natural gas, the fuel which heats and air conditions millions of homes and businesses, has triggered stringent rationing in dozens of major cities. Within a year the crisis could blanket the nation.

Many gas utility companies already are refusing to take any new commercial, industrial or residential customers and, in some cases are cutting back service to existing customers.

"Lousy is the word we're using to describe the situation here," said a spokesman for the New York Public Service Commission, which as early as last October issued orders severely restricting the attachment of new gas service throughout the state.

Washington Gas Light Co. has ceased taking any new customers. New service has been refused to all applicants in Chicago for more than a year. A program under way in that city will make gas service available to some new customers, but the gas will come from cutting back or cutting off some other customers.

State utility commissions in Ohio, Michigan, Maryland and Pennsylvania have approved drastic gas-service limitations, while utilities in Georgia and California have been informed by their suppliers that no additional quantities of natural gas will be available in the foreseeable future, raising the spectre of future rationing there.

And no one sees the crisis easing before late 1974 or 1975.

The problem has been growing for several years, fed by the inability or unwillingness of major natural-gas producers to explore for new fields.

In a classic domino effect, this has cut the amount of new gas available to pipeline distributors who, in turn, have cut back supplies to utility companies.

Even if new exploration began today, experts agree, it would take three to four years to find enough new gas and sink enough new wells to get production running ahead of demand again.

The Federal Power Commission last December initiated a study to determine if gas supplies were in fact as critically low as industry spokesmen claim. Those spokesmen argue that rate structures set by the FPC do not allow enough profit to finance the high-risk, low-yield job of gas exploration.

Consumer advocates, on the other hand, claim that the gas producers have deliberately cut back exploration to create a gas shortage and force the FPC to approve higher rates, a contention that gas producers strongly deny.

How long the FPC study will take is not known, and, at the moment, the gas supply situation has passed the critical point in many states. According to FPC statistics, the 75 largest gas producers in the nation already have committed 98 per cent of their proven reserves for sale and, because more gas is being used than found each year, the reserves keep dropping.

A New York State Public Service Commission study released last fall, concluded that the United States will consume 390 trillion cubic feet of natural gas by the late 1970s and as of now there are just 291 trillion cubic feet in reserve. Of that, 31 trillion cubic feet are locked beneath Alaska's North Slope, unavailable until the end of a legal battle which already has delayed drilling for 2½ years.

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them." St. Matthew 7:12.

There are lots of ifs and cants and buts that slow us down
each day,
But one idea matters and to live its thought we pray:
That we always do for others
what we would have them do for us
And do it first, if possible, with no inward strain or fuss,
Acting because we want to, in love for humankind.
Seeing but qualities only — to all faults entirely blind.

Volpe To Speak At NWF Meet

MEXICO CITY (AP) — U. S. Secretary of Transportation John Volpe and Gov. Russell W. Peterson of Delaware will be among speakers at the annual meeting of the National Wildlife Federation that begins here today.

Peterson also will be named conservationist of the year by the federation for his insistence in a coastal zoning law for Delaware. The law, which prohibits installation of any new heavy industry that interferes with preferred beach uses, took effect in June 1971.

Another key speaker at the three-day meeting will be Dr. Carl L. Hubbs of Scripps Oceanography Institute, La Jolla, Calif. He will discuss recent Mexican legislation to protect whales, one of the most threatened species in the world, according to the federation.

A federation spokesman said whaling ships from the Soviet Union and Japan, which account for about 85 per cent of the total annual kill, sometimes leave without observers from the International Whaling Commission, but that it is hoped that can agreement can be reached with those countries this year. The United States stopped all whaling Dec. 31, 1971, and has prohibited the importation of all whale products.

Leandro Rovirosa Wade, Mexican minister of water resources, will explain the problem of contaminated U.S. waters that flow into Mexico.

"One world of environmental quality" is the theme of the annual meeting, being held in Mexico for the first time.

The National Wildlife Federation has an estimated 3 million members and is the largest private conservation organization in the world.

On Radio

Rev. D.L. Nipp will preach on the Colorado City radio station at 2 p.m. Sunday. His topic will be, "What Must I Do To Be Saved?" Scripture background is found in Acts 16:31.

State, Church Issues Touchy

NEW YORK (AP) — Friction between state and church is moving into some touchy new areas. Some churches complain of pressures to stop their taking stands on public issues and of government spying on church personnel.

The latest protest came last week in a brief filed with the U.S. Supreme Court, contending that military surveillance has included church leaders and that it violates guarantees of religious freedom.

Such government investigation activity nowadays is "replete with examples of special invasion into religious aspects of society," four national religious organizations said in a friend-of-the-court brief.

It was filed in connection with a case brought by the American Civil Liberties Union asking the court to ban military investigations of peaceful, lawful activities of persons outside the armed forces.

Such operations have "breached the wall of separation between the state and religious activities of Americans," the church organizations said.

They are the United Church of Christ's Council for Christian Social Action, the American Friends Service Committee, the Unitarian Universalist Association and the National Council of Churches, made up of 33 Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

They said some local congregations, members and many church leaders have been subjected to military surveillance, especially those working with an interdenominational antiwar agency, Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam.

Earlier, the policy-making board of the National Council last month complained that government tax pressure was being used to keep churches from speaking out on social concerns.

Many churches "believe that Christians are obliged by their faith to make Christ the Lord part of all aspects of their lives, and public policy is not an exception to that obligation," the church representatives said.

A bill recently introduced in the U.S. Senate by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Sen. Hugh Scott, R.-Pa., would allow churches and other charitable groups to press for legislation of interest to them without jeopardizing their tax exemptions.

Some church groups have said Internal Revenue Service agents lately have used the threat of a loss of tax exemptions as a lever against church activity on issues of general public concern.

Five Die In Week's Combat

SAIGON (AP) — Five Americans were killed in action in Indochina last week, the U.S. Command announced today, and 38 were wounded. Nine other Americans died from nonhostile causes, according to the weekly casualty summary.

The South Vietnamese command claimed 1,300 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed last week, the largest number in a month. South Vietnamese losses were 302 killed and 713 wounded, the command said; the week before they were 360 killed and 729 wounded.

The U.S. Command said four Americans were wounded in air operations over Laos during the week but were not hospitalized.

The allied commands have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,661 killed in action, 302,745 wounded in action, 10,095 died from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—140,529 killed in action, 305,128 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—798,789 killed.

Mexico Move Is Successful

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Last year was a "crude revelation" that the U.S. Economy "is not omnipotent and that over it hovers an almost permanent threat of inflation," the president of the Mexican Bankers Association said Thursday.

Manuel Espinosa Ygesias, head of the association and director of the Banco de Commercio, said in the association's annual report that the international economic declaration, changes in exchange rates and the U.S. 10 per cent surcharge on imports especially affected Mexico.

The official praised President Luis Echeverria's deliberate slowdown of the country's economic growth last year and said it has been misinterpreted in some sectors.

Stability of prices and exchange rates has been one of the fundamental pillars of our recent economic policy," Espinosa Yglesias said. "In a large measure this is what has propitiated our progress. To break this stability would be to break the spine of Mexican development."

Confronted with rising prices and inflation, he continued, Mexican authorities last year decided to give the economy "a breathing spell" and to limit public spending.

The method was successful and prices have stabilized, he said.

According to the Banco de Comercio, the government central bank, Mexico's rate of inflation was 3.5 per cent in 1971, compared with 6 per cent in 1970. Retail prices rose 5.5 per cent, compared with 4.8 per cent the previous year.

THEY all may be made of the same metal, but oh the difference in the doors they open! Your need determines the key you use.

If you would open a treasure chest . . . the small key will do. If you would loose the intricate lock on the heavy bank vault . . . it takes a bigger, more precisioned key. But if you want the freedom of God's universe — if you want entrance to human hearts — if you want to open the gates of Heaven — then take the cross. It is the key which Jesus hammered out, and you'll find rules and regulations on how to use it at the church of your choice.
