Lions to Sponsor 5c Tax for Park

Times-Signal—Ex

Fund Would Purchase and Equip Suitable Grounds for Holding of Annual County Fair.

Tax of five cents on the $100 valuation of all property rendered in Scurry County will be advocated and supported by the Snyder Lions Club, proceeds from such tax to be used as a fund for purchasing and equipping a permanent county park and fair grounds.

This action was taken Wednesday at noon by the civic club in regular weekly meeting.

It is proposed that an election be held sometime during the next few months to vote on this proposition. The tax would take effect with the rendition of property in Scurry County as of date of January 1, 1930, and the tax collection would be made through the regular channels of county collection, the payment to be made with other county taxes at the collector's office at the court house.

Action was taken after discussion of the need of such an enterprise by members of the Lions Club. It was revealed that in a majority of cases the counties of Texas already have permanent and ample grounds for staging annual fairs and exhibitions. Combining two needed facilities, it was suggested that Scurry County adopt the plan of making a county park and fair ground in one undertaking, utilizing the same territory for both projects.

Wednesday's luncheon meeting of the Lions Club was held at Cabin Inns, newly completed camping ground constructed and equipped by D. P. Yoder adjacent to Yoder Aviation Field, near the Santa Fe depot in North Snyder. The Lions were guests of Mr. Yoder for the luncheon. A tasty repast was spread for the Lions and their guests.

Between 50 and 60 business men were present for the meeting. Much enthusiasm and interest was manifest during the session.

It was voted by the club that weekly meetings of the organization be suspended until the first Wednesday in September. Thirteen scheduled luncheons will be missed during June, July and August.

Snyder Lions Club will co-operate with the Business and Professional Women's Club in the work of naming the streets of the city and numbering of the residences. This project is now under way by the ladies' club.

Boy Scouts on Way To Caverns Stop In Snyder For Awhile

A jolly troup of Boy Scouts from Stamford stopped in Snyder for a few minutes Monday morning.

The bunch, of about 40 boys, were traveling in their own scout bus and were on their way to the Carlsbad Caverns, where they expected to have a big time for a few days.

J. H. Hamlin, scoutmaster, was sponsoring the trip. The boys had their "eats" and ponchos and each one was carrying a big, happy grin along with him.

Snyder Men Injured When Truck Leaves Highway Tuesday

Bob Terry and Ed Carnes of Snyder suffered painful injuries and bruises Tuesday night when their car left the highway three miles north of Justiceburg and landed in the ditch. The machine turned over.

Terry emerged from the car with a broken shoulder and three broken ribs, as well as other, scratches and minor bruises. Karnes sustained three broken fingers and had a tooth knocked out. Both the men are carrying the broken members in splints.

The accident occurred when the lights on their car, a truck belonging to the Titman Egg Corporation, loaded with produce, went out. The driver was unable to stop the machine before it plunged into a ditch. They were returning to Snyder from Lubbock.

Five will be graduated from the high school at Dunn Friday evening. Judge Fritz R. Smith will address the graduates on this occasion.

Other schools of the county closing this week are Lloyd Mountain and Sulphur. No graduating exercises will be held, according to the superintendent.

Dangerous Blaze Is Averted When Fire In Car Extinguished

Snyder's fire department Monday shortly after noon answered a call to the Snyder Garage, to the rear of the Snyder National Bank. When the smoke had cleared from the car of a customer at the filling station, little damage was revealed.

Some gasoline in the radiator of the auto was ignited, but small damage resulted, approximately between $15 and $25, according to W. E. Doak of the garage. The chemical wagon of the department extinguished the flaming machine.

Violators of Traffic Laws Will Be Fined Beginning June 10

City Marshal J. A. Woodfin, who has charge of traffic regulations in the city of Snyder, expressed his intention first of the week of being more strict with offenders of the city ordinance requiring that all vehicles stop at entrances to the public square, as well as at other street intersections where the stop signals are located.

The marshal states that some of the citizens are failing to observe these regulations. He promises that city authorities will impose fines on drivers who fail to observe these signals beginning Monday, June 10.

New signals were placed at practically all the stopping intersections the first of last week.

Summer School Will Open Monday Week With Good Outlook

More than 30 students for the summer session of the Snyder High School have already enrolled for the short term, and others are expected to sign up before the week is out, according to officials of the school.

It is announced by the teachers that the principal subjects to be offered will be mathematics and science, limited courses in English and history to be given also.

Farm Aid Measure Is Passed Through Senate by Margin

Washington—"My but it must be a good bill to get through the Senate so quickly! It astonished even senators themselves, the way the farm bill got itself passed. The measure, providing the debenture as an optional plan to be used by the Farm Board, went through the senate by a vote of 54 to 33. Only two Democrats voted against the measure, while 33 Republicans found they "could not support the measure."

In general the bill is like the house measure, except it contains the optional debenture plan of the National Grange. It provides $500,000,000 to be loaned, not given as some imply, to co-operatives and stabilization corporations. A Senate amendment placed the farm board chairman's salary at $12,000 instead of making it an indefinite amount to be named by the president as provided in the house bill.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, was on hand for the bill. He was the legal authority on all questions of law about the measure. With his stiff, gray mustache, familiar in legal battles of the oil investigations, the Montanan stoutly declared the debenture was not a "revenue measure" and therefore need not originate in the House. Republican leaders had objected to the debenture, because they said the House would refuse to consider it on the ground that it should have originated in the House. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, talked a while, and Senator Heflin, in a fresh spring outfit, spoke for the measure. "Who on earth can object to such a fair measure," he said. "We should be justified in taking the whole 42 cents on wheat, but we are only asking 21 cents," he declared.

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, flayed the Republicans for not supporting farm relief now that they "had the chance" to carry out their campaign promises.

The bill now goes to the House with the debenture in it. Will the House refuse to consider it because this feature deals with revenues? Senator Walsh probably settled that when he declared the measure did not "raise revenue," and none of the House members will dare match wits with the Montanan on any legal and away the best legal authority question. Walsh is recognized as far on the hill. He might put some of them in jail "like he did Sinclair." Anyway the astute Republican leaders preferred to put known foes of the debenture plan on the conference committee to thresh it out with the House. It was a "hand picked" delegation that was selected to meet the House on the debenture amendment.

"Yes the tariff is out of the committee," and running wild on the House floor. No one was able to stop general debate on the bill, and everybody got in on the free-for-all fight. But of course that does not mean that the whole bill will be thrown open for amendments. Just the schedules decided upon by the "leaders" shall be subject to amendment. In other words, any member can talk on the whole bill but can argue for a change in only a limited part thereof.

In general, a great many manufactured schedules are raised. Some farm products share in the increases; but the industries get the larger share, even though they already had twice as high rates as agriculture. High duties were placed on shingles, lumber, and cement, once on the free list, and substantial increases made in the tariff on textiles, table-ware, glass, and even aluminum which already carries a 60 per cent rate.

"What we gain by the increases on a few far products, we lose in the big boost given agricultured articles all along the line," is the opinion of mid-west farm leaders. Many meetings of mid-western congressmen are being held on the tariff, and protests laid before the committee. Never before has there been such a break in the Republican party over a tariff measure. It looks as though from now on the opposition to excessive industrial rates will come not from the south so much as from the middle-west. The tariff battle ground has moved west to the plains of Dakota and the farming states of the "bread basket area."

"I say, in this bill you take away the rate-making from Congress and give it to Mr. Mellon," shouted Garner in the House. The bill does not say that, but it gives the treasury head the right to fix the valuation upon which the rates are levied. There are two ways of boosting the tariff. It can be done by increasing the rate per cent, or by raising the valuation on which the rate is paid. The National Manufacturer's Association concluded their rates already sounded pretty high, and it would be well to raise the valuation instead. By using American valuation, a nice sounding name, they could double or treble their tariffs at will.

Presbyterians to Dedicate Church in Service Sunday

Pastor E. C. Lambert Will Preside At Special Services to Be Held At Both Hours on Sabbath.

Next Sunday will be a happy day for the Presbyterian congregation in this city. Their long cherished dream of occupying the new auditorium of their church will at last be realized. The building has been completed for some two or three weeks, but the pews did not arrive until Monday of this week. The furniture is being installed and services are announced as follows:

Sunday School at 9:30 a. m.; the usual 11:00 o'clock service has been moved up to 10:45 in order to afford time for the reception of members and to attend to the ordinance of baptism of infants; evening services will begin at 8:15. Rev. E. C. Lambert, the pastor, will fill the pulpit both morning and evening.

A record breaking attendance is hoped for at Sunday school. The number has not yet reached 100, but the goal has been set for a margin above 100 in this the initial service at the new church. All who owe allegiance to the Presbyterian Church are urged to be in attendance at the Sunday school and church services. Friends of other faiths are given a cordial invitation to attend all services.

As an evidence of thanksgiving for this, another beautiful house of worship, which becomes a valuable asset to our splendid little city, a thank offering will be taken. A generous contribution is needed to assist in defraying heavy obligations incurred in the building of this handsome structure, which does credit to the faith of the small band of Presbyterians who are responsible for the undertaking.

It is proposed to give opportunity to all the people in Snyder to come and worship with the Presbyterians. Invitations have been extended to the pastors to come with their congregations, each in turn, and hold a service in the new church, conducting the same according to the dictates of their own consciences. Evidencing the beautiful spirit of fellowship which exists among the several denominations, these invitations have been accepted and services are to be held at the church, beginning Monday evening and concluding Thursday evening, as follows:

On Monday evening the congregation of the First Christian Church will have charge of the service and the sermon will be delivered by the pastor, Rev. T. M. Broadfoot.

Tuesday evening the Methodists will be the special guests availing themselves of the privileges of the church, and the pastor, Rev. G. S. Hardy, will conduct the service.

Wednesday evening will be Baptist night there and Rev. W. F. Ferguson will bring the gospel message.

Thursday evening the services will be under the auspices of the Church of Chrjst. Elder W. M. Speck, the pastor, will preach.

The following week, beginning Tuesday evening, June 11, there will be begun a series of meetings at the church, conducted by a noted layman of the Presbyterian Church, Guy W. Green of Kansas City. Mr. Green is an editor and Bible Class teacher. He gives practical talks on religion and every-day life, as seen from a business man's standpoint. Without doubt they will be of untold benefit to all who avail themselves of the rare privilege of hearing them. The lectures will be continued over a period of 12 evenings, terminating on the evening of June 23.

NAMING STREETS AND NUMBERING HOUSES IS PROPOSED BY WOMEN

Naming of the streets and numbering of the residences in the city limits of Snyder is being undertaken by the Business and Professional Women's Club. Actual work of making a concerted canvass of the homes and business houses has already been started by members of the club.

Plans for the project were discussed and adopted at a called meeting of the women Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The session was held in the county court room of the court house. The club president, Mrs. Joe Caton, had charge of the gathering. About 25 ladies of the city were in attendance.

Assigning of sub-divisions of the city to various members of the club was made by the promulgators of the plan. Snyder was divided into 21 districts or subdivisions, and house-to-house canvasses of the residences in each district will be made. It is proposed that occupants of the residences make payment or pledge of $1 with which the cost of placing names on the streets and numbers on the houses will be borne.

Members of the club who have the canvassing in charge will make reports of the work at the next meeting of the club, to be held Tuesday evening in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church.

The engineering department of the Bell Telephone Company has tendered its services without cost to the women's club or the city in this project.

Judge C. R. Buchanan assisted the ladies in the matter of subdividing the city and assigning districts to the individual members.

Ladies who were assigned subdivisions in the task of canvassing are: Mmes. Mabel Y. German, R. L. Howell, Dick Webb, Sam Hamlett, H. C. Teague, W. W. Smith, C. R. Buchanan, George F. Smith, R. E. Gray, M. E. Miles, W. R. Merrell, Joe Caton, A. G. Eiland and W. W. Hull; Misses Eunice Lemons, Maggie Norred, Jo Hailey, Blanche Mitchell, Georgia Bolin, Eloise Scott and May McClinton.

School Head Is Well Pleased with County Wide Graduations

"Boys and girls are interested in going to high school more than ever before," said County School Superintendent A. A. Bullock of Scurry County, at the conclusion of the graduation exercises held in the Snyder High School auditorium last Friday evening for those who finished the standard work of the seventh grade in Scurry County.

"Many of those who came from various communities of the county to the exercises will get the inspiration to continue in school," the school head stated.

This is the second year of this county-wide work, Mr. Bullock instituting the plan at the close of the county's school system in 1928. The idea is going over in a big way, due largely to the efficient conduct of Scurry County's educational forces.

Co-operation from the teachers and co-ordination of purpose on the part of trustees, teachers and parents have made this year's session of Scurry County schools the most successful in the history of the institutions, Mr. Bullock declares.

Midwest Exposition Plans for Greatest Exhibits In History

Active work on the 1929 Midwest Exposition, to be held in Sweetwater this year on the first five days of October, was begun Friday by fair officials. Various department heads for the fair were elected Friday by directors of the enterprise. Snyder will be represented by an honorary vice president for the organization, according to word from Sweetwater.

The Midwest Exposition was changed last year from a county to sectional fair.

Plans for added attractions and new exhibit departments, together with present prospects for an excellent crop season give promise of making it surpass all previous fairs in Sweetwater.

Since the Scurry County Fair will be held in Snyder on September 26, 27 and 28, exhibitors in the local show can easily take their exhibits and displays to the sectional show the following week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Scott left Thursday morning for Dallas. They will return Sunday, accompanied by Mr. Scott's mother, Mrs. L. E. Scott and his sister, Mrs. Rose Wynn.

Mrs. J. G. Landrum and two daughters of Fluvanna were Snyder visitors Monday.

Diplomas Given 151 Pupils in Exercises For Seventh Grades

One hundred and fifty-one students who completed the standard work of the seventh grade in Scurry County received diplomas at the county-wide seventh graduating exercises held last Friday evening in the Snyder High School auditorium. This group of fine boys and girls will enter high school next year without fear of demotion or entrance examinations.

The exercises were attended by one of the largest crowds ever assembled in the local school auditorium, parents and friends of the graduates from every section of Scurry County coming to witness the ceremonies.

Rev. F. M. Broadfoot, pastor of the First Christian Church, delivered the class address, which was described by many as a masterpiece. Superintendent C. Wedgeworth of the Snyder public schools presented the diplomas to the graduates.

Another Soaking Rain Hits Scurry

For the fourth time in a fortnight, old Jupe Pluvius has been a welcome visitor to Scurry County. His latest appearance was Saturday. This time he arrived in Snyder about 6:00 o'clock, and remained a guest for several hours. Rain was reported in practically all portions of the county, the greatest rainfall going to the south and southwest sections, where almost a waterspout resulted. More than three inches of rain has fallen during the month of May over the county generally.

Heavy rains fell also in the Dermott and Fluvanna sections, in the north and northwest area. Creeks and ditches were filled to capacity for several hours. Farms were overflowed in the lower vicinities.

Winds of near storm proportions came with the rain, and hail accompanied the deluge in the extreme southern section of Scurry County.

Mitchell County to the southwest of Scurry County was a heavy sufferer from hail and winds in the Saturday visitation.

The Mitchell County hailstorm of early Saturday was one of the most destructive West Texas has ever known in a belt of similar size. Crops on 50,000 acres of rich farm lands were completely wiped out, with several homes and barns unroofed. Chickens, calves, pigs, sheep and other animals were killed. J. H. Green, secretary of the Colorado Chamber of Commerce, estimates the damage to crops and lands at $250,000. His organization will cooperate with farmers in securing seed for planting.

The hail covered a strip from two to three miles wide, originating at Cuthbert, 15 miles northwest of Colorado, and extending around the city through the Buford, Shepherd, Payne and McKenzie communities, a distance of 25 miles. Drifts of hail that would fill a wagon bed were visible in many places Saturday morning, and Lone Wolf Creek put on a rampage by the rain and hail, was a floating mass of ice.

The flood of ice and water was six feet over the top of the Colorado Country Club lake dam. Green trees of all sizes were banked against the dam. The terrific force of the water broke the east end of the dam, cut a large cavity in the embankment and broke the concrete wall which will require several thousand dollars

Contract for Test For Oil Is Signed

Actual work of drilling on the Cottingham & Briscoe oil well in the northwest portion of Scurry County will be begun within 60 days, according to W. L. Power, who has had the preliminary arrangements for the test in charge. Mr. Power was in Snyder Monday in the interest of the project.

Plans for moving drilling equipment, storage tanks, quarters for the drilling crews and other facilities in connection with the enterprise are going forward in nice order, officials of the company declare.

Contract for the new well calls for drilling to a depth of 3500 feet, unless oil in paying quantities is found at a lesser depth, according to Mr. Power.

The well is located practically in the center of the southeast quarter of section No. 427, on the John Truss property, which is two miles south of Fluvanna, or approximately 15 miles northwest of Snyder.

Several months ago a strong showing of gas was encountered in the Mount Pleasant well in the edge of Borden County, put down to a depth of 700 feet. The Cottingham & Briscoe test is two miles southeast of the Mount Pleasant shaft. The depth to be reached by the new well will thoroughly take in all mineral bearing sands, although production is expected to be discovered above the contract depth of the well. Careful logs of all findings will be recorded by the present drilling concern.

Cottingham & Briscoe company is recognized in drilling circles as one of the most reliable organizations now doing active drilling in this section of the state. San Angelo is headquarters for the concern. In all West Texas field rigs of this company are found.

Major Otley, nationally known geologist and formation expert, approved the location of the Cottingham & Briscoe well in 1918. In 1924 John McGhee of Amarillo, foremost geologist of the Panhandle fields, also put his o. k. on this section of the country having oil indications.

Leading production companies of the state have spent around $1,000,000 for leases and royalties in the area of the present proposed well, which proves conclusively that they have faith in the prospects of this section. Magnolia, Texas, Sun and Gulf companies have all been on the field securing holdings and royalties.

Acquire a reputation for dependability first, and add the decorations afterward.

When you think the door to a successful future is closed against you, the ivory knob that holds it shut is not on the door.

The greater the difficulty, the more glory in surmounting it. Skillful pilots gain their reputation from storms and tempests.—Ancient Proverb.

W. T. Johnson, West Texas millionaire cattleman, will produce the rodeo which will be the feature in the new livestock coliseum during the first nine days of the 1929 State Fair of Texas. Mr. Johnson produced the rodeo at San Antonio last year during the national convention of the American Legion.

A great deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly, or at least to the best of one's ability, everything which he attempts to do. There is a sense of satisfaction, a pride in surveying such a work—a work which is rounded, full, exact, complete in all its parts—which the superficial man, who leaves his work in a slovenly, slipshod, half-finished condition can never know. It is this conscientious completeness which turns work into art. The smallest thing, well done, becomes artistic.—William Mathews.

Printing is a good business. It is clean, honorable, respectable. It is celebrated as a trainer of men for higher stations in life. It has many inspiring traditions and legends. It combines the need for knowledge of everthing under the sun—mathematics, mechanics, language, spelling, grammar, color, composition, salesmanship; there is, indeed, no limit to the accomplishments that are required of the printer. The printer is brought into contact with all other vocations and professions. No vocation or profession can really exist without the printing press. From textbooks to novels, from pamphlets to newspapers, from tickets to tax bills, no man can evade the printed word.—Henry P. Porter.

A Temper Deadline.

A man from the middle west started off on a trip around the the world, accompanied by his sister. Both were temperamental—the word is used here in the sense of, "difficult to get along with." They had four rows on the train, before they reached San Francisco. After they had cooled off, following the fourth disagreement, the sister proposed to the brother that they resolve not to lose their temper, under any circumstances, before 10:00 o'clock in the morning.

Not only were they not to quarrel with each other, but with no one else, until the hands of the clock registered 10:00 a. m.

The plan worked beautifully. The globe was circumnavigated with less friction than these two people were accustomed to endure in a single week at home.

The man who was head of a large business was so impressed that when he returned to his office he issued orders that no conferences were to be held, or ugly matters discussed, before 10:00 o'clock.

"Keep your noses close to your desks the the first two hours in the morning," he instructed his assistants. "If the mail brings bad news, keep it to yourself until the rest of us have got our eyes opened and have forgotten our domestic and automobile troubles."

That was 15 years ago, and at lunch today the man said the meanness and bickering inside his organization had been markedly reduced, and that the rule is still in effect and is observed by all.

One Good Prospect.

Henry G. Weaver, of the sales division of General Motors, delivered a parody of the customary inspirational sales talk at a meeting of the branch managers.

Mr. Weaver worked up to a peroration in which he outlined the procedure of one go-getter who faced the task of disposing of a 1910 Abbott-Detroit for $900. Garcia would have quaked at such a task. But the young salesman had his instructions. His duty was clear; the boss had told him to sell the junk for $900.

Mr. Weaver explains his method:

"He took his prospect file home and thumbed over each card, asking himself:

"'Who is there in my territory that needs such a car?'

"And he found there were very few.

"Then, by following the scientific process of elimination he carefully scrutinized the cards thus selected, all the while asking himself:

"'Of those who need such a car, who is there who is willing and able to pay $900?'

"And he found there were very, very few.

"But he didn't give up, and that, my friends, is the moral of this whole story.

"He concentrated on the problem and bent his every mental power toward finding its solution.

"'Who is there who needs such a car? Who is there who is so keenly appreciative of individual transportation as to buy this particular car? Just who is there in this great free republic of ours who has enough confidence in me, in the house which I represent, and in this young and growing industry of ours to pay $900 for a 1910 Abbott-Detroit?'

"Concentration, meditation, perseverance throughout the long dreary hours of the night. Weighing the problem in his mind. Asking himself the same question over and over again. And along toward the break of dawn, just as the sun was creeping across the far off eastern horizon and shedding its irridescent rays over the peaceful landscape, the answer came over me like a flash—'my mother!'"

Willie was dejectedly walking home from school and his woe-begone appearance attracted the attention of a kind-hearted old lady.

"What is troubling you, my little man?" she asked.

"Dyspepsia and rheumatism," replied Willie.

"Why that's absurd," remarked the old lady. "How can that be?"

"Teacher kep' me in after school because I couldn't spell them," was Willie's dismal answer.

"I'm surprised at your tailor turning you out like that."

"It's not his fault—I'm so ticklish."

"Ise wants a ticket fo' Florence."

Ticket Agent (after ten minutes of weary thumbing over railroad guides): "Where the devil is Florence?"

"Settin' over dar on de bench."

Owner Of Ancient Car—"I'm afraid I shall have to ask you to walk up this hill."

Passenger—"Right-o, old chap; I'll wait for you at the top."

Three Scotchmen, McDougal, McFerson and McHenry, were chums in the trenches.

One evening a shell burst over the trench where they were stationed and blew McHenry's head off.

McDougal turned to McFerson and remarked: "McHenry lost his head."

McFerson in great excitement asked: "What are ye saying? McHenry lost his head? Where did it go to?"

"What difference does it make? It's gone," answered McDougal philosophically.

"What difference does it make?" retorted McFerson. "Mebbe none tae ye, but he has me pipe in his mouth."

"Democrats Drive Farm Bill Through the Senate," the headlines should read, but don't with 33 Democrats and 21 Republicans voting for the Senate bill, it is not entirely an "administration measure."

"Wasn't it mean, just when Brookhart, Iowa "insurgent" got well started on "pseudo-Republicans," here came Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Longworth into the Senate gallery together! Immediately all eyes went to the galleries, and people stood up to catch a glimpse of the two social rivals. Nobody listened to Brookhart, the ladies "stole his thunder."

But, it was noted that Mrs. Longworth left the vice-presidential gallery first, and this means she considered her status above that of Mrs. Gann. "Alice Longworth Wins Round Two," announced Washington papers that evening.

"Competition must come from within this country," says Chairman Hawley of the new tariff bill. Nothing new in that—the Chinese practiced that 1000 years ago.

Over in England they have their "unemployment problem," and we have our "farm problem" to talk about and bemoan. But here's where the Britisher's have it over on us—England has 1,500,000 out of work, while we have 20,000,000 more or less down-trodden farmers. The American farmer might about as well have been idle the last eight years—he only ran behind and piled up losses.

Yes, the farmers of the mid-west have been selling their goods at about pre-war rates. In other words farmers have held a half-price sale on all their products. Think of a bargain sale lasting eight years!

Any other industry would have gone bankrupt in eight months. Of course the farmers used up some $50,000,000,000 of their saved-up capital the past eight years. Some gift to the rest of the country! Twice enough to pay for the war!

Yet when the farmers want a debenture that will give them tariff benefits to the tune of only $100,000,000 a year, Mr. Mellon steps in and "looks out for the treasury."—Elizabeth Heiser.

"Do you believe a rabbit's foot ever brought good luck?"

"You bet! My wife felt one in my pocket once and thought it was a mouse."

"Do you think you could care for a chap like me?"

"Oh, I think so—if he wasn't too much like you."

Each and every man ought to interest himself in public affairs. There is no happiness in mere dollars. After they are acquired, one can use but a very moderate amount. It is given a man to eat so much, to wear so much, and to have so much shelter, and more he can not use. When money has supplied these, its mission, so far as the individual is concerned, is fulfilled, and man must look still further and higher. It is only in wide public affairs, where money is a moving force toward the general welfare, that the possessor of it can possibly find pleasure, and that only in constantly doing more. The greatest good a man can do is to cultivate himself, develop his powers, in order that he may be of greater service to humanity.—Marshall Field.

Sinclair in the Press.

Harry Sinclair defied the most powerful court in the world and went to jail. We hold no brief for Sinclair, especially in his relation to the Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford oil manipulations. But they have really little to do with the incarceration of the very rich man, whom the world goaded to when he was up and whom it kicks, all too viciously, now that he is down. The papers are filled with disgusting cartoons of Sinclair behind the bars—Sinclair on bread and water—gloating editorials written by sanctimonious newspaper men on how a man's sins will find him out, (though they don't very often), of how money will not keep a man out of jail, (though it usually does) and gleefully, oh, how gleefully, some of the more analytical minded have discovered that you can convict a million dollars, even though it appeared for a while that it just couldn't be done.

The very fact that we have this sort of comment is an indication of the partiality of the world toward the very rich and that the jailing of one of the Four Hundred is little short of the eighth wonder of the world. One particularly offensive periodical, which is known to be out for the dollar always—and how!—notes that Sinclair's conviction is "salutary, sound and heartening," and grandiloquently concludes that "no man can escape the lawful consequences of his offenses," even though thousands of them do, every day. All of which would be very fine if these jelly-fish editors were not utterly belated in their moral homilies. Fundamentally they are not editors at all, but merely paid hirelings of petty kings, swayed by crippling influences which keep them shut up like an oyster 364 days out of the year and let them blow off steam like a human ballyhoo on the 365th. They could do a lot of good if they were not hemmed in, cramped, utterly sold into bondage by editorial fearfulness. Therefore, their spasmodic perorations over Sinclair in jail remind us of what Lord McCauley called the "fits of virtuousness" taken by old Mother England ever so often.

Getting the truth out of such editors is about as gigantic a task as pushing a camel through a needle's eye. Very few, if any, of them had much to say about Sinclair when he was at the heighth of his pride. They could see all his evil manipulations then, but as through a glass, darkly; they could never find the courage to hold him up to the light of censure when he was secure. But they can fall upon him now, with one fell swoop, like a dozen village bullies piling upon a bedraggled enemy.

Sinclair made a desperate fight to escape jail, for which no one in his senses could blame him. He lost—but he knew when he refused to testify that he might have to go to jail. He could have told all he knew and gone scott-free. There are times when it is more heroic to keep still than to talk; times when it is more heroic to go to jail than to betray one's friends; but there never was a time when it was more heroic to save one's self than to refuse to expose the other fellow. and, for all this sanctimonious, triumph of truth and justice flapping of editorial wings, it remains that contempt of court is neither a sin nor a crime, and when we consider the contemptuous arrogance of courts in general it is a question whether it is even a serious offense.

One need not admire Harry Sinclair to be fair to him; and one need not thoroughly despise editors in general to observe how pitifully remiss they are in their duties to the public, and how they attempt to change their spots only when the wind is right.

One is reminded of the Gaudy Bird in the fable, who was surrounded by all the aristocracy of his world until he lost his feathers: then they one and all attacked him and pulled out the single, straggling plume left upon his head. Men are like those birds—though they are not half so frank.

And in conclusion, if Harry Sinclair—and all the editorial hordes now so busy with moral diatribes about the "course of sin" never commit a more heinous wrong than to defy a court, no one need lose any sleep over the public morals—Edinburg Independent.

Years of service in MODEL T FORDS

THE Model T was so strongly and sturdily built that it is still rendering reliable, economical service to motorists in every section of the country. Millions of these cars can be put in shape for two, three and five more years of use at very small cost.

So that you may have this work done economically and satisfactorily, the Ford Motor Company is still devoting a considerable section of its plants to the manufacture of Model T parts. It will continue to do so as long as they are needed by Model T owners. The following list gives the approximate labor charges for reconditioning the Model T Ford:—

Engine
Tune motor (including replacement of commutator case, brush and vibrator points if necessary)	$1.00
Grind valves and clean carbon	$3.75 to 4.00
Overhaul carburetor	1.50
Reline detachable car transmission bands	1.50
Install new pistons or connecting rods	6.00
Tighten all main bearings	6.00
Overhaul motor and transmission	$20.00 to 25.00
Rear System
Replace rear axle assembly	2.50
Install universal joint	3.00
Reline brake shoes	1.50
Replace rear axle shaft, drive shaft pinion, or drive gear	5.00
Overhaul complete rear axle assembly	$5.75 to 7.00
Rebush spring and perches	1.75
Oil and graphite springs	3.00
Front System
Overhaul front axle	$4.00 to 5.00
Rebush spindle bodies and arms (both sides)	2.50
Replace or straighten spindle connecting rod	.75
Tighten radius rod or steering ball cap	.60
Tighten all sockets and joints of front end	1.50
Replace front spring tie bolt or new leaf	2.50
Straighten front axle	3.00
Chassis
Replace rear fender	1.75
Overhaul steering gear	3.50
Repair muffler	1.00
Overhaul radiator	7.50
Repaint Coupe	25.00
Repaint Sedan	25.00
Repaint Touring Car	20.00
Reupholster Runabout	8.00
Reupholster Touring Car	15.00
Replace top deck (Coupe or Sedan)	4.00
Overhaul starting motor	3.00
Overhaul generator	2.60

These prices are approximate and are for labor only, because the need and number of new parts depend on the condition of each car. The charge for these parts is low, however, because of the established Ford policy of manufacturing and selling at a small margin of profit.

TEXANS LET'S TALK TEXAS

and now CARNATION comes to Texas.

TEXANS have talked Texas again with splendid results. The Carnation Milk Products Company, after a tour of intensive investigation of the possibilities of dairy development in Texas, is now building a $300,000 milk condensery at Schulenburg.

At the time of making the announcement of the location of the Schulenburg condensery, the Carnation Milk Products Company also announced the purchase of a building site at Sulphur Springs. This action is indicative of the sound faith which this great company has in the possibilities of milk production in Texas.

The coming of Carnation to Texas, right on the heels of the coming of Borden, brings to this state the world's largest buyers of whole milk. These and other milk and milk products plants will pay millions of dollars to Texas farmers each year. There is probably no other type of manufacturing plant which would sustain a payroll of such economic significance.

As Carnation and other great organizations extend their activities in Texas, our Texas farmers will gain a new appreciation of the solid value of the dairy cow as a source of daily income; and business will gain a new respect for the economic importance of manufacturers who use farm products as raw material.

The Texas Electric Service Company takes this occasion to commend the foresight of the Carnation Milk Products Company in coming to Texas. This Company also expresses its commendation of the efforts of those Texans who worked so diligently in helping the Carnation executives in making their decision to come to Texas.

It is this sort of "talking Texas" which means much to the rapid and sound development of Texas. Texans, let's talk Texas!

There is a story of a dusky lady, narrated by Mac in the Rock Island Argus, who went into a drug store and asked for one cent's worth of insect powder.

"But that isn't enough to wrap up," objected the clerk.

"Man," exclaimed the dark lady, "I ain't asked you to wrap it up. Jes' blow it down on my back."

"Look here!" exclaimed the stranger, as he stumbled into his twentieth puddle, "I thought you said you knew where all the bad places were on this road."

"Well," replied the native, who had volunteered to guide him through the dark, "we're a-finding them, ain't we?"—Exchange.

He (after long argument)—"I wonder what would happen if you and I ever agreed on anything."

She—"I'd be wrong."

The creek was higher than ever recorded before. The hail was so heavy that mesquite trees were beaten down, and stripped of limbs, leaving stubs of white wood barren of bark. All crops in the path of the hail cloud were destroyed. Rains in the other parts of Mitchell county did heavy damage to crops and lands. Hundreds of farmers will be forced to replant crops, many of whom had feed crops half knee high and cotton plowed out.
