Confession In Slaying Given

NEGRO HOTEL EMPLOYE SAYS HE KILLED GIRL IN MOMENT OF PANIC; PLANNED ROBBERY

(By The Associated Press)

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 10.—An early trial was promised today for Martin Moore, 22, negro hotel employe who Sheriff Laurence Brown said confessed he killed Helen Clevenger, blonde New York co-ed in a moment of panic when he went to her room to rifle it.

Solicitor Zeb V. Nettles said the gangling hall boy at the fashionable Battery Park hotel, where the New York university student was staying, would be tried at a term of court beginning next Monday.

The prisoner, arrested Saturday night and questioned for hours before Sheriff Brown said he confessed he shot and clubbed the 18-year-old girl to death, was held in the county's penthouse jail atop its skyscraper courthouse.

Moore denied that he attempted to assault the girl, Robbery, the sheriff quoted the confession, was his only motive and he entered the room, after trying several others, on finding the door unlocked.

"When I got in the room," the sheriff said the confession related, "she screamed, and that's why I shot her."

Sheriff Brown said he was convinced that the girl had not been assaulted.

The undertaker, the coroner and a physician said there was evidence of an attack, but later three physicians made an examination and could not agree.

Farmers And Traders Of Nation Look Forward To Report Upon Crop Today

GUIDE TO RELIEF DEMANDS UPON GOVERNMENT EXPECTED TO BE FOUND; TO BE YARDSTICK

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Anxious farmers and commodity traders looked toward the capital today for one of the most momentous crop reports in history.

In this expert analysis of conditions in the agricultural areas, which will reflect the havoc wrought by the drouth, federal officials expected to find a guide to relief demands upon the government.

The report of indicated crop production, based on conditions as of Aug. 1, and prepared with the greatest secrecy, was scheduled to be made public at 2 p. m. (CST).

Secretary Wallace, who is now preparing a general drouth report, told newsmen the official crop estimates will furnish an accurate yardstick on what help will be needed by thousands of farmers.

He said that until the estimates were available—especially on corn—the national drouth needs for carrying farmers and livestock through the winter could not be determined.

It is known that searing temperatures and lack of moisture will cut down the corn forecast, but the exact figure will guide many farmers who have cattle, hogs and sheep which ordinarily would be fed for marketing or carried through the winter.

STATE POLICE IN BIRTHDAY

PUBLIC SAFETY UNIT ESTABLISHED JUST ONE YEAR AGO

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 10—The Texas state police system celebrated its first birthday today.

Surviving difficulties in its first year of existence, the department of public safety, under which the famed Texas rangers and the comparatively new highway patrol have combined forces, was receiving congratulations.

Set Up Over Protests

Over the protests of many members of the legislature who advanced several reasons for their opposition, the state police system was established to assist city and county constabulary in their fight on crime.

Advocates contended that a modern, efficiently-operated police unit would greatly aid county and city officers in their activities against criminals operating over wide areas.

Reviewing the work of the year-old department, Albert Sidney Johnson, public safety commission chairman, said that the bureau of identification now contains 27,422 sets of fingerprints from which 4,676 identifications have been made. Of 2,210 automobiles reported stolen, l.-

ALMOST BOLTS FIRST SESSION TODAY OF SCIENCE GROUP

(By The Associated Press)

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 10 — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, angered by the presence of photographers nearly bolted the opening session of a scientific congress today at which he later was to demonstrate his mechanical heart.

He agreed to remain, however, after Dr. Hans Fischer, head of the Danish Biological institute, obtained an agreement from the photographers to confine their pictures to group shots.

Scientists Present

Dr. Fischer, president, called the International Congress of Experimental Cytology to order with 300 scientists present in the common hall of the Danish parliament.

After brief addresses by two Nobel science prize winners — Dr. Alexis Carrel of New York, and Dr. August Krogh of Copenhagen — the delegates adjourned to meet later at the institute for the demonstration of the heart invented by Lindbergh and Dr. Carrel.

The mechanical heart was to be presented to the institute, after the demonstration, in recognition of the facilities it extended in preparation for the experiment.

Two Fliers Today Maintain Silence

SEATTLE, Aug. 10 (AP)—Silence engulfed two famed Russian fliers today—forced down by adverse weather at an isolated village on the northern British Columbia coast.

The failure of Sigismund Levanevsky and Victor Levchenko to report or answer wireless calls after they landed at Bella Bella, B. C., at 3 p. m., last Saturday, puzzled their representative here, N. A. Sokoloff.

He suggested they probably had no idea wireless stations from Seattle to the Arctic circle were trying to reach them. He said probably they went ashore from their pontoon-equipped plane to await better weather and did not hear the calls.

TEXAS BAKED UNDER A BLISTERING SUN

WARNINGS ARE HOISTED IN GULF AREA

MONTHLY HIGHS OVER MANY SECTIONS ARE SET ON SUNDAY

(By The Associated Press)

A blistering sun sent Texas temperatures hooting skyward yesterday, equaling in at least one area the all-time heat record, and establishing monthly highs in nearly all sections.

A heavy rain and windstorm struck near Frankston, Anderson county, uprooting trees, leveling telephone poles and damaging some small buildings. Two inches of rain fell.

Warnings Hoisted

The weather bureau ordered small craft warnings hoisted on the coast from Galveston to Corpus Christi. Advisories were a light tropical disturbance in the gulf would cause squally conditions.

Official reports set the temperature at Denton at 108, equal to the high since establishment of the state experiment station in 1913. The previous record was made in 1930.

Monthly maximums were established in Longview, where thermometers went to 108 2 degrees from the all-time record. Vernon, where the same figure was registered, Abilene, where the mercury hit 104, and Corsicana, where the 105-degree heat came within one degree of being the year's top.

Thermometers Sizzle

Dallas reported 105 and Fort Worth 106. Thermometers at Austin went to 100 and Palestine sweltered with 102 degrees. San Antonio had 100-degree readings. Shreveport, just across the Louisiana line, reported 102.

The storm at Frankston was apparently the center of a disturbance which brought scattered showers throughout East Texas. Palestine had .32 of an inch, and Corsicana's heat was broken by light precipitation.

PREDICTION IS MADE OF A QUICK END TO REVOLUTION

BY RAMON BLARDONY

(Copyright 1936 by Associated Press)

MADRID, Aug. 10 — Capture by loyalists of 13 rebel-occupied Spanish towns was reported today as the government predicted a quick end for the fascist rebellion.

The new leftist claims were made as the wife of Captain Rupert Saville, retired British naval officer, was recovering from injuries received when a rebel shell killed her husband aboard the yacht Blue Shadow in Gijon harbor.

Repercussions Feared

(Possible British repercussions of the death of Saville became apparent as authorities recalled the statement from London last week that further injuries to neutral nationals would demand "suitable steps.")

A loyal army entrenched at Havoperal in the Guadarrama mountains repulsed a rebel attack yesterday which sought to penetrate the steel blockade on the road to Madrid. Five hundred fascists were reported killed.

Victories Claimed

Loyalists claimed these victories:

1. Capture of the town of Lugones and seizure of a munitions factory by a column of militia led by Col. Gonzalez Pena in Oviedo province.

Rebel fatalities in the clash were declared to number 150 while no loyalists were said to have been killed or wounded. The importance of the capture, the ministry declared, came from the town's location as the only gap through which the rebel forces of Colonel Aranda might escape from Oviedo.

2. Occupation of ten towns in

RETURN TO REACTIONARY PRACTICES EVER SHORT-LIVED, ROOSEVELT SAYS

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—President Roosevelt told labor's Non-Partisan League today he was confident future history would show as it had in the past that "a return to reactionary practices is ever short-lived."

In a letter which George L. Berry, president of the league, read at the league's first national convention, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"During the past three years we have endeavored to correct through legislation certain of the evils in our economic system. We have sought to put a stop to certain economic practices which did not promote the general welfare.

"Some of the laws which were enacted were declared invalid by the Supreme court.

"It is a notable fact that it was not the wage earners who cheered when those laws were declared invalid.

"I greet you in the faith that future history will show, as past history has so repeatedly and so

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL TO W. A. WEBB

OFFICIALS LOOK ABOUT TODAY FOR SOMEONE TO FILL PLACE

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, August 10—Texas Centennial officials, shocked over the sudden death yesterday of William A. Webb, the exposition's general manager, looked about today for someone to fill the popular organizer's place.

It appeared likely that no action would be taken for several days. Fred Florence, president of the exposition corporation, said "we are so shocked that no one has had any thought of anything else just at the moment."

Credit For Success

Florence said that to Webb went the credit "more than to anyone else" for the fair's success thus far.

Webb, indefatigable worker who took over the $25,000,000 show when its future was dark and opening day loomed uncomfortably close, died of heart trouble. He was 58.

The former telegraph operator and railway official was brought from retirement last October to piece together what appeared to be a fast-crumbling internal structure and to hasten the erection of a slowly-rising external structure.

Refused Vacation

Two weeks ago Webb refused the request of the board of directors that he take a month's vacation with pay. His personal physician had joined in the plea. The manager had been working long hours daily at his desk.

Last week Harry A. Olmsted was appointed director general in a move to relieve Webb of some of his burdens.

Webb, a native of Ohio came to Texas from Colorado as general manager of the Texas Central railroad in Waco. In 1912 he became vice-president and general manager of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas rail-

ROBERT ALLEN IS CERTIFIED

ACTION TAKEN TODAY BY DEMO CHAIRMAN OF THIS COUNTY

Robert J. Allen has been certified as the nominee of the Democratic party for Lubbock county attorney in the office of the county clerk, it was learned this morning.

The certification was made despite a suit contesting his nomination.

Allen and others in the county who received majorities in the July 25 primary were certified by County Democratic Chairman L. C. Ellis.

Contest Is Filed

County Attorney Jess C. Levens, who received 249 less votes than did Allen in the primary, has filed suit in 72nd district court contesting the election.

"I am surprised that he would file such a petition reflecting on the honesty of the citizenship of Lubbock county," Allen said this morning. "As far as I can tell by a cursory examination of the petition, it will be difficult for him to substantiate his allegations."

Allen returned Sunday from Colorado.

In a truck which his eldest son, J. N. Hollis, 24, was driving, Mr. Hollis was knocked out of the cab into a barrow pit by the road and his body was run over when the vehicle was in collision with a light sedan driven by Frank Rowan of Frederick, Okla., according to a report from W. KANSAS CITY — The thieves who stole Mr. and Mrs. Chris C. Sexton's automobile soon changed their minds. They found they had stolen a child along with it.

OAK PARK, Ill. — The first name village Prosecutor Clarence A. Willard heard called when he arrived to prosecute traffic violators in Justice Martin McGrath's court was "Clarence A. Willard."

Oklahoma Senator Pays Off His Bet

WEWOKA, Okla., Aug. 10 (AP) — State Senator Al G. Nichols paid off an election bet in his home town here Saturday by parading through the streets clad only in shoes, shorts, shirt and tie.

Nichols had agreed to parade in knee pants if Governor Marland lost to Josh Lee in the recent Democratic U. S. Senatorial runoff.

A four-piece band accompanied the senator. He posed for photographs and thumbed his nose at 3,000 cheering spectators who lined the streets.

"Tell them we will be 200 per cent for Josh Lee in November," Nichols said.

CHICAGO CUBS ARE LEADING PACK AGAIN

BRUINS ARE TO MEET CARDS TODAY WITH LEAD AT STAKE

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's the Cubs against the field again.

Charley Grimm's Chicago champs have regained their collective batting eye. They've taken over the National league lead once more. And, with their great pitching staff still the strongest in the loop, they are once again definitely the club to beat in the stretch drive.

Not A Pushover

The sudden return of the Cubs batting punch over the week-end may not mean that they're finally out of their slump, but any outfit that can hammer out 56 hits in four games, as they have done since Friday, cannot be classed exactly as a pitcher's pushover.

They wound up their week-end bombardment yesterday with a 29-hit assault against the Pirates to take both ends of a double header, 10-1 and 9-2 and move back into the first-place they gave up last week because of weak hitting.

The Cardinals were knocked out of the lead by a tremendous hitting attack on the part of the Cincinnati Reds, who pounded 40 safe blows all over the lot to turn in a twin win, 10-2, and 12-5.

With the lead at stake, the Cubs and Cards clash today in the start of their second series in a week.

The only other outfit rated a chance, the fast-moving Giants, stretched their winning streak to seven yesterday by downing the Phillies 6-2 with Clyde Castleman starring in a three-hit eight-inning relief pitching trick.

Maintaining their 11-game American league lead, the Yankees bowled over the Athletics twice, 7-6 in ten innings and 3-0, with Lou Gehrig hitting his 34th homer in the opener.

The Indians saved second place with a doubleheader triumph over the White Sox, 9-1 and 5-2.

Rus Van Atta pitched the Browns to a 4-3 win over the Tigers while the Red Sox took the only victory of their series with the Senators, winning 8-2.

The Brooklyn Dodgers climbed out of the National league cellar for the first time in two months with a twin victory over the Bees 4-0 and 5-2.

AMERICAN DIVERS FIGHT FOR HONOR

The midwesterner and the southerner competing in separate groups in the Olympic stadium under a warm sun cooled by a slight breeze, led their rivals at the completion of the opening tests.

The official summary on the compulsory diving program follows: Degener, United States 74.86 points; Wayne, United States 72.47; Shibahara, Japan 70.02; Greene, United States 68.64; Weiss, Germany 66.74; Koyangi, Japan 63.29; Leikert, Czechoslovakia 62.99; Ismail, Egypt 62.75.

PITCHERS FOR TIP-TOP COLLAPSE; FIELDING ERRORS COSTLY

BY WINTON (COWBOY) KYLE

Perhaps they're not tops after all. The Tip-Toppers didn't show their tournament class yesterday afternoon, going down before the onslaught of the trailing Hubbers, 20 to 13.

The collapse of the pitching department, combined with fielding errors, spelled defeat for the score-hungry cafe club, despite their first inning splurge. The restaurant organization looked like legal tender the first frame, bringing home three runs while the Hubbers were score-dormant, and continued their barrage of markers in the third and fourth with four tallies.

Fifth Proves Downfall

Vociferous Allen, the Sled, implored his proteges to start ringing the gong and they responded with a lone score in the fourth and seven more in the fifth. That fifth inning was the downfall of the Tip-Toppers. The delicious offerings of Pitcher Ingram were too tasty to the Clothier team, and at that stage of the fray, Lefty "Demp" Webster was inserted into the game, but he fared no better than his predecessor Manager Huffman removed him in the eighth, and gave Bull Thompso, the nod. Thompson permitted five runs the one and two-thirds innings he toiled.

Lefty Blanchard heaved all the way for the Clothiers and dished out 15 hits, but his playmates overcame this deficiency by blasting the spheroid over the lot for a total of 18 safeties.

Three Over Fence

Three balls went sailing over the rails in this game off the bats of Lefty Bettes, Presley and a newcomer to the Clothiers, Coppage. Sled presented some new profiles in his lineup yesterday. Coppage, a brilliant catcher and equally efficient with the stick, and Blue Eyes Graham, who wore a Wilson uniform in the local tournament recently completed, were the additions.

Jimmy William, sponsor of the eats combination, refreshed his batting order, also. J. Payne, a capable third baseman, not to be confused with the first baseman Hollis Payne, served for the first time for the cafe team, as did Ingram, the chunker who was drafted from the Waco tournament just ended.

It was a tough one for the Tip-Toppers to lose, and a comeback for the Clothiers, who merited victory because of their strength in the late innings with the score against them.

By virtue of this win, the Clothiers are top-notch on the Plains until proven otherwise.

Officials Seeking Jobs In Big Tilt

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Forty-seven officials have applied for jobs in the New York Giants-College All-Star game here. . . . Most of them have offered to work without pay. . . . Looks now like the veteran Tom Thorpe will get the referee's post.

Columbia and Fordham are starting their annual football rivalry earlier than usual this fall. . . . Fordham has Southern Methodist booked for the polo grounds on Oct. 10, while just across the Harlem river Columbia will be tangling with Army. . . . No wonder Columbia is yelling the Fordham battle cry of one-dam, two-dam, three-dam, Fordham.

Frank Albertanti, famous Broadway press agent, who built up Max Schmeling, will try to do the same for the new American professional football league. . . . Jesse Owens is what the football coaches would call a real triple-threater. . . . It's a pity Jesse didn't take a few lessons in shot putting and left hand snatching. . . . Chances are he'd have won those events, too.

Tip-Top Softball Outfit Is Victor

In a game described as "free-hitting, free-scoring and free-erring," Lubbock's Tip-Top softball aggregation won a 10 to 6 decision at Slaton Sunday afternoon over the Santa Fe club.

There were few extra-base bingles, errors contributing to scores about as much as hits.

AMERICANS IN SEARCH FOR MORE WINS

TRACK, FIELD TITLE OF 1936 OLYMPICS IS TUCKED AWAY

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

BERLIN, Aug. 10—America's Olympians, with another men's track and field title safely tucked away, moved hopefully along widely scattered athletic fronts today, while the Japanese marathon victor, Kitei Son, was acclaimed for the greatest distance running finish the games ever have witnessed.

Passing the half way mark Americans safely defended the free style wrestling team honors as well as the track title and won an unexpected team victory in the grueling modern pentathlon with a trio of army officers.

Taste First Upset

The Japanese, who were considered a sure thing to retain the men's aquatic title, tasted their first upset in the 100-meter free style when Ferenec Csik of Hungary won in 57.6.

America qualified two girls in the 100-meters free style event, Katherine Rawls, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Olive McKean, Seattle.

The United States emerged with the highest honors in the blue ribbon Olympic sport, track, since the games at Stockholm in 1912.

Collects Four Medals

Jesse Owens, including his part in the sprint relay, became the first American to collect four gold medals since 1900, besides duplicating Paavo Nurmi's 1924 achievement.

The Americans figured in record smashing performances in eight of the 16 track and field events.

The broad jump standard which had stood since 1928 was bettered eight times, five by Owens. Five were under the former Olympic record both for the 1,500 meters and the 3,000 meters steeple-chase finals, while the first six in the 50 kilometer walk were under the former record.

Yesterday Son ran the marathon in two hours, 29 minutes, 19.2 seconds, well under the Olympic mark of 2:31:36 set by Xabala in 1932.

American Withdraws

The American, Ellison (Tarzan) Brown of Alton, R. I., ran well in the first half of the race then withdrew shortly before he collapsed. Bill McMahon of Worcester, Mass., also dropped out before tackling the hills the second time, leaving Johnny Kelly of Arlington, Mass., to carry the United States in the event. Kelly finished 18th.

Sam Stoller of Cincinnati, who, with Marty Glickman of Brooklyn lost his place on the sprint relay team, announced yesterday that he had decided to give up running, despite the fact that he has another year of competition at the University of Michigan. Glickman intimated that "politics" was responsible for the shift which cut him and Stoller off.

The case of Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett was still creating some disturbance in the Olympic village. After instructing the International Swimming Federation that Mrs. Jarrett was not eligible for competition in European amateur swimming events, Avery Brundage, formally entered the case in the books of the Amateur Athletic Union yesterday and discussed it with officials. He did not say, however, on what grounds Mrs. Jarrett had been ruled ineligible.

Softball Game Set For Parris Field

Terry & Childress Hardware company team will meet Tip-Top cafe's club.

The game will be called at 6:30 o'clock.

SET NEW RECORD

BERLIN, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Japanese quartet swept to an impressive victory in the third heat of the Olympic 800-meter relay swimming trials today, setting a new Olympic record of 8:56.1 as the American four previously qualified for tomorrow's final with a 9:10.4 performance.

Jesse Owens To Go Professional

NEGRO STAR WILL NEGLECT ANOTHER YEAR OF COLLEGE ATHLETICS TO CASH IN ON FAME

BERLIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—Jesse Owens, with the approval of Larry Snyder, his coach at Ohio State, announced today he would turn professional after completing a post Olympic tour, provided sufficient financial inducements are forthcoming.

Already besieged with offers, including a contract offering a 10 weeks personal appearance tour with a California orchestra, the winner of four Olympic gold medals frankly decided to cash in on his record and close his amateur career, despite the fact he has one more year's college eligibility.

Snyder, who coached Owens through his record-smashing Olympic exploits and rates the negro as the greatest track athlete of all time, is advising Jesse carefully, however, before he makes the professional move.

"It would be foolish for me to stand in Jesse's way," Snyder said. "He's absolutely at the height of his fame now. Nothing that he could do in his remaining year of college competition would lift him to a higher peak in the athletic world than he now enjoys."

STEERS AGAIN BOOST LEAD

CURT FULLERTON GETS ANOTHER GAME TO CREDIT SUNDAY

(By The Associated Press)

The Dallas Steers apparently can't be headed on their merry march to green pastures.

The league leaders stretched their advantage over the Houston Buffs to nine and a half games last night by trimming Fort Worth, 3 to 1, as big Jack Jakucki of the Galveston Pirates whipped the Buffs, 6-4.

Curt Fullerton, veteran Dallas hurler, received credit for the victory over the Panthers, although he was relieved in the eighth. It was his sixteenth win of the season and kept him in front of the other Texas league pitchers.

Jakucki held the usually-potent batsmen of the Houston team to five bingles and allowed but two earned runs.

Beaumont, 7 to 2 defeat at the hands of the San Antonio Missions, up and coming second division team, was doubly unfortunate. Shortstop Brown was injured rounding first base in the second inning and was forced to leave the game. He may be lost to the Exporters for a week or more.

Oklahoma City came from behind to defeat Tulsa, 10 to 6.

MANGRUM COPS OREGON OPEN

PAR-SHATTERING PACE SET; BIRDIE BLAST FIRED AT VICTOR

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 10 (AP)—Summer's golden golf trail through the west ended here today with a slender Pittsburgh professional, Ray Mangrum, winner of the $1,200 first prize in the $5,000 Oregon Open tournament.

The par-shattering pace was so hot the first eight money places went to professionals who shot consecutive rounds of par or better in the 72-hole test.

Tied At 63 Holes

Tied at 63 holes with Horton Smith, Chicago, and Al Zimmerman, Portland, Mangrum stood off a burst of birdies on all sides by getting a 34, two under par, on the last nine.

Zimmerman finished in a tie for second with Neil Christian, Yakima, Wash., who blazed home with a 69. Fourth and fifth places and prize money of $400 each went to Ralph Guldahl, St. Louis, and Charles Sheppard, Castlewood, Calif., tied at 280. Smith was sixth.

Tony Manero, U. S. Open champion, and Byron Nelson, Ridgewood, N. J., tied for seventh with 282s, five under par.

LUBBOCK POLO TEAM VICTOR ON SUNDAY

LOCAL MALLETEERS IN 3 TO 2 WIN OVER PLAINVIEW SQUAD

In a surprising display of form, Lubbock poloists Sunday afternoon defeated by three goals to two a malleteer squad from Plainview.

The regulation six-chukker affair, despite the near absence of penalties, was a hard-riding event, numerous races developing and one rider, Marvin Shurbet of Plainview, taking a cropper when his mount fell to its knees when tripped by a horse ridden by Bob Crenshaw, respectively No. 3 and No. 2 men for the invaders.

Floyd Fires Two

A swashbuckling horseman from Midland, Jay Floyd, fired two of the Lubbock goals, A. C. Woodward of Lamesa, rugged No. 2 man, accounting for the other. Floyd played No. 3, Claude Huribut No. 1, and Bob Hester No. 4 for the locals. R. E. Ponce, manager of Galbraith Steel Supply company, alternated at No. 1, Reece Mastin, young Tech instructor, at No. 2. Jo Dick Slaughter, former polo player, gave up refereeing for play in two chukkers, Huribut and Hester turning arbiter during that time.

"The Plainview players were good sportsmen and made the trip here at no expense to Lubbock," said Huribut. "They did so just to promote polo here and to give impetus to a proposed tournament later."

The Lubbock field was almost perfect, except for dust that fogged during play, said Hester. He said the length of the field runs east and west, which could be changed to advantage because of the sun. Otherwise, the playing ground boasts a springy turf that overlies a hard pan, ideal to polo. Wetting and rolling would place it in lightning condition.

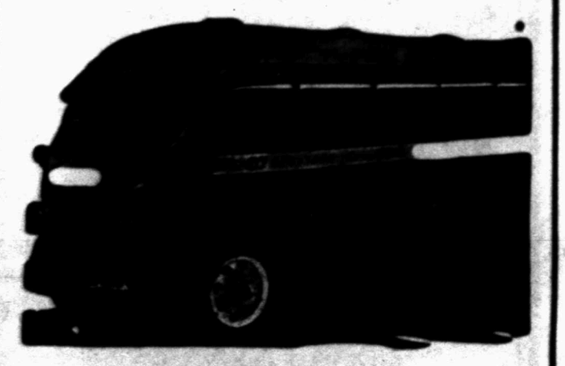

Possibility of utilizing the field lying inside the five-eighths-mile track at the Panhandle-South Plains fairgrounds is seen by the Lubbock players, who point to the convenience of a grandstand to be constructed and stables for horses. Lubbock could make polo an all-year sport and could attract many opponents of the game from West Texas.

Polo was played in Lubbock rather extensively about five years ago, but only H. H. Griffith and Hester remain from the original lineup.

Farmers are said to raise about 70 per cent of all the food products they require.

Planning a home is a popular pastime. People of every age and occupation are apt to indulge in it, and the results of planning are seldom the same. Preferences in architectural style differ, requirements for living and entertaining differ, expenditures differ. Nevertheless, certain principles underlying good construction should always be observed, regardless of cost limits or personal preference as to style and decoration. These principles extend through the entire process of planning and building, and are briefly outlined here. It's safe to plan your home yourself . . . as long as you call in a competent architect before actual construction begins! But don't rely on your own judgment to see you through the actual building!

Small Low Cost House

Of simple clapboard construction, this house is a direct expression of its purpose—a small house from a limited appropriation. Even the front vestibule is eliminated for the sake of economy.

The foundation walls and columns are of local field stone, the basement floor of waterproofed concrete. The porches, however, are floored with tile.

Inside, the floors are of oak with pine for trim, shelving and cabinets. The walls are papered and the floors stained, shellacked and waxed.

Common brick went into the fireplace facings and hearths, and the mantel is of wood.

Built from a design by Walter Brandee Kirby, architect, the house is one of a group of small homes chosen by "The Architectural Forum."

If such a thing comes to pass, it will be too bad.

But don't ever think that part of the country will ever forget Will Rogers. It couldn't if it wanted to, and of course it doesn't want to.

The traveler on Highway 66 from Tulsa to St. Louis enters Claremore from the south and the first thing he sees is a sign on the water tower reading: Will Rogers Home Town.

He goes further along and he sees direction signs to the "Will Rogers hote."

And before he leaves Claremore behind he can't help but notice the "Will Rogers Airport."

A fair tribute, we'll say—and well earned.

WHILE everyone is still talking about the tragic end to the once promising career of Marion Zioncheck it is not amiss. The Plainsman thinks, to add a little information here-to-fore unprinted.

As everyone remembers, Zioncheck has been in the news and a topic of conversation for months. It is not strange then, to see that The Plainsman, during a recent visit in Washington and at the Democratic National convention at Philadelphia asked a few questions about the Seattle storm center.

All in all, your humble servant asked four of Zioncheck's brother congressmen about him. Two of them were Texans, the other two were from Michigan. All were Democrats and all knew Zioncheck well.

The Plainsman talked to the four separately but their combined stories added up more or less uncommonly well.

When Marion Zioncheck was himself there was not a more earnest, a more ambitious, a more thoughtful, or a more courageous congressman in all the state capitol.

He had a burning zeal to do something for his country and for the people of the country who were symbolical of the people of his home district. Zioncheck came from a crowded underprivileged district and he felt a great debt to the people who first sent him to Washington and then returned him there for a second term.

Hence, he naturally wanted to do something for them.

As one Michigan congressman summed it up:

"Marion was the hardest worker in the house. If he believed something was good, he fought for it on the floor or in committee room.

"If he believed something was wrong, he fought against it, just as hard. I have seen him jeopardize his own political position many times, doing what he thought was right.

"Sometime last fall or early winter he suffered a disappointment in love. After that, as the whole world knows, he went to pieces. He couldn't do much after that, for himself or for the House of Representatives.

"But you put this down in your book: Zioncheck was just the victim of circumstances. He was a swell guy — and basically, still is."

ZIONCHECK's mental and physical crack-up caused him to daily too long and too often with the wine when it was red.

He suddenly became the symbol of the crack-pot.

But since "there's a Destiny which shapes our ends," it behooves us now to be not too harsh in the judgment of the Seattle boy who skidded to the end of his rope.

We'd do better to remember these lines, written by someone who was far ahead of the pack:

"There is so much bad in the best of us,
And so much good in the worst of us,
It little behooves any of us
To criticize the rest of us!"

Sassy Spanky McFarland A Natural; Famous Boy Star First Genius Since Jackie Cooper, Director Claims

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10—George Robert Phillips McFarland, who will be 8 years old on Oct. 2, is climaxing his five years as a leading man by starring in a feature picture. He has the title role, too, for the flicker will be called "General Spanky."

Spanky isn't sure that he wants to be called Spanky any longer. Sounds infantile and is, in fact a relic of his earliest days with Hal Roach and the "Our Gang" comedies. Mr. McFarland is a veteran now, and seems to be still in the ascendancy. His salary has been boosted from $750 to $1250 a week.

But Spanky still gets spanked occasionally. Sometimes for swearing. Adults around the Roach studio have been trained for years to avoid profanity, but the kid star has picked up an impressive vocabulary somewhere.

His other most frequent offense is rough-housing with his brother in the living room when their parents have company. You see, he's an exhibitionist, as are most actors.

Not Much Play Time

His brother Tom, 5, doesn't look at all like George Robert Phillips McFarland, and is not in the movies. The four McFarlands together with an off-white mongrel named Tiny, live in a four-story house on the summit of a Hollywood hill.

Spanky ordinarily has little chance for recreation at home; gets up at 7:45 a. m., is brought from the studio at 5 p. m. and goes to bed about 8.

Fortuitously, he still is small for his age; stands 42 1-2 inches and weighs 52 pounds. He has had measles and whooping cough, and now has slight attacks of asthma.

The Male Garbo

Interviewers never get anywhere with Spanky. He'll shake hands politely enough, but after that he is about as garrulous as Garbo. This doesn't seem to be shyness; he's just bored.

He has a vivid imagination, and to playmates and studio executives he spins the wildest yarns.

He's independent and a shade sassy, but not temperamental. When a director calls him before the camera, Spanky invariably says, "Ah, nuts!" When he is confident of his lines and ready for the camera to roll, he says, "Okay, Toots."

No Respect For Stars

Once his father asked him if he'd like to see Clark Gable. Spanky asked, "What's Clark Gable — a horse?"

When he met oConstance Bennett, the actress gushed a greeting and kissed him. Spanky reared back and made the most frightful face he could muster.

Parent And Director Differ

Robert McGowan, the kid expert who was his first director, declared that "Spanky is a natural—the first genius I've directed since Jackie Cooper."

Mrs. McFarland: "I wouldn't say that Sonny (his parents always have called him Sonny) is a genius, or has a superior intelligence. He's all boy and has a wonderful personality. His personality is what has made him popular."

At the studio he works four hours a day, studies three, plays one. He gets good grades, especially in spelling and drawing. Most of his spare time is spent making sketches.

Spanky still doesn't learn his lines by reading them from the script; a director teaches him line by line and explains the scene. He can remember as many lines as the average adult actor, and almost never blows up. But he often fails to deliver the proper expression.

Spaghetti Eater

He's an honorary deputy sheriff of Los Angeles County, and proud of it. Spaghetti is his grand passion, but he's permitted to have it only once a week. He has no set allowance for spending money, and his parents are investing practically all his salary in real estate and annuities.

They have to mail about 1000 pictures each month to Spanky's fans. His own favorite actor is Fred MacMurray.

Spanky and Tom have a room of their own, with twin beds. The place is cluttered with plaster dolls of the kind people sometimes win at carnival concessions. That's how Spanky got them; to him they're trophies, not dolls.

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

THE WAR DEBT SITUATION

As war clouds are lowering in Europe the story is going about our land that certain of our former allies are anxious to make adjustments of their debts to us.

Let it be remembered that those debts were incurred while those nations were at war; that after the armistice, while conditions were to their liking, those nations carefully and deftly sidestepped their obligations.

Let us also remember that, judging from past performances, not a single one of those nations (save little Finland which is not threatened by present conditions) has any desire to pay us save for one reason. That reason is, of course, to secure our support in future hostilities.

The report is current that Mr. Roosevelt, upon reelection, will seek to settle the war debts on a 40-cents-or-the-dollar basis. If he succeeds, he will lay this nation open to further entangling alignments and it won't be worth the price.

The Evening Journal, once a disciple of "make 'em pay in full," hopes Mr. Roosevelt will not and cannot, upon reelection, reach any agreement with our one-time allies. It's not worth the price.

We believe to do so would be to tie in with whatever other difficulties Europe may have. They haven't paid—or wanted to pay—thus far.

Why accept any sort of a payment now?

Dutcher's News And Views OF WASHINGTON

(Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Certain localized pains, vague or pronounced in accordance with the patient's individual constitution, are beginning to afflict some of the liberals who decided to support Governor Landon for election.

The pangs, of course, are almost pleasant sensations in comparison with some of the agony which has caused certain 1932 conservative supporters of Roosevelt to go leaping over the imaginary fence which divides the political parties.

But they are very obvious to such newspaper correspondents as are accustomed to receive the unburdenings of souls inhabiting persons of diverse political hues.

Naturally enough, there is appearing in the Landon camp a division between liberals and conservatives which is more or less comparable to the constant battle which has gone on between conservatives and liberals in the New Deal.

The left-wingers of the Roosevelt army are relatively wild and woolly radicals when you compare them with the left-wingers among Landon's cohorts and the reactionaries behind Landon are more numerous and more reactionary than those supporting Roosevelt. But there are fringes which almost overlap in their socio-economic belief.

Liberals Grumble

The grumblings come from those who tend to deplore the conservatism of the governor's acceptance speech, the conservative tendencies of his advisers, the marked extent to which Landon has reversed himself from previous endorsements of liberal New Deal measures or policies, and the rather general reaction of labor leaders against the governor's remarks on labor.

It is quite reasonable to doubt whether this development will have any influence whatever on the outcome of the campaign. The liberal vote as such is rather a nebulous factor and, even so, presumably only a small portion of it is sufficiently footloose at this stage to be swung by political philosophy as unfolded in the campaign.

Perhaps it is even hazardous to say that if the big campaign issue were to be drawn between "Roosevelt and reaction" the voters would be sure to choose Roosevelt. They may very well be ripe for "reaction."

Some hard-boiled politicians even think that if the Republican candidate were to declare firmly against the principle of labor union organization — which is unthinkable — he would attract enough middle class and farmer votes thereby to make it politically worthwhile.

Sez Hand Of Landon's Uncle

Nevertheless, the rumor is beginning to get around that certain portions of the Landon acceptance speech were deleted and other portions inserted by Landon's uncle, William Mossman, public relations man and lobbyist for the Jones & Laughlin Steel Co., thorough-going conservative.

This may not be proved, but it will be charged. It is reported that the Landon brain trust at Topeka was not nearly as pleased with the speech as delivered as it was with the speech as first prepared.

Visits of Wall Street bank representatives, Chairman John Hamilton's attack on John L. Lewis, and the Liberty League characterization of Co. Knox's speech also annoy the Landon liberals. They recall that Landon was once promising that "racketeers like Insull, Morgan, and Van Sweringen" should be driven from industry and finance by public scorn and the government's strong arm.

They doubt whether it does Landon any good to be repudiating previous kind words about Roosevelt and the New Deal.

New Dealers Perk Up

New Dealers, meanwhile, seem to think that Landon and Hamilton are doing themselves much more harm than good — especially with remarks that have antagonized organized labor and Landon's subsequent explanations.

It is easy to see the Democrats' confidence pick up. But if the next polls show an increase of Landon sentiment, they will be thrown into funk and panic.

The Landon liberals will doubtless learn to put up with a lot, just as the Roosevelt liberals have. The latter are forced to sleep with the fact that the New Deal, with all its pretensions of sweetness and light, is depending vitally for November success on such notorious political machines as those of Tammany in New York, Guffey in Pennsylvania, Pendergast in Missouri, Hague in New Jersey, Curley in Massachusetts, Huey Long's heirs in Louisiana, and so on.

And the list of business men supporting the Roosevelt regime for selfish reasons is no small one, even though they didn't manage to ton down his acceptance speech.

So Much for Love

by HAROLD JONES
© 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HELENA DERRIK, youthful head of the women's sportswear department of Helvig's store, goes on a week-end party at Crest Mountain Lodge. There she meets handsome PETER HENDERSON. It is a case of love at first sight between them. Peter asks Helen to marry him, and the ceremony takes place.

Later the crowd goes swimming. Peter makes a reckless dive and is seriously injured. Lingering between life and death, he asks Helena to summon his lawyer, JOHN COURTNEY.

Courtney arrives and a short time later Peter dies. Helena learns she is sole heir to a large fortune, including the Henderson department store. She meets beautiful LEAH FRAZIER who had expected to marry Peter and realizes Leah is an enemy. Peter's uncle, Roger Barnes, manager of the store, is also hostile.

Helena decides to take over management of the store. JOHN LASSITER, banker, and Courtney are her allies. Leah Frazier tells Helena that unless she leaves town Leah and her friends will boycott the store.

This makes Helena more determined to win her fight. She tells Lassiter and Courtney that, once she has won, she intends to give up the store.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

John Lassiter turned to Helena in astonishment. "Turn the store back?" he repeated. "You can't really be serious. To whom would you turn it back? Certainly you wouldn't hand it to Roger Barnes on a silver platter!"

Helena smiled. "No, I don't think I'd do that. Why couldn't I turn it back to the employes? Give them stock according to the length of time they've been with Henderson's. You and Mr. Courtney could run it. I've heard of such plans working out very well."

"That may be," said Lassiter, turning to her. "But we want you to stay here."

Courtney guided the coupe out of Main Street and toward Helena's apartment. "Indeed, we do."

"Who're 'we'?" Helena demanded. "I'm afraid it's only you two."

Lassiter grinned. "Isn't that enough?"

"Of course," Helena laughed. "It's enough for me. But a store has to have the good will of the town. Barnes was right about that. Do you think I've really destroyed a lot of good will by having him write those letters suspending credit?"

"No," the banker told her flatly. "That's just good business. You never destroy good will with legitimate business practices."

"But I had another reason, Mr. Lassiter. Just before I came to the store this afternoon Leah Frazier called on me. She threatened to boycott the store, and to urge all her friends to do the same. I wanted to beat her to it, make her and her friends feel that Henderson's isn't anxious for the type of business they have to give."

Courtney brought the car to the curb before Helena's apartment. "You don't need to go up with me," she told them. "I'll see you both tomorrow—and thanks so much for your help and encouragement."

The two men watched her to the door, then turned to face each other. "She's certainly got the stuff!" exclaimed Lassiter admiringly.

The lawyer nodded. "There's no better," he admitted. "But . . . Lassiter, you know she's going to have one hell of a time in this town."

"Yes . . ." said young Lassiter slowly. "That's true."

If Helena realized how difficult the task before her was going to be, she gave no sign of it when she walked briskly to Henderson's Department Store next morning at 8. Smartly yet demurely turned out in a dark suit with a tiny white frill at the throat, she hurried down Main Street. Reaching the store building, it occurred to her that she was early—and that she had no key. "I should have got one yesterday," she scolded herself. "But, then, it'll be sort of amusing to wait and have someone let me in."

She did not have to wait long. As she stood before the curtained doors a young man barged suddenly into the entrance way and almost collided with her. His own embarrassment succeeded in flustering Helena. Clumsily he raised his hat. "Good morning, Mr. Henderson . . ." He stopped, reddening. "I—I recognized you from yesterday. I'm Harvey Jameson, in charge of the hardware department."

Helena extended her hand. "Good morning, Mr. Jameson. Would you mind letting me in? I'm afraid I neglected to get a key to the building."

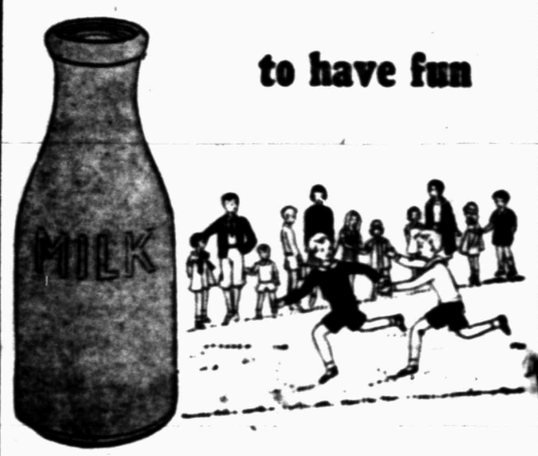

"Of course," he said.

Inside the store Helena was moved by a sudden impulse to ask him a curious thing. She liked Harvey Jameson at once. He was transparently sincere—a good friend and a poor enemy. "I was wondering, Mr. Jameson, what what most of the people thought of my little appearance yesterday afternoon. I was so terribly nervous I really don't know just what I said."

"You were great!" Jameson said suddenly. "I mean—what I mean was that everybody liked what you said. And," he added honestly, "that's saying a lot, because

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (AP)—Disappointing behavior of foreign markets in virtually ignoring Canadian government confirmation of big crop losses led to late as well as early downturns today of wheat prices here.

Wheat closed weak, 1 cent to 1 3-4 under Saturday's finish, Sep. 110 1-2 to 5-8, Dec. 110 3-8 to 1-2, corn 3-8 to 1 5-8 down, Sep. 103 1-4 to 3-8, Dec. 92 5-8 to 3-4, oats unchanged to 3-8 lower, and provisions varying from 7 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 27 to 31 lower on Saturday's bearish government crop report and easier Liverpool cables which were partly offset by active trade buying. Oct. 11.70; Dec. 11.73; Jan. 11.74; March 11.80; May 11.77; July 11.74.

Orders were pretty evenly divided at the initial decline. After showing net losses of 31 to 33 points with Dec. selling down to 11.69 or 109 points below the high price touched early in July, the market held fairly steady.

Prices at the end of the first hour however were within a point or two of the lowest with the demand from the trade or shorts supplied by additional liquidation.

The volume of business tapered off after the close of markets abroad had shut out arbitrage business which had been quite active during the first hour and the market at mid-day was quiet and fairly steady. After the decline to 11.69, Dec. sold up to 11.78 with active months generally showing net losses of about 22 to 25 points at mid-day.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 10. (AP)—Cotton dropped around a dollar and a half a bale on the market here today in response to bearish crop estimate issued by the government Saturday.

Near positions showed the largest decline. Oct opened 27 points lower at 11.65, Dec. was off 29 points at 11.63 and Jan lost a similar amount at 11.69. March, May and July held a few points above the 11.70 level in scattered transactions.

Options recovered about half of their early losses during the morning. Profit taking by short interests and some new buying for speculative accounts reversed the early trend.

Oct. moved up to 11.74, Dec. sold at 11.75 and March at 11.85 when trading passed the half-way mark.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Coppers put on a burst of speed in the stock market today, some of them whirling up to new highs while the rest of the market recovered somewhat from early irregularity.

Demand for the metal issues was said in Wall street to have been whipped up by rising copper prices abroad as the result of feverish buying, much of it for armaments purposes.

Anaconda and Kennecott, both thrusting up to new highs, were among the leaders of the copper group which netted gains of fractions to around a point. Others moving higher were Andes and Phelps Dodge.

The market got away to a steady start, slipped and then recovered to show upturns of fractions to a point or so. Risers included Bethlehem Steel, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, International Harvester, American Can, Consolidated Edison, American Telephone, General Electric, Union Pacific and Northern Pacific.

Pullman, Case and Westinghouse jumped more than 2 points on moderate turnover.

Allied Chemical, a fast-stepping issue last week, bumped into profit-taking and gave up 2 points or so.

Alcohols scoring gains of fractions to a point or so included Distillers Corp.-Seagrams, Schenley, National Distillers and U. S. Industrial Alcohol.

weren't very sure we would."

She met his eyes. "Why would you come to a conclusion like that?"

Jameson hesitated. "I—I don't know. I guess it would be that way with any new owner." He was refusing to let Barnes in for anything, and Helena admired him for it. She turned to the stairs which led to the mezzanine offices. "I'll be seeing you later on."

"Yes, Mrs. Henderson . . . " He seemed about to say something more, thought better of it—then finally blurted out: "I . . . I was terribly sorry to hear about Mr. Henderson. "I didn't know him very well, but—"

"Thank you, Mr. Jameson. I appreciate what you say."

But Helena told herself as she climbed the stairway to the mezzanine, she didn't really appreciate what Harvey Jameson had said. The truth was that his condolences embarrassed her. And why? Resolutely she faced this question. "It's because—because I feel so little for poor Pete. . . . no, that's not true. I do feel a great deal for him. But not enough. Not what a widow should." A widow! An odd word—a word which did not, really, belong to her at all. Looking back now at those hectic days at Crest Mountain Lodge, she realized that what had happened to her could never have happened had she met Peter Henderson in town. It had been a—yes, a summertime infatuation. And Sandra Leigh's enthusiasm had helped to carry her away.

Too late now to ponder over this. With the heartlessness of reality, a row of office doors confronted her. As she stood there, looking at them, she was startled by a footfall on the stairway. She turned to see Roger Barnes.

"Good morning," he said. His whole manner had changed from the day before. Now he was pleasant—almost too pleasant, Helena thought suspiciously. "Down early, I see." He came toward her, grasped her hand unnecessarily. "I planned to get—ah—Mr. Henderson's office ready for you before you arrived this morning."

"Would you mind very much, Mr. Barnes, if I took another office?"

He seemed astonished. "Why—why, that office is the largest and has the best light. And the furniture is very comfortable. I—"

"Why don't you take that one, then? I could go into yours."

Barnes was obviously delighted with the suggestion. "Well, now, I—"

"Let's have it that way," Helena smiled. "Assuming, of course, that you have decided to stay—that you believe my policies will be compatible with your ideas."

He shrugged the remark away. "I'm sure we can get along, Mrs. Henderson. I—I'll be only too glad to carry out your suggestions as best I can."

With the help of the janitor, Barnes lost no time in moving his papers and files into the spacious office which had been Peter Henderson's on those rare occasions when he spent some time at the store. Thus Helena soon found herself seated at the desk which had been Barnes'. "With," she told herself, "nothing to do." But she quickly decided to make a tour of the departments of the store, slipping out before Barnes or some other officer had a chance to show her around. She was about to leave the office when Barnes' secretary appeared.

"Mrs. Frank Frazier and her daughter would like to see you," the girl said.

Helena's heart sank. "All . . . right, Miss Marks."

Mrs. Frank Frazier was even more regal than her daughter. Helena was reminded of a little verse she had once read—about a woman who seemed serenely certain that in heaven there would be black cherubs to make her bed. But the queenliness of both mother and daughter was somewhat marred at this moment by anger. Helena saw that graciousness would be out of place now.

"We've been told by one of the girls downstairs," said Leah at once "that nothing more is to be charged to us. Just what does this mean?"

Helena started. "Why—" she paused, embarrassed. "I'm afraid that in a way there's been a mistake. You should have received a letter notifying you. I believe the letters are going out today. There should have been no notice to the employes until—"

"Please don't quibble. With the present management one can expect a good many mistakes, as you call them. But is it, or is it not true that you have suspended our charge accounts?"

"That's quite true," said Helena evenly. "If you will recall the amount now owing us, and the length of time it's been overdue, I'm sure you will understand."

"Understand!" flamed Mrs. Frazier. "We understand nothing except that you are a common little upstart. And that you will regret the day you came here—through what was nothing more than an unfortunate accident." She turned to her daughter. "Come, Leah!"

The door slammed hard enough to shake the pictures on the wall, and Helena dropped back into her chair, not knowing whether to laugh or cry. She was still undecided when the telephone rang at her elbow.

"This is John Lassiter," the voice said. "How are you this morning?"

"Right now," Helena admitted, "I don't feel so well."

"Then perk up. Because I'm inviting you to a party."

"A . . . a party?"

"Oh, not right now," Lassiter hurried on. "It's a whole month from now and by that time you—well, you ought to be going places again. If you're to live in this town you'll have to attend the annual Sunshine Club ball. It's the biggest thing of the year. I'm asking you 30 days ahead of time, because I've an idea you're going to be a mighty popular young woman hereabouts."

"I wish," said Helena weakly, "I could think so, too . . . just a little bit."

TEXAS IS PLACE TO LOOK FOR PRETTY GIRLS; SCOUTS FOR TALENT SAY POTENTIAL STAR BORN EVERY MINUTE

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 10 (AP)—To Hollywood studio scouts, Texas is the place to look for pretty girls. Talent hunters say in all seriousness, "there's a potential star born down there every minute." Movie history has shown that they were right.

The present roster of players who first opened their eyes on Texas skies bears out the studio sentiment.

Joan And Ann Texans

The two first-ranking stars, Joan Crawford and Ann Harding, are only a few of the many. Brilliant blondes, beautiful brunettes, and radiant red-heads have come in an unending parade to the film colony but beauty isn't the only commodity Texas sends to Hollywood.

Tom Mix, greatest of western stars—a man so popular his pictures once supported an entire major studio for several years—lists El Paso as his home town. Actually, he was born in Indian Territory before it had achieved statehood, but he lists himself as a Texan.

Since his retirement, Mix's mantle as a hard-ridin' hero has fallen largely on the shoulders of Ken Maynard, who comes from Mission. Guinn "Big Boy" Williams is another son of the Lone Star State who brought his horse to Hollywood.

Along with the cowboys are the comedians. Ted Healy, Guy Kibbee and Lucien Littlefield, are among the most sought-after players in pictures.

Executives, writers and other native Texans in the studios could not be listed except in a large-sized book. This list, however should not be dismissed without the mention of at least one director, King Vidor, who came from Galveston and has held his place as one of the three or four "ace" megaphonists for many years.

Vidor practically demanded the assignment to direct a picture now in production, "The Texas Rangers," when it officially went on the Paramount studio production program this year. It was suggested Paramount executives by Gov. James Allred when he visited Hollywood with the Southern Methodist university football team after the Rose Bowl game, last Jan. 1.

Meanwhile, two of the newest movie recruits from Texas are making rapid strides to what appears certain stardom. They are Nan Grey of Universal, and Anita Thompson, of Twentieth Century-Fox. Miss Grey's last role was a featured part with Edward Arnold in "Sutter's Gold." Miss Thompson, after finishing in "King of Burlesque," is working with Herbert Marshall and Simone Simon in "Girls Dormitory. Directors believe they are headed for the heights.

Considers Offers

Mary Brian has returned from England and, free-lancing, has a number of offers she is considering. Helen Vinson is on the other side of the Atlantic working in the English studios.

John Boles, the best-known Texas actor, has been resting since he made "A Message To Garcia." He has signed new contracts both for the movies and the radio.

A fellow-Texan is giving Boles hot competition in the running for the position of the most popular actor from the Lone Star State. He is "Spanky" MacFarland, the tiny youngster who came very close to "stealing" all the scenes from the stars in "The Trail Of The Lonesome Pine." Master MacFarland had been fairly successful in comedy, prior to that picture. Now he's almost as much in demand as Barrymore.

Here They Are

The list of stars who came from Texas is so long Hollywood refuses to consider it "The Lone Star State."

Here they are:
