Green Refuses Lewis Challenge

O'Daniel Lends Willing Ear To Dirt Farmers

Pulls On Cowboy Boots And Steps Into Rodeo Arena To Listen To Their Troubles

(By The Associated Press)

CORSICANA, Oct. 11 — Non-committal on the AAA-domestic allotment farm conflict now raging in Texas, Governor-Nominate W. Lee O'Daniel today told a meeting of 1,200 dirt farmers he would have nothing to say with reference to federal legislation.

After asserting he wanted to know only what the state government could do that would be beneficial to agriculture he went down into the rodeo arena where he had spoken and scuffed his cowboy boots in the dust with overalled farmers who told him their troubles.

Their Stories Are Told

G. E. Lawson, Ellis county farmer, told him 85 per cent of the farmers in that county were for Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and the AAA plan. Another told him the farmers wanted a graduated tax in Texas under which the man with 2,000 acres would pay a higher rate than the man with 200 acres. A farm wife told him to take care of his health while governor. He listened to all, and asked few questions.

O'Daniel appeared on the same program with J. E. McDonald, state agricultural commissioner, who took the occasion—a meeting sponsored by the Farmers Union of Texas—to renew his attack on the AAA.

Plan Is Explained

McDonald again explained the domestic allotment plan he is advocating, under which farmers would be allotted their share of the domestic market with a subsidy to assure a parity price, and then use their own judgment in regard to how much they would raise for possible foreign consumption.

Not on the program, but in the crowd and passing out literature, was Alexander Boynton of San Antonio, Republican nominee for governor and O'Daniel's opponent in the general election in November. The literature was a mimeographed sheet containing a six-point attack on O'Daniel's candidacy.

"I didn't come here to tell you farmers how to farm," O'Daniel said.

Just There To Listen

"You've already been told enough about that. I came here just to talk with the men who scratch the dirt. I have no pet theories I intend to inflict on people. You boys who till the soil know more about it than

Girl's Battered Body Found On Highway

(By The Associated Press)

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Oct. 11 — A 63-year-old man who gave his address as Columbus, Nev., was held in Quay county jail here tonight while officers investigated the bizarre death of a 20-year-old girl hitchhiker from Springfield, Mo.

The girl, identified as Florence Marie Bell, was found in a badly battered condition 13 miles east of Santa Rosa, N. M., at 2 o'clock this morning and died a few hours later in a Tucumcari general hospital without regaining consciousness.

The Nevada man told Sheriff Fred White he picked up the girl on the outskirts of Amarillo, Tex., on highway 66 and that she said she was going to California, where the man said he was also going to spend the winter.

They ran out of gas, Sheriff White quoted him as saying, and he attempted to flag passing cars unsuccessfully. The girl offered to try, and in doing so was hit by "a black automobile" which sped on westward, the Nevada man said.

Miss Bell was barefooted when found, her shoes beside the highway. Blood was spattered about the front and rear of the late model car the pair was using. The car bore Nevada license plates. A deep, three-cornered gash was between the girl's eyes, both legs were broken in several places, her scalp lacerated and she had suffered severe internal injuries. Sheriff White said her body bore no bruises or minor scratches.

She was brought to Tucumcari by a "Mr. Vicks," grocer from Gates City, N. M.

No charges had been filed late tonight.

Lewis' Offer To Resign As C!O Chairman Branded As Attempted Fraud On Public

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Oct. 11 — President William Green of the American Federation of Labor tonight placed his future as head of the federation in the hands of 5,600,000 workmen. He called John L. Lewis' offer to resign as C. I. O. chairman, if Green would step down as A. F. of L. president "an attempted fraud on the public."

"It is obvious," Green said, "that even if he (Lewis) resigned as chairman of C. I. O. he still would remain its dictator."

Up For Reelection

Green, as yet unopposed, is up for reelection Friday. In Washington today Lewis offered to retire as C. I. O. chieftain if Green would relinquish the A. F. of L. presidency. Lewis' offer came after the A. F. of L. convention yesterday adopted a resolution saying Lewis' removal or resignation would help to bring labor peace.

"The presidency of the American Federation of Labor is an elective office," Green said. "The chairmanship of the C. I. O. is an entirely different proposition. The officers of the C. I. O. are not elected by the workers they presume to represent. They are self constituted, self appointed, self perpetuating.

Speaks For Majority

"I conceive it to be my duty as president of the A. F. of L. to be the spokesman for the majority of the 5,000,000 workers who rule the federation. I have never sought and I do not now seek to impose my personal views on the members of the federation, nor to control or dominate its policies. In every statement and in every act of the A. F. of L. I have sought earnestly and honestly to present the majority viewpoint.

"On the other hand, the chairman of the C. I. O., as everyone knows, is the dictator of the C. I. O. He has not once even consulted the membership of the C. I. O. during his regime.

"Now he offers to resign if I will.

"Well, the World series is over.

She Won't Starve

Irked by conflicting reports that she had received a million-dollar inheritance or would receive it soon, pretty Jessie Barker, above, secluded herself in the home of her mother and stepfather in Louisville, Ky. "She's just an ordinary girl," said stepfather Wright Barr in denying Miss Barker had already received a check for a million left in trust by her father, Jesse Barker, of Peoria, Ill. Her family said she would get the million next spring. Meanwhile Miss Barker is existing on $1,000 a month.

Seventeen Dead As Fires Rage Over Forests

Several Other Persons Are Missing; Men And Planes Used To Battle Flames

(By The Associated Press)

FOUR more deaths late Tuesday brought to 17 the toll from the northern Minnesota and nearby Canadian brush and forest fires. Provincial police at Fort Frances, Ont., said several persons were missing in the area fifty miles northwest of that city where twelve others were burned fatally.

The latest victims were Maxine Labelle, 11, who died in a Fort Frances hospital; Joseph Dardis, 67, International Falls, Minn., who died of a heart attack while aiding in rescue work, and Ben Fuls, 25, whose body was found near his burned cabin in Dance township, Ontario. An inidentified man also was found dead in Dance township.

Twelve In Same Family

Twelve of the dead were members of the Frank, William and Noah Labelle families, living in Dance township, province of Ontario. A Park Rapids, Minn., CCC boy was killed in the crash of two forestry service fire trucks and a fire fighter suffocated near International Falls.

The fire danger was diminished somewhat by overnight showers but a brisk south wind was again fanning flames, crowding fire lines manned by more than 3,000 men aided by airplanes.

Tried To Escape

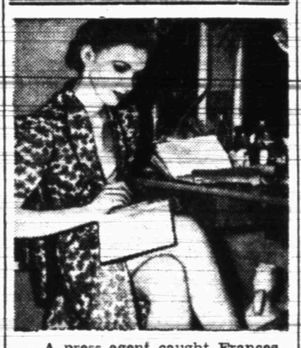

Details of the Canadian woods tragedy were received by provincial police at Fort Frances. The three Labelle brothers families tried to escape first by horse drawn rig and then afoot after burning trees blocked the road.

Frank Labelle directed the trapped group, including mostly small children to lie on their faces in the woods trail.

Those who did so, were saved but one of the mothers who perished became panicky and with a one year old child in her arms, tried to outrace the flames. In the excitement, other children followed her.

Two Girls Are Slightly Hurt

Arthur Humphreys, 40, Victim; Auto Overturns At Curve And Rolls Into Second Machine

(Special to The Avalanche)

SEAGRAVES, Oct. 11. — Arthur Humphreys, 40, Seagraves mechanic, was killed, and two girls injured, in an automobile accident two miles east of here about 7:30 o'clock last night.

Misses Billie McConnal, 18, and Connie McConnal, 19, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie McConnal of Loop, suffered bruises and shock.

Had Turned Corner

According to reports by investigators, Humphreys, in a 1934 model heavy sedan, had turned a corner on the dirt road and the McConnals, in a 1938 model light sedan, had pulled off the right side of the road.

Apparently the Humphreys machine overturned at the curve and rolled into the car occupied by the McConnal girls which had almost come to a standstill.

Authorities here said both machines were demolished.

Funeral Set Today

Body of Humphreys was taken to the Joe H. Webb Funeral home and later today transferred to Hamlin where funeral services probably will be held at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Humphreys is survived by his wife and two sons, J. E. Humphreys and Arthur Humphreys, both of Seagraves.

He was a mechanic here at Creel's garage, said the funeral home.

Seagraves officers made investigations and Texas Highway patrolmen assisted today. Patrolmen here from the Lubbock district office of the Texas Highway patrol were Tom Majors and H. D. Miller.

Excitement Caused In Matador Tuesday As Skeleton Is Unearthed Near Courthouse

(Special To The Avalanche)

MATADOR, Oct. 11. — Unearthing of a skeleton, believed to be that of a woman's, within a block of the Motley county courthouse a few minutes after noon today caused no little excitement here.

Although identification was impossible, an element of mystery shrouded the incident.

Varying opinions were offered by the many Matador residents who gathered on the banks of the small creek where the body was found.

It was buried six to 10 inches deep, and residents here surmised the body must have been hidden there in the last few years because of the condition of the bones. They were described as being in a "fair" state of preservation.

Others said they believed it was possibly the body of an Indian buried there before the town was settled. There was no grave; the ground was level.

Efforts of Sheriff L. A. Carlisle and other officers to associate the body with any recent disappearance were unavailing.

Tom Alsup and a son found the bones when they were digging trenches and building forms preparatory to construction of a small "hand craft" shop. They said the person had been buried "face down" with the arms outstretched as if "reaching for something." Some said that was an Indian cus-

Price Plan For Farmers Urged

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA, Kas., Oct. 11 — Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.) advocated tonight a two-price system for American agriculture — "an American price for American consumption and the world price for unrestricted surplus."

Vandenberg, who has been mentioned as a Republican presidential possibility in 1940, said in an address prepared for a Republican rally, the American farmer is entitled to "complete and non-competitive control" of the domestic consumption.

Assurance Is Needed

"The starting point, to deal with the farm problem, is less the size of the crop than the assurance that the portion intended for domestic consumption shall be sold at an American price, commensurate with other American prices, and not under pressure of foreign competition and world prices."

With the American farmer given the domestic market, he said, "we may then hope to develop the two-price system for agriculture."

Vandenberg assailed what he called the administration "war on business."

Free Enterprise Throttled

"The American system of free enterprise has been throttled in its own house. And that is one of the chief reasons why we still have more than 10,000,000 unemployed."

He called for a stop to "jitterbug arithmetic" and said "you cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, even with the benefit of a fireside chat; and you can't build a solvent prosperity around an insolvent treasury."

Contracts Are Let For Lamb Project

LITTLEFIELD, Oct. 11 (Special) Subject to approval of the Rural Electrification administration, bids today were awarded for copper, aluminum, and meters for a rural electrification line in Lamb county at a meeting of the county's Rural Electric cooperative society. Westinghouse and Greybar both submitted bids of $5,182.50 for 540 meters and the contract was awarded to Westinghouse subject to approval of REA.

Reforms To Make Life More Bearable For Convicts In Texas Prisons Are Asked

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Oct. 11. — Mrs. C. A. Teagle, member of the state prison board committee appointed to humanize punishment of Texas prisoners, said today the committee had agreed on four recommendations.

They are:

1—That all cells four by four feet now in use in the prison system will be dismantled immediately and enlarged to not less than three feet by seven feet with proper ventilation and shall not be occupied by more than one prisoner at a time.

Shall Not Be Shackled

2—No occupant of a dark cell shall be handcuffed or shackled in any way while in solitary confinement.

3—Men in solitary confinement shall be given all the water they can drink, and two pieces of bread four inches by four inches, not less than one inch thick, or its equivalent, three times a day, and a regular meal every 36 hours which shall be a well balanced meal, such as is fed other prisoners on that day.

4—That handcuffs or chains be used only where they are necessary for the safekeeping of the men and not for double punishment.

Work On General Rules

Mrs. Teagle said the committee is working on general rules of the prison, which have not been changed since 1927. The recommendations of the committee will be studied by the prison board at its regular meeting on November 7, she said.

The investigation into punishment of prisoners was started after K. C. Morris, negro convict, died on Eastham prison farm. Morris was held in a small cell and then whipped. The negro developed a high temperature and died subsequently.

Senator Small Raps O'Daniel

(By The Associated Press)

PAMPA, Oct. 11. — Senator Clint C. Small of Amarillo said here today if the legislature would levy no new taxes, pass as few laws as possible and then adjourn "maybe it would teach people not to go wild when they hear hillbilly music and wild promises at election time."

Addressing a chamber of commerce gathering, Small assailed the campaign of Governor-Nominate W. Lee O'Daniel without mentioning him by name.

Definition Of Politician

"My definition of a politician is a fellow who promises you something he can't do," Small said. "All that fuss and feathers you heard last summer is going to cause disturbance in Austin, and there will be enough of us down there to dig in our cleats and hold that line like Oklahoma held Texas last Saturday. No greater calamity could happen to Texas than to remove the poll tax.

"For a man to stand up and tell you that everyone over 65 is going to get $30 a month brands that person —that person is not caring about his promises to the people."

WACO, Oct. 11. (AP)—One person was burned to death, two others were injured and 30 roomers were forced to flee in their night clothes when fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Wheelis hotel in downtown Waco tonight.

$50,000 Sought In Libel Suits

Fred Spikes of Lubbock and Jeff Spikes of west of Cone in Crosby county Tuesday filed suits in the 72nd district court against Street and Smith Publications, Inc., publishers of Western Story magazine, among others.

They asked damages of $25,000 each on allegations they were libeled in the Sept. 24 issue of Western Story magazine in an article, "Great Cattle Ranches, The Ten in Texas," written by Charles L. McNichols. It was set out in the petitions that the parts of the article which slandered the Spikes were on pages 106 to 109.

Filed In Two Counties

The case in which Fred Spikes was plaintiff was filed in Lubbock county and the one brought by Jeff Spikes was filed in Crosby county.

Plaintiffs set out that a specific part of the article was "slanderous, libelous and untrue" and cast a reflection on the reputations of the plaintiffs. They alleged they had suffered actual damages of $25,000.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs are G. E. Lockhart, G. H. Nelson and F. D. Brown.

Collected About $20,000

Members of the Spikes family in 1931 collected approximately $20,000 in damages in a half-dozen actions in Lubbock and Crosby counties naming as defendants J. Evetts Haley and trustees of the Capital Freehold Land and Investment company, Ltd., owners of the XIT ranch.

Those actions, filed in 1930, were based on a book, "The XIT Ranch of Texas and the Early Days of the Llano Estacado," written by Haley.

Both the actions filed Tuesday will be subject to call by Judge Daniel A. Blair of the 72nd district court at the next terms here and in Crosby county.

Man Killed And Girl Is Beaten

(By The Associated Press)

RUSTON, La., Oct. 11 — Sheriff Bryan Thigpen said a young man and woman parked in an automobile on a side road three miles east of here were attacked tonight by a negro who beat the man to death and seriously injured his companion.

The sheriff said the young woman, suffering from head wounds inflicted by a club, crawled a quarter of a mile to the main highway and stopped a motorist who took her to a hospital here.

Young Man Found Dead

Sheriff Thigpen and Night Marshal Hal Posey sped to the scene and found the young man dead, his face and head beaten, and one arm smashed as though he had used it in an attempt to shield himself.

The couple was not immediately identified.

Feeling was reported high in the section, where a similar attack occurred Sept. 13. On that date a negro attacked J. W. Breedlove and his companion, a Louisiana Tech coed, at a spot two miles from where tonight's attack occurred. Breedlove was beaten with a club and suffered a fractured skull. The case is still unsolved.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (AP) — President Roosevelt apparently kept his hands free today to support non-Democratic liberals for public office if he considers such steps advisable.

At his press conference, he refrained from taking the same stand as Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, who recently informed reporters he would go down the line in support of all Democratic candidates, conservative or liberal, in next month's election.

"Good Old-Fashioned Spanking" Described As Finest Medicine For Today's Youth

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Oct. 11—Parental reversion to the "good old-fashioned spanking" might shrink the line of youths trudging to juvenile courts, Dr. J. G. Wilson of Frankfort, Ky., told fellow psychiatrists today.

"Johnny breaks a window today," said the director of Kentucky's division of hospitals and mental hygiene, "and tomorrow he has the hard luck to break another. The neighbors begin to say Johnny's a bad boy. He is reported and pretty soon he's in juvenile court.

"I do not mean to belittle our juvenile institutions, for they do a good job, but more of that good old-fashioned spanking which now seems out of order in the changing family life, would halt many a case right where it started."

Dr. Wilson addressed the closing session of the Southern Psychiatric association.

Dr. Charles C. Burlingame, Hartford, Conn., psychiatrist, said the current practice of jailing mentally ill persons "is cruel, barbaric, superstitious and unnecessary."

Dr. Burlingame asserted superintendents of state institutions burdened with the bulk of the load of mental cases "all too often are harassed by politics to such an extent that efficient management is impossible."

Dr. Charles S. Holbrook, professor of neurology and psychiatry at Tulane university, was installed as the new president.

A FEW FAULTS

THE late afternoon mail brought a letter that listed a few things about men that irritate women. The writer, a woman, has something here we believe. What do you think? Here is her list:

"Men who gossip. A gossiping man is much harder to forgive than a gossiping woman because women are expected to be catty and their remarks aren't taken seriously. A man's thoughtless remarks cut deep.

"Men who think they have to carry around a bottle of whiskey to help make sales.

"Men who seem captivated by feminine attributes which they don't allow in their wives or sweethearts: red fingernails, cocktail sipping, cigaret smoking, etc.

"Men who are jealous.

"Men who criticize or ignore wife's 'girl friends' yet bring home for lunch or supper a rude, conceited or effeminate man.

"Men who try to reform their chosen mates.

"Men who are beau brummels before marriage and, bewhiskered untidy beau uglies two years later.

"Men who allow themselves to grow bay windows.

"Men who forget their wives' birthdays, anniversaries or their occasional yen for hyacinths.

"Men who are selfish."

Naturally this list doesn't apply to all men but it is as representative as that list in Sunday's paper stating a few "hates" men have for women.

DISHWASHING RULES

SCRAPE all dishes using (a) rubber plate scrapper, (b) a piece of soft paper, (c) a knife or spoon. (Dishes which have held meat should be wiped carefully with paper.)

Rinse under running water being careful to have sink strainer under dishes.

Stack like kinds of dishes together on the right of the dish pan, having glasses next to the pan, the silver laid on a tray, knives, forks and spoons separated into piles, then cups and saucers, and plates, then tin, iron, etc.

Wash dishes in order stacked.

Fill pan two-thirds full of water. Wash dishes in hot soapy water which should be changed often enough to have it hot and clean. Rinse dishes in pan of hot water that is at left of the dish pan. Drain and dry.

All dishes that are darkened or stained should be scaured, washed again and then rinsed and dried.

Scrub bread boards, meat boards and rolling pin. Wash table tops, sinks and sink strainers. Get clean, hot soapy water and wash dish towels and cloths. Wash out dishpans, dry and put away.

These directions are printed at the request of several friends who say that their maids might follow printed directions; at least they pay little attention to oral ones, being as likely to wash a fine glass directly after a greasy skillet as not. We learned how to wash dishes during a little course out at Tech one year. There may be quicker methods; we doubt there are any that get the job done better.

Seven Meetings Are Held On Tuesday By Groups Interested In Culture

A miscellany of instructive programs was offered at Lubbock's woman's club meetings Tuesday afternoon.

International goodwill was interestingly discussed by H. C. Pender, acting head of the Texas Technological college department of government, at a Lubbock Woman's Forum meeting in the home of Mrs. Jack Dudley, 2503 Twenty-first street. Mesdames Harvey Austin and Paul Barrier were assistant hostesses.

The program also included music by a trio, Misses Ina Bacon, Virginia Knapp and Merle Haynes, who sang "Indian Love Call" and "The Waltz You Saved For Me." Mrs. Turner Adams was program leader.

Announcements were made concerning the Lubbock Woman's club's annual entertainment of the Forum and the Forum's Guest Day tea, the latter scheduled for October 22 in the home of Mrs. Raymond Marshall, 2506 Twenty-first street. "I'm so grateful for what Siler City School taught me about COLDS"

Says Mrs. J. B. WHITLEY

"Every winter Margaret used to come down with one cold after another," Mrs. Whitley says. "Then the clinic started at her school. Soon she was catching fewer colds, and getting over them quicker. It certainly opened my eyes. Since then our whole family has followed Vicks Plan—and colds don't worry us now like they used to."

17,353 VOLUNTEERS

Take Part In Great Colds-Clinic

Over 7,000 School Children Do Their Part

DURING four winter periods, a modern crusade against colds was waged in schools, factories, homes. Here's what happened:

Both the number and length of colds were drastically reduced . . . Sickness from colds was cut more than half (50.88%) . . . School absences due to colds were reduced even more (57.86%)!

These are actual figures—the average results of the four winter series of clinical tests in which 17,353 people (including 7,031 school children) took part. Thirty-seven doctors were on the supervisory staff. Over 500 teachers, nurses, and other trained workers assisted them.

A SIMPLE GUIDE. This great clinic proved the worth of Vicks Plan. Vicks Plan is a simple guide which emphasizes the importance of proper personal care and the use of two specialized medications—Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub—for relief of symptoms in different types and stages of colds.

When colds threatened—at the first nasal irritation, sniffle, or sneeze—Va-tro-nol was used to help prevent the development of many colds. When a cold got by all precautions, its discomforts were relieved with VapoRub.

The results speak for themselves. Vicks Plan may do less for you—or it may do even more. But with such a record it certainly is worth a trial. It is simple and easy to follow in any home. You get the full directions in each package of Va-tro-nol or VapoRub.

Helps PREVENT COLDS

Va-tro-nol is specialized medication—expressly designed for the nose and upper throat, where most colds start. You feel this tingling, stimulating medication go right to work. Used at the first sniffle or sneeze—a few drops up each nostril—it helps to prevent many colds from developing. Keep it handy and use it early.

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

RELIEVES misery of COLDS

VapoRub is a family standby for relieving misery of colds. Rubbed on throat, chest, and back, VapoRub acts two ways at once: (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct on irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors. This double action loosens phlegm, clears air-passages, eases cough, relieves local congestion.

Lubbock's 1938 Paving Program Complete; New Plans For Spring Outlined

Seventh Street Job Was Last

Lubbock's 1938 paving program was finished Tuesday, with more than 10 miles of city streets having been surfaced since the beginning of spring.

Start already has been made, however, on an even more extensive surfacing program to begin next spring, according to Marlin R. Smith, jr., city engineer.

Last of the present season's project was the paving on Seventh street.

Further surfacing work now must stop until warm weather returns because the hot asphalt binding materials cannot be poured when temperatures are low, the city engineer explained.

To Work During Winter

However, curbs and gutters will be constructed and streets will be based with caliche during the winter. Then, next spring they will be paved with crushed rock bound with asphalt.

This year's paving program, officials explained, was more than double in size that of any previous similar period in the history of Lubbock. More paving has been done this year, officials were further informed, than in any city in Texas up to double the size of Lubbock.

Accomplishments Cited

While the final report shows that paving has been laid in all parts of the city, some of the more important accomplishments have been:

The paving of Tenth street from L to Q, tying in with existing paving at each end, to provide a faster outlet for fire truck from Central Fire station to northern and northwestern parts of the city.

Paving on Seventh, Eighth and Ninth street to provide an all-paved connection from the business district to College avenue, and thus relieving traffic congestions to Texas Technological college areas from downtown.

Extensive paving in the south and southwestern parts of the city, serving the area where residential building has proceeded on largest scale and providing new outlets to those sections from the congestion on Nineteenth street. Nineteenth and the intersection of Nineteenth and College have been termed the most serious traffic problem in Lubbock. Both problems have been lessened by work of the past few months, officials said.

Paving on Seventeenth from Avenue G to A, providing a seriously needed paving connection with the compress district.

Several paved connections between Avenue H and Texas avenue, notably Ninth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets.

Benes Agrees To Candidacy As Rector Of Glasgow University

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—It was announced officially today that Eduard Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia, had agreed to become the Scottish nationalist candidate for rector of Glasgow university in the election to be held next month.

Benes resigned last Wednesday as chief of the state he helped establish twenty years ago, explaining his continuance in office, in the face of the declared enmity of Adolf Hitler, would "constitute an obstacle" to revival of the dismembered republic.

He retired to his summer home at Sezimovo Usti, south of Prague, and withdrew from affairs of state. Brown university and the University of Chicago had invited him to lecture or teach.

Because the post is purely honorary Benes, if elected, would not necessarily have to live in Britain.

Problems Of Accidents On The Farm Receive Study

CHICAGO, Oct. 11. (AP)—The National Safety council, which has been actively interested in curtailing traffic and industrial accidents, turned its attention today to the problems of preventing accident on the farm.

There is vital need to combat the huge loss to farmers from fires alone, Wallace Ashby of the U. S. department of agriculture, advised in an address prepared for delivery before the agricultural safety section of the council's silver jubilee meeting.

"Losses from farm fires in recent years," said Ashby, who is chief of the division of structures in the bureau of agricultural engineering, "have been estimated as high as 3,500 lives and $100,000,000 worth of property."

Heavy Fighting Seen In Spain

HENDAYE, France (At The Spanish Frontier) Oct. 11. (AP)—The heaviest fighting in weeks in Spain's civil war raged today on the Ebro river front, where government dispatches said a sudden offensive by government militiamen had resulted in capture of the strategic Pandols mountains and threatened Gandesa itself.

The battle began late yesterday, when government troops, who had been holding their lines against a series of insurgent local attacks, launched a carefully planned offensive.

Wave after wave of militiamen, protected by heavy artillery fire, swept across the Santa Madalena ravine, which was the scene of terrific fighting nearly a month ago when the goverment halted one of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's attempts to push them back to the Ebro.

Ravine Is Captured

Santa Madalena ravine was captured after brief but furious fighting today in which hand to hand combat proved the decisive factor, said government reports.

These said the government forces pressed their offensive at dawn today, with two strategic hilltops—Nos. 350 and 705 on government maps—in the hands of Barcelona's troops. The battle still was raging in the early afternoon.

Government aviation concentrated in the Ebro sector cooperated with the land forces and apparently held control of the air during the first 12 hours of the offensive.

The name "boa constrictor" formerly was applied to one definite species. The snake, a reptile of tropical South America, now is known under the scientific name of "Contrictor constrictor."

As one of the industries of Texas, your telephone company pays its share of the cost of government. It is a heavy share, too. In 1937 its local, state, and federal taxes in Texas totaled more than four million dollars . . . nearly $12,000 a day.

These telephone taxes were equal to more than a third of the company's entire payroll in the state. They amount to $9.25 for every telephone in service.

Where do they go, these taxes? To build and maintain the streets and highways over which you drive. To furnish you police and fire protection. To keep up your children's schools. To help pay for all the services government gives you.

Vernon Has Heaviest Line In Schoolboy Race; Raiders Leave For Montana

Locals In Good Frame Of Mind For Friday Go

Hard, resounding bodily contact characterized the Tuesday afternoon session at Westerner practice field as the Lubbock High school eleven continued preparations for its hardest test of the season against Vernon High school at Texas Tech field Friday night.

All hands were on deck and in good condition after the last week's open date. No Westerner team has been in a much better frame of mind while facing prospect of such stern opposition. Coach Weldon Chapman openly was pleased at the fact.

Much Depends On Webster

Blocking, tackling, signal drills, and "nearly everything in the books" completed the schedule yesterday afternoon.

Loss of Rusty Johnston leaves most of the passing and punting and a good part of the running to Capt. Jumbo Webster. The big boy is built for such work, but has not hit the stride he promised last year. Nothing, however, can be said critically of his defensive work.

Harold Parsons and Leete Jackson have done their parts at carrying the mail in three previous games and will chip in often Friday night. Howard Alford, moved from guard to replace Johnston, will do some ball toting if needs be.

Back Averages 8 Yards

Matching Webster in all-around play in the Vernon backfield is Jack Judd, who has averaged better than eight yards a try for four games this season. According to advance reports, Judd is one of the outstanding backs in the state.

More than matching the Westerner line is the Lion forward wall which averages 184 pounds from end to end. That average is the best Texas schoolboy football has to offer this year.

Capt. Bill Wright, 210-pound tackle, is a bulwark in that line of bulwarks.

Lions Are Tied Once

Altus, Okla., is only team this campaign to stop the Lion running attack. The Sooners played them to a scoreless tie in Vernon's third game.

In other games, the Lions have defeated Polytechnic High of Fort Worth, 26 to 0; beat Breckenridge, 21 to 0; and Electra, 39 to 9.

Par Smashed As Babe Didrikson Goes Into Women's Open Lead

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11. (AP)—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, girl athlete from Beaumont who amazed Olympic fans in 1932, was an all-American cage star and then turned golfing professional, wrecked feminine par at the River Crest Country club today.

Playing in the first round of match competition in the Texas Women's Open, Babe blasted out a 38-33—71, two under men's par and six blows under perfect figures for women players. She led the favorites into the 16-player bracket.

The old course record for women was 74, held by Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, defending champion in the Open.

The new record holder won her match with Mrs. C. J. Davidson of Fort Worth 7-6, but continued play for the record.

All other favorites came through. Mrs. E. R. Hury who deadlocked with Betty Jameson for the medal Monday, scored an easy 6-5 triumph over Mrs. W. G. Carter of Fort Worth. Miss Jameson defeated Mrs. F. C. Rochon of Fort Worth 5-4.

Mrs. Goldthwaite scored over Mrs. Jesse Rogers of Amarillo 7-5. Helen Hicks Harb defeated Mrs. George Rohrer of Galveston 6-5.

Other first round results included: Miss Joe Henson, Paris, beat Mrs. Edna Reynolds, Amarillo, 6-5.

Ropesville Invades Frenship For Class C Game Friday

WOLFFORTH, Oct. 11.—(Special)—Coach Bob Rich's Frenship High school gridders open their Class C district race Friday afternoon when the Ropesville Eagles invade the local gridiron.

The game starts at 2:30 o'clock.

Frenship defeated New Deal, and Ropesville won from Cooper in games last weekend.

TALKS THINGS OVER

Rice Owls To Meet Their Press Agent

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Oct. 11. — One dull day last summer Coach Red Dawson of Tulane slipped into New York and confided to sports writers that Rice institute, come the fall, would commit manslaughter on the gridiron and emerge as national champions.

No later than the next edition time Mr. Dawson's words were in big, black type and the word was noised around generally that Rice, with its invincible Ernie Lain, was "in." Sports writers and magazine authors didn't leisurely come down to investigate Mr. Dawson's tip—they flew by transport plane.

Interviews over, and Rice safely in the Rose bowl, the season started.

Sooner Team Was Best

Oklahoma, a team that had whipped Rice in '37 but only, of course, because Ernie Lain wasn't in the lineup, came to town and beat Rice, Lain and Ollie Cordill notwithstanding, 7-6. Consternation, as they say, reigned.

Quiet, youngish Coach Jimmy Kitts, sought out for an explanation, said simply:

"Oklahoma had a fine football team—better than Rice today. My team has been pumped up by newspaper and magazine publicity to the point where it was tough getting them fired up for a game. We're back from the Rose bowl now and will play in the Southwest conference."

Then Came Louisiana State

Upsets, said the deflated experts, could catch up with any team in this day and time, and Coach Kitts' words were drowned out in predictions of a Rice comeback against powerful Louisiana State the next Saturday.

Next Saturday came and the '37 Southwest conference and Cotton Bowl champions bowed to L. S. U., 3-0, on a field goal in the last 15 seconds of play. Twice Rice had nudged down within a step of the goal lein but fumbles halted them.

"Disappointed in my boys? I should say not," snapped Kitts. "I wasn't exactly proud of them after the Oklahoma game, but I couldn't ask more of a team than they gave me against L.S.U. It was the roughest, hardest game I ever saw college teams play. We would have won it, I guess, but I'm not disappointed.

They'll Meet Mr. Dawson

"Disappointed in Lain? No, siree. He played a helluva game against L.S.U.; took a lot of punishment. Sure he was rushed in the Oklahoma and L.S.U. games, but I had to use green guards at times.

"I'm not one to alibi, because, in the first place, I could never see my boys as good as the papers had them, but listen, my team is wrecked by injuries.

"Defensively we've looked good. Offensively — well, don't you see what's wrong. Our coaching staff never did believe everything we read. All we had to do was look down that schedule and understand we could lose any of them."

Next Saturday at New Orleans Mr. Red Dawson, the man innocently behind the Rice-to-the-Rose-Bowl campaign, meets a man who wishes Mr. Dawson had never gone to New York—Mr. Jimmy Kitts.

After a lapse of seven years, interclass rowing will be reinstated at the University of Washington.

Panther Man Is Stratton's Foe In Main Event

TONIGHT'S CARD

Main event—Walter Stratton of Boston vs. Joe Kopecky of Houston, best two of three falls or two-hour time limit.

Semifinal—John Nemanic of Denver vs. Jack Hagen of Shreveport, one fall or 30 minutes.

Scotty William of Louisville vs. Gus Johnson of Duluth, one fall or 20 minutes.

Time and place—8 o'clock, the Auditorium.

Muscular Walter Stratton of the Boston Strattons will attempt to tie his knotted arms and legs around the elongated body of Joe Kopecky at the Auditorium tonight.

The old South Texas boll puller has been ruling the roost in matches he has participated in recently and isn't in the least satisfied if he doesn't come out best in every match. He stalks about the ring until his chance comes then ties into the prey.

Stratton is a lot stronger and a lot smarter than several of the boys who show here. That will be in his favor.

Two Different Natures

The Bostonian is even tempered until the opponent roughs that temper up, then he goes to town in a big way. Kopecky has little mercy for the adversary and little time for cream puff rassling.

Rivaling the main attraction for sheer entertainment is the semi-final engagement, pitting Jack Hagen and John Nemanic.

The Shreveport butcher boy is another who resented some of the cojoling Nemanic issued while refereeing matches here for about two months. Hagen always was one to be reprimanded, naturally harboring more resentment than most.

Nemanic Forgets The Rules

The Denver grappler forgets all those rules he knew as an arbiter once he squares off with another tinear. He is rough and tough, too.

There is no love lost in that setto. Scotty William and Gus Johnson battle in the opening card, which starts promptly at 8 o'clock.

The Institute horses were ridden by a group of cadets and a class of Roswell boys and girls, all of whom gave splendid exhibitions of horsemanship.

Ride For Lubbock In New Mexico State Fair Polo Exhibitions

Lubbock Poloists To Play At Albuquerque Against Plainview

Five members of the Lubbock Polo club are to leave this morning for Albuquerque, N. M., where Thursday and Friday afternoons they will joust the Plainview quartet at the New Mexico State fair.

It will be first games on the fairgrounds field, recently completed, and which is being dedicated this week.

Representing Lubbock will be Bob Hester, who will play at No. 1; Claude Hurlbut, No. 2; Guy Smith, No. 3, and John Cooper and Lynn Parkinson, who will alternate at No. 4.

The local club will take only thirteen of its big string of mounts.

Playing for Plainview in the two games will be Clyde Bradley, Blackie Norris, Marvin Shurbert, and Lloyd Phillips.

Season's Best Schedule Is In Prospect This Week-end

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Aided by such factors as California's return to competition in its own class, the first major games of the season for Navy, Fordham, Holy Cross and Carnegie Tech, and a line-up of formidable opposition for such gridiron powers as Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame and Alabama, this Saturday's mid-October football program stacks up as one of the best of the season.

California, which played a double-header last week end, will come back to the defense of its Pacific Coast conference championship against U.C.L.A. The Bruins already have humbled Washington.

Navy, making its big-time bow at New Haven, meets a Yale team that has lost both its starts yet still can give anybody a fight.

Couple Of Corking Games

Fordham, in its clash with Purdue, and Carnegie Tech and Holy Cross, in their meeting at Pittsburgh, should provide two of the east's better dog fights. The Rams, unbeaten last year, have sent their backs through practice sprints against Upsala and Waynesburg, but Coach Jim Crowley regards Purdue as the "make-or-break" test. Similarly Holy Cross, which has been exercising its numerous ball carriers in short shifts, may have to work the regulars on a full-time basis to get by Bill Kern's tough Tartans.

Minnesota, Notre Dame and Alabama, held surprisingly well by Purdue, Georgia Tech and North Carolina State, are heading for more truoble; the Gophers against a Michigan club that has been coming faster every Saturday and certainly will be pointed for this objective, Notre Dame against Illinois, and 'Bama against Major Bob Neyland's Tennessee Volunteers.

Pitt's task of the week is to overcome Wisconsin, which was good enough to beat Iowa by three touchdowns and still give its regulars a chance to rest.

Aggies Tackle Horned Frogs

All four of the Ivy league standouts have their work cut out for them — Pennsylvania against a Princeton squad which promises to get stronger from week to week, Columbia against Colgate, Cornell against well-loaded Syracuse, and Dartmouth against Brown.

Other outstanding engagements will find Ohio State, still hoping for Big Ten eminence, meeting Northwestern; Vanderbilt tackling Mississippi, conqueror of Louisiana State; Iowa State, surprise victor over Nebraska, seeking to stake further claim to Big Six honors by beating Missouri while Kansas plays Oklahoma; Oregon, Coast conference leader, playing Stanford; Army playing Harvard, and Texas A. and M. battling Texas Christian in a clash of two Southwest conference threats.

Southwest District Scouters Will Hold Sudan Meeting

SUDAN, Oct. 11. (Special) — A meeting of scouters of the southwest district of the South Plains council will be conducted in the First Baptist church here at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, according to announcement today.

Earl M. McClure, council executive, and George A. Holland, field executive, will assist with the meeting which will be under direction of H. B. Teal of Sudan, district chairman.

Plans for the scout program for the remainder of the year will be discussed and date set for the annual district meeting next month. At that meeting officers of the district for 1939 will be elected.

Ages of stars can be told by their color, which changes as they grow older.

Gratitude Is Important In Baseball

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Putting two and two together—and getting four—on the day the Yankees and Cubs were supposed to be travelling back to Chicago for the 6th and 7th games of the World series:

Gratitude plays an important part in baseball. Years ago, the Chicago White Sox ruled and the Yankees were nothing. Baseball's "Old Roman," Charles A. Comiskey, refused to help Colonel Jacob Ruppert, then interested in building the Yanks from a hopeless, laughing-gas ball club to a money maker and winner. Most of the others, riding high, also turned the colonel down and, in his rage, he vowed he'd make them all feel sorry.

"Break-Up" Rumors False

How the colonel has succeeded is baseball history. Since he and the late Col. T. L. Huston purchased the Yanks for $400,000 in 1915 the club has won 10 American league flags and seven world titles beginning with 1921 when Babe Ruth, one of the heroes he was able to pry away from a rival club, started paying off dividends.

There are rumors now the colonel will break up his team to give the others a chance. He's a sick man these days but not that sick. At all such reports, the colonel stiffens and barks: "Why should I? What did they ever do for me when I was trying to build a ball club?"

The next man who may come up with a fine ball club is old Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees, baseball's "rag man." Quinn never got much help either.

Too Many Aspirants

Gabby Hartnett's ultimatum that he'll break up the Cubs was expected. The club for years has been unsettled principally because players thought they should be manager. One of them is Billy Herman. Billy unquestionably is a fine ball player, but his play this season put him as far from the managership as Rogers Hornsby. The status of Tony Lazzeri should be interesting. The best guess is Tony will stay but chances are he's wished many times he hadn't cut Oscar Vitt off short when Oscar offered him the Cleveland coaching job last winter. Incidentally, Hornsby's $10,000 a year for managing Baltimore is not a minor league high. Chuck Dressen, ex-Cincinnati, received 10 grand for managing Nashville last year.

Reports that ex-major league managers like Mickey Cochrane are glad to get out of baseball are hokum. Baseball is like the newspaper business. It gets into your soul. Cochrane would like to get back. During the series, I asked Frank Frisch why he didn't quit working now and enjoy his money.

"Sure, I'm well fixed," said Frisch, "but I want to get back into baseball. I don't mind admitting I get a heartache every day that passes without myself in the game."

31 Players Are To Depart At 1:30 O'Clock

Off on another cross-country jaunt, their second of the season, the Texas Tech Red Raiders leave today to seek gridiron adventure and football fortune in the Pacific Northwest.

On Saturday afternoon they clash with the University of Montana Grizzlies, at Missoula, Mont., in their fifth game of the season and in quest of their fifth victory.

Coach Pete Cawthon yesterday nominated 31 players to make the trip, starting from the Santa Fe station at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The coaches, Cawthon and Dutchy Smith, the team physician, Dr. U. S. Marshall, and the student manager, Harris Cheek, will be with the club.

Raiders Seek Revenge

Students and townspeople are expected to gather at the station to "send the boys off" this afternoon.

The Red Raiders, flushed with four straight victories against a clean slate, will be out for vengeance against the only team that licked them on the home grounds last year. The Grizzlies defeated Tech, 13 to 6, here last year, the only Raider loss at home.

Montana has bidden farewell to Milton Popovich, the one-man backfield who made things rough for Tech here last season, but the Grizzlies are blessed with an abundance of experienced material. Twenty-three lettermen, most of them regulars last season, are under Coach Doug Fessenden's observation this season.

Guzick To Make Trip

Players who will make the trip to Montana, Tech's first invasion of that section of the country, are:

Captain Frank Guzick, who probably will not play owing to a knee injury suffered in the opening game of the season; Bobby Holmes, Milton Hill, Dudley Akins, Elmer Tarbox, Jodie Marek, Johnny Sims, Charley Calhoun, Gene Barnett, Raymond Flusche, Bull Rankin and Ralph Baffanz, backs; G. L. Webb, Jack Wheelis, E. J. McKnight, Prince Scott and George Philbrick, ends; Leonard Latch, Steve Miller, Elbert Overton, Line Captain A. B. Murphy, J. B. Gilbert and Lloyd Taliaferro, tackles; Dixie White, Holt Waldrep, Phil Harmon, Primo McCurry, Forrest Jones and Wilmer Greene, guards, and Rex Williams and Chester Hemsell, centers.

The squad will stop over in Denver for a workout Thursday afternoon, and will reach Missoula in time for a drill Friday evening.

Grizzlies Are Rated High

The Montana university game is regarded by some as possibly the toughest on the Tech schedule this season. If the Raiders get by it, they may surge on through an undefeated season, although they have a tricky affair awaiting them next week at Odessa when they meet Mack Saxon's College of Mines Muckers.

Tickets for the Odessa game, to be played Saturday afternoon, Oct. 22, are on sale here now, at $2.20 each. Only a limited number were sent here for distribution, the demand in Odessa being so great that game officials ordered an early return of tickets not sold here within a limited time.

Detroit high school football officials are graded each week by coaches. The better assignments go to those with the highest ratings.

How To See Football

THE DOUBLE WING

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

Glenn Scobey Warner isn't called the Old Fox for nothing. Warner's right to the title is based in his inventive mind, which gave the game many of its more trickier maneuvers—most notable of which is the double wing offense.

Because the double wing is best suited for only a certain type of material, it is not used as much as the single wing. The system calls for extremely fast linemen who are able to pull out and block, and a fullback who can crack a line wide open from close up.

Here, too, the spectator will find the unbalanced formation, with the left tackle going to the right, or strong side of the line. The number 1 back, or right wing, is stationed a yard back of and just outside his end. The number 4, or left wing, is in the same approximate position on the other side. The bucking, or number 2 back, takes a position about two yards in back of and slightly to the right of his right guard, and the tail back, or number 3, is about five yards directly behind center.

One advantage to note instantly is that only two men—the tail and the bucking backs—are in position to take a direct pass from center.

The fan will notice that the bucking back storms through on a lot of spinner plays, and that both he and the tail back do a lot of straight hitting inside of the tackles.

This opens the way for a lot of reverses—both single and double—as might well be imagined, on the part of the wing backs, who often raise hob with the defense by skirting wide around their opposite ends.

The double wing is a strong passing formation, with either of the wings—provided they are good passers—being in position to drop back and take the ball from either the bucking or tail back, and heave it downfield.

Both guards and the outside tackle, pulling out of the line, are the men who perform the chief blocking chores.

Deception is the keynote of the double wing.

A glance at the Temple offense should be convincing proof.

NEXT: The Notre Dame system.

Two Former Czechoslovak Border Towns Now In The Hands Of Hungarians

Great Problems Facing Nation

PRAGUE, Oct. 11 (AP)—Hungarian troops today completed symbolic occupations of two former Czechoslovak border towns — Ipolysag and Satoralja Ujhely—pending settlement of Hungary's territorial and minority demands.

The Prague government, meanwhile, wrestled with problems arising from German occupation of Sudetenland, particularly the presence in Czechoslovakia of 10,000 refugees from Sudetenland.

To Investigate Lists

The Bohemian provincial government appointed a committee to investigate registration lists and determine which refugees could be sent back home without personal danger.

More than 4,000 residents of Ipolysag, near the border 50 miles north of Budapest, sang and danced to fiery Hungarian music as the Hungarian troops took over at 1:20 p. m. (6:20 a. m., cst) today.

The occupation of the Czechoslovak part of the border town of Satoralja Ujhely was completed last night.

Arrayed At Border

Hungarian troops had been arrayed at the border for forceful occupation, if necessary. About 1,000,000 Hungarians dwell in an area of more than 6,000 square miles demanded by Budapest.

Prague authorities have indicated they consider the demand excessive, but the matter had been placed in the hands of a delegation headed by the prime minister of newly autonomous Slovakia, Dr. Joseph Tiso, for settlement.

Refugee committeemen appointed by the president of Bohemia said they would deal with each case individually.

A possibility was that the committee might arrange an exchange of Germans now inside Czechoslovakia for Czechs who remained in Sudetenland after German occupation.

Negro Charged In San Antonio In Disappearance Of Women

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 11 (AP) — Clifton Wheeler, 32, today was charged with murder in a complaint sworn to before Justice of the Peace Raymond Gerhardt by Deputy Sheriff John J. Klevenhagen.

Wheeler, negro handyman for Joe D. Ball, Elmendorf tavern owner, who shot and killed himself while being questioned by deputy sheriffs concerning the disappearance of several women, led officers to the shallow grave where the dismembered body of Hazel Brown, an emplye of Ball's, was located.

Wheeler also informed deputies, the officers reported, that he was present when Ball allegedly shot and killed another woman and that her body is buried in the sand dunes near Ingleside. An initial search sometime ago failed to locate the second body.

Refrigerated Ribs The Latest Material For Repairing Of Noses And Other Injuries

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (AP)—Refrigerated ribs are the newest material for repairing broken noses and other facial deformities incurred in accidents.

Dr. Claire L. Straith of Detroit told the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology that the living cartilage from human ribs can be preserved for several days in a refrigerator.

Then, he added, it can be used for building up noses, replacing parts of ears, correcting eye deformities, or filling in craters left by deep injuries of the facial bones.

Crenshaw, newcomer to Lubbock, entered a plea of guilty of theft of watches from Redwine's Drug store. Crenshaw was charged by complaint with theft of two pocket watches and three wrist watches of a total value of $32.75. L. H. Redwine, proprietor of the store, swore to the complaint which had been prepared by Robert J. Allen, county attorney.

Saturday has been set as the date for the hearing of a suit filed Tuesday in the 99th district court of Judge E. L. Pitts by Esmer Sanches and her husband against Jon Gonzales and wife, seeking possession of Leley Gonzales, 12-year-old daughter of the defendants. The petitioners alleged the defendants had spirited away the child. Charging that they had had possession of the girl since she was about 8 months old, and that they had reared her until this time, they alleged the father had taken his child away from its home without due process of law. The parents are transients, the petition alleged, and were unable to care for the infant, so they arranged with Sanches to care for her. The two women are sisters, the petition said.

The complaint was filed with Walter Davies, justice of peace, by B. L. Wooddell of the Texas Highway patrol. Hugh Anderson, assistant county attorney, prepared the complaint.

Potato Growers To Store Crop

Members of the Lubbock County Irrigation association who raised sweet potatoes agreed, in a meeting Tuesday night in the courthouse, to store their product until the low grade of sweet potatoes produced in East Texas is off the market.

A recent survey coincided with a former survey which showed approximately 300 acres of land in the county devoted to production of sweet potatoes, and it was indicated the yield would amount to approximately 60,000 bushels.

Majority To Be Stored

Most of that yield will be stored in crates to await the end of the flooding of the market by East Texas sweet potatoes.

M. E. Casey of Wolfforth was elected temporary manager of the sweet potato group of the association and will make arrangements for purchase of crates and will find storage space. He will report at a meeting in the courthouse at 7:30 o'clock Friday night, it was announced by Robert Bean, association president who presided.

It was estimated the East Texas crop would be off the market in 30 to 40 days. Harvest here has just begun, but will get under way about Oct. 20, authorities said. It will require about 10 days for harvest.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Liquidation of the radio interests of William Randolph Hearst was further today with the sale of station WINS, New York, to Milton H. Biow, New York advertising man.

E. N. Stoer, representing Hearst, said the sale was "in line with Mr. Heart's plan to reorganize his holdings in order to perpetuate his publishing enterprises. When the reorganization is completed, Mr. Hearst proposes to confine himself to the publishing industry."

Stoer said all but two Hearst radio stations, WCAE, Pittsburgh, and WBAL, Baltimore, would be sold.

Story Of Freak Accident In Which Riders Escaped Death From Electrocution Told

AMARILLO, Oct. 11. (AP)—A story of a freak accident in which two riders escaped death when their horses were electrocuted was told here today by M. C. Hancock and W. B. Harris, both of Hereford.

Hancock and Harris were horseback riding on Harris' place near Hereford. Approaching a pool of water, they decided to ride through it instead of going around. As the front feet of the horses went into the water both animals fell and both riders were thrown clear, falling on the ground beside the pool.

Both horses were dead—electrocuted; and Harris received an electrical shock when he tried to unbridle his mount.

Examination of the locality revealed that an electric wire had blown down, charging the water with electricity.

Chronic Headaches And Deafness Often Are Relieved By Correcting Dental Defects

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 — Dr. James B. Costen of St. Louis told a gathering of eye, ear and throat specialists today that many chronic headaches and some forms of deafness can be relieved by correcting dental defects.

Some headaches which seem to originate in sinus infections are actually due, he said, to pressure on nerves of the head from poor alignment of natural teeth or ill-fitting dental plates.

Cause Other Aches

Such pressure also may cause aching of the tongue and jaw spasms.

Dr. Costen explained that in such cases the hinge of the jawbone, near the front of the ear, presses against the fifth nerve of the head at the point where it emerges from the inside of the skull. An upward movement of the hinge sometimes results, he said, when the teeth do not fit properly.

Similarly, deafness may be the result if the jaw hinge presses against the eustachian tube which connects the middle ear with the nose, Dr. Costen said.

When such a condition is found, he said, relief is accomplished simply by fitting new dental plates, or putting crowns on worn teeth, to bring the jaw into normal alignment and thus eliminate the pressure.

Tech Directors Take No Action

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11. (AP)—No announcement regarding appointment of a successor to the late Dr. Bradford Knapp as president of Texas Technological college will be made for at least several days, Clifford B. Jones of Spur, chairman of the Lubbock's directors, said here today at conclusion of a board meeting.

The statement, issued after the directors had interviewed five possibilities as successor to Dr. Knapp was augmented by the assertion that the directors may interview other persons under consideration for the post before making a decision.

Those interviewed by the board as possibilities for head of the Lubbock school were Rev. Everett B. King, of Fort Worth; V. M. Ehlers, engineer with the state department of health; B. B. Harriss of North Texas State Teachers college; Dean Thomas Davis of John Tarleton Agricultural college and C. M. Arrowwood of the University of Texas.

Japs Said Ready For Invasion Of South China Near Canton

HONGKONG, Oct. 11 (AP) — The newspaper China Mail said today it had reliable information that 17 Japanese transports carrying at least 35,000 men were standing off Bias bay, ten miles north of Hongkong, ready to strike inland toward Canton.

Official confirmation was lacking here and in Canton.

Hongkong authorities intensified precautionary measures involving food supplies and possible food rationing. This was taken to indicate an invasion was feared.

Suspension Of New Livestock Rules Is Asked By Connally

MARLIN, Oct. 11. (AP)— Senator Tom Connally of Texas today asked interstate commerce commission suspension of new "discriminatory" rules affecting livestock shipments from the southwest.

In a wire to Chairman Walter Marshall William Splawn of the ICC, Connally said:

"The rail carriers have published effective Oct. 15 certain rules applying to livestock shipments from the southwest to Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama which will be discriminatory and would effect increases in rates from the southwest to certain areas."

He asked a suspension until the ICC "can give proper hearing to a petition filed by the American Livestock association," and Texas Livestock organizations.

Has Russia's Bluff Been Called?

WHETHER Charles Augustus Lindbergh made certain statements attributed to him concerning Russia's air forces is neither significant nor important. Nor is it especially important whether those statements, regardless who made them, are true or false.

Extremely significant, however, have been the screams of outraged indignation which have come from the Soviet because of comments the self-exiled flying colonel is quoted as having made.

Through the years, the most fantastic rumors have come from Russia concerning the might of her weapons of war. Rumors have told of immense armies of superbly armed soldiers; of great fleets of submarines; and most frequently of all, of the numbers and quality of her airplanes and her pilots.

Tendency among other nations has been to accept the rumors with considerably more than a grain of salt. They have been extremely doubtful whether the Soviet is as well prepared for war as Russia would have the world believe. But they always have had to consider the possibility that the Soviet was not bluffing, that Russia held in her hands all the strength she pretended to have. A Russia, armed in any such manner, would be bad medicine for any nation or any group of nations.

If the statements attributed to Lindbergh could be proved as truths, they would definitely explode the Russian myth. He is quoted as having voiced the opinion that the Russian air fleet is weak and disorganized and that it would be no match for that of Germany; in other words, that Russia's boasts of her air power are a lot of hooey.

If Russia actually possesses all the strength she pretends to have, it would make little difference to her what anyone might say. She likely would be content with the knowledge that if the test came, she would be more than ready. She would possess the confidence which would cause her to ignore statements she knew to be false.

But Soviet reaction to the purported Lindbergh statements causes one to think of the kicked dog howling. It reminds one of the poker player with nothing in his hand who sees his bluff being called when it appeared that the stakes had been won.

What Is There To Gain?

DESPITE the unquestioned fact that additional foreign markets are a vital need to our agricultural prosperity, many observers in this country will look with skepticism and suspicion upon the proposal that credit restrictions upon several of our European debtor nations be loosened so they may buy our crop surpluses.

Under terms of our existing Johnson Act, nations which have defaulted debts to the United States are denied further credit. They are not permitted to attempt further borrowing in this country. Nor are they permitted to buy on their unsecured promise to pay.

If they could buy, on credit, our cotton, grains and other products of the soil, several European nations would stock their larders to the fullest.

But what is to be gained by selling to a creditor who will not pay his debts? How could we possibly benefit by selling to those who probably could not pay if they would; who have demonstrated that they won't pay when they can? Isn't it possible—even probable—that such unsatisfactory dealings might result in ill feeling leading to the calamitous eventuality of war?

Better than risk any such unhappy possibilities would it be to let our surpluses rot and enrich our soil!

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS

Christopher Columbus first landed in the New World on the Island of San Salvador October 12, 1492. On the same voyage he visited the islands of Rum Cay, Long Island, Crooked Island and Cuba, but did not come near the mainland. On his second voyage in 1493, Columbus visited and named the West Indian Islands of Dominica, Marie Galante, Guadalupe, Monteserrat, Antigua, San Martin, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico, but did not get as close to North America as on his first voyage.

On the third voyage, in 1498, he sailed very near to South America, landing on the island he named Trinidad, the South American mainland, but thought the land he saw was but a series of islands and he gave all the land peninsulas island names. On his fourth voyage, in 1502-1503, he visited the West Indies again, and sailed west to the north coast of Honduras and landed on the Island of Guanaja. From this point he sailed all along the coast of the mainland of what is now Central America down to South America, but he went back to the islands of West Indies and back to Spain without having set foot on either North or South America. And to his death he believed he had discovered a new route to India, instead of a New World.

His name was not Columbus but Cristobal Colon. He always referred to himself as such. In his will he provided that no one could inherit his fortune unless his name be Colon. Pope Alexander addressed him in Latin is his "filius Christopherus Colon." When, 80 years after the Almirante's death, his entailed estate was liquidated for lack of a direct heir, a man by the name of Balthazar Columbus came forward to claim his fortune, the papal tribunal and the highest court of Spain, after long deliberations and testimony, decided that Columbus and Colon were two different names entirely unrelated to each other. See "Colon" in "Encyclopedia Universal Illustrada."

CHICKENS WEAR GREEN GLASSES

Chicken fanciers have discovered that fitting chickens with goggles that prevent them from seeing straight ahead, restrains them from pecking at each other and from fighting. At the Goodwill Industries Summer Camp, Athol, Mass., Rhode Island Red chickens have been equipped with green glasses. The glasses are attached by passing a thin wire through a thin membrane on the beak, which, it is said, can be done without discomfort to the bird.

THE CHARACTERS

Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.

Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend.

Rene Geiss, a singularly unpleasant cartoonist.

Yesterday: Jean-Francois tours Geiss's house, and breaks into a secret room which holds nothing but the statue of a goat. He trails the cleaning woman to the Chateau la Vague.

CHAPTER 15
LAW AND DISORDER

When Jean-Francois had gone, I sought out Hugo and gave him the gist of Jean-Francois's report.

"I suppose," he commented when I had done, "that you're thinking that this bears out Melanie Wills's letter?"

"More than that," I told him. "It's made up my mind for me, Hugo, there's a definite connection proved between that hotel and Geiss, and I propose to pack up my traps and shift there this afternoon."

He opened his mouth to protest, but I checked him. "I know it's wild and crazy," I said, "but the situation I'm in is even wilder and crazier. I'm suspected of a murder I didn't do, and if I don't make a move quickly, I'll find myself presumed guilty till I can prove myself innocent."

"Well," said he, and shrugged wearily, "there's something in what you say."

Five minutes later I was pulling up before the big iron gates of the Chateau la Vague.

I walked up to the front door and rang the bell. It was a good minute and a half before footsteps approaching told me that my summons had been heard, and a burly man in blue cotton overalls appeared, feather duster in hand.

"Pardon," said he when I told him my business. "I will ask the Mees," and disappeared on that, leaving me to kick my heels for another five minutes.

It was a woman who appeared this time, and as I caught sight of her I had hard work to keep my surprise hidden. She was a tall, angular female, dressed in a faded cotton dress, her large feet encased in white sandshoes. Her brown hair, streaked with gray, was gathered in a microscopic knot at the nape of her neck, and her short-sighted eyes peered at me through rimless eyeglasses. It was the woman Jean-Francois had described.

"You wish a room?" she asked.

"Yes. My name is Archibald Lumsden, and I'm staying with my friend, Mr. Hugo Stern, at the Chalet d'Amour, but I'm obliged to remain in Cannes longer than I expected, and I don't want to inconvenience him. The chalet is small, you see, and this hotel is conveniently close . . ."

As I spoke my name I saw her draw in her breath slightly, but her face was completely expressionless.

"Mr. Lumsden?" she said. "A fellow-countryman! That will be nice, if we have a room, but I am not sure. One minute, if you please."

She vanished, leaving me still standing on the doorstep. A big black dog had approached and I stooped and scratched experimentally under one big, soft ear.

"Down, Lulu!" said the woman's voice suddenly, and I looked up, startled to find her standing above me. "Lulu belongs to a gentleman who lives here," she explained in a puzzled voice. "Usually he will have nothing to do with strangers. I have asked about your room, Mr.—" she paused with what I felt was an artificial hesitation before she spoke my name—"Mr. Lumsden. It will be all right. Everything will be ready for you tonight. Our terms are eighty francs a day." She paused again, and this time I felt that the hesitation was genuine. "We are very quiet people here," she said. "The gates and the front door are locked at ten o'clock. If you want to go out after that, you will have to ask the porter to sit up for you."

I felt inclined to suggest that in case of emergency she could lend me her key, but thanked her instead and took my leave, and as I drove slowly back up the track to the Chalet d'Amour, I puzzled over a number of things.

A Kindness

Jean-Francois's description had been too graphic for me to doubt that here was the woman who had that morning acted as housemaid in Geiss's secret room. Why should she, manageress or housekeeper in a prosperous hotel, do this menial work and do it at such an ungodly hour in the morning? She had known my name; there could be no doubt of that; but who was the mysterious person whom she had been obliged to consult before giving me a room? Presumably someone who might possibly be incommoded by my presence there.

I came to with a start, realizing that the gates of the chalet were before me; but there was more than that. Just beyond them, coyly parked at the base of the garden wall, was an aged, dusty Fiat, and standing on the driving-seat, peering over the wall, was a large form that was familiar to me. I pulled up with an intentional jarring of brakes. "Good morning to you, Mr. Dunning," I said affably.

He turned and bent his vast, moon face towards me, beaming through his myopic spectacles. "Behold a welcome vision!" said he. "Mr. Lumsden, your friend has barred his gate against me, but I tell you here and now, and in no unfriendly spirit, that if you don't let me in within the next five minutes, you'll find yourself under arrest, charged with the murder of Eve Monet!"

I stared at him, completely silenced for the moment by his colossal nerve. "No, no, Mr. Dunning," I said at last. "I don't know if that's a promise or a threat, but either way it won't work."

He clambered down from his perch. "Listen here, friend," he drawled, "you've got me all wrong. I'm not in this business for my health, or your health either. If I had my choice I'd be lying in bed right now, drinking my coffee and reading my newspaper. But as it is, I've been up and around since six—a cold and cheerless hour for a man of my age—and all to do you a kindness."

He came a step nearer, thrusting his big white face close to mine. "If I put a question to you," he said quietly, "and you can answer yes to it, will yo let me in?"

I laughed at that and nodded.

"Mr. Lumsden, have you received the letter Eve Monet left for you at the Carlton Hotel?"

I had hard work to keep from startling. Ada, I knew, had heard nothing of the letter, and the only possible explanation was that the hotel clerk had been gossiping. But even so, this argued a dangerous astuteness on the part of the man I was talking to.

"I think," I said slowly, "that you win out on this. The place to continue this discussion is inside the house."

He beamed at me. "That's better!" said he in a gratified tone.

Hugo strolled up, pipe in mouth, hands deep in the pockets of his blue cotton trousers, and raised an eyebrow at sight of the American.

"I thought," he said, "that we'd agreed—"

"So we did," I assented, "but I've got a little discussion pending with Mr. Dunning that would be healthier carried out behind locked doors."

Black and Sinister

Hugo made no further comment, but came forward and himself opened the padlock.

"Now, see here, friend, where's your bedroom?" Dunning inquired.

I couldn't see what connection all this had with Eve Monet's letter, but I showed him the door

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

FIRST chance they get, several presidential advisers whose loyalty to F. D. R. cannot be questioned will suggest a line of conduct to him that will deeply affect his last two years in office if he accepts it.

The idea is born partially of the failure of his attempted purges and partially of the quality of moral leadership which he showed during the European crisis. In the first venture he failed miserably, lowering the dignity and prestige of his high office. In the second he won the admiration of friend and foe. So now his well-wishers want him to abandon the role of political partisan and step forth instead as a moral and intellectual leader—to forget his feuds with politicos and "economic royalists," to call in friendly and hostile elements of the business community and frame a New Deal all around.

The President himself appears to be in a receptive mood, probably due to satisfaction over his recent part in the world drama. His Hyde Park utterance for peace at home among discordant groups was NOT inspired by the friendly conspirators, though it might have been. Anyway, it encourages them to go ahead with their scheme. The main obstacle is that no member of the Roosevelt family can seem to keep his fingers out of politics for long. It's in the blood.

REACTIONS: Several sharp-eared political travelers have returned to Washington with pertinent reports on public reactions towards current policies and personalities to wit:

(1) The American people want peace, but they're not willing to fight for it. Even American legionnaires at Los Angeles acted and talked like pink pacifists when the subject was mentioned.

(2) Between the Mississippi and the Rockies the people believe that F. D. R. helped to avert a world conflict, was prepared to "keep us out of war", and are deeply grateful. He is more popular in that area than elsewhere, despite disgruntlement over domestic conditions.

(3) America's three most popular figures are, in order, President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull, Mayor La-Guardia. With the exception of New York's New Dealish Mayor, no Republican captivates their imagination, not even Tom Dewey.

(4) There is very little interest—or concern—in the Republican party's present day policies or personalities.

(5) People want jobs, security, pensions, and except on football Saturdays they talk of little else. Whoever will assure them of those things can have six terms in the White House.

SCUTTLE: The Grand Old Party's comeback moves are hampered by a serious and sizeable revolt among the financial, business and industrial elements which have hitherto formed its backbone. This is National Chairman John Hamilton's private hairshirt as he prepares for 1938 and 1940 tests.

As of today, wealthy and influential individuals, groups and corporations have scant faith in the Republican party as a victorious opposition to the New Deal. As they did during the last session of Congress they are turning to conservative Democrats for projection and salvation. Naturally the same sort of psychology is beginning to make itself felt in the field of practical election day politics.

This attitude has gone so far that key G. O. P.-ers (business men, not politicians) seriously propose that the Republican party postpone its 1940 convention until after the Democrats have met and nominated. Then, if the conservatives oust the New Deal faction and name, say, a Bennett Clark, these pillars of the community and contributors to the election plate suggest that the G. O. P. scuttle its own ship and swing aboard the enemy's craft. In short, the new motto is: Never mind the party—beat Roosevelt!

UNWANTED: The ring of economic and military steel which western European powers have drawn around Russia has dumped a minor diplomatic problem in President Roosevelt's lap. It makes it hard for him to find anybody who will accept the post of Ambassador to the Soviets.

Moscow seems in a fair way to become a diplomatic tank town, whereas after recognition it loomed as an extremely important assignment—so much so that the President sent his close personal friend and one of our shrewdest foreign observers—William C. Bullitt—to the Soviet capital. His experiences, together with those of successor Joseph E. Davies, have convinced White House and State Department that a Boy Scout could fill the post as well as a wealthy party contributor. Messrs. Bullitt and Davies could dig up no worthwhile info on Soviet economy or aims. They saw Stalin only once during their tour of duty, and finally quit the country in utter disgust.

Fact is that Moscow should become an even more strategic outpost under the new arrangement—the encirclement of the Soviet system. But you can't sell that idea—though maybe F. D. R. can do it—to Americans who want to make a diplomatic splash. The unwanted post will probably fall to some career man after several party angels and bigwigs have returned their "No, thank you's" to F. D. R.'s proffers.

FINANCIAL sources with excellent London contacts get word that Prime Minister Chamberlain's private understanding with Hitler was even more generous to the latter than the world suspects—as yet. They report that Chamberlain in effect gave the Fuehrer carte blanche to extend his domination over eastern Europe and the Balkans—practically promising that Britain would not interfere in any way as long as the penetration was accomplished "peacefully." The only condition was that Hitler should not use military force to achieve his objectives.

This does not necessarily imply further outright territorial annexations by the Nazis. It does imply German control over the political and economic destinies of Rumania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Greece—possibly even of Poland and the Baltic states—in addition to Hungary and what is left of Czechoslovakia.

Note how this fits into the plan to quarantine communism. Russia would be cut off from western Europe by a solid ring of Hitler-bossed states. Chamberlain is also said to figure that German hegemony will insure against quarrels among the smaller nations that might otherwise threaten the peace of Europe. So far as the present British government is concerned, Hitler can have about everything he wants without even an argument.

CONSOLATION: Informed New Yorkers are chuckling over the inside story of William Gibbs McAdoo's new job. Some months ago Senator McAdoo led a large and impressive delegation of Californians into the Maritime commission to protest the transfer of the Panama Pacific luxury liners to the South American service. That commission said it was sorry that this plan could not be changed, but promised the visitors that the intercoastal service would be resumed with other ships. After the delegation had left, the Senator remained behind. He said that his fellow citizens were pretty sore about losing the liners and it might cost him his seat. He was assured that he would be taken care of in such a case.

So when McAdoo lost out in the California primary, he sat around expecting to be named to the Maritime commission when Max Truitt's term expired in September. But Truitt decided he wanted to keep the job. Being Senate Majority Leader Barkley's son-in-law, he got his wish and McAdoo was left out in the cold. The California veteran was plenty sore about it. Something had to be done to appease him.

Then somebody had an inspiration. The Maritime commission recently took over the Dollar line. Why not make McAdoo chairman of its board? No sooner thought than done. So the Senator, with no practical shipping experience, was named to that post. It pays $25,000 a year instead of the measly $12,000 he would have received as a maritime commissioner. That's sweet consolation for a "lame duck."

REVOLT: New Yorkers get reports from experienced political scouts that Secretary Wallace and his A. A. A. are plowing under good Democratic votes by the hundreds of thousands in the agricultural West. Several weeks ago Oklahoma farmers got their new wheat allotments. The cuts were so drastic that a lively though informal farm rebellion is gaining rapid impetus.

Texas Topics---By Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, Oct. 11. (AP)—Lon Smith, member of the Railroad commission, predicts that G. A. Sadler, who defeated C. V. Terrell for re-election to that state government agency, will be popular.

There is much interest on the effect Sadler's election will have on policies of the commission, especially with reference to regulation of the oil industry.

"I have known Sadler 20 years," Smith said. "I think he will be a very popular commissioner. He is a likeable fellow; people can't be around him without liking him. He will be very fair, and he is not going to destroy the oil business. He an oil man himself and he will not try to ruin something of which he is a part."

Smith pointed out that he and Sadler were born in East Texas, Sadler in Anderson county and Smith in Rusk county.

Recently both were honor guests at a dinner tendered by Fort Worth citizens.

Has He Heard Mountain Music?

Kentucky conversation piece was brought back to Texas by a Dallas man who engaged a mountain storekeeper during the Barkley-Chandler contest for the U. S. senate.

"How's the election going?"

"Reckon Barkley'll winn . . . Whar you from, stranger?"

"Texas."

"Barkley gettin' many votes down thar?"

"No, you know Barkley is running for the United States Senate from Kentucky."

"Ain't Texas still in the United States."

"Sure."

"Well, I can't see why you ain't votin' for United States Senator then."

Lengthy explanation.

"Well, I never knew it was that way," mused the mountaineer. "They won't let me vote anyhow. I'm a Republican.

"Who's your big man in Texas?"

"Well . . . er . . . Everybody seemed to be voting for O'Daniel."

"Daniel . . . never heard of him."

THE trend of railroad freight rates has been up since last fall, says C. R. McNamee, rate expert of the Railroad commission.

The most recent boost in rates was on burlap bags and certain other commodities. It was not approved by shippers.

McNamee explained the situation as follows:

For several years railroads reduced rates to meet truck and other competition. They wanted to see if they could make more money by hauling a greater volume at lower rates.

Meantime, operating costs increased, due partly to higher wages for employes and a retirement program.

In the last year, the railroads have been pressing for restoration of the former rates, and some increases over these, urging they must have more revenue to survive.

Engineers Listed

The State Board of Registration for professional engineers has published its first official roster, listing approximately 4,000 names of engineers and their addresses.

This was done under a law enacted at the general session of the legislature in 1937 requiring state registration of professional engineers. The law is known generally as the Engineers' Licensing act.

On the word of the board it was a big job to get out that registration list. F. E. Rightor of San Antonio, secretary, comments:

"Here's our first roster. It ought to be a good one. Copy went to the printer in July. One of the hardest jobs your secretary has is becoming accustomed to this manana business. Only it's a whole lot worse than manana—it's next month."

A superstition has it that a mother attending her baby's christening should carry an egg, a coin, and a pinch of salt in her pocket. This is said to assure the infant strength, happiness and wealth.

nevertheless, and in two strides he had it open, halting on the threshold to fling another question over his shoulder: "Do you carry a gun?"

"Not on your life," I answered, startled.

"Right," said he, standing in the doorway, while his quick, light eyes roved round the room. "And yet if there's not a bit of ironmongery tucked away somewhere in this room, I'm a Chink."

He strode to the dresser, flinging open one drawer after another and running his hands through the contents with practiced skill; but what he sought was apparently not there.

"Well, well!" said he, "I'm certainly disappointed in our unknown visitor. I thought he'd have done better than that—but there it is. Nothing remains but the classic spot. Of course," he added magnanimously, taking a sudden stride towards the unmade bed and switching off the coverings, "when a man's in a hurry he hasn't much time for finesse."

I gasped, and Hugo swore sharply under his breath, for there, black and sinister on the snowy mattress-cover, lay a small, wicked-looking Browning pistol. The American pulled out a vast linen handkerchief, wrapped it round the gun, and held it up gingerly. He unclipped the magazine and examined the pistol. "As nice a little silencer as I've ever seen," he commented approvingly. "And just the one shot fired, Gentlemen"—he swung round on us, and his big face was suddenly immensely serious—"I take it I don't have to tell you where that bullet found its mark?"

"You mean," I said hoarsely, "that that's the gun that gilled Eve Gillet?"

He inclined his head.

"But who the deuce put it there?" I demanded, and then stopped short, for a sudden, uncomfortable thought had struck me. Jean-Francois had been alone in this room a few short hours back; Jean-Francois had sat on that very bed.

"Mr. Lumsden," said he gravely, "I'll answer your question by another. Why is Mr. Rene Geiss so determined to put the blame for the killing on you? Just a minute—" He held up a hand as I would have spoken. "I'll be frank with you. That's one place where you know more than I do. I'm in the dark about it, but unless we get together pretty soon and pool our knowledge—"

He broke off suddenly in his turn and held up his hand for silence. "We're too late," he said. "That was a car in the lane, and the forces of law and disorder will shotly be demanding admittance. Take my advice and don't obstruct them. Let them do their worst."

TARZAN THE FEARLESS — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Poor Mary sobbed in anguish when she realized that her father and fiance had been recaptured. She had not the slightest suspicion that Jeff's devilish plot was responsible. Rather was she grateful to him for what she believed was his valiant attempt to save them. . . .

. . . It was the uproar in the village that stimulated Tarzan to phenomenal speed. When he arrived in the trees above the shouting blacks, Jeff and Mary had already vanished, but he saw the savages seize Bob and Dr. Brooks and drag them back toward the prison huts.

"What's going on?" Tarzan called down in English. Bob was startled, for he believed the ape-man had deserted them completely. But when he had recovered from his surprise, he called back "We were trying to escape. Mary and Jeff got away. But it's all up with us."

"Have courage," Tarzan urged; "I may find a way to help you." "Don't bother with us," Dr. Brooks quavered; "go to Mary and Jeff. The perils of the jungle are as great as ours." Little did Dr. Brooks realize that he was urging Tarzan into Jeff Biggers' trap!

HORSE AND MULE AUCTION SALE EACH
THURSDAY
Our horse sale was the best we have had and good stock brought a good price. Had 150 head and will need more stock all the time as our market is getting better advertised and we have more buyers.
Cattle sale every Wednesday. Last week we did not have many cattle, but a nice little run for first sale. Everyone was well pleased and we expect to have more cattle from now on and we are going to quote prices they bring from sale to sale, not what these cattle bring on some other market but our market. So bring in your cattle and help us make Lubbock the biggest market in West Texas.
Jersey stockers from 3.75@4.25, common butcher weight from 500-700, 4.50 to 5.50. Choice butcher cows from 3.50 to 4.30. No fat cows offered. Bulls from 3.75@4.25.
No heavy bulls offered. Consign your cattle to us each Wed. for better prices. We are bonded for your protection.

Snyder Livestock Market
AUCTION SALE OF CATTLE EVERY THURSDAY, STARTING 10:00 A. M.
AUCTION SALE OF HORSES AND MULES EVERY SATURDAY
We now have a good demand for all kinds of stocker cattle to go to Oklahoma and Kansas wheat fields, especially cows and calves and wet cows. Any of this class of cattle consigned to us will bring a good market price. Butcher cattle sold strong at our sale this week and our demand continues to increase.
Tune in KFYO each Thursday from 2 to 2:15 o'clock, hear the auction sale direct from the sales pavilion. If you have livestock for sale or are in the market to buy don't fail to attend our Thursday auction sale of cattle and Saturday auction sale of horses and mules. Livestock sold at private sale every day. For best results consign your livestock to Snyder Livestock Market. Bonded and insured.

CORRECTIVE MEDICINE

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Stocks took more "corrective" medicine in today's market and the majority yielded fractions to a point or so.

Comfort was still found in the general run of business news and foreign affairs were not particularly depressing, but some analysts felt the market was due for a greater set-back because of its lengthy upturn and many traders lightened commitments accordingly. The Columbus day holiday tomorrow, on which the stock exchange will be closed, also was a factor.

An assortment of new highs for the year was in evidence, and low-priced issues were turned over on large volume.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .1 of a point at 51.8, the same as the day before. Transfers amounted to 1,534,000 shares compared with 1,663,960 Monday.

Douglass and United Aircraft were bolstered by further signs of huge world armament programs. Cerro De Pasco and Phelps Dodge were a trifle higher as export copper topped 11 cents a pound for the first time this year. Brooklyn Union Gas was up a major fraction to a new 1938 peak, and Consolidated Edison, Electric Power and Light and North American finished with minor gains.

Sloss-Sheffield climbed 8 points to 112, also a new high for the move. Texas Corp. and Standard Oil of N. J. gave ground and continued shakiness of Mid-Continent crude prices. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem lacked vitality as it was learned cuts of $4 a ton had been posted on automobile steel. General Motors and Chrysler, while benefiting from this concession, ended on the downside. General Motors announced more price reductions for new models.

Pupils Ask President About Views On Peace Secretary

WARREN, O., Oct. 11. (AP)—Sixth grade pupils at Elm Road school here are taking the matter up with the White House.

Learning in history class there is a secretary of war, they inquired: "Why not a secretary of peace?"

In an effort to balance things they have written to Mr. Roosevelt, asking his views on the subject.

MARKETS TO BE CLOSED

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP) — Principal domestic security and commodity exchanges will remain closed Wednesday in observance of Columbus day. Markets affected include the New York stock and commodity exchanges, Chicago board of trade and other domestic grain centers. European and Canadian markets—and the majority of domestic livestock exchanges—will operate as usual.

Cotton . .

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—An early advance of 7 to 10 points in cotton today failed to hold owing to increased liquidation and hedging. December, which had advanced to 8.39, reacted to 8.28, with final prices 2 points net higher to 2 lower.

The market opened 2 to 4 points higher in response to steady Liverpool cables and on continued trade buying of near and foreign buying of distant months. Contracts were comparatively scarce during the greater part of the day with only a moderate amount of hedging. The early advance sent the entire list, except July, to or above previous high levels for the movement. The advance in the near months, however, attracted increased liquidation and transferring to the later positions, partly for foreign account. This, with some increase in hedging, checked the advance and resulted in the subsequent reaction.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Pre-holiday evening-up and straddle operations offset considerable trade and foreign buying in the cotton market here today and closing prices were steady, net 2 points higher to 8 lower.

Most factors were on the bullish side but operators were unwilling to enter upon new commitments because of the Columbus day holiday in domestic markets tomorrow.

Oct. contracts closed at 8.36-bid, Dec. at 8.42, Jan. at 8.36, March at 8.32, May at 8.23, July at 8.16 and Oct. (new) at 7.94. Spot cotton closed steady with middling 7 points higher at 8.52. Sales for the day amounted to 7,160 bales.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11 (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was unchanged at 8.52 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.23 cents a pound.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP)—Confronted by a holiday tomorrow, the Chicago wheat market fluctuated nervously up and down within narrow limits today, and ended a little lower.

Serving to pull values down at the last was the fact that fresh export purchasing of North American wheat totaled but 300,000 bushels, all of it Canadian. A further weight on values was news of continued favorable conditions for crops in Argentina.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were unchanged to ⅜ down compared with yesterday's finish, Dec. 64¼@64⅜, May 65¼@65⅜, corn unchanged to ½ lower, Dec. 44⅛@44¾, May 48⅛@48¼, oats ⅛ to ¼ off, rye showing ¾ decline, and provisions a setback of 7 to 10 cents.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Oct. 11 (AP)—Demand for grain was slow here today. Estimated receipts were: wheat 40 cars, and corn 3. Cars manifested Monday were: wheat 110, corn 5, oats 3, and sorghums 1.

those who read about it in books. I am here to listen to you.

"I shall have nothing to say with reference to federal legislation. We have problems big enough in Texas to take all of our time. I want to know what the state government can do that will be beneficial to Texas farmers.

Mind Is Unchanged

"I'm advocating the same things now that I advocated while I was running for governor. I haven't changed my mind in the least."

He then told the farm meeting what he had said at a meeting of business men a few hours earlier, that he would make pensions the first order of business when he went to Austin.

He told again of his plans for industrialization of the state, urging canneries for farm products, and factories to process Texas hides and other farm materials. He urged conservation of the state's water resources, invited the farmers to come to him at Austin any time they had ideas to give and turned the meeting over to M. E. Wallis, state organizer of the Farmers' union which has started a statewide drive for membership.

C. M. Evans, regional director of the Farm Security administration, and Tom Cheek, president of the Oklahoma Farmers union, also spoke.

Skeleton Found

tom in burials.

The body was found about a block northwest of the courthouse in the edge of a small canyon which follows the creek. It was about 200 yards east of the city park and about 150 feet southwest of the county jail.

Many of the bones were broken in removing the skeleton and several of the teeth were intact. The bones, especially the head, were small which led to the belief the body was that of a woman.

Sheriff Carlisle said the skull showed no marks of violence while others said it had been fractured.

Bones of the skeleton remained here awaiting means to determine their age. Some said they possibly were 50 to 100 years old, but others said they would have been worse decayed if they were that old and had remained so close to the surface of the soil.

Forty-five per cent of all motorists injured in auto accidents are injured by flying glass, according to statistics.

World Famous Architect Dies Tuesday Of Heart Attack

NORTH KINGSTON, R. I., Oct. 11. (AP)—Christopher Grant LaFarge, 76, whose architectural genius ranged from designing awe-inspiring cathedrals to utilitarian subway stations, died suddenly today at his Saunderstown home after suffering a heart attack.

Monuments to his designing skill—the cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York and that city's subway stations built under the rapid transit commission, to name a few—stand in great cities throughout the United States.

Attempt To Assassinate British Leader In Jerusalem Fails; Bombs Are Hurled

(By The Associated Press)

JERUSALEM, Oct. 11—An attempt to assassinate the British district governor of Jerusalem and another battle against Arab outposts marked the bitter dispute today among Arabs, Jews and British authorities attempting to restore order.

Four bombs were hurled at Edward Keith-Roach's auto from the old city walls in front of the Rockefeller museum.

He Escapes Injury

Keith-Roach, governor since 1931, escaped injury as did occupants of escort cars.

Reinforcements of British troops were called in northern Palestine to assist police in battling an Arab band near Mount Carmel where in Biblical times Elijah offered sacrifices.

Throughout the night British forces engaged the band which was strengthened by the addition of many Arab villagers. Airforce planes were sent up to illumine the scene with parachute flares.

Troops dispersed the Arabs at dawn, taking five prisoners and confiscating rifles and ammunition.

Ask End Of Mandate

(Meeting in Cairo the Moslem congress representing eight countries of the Moslem world asked termination of Britain's Palestine mandate, an end of Jewish immigration to the holy land and the establishment of parliamentary government in Palestine.)

At Lydda, Palestine's main railway junction, 21 Arab homes were destroyed by British troops because of recent attacks on military police.

A death toll of five was reported after 20 separate incidents of killing, sabotage, arson, robbery and sniping in the last 24 hours.

Pushcart Markets In 2 Big Cities Doomed

Maxwell Street's Ghetto market is on the way out. A group of Chicago Jewish business and professional men have started a campaign to eradicate it as a move to help Jewry.

Pushcarts are vanishing from New York City, too. Mayor LaGuardia classes them relics of a bygone era. The city is building enclosed markets to replace pushcart bazaars. When a pushcart license expires it's not renewed.

Farm Projects Are Reported

Progress of county farm boys who have a cotton project for better seed, sponsored by the Lions club, was reported to the club yesterday by several members who had visited their particular boy. The meeting was at noon in the Hilton hotel with Robert H. Bean, president, presiding.

Dr. Ewell Hunt, James Kuykendall, Dr. C. C. Craig, Vernice Ford and M. E. Heard, chairman of the club's committee, reported. All of them had visited their boys and said all seemed pleased at the work that they had accomplished.

President Bean said the directors Monday voted to pay up to $150 for a member of the club who attends the Lions International convention. W. H. Evans, of the committee to draft regulations, said those eligible to compete must have been a member for a year prior to July 1, 1939, must be fully paid up in membership dues and fees, must have had a 100 per cent attendance from Nov. 1, 1938 to July 1 and must not have attended a convention with all expenses paid by the club. Past preidents are automatically eliminated from competing.

H. C. Pender, past preisdent, was welcomed back to the club after several months absence. Walker Nichols, a new member, was introduced.

Boone Horn, chairman for the month, read a letter on fire prevention week. Dr. F. G. Harbaugh praised the Lubbock fire department for its good record. He said he had had but one experience with a fire while here and lauded their work in saving his property.

Warren P. Clement, president of the Rotary club, a guest, spoke briefly.

Labor Challenge

but the chairman of the C. I. O. is still making grandstand plays. His offer is an attempted fraud and deception on the public. To anyone familiar with the labor situation, it is obvious that even if he resigned as chairman of the C. I. O. he would still remain its dictator behind the scenes. Because he would remain as president and dictator of the United Mine Workers of America, the union which is the financial angel of the C. I. O. and whose funds are being wantonly wasted in a vain effort to keep the C. I. O. alive.

"Here is a man who has ruthlessly vetoed every fair proposal to restore peace in organized labor, who has even refused to sit down again in conference without prior commitments to seek the kind of labor peace which everyone in the nation wants, now trying to mislead the public with an empty gesture.

"The public can no longer be fooled by the grandiose bluffs of the chairman of the C. I. O.

"The question of our service with the American Federation of Labor will be placed squarely and fairly before this convention for a vote," Green said. "I will be guided by the democratic decision of the 5,000,000 workers who make up the A. F. of L."

Green said the federation workers, through their delegates, would decide whether it is in the interest of organized labor "to reelect me or to retire me from the office I have held for 14 consecutive terms."

Professors Believe Texas Craters Made By Meteors Instead Of Ancient Volcanoes

DALLAS, Oct. 11. (AP) — Many craters in Texas which long have been considered of volcanic origin were really made by meteors striking the earth at terrific speed and exploding, according to a theory advanced by Dr. John D. Boon and Dr. Claude C. Albritton, jr., of the Southern Methodist university faculty.

For two years the two S.M.U. professors have been conducting geological research regarding craters believed to be of volcanic origin. They found that many scars thought to be of volcanic origin closely resembled the crater near Odessa, which is accepted as being of meteorite origin.

The S.M.U. professors have concluded that meteor crater located in Arizona was caused by a 100-million ton meteorite traveling through space at a speed of 20 miles a second striking the earth and exploding, in the geologic past. Their theory is that a meteor penetrating the earth's surface sets up explosive effects on impact by concerting part of its own substance and part of the earth into white-hot vapor.

They contend that the heat generated from the impact on the nose of the meteor would raise any known substance to a high temperature and bring about an explosion that would backfire and shatter the meteor, digging a crater much deeper and larger than that produced by the penetration of the falling body, and that the explosion would cause the rock strata to wave and bulge.

LAS CRUCES, N. M., Oct. 11. (AP) —F. A. Fitch, father-in-law of Grant Duncan, young Presbyterian circuit-riding minister missing from Grants, N. M., since September 20, voiced the belief today Duncan had been slain and the body hidden in the desert.

Russians Line Up Skulls To Ridicule Nazi Race Theory

MOSCOW, Oct. 11. (AP)—Soviet scientists have prepared an exhibit of skulls in the state museum of anthropology to discredit theories of racial superiority, particularly the Aryan theory of the German nazis.

"The representatives of various races are shown in comparison with the man-like apes," said an announcement by Tass, the official soviet news agency. "As a whole, none of the races is nearer to the ape than any other.

"In the shape of his forehead and eyebrow bones, the European is even closer to the chimpanzee than the negro. This is confirmed by the skull of a German from Berlin which is nearer to the chimpanzee than the skull of a negro."

Italians were told that Ethiopians are only a link between them and negroes.

"The Abyssinian type is shown as a transitory type between the Southern Europeans and the negroes," the announcement said. "The skulls, portraits anl models show that the Abyssinians by shape of their face, nose and partly hair resemble Italians."

Aged Woman Wins Her Final Blue Ribbon At State Fair

DALLAS, Oct. 11. (AP)—Every year since 1886 Mrs. Bertha Louis Russ has actively interested herself in Texas state fairs. Fifty times she won prizes with her handiwork.

Today one of her entries was hung with a blue ribbon denoting another winner for her in a state fair contest.

But Mrs. Russ this time can't personally take home her trophy. Past the gates of the state fair this morning went her funeral procession. She was 77.

The ending, "wort," found in numerous flower names, such as bellwort, spiderwort, etc., is an old English word, meaning plant, or herb.

Defense Budget To Be Boosted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)— A large increase in the 1939 national defense budget was foreseen today by President Roosevelt who explained that the navy alone needs $150,000,000 more next year to start new warships already authorized by congress.

Such an increase would bring the nation's annual arms budget up to within striking distance of a billion and a half dollars, or more than twice as much as national defense was costing only a decade ago. The total, however, still is far under the $1,744,000,000 spent in post-war 1920 before naval disarmament set in and wartime expenses were slashed.

Reached Big Figure

The 1938 appropriations for the war and navy departments finally reached $1,322,047,452, which included direct and deficiency appropriations, and public works allotments.

The navy received $619,033,244 this year, while the war department was given $703,024,208 for its entire program, including civil functions such as river, harbor and flood control work.

Dramatic Offer By CIO Head

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (AP) — John L. Lewis' dramatic offer to step down from the chairmanship of the C. I. O.—provided his arch enemy, William Green, would resign from the A. F. of L. presidency —appeared tonight to have brought labor's struggling factions no nearer to peace.

Lewis got no direct answer from Green, but the latter said at Houston, Tex., that the delegates to the federation's convention there would give the reply to the CIO chieftain. This was taken to refer to the coming A. F. of L. election, to be held Thursday or Friday. Green is unopposed for reelection.

Bitterness Increased

The Lewis offer, made today at a press conference, seemed to have increased the bitterness which A. F. of L. leaders feel toward him.

"I doubt his sincerity," was the terse comment of Arthur O. Wharton, an A. F. of L. vice president.

However, A. F. Whitney, who, as president of the Independent Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, is a non-combatant in labor's civil war, predicted the war would end within a year because the "interests of labor and the public" demand it.

Cites News Dispatches

Lewis called attention to news dispatches saying the A. F. of L. convention adopted a report yesterday declaring there was no solution to the split in labor until Lewis either was deprived of his authority or voluntarily stepped aside.

Then he said:

"There may be some virtue behind the suggestion of the federation that I personally retire from official participation in the matter. Obviously the CIO could function without the benefit of my services . . . The same suggestion would apply to Mr. Green. In any event I think it is worth trying.

Willing To Resign

"I advise that I am willing to resign tomorrow, or any other day thereafter, as chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, if Mr. Green will simultaneously resign as president of the American Federation of Labor.

"It then may be possible for the remaining leaders of the CIO and the remaining leaders of the A. F. of L. to conclude a peace pact, in which event the contribution made by Mr. Green and myself would be of some value.

"If the A. F. of L. convention wants to accept this suggestion, I will immediately, upon its acceptance, arrange to file my own resignation with the CIO."

Lewis' offer stirred wide interest in government circles, but no official would comment. President Roosevelt was asked at his press conference for some expression, but declined.

Governor Had Right To Gasp When He Read This Letter

AUSTIN, Oct. 11. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred gasped when he opened his mail today and read:

"Governor take our names off the pension roll. We are able to take care of ourself. Benjamin Clayton, Mertildy Clayton, Leah Thompson, Centie Cox."

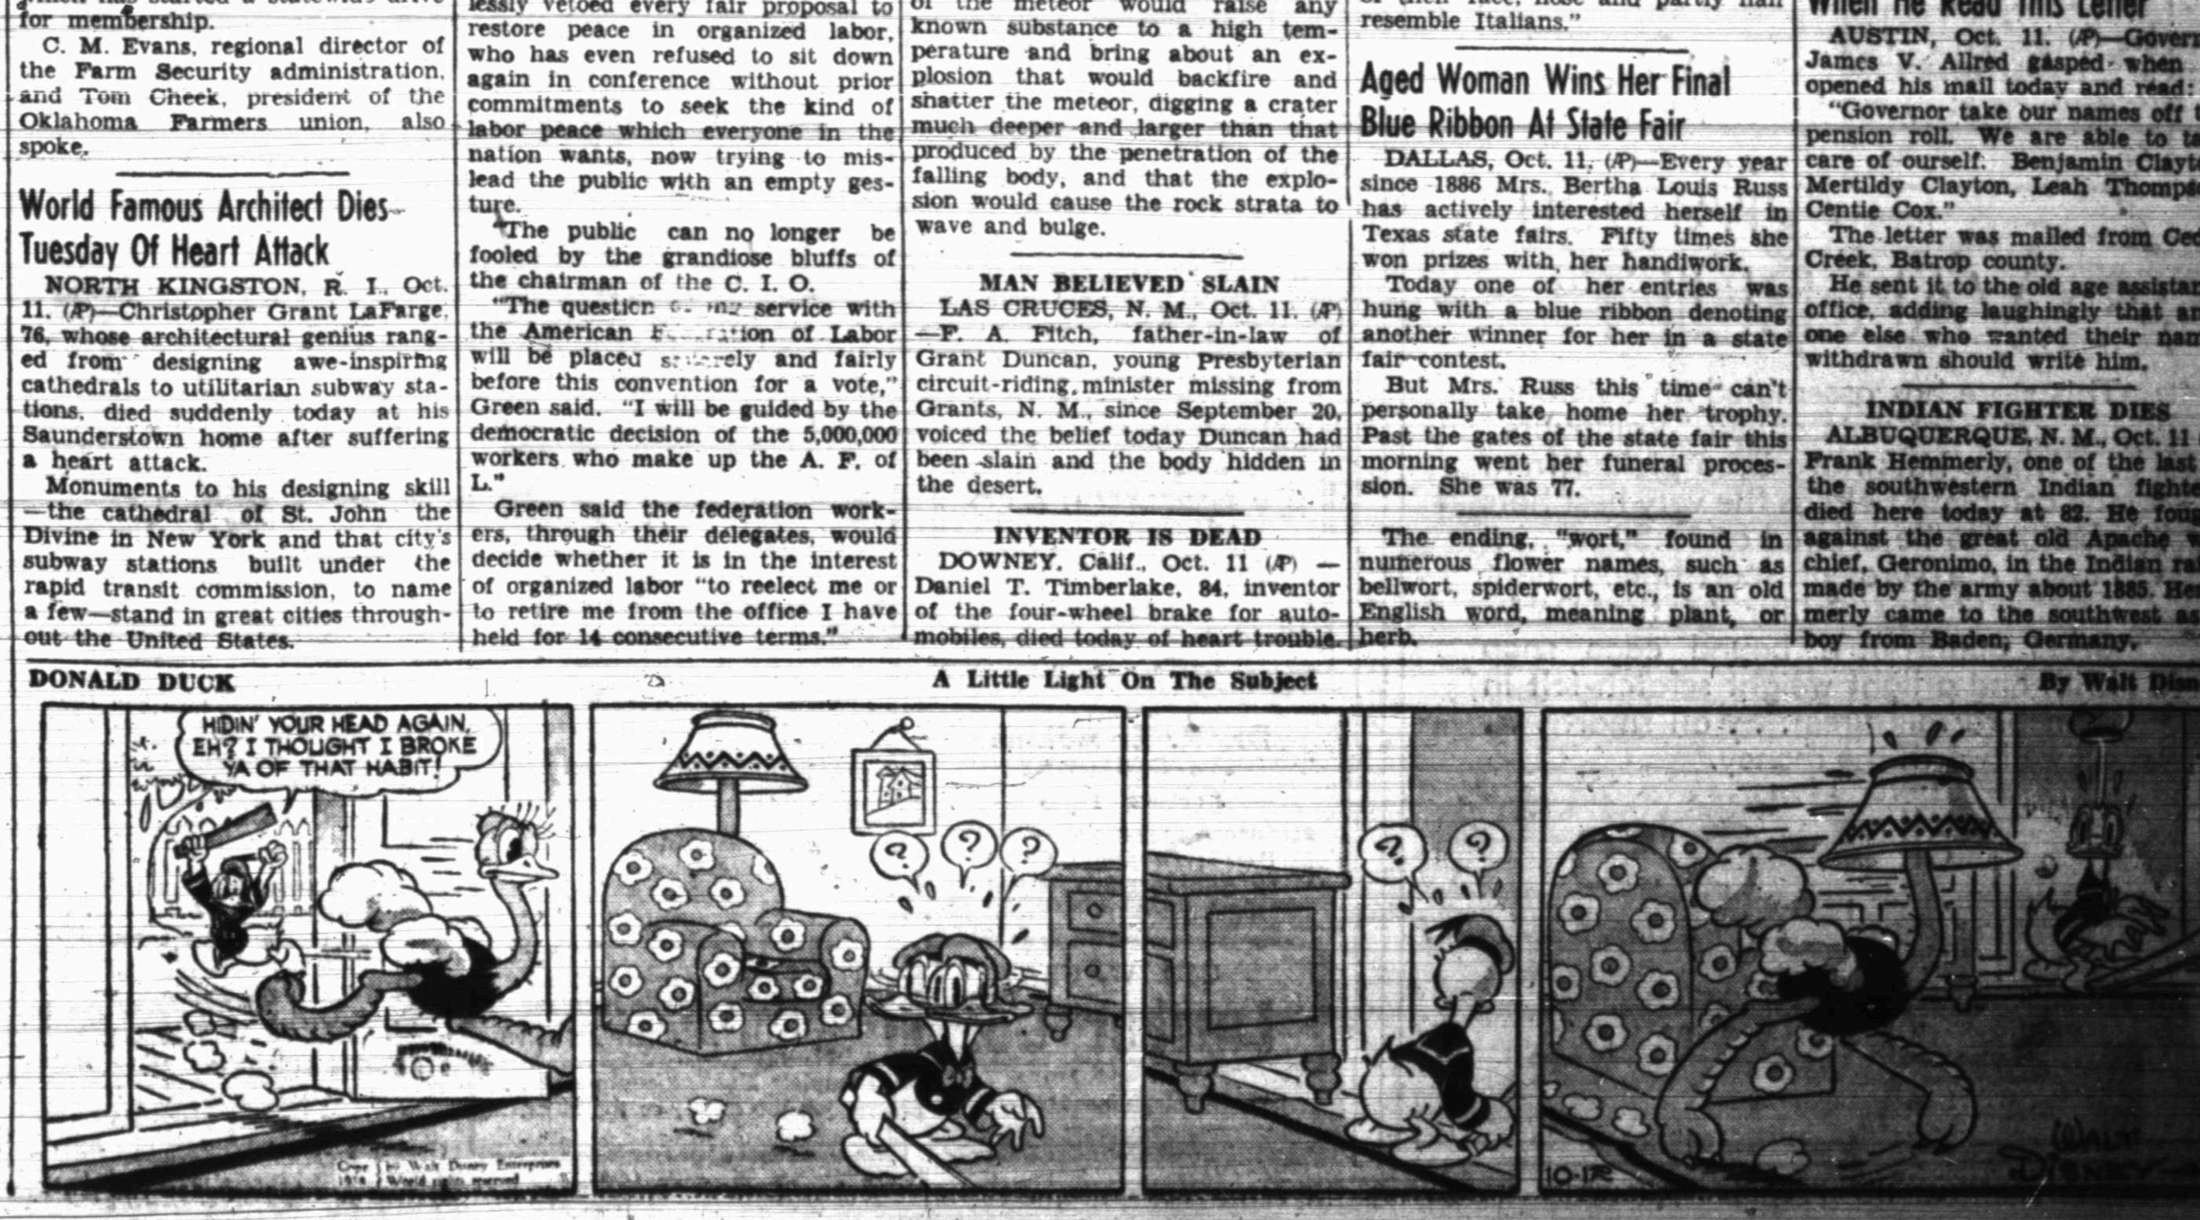

The letter was mailed from Cedar Creek, Batrop county.

He sent it to the old age assistance office, adding laughingly that anyone else who wanted their names withdrawn should write him.

Fawcett Trial Starts Today

LIBERTY, Oct. 11 (AP)—Trial of John Wesley (Blackie) Fawcett, former Houston refinery worker, will open in district court tomorrow as another chapter in the February, 1935 ride slaying of an unidentified Italian ship's officer unfolds. First trial of Fawcett on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying resulted in a hung jury.

Fawcett and Richard A. Palmer were jointly indicted by a Liberty county grand jury early in 1937. Palmer then was in jail at Austin awaiting outcome of his appeal from conviction and sentence for life in the slaying of Percey Caulkins, Houston traveling salesman, near Edinburg.

Identity Was Sought

Sheriff Pat C. Lowe of Liberty was in the second year then of a vain search to establish the identity of the slain man whose bullet-riddled body had been discovered in a ditch near the Stillson community.

Lowe said Palmer admitted knowledge of the slaying and implicated Fawcett whom Lowe arrested near Beaumont on a tip given by Palmer. Palmer went to trial and was given a life sentence.

Meanwhile the state introduced a "mystery woman," in a witness named Nellie Scoville, a pretty, red-haired former Houston waitress. Miss Scoville testified she accompanied Fawcett, Palmer and the slain man on a night ride which began at a Houston waterfront cafe. Miss Scoville testified the seaman was known to have been paid off that day.

Attempted To Get Money

Miss Scoville testified the men attempted to obtain the money from the seaman who seemed to be in a drunken stupor. She testified that she left the car while these efforts were in progress and that while she was standing behind the machine shots rang out.

She returned to the car to find the seaman had been slain. She testified she had not known who fired the shots.

District Judge T. B. Coe of Kountze will try the case.

Three Occupants Of Auto Are Treated Here After Mishap

Three occupants of an automobile in which a two-weeks' old infant was being rushed to a hospital here were injured in a mishap near Roundup Monday night, according to report Tuesday.

V. M. Peterman, 33, of Littlefield, and Mrs. D. J. Dunlap, 28, of Littlefield received treatment for minor bruises and the Peterman baby for face bruises about 7:30 o'clock Monday night at Plains hospital. They were dismissed after treatment.

Peterman was bringing the baby here for a medical examination. A trailer and tractor driven by Albert Deshazzo of Roundup was crossing the road and Peterman in attempting to avoid collision swerved his car into a culvert on the right of the highway, according to reports to highway patrolmen.

Conference Called On Minimum Pay For U. S. Textile Plants

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, called to Washington today a committee appointed to discuss minimum pay levels in the nation's textile plants.

It was the first industry committee chosen under the new wage-hour law, which becomes effective Oct. 24. The group must recommend to Andrews the highest minimum wage it believes the textile industry can pay without causing a substantial curtailment in employment.

The law calls for a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour and a maximum 44-hour work week in industries in interstate commerce. It provides machinery, however, for establishing higher wage levels if representatives of an industry, its workers and the public agree.

Andrews and his legal staff soon will announce what industries might be considered exempt from the wage-hour law.

Plane Spotters Being Tested

FORT BRAGG, N. C., Oct. 11 (AP) The ability of untrained civilians to spot invading airplanes at maximum altitudes was tested today over eastern North Carolina as a part of the anti-aircraft warning net exercises for national defense.

For the last 24 hours some 2,000 volunteer civilian observers, among them 500 women, have been alert as tasks of increasing difficulty have been given them.

During the first exercises, long before dawn yesterday, the invading "black" planes came in from Langley Field, Va., at accommodatingly low altitudes, except for one flight, to make spotting easier.

Progress Reported

Groggy with sleep these doctors, lawyers, farmers and coast guardsmen turned out at 3:30 a. m. to flash the progress of the 33 attacking planes during their four-hour maneuvers against Fort Bragg.

That was intended as a test of the operation of the volunteer net.

Today, however, giant "black" four-engined B-17 flying fortresses and Martin B-10 bombers roared across the Atlantic coast line at their maximum ceilings—more than 22,000 feet for the Boeings.

A low-flying attack followed the bombers to distract the observers and shield the bombers from anti-aircraft batteries with a smoke screen.

First reports indicated the volunteer observers had little difficulty detecting the planes at high altitudes.

G. Palmer of Houston, third vice president and historian; Mrs. A. Deloach Martin of Dallas, recording secretary, and Mrs. R. H. Thompson of Abilene, treasurer.

Stockmen Looking Over Cattle Held At Albany; Ring Broken

ALBANY, Oct. 11 (AP)—Stockmen from West Central Texas came here today to look over 120 head of cattle being held for identification as officers worked to break what may be the biggest rustling ring in Shackelford county history.

More than 50 head of cows and calves had already been claimed and tentative identifications were made by stockmen from Hamlin, Merkel, Moran, Putnam and Palo Pinto.

Charges were expected to be filed shortly against several suspects, County Attorney Thomas L. Blanton, Jr., said.

Another Sufferer Shown Good Health

Years Of Health Troubles Ended After All Else Tried Had Failed; Like A Different Man Now

"Money could not buy what Gly-Cas has done for me," said Mr. F. M. Inmon, 810 West Monroe Street, Harlingen, Texas. "For five years my health had been a constant course of distress. My stomach would bloat terribly after every meal, gas would form in abundance regardless of my diet and I could never eat the foods I wished. It seemed what I liked the best would cause the most severe suffering. I was badly constipated too, simply could not gain in weight and was growing worse each day. I had that tired feeling continually and there was little I could do about it as everything I tried failed to make the least impression on my stubborn case . . . but Gly-Cas was wonderful.

"I am now on my second box of Gly-Cas and pleased to say that I am enjoying the best health I have had in years," continued Mr. Inmon. "I eat the foods that had been forbidden me and am never troubled with gas, bloating or distress of any kind after meals. Even my bowels have been regulated, am gaining in weight and strength every day, sleep good the entire night through and arise in the morning full of strength and energy, ready for the day's work ahead. Gly-Cas gave the results that were claimed for it."
