Carr Challenges Sen. Yarborough In Governor Race

AUSTIN (UPI)—Former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr has challenged U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough to resign from office, if he runs for governor and eliminate "an unfair and politically dangerous situation."

Carr charged Yarborough could use his Senate power to coerce support in the gubernatorial race if he keeps his seat and still runs for governor in 1968.

Both Carr and Yarborough are considering making the race to succeed the retiring Gov. John Connally.

Carr said if Yarborough does run for governor and retains his seat, "voters and people who work in political campaigns will have a dangerous choice—either vote for and support him or face the possibility of having their names in the senator's black book for more than two more years."

Much Patronage Involved
"A U.S. senator has control of vast areas of patronage and power, as well as the key votes on issues that control much of our day-to-day living," Carr said.

"He can threaten the voters with his senatorial power; if they do not support him for governor, he can retaliate down the line as their senator."

Carr said Texas passed legislation preventing some "less potent" political officeholders from having this "unfair advantage," such as county officials who are prevented from running for one office while holding another.

"If such an advantage is considered dangerous at this level, think how much more potential abuse is inherent in the power and advantage held by a U.S. senator," he said.

Carr said he wants the legislature to consider legislation to "stop such practices from ever again threatening the integrity."

Kepp in Office
Carr continued as attorney general while making an unsuccessful race for U.S. Sen. John Tower's seat last year. However, the difference is that Yarborough would still have two years to serve and Carr was to leave office at the end of that year.

Carr challenged Yarborough to resign his seat in time for normal election processes to elect his replacement, "if the senator is sincere about a gubernatorial race."

"He should run for governor on an honest and equal basis with the other candidates," Carr said. "After all, it was just such a situation that Yarborough so strenuously objected to when he was defeated by Sen. (Price) Daniel for governor in 1956."

Romney Declares He's a Candidate

Value of Pound Drops in London

LONDON (UPI)—The British government Saturday announced a 14.3 per cent devaluation of the pound, dropping its value from $2.80 to $2.40 on the international market.

A government announcement said the devaluation was effective 7 a.m. of 9:30 p.m., Saturday night (3:30 p.m., CST).

It was the first devaluation of the British pound since 1949 and followed a long emergency conference between Prime Minister Harold Wilson and leading government advisers.

Shortly after the London announcement, President Johnson pledged in Washington that the United States will not devalue the dollar.

The announcement by Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan said interest rate on capital loans from banks was to be raised commensurately from 6 to 8 percent—a credit-tightening measure to head off inflation.

Callaghan also said the government was cutting its defense expenditures by over 100 million pounds ($240 million) under the new rates next year.

All stock exchanges will be closed Monday, a measure aimed at forestalling wild buying and selling on the market and to ensure continued stability.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer also announced tighter restrictions on installment buying of motor vehicles at home in another move aimed at cutting unnecessary spending to the very bone.

Strict watch will be maintained on dividends, and corporation taxes probably will go up. This will be set in the next budget, Callaghan said.

In Washington the International Monetary Fund's managing director, Pierre Paul Schweitzer, said the fund had agreed in advance with the British proposal for the devaluation from a par value of $2.80 to $2.40.

At the end of trading Friday the pound closed at $2.7825, the psychological "floor" which bankers considered the absolute minimum level for international confidence in Britain's currency.

"The gravest in the history of British finance,"

Before the devaluation Wilson met with Peter Shore, his secretary of state for economic affairs, London, newspapers worst.

Chances Dim After Political Blunders

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gov. George Romney is starting his quest for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination as a long shot just a year after he appeared to be the favorite to win it.

During that year he has made some political blunders while his chief active but still undeclared rival, Richard M. Nixon, has avoided pitfalls and gained support from both Republicans and voters at large. Nixon has said he will announce his intentions in January.

Romney can now set out on his world travels, beginning Dec. 7, as an announced candidate for the presidency.

Nixon already has completed extensive travel, but his former job as vice president in the Eisenhower administration gave him the stature to gain access to national leaders abroad for discussions.

These two prospects for the GOP nomination must face each other in state presidential primaries which will influence the choice of the national convention next August, either by producing a winner or by creating a stalemate, leaving the nomination to be settled by negotiations.

Because the Republican situation has appeared so fluid this year, most party leaders have held back from public endorsements of any presidential candidate.

The first crucial primaries will come in New Hampshire March 10, and Wisconsin April 2. Nixon and Romney also can expect to be matched in the Nebraska and Oregon primaries, as well as Wisconsin, against Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, who insists he is only a favorite son candidate from his state.

The Romney announcement Saturday came after many Republicans already had written off his chances because of his slide downward, as indicated in public opinion polls, since last winter. He has fallen to fourth place behind Nixon, Reagan and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Rockefeller, a Romney supporter, also insists that he is not a candidate this year. If Romney should continue slipping, however, and lose in the early primaries, many Republicans expect the liberal wing of the GOP to rally behind the New Yorker.

Romney has never been forgiven by many Republican conservatives for his failure to embrace Barry M. Goldwater as the GOP presidential nominee in the 1964 campaign. His inclination to sermonize also has left them without any feeling of warmth for Romney. The Michigan governor has compounded his problems with his seemingly wavering position on U.S. policy in Vietnam. He suffered a sharp dip in public

Another Thief Returns Infant To His Mother

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI)—An infant boy was returned safely to the arms of his distraught mother early Saturday, about seven hours after he was accidentally abducted by a youthful auto thief.

Alfred Watson, 18, of nearby Rosegate, was arrested at the home of an uncle in Smyrna about five hours after the car containing four-month-old Jonathan David Wisneski, was stolen from a parking area of a restaurant on the Kennedy Turnpike, five miles from here.

It was the second such incident to have a happy ending in a 24-hour period. The other incident occurred in Fairfield, Conn., on Friday.

Watson was arrested shortly before 4 a.m. and about two hours later, cruising state police found the baby in the car abandoned at Middletown.

"Oh, God, cried Mrs. Martha Wisneski, 21, when police handed her the baby, "Oh, thank God."

The slim, attractive blonde, red-eyed from tears, had kept a vigil at the State Police Barracks at nearby New Castle since the baby and car were driven off late Friday night.

The mother, son, and her brother, Robert Fields, 19, were enroute from their home at Point Pleasant, N.J., to Climax, N.C., to visit relatives. They stopped at the restaurant and Fields remained with his nephew while Mrs. Wisneski went inside for coffee. Fields stepped from the car to stretch his legs and suddenly a youth had climbed behind the wheel and sped away. An all-points police search plan was put in effect.

Police said it was the second car Watson had stolen Friday night. They said he had driven to the restaurant in a stolen auto, abandoned it and took the Fields car.

Annual Thanksgiving Banquet Held Friday

The Gray County Association for Retarded Children had its annual Thanksgiving dinner Friday night in Lewis' Buffeteria.

Approximately 100 persons attended the dinner.

The children range in age from 6-18 and attend special classes at Sam Houston School, Pampa Junior High, and Pampa High School.

Miss Jerree Pitts, a student at Pampa High School, did several vocal numbers for the entertainment.

Special education teachers for children are Mrs. Betty Cash, Mrs. W. G. White, Mrs. Irene Norman, and Otto Mangold. Gray County Association for Retarded Children officers are Glenn Cox, president, Mrs. Jack Foster, first vice president, Otto Mangold, second vice president, Mrs. Betty Solan, treasurer, and Mrs. R. L. Wyatt, secretary.

Filing of Paving Requests Urged By City Manager

Preliminary planning for the second phase of Pampa's overall street improvement project has been started, City Manager Jim White said Saturday.

Property owners wishing to have streets paved in next summer's program, the city manager stated, should contact the city engineer's office at City Hall not later than Thursday, Dec. 7.

Petitions for paving around 40 to 50 blocks already are on the request list, White stated. A total of approximately 70 blocks will be paved, he added. The current $736,000 paving program which has resulted in 150 blocks being paved this year is expected to be finished by the Lewis Construction Co. of Dumas within the next few days.

The city manager said it is necessary to get paving requests in by Dec. 7 so the city can advertise for bids and plans and specifications can be set up for starting the paving construction by April 1.

Jacqueline Shops Before Trip Home

ROME (UPI)—Jacqueline Kennedy got in some last-minute shopping Saturday and spent the evening with friends before flying back home to New York to end a three-week holiday in which she fulfilled a childhood ambition to see the ancient Asian ruins of Angkor Wat.

Mrs. Kennedy was to fly home today with Michael Forrestal, a New York lawyer. He was one of several friends who accompanied her on her visit to Thailand and Cambodia. Forrestal, 39, is a bachelor and former aide to the late President Kennedy. He accompanied Mrs. Kennedy to Rome from Bangkok a week ago.

He returned to Rome Saturday from a trip to Algeria. Mrs. Kennedy originally had planned to return home with Forrestal last Tuesday. But she decided to extend her Rome visit, apparently to rest up from the tiring effects of her Asian tour and a 12-hour plane trip to Rome.

Mrs. Kennedy spent most of the past week in the palatial, 17th century villa of her hosts, U.S. Ambassador and Mrs. G. Frederick Reinhardt, or with Antonio Garrigues, Spain's ambassador to the Holy See and an old friend of the Kennedy family.

At Mrs. Kennedy's request, friends and embassy officials made an effort to maintain her privacy. Roman "paparazzi" the notorious free lance photographers, tried to follow her car whenever she left the Reinhardt villa but the chauffeur and police escorts united to shake them off.

RARELY ILLUMINATED

Texas Pilot Subject of New Book Release

AUSTIN (UPI)—Claude Eatherly, a Texan who has been glorified, jailed, mocked and exploited, but rarely illuminated is the subject of a new book released last week.

The book is "Dark Star: Hiroshima Reconsidered in the life of Claude Eatherly of Lincoln Park, Texas," by Ronnie Dugger. Dugger is editor-at-large of the Texas Observer, a bi-weekly journal of opinion published in Austin.

Eatherly was pilot of the plane that made the final weather check over Hiroshima the morning of Aug. 6, 1945. His radioed message permitted the death of 200,000 people under the first atomic bomb used in war.

After the war Eatherly's life disintegrated. He was involved in a weird plot to foment a Latin American revolution. He participated in a series of clumsy hold-ups. He was in and out of jails and mental hospitals.

His wife divorced him. Eventually people saw his troubles as a massive guilt complex and made him a tragic hero.

Eatherly now lives in Pasadena, Tex., with his second wife and their small child. In a 1964 book called "The Hiroshima Pilot," William Bradford Huie concluded that Eatherly was simply a hot-shot flyboy who couldn't adjust to civilian life and found a crutch in the guilty theory.

Dugger's thesis is that "a decent man cannot significantly help kill the lives and health of hundreds of thousands of other people and proceed as though he is precisely the man he thought he was before he did it."

President Truman and others who participated in Hiroshima without apparent convolutions of conscience might dispute that assertion.

But with the help of Eatherly's childhood friends, fraternity brothers and girl friends at North Texas State, wartime buddies, partners in crime, lawyers and psychiatrists, Dugger argues convincingly that for Eatherly at large, the burden of mass destruction was unbearable.

Dugger appears to have enjoyed an honest relationship with Eatherly himself. It is clear that Eatherly did not try to sell Dugger a theory, but rather joined him in an attempt to understand himself.

Barnes Hints He Might Run

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—House Speaker Ben Barnes hinted Saturday he might be persuaded to run for governor some time after 1969 if he is elected lieutenant governor next year.

"My only concern today is the race for lieutenant governor," Barnes said. "After serving in this office, if the opportunity for a higher office in the state presented itself, I would perhaps welcome the opportunity."

"Further speculation is premature at this time," Barnes had been widely reported considering the governor's race earlier this year if Gov. John Connally decided not to run for re-election. Barnes went ahead and announced for lieutenant governor and then Connally pulled out of the governor's picture some time later.

Barnes said he would not change his mind, and this week discouraged efforts to draft him for the governor's nomination.

Barnes also said Saturday he

Price Appreciation Dinner Attended By Crowd of 500

AMARILLO—A floor fight in the U.S. House of Representatives delayed guest of honor Representative Bob Price at a $100-a-plate dinner Friday night in celebration of his first anniversary in Congress, but the approximately 500 guests didn't seem to mind at all.

The Pampa Congressman, House Republican leader Gerald Ford, and Representative George Bush of Houston were delayed when a floor fight developed over foreign aid. Republican National Headquarters arranged for a private jet to take the man to Amarillo after they missed their commercial flight.

Among those attending the appreciation dinner were 32 persons from Pampa, including district GOP committeewoman Mrs. Frances Fatheree and district GOP committeeman Jim Campbell, and county GOP chairman George Cree Jr. and county GOP vice chairman Mrs. Jewell Nance.

"It was the largest Republican gathering I've seen since I've been working for the party since 1960," Mrs. Fatheree said.

House Minority Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan, the guest speaker, said that the Johnson administration had fumbled on so many crucial issues that the general public no longer puts faith in what the President says.

Ford said the "administration has made more mistakes than any other in my lifetime" and predicted growing anti-Johnson sentiment could possible sweep the GOP into a majority in Congress next year and the presidency in 1968.

"Under the present administration we are beleaguered with disobedience, violence and fiscal problems. Our country in this period cries out for strong, effective leadership in the White House," he said.

State GOP Chairman Peter O'Donnell further raised hopes of party faithful when he said Gov. John Connally's decision not to seek re-election "is the best opportunity we've ever had."

Three persons have been mentioned most prominently as the man the Republicans should send forth as their standard bearer—U.S. Sen. John Tower, U.S. Rep. George Bush and former Atty. Gen. Will Wilson. Bush denied published reports that he was touring the state to sound out public opinion about the possible candidacy for governor.

Rep. Price attended a series of Town Hall meetings yesterday in his 18th Congressional District and attended the Junior Service League annual Charity Ball at the County Club last night in Pampa.

Students Fear Unfair Trial

HOUSTON (UPI)—Attorneys for five former students of Texas Southern University say they might not be treated fairly if they go on trial on a murder charge Nov. 27 as scheduled.

Whether a recent inquiry by a Senate subcommittee into the riot at TSU last May 16-17 and the publicity and public sentiment has created an unfavorable air for the trial will be decided Monday by Dist. Judge Wendell Odom.

Weldon Berry, one of the five lawyers representing the former students filed a motion for continuance Friday.

Even assistant Dist. Atty. Tommy Dunn, who will help Dist. Atty. Carol Vance prosecute the case, has expressed doubt the case will come to trial Nov. 27.

"In view of all the publicity, the case may be continued," Dunn said. "Publicity is one of the things that the appellate courts are concerned with. It makes trial courts pay a whole lot of attention to it."

Television In Review

By RICK DUBROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Two adaptations of well-known plays — "Dial M for Murder" and "Androcles and the Lions" — occupied all three-and-a-half hours of network television's prime time Wednesday night.

It was, in effect, another "double feature" for the video audience — and further evidence of television's trend toward longer programs to hold the attention of viewers.

"Dial M for Murder" — a two-hour production on ABC-TV, is of course, the ingenious thriller using one of literature's most captivating themes: the attempted murder of a wife by her husband.

And Wednesday night's version was played to the hilt by a cast: Laurence Harvey, Diane Cilento, Hugh O'Brian and Cyril Cusack — that retained most of the tangles. The director, John Moxey, did a dandy job on this London-taped presentation.

Good Team
Harvey, as the husband who blackmails a drifter into an elaborate plot to kill his wife, was right on target. So was Miss Cilento as the wife who upsets things by killing the drifter and is accused of murdering him. O'Brian, as a mystery writer who loves the wife — and of whom Harvey is jealous — was adequate in the least demanding role.

It was, however, Cusack, as the inspector who quietly and insinuatingly unravels the crime, who stole the show. The role is one of the juiciest ever written for a fictional cop, and he played it with understatement that made the heart beat faster.

Nigel Davenport was very good as the drifter. And Frederick Knott, who wrote the original play, adapted it for television.

Unfortunately, Bernard Shaw was not around to adapt his "Androcles and the Lions" for NBC-TV's 90-minute musical version, which featured a score by Richard Rodgers. As it was, the show was uneven, pleasant enough at times, but seemingly overlaid with talent that didn't have much to do. Not until Noel Coward arrived as Caesar, well into the play, was there much sense of style.

Coward, Ames Good
Coward restored a sense of order with a catchy ditty called "The Emperor's Thumb," one of several amusing Rodgers songs. Ed Ames was also strong as the brutish, but kind Christian who finds it difficult to turn the other cheek. As Androcles, the meek Christian who takes a thorn from a lion's paw in the woods — and then meets the beast again in the Roman Arena, where his life is spared — Norman Wisdom was amiable, but he has been better.

What the show lacked above all was a sense of organization that it brought about only by a firm directorial hand.

On another front Wednesday, SET DEATH TOLL
BELGRADE (UPI) — Police said Saturday, the final death toll from an accident in which a bus plunged into the Sava River was 25. Authorities said Friday they feared more bodies had been washed downstream but a search of the river failed to turn up any. Thirteen persons survived the accident.

ELECTION DATES SET
AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. John Connally set date Friday for three more legislative runoff elections, but he left two others unscheduled. He set Dec. 5 as the date for the two runoffs in Harris County and Dec. 9 as the date for election in Travis County.

NBC-TV finally confirmed that "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." will be canceled in January. It will be replaced Jan. 21 by "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," a variety hour. In addition, "The Saint" will return Feb. 24, and a daytime game show, "The Hollywood Squares," starts in prime time Jan. 12.

At ABC-TV, meanwhile, the network had to postpone to tonight's Carol Channing special and Sunday's Debbie Reynolds hour because of a labor dispute.

Two of the three historical anniversaries observed at last night's 8th Annual Pioneer Heritage Dinner in Lovett Memorial Library were the 65th anniversary of the founding of Gray County in 1902 and the 50th anniversary of Gray County Veterans' Service in World War I.

Mrs. Ralph Randel of Panhandle was the principal speaker at last night's affair.

As pointed out by Tracy Cary, president of the Pampa Genealogical and Historical Society and chairman of the Gray County Historical Survey Committee, Gray County originally was included as a part of Wheeler County in June of 1873 along with Wheeler, Deuel and Collingsworth Counties. However, this failed to materialize and in 1876, fifty-four new counties in the Panhandle were established and Gray County was named for Judge Peter W. Gray, "the learned and incorruptible judge, the able advocate and unflinching patriot." Gray and nine other counties were then attached to Gray County for judicial purposes.

In 1887 Gray County was attached to Wheeler County for judicial purposes, and in 1895 the 24th Legislature attached it to Roberts County until May 27, 1902 when 132 qualified voters organized Gray County with the seat at Lefors. On June 30, 1902 the first Commissioner's Court convened and the officers were G. H. Saunders — County Judge, J. S. Denson, County Attorney, Siler Faulkner — District & County Clerk, J. T. Crawford — Sheriff & Tax Collector, J. W. Holder — Tax Assessor, Henry "Butt" Treasurer, and Commissioners Henry B. Lovett, J. M. Jackson, Perry Edward Johnson, and S. B. Owens.

Turning to the role of Gray County-men in World War I, it was on June 28, 1914 the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary, and his morganatic wife, the Duchess of Hohenburg, were assassinated in Sarajevo, Bosnia by a Serbian student named Gavrilo Princip. The next three years saw all of Europe embroiled in the greatest war of history up till that time, and on April 6, 1917 President Woodrow Wilson signed the declaration of war against Germany and her allies.

By August of 1917, Gray County sent her first four or five men to the service including Lubbock. The names of the other men are not known at present. According to the McLean News, dated Friday Sept. 21, 1917, a group of Gray County boys left and entrained at Alameda on the preceding Wednesday (Sept. 19).

"Alameda, being the nearest equal point in the county, the drafted boys left there Wednesday night on way to Fort Sam Houston at San Antonio. Citizens of Alameda served an elaborate supper and a number of speeches were made. Large crowds of relatives and friends were there to bid them God Speed. The Pampa band furnished music. In the group were Joseph A. Edwards, Joseph Lester Cary, Roy H. Loosler, Harlan L. Case, Edwin S. Vicars, Vernie Kite, James Ezra Turner, John A. Lavigne, Roy Homer Wilson, Charles A. Paxton, Edgar L. Newton, Marion L. Smith, Will E. Ayers, Carl T. Temple, George A. Kerley, Emmett M. Osborne, David M. Keehn, Bernice A. Zeigler, William O. He Hommel and Albert E. Crossman."

Among the surviving members are Turner, Wilson, Osborne, Case, and Hommel who attended last night's dinner.

Holdup Man Shoots Liquor Store Dealer

MARSHALL, Tex. (UPI)—Of-ficers searched Saturday for a holdup man who shot a liquor store salesman to death Friday night.

Victim of the shooting was John Baker O'Bryan, 52. He was struck three times. Investigators said no money was taken from the cash register.

Texas Rangers as well as highway patrol officers joined Harrison County sheriff's deputies in the search for the killer.

Officers said the intruder, about 30 years old, walked into Chick's Liquor Store about four miles east of Marshall on U.S. 80 about 8:55 p.m. and said "all I want is the money."

Officers said O'Bryan reached under the counter for a gun and was shot three times.

Second Robbery Suspect Faces Trial in Court

Trial will get underway tomorrow morning for William Benjamin Harris, 21, alias Anthony Thomas Fierello, charged with the Aug. 24 armed robbery of a McLean service station.

Harris and James Lee Herring were jointly indicted by a grand jury for the robbery, but a motion for separate trials was granted by District Judge Grainger L. McIlhenny Nov. 3. Herring was found guilty last week in 31st Judicial District Court here and assessed a 10-year sentence in the Texas Penitentiary.

The two men were charged with holding up the McLean service station in the pre-dawn hours of Aug. 24 and taking $107.75 from the cash register after tying up attendant Jerry Hilburn.

They were captured an hour later by Amarillo Police. Herring said last week that he and Harris were on their way to California to get singing jobs.

Harris has been held in Gray County jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Judge Grainger L. McIlhenny will be presiding Counsel for the defendant will be Harold Comer.

Romney Gets Some Backing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gov. George Romney was embraced by Republican moderates Saturday as their man for the 1968 presidential nomination, but some party pros were privately dubious of his chances.

The Michigan governor won pledges of wholehearted support at the GOP National Convention in Miami Beach next August from Sen. Jacob K. Javits and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of the powerful New York delegation.

Sen. Hugh Scott, Pa., former Republican national chairman, called Romney "an excellent prospect for our next president."

Private doubts among others in the party were summed up by Sen. George Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican in the Senate.

"Romney has shown himself to be a very good vote getter, but he'll have a great deal of difficulty in convincing the old-line Republican stalwarts he should be the candidate," said Aiken.

"He is a very likable man, and the Republicans could do much worse than to nominate him, but it's too early to even estimate what his chances may be," Aiken added, refusing to endorse any real or potential candidate this early.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, currently favored to win the nomination if he makes a good showing in the presidential primaries, commented briefly on Romney's announcement after returning from Wisconsin, a key primary state.

"George Romney has an excellent record of service as governor of Michigan," Nixon said. "He is an effective and energetic campaigner. He will be a formidable candidate for the Republican presidential nomination."

Nixon plans to announce his intentions in January.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, viewed by some as a likely challenger to Romney's bid, said the announcement did not alter Reagan's position that "I am not a candidate."

He said it was much too early to decide which candidate he would support.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, in Southern California on a speaking tour, welcomed Romney's candidacy but stood by his support of Javits as a favorite son contender at the convention.

Rockefeller was reported in the New York Times to believe that Lindsay would try for the nomination.

Rockefeller, who has topped President Johnson in some opinion polls of voter sentiment, reaffirmed his "fullest support" for Romney at the convention.

The party would be wise, Rockefeller said, to choose "a moderate, able, winning candidate in 1968. George Romney, in my view, fills that description best."

lot more attention to publicity than they used to."

The former students are Treawell Franklin Jr., 20; Floyd Nichols, 21; Charles Freeman, 18; Douglas Waller, 21, and John Parker, 21. They are accused of fatally shooting patrolman Louis Kuba during the riot. They are also charged with attempting to murder two other policemen.

However, when the students do face trial, they might not be tried first for the charge of murder, Dunn said, but on one of the charges of assault.

A charge of attempted murder would be an easier one to get to trial, he said.

Berry said he thought the trial would be unfair if it occurs on schedule. He said the investigation by the Senate subcommittee dealt with events directly related to the indictment of the defendants.

He said the case probably would be a difficult one for both sides and he did not take the charges lightly.

Barnes

was "not surprised" at Gov. George Romney's announcement he was running for the Republican presidential nomination.

"He's one of the few Republican candidates that in my mind has been losing ground instead of gaining, particularly in the South and especially in Texas," Barnes said.

"I would not consider Romney would be a good candidate who could run a good race against Lyndon Johnson in Texas."

Connally himself, asked about the Romney announcement, said: "I have no statement to make at this time."

opinion polls in September, after saying that he had been "brainwashed" on a visit to Vietnam in 1963.

In a speech in May, he praised more than he criticized the Johnson administration's policy. He said last month that he was working to develop a Vietnam program of his own as an alternative to that of the administration.

Recent polls have shown Nixon ahead of Romney as the favorite of the Republican rank and file. He also is regarded as the favorite of the party managers if they are convinced by convention time that he has a good chance to defeat President Johnson.

Reagan is the prospective heir to much of Nixon's support if the former vice president falters.

Meanwhile, Reagan needs to avoid offending Nixon backers if he has any serious interest in winning the nomination for himself.

Foreign News Commentary

In the Philippines, spreading lawlessness, mounting unemployment and government corruption have led some pessimists to say that democracy cannot survive and only a dictatorship will rescue the country from its national illness.

"We have accepted bribery as a national way of life," wrote a Manila columnist. "This is our purgatory."

The future of the Philippines hinges in great part on the man it has installed in Malacanang Palace, President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

It is perhaps a measure of him that in Manila, where corruption is an art and violence so common that nightclubs ask patrons to check their pistols with their hats, Marcos made a miserable showing in elections this week. His candidate for mayor lost to a political enemy.

It may be a further measure of the energetic 50-year-old president that in the provinces, in the barrios and bondocks, his Nacionalista party congressional and municipal candidates won overwhelming victories.

Received Mandate He received a mandate to further his campaign for "rice, roads and schools," a campaign slogan sorely in need of fulfillment in those islands. He also received proof of his political prowess. He may be elected the Philippines first two-term president in 1969.

Marcos says he has put the country on the move after 21 years of doldrums beginning with independence from the United States.

A man of unquestioned sincerity and ability, he has indeed made some progress. He has cut drastically into the smuggling rackets estimated to cost the government $100 million a year and he has dismissed 80,000 government jobholders. He has stepped up building of roads and schools.

Nevertheless, the civil service remains unwieldy, shot through with those who held their jobs on the basis of family or political connections, unresponsive to the grinding poverty of the rural areas and to unemployment now nearing 15 per cent.

County Red Cross News

Executive Secretary ARC

This year is the 50th anniversary for the Junior Red Cross or the Red Cross in the Schools. In 1917 just 50 years ago President Woodrow Wilson wrote his letter to the American school children inviting their participation in the newly formed Junior Red Cross, President Lyndon B. Johnson saluted the achievements of the school children through out the years. Mr.

Johnson said, "This milestone speaks of lives saved, hearts uplifted, spirits gladdened and hope fulfilled." We are very proud of the work of the RC and High School Red Cross in Pampa throughout the past 16 years. Gift Boxes have been filled for children overseas, tapes have been cut from our school songs and sent to Greece, Holland, Africa and to many other schools. Art exhibits have made tray favors for the special holidays for the Amarillo Air Force Base, and packed chests from the High School for Disaster Areas overseas.

Enrollment in the following schools have been completed and Red Cross News have been ordered for each room in the school: Travis enrolled with $33.56; Sam Houston enrolled with $30.53; Lollypop Pre School enrolled with $5.00. Travis Elementary school made the tray favors for the AAFB Hospital for Thanksgiving this year and thanks to Wanda Cardwell, teacher-sponsor for the lovely tray mats and little turkey nut cups. We know that the boys who are in the hospital at the Air Base will enjoy the favors. Thanks for your thoughtfulness, boys and girls.

The Red Cross Board met Tuesday November 14th with 12 members present. Mr. John S. Kelly presided at the meeting and reports were given by the standing committee chairman, Mrs. C. J. Kilgo, chairman of Volunteers told of the work being done by the Hospital Volunteers in Higgins. Mrs. R. O. Linville chairman of Nursing Services told the board of the Mother's Aide class taught by Mrs. Forrest Hill and Mrs. Ray Hudson to 2 Girl Scout troops recently. The Program was given by D. V. Biggers and Libby Shotwell on the JRC and High School Red Cross program. Mr. Biggers told how the pupils in our schools were taught to assume leadership in the JRC programs. Mrs. Shotwell told of ordering the JRC News for each room in the elementary grades from the enrollment money collected in the schools and the Journal from the Secondary schools.

Some statistics from the National Notes of the National Red Cross — Vietnam:

The American Red Cross Youth Fund will continue to finance the shipment of 1008 cans of sweetened, condensed milk for Vietnam children each month at the request of the president of the ARC Society of the Republic of Vietnam. During the fiscal year of 1966-67, Red Cross Youth supplies valued at $247,436 were shipped to Vietnam. In addition to the condensed milk, supplies include school chests, Friendship kits and boxes, clothing, soft toys and candy.

The Advanced First Aid Class met Monday and Thursday evening in the Red Cross office with Ray Fisher, Fireman and FAL Loren Holden and J. W. Wilson instructors. The group will meet again Monday evening in the Red Cross office at 7 p.m. for the third lesson.

Pampa Historical Society Marks Eighth Anniversary

Observance of the eighth anniversary of the founding of the Pampa Genealogical & Historical Society was one of the three historic events at last night's 8th Annual Pioneer Heritage dinner in Lovett Memorial Library.

The Society's anniversary was observed along with the 50th anniversary of Gray County Veterans' service in World War I and the anniversary of the organization of Gray County.

Mrs. Ralph Randel of Pampa handled the speaker. Her topic was "Recapturing History's Yesterdays for Tomorrow."

The Pampa Genealogical & Historical Society had its beginning on Feb. 3, 1959, when Tracy D. Cary, a founding member of the Ft. Worth Genealogical Society paid a visit to C. V. Ingram at his business. With the intent of organizing such a society in Pampa, an announcement was made of an organizational meeting which was held in the auditorium of Lovett Memorial Library on March 10, 1959.

The organizing members of the Pampa Society who attended the first meeting were Mrs. Thompson, Joe W. Shelton, and Joe Andrews and Mrs. Cliff John B. Hesse, all of Pampa.

Drake, Borger; Mrs. S. T. Friend, Mrs. C. A. Tignor, Mrs. M. H. Kieffer, C. V. Ingram, Mrs. W. A. Spoonmore, Mrs. A. H. Sanchez, Wallace Truesdell and Cary, all of Pampa. Since that date the Society has more than tripled in membership and numerous reference books, microfilm-census rolls, and periodicals have been added to the Pioneer Heritage Book Collection at Lovett Library. The Society, in cooperation with the Gray County Historical Survey Committee, is restoring the Pioneer Cottage and Park located at Starkweather and Yeager Sts.

Personnel of the Gray County Historical Survey Committee include Tracy D. Cary, chairman; Judge Sherman R. Lenning, Jr., vice chairman; Commissioners Clyde C. Organ, Truitt Johnson, Joe K. Clarke, and James O. McCracken; Mrs. Vera F. Back, McLean; Mrs. Alice Short Smith, McLean; John C. Haynes, McLean; Mrs. W. C. Breining, Lefors; Mrs. Marvin Hall, Alameda; and Mrs. Marvin Vincent, Mrs. A. D. Hills, Mrs. George Ingram, Mrs. J. C. Pattillo, Mrs. Emmett Osborne, Mrs. Fred Thompson, Joe W. Shelton, and John B. Hesse, all of Pampa.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Clyde R. Melton is a Sweetwater, Tenn., steamfitter who identifies himself as the "author and discoverer of three dimension peace."

He comes to the capital occasionally to try to interest government officials in his discovery, but thus far he has made little if any headway. Most government officials feel they are already having enough trouble with one dimension peace.

In glancing over some of Melton's literature, I came across a term that gave me pause—"peace wars." Melton puts peace wars in the third dimension, the other two dimensions being reserved for "wars of aggression" and "wars of coexistence."

Peace Wars Begin
I won't even pretend that I understand what he means by this. But if I may be permitted an interpolation, I suspect we are already in the third dimension.

Conditions that might lead to wars of the first and second dimensions have been mitigated to some extent in the past couple of decades. There is hope they may eventually be eliminated.

When that day comes, peace will be about all there is left to fight about. What may have been the opening skirmish in the first peace war took place here a few weeks ago when a group of peace marchers attacked the Pentagon.

Peace fighting broke out again this week in New York where Secretary of State Dean Rusk was making an appearance.

Rusk, of course, has repeatedly expressed a strong desire for peace. The violence came during a demonstration by citizens who claim their desire for peace is even stronger.

Fear Escalation
Thus far, peace hostilities have been confined to internal conflicts. But most wars begin on a small scale. The danger is that peace fighting will escalate to the international level.

"We are the greatest peace-loving nation on earth," one country may say.

"No, you're not," another might respond. "Our nation is the leading peace-lover and we have the missiles to back up that statement."

Then the next thing you know they will be bombing each other.

Melton's discovery obviously doesn't go far enough. What the world needs is a fourth dimension, or something to restore peace among peace-lovers. Short of war, that is.

WARREN'S DECISIONS

the Drama of DRUGS

By Joe Tooley

We are constantly reminded that we Americans are, in our innocence, a gullible race indeed; and there perhaps may be a great deal of truth in the old saying, "there's a sucker born every minute."

Still, if we look back a few years, we see that we may have made some progress from the time when our fathers were buying "sure-fire" cures for tuberculosis, cancer, gallstones, female complaints, rheumatism, yellow fever and blind staggers in horses.

A hundred years ago sharp promoters sold a dozen cures for every complaint; and it was not until the Pure Food and Drug Act of 1906 that most of these fakers were run off the national scene.

This law provided that "Packaged and bottled therapy" give legal proof of its claim. It is laws such as these that make your drugstore the ethical market-place that it is today.

Panhandle Water District News

By FELIX W. RYALS

WATER, Inc., the West Texas Eastern New Mexico and Western Oklahoma organization dedicated to the need of importing water to this area, is sponsoring a fact-finding tour of California Water Projects. The tour group will leave from Amarillo and Lubbock on Dec. 10 by plane for Sacramento, Calif. The group will return on Dec. 13.

The tour group will visit state water officials in Sacramento and go from there to the giant Oroville Dam, the starting point of the $1,750,000,000 California Water Project.

This week I received a new brochure outlining the progress and objectives of WATER, Inc. The brochure has some very interesting information that is being passed on to the readers of this column.

Suggested Routes
WATER, Inc., has laid out some suggested import routes for bringing water from the Mississippi River to our area. The accompanying map shows these routes. WATER, Inc., stresses that these are only suggested routes for water imports. Each must receive careful study before determining which route, or routes, are most feasible and provide sufficient water supplies most economically.

History Shows

Importation of water is not a new idea. Since the beginning of recorded history every civilization has depended to some degree on the importation of water. World history textbooks tell us that the Sumerians some 5,000 years ago dug and maintained canals in the Tigris-Euphrates river basin. This account is the first written history known to mankind. The Egyptians, in about 600 B.C., established a canal from the Nile River, just above the ancient city of Heliopolis, to the Red Sea. This canal was approximately 150 miles long, 100 feet wide and 40 feet deep.

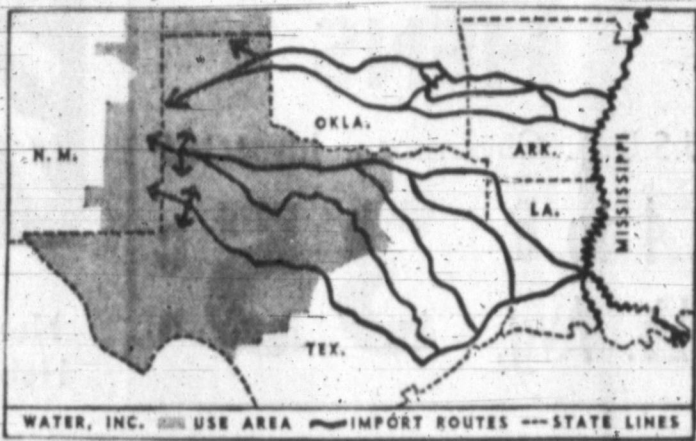

The "Grand Canal" of China was built from the Yellow to the Yangtze Rivers, around the beginning of the Christian era, during the Han dynasty. This canal, built at a time when a man with a basket on his back was the heaviest earth-moving equipment available, was about 570 miles long!

In recent years, Russia, playing catch-up in the production race, has constructed the 1,550-mile Black Sea to Baltic Sea Canal. The Russians have also built the Kara-Kum Canal which is 300 miles long.

California Canal
Here in our own U. S. the State of California has already constructed a canal over 440 miles long to move water from one end of the state to the other and has it in operation. Currently California is constructing the biggest water project ever built by man. The canal to move the water from the giant Oroville Dam, will be over 650 miles long when completed.

West Texas Needs Water.
West Texas needs water. The only way we can get the needed water to sustain the present economy and its anticipated growth is to import water. We can import water to our region if people, and lots of them, have the desire to see it done, if people, and lots of them, are willing to join together to finance a coordinated continuous approach and speak with a unified voice in the state legislatures and to Congress. It can be done if people, and lots of them, will give their support, their influence, and participate in the sound programs of WATER, Inc. Lip service won't

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House:

A veteran Washingtonian who distributes one of the more authentic private newsletters is toying with what he regards as an admittedly dangerous idea.

A friend suggested that to test public opinion, he include in his next newsletter a simple sentence unrelated to the main content of the document:

"Lyndon Johnson cannot be all bad."

The newsletter man says he is not lacking in courage, but he does not have secretarial help sufficient to handle the load of mail which he feels certain would result from the six-word statement about the President.

Another Washingtonian, a journalist who gets about the country frequently on speaking dates, had a similar idea recently and decided to test it for reaction by a somewhat sophisticated big-city lecture audience.

During the course of his talk, he mentioned the so-called credibility gap endured by the Johnson administration and offered this comment:

"Just because a statement is made by President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk or Defense Secretary Robert McNamara does not insure the antiseptic accuracy or essential truth of the statement."

The speaker looked over his large audience carefully and do the job that must be done.

Members Needed

WATER, Inc., needs members. Farmers, the oil and gas industry and businessmen have an opportunity to join with other area leaders in a positive program to achieve a common goal—that of importation of water—the needed life-blood for our future. By joining WATER, Inc., its members have the opportunity to participate in the discussion of water import programs and to receive information concerning current projects and activities of water resource development. WATER, Inc. members will also have the personal satisfaction that comes with accepting the responsibility each individual owes the area in which he lives.

Grain Sorghums Yield Increased Through Spacing

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Grain sorghum yield increases ranging from 10 to 30 percent have resulted from narrow row and double row spacings in recent trials conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The project was described by M. J. Norris of the Livestock and Forage Research Center near McGregor, a speaker during the annual meetings of the American Society of Agronomy, Soil Science Society of America and the Crop Science Society of America Nov. 5-10 in Washington, D. C.

Norris, an agronomist at the center, said there were no important differences in grain sorghum yields due to planting rates, but there were highly significant differences due to row spacing.

Row spacings of 10, 20 and 40 inches at planting rates of 4, 6, 8, and 10 pounds per acre were used with grain sorghum during a three-year period. Other row spacing experiments were made using a uniform planting rate of 7 pounds per acre, including comparisons of single rows on lister beds 40 inches apart; double rows spaced 12 inches on lister beds 40 inches apart; and grain sown on a flat seed bed with a grain drill spacing of 14 inches between drill openings.

Norris said the work was done on dryland, upland soils of the Grand Prairie near McGregor, Texas.

4-H AROUND THE WORLD

With some 75 countries conducting youth programs patterned after 4-H but adapted to their needs, truly makes 4-H a worldwide organization. The International Farm Youth Exchange, 4-H Peace Corps projects, pen pals, and "sister" 4-H Clubs in other countries all help give 4-H international standing.

without any doubt in his mind, saw a number of heads nodding in agreement. Then he added:

"But by the same token and as a matter of simple logic, just because something is said by Messrs. Johnson, Rusk or McNamara does not mean that it is an automatic falsehood of deliberate distortion."

This man swears that the people who were nodding only moments before turned to scowling and shaking their heads in what he could only surmise was disagreement, displeasure or disbelief.

This column which is distributed to newspapers twice a week by UPI has encountered much the same sort of reaction by mail, drawing some indescribably dirty letters simply because of theoretically humorous anecdotes involving the President or some member of his family.

Such anecdotal material is presented, as it has been since "Backstairs at the White House" began during the Eisenhower administration in 1953, to show the incumbent Chief Executive in something more than a starchy, strictly official impersonation.

The current mood of some Americans, however, is so angrily one-sided that to relate anything uncritical about the current President drives these people into spasms of illogical fury.

A laboratory case-in-point: not long ago this column carried an item about how Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass livened up a White House social affair when these famous musicians entertained after a formal state dinner.

Several letters arrived at the White House press room shortly after the column appeared, denouncing the writer for slyly attempting to cast the Johnsonian image in a light favorable to younger America.

"Your clever sugar-coating about Herb Alpert won't work," said one postcard. "LBJ is still the enemy in Vietnam."

As if the Tijuana Brass had the slightest connection with the war, other than paying a walloping income tax.

This is something more than political opposition. It's nutty.

CATTLE ON FEED

Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market on October 1, 1967, in 32 major feeding States totaled 8,566,000 head—2 percent above a year earlier. Most of the increase from a year earlier was in cattle weighing less than 700 lbs. The number on feed decreased 2 percent from July 1 to October 1 this year compared with a 5 percent decrease during the same quarter last year.

Cattle being fed for slaughter market totaled 644,000 head on October 1. This is 27 percent above the 509,000 head on feed a year earlier; 5 percent above the 613,000 head on feed September 1 and 10 percent above the 584,000 head on feed July 1.

Expanded Market Needed, Expert Tells Cattlemen

AMARILLO (UPI)—The future of the Texas cattle industry depends on how well the state's packers who export meat to other states can capture markets from packers in the south and in California, an agricultural economist says.

Dr. Willard Williams, chairman of Texas Tech's department of agricultural economics, told cattle feeders at the first annual meeting of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association this week the industry, if it is to meet the out-of-state challenge, "needs a self-help advertising and promotion program to develop markets for its product."

He called the continued shipment of live cattle to distant packers a long-term losing proposition.

Cites Importance

"The additional, large-scale shipper-type packing facilities being attracted to Texas, therefore, is a development of considerable importance to the Texas cattleman," he said.

Williams said two questions are of serious concern:

"How long can markets for Texas-fed beef continue to absorb locally grown product at present rates of increase in Texas production?"

How successful will Texas packers be in breaking into the carcass markets of the south and how long will this take?

Until now, "consumption of Texas-fed beef, primarily in Texas and the South, easily has matched production in Texas because more people have been eating beef fed in the South," he said.

"We also displaced many shippers out of Colorado and the western cornbelt. From this point forward," Dr. Williams

Red River 68 Wheat Variety Not Desirable

Producers in Gray County should be wary of a new wheat variety, Red River 68, which has filtered its way into the High Plains of Texas, reports Foster Whaley county agricultural agent.

Red River 68 is a dwarf spring-type wheat which will probably not survive the winter here, says Whaley. Drought, heat and disease will also keep this type of wheat from performing well if spring planted, he adds.

Furthermore, says Whaley, the Crop Quality Council headquartered at Minneapolis, Minnesota, which evaluates spring wheats has reported that Red River 68 is not acceptable in milling and baking quality.

The Council stated that 15 industry, state and federal laboratories had evaluated samples of the new wheat furnished through the cooperation of World Seeds, Inc. Economically important deficiencies in milling, processing and blending characteristics were uncovered in these tests.

Thus the Council believes that commercial bakeries will seek alternate sources of wheat supplies, points out Whaley.

Winter wheat varieties with excellent baking qualities and high yield potentials are available to producers in this county, says Whaley. He does not recommend the use of Red River 68 as well as any other new varieties that are not adequately tested in this area of the state.

said, "markets for additional production in the South may not be found so easily."

The Rolling Plains Registered Beef Cattle Association will hold its 9th annual sale in Clarendon at 12:30 p.m. on Nov. 29 at the fair building. Walter Britten will be the auctioneer. Ninety bulls and 15 Galloway females, featuring top blood lines, good beef producing cattle and good herd bull prospects, will be offered for sale. There will be 55 Hereford bulls, 20 Galloway bulls, 15 Angus bulls and 15 Galloway females in the sale. The sales arena is heated and you will be comfortable regardless of the weather. If you wish to come by plane, you can land at the city-county airport; buzz the fair building and a car will meet you. Those wishing a catalog in advance of the sale can write to H. M. "Flip" Breedlove, secretary and manager, Clarendon.

Brucellosis

Soon after World War II, a nationwide program was launched to wipe out Brucellosis in U.S. cattle herds. Brucellosis or "Bangs Disease" in cattle is contagious to man. It is called undulant fever in man. Seldom is it fatal to humans but it is a very dread disease and will persist for a number of years before a person can shake the disease off. Some contend there is no way to completely recover from its effect. For years a victim will have excessive and persistent fever ranging two degrees above normal.

In 1947 when the national program was launched there were 6,321 cases reported in humans. In 1966 only 253 human cases were reported in the United States.

In 1947 Brucellosis was widespread and very few counties in the U. S. had any kind of eradication program in progress. Today, approximately 90 percent of all counties in the U. S. are either certified free or modified-free of Brucellosis. Each year since 1947 the number of cases of human brucellosis has dropped in direct proportion to the number of counties obtaining some type of certification status.

Oral D. Corson, chief staff veterinarian, Brucellosis Eradication, Animal Health Division, USDA, had this statement to make at the annual meeting of the National Brucellosis Committee held in Des Moines, Iowa, on Feb. 21, 1967.

"When Brucellosis has been eradicated, it will stand as one of the greatest accomplishments in the long and successful campaigns to control or eradicate communicable diseases of domestic animals, because it was more widespread at the beginning of the campaign than any other disease of animal which thus far has been brought under control or eradicated."

At the present time 38 states have achieved the modified certified status. Texas is probably further from obtaining this status than any other state. As of January only 118 Texas Counties had obtained a modified certified status.

Non-Certified Counties

The U. S. Livestock Sanitary Association has recommended that the Federal Government amend the regulations governing the interstate movement of livestock to provide that effective Jan. 1, 1968, cattle moving into certified areas must originate from certified areas.

Because of the fact that 90 percent of the U. S. counties have obtained the modified status, pressure is building up to make it extremely tough on counties that have not obtained such a status.

Regardless of how a rancher might feel about the merits of the program, it appears to me the handwriting is on the wall. There is going to be a tough program soon.

Perfume Makers Preoccupied With People Smelling Better

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — For years, scientists have been preoccupied with the question of what might happen if an irresistible force met an immovable body.

In musing over that hypothetical poser, they have tended to ignore a far more menacing question: What happens if an irresistible force meets another irresistible force?

We now seem to be on the verge of such a confrontation in the perfume industry, and I just hope some scientist will be around to pick up the pieces.

The build-up towards this cataclysmic collision began back in the stone age when perfume makers first decreed that women would be more alluring if they smelled better.

Doing Well
"We're doing pretty good the way we smell now," the Stone Age women replied. "Who needs it?"

But by the time of the Glass Age, man's natural reticence had developed to the point where some artificial allure was needed to overcome it.

The perfumers then proceeded to develop fragrances of such devastating potency that man's natural reticence crumbled at first whiff. And gosh how the money rolled in.

But still the perfumers were not content.

"The women are hooked, but that's only half the market," the deeper thinkers among them pointed out. "How about tapping the male half?"

"How can we do that when we have already established perfume as a feminine allure?" skeptics inquired.

Make Fragrances
"It's simple," the thinkers responded. "We simply decree that certain fragrances are feminine and others are masculine."

So they decreed that women should smell like flowers and men like wood bark. Which was a fairly satisfactory arrangement all around. But now the perfumers have gone too far.

In promoting many fragrance to the point where it leads the field in gallons sold annually, the perfumers gradually upped the potency to the irresistible level.

One firm has just introduced a manly fragrance so alluring that each bottle is sold with an instruction sheet illustrating how to ward off feminine advances and break passionate grips.

So now the stage is set for the inevitable meeting between two irresistible forces.

Science cannot tell us what to expect, but I hope I'm nowhere near ground zero when it happens. There may be a heavy toll of innocent bystanders.

NEW TARIFF

The dumping of Communist Chinese-made men's sarongs is costing domestic manufacturers money, the secretary of the Malaysia Printing, Weaving and Dyeing Factory said today.

In proposing the tariff be raised from 25 to 50 per cent, Secretary Tan Toh Hua said the Chinese product caused his firm to stockpile $300,000 worth of sarongs that otherwise would have been sold.

STATUE of the Angel Moroni tops the Hill Cumorah, where the pageant is held. According to Mormon belief, the angel guided Joseph Smith to the "golden plates" on the hill, which told the story of the ancient civilization.

Religious Pageant Stage Set

This country's biggest religious festival may be seen annually on a grassy hill at Palmyra, N.Y. A cast of 450 members of the Mormon church from across the nation tells the story of the sect in an outdoor amphitheater, beginning at dusk from July 24-29.

THE PAGEANT depicts the rise and fall of an ancient American civilization and the resurrection of Christ on this continent, according to the "Book of Mormon." Scenes include human sacrifice by an ancient people before their conversion to Christianity, as shown above.

Hollywood Report

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Dinah

Shore, once at television fixture, makes only her third video appearance of the year next week in a special titled "Dinah Shore Presents the Nashville Sound."

Her other trips to the home tube were as hostess with a Russian circus show and as a guest with Ed Sullivan.

In the early days of the medium Miss Dinah starred in 44 15-minute live songfests and later 105 musical hours on tape. She is still in demand but has her reasons for infrequent appearances.

"I don't want to knock anybody," Dinah explained. "But I also don't want to be the world's television guest."

Dinah's big voice could be heard almost every week if she chose to play the guest circuit with the Smothers Brothers, Dean Martin, Carol Burnett, Sullivan, The Hollywood Palms, Jackie Gleason and other variety shows and specials.

Some stars make a career, and a small fortune, playing the wheel by guesting from one show to another. Not Dinah.

"I only perform when it sounds exciting or new," she said.

"But most of the time you never know how much time you'll have on the air or what the rehearsal schedule will be. You're really at the mercy of your hosts."

"That's fine for some flash acts with a set pattern or routine. But I'm not a flash act. I'm among those performers who need time to build up for the audience. You know, an introductory song, a ballad and then a rousing closer. As a guest there are always last-minute changes and cuts that affect your performance."

"It comes down to having something to say about how you're used and what you do on those shows."

Because Dinah doesn't believe in making demands of television hosts, she prefers not to play guest at all. "It's impolite to rush onto a show and make demands. I just can't do it."

VIENNA (UPI)—A hearing will be held Nov. 11 at the Reeves County court house to discuss a rifle ammunition that vanished from an army unit's supply. The unit had been stationed along the Italian border recently to prevent terrorists from slipping into Italy. Officials were hoping the army simply forgot to take the ammunition to Vienna when the unit was transferred but there was a possibility that terrorists took it.

DON'T NEGLECT A SORE THROAT

Even a minor sore throat can be extremely dangerous to a child if neglected. It might be one of the early symptoms of rheumatic fever and this disease causes more deaths than polio did before Dr. Salk.

The cause of rheumatic fever is the streptococcus germ which can be easily identified by your physician. The diagnosis must be as soon as possible. Beginning symptoms are the innocent looking minor sore throat, a feeling of fatigue and mild joint pains. Don't wait for the severe stages when the sore throat develops with a high fever, sore neck glands, red and swollen joints. By this time irreparable damage may be done the heart.

Aggies Turn Rice Mistakes Into 18-3 Win

HOUSTON (UPI) — Texas A&M turned two pass interceptions and a fumble recovery Saturday into an 18-3 victory over Rice University in a Thanksgiving Day shot at the Southwest Conference title. If the Aggies can beat the University of Texas in a traditional grudge game

Thanksgiving Day, they will win the Southwest Conference title and earn their first Cotton Bowl berth since 1942. Little Charlie Riggs lofted field goals of 22 and 30 yards over the crossbars after his teammates had recovered a fumble on the Rice 16 and returned a pass interception to the 15. They clinched their victory over the Owls with two fourth-quarter touchdowns — one on a seven-yard pass from Edd Hargett to end Tommy Maxwell and another on a 23-yard run by fullback Larry Stegent. Maxwell intercepted the pass which led to the touchdown he scored. He picked off Rice's quarterback, Bobby Shelton's pass on the Aggie 40. Hargett completed three passes for 51 yards to the seven before throwing for the touchdown to Maxwell, who made a leaping catch under the crossbar.

Rice, which never had a sustained drive beyond mid-field until less than two minutes remained in the game, scored on a Frank Pustka's 22-yard field goal in the third quarter. Sprinter Ronnie Sollock set it up with a 53-yard punt return to the Aggie 21. Shelton, who has missed most of the season with injuries, was the goal for Rice. It was his fumble on the 16 that set up the first touchdown, and he threw for both pass interceptions. Tackle Rolf Krueger recovered the fumble and rever back Ivan Jones intercepted the first pass, grabbing it on the Rice 34 and returning it to the 13. After the game the entire A&M Cadet corps and a large group of alumni, all together about 10,000, remained in Rice Stadium listening on transistor radios to the Texas-Texas Christian game.

TCU won, knocking Texas out of a tie with A&M for the Southwest Conference lead and diminishing Texas' chances of getting to the Cotton Bowl. Texas, 4-2 in conference play, now must beat the Aggies, 5-1, to tie the title and go to the bowl.

West Texas Beaten 22-13

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Sophomore tailback Kenny Lee broke two school records and scored two touchdowns Saturday as Wichita State University roared back to upset West Texas State 22-13.

The Shockers capitalized on Lee's running and two interceptions to record their second victory of the season.

Lee carried 53 times and ground out 204 yards to break one of the oldest records on the school books.

West Texas grabbed a 13-6 halftime lead, but the Shockers defense limited the Texans to 46 total yards in the second half and allowed only one first down.

Wichita scored first in the opening period on a 35-yard field goal by Troy Anderson with 10:03 remaining. However, West Texas needed only four plays to go ahead with 9:30 left in the quarter on Eugene Morris' 56-yard touchdown sprint.

Anderson promptly tied it up with record 44 yard field goal with 2:39 left in the first period.

Southern Cal. Squeezes UCLA

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — O.J. Simpson raced 64 yards to a fourth period touchdown and Rikki Aldridge's conversion kick brought Southern California a 21-20 victory Saturday over cross-town rival UCLA that sent the victors to the Rose Bowl as the Pacific Eight Conference champion.

The game turned into a classic duel between rival Heisman Trophy candidates Gary Beban of UCLA and Simpson that delighted a crowd of 90,772 in Memorial Coliseum and was viewed by millions more on national television.

Beban passed for two touchdowns and Simpson ran for two scores to make their duel virtually a standoff.

But the key play came after four minutes in the fourth period when Simpson broke loose down the north sidelines, was forced to the middle of the field and then outran the UCLA defenders on his 64-yard scoring jaunt.

The key touchdown and conversion came slightly more than one minute after Beban threw a 20-yard scoring pass to Dave Nuttall but Zenon Andrusyshyn missed the extra point kick to leave UCLA ahead 20-14.

Simpson, despite being hit by two or more men on most plays, gained 177 yards rushing while Beban completed 16 of 24 passes attempted for 301 yards.

Beban tied the score in the third period with a 53-yard aerial bomb to George Farmer that set the stage for the fourth period scoring and the one-point victory.

Two explosive thrusts gave the Trojans a 14-7 halftime lead. With USC trailing 7-0, Trojan defensive back Pat Cashman picked off Beban's flat pass and ran it back 55 yards to touchdown as the first period ended.

Midway in the second period, flanker Earl McCulloch ran a reverse 52 yards to the UCLA 28 as Simpson faked a plunge into the line. McCulloch then caught a 13-yard pass and Simpson ran a pitchout 13 yards through the UCLA team to score.

The second time UCLA got the ball, the Bruins had field position on an 18-yard Trojan punt and drove 47 yards to score. Beban passed for 12 and ran for 11 before Greg Jones broke over tackle for 12 yards for the touchdown.

UCLA lost a scoring chance in the second period when Mark Gustafson returned a punt 42 yards to the Trojan 15. But Andrusyshyn's fourth down field goal attempt from the 22 was wide.

Later in the game, he also had two field goal tries blocked in addition to missing the key conversion in the fourth period.

The victory left Southern California with a 9-1 record for its regular season schedule and 6-1 in the conference. UCLA, which has a game with Syracuse next weekend, is 7-1 overall and 4-1 in the league.

Executive Director Tom Hamilton of the Pacific Eight made USC's trip to the Rose Bowl official by announcing after the game that the Trojans would be the Western representatives in the New Year's Day classic.

HOGS GET ANGRY

Arkansas Rips Ponies

DALLAS (UPI) — An angered Arkansas team, ired mistakenly Arkansas team, ired mistakenly by what it thought was a raw decision, rode the four-touchdown passing of Ronny South to a rollicking 35-17 come from behind victory over Southern Methodist Saturday.

South threw 18 and 12-yard scoring passes to David Dickey, a 16-yarder to end Max Peacock and a 38-yarder to end Mike Sigman, but his team was trailing 17-15 late in the third quarter when he and his mates got fired-up over what they thought was a bum call.

Dickey iced the cake with a 53-yard scoring sortie in the final minute.

SMU, which had ridden a 5-yard pass from Jerry Levis to Mike Richardson, a 13-yard pass from Mike Livingston to Levis and a 39-yard field goal by Dennis Partee, into that two-point lead, was never in the game after that.

The Arkansas defense promptly threw Livingston for 20 yards in losses and needed only two plays to get the go-ahead touchdown after SMU's Jim Hagle flubbed his only punt of the day—an 8-yarder that went out of bounds on the SMU 41—had set it up. That's when South hit Sigman for the 38-yarder.

The foulup that caused all the uproar came when SMU completed a 23-yard pass to the Arkansas 47 just as a red flag was thrown. An official gave a signal indicating an illegal receiver downfield, but later picked up the flag and allowed the play to stand.

Tech Nips Baylor

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Kenny Vinyard's 37-yard field goal with 31 seconds left brought Texas Tech a 31-29 victory over Baylor Saturday and kept the Red Raiders' Southwest Conference hopes alive.

The winning boot came less than three minutes after flanker George Cheshires' third touchdown pass reception of the day, a one-yard grab, apparently had given the Bears an upset.

The win gave Tech a conference mark of 4-2 and deadlocked the Raiders with Texas, a game behind Texas A&M with one game left.

Roger Freeman scored three touchdowns on runs of 4, 13 and 9 yards and quarterback Joe Matulich threw 19 yards to end Larry Gilbert for the other Texas Tech scores.

The Bears aided by a 15-yard penalty against the Raiders had Tech in a fourth-and-13 situation at the Tech 48 with 1:55 left but Matulich hit sophomore half-back Jimmy Bennett on a 22-yard pass to keep the drive going. Three plays later Vinyard connected on his field goal attempt.

Baylor quarterback Alvin Flynn hit two successive passes of 22 and 14 yards in the closing minute, but the clock ran out with the Bears on the Tech 33.

Matulich, who went all the way for injured John Scogell connected on 14 of 21 passes for 233 yards. Gilbert caught eight of ten for a total of 121 yards. Cheshires' first touchdown started Baylor on a second-quarter rally that erased a 14-0 Raiders lead and gave the Bears a 17-14 halftime lead. Joe Reed who alternated with Flynn at quarterback, hit touchdown passes of 6 and one yard to Cheshire and 24 yards to Bobby Green. Cheshires' other touchdown was a 9-yard pass from Flynn.

Fullback Charles Wilson was the games leading rusher with 120 yards in 24 carries and Matulich was Tech's leader with 55 yards.

Tumbles Tulsa

DENTON, Tex. (UPI) — Sophomore quarterback Steve Ramsey threw four touchdown passes and fullback Vic Williams ran for two more scores Saturday, carrying North Texas State to the Missouri Valley Conference championship with a less than a minute late in the first period and never 54-12 victory over Tulsa University.

The Eagles scored twice in less than a minute late in the first period and were never threatened as North Texas' defensive "Mean Green" defense throttled Tulsa's usually deadly passing attack.

Ramsey opened the scoring with a 75-yard pass to flanker Ronnie Shanklin, whose only three receptions Saturday went touchdowns.

Williams scored on runs of 6 and 22 yards and the Eagles picked up another touchdown from Bernie Barbour, who stole a Gary Collett pass and romped 53 yards.

The final Eagle score came as the last second ticked off the clock on a 15-yard pass from second string quarterback Randy Henry, to tight end Robert Griswold.

SAN ANGELO — Pampa's period but came back on the high scoring express was momentarily derailed Saturday night with San Angelo overcoming a Harvester seven-point halftime advantage for a staggering 61-57 victory.

The Eagles scored twice in less than a minute late in the first period and were never threatened as North Texas' defensive "Mean Green" defense throttled Tulsa's usually deadly passing attack.

Ramsey opened the scoring with a 75-yard pass to flanker Ronnie Shanklin, whose only three receptions Saturday went touchdowns.

hander to give San Angelo the lead to stay.

Pampa closed the margin to 58-57 with 38 seconds left but a pair of free shots by Ford put the game out of reach.

George Bailey paced the Pampa scoring with 17. Bo Lang added 14 and Beau Bond added 12 more but it was all in vain as the Harvesters managed only 20 of 47 field goal attempts. San Angelo wasn't any better, hitting only 25 of 61 from the field.

The Shockers stayed undefeated with a 57-43 win.

Friday night the Harvesters got the season off to a fantastic start with a 12-23 whipping of the Vintners Blizzards.

The Shockers also got off to a successful start with a 75-43 rout of the Winters B team. Louie Brantley led the Shockers with 19 points while Jerome Bradshaw tallied 13 for Pampa.

In the varsity contest last year's top scorer George Bailey got off to a flying start with 21 points and played only the last two periods of the game. Bo Lang scored 13 and Alvin Accord hit 12 as only three Harvesters scored in double figures.

The 100-foot barrier would have been no trouble for Pampa as coach Terry Colley substituted freely the whole second half.

Hebert, McVea, Gipson Pace Houston to 77-6 Romp

HOUSTON (UPI) — Warren McVea, Kenny Hebert and Paul Gipson ran up a 49-point lead for the University of Houston in the first two quarters Saturday night and sat out the last half while the reserves boosted Houston's total score over Idaho to 77-6.

Hebert caught scoring bombs of 31 and 25 yards from quarterback wick Woodall and kicked 11 extra points. McVea skipped 38 yards untouched for a score and Gipson, who gained 154 yards in 13 first-half carries, scored on runs of 50 and 11 yards.

Mike Simpson scooted 30 yards to a touchdown with a pass intercepted from Idaho's quarterback Paul Gentle. Reserve quarterback Ken Bailey

TCU Surprises Texas Longhorns 24-17

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A 78-yard punt return by Bubba Thornton set off a fourth-period scoring spree by Texas Christian Saturday that led the Horned Frogs to a 24-17 upset over the University of Texas and nearly knocked the Longhorns out of Southwest Conference contention.

The loss by Texas left Texas

A and M in sole possession of the conference lead with a 5-1 mark after the Aggies downed Rice 18-3 in Houston Saturday. Texas, second at 4-2, met the Aggies Thanksgiving Day.

The Horned Frogs were trailing 17-6 at the beginning of the final period when Thornton took a Bill Bradley punt on his own 22 and raced all the way to score.

A 29-yard field goal midway in the fourth by Wayne Merritt tied it at 17-17. Two plays later Bradley, the Texas quarterback, fumbled on his own 28 and the loose ball was grabbed by TCU.

TCU took 10 plays to score with fullback Kenny Post going over from the one with just a minute left.

It was the third consecutive win by the Horned Frogs after they had lost their first five games of the 1967 season. Two weeks ago they downed Baylor, then last week upset Texas Tech 16-0.

Texas A&M can clinch the Southwest Conference crown and a trip to the Cotton Bowl Thursday in their annual Thanksgiving clash with a win or a tie.

The 18-point effort by the Horned Frogs in the final period Saturday ruined a great one-man show by Texas' Chris yard field goal by Rob Layne at Gilbert, who set a Southwest Conference record with a 96-yard touchdown run and let up another Texas score with a 61-yard dash in the third period.

Texas, was held to a bare 55 yards in the last half. The Longhorns made their only points of the first half on a 43-yard field goal by Rob Layne at Gilbert, who set a Southwest Conference record with a 96-yard touchdown run and let up another Texas score with yard drive by the Horned Frogs between Gilbert's two sensational third-period runs. This was the Frogs' only score going into the fourth period.

Gilbert gained a total of 202 of Texas' 224 yards on the ground. Bradley managed to complete only two of 13 pass attempts for 19 yards in the air.

TCU's halfback Ross Montgomery sandwiched a four-yard scoring run at the end of 60

Okl. St. Downs Iowa State 28-14

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—Halfback Larry Gosney, cracking the Iowa State line for 123 yards and three touchdowns, led Oklahoma State to a 28-14 Big Eight victory Saturday.

Gosney, a 190-pound junior, scored in each of the first two quarters on one-yard runs and slammed off the left side for a 42-yard touchdown run in the third period.

Quarterback Ron Johnson scored the Cowboys' other touchdown in the third period on a one-yard keeper.

Iowa State got its two touchdowns in the final period after Cowboy coach Phil Cutchin poured in reserves. Halfback Ben King scored for the Cyclones on a one-yard run and quarterback John Warden completed the scoring on a seven-yard sprint.

Oklahoma State piled up 360 yards total offense as it ran its season record to 3-4-1, including 2-3 in the conference. Iowa State playing its final game under coach Clay Stapleton, had 242 yards total offense, most of it coming in the final period.

The Cyclones ended the season with a 2-8 record and 1-6 in the conference. Stapleton, coach for 10 years at Iowa State will begin devoting full-time to the post of athletic director, a position he took a year ago.

Stapleton coached Cyclone teams have a record during his 11 years at Ames of 42 wins, 53 losses and 4 ties. He has had three winning seasons, two 500 campaigns and five losing seasons.

Cowboy fullback Jack Reynolds, who piled up 104 yards rushing, also set up Johnson's touchdown with a 15-yard run to the Iowa State one.

Iowa State, held scoreless and in check for the first three quarters, was led by Warden, who gained 62 yards in 20 carries. He also completed 5 of 15 pass attempts for 93 yards, with all the completions coming in the second half.

ROUT PREPARATION

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Oscar Bonavena of Argentina sparred three rounds with Pedro Sanchez of Los Angeles in preparation for his semifinal bout with Jimmy Ellis at Louisville Dec. 2 in the heavyweight championship elimination tournament.

TILLOTSON OPTIONED

NEW YORK (UPI)—Right-hander Thad Tillotson was optioned Wednesday by the New York Yankees to their Syracuse farm club in the International League. Tillotson, 26, worked primarily in relief last season, posting a 3-9 record and a 4.04 earned run average.

Color Oklahoma Sooners Orange

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Orange Bowl delirious fans showed the field as wisty Oklahoma quarterback Bob Warrmack hurled a game-winning pass to end Steve Zabel in the fading moments of Saturday's Big Eight Conference contest.

Warrmack directed seventh-ranked Oklahoma to a 14-10 victory over Kansas before a 58,300 partisan Dad's Day crowd.

The victory assured the Sooners of at least a tie for the conference championship, and also virtually assured an invitation to the Orange Bowl.

Warrmack's aerial to Zabel covered the final 30 yards of a 96-yard drive in 16 plays. The series beat the clock in Oklahoma's bid to return to the conference throne after a seven-year absence.

Kansas built a 10-0 lead midway through the third quarter before Oklahoma's offense finally came to life. Kansas quarterback Bob Douglass plowed in from the one yard line with 8:06 remaining in the third quarter following a 23-yard first quarter field goal by Bill Bell. Bell also added the conversion kick.

Oklahoma's first touchdown late in the third quarter came on a seven yard scamper by tailback Steve Owens, and Mike Vachon added his first of two conversion points.

Kansas completely dominated the first half allowing Oklahoma only three first downs and 63 total offensive yards. But the Sooners attack rallied late in the third quarter and held through the final stanza.

Oklahoma's first touchdown drive, coming with 1:52 left in the quarter covered 77 yards in 12 plays.

Oklahoma stands 5-0 in the conference and is 7-1 for the season. Kansas dropped to 4-2 in the league and 4-5 for the year.

Warrmack completed 12 of 23 passes for 129 yards. Owens led the Sooners ground attack with 80 yards in 21 carries.

Douglass paced the Jayhawks, completing 6 of 12 aerials for 4 yards and netting 59 yards rushing.

Oklahoma received an invitation to meet Tennessee in the New Year's Day Orange Bowl classic at Miami, Fla.

The Sooners were assessed several 15-yard penalties due to anticipation from fans who continually showered the field with oranges, despite warnings from the officials.

Minnesota Rolls By Indiana 33-7

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Brawny Minnesota shocked Indiana's Rose Bowl dreams and boosted their own Saturday with a four-touchdown explosion by Curt Wilson and a 33-7 triumph.

Wilson also passed for a touchdown and rushed for 118 yards as he and the Golden Gophers torpedooed 8-0 season record, the best for a Hoosier team in history.

The defeat knocked fifth-ranked Indiana out of a tie for the Big Ten lead and meant the Hoosiers will have to beat Purdue, the awesome league leader, to keep any chance for the Rose Bowl or a title.

Minnesota climbed into a deadlock with Indiana for second place in the Big Ten. And, should the Gophers down Wisconsin next weekend in their final game, they probably will get the Big Ten nod for the Rose Bowl.

Purdue, favored for the title, is ineligible for the trip to Pasadena because it appeared in the Rose Bowl last year.

Minnesota was a slim two-point favorite for Saturday's scrap and, led by Wilson, the Gophers literally crunched out the decision with a slashing ground offense.

WINNING JOCKEY—SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)—Jockey Alvaro Pineda, a 22-year-old Mexican, missed his chance for riding glory but he'll be back in the saddle at Bay Meadows, bruised leg and all. Pineda booted his six winners on a card to join seven other riders who have scored that many victories in a single day at major race tracks. He had a chance for a record seven in the ninth race, but his mount, the favored Flushing K, threw him in the starting gate and was ordered scratched. Alvaro suffered a bruised leg.

Tigers Nip Huskers

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI)—Smallish Garnett Phelps, a second-string quarterback used only sparingly this season, fired a 38-yard fourth quarter touchdown pass to Jon Stagers that carried Missouri to a fierce 10-7 Big Eight football victory over Nebraska Saturday.

Missouri's victory before an overflow crowd of 56,400, which included Liberty and Gator bowl scouts, kept alive the Tigers' hope of at least a share of the Big Eight title. The loss eliminated Nebraska.

The Tigers' game-winning score came after defensive tackle Jay (Rocky) Wallace partially blocked a Nebraska punt and Missouri took over at the Huskers' 37. Moments into the fourth quarter, facing a third down and 11 from the 38

Phelps shredded a wave of pressure led by Nebraska middle guard Wayne Meylan and threw deep to Stagers, who made a leaping catch at the goal line.

Nebraska had taken a 7-0 lead in the first period on Frank Patrick's 34-yard pass to halfback Joe Orduina, but Wallace's 45-yard field goal for Missouri midway through the second period sliced the Huskers' halftime edge to 7-3.

Phelps, a 5-8, 185-pound sophomore, spelled the injured Gary Kombrink late in the third quarter.

Patrick, a 6-7, 210-pounder and the Huskers' finest sophomore quarterback in history, was constantly pressured in the second half by Missouri's great pass-rush. Nebraska penetrated

Tiger territory under its own power only once after intermission, but Missouri safety Roger Wehrli killed a threat by intercepting a pass at the 28.

Patrick, hitting passes of 30 and 16 yards, took Nebraska from its own 16 to the Missouri 34 in six plays before throwing to Orduina for the score on

GAINS SEMIFINALS

Sanders pinned Gheorghe Tapalage of Romania Monday night. Bantamweight Richard Sofman of the U.S. was pinned by Aboutalob Talobi of Iran in a quarterfinal.

Nebraska's second possession, Missouri took over on its own 22 and drove to the Nebraska 27 in the second quarter before its drive bogged down and the Tigers were forced to settle for Wallace's field goal.

Nebraska, now 6-3 for the season and 3-3 in the conference, managed only 11 yards rushing against Missouri's stout defenders, but out-passed the Tigers 161 yards to 70. Missouri now 4-2 in the conference and 7-

Irish Blitz Georgia Tech

ATLANTA (UPI)—A 38-yard touchdown pass from Terry Hanratty to Bob Gladioux broke open a close game Saturday and sent Notre Dame on its way to a 36-3 rout of Georgia Tech.

With halfbacks Gladioux and Bob Bleier scoring two touchdowns each, Notre Dame made a runaway of the game. It was first between the clubs in eight years, and watched by the largest crowd ever to see a football contest in Georgia, 60,024.

The Irish added insult to injury in the final period, scoring again on a 31-yard field goal by Joe Azzaro and with a 20-yard touchdown run by reserve fullback Ron Dushney. Tech's only score was a first period field goal by Tommy Carmichael, a 42-yard boot.

Tech entered the game a four-touchdown underdog, but carried a 3-0 lead into the second period. Then Hanratty, who completed 7 of 9 passes in the game, threw to Gladioux for the touchdown that put the Irish ahead for good.

Bleier built up the advantage to 21-3 by halftime, scoring twice within the next 10 minutes, from two and four yards out. Gladioux went over from three yards out in the following quarter for his second touchdown of the game.

The victory was Notre Dame's seventh of the year against two losses, and it put Tech's record at 4-5.

LONDON VICTOR—LIVERPOOL, England (UPI)—Brian London, the former British heavyweight champion, scored a 10-round decision over Zola Folley of Chandler, Ariz.

It was only the ninth defeat in 87 fights for Folley, who lost to Cassius Clay in a bid for the world heavyweight title last March.

Bufs Romp K-State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI)—Colorado, gunning for a major bowl berth, completed its Big Eight Conference play by blasting winless Kansas State 40-6 Saturday.

It took the Buffaloes just 14 seconds to get on the scoreboard with a safety and just under three minutes to strike for its first touchdown.

On the first play of the game after Kansas State returned the opening kickoff to its own 22, quarterback Bill Nossek fumbled while trying to pass. Wildcat Cornelius Davis covered the loose ball in the end zone for the Colorado safety.

The Buffs, who finished conference play with a 5-2 mark, took the ensuing kickoff and marched 46 yards in five plays, with sensational sophomore Bob Anderson sprinting the final 25 yards for the touchdown. Dave Bartel converted and Colorado went into command 9-0.

Anderson alternated with senior Dan Kelly in leading Colorado to 353 yards rushing and the two combined for 13 pass completions for 120 yards. Anderson carried 15 times for 107 yards and Kelly added 102 yards, also on 15 carries. The Buffs ran the score to 16-0 late in the first period on a one-yard run by fullback Wilmer Cooks. This capped a short 13-yard set up by Frank Bosch's fumble recovery.

Wolfpack Upset Again By Fast Moving Clemson

CLEMSON, S. C. (UPI)—Clemson came from behind with two third period touchdowns Saturday to defeat North Carolina State 14-6 despite a record-setting field goal display by the Wolfpack's Gerald Warren.

The victory assured Clemson of a share of the Atlantic Coast Conference championship. State's prospects of winning the ACC title and a probable Sugar Bowl bid appeared bright in the second period when Warren booted his 16th and 17th field goals of the season from 37 and 47 yards out. Those kicks tied and broke the NCAA season record of 16 field goals set by Princeton's Charlie Gogolak in 1965. Jimmy Addison, Clemson's skinny quarterback, promptly tied the score with a perfect 28-yard touchdown pass to tailback Buddy Gore in the end zone in the third period.

Arthur Craig's conversion put Clemson ahead 7-6 and the Tigers struck four minutes later with a second touchdown on a 7-yard run by alternate tailback lead.

The loss was the second in a row for Earle Edwards' Wolfpack, which had gotten a high as third in the national ratings after winning eight in a row. Penn State popped State's bubble last week.

Clemson can now take sole possession of its second straight ACC title with a win next week over arch-rival South Carolina. A South Carolina victory will leave Clemson sharing the title with South Carolina and North Carolina State.

A strong wind was a dominant factor in the hard-fought contest witnessed by a standing-room-only crowd of 47,000.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bache &
Co. notes that for the third time in the past two weeks the Dow Jones industrial average has found support in the 845-850 level. It says the stability found here is "encouraging" but adds that it is waiting to view the next extended rally and the subsequent testing period before making judgment on whether a near term bottom has been reached.

E.F. Hutton & Co. says the current phase of the market decline seems to be directed primarily at issues which escaped relatively unscathed during the previous phase. It notes that the number of heretofore weak issues able to withstand selling pressure seems to be growing slowly and suggests that the market decline may not be far from an end.

Goodbody & Co. says that while selling pressure in the stock market seems to be spent, one or more tests of last week's 849 low in the Dow Jones industrial average may be necessary before investor confidence returns. Such a condition, the investment firm adds, may require several more weeks.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Winslow
Cohu & Stetson says it sees no reason to change its basic position that the September-November decline is a typical secondary reaction within a long-term bull market. The company notes that blue chips took the "initial beating and appear to be bottoming out"
and adds that "a little more distress and neurotic selling" may be left in a few performance issues. But the company says it believes the "great decline of 1967" has now run its course.

Paine Webber Jackson &
Curtis says the most constructive pattern that could develop in the stock market is a broader area of consolidation above the 840-850 support area of the Dow Jones industrial average. This the investment firm adds, would bring a new level of confidence and interest and also build a base "from which it would be possible to arrive at significant market objectives."

Who Is He?

An Army VIP Test

IN 1946 the name of this now-famous American could hardly have been known outside his friends and Army associates. He had just completed five years as an infantry officer, much of it working behind the lines in Italy to organize the local partisans, and was about to enroll in the Boston University Law School. But fame was not far off. In 1952 he was named "One of Ten Outstanding Young Men of Greater Boston." In 1962, and again in 1964, he was elected Attorney General of his state. And in 1966, twenty years since his departure from the Army, he became United States Senator from Massachusetts.
What is his name?

ANSWER: Senator Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts.

In 1964, newspaper executive
Roy Howard died in New York at the age of 81.

Miss Kaye Carolyn Hubbard of Lubbock exchanged double-ring wedding vows with James Whitney St. Peter Saturday in the First Christian Church, Lubbock—Rev. Bob Ferguson, pastor of St. Mark Presbyterian Church, Lubbock, performed the evening ceremony.

The bride is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Hubbard, 323 Red Deer, Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. St. Peter, Dallas. Miss Helen Goulden, Lubbock, played the traditional wedding march on the organ as Robert Adcock of Lubbock presented a cello solo of the song, "I Love You."

Vows were exchanged before a background of palms and tree candelabra entwined with stephanotis.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her uncle, the bride was dressed in an imported white Saki bridal gown. The moulded Empire bodice was designed with a portrait neckline and elbow-length sleeves and veiled in re-embroidered alencon lace frosted in seed pearls.

The slim A-line skirt was complemented by a fan-shaped chapel-length train applied in lace medallions and pearl beading.

A matching lace and pearl miniature pillbox hat held her bouffant veil of silk illusion. She carried a long-line bouquet of stephanotis with a detachable white cattleya orchid.

ATTENDANTS

Her maid of honor was Miss

Linda Hubbard of Pampa. Bridesmaids were Miss Francis St. Peter, Dallas, and Miss

Aria Williams, Perryton. Bridal attendants wore avocado green crepe floor-length gowns with the "empire-inspired look." Their gowns were accented with a single strand of pearls. They wore avocado green floral petal head pieces with shoulder-length veils and carried elongated bouquets of burnt orange mums trimmed with avocado velvet ribbon.

Attendants for the bridegroom were John Crake, Milwaukee, Wisc., as best man, and Mike Love and Terry Winn, both of Dallas, as groomsmen. Charles Britton, Lubbock, and Fred Molsen, Dallas, seated wedding guests.

twined with yellow roses. Miss Carolyn Bean, Lubbock, assisted at punch bowl and coffee service as Mrs. Joe Gamertsfelder, Hereford, served the three-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Earl Leith, Pampa, assisted with the reception.

Mangold is the Vocational Adjustment Coordinator for the Special Education Program at Pampa Senior High School. He has been in the teaching profession 24 years, and attended West Texas State University. He worked in the Special Education program one year.

Twentieth Century Club Hears Annual Guest Day Tea Speaker

Mrs. Ralph Randal of Panhandle was guest speaker at Twentieth Century Club's 39th Annual Guest Day Tea at Lovett Memorial Library recently.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Lorene Locke, club president. Mrs. Raymond Harrah, program committee member, introduced the guest speaker.

A native Texan, born in Clarendon, Mrs. Randal has resided in Panhandle the past 30 years. She is a Director of the State Historical Association, a member of the Governor's committee on aging, the Steppe Program of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and the First Methodist Church of Panhandle.

Mrs. Randal-related incidents and character sketches from Carson County Historical Society's "A Time to Purpose." More than 250 persons worked on this two-volume chronicle which covers Carson County history from 1874 to 1920.

Work began in February, 1962, when pioneer families met, and were asked to recount their early day experiences in narrative form. No individual or family was to be given preference, and all profits were to be donated to the Carson County Museum. To date, more than $1,500 has been received by the museum.

With tape recorders, the pioneers related their experiences in their own words.

Mrs. Randal said persons who settled this area were the younger sons of English nobility, Polish immigrants, and pioneers who came to the plains country to buy a "wad of land." To many, this was the "great Sahara of North American unfit for habitation."

Water sold for $1 a barrel or five cents a cup. The first ad placed in the Panhandle Herald, which began publishing from a tent in 1887, was for prospective eastern brides. The first freight shipped east on the Santa Fe was Buffalo bones. Later, due to the cattle shipments, more freight left Panhandle than any other place in the United States except Chicago," she said.

The Polish people settling White Deer, who landed at Galveston in 1854 and walked 200 miles inland, were thought to be mutes. Actually, they were a proud people who chose to remain silent rather than be laughed at, Mrs. Randal explained.

Before 1879, all Panhandle counties were attached to Bexar County. They were named after Texas statesmen or heroes of the Alamo. The Court house, a store, several saloons and churches, and numerous dug-outs comprised most new settlements. Cowboys practiced a "windmill religion" and the nearest doctor resided in Clarendon, she said.

"Although many times life was grim, the pioneer could almost always find something to laugh about. These were people bound together by a love of the land and a common dream. They did not live to enjoy the fruits of their labor but fortunately their hard work and foresight is in evidence everywhere today. As the title of the volumes suggests 'To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven'—Ecclesiastes 3:1," she said.

Mrs. Randal concluded her program by suggesting Pampans compile a similar history of Gray County.

Mrs. Lorene Locke served at the tea table which was decorated with a "Time to Purpose" (See TWENTIETH Page 14)

Sorority Members Initiate Nine Pledges with Ceremony

The Alpha Iota conclave of Kappa Kappa Iota met this week in Mrs. Jim Gardner's home. The conclave accepted nine new members into its organization.

A ceremony for the initiates was held in the living room of the Gardner home. The nine initiates formed a semi-circle before a table covered with a lace cloth, a gold basket filled with violets, a white Bible and a gold lighted K.K.I. emblem. The officers, Mrs. Frank Anderson, Ken Baker, Paul Keim, Gary Kastor, Wynne Veale, and Miss Sue Durham, explained the purpose, pledge, the lamp of learning, the emblem and a brief resume of the history of the organization.

The pledges held a lighted lamp while Mrs. Frank Anderson, president, read the vows as pledges repeated the officer led.

er, Miss Sue Durham revealed to members the secret of the official hard shake as Mrs. Paul Keim pinned a single violet on all new members. All of the members sang the Kappa song. Members accepted their new sisters by demonstrating the official hard shake.

The new members are Mrs. Bill Davis, Carol Gallimore, Ernest Hawkins, Russell Mason, Bob Regan, Richard S. E. rurier, James Wyatt and Misses Phylliss Gerdson and L. Montgomery.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Anderson conducted a short business meeting. Mrs. Gary Kastor called the roll.

WHETHER YOUR HAIR IS SHORT OR LONG you can have the feminine, gracious style of the romantic, ante-bellum South by simply adding a fall. The fall (left) is styled in a cluster of large ringlet curls that cascade down the back below the shoulders. With a wiglet (right) styled in soft half curls, attached to the crown of the head and draped in a wavelike pattern half way down the back of the head, part of your own French knot is visible. This style is also ideal for dressy occasions and only takes minutes to put on.

BRISK FALL WEATHER inspires many to take jaunts into the country to see leaves turn to red and gold. For such trips it would be wise to pack a first aid mini-kit in your gear bag. Such a kit is perfect for cuts and scrapes, miniskirted bikers are prone to. They contain cream, plastic strips to cover scratches, gauze pads, adhesive tape and a supply of aspirin.

Fashion in Uniforms

Uniforms designed for "women in white" are so beguiling that women in other fields are adopting them, too. Modish professional-type uniforms are created for comfort, with lines that do not restrict body movements, whether worn by hospital nurses, beauticians or by

Dear Abby

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband (Arnie) and I both work. Arnie drives 35 miles round trip to work every day, and I drive 30, in the opposite direction. Well, Arnie got one too many moving violations and he had his driver's license suspended for a year, so now I have to drive him to work and back every day. It keeps me on the run because we have children at home, but I am not complaining. Here's the problem:

Arnie has come up with the idea of staying with one of the guys he works with. This co-worker (I'll call him Sammy) is divorced and swings pretty good, and there are always these cute single girls hanging around Sammy's apartment. I know my husband, and he wouldn't just sit around and twiddle his thumbs. Arnie says he doesn't want me to get worn out driving him, but if I'm not complaining, why should he? Should I stick to my decision or not?

ARNIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Stick to your decision. Tell Arnie you have had enough of his moving violations, without asking for other kinds. And if anyone is gonna get worn out, it will be you. Driving!

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem which comes up so often it isn't even funny, and almost everyone I know is guilty of it. This happens at my house, or when I'm at someone else's house.

When my kids start acting up and doing things they know they shouldn't and I correct them, the friend (or relative) will butt in and say, "Oh, leave them alone. They aren't hurting anything. They're only kids. Relax and quit picking on them!" They say this right in front of the children and then what am I supposed to do? ROPE'S END

DEAR END: First I'll tell you what NOT to do. Don't let your children escape punishment they have coming just because friends or relatives are present. Tell those who attempt to interfere that your children NEED discipline, whether company is there or not, and their cooperation would be very much appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old girl who works in a factory with both men and women. Much of my work consists of bending from the waist down to pick up parts. My problem is my parents won't allow me to wear slacks to work. They say slacks are indecent for a lady to wear.

I give one-tenth of my paycheck home each week, and most of my social activities center around the church, so you couldn't call me a rebellious person. I wouldn't wear slacks on the streets or anywhere excepting to work. What is your opinion on this?

ROCKFORD, O.
DEAR ROCKFORD: From your description of the kind of work you do, I think slacks would be appropriate. Be sure to get a ladylike fit, and don't try to stretch things too far.

Pampa Jaycee-Ettes Plan Bazaar

The Pampa Jaycee-Ettes "Gifts O' Plenty" Bazaar will open at the Coronado Inn at 10 a.m., Dec. 1 and continue until 8 p.m. They will follow with the same schedule Dec. 2. This is the second Bazaar for the Pampa Jaycee-Ettes, who have been working on this project several months. Changes in this year are intended to help the public as participants and buyers. Several hundred feet of shelf space and better lighting will be added this year to display the items.

Last summer, many clubs, organizations and individuals were contacted to display their items. Several individuals and organizations in Pampa, Amarillo, Lefors, McLean, Dalhart and Panhandle will have exhibits because Pampa Jaycee-Ettes believe a market place is needed for talents in the Panhandle area. Many organizations are using this as a money-making project within their own club. To enter the bazaar contact Mrs. Jim Osborne, chairman, or Mrs. Pampa.

Although controversy still surrounds use of studded tires, 33 states and the District of Columbia now make their use legal for winter driving, according to the American Automobile Association. Studies in several states have resulted in contradictory opinions on damage to road surfaces from the metal studs. A National Safety Council test, however, found studded tires second only to reinforced tire chains in effective braking distance on glare ice.

Population of United States Reaches 200 Million Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The population of the United States officially reaches 200 million at 11 a.m. Monday. Don't believe it.

That figure probably was reached some time in 1965, according to the Population Reference Bureau.

Rep. Jackson E. Betts, R. Ohio, who is championing the cause of simple, short census forms, plans to be on hand for ceremonies at the Commerce Department when the national census "clock" ticks off 200 million.

He thinks the computer is about to suffer a possibly fatal case of indigestion from being fed incomplete and erroneous information.

For example, Betts points to the 5.7 million Americans, many of them Negroes, who were completely overlooked in the 1960 census.

Betts is most concerned about the even longer and more planned for use in the 1970 census.

"The real meaning of a grossly incomplete 1970 census will be in the apportionment of congressional districts and allocation of federal grant money to states and cities," he said.

There are 17 million Americans over the age of 25 who lack the eighth grade education required to complete the proposed census form.

Betts contends it would take even a literate person more than 30 minutes to complete the list of 120 questions, many of them complex and highly personal.

Betts has a bill pending which would limit by law the questions to basic information such as name and address, sex, date of birth, race or color.

He also would eliminate the present $100 fine or 60-day jail penalty for refusing to answer the census.

DISCUSS AIR PACT
JAKARTA (UPI) — A U.S. government delegation conferred Saturday with Indonesian officials on a possible air agreement between the two countries.

The U.S. group included Edward Bolster, director of the Office of Aviation for the U.S. State Department and John G. Adams, of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The House subcommittee on census and statistics is scheduled to hold a second day of hearings on Betts' bill Tuesday. He is hopeful it might pass next year before the 1970 census begins.

PLANNING PIPELINE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission said Friday Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha, Neb., had asked for authority to build about $6.9 million in pipeline facilities to take natural gas from the Delaware basin of Southwest Texas. Northern proposed to purchase the gas from Humble Oil and Refining Co. of Houston.

CRASH KILLS SOLDIER

KILLEEN (UPI) — One person was killed and seven others injured in a four-automobile collision on State Highway 190 five miles west of Killeen Friday night.

More than an hour after the accident, traffic was piled up for three miles on either side of the wreckage.

Killed was William E. Wallace 24, of the 13th Support Brigade at Ft. Hood.

Army's SNAFU Blamed For Soldier's AWOL

FT. HOOD, Tex. (UPI) — An Army spokesman said today Pfc. Ronald Nowell was sent home on leave and then classified as a deserter because of a clerical error when he was transferred from his old unit to a new one.

"Private Nowell is now being carried in his proper location, and we are in the process of trying to apologize as best we can to the parents," said Col. Robert W. Carpenter, information officer at Ft. Hood.

Nowell was transferred and given two weeks leave last summer following his application for an 11-month deferment from Vietnam service because his brother is also on active duty there. Army regulations allow a soldier to ask for a deferment from the combat zone if a brother is there.

Carpenter said when Nowell was transferred out of the 1st Battalion, 50th Infantry into the 6th Battalion, 92nd Artillery, the old outfit erroneously listed him as AWOL instead of on leave.

Nowell went home to Kennedale, Tex. Just before his leave was up, he was involved in a traffic accident and badly hurt. He was hospitalized at Carswell Air Force Base near Fort Worth, which apparently notified the old outfit instead of the new outfit. The old outfit was by that time overseas.

In the meantime, Nowell's parents had been informed their son was AWOL. A month later they got a letter that he was being classified as a deserter. An FBI agent came to see them.

The frantic parents finally got the FBI man to visit Nowell in the hospital. He notified the military. Nowell is still hospitalized.

REVIEW PARADE

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Military delegations from 12 nations including the United States, Saturday visited military establishments in Meknes and Fez. The military groups reviewed a Moroccan independence parade at Kenitra on Friday.

Carpenter said the error in classifying Nowell AWOL was somewhere in the clerical work.

"It was one day before the outfit was to depart for overseas and we must imagine the personnel records were in turmoil," he said.

APPEARING IN PARADE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The famed Kiigore, Tex., College Rangerettes will appear in New York's Thanksgiving Day parade. A party of 119 students and staff will fly to New York from Dallas Tuesday, and return Thursday night.

HOUSING ACCOMMODATIONS
GRENOBLE, France (UPI) — Soviet Union visitors to the Winter Olympics will be housed in religious seminaries, government tourism officials said Saturday. The Russians had asked to be housed in large groups, officials said, and the seminaries were the only lodging capable of answering their needs.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

KATHMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — Indian police, mistaking them for Chinese, arrested two Japanese anthropologists Friday at the Indian border. The Japanese, Miss Machiko Kimura and Miss Zenjiro Tamura, were released after police checked their documents. They had been taking photographs in a rural village and Tamura said he noticed "definite anti-Chinese sentiment."

A Thought About Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving Day is right around the corner and we are reminded that in this hurried world, there are still a few times when we pause with humility and reverence to recall our heritage and give thanks for our spiritual and material blessings. Thanksgiving is such a time. The first Thanksgiving Day was observed by the pilgrims at Plymouth Colony after their first harvest in 1621. President Lincoln in 1864 proclaimed the fourth Thursday of November as Thanksgiving Day, and it has been so since that time.

Legislation is now before Congress which would shift the observance of five of our national holidays to Mondays, on the theory that this would avoid breaking up the working week and provide five clearly defined three-day weekends. Shifts are proposed for Washington's Birthday (to become Presidents Day), Memorial Day, Independence Day, Veterans Day and Thanksgiving. Whatever may be said for these proposals, it affects the rest of these occasions, one may hope that Thanksgiving is not finally included among them. As things now stand, this is quite generally observed as a four-day holiday. A time for families to get together—schools and colleges are closed from Wednesday till Monday. This would be sharply changed if Thanksgiving were just another three-day weekend. For more than a hundred years, the fourth Thursday of every November has been the time for families to serve that reminder of the Lord's bounty—the traditions are an important part of the continuity that lends strength to a people and to a nation. In these times, it would seem well for us to keep as many of them as we can.

Consumer Protection Farce

There's little question that the free market system in the United States is threatened with virtual obliteration under an impending deluge of consumer protection laws and regulations. As Miss Sylvia Porter, the financial columnist, writes: "The sheer volume of consumer protection proposals is beginning to repel even the most ardent consumer protectionists..." There is equally small doubt that many people look at this threat to the free market with an attitude of "so what." As consumers, they may find one day to their sorrow that such an attitude has exacted an intolerably high price in terms of the goods and services of the mass-production, mass-distribution system that we now take for granted.

Excessive policing of the free market and excessive restrictions on such things as promotion, advertising, packaging, labeling and other merchandising practices inexorably curbed consumer free choice and cripple the competitive, distributive processes.

Miss Porter suggests that business itself can do much to defeat the "burgeoning bureaucracy" of consumer protection by taking the lead in adopting reasonable and tasteful advertising policies, making certain that products placed on the market are as claimed and by aggressively fighting the unscrupulous fringes that hurt an industry's name. It should be added, however, that one of the first prerequisites of preserving the free market system in the United States is broad consumer understanding of its role as a protector of our economic liberties and as the source of high living standards. Without that understanding, we are fair game for the consumer protectionists and regulators irrespective of the quality of industry performance.

New Paper Stock Fragile

"Almost every sheet of paper made in the United States since about 1850 is eating away at itself at a terrible rate," says book restoration expert William J. Barrow, as quoted by the Washington Post.

Books dating from before the Civil War, however, are still in good condition. The reason is that they were made of paper with a nonchemical rag content. The old paper-making process was replaced by one using chemicals and wood fiber to meet the demand for large quantities of cheap paper which arose in the second half of the 19th century.

Barrow estimates the average life expectancy of 99 per cent of the books manufactured in this country at 25 to 40 years. Only 1 per cent of the books made at the turn of the century will be usable at the start of the next. This suggests that the much-touted "information explosion" may have its own built-in solution. But much of value as well as much trash is going the way of all pulp, and even trash achieves a historical value if it stays around long enough.

Thus experts are constantly seeking well-preserved copies of deteriorating books and preserving others on microfilm.

Future archivists may not have this problem. A new paper not yet widely produced is said to have a life span of 2,000 years, says Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Modern Business Leadership

How far business should go beyond its primary obligation to stockholders, in participating in the solution of broad social and economic problems of the whole community, has long been a question in the minds of many managers. In the words of Mr. L. W. Moore, president of the American Oil Company, "I believe that without the conscientious involvement of business and industry the activities that are undertaken are rather apt to be palliatives instead of cures. This is not said critically, but simply because the only real long-term solution to the problem is employment; productive employment—that will enable men who are now unskilled, unschooled, and unemployed to achieve a sense of dignity. Business must become involved because it is the ultimate source of these jobs, and the process of preparing the unskilled to assume them is one in which it must have a role. We must help find ways to prepare people for the kind of work that we will be able to provide.

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

Some mathematical genius with a slide rule has figured out that if you live to the age of 70 your heart will have beaten more than 2.5 billion times. That's good to know, but most of us just hope it keeps on beating without worrying too much about the count. In the early days of medicine each finger had a special name. "Thumb" meant a thick or swollen; the index finger was called the "long man"; and the ring finger was called the "medical digit" because a doctor was supposed to test medicine with it. The old belief was that the medical finger was connected with the heart and could detect anything harmful coming in contact with it.

Today's smile: A teacher in elementary classes was trying to explain the intricacies of arithmetic to her pupils. "John," she said, "you have ten fingers. Suppose you had three less; then what would you have?" John answered, "No more plane lessons."

Watching a youngster eat chocolate-covered ice cream on a stick recalled that back in the '20's that form of delicacy was invented by a mid-westerner who called his concoction "Esquimo Pie." It swept the country and news stories at the time predicted the inventor would make a million. We don't know if he did, but there are a dozen varieties of his idea now being marketed.

Thoughts while shaving: The new movie "Camelot" is a sheer delight, and the Lerner-Lowe tunes have lost none of their luster in this version of the age-old tale about the legendary King Arthur. Few characters have proven as durable as Arthur, who many believe never lived. Others believe he ruled the Britons in the 6th century. At any rate the story of the king and his Round Table gave immortality to Sir Thomas Malory for his "Morte d'Arthur," and Tennyson for his "Idylls of the King."

Others who profited from the legend are Mark Twain, Rodgers and Hart, Lerner and Lowe, and T. B. White. John Quincy Adams, our sixth President, was the first chief executive to have a middle name. Later, others such as William Henry Harrison, Chester Allan Arthur, and James Knox Polk used their full names. Harry S. Truman was the only President to have only a middle initial instead of a middle name. No one, including Harry, knows what the "S" stands for. The world's largest underground pumping station for water supply is being built at Rio de Janeiro. When completed it will supply the Brazilian city with 725 million gallons of drinkable water per day. Remember how the Indians always held up the building of the railroad as a West? Well, they're still doing it in Pennsylvania. Seems some workmen constructing a new railroad line there dug up an ancient Indian burial ground and the project was halted until the anthropologists finished digging for Indian tools, pottery and weapons.

Future archivists may not have this problem. A new paper not yet widely produced is said to have a life span of 2,000 years, says Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Security Danger to NATO Seen In De Gaulle-Soviet Military Training Pact

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Charles de Gaulle is preparing a new bombshell for NATO. At the same time as French forces still participate in NATO activities, he has secretly agreed for French paratroopers and medical corpsmen to be trained in Russia.

This security threat is revealed in a NATO staff report now being studied by concerned U. S. officials. The report was prepared for consideration at the Dec. 12-13 NATO ministerial meeting in Brussels.

The training agreement was worked out last month during the visit to France of Marshal Mathias Zakharov, Soviet deputy chief of staff.

The visit included, according to the NATO report, a 10-day tour by the marshal and a high-ranking Soviet military mission of French military installations, and a meeting with the French General Staff on Oct. 16.

During this unannounced meeting details of the French-Soviet military exchange were worked out. These negotiations were the result of an earlier De Gaulle agreement with Soviet Premier Kossygin.

The Soviet marshal's visit also coincided with the largest French military maneuvers since the end of World War II, maneuvers from which NATO officers were barred.

CUTTING MORE TIES—The same report warned NATO officials that De Gaulle will soon announce withdrawal of France's 60,000-man army from West Germany.

In the past week, France completed its previously announced withdrawal of all air force units stationed in West Germany. Two weeks ago Defense Minister Pierre Messmer told the National Assembly that all French airmen and their planes would be called home from other NATO bases.

In addition, France has removed its Nike anti-aircraft missile installations from West Germany and is now re-installing them in France. The latter move has convinced West German officials that the withdrawal of ground troops will be De Gaulle's new move in his efforts to break up NATO as a military power.

In recent weeks De Gaulle has authorized negotiations for increased exchanges of space and scientific information and personnel with Russia.

The French leader, the NATO report indicated, will make his second trip to Moscow early next year—probably in late January or early February. He told a recent caller he had received a new invitation to Moscow. Asked if he planned to accept, De Gaulle replied, "When the time is correct for announcement of new agreements with Russia, I will make the trip."

The new space and scientific agreements are expected to be ready for signing in January. There is even a rumor Russia and France will exchange nuclear scientists in the near future.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functioning of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: If primitive people were wise enough to consider theft of the seed corn a more heinous crime than even murder, why are people who are supposedly civilized and more widely educated than any other people in the history of the world bent on destroying capital and the incentive to accumulate it, when capital is the seed corn of the modern, industrial world?

ANSWER: It would seem that the reason is that these people who are supposedly civilized and more widely educated than any other people in the history of the world, are not educated. They are instructed and trained and indoctrinated and have abandoned the principle "Thou Shalt Not Steal." If people did not steal they would not murder, they wouldn't commit adultery, they wouldn't bear false witness and they would honor their contracts and take care of their parents if they need help.

Mark Twain is quoted as saying he'd never let his schooling interfere with his education and it seems that most people have let their schooling in college interfere with their education. They are theorists instead of men of common sense and rational people. That is the only explanation we can think of.

Wit and Whimsy

Joe—New suit?
Moe—Yep, isn't it a swell fit?
Joe—Fit, my foot—it's a consolation!

She—Now tell me the truth—do you men like the talkative women as well as you do the other kind?

He—What other kind?

Never praise a woman too highly. If you stop, she'll think you don't love her any more. If you keep it up, she'll soon think she's too good for you.

It used to be that a man who saved money was a miser—nowadays he's a wonder.

Mack—You say that he is real sure of himself?

cides to enter the war in force, or for both purposes.

Intelligence officials recall that their predecessors failed to predict the North Korean invasion of South Korea and the Communists in the war in 1950, not because they misjudged the enemy's capability, but because they misunderstood his intentions.

Much discussion here, therefore, now turns on Peking's state of mind and nobody seems to know how to read that since the so-called cultural revolution started more than a year ago.

Branch Head-Bill Says:

by BILL KENNEDY

If the Newt States Congress passes that bill to pay fourteen million dollars apiece to Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon (or worse) to pay for their expenses in running in the Presidential election race next year then I think that ever congressman that votes for it should be beat by the voters at the voting polls in that same election.

But I don't think that that would be near enough for 'em. I think that they should all be brought back to their home states and then tared and feathered and rode out of the state on a rail. And I also think that the rails should be railroad rails that weigh about a half a ton a piece and that the ones that would have to tote the rails out of the state ought to be the Newt States Senators that didn't come up for election that particular year.

That might not even be enough neither. Because the way I hear it, the senators and the congressmen that are running in the race is also supposed to get a hunk of tax money to 'lectioneer with. Some of them will no doubt hit on the idea of pocketing the cash money and jest keepin on runnin with it instead of spendin it for buyin votes. (If we could count on that it would almost be worth it jest to get shed of some of 'em).

Now, you know as well as I do that there is too much vote-buyin goin on already—with out the tax-payer voters havin to finance the buyin of their own votes. (Where is the profit in sellin our votes if we have to put up the money to start with?) We might of knowed that this proposition would come about if Lyndon Johnson ever got to be the President, because the way they tell it over in Texas... Lyndon is the champagne vote-buyin politician of them all!

It's not that I don't believe in the helpin of the poor. They tell me that—Lyndon can't never had a profit-making job since he quit the school teachin business back in Texas, before he decided to sacrifice himself in the non-profit business of politics. It ain't no tellin how much money that boy could of made if he had not of made that sacrifice and went out of the teachin business. It seems pitable for us tax payin folks not to want to dig on down and scratch out another fourteen million dollars to pay a poor boy who ain't never had the priviledge of bein nothin but a tax-spendin instead of a taxpayer.

But then, on the other side of the road there is poor ole Dicky Nixon. And I can't decide whether I want my 14 million to go to poor ole Lyndon or to Dicky. Anybody that has lived it up in New York in a plushy apartment the way he has, and then on top of that to have to travel all over the world a few dozen times the way he has, in order to find out how the rest of the world is a doin... anybody that has done all that (and run for Governor of California without no tax help), he is bound to of spent all the savings that he was able to honestly save up in that Vice President's job that he had.

How do they know that I had not druther help out this boy more and help out Lyndon less? And how do I ever get as poor as them candidates are from not workin, and have to call on the government to support me like it has them?

I figure that it might be alright to help out poor boys like that so as they can stand up and fight back at folks like old Bobby, Beat Neck Kennedy, who has all that Scotch Whisky money to 'lectioneer with. I can not argue none with that kind of thabbs...

But, Dag Nab it All, what if it was to be that I had druther pay the whole 28 million to George Wallace? Or are we getting set up to pay 14 million dollars to ever Lyndon, Dick and George who decides to run for President? If we are, we better hurry up and pass that extra tax bill that Lyndon is a fumin about... because there will soon be a big run on the run-in-for-President business.

AN INADEQUATE DEFENSE SYSTEM

Experts in the field of national defense have said for years that to deter communist aggression against this country we should build an adequate missile defense system. When the Soviet Union began to deploy an elaborate anti-missile system, leaders of this country were urged to do the same; yet for many months the Defense Department ignored this advice. Now the Defense Department has announced that it has authorized an anti-missile system. The American people, however, should be aware of the nature of this system before they believe that our defense problems are solved.

In the words of Secretary McNamara, the United States will deploy a "thin" anti-ballistic missile defense system. This "thin" system would be effective only against accidental launchings or against a very limited attack. Against a full-scale attack of the kind the Soviet Union could mount it would be tragically inadequate.

Our people should realize that the refusal to build a completely adequate missile defense system is a form of unilateral disarmament. If a Soviet attack is mounted against the United States, and only a few of our missiles are destroyed by our defenses, the rest will wipe out our own offensive missiles. The United States would then be unable to mount an effective counter-attack. The result would be the same as if we had voluntarily dismantled a large number of our missiles.

The deployment of a "thin" anti-missile system may succeed in silencing critics of the Defense Department's policies. It would not succeed in stopping a Soviet missile attack.

Starlet Era Gone With Wind

By DICK KLEINER

NEA Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Like the dodo bird, the tin lizzie and the iceman, the Hollywood starlet is facing extinction. Her demise is another product of the changing Hollywood. The economics of today's movie business has made her a luxury too rich to afford.

Basically, it all stems from the rise of independent production companies here. Even many movies made at the major studios are independent or cosponsored by the studio and an independent company.

These independents cannot gamble on raw, inexperienced performers. They need talented actors who won't cost money by delaying the filming. The independents have no actors under long-term contracts — they sign them for one picture at a time — so they cannot sign a rookie and wait for him or her to develop, as the studios did in the golden years gone by.

The result is a Hollywood where talent—or at least experience—is demanded. The starlet, that beautiful hunk of absolute inexperience, is no more.

"I want actors, not faces," says Joyce Selznick, head of Paramount's new talent program.

"There are no starlets any more," says Monique James, Universal's new talent impresario. "Nobody poses in bathing suits or cuts ribbons at supermarket openings. That's all finished."

And yet the feeling around town is that this is a good time for new stars to emerge—provided they have a background of acting. The box office figures show that the public is going to movies. The mail count at the studios shows that the public is personality-conscious, perhaps to a degree they haven't been in five or six years.

The new talent may not be as physically overpowering as were the kids of the past, but they have a solid training and, in many cases, years of experience.

"The pool of raw talent is improving," Miss Selznick says. "Young people are beginning to get the message that they have to learn to act before they try Hollywood. This is no longer an industry of bodies and faces, but of craftsmen."

A survey of the studios shows that each is high on one or more young performers, most with a good background of training.

Columbia—They like the two young men who play the killers in "In Cold Blood"—Scott Wilson and Robert Blake. And Katherine Houghton, Katherine Hepburn's niece, who makes her debut in "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner."

Disney—They interviewed over 1,000 girls to find a youngster to star with Dean Jones and Diane Baker in "Year of the Horse," came up with Helen Janov and they think she can make it big.

MGM—They have nobody of their own, but they borrowed a 17-year-old named Cristina Ferrare from Fox for "The Impossible Years" and they are quite high on her.

Paramount—A tall, slender

THREE NEW HOLLYWOOD faces to be carefully watched belong to Scott Wilson, left, Katherine Houghton and Robert Blake. Wilson and Blake star in Truman Capote's "In Cold Blood" while Miss Houghton, who is Katherine Hepburn's niece, makes her film debut in "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner."

blonde from Germany named Greta Baldwin is their pride and joy. She's in two unreleased films, "Project X" and "Rogue's Gallery." In "The President's Analyst" there are two girls, Jill Banner and Joan Delaney, they have good thoughts about, and "Blue" will mark the debut of Tony Costello, a handsome young hero.

Twentieth Century-Fox — of many youngsters—they have an active new talent program—they are particularly proud of Tony Scotti, who has a major role in "Valley of the Dolls," and Jacqueline Bisset, in "The Sweet Ride."

United Artists—They call attention to 19-year-old Jennifer Leach, and they say she is great in "Yours, Mine and Ours," with Lucille Ball and Henry Fonda.

Universal—Very active in this area, their new talent program unearthed stars like James Farentino, Katharine Ross, Michael Parks and Michael Sarrazin in the past year or so. Now they think they have another bumper crop: Susan Saint James, a sexy comedienne; Steve Carlson; Dom Stroud; 6-foot 5 dancer-singer David Hartman; Susan Clark, trained in English repertory companies; and 5-foot-11 Barbara Rhoades, a Broadway-trained

Special Twist
CHICAGO (UPI)—It was not the smoothest raid in history. The vice squad cops went into action Wednesday when five go-go dancers appeared too young to be sipping cocktails.

The girls were sent for their identification and when they returned one of them jumped on the stage and began gyrating. It took half an hour to coax her off and meanwhile, detective John McCormick said, the evidence — the cocktails — had disappeared.

ACCUSE U.S.
HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist China today accused the United States of "instigating and supporting" South Vietnamese, alleged violations of Cambodian borders. A commentary published in the official Peking Peoples Daily said, "The 700 million Chinese people, armed with the thought of Mao Tse-tung, will resolutely support the Cambodian people to give severe punishment to U.S. imperialism."

Two Pampans Cast In Tech's "Li'l Abner"

LUBBOCK—Two Pampa students will have parts in Texas Tech's Opera Theater production of "Li'l Abner" slated for performances Dec. 1 and 2 in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Suzie Benton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Benton of Amarillo, will play the part of Mammy Yokum. Ann Qualls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Qualls of 2145 Aspen, will play the part of Appassionata Vonlimax.

The Tech version of the popular musical comedy is based on the famous Al Capp comic strip. Dogpatch provides the scene of action. The plot, a mixture of hillbilly nonsense and critical humor, involves the local inhabitants in a desperate effort to prevent the government from seizing their "unnecessary" community as a suitable site for nuclear tests.

The production is being directed by Charles Lawrie and Charles Ree, both of the Texas Tech music faculty. Music will be provided by the Tech Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Paul Ellsworth.

In 1961, House Speaker Sam Rayburn died.

Steel Executive Says Progress Is Not Most Imported Product

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — "Progress is not our most imported product," Roger M. Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel, today declared in answering charges that the steel industry has been backward in its technology.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Indiana Manufacturers' Association, Mr. Blough step by step attacked the charges that the steel industry has been lacking in its research and development of new products and processes.

Noting that whenever the subject of steel quotas arises, the importers seek to show that the American steel industry has been backward in its research and in adopting processes developed abroad, Mr. Blough said that the average output per manhour in the American steel industry is higher than any other steel producing nation in the free world.

"So there must be some other explanation of the advantage which imported steel enjoys in the market place. Could it lie in the fact that wages and benefits paid by foreign producers are from 25 to about 40 dollars a ton lower than paid in the United States?" Mr. Blough asked. "And have our detractors stopped to figure out that to overcome a 40-dollar disadvantage in employment costs, we would have to cut the manhours required to make a ton of steel from the present low level of 13 down to a miraculous 4? That's quite a trick if we could do it!"

Noting the administration's strong criticism concerning the request for steel quotas, Mr. Blough stated that recently "Washington was deeply distressed by the fact that certain imported dairy products were taking a little more than 2 per cent of the American market; so the President promptly imposed new quotas cutting these imports to less than one per cent. And thus, if you will forgive me he doubtless saved the jobs of thousands of good American cows. So today, when foreign steel imports are claiming some 12 per cent of the domestic market, it seems reasonable to expect that government will take adequate steps to protect the jobs of thousands of good American people."

Observing that critics of the steel industry tend to use the basic oxygen process as a major example of our claimed inadequacy, Mr. Blough pointed out that when this process was first introduced in Europe the furnaces were much too small to be used to the maximum advantage on the American scale of steelmaking which required much larger vessels.

Mr. Blough further pointed out that these early furnaces produced a limited range of steels; they required large quantities of oxygen which were not then available in this country at any cost; they required more durable refractory than any available; they required larger proportions of molten iron than open-hearth furnaces which would necessitate the building of additional coke ovens, blast furnaces, the larger development of ore sources and create serious air pollution problems.

Reporting that the full potential of the basic oxygen process will only be realized when it is successfully teamed with large scale continuous casting units, Mr. Blough said, "United States Steel has been investigating, researching and developing this process for thirty-five years; and today — after the expenditure of more than one thousand man-years in laboratory, pilot-plant and engineering studies — the first large-scale, commercial continuous slab-casting facility in the United States has been built at our plant in Gary, Indiana, where it is undergoing its break-in operations."

Outlining many new products that have contributed to both our domestic and defense efforts, Mr. Blough said, "You will realize, I know, that I have not even scratched the surface of the technological and product developments that have been born of American research; but I hope that I have told you enough to convince you that, in steel, progress is not our most imported product."

In conclusion, Mr. Blough cited the major investments made by American steel producers in new and improved facilities; and today the industry is spending an estimated 150 million dollars annually on research. And to give you an idea of the extent of this research at present, United States Steel alone will be working on more than eleven hundred separate research projects in the coming year."

PRICES RISE
LONDON (UPI)—Butchers began raising meat prices today because of an increase in transportation costs caused by the closing of many markets in an effort to halt an epidemic of hoof and mouth disease. Nearly 83,000 cattle, sheep, goats and pigs have been slaughtered since the disease was detected Oct. 25.

VICTIMS BURIED
BROOKWOOD, England (UPI)—Nineteen persons killed in the Nov. 4 crash of an Iberia Airlines Caravelle jet south of London were buried Thursday in a common grave. Thirty-seven persons died in the crash of the Malaga-London flight near the small village of Fernhurst.
