Eden Says There Is No Question Of Any Conflict

LEAGUE IS TOLD NO POLITICAL OR ECONOMIC OPPOSITION IN QUESTION; ITALIANS ARE CONFIDENT OF DIPLOMATIC VICTORY

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
Associated Press Foreign Staff

GENEVA, Sept. 4—Anthony Eden, British cabinet minister, assured the League of Nations council today that there can be no question of any political or economic conflict between Great Britain and Italy.

Eden told the council that conflict between Great Britain and Italy was impossible because the latter nation had promised to respect Great Britain's interests in Ethiopia "and Great Britain is sure these interests will be respected in the future."

ROME, Sept. 4 (AP)—Italy was confident today that it would win a sweeping diplomatic victory in the council of the League of Nations.

Informed circles were convinced that Great Britain's position had been so weakened by the events of the last few days—including the participation of Francis M. Rickett, a Briton, in negotiations for the Ethiopian oil concessions to an American corporation—that it abandon any effort to obtain support for imposition of sanctions.

Official circles tossed off with a shrug the ruling of the Ualual conciliation commission, which was, in effect, that neither

GIVES BLUNT WARNING

GENEVA, Sept. 4 (AP)—Italy bluntly warned the League of Nations today that she could not longer discuss her controversy with Ethiopia "at the league on a footing of equality with Ethiopia."

This declaration, made by Baron Pompeo Aloisi, the league representative of Premier Mussolini, followed a placating gesture by Anthony Eden, British cabinet minister.

"Italy," declared Aloisi, "refuses to recognize that the equality and privileges of league members should be given Ethiopia, which has not fulfilled her obligation. . . .

"Italy reserves complete liberty of action so as to adopt all measures which may become necessary for the security of her colonies and for safeguarding her interests."

Observers interpreted his statement to mean that Italy may resort to the military occupation of the East African empire.

Italy nor Ethiopia could be blamed for the frontier fatalities of last year.

Far more devastating diplomatic grapeshot, it was asserted, was contained in a 700-page description of the Italian position prepared for the council. On this document, it was

ELLIOTT GIVES UP HIS YOUNG DEMOS POST

ROOSEVELT'S SON SAYS HE HAS RESIGNED TEXAS OFFICE

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Sept. 4—Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, said today he had resigned as first vice president of the Young Democrats of Texas, a post his political foes had contended in bitter word battles that only a native Texan should hold.

The junior Roosevelt said he had relinquished the post on Aug. 6.

Two attempts had been made to have him forcibly removed from office, leaders of the movement maintaining he had been illegally elected by the executive committee and that he was not well versed in political and governmental affairs of Texas because of his short residence in the state.

Suggests "Native Son"

Young Roosevelt said he submitted a recommendation with the unconditional resignation that some "native son" be selected for his position.

The resignation was contained in a letter to Raymond Buck of Fort Worth, chairman of the executive committee.

"I was not forced out," said Roosevelt. "Agitation over my office had ceased, but I wanted it to be a matter of record when the Texas delegates went to the national convention at Milwaukee."

STATE LEGION FOR BONUS

SESSION IS ON RECORD FOR PAYMENT; GOENS NAMED COMMANDER

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Sept. 4—The Texas department of the American Legion was on record today as favoring "immediate payment of cash soldiers' bonus in a way that will not create new taxes or additional debt."

The resolution, passed last night at the state convention after a talk by Congressman Wright Patman of Texarkana, author of the bonus bill, also proposed that rail interest paid [illegible] he refunded.

To Continue Trying

"I tell you my friends," Patman said, "I'm going to do everything I can to see that you boys get this money. We'll try to get it without increasing taxes or the national debt if possible, but if we can't get it any other way, we'll take it that way."

Patman was author of the bill which proposed to pay the bonues by issuing new currency. The bill passed in congress but did not become a law because the senate sustained President Roosevelt's veto.

The convention also voted to urge the Texas legislature to require all

OFFICIALS ARE RUSHED WITH PROJECTS

SEVERAL COUNTIES IN AREA ARE NEAR THEIR QUOTA

Amount of projects received by Works Progress administration district offices Tuesday and up to Wednesday afternoon boosted the total amount above $1,000,000, it was announced at headquarters today.

Added to the $688,413.61 in applications for WPA funds received Tuesday were three projects Wednesday morning totaling $28,113, making the present total $1,013,036.61.

OFFICES RUSHED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—A rush reminiscent of CWA's drive to employ 4,000,000 men in 30 days was on today in the control room of the administration's present effort to end the dole. W. M. Colton, chief of the project control division, announced that PWA applications had jumped to around $100,000,000 a day since President Roosevelt set September 12 as the deadline for getting them to the capital.

Under the president's plan, his advisory allotment board is to take final action on allocation of funds September 12.

STORM-TOSSED AREAS LOOK LIKE THIS

A roaring hurricane ripping across the Florida Keys and the State of Florida, itself, is leaving in its wake a countryside of shambles. The picture below gives an idea of what the wrecked sections look like. It was taken by Associated Press more than two years ago and shows Mercedes, in the Valley, after Texas' last bad hurricane.

HURRICANE CONTINUES SWEEP OF FLORIDA AREAS; CAMPS OF WAR VETS DEMOLISHED

REPORTS COMING IN TODAY TELL OF VAST DESTRUCTION AND LOSS OF LIFE; TOLL OF FATALITIES IN AREA MAY BE HIGHER

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 4—With rescuers estimating the death toll at between 400 and 500, part of the extent of devastation on the hurricane-swept Florida Keys was learned today from survivors and from expeditions of mercy and aid.

All of the forces of the government were joined with the Red Cross in rushing supplies to the areas of death and wreckage and in evacuating the debris-littered Keys.

The heaviest loss of life, rescuers reported, was on upper and lower Matecumbe Keys and in the fishing villages along Plantation Key and Key Largo.

Camps Demolished

Two of the three government camps on the Matecumbe Keys, where war veterans are engaged in building a highway down the Keys to Key West, were reported completely demolished.

A rescue party out of Miami, led by Jack Combs, an undertaker assigned to organize identification of the dead, reported between 400 and 500 persons were killed in this area.

Hotel Collapses

Many of those who died on Matecumbe Key were crushed in the collapse of the Snake Creek hotel, which was used as a hospital at the camp.

Among these was Dr. E. C. Main, medical director of the camp.

The word of Dr. Main's death was brought to the mainland by Dr. Lasser Alexander, a medical examiner at the camp.

Graphically, Dr. Alexander described the Monday night of horror:

"I was at Snake Creek hotel, which was [illegible] lapsed about 10 p. m. with many persons under the ruins. There were about 40 patients in this building, about half of them women and children. Out of this number, there were only seven men and three or four of the women saved.

"When we found the water still rising, we made our way to the railroad track. We dug holes into the earth under the cross ties so we could protect our heads from the flying debris. This was the only way we could keep our brains from being crushed out. We stayed on the railroad track until 3 a. m. (Tuesday) as that was the only place above water.

Tank Offers Refuge

"At daybreak Tuesday, we found a tank car full of water which offered refuge."

An Associated Press correspondent in Miami, who flew over the devastated Keys area, reported:

"Below Tavernier to the Vaca Keys, in the region that bore the brunt of the tropical hurricane, almost nothing man-made remains. Nothing is whole, undamaged.

"Houses are twisted piles of matchwood. Boats are piled high on dry land, shattered and twisted.

"The veterans camps are literally flat. The lumber that went into

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 4—I've just come back from flying over the stranded Morgan liner Dixie and the storm-lashed Florida Keys.

The 8,100 ton Dixie, 372 souls aboard her, lies hard and fast on French Key, headed south. From the air she looks to be all right, although she lists slightly to starboard.

Her passengers are all still aboard. A dozen other ships cluster fanwise, protectively about her stern, but no lifeboats were in the water.

Passengers Seem Cheerful

The passengers seem cheerful, unworried. Most are dressed in sport clothes. Lining the rails, they cheered and waved as we circled about them.

Below Tavernier to the Vaca Keys—in the region that bore the brunt of the tropical hurricane now sweeping along Florida's northwest coast—almost nothing man-made stands. Nothing is whole, undamaged.

They tell me here deaths in the area are estimated as high as seven hundred.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 4 (AP)—Tropical radio reported rescue vessels encircling the grounded Morgan liner Dixie were preparing to start transfer of passengers.

While no lifeboats had been yet launched, the masters were said to be conferring on procedure. The weather had moderated considerably.

AVIATORS HERE FOR DUSTING

TWO SHREVEPORT MEN INVESTIGATE WORM DAMAGE IN AREA

Two experienced aviators, who have spent [illegible] months in dusting cotton fields in the Brazos river bottoms of Texas, are here in Lubbock to contact farmers who might be interested in poisoning for leaf worms and other pests.

T. E. Stinson and Clay Porter, Shreveport, are the two men. They came up in a car and if there is sufficient interest, will bring up their plane, equipped for dusting.

Worked In Brazos Area

"We have been working in the Brazos river area this summer," Mr. Stinson said. "They don't do any other kind of poisoning there but by plane. We thought that there might be some work up this way, with so much rain and so many reports of worms."

Calcium arsenate or lead arsenate are the most popular kinds of poison used. Sometimes sulphur is mixed, but generally lime, with the poison. Lead and lime are mixed at the ratio of 48 pounds of lead poison to 50 pounds of lime.

AMARILLO, Sept. 4 (AP)—The feeble but proud remnant of the boys who wore the Gray in the Civil War united today to forget any differences that might have remained and meet with the Grand Army of the Republic in a joint reunion at Gettysburg in 1938.

The Confederate veterans voted unanimously to accept an invitation to the proposed Blue and Gray reunion on the Gettysburg battlefield, where nearly 30,000 soldiers lost their lives in a three-day battle in 1863.

Return Reunion Agreed

The victim is "Dickie" Strickland, 2 1-2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Strickland, 2124 Twenty-eighth street. The child will recover providing further complications do not set in.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Tuesday night, the youngster came running to his parents from another room at the residence, yelling that something was biting him.

Muscles Drawn

By the time a doctor had been called, kernels of lymphatic fluid had risen on the back of the child's neck. Shortly afterward, severe cramps in the region of the stomach and drawing up of muscles in his legs and over his body denoted the poison had entered the second stage of attack. The child suffered pains and delirious spells during the night.

Wednesday morning, treatments of hot baths and medicine had given the child relief, and his muscles were relaxing.

CHECK REVEALS ERROR IN CAMPBELL'S TIME—MAKES OVER 300 MILES HOUR

BY RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 4, (AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell and his Bluebird racer were poised today for a triumphant return to England with a record—finally computed correctly—of 301.1292 miles an hour on land.

A "silly mistake"—the words were Sir Malcolm's—kept the "human bullet" for hours in the belief he had failed on the Bonneville salt flats to achieve his dream of a mile in 12 seconds.

The fact he had bettered his previous record of 276.816 miles an hour by more than 23 miles, as originally figured by the timers, brought only a wry face and a declaration he would have to "go through it all again" Thursday.

It was far into the night before the officials of the American Automobile association sent word hurriedly to the intrepid driver, with many apologies, that they had made a mistake.

The announcement brought from Campbell the declaration he was

"DOLLAR DIPLOMACY" IS NO LONGER A POLICY OF U. S. GOVERNMENT—F. D. R.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 4. (AP)—President Roosevelt expressed the hope today the cancellation of the Ethiopian land lease would aid peace negotiations abroad and declared the cancellation "another proof that since March 4, 1933, dollar diplomacy is not recognized by the American government."

Talking with newspapermen at the regular semi-weekly press conference, the president observed that by no stretch of the imagination had he or the secretary of state been the least concerned over the possibility of the oil lease to private interests in this country involving the U. S. in the Ethiopian or Italian problem.

Will Clear The Air

He said that no one who knows the administration would think that it could be involved. The only danger, he said, would be the effect of the lease on the negotiations of the European powers and Ethiopia now getting under way at Geneva.

The withdrawal of the lease he

Gly-Cas Wastes No Time In Conquering His Stubborn Stomach Trouble: Mr. Lane Also Freed of Dizziness, Nervous Spells —Like New Again

Gly-Cas is helping people all over Lubbock and vicinity who never before had been given any actual relief by any other medicine or treatment. Read what Mr. Jesse Lane,

MR. JESSE LANE

411 Ave. R, Lubbock well known and respected local gentleman, said recently to the Gly-Cas Man who is daily meeting crowds of local people at the Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, where he is introducing and explaining the action of this valuable new medical discovery:

"For the past several years my diet was always chosen for me," said Mr. Lane. "I would suffer terribly with gas, bloating and indigestion regardless of what I ate and there were many foods I dared not touch at all for the suffering they would cause would be unbearable. I could never eat pickles, onions, candy, cake or rich foods of any kind. I would often have vomiting spells, would become dizzy and could not sleep at night. Finally my system accumulated so many poisons rheumatism took hold of my body, my arms and feet would swell so at times it was impossible for me to do my work. I tried different kinds of medicines but did not seem able to find anything to help me. And when I began to hear so much praise for Gly-Cas I couldn't believe it would be so different from the medicines I had already taken —but a short trial soon proved its remarkable difference."

"For the first time in years I can now sit down to a meal and enjoy it," continued Mr. Lane." I can eat the foods I dared not touch before and even drink sweet milk without any stomach distress afterwards. My health troubles have been brought to an end by Gly-Cas. I sleep fine the entire night through, nerves quieted, my stomach and kidneys are in fine condition, bowels regulated, pains have been relieved and I am again enjoying the health I had been looking forward to for many years. Gly-Cas is one medicine of outstanding ability."

Weather Varies In Lubbock Past Month

Range of 44 degrees between the minimum and maximum temperatures for August, featured the monthly weather report issued by Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment station here.

Maximum was 103 and minimum 59. Mean temperature was 80.1 degrees.

Precipitation was 1.69 inches, .35 inch below the normal of 2.04. Added to the precipitation records of the other seven months of 1935 the year's total was run up to only 10.65 inches, 1.65 inches less than the eight-month normal of 12.30.

Breezes Are Light

Even the breezes did little about the matter of insufficient moisture, windmills turning less than they are supposed to in August. For the total windrun was 3,609 miles, as compared with the August normal of 4,180.

Mean temperature was 80.1 degrees. Maximum relative humidity was 89 per cent, minimum 35, mean 56.7. Total evaporation was 8.966 inches.

There were 17 clear, 10 partly cloudy and 4 cloudy days.

HIS EXCELLENCY--

THE GOVERNOR OF ARIZONA

A soft-voiced "country doctor," Benjamin Baker Moeur, is serving his second term as governor of Arizona. . . . He boasts that he neither looks nor acts like a governor. . . . He had never dabbled in politics and was unknown when he announced his candidacy. . . . "Somebody has got to do something about taxes and wasteful governmental expenditures," he told his family. "I'm going to run for governor." . . . No one took his announcement or candidacy seriously. . . . The babies he had brought into the world during more than 35 years of practicing medicine, and their mothers, were a big factor in his election. . . . He boasts that he never sent a bill "to a widow or a preacher." He marked "paid" the bills of all his creditors who enlisted in the World war. . . . Although 64 years old, he occasionally indulges in fisticuffs, but has promised Mrs. Moeur he will do no more fighting so long as he is governor. . . . He has accumulated considerable wealth, but still lives in the same house—remodeled—into which he moved when he came to the little valley town of Tempe 39 years ago. . . . "I'm a damned good Democrat," Governor Moeur insists, and a staunch supporter of the New Deal.

GRAPPLING TONIGHT at the open air arena. The Masked Marvel, who has not met his conqueror in these parts, and Jack Domar, who has seen the best of his wrestling days, meet in a return main go. From this corner it looks like the Marvel again.

The supporting card promises to be better than usual. Doc Mueller and Cliff Chambers clash in the semi-windup, and if the Doc can fix his Morpheus clutch on Chambers that will be all right, too. Don Kent, a newcomer, may try to put the split on John La Rue in the prelim, but it won't do him any good.

Look out for the announcement next week that Buck Weaver and the Marvel will clash in the main go Wednesday night. They were due to go on this week, but Promoter Allen was unable to close the deal in time.

PETE CAWTHON and Dutchy Smith, rulers of the Texas Tech athletic roost, came home yesterday from vacations. Dutchy hadn't much to report after a rocking chair visit "back home," and until he returned we didn't expect much news out of Cawthon, who said he was going to retreat to the Arkansas hills, find the biggest piece of soft pine and the sharpest knife and do nothing but whittle until time for fall training.

But the football bug bit the head coach and instead of spending a whittling vacation in Arkansas, he tore out for Chicago and the Bears-All-Star grid frolic. And he had plenty to tell about that, and other things that happened.

Cawthon motored to Chicago, but he didn't motor all the way back. An auto driven by a guy overflowing with holiday spirits sideswiped Pete's car between Little Rock and the rear fender, and the latter machine was laid up for repairs, Pete and his family coming home by train and "lucky to be coming home at all." Tragedy was narrowly averted, and the mishap all but spoiled the vacation.

IN CHICAGO, Cawthon looked over Soldier Field, where the Matadors play De Paul on October 12, while looking at the professional Bears wallop the dickens out of the ex-collegians; met a lot of coaches who had been here and who complimented him for putting on the best coaching school in America; contacted other coaches with the idea of bringing them here as coaching school instructors, and visited with Gwynn "Mule" Dowell, who is training with the Chicago Cardinals preparatory to a professional football season.

The Tech mentor lingered with each subject in detail, and Cawthon can remember more about a trip he has taken "than anyone we've ever known.

All the color, all the glamour, all the attractiveness that makes football the modern king of sports were emphasized and improved upon at the all-star game, and, take it from Pete, it's enough to send chilly thrills up and down even a veteran coach's back to witness such a spectacle.

For instance: Just before the game, the lights were doused, and across one end of the field was stretched the American flag—a flag as wide as the gridiron, and about 100 feet high. The bands played the national anthem, and the stands cut loose vocally, a chorus of nearly 80,000. It was a sight and an experience never to be forgotten.

Before the lights went on, a huge "spot" turned to the door of the runway to the dressing rooms for players, and the All-Stars came out, one at a time. As the player appeared under the spotlight, he was introduced over the loud speaker, and the bands played his school song until he reached midfield. That must have been something to see and hear. The All-Stars were dressed in sparkling uniforms, yellow satin jersies, silver silk pants, yellow socks, silver headgear.

THE LIGHTS went on—it costs the owners of Soldier Field $300 every time they turn on the lights, which is one reason Tech and De Paul are going to play an afternoon game (thank Heaven)—and the Bears came out and the game got going. And it was a game, Cawthon says, worthy of the ballyhoo and the hip-hooray. The All-Stars, 40 All-Americans, were fairly outclassed by the bigger, rougher, tougher professionals, which was to be expected, but they played heads up football and made a game out of it.

"And if you think this professional football is a pink-tea, soft-sofa business, you've got another think coming," warns Cawthon, who admitted surprise at the workmanlike manner in which the Bears went about their work. "They seem to have as much spirit and as much team work as the college teams, and when they hit you, you're hit, brother; you're hit plenty! These boys are playing for something besides the alma mater."

THERE IS SPACE to say something about Dowell, one of the greatest halfbacks Texas Tech and the Southwest has ever known. Several teams had offered him try-out contracts, and when he left here several weeks ago it was the general thought that he was going with the Pittsburgh Pirates. He winds up with the Cardinals in Chicago, and is looking good, Pete says, in workouts. Cawthon witnessed several Cardinal practice sessions, and came away with the thought that Dowell was about as good, fundamentally, as any of them. His coaches like his work on spin plays in particular. His only drawback is lack of weight. In college he was a good-sized halfback, weighing around 190 to 197 pounds. He is down to around 85 now, which is light for professional backfield work.

If Dowell doesn't stick with the Cardinals, however, he may go to the New York Giants. The Giant manager talked with Cawthon, or corresponded with him, and said that if the Cardinals didn't want him, he'd take the former Matador.

Harry Newman, former star quarterback at Michigan (he helped Kipke at the 1934 coaching school here) who was such a holdout with the Giants, is a holdout this season. The Giants so far have refused to give in to his demands. The Giants are a trifle short on backfield men, and they've heard considerable about Dowell. They even offered him a contract this summer, but the Cardinal bid was better. The Cardinals, however, have a wealth of backfield material. If they should let Dowell go, he's pretty sure to find a berth with New York.

TERRY MOANS OVER FATE OF GIANTS

RAIN IS CAUSING NEW YORK TO FALL BEHIND CARDS

(By The Associated Press)

Dolorous Bill Terry looked up at the black skies, felt the rain falling and bemoaned the turn of events that seemed to him to be dictated by a malicious fate.

The Giants, just one game behind the Cardinals on Labor day, had hoped to sweep a doubleheader with the Phils while wishing ill luck to the Cards, who were engaged in a double bill with the Pirates.

The rain washed out the Giant games while the Cards bagged two and went two up on the New Yorkers in the league standing.

Rained Out Again

Rain caused postponement of the doubleheader again yesterday, and Terry and his men disconsolately packed their bags and set off for Cincinnati with some tough jousting ahead if they would fly the bunting at the end of the tourney.

They must battle on foreign fields and against worthy foes whereas the Cardinals draw some soft picking in their own ball yard.

The Cubs, only a half game behind the Giants, also will be entertaining at home. With the second division Phils, Braves and Dodgers scheduled to be their guests, they loom as a strong threat to bust right out in front of the present leaders.

Tigers Far Ahead

The only bright spot in the coming drive, as far as the Giants are concerned, is that the season closes with the Cards and Cubs in each other's hair, while the Giants will be engaging Brooklyn and the tail-end Braves.

With the Tigers drifting farther and farther away from the pack in the American league, the old cry of too great a concentration of power has been sounded again. It was the same cry that went up in the Ruthian heyday of the Yanks and it has brought about an early discussion of trades.

With the games rained out in all sectors yesterday, the dopesters sat around and discussed possibilities. It is known that the Yanks intend to bolster their outfield and infield with new talent, Washington is preparing to sell or barter, and Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox has signified his intention of swapping gold for hitting power.

Connie Mack is reported ready to consider cash offers for Higgins and Foxx while Mickey Cochrane may let Walker and Owen go.

Slaton Woman Has Paid Taxes Wrong For Past 12 Years

Mrs. F. D. Young of Slaton for 12 years paid taxes on a 246-acre tract of land in Lynn county, on the Lubbock-Lynn county line, believing the land was one the north side of the county line and in Union school district.

Discovery of the error was made by Earl Merriman, an auditor who is auditing the books of the Wilson [illegible] in which the land is located.

Mrs. Young thought the entire farm which she owns, was in Lubbock county. Taxes were paid in this county. When Mr. Merriman went to check up the ownership, he found Mrs. Young had receipts from the tax collector for the district as well as for state and county taxes from Lubbock county.

This year the land was rendered in the Lynn county school district.

How the question of payment of taxes will be settled between the districts, and the counties, has not been decided. State taxes of course go to the state.

Drilling Is Resumed On Test In Cochran

Drilling has been resumed in the Humble Oil and Gas Co. No. 1 C. C. Slaughter on league 135, Armstrong county school land in Cochran county, south and west of Lehman. The 15 1-2-inch pipe was cemented at 150 feet.

Location is 6,000 feet north and 5,600 feet west of the old Mariand No. 1. It is also near the old Continental test.

The test was spudded in last week. It is located about five miles southwest of Lehman and nearly the same distance south and east of Haven switch.

Rowan Drilling Co. has the contract. It is to be a 5,000 foot bottom of the hole job unless oil or gas is found above that depth.

Rotary equipment will be used for about 2,000 feet, when a change to standard is to be made. The rig, according to reports, is heavy enough for drilling to considerably below 5,000 feet.

OKLAHOMA CITY MAINTAINS LEAD IN TEXAS LEAGUE

(By The Associated Press)

Five teams remained in the Texas league pennant race today with Oklahoma City in the lead. Oklahoma City, Beaumont, and Galveston, according to percentage standings, were sure of being in the playoff. Tulsa and San Antonio still faced a fight for fourth place.

Oklahoma City maintained its lead of one and one-half games over Beaumont last night by winning from Dallas, 7-1.

Cast-off Licks Cats

Murray Howell, Fort Worth cast-off, played left field for Tulsa and led the Oilers to a 2-1 victory over his former teammates. Howell hit a home run for the Oilers' first tally in the fourth. Then he stole second and home in the ninth for the winning margin over Fort Worth.

San Antonio got off to a flying start and handed Houston its tenth consecutive defeat, 5-3.

BONDS ARE "WELL OVERSUBSCRIBED"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau announced last night a $500,000,000 treasury borrowing had been "well over-subscribed."

He made the statement to the press with obvious pleasure. The $500,000,000 issue of 3 1-2 year 1 1-2 per cent notes had been offered to the money market within a week of the treasury's failure to obtain a full subscription on a $100,000,000 farm mortgage issue.

The treasury head declined to advance an explanation for the difference in the market last week and this. Said the subscription books were closed on the $500,000,000 cash offering of notes.

They will remain open until further notice for holders of $1,125,000,000 in called liberty bonds to exchange them for new bonds or notes.

The financing announcement came as treasury figures showed that, collecting 46 cents for every dollar spent, a deficit of $663,594,078 had been rolled up in the first two months of the financial year.

Texas League Club Owners Plan Finals

DALLAS, Sept. 4. (AP)—Plans for the Shaughnessy playoff for the Texas league pennant were before club owners today. J. Alvin Gardner, president of the loop, asked the owners to meet with him to work out the details.

The regular schedule will end Sunday, and officials had expressed the belief that the first round of the playoff probably would start the following Wednesday.

According to the plans, the club finishing in first place would play the fourth place club while the second and third teams would meet in the other series of the first round for the best three out of five games. Winners of these two series would fight it out until one team won four decisions, and the right to represent the league against the Southern association champion in the Dixie series.

Jax Leading Tyler In West Dixie Play

TYLER, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Jacksonville Jax held a commanding lead over the Tyler Trojans in the second round of the Shaughnessy playoff in the West Dixie league today.

They won their second straight game, 7 to 4, here last night and need only one more victory to earn the right to meet the Pine Bluff Judges, champions of the East Dixie loop, for the Little Dixie championship.

Taking advantage of every break in the first five innings, the Jax counted their seven runs on three hits, two of them homers by Cy Cashion and John Tobin.

An orchestra, formed by letter carriers of Nashville, Tenn., is regarded as one of the best in the city.

SOUTHERN CAL. MEN SMALL THIS YEAR

DAYS OF FIDDLE-FEET GIANTS ARE OVER, SAYS JONES

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles on football prospects at leading universities and colleges for the 1935 season).

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4 (AP)—Grid giants are out at the University of Southern California this year.

This was the emphatic announcement of Coach Howard Jones today as he pondered over the task of salvaging from the 1934 season's wreckage material for the coming season.

"We had too many men on the team last year," said Troy's head man sadly, "who couldn't handle their weight. If I wasn't convinced before, I am now, that size doesn't determine strength of a football player.

No Drastic Changes

"Of course a big man who can handle himself is all right but they are scarce. We saw plenty of players weighing 175 to 180 pounds last year who could put a 200 pounder out of the play.

So the order has gone out from the Trojan grid battlements to reduce and the incoming reports are favorable to Coach Jones.

Troy's mentor plans no drastic changes in his football setup to bring his team back into its winning stride. He is going to give the line, which was so weak a year ago, concentrated personal attention, convinced that if the forwards function properly the offense and defense will pretty well take care of themselves.

To Toss Laterals

"Open up the offense and throw laterals? Sure," he said, "if we can find players capable of handling them. But my team is not going to throw the ball around a lot because it is the popular thing to do and have the passes fail.

"Ambition on the part of the players is our element of hope.

"We are in a better position to have a good team than we were last year."

The schedule:

Sept. 28—Montana. Oct. 4—College of the Pacific. Oct. 12—Illinois. Oct. 19—Oregon State. Oct. 26—California at Berkeley. Nov. 9—Stanford. Nov. 16 — Washington State. Nov. 23 — Notre Dame at South Bend. Dec. 7—Washington. Dec. 14—Pittsburgh. Dec. 25—Honolulu League champions at Honolulu. Jan. 1—U. of Hawaii at Honolulu.

Eddie Morgan Wins Big Spring Tourney

BIG SPRING, Sept. 4 (AP)—Eddie Morgan, 23-year-old Big Spring golfer, payed true to form from start to finish to win the annual Big Spring Country club invitation tournament.

He started by taking medal honors and wound up Tuesday by brushing aside J. C. Southworth of Sweetwater, 7 and 6, in the 36-hole final to win the tourney.

DOMAR AND MASK BATTLE IN RETURN EMBROGLIO AT ALLEN ARENA TONIGHT

Jack Domar, Cincinnati mat-villain, and The Masked Marvel meet in a return match in the main event of the Arena's wrestling program tonight.

Not long ago they battled for three falls and everywhere but in the ring Domar took the first fall but The Mask, feeling he had lost because of skullduggery, chased Domar, hot-foot, into the dressing room, and continued the battle.

The last two falls Domar took quite a beating although he never would admit it, and he has been seeking a return go with the Mask since then. He gets his big opportunity tonight, but the dope indicator leans toward another Marvel victory. Not however until the fans have witnessed a pitched battle in which everything but the ringposts probably will feature.

The Mask and the Domar have got to hump tonight if they hold up their end of the bargain bill, but due to the lack of brotherly love between them, they're due to kick up enough excitement to make the folks forget what precedes the main go.

Before the main eventers go on, there'll be a couple of potentially powerful contests in the preliminary and semi-final matches, the whole card is full of action and rough stuff, with the possible exception of the curtain raiser. John La Rue, the comedy star from Dallas who can do funny and effective things with a pair of rubber-like legs, takes on a newcomer to this territory in Don Kent, who hails from Tennessee. Little is known of Kent's style but his record, according to Promoter Allen, qualifies him for a place in the show.

There'll be plenty of fireworks in the special event featuring Cliff Chambers, the slugging, choking, biting Dallas grappler, and the veteran chiro-grappler, Doc Eddie Mueller of Austin.

Neither Mueller nor Chambers is liked here, and the fans won't care what they do to each other. They will be glad indeed if Mueller applies his sleep hold to the unethical Chambers, and few tears will be shed if Chambers fails to wake up in time to clear the ring for the main event.

Eckhardt Leads In Batting In Minors

DURHAM, N. C., Sept. 4 (AP)—Oscar Eckhardt of the San Francisco Missions took full advantage of his closest's rival's slump the past week and forged ahead in the sprint for the batting championship of the minor leagues.

The Coast league slugger gained an appreciable edge with an average of .407, while Chet Laabs of Fort Wayne in the Three-I circuit, in a rut since his return to action following an injury, dropped to .398.

SECURITIES COMMISSION STRIKES AT ATTEMPT ON "SAVINGS OF TEACHERS"

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The Securities commission has struck sharply at what it called "an enterprise to deal in an irresponsible fashion with the small savings of school teachers."

In addition to blocking a proposed nationwide issue of $750,000 endowment bonds by the National Educators Mutual association of Nashville, Tenn., the commission assailed the organization's officers, including certain Tennessee educators, for "demonstrated untruthfulness and misfeasance."

Statement Made

The nature of the case, said a commission statement, made it "not only desirable but imperative to file these findings and this opinion, so that the untruthfulness and the unfairness of the registrant's officers should be a matter of public record."

The commission expressed the hope that "no future prospect will be left unaware of the danger of entrusting the small savings derived from school teaching in the hands of men who upon this record and by their own admissions have demonstrated untruthfulness and misfeasance in positions of trust and confidence."

Lash At Contracts

Lashing out at the contracts attached to "this so-called bond," the commission said "the Supreme court has upheld the action of a state securities commission in declaring a contract as fraudulent whose terms were less scandalous."

The commission found that although the bonds, sold for $750 in five annual installments, were supposed to be redeemable in 10 years for $1,000, a parenthetical statement in "much smaller type" specified payment was to consist of "$75 cash and $250 stock."

This stock, described as having a "stated value of $50 a share," was issued to organizers of the association for 10 cents a share, the commission said, adding that the association has "now stipulated that the stated value of these shares is 10 cents." Instead of getting stock valued at $250 the commission said, the bondholders would get five shares which cost promoters "a mere 50 cents."

SHIELDS TACKLES PERRY, ALLISON MEETS MAKO IN NET MATCHES TODAY

BY BOB CAVAGNARO
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 4 (AP)—Fred J. Perry of England has one virtue that no other player in the 54th Men's national singles tennis championship can claim.

It is consistency.

Perry can and at times does turn in an indifferent performance, but not when anything is at stake. He wasn't too impressive in his early matches but his exhibition in trouncing Frankie Parker, fourth-ranking American, dissipated any notion the defending champion would take undue chances.

Wants To Be First

He wants to be the first foreigner to win the American title three times.

Perry's next opponent is Frank Shields, No. 3 on the United States list. The one player in the home-bred ranks considered to have much chance of extending Perry is young Don Budge of Oakland, Calif., a sensation at Wimbledon this year. They are prospective finalists.

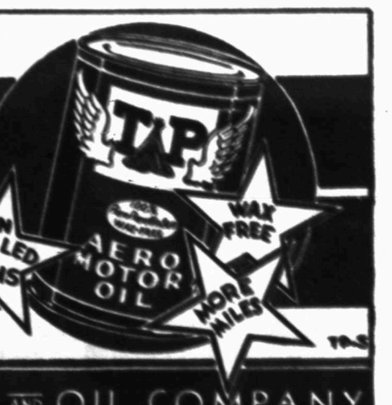

As the result of yesterday's rain, which caused the second postponement since the men's, women's and veterans' championships started last Thursday, the men's final now is scheduled for Sunday at the earliest.

Today's program calls for fourth-round men's matches pitting Wilmer Allison against Gene Mako and Roderich Menzel against Gregory S. Mangin.

YOU hear a lot of idle conversation about Parker county watermelons, from down Weatherford way, and it is a fact that Lamb and Terry county melons are pretty good, too.

But The Plainsman is from Missouri—he's gotta be shown a melon any better than a sample of Lubbock county melons brought in to The Journal gang yesterday by F. M. Roberts.

Mr. Roberts has 15 acres set to melons—the Kleckley sweet variety—near the state experiment station east of Lubbock. He employs irrigation in raising them.

The 45-pounder he brought in yesterday was as sweet as any melon ever grown and was "red to the rind".

You can't beat that kind of watermelon.

Not to run into competition with the Literary Digest's lexicographer, Dr. Frank Vizetelly; or with Miss Margaret Turner, who says she's a lexicographer, too, but the correct pronounciation of the Ethiopian capital is as if spelled this way: "Ah DEES Ah-BWAH-bwah", the accent on the second syllable of the first word; the second syllable of the second word and the "b's" in "Ababa" as soft as the "b" in the Spanish word, "buenos".

THE members of the Texas Prison commission are distressed over the resignation of Lee Simmons as general manager of the state's penal system", said the commissioner, W. A. Paddock, of Houston.

And well they may be.

Lee Simmons took the prison management in 1930, ironed out the numerous financial rough spots, put it on a business basis and, at times, actually made money for the state of Texas out of it.

In other words, he was so highly treasonable to the popular conception of public stewardship that he used private methods in the operation of the people's business and did well at it!

The League of Nations looks like nothing more than a detour on the road to war—and not a very big detour, at that.

GLENN HESS tells this story on himself, so he's got nobody but himself to blame if it gets around town.

The Plainsman's pit bulldog, 40 pounds of muscle and big enough to put a saddle on at seven months old, wandered into the Lubbock Auto company the other day and spent the morning, after which folks down there got tired of having him around and sent The Plainsman an SOS call. While the dog—his name is Deadline—was down there one of the salesmen saw him and remarked:

"I'll be doggoned. If he had his collar open I'd think he was Glenn Hess!"

Personally, The Plainsman would never have thought of that. Honest, Deadline is about the best looking bulldog in the country, with the exception of his full brother, Thirty, property of Editor Morley B. Drake, of Littlefield's Lamb County Leader!

THE officers of the Texas National guard will honor, at a banquet at the Ft. Worth club next Monday night, one of Texas' outstanding soldiers, patriots and industrial leaders upon his retirement from military service.

He is Major General John A. Hulen, of Ft. Worth, head of the Denver rail lines in Texas and a former director of Texas Technological college.

It is doubtful if there is a man in Texas who is more personally popular than General Hulen.

The Plainsman remembers well the General's first visit to Lubbock, a number of years ago, when his private car was parked here for several hours.

All during General Hulen's stay here, men who served under him in the 36th Division during the war, streamed through his car, jostling good-naturedly to get to shake the hand and pass a few words with their beloved wartime leader, in France a bridadier commanding the 72nd brigade.

A SOLDIERLY man, General Hulen has in his veins not only the iron blood of the military leader but also a generous portion of the milk of human kindness.

His service to his country and his state has been long and outstanding and the honor to be bestowed upon him next Monday night is well chosen.

And Look At Him Now!

Luck In Bucketfuls Is Showered On Harold Lloyd In His Latest Role; Director Becoomes Suspicious Of Comedian

BY DAN THOMAS
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 4—Harold Lloyd's just about the luckiest guy in Hollywood.

A terrific heat spell sets in—and he draws scenes in his new picture that call for him to be doused with water all day long. How do you like that?

This particular sequence in the picture shows Lloyd, who thinks he's a great fighter, doing some intensive training. One day they film scenes of him doing road work and running straight into a creek. The next day he's continuing his road work.

But, because he's supposed to have just come out of the creek, he must be dripping wet. Hence the dousing. And just to help matters along, his garb consists of boxing gloves and a pair of oversized trunks held up by wornout suspenders.

The scenes are being shot on location about 15 miles from here.

Director Lee McCarey, the camera and sound crews and apparatus, four large reflectors and three laborers are all loaded into the camera truck ready to follow right along with Lloyd as he jogs down the dirt road.

"Come on, fellows, let's get going. We have a lot to do today," McCarey shouts.

"Wait until I get doused," Lloyd replies. He walks over to the sidelines, where two prop men have buckets of water and sponges, with which they really give him a good soaking. Then he takes his place in front of the cameras.

"Here we go," says McCarey. "Harold, as soon as the car starts, you begin running. We'll set the pace. All you have to do is keep up with us. All right. Camera!"

The truck starts down the road, Lloyd following about 15 feet behind. They go about 100 feet when McCarey yells, "Cut."

"That's swell," he says. "Now we'll do the scene where you run off the road and flop under a tree."

"Let's try this scene over again first," Harold requests. "I think it would be funnier if I acted like I was shadow boxing as I ran."

McCarey eyes him suspiciously, a hunch telling him that Harold merely wants to be soused with water again while McCarey sits on the truck in the hot sun.

Charming Manicurist

Back in Hollywood you can watch some activity on an air-cooled stage.

Here we are on the "Hands Across the Table" set, supposedly a barber shop in New York. It's quite an elaborate shop, too, having 12 chairs, four manicuring tables, and all the latest barber gadgets.

Carole Lombard, attired in the white costume of a manicurist, is sitting in a barber chair at one end of the shop studying some new dialog while Cameraman Ted Tetzlaff directs the placing of lights at the other end of the set for a medium shot of her giving Fred MacMurray a manicure.

"What you doing, studying a correspondence course in manicuring?" Fred yells at her.

The actress doesn't even take her eyes off the script as she replies, "What's it to you? You wouldn't know whether I did a good job or not, anyway."

Ever since the picture started these two have been trying to outrib each other. So far Carole has the edge. And she should. What a wit—and what a vocabulary!

Finally they're ready to shoot. The stand-ins, who have been sitting under the glaring lights for nearly half an hour, step out to make room for Carole and Fred.

"Remember, Carole, give him the whole works. You're trying to get an invitation to dinner," Director Mitchell Leisen orders.

"How many nails do I have to manicure?" Carole asks.

"About half a one will be enough for this scene. I think," Leisen replies. "All right, this is the picture. Turn 'em over."

Acting for all the world like a professional, Carole started filing one of Fred's nails and going into her vamping routine. That was one part of the scene she didn't have to fake, either. She really knows how to vamp.

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

"JUST HAVING FUN"

When police arrested 17-year-old Warren Cramer in Denver on charges of attempting to set department stores on fire at hours when they were most crowded with customers, the youth told them:

"I didn't mean any harm. I was just having fun".

And then there is that other 17-year-old boy—Pasquale Iarocci—who was arrested in Buffalo as the author of a series of fires and who nonchalantly explained that "I like to see the engines run".

It seems to The Journal that some of the world's dictators are like that: they "mean no harm"; they are "just having fun".

But the fires they are setting—fires of racial and religious hates and fires of war—who is going to put them out?

Unfortunately, there seems to be no police to look after the Warren Cramers and Pasquale Iaroccis in high places, the dictators who get a great "kick" out of starting fires.

Dutchers' News And Views OF WASHINGTON

Dutcher

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—It takes at least five men (from among the nine supreme court justices) to declare an act of Congress unconstitutional.

But Congress itself can produce a situation wherein just one man can keep a law on which both houses have passed from ever going into effect. That was one of the things discovered this year about the conference system under which the House and Senate undertake to iron out differences in the bills they've passed on the same subject.

Other things became apparent as to the conference system. It was used, as never before, in the recent session as a face-saving device. Anxious to get away from here, one house or the other frequently—to save time on debate—accepted this or that amendment with the assurance that it would be thrown out by the conference, whereupon Senate or House could gracefully accept the conference report without stultifying itself.

One of the last examples was the Senate's passage of the Borah amendment to the tax bill, removing tax exemption from future government securities, and the McCarran amendment, restoring free trading in silver—each time with tongue in cheek.

The conferees knocked out both those amendments and there never was any doubt about it.

One Man Blocks Path

But is seemed much more astonishing when one man, by single-handed effort, for weeks prevented final action on the controversial holding company bill. Congressman George Huddleston of Alabama, opposing his two Democratic colleagues on the conference committee and siding with the two Republicans, held off the Senate conferees in their effort to compromise on the "death sentence."

Huddleston stood in that position of power because a majority of each conference delegation must agree before the conferees can report back a compromise to the two houses.

The significance in such a situation lies in the tremendous pressure to which a man in Huddleston's position is likely to be subjected. Lobbyists in the past have often worked on conferees, sometimes successfully.

Huddleston stood with the enormous political pressure of the administration on one side and the terrific pressure of the power lobby on the other. There is no evidence that he felt either of these pressures or that the lobbyists had anything to do with his grim fight against the "death sentence." But certainly it was an extremely unfair situation for a man to be in.

Six-Billion-Dollar Blow

H. C. Hopson of Associated Gas & Electric testified victory in the holding company battle was worth at least $6,000,000,000 to the $13,000,000,000 industry. If that's true, it is quite easy to perceive that a man in Huddleston's position might be worth a billion dollars or so to the lobby.

Presumably no one ever had the nerve to offer Huddleston as much as a cigar. But congressmen have been venal at times. And you have only to recognize the possibilities to realize why Senator Norris of Nebraska hates the conference system so bitterly and why he made the issue of the "third house" one of his chief points in his victorious fight for a one-house legislature in Nebraska.

Congressman Eicher of Iowa, who led the floor fight for the "death sentence" so vigorously that he collapsed and has been ill ever since, charged that he "never sat with a man who more obviously and deliberately attempted to make it impossible to carry on a constructive and conclusive discussion of a piece of legislation than Mr. Huddleston."

He spoke also of the Alabaman's "conduct to date in the conference—an unyielding determination to make no concessions whatsoever—and to kill the whole bill."

Hopson, meanwhile, was testifying that he had recently been devoting his efforts to the end that there be no bill at all.

Given Too Great Power

In the end, the House, which had been supporting Huddleston's uncompromising stand, backed down on him after terrific pressure by the administration, and ordered him to accept a "compromise." But this was very close to the end of the session and might easily not have come to pass.

The facts do not damage anybody's impression of Huddleston as a vigorous independent who stood out honestly for his convictions coincided with the desires of the "power trust."

But they do show what a peculiar thing the conference system is and how it can give one man enormous power and place him squarely on the spot.

JO DARIEN, finishing her first year in college, learns her father is out of work. Jo hunts a job and secures part time work in a marine supply store. There she meets wealthy, handsome DOUGLAS MARSH who offers her the job of hostess at his inn at Crest Lake. Jo accepts. This causes a quarrel with BRET PAUL to whom she is engaged and Jo breaks the engagement.

She goes to Crest Lake. Her duties are pleasant but Marsh's eccentric mother takes a dislike to the girl. BABS MONTGOMERY, a school acquaintance who is jealous of Jo's popularity, comes to the inn. PETER FRAGONET, film actor, and his wife are also guests.

Fragonet takes Jo out in a sailboat. There is an accident and she narrowly escapes drowning. Next day Fragonet comes to see her. He tells Jo he loves her and takes her in his arms. MRS. FRAGONET and MRS. MARSH witness this scene and accuse Jo of encouraging Fragonet's attentions.

Jo, determined to explain, tries to walk down the hall and faints. Mrs. Marsh tells Douglas he must send Jo away.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

Marsh said, "I can't believe that sort of nonsense where Jo Darien is concerned and besides—"

"Perhaps, if you won't believe your own mother, you'll believe Edna Fragonet."

Marsh put his hands on the old lady's militant shoulders. "Easy now, Mother. I know how you are when you get going—and I don't doubt that something's gone amiss. In fact, I've been expecting it. I know Pete Fragonet better than you, but I thought that just possibly he might have some sense in this case."

"Douglas," replied Mrs. Marsh coldly, "if you're trying to tell me that this is just a harmless affair please save your breath. It means that Edna Fragonet is going to divorce her husband."

"Let me talk to Pete about this, and then—"

"Talk to whomever you please, but I insist that this Darien woman leave here this afternoon."

"But, Mother, the girl's ill! She couldn't leave this afternoon even if I wished to send her away."

"She wasn't too ill to be making love to Peter Fragonet. I've sent the nurse away."

At this news Marsh's lips compressed in a thin line and his face colored with anger. He left his mother standing on the veranda and rushed into the lobby, pausing at the desk long enough to instruct Preston that Miss Conley was to return to Jo Darien's room at once.

As he hurried upstairs he somehow felt that Jo was in grave trouble, but he was unprepared to find her unconscious before the open door of her room. Rushing toward the inert figure, he called out her name frantically. Then, taking her up in his arms, he carried her to her bed.

The sudden movement and Marsh's voice brought Jo to consciousness, and as her eyelids fluttered open she heard him saying over and over again, "Thank God! . . . Thank God!"

He was giving her a drink of water when Miss Conley appeared anxiously in the doorway.

"I wouldn't have left her, Mr. Marsh, but your mother—"

Marsh nodded impatiently. "I know. She didn't understand the girl's condition. I'm afraid we'd better have Seavers at once."

"Let me see . . ." Miss Conley stepped forward confidently, "What happened?"

"She evidently tried to get out of the room, and collapsed in the hall. Must have been out of her head."

Jo opened her eyes again, shook her head weakly back and forth on the pillow. "I'm . . . I'm all right. I wasn't out of my head. I . . . I just wanted to talk to someone who—"

"We know all about it, Jo. And don't you worry. I've fixed everything."

"About Fragonet, and—"

Marsh nodded. "Everything." He stood up and turned to the nurse. "Should I telephone Seavers?"

"Let me watch her closely for an hour or so. I hardly thing we'll need to call Doctor Seavers — but this may mean she'll have to stay in bed longer than we planned."

"Be sure to let me know if the slightest thing seems wrong," Marsh said. "And, remember, you're not to leave her. I—Ithink it would simplify matters if you remember that I'm the only one to give orders to the employes here."

When Marsh had left Jo's rooms he returned to the lobby and to Preston.

"If Fragonet is in his room will you please tell him I'd like to see him down at the boat house?"

The clerk nodded. "He's in his room, sir. I'll deliver the message."

Marsh strode down toward the boat house, went through two cigarets at a furious pace before the lank frame of Fragonet appeared along the board walk. The actor's eyes seemed strained and tired, and he looked at Marsh as if to say, "All right, Old Man, let me have it!"

Marsh returned his gaze speculatively. "Apparently you've raised one devil of a mess, Pete."

"Apparently. I've a way of doing that. I do want to say I'm mighty sorry, Douglas. But the real apologies should go to Jo Darien. My wife built a fire under the poor kid—and your mother added some fuel

CONTRACT LET ON COLONY

HOUSES AND WELLS TO BE CONSTRUCTED AT ROPESVILLE

S. H. Phelps, purchasing agent for Texas Rural Communities, inc., yesterday said that construction of 33 housing units and 34 wells for the Ropesville industrial gardens will be started within two weeks.

Contract for building 33 houses, barns, poultry houses and outside toilet pits was awarded Tuesday afternoon to M. M. Weaver of Center, whose bid of $54,709 was low. Work would be completed in 120 days, the contract specifies.

Placing of 34 windmills, steel towers and cypress wood tanks was given E. K. Hufstedler & Sons of Lubbock on a bid of $14,945.38, which was low. The local firm is a representative of the Dempster Manufacturing company. Contract calls for completion of the work in 75 days.

Closed On Tuesday

Six contractors had bid for each job at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning when bids were officially closed by L. C. Green, construction superintendent, Mr. Phelps, and William McNair, mechanical engineer.

When completed, the gardens will accommodate 33 families, with 120 acres, a house and necessary buildings each.

COTTON DUSTING

of seven or eight feet if there is no wind, and higher if there is," Mr. Stinson explained. "The dust is forced out of the duster at several times the speed of the plane, which is generally around 75 or 80 miles an hour.

"There is so much static electricity this way, that the dust is forced onto and under the leaves and sticks there much better than when sprayed on. In this way the poisoning is more effective than when done by hand."

Charges are five cents a pound for spraying poison. An average of around eight pounds per acre is used, the men explained, adding that the farmer could spray as heavily as he desired.

Some 400 acres per hour can be sprayed with the plane.

The two men are making headquarters for a day or so, in the county agent's office in the federal building. Arrangements can be made through that office to contact the two, Jason O. Gordon, assistant county agent said.

RAINS ADD THREAT OF WORM DAMAGE

Rains of early Wednesday were expected to add to the new threat to the South Plains cotton crop—worms as further moisture added to possibility of new dangers.

Cloudy weather which has prevailed since Saturday has not aided in fighting the menace. Continuation for a few days more of cloudy weather will, it is believed, greatly increase the territory now threatened.

Reports Come In

From Shallowater came reports of the presence of leaf worms, in addition to territories around Woodrow, Slide, Wolfforth, Foster and the south part of the county generally.

Hockley county farmers likewise report presence of worms in many sections.

Warning Issued

Warnings to persons planning poisoning of worms, especially by airplane, to take care that the poison did not spread too far over growing grain crops or pastures where cattle might get to the poison, was voiced by Dean A. H. Leidigh, of Texas Technological college.

He pointed out that cattle would eat arsenic as readily as worms and that it would be just as effective on livestock as insects.

Terry county, with a rank growth of cotton, has had an invasion of leaf worms. Farmers there are reported to have purchased a car load of poison for worms and to have begun the eradication work. One Brownfield hardware merchant said he had 41 customers who had begun to poison for worms.

The worms, mostly leaf worms, have spread into Lynn county where a rank crop is reported in the northern and western parts.

Likewise other counties where there has been heavy rainfall this summer and where the crop is more or less rank, worms are threatening.

Urged To Action

County agents, Don. L. Jones, state experiment sub-station superintendent; Dean Leidigh; K. N. Clapp, cotton man and other cotton men, are urging farmers to poison for worms. Unless a concrete effort is made now, they state, it is likely that the worms will do serious damage.

Roads were still muddy as lowering skies held back the sunshine needed to dry up the mud. Water was still standing in many roadside pits and in furrows in fields. Alleys in town were muddy with water standing in low places.

Grain sorghums have had sufficient moisture to fill out heads of late grain for a probable record yield. Much early maize and kafir has been harvested.

Pastures over the territory are reported as already showing the effect of the downpour. Grass is expected to green up considerably and to is believed fall pastures will be the best in a decade.

Broomcorn, sudan and other grains, fall gardens and other crops are also showing the effect of the rains in starting growth.

Uneasiness over the weather brought in some buying after the call and prices worked up another few points.

With Oct. advancing to 10.39 and May to 10.47, for net gains of 6 to 10 points, the market was steady at the end of the first half hour.

Two more of the private end-August crop reports were published during the morning, one of them making the condition 62.9 and the indicated crop at 11,062,000 bales while the other put the condition at 64.6 and the indicated crop 12,277,000 bales.

The outlook for rain in the eastern belt brought out more buying and prices held steady later with Oct selling up to 10.39 and May to 10.51 or about 8 to 10 points net higher.

The weekly report of the weather bureau commented on excessive rains as detrimental in the eastern belt but read more favorably as to conditions in the west.

ERROR IN RECORD

"delighted" but that the news was rather in the form of an anti-climax.

Altered Plans

He altered previous plans to try again tomorrow and ordered the six-ton, 2,500-horsepower Bluebird prepared for shipment. He will embark at New York September 12, with "the old lady," as he calls his racer, probably on board the same ship, the Majestic.

The 298.013 mile return run, after Campbell had flashed northward across the gleaming salt plain at 304.311 miles an hour and brought his huge racer to a safe stop despite a blown front tire.

Later Check Shows Error

The timers first computed his southbound mile at 295.565 miles an hour, for an average of 299.875 miles. A later check of the electrically marked tape showed the return mile was run in 12.08 seconds, instead of the 12.18 seconds—or 298.013 miles an hour—originally announced, which accounted for the increased average finally credited.

Campbell indicated in an interview last night he intends to let his new mark stand at least until someone else beats it. Then he may try again.

Someone Else Can Do It

"Someone can build a better machine and go faster," he said. "Whatever you can do, I can do, and whatever I can do, someone else can do better."

His first concern, after a brief rest here, is to get back to England so Donald, his 15-year old son, may get back to school.

Sir Malcolm's chief comment on the run and its aftermath of errors was:

"Naturally I am pleased but not nearly so much as I would have been this morning.

"It was just a mistake in reading the timer's tape—and such a silly mistake."

Garza County Girl Dies Of Injuries

Miss Idell Shelton, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Shelton, residing near Post, died in a sanitarium here Tuesday from injuries suffered in an accident Friday night while driving from Slaton toward Southland.

She had been brought here Tuesday from Slaton, and an x-ray examination revealed injuries of a fractured vertebra of the neck, causing paralysis of respiratory muscles. The car she was in sideswiped a truck.

MANY KILLED IN STORM

DEATH TOLL EXPECTED TO BE OVER 500, REPORTS SAY

building them is strewn askew."

The hurricane, after raging across the Keys, swerved to the north in the gulf of Mexico and endangered cities on the Florida west coast.

The full intensity of the hurricane in this area, was looked for around Cedar Key, a dot of land in the gulf 90 miles north of St. Petersburg, connected with the mainland only by a narrow causeway.

Village Evacuated

Many of the 200 residents of Cedar Key began evacuating the village when the word of the approaching hurricane reached them. The school and other substantial buildings were thrown open as shelters. Most of the homes in Cedar Key are of flimsy, wooden construction.

With the tides rising and the waters raging about St. Petersburg, in Tampa Bay and up the west coast, the hurricane flags were flown all over the area. Weather officials said the effects of the hurricane would be felt up into Georgia. Part of the storm was reported swinging back to the east, into the northern part of Florida.

Reports Meagre

With communication lines down in many sections, reports from the west coast were meagre. There were no reports, however, of loss of life.

A message from St. Petersburg, the first since the storm swerved up the West Florida coast, said the tide was rising rapidly and the seas were heavy. Property damage was reported only as "considerable." No loss of life was reported.

No Word From Area

From St. Petersburg came the further word:

"Have no knowledge of conditions at Clearwater and arpon Springs.

The searching party out of Miami was led by Jack Combs, an undertaker. The 400-to-500 estimate was for the Keys area only.

Refugees from the veterans camp on unprotected Matecumbe Key told of the force of the hurricane. All of the buildings but one were crushed like small boxes as the wall of water surged over the thin strip of land. Persons were washed in the sea and those who reached a safe spot were powerless to help them. A mother and her 6-year-old daughter were rescued after clinging to wreckage all night, their clothing ripped to shreds by the wind and water.

Reports 80 Killed

William Cawthorn, one of the veterans who survived the disaster at Matecumbe Key, said 80 persons lost their lives.

The computing of the death list was made difficult inasmuch as groups of veterans were scattered all about the camps, some from Matecumbe working at Rock Harbor when the hurricane struck.

At Tevernier, on Plantation Key, adjoining Matecumbe, a Red Cross report said at least 100 were killed. Seventy-five or more were reported dead in the first dispatches from Rock Harbor.

Shifts Fury To West

With the hurricane shifting its fury to the west coast of Florida, full intensity was looked for in the neighborhood of Cedar Key, 90 miles or so north of St. Petersburg.

The force of the hurricane, apparently, had abated from the intensity of the hours of horror Monday night and early Tuesday on the Keys below Miami.

Rather Perish Than Return

One war veteran, describing the night, said he would rather face the fire of machine guns than another tropical storm.

Most of the veterans on the Keys participated in the bonus march to Washington.

The full aid of the government was ordered mobolized for use in the devastated regions. The first calls were for medical supplies, food, water and clothing. Then, there was the need for means of evacuation.

Travel Hazardous

The navy, the coast guard, the American Legion, the Red Cross and all other available forces rounded up boats and trucks. Highway and railroad travel into the region, however, was extremely hazardous.

The call of President Roosevelt, for the government to give every aid possible, was followed with the action of Gov. Dave Sholtz in sending a company of national guardsmen into the Keys to aid survivors and police the region.

Placed In Hospitals

Veterans who reached Miami last night from one of the veterans camps, that closest to Miami, were placed in hospitals to recover from minor injuries and the shock of exposure.

Many of them said the loss of life was made all the heavier because of the lack of substantial shelter, the failure to heed the hurricane warnings and the delay in dispatching the relief train.

Among the survivors, the fear was felt that all aboard the relief train were lost when it turned over in a washout. Some of the veterans held out little hope for their "buddies" in the southernmost camps.

DRILLING STOPPED

SEAGRAVES, Sept. 4. (Special)—Drilling has been stopped on the C. J. (Red) Davidson-Honolulu Oil Co. No. 1 Bennett in section 678, John H. Gibson survey, Yoakum county as a fishing job was begun.

Tools were lost in the hole at 4,470 feet. The bit was in red sand. Anhydrite was topped at 2,424 feet; salt at 2,535 and the Yates sand at 23,220 feet. Elevation is 3,557 feet.

Only one American farm in every 12 has a bathroom, and only one in every six has water piped into the house.

LOCAL SCHOOLS GIVEN GRANT

TOTAL OF $47,000 TO BE SPENT HERE IN IMPROVEMENTS

Improvements in Lubbock independent school district at a total cost of $47,000 will be started as soon as detailed plans can be submitted to the Fort Worth PWA office and contracts let, it was announced today.

said, Italy was ready to go before the world with the assurance that strong arm methods are justified in East Africa.

There was an atmosphere of jubilance even over the Rickett intervention, now regarded here as having become a white elephant in the hands of those who would obstruct the Italian policy.

News of Secretary of State Hull's announcement in Washington of the withdrawal of the American interest in the concession caused little less than astonishment.

After inquiring from the surprise over the confirmation that the enterprise had a bona fide American connection, informed circles pointed out that this seeming deflation of the economic "buffer" left Italy in a stronger position than ever.

land, cracked, shattered and twisted.

Of an eleven-car Florida East Coast special train sent into the Keys to bring out 683 veterans in three rehabilitation camps, only the locomotive is left on the rails. The veterans camps themselves are literally flat. The lumber that went into building them is strewn askew, in piles of matchwood. Nothing stands erect.

Poor Balance Of Plane Is Blamed

The preliminary report of Eugene Vidal, air commerce director, disclosed the probable poor balance in the ship because of the substitution of pontoons for the regular landing gear at Seattle.

JOINT REUNION

meeting at Gettysburg in 1913, had agreed to return 75 years after the battle for a final get-together.

At the opening session of the forty-fifth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, aged soldiers rose, waved their arms, and cheered with husky voices as the United States Marine band played "Dixie".

Pierce Addresses Group

Gen. Rice A. Pierce of Union City, Tenn., commander-in-chief of the veterans, and Gen. Harry Rene Lee of Nashville, Tenn., adjutant general and chief of staff, addressed their comrades.

Carl Hinton, reunion director and past commander of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, urged acceptance of the invitation for the joint rally of the opposing forces.

Dallas, Shreveport, La., and Atlanta, Ga., were expected to ask for the 1936 reunion and the U. C. V. because of the advanced age of the remaining veterans, it has been suggested that no other meeting be attempted. With death thinning the ranks by 20 per cent each year, this year's rally was expected to be the last for many of the southern warriors.

The vote on the joint reunion came after Roy had assured the southern veterans that they would be allowed to carry the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy when and where they pleased. He said he would present a similar invitation to the meeting of the G. A. R. at Grand Rapids, Mich., next week.

"This is another proof," he stated, "that since March, 1933, dollar diplomacy is not recognized by the American government."

Cancellation of the lease was announced last night by Secretary Hull.

CANCELLATION EASES U. S. SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Standard-Vacuum Oil company's cancellation of a gigantic Ethiopian oil concession was believed today to have erased all chance of United States entanglement in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

Secretary Hull's diplomatic maneuver in persuading the oil firm to drop its plans for African exploitation was credited by informed observers with having clarified issues, in the controversy between Italy and the Abyssian empire. These observers also saw the move as a bold stroke destined to aid Great Britain and other European nations in their attempts to calm the troubled East African scene.

OFFICIALS DECLINE IMMEDIATE COMMENT

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 4 (AP)—Members of the Ethiopian government appeared nonplussed today when informed that the Standard-Vacuum Oil company had withdrawn from its Ethiopian concessions on representations from the state department of the United States. They declined immediate comment.

Observers here assumed that the United States government wished to avoid being drawn into the already acutely delicate political situation which has arisen between this nation and Italy and that Washington wished to avoid compromising the American relationship with Italy.

Emperor Haile Selassie was not immediately informed of the cancellation.

Beauticians Hold Banquet Last Night

The state board of hairdressers and cosmetologists were guests of unit 3 of Texas Association of Accredited Beauty Culturists at a dinner in Hilton hotel last night.

Plans were made for a semi-annual examination for beauticians of about 60 counties here.

More than 100 beauticians will be examined today and Thursday, it was announced by Miss Mary Kneifl of Abilene, president of the association and one of the sponsors of recent legislation which made it mandatory for beauticians who had not at least one year of experience to pass examination before conducting beauty culture work. More than that number likely will take tests next spring, Miss Kneifl estimates.

At the banquet, at which Russell Morrison of the Russell Morrison Beauty Parlor Supplies company was toastmaster and at which 25 were present, emphatic reconfinenation of the new law was heard.

Members of the state board of hairdressers and cosmetologists present were: Mrs. Faye Stewart, president; Mrs. P. A. Houston, Mrs. B. L. Neal, Mrs. Ethel Dreyling, inspector, and Mrs. Polly Hill, chief inspector. W. P. Simpson of Spur also attended.

Judge Rules Dean Law Still In Force

The attorney general has ruled that prohibition will be state-wide until the official canvass Monday. Judge Pharr instructed the grand jury that the Dean law would continue in effect in local option counties after that time and until the legislature exercised its authority, granted in the repeal amendment, to control liquor.

District Attorney Daniel A. Blair and Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, are aiding the grand jurors in their investigations.

of her own. All my fault of course."

"But that doesn't straighten it out," Marsh said.

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that you can't make these things happen and then say you're sorry, Pete. There's more to it than that. I—" Marsh hesitated, lit another cigaret before he went on. "I feel more or less responsible for Jo Darien, you know. She didn't want to come down here in the first place, but I saw she was in a tough spot and I thought it would be a good thing all around."

Fragonet was silent a moment. Then: "If you're warning me to keep off in the future, I'm afraid you've the wrong slant on this whole thing, Doug. I'm serious. I'm divorcing Edna—or she divorcing me—it doesn't matter which, really." The actor turned suddenly to Marsh. "I'm really in love with Jo. I want to marry her."

"I see . . ." replied Marsh slowly. "And what does Jo think?"

"She hasn't had time to think. She—she doesn't know whether she loves me or not, and—"

Marsh interrupted him with a tight laugh. "I should think she could tell if she did, Pete. Love isn't such a subtile emotion, you know, that a girl can't feel it."

"All right. Let's say she doesn't love me then. Worse than that, she won't give herself a chance—because of Edna. I'm going to divorce Edna, and then I'll wait."

"A bit tough on Edna, isn't it?" asked Marsh.

"Why is it?" Fragonet burst out. "She doesn't love me. For years she's been like a—a cold shadow, just following me, watching me. She's not jealous because she loves me, but because she doesn't want anybody to have even a part of Fragonet, the picture star. It's not because she loves me that she doesn't want me to have other women—it's just because she couldn't stand to have them saying that she didn't own me altogether." The actor paused, looked sidewise at Marsh. "So you see, it isn't really Jo who's causing a split-up between Edna and me. That's been in the cards for a long time, Doug. But if I hadn't fallen in love with Jo I might have let it run on indefinitely. After all, a divorce is bad publicity for a movie star nowadays."

Marsh did not reply for a long time. Finally he took a step closer to Fragonet and gazed straight into his eyes. "Look here, Pete . . . I'd like you to be awfully sure that you feel straight about Jo. We've been friends long enough so that I can say what I think, haven't we?"

Fragonet smiled. "I hope so."

"Jo Darien's about 19, Pete . . . and you'll never see 40 again. In pictures you're 28—but that doesn't hide the fact that you're more than 20 years older than Jo. A lot of water's gone under your bridge, Pete—and this girl has a lot before her yet." Marsh's tone changed suddenly to a bitter seriousness. "If you messed things up for her, Pete, I think I could poison you without a qualm."

Fragonet's half-amused, half-quizzical gaze changed into one of astonishment. "Look here, I believe you—are you in love with her?"

"Don't be any more of an idiot than you have to be," said Douglas Marsh shortly. "I feel responsible for her here, that's all. Today you caused a row that can have all sorts of implications—and besides that, she tried to follow either you or your wife and fell unconscious in the hallway."

"Good Lord!" Fragonet exclaimed. "Is that true?" He turned toward the Inn, but Marsh reached forward and held his arm.

"Don't you think you've caused her enough trouble just now?"

"Well . . ."

"My suggestion is that you don't see her again at all until she's able to be up and around," Marsh said.

Fragonet's eyes clouded with doubt, with something akin to suspicion.

"Does that go for you, too?" he asked.

Marsh laughed, but there was little of the laughter reflected in his eyes. "Of course," he answered "I'm quite sure that Miss Conley can give her all the care she needs!"

Black-Draught and Good Health Year After Year

"I have never had a bad sick spell and for years I have taken Black-Draught for the least symptom of upset stomach or sluggish feeling," writes Mr. W. F. Pulliam, of Gatewood, Mo. "I am a very hearty eater and sometimes I eat too much. If I feel uncomfortable, I just take a small dose of Black-Draught and soon feel all right. I feel I owe my good health to use of this reliable vegetable medicine, Black-Draught."

Where constipation is at the bottom of such troubles as Mr. Pulliam mentions, take a good laxative.

Thousands of men and women have given Black-Draught credit for having helped them to avoid serious development of constipation troubles. Adv.

CAMELS Costlier Tobaccos!

Here's what happens when oil hasn't enough film strength!

You can prevent costly wear with Germ Processed Oil

It has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than any plain mineral oil!

WHEN you drive very slowly or very fast or pick up suddenly, the bearings in your motor have a tremendous load put on them. The bearings and shafts are pressed together so tightly that only an extremely thin film of oil remains between them.

If the oil film is not strong enough to withstand the load, the film ruptures and the bearing and shaft grind together. Part of the bearing is ground away. After this happens time and again, it means a trip to the shop and a big repair bill.

You need oil with extra high film strength to prevent this costly wear. Yet plain mineral oils have very little film strength and oils over-refined by new cleansing methods have even less!

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil will give you the protection you need! Germ Processing—adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil—gives it 2 to 4 times greater film strength than any plain mineral oil. Timken machine tests prove it!

More proof—supervised road tests were made in identical cars fitted with the new alloy metal bearings used in many 1935 cars. The bearings lubricated with a high-quality plain mineral oil showed 45% more wear than those lubricated with Conoco Germ Processed, the first alloyed oil.

You'll save money when you say "O. K.—Drain" and fill with Germ Processed—the oil with greater film strength—the oil with the "Hidden Quart" that never drains away!
