Hall County Club Boys Inspect Collingsworth Stock Farms

Pleased With Trip

County Agent of Hall Is Pleased With Local Stock Industry

Stock farms in Collingsworth county were visited by members of 4-H boys clubs of Hall county last Friday, June 21, the trip being sponsored by Charles Williams and County Agent H. R. Ellis.

In speaking of the trip, Mr. Ellis said, "Salisbury has one of the best 4-H clubs in the state, and the people of Hall county should be proud of the alert young boys who will be our farmers of tomorrow. We all know that the future of this county as a great agriculture and live stock section depends upon the scientific training of our boys and girls.

"I will endeavor to enumerate the various conditions the Hall county boys observed on their trip to Collingsworth county stock farms," Mr. Ellis stated. "At the Holstein farm of John C. Harper, we saw some of the best Holstein cattle in the state. They were high priced show cattle that will fix in the memories of those boys a knowledge that will serve them in selecting Holstein cattle in the future.

"On the farms of J. C. Ford and Arthur Hudson, we had the pleasure of seeing a number of ideal registered Jersey cattle, with high records of production in both milk and butter. Mr. Hudson gave the boys a short talk on just how he managed to enjoy an income of $250 per month from six Jersey cows. Many of the boys had never seen real Guernsey cattle. J. O. Wells has an excellent herd of Guernseys of all ages. These cattle were shipped from northern states and were highly praised by the owner as being wonderful cattle.

"Our last visit was at the Greer and Geesey model stock farm. It was here that the boys received a very cordial welcome. This farm maintains both Jersey and Holstein breeds of dairy cattle, Duroc hogs and White Leghorn chickens. The Jersey herd sire of this farm cost the sum of $7,000 and it was here we viewed this noble animal with such aristocratic blood lines. The cows were of excellent stock and their records stood for high production. Mr. Greer gave the boys an interesting lecture on the management and scientific feeding of cattle, swine and poultry. He also stated that all of the Hall county club boys were welcome to visit the farm at any time.

"The boys returned home with a feeling of satisfaction, knowing they had derived a great benefit from the trip, and they also realized that the greatest farming section in the entire Panhandle, Hall county, is far behind its neighbors in the livestock industry," Mr. Ellis declared.

Hunsaker Secures Porter's Interest In Local Agency

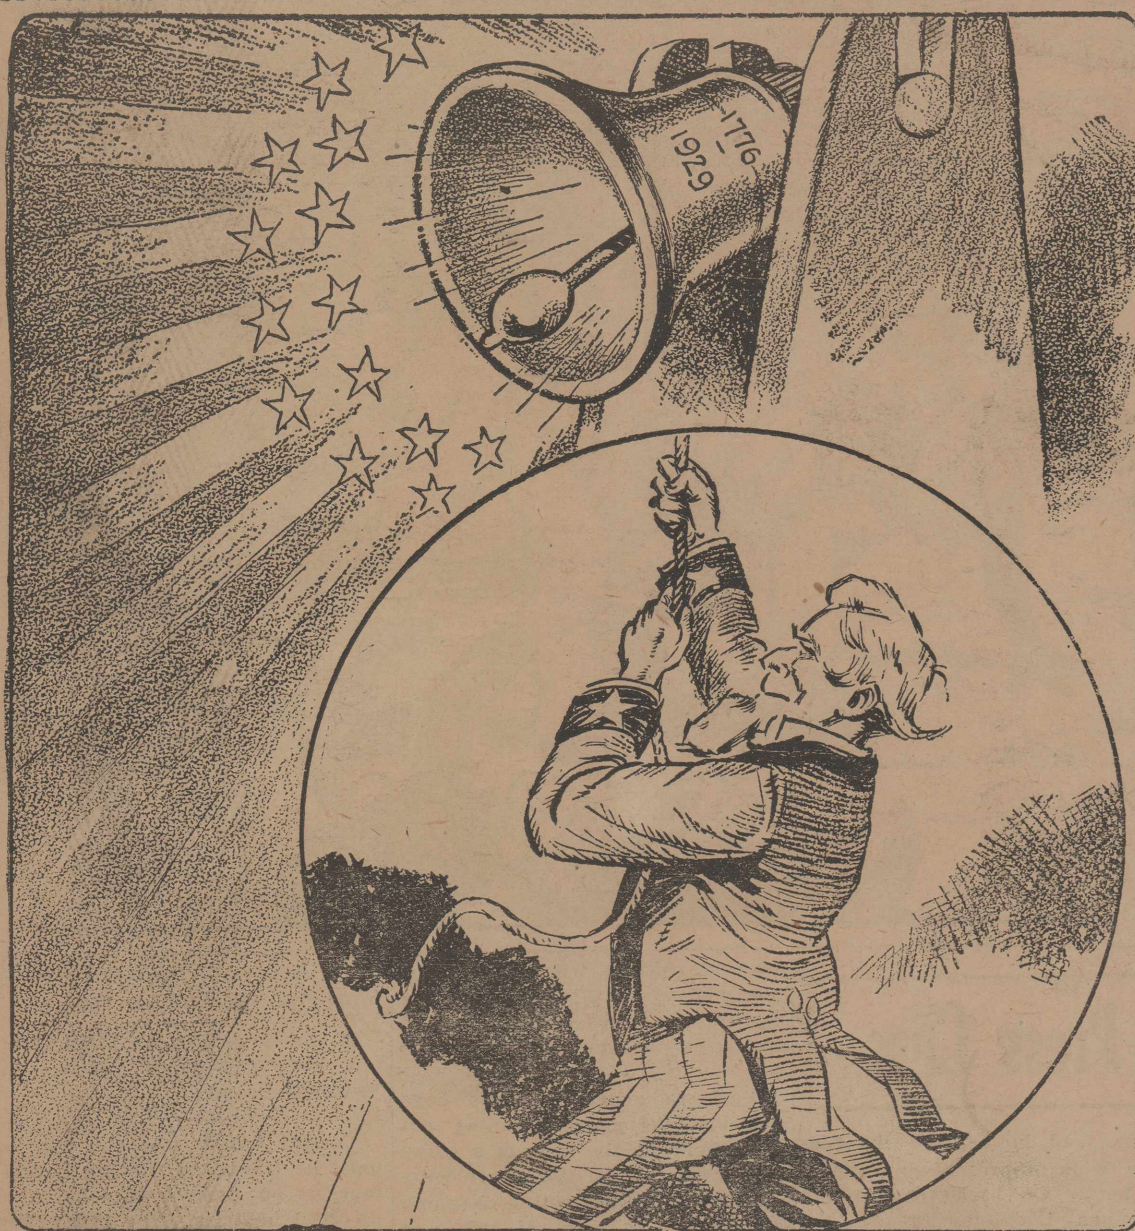

Clarence Hunsaker has purchased the interest of V. A. Porter in the Hunsaker-Porter Motor company, Wellington dealers for Pontiac and Oakland automobiles.

Mr. Porter has been associated with the company during the past two months.

Mr. Hunsaker's father will now be associated with him in the operation of the agency. Mr. Hunsaker has been in this agency for the past three years, when he and Archie Copeland bought the interest of Vaughan Buster and Don Jones who were operating the agency at that time under the name of the Buster-Jones Motor company.

Time seems to change little. Autoists still attempt to beat fast trains to crossings.

New Building For Nazarene Church Is Now Underway

Work Started Last Week; Will Be Completed By Early Fall

Wellington will have another new church building by early fall, work having been started last week upon the construction of a new edifice for the congregation of the Nazarene Church. This will afford Wellington with the sixth brick church building, five large and beautiful church structures already having been built in Wellington by the congregations of the Baptist, Methodist, Christian, Church of Christ and Catholic churches.

The Nazarene building will be thoroughly modern throughout, and the brick structure, according to plans, will be 50 feet wide by 90 feet. It will be erected on the same site as the old church building which was torn down last week to make room for the new edifice.

Rev. M. V. Dillingham, pastor of the Nazarene church, states that the congregation has planned to build the new structure for a long while, but conditions have made it impossible for work to start before now. The building will be in keeping with the progress Wellington is making in all lines, and a credit to the city.

The basement will be divided off into rooms for the Sunday school department. Some of the better lumber from the old building will be used in the construction of the new, it is said.

Vitaphone's First Operetta Coming Soon

Vitaphone's first operetta, "The Desert Song," is coming to the Ritz theatre July 8, 9 and 10. This production sensation of four continents has proved to be the singing and is one of the most powerful photoplays to be brought to Wellington in the entire year. The picture marks a new era in screen entertainment and is decidedly worthwhile.

County Herds To Tri-State Fair

Kiwanis Club Will Send Two County Herds To Amarillo

Two county herds from Collingsworth will be exhibited at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo September 23-28, arrangements having been made by the Kiwanis Club of Wellington to meet the expense of sending the herds to the fair.

One herd will be composed of Holsteins, while the other will be made up of Jerseys. A county herd must be composed of eight head of cattle owned by as many as five different breeders. Each herd must contain a bull over two years old, a bull under two years, a three-year-old cow, a two-year-old cow, a senior heifer yearling, a junior heifer yearling, a senior

Plans To Secure Instructor For Agriculture Made

Kiwanis Club Sponsors Movement For Agriculture Instructor

Aid For Salary

Will Obtain Aid of State And Federal Governments on Salary

At the suggestion of the agriculture committee of the Wellington independent Kiwanis club, the board of directors for the Wellington independent school district has agreed to add an instructor of vocational agriculture to the faculty of Wellington high school, and the directors are now negotiating to secure state and federal aid in paying the salary of such an instructor. If all plans materialize, the local high school will obtain the services of such an instructor by paying only one-third of his salary, the other two-thirds being divided between the state and federal governments. No other arrangements can be made, of course, until allotments from the state and federal governments are received by the local school board.

In this manner, the students of Wellington high school will have instruction offered in one branch of learning which is of vital interest to the future welfare of this county. It has been felt by a number of Wellington people that such instruction has been needed for many years, since many of the young people of this community are not privileged to attend colleges after their graduation from the local high school and consequently are handicapped if they are interested in vocational agriculture since it has never been taught in the local high school system. All of the better high schools, however, have been adding this subject to their curricula and at this time vocational agriculture is offered by practically all first class high schools.

The action of the Kiwanis club's agriculture committee in sponsoring the movement, and its adoption by the local school board, is commendable and will, no doubt, meet with unanimous approval. The agriculture committee of the Kiwanis club is composed of Joe Baumgardner, Deskins Wells and Jeff Greer.

Harle Drug Store Moves Tuesday To South Side Square

The Harle Drug Store moved from its old location south of the Rialto theatre to the south side of the square Tuesday of this week, and is now located in the building formerly occupied by Shields Music Store. All fixtures and stock were cleared from the old location Tuesday.

The new building will afford the drug store a better arrangement and the management is well pleased with the new location. The Boverie Radio and Electric Shop will continue to occupy its present space in the same building where the drug store is now located. The Harle Drug Store has been operating in Wellington since 1925.

Many Compete In Knowledge Contest

Many people of Wellington submitted answers in the "Knowledge Contest" which appeared in THE LEADER last week and which attracted considerable interest among the readers of this newspaper. The winners in the contest are Elmer Knox Jones, Mrs. W. H. Stuart and Edward Lee Pritchard. The correct answers, together with the list of prizes, appear on another page in this edition.

Coca-Cola Plant Will Be Opened In Near Future

Will Give Free Trip To Short Course To Club Girl

Announcement has been made by W. Y. Burden that the new Coca-Cola Bottling Plant will hold its formal opening Saturday, July 13. The new plant is one of the most attractive of the many new business structures which have been erected thus far in 1929, being built entirely of brick and of sufficient size to care for the bottling business in Wellington for many years. The old building had become entirely inadequate to care for the rapidly growing volume of business enjoyed by this company.

The new building is located on Eighth street, west of the City Service Station. The front portion of the building will house all machinery used in the bottling process, while the rear space will be used as a garage to house the trucks and cars which are used in the operation of the business. The second story has been made into three modern and complete apartments.

On the opening day of the plant, all visitors will be allowed to register their names and cast a vote for any 4-H girls club in Collingsworth county, and a representative from the club that gets the most votes will be given a free trip to the short course at A. & M. college, all her expenses paid by the local Coca-Cola company. In order to select the girl who will make the trip, Miss Veda Swafford, county demonstrator, will grade the work of all members of the winning club and the girl who has done the best work will be awarded the trip.

Miss Evelyn Conner Is Recovering From Recent Operation

Miss Evelyn Conner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cocke, is reported to be rapidly recovering from an operation for appendicitis which was performed in Oklahoma City Friday morning, her friends in Wellington will be glad to learn.

Miss Conner was not afflicted with a serious attack, but she has been troubled with her side for several months and it was thought best to have the appendix removed before the condition became acute.

Locals Winners Of First Half League Schedule

Wellington Team Finishes First Half With Flying Colors

Mangum Is Second

Mangum Finishes Second With Lone Wolf In Third Notch

Wellington's baseball team crossed the line marking the end of the first half of their league schedule with flying colors, making a brilliant finish to wind up their half-way program, taking the top position of the O-T circuit by a wide margin. Mangum finished in second place with Lone Wolf third. Others in the league stood as follows: Sayre, fourth; Elk City, fifth, and Celler honors went to Cordell.

The last three games played by Wellington resulted in two wins and one defeat. The loss was the first out of the past fourteen games. Wednesday, June 26, Wellington won from the Cordell nine on the local diamond 5-3 with Knight pitching. Friday, June 28, Wellington's trip to the Elk City amp ended with a 2-1 loss with McDuffey on the mound. Sunday, June 30, in the game which ended the first half of the schedule, Wellington won from Cordell 4-5 with Knight twirling.

Despite numerous rumors to the contrary, Wellington will remain in the O-T league during the last half of the schedule, it has been emphatically stated by several members of the board of directors for the Wellington ball club. All other teams in the league have stated they will go the route over the last half, making this year an exception in view of the fact no teams are dropping out at the half-way mark. All teams are strengthening for the last half, the lid having been thrown off and all teams are allowed to hire as many players as often as they choose. This will make the finish even more interesting and Wellington will be given a run for their money from now on.

The directors are now at work raising finances to insure sufficient funds to support the club until the final windup.

Schedules for the last-half of the season will be ready sometime this week. It is doubtful if the number of games per week will be increased. Manager Travis Heatley will be ready to meet the schedule, however, no matter what arrangements are made.

Volunteer Firemen Report Galveston Meet Was Success

Members of the Wellington volunteer fire department who attended the 44th annual meeting of the Texas State Firemen's association held in Galveston June 11, 12 and 13 report one of the best meetings in the history of the state organization. The attendance was over 2,000 and this figure did not include all the visitors and guests who were at some of the sessions of the convention.

Representing the Wellington fire department were C. R. Leggett, Lloyd Ball, Howden Glasgow and Russell Yates, who state that some of the best known firemen in Texas were on the program of the convention and all topics pertaining to the fighting of fires were taken up and discussed at length.

Fire prevention was especially stressed, and it was pointed out that most fires are the result of carelessness.

Collingsworth County Leads In Standardized Schools

Collingsworth leads all counties of the Texas Panhandle in the number of standardized rural schools, it has been announced by J. D. Wilson, county superintendent, who explains that 14 schools in this county attained standardization this year which brought the total number of standardized rural schools in Collingsworth up to 18. "This," Mr. Wilson says, "is more standardized rural schools than can be found in any other county in our section of the state."

Regarding the standardization of schools in Collingsworth county, Mr. Wilson is in receipt of the following letter from S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction:

"It is with pleasure to send you certificates of standardization for the following schools in Collingsworth county: Ring, Seale, Elm, Marella, Winulcoer, Nicholson, Cross Roads, Pleasant Point, Dozier, Fresno and Abra. I am glad to note the continued interest in the standardization in your county and hope to have the pleasure of issuing additional certificates next year."

Mr. Wilson explains that the standardization is good for two years. The four schools that have previously attained standardization are Dodsonville, Enterprise, Plymouth and Kelley.

"When a school becomes standardized, it means that it is rated as a first class rural school," Mr. Wilson says. For a school to become standardized, the state department requires that a school must score 800 points out of a possible 1000, and must meet with the four star item requirements which are: an eight-month school term; teachers must have first grade certificate or equivalent; a flag and flag pole; two sanitary outhouses.

"A standard school is one which is made the community center," Mr. Wilson says. "It must have good equipment and good facilities. Attaining standardization calls for the cooperation of the three forces—the teacher, the pupil and the patron. The people of this county have shown great interest in the various districts in securing standardization for their respective districts.

"We could have had three or four more schools in this county to become standardized this year," Mr. Wilson says, "if these particular schools had been able to have longer terms. The state requires a standardized school to have an eight-month term, and we had four schools which met with every requirement for standardization with the exception of the school term."

The fact that this county has more standardized rural schools than any other in the Panhandle is quite a recommendation for the present rural schools system in Collingsworth county, and Mr. Wilson and his corps of rural teachers are to be commended upon the interest and effort which they are putting into their work.

$2.00 A YEAR INSIDE OF TRADE TERRITORY
$3.50 A YEAR OUTSIDE OF TRADE TERRITORY

A CONSTRUCTIVE AGENCY

The action of the Kiwanis club of Wellington in offering to raise the funds to send two county herds to the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo is one that is bound to produce good results. It identifies that organization as a constructive agency working for the advancement of this entire community. The county herds will be selected at the Collingsworth County Fair in September. One will be selected from the showing of the Jersey breeders and the other will be Holstein. It takes eight individuals owned by not less than five breeders to constitute a county herd. After the herd is selected at the county fair, the Kiwanis club will pay for their transportation to the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo. By this means the dairy industry in this community will be advertised before the entire Panhandle.

The agricultural committee of the Kiwanis club has also induced the Board of Trustees to secure a teacher of Vocational Agriculture for the Wellington high school. The first steps have already been taken, and the school board is now waiting on the appropriation from the state and federal governments. In this manner the Wellington school will acquire instruction in one branch of learning that is of vital interest to the future welfare of this county, and at the same time they will secure the services of an able man by paying only one-third of his salary. If the Kiwanis club does nothing further during the remainder of the year, these two enterprises are ample justification for its existence.

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION'S JOB

Dr. Homer Foulks, state charity commissioner of New York, estimates the economic loss by reason of sickness in the United States at more than 12 billion dollars a year. This gigantic sum, several times greater than the economic loss from all other sources, includes an item of four billions merely for loss of time from employment and medical costs of sickness. The remainder is made to account for losses of constructive earnings due to premature deaths and disabilities.

It is a staggering sum. Some years ago it was estimated that "blue sky" losses, including the operation of stock swindlers, amounted to a billion a year. Industrial losses, losses from business failures, run up into millions. But it would take several "panics" a year to total in destructive economic effect the ravages of illness.

Here is a loss which it is plainly a public duty to reduce. Obviously it is a job for the medical profession. Medicine lately has given much attention to the preventive branch of the science, on the theory that a sickness prevented is a greater service than a sickness cured. It is patently of greater economic as well as social importance to keep the nation well than to provide the best medical care after sickness has fastened itself upon the individual, as necessary as this last may be from both economic and humane standpoints. The American Medical Association, through its secretary, recently stated the matter thus: "The one great outstanding problem before the medical profession today is that involved in the delivery of adequate, scientific medical service to all people, rich and poor, at a cost which can reasonably be met by them in their respective stations in life."

This is a perfect statement of the problem and the task of the medical profession. It is a job which corresponds in magnitude and puzzling factors to the job which American industry faced years ago. It is a gigantic job, yet it can be solved in the same way industry solved it—by putting the product within the reach of all the people.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

A SURPLUS AND A FAMINE

This world is organized in a queer manner, when you stop to think about it.

In the agricultural regions of the United States a great many farmers are facing financial loss because their crops are too big. They have grown more wheat than they can sell; the price has tumbled way down, and only some artificial stimulus will bring it up again.

In China, meanwhile, a good many millions of people are facing actual starvation because their crops are too small. There simply isn't enough for them to eat. Unless outside help comes, enough people to populate a state half the size of Ohio will die of hunger.

Too much in one place—not enough in another. Nobody, thus far, seems to have thought of tying the two regions together so that the ills of both can be alleviated. The world is organized on a queer basis.—Plainview Evening Herald.

TEXAS & TEXANS

By Will H. Mayes

Oil Interest Revives

With only a slight advance in the price of crude oil, independent wildcat development is picking up throughout the state and oil men predict that there will be much development the last half of the year as in any corresponding period since oil was first discovered in Texas. Of course this depends to a large extent on whether the price stays up and justifies the necessary exploration work. Texas now ranks second among states in oil production and is rapidly gaining first place.

Exports Increase

The latest Federal reports show that Texas is not only holding its place as the second state in the Union in the matter of exports, but is rapidly gaining on New York, and in a short time will likely stand first among all the states. While other states have practically reached their highest points in productivity—at least for the next decade or so—Texas resources have hardly been touched and are awaiting sufficient capital to bring about their development.

Texas will hardly experience a boom, such as has done injury to California and Florida, but will have a growth in the next ten or twenty years that will surprise our conservative business interests.

TEXAS Vacation Time

Most Texans who can afford it take their vacations in the summer, and the thermometer shows that summer-time has arrived. Vacationists usually give much time to consideration of vacation tours and stopping places. Too many Texans have the idea that enjoyable and restful vacations cannot be had in Texas. They are forgetful that the state has the longest and finest beaches in the country and that there are now lined with good roads, hotels and tourists camps. If they like the mountains, they too often overlook the fact that West Texas affords all that is to be desired. Texas affords all that is to be desired in altitude and picturesqueness. Texas rivers are noted, and much sought by northern people, for their fine fishing. In fact, whatever kind of vacation one may wish can be found somewhere in Texas, and the cost of vacationing in Texas is much less than in most of the better known resorts. "See Texas first."

Park Playgrounds

My estimation of a town always goes "away up" when I see that it has equipped its parks with suitable playgrounds for children and grown people and has employed a salaried playground supervisor. We have learned to expect this from the cities, but as yet few of the small cities and towns have thought this kind of an investment necessary.

Where the work has been started it is usually financed by the local organizations of women who get the backing of the men's civic clubs. In fact, most of our progress in the thing that make for the better may be attributed to the efforts of the women's organizations. This comment is made here because of a news report that Childress has equipped a playground at Fair Park and employed a supervisor who looks after daily games of baseball, volley ball, Tennis, croquet, horseshoe pitching, circle games, story telling and the like and gives instructions in swimming. Looks like Childress people are going to have good times right at home.

East Texas Organization

Hats off to the East Texas Chamber of Commerce for its splendid accomplishments of the past year! Here are shown some of them. It held 404 farm meetings and revived interest in fruit growing to the extent of having 273,000 fruit trees planted in that section. It started 263 bull clubs to aid the growing dairy business in East Texas, and created an interest in diversified agriculture such as that part of Texas has never seen before. It has so thoroughly sold East Texas to its own people, that they have about quit moving to other sections and have become East Texas boosters. Manager Blanton and his associates have done this, too, without the use of undue bombast, self-praise or self exploitation.

Luling's Farm Short Course

The Farmer's Short Course held annually at A. & M. college has accomplished a great work and is still doing an immense amount of good, but it has grown to such large proportions that it is doubtful if it results in advantages proportionate to those of the smaller districts and areas like that now being held at the Luling Farm Foundation each year. This columnist has attended both the large and the small meetings and has reached the conclusion that while the big gathering at College Station may be necessary to stimulate interest in the smaller meetings, such courses as those given at Luling, if they could be wide-spread enough to reach most of the farmers, would result in greater benefits. Those who attend the smaller meeting appear to have more serious purposes in mind and try in every way to get to the "bottom" of their local and individual problems.

Texas & Pacific Terminals

There is no better indication of the progress and prospects of the country than the expenditures being made by the railroads. Despite the fact that busses and trucks have made great inroads upon the business of railway companies operating in Texas, the rail lines have never before spent so much money as they are now using in improving their lines and making expensive extensions.

The Texas and Pacific has set aside $8,000,000 for a new station and for yard and terminal improvements at Fort Worth. The old station, once regarded as a magnificent structure but long ago an eyesore to Texas travelers, is to be replaced by a $4,000,000 structure that will probably excel any other in the South in attractiveness and convenient equipment. The immense business handled through Fort Worth justifies the investment, and the traffic comes from prosperous Texas towns and communities.

Let's Have a Sane "Fourth"

Press Clips

Bunk and hokum are the Siamese twins of present day opportunities. Go back to dear old Pollyanna Longfeller, read the "Psalm of Life" and remember what he says. "Trust no future, however pleasant." Therein lies the bewhiskered one's sole bid to undying fame, regardless to what grammar school teachers have to say about "Hiawatha" and "Evangeline." It is comparatively easy to let bunk and hokum get the better of one's capabilities. Flattery is one of the most insidious disciples of these Siamese twins. To be like Barnum, to have his attitude toward life, to fool the public as he did is to have the divine afflatus. Poor old Barnum!—Russell Clark in Memphis Democrat.

And now we have an enacted law for "farm relief." Well and good, but we are still of the opinion that the greatest prosperity comes to the farmer who works out his own problems. Intelligently, stays on the job, and cuts the corners of the expense account. It is that way in every business and will very likely be that way until the end of time. If the new law is worth what its proponents claim for it, and we hope it is, the farmer who relies mostly on his own efforts will still be the one who will profit most. It is a law of the ages.—Sam Braswell in Clarendon News.

Farmers generally these days are busily engaged cleaning out their fields in the hope of a glowing harvest later. Some are leaving a little of their cotton chopping in reserve, in hope of rain and consequent easier hoeing.—Fred Story in Childress Index.

Twenty-five years ago in this country a good road was the exception, rather than the rule. Now we have the greatest highway system in the world. The growth in use of the automobile was responsible for this development. Money spent for improved roads is returned in social and industrial benefits. Highways are the foundation of community progress. Now a new phase of highway expansion is appearing, the building of secondary or feeder roads. Roads are being extended into rural districts as never before since methods have been devised to give waterproof hard surfaces at a minimum of expense.—Albert Cooper in Shamrock Texan.

No one knows what he can do until he tries, and just as important, no one knows what he can't do until he tries. The typewriter makes it easy to write, but it's just as hard to think as ever.—Shaw Ray in Harmon County Democrat.

If there is one bit of civic investment that brings in dividends of exceptional value, it is that of investing in the manhood of the future. It is an investment that pays dividends in increasing amounts as the days and years go by. Boy Scouts of today are the business men of tomorrow. If they are to learn those manly qualities, business ideals of honesty, fair play and ethics, they must learn them in the formative years.—C. H. Walker in Borger News.

One day this week I saw a snake crushed to jelly on main street. Foolish snake. It takes a man with good legs and plenty of action to stay out of the way of speeding cars on our streets. Unless city and county officers get busy and put a stop to this speeding (forty to eighty miles an hour) on our main streets, somebody's child is going to be seen in the same condition as that snake.—J. D. Merriman in Panhandle Herald.

DECK'S Didactics

By H. D. W.

The thermometer hovered well over the hundred degree mark last week. While it had little effect on the men it did augment the stockingless move among the women. A lot of people are raising all kind of hullabaloo over the bare legs, but I am going to refrain from expressing my opinion because I don't believe a man's opinion has any weight with women anyway. Personally I don't care. If the women of this community want to show the bumps, discolorations, and scars that adorn their shins, instead of hiding them in sheer silk which smooths out the rough places, they can go right ahead. It doesn't matter a whoop to me. Besides Col. Buster and I are so old that we have quit looking, anyhow.

Last week J. E. Puryear brought in a bucket of the finest peaches I have tasted this year. I have forgotten the names, but one variety was red with a cling stone, and the other was those juicy yellow ones. I used to climb up in the top of a peach tree at home and eat twenty or more of the yellow variety, so my stomach remembered their taste even if my mind could not remember their name. Mr. Puryear also brought in some Sapa plums, which is a fruit that is a cross between a cherry and a plum. They are delicious. A. Rogers also brought in some fine peaches, but he only brought two whereas Mr. Puryear brought a gallon; therefore I am giving Mr. Puryear the most space.

I heard the other day that there are gambling houses—in other parts of the country, of course—which work on the theory that a man will guess wrong more times than he will right. About thirty minutes later I met Lee O'Neil and he offered to bet me a nickel drink that a dog was laying in the shade near the grandstand. I was afraid to call at first, because I had seen dogs laying there nearly every day, but remembering the gambler's theory I called and won. Now what do you think of that. However, I haven't been able to collect for the drink yet.

Not long ago I built a sidewalk two lots farther south than my home in order that people traveling along that way could walk down the street and get on the sidewalk without having to walk across a vacant lot and then tramp on my lawn. When the sidewalk was completed they refused to use it and insisted on continuing to walk across the vacant lots and across the lawn. Then I had the vacant lots plowed off and leveled down, and still people continued to walk across the lots. That made me sore; so I got out and put all the big hunks of dirt and rocks that I could find in the path. Can you imagine my consternation that evening when I saw four different individuals painfully and slowly wend their way in and out among those clods and that plowed ground when a smooth road and a level sidewalk was at their disposal simply by stepping on it. Sometimes human nature flabbergasts me.

Seven new gins are going to be built in Collingsworth county this summer. Wellington already has more gin machinery than any other town in Texas and more gins than any other town except Robstown, and now it looks like the county is going to rival the leaders with twenty-six gins in all. I have always envied the ginners their long summer vacations, but I am not so sure that I envy them now. Twenty-six gins is considerable machinery for a county that produces about 40,000 bales on the average.

This paper has carried two editorials on speeding recently in an effort to have it reduced. They may have done some good, but they haven't done enough. It is a darn shame the way we drive in this town, and something ought to be done about it.

They are writing theme songs for special weddings. And Texas is giving them three days of grace in which to think up the words after making the momentous decision.—Olin Hinkle in Pampa News.

Sargon's Demand Rapidly Smashing All World Records

If anyone told you that one single medicine had relieved tens of thousands of suffering men and women in all walks of life of their health troubles and that it had put thousands of other men and women unable to find relief back to work it would sound impossible, wouldn't it?

But that is just exactly what is happening right here in this state. Not only has it brought them new-found health and strength, but it has given them new energy, new vitality and a new lease on life itself. In many cases, the results have been so remarkable that many people have bought it and sent it to friends in other states, while other thousands have written grateful letters of praise.

The wonderful success that Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills have achieved in one year's time simply staggers the imagination.

In the state of California alone where it was introduced on April 16 of this year, it has required the astonishing total of nine solid carloads—or more than 200,000 bottles to supply the demand. Kansas City retailers and wholesalers have sold and distributed over 300,000 bottles in the states of Kansas and Missouri. Minneapolis and St. Paul dealers have required nine carloads in five months. The demand in practically every state and section where Sargon has been introduced has been correspondingly large. When national distribution has been completed it will require millions upon millions of bottles to supply the ever-increasing demand for this celebrated medicine.

Back of Sargon's triumph in the drug stores is Sargon's triumph in the homes. Everywhere it has been introduced it has become a household word and it is unquestionably the most widely talked-of medicine in the world today. When Sargon was first given to the world just one year ago, it was hailed as a triumph in the field of modern medicine. Many well known authorities who watched its development freely predicted that it would become the one great outstanding, health-giving remedy of the age. But the men of science who labored for years to perfect it little dreamed it would become such a great boon to humanity in so short a time.

Sargon may be obtained in Wellington from Joe Hardy Drug Co. and in Quail from Dr. F. V. Walker.

Clarendon Wheat Harvest Is Good

Six carloads of wheat have been shipped from Clarendon already and other cars are being loaded out as fast as the wheat can be brought from the combines to the city. Trucks are working over time to care for the work in hand and railroad facilities are being crowded a little in view of the fact that the wheat harvest is on in full force in other places than Donley county.

The yield is varying in all parts of the county, and is dependent on the amount of pasturage put on the fields before the wheat started to put out for the new crop. The Lon Rundell place possibly turned out the best yield to date, making a little more than twenty-seven and one half bushels to the acre. Others are running as low as ten to twelve bushels and the average will possibly run near the twenty bushel mark for the county.

Estimates for the county vary and will run to 50,000 or more bushels of wheat to be marketed in Clarendon. The test is exceptionally good, running to Number One wheat and better. The past few damp days have caused the test to fall to 58 and 59 pounds, where it had been making 60 to 63. A few dry days will bring the test back to where it was the latter part of the week. The cars loaded out have all been capacity cars, running approximately 1,500 bushels to the car. The price is steady and stands at about 85 cents per bushel.

Shamrock Deputy Again in Office

Deputy Sheriff Tom C. Johnson of Shamrock, who resigned Friday afternoon because he "was getting tired of spending half his time denying lies," was back on the job Saturday night after several friends had talked with him and Sheriff W. K. McLeMore.

Promised the help of friends in putting a stop to the "spreading of false reports by political enemies," and assured of the confidence and good will of his chief, the deputy sheriff consented to resume his duties.

In announcing his resignation Johnson had expressed regret that he felt it necessary to do so to save his reputation. He said he had been slandered by political enemies every since he had been in office, that the rumors became widespread and that he considered his resignation was the only thing that would put a stop to them. Sheriff McLeMore had asked Johnson to reconsider the matter. He expressed confidence in the deputy's integrity and said he believed him innocent of every charge that has been rumored against him.

It was only a few hours after Johnson's resignation became generally known that Sheriff McLeMore announced the deputy had reconsidered and decided to remain on the job.

Building Permits At Memphis Are Shown Increased

June has been one of the more active months of the year this far in the number of building permits to have been issued at Memphis. Up to and including Monday of last week, the month's total building permits amounted to $84,700, which is a material gain over June of 1928. Carpenters have had plenty of work to do since early in the spring and this work bids fair to continue for some time. Building activity is to be noticed in practically every part of Memphis. Repairs are either being made to buildings already standing or new one are being erected.

Childress Fining Traffic Violators

Thirteen more traffic violators appeared in city court at Childress in a single morning last week. This brought the total number of violators to 34 for the past two days.

The round-up of violators of the ordinances came as a result of flagrant disregard to stops on the side streets and the cutting of corners on thoroughfares off of Main and Commerce.

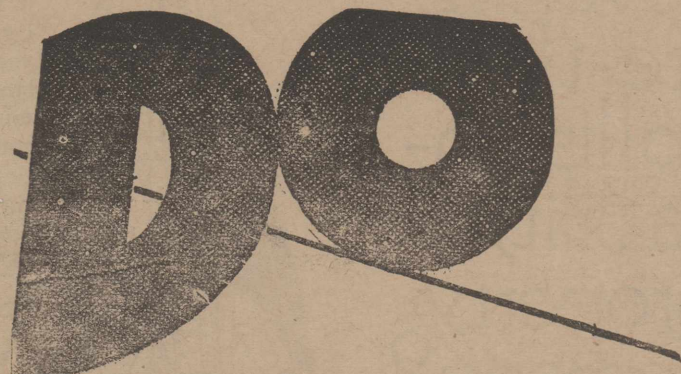

City officers of Childress have been working diligently the past two days to cut down the violations. In doing so they have set a record for traffic fines, never before equalled in the city court.

Few of the offenders have been caught on Main and Commerce, but have committed the errors on side streets in the residential districts.

Wichita Educator Praises Orgatone

W. T. Webb Is Glad To Tell
Everybody About
Orgatone

Wichita Falls people, like those everywhere else, are now pouring forth their praise of Orgatone. This sensational medicine has taken the town by storm, and in every neighborhood will be found someone who has a remarkable story to tell of the amazing benefits they have received from its use.

Now comes W. T. Webb, residing at 2105 Princeton street, Wichita Falls, Texas and a well-known school teacher and educator for the past 50 years, who says he wouldn't exchange the good Orgatone has done him for any amount of money.

"No sir, I wouldn't take anything on earth for what this Orgatone has done for me," says Mr. Webb. "I could look the world over and I wouldn't be able to find anything to equal this remarkable medicine."

"Yes sir, this Orgatone is more than is claimed for it by a long ways. I guess I have taken every medicine that I have heard of good for stomach trouble in the past 14 years, but finally developed into what I was told a dry hacking liver cough. It didn't make any serious difference how light the food I ate, gas would form causing me serious heart disturbances."

"I had to take a laxative most every day for constipation and I was so nervous and restless I would roll and tumble all night, and many nights could hardly get any rest at all. Mornings I could hardly drag myself out of bed. I tell you, if there ever was a miserable person it was me."

"Yes sir, all the agonies in my stomach are gone, indigestion, pain, gas, and all. In fact, just 42 doses of Orgatone has put me on the road to health and I get up mornings now feeling top-top. Just tell everybody to see me if they want to know what Orgatone will do. I can sure tell them enough."

Genuine Orgatone can be obtained at Wellington by the Palace Drug Co.

Now is the time for breeders who intend to exhibit at the fairs this fall to begin fitting their show stock, as the animals which are sent to Amarillo will be forced to compete against stock which will have been in show condition for many months and in order to have an even break, it will be necessary for local exhibitors to begin fitting their cattle the earliest day possible.

Memphis Democrat Holds Banquet On 22nd Anniversary

Commemorating the twenty-second anniversary of The Memphis Democrat, a banquet was held in the Memphis Hotel ballroom on the evening of July 1, honoring Deskins Wells of Wellington, and J. Claude Wells of Memphis, former owners of the Memphis publication which only recently went into new hands.

The banquet was a most enjoyable occasion for all present, having been carefully arranged and appointed by William Russell Clark and Lyman Robbins, editor and business manager, respectively, of The Memphis Democrat. Mr. Robbins served as toastmaster.

Each of the speakers paid fitting tribute to the efforts of the former owners for their guiding counsel during the years when The Democrat was on the uphill grade.

In their speeches, J. Claude and Deskins Wells spoke of the loyalty they had received from their employees in building The Democrat to its present state of perfection, assuring them that this loyalty would always be remembered with gratitude and affection.

Those present at the banquet were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Claude Wells, Jerry Sitton, Deskins Wells and Budge Harle of Wellington; Mrs. Jones Couch, Lyman Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Huff, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Ray, Bill Autrey, and William Russell Clark.

a new independence

— In July we celebrate the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. And it is good that we set aside one day each year in which to rejoice over the freedom for which our forefathers fought and died.

— There is still another kind of freedom which we of this modern age enjoy—Freedom from the slavery of drudgery, disease and discontent. This new freedom is the result of years of experimenting with that great discovery—ELECTRICITY.

— By reason of its cheap and abundant supply, life has ceased to become a struggle merely to exist. The sweat shop has faded like a bad dream in the fog of time. Anemic, spindle-legged children have given way to a race of sturdy, red-blooded youngsters. Disease, to a great extent, has fled before the development of modern science.

— Through the extension of its facilities, industry is moving to the country. The vermin of the tenement has been eradicated by bright electric lights. The electric washing machine and iron, vacuum cleaner and similar labor-saving devices has swept drudgery to the forgotten past.

— We are proud of the fact that this company has a part in spreading this new freedom to 110 prosperous cities, towns and communities in West Texas. Fed by three major generating stations and fifteen auxiliary plants, more than 2,000 miles of transmission lines of this company carry an unlimited supply of electrical energy to the people of this "Land of Opportunity."

Amarillo Throws In With R. I. In Railroad Battle

Eastern Panhandle Thinks
Prospects Brightest
For Project

With the Amarillo chamber of commerce actively behind the Rock Island project and the Transportation Committee of the Fort Worth Association of Commerce having recommended that its board of directors likewise endorse it, hopes of the Eastern Panhandle for a main line affording a shorter route to Fort Worth are higher than at any time since the beginning of the Rock Island Fort Worth and Denver fight two months ago.

Announcement that Amarillo has tendered its support to the Shamrock to Quanah line was made after its chamber of commerce directors had ended a discussion of the two proposed railroads by voting one hundred per cent for the Rock Island. As one speaker put it "Amarillo is now in the fight with both feet."

The Fort Worth committee took a stand after hearing from a delegation of business men representing Shamrock, Wellington, Quanah, Olney and Jacksboro that sentiment in these cities is strong for the Rock Island. The Transportation committee will recommend to the directors of the Association of Commerce that they actively support the Rock Island project.

With such a strong array of towns and cities favoring the Rock Island, all of them determined to appear at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing and express their preference, it is considered the Rock Island has better than even chances of getting its application granted.

The Fort Worth and Denver proposes to build from Childress to Pampa, by way of Wellington and Shamrock, and owing to the fact much of its proposed route parallels the proposed Rock Island line, it is considered certain the Interstate Commerce Commission will grant only one of the permits. The road which makes the strongest bid at the commission's hearing will be granted the right to build and that is why such an effort is being made by each railroad company to secure the endorsement of the towns along the proposed route. The date for the hearing has not been set.

Shamrock, Wellington and Quanah and communities between these cities have been making the strongest fight for the Rock Island. They have pledged right-of-ways and have passed resolutions asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant the application. Shamrock and Wellington will carry more than ordinary weight, it is thought in view of the fact that both cities are included on both of the proposed routes.

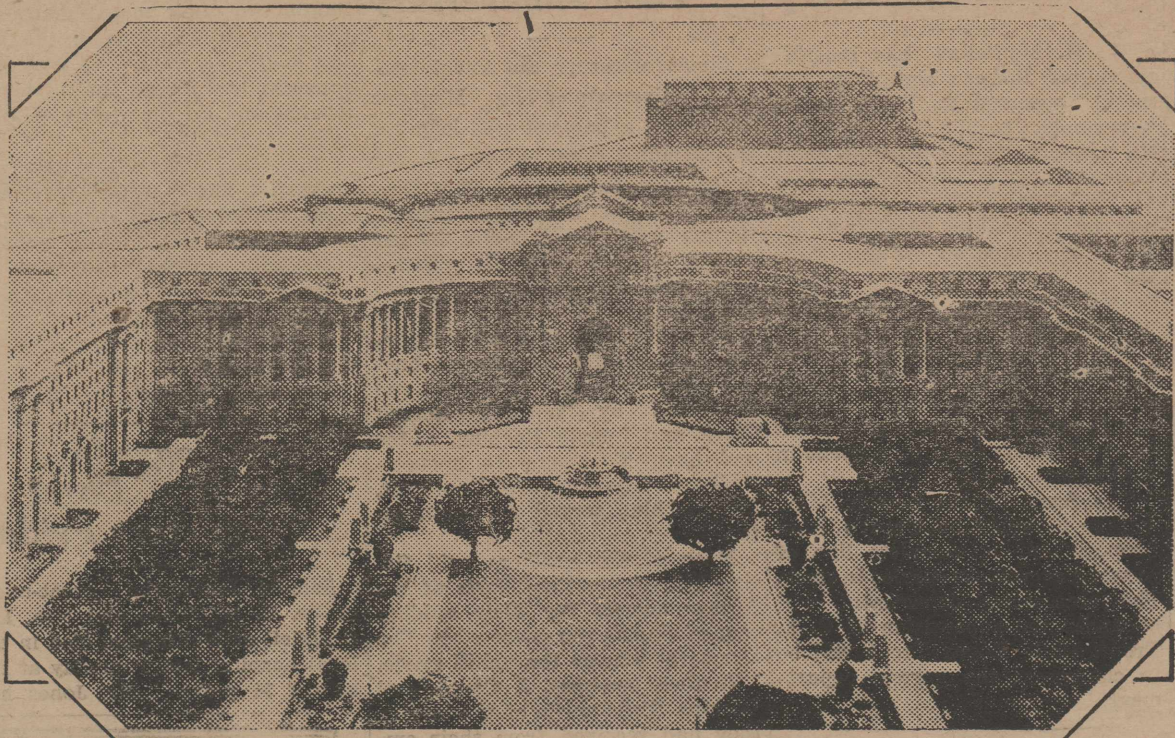

Guy Hill and Percy Bones of Shamrock were among those who went to Fort Worth to enlist aid in the railway scrap. The delegation also called on the Dallas Chamber of Commerce and made a bid for support of that city but was tendered a very cool reception. It is not thought likely, however, that Dallas would risk antagonizing this large territory by assisting the Fort Worth and Denver interests. Dallas stands as much chance of profiting by the Rock Island, if not more than by the Denver, it was pointed out.

Here is the resolution adopted by the Amarillo chamber of commerce setting its reason for endorsing the Rock Island project:

"Whereas, the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf Railway company on or about April 1, 1929, filed an application with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D. C., for a certificate of convenience and necessity, whereby they could construct a rail line from Shamrock, Texas, south through Wellington in Collingsworth county and Quanah in Hardeman county and then from Quanah to a connection with the new line which the Frisco is building from Vernon to Seymour, the Rock Island to use the new Frisco from Quanah to a connection at Seymour, thence via the Gulf, Texas and Western, which is from Seymour to Jacksboro, where a connection is made with the Graham branch of the Rock Island, thus making a continuous line in Texas between Amarillo and Fort Worth; and the Fort Worth and Railway company, on July 1, 1929, filed an application with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D. C., for a certificate of convenience and necessity, whereby they could construct a rail line from Childress, Texas, through Wellington in Collingsworth county, at Shamrock in Wheeler county to Pampa in Gray county, Texas; and

Plaza Part of Capital Building Project

The proposed new Pennsylvania Avenue Triangle of public buildings in Washington, D. C., one of the most ambitious programs to be undertaken by the government, includes a great plaza. The view of the plaza shown above is looking from the Department of Commerce building east toward the Capitol.

ience and necessity, whereby they could construct a rail line from Childress, Texas, through Wellington in Collingsworth county, at Shamrock in Wheeler county to Pampa in Gray county, Texas; and

"Whereas, the said Fort Worth and Denver City Railway company's application was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission some 30 days subsequent to the filing of the Rock Island application and traverses approximately 50 miles of the identical line called for and designated in the Rock Island application; and

"Whereas, that as a matter of fairness and based upon priority of an application filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission and the further fact that the line proposed by the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf Railway company will be an important link in a trunk line system for the expeditious and economic handling of an enormous grain tonnage from the North Plains and the North Panhandle of Texas thus affording an all-Texas line in connection with the new Amarillo-Liberal Line of the Rock Island to the gateways of Amarillo, Fort Worth and Dallas and the Gulf Ports as against a spur branch line as proposed by the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company from Childress to Pampa, Texas; and

"Whereas Amarillo being the first gateway city from the vast grain producing area of the North Plains of the Texas Panhandle, Texas County, Oklahoma and Southwest Kansas, the benefits to Amarillo would be specific and unestimated in the calling for large terminal elevators and other facilities that would make it logical for Amarillo to become a large and growing milling center, thus carrying out the original and worthwhile program for the city of Amarillo in the anticipations with respect to the new Amarillo-Liberal Line of the Rock Island and which line cannot yield the justly expected advantages and facilities to either the Rock Island or

Amarillo without the all-State line now proposed by the Rock Island from Amarillo through Shamrock south to Wellington, Quanah, Seymour, and Fort Worth; therefore, "BE IT RESOLVED, that the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce comprising in its membership over one thousand representative business and professional men, hereby unqualifiedly and wholeheartedly endorse the application of the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf Railway company for a permit to construct their line hereinbefore mentioned and further do solemnly and earnestly memorialize the Interstate Commerce Commission to and necessity to the Chicago Rock Island and Gulf Railway company, grant the certificate of convenience that this new rail line may be constructed as expeditiously as possible; and

"Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D. C.

New Grey Iron Foundry Finished For Oakland Co.

Newest Manufacturing Unit One Of Huge Expansions

Pontiac, Mich., June 29: Completion and operation of a new grey iron foundry considered the last word in modern foundry practice, equipment and facilities, is announced by Gordon Lefebvre, vice-president in charge of operations for the Oakland Motor Car Co.

This newest manufacturing unit, another development of the huge expansion program not only increases the number of parts manufactured in Oakland-Pontiac plants to fully 90 per cent, but like all other units of this large industrial group, is the most modern foundry of its kind in operation.

Seven distinct buildings make up this foundry group all connected by an extensive conveyor system with service yards between, the one remarkable feature most evident being the innumerable time and labor saving machines so arranged and coordinated that few parts or materials are handled by hand.

This seven-million dollar enterprise adds 250,000 square feet of floor space to the modern Oakland-Pontiac plant. Designed and superintended by J. E. Linabury, who constructed foundries for various other General Motors divisions, the new Oakland-Pontiac addition possesses equipment and processes developed by Mr. Linabury and said to be entirely new in foundry practice.

Gradually picking up volume for some time past, the foundry is now pouring about 100 tons of casting daily, mainly engine blocks, heads, and flywheels. Practically all cast parts used in the manufacture of Oakland and Pontiac Sixes will be built here when volume touches peak of 450 tons a day. Employment is expected to reach 1,500 men, most of whom will be machine operators.

Quality in cast parts was the dominant factor aimed at in the design of the equipment, according to Mr. Linabury, the object being to turn out castings as accurate in relation to foundry work as the precision manufacturing operations in relation to their own field in the new Oakland-Pontiac engine building and assembly plants.

To achieve high quality in material, a laboratory in charge of experienced chemists is maintained adjacent to the melting and casting room, so that a constant check may be made to assure uniformity in the molten metal and the resulting casting.

Splendid ventilating systems keep the air fresh and pure at all times, and the core oven and mixing rooms resemble gigantic bakeries with their machinery clean and bright, rather than dust-laden like the foundries of other years.

Miles of conveyors and overhead monorail trolleys simplify the process of casting and material handling from the raw state to the finished part ready for the car assembly lines.

Pig iron, scrap and other raw material is moved from the storage yards to the cupola room by powerful ten ton magnets operating from an 80 foot span traveling crane. Five different grades of metal, each accurately weighed by a new process to assure uniformity in quantity, are then emptied into huge two-ton buckets for the "charging" of the cupolas. There are two hot blast and two cold blast cupolas, each one rearing three stories in the air, and each with a capacity of twenty tons of molten metal an hour. The molten metal is heated to over 2700 degrees, Fahrenheit before pouring. In this process, one ton of air are used in making one ton of metal.

Alternate layers of metal and a mixture of limestone, are used to charge two cupolas, while formerly many operators were required when the work of charging was done by hand.

Sand for core-making is stored in huge bins with a capacity of 450 carloads. Sand is unloaded from the car and later taken from storage, by a huge overhead crane. After mixing, the core sand is taken to the core makers by an overhead trolley.

In erecting its core ovens, the Oakland foundry has departed from former practice and developed what are said to be the first complete systems of vertical ovens in the world. There are to be 16 of these.

Earlier foundry men placed cores on racks and pushed these into horizontal ovens in much the manner that bread is pushed into ovens. When thoroughly baked the cores were removed and allowed to cool.

In the Oakland foundry cores are molded and placed upon racks which travel upward on an endless belt through an oven which resembles a gigantic ventilating shaft. Automatic heat control keeps this oven at a temperature of 450 degrees. At the top of the oven the racks move into a similar shaft and descend to the floor passing through a cooling chamber, so that when they again reach the floor level they are ready for inspection and assembly.

These new ovens occupy but one fourth the space required by the horizontal ovens, and the cores require much less handling than the former method.

Cores are made largely of hand and linseed oil. In the mixing room the sand, oil, water and such other materials as are used are measured and mixed entirely by machinery, the operators controlling their task by levers and tiny switches. After mixing the material is conveyed automatically to the core moulding rooms where it is placed in bins ready for use.

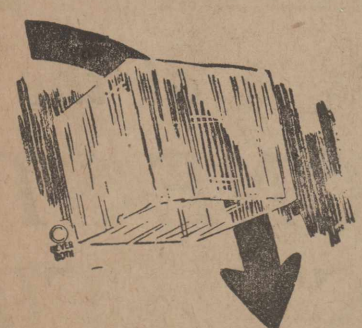

Cores after being baked to proper hardness and inspected are assembled in forms and taken to the foundry and placed in molds on a conveyor line where they move past the ladels from which molten metal is poured into them. Molten metal is brought to this point by overhead cranes, but the actual pouring from smaller ladels is done by hand.

When the metal has hardened, special machines remove the forms, knock away the waste sand and cores, and the castings are taken by overhead conveyor to the cleaning building where they are sand blasted and ground ready for delivery to the machine shops for finishing and assembling into Oakland and Pontiac automobiles.

"Further manufacturing economies will be effected by the operation of a foundry by the Oakland Motor Car company," Mr. Lefebvre explained. "Reduction of transportation costs through building adjacent to the Oakland-Pontiac plants, parts formerly manufactured elsewhere and shipped to Pontiac, will prove an important item in lowering costs," he said, "and operation of its own foundry will enable Oakland to maintain closer supervision over the quality of cast parts."

"When the foundry reaches peak production, fully ninety per cent of all parts used in making Oakland and Pontiac cars will be built in Oakland-owned and Oakland operated factories," Mr. Lefebvre stated.

The "crazy" ant that infests households—so called because of its habit of running about, apparently aimlessly, with a quick jerky motion—can be restrained from its erratic activities by any of the various means used to combat house-infesting ants, such as dusting sodium-fluoride powder along the insects' runways, or by injecting a little kerosene or gasoline into the nest, if it can be found. The surest way to keep a house free from ants is to leave no food lying about on shelves or open places. Cake, bread, sugar, and meats are especially favored by ants. Many of the ants that infest households came from the Old World to this and other countries on ships.

Texas Panhandle Seeks Publicity By Fair Exhibits

Eight Or Ten States Will Be Covered In Exhi- bition Tour

Four counties reported a completed financial quota for the funds of the Panhandle-Plains of Texas, Inc., at a meeting of the directors in Amarillo recently. At least fifteen others will be ready by July 1, according to information given to E. B. Black, of Hereford, president, who called the meeting.

Donley, Deaf Smith, Potter and Oldham announced their readiness for the summer campaign.

University Gift Provides Books For Law Students

AUSTIN, Texas, July 3.—Through the provisions of the gift of a $1,000 six per cent bond from Miss Betty Ballinger of Galveston, the University of Texas law library is now acquiring a collection of law books on the subject of jurisprudence, according to Miss Lucy Moore, law librarian. The interest from this bond, presented to the School of Law in 1913, has been placed in the Ballinger & Jack Fund, now amounting to almost $1,000. The fund is named in memory of the Ballinger & Jack Law firm of Galveston, one of the oldest legal firms in Texas. It was established in 1887, while Texas was still a republic.

When the bond matures in 1932, it will be reinvested and the income will continue to be used in the purchase of new books and periodicals which appear on the subject of jurisprudence. A course in this subject will be offered to students in the School of Law for the first time in 1930-31.

Similar courses are arranged in various Texas towns and cities during the long session of school.

Miss Florence D. Jones made a business trip to Childress Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hill and son, L. C. Jr., left Thursday for Colorado Springs where they will spend their vacation.

Hollis Busy With Water Problems

With a meeting of the city council of Hollis scheduled Thursday night for the purpose of making plans to improve the Hollis water supply, it is believed that temporary relief from the water shortage has been obtained.

Adequate water supply, pure and untainted, has been received at Hollis last week from the plant, due to the recent rains, and the fact that people have been conserving the supply by refraining from watering the lawns to any great extent. The large reservoir is slowly being filled up, which will keep a quantity of water on hand should another shortage come, Ross Cox, mayor, said Wednesday.

When the shortage occurred last week there was no reserve water in the tank, due to cutting off of pumps at various times to do repair work on the system.

Temporary additional pipe has been laid, connecting the west spring to the present system, making a larger source for the supply. Plans to make this system permanent will probably be made by the council tonight, Cox said. The pipe was borrowed from the Lone Star Gas Co., as a temporary measure.

Water is clear now as it enters the collecting system, as additional sand filterers were installed in the collecting tank.

One pump is running at maximum capacity at all times, and the other is in operation about 12 hours a day. The third pump is not in use.

"There is practically little danger of water running low again, if people use common sense conservation of the supply," Cox said.

It is believed the council will consider the question of raising bonds to the amount of $30,000 to completely make over the system, enlarging it, and installing electric machinery and piping at the meeting. Petitions have been signed by nearly 1,000 citizens asking for this measure. It has been estimated that the water consumption in Hollis has been trebled since the present system was installed, and to prevent future shortage, and to provide for a water supply commensurate with the anticipated growth of the city, it will probably be necessary to enlarge the system it is believed.

KNOWLEDGE CONTEST ANSWERS

1. Arcade Drug Store—Rexall Drug Store—Joe Hardy Drug Co.

In Wellington there are two popular drug stores, each striving to out do the other in courteous treatment, prompt and satisfactory service. The attendants at each store are always on the alert to see that the attendants at the other do not offer some special inducement to inveigle their customers away. This is a friendly rivalry, however, as both stores are owned by the same company. Both stores are located on the same street, both have attractive fountains and inviting tables where delicious ice cream and refreshing drinks are served. One features drugs, toilet articles, etc., in "The Original Package," the other features "Rexall" drugs and the filling of prescriptions. Both stores would be a credit to a town much larger than Wellington. What is the name of these two drug stores and the company that operates them.

2. Snell's Cash Grocery and Market—Phones 15 and 17.

On entering the modern, sanitary grocery and market this sketch refers to one is at once impressed with the appearance of cleanliness and system throughout this store. Here is a concern that has been in operation a great length of time and yet one would judge from the interior appearance that the store had its opening the day previous to this visit. They pride themselves on promptness of efficient service, cleanliness of stocks, high quality of goods and low prices. The courteous welcome one receives makes one feel as if he has gotten into the right store for the right goods at the right price. "You can get it at....." is becoming a popular slogan. This store is located on a prominent corner and faces South. What is the name of this store and what are their two telephone numbers?

3. Coca-Cola—W. Y. Burden, Mgr.

"It had to be good to get where....." This sketch directs attention to a thirst-quenching drink that is known all over the civilized world. Ever so often a new beverage is placed on the market and stays a while and then passes into oblivion while this refreshing drink gains in popularity as the years pass by. It is well known and the demand for it is so great that when you step into any place where soft drinks are sold you will always find it in the most convenient location. You can't go wrong when you ask for this drink and get it right out of the bottle. It costs no more and you are sure of getting the genuine article. Millions of bottles of this famous drink are consumed every day. It is not an experiment, it has reached perfection. This company maintains a large plant here in Wellington. What is the name of the drink and who is local manager.

4. Sugg Bros. Service Station—15th and West Avenue.

All roads lead to the service station this sketch refers to or at least that is the impression one gets when they see the many cars that are constantly there for service. One often hears the owner of a service station remark that if he had a more central location he would do more business. This only goes to show that he is depending more on location than he is on giving satisfaction to draw trade. This station is not centrally located but what is a few blocks to a motorist when he knows that by driving out there he can get high-class service that is second to none. They feature Phillips '66' gas, carry a large stock of tires. This is the station that is giving away the Oldsmobile Sedan. What is the name of this station and where is it located?

5. Hunter's Men's Store—Sam Mgr.

Beau Brummel with all his taste lived today he would find the attractive display windows of the up-to-date exclusive store for men this sketch refers to, the glass of fashion, a criterion to dress by. To the up-to-the-minute man of now, to whom the matter of dress is so important, this store is headquarters, for all the furnishings so essential to the well-dressed are to be found here in abundance of selection. If you are looking for cheap, inferior goods the stocks at this store will not interest you, but if you want high quality goods at reasonable prices their stock is sure to please you. This is the home of Stetson and Mallory hats, Bostonian and Crossett shoes, Manhattan silk underwear, Ritz Broadcloth shirts, Pool Work clothing, Sweat Proof shirts and pants to match, McDonald Railroad King overalls, V & S Riding pants, Yard Long work shirts, Wolverine Horsehide work shoes, etc. You won't need to be much of a "hunter" to find this store. "You are welcome." What is the name and who is the manager?

6. Goodson Funeral Parlor—Phone 490.

The final tribute is the one that demands the greatest care. A prominent funeral parlor has such appropriate accommodations for rendering superior service for the departed that a brief mention of it here will be of interest. No funeral is too large or too small for them to handle in perfect harmony as they are splendidly equipped to take full charge, relieving patrons of all unnecessary care and worry. Every appointment of this mortuary is planned to give efficient, unobtrusive service. Here you may have the use of a chapel, a slumber room, where the family may be alone with the loved one who has passed on. These and many other features belong to those for whose use they were designed. Entire confidence may be placed in these people in regard to detailed arrangements. Many years of satisfactory service has proven their loyalty. What is the name and phone number?

7. City Cafe—John Bevers, Prop.

One of the most popular and inviting places to eat in Wellington is the cafe this sketch refers to, if you eat here you know it is good. They buy the very best the market has to offer and it is prepared by chefs that have had years of experience catering to the wants of the public. The proprietor gives his personal attention to this business and an air of welcome always prevails the place. The little things are not overlooked that makes you feel your patronage is appreciated. If you have never eaten at this cafe, step in and get their idea of real service. Busy merchants and professional men find this an ideal place to drop in for their noon day lunch. Sunday dinners are made a special feature. This cafe is located on the south side of the square. What is the name and who is the proprietor?

8. Wellington Durant Co.

Are you planning on buying an automobile? If so, do not let salesmanship sell you the car, make the car sell itself. A salesman's duty is to point out to you the many advantages of the car he represents over the other cars. If he can convince you of these facts, a sale is made. Beware of the "high powered" salesman who is more anxious to have you sign your name on the dotted line than he is to demonstrate the merits of his car. This sketch directs your attention to a Motor company that wants you to try other cars first and then give them an opportunity to demonstrate a Durant to you. They feel sure, that, by comparison, a Durant will sell itself. They allow you the highest price for your used car in exchange and make terms to suit you. Who are the local dealers for this "four speed forward" car?

9. Pioneer Hardware Co.—Sherwin-Williams Paints.

In this sketch we call your attention to a hardware store of real magnitude. Its trade territory extends for many miles in all directions and its reputation for giving 100 cents of value for every dollar expended with them is just as wide. Here you will find anything and everything in shelf and heavy hardware, tools, farm implements, paints, glass, wall paper, etc. In addition they have a large furniture department filled with home furnishings of all descriptions well balanced material, workmanship and price. And as the name would indicate, this is one of the oldest stores in this district. It is located on the north side of the square. What is the name of this company and what brand of paint do they feature?

10. Laughter & McDonald—Ducos Auto Paint Shop.

Do you know that you can get "as good as new" paint job on your automobile right here in Wellington? Do you know that having your automobile painted is not an expense but an investment? It not only beautifies your car but preserves it as well. Drive around to this paint shop on Eighth street, get their prices on painting your car, the time required to do the job and see the work they are doing. This is an authorized Ducos refinishing shop. If you have a wreck, just phone 40, they will call for it and put it back in first class condition. They rebuild bodies, straighten fenders and replace broken glass. They also do furniture repairing and refinishing. Who are the proprietors of this place of business?

11. Wellington Ice Co.—Phone 206.

If we were to give you the phone number of the company this sketch refers to you would have little difficulty in figuring out just who we meant for it is the phone number you have been associating with your wants for ice for a number of years and one that you will want to become familiar with now that the warm weather days are here again. "Save with Ice" is the noiseless refrigeration. The use of ice in the home is not a luxury, but an economy. More food is allowed to spoil in homes that do not use ice than the expenditure for ice would amount to. And, as the mail order house says: "Try their service for 30 days and if not satisfied return the article and they will refund your money." But seriously speaking, now is the time to call them up and have them place your name on their lists of stops. What is the name and phone number?

12. Dr. J. D. Wonderlich, Chiropractor.

Can you think of a more important profession than one devoted to the relief of pain and the treating of diseases by natural methods? Contrary to the general belief that has gotten out to the public, Chiropractors do not claim that a misplaced or subluxated vertebra is the cause of all disease. They do claim that irritation beyond tissue resistance is the cause of all abnormality. The human body, like the construction of a watch, must all work in harmony. If any part becomes impaired, proper functioning can't be expected until that part has been adjusted. Chiropractors know how to locate this dislocation and then adjust the body so as to bring all parts back to automatic relationship. The success of the Chiropractor this sketch refers to speaks well for him and for this branch of health science. He has a well equipped office located over a drug store. What is his name?

13. Ruth's Cafe—C. E. Estes, Prop.

When you want a lunch and want it quick, cooked and served before you have time to realize it you naturally think of the little cafe this sketch refers to that makes up in service what it lacks in size and where cleanliness is made a feature. Their delicious coffee is only surpassed by their wonderful home made pies. Short orders are served at all hours. If some one doesn't quit telling some one else about the wonderful meals that are served here, and the prompt and efficient service the proprietors will soon be forced to move into larger quarters in order to accommodate their ever increasing trade. This cafe is located on a prominent corner of the square.

What's the name and who is the proprietor?

14. Ray Goodson, Radio Dealer—C. E. Langmack, repairs.

The radio has long since passed the experimental stage and has now become an important factor in our every day life. Every city, town and hamlet have at least one dealer that sells radios and parts but few towns the size of Wellington have a place of business devoted to the sale of these instruments and as complete a stock on hand, as this sketch refers to. They are local dealers for Majestic Radios. Their easy payment plan permits everyone to enjoy the use of one of these instruments in their home. Here you will also find a large stock of phonographs and records, also a complete line of magazines. An up-to-date radio repair shop is in connection where radios of all makes are repaired and reconditioned by a man who is an expert and a graduate of the American Radio School. If your radio is not giving you satisfactory service, let this man put it in first class condition. Who is the proprietor of each of these places of business?

15. City Service Station—Miller Tires.

With the great number of service stations in operation today it is only those who have a most convenient location, sell high-grade products or render exceptionally fine service that are making a success of the business. In this sketch we direct attention to a station that has all the above mentioned advantages and in addition they are equipped, to wash, polish and grease your car and make it look and run like new again. The convenient location of this station on Eighth street near the new Coca-Cola building, out of the congested business district, the fact that they handle Conoco gasoline and oils, also Amalie oil and render prompt and efficient service has made this one of the busiest and most popular stations in Wellington. They also render an up-to-date tire service, have a glass grinding machine and are prepared to replace automobile glass in all makes of cars. What is the name of this station and what make of tires do they sell?

16. P. E. Williams—Goodyear Machinery.

In this day and age the repairing of shoes has been reduced to an art. A man must not only be an expert at this line of work in order to give satisfactory results but must have the proper equipment as well. Do you know that you have a shoe repair shop located here in Wellington that is using the same identical kind of machinery that is used in all the shoe factories for the making of new shoes. The proprietor of this repair shop is well known throughout this district, having been connected with the shoe repair business here in Wellington for a number of years. The convenient location of his shop near the post-office, the fact that he is an expert in his line and has the proper equipment and material makes this one of the most popular shoe repair shops in this district. Who is the proprietor of this shop and the name of the machinery he uses?

17. Wilson and Co., Produce and Creamery—E. E. Weaver, Mgr.

The prosperity and general advancement of a community depends not only upon patronizing your local merchant thereby keeping your money in circulation where it will have a chance to come back to you, but institutions must also be in operation that will bring outside money into a town by finding a market for the surplus commodities of a community. In this respect we call attention to a place of business to which much credit is due for bringing outside money into this community. They are buyers and shippers of cream, poultry and eggs and the farmers for miles around know they can always find a ready cash market here for their produce. The large volume of business they do speaks well for the dairy and poultry interests. This place of business is located on East Avenue, near the railroad tracks. What is the name of this company and who is the manager?

18. Palace Drug Store—Phone 172.

What is the name of the "Human Service Station" about which one hears so much favorable comment? This is a drug store where it is "A Pleasure to Please" and when you step inside and see their wonderful display of stock and trim fixtures you can easily imagine you are in a drug store in a city many times as large as Wellington. Their elaborate "Fountain of Youth" and cozy, cool cream parlor is a popular meeting place for young and old. Prescription work is featured and "Not Quite Right" is all wrong. They carry a complete line of the well known Nyal remedies and are headquarters for magazines, daily papers, etc. "If a drug store should have it, we have it" is their slogan. What is the name and phone number of this popular drug store?

19. The C. & A. Grocery Store—Phone 185.

A great many people questioned the judgment of the proprietors of the place of business this sketch refers to when they learned they were going to establish a grocery store here in Wellington. Even claiming there was no demand here for another grocery store. But perhaps they did not know that this was to be "A store extraordinary" where high quality goods, reasonable prices, prompt service, courteous treatment, a clean and well balanced stock were to be some of the inducements put forth to interest the trade. If the large volume of business that has been theirs since the opening of this store is any criterion to go by then the success of this venture is assured. The proprietors have made a careful study of this business and know what the public appreciates. This new store is located on East Avenue. What is the name and what is their phone number?

20. Geo. Hervey, Prop.—"George The Battery Man."

Why take chances on having inexperienced men "work" on your car when you now have the services of a man who has made a careful study of this line of work, and has had over fifteen years of actual experience in the reconditioning of motors, recharging, repairing and rebuilding of batteries and general all around repair work on all electrical parts of automobiles. When this man started in business here a short time ago, he had hoped for a share of the business in his line but was hardly prepared for the hearty welcome that is being extended him both in patronage and good will. He hopes to merit both by a continuation of high-quality service at reasonable prices. His place of business is located near the new Coca-Cola building and his offer of $10 for a suitable name for his business still holds good. Who is the proprietor and who do you call for when your battery needs attention?

21. Boverie Radio & Electric Shop—Stewart-Warner Radios.

What is the name of the electric shop in this city that when they do a job for you the work can be depended upon to give satisfaction in every detail? They are always open for contracts to wire buildings and install plants anywhere. No contract is too large for them to handle and no job too small to be given careful consideration. They are "live wires" so to speak, and are experts at repairing anything electrical. Their place of business is located on the south side of the square where a choice stock of electrical appliances are on display. They feature Philco all Electrical Radios, and are the local distributors for another well known radio. What is the name of this electric company and the name of the other radio?

22. Shields & Lewis Hardware—Rock Island Implements.

What is the firm name of the hardware store that is in great favor throughout this district as well as with the townspeople. The fact that they have made a careful study in this community and make it a point to see that they always have just what they want has made this store very popular. Here you will also find a choice selection of furniture suitable for any room in the house, be it cottage or mansion. This is headquarters for sporting and athletic goods of all kinds. In fact anything and everything you would expect to find in a first class hardware and furniture store is on display here. This popular store is located on the East side of the square. What is the firm name and what line of well known farm implements to they sell?

Mangum Makes Improvements

Several items of improvement are being made by Mangum under the supervision of City Manager H. T. Lawrence.

The new engine in the light plant has been installed but can not be put into use for about three weeks, pending the installation of a new switchboard and other accessories. An addition is to be made to the light plant building, 16 by 50 feet in size, to accommodate the new switchboard. The new light plant equipment will greatly increase the capacity of the plant, which is necessary because of the growth of Mangum. The improvements are being made from profits of the plant operation.

South and West Commerce alley is being opened for one-half block south from West Lincoln street and one-half block west from South Oklahoma avenue. Storm sewers are being installed on West Commerce. The new street is being opened to provide inlet to the new Wright building.

A well is being dug in Harmon field to provide water for the swimming pool. A pump is to be installed and City Manager Lawrence hopes to have a water supply ample to take care of the demands of the pool. The pool will probably be opened during the second week of July, he stated.

The city is conducting a weed cutting campaign and trying to encourage all property owners to cut the weeds and clean up their premises. Mr. Lawrence called attention to the fact that the season has now arrived when mosquitoes congregate around weed patches. He wants to remove everything that will encourage mosquitoes.

Since Ben Franklin said "Save and Have" many level-headed persons have opened savings accounts. And many have blessed the adage that showed them the way to financial solidity.
