A Texan in South Africa.

A News special from Corsicana, of date Nov. 9th, says:

A few years after the Civil war, Gen. John B. Hood and his entire family were stricken with yellow fever and all died, except two children. Soon afterward these survivors were adopted by Hood's Texas brigade, that famous body of men who followed Gen. Hood from Texas to Virginia and who engaged in the great battles of Gen. Lee's army. After the children had been in the care of the brigade for some time a wealthy gentleman of New York made arrangements for the adoption of the children and they were given to him. The elder child Duncan, was sent to West Point and afterward took a course in electrical engineering, but was interupted in his studies by the breaking out of the Spanish-American War. He was appointed colonel of the First United States immune regiment, but saw no active service. After being mustered out of service in America he went to South Africa and enlisted for service in a Boer brigade, not a word having been heard from him after his enlistment.

E. G. Sessions of Rice, a member of Company I, Fourth Texas, Hood's brigade, was here a few days ago and said that he had the latest news from the lost boy in this way: John Allen Queen of Rice, went to South Africa with a shipload of mules to be used by the English. He was anxious to see the country and found it very difficult to get passports, so he joined Kitchener's fighting scouts. On one occasion he was with an English colonel who had an interview with a Boer embassy under a flag of truce. The spokesman of the Dutch was Duncan Hood, who wore the uniform of a colonel. Queen states that the English Colonel demanded an unconditional surrender, but that this was absolutely rejected by Hood, who asked for reasonable terms. Such was refused and the Englishman instructed Hood to remove the women and children, for he would begin firing as soon as the time of the truce expired. Hood bowed most politely and said he would get the women out of the way and would be ready for the British to fire at that time. True to his word, the Briton turned his guns loose upon the camp and bombarded it furiously and then led a headlong charge, but when the camp was reached, not a Boer could be found, nor any track or trail by which they had gone. Queen says that if the earth had swallowed them up the track could not have been more completely lost.

In speaking of Colonel Hood, Queen says that the British regard him as the best commander in the Boer army. "I fought with the English," said he, "and my sympathies are with them, but I believe if Hood had 40,000 men he could clean up South Africa in sixty days."

In speaking of Americans in the English army, Mr. Queen states that they are better fed, better clothed and better taken care of in every way than any in the army. "When you get the English into line," he remarked, "they will fight till they die, but they are slow. The Americans are quick and are born fighters, and the English officers realize it. You can pick out the Americans there just by their general appearance, caused by the extra care taken of them."

Allow me to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I had a very severe cough and cold and feared I would get pneumonia, but after taking the second dose of this medicine I felt better, three bottles of it cured my cold and the pains in my chest disappeared entirely. I am most respectfully yours for health, Ralph S. Meyers, 64 Thirty-seventh St., Wheeling, W. Va. For sale by Overton Drug Co.

Several pistol shots in rapid succession in the neighborhood of the compress last Sunday night bought forcibly to the mind of many of our citizens the necessity of running in the pistol "toter" at every opportunity and making him pay to the last limit of the law for every offense. The indiscriminate shooting of fire arms is coming to be quite a common thing throughout the town and if it is not stopped in some way before long some serious catastrophies will not likely be averted. The officers are powerless in running in the violators unless the citizens help. for in nearly every case before a police officer can arrive on the scene the victim has disappeared to another part of town. Several farmers have only this week also complained to the Progress that the same condition exists along the public roads in the country and a farmer and his family as well as the travellers along the highways are in danger night after night of being struck by stray bullets fired by parties who meander back and fourth along the road exploding fire arms at night, with no possible reason to do it more than to gratify a morbid appetite to consider themselves "wild and wolly." The guilty parties had best beware before they bring trouble upon themselves and others.

Reuben Joel Tomme, who died at his home in Dublin at 12:25 a. m. October 31st, was a native of Arkansas, having been born in Cleveland county, that state, February 3rd, 1872. He was a son of Mr. D. C. and Mrs. D. A. Tomme, the latter of whom is deceased. His other surviving relatives, besides his wife, are a brother, W. P. Tomme of Texarkana, and James and T. W. Tomme of Walnut, besides a sister, Mrs. A. A. Overton of Jefferson, Arkansas. He was married October 26, 1898, to Miss Hattie Ross, a daughter of Joseph N. Ross of near Dublin, and in the sad taking away she has the earnest sympathy of all. His fatal illness was typhoid fever, and he was laid to rest in the old Dublin cemetery.

Doc Blair of the Duffau country, who is an announced candidate for the democratic nomination for sheriff of Erath county, was here several days this week forming the acquaintance of the voters as a necessary incident in his race for the office and on Tuesday gave the Progress a pleasant call. Mr. Blair is a native Texan, having been born in Grayson county and moved to Bosque when he was but eight years of age. For twenty-seven years he has been a citizen of Erath during which time he has been engaged in farming and stock raising. During the war, though very young at the time, he served two years in Gideon's battallion of Texas rangers, his service extending chiefly along the Rio Grande.

He boarded the Texas Central "Flyer," in company with a number of other witnesses to go to Hillsboro, and in entering the coach the door blew closed and caught the third finger on his right hand and almost amputated it, at least the wound was such that amputation was necessary and he went to the physicians for treatment. RATHBUN NOT DEAD.

The Corpse Supposed to Be His Is That of Another Man.

HE IS RUN DOWN

Plan to Get Life Insurance Failed—He Says the Body at Little Rock Is That of a Party Who Had Lived in Louisville.

Louisville, Nov. 12.—Newell C. Rathbun, who was supposed to have been found dead in a Jeffersonville, Ind. hotel, last Thursday, was arrested in Louisville, Monday.

According to his story, the corpse which was shipped to Little Rock for burial as the body of Rathbun was the body of another man of this city.

The police say Rathbun has confessed to desertion from the United States army and to having formed a plan to fraudulently collect $4000 insurance on his life, but that he denies having killed the man who died in the Jeffersonville hotel.

Rathbun was arrested at the United States recruiting station in Louisville. He is held as a fugitive from justice.

The arrest was made on information from Sergeant Skinner of the United States recruiting station. Rathbun enlisted under the name of "Lou Root, Detroit."

Sergeant Skinner had read the story of the Jeffersonville case and circumstances connected with the new recruit aroused his suspicions. One of these was the fact that the man had on a government suit of underwear. He said he had bought the garments from a soldier friend. Another circumstance was his knowledge of army affairs about Little Rock. Saturday he passed the examination and enlisted.

The police are trying to establish the identity of the dead man. One of their theories is that he was a tramp that Rathbun had fallen in with. The police have telegraphed to Little Rock authorities to hold the corpse.

A gold watch bearing the name of "W. H. Ellis" was found on Rathbun. He refuses to say where he got it. The police say that the handwriting of "Lou Root," the recruit, was very similar to the signature on the Jeffersonville hotel register.

Coroner Coots of Jeffersonville states that he examined the stomach of the dead man and found traces of enough laudanum to kill two men.

Rathbun said in an interview that at Plattsburg barracks he and a corporal fixed up a plan to collect the $4000 insurance. He says the plan was "to ship a stiff into some hotel and then set fire to the building after having left letters and papers of mine in the pockets of the stiff's clothes. Of course when the hotel burned we expected the stiff to be burned up, too, or at least so scorched that no one could recognize him."

He says the corporal came to Louisville and under their agreement the corporal was to secure the stiff. Rathbun hints that the corporal drugged the victim if he was drugged. He says he doesn't know where the corporal is now.

Rathbun gave his birthplace as Detroit, his nearest relative as J. Brown of Debray, Mich. his trade as a printer and his age as 27.

WORK TRAIN WRECKED.

Three Men Killed and Eighteen Injured on the Iron Mountain.

Prescott, Ark., Nov. 12.—One of the worst wrecks in the history of the Iron Mountain occurred Monday about one mile, south of town in which three men were killed and eighteen wounded, all negroes. The wrecked train was an engine and was carrying about 40 workmen to where the road is being leveled. While going backward at a high rate of speed, the engine struck a piece of new and crooked track, left the rails and threw the men in every direction, some in front of it, some under it, and one man was wrapped around a guy-pole on the side of the track.

The dead and wounded were brought to town on hand cars, wagons, etc., where they received medical aid from company physicians here and were taken to the hospital in St. Louis.

The track was so torn up that it was necessary to build around the wreck in order to permit passage of regular trains.

Double Tragedy at a Church.

Paris, Tex., Nov. 12.—A double tragedy was enacted Sunday below Capt. S. J. Wright's farm in Red River county. The scene of the tragedy was at the Barnesville colored church, where a large crowd had gathered to attend preaching While John Goodloe and Ellis Thompson were engaged in fighting, Dean Patrick ran forward to take Thompson's part. A revolver in Patrick's hands was accidentally discharged. The bullet took effect in the body of Thompson, inflicting a wound believed to be fatal. Patrick then turned the pistol on Goodloe, killing him instantly. The parties are all negroes, and Thompson and Patrick were half brothers.

It is now believed that only a matter of a few weeks will see the Frisco running through trains from Brownwood direct to St. Louis. ...men are now engaged in connecting the Rio Grande division at Ft. Worth with the former terminus north of Ft. Worth.

The Frisco has notified the Brady railroad committee that it will not be necessary to buy right of way over school land that has been sold by the state since 1879. This is in accordance with a law passed at that time, reserving to the state a title to two hundred feet as right of way for public improvement. This relieves the subscribers to the railroad fund of quite a good sum of money, as there is quite a large part of the survey that runs through lands of this description.—Brownwood News.

Pay For Volunteers.

The adjutant general of Texas has collected from the United States government the balance of the amount due to the members of the late Fourth Texas volunteer infantry, aggregating the sum of $11,595. Notices of the pay due to officers and to enlisted men are being sent out by the adjutant general, the postoffice address of each being taken from the muster-in-roll of the company, which was made out in July of 1899. Since that date it is presumed that one-third of the ex-soldiers have changed their postoffice address and consequenty will not receive the notification; hence they should without delay advise the adjutant general at Austin of their new address and if living in a city, should give the house number and the name of the street on which he resides. No pay is due to those who were enlisted after their regiments were mustered into service.

Old Texas Money to be Redeemed.

The last legislature made an appropriation of $15,000 to be expended in paying and redeeming the old obligation of the republic of Texas. Since the passage of that act has become known, various and sundry kinds of obligations made by the republic of Texas have turned up. During the past several days a considerable number of bills or rather the currency of the republic have turned up, to say nothing of a number of promissory notes of the republic, some of which are signed by General Sam Houston.

The comptroller's department has received a twenty-dollar and a ten-dollar bill, issued January, 1840. The bills came from San Marcos and belong to R. E. McKie. He wants the ancient currency redeemed, which will be done for its full face value.

State Senator J. T. Beatty of Jasper, Texas, sent a promissory note of the republic, dated December 10, 1837, and signed by General Sam Houston. This note, too, will be redeemed for its full face value. This note bears ten per cent interest, but according to law, the interest will only be allowed to February 1, 1856. It is estimated that there are about $20,000 worth of these ancient obligations scattered throughout Texas, and possibly many in other states. It is very likely that this appropriation will be exhausted before the next legislature convenes.

The pecan growing industry is one of the most profitable in the territory of San Angelo. It is stated that thirty cars have already been shipped from there this season and twenty more expected before the close. The average price paid for them, delivered, has been seven and eight cents per pound, depending upon the quality. One gentleman who has resided in San Angelo says he has one tree on his ranch north of there that has this year netted him thirty dollars.

"Last winter an infant child of mine had croup in a violent form," says Elder John W. Rogers, a Christian Evangelist, of Filley, Mo. "I gave her a few doses of Chamberlin's Cough Remedy, and in a short time all danger was past and the child recovered." This remedy not only cures croup, but when given when the first symptoms appear, will prevent the attack. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidentally to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Overton DrugCo.

The election to decide whether a special road tax should be levied in Comanche county resulted in the defeat of the tax by a vote of 561 to 903. We understand that the commissioners of Erath county will soon issue an order for a like election, but it may be hoped that it will result differently in Erath. Good roads are the most profitable improvement that can be made anywhere and the benefits come to every citizen, no matter what his occupation. The expense of making good roads is comparatively nothing to the advantages to be derived by having them.

Robert Mayse, the fourteen-year-old son of J. S. Mayse, of Brady, was found in a pasture two miles from that place last Thursday, dead from two gunshot wounds just over his heart, caused by the accidental discharge of a gun in his own hands. The clothing caught fire and the dry grass, being high and dry, was ignited and the body was burned beyond recognition. It was identified by his gun and dog. The gun was a muzzle loader, and the supposition is that the firing of one barrel discharged the other. His dog was guarding the body and refused to let any one approach.—Brownwood News.

In the year 1895, when J. R. Grantham was in business at Whitney, there was an unsettled account on his books, which he carried over in the usual way, against one H. W. Hawkins. A few years thereafter, Mr. Grantham closed out his business here and has moved around to different points, his last location being Dublin. He naturally gave up the account referred to as lost, and probably had forgotten all about it. On July 9th last, six years after the account was due, Mr. Grantham received a letter from H. W. Hawkins, who had moved to King's Mountain, N. C., in which the latter called his attention to the fact that in 1895 he owed him $9.50, and that he was now ready to settle the amount, and offered to pay interest on the $9.50 till the present time, if Mr. Grantham demanded it. In his letter Hawkins said he was then getting in shape to pay the account off; that his circumstances had been such that he could not before, and that he was also trying to work for God with all his might and means. Mr. Grantham felt satisfied with the principal and did not demand interest, and on the 14th of this month he received New York exchange from Hawkins covering the amount, stating that he tried to be honest, but had been badly pressed for some years, concluding his letter by thanking Mr. Grantham for his kindness and praying for God to bless him. While this man has done nothing but his bounden duty, still he has evinced an honesty that is very rare in these days, for it seems to have come to pass lately that when a man owes a debt a few years he makes up his mind never to pay it. The Messenger has had experience with a number this way. In this case both parties had lost sight of the other, and Hawkins had addressed his first letter to Mr. Grantham at Whitney, which was forwarded to the latter at Dublin.—Whitney Messenger.

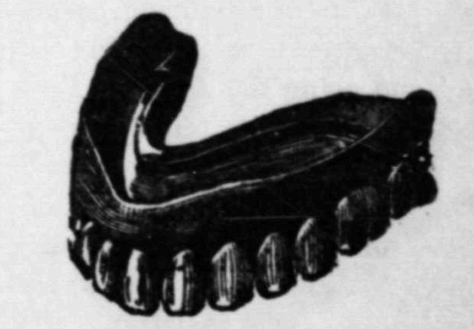

The present administration of the postoffice at Dublin is doubtless the best and most generally satisfactory to the patrons of the office than any former one. During the time Postmaster Weaver has been in charge of the office the postal receipts have increased most wonderfully, and while a considerable amount of this is due to the natural growth of population, yet the satisfactory service has contributed no little to the fund by reason of a freer use of the mails and the money order system, as well as the concentration of many postoffice patrons to this place who have heretofore received their mail at other points near here. The accommodating methods of Mr. Weaver are a matter of daily comment, for, unlike many public officials, he and his clerks seem never to be afraid that they may do more for their patrons than the law absolutely requires them to do, and after and before the passing out of the mail and before the legal hours in which the office may close is a great saving of time and annoyance to parties who are unable to get to the office during the time that offices are generally open. The patrons of the office are almost a unit in declaring the service as good as could be asked for.

The life of King Edward VII of of England is said to be insured for two and a half million dollars, from which it would appear that kings, even in England, come high.

Whil[e] others in the north and east a[re] saying themselves in looking a[fter] the political welfare of the coun[try] Mr. Cleveland is regularly enga[ged] in the quietude of the lake and f[ish]ing with his gun and fishing tackle [and] saying nothing.

A Washington special of last Tuesday says: "Roosevelt's new driving wagon made its first appearance today. The footman and coachman wear blue livery with a double row of buttons. They have cockades of the national colors. Roosevelt, it is believed, is the first president whose coachmen display cockades.

The managing editor and a special writer on Hearst's Chicago American, were sentenced to forty and thirty days in jail by Judge Hancy of that city last week, for contempt of court. The American had severely criticised the decision given by Hancy in favor of the Chicago gas monopoly and this constituted the basis of the judge's action. Papers are also out for two cartoonists of the same paper on the same charge. The action of the judge was a judicial outrage that may get him into trouble. In the meantime the two newspaper men are at liberty on writs of habeas corpus.

CLERGYMAN'S CHILDREN.

Coffee Being Replaced by Postum Food Coffee.

"I'm the wife of a minister. About three years ago a warm friend, an exemplary mother and the conscientious wife of a minister, asked me if I had ever tried giving up coffee and using the Postum Food Coffee. I had been telling her of my excessive nervousness and ill health. She said: 'We drink nothing else for breakfast but Postum Food Coffee, and it is a delight and a comfort to have something that we do not have to refuse the children when they ask for it.'

I was surprised that she would permit the children to drink any kind of coffee, but she explained that it was a most healthful beverage and that the children thrived on it. A very little thought convinced me that for brainwork, one should not rely upon a stimulant such as coffee is, but should have food and the very best of food.

My first trial of Postum was a failure. The maid of all work brought it to the table lukewarm, weak, and altogether lacking in character. We were in despair, but decided on one more trial. At the second trial, we faithfully followed the directions, used four teaspoonsful to the pint of water, let it boil full fifteen minutes after the real boiling began, and served it with rich cream. It was delicious and we were all won.

I have since sung the praises of Postum Food Coffee on many, many occasions and have induced numbers of friends to abandon coffee and use Postum, with remarkable results. The wife of a college professor said to me a short time ago that nothing had ever produced so marked a change in her husband's health as the leaving off of coffee and the use of Postum Food Coffee." Edith Smith Davis, Appleton, Wis.

Commenting upon the results of the recent elections and its bearing upon the future of the democratic party the Ft. Worth Mail-Telegram says: "To sum up, we have this: Mr. Bryan's own state carried by the republicans; Iowa, which indorsed Mr. Bryan, gives a republican majority of more than 100,000; Ohio, which adopted a plan indorsed by Mr. Bryan, remains republican; Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, no significance; Arthur P. Gorman on top in Maryland—an enemy to Bryan; Richard Croker and Tammany, which supported Mr. Bryan, completely snowed under. There is absolutely nothing in this record over which a Bryan democrat can rejoice. Neither is there any place where he can exclaim "I told you so!" It is better the democracy ask, "Can not we do something else?"

Texas Central to be Absorbed.

A special from Waco of Wednesday last says the report is current on good authority that the Houston and Texas Central is about to absorb the Texas Central, thereby extending its Bremond and Waco division from Waco to Stamford, and that the line would be shortly extended from Stamford west to a connection with the Southern Pacific company. Col. Hamilton was out of the city and the report could not be verified, but it is generally known that a few days ago the officials of the two roads made a trip of inspection over the line.

Foot Crushed by a Train.

John Shaughnessy, who formerly resided here, but who has been for some time employed as a brakeman on a railroad running into Greenville, happened to an accident last week which necessitated the amputation of one foot, the limb being taken off at the ankle. He stepped off the rear end of a caboose, lost his balance and fell and the car passed over the foot, crushing it in such a manner as to cause amputation necessary. His father came to him from Waco and took him to the railroad hospital at St. Louis.

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

BY MRS. A. E. CASWELL.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union was organized November 1874, at Cleveland, Ohio, by the brave women who fought in the "whiskey war" for their sons, fathers and husbands. The following is a "Declaration of Principles" as set forth by the Annual Leaflet:

"We believe in the coming of His Kingdom whose service is perfect freedom, because His laws, written in our members as well as in nature and grace, are perfect, converting the soul.

We believe in the gospel of the Golden Rule, and that each man's habits of life should be an example safe and beneficent for every other man to follow.

We believe God created both man and woman in His own image, and therefore, we believe in one standard of purity for both men and women, and in the equal right of all to hold opinions and to express the same with equal freedom.

We believe in a living wage; in an eight-hour day; in courts of conciliation and arbitration; in justice as opposed to greed of gain; in 'peace on earth and good-will to men.'

We believe in our pledge.

We therefore formulate, and for ourselves adopt the following pledge, asking our sisters and brothers of a common danger and a common hope, to make common cause with us, in working its reasonable and helpful precepts into the practice of everyday life.

I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine, beer and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

We believe in our badge.

The badge is a knot of white ribbon, and it was adopted in the convention of 1877, on motion of Miss Margaret Winslow. The white ribbon is symbolic, not only of purity and peace, but it includes all the correlated reforms that center in the protection of the home.

We believe in the God who hears and answers prayer and therefore we honor 'the noontide hour of prayer, when each white ribboner the world over is expected to lift her heart to God in prayer for His blessing on the work and workers, and the overthrow of the liquor system and its allies.' "

The following reasons are given by some of our leading workers for belonging to the W. C. T. U. We hope soon to publish a few reasons from our Dublin women.

"I belong to the W. C. T. U. because it is the society of societies which has brought out the very best in woman; and because it has undertaken more for humanity than any reform earth ever knew; and because it has achieved much that is grand, and is on the highway to perfect, complete victory, and last because it lies at the root of all reform." CLARA C. HOFFMAN.

"Because as a woman I desire to do all I possibly can in Christian ways to promote the cause of temperance and to bring about a union of all good women to work for the overthrow of the liquor traffic, believing it to be the arch enemy of childhood and of the sacred interests of home and humanity."

LILLIAN M. N. STEVENS.

"Because its principles accord with my views. Because the opportunity for great achievements is practically unlimited. Because it is a working body and not simply a dress parade army. Because organized womanhood can accomplish a peculiar work. Because it is a democratic body where worth and willingness to work count most. Because its aim covers the whole field of reform. Because through its machinery, both direct and indirect, influence can be brought to bear against evil. Because I believe every intelligent woman ought to do something for the world outside of her own home. Because there is strength in union—and for one hundred other reasons." SUE M. D. FRY.

"Because I see the great need of work to save the nation from the power of the mightiest evil that ever assailed humanity, and because I believe this organization of Christian women is doing more than any other association for the education of the children, the awakening of public sentiment and the arousing of Christian conscience, Because I feel that the Lord is calling upon every Christian man and woman to stand aggressively against this giant foe, and my conscience would not allow me to remain idle."

When things are "the best" they become "the best selling." Abraham Hare, a leading druggist, of Belleville, O., writes: "Electric Bitters are the best selling bitters I have handled in 20 years." You know why? Most diseases begin in disorders of stomach, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, hence cures multitudes of maladies. It builds up the entire system. Puts new life and vigor into any weak, sickly, rundown man or woman. Price 50 cents. Sold by Overton Drug Co.

Stanker, aged 60, was instantly killed under the wheels of a freight car while attempting to drive across the Chicago and Alton tracks at the crossing at the Godfrey depot. John Karr was in the wagon with him and escaped uninjured by being thrown to one side of the track when the car struck the wagon.

Indianapolis, Oct. 22.—It is not likely that Governor Durbin will annouuce his decision in the matter of the last requisition of Governor Beckham of Kentucky for the extradition of Taylor and Finley until after the trial of Caleb Powers, which is now in progress at Georgetown. It is believed the requisition will be denied.

Howes—So you have come to that conclusion, have you?

One who says she has tried it recommends naphtha for cleaning light fur. Then shake and hang in the air to dry. Be careful of fire.

Lawton Prize Winner Dead.

Lawton, O. T., Oct. 22.—James D. Wood, who drew the capital prize in the Lawton district at the El Reno lottery last August and settled a claim valued at nearly $50,000, is dead of typhoid fever after a brief illness. Before his death all the contests against his quarter section claim adjoining the town of Lawton had been disposed of by the interior department and his widow will come into undisputed possession of the property.

A Long Sleep.

Dr. Soca, an English physician, reported the case of a young girl of seventeen taken with syncope after a cold "tub" who slept for seven months in the hospital to which she was admitted. When she was aroused from sleep, she responded drowsily to questions put and fell asleep again. At the end of seven months she died of pneumonia, having slept herself out of life. Sometimes she was fed in her sleep and at other times while they kept her awake.

Dog and Wolf.

There has been some dispute as to the descent of the dog—whether it is an improved progeny of the wolf or a distinct variety. That it is a different species is proved by the fact that the dog and the wolf will mate and produce offspring. Nevertheless it is probable that the dog is merely descended from the same original stock with the wolf.

Every person who owes a debt, no matter how small or how large it may be, can pay it or make satisfactory arrangements towards payment. If actual inability exists the creditor is nearly always ready to be reasonable. The trouble lies in the fact that too many people don't try to meet their honest obligations, and in many cases will not do so when they are able. Such men as the latter are barnacles on civilization and society and should be considered outside the pale of respectability.

Hey there! You little wrigglin' chap,
Winkin' an' blinkin' on "grandma's" lap,
What do you think of all this biz?
Cute little feller, ain't he, Liz?

Ten? Beats Jones's any way.
Hully gee! What an arm that is!
Reg'lar Jim Jefferies, ain't he, Liz?

Jest watch him doublin' up that fist!
He's goin' to be a pugilist;
Or else a preacher, or else—gee whiz!
Whoops like an Indian, don't he, Liz?

Seems t' say as plain's can be,
"I'm lonesome; that's what's a-troublin' me."
Lonesome, the poor little feller is!
But we'll be good to 'im, won't we, Liz?

Say, Doc, you goin? Well, good night,
Here's twenty dollars—is that all right?
I'm satisfied, an' I'll bet she is;
Pretty good doctor, ain't he, Liz?

I'm satisfied but for jest one thing;

But I guess it's all right jest as 'tis,
Better luck next time—won't we, Liz?

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

A complimentary copy of The Newspaper Blue Book, issue for 1901-02, has recently been received by the Progress, and is found to be even more handsome than its predeces ors, as well as containing a more extended amount of information than the former issues. It is published by Mr. Theodore Wiese, of Chicago, who is proprietor of the United States Clipping Bureau and one of the foremost newspaper men in the country. The booklet is each year intended to contain a select list of the best weekly and daily newspapers in the United States, arranged alphabetically by States. Out of the seven hundred and more newspapers in Texas fifteen dailies and forty-five weeklies are listed by Mr. Wiese as being the best of their class within the state and we note with considerable pride that the Progress is mentioned among the number.

President Roosevelt recently made it plain to several senators whose influence has heretofore been in demand to secure federal positions for political pets that he would make appointments strictly on the merit of the applicants. Senator Culberson and Senator Cullom each came to him in the interest of an appointment and the president plainly told them that applicants need not seek to gather "influence" in the way of senatorial endorsements, hoping thereby to secure appointment; that he would place all applicants on the same footing and appoint in every case the one most fitted for the position.

The Weekly Progress at Gorman made its appearance last week in an enlarged and much improved form. It's a good weekly and one most creditable to the town in which it is published.

METHODS AND PURPOSES OF LI HUNG CHANG.

Spokesmen of the powers deem it probable that the death of Li Hung Chang may have the effect of making Russia lose her hold on Manchuria. That seems to have been the first thought when the death of the venerable Chinaman was told to the world. The information is given out that Russia's emissaries in Pekin endeavored in the last living moments of the great man to secure his signature to a release of Manchuria to Russia, but it is explained that he was so near death that he could not comply with the demand, even if he had desired to do so.

Li Hung Chang, during the latter years of his life, was thought to be friendly to Russia and Russian desires in the Orient. Whether he was thus friendly remains yet to be seen. He understood that Russia, of all nations with whom his people had to do, was the most threatening and dangerous to them. He understood that Russia's interest demanded that she be given access to the Pacific through her railroad line now terminating at Vladivostok and that this access could only be had through a part of the Chinese territory. He could not afford to deny this access. That would offend. He could not grant it without ceding Chinese territory. To refuse was to make Russia an enemy which would at once take by force that which it could not get by diplomacy. He could not grant it, because that would have caused his overthrow with his people and would have subjected them to a war not only from Russia, but perhaps with other nations desiring Chinese territory. He took the course of delay. To accomplish this, he affected a friendship for Russia, as he was bound to do. In time he may have hoped to satisfy her demands, and at the same time used her as a buffer against the greed of the other nations.

Li Hung Chang was a remarkable man, and the burdens imposed on him were greater than those carried in his time by any other man. On the one side he had to combat the shrewdness and greed of civilization, while on the other he had to combat the suspicion and stupidity of barbarism. It is not at all improbable that if the history of his life were fairly written, he would be given his place as the most resourceful and successful of all the world's diplomats.—Dallas News.

The new building being erected by Dr. O'Brien, which is designed for a sanitarium will be when completed one of the best as well as most modern buildings in this part of Texas. Already the third story is assuming building appearance and at the present rate the fourth will soon be in progress. There's little telling where the doctor will stops as he is that sort of a man that when he gets a good thing going he never stops to figure.

NEW DYNAMITE GUN.

It Will Destroy the Largest Battleship With a Single Shot.

New York, Nov. 12.—Highly successful tests of a new dynamite gun of destructive powers, in excess of any weapon hitherto designed, have just been privately conducted by a special board of officers of the bureau of ordnance of the United States army at Fishers Island.

The government has for several years been engaged in the erection on Fishers island of a fortification on a colossal scale, intended to make the eastern entrance to the sound impregnable to naval attack and secure the safety of all the cities along the sound from New London to New York. In this system of defense the gun, which is mounted so as to cover the channel between Fishers island and Plum island on which heavy batteries have also been erected, is expected to play an important part. The utmost secrecy has been enforced by the government relative to the works on Fishers island, and the government has not made public these tests.

The gun, which was built in Scranton, Pa., was recently installed in a battery at the western end of the island. It is of the same pneumatic type as the guns of the batteries now in position at Sandy Hook and San Francisco, being 40 feet long, with a calibre of 15 inches, but embodies many new features, including rapidity of action and accuracy of fire. A new type of fuse has also been supplied which assures absolute precision of explosion of the shell both on impact and by delay action.

With the full calibre projectile, the gun proved its ability to hurl 500 pounds of nitro gelatin, said to be sufficient to annihilate any battleship afloat, a distance of about 3000 yards with a degree of accuracy not excelled by the latest type of heavy rifled ordnance. Two days were devoted to the tests. The first shot hurled a six-inch shell, carrying 50 pounds of explosive a distance of 5763 yards, bursting on impact with the water, and sending a column of water 300 feet in the air. With a ten-inch shell, carrying 200 pounds of explosive, the extreme range was found to be 5,460 yards, and the shell exploding under water with the desired delay action of two seconds.

In the test for accuracy five eight-inch shells were dropped to the respective ranges of 5043, 5035, 5020, 5040 and 4970 yards, all of which would have taken effect, assuming that the target had been a battleship about three miles away, or about double the distance of 2500 yards now generally accepted as the limit of a practical fight range.

In the test for rapidity of fire, five full calibre shells, weighing 1185 pounds, or more than half a ton each, were discharged in 11 minutes and 55 seconds, almost bringing the weapon within the class of rapid fire pieces. The test for endurance called for the firing within two hours of 25 air shots or what in an ordinary gun would be called blank cartridges, but no difficulty was experienced in firing 40 shots in the time without any appreciable loss of pressure in the storage reservoir, the air pressure in the gun remaining uniform at each shot at 1000 pounds.

A Quilt for Mrs. McKinley.

Los Angeles, Nov. 12.—Mrs. McKinley, at her home in Canton, Ohio, has just been the recipient of a novel souvenir of her visit to the Pacific coast last May. These ribbons Mrs. McKinley preserved, and they have been made into a quilt by a friend from whom they have been received by Mrs. McKinley. The total length of the ribbon was 310 yards.

The Filipinos apparently attempted to repeat the Samar tactics, but the Americans, who were breakfasting fully armed, completely routed the insurgents, who left five dead men on the field, each having a rifle and ammunition. One American was seriously wounded.

Captain Noyes of the Thirtieth infantry, commanding a detachment of 50 men, has captured a deserter named Richter, of the Sixth artillery, wearing the uniform of an insurgent lieutenant.

Major Pitcher says he recently captured three officers and a large part of an insurgent company, all fully armed. It is believed the insurgents recently received an illicit supply of munitions of war.

FURTHER TESTS.

New York, Nov. 12.—A young woman has been inoculated with virus from a cow suffering from tuberculosis by Dr. George D. Barney of Brooklyn. The solution of bovine tubercle bacilli was injected on each side of the woman's neck just above the clavicle, the quantity of the injection being about one and one-half drams. The woman is Miss Emma H. King of Brooklyn. She offered to submit to this experiment, in order that the medical profession might know whether or not Professor Koch's theory that bovine tubercle bacilli can not infect human beings was correct. The cow from which the virus was taken was inoculated with virus of a consumptive some time ago by Dr. Barney.

Dr. Barney said he was also anxious to prove that persons suffering from consumption in its early stages can be cured by the inhalation of a compound of the phenol group. Should Miss King be stricken with consumption as a result of the experiment she will undergo the inhalation treatment.

BECKHAM TO DURBIN.

NO RIGHT TO REFUSE

The Governor of Kentucky Charges That Governor Durbin Violates the Constitution in Refusing Requisitions for Men.

Frankfort, Nov. 12.—Governor Beckham Monday night addressed to Gov Durbin of Indiana a letter replying to the criticism by that executive of the courts and officials of Kentucky in his recent letter refusing to honor the requisition for Taylor and Finley, wanted for allaged complicity in the assassination of Governor Goebel.

He severely arraigned Durbin for his refusal, charging that in doing so he violated his oath of office to support the constitution of the United States, and that he became " a party after the fact to the most infamous crime in the history of the state, the coldblooded and dastardly murder of an eminent and distinguished citizen of Kentucky."

The Kentucky executive also charges that Governor Durbin's action in refusing was the result of a political bargain made before his election to office, and characterizes his charges against the courts and officials of Kentucky as slanderous and unexcusable misrepresentations.

Beckham takes the stand that a govnor of a state has no discretionary power, but only ministerial power in the honoring of legally drawn requisitions from other states, and this is taken here as an indication that steps will shortly be taken in the courts to compel Durbin by mandamus to honor the requisitions. If such proceedings are instituted they will be in the courts of Indiana and taken on appeal to the supreme court.

CROP ESTIMATE.

Yield of Corn, Buckwheat and Potatoes Lowest Ever Known.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The preliminary estimate of the average yield per acre of corn, as published in the monthly report of the statisticians of the department of agriculture, is 16.4 bushels as compared with an average yield of 25.3 bushels per acre in 1900 and 1899 and a ten average of 21.4 bushels. The present indicated yield per acres is the lowest general average ever recorded for this crop, being 2.2 bushels per acres below the yield in 188., which has stood for 20 years as the lowest on record.

The preliminary estimate of the average yield per acre of buckwheat is 18.9 bushels against a ten year average of 16.9 bushels. The general average as to quality is 93.3 per cent.

The estimate of the yiled per acre of potatoes is 59.9 bushels against an average yield per acre of 80.8 bushels in 1900, 88.6 bushels in 1899 and a ten year average of 78.7 bushels. The present indicated yield per acre is the lowest since 1890.

While there than three fourths of the 47 states and territories for which comparative data are available report a yield in excess of their respective ten year average, such important states as Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Texas and Arkansas are all included in the region reporting less favorable. The average as to quality is 91.3 per cent against 89.7 per cent in November last and 93.8 per cent in November 1899.

FOURTEEN CAPTURED.

Only Twelve Escaped Convicts from the Military Prison at Large.

Topeka, Nov. 12.--With the capture of Frank Thompson, the leader of the federal penitentiary mutiny last Thursday, 14 of the 26 Federal convicts have been retaken. Thompson was captured near Council Grove Monday night by Deputy United States Marshal Prescott and a posse of farmers. He showed fight, but was brought down by a load of buckshot. Thompson is not dangerously wounded and will be returned to the penitentiary.

The 12 convicts ytt at large are inspiring much fear among the inhabitants of the country districts. Officers are at work in a dozen different counties, and as some report that they have groups of convicts rounded up, more captures will be made.

The convicts are seemingly becoming bolder and are invading towns. In th Union Pacific yards at Wamego, two of the runaways held up a man and compelled him at the point of a revolver to give them $92. They then boarded a freight train and went west without any attempt being made to capture them.

Another Legislative Blunder.

Austin, Nov. 12.—It has been discovered that the last legislature has another blunder added to its long list, having failed to incorporate in the general appropriation bill under the heads of blind institutions, deaf and dumb institutions and orphans' home of the customary provisions authorizing those institutions to use for maintenance the earnings from bonds and lands held in their respective accounts. The blind institution receives some $7000 or $8000 annually in interest on bonds and lands which will not be available, but will lapse over two years. The same applies to the other two institutions. The attorney general has advised the controller that unless specifically appropriated the available fund can not be used, and it was not mentioned.

Ideas of News.

Justice John M. Harlan of the United State supreme court, when a practicing lawyer in Louisville, once tried his hand at newspaper work, taking the place of a personal friend, then editor of the Louisville Commercial. The justice got along all right writing editorials, but had ideas as to news that were at variance with those of the city editor.

One of the reporters had written a clever account of a man who had fallen from the fourth story of a building and escaped without serious injury. It made a story of about a column in length. With a proof of the article in his hand the temporary editor came to the city editor and said:

"Mr. Smith, please have this story cut down. I can't see anything in it that makes it worth that space."

"But it's the 'star' story of the day, Mr. Harlan," gasped the astonished news man. "I think it's a remarkable story and well worth all the space given to it."

"I don't," said Justice Harlan. "If a man had jumped up four stories, it would certainly have been remarkable, but even a fool could fall down four stories, or half a dozen, for that matter."—New York Times.

The Driver's Point of View.

The hotel coach was filled with a crowd of happy, jubilant visitors, and the horses toiled splendidly up the hills. As each eminence was reached and at every turn in the road the crowd would burst forth into cries of wonder and delight at the magnificent scenes which burst upon their view. The mountain jehu alone preserved a dignity and silence which rather awed the others. At length, after a particularly lovely view had been passed, one of the guests at the driver's left hand remarked:

"You don't seem to take much interest in the scenery. No doubt it's an old story to you."

The driver shook his head. "No, that's not it," he answered. "I just don't care." Then he leaned a little closer and whispered: "But I knows just how you folks must feel. You all come from a long distance just to see things, and you're bound to enjoy if anyhow so as to get your money's worth and not feel as though you was cheatin' yourselves. Oh," said this driver in a superior tone, "I don't mind it when I understand how 'tis."—Leslie's Weekly.

The Tugboat Captain.

A tug lay hard by, and the captain added his bit to my sociological nocturne, as I sat in the pilot house and peered out on the water, where red lights and green lights, with many of yellow and white, dripped zigzag fashion down from the wharfs and ships.

"Where do you sleep?" questioned I.

"Why, here," he replied, "in this very pilot house on that nice fluffy bunk you're a-settin' on; an' sometimes I sleep at that wheel, a-steerin' this boat, sir. Can't be helped, sir. The hours we work would stave in a trained nurse an' send a sentinel to be shot. Why, man, I've seed the time when I've stuck by that wheel twenty grim hours at a stretch. Once it was forty-two hours. And when you read in the paper about towin' a big propeller clean through a dock or jammin' her into her next door neighbor fer keeps don't you say us tug folks are Johnnie Raws. Just say we're worked and worked till we sleep at the wheel. For that's God's truth, sir."—Atlantic.

Held by Etiquette.

When Dom Pedro, then emperor of Brazil, was entertained at the White House, he had been told by a confused senator that it would be expected that he, the emperor, should be the last of the guests to depart.

The president's wife, however, informed her other guests that they would be expected to follow, not precede, the royal party in leaving the house.

The result was that no one dared to go for fear of a breach of etiquette. But at 3 o'clock in the morning a tired woman pretended illness, and the deadlock was broken.

A Curious Barometer.

A curious barometer is said to be used by the remnant of the Araucanian race which inhabits the southernmost province of Chile. It consists of the castoff shell of a crab. The dead shell is white in fair, dry weather, but the approach of a moist atmosphere is indicated by the appearance of small red spots. As the moisture in the air increases the shell becomes entirely red and remains so throughout the rainy season.

A Wise Prophet.

"On the whole," said the aged weather prophet, "I have found that the safest course is to predict bad weather."

"Why?" asked the neophyte.

"Because people are much more ready to forgive you if the prediction does not come true."

Her Size.

Young Man—I want an engagement ring.

Jeweler—Yes, sir. About what size?

"I don't know exactly, but she can twist me round her finger, if that is any guide."

Partly Accounted For.

Buzzer—Well, I loaned him five dollars two years ago.—Ohio State Journal.

It is claimed that dentistry prolongs life. As has been said of matrimony, it certainly makes it seem longer.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Life of a Coal Miner.

First, the boy of eight or ten is sent to the breaker to pick the slate and other impurities from the coal which has been brought up from the mine. From there he is promoted and becomes a door boy, working in the mine. As he grows older and stronger he is advanced to the position and given the pay of a laborer. There he gains the experience which secures him a place as a miner's helper, and as he acquires skill and strength he becomes, when in the height of his manhood and vigor, a full fledged miner.

If he is fortunate enough to escape the falls of rock and coal, he may retain this position as a miner for a number of years. But as age creeps on and he is attacked by some of the many diseases incident to work in the mines he makes way for those younger and more vigorous following him up the ladder whose summit he has reached. He then starts on the descent, going back to become a miner's helper, then a mine laborer, now a door boy, and when old and decrepit he finally returns to the breaker where he started as a child, earning the same wages as are received by the little urchins who work at his side. There is no incentive for ambition in the average miner's life. He cannot rise to places of eminence and wealth. Only 1 in 500 can even be given place as a foreman or superintendent, and these are positions which few miners care to hold.—John Mitchell in Cosmopolitan.

For His Reputation, $500.

The proprietor of a large dry goods store had decided to tear down the old building and erect a new one in its stead. In furtherance of this plan he was removing his goods to temporary quarters in another building.

The goods were nearly all out of the old structure when from some unknown cause it caught fire. The department was promptly on hand and soon had a stream playing on the flames, but the merchant was wild with excitement. Running up to the chief, he urged him to greater haste.

"Never mind the goods!" he shouted. "Save the building! I'll give the boys a check for $500 for their pension fund if they don't let the fire spread beyond that floor!"

"Why, you're going to tear the old building down anyway, aren't you?" asked the chief.

"Yes," he said, "but do you suppose I want the insurance companies or anybody on earth to think that's the reason why it caught fire?"

By great exertion the fire was extinguished with little loss so far as the building was concerned, and the merchant was as good as his word.—Youth's Companion.

Queer Creatures.

There are microscopic creatures which live in roof gutters and on the bark of trees and are known as water bears and wheel animalculæ. If allowed to dry up under the microscope, they can be seen to shrivel into shapeless masses, which may be kept for years uninjured in the dried state.

On being placed after this long interval in water they gradually plump up, resume their proper shape and move about in search of food just as if nothing had happened. Much the same is true for the minute worms which from the substances in which they live are known as paste and vinegar eels. Well known is the famous case of the desert snail, which, retracted into its shell, was fastened to a tablet in the British museum and showed no sign of life for seven years, when one morning it was found crawling hungrily about the glass case that formed its prison.

Up His Sleeve.

At the battle of Omdurman a soldier belonging to a Scotch regiment was nearly killed by a bullet which struck the ground just in front of him while he was firing in a reclining position. On rising to move a few feet forward, something came down his sleeve. It was the bullet. How it got up his sleeve without inflicting damage can only be accounted for by the fact that it must have been spent by the time it struck the ground in front of him and the course of its flight up his sleeve was its last billet.

The Color of Wood.

A simple way to restore color to wood is to mix the color with oil and turpentine, applying with a soft cloth and rubbing in well. Either the powdered pigment or colors ground in oil may be used. For light oak use raw umber, for dark oak burnt umber. If it is very dark, add a mere shade of lampblack. For mahogany use burnt sienna, chrome yellow and bismarck brown, and for cherry use burnt sienna.

He Was Too Slow.

Magistrate—Your husband charges you with assault.

Madam—Yes, your honor. I asked him if he would always love me, and he was so slow in answering that I hit him with a mop. I'm only a woman, judge, and a woman's life without love is a mere blight.—Illustrated Bits.

Quite Realistic.

"This," said the eminent artist, "is my famous study of the 'Cows In the Clover.'"

"Oh, the cows have eaten it, you know."—Baltimore American.

Spicy.

"If you intend to dine on us," queried the captured mariner, "why did you greet us with a fusillade?"

"Because we always pepper our food before eating it," grinned the cannibal.—Philadelphia Record.

Good Reason.

Professor—Why does the earth move?

Change to Change a Quarter.

"How much does it take to change a quarter?" asked the bartender. "Twenty-five cents, eh? Not on your life. It takes seventy cents to do the trick. How many ways do you suppose a quarter dollar can be changed? Just exactly eleven. A fellow of limited means may like the jingle of coin in his clothes. In that event you can give him twenty-five pennies or twenty pennies and one nickel. He may like to have a little sprinkling of silver in his clothes, and you can accommodate him with fifteen pennies and a dime or ten pennies, a dime and a nickel.

"If he prefers to have change handy for a beer and a car fare, why, fifteen pennies and two nickels will fix him up, and if he wants a cigar in addition, besides having a little stock of cash in his jeans, give him ten pennies and three nickels. That makes six ways. Now, then, a fellow with a quarter can trade it off for five pennies and two dimes, five pennies and four nickels, two dimes and one nickel, one dime and three nickels or five nickels, just as he prefers. And to accommodate him in any way that he might select you have to possess twenty-five pennies, two dimes and five nickels—seventy cents in all."—Philadelphia Record.

Found Foolishness.

One of the commonest forms of pound foolishness is countenanced by many high authorities. This is the purchase of certain household provisions in large quantities. Few writers on domestic topics fail to lay stress upon the economy of buying groceries in bulk. That sugar and flour, potatoes and apples should be bought by the half or whole barrel, cereals by the case, butter by the tub and other things in like proportion is one of the early precepts in the "Young Housekeeper's Complete Guide to Domestic Economy."

The ignorant young things buy the provisions first and the experience afterward. The flour grows musty, the cereals develop weevils, the potatoes and apples rot long before they can be eaten, and the cook exercises a lavishness in the use of the butter and sugar she would never show were they bought in such limited amounts that the housekeeper could hold close watch over them. Even after these events the young mistress feels as if she were absolutely reckless and no manager at all when she so far departs from household law as to buy food in small quantities.—Independent.

Loneliness and Health.

A medical journal has of late been discoursing on the indigestion of loneliness. By this title is meant to be indicated the disorders of digestion which are believed to follow the practice of taking one's meals in solitary state. The topic is by no means an uninteresting one. Thousands of men and women living alone are compelled to take their meals for the most part without company. Week in and week out they feed themselves without a soul to speak to, and the medical journal devotes energies to showing that the process is not one that is likely to be conducive to digestion, to proper bodily nourishment or to health. The solitary eater soon tires of merely eating, and if he is not of a literary turn of mind, his tendency is to hurry through his meal to escape from his loneliness into the society of his fellow men. Herein, it is held, lies a danger to health.

Discovery of Coal In Wales.

During the reign of Henry [illegible] many attempts were made to discover coal in north Wales, and a Shrewsbury man, named Richard Gardner, was the only person who succeeded. The records read: "He attemptyd and put into proofe to fynde out coles about town (Shrewsbury) in soondry places and in one place especiall called Pontine Haye, hard by the sayd towne, found by his great dyligence and by great store of see cole, the which lyke to come much commodite to the riche and poore, that he is only worthy of commendacon and maynteynance, but also to be had in membrance for ever."—Cardiff Western Mail.

The Russian Climate.

The Russians count upon their climate as one means of defense. So it was when Napoleon invaded Russia. Their troops are accordingly trained in winter maneuvers, including the use of a battery, with its war transport material complete, upon sleighs, drawing it for some distance over a field of snow covered country and bringing it into action again.

A Curious Eating Custom.

The Dyaks divide in pairs when the hour arrives for taking food, the husband and mother at one platter, two sons at one and still two brothers at another. When the family is not evenly divided as to sex, a brother and sister may eat together, but this must always be the youngest and oldest of the family.

Her Pet Name.

"Ah!" he sighed after she had blushingly whispered "Yes" in his ear. "My own Mehitabel! Oh, that name so formal! Surely your friends have some shorter one, some pet name?"

"Well," she murmured, "the girls at boarding school used to call me Kies."—Philadelphia Press.

His Mistake.

"What curious mistakes [illegible] sometimes! I've just been reading, for instance, that Columbus imagined that he had discovered the Indies."

"Ah, I made a worse mistake than that! When I married my wife I thought I'd discovered paradise."

Candid.

Miss Alma—When did you become acquainted with your wife, doctor?

Doctor—After the wedding.—Tit-Bits.
