INTERNATIONAL BANKERS' FAT PROFITS BARED

Wichitan Hijacked Twice By Same Bandits In Series Of Three Robberies

GUNMEN PLAY HIDE-AND-SEEK WITH POLICE

VICTIM SHOWS FIGHT

In an amazing series of hijackings late Friday night, bandits robbed one man twice and looted a filling station after slugging the attendant.

J. L. Brown was the victim of two of the three hijackings. He struck and knocked one of the hijackers to the ground when he was accosted by the same pair that held him up an hour before. They obtained $6.50 from him the first time, but their second robbery was fruitless.

Oil Station Robbed

Claud Nolan, attendant of the Magnolia Filling station on the Burkburnett road, was slugged and the cash register looted of about $4 by a youthful bandit shortly before 9 p. m.

A few minutes later Brown was robbed within a few doors of his home at 2800 Holliday by two bandits, one of whom filled the description given police of the filling station hijacker.

Nolan in Hospital

Nolan, two wounds in his head from blows of a pistol butt, was rushed to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital for treatment. He was able to go to his home, 1514 Twenty-third street after the dressing.

The injured man told Dick Chapman and George Garrett, plain-clothes men, that a short, stocky man, in need of a shave, walked into the filling station, pulled a gun, and demanded money. Nolan obeyed.

The bandit then ordered his victim to walk toward the oil drums and turn his back. Again Nolan obeyed and was knocked to the pavement by the force of two blows from the pistol. The hijacker escaped on foot.

Woman Gives Alarm

A woman who happened near the station saw Nolan crumpled up and gave the alarm. Detectives Tom Poe and A. L. Stubblefield answered the call.

It was about 20 minutes later that Brown, the second victim, walking toward his home from a Holliday street garage, was halted by two men. The taller held a gun in the victim's ribs. A short, stocky man, dressed like the filling station bandit, went through Brown's pockets and took all the money he had. The two then turned swiftly and walked away.

Bob Miller, Tom Poe, and A. L. Stubblefield answered the second alarm and obtained a description of the pair.

Victim Lands Blow

As Brown was walking in the 2300 block on Ninth street, en route to his mother's home in the 2400 block, the same two hijackers who were responsible for his first robbery stepped into his path.

Brown told police that he recognized them instantly and that he struck at the smaller man. His fist, he said, landed in the bandit's face knocking him to the ground.

With this show of fight, the larger bandit whipped out a gun and forced Brown's retreat. "I'll kill you," the hijacker told Brown. Both then fled on foot.

Poland's Man of Iron Begins to Slip

Joseph Pilsudski, Poland's ill and weary "man of iron," passes many hours playing solitaire as a relief from the burdens of state.

Poland's Future Seems Uncertain as Pilsudski's Powers Begin to Weaken

Hardships of War and Sleepless Nights in Peace Take Toll On Old General's Health

WARSAW, Jan. 1. (AP)—After Pilsudski, what? Is the deluge which Mme. Pompadour envisaged as the fate of 18th century France to be revisited upon Poland?

These questions have been asked many times of late as reports of the failing health of Marshal Joseph Pilsudski persisted despite denials from high sources.

The doughty old general has just turned 64. Not a great age in itself, but he has endured much and looks older.

Pre-war days in Russian and German prisons, hardships at the front and sleepless night while he struggled to preserve Poland's sovereignty, took their toll. Now their records are plainly written in the deep facial furrows and prematurely bent figure.

Ever since his severe illness in 1928, Marshal Pilsudski has kept a personal physician in constant attendance. This and the fact that the general for some reason has shown an intense dislike for the Belvidere palace, his official residence, going there only for luncheons with his family or for state audiences and receptions, have strengthened rumors concerning his well-being.

The country is wondering whether one person, a duumvirate or even a triumvirate is to take his place.

The marshal's closest collaborators are mostly men who served in the Polish legion which he formed in the pre-war days to resist czarist Russia. A typical case is that of General Ryds-Smigliy, who fought with Pilsudski against the bolsheviks and commanded the forces which marched into Kiev in 1920. Three years ago veterans of the legion promised him the same obedience that they have been giving to Pilsudski.

There is also Colonel Walery Slawek who bears lasting records of

THEATER FIRE FATAL TO MAN

Motion Picture Operator Burned to Death

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Jan. 1. (AP)—L. L. Hickson, 27, motion picture machine operator, was burned to death late today in a fire at the Dorothy theater. The operating room was destroyed but the flames were prevented from spreading to other parts of the showhouse.

The film caught fire and the flames quickly spread over the operating room, occupied only by Hickson. Sam Parish, owner of the theater, was burned slightly about the face as he tried to rescue Hickson. The operator's body was removed after the fire had been extinguished.

The afternoon show had just ended and none of the theater patrons knew of the fire until they were outside. Hardly a dozen people had been in the show at the close of the performance.

The operating room was about 12 feet square. A locked door proved an additional handicap to persons trying to reach Hickson.

Hoovers Greet 3,062 Visitors In Annual New Year Reception

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (US)—President and Mrs. Hoover celebrated the new year by extending a cordial greeting to 3,062 persons who braved a chilling rain to attend the historic White House reception.

There was a cheering warmth inside as distinguished notables and just plain Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen came in out of the rain. The president and Mrs. Hoover took their place in the blue room. They were flanked by their military and naval aides in full dress.

The doors were opened at 11 o'clock and Italian Ambassador Giacomo de Martino, dean of the diplomatic corps, led the long procession of foreign envoys. Vice President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Dolly Gann, were standing by.

The diplomats were followed by Chief Justice Hughes and the members of the supreme court and their wives, and members of the judiciary; the members of the president's cabinet and members of the congress.

Then they came from all walks of life. Each received a cordial greeting. As the people filed past, the president merely shook hands and smiled, while Mrs. Hoover had a pleasant word.

The president only spoke to one. He was the veteran new year greeter J. W. Hunefeld. The president recognized him.

"I am very glad to see you here for the third time," he said. Hunefeld has been first in line at the public reception for years.

400 JOBLESS COLONIZE IN OZARK HILLS

Settlers Form Association With $25 Membership In Township

MODERN PIONEERS

All Occupations Found in Strange Community as 'Recruits' Arrive

By DOROTHY ROE
(Copyright, 1932 by Universal Service, Inc)

CONCORD SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 1.—With the pioneer spirit of the covered wagon days, 400 unemployed men and their families have trekked to a fertile valley here and founded a unique colony in the heart of the Ozark mountains.

Some of them living temporarily in huge rock caves lined with army cots and homemade beds, these modern pioneers have incorporated themselves as the Oklahoma-Arkansas Industrial association with a membership fee of $25.

They plan to wring a living from the wild and wooded soil, raising all the food they need and earning money for clothes through the sale of cord-wood.

Members Hopeful

It isn't a forlorn or desperate group of wayfarers defeated by life, this colony. It's an association of happy and hopeful men and women, most of them well educated, all of sturdy American stock, and they are working out a practical plan to solve their economic problems jointly.

They have bought 8,000 acres of this rich Ozark land and with 10 years to pay for it they expect soon to be a prosperous and self-supporting community, incorporated as a town, governed by their own officers, and paying dividends to the charter members.

This unusual experiment in community life is attracting wide attention, and new recruits are arriving daily to swell the ranks of the hardy souls who arrived here by Ford and truck some weeks ago with empty pockets but unlimited enthusiasm.

Physician President

Dr. Herbert H. Clough, Tulsa, Okla., physician, has been elected president of the organization in which every colonist must own a

Women of Finland Repeal Prohibition

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 1. (US)—The women of Finland repealed prohibition! Although full returns from the two-day referendum are not known, the separation of women's and men's ballots in the 4 to 1 vote against prohibition shows that the women's wet vote alone would have been sufficient to bring back liquor.

Of the 620 districts counted, the returns show:

For repeal—210,903; for prohibition—67,314; for modification—3,274.

Of the 210,903 vote for repeal, 101,000 were women's votes.

The small number of country districts whose ballots have not yet been counted indicate that the dry forces cannot cut down the huge wet lead.

Fechet Steps From Air Corps With Warning On U.S. Defense

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (AP)—A rude awakening for America from "a fool's paradise" unless aerial defense is improved was predicted today by Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet as he retired a chief of the army air corps.

His warning came after four years at the head of the army's air forces and 33 in the service. He said he intended to attempt to arouse the nation to aerial needs by laying bare "plain facts."

He explained:

"I've finished my job as chief of the air corps and have come to the end of my military career. I now see a great opportunity to do more for national defense and aviation as a whole in my new work."

He became today the chief of the Washington bureau of one of the leading aeronautical publications and will head its national defense department. His retirement as chief of the air corps was mandatory after completing the four-year tour of duty in the post, but he could have remained in the service in another capacity.

Failure of the government "to complete the five-year aviation plan and inaugurate another to bring our military plane strength up to roughly 3,600 machines of all types" was deplored by Fechet, who considered the present army force of about 17,000 machines "woefully inadequate."

He made it clear he was not criticizing the administration for its aviation policies.

Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, the army's first pilot, succeeded him today as chief of the corps.

EXPRESS AGENT GIVES CLUES TO BOMBERS

Investigation of National Murder Plot Takes Definite Form

NEW YORK, Jan. 1. (UP)—Police have a complete description of the three men who sent six packages loaded with death-dealing explosives to prominent Fascist sympathizers, in the most startling terrorist plot ever disclosed in the United States.

An agent for the American Railway Express today described the men who planted the diabolical engines of destruction in his service, for delivery in the Middle West.

Detectives Hopeful

With this clue and others gathered by a host of federal, city and state detectives, Lieut. Charles Newman, head of the New York bomb squad, who has charge of the city's investigation, was reported hopeful of tracking the nihilists down within the next few days.

The plot was unquestionably the work of professionals, according to the police. The nicety with which the bombs were constructed, and the ingeniously contrived mechanism to set them off indicated they were made by men of experience.

The postoffice department's investigation at Easton, Pa., where the first six bombs were mailed, developed rapidly today, and postoffice inspectors now have a dozen names of suspects who will be rounded up for questioning.

Trio Traced

It was developed positively today that three men of foreign appearance appeared in Easton Tuesday night, remaining overnight at the Postoffice hotel, directly across the street from the federal building.

They checked out at 8 a. m. Wednesday, and 15 minutes later the deadly packages were pushed through the window of the parcel post department.

Harry Brader, night clerk at the hotel, went through 200 rogues gallery pictures at police headquarters today, and picked out 12 pictures resembling the men who registered with him the night before the first bomb tragedy.

Further Identification

Further identification was afforded by two other witnesses, the Rev. P. Y. Stengel and Chester Vollmer, who were in the Easton post-

The body found was that of George Sanborn Jr., 19, a student of University of California. County officials were still grappling for the body of William Hasper, 19, of Santa Rosa.

Two other youths lost their lives at the same place in a similar accident in 1930.

Homicides Total 343 Past Year

DALLAS, Jan. 1. (AP)—Homicides in 1931 claimed the lives of 343 Texans.

In the final rush of the business of killing, 89 lives were snuffed out in the final quarter of the old year, just less than one a day, after 254 men and women were killed in the 273 days of the first three quarters.

There may have been other homicides but those listed involved persons or methods of slaying which led to the names being listed in news reports.

Forty-eight women were slain and 295 men.

The year passed without the violence of mob action, however.

RITES TODAY FOR PIONEER

Mrs. I. A. Albritton Dies at Age of 67

Funeral services for Mrs. I. A. Albritton, 67, native Texan and resident of Wichita Falls for 26 years, will be held from the First Methodist church at 10 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Dr. S. S. McKenney and Rev. Albert E. Davis will officiate. Burial will be in Riverside.

Mrs. Albritton, who made her home at 1205 Austin, early Friday morning succumbed to a prolonged illness which reached an acute stage five weeks ago. Ill health several years ago forced her to withdraw from widespread church and civic activities. She died at 6 o'clock Friday morning at a local hospital.

Golden Anniversary Near

Death came just three days before Mr. and Mrs. Albritton's golden wedding anniversary. The two were married in Corsicana 50 years ago on Jan. 4.

A native of Navarro county, Mrs. Albritton, formerly Miss Lucy Agnes Westbrook, came with her husband to Wichita Falls in 1905. Through church and other affiliations, her circle of activity and friends increased through the 26 years that have passed since that time.

Important Cases on Supreme Court Docket

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (AP)—The supreme court will begin its new year with arguments next week on a variety of hard-fought cases of potential far-reaching importance.

Among them are disputes involving the government's plans for Mississippi flood control, the right of negroes to vote in party primaries and the government's authority to punish citizens for refusing to return from abroad to testify.

TORNADO AND FLOOD STRIKE DEATH IN DIXIE

Twister Kills Three in Isolated Alabama Village

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 1. (AP)—A tornado and flood waters have combined to strike death, injuries and suffering to two states in the South.

The wind storm swept into the rural community of Robinson Springs, Ala., 11 miles from Montgomery, and killed three negroes, injured 15 others and wrecked several houses.

Meanwhile, the Tallahatchie river continued to rise in the Mississippi delta country and a number of towns in a wide area were threatened with complete evacuation.

Man Blown Away

The tornado struck yesterday, but news of it did not reach Montgomery until today, due to isolation of the community. One negro was blown about half a mile from his home. His body was found in a creek. Another was killed as his home collapsed and the other was found dead in a swamp.

The injured and homeless were being quartered in a barn until better provisions can be made for them. Physicians are caring for the injured.

Levees Threatened

The towns of Glendora, Asa, Stone and Mimms face a great menace with levees threatening to crumble on all sides. Swan Lake, Webb and Sumner also were in danger.

The Red Cross stood by with boats tonight, ready to evacuate Glendora and nearby towns as the water rose above the Christmas flood level and a crest of 10 inches more was expected.

Refugees, camped on the ridges, were being moved to higher ground. Batesville, farther up the river, also expected its levees to crumble, and Wilmer Kennedy, Batesville newspaper publisher, said the inundation in Asa, Stone and Mimms would be worse than the Christmas flood.

Convicts continued to battle the flood. The town of Phillips was believed safe, but the levees at the Jones Fedric plantation were expected to go out. Families in north Laflore county were suffering from lack of food.

Archbishop Diaz Fights Mexico's Church Laws

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 1. (US)—Archbishop Pascual Diaz, titular head of the Catholic church in Mexico, today began a legal battle to set aside Mexico's anti-church laws, enforcement of which today left 350 Mexico City churches without priests to say mass.

The archbishop declared he will tomorrow seek an injunction restraining the federal government from enforcing the new laws which permit but 25 priests and 25 churches in the federal district and two priests and two churches in Lower California.

The law provides that officiating priests must register with the government. Since none registered, in accordance with the archbishop's orders, none could legally say mass.

Cattle King's Daughters Claim He Squanders Fortune on Women

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 1. (UP)—The vast estate of Kansas' cattle and oil king, 75-year-old J. H. Porter, was turned over in part to his two married daughters today after they charged in court he was "dissipating his fortune in costly complications with women."

Mrs. Oretta Porter Palmer of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. Earl W. Youngmeyer of Wichita, will share in his 9,000-acre Eld Grove ranch and $800,000 worth of bonds.

The two daughters took action to tie up the millionaire's money when Mrs. Eleanor Torrey, 37, applied for a marriage license for herself and Porter. She gave his age as 87. Porter said he was "only 75 years old, wasn't going to marry Mrs. Torrey and that she had obtained the certificate without his consent."

The license later was cancelled by Probate Judge J. D. Dickerson upon application of Porter's attorneys.

In their plea for court action, Porter's daughters charged he "squandered and dissipated a large portion of his fortune in a secret marriage and divorce, in costly complications with women upon whom he has spent large sums."

SENATE GROUP SHOWS LOSSES FOR INVESTORS

Small Banks and Individuals Hold $815,471,800 in Foreign Paper

$100,000,000 PROFIT

Securities Sold Americans Since War Amount to $4,000,000,000

By EDWARD L. RODDAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (US)—An amazing picture of fat profits to international bankers and heavy losses to American investors through the dumping of billions of foreign bonds in this country was revealed today by the senate finance committee.

In a supplemental report made public in connection with the far-flung investigation sponsored by Senator Hiram W. Johnson, of California, these astounding developments were:

1. American investors and small banks are holding $815,471,800 of South American bonds which defaulted during 1931.

2. Three international banking firms have made profits of over $100,000,000 in the sale of foreign securities in the United States.

3. The total of these securities sold to the American public since the war is over $4,000,000,000.

The startling figures regarding the numerous defaulting in South American securities were made public through additional testimony submitted to the committee by Otto H. Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

The $815,471,800 represents the aggregate amounts outstanding on 56 different South American issues which defaulted interest-payments during the year 1931. The total is far in excess of prior estimates.

Small Banks Hold Bonds

Previous testimony by Kahn and other international bankers before the senate committee revealed that South American bonds are held very largely by the smaller banks of the country and the investing public.

In submitting the list of defaulted issues to the committee, Kahn wrote that it was prepared by the institute of international finance of New York City. He added:

"While he believe that this list is accurate, we would respectfully request that it be used without responsibility on our part or on the part of that institute."

In addition to the Kuhn, Loeb data, a great mass of additional evidence was submitted to the committee by the banking firms of J. P. Morgan & Co., and the National City Bank of New York. Witnesses for these firms testified orally at hearings before the Christmas recess.

Quiz Resumes Monday

The new data will be used extensively when the investigation resumes Monday. The probe was sponsored by Senator Hiram Johnson to throw some light on the billions of foreign securities unloaded upon the American investing public by the international bankers.

While exact figures are impossible to obtain, the figures at hand indicate that $100,000,000 would be a fair estimate of the total profit which accrued to the bankers from the various foreign issues handled by Kuhn, Loeb, the house of Morgan and National City.

The new evidence at hand, although covering only the activities of three houses, gives an amazing picture of the tremendous financial operations of the international bankers.

Allowing for duplications in cases where two of the houses participated in the same issue, the tables in possession of the committee indicate that the three firms floated at least $4,000,000,000 of foreign securities in this country since the war.

Home-Seekers to Till Soil For Livelihood

membership. George Perrine, the vice president, is a Tulsa architect and construction engineer, who has laid out blue prints for an elaborate townsite which will include a well-equipped tourist camp and summer hotel.

In the meantime hammers ring busily through the woods, and the men work from daylight to dark erecting primitive shacks from the native timber. Already there is a settlement of a score of unpainted little homes, clustering around the central and most important building, the cook-shack.

The colonists whose houses are not yet completed are sleeping in the huge rock caves which honeycomb this part of the Ozarks. The site has been named Concord Springs.

Every profession is represented.

Minister in Group

There is a minister, F. A. Toller, a Tulsa evangelist, who holds open air meetings every Sunday night, and saws wood on week-days.

John McBride, secretary of the association, is an electrician who plans to dam the swift little brook of spring water which winds through the valley and secure water power for electricity. His wife is a registered nurse.

The membership includes a lawyer, two plasterers, six trained carpenters, a school principal, many seasoned farmers, automobile mechanics, printers, school teachers, stone cutters, and even two professional pugilists.

Visiting the new unemployment colony, one turns from the winding mountain road between Huntsville and Eureka Spring, Ark., in to a rough trail barely wide enough for a car to traverse.

The colonists have cut a road through the woods.

Savory Meal

Arriving at the settlement at noon today, this reporter was invited to share the community lunch in the cook shack, and was served with a steaming and savory plate of meat and potatoes, strong black coffee and hot biscuit, made by Mr. and Mrs. George Gazbar, the official chefs.

Already the little settlement is on the brink of being self-supporting. The membership fees of $25 are used for cutting down the debt of $40,000 on the land, and the wherewithal for food, medicines and gasoline for the trucks must come from the daily labor of the colonists.

They have cleared some 100 acres of land and expect to have 500 acres cleared and under cultivation by spring. Merchants in nearby towns have agreed to buy all the fresh produce they can raise—and the colonists intend to produce plenty.

Speedway Aces Injured in Crash

Hepburn's car crashed through a fence on the 34th lap of the one mile speedway. Saulspaugh's machine, in which he had broken the American dirt track record for one mile with a speed of 101.95 miles an hour in the preliminary event, skidded into the judges' stand on the 15th lap. The race was stopped at the end of the 51st lap on account of rain.

Hepburn and Saulspaugh were taken to Hayward hospital where physicians, after a preliminary examination, announced both were suffering from head injuries and severe shock. Each had a possible fractured skull and Saulspaugh also had an injured shoulder.

Dr. Frank Bohn to Speak Here Jan. 5 on Open Forum Program

Dr. Frank Bohn, world traveler, student of history and government, and agent in diplomatic missions will deliver his lecture on "The Mind of Russia" at the junior college auditorium when he arrives here next Tuesday, Jan. 5, as the second of the Junior chamber of commerce open forum speakers. Miss Hermione S. Vaughan will present her high school singers in a 30-minute musical program before the address, Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, director of the open forum, announced Friday.

The musical entertainment will begin promptly at 7 o'clock, Dr. Kimbrough said, so that the speaker can complete his lecture and catch a train at 11 o'clock. The junior chamber extended a special invitation to the high school and junior college students and to out-of-town visitors to hear the address.

Originally a university teacher of history and government, Dr. Bohn later became a correspondent for the New York Times in Europe, Mexico, and the South seas. Taking an appeal for peace to the working people of both nations, he traveled through Germany and Austria-Hungary in 1915. In 1918-19 he served with the American mission at the Paris peace conference. He was the first American to describe the new regime of Russian bolshevism in 1918. During 1921-25 he was associated, in an advisory capacity, with the leaders of the new government in Mexico.

BANKS CREDIT IS TIGHTENED

New Development Blamed For Stock Slump

NEW YORK, Jan. 1. (AP)—The fall in security prices during the latter part of 1931 is attributed partly, in the monthly review of the Federal Reserve bank of New York, to an unusually heavy reduction of bank credit.

In the second week of December, the review points out, the total loans and investments of weekly reporting member banks of the federal reserve system declined to a volume of $2,500,000,000 smaller than a year previous, and the deposits of these banks showed an accompanying decline of about $3,000,000,000.

"Since September," it is stated, "the tendency toward credit reduction has been accelerated, as a decrease of investments has been added to the reduction in loans. This accelerated decline started with heavy withdrawals of deposits from banks, a considerable part of which represented the funds of foreign depositors, following the suspension of gold payments by Great Britain in September.

"The ensuing rise in money rates was accompanied by a decline in the prices of high grade securities, and this decline in security values, together with the loss of deposits, appears to have set in motion a cycle of credit reduction which continued after the immediate cause ceased to operate.

"Individual banks sold bonds or reduced their loans in order to strengthen their position. The result, however, was a further decline in the market value of investment securities and a loss of deposits by other banks, so that those banks also considered it necessary to strengthen their position by selling securities or reducing loans.

"This action, in turn, while strengthening for the time being the position of individual banks, merely passed the burden along to other banks and tended to perpetuate and make progressively larger the losses of deposits and the decline in the market value of bank assets for the banking system as a whole."

Jacksboro Bank Pays Semi-Annual Dividend

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, Texas, Jan. 1.—The trying times of the past year evidently did not seriously affect the prosperity of the Jacksboro National bank. At a board of directors meeting held on Dec. 30, a dividend of five per cent of $50,000 capital stock was declared, which amounted to $2,500.

This dividend is declared semi-annually, and only two semi-annual dividends have not been paid since the bank was founded on June 30, 1906. No whole year has passed without a dividend having been paid. Up to date, the regular semi-annual dividend has been declared 49 times.

ARRESTS NEAR IN BOMB PLOT

Police Given Description of Three Italians

office when the men mailed their packages. They too, agreed on the 12 pictures chosen by Brader as resembling the plotters.

Inspection of the packages produced one set of finger prints, which were rushed to New York for further investigation.

Chief Postoffice Inspector Harry Getchell today made a mysterious trip from Easton to Philadelphia on a secret mission. He will return tomorrow to attend the funerals of John House and Edward Werkheifer, postal clerks whose lives were sacrificed in the first bomb explosion.

Roundup Asked

It was understood that the postoffice service has asked for a general roundup of all notorious anti-Fascists and Communists in Philadelphia and New York, and the three Easton witnesses will be taken to those cities in an attempt to identify the three who are wanted.

It also was indicated that one clue leads to a New Jersey city, where five men are under suspicion.

A car in which three of the men rode to Easton has been traced back to New York, and was seen in the vicinity of the express office where the Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Youngstown bombs were dispatched.

Activity at Cleveland

On the theory that the plot may have been hatched in Cleveland, records and information concerning known enemies of Fascism in that city, some of whom have uttered open threats against friends of Mussolini, were sent today to New York where the investigation is now centering.

A suspicious package found today in the mails at New Haven was turned over to the police, who immersed it in water. An attempt to detonate it will be made tomorrow. It was not believed, however, to contain a bomb.

In the West, an explosion that wrecked the store and home of Rosario Dionisio, at Trinidad, Colo., gave the authorities some concern. The explosion occurred at midnight and was evidently that of a powerful bomb. The Dionisio family were absent from home at a New Year's eve party.

Paving Project at Lubbock Ready to Start

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Jan. 1.—Cooke & Braden, Marshall road construction contractors unloaded materials here last week and will start work next week in paving highway 7 from Lubbock to the Hockley county line northwest of Lubbock, Guy R. Johnston, local construction engineer has announced. Only local labor will be used in the work, with the small exception of the regular crew that came here with the construction company.

The paving will be of the triple asphalt-caliche type, with three applications of asphalt on top of a nine-inch caliche base. The base of the road is to be 22 feet wide with the asphalt topping 20 feet wide.

The road is a unit in the Lubbock county paving program, being the fourth unit to be hard surfaced.

The letting of the asphalt-caliche contract, coupled with letting of contracts in Andrews, Gaines, and Crosby counties has aroused much interest in South Plains counties.

Pilsudski Shows Signs of Slipping

General Sosnkowski, who tried to commit suicide in 1926 because his troops threatened to desert Pilsudski's cause, is in the inner circle. So are Gen. Felician Slawoi-Skladkowski, who made a cabinet record as a civil administrator, and Col. Alexander Prystor, the present premier.

As long as the present government party holds together in parliament, there is little likelihood of a change in the general governmental plan. The party has 247 or the 444 members in the lower house and 74 of 111 senators. Their terms last until 1935 and they will elect a new president to succeed Ignace Moscicki in June, 1933.

But the party is heterogeneous. It includes army fascists, aristocrats, peasants, rabbis, Catholic prelates and liberal intelligentsia. They are not so much a political body as a cult, with Pilsudski as their center of faith. So again "what" and "whither" are asked when this seemingly stable governing force is considered in terms of the future.

Special to The Record News.

County Judge Otis Miller recently announced at a meeting here of citizens of Anson, Stamford and surrounding towns that the Kraft Cheese company was contemplating establishing a plant in Jones county, providing that citizens meet certain requirements.

According to plans advanced by Kraft officials, it was said, citizens of the county would finance the construction of a building, the company to make reimbursement when an average of 20,000 pounds of milk had been delivered daily to the plant for a period of six months.

A committee of J. J. Steel, Anson, Cleburn Houston, Stamford; and H. O. Castle and J. W. Ezzell of Hamilton, was named to secure aid from Jones county towns toward meeting financial requirements of the project.

About 150 local men will be employed for the construction of the road. This will greatly help the unemployed faction of Jack county. The construction company immediately went to work setting up two portable stone crushers along the site of the highway, when they began work on Dec. 30, preparing to lay the crushed stone, traffic bound base.

This road will shorten the distance between Fort Worth and Wichita Falls via Jacksboro to about 118 miles from 145 miles.

WICHITA COUNTY TO RESUME ROAD WORK

Work of improving that portion of state highway 66 in Wichita county, leading to Jacksboro and Fort Worth, will probably be continued by the middle of next week, M. A. Bundy, county commissioner said Friday.

About two and a half miles of the road is in the southern part of Wichita county. Work of improvement was started during the summer, but had to be discontinued due to dry weather. Recent rains put the roads in such condition to halt work.

The project includes the grading and drainage of the route. Most of the grading already has been completed, with considerable drainage work yet to be done, according to Mr. Bundy.

With favorable weather conditions work will be continued not later than the end of next week. Improvements are expected to be completed in about a month.

CHILDRESS IS ON UPGRADE

Farmers, Bankers Predict Better Times in '32

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Jan. 1.—The citizens of Childress county enter the year 1932 in much better condition than a year ago, when the county was just recovering from one of the worst droughs in the history of the county, that on top of possibly the deepest depression in the history of the United States. Merchants, professional men and the farmers are almost a unit in saying the conditions now confronting the people of the county are not near so serious as a year ago.

In the fall of 1930 the farmers were supplied with seed wheat and a large acreage was sown, resulting in a fair crop, but the price for the grain kept them from making a profit on their work. But the wheat acreage enabled many of them to come through the winter with but little expense for feed. This year the feed crop over the county was good, practically every farmer producing enough feed for his livestock until another crop is produced.

The biggest help to the farmer was the work of the county agent and the county demonstration agent, who were in perfect harmony during the past summer, assisting the farmers to can the largest amount of food ever put up in the county. There is scarcely a farmer in the county but what has an ample supply of food stuffs canned to run him through the winter. After vegetables were canned the agents turned their attention to the canning of meats and fowls.

Farmers also gave closer attention to the raising of poultry. One of the local banks placed 75 chicks with 157 farmers in the county, and all but three made a success of the venture. As the chicks were of the best blood there are 154 farmers who have good flocks now producing eggs for the market. Several thousand turkeys were sold by the farmers, while the amount of butterfat sold is well up with the best years, when feed was plentiful and conditions much better. The coming year will see this division of the farmer's business showing quite an increase. In fact, diversification is being practiced by the farmers of Childress county.

More than a year ago the Kiwanis club distributed a number of bred gilts among farmers, resulting in quite an increase in the livestock population in the county. According to the county agent the increase from this distribution was quite large and almost every farmer in the county will have hogs this year. Many are adding to this line of their farm work and expect to give greater attention to the growing of livestock than ever before.

The merchants of the city report a better business than expected, being equal to that of the fall of 1930. Many of the business firms sold their stock to a lower point than for several years, thus permitting them to stock up with new goods and new styles. Bankers unite in saying the business conditions of the county are much better than a year ago, and the prospects are such that every one should feel encouraged to carry on during the year. Deposits are as large as a year ago, while the loans have been reduced to a considerable extent.

In fact, all conditions in Childress county are far ahead of a year ago, and with the better spirit prevailing there is every reason to believe Childress county will join the list of progressive counties in fighting down the depression and hard times.

Roosevelt Tells State Of Excellent Condition

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 1. (AP)—The new year brought to New Yorkers Governor Roosevelt's reminder that the Empire state has better credit now "than that of any other government of the world."

The governor wove his New Year's greetings around a report by his cabinet, including the comptroller and tax commissioner. This further disclosed, he said, "a very deep confidence of the people of this state in their government."

The executive cited the $20,000,000 emergency fund, completion of the hospital and prison programs and the old age pension as among the year's accomplishments.

BEHIND TIME

Pay Checks for Members Of House Presented Week Late

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (AP)—Pay checks failed to say "Merry Christmas" this winter to employes of the house of representatives but they did say "happy New Year."

The 1,450 on the house pay roll—including secretaries of congressman—got pay checks dated Dec. 31.

A time-honored custom provided a pre-Christmas pay-off but the Democratic control changed that. The pay roll was undergoing such swift revision, with new names going on and old names coming off, that it took until New Year's to do all the figuring.

'LIVE-AT-HOME' AWARDS MADE

Farm Women Win Prizes of $250 at Iowa Park

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 1.—Winners in the "live-at-home" contest sponsored by the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce were announced today by judges.

A total of $250 will be distributed among prize winners. A sum of $125 is awarded to each of two classifications, dry land and irrigated areas, with prizes of $60, $40 and $25 for first, second and third places respectively.

Winners are as follows:

Irrigated Area—Mrs. James L. Barbour, route 3, Iowa Park, first prize; Mrs. A. D. Jameson, route 2, Iowa Park, second prize; Mrs. A. N. Rambo, route 2, Iowa Park, third prize.

Dry Land Area—Mrs. W. H. Kiel, route 1, Wichita Falls, first prize; Mrs. R. F. Pruitt, route 1, Iowa Park, second prize; Mrs. H. N. Hall, route 1, Iowa Park, third prize.

Officials of the Iowa Park chamber expressed much satisfaction with the result of the contest. It was said that it is quite probable that a similar contest will be held next year.

Judges in the event were Mrs. A. C. Henson, Tom Corridon and S. B. Jackson.

Coast Guard Cutter Captures Liquor Boat

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1. (INS)—The largest seizure of holiday liquor in northern California waters was effected today when a coast guard cutter captured the speedboat Flor d'Italia, loaded with a cargo of 500 cases of whisky.

The launch was returning from a visit to a "mother" ship outside the Golden Gate when she was overtaken by the cutter. The crew of three was arrested.

LATINS WATCH U. S. CONGRESS

Copper and Oil Tariffs Hold Interest

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (AP)—Sharp eyes from Latin America are trained on the American congress as oil and copper tariff blocs polish up their campaign plans.

Opposition to duties on either of these commodities is expected to come from Venezuela and Chile, but neither has yet expressed any sort of protest.

Venezuela's interest lies in oil, upon which the tariff commission recently reported to the house, while Chile's rests in copper, on which a report was sent by the commission to the senate.

The reports showed foreign petroleum cost $1.03 a barrel less than domestic at American ports, and foreign copper was 1.42 cents a pound cheaper at refineries than the domestic metal.

Proponents of oil and copper tariff see help for their drive in these data submitted by the tariff commission. Their campaigns, which have been waged and lost in the past, again are being shaped up.

The chance of immediate congressional action on either is considered remote, because of pressing domestic reconstruction measures considered more urgent, but sponsors of protective levies intend to press for consideration of their plea at this session.

Venezuela was shown by the commission report to be the primary source of oil imports. The imports, domestic independent producers contend, are responsible for the serious plight of the American industry, and they blame Venezuelan crude.

Besides the crude petroleum from the Maracaibo basin and eastern Venezuela, refined products from this oil are processed in the Dutch West Indies and shipped to the United States.

Officials of the Venezuelan legation are keeping close watch on the drive in and out of congress and indicated that should a tariff measure seem likely of passage, there probably would be something said.

Such, too, is the attitude of the Chilean embassy as Chile supplies about 30 per cent of the copper imported at this time.

Chilean embassy staff members are compiling all the facts they can gather on the prospects for copper tariff legislation, and finding but where possible from what sources action will come.

Texas Facts

By BILL EDWARDS

Texas has 18,527.62 miles of state-designated highways, of which 11,722 miles have received federal designation in adidtion, meaning that these are eligible to receive federal aid.

HELPING BUILD TEXAS

Federal revision of the $3,500,000 flood control system of the lower Rio Grande valley is to be sought following a survey of existing conditions. The present system, designed to carry a maximum of 115,000 cubic feet of flood water a second, would be more than doubled to provide for handling an off-flow of 280,000 cubic feet a second under the plans as made by the engineers making the survey. Additional levees between Brownsville and the mouth of the river are probably to be included in the final plans.

Progress is being made on the paving of state No. 5, an 850-mile route that enters the state at Texarkana on the east, parallels Red river to Wichita Falls and then follows the Meridian highway to cross the state line northwest of Dalhart. Stretches of the route between Texarkana and Henrietta are paved, widening of the right of way and straightening out its curves and kinks are being given attention now in Fannin county, and the state highway commission has appropriated $165,000 for building drainage structures and preparing the roadway for later paving. Importance of the route is increased by the many other major highways it crosses or connects with, and its completion means the saving of many miles between West and Northwest Texas points and the eastern states.

Texas pioneered with cotton cloth for a road building base, and it now holds the record of being the first American state to use elephants in highway construction. When continued rains made the dump of a road built from Houston to bay shore points impassable to trucks hauling road material, the contractor called on a circus in winter quarters nearby for aid. Trained elephants, used to push stalled cars through the mudholes, and otherwise contributed to the quick completion of the job, 12 miles of important highway.

Recognizing Genius

A VERY quaint old letter has just been brought to America for publication by Professor Waldemar Westergaard of the University of California at Los Angeles. Written in Danzig, Germany, in 1707, it bewails the misspent youth of one Gabriel Fahrenheit—the man who later invented the mercury thermometer and became a world-famous scientist.

The letter was written by the boy's guardians to the Danzig burgomasters. Fahrenheit was 21 at the time, and he seems to have been something of a young hellion. The guardians recite the list of his misdeeds, stating quaintly that "he has behaved himself regrettably" and declaring that they can see ahead of him "nothing except destruction and dire ruin."

They urge, therefore, that the town council put the lad under arrest and ship him away to the Dutch East Indies, in the hope that a hard life under new surroundings might snap him out of it. The plan seems to have miscarried; Fahrenheit remained in Germany, became famous and left us the measuring stick by which we still guage temperature.

At this distance, of course, the guardians look rather ridiculous—as respectability almost always does when it bumps into genius. And the whole business simply proves once more that what we take for "badness" in a young man is very often only the bubbling-over of a nature that is a great deal stronger and more capable than the average.

How many, many times that has happened in the world's history! The young man who will not conform, whose effervescent spirits push him into follies and mistakes—he usually gets marked down as a wrong 'un, and age and wisdom wag their beards at him dolefully. But now and then he winds up by fooling everybody.

The "bad boy" is a problem, of course. But we usually fail to see the problem in quite the right light. The most we try to do is stop the badness. The real job is to turn the excess energy that caused the badness into productive channels.

The Historic Panther

Intrinsically the Panther was just another gunboat. But historians will always remember it; for the Panther, through the machinations of international diplomacy, almost started the world war three years ahead of time.

In 1911 there was revolt in Morocco, where the French claimed to exercise a special sphere of influence. At the height of the trouble the Panther dropped anchor in the harbor of Agadir to protect German interests—and caused such a fluttering in European chancelleries that only prompt and energetic action by England prevented the war from starting then and there.

Now, obsolete and rusty, the Panther is being broken up. Few people recognize the name; but for a few days, 20 years ago, it was the most famous warship on earth.

Artificial Grass

THE strangest and most futile of all the peculiar innovations of this mechanical age seems to have been made in New York recently, with the installation, along a mid-town boulevard, of a strip of artificial grass.

Yes, that is correct; artificial grass. There is a semi-parklike strip between the two roadways of this boulevard, and formerly the city tried to nourish a grass plot there; but waste paper collected there, and the grass didn't grow very well, and the strip always looked slightly brown and untidy.

So now, in place of the grass, the boulevard bears a strip of green composition—an asphalt and slate affair—which is always neat, always green and always easily cleaned.

It probably looks very nice, from a distance, and its probably very efficient and all that; but what, after all, is the modern city worth if it has to substitute artificial grass for the real article?

Congress and Business

A NATIONAL business magazine remarked the other day that "it is a tragic commentary on our government that business should heave a sigh of relief when congress adjourns and immediately feel itself on tenterhooks as to what will happen when our national legislators convene."

Offhand, one might reply that it is also a tragic commentary on business if that is really the way its pulse responds to the doings in Washington. Because, when you examine things, such a reaction is completely unjustified.

Congress adjourned last spring and gave business a clear road ahead. What happened? Where is the revival that was sure to start? Did business find its way out of the depression, once congress left it alone? Could it, in fact, have floundered much more pitiably if a meddlesome congress had been on the job every minute of the year?

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: The husband of Alice Joyce phoned. Said thanks for the lovely posey . . . Ditto from Wm. A. Brady for Grace George . . . L. Wolfe Gilbert and Abner Silver, who wrote such grand songs as "Waitin' for the Rob't E. Lee"—"Peanut Vendor"—"Angel Child"—and who collabed on "Ramona," have just finished another about what columnist?—which they say Eddie Cantor will warble on the Sabbath night . . . Your series on versions of the show-folk squelch, viz: "I hope all your children become acrobats, etc." is still going strong—Alf Robinson submits: "I hope all your brats becomes acrobats—and miss the net!"—and Jim Niles of the American Weekly comes: "I hope all your children become acrobats, for then there might be someone in your family who will know the ropes!"

Harry Evans has hit upon a new and attractive manner for reviewing flickers in the humorag he managing edits . . . Here's something that will leave you limp—the wife of a prominent Park Avenuer moved out on him, taking the furniture, etc., while he was in the hospital for an eye operation . . . The best specialists in America had to send him home without working on him because he heard of it—and as a result he had violent nightmares in which he saw her poking out his orbs with red-hot irons! . . . Mac Benoff phoned . . . Offers this: "Many a nobleman would be only too glad if he could get a coat for his coat of arms!" . . . He also argues that no columnist is better than his strongest contributor . . . O, yeah?

Did you know that the 65th precinct (Station House to you) in Brooklyn is located in an old one-family house? . . . Well, the captain's office is where the bathroom used to be . . . Barrie Payne of Elmhurst, L. I., phoned. Said he overheard the following in a small town newspaper office. The editor, it appears, had panned the columnist and charged him with imitating, and the columnist screamed: "I'm not doing anything of the kind! He uses three dots between his sentences and I use four!" . . . Roy L. McCardell's "Jarr Family" will be revived for the airwaves . . . Oh, I almost forgot. Greetings and a happy stew year's eve!

Terry Turner called from Bridgeport . . . Terry's importing the royal household of Ubangi Savages, the duck-billed women . . . They'll arrive here about Jan'y 8 to open at the Roxy. It is not the same troupe Terry imported for the Ringling show . . . I saw the photos—ugh! . . . The "Queen Mother" who reigns over the village of DeKaybe, principal center of the Tribus Sara Naba (What!—no abba-dabba?) in the French Congo, boats a lip measuring 18 inches in diameter . . . This certainly is more lip than any American woman can hand out . . . Terry said to tell you that these ducks-billed femmes use red clay for lipstick, and that it is just as valuable there as lipstick is here . . . That there is no such thing as divorce among those savages . . . The husband just labels the erring frau "N. G." and throws her back to the in-laws . . . But cheating is punishable by death to the wife and to her gigolo.

Very interesting (if true, of course) . . . However, here's more . . . Both sexes have a lotta good ideas—but they wear no clothes and there is little if any immorality among them—their wedding dance is supposed to be the origin of our own "Snake Hips" . . . The disc lips originated among them when enemies from the African Gold coast raided the Ubangi villages and thefted the better looking gals . . . So the men "uglied" them up to halt the piracy . . . Terry also said that in his contract with them they insisted upon a clause which would "assure" their women from being molested by American males, and that nothing would be done while here to degrade them. And, above all things—that stoves, instead of beds, be provided, to keep them warm!

If you asked me—the people this year overdid those "naughty" holiday card gags . . . I'll bet nine out of 10 card-senders sent the same cards—thus boring me and a lot of people stiff . . . No joke is funny when it is told twice the same day . . . But can you imagine all the cards (like those) that were sent to Herbie Hoover? . . . As if attaches would let him see them! . . . Wouldn't this be a good time to start a Hall of Blame? . . . That's not my crack—it came from somebody—I just wrote it down to see how pediculously it looked in type . . . Did any one ever call attention to the fact that Broadway runs from the Battery to the Battery?

Don't forget and call the children and Mrs. W. at 11.01 tonight . . . On Spring street near Lafayette the employes of a shoe store are on strike. All day long two ex-employes of that shoe emporium parade up and down in front of the place bearing placards which scream out: "We are employes of the R— Shoe Store on Strike!" . . . But the wide-awake management pasted a huge sign on the front window of the shop which most amusingly says back: "Ladies and Gentlemen, please note that the gentlemen walking up and down in front of this store are wearing shoes we sell—the finest wearing shoes ever made!" . . . Haw! . . . That "gossip" story which excited some of the local movie papers was first pulled in Sime's Hollywood branch, which gets out a special daily . . . Nothing to it, although one dope out there, who got her facts wrong incessantly was fired . . . Oh, well, maybe she didn't mean it . . . Still, Sing Sing is crowded with mistakes . . . Your line of Dec. 7: "Ganguns will blaze in Boston soon" was confirmed Dec. 22 when the Times played up the killings of Boston banditti who went to knock off some enemies but they were slow on the draw.

Lawrence Tibbett will have the holiday dinner tomorrow with his twins in your hotel . . . Thanks for the thrill of letting me have a peek at the grandest of the greatest Garbos . . . Even with her black specs I could tell her from that walk—that plain, but attractive style, those flat boots and her poise . . . I tried my best to get her paramount friend to do what you instructed—but he was timid . . . He feared asking her, he said, for this snatch of "freedom" (that's what Greta calls it) is all she asks for in her exacting career . . . Well, anyway—I've seen Garbo—now let me die! —R. C.

SHELDAHL, IOWA: Sheldahl is unique. Located in Polk, Story and Boone counties, it presents many problems to the 150 inhabitants. A citizens may live in Polk county, send his children to a Polk county school, get his mail in Story county, and go to church in Boone county. Four townships intersect with the town limits, thus causing an additional problem on election day, because everyone must leave town in order to cast his ballot.

THE MONUMENT TO A TREE: One of the most famous landmarks of the old California Trail was the Lone Tree, which gave its name to the Lone Tree Station station, now Central City, Neb. It was the one spot where shade and water were to be found after miles of toiling over the sun-scorched and waterless plains. The tree was a giant cottonwood, conspicuous for miles because of its great girth and height, its top crowned by a mass of foliage that spread out like a great canopy.

Recently the people of Central City have placed a marble monument to mark the spot where the Lone Tree once stood.

SYNOPSIS

Stephen Ashe was the best criminal lawyer in the West until liquor ruined his career. Disapproving of his daughter, Jan's, marriage to Ace Wilfong, notorious but honest gambler, he makes a wager with her to discontinue drinking if she will give up Ace. He loses. Jan and Ace are married. Ace adores her and they are very happy together. Then Stephen disappears and Jan is frantic. Stephen realized the worry he was causing Jan and thought it best to go away. He took Ace into his confidence but swore him to secrecy. He did not, however, reveal his destination and the bank which forwards Ace's money to Stephen will not disclose it. Mac, Stephen's handy man, innocently tells Jan that Ace knew Stephen's plans and she is hurt. Dwight Sutro, an old friend and rejected suitor, calls after an absence of two years' abroad. Jan throws her arms around him and kisses him just as Ace enters. Ace resents it but says nothing. Later, Jan stuns Gwennie, her jealous sister-in-law, with the statement that even a married woman may amuse herself with an admirer. Instead of telling Ace that she knows of his part in her father's disappearance, she locks the hurt in her heart and casts a shadow across their love. Ace thinks the change in her is due to Dwight Sutro. Gwennie reads a note from Dwight to Jan, and slyly places it in Ace's room to make sure he sees it. Following a stroll in the park with Dwight, Jan goes to his apartment. She repulses his advances. Ace asks Jan not to see Dwight so frequently. She laughs at him and reminds him their agreement was that she should be free. As Ace is about to take Jan in his arms and make up, Gwennie enters with a box of orchids. Ace, ignorant of the fact that Jan does not know the sender, leaves the house in anger. The war which the vice squad has been waging against Ace is over, but while his orderly resorts were closed several crooked ones opened. Many hold-ups resulted with the police helpless to interfere.

CHAPTER XLVIII

The battle between Red Sullivan's crowd and Tut Inman and his gang from newspaper alley finally brught about a settlement and the removal of Lieutenant Nelson to command an outlying district where he could do as little harm as possible in the future.

Red was running a small place for Ace opposite one of the big newspapers, merely shielding his two tables in the kitchen wing of a popular hash house. Here one night came Tut Inman, looking, so he said, for Ace Wilfong and spitting his usual vituperation and hate upon Ace's name. And Tut and his two cohorts stuck up Red's game and took his small bank-roll, vanishing into the night with many insults.

Red, who was a San Francisco Irishman of the maddest variety, was crazy with rage, and his lust for revenge he took to Bill Wilfong, well knowing that Ace would order him to keep quiet and forget about it. But Bill had long been afraid of Tut Inman on Ace's account. No one knew better than Bill the danger in which Ace walked daily and the fatalistic contempt with which Ace regarded it. Bill decided that this would be an excellent time to unite with Red in giving Tut a lesson and making of Tut an example for the rest of these fresh eggs.

Red got a couple of girls, who easily separated Tut and the other boys that had pulled the job from their usual gang in the alleys. Then Red and Jock McMonagle and Bill Wilfong took them out to a dark, deserted meadow near the old Tanforan race-track, where they beat them up in no mean fashion and left them penniless, blindfolded, and stark naked.

The next night Tut Inman located the exclusive poker game which Ace was running in a certain select apartment-house for a few congenial and consequential gentlemen desiring high play. Standing in the doorway at the head of the stairs, Tut opened fire on Ace without warning. But Ace Wilfong's body was quicker than Tut Inman's gun. He dived under the boy's outstretched arm, slid half-way downstairs on his stomach, and turning in the narrow space like a panther, shot upward, catching Tut exactly where he had planned to catch him, in the fleshy part of his gun arm.

The important thing was that he spoiled Tut's wide and accidental but nevertheless hair-raising aim, which was at that moment in the very face of a rich and influential old gentleman, whose fondness for a quiet but reasonably stiff game of stud poker is part of San Francisco's history.

His rage and stupefaction at Tut's abrupt entry and careless gun-play were equaled only by his gratitude to Ave Wilfong, and he himself escorted Tut Inman to the police station, where he publicly entered a complaint against him for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder, and declared loudly that nothing but Ace Wilfong's coolness and courage had saved his life. He also said, in no subdued tone, that things had come to a pretty pass when the police couldn't protect the lives of important citizens from attacks of that kind, and a gentleman's game from such unwarranted intrusions.

That proved the climax. The powers that be deported Lieutenant Nelson and sent for Ace Wilfong; and the ancient and peaceful status quo was restored, with the understanding that Ace would do all in his power to keep order.

So it would seem that Ace Wilfong should have rejoiced as he sat once more in his office on the top floor of that big office building and heard without the hum of voices and the click of chips.

But he was not rejoicing.

His old friend Scotty, scarred and grizzled by his years as a police reporter, coming up to congratulate him, found him grave, preoccupied, as he walked about the big room, his black eyes watchful of what went on but his thoughts very far away.

Now Scotty had not come that night merely to congratulate Ace Wilfong upon his victory. Scotty had many underground lines, and they had of late brought him messages that he liked very little. There was no man he admired more than Ace Wilfong, and he could remember Jan Ashe when she was a little thing whose feet would not touch the floor as she sat in the courtroom beside her father.

He had come tonight to look upon Ace Wilfong's face and see if he could read anything there. And he would read nothing. But it came to him with a pang that the boy was gone from Ace's face. There had been, only the last time he saw him, still something of the wild, shy, reckless boy about him, the boy adventuring upon life. Now that was gone. There was about him instead an air of being poised, of waiting, of watching.

"Things have come out all right for you, Ace," said Scotty as they stood over a crap table.

The king of the gamblers looked at him, and there was just the smallest suggestion of a twinkle in his eye. "Yes. That is going to be tough on some reporters. They will have to get to work now and find some real happenings, instead of just sitting down every morning and making up a little piece of fiction about me."

They laughed together and Ace moved on, standing behind a man at the stud table who was having an amazing run of luck. Ace seemed almost pleased with the man's luck.

"Nelson took it pretty hard," said Scotty.

Quickly the dark face clouded. "I am sorry for that," said Ace Wilfong. "He meant right. He don't understand how complicated things have become."

"A man has got to have judgment," said Scotty. "We haven't got anything left these days as far as crime is concerned but a choice of two evils. You're the lesser, Ace."

"I suppose so," said the gambler so somberly that for a moment Scotty thought he had trodden upon one of his hidden sensitivenesses. But the black eyes looked inward.

Just when Scotty had decided that Ace did not want to talk with him except in that crowded, noisy, hectically gay room, except beneath the glaring lights, the tall figure turned and led the way to the little office. He poured a drink for Scotty, but he shook his head when Scotty endeavored to include him in his own hospitality.

While Scotty drank, the telephone bell broke shrilly upon them. Ace answered it absently. But the sound of the voice at the other end of the wire inflamed him with eagerness. "Mac!" he cried. "Mac!"

"Yeh," said the voice, "I'm down to the Ferry building. But I ain't had no luck."

"You didn't find even a trace, Mac?"

"Nope. I combed Honolulu and I been up and down the coast of China like a terrier hunting rats, but I can't find him. This is an awful big world, Ace, and you know Steve. If he had made up his mind to disappear, the son of a gun would disappear right. Anyway, he's got me licked."

"Not yet," said Ace. "Come on up here, Mac. You might start down to Mexico tomorrow. I had a tip that might mean something."

"I bet I can get a job with a world tour before I'm through with this," said Mac, and he tried to say it cheerfully, "How's Jan?"

"She's fine," said Ace Wilfong, "but—we must find him if we can. We made a mistake to let him go, Mac. I feel responsible."

"Don't you start feeling responsible for Steve Ashe," said the voice. "God give him twice the brains he give the rest of us. He'd ought to be able to look after himself. I'll be up."

As the receiver clicked into place, Ace Wilfong looked at Scotty and shook his head. Scotty had never seen him show disappointment before.

"We have been looking for Steve Ashe," he said. "His going away was a mistake. My wife would rather have him here no matter—she would rather have him here. I thought Mac might find him, but he has not."

"There are a lot of ports of missing men," said Scotty. "Where has Mac been?"

"Honolulu—he was there once, years ago."

"No," said Scotty, "Honolulu is in San Francisco's front yard. A thousand people would spoil him there."

"And China."

"Yes—and there is Australia and South America and Mexico. He'd be apt to take a boat."

"I send him money. But the bank will not tell you for any reason."

"What bank?"

Ace named it.

Scotty looked very thoughtful. "I might—" he said. "Don't count on it. It's a long chance. But I know some fellows in that bank pretty well. There might be a leak."

"I would be pretty much in your debt, Scotty," said Ace Wilfong.

"Don't count on it," said Scotty.

He accepted another drink. At last, very casually, so casually that Scotty sensed instantly some grave importance to the thing, Ace said, "You know a right smart lot of people in this neck of the woods at that, Scotty."

"U-mm."

"I don't expect there are many people around here that you don't know their records and their character backwards. I have been to that morgue you have got down to your paper, with all them little cards and the numbers on to tell you what day and year you should look for, to locate stories from some man's past. But I don't suppose you have much use for them. You have a morgue in your own head."

"Rotten company if I have."

"Still, sometime it might give information to a friend."

"Yes—to a friend."

Answers to Questions

Have we had the pleasure of serving you through our Washington information bureau? Can't we be of some help to you in your problems? Our business is to furnish you with authoritative information, and we invite you to ask us any question of fact in which you are interested. Send your inquiry to The Record News Information bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington D. C. Enclose two cents in coin or stamps for return postage.

Q.—Is it true that sable and ermine are the furs of the same animal, one taken in the summer the other in the winter?—E. W.

A.—It is not true. The animals which yield these furs are cousins—both species are of the weasel family. Ermine is from the genus Mustela and sable from the genus Putorius.

Q.—Were Amos and Andy ever in the Ziegfield Follies?—P. S.

A.—Their acting before they went on the radio had been limited to amateur or small-town shows.

Q.—Is all steel made from iron ore?—J. S.

A.—The bureau of standards says that it is. Steel is made from pig iron by first burning out the impurities and then adding known amounts of other elements, such as carbon. There are many varieties of steel, each having different characteristics, as for instance, high tensile strength; elasticity, extreme hardness, etc.

Q.—Who is the manager of the Ringling circus?—W. S.

A.—The Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey combined shows is under the management of John Ringling.

Q.—Are plants harmful in a sickroom?—A. M. P.

A.—The old theory that the keeping of plants in bedrooms is harmful to sleeping human beings has no foundation in fact, since plants give off oxygen and take in carbon dioxide—the exact opposite process to that which takes place during the respiration of animals. Therefore, if plants are not so numerous as to cause a heaviness in the air with their odor, they would be beneficial rather than otherwise in a bedroom.

Q.—Does the United States owe any war debts outside of this country?—M. R.

A.—It does not.

Q.—Is there a Roosevelt fund which gives a sum of money to the parents of 12 children?—N. M. V.

A.—There is no such fund.

Q.—When will Halley's comet appear again?—L. T. O.

A.—Halley's comet has a period of 76 years. The latest appearance was in 1910; on April 19 of that year it passed within 55,000,000 miles of the sun; the velocity of the comet at this, its nearest approach to the sun, was 34 miles per second. On May 18, 1910, the comet passed within 14,000,000 miles of the earth, at which time the tail had a length of about 20,000,000 miles. It is due to return in 1986.

Q.—In writing to her divorced husband whose name is John Smith how should a woman begin the letter?—L. M. P.

A.—She would write "My dear John." This is a conventional phrase which has no real significance.

Q.—When does the supreme court of the United States sit?—R. S.

A.—The supreme court meets in October of each year and with certain recesses, which are voted by the court itself, sits until the following June.

Q.—Is a yellow diamond more valuable than a white one?—E. J. P.

A.—A fancy canary yellow diamond is more valuable than a blue white or white diamond. This is because of the rareness of the stone. Of the diamonds that are found in commercial quantities the blue white is the most valuable.

Q.—Who has the power to impeach a president of the United States?—M. D.

A.—The house of representatives under the constitution has the sole power to bring an impeachment.

Dangerous Pneumonia

An attack of pneumonia proved the turning point in the life of one of our largest magazine publishers, for it turned his footsteps and attention to the field in which he became an outstanding success. When a young man he was predisposed to tuberculosis. In an effort to grow strong he began exercising; then he caught pneumonia and discovered that this disease could not be cured by exercise. This led him to fasting and other drugless measures. He combined his ideas about fasting, exercising and other hygienic measures and started a health magazine which was the beginning of his publishing enterprises.

Pneumonia is an inflammation of the lungs and when wrongly treated often proves a killing disease. It is most severe on the very young and the aged. One attack of pneumonia, instead of increasing the resistance against a future attack, predisposes to others. The winter months are the time of year when pneumonia is most prevalent and must be guarded against. There are two general forms. One is acute lobar pneumonia, which is contagious, and the other is bronchial pneumonia which may be considered a bronchitis which has traveled down the bronchial tubes and affected the lungs.

When the body is in good health one finds the lungs and lower part of the air passages completely sterile. It seems that the body has some method of protecting itself from germs in these regions. Although the germs found in pneumonia are frequently present in the throat and nose of a healthy person, as long as the person is healthy such germs are harmless, but, when the patient becomes enervated and his resistance is low, the natural protective power is lost and the germs are able to descend and propagate in the lungs. Enervation is the predisposing cause of pneumonia. Those having the severest cases are patients who have been enervated for some time and are also overweight. Disorders which may turn into pneumonia are colds, influenza, bronchitis as well as such diseases as measles and whooping cough. One should never neglect a cold or sore throat as this gives such a serious trouble as pneumonia a chance to develop.

The general symptoms of pneumonia are chills, fever, headache, cough, difficult breathing, pain in the chest and the raising of bloody sputum. Ordinarily the disease reaches the crisis in from five to ten days and the patient begins to get well if he breaks into a sweat, falls into a sleep, and breathes more easily.

A treatment for pneumonia is complete rest in bed. The patient should immediately be put on a fast, using no food of any kind but he should have plenty of water to drink, two sponge baths daily, and two enemas each day. A little lemon juice may be used in the drinking water. If some fever persists after five days of this fasting regimen, it is all right to start giving the patient limited quantities of cooked non-starchy vegetables. Keep the windows open but the patient well covered. If the air is too cold, then heat it with electric heaters—not with gas. The fresher the air, the better chances of recovery.

Be sure to call a doctor who uses the new treatment with diathermy over the patient's chest for this brings the quickest relief from pain and is probably the most successful method of all for treating pneumonia. If the diathermy is not obtainable, then use the electric pad or hot water bottles over the chest, as this gives comfort, but the diathermy is to be preferred.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Prairie Itch

Question—Mr. D. Van D. asks: "Can you give me a diet and treatment for prairie itch? I have tried various remedies, but it doesn't seem to yield to treatment. The itching is worse at night. A rash all over the body and a slight rash on the head."

Answer—Prairie itch is a name for various itching eruptions frequently seen among farmers and lumbermen. It is probably due to an effort of the skin to eliminate toxic substances as a result of wrong food combinations, and the itching is made more severe by the presence of dust or coarse underclothing. The reason you have not had success with skin remedies is because you have not corrected the internal condition responsible for the trouble. You must be especially careful to avoid the use of any acid fruit with starch, such as strawberry jam and bread or potatoes, oranges and oatmeal, etc. Try an exclusive acid fruit diet for a few days, using nothing but oranges or apples, and using a large enema at night, followed by a diet such as is outlined every Friday in this column. I feel sure you will be benefited. You should also use a tepid shower or sponge bath morning and evening. After you dry the skin, rub in a little olive oil.

Tapioca

Question—Mrs. Olive G. inquires: "Does tapioca contain starch? Is it a good food?"

Answer—Tapioca is almost a pure starch food and should be used as such in the diet. This food, like all starches, should be well cooked and not used with other starches, fruits or proteins, but with greens.

Childress Fire Chief Resigns After 16 Years

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Jan. 1.—F. E. (Red) Fitzgerald ended this week 16 years of service in the Childress volunteer fire company, being chief for the past six years. Wednesday the members of the company sounded the fire alarm and when Chief Fitzgerald arrived at the station he was confronted by a full company, and no fire. He was informed the boys had a present for him upon his retirement from the service, and gave him a watch suitably engraved.

Chief Fitzgerald has built up a fire company which is recognized as among the best volunteer companies in Texas. During the first 10 years he acted as assistant chief.

Fitzgerald will continue to take an interest in the company, giving the members the benefit of his experience during the past 16 years.

District Court Opens Monday at Childress

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Jan. 1.—District court meets at Childress Monday, Jan. 4, for a term of five weeks. As there is but little business the petty jury will not meet until the second week. Possibly the most interesting case to the people of the county is the injunction suit brought against the county commissioners and the Texas Highway commission as to the location of highway four from the city to the north line of the county. This case was heard at the June term resulting in a hung jury. The outcome of the case is awaited by the commission before additional work will be done on the highways in the county.

TROJANS DOWN TULANE GREENIES TO CLAIM NATIONAL TITLE

The Ambler's Corner

By BILL JENKINS

The football rules committee has met and done absolutely nothing about the great number of fatalities in football last season. The Ambler doesn't really think that any thing needed to be done, but why should these high moguls talk so much about the need of reform, and then do nothing at all when the time comes for action. The whole nation watched breathlessly to find out what would be done to make the game milder, but when the rules committee met they decided the game was all right. All this is based on the report of E. K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee, which made no mention of any change in the rules.

Coaches and officials all over the nation have been making suggestions to reduce the number of deaths, but the committee heeded none of them. Oh, yes they did make one change. They decided that each player should have a medical examination at the first of the season, and the requirements should be more strict. What a big help? If a player is any good, the coach will play him even if he had 16 different diseases. The committee thought they had to do something, so they decided to make the medical examination stricter.

It would have been different if there had not been so much talk about fatalities, but every coach official or fan has made some plan that would cut down the number of accidents. It was generally thought that the rules committee would do something to end all the agitation. If every one had considered the number of fatalities just a bad year for football, and let it go at that, there would have been no need for changes.

The rules committee left another football situation untouched, and in this point the Ambler thinks they were entirely right. They did nothing about the over-supply of talk concerning over-emphasis of football in the college. They decided by a questionnaire sent out by Coach Lou Little of Columbia university to varsity captains, that there was no such thing as over-emphasis. They might have had another reason, besides the questionnaire. What could be done about it? They probably thought about the situation for a large portion of their time, but could not think of any solution. The only remedy is to make a minor sport out of the sport that is the life of every college in the United States.

There has been quite a bit of agitation among the basketball lovers of this city for a Municipal gym with two or three basket ball courts which would furnish space for the maintenance of basket ball leagues in the city. As the situation now stands, only a few of the boys of the city are allowed the privilege of playing basket ball. After the city finishes the high school athletic field, their next aim should be for a Municipal gym.

Armour Leads Miami Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 1. (AP)—Tommy Armour, the Scot who holds the British open championship, shot a sizzling 33-35—68 today to take commanding lead of 159 players at the quarter mark of the 72-hole $2,500 Miami open golf tournament.

The day's play opened the Florida winter golf season.

Tommy wielded magic clubs about the course to lead Len Mattson, St. Paul professional, his nearest competitor, by two strokes for the 18 holes.

F. Deering, Chicago, scored a 36-35—71 early in the day, but had to split third place honors with Henri Ciuci, Mill River, Conn., who recorded a 37-34—71.

Hank Miller, La Porte, Ind., Ralph Kingsrud, Fargo, N. D., and Wild Bill Mehlhorn, New York, had 73's, while Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., defending champion, had to be content with a 74. Lee Chase, Miami, was low amateur as he tied with Turnesa and three others at this mark.

Armour's long game was his forte as he shot five strokes under the 37-36—73 par of the course, but his game on the greens was nearly as effective.

Armour, favored to win before the tourney started, will lead the van of club swingers as they play the second 18 holes of the tournament tomorrow. Final 36-hole play is scheduled for Sunday. Tommy won first money of the tournament today, taking a $25 cash prize for his low 18-hole score.

Burke and Pare Enter Tennis Semi-Finals

NEW YORK, Jan. 1. (AP)—Albert Burke, Irish professional and J. Emmett Pare of Chicago advanced to the semi-final round of the national indoor professional lawn tennis tournament here today.

Burke turned back Thomas Worthley of New York with the loss of only one game, winning 6-1, 6-0, 6-0. Pare had a little more trouble with J. Basil Maguire of New York but won in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1.

Vincent Richards, former professional champion, and Charles M. Wood, Elmsford, N. Y. joined Burke and Pare in the semi-finals, also winning in an easy manner. Richards defeated Russell Harned, Newark, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1, and Wood eliminated Paul L. Heston, Washington, D. C., 6-1, 6-2, 6-0.

DIXIE CHAMPS LOSE 21-12

But Wave Outplays Victors In Rose Classic

ROSE BOWL, PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 1. (US)—Dixie football bowed its colors in defeat for the first time in the Pasadena Rose Bowl intersectional classic today when Southern California won undisputed claim to the national intercollegiate championship by defeating Tulane university of New Orleans, 21 to 12.

The southern champions convinced a capacity crowd of 84,000 people that instead of being another over-rated Georgia Bulldog they were, as Dixie experts claimed them to be, the greatest and most dangerous eleven that ever came out of the South to invade the Pacific coast. Southern California won, not by the 20 points that had been offered in the betting, but only by one touchdown and conversion after a fiercely fought battle that found Tulane given more glory in defeat than the Trojans in victory.

Tulane Outplays Trojans

Tulane looked like and played like a better team than Notre Dame, and much to the surprise of nearly every one in the stands actually outplayed Southern California through a major portion of the game and in the yardstick statistics.

The Southern California line was ripped wide apart in a manner that the Fighting Irish of South Bend never even approached. The Trojans were able to win by virtue of two beautiful runs by Ernie Pinckert outside of the right end position, defended by Tulane's all-American captain, Jerry Dalrymple.

These two runs coming in the third period after the Trojans had maintained a lead of 7 to 0 at half time, momentarily bewildered Tulane and placed Howard Jones' Trojans out in front by a 21 to 0 score. It looked then as though the riot were about to begin. But the Green Wave refused to retreat, rallied its forces, and came back despite the Trojans offensive, scoring two touchdowns and threatening another before the final gun extricated the Southern California boys from their difficulty.

That Tulane was a defeated but not a routed foe, was proven by the yardstick. Coach Bernie Bierman's wonderful coached men from the South, gained 354 yards from scrimmage to 221 for Southern California.

Tulane, with 15 first downs, more than doubled the number made by Southern California. The Trojans with all their vaunted power, and ferocity could make but seven first downs throughout the four periods of play. Even in the first half when Southern California held Tulane scoreless luckily so, it seemed from the stands, Tulane outplayed the home team. During the first two periods Tulane made 154 yards and seven first downs, Southern California 117 yards and five first downs.

Pinckert Is Star

Ernie Pinckert, Gaius Shaver and Bob Hall were outstanding figures for Southern California. Pinckert not only scored the two touchdowns which proved to be the winning ones, but he saved what appeared to be a certain Tulane touchdown in the first half when he came from nowhere to bring (Wop) Glover down from behind after Glover had run 58 yards through the Southern California team.

Pinckert's blocking was not quite what it has been in other games this season but his defensive and forward pass play were of high caliber and in his fadeout he made a lasting impression before Southern California fans.

Hall, substitute Trojan left tackle, proved the turning point in the game. The Greenies had been riding Kay Brown out of play after play, and just when the whole left side of the Trojan wall seemed to be crumpling, in came Hall, a great money player, to plug up the gap. Hall was far and away the outstanding lineman on the field in defense and the two touchdowns scored by Pinckert may be directly attributed to Hall. He on each occasion personally took Dalrymple completely out of the play, leaving Pinckert with nothing to do but run for the corner of the field on his famous reverse play.

Upton and De Coligny, Tulane's two tackles, outplayed all of the Trojan tackles excepting Hall and Erskine. Payne was easily the best end on the field and Fullback Felts, for Tulane, turned in the best performance in blocking during the game. Don Zimmerman, and Glover were outstanding ball carriers and in fact Tulane individually and collectively did so many things better than Southern California that the fans were still wondering tonight how the Trojans, seemingly below their usual form, were able to win.

First Period

Captain Williamson of Troy won the toss and chose to kick off with the Greenies defending the south goal, the wind at their back.

Baker kicked off to Felts who raced from the six to the 23-yard line before he was cut down. Zimmerman gained five yards running left end out of bounds.

Glover broke away around right end for a first down. He went to the 34-yard line. A double pass behind the line of scrimmage was good for only a half yard.

The ball squirted out of Don's hands and Musick took it in the air to return eight yards. Mohler went into Southern California's backfield for Musick, Shaver moving to fullback and Mohler taking over the signal calling. Pinckert ran out of bounds for a yard gain. Mohler's interference piled up in front of him, and he failed to gain.

Shaver's kick was downed on the Tulane five-yard line as the quarter ended. Score: Tulane 0, Southern California 0.

Second Period

Glover dashed around left end to the Trojan 37-yard line where Pinckert got him. It was a 58-yard run. Zimmerman on a reverse lost eight yards. Glover kicked to Mohler who caught the ball on his 20-yard line and returned to the S. C. 35-yard marker.

Shaver gained seven yards on a lateral pass from Mohler.

Mohler knocked down another long pass. Felts punted to Mohler who returned to the 14. Mohler was cut down hitting left tackle for three yards. Mohler was about to quick kick but Tulane was through and so he held the ball. Shaver punted to Zimmerman who threw the ball out of bounds giving Tulane possession on the S. C. 45-yard line.

Payne dropped Zimmerman's pass but S. C. was penalized five yards for holding. It gave the Greenies a first down on the 36-yard line.

Zimmerman on a double reverse broke through for five yards. Zimmerman's long pass fell incomplete. Felts went through left tackle for a yard. Zimmerman passed a long one incomplete giving the Trojans the ball on downs on their 36-yard line. Sparling gained a yard on a reverse. Shaver's long pass was over Arbelbide's head. Furman Coach Takes Time in Picking Staff

GREENVILLE, S. C., Jan. 1. (AP)—A new coach should never be in a hurry to pick his assistants.

That's the philosophy of Paul "Dizzy" McLeod, newly appointed head football coach at Furman university, who deliberately left the city for the holidays without so much as giving a hint of who he will select to help train the Purple Hurricane.

"I want to take plenty of time to pick my staff," McLeod said. "It is an important thing, and I don't want to take a chance of making a mistake."

MUDDY FIELD HALTS MASON

Westerners Unable to Use Speed or Passes

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1. (US)—Sending Jim Purvis over the goal line in the first period, the eastern all-stars defeated the West 6 to 0 in the Shriner's annual benefit game today at Kezar stadium.

Fifty thousand persons assembled in the rain to watch the men under Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr take command of the battle on a sloppy and slippery turf. The power of the heavy, aggressive invaders from east of the Rockies, asserted itself early in the game when Bob Kleckner of San Francisco university, kicking from behind his own goal, sent a poor punt out of bounds on the western 24-yard mark.

"Reb" Russell, Northwestern fullback, smashed three times to produce a first down on the 13-yard line. Purvis cracked through for eight yards more and Russell added still another four to provide a fresh start two yards from the goal.

Bible Guides Westerners

On first and second downs, Toscani of St. Mary's and Wellendorf of University of California at Los Angeles held Russell without gain but on the third, Purvis cracked through left tackle behind beautiful interference and smashed cleanly over the goal.

Bill Morton of Dartmouth, who displayed splendid generalship on the touchdown march, missed the kick for extra point.

The western stars, under Dapa X. Bible of Nebraska and Percy Locey of the San Francisco Olympic club, entered the game planning a wide-open pass attack, which proved utterly impossible under prevailing conditions.

Not a single pass was completed by either team. Players slid for yards when they fell on the muddy field and after the first two quarters all the boys looked alike, all being black and all covered with mud.

The West All-Stars were clearly outclassed. They never made a first down and they never once were able to get out of their own half of the field. They did, after the first quarter, however, exhibit a great goal line defense, for twice the powerful Russell of Northwestern and Clark Hinkle, great driving fullback from Bucknell, carried the eastern team to the three-yard line. But each time the West held for four consecutive plays from that point.

Mason Boots One

For the East, Bill Hewitt of Michigan, Dal Marvil of Northwestern, McMurdo of Pittsburgh and George Chalmers of New York university played outstanding games in the line. McEver, Tennessee ace, and Jim Murphy of Fordham proved leading blockers.

Hinkle of Bucknell was the outstanding smasher and ground gainer of the afternoon and it was plainly his hitting power, along with that of Reb Russell, which kept the West on defense all day. The slippery field spoiled whatever chances the brilliant Merle Hufford of Washington and Weldon Mason of Southern Methodist had to get away, for they couldn't hold their feet in the muddy going. Both kicked well, however. The best effort of the game being a punt which Mason sent 53 yards upfield from behind his own goal.

First Period

The West kicked off and the East took the ball on its 32-yard line. They exchanged punts and Morton made first down on his own 35-yard line. Mason fumbled a punt but Kleckner recovered for the West on his 29-yard stripe. Mason's quick kick went only 17 yards. Two East passes failed. The East punted to the West's three-yard line but the Westerners kicked out to the 27-yard stripe.

Russell made a first down on the 12-yard line and Purvis added seven yards going to the five-yard stripe. Russell made a first down on the two-yard line. Russell made a yard at right guard. Purvis, running wide at left tackle, scored a touchdown.

Morton's drop kick fell short. Score, East, 6, West, 0.

The East kicked off and Mason returned the ball 14 yards to his 20-yard line, the period ending with the score East, 6; West, 0.

Second Period

The West failed to gain and punted. Morton kicked back, and the West took the pigskin on its own 23-yard line.

Hufford passed incomplete to Toscani. The East was penalized five yards for running into the kicker, giving the West a first down. Hufford punted 41 yards and Morton immediately punted back without waiting for his team to line up. It was a trick play and sent the ball down the field to the West's 22-yard line.

Hufford failed to gain and punted 48 yards.

Hinkle, substituting at fullback for Russell, kicked to the West's 26-yard line.

A light rain began falling.

Hufford punted only eight yards, giving the East first down on the West's 36-yard line. The increasing rain failed to stop Hinkle from making a first down on the West's 40-yard line. Score end second period, East, 6; West, 0.

Third Period

McCoy returned the East kickoff to the West's 35-yard line. Hufford punted 32 yards after two line plays failed to gain. The East jabbed the line twice for two yards and then punted to the West 32-yard line.

Hufford punted 43 yards on third down. Morton punted 22 yards to the West's 48-yard line.

Hufford lost five yards attempting to cut back at left tackle. Hufford's punt was downed on the East's 25-yard stripe.

After two plays at the center of the line, Morton managed to slide for a first down at left tackle on the West's 45-yard line. Morton kicked 38 yards to the West's 13-yard line as the third period ended. Score, East 6; West 0.

Fourth Period

A West punt was down on the West's 35-yard line. After losing five yards on two plays, the East punted 40 yards over the West's goal line.

Purvis made two yards and Hinkle on three plays missed a first down by a foot. Mason kicked 43 yards but the West was penalized 15 yards for piling up, giving the East a first down on the West's 31-yard line.

Mason fumbled and Chalmers, reserve guard for the East, recovered on the West's 25-yard line. Purvis lashed through left tackle for four yards. Three plays made first down on the West's 12-yard line.

Hinkle of Bucknell, fullback, behind a driving forward wall, reached comparatively dry surface at the side of the field and unaided plowed through the Western team to the 2-yard line with gains of from three to nine yards. Somers, quarterback, then lost a yard at left guard and Hinkle was unable to reach the goal line.

Mason seeing his kick would be blocked, passed, incomplete. On the next play he punted out 52 yards. The East punted to the West's 25-yard line and the game ended a moment after Toscani's pass was intercepted on the West's 32-yard line. Final score, East 6; West 0.

Southpaw Boxer Drops Doughty Foe 23 Times in Bout

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 1. (AP)—Hal Murray, Harrisburg, Pa., boxer, finds the southpaw style difficult to solve, but he's a persistent student.

Murray in a recent bout here with Harry Blitman, Philadelphia southpaw lightweight, was knocked down 23 times in seven rounds of a scheduled eight round bout.

Murray took a count of nine after each knock down until the 23rd, the result of a left to the jaw. He stayed down then for the full count.

CRACKERS NIP TEXAS TEAM

Allen Academy Defeated by Georgia School

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 1. (AP)—Madison A. & M. of Madison, Ga., today won an intersectional charity football game here that was billed as the "prey school championship of the South" from Allen Military academy of Bryan, Texas, 13-6.

A flashy passing barrage in the final period by the Aggies broke a 6-6 tie which had existed since the opening quarter.

The Texans counted first on a 22-yard pass from Allen, quarterback, to Fullback Veness, who stood near the Aggie goal. Madison soon made an answering score. Captain Hines, halfback, threw a 30-yard pass to Wagnon, right end, who ran 30 yards more for the tally.

Only a brave goal line stand kept the Allen team from crossing the final marker in the second period. The Texans drove to the one-yard line. A penalty for roughing cost them a touchdown later in the same quarter. Gillman, substitute back, crossed the goal on a 11-yard run but the play was called back and the penalty inflicted.

Wagnon's catch of a pass in the fourth quarter permitted the Georgians to rush across the winning score. Penalties and fumbles hurt the chances of both teams in the third period and neither threatened.

BULLDOGS LOSE TO ALL-STARS

Cloninger Sprints 89 Yards For Only Score

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Jan. 1.—Sylvian Cloninger, former Electra Tiger and Howard Payne football star, gave the Burkburnett all-Stars a 7 to 0 victory over the Burkburnett High school Bulldogs here today in a thrilling football game when he raced through the entire high school team for 89 yards and the lone touchdown. Mark High added the extra point after the touchdown.

Punts Average 45 Yards

While Cloninger was supplying the only scoring punch of the day, the greatest thrill of the game was the playing of Joe Earl Bryarly, all-district tackle with the Bulldogs. Bryarly was in every play of the day, both on the offense and defense until he went out of the game in the closing two minutes due to injury. Bryarly's punting was sensational as he ran up an average of close to 45 yards per kick. Playing defensive tackle and offensive backfield, Bryarly played by far the best game of the day.

Joots Johnson, Mark High and Blondy Smith were the outstanding ground gainers for the all-Stars. The lines of both teams played excellent football all the way with Floyd Patterson, for the all-Stars, possibly rated next to the playing of the high school star.

One of the biggest thrills of the day came in the first period when the plucky Bulldog line held to check the all-Stars on the three-yard line.

Lines Well Matched

Hill, Waitts, G. Buckner, Goodlett and G. Smith were outstanding in the high school forward wall, while Curt Mathews played some ball while he was in the game. Aulds, Norvill and Ragsdale were outstanding ground gainers for the high school. Bob Key, Freddy Dodd, Capt. Geni Buckner, Winniger and Speck Gilmore starred in the all-Star line along with Patterson.

102. LEGAL NOTICES

THE STATE OF TEXAS—To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county, greeting: You are hereby commanded to summon Mrs. Maud A. Young, a feme sole, and the unknown heirs of Mrs. Maud A. Young by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in March, A. D., 1932, the same being the 7th day of March, A. D., 1932. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 30th day of November, A. D., 1931, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 25464-B, wherein, Mrs. Edna Ferguson, a widow, individually and as community survivor of the estate of J. B. Ferguson, deceased and as next friend for Loraine Ferguson, a minor, is plaintiff, and Mrs. Maud A. Young, a feme sole, and the unknown heirs of Mrs. Maud A. Young and W. L. Stanley are defendants, said petition alleging, that on or about the 1st day of January, 1930, plaintiff was lawfully seised and possessed of lots 13 and 14 in block 102, and lots 15 and 16 in block 103 of the town of Electra, Wichita county, Texas, and that on said date, the defendants entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom and unlawfully withheld from the plaintiff the possession thereof to her damage in the sum of $500. That plaintiff is informed that the defendant, Mrs. Maud A. Young, whose residence is unknown to plaintiff, or her unknown heirs, is asserting or claiming some character of lien on the above described premises by virtue of a note secured by lien on the same executed more than ten (10) years ago. That said note has long since been paid and the same and the vendor's lien released but if the same has not been released that the same has been retired and is not a valid claim and lien but that the same is casting a cloud on the title of the above described premises. That said note and the lien securing the same is barred by the four (4) years statutes of limitation and that the cloud cast upon the title to the above described premises should be removed and the title quieted in the plaintiff and the defendant, W. L. Stanley, for all of which plaintiff prays. Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 8th day of December, A. D., 1931.—Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger, clerk district court, Wichita county, Texas. By Flora Caleb, deputy.

James J. Davis Favors Direct Federal Relief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (AP)—If the senate western progressives' bill for direct federal unemployment relief comes to a vote in congress they may find support from a former member of President Hoover's cabinet.

James J. Davis, who left the secretaryship of labor to become junior senator from Pennsylvania, says he is sympathetic to federal relief, if it is shown to be necessary to prevent distress this winter.

He let it be known today he does not consider provisions of the La Follette and Costigan measures as constituting a "dole." One provides for distribution of $200,000,000 and the other $350,000,000 to existing welfare agencies.

HOPPER POISON AFFLICTS FIVE

Colorado Men Treated in Denver Hospital

DENVER, Jan. 1. (AP)—Victims of a malady traced to grasshopper poison which they were engaged in mixing last summer, five more farm hands of Crook, Colo., were brought to a hospital here today for treatment.

Five others, two of whom were reported by physicians to be in serious condition from the poison, had previously been treated at the hospital here and sent back to their homes.

The men brought here today are Harry Robertson, Henry A. Robertson, Harold Robertson, George McKelvey and Victor McCracken. Donald K. Kinyoun, one of the men sent home two weeks ago, was brought back with the new group of victims for additional treatment.

The men are being cared for by the industrial commission under provisions of the state workmen's compensation fund. They mixed the poison in a barn near Crook. It was discovered the barn did not have proper ventilation and the men had inhaled the dust containing the poison.

NEW YEAR'S DEATH TOLL MOUNTS HIGH

Holidays Bring Scores of Fatal Accidents to Nation

(By The Associated Press)

Heavy holiday traffic tallied 100 victims, and accidents associated with the nation's New Year's day observance accounted for a score more of lives.

Highways of nearly every state and skyways of the mid-west alike were charged with fatalities in the rising list of dead last night. Burns, falls, a freak cave-in, hunting and even a coasting accident swelled the totals.

The mid-west appeared to be the heaviest sufferer in traffic tragedies. In Illinois nine persons, six of them children, drowned after their motor car fell 22 feet into the Calumet river while they were en route to a holiday celebration.

Air Crash

An airplane accident brought death to four passengers at Springfield, Ohio. At Waterlook in the same state three men lost their lives when a cave where a party was being held collapsed.

Michigan counted 10 dead, seven in the Detroit metropolitan all alone, as a consequence of traffic accidents which injured more than 100 persons.

Auto-train collisions claimed four young people at a Philadelphia suburb. One automobilist was killed in Maryland.

Dead After Fist Fight

In the mid-west two died of accidental falls while celebrating, one of injuries in a fist fight. Two were injured by stray bullets.

A small boy was killed while coasting at Salt Lake City, and Fort Worth, Texas reported the shooting of a Mexican mother of four children by a drink-crazed man.

More than a dozen auto deaths were recorded in the South, five in Georgia alone. Holiday dispatches from that area also brought belated news of a tornado in Alabama that killed three negroes.

Rain-swept traffic arteries discouraged New Year's day driving in the East and held auto deaths there to less than a score.

Auto Owners Asked to Avoid Tax Office Jam

Automobile licenses must be issued at the rate of 640 daily during January by the tax collector's office if the number of cars registered in Wichita county for 1931 are to be equipped with new number plates by Feb. 1, as required by law.

This information was given by Arthur C. Howard, tax collector, Friday with the suggestion that citizens of this county obtain their 1932 licenses as promptly as possible. Only 1,000 licenses of the 17,600 estimated total were issued in December, it was shown. January contains but 26 working days, and Mr. Howard declared early registration of cars will be necessary to prevent a serious congestion at the end of the month.

Employes of the tax collector's department have been working from two to four hours overtime daily for several weeks because of new tax legislation, and a delay in setting the state tax rate.

Doctor's Will Orders Destruction of Records

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 1. (AP)—Carrying out the highest ideals of the ethics of his profession, Dr. Francis X. Dercum, noted neurologist of this city, in his will ordered destroyed the private case records of his patients, including those of President Woodrow Wilson.

Dr. Dercum, who died last April, had among his patients many notable persons from various parts of the world.

Dr. Dercum was president of the American Philosophical society, founded by Benjamin Franklin. He died unexpectedly as he was about to open the 204th annual meeting of the society here.

The will directed his widow to "burn and destroy" all records of private cases. The data, he believed, was of no concern to anyone except to him and his patients.

Cold Weather and Water Pressure Handicap Deep-Sea Diver at Electra

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 1.—Edward S. Socier, deep-sea diver from Beaumont, was only half through his task of replacing a flood gate at the Santa Rosa dam on the Waggoner Refining company land Friday night.

He has been diving in the 26-foot water for many hours a day since Wednesday morning and hopes to finish the task Saturday. He works at a price of $50 for every eight hours.

Socier, who has been working under water for 20 years, is using his full diving equipment here and battling a stiff water pressure which makes the job perilous as well as slow. In spite of the cold, which has caused his hands to swell, the diver has taken a liking to the inlands of Northwest Texas, with a special appreciation of the cold wind, unknown at Beaumont.

His job of replacing the 30 by 30 cast iron disk, made by special order from blueprints by the Wichita Falls Foundry and Machine company, has kept him under water between 10 and 12 hours a day for three days.

Retiring Official Calls Navy Head 'Misguided and Egotistical Whiffet'

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 1. (US)—Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams today was called a "misguided and egotistical little whiffet" by Philadelphia's safety director, L. B. Schofield, making has swan song in a radio broadcast.

The verbal sally against Secretary Adams came as Schofield, in one of his final official acts before his successor is sworn in tomorrow, promoted Charles P. Land, a rum-raiding policeman, to street sergeant.

Land was alleged to have donned his naval reserve uniform to trap rum peddlers at the Philadelphia navy yard, and was ordered dismissed from the navy role, supposedly by Secretary Adams, because of his reported "misuse" of his "naval uniform."

Schofield said:

"I want to show Land that the police bureau and those directing it appreciate his honest effort to enforce the law. He was made a martyr in the navy.

"Why, despite an honorable service career, he was dismissed unjustly from the reserves by a misguided and egotistical little whiffet."

Director Schofield later was asked point-blank if he was referring to Secretary Adams.

"Certainly," he answered.

In formally elevating Land to his new post, Schofield added:

"Your dismissal was a small picayune act unworthy of the great government of the United States."

REAL GARDEN

Wichitan Has Radishes, Greens, Onions and Lettuce

P. R. (Bob) Bradford, 811 Fifteenth street, is now enjoying the fifth crop of vegetables this year from his garden.

An interesting exhibit of choice and tender radishes, green onions, mustard greens and lettuce was shown by Mr. Bradford, who brought specimens of his small garden crop to the Times building. The radishes were far above the average summer crop, and were firm and without pith. Greens, onions and lettuce from his garden also were of high quality and equal to more seasonable yields.

Mr. Bradford said he planted the first crop in his garden early in January, 1931. His first yield, he said, was in the latter part of February. He continued to pick fresh vegetables from his garden during the entire remainder of the year.

In what many of the fans proclaimed to be the best and fastest match ever staged in Wichita Falls, Cowboy Teddy Waters and Doc Muller went to a draw, each winning one fall in a 45-minute time limit. Both wrestlers displayed pleasing ability and shiftiness throughout the match which was greatly complimented by the ringside patrons.

SCOUTS SEEK NEW MEMBERS

Enrollment of 1,250 Boys Goal for 1932

Efforts to obtain a total active membership of 1,250 boys by the end of 1932 will feature the work of the Boy Scouts organization in the Wichita Falls area, according to the table of 1932 objectives announced by the council through Frank B. Creighton, executive.

Approximately 1,000 boys now are enrolled in scout troops in this area, it was shown at the recent annual meeting of the council. At least 15 new troops with an addition of 250 new scouts will be sought during the ensuing 12 months.

Emphasis will be placed in 1932 upon advancement, and each boy will be urged to advance by at least one rank during the year. Efforts are being made to establish enough courts of honor in the area so that each scout may have the opportunity to appear for examination monthly.

Improvements at Camp Ephraim Griffin, located at Diversion lake, also are listed among the 1932 objectives. Flooring for tents, a pump house, and a ceiling in the mess hall are among the improvements desired. The organization also purposes to buy a rolling kitchen so that camp may be taken to boys who can not come to Camp Ephraim Griffin for the regular camping season.

At least one father and son hike is to be held during the year by each troop, according to the objectives named. Another goal for the new year is the establishment of a junior safety council in every school.

Two deputy scout commissioners are to work under the direction of J. L. McMahon, commissioner elected in December, in visiting old troops and assisting in the organization of new ones. J. H. Allison was named president of the Wichita Falls area council last month.

Police blotters listed only 4,180 cases up to midnight Thursday, whereas 5,202 charges were brought in 1930.

The city's orderliness put a strain on the treasury, however fines collected in 1931 being $4,176 below the figure for the preceeding 12 months. The penalties brought $15,501 in 1931, against $19,677 the year before.

The clerk's report for December showed $1,379 in fines collected against $2,040 assessed. Of the 590 cases brought into the court 281 charged traffic law violations. Ninety four charges of drunkenness were entered and 12 disturbance arrests made. Prisoners lodged in jail numbered 276; those serving jail terms totaled 40.

Trouble Fills Political Air As Parties Prepare Campaigns

Politicians, From the President on Down, Will Face Parlous Events in Pre-Election Months

By FRASER EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (US)—To the general public, the new year holds out the hope that better times really are just around the corner. To the politicians, from President Hoover on down, the only prospect of 1932 is trouble and plenty of it.

For, at the turn of this year, the great quadrennial campaign begins in deadly earnest. The thoughts of the politicians, including the president, one-third of the senate, and all 435 members of the house, are anxiously focused on re-election.

Upon the events, economic and political, foreign and domestic alike, of the next 10 months between now and election day, depend the triumph or defeat of parties and individual politicians. And the public on the sidelines will watch with increasing interest developments of the passing days.

Congress Reconvenes

Congress returns Monday to make many of the issues which will go into the campaign, after the national nominating conventions six months hence. The Republicans already have decided to hold their convention June 14. The Democrats meet next Saturday to pick a date and a convention city.

The president finds difficulties before him at home and abroad. He finds the nation in the midst of great economic disturbances, with widespread unemployment, a divided congress on his hands, a huge deficit in the treasury and threats of a third party.

Bleak Outlook Abroad

Abroad is social unrest, debtor nations clamoring for an extension of the moratorium, to which congress is opposed, a bleak outlook for success at the Geneva arms conference in February, and an armed conflict in Manchuria, which he has tried in vain to end.

But the Democrats are not without their troubles. They realize that these factional and sectional differences must be submerged before they can unite on a candidate who will command the confidence of the country to win the election.

Although Chairman Byrns of the Democratic congressional committee today evoked the "continued trend" as an indication of Democratic success in 1932, the Democrats will attempt to take their first hurdle toward harmony at the Jackson day dinner Friday and the meeting of the national committee Saturday.

Democrats on Capitol hill are accepting the statement of Chairman Raskob that the party would take neither "the wet nor the dry side" of the prohibition issue as an indication that peace will prevail at the meeting.

Rule Fire Does $10,000 Damage

Special to The Record News.

RULE, Texas, Jan. 1.—Two fires caused damage totalling $10,000 here early this morning when the May Mill, Grain and Elevator company and the home of Clarence Leon were destroyed.

Damage to the home was estimated at $4,000, while the loss to the mill was said to approach $6,000. Both fires were well under way when discovered and very little could be done to save either structure.

A night watchman turned in the alarm for the grain company when he saw flames sweeping the building, which contained an undetermined amount of grain and various machinery for the manufacture of feed products.

The mill was burned to the ground shortly after residents of Rule witnessed the Leon home burn shortly after midnight. The home was vacant at the time. However, Labe Watson of Hamlin during the preceding afternoon moved in one load of furniture preparatory to occupying the house. His furniture was destroyed.

12 PRISONERS ESCAPE JAIL

Guard Overpowered In Van Zandt Break

CANTON, Texas, Jan. 1. (AP)—After overpowering the jailer and taking his keys, 12 men escaped from the Van Zandt county jail at Canton tonight. The two other prisoners did not participate in the break.

The men were awaiting trial in the term of court opening Monday on charges of robbery, burglary, theft and liquor law violations. Some of them were regarded as dangerous criminals.

The escape occurred about 9 o'clock. The prisoners had cut a hole to gain entrance to the safety vestibule. When Gerald Walters, jailer, entered the vestibule with coffee for the inmates, they seized him. After the men had taken the keys and a pistol from Walters they locked him in the dungeon.

Two passersby saw the 12 men as they left the jail. The escaped prisoners forced the pair to lie down and told them to keep quiet. The men lay still several minutes and then spread the alarm. By that time the prisoners had a start of about 20 minutes and no trace of them was found.

Sheriff W. P. Nixon notified officers at Dallas and in all neighboring counties.

Rites Today for Victim of Crash

The body of P. H. Blanton, former Wichitan killed in an automobile crash Thursday night, was sent to his home near Comanche, Okla., Friday afternoon. The Hines mortuary was in charge.

MANCHURIA IN JAP CONTROL

Chinese Troops Flee As Nippons Advance

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Jan. 1. (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Shigeru Honjo with an army of 30,000 tonight was the master of all Manchuria north of the great wall of China.

A squadron of cavalry, constituting an advance guard of the main force still camped at Kowpangtze, crossed the Taling river on the ice, entered the outskirts of Chinchow this afternoon and the capture of China's last stronghold was merely a matter of a few hours.

The Chinese have offered no resistance, and the defending force continued pouring out of Chinchow all day toward the South. It appeared not unlikely that the Japanese would follow all the way down to Shanhaikwan, in the very shadow of the great wall.

Not since the world war has so efficient a body of troops been in the field. These short, stock soldiers have machine guns, tanks and artillery. Airplanes are reconnoitering ahead of the advancing column. The men look like undersized Robinson Crusoes with the goatskin coats and hoods which they wear over the heavy olive-drab uniform.

Major General Miyake, Honjo's chief-of-staff, told The Associated Press tonight the sole purpose of this campaign is the suppression of "all undesirable elements" in the area west of the Liao river, and that the advance will be carried forward until that purpose is achieved.

"We'll wipe out this bandit menace if we have to follow them to London or Paris," the general said, "and certainly we will go on to Shanhaikwan if the recalcitrant Chinese elements attempt to remain in Manchuria."

All the high officers of the Japanese army except General Honjo, who was slightly ill, made obeisance today before the monument erected to the memory of Japanese soldiers who died in the battle of Mukden during the Russo-Japanese war of 1905.

Their prayers were addressed to the souls of the fallen, to the soul of Emperor Meiji, who ruled Japan up to 1912, and to the sun goddess, Amaterasu or Mikami, the great mother of the Japanese race whom Honjo's soldiers conceive to be directing their march across Manchuria's frozen planes.

King of England Praises Subjects In Special Writ

LONDON, Jan. 1. (US)—In a New Year's message today, King George V expressed admiration for his subjects' "courage and determination to sacrifice" during the past year and asked for divine guidance in restoring prosperity to Britain in 1932.

The monarch's message was addressed to the lord mayor of London. It said:

"The new year message sent by you in behalf of the citizens of London has given me much pleasure, and I thank you for your good wishes, which I most heartily reciprocate.

"I am greatly touched, my lord mayor, by your kindly allusions to the queen and my family.

"We live in times fraught with difficulties, but, during the anxious days through which we have been passing, the courage and determination to sacrifice of all classes to restore the fortunes of our beloved country have filled me with admiration.

"It is in a spirit of confidence that I send my greetings to the citizens of London, praying that under Divine guidance the coming year may bring the light of hope and strength of united purpose to our lives and renewed prosperity to our land."
