Candidates Return To The Farm Issue

By The Associated Press

The two presidential candidates bore down on the farm issue Saturday as they went back to meeting the voters after the second round of their face-to-face debate.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon flew into Wisconsin. Before a standing-room-only crowd of 5,000 in a La Crosse auditorium, he said Sen. John F. Kennedy's program of planned scarcity, as he put it, would mean black markets, farm slaughtering "and all the evils of OPA days."

Democratic presidential candidate Kennedy made another trip into Kentucky. At Bowling Green, he said the tobacco program, with its 90 per cent support price and tight production controls, is the type he would like to see extended to other farm commodities.

Kennedy said Republican candidate Nixon is a recent convert to the tobacco program.

The Democratic nominee talked on leadership and world questions when he stood before a cheering, chanting crowd of students at the University of Kentucky at Lexington. Police estimated the crowd at 10,500. In Kentucky, the minimum voting age is 18.

Here, Kennedy said the Republican leader of the nation has "not only brought us to the present peril but doesn't recognize the peril."

BOTH CHEERED

Both Nixon and Kennedy hoped for the best from Friday night's second encounter on nationwide television and radio. Both their camps reported receiving preponderantly congratulatory messages.

Nixon was in good spirits, despite a slight cold he said he got as a result of perspiring during the debate.

Kennedy reportedly felt the match was about a draw.

An Associated Press spot check of 100 persons widely scattered around the country turned up no clear-cut decision either way.

In assailing the Kennedy farm plan, Nixon said—as he has before—that it would bring back rigid controls with harsh penalties and fines, even jail sentences, for producers who exceed their quotas.

He also said again that Kennedy's proposals would raise consumer food prices by 25 per cent—a statement he made earlier in the week in New Jersey.

TRUMAN TOO

In Spencer, Iowa, old Democratic campaigner Harry S. Truman charged the Republican party has deserted the American farmer.

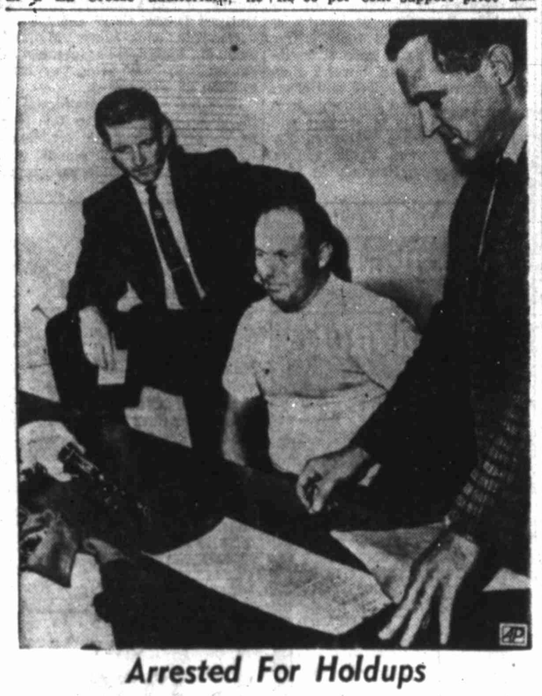

"Any farmer who votes the Republican ticket this fall ought to get what he deserves," the former president said.

While on the road, Kennedy made public two statements—one on the farm question and the other on Africa.

Kennedy said his farm program would boost farm prices, adding: "No useful purpose is served by saying that farm prices would not increase under our policies; the very purpose of supply management is to raise farm prices and incomes."

On the African issue, Kennedy's statement proposed a five-point program which he said could begin "to reverse the disastrous errors and neglect of the past eight years."

He called for "a bold and imaginative new program" to help the emerging nations of the dark continent develop in freedom.

Arrested For Holdups

Elton Harold Hale, 43-year-old Arkansas ex-convict, is flanked by Sgt. Don Ellworth, right, and Detective Bobbie Hill, left, in Lancaster, Calif., after Hale's arrest. Police said Hale admitted leading two other men in a four-state foray of perhaps 100 highway robberies in California and the Southwest. On the table are gloves, gun and portable spotlight which officers said they found in Hale's car.

Admits Up To 100 Highway Robberies

MERCED, Calif. (AP)—A fourth arrest and a decision to seek the death penalty were new developments Saturday in a four-state move against desperadoes suspected of pulling scores of highway holdups by posing as policemen. The crimes include rape.

Elton Hale, an illiterate ex-cattle rustler and pig farmer now held at Lancaster, Calif., told authorities he committed perhaps 100 brutal highway robberies. Officers said Hale admitted he was the leader of a gang which flashed a red light at night into cars, duping the passengers into thinking they had been flagged down by an officer.

Friday night Jord Hale, 27, his cousin, was arrested at Livermore, Calif., and brought to Merced.

Two other men previously were arrested in Yuma, Ariz.

At El Paso, Tex., Dist. Atty. William E. Clayton said the death penalty would be sought against Elton Hale and the two Yuma prisoners—Leroy Coates, 27, Yuma, and E. J. Miner, 31, hometown unknown.

But in Merced, Sheriff John Latorraca said his county had first call on the Hales and wanted them tried on robbery and grand theft charges before Texas gets in its licks.

Several highway robberies near El Paso, last Wednesday, touched off a manhunt that ended with the four arrests. Coates, Miner and Elton Hale were charged with robbery by fire arms, and rape, both capital offenses in Texas.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

The past week was a bitter one for traffic casualties. It started when Zavalla I. Luna, 35, a Mexican national, got confused and darted back into the path of a car 6 miles south of Lamesa a week ago today. Then Ronald Jones, 30, Big Spring, lost control of his car half a mile south of Lubbock, collided head on with another and was killed. Early Friday morning Billy Joe Thomas, 22, Turkey, died after two cars bounced off each other and piled up around a power line pole on Gregg Street. This left two others in serious condition.

Two contracts are due to be let on work for Webb AFB on the basis of bids opened last week. A. E. Suggs of Big Spring was low bidder on one, and the other is due to go to a Fort Worth firm. The two aggregated $238,711, which is far under the $350,000 estimated for the buildings.

Depoisits eased off little more than a quarter of a million dollars from October a year ago with three banks here showing $30,435,000 on deposit. It was not surprising that loans and discounts rose also, showing a $596,000 gain. Little of the harvest money has shown up yet.

Billy Wilkerson was the proud owner of the grand champion at the annual 4-H and FFA pig show last week. He reaped $262.50 at the sale for his efforts, and Glenn Holley got $210 for his reserve champion. Quality of the animals was unusually good.

Chiang's Foe Draws Term For Sedition

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Lei Chen, organizer of the first major political opposition to Chiang Kai-shek's long rule of Nationalist China, was convicted of sedition Saturday and sentenced to a total of 10 years in prison.

A five-man military court found Lei—64-year-old leader of the embryonic China Democratic party—guilty of charges of attempting to incite riots and rebellion on Formosa and of harboring an alleged Communist spy.

Two associates on a fortnightly magazine published by Lei, "Free China," also were convicted of sedition.

The alleged spy, Liu Tzu-ying, an accountant for the magazine, was sentenced to 12 years' imprisonment and a loss of civil rights for eight years. Business manager Ma Chih-su received a five-year prison term and was ordered deprived of his civil rights for four years.

SEVERE

Official Nationalist Chinese quarters had no immediate comment on the verdicts, but general opinion outside official quarters was that the sentences were much more severe than had been expected. Many felt that Lei, whose arrest touched off criticism here and abroad, would get off with a suspended sentence.

Some said that with Lei out of the picture, the projected China Democratic party may collapse. Henry Kao, former mayor of Taipei and No. 2 man in the party, said its formal inauguration will have to be delayed.

The government has insisted the arrest of Lei and his associates last Sept. 4 was based solely on the alleged seditious activities, which included "unfounded rumors" printed in the magazine.

U. S. Barely Wins Red China Issue

U.N. Strength Much Lower Than Before

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —For the 10th straight year, but by the closest margin yet, the U.N. General Assembly voted Saturday to bypass the issue of Red China's claim to membership.

Only 56 per cent of the members supported the U.S. demand that the issue be shelved. This compared with 85 per cent at the peak of support for the U.S. position in 1952.

The progressive decline in the U.S. margin raised a serious question of how long American officials could fend off membership of a Peiping regime ruling 650 million Chinese.

COMMITTEE UPHELD

Saturday's vote was 42-34 to uphold the Assembly's Steering Committee, which had voted to shelve the issue for the duration of this session. There were 22 abstentions. One member nation, the Congo (Leopoldville) is not yet seated.

The vote had been tensely awaited as a new barometer of the relative strength of the Soviet and Western blocs. Attention was riveted on the newly independent African states, just admitted to the United Nations.

Most of them—there are 16 new African members at this session—clung to independent positions and abstained from voting. Ghana and Guinea, as usual, supported the Soviet proposal. And the newest

K Thinks He Can Talk With Next President

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev Saturday night held forth the prospect of a summit meeting with the next American president despite preconditions already set during the current campaign by both presidential aspirants.

Khrushchev likened the campaign speeches by both Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy to mere words to be tossed into a garbage pail once the election is over.

Khrushchev also said, in commenting on the U. N. refusal Saturday to discuss the issue of membership for the Red China regime, that the Soviet Union's world position is determined not by U.N. votes but "by the economy of the Soviet Union."

Eisenhower — whom Khrushchev has refused to meet with except under conditions unacceptable to the White House—and Nixon and Kennedy have declared they will not confer with the Soviet chief unless advance negotiations at the diplomatic level show prospects of a fruitful meeting.

In indicating that he expects to be able to meet with the next American president regardless of conditions set by both Nixon and Kennedy, Khrushchev said he was accepting an unidentified American's advice that campaign talk by American politicians is something to be thrown "into the garbage pail" once the election is over.

The Soviet premier said he did not tune in on Friday night's Nixon-Kennedy television debate because "I am interested in better spectaculars than that."

Khrushchev added: "I prefer, if the question of watching a comedy comes up, something like Gogol's (Nikolai Vasilievich) 'The Inspector General.'"

Two Cars Flip In Separate Accidents Near Same Spot

Two one-car accidents, two hours apart and at the same location on FM 700 in southwest Big Spring, had policemen shaking their heads in bewilderment Saturday night.

None of the occupants in the crashes were considered seriously injured, although one car incurred heavy damage and the other was demolished.

At about 10 p.m., a car driven by James M. Ketchersid, 25, Hereford, spun out of control and overturned on the south side of the highway about a mile east of the Webb AFB entrance. He lay pinned inside the car about 15 minutes before River Funeral Home attendants and police could free him.

Police said he was headed west when the mishap occurred. The car was a total loss.

He was first taken to the Webb AFB Hospital as officers thought he was an airman. This proved erroneous, however, and he was transferred to Cowper Clinic and Hospital. He was not considered in serious condition.

Two hours earlier, two 16-year-old boys escaped serious injury when their car overturned on the same curve.

James Samples, 1111 E. 6th, driver of the car, and Harold Boy, 201 Young, were taken to the Howard County Hospital Foundation for treatment. Boy received a slight injury on his left hand. Samples was not considered seriously injured, but X-rays were slated.

Samples was driving west when he lost control on the curve and overturned three times, police said. The youths were taken to the hospital in a Nalley-Pickle ambulance. The accident occurred about 8 p.m.

About 15 minutes earlier, Del-Roy Buchanan, Coahoma, averted a possible serious accident when he chose to ram a bridge rather than a carload of Latin-Americans on E. U.S. 80.

Investigating police said that Buchanan was driving into Big Spring. The vehicle carrying a large Latin-American family was traveling slower than he thought and he had to swerve into the bridge to avoid a collision. He struck the bridge which crosses U.S. 80 in front of the Bowlarama. Officers said his car was not heavily damaged.

Three other traffic accidents kept police busy Saturday, although there were no more injuries reported.

Billie Blackwell, 1311 Mt. Vernon, and Gary Cunningham, 1308 Shepherd Lane, were in collision in the 1000 block of 11th Pl.

Private Fliers To Spend Monday Night In B'Spring

The sky over Big Spring is going to be a busy place Monday afternoon when fliers with the Twelfth Annual all Texas Air Tour begin arriving about 5 p.m.

Some 75 to 100 fliers, including several from Big Spring, will spend the night here before continuing on their 3,000 mile trip.

The group will be greeted at the Howard County airport by members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Webb AFB Aero Club. The Aero Club will furnish transportation for the visiting fliers while they are here.

Tour members will be taken to the Settles Hotel and later treated to a dinner and party at the Cosden Club.

The fliers will take off Tuesday morning after breakfast to begin the next leg of their trip. They will go to Lamesa, Brownfield and Littlefield before having lunch in Plainview. They will spend Tuesday night at Pampa.

The purpose of the tour is to promote private aviation. It is being sponsored through six organizations, the Texas Aeronautics Commission, Texas Wing of the Civil Air Patrol, Texas State Aviation Association and the Texas Flying Farmers and Ranchers Association.

This year the tour began at noon, Saturday and will end Oct. 15. During that time, the fliers will visit 44 cities and cover 3,000 miles. The tour began in Temple and will end in McAllen.

There will be pilots from 16 other states and Mexico flying with the tour.

The tour includes a night at historical Ft. Clark Ranch, a Mexican border stop, and a tour of the Caverns of Sonora. The fliers will have visited almost all of Texas before the tour ends.

Judge Ralph Caton is chairman of the special subcommittee of the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee which is making arrangements for the visit.

This is the second year the air tour has stopped in Big Spring.

Dawson Votes Library Bonds

LAMESA (SC) — Dawson County voters approved a bond issue by 3 to 1 majority Saturday, giving county officials the green light to construct a $115,000 county library.

The final tally was 598-200. Spokesmen said this represents about 15 per cent of the qualified voters in the county.

A late turnout at the rural boxes threatened to upset the request and the final total had seven of the 12 rural boxes defeating the issue. The total rural vote was 67-100.

No tax levy is necessary to support the bonds. The commissioner's court plans to purchase the bonds and retire them with surplus funds as available.

Snyder Rejects Legal Liquor

SNYDER, Tex. (AP)—Voters Saturday turned down a petition that would have permitted the sale of all alcoholic beverages in Snyder. The vote was 1,965 against and 1,281 in favor.

Forsan To Carry On Plans For Town Incorporation

FORSAN (SC) — Residents of this south Howard County community are going ahead with plans for incorporation.

Jack Lamb was designated at a meeting Thursday evening to circulate a petition among Forsan residents asking for an election to incorporate.

Signature of 20 qualified voters (those who have a 6-months residence within the proposed incorporated area and who hold a current poll tax receipt) will be required. Approximately 50 residents or an estimated 200 people are within the area.

At the Thursday meeting, it was decided to petition for the incorporation election on the basis of the present townsite, which is the southeast quarter of section 130-29, W&NW. Previous proposals for a larger area drew some opposition at a meeting held a week previously.

If and when the necessary signatures are secured, the petition will be turned over the county judge for action. Should the incorporation be approved in a referendum, it would be under the general statutes of Texas rather than as a home rule city.

School Division Sets Hot Pace In Besting United Fund Quota

One section of United Fund workers has already crashed through its quota and still going strong.

Floyd Parsons, chairman of the schools section of the public employes division, wasted no time in challenging other sections in the division. "We have reached $2,810.75," he said proudly, "which is well past our $2,750 quota."

He added that his workers are still at it and expect to show a substantial increase above the quota figures. "It was our quota," he explained, "but not our goal."

On last report, other sections of Bruce Dunn's division were taking up the challenge and digging in to match the outstanding start of the school section.

This section was the first to top its quota in the current campaign which has a total goal of $98,210. A dozen local welfare and youth guidance agencies depend on the United Fund for financial support.

Big Spring and Howard County have never failed to meet the needs of these organizations.

Another big division of the campaign is slated to kick off its planning and solicitation this week. Arnold Marshall, chairman of the employes division, has called a meeting of captains and workers for Thursday at 7 a.m. in the Settles Hotel. Individual workers will pick up their contact cards and begin working toward a $23,000 goal, which represents 23.4 per cent of the total campaign goal.

Some 125 firms will be contacted. Marshall named Jack Davis, Wayne Gound, Robert Stripling, Winston Wrinkle and Tom South as team captains. Each captain, in turn, selected five assistants to help him.

Dr. P. D. O'Brien, chairman of the speaker's bureau, will organize his part of the campaign Monday. A schedule of speakers will be available throughout the campaign to be called upon as the needs arise.

Meanwhile, most workers are keeping a wary eye on the school section and adding a little bit to their own efforts in order to match the outstanding report.

Team Captains Prepare Campaign

Captains in Arnold Marshall's employes division met last week to pick workers in their drive to collect almost a fourth of the total campaign goal. They are, from left, Jack Davis, Wayne Gound, Robert Stripling, Winston Wrinkle and Marshall. The other captain, Tom South, was not hand for the meeting and Marshall spoke for him. This part of the campaign begins in earnest Thursday at a special breakfast meeting.

Students Push Fund Drive

Parents were reminded Saturday that the school United Fund campaign is nearing its end, and that contributions to it will be doubly appreciated.

From this single fund appeal within the schools, will come the money to support the children's own clothing and needy fund, the community's United Fund, the March of Dimes, the Crippled Children Society, and Junior Red Cross.

The first $250 raised goes to the needy fund for aiding children who lack ample clothing or food for school attendance, and 20 per cent of the remainder goes to this cause. The United Fund will receive 20 per cent, and other agencies 10 per cent each.

Harold Bentley, who is serving as general chairman, said that leaders hoped the campaign would produce an average of 50 cents per child. In some schools and classes, excellent results have been noted thus far; in some others, little response has been noted.

Bentley urged parents to keep the appeal in mind and to let their children subscribe Monday or Tuesday. The drive is due to end Tuesday evening.

Key Polaris Tests Slated

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The nuclear submarine Patrick Henry, a hard-luck loser its first trip here, returned Saturday for a crucial series of launchings aimed at making the Polaris missile operational within a few weeks.

The 380-foot undersea dreadnaught cruised into nearby Port Canaveral and began preparations for the vital shots. Success will mean that by sometime in November the United States will have one of the most powerful and mobile war deterrent systems ever devised.

The exact number of launchings from the Patrick Henry will depend on the degree of success. An official said "a pair of good launches right off the bat probably would be sufficient."

The Patrick Henry previously arrived here Aug. 29 after the first Polaris submarine, the George Washington, had successfully fired three of four missiles from 90 feet beneath the Atlantic.

COMBAT READY?

The Navy was talking hopefully then of declaring the Polaris-submarine combination combat-ready in October. The Patrick Henry was to fire four missiles to further prove the reliability of the system, paving the way for the George Washington to go on patrol with the first load of 16 nuclear-armed rockets.

Instead, three of the Patrick Henry figures failed in spectacular fashion.

The first Polaris popped out of the water, but the first stage failed to ignite and the 28-foot, 14-ton rocket fell back, brushing the side of the submerged submarine as it dropped. The second stage fired deep below the waves and flew to the surface, flying crazily for several seconds before plunging back into the water.

The next shot, two days later, was a success. Then on Sept. 22—a day one Navy man called "a black day for Polaris"—the Patrick Henry, with a lot of Navy brass aboard, went to sea for what were to be its final two test shots.

FAILURES

The first failed to ignite and dropped back with a thundering crash on top of the submarine, cutting a gash in the launch tube area before tumbling unfired to the bottom of the Atlantic. The Patrick Henry surfaced, determined the damage was not serious, submerged again and three hours later unleashed another missile.

This time the Polaris ignited, but lost thrust and fell back into the water. It regained thrust, burst wildly to the surface and was destroyed by the range safety officer.

Getting Prepared For Prayer

This week we will discuss the theme, "How to Pray a Prayer that Will Be Answered."

Tom Tarbet, preacher, Church of Christ, West Highway 80

One must first get himself in a position to pray by becoming a Christian. "Now we know that God heareth not sinners: but if any man be a worshiper of God, and doeth His will, him He heareth." John 9:31.

The above statement is in harmony with all the Bible. See I Pet. 3:12 and I Jno. 3:22.

In praying, one is to say, "Our Father" (Matt. 6:9), and only the one who has been born again, "of water and of the Spirit," has the right to call God "Father" (John 3.5).

In Bible record, no alien sinner was asked to "pray through" to salvation; for prayer is a Christian privilege. Let one first become a Christian through faith and obedience (Mark 16:16).

Welcome to the services today, 9:30 (classes), 10:20 and 7:30 (worship and sermons; subjects: "Acceptable Worship" and "The History of the Church of Christ"). Adv.

Truman Due In Texas For 'Give-'Em-Hell' Speeches

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Hit'em hard Harry Truman comes to Texas this week for three speeches and a secret strategy conference with Democratic leaders at Sen. Lyndon Johnson's ranch.

With chieftains on both sides feeling the race is wide open in Texas, the supreme bid for the independent or undecided voter is intensifying.

Vice President Richard Nixon in his debate Friday night with Sen. John Kennedy renewed the Republican appeal to the voter who doesn't mind crossing party lines, especially in presidential races.

With the Democrats bringing in one of their biggest guns, Texas voters and the state's 24 electoral ballots are not only being wooed by the Republicans, but by the former Gov. Allan Shivers organization, the Carr Collins organization, and the struggling Constitution party.

RETURN TRIPS

A return visit by Nixon is in prospect for after Oct. 15, Republican sources said. Democratic strategists said Kennedy would be thrown into the fight for Texas again if it seems necessary.

Another major Republican leader will be in Texas later this week, emphasizing how important the planners of all parties consider the presidential situation here. National GOP Chairman Thurston Morton, a Kentucky senator, will be in Dallas Oct. 15. He will tour the heavily - pouplated Lower Rio Grande Valley. On Oct. 16 Morton will confer with Republican leaders at Victoria and Houston.

Charles Sullivan, Constitution party nominee for President, is touring Texas. He started at Houston, moved into Lufkin, Crockett, Nacogdoches and San Augustine and scheduled appearances at Tyler, Kilgore, Longview and Dallas.

Truman will speak at a luncheon at Texarkana Monday noon and again that night at a Democratic fund - raising dinner in San Antonio.

After dedicating the Harry S. Truman Junion High School Tuesday morning, the former president will go to the Johnson ranch. There he will meet with district and county campaign managers, state officials and congressmen including Speaker Sam Rayburn. Reporters will be barred. After the strategy talks, Truman goes to Waco for a night speech.

Both Rayburn and Johnson are out campaigning for the ticket in the doubtful South. Rayburn made appearances in Alabama and Louisiana during the week, hitting hard at Nixon and asserting a Democratic Congress needs a Democratic President to work most effectively.

Johnson leaves on an extensive tour of Dixie Monday and will not be on hand to be host to Truman and Rayburn at his ranch.

Spindletop Driller Married 67 Years

KERVILLE (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Curt Hamill, a couple who played a major role in the 1901 discovery of Spindletop Oil Field near Beaumont, observed their 67th wedding anniversary today.

The couple moved to Kerrville from San Antonio about 10 years ago.

Hamill, now 88, was the driller of the Lucas discovery well that gave Texas its first major oil producer. He is the only member of the drilling crew who's alive.

His wife, now 82, went to Spindletop with her husband and supplied the drilling crew with coffee and washed their clothes.

"She still has the old washpot in which she did the washing at Spindletop," said a son, Claud Hamill, a Houston oil operator.

The Hamills have three other children, Mrs. Mable Vogelsang of Amarillo, Mrs. S. G. Semple of Boerne and P. R. Hamill, a Bay City banker.

Second TV Encounter Drew More Sparks, No Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—The second radio-TV set-to between the presidential candidates produced more clash, clatter and sparks, rival victory claims from party sachems, but no clear-cut decision for anybody.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Republican and Democratic nominees for the White House, squared off for an hour Friday night before millions of the people for whose support they are battling.

Yet a sampling of reaction over the nation turned up no evidence of any immediate swing to either man.

NEXT THURSDAY

It was the second of four rounds for Kennedy and Nixon. The first was staged 10 days earlier in Chicago. The next comes Thursday.

This time, the two went in for less nervous sparring, more toe to toe slugging. They accused one another of lying, without using the actual word. The first utterance from either man came from Nixon: "Well, first of all, I don't agree with Sen. Kennedy." That sort of set the pace.

The nominees collided head-on over policies toward Cuba and Formosa in the field of foreign affairs. They pounded each other in the domestic arena on such issues as civil rights and the nation's economic health.

Even though no new issues or new stands on old ones developed, all in all, it added up to a livelier show. Nixon sized it up as "good, sharp debate, not dull." Kennedy's press secretary reported the Massachusetts senator was pleased with the way things went, even though Nixon was hitting him harder.

Kennedy was understood to regard the encounter as something of a standoff. Not so Democratic National Chairman Henry M. Jackson. He said Kennedy added new gains to those in the first debate. A Democratic National chairman, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, called it "Kennedy by a decision."

Nixon was pronounced a "clear winner" by Republican Chairman Thruston B. Morton over a man he called "the apostle of appeasement."

NO CHANGE

But a sampling of 100 persons scattered over the country, in cities and small towns, indicated fewer voters were influenced than 10 days earlier, and those only in directions in which they already were leaning.

Ten Associated Press bureaus from Maine to Georgia to California telephoned 232 persons in their areas to reach 100 who sat through the whole hour with the candidates.

Eighty of the 100 said the debate changed nothing so far as they were concerned. The other 20 reported no switches from one rival to the other. Mainly, they said their previous feelings for Kennedy or Nixon were strengthened. More leaned toward Kennedy than Nixon, before and after.

When Nixon and Kennedy go at it again Thursday night, they will be tied together electronically across the nation. Nixon will be in Los Angeles, Kennedy in New York.

Death Sentence To Be Sought For Highway Holdups

EL PASO (AP) — Dist. Atty. William Clayton said Saturday the death penalty will be sought against three men arrested in California for highway robberies.

The bandits posed as policemen and robbed four carloads of tourists last Wednesday near El Paso on a lonely stretch of highway.

Arrested in Lancaster, Calif., was Elton Harold Hale, 43, who admitted that he led a string of perhaps 100 brutal highway robberies in four states, authorities reported.

His alleged accomplices were arrested in Yuma, Ariz. They are LeRoy Coates, 27, and E. J. Minor, 31.

Guilty Conscience Puts $75 In Pocket

CORSICANA (AP) — The Guilty conscience of an Oklahoman was worth $75 Saturday to J. W. Ford.

Ford retired in 1947 after running a filling station nearly 25 years.

The Oklahoman, whose name Ford did not disclose, sent the money, saying he had run up the debt in 1924 and 1939 and it was worrying him.

Ford pocketed the money cheerfully, but said he could neither remember the man or the debt.

Concert Group Appeals For More Members

Another appeal for individuals in this area to obtain their season memberships in the Big Spring Concert Association was voiced Saturday by Maj. Vincent Brophy, president.

With the first program only two weeks away, the association is nearing the close-out on its memberships. Admission is by membership only, and no single admissions are available for any of the programs.

Herb Shriner, noted humorist as well as stage, screen, radio and television star, will be featured in the opening performance, "Pops Americana." This is basically a festival of music America likes to hear, and appropriately has Gustav Hanenschen as conductor of the orchestra. Hanenschen will be remembered for his score of years as maestro on the "Album of Familiar Music."

Among other offerings for the season are the National Symphony orchestra of Washington D. C., rated one of the top musical organizations in the world and also regarded as the "official" musical group for functions of state in the nation's capital; Carlos Montoya, familiar to millions by reason of his stage, radio and television appearances as a concert guitarist; and the National Ballet Guild of Canada, whose dancers have brought a freshness and new vivacity to the beautiful and classical dance form.

Memberships are available ($8 and $3.50) downtown at Zack's or Henson's, or they may be had by telephoning Maj. Brophy; Helen Hurt, membership chairman; or Joe Pickle at the Herald.

Methodists Set Workshops For District Today

Bewteen 400 and 500 out-of-town Methodists are expected to join with local congregations today for the Big Spring District workshop.

Dr. H. Clyde Smith, superintendent of the Big Spring district, said that he anticipated representation from all of the 32 churches within the district.

The workshops are set for 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., and a message from Bishop Paul V. Galloway will climax the sessions in the evening.

Conference leadership will be furnished for the various committees and commissions.

Mrs. M. L. Hines, Lubbock, president of the Northwest Texas Conference WSCS will be in charge of the women's sectional meeting.

Enrollment Dips In City Schools

On the latest report from Big Spring schools, enrollment dropped slightly.

The total was 6,988, or six under the previous week's high. There were 4,169 enrolled in elementary schools, 123 in Lakeview junior and senior high, Runnels and Goliad Junior High schools 1,616, senior high 987, for a secondary total of 2,726. In addition there were 93 in special education classes.

The loss was accounted for by dropouts at the high school levels. Eight withdrew during the week.

DEAR ABBY

OVERDOING IT

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We were invited to a wedding. The bride's parents wanted to put on a big show without spending anything. They sent over 300 invitations for a wedding in a church that could seat only 100. More than half the people had to stand outside until they were exhausted. The reception was held in the church basement. There was a mob pushing and shoving so you couldn't even get near the refreshment table. Isn't that like inviting guests to your home and not having room for them at the table? We'd like your opinion.

STANDING GUEST

DEAR GUEST: As for the ceremony—I wouldn't have stood for it. And as for the reception, I wouldn't have stayed for it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What can I do to keep a 21-year-old girl from ruining her reputation by hanging around a gasoline station? There are nothing but married men there and people are talking. She says she goes there often to keep her car in good condition, but she stays for hours. How can I put a stop to it?

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Let her know that while her automobile is in good condition, her reputation is falling apart.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We married young and don't have many material things although we both come from nice families and are used to much more. We have three children, 6, 5 and 3. I have no help and do the best I can.

Lately my husband has become very fussy about things I consider trivial and unimportant. Example: Last night I set the table without a table cloth or place mats. He likes green onions and since he was the only one eating them, I washed a few and placed them beside his plate. He said the least I could do was to put them on a plate. I said he was making something out of nothing. He said he wants the children to learn how to do things properly. I say setting a formal table is wasted on young children. It caused a real row. Was he right?

TRYING HARD

DEAR TRYING: Try a little harder. Attractive place mats can be bought at the five and dime. Serving vegetables on a plate can hardly be called "formal service." It's well worth the extra effort if it pleased your husband.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO STEWARDESS IN A QUANDARY: If you can't say yes, say no—but don't keep a nice guy like the pilot in mid-air forever.

Mrs. Martin Is Contest Winner

Mrs. W. B. Martin, 1604 Wood, was notified by Dr. Pepper Co. that she was included among 1,000 winners in the company's recently completed nationwide "Diamond Doorknob" contest. She will receive a Sportsmaster picnic set.

The contest ended August 31 and brought considerable national attention because of its unique grand prize, a doorknob of special design encrusted with 50 small diamonds and a huge two-carat, blue-white diamond mounted in its center.

An official of the national soft drink company said the Diamond Doorknob contest was a part of a year-long celebration during 1960 in observance of the firm's 75th anniversary.

Boy Of 14 Held For Slaying Of Three Women

ASHLAND, Ala. (AP)—A state prosecutor said Saturday he would recommend that a teen-age boy charged with three counts of first-degree murder be handled by juvenile authorities.

"I think it is my duty to recommend such action on the basis of what I know at this time," said Circuit Solicitor Frank Head.

Murder charges were filed Saturday against Raymond Eugene Brown, 14, for the knife slayings of his aunt, grandmother and great-grandmother, Sheriff Paul G. Levie said.

The sheriff declined, however, to say where the youth is being held. He said the boy's whereabouts is a secret because of consideration for his family and relatives.

Head said it is possible that juvenile authorities would decline to handle the case, and action then would be up to the state courts.

The solicitor said in that case it would be quite possible that the youth, upon conviction, could be sentenced to death under Alabama law.

"I want to look into the boy's background more—question his family and friends. I am not at all satisfied that robbery was a chief motive for this slaying," Head said.

Officers said Friday night that the youth had admitted killing the three women after midnight Saturday a week ago. He said he entered the house, next door to his own, to look for money.

Levie declined to say whether the youth had signed a statement.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brown, were being treated for shock at a hospital.

County Farm Bureau Names Directors At Annual Meet

Six directors were reelected for another two-year term and two new directors were elected at the Saturday night meeting of the Howard County Farm Bureau in the Howard County Junior College Student Union.

Reelected were Larry Shaw, Knott; J. H. Fryar, Big Spring; W. Ray Echols, Coahoma; Ralph White, Coahoma; Loy Acuff, Big Spring; and R. V. Middleton, Big Spring. The new directors are Ray Walker and Ed Martin, both of Big Spring. They replace L. J. Davidson and Cecil Phillips.

Officers will be elected Tuesday at the regular Farm Bureau meeting.

President Cecil Phillips presided over the meeting attended by about 300 of the 600 Farm Bureau members.

After a barbarcue dinner, the financial report of the bureau was presented, and Phillips pointed out that the finances of the organization were in good order.

Three resolutions to be forwarded to the State committee were presented and passed. Resolution number one asked the State Legislature to make a study of state juvenile schools and provide a program so that first offenders could be separated from repeaters. The second resolution proposed that the Bureau commend the Commissioners Court, the City Commission and the Big Spring Public Schools for setting up a juvenile commission to help deter delinquency. The third resolution was for the Farm Bureau to encourage the local newspaper to print a farm and ranch column similar to that of other newspapers in the area.

John T. Gregg, Lubbock, a staff member of the National Cotton Council, spoke briefly on recent market trends and predicted an increase in the cotton acreage allotment in the next several years.

During the meeting, the members voted to give a year's agriculture scholarship to a Dawson County youth attending the junior college.

Imprisoned By Castro, 15 Officers Flee Prison

HAVANA (AP) — The skillfully plotted escape of 15 political prisoners from ancient Morro Castle here Friday has released a group of former army officers sworn to battle Communist infiltration in Cuba's armed forces.

A comparison of the names of the escapees with those sentenced by a military tribunal last Dec. 15 shows at least 14 of the 15 are associates of Maj. Hubert Matos, formerly one of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's top aides.

Matos, Castro's former military commandant in Camaguey province and one of the revolution's leaders, is serving a 20-year sentence for treason.

If Matos' officers succeed in reaching insurgent forces operating in the mountains of central Cuba, they will give a potent boost to the bands opposing Castro.

Among those who fled Morro Castle with the help of five navy men assigned to guard them was Capt. Jesus Napoleon Becquer Gonzalez, personal aide to Matos.

The major was arrested on Castro's order in October 1959 after attempting to resign from the army in opposition to what he called Communist infiltration. The prime minister was the main witness against Matos at his military trial in Havana two months later.

Military investigators began a large scale roundup of suspected counterrevolutionaries in Pinar del Rio province Friday night. Several women were among those arrested.

Faces New Trial In Land Scandals

HILLSBORO (AP)—B. R. Sheffield will be called to trial here Monday on a count growing out of the veterans land scandals that shocked the state.

The Brady real estate operator faces his second trial six years after the act with which he is charged allegedly took place.

Among the 156 witnesses subpoenaed are former Gov. Allan Shivers and state Land Commissioner Bill Alcorn.

Negro Suffers Knife Wounds

An argument in the flats area of the Northside at noon Saturday sent a Negro, Wilford Bobs, to the hospital for treatment of assorted knife wounds, none of them serious.

Bobs was treated at the Howard County Hospital Foundation for cuts on his upper left shoulder, right hand and left side. He was later released.

No charges were filed concerning the incident which took place in the alley in the 500 block of NW 4th, police said.

Awarded Damages For Injuries Before Birth

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A three-year-old West Columbia girl Saturday was awarded $260,000 in damages for brain injuries received in an automobile accident that occurred three months before she was born.

The award to Gina Sox was handed down by Federal Judge C. C. Wyche who heard arguments in the case last month.

The damage suit was brought against the federal government following an accident in nearby Cayce in 1957 in which an Army vehicle driven by a military policeman crashed into a car in which Eileen Sox, who was pregnant, was riding.

The government admitted it was at fault in the accident but denied that any prenatal injuries were sustained by the child subsequently born to Mrs. Sox.

Bracero Wounded In Cafe Fracas

A bracero was shot and slightly wounded Saturday night during a fracas at the El Toro Cafe, 305 N. Gregg. A man suspected as the gunman was being hunted by police.

Felipe Flores Herrera received a bullet wound in his upper left leg in the shooting which took place about 8:30 p.m. He was treated at the Howard County Hospital Foundation. A Nalley-Pickle ambulance carried him to the hospital.

member, Nigeria, voted in favor of Red China.

ABSTENTIONS

In 1959, when there were 82 members in the Assembly, the vote was 44 to bypass, 29 against and 9 abstentions.

This year, with 22 abstentions, it was evident the result could have been a Communist victory if some of these had decided to vote for Red China.

The Communist bloc evidently had little expectation in advance that its fight to get the issue to the Assembly floor for full debate would succeed, but the Russians could claim a victory in the lowered margin.

The United States, however, hailed the vote as a vindication of U.S. policy.

U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth said the vote "shows that the United States' policy to keep Red China out of the United Nations, in light of Red China's aggressive and warlike behavior, continues to have the support of the majority of the world community."

India, a leading nation among the so-called neutralists, led a last-ditch fight to keep the Assembly from brushing aside the Red China issue.

Navy Christens Modern Carrier

NEW YORK (AP) — The Navy Saturday christened the new 60,000-ton carrier Constellation. Navy Secretary William B. Franke said it "is urgently needed" to maintain the striking edge of the fleet.

Mrs. Christian A. Herter, wife of the secretary of state, formally conferred on the huge-missile-defended flattop the name of a famous ship of the earliest American Navy.

The Constellation is of the Forrestal class, but much more modern than the first ships of that postwar class. With 200,000 horsepower from her conventional engines, the Constellation will have a speed of over 30 knots. Her catapults can put heavier planes into the air than the equipment on other ships of the class. Terrier surface-to-air missiles are used for defense instead of antiaircraft guns.

Iran's Royal Baby Not Here — Yet

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Booming guns reverberating over Tehran during the night touched off mass telephone calls to newspaper offices Saturday asking whether the royal baby is a boy or a girl. Many said they heard a 21-gun salute heralding the birth of a baby to the Shah and Queen Farah. Actually, the noise was caused by a fireworks display at a German industrial exhibition. The queen's baby is due in about two weeks.

Two Minor Crashes Reported To Police

Two minor traffic accidents were investigated by police Friday afternoon. No injuries were reported.

At FM 700 and S. Gregg, Albert M. Heckler, 1903 Alabama, and Dale Clay Bullough, 1600 Indian Hills, were in collision.

Raymond Leon Steger, 608 Runnels, collided with Katherine Sanders, 200 Mobile, in the 600 block of Runnels.

650 On Hand For FHA District Meet

Approximately 650 young ladies registered at the Future Homemakers of America district meeting held in the Big Spring Senior High School building Saturday.

District officers were elected and installed at the meeting. Area officers were elected, but will not be installed until the March meeting of area groups in Midland.

New district officers are Kay Bryan of Stanton, president; Jo Beth Beauchamp of McCamey, vice president; and Rebecca Gracey of Roscoe, secretary. They replace Marsha Bristow of Stanton, president; Karen Kee of Big Spring, vice president; and Ann Puckett of Big Lake, secretary.

AREA OFFICERS

Elected area officers were Janice Coates, Big Lake; Lynda Hastings, Roscoe; and Gaye Martin, Sweetwater.

Girls from 28 chapters were present, at the meeting and representing 22 West Texas cities.

Joan Phillips, Big Spring, gave the invocation and was followed by Floyd Parsons, superintendent of schools, and John Smith, principal of high school, who welcomed the FHA members.

Ross Reagan, student body president, brought greetings and Marjorie Appleton, Coahoma, gave the response.

Rev. Donald N. Hungerford, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, was speaker.

On the theme of "FHA—Key to the Future," Rev. Hungerford stressed the importance of building and making proper homes and of rearing a family in the Christian manner for the good of the future.

DELEGATES MEET

There was a break in the program for lunch, and the house of delegates convened at 12:30 p.m. for a business meeting. The new officers were elected during the house of delegates meeting.

The afternoon session included reports on the national association meeting in Washington, D. C. by Judy Dorsey, Big Lake, and Caroline Manning, Stanton, two of the five girls who attended the meeting from this area.

Ann Puckett, Big Lake, reported on the delegates meeting.

Later stages of the program included a style show and entertainment. The fashion show was presented by Zack's Dress Shop. Accessories were from Gilbert's. Groups from Eldorado and Garden City presented a singing trio and a skit on FHA participation.

U.S. Envoy Rushed For Southeast Asia Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department Saturday rushed its top Far East expert to crisis-ridden Laos and three other Southeast Asian countries for a round of consultations over the next two weeks.

J. Graham Parsons, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs and former U.S. ambassador to Laos left by a Military Air Transport plane for talks with U.S. ambassadors in Laos, Cambodia, Thailand and South Viet Nam.

He was accompanied by John N. Irwin II, assistant secretary of defense in charge of military assistance.

Parsons and Irwin left shortly after the United States temporarily held up its big military support program for Laos.

A new critical element was injected into the situation by the announcement of Prince Norodom Sihanouk of neighboring Cambodia that he was relinquishing once again his job as head of government for that neutralist country.

The developments in both Laos and Cambodia have shaken the pro-Western governments of Thailand and South Viet Nam. Both fear that if Laos should succumb to strong Communist pressure their own security would be severely compromised.

A high U.S. official said the U.S. policy toward Laos now is to rally strength to those persons in authority who will resist Communist pressure.

Neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, who took over the reins of the Laotian government after a bloodless coup last August deposed the pro-Western government, is scheduled to begin a round of negotiations with the Communist-influenced Pathet Lao led by his own half-brother, Prince Souvannavong.

The State Department announced Friday that because of the confused situation now existing in Laos U.S. financial support for the 30,000-man army and for the government's budget had been held up for the month of September.

U.S. officials are not expecting Souvanna Phouma to turn to the Soviet Union for financial aid. But the situation is a critical one for the Laotian government which depends on the United States for about 80 per cent of its budgetary support.

Baptists Hold Meeting Thursday

Baptists of district No. 8 will meet Thursday in Seagraves for their 26th annual session.

Reports from the various associations will be consolidated. The Rev. C. R. Blake, pastor at Welch and a past district president, will bring the annual sermon. Blanche Groves, missionary, will be heard in the morning program.

Business affairs and sectional meetings are set for the afternoon and during the concluding session, the Rev. Bill Thorn, Lubbock, will speak on "Separation of Church and State." The Rev. B. L. Davis will speak on evangelism.

Petty Thefts Reported Friday

Two petty thefts were reported to police for investigation Friday night, including four hubcaps, a rear-view mirror and $10.

Frank Spradly, 302½ NW 3rd, reported $10, plus a pocket knife, missing, and Robert Thompson, 501 Aylford, told officers the hubcaps and mirror were stolen from his car while it was parked at the football stadium parking lot.

One Man Injured In Crash Still Unconscious

Delbert Joe Davidson, 23, gravely injured in a car accident which took one life early Friday morning, remained unconscious late Saturday.

Davidson, Rt. 1, Big Spring, along with Pat Garrett McKinney, 24, 1406 Main, and Robert Wayne Thomas, 23, 709 E. 18th, were survivors of the crash which killed Billie Joe Thomas, 22, of Turkey, Tex.

Davidson and McKinney are listed in serious condition at Cowper Clinic and Hospital.

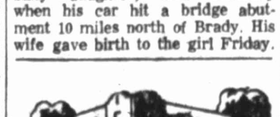

The attending physician said that despite their grave condition both were showing improvement Saturday. Davidson, however, remained the most critical. The doctor said he was partially roused from his semi-coma condition Friday night but never regained full consciousness.

Davidson sustained a fractured skull and a brain concussion, and McKinney received a brain concussion in the mishap. Robert Wayne Thomas received only minor injuries.

The men were riding in a car which careened out of control in the 1100 block of Gregg, and hit two utility poles and another car. McKinney was driving when the mishap occurred.

A Pat on the Back

FOR JOHN JONES

John Jones has never won a hog-calling contest in his life. Hasn't even tried to — but he's had a lot of the critters underfoot the past few days. This week's Fall Pig Show is the 15th annual affair that the Junior Chamber of Commerce has sponsored. As Jaycee president, John has been instrumental in planning the event which is open to 4H and FFA members in Howard County. In the spring, a steer, lamb and capon show is also sponsored by the group which provides prize money for the winners and helps line up buyers.

John, a CPA, came to Big Spring in 1958 from Dallas where he has spent most of his life. A tour of duty in the Navy followed his high school graduation at Jacksonville. Starting out as an electronics technician, he later became a midshipman at Annapolis but resigned four months later.

At Texas A&M (1952-1956) he organized and was president of the Civilian Student Council for two years and was listed in the "Who's Who in American Colleges & Universities" directory.

He is a Mason and member of the board of governors of the ABC Club. Business connected memberships include the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Texas Society of CPA's. He is a past president of the Permian Basin chapter which represents Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, Lamesa and Pecos.

Since opening an office in Grand Prairie, he realized a lot of time could be saved by flying and is working on a private license. The written tests have been completed and he expects to solo right away. Golf and bridge are his other leisure time interests.

Mrs. Jones is the former Joy Sneed of Dallas. They live at 608 Baylor with their son, Jon William, who is three. The Joneses attend the First Methodist Church where John is president of the Epworth class.

Capt. Nolan F. Young, lieutenant governor of district 44, was the installing officer Thursday evening as T. Sgt. Richard M. Clark took over as new president of the Webb Talon Tastmaster Club.

The dinner affair was held at Cosden Country Club. Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of Howard County Junior College, was the featured speaker.

Serving with Lt. Clark will be M. Sgt. Arthur Kleinsasser, educational vice president; S. Sgt. Robert A. Parent, administrative vice president; M. Sgt. Muncey B. Cross, secretary; T. Sgt. Hollis R. Russell, treasurer; and T. Sgt. Charlie Owens, sergeant-at-arms. Capt. Nolan, who is in charge of district activities, is assigned at Webb to the 3560 M&S group.

T. Sgt. Ray P. Baker, one of the founders of the Talon Toastmaster organization, received a plaque from President Clark on behalf of the club, "in appreciation of his work in forming the new club, getting its charter, and holding it together for the first six months."

Sgt. Clark served on the old officer board as Talon secretary, and Sgt. Owens succeeded himself as sergeant-at-arms. Besides past President Baker, outgoing officers included M. Sgt. George Ray, M. Sgt. Charlie McLawhorn and T. Sgt. Willie Ingram.

Representing the Webb Officers' Tumbleweed Club at the installation ceremony were Maj. Ernest G. Baumann, president, and Lt. Col. Leonard R. Einstein, sponsor of the Talon Club. San Antonians Die In Plane Crash

SHREVEPORT (AP) — A San Antonio couple died as their light plane crashed in a wooded area west of here during a thunderstorm Friday night.

State highway patrolmen identified the two as Raymond Clarke and his wife Anne, about 27.

Civil Aeronautics Authority spokesmen here estimated the four-place craft, a Navion, crashed up about 7:15 p.m. It was due in Shreveport 15 minutes later.

The plane apparently ran out of gas, the CAA said. It crashed 3 miles southwest of Greenwood, which is 17 miles west of Shreveport.

Ruling Pulls Teeth From Pistol Law

Contrary to an opinion which has prevailed generally since 1931, it is not required by law that a person who desires to buy a pistol (handgun of any kind) first obtain a certificate of good character from a justice of the peace, county judge or a district judge.

And a person cannot be prosecuted for selling a pistol to an adult, who has no certificate of good character.

It is true that the 1931 law which covers the sale of such weapons does specify in its body that such certificates must be obtained and presented and that failure on the part of the seller or the buyer to do so makes either liable for prosecution.

TECHNICALITY

Unfortunately, the law does not repeat the text in the title of the statute and as a result, the attorney general has ruled some portions of the law not valid. A ruling by the Court of Criminal Appeals backs up this ruling. The Constitution likewise makes it clear that a law to be valid must set up in its title, the provisions it contains.

District Attorney, Gil Jones, who has waged warfare on the sale of pistols, revolvers and similiar weapons and sought to compel dealers and buyers to comply with the law, voiced disappointment that the fault in the statute had developed.

"The statute," he remarked, "requiring a certificate of good character on the sale of a handgun is one of great importance in my opinion. It is unfortunate the act was found to be unconstitutional.

"I hope the sellers of handguns will continue to exercise some discretion in the sale of these weapons regardless of the apparent invalidity of the law.

WANTS CORRECTION

"And I sincerely hope that the legislature will correct the oversight in this law in the next session."

Fault in the act's character was first revealed in a ruling by the Court of Criminal Appeals in the case Doucette vs. the State of Texas. In this case, the error in the title was pointed out and the appeal sustained.

On Aug. 23, the attorney general, replying to an inquiry by Henry Wade, Dallas County district attorney, and Monroe Clayton Jr., Terry County attorney, said that:

"A person may not be prosecuted under Article 489A, Penal Code, for purchasing a pistol without having a certificate of good character.

"A person may not be prosecuted under Article 489A, Penal Code, for selling a pistol to an adult who is not under the heat of passion, but who does not have a certificate of good character.

"A person may not be prosecuted under Article 489A, Penal Code for not keeping with the permanent records of the dealer the certificate of good character of the purchaser of the pistol."

LAW TEXT

Article 489A (Section 4 or HB No. 514,) reads:

"If a person shall knowingly sell, rent or lease any pistol to a minor, or any other person under the heat of passion, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, or, if any person violates any of the provisions hereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, punished by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $200, provided that no person may purchase a pistol unless the said purchaser has secured from a justice of the peace, county judge or district judge, in the county of his or her residence, a certificate of good character. Said certificate to be kept with the permanent record of the dealer. No person may purchase a pistol who has served sentence for a felony."

Jones warned dealers that the ruling of the attorney general does not strike out all features of the law dealing with handguns.

It is still unlawful to carry weapons which are designed to be used in fighting.

PROVISIONS

The law still applies that peace officers may carry weapons and a private citizen may possess such weapons in his home or place of business or while travelling. The courts have held, however, that when one travels only a distance of 50 or 60 miles, within his home county, he is not a traveller. Carrying weapons on short journeys of this kind is forbidden by law.

A sterner penalty of law still applies where weapons are taken into any place of public assembly.

The law still specifies that a person can be arrested without a warrant for carrying such weapons illegally, or for any of the other valid violations. The law still makes it a felony to possess such weapons while at the same time possessing a narcotic for sale.

It continues to be unlawful to sell or otherwise provide a minor with handguns or other illegal weapons without the written consent of a parent or guardian.

And you cannot sell, rent or lease a pistol to any person under the heat of passion. A convict who has served time for a felony cannot be sold a weapon.

NO AUTOMATICS

It is still a felony in Texas, Jones says, to sell or possess any weapon capable of firing five shots, fully automatic. And it is still a felony to possess such weapons for any person who has been convicted of burglary or robbery involving the use of a firearm.

The principal blow to law enforcement, the district attorney pointed out, involves the invalidity of the section requiring good character certificates and requiring sellers to keep records of the sale.

Natural Gas Battle Enters New Chapter

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — The controversy over natural gas legislation has entered a new chapter.

New Federal Power Commission decisions may cause a complete ovarhaul of proposals being drafted for Congress next year.

A change in objectives would not be unique to the 12-year history of the controversy. The types of remedial legislation sought in the past have changed several times.

Basically, gas producers want Congress to define FPC jurisdiction over wellhead prices for gas sold wholesale for interstate use. The producers at first sought outright exemption from FPC controls. But the demands were softened after the issue became a hot political controversy.

At least two industry groups have been drafting proposals for Congress. The new FPC rulings will require careful reviews by such study groups.

NOT UTILITIES

FPC last week decided gas producers cannot be classified as traditional public utilities.

The 1961 congressional proposals, like those of recent years, had been expected to ask that producers be freed from utility-type federal controls.

In tossing out the utility approach while ruling on the Phillips Petroleum Co. case, FPC posted a price table based on producing areas. FPC said the table will be the starting point for determining producer prices in the future. Costs may enter into proceedings but will not be the determining factor.

Jerome Kuykendall, FPC chairman, acknowledged the new rulings are not a cure all.

"Most of the trouble and confusion which is yet to come could be avoided by appropriate legislation by Congress, but that appears to be a remote possibility," he said.

DRAWS PROTEST

The new price table drew protests from independent producers who said the new procedure is without legislative foundation.

The background for the stormy controversy began in 1938 with the passage of the Natural Gas Act as a measure to establish federal regulatory powers over interstate gas transmission lines.

The act included a provision that it should not apply to local distribution of natural gas or to the production or gathering of gas. A 1945 Supreme Court ruling, however, held that gathering and producing facilities owned and operated by a gas transmission company should not be exempt from the act.

Hole-making Rigs Dwindle To 1,757

The number of rotary rigs actually making hole across the United States last week dropped from 1,783 to 1,757, according to a survey conducted by the Hughes Tool Co.

Texas lost five turning rigs, dropping from 600 to 595. In the West Central Texas area the count dipped from 166 to 162.

Louisiana increased its total from 289 to 295, Oklahoma gained from 155 to 168, Kansas dropped from 122 to 114, New Mexico lost from 104 to 95, and California lost from 87 to 75.

Nation's Drilling Rigs Fall To 2,052

The nation's drilling rigs, both rotary and cable tool, took a nosedive last week, dropping from 2,349 to 2,052, according to a count made by the International Oil Scouts Assn.

The total rotary and cable tool operations in Texas fell from 820 to 754, and in the West Central Texas area the total dropped to 104, from 112.

Louisiana lost from 227 to 199, and western New Mexico fell from 42 to 39. California lost from 131 to 120.

Rotary Operations Dwindle In Basin

Rotary drilling activity in the Permian Basin area slackened considerably this past week, as the number of active rigs dropped from 230 to 214. Reed Roller Bit Co. makes the weekly survey.

In the eight county area, the number of rotary bits actually turning increased from 19 to 20, with Martin County gaining three to help offset a drop in Garza and Borden counties.

Martin climbed from one to four to stand with Dawson County as the two leading counties in the area. Dawson's count remained the same from the previous week.

Garza County lost two rigs, dropping from five to three, and Borden lost from four to three. Howard County had three rigs making hole, an increase of one. Mitchell County counted two, and Sterling County continues with one. No working rigs were reported in Glasscock County.

The Permian Basin was led this week by Lea County, N. M., where there were 29 turning rotary bits. Andrews County was in second place with 18, followed by Winkler at 17.

A year ago at this time there were 320 rigs in the Basin making hole.

The Basin survey, county-by-county, with last week's figures in parentheses, includes:

Oilmen Renew Import Blasts

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again, domestic producers are calling for tighter chokes on oil imports. The government's program of mandatory controls on the flow of imports has not been as effective as the independent U.S. producers would like.

When import quotas were set under the mandatory program, domestic producers hoped for an increase in demand for their output. But the demand has not kept up with expectations, says the Independent Petroleum Association of America, which speaks for a large segment of domestic producers.

Actually, there has been a decrease in domestic crude oil production, the IPAA says in a new appraisal of the situation.

Results of the appraisal were communicated this week to Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, over-all chief of the import control program, by the IPAA's executive vice president, Minor S. Jameson Jr.

TEXAS LIMITED

Jameson noted in a letter to Seaton that in the top producing state of Texas, wells are limited to eight producing days in October.

Increased competition from natural gas as a fuel in the East also has added to the oil industry's problems, in the view of the IPAA.

Oil imports during the last three months of this year are scheduled to average about 1,865,000 barrels daily, including some 200,000 barrels of residual oil for fueling of ships. Oil used for this purpose is not subject to import restrictions.

QUOTA FIXED

The quota for regular imports of residual oil for the fourth quarter of the year has been fixed at 415,000 barrels a day, 20,000 barrels under that for the corresponding three months of 1959.

Residual oil is used mostly as an industrial and heating fuel.

On the other side of the picture, as it has to be viewed by those administering the import control program, are the positions of consumer groups.

ATTACKS PROGRAM

Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., recently attacked the import control program as unfair to users of residual oil in New England.

"The political pressures for increased protection for the domestic coal and oil industries have continued unabated," Conte said.

"The result has been that energy-consuming regions, such as New England, have either suffered higher prices or been denied the economies that a free market system should guarantee . . .

SECOND LOOK

"It is time for us to take a serious second look at the implications of the mandatory oil import quota program. We in New England, who are particularly dependent on residual oil for power generation, industrial uses, shipping and apartment house, school and hospital heating, have a right to know why we cannot purchase residual oil at the reasonable and low prices that a free economy should guarantee us . . .

"The domestic coal industry has sought to persuade us that in the name of national security, oil imports should be strictly curtailed so that more coal will be mined and available in event of a national emergency. Needless to say, the real motive of this industry is to cut off competition from oil in the hope that domestic consumers will switch to or remain with coal."

Seaton has said the program will not be administered "in such a way to bring about artificial shortages with consequent hardships to normal users."

Texas Drillers Gain 217 Wells

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission said Saturday drillers brought in 177 oil and 40 gas wells last week.

For the year, 7,658 oil and 1,555 gas wells have been completed compared to 9,064 oil and 1,474 gas wells a year ago.

Wildcatters hit eight oil and two gas wells.

The daily oil allowable climbed 9,520 barrels to 2,611,397.

Offset Plugged

Plugging orders have been filed formally for TXL Oil Corp. No. 1-DT Glasscock Fee, an offset to the discovery in the Clyde Reynolds (Queen) field of Glasscock County. This test, 330 from the south and 1,980 from the west lines of section 39-32-4s, T&P, was bottomed at 2,885 feet. It is 10 miles southeast of Garden City.

Test Re-entered

General American Oil Company of Texas No. 1743 Koonsman will be a new Red Loflin, North (Penn.) location in Garza County. It is 450 feet from the north line and 915 from the west lines of section 743-97, H&TC, 8 miles southwest of Justiceburg. Originally this test was abandoned on Dec. 28, 1958, but now it is to be taken to 8,000 feet.

Heith Promoted To Senior Engineer For American Oil

Cecil B. Heith, a native of this area, has been promoted to senior engineer by the American Oil Co.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Love, 1021 Bluebonnet. Heith is a graduate of Big Spring High School (1946), and received his mechanical engineering degree from Texas Tech. He was born at Vealmoor.

He joined AMOCO in February, 1952 at Texas City, employed as a junior construction and maintenance engineer. He later became design engineer for the firm in New York.

His promotion will carry him to Yorktown, Va., where he will be senior engineer of the engineering phase of the refinery's construction and maintenance activities.

Heith is active in his Methodist church, Lions Club and Boy Scouts. He and his wife have two daughters.

Fire Loss Mounts Here During 1960

By JACK RADER

Big Spring residents are stuck with a $100,000 fire damage bill so far this year, and three months remain for the figure to grow.

The $100,000 is the amount of damage incurred through fires in the city, and every resident who buys fire insurance will be affected by the staggering loss when premiums come due next year, according to Fire Marshal A. D. Meador.

Premiums are figured by an involved method as directed by the State Board of Insurance. Certain charges are standard throughout the state, but the final cost is also determined by the city's fire record and its ability to fight fire.

Through August, a total of $100,289.79 in insured loss had been recorded by the city. So far, Meador said he estimated that September losses would amount to about $15,000.

NO LOSSES

The month of August was a good one, without an insured fire loss, but it could not offset the devastating losses incurred in May and July.

In May, the city lost a total of $21,196.07, while July saw $60,776.91 go up in smoke. The July losses included the Gus Barr home, $18,000; Matlock Fruit Stand and adjacent Cosden warehouse, a total of $28,000, and W. L. Anderson's cafe, $2,500.

This month, the worst fire has been at the Famous Name Shoe Store which incurred $11,913.82 damage to contents and about $2,500 damage to the building. The same fire damaged contents in Alice's Children Shop, Gordon's Hair Styles, and the B and B stamp redemption store, all contained in one building.

Big Spring's total insured losses from year to year make up the fire record. If the record is good, the insurance board rewards the city by giving a deduction, in the form of credit, on the premium.

INSURANCE RATES

A record which is not so good, however, results in residents paying extra for their premium.

This year the city was given a 20 per cent credit on premiums. This means that when you bought your insurance, 20 per cent was deducted from the total cost of the premium. If it was $50, for instance you only paid $40.

This year, however, with fire losses almost twice those of last, the insurance board will penalize the city by reducing the credit to 15 per cent. On a $50 premium, only $7.50 will be deducted next year, instead of $10 as was the case this year.

The insurance board re-evaluates a city's fire rating every year, reducing or increasing credit as justified by losses. If the losses remain stable from one year to the next, the rating is left intact.

KEY RATE

The city's ability to fight fire determines the key rate. They key rate is added to other charges when the insurance agent tallies your premium, and the lower the key rate, the lower the premium.

Big Spring currently has a 22 cent key rate. This means you pay 22 cents on every $100 in insurance you buy. On a $10,000 fire insurance policy, $22 of the premium is due to the key rate.

Meador said that the 22 cent rate is a good one, but he pointed out that it could be lower. "More men, more equipment, more fire hydrants would all help lower the key rate," he said.

In addition, there are other items which affect the key rate, including the city's water-works system, network of water mains, number of frame buildings in the business district, fire hazards, such as overhead wires in the business district, and building laws.

The fire department is currently undermanned, operating with 36 men. This is 13 per cent less than the insurance board deems adequate, and the deficit adds one cent to the key rate.

A lack of fire hydrants, adequately sized water mains and pump units within the water-works system add another eight cents, and deficient building laws contribute six more cents to the key rate.

CANNOT ERASE

Although Big Spring cannot erase the key rate, these various charges could be lowered as the deficiencies are corrected, Meador said.

Under the $4,300,000 capital improvements program, two new fire stations are planned which will employ six men each. In addition, new water mains, hydrants, and an improved water-works system are outlined. These improvements, Meador said, should definitely help lower the key rate.

The city government can correct the deficiencies, but Meador said that only the citizens can put a stop to the mounting property loss.

"Observe fire prevention week every day," Chief H. V. Crocker said. The fire department puts fires out, but the residents prevent them.

Great Chicago Fire Helped Start Fire Prevention Week

Eighty-nine years ago today a disgruntled Chicago cow, according to legend, kicked a lantern and set off one of this nation's greatest fire catastrophies.

The "Chicago Fire," as that conflagration has become known, occasioned the setting aside of national Fire Prevention Week which begins today and extends through Saturday.

The fire on that historic October day in 1871, consumed over three and one-half square miles of downtown Chicago, killing 250 persons, leaving more than 100,000 homeless and destroying property valued at more than $175 million.

NEW HAZARDS

Fire prevention these days means more than keeping your cows under control, however, according to Fire Chief H. V. Crocker. Modern devices have brought new hazards into the home and put the job of fire prevention squarely on the shoulders of every member of every family in the nation.

In Big Spring, fire losses this year have taken a tremendous toll in property loss. Most of it could have been avoided.

"We have a special week set aside for fire prevention to make residents conscious of fires," the chief said. "During this week all of us should make a careful check of our homes and correct any fire hazard that we find."

The chief emphasized, however, that keeping your home free of danger should be a year-around project, and not confined to a one-week affair.

Watchfulness is the key word suggested by Fire Marshal A. D. Meador concerning individual fire prevention. "Keep tabs on possible sources of fires, and don't let a fire get started," he said.

Smokers are cautioned to "be careful." More than 25 per cent of all the fires across the nation annually are caused by the careless use of matches and cigarettes, Chief Crocker said. "Be sure your cigarette is out, and keep plenty of ash trays handy, and, above all, don't smoke in bed," he warned.

NOT STORAGE

"Water heater closets are not storage rooms," the chief said. "A hot water closet is for one thing—the water heater. It is a poor place to store mops and magazines."

Residents who leave their television set turned on while they leave the house may return to find firemen have paid them a call during the absence. "Never leave your television set turned on when you leave the house," Chief Crocker said. The chief cautioned residents to be sure that all electrical appliances are properly fused.

Crocker and Meador summed up Fire Prevention Week as a plea for "human carefulness" in Big Spring—not only during Fire Prevention Week, but throughout the year.

Special Fete Planned For Auditorium

COAHOMA — What promises to be a hilarious event will break the ice for Coahoma High School's new auditorium.

The Coahoma Lions Club is sponsoring a womanless style show at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, and club officials predict it will be a scream. Mrs. C. H. DeVaney and Virginia Allen will serve as narrators for the various models, who are members of the Lions Club. The style creations range from a polka dot bikini on up or down, as the case may be.

Proceeds from the affair ($1 and 50 cents) will go to the club's activities fund.

One of the features of the program is the show-stopper, the "Whistlers." These three top-hatted gentlemen, whistling the Col. Bogey March (the tune from the "Bridge Over the River Kwai)", all but broke up a ladies night event in Big Spring and had delegates practically rolling in the aisles when it was repeated at the district convention in Brownwood last spring.

The auditorium is all but finished but will be pressed into service Tuesday. This handsome structure will accommodate 1,050.

Lions of Coahoma observed ladies night Thursday evening, and the affair honored teachers in the Coahoma school system. About 90 attended. Phil Winn was the master of ceremonies.

Here Today

Bishop Paul V. Galloway, whose charge includes the San Antonio-Northwest Texas area with 500 pastoral charges and a quarter-million members, will speak at the First Methodist Church today. Bishop Galloway was pastor of the Boston Methodist Church in Tulsa, Okla., before being chosen last summer to head the area covering the western half of Texas. This is his first appearance in this portion of West Texas.

Traffic Deaths

AUSTIN (AP) — The Department of Public Safety said Saturday 1,626 persons have died in auto accidents on Texas highways this year.

Highway Group To Meet Monday

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce committee on streets and highways has been called for 5 p.m. Tuesday in the chamber conference room, Coy O. Nalley, chairman, has announced. One of the prime subjects will be consideration of action toward providing finances for key highway routes within the county.

Work For Nixon

AUSTIN (AP) — John Womble, Abilene businessman, and Dean Turner, Henderson attorney, have accepted appointments as district directors of the Texas Democrats for Nixon.

Department To Be Enlarged

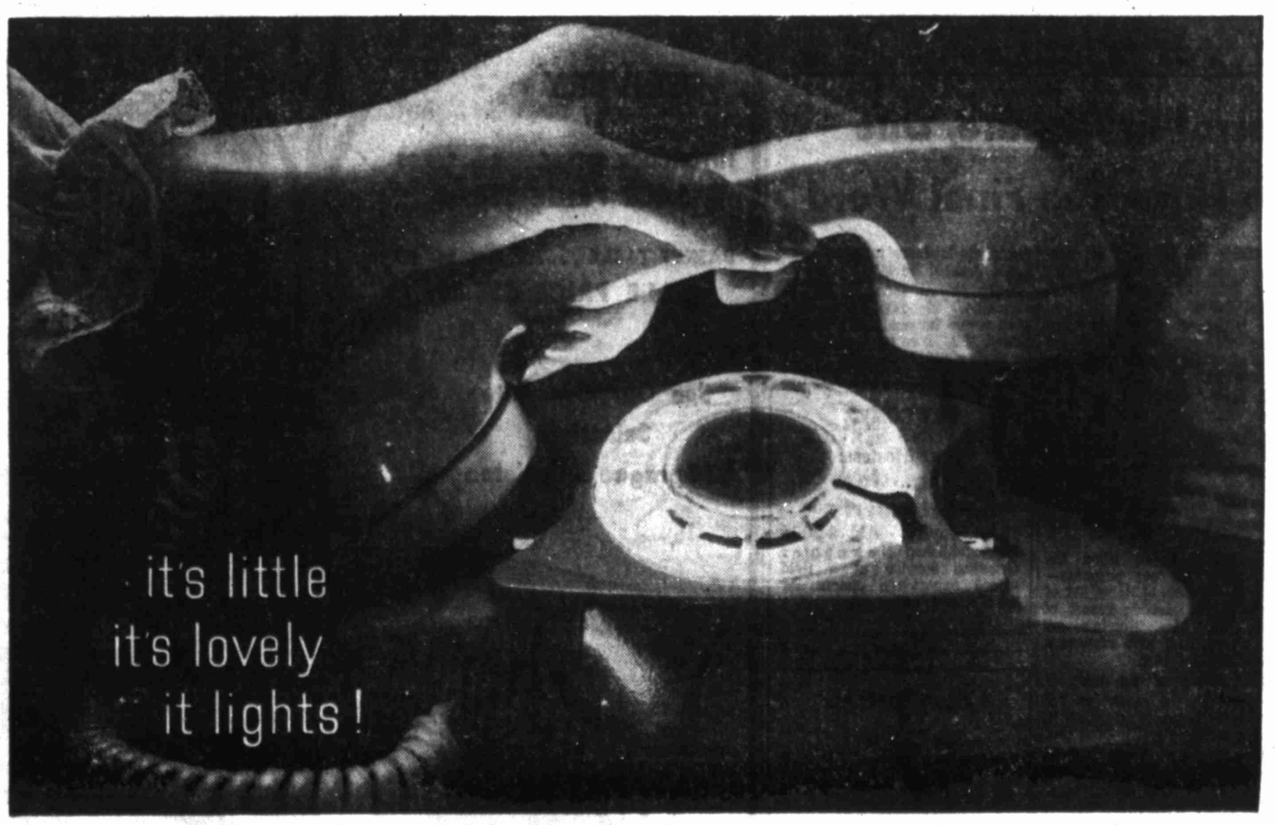

Two new fire stations, manned by 12 firemen and equipped with two fire trucks will be added to the present fire fighting strength in 1963.

The new facilities will be constructed with funds to be made available as a result of the $4,300,000 capital improvements program recently approved by Big Spring voters.

As currently proposed, the stations will be located in the areas of the Airport Addition and Douglass Addition. They will give residents in these areas better fire protection.

Each station will be operated by six men, as in the present sub-stations, and will be equipped with a 750-gallon pumper each. The trucks will carry the usual roof ladders, hand extinguishers and foam apparatus that is now standard equipment with two 750-gallon pumpers in service.

The buildings which will house the men and equipment will be of the same construction found at the North Side station, single story, brick and completely modern throughout.

Standing Ready

A 750-gallon pump truck and two three-man crews stand ready at the fire station at 18th and Main. The truck is capable of pumping more than 750 gallons of water per minute, and, in addition, carries ladder equipment and chemical fire extinguishers. Firemen are, from left, Lts. H. H. Morris and John Waddell, and Sam Lewis, B. F. Lopez, J. W. White and Tom Brown. Morris, Lopez and Lewis make up one 24-hour shift, alternating with Waddell, White and Brown.

Not Informed On Russia, Says Mrs. Cyrus Eaton

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Cyrus S. Eaton says Americans are not being correctly informed about Russia and the countries in its sphere of influence.

Speaking before a capacity audience at a women's city club luncheon Friday she said it was becoming increasingly difficult to get the facts from newspapers and that what people heard of Russia and its so-called satellites was "too little and too twisted."

Mrs. Eaton and her multimillionaire husband have attracted international attention because of their views on communism and ways to achieve peace.

"If our democracy is to compete with communism," Mrs. Eaton said, "it is essential to know what we're competing with."

She said that she had and her husband went to Europe last spring to see for themselves the conditions in Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Hungary.

EXPLOITS OF WEBB AIRMAN TOLD
... on page of world circulated calendar

Capt. Seebo Wins Tribute

In paying tribute to Air Rescue Service, USAF, one of the leading civilian corporations in this county selected twelve episodes from the hundreds of heroic missions performed by ARS personnel during the past 10 years.

The story of Capt. Thomas C. Seebo, now assigned at Webb AFB, is included in the selected twelve missions, and is told briefly in an elaborate wall calendar distributed this year all over the world.

"On November 16, 1957, a TB-29 crashed against Talkeetna Mountains north of Anchorage, Alaska, in the snow and gloom of the Arctic night. The next morning an Air Rescue Service SA-16 located the wreckage in a small open area at 5,500 foot level. SH-21 helicopters were called in.

"The lightest of the group, piloted by Lt. Tom Seebo, with minimum fuel and crew, made a landing despite the rugged terrain and poor weather. Lt. Seebo and his crew found only four men alive . . .

"The SH-21 shuttled the survivors...to a lower level landing site. From there they were flown to the hospital at Elmendorf AFB.

"The crash site was surrounded on three sides by rugged mountains. On the open side was a glacier with an incline of approximately 15 degrees. The landing made by the SH-21 at this difficult spot, under extremely adverse conditions, was a shining tribute to the piloting skill of Lt. Seebo."

Seebo has since been promoted to captain, and recently the now veteran pilot logged his 2,000 flying hour in helicopter flying. He came to Webb AFB in July, 1959.

Captain Seebo entered the service originally in March, 1944 and served in the enlisted ranks as a B-24 gunnery instructor and C-47 flight engineer until 1950 when he entered Oklahoma State College.

A wing commander in the college's AFROTC program, he earned his Air Force commission in September, 1953, at which time he returned to active duty.

Capt. Seebo has a total of 2,550 flying hours and has experience in C-45, C-47, C-54 and SA-16 (amphibious) aircraft. He attended helicopter school at San Marcos.

Parrot In Dispute, Due To Have The Final Word

LONDON (AP)—Polly, the parrot with the broken beak, wasn't talking Saturday despite a threat of legal action.

Two ladies stood by his cage waiting for just one word—the word that would identify the owner of the bird.

If it says "Hello," it instantly will be claimed by Isabella Morrison, 55.

If it says "Momma," it will be taken home by Dorothy Pretty, 49.

Right now that broken beak is holding up pronunciation of the vital word, and all the ladies can do is wait.

The trouble began when the parrot—Polly, for our purposes—flew in the window of Room 301 at a hotel in the seaside resort of Whitley Bay. Mrs. Morrison arrived at the hotel soon afterward and claimed the bird.

"That's my Mac," she said.

So she took the parrot to her home in the shipbuilding center of South Shields.

Before long Mrs. Pretty showed up, took one look at the bird and said:

"This is my Jezebel."

A heated argument broke out.

Then came the threat of legal action.

"My lawyer has written to Mrs. Morrison ordering her to return the parrot within three days," said Mrs. Pretty. "I intend to take the whole business to court unless I get Jezebel back."

Polly stayed silent during the exchange. Neighbors wondered what would happen if the bird resumed his conversational ways by saying "Hello Momma."

Bank Deposits Up In Texas Cities

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Staff Writer

Bank deposits in most Texas cities showed an increase over the money on hand a year ago.

Dallas County again led the state in deposits.

Cities with declines blamed special reasons, such as a late harvest.

Wilton Daniel, president of the Clearing House Association at Tyler, said "This is one of the most satisfactory gains we have recorded in some time."

A Fort Worth banker said the deposit figure showed business is "just as strong if not stronger than this time last year. Our economy is still healthy."

The bank reports turned up after a call for statement of condition of banks as of Oct. 3.

Figures for this year compared to last Oct. 6, showed:

Dallas County $2,370,833,000 and $2,279,558,000.

Dallas City $2,290,816,000 and $2,204,069,000.

Harris County $2,238,119,000 and $2,106,000,000 (Highest in history for fall and second highest in history. Most of the increase came in city banks).

Edinburg $12,221,000 and $11,891,000.

Corsicana $25,585,000 and $26,619,000, the decline blamed tn short crops and withdrawals by individuals for investment.

Midland $118,307,000 and $118,658,000.

Orange County $34,623,000 and $31,342,000.

Brownwood $15,387,000 and $14,951,000.

Denton $23,946,000 and $26,163,000, decline attributed to continued withdrawal of state funds in college building program, and slow harvest.

Abilene $95,848,000,000 and $95,724,000, a record for the fall report.

Taylor County $102,097,000 and $102,012,000.

Touchdown For Big Spring

Jerry Dunlap (34) booms into the end zone for Big Spring's first touchdown in Friday night's Steer-Lamesa football game here. The Tornadoes threw up quite a road block but it wasn't enough. No. 15 is Jerry Tucker, Big Spring; and No. 24 James Gilbert, Big Spring. Gene Westmoreland of Lamesa is No. 10. At the right on the turf is Ronnie Clanton, who has just thrown a block. Lamesa won, 19-16.

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP)—Texas might, in men and power crushed Oklahoma 24-0 Saturday with little Jim Saxton, massive Ray Poage and clever Mike Cotten in the leading roles.

It was the third straight triumph of the Longhorns in this traditional game.

A 38-yard pass interference penalty helped break Oklahoma's heart in setting up the first Texas touchdown.

Oklahoma could mount nothing resembling a steady attack until the third period and twice was halted by fumbles in what appeared to be totchdown drives.

A 76-yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass by Pat Culpepper was the final blow to Oklahoma hopes.

Texas had more manpower, more finesse and made fewer mistakes.

The Longhorn second and third teams played much of the time.

A sellout crowd of 75,504 sat in bright sunshine in the Cotton Bowl and watched Texas beat Oklahoma by the widest margin since a 40-7 trouncing in 1941 and shut out the gritty but fumbling, bumbling Sooners for the first time since 1944 when the Longhorns won 20-0.

Saxton, the 160-pounder from Palestine, Tex., gained 51 of 71 yards in a Texas drive that wound up with Dan Petty kicking a 33-yard field goal. It was his one-handed leaping catch of a Jack Collins pass that put the ball on the Oklahoma 22 and set up the field goal.

The pass-interference penalty, caused by Oklahoma quarterback Jimmy Carpenter, put the ball on the Oklahoma 21. Collins rammed for four, Cotten passed to Collins for a first down on the Oklahoma 6 and Poage hammered out two three-yard blasts to get the touchdown. Petty converted.

The third Texas touchdown came in the third period on a 63-yard march with Poage ramming over from three yards out. Cotten's bootleg runs set it up. Petty again converted.

The final Longhorn touchdown was in the fourth period when Oklahoma was driving toward the Texas goal line. Culpepper grabbed Carpenter's pass on the Texas and ran unhindered to the touchdown. Petty added his third point after.

Texas held Oklahoma to a net 45 yards in the first half, all of this on the ground. Texas gained 172 with 151 rushing.

The game wound up with Texas boasting 213 yards rushing and 21 passing to 163 on the ground and 46 throwing for Oklahoma.

Saxton, whose end sweeps had Oklahoma off balance from the beginning, was the leading ground gainer with 61 yards. Ronnie Hartline, the 213-pound fullback, topped Oklahoma with 48 yards, most of it with bull-like rushes over guard and tackle.

Poage was slightly behind Hartline with 45 yards and Cotten had 39.

Oklahoma got to the Texas 45 and 46 in the first period and in the second to the Texas 49 after recovering a fumble.

Oklahoma rolled to the Texas 31 in the third period but Don Dickey fumbled and Johnny Treadwell recovered for Texas.

Later Oklahoma smashed from its 13 to the Texas nine before again losing the ball when Mike McClellan fumbled and Don Talbert recovered. Oklahoma had moved to the Texas 27, aided by a 14-yard run by Dickey, when Culpepper made his touchdown snatch of Carpenter's pass.

TCU Frogs Decision Texas Tech, 21-7

FORT WORTH (AP)—Ponderous Texas Christian stunned Texas Tech with a spectacular 51-yard pass to set up a tie breaking score Saturday night and smash the Red Raiders, 21-7.

The pass from Larry Dawson to Dale Glasscock in the fourth period broke the game open. Two plays later, Dawson slanted off right tackle for six yards and the score. Before his touchdown, the game was tied 7-7.

Dawson dedicated the last half to himself. The 200-pound, 6-3 senior scored twice, setting up his second score by falling on a lobse ball.

Moments after his first touchdown, Dawson slanted another nine yards to his right for another tally. Dawson also set up that one when he fell on the ball on the Tech 36 after a Red Raider pitchout went wrong.

The Horned Frogs scored first when Sonny Gibbs found Harry Moreland with a 12-yard pass in the end zone. R. E. Dodson converted after all three TCU touchdowns.

Tech made a game of it through three quarters, with the Red Raiders pushing the touted TCU forward wall around badly at times.

Tech tied the score in the third period, with Glen Amerson, the Raider quarterback going over on a keeper from the half-yard spot. He kicked the extra point.

So far, Texas Tech has found a chilly reception in its first year as a member of the Southwest Conference. It lost to Texas last week, 17-0, and was tied by Texas A&M the previous weekend, 14-14.

TCU, expected to be a power in the conference, now possesses a .500 average after losing to Arkansas, 7-0.

TCU caught Tech flatfooted for the first score. The Frogs stuck closely to the ground to pound from the 50 to the 12, with a 12-yard penalty their biggest gain. Then—with the Red Raiders set to stop the Horned Frogs' pounding ground game —Sonny Gibbs sent Harry Moreland into the end zone and tossed to him for the touchdown. Moreland was all alone. It was the only successful pass of the drive. R. E. Dodson's conversion kick was good.

Tech, over-eager in this first meeting with TCU since the Lubbock school gained admission to the Southwest Conference, repeatedly saw their drives halted with crippling penalties. In the first half alone, the Red Raiders lost 43 yards for rules infractions, often at critical points.

Tech tied the score with 6:48 minutes left in the third period, using three-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust tactics for which the Texas Christian are famous. The Raiders went 48 yards in 11 plays, all on the ground, with the longest run the eight yards picked up by Amerson on a keeper to the half yard line.

Amerson scored on the next play by simply crawling over the back of the Red Raiders' all-America candidate, E.J. Holub.

Amerson elected to try for a tie instead of the lead and went for the one-point conversion kick. He made the point with a clean boot.

From then on, it was all Dawson. He carried 9 times for 69 yards, an average of 7.7 yards, and passed only once, following a pitchout, for the 51 yards.

Meanwhile Tech, expected to flash stunning speed, gained only 131 yards on the ground. The Raiders completed only one pass for 11 yards. They tried nine tosses.

Penn State Spoils Unbeaten Record

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—Halfback Jim Kerr scored three touchdowns Saturday for a comeback Penn State team which spoiled Army's unbeaten record and homecoming celebration 27-16.

The versatile senior plunged over from the 1-yard line for his team's first score, caught a 25-yard pass for the second and then raced 11 yards for the clincher in a wild fourth period after Army had surged into the lead.

Kerr kept the mighty Cadets in a tizzy all afternoon with his running, punt returns and adroit pass catching.

Army had forged into the lead 16-14 early in the fourth period on a 20-yard field goal by quarterback Tom Blanda only to have the Nittany Lions storm back for two touchdowns which left the issue never in doubt.

The fourth Penn State score came on a one-yard plunge by sub fullback Dave Hayes after a 22-yard sprint by second string quarterback, Dick Hoak.

Until the Lions got loose with all their fury in the final period, it was a give-and-take game between Penn State's ground power and the potent throwing arm of Army's Blanda.

Blanda's passing set up the first Cadet score in the opening period, with Glen Adams going over from the 5, and he passed six yards to the famed Army lonesome end, Bob Fuellhart, for the second one in the third period.

Blanda's failure to convert from placement after this score left his team behind 14-13 going into the final period.

It was the first defeat of the season for Army, which had won three in a row, and the second victory for the Penn Staters, who were stunned last week by Missouri 21-8.

Penn State plays Syracuse, the nation's No. 1 team, next Saturday.

SPORTS—18—COLTS DECISION

SWEETWATER — The Sweetwater Colts scored in the last 2½ minutes on a 50-yard drive downfield to nip the Big Spring B team, 8-0, in a football game here Saturday night.

The Shorthorns drove to the Colt four, first down and goal to go, in the opening period but bogged down. They were inside the enemy's ten on two other occasions.

David Holguin, Gene Lamb, Dickie Spier and Donnie Carter all showed to advantage for Big Spring.

The Big Spring bus broke down enroute to Sweetwater and the game was extremely late in getting satrted.

Purdue Is Upset

MADISON, Wis (AP) — Wisconsin unleashed a bruising running attack and an electrifying aerial assault directed by sophomore Ron Miller and upset Purdue 24-13 on a pair of second-half touchdowns Saturday in a Big Ten football opener.

Cougars Bomb Aggies, 17-0

HOUSTON (AP) — The University of Houston stopped two Texas A&M first quarter threats and then came back Saturday night to take complete command and defeat the Aggies, 17-0.

Sparked by the speed of Ken Bolin, a 167-pound junior, Houston moved 80 yards for a second period touchdown and then crashed through for 10 points in the fourth quarter.

The Aggies, meanwhile, had crossed midfield only after intercepting a pass and recovering a fumble in the first period. The first threat died with a fourth down fumble on the Houston three. The second got as far as the 24 but Mike Clark's 40 yard field goal attempt was wide.

A&M did not cross midfield again until the closing minutes. A 55-yard drive was halted by the final gun as Jack Estes was stopped for a one-yard gain on third down at the Cougar three.

Bolin carried three times in Houston's 80-yard drive and netted 28-yard scamper moved to the Aggie 16 and Charlie Rieves, subbing for the injured Jim Kuehne, powered over from the three five plays later.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Baylor's Bears ran and passed the Arkansas Razorbacks ragged Saturday for a 28-14 Southwest Conference football victory which broke an eight-game winning streak for Arkansas.

Arkansas tied up the game in the second quarter but Baylor already had proved in the first quarter it was on its way. It had stopped the Razorbacks cold and for the afternoon gained more than twice as much ground.

Sophomore back Ronnie Goodwin put the Bears, still undefeated for the season, ahead in the first quarter with a 23-yard touchdown run. Then in the second quarter, after Arkansas had pulled abreast, Goodwin was on the receiving end of a 19-yard scoring pass from quarterback Ronnie Stanley.

End Jimmy Collier scored Arkansas' first touchdown by recovering fullback Joe Paul Alberty's fumble after he had plunged over from the one-yard line. The Razorbacks drove 48 yards, after tackle Marlin Epp recovered a fumble.

Quarterback George McKinney scored the other Arkansas touchdown with a seven-yard run with less than three minutes left in the game.

Stanley faked a pass, then broke loose around right end for five yards and the third Baylor touchdown midway in the third period. Second-string quarterback Bobby Ply completed a three-yard pass to end Bobby Lane for the last Baylor touchdown.

The Razorbacks were crippled on the attack by an injured Lance Alworth, its all-America candidate, who had a bad right knee.

Another all-America candidate, halfback Ronnie Bull of Baylor, was the big offensive gun of the day, picking up 71 yards on eight runs. In the first quarter, the hard-running Bull picked up 56 yards in four carries. He also caught an 11-yard pass.

Arkansas had one consolation for the day. It was the first to cross Baylor's goal line for a touchdown. Louisiana State could manage only a field goal last week.

Baylor, depending largely on quarterback Ronnie Stanley, towered over Arkansas completely in the air. It connected on 10 of its 18 pass plays. Stanley threw six of them for 89 yards and his understudy, Bobby Ply, hit three for 32 yards. Both of them passed for touchdowns.

Bull found his chief help in ground-gaining in Ronnie Goodwin, Tommy Minter and Robert Starr. Goodwin, in addition to his two touchdowns, produced 46 yards by land.

Baylor went 89 yards for its first touchdown in a drive sparked by a 16-yard pass play to end Sonny Davis from Stanley who added 14 to Bull's 29 on the ground.

Arkansas was so overshadowed in the first quarter that it carried the ball only five times, picking up seven yards on the first four and then losing it all on the fifth.

Rice Defeats Florida, 10-0

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Billy Cox threw a perfect 21-yard touchdown pass to Johnny Burrell in the first quarter Saturday night and the points were all a quick Rice team needed to knock Florida out of football's unbeaten ranks 10-0.

The Owls from the Southwest Conference were in full control throughout and a 15-yard field goal by Max Webb in the last period proved unnecessary against a Florida team that was never able to mount a sustained attack.

Rice almost added another touchdown near the end of the game but after driving 62 yards to the Gator 1, Mike Bowen's fumble was recovered by Tom Kelley.

The Owls scored their first touchdown on a 51-yard march that took only eight plays. Cox hit Webb with an eight-yard pass and raced 10 yards on a running play. At the 21, he nailed Burrell in the end zone. Webb's conversion made it 7-0.

The Owls continued in command in the second half to win their second game in three starts. Florida's loss was the first in four games.

In the second quarter, Cox led a drive to the Florida 31, completing passes of 12 and 11 yards to Burrell, but it was broken off by Jim Beaver, Florida right tackle, when he dropped Cox for an 11-yard loss.

Rice came right back to move to the Florida 21 on the running of Bowen and Jerry Candler and the passing of Alvin Hartman but again lost the ball on a fumble by Hartman.

Joe Salem Spurs Gophers To Win

By JIM KLOBUCHAR

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Happy-go-lucky Joe Salem, the people's choice of Minnesota football, awakened a doddering Gopher attack for one swift touchdown strike that brought unbeaten Minnesota a 7-0 victory over Northwestern Saturday.

Entering the game for the first time to a howling ovation from the partisan crowd late in the third period, Salem whipped a 40-yard pass to end Bob Deegan to the Wildcat 9. Four plays later regular quarter Sandy Stephens punched over from the 1 on fourth down.

But the battling Wildcats nearly hung the goat's horn on Smoky Joe in the fourth period when they recovered his fumble and smashed to the Gopher 10 on Dick Thornton's three third-down passes.

The brilliant Northwestern quarterback couldn't do it a fourth time. Sophomore Bill Munsey intercepted his pass on the 2 and carried it back 30 yards.

It was the third straight victory for Minnesota, matching its longest winning streak since 1957, and launched the Gophers' Big Ten season.

Thornton's passing arm, the Cats' only effective weapon, kept the Gophers jittery all the way—including the final minute when he fired a 35-yarder to Larry Benz.

But here Gopher halfback Bill Kauth finally slammed the gate by intercepting Thornton's touchdown try on the last play of the game.

For Salem, a faithful No. 3 quarterback for two years, it was a glorious moment, and his fans loved it. Four plays after he entered, Salem found Deegan wide open down the sidelines. Deegan took the pass just inside and went to the 9. Two plays gained two yards before Stephens replaced Salem, slammed to the 1 and then over. Fullback Jim Rogers kicked the point.

Midshipmen Down Southern Methodist

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Navy crashed in on a couple of SMU errors for two touchdowns in the first quarter Saturday, then went on to whip the Mustangs 26-7 in the 14th Oyster Bowl game — a benefit for Shrine Hospitals for crippled children.

Joe Bellino, Navy's one-man backfield of last year's Army game, had his biggest day since that afternoon when he scored one touchdown, passed for one and figured prominently in Navy's other two touchdown marches. Bellino ran 93 yards on 20 carries from scrimmage, ran back a punt 62 yards, returned two kickoffs 40 yards, threw one pass and caught one.

A drenching rain, which sent most of the estimated 30,000 spectators home early, ruined the scant SMU hopes, which had been based on passing. The Mustangs didn't complete a pass.

Bellino pitched to Joe Matalavage for the first Navy score, made the second on a 12-yard run, set up the third with his 62-yard punt runback and contributed a 14-yard pass reception to the 77-yard drive that ended with Matalavage's 30-yard sprint for the final Navy score.

Bellino was the unanimous press box choice to receive the Mel T. Blassingham Trophy as most valuable player in the game.

North Carolina Astounds Notre Dame In Rain, 12-7

By REESE HART

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina struck for two second period touchdowns and withstood a desperate second half rally Saturday to defeat Notre Dame 12-7 in an intersectional football battle on a rain-soaked field.

A cheering homecoming crowd of 40,000 saw twice-beaten North Carolina achieve its first victory over the Irish in an 11-game series dating to 1949.

The Tar Heels scored on a 47-yard pass play from quarterback Ray Farris to halfback Skip Clement. North Carolina made it 12-0 when end Mike Greenday ran back a pass interception 42 yards.

Notre Dame, harrassed by pass interceptions, drove past the North Carolina 20-yard line five times before finally scoring late in the final period.

End Max Burnell recovered a fumble by Farris on North Carolina's 26 and halfback Bob Scarpito carried it over later from the 2.

Notre Dame drives carried to the 12, 12, 6, 6 and 16. The first three were halted by pass interceptions and the fourth by a fumble. The fifth was stopped on downs.

North Carolina, beaten by North Carolina State and Miami in its opening games, drove from its 20 to the Notre Dame 15 in the final period.

Fullback Bob Elliott then attempted a field goal from the 22 but it fell far short.

Kansas Turns Back Cyclones

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Powerful Kansas turned back a stubborn Iowa State football team 28-14 Saturday behind the running and passing of quarterback John Hadl. Hadl.

The brawny junior scored two touchdowns and passed for another to end Iowa State's three-game winning streak and put the Jayhawks in the favorite role for the Big Eight championship with a 2-0 conference record.

Hadl's two long first-quarter passes were the difference. He hit halfback Curtis McClinton with a 37-yard toss—the key play in a 66-yard drive for Kansas' first score, which Hall got on a short plunge.

He shot the Jayhawks into a 14-0 lead by throwing another pass which McClinton pulled in between two Cyclone defenders in the end zone for a 27-yard touchdown play.

Iowa State fullback Tom Watkins kept the Cyclones in contention. He scored twice and contributed several long runs.

Richardson Sets Mark As Yanks Win, 10-0

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The slugging New York Yankees humiliated the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday 10-0 with a 16-hit barrage that included a grand slam homer by little Bobby Richardson and Mickey Mantle's 14th World Series home run.

While Yankee bats boosted the Yankees into a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series, chunky Whitey Ford baffled the bug-eyed Pirates with a four-hit shutout, his first in 13 Series starts.

Recirds fell all over spacious Yankee Stadium jammed with 70,001 fans as the stunned Pirates watched the Yanks knock out Vinegar Bend Mizell in the six-run first inning and then rolled it up with four more in the fourth.

Richardson, a quiet little .252 hitter who had only one homer all season, slammed a 3-2 pitch from reliever Clem Labine into the lower left field seats with the bases full in the first. In the fourth, Richardson set a Series single game RBI record of six by knocking in two more with a single, also with the bases loaded.

It was Danny Murtaugh's 43rd birthday.

The Yanks, who clobbered the Pirates 16-3 in Pittsburgh Thursday after losing the opener 6-4, boosted their hit total for three games to 48. If they keep it up they'll wind up hitting .500. For the second straight game, Murtaugh had to use six pitchers, starting with loser Mizell and running through Labine, Fred Green, George Witt, Tom Cheney and Joe Gibbon.

Mantle moved within one homer of Babe Ruth's all-time Series record of 15 when he sent a pitch by Green into the Pirate bullpen in left, about 430 feet from the plate, in the fourth. He hit one off Green in Pittsburgh Thursday.

The Mick, home run champ of the American League, singled on his first two trips before hitting the homer. He followed with a ground rules double into the right field seats, while batting left-handed. His four hits tied a series record for a single game, held by many, but he was called out on strikes in the seventh.

Richardson's grand slammer put him in exclusive company. Only six other men ever did the trick in a Series, five of them Yankees. His only homer in regular season play came off Arnold Portocarrero in Baltimore, April 30. In fact he had hit only three in his entire major league career.

This game was all over long before Prime Minister Nehru of India arrived to take his seat as an honored guest in about the sixth inning. Shortly after Ted Williams, the retired Boston slugger, threw out the first ball, the Yanks threw out the first Pirate pitcher.

Yogi Berra didn't start but made the lineup for his 64th Series game, and 57th in succession, when he took over for Maris in right field at the start of the seventh.

It developed that Maris had strained his side while being thrown out at the plate in the fifth. He was removed as a precautionary measure but the team doctor said he would be ready to play Sunday.

Manager Casey Stengel confirmed his pre-game choice of Ralph Terry, a 24-year-old right-hander to pitch Sunday's fourth game. Terry had a 10-8 record in the season, finishing strong with three shutouts after Aug. 27. This will be the first Series appearance of the 6-3 ex-Kansas City Athletic from Big Cabin, Okla.

Vern Law, the 20-game winning right-hander who won the opener with relief help from Elroy Face, will be Pittsburgh's pitcher in the fourth game. Harvey Haddix, a lefty, is due Monday.

Murtaugh said he had Bob Friend, Thursday's loser, in the bullpen Saturday and would have him out there again Sunday. Mizell explained his trouble came because he "couldn't get his curve ball down."

Asked how the Pirates pitched to Mantle, Murtaugh said, "We go around the horn on him (try everything) but we didn't go around enough today."

Richardson had driven in only seven runs since the All-Star break. He had 26 for the season. And, he had two in Thursday's second game for a total of eight for the Series.

Of the six Yanks who have hit grand slammers in Series play, five still are with the club. They are Gil McDougald, Mantle, Berra, Skowron and Richardson. The other was hit by the late Tony Lazzeri in 1936. The only non-Yank to do it was Elmer Smith of Cleveland against Brooklyn in 1920.

Panthers Wake Up In Fourth To Win One

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitt's Panthers unleashed the fury of three games and three quarters of football frustration Saturday with a field goal and a pair of touchdowns in the final 15 minutes, beating Miami's Hurricanes 17-6 at Pitt Stadium.

Losers by one point to UCLA and Oklahoma and tied by Michigan State in the first three games of what had been predicted as a banner season, the Panthers appeared headed for more bitter disappointment after three scoreless periods against underdog Miami.

But as the dew dried on the stadium turf in the 10 a.m., EDT game, the Panthers sent partisans in the crowd of 29,455 home to their television sets and the third game of the World Series in a happy frame of mind.

Briefly, Coach John Michelosen's lads received a few breaks and converted them into victory.

It all started late in the third quarter as the Panthers initiated a 10-play drive carrying 51 yards to the Miami 13. When it appeared the Hurricanes, winners last week in their opener against North Carolina, were going to thwart a Pitt scoring effort, halfback Fred Cox stepped back and booted a 30-yard field goal.

Miami, apparently feeling the pressure, then committed two miscues and before you could say "Beat 'em, Bucs," Pitt had two touchdowns and led 17-0.

The first came when second-string quarterback Bobby Weaver of Miami rolled out to pass, was hit by Heywood Haser and fumbled, Pitt's Mike Ditka falling on the ball at the Miami 18. After a penalty to the 9, Bob Clemens ripped 6 and then 3 yards into the end zone. Cox made the first of two conversions and Pitt was in front 10-0.

Still unable to mount a sustained drive against the tough Panther defense, Miami was forced to punt. Al Mickael, however, slipped and fell before he could get the ball off and Pitt took over on the Hurricanes' 18. Clemens slanted for five yards and Jim Cunningham broke over right guard for a 13-yard score.

Miami's 12-play, 73-yard drive for its score on a 26-yard pass from quarterback Eddie Johns to end Bill Miller was just so much consolation for the Miamians. The score came with 15 seconds left.

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs may have had to eat crow while dropping three games this season, but fricasseed eagle was on the menu Friday night as the Bulldogs chewed up the O'Donnell Eagles 42 to 8.

Despite a decided weight advantage, the Eagles were unable to move the ball on the ground and were held to 17 yards rushing for the game. They did somewhat better in the air. After a barrage of 23 passes, they completed 11 of them for a total of 109 yards.

The Bulldogs compiled 333 yards on the ground, and completed 2 out of 5 passes for 43 yards in the air.

Plagued by fumbles in the first half, the Eagles had only one bright spot when their center, Gerald Aldridge, intercepted a Coahoma pass and moved into the Coahoma side of the field.

The Bulldogs capitalized on the Eagle fumbles and galloped home for touchdowns in every quarter. During the last half, they too had trouble with fumbles.

The Eagles got the game off to a flying start by picking up two first downs and carrying the ball down to the Coahoma 28 yard line. Disaster struck and they fumbled with Coahoma recovering.

After two small yardage gaining plays, quarterback Royce Aberegg faked a hand off to Doc Reeves who went through left tackle for 75 yards and pay dirt. The try for extra points bogged down and the game went into the second quarter 6 to 0 for Coahoma.

After getting the ball on downs at the end of the quarter, the Eagles fumbled on the first play in the second quarter and Coahoma recovered on the Eagle 17-yard line. They failed to move the ball and it went over on downs again. Again the Eagles fumbled on the first play at their own 16-yard line.

Halfback Aubry Darden picked up 11 yards for a first and goal to go. On the next play, fullback Dewayne Richters exploded through the center of the line for the touchdown. A few seconds later Darden brought the extra points home and the score went up to 14 to 0 in favor of the Bulldogs.

A pass interception and the recovery of a Coahoma fumble failed to help the Eagles and the game moved into the second half just as the Bulldogs were again posing a threat at the Eagle goal.

The Eagles received the kickoff in the second half only to fumble on the runback, and the Bulldogs quickly converted it into a touchdown with Darden doing the honors and Richters serving up the extra points.

The Eagles took the return kick on their own 20 yardline, moved the ball about nine yards and then failed on a desperation try for the first down.

Taking over the ball, Aberegg hit right end for 11 yards, Richters punched for six and then for five and crossed the goal line, only to have the play called back on a penalty. Figuring what had been done once, could be done again. Richter carried across again from 30 yards out and Aberegg contributed the extra points to bring the score to 30-0 for Coahoma.

The Eagles took the ball on their own 24 after the return kick; only to lose it on a pass interception.

After having the touchdown set up by two-yard gaining plays, halfback Gorman Finley took the ball across the goal for another six points. A pass play for the extra points failed and the Coahoma team entered the final quarter with a 36-0 lead.

Fighting back, the Eagles took the aerial route for three first downs and brought the ball down to the Bulldog 22-yard line, where they lost it on downs early in the fourth quarter.

From then on, the play was fast and loose. Aberegg lost a pitch out to the Eagles who, in turn, lost the ball on a pass interception and recovered it again on the Coahoma 10-yard line on a fumble. Then Eagle backfielder, Gary Bowles, carried over the lone Eagle tally of the game. Bowles carried again for the extra points.

The last touchdown of the game when Coahoma took the ball on its own 40-yard line and Aberegg exploded across the field, leaving behind a string of would be tacklers as he raced 60 yards for a touchdown to bring the score to 42-8.

Syracuse Sneaks By Holy Cross

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Syracuse, shocked by upstart Holy Cross which outplayed the nation's No. 1 football team for 41 minutes, rallied behind its mighty defense and fullback Art Baker for a 15-6 victory Saturday.

The Orangemen felt their prestige and a 13-game winning streak tottering until tackle Tom Gilburg boomed a conversion kick to decide the contest with one second left in the third quarter. Sophomore halfback John Mackey had dragged the Crusaders' quarterback-leader Bill Joern the final yard into the end zone for the touchdown.

The Orangemen's defense, first in the country in total and rushing defensive figures, held on their 4-yard line to stem a fourth period Crusader surge from the Holy Cross 20.

Eleven seconds before the final gun, Syracuse clicked on a 25-yard scoring pass. Dick Easterly came off the bench to hurl the scoring strike to Ernie Davis.

San Angeloans Deflate Austin

SAN ANGELO—San Angelo withstood a second half uprising on the part of El Paso Austin to beat the Panthers, 28-20, here Friday night. The Bobcats led at half time, 20-0.

Mike Tabor, back in action after an injury, and Ronnie Stephens scored touchdowns for the Cats, the latter getting three.

Tackle Judson Stahl counted one TD for El Paso after intercepting a San Angelo pitchout on the Cat 25, George Guess got another while Rudy Valladolid raced for the third.

Crain returned the second half kickoff 84 yards for the Panthers' fourth score while Frank Sloan ended Odessa scoring early in the fourth on a nine-yard buck.

An opportunistic Lamesa club that had difficulty generating any sustained power resorted to two enemy fumbles and a nifty pass interception to defeat Big Spring afield at Broadway Friday night, 19-16.

Big Spring easily won the battle of statistics but played a futile game of 'catch-up' all the way.

The Steers slipped behind the eight-ball on the opening kickoff when Willie Mendoza bobbled the opening kickoff on the Steer 32 and guard Royce Goolsby pounced on the pighide for Lamesa. Richard Crump boomed to the eight on the first play, then to the five. An over-eager Big Spring line charged off side and drew a penalty down to the 2½, from which point Randy Norris circled right end for the score.

Norris then booted the point, with 10:51 still showing on the clock. The turn of events came with dramatic suddenness, almost before the 4,000-plus spectators had time to take their seats.

The Golden Tornadoes, who brought a 3-1 won-lost record here, gave as much as they took until shortly before the first period closed, when another Steer bobble opened the gates for them. Gene Westmoreland was there to make a recovery for the Lamesans. A pass from Westmoreland moved the ball 27 yards down to the Steer three, from which point Crump lugged it over. Only half a minute of the period remained.

Norris failed to boot the point and Lamesa led, 13-0.

A little over two minutes before the half, Big Spring broke into the scoring column when fullback Jerry Dunlap powered over from the two, at the end of a 67-yard offensive. The march required 16 plays. Quarterback Tommy Whatley kept the ball and picked up the two extra points. Lamesa led, 13-8.

In the third, with 2:44 minutes to go, Norris picked off a pass thrown by Jerry Tucker and sprinted up the east sidelines 72 yards to the double stripes. That made it 19-8 and virtually put the decision out of reach, as far as Big Spring was concerned.

Only minutes previously, Big Spring had driven to the Lamesa nine after Bobby Williams had fallen on a Tornado bobble out on the Lamesa 25. The visitors rose up to throw back every Steer challenge at that point.

Following Norris' long run, Gary Pickle got his big hand up in front of Norris' attempted kick for the PAT.

Relatively late in the fourth quarter, Big Spring was sent reeling on a nifty out-of-bounds kick on the Steer five by Westmoreland.

They cranked up and moved the ball 95 yards in 16 plays, however, for a score. Madry finally legged it in from the Tornado six on a pitchout from Tucker.

Tucker himself kept the ball and spun across for the extra points that cut Lamesa's margin to three points.

Only 2:30 minutes were left in the game when Big Spring kicked off again and the Tornadoes held on until the very end.

Big Spring was afflicted with fumblitis. The locals bobbled the oval eight times and recovered only four of them.

The Longhorns outgained the Lamesans, 306 yards to 199, but gave the Tornadoes too many opportunities to pick up TD's the easy way.

Alf Cobb, Bobby Pryor, Pickle and Whatley were among the several who played fine defensive ball for Big Spring. Dunlap intercepted one of the five passes Lamesa threw to help stay the tide.

Dunlap also was Big Spring's leading ground gainer, with 64 yards net in 16 carries. Madry picked up 59 paces in ten tries. Norris led the Lamesa offensive, with gains totaling 85 yards in 12 lunges.

Score by quarters:

Lamesa	13	0	6	0—19
Big Spring	0	8	0	8—16

DOBBS

Carl Cook, who scouted Sweetwater for Odessa Permian when the Mustangs knocked off Big Spring, said upon his return home that Elwood Turner's club "took Big Spring easily, although they weren't fired up" for the game . . . The thousand or so Big Spring patrons who witnessed the contest reasoned the Mustangs had to work fairly hard for the victory, anyway . . . No one within District 2-AAAA, from all indications, is taking Big Spring very seriously this year . . . Despite the fact that they won their first three games, the Longhorns very definitely have to prove themselves to conference teams . . . Breckenridge, from all indications, is in for one of those lean seasons in football, especially since Brownwood has picked up steam under coach Gordon Wood within the Buckies' district . . . The Breckenridge team suited out only 18 players against Abilene recently and two of those were ordered from the field by the officials . . . They say the Abilene ball club has no awesome talent this season but the Eagles' depth will wear down almost any foe . . . Some observers, including head coach Blanton Collier, said Kentucky was too aggressive against Ole Miss and not aggressive enough against Georgia Tech, which is the reason the Wildcats lost both games . . . Coker's Restaurant here fed both coaches and players of the Big Spring Steers here the other night, in appreciation for the early successes of the squad . . . El Paso Austin High School found itself on probation by the El Paso School Board the past week, following the Austin-Odessa High football game in Odessa . . . Manager of the Lincoln Hotel in Odessa maintained that students from the school damaged the hotel to the extent of about $300 during their visit there . . . The football team was not involved in the vandalism.

New Club Due To Open On Oct. 22

Golfers at the Big Spring Country Club have been told they can get on the new course two weeks from today . . . Eight tons of fertilizer, imported from Houston and costing $65 a ton, were recently distributed around the fairways—something that should save the club on water in the long run. . Some members of the clubs are expecting as many as 250 players for their 1961 tournament, now that the new layout extends over 18 holes. . .Art Guepe, the present football coach at Vanderbilt University, may return to the University of Virginia as head coach and athletic director in 1961. . . Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns wants to extend Atlanta, Ga., a franchise in the National Football League. . . It would probably be a more profitable move than Dallas, which was absorbed this year, or Minneapolis, which comes in 1961 . . .Gary Everitt, the tough Lamesa guard, is after his fourth varsity football letter. . .John Porter, another member of the Tornado forward wall, formerly resided in Big Spring. . .Bill Spivey, the tree-top tall Kentuckian who appeared here in competition with the Harlem Globetrotters a few years ago, has quit his fight to be allowed to play in the National Basketball Association. . .Spivey was barred because of charges brought against him in New York for shaving points in which the University of Kentucky was involved but nothing was proved against him . . . The University of Houston gained 391 yards rushing and passing against Oregon State a week ago Saturday, yet lost the decision by nine points. . .Fumbles and interceptions hurt the Cougars in that one. . .Eight Houston players (but not Big Spring's Danny Birdwell) were infirmary cases as a result of the ball game. . .Linebacker Dave Wiman didn't stay out very long after rejoining the Snyder Tigers. . .He was injured and sidelined in the game against Odessa Permian last week. . .Snyder has probably been hit harder by injuries this year than at any time since John Conley became coach over there.

Wrestling Team Impresses In Rome

Elmer Tarbox, the local sporting goods dealer who spent 32 days in Europe watching the Olympic Games and pushing his conditioning weights (Elmer's Handicaps), was proudest of the U. S. wrestling team, which went into the games unheralded and finished by winning more medals than any Yankee grappling team in history . . . The wrestlers started using the Handicaps a few weeks before the matches...One man close to the team, before it departed for overseas, said this was the most inept group of wrestlers we had ever sent to the games...It proved it was also the most dedicated... Tarbox went on to Greece for a track and field meet before flying back to the states...The local police department gifted members of the Big Spring Teen-Age baseball team with handsome trophies after the boys had won the State All-Star tournament at Fort Hood... That pro basketball game in Lubbock the other night, in which the St. Louis Hawks defeated the Cincinnati Royals, 110-108, attracted a crowd of 3,200...Oscar Robertson, formerly of the University of Cincinnati, scored 14 points for the Royals...Bruce Dobbs, the local bowling enthusiast, an alumnus of Auburn University, was in the same Marine Corps outfit with Jesse Outlar, the Atlanta sports writer, during World War II... Johnny Frankie, the Rice University basketball coach who is probably in for another lean season, says he'll limit his squad to 12 boys...One of those will, no doubt, be Bill Thompson of Big Spring, who is in his sophomore year at the Houston school...Jack Roden, a back on the Big Spring High School B football team, broke his ankle in a game at Abilene last week...Said Wally Butts, the Georgia University coach, following his team's game with Bear Bryant's Alabama club: "Anybody planning on playing Alabama this year better be immune to pain."

FORSAN—Woodson took advantage of Forsan mistakes to defeat the Buffaloes, 30-6, in a non-conference eight-man football game here Friday night.

Forsan fumbled the opening kickoff on its own 20 and Woodson recovered. Ronnie Holliday, 195-pound fullback, scored on the first play from scrimmage, then added the two points on a run and Woodson led, 8-0.

Woodson scored again in the opening period when Lonnie Woodward went eight yards on an end sweep. Holliday added the two extra points on a run.

Forsan then sandwiched in its lone touchdown of the night when Dewey Howard scored by six yards away.

In the second period, Woodson blocked a Forsan punt and recovered the ball on the Buff one. Holliday picked up the TD while Lonnie Woodward added the two extra points.

In the fourth, Warren Woodward raced 50 yards for Woodson's last touchdown.

Ray Cramer led the defensive play in Woodson's line, making 12 tackles. Lonnie Woodward had five for the winners.

Bearkats Defeat Union, 40 To 8

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Bearkats staged their most impressive show of the season here Friday night, rolling past the Union Bobcats, 40-8.

The Kats were in command from the time Joe Carter took the opening kickoff and raced nearly 80 yards for a score. Gary McDaniel added two extra points for Garden City.

In the second round, Doug Parker raced six yards for the Kats' second tally, then added another two points on a run. Garden City led, 16-0.

Later in the quarter, Carter sprinted 30 yards for the home club's third TD. The try for point failed and Garden City led at half time, 22-0.

In the third, McDaniel broke loose on a 50-yard dash to touchdown land to make it 28-0. He scored again before the quarter was out on an eight-yard carry.

In the fourth, Tommy Grant made it 40-0 on a 15-yard carry.

Union finally scored against the Garden City scrubs when Cheatham went across. The Bobcats counted again shortly before the game ended but the play was nullified by a penalty.

Bill Richardson, the Bearkat coach, said the game was far and away Garden City's best defensive show of the year.

Two sophomores, end-guard Richard Robinson and end-guard Hugh Schafer, stood out for Garden City, along with middle guard Bill Schraeder, middle guard Bernard Schraeder, roving linebacker Gary Seidenberger, end David Harris and end Denny Cypert.

Garden City made 280 yards rushing to 214 for Union. Each team made eight first downs. The Bearkats drew 45 yards in penalties to 35 for Union.

Garden City has now won two of five starts. The Kats will be idle until Oct. 21, at which time they catch Sterling City at Garden City in a conference game.

STANTON—Sophomore quarterback Calvin Kirkham hurled two touchdown passes here Friday night to lead his spirited Golden Cranes past the Stanton Buffaloes, 27-6.

The Buffaloes were stunned in the first 15 seconds of the game when senior halfback Gene Griffin took the opening kickoff and scampered 91 yards to paydirt.

Early in the second period, Stanton appeared to be on the move after stopping a Crane scoring drive at the 1-yard line. The Buffaloes drove to the Crane 33 before yielding the ball.

Another Stanton drive that appeared headed for the end zone was killed midway in the third quarter when a tough Crane middle line held at the 17-yard line on a fourth-and-five situation.

The Buffaloes found the going tough through the middle of the Crane defenders throughout the game, although after stopping Crane at the one, they were able to move for nine consecutive plays before losing steam.

Kirkham, usually able to connect with his pass receivers at will, found the air currents rough throughout the first half of play. He threw 16 times, completing one for a touchdown, and two more for 21 yards. In the second half he found a little more control, throwing six times and completing two, one a 76-yard touchdown pass.

Kirkham's longest pass play gave the Cranes their 18th point. With 2½ minutes left in the third period, the shifty quarterback found Jimmy Dutton open at about the Stanton 45 and dropped the pigskin right in his arms. Dutton scampered untouched the remaining distance.

Substitute halfback Johnny Hoestenbach was on the receiving end of a touchdown pass as the second period ended. That pass from Kirkham covered 26 yards.

Stanton averted a shutout in the final three minutes of the game after getting possession on its 10-yard line on a Crane punt that traveled from the mid-field stripe.

Hard-driving running by quarterback Herb Sorley, Thadd Koonce, Jimmy Sale and Tommy Newman took the ball to the Crane three from where Newman shot the gap for the tally.

Sorley took control of the Stanton ball club in the second half, replacing regular Redgy Church who ran the team throughout the first two periods.

Sorley brought the home crowd to its feet with a daring fourth-down pass in the third period.

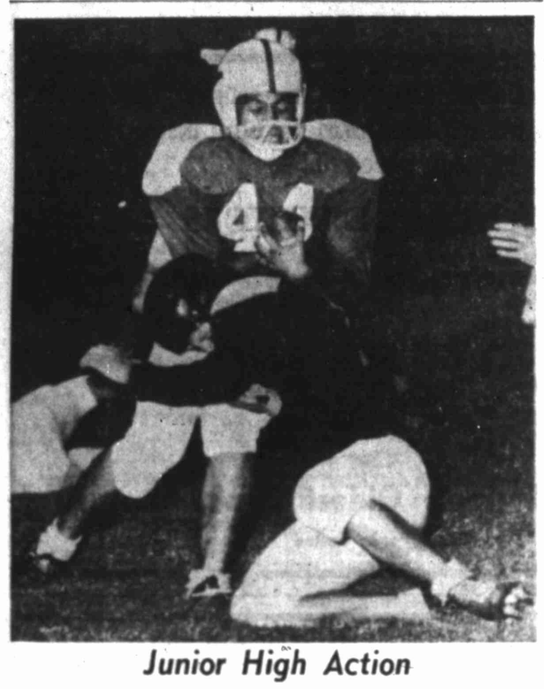

The Buffaloes recovered a fumble at the Crane 41 and in three plays only managed to move three yards. Gambling on fourth-and eight, Sorley uncorked an aerial to Dick Turner that was good for 17 yards and the first down. The Buffaloes lost the possession four plays later, however, at the Crane 17.

Crane displayed the running talents of two non-regular halfbacks, Hoestenbach and Tommy Elliot. Both lads ran the Buffaloes ragged with a combination of speed and deception.

Elliot scored the Cranes' final touchdown shortly after the final quarter opened, taking a handoff from Kirkham and slanting off tackle for seven yards.

The rugged forward wall of the Golden Cranes effectively bottled up Newman, usually Stanton's most dangerous runner. His longest run covered 11 yards.

Stanton outrushed Crane 153 yards to 103 and held possession of the ball most of the second half, but was unable to punch through when the chips were down.

Buckeyes Power Past Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Ohio State's undefeated Buckeyes, sparked by a 100-yard kickoff return by Bill Wentz and excellent quarterbacking of Tom Matte, crushed Illinois 34-7 Saturday in a Big Ten battle of national football powers.

An Illinois homecoming crowd of 71,119 sat quietly through the first half and watched fullback Bob Ferguson pound out a 13-0 Ohio State lead and then gave up all hope when Wentz took the opening kickoff of the second half and went all the way for a touchdown.

Iowa Overwhelms Michigan State

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Iowa showed overwhelming power and versatility in whipping Michigan State 27-15 with a fourth quarter comeback Saturday in a battle for the Big Ten football leadership.

Iowa made two fast touchdowns in the first period but then saw MSU move into a late 15-14 lead.

Then Iowa's Joe Williams intercepted a fumble in the air and sprinted 67 yards for the go-ahead touchdown. Iowa quarterback Wilburn Hollis added one more score with a last minute 23-yard punch.

After Williams' run got the Hawkeyes ahead, Spartan quarterback Tommy Wilson tried a pass. It was intercepted by Bernie Wyatt on Michigan State's 36.

Two plays carried down to the 23 and Hollis ran through the soft middle of the Michigan State line for the insurance touchdown.

ACKERLY — The New Deal Lions opened their District 4-B football season by edging the Sands Mustangs, 8-0, here Friday night.

The Lions scored early in the first quarter following a Mustang fumble on the Sands 15. David Attebary ran across the touchdown from the one and Doug James added the PAT on a run.

Sands moved within inches of a first down on New Deal's one-foot line just before the half ran out but yielded the ball on downs.

Coach Marlin Dobbs praised his team for their defensive work, adding that fumbles hurt the club more than any one thing.

The Ponies, now 1-5 for the season, go to Wilson next Saturday night for their second district test. It will be Homecoming in Wilson. Ropesville smashed Wilson Friday night, 52-14.

New Deal currently boasts a record of two wins and three losses.

Working On State

State street got its face lifted Friday as the city applied a fresh seal coat to the surface from 4th to 11th Pl. Here, the crew is shown approaching 11th Pl. with the asphalt coating. After laying the asphalt the crew spreads a layer of crushed rock, then rolls the surface. The seal coating is especially necessary with winter approaching. During cold weather older pavement may crack, allowing water to seep underneath. The expansion and contraction of the water enlarges the cracks and may eventually cause holes in the surface. The seal coat helps prevent this, according to Bruce Dunn, director of public works. Nearly 100 blocks are scheduled to receive a new asphalt and rock surface. With State St. completed, the next street slated for seal coating is 11th Pl. from Settles to Birdwell.

Jurors Expected To Flood Courthouse During The Week

There will be jurors all over the place in the county court house this week.

Ninety jurors have been notified at 1:30 p.m. Monday in 118th District Court where Judge Ralph Caton is opening a civil docket.

Fifty jurors are to report on Tuesday morning for service in a criminal docket opening before County Judge Ed Carpenter in county court.

Judge Caton has notified attorneys who are interested in the cases docketed for disposition to be in his court at 10 a.m. Monday. The cases will be called and it will be determined whether they are to be tried, continued or whether dismissals or other changes must be made. At 1:30 p.m. the court proposes to begin trial of the No. 1 case announced ready.

SOUND DOCKET

In county court, Judge Carpenter and Wayne Burns, county attorney, will sound the criminal docket starting at 1 p.m. Several pleas of guilty are expected from the list of cases on the docket. Some will probably be passed for this term. A few may be dismissed. This will clear the decks for the first case to go to trial Tuesday morning. The county docket will continue through Oct. 21.

The district court docket is for one week only.

There are 24 cases listed on the district court docket.

New Ceilings Set By TEC

The Secretary of Labor has established new ceilings for the employment of Mexican National agricultural workers in Martin, Howard and Glasscock counties for the period of Oct. 1 to Nov. 30.

The quota, as announced by the Big Spring Office of the Texas Employment Commission, for Howard County is 2,250. Martin County has been alloted a quota of 5,750 and Glasscock County has a quota of 800.

The laborers from Mexico are being used because of a shortage of local workers as farm and ranch hands and in the harvesting of cotton and grain.

Another Fund Gift Reported

Another $5 gift, this one from the Loyalty Sunday School Class of the Baptist Temple, has edged the High School Bible Class Fund upwards to $2,538.45. The formal appeal for support of the fund is over, but several gifts, most of them previously made but not reported, continue to be received by The Herald.

GARDEN TALK

Gas-Saturated Soil Most Unusual Garden Problem

By BRUCE FRAZIER

Travis Carlton, who lives on Birdwell Lane, has an unusual garden problem. There had been a leak in the gas main under the street beside his house. Seemingly this leak had let gas escape into the soil for quite some time, and no one detected it.

The lawn and shrubs seemed to be suffering from some unusual malady that slowly killed first the lawn and later shrubs. This mysterious thing could be seen creeping across the yard until it nearly reached the neighbors next door. At last when the leak was discovered and repaired, the problem came up of what to do with the affected area.

Mrs. Carlton asked me to come by and take a soil sample and test it for her. I don't usually do this work myself, but this problem was so unusual I came over anyway. The ground was so hard I had to drive the spade into the ground with a sledge hammer. It had turned to a hard sort of brick-like material. I sent the sample to the Soil Testing Laboratory of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and this is a part of the interesting repost they made on this soil condition.

"Any soil damaged by a hydrocarbon of this nature will eventually be all right after the gas is removed and life gets back into the soil. Just how long this will take depends on the texture, temperature, rainfall, organic matter, and such factors. Needless to say, removal of the damaged soil and subsequent refilling with good soil would remedy the situation. It is more desirable to have two feet of good soil in which a plant can grow than to have only six inches. Stirring the soil and incorporating compost would help if you do not remove the top soil."

It will be interesting to see how the Carltons manage to work out this gardening problem. Since this column was begun, this is about the most unusual garden question that has come in.

If you have one of your own, write to Bruce Frazier in care of the Herald.

Could you get by if you had to pay CASH?

How many people could enjoy the pleasure and convenience of an automobile, piano or refrigerator if they had to pay cash?

Fortunately for most of us, we don't have to pay cash for everything we buy. We can take advantage of the liberal, flexible system of personal credit which enables us to buy and enjoy the things we want, when we want them, and to pay for them later. Whether our income is large or small, we can enjoy the privilege of buying almost anything, anywhere, if our credit record is good.

And the only way to maintain a good credit record is to buy only what you know you can pay for—and pay for it on the date it is due.

You will find it mighty convenient to say "Charge it, please."

You Help These Programs Through The UNITED FUND

SUMMER RECREATION is provided by money from the United Fund, with boys and girls from all parts of town entering into the various games and contests directed in spots convenient to different sections. At times, the groups meet at a central location to be taken by buses to the site of the fun. The summer recreation program is just one of twelve organizations whose yearly programs are financed through disbursements from the United Fund. The UF itself is a fund-raising organization, organized simply to correlate money drives for saving of time and manpower.

HELP WITH A BOAT MODEL comes from a den mother, Mrs. Nick Malarchik, who assists her two young Cub Scouts, Nick, at left, and David. Work with these youngsters and others like them is possible through the United Fund, which is beginning the drive for funds to be allocated to 12 local agencies. Solicitation is already under way, and early enthusiasim points to success in the campaign for $98,210. It's the annual big challenge to the community—but one which is always accepted and met.

A POPULAR PLACE with the youngsters on the west side of town is the Westside Recreation Center, which comes in for assistance from the United Fund. Housed in the center is a library where both children and adults are welcome to study or read. Shelves hold books and magazines. For recreation, there are games, including ping pong, a radio, and as shown, at right, a television set.

COOKING IS PART of the training given to Brownies and Girl Scouts, an organization financed through the United Fund. In picture above, Elizabeth Hayworth shows how well she has mastered the art of baking cookies. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hayworth, 1700 Donley, Elizabeth along with about 900 other little girls of Howard County will be taught arts and crafts, homemaking, health and safety, literature, sports, dramatics, nature study, international friendship and music and dancing.

A FAMILY AFFAIR — is the local YMCA, a member of the United Fund, and young ladies are taught swimming on days alternating with their brothers' lessons. In picture above, a class lines the side of the attractive pool in the new building, where activities are available for all members of the family—Dad, Mom, sister and brother. Bride's Father Reads Double Ring Ceremony

COAHOMA—C. E. Kiser, minister of the Coahoma Church of Christ, read the ceremony which united in marriage his daughter, Mary Alice, and Lonnie Ferrell Anderson, Friday evening in the church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Anderson, 407 College.

An arch of greenery, flanked by tapers, formed the background for the taking of double ring vows.

Wedding music was presented by Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Kiser, Mrs. Don Allen and Bob Cates. Included in the selections were "Be With Us,Lord" and "I Love You Truly".

Donald A. Allen, brother-in-law of the bride, escorted her to the altar and gave her in marriage.

The bridal dress, street-length, was fashioned of white lace over taffeta; the neckline was rounded, the sleeves and hem finished with scallops. The bride carried an orchid.

Linda Carol Wasson of Pasadena, Texas, maid of honor, chose a frock of white organza, with tiered skirt, and blue accessories.

Cariker Roy Wright served as best man; guests were seated by Weldon Rainey and Monty Davis. Miss Wasson lighted the tapers.

A miniature bridal couple topped the three-tiered cake which was served at the reception held in the Allen home. At the register was Mrs. Larry Greenfield.

Lace over blue covered the tea table, centered with an arrangement of mixed flowers.

When the couple left for a trip to Carlsbad, N.M., the bride was wearing a two-piece suit of brown with beige accessories.

When they return, they will be at home on Route One, Big Spring.

The new Mrs. Anderson is a graduate of Coahoma High School and is now employed by J. C. Penney Co. Her husband, also a CHS graduate, is attending Howard County Junior College and is employed by Clifton N. Bellamy Engineering Co.

Parents Should Enjoy Children

BERLIN (AP) — Father should get on his knees with a train set more often. And mother should come out of that kitchen and play a jolly game of table tennis with her children, says the West Berlin Youth Department.

Children whose parents don't play with them are missing an essential part of their development into rounded adults, youth officials think.

Thus, an exhibition of 250 games for the whole family is being sent on a tour of the city precincts to encourage parents and children to have more fun together.

Games include everything from dominoes and scrabble to chemical sets, model theaters, indoor gardens and electric railways.

They will be active members of the First Methodist Church where he will assume duties as minister of music.

New Minister Of Music For First Methodists

Recent newcomers to Big Spring are Mr. and Mrs. Don Ford and their two children, Shelley, two and a half, and Kelly, fourteen months. Ford is the minister of music of the First Methodist Church.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ford sing and play the piano and list music as their main hobby; however, he is a sportsman and especially enjoys hunting, tennis and fishing. He is directing the YMCA Gray Boy's Choir here.

Ford is a graduate of Central State College in Edmond Okla., and holds a BA degree in music education.

The Fords are both natives of Oklahoma City, where they attended high school together. Before coming to Big Spring the lived in Shawnee, Okla., where he was minister of music for the St. Paul Methodist Church. In Shawnee Ford was director of the Barber Shop Quartet Chapter.

While in college Ford was an active member of the male quartet and played the leading role in the Central State College production of "Oklahoma." Together the Fords had a 40-mile morning and evening paper route. They bought a jeep to deliver papers in and she folded as he drove and threw them.

Ford, who also directed a church choir part time, received the senior music award and was listed in the who's who among American colleges during his last year of school.

Prior to his college work he served three years in the Air Force.

Mrs. Ford is a member of the church choir, and plans to take part in the WSCS work at the church.

She worked at the First National Bank in Oklahoma City and was registrar at a high school there during her husband's college years.

The Fords, who have been married nine and a half years, are living in their new home at 1733 Purdue.

Cactus Chapter ABWA To Have Charm School

Tickets will go on sale Oct. 10 for the "Alice Bell Charm and Fashion School," to be sponsored Nov. 28 and 29, by the Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association. The tickets may be purchased from any member of the chapter and information may be gained by calling Mrs. Otto Peters at AM 4-6888 or Mrs. Doug Price at AM 4-8332.

The school will be taught by Miss Bell. Charm may be acquired through this short course and is a direct stepping stone to happiness and success in social life and in the business world. In just a few sessions, you can learn the simple art of becoming a more interesting person and find a more exciting life, according to the instructor.

Highlights of the course will be fashion, social graces, the art of make-up, poise, eyeglasses, relaxation, diets and exercise.

Miss Bell says that charm is not inherited, but developed, acquired, and can be had by every woman. Every woman can look as smart as though she had just stepped from the fashion magazine for the same amount of money and possibly less, she stated.

Miss Bell also relates that fashions are like a foreign language; they must be studied. Charm opens all the doors, the question is does it open the front door or the back?

Remember your appearance speaks before you get the chance, is the idea of the teacher.

Announcement of the contest is part of the special October issue, which features a frank self-examination of poetry by some of America's foremost poets who are concerned with the lack of wider interest in poetry.

Writer's Digest's first nationwide poetry contest features 33 cash awards and publication of the top three winners. The contest is open now until Dec. 1, and entry forms and details are given in the October issue.

Entry forms may also be obtained by writing direct to Writer's Digest, 22 East Twelfth Street, Cincinnati 10, Ohio.

Convalescence

Convalescent patients need frequent morale-boosters—such as a shampoo, which provides a lift to the spirits as well as vital care for the hair and scalp.

A good way to shampoo a bed patient is to set up a washboard in a metal tub next to the bed.

This equipment is similar in principle to professional equipment. It permits the patient to rest in a comfortable position—with her hair on the protective surface of the washboard while it's being lathered and rinsed.

The Towel Bath

The towel bath is an important travel technique—also fine for a hurry-up wash-up before unexpected date.

Plunge a Turkish towel into rich soapsuds, wring it out, and give yourself a brisk all-over rubbing. Rinse the towel in clear water and repeat the body rubdown. Finish off with a dry toweling.

Trim Selvage

In sewing with cotton fabrics, it's a good idea to trim away the selvage edge on cutout pieces. Since the selvage may be more tightly woven than the rest of the completed garment.

'ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

This has been a weekend of pure pleasure for a group of college friends of long standing . . . in fact the couples are gaining in number as the years go by. The group is composed of graduates of the former North Texas State Normal at Denton. The exes are mostly members of the classes of 1913-14. Their hosts this weekend have been MR. AND MRS. W. F. TAYLOR both of whom are graduates of the school that is now North Texas State College. The guest couple was MR. AND MRS. W. C. BLANKENSHIP who graduated a little later.

When the friends gathered for luncheon at Coker's Saturday the school colors of green and white were used in the floral arrangements and pennants bearing the Eagle football team insignia were placed about the table.

Spadea's Designer Pattern

FOR ACTIVE WOMEN

Suit Has Comfort, Practical Flair

The newest fashion news in the U.S.A. is the "divided skirt" suit—launched by the greatest designer of them all, here or over there—America's own Norman Norell.

Already sweeping the country and adapted by the "high style" set, the divided skirt can be seen in action on TV this Sunday when Dinah Shore returns with her spectacular Chevy Show, wearing, as usual, a spectacular wardrobe.

The divided skirt is a godsend to active women, but to be worthy of its name, it must be cut with the slimness of line that is necessary for infinite chic.

The jacket, a 1960 version of the famous Norfolk, is a perfect companion to this new look.

From these charts select the one size best for you. Our measurements are comparable to ready-to-wear sizes.

Size	Bust	Waist	Hips	Nape of Neck to Waist
10	34	24	35	16¼ inches
12	35	25	36	16¾ "
14	36½	26½	37½	17 "
16	38	28	39	17¼ "
18	40	30	41	17½ "

Size 12 requires 1⅞ yards of 54-inch material for jacket and 1⅛ yards of 39-inch material for lining.

• • •

No. N-1220 (divided Skirt)—$1.00

Size	Waist	Hips
10	24	35
12	25	36
14	26½	37½
16	28	39
18	30	41

Size 12 requires 1⅝ yards of 54-inch material for divided skirt.

To order Pattern No. N-1214 (jacket) or No. N-1220 (divided skirt), state size, send $1.00 for each pattern. For first class mail, add 10 cents.

For air mail handling, add 25 cents for each pattern. New Book No. 18 now available at $1.00 each.

If paid by check, add 5 cents for handling.

Time Change

Time of the meeting of the Boydstun P-TA has been set at 2:30 on Thursday for this month only. The group will meet at the school at the earlier hour due to the dismissal of classes at noon for a teacher's meeting.

Air Of Luxury Marks Year's Coat Fashions

Lots and lots of room is the starting point for women's coats this fall. But no tent coverings these—whether swirling bias, rounded fullness or straight lined, they are flat and smooth in front with the fullness falling cloak-like to the back.

For those who prefer petite styling, there is the semi-fitted princess line, shaped back and front; alternate for anyone is the absolutely straight lined coat, less tapered this year.

Armholes are frequently deep, sleeves shorter and wider, and shoulder seams are often raglan or dropped. Pockets are placed low. Buttons are large and novel to the point of embroidery.

Lavis fur, with its look and feel of delicious luxury, is for both dress and sport coat areas. Collars, long or full around the neck, but never really small, start with mink and continue through color-dyed beaver, fox and lynx. Cuffs are important in the long-haired furs, fox and lynx. And some untrimmed coats subtly boast of luxury in fur linings.

The fabric story has many interesting facets. Crisp ottoman and faille, all the worsted wools, are most important this season, particularly in dressy coats. They are expecially effective in black and other solid and mixture colors such as deep royal, purple wine, and taupe to ebony brown.

Chinchilla is significant in rich fashion hues and white. Crisp tweeds, checks, plaids and radiant colored light weight fleeces run rampant through untrimmed coats.

In addition to the colors already mentioned, the general color story includes brilliant vintage and jewel tones and a deep peacock called jade. Also important in textured monotones are flame red or white with black persian or braid trim. Outstanding neutrals are oatmeal, pale camel and pale greige.

Sweaters Never More Popular

Sweaters were never more popular—and girls who like a custom look in their cardigan or pullover are taking up the fine art of knitting it themselves.

New looks in stadium sweaters, for football or any outdoor activity, include handsome sweater-coats of all lengths to top off skirts or trousers.

Bulky demi-coats knit straight down to the thigh in an easy-to-do pattern stitch or a simple stockinette stitch are often topped with their own hoods.

Some jackets have shawl-collared necklines that can be overcollared with raccoon.

The ever-popular pullover now is designed for outdoor wear as well as by-the-fire lounging. The classic pullover goes offbeat in broad horizontal bandings of varied colors.

Girls who keep their eyes on the ball—the yarn ball, of course—can count on leading the fashion parade to the stadium this fall.

Mexican Salad Is American Favorite

This combination of ingredients for a popular appetizer is just right.

GUACAMOLE

1 medium-sized avocado
1 tbsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. finely-grated onion, pulp and juice
1 drained pimiento, diced

Make sure avocado is ripe and soft. Cut into lengthwise halves; twist halves in opposite directions to pull apart; remove seed.

Scoop out avocado flesh from skin with teaspoon, leaving a little around the sides of one of the shells so it will keep its shape.

Mash avocado pulp fine; there should be about ¾ cup; mix in lemon juice, salt, onion and pimiento.

Spoon back into the shell that has kept its shape. Surround with packaged corn chips for dunking into the avocado mixture; serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

MRS. WAYNE TROY HOWARD

Couple To Live In Big Spring Following Marriage Saturday

LAMESA (SC)—Wedding vows were exchanged in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m. Saturday by Jacalyn Sue Vaughn and Wayna Troy Howard, both of Lamesa. They will make a home in Big Spring.

The bride is the daughter of Jack Vaughn and granddaughter of L. B. Vaughn; the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Howard, all of Lamesa.

Following wedding music by Mrs. Jerry Don Pierce, who sang, "I Love You Truly" and "Wonderful One," accompanied by Mrs. W. J. Beckhan at the organ, the double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, pastor of the church.

A candle tree centered the altar, flanked by sea-mist green tapers in graduated candelabra. Completing the setting were four baskets of sea-mist mums and the satin-covered kneeling bench.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza, designed with portrait neckline and bracelet length sleeves, complemented by short kid gloves. From the Empire line of the lace bodice, flowed a magnificent skirt of silk organza, highlighted by appliques of lace and swept to a chapel train. A tear-drop crown of pearls held her veil of silk illusion.

The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with gardenias and held a handkerchief belonging to her paternal grandmother, the late Mrs. L. B. Vaughn.

Carol Lee of Lamesa was maid of honor; bridesmaids were Sue Barron and Alma Agee, both of Lamesa; Mrs. J. P. Schroeder of Elgin; and Karen Campbell, Lubbock.

Miss Lee wore a sea-mist green street length dress of peau de soie with moulded bodice, sleeves cropped at the elbow and rounded neckline with center front clip. A narrow sash bowed at the front, and bouffant skirt completed the attire. Her headpiece was a matching flat bow with nosetip veil, and she carried an emerald green spider mum nosegay.

The bridesmaids' dresses were identical to the honor attendant's, but of emerald green peau de soie with matching bow headdresses and sea-mist green spider mums.

The flower girls were Deretta Lane, niece of the bride, and Debbie Howard, niece of the bridegroom, both of Lamesa. They wore sea-mist green cotton satin, fashioned with tiny roll collar accenting the rounded neckline, with cap sleeves, full skirts and center front bows.

T. L. Howard of Lamesa, the bridegroom's brother was best man. Ushers included Barry Addison, B. W. Evans, Zant Woodul and Sam Stringer, all of Lamesa. Groomsmen included James Howard, brother of the bridegroom; Jimmy Sol Cleveland, Duane Erwin, Howard Ritchey, all of Lamest.

A reception was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony.

In the house party with the newlyweds were Mrs. Owen Taylor, Mrs. Dan Ogletree, Mrs. B. B. Lee, Mrs. Harley Campbell, Mrs. John Agee, Mrs. Bill Love, Mrs. Will Ford, Mrs. V. M. Roberts, Mrs. Don Ritchey, Mrs. T. L. Howard, Mrs. Jodie Vaughn, Mrs. T. F. Vaughn, Mrs. Lex Woodul, Mrs. Ernest Rhodes, Mrs. Earl Henderson, Jan Hampton, Charlotte Hilley, Elaine Barron, Joan Lindsey and Diane Zachary.

Decorations for the reception carried out the wedding colors of green and white; the table was laid with a lace-edged white linen cloth and featured the feminine attendants' bouquets, resting at the base of the candelabrum of sea-mist green tapers.

Guests were present from Abilene, Big Spring and Wellman.

When the couple left on a trip to Ruidoso, N. M., the bride was wearing a graphite green wool costume suit with lizard accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Lamesa High School and Hardin-Simmons University and the bridegroom is a graduate of Lamesa High School. He is presently affiliated with the Pioneer Natural Gas Co. of Big Spring.

They will reside at 414 Johnson Street in Big Spring.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

M. Monroe Thinks Imitation Flatters

Tells Some Secrets

Marilyn Monroe, beautiful feminine lead in "Let's Make Love," gives her opinions on fashion, complexion and femininity in today's Hollywood Beauty.

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—The impact of Marilyn Monroe has been felt around the world. The color of her hair, her skin-tight clothes, her slightly parted lips—have been copied, and almost every country has offered a native version of her. Last year in Turkey, I met Istanbul's Marilyn Monroe, a singer who confessed she wasn't too happy about the changes her manager had demanded, but she admitted it had paid off financially.

After seeing Marilyn in "Let's Make Love" with Yves Montand, I visited with her on the set at 20th Century-Fox. While others had duplicated the externals, no one had captured that incandescent something that made Marilyn a star. She was wearing a gold sheath, plunging in front and back, that was so form-fitting that she could not sit down. But she chatted with me leaning against a board which was slanted about 30 degrees.

"How do you feel about all your imitators?" I asked.

"I am flattered that they look up to me enough to copy me," was her reply. "When you are young, you always try to copy someone you admire. I remember cutting out a picture of Jean Harlow and wanting my hair to be the same shade as hers. And now it is, and I've kept it this way because I feel blond—blond all over."

"Harlow was the first with 'white' hair," I said, "but you are responsible for a lot of other firsts."

"I was thinking about that the other day," she smiled. "Fashion has come around to the things I like. When dark lipsticks were all the fashion, I had a terrible time finding a soft pink. I used to have to wear one made for teen-agers called 'Sub-Deb.' Now practically all shades are light. When powder was dark and everyone was trying to get sun-tanned, I kept my skin pale. Last season, in New York, most of the girls were wearing off-white make-up."

The first time I met Marilyn we were going to the same gym, and she was a firm believer in exercise and massage to keep the body in tone. I asked her if she ever had a weight problem and if she still exercised to keep fit.

"Each time I have become overweight was when I was pregnant," Marilyn explained. "But now I know that my weakness is water retention and that I have to be careful not to use too much salt. But my doctor gives me pills that I find to be very helpful. And I still exercise—in answer to your question.

"When I'm at home, I have healthful meals served," she went on. "And if I'm not careful, I would go all out for Italian foods with rich sauces."

I asked, "Do you think sex appeal can be developed?"

After a thoughtful pause, she said, "I think if you really like men, they will feel it and like you. This is more important than being glamorous. I think that is why there are some beautiful girls who aren't popular, and why some plain ones have lots of beaux."

I asked Marilyn for a glamour secret. "I think the most important thing is to keep you skin so nice that you don't have to wear make-up," she said.

"I have a routine which I have been following for years. There is a special soap, oil, lotions and cream—all made by a doctor that I know in New York. His formulas agree with my skin and so I have no desire to change. Sometimes you have to try a number of things before you hit on one that does the most for you. Then I think you should stay with it."

In parting I told Marilyn that she seemed happier and more reposed than she had been since I'd known her.

"I am more mature and I'm developing a better sense of values. I know I have a long way to go yet, but I am less indecisive and more systematic," she concluded.

Italian, Island Objects To Be Shown During Two Fortnights

Many of the ancient and unusual arts and crafts of Italy and the islands of Sicily and Sardinia—never seen before in the United States—will be transported to Dallas for presented in the Neiman-Marcus Gift Galleries during the Italian Fortnights, Oct. 15 - Nov. 12.

Also to be featured in the galleries during the month-long exposition will be colorful decorations of ceramic tile by Bruno Capacci, Biblical wall plaques by Zaccagini, an enormous blue enameled rooster by de Poli of Padua, contemporary sculptures by Ugo Lucerni and glass exhibitions from the leading makers of Venice.

The Fortnights will be the largest and longest presentation in the history of the Neiman-Marcus Co. The month-long event will feature exhibitions, cultural manifestations and celebrities from Italy.

A collection of unusual figurines of rust colored mother-of-pearl shells from the island of Sardinia will be exhibited for the first time in the United States during the Fortnights. They are contemporary in appearance and range in height from a few inches to 10 inches. Also to be exhibited along with the figurines will be bowls formed from pieces of the lustrous rust colored pearl shells as well as the shells themselves.

Highly styled figurines representing the peasants of Sardinia have been fashioned from natural burlap by Maria Lai, a native of the island. They have grace and motion and yet are of great simplicity—a factor which is reflected through most of the Sardinian arts and crafts.

A collection of ceramics from Sardinia features miniature water jugs and flower vases which are authentic reproductions of the water carriers used today on the island.

Perhaps the chief craft of Sardinia is that of weaving. The island is very poor agriculturally, and the raising of sheep is one of the main forms of agricultural endeavor. In the central and northern mountain regions, the weaving industry on old simple looms made from tree trunks is carried on today just as it was centuries ago. The galleries will feature many examples of this work executed in rugs of linen and wool, which can be used as tapestries as well as rugs.

The baskets of Sardinia will play a very prominent role in the Fortnights with hundreds of varying shapes, styles and sizes to be featured in the galleries.

One of the most famous and well known of Venetian objects is the mooring post found on canals in front of the palazzos and villas. The posts for centuries have been gaily painted in the colors of the individual families and can be compared with jockeys in horse races who wear silks in the color of their respective stables. Neiman-Marcus has taken the colors and shapes of the mooring posts and adapted them into a range of pepper mills of various heights. In addition to being an exciting souvenir of the Fortnights, they are also decorative and useful.

Rugmaker Is Artist With Warp And Woof

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A wall-to-wall carpet can give a static look to a room, a point the home decorator should not overlook, says rug designer-weaver Bittan Valberg.

"We should think of the floor as a fifth wall, an area to be decorated attractively, not just another area to cover up," she explains.

Bittan agrees bad floors need complete covering, but floors in good condition and handsome floors should be polished and accented with a beautiful rug.

"Why not make the floor dramatic? Put the colors you love in your rug, then lift the colors you particularly like and use them in completing the color scheme in the room. It is best to purchase a rug before you buy other furnishings for a room," she advises.

Bittan concentrates on abstract patterns in rug designs. She likes to choose patterns and colors from nature. They fit into any room scheme, she says.

"I made a small water color swatch of shells and pebble hues because they looked so harmonious in a color sense and that evening the same colors came to life in the sky. Nature's colors are always happy combinations, pleasing to the eye, and in harmony in the home, a good idea to keep in mind when puzzled "about color schemes," she says.

Once she designed a rug after observing New York at night from an airplane. Blues, and the brightness of red and yellow, representing neon lights were prominent in the rug.

"I try to achieve a movement of colors without any actual pattern. I did a circus tent in a sharp red and orange design, and a rug I call earth strata in tones of blues produced some unusual effects," she says.

When the rug has an abstract pattern it can be a subdued drama that fits in with everything in the room, and does not have the hard clash that a definite pattern might create, she says.

Even if one must use a plain wall-to-wall floor covering, area rugs may be used to bring color to the floor. In Sweden, where she began her career, wall-to-wall carpeting is virtually unknown, she says, and the area rug is thought of as a work of art, like a painting on the wall. She designs one-of-a-kind rugs as well as those that are industrially produced.

Bittan's rugs are on display at the National Design Center in New York, part of an American designer series of exhibitions. They have been shown at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts and shortly will move into the Atlanta Museum.

New Bobs Boyish, Buoyant

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Most hairdressers agree on one point about fall hairstyles—they'll be short, sleek and simple.

But not all agree on the origin of the styles, says Ruel, trendsetter for scores of salons across the country.

"Commentators on fashion trends, say we've returned to the '30s," he explains. "But it's the '60s, and we know it. What's more, the hair shows it."

Ruel agrees there is a similarity, but he believes the look of the '60s is more beguiling and versatile. Fashionable women of the '30s wore hair clinging to the head, flat on the crown and plastered to the cheeks, he points out.

"The 1960 bobs are boyish but buoyant, due to the soft body permanent waves and large rollers used to mold the coiffure. The nape is shaped, but is not the harsh shingle line of three decades ago, and even a half-inch of hair," he says, "has graceful upsweep in back."

You can do so many coifs with today's short hair, you won't regret losing the curls of last year, he predicts.

"In the front of the head, you can brush bangs on the bias, divide at a center part and side sweep or swoop them over the entire forehead. If the side movement is backward, the tresses may sweep sleekly over the ear or behind it."

Short tresses can go to elegant heights providing one has a good haircut, and a permanent wave that gives body is important to the scheme of the '60s hairdo, he says. He uses a method of shaping and tapering hair so that every strand of hair falls and blends into the layer below.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. D BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1960 SEC. D

Restaurants Are Big Factor In Economy

Restaurants have grown to be the nation's fourth largest industry during the past few years and the baby giant is just beginning to flex his muscles.

Eating out is fast becoming the all American pastime and the trend is producing restaurants catering to every taste from exotic foods imported from foreign lands to the lowly hot dog. Then too, there are restaurants catering to every pocketbook so every American can indulge in something other than home fare at least once a week.

64 HERE

In Big Spring there are currently 64 eating places and every year brings in several more. In the city can be found the trend toward specialty dishes such as Italian, Mexican and Chinese foods.

The restaurant business in Big Spring holds down a fair share of the labor force. In fact, just a fraction over 4 per cent of the labor force here is employed in the eating business. Of the 11,000 working force in Big Spring, 457 are employed in cafes, restaurants and other eating establishments. They work as the waitress, the dishwasher, the chef, the short order cook and in many other phases of the restaurant business.

Six restaurants in Big Spring carry 20 persons or more on the payroll and one restaurant has 30 persons. At the other end of the scale, there are four restaurants which have only one employe. The bulk of the restaurants have from five to 10 persons on the staff.

PROBLEM

The major problem for people in the restaurant business here, as it is elsewhere, is the rapid turnover of personnel. This keeps a constant training program in progress.

Taken together, the 64 restaurants would add up to a pretty healthy investment, with the larger restaurants having over $100,000 invested in the business. An estimate would place the total investments in the six largest restaurants at something like $780,000. Of course, some of the restaurant managers have only a few hundred dollars invested in stock. Probably the majority of restaurants have something like $50,000 invested.

Business isn't one way with the restaurants. Even though they take in a good share of the money, it is put back into circulation through the payment of utilities, new fixtures, services, and payrolls.

BIG PAYROLL

The payroll for the restaurants here should total in the vicinity of $11,600 a week. The individual payroll runs from $1,200 or slightly more in the bigger restaurants to probably as low as $40 in smaller ones.

The future of restaurants will probably bring many diverse innovations and of course, automation is invading the field too. But whatever comes, the American people, and Big Springers too will continue to eat out at least once a week. It's hard to break the eating habit.

Horns To Be Used For Celebration

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The American Lutheran Church, formed recently by a three-way Lutheran merger, is using 5,000 ram's horns in celebrating its first year of existence.

The ancient Hebrew instruments, called shofars, were distrubuted to the new church's congregations for sounding on various special occasions during the denomination's beginning "Year of Jubilee."

TRA

Restaurants Use Training Program

The restaurant training program of the Texas Restaurant Association, although consummated in its present form in 1956, has been a process of growth and development since the late 30's. Sporadic training programs by individual operators were first instituted; this was followed by establishment of a four-year course in restaurant management at the University of Texas, and then by a food sanitation program which has been in operation for some 15 years.

In 1953 TRA retained the full-time services of a management consultant to study the problems of the industry and to assist in planning a long-range educational program to meet the needs and to better serve the consumer public. This was the actual beginning of the present-day training program.

FOR INDUSTRY, PUBLIC

As a result of study, research, and experiment, and both state and national response to management institutes, conferences, seminars, and weekly management letters, the conclusion was reached that the educational program of TRA was meeting a need of both the industry and consuming public.

Fortunately, Texas has an adult distributive education program started by legislative action in 1937. It is a training program designed to increase the efficiency, earning power, and business competency of employed business men and women engaged in retail, wholesale and service-selling occupants which include the restaurant industry. The program is supported by funds from state and federal appropriations and from local school funds. Ten state institutions have full-time programs in training workers in the field of distributive education and traveling staffs from the extension departments of two universities conduct courses in individual communities.

STATE EDUCATION AIDS

The Adult Distributive Education Program of the Texas State Department of Education then was the agency selected by TRA for the expansion of its educational program hitherto conducted exclusively by the association. A plan for a restaurant training program was enthusiastically endorsed by TRA's board of directors and its 18 different local chapters and became an actuality in the fall of 1956.

The program operates in the larger cities through TRA's local chapters in cooperation with adult distributive education programs. In the smaller cities "traveling" instructors carry this training into the communities. It has three objectives: (1) offer management and supervisors an opportunity for training in the "art of handling people," (2) provide for orientation training of new service personnel at the very beginning of their work, and (3) raise the prestige level of all who work in the food service industry.

TWO PHASES

The restaurant training program has two phases: the management and supervisory program and the orientation program in food service and selling. The first of these consists of five different courses of 12 hours each: "Human Relations," "Principles of Management," "How to Train an Employe," "How to Supervise Employes," and "Job Analysis."

At the completion of these courses a Master Diploma in Restaurant Supervision is awarded. In the food orientation course, new, inexperienced food service personnel are sent to take a ten to twelve hour orientation course in food service and selling. Each participating employer is given a plaque.

The program has been expanded further to include a very important phase, "Hostess Training"—oft times referred to as "Waitress Training." In connection with this part of the program TRA hopes in time that the term "hostess" will supplant that of "waitress."

LOOK TO YOUTH

The restaurant training program has been in operation since October, 1956, and to date, 4,661 restaurant operators, managers, and key supervisory personnel have participated in 246 training courses.

Plans are now under way to interest and attract more and more top caliber young people into the food service industry. Vocational training programs are being designed for students at the high school level. Practical texts and manuals on the restaurant industry are being developed as instructional guidelines for setting up and teaching restaurant management courses by interested junior and senior colleges and universities in the state.

Supplementing the distributive education phase of the program, TRA has conducted five top management seminars in which over 700 top leaders in the restaurant industry of Texas participated.

Met Will Skip Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera Association will not appear in Dallas this season, Rudolf Bing, its general manager, told the Dallas Grand Opera Association.

Bing expressed regret and said that transportation problems made it impossible for the association to present operas in Dallas this year.

Arthur L. Kramer Jr., president of the Dallas organization, said plans are being made to have the Met appear in Dallas in 1962.

A Devotional For Today

Philip went down to the city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them. (Acts 8:5.)

PRAYER: O Lord, our God, how great Thou art! Thou hast given us talents to be used to Thine honor and glory, yet we so often fail to use them. Forgive us, Father, for our carelessness. Help us to surrender our all in Thy service this day and always. In Christ's name. Amen.

Machinery Needs Cranking Up

Recently at the state convention of Texas county judges and commissioners, the county judge at Amarillo reported on that community's juvenile situation.

To be sure, it has a juvenile problem, but while the rate of juvenile cases has been going up at other points in the state, it has shown a decline at Amarillo. Why? The official had a ready answer for that—the effective functioning of a juvenile program under a juvenile board.

In our juvenile board, we have here the mechanics for such a program, but we are now at the point where we need to put the machinery into operation.

It is generally acknowledged that with the beginning of the new year, the time for broadening of the program here will be here.

A key to the situation is the selection of a specially trained individual to serve as the juvenile officer. Under the qualifications established by most successful boards, this position is for a trained sociologist—a case worker, if you please. The idea is not the catching of juvenile offenders alone, but rather a program of study, visitation and counsel designed to get at the causes of the dereliction. In this atmosphere, there is a chance for real remedial work. Constructive help replaces or goes beyond fear and threat of punishment.

It is a complex task and requires someone with a background. Finding such a person may not be easy, thus we hope that the board will be busy about it.

Invest A Few Minutes In This

Statistics may not mean much unless they become personal. For instance, to say that a fire breaks out every 37 seconds somewhere in the United States is interesting but not particularly alarming—unless the fire happens to be your home or business. Every 46 minutes someone will die as the result of a fire somewhere in this country, but unless it is someone we happen to know, we can shrug it off.

But you can't escape the fact that fires are a constant threat to security of property and life, and that every time there is a fire it produces a loss.

If you do not carry insurance, then you bear the loss of a fire alone. The savings and labors of a lifetime can go up in a twinkling in smoke.

If you do carry insurance, the loss is spread, and it becomes the common loss of all policy holders in the community. When losses get out of hand, rates go up. The plain, unvarnished fact is that those who pay for premiums pay for the losses, for insurance companies are not institutions of charity.

Hence, fire prevention makes good sense. It can and does pay dividends; it can and does save lives. So won't you take just a few minutes to check around your place this week—see if you have the correct fuses in your fuse boxes; look over your extension cords and make sure they aren't overloaded; get your circuits checked if lights on TV dim when appliances come on; get rid of trash in the basement, attic or closets; have an honest look at the smoking habits in your home.

Emotional And Economic Issues

WASHINGTON — Lots of people are writing in to this correspondent asking about the outcome of the election. In nine out of the last eleven presidential elections, the prediction made in these dispatches in the last week before election day has turned out to be right.

What has been the formula used in making the pre-election analysis each time? It disregards altogether personalities and personal preferences. It takes into account popularity of a candidate only if he becomes the symbol of an issue that is fundamental. It relies solely on the public reaction to basic issues.

THERE ARE ONLY two basic categories of issues in every presidential campaign. One is emotional, and the other is economic.

The emotional issues include the question of whether the nation is likely to go into war or be kept out of it, whether there is corruption in government, or whether there is some other factor that sharply violates tradition.

The economic issues relate to the pocketbook of the voter—whether times are good or bad, whether unemployment is widespread, whether the cost of living is high, or whether a recession or depression is present or in prospect.

THE TENDENCY of the voters is to cast their ballots, irrespective of party affiliation, against the party in power if times are bad or, on an emotional issue, in favor of the party likely to maintain peace. Thus, when an administration can boast of "peace and prosperity" and the people feel that these are valid claims, then the party in power will be upheld at the polls.

How will these factors apply in 1960? On the emotional side—the peace issue—the argument for upholding the party in power at present favors the Republicans. The protest vote on the economic side favors the Democrats, since there is considerable unemployment. The question is where these areas are, how populous they are, and what sections will shift their votes from one party to the other because of "bad times."

THE HISTORY of the last eleven presidential contests bears out the formula. In 1916 the Eastern states were in an economic depression due to the disruption of world trade during World War I. But the Western and Southern states were riding high, with wheat, for instance, selling at a record price. Woodrow Wilson, as the candidate of the party in power, won by a narrow margin.

In 1920 the vote against the party in power was overwhelming, though James M. Cox, Democrat, was the better candidate, the more effective speaker, the better campaigner, while Warren Harding sat on his front porch at Marion, Ohio, made few speeches and was a colorless candidate. The people voted, in effect, to repudiate our entry into the war under the Wilson administration and to protest the high prices that resulted in the immediate postwar period.

IN 1924 Calvin Coolidge, Republican, rode the wave of prosperity and was helped by a split in Democratic party votes, as Robert M. La Follette headed a third-party ticket. John W. Davis, Democrat had the best personality and was the ablest of the three nominees.

In 1928 "prosperity" and "two cars in every garage" gave Herbert Hoover, Republican, his victory by a landslide against Al Smith.

In 1932 the country was in the midst of a deep depression, with more than 12,000,000 unemployed. The vote was against Hoover and not necessarily pro-Roosevelt, as the New York governor was not too widely known at that time.

IN 1936 the moves toward economic recovery made by FDR gave him popular support. He easily defeated Landon on economic issues.

In 1940 the election was closer. This correspondent erred in appraising the emotional issue. He believed that the anti-third-term tradition would be stronger with the people than any other issue, but it turned out that the people felt it was important to maintain continuity of administration since the European war had taken a decisive turn for the worse as Hitler invaded France and bombed Britain.

IN 1944 the emotional issue involved in continuing the administration in power in the midst of war was so strong it gave FDR his fourth consecutive victory.

In 1948 the Midwest and West were prosperous, particularly the farm areas, and Harry Truman benefited. This writer in 1947 and through the summer of 1948 thought Truman was a sure winner but in the autumn miscued on the appraisal of the economic situation. The protest against the cost of living turned out to be not as serious for the Democrats in the urban centers as he had believed.

IN 1952 the people voted against the Truman administration on the emotional issue involved in the Korean War, and they took seriously the charges of Communism and corruption in government. Economic issues were secondary.

In 1956 the people voted to continue the Eisenhower administration in power not only because of the highly delicate international situation, especially since the Suez crisis was on, but because the economic situation was satisfactory.

It is too early to say whether the emotional or the economic issue will be more powerful this time. Much depends on what is brought out by the speakers on the issues during the last two weeks of the campaign.

Several Views On Today's Economic Position

WASHINGTON — Not yet, but surely by January or February, an old gag will be dusted off:

A readjustment is when your neighbor gets temporarily laid off. A recession is when your brother-in-law tells you he's out of work. A depression is when you, yourself, are separated from a regular pay envelope.

Official Washington these days divides into three economic parts:

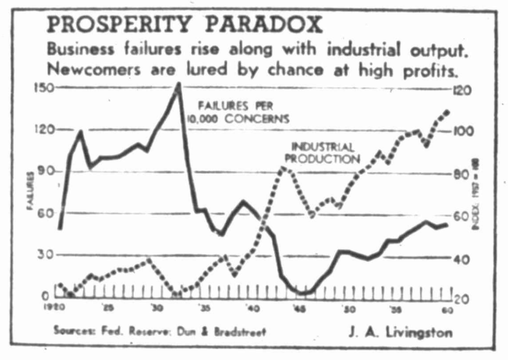

OPTIMISTIC: The leaders of this school are Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, who told world bankers that "the outlook for economic activity in this country is favorable, both for the near future and for many years ahead," and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, who has consistently emphasized the positive, the number of employed rather than the number of unemployed.

Enigmatic: These below-top-level administrators and economists will cite the plusses and the minuses and note that pusses get harder to come by. Beyond that, they don't and can't go—officially.

DEMOCRATIC: Economists associated with Democratically-controlled Congressional Committees or on Sen. John F. Kennedy's staff are already saying: "The Republicans have done it again." Kennedy's braintrusters are studying ways, means, and plans to pep up the economy after January 20. To them, this fall's economic oomphlessness suggests worse to come.

The real question today for the Presidential candidates, for investors, for business men and householders is not whether this is a recession, as George Shea of the Wall Street Journal concludes, or a "rolling readjustment- the worst since 1946," as Charles H. Kellstadt, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., describes it, but whether industrial activity is heading for a spill.

"Pessimism," wrote Arnold Bennett, "when you get used to it, is just as agreeable as optimism." Yet, it's hard to find facts such as these agreeable:

1. EXPENDITURES by business men for plant and equipment are tending downward—not much, but a little.

2. Inventories are still very high at $93,100,000,000: they're only $300,000,000 from the all-time high in June. Business men are carrying a 1½-month supply on hand, relative to sales. This is the highest level this year, though somewhat below the 1.7-month level of early 1958, when industrial activity was nearing its recession low.

3. Instalment debt is at an all-time high, and new loans exceed repayments—a disconcerting phenomenon. Householders continue to increase debt; yet retail sales barely hold above a year ago.

4. FINALLY, unemployment is certain to increase sharply this winter, as outdoor work is cut back. Don't be surprised if in January and February unemployment exceeds five million persons. We had more than five million jobless in 1958 and today, with a larger labor force, we're likely to get up there again. Hence, a paramount imponderable:

How will you and I—consumers—react? We've already given some hint. For five straight months, sales of E and H bonds have run above last year, and cash-ins have been below. However, redemptions still exceed sales. Our total saving including time deposits in banks, life insurance, mortgage reductions, etc., have risen to 7.1 per cent of disposable income, from 6.6 per cent in the third quarter of last year. These are inexact statistics, but they do seem to indicate a trend toward prudence.

IS THIS HIKE in savings fear? Or is it purchasing fatigue? Householders go on spending sprees. They get that new washing machine or dryer or paint job. Then they rest. They buy a new car, and wait to replenish their savings accounts or to pay off their instalment debt. To me, this is one of those periods—rather than a panicky retreat from retailers.

People have run out of things they can't do without. They're not new-home crazy, or TV-set crazy, or automobile crazy. They're stocked up. Perhaps, the new compacts will start a consumer explosion. We can't tell yet. If so, the auto industry might turn out to be the big surprise.

WHAT, THEN, can shore business up—keep it from spilling into a recession or worse? Federal spending.

Defense outlays are increasing. The administration is using funds it said it didn't need to spur the missile and space program. Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller has accelerated the road-building program.

If President Eisenhower, in the twilight of his term, can keep the flow of personal income to consumers from turning down for another three to six months, he will counter the rise in unemployment in the winter and pave the way for a recovery in the spring. By then, people will be ready for another buying splurge.

False Fears About Threatened Miscarriage

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

I can't really estimate how widespread the interest may be in today's topic, but I am sure that when the problem occurs, it can cause severe worry.

The letter itself is rather long so I'll condense it: A young woman in her third month of pregnancy began spotting, then bleeding heavily.

She was away from home but was referred to a doctor (whom she liked) and was ordered to stay off her feet as much as possible. She had some medication, too, including hormones.

The bleeding stopped, she went home and she is assured that everything is going along excellently. Yet she and her family are worried, and her mother sums it up as follows: "We are aware that Mother Nature throws off misfits. Inasmuch as she didn't actually miscarry, does this fall under miscarriage or would this be considered a normal pregnancy? What happened to the fetus while its development was stopped? Or did it stop.

"If the chances of this child being born normal are small, why didn't the doctor allow Nature to take its course and let the miscarriage take place?"

I can see how these questions can come to mind, but at the same time I have to say that most of the arguments are not well founded in fact.

True, Nature does try to eliminate misfits, but a defect in the fetus is not the only thing that can cause a miscarriage, or a threat of it.

This is a case of a threatened miscarriage; it is NOT a miscarriage.

Proper treatment prevented a miscarriage. Had the fetus been severely deformed, or had it died, then we would expect that Nature would have completed the miscarriage.

The important fact is that this did NOT happen.

A threatened miscarriage—while obviously we would much prefer that it did not arise—is no indication that the baby is likely to be abnormal. Remember, abnormalities occur even in what appear to be the most normal pregnancies.

The doctor's responsibility is to protect both mother and baby to the best of his ability. He would be assuming unwarranted responsibility if he were to permit the miscarriage to occur purely on the remote possibility that there might be a defect in the fetus.

No, the worry in this case is largely a matter of letting "might-be's" overwhelm the solid facts that most babies, under such circumstances, prove to be healthy babies—and useful people when they grow up.

The development did not stop because of the threatened miscarriage. Had it stopped, miscarriage would have occurred.

Incidentally, I should like to hear from these people, a few months from now, after the baby is born!

"Dear Sir: Is it advisable to drink water before, during or after meals? I have heard different opinions.—L. E. H."

I don't think it matters, so long as you get adequate fluid. The only word of caution is this: drinking water with meals is all right—just so long as you don't "wash the food down with it," without adequate chewing.

"Dear Dr. Molner: When I inject my insulin, before I have a chance to take the needle out, the insulin comes out from my skin. What can I do about this?—E. K."

Pull the skin a bit to one side before inserting the needle. Right afterward, let the skin slide back, so as to seal the point at which the insulin has been injected. Try to inject the insulin more slowly.

October—Serene And Golden Month

I like October.

Man's calendar says that autumn arrives in September, but Nature arranges the arrival in her own good time, and she makes her most auspicious appearance—in colorful array—in October.

There's a sense of serenity in October. Dusk, coming earlier, seems to fall more quickly and a bit more quietly. The hues of sunset are not as riotous as in summer, but they spread a rainbow of tranquility.

AND THE SUN, arriving later in the morning, also approaches more kindly. Its light is more benign, loaded with gold, as if it were willing to relax after months of fierce activity.

The blue of the skies, less harsh than summer, have a wonderful aura of depth. October is the golden month, when a haze in the sky is like a veil that adds a beckoning mystery to the beauty of a woman's face.

AND, IN OCTOBER nights, the stars have taken on a warmer hue. They twinkle as if in anticipation of a frosty night to come.

October nights bring sounds to stir the heart. Sounds of great clarity. In this country, the hum of a cotton gin, singing the song of the local harvest. The far-off buzz of a diesel train. And, in the early evening, the shouts of boys at play.

THEY'RE PLAYING football, and October brings this American sport, this outlet of vital youth, this expression of fun and sportsmanship and strength and exuberance. Oh, October is a time for good fun. They play of summer has palled, the sports of winter are yet ahead.

And if October has her own sounds, she has her own scents. Chrysanthemums are bursting into flower, the last roses of the season are giving forth their perfume; other blossoms are putting forth the last surge of this year's existence.

ALL NATURE, actually, is in this final effort, as if to show full strength before lapsing into a winter's repose. The green of grass and shrub and tree is never deeper. The color of blossoms is never fuller. All Nature seems to shout, "Here, look, I'm in my full glory."

And the fruit of the harvest comes in October, to. The round, fat pumpkin, the red and golden apples. The full ear of corn. And the last rich pick of fruits and vegetables in variety.

AND THESE MEAN that October has other distinctive odors, too. They come from old-time homey kitchens, where there is spice of canning and preserving and pre-holiday baking. These are the smells of autumn, and of October.

Ah, sleeping is good in October, too. The morning brings a fresh briskness that prompts snuggling for a few more minutes under a freshly-retrieved blanket. The air through the window is so alive as to make the summer's artificial atmosphere seem dead.

OCTOBER'S NOT a pert and piquant month. It's not gay, like May and April. It's not party-loving, like November and December.

October has the contentment and the serenity of well-earned, milder pleasures. Perhaps like a lovely lady who no longer carries the fresh bloom of youth, but instead is warm and lovable in the richer beauty of maturity.

I like October.

Strength And Persistence In Prayer

On March 12, 1960, a woman who for many years had been a member of my church, the Marble Collegiate Church of New York, sat down and wrote me an extremely interesting letter.

"I remember so well now when it was that I first began to pray really. For a long time, as convincing as your sermons seemed to be, I just couldn't believe that anything like an answered prayer could ever happen to me . . ."

Marvelous things could happen for other people, apparently—but not for her. How many times have we encountered the same strange assumption!

"THEN ONE Sunday," her letter continues, "a reference was made to a great big prayer in which Mrs. Peale had a part. Right then and there I commenced to ask myself if there could be any reason why God would hear a prayer for Mrs. Peale and He wouldn't hear one for me.

"To my surprise there was a direct answer, and I only had to wait three days for it."

Now a person often has to wait much longer than three days and pray and pray and keep on praying before an answer comes. In letting this woman receive an answer so speedily perhaps the Lord wanted to startle her into further thinking. At any rate she drew a very sensible inference:

"IT WAS EVIDENT that I needed to learn more about prayer. So I took advantage of a series o ftalks on prayer which were being given at that time.

"I think," she concludes, "that my faith in prayer has developed rather slowly under crisis, and I still don't know too much about it, but I am sure of it now."

IT IS possible to go through the motions and formalities of prayer every day in the year without ever really getting your mind and heart lifted up into the kind of condition that brings real help and guidance. An old man whom I met one time stated it well in his picturesque language. He said the trouble with most prayers is, "They're so thin they ain't got no suction to 'em."

I think most of us can learn much, to our enormous benefit, from the great text beginning, "Ask, and it shall be given you." It continues: "Seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." If you study these words, you will observe that they call upon us to show initiative, desire and force if we want God's help; to put forth energy and to be persistent.

WHEN YOU WANT something or have a problem to solve, do you actively seek the ways and means? Do you earnestly look for the solution? Or do you just vaguely hope it will somehow come to you?

Do you systematically knock on all doors you know of that might logically take you closer to an answer—or just knock at one or two and let it go at that? Do you knock boldly, resolutely; or so timidly with such zephyr touch you could expect barely to be heard?

And do you ask with the faith and the expectancy that make it possible for help to come through to you? Do you watch for your answer? Do you listen? Do you believe you will get it?

Be bigger, stronger, more persistent in your praying. Try really asking.

Lyndon The Life Of The Party

WITH JOHNSON IN NEW JERSEY—It couldn't happen except in politics—that the tail will sometimes wag the rest of the dog. Something of the sort may have happened in 1900 when the strenuous Theodore Roosevelt was rough-riding the campaign circuits, while William McKinley stuck to the front porch. This year it could very well happen if Senator Lyndon Johnson can get in front of enough people. As Democratic candidate for vice president, the tall Texan does things to the ticket that Presidential Candidate Jack Kennedy can't do. Johnson agitates and galvanizes, he evangelizes, satirizes, rationalizes, narrates, orates, jollifies the audience and defies the opposition.

KENNEDY HAS NO such repertoire. He rarely, if ever, tells jokes, and he hasn't smiled enough lately to show the famous family rows of teeth. Johnson not only cracks jokes but enacts them. He pauses, takes off his horn-rimmed glasses and roars with the crowd when he hits the punch line. Kennedy's seriousness toward the Republicans is apt to be a form of frowning petulance or scowling disapproval. Johnson strips the dignity from the Republican leaders like the autumn wind whipping dry leaves from a bough.

NIXON, IN A Johnson speech, is "that champion high school debater, as recently seen on television." Lodge has been getting experience in the U.N. "ever since Jack Kennedy beat him for Senator in his own State." Rockefeller is the man who came to Washington in the Eisenhower administration "and worked for Mrs. Hobby".

This sort of wicked merriment is murder to the Republicans. It enlivens the Democratic campaign as nothing else does. But Johnson is just as strong with innocent merriment. He turned an open-air meeting of 2,500 male and coed Fairleigh Dickinson University students into a riot of fun with his sallies. To a midday gathering of 800 hard-driving, machine-type Democrats in a lurid night club off the Turnpike, he told the anecdote of old Boise Penrose, a rakish bachelor who was warned that he'd better get married before the next election: "Very well, boys. Whom has the Organization picked?"

AT A FORMAL luncheon of 1,200 in the banquet hall of the Hotel Essex House in Newark, Johnson told about an old Texan who was ordered to give up drink to cure his deafness: "But I like what I drink more'n what I hear," objected the patient—and "I expect you'll feel that way about me," added Johnson.

Governor Robert Meyner, who introduced Johnson all day in New Jersey and who is married to a cousin of another jokester, Adlai Stevenson, began to hail the Senator as a latter day Will Rogers. In fact, the jokes, with a combination of the homespun and of political purpose, did have a touch of vaudeville—and a very happy touch.

JOHNSON'S theatrics are not all comedy—but they never make the full run of the scale to tragedy. Lincoln used to say he told jokes to keep from crying about the ills of his country and the sadness of life. Johnson gets hammy and corny when he abandons pure fun, but the ham and corn are high-grade political eating. It takes Johnson about 10 minutes to carry a breathless audience on his trip from Austin to Boston, and on Jack Kennedy's reverse trip from Massachusetts to Texas. When Johnson is greeted in Boston—the grandson of one Baptist preacher and one Confederate soldier—he thinks that "maybe we've got over the hates and divisions of the 1860's." And when Kennedy reaches Dallas—the Catholic grandson of a poor Irish immigrant—Johnson thinks that "maybe we've matured (though that's a word I don't like to use these days) from the bigotry that defeated Al Smith in 1928."

AND THEN there is the real tear-jerker when Johnson refers to the late Mr. Jim Wiley (Texas) and the late Mr. Jos. Kennedy, Jr., (Mass.), who went down in a flaming World War II bomber—"and nobody asked either man what his religion was!"

Ham, corn, fun and foolishness—but Johnson is the liveliest thing that's happening on both national tickets.

ASSOCIATION SEEKS TO IMPROVE INDUSTRY STANDARDS

Since it was chartered in 1937, the Texas Restaurant Association has been a leader in improving the standards of the industry.

From a handful at the beginning, the membership today has grown to 2,300. The scope of service of the association has paralleled the growth of its numbers. Through W. Price Jr., executive vice president, members pool their ideas and suggestions which make for better customer service and more efficient operations.

Standing committees seek to cement stronger relationships of Texas restaurant operators, to plan the association's annual education show, broaden the association's insurance program, and to cooperate with the National Restaurant Association. The State association has won the NRA Silver Service award for outstanding service.

The Texas unit owns its own building in Austin, from whence the affairs of the association are directed.

Modern Restaurants Have Long History Of Tradition

The restaurant, from the smallest to the largest and swankiest, has become as familiar to the American scene as baseball and rock and roll music. Americans enjoy "eating out" more than any other people in the world. As a result, the restaurant industry now has become the nation's fourth largest.

But few persons stop to realize the centuries of tradition and art that are wrapped up in the restaurant of today.

The history of public eating service is probably as ancient as the Old and New Testaments, which frequently refer to inns. The very word restaurant has its origin in a Latin root word, "restaurare," which means "to restore." In the 16th Century this Latin root word was applied to a spicy broth and called a "restorative beverage." Later it was applied to other "restorative" foods, especially gravy, soups, bouillons, and similar preparations.

EARLY 'SPECIAL'

The honor for creating the first "businessmen's lunch" apparently belongs to a chap named Segius Locates, a Roman inkeeper in 40 B.C. He devised the feature for ship brokers who were too busy to go home.

Some authorities claim that the "medieval" history of the restaurant industry began during the French revolution, in 1789, when hiding aristocrats were fed in secret by their servants. These rendezvous became known to other aristocrats who were willing to pay a small charge for well-cooked meals.

In ancient times, there were places for public eating roughly similar to our restaurants. They usually offered sleeping accommodations.

LONDON INN START

Inns, hotels and monasteries of Europe served this function up to the 18th Century and today's restaurant is really an outgrowth of these. Its development as a separate institution came later.

One of the earliest restaurants was the Tabard Inn in London, where, in the 14th Century, Chaucer's Canterbury pilgrims used to gather prior to their journeys to the shrine of St. Thomas a Becket, to dine and revel. They also held dinners there after they returned, at which time the best teller of stories during the pilgrimage was rewarded with a free meal and feted. This was the idea of the inn host, Harry Bailey, who went along on the trips to judge the best tales.

In England, commoners had patronized eating places called "ordinary" as far back as 1577. These were taverns which served only at specified mealtimes — usually between 1 and 4 o'clock—at a long, common table and at a fixed price.

FIRST WAITRESSES

A noted ordinary frequented by literary figures in the 17th Century was the Castle Ordinary. It burned down in 1666 and was rebuilt as Dolly's Chop House. The latter gained renown when "Dolly" introduced pretty serving maids instead of waiters. Dolly's Chop House was famed for choice beefsteaks and ales. Fielding, Defoe, Swift, Dryden, Pope, Gainsborough and Handel were steady customers of this Chop House.

When coffee was introduced to Europe, the restaurant function was taken over by coffee houses which were popular in England from the 17th Century on. In France, the "cafe" (coffee) arose. The first English coffee house was in St. Michael's Alley, Cornhill, owned by a Greek named Pasqua Rosee who was first to teach the method of roasting coffee and to introduce it in England.

PARIS RESTAURANT FIRST

The first public eating place to be designated as a restaurant was opened in Paris in 1765. It was called Le Champ d'Oiseau and its proprietor was a gentleman called Boulanger. Over the doorway was a Latin inscription: "Venite ad me omnes qui stomacho laboratis et ego restaurabo vos" — "Come to me all whose stomachs cry out in anguish and I shall restore you."

Clearly, the most important word was "restaurabo"—a word akin to the French word, "restaurant," derivative of the French verb, restaurer, which means to repair.

Boulanger's place was an innovation in Paris in that it specialized in well-prepared food rather than drink.

FOR EVERYBODY

But it was not until the beginning of the 1800's that the English borrowed the restaurant habit from their French neighbors. In England, the term "restaurant" implied a lofty establishment where the titled Englishman might entertain at a glittering supper after the theater. But by the latter part of the century, the phrase, "popular, low-priced" restaurant appeared.

The concept of the "grill room" in England was supposedly credited to the traveling Americans who didn't want to dress for dinner. Hence in the 1860's, the first grill was opened in London. It made no restrictions as to dress, offered fine atmosphere and good food.

In the United States, the earliest restaurants were patterned after their English and continental counterparts — wayside inns, coffee houses and taverns during the colonial period. Some of the better known were the Blue Anchor Tavern in Philadelphia, opened in 1683; Ye Coffee House, also in Philadelphia, 1700, and Ye Crown Coffee House of Boston, 1711.

In the 19th Century, a new wealth class arose and elaborate restaurants and dining rooms in better hotels gradually came to be. The new leisure class began to consider dining in pleasant surroundings away from home "the" thing to do and thus the era of famous caterers, restaurateurs and chefs began.

The first restaurant proper was Delmonico's which opened in lower New York in 1827. Lorenzo Delmonico, who came from Switzerland to join the confectionery business in New York, suggested to his firm that they open a restaurant to serve food in the European style. This marked the beginning of a trend toward lavish restaurants which flourished in major cities, coast to coast, until the end of the Gay '90s.

CATERING IN DISTANCE

Louis Sherry opened his first unit the year Delmonico died. The two were outstanding in the United States. He put special emphasis on extravagantly satisfying individual tastes of his patrons and was famed for elaborate catering projects. Sherry once took three railroad cars of equipment and personnel from New York to Savannah, Ga., for a single meal.

It took a revolution to bring restaurants within the financial reach of all. In this case, it was the industrial revolution which began in 1880's, sending increasing numbers of men and women into factories and offices. They had to be fed quickly and inexpensively. To meet this need, the first cafeteria was opened in New York in 1885 and was soon followed by others in Chicago and the west.

SELF-SERVICE, CARS

The overwhelming success of the self-service cafeteria idea pointed out the nationwide demand for low-cost meals. Notable in its development was the John R. Thompson Co., Chicago, which opened a small self-service establishment in that city in 1891.

The early cafeterias were designed with the needs of the working class in mind, as opposed to the first service restaurants, which catered to the wealthy.

After World War I, the increase in number of restaurants was partly due to growth in automobiles. Roadside eating places grew up. In cities eating places were developed to serve factory and business people who couldn't go home for lunch. The need to feed many people in a short time spurred development of today's modern special restaurant techniques.

DOKK Plan Flare Sale

The Dramatic Order of the Knights of Khorassan has set Oct. 22 as the date for sale of highway safety flares.

Net proceeds from this project will go to the Dokey's humanitarian fund, which supports work with cerebral palsy victims as one of its functions. Half the net proceeds are kept for local work, the remaining half going to the DOKK international organization for cooperative work.

A covered dish supper is to be held on Oct. 20 for members and their wives. Final instructions for the one-day project will be given at that time. Officials said that the minimum goal is 250 boxes of flares sold at $1 each.

The flares are similar to the railroad fuses, which may be ignited easily and which burn for about 15 minutes to warn that a car is stalled on or just off the highway.

Ex-Students Plan Homecoming Fete

A group of ex-Coahoma high school students and the student council met in the school library Monday evening to discuss and make plans for the annual school homecoming to be held on Nov. 11, with the football game between Coahoma and Wiley as the highlight.

Ray Echols, president of the Ex-Student Association presided over the meeting, with the secretary, Mrs. Val Best, reading correspondence and making notes. It was decided that this year all of the ex-football players will be honored and given special recognition, and a tea and reception for all ex-teachers will be held prior to the game in the new high school with Mrs. L. F. Anderson in charge.

A program committee with Louis Loveless as the chairman was appointed, and this group will work out all the details, which will be announced at a later date.

A dance is also being planned following the earlier activities.

TEXAS RESTAURANT ASSOCIATION

Code of Ethics

WHEREAS, we the members of the Texas Restaurant Association, stand united in our conviction that in dealing with the patronizing public there is a definite need for a restaurant where integrity means more than profit, where "Service, Quality, and Sanitation" mean more than volume; and where honesty is the true standard of sales and service.

NOW, THEREFORE, we, the members of the Texas Restaurant Association, do bind ourselves in fraternal bond with the adoption of this Code of Ethics, with each and every member, together and alone, agreeing that he will:

1. Employ honesty and integrity in the pricing and performance of all sales and service;

2. Maintain his business in accordance with the standards of "Service, Quality, and Sanitation" of the Texas Restaurant Association and in compliance with the Constitution and By-Laws of the Association;

3. Strive continually to promote education, progress, fraternity and dignity of the industry in order that the patronizing public may be better served;

4. Endeavor to expose all schemes to defraud the public and to aid in the prosecution of those responsible, including suspension or expulsion of any member of this Association found to be involved;

Twice Crowned

Forsan High Favorites Are Presented At Game

By DARLA DUNAGAN

Everyone was very pleased at the outcome of the annual Forsan Homecoming game. Forsan met Bryson, and walked away with a victory by a score of 44 to 6.

During the half-time activities, four honors were presented. Miss Buff-a-la-ett was Glenda Rutherford; Mr. Buffalo, Gerry Harkrider; Football sweetheart and Homecoming Queen, Judy Banks. Congratulations to all of them.

The World Series is raising quite a stir in the Forsan school system. Everyone seems to be more interested in who is going to win the game for that day than they are in their studies. Oh, well, this only occurs once a year.

Everyone seemed to have enjoyed the FHA district meeting, held at Big Spring High School on Oct. 8. The FHA girls always look forward to these meetings.

After the game Friday night, the FHA held a pie supper. There was a good turnout and everyone enjoyed the pie.

Tuesday the juniors had a class meeting. They discussed some money-making projects, and it was decided to have a pie supper on Oct. 14, after the football game with Grand Falls.

There will be a hayride sponsored by the FHA on Oct. 10. Everyone will meet at Mary Fields' home at 7:30 p.m. Each person may bring one guest. The FHA will furnish the drinks, but everyone is supposed to bring a sack lunch.

Thursday the high school voted on favorites. School favorites are Omega Ratliff and Gerry Harkrider. Senior favorites are Cleta Jo Newsom and Gerry Harkrider. Junior favorites are Saundra Griffeth and Steve Bell. Sophomore favorites are Carla Jo Hughes and H. K. Elrod. Freshman favorites are Dena Parker and Harry King.

Harvest Carnival Friday Looms As Gala Activity

By LYN CLAWSON

On the night of Oct. 14, Big Spring High School won't be as deserted as it usually is at night, instead it will be bustling with activity.

However, this activity will be different from the activities that usually take place there, for on that evening it will be the scene of the annual Harvest Carnival, sponsored by the Student Council. The different clubs and classes will have booths; from the profits of these booths the Student Council receives 10 per cent and the club or class keeps the rest. After the carnival a Sock Hop will be held in the gym. At the Sock Hop the Harvest Queen will be presented. There are three queen nominees, one from each class. The class collecting the most money will have their candidate crowned; however, the Council receives all of the money for the queen candidates.

The senior class has nominated Joann Phillips for queen; the junior class, Katie Bess Morgan, and the sophomore class, Nancy Moore. All classes are now collecting money for their candidates.

Those who attend the Harvest Carnival will have a wide variety of booths from which to choose. The senior class will produce the traditional Senior Side. Show in the auditorium. The junior class will hold its Cake Walk and the sophomore class will sponsor the Marriage Booth on the patio. This year the Court Jesters have come up with a new idea for a booth—A Zombie Jamboree, which will be held in the cafeteria.

In the parking lot behind the cafeteria the Vocational Industrial Club will sponsor the Car Smash; at this booth there will be an old car with the names of all teachers painted on it, and those who participate will be given a sledge hammer and will be permitted to "smash" a teacher. (well, his name, anyway). The Industrial Cooperation Training Club is to contribute a Fortune Teller to the carnival.

Chapter 1 of the Future Homemakers of America will furnish a dart board, concession, while the Key Club will supply a bingo booth.

To accompany the fun, there will be plenty of food, for the Library Club, the choir, and Chapters II and III of the Future Homemakers of America will sponsor food concessions.

Coahoma Council Names Boy And Girl Of Month

By PHYLLIS ANDERSON

Jerri Nell Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Thomas of Sand Springs, was chosen Girl of the Month by the Coahoma High School Student Council last week.

Jerri was chosen for the honor because of her scholastic ability, participation and leadership. She is active in Student Council work as well as serving on the annual staff.

A senior this year and a girl whose grades are among the highest, Jerri's favorite course is shorthand.

Jerri is president of the newly organized Library Club and has had experience with library work while working for the Howard County Library.

Jerri is a member of the Methodist Church in Coahoma.

Chosen boy of the Month was Dewayne Richters.

Dewayne is one of CHS's most outstanding athletes. This season he is playing fullback on the football team.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Richters of Rt. 1, Big Spring.

Dewayne's favorite classes are math and English. He is outstanding in all his work and always works hard at anything he does.

Homecoming Set At CHS

By PHYLLIS ANDERSON

The Science Club has been really busy this week. Members are now operating ham radios and working for their novice licenses. They will first work on Morse code; later they go into the fundamentals of radio. After they have received their novice licenses, they will then be able to use Morse code in sending messages over their radios. The club will meet on Monday nights at 7 p.m. Anyone in the community who is interested in attending these meetings is welcome.

Student Council members voted at the last meeting on entering the TASC. The most important business of the meeting was the election of the boy and girl of the month. The council elected Jerri Nell Thomas and Dewayne Richters.

Monday night the members of the SC met with the CHS exes to begin planning for the annual homecoming activities on Nov. 11. Letters will be written to all exes, and a social after the game will be planned.

The Coahoma Chapter of FHA will have its regular meeting Monday night Oct. 10. Sandra Nichols is the chairman of the program for the evening. Subject of the program is "Proper Behavior of Girls." Guest speakers are to be Mrs. Elnora Garrett and Mrs. Marie Ethridge. Glenda Heney will be acting hostess.

The junior class had a car wash Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in front of the elementary school building. The car wash was conducted to raise money for the annual junior and senior banquet.

A meeting was held after school Thursday by the Library Club. The purpose of the meeting was to appoint various committees to carry out a yearly program and also to set a regular time for meetings, suitable to all members.

The annual staff has really had a load to carry this week in selling annuals. They wish to tell everyone that the sales are going well. The conclusion of sales will be this Friday. If you haven't bought your Bulldog, see the member of the annual staff that has been assigned to your class.

Congratulations to Glen Holly in his good showing at the Howard County Stock Show. Another boy from the Coahoma chapter, Bobby Pierce, came out in high standings by obtaining top in his class.

The Lions entertained Coahoma teachers Thursday night.

Last week the Bulldogs met the Big Lake Owls at Big Lake in a real thriller. Of course, the Bulldogs won. The final score was 20-15. The students of Coahoma High are very proud of the team. The cry around CHS this week was "make it three." The contest this week was between the Bulldogs and the O'Donnell Eagles.

Choose Their Bill

The Kappa Xi Tri-Hi-Y girls discussed and selected at their last meeting the bill they will present at "Youth in Government." Selected was "Improvement of Mental Health Facilities for Children," a bill by Joyce Davidson and Carol Odom.

Rita Taylor, Edna Howard To Seek District Offices

Rita Taylor has been elected club sweetheart of the Vocational Industrial Club.

She will compete in Lamesa on Oct. 15 for the title of District Sweetheart.

Rita competed at the meeting of the club Tuesday with Nancy Green, Sharon Nuckolls and Gretchen Briden for the club honor.

Another district candidate will be Edna Howard, who was named by the club here to compete for treasurer.

The VIC club took on the project of collecting money for the United School Fund during the past week at Senior High. The school has not yet reached its goal, so everyone will be asked to give a little more if possible.

On Monday and Tuesday the VIC, continuing its service project, will again make contacts on behalf of the United School Fund which finances the school fund for needy, the Junior Red Cross, March of Dimes, Crippled Children, and the United Fund.

Pupils Pose For Colored Picture

By JUDY ENGLE

The Runnels Future Homemakers of America will sell ballpoint pens beginning Monday. The pens will be white with Runnels Junior High School engraved in red, and they will sell for 50 cents. Almost any refill will fit these pens, so students are asked to buy theirs as soon as possible.

Saturday the FHA chapter sent representatives to the district meet at the Senior High School. Elected from Runnels were Pat Tubb as a candidate for district officer; Mary Thornton, to register for Runnels; and Judy Engle as voting delegate. On the registration committee were Leta Pearl Ware, Sherry Napper, Darinda Hooper and Sue Cook. Approximately 35 girls attended from Runnels.

Thursday was observed as Color Day, for during assembly at second period, a colored picture of the entire student body and teachers was made for the yearbook. Throughout the week other pictures were made of different groups and clubs.

The choir will begin sectional rehearsals Monday. The boys will practice Mondays at 8 a.m.; the first and second sopranos on Tuesdays; and the altos on Wednesdays. The choir will practice together on Thursdays, during the activity period. About 200 members from the seventh, eighth and ninth grades are in the choir.

The freshman Tri-Hi-Y club had a sock hop Saturday night and everyone seemed to have a good time.

Remember, students, order your annuals now. They are still on sale at $3.50.

Borden Students Name Favorites

GAIL (SC)—Borden High School students named class favorites and Student council members in an election last week.

Chosen as senior favorites were Carolyn (Cookie) Cross and Steve Stevens. Junior favorites are Sandra Crow and Joe Alderdice, while the sophomores chose Gail Stone and Mike Stephens. Pam Stevens and Randall Decker are freshman favorites.

Elected to the student council were Carroll Ramsey, president; Steve Dennis, vice president; Edward Smith and Harold Steaaman, senior representatives; Linda Todd and Junior Brewer, sophomore representatives; and Pam Stephens and Randell Decker, freshman representatives.

Yearbooks Go On Sale, Journalists Plan Meet

By LYN CLAWSON

Last week the annuals went on sale. They may be bought from any annual staff member for $5. The annual staff member who sells the most books will receive $25.

Next Saturday, 37 newspaper and annual staff members will journey to Lubbock to participate in "J" Day at Texas Tech. BSHS Senior Steve Blair is president of the West Texas Press Association and will preside at the meetings. Voting delegates will be Mary Locke Crosland and Lyn Clawson. Plans are being made to run Katherine Hepner for secretary of the association for the year 1960-61.

During the pep rally Friday, Student Council members sold beanies to sophomores. The pep rally was held outside, around the flag pole. The colored picture for the annual was made at that time.

Activity cards will be passed out tomorrow during second period classes. Last week activity card chairman of the Student Council, Ronnie Hamby, and his assistants spent many hours typing names on all cards.

This week Miss Edna McGregor, former BSHS home economics teacher, was back substituting for Mrs. Frances Wheat, who was ill.

CLASS TO VOTE

On the day that the national elections are held, Mrs. Ann Quimby's government and history classes will also be voting. This election is to parallel the national election as closely as possible. Students are now paying poll taxes. It will, no doubt, prove interesting to see which of the two candidates appeals most to high school students.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday all three classes will be taking tests all day. The sophomores will take the Flanagan Aptitude Tests in the auditorium while the juniors and seniors will take the Iowa Tests of Educational Development in their classes.

Beginning tomorrow all the parking space in front of the school will be reserved for teachers and visitors. All students are asked to park in the parking lots on either side of the school. If a student's car is found parked in front of the school, it will be impounded, and it will cost him $7.50 to retrieve it. This is good news for people who occasionally must visit the school for some reason, because now they won't have to hunt for a parking place.

Next Tuesday night auditions will be held in the auditorium for acts for the senior side show at the Harvest Carnival.

SLOGAN CONTEST

For the remainder of football season the DE Club will sponsor a slogan contest. A free (student) game ticket will be awarded to the person or persons submitting the top three slogans each week. To enter the contest, write your two word slogan (or slogans) on a sheet of paper and hand it to George Rice, DE Club sponsor, or give it to any DE Club member to turn in to the judging committee. Examples of such slogans are those that have been used for previous games such as "Slaughter Sweetwater" and "Lambast Lamesa." Deadline for the Odessa game slogans is Oct. 12; for the Midland game, it is Oct. 3, and for the San Angelo and Permian games, it is Nov. 7.

Last week the French Club elected its officers. All of the officers are in French II. President is Steve Kite; vice president is Coy Mitchell; Kay Carter is secretary; Sharon Martin was elected treasurer and Jill Mason, reporter. All French I classes will elect two representatives to serve on an executive council with these officers. Mrs. Arnold Oats is sponsor of this group.

The Spanish Club also organized last week. Katherine Hepner was elected president. Gary Pickle was named vice president, and Judy Gilean, secretary. Miss Colleen Slaughter is sponsor of this group.

Next Thursday students will receive a half-day holiday, for the teachers will be participating in an in-service training program.

Queen Candidates

Big Spring High School students nominated candidates for the Harvest Carnival, which will be held Oct. 14. The queen will be crowned that night. Nominees are, front, Katie Bess Morgan, junior; left, Nancy Moore, sophomore; and Joann Phillips, senior.

Stanton's FHA Picks Candidates

By MARSHA BRISTOW

STANTON (SC) — The Future Homemakers of America Chapter made plans to attend the district meeting at Big Spring High School Saturday. Our candidate for district and area officers were Kay Bryan and Mona Epley. Carolyn Manning, our chapter president, who is also area fifth vice president, was to speak at the meeting about the national convention. She attended this meeting during the summer.

Presiding officer of the meeting was Marsha Bristow, district president.

The past week has been one filled with study because of the six-week tests. The tests will continue through Monday or Tuesday, so the results won't be known until mid-week.

The Buffs hit a snag in their streak of good luck when they encountered the Fort Stockton Panthers. However, we are proud of the game the Buffs played. Our game Friday was with the Crane Cranes.

Our junior varsity team is getting on the ball. They played the Coahoma Junior Varsity and won by a score of 38-6, earning a "well done" from coaches and fans.

Tuesday morning Mr. Bill Mills gave us an assembly program. Mr. Mills once served a term in prison and now is trying to prevent juvenile delinquency by relating his experiences. The program was interesting.

Two of our 1960 graduates have received honors at college. Joetta Franklin and Donna Swanson were in the top 10 cheerleaders in the freshman class at Hardin-Simmons University. Donna was elected cheerleader for the B team.

Our junior varsity has a game Thursday, and lots of luck is wished for them.

NBC Will Carry Emmy Through 1965

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The NBC television network will carry the annual Emmy award program through 1965.

The National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences signed a five-year contract to supersede a pact which would have expired in 1962.

BOBBY DARIN

Fame Hasn't Gone To Darin's Head

By JOHN LARSEN

"Has success gone to your head?" we asked Bobby Darin. He gave us one of those crooked smiles that girls love. One shoulder moved imperceptibly as it does when he sings. "Only girls go to my head." Then he laughed. "Nothing's changed, really. Nothing but my way of life. It's a good way of life. No more worries about paying the rent or the grocery bill. I'm traveling around the country in style. I stop at the best hotels and sing in the finest night clubs. Yes, it's a great life."

Bobby Darin, the kid from the Bronx, has made good in a great big way. His only sorrow is that his beloved mother didn't live to share his success. Bobby adored her; she was his inspiration. She died just when he was able to shower her with money, a beautiful home in the country and the security they never had when they lived in an apartment in a shabby tenement.

"It was a love-filled apartment," Bobby said. "We had security," he continued. "My mother gave me love and taught me the power of faith and prayer. There is no greater security or comfort than love, faith and prayers."

"But I'll never feel alone because I've got a wonderful family—my sister, brother-in-law and their children. I miss them when I'm away from home, but it's a good feeling to know that I can call them when I'm thousands of miles away and hear their voices."

Bobby Darin is one of the most articulate young men in the entertainment world. He can talk eloquently about everything and anything. It has been said that he is brash, cocky and conceited. Bobby has supreme confidence in himself. "My mother often told me when I was discouraged that, if I didn't believe in myself, no one else would. And so I believe, and because I do, I'm accused of having a swelled head."

Aside from being a great song stylist, Bobby is also a fine musician and composer. Music is his life.

Though he made his big splash with his recording of "Splish-Splash," he didn't make a career of rock 'n' roll. His Acto album, "Bobby Darin: That's All" sent his career zoming and put his name in star lights on the night club and cafe circuit.

Much has happened to Bobby since "Splish-Splash," the most exciting being his debut as an actor in U-I's "Come September," co-starring Rock Hudson and Sandra Dee.

Much has happened to him concerning girls. They adore him and he adores them.

He admits that he has fancied himself in love any number of times. Before he hit the jackpot, he was in love with Connie Francis, but her parents did not approve of the match. Bobby carried the torch for months. "I never want to go through that again," he said. There have been many girls since then.

Two years ago Bobby told us he planned to marry Jo Ann Campbell, a cute blonde singer, within several months. Two years have elapsed and he's still playing the field. "And liking it," he adds with that suggestion of a smile.

A DAILY HERALD FEATURE

LEADER OF WEEK

She's A Teen-Age Business Tycoon

By MICHAEL STERLING

You'll do a double-take when Penny Gellert tells you she's seventeen and a high school senior. Actually, she talks like a woman and looks intriguingly like a teenager. She wears chic suits and dresses with an air of simple elegance. She's feminine, well-groomed from head to toe, beautiful, poised and articulate.

"Now that you've gotten a taste of being a teen tycoon," we said, "how do you feel about getting back to the prosaic routine of being a high school student?"

"I never find anything prosaic," she answered. "I'm a senior at Conrad High School in West Hartford and, aside from the fact that I spent an exciting summer in Europe, I don't think what I did was unusual," she said, with becoming modesty. "Furthermore, I'm not a teen tycoon—far from it. I loved doing what I did, though."

What Penny did in Europe is an exciting teen-age saga in high finance. Penny, who hails from Hartford, Conn., spent three months in Switzerland, France, Denmark and Belgium setting up a promotion campaign for Poly Rod, a structural toy invented by her father, Don Gellert. She contacted people in these countries and sold them on the idea of packaging the product. The toy is shipped in parts and is then assembled when it reaches its destination. It was Penny's job to sell not only the toy to European markets, but to show her customer how to put it together.

There's more to Penny's achievements in the field of selling; she did a fabulous job of promoting this toy which fascinates young people from four to fourteen, "and fathers", Penny adds. One of her most important jobs was to set up Poly Rods for commercials at Hartford's TV station; this is a job that requires skill and imagination. Penny is at her best when she is called upon to create.

She made her European headquarters in the home of her aunt and uncle in Belgium. "I earned my board by weekend baby sitting," she said. When we showed surprise that she had to take on a side line to support herself, she enlightened us: "I guess I went haywire in Europe. There were so many things I wanted to see, so many things I wanted to buy, that—well, I bought them. I bought a series of 16th century Belgium prints, Dutch pewterware and centuries old Belgium cookie molds."

We got down to the subject of dates, clothes, music and other subjects of interest to teens.

"I dated some in Europe," she said, "but it wasn't the hectic kind of dating. Thanks to my relatives I was able to meet many interesting young people. They differ greatly from the young people in our country. Teens in Europe are much more adult, more serious. They love music—good music—but are by no means squares. Their idea of a good time—and mine, too—is going on hikes, taking bicycling trips and attending concerts. Going to outdoor cafes is another favorite type of date.

"The teens in Europe are more subdued; they aren't in a hurry to grow up because they are grown up. Their lives are leisurely; they take their time about living, eating, life. They take time to read and think and discuss important subjects that concern themselves and the world."

College Is A Challenge

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Going away to school is a challenge. You're leaving familiar surroundings for new places, people, pursuits.

Some students take it in their stride; others become lonely.

Here is a typical letter from a young reader who is faced with the problem of school vs. marriage:

"I am 18, and have been going steady two years. My friend's parents always liked me until they found out my mother was divorced, now they will not invite me to the house.

"Their son is an only child. He is an electronics student, aged 22. I am at college, some distance away. He wants to get married. My parents think I should finish college before I am married. What do you think?"

If you can persuade your parents that your friend is mature enough to face marriage, and his parents will accept you, that could be one answer. If you are determined to get your degree and would regret it if you didn't, you should continue with your education.

PLATTER PATTER

Connie's Newest Nudges "Twist"

By JEANNE HARRISON

Connie Francis, who makes with the words so they can be understood, has done it again. Several weeks ago, when her hit "Everybody's Somebody's Darling" began to slip, Platter Patter reported her newest record was moving up to take its place. Last week Connie's "My Heart Has a Mind of Its Own" hit the number one spot in the top 10 struggle. Chubby Checker's, "The Twist" which wrested first place from Elvis Presley the previous week, slipped to second.

The novelty western, "Mr. Custer" by Larry Verne moved up a notch to fourth place. Here's the lineup for last week's top records:

1. "My Heart Has A Mind Of Its Own," Connie Francis
2. "The Twist," Chubby Checker
3. "Mr. Custer," Larry Verne
4. "Walk, Don't Run," Ventures
5. "Chain Gang," Sam Cooke
6. "It's Now Or Never," Elvis Presley
7. "A Million To One," Jimmy Charles
8. "Kiddio," Brok Benton
9. "Volare," Bobby Rydell
10. "So Sad," Everly Brothers

Looking at the hits these days it seems as if the way to make the charts is to make a sad record or a western. "Chain Gang," "A Million to One," and "So Sad," represent the sad bit and this week's crop of releases brings on a western invasion.

Marty Robbins offers "Ballad of the Alamo," the key tune from the picture, "The Alamo." The warm rendition is backed with "A Time and A Place for Everything." Duane Eddy goes western too with "Along the Navajo Trail," paired with "Peter Gunn." The Brothers Four and Nick Perito have each recorded "The Green Leaves of Summer" from "The Alamo." Perito's is instrumental and is a beautiful rendition of the theme, while the Brothers give the song a top gun reading.

Just to be different there's a winner in the novelty set. Oliver Cool records a song entitled—believe it or not—"Oliver Cool." Oliver Cool, according to the song, is the "swingingest kid in school" and you'll want to give it a listen. The flip side is for every guy, "I Love Girls."

MAILBAG

Reason Often Works Where Argument Fails

By BESSIE LITTLE
Publisher Teen Parade

DEAR BESSIE: My father wants me to follow in his footsteps. He's an electronics engineer and quite a dictatorial man. I admire him, but don't understand his intolerance. He doesn't understand that I'm entitled to the career of my choice. I want to be a farmer and go to an agricultural college. He says he won't contribute to my education. How can I convince him that I'd make a terrible electronics engineer? BEN H.

DEAR BEN: Your problem is almost as old as mankind. All too often a father will attempt to force a career on his son. One way to approach the problem is through your guidance counselor, teacher or principal. Confide in them and have one of them talk to your father. They can point out that your talents lie in other fields and that you should be given a chance to make good in a career of your choice. You might also try an aptitude test for the satisfaction of both of you. In talking to your father, remember gentle reason may succeed where argument fails. Your father's threat may not be backed up by action. If all else fails, though, make it on your own. You can. Good luck.

* * *

DEAR BESSIE: I've been attracted to a certain boy for as long as I've known him. About three months ago he told me he thought he was in love with another girl. When he asked me what I though about it I told him it was his life and I couldn't stop him from living it the way he wanted to. This gave him the idea that I didn't like him. After that he didn't speak to me very often. Then in June he started coming up to my house to see me. His mother won't allow him to see me. We have to "sneak" to see each other. He then moved to another city and I tried to forget him and finally succeeded. I know that if I see him again I will remember all I've tried to forget, though. Last week my Mother told me teasingly that he had moved back here so he can go to school. Since then I've been nervous all the time and am at my wits end about what to do. Please help me.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: For a girl so young you have shown a good deal of good thinking. Don't stop now! First of all, you don't want to be a part of "sneaking." When you see boys, see them in the open. There's something radically wrong when he has to deceive his parents. He also appears to be fickle and immature and you've come a long way in doing without him. Why not keep it up? Maybe you are spending too much time trying to forget instead of remembering that at best your relationship wasn't too good. Interest yourself in other things and other people and face him and the facts squarely.

* * *

DEAR BESSIE: My family threatens to disown me if I marry the girl I love before I finish college. They think Betsy is railroading me into marriage. She isn't, of course. If my parents shut off my allowance and quit paying my college tuition, I'm sunk. Should I marry Betsy and defy them, or marry her after I get my degree? I'm a freshman.

HENRY G.

DEAR HENRY: It seems to me that you're not ready for the responsibilities of marriage. How would you support your wife? What kind of a future can you expect without an education? Do you have the stamina, courage and character to work your way through college? Can you be the kind of husband your wife would expect you to be during those four years while you worked and studied? It might seem like fun for a month or two, but think of the four-year grind. That's when disillusionment sets in, especially for the girl-bride. Give yourself a chance to grow up before you tackle a man's job—and marriage is a man's job.

* * *

DEAR BESSIE: I've been jilted and now I'm humiliated. I was engaged to Jim for a year and we planned to get married next year. He told me we're lucky we found out in time that we were not meant for each other. But we are. I still love him with all my heart. How can I convince him I'm the girl he needs and wants?

HEARTBROKEN

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: I go along with Jim, even though it's a one-sided deal. Wouldn't it be awful if he discovered he didn't love you after you were married? Jim was honest and forthright. I'm sure he didn't want to break your heart, but he was man enough to face you with the shattering news.

Would you have wanted him to pretend that his love hadn't cooled? Of course not. I really sympathize with you, but I cannot advise you to chase him or try to convince him that you're meant for each other. He has a mind and heart of his own. Don't go on a self-pity kick. Rediscover the fun of dating a variety of boys—until the real thing comes along—and it will.

Ron Weaks Elected President In Record HCJC Balloting

By KAY LOVELAND

A record number of ballots were cast in the SGA and class officer elections at HCJC last week, according to John Gentili, SGA sponsor. Elected president of the student organization was Ron Weaks. President Hollis is vice president and LaVerne Carter is secretary.

Representatives to the SGA from the sophomore class are Karen Baldwin, Bill Argo and Judi Shields. Freshman representatives are Gloria Coker, Jean Creighton and Ronnie Parrish.

Eugene Franklin was named president of the sophomore class, with George White serving as vice president and Judi Shields as secretary. After a spirited campaign, Charles Dunagan won election to freshman class president. Elvis Spradley is vice president of the group. Secretary has not yet been named due to a mixup in nominations.

CHEER LEADERS

New freshman cheerleaders, who will serve with sophomores Judi Shields and LaVerne Carter, are Jo Ann Durham, Marilyn Bigham and Penny Jones.

More records have been donated to the Student Union 45 rpm. collection. John Trego, a sophomore high school student and brother of Mary Jane, who attended HCJC last year, presented Mrs. Kenneth Seewald with 137 disks last week, bringing the total thus far to around 300.

A number of geology students, ex-geology students and others left Friday at noon for a camping and field trip to Big Bend National Park. The group, headed by Ken Seewald, geology teacher, went down by bus, following a route through Midland, Fort Stockton and Monahans. They planned to return late today.

POLITICS

The atmosphere of political campaigning and national elections this year has encouraged the growth of political factions on the local campus. Last week a number of students took their choices as to parties and candidates and joined either the Young Democrats or the Young Republicans clubs. Both groups are under the sponsorship of Barbara Hazlewood, government teacher. Pins backing respective candidates were distributed to other HCJC students by members of both clubs, and plans are in the offing now for a series of debates between the clubs on the merits and faults of both parties.

A Hobo Party and dance is the next social scheduled for the college. At last report, it was set for next weekend. And a Halloween Dance will probably be sponsored by Delta Psi Omega, the drama fraternity.

Initiation of three new members will be held by Phi Theta Kappa, honorary fraternity, on Friday evening, Oct. 21. The semi-formal ceremony will be held in the parlor of the SUB beginning at 6:30 p.m. Initiates are Kathleen Wood, Mrs. Carol Galbraith and Janet Benson. To be eligible for membership, a student must have maintained a B average or better for one semester of work at HCJC.

Nov. 2 and 3 have been set as production dates for "The Solid Gold Cadillac," a comedy sponsored by Delta Psi Omega. Rehearsals are now in progress, and cast and crew members have been working on unusual ideas for set design. Kay Leatherwood was added to the cast last week in the part of Miss L'Arriere, a model. The part had been uncast up to that time.

Goliad Student Body Savors Pair Of Wins

By NANCY HEDLESTON

Victory was our cry and victory was our lot when the Goliad Mavericks 8th and 9th grade teams beat the Runnels Yearlings Thursday at Memorial Stadium.

They say the 12th man on the football field is the school spirit, and we had plenty, plus a good bunch of players. A large crowd was on hand for the games.

Last week was naturally "Beat Runnels" week. Posters were hung throughout the building. On Thursday a huge pep rally was held in the gym, and it was draped in our black and white colors. Cheer leaders and students made the place ring.

Class officers elected are:

Seventh grade—Randy French, president; Max Tarbox, vice president; Jackie Crawford, secretary.

Eighth grade — Terry Cauble, president; Jean Armstrong, vice president; Dub McMeans, secretary.

Ninth grade — Robert Goodlett, president; Martha Glickman, vice president; Gail Watson, secretary.

Tuesday candidates for different offices gave campaign speeches at an assembly held in the gym.

The FHA held its district meeting at Senior High on Saturday. One of our former students, Karen Kee, is a district vice president and presided at one of the sessions.

New students entering school during the week include Larry Luce and A. C. Carr in the seventh and Herman Orange in the ninth.

LIZ TAYLOR & MONTGOMERY CLIFT
He finds he is deeply involved

Clift Deeply Involved In His Film Roles

Other actors may have the ability to disassociate themselves from their roles as soon as a scene is over, but not Montgomery Clift. Acting, Clift finds, tears him apart inside.

Currently, he stars as a brilliant young neuro-surgeon in Sam Spiegel's production of the Tennessee Williams play, "Suddenly, Last Summer." Co-starred with Clift are Elizabeth Taylor and Katharine Hepburn.

"You work yourself into an emotional condition not just once, but perhaps for days on end—whatever is necessary for the camera," Clift says. "Your body doesn't know that you're just pretending, just play-acting. The adrenalin starts pumping. The blood starts rushing around. The breathing becomes more labored. And this happens every time you face the lens, or walk on the stage, and, to a lesser degree, in rehearsals.

"Somewhere, sometime, you inevitably pay a price for this. Probably in a shorter life. Certainly in internal organs that develop raw edges, that are constantly stirred up. Certainly in mental processes that become intermeshed with the thoughts and quirks and personality traits of the character you're enacting.

"Of course, you meet many actors who poo-pooh all this as nonsense, who assure you they have no difficulty in walking away from a part, who insist that they can put a mood on and take it off, like a suit of clothes. If so, then I, indeed, envy them."

"Suddenly, Last Summer" was penned for the screen by Gore Vidal and Tennessee Williams. Joseph L. Mankiewicz directed for producer Sam Spiegel. Oliver Messel was the production designer.

Big Business Set Worth $4 Million In 'Apartment'

The furnishings of just one of the major sets for Billy Wilder's comedy, "The Apartment," Sunday at the Jet Theatre, were valued at a cool four million dollars. The set, representing a model insurance company's home office, was built on a huge Hollywood set (exteriors were filmed on location in and around one of Manhattan's newest, shiniest and largest office buildings).

In a setting of shiny aluminum and glass, big business is shown at its biggest in "The Apartment." Comprising a half acre of floor space, the office in the film is equipped with the latest and most efficient appurtenances. All of the machines, desks, typewriters and other items used on the set were real and operational. Some of the more elaborate equipment, such as calculators and punch-card machines, were borrowed from IBM; other items were rented or, in some cases, built from scratch.

The most imposing items of equipment were the 13 machines borrowed from IBM. These, valued at $2,500,000, were shipped to Hollywood from the company's warehouse in New Jersey. With them came 13 highly-trained young women to work the complicated machines in various scenes in the film.

Other items collected for the office set included 320 identical metal desks and chairs (matching), 150 Friden calculators, 36 manual typewriters, 36 electric typewriters, 36 adding machines, 250 pen "desk-sets," 10 water coolers and several trucks-full of card files, folders, racks, etc.

Because 3,200 identical desks and chairs proved to be too much of an order for any of the office supply dealers in California, the film's prop department set about building them themselves. When the picture was completed, the desks were sold to several office supply companies at cost.

THE FRONT ROW

By Bob Smith

Joan Sherred read in this column about propositions for a film club, and promptly awarded your critic three manila folders filled with records of the Galveston County Film Club of which she once was a member.

Certainly, with all these data to go by, it would be much easier organizing than starting out from scratch. The information includes a sampling of available foreign and art and classic movies, addresses of distributors, prices, breakdowns on other costs, a sample charter and by-laws, ideas for budgeting and organization, etc.

But the thing that strikes me about Mrs. Sherred's data collection is in the immense list of titles. There are altogether too many to quote here and still give a representative sampling. On top of this, the output of artistic films has increased by several factors in the last few years and still grows.

The American audience for such films is small but loyal—which means the commercial theatres must ignore the art field for the most part in order not to go out of business. Film club organizations provide one of the chief outlets for these movies, and here the distributors find a specialized and profitable market.

Ike Robb is willing to go along with a non-profit film club scheme, having hinted at turning over one of his movie houses once a month to the club.

Midland's film club gives us a few figures to work on—there are 10 movies on this season's schedule with a membership of 400 people, and season tickets cost six dollars each.

That comes out to a lower cost than that for most commercial movies.

There's really no reason why amateur theatre cannot be good theatre, and not just adequate.

There are several reasons that the Civic Theatre has been relatively inactive and, even when a play finally is staged, that it falls short of its potentialities.

Among these are a long-standing disagreement between factions who wish to expend all efforts on getting the Prairie Playhouse ready and those who want to produce plays; a shortage of personnel that resulted primarily from this and previous disagreements (which caused a lot of people to quit the organization); and a lack of interest in theatre work on the part of the local citizenry.

Dewey Magee, out going president, has been the storm center of many feuds in the past because, with his driving personality, he was the most obvious target for people with axes to grind. Any artistic group is going to be prey for temperamental types, but the Civic Theatre has had more than its share—and the very people of a more stable nature who might have saved the organization were among those who quit in disgust.

Magee resigned Thursday evening at a meeting of the board of directors, since he is being transferred to Thule AFB, Greenland.

The present board members are a good lot, and are not unstable. But they make up a large percentage of the entire membership. There are around a hundred or so people in this community who have, at one time or another, been associated with the Civic Theatre, and a goodly number of these are high on temperament and low on maturity.

Magee, as a dominant type personality, got along fine with other dominants, but when a large charge of instability was mixed into the membership, feuds started. There are those who can iron out their differences, even though with difficulty, and there are those who can never give in and never forgive.

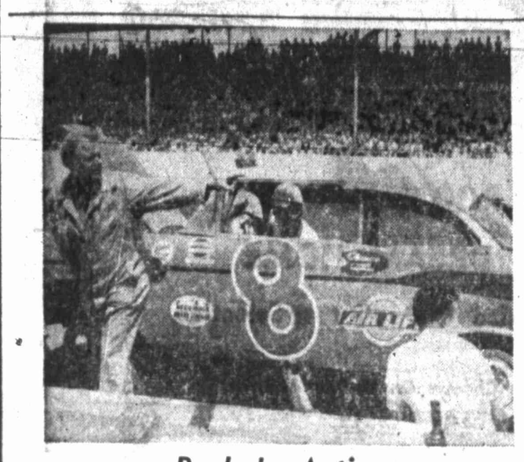

I've heard a lot of people say that, as soon as Magee leaves, they'll come back to the Civic Theatre, and then we'll see some action.

Well, this may be. But Heaven help the Civic Theatre if the unstables return in large numbers. Magee's detractors might discover, to their chagrin, that feuds continue unabated. The theatre folk might be wise to take measures against admittance to membership of the prima donna types.

Breathless Acting

Richard Basehart gave his most "lifeless" performance in location scenes for Universal-International's "Portrait In Black," with Lana Turner and Anthony Quinn, Wednesday at the Jet Theatre.

For two days Basehart was a "corpus dilecti," playing dead while Quinn and Miss Turner sneak him into a car, drive him 20 miles outside San Francisco and dump him over a cliff into the ocean.

Back In Action

Alan Hale spurs the pit crew to get Rory Calhoun back on the track in this scene from "Thunder in Carolina," with background films made at the "Southern 500," noted stock car racing event.

Boots Originated Stock Car Racing

When 100,000 screaming fans sit in the stands at Darlington Raceways, watching a mass of roaring machines whirl around the oval in the famous "Southern 500," piloted by iron-nerved men competing for money and glory, perhaps very few of them know that the popular sport of the stock car racing originated with "Moonshine" runners.

This is the background of the WideScreen color production "Thunder in Carolina" starring Rory Calhoun, and co-starring Alan Hale, Connie Hines, and John Gentry, coming to the Ritz Thursday.

It is the story of Mitch Cooper, ex-moonshine runner who became a famous race driver and then has a run of bad luck. The story opens with Cooper in a dirt track race where his hard luck continues. He wrecks his car, winds up with his ankle in a cast, and broke. From here he heads out trying to make a come-back.

The Wall Street Journal credits stock car racing with being the fourth largest spectator sport, well ahead of organized baseball. However, many people in the know credit the origin of the sport to "Moonshine" running and claim that some of today's top drivers are ex-bootleg liquor runners.

Wilkes County, North Carolina, and many other mountain areas, are almost internationally famous for their very fine quality "moonshine" corn liquor. The "moonshine" had to be delivered to the distribution points, but unfortunately for the producers, too many of the cars were being knocked off by revenue agents. As a result, the boys began to soup up their cars to high speeds and become expert drivers through the twisting mountain roads.

Each fellow was proud of the speed of his own car and driving ability and before long impromptu races were being held to prove their speed and driving touch. From this it was only a step to the first small dirt tracks and organized race meets. Now there are literally hundreds of these throughout the country and car racing has mushroomed into one of the largest spectator sports.

One of the interesting sequences in the film is where Rory Calhoun takes John Gentry into the mountain roads to teach him race driving—the same roads on which Calhoun himself became proficient. During this sequence, they are spotted by revenuers who think they are running "moonshine" with the driving lesson winding up in a chase. This sequence was photographed on what has been dubbed "Moonshine Road," between North Wilkesboro and Taylorsville, N. C. It is claimed that more moonshine has been run over this road than any other stretch in the world. Pointing to the mountains in the background, some of the natives claim that they conceal more moonshine stills than you could count on both hands.

"Thunder in Carolina" is a Darlington Films Production in WideScreen color, released by Howco International. It was produced by J. Francis White and directed by Paul Helmick from a story written by Alexander Richards.

Wayne Elected 'Marine' Leader

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP)—Marines of the 2nd Division here have selected screen actor John Wayne as their favorite "mythical" squad leader. Actor Aldo Ray polled 1,933 votes and Jeffery Hunter, 1,074. All have portrayed tough Marines on the screen. The balloting, sponsored by the division, was a reminder to the Marines to register and file absentee votes on Nov. 8. As a result, more than 2,500 absentee ballot applications were handed out.

CINEMA COMMENT

By Bob Smith

"All the Fine Young Cannibals" is about as obscure as its title, which, incidentally, never is explained.

We see a pair of lovers—Robert Wagner, son of a minister who cares little for his offspring, and Natalie Wood, product of country puritan upbringing. We see a brother and sister—George Hamilton and Susan Kohner, spoiled rich brats.

What we do not see are depth in character, sensible scripting, or deft direction.

The plot supposedly appeals to the younger generation, since it allegedly tells of the troubles of modern young people. The lovers—Wagner and Miss Wood—quarrel, even though the girl is pregnant. She hies off to New York, having a Pullman interlude in the meanwhile with Hamilton who eventually marries her. Wagner goes off to the Big Town also, where he becomes a big time musician, and Hamilton learns his child isn't his.

Of course, everything works itself out in the end, although the viewer may puzzle over how it came about.

The saving graces are a slick production—and Pearl Bailey in the role of an alcoholic night club owner. She's tremendous.

Now, if you like thrills and spills and don't mind amateurish movies, you'll like "Thunder in Carolina."

This film was made on location in and around Darlington, S. C., during the Labor Day stock car races, and the scenes of racetrack carnage are exciting, to say the least.

But everything else about the film is bad. The plot is wearied—an older driver, crippled, teaches a youngster to drive, only to have the kid challenge him at the races, with a girl hanging on in the grandstand—the color photography is crude, the direction lacking, the acting wooden.

* * *

"Love Is My Profession" proves that Brigitte Bardot is learning how to act—but it also proves she either hasn't learned yet, or knows she doesn't have to.

This French import also suffers from a poor job of scripting from the Georges Simenon novel—but other than these faults, it comes out a strong and well-made film.

Simenon tries to prove that men are nogoodniks, and almost does it—he would have except that Miss Bardot's role is that of a prostitute who leads her victims to violence and the gutter, making her the nogoodest-nik of all.

Simenon's analysis of the human race is potent, and Claude Autant-Lara's direction of the film version is fast and tight. Acting is excellent, including co-star Jean Gabin, French star who once had a try at U. S. films.

Dallas Selling Season Coupons

The Dallas Theater Center is selling season coupon books for the 11 plays of the 1960-61 season.

A pre-season repertory through Oct. 22 will feature the comedies, "Hay Fever" and "The Importance of Being Earnest." The regular season will open Nov. 17 with Wilder's "The Matchmaker," starring Carol Cook and the resident acting company.

The second play is a world premiere of a new script, "A Waltz in the Afternoon," by a young New York playwright, Jason Miller. It will open Dec. 8 followed by "Medea" Jan. 5. Others in the schedule are "Shadow of An Eagle" and Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew."

Information may be had from the Dallas Theater Center, 3636 Turtle Creek, Dallas.

Southern Drawls Were Rather Thick

During filming of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "All the Fine Young Cannibals," early scenes of which take place in a small Texan community, the drawls around the Natalie Wood-Robert Wagner home were thick enough to cut with a knife.

Miss Wood and Wagner (her husband in private life) were coached in acquiring a Southern accent for their co-starring roles in the new drama. Not content to confining their dialect lessons to the classroom, they continued talking "Southern" at home until the picture was completed.

'Young Cannibals' Is Story Of Youth In Changing World

Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner (they're Mr. and Mrs. Wagner in private life) appear together for the first time in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "All the Fine Young Cannibals." Costarred are Susan Kohner and George Hamilton, in his first picture since "Home From the Hill," with another top role played by famed singer Pearl Bailey.

A drama of today's youth facing a changing world, "All the Fine Young Cannibals" has as a theme the struggle of four young people to find happiness, a struggle in which they come close to destroying each other as well as innocent bystanders who happen to get in the way.

Chad Bixby (Robert Wagner) is the offspring of a Dallas minister who has shown nothing but indifference to his only son. Salome Davis (Natalie Wood) is the eldest daughter of puritanical parents. Catherine and Tony McDowall (Susan Kohner and George Hamilton) are spoiled children of wealthy parents. In their search to find love, the paths of these four cross, their hopes and fears are revealed, and in their eagerness to grab at life with both hands, no matter what the cost, they are brought to the brink of tragedy.

Pearl Bailey's role is that of Ruby Jones, a blues singer who finds her personal nirvana in alcohol. It is Ruby who gives Chad his big break when he comes to New York by starting him off on his career as a musician in her night club.

Michael Anderson directed "All the Fine Young Cannibals" from a screen play by Robert Thom, suggested by Rosamond Marshall's novel, "The Bixby Girls."

Prominent in a large supporting cast are Jack Mullaney, Onslow Stevens, Anne Seymour, Virginia Gregg, Mabel Albertson and Louise Beavers.

Happy Hatch Turns Hobby Into A Sideline Business

By SAM BLACKBURN

H. B. (Happy) Hatch has a honey of a hobby.

And if all goes well, he plans to turn the hobby into a sideline business on his farm north west of Big Spring in the next few months.

He made the interesting discovery this fall that Big Spring and Howard County folk like honey and will pay cash money for honey produced from Howard County cotton blooms by Howard County bees.

"I never thought about selling honey," Hatch muses. "I guess I gave away a wagon load in the past two years. It was only this fall that a friend told me I was foolish to give the stuff away."

"SELL IT"

" 'Sell it,' he told me, 'I'll give you a dollar a quart for some of it myself.' "

"So I sort of noised it around I had honey for sale and before I realized it I had sold all I had. I haven't any for our own use left."

Actually Hatch sold 125 quarts of the golden honey and he could have sold five times that much. And all of that honey came from three hives of bees. In reality it came from two hives, since the third is a new addition to the bee colony on the Hatch place and the hive has not been robbed of its golden treasure.

Now Hatch plans to go into the bee business on a bigger scale. He plans to add at least 15 more hives. In order to avoid the problem of possible poisoning of flowers by cotton farmers in their war on bugs, he will have the hives mounted on a trailer.

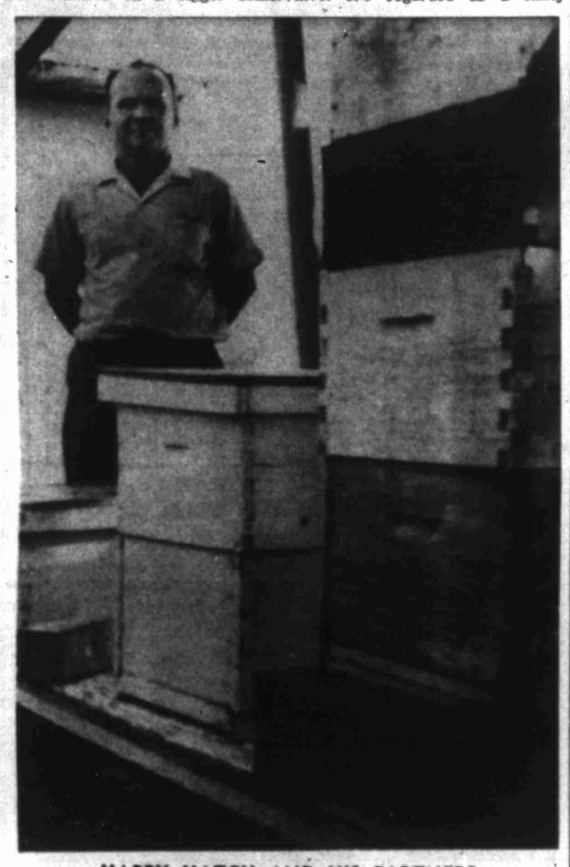

LETHAL TO BEES

There was no posioning problem this summer but if one develops in the future, he will just hitch up and move the bees to some place remote from possible contamination. The poison used to kill cotton pests is also lethal to bees.

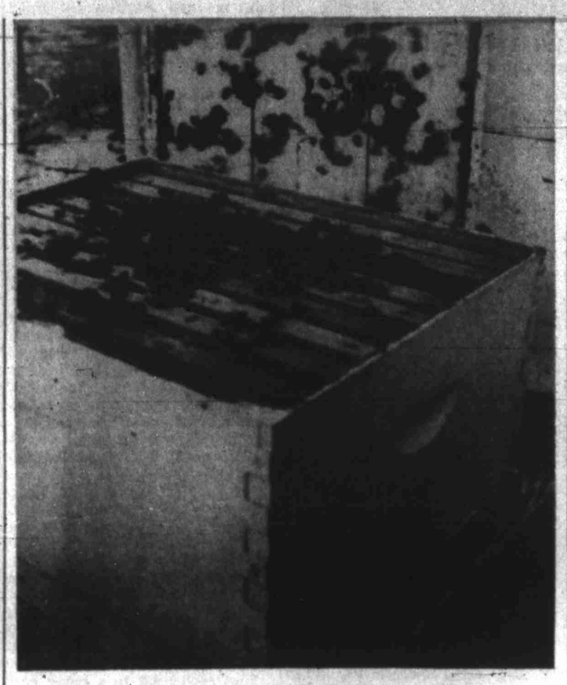

A hive of bees, including the queen, the bees, the essential hive, the gadgets to hold the honey and so forth will cost about $45. The bees themselves are not expensive. You can get three pounds of bees and a queen—either the Caucasian or the Italian species—for around $5 to $6. A hive of three pounds means slightly more than 10,000 bees.

The queen, who is very important to the community, lays eggs at the rate of 1,500 a day and in her lifetime can produce 1,000,000 workers. Since the lifetime of a worker bee is just six weeks (he wears himself out flitting hither and thither,) replacement of the labor force is an item of importance. A queen, hard at her egg-laying chore, will keep the population booming and in the course of time things will get so crowded that she has to gather up her followers and move out.

A new queen takes over the old hive. It's regarded as a fairly simple thing to persuade the bees forced out to move into a new home and get right on with their work.

HIT THE ROAD

Hatch's bees hit the road in the early spring when the catclaws and mesquite blossoms appear. The honey produced in this period is delicious but it is a dark amber in color. When the cotton blossoms show up, the bees are in the heyday. Around the Hatch place are thousands of acres in easy bee-range. Bulk of the honey produced comes from the cotton blooms and Hatch's customers term it about the most tasty there is.

Hatch got into the bee business by accident. When he and his family were living in Victoria in 1957, someone gave him a hive of bees. In 1958, when the Hatches moved back to Howard County, they brought along the bees.

"We sealed up the hive (that is, we thought we had it sealed up) and put it in the trailer we were pulling along with a lot of other stuff," he explained.

"We stopped at a roadside stand to get a bite to eat and, to our consternation, we found that the trailer was crawling with bees. The seal hadn't held and they were all over the place.

MOVED BACK

"There was nothing to do, so we drove on to the place here. When we arrived we found that the bees had made the journey on and under the trailer and as soon as we set up their hive they moved right back in and set up housekeeping."

Hatch has both Italian and Caucasian bees. The latter species are the calmer and more amiable. If you move slowly and exercise due care, you won't get stung very often, he says, but the Italians are a little more inclined to be short-tempered than the Caucasians.

It's an easy way to pick up a little money, he says. There's not much the bees demand except that they be kept supplied with the holders into which they put the honey. They have to be left enough of their year's production to feed them through the winter and if it happens that flowers are extremely scarce in the spring and summer, sometimes you have to provide rations in the form of special bee food and sugar. During an average year, he says, the bees go about their business asking nothing. When the season ends, you put on your mask, gloves and special clothes and "rob" them of their year's work.

HARDEST TASK

The hardest task of all, he says, is putting the honey in jars after it has been harvested.

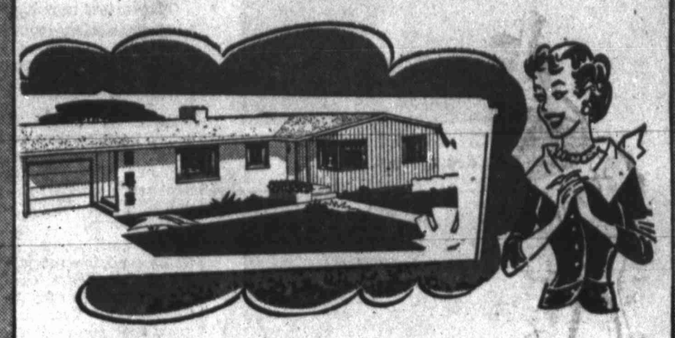

Most folk want the sweet with the honeycomb intact. For those who do not desire the comb there's the strained variety.

Anyway, the Hatches are going to branch out on a wider base in the bee business this coming spring. If the year's as good as the present one and production is equal, instead of 125 quarts of honey, the Hatches expect to harvest around 500 to 600 quarts. That's around 1,800 pounds.

At $1 per quart—well you figure it out.
