(Q) Are concrete liners required in the Colorado City Cemetery? If so, why?

(A) Rick Perkin, chairman of the city's Cemetery Board, says that the liners are definitely required in the new part of the cemetery.

One of the reasons for this rule, he explained, is that the graves are very close together in the new section and without the liners, there is a danger that another grave may collapse when a new one is dug.

It also prevents the grave from collapsing after many years, as many of them do, he added.

Fiddler has won many trophies

Hoyt Roberts has won so many awards in the various fiddling contests that he has entered over the years that he doesn't remember exactly how many he has. He has only five on display in his living room: two from the Howard-Glasscock contest, one from the Old

Settlers contest in Big Spring and two from Mitchell County, one of those from the 101 Celebration held last summer.

How long has Roberts been playing? "Always, nearly," he says. "Ever since I was just a kid."

Born on April 22, 1899 in Indian Territory in Oklahoma, Roberts doesn't remember anybody teaching him how to play the fiddle. He explains, "I just inherited it."

He began playing the guitar when he was about six years old and by the age of eight had started playing the fiddle.

Although he was raised in Big Spring, Roberts moved to a farm northwest of Westbrook in 1944-45, working as a farmer and in the oilfield. However, he recalls, "It got so muddy over there we couldn't get out and in the meantime, I stuck a nail in my foot and I was kinda crippled, so we moved to town."

When he was younger, Roberts and his brother often played for dances at the Elks Lodge in Big Spring and for ranch dances around Lamesa, Gail and Snyder. He also went to Post not too long ago to play at a benefit for handicapped

Board to discuss election

The setting of the date, time and place for the School Trustee election will be one of the matters considered by the Loraine Independent School District Board of Trustees when they meet Monday, February 14 at 7 p.m.

The Board will also review the contract of the principal, band director and coaches.

Also on the agenda are the discussion and evaluation of the curriculum, changing of the date for the March meeting and a waiver of local graduation requirements for a late transfer student.

HOYT ROBERTS still plays the fiddle that was given to him 16 or 17 years ago by a friend. He believes that it may have come from Italy or England.

Driving course slated

A Defensive Driving Course is being offered at the Wallace Center on February 22 and 24. The classes are sponsored through Western Texas College in Snyder. Instructor is Barbara Gray.

The classroom sessions offer pointers in preventing accidents in spite of the incorrect actions of others and adverse driving conditions.

Each course will have two sessions Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9-12 noon. Films and other visual aids will be used to demonstrate how to improve driving skills.

Persons completing this course will be eligible for a reduction in insurance premium rates, also for possible ticket removal. The fee for persons 60 years and over is $5. Others will pay a fee of $20.

You may register at the Wallace Center. For more information, phone 728-2392.

There will be an evening class taught at the Wallace Center on March 17 and 18. Pre-registration is required.

The projected completion date is April 1 and financing will be available through Farmers Home Administration as well as conventional financing through Colorado City Savings and Loan.

children, but the weather was too hot and the program too long, so he came back home.

Roberts also used to enjoy playing at the lodges in both Loraine and Colorado City, "but I haven't been playing there much lately," he notes.

He has played at the First Baptist Church in Westbrook and still plays during meetings of the Golden Age Club there and plans on entering several contests; as a member of the Texas Old Time Fiddlers Association, he receives a publication that tells where contests are being held.

Roberts plans on entering contests for a long time to come but "I don't know just where. I have a list."

Roscoe ends Loraine's season Plowgirls victorious 45-33

The Loraine Bulldog girls saw their hopes for post season play end Thursday night at the Scurry County Coliseum in Snyder as they were defeated by the Roscoe Plowgirls 45-33.

Both teams finished district play with 7-3 records, and an extra game was needed to see who finished in second place behind the Highland Hornets.

The night belonged to the Plowgirls and their pesky fullcourt press. The Plowgirls jumped out to a 4-0 lead and never trailed in the contest. They built leads up to six points, but the Bulldogs were always in striking range until the latter part of the fourth quarter when the 'Dogs hit a cold streak.

Roscoe built up a 22-16 lead right before the half behind some accurate free throw shooting and some times baskets by Julie Raughton. Stephanie McAdams pulled Loraine to within 22-18 with a basket before the buzzer.

Raughton and Shannon Neighbors were instrumental in the Roscoe win as Raughton's outside jumpers and six for six performance from the free throw line led the Plowgirls with 15 points.

Neighbors, a 5-11 post player played tough defense on Leslie Rose all night, holding Loraine's leading scorer to 16 points. Neighbors hauled down 10 rebounds and scored 10 points, including two key baskets in the all important final quarter.

The Bulldogs made their run at Roscoe at the start of the third quarter when Rose scored two baskets, McAdams one, and Julie Wells' bucket knotted the contest at 26-26 with 3:00 remaining. But Roscoe quickly came back on baskets by Neighbors and Kristi Graham to take a 30-26 lead into the final stanza.

That's when things started going bad for the 'Dogs. Loraine guard Janie Barrera fouled out midway through the quarter. The tight Roscoe defense held the fine outside shooter to only four points. Loraine went the better part of five minutes without producing a point. Rose hit a jumper, but by that time the Plowgirl lead was 37-28, and the Roscoe lead was secure.

Loraine outrebounded Roscoe 37-30, but their shots just would not fall. Wells "banged the boards" for 11 caroms, Rose had 10 and McAdams collected eight rebounds.

Others scoring for the Bulldogs were Wells five, McAdams and DeLoera scored four each.

The Bulldogs end a highly successful season with an overall record of 16-7.

Rabid cats exposed 120 Texans last year

Forty-two rabid cats exposed more than three times as many Texans to rabies last year than 536 rabid skunks, reports the Texas Department of Health (TDH).

The danger of rabies in pets was pointed out by Dr. Foy V. McCasland, who said 120 persons were exposed to rabies by cats. In contrast, only 36 humans were exposed through contact with rabid skunks, said Dr. McCasland, Chief of the Bureau of Veterinary Public Health of the TDH.

If all the humans exposed to rabid cats during 1982 received post-exposure treatment, the cost would have been some $60,000-$500 per person. Almost 1,500 persons started the anti-rabies injection series last year using vaccine obtained through the Texas Department of Health.

The first defense against rabies, a virtual death sentence in humans, is the vaccination of all pets. This is especially true for dogs and cats, because they are closely associated with humans and represent a much greater danger of rabies transmission to people.

Even though state law requires annual rabies vaccination of dogs and cats, a much lower percentage of cats than dogs is actually vaccinated.

"This situation is unfortunate because cats, being predatory animals, are more likely to come in contact with wild animal rabies," said Dr. McCasland. While dogs may be confined by fences, cats are able to climb fences and range widely throughout a neighborhood.

Bulldogs bite Wolf girls, 68-52

The Colorado City Wolf girls basketball team is still searching for its first win in the second half of district play, as the Pack was downed by the Coahoma Bulldogs 68-52.

The hot shooting Bulldogs kept their second half district mark unblemished as they now stand at 4-0 while C-City is just the opposite.

In the first district meeting of the two teams at Wolf Gym, the 'Dogs won the game with their outside shooting. This time it was their "inside game" that prevailed in the win. Post player Vicki Buchanan burned the Wolves for 23 points, including three, three-point plays.

Coahoma jumped on the Wolves early, building up a 35-24 halftime lead. At the start of the final quarter, the Bulldogs led by 15.

"We were getting the shots, but we just didn't make them," commented Wolf coach George Martin. Wolf forward

Anita Silva had another good outing as she made five of seven shots from the floor and pulled down nine rebounds. The Wolves' other forward, Tomika Randle, also had a good night with 11 points and 10 rebounds. Stacy Hamrick led all rebounders with 11. Martin said he was pleased with the play of all three players. Laura Baum led the Wolf scoring with 17.

"We are young and gaining valuable experience," said Martin. Martin also said he would like to thank coaches Linda Mathis, Kathy Marshall and Debbie Goforth for all their long hours of work with the teams.

In the junior varsity contest, the Pack suffered their first loss in the second half by a 51-36 margin. According to coach Mathis the Wolves got into foul trouble and got frustrated.

Lynn Scott led the scoring with 14 points, while Jody Mann added eight.

String Band performs for Golden Age Club

The String Band entertained the Golden Age Club when its members gathered for their regular meeting in Westbrook.

Refreshments were served by those having February birthdays, with Ethel Clawson as chairman.

Dominoes were played after the short business session.

Those attending were A. G. and Minnie Anderson, Bessie Shaw, Ethel Clawson, A. G. and Dru Board, Elmo and Ada Daniel, Edgar and Bertha Andrews, Doug Barber, Harry and Gussie Harris, Della Self, Cody Hays, Fannie Morris, Helen Oglesby, Oren and Louise Moore, Frances Proctor, Julie Warren, Doc Alvis, Velma Davis, Ozella Brookshire, Tim Mize, Hoyt Roberts, Blanche Bell and Dutch Doss.

Also present was one visitor, Buck Harris of Tuscola, Tx.

During the March meeting, Ann Gregory will explain the cheese program to the group.

The Colorado City boys kept in the thick of things in the district 6AAA race with a 58-49 win over the Coahoma Bulldogs Tuesday night in Coahoma.

The win lifts the Pack's record to 2-0 in the second half in their quest for a playoff berth. The other two teams challenging the Wolves are the Crane Golden Cranes and the Ballinger Bearcats.

It was an "up and down" contest for coach Mike Hart's Wolves. Leading scorer, Stacey Tarter, picked up three fouls in the first quarter as he and post man Tom Rees sat out the entire second quarter as the host team took a 26-24 halftime lead.

The Wolves had a hard time making their free throws in the first half, connecting on only four of 12 attempts. But in the second half, they took control of things as they tied it up 40-40 going into the final stanza. "We beat them on the boards in the second half. We weren't getting on the offensive boards in the first half, and that made all the difference in the world," said Hart.

The Pack only had 12 rebounds at halftime, but pounded the boards for 24 caroms in the second half. That, coupled with the Pack's five of seven performance from the line led to a big final period in which the Pack outscored the Bulldogs 18-9.

Hart was pleased with the play of reserves Don Randle and Chris McKinney who filled in admirably for Tarter and Rees. Randle collected seven rebounds while McKinney added five. Stacey Tarter led all rebounders with 12. Dennis Rivera paced a balanced scoring attack with 12 points.

In the junior varsity game, the Wolves lost to Coahoma 48-37. Scoring for the Pack were Jay Piland 10, Armando Rivera and Larry Hamilton six each. Steve Rosas had three, John Gilstrap and Perry Conner two a piece.

'Dogs down Wildcats second straight time

The Loraine Bulldog girls drummed the Westbrook Wildcats for the second time this basketball season with a 59-26 victory over Westbrook in Wildcat Gym Tuesday night.

The outcome of the game was much like the first district meeting of the two squads when Loraine won 60-33 in Bulldog Gym. In that game, Loraine post player Leslie Rose and guard Janie Barrera combined for 46 points. In Tuesday's game, Rose hit 21 and Barrera added 17 points. The 'Dogs controlled Westbrook's guard-forward Lynn Dawson, holding the 5-4 senior to eight points. In the first meeting, Dawson bombed Loraine for a season high 25 points.

The game was "no contest" from the beginning, as Loraine opened up a 16-2 first quarter led, and stretched it to 33-12 at the half. From there, the outcome of the game was never in jeopardy. Westbrook ends district play with a 2-7 record.

Other top scorers for the Wildcats were Evonne Bradshaw seven and Elena Lopez five.

The Loraine boys gave the same treatment to the Westbrook boys as they downed the Wildcats 63-31, to end the season for both squads.

The Wildcats stayed with the Bulldogs for one quarter, Loraine led 9-5. But in the second stanza the Bulldogs exploded for 19 points as they went on to post their second win of the season over Westbrook.

The 'Cats were playing the game without leading scorer Donald Burnett who was out with a sprained ankle. Roger Cantu and Dewayne Pierce took up the scoring slack with 14 and eight points respectively.

Loraine placed three players in double figures led by James Griffin's 21. Ruben Garcia and Aundra Rose scored 12 and 11 points respectively.

Loraine ends the season with a 14-8 record and 6-4 district slate.

The Wilson Wyatt VFW Post 9178 and its Ladies' Auxiliary provided chocolate chip and banana walnut cakes in the teachers lounges at Colorado High, Middle School, Kelley and Hutchinson on Tuesday, February 8, 1983. Delivering the cakes to the schools were Ann Ingram and Virgie Mosley.

David McCormick Winning essay

Soil and Water
Conservation Essay
By: David McCormick
age 10; grade 5
Rt. 1 Box 326
Loraine, Texas

Wise use of natural resources is called conservation. Soil, water, forests, grasslands, wildlife, and minerals are all part of our natural resources. Conservation prevents their waste and makes sure of a supply for the future.

Nearly everything we need to live comfortably comes from a natural resource. It is hard for man or animal to live without clean water. Much of our food comes from the soil. We also depend on grasslands that produce meat, wool, and other products and from forests come lumber for our houses and furniture and pulp for our paper products. Forests and grasslands also hold water in the ground and prevent valuable top soil from being washed away. Minerals heat our homes, cook our foods, and run our automobiles.

Special steps should be taken to prevent dumping of waste and sewage in our lakes and streams, in turn cause very serious pollution problems.

Trees, plants, and grasses serve as a sponge or blotter to prevent high winds or hard rains from damaging our top soil. Erosion carries off this good soil, thus reducing its fertility. Plants are then unable to feed off of the upper layers of soil properly. Terracing and contour farming also helps in preventing erosion.

People have finally begun to see that their very existence depends upon using these resources wisely. Conservation is the responsibility of everyone. People in the city as well as the country can prove to make soil and water conservation even more successful than it has been in the past.

If all of us strive to conserve these resources, there will be clean water and good fertile soil for all of us as well as our future generations.

Every home to be visited

Volunteers for Cancer Crusade '83 met in the C. C. Thompson Room of City National Bank for final instructions to contact every home in Mitchell County to distribute cancer educational material.

Called to order by President Charlie Uselton, the meeting was opened with prayer.

Community concern for better health through information was the theme of Crusade chairman Fleta Lewis as she instructed this year's volunteers.

Superintendent Uselton announced that Kathy Wilson, Colorado High School teacher and sponsor of Student Council, was ready with the council group to assist in Community service.

Mitchell County's goal this year is $3,500. Uselton told the group.

"Although we had a goal of $6,000 in 1981, we do not believe we are regressing but being very realistic in changing times. This goal is attainable," Uselton said.

Mrs. Lewis asked that all Block Captains turn their envelopes in at 293 Walnut.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Adams filled the packets to be placed in residences by the volunteers.

Attending were Mabel Merritt, Carolyn Shaw, Billie Ruth Tartt, Barbara Uselton, Erna Lou Burt, Gerry Stone, Frances Deregibus, Joy Dockrey and Nadine Gordon.

Also, Glen Coon, a former president of the local cancer society, Terry Revis, Mrs. Lewis and Uselton.

Margie Smith

Cook's Corner

Cooking beats picking cotton

Margie Smith originally became interested in cooking as a means of getting out of unpleasant work. She explains, "I started when I was about six years old. My mother would say, 'Come on, Margie, let's go to the cotton patch,' and I'd start telling my aunts or whoever was around to let me help them cook."

She continued, "They'd pull me up an old apple box to the cabinet and let me help them cook."

From this experience, Mrs. Smith learned to love cooking itself. She says, "When people come back and tell me that's the best food they've ever eaten, that's a reward right there."

Mrs. Smith is not too fond of microwave cooking: "People say, 'How do you enjoy that?' I say, 'Fine. I enjoy it-for warming things up.'"

"For the younger generation, I think that will be the thing because they're learning to cook on something like this. But we learned to cook on stoves."

"I've got recipe books to show how to cook on it (a microwave) but by the time I could get that cookbook and read what all you have to do, I could have already cooked it on the stove."

The three recipes that Mrs. Smith is sharing take a little time, but they are some that her husband, Lloyd, and her children, who are all grown, really enjoy.

PICANTE SAUCE

1 gal. tomatoes, chopped

1 large onion, chopped

4-5 buttons garlic, chopped

4-5 fresh Jalapenos, chopped

1/4 c. salt

1/2 c. vinegar

Mix together and bring to boil, then simmer

25-30 minutes. This scorches easily, so watch carefully. Beat with a mixer for 5-10 minutes. Put into sterilized jars and seal. Note—you can add more garlic and peppers if desired.

BANANA SPLIT CAKE

Step one: Mix together 3 c. graham cracker crumbs and one stick oleo, melted, and press into 9x13 baking dish.

Step two: Combine one box powdered sugar, two eggs and 1 1/2 stick oleo and beat at high speed for five minutes. Spread over graham cracker crumbs. Slice six bananas lengthwise and place on top of mixture. Cook one large can crushed pineapple, 3-4 T. cornstarch and one cup sugar over low heat until thickened and spread over bananas.

Step three: Top the layers with Cool Whip and chopped pecans and top with maraschino cherries. Cool several hours and serve.

Keep refrigerated.

SCALLOPED POTATOES

Using quantities desired, peel potatoes and onions. Sliced potatoes and chop onion, simmer together in saucepan with very little water until potatoes are almost done. Pour off any excess water and place a layer of the potatoes and onions in a baking dish and add salt, pepper and butter. Repeat. Top with a can of mushroom soup (diluted), then grated cheese. Bake at 325 degrees for 25-30 minutes.

Because family structures are changing, "grandparents often aren't as close physically or emotionally to grandchildren as in the past," says Dee Stegelin, family life specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Society focuses on the nuclear family, which does not include grandparents. Yet grandparents are now healthier and better educated, able to enjoy shared activities with grandchildren and to provide emotional support than they were in the past, notes Stegelin.

Stenholm calls for reform

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm, testifying before the House Subcommittee on Social Security Friday (February 4), called for structural reforms in the Social Security program, to insure the "floor of protection" the program offers the nation's elderly. "The American people have been assured that the Congress will not allow the Social Security program to go bankrupt and we in the Congress have an obligation to present and future beneficiaries and workers that the system will remain solvent," Stenholm told the Subcommittee. "For the 32.7 percent of the households in the 17th District of Texas and those throughout the nation who rely on Social Security benefits, and for the many who hope to receive benefits one day, I urge you not to postpone making those painful but necessary structural reforms," the Stamford Democrat told the group.

He urged the Congressmen "not to succumb to the continued politicizing of this issue by those who, for one reason or another, choose not to recognize the seriousness and reality of this crisis. Our nation's elderly have worked hard to make this nation what it is today, and I do not believe that they want to leave a legacy of excessive taxation and debt to their grandchildren and great-grandchildren."

Stenholm said he had encountered "concern, bewilderment and hostility" when addressing the volatile issue with his elderly constituents "until I explain the problems."

He said Congress must take the blame for "failing to make clear just what an individual should and could expect from this program." During his testimony, Stenholm quoted from a recent interview with the founder of the Social Security program and the first chairman of the Social Security Administration during the Roosevelt presidency, the late Frank Bane:

"We never meant for Social Security to be considered a program to provide for any worker's retirement," Bane had said shortly before his death in January. "It was never intended at any time—never, not for a moment—to be a full retirement program. That is why the amount of payroll tax was kept limited and why the amount of benefits was also kept limited."

Stenholm said Bane expressed the Congressman's own views when he had told a reporter, "You could sum up what has happened to the program in two words that I (Bane) never heard of 10 years ago: indexing and entitlements."

Congress is expected to vote on changes in the Social Security program sometime later in the legislative session.

Sun Oil names three new vice presidents

A major reorganization involving the phase-out of three operating divisions and the naming of four line vice presidents has been announced by Richard W.

Fetzner, president of Sun Exploration and Production Company. The three Dallas-based operating divisions—Sun Exploration, Sun Gas and Sun Production—will be phased out as separate organizational entities by early summer. In announcing the reorganization, Fetzner cited Sun E&P's need to streamline its internal structure to more effectively attain its long-term business and strategic goals.

"Our new organizational structure is in keeping with our parent Sun Company's direction and is better suited to the current and expected business environment. We determined last year that the next few years will require us to better focus on critical areas, react to events more quickly, and provide services more efficiently, in short, to compete better," said Fetzner.

Fetzner named the following executives to manage key Sun E&P line functions: Luther F. Ellison, vice president for reserves development and expansion; Bennie L. Franks, vice president for producing operations; James E. McCormick, vice president for domestic exploration; and James E. Roberts, vice president for international exploration and production. These executives served in similar senior line positions at the division level and will assume their new assignments upon implementation of the new organization in early summer.

Corresponding to the phase-out of the three divisions, Fetzner also announced the retirement of the three division presidents who also served as executive vice presidents of Sun E&P: Robert B. Anderson, Sun Gas; Glen Burroughs, Sun Production; and Marion D. "Zeke" Noble, Sun Exploration. Their retirements will be effective later this year.

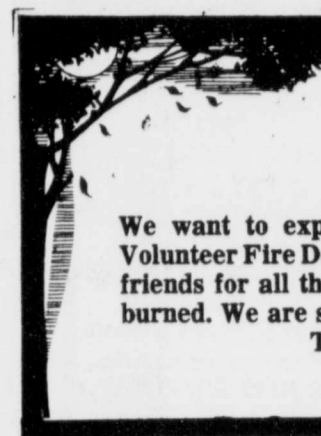

"The contributions of these gentlemen are hallmarks of Sun's past and future success," said Fetzner.

The five staff vice presidents currently reporting to Fetzner will remain in the positions they have held since late 1981: Harold R. Ashby, vice president for human resources and administration; Chad J. Bardone, vice president for external affairs; Thomas W. Lynch, vice president for legal; Edward W. Moneypenny, vice president for finance; and Peter C. Harris, vice president for marketing and business development. Harris' title previously was vice president, planning, but it has been changed to reflect his increased responsibilities, which include all Sun E&P marketing of petroleum products.

A major unit of Sun Company, Inc., the Dallas-headquartered Sun Exploration and Production Company engages in worldwide exploration, drilling, production and marketing of crude oil, natural gas and related petroleum products and services.

Memorial gifts accepted

Cancer memorial gifts can be given to Etta Parnell, cashier at City National Bank.

"It is a living gift," Mrs. Parnell explains, "because it perpetuates scientific study."

"Actually," she continued, "one knows that the memorial will help one day to find cancer control or cure."

Cards are sent by Mrs. Parnell to families of the deceased when friends and family send memorial contribution.

For the last six years Mrs. Parnell has worked diligently with this phase of volunteer work. She takes the memorials, sends out the cards, keeps the books and sends the memorials to headquarters at designated times.

"Volunteers like Mrs. Parnell have a dedication to humanity which cannot be measured," said Cancer Society President Charlie Uselton. "It takes people like that to help keep the good work going," he concluded.
