SENATE VOTE KILLS REDISTRICTING MEASURE

Church-State Separation Seen In Spanish Religious Freedom Decree

ORDER GIVES LIBERTY TO EVERY CREED

New Republic Disclaims Official Faith For Nation

VATICAN 'OPTIMISTIC'

Conclave to Consider End Of Ancient Union Of Powers

By CLARENCE DUBOSE
(Copyright, 1931, by Associated Press)

MADRID, May 22.—The Republican cabinet tonight decreed absolute freedom for all religious creeds throughout Spain.

The Associated Press was informed the cabinet's step does not mean separation of the church and state in the new Spanish republic. In several quarters, however, the cabinet's action was regarded as the first important step in that direction.

Actual separation awaits termination of a concordat between Madrid and Vatican City, which must be decided in the national assembly.

The provisional government, however, has signified that henceforth it will not profess any official religion in the republic.

The action of the cabinet tonight came 12 days after an epidemic of anti-church rioting in the capital, which was followed by sporadic outbreaks in various cities of the new republic. Many religious edifices were burned during the anti-religious manifestations, and numerous churchmen have left the country.

Meanwhile conferences have been carried on between the Papal Muncio in Spain and Alcala Zamaro, provisional president, presumably over communications from Vatican City regarding the disturbances. No announcement of these conversations on their outcome has been made, and the only official pronouncement from the vatican has been that authorities there maintain "an optimistic attitude."

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 22. (AP)—E. W. Stephens, 82, nationally known as a journalist and Baptist leader, died at his home here last night of infirmities of old age.

Stephens once was president of the Baptist general convention and treasurer of the World Baptist Alliance.

At the height of his journalistic career, he was president of the National Editorial association. For years, the Columbia Herald, a weekly newspaper which he edited, was called a "model country newspaper." He retired from active newspaper work in 1905.

And Here's What Jim Said to Charley

JAMES A. FARRELL

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

NEW YORK, May 22. (AP)—At the conclusion of his address charging certain steel companies with cutting wages, James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, today turned to Charles M. Schwab, presiding at the steel institute meeting and said:

"I am not going to give the industry, Mr. Schwab, the sort of benediction that you have given them and say, 'Now you are all fine men, and you are all doing good jobs.'

"I say that we are not doing a good job and until we do a good job, we should not indulge in fulsome praise."

Mr. Farrell sat down amidst applause.

Steel Chief Assails Wage Cuts In Face of Schwab's Assertions

Farrell Takes Issue With Institute President on Maintenance Of Industry Standards

NEW YORK, May 22. (AP)—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, today accused the big standard companies of his industry—"the companies in the headlines," he called them—of failing to maintain wage scales.

Mr. Farrell made his accusation at the semi-annual meeting of the Iron and Steel institute, attended by the principal executives of the industry in this country.

He declared some companies were giving their products away. Unless prices are raised and wages are stabilized, he said, the steel companies should shut down rather than waste their raw materials.

His address came directly after a talk by Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and president of the institute, who said wages had been maintained in the industry, although decreased production had put workers on a part-time basis.

Schwab Agrees

Mr. Farrell told his hearers he would not embarrass them by naming the companies he had in mind when he made his charge of wage-cutting. After his address, he told the Associated Press he was not referring to Bethlehem. Mr. Schwab made this statement:

"I really discover no difference between my views and Mr. Farrell's and I heartily endorse all he said."

In his attack on wage policy, which surprised the 1,000 assembled executives, Mr. Farrell said: "I

LABOR WARNS OF DISCONTENT

Short Working Week Cited As Solution

EL PASO, Texas, May 22. (AP)—Warnings that labor throughout the country was becoming more and more restless and positive action was needed to relieve its condition were given by speakers at the final session of the Texas State Federation of Labor annual convention here today.

"Labor is dangerously restless," said Dan W. Tracy of Dallas, representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. "Capitalists should recognize this, and do something about it."

Sounding the same note, J. W. Parks of Dallas, president of the federation, declared the federal government should compel big business to alleviate conditions of unemployment brought about by invention, mass production and reduced man power.

"The six-hour day and the five-day week," he said, "is the solution offered by labor, and it is the only concrete solution which has been offered."

Final resolutions adopted called for organization of automobile mechanics, favored a law compelling pensioning of city employes, and demanded a legislative investigation of the Texas Employers Insurance association to bring about a reduction in workmen's compensation insurance rates.

The next convention will be held in Fort Worth in May, 1932. Lubbock invited the convention to meet there in 1933.

"There is no chance whatever of getting these records," Raymond Higgins, Salsberry's attorney, told the court after questioning of three witnesses failed to disclose whereabouts of ledgers and other office records reported missing from the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalties company offices here.

Following the trial, Judge Moore stated the sentence would be made to run concurrently with a two-year penalty assessed the middle-aged woman at Floresville several weeks ago on a similar indictment.

CITY EXPOSE SEEN IN DUAL MURDER TRIAL

Los Angeles Candidate Charged in Deaths To 'Tell Plenty'

FRAMEUP SUSPECTED

Woman Sought as Link In Pre-Election Battle Against Suspect

LOS ANGELES, May 22. (AP)—Two murder complaints were lodged today against David H. Clark, candidate for municipal judge, for the slaying Wednesday night of Charles H. Crawford, millionaire political boss, and Herbert F. Spencer, small magazine editor.

A possible underworld election frameup was suggested by detectives as the motive for the killings. Police were searching for June Taylor, who has a record of arrests under several aliases on morals charges, in connection with a possible frameup linking the woman's name with Clark on the eve of the election June 2.

Clark, former deputy district attorney of Los Angeles county, will have his name on the ballot at that election.

To Tell Plenty

June Taylor was said by police to be a former confidante of Albert Marco, vice chieftain convicted by Clark while he served as county prosecutor. Detectives suggested the linking of a notorious woman's name with Clark would have hurt his campaign.

Clark's candidacy had been opposed by Spencer and Crawford.

When he surrendered to police late last night Clark declined to say anything, but today he said "when I talk, I will have plenty to say."

The investigators were anxious to ascertain the movements of Clark since last Saturday. They said a check at border resorts failed to show he was down there as had been reported.

District Attorney Buron Fitts was granted permission by the county supervisors to appoint a special prosecutor for the Clark trial. He said prosecution would be too difficult for the men with whom Clark served eight years as a deputy.

"War" Predicted

"It's going to be a war," Fitts said. He declared he would take the case to the grand jury for a compelte investigation and in order to avoid a preliminary court hearing, saying the time had come for a city cleanup. He asserted it would be a "real one."

Clark was placed under observation in the county jail hospital ward today so district attorney's office will have a record on the question of his mental condition should a plea of insanity be made in the trial.

Clark was arraigned late today. He smiled and joked with friends in the municipal court. Leonard Wilson, former municipal judge, appeared as his counsel and on request for an early setting, the preliminary hearing was fixed for next Thursday.

The number of workmen employed on road construction in 40 states is said by Markham to be 193,907.

Galveston C-C Asks Freight Rate Reduction

AUSTIN, Texas, May 22. (AP)—The railroad commission today received a petition from the Galveston Chamber of Commerce for a rate of 12 cents per 100 pounds on cotton bale covering from Galveston to Beaumont. The present rate is 23 cents.

The Texas and New Orleans, Missouri-Pacific and Katy railroads asked permission to increase their terminal switching charges at San Antonio and Houston to $3.10 a car. The present charges range from $1.80 to $3.15.

Both cases were set for hearing at the June term, beginning June 9.

'Brown' Cavalrymen Take New Mexico Village

NEWMAN, N. M., May 22. (AP)—Despite stubborn resistance by defending white cavalry, this little village of Southern New Mexico, 20 miles northeast of El Paso, was captured by brown troops of the first cavalry division tonight.

Commanded by Maj. Willis D. Crittenberger of Anderson, Ind., the second squadron, eighth cavalry, crossed the border between the white and brown states shortly after formal war was declared and forced the white troopers to withdraw to the northeast.

AIR '600' ROAR OVER GOTHAM

Modern Armada Settles For 'Battle' Today

By DOROTHY ROE
Universal Service Writer

NEW YORK, May 22.—Planes to the right of you, planes to the left of you—into New York today roared the 600.

They are the 600 airplanes, from scouting craft to heavy bombers, which came speeding east today from Dayton, Ohio, to give old Gotham a sight of war maneuvers, and protect the unguarded city from a phony attack by a mythical fleet.

This impressive air defense will prove tomorrow that if New York City were attacked by an alien fleet, if the Panama canal were bottled up, the Atlantic fleet sunk and the police department missing, the city could still be saved.

First Crackup

The first planes arrived over Long Island just after 1 p. m. The 151st observation squadron of 39 planes circled high over Mitchell field while the seventh bombardment squadron of 27 planes was coming down on Roosevelt field No. 1.

From north, east and west came the planes like chickens coming home to roost, to settle at these two fields and at Fairchild and Curtiss airports, on Long Island.

A few minor accidents occurred on the journey, and one of the first planes to land at Roosevelt field, a biplane from the seventh bombardment, skidded into a gulley and was

A third man questioned in connection with the robbery was not placed in jail.

Fort Worth Has Rival For U. S. Drug Farm

WASHINGTON, May 22. (US)—Th merits of Parsons, Kan., as a site for the proposed federal narcotics farm west of the Mississippi were extolled today before the interdepartmental committee by former Gov. Clyde Reed and former Senator Henry J. Allen.

Reed said the home for drug addicts could be built at Parsons for $800,000 less than at Fort Worth, Texas, because of lower wage and material costs. A subcommittee was appointed to take the matter under advisement.

Russian Delegate Gives New Indication Of Curtailment

BRIAND DEPARTS

Disappointed French Delegate Cheered as He Starts to Paris

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service Special Cable

GENEVA, May 22.—A direct threat to curtail Soviet trade with the United States was seen today as the result of conferences of foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff of the Soviet with Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson of Great Britain and Foreign Ministers Curtius of Germany and Dino Grandi of Italy.

Continuing his policy of economic conciliation, Litvinoff, it is declared laid the foundations for building up closer commercial relations with European countries, giving them a large share of the Russian business which has previously gone to the United States.

BRIAND ACCLAIMED

PARIS, May 22. (AP)—France's foreign minister, Aristide Briand, was welcomed with wild enthusiasm by a mass of admirers, men and women, when his train arrived here from Geneva at 10:30 o'clock tonight.

It was with great difficulty he forced his way through the cheering multitude to a side door where his automobile waited. He drove immediately to the foreign office.

Briand Goes Home

Meanwhile, while Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France was returning to Paris to place his portfolio at the disposal of Premier Laval, France was able to swing over, the council of the League of Nations to her concern over Germany's strides in civil aviation.

The council officially "recognized" the potentialities of civil aircraft in war time, deciding that the world disaramament conference in February should draft a convention giving "publicity" to civil aviation. This was interpreted to mean that all participating nations must furnish complete figures concerning civil and commercial aircraft.

Henderson Confirmed

The council confirmed the selection of Foreign Secretary Henderson as chairman of the disarmament conference and designated Geneva as the site. Henderson addressed the council on the nationalistic demonstrations in the free city of Danzig, "deploring" the demonstrations and requesting the Danzig delegate to report fully on the city's relations with Poland.

The departure of M. Briand for Paris was a moment touching to all who have witnessed Briand at work on his policies of European rapprochement, and have seen the disappointment which overtook him when he was defeated for the French presidency.

Cheers for Briand

When the French "apostle of peace" left the league city, he left the scene of his greatest efforts to secure international understanding and European amity. Cries of "vive la faix!" (Long live peace) and exhortations that he return to Geneva in September to head the Pan-European commission meetings brought from Briand only:

"I shall think over my future plans while on the way to Paris. I hope to see you again."

Under Briand's guidance, the European commission accepted the Soviet proposal to outlaw economic warfare, created a plan for an international agricultural credit bank, set up a committee to deal with unemployment and another to co-ordinate plans dealing with solution of the economic crisis.

TIME WASTED

Russian Plan Deadlocks World Conference On Wheat

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE

LONDON, May 22. (US)—The world wheat conference meets in plenary session here tomorrow intent on striving for a promise between the opposing and Russian formulas for prevention of future wheat surpluses.

That there is little prospect for success and that the conference will break up without any definite accomplishment was indicated today when the standing committee reported that neither of the formulas proposed met with a "sufficient degree of agreement" to form the basis of actual negotiations. It will, however, submit a report to tomorrow's session.

HOOVER DENIES EXTRA SESSION

Ultimatum Closes Door To Appeals

WASHINGTON, May 22. (AP)—President Hoover today definitely closed the door against an extra session of congress.

"We cannot legislate ourselves out of a world economic depression," he said at his press conference. "We can and will work ourselves out."

Saying he did not propose to call an extra session he added:

"I know of nothing that would so disturb the healing processes now undoubtedly going on in the economic situation."

Denies Petitions

In emphatically disposing of the extra session proposal, Mr. Hoover said he had recently received a number of petitions and memorials from various organizations, chiefly of a religious character, asking that he convene congress in special session for consideraiton of unemployment relief.

The Republican independent group in the senate likewise has called for special meeting but Mr. Hoover said "a poll of the members of congress would show that a large majority agree with me in opposing an extra session."

Republican leaders in congress had opposed the extra session and Democratic leaders have been content to leave the responsibility to the president. He alone has the power to convene one.

Senate Included

The presidential declaration left no opening for any change of heart and congressional leaders are making no plans to assemble here before the regular meeting in December.

So emphatic was the White House statement that senate leaders presumed it was all inclusive and that no special session of the senate alone would be called for consideration of the world court.

Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, in a formal statement yesterday called upon President Hoover to convene congress in a special session to deal with unemployment.

BILL TABLED AFTER HOUSE ADOPTS REPORT

Opponents Brand Proposal As 'Unfair' to East Texas

SESSION EXTENDED

Lower Branch Postpones Adjournment Until Noon Today

AUSTIN, May 22. (AP)—Gov. Ross S. Sterling tonight told the legislature he would ask it to return within 20 or 30 days "if it develops that an additional session will be necessary to complete the program of needed legislation."

The senate tonight concurred in the house amendment to its adjournment resolution.

AUSTIN, May 22. (AP)—The senate killed congressional redistricting for this session by rejecting 13 to 11 a conference report that earlier had been adopted by the house.

The senate reconsidered and tabled the question so that it could not be brought up again before adjournment. Vote was 13 to 12 on tabling.

Senators Beck of DeKalb, DeBerry of Bogota, Greer of Athens, Holbrook of Galveston, Hornsby of Austin, Loy of Sherman, New of Carthage, Parr of Venavides, Patton of Crockett, Poage of Waco, Pollard of Tyler, Purl of Dallas, and Thomason of Nacogdoches voted against acceptance of the free conference report.

Oneal Votes 'Aye'

Senators Cousins of Beaumont, Cunningham of Abilene, Gainer of Bryan, Hardin of Stephenville, Oneal of Wichita Falls, Parrish of Lubbock, Rawlings of Fort Worth, Small of Wellington, Williamson of San Antonio, Woodruff of Decatur, and Woodward of Coleman voted in the affirmative.

The motion to reject the free conference report was made by Senator Greer of Kemp as a substitute to a motion to adopt. The Greer motion also called for the resignation of the house and senate congressional redistricting conferees, and the appointment of another group.

Little time was consumed in considering the report. Senator Parr of Benavides moved the previous question and the senate voted 17 to 9 to impose it.

Bill Called Unfair

Senator Greer stated a ruling from the attorney general's office in 1923 held that a succeeding legislative body could not repeal a redistricting act. He argued the bill was unfair to East Texas.

There was a scattering of hand

HOUSE EXTENDS SESSION ONE DAY

AUSTIN, May 22. (AP)—The house receded from its stand against prolonging the session of the 42nd legislature longer than noon today and voted to extend the session until tomorrow. The clock of the house showed 10:15 a. m. when the amendment was adopted to a senate resolution to extend the session until Tuesday noon.

Despite vigorous opposition and predictions the legislature would be in as bad a shape tomorrow noon as tonight, the resolution as amendment carried overwhelmingly, 86 to 26. The forces of the extensionist bloc were strengthened when Speaker Fred Minor took the floor and made a plea for additional time in which to work on the free conference reports on the appropriation bills.

Bond Vote Banned

Minor declared the necessity of a special session would be obviated if the legislature passed the appropriation bills and sent them to the governor. Minor also agreed that should the session be extended no controversial bills or resolutions would be laid before the house to consume time.

Fears of opponents of the highway bond issue that an extension to Tuesday would permit the resolution to again be presented were dissipated when Representatives Beck of Fort Worth, Hubbard of New Boston and Johnson of Carrizo Springs, bond issue leaders, stated if the bond issue was brought up again they would vote against it.

Representative Sanders of Nacogdoches, chairman of the house appropriation committee, said agreements had been reached on all appropriation bills and that the reports were being prepared. It was believed likely the eleemosynary appropriation would be presented tonight.

The procedure of turning the clock back without consent of the house evoked a storm of disapproval, Representatives Mathis of Houston and Albritton of Yorktown bitterly assailing this method of prolonging the session.

Cuts Eliminated

The free conference reports on the educational and departmental appropriations were reported to be considerable in excess of the totals as approved by the house. The report eliminated the five and 10 per cent cut in salaries and restored approximately $1,000,000 in buildings for educational institutions. The members of the economy bloc was considerably divided as to what course to follow.

Representative Petsch said he believed the governor would veto all the bills and that he would vote for the reports as presented. In the event the governor saw fit to reduce appropriations, the house had pointed out the way, Uetsch said.

It was considered possible the house would refuse to adopt either the educational or departmental reports, necessitating adjournment without passage of the appropriations or an extension to Tuesday.

'Blue Pencil' Predicted

Representative Holder of Lancaster, educational conferee, admitted the educational report "looked like a senate bill" but said the governor had indicated he would blue pencil unnecessary appropriations and keep the appropriations within the revenue. He said the governor was willing to assume the responsibility.

Several house members expressed resentment at the senate's attitude, claiming the upper branch was trying to browbeat the house into adopting its views. Representative Kayton of San Antonio declared it was time for the house to assert itself and declare to the people it was unwilling to approve excessive appropriations. He urged rejection of the educational and departmental bills, even if it necessitated a special session.

A free conference report on the widow's pension bill was adopted. It allowed counties to award pensions of $15 per month to a widow with one child and $6 for each additional child. A two-year residence requirement was in the report.

A bill to create a board of managers for the executive mansion was passed.

Free Box Seats Offered in C-C Campaign to Aid Spudder Attendance

Box seat privileges will accompany each general admission ticket sold in groups of 30 during the drive to be staged next week by the chamber of commerce sports and recreation committee in an effort to stimulate attendance at Texas league baseball games here, it was announced Friday following a conference between Spudder officials and the committee.

Purchasers of 30 general admission tickets will be entitled to witness 30 baseball games from a box seat.

The ticket sale campaign is being conducted in an effort to stimulate greater attendance at Spudder games here.

The drive for sale of tickets will be generaled by A. E. Kelly. Mr. Kelly has called a meeting of the committee at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the chamber of commerce offices.

Although workers will concentrate efforts on the sale of tickets in blocks, admissions in smaller numbers will be sold. Quantity purchases entitle the patron to any box at the ball park not sold for the season.

The staging of the campaign results from a heavy decrease in attendance this season at ball games here, which is said to threaten the loss of Wichita Falls' ball club.

Drive to 'Humanize' Hoover Moves Joe Robinson to Bitter Attack

WASHINGTON, May 22. (AP)—Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said tonight "the country has lost faith" in President Hoover.

"For the first time in our political history that I recall," he said in a statement through the national committee, "the president of the United States in the middle of an initial term finds it necessary to go into a campaign to rehabilitate himself in the estimation of the voters."

"Perhaps it is because of a realization that there can be no adequate explanation of the administration's failure," he added, "that his newspaper organs have suddenly blossomed forth with a crop of childish stories having for their purpose what the paragraphers have dubbed 'humanizing Hoover.'

"These stories could hardly be circulated without the president's cognizance. In effect, they constitute an appeal to the country tantamount to saying "I may not be a wise executive, but see what a kindly, humane and homely sort of a chap I am."

DEATH TAKES TURF NABOB

British Race and Diamond King Succumbs

NEWMARKET, England, May 22. (AP)—"Solly" Joel died today at the age of 65 and thus relinquished a place as one of the most romantic and colorful figures in the history of the British turf and finance.

He was born Solomon Barneto Joel, but to half the population of Great Britain he was know as "Solly"—the diamond millionaire whose vast wealth and lavish expenditures dazzled London and international society at the beginning of the century.

His fame as a racehorse owner and sportsman equaled that of his financial name.

Came From Slums

Many of his contemporaries in the South African diamond mining industry gathered great wealth there, but Joel's fortune once was estimated as high as 20,000,000 pounds sterling and there are few men in the British empire who amassed such fortunes.

He started life as the child of a poor family in the London slums.

As a racehorse owner, in his famous salmon pink and green silks, he was seen in almost every race of importance over a period of many years. His Humorist won the derby in 1921, but his big year was in 1915 when his colt Pomeen made a clean sweep of the three principal classics of the British turf—the 2,000 guineas, the derby and the St. Leger.

The horse Polymelus, which he bought for 4,200 pounds, was credited with having netted him something like 100,000 pounds in bets. His breeding stud at Maiden Erlegh was famous throughout the world.

Wide Interests

His country house at Reading was a gathering place for politicians, stage stars, jockeys and leading figures in the commercial world. He held a commission as lieutenant colonel. His principal business interest was in the diamond industry, but he also had important holdings in public utilities in both England and South Africa.

Joel's career dates back to the South African diamond rush of the 1880's when he went with his uncle, "Barney," the late B. J. Barneto, to the diamond fields. Through a spectacular struggle with Cecil Rhodes for supremacy in the industry, he emerged as the world's undisputed diamond king.

His widow, who was his second wife, a brother, two sons and two daughters survive him.

Steel President Raps Wage Cuts

"You say wages have been stabilized," the steel corporation president said. "They have not. We are living in a fool's paradise. Honeycombing and pinching of all sorts of things have gone on. The so-called big standard companies, the companies in the headlines, are not maintaining the standard of wages. It's a shame that when some of the large companies are trying to maintain wages, others are cutting them even when the are affording only three-days-a-week employment."

Present steel prices bring no profit, Mr. Farrell said.

"There is a tragedy behind this whole business," he continued. "We are no longer sellers of steel. The large buyers tell us what they are willing to pay. . . .

"We have ourselves to blame. You hear much of the interference of the tariff wall, but the stones for that wall have not even been quarried as yet. The average duty on iron and steel would not pay the freight on steel from New York to Lancaster.

"I don't see any hope of better prices until the presidents of the companies stop the present diabolical situation. I am not seeking any allbis for myself except to say that the corporation I am connected with has been watching the price barometer."

The industry should be thriving—but isn't—on 50 per cent operation, Mr. Farrell said, adding:

"It is not honest for us to sell our steel products below cost and knock off something from our dividend and reduce our wages."

Mr. Schwab, in his speech, saw "a very strong note of improvement in the general situation." He said there was reason to believe liquidation was about over and "there are many signs of stirring in our economic life."

Childress Host to Texas-Oklahoma Unit

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, May 22.—A county meeting of the Texas-Oklahoma Wheat Growers association will be held at Childress Tuesday, May 26, for the purpose of acquainting the members of this county with the workings of the association. As harvesting time is near the farmers are anxious to learn something of the marketing plans of the association, also something of what the price will be.

C. E. Fletcher of the Lonis neighborhood is a director from Childress county and the meeting is being held under his direction.

American Mayors Received in Havre

HAVRE, France, May 22. (AP)—Twenty-one American mayors, in France for the colonial exposition, were received today at the city hall under the first warm sun they had seen since they sailed from New York.

"We are impressed, happy and grateful," Mayor George Baker of Portland, Ore., told Mayor Leon Meyer of Havre as spokesman for the delegation.

There was a luncheon at an ocean-front hotel, the first of a series of banquets which probably will test the powers of the most inveterate diners-out among the delegation. Tomorrow the visitors were to begin a tour of Normandy.

Killer's Gun Identified As One Stolen in Raid

JOPLIN, Mo., May 22. (AP)—A revolver with which James Edward Creighton has admitted killing Coyne Hatten, a son of a Webb City capitalist, has been identified as the weapon taken from Elbert A. Dailey, Hastings, Neb., police officer, by bandits who robbed a bank there Feb. 25, of $27,000.

Creighton, who waived preliminary hearing on a murder charge brought after he had signed a confession he shot Hatten in a sudden flare of anger, is held without bond.

Officers believed he was a member of the notorious Mat Kimes gang and was a roommate here of Fred Barker, fugitive burglar and safe cracker. Fred Barker is a brother of Herman Barker, shot near Carterville by a Joplin detective in a battle which led to the capture of Ray Terrill, another widely known outlaw.

DALLAS, May 22. (AP)—T. P. Roberts of the O. R. W. Oil company of Dallas, heading a group of independents, has urged, in a letter to the Independent Petroleum association and the major companies, shutting down crude oil production in the United States. The move, as outlined, would be temporary or until the "demoralization" of the oil industry has been adjusted. It would be accompanied by the voluntary restriction of imports.

The letter said producers, royalty owners and others directly interested were losing millions of dollars because of surplus production. It suggested that the shutdown should last about a year or until the greater part of 500,000,000 barrels of crude oil, reported in storage, and the huge gasoline stocks are consumed.

A plea to stop the alleged waste of national resources was included in the letter.

GANDHI SPIKES LONDON TRIP

Mahatma Again Upsets British Empire

SIMLA, India, May 22. (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi again has upset plans of the British empire by refusing to go to London for a meeting of the federal structures committee as suggested by the British cabinet.

The diminutive, 93-pound leader of the Indian nationalists telegraphed Lord Wilingdon, viceroy of India, from Nainital today that he could not possibly be in London June 29 before the Hindu-Moslem communal problem is solved and all conditions of the Delhi armistice have been carried out.

Efforts at once were started by long distance telephone and telegraph to alter his decision but those who know the character of the father of India's independence movement say he is not likely to change his mind.

Gandhi was represented as feeling his presence in India now is imperative if all terms of the Delhi truce are to be enforced and if the existing breach between Hindus and Moslems is to be healed.

Our Criminal Rich Product of Gangland They Feed on the Poor As the Germans See Us

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Why gangsters wear diamonds, rent pent houses, and have estates on Long Island and Florida will be a little easier to understand when one looks over the bank roll of Henry Miro, arrested "policy king," of Harlem, whose profits at the game netted him over a million dollars in four years. He had 10 bank accounts under various names. Another operator in the same racket, Wilfred Brunder, whose activities are presently being looked into, is supposed to show even larger bank balances.

While honest men are trying hard to eke out a bare livelihood, men like Miro come along and pile up millions. And these millions are earned through working on get-rich-quick hopes of the poor, the same poor who cannot seem to make ends meet, but who always seem to have enough to go in for lottery.

Miro, of course, will pay for his racket now—and pay heavily. But his career shows why hundreds of men are in the game, and tempted to remain in it. The clever ones get out in time. These clever ones may become politicians or even judges. They know the ropes. For they belong to a new class of Americans—the criminal rich.

To the Germans, America is still a "ludicrous" homeland where only "tempo, haste and heat" count. One Berlin editor finds us "lacking in culture." Another characterizes us as "cold and unfriendly." If a man is hurt in the street of New York, for instance, no one will bother to help him—that is the opinion of a writer in the Hamburger Fremdenblatt.

The same editor concludes that we are "spiritually bankrupt." Even our ministers, he points out, preach only on success.

In retort, American newspaper editors might point to two simple items of news that recently came in for considerable comment. One was the Prince of Wales' advice to Englishmen to "wake up" and follow American methods of advertising—even at the risk of becoming as "vulgar" as we are. The other is the visit of Herr Albert Einstein, Germany's outstanding scientific light, who traveled 5,000 miles to consult with a few of our physicists.

Nor did the Nobel prize for literature go to Germany this year, but to "uncultured" America also got the Nobel prize for peace and for medicine. And the king of Siam did not go to Germany for an operation, but came to barbarous America.

As for our callousness and indifference, half of the backward countries of Europe are being fed—some actually kept from starvation—by American gold, which has not stopped flowing since the war. American money endows churches, hospitals, asylums in the remotest parts of Europe, Africa and Asia. Our munificence recognizes, truly, no race, creed or color barrier.

We may be full of rackets and overrun by gunmen, but there is still a heart beating within us—and a brain, too.

The fable of the goose that laid the golden eggs, and what happened to the avaricious owner of it, comes to mind when one reads of what happened to the invention of an "economic genius" of Newark, N. J. This invention, a switch, was sold to electric current consumers for $20, and was guaranteed to reroute the current to the lighting station, instead of registering on the meter, thus netting those who availed themselves of it a considerable saving every month.

Now the inventor, along with eight of his beneficiaries, are enjoying a little siesta in the local jail as a result of their inspiration. All might have gone well if the group had remained satisfied with re-routing some of the current. But they grew bold and wound up by re-routing practically all of it. Like the owner of a goose that laid every day a golden egg, they wanted all the advantage at once, and so they killed the "goose," in this case the invention.

'The Play's the Thing'

THERE is something wholesome, simple and inspiring in the life story of David Belasco. He knew what he wanted to do when he was only 14. He produced a play that year, and when he died the other day the spangled lights of Broadway were carrying the name of his 400th odd play.

David Belasco achieved greatness because he saw the all-together human appeal that the make-believe world has for people who sit at typewriters, stand behind counters, or discuss the world's business in the Main street and Wall street offices.

They want a cross-section of life. Something stimulating, varied, sympathetic, humorous, sad at times, but, above all, distinctly human and real. Not puppets moved by a string. Not actors who say clever lines that are just words in their mouths. But something that is so genuine it could have been lived, with the added dramatic vigor that the stage has and life disguises.

It is because of this human interest and understanding of David Belasco's that those who love the make-believe world are sad. The stage lights are shining as brightly as ever. The play goes on, as the master of stagecraft would have wanted it, too. The play is the thing, Shakespeare said long ago. Belasco was great because he knew the truth of that statement.

Maybe people learned a lesson or two from life a little more clearly because David Belasco lived and dramatized. It is easier to catch the impress of anything that is portrayed pictorially. But certainly people approached a keener understanding of the relationship of art and life because he gathered the vibrancy and pathos and humor of it all, and put it on the stage, for the world to see.

Most of the truly great lessons aren't taught by people who deliver weighty sermons or write serious books with the moral nicely outlined at the beginning and summed up in a conscientious manner at the end. That sort of thing isn't hard to do. It isn't especially important, either, because it doesn't get an audience. It is boring. And the 20th century hasn't time to be bored.

It takes some one who has keen understanding of life as it is lived, a vivid sense that the public has a conscience and a set of values and a certain amount of mentality to help life along.

For such a person will do the thing that he wants to do for the love of the doing. To be true to his art, to be progressive in his profession, he has to grow. He will help the world along, but he won't know that he has. And neither will it. David Belasco played that way. Perhaps that is why he succeeded.

Laughing the Depression Away

HOWEVER you regard that 10-day party Chicago threw publicly for "better times" recently, it had a more stimulating effect on the city's business than all the cheery prophesies of our Pollyanna economists. It helped confirm what the administration has long contended, that most of the difficulties of the present slump are largely mental.

Chicago's celebration, in which an estimated quarter of a million persons reveled in parades, carnivals, street dancing and confetti-throwing, to the sentiments of "good times ahead" and "returning prosperity," was a tremendous triumph for psychology. Merchants, reporting increased sales, said that not for many years has business been so brisk.

Maybe what this country needs to help lift it out of the depression is more jubilee a la Chicago. A rousing celebration can have a tonic effect on business; can be electric enough to awaken people from the slough of despond. All credit to Chicago for tackling the depression "bull" by the horns!

His Name Is 'Remarque'

PUBLICATION of the book, "The Road Back," by the author of "All Quiet on the Western Front," reminds one of a curious story that has grown up about the author during the last two years.

The author, as every one knows, is Erich Marie Remarque. But it has been said repeatedly that the man's real name is Kramer, and that Remarque is only a nom de plume made by reversing the spelling of Kramer and substituting a "que" for the final "k."

Now Mr. Remarque himself tells about it, as follows:

"My name is not 'Kramer'; that is a fairy tale invented by some German militarists and disseminated in the press. My name is Remarque; that has been the name of my family for hundreds of years. No one in our family was ever called 'Kramer'; that is pure invention."

Which, it seems to us, ought to settle the matter for good.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

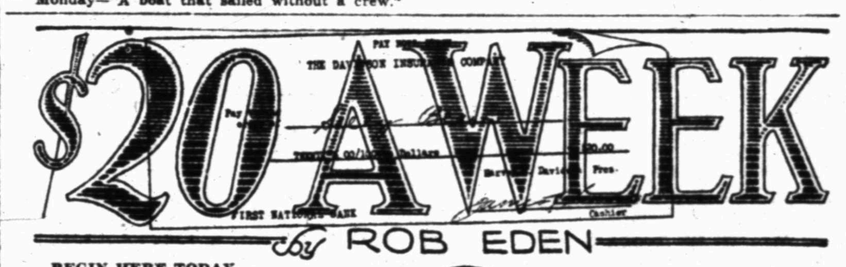

TYCHO BRAHE HAD A GOLDEN NOSE—Tycho Brahe, the famous Danish astronomer (1546-1601) lost his nose in a duel while living at Wittenberg, Germany. For the lost orgen he ingeniously contrieved a substitute made of gold which fitted perfectly.

THE FEZ IS NOT A MOHAMMEDAN HEADDRESS—About 100 years ago the Turkish Sultan Mahmed Khan, upon his return from Paris, ordered his subjects to discard the Mohammedan turban in favor of the tall Persian silk hat, the brims of which he removed in sympathy with the Mohammedan law which bars brims. Thus was born the "fez" which eventually was destined to become the most distinguishing mark of a Turk. In our days Mustapha Kemal again abolished the "fez" in favor of peaked caps, berets and hats. The abolition of the "fez" is being enforced with severity. This varying fortune of a piece of headgear is an amusing detail in the history of the country.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Sally Blair, earning $30 a week and yearning for all the comforts of life, tells her roommate, Ann Seymour, that within a year she intends to have all that she wants. She starts her campaign by flirting with John Warner, sales manager, although she has been warned against him. Peter Douglas, a new salesman, asks her to go out. Later in the day Mr. Warner's secretary tells Sally the sales manager wants to see her.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER III.

Joyce gave a few soft raps on John Warner's door, then at his call, followed Sally into his office.

"I want to see Miss Blair alone, Joyce," he said. His secretary nodded and left for her desk, which was in a room adjoining his.

Sally took the chair he indicated, across the desk from his, and looked around the office. She had no intention of meeting his eyes—yet. She was still inwardly frustrated by his message, but outwardly calm. She realized she had to play her game very carefully. She had at least started on the road to her ambition. She was in Warner's private office. He had sent for her.

Warner was playing with a penholder, carelessly. Once it slipped from his hands and fell to the floor. Wheezing a little, he retrieved it.

Sally couldn't help but contrast his stolid middle age with Peter Douglas' exuberant youth. His freshness. Not that Warner was so old. He wasn't. Probably 47 or 48. Peter, how old was he? Twenty-four? Twenty-five?

For the first time she noticed the slight pouches under Warner's small greenish eyes, his flaccid skin, the reddish hairs under his immaculate white cuffs, the roll of flesh around his stiff proper collar. In his dark blue satin tie was an emerald pin. The color of his eyes, she thought, her nerve almost gone.

An Invitation from Mr. Warner

"Well, Miss Blair," Warner looked at her, and she smiled back. "Nice weather to spend at the beach, isn't it? How would you like a little drive and dinner at the beach?"

"It sounds—fine." Sally thoroughly hated herself then. Her pulse was racing, but her soft lips, her darkening eyes didn't show it.

"Tonight?"

"Tonight, Mr. Warner? I've—" She had promised Peter Douglas to go out with him tonight, and now Warner was asking her, too. She realized how much she wanted to go with Peter, when she debated with herself.

"You've another engagement?" Warner asked.

"Yes—" Sally breathed a little more easily. She could go with Peter, as she wanted to. She'd tell Warner she'd go with him some other time . . .

"Why don't you break it?"

Well, why didn't she break it? Hadn't she made up her mind that nothing counted in her life now but herself? Hadn't she purposely smiled at Warner so that he would ask her to go out? Hadn't she? And now when she had the chance she was hesitating, like any other silly schoolgirl would do, if she were confronted with the choice of Mr. Warner or Peter Douglas.

"I'm sorry, but I won't be able to go out with you tonight."

Peter attractive, young, interesting. Warner the opposite.

Sally Agrees to Go

Still, it would be fun to go with Peter, to get to know him . . . If she broke the date he'd probably never ask her out again. What was it that was drawing her so close to him?

Last night she had been so sure of what she wanted. So determined. Today she wasn't, or else she wouldn't be so indecisive. Young Douglas didn't mean anything to her, and her future did. That was her own.

"Surely, I will," she said quickly, before she changed her mind again, before more arguments appeared. It was done. She was going out with John Warner.

"Fine. That's the girl." Warner rubbed his hands. "We're going to get along splendidly."

In a moment Sally was out of his office, walking past Joyce Haller's desk, wondering whether it was only in her imagination that the red-haired secretary glanced sharply at her as she went by. Later she knew it wasn't, for Mame, too, was curious when she finally was settled in front of her own typewriter.

"What's the big idea of going to see the boss?" Mame inquired.

"Business." Sally hoped she wouldn't ask more, for she didn't want to answer any questions about her visit to Mr. Warner's private office.

Mame Warns Sally Again

"Yeah? I saw you smile at him this morning, don't you think I didn't. What's the joke?"

"There isn't any joke."

"Sally, the first day you were here I warned you. I thought you had paid some attention to my warning. I see you didn't. I'm going to warn you again. Warner asked you out, of course. I know that, because he doesn't send for any of his girls unless he has an invitation he wants to hand out. Joyce or one of his assistants always gives us his business messages. Besides he sent Joyce out of the office, I know. I saw her in

The poem, Evangeline, is based on a true story, which traveled from Canada to New England by word of mouth, finally reaching Hawthorne, who did not care to use it for a romance and turned it over to Longfellow. The story has founded a national legend which has kept alive the memory of an episode which would otherwise have been forgotten.

Q.—Were the Indians hospitable when they were on friendly terms with the white men?—W. U.

A.—Handbook of American Indians says: "Hospitality, distinguished from charity, was a cardinal principle of every Indian tribe. The narratives of many pioneer explorers and settlers, from De Soto and Coronado, Amidas and Barlow, John Smith and the Pilgrims down to the most recent period, are full of instances of wholesale hospitality toward the white strangers, sometimes at considerable cost to the hosts."

Q.—Did silencers actually keep guns from making any noise when fired?—R. H. G.

A.—The report was not strictly silenced either on rifles or single shot pistols. It was reduced, however from an explosion to a sort of loud puff or hiss. On a revolver the report escaped at the junction between the cylinder and barrel.

Many Causes of Vomiting

I have had several letters from young girls of today who make themselves vomit after a meal, to keep thin. They call themselves "Romans," after the Romans of old, who were said to have started the custom of making themselves vomit during a feast, in order to eat more. However, most people do not vomit because they want to, and when they do they immediately think they have something poisonous in the stomach. But as a matter of fact, a least half of all this trouble is due to something other than stomach trouble.

About a hundred letters a day come to my desk dealing with this subject. Much as I would like to advise these patients, it is often impossible for me to give advice unless the patient has included his doctor's diagnosis. I shall list some of the many causes of vomiting for you so that you can see why it would be difficult to tell what is making a patient vomit, unless I know something more about the facts of the case.

The majority of the cases of bilious vomiting comes from some interference with the normal elimina- ive processes of liver and gall bladder and not from a serious disease of these organs. Vomiting due to these cases will bring up a vomitus which has a bitter taste. Kidney stones, gall stones, or kidney disease may also cause this disorder. Chronic appendicitis may produce vomiting; and an acute attack is often characterized by painful vomiting. Congestion or inflammation in the ovaries, uterus or tubes may produce a desire to vomit. Nothing is more sickening than when an inflamed ovary is pressed upon by a prolapsed stomach. Sometimes a severe prolapsus will cause vomiting. Prostate trouble in the male may cause nausea.

Vomiting which occurs only infrequently and can be traced to a rich, heavy meal may be due to simple indigestion. Children may have attacks from such causes, with coated tongue and fever, and recover in a few days. However, vomiting due to stomach ulcers will occur more often and be more persistent; it also often contains blood which may be either bright red or the dark color of coffee grounds. When vomiting is due to stomach trouble, then merely emptying the stomach by throwing up the contents will usually relieve the trouble, but if it is a reflex type due to liver, gall bladder or ovarian trouble, or to stones, then the vomiting will not completely relieve the nausea.

Vomiting may become a nervous habit as in the case of the woman who wrote that she vomited her dinner every night for two years. Emotional disturbances may also induce this trouble. In babies, vomiting is not serious, and indicates that the baby has taken too much milk.

Pregnancy may be accompanied by a type of vomiting called "morning sickness" unless the patient knows how to prevent this. Vomiting may be due to sea sickness, or car or plane sickness, or due to eyestrain. If pus is draining from tonsils, gums, or abscessed teeth it may cause a faint feeling of nausea.

When vomiting occurs, give plenty of water in order to wash the stomach out, put the patient to bed, allow water, orange juice, or very cold lemon juice, but no solid food. If no pain is present, then use hot water bottles at the feet and cold applications over the stomach. If there is pain in the abdomen, then use hot applications, as these often give relief.

In most cases this will clear up the trouble. Fasting is the safest possible treatment and should be used in all cases, no matter what the cause of the vomiting may be. If the fast does not celar up the trouble then go to your doctor and have a complete examination. The doctor will then be able to tell you what is causing the trouble, which in many cases will not be in the stomach at all.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dark Spots

Question—I. M. writes: "There is a small dark spot on each cheek. What causes them, and how can I get rid of them?"

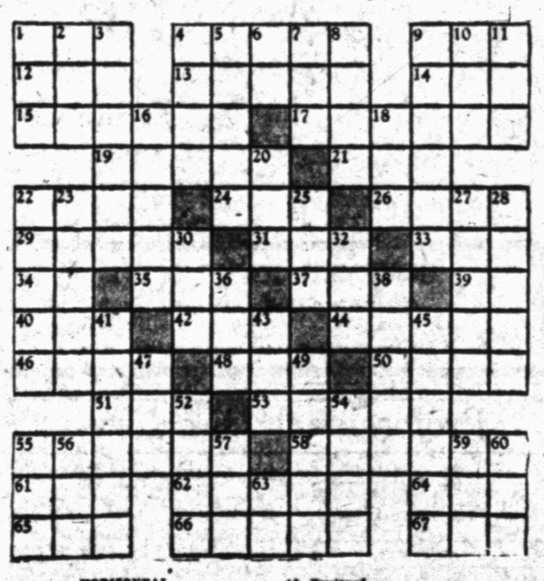

Answer—Dark spots are caused by some faulty formation of color pigment in your skin. This is usually due to a faulty metabolism and can be prevented by a correctly balanced diet.

Canned Vegetables

Question—Mrs. K. H. writes: "I expect to move to a small place very soon and it will not always be possible to get fresh vegetables as listed in your menus. Would it be all right to substitute the canned ones.

Answer—There is a widespread belief that canned foods are unwholesome but with our modern methods of canning this is not true at the present time; also, there are arguments about the vitamin contents being lowered by food standing in a can for very long before being used, but there is no evidence to show that this decrease is very great. By all means use the canned foods if you cannot get the fresh ones, and I especially suggest spinach, asparagus, string beans, corn, French artichoke, pineapple and ripe olives.

BEAUMONT SHIPPERS SQUARE SERIES WITH 4 TO 2 VICTORY

SPUDS FAIL IN LATE RALLY

Bob Fuss Hits Homer In Second Inning

By FRED THOMPSON

Garms' high heave to first in the third inning, closely followed by three hits, gave the Shippers three runs and an edge the Spudders could never overcome yesterday, and Beaumont squared the short series with a 4 to 2 victory.

Goldy Goldstein of the Shippers and Ash Hillin of the Spuds pitched excellent games, the Beaumont twirler holding the Spuds to six blows while the Shippers got only eight off Hillin. Goldstein figured heavily in the Beaumont attack with a double and triple, the three-bagger driving in one of his team's runs.

The Spudder attack was featured by the hitting of Bob Fuss, who slammed out a home run in the second and a double in the ninth to start a rally that was never finished.

The game marked the end of the invasion of the north by the clubs of the south. Today the Shreveport Sports will be here to open a two-game series.

Ball Hits Ump

The Shippers pushed a man around to third in the first inning due chiefly to a wallop Umpire John King got in the neck. Schuble was safe at first on Scharein's high throw and when he took out on a theft mission for second King got squarly in the path of Bryant's perfect throw. It bounced off King's neck to give Schuble a stolen base. Schuble went to third on White's infield out, but Easterling forced him at the plate, Garms to Bryant. Fritz grounded out to Stanton unassisted to retire the side.

The Spuds took a one-run lead in their half. Singles by Garms and Allday and a wild patch by Goldstein got Garms to third and he scored when Stanton hit into a double play, short to second to first. Gullic walked but Badgro forced him at second, second to short.

With one out, Holley doubled against the center field boards in the second but moved no farther as the next two went down, Gullic catching Taylor's fly and Wise grounding out, Stanton to Hillin, who covered first.

Fuss Hits Homer

Fuss opened the Spudder half with a sock that sent the ball o'er the right field enclosure for a home run. Scharein followed with a single but Bryant struck out and Hillin hit into a double play, short to second to first.

The inner defense of the Spudders cracked in the third and the Shippers followed with three hits to score three runs and assume the lead. With one down, Garms made a gallant stop of Schuble's hot grounder, but threw it away, the runner taking second. White singled, scoring Schuble, and swiped second when Bryant dropped the pitch. Easterling singled, scoring White, and also swiped second. Then after Fritz had backed Badgro up against the left field fence with a high fly and Hughes had walked, Holley doubled to right, scoring Easterling and advancing Hughes to third. Taylor popped up to Allday for the third out. The Shipper infield set the Spuds down scoreless in the home half.

With two down in the first of the fourth, Schuble beat out an infield hit to short, and went to second on a wild pitch. White walked to make things look dangerous, but Easterling flied out to Gullic to get the Spudder pitcher out of trouble. Goldstein retired the Spuds in order in their half, Badgro being called out on strikes, Fuss grounding out to first unassisted, and Scharein lining out to first.

Missed Chance

Hillin equaled Goldstein's stunt in the first of the fifth. Fritz and Hughes were retired by Gullic and Fuss, respectively, and Hillin struck out Holley. The Spudders missed a good scoring opportunity in the last of the inning. Bryant singled to right to start it, and went to second on Hillin's perfect sacrifice. He took third on Garms' infield out, but was stranded when Allday popped up to short.

The visitors scored one in the sixth when Taylor singled through the box, took second on Wise's sacrifice, and crossed the platter on Goldstein's triple to right. The next two were retired. The Spudders, in their half were hitless and scoreless. After Stanton had popped up to Short Gullic walked and took second on Badgro's infield out, but Fuss grounded out, first to pitcher, who covered first.

Rally Fails

The seventh and eighth were uneventful, three batters on each side going down in each frame.

Goldstein got his second hit of the day when he opened the ninth with a double to left. He went to third on a passed ball. Hillin pitched out of the hole, however. Schuble lined out to Scharein, White went out swinging, and Easterling grounded out, Allday to Stanton.

In the Spudder half, Gullic popped up to short and Badgro fouled out to the catcher, before Fuss blazed a double to left to start a belated rally. Scharein was safe on the third baseman's error, Fuss taking third. The rally went no farther, however, for Bryant grounded out, second to first.

Medalist Loses 21-Hole Battle In West Texas Golf Tournament

Scenes at West Texas Golf Association Tournament

Lubbock this week is host to the cream of West Texas golfers, entered in the seventh annual tournament of the West Texas Golf association. Many followers of the game who participated in the Greenbelt tournament at Clarendon this week are entered, and the Wichita Falls Country club is represented. The Lubbock course is a difficult one, as the water hazard scenes at the right in the above photos show. Upper left is a scene at the first tee. Lower left, the Country club. Finals will be played Sunday.

FAULTY PUTT DECIDES MATCH

LUBBOCK, Texas, May 22. (AP)—Completion of first round matches in all flights, second round matches in the third and fourth flights and a few second round matches in the championship and second flights left a strong field of contenders for the seventh annual West Texas Golf association championship today who will continue play tomorrow morning through the preliminaries and semifinals.

There were scarcely any upsets today, the matching going to the favorites. In one of the second round matches of the championship flight, Charles Quail of Post defeated C. R. Pope of Abilene, one up at the 21st hole. The pair finished the regular round with a 70 and a 69 respectively on the Lubbock Country club's par-72 course, Quail winning the 18th hole to square the match. Quail had previously beaten Roy Cooper of Dallas, 4 to 3; Pope won his first match over Nix of Lamesa 7 to 6.

Another first round match that went three extra holes resulted in the downfall of Medalist S. J. Barnett of Eastland. Barnett drew George Meredith, another Eastland player, and the pair played at par figures throughout, Barnett missing a short putt on the 21st to take one over par and lose the match.

Mansel Merriman, favorite from Amarillo, had no trouble winning his first round match over L. G. Crump of Ralls, 7 to 6. He then defeated Bob Scott of Colorado and will meet Quail tomorrow morning in what promises to be one of the best matches of the day. Both have been conceded chances to win the title. Quail has held the crown four times previously.

FINALS IN DALLAS TOURNEY TODAY

DALLAS, May 22. (AP)—Two Dallas golfers, Reynolds Smith and Dick May, will compete tomorrow in the Lakewood Country club invitation golf tournament finals over the 36-hole route. Smith went into the finals today when he eliminated Jack Jackson, Dallas, 2 up, and then beat Lanham Connor, Dallas, in the afternoon round, 5 and 3. May reached the finals when he defeated John Osburn, Paris, Texas, in the morning round 4 and 3, and then played fine golf in the afternoon to beat Dennis Lavender, one up.

John Osburn, the Paris veteran, was not as steady in his match today as he was yesterday when he defeated L. R. Robertson and Gus Morland in a couple of big upsets. Osburn experienced trouble with his putter on most every green, and his approach shots failed him a number of times. May's victory over Dennis Lavender, 1929 state champion, was a surprise. May dropped in a long putt on the 17th green to go one one, and then halved the 18th to win.

MRS. A. M. RHODES WINS DALLAS TITLE

DALLAS, May 22. (AP)—Mrs. A. M. Rhodes, Cedar Crest Country club, won the Dallas Woman's Golf association city championship here today when she defeated Mrs. H. L. Stevenson, Cedar Crest, 11 and 10. When she triumphed today, it made the fourth time Mrs. Rhodes has won the Dallas championship.

Battle for Big Six Track Title Narrows

LINCOLN, Neb., May 22. (AP)—The battle for the 1931 big six track and field championship virtually narrowed down to a dual affair between the defending Kansas Jayhawkers and Nebraska's Cornhuskers at the preliminary trials here today of the third annual conference meet.

A new meet record was written into the books by Don Gray, Nebraska, broad jumper.

Oklahoma and Bob Simpson's Iowa State Cyclones qualified disappointing totals.

Kansas qualified 26 athletes and Nebraska 21. However 10 of the Jayhawkers who won their way into the finals tomorrow ranked among the last four place winners in the field events, in which 10 athletes qualified.

Figuring only the first six qualifiers in all events, Nebraska held the edge after the preliminaries with a team of 20 which passed the tests admitting to the championship class, against 16 for Kansas.

On the same basis Iowa State qualified 10, the Kansas Aggies and Oklahoma seven each and Missouri only three.

Gray, the Husker hopper, added one-eighth of an inch to the broad jump record with a leap of 24 feet 2⅜ inches. The best previous mark was made last year by his teammate, Cobe Tomson, whose best distance this afternoon was 23 feet 7 inches, placing him third.

YOUTH COPS BOBBY'S CROWN

Student in British Amateur 'For Fun' Wins

WESTWARD HO! DEVON, England, May 22. (AP)—Eric Martin Smith, 22-year-old Londoner and Cambridge university student, who entered the British amateur golf championship just for fun, remained to succeed Bobby Jones as the title holder.

Smith today defeated John De Forest, son of a rich baron and a fellow member of the Bachelors' club, by one hole in an exciting final. It was his first national championship.

De Forest was favored over Smith in the 36-hole match which was squared several times, the last time as late as the 34th hole and went to the last green for the decision. Smith's medal score was around 80 for each round.

MANERO LOSES IN BRITISH PRO MEET

LEEDS, Eng., May 22. (AP)—Ernest R. Whitcombe, member of Britain's Ryder cup team, today shattered Tony Manero's hopes of lifting one of the biggest plums of British professional golf, beating him two and one in the semi-finals of the Leeds $5,000 golf tournament.

Manero, sole survivor of the American contingent, lost his putting touch and that, in brief, cost him the match. He had played in excellent form to conquer Percy Alliss, British professional at a Berlin country club, 4 and 3, in the quarter-finals this morning but his game was not up to par in his afternoon match.

Whitcombe will meet Tom Barber, Derbyshire entry, in the 36-hole final tomorrow. Barber defeated A. J. Lacey, Ryder cup nominee, 3 and 1.

Presbyterians Hold Bankers to 3-3 Tie

John Ross Haley, Presbyterian center fielder, was the hero of his club's 3 to 3 tie with the fast stepping Bankers Friday afternoon on Harrison field. Haley covered himself in glory in the last half of the seventh when he threw two men out at the plate in succession with perfect throws from the outfield. Both men were trying to score from second base on clean hits to center. Doc Allen, Banker catcher, led the attack with three singles in four trips to the plate. Rook and Skipper Thurman also tapped out a pair.

John "Babe" Horsley, Presbyterian manager, run Haley a close second for hero honors of the day getting a single and a double in three trips to the plate to lead the Presbyterian attack and handling 10 chances at second base with only one bobble. Horsley was the one who handled eight chances in a six-inning game at third base a few weeks back. This tie left the league standing unchanged with the Bankers still in a tie with the Texas Electric Service company Frigidaires for first place. Score:

CATS TAKE TWO FROM HOUSTON

13-0 Night Victory Follows 9-2 Afternoon Win

FORT WORTH, May 22. (AP)—The Forth Worth Panthers made it two straight over the Houston Buffs with a 13-0 victory here Friday night after having won 9-2 in the afternoon. Dick McCabe pitched a two-hit game in the night affair, while the Cats nicked three Buff pitchers rather freely. Dizzy Dean was the first and he was given his initial defeat of the season.

The afternoon game was a pitchers' battle for several innings but wildness on the part of Pete Fowler, who had started for the Buffs and errors of omission by his mates soon ended the duel, turning the tide in favor of the Panthers. Dick Whitworth went the route for Fort Worth and registered his seventh victory of the season. Scores:

Van Ryn and Lott Victorious Over Frenchmen in First Singles Matches

BAT BATTALINO RETAINS TITLE

Feather Champ Gets Decision Over La Barba

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, May 22. (AP)—Christopher "Bat" Battalino, featherweight champion, successfully defended his title tonight in a disappointing 15-round match with Fidel La Barba, Los Angeles. There were no knockdowns and the crowd of 9,100 booed the dispirited milling all the way.

For 15 long listless rounds, the champion and challenger mauled and cuffed like a pair of dispirited preliminary boys while 9,100 of the faithful jeered and whistled and searched for new methods of displaying their disapproval. In the final rounds they found it, and a dozen pennies, probably all that could be spared in these times, bounded down on the heads of the sports writers who were suffering just as much as the luckless patrons farther back.

The opinion was general that no two warriors in recent history fighting for a world championship have turned in such an uninteresting exhibition. For most of the 15 rounds, La Barba, a 3 to 1 choice in the wagering as the boys entered the ring, did little except run and hold, and Battalino, continually floundering after him, apparently did not know what to do once he caught up with the curly headed challenger from Los Angeles.

La Barba, fighting for his second title, landed the cleaner, more effective blows with left jabs to the head, fired in retreat, left hooks to the body as they came to close quarters, and short right crosses when Referee Kid McPartland, after more hauling and tugging than it usually takes to separate a pair of tangled wrestlers finally got them apart. But whatever advantage he gained through the better punching he lost by his persistent holding and his unwillingness to force the fighting at any stage of the match.

AUTEUIL, France, May 22. (AP)—John Van Ryn and George Lott, America's two youthful contenders for the French hard courts tennis championship, sailed through their opening singles matches today without being seriously extended.

Lott romped to a straight set victory over Andre Piel of France, 6-1, 6-2, 9-7, while Van Ryn was disposing of another Frenchman Rene Villard, 8-6, 6-3, 6-3.

In tomorrow's doubles round, Lott and Van Ryn, the favorites are paired against the English combination of John Olliff and I. G. Collins, in the semi-final round.

Britishers Win Doubles

In the quarter-finals of the mixed doubles, Jean Borota, French ace and his American partner, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, fell before Dr. P. D. Spence and Miss Betty Nuthall of England. Borota and Ryan, favorites to win the title, went down, 9-7, 6-3.

Paired with Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, Miss Nuthall also entered the finals of women's doubles by defeating Mme. Mathieu of France and Senorita de Alvarez of Spain, 7-5, 6-3. In the finals they will encounter Miss Ryan and her partner, Cilli Aussem of Germany, who disposed of Mme. Jung Henrotin and Josanne Sigart, 6-4, 7-5.

When Miss Virginia Hilleary of Philadelphia paired with the South African, N. G. Farquharson, to eliminate Miss Mary Heeley and Fred Perry, youthful English team, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, in the mixed doubles.

Singles Start Today

The semifinals in mixed doubles pits Miss Hilleary and her partner against Mrs. Shepherd-Barron and H. W. (Bunny) Austin, English pair, who today defeated the Franco-German combination of Cilli Aussem and Christian Boussus 7-5, 6-2.

Play in woman's singles is scheduled to open tomorrow, with Miss Helen Jacobs, chief American hope, paired against Madame Meunier of France.

U. S. LEADS IN CANADA MATCHES

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 22. (AP)—The United States took a commanding lead in the Davis cup series with Canada today as Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood Jr., of New York, swept to a straight set victory over Dr. Jack Wright and Marcel Rainville in the doubles competition. The score was 8-6, 6-4, 6-2.

The victory gave the United States a lead of two matches to one with only a victory in one of the two singles matches tomorrow needed to clinch the contest and earn for the Americans the right to meet Argentina at Washington, D. C., June 28, 29 and 30. Shields will match strokes with Rainville in the opening match while Wood will clash with Wright.

The youthful United States combination was never threatened as it put the Canadian veterans to rout.

Double Coup Puts Brooklyn In Fifth Place

PHILADELPHIA, May 22. (AP)—Brooklyn's Robins struck their winning stride today, winning both games of a double-header from the Phillies and rising from seventh place to the top of the National league's second division. The scores were 3-2 and 5-2. The double victory enabled Brooklyn to pass the Phils and the idle Pittsburgh Pirates.

Dazzy Vance turned in some fine pitching to win the first game, but was forced out in the ninth inning when he was struck on the cheek by a batted ball.

In the second clash Joe Shaute did even better, holding the Phils to six hits. Scores:

Savings Bank Leader Sees Trade Recovery

WASHINGTON, May 22. (INS)—Howard Biddulph, of Newark, N. J., elected president late today of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, believes the way is now prepared for industrial recovery.

"When we consider that about 13,000,000 people have almost $10,000,000,000 of deposits in mutual banks, with a further total of $18,000,000,000 in commercial banks, it is plain that the American people have in their savings alone a great reservoir of liquid capital," he said.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 22. (AP)—Early advances were followed by nervous and irregular fluctuations in cotton today. The general market closed steady at net declines of 2 to 6 points.

The opening was steady 4 to 7 points higher, with active positions 7 to 8 points net higher during the first few minutes on covering and overnight buying orders promoted by the unfavorable features in the weather news, steadiness in Liverpool and the steady opening of the stock market. December advanced to 9.91 on the early demand, but the buyers were supplied by realizing which appeared to be coupled with some local and Wall street selling. The latter became more active when the stock market eased off later in the morning, while there may also have been some selling on prospects for warmer weather in the West.

Some early buyers appeared reselling on the midday decline, which carried December off to 9.78 with active months showing net losses of 5 to 8 points. Offerings tapered and the market was steadier in the late trading in sympathy with the closing steadiness of stocks.

Trading in the May position ended at midday, the last sale being at 9.12.

Liverpool cables reported continental, Bombay buying and covering and said there were improved sales of cotton cloths for shipment to Egypt and the Argentine.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 22. (AP)—Trading in cotton was only moderate here today. Prices fluctuated more narrowly and after a favorable start owing to cables and bad weather in the belt, showed rather a downward trend being mainly influenced by the stock market.

The market closed 3@4 points down.

Liverpool cables came in 5 penny points better than due and private cables stated that the continent and Bombay bought and shorts covered on reports of damaging rains in the belt. Manchester cabled there were improved cloth sales to Egypt and Argentina.

July closed at 9.25, down 3 points net for the day, and October closed at 9.59, also down 3 points net.

Market Closes Slightly Higher Despite Steel Chief's Exposures

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 22. (US)—Firmness again was displayed in the stock market today although the small volume of trading evidenced a strictly professional affair.

Most of the leading stocks were able at the close to show small net advances. During the session, however, the industrial shares slumped to a new average low price for the present bear market but only minor net changes in these issues were recorded finally.

Railroad stocks as a group performed most satisfactorily, in continuance of their persistent resistance to selling during preceding sessions of the week. Presumably these stocks were still favorably affected by the sentimental influence of the proposed rate adjustment.

The market had to contend with decidedly frank remarks of steel executives pertaining to current business and trade practices, but prices generally held firm in the face of these developments.

There is no gainsaying that the remarks of President Farrell, of the Steel corporation, impressed the market. Yet his open declaration that wages are being secretly slashed and price-cutting is rampant in the industry can hardly be a surprise disclosure except to those who have been blind to obvious facts. The Steel corporation executive left no doubts concerning its intention to pursue drastic measures, if sufficiently provoked, to eliminate the abuses within the industry which he laid openly at the doors of the independents.

His statement that preferred dividends of steel companies are threatened if prevailing conditions persist was hardly cheerful reading, yet the entire address emphasizes the new tone of general public comment. No longer are sugar-coated platitudes employed in describing conditions, and in this development exists the greatest assurance that the necessary readjustments will be effected without artificial delays.

Steel common closed unchanged but its relative firmness is attributed chiefly to stabilizing endeavors intended to influence the general list.

Case Threshing furnished one of the star performances on the upside, rallying more than four points on overnight announcement its directors have decided to maintain the $6 annual dividend basis for the present quarter at least. The short interest in Case was taken by surprise apparently. It is reported that a former leader of the bear party has been active on the bull side of Case which, if true would represent a serious loss to the ber clique and also would confirm recent underground rumors in Wall street that there has been a break in the bear ranks.

However, the bear mentioned in the Case rumors refuses to disclose his attitude on the market. It is known that a fortnight ago he completed covering his entire short line and went long of various stocks. Subsequently, however, it was stated, he became convinced he had turned too soon and disposed of the greater part of his long holdings.

American Can and American Telephone both rallied somewhat but with little vigor, as if they were responding almost entirely to technical conditions.

General Motors, DuPont and Anaconda were under pressure, the latter on the further weakening in price of copper, now seemingly definitely under nine cents a pound. Anaconda established a new low and other leading members of the copper group sold off in sympathy, American Smelting breaking under 30 and telling its own story of the dividend, now $4 a share.

Railroad stocks generaly were higher, although there is a disposition in responsible quarters to await further developments with respect to the proposed rate increase. It is too early, of course, to judge final repercussions of such action, although it is widely conceded that of pipe line competition and motor truck competition is yet to be reckoned with.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 22. (AP)—Heavy frosts over Kansas gave wheat prices a lift today, especially in the final dealings. Wheat was also assisted upward by a late announcement that the first export sales of United States 1931 crop wheat had been made today for July shipment, and that New Orleans had cleared some domestic wheat.

Wheat closed irregular, ¼c off to ⅛c up, corn at ¼c decline to ⅛c advance, oats unchanged to ⅛c higher, and provisions 7 to 17c down.

Persistent selling, much of it on stop loss orders sent corn downward most of the time until near the close. After new low price records had been made, however, the trade gave sharp attention to reports that cold weather was preventing germination, and that in Iowa considerable corn which was up had turned black.

Oats were relatively firm as a result of commission house buying.

Provisions went to around the lowest figures of the season. Hog values were off, and liquidating sales of lard were heavy.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 59½c, 61c; Sept. 59¼@59½c, 60⅞@61c; Dec. 61½c, 64⅛c. Corn—July 56c, 57¼@57¼c; Sept. 54c, 53⅝@55½c; Dec. 48⅛c, 49⅝c.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, May 22. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Today's markets for fat steers showed no quotable changes, but it is evident that supplies must be curtailed this week if some relief is to be given an already glutted dressed beef market. Buyers of killing cattle today moved cautiously on the curtailed offerings. Supplies aggregated 11,800, as compared with 12,686 a week ago.

Hog prices at some of the markets receded so that quotations were back to levels prevailing in 1912. There was some unevenness to the trade, values ranging from steady to 25c lower than yesterday. Combined arrivals were 70,500 compared with 63,331 a week ago.

Changes in the markets for lambs were of little significance, most points reporting steady values as compared with Thursday. Arrivals were moderate, totaling 40,000 as compared with 44,899 a week ago.

LEOPOLD URGES BETTER CITIES

U. C. C. Leader Discusses Population Trends

Better cities instead of bigger cities should be America's goal for the future, Joseph F. Leopold, manager of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce southwestern division at Dallas, told members of the business council Friday noon at the Kemp hotel.

"The American business man," he said, "has a peculiar psychology. He worships the great god Big. He wants to have the biggest town, the biggest factory, the biggest business. And then, when something comes along to puncture his balloon, he wants to sink further down in depression than anyone else."

This psychology, the speaker declared, should be abandoned. He quoted the estimates of statisticians that the population of the United States would reach a level of about 150,000,000 people by 1970, and declared that the rapid growth the nation has gone through in past decades will by that time have ceased.

Changes Predicted

"That means," he explained, "that if Wichita Falls is to grow, its population will not come from the soil, nor will it come from immigration. Any growth must be by robbing some other city of its population.

"If that is to be accomplished it must be because Wichita Falls offers greater advantages of recreation, culture, education and beauty. I don't mean that we should enter upon an orgy of public expenditures, because at present one-sixth of our national income goes to pay taxes."

In the next one or two decades, the speaker added, great changes will come about in the average ages of the nation's population which will affect business materially. Present figures, he cited, show that 41 per cent of the present population is 20 years of age or under, and 15 per cent is 50 years of age or older. It is estimated, he said, that in at least two generations the percentages will be 29 and 31 respectively.

He said that the result would be a sharp change in the economic structure of the United States. "There will be fewer nursing bottles manufactured and more crutches, wheel chairs and liver pads; instead of building more new houses for newlyweds there will be more repairs to old houses for elderly people."

Witherspoon Speaks

Joe Witherspoon, winner of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention oratorical contest for high school students, delivered the "My Home Town" speech which won for him a second time the Etheridge cup. Young Witherspoon won the cup first at the 1930 convention. The trophy becomes his permanently if he wins the contest next year.

Sam Spence, district attorney, announced a campaign sponsored by the chamber of commerce sports and recreation committee to sell tickets in an effort to stimulate attendance of Texas league baseball games here.

J. L. Jackson briefly told of the Wichita Falls delegation to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Lubbock last week.

here, while you were there. I can draw my own conclusions."

Sally went on typing, pretending she didn't hear Mame, but she did. Finally she made two mistakes in the letter she was writing for Peter Douglas, and tearing out the sheet of paper, started again.

"If you're wise, you won't go out with him, Sally. If you're dumb you will. I always thought you were mighty smart," Mame went on softly, "but maybe now I'll have to change my opinion. The girls who go out with Warner don't stay long. You ought to know, Sally, you've seen them come and go."

Sally had, and a queer shiver went through her. She made another mistake, and jerked out the second sheet of paper. It wasn't like her to make mistakes. She was an excellent typist. Nerves, she guessed, and Mame's chatter.

Sally Worries About Peter

"Well, I've had my say, and that's all I'm going to say. You're old enough to know fire when you see it. If you get burned, it won't be my fault."

"Thanks, Mame, but I won't get burnt."

"Then you are going out with him?"

Sally didn't answer. She concentrated on the letter, and when it was finished, typed off a neat envelope. Once when she looked at Mame, she saw the girl's eyes on her piercingly. Any other time she would have been grateful for Mame's advice, for Mame Smith was sensible, practical, an excellent friend. Now she didn't want advice. She wasn't going to listen to any one, but herself.

Peter's letter continued to bother her, as it lay, neat and ready, on her desk. Should she go and give it to him, or wait until he came for it? Either way she had to make explanations about tonight, and the explanations were beginning to assume gigantic proportions. She tried to tell herself that they were simple, that all she had to do was to tell him she couldn't go.

Easy, of course, for she didn't have to confide to him that Warner had asked her, too, for a date this evening. But she didn't want him to be angry. She liked him, and wanted him to invite her out again. What if he wouldn't? What if he began to ignore her each day when he came into the office?

Not so easy . . .

The morning slipped by, and at noon Peter came up to her desk just as she was about to stop for lunch.

Peter Is Angered

"Have you my letter finished?"

"Yes—" she turned and picked it up. Should she tell him, now, or wait? Better to wait. But if she waited, she'd have the whole afternoon to worry about it, as she had worried this morning.

"I'm sorry," she was looking up into his brown eyes, "but I won't be able to go out with you tonight—" There, it was done, and she really was sorry, more sorry than Peter would ever know.

"So am I. Some other time, perhaps." He thanked her shortly for the letter and walked stiffly away.

He was angry, then. His voice had changed; grown harsher, after she had told him. The smile had gone out of his eyes. She watched his tall figure pass through the door with a sigh. Her friendship with Peter Douglas, a friendship only a few hours old—was it gone already? Why should it bother her so? Why should she worry, when she didn't know him?

"Ready?" Ann came up. "Handsome isn't he?"

"Who?"

"The new man. Peter Douglas is his name but I suppose you know, since he was talking to you. He's been looking at you all morning. I watched him. Hardly took his eyes off you, while he was in the office. Nice conquest, Sally. Quite the nicest of the salesmen."

They had lunch at a drug store counter nearby.

"What did Mr. Warner want?" Ann asked when they were through and out in the street again.

Ann Rebukes Sally

"He wanted me to go out with him this evening," Sally answered defiantly. She was thinking of Peter, and the way he had walked away from her, the finished letter in his hand.

"Of course you're not going!"

"Yes, I am."

"Sally! You don't mean it."

"I do mean it."

"You're a darned fool, Sally. You'll get fired in a week—as soon as he gets tired of you."

"I don't think so. I can handle him."

"Really?" Ann's voice was edged with sarcasm. "You'll be the first, then, to handle him."

A man ahead in a dark blue suit, with shoulders like Peter. Sally quickened her pace, until she was directly behind him. It wasn't Peter, only someone who resembled him. Queer how disappointed she was.

"Then you're going ahead with this silly plan of yours?" Ann was asking.

Sally didn't hear her the first time, but she did the second. The first time she was busy wondering why she should be thinking of Peter Douglas, why the man ahead reminded her of him so much.

"Of course, I'm going ahead. Tonight I'm starting."

A thrill of fear fluttered through her. Tonight she was starting . . .

Liquor Seized, Man Held In Raid Near Burk

Deputy Sheriffs E. L. Kincaid and Ben Smith returned from Burkburnett late Friday afternoon in possession of five one-half gallon containers filled with "white liquor" and in custody of one person arrested during the raid.

The confiscated liquor, it was said, was found in the oil fields south of Burkburnett.

CLAY MOURNS SOUTHERN VET

Hero of Confederacy Dies In Joy Home

Special to The Record News.

JOY, Texas, May 22.—Death has taken another hero of the Confederacy and one of the many Southerners who pushed their way westward in the years following the civil war, in the passing of Daniel G. Kilcrease, 86, pioneer Clay county farmer. He died May 18 and funeral services were held here with burial in the Clay cemetery.

Mr. Kilcrease was born in Mississippi but spent his boyhood in Alabama until he entered the Confederate army at the age of 18. He served with the gray clad warriors until he was wounded in the Battle of the Wilderness. After the war he married Miss Emma Simmons and to them were born eight children. The family started for Texas in 1880 and it was while making the long journey that his wife died.

He settled in Cooke county and engaged in farming. In 1892 he was married to Mrs. Margaret Faulkner and four children were born to this union. The family moved to Clay county in 1910, Mr. Kilcrease remaining active in farming until about five years ago. He was a member of the Baptist church.

He is survived by his widow and six children, two sons, Ty Kilcrease of County Line, Okla., and W. O. Kilcrease of Henrietta, four daughters, Mrs. J. L. Thompson of Comanche, Okla., Mrs. J. W. Owens of Denton, Texas, Mrs. G. P. Fulmer of Joy, and Mrs. Gus Blakeley of Henrietta.

Two Fined for Staging Cemetery 'Wild Party'

Poor choice in the selection of a cemetery for the scene of a drinking party cost two men $10 each in police court here Friday morning.

The fines were imposed by Judge W. L. Bass following their arrest just outside the cemetery fence by Fred Fountain and Chris Jensen, detectives. Called to the scene, the officers said they found the two men engaged in a fistic encounter.

Residents of the section called the officers and reported that the two had been creating a disturbance inside the cemetery. Two women, they said, had departed the scene just before the arrival of police.

Chemist to Examine Viscera of Negro

Examination of the viscera of Eddie Nash, negro, who dropped dead at his home Wednesday night, will be made at Austin by the state chemist to determine the possible presence of poison, it was announced by District Attorney Sam B. Spence Friday following an inquest conducted by Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn Friday morning.

An autopsy on the body of the man was ordered by Judge Guinn at the conclusion of the hearing. Dr. D. W. King, a negro physician, was the principal witness. A negro man and woman arrested by deputy sheriffs Thursday morning were being held in jail Friday.

MAJESTIC: William Powell in "Ladies' Man." Short subjects and sound news.

STRAND: "Indiscreet" with Gloria Swanson, Monroe Owsley, Ben Lyon and Arthur Lake. Mickey Mouse comedy and sound news.

GEM: Jack Perrin and Starlight in "Phantom of the Desert." Chapter No. 4 of "King of the Wild." Talkartoon comedy.

Before it's finally over, "Indiscreet" gets to be fairly exciting. The first part is just a little too much Gloria, but by the time Ben Lyon and Monroe Owsley and Arthur Lake and the two women who played Joan and Aunt Kate get started, they manage to rescue a badly battered ship.

◇ ◇ ◇

The trouble, as usual, is that the audience is inevitably given one minute to gasp in admiration at the fair(?) Gloria, swathed in the newest ingenue swaddlings, and surrounded by light and beauty. The only gasping Friday afternoon was from a little boy in the back who swallowed a peanut the wrong way.

◇ ◇ ◇

Remembering that John Boles' last was a series of shots of his profile, it might be appropriate to remark that if John and Gloria ever get together in a picture, it will last as long and be as peculiar as 'Strange Interlude," only they'll have to give the audience shots in the arm during the intermission instead of serving dinner.

◇ ◇ ◇

Of course, Miss Swanson isn't grandmotherly, and neither has she the ample bosom of Aunt Kate. Just prove it, the director has Aunt Kate try on some of her niece's garments. But the sub-deb bodices and perky bows were meant for Mitzi Green or somebody and just got delivered at the wrong house in Hollywood.

◇ ◇ ◇

We will draw the usual merciful curtain over the singing, with orchestra hidden under the sofa, and pass on to the best Mickey Mouse cartoon yet—one well worth sitting through the 90-minute feature. It's a delightful chaser.

NEGROES HELD IN ROBBERIES

Police Arrests May Solve Burglaries Here

City police Friday night were working on the theory that a negro arrested Friday afternoon with several stolen lawn mowers and a large quantity of garden hose is the man sought in a series of house burglaries here.

Four lawn mowers and 18 units of garden hose were recovered. Several of the articles were returned to owners Friday.

A device commonly used for opening screens was found on the key ring of the negro, and Frank Burns chief of police, said that he believed the negro had been responsible for a number of attempts at house breaking. In each of about 15 cases reported to police in the past two weeks, Chief Burns said, screen doors and windows have been pried open in attempts to gain entrance. In several instances negroes have been surprised in the act of entering homes.

The negro being held was arrested by Detectives O. A. Roberson and Luke Hart. Later in the afternoon they arrested a second negro as an accomplice of the first.

DONOHOE TRIAL SET JUNE 22

Special Venire of 100 Drawn in Slaying Case

Preparation for the trial of Verner Donohoe, charged with the murder of Herman Walden in Wilbarger county, Feb. 11, 1929, before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court on June 22 was begun Friday with the drawing of a special venire of 100 men.

A change of venue from Wilbarger county brought the case to the local court. Donohoe was convicted and given 25 years in his first trial in Wilbarger county. That decision was reversed and the case remanded by the court of criminal appeals.

According to the indictment returned in the case, Walden's body was found in a Wilbarger county pasture, death having been caused by shotgun wounds.

Petit jurors for the weeks of June 8 and 15 also were drawn Friday by Judge Martin.

Three Cops Released As Economy Measure

Three city policemen will lose their jobs June 1, as a measure of departmental economy, Chief Frank Burns announced Friday.

The three officers are J. B. Flenniken and W. P. Timmons, night automobile patrolmen, and C. Carlisle of the motorcycle squad.

All are veteran officers and have excellent records, it was explained, their release being made necessary to reduce the operation cost of the force. Flenniken has been connected with the department here for four years, Timmons two years and Carlisle one year.

LOOT RECOVERED

Arrest of two persons on charges of drunkenness Thursday night by members of the constable's force revealed their possession of 15 neckties and a case containing six sample bottles of fine perfume, according to Constable Fred Smith. Loss of merchandise similar to that recovered was reported by a local department store Friday morning.
