Los Senores Wichita Falls Captivate Amarillo

Gaily Garbed Caballeros 'Stop the Show' As Parade Winds Through Streets

Spectacular Entry into Mecca of West Texas Practically Wins Next Meeting For City that Faith Built

BY HAROLD F. JOHNSON.

AMARILLO, June 22.—As had been predicted, Amarillo and the West Texas chamber of commerce convention found out today that Wichita Falls was in the Panhandle and part of Wichita Falls which happened to be here found that geographically, Amarillo bears a distinct resemblance to that popular song telling about that long, long trail.

Wichita Falls hit Amarillo Tuesday morning like a noisy and vivid blast of merriment. The huge straw sombreos and the flashing crimson sashes were predominant points throughout the city, but many a leg weary and footsore business man wondered for a time Tuesday afternoon whether or not his sash wouldn't ultimately be a shroud.

The parade of course, was the thing. It was a "caps" parade, but it was tough on the natives from down Lake Kemp way. And especially so was it rough on those who inclined to a balloon effect. Accurate estimate were not available tonight, but it was a safe bet the Wichita Falls delegation of about 175 will come Thursday at least three tons lighter than when it started. And they feed pretty well up here, too.

Outstanding Hit.

Over mile after mile of sunbaked pavement, sticky tar underfoot, grinning throngs on each side, unbroken ranks of marchers in front and behind that was the setting for the parade Tuesday afternoon in which Wichita Falls men were an outstanding hit.

It was a long and wearisome tramp, but no one dropped out—no one complained and when it was all over, the Wichitans had the satisfaction of hearing more than once that "They're the best of the bunch."

Amarillo today was an indescribable congregation of 50,000 or more west Texans here for work and a good time. More bands in town than most of the Wichita Falls crowd thought existed in Texas. Every hamlet from 100 up had some sort of a musical organization, and the main streets of Amarillo throughout the morning resembled a parade grounds with someone going all the time.

Arriving about 6:30 in the morning, Wichita Falls lost no time in heralding its presence. It served as an alarm clock for a lot of the convention delegates who were evidently in need of rest after a hard night. Hotel shades up and windows were opened with toy precision when the Wichitans marched by led by the thirty piece municipal band under the direction of R. H. Broilier.

The band, by the way, was an indefatiguable unit that tooted with spirit throughout the long, hot march. It was ever ready when called on and proved itself an invaluable asset. The bandsmen were dressed in special Spanish Troubadour costumes. A sort

San Antonio Loses Support Of Fort Worth In Vote For City

AMARILLO, June 22.—(AP)—Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield, was elected president of the West Texas chamber of commerce for the coming year when the convention ratified his nomination unanimously at the close of the morning session. Quanah represented by Mildred Marshall, won the "my home town contest with numerous valuable prizes. Carl Mount of of Cisco placed second and Thelma Coffee of Electra was third."

Wichita Falls and Lubbock were drawing into the home stretch Tuesday afternoon in the race for the 1927 convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce with the prospect that the first time in the history of the organization Fort Worth will cast the deciding vote and thereby eliminate San Antonio.

Lose Fort Worth

The Almo city delegation which had 457 votes, second to Fort Worth, had made a valiant fight, and suffered a heavy blow when A. B. Spencer, manager of the Fort Worth chamber of commerce, announced Tuesday afternoon that votes of the Panther city probably would be split between Wichita Falls and Lubbock, and that it was possible the whole of its vote would be cast for one of them at the showdown.

Selection of the next convention city and election of a new manager to succeed Porter Whaley will be the principal remaining matters of business when the convention opens for its final session Wednesday.

Ten runners-up in the "My Home Town" contest decided Tuesday morning were Wayne Cook, Big Spring; Noel Nisbett, Phifer Eastlake, Clarendon; Miss Thelma Coffee, Electra; Edgar P. Woodward, Stanton; Hubert Hopper, Lubbock; William Sewell, Eastland; R. V. Husky, Floyada; Miss Florence Pine, Dalhart. It was announced later that the 10 cash prizes of $10 each awarded them was the gift of Clifford Caldwell of Abilene, who had asked that his name be withheld.

Bands Play

Twenty-nine bands, a still larger number of delegations and numerous symbolic and historical floats took part in the huge parade which was one of the features of Tuesday afternoon.

Needs of West Texas State Teachers college were pointed out digramatically to directors of the West Texas chamber of commerce at a dinner at Cousins hall, college dormitory, Monday night, by President J. A. Hill of the Canyon institution. Support of the college when the next appropriations are made was promised by Lee Satterwhite of Panhandle, speaker of the Texas house.

Indiactions Tuesday night pointed to the election of Homer D. Wade as manager of the chamber to succeed Porter A. Whaley, resigned, with possible choice of Ray Leeman, of San Antonio, southwestern manager as his assistant. This, however, will not be known definitely before Wednesday.

170,000 PIOUS WOMEN ATTEND OUTDOOR MASS

Largest Religious Gathering In World's History Crowds Lake Front

CARDINALS PRESIDE

Candlelight Benediction Is Held at Night For Men Only

CHICAGO, June 22—(AP)—Two huge servics in Chicago's front yard brought together today at the third day's ceremonies of the eucharistic congress more worshippers by far than ever before assembled in one day within a single enclosure.

In the morning, more than 170,000 women were in Soldier's field for solemn pontifical mass celebrated by the most Rev. Joseph Palica, archbishop and vice gerent of Rome, and at night the stands were filled for a second time—with men only—for candle-light benediction services. At each service, tens of thousands unable to gain admission to the half-mile field were thronged in the lake front park to hear the ceremonies over loud speakers and to witness the mile-long ecclesiastical procession to and from the great outdoor sanctuary.

Never before in history have so many women gathered in one spot as crowded the stadium area for the morning mass.

Honor Womanhood.

Archbishop Hanna of San Francisco, in his sermon, described the assemblage as the greatest honor to womanhood in history. Thousands of pious women were in their places at 6 o'clock this morning and the last of the multitude did not pass out of the field until after 2 o'clock in the afternoon. A women's choir of 15,000, including 5,000 nuns, sang the propers of the mass.

Besides the sermon of Archbishop Hanna, the women heard addresses by Cardinal Pifel, of Austria and Charest of France, in German and French, respectively and by Justice Pierce Butler o the supreme court fo the United States.

Cardinal O'Connell of Boston as presiding prelate of the session prepared an address which, though not delivered at the field, was released for publication.

The men's meeting tonight, under the direction of the society of the holy name, was addressed by Cardinal O'Donnell, of Ireland. Cardinal Mundelein was the pontificating prelate.

Messages From Pope.

Three messages from the vatican were read at congress gatherings today. Two reaches the morning services and a third was presented by Cardinal Mundelein at an afternoon meeting of the English speaker section. In each, Pope Pius XI, through Cardinal Gasparri, the papal secretary of state expressed joyous gratification at the success of the congress.

Justice Butler dwelt upon the importance of religion as a force making for social stability and world peace.

"Americans are quick to acknowledge their obligations to the church as a great teacher of truths that advance order, good citizenship and peace," he said. "The life of the republic depends upon the quality of its people. All that strengthens religion; all that creates self-respect and exalts the sanctity of the home and the integrity of the family adds to national security. The church would have every citizen contribute all that is his to support and defend the government, that justice and domestic peace and tranquility may continue and that the blessings of liberty may be retained by us and handed down unimpaired to posterity."

Straws Show Wind Blows For Dan

Staff Special.

AMARILLO, June 22.—Politics came in for more or less discussion by the Wichita Falls business men aboard the Amarillo convention special Monday night and the upshot of a Pullman smoker argument on the respective merits of the Moody, Davidson, Ferguson triumvirates was a straw vote taken in three of the cars.

Out of the passengers approached, 59 declared an intention of supporting Dan Moody for governor; 20 declared for Lynch Davidson and two said: "Put me down for Jim Ferguson."

MOODY SPIKES DAVIDSON GUNS

Member of Electrical Union Swears Dan Is a Member

WACO, June 22.—(AP)—Before a crowd which packed the courthouse lawn here Tuesday night, Dan Moody, attorney general and candidate for governor, read a signed statement from J. G. Smith of this city, secretary-treasurer of the Texas council of sheet metal workers, denying that he ever received the letter purported to have been written to him by E. H. Banks, attacking Moody's labor record, which was read by Lynch Davidson, one of Moody's opponents, in Dallas, on Monday night.

In addition to Smith's statement, Moody also read an affidavit by William M. Elliott, formerly secretary of the Taylor, local of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, attesting Moody's membership of that organization in 1910, and a statement signed by Waco union men stating that there was only one electrical workers union in Texas at the time Moody was a member.

Never Claimed It.

"I have been a candidate for public office four times in my life," Moody said, "and never once in a public address have I referred to the fact that I have been a member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, for I do not think that this fact either qualifies or disqualifies me to hold public office. But inasmuch as the statement to that effect made by some of my supporters has been attacked, I present these documents as an illustration of the methods that some candidates for public office will employ in the attempt to discredit an opponent."

Moody then read the letters and affidavits. He did not mention Lynch Davidson by name in any part of his speech.

Actually Did Work.

The affidavit signed by William Elliott follows:

"My name is William M. Elliott. My present address is 4211 Avenue A. Austin, Texas. I formerly lived in Taylor, Texas, and was engaged in the electrical business in that city. I know Dan Moody personally. I know that he has been a member of local union No. 719, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers at Temple, Texas. While I lived in Taylor, the electrical workers in that city organized a local union at Taylor, Texas, and I was financial secretary of that local.

When we organized this local, Dan Moody was elected an honorary life member of the Taylor local of the organization. He was elected to honorary life membership in that local because of the fact that he had been a member of the local of the International Brotherhood and had actually worked as a journeyman lineman and had also done inside wiring work."

Legal Settlement of Dispute Looms as Result Of Disorders

SAN ANTONIO, June 22.—(AP)—Dr. A. A. Luter, prominent in republican councils, and Bexar county manager of Harry M. Wurzbach's campaign for congress, was found unconscious in his office about 9:30 tonight by Patrolman W. D. Miller.

Luter was revived, his head badly bruised and several cuts on his body. He said he was attacked by two masked men, and pummelled into insensibility with a revolver and a milk bottle.

Dr. Luter was floor manager for the Wurzbach forces in the meeting Monday of the Bexar county executive committee and was the target of many verbal attacks, and received slight injuries in the fight that ensued.

SAN ANTONIO, June 22.—(AP) A court fight to settle differences in the ranks of Bexar county republicans is inevitable, Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach said Tuesday night after A. R. Holzschuher, chairman of the county executive committee, called the body into session and completing a schedule "interrupted" Monday when the committee required the services of 14 officers to settle a riot.

Following Monday's fight, in which a score received minor injuries, Wurzbach's supporters declared the chair vacant and placed A. M. Gray in charge. The meeting then proceeded to transact necessary business for holding a primary in July at a cost of $2,500, and adjourned. This action was repudiated Tuesday by Holzschuher, who declared the chair cannot be declared vacant, except by a vote of the electorate.

Wurzbach said that he did not intend to install Gray as chairman of the county executive committee, but only for the purpose of proceeding with the meeting. He said Gray would not attempt to act further.

Seeks Injunction To Prevent Woman Molesting Husband

SAN ANTONIO, June 22.—(AP) Seeking an injunction or communicating with J. J. Cavanaugh and asking $65,000 damagers for the alleged wrecking of her home, Mrs. Anna Cavanaugh went into the 45th district court Tuesday to tell her story to the jury in the year-old legs' fight.

Mrs. Cavanaugh seks damages "by reason of Mrs. Vann's alienation of the affections of J. J. Cavanaugh, who has practically abandoned his home, which is practically broken up all due to the misconduct on the part of the defendant who has exerted all of her wiles and arts to win and secure the affections of the plaintiff's husband," in the words of her petition.

The jury was selected for the case Tuesday morning.

Mercedes Cotton Ginned for Offer On Dallas Market

MERCEDES, June 22.—(AP)—A bale of cotton which the owner expects to be accepted as the "official" first in Texas for 1926 was ginned here Tuesday to be shipped by express to the Dallas cotton exchange for auction.

The cotton was grown on land of the American land and irrigation company under supervision of W. L. Bradbury.

Unofficially, the bale ranks as the second of the current season, the first having been ginned at Donna Friday.

It was sent to the Houston cotton exchange and there rejected for auction for the reason, it was declared, of its grade of "gin cut."

"Gin cut" cotton is that procured from bolls which have not fully matured.

Girl And Grandmother Make Engagements Simultaneously Through Former's Step-Father

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—The engagements of 17-year-old Eliabeth Volck to Prince Johannes of Liechtenstein, and of her grand-mother, Madam Domicio Da Gama, widow of the late Brazilian ambassador, to Jean Harold Edward St. Cyr, both of California, were announced here today by Miss Volck and her step-father, Guy Hilhouse of Pelham manor, New York.

Madam Da Gama who was Eliabeth Dell Bates of Texas, has been married three times. Her first husband was Arthur Volck, and her second Arthur E. Hearn. Mr. St. Cyr has been married twice.

While secretary to Mrs. Caroline Redfield, wealthy widow, 40 years his senior, Mr. St. Cyr married her in 1900 the wedding being kept a secret until her death five years later, when it was revealed she had left him $1,000,000. Four months after the first Mrs. St. Cyr's death, he married the widow of James Henry ("Silent") Smith who had formerly been the wife of William Rhinelander Stewart. Upon her death in 1923, Mr. St. Cyr shared equally with two of Stewart's sons in a fortune of $30,000,000.

In announcing her engagement to Prince Johannes of Liechtenstin, a principality in the Austrian tyrol, Miss Volck said she had met him in Paris a year ago where he has resided since. The prince is 25 years old she said. Miss Volck arrived here from Europe on Sunday.

Rhana's policy reads for 1,000,000 francs. Her feet, observed herewith, are said to be "the loveliest in Paris." Before the fall of the franc artists thought 100,000 francs was enough insurance to carry on shapely limbs.

W. Daniel	$ 10.00
Total	$231.00

Final details of arrangement for the staging of a milk and ice fund benefit program Thursday night in the Eleventh and Ohio arena by the Wichita Falls Wrestling association were completed Tuesday, announced A. B. Ross, association matchmaker.

A percentage of the gate receipts is to be turned over to Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, secretary of the municipal welfare board.

A banner mat card has been scheduled featuring Matty Matsuda, popular Japanese wrestler and claimant of the world's welterweight championship in a finish match with Joe Parelli, of Chicago, who lays claim to the middleweight championship. Parelli bases his championship assumptions on the grounds that he has defeated Johnny Meyers, world's middleweight king, twice, however, losing to Meyers in a later match. He furthers his argument by declaring Meyers is not a legitimate middleweight any longer and cannot train down to the middleweight limit of 158 pounds. If Meyers is no more a middleweight Parelli feels that he is justified in claiming the championship, so he says.

There are to be two finish matches best two falls out of three, on the benefit program, announces the matchmaker. Yaqui Joe, well known Indian welterweight, is to meet Dutch Mantell of Columbus. These men wrestled several months ago in Amarillo, the Indian losing after staging a hard and gruelling battle. He believes he is now in fit condition to defeat Mantell.

There is to be a 15-minute preliminary match between two Wichita Falls wrestlers.

BAPTIST HITS JIM'S CLAIMS

Abilene Minister Scores Former Governor For Attacking Church

ABILENE, June 22.—(AP)—Declaring that he is not interested in politics, but in truth and square dealing, Dr. Millard A. Jenkins, pastor of the First Baptist church here, delivered a reply to what he termed "slurs and mis-representations and false charges against the Baptists of Texas by James E. Ferguson."

"In trying to create the impression that Dan Moody was put into the race for governor by the Baptists of Texas, he has resorted to such epithets as 'Monkey-faced Baptists,' and 'God-Denying Baptists,'" the minister said.

Declaring that Baptists have always stood for the right to worship God according to the dictates of one's own conscience,' 'Dr. Jenkins continued that "What I say for Mr. Moody, I do not say for Moody, the candidate, but for Moody, the clean Baptist layman and gentleman, who is clean enough and broad enough to teach a large class in a Methodist church at Austin."

Saying that Moody was a part of the recent Southern Baptist convention at Houston, the local minister quoted the following resolution, which he said was adopted by that convention: "We accept Genesis as teaching that Man was the special creation of God and reject every theory, evolution or other, which teaches that man originated in or came by way of a lower animal ancestry."

GIRL INJURED IN ELECTRA BUS

Humble Oil Company Truck Hits Passenger Carrier On Road

ELECTRA, June 22.—The identity of the 19-year-old girl who was seriously injured in the crash between a Humble Oil and Refining company truck and a truck of the Wichita Falls-Electra bus line company remained a mystery here tonight. The girl was taken from the bus by a passing autoist shortly after the crash, the autoist stating that he was taking her to a doctor. A check on the doctors of Electra, Iowa Park and Wichita Falls last night and upon the hospitals of those cities failed to reveal such a case. Officials of the bus line believe that she was not seriously injured after all and was taken to her home. Others however state that her injuries were of a major character, and are quite frankly worried at her disappearance.

The accident occurred shortly after noon today, the Humble truck crashing into the rear of the Wichita Falls-Electra bus, injuring the one passenger. The driver of the bus, not knowing the girl was injured had gone to a nearby phone to call officers when the girl was taken from his vehicle.

The two occupants of the Humble truck, it was stated here tonight, will be transferred to county authorities and action taken against them.

District Attorney Wires Protest to Governor Of Texas

CHILDRESS, June 22.—A storm of protest has been aroused in this city as a result of the extending of a sixty-day furlough Tuesday by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson to H. C. Burnett, former Childress county clerk, under conviction and seven-year sentence for forgery of county warrants following discovery of a shortage of approximately $20,000 in his accounts. Notice of the furlough was received here Tuesday by wire from Austin.

District Attorney Harwood Beville immediately wired Mrs. Ferguson as follows: "I protest granting of a parole to H. C. Burnett. He is under indictment in 38 other cases and under sentence of seven years in three cases to which he plead guilty and accepted sentence. The parole is not needed and I request revocation. The vast majority of Childress County citizens do not approve your action."

A large number of other protests to the governor are expected to be sent by mail to follow those already wired in.

Burnett left here last Dec. 23, and was hardly away from the city before a shortage in county funds was discovered. An audit was made, and the shortage discovered to amount to approximately $20,000, the withdrawals covering a period of approximately two years. A grand jury indicted Burnett on 41 counts, charging forgery of county warrants.

He was discovered about two months late working as a car repairer for a railroad in Klamath Falls, Ore., and brought back to Childress to face trial. Upon his pleading guilty to three indictments and accepting sentence of seven years each, sentences to run concurrently, the remaining indictments were held pending against him.

Burnett was awaiting transfer to the penitentiary in the county jail here when the message announcing his parole was received.

Hey, Rip! You're Too Late!

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—(AP)—Civilization is a funny thing. In the old roaring, slambang '50s in California if a gent entered a cafe and stirred his coffee with the barrel of his holster piece no one said a word. If, a moment later, he elected to effect certain striking changes in the lighting effects with the same bit of hardware it was all right as a usual thing.

Yesterday Joseph Dubils entered a coffee shop, whipped out a very large, black revolver and stirred his "java" with the barrel. Look what happened:

A policeman and dishwasher grappled with Dubils.

Cafe patrons stage a panic.

Police shotgun appears in nothing flat.

Dubils taken handcuffed to police station and his armament taken from him.

Dubils has decided that he arrived half a century too late.

Violation of State Labor Laws Charged

HARLENGEN, Tex., June 22.—(AP)—Two San Antonians were arrested here Sunday by Sheriff L. D. Nichols of Cameron county on a charge of taking labor of the state illegally.

The charge on which they are being held constitutes a violation of the interstate commerce commission ruling.

I'M THE GINK

I'm the ginkette who betrays the confidence of my children. If one of them asks me a question that happens to be a bit ludicrous to my adult mind in attempting to solve one of his childish problems, why, I tell it to company when he is present. They laugh at him and so do I. If one of my children, at the age when poetry appeals, writes something and comes to me with it, I read it aloud so that the mistakes in it may be guffawed at. They never feel the same toward me and I don't understand it.

FOLLOW TRAIL OF PHYSICIAN

New Clues Found on Disappearance of Missing Doctor

SAN ANTONIO, June 22.—(AP)—New clews that fill the large gap in accurate information concerning the disappearance of Dr. J. A. Ramsey, Mathis physician, are now in the hands of Sheriff S. F. Hunt of San Patricio County.

This became known Tuesday after Ed Leahy and H. J. Leahy, two of three suspects under arrest had been placed in jail at Sinton, held on bonds totaling $68,000. Examining trial of Ed Dubose has been delayed. While Ranger Captain Frank Hamer followed out a clew he thinks may lead to the recovery of Dr. Ramsey's body, Sheriff Hunt and his deputies picked up the thread of the mystery where it begins at the home of Dr. Ramsey in Mathis the night of May 20.

On that night Dr. Ramsey was called from his home by a Mexican who purported to take him to the bedside of a sick relative. Dr. Ramsey went on the call, from which he has not returned.

The Mexican was later seen in the car alone, telling a garage man he purchased it in Corpus Christi and was hurrying to San Antonio. Still later the car was found in a garage here, where it had been left in the name of Dr. Ramsey to be called for a little later.

So far none of the three suspects has been connected with the Mexican with whom Dr. Ramsey left home and this gap in evidence upon which Sheriff Hunt is now working.

"I believe I have a good case against at least one of the men under arrest," Sheriff Hunt said over the telephone Tuesday. "I believe Dr. Ramsey was murdered and that money was the motive."

H. J. Leahy was charged before Justice of the Peace A. J. Custer of Sinton with murder, conspiracy to murder, conspiracy to swindle, and conspiracy to swindle in a small amount.

Ed Leahy, a brother, is charged with conspiracy to extort money. Neither has made bond, Sheriff Hunt said.

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., June 22. (AP)—Major W. L. Moose Jr. and William Point, a West Point cadet, were killed when an army observation plane piloted by Major Moose fell 300 feet and burned on the Cold Stream golf course at East Meadow, L. I. today.

The bodies of the two fliers were burned beyond recognition and it was not until a check up was made of all planes in use that identification could be established.

Cadet Point was the son of Lieutenant Colonel W. T. Point of the quartermaster corps. His home was at Washington, D. C. He was taking a short course in aeronautics.

Major Moose was a graduate of West Point, having been appointed to the academy from Arkansas in 1906. He was commandant of Mitchell Field in 1920 and at the time of his death was in charge of the airservice reserve of the Second Corps Area. He was married and lived at Bayside, L. I.

Seals Threatening Small Coast Craft

SANTA MONICA, Cal., June 22.—(AP)—Seals looking for a place to sun themselves are playing havoc with small boats in Santa Monica.

Attracted to the bay in unusually large numbers by good fishing, the seals have failed to find rocks upon which to sun and so have taken to the small craft anchored a short distance off shore.

Yesterday a 22-foot power launch sank after 15 of the animals, many of them weighing more than a human being, climbed aboard. Two other vessels were almost sunk before the seals were driven away.

BURK CHILD HURT

BURKBURNETT, June 22.—Ina May Gurganus was injured late Monday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile driven by "Chief" Glass employe of the Noble Oil company. The child was shot seriously injured, it is believed. The accident occurred in front of the Gurganus home on the Kanuth place. She is the daughter of J. N. Gurganus.

NOMINEE SEES NO FARM AID

Brookhart Declares Nation Must Elect Majority Favoring It

STORM LAKE, Ia., June 22.—(AP)—Smith W. Brookhart, republican senatorial nominee, told a gathering of farmers here today that agriculture will have no chance in congress until it elects a majority in both houses that will fight to a finish what he described as a "conspiracy of special interests."

"Agriculture," Mr. Brookhart said, "has perhaps passed its most critical stage in American history. The Haugen bill faces imminent defeat. This defeat has been brought about by a gigantic conspiracy of special interests against the basic industry of our country.

"These interests have devised a scheme of economics which denounces everything as economically unsound, unless it promotes their special welfare. Because of their size and prestige they are able to control the views of statesmen and dictate the action of the United States government.

"If any one proposes to do the same thing for agriculture that has been done for the railroads, for the credit system, for the protected industries, for the industries based upon patents of for public utilities, he is denounced as a radical or a dangerous man imbued with socialistic tendencies.

"It is the settled belief of all the farm organizations and all of the labor organizations that ultimate relief from the intolerable oppression of greed and unlawful combinations of wealth is to be found in co-operative organizations which should be assisted in the first instance by the governmental export corporation."

His brothr, Willie Hunton, jumped in and tried to rescue him. Both were drowned.

Quotes Proverbs In Charity Quest

MAMARONEK, N. Y., June 22.—(AP)—Nathan Straus, philanthropist, thinks that if wealthy people in good health would follow the generous example of the Rockefellers in relieving suffering, it would add much to their happiness. He quotes the proverb: "What you give in health is gold, What you give in sickness is silver, Wha tyou give after death is lead."

Mysterious Sea Runner Fires on Yacht

While sailing from New York to his summer residence in Newport in his beautiful yacht, the "Aloha," Arthur Curtiss James was fired on by another sea craft. It is presumed the "Aloha" was mistaken by a rum cutter for a rum runner—or vice versa. At any rate, James has notified the government of the incident. Above are shown the yacht and, in the insert, Mr. James.

Summer Vacation Plans Held up Pending Adjournment of Congress

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Congress is delaying President Coolidge's vacation plans by remaining in session but the president is finding Washington weather more agreeable than usual, and appears in no hurry to get away to his summer camp in the Adirondacks.

Some weeks ago the White House disclosed that Mr. Coolidge might leave during the last week in June. A van load of presidential vacation paraphernalia already has been sent north, but so long as congress stays on the job, Mr. Coolidge will stay, too. He has a speaking engagement at Philadelphia for July 5, but that will require him to be away but for a few hours.

So far as White House officials will disclose the president is taking no part in the controversy over adjournment of congress. He was described today as perfectly willing to let the senate and house settle their troubles for themselves and as unwilling to express any opinion whether they should go home or continue their tussle with the farm relief problem and other troublesome questions.

Hansen of San Francisco, a writer for the Associated Press, and a young daughter, Ida Jane Hansen.

The deceased is well known in Electra having been honored with social affairs on numerous occasions, and is also well known in Okmulgee, where she was very popular before her marriage, and in which city is the old Barr homestead.

Rev. M. T. Donnell of the Episcopal church of Okmulgee will conduct the funeral services from the Episcopal church at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and burial will be in the Okmulgee cemetery.

A great number of Electra folks have signified their intention of attending the funeral, but these will make the trip overland.

A VOICE FROM SOUTH CAROLINA

COLEMAN LIVINGSTON BLEASE, is a South Carolinian. He is the stormy petral of South Carolina politics. He was governor of South Carolina for three terms. He is said to be the ablest criminal lawyer in South Carolina. In all his campaigns for office in recent years he damned the league of nations and the world court proposal. In all his campaigns he ran on a Cole Blease platform. He is an educated man himself. He can be a ruffian in speech or a polished gentleman. This is what the college education did for Blease. He made a speech in the United States senate the other day, and this gem is an excerpt from that speech:

"So-called education has riuned the farmer. When a person gets a so-called education he won't work. I believe in the proper kind of education, but I have seen very few people who claim to be educated who ever would work. I have seen old mothers bending over the washtub and sending money to some son or daughter off to college, and when they get out of college, instead of going back home and helping, they go off somewhere else. When a good cotton hand gets a smatter of education, he has got to be a preacher with a long tailed coat and a beaver hat or a doctor or something and he won't work."

Blease is spectacular; Blease is vitrolic; Blease dearly loves the limelight; Blease loves to see his name on the front page; Blease loves to say something rabblerousing and mirth provoking; Blease loves to array class against class, creed against creed, race against race and all for the purpose of winning votes for Blease, and yet, since he entered the senate he has made a name for himself as an unusually well informed man, as a hot spur of debate, as an ugly customer to cross, as a man who follows his own flag, as a senator who never takes orders from the bosses of his party or the people who send him to Washington. No doubt a first class cotton hand was spoiled when Blease was educated for the law and politics, and after graduating from college never returned to the old home place to be hewer of wood and a drawer of water. What a picturesque picture he wouldl have made as a preacher with a long tailed coat or a Beaver hat? What a fussy and flustering physician with a black slouch hat and a Prince Albert coat? What a self-opinionated pedagogue he would have made cramming the doctrine of hell fire down the throats of the students and declaring all scientific discoveries or subjects the works of the devil.

Now why should a boy of ambitious mind stick to the cotton patch? Why should he stick to the corn field. Why should he stick to the farm? Why should he continue to walk in the ruts of his grandfather. There are millions who prefer to be cotton pickers, there are millions who prefer to remain in the old rut. There are millions who are willing to live from hand to mouth. It is their funeral.

MEXICO

FOR the first time in history, there is a new unbroken circuit established by the Western Union Telegraph company between New York City and the city of Mexico. This brings Mexico City as close to New York as Philadelphia or Boston. Messages over the cricuit travel from New York City to Galveston by direct land wire; from Galveston to Vera Cruz by cable and from Vera Cruz to Mexico City by direct land wire.

Previously it had been necessary for messages to be transferred manually at Galveston. In the near future this will place Mexico in close contact with European countries by way of the new Western Union permalloy cable, now being laid between New York and London, and with its speed of 25 letters a minute will be the world's fastest cable.

This for Professor Eby of the Texas university who has voted democracy a failure. This New York City-Mexico City direct circuit will be used for fast telegram, night letters, day letters, money transferred and all other modern telegraph service. Now the Western Union is a product of a democracy. Benjamin Franklin was a democrat; Morse was a democrat; this nation is governed by a democracy and Mexico is a product of a crude democracy, slowly climbing the ladder that leads the realm of representative democracy.

WHAT HAPPENED TO GREEN

WILLIAM GREEN is the president of the American Federation of Labor. In the closing days of the republican primary campaign in Pennsylvania, the managers of the Pepper-Fisher headquarters sent out a letter purporting to have been written by William Green declarihg himself for John S. Fisher for governor.

That letter was a rank forgery. Green never penned the letter. Green never signed the letter. Green was not in sympathy with the Fisher candidacy or the Pepper candidacy.

Pepper is a gentleman and a scholar; Fisher is a gentleman and a scholar; The persons who furnished their huge campaign funds are gentlemen and scholars, prominent citizens, ever talking high ideals.

Now, who perpetrated the forgery? Who sent forth the spurious letter? Who conceived the nefarious plot? Vare didn't. His critics say that he is neither a scholar nor a gentleman.

Pennsylvania needs a political house cleaning and a political house cleaning should be the order of the hour in every American state where a house cleaning is needed.

MOTORING DEATHS FOR A YEAR

THIS is the record for a year, automobile fatalities totaled 22,500 in 1925, an increase of approximately 2,200 over the record for 1924. Deaths of children of less than 15 years old continue to be one of the most serious aspects of the situation. During 1925 it is estimated that 6,300 children under 15 were killed in automobile accidents.

To speak in the simple language of the people, or rather to tell the story in their tongue automobiles caused more deaths in the United States in 1925 than there were soldiers and sailors killed in the modern Indian wars, the Spanish-American war and the Philippino rebellion.

Indeed the list of the slain was greater than that of American slain in any one year of the world war. Why continue the slaughter? Why not prison sentences without pardon, for drunken drivers of motor vehicles? Why not prison sentences without pardon, for maniac drivers of motor vehicles?

NORRIS OF NEBRASKA

SENATOR GEORGE W. NORRIS is an independent republican, and when he is up for re-election thousands of democrats vote for him. Now Senator Norris says, though a republican, he would advocate supporting former Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, democratic senatorial nominee in Pennsylvania, in order to register disapproval of the methods of the republican machine factions.

All the factions are together in Pennsylvania. Boss Vare and the Mellons have clasped hands. They have agreed to forget. Boss Vare permitted the election of W. L. Mellon to the chairmanship of the republican state committee without a protest or a fight.

Money talks in Pennsylvania. Andrew W. Mellon is the republican dictator of the commonwealth. In addition to this, he is the ablest financier that has held high office in any administration for years and years.

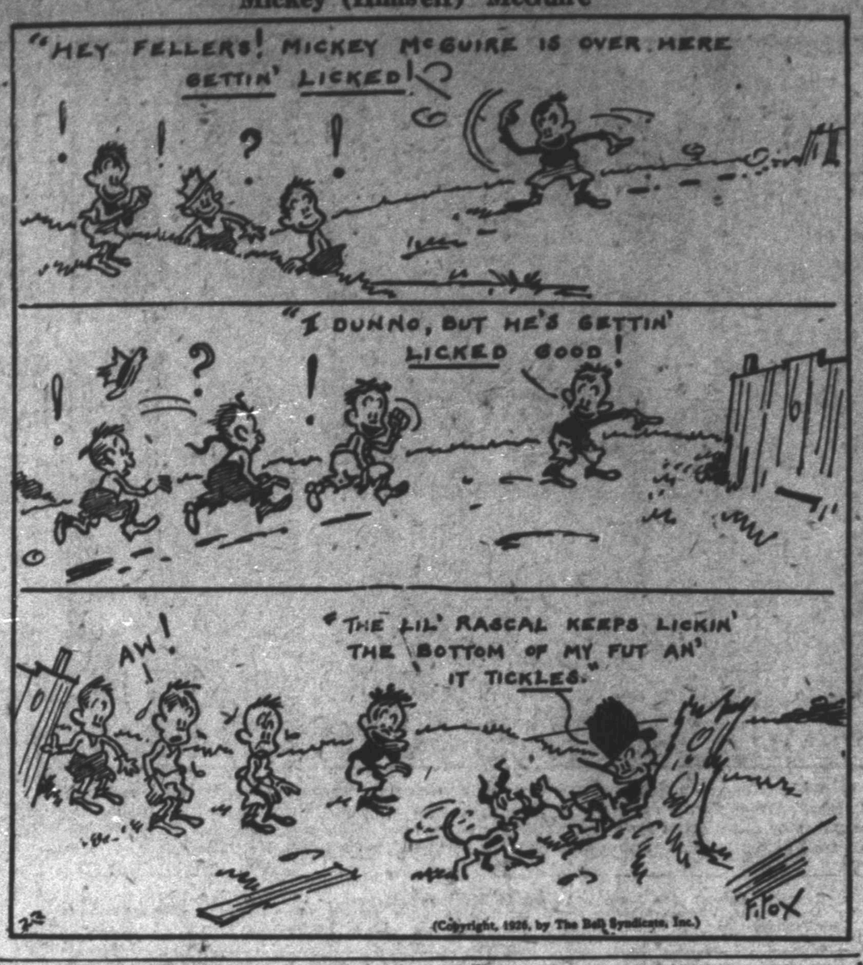

BRITISH WOMEN FOR PEACE

A MARCHING army of feminine crusaders representing eight million British women invaded the city of London and made a mighty demonstration against all wars in future and for eternal peace. Eternal peace is only found at one place—in the graveyard. If a war should come in the near future, these British womn, or a vast majority, would be found cheering the bright uniform and brass button and urging its wearer to win glory even at the cost of a bloody grave. Human nature is human nature. Time hasn't changed it.

WHERE THEY'RE SCARCE

PITTSBURGH is a republican Gibralter. Before the recent primary election the registration showed 184,000 republicans and 4,000 democrats. It appears that the climate of Pittsburg is most unhealthful for democrats. It appears that thousands of democrats are republicans on primary election day. In the primary elections of other years thousands of Texas republicans were democrats on primary election day. Now under which flag this year, in July but not at the November election.

Mickey (Himself) McGuire

PROLOGUE —by— Michael Arlen

Once upon a time in London there was a young gentleman who had nothing better to do one afternoon, so what should he do but take a walk? Now he did not set out as one on pleasure bent, but with an air of determination that would have surprised his friends, saying between his teeth: "I have always heard that walking is good exercise. I will try a bit." However, he had not walked far before circumstances compelled him to abate his ardour, for it was an afternoon in July and quite warm for the time of the year.

Eastward our young gentleman strode, by Sloane street, through Knightsbridge, across Hyde Park corner, he strode even from Chelsea, whereas his people lived in Mayfair and understood nothing.

Now while we are about it we may as well add that the young writer's father was a baronet who had for some years been a perfect martyr to bankruptcy, and had called his son to him on this afternoon to impress upon him the fact that in future he, the young writer's father, could not and would not be a victim to his, the young writer's extravagances. So much, then for the young writer's father; but with himself we must continue yet a while, although what this tale is really about is a hand and a flower.

For that is what be chanced to see on the afternoon we tell of, a hand and a flower; and since it was inconceivable that the hand could belong to a man, so white and delicate it was, he put two and two together and decided that it could only belong to a lady.

Now the sun was so high and bright over London that day that the voices of Americans were distinctly heard rising above the polished tumult of the Berkeley hotel, crying plaintively for ice; and when at last our young writer came into Mayfair he was grateful for the cool quiet streets, but being still at some discomfort from the effects of the heat on his person, he thought to turn into Mount Street gardens and rest a while beneah the trees.

This, however, he was not to do that afternoon; for it chanced that he had not walked far towards that pleasurance when, at that point of the pretty quarter of Mayfair where South street becomes North street and Grosvenor square is but a step in the right direction, he was drawn to admire a great house that stood in a walled garden. Quite a country house this looked like, and right in the heart of the town, so that our young gentleman thought: "Now I wonder whose home that is. Ah, to be rich! Or, at least, to be so attractive that rich people would take one to their hearts on sight!"

In this wise relishing the deplorable charms of money, he had stared long over the wall at the house in the garden had not something happened which instantly gave his fancies a prettier turn; for what should he suddenly espy through the curtain of leaves but a hand drooping from one of the upper windows, and what should he espy in the hand but a scarlet flower?

Now that made a delightful picture of innocence of dreaming youth and fond imagining, and not at all the sort of thing you ee ever day, especially in Mayfair, where motor cars grow from the cracks in the pavements and ladies recline in slenderness of divans, playing with rosaries of black pearls and eating scented macaroons out of bowls of white jade.

Presently a policeman happened by, and the young gentleman thought to turn from the wall and greet him in a friendly way with a view to further conversation.

"And what," he asked, "is the name of the lady who lives in the house with the garden?"

"Young sir," said the policeman severely, "that will do from you."

"I beg your pardon!" said the young writer with spirit.

"Granted," said the policeman severely.

"But this is absurd! I am an honest man and have asked you an honest question."

The policeman unbent his expression so far as to say, with a significant look at the great house in the walled garden "Young sir," said he, 'there danger lies for the likes of you. For the likes of her is not for the likes of you."

"Oh, nonsense!" cried our young gentleman. "This is a free country. This is not America!"

"Is it swearing at me you are?" said the policeman severely. "Now move on, young man, move on."

"I will not!" cried our hero.

"Well, I will!" said the policeman, and walked away, while the young gentleman turned away from this unsatisfactory conversation just in time, alas, to see the scarlet flower drop from the white fingers; and the hand was withdrawn.

Now such was the effect of the hand and the flower on the young writer's susceptible mind that he quite forgot to go and see his father, who thereupon cut him off with a shilling, which he sent to the young writer in the form of postage stamps But the occasion was not without some profit, albeit of the spiritual sort, to the young man; for that very night he dreamed he was kissing that very hand, and who shall say that that was all he dreamed, for surely he is a sorry young man who cannot kiss more than a lady's hand in a dream.

The Iourt Chronicles of the Grand Ducky of Valeria report the following conversation as having taken place between the reigning duke and his consort. That the conversation took place in London is undoubtedly due to the fact that the royal duke and his duchess were at the time on a state visit to that capital, with a view to taking a turn around the Wembley exhibition.

"We will give a ball," said His Higness the Hereditary Grand Duke of Valeria. "In fact, we must give a ball. And everyone in London will come to it."

"Why should they?" said Her Highness.

"Now try not to be disagreeable, my dear. I have no idea why they should, but I am positive they will. They always do."

"But, Frederick, what is the matter with you tonight? Why do you want to give a ball, since you cannot dance? Upon my word, if I danced like you I should be ill at the very idea of a ball. So be sensible, my love, and go to sleep again."

"Now try not to be unpleasant, Ethelberta. You do not seem to understand that people in our position must every now and then give a ball. That is undoubtedly what balls are for, that people in our position should give them. I have worked out the matter very carefully."

"Then you are quite wrong, my love. Balls are for something quite different. I assure you that I have also worked out the matter very carefully. Balls are for English people to give, Americans to opay for, and Argentine to dance at."

"Now try not to be tiresome, my dear. It will seem extremely peculiar in us not to give at least one ball while we are in London. The Diplomatic Corps will not fail to remark our ill-time economy. D oyou forget that we are royalty?"

"Fiddledidee!" said the duchess.

"Now," said the duke, "try not to be—"

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

How to Be Happy Though Living at home: Introduce Good Manners and Personal Freedom, Cut Out All Arguments and Advice, Then You'll Have the Home, Sweet Home, of Which We All Dream.

The next reformation I would make in the home would be to try to convert it from a jail into a pleasure resort. That would take a bit of doing, as our English friends say, for the generally accepted idea of a home is of a place where one is constantly under surveillance, and where no one has any personal liberty whatever.

Indeed, in the great majority of homes the inhabitants thereof have even less privacy than do the inmates of a penal institution, for they have not even a cell for their very own. They have no place in which they can be alone and do just exactly as they please, and in which they can indulge their own particular taste and notions of comfort. Nor have they any property rights. The wasters and spenders prey on the thrifty and provident. The messy and slouchy use and ruin the belongings of the careful and orderly.

Mary never has a pair of silk stockings because Susie has always sneaked them out of her drawer and danced holes in them. Tom never has any neckties because Bob has appropriated them before he had time to wear them. Hold-ups and grafts are considered legitimate if done in the family circle, no matter how exasperating they may be to the victims.

As for anyone having the liberty to come and go as they like at home, without question or comment, and on the supposition that, being respectable, adult, human beings they are engaged in lawful purposes, and have a right to so much liberty, perish the thought! It simply isn't done.

No husband has the temerity to telephone his wife that he is staying downtown to dinner and is spending the evening with some men friends. He lies to her, and tells her that a customer from Oshkosh has come in, or that he has to balance the books. No wife would dare to clap on her hat of an evening and leave hubby to mind the babies without presenting him with an alibi a yard long to account for her absence. And then he would be grouchy and suspicious. And even after children are grown they nearly always have to make a sneak of it or have a fight before they leave the house.

Worse still, in the home one is deprived of all personal freedom. You can not even eat what you like, or wear what you want to wear, or to go to bed when you want to go to bed.

If mother doesn't like sugar in her coffee she will reprove you for sweetening yours every morning of your life. If certain dishes don't agree with Aunt Jane she will spoil your meals for you by telling you that you are digging your grave with your teeth. If sister Sally is anemic she will nag you to the verge of distraction about not wearing red flannel underwear, and if father goes to bed at 9 o'clock he thinks that all lights should be put out at that hour and never fails to deliver a bedtime oration to that effect.

Now, why should we make prisoners of each other because we belong to the same family group, and live under the same roof? Why shouldn't we concede to the members of our household the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness in their own way? Why shouldn't we respect the individual rights of our husbands and wives, our parents and children, as we do those of strangers?

We have found out that a certain amount of formality is necessary to safeguard our social contacts with the world. We have found out that backdoor neighbors soon quarrel, and that too intimate friendships are sure to end in enmity. Why have we not intelligence enough to realie that the same principle holds true in our family relations, and that nothing makes for peace and harmony in a household so much as respecting the individuality and the personal rights and privileges of the various members thereof?

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

TRIAL

In the pale beauty of a rose
Are gathered all the winter's snows,
Within the mighty oak appears
All of the winds of all the years,
Even the peak's majestic form
Was shaped by centuries of storm.

The rose had winters—so have I;
The tree was bent—but did not die;
The storm has made the hill and vale
And my own heart has felt the gale;
And half the beauty of a life
Was fashioned in some hour of strife.

The very parting at the door
Has made me love the absent more;
In joy my faith I did not learn,
But when to faith I had to turn;
If I had never had to grieve
Then I would never need believe.

Roses and trees and peaks and lives,
So out of evil good survives,
So out of sorrow joy remains,
And even peace was born of pains;
And only when the sky is riven
We turn our eyes and look to heaven.

What Do You Know

DAILY SCIENCE SIX

1. From what country does camphor come?
2. From what source in nature is camphor derived?
3. What is camphor used for?
4. What is celluloid made of?
5. What is celluloid used for?
6. What is synthetic camphor?

(Answers to these questions in tomorrow's Record News.)

Camphor As a Precious Substance

In the middle ages men were fascinated by anything that had a strange odor and taste. The partly fictitious value they put on spices was one proof of this. They felt the same way about camphor. Its crystalline form, its curious smell, excited the wonder of the medievals, and the fact that it came from the mysterious East gave it as much value in their eyes as something brought from Mars would have in ours. Doctors gave camphor internally as a remedy, generally with fatal results, and when one king wanted to pay another an especial compliment, he sent him a box full of rock camphor.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. No peoples now speak Sanskrit; it was an ancient language, chiefly literary and religious, related on the one hand to Persian, Greek and Roman, and hence to our language and on the other to modern Hindustan.

2. Irish (Gaelic) is related to Scotch, Welsh, and the aboriginal speech of Cornwall and Brittany.

3. The languages which have influenced English most are: Latin (through Norman French), Norman French, Anglo-Saxon, Danish and Greek through recent classical studies.

4. Lingua franca was the pigeon-talk or hybrid speech used between the Norman French conquerors of England and the conquered Saxons and Danes.

5. Japanese is not remotely like Chinese in grammar or vocabulary or origin of root words; there are many borrowed Chinese words in Japanese, however.

6. English is the most widely spoken language in the world.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

Cancer

Today's planetary aspects are quite favorable, although late in the evening they assume a benign, rather than an actively encouraging nature. It is a good day for travel either by land or sea. It is not auspicious for the "taking of chances." All work that is related, either directly or indirectly, to mechanical development or inventive efforts will be distinctly benefited by problems will be much in more easily accomplished today than at other times. It is also a good occasion for marriage, and all life partnerships entered into under today's favorable omens promise to be only productive of happiness and love.

Children born today will experiment, during their infancy, the usual "ups and downs" of babyhood. None of their ailments will, however, fail to yield to ordinary remedies and none need cause alarm o rworry. Between the ages of 16 and 18 years, they will require careful vigilance as that is the period in their lives when apprehension on physical grounds is most to be anticipated. Tempermentally, they will be normal, neither better nor worse than the average. As they develop in years, they will acquire ambition and display the will to work for what they want to achieve. Anything that tends to force these children along lines of study, will prove futile. The desire to succeed will be, with them, inherent, and will, of its own volition, assert itself in due time and season.

If today is your birthday, you possess great vitality and unlimited enthusiasm. The pity is that the vitality soon ebbs, and the enthusiasm fades. You go at any new task with vim and determination, but soon you tire and want to change. You are always conceiving new ideas—most of which are good and plausible—but never work with consistency to put one idea through to practical fruition. As a result of this outstanding characteristic, you are good at planning but very faulty at execution. You are also, too fond of pleasure to achieve any great results as when pleasure calls you, the task on hand remains neglected. What you need, not only in your business but in your private life, is more concentration of purpose and attention to fireworks, and more assiduity in the maintenance of the flame.

You are domestic, loving and kind. These virtues should insure for you happiness in the home.

Peach Tree Street Resounds to Vets

ATLANTA, Ga., June 22.—(AP)—Their footsteps guided by little girls, 40 blind veterans led the slow-moving line of 5000 disabled world war veterans over Peach Tree Street today where 62 years ago the armies of a divided nation moved in battle.

Followed by those who had lost either an arm or leg in the service of their country and then those whose health was broken by gas or shrapnel, the delegates to the sixth annual convention of the veterans moved down the famous avenue.

Despite their disabilities cheer dominated the line and enthusiasm was voiced in lusty tone. Envoys of the city and nation and soldiers from Fort McPherson accompanied them on their march.

SECOND LOVE

by MALCOLM DUART

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY EUGENE MacLEAN

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Harry Morton, wealthy, experienced man-of-the-world, has come hurrying back from Europe to straighten out the difficulties between his rich young daughter, Audrey, and her husband, John Parrish. The two have separated because of Parrish's wrath at his wife's frequent references to his own poverty. Morton finds Marcie Allen in charge of Audrey's house during Audrey's own absence. He questions the young, gay girl. She tries to "vamp" him. Laughing at her method, he gets from her an admission that she also has amused herself by making love to Parrish, but has wound up by scratching Parrish's face. He tells her that as a vamp, she is an amateur.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

(Names and situations in this story are fictitious)

CHAPTER XXV.

Marcie folded her hands and cast down her eyes in embarrassment. Finally, she said, with disarming candor: "I always thought I was pretty good!"

"You mean," he suggested, "that your plan of love-making always has been successful in your set. Is that it?"

She nodded.

"One should travel and improve the mind," he commented. "As I understand it, you try to annex every desirable man you see. Am I right?"

She did not answer him directly, but countered with another question. "How did you know that I—that I vamp 'em? Did Audrey tell you?"

He shook his head. "Audrey is very fond of you, my dear," said he. "She wouldn't give me any inside information like that. But—"

He stopped and regarded her with narrowed eyes.

"I'm about forty-five years old," he resumed. "I have seen a great number of women. So, when I saw you, and heard your first remark, it was all that was necessary."

She looked disappointed. "You mean you've seen lots of girls like me?"

He smiled. "I don't mean to hurt your feelings, but the world is just jam full of little innocents like you, running around and making eyes at the men and saying snappy things to them and firmly believing that they are terrific vampires."

"You make me feel like a darned fool," she said, crestfallen. She twisted a ring that she wore upon her right hand.

"Tell me about Nona," she said, suddenly.

"Surely," he said, throwing his leg comfortably over the arm of the chair. "Exactly what would you like to know?"

"A lot of things that I'll bet you won't tell!" Confidence had returned to her voice.

"I see that Audrey has been gossiping," said Morton. "However, that's a frailty of the ladies. Now, about Nona." He drew a long draught through his cigar, and leisurely blew the smoke in a funnel-like cloud. "Nona is a personage nowadays. She didn't use to be, you know."

"Audrey says Nona had lots of love affairs before she met you," Marcie informed him.

"Audrey is quite correct, I believe." He swung his foot, and spoke reminiscently. "I remember Nona told me how bored she used to get."

"She was fibbing," snapped Marcie. "I've said that very same thing to fellows myself."

Morton laughed. "An excellent point. Doubtless she was not as bored as she represented. Is there anything else you'd like to know about Nona?"

"Why, you haven't told me anything, yet!"

"I see. Well, Nona is two or three years older than you, my dear; her hair is darker—black, I believe; her eyes are large and dark, like yours; she is taller than you; she is much more experienced in the ways of the world.'

"I'll bet she is!" There was something a trifle vicious in her tone, and Morton, noting it, smiled.

"Do I understand that you regard Nona as a possible rival?" he inquired.

"You know I do." She spoke emphatically, drawing herself to the edge of her chair, and looking straight into his eyes.

"We are getting on famously," he commented. "Marcie, will you tell me something, seeing that we are such intimate friends?"

She waited for him to go on. "What was really the matter, when Parrish pulled out of the house here, and went to stay down town."

The girl moved back in her chair. "You won't tell Audrey what I say?"

"Not a word."

"Well, then, she nagged him."

Morton nodded, as if Marcie had confirmed his own surmise.

"John is kind of solemn, and takes things hard, you know," she went on. "And every time she reminded him that she bought his underwear ——" she stopped to giggle — "and paid his salary, he would fly up in a rage."

"Quite human of him," Morton said. "Then what course would she take?"

"Then, she'd cry, and they'd make up."

"I see." He was silent for a time. "What was the trouble about your yellow roadster? She said their last conversation hinged on that."

"I lent him my car, to pay for my board here," she said. "When he took it, Audrey got angry, and went over the list of things she had bought him—"

"That's enough. I get it." He smoked placidly, as he explained. "They were having the regular, standard troubles that come when poor young men marry rich girls—unless the girl has an enormous amount of tact, or the man is a softy. Parrish isn't soft, and I doubt if it ever occurred to Audrey that she needed tact."

He ruminated over the situation for a time, until Marcie began to stir, restlessly.

"Let's go in and chat with Audrey," he said. "You must have lots to tell her."

He glanced at her mischeviously. She caught his meaning, and laughed.

"I suppose I ought to blush, but I won't," she said, as she arose. "You won't tell on me, will you?"

"I told you," he reminded her, "that I am nearly forty-five years old, and have seen much of women. I'll tell Audrey nothing."

They went into the house, and found Audrey deep in an exploration of the downstairs closets, in search of defective housekeeping.

"Everything's SO nice, Marcie, dear," she said. "You're a dandy housekeeper."

"It wasn't my doings." Marcie said, honestly. "I told the maids to clean up, and they did."

Audrey hauled out a raincoat, looked at it, and put it back.

"There are three bottles missing from your wine cellar, daddy," she said.

Morton shot a quick look at Marcie, whose face fell.

"I can't remember what I did with the key when I went away," Audrey went on. "But it was in the door of the cellar when I went down."

Morton openly winked at Marcie, who covered her face with her hands. Audrey's back was turned. "Don't get the servants all stirred up by holding a court of inquiry," he suggested.

"I won't—but I'll bet one of them had a party on her day off," Audrey said.

Morton took his hat. "I'll run down to the office, now."

Audrey came, and put her hand on his shoulder. "Don't ask John to come back," she said, moisture gathering in her eyes. "I couldn't—I couldn't stand it to be humbled that way."

He patted her on the cheek. "If Parrish comes back, he'll come of his own volition—eating crow."

The girls stood in the door, watching him as he went down the steps, and around the corner of the house toward the garage. Audrey wiped her eyes with her apron.

"I feel so much better and safer since he's here," she said. "I hope he doesn't ever go away again."

"I'm afraid of him,' Marcie confessed.

Audrey looked at her, wonderingly.

"Afraid of daddy?"

"Yes, he takes you apart, and looks inside your head and tells you what you're thinking about."

"Oh." Audreys' tone was one of relief. "That's because you were trying to vamp him. It always amuses him, when women do that. But if you let him alone, he's SO nice and kind and helpful."

She went ahead with her exploration of the house, Marcie idling after her, and chatting.

"Did you have any fun while I was gone?" Audrey asked.

Marcie laughed. "I went and stayed over at my own house, once—burglared the back window." She went ahead and told of her adventure, and of her charging meals from the caterer's to her father's account.

"What on earth did you do that for?" Audrey inquired.

"Just for the excitement."

"Did you see anything of John?"

Marcie hesitated, and then elected to tell the truth. "He came over one evening, and I gave him dinner," she said. "I think he was lonesome. He was here a couple of other times, too, but not to eat. And he brought back my roadster—it's in the garage now."

"Thats good," Audrey approved. "He oughtn't have accepted that from you, Marcie. You meant it kindly, but he should have refused."

Marcie turned to look out the window. Her hostess came and placed an affectionate arm over her shoulder.

"I'm sorry to mix you up in my troubles," she said, pressing Marcie's soft body to her.

Her guest colored. "I think I'll go upstairs and fix my hair," she said.

Toward evening, Morton called up from his office, and Audrey answered the 'phone. She listened, with brief assenting nods of her head, and then turned to Marcie.

"Daddy is going to bring John to dinner tonight," she said, "and he wants me to go some place else until my husband is gone. But he asks if you will stay and be hostess. Will you?"

(To be continued)

The girls stood, watching him as he went down the steps, and around the corner of the house toward the garage. "I hope he doesn't ever go away again," Audrey said.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense

The Pavement That Meets the Challenge of Traffic

Your own observation and experience will tell you that the road which was good enough twenty years ago, or perhaps even ten years ago, simply will not do today.

It lacks the strength, the rigidity and the firmness necessary to withstand the terrific wear and tear of motor transportation.

Only pavement will do this. And the pavement that meets all tests is concrete.

Built in accordance with approved standards of highway construction, the concrete pavement remains free of ruts and bumps, year after year.

Requiring practically no maintenance, it costs less in the end than any other pavement.

Isn't that the kind your community ought to have? Then let your local authorities know that you want your highways paved with concrete.

Our free booklet, "Concrete Facts About Pavements," will be sent promptly on request. Write for it today.

THE QUICK DIRECT ROUTE TO COLORADO

STATE DEDUCTS ON ROAD WORK

Holds up Payment on Partial Surfacing Of Highways

AUSTIN, June 22.—(AP)—Deduction of 1.624 cents a square yard is being made from the contract price for asphalt resurfacing, where the contractors distribute three-tenths of a gallon, instead of five-tenths as prescribed by specifications, H. J. Cox, state highway maintenance engineer, said today.

Attorney General Dan Moody Monday by letter asked Hal Moseley, chairman of the highway commission, if adjustments were being made where the contractors were allowed to depart from the specifications.

"Since the contracts were let under a law requiring competitive bids, if an adjustment is being made on the price, I would like to know upon what theory of law such adjustment is affected, or the literal terms of the contract modified," Moody asked.

The highway commission March 17 awarded contracts to the McClung Construction company, Cocke and Turner and H. K. McCollum for the asphaltic re-surfacing of several hundred miles of highways in North and Central Texas upon which the American Road company had placed the initial surfacing of half a gallon to the square yard.

Will Not Cure

"On that portion of the highways not badly worn, better results are obtained by distributing three-tenths of a gallon to the square yard, because five-tenths will not "cure out" properly," Cox said. "The contractors agreed a deduction should be made, where they used less asphalt than the specified quantity.

"A representative of the attorney general's department asked if I had given instructions to place only three-tenths of a gallon portions of the road. I answered in the affirmative. This representative did not go to the trouble of asking if the proper price deductions were being made. If he had, there would have been no occasion for any letter writing."

Mr. Cox exhibited records showing that H. K. McCollum, June 15, was paid $19,504.30 for distributing three-tenths of a gallon to the square yard over 126,849 square yards, or 15.376 cents a square yard, Mr. McCullum's contract calling for the payment of 17 cents a square yard.

The warrant of June 15 paid for work in May, Mr. McCollum was the only one of the three contractors to do any of this type of surfacing in May. This month, however, all contractors have been distributing 3-10's of a gallon to the square yard over some of the roads named in their contracts, and up to June 17, a total of 479,000 square yards had been treated with three-tenths of a gallon. They will receive payment in July for June work.

In deciding a deduction of 1.624 cents should be made for each square yard, Mr. Cox figured the actual saving effected for the contractor. Cost to the contractor of a half a gallon of asphalt, including freight, is 4.06 cents.

Two fifths of this cost is 1.624 cents—the deduction made then only three-tenths of a gallon is distributed.

Mr. Cox showed a letter of June 21 from Mr. McCollum protesting that 15.53 cents would be a fair price to pay him for placing three-tenths of a gallon, instead of 15.370 cents allowed by Mr. Cox.

The state maintenance engineer said Mr. McCollum's claim would not be allowed.

TRIAL IS DELAYED

CUERO, Texas, June 22.—(AP) Trial of Walter Utesch, former cashier of the defunct First State Bank and Trust company of Cuero, charged with theft, embezzlement and forgery in connection with the conduct of the business of the bank, will not come up in the local district court until the fall term. The cases were continued for the term by Judge John M. Green Monday at the request of the defense, a material witness for that side being ill.

LOS SENORES

of highbrow effect as it were, while the rest of the hombres just had their sashes and hats which were a plenty before the walk was over.

Allred's Kitchen Jazzbo.

But while the band was doing its stuff, scarcely less conspicuous was Jimmy Allred's Kitchen Jazzbo orchestra which was evidently equipped with India rubber throats and lungs. It honked away as consistently as did the bonafide musicians and the manner in which it brought up the rear of the parade kept the crowds on the sidelines in an uproar. Allred himself, plastered over with banners from every town south of the Red river clear to the gulf, waved a wierd baton as conductor of his organization. Despite the heat Wichita Falls provided plenty of music.

One of the big hits of the day was the series of selections Miss Josephine Fisk provided with her brilliant Spanish costume, her mandolin and her ever ready repertoire of vocal selections. Tuesday morning shortly after the Wichita Falls crowd arrived she held center of the stage in the main business street and stopped everything within a radius of two blocks with her rendition of "La Paloma" sung in Spanish. After that initial appearance she was kept busy most of the day.

R. E. Shepheard and R. Vaughn Ray, who most all of Wichita Falls knows, can on occasions handle a musical score, produced a number of impromptu duets during the festivities. They were especially inclined to harmony just before the parade started when a Cadillac full of betwitching Senoritas from some point down the line, stopped near the Wichita Falls crowd to wait for the parade to form. Shep and Ray warbled long and melodiously then while Horace Robins stood on the running board along side them. He said he sang too.

Miss Elva Killingsworth, Wichita Falls senorita at the convention was one of the most attractive of all the many pretty ones in the line of march. She rode in an elaborately decorated car heading the Wichita Falls marchers and with other senoritas here, shared in a number of special entertainments prepared by Amarillo for the distinguished visitors.

Whether or not Wichita Falls is given the 1927 convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce, a thing it has been battling for valliantly, will be determined Wednesday. San Antonio is making a strong plea for the meeting, but a feeling prevailed tonight that Wichita Falls priority claims and the large crowd it had sent to Amarillo would win for it.

Tuesday night the Wichitans amused themselves at the numerous social diversions Amarillo has provided. A large part of them attended a huge fiesta at the fair grounds.

SELECT JURORS IN DEATH CASE

Belton Murder Trial Likely To Get Under Way By Wednesday Noon

BELTON, Texas, June 22.—(AP) With three more jurors to be selected, and with two-thirds of the special venire of 173 men exhausted, there were indications late Tuesday afternoon that the jury in the Sledge Houston case may be completed by noon Wednesday.

Court recessed at 5 p. m., overnight.

One juror was selected during the first hour Monday morning, and then during the entire afternoon, one after another prospective juror was rejected without another being added to the panel.

Tuesday morning five jurors were accepted in fairly rapid succession, but in the afternoon only three additional men were added to the panel.

Three new jurors accepted this afternoon are L. E. Teaff of Eddy, A. B. Moore of Temple, Martin V. Fergun of Killeen, all farmers.

Houston maintained his attitude of confidence today smiling at friends in the court room as the trial progressed and chatting with them at every recess.

A little group of relatives of the slain man sat just behind state's attorneys and watched every move of the trial intently.

They were Mrs. G. A. White, widow of the slain; Mrs. L. A. White, his mother; Professor E. A. White of Baylor university, and R. A. White, brothers.

Every indication pointed to the selection of a jury out of the present venire of 130. It also was indicated that the trial would be prolonged and may last until late next week.

COURT FIGHT

meeting Tuesday afternoon he declared a quorum of 64 qualified delegates present. In a 30 minute session the meeting completed plans for holding the July primary, elected a primary committee and estimated the costs of holding the election at $15,000, assessing this amount equally between Wurzbach and his opponent, Fred M. Knetsch.

Unless candidates have sent in their assessment by next Monday night their names will not go on the republican ballot in July, Holzschuher said, quoting a section of the Terrell election laws.

From his home in Seguin Wurzbach said he would g arantee to hold an election in each of the 128 Bexar county precincts for $2,500. "I haven't got $7,500," he said, "and can't play with that bunch. And then I am sure I would be volating the law if I did pay that much into the committee. The law provides I can spend only $2,500, this to include my committee assessment.

Wurzbach Absent.

Tuesday's meeting was not attended by any Wurzbach supporters. The tenor of the meeting indicated that the breach between the two factions had widened to where a fight to the finish was inevitable.

The first resolution adopted Tuesday stated that the meeting was an adjourned meeting, interrupted Monday by "a mob of people, who did unlawfully and wrongfully, and contrary to law, by force, threats and through fraud, did take charge of the meeting and, because of fights, cloting and rudely displaying of firearms, and by the attacks and beating of said mob of the chairman and of the secretary, render it impossible to proceed."

Refuse Ku Klux Parade Permit

CLEVELAND, June 22.—(AP)—Safety Director Edwin B. Barry has refused the Ku Klux Klan a permit to parade in Cleveland on July 31, he announced today.

"I have taken this matter up with heads of the police department and after careful consideration have decided in the interest of public safety not to issue the permit," he said.

SEEKS BOND PERMIT

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP) The New Orleans, Texas and Mexican railways applied to the interstate commerce commission today for authority to issue $4,495,900 of its first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds and to extend for one year from June 30 the time in which to convert them for a like amount of income bonds.

ADVERTISING BOOSTS TRADE

Convention Hears of Value Of Publicity In Industry

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—(AP)—The enormous volume of trade in the United States today is proof of the stimulating force of advertising, said Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, in an address today before the Public Utility Advertising Association. It has "increased consumption, raised the standard of living and added enormously Mr. Wiley said:

"One of your great problems is the cultivation and maintenance of the community's good will toward your companies. In the solution of this problem newspaper advertising can play an important part. I do not appear before you to urge that you take more advertising space in the newspapers, or to tell you that advertising will magically buy you good will. If you do not advertise intelligently the better class of newspapers would prefer that you do not take space at all.

"Poorly conceived advertising will fail to bring you results and will hurt the reputation of this powerful business influence among you."

One of the most valuable assets of advertising among companies having extensive public relations, Mr. Wiley pointed out, is the influence it has on the company's own employes. Public utility advertising copy should be prepared with this in mind, he declared.

Laguardia Defies Beer Test Critics

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Representative LaGuardia, progressive socialist, New York, today defied critics of his recent demonstration of mixing a malt tonic with near beer and producing what he said was real but legal beer.

"My attention has been called," he said, "to an announcement of prohibition enforcement headquarters at Albany, N. Y., that any one found making beer under the LaGuardia formula by mixing near beer and malt tonic would be arrested for violation of the Volstead act. I accept the challenge and on my next visit to New York I will walk up to a soda fountaunt in a drug store in my district and order a bottle of tonic and one of near beer and drink it right there.

"If the prohibition department desires to test the law I will give it the opportunity."

THEFT CHARGED

Charges of theft of property over the value of $50 were filed Tuesday in the district courts naming Travis Gerdes and Dick Willburn, arrested by city officers, Carmichael and Lay Tuesday morning in connection with the theft of an automobile from M. W. Ingham Monday. The car, stripped of tires and accessories was found in North Wichita Tuesday. The tires taken from it were afterwards recovered by the officers.

NOT GUILTY

HENRIETTA, June 22—A verdict of not guilty was returned by the jury of the 97th district court in the case of Henry Scarbrough, charged by indictment with a statutory offense. The trial was before Judge Vincent Stine and occupied two days.

Oklahoma Well Up

TULSA, Okla., June 22.—Oklahoma's largest oil well continues to grow in importance and output.

The Gypsy Oil company No. 1 Becker, in the southeast corner of the northeast of the southwest of 28-25-1w, gauged 400 barrels an hour at 7 a. m. Saturday or at the rate of 9,600 barrels of 42 gravity oil. The official sand record is now 4270 to 4283 feet, or 13 feet in the Wilcox sand.

Two four-inch lines are required to transport the production. A battery of five 250 barrel steel tanks, with a sixth building, and two earthen tanks are necessary to handle the oil from the big well, with production reported as increasing. The Gypsy is working about 150 men day and night, with the lease illuminated by searchlights at night, in laying lines, building tanks and making other connections to take care of the oil.

The Gypsy well had the Wilcox formation considerably higher than the Texas company No. 2 Siler, in the southwest corner of the northeast, of 28-25-1w, and ove-fourth of a mile due north. The Texas well is flowing 80 barrels an hour or 1,920 barrels a day from sand at 4,280 to 4,290 1-2 feet. It wil probably be deepened.

PANHANDLE HAS 7 MORE WELLS

District Gets Many Producers In Hutchison Lime After Shot

Fly-Blackburn No. 1 Whittenburg, in the northeast of the southeast of section 19, block Y, Mary Cumings survey, Hutchinson county, Texas Panhandle, is flowing 500 barrels a day after being shot with 300 quarts from 2976 to 3044 feet.

Derby Oil company No. 1 Johnson, in tract 8, Mary Whitley survey, made 1100 barrels initial after a 40-quart shot from 2965 to 2979 feet.

Empire Gas and Fuel company has spudded in No. 1-B Johnson, in section 21, block Y.

Gibson Oil company No. 1 Johnson, in section 74, block 46, that came in for 100,000,000 feet of gas, and caught fire, burning for nearly two weeks, has been extinguished.

Word from Amarillo says that some of the operators whose wells are showing more or less water have adopted a novel, but effective way of treating the oil to remove it. The flow of fluid is run to stock tanks, with a bottom connection. The stock tanks have several feet of salt water in them and the fresh fluid passing through the water separates, and the oil that passes out is in fine shape and ready for the pipe lines.

Mc-Man Oil company No. 1 survey, Holmes, in section 5, block Y, topped the pay at 2701 to 2775 feet and had an initial output of 400 barrels, after a 150-quart shot. Its No. 4, had pay from 2731 to 2787 feet and made 375 barrels initial after a 160-quart shot. Nos. 2 and 3, safe farm, are producing 350 barrels each.

ANTI-MONKEY BILL

DULL HEADACHE, BACKACHE AND PAINS IN THE SIDE

"For 15 years I have been using Black-Draught, when needed, for biliousness and constipation," said Mr. J. O. Woodard, of Grantsboro, N. C., "and I have always found it to be reliable and effective. It certainly comes up to all the good things that are said for it, and I am glad to recommend it.

"I have found that Black-Draught purges the system of the poisons which accumulate when the organs do not act properly, and I would not be without it.

"I always give Black-Draught to the children for colds (when a laxative is needed.) It is fine for that.

"My trouble is chiefly constipation which is always accompanied by dull headache, backache, and pains in my sides. I think Black-Draught is the quickest and best relief for this."

Mrs. Woolard told of how, when she was a child, her parents gave the children Black-Draught "for minor ailments, such as biliousness, headache and colds."

"So naturally when I got married and had a home of my own," she added, "I kept up the family troubles like that, we take Black-Draught.

"At times I have spells of headache caused from constipation. I get dizzy; my head goes 'round and 'round—a dreadful sensation. I did not know what was the matter until I found it was caused from biliousness and that a few doses of Black-Draught would quickly relieve the trouble by correcting the cause, constipation. I used to take Black-Draught when I was a child, and now the kind of indigestion I have is very much the same. It comes from carelessness as to eating." All druggists. JA-37.

These 3 great engineering factors

—throw an entirely new light on present-day performance standards

HERE is a remarkable new-type of car, different in performance, comfort and ease of driving from anything you have ever known before.

It is a complete new departure in automobile engineering.

The whole car is designed as an integral, harmonious unit. All parts are co-related with other parts. It is unit-engineered to meet modern performance standards.

You can drive the Overland Six hour after hour at high speed without excessive wear and tear on the engine. It was designed for an average road speed of 40 to 55 miles an hour.

Its low gravity center gives you a feeling of security never found in any car of this type before. Without side-sway or slipping or wandering . . . the car hugs the road.

This car has tremendous power-performance-ability — ability never obtainable in any car of this size or price before. Full 40-brake horsepower is delivered in a straight line from its low swung engine through to the rear axle shaft. The result is a traffic ability that is positively amazing.

It embodies the major advantages of 18 of Europe and America's finest motor cars, plus many others our own engineering experts developed.

The Overland Six will turn in a forty foot circle. Rear springs are underslung and 52 inches long. 141 square inches of braking surface provide an ample safety margin.

It has more inside space. More cubic feet than the average car of this price.

It is a car of exceptional comfort. The big broad door openings are 32½ inches wide. You can get in or out with the utmost ease.

Nothing has been spared to make this car a positive comfort-revelation.

Simply in fairness to yourself, see this wonderful car.

THE SPIRIT OF '76—WITH IMPROVEMENTS

A new York east sider met a friend on Third avenue and told him he had quit the buttonhole making trade.

"I'm in the art business now," he said proudly—"such a fine business, too! Lots of money in it!"

"What do you mean—art business?" demanded his friend.

"Well, explained the east sider, "I go by auction sales, and I buy pictures cheap; then I sell 'em high. Yesterday I bought a picture for twenty-five dollars and today I sold it for fifty."

"What was the subject?"

"It wasn't no subject at all," said the art collector—"it was a picture."

"Sure, I know," said the other. "But every picture has got to be a subject or it ain't a regular picture, you understand. Was this here picture a marine, or a landscape, or a still life, or a portrait—or what? What did it represent?"

"How should I know?" said the puzzled ex-buttonholer. "To me a picture is a picture. This here picture now didn't have no name. It was a picture of three fellows and one flag. One feller had a fife and one feller had a drum and one feller had a headache!"

"The present attacks on the 18th amendment tand the Volstead act," said Mr. Colvin, "make rehabilitation of the prohibition party in every state an urgent necessity."

ALL SET FOR BIG PRIZE.

With the prized possession of the British golf world resting peacefully in state at the Siwanoy Country Club, thanks to he redoubtable Jess Sweetser, the possibility of an American, or a golfer representing the land of the free, winning the open championship of Great Britain for the fifth time, provides a matter for discussion wherever linksmen gather. Nothng succeeds like success—and such being the case, four victories out of six starts should go a long way this year toward giving the Yanks the edge on their brethren from the other side of the pond.

The two outstanding figures in American golf—Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones—are trying for a place in the sun on the British links. Hagen has the distinction of being the only homebred to win the open abroad—and then, just to show it could be done, he scored twice. Jones, on the other hand, has been unsuccessful in his quest for British honors thus far, a disappointment which may go a long way toward affecting his play in the coming meeting. With victory practically in his grasp in the recent championship a Muirfield, where his compatriot Sweetser came through, Bobby, after being touted as the star of the field, suffered the ignominy of defeat at the hands of a comparatively "unknown" player.

Georgia Peach Most Feared.

And let it be said now, there is no player in the open more feared by the Britons than this same Georgia Peach, John Bull has tasted the kind of golf of which Bobby is capable; he's been showing 'em how it's done in practice rounds and admiring galleries have followed him every time he starts on a round.

To date, Hagen and Sweetser are the only American-born linksmen who have won British honors—Hagen taking the open and Sweetser the amateur title—and what a bitter pill it would be for the English to swallow were an American amateur to capture their open, emblematic of the world's championship! We've already proven our supremacy in the Walker cup international team match on each occasion of play; Hagen, a homebred; Jock Hutchison and Jim Barnes, British-born golfers representing the United States of America, have shown the way in the open; Waler Travis, born in Australia, brought back the amateur cup from Great Britain in 1904, and this year came Sweetser's victory to add insult to injury. What price the 1926 title?

The Three Musketeers.

There are 11 of America's professionals and six amateurs making a bid for the crown now worn by Long Jim Barnes, and the lanky Cornishman has shown his mettle by returning to defend his honors. Aside from Hagen, Jones and Barnes, we will be able to count on Tommy Armour, Bill Mehlhorn, George Von Elm and Roland Mackenzie to do their stuff.

Winning a championship abroad has not quite the significance attached to it these days as was the case ten years ago. In days gone by, there was really only one crown worth wearing—and that was the British, either amateur or profesisonal. The American championships were looked on as quite nice affairs to win, but they didn't actually coun; in the scheme of things from a golf standpoint. How different is the standard nowadays.

America is the open sesame for golfers, and no less a player than Walter Hagen is sponsor for the statement that the would rather win a national open here than two more British titles. It's a strange thing that the Rochester homebred, who seldom fails to win one of the major events each year, has not been able to add another open to his collection. His last victory was in 1919, and this summer he will make a more determined effort than ever to do the trick.

Britains' Hope Is Mitchell.

The British golfers are more "up and coming" this year than has been the case since before the war, and there are several players who are liable to bar our way most effectively. Before an American can "hole out" again this week he will have to beat a more formidable lineup than has appeared in a championship for several years. Abe Mitchell, the long-driving Abe, is accounted the most dangerous, with George Duncan and Archie Compston in the offing always liable to reel off four rounds in figures difficult to equal. Mitchell, since taking the job as private professional to a millionaire, has had plenty of time to get in form, and he has been practicing assiduously.

The former amateur, who startled the golf world by reaching the final round when he was working as chauffeur to Sir Abe Bailey, has never really been able to play at his best in a championship. Somehow or other there has always been something to deter him, but in 1926 may be his banner year. Surely Abe deserves to win after having struggled so long, and, a side from an American victory, Mitchell's would be a popular one in this country as well as in Great Britain.

U. S. Left Minus Player in British Women's Tourney

HARLECH, Wales, June 22—(AP) Miss Rosamond Sherwood of Boston defaulted to Mrs. J. R. Long today, leaving the United States without a representative in the British women's golf championship tournament.

Miss Cecil Leitch, the British star, and the phenominal 17-year-old French player, Mlle Simone de La Chaume, had easy victories in the third and fourth rounds. Miss Leitch first outplayed Mrs. Lewis Smith, 8 up and 7 to go, and then defeated Mrs. King of Malahide, 4 and 3.

Mlle de La Chaume, in her third round match defeated Miss D. Hartwill a strong midland player, 3 and 2. In the fourth round she put Mrs. Mursell of Didsbury, out of the running by the same score.

It appeared tonight as though the French girl, who already is known as the "Suzanne of golf," will meet Miss Leitch in the semi-final round tomorrow. The final 36 holes will be played Thursday.

Somehow or other, the wonder Japanese wrestler takes great pride in this type of drawing if it be one supposedly of him. The funnier the cartoon is, if it's about Matty, the more Matty laughs.

The clever Nipponese in letter to the Record News sports editor declared he was in great condition at the time of mailing the missive from El Paso and expected to be in Wichita Falls Wednesday in readiness to meet Joe Parelli, Chicago's roughhouse Wop, in one of two feature matches here Thursday night which are going to be put on by the Wichita Falls wrestling association as a Milk and Ice fund benefit.

Mighty Grover Goes To Cards

Premier Hurler of Cubs Released to St. Louis Via Waiver Route

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP)—For years a mainstay of the Chicago National league club's pitching staff, Grover Cleveland Alexander was today released via the waiver route to the St. Louis National league Cardinals.

The decision to release Alexander it was said at the Cubs' office here, followed his infraction of the training rules which caused Manager Joe McCarthy to suspend him. The Cardinals secured Alexander at the waiver price of $4,000.

Fans here recently staged an Alexander day and presented the flinger with an expensive automobile, robe and all accessories as a token of their esteem. Since that time, Manager McCarthy recently stated, the hurler has been violating training rules which led to the suspension and to the ultimate action today.

Texans Win With Ease in Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 22.—(AP)—Three Texas exponents of tennis won with comparative ease their matches here Tuesday in the Western clay court tennis tournament.

B. I. C. Norton, native of South Africa, but now of San Antonio, present and twice champion of Texas, went into the third round of play by stopping John Stubbs of Indianapolis, in straight sets, 6-1 and 6-4.

Two other Texans won their way into the second round. John Norton of Austin defeated Neal Hines, of Terre Haute, Ind., without the loss of a game, 6-0, and 6-0, while Berkeley Bell, also of Austin, defeated Leland Hawaort, Indianapolis, 7-5 and 6-0.

CINCINNATI, June 22.—(AP)—Although outbatted by Chicago, Cincinnati held first place today by beating the Cubs, 3 to 2. SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

Some three years ago the Chicago White Sox bosses decided that Pitcher Leo Mangum of the Minneapolis club would help solve their pitching problem. When the deal was made Minneapolis tossed in "to boot" a young catcher named Mike Grabowski.

Now Mike wasn't the first young buckstop to be signed up to play second or third fiddle to Ray Schalk. However, the club held no illusions regarding Mike. He was a promising catcher but no one vouchsafed the information that he was a "second Ray Schalk." This title was bestowed upon Buck Crouse, Burns and two of the other youngsters, the wish being father to the thought.

But as said, Mike was just another catcher.

He remained that until this year. As late as last fall Crouse drew the assignment as relief catcher when the veteran Schalk found the pace too tiring and took a day off frequently.

Once in a while, however, Grabowski did break into the lineup as a pinch hitter and seemed able to keep his head up.

But this year Eddie Collins is using him as second string catcher whenever Schalk has an idle day. And the reason?

Simply because Grabowski, in his months of idleness on the bench, had made a careful study of the weaknesses of the opposing batters and when sent in to work used that knowledge to advantage. If he lacks anything now to make an acceptable man to take Ray Schalk's place it is actual experience. He has the natural ability and a working knowledge of the batters.

There should be a moral to this—if other up and coming catchers can see it.

In Archer county things were of a very even tenor with nothing above the horizon to disturb the oil editor's easy chair. In the Pandem district, Thomas land to the west of Archer City drys and new producers kept the balance from dropping the area into the discard. The new west offset to the discovery producer which is swabbing at the rate of 150 barrels from the 1,100 pay gives the area a new outlook especially since the east and northeast offsets came in dry and shale.

The Olney area was unusually quiet. After its hey-dey flurries of the past year and one-half the district is apparently settling down to the good old days of settled production so sweet to the pumpers eye.

Holliday and the Shappell pool added new large producers with the completion of Texhoma's number 12 Hamilton which is going on the beam after swabbing over 400 barrels from the 1,800-foot pay and making this area one of the most productive in the district.

PARELLI HERE FOR MATSUDA

He Slings Neat Spik Lingo, But Has Yaqui Joe Nonplussed

Joe Parelli, Chicago Italian, who declares Johnny Meyers, world's middleweight champion, can't make the weight any more, and thereby claims the title for himself, being one of the few men who ever defeated the clever Myers, is in Wichita Falls awaiting his match with Matty Matsuda, the welterweight king, Thursday night.

Parelli comes with confidence and declares he'll beat Matty so bad the Jap won't feel like stepping out of his class again for many days to come.

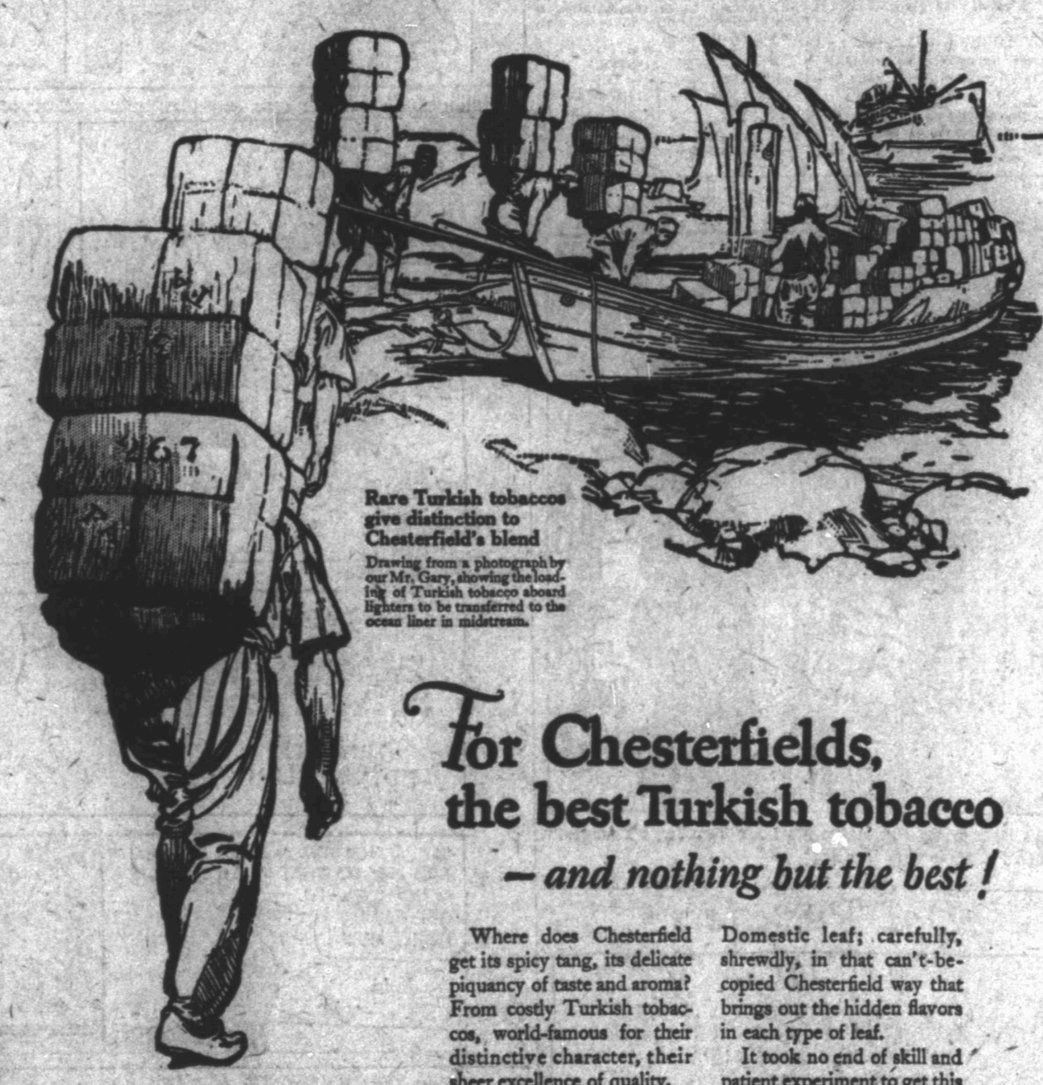

Parelli's arrival was more or less a joy manufacturer for Yaqui Joe, the Sonora Indian, who is on hand to meet Dutch Mantell on the same card Thursday. Yaqui can't speak English, Parelli gurgles a fluent line of Spanish, in fact, gets away with the Spik lingo far better than he does the American palaver. The Indian had been quite lonesome up to the time of Parelli's arrival, not having anybody who could talk to him. The only drawback is the fact that Yaqui and Matsuda are fast friends. Parelli's talk often runs to how bad he thinks he's going to beat the Jap, whereupon the Indian with pained expression apparently, becomes nonplussed, seemingly debating with himself whether he should call Parelli's hand and lose an associate with whom he can talk in his native tongue, or stick up for Matty and play a solo hand again until somebody else comes along who can sling his lingo. So far, no casualties.

Bears in Lead, 1-0, When Jupe Butts In

SAN ANTONIO, June 22.—(AP)—The Bears were leading 1 to 0 in the fourth inning when the opening game of the Dallas series was called off Tuesday on account of rain.

Frank Watt and Slim Love were the opposing pitchers with Watt having the edge when the game stopped.

The Steers went hitless the first two innings and got a hit in each of the two following rounds while the Bears registered two hits in the opening round and two in the third.

Rare Turkish tobaccos give distinction to Chesterfield's blend

Drawing from a photograph by our Mr. Gary, showing the loading of Turkish tobacco aboard lighters to be transferred to the ocean liner in midstream.

For Chesterfields, the best Turkish tobacco — and nothing but the best!

Where does Chesterfield get its spicy tang, its delicate piquancy of taste and aroma? From costly Turkish tobaccos, world-famous for their distinctive character, their sheer excellence of quality.

And how does Chesterfield get its mellow fullness and its satin-smoothness? From the way this fine Turkish is blended with the choicest Domestic leaf; carefully, shrewdly, in that can't-be-copied Chesterfield way that brings out the hidden flavors in each type of leaf.

It took no end of skill and patient experiment to get this blend right.

Was it worth it? Just smoke a Chesterfield and let the good tobaccos speak for themselves!

BIFF. COMMISH THUMBS DOWN

Rickard Probably Will Hold Tunney-Dempsey Go. In Jersey

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Tex Rickard deposited his boxing orphan, the proposed Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight match, on the doorstep of the state athletic commission today but it was promptly turned out.

By a vote of two to one, the fistic fathers formally rejected Rickard's application to stage a title bout between Dempsey and Tunney at The Yankee stadium on September 16 after the promoter had offered to post on the spot a $50,000 forfeit guaranteeing that the winner would box Harry Wills in 1927.

Chairman James A. Farley was joined by Commissioner George A. Brower in voting Rickard's proposal down making it clear that Dempsey must fight Wills, the negro challenger, before meeting any other opponent in this state. Commissioner William Muldoon cast his ballot in Rickard's favor.

Thus the expected showdown in the heavyweight situation produced only another stale mate for Rickard, equally as unyielding as the commission, declared flatly that he would not stag a Wills-Dempsey contest this year, that he was bound by iron-clad agreements to go through with a Dempsey-Tunney match first and was prepared to stage it elsewhere, preferably Boyles Thirty Acres in Jersey City, if denied the right to put it on in New York city.

Tex Adamant.

Rickard who also appeared before the commission empowered to act for Dempsey, declared he would not recede from his plan to match the champion with Tunney. He disclosed that after signing Dempsey at Fort Worth, Texas, some time ago he had approached Harry Wills' manager on the subject of signing for a title bout only to be informed that the negro was still tied up under contracts signed with Chicago and South Bend, Ind., interests. Subsequently, the promoter added, he signed Tunney and advanced money to him as well as to Dempsey and felt obligated to go through with the match, regardless of the attitude of the New York commission.

Rickard's explanation apparently failed to satisfy the commission, nor was the offer to guarantee Wills a fight with the winner of a Tunney-Dempsey contest favorably received. The promoter's proposal in this connection was for a Wills match next year in June at the latest, but the commission indicated this would not satisfy its desires so far as the negro is concerned. Rickard said he would not consider staging more than one title match this year.

Jack Ineligible?

Chairman Farley sought to have Dempsey classed formally as ineligible as a result of the champion's failure to accept an ultimatum expiring today, to sign for a Wills match but his motion to this effect was tabled. In its place the commission decided its rules on championships would apply to Dempsey.

Such applications automatically would make the champion ineligible, since he has not defined his title in nearly three years, but as he is not a licensed boxer here its effect remains doubtful. The situation simply is that the champion is barred from New York so long as he does not fight Wills, the recognized and official challenger.

The next move in the situation critics agreed, is up to Rickard, but the promoter tonight declined to say what it would be or whether he would decide definitely to take the Tunney-Dempsey battle to Jersey City.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP) The opinion that Jack Dempsey or Harry Wills, because of long inactivity are not entitled to box for the heavyweight championship "until they have proved they are fit," was expressed today by William Muldoon, 81-year-old member of the state athletic commission. Muldoon registered the only voice among the three members of the commission today in support of a Dempsey-Tunney title match first, as proposed by Tex Rickard.

Muldoon declared his belief that Dempsey is now "underweight, close to being a nervous wreck and probably not within fifty per cent of his best."

American Singles Chances Not So Big at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England, June 22. (AP)—The jubilee tennis tournament has virtually a fortnight more to run, but the short two days it has already gone has seen the American chances of winning either singles events whittled to a rather slim basis.

The worst blow to all hopes came late today, when Vincent Richards, the leading entrant from the United States for men's honors, again fell a victim to the French champion, Henri Cochet, although making a much harder fight of it than in the recent Paris hard court matches.

Another reverse although of course it had been taken vvirtually for granted came the defeat of Miss Mary K. Browne by Suzanne Lengen, thus putting the American woman candidate out of the running in the very first round.

The match between Richards and Cochet was highly exciting and repleta withb rilliant tennis. The American star went into the game the favorite dehpite his recent defeat on the French courts by Cochet but his powerful back hand strokes which time and gain snatched him from defeat, were not strong enough to carry him over his obviously weak service. Cochet won after a terrific battle, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Seldom did Richards get over his first ball, and often he netted Cochet's return of his second. The Frenchman's game was much more perfect. His service was steady adn his deep court volley accurate and effective. Wembledon enthusiastics tonight declared that there would not be another singles match this year in which better tennis will be exhibited.

Of all the sets, the third was the most bitterly fought out by the American and French stars, one game going to deuce eight times.

Money Has Made Present Day Fighters Afraid To Take Sporting Chance

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

Before the Berlenbach-Stribling fight in New York there was a lot of talk about Stribling's "cleverness." Stribling was called everything from "A Greek god" to "Another Corbett." He was said to be faster and trickier and more versatile, thah the old time champions. When the fight came Paul Berlenbach, the light-heavyweight champion, simply walked straight at Stribling and hooked deadly lefts at the new Corbett's head and body. In a few moments Stribling forgot all he had ever learned of boxing and was intent only on getting away from Paul's left hand by diving into clinches and holding desperately as long as he could. He spent the better part of 15 rounds diving in to grab Berlenbach around neck, waist or legs, and clinging like a leech. At first he hit Berlenbach's head or body as he came in, but as his fear of being knocked out increased he hit around Berlenbach, missing with the blow to get his hold sooner. It was a most extraordinary exhibition of the way boxing has been allowed to degenerate under commission direction, for although Stribling fouled through 15 rounds by continually holding and wrestling, the referee didn't disqualify him. In England, where boxing rules are enforced, Stribling would have been disqualified immediately if he disregarded the first warning of the referee.

Practically, there are no boxing rules in New York, for they are not enforced. Either the boxing commission is impotent to enforce its own rules, or it is playing politics and trying to please the crowd by letting bouts continue no matter what happens in the ring, or it can't find referees with nerve enough to disqualify a fighter who won't fight, or it doesn't know what the rules mean. This can hardly be said of Mr. Muldoon, and it can be noted that when Muldoon was in active control at the ringside during "important" bouts that drew big crowds, boxing was better conducted than it is today.

Referee Partially to Blame.

The referee in the Stribling-Berlanbach affair should have made Stribling stop wrestling and holding—should have forced him to box—or should have put him out of the ring. Instead he asked Stribling, very gently, not to hold. Asked him about a thousand times. Of course Stribling paid no attention to the referee. He knew that New York referees are mere figureheads, in there to look pretty and try to please everybody, and not under any circumstances to annoy the crowd by stopping a bout that has been well paid for, and often much more than well paid for.

There is no boxing today like the old time boxing. In the old days when we weren't hypocrites it was recognized that there was betting on all sporting events, and on all boxing contests. Also the fighters fought either winner take all or with a winner's and loser's percentage. Under those circumstances it was necessary to enforce the rules of boxing strictly, to give fair play to everybody concerned. But today it is fashionable to pretend that everybody is too moral to bet on anything and boxers are not even allowed to fight for a winner's and loser's end, which might be considered something of a gamble and very, very wicked.

Boxers get fixed percentages, or fixed guarantees, whether they win, lose or draw. Theoretically, nobody makes a bet on a fight. So a fight is nothing but an exhibition, and it might as well be allowed to go the full distance, 15 rounds or whatever it is, unless somebody is actually disabled by a foul blow or the crowd gets tired and goes home before the affair is over. At lenst that seems to be the general boxing commission idea, not only in New York but in all other states in which I've seen boxing bouts in recent years.

But what can you expect of commissioners who never had a boxing glove on their hands, who never knew about boxing except what they thought they saw from the ringside seats? Governors seldom appoint commissioners who know anything about boxing. The usual idea is to put in a good handy lawyer and two or three birds who may be useful sometime in politics. Among boxing commissioners, Mr. Muldoon is an outstanding exception, an independent man, entirely uninterested in politics, who knows boxing from the time John L. Sullivan swung his first glove, to date. You notice Mr. Muldoon has been a bit on the shelf this past year or so. He had one fatal fault. He knew the game and wanted to have it played according to the rules, whether it pleased the crowd or not. Mr. Muldoon was an odd type, among boxing commissioners.

Stribling Taught Wrong.

I couldn't help feeling sorry for Stribling, in a way, when he was making such a pitiable showing against Belenbach. He had been brought up all wrong. Stribling had done his boxing mostly under commission control, and had been taught that he could grab and hold and wrestle as much as he wanted to, if in danger of being beaten, and no commission referee would dare to disqualify him. He had been taught that it was much better to "dog it" through a bout he couldn't win, than to risk being knocked out, because a K. O. shows up badly in the printed record and hurts a fellow's percentages in the future.

I dare say Stribling wasn't in the least afraid of Paul Berlenbach's punch. He'd probably give Paul a whale of a fight out in a barn somewhere, just fighting for fun, and with no official K. O. to be chalked up against him if he lost. A few hard punches, even a knockout punch, wouldn't worry Stribling or any other seasoned boxer. I imagine Young Stribling could shoulder a gun in wartime and be a brilliantly daring soldier. But like many other boxers under modern conditions he had a financial "yellow streak." Regarding boxing as a "business" he fell back on an effort to stay the full 15 rounds by hugging and holding, just as soon as he as convinced that Berlenbach outclassed him at fighting and would knock him out in a fair fight. Stribling, brought up differently, when the sport of boxing was a sport and not plain business, might have risked everything to give or take a knockout. He might have taken a "sporting chance." Perhaps this is an obsolete expressing. It was used in the old days. A fighter who found himself in danger was said to be "taknig a sporting chance" when the stepped in and did his desperate best to get over a punch that would turn defeat into victory. It isn't done any more except in the preliminaries. This thing of regarding Young Stribling as "another Corbett" and comparing any fast-skipping boxer with the old timers who really fought is a joke. Modern commission-controlled boxing isn't like the old boxing and never will be unless commissions reform and order their referees to enforce the rules.

Berlenbach Resembles Old Timers.

In the old days you never saw boxers diving in without any effort to hit, intent only on grabbing and clinging to keep out of danger. Jim Corbett had many superiors as a fighting man, because he lacked a punch, but he was too proud and too game to hug and wrestle. He used his fast legs to keep away, and he ran around and around the ring except when he saw his chance to leap in with effective blows. That was his style of fighting—to make the other man look foolish and pile up points. But he could fight when the chance came, and when he knew he was beaten—as he knew it in the second fight with Jeffries, he was game enough to step in at the end and trade blows until he was knocked out. Corbett was brought up in a different school. He learned fighting out in the sand hills around San Francisco, and over in Marin county woods, fighting to a finish Joe Choynski more for glory of winning than for the little money at stake. It's the big money that makes cowards of fighters today. In the past year I've seen half a dozen championship fights in which title holders fairly "dogged it" to avoid any risk of losing valuable titles.

Spudder Games To Be Shown at Queen Theater

Spudder fans didn't get to see much Monday and were knocked out of everything yesterday. But Slick Ansley was all set to play the games over his electric score board at the Queen theatre. The board has been moved from the Palace to the Queen and barring another outburst in Beaumont by Jupe Pluve this afternoon, the Skipper-Spudder double header will be shown.

Babe Bags One

WASHINGTON, June 22. — (AP) — Washington divided a double header with New York today, winning the first in sensational manner 3 to 7 and losing the night cap, 9 to 1. In the second game Babe Ruth bagged his 33rd homer, putting the ball over the right field wall with one man on base, in the 9th of the first game when the Yankees had a five run lead the Senators filled the bases, fell into a double play and then put six runs over the plate for a win. Hoyt's effectiveness in the second game was in contrast to the wildness of Palmero, Cuban pitcher recently signed by the Senators, and making his first start. He lasted only three innings. Score:

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Philadelphia broke its five-game losing streak today by defeating New York 6-2. Lyons Chalks Up 12th Win In 1926 Race

Beats Cleveland for Thirteenth Time Since Entering Majors

CHICAGO, June 22—(AP)—Ted Lyons hung up his twelfth victory of the season today when Eddie Collins' double broke up a ten-inning game which gave the locals the second game of the series from Cleveland. Collins' batting was the outstanding feature of the White Sox victory, as he led the attack with four hits in five times up. It was Lyons' 13th time that he has defeated the Cleveland club since coming into the American league in 1923. As a result of today's game Chicago, Cleveland and Philadelphia are tied for second place, the Athletics having been idle on account of rain. Score:

Rained Out Again, Spuds Play Two in Beaumont Today

The rain God apparently is camping on the trail of the Spudders for no good. Knocked out of a double-header in Fort Worth Monday when it looked like Wichita Falls was set to cop a couple, the situation was all wet again yesterday in Beaumont where Brainard and his brigade had trekked for the opening of a three-game series.

Two games are carded this afternoon in Shipperville to make up for the one lost Tuesday, was a report emanating from the headquarters of Jim Galloway and Spike Cooper last night.

Jim Roberts and Carl Williams are Brainard's chucking choices.

DETROIT, June 22.—(AP)—Detroit won its fourth straight victory by taking the second and last game of the St. Louis series, 9 to 4. St. Louis tied the score in the 8th, driving Whitehill from the box, but the Tigers fell hard on Vangilder and Ballou in their half, getting six hits for five runs. Yankee Golfers Set For Final British Trophy

Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen And Others Looked Upon to Win

STANNE'S England, June 22.—(AP)—Buoyant with the high morals of repeated victories, America's golfing army tonight was encamped on the outskirts of this Lancashire town ready for the final drive against the one and only golfing prize remaining in this country—the open championship.

Eighteen holes will be played tomorrow, another 18 on Thursday and the final 36 on Friday, all entrants 15 strokes behind the leader after the first 36 holes retiring from the field.

With Bobby Jones, the American champion, leading a quartet of lusty amateurs, including Watts Gunn, Roland Mackenzie and George Von Elm, and the fighting Walter Hagen with new laurels on his bronzed brow after his match with Abe Mitchell heading the squad of professionals, the Americans are confident that one of their number will speed from Stannes Friday night with the open championship trophy to place beside Jesse Sweetser's grandly won amateur prize and the Walker cup.

The open title has gone to America annually since 1921 with the exception of three years ago when the Englishman Arthur Havers defeated Hagen by a single stroke. The invaders are so confident of taking it back again that the only worry they are voicing is that two of their number may tie for first place necessitating a 36 hole playoff Saturday.

This would be extremely inconvenient as all are booked to sail for home early Saturday morning in order to reach Columbus, Ohio in time for the American open.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Relative firmness of near months featured the cotton market today. July contracts sold up to 18.10, or 30 points net higher and closed at 18.04 compared with 17.80 at the close yesterday, while January closed at 16.23, or 4 points net lower. The general market closed steady, net 24 points higher to five points lower.

The market opened at an advance of five points to a decline of three points, but turned steadier shortly after the call on apprehensions that the southwest was getting too much rain and that the wet weather would promote the spread of insects. There also was buying on a report that the cotton hopper was damaging the crop in northern Louisiana and points in Texas, Mississippi, Georgia and Arkansas.

Active months showed net advances of about 6 to 17 points on these advices, but demand tapered off around 16.56 for December and 16.33 for January. The detailed weather reports showed rather less rain than anticipated in the southwest, while the forecast was considered more favorable and later positions eased off during mid-day.

Near months seemed to attract considerable support. There was active buying of both July and October against sales of lateer delieveries. October, which had been selling about 6 points under December at the close of the previous day, went to a premium of 15 points over December at the close. Buying of October and December also was reported here against selling in New Orleans. At the close July and October were 22 to 24 points net higher, while more active deliveries were net 1 point higher to 4 points lower.

Exports today 3,314, making 7,757 so far this season. Port receipts 9,069. U. S. port stocks 737,262 bales.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, June 22.—(AP)—The cotton market was again fairly active today but prices fluctuated rather freely. It was a two-sided affair with sentiment more devided than has been the case of late. Following a somewhat erratice start prices eased off to levels about three to five points under the previous close about the middle of the morning. Later the strength of July and urgent buying of that month and october in New York, coupled with fears that the belt was receiving rather too frequent showers caused prices to rally sharply, July advancing 23 points from the low to a level 20 points above yesterday's close and later months gaining 16 to 19 points, or 13 to 14 points above the previous close. Prices reacted in the last hour of trading and all months but July lost practically all of the recovery. The close showed a net gain of 11 points on July and net gains of one point to net losses of five points on later positions.

The market opened quiet and first trades were unchanged to four points down. The market soon rallied seven to 11 points but later in the morning eased off on the belief that the drouth in the east had been relieved. July traded down to 17.16, October to 16.06 and December to 16.04 or three to five points under the previous close. These were the low points of the day.

After mid-session prices rallied rather sharply on rather urgent buying of July and October. At the highest July traded up to 17.39, October to 16.25 and December to 16.20, or 16 to 23 points above the lows. In the last hour most of the net gain was lost on all new crop months on realising, but July retained about half of the ground gained.

Exports for the day totalled only 3,314 bales.

Livestock

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, June 22.—Small receipts marked the Tuesday livestock market at Fort Worth. The morning estimate called for 1,800 cattle, 300 calves, 400 hogs and 1,690 sheep. Through billing claimed the presence of 900 head of cattle additional.

Figures on arrivals week ago are: Cattle 3,003, calves 787, hogs 435, sheep 2,833. Arrivals a year ago, were 4,097 cattle, 527 calves, 1,104 hogs and 279 sheep.

Activity to a marked degree was seen in every branch of the trade with the possible exception of beef steers and the yards were cleared before 1 o'clock. Steers that took the eye of a feeder buyer strongly enough to command $8.10 thus escaped the shambles for a space. Odd lots of fed steers went to slaughter at $8.10@8.25. Grassr in carloads moved at $5.50 to $6.00

She stuff made up the bulk of all arrivals and this included slaughter heifers. Cows made a recovry of the Monday loss, being quoted steady to 25c higher. Beef cows landed within the spread of $5.25 to $5.75, butcher cows took $4.50 to $5.25 and canners and cutters made some recovery from the castigation administered to this end of the trade Monday.

Desirable heifers were around in several full cars, selling at $8.00@9.00 and less wanted heifers took a spread of $5.00@7.00 on early rounds.

Yearlings were a scarce article, showing little quotable form. Later yearlings were found good enough to sell at $8.00.

Bulls were scarce, also selling steady at $4.00 to $4.50 and $5.10.

The small supply of calves carried little of quality, nevertheless small lots of light veals notched $9.00@9.50. Heavy calves took up to $8.00 and medium calves ranged from $7.00 to $7.75. Market steady.

Two cars of hogs on the market notched $14.90, ten cents lower. A few choice butchers in th truck division made $15.00. Heavy butchers notched $14.00, packing sows made $13.00 and feeder pigs took $12.50.

Sheep were steady—wethers at $8.00 yearlings and lambs $10.50, genuine spring lambs $12.00. Several bunches of lambs having needle grass in their fleeces were penalized by having to sell at $10.00.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP)—All grains were limp on the Chicago board of trade today. Wheat held within a range of 1¼c a bushel with prices averaging lower on better weather in the southwest and a forecast for generally fair and somewhat warmer conditions which will permit cutting and threshing to proceed rapidly. Wheat closed at the same as yesterday to ⅛c lower, corn was ⅛ to ½c down, oats unchanged to ⅝c off and provisions 2½c to 25c higher.

Corn rallied slightly with wheat after touching new lows for July and September delivceries, as a result of scattered selling which found support lacking. July went to a wider discount under September, with cash interests buying the former and selling the latter on the break. The present spread is the widest in many years. More favorable weather over the corn belt was a factor.

Oats were lower with corn, some stop loss orders beeing uncovered on the decline. All deleiveries sold within a fraction of the lowest figures on the crop.

Provistons rallied sharply toward the close after averaging lower earlier in sympathy with grains and a decline in hogs, the final spurt being attributed to heavy buying by commission houses for foreign account.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Bullish demonstrations in a selected list of oil and railroad shares featured today's irregularly higher stock market, which was called upon to absorb a rather large volume of profit taking. Trading showed a further falling off in volume, the day's sales aggregating 1,838,700 shares, compared with 1,847,200 yesterday and 2,230,600 last Friday.

Merger reports involving several of the California and Mid-Continent companies, combined with reports of large current earnings and official assurances that trade conditions were satisfactory, provided the background for the advance in the oil issues. New peak prices for a year or longer were attained by Texas Company, Phillips, and Standard Oil of California. Union Oil of California, which has been associated with two or three other companies, in consolidation reports, rallied two points to 56. Attempts to bid up Marland and Pan-American B failed to make much headway.

Excellent May earnings reports furnished the basis for the advance in the railroad shares, the average of 20 leading issues in that group touching a new high record. Several in this group also broke through to new high levels, the list including Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley and Gulf, Mobile and Northern common and preferred.

Profit taking was particularly heavy in some of the standard industrials, although U. S. Steel common developed an outburst of strength in late trading, touching 139 and closing at 138⅛, up ⅜ net after having sold down to 136½ in the morning.

Pools were again active in a number of specialties which have promising dividend or merger possibilities. Pullman touched 182½, the highest price in 15 years. Call money renewed at 4¼ per cnt and held steady at that figure all day. Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans, but there seemed to be plenty of funds available at the renewal rate. Time money rates were slightly stiffer, being quoted at 4¼ to 4½ per cent. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held firm at $4.86 3-16. French francs broke about 7 points to around 2.80 cents in reflection of the difficulty experienced by Premieer Briand in forming a French cabinet, but they recovered half their loss in the late trading. Spanish pesetas ruled about 13 points lower around 16.20 cents.

FREE BUS RIDE GIVEN SHOPPERS

P. B. M. Co. Provides Transportation for Purchasers At Annual Sale

One solution for the congested traffic condition prevalent in downtown streets of Wichita Falls during shopping hours is presented by L. H. Albritton of the Wichita Falls Traction company, who announced Tuesday that special arrangements have been made with the P. B. M. company to carry shoppers to and from its anniversary sale at no cost to the shoppers.

Women are urged to ride the big safety busses today and during the entire sale. Their shopping time will be lengthened and the strain of driving in traffic will be avoided.

All those who care to take advantage of P. B. M. Co.'s "Ride the Bus Free" offer are requested to read the announcement elsewhere in this morning's paper. The coupon, presented to the conductor will give, on the presentation of a sales slip, a return ticket at its office. The coupon is good today only, but during the sale, those who wish to ride the bus may secure free bus tickets at P. B. M.'s office on presentation of Anniversary sales slips.

"Women all over the city should take advantage of the generosity of P. B. M. Co.," Mr. Albritton said, "and the public may rest assured that we will do everything in our power to provide safe and quick transportation at all times to and from the business district. More and more women are turning to the bus plan of shopping, leaving their cars at home and avoiding driving in congested traffic."

Thomas Preaches Two Times Tuesday

Dr. Trigg Thomas preached twice at the Southern Presbyterian tent across from the Junior college Tuesday.

In the morning his text was taken from Isaiah 55: 6 and 7 " Seek ye the Lord while He may be found; call ye upon Him while He is near: let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon."

"This text is God's imperative, personal call to all people every where to seek and find pardon for their sins," the pastor said. "But people fail to do this because they are seeking other things and failing to put God first as they should. People seek wealth, health, pleasure, ambition and most everything else found in the world and leave God until the last thing in their lives, even if they seek Him at all."

At 8 o'clock last night Dr. Thomas preached on "Heaven, where and what it is," and explained the Bible teaching on the subject in a most interesting and helpful way. At the conclusion of the sermon many people went forward on the invitation of the evangelist and shook hands with him and the pastor and rededicated their lives to Christ and the church. Tonight Dr. Thomas will preach on "The fall and rise of a great man," and Thursday morning on "God's Love."

Chinese Rugs Are Displayed in W. F.

With the opening of an Oriental rug department in the W. A. Freear Furniture Company, a display of some of the most beautiful Chinese rugs in color and design is brought to Wichita Falls. Ivan Murchison of the Freear company says that the most unusual color effects he has ever seen are embodied in these rugs. Shades of green, rarely used in this type of rug, blend with taupe and splashes of Chinese red in the patterns. The traditional cherry blossoms are developed in a spray of color branching from one corner. The bird of paradise is featured frequently in a variety of symbolic figures.

Mr. Murchison says "Their richness lies in their quality of workmanship, with the blended colors of mulberry shading to orchid, gold, blue, grey and ashes of roses. The round and oval rugs are a new note in those made in the orient.

Among a recent shipment is an assortment of hand made Indian rugs of angora wool, with colorful designs worked in all-over patterns. A fringe of pure angora edges these rugs.

P. B. M. Anniversary To Be Celebrated With Great Sale

C. J. BARNARD.

"The goods we sell, the prices we sell them at, and the looks of the stores we sell them from have changed a lot since I started 33 years ago. But the things I learned then about doing business fairly and squarely, with the idea of doing the public the greatest good haven't changed a bit," says C. J. Barnard, pioneer Northwest Texas merchant and one of the founders of P. B. M. Co., who is celebrating his 33rd anniversary in the mercantile business.

"If you'd ask me the most valuable thing our store owns, "I'd say it was the confidence of its customers, the feeling that they are sure to get exactly the goods we say we are selling them, and that they'll enjoy buying here," continued Mr. Barnard. "After 33 years of work, I find that the most necessary thing to have in doing business."

In Wichita 16 Years.

Mr. Barnard entered the mercantile business in Celeste 33 years ago. He was fresh from school and had a capital of $350 to start on. Sixteen years ago he came to Wichita Falls, then a small and comparatively unimportant town on the West Texas plains, and opened his mercantile store here.

Two years later Mr. Barnard established, with associates, Pennington, Barnard & Milsap Company, now called P. B. M. Co. A short time later Mr. Barnard and Jack Barnard bought out the Penning and Milsap interests. Jim Barnard, son of C. J. Barnard, entered the firm in 1920. With the purchase year before last by the Barnards of the Clint Wood interest in the firm, the company became the property of the Barnard family, as it is at present.

First on Indiana.

The Pennington, Barnard & Milsap store was located on the southeast corner of Indiana Avenue at Seventh Street. The store was moved later to 912-914 Ohio Avenue, then the principal business street of the growing city. In 1924 the store was moved to its present location, 912-914 Indiana Avenue.

With the storewide sale that opens this morning and continues through July 3, P. B. M. Co. celebrates Mr. Barnard's anniversary through a merchandising event that the founder characterizes as the "greatest in my 33 years in business." Every provision has been made for the convenience of shoppers who will throng the store throughout the sale.

$13,400 Damages Asked in Petition

Damages in the sum of $13,400 are asked by F. M. Baker of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Brown in a petition filed in the district courts Tuesday.

The suit is the outgrowth of an accident on the Henrietta road on June 13, when, it is alleged, as a result of disregard of traffic laws by the defendants' car, an accident was caused which resulted in severe injuries to passengers in the plaintiff's car.

Finish Tax Work

What practically amounts to a clean-up of tax equalization was accomplished Tuesday afternoon by that body, with the conclusion of its second day of hearings. A few to whom cards were mailed but who failed to respond to them will be given a second chance to appear before the commissioners next Monday afternoon, it is announced.

SCOUTS BREAK CAMP

Boils for Years Now All Gone

Alabamian Says Dodson's Liver Tone Gave Him Brand New Liver worth Fortune

Experience seems to indicate that people store up in their system certain poisons that break out all at once in a series of boils. Sometimes they are fatal.

Willie Hapes says: "Ever since I grew up boils broke out on me just when the planting season began, and I had to lay up. Blood remedies were worthless. The only known remedy was calomel, but it seemed to turn my stomach inside out. This spring I got a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and I feel sure it put a new liver into me worth a fortune, for it cleared off the boils and for the first time in years they didn't come back."

The reason for this is the fact that a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone loosens up the liver, lets go of a gorge of impurities, sour bile, fermented food and gas and breaks up the most obstinate constipation. And yet it never makes you sick—no gripe, no pain—even though it may drive out quarts of sour bile as black as ink. And this result is absolutely guaranteed.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel did in all your life, and without griping or making you sick, go back to the store and get your money.—Adv.

EMPLOYE OF TEXHOMA DIES

Refinery Official Is Found Dead at Side of Road Near Plant

Funeral arrangements for G. R. Simons, assistant superintendent for the Texhoma Oil and Refining company at the refinery in north Wichita were held up late Tuesday pending the arrival here this morning of P. J. Simons, a brother, of Okmulgee. The Okmulgee man, in a long distance conversation with the Merkle Undertaking company, where the body is being held, indicated that interment will take place in that city, it is stated.

Simons, who is 21 years old, was found shortly before 9 o'clock Tuesday morning by the side of a small road about 200 yards north of the refinery by H. A. Madison, who, apparently, was the first to drive by. Simons had apparently been dead some 10 of 12 hours when discovered, there being a large bullet hole in his head and a 32 calibre Colt automatic in his right hand. Near his body was parked a Ford roadster automobile, owned by the Texhoma, which he had driven as an employe of the company.

Officers were called and a verdict of suicide returned at an inquest held by the justice of the peace.

Simons had been in Wichita Falls only since March, having come here at that time from Farmington, New Mexico. He spent Monday night in company with visiting Continental Oil company officials and left them at 11 o'clock in what was described afterwards as a "despondent condition." Simons is known to have been in bad health for some time.

His parents live in Cedar Falls, Ia.

The demonstration will begin at 12:30 o'clock and continue until 3:30, Miss Ethel Louise Webb, home demonstration agent, announced yesterday.

Members of other home demonstration clubs in the county are invited to be present, and if it is impossible for them to attend, they are asked to send a representative, Mrs. J. S. Downing, president, said yesterday.

Mr. Sausier has been connected with large institutions in Shreveport, Alexandria and New Orleans, La., Knoxville, Tenn., and other places. Prior to his coming to Wichita Falls he was with the Adolphus hotel in Dallas.

Among the things he will demonstrate will be 40-minute cinnamon rolls and buns, Brussels bread, buttered rolls, sard bard, pie crust, French pastry, cream puffs, pie filling, wine cake, family style cake and all the decorations, it was announced.

Mrs. Entleken's home is one and one-half miles south of Lake Wichita.

Word is received from Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, that he is improving at the Mayo Brothers sanitarium at Rochester, Minn. He is at present undergoing observation for throat trouble. Mrs. Powers is in Colorado during the absence of her husband.
