Jury acquits Mrs. Bobbitt

Court finds wife temporarily insane

■ Judge orders defendant to undergo psychiatric evaluation to determine whether she poses danger to herself, others.

Associated Press

MANASSAS, Va. — Lorena Bobbitt was acquitted by reason of temporary insanity Friday for the "irresistible impulse" that compelled her to cut off her husband's penis. She was committed to a mental hospital for observation.

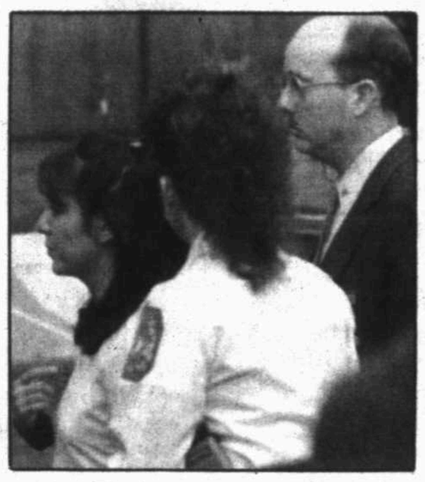

A supporter shrieked as the beginning of the verdict was read, while Mrs. Bobbitt stoically stood next to her attorneys. The decision ended a two-week trial that riveted television viewers who followed every salacious detail of the Bobbitts' sex lives as it unfolded in testimony on CNN and Court TV.

While the verdict was being read, Mrs. Bobbitt — who said years of sexual and physical abuse drove her to mutilate her husband — turned to one of her lawyers and asked: "Is that good?"

"This case was not about a penis," said Lisa Kemler, one of her lawyers. "Everyone was so consumed with that. But that's not what this case is really about. It was really about a life."

One of her closest friends read a message from Mrs. Bobbitt directed

Emergency agency turns away 1,000 quake victims to other disaster offices

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Desperate, angry earthquake victims were sent away from a federal emergency center Friday, and officials admitted they were surprised and overwhelmed by the magnitude of the disaster here.

On a day when strong aftershocks kept people on edge, officials of the Federal Emergency Management Agency enraged about 1,000 people waiting in line at a San Fernando Valley disaster center in Northridge by asking them to board buses to other disaster offices.

"They think that by getting on the bus here, there won't be lines elsewhere," said George Kurbikoff of Granada Hills. "We've been here three hours, who are they kidding? Why don't they hand out appointments to people?"

Answers, it seemed, were as short as fresh water.

Some quake victims had been told they could get immediate vouchers for housing; some were told no vouchers were available. Others said they were

MC van carrying 15 rolls off road; students receive few minor injuries

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

Midland College students and cheerleaders were all listed in stable condition Friday following an accident in which their van rolled over Thursday night.

An MC administrator said it was "a miracle" that van occupants received minor injuries of broken bones and bruises, despite the major damage the van sustained.

It was unclear how many times the van rolled, according to Texas Department of Public Safety reports, which indicated it rolled one to three times.

The van carried 14 MC students and an administrator en route to the MC Chaps-South Plains basketball game in Levelland.

According to MC spokesman H.A. Tuck, the van hit a section of ice on Highway 385, slid off the road and rolled over. The accident occurred approximately 10 miles north of Brownfield at 6:30 p.m.

Jan Reed, MC student activities director, was driving the van, according to an MC administrator. She was transported to Brownfield Regional Hospital, where she was treated and released. She returned to Midland Friday afternoon.

MC cheerleader Jessica Wiggins was held overnight at Brownfield Regional and was discharged Friday.

Cheerleader Susanne Martin and Student Senate members Rebekah Aydelotte and Patty Johnson were transported to Texas Tech University Medical Center where they were listed in satisfactory condition — with broken bones and bruises — Friday afternoon.

Congressmen push for merit system of electing judges

By John Powers
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — State Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, said Friday he will lead a bipartisan effort with Rep. Robert Duncan, R-Lubbock, in the 1995 legislative session for a constitutional amendment to create a merit system of electing Texas judges.

"I believe we have more support in the House for merit election than there is for any other judicial reform program," Stiles said.

"It's time for all of us to focus on this problem and give the people of Texas an opportunity to amend the constitution and get raw politics and money out of the judiciary."

The U.S. Supreme Court recently refused to consider an appeals court order that overturned a plan to elect judges by subdistricts in Texas' nine largest counties, including Midland and Ector.

"This issue is back in the hands of the Texas Legislature and the voters of Texas, where it belongs," Stiles said.

"Creating tiny judicial districts along political and ethnic lines is not the way to improve the judiciary."

Stiles said the state needs to do three things to reform the system — make it non-partisan, wipe out the influence of campaign contributions and enhance minority representation on the bench.

Blacks constitute 12 percent of the population, but only nine of the state's 386 trial court judges, or 2.3 percent, are black.

However, by law, Texas judges other than justices of

Grand jury subpoena of Arkansas governor sheds light on S&L probe

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A subpoena demanding records from Arkansas' governor gives the broadest view yet of the expanding federal investigation involving President and Mrs. Clinton's ties to a failed savings and loan.

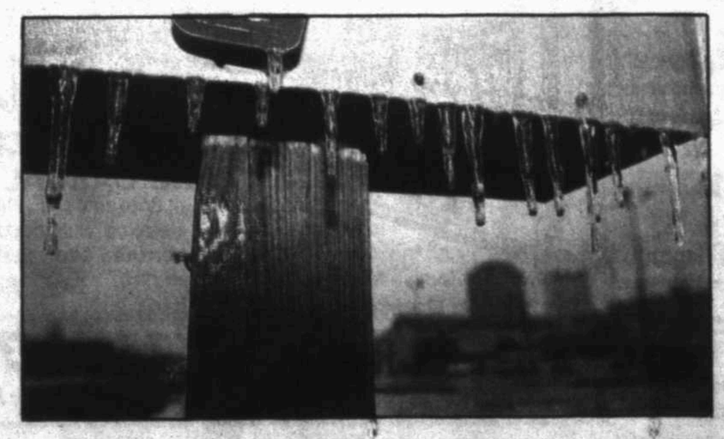

The subpoena issued to Gov. Jim Guy Tucker says a federal grand jury is interested in records involving Clinton's former gubernatorial campaigns, business associates involved with the Clintons' Whitewater Development Co. and banks where the first family had loans.

It also names prominent Arkansans, many of them friends or associates of the first family. They include:

—The father-in-law of top Justice Department official Webster Hubbell, a former law firm partner of Mrs. Clinton.

—J. William Fulbright, the former U.S. senator who gave Bill Clinton his George Grant spoke at a Friday luncheon of Concerned Citizens of the Permian Basin.

Pro-life spokesman talks to residents of Permian Basin

By Gary Shanks
Staff Writer

The American family is under siege, contends pro-life spokesman George Grant, who spoke at a luncheon of Concerned Citizens of the Permian Basin Friday at the Royal Inn.

The Clinton administration is striking blow after blow against anti-abortion groups, Grant said. These include lifting the ban on using fetal tissues to treat diseases, lifting the ban on the pregnancy-terminating medication RU-46 and authorizing federal funding for some abortions through Medicare and Medicaid, he said.

Grant travels extensively throughout the nation and is a speaker sought by many religious and anti-abortion groups, according to Jerry Walton of the Concerned Citizens of the Permian Basin (CCPB).

Grant has written 31 books including "Grand Illusions: The Legacy of Planned Parenthood."

In his speech, Grant assailed Planned Parenthood as being a key to the promotion of abortion rights. He warned members of the CCPB that the organization will gain tremendous power when the president's universal health-care plan is implemented.

"Planned Parenthood has become, for all intents and purposes, an extension of the federal government," Grant said.

Karen Hildebrand, director of Planned Parenthood of West Texas, said she is aware of Grant's contentions. Because Planned Parenthood provides birth-control measures, "we do more than any other agency to prevent abortions," Ms. Hildebrand said.

Grant took exception to the language of the Clinton administration's plan to provide health-care insurance to every American. Proponents of the plan are using a different meaning for the word health, he said. According to those writing the plan, health refers not only to physical health, but "the entire psycho-social . . . well-being of the individual," he said.

This and terms such as "the individual's right to the enjoyment of the highest attainable level of health" signal the promoters' intention to strip rights from the public and put more power in the hands of bureaucrats, Grant said. "This is Big Brother's das boot in the face," he said.

Grant also cited World Health Organization goals that choose to overlook religious and moral themes.

Sweeping government changes have to be challenged, he said. "Seventy-three cents of every welfare dollar never leave Washington," he said. The Republican Party, however, will not help stop the plan, he said. "The Republicans have already agreed, in principle, with the plan," he said. "We're not going to win this war if we quibble over details," he said.

"When driving through Washington, you see these big high-rises full of bureaucrats and you think 'what do these people do?'

"I don't know. But they run our lives and they spend our money with profligate zeal," Grant said.

People like the CCPB have to get politically involved, he said.

POLICE REPORTS

Fatality

WICKETT — An Arlington man died Friday afternoon after he was ejected from a U-Haul van that landed on top of him after he lost control of the vehicle, according to a Department of Public Safety spokesman.

The driver of the van, Bartley Francis Rauh, 34, of Arlington was pronounced dead at 5:05 p.m. Friday by a Monahans judge.

According to the accident report, the van was eastbound on I-20, 3.2 miles west of Wickett when Rauh was distracted then swerved the vehicle toward the right before going off the road, then overcorrected to the left. The trooper said he then ran off the road again before overturning on the right side of the road in the south bar ditch.

Trooper Eric White of Monahans said Rauh was not wearing a seat belt and was ejected from the van. The vehicle overturned and landed on top of Rauh. The accident occurred at 4:35 p.m., the trooper said.

A passenger in the van, Kirk Jackstadt, 44, of Fort Worth, suffered facial lacerations in the accident and was in good condition at Ward County Hospital in Monahans.

AMEND: Officials push merit system

the peace must be licensed attorneys, and only 3 percent of the state's attorneys are black and 4 percent are Hispanic. Whites make up 92 percent of the 57,798 attorneys in Texas.

The League of United Latin American Citizens had filed a lawsuit asking the courts to declare that the current at-large election of judges dilutes minority voting strength.

Federal District Judge Lucius Bunton upheld the lawsuit and ruled the current system unconstitutional. Texas Attorney General Dan Morales then worked out a settlement that would have allowed the election of judges by districts in the nine largest counties. But a federal appeals court overturned the plan, and the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear the case.

Judicial election reform advocates, including Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Tom Phillips, have called for some type of merit system, which has been adopted in some form by more than 30 states.

"Current judicial campaigns are too partisan, too expensive and too long," Phillips said, "and they have not produced sufficient ethnic and racial diversity among our judges."

Stiles suggested a merit plan using a non-partisan, broad-based nominating commission that represents the state's gender and ethnic makeup.

The commission could conduct public hearings and select three qualified candidates for a judicial vacancy, he said. The governor would appoint one of the candidates to the bench, and voters would then accept or reject the judge in periodic, non-partisan retention elections.

Stiles said studies by the American Judicature Society show that merit plans are the most successful method of judicial selection in promoting minority representation.

"No detail of the plan is sacred," Stiles said. "If we put partisan politics aside, there's no reason we can't come up with a system that solves these problems.

"People are sick and tired of partisanship in the judiciary. It's time to fix it, put it to the voters and move on."

Auction to benefit Boys, Girls Club

He was born in Riverside, Calif.

After serving in the U.S. Navy, he received his bachelor's degree in geological sciences in 1951 from the University of California at Berkeley.

He worked for Western Geophysical Co. until 1955, when he went to work for Getty Oil Co. as a geophysicist in Casper, Wyo., and later in Bakersfield, Calif.

In 1962, he relocated to Midland with Getty Oil. He was district exploration manager from 1970-1977 and then district exploration and production manager until 1981. He then went to work as exploration manager for Wagner and Brown in Midland until 1985. He worked independently until 1991 when he went to work for Nerdlihe Co. Inc. in Long Beach as exploration and management consultant where he was employed at the time of his death.

While in Midland, he was involved in numerous social, civic and professional organizations. These included serving as founding board member and past president of the Permian Basin Graduate Center, past president of the Permian Basin Geophysical Society, past district representative of the Society of Exploration Geophysicists and serving on the advisory board of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum.

Survivors include his wife, Isabel Koch of Midland; a daughter, Kristi Koch of Midland; a son, Douglas Koch of Houston; a brother, William Koch of Las Vegas, Nev., and a sister, Elsie Greer of Las Vegas.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests memorials be made to the Petroleum Museum.

Radford Thomson

Services for former Midlander Radford Chaplin Thomson, 64, of Orange, Calif., are to be at 2:30 p.m. today at Ellis Funeral Home Chapel with Arthur Tostie of Fresno, Calif., and Leonard Olliff of the Midland Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, officiating. Burial will follow at Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Thomson

Thomson died Monday at a Fountain Valley, Calif., hospital.

He was born March 16, 1929, in Okemah, Okla. He was reared and educated in Okmulgee, Okla.

He served with the U.S. Army Air Corps during World War II and during the reconstruction of Japan.

He married Marie Olliff of Midland in 1952.

He served at the Pentagon until his discharge.

After returning to Midland, he worked for Tennessee Gas and and then Drilco. In Odessa, he worked for Ref-Chem Co. and then Atlantic Richfield.

He was a cost estimating engineer with Bechtel Power Corp. with achievement in nuclear power engineering, specializing in lump sum bidding. He was senior cost estimator in the Roosevelt Dam and numerous other projects in nuclear and power generation.

He retired from Bechtel in 1986 and started his own company, Grace and Associates, specializing in cost project management. He continued this until his illness 1½ months ago.

Survivors include his wife, Grace Marie Olliff-Thomson of Orange, Calif.; a son, William Earnest Thomson of Orange; a daughter, Deborah C. Thomson-Meshire of Midland; a sister, Susanne Thomson-Auten of Park Hill, Okla; and five grandchildren.

Memorials may be sent to UCI Clinical Cancer Center, Building 23, Route 81, 101 The City Drive., Orange, Calif., 92668.

Bill Parks

MONAHANS — Services for Bill Parks, 67, are to be at 2 p.m. today at the First Presbyterian Church. Burial will follow at Monahans Cemetry under the direction of Harkey-Wilson Funeral Home.

He died Thursday at a Monahans hospital.

He was born Oct. 19, 1926, in Brownwood. He was a World War II veteran and owner of Parks Produce Co. He had been a Monahans resident since 1948.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

He was preceded in death by a son, Jack Russell Parks in 1954 and a daughter, Nancy Carol Parks in 1971.

Survivors include his wife, Carolyn Camp Parks of Monahans; a son, Bob Parks of Monahans; a daughter, Jane Evelyn Shawn of Monahans; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

In lieu of flowers the family requests memorials sent to the First Presbyterian Church of Monahans.

WEATHER WATCH

Forecast calls for end to freezing rain

Staff Report

The year's first rain came amid icy conditions, accompanied by icy streets and then flooded streets, according to a National Weather Service spokesman.

It may continue to be wet, but the freezing rain should be gone, he said.

Today's forecast calls for mostly cloudy skies with a 30 percent chance of rain and areas of fog in the morning. The high should be in the mid-50s and south to southwest winds 5-15 mph, according to the NWS spokesman.

Tonight should be cloudy with areas of fog and drizzle and a low near 40. Sunday should be cloudy with morning fog and a high in the upper 50s.

After a low of 30, compared to the record low of 2 set in 1966, the temperature rose to 33 degrees. The record high for the date was 84 set in 1974.

STATE

Warmer temperatures appear on the way during the day today. The weather service said after temperatures early today in the 20s and 30s, highs today should range from the middle 40s in the mountains to near 60 in the Panhandle and South Plains. But lows today night should again be in the 20s and 30s.

The weather service issued a flood and flash flood watch west of a line from Austin to San Antonio to McAllen.

ACQUIT: Jury finds Bobbitt temporarily insane

(From 1A)

at abused women. "She encourages you to reach out, talk to someone today," Janna Bisutti said.

She said Mrs. Bobbitt also hoped to pursue the dream she had when she came to the United States in 1986 — a good education, marriage and family.

John Bobbitt, who was acquitted of marital sexual assault for allegedly raping her shortly before she mutilated him, checked out of his Manassas hotel Thursday and was not at the Prince William County courthouse.

"He's not into dancing on graves," said Paul Erickson, Bobbitt's media adviser.

Gregory Murphy, Bobbitt's criminal lawyer, said Bobbitt watched the verdict on television with his family but would have no comment.

"I would like someone to explain to his family how someone can do this and get away with it," Murphy said. "Why do they have to endure the last two weeks that left John out there defenseless and the prosecution taking the position that she was raped after he had been acquitted of that?"

Judge Herman A. Whisenant Jr. placed Mrs. Bobbitt in custody to undergo psychiatric evaluation to determine whether she poses a danger to herself or others, as required by Virginia law.

Defense attorney James Lowe objected to the immediate custody order and asked the judge for a hearing on the issue. But Whisenant said the law gave him no choice.

Defense lawyer Blair Howard called the verdict "a great step forward for Lorena in the healing process."

The psychological observations will determine whether she needs treatment and the extent of that treatment.

"I think she will be found not dangerous to herself and others," Lowe said.

Mrs. Bobbitt was taken to Central State Hospital in Petersburg, where she will be examined by state doctors and at least one outside expert. They must report back to the judge within 45 days.

"From the start, I knew my daughter was innocent. What happened was a moment of madness," Mrs. Bobbitt's father, Carlos Gallo, said from Venezuela.

Prosecutor Paul B. Ebert told reporters after the verdict that he has "a certain amount of sympathy for Mrs. Bobbitt, but that doesn't justify what she did."

Ebert said he could not have pursued the case without calling Bobbitt, 26, as a witness, and he doubted that Bobbitt's hesitant, sometimes contradictory testimony during the trial hurt his case.

"I can't manufacture testimony. John Bobbitt is what he is, and he testified," Ebert said.

In his closing arguments, Ebert agreed with the defense that Bobbitt forced sex on his wife the night she cut off his penis.

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Bobbitt smiled and talked with well-wishers as the panel of seven women and five men deliberated. Jurors had sent out questions to the judge about psychiatric reports on Mrs. Bobbitt and the judge's instructions on how to weigh evidence about her state of mind.

The jury announced its verdict after 7½ hours of deliberations over two days.

WAIT: Agency turns away 1,000 quake victims

unable to reach FEMA officials on a toll-free number that the agency had urged people to call rather than appear in person. A reporter who tried the number got through after eight tries.

Other victims refused offers to take a bus from the overcrowded Winnetka Recreation Center in Northridge to other disaster application sites because they had no way of knowing if the situation would be the same there.

Nancy Darte, coordinator of the Northridge FEMA center, said everyone waiting outside would at least get an appointment slip, but the appointments — at which the victims' amount of damage would be assessed for emergency aid — were for Feb. 13 and filling up fast.

Asked about the logjam of calls for appointments, Darte said, "They'll just need to keep trying." Asked about the voucher report, she said, "I don't know what the housing authority is doing."

Don Keith of Northridge, one of those who took a bus to an emergency center in Sylmar, said he was beginning to feel "like a tennis ball."

Any sense of good will that characterized the earthquake response earlier this week began to evaporate. Adding to the sense of apprehension was the threat of weekend rain: The prediction called for only one-fourth to one-half inch, beginning Sunday, but that would be enough to inflate the misery index and raise apprehensions about mudslides.

Thousands of people remained in outdoor camps, and the National Guard said it planned to build a more permanent tent city somewhere in the region.

The Red Cross counted 6,000 people inside its shelters and some 4,000 living in makeshift camps outside them — but not because the shelters were overcrowded.

Because of the aftershocks, "they are afraid to stay in any building," said spokeswoman Carol Miller. "We assure them our shelters have been inspected and are safe, but they're too afraid."

FEMA, strongly criticized in the past for its sluggish response to such disasters as hurricanes Hugo and Andrew and the Los Angeles riots, won praise for its smooth reaction to last summer's floods across the Midwest and to the brushfires that scorched Southern California last fall.

FEMA opened 11 disaster centers Thursday and added a 12th on Friday to handle the larger-than-expected demand for aid. Lines were moving smoothly in most of them, but FEMA officials admitted being swamped.

"We're very concerned about the disaster application centers in that in some of them a great many more people appeared than we anticipated. And there were very long lines, and not everybody could be taken care of," said Richard Krimm.

He said one problem was that FEMA didn't have enough Spanish-speaking workers to handle the crush of Hispanic residents. He said FEMA's office in Puerto Rico was sending workers to ease the problem.

CLINTON: Subpoena sheds light on probe political start in the late 1960s and who also had financial dealings at the now failed S&L.

(From 1A)

—Steve Smith, a banker who served as an aide to Clinton and his gubernatorial campaigns in Arkansas.

The U.S. District Court grand jury's work, which is sealed from public scrutiny, was started by a government lawyer the Justice Department sent to Little Rock to investigate the failure of Madison Guaranty S&L.

The job is now likely to be taken over by former U.S. attorney Robert Fiske, named Thursday by Attorney General Janet Reno as a special counsel to oversee a sweeping investigation into the Clintons' ties to the Whitewater real estate venture and Madison S&L. The financial institution's owner James McDougal, was the Clintons' business partner in Whitewater.

Among the things the government has been investigating is whether S&L funds were illegally diverted to other entities such as Whitewater or used to pay the political and personal debts of prominent Arkansans, including Clinton and Tucker.

Regulators also are investigating whether the former law firm of Mrs. Clinton and Hubbell failed to properly inform the government of possible conflicts when it applied for and received a federal contract to oversee the lawsuit trying to recoup taxpayers' money after Madison failed.

Regulators are questioning whether Hubbell failed to properly inform the government that his firm — in particular Mrs. Clinton and another associate — had done legal work for Madison prior to its collapse. In addition, Hubbell's father-in-law had extensive financial dealing at the S&L.

McDougal, the Clintons and Hubbell have all emphatically denied any wrongdoing.

Tucker's spokeswoman, Max Parker, said the governor's personal attorney was delivering the materials to the grand jury Friday.

She said Tucker had no involvement with about half of the people and entities listed, and that the only document he would have involving the Clintons was a canceled $1,000 check for a 1985 contribution to Clinton's gubernatorial campaign.

Tucker was not ordered to appear before the grand jury. McDougal had been scheduled to testify Thursday, but his lawyer Sam Heuer said Friday the appearance had been postponed.

In a sign of the investigation's scope, Tucker estimated his subpoena was among 83 issued for documents related to Madison, which failed in 1989 at a cost to taxpayers of at least $47 million.

CRASH: MC van rolls over, injures students president, and MC division chair Larry Griffin, were all notified of the accident during the basketball game. Poss accompanied the injured people to the Lubbock hospital. Yell and Griffin stayed with the other students overnight in a Brownfield motel.

The basketball team returned to Midland Friday afternoon.

MC Vice President of Student Services Camil Dakil, accompanied by the college's mechanic and maintenance chief, traveled to Levelland Friday to access the damage to the van and to transfer some uninjured students back to Midland.

The MC administrators were back in Midland Friday afternoon.

Yell said the van sustained significant damage with windows broken out and crushed body work.

"The van looked atrocious. We are extremely fortunate (that injuries weren't worse)," he said. "It's a miracle."

Peace accord opponents claim responsibility for Israeli's death

RISHON LEZION, Israel (AP) — Palestinian fruit pickers fatally stabbed an Israeli farmer in his orchard Friday and opponents of the Israel-PLO agreement claimed responsibility for the attack.

At least two Palestinians were detained in connection with the attack.

Moshe Becker, 60, was stabbed 17 times in his orange grove just 50 yards from a highway to Tel Aviv that was filled with morning rush hour traffic, police said.

Becker "was stabbed all over his body by a sharp object, almost certainly a knife, in his neck, chest, in his head and back," said Dr. Ben Meiron, a doctor at a clinic near the scene of the incident.

A passerby alerted police when he saw the alleged assailants leaving the orchard, Israel radio said. Police found a bloodied knife among the trees.

Japanese parliament defeats political reform bill

By Laura King
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO — Prime Minister Morihiro Hosokawa, who took office with a mandate to clean up Japan's dirty politics, was fighting for his political life Friday after his reform package was defeated in Parliament's upper house.

The vote left Hosokawa's five-month-old governing coalition in tatters, and raised the prospect that the prime minister could be a lame duck — a "dead body," as the Japanese say — when he meets President Clinton in three weeks.

The defeat also fed fears that political disarray will prevent the government from taking steps to revitalize Japan's recession-battered economy. Stock prices have taken a beating in recent months because of lack of confidence in the government's economic policy.

Hosokawa, who had hinted previously that he would resign or call elections if the package were rejected, said he would try to revive the reform measures, although there is only a week left in the legislative session. He avoided questions about what he would do if his effort failed.

"We still have time to do our best," he told reporters. "It is my responsibility to do my best in the time remaining."

The package, defeated 130-118, could be saved if a conference committee of the two houses of Parliament worked out a compromise.

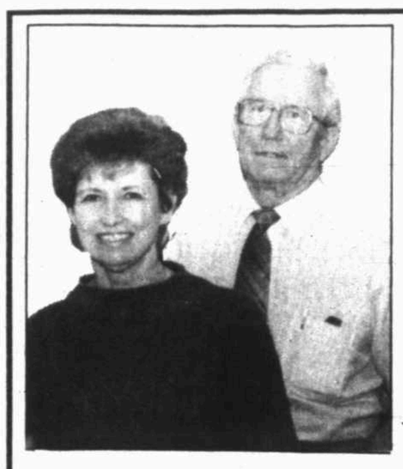

Even if Hosokawa can salvage the measure in some form, some observers said the defeat has dealt him a crippling blow.

"There's no doubt that Hosokawa's authority and ability to lead have taken a rapid dive," said Shigetaro Iizuka, professor at Nihon University and a former political reporter.

The reform package, if passed, would have been the biggest change in Japan's election system since a U.S.-written constitution was adopted in 1947.

It would have banned corporate contributions to individual politicians — the root of many bribery and influence-peddling scandals — and changed the way legislators are elected to the powerful lower house of Parliament.

One provision would have eliminated multiseat districts, which reform proponents argue encourage corruption because several legislators from the same party often run against each other in campaigns that focus more on pork-barrel favors than policy.

Supreme Court to rule on restrictions of protesters outside abortion clinics

By Richard Carelli
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court set the stage Friday for a significant abortion-related ruling by agreeing to clarify how far courts or local governments may go in restricting protesters outside abortion clinics.

The justices said they will review a Florida court order that created a protest-free buffer zone outside a Melbourne, Fla., clinic.

The high court's decision, expected by July, could have an enormous impact across the nation.

Friday's action came just hours after an estimated 35,000 abortion opponents marched on the court's Capitol Hill building to mark the 21st anniversary of the 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that affirmed a constitutional right to abortion. The march is an annual event for abortion foes.

The Florida case pits the free-speech rights of anti-abortion protesters against the rights of women seeking abortions and of abortion clinic employees to be free from harassment.

In the abortion case, operators of the Aware Women Center for Choice in Melbourne sued Operation Rescue in 1991, leading to a permanent injunction banning certain activities outside the clinic.

The judge found that Operation Rescue members often interfered with patients and staff members trying to enter or leave the clinic.

Demonstrators went to the homes of clinic patients and employees, sometimes ringing the doorbells of neighbors and calling clinic employees "baby killers."

Cable television plans to rate violent shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cable television executives have a plan to control TV violence aimed at appeasing Congress, but it includes a rating system the big four broadcast networks adamantly oppose.

Lawmakers aren't likely to drop their plans to legislate against violence on television unless industry-wide changes are made, but one Senate leader on the subject says ratings may not be necessary.

The cable TV plan, first revealed in Friday editions of The Washington Post, calls for an independent monitoring committee that would keep track of violent programming and rating codes that would allow violent programs to be blocked by viewers with specially equipped TV sets.

The monitoring idea is advocated by Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., a leader on the TV violence issue in the Senate.

A bill that would require a "v-chip" to be installed in all new sets to block violence has been introduced by Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., chairman of the Energy and Commerce telecommunications subcommittee.

A total of 10 bills are pending that restrict violence on TV in various ways. The most restrictive would ban it during hours of the day when most children would be watching.

Congress has been inspired to act because of public perception that TV violence causes the real thing and academic studies that show a link between human behavior and television viewing habits.

"The really key thing is some kind of a monitoring self-assessment so we can get an annual report card for the American people," Simon said.

He has been meeting with both cable and broadcast executives and has told them he would try to dissuade the rest of Congress from legislation if a monitoring committee is created voluntarily.

ATF agent testifies supervisors ignored 'plan' to call off raid

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms special agent testified Friday that supervisors ignored a plan to abort a raid on religious leader David Koresh early last year once the element of surprise was lost.

Barbara Maxwell gave jurors in the federal murder trial of 11 Branch Davidians one of the strongest snapshots yet of the flawed decision-making by the ATF prior to the Feb. 28 raid that led to the deaths of four agents.

Under cross examination, Ms. Maxwell, one of 100 agents who attempted to arrest Koresh on weapons charges, was grilled by attorney Tim Evans, who represents defendant Norman Allison.

Evans flailed his arms while asking her about the decision by raid supervisors Chuck Sarabyn and Phil Chojnacki to send two cattle trailers full of agents in to confront Koresh despite learning that the element of surprise had been lost.

"And no one told you that you were supposed to call that raid off if you lost the element of surprise?" Evans demanded.

"I believe that could have been a contingency of the plan, yes," Ms. Maxwell said.

"No one did that (called off the raid) though did they?"

"No, sir."

"You lost the element of surprise and your supervisors went ahead with it anyway?"

"Yes, sir."

Defense attorneys have said they will try to show key ATF personnel ignored orders and risked their own agents' lives by sending them in against the heavily armed Davidians in order to pull off a "dynamic" event.

Icy highways in West Texas cause collisions, 3 deaths

LUBBOCK (AP) — Vehicles slid and collided across much of ice-caked West Texas early Friday as freezing rain and fog caused dozens of accidents.

Three men from Bovina were killed when their Toyota slid into a truck's path on a Panhandle highway at 3:30 a.m., the Department of Public Safety reported.

Department of Public Safety public information officer Wayne Beighle said the three men killed on U.S. 60 near Farwell, about 90 miles northwest of Lubbock, weren't wearing seat belts.

Beighle identified the victims as 27-year-old Raymond Rocha Jr., 22-year-old Loranzo Lynn Rocha and 21-year-old Mike Reyes Bermea Jr.

The truck driver wasn't hurt, he said.

A Friona Independent School District bus, with no children on board, hit an ice patch and overturned at about 6:45 a.m., officials said. The driver wasn't hurt.

Lubbock police worked about 150 traffic accidents they blamed on a fine layer of ice that glazed the roads Thursday evening. Several pileups involved 20 or more vehicles, police said.

"We've had to bring in extra officers from the midnight shift to work wrecks because we've got so many," Sgt. Shane Bulls said late Thursday. "We've got wrecks with injuries we can't even get to."

None of the Lubbock accidents involved fatalities, police said.

University Medical Center treated 17 people hurt in vehicle wrecks, said spokeswoman Patti Douglass. UMC also treated seven others who fell on the ice, she said.

The National Weather Service issued a winter weather advisory for the Permian Basin, a freezing rain advisory for the Fort Worth area and a dense fog advisory around Abilene.

Couple receives prison sentences for starving child

LUBBOCK (AP) — Two Lubbock parents were sentenced to prison terms Friday for starving to death their 7-year-old daughter.

Jurors sentenced Patricia Carman to 50 years in prison for intentionally injuring her stepdaughter, Stephanie Danielle Carman. Steven Carman received a 10-year sentence for recklessly injuring the child, who died of chronic malnutrition.

The couple — convicted Wednesday — wept and embraced as the punishments were read.

"It ain't over by a long shot," said Carman, who added that he would appeal. It wasn't immediately known whether Mrs. Carman would appeal.

Stephanie died June 8, 1992, weighing 43 pounds — 11 pounds less than the amount listed on a doctor's record 18 months earlier.

Witnesses who knew the Carmans in Moriarty and Edgewood, N.M., before they moved to Lubbock, testified Thursday that the pair had a reputation for mistreating the girl.

The three witnesses, whose testimony wasn't heard by jurors, said they had concerns about the way the Carmans treated Stephanie and that they had reported their suspicions to New Mexico authorities.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Special service set

For Hollowell United Methodist Church, 400 S. Marshall St., Sunday is United Methodist Women Day.

Lathan

UMWD is an observance set by the Northwest Texas Conference to recognize and share the accomplishments of the local unit as well as the mission outreach of the total organization in the United Methodist Church.

Theme for the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday is "Walk in the Light."

The theme speakers will be Betty Lathan and Brenda Jones. Mrs. Lathan is a member of Mount Calvary Missionary Baptist Church and Mrs. Jones is a member of Hollowell UMC.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Hadley R. Edwards, invites the public to attend.

■ Class to study grace

The Adult Bible Class at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, 5400 N. Big Spring St., is studying "God's Use of the Ordinary in the Means of Grace."

The class, which is being led by Kevin Rabenaldt, looks at God acting among his people through what the world considers to be ordinary actions.

Also, the Tuesday evening Bible study, led by the Rev. Guy Bergenthal, is discussing "What's Going on Among the Lutherans."

This study centers on the sstruggles of people to understand the theological changes taking place in most of Christendom and informs participants of the doctrinal differences dividing today's Lutherans.

Sunday worship is at 9 a.m. Sunday School is at 10:15 a.m.

■ Honeyman to speak

Lanelle Honeyman from the Gladney Adoption Agency is to speak Sunday at Unitarian-Universalist Church, Neely Avenue at Garfield Street, during the 9:45 a.m. forum.

Honeyman

In the Permian Basin, much attention on "choices" in reproductive health-care has focused on abortion. The Unitarian-Universalist Church is offering those interested in another choice to hear Ms. Honeyman speak on the problems and rewards of chosing adoption.

The public is invited to attend. Sunday School is held during the forum followed by an 11 a.m. service conducted by the church's minister, the Rev. Clare Petersburger.

For more information call Bruce McPherson, 697-2778.

■ Film is to be shown

A satellite broadcast, "Behold Your Little Ones," is to be transmitted live from the Salt Lake Tabernacle at 7 p.m. Sunday.

The 90-minute broadcast may be viewed at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints chapel at 4805 Gateway.

Focus of the film is helping adults to understand their vital role in teaching and caring for children, according to a release from the local church.

All are invited to attend.

■ Singer to perform

Joyce Willson is to sing at Ranchland Heights Baptist Church during the Sunday morning service.

Ms. Willson, a graduate of Prairie View A&M University, has sung for the Seattle Opera, the Midland-Odessa Symphony Chorale, church servics and state conventions.

Church member Gary Hall is to begin the spring semester as a student for a degree in church music and theology at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

For more information call 683-1947 or 697-4471.

■ Groups to perform

Acapella and AVB, a pop Christian a cappella vocal band are to perform at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Midland Center.

The concert is planned to benefit the Midland Chapter of LCU Associates.

For more information call 682-5219 or 570-9104.

■ Crestview sets lunch

Crestview Baptist Church is holding its XYZ Luncheon at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The program will be presented by Daylene Land from the Texas Commission for the Blind.

All are invited to bring a dish and join in the fellowship.

■ Deacon ordination set

An ordination service for deacons Kent Lann and Willie Thames is set for 7 p.m. Sunday at Calvary Baptist Church, 1001 S. Main St.

Friends and relatives are invited to attend.

■ Football party planned

Alamo Heights Baptist Church, 1305 N. Midland Drive, is hosting a Super Bowl Fellowship Party beginning at 5 p.m. Jan. 30.

The fellowship includes watching the game on a big-screen television, food, fun and games.

A nursery will be provided with planned activities for children through age 10.

All are invited to attend. For more information call 697-3101.

Cooper escapes with win

■ Abilene Cooper wins battle over Lee 62-53, but may lose war with injury to center Andrae Patterson.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

Abilene Cooper and Midland Lee played out some high District 4-5A basketball drama at Chaparral Center Friday night that could have some major bearing on the loop race in both present and future tenses.

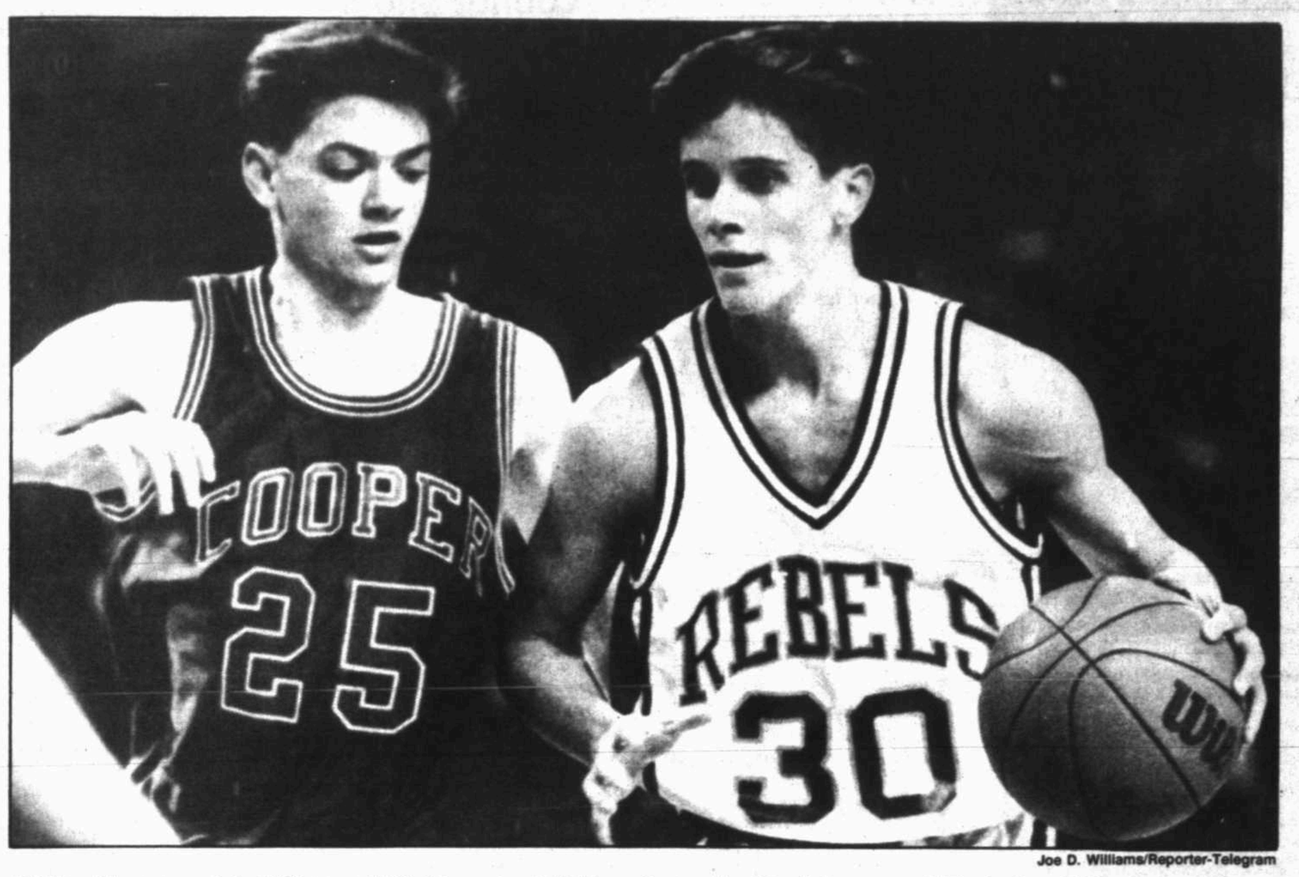

Cooper won the game 62-53 to finish the first half of the league race at a perfect 6-0. However, huge 6-9, Indiana-bound Andrae Patterson was injured with 2:46 left in the game after 27 points, 13 rebounds and four blocked shots.

Patterson, the league's leading scorer at 28 points per outing, hurt his right knee when Lee's Daniel Hughes landed on top of him in a football pile-up as the tall tree was breaking for an apparent layup.

Patterson didn't return to the game and his future status isn't known. It is believed that he tore no ligaments and may be able to return to action soon.

But Lee flirted with gaining a share of first place for one half, leading 32-29 at

Madden on Fox

NEW YORK — NFL television analyst John Madden has agreed to a $30 million, four-year contract and will join the Fox network next season, according to USA Today.

The newspaper said in today's editions that Pat Summerall also has agreed to join Fox when it begins its first NFL telecasts.

Summerall and Madden, who have been partners for 13 years, will broadcast their final NFL game for CBS Sunday in Dallas.

According to USA Today, the two announcers agreed Thursday to accept the offers from the Fox network.

By signing with Fox, Summerall would have to give up his golf and tennis duties at CBS.

The newspaper said figures for Summerall's contract were not available.

Sandy Montag, Madden's agent at International Management Group, was unavailable for comment. His office said he was in a meeting and likely to be involved most of the day.

Chancellor's 35 boosts Lady Bulldogs to playoffs

By Amy Wolfenbarger
Staff Writer

Midland High's Julie Chancellor made her last basketball game in the MHS gym one she will remember for the rest of her life.

Not only did the 5-foot-8 senior, who has started for the Lady Bulldogs since her sophomore season, score a career-high 35 points, she and her teammates clinched a state playoff berth with an 81-50 District 4-5A victory over Abilene High.

Although the Lady Bulldogs practice in the MHS gym regularly and almost all of Chancellor's home games for her first two seasons were played there, this season MHS has played almost exclusively at the Chaparral Center. The fact that the last home district game for the seven MHS seniors was played at their real home was special for Chancellor.

"I like it better in here," Chancellor said. "Ever since I started playing, we played here, except for this year. I've

Staff Report

ABILENE — The Abilene High Eagles moved back into the District 4-5A playoff picture here Friday night with a 97-85 basketball win over the Midland High Bulldogs.

The AHS victory, coupled with Midland Lee's loss to Abilene Cooper, threw MHS, AHS and Lee into a crowded three-way tie for second place, all at 4-2. Only three playoff berths are available and one of these teams will eventually sit at home.

The Eagles outscored MHS by a 23-13 margin in the final stanza to climb back into the thick of the race.

MHS got a game high 31 points from Donald Carter and 21 from Jumon Hailey, but the Eagles hit 11 three-point shots in the game, incldiuing five from Dan Wilson, who had 30 points.

Midland also got double figures from Ryan Bradberry, 12; and John Marc Sanon with 13.

Midland trailed by three points at the half, 52-49, after leading 28-23 in the first quarter. The Bulldogs led as late as the third period, but trailed by two points going into the fatal quarter.

MHS will meet Midland Lee Tuesday at Chaparral Center in a key 4-5A matchup at 8 p.m. The Bulldogs defeated Lee in the first district game of the year and now need to turn that trick again.

Abilene High also won the junior varsity game by a huge 93-67 margin.

■ Midland High, Lee girls soccer begin first year in District 5-5A.

By Mike Butts
Staff Writer

Midland High's and Midland Lee's girls soccer programs withstood the tribulations of rookie seasons last year. Now it's time to get real.

The two neophyte programs combined for only five wins and 18 losses in their inaugural campaigns in 1993. Not surprising results for first-year programs.

But in 1994 Midland High and Lee play as official members of a district for the first time. And for the first time they will compete for the right to play in the UIL state championship tournament, which has changed the players approach to the season. Early returns indicate both teams have made big improvements over last year and both have a chance to make it to postseason play.

"I really think we're going to be competing for a playoff spot and I think the girls think so also," Midland High coach Scott Hodkinson said. The Lady Bulldogs finished 2-10 last season. But before this weekend's tournament in Wichita Falls they were already 2-1.

The Lee girls finished 3-8 last season playing, like Midland, as a "club" team. They lined up against many of the teams in their District 5-5A in '93. The league has the same teams as the schools' football and basketball districts.

"We return six starters from last year," said Van Gravitt, the second-year Lee coach who had never

Jim Courier moves into the fourth round of the Australian Open.

Youngsters make mark at Australian Open

By Rob Gloster
AP Sports Writer

MELBOURNE, Australia — The first game took 10 minutes. The first set lasted 58 minutes. By the time Jim Courier won the tedious match, fans were huddled under blankets on a summer's night at the Australian Open.

The third-seeded Courier outslugged Nicklas Kulti 6-3, 6-3, 7-6 (7-1) Friday in a match that lasted 2 hours, 41 minutes, but seemed longer. The baseliners traded jabs until one got sloppy, or into position for a winner.

"We were just grinding, grinding, grinding all the time until someone hit a good shot and forced a mistake," Courier said.

The match was delayed at the start when Courier forgot his white baseball cap in the locker room. It had a four-minute rain interruption in the final set. But, mostly, it had long rallies that anesthetized the shivering fans.

The seventh game of the match lasted 21 minutes and 28 points. It included 11 deuces. Courier, who was serving, finally won it to go up 5-2.

"That's a big momentum game," Courier said. "It was a battle of wills."

The temperature, which had reached 72 degrees during the afternoon, dipped to 54 at night on center court. Though that might sound balmy to Americans suffering through the Arctic freeze, it's chilly for the Australian summer. Fans snuggled under blankets and Swedish flags brought to cheer on Kulti.

Courier, seeking his third straight Australian Open title, put a towel over his legs during breaks to keep them warm.

"My legs got a little cold on the changeovers," he said. "It's so unusual down here, it's usually so hot. It's nice to play in comfortable weather."

Top-seeded Pete Sampras joined Courier in the fourth round with a 7-5, 6-1, 1-6, 6-1 victory over Stephane Simian of France. His next opponent will be 15th-seeded Ivan Lendl, who defeated Paul Haarhuis 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

Sampras, who beat Lendl in the final of the New South Wales Open at Sydney last Sunday, is attempting to become only the third man to win Wimbledon, the U.S. Open and the Australian Open

Lee girls pick up first district win

ABILENE — Susan Seay scored 11 points in the decisive third period to lead Midland Lee to a 57-50 District 4-5A win over Abilene Cooper here Friday night.

Midland picked up its first district win of the year, improving to 8-13 overall and 1-6 in league play while Abilene Cooper drops to 1-7 in district and 8-16 overall.

"After the last game we told our players we were playing like we had an 0-0 record," said Lee coach Elise Kail. "As far as we're concerned we're 1-0."

Seay, who picked up two fouls in the first half and sat out most of the second quarter, led all scorers with 18 points.

Lee led 31-27 at half. Abilene Cooper stayed in the game in the first half with 16 points from the charity stripe.

Leading 52-50 in the fourth quarter, Krissy Woodard, Dee Kendricks and Seay combined for five free throws to put the game away.

"Our juniors Farrah Fisher and Michelle Benson came in and did a real good job for us," said Kail.

Woodard battled a head cold to score 10 points. Heather Huff, suffering from a sprained thumb, did not play. She is expected to return to action Monday.

The victory moved Lee out of last place for the first time this season.

Reagan County beats Greenwood

REAGAN COUNTY — Reagan County's sticky full court press held Greenwood to just six points in the second quarter as the Owls defeated Greenwood 64-46 here Friday Night. Greenwood drops to 10-10 on the year and 2-2 in District 6-3A. Reagan County remains undefeated in league play at 4-0 and 18-4 overall.

"We had a hard time breaking their press," said coach Nathan Poss. "We lost our composure trying to bring the ball up the floor and it just snowballed on us."

James Settles led Greenwood with 20 points while Michael Paul Smith and Edward Kennepohl scored 10 points apiece.

In junior varsity play, Greenwood picked up its first district win of the year with a 65-61 victory over Reagan County. Daniel Harris led four Rangers in double figures with 17 points. Coby Lee scored 12 points and Neil Bopecking and Jamie Presley each added 10 points.

Greenwood will return to action Friday against Crane.

Looney shots lift Stanton

STANTON — Taylor Looney hit two free throws with seven seconds left to help the Stanton Buffaloes beat Iraan 58-55 in a District 6-2A basketball game here Friday. The free shots capped a second half comeback that saw Stanton (2-3 in district, 10-13 overall) overcome a 26-20 halftime deficit. The Buffoloes Jason Hopper scored 19 of his game-high total of 23 points in the second half.

The Buffaloes won the game by getting to the free throw line 11 more times than the Braves. Johnny Titsworth and Looney had 12 points each for Stanton. Iraan fell to 1-4 in district with the loss.

Stanton's next game is at home Tuesday against McCamey.

MHS boys win at SA tourney

SAN ANTONIO — Midland High used a goal by Toby Walker with less than a minute remaining to defeat Belton 3-2 at the Alamo Heights Classic here Friday.

Midland, now 4-0 overall, will face either Converse Judson or San Antonio Alamo Heights in the semifinals today at 9 a.m.

Midland High, the defending champion, raced out to a 2-0 lead in the second half after a scoreless first half.

Tyler Berry scored the first goal of the game and at the 60th minute of the game Ross Hunter scored an unassisted goal to give the Bulldogs a 2-0 lead.

Belton rallied to tie the score at two before Midland staged its last minute goal for the win.

Midland High's Walker, on an indirect free kick inside the penalty box, drove the ball off a defender into the net for the winner.

MHS girls Ice win

WICHITA FALLS — Jacque Ketter scored a break-away goal with five minutes to go in the game here Friday for a 2-1 Midland High girls soccer win over Coppell in the Ice Bowl Tournament. It was Ketter's seventh goal in four games. The Lady Bulldogs are now 3-1 after going 2-10 in their first season last year.

Midland took a 1-0 lead in the first half when Tina Richardson scored an unassisted goal at the 19 minute mark. Coppell then tied the game at 1-1 on a score by Amy Dole. Midland will play San Angelo Central today at 9 a.m. San Angelo won District 5-5A last year, the league in which MHS begins UIL comeptiton this year.

Lee girls fall to Cooper

WICHITA FALLS — Midland Lee's Lady Rebels fought back from a 3-0 second-half deficit but fell short of a win here Friday in falling to Abilene Cooper 3-2. The game opened the Ice Bowl girls soccer tournament for both teams.

Cooper took the lead after a scoreless first half. Lee, now 2-1, got a goal by sophomore Jennifer Connell on an assist by Christi Johnson to make the score 3-1. The Lady Rebs then scored on a penalty kick by sophomore Angie Boyd. Lee plays Fort Worth Pascal in the tournament today at noon.

Maroon beats Gray in freshman action

Lee Maroon used a game-high 25 points from John Norman to lead Lee Maroon to a 73-69 win over Lee Gray Friday.

Four players scored in double figures for Maroon. Along with Norman, Antoine Alexander scored 15 points and Ricky Green with and Dusty Crow added 13 points apiece.

For Gray, John Purvis and Bobby Blackburn led with 17 points apiece. Dreyius Andrews added 13 points.

In freshmen girls play, Lee Gray beat Lee Maroon 46-27. Lee Gray is in first place in the Midland-Odessa Conference with a 7-1 record, 12-2 overall. Jamie Rhods led Gray with 20 points and the team had good defensive play from Aleena Smith and LaToya Strambler. Allison Bradshaw, Chrystal Smith and Susan York had six points each for Maroon.

Sandstormers win 12 events

SAN ANGELO — Julie Meek, Ashley Shannon, Brandi Pettis, Melanie Trumbo and Meghann Witte of the Midland YMCA Sandstormers Gymnastics team all had first-place finishes at last weekend's San Angelo Invitational Meet. Meek was first in all five events of the Level 7, 12-14 year old competition. Shannon placed first in the vault, bars and floor exercises in the Level 7, 8-11 group.

Here are other first through third-place finishes by the Midland Sandstormers in the San Angelo Invitational Meet of Jan. 15 with level and age group listed:

Level 5, 7-8: Meghann Witte, beam 2nd, vault 2nd. Level 5, 12 and up: Melanie Trumbo, bars 3rd, beam 1st, floor 1st, all-around 2nd. Level 6, 8-11: Kristen Stoltz, bars 3rd; Meredith Dunn, all-around 3rd. Level 7, 8-11: Ashley Shannon, beam 2nd; Lacey McMillin: vault, bars, beam, floor and all-around 3rd. Level 8, 8-11: Hayley Whiteside, vault 2nd, bars 3rd, beam 2nd, floor 2nd, all-around 3rd. Level 8, 12-13: Lauren Ochs: bar 2nd, all-around 2nd; Allison Ryburn: beam 2nd.

in succession.

"Ivan is probably hitting the ball as well now as he has in a while," Sampras said of the two-time Australian Open champion. "Lendl is the type of guy that if you open the door a little, he is going to walk right in. He is one of the greatest players of all time, and I'm going to have to play well to beat him."

No. 5 Goran Ivanisevic rallied to defeat Aaron Krickstein 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4, turning the match around after breaking his racket when he slammed it to the court late in the second set.

"Every time I break a racket I cool down," said Ivanisevic, who had 20 aces. "It's a little expensive."

No. 10 Magnus Gustafsson dropped only six games while winning his third-round match and No. 13 Wayne Ferreira also won, but No. 11 Marc Rosset was upset 3-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 by Grant Stafford and No. 14 Karel Novacek was ousted 6-1, 7-5, 7-5 by Lars Jonsson.

MaliVai Washington, who upset No. 2 Michael Stich in the first round, needed five sets to complete a second-round victory over Andrei Cherkasov that was halted Thursday night by rain and darkness.

Steffi Graf, the top-seeded woman's player, defeated German compatriot Barbara Rittner 6-2, 6-4 to reach the fourth round. Also advancing were No. 3 Conchita Martinez, No. 6 Mary Joe Fernandez, No. 9 Mary Pierce, No. 10 Kimiko Date, No. 14 Magdalena Maleeva and No. 16 Lindsay Davenport, as well as unseeded Chanda Rubin.

Pierce's 6-3, 6-2 victory over Sabine Appelmans earned her a bouquet of roses from a fan, who twice this week has presented her with flowers on court.

"I don't know who he is," Pierce said. "Just a good fan, I guess."

Rubin, a 17-year-old from Lafayette, La., ignored swirling winds to defeat Kristine Radford 6-3, 7-6 (7-1) in a match interrupted twice by rain. Davenport, also 17, from Murrieta, Calif., won 6-1, 6-2 over Elena Makarova.

Rubin's next opponent will be Martinez, a 6-3, 6-0 winner over American Amy Frazier. Davenport will play Fernandez, who defeated Caroline Kuhlman 6-4, 6-1.

Another American, Ginger Helgeson of Alpine, Calif., produced the biggest upset of the third round, surviving three match points in a 3-6, 7-6 (12-10), 6-4 victory over seventh-seeded Anke Huber. The German double-faulted 15 times, including twice on match point in the tiebreaker.

"She got me back into the match by those errors," Helgeson said.

No. 13 Helena Sukova, a finalist at the U.S. Open last year, also lost, 6-4, 6-3 to Sandrine Testud.

Foursome ties for Telecom lead

■ Northern Telecom Open

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Mike Springer started Friday's second round of the Northern Telecom Open six shots out of the lead.

But a combination of his 7-under-par 65 and some mistakes by other contenders propelled him into a four-way tie for the lead at the halfway mark of the $1.2 million tournament.

Springer, a former University of Arizona golfer, attributed his eight-birdie, one-bogey round to knowledge of the 7,148-yard Tucson National layout.

"You know which greens tend to run, you know what fairways tend to run, stuff like that," he said. "You know, where you need to miss the ball, where you can favor a certain shot. Having some course knowledge really helps."

At the same time, he said, everyone plays the same terrain.

"When you hit that ball within 15 feet, you've still got to make it. Just because you know which way it curves doesn't mean it's guaranteed," Springer said.

Vijay Singh, Joe Ozaki and Dillard Pruitt also completed 36 holes at 9-under 135.

For the second straight day, the field of 156 was distributed on two par-72 courses at opposite ends of the city.

Seventy-two players made the cut at 2-under 142 and qualified to finish the event today and Sunday at Tucson National.

Springer and Singh played Tucson National.

Sonics rally to extend Dallas streak

DALLAS — Sam Perkins scored eight points during an 18-2 run in the third quarter as Seattle overcame a sluggish start and extended the Dallas Mavericks' NBA-record homecourt losing streak to 19 games Friday night, 91-87.

The Sonics rallied from a 14-point third-quarter deficit, then held off a fourth-quarter charge by the Mavs to win for the 10th time in 12 games.

Seattle, whose 30-5 record is the best in the league, had several scares against Dallas, the NBA's worst team at 2-35.

The Sonics got 22 points from Detlef Schrempf and 16 points each from Perkins and Ricky Pierce, sending the Mavericks to their 12th straight defeat overall. Jim Jackson scored 29 points for Dallas, now 0-19 at home.

Dallas pulled to 88-85 with 1:03 left on Jamal Mashburn's free throw, but Pierce hit a 15-footer with 45 seconds remaining for a 90-85 Seattle advantage.

The Mavericks led 64-50 with 8:20 left in the third quarter after a 10-0 run capped by Jackson's 3-pointer.

Nets 113, Hawks 111, OT

ATLANTA — Kenny Anderson's 12-footer with 1.3 seconds left in overtime lifted New Jersey to a victory over Atlanta, just the third home loss of the season for the Hawks, but their second straight.

Andrew Lang's 20-footer failed at the buzzer as the Hawks' record at the Omni dropped to 17-3. It was Atlanta's third loss in its last four games.

Derrick Coleman led the Nets, who extended their winning streak to a season-best four, with 30 points and 11 rebounds. Anderson had 24 points and 11 assists.

Celtics 124, Warriors 116

BOSTON — Boston won a season-high fourth straight game after losing 13 of their previous 15, beating Golden State.

The Celtics, who ended a team-record seven-game home losing streak Sunday night against Denver, turned a 61-50 halftime lead into a 73-52 bulge as Dino Radja and Dee Brown had six points each in a 12-0 run.

But the Warriors started the fourth quarter with a 16-6 surge, closing to 101-98 with 7:25 left. They came no closer, trailing by three to 12 points the rest of the way.

Detroit 118, Miami 98

MIAMI — The sharpshooting of Joe Dumars and Terry Mills helped Detroit snap its 14-game losing streak, over Miami, which lost its seventh in a row.

Cavaliers 106, Clippers 90

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Brad Daugherty had 21 points and 18 rebounds and Mark Price scored 26 points, leading Cleveland to a victory over the displaced Los Angeles Clippers.

Trail Blazers 111, Lakers 93

PORTLAND, Ore. — Clifford Robinson scored 23 points as Portland celebrated the return of guard Clyde Drexler by defeating injury-riddled Los Angeles.

Elden Campbell's 27 points led the Lakers, who had only eight players in uniform. Sedale Threatt, one of only two guards still on the active roster, scored 25.

Bulls 96, Pacers 95

CHICAGO — Toni Kukoc banked in a 3-pointer at the buzzer Friday night as Chicago pulled off their 16th straight homecourt victory.

Reggie Miller's jumper with 0.8 seconds left gave the Pacers a 95-93 lead and presumably the victory. Miller even bowed to the crowd after a timeout was called.

Magic 106, Knicks 103

ORLANDO, Fla. — Shaquille O'Neal scored 37 points and blocked a potential game-winning shot by Patrick Ewing with 16 seconds left Friday night as Orlando held on for a victory.

O'Neal's free throw gave Orlando a 104-101 lead with 1:08 left and set the stage for a tension-filled final minute. Ewing, who had 36 points, missed a 15-footer that could have given New York the lead before the Magic's Nick Anderson made two free throws with 9.7 seconds remaining.

Bucks 113, Hornets 110

MILWAUKEE — Milwaukee got 20 points each from Vin Baker, Eric Murdock and Frank Brickowski, and the Bucks overcame an 18-point deficit to beat Charlotte.

With 3.3 seconds left, Eddie Johnson, who led all scorers with 29 points for the Hornets, inbounded to Dell Curry, who missed a desperation 3-pointer that would have sent the game into overtime.

Jazz 112, Kings 83

SALT LAKE CITY — Jeff Malone made seven of his nine shots in the decisive third period, sparking Utah to a victory over Sacramento.

The Jazz put the game away with a 24-7 run in the third quarter to put the game away.

SOCCER: Four new teams give district purpose coached soccer before last year. "With the exception of maybe one we're stronger at every position this year." The Lady Rebels are 3-0 entering the Wichita Falls tourney.

From 1B

Lee and Midland High will join Odessa and Odessa Permian as new teams in the district. San Angelo, Abilene and Abilene High have played in the district last year. Tuesday Lee and Midland High face off in both schools' first ever girls district soccer game 4:30 at Lee.

While Gravitt and Hodkinson mostly take the first year of district play in stride, their players say playing for a league title and the playoffs makes a big difference in this season.

"There's going to be more purpose (this year)," Midland High junior sweeper-stopper Laura Kamis said. "Last year if we won or lost it was just for (the) record."

Members of Lee's team recognize the added pressure as well as the motivation that comes with playing for a spot in the district standings.

"It makes us work harder because we have something to work for — something to win," Lee sophomore midfielder Angie Boyd said. "The pressure will be (greater) because you have to win to go further."

"I think we all feel a little more pressure because there's something at stake," said Gravitt. "(But) it helps the intensity, keeps us motivated. Plus just having a district schedule helps. We had times last year in the middle of the season when we had 10 day gaps without a game."

Both schools have an infusion of sophomores that the coaches said will help the teams. Lee has only three seniors on it's 23-women roster and five sophomore starters. Hodkinson says a few of his 10th-graders are "really talented" and have the ability to start.

One of those Midland High sophomores is Jacque Ketter, the Lady Bulldogs center midfielder who scored six goals in the teams first three games. Sophomore Tina Rodriquez has been the team's goal keeper, but Hodkinson said she is also an excellent field player who might move out of the box.

Also impressing the Midland High coach are sophomore Sonya Lackey, a center fullback and midfielder; senior forward Carey Emerson, and junior sweeper Stephanie Hopkins. Hopkins had arthroscopic surgery on her knee in December which could limit her effectiveness.

An ace in the hole for Midland could be junior center midfielder Larissa Sellars, who led the team scoring last season. Sellars came back to MHS this semester after spending the fall at Coleman High School. She will not be eligible to play until the last three district games.

More Sports/8B

"Hopefully at that time we will be in a position where we can make the playoffs and she can could help us," said Hodkinson, who was an assistant with the MHS boys soccer team for three years before taking over the girls job.

At LEE, Gravitt has had more players - 40 - come out for the team this year. The result is more talent and depth.

"Last year we had to work hard just to field a team," Gravitt said. "This year we can put substitutes on the field that can play well."

Lee girls soccer is no longer a rookie program and Gravitt is no longer a rookie coach.

"This year we're a lot more organized and we got an earlier start," said senior fullback Debbie Scarbrough. "Coach Gravitt knows more about what he's doing. He was more or less learning with us (last year.)"

The Lady Rebels lost center fullback Whitney Elkins to graduation. She now plays on the Oklahoma University team. Boyd will take her place.

Gravitt said one of the team weaknesses is speed, but the quickness of sophomore forwards Erin Blinka and Rochelle Roberts should offset that liability. Senior Dusty Shumake played every game at goal keeper last year and Gravitt said she is one of the best in the area. Scoring should come from junior forward Stephanie Smith, who had three goals in a 7-0 scrimmage win over Lubbock Coronado this year, and senior left halfback Tammy Keel.

Top Lady Reb defenders are junior sweeper Crystal Zachry, sophomore stopper Christi Johnson and junior fullback Audrey Higginbotham.

San Angelo Central, last year's district champion, is the favorite to win again. They return all but one starter from '93. Permian could be the second best team in the district. They have most of the players from a team which combined Odessa High and Permian girls and beat many of the district teams last year.

Hodkinson warns that the schools entering district competition for the first time will change things for the three veteran teams. In the past all three schools made the playoffs because they were the only teams in the league.

"This will be the first real district year and I think they know that," Hodkinson said. "This will be the first year there is real pressure to make the playoffs. They won't have a gimme like they had in the past."

This year girls soccer in District 5-5A gets real.

LEE: Low fouls out early in final period

the half before the guns went silent with a six of 25 shooting eye in the second half.

"We just didn't look for the shots that we were making in the first half," said Lee coach Jon House. "We hit 10 treys and eight twos in the game and you aren't going to win many games like that."

Lee's major problem, however, was the fact that leading scorer Sean Low fouled out with 4:38 still left to play. He ended the night with 14 points despite a huge amount of pine time.

"It isn't much fun having Sean Low on the bench with me," House said. "It reminded me of the Midland High game to open district play when Low fouled out and had a lot of sitting time. That 20 points on the bench doesn't help you much."

It was a huge win for Cooper, which has won only once prior to this win in Midland in the last three years.

"I don't know about our kids, but this was a big game for me," said Cooper coach Jack Alldredge. "We haven't had a lot of success in this place (Chap Center). It's a tough place to shoot in."

Alldredge was more than a little concerned over the injury to his star player.

"I just don't know about Andrae. We'll have to wait and see, but this could be a big blow to our team. Still, I'm proud of our kids in that they stayed together after he went out and got the job done."

Lee's Michael Nunn had a big night with 19 points while Caesar Brannon added 12 points. Other than Patterson, Cooper had no other players in double figures.

"We did exactly what we wanted to do except keep Low on the bench," House said. "We wanted to make Patterson work for his 25 or 30 points and hold the rest out of double figures. We did that."

Where the Rebs did get punished was in the rebounding department where Cooper held a 38-18 margin on the boards.

With the loss, the Rebels have thrown the 4-5A race into a huge scramble for the league's three playoff berths. Coupled with Midland High's 97-85 loss to Abilene High, all three of those teams are locked at 4-2 in second place and two full games behind district favorite Cooper.

"The worst that happened to us was a three-way tie for second place," House said. "We have a goal to be 6-0 in the second half and that would take care of the tie."

However, if the race ended this way, it would almost take a district tournament to eliminate one of the three teams. And if Patterson's injury is worse than it is thought to be, Cooper could be climbing back toward the pack in rather quick fashion.

Cooper plays Abilene High Tuesday while Midland High meets Lee. If you need any more drama, basketball just isn't your game.

In junior varsity play, Lee beat Cooper 71-56 as Mark Holly had 21 points and John Thurman 20. Craig Sawyer added 12. David Longbine had 20 points for Cooper.

GIRLS: MHS earns state playoff spot

definitely spent a lot of time in this gym."

The win improved MHS to 24-3 overall and 8-0 in league play while Abilene dropped to 10-12 and 3-5. Abilene must win its next four games if the Lady Eagles hope to return to the playoffs. San Angelo Central (16-9, 5-3) remained in sole possession of third place with a 47-45 win over Odessa Permian (12-13, 3-5) and stayed tied with AHS for fourth place.

Midland Lee defeated Abilene Cooper 57-50 for the Lady Rebels' first district win. Lee (8-13, 1-6) moved out of last place for the first time all season, switching with Cooper (8-16, 1-7). Second place Odessa High (23-4, 6-1) was open.

The Lady Bulldogs have enjoyed a long homestand, playing their last six district games in Midland. They go on the road for their last four games, including their final against Odessa High. But Chancellor said she doesn't expect her team's time in front of the home crowd is over.

"I don't really think of tonight as playing in my last home game," she said. "We are planning on being back in Midland for the regional tournament."

The Lady Bulldogs got off to a quick start in defeating one of the two teams that handed a loss to Midland on its way to the district title last year.

But they really put it away in the second, causing 11 Abilene turnovers while only giving up four to pull away for a 43-27 halftime lead. Then the MHS defense took over and held the Lady Eagles to just three third quarter points.

A good game was about due for Chancellor, who averages 16 points a game but had slumped a little and fouled out early in her last two outings — against Odessa and Central.

"I've learned a lot in the past couple of games," Chancellor said. "I've been real selfish and worried a lot about my individual performance. Tonight I just came out and played for the team."

Chancellor came very close to matching her teammate Amy Alcala's school single game scoring record of 41 set last year.

"I'm just glad to see her back shooting the way she is capable of," Midland coach Jim Raughton said.

Midland remained undefeated in junior varsity action as well, defeating the Abilene JV 57-30 for an 8-0 mark. Ogonna Merritt lead the Lady Bulldogs with 12 points while Kendra Kendricks and Laura Childress each had 11.

Association keeps Harding on Olympic team for now

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Tonya Harding is likely to remain on the U.S. Olympic team when the final roster is submitted Jan. 31, despite a grand jury probe into her role in the alleged conspiracy to attack Nancy Kerrigan.

A decision Friday to push back to Feb. 3 the deadline for the grand jury's report, which had been due next week, put the U.S. Figure Skating Association in an awkward legal bind.

The USFSA probably will have to name the team before Harding is cleared or indicted in the case. If Harding remains on the Jan. 31 roster, she still could be booted by the U.S. Olympic Committee or the International Olympic Committee.

No charges have been filed against Harding, the U.S. women's champion, and she denies accusations by her bodyguard that she helped plot the assault.

Three weeks before the Winter Games begin in Lillehammer, Norway, the grand jury is still calling witnesses and reviewing evidence to determine whether indictments should be issued against Harding or any of the four men arrested on conspiracy charges.

"I can't go into the reasons for the delay, except to say that everyone wants the flexibility," prosecutor Norm Frink said.

Federal law prevents the USFSA from ousting Harding without giving her notice and an opportunity for a hearing. If the USFSA removes her from the roster, she can appeal to the USOC and take other legal action to regain her spot.

Harvey Schiller, executive director of the USOC, said the change in date for the grand jury report would have no impact on the ultimate decision about whether to let Harding skate in Lillehammer.

"We still are required to submit the entire team roster by Jan. 31," Schiller said. "There is a procedure in the USOC constitution for placing athletes on the team after that time. In the case of figure skating, alternates can be substituted right up to the date of the draw. For us, nothing else changes." The figure skating draw is Feb. 21, two days before the competition begins.

"I think we have to remain in control of the Jan. 31 deadline," said Paul George, a USOC executive board member and representative of the U.S. Figure Skating Association. "It just shifts some of the situation from here to Lillehammer. If it comes up there, it comes up there."

Regardless of the USFSA or USOC decisions, the IOC can act independently to bar Harding.

"We will start making up our minds depending on what will happen Jan. 31, whether she is entered or not," said IOC director general Francois Carrard in a telephone interview from Lausanne, Switzerland.

In Stoneham, Mass., Kerrigan skated for an hour Friday morning, hitting her first triple jumps since the Jan. 6 attack in Detroit, including a triple toe loop.

She declined to answer questions afterward and left for Los Angeles later to film a commercial, according to her representatives.

Harding skated in public for the second straight day, winning roaring support from fans at the shopping mall rink where she practices.

More than 200 people, many of them sporting big pink "We Believe in Tonya" buttons, crowded around the rink to watch their hometown Olympian.

Expansion job interests Walsh

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Bill Walsh was reported to be interested in at least hearing from the NFL's new Jacksonville Jaguars about their head coaching vacancy, though he said he's staying at Stanford.

Officials of the expansion team scheduled a meeting for Friday with the Stanford coach, The Florida Times-Union reported.

Jaguars owner J. Wayne Weaver and president David Seldin flew to meet Walsh in Palo Alto, Calif.

"He agreed to talk to them. They approached him," a source familiar with the meeting told the newspaper.

But Walsh quickly issued a statement through Stanford Sports Information Office in which he said, "As I have stated many times before, I am not a candidate for any position in football, either on the professional or collegiate level. I continue to be very excited about our Stanford football program and I plan to remain at Stanford as its head coach."

The 62-year-old Walsh is in his second stint as Stanford coach. He was head coach in 1977 and 1978 before becoming coach of the San Francisco 49ers. Walsh led the NFL team to Super Bowl championships in 1982, 1984 and 1988.

The Jaguars have a stated policy of not commenting on specific coaching or general manager candidates.

Seniors hope to show off talents

■ Five Southwest Conference players expect to play in today's game.

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — No offense, Senior Bowl, but Don Shula would rather be somewhere else this week.

Frigid Buffalo would be nice.

■ Senior Bowl

Shula would gladly trade his week on Alabama's gulf coast, where the temperature was in the 50s under a brilliant sun Friday, for a return trip to the AFC championship game.

Instead, it will be the Kansas City Chiefs playing the Bills on Sunday, rather than Shula's Miami Dolphins.

"It can't help but be on your mind," said Shula, who will coach the South team in Saturday's all-star game at Mobile.

The North will be coached by Rich Kotite of the Philadelphia Eagles, who will have the nation's leading rusher, LeShon Johnson of Northern Illinois.

The Senior Bowl is returning to its popular North-South format after dividing up the players at random the past four years.

College grid stars face Hawaiians in Hula Bowl

HONOLULU — The Hula Bowl, for years a showcase for collegiate stars, goes back in time Saturday when the collegians meet a team comprised of players with ties to Hawaii.

In the first years of the game, which began in 1947, several NFL players were added to the Hawaii team. But in recent years, the Hula Bowl became a game for seniors preparing for the NFL.

The reason for the change this time is economics.

There's been a change in the television contract (prime time on ESPN), the title sponsor (Kodak) is undergoing major restructuring and the Hawaii economy is stuck in neutral. Besides, it's cheaper to bring in one team instead of two.

The game's economic state is reflected in the fact that Ray Nagel, the game's executive director, will be coaching the Hawaii team.

But, the focus will be on the collegians who want to prove their worth to NFL scouts.

Among them is quarterback Glenn Foley of Boston College, who some have said is too short to play in the NFL at 6-foot-1. But he showed scouts he well he can play against big-name players when he led the East to a big lead last week in the East-West Shrine Game.

"I'm just looking for an opportunity to play," he said. "That's all you can ask. You don't know what the scouts are thinking. All you can do is put yourself into the position to be asked because I know I can play at the next level."

■ Hula Bowl

For Florida State cornerback Corey Sawyer, one of two underclassmen who was extended an invitation, it's also a chance to show his skills.

"I'm just going out and play football, show the NFL scouts what I can do, and have a good time," he said.

Auburn running back James Bostic, the other junior, said, "There's a little more pressure on the juniors because sometimes the scouts don't know as much about us. I'm looking forward to showing them what I can do. Hopefully, it will be something that happens more and more because a player coming out like me deserves the same consideration as a senior."

Since the game is not an NCAA-sanctioned event, the Hula Bowl can invite players not returning to college next year.

"I know it sounds crazy, but I think we have a chance against them," the former University of Hawaii quarterback said. "There's a pride factor for us and for them. Playing for Hawaii, we don't want to lose. And they don't want to lose to guys from Hawaii.

Kerrigan, Harding: Real-life TV drama

■ Television has taken full advantage of the scandal involving America's top ice skaters.

By Frazier Moore
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK — Who could ever forget that vision from 1992 — the devoted mother, legally blind, her nose pressed against the TV screen to catch even a blurry glimpse of her daughter on the ice just yards away.

Like Brenda Kerrigan rinkside in Albertville, France, viewers have been glued to the tube since the brutal attack on Olympic figure skater Nancy Kerrigan two weeks ago.

You don't have to know a triple axel from Axl Rose to be following this saga. It's the perfect TV story. Beauty in motion, plus sportsmanship turned squalid. Violence. Tragedy. Intrigue. Even comic relief.

It's going to make a heckuva TV movie. Especially when you fold in the genre's favorite ingredient: woman as victim. For in this tale you have not one, but two — namely, Kerrigan, the victim of a thug with a billy-club, and her archrival, Tonya Harding, arguably a victim of life.

A week ago, 20 Kerrigan scripts had piled up at one network. Kerrigan's agent reportedly was sifting through at least three dozen offers for the rights to her life.

But whatever comes of it all will just be an encore. Already, "Nancy and Tonya — Live!" is TV's most compelling series. It will continue at least until next month's Winter Olympics, where Kerrigan may get to wage her ultimate showdown with Harding.

And unlike the Nancy-and-Tonya adaptations to come, no viewer knows how this original will turn out.

TV wasted no time claiming the story. A tape of Kerrigan moments after her Jan. 6 attack was scooped up by ABC News. The images of a face wrenched in pain and the wails of "Why? Why?" instantly became video mythology.

In the days since, TV has stayed on the story, both watching it and helping it unfold.

During an interview on "Dateline NBC" last week, anchor Jane Pauley asked Kerrigan if she thought the attack had been meant for her, or if she had been a random target.

"Anything's possible," Kerrigan said.

No kidding.

McKenzie Astin stars as Will Stoneman, who sets out on a perilous dog race in 'Iron Will.'

'Iron Will' is top-notch corn

By Carl Hoover
N.Y. Times News Service

■ 'Iron Will' is playing at the UA Cine 4

"Iron Will" is one of those gloriously corny family films whose fresh-faced exuberance sweeps the viewer past the shoals of predictability and the reefs of cliche.

Or, in fitting with the arctic weather that dominates the film, the thin ice of predictability and the frostbite of cliche.

Loosely based on the real life exploit of New Yorker Fred Hartman in 1917, "Iron Will" follows the heroic effort of South Dakotan youth Will Stoneman (Mackenzie Astin, son of Patty Duke) who defies the odds to compete in — and survive — a 500-mile dogsled race from Winnepeg to St. Paul, Minn.

It's got everything that an old-fashioned family film used to have: an attractive hero (Astin), strong, loving parents (John Terry and Penelope Windust), the girl next door (Paige Litfin), lots of action, no profanity, a truly mean villain or two and a faithful dog.

Had there been room in the tightly paced film for another dinner scene, there'd probably be apple pie as well.

The incentive to enter the race comes after Stone-

'Shadowlands' a polished, mature movie

By Linda Deutsch
Associated Press

There is so little true romance in the movies these days — sex, yes; romance, no. And so it's a pleasant surprise to find the real thing in "Shadowlands," an unpretentious love story in spite of the luminaries involved.

A mature love story with a PG rating. Now THAT'S something to write home about.

With the confident hand of Richard Attenborough directing, and two remarkable actors at the top of their form, this is a chance to see polished movie-making that succeeds without being flashy.

Anthony Hopkins and Debra Winger seem to have claimed 1993 as their year in cinema. Watch them at Academy Award time.

Based on a true story, "Shadowlands" focuses on the controlled, scholarly life of the noted British writer and Oxford professor C.S. Lewis.

Some of the film's best scenes introduce us to the cloistered world of pompous Oxford dons who revel in tweaking each other's intellects. It is a world of dark wood, towering cathedrals and omnipresent history. This is the height of academia and at its pinnacle sits Lewis in the person of Hopkins, a man who never has lost an argument and whose sharp wit intrigues his colleagues.

The time is the 1950s and Lewis is a literary celebrity, a middle-aged writer whose philosophical lectures draw standing-room-only crowds. In addition to

Matthau, Morgan team for 'Incident'

By Lynn Elber
AP Television Writer

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Walter Matthau has enjoyed his share of on-screen romances. But his movie and TV pairings with fellow actors have produced more second dates.

He has repeatedly hooked up with Jack Lemmon for such classics as "The Odd Couple" and the current "Grumpy Old Men." On television, Matthau and Harry Morgan perform a hat trick with their third "Incident" movie.

In "Incident in a Small Town" (8 p.m. CST Sunday on CBS), Matthau reprises his role as attorney Harmon Cobb. Morgan is back as Judge Stoddard Bell, this time accused of murder and in need of his friend Cobb's help.

The two first appeared as the rumpled lawyer and stern judge in 1991's

Dallas trio frolics through debut

By Jimmy Patterson
Special Projects Editor

Patty Lege, left, Sara Hickman and Robin Macy make up Dallas' Domestic Science Club.

Not a lot of music fans outside of Dallas are likely to ever hear of The Domestic Science Club. And that's unfortunate.

But the trio's self-titled debut album, recorded and produced at a Dallas studio, features stylings reminiscent of both the Andrews Sisters and The Roches, with some contemporary folk, some pop, a show tune, some of the best three-part harmony since the Gatlins, and a couple of killer a cappella offerings thrown in for good measure. Make that very good measure.

■ Review

In short, the Domestic Science Club defies categorization, which may very well have been the goal of Sara Hickman, Robin Macy and Patty Lege. You will never hear this stuff on radio. And that's unfortunate, too.

Hickman, with a couple of minor hits to her credit, is an exceptionally talented Texas born and bred singer-songwriter who has never received the recognition she deserves; Macy is the former lead singer of the Dixie Chicks, one of

Mary vs. Murphy: A comparative study

OK so it's not a study. Maybe more like a little glimpse.

But each time I turn on an episode of "Murphy Brown," I can't help but think that there are more than a handful of viewers who think of the program as a "Mary Tyler Moore Show" for the '90s. But do the two news women and their cohorts really have all that much in common? Here are a few comparisons that may or may not lend credence to the theory that the two shows are alike:

Patterson

Writing: "Mary" is widely regarded as the best written situation comedy ever. The storylines have stood the test of time over the last 20 years. While it is the best written sit-com today, "Murphy's" jokes may not stand the same test in 2014 because of the large volume of lines that reflect the present political climate. Edge: "Mary."

Politcal Humor: No one does it as well as "Murphy," but again, a lot of these jokes are for now, and a lot may not even play well two years from now in reruns. "Mary" very seldom broached political or social issues and never utilized names in the news like "Murphy." Edge: "Murphy."

Ensemble: "Mary" is again considered to have the best cast in the annals of sit-comdom. "Murphy" has the best ensemble now, but that's only because "Cheers" is no longer around. Edge: "Mary."

Spinoffs: "Mary" begat three direct children — "Lou Grant," "Rhoda," and "Phyllis"; four other cast members — Ted Knight, Gavin McLeod, John Amos and Mary herself also had programs that were not spinoffs. "Murphy" hasn't been around long enough to send anyone packing for their own 30-minutes. On the other hand, none of the characters seem strong enough individually to carry their own show, although someone at the network will probably demand that there be a "Corky" one day. Edge: "Mary," but barely. While no show resulted in more spin-offs, only one of those — "Lou Grant" — was worth watching.

"FYI" vs. "The Evening News with Ted Baxter." — The shows within the shows. Edge: "The News with Ted Baxter." For instances of hilarity per second, it's no contest. Ted's impromptu remembrance of Chuckles the Clown, in which he recited the Clown Credo ("A little song, a little dance, a little seltzer down your pants"), is without a doubt one of the funniest moments in TV history.

Canadians try to curb TV violence

By Elizabeth Kolbert
N.Y. Times News Service

TORONTO — Canadian broadcasters have resolved to reduce television violence, and the first casualty is "Teen-Age Mutant Ninja Turtles."

A new broadcasting code, which took effect here on New Year's Day, bans shows with "gratuitous violence" and limits those that contain scenes of violence "suitable for adults only" to the hours after 9 p.m. The code also puts special restrictions on children's shows, demanding, for example, that on animated shows "violence will not be the central theme."

Canadian broadcasters adopted the new code for much the same reason that American broadcasters agreed last summer to put parental advisories on particularly gory programs: heavy political pressure.

Most of the shows to which Canadians object are produced in the United States, but concern here about television violence predates the recent pressure on Hollywood. Broadcasters here cite the new code, with its bans and limitations, as evidence that they are willing to go one step farther than their American counterparts and actually keep some shows off the air.

But the code does not cover cable television, which reaches more than 80 percent of Canadian households. Nor is it clear that it will prompt significant changes among broadcasters, most of whom maintain that they have always been sensitive to concerns about violence.

"We don't want to be disrespectful, but in a practical sense it doesn't change our programming," said Jay Switzer, the vice president and station manager for CITY-TV, a private broadcast station in Toronto. "We've always been very tough on gratuitous violence."

Indeed, at least in its first days, the code appears to have had only marginal impact. "Ninja Turtles" appears to be the only show that has been dropped, and the network that cancelled it, Global, insists that its violence quotient was only one factor in the decision.

"We didn't renew it, but we probably wouldn't have renewed it anyway," said Doug Hoover, Global's vice president for programming. The show, he said, was not performing well in the ratings.

A recent unscientific surf through Canadian television suggests that violent programming is less prevalent than on American networks but is certainly not absent from the air. One evening at 8, Canadian television stations were showing "North of 60," a sort of northern "Northern Exposure"; "The Simpsons"; a program about resolving differences without violence, and a French show about a mother's obsessive love for her son. All were free of violence.

At 9 p.m., viewers could watch news, "Seinfeld," a retrospective on the career of former Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, or "Kung Fu: The Legend Continues." "Kung Fu," which was on CHCH, an independent station, featured what was, if not "gratuitous" (the code does not define the term), then certainly generous amounts of violence.

In general, Canadian broadcasters seem to avoid the kind of shoot-'em-up promotional spots so popular on American networks. But in keeping with the national obsession here, there are frequent promos for hockey games, which feature plenty of head-banging and stick-flailing.

Canadian cable television shows mostly American programming. A typical cable lineup includes the four American broadcast networks -- ABC, NBC, CBS, and Fox -- plus PBS, CNN, Arts & Entertainment, TBS, and the Family Channel. When these channels are added in, Canadian television starts to look a lot like American television, violence and all.

Cable operators here argue that the new code should not apply to them because they are legally prohibited from altering the programs they receive. But broadcasters are expected to challenge this view in the months ahead. "The cable companies say they can't do it," said Michael McCabe, the president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters. "We say they can."

Television violence might not seem an obvious political issue in Canada, where the murder rate, 3 for each 100,000 inhabitants in 1992, is less than a third of that in the United States. But the issue began to make headlines about a year and a half ago when an 11-year-old girl from Quebec was raped and murdered. Although no suspect was ever caught, making a motive impossible to know, the girl's teen-age sister, Virginie Lariviere, blamed television violence for the crime and started a petition drive urging the Canadian government to take action. More than 1 million Canadians signed on.

AC holds its own against rap, grunge

By Stephen Holden
N.Y. Times News Service

The twin-pronged assaults of grunge and hip-hop may have made significant commercial inroads in the pop marketplace in 1993, but in the final tally of the year's best-selling records, adult contemporary music more than held its own.

In Billboard's annual listing of the year's best-selling albums, the soundtrack for "The Bodyguard" ranked first, followed by the soprano saxophonist Kenny G's soothing pop-jazz record, "Breathless." "The Bodyguard," which featured Whitney Houston's megahit "I Will Always Love You," sold more than 10 million copies in the United States, twice as many as "Breathless." Both albums were released by Arista, which sold more records in 1993 than any other label, according to the magazine.

Arista's success, which was also spurred by the multi-million-record sales of two country acts — Brooks and Dunn, and Alan Jackson — was all the more spectacular considering that last year the label placed 13th in Billboard's annual listing.

Country music continued its steady gain in percentage of the pop marketplace. Among the year's 15 best-selling artists, one-third — Garth Brooks (No. 1), Billy Ray Cyrus, Reba McEntire, Brooks and Dunn, and George Strait — were country acts. The remaining 10 represented a cross-section of pop, rock, soul and hip-hop.

It was the second year in a row that Brooks finished first in the list of best-selling artists. His achievement was all the more stunning in that his records are so infrequently heard on urban radio stations. Ms. Houston would probably have placed first on the list but for the fact that "The Bodyguard," which included music by several other artists, was a soundtrack rather than a Whitney Houston album.

Following is a list of the year's best-selling artists, albums and singles as reported by Billboard. Two albums on the list, Cyrus' "Some Gave All" and Pearl Jam's "Ten," made the top 15 two years running, an indication of the extended commercial life span of a hit album once it catches on. Pearl Jam, the only act with two albums in the top 15, is currently the most popular rock band in the country. Sales of its two albums are approaching the 10 million mark.

These are the top artists (combined albums and singles):

1. Garth Brooks; 2. Kenny G; 3. Pearl Jam; 4. Eric Clapton; 5. Billy Ray Cyrus; 6. Janet Jackson; 7. Michael Bolton; 8. Dr. Dre; 9. Spin Doctors; 10. Reba McEntire; 11. Brooks and Dunn; 12. George Strait; 13. U2; 14. SWV; 15. Sade.

These are the top albums (and their labels):

1. "The Bodyguard" soundtrack (Arista)
2. "Breathless," by Kenny G (Arista)
3. Unplugged, Eric Clapton (Duck/Reprise)
4. "Janet," by Janet Jackson (Virgin)
5. "Some Gave All," by Billy Ray Cyrus (Mercury)
6. "The Chronic," by Dr. Dre (Death Row/Interscope)
7. "Pocket Full of Kryptonite," by the Spin Doctors (Epic)
8. "Ten," by Pearl Jam (Epic)
9. "The Chase," by Garth Brooks (Liberty)
10. "Core," by the Stone Temple Pilots (Atlantic)

INCIDENT: Morgan recalls leaner days

(From 1C)

"The Incident." That was followed the next year by "Against Her Will: an Incident in Baltimore."

The veteran actors — sharing salads, cappuccino ice cream and a window table at a Beverly Hills tennis club — look as if friendship has emerged from their collaboration.

"I love this guy," says Morgan. "Well, I'm very fond of him," he adds, amending his remark with a smile.

"I wouldn't go to dinner without him," Matthau says, referring to their daily evening meals while filming "Incident" in Vancouver. "He's the only one I can hear."

Matthau, 73, and Morgan, 78, play off each other easily, trading memories and wisecracks.

"We had a director who understands the needs of geriatric personnel," Matthau says of "Incident" director Delbert Mann, also an industry veteran who worked with Matthau in a 1952 production of "Othello."

What needs?

Matthau: 'You gotta have a toilet nearby."

Morgan: "Air tank."

Matthau: "It can't be too hot, too cold. Got to have plenty of orange juice around."

Morgan: "Young girls. Walter likes young girls."

"I'm a naughty talker," Matthau says, demurring. "No action. Even when I was young, no action."

Then he continues. A seasoned professional like Mann "says 'How do you feel?' once in a while. And he has the intelligence to know when the take is good."

"Sometimes even the first take," says Morgan.

"There are some directors who cannot believe it can be any good because they don't understand what they're doing unless they do 25 takes," Matthau concludes.

Co-starring in "Incident" is Stephanie Zimbalist. She plays Judge Bell's estranged, unmarried daughter Lily, mother of a teen-age son (Nick Stahl of "The Man Without a Face"). The return of the boy's long-absent father triggers violence.

Matthau and Morgan have high praise for their co-stars, including the young Stahl. "The boy was very good," says Morgan. "He was like a grown-up to work with, the instincts were all right on."

The new generation of actors, in general, is treated less kindly.

"They no longer have any respect or regard or talent for speech," says Matthau. "As a matter of fact, the clearer you speak the less chance you have of getting a job."

He launches into an imitation of a mumbling thespian, one that sounds suspiciously like Marlon Brando.

"It started with Brando," confirms Morgan.

"No one trains for the stage anymore," Matthau says. "They just train to know how to see an agent."

SHADOWLANDS: Hopkins the magnetic center of film

(From 1C)

his scholarly writings, he has won an international set of followers among children with his best-selling, "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe."

Life is comfortable for "Jack" Lewis. A confirmed bachelor, he shares a small, rustic house with his brother, Warnie (a lovely performance by Edward Hardwicke), who drinks a bit but provides the warm stability necessary for Lewis' success.

These two brothers clearly are set in their ways.

And then one day, Joy Gresham arrives. As portrayed by Winger, she is a quintessentially American writer with a harsh East Coast accent and a forthrightness that stuns the circumspect Lewis. Gresham is a fan of Lewis' writing as is her 8-year-old son, and she has asked to come and visit while in England. In a move totally out of character, Lewis invites her to his home.

Struggling with a failed marriage and a static writing career, Joy seems to be Jack's polar opposite. But a friendship begins. That's all it is for quite some time, although we, the audience, are aware it will become more than that.

Despite its two hour and 10 minute running time, the "Shadowlands" screenplay by William Nicholson has a feeling of unhurried ease as it develops the relationship which draws Jack out of his comfortable cocoon into unexpected love and ultimately into tragedy.

Hopkins, as the magnetic center of this film, adds another memorable character to his impressive repertoire. His Jack Lewis is charming, touching and, yes, even sexy. A far cry from the monstrous Hannibal Lecter of "Silence of the Lambs" or the restrained Stevens of "The Remains of the Day."

"Shadowlands" was produced by Attenborough and is being released by Savoy Pictures. Children might find it boring. But it is a romantic and touching film with no overt sex scenes, no violence and not even any bad words. Amazing.

ICE: Stay tuned, the show will go on

(From 1C)

The next night, NBC's "Now" broke details of a Kerrigan hit allegedly cooked up by associates of Harding, notably her elephantine bodyguard (casting tip: John Candy).

"If it's true, you couldn't make up a story like this," said correspondent Bill Lagattuta on CBS' "Eye to Eye" the night after that.

Then last Sunday, "60 Minutes" aired excerpts from an eight-year-old film portrait of Harding. It was made as a Yale senior project by Sandra Luckow, a native of Portland, Ore., who as a youngster, like Harding, took skating lessons from Diane Rawlinson, now Harding's coach.

Luckow, now a New York-based filmmaker who herself teaches skating at Manhattan's Central Park rink, said she had never before sought an audience for this early work.

"But with all the negative publicity about Tonya Harding, I wanted people to see the human being behind the story," she said.

Surely no one who saw that footage on "60 Minutes" could have failed to ache for the plucky young skater, then 15 and already troubled. Perhaps the most revealing moments were spent with Harding's mother, a picture of addled rage who chose to be interviewed with a parrot on her shoulder (casting tip: Ann-Margret, with an Emmy guaranteed).

Then on Wednesday, the day Harding's ex-husband was arrested, "Now" aired an update. "Even though she hasn't been charged in the Kerrigan plot," said correspondent Chris Hansen, "she's been tainted."

Kerrigan, by contrast, seems purer by the day. She's America's Sweetheart (even as she knocks a hockey player out of her path in a Campbell's soup commercial that, in the aftermath of the assault against her, no longer seems funny). And with her price tag for product endorsements soaring — by one estimate, fivefold since the attack — a gold medal might be, financially, only gilding the lily.

Meanwhile, Harding, who has been brash enough to speak longingly of "dollar signs" and her own dreams of endorsements, will get zilch, experts agree.

On "Dateline NBC" this week, Olympic skater JoJo Starbuck spoke in Harding's behalf, reminding viewers that she is innocent until proven guilty.

Save your breath. It's TV, where perception is all.

Tonya Harding already has been cast as the loser in this real-life miniseries. Suspense, and plenty of it, lies in how much she loses, and how much Nancy Kerrigan wins.

Stay tuned. The show must go on.

TRIO: Appealing debut deserves recognition

(From 1C)

the most popular Dallas-based country bands, and Lege is a gifted folk singer who fronts the Dallas-based bluegrass band, Red Oak.

The idea to record the collaborative album was conceived at an impromptu get-together at a Christmas concert in Dallas. The trio conducted its final rehearsal for "Winter Wonderland" in the women's restroom of a Dallas music hall.

The Domestic Science Club excels at both straight up, serious efforts, as well as tunes when tongues are tightly planted in cheek.

Hickman's knack for writing lyrics laden with innuendo come through on "Sweet Tooth" and "Kayaking," which could play on Broadway with its show-tune stylings and melodic build-up. The album's bright spot, "Kayaking" is not your run of the mill let's-spend-forever-together song ("We'll grow old together/We'll have skin like leather"). And who could resist lyrics like, "I wanna go Kayaking/Gonna make you my Kayak king/Forget your kodak, your backpack, your tic-tacs, your gun rack/Nothin' could be better, I'll spell it to the letter: Give me that grand canyon bliss."

"Sweet Tooth" is an irrestible shoo-bop in which, as both performer and lyricist, Hickman turns up the sensuality.

"Peaches n' Cream," a musical cousin to "Sweet Tooth," again addresses matters of the bedroom, and, like "Sweet Tooth," uses dessert-filled double-entendre. Before Macy reveals her undying affection for her man, she decries most men as being forgettable, hot air-filled bozos with no regard for the women in their lives ("Some men are bad apples/They'll take you for a ride/They'll promise you the chapel/Then forget to make you a bride").

Although the album is at its best when it's having fun, there are serious moments to savor, as well. "Working Man" concerns a woman's lonely marriage to a man who's married to his work ("He comes home late and he rises up early/I'd give all his treasures for one day of his love."). "Tenderness Place," a knockout a cappella waltz, and another of the album's high points.

"Talk to Me" is above-average, straight-ahead pop, while "Windmill in the Wind" shifts gears to dobro-lined, contemporary folk, Nanci Griffith-style.

While not for everyone, "Domestic Science Club" will be appreciated both by feminists with a sense of humor and fans of really good music — man or woman. The album is also likely to be warmly embraced by the Griffith-style folk music lovers.

In the '80s, Linda Ronstadt, Dolly Parton and Emmylou Harris recorded "Trio." Slick production, big bucks, big names, big hits. The Domestic Science Club won't get all that. But that's not to say they don't deserve it.

For mail order information, write "Domestic Science Club" P.O. Box 595432, Dallas, Texas, 75359.

PATTERSON: None better than 'Mary' for the ambitious

(From 1C)

The Characters:

Mary vs. Murphy — While Mary was a memorable character, and the best friend anyone could ever hope for (despite the fact she gave lousy parties), Murphy is by far the funnier of the two. Edge: Murphy.

Miles Silverberg vs. Lou Grant — Lou is without equal as a leader in the newsroom. His comedic ability was always overshadowed by Ted Baxter, but Ed Asner was an above average comedic actor; Miles, on the other hand, is one of the most neurotically funny characters ever and gets a vote as the funniest character on "Murphy." This is a tough one. Edge: Lou, by a hair.

Ted Baxter vs. Frank Fontana — No contest. Ted Baxter is one of the funnniest two or three characters to have ever been on television. Edge: Ted, bigtime.

Murray Slaughter vs. Jim Dial — I can't help but think that the producers of "Murphy" pattern Jim after Dan Rather. Stiff, tries mostly invain to be humorous. But it is Jim's stiff nature that makes him the funnier of the two. Edge: Jim.

Corky Sherwood Forrest vs. Sue Ann Nivens — If the judging were based solely on names, Corky would win hands down. Betty White's career role, though, was Sue Anne, the Happy Homemaker with a fixation for sex. She provided some of the most off-color moments on "Mary," if the show could ever be accused of being blue. On the other hand, there has seldom been as ditzy a character on TV as Corky. Edge: Even.

Other supporting players:

Mary: Rhoda Morganstern, Phyllis Lindstrom, Georgette Baxter, Gordy ("Gordo") the Weatherman.

Murphy: Eldon; Murphy's endless stream of bumbling secretaries; Phil, the barkeep.

Edge: "Mary." Rhoda and Phyllis may have proved unable to carry their own shows, but as Mary's neighbors, they have few equals as supporting players.

Availability: "Murphy," when not pre-empted, can be seen once a week. Thanks to Nickelodeon, "Mary" can be seen 11 times a week. Overkill? Maybe, for some. But if anyone ever dreams of a future in TV sit-com writing, there is no better program to study than "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

Jimmy Patterson writes about radio, television and music for the Reporter-Telegram.

WILL: Nameless cast provides fresh feel man's father Jack drowns when his dogsled slips off a snow-covered bank into a river. Faced with the prospect of selling the family farm, the young Stoneman begs his mother Maggie to let him race for the $10,000 purse of the dogsled marathon.

Not only was Stoneman blessed with a warm, wonderful father unable to speak without giving sage advice, his family employs as ranchhand an Indian named Ned Dodd (August Schellenberg) who trains the young man in the rigors of night racing and who gives him a herbal salve to heal any wounds.

"Iron Will" is the sort of film that when his dad tells him to face his fears and when Ned advises him to let the Creator guide him and to listen to his dogs, you know you will hear those very same phrases pop up again later in the film. And they do.

When Stoneman arrives at the pre-race banquet in Winnepeg, he sees what he's up against: not a happy band of amateur sledders, but hardened professionals from the world's frozen Northern latitudes.

The race's sponsor, railroad magnate J.P. Harper (David Ogden Stiers), tries to shut the kid out of the competition until ambitious newspaperman Harry Kingsley (Kevin Spacey), who sees the chance to manufacture a reader-grabbing hero, publically agrees to back him.

While the journalists and Harper's wealthy friends follow the race in a cozy train, Stoneman and his competitors mush on through mountain passes, treacherous lakes and rivers and severe cold.

Dog attacks, perils of sub-freezing temperatures, dogsled accidents — all convey the race's violent hazards without overt gore.

Armed only with an indominable spirit — and, of course, his dad's lead sleddog Gus and the Indian medicine — Stoneman more than holds his own.

By following Kingsley's efforts to pump up Stoneman into a new American hero, the makers of "Iron Will" subtly do that with their audience. At the film's end, it's easy to believe that Stoneman is one of the great American heroes — even though it's likely that before "Iron Will," sledder Hartman and his exploit 77 years ago had been buried in history.

With no big names in the cast, "Iron Will" has a freshness that allows viewers to accept its story at face value.

Much of that is due to Astin, whose rawbone innocence quickly puts the audience on his side. He has an open, youthful face that carries its own charm, much like Michael J. Fox without the smart-aleck wit.

There's good support, too, from the character actors supporting him, particularly Spacey as the reporter with slowly melting cynicism and George Geddes as the taunting, brutal Swede racer Borg Guillarson.

First-time director Charles Haid ("Hill Street Blues"" Andy Renko) turns in a credible job.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 22, 1994

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A combination of hard work and good luck will take you almost anywhere you want to go. Do not take chances with someone or something that means the world to you. An unusual investment opportunity holds great promise. A change of lifestyle or residence will make this coming summer one of the best you have ever had. Stick close to home throughout the fall. A legal matter will be settled before the winter holidays!

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Piper Laurie, rapper Jazzy Jeff, actress Linda Blair, pioneer filmmaker D.W. Griffith.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): An excellent day for shopping or getting together with a special pal. Phone ahead before dropping by to visit someone. A generation gap is not as difficult to bridge as you think.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may not like the way things are going. Remember your good intentions and redouble your efforts! Be careful not to hurt the feelings of someone who cares deeply for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Social contacts are the key to new business and romantic opportunities. You instinctively know how to get your ideas across. Go for it! Put your cards on the table when talking with prominent people.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Get several estimates before authorizing home repairs. Despite a recent disappointment, you are eager to get a relationship back on an even keel. Show loved ones how much you care. Avoid nagging.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You could come up with a fantastic idea for improving your business prospects. Jot it down, then work out the details. Your instincts will tell you the best way to handle a new relationship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A desire to change careers could lead you to a more adventurous and fulfilling life. Spending quality time with a parent can heal old wounds. A friend from your past reappears. Be hospitable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your efforts to improve your community could tempt people to treat you like a celebrity. Influential movers and shakers accept you into their ranks. Get together with good friends this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be patient if someone acts overly demanding. Age or illness could be making this person behave out of character. Show your tender, loving side. Every caregiver needs an occasional respite.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Carefully weigh all of your options before making a final decision. Move ahead only after reasonable forethought. A relative who has suffered a recent setback needs special encouragement.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A busy schedule suits you fine this weekend. Pursue romance without turning your back on family commitments. A shopping trip yields fine bargains. Find out more about what is happening in your community.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Goals are won through teamwork. Let a relative's criticism roll off your back. Only time will prove which of you is correct! A longtime romance has its rewards. Avoid rocking the boat.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Match 20): Curb a tendency to complain about your health. No one wants to hear about every little ailment. Treasure the past, but live in the present. Long-distance travel is best postponed. Write letters.

TODAY'S CHILDREN: More than any other sign in the Zodiac, Aquarians are interested in what makes other people tick. Sympathetic and nonjudgmental, they will find themselves the repository of many confidences. They know how to keep a secret and will never betray a friend.

Singer Billy Joel gets sick of his own 'greatest hits'

ALBANY, N.Y. — Add one more name to the list of people who are sick of Billy Joel's greatest hits: Billy Joel.

Billy Joel stops performing some of his most popular tunes.

Joel said he has stopped performing some of his most popular tunes because, frankly, he's tired of them.

"I don't do 'Just the Way You Are,' " Joel said Thursday during a concert stop in Albany. "It's a well-written song, but playing it makes me feel like I'm in a wedding band or in a cocktail lounge. There is something hackneyed about it."

Same goes for "Tell Her About It," which Joel compared to "something Tony Orlando and Dawn would have done."

And don't tell model Christie Brinkley, Joel's wife, but "Uptown Girl" has been at least temporarily retired from his repertoire as well. It may come back, "although I may have to be castrated to hit the notes again," Joel said.

So what song is Joel performing these days? Try "Purple Haze." Joel strapped on a guitar to play the Jimi Hendrix song at his Albany concert.

"Hendrix was one of my idols," he said. "People may not understand it — how can a piano player idolize Jimi Hendrix? — but I did."

TOPEKA, Kan. — Sen. Bob Dole would love to do "Saturday Night Live." As long as he wouldn't have to do Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, too.

The Senate minority leader said he can't spare the four days needed to rehearse the NBC show.

"You've got to work every day, and rehearse to know what you're doing, which is normally not a requirement in our job. And then on Saturday you have to do three programs . . . one and then you do a dress rehearsal and then you do the real thing," Dole said.

Dole said he has told "SNL" producer Lorne Michaels that he would be willing to make a cameo appearance, but Michaels is angling to get Dole as a guest host.

In either case, Dole said he'd have to know what kind of skits were planned before he accepted.

"I don't want to get on some program with some off-color (material)," he said.

LOS ANGELES — Tom and Roseanne Arnold have donated $10,000 to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund to help earthquake victims.

"Roseanne and I are deeply concerned about those who were affected by the earthquake, and hope that this donation will help the American Red Cross to continue their efforts to rebuild our community," Arnold said.

Donations to the fund are used to meet the immediate needs of victims of Monday's Northridge quake, providing shelter, food, communications, medical supplies and transportation.

ROCHESTER, Mich. — If America's morality is indeed declining, who should know better than a syndicated talk show host?

"No consequences, that's what's wrong with America," Montel Williams told 1,000 people Thursday at Oakland University. "The decline in morality began when religion was regulated out of the classroom. . . . We need a sense of spirituality again."

Williams said patriotism, family and hard work hold the keys to improving the nation.

"When there's something wrong, I want to fix it," he said. Pointing toward the audience, he added, "Some of the problem is you."

Williams strode through the aisles of the hall and stayed off the stage. At one point, he grabbed a student in the audience and held an imaginary gun to his head.

"I hope to make you angry. I hope to make you do something," he told his audience. "We don't have a lot of time."

NEW YORK — David Letterman's Top 10 list of favorite co-workers has a new entry at No. 1: Phyllis McQuillan!

"Late Show" bandleader Paul Shaffer may not like the news, but where was he when Dave came up short for the $1.50 toll on the Henry Hudson Bridge? McQuillan, a CBS Radio employee taking the same route to work, came up with the cash Thursday to get Letterman through the toll.

Letterman brought up the incident on his Thursday night show.

CBS' $14 million man was heading to work Thursday when he realized his money was in a different jacket, Letterman spokeswoman Rosemary Keenan said. This created a problem: Letterman has two tolls to pay on his way to the Ed Sullivan Theater.

After filling out some paperwork, Dave cleared the first 25-cent toll. At the second booth, he was asked to turn over his license and registration because he didn't have the $1.50 toll.

Distributorships Now Available

PART-TIME INCOME OPPORTUNITY

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has early morning routes which need to be filled with dependable individuals with reliable transportation. Often asked questions:

➥ Is it worthwhile for adults also?

YES! 95% of our Distributors ARE adults! Morning Routes are attractive for:

★ ADULTS who have fulltime jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job!
★ MOTHERS who can't justify a small job AND daycare, because as a Distributor, you do not need daycare!
★ COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
★ SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added retirement income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends!

➥ How much money can I make as a Distributor?

Depending on the size of the route(s), from $350 to $800 monthly, in some cases...even more!

➥ OK...but how long does it take?

The actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday-Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, depending on the size of the route(s). Also some time is needed each month to collect from subscribers. Many Distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in the subscribers papers and having payments mailed to them. Some collecting in person will be necessary though, particularly on some routes more than others.

➥ When do the papers have to be delivered by?

Papers must be on the yards by 6 am Monday-Friday, and 7 am on weekened mornings.

➥ Do I ever get a day off?

The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, most Distributors do take days off by finding a friend, family members, or another Distributor to substitute for them!

➥ What else?

An initial $100 refundable deposit is required.
