Dodson Farmer Has Good Grass Yield

W. E. Patterson, who lives on his farm 10 1/2 miles east of Wellington has found that weeping love grass can be a big crop even if it is planted on just 14 acres.

Mr. Patterson recently harvested his 14 acre patch and the yield for this dry year was about 500 pounds for the entire patch. This was an average of about 39 pounds per acre, which is good. Weeping love is considered one of the good money crops by many of the grassmen who raise it. From his own experience it is as good

Harold Drummond To Midland

Harold Drummond, who recently sold the equipment of his paint and body shop to J. M. Brown, has accepted a place as appraiser for the Travelers Insurance Company at Midland and he and his family moved there this week.

Paul Starr has been harvesting his grass but the amount of yield has not been determined.

"Mr. Patterson plans to have some soil analysis test run on the soil," Lynn Courtney, Soil Conservation Service technician said. "With this analysis we will be able to tell him what kind of fertilizers will be needed to help increase his production," Courtney stated.

Mrs. Stingel Tells of Alaskan Volcano Eruption

What's it like to be near an erupting volcano?

Mrs. K. C. Stingel, who left here the last of May to return to her home at Anchorage, Alaska, near which three volcanoes erupted July 9, says that the volcanic ash which fell on everything for hours following reminded her of a Texas dust storm.

She and her two daughters, Wilma and Ruth, spent last school term here.

A letter describing the eruption, along with the front page of the Anchorage Daily News, every story devoted to the volcanoes, was received by her sister-in-law and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Stingel here early this week. The volcanoes erupted "with a fury unparalleled since Katmai explosion of 1912," the News said. Smoke and volcanic ash billowed to a height of 40,000 feet similar in form to atomic blasts.

Mrs. Stingel describes how it feels to experience pitch darkness in the middle of the day. The eruptions came at about 6:00 a.m. "As you can see when you read the enclosed clipping, we really had a little excitement here yesterday," she wrote. "I haven't

His health had been failing for the past 18 months, and since June 9 he had been under the care of a heart specialist in Dallas. His death, however, came unexpectedly.

He was born September 6, 1869, in Red River County, and at the time of his death he was 83 years, 10 months and two days of age. He was the son of Mrs. J. S. Aaron of Wellington and the late Rev. He farmed in various communities of the county for many years before coming associated with his son, J. D. Aaron, in buying and selling livestock. He continued in this as long as his health permitted.

A man of quiet friendly nature, Mr. Aaron had made hundreds of friends in every station of life throughout this section. His honesty in dealings, and his knowledge of his work had brought him respect from those in every phase of business life.

Mr. Aaron had been a member of the Methodist Church since an early age.

He was married to Miss Pearl Williams here in 1914.

Drouth Relief, Cattle Still Holding Spotlight

Drouth relief continued to hold the spotlight of interest this week, while a membership drive is shaping up in the county for the United Livestock Producers Association, formed at Dalhart and aiming at price supports for cattle.

At present, the county is out of government cottonseed pellets, and it is not known definitely when the next shipment will be in, Millard Brown, secretary of the county PMA said, but applications for emergency feed are being taken at his office and he advised all stock men needing feed to come in and sign up. It will probably be a few days before information and instructions on the emergency credit program are received.

CATTLEMEN MEET

Collingsworth County was represented at the organization of the United Livestock Growers Association meeting in Dalhart Thursday, July 23, when that group was formed for the purpose of working for price supports for cattle as part of the present drouth relief program, A. F. Wischkaemper of Dozier reported.

W. R. Breeding of Abilene and John Robert Henard of Wellington were named directors of the organization to represent Collingsworth County.

A membership drive is planned for the county, and Mr. Wischkaemper said that anyone wishing to join now may contact him, Mr. Breeding or Mr. Henard.

Cattlemen from 64 towns from El Paso to Greeley, Colorado, attended the meeting. Eck Brown of Dalhart was elected president; Floyd Elliott of Dalhart, secretary; Ed Pritchard of Dalhart, vice-president from Texas; Ed Jeffries of Springer, N. M., vice president for New Mexico; F. N. Cheatum, Syracuse, Kansas, vice president from Kansas; Harold Munson of Woodward, vice president for Oklahoma; and Murry Giffin of Nunn, Colo., vice president for Colorado.

Mr. Brown, in a speech before the group, pointed out that if other commodities are going to come under price supports, it is imperative that there should be supports for cattle. If there isn't, the cattlemen will go broke. Judge Noel McDade of Clayton, N. M., blamed the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Growers Association with killing price supports in their February meeting and for ruining the cow men. Pat Hamilton of Felt, Oklahoma, another speaker, accused the packers of lobbying against price supports.

Collingsworth County cattle men will be kept informed on the progress of the organization and also on the coming membership drive, Mr. Wischkaemper said.

SEE PRESIDENT

A group of county residents, most of them actively engaged in farming or stock raising, were on hand to see President Eisenhower in his visit in Amarillo Friday.

Among this group were W. R. Breeding, president of the county Farm Bureau, Judge Luther Gribble, Bess Owen, Paul Starr, Zook Thomas, Andy Bell, Jess Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wischkaemper Sr., Oran Starkey, Mrs. Henry Wischkaemper, Carl Wischkaemper and others.

Comments of a few of these follow:

"I'm glad I live in a country that has a president and governor with as much foresight and interest as was shown in Amarillo. Everything possible is being studied and a solution will be forthcoming." —W. R. Breeding.

"Our President came to the Panhandle for one purpose only and that was to do all in his power and reason to relieve our disaster. He impressed me as one who was willing to act at once on some specific plan. He seemed disappointed because our governors and senators had not come up with a unified plan to put into operation." —Temple Slay.

"He did a splendid job and he presented himself in a very impressive way. He meant business." —Zook Thomas.

"He showed all of us that he was really interested in the farmers and ranchers of the Southwest. By his actions he left the definite impression that he planned immediate action." —Oran Starkey.

"It was a good speech and to the point. In fact, it was one of the best speeches that was made at the conference. Governor Dan Thornton of Colorado made a good speech and was very outstanding in my mind." —A. Y. Bell.

"I was impressed by this person who left the impression that he had a job to do and it was for the benefit of all the people. He was very sincere and interested in the welfare of the people of the United States as a whole." —Judge Luther Gribble.

Leading Evangelist to Do Preaching

Nazarene Church Opens Ten-Day Revival Here

Rev. John A. McNatt, a seasoned evangelist in the Nazarene Church, is conducting a series of revival services at the local Nazarene church which began Wednesday night, July 15, and will conclude with the services on Sunday night, July 26. Accompanying Rev. McNatt is two young musicians, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Jantz. They sing and play the old time gospel hymns that everybody will love, Rev. Sam Sparks, local pastor, said.

Two services will be held daily. The morning service will begin at 10:00 a.m., while the evening worship will begin at 8:00 p.m., Rev. Sparks stated.

"Rev. McNatt has been one of our denominations leading evangelists and is widely known throughout the nation. From 1945 to 1953 Rev. McNatt was superintendent of the Idaho-Oregon District. A native of Tennessee, he began his religious service as an evangelist in 1923. The next year he was called to the pastorate of the church at Iberia, Missouri, and continued there four years until re-entering evangelism in 1929. For the next sixteen years he traveled extensively, holding campaigns through the United States," Rev. Sparks continued.

"During World War II, he served as a first lieutenant in the Rainbow Division of the Infantry under Gen. Douglas MacArthur. "His sermons will inspire you and each of you will get a blessing out of the service," the local pastor said.

"Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Jantz, of Independence, Kansas, are evangelistic singers and musicians, bringing the message of Christ through the medium of instrument and voice. Mr. Jantz plays the trumpet, piano, accordion, and vibra harp. Included with their singing is that of their daughter, Carolyn, who is six years old. They will certainly bring a blessing to your heart when you hear them," Rev. Sparks declared.

Everyone is cordially invited to be in one or more of these services.

GI Bill for Veterans Now Nine Years Old

The GI Bill for World War II veterans was nine years old Monday, June 22, 1953. One of its benefits is still in full force, another is approaching the end, and a third has long since faded into history.

The Act, signed into law during the height of the war on June 22, 1944, in addition to other provisions furnished three major readjustment aids to veterans in their efforts to get back into the swing of civilian living.

One was a program of guaranteed loans for homes, farms and businesses; another, education and training at Government expense, and the third, readjustment allowances for periods of unemployment.

The GI loan program still is in effect, and has four more years to run. It comes to an end for nearly all World War II veterans on July 25, 1957.

So far, the Veterans Administration said, some 3,300,000 veterans have obtained GI loans for homes, with VA guaranteeing or insuring about half the month.

Ninety percent of the loans have gone to veterans who wanted to buy or build homes. The remainder have been for farms and businesses.

Veterans have turned out to be excellent loan risks, VA said.

More than 500,000 loans already have been paid in full. And only eight-tenths of one percent of all loans were defaulted to the extent that VA has had to make good the guaranteed portions to the lender.

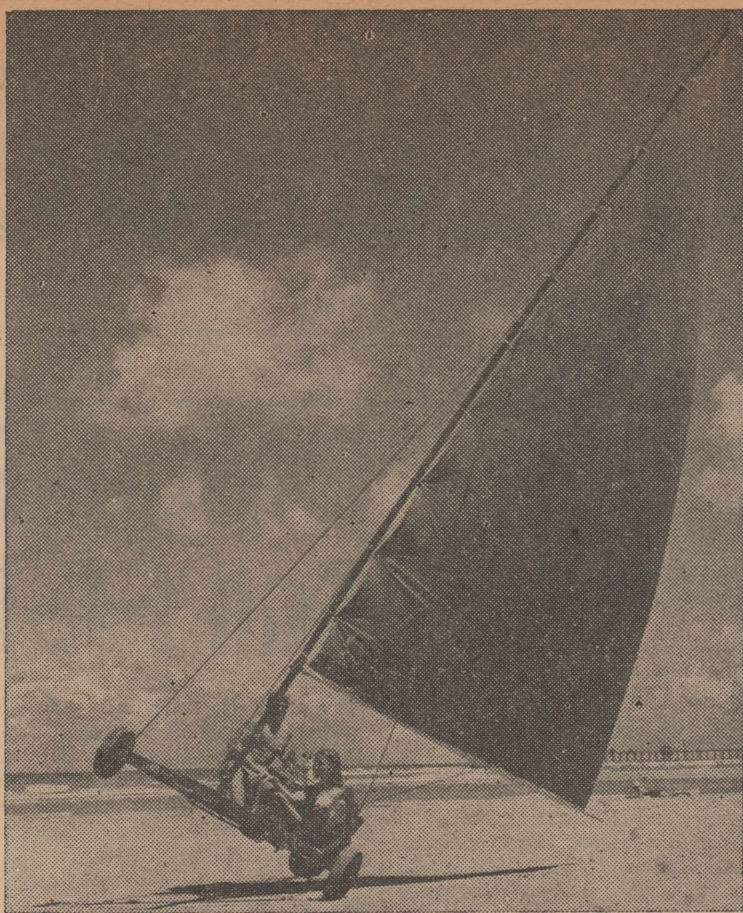

The GI Bill education and training program reached its cut-off point for most World War II veterans on July 25, 1951. For the most part, the only World War II veterans now in training are those who started before the cut-off date and who have remained in training since, except for interruptions beyond their control.

During the nine years of the program, a total of 7,800,000 servicemen and women — more than half of all who served in World War II — have taken some form of training under the GI Bill. All together, they spent a total of 140,000,000 months in the classroom, at the training bench and on the farm, or an average of about 18 months of training per veteran.

Types of training ranged from 339,000 veterans who were enabled to finish grade school and high school to 2,200,000 who attended college; from 1,400,000 who trained on-the-job to nearly 700,000 who trained on-the-farm; from 361,000 who went to business school to 2,250,000 who took up trades in vocational schools. And an additional 750,000 trained in correspondence schools.

The end of the World War II GI training program comes for nearly all veterans on July 25, 1956.

The third major GI Bill benefit — readjustment allowances for unemployment and self-employment.

DAYTONA BEACH, FLA.—It takes skill to handle this sand saller. The hard packed white beach at Daytona is the ideal spot for this exciting summer vacation sport.

ment — passed out of the picture for all but a handful of veterans in July, 1949.

Under the program, about 9,000,000 veterans drew readjustment allowances that totaled $3.2 billion for unemployment and $600,000,000 for self-employment.

Although most veterans were eligible for one full year of the allowances, only one in ten exhausted his rights to the benefit. The average veteran, VA found, went to work after being on the rolls for only a month and a half.

EDITORIAL COMMENT — THE WELLINGTON LEADER

Drouth Relief Merits Praise

The President's hurried trip to the seven-Governor conference and to meet representatives of the cattle industry in the drouth area was not remedial in itself. While he was in Amarillo the two houses of Congress were rapidly eliminating differences between their relief bills and reaching agreement on the conference report. Relief would be accomplished in Washington whether the boss went to Amarillo or not. But the flying visit is unquestionably a morale builder. The whole region feels better for the personal Eisenhower assurance that its welfare is a matter of acute Washington interest.

We do not "touch" for the "King's Evil" in a democracy but we respond very much the same way to official notice. "King's Evil" sufferers experienced the psychology of cure by mental therapy. So do we.

Of course the Eisenhower visit was much more than mere psychology. It resulted in a clear understanding with the seven Governors on the area of federal and state help for the proposed program.

The conference committee report provides for direct loan relief which will be very helpful in Texas where a constitutional bor prevents the state from taking a similar recourse.

Whether criticism that the bill is not strong enough is justified must wait on events. The provisions embody the thinking of Congress that is economy minded instead of sold on the familiar "go the whole hog" of the New Dealers. It is sound in its effort to put the government into cattle relief not the cattle business. And that is a great deal.

This ought to be said: Politicians are human. There has been a good deal of backing and filling to get political areas. But in the final analysis, there have been no political lines drawn in supplying aid. Democrats and Republicans alike have pitched in to get the emergency job done and there has been no delay about it. Members of the Texas delegation, pro and anti-administration alike, have done a notable spearheading job to help their own state and the others affected. They all merit praise for that.

Paul's Letter on Christian Living

The great Apostle Paul was not perfect. He was, as every man is in many respects, the child of his age.

But one of the most remarkable things about Paul was the fact that he went far beyond his age. He went so far beyond his own time and place that much of what he wrote is as applicable to problems of today as it was almost two thousand years ago. In many ways, much of Paul's writing seems to have been written in our own age.

What is more, the writings of Paul seem to reflect in greatness and purity exactly the same "simplicity that is in Christ."

To those who would disparage Paul and say that he is over-rated, it is suggested that they concentrate on the positive, practical teachings of the man in relation to Christian living. See them as the interpretation of Jesus as the Master of character and conduct.

The lesson from Ephesians contains one of the dramatic passages in which Paul describes the fruits of the spirit and the true nature of Christian life.

He draws a picture of the Christian soldier, equipped with the armor of God. He is a steadfast soldier who is full of courage and fortified by prayer.

Also, he gives us a picture of the Christian as a member of a group in which each part has its functions. Where all parts are working together for the glorifying of the body. This is an ideal description of society. A goal that men can strive for.

But the Christian simplicity of Paul finds its climax in his eulogy of love.

The man who wrote these words and lived the Gospel which he preached will be great forever. He will be great as a man in the story of history.

But he will also be great as a Christian in the wider scope of God's kingdom itself.

Such a man was Paul.

Based upon 1950 Census returns, the Bureau of Census estimates U. S. population at 154,853,000, including armed forces overseas.

As of July 1951, there was a total of 41,193 post offices in the U. S. and its possession.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

Melvin Young, advertising manager of the Hereford Brand, is here this week. He has along with him his wife and his young daughter, Penny, age two. She has proved to be too much for my son Henry, who sprained his ankle trying to show her what an athlete he was. He should learn about women. Little two-year-old Penny is the lass who was discovered leading a fully saddled cow horse down the street to her father's home in Hereford not long ago. All she had done was go up to a neighbor's house, untie the horse, and was sedately leading it down the street when her mother saw her through the window.

Several young business men of Wellington, including an editor, are allowing their waistlines to expand far beyond their chests.

Perhaps we can solve this beef problem. It seems that Dictator Juan Peron has rivaled the late Joseph Stalin in providing for the welfare of his people. There was at one time such an abundance of beef in Argentina that they did not know what to do about it. They ate it for breakfast, dinner and supper, or breakfast, luncheon and dinner, whichever way you want to put it; but they ate beef all the time and they exported beef to other lands. But Juan and his late Eva provided such a good thing for the people that now ARGENTINA HAS A BEEF-LESS FRIDAY. This brings up a question. Why can't we sell some of our surplus cattle to Argentina?

Cattlemen who ask for price supports should realize that support means control.

Dr. Dale Watkins says that Wellington has an excellent chance to secure a National Guard Armory. The need is for four acres of land located on a paved highway accessible to electric lights and gas. Such an endeavor will bring 156 enlisted men and 7 officers to the armory. It is something for the Chamber of Commerce to study and promote. We hope to have a detailed story on this next week.

Next week is National Farm Safety week. Considering the number of broken bones, torn ligaments, etc., that I have suffered in recent years, and all due to my own carelessness, I suppose that I am a fine one to be cautioning the people about safety; but I will put in a word. According to the National Safety Council more deaths occur in agricultural work than in any other seven major industrial groups.

Somebody from Wellington must be combining wheat in Palmer, Nebraska. They have sent me a whole bunch of copies of the newspaper of that metropolis. Reminds me of the looks of The Leader when Thomas Durham was the editor.

Dollar Day will be held in Wellington again on Friday, July 31. Enough merchants have signified that they want it continued to make it a certainty. It might be a good idea to start making up a list of names early. One merchant told us that he thought of a dozen more good bargains he would like to have advertised; but the paper was already printed. A list made in advance will prevent this from happening.

We get a lot of papers here at the office from all parts of Texas. Nearly every one of them mentions water rationing. Wellington is very fortunate in this respect.

Wow, would I hate to be those seamen who smuggled a girl in Navy uniform aboard the cruiser Los Angeles.

Our heartfelt thanks to all who extended comforting sympathy and help in our recent sorrow. For the beautiful service, floral offerings and other kindness, we are deeply grateful. We want especially to thank Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Green for thoughtfulness through the years.

We are indeed grateful for the many kindnesses shown us at the death of our husband, grandfather and brother, Calvin Aaron. Each word of sympathy and each act of thoughtfulness to help us in our grief has brought consolation in our sadness.

The family of Mrs. Ed C. Smith

We want to take this opportunity to thank each of you for the many kindnesses shown to us during our hour of grief through the passing of our husband and father, J. W. Langford.

It is a consolation to us to know that our faithful friends rallied around our side. May God bless each of you in the days that lie ahead.

THANKS FRIENDS

It has been a real pleasure to work with you and serve you during the years I have lived in Wellington. It is with sincere regret that my family and I are moving from here.

I have sold my paint and body shop equipment to J. M. Brown and he will operate the business in the same fine manner that you have always known. You are familiar with the high quality of work he did during the five years he was with my shop and he is fully qualified in this line.

I solicit for him the same fine patronage which you gave me in my business.

It stands to reason...

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

Big truck users, small truck users, all truck users buy more Chevrolet trucks than any other make. It stands to reason Chevrolet trucks must offer more of what you want.

When you stop to think about it, the best proof of outstanding value in any product is continued public preference. That's the way it is with Chevrolet trucks. They're the top selling trucks in America today . . . for the twelfth straight production year.

This is a mighty important fact to consider before you buy your next truck. You'll also want to consider that, while Chevrolet trucks give you more features you want, it's the lowest-priced truck line of all! Come in and talk it over with us.

MORE CHEVROLET TRUCKS IN USE THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

Miss Sanders and Bill Keller Wed in Georgia

The marriage of Miss Ann Sanders of La Grange, Ga., and Bill Keller of Amarillo, formerly of Wellington, was solemnized recently at the Ida Cason Callaway Memorial Chapel of the First Baptist Church in LaGrange.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Sanders of La Grange and Mrs. R. E. Petrick of Amarillo, and the late George Keller.

For the ceremony, the couple stood before an arrangement of palms and rosettes of Oregon fern over which a span of white tapers burned. Centering the greenery was an arrangement of daisies and gladioli. Bows of white satin tied the candelabra and marked the pews reserved for members of the families. The Rev. H. F. Lawhorn, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, officiated.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Alvin S. Davis, organist, and Miss Virginia Langford, vocalist.

Mr. Sanders gave his daughter in marriage. Her petite loveliness was accented by her gown of white nylon net, fashioned ballerina length with a fitted bodice that was trimmed with Chantilly lace to form a bolero effect. Chantilly lace medallions accented the skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught to her hair with a cap of matching lace, finished on either side with a cluster of orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf bouquet of bride's roses, valley lilies and stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

JULY 19 THROUGH 26 IS SAFETY WEEK

Farm Safety Week, endorsed by every farm group, has our approval, too! We want our customers and friends to live and well . . . So here are ten Farm Safety practices that will help reduce the farm accidents toll, if only they are adopted and followed:

1. KEEP MACHINES IN GOOD REPAIR: Keep all guards and safety devices in place. Stop machines before unclogging, oiling, and adjusting them. Don't wear floppy clothes near moving machinery.
2. OPERATE TRACTORS SAFELY: Start smoothly; turn corners slowly. Avoid ditches and soft ground. Always hitch to the drawbar.
3. USE THE RIGHT TOOLS FOR THE JOB: Make sure your tools are in a good safe condition. Keep them in a safe place.
4. WATCH YOUR STEP TO PREVENT FALLS: Keep ladders and steps in good repair, with no loose boards or rungs. Make sure ladders are accessible in case of emergency.
5. SPEAK TO ANIMALS WHEN APPROACHING THEM: Keep them calm by acting selfassured YOURSELF. Keep bulls in a safe bull pen.
6. KNOW AND OBEY ALL TRAFFIC LAWS: Follow safe driving practices. Read and heed all traffic signs.
7. BE "FIRESIGHTED": Don't smoke around the barn. Pour gasoline or kerosene outdoors to prevent the accumulation of vapors. Dry clean outdoors. Don't use kerosene to start fires. Be careful of matches.
8. BE A GOOD HOUSEKEEPER: Have a place for everything and keep everything in its place.
9. APPLY FIRST AID PROMPTLY: Even minor injuries may be dangerous if they are not treated immediately. Keep first aid kits in the house, in the barn, and on the tractor.
10. TREAT GUNS AS IF THEY WERE LOADED: Keep guns unloaded except when actually using them. Aim ONLY at targets you want to shoot.

There's this you can do—any day, all day, the year 'round.

Be careful, man and beast. Keep the place picked up. Keep a sharp eye out for the hundred and one spots on the premises that can promote danger.

Safety is a year 'round job for the whole farm family—bar none.

To help you make your own personal safety inventory, here's a set of questions you might like to answer for yourself:

- ☐ Is the farmyard safe for the kids to be playing in?
- ☐ Is my machinery and equipment in as good shape as I can get it?
- ☐ Is the house in good repair . . . and is the Missus doing her part in eliminating hazards?
- ☐ Am I being as careful as I can each day?
