WHIRLWIND

BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SYBIL THORNE, Boston society girl in the drawing card in a sensational divorce case that has the whole town talking, Sybil has petitioned for divorce from RICHARD EUSTIS, whom she married secretly, and with whom she lived only two weeks. She asks also for custody of her child, TEDDY, whom Eustis has never seen—and the right to resume her maiden name.

Her husband, philanthropist and adventurer, counters by filing suit for $100,000 against CRAIG NEWHALL, alleging alienation of Sybil's affections. Newhall, who has always loved Sybil is alleged to have been the cause of the divorce, but the suit makes a tremendous story for the newspapers, and sets society gossiping anew.

Meanwhile MRS. THORNE, Sybil's mother, enlists the sympathy of MR. CRANDON, a psycho-analyst, to whom she tells all her troubles. Craig brings the afternoon edition publishing an interview with Eustis to Sybil, who is playing among the leaves with little Teddy. As they talk matters over, a photographer approaches.

"If you click that camera, and Craig tells him, 'I'll smash it to smithereens, and every bone in your body with it.'"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XL

The photographer grinned good-naturedly. "It's all in the day's work, Mr. Newhall. It's my bread and butter, popping off celebrities and criminals and such. But the job's not worth the chance in a case like this. I should of taken you from across the street, and asked questions afterward. I'm John Dumb for sure."

He lifted his camera to the other hand, raised his hat pleasantly, and took himself off. Then he skirted around back ways, approached the house from the side, and succeeded in getting a picture that was subsequently captioned: "Thornes' Home Where 'Lovely Bride Remains' Virtual Prisoner."

Tad brought home more papers when he came to dinner, and the family council that evening was divided between wrath and moans. Sybil put her mother to bed with a sedative, and Craig mixed cocktails for medicinal purposes.

"You shouldn't have started it, Sib," complained Tad.

"She's been right all through," defended Valerie, stoutly. "And Craig, his face flushed darkly, was emphatically silent."

In the nurse, when she crept in to kiss Teddy good night, Sybil found her mother, crying softly.

"Thank God," she said, "I'm not your poor father didn't live to see this day."

The injustice of it hurt Sybil more than any of them knew. Bitterly resentful, she scorned defiance. "If they weren't blind as bats," she told herself fiercely, "if they weren't too selfish to think of anyone but themselves, they couldn't blame me so. Infatuation isn't a sin. I didn't do anything wicked, and you'd think I was a moral leper."

Fiercely she crunched and tore the newspapers and ground them on the floor beneath her heels.

"Oh, it isn't fair, it isn't fair."

Next morning there were more stories, and an entire page in the Boston Telegraph devoted to pictures. Sybil in a swimming suit, in the ocean, in a riding habit. An old photograph of Craig from the Harvard Year Book.

Richard Eustis, especially pointed for the Boston Morning Telegraph. And a picture of Valerie, sweet and lovely in her wedding gown. There were photographs of the "palatial home of the Thornes," and their summer place at Winnow.

"Oh, my God," groaned Tad. Valerie surveyed the heap of papers distastefully.

"I wouldn't look at them," she said, and pushed them away. Then the Gazette's red headlines caught her eye.

"Crandon!" she cried. "Oh, Sib, look."

Across the top in glaring headlines was meat for Gazette readers. "Sybil Thorne Psycho Analyzed," screamed the crimson type.

And below, in smaller letters, "PRIMITIVE EGO MAKES TROUBLE FOR BOSTON GIRL."

"Science Explains Emotional Unrest Of Society Women"

"Claude Crandon Contributes Searching Analysis of Mental Conflict"

Then followed the story: "Claude Crandon, Boston's foremost psycho-analyst, interviewed last evening by a reporter for the Gazette, threw new light on the sensational Sybil divorce case. Crandon, well versed in psycho-analysis, discussed at length the so-called

"Primitive Ego" of Mrs. Richard Eustis, better known as Sybil Thorne. Mrs. Eustis, according to the doctor, is the victim of her own ego.

"In order to put the case plainly before the lay mind, Dr. Crandon has prepared the following statement exclusively for readers of the Gazette."

Valerie held the paper in both her trembling hands, and read aloud in a high pitched voice, shrill words jumbled one over another, from her horrified lips.

With an oath Tad clutched the paper from her shaking fingers.

"Here, let me see it. The old—my God, I'll kill him for this Sybil! The obscene old trout."

Mrs. Thorne, before the great silver coffee service, covered like a frightened thing.

"Did he say," she quavered pitifully, "anything—anything—about—the—the about Sybil's love life?"

Tad scanned the column. "Love life?—well, I'll be—Er, certainly did. Say, Ma, how much of this stuff did you spill?"

Tad turned furiously on his mother. "Oh, Tad," she faltered, and her little hands fluttered, helplessly. "Oh, Sybil! Children, I'm so sorry I—"

"Then the little hands were still and the dim blue eyes, veiled in tears, were glazed and dreadful looking."

"Tad! Mother's ill!" Sybil flung her arms about her mother. "There, there, darling. It doesn't make a bit of difference. It's simply comical. Honestly, dear, I think it's funny. I don't mind a bit. Tad, carry mother into the drawing-room. The big red chair, Tad. And we'll give you a nice cup of good strong coffee, darling, and you'll be all right in a minute."

Tad lifted her as though she were a child, and Valerie brought pillows and a foot stool, and when they had made her comfortable they tried to make her laugh.

"Can't you see what a joke it is?" demanded Sybil. "The man never saw me in his life. He doesn't know a thing about me, really. Let me read it to you, dear. It's simply a scream."

But Mrs. Thorne waved away the lurid sheet with her little fluttering, blue-veined hands.

"Oh, please," she begged pleadingly. "That dreadful, dreadful man, what can I do?"

Tad stood on the hearth rug with his feet wide apart, and his hands plunged in his pockets. "I guess, Ma," he predicted gloomily, "you'll have to take up church-going. Ministers are a good, safe lot—though they may be a bit dull. But these quacks—gosh, Mr. you'll simply have to lay off."

Valerie drew the purple sash close about her mother-in-law's narrow shoulders.

"Poor Mother Thorne," she whispered, and kissed the soft gray hair where the part lay pink and broad.

"Tad's joking, dearest." Sybil glanced at the watch on her wrist.

"Eight-thirty!" she cried. "And court begins at nine. We'll have to hurry. Do you feel up to it, mother—or had you rather stay right here, and rest?"

"Up to it!" Mrs. Thorne put a hand on each arm of the big red chair. "My dear, I feel like a new woman. Do you know what I'm going to do?"

She raised herself to her feet and surveyed her children with quiet dignity.

"I'm going to sue that man. I don't know exactly how it can be done—but I'll see a lawyer today. There must be some law for the protection of a client or patient in confidential consultation. Maybe he is practicing illegally. There will be some way of getting at him. I'll sue him for $100,000—and attach everything he's got. He thinks I'm nothing but a neurotic, silly old woman. I'll show him, children."

Laughing, they crowded about her, to pat her shoulders and kiss her.

"These birds with the lantern and jimmy and keys. Go into cigar stores and steal what they please. They're pretty tough babies and ain't doin' right. But they pick little Toms, so at least they are bright!"

her faded cheeks.

"Get my hat, Val," she commanded briskly. "It's up on my bed dear. And hurry up or we'll all be late."

Everybody, it seemed, was in court, when they reached there. Dolly Weston rushed up and kissed Sybil effusively. The Moores came to shake hands—Jack and Mabel—quietly confident.

Mrs. West, garrulous and excited, put her arms about Sybil and pecked Mrs. Thorne. Groups of skinty women bowed when they passed. Girls with whom Sybil had gone to school reached over the backs of the courtroom benches to clasp her hand. Mrs. Grayson bowed solemnly from across the room.

There were a great many strangers and a number of intimates. Most of their casual friends had the good breeding to stay away, but there were a number of women with whom Sybil had a bowing acquaintance.

They seemed engrossed with remote objects when Sybil glanced their way. Some of them craned to look out the windows. Others were absorbed in contemplation of the throgs that crowded through the corridors to the court room door, where a court officer in a blue uniform with brass buttons refused further admittance.

Reporters at the press table asked questions of one another eagerly.

"Who's that shaking hands with her now? Mrs. Grayson? Did you see the dame with the lorgnette high-hatting her? Those are Vincent Club girls, talking with her now, this looks like the old fellows lodges of the state, which will send delegates from 291 cities."

Recent Bond Victory Gives All Pavement to Project In Texas; Nearly All Is Hardsurfaced Now.

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Oct. 17.—Recent sanction of a $1,125,000 road bond issue in Emu county will provide for paving of the last section in Texas of Federal Highway 75, extending from Winnipeg, Canada, to Galveston, in the assertion of J. P. Stephenson, chairman of the Dallas highway 75 committee.

The section provides for financing of the last mile-out gap in the highway of Texas, Stephenson said. "Now all others have been paved, but they will be hardsurfaced within 18 months."

Thousands Visit Here

Thousands of motorists from Canada and north-central states travel over the route during winter months, Stephenson stated, explaining that 1,400 miles of the 1,775 mile roadway is either paved or in condition for all year travel. It will be but a short time until the entire stretch is paved, he believes.

The Grab Bag

Who can't tell what form of musical entertainment is my name connected? Name the artists who started my concert this season.

How old is Thomas Alva Edison?

Whose last words on the scaffold were: "It is a far, far better thing that I do than I have ever done; it is a far, far better rest that I go to, than I have ever known?" In what novel did they appear?

Give the line following: "Poem he made by fools like me."

The way of the just is upright; the show must be made; the path of the just. Where does the passage appear in the Bible?

Must Pay Some Salvation Army Group Has Rule

BEAUMONT, Oct. 17.—(P)—Seekers for aims at the Beaumont Salvation Army hotel in the future will be greeted by a stern warden.
A woodward near the hotel has been acquired by the hospital and the new ruling is that for able-bodied men, one hour in the yard will be required for a bed for the night. One hour also will be required for each meal.
It is explained that this does not apply to those who are physically incapacitated, but an effort to help those who wish to help themselves and are able-bodied.

A Man's Man—That's Lyle Womack

Husband of Ruth Elder Shows World He Is Not 'Mere Husband' to Flier

Lyle Womack, above; Ruth Elder, his wife, as New York welcomed her after Atlantic non-stop attempt; and below the City of New York.

(Special Cable to Central Press and The Avalanche)
DUNEDIN, New Zealand, Oct. 17.—When the fleet of the Byrd Antarctic expedition pulls anchor at this jumping-off place and heads down to the bottom of the world, it will be just another adventure for the commander. It may turn out to be his greatest—if all goes well by July, 1930—but still, it will be but one of many achievements.
But down in the engine room of the dirigible City of New York will be an officer to whom the adventure means more than to all the rest. For the stake before him is strictly personal. It is his chance to prove that he is a man's man—and not merely a woman's husband.

He hopes to continue an untiring world that he can stand evaluation on his own merits, and he will show his wife (who has been stealing a glance at him) that he is a man's man in the family need not be on his side.

The man is Lyle Womack—hereafter known chiefly as Ruth Elder's husband. Once they were jumpy together. But the lady made a daring attempt to fly the Atlantic and came back a world heroine.
In the excitement of the return, she forgot to kiss her husband—after he had traveled all the way from Panama to New York to greet her.
It was the first step. Then came others. The lady wouldn't go back to the Canal Zone, where her husband was working. She went into vaudeville instead. And he went home—alone.
Her name was blazoned forth in headlines. He received a one-line notice in ship news.
But Womack was too big for jealousy. He was retiring during all the public demonstration for his wife. He was proud of her acclaim.
At any rate, Womack was out of the picture—until announcement came of his starting a divorce action.
He had spent more than 20 of his 36 years in the tropics. Throughout the Canal Zone he was known as a regular fellow—a he-man. But in the outside world, people smiled benignly. It got under his skin. But what could he do?
He was working at Port Cristobal, Panama, driving a baggage truck. The first of the Byrd ships came through en route to the Pacific. The lunch came in a flash. He went aboard, saw Captain Melville, found that there was an other short.

applied—and got the job. He gave up a $2,200 salary to earn the 12 cents a year that the trip will pay. But what of it? It isn't money that counts with him. It is the biggest thing in the world—a man's pride.

"The fire room is pretty hot," he says. "But it wouldn't be so bad in the Antarctic."
Not or cold, Womack is on the job—as chopper as the commander himself. The divorce action will have to rest until his return.
By that time the world may be turning new focus—and maybe Ruth Elder some day will be glad to be known as Lyle Womack's wife.

All Are to Vote
Survey of Lubbock Brings Answers
"Are you going to vote on November 6?"
This question was asked two-score Lubbock citizens yesterday. All but two said they were to cast their ballots. No other question was asked.
Some seemed to think an argument was being prompted, looking in poised expectancy for the next question, after answering. W. O. Shooley said he did not think he would vote. L. Shropshire stated he didn't know.
One member of the gentler sex, when asked, would not agree to listing her name, but she said, "I have that right and I am going to exercise it."
"I sure am," answered W. O. Crane.
"I think so," was Dr. Harry L. Bloom's answer.
"Did you say vote, or ballot?" countered Jess C. Leven.
"I'm going to try to," stated Charles F. O'Neill.
"If God let's me live until then, I will," J. S. Johnson declared.
"You bet," from W. O. Stevens.
"Sure," came from Mrs. Olive Flake and Flora Green Atchison.
"Yes," from Rev. Jack Lewis.
"Yeh," was answered by Chief of Police John Leonard.
"I guess I will," Uncle Billy Clark opined.
"Me too."

GORDON'S Stops Stomach Trouble
For eighteen years people with stomach trouble have been turning to Gordon's (named for its discoverer) as a safe and sure means of overcoming such ailments as indigestion, gas, bloating, constipation, heartburn, dyspepsia, excess acid, that "tired feeling," bad breath, sour stomach, sick headache, and nervousness, when caused by faulty digestion.
Gordon's, being an internal antiseptic, goes right to the seat of stomach and bowel troubles. It exercises a distinctly antiseptic as well as digestive effect. It stops and prevents fermentation (souring of food matter), soothes and heals the irritated or inflamed condition and quickly stimulates the stomach and bowels to their normal functions. A few doses will convince you. A large 8-ounce bottle, price $1.50—less than three cents a dose. At druggists.

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST - Baked apples, cereal, cream, scrambled eggs with fried dried beef, graham gems, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON - Cream of celery soup, croquettes, scalloped tomatoes and onions, chocolate bread pudding, grape juice.

DINNER - Veal en brochette, cauliflower in white sauce, pickled beets, green tomato pie, milk, coffee.

When a cream soup as well as a pudding made with milk is used a fruit drink can be served with good effect to children. The luncheon menu is an excellent example of this type of meal.

Veal en brochette. One pound veal, 3 sour apples, 3 onions, 4 thin slices salt pork, salt and pepper.

Choose apples and onions as near the same size as possible. Pare apples and cut in slices about 3-4 inch thick and remove cores, making rings. Peel onions and cut in slices about 1-4 inch thick. Cut meat in pieces about the same size as the apples and onions. Arrange these ingredients on skewers putting first onion, then meat and then apple, pressing close together and using two pieces of each. Sprinkle with pepper and use salt sparingly. Wrap a thin slice of salt pork around each skewer and suspend in a dripping pan. Cook 30 minutes in a hot oven and serve on a bed of hot steamed rice. One skewer is served to each person.

Beef or mutton can be used in place of veal if preferred.

How to Achieve Beauty

HABITS OF POISE AND POSTURE

I have often thought that the better part of grooming is that combination of physical and mental charm which is acquired only through good habits of poise and posture.

It is impossible for a woman to make a really pleasing appearance until she is complete mistress of herself, her body and her movements.

There never was a woman who merited secondary consideration who had not learned the beauty and good manners of complete poise.

Because of that, I am devoting today's talk entirely to the cultivation of first, good posture habits, and second, poise and relaxation.

I recommend relaxation as a first aid to beauty. It may seem contradictory to you to talk of good posture and relaxation in almost the same breath. It is a common mistake to believe that relaxation demands bad sitting position, slouched shoulders, sagging head, etc. As a matter of fact, a bad position is infinitely more trying than an erect posture.

An eminent authority said once that erect posture was correct because in this position the weight of the head and upper part of the body is supported properly without any waste of physical effort.

The first way to cultivate good posture is to inventory your own good or bad points. I believe that the greatest many women have not the faintest idea of how they look from the side view. Large abdomens and round shoulders don't always show.

Now let us take up the question of poise. I think the best way for a woman to cultivate poise is by going in for dancing lessons.

Strange as it may seem to the uninitiated, it is quite easy to learn to dance all by yourself, with no other aid but good phonograph records. No matter how out of step you may be with the universe, the day will dawn when you find your legs and your arms and your body keeping time to the rhythm of good music.

Once you have attained the beauty of rhythmic movements, you will have gone a long way towards acquiring physical poise.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton of NEA Service, Inc.

We seem to be running to statistics in divorce. Every day we are confronted by a new set of figures and an old set of reasons for dissolving the marital tie.

Has it occurred to us seriously that the same things that are accountable for failure in marriage may be responsible for failure in children?

If a woman nags her husband, is it not possible that his wife will nag at her children, and if a husband is ugly and unreasonable with his wife, is it not likely that his children will come in for their share of the same kind of treatment?

Speaking of divorces, 70 per cent of the men applying for separations in one court blamed their unhappiness on the "dispositions" of their wives.

One man said that the minute he sat down to read, his wife thought of a dozen things for him to do, and she would make him stop reading to do them, although he may have been idle for an hour before.

If that isn't a complex, I should like to know what it is. And it is very common in most of us. We don't bear to see ourselves as busy, even our children.

Take a boy who dawdles a bit on his way from school, or who bawls up the stairs, "I'm home, Mom," and shoots out the door before anyone can stop him and brags to the practice field as fast as his two legs can carry him.

He's filled the bill—he has "reported" that he is safe after school. Now he's off to satisfy his own natural craving for exercise and to delight himself if we ourselves are busy, even our children.

Do not instantly there crops up in his mother's mind that "duty" filled up that precious hour of his errands to run leaves to take.

There may be a scolding or a whipping waiting him when he comes back and one more brick is added to the wall that is going to separate her from her boy someday.

The first thing we parents must learn is a neat little maxim that seldom gets wrong: "Live and let live."

Homes built on it will be happier. And if the male parent thinks this advice applicable only to mothers, I am here to say that it is not.

Hunts for Cotton Pickers Over South Plains Proving Fruitful; Federal Bureau Aiding Farmers.

Early morning hours, mid-day and afternoon hours are witnessing not only a "hunting for ducks" but the more pressing "hunt" for cotton pickers by farmers of the South Plains. In some instances the hunt was successful, as reports are coming in that carloads of pickers, as they enter this section, are being stopped on the highways and taken to the farms where their cotton needs prompt picking.

Not near enough pickers have showed up to help so very much in alleviating the need for this prompt picking, but the news that they are on the way here from Central Texas fields, where the crop has about all been gathered, is cheerful news.

Call Being Answered

Word received yesterday from C. W. Woodman, head of the government employment bureau at Fort Worth, stated that a call to pickers from down-state has been issued by him. The call tells them to make it for Lubbock. "The Hub" of the Plains where more than 5,000 hands are needed promptly.

With calls continuing to pour in to the chamber of commerce offices, where Floyd Everhart, federal employment representative sent by Mr. Woodman is headquarters, also comes the reports that the yield will be better than was thought possible a couple of weeks ago. Predictions state that anywhere from 40,000 to 55,000 bales will be harvested in Lubbock county this season.

With the sun again being felt somewhat with more emphasis, since the northern began to dissipate yesterday afternoon, hope of more rapid maturity of that part of the cotton not yet open is expressed.

AMERICA DOES ITS SHARE

In setting the world on its feet America has inconspicuously taken a part of which it may be proud in the opinion of Julius H. Barnes, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"In the expanding trade of Europe," said Mr. Barnes in an address on America's foreign trade, "its clearly increasing stability, in the reconstructed opportunity of its people, America has played a part which it may well remember with rightful pride."

"We have too many apologists in public life and in the field of academic theorizing. We need instead more character, who understand the honorable record of American service in European reconstruction, who understand intelligently the great contribution of American industrial philosophy which is rebuilding everywhere the processes of trade in which rest the individual opportunity."

"In the confusion of many voices that loudly and ignorantly assert the gross materialism of America and its prosperity, we are in danger of forgetting the high ideals of America which hold certain standards around which one by one, have rallied the nations of the Old World, and by the inspiration of honest standards steadily upheld against the canker of Old World economic and diplomatics, have provided today the solid footing for European reconstruction."

ILLITERACY AND SAFETY

Illustrating the dangers of illiteracy the Civic Development Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States cites the case of an operating manufacturer whose factory was placarded with notices directing employees to observe caution in operating machines and warning them of certain dangers. In this respect it was a model plant and the employer was justly proud of it.

But one day the question was raised whether all the workers could read the signs. An investigation was made and it was generally discovered to his amazement that there were several hundred employees in the plant who could neither read or write. This condition might not prevail generally in the Chamber of Commerce out, but it gives rise to the inquiry whether employers generally are aware of the number of illiterates on their pay rolls.

CONSOLIDATIONS

About 20 years ago there was an era of consolidation in American business, and some of our largest corporations had their origin at that time. These consolidations resulted in part in the combination of competing units in the same industry, and frequently in watered stock and advances in the prices of commodities.

CROWDED SCHOOLS

The congestion of schools is one of the "arousing pains" that come to a city which is having a rapid growth. It is to be expected. In fact it would be unusual if we did not have it.

COINAGE DISTRIBUTION

Money coined by the three mints is held until an order from the treasury of the United States is received. This order for distribution is governed by the need of the banks for money. Upon the order of the treasury, the money is distributed among the Federal Reserve banks, which in turn redistribute the money to other banks.

It is not always a question of what a woman can stand, but what she is able to get by with. This assertion is made in regard to the trend of modern women toward the unusual. When father was a boy mother screamed and took refuge on a chair when she saw a mouse; but not so now. Women swim the channel, make long airplane flights, visit in the heart of African jungles for wild beasts, and even go as far as to rob father of his bankroll.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The Hon. George Norris, senator from Nebraska, is and proposes to remain the captain of his soul, politically speaking.

For the moment he is concerned only with the fate next November of such senate colleagues as Shipstead, LaFollette, Howell, Frazier, Wheeler and Dill. He classifies them all as "progressive" senators, although the group includes republicans, democrats and the single farmer-labor senate member, Shipstead.

Norris is for them not because of his dislike for their party affiliations, and says so. He is out-bounded on a single-handed campaign to re-elect them because of their senate records on matters he regards as much more vital than the mere question of their party line, whether they are Hoover or Smith supporters.

Norris Usually Frank. Which is quite typical of Norris, the political free-thinker, as Washington has come to know him from long experience. It has not seen a great many men in either branch "on the hill" who calmly went about the business of politics, steering independent courses of action on issues for themselves, with the same freedom from party control that the Hon. George displays, day in and day out. He is publicly or privately, as a rule exceedingly frank in stating his views.

That very Norris frankness served to call attention sharply to certain reticences about his disposition of his plans when he headed west to resume the campaigning interrupted by a recent visit to Washington. He was by way of calling attention to these reservations himself, pointing out that his announced intention of keeping out of the presidential aspect of the fracas in the fall for re-election of progressive senators he was to make did not bind him beyond the completion of his itinerary, about October 25.

"I am differentiating the presidential situation from the senatorial situation in this campaign up in those states," Senator Norris explained. "I have not said what attitude I am going to take later. I don't say now."

Decision Awaited. When Governor Smith announced the layout of his western invasion some weeks ago, the Bystander took the opportunity to suggest that at least one of the major objectives which underlay the political strategy of the democratic standard bearer might well be an effort to get Norris out in open support of his candidacy. Since then Norris has said repeatedly that he did like Smith's pronouncements during that trip on farm relief, water power and Nicaraguan policy, and did not like the Hoover acceptance speech declarations as to those same matters.

Norris added in Washington that it must be perfectly plain and fair that you can draw the conclusion that (from his statements) in this presidential campaign, Smith on farm relief, foreign policy and water power, which I regard as the most important things, comes a great deal nearer meeting the progressive idea than Hoover does. All this being so, the final result of Governor Smith's appeal for progressive support while in the west will not be completely discernable until the Norris mind is made up and disclosed after his senatorial electioneering job is finished.

BOILS NEED GOOD CARE, AND OFTEN ARE WARNING

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association

And of Hgels. The Health Magazine. A boil is an infection of the skin. It usually follows a breaking of the skin, such as a scratch on the back of the neck, constantly rubbed by a collar with a serrated edge.

It is likely to occur on those parts of the skin that are covered by hair since the hair follicles offer increased opportunity for irritation and for the entrance of germs beneath the surface of the skin.

In some diseases, such as diabetes, the skin of the person seems to react unduly readily to infection and boils occur with great frequency in diabetes.

It is generally believed that repeated infections of the skin such as pimples and boils are the result of generally lowered resistance of the body to disease.

Such a lowering may come with increased fatigue, with bad diet, with constipation, with insufficient sleep and fresh air, and with general deficiency in all of the health habits that are associated with hygiene.

Persons who have boils frequently must try to keep the body in the best physical state by establishing good health habits and by having general infections in the ears, nose and throat, as well as the teeth, or elsewhere in the body promptly attended to.

The advantage of applying heat to a boil is that the heat will bring a good supply of blood to the part concerned. This will aid the destroying of germs through the natural defenses of the body and also aid in bringing to the spot the cells that wall off the boil.

The opening of a boil is a serious surgical operation. The boil should not be opened by anyone who happens to think himself competent merely because he does not faint at the sight of blood.

An improper opening of a boil sometimes results in spreading of the infection to the adjacent skin in causing it to be disseminated throughout the body, and even in death. The opening of the boil and the after treatment are matters for the attention of a competent physician.

Laughs

A Real Shock. "Yes," said the old man, "I have had some terrible disappointments, but none stand out over the years like the one that came to me when I was a boy."

"Some terrible shock that fixed itself indelibly in your memory, I suppose."

"Exactly," said the old man. "When I was a boy I crawled under a tent to see the circus, and I discovered that it was a revival meeting."

Just a School Teacher. She was still rather new at driving a car and a little bit confused in traffic. Down Broadway she forgot to stop soon enough at the signal and shot out into the middle of the street.

As Some See the Promises

IT IS REPORTED

Yesterday another important step was taken by the directors of the Lubbock County Good Roads Association. The directors drew up petitions asking the county commissioners to call a bond election for county-wide hard surfaced highways which will be circulated in every community in the county.

Norris added in Washington that it must be perfectly plain and fair that you can draw the conclusion that (from his statements) in this presidential campaign, Smith on farm relief, foreign policy and water power, which I regard as the most important things, comes a great deal nearer meeting the progressive idea than Hoover does.

The Way Of The World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

REAL DEMOCRACY. One learns that John Coolidge, working as an ordinary job in a railroad office in New Haven, arrives on time and devotes his attention to work. This is not strange. It has been well brought up in a good American family. In such a situation is the real force and value of the real thrill of American democracy.

It is noticeable that half-headed men look better in full dress and the reason, we suppose, is the shirt effect. It is a matter of dress, and any art student knows repetition being a principle.

It is reported that literature nowadays is only limited by paper supply, and recently it has been discovered that paper can be made of cornstarch. If anyone has not written a novel let him get about it at once.

It is reported that people who are surprised if they know how many men were using make-up, and getting permanent waves. We deplore the fact. If it is a fact, but are of the opinion that somebody certainly has to be feminine.

It is reported that most college boys are strongly in favor of "the air mail, having found out this year that it enables them to get money from home at least twenty-four hours earlier.

It is reported that should both presidential candidates win all of the States they claim, the White House will have to be remodeled into a duplex.

It is reported that a free country is one that passes laws to please its conscience and then breaks them to please its appetite.

It is reported that recently a murder farm was discovered in California. About the next thing will be learning to that these murder farmers will be demanding relief.

People want this and that, excluded from politics. So far the only thing that is kept out of politics is about forty-seven percent of the votes.

We have often wondered what a retiring President, who has had his fill of the job, thinks of the eager candidates who are looking for work, worry, and trouble.

One thing that modern young people seem to learn early in life is the location of the nearest place to run in debt.

It is reported that the new railroad from Monahans to Wink is being rapidly built, and the big oil field to the Southwest will soon be on the railroad.

It is reported that Midland is going to have a twelve story business and office building which will be the tallest one in West Texas. Oil companies will occupy most of the building as office headquarters.

History Of Presidential Elections

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN Author of "The American Government"

XVIII—GREENBACK HIGH TIDE IN 1860. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—The preliminaries of the presidential contest of 1860 had many points similar to that of 1912. General Grant was a candidate for a third term—not a third consecutive term, but a third term after a four year break.

He had made a trip around the world and wherever he went had been received with that same acclaim and welcome that characterized the European visits of Theodore Roosevelt at the end of his African hunt. The Republican party was divided sharply into the grant and the anti-grant factions. The bitterness of the anti-grant sentiment is illustrated by a tale that is told of the preacher who was exhorting his hearers to be prepared for the fulfillment of Mother Shipton's prophecy that "The world would come to an end in 1860."

On the other hand, with Roscoe Conkling, the leader of the Grant forces, it was a case of using the name of Grant to defeat Blaine. Conkling had presented Blaine's nomination in 1876, and now was equally determined to circumvent it in 1860. One can not tell whether he was more earnest in his hatred to Blaine or in his affection for Grant.

Blaine was not a candidate for re-election. He had incurred the enmity of both sides. Coming into the White House with a clouded title to the presidency, he was handicapped from the beginning. He broke with his own party, to a large degree, because he recognized the Democratic state governments in Florida, South Carolina and Louisiana. His party associates declared that in doing so he recognized the fairness of the Democratic contention that Tilden was defrauded out of the votes of these states. Senator Hoar said: "Hayes had only three or four sincere supporters in the senate. He knew it was not worth while to aspire to a re-nomination, although his administration was one of much credit to himself."

When the Republican convention met, Conkling, fearing that if Grant could be nominated there would be a bolt, offered a resolution binding every delegate to support the nominees of the convention without dissent, and then he sought to drive the draw beforehand. It passed 719 to three out of the convention just as

PUBLIC OPINION

WHAT THE CATHOLICS HAVE DONE FOR AMERICA. Columbus was a Catholic and discovered America. Several of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were Catholics. Dan Emmett was a Catholic and wrote "Dixie," a song that stirs the emotions of every Southerner, and is known wherever the sun shines as the exponent of Southern chivalry and patriotism. Cardinal Newman was a Catholic and wrote "The City of Dreadful Night," a hymn that is loved and sung by the Christian world regardless of denomination. Father Ryan was a Catholic and fought for the "Lost Cause," and wrote "The Good of God" and "The Good of Man." Al B. Smith is a Catholic and will be the next president of the United States. MR. J. B. MOBLEY.

MEDITATION

WHAT MARK MISSED. Thursday, Scripture Lesson, Year A, 15:36-41. Meditation for the day: "But Paul thought not good to take with them him who withdrew from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them, to the work." When Mark returned to Jerusalem from the first missionary journey for no good reason, he lost the chance to go with Paul on his second missionary journey, and so failed of one of the greatest opportunities in the world's history. For that journey heard the Macedonian call, carried Christianity into Europe, and had the wonderful experience of Philip, Theroanion, Titus, and Timothy.

Who's Who in Timely Views

ENFORCEMENT OF DRY LAW BY WILLIAM T. MANNING. Most of those who oppose and disobey the law admit that it would be a benefit to our country if it were properly observed. What is now needed is not abandonment of the law, but more earnest effort for enforcement of the law and more thorough and impartial investigation of the fact relating to it.

The assiduous that this law cannot be enforced come, most of them, from those who do not wish the law to be enforced, who never have wanted it enforced, and who admit that they hope to see it repealed on the ground that it cannot be enforced. As to the possibility of enforcement, I agree with the statement made by Mr. Thomas A. Edison that it can be enforced reasonably well if proper effort is made and that it is already better enforced than some of our other laws, for example, the law against narcotics and the law against hold-ups.

There are some people who seem to hold the view—I get letters expressing that view, and many of them—and it seems to be reflected in much of our news, that any law which is not a prohibition against prohibition is honest and courageous while any intolerance in support of it is either ignorant or unprincipled. Impertinent questions of that sort are of course absurd.

"WATERLOO" Tyrant slaves, freeman, mouldering side by side! On such a day the World was lost, and won. By Pompey at Pharsalia, such a day. Why have the Mighty lived—why have they died? Is it ever thus with idle wreck to strew? Fields such as thine, remorseless "Waterloo"? Hopeless the lesson! Vainly hath ever cried Stern fate to man—"So perish human pride!" Still must the Many combat for the Few. Still must the noblest blood fair earth bedew.

Title Hopes At Stake On Major Gridirons This Week

Westerners Taking Advantage Of Off Week To Prepare For Electra Tigers

No One Section Has Monopoly On Popular Interest In Football, Says Well Known Sports Writer

Main Scene Shifts From Chicago to Berkeley As California Meets Southern California.

By ALAN J. GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Football's greatest spectacles nowadays know no sectional barriers or restrictions. Saturday the big jam of the day was on Chicago's Lake front, where some 122,000 fans turned out to see two teams that may both be out of the championship running this year, but still possess their old drawing power.

This week the main scene, from the spectacular viewpoint, will be at Berkeley, where California and Southern California meet in the first of the major tests of Pacific Coast Conference strength. Anywhere from 75,000 to 100,000 will get at least a bird's-eye view of this tussle, from the hillside if not altogether from the big Berkeley Bowl itself.

The following week should shift the spotlight back to the East, with Yale's big arena packed to its usual limits of around 75,000 for the colorful visit of West Point's Cadets. There are any number of other big spectacles. East, West, and South every week, but these illustrate that no one section has any monopoly on popular interest or in attractions of nation-wide appeal. For a number of reasons, the use of the use of the public eye, or ear, most anywhere nowadays.

Major Teams in Action.

Major teams in all sections of the gridiron battlefront get down to more serious business this week. Title hopes will be at stake or in-tersectional laurels involved in a flock of frays.

Besides the California-Southern affair, where the Trojan and the Golden Tornado have what ever "dope" indications, there are these outstanding games to figure on:

Colorado Aggies, Rocky Mountain champions, engaged with University of Utah in an effort to keep at the top of this season's standing, now shared with Colorado College.

Texas Aggies, trimmed a week ago by Centenary, attempting to regain their stride by beating Texas Christian.

Alabama and Tennessee, with the Crimson tide favored to advance another notch forward the Southern Conference title.

Georgia Tech and Notre Dame, at Atlanta, with the Golden Tornado having at least an even chance to check the Hoosiers.

Nebraska, in another big intersectional game, facing the formidable charge of a Syracuse team anxious to wipe-out last year's decisive defeat in Lincoln.

Ohio State and Michigan, at Columbus, with the Buckeyes favored over the Wolverines for the first time in some years.

Other Big Ten games in which Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois should keep their states clean, although the Illinois face strong opposition from Indiana.

Army and Harvard, at Cambridge, where the husky Cadet eleven will meet that gives early signs of being the best Horween-coached eleven yet developed.

All-Americans. It's early to take up the All-American angle, but the fullback crop, at least, appears to offer some of the best material in recent seasons.

At Minnesota, where Herb Johnson made the position famous, the prizes of Bronko Nagurski, converted lineman, are being sung. Nebraska's plunging star, Maybe McLain, has all that a great fullback needs, plus unusual experience. McLain was the country's leading scorer, while at Haskell two years ago, but this is his first campaign for the Hawkeyes.

There is also Jimmy Armistead, Vanderbilt captain. Armistead had to share the spotlight last season with Bill Speer, Vanderbilt's All-American ace, but he is off to a good start on his own account this year.

Miles of Princeton, although now laid up with injuries, and Murrel of the Army, are among the East's outstanding fullbacks.

League Moguls To Discuss Rookies

Club Owners in Texas League Will Settle Question Of Split Season In Meeting October 20.

DALLAS, Oct. 17. (AP)—Possible revision of the rookie rule and the question of whether the playing season shall be split next year are the chief issues facing eight Texas league baseball club owners who meet here October 20 for a fall housecleaning program.

Fred Ankenman, Houston president and the league accountant, is in Dallas auditing the circuit's books prior to the meeting. Previous statements of club moguls showed that only the championship Houston team made any profit during the past season. Several baseball owners in the loop have declared that the marked, ledown at the turnstiles was caused by halving the playing schedule.

The league rookie rule, which requires that two men who have never played higher than class B baseball be carried, undoubtedly will be changed if the sentiment of owners takes tangible form. The Southern Association plan of carrying five non-class A men is favorable by several baseball heads.

Talk of dispersing the league sinking fund also has come in for its share of gossip since the league ended its season.

Arab Trains For Marathon Contest

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—El Oual, brown skinned Algerian marathon champion, paced twelve miles around Madison Square Garden today, testing his stride and working out the muscle kinks for his 26-mile race with Joe Ray and a half-dozen other distance stars here Sunday night.

No time was taken for the distance covered by the wiry muscled runner machine that weighs only 114 pounds. El Oual's sealed that before he started and was only a few ounces lighter when he finished. He perspired little and finished at a fast clip in fine condition.

Ray, for years the American mile champion, is training out doors for the fifth marathon run of his picturesque career and his professional debut.

El Oual, who learned to run following his father's three camel caravans in Algeria prior to the world war, soon will celebrate his 31st birthday.

Rather naively the Arab explained through an interpreter, that he took up running as a sport because before he started, and was only a few ounces lighter when he finished. He perspired little and finished at a fast clip in fine condition.

Strolling Down Sports Lane

With Allan Carney

Only two games are scheduled for the football games of district 1 this week. Plainview will invade the stronghold of the vaunted Amarillo Sandies on Friday afternoon and on Saturday the ambitious Electra Tigers will be hosts to the Wichita Falls Coyotes. Lubbock, Vernon and Quannah will be idle.

By handling the Roswell Coyotes a 14 to 0 beating last week, the Golden Sandstorms clearly demonstrated their superiority to the other contending teams in the district. Neither Vernon or Electra showed any noticeable power in downing Plainview and Quannah. The weakness of the losing teams was the outstanding factor in these two games.

Coaches Weir and Lyles are putting the Lions through strenuous drill for the coming clash with the Coyotes on the 27th. Wichita Falls and Vernon have battled each other on the gridiron for the past five years with neither team holding any marked advantage. Down Vernon way the game is called "the football classic of Northwest Texas," and it may well be called that. Vernon fans count the season entirely successful if their Lions can win over the McCullum aggregation.

If the New York Times can be taken for authoritative information, we can rest assured that the West Point gridirons were putting everything into the clash with the S. M. U. Mustangs when they met on Oct. 5. The Cadets were certainly in their fighting and the extent of their efforts is shown in the poundage lost during the contest. The Gotham publication has it that Messenger lost 12 pounds of weight in the game; that Calmark lost 11 pounds; and that Allan lost 6 pounds.

Loss of weight was not confined to the men that were in the thick of the fight. Two substitutes, who did no more than sit on the bench during the entire game, were so tense and anxious that one lost five pounds and the other four pounds.

A battle which will have a distinct bearing on the outcome of the Southwest Conference race will be waged at College Station this week-end when Matty Bell, undefeated Texas Frog, clashes with the Texas Aggie, who bowed in defeat before the Centenary Gentlemen last Saturday.

In giving his men his usual pre-game lecture, Coach Matty Bell reminded the players of their record up to date, and of the powerful team they were to meet in their first conference game. "When you are playing the Aggies on Kyle Field, they throw everything except the buildings at you," the Frog mentor warned.

Looks like the Berry Rogers Hornsby is due for another change. After the baseball season was over, we thought it was about time the "Rajah" made his annual shift. After winning the first world series pennant for the St. Louis Cardinals, and spending one year with the Giants and Braves respectively, the slugger second baseman is now headed for the Chicago Cubs.

In some quarters there has been an inclination to believe that Hornsby would cause disunion among the Chicago players as he has been accused of doing on other ball clubs. Manager McCarthy, however, has signified his intentions of receiving the Boston manager with open arms. If the Braves do sell their playing manager to the Cubs, William Wrigley, Jr. will write the largest check ever involved in a baseball transaction.

John E. Foster, nationally known sports authority, says that if the Chicago management is fortunate enough to get Hornsby, they would receive a "Schm-strike." With the wise Mel Carthy at the helm, we hardly see how the team could make a mistake by engaging the services of the greatest right hand hitter of all times.

Woman Sets Mark In Nautical Test To Beat Champion

Mother of Two Stays In Water More Than 72 Hours To Beat Mark Set By Jim Cherry By 7 Hours

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)—Mrs. Lottie Moore Schoemmel today tumbled out of the hotel swimming pool which had been her bed and boarding place continuously for three days and nights. She brought out with her a new world's endurance swimming record of 72 hours, two minutes and 40 seconds.

Restoring supremacy in this strange and athletic activity to the so-called weaker sex. The new mark displaced the former standard set by Jim Cherry, ex-sailor, in Los Angeles on Sunday night. The blonde New York woman of 29, mother of two children, stayed in seven hours and 40 seconds longer than Cherry.

Although she had announced a whimsical desire to stay up as long as the Graf Zeppelin did in coming from Germany, Mrs. Schoemmel decided as the third day drew to a close to confine her efforts this time to beating Cherry's record by a goodly margin.

Ends Fast Strong. As the shouts of spectators announced the 72-hour goal, Mrs. Schoemmel's broad features relaxed into a grin and she stroked slowly to the shallow end of the pool. A dozen swimmers plunged in to assist her, but she needed no aid and climbed out alone. She appeared little the worse for her long immersion and a doctor found her normal. Her weight was announced as 120 pounds, 10 ounces. Her limbs beneath their heavy coat of white grease appeared slightly blue and swollen, but there was no physical faintness outside of an obvious desire to sit down as quickly as possible.

"Well, I did it," said Mrs. Schoemmel to her manager as she tottered terra firma at 40 seconds after 1:24:47 o'clock for the first time since 1:24:45 Sunday afternoon.

Although it could not be learned exactly how much money Mrs. Schoemmel would receive for her performance, it was announced her share would be half the gate receipts.

The authenticity of Mrs. Schoemmel's swim was questioned later in the day by William B. Sandler, manager of Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston, rival endurance swimmer. He said Mrs. Schoemmel touched bottom during her swim and permitted an attendant to support her in the water while applying grease.

Moriarty Resigns Post As Manager Of Detroit Team

Tiger Boss Severs Relations With Club After Two Seasons; Action Is Not Un-Expected.

DETROIT, Oct. 17. (AP)—George Moriarty, manager of the Detroit baseball club of the American league, resigned tonight at the expiration of his two year contract with the team.

The resignation was contained in a letter to Frank Navin, president of the club, sent by Moriarty from his home in Woodstock Ill. beyond stating that the resignation had been accepted. Mr. Navin refused to comment. He declined to state if he had named a new manager or had one under consideration.

Although nothing official was given out, it was more or less an open secret that Moriarty would sever his connection with the team at the conclusion of the past season. In the two seasons that he piloted the Tigers finished in fourth and sixth places, respectively.

High School Grid Squad Trains For Tilt With Tigers

Off Week Doesn't Mean Idle Hours for Westerner Gridsters; Team Shows Improvement

Spurred by the arrival of cool football weather, the high school Westerners are taking advantage of their off week to put in many extra hours of training this week in preparation for the hard row of games ahead of the team. Working from four o'clock until dark every afternoon the gridsters are fast rounding into a smooth working football unit.

In spite of the fact that their next game is more than a week off, the molokais are going through strenuous workouts daily at Merril Park as if they faced a championship game for the week end. New plays mixed with scrimmages, blocking, running and side-stepping come in for their share of attention. Two complete backfields alternate on offensive drill in scrimmage against the first string line.

The superior condition of the local gridsters will be a determining factor in the hard games facing the team. Although lacking in brawn and football experience, the Westerners are instilled with an indomitable fighting spirit which is destined to carry them far in the district race. This never-say-die spirit is yet to be given the supreme test, the first hard game coming Saturday week when the team meets the Electra Tigers on the latter field.

Scrimmage sessions are expected to last until late in the week once no game has been matched. Members of the squad who have been on the injured list are getting back into condition and the coaches will have a full squad in action several days before the Electra clash.

Although comparative scores favor the Westerners in the game with Electra, coaches, Frinks and Morrison are paying no attention to early season dope. The team's full strength will be sent against the Tigers.

Ponies Work Hard For Rice Conflict

DALLAS, Oct. 17. (AP)—A black-board analysis of the mistakes they made in last week's contest with Simmons University in which the Ponies were trained to win, 6 to 0, was the training program adopted today by Coach Ray Morrison, boss of the Southern Methodist Mustangs.

"I am not satisfied with you," Morrison told his squad, "and I am hoping for a much improved showing against Rice on Saturday." Spurred by the lousiness of winter weather in the air, the Ponies took the field and worked until dark on two new formations.

Topping the games in which he will work this fall are: The Army-Nebraska game at West Point, November 24. The New York U.-Missouri game at New York, November 15.

The Syracuse-Nebraska contest at Lincoln, Nebraska, October 20. His other games carry him to Dallas, Texas; Tulsa, Oklahoma; Grinnell, Ia. Columbia, Missouri; and 21 other points somewhere between Tulsa and the Atlantic.

Cochrane has also referred over 600 boxing matches in the last 18 years, including some interesting battles between Bill Brennan and Billy Miska, Harry Greb, and Brennan. Harry Willis and Sam Langford, and one of Jack Dempsey's earlier battles—with Bob Devito.

HOUSTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Determined to give the Southern Methodist University Mustangs a battle they long will remember, 32 Rice Owl gridmen will leave Thursday night for Dallas, where Saturday they will play their first Southwest conference contest of the 1928 season. It is probable that Coaches Rothgeb Daugherty and Schultz will use around 35 men in the fray against the Red and Blue, for Rice has a considerable number of capable warriors who will not be in the starting lineup.

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

Andre Routis of France is the world's new featherweight champion—if they haven't got it away from him between the writing and printing of this. Three weeks would be a long time for the New York Boxing Commission to let the title remain out of this country.

Eugene Criqui, from the same fair shores, copped the honor once, and while his friends were arranging a celebration for him, he was so unfortunate as to take a pasting.

These matters the New York Boxing Commission usually arranges—before Criqui met Kilbake he had to agree to fight Johnny Dundee within 60 days.

Maybe they've arranged that Routis has to fight Jack Sharkey, Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker and Knute Hansen before he's rightfully featherweight champion.

And if he's a good featherweight he probably will knock the socks off most of that grubby band now whimsically called heavy weight title contenders.

The boxing commission however, really seems to have made no arrangements for keeping the title away from Routis. They didn't think he could win.

Frogs Round Off For Aggie Clash

PORT WORTH, Oct. 17. (AP)—Horned Frogs of T. C. U. will take their last hard drill before the game with Texas A. and M. Thursday. They will work on new plays, scrimmages against reserves using Texas A. and M. plays and Friday will depart for College Station.

A light signal drill will be on the program Friday, after which they will rest for their battle Saturday.

Today it appeared that for the first time in four years, Coaches Bell and Kubale plan to launch a heavy offensive against the Aggies. Always before they have been content to play a waiting defensive game against the more touted Parmers.

Oklahoma University Takes Place Of Vanderbilt On Longhorn Card

Sponors Will Meet Steers At State Fair In Dallas For Period of Ten Years, Beginning Oct. 12; Close Proximity of States Will Add Interest

AUSTIN, Oct. 17. (AP)—Texas and Oklahoma University will play football annually for a period of 10 years, beginning next October 12, at the State Fair of Texas, in Dallas. It was announced officially today. The contest will take the place of the annual fair game between Texas and Vanderbilt, on the card for the past three years.

The long-time contract between Texas and Oklahoma was negotiated by L. Dale Belmont, who returns from the responsibility of inter-collegiate athletics at the University of Texas December 1. Close proximity of Texas and Oklahoma should work to create strong rivalry for the annual fair clashes. It was said, and they are expected to attract record crowds.

Although Vanderbilt has refused a proposition to meet the Texas eleven annually, alternating the games between Austin and Nashville, Belmont said today Texas still favored such an arrangement. Vanderbilt wants to alternate between Nashville and Dallas. Belmont

Salvation Army Campaign To Collect $4,000 In Lubbock Will Start Next Week; J. W. Gamel Heads Drive Crew

Advisory Group Meets To Plan Drive; Regular Worker To Be Here From Dallas To Aid.

With a goal of $4,000, workers in the Salvation Army drive will take the field next week in an intensive financial campaign to secure funds for the organization to carry on its work here.

A plea for workers in the campaign has been made by J. W. Gamel, vice-president and appeal chairman of the advisory board of the Salvation Army. Workers will meet at 7:30 o'clock Friday night in the balcony of the Minters-Camel store, 1107 Broadway, for the purpose of outlining plans for carrying on the drive.

Prospect List Compiled. At a meeting of the advisory board Tuesday night a prospect list of 125 leading business men of the city was compiled. These men will be solicited in addition to a house-to-house canvass of the business section of the city.

Literature is being prepared and will be distributed today throughout the city. The booklets will present the needs of the Salvation Army in Lubbock. Thirty-five workers are needed to carry on the drive, and it is especially urged that members of the American legion aid in the solicitation.

Do Much Good. "The Army cannot operate on the same basis that it has in the past, and it is not fair to ask it to do so," Mr. Gamel said yesterday. "Members of the Army yesterday have lived from street and tambourine collections, and yet they have done much good."

Emmett A. Schultz, Dallas, regular Salvation Army worker since 1912, is in the city in connection with the drive. Capt. and Mrs. P. C. Scott are of the local officers of the Army.

Although the drive proper will not begin until Tuesday, preliminary work will be finished Monday.

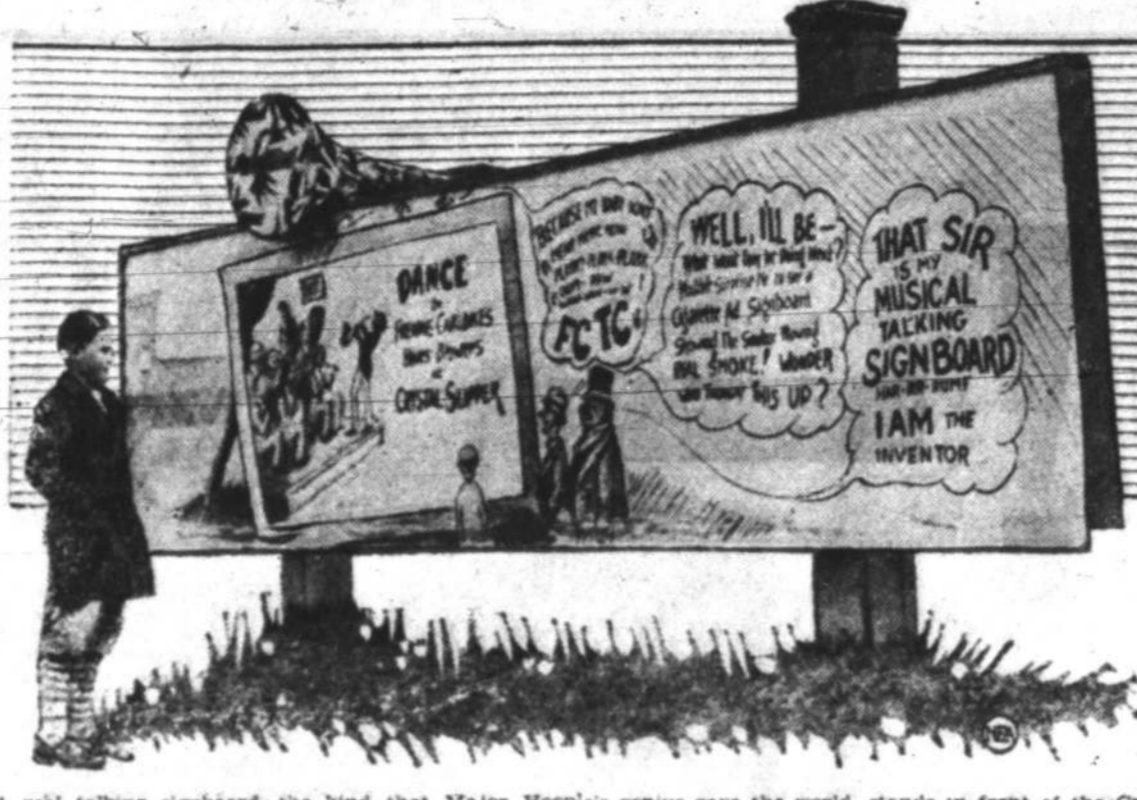

Advisory Board Members. Other than Mr. Gamel, members of the advisory board include: R. W. Campbell, chairman; R. F. Cook, treasurer; Dr. J. W. Rolfe, secretary; Judge Charles Nordyke, Harold Griffith, Dr. W. E. Cragg, John L. Ratliff and Mrs. John Young.

Emmett presented the financial need of the army to the Rotary club yesterday and will present it to the Kiwanis club at luncheon today.

LOCAL SPOT SITUATION. According to reliable firms the demand for spot cotton in Lubbock at present is slack, but promises to pick up within a short time as soon as cotton starts moving in any volume. Current prices are as follows: 1-1/2, 110 off; 1-1/4, 100 off; 1-1/8, 100 off; 1-1/16, 100 off.

ELECT DELEGATE. Central Ward P. T. A. Meets This Afternoon. A delegate to the State P. T. A. convention in Amarillo is expected to be elected this afternoon when the Central Ward P. T. A. meets at 3:40 o'clock at the school.

HORSE BUSINESS GOOD. SAN ANGELO, Oct. 17.—The horse business is not altogether dead in West Texas. On the Kickapoo ranch near here fifteen horses have been sold to the government this year at $125 and one polo pony brought $300. The ranch, however, is discontinuing everything but polo stuff.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 17.—Where the Joneses and the Hagans and the Von Elms are concerned, a score of 110 is an unheard of thing, but to John J. Dubb and his thousands of friends it is not so worse. And for a nine-year old caddy-well, it's rather slack.

WEEKLY WEATHER AND CROP REVIEW. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—The weather was abnormally warm throughout practically the entire cotton belt and the week was mostly fair. Cotton opened rapidly and fairly, Colton opened making satisfactory advance in all sections. Late-bolls are still developing on some lands of the central northern portions of the belt. While progress of the crop was fairly good in the more northern districts, there was still complaint of premature opening in northwestern Texas where some was blown out by high winds. There were further reports of boll rot in northern Alabama and of poor crops in some northeastern portions of the belt.

Manchester—Fair cloth demand from South America. Good business with Germany in fine Egyptian yarns. Alexander—Upper cotton crop large but price considered already paid for exports. Liverpool—American buying also brisk with advancing tendency. Expect Egyptians to appreciate more.

New Orleans Times-Picayune.—The cotton market developed a firmer tone and a fair advance in prices in yesterday's trading. Rather general rain in the belt offset predictions in Texas for frost. There is supposed to be a good-sized short account. Textiles are being revived, but wanting demand, trade interests bought yesterday 18,000 bales. Liverpool and other foreign markets bought.

New York Journal of Commerce.—These should not be many more weeks before drastic curtailment of production by cotton mills should have marked effect on cotton goods trading.

Sylvia Is Lost Persian Cat Strays From Home Here

"A Persian Kitty, perfumed and strayed away from home and has been missing for the past three days. Whether it is a clandestine courtship with the village Tom Cat or a political speaking tour, the cat's whereabouts remain unknown."

The fair, silver Persian Kitty is the wife and joy of Mrs. E. E. White, who is very anxious for the return of her pet. It is stated that it is very unusual for Sylvia—the cat's name, by the way—to stray out nights in this manner, and she is worried about her.

Officers Request Stricter Traffic. Chief of Police John Leonard requested that strict enforcement of the city traffic ordinance be made to motorists making wide turns on the main streets of the city.

PURVIS FOMEHERE. J. F. Womack, drygoods merchant of Hoising Springs, last week secured a deal through the Jones company of this city, for his new home located 2524 21st street. The home will be occupied by Mrs. Womack and children. Mr. Womack will remain in Hoising Springs to attend his business there.

BIG SPRING.—A new rural route has been ordered by the Post office Department out of Big Spring, to serve the oil town of Fursan, sixteen miles southeast.

Hula-Hula Gilda Gray Is In Mix-Up

"Charges of Scandalous Nature" Are Made Against Star of Screen and Stage by Her Hubby

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—A stack of documents said to contain "charges of a scandalous nature" against Gilda Gray, dancing girl of the stage and screen, today were on their way to London as the first step in marriage annulment proceedings ordered started by Oil Boag, her husband.

The documents were forwarded by Milton Olden, Los Angeles attorney, to his London agents, Cooper, King and company, at the cable request of Boag, who declared his intention of going ahead with the case in the British courts.

Both Miss Gray and Boag are said to be in London at present. Boag, who for a time played the double role of husband and manager for Miss Gray, previously had announced that the annulment suit would charge pre-nuptial fraud.

Miss Gray at the age of 18, was married to John Goretzki, a Milwaukee bartender, and became mother of a son, now 14 years of age. She divorced her first husband in 1922. And, the next year married Boag.

She filed a divorce complaint against her manager husband in Post Washington, Wis. last July and left for London later to appear in films there.

Will Be Must-Singing Case. Miss Gray's divorce complaint charged her husband with cruel and inhuman treatment. Subsequently Boag said he was willing to have a divorce without muddling if she would dismiss the suit in the complaint.

"But believe me, this case now will be more thrilling than any hula-hula Gilda ever gave her public."

MITCHELL TO BUILD Brick Residence. Permit Issued for $5,500. Another brick veneer residence is being erected in Lubbock, according to the sole building permit issued yesterday. The owner, C. M. Mitchell, is having G. H. Hughton, contractor, construct the dwelling which is to be of five-rooms and cost $5,500 at 2312 Sixteenth Street.

FINES TOTAL $99. Eight violators of the city law paid fines yesterday in city court according to the record, two being charged $15 each for disturbing the peace, five given $15 fines for drunkenness.

NEW TOWN GROWING. BIG SPRING, Oct. 17.—Howard county's newest oil town Midway, is making rapid growth according to R. H. Edgerly. Many lots have exchanged hands during the past 10 days. The town is located on Highway No. 9 near the Henshaw oil area.

JASPER, Oct. 17.—Urgent need of a municipal water system was seen here recently when the plant which supplies the town broke and drinking water was not available for some time.

Watch Tongue For Signs of Illness

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90 per cent of all sicknesses start with stomach and bowels trouble.

A white or yellowish coating on your tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders. It tells you why the least exertion tires you out, why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

And it's a sign you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physical wrecks. See how the first bottle helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of herbs, roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

conditions for a flight to Britain, but the weather has been bad. Today, however, meteorological reports showed no serious storm areas over the ocean and indicated that a plane would be favored following a wind that might reach a velocity of 20 miles an hour, a distinct aid to so tiny a traveller as the Gypsy Moth.

Makes Sudden Decision Reports from Harbor Grace were fragmentary during the afternoon suggesting that MacDonald's take off was the result of a sudden decision.

The aviator himself is something of a novice at piloting although he has had considerable experience at navigating. His solo record is eighty hours but into that comparatively short time he has crowded at least one long flight—a trip from London to Bagdad a few months ago. He had flown alone for only eight hours when he made that journey.

Its power plant is a four cylinder air cooled motor of from 80 to 100 horsepower, but that engine has enough stamina to run for 24 hours and more.

Plane Is Small The plane's wingspread is only 28 during preparations for the transport. Extra fuel tanks, installed Atlantic flight, give it a range of about 3600 miles, or 33 hours. No wireless is carried, and the ship, because of her small size weighs no floats to permit landing on water.

MacDonald had said that he planned to head straight for Ireland. If the plane were running smoothly when he reached that island he intended to continue to England. MacDonald carried 100 gallons of gasoline which he estimated will carry him to his destination. Before starting he said he hoped to reach London and that he hoped to land early tomorrow morning. He took with him a quart of coffee in a thermos bottle and two dozen sandwiches.

London Is Thrilled At News of Flier's Take-Off

LONDON, Oct. 17. (AP)—London thrilled today to the news that Commander R. C. MacDonald had hopped from Newfoundland on the Atlantic flight in a tiny Moth airplane.

Because of the size of his machine and his own limited flying experience, the attempt was hailed as probably the most intrepid air exploit ever undertaken. British airmen found it hard to believe that their comrade was in earnest and not making a short test flight.

Commander MacDonald won the Distinguished Service Cross while he was in the navy.

fin's fabric covering was trimmed away, the improved wall of blankets used to bandage a gaping hole in the Zeppelin's flank at the base of the fin was taken down, and all was made ready to stretch a new covering over the damaged member.

It was expected that the repairs would be completed by Saturday or Sunday and early next week the dirigible will take the air again for a two or three day test flight in the Middle West. In the meantime, Dr. Eckener and his associates will be given a reception in Philadelphia tomorrow and Friday will go to Washington to have breakfast with President Coolidge and lay a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Magic Can Be Done In The Kitchen

Mrs. Myra Oliver Dougan Will Explain At Avalanche-Journal Cooking School

The magic which can be worked by putting in some mushrooms here and an onion there, and a delicate blending of flavors and seasonings is a department of the science of cooking every housewife is eager to know about, will be revealed by Mrs. Myra Oliver Dougan, cooking expert, who will open the Avalanche-Journal Free Cooking school on October 22 to 26, inclusive.

How to get the tastiest much desired flavor, accomplished in such a delightful fashion by some favorite chef, need no longer be a mystery. The art of snapping up a dish, already delicious, may be as easy as any woman who enjoys cooking. So says Mrs. Dougan, who has received extensive training in home economics. She is ready to present a complete array of salads, entrees, cakes, pies and other articles, along with many cooking hints of real value, at the Avalanche-Journal cooking school.

An invitation is extended to all Lubbock women to attend. The lecture and cooking demonstration will be held each afternoon from Monday to Friday inclusive, and all who wish particularly good seats are advised to time their arrival a bit early as those close to the front will have the best opportunity of following each step the cook takes.

All States Participate in Election.

This was the first time that all of the states participated in a popular election and saw their electoral votes counted. South Carolina had never had a popular election for president before the Civil War, and since that time in every election something had happened which prevented some state from having its vote counted or from having a popular election. When Colorado was admitted to the Union in 1876, the Republicans of the state, under the pretense that they did not want to hold another election so soon, but probably because they controlled the legislature and feared the state would go Democratic on a popular vote, carried its electors in the legislature. It is more than probable that this maneuver, engineered by Senator Teller, who became a Democrat 20 years later, gave the presidency to Hayes.

The fighting was neither fast nor furious until after the Maine State election was held. This anti-election barometer had regularly disclosed the direction of the political wind since the days of Tippecanoe Harrison, and now it showed equally weather ahead of the Republicans. It gave them a great scare and the

Judge Elzo Ben, who conducted his second straight night session ordered another venire of 25 summoned for the opening of court tomorrow. As the defense had exhausted eight challenges and the state four it was thought certain that the panel would be completed within an hour tomorrow and testimony begun.

Only Five Jurors Picked

Only five jurors were obtained at the night session. Most of those examined disqualified themselves, either by expressing opposition to the death penalty, which the state has asked for Davis, or by opposition to a suspended sentence, which the defense said it would ask in lieu of conviction.

Davis' trial follows the conviction last night of Clyde Thompson, 18, of the murder of Lucian Shook, the same charge on which Davis is being tried. The jury recommended the death penalty for Thompson.

Youngster Testifies Again

Woodrow Wilson Davis, 12, chief state witness in Thompson's trial, is expected to testify in the trial of his brother. A murder indictment against the youngster was dismissed after he had promised Judge Ben to "tell the truth" in Thompson's trial.

Woodrow testified that the Shook brothers were shot to death and beaten by Thompson while he and his brother looked on.

Applies to Eggs

The new scale will apply to eggs. It was accepted by the shippers, with one exception. They wanted to retain the present 69-cent rate to Laredo, but the commission found no justification for this. The scale will mean an increase of cost for egg shippers.

NORWEGIAN WINS

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (AP)—Otto Von Porat, hard-hitting Norwegian heavyweight, won on a foul in the third round of his scheduled 10-round bout with Chuck Higgins of Indianapolis tonight.

Class Rates Continue

Existing class rates will continue in force on several commodities on which the new class rates would have been lowered by operation of one of the commission's general rules. Among the commodities are cotton, cottonseed, livestock, grain and grain products, sand and gravel, and petroleum products, which were not directly involved in the hearing.

The commission found it would be "obviously improper" to permit the previously unthought-of effect of a general rule make any change in existing intrastate rates.
