Legality questioned

Closing of road draws protests

By LESLIE ABRAMS
Staff writer

The Aransas County Commissioners decided to consult with District Attorney Tom Bridges before taking any further action on the closing of Bayside Road near Port Bay Hunting Club. The commissioners' decision to consult with Bridges came in response to a letter signed by several area residents protesting the closing of the road, ordered by the commissioners at their Oct. 27 meeting.

Two Aransas County residents, Frank Riordan and Ray Thomas, told the court they knew nothing about the closing of the road prior to the time a fence was put up across the road and both protested the elimination of direct access to a favorite fishing spot. Riordan said that no one he knew saw notices of the closing posted and asked the exact locations the notices were posted. Bill Walston, attorney for those who want the road closed said he was unsure exactly where notices were posted.

Riordan also demanded to know who erected a fence across the road and placed signs saying the road was closed by order of the county commissioners. Neither the court nor Walston knew who was responsible for putting up the fence. Aransas County Judge John D. Wendell told the court that the closing must be looked into to ensure that the closing complies with legalities implied when the Water problem in city's future

Within the next five years — "maybe two, but definitely five" — Rockport and the area it serves will have water problems, City Administrator Herman Johnson warned members of Rockport's city council Monday night, Nov. 8.

Council members have called for a meeting with the Aransas County Water Conservation and Reclamation District at 5 p.m. Monday, Dec. 6 (the ACCRD's next regular meeting date), to discuss those problems and the possibility of setting up a meeting with the district from which Rockport — through the ACCRD — buys water.

That decision came during a meeting in which city officials also called for a workshop session Friday, Nov. 12, on a proposal to annex the Harbor Oaks Shopping Village site on Hwy. 35 North.

That annexation request led to a general discussion of annexation in that area just north of Rockport and the sanitary sewer and drainage problems that may arise.

No time was set for the proposed Friday session.

In discussing the city's potential water problems, Johnson told council members Monday night, "We (Rockport) are at the end of the line." The city, through the ACCRD, buys water from the San Patricio Water District and resells it to customers throughout Aransas County south of the Causeway.

This past year, Johnson said, the city had problems "due to the San Patricio Water District not being able to furnish us water."

Johnson recommended that city officials should meet with the ACCRD "and discuss the possibility of a meeting with San Patricio to find out what their plans are for the next six years."

John Behee, chairman of the ACCRD and present at Monday's council meeting, told the council, "I don't think San Patricio has enlarged their filtering plant since it was originally built."

Rockport Mayor Burt Mills and Rockport Director of Public Works J. C. Gurley were named to attend the Dec. 6 ACCRD meeting.

Johnson spoke to the council on the annexation request, explaining that he and Mayor Mills had attended the Nov. 3 meeting at Sandollar at which O.B. Stanley, president of Stanley Stores, announced plans to build a 22,500-square-foot supermarket on the Harbor Oaks Shopping Village site.

At that time, Johnson noted, Roger Seaman, president of Candy Stick Corp., developers of the proposed shopping center-mini-mall, announced a desire for annexation into the city.

Also pending at this time, Johnson said, is a letter from Dr. Thomas R. McKinley requesting annexation of Live Oak Plaza. There is a 15-acre tract of land between Wal-Mart and Live Oak Plaza "owned by a gentleman from San Antonio," Johnson said. "If we're going to annex," he added, "we should do it all in one or two meetings."

Johnson told council members if the 15-acre tract were annexed, it would have to be furnished with sanitary sewer within the next two years. Live Oak Plaza already has a contract with the city to connect to the pressure line that goes to the Racquet Club. Harbor Oaks Shopping Village would be connected to a line in the Harbor Oaks subdivision.

"The question," Johnson said, "is does the council feel they want to annex the new shopping center? Live Oak Center?"

RFHS auditorium to open

The new Rockport-Fulton High School Auditorium will open later this month with an open house, tentatively scheduled from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 21, according to Joe Randow, superintendent of the Aransas County Independent School District.

The open house will include a tour of other high school facilities and the new cafeteria, as well as performances by the RFHS Pirate Band and possibly the choir, Randow said at the Nov. 8 meeting of the ACISD. In addition, the auditorium will be ready in time for the RFHS drama department's production of "Grease," scheduled Dec. 9, 10 and 11.

In other school board news, members voted to begin bidding for two International Harvester buses already budgeted. The buses will be purchased through the State Board of Control, which will handle the bidding. Delivery of the 72-passenger buses is expected in August of 1983.

A textbook committee, mandated by the state of Texas, was appointed to select textbooks for a variety of courses. Those on the committee include Randow, chairman, Wanda J. Lynn, Meredith A. Teague, Florence K. Griffith, Barbara A. Rogers, Sharon S. Figart, Daphna Mitchell, Martha Luigi, Phillip Hewett, Phyllis K. Brown, Manuel A. Rocha, textbook custodian, Joel M. Mixon and William J. Ratliff.

Mixon reported on the progress of the ACISD Continuing Education Program. The brand-new program begins Nov. 16 and runs through Dec. 9. Five courses are offered: Defensive Driving, Basic Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation, Microwave Cooking, Insect Control Around the Home and Counted Cross Stitch for Beginners class. Registration forms, times, days and course fees are available from the ACISD. In addition, a tentative list of 21 courses will be offered beginning January 17. A complete list of the courses is available from the ACISD.

The board approved on first reading several specific minor wording changes in board policy by the Texas Association of School Boards. A second reading is necessary before the changes become official. Board member Margaret Dick and Vice President Polly Bracht were not present at the meeting.

The board also held a one hour and 15

Vets' Day services set

Rockport Mayor Burt Mills and former Mayor Walter S. Falk Jr. will be featured speakers at an open house sponsored by Rockport's Stewart-Wendell VFW Post at the VFW Hall on Veterans Day Thursday, Nov. 11.

The event will be from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. and will be open to the public. Mayor Mills will give the welcoming address during the program and will be followed by Falk. Also on the program will be Ralph Winkelman who will lead the Veterans Day prayer. Refreshments will be served.

In observance of Veterans Day, both Rockport and Fulton city halls as well as the Aransas County Courthouse in Rockport will be closed. In Rockport, garbage pickups regularly scheduled for Thursday will be suspended. Garbage on the Thursday pickup routes will be picked up on Wednesday, Nov. 10.

Also closed for the holiday observance will be the banks and savings and loan institutions.

Veterans Day was formerly called Armistice Day and was celebrated as the anniversary of the armistice that ended World War I on Nov. 11, 1918. During the mid 1970s, an act of Congress changed the federal observance of the day to the fourth Monday of October but in 1978, the holiday reverted to the original Nov. 11 date.

Whooping crane found dead

WACO — The whooping crane population at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge will be one bird short this year.

Nyarling, a 15-month-old female, was found dead near the small community of Oglesby near the Coryell-McLennan County line east of Waco by Rusty Shepperd of Waco. It was delivered to Parks and Wildlife Department Game Warden Tommy Morgan on Oct. 16.

Morgan estimated the bird had been dead less than 12 hours and showed no obvious cause of death.

Maurice "Andy" Anderson of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, project leader for the Endangered Species Field Station at Pierce, S.D., guessed the young whooper flew into a power transmission line, similar to an incident in Canada which was fatal to a whooper last year.

Anderson said the bird was hatched in July 1981, at the Wood Buffalo National Park in Canada and made the trip to Aransas National Refuge with her parents last year and was apparently making the trip again this year.

The young bird, in the company of at least two other sub-adult whoopers, was last seen on Oct. 12 near Devils Lake northwest of Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada. A small radio transmitter attached to her left leg, used for monitoring her trip to Aransas last year was working through Oct. 11.

Anderson said an autopsy would be performed to determine the cause of death.

Frank Johnson, manager of Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, said Nyarling's parents arrived at the refuge last Saturday. After this incident, Johnson expects no more than a total of 77 birds at the refuge, which includes five young produced this year. Altogether, the world's population of whooping cranes stands at 122.

City plan required by charter

By PAT BLAR
Staff writer

Rockport's planning and zoning commission will be required to plan as well as zone the city under terms of provisions approved by the city charter commission at Monday night's, Nov. 8, meeting.

Under provisions adopted in proposed Article X of the city charter, the planning and zoning commission will be required to submit a master plan "for the physical development of the city" and its extra-territorial jurisdiction.

The P&Z board would also be required to submit to the city manager — to be presented to the city council with the budget each year — a list of capital improvements to be undertaken during the subsequent two years.

Charter Commission Chairman Ed Armstrong observed that the present planning and zoning commission, although it has a right to involve itself in city planning, "at this time does practically no planning."

Except for making city planning a requirement rather than a "right" of the P&Z commission, the provisions of Article X approved by the charter commission members Monday do not significantly alter the present makeup of the P&Z board.

The proposed article, presented by Mary Lou Tiner, chairman of the subcommittee responsible for working on it, would establish a seven-member planning and zoning commission with members serving three-year overlapping terms. This is essentially the present condition of the commission.

The 11 charter commission members present Monday night discussed whether

Sinton wins the battle of the Pirates

Last Friday night two teams carrying the name "Pirates" went into battle in Sinton, but it was the Sinton Pirates that claimed the "booty" and the victory as they tore the Pirates of Rockport-Fulton to shreds in a 45-0 contest where the Rockport team ended the game with ZERO rushing yards for the game.

Sinton, in the chase for the playoffs in District 15-4A, made believers of the Pirates from Rockport by displaying a balanced attack that collected nearly 400 yards total offense. Sinton went to the pass only when they had to, and they used one of those completions for a touch-down.

Rockport won the toss, but Sinton did the damage as they scored on their opening possession of the game, moving 63 yards on only five plays, climaxed by Julio Chica's 16-yard run.

The Sinton offense worked their option-oriented offense to perfection under the guidance of their quarterback Mac May.

The Rockport team got a break early when David Cochran got a fumble recovery at the Rockport 40-yard line. Sinton choked off any chances for the Pirates of Rockport, and the kicking foot of Charlie Ochoa became an offensive weapon as he punted nine times during the contest for an average of 34 yards a punt.

Rockport turned the ball over twice in the first half on Dwayne Walls fumbles. Walls seemed dressed with Sinton players all night, because when he got the football, Sinton tried to become part of Walls' uniform as they swarmed the fine running back.

Before the first half was over, Sinton had built a lead of 31-0 to the delight of their homecoming crowd.

Sinton took up in the second half where they had left off in the first, scoring the first time they had the ball in the final 24 minutes.

Rockport got away on one long play against Sinton in the second half when Bobby Dingenary connected with Cochran for a 33-yard pass completion, but the official judged that Cochran was guilty of offensive pass interference and the play was wiped out. Sinton scored two times in the final half to close things out with a score of 45-0.

Rockport's defense was on the field for the majority of the game. Joe Cantu and Ramon Romero combined forces to collect 33 tackles for the Pirates. Charlie Ochoa followed with 10 tackles.

Pirates close out season against Wildcats

This Friday night the Rockport-Fulton Pirates will close their season against the Calallen Wildcats, marking the final appearance for the Pirate seniors. The game will be played in Rockport.

Calallen, one of the mystery teams of District 15-4A, will come to Rockport on the heels of a smashing 52-0 win over San Antonio Antonian. Calallen had been like the Pirates in that they had been falling on hard times before the blow-out against the 1-8 San Antonio team last week. The Cats feature an explosive offense, with much of the work being done by Pirates nemesis, Bud Homeyer. Homeyer is big and strong, and he treated the Pirates without much respect a year ago on the football field as well as on the basketball court.

Calallen's best game to date was probably the 20-7 win they took over the Beeville Trojans before they seemed to fall apart about mid-season. The win in such a big fashion last week could have ignited their spirits again, and the Pirates will have their hands full.

The Pirates were humbled last week as Sinton bottled-up the offense, keeping the Pirates to only 21 yards for the game, and that total came on two pass completions.

Sinton executed well enough to blast huge holes in the Pirate defense, while racking up 45 points. The Pirates should fare better against the Wildcats if they can hold the opposition in check early in the game.

Haskin wins top spot in bowling tournament

The Coastal Bend Women's Bowling Association held their annual tournament last Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 6 and 7, at the Coastal Bend Lanes in Aransas Pass and Penny Haskin turned in a 1509 scratch score to win the tournament championship title.

Class A team winner was the Ron's Fried Chicken team of Billie Driver, Ann Woods, Joyce Arthur, Elsie Marshall and Mary Ankle.

The class B team winner was Senior Sea Gulls from the Johnnie Potter Club 55 with team members Maggie Casall, Mary Longino, Pauline Taylor, Lillie Courson and Clara Falkenberg.

Lillie Courson and Clara Falkenberg won the Class A Doubles with Janice Smith and Golden Yardley capturing the doubles title in Class B.

Class A singles title went to Vicki Robertson while Tooter Lassiter took the Class B singles event.

Wanda Winkle captured the Class A all events title and Margaret Keller won the Class B all events title.

Lindsay, 13, was fishing near an oil rig east of Port Aransas in September when he reeled in a 1.37-pound Bermuda chub. Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's state fish record committee voted to open a new category in the saltwater record book for the chub, with Lindsay's fish as the initial entry.

The seldom-caught Bermuda chub, like its close relative the yellow chub, is reported to reach somewhat larger sizes than the new record fish.

Lindsay said he was catching small amberjacks with a white and yellow speck rig when he hooked the chub.

Sinton pops JV Pirates

For three quarters the Rockport-Fulton Pirates passed up opportunities to score, but in the final period, the Pirates erupted for two touchdowns after the team had spotted Sinton a 29-0 lead in a 29-14 loss to Sinton in Rockport Thursday night.

Sinton struck early in the game by taking the opening possession in the game and making the best of it by putting together an eight-play drive and scoring on a fourth down play from 15 yards away.

Rockport could get little going early in the first quarter and Sinton kept the pressure on. But mid-way through the period, Rockport generated a long drive which got them inside Sinton's 20-yard line before it fell apart. The Pirates went for a fourth-and-one, but Sinton held tight to end the push by the Pirates.

The Pirates of Rockport got into trouble late in the first quarter when Rudy Soliz was intercepted. Sinton took advantage of the Pirate turnover and took the ball in for six points in five plays.

Rockport pulled out the tricks when halfback Charlie Solis passed to Ronnie Sifuentes in the next Pirate series, but that effort was halted by the clock running out of time at the half.

Sinton executed a perfect offensive drive on their opening possession of the second half, going 56 yards in 12 plays to move the score to 22-0. When Rockport couldn't move the ball following the kickoff, Sinton got another drive together to score their fourth TD, that time covering 67 yards in 11 plays.

Rockport's Pirates opened up in the fourth quarter to get their offense on track. Using the reverse, the Pirates got a 27-yard run from Charlie Solis to move to the Sinton 20-yard line. When the Pirates went for a long pass to Doyle Parr, Sinton was flagged for interference. Rockport came away with first-and-goal from the 5-yard line. Parr blasted into the end zone for the Pirates first score of the night. Solis darted across the goal line for two points.

Rockport rallied again in the final quarter when Armando Martinez and Rudy Soliz combined to crack a Sinton ball carrier and shook the ball loose for Ronnie Solis to recover.

Striking in a hurry, the Pirates picked up a touchdown when Soliz threw a perfect pass to Parr who had cleared past the Sinton secondary. The Pirates' effort was just a little too late.

Tim Smyrson and Parr led the Pirate defense with better than twelve tackles each. Parr was the top ball carrier for the Pirates with 83 yards in 16 trips.

The Pirates will close out their season in Calallen this Thursday.

Sinton Frosh trip up R-F 36-13

Sinton's Freshmen didn't have the ball that often, but when they did they struck for the big play to down the Rockport Freshmen 36-13 in Rockport last week.

Sinton caught the Pirates really not ready on defense on the opening possession of the game, moving the ball 61 yards in 11 plays, getting the TD on a seven-yard run.

All afternoon, Sinton executed the option play well and the Pirate defense just couldn't cover the play. Then when there was some headway at stopping the ground game, Sinton hit the big pass play. For the game, Sinton hit on only four of seven plays, but those four catches were good for 185 yards, and one covered 58 yards for a score.

Rockport handed Sinton a TD when quarterback Brent Boone looked short instead of hitting his open receiver long and a Sinton player just stepped in front of the ball and raced 91 yards for the score after the Pirates had gotten to Sinton's 9-yard line following a John Solis recovery of a pitchout. Solis was in the same position as the Sinton man who made the interception, but Pirate luck prevailed, and Solis got tripped up with an open field before him.

Before the half came, Sinton had collected 29 points to put the Pirates of Rockport in a real hole.

When the second half rolled around, the Pirate defense, led by John Hattenbach kept the ball away from Sinton's goal line except for one long option play where there was a questionable pitch downfield which could have been forward. Other than that, the Pirates did the job on defense.

Rockport seemed like a different ball team in the second half. The offense began moving the ball. Boone took control and paved the way with a pass play to Mark Dennis good for 15 yards and a score.

The Pirates tacked on the extra point by John Solis. Before the TD, the Pirates had moved the ball from their own 15-yard line after stopping Sinton there.

The Pirates went to the pass again on their next possession as Boone found Benny Arispe open for a 19-yard completion. Then Boone broke loose on a couple of long runs before his final 5-yard romp into the end zone behind good blocks from Dennis and Chad Kesler.

The Pirates again exhibited their pattern of not playing so well in the first half, and then coming back to play sound football the second 20 minutes.

Hattenbach led Pirate tacklers with 11 tackles. The top ball carriers for the Pirates in the game were Boone (87), Hattenbach (60) and Mark Garcia (44). This game was a good offensive effort for the Pirates who rolled up over 200 yards on the ground, and then picked up over 50 in the air.

The Freshmen will close their season this week in Calallen.

Don't cut that net

CORPUS CHRISTI — Well-meaning fishermen who have discovered what they thought were illegal gill nets have made the mistake of cutting them, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials.

Several negative things can result from this action. Biologist Joe Martin of Corpus Christi said that in some cases department nets used for research have been destroyed by anglers who probably assumed they belonged to poachers.

Department nets ordinarily have half-gallon plastic jugs at each end inscribed with the agency name.

Martin said "Even if the net is an illegal one, fishermen should not disturb it. Rather, he or she should contact a local game warden as soon as possible and give the net's location."

Heat and cool your home more efficiently with a heat pump.

That's right. It's easy to be misled by the name, but an electric heat pump actually provides air conditioning as well as heating—and does both more efficiently than any other combination unit on the market today.

This year-round comfort system is an especially good choice for South Texas, because the heat pump operates most economically in regions with relatively mild winters. In this area served by Central Power and Light Company, a properly installed heat pump can deliver at least 2½ BTU's of heat for every BTU of energy needed to run it.

And that, of course, means you save both electricity and money!

There's an easy explanation for the heat pump's high efficiency rating: it simply moves heat—and that's a less expensive process than making heat, as gas and other conventional systems must do. In the winter, a heat pump extracts heat from the outside air and brings it inside. In the summer, it removes heat from the interior, thus air conditioning and dehumidifying your home.

If you're buying or building a new house, a heat pump should head the list of priority items you want to include.

Or you might want to consider increasing the efficiency of the heating and cooling system in your present home with a heat pump. No matter what kind of unit you have now, addition of a high-efficiency heat pump will save energy.

One Of Our Biggest Assets...

is the Aransas County Emergency Corps. The ACEC consists of five volunteer fire departments: Rockport, Fulton, Lamar, Holiday Beach and Copano Cove. Over 150 dedicated volunteers throughout the county meet at night to train and to take care of some very impressive equipment. Together the five fire departments operate 14 fire trucks including a 1,000 GPM attack pumper and one equipped with the "Jaws of Life" for gaining access to trapped victims. Since 1938 this non-profit organization has had one goal: to save life and property in Aransas County.

One of our biggest assets at First National Bank is MPACT 24-hour banking service. With MPACT our volunteer fire fighters can take care of most of their banking needs even after working hard all day and well into the night.

Low carbohydrate super diet snacks

"Super snacks" for diabetics and people on calorie-restricted diets have to be "made with care."

This is because food plays a major part in controlling metabolic disorders such as diabetes, commonly called "sugar diabetes."

Too many carbohydrates, starches and sugars are bad for diabetics because their bodies don't produce enough insulin to counteract the effects of these types of food.

Diabetics can eat fresh fruits or unsweetened canned fruits. A baked apple sweetened with artificial sweetener, cinnamon and dietetic lemon-lime soft drink makes an exciting "super snack."

Another "Super snack" — pumpkin custard — can be made of unsweetened cooked pumpkin combined with artificial sweetener, cinnamon and ginger. This baked custard would be counted as a B vegetable or half slice of bread.

Plain or dietetic gelatins make great "super snacks," too. They can be prepared with or without fruits.

Try combining plain gelatin with low-calorie cranberry juice, artificial sweetener and orange rind. Pour into orange shells and refrigerate. If fruit is added to the gelatin, count the fruit as the fruit exchange for that meal.

Many diabetics are unaware that they can eat regular ice cream — in limited amounts — in place of a slice of bread and two fat exchanges.

Avoid diabetic candy and diabetic ice cream because they may be high in fat and extremely expensive. Also, the labels may be confusing.

If diabetic ice creams are used, they must be calculated into the diet.

Dietic soft drinks are allowed and can be used to flavor "super snack" items.

Paramedics answer 93 calls

Aransas County's paramedics and emergency medical service (EMS) volunteers responded to 93 calls, transported 62 patients and traveled 3,390 miles during October, according to a report from Paramedic Director Bill Aston.

Heart attacks led the list of reasons for calls during the month, with 22 calls to assist heart attack victims. Paramedics were also called to the scene of eight auto accidents, three motorcycle accidents and three auto-pedestrian accidents. Recreational accidents accounted for six calls and industrial accidents for two.

The Life Pak was used 33 times during the month, 14 patients were given drugs, 30 were administered IV's, two patients were defibrillated and three intubated.

Twenty-nine of the patients who were transported were taken to Coastal Bend Hospital in Aransas Pass. Fourteen were taken to Enterprise Medical Clinic, none to Spohn Hospital, three to Memorial Medical Center. Two patients were taken to Driscoll Children's Hospital, three to the Naval Air Station Hospital, one to Medical Arts Clinic.

The EMS made only two calls out of the county this past month. Forty-five calls were inside Aransas County, 44 in Rockport, two in Fulton.

Other reasons for calls in October included falls, seven; respiratory distress, eight; internal bleeding, six; drug overdose, three; childbirth/obstetrics, three; drunk calls, two; and burns, assault and diabetic calls, one each. The service received one nuisance call during the month and 16 calls were listed as "miscellaneous."

Fifteen patients were treated at the scene and not transported. Seventy-two patients were billed and 21 not billed during the month.

The unit was cancelled enroute on three calls during the month, the patient was gone on arrival on one occasion and five patients were dead at the scene. Seven patients refused service.

Two units were on the scene 10 times during the month and three units were at the scene once. The service received three calls to the Aransas County Jail.

Through the end of October, the three EMS units have logged a total of 36,246 miles on calls this year.

Someone is in the process of stealing your money

As you read this article, someone has a hand in your purse or billfold and is in the process of stealing your money.

You can't see them, you don't know who they are, but they are there nonetheless.

They think they are getting away with it. But chances are they have not yet met Richard Kusserow or heard about the crack-down on fraud ordered by HHS Secretary Richard S. Schweiker.

They are almost certain to have that opportunity and they will not enjoy it.

Secretary Schweiker hired Kusserow as Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services... one of the "junk-yard dogs" that President Reagan called on to stop fraud, waste and abuse of taxpayers' money.

HHS seems a vulnerable target because of its sheer size... a proposed budget of over $274 billion. But today, under the direction of Secretary Schweiker, it is no longer an easy mark.

At Schweiker's direction, Kusserow and his staff have focused their knowledge of computer science on HHS' share of Washington's huge waste, fraud and mismanagement problem. The computers have been programmed to screen out such problems as double billings by health care providers as well as welfare and Medicaid recipients who make false claims.

Working with State anti-corruption units, huge amounts of taxpayers' money are being recovered, offenders are being convicted and jailed and heavy fines are being levied.

Those who are cheating aren't just cheating the taxpayers who provide the money for HHS programs... they're also cheating the deserving poor who need help and may not be receiving enough because someone else is illegally taking too much.

Many offenders are already having reason to regret their actions. For example, a cardiologist admitted to filing nearly $1 million in false Medicare, Social Security and Workers Compensation claims. He was sentenced to seven years in prison, five years probation and paid a $300,000 fine plus a false claims fine of $500,000 under the False Claims Act in the Southern District of New York.

In Oklahoma, a physician and a pharmacist have been indicted on charges of a Medicaid prescription kick-back scheme. Another massive investigation has been launched on suspected under-the-table payments to some cardiologists by some heart pacemaker salesmen with Medicare dollars picking up the extra tab for those suspected payments.

A method has been developed to use computers to cross-check Social Security payments with Medicaid and Medicare records to discover checks still being mailed to people who have died. Eight thousand, three hundred such potential payments have already been identified. It is expected to result in savings of up to $20 million in erroneous benefit payments.

Kusserow recently unveiled "Operation Rain-bow," so named because it brings to bear a full spectrum of coordinated resources on provider fraud deterrence, detection and sanctions.

It's a multi-pronged attack which includes a nationwide information system that will make available to both public and private health care providers or insurers the names of health care professionals who have been convicted of defrauding one or more health programs. It also includes a legislative proposal to enable the federal government to exclude — from all its medical assistance programs — health care providers convicted of fraud in any one program.

Nursing home operators, home health care providers, ambulance services, medical equipment providers and hospital administrators as well as recipients and relatives of deceased recipients who seek to take illegal advantage of the public's generosity are being put on notice of the serious risks they will be taking.

Amish quilt exhibition set

CORPUS CHRISTI — A lecture by Mary Woodard Davis of Textile Workshops Inc., Santa Fe, N.M., will be held in conjunction with the Amish Quilt Exhibition presently on view at the Art Museum of South Texas.

Davis organized the exhibit which includes quilts from three private collections. The talk is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 11, in the museum auditorium.

Davis has had a life long involvement with fiber arts, beginning as a young child. She later went on to her M.A. in stage costume design and for several years was a professional stage designer. She has lived in Europe, studying at the Royal School of Needlework in England, with such teachers as Constance Howard, Edith Johns and Diana Springall.

Since her return to the United States, Davis has lived in Santa Fe where she established in 1969 the Textile Workshop Inc., an organization for teaching by internationally known professionals.

In 1979 Davis collected, organized and exhibited "The Miniature Fiber" which travelled throughout the U.S. accompanied by a catalogue also by Davis.

In 1980, with the assistance of an NEA grant, she organized and exhibited a pictorial quilt show.

She is currently studying designs of quilts, some as early as the 18th century, tracing the development and treatment of the "wedding ring" and "star" quilts from 1900 to the present.

BACK ON THE JOB after a temporary cessation, workmen resume preparation of land for construction of the new 49,000-square-foot H.E.B. grocery store in Rockport. Charles Blackburn with the L.E.B. office in Corpus Christi said work was begun too early on the store — three days before the beginning of the store's new budget year on Nov. 1 — and was stopped until the 1982-83 store budget was officially approved. He added there were no problems in getting money re-allocated for the Rockport construction and it is now "full speed ahead" on the project. Earlier, Blackburn said, "Our building program is flexible and in the course of exercising some of that flexibility, we had a short cessation of our activity" in Rockport.

Sodium labeling of foods should help consumers

COLLEGE STATON — Individuals wanting or needing to restrict their sodium (salt) intake will soon find the task a bit easier. Through the voluntary effort of food processors, about 40 percent of all food sold through supermarkets will be labeled as to its sodium content, beginning next spring.

"The sodium labeling effort comes on the heels of recent rising concern over the effects of high sodium diets," said Dr. Al B. Wagner Jr., food technologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Numerous studies have been conducted on the effects of sodium in the diet but results have been inconclusive, noted Wagner.

"Whether or not sodium is linked to high blood pressure or hypertension has been the basis for many studies," said Wagner. "The Institute of Food Technologists has reported that sodium does not cause hypertension but that the blood pressure of many unmedicated patients with hypertension can be lowered with a low sodium diet (less than one gram per day)."

But the IFT has also stated that people with normal blood pressure do not suffer any ill effects from a high sodium intake since only about 20 percent of the U.S. population has some degree of hypertension, Wagner noted. He added individual cases must be considered along with such interrelated factors as genetic background, stress, nutritional status and obesity.

Most Americans get plenty of sodium in their daily diets, said the food technologist. Salt (40 percent sodium) is the main contributor, but other food ingredients such as sodium nitrite, monosodium glutamate, sodium phosphate and sodium ascorbate also add to the total along with a variety of non-prescription drugs and common drinking water. In fact, softened water may contain two to three times more sodium than the same water before treatment, Wagner said.

"Of course, sodium is a necessary part of our diet," Wagner noted. "It helps with a host of body functions such as nerve transmissions, oxygen exchange and blood circulation. A person's minimum daily requirement has been estimated at 200 milligrams of sodium or one-half gram of salt."

Beside the obvious function of flavor enhancement, salt and other salt-containing ingredients also play a part in controlling fermentation, adding texture, preventing spoilage, retaining color and enhancing binding properties, Wagner said. So they are important in our lives and should pose no health threat except for a limited segment of the population. For this group, sodium labeling on food products should prove helpful.

Annual Christmas bazaar to offer variety of items

Hand-made Christmas ornaments, baked goods, gift items — and a lot more — will be found at this year's eighth annual Christmas Bazaar sponsored by members of the Women's Committee, Aransas County Medical Services Inc.

There'll be something for just about everyone at the Nov. 20-21 event, say co-chairmen Mary Casey and Juanita Wharton, adding that proceeds from the bazaar are used to help keep Aransas County's ambulance service running.

The bazaar will be at the Paws & Taws Building, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20, and from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. Sunday. Nine booths will offer handcrafts and gift items, including Christmas ornaments, bakery items, a "children's corner," linens and gift boutique, a "white elephant booth" and "Santa's sack." Fashion items such as handpainted skirts and tops made at the committee's workshop can be purchased at the bazaar or custom-ordered.

A highlight of both days will be lunch at Rosa's Italian Kitchen where the menu features homemade spaghetti, ravioli, chicken noodle soup and sandwiches.

The bazaar is the women's committee's single biggest fund-raising event of the year, Casey said, and Wharton emphasized, "We need everyone in the area to stop by the bazaar and buy something. Every penny spent at the bazaar helps maintain our ambulance service."

Water system requires ingenuity

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend Council of Governments

His honor stands knee deep in mud, repairing a leak in a water line. A stranger walks up and says, "I'm looking for Mayor Willis." The muddy gentleman, tall, a white beard blowing in the breeze off Copano Bay, responds, "I'm Andy Willis."

This sort of encounter is not infrequent. It's amazing to the visitor. It's commonplace to the towns-people of Bayside, Refugio County's waterfront community.

Mayor Andy Willis looks like the woodsman he has been. He knows how to do things himself. That's important since Bayside has only one paid employee, part-time, to handle water bills. A retired CPA serves as city secretary.

The water system in Bayside requires ingenuity. Andy Willis has lived there only five years. But he's been told how the system developed. About 80 years ago, a man drilled an artesian well 1,000 feet deep for his own use then willed it to what was then Bayside Colony. Residents carried containers there to get water.

One man laid a 1/4-inch pipe to his house a few blocks away. A neighbor got permission to tie onto that line. Another tied onto that. The water system grew, across lots, across streets, unmapped.

The main lines are all sizes, strung together. There may be a four-inch line connected to a two-inch connected to a stretch of garden hose, then back to a four-inch line.

Pressure is almost nonexistent. In the two-story house that Mayor Willis built himself for himself and his wife, there are two showers on the second floor. But you have to go downstairs to take a shower because there is insufficient pressure to lift water up to the shower-heads on the second floor.

The mayor is doing something about all this. He is laying a six-inch water line. He rented a ditch digger, which he got to keep for a week for four-days rent. From daylight to dark, he dug to get the ditching done before more rent came due.

The next step was to hook a homemade boat trailer onto the back of his personal car, as the city doesn't have a vehicle. He carries pipe on the trailer. Sometimes, a young man is available to help him put the pipe in the ground. The mayor says that on one of the times the man wasn't, his wife helped him. Mayor Willis covers up the pipe with dirt by pick and shovel, the city's only tools.

There are few valves in the water line. When a break occurs, if one of the valves is not nearby, the mayor climbs the water tower and shuts off the town's water supply while he repairs the line. There are no meters. Customers pay according to the number of people living there and use what water they want.

There is no monetary compensation for all this work. The man who is doing it finds the compensation of serving the community adequate. He says, "I'm thankful the good Lord has blessed me with good health for 79 years." The way he describes it, his body is 79 years old, but inside he's still 16.

His first memory is the fright of going down a steep mountain in a covered wagon. His father got out, cut down a tree and dragged the timber, but the wagon still tried to run over the horses.

Willis was born so deep in a New Mexico canyon that the sun could reach in only two hours a day. His family was living in a tent, his father hewing logs to finish a cabin before he arrived. Either the cabin was late in completion or he was early. He was born in the tent, his father sitting guard outside, a Winchester on his lap as mountain lions screamed nearby.

When he was 14, Willis went on his own, first into logging country, then into redwood country where he trapped and fished. He was to take his family back into that country during the depression and it sustained them. But on his 15th birthday, he was tamping ties on the railroad tracks reaching out across the west.

He is as comfortable now finding ways to meet the needs of a town as he was meeting the needs of his family. A woman calls his home and tells him there is a chuckhole in front of her house. The mayor thanks her, borrows a cart from the cemetery, takes a load of caliche and gravel and shovels it into the chuckhole. The woman comes out of her house, apologizing, "I wouldn't have called if I had known you would have to do it yourself."

Mayor Willis puts aside his shovel and with dignity and courtesy, discusses with his constituent the town's business.

The mayor describes himself as always having been adventurous and a dreamer. He hopes he'll never stop dreaming because that's when he says you begin to get old.

Problem

Avenue, Alderman Murray McMillan said, "I don't think the council can make a decision until we work out the drainage."

And City Attorney Allen Lee pointed out the city will first have to annex Traylor Avenue before it can annex Harbor Oaks Shopping Village. The city obtained permission from the county last January to annex the street.

Alderman Richard Beck, agreeing with McMillan, said, "We're not ready to annex Traylor until we know what we're going to do about the drainage."

McMillan subsequently suggested the workshop meeting with Urban Engineers — engineers for both the city and the Harbor Oaks shopping center project — and Seaman.

In other action Monday, the council adopted ordinances rezoning the Wal-Mart site from R-1 residential to B-1 business and rezoned a lot in Unit 1 of Rockport Country Club Estates from R-1 to R-5 residential. Both these measures were approved by the council on Oct. 11.

Also approved was an ordinance setting a 10 mph speed limit on Navigation Circle. The new speed limit was approved Sept. 27.

The council called for an appraisal of 10 existing city water well sites preparatory to declaring the sites surplus property. Gurley told the council the wells — six inside and four outside the city — have not been used since 1970.

A request by Dennis Jenkins concerning a parcel of property on which one of the water wells is located was tabled pending the council's decision on the well sites.

A request of Jack McCready, owner of Auto Safety Center, to install a 60-foot driveway, without openings, on Magnolia Street was approved by a 3-1 vote with Alderman W. B. Allen dissenting.

The council approved a request of Wimpol Inc., subsidiary of the George Wimpey Group in the United Kingdom, for permission to install a six-foot whip antenna on the Fulton water tower for about six weeks beginning Nov. 12. The city will charge $30 per week and Wimpol Inc. will pay for drawing up a "hold harmless" contract with the city.

Council members approved — again — a resolution establishing the Aransas County Emergency Management organization that replaces the old Civil Defense organization. The council approved the resolution earlier but Johnson said approval had been requested again.

Alderwoman Betty Jean Ward reported on the Texas Municipal League Conference she attended in Fort Worth on Oct. 25.

A proposal by Mayes Painting & Decorating for painting the city's warehouses — including rustproofing — for $1,560 was approved.

Dec. 13 was set for opening of bids on purchase of a new backhole.

The council authorized a loan of $1,506 from the general fund to meet payment of interest coupons due Wednesday, Nov. 10. The loan will be reimbursed when tax revenues are received.

The council cancelled the council meeting that would normally be on Dec. 27 and set Dec. 13 as the date for the joint city-planning and zoning commission public hearing.

Rockport Police Chief Joe Hinojosa and Doug Wilcox, animal control officer, gave the regular monthly reports for their departments.

Road

road was closed. The original petition asking to close the road stated that the road was unused and its closing would neither interfere with or inconvenience public travel. The ensuing protest questions this claim. In addition, the location of the fence may not be legal, according to the guidelines laid out in the original petition.

Those who wanted to close the road, Port Bay Hunting Club and residents with property adjacent to the road, cited vandalism, trespassing, poaching and litter as reasons behind requesting the closing. In addition, livestock on one resident's property were apparently slaughtered by trespassers, although this factor was not mentioned when the road closing was requested.

Mitch Ammons spoke out on behalf of Riordan and Thomas saying he supported the men and the letter of protest, and told the court he would bring the question before the Aransas County Taxpayers Association for a formal declaration of support if it would help the men's case.

County Commissioner Ray Longino told Ammons that he had already contacted one of ACTA's officers — J.C. Harlan, who told him it was all right if the county closed the road. Ammons told Longino that Harlan is not an officer of ACTA, nor is he a spokesman for the organization.

When the county closed the road, it maintained drainage easements to the property. The county now has three options: it may let the road closing stand; it may find that the closing does not comply with the law and rescind the order to close the road; or, if the closing was legal and it wants to reopen the road, it must condemn the property and repossess it through purchase. In any event, a decision is not expected before the Nov. 24 meeting of the commissioners court.

In other court action, Aransas County Clerk Val Jean Eaton canvassed election returns for the court. Eaton said the voting went smoothly, with a minimum of error, all of which was human rather than machine.

Aransas County Navigation District Commissioner Hillis Dominguez asked the court for an increase in car allowance for navigation district commissioners from $75 to $125. Dominguez cited the cost of gas and car repairs as the main reasons for the request. He told the court that the navigation district budget will have to be revised but there is enough money in the budget to cover the increase. Judge Wendell told Dominguez there may be a legal problem in increasing the car allowance right now since ordinarily it must be done at the time of the budget hearing. Wendell told Dominguez to ask navigation district attorney Reese Rozelle to research the legality of the request and report back to the court at the next meeting.

Harold Shear presented the final plat of the Arrowhead Acres subdivision, located on Rattlesnake Point Road across from the Copano Ranchettes. Approval of the plat was tabled at the last meeting pending proof of drainage. Proof of drainage was provided at this meeting, although there was some question in the minds of several of the commissioners as to whether the property would actually drain in case of high water. Commissioner W.B. "Pete" Sanders asked Aransas County Surveyor T.E. Griffith if he would approve the plans if he (Griffith) were a commissioner. Griffith said that he would. "If it's proof of drainage to him, it's proof of drainage to me," Sanders said. The court unanimously approved the plat.

Grace Stanick asked the court for preliminary approval of a subdivision planned for an area near Bishop Road and Porter Ave., off of Hwy. 35 South. The court gave preliminary approval and will consider the final plat at a later date.

In addition, the court gave permission to begin bidding on a new copy machine for the courthouse. Bids will be opened at the Nov. 24 commissioners court meeting.

The court reappointed J. Curtis Kovacs Aransas County Health Officer. Kovacs current term expires Dec. 31.

Commissioner Ray Longino told the court that the man who owns the property adjacent to where the county storage barn is located is interested in selling some of the land to the county. The county has expressed a need for an expanded storage area. Longino told the court that the man would be in to speak with Judge Wendell regarding the matter at the beginning of next month.

Val Jean Eaton read the monthly reports and the bills were read and approved for payment.

minute executive session to consider appointment of another board member to fill the seat vacated when Vice President Joe Ed Meyer resigned earlier this year and other personnel matters. When the board emerged President Otis Mundine announced that no action had been taken.

In other school board action, members gave permission for the RFHS Pirate Band to attend the 1984 Cotton Bowl parade in Dallas, Dec. 30 through Jan. 2. Superintendent Joe Randow estimates the trip will cost around $18,000. Approximately $8,000 would be raised by the Band Boosters Club and an additional $6,000 is expected from candy sales. The remainder would be financed by the band members themselves and their families.

Randow reported on the Texas Education Agency's accreditation process. The ACISD is currently developing goals and plans to qualify for accreditation by the TEA.

Rockport Elementary School Principal Norman Spears told the board of the success of Rockport Elementary's Halloween Carnival. The carnival grossed $2,600 this year after expenses, $1,200 more than last year. Spears was pleased with the success of this year's carnival, designed to

Charter

P&Z members should be appointed for two or three-year terms. As originally proposed by Tiner's committee, the terms would have been for two years.

However, in response to a question from Armstrong on whether two years is long enough, charter commissioner Ralph Winkelman — a member of the present city P&Z board — recommended a three-year term. "It takes one year (on the board) to get acclimated. The next year, you sort of know what's going on," he said.

Barbara (Mrs. Ed) Armstrong, present at Monday's meeting and a member of the P&Z, said she personally felt a three-year term is better.

Charter commission member Gayle Atchley questioned whether the tenure of P&Z board members should be included in the city charter or left to city ordinance. "I'd like to see the charter as broad as possible," she said. She received support later from Mrs. Armstrong who said, "I think you're trying to put in a city charter what's already in a city ordinance. I agree with Gayle."

keep Aransas County children off the streets this Halloween and into a protected environment.

Superintendent Joe Randow announced that most tax statements would be mailed by Nov. 12, and expects collection to begin shortly after residents receive their tax statements.

Tiner quoted the "Model City Charter" as setting a three-year term for P&Z members and commission member J.C. Harlan subsequently moved that the charter be approved with a provision for three-year overlapping terms.

Other provision adopted by the charter commission Monday night would require that members of the P&Z commission be qualified city voters owning real property within the city and allow the P&Z board to adopt its own chairman. The P&Z would have to meet at least once each month "when practicable."

In addition to providing for a master plan for the city and recommending the capital improvements to be made each year, the P&Z would also be responsible for making recommendations on zoning within the city.

The charter commission will meet again Monday, Nov. 15, to complete work on proposed Article X — and possibly — discuss proposed Charter Article VIII tax administration. Article VIII was deferred from an earlier meeting.

Bald eagle to visit 4 cities

Americans in four southwestern cities have a chance to view their national symbol — a live American bald eagle — this month as "Migisiwa" goes on tour.

Migisiwa, a 12-year adult male bald eagle on loan to the National Wildlife Federation from the federal government, is visiting New Orleans, Houston, Dallas and Omaha from Nov. 8 through 21 for a series of educational presentations in commemoration of 1982 as the "Year of the Eagle." The tour, sponsored by Exxon U.S.A., is the sixth in a series of scheduled trips designed to help focus public attention on the plight of the bald eagle, now an endangered species throughout most of the United States.

In each city, Migisiwa's schedule includes a variety of programs at zoos, nature centers, schools and corporations.

Migisiwa has been in captivity since 1970, when he fractured his right wing in a collision with an automobile in Florida — an injury that prevents him from ever returning to the wild. For the past 12 years, he has been in the custody of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's captive breeding program at the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Patuxent, Md. He is on loan to the National Wildlife Federation throughout the "Year of the Eagle" for use in educational programs.

President Reagan officially proclaimed 1982 as a commemorative year for the eagle last January, when he urged Americans to honor the 200th anniversary of the bald eagle's selection as this country's national symbol. The National Wildlife Federation had worked for more than eight months to garner

Now is the time to prepare spring bulbs

By TED BRICE

"The Garden Editor"

It's the time of the year to plan and purchase your bulbs for spring bloom. I will cover three of the most popular spring bulbs here: the tulip, the hyacinth and the daffodil or the narcissi. The narcissi is the botanical name that encompasses all varieties of daffodil and jonquils. In many instances the name daffodil is used for the entire Narcissi family. Since our winters here in the South are more like the springs in the North I recommend the early varieties for more satisfaction and repeated seasons of blooms.

The narcissi can be grown in most any type of soil but they need fertilizing after their bloom and again in the fall. Use one-half pound of bone meal or blood meal and superphosphate to every 10-square-foot clump of plants. This mixture should be worked in lightly and then watered in. Remember that all bulbs need good drainage.

Narcissi are good for borders and naturalizing. They may remain in the ground from one season to another. However, every fourth year they should be lifted and divided to insure bloom. There are many good varieties for Texas — to name a few: Yellows, King Alfred, Unsurpassable, Aerolite and Alasnam, White and Mount Hood.

Hyacinths, both the Dutch and the Roman varieties, have delightful shades of color that are most attractive in groups. They should be stored in the refrigerator (not frozen) until the weather cools.

The hyacinth will grow eight to 12 inches tall with six to 10-inch pom-pom-like clusters of singles or double flowers. In planting your hyacinths, space them four to six inches apart in a sunny location. Cover the bulb with four to five inches of soil.

The hyacinths make an excellent border for walks and beds as well as being excellent naturalized. Left undisturbed, they will produce flowers for years.

Hyacinths have a sweet, haunting fragrance that is associated with spring. Some of the more noted varieties are: Amsterdam (salmon pink), Bismark (pale blue), City of Harlem (primrose yellow), L'Innocence (pure white), King of Blues (rich indigo blue) and Pink Pearl (deep pink).

Tulips are a mainstay of spring gardens everywhere and can provide an abundance of flowers in a wide spectrum of colors from March through May.

Dwarf tulips are excellent in rock gardens and the taller ones are excellent in borders and naturalizing. Most tulips make excellent cut flowers. There are over 4,000 named varieties of tulips which are grouped into 15 classes.

It is necessary to refrigerate tulips five to six weeks (not freeze) here in Texas before planting. After the completion of this refrigeration period the tulips should be planted immediately.

An application of five to six pounds of bone or blood meal per 100-square feet should be worked into the soil at the time of planting. Then when the first shoots appear in the spring work in a light application of 5-10-5 fertilizer.

The bulbs should be planted two to three inches apart since they will not repeat here next year. They should be planted five to six inches deep to protect them from our heat in the late fall and early winter.

You can plant annuals above the tulips. The tulips will push up and then the annual will hide the maturing tulip foliage and faded flowers.

One of the more notable classes and varieties is the Sarwin Tulips, which is a midseason variety and grows 22 to 30 inches tall. The Darwin tulip is a large-cup flower. Some other varieties are Apeldoorn (orange-red), Gud-osknick (creamy peach), Aristocrat (violet rose), La Tulipe Noire (blackish purple) and Zuanenburg (white).

Cottage Tulips grow 16 inches to three feet tall with egg-shaped flowers. Some of the more popular cottage tulips are Georgetown, a clear yellow with red edges and Mrs. John T. Scheepers, soft yellow with rosy wings, pink shading to white at the base.

Parrot Tulips are late flowering, grow 20 to 28 inches tall and produce blooms with twisted petals. The edges are cut into feather-like segments. Some of the more popular varieties are Allard Pierson (blood red with a blue base), Blue Parrot (lavender blue) and Fantasy (green markings on a red pink background).

Marine industry seminar held in Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI — The outlook for the marine/offshore industry in the Coastal Bend area, along with financial management techniques for marine industries, will be discussed at a one-day seminar here Nov. 18.

"Marine and offshore industries need to consider a variety of factors as they plan their operations. This program will help identify current trends, problems and financing alternatives," said Dewayne Hollin, seminar coordinator and marine business management specialist for the Texas A&M University Marine Advisory Service (MAS). MAS is a joint effort of Texas A&M, the Texas A&M Sea Grant College Program and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Advisory agents and specialists work to bring the expertise and research capabilities of the University to bear upon problems of the marine industry and coastal communities.

A.D. Hildreth Jr., certified public accountant, will moderate a panel on the outlook for major segments of the marine and offshore industry in the Coastal Bend area. Panelists will consider market supply and demand, regulatory trends, technological developments, labor availability, financial trends and special problems and opportunities. Panel members include Jerry Edmondson, vice-president of personnel, Marine Drilling Company; Walter A. Flippo, vice-president, Western Hemisphere, Jackson Marine Corporation; James M. Goldston, president, Goldston Corporation; James C. Pieper, manager, Brown & Root Inc.; Western Hemisphere Marine Construction, Harbor Island Fabrication Yard; Ralph Rayburn, executive director, Texas Shrimp Association; and R.C. Thwing, president, Loyd W. Richardson Construction Corporation.

A second panel will discuss financial management for marine industries including commercial loans and financing alternatives, bankruptcy and ways to develop financial statements. Jerry Mahoney, president, Baker, Lyman & Company Inc., will moderate. Panel members include Jimmy R. Price, president and chairman of the board, Texas Commerce Bank, Corpus Christi; Matthew A. Rosenstein, attorney, Kleberg, Dyer, Redford and Weil; and James B. Frazier, P.C.

Harry G. Plomarity, port director, Port of Corpus Christi Authority, will speak on "The Coastal Bend — Assessment of Marine Industry Economic Impact and Outlook for Future Development."

The seminar will be held at the La Quinta Royale Motor Inn in Corpus Christi. It is sponsored by the Texas A&M Sea Grant College Program and the Marine Service Association of Texas. Registration is $25 per person.

Sea Grant is a unique blend of federal, state and private effort intended to bring the resources of leading educational institutions to bear on marine and marine-related problems. The Marine Services Association of Texas is a non-profit organization devoted to the advancement of marine business serving the inland, coastal and offshore waters of Texas.

Pet Talks

By Dr. H.H. Lutz

Only a healthy pet is a happy companion. To assure your pet's daily well-being requires regular care. Pay close attention to any hint of ill health.

You should have a veterinarian examine your pet if he shows any of the following signs:

1. Excessive water consumption, marked weight loss or loss of appetite.

2. Difficult, abnormal or uncontrolled waste elimination.

3. Excessive head shaking, scratching and licking or biting any part of the body.

4. Dandruff, loss of hair, open sores and a ragged or dull coat.

5. Foul breath or excessive tartar deposits on teeth.

6. Abnormal lumps, limping or difficulty in getting up or lying down.

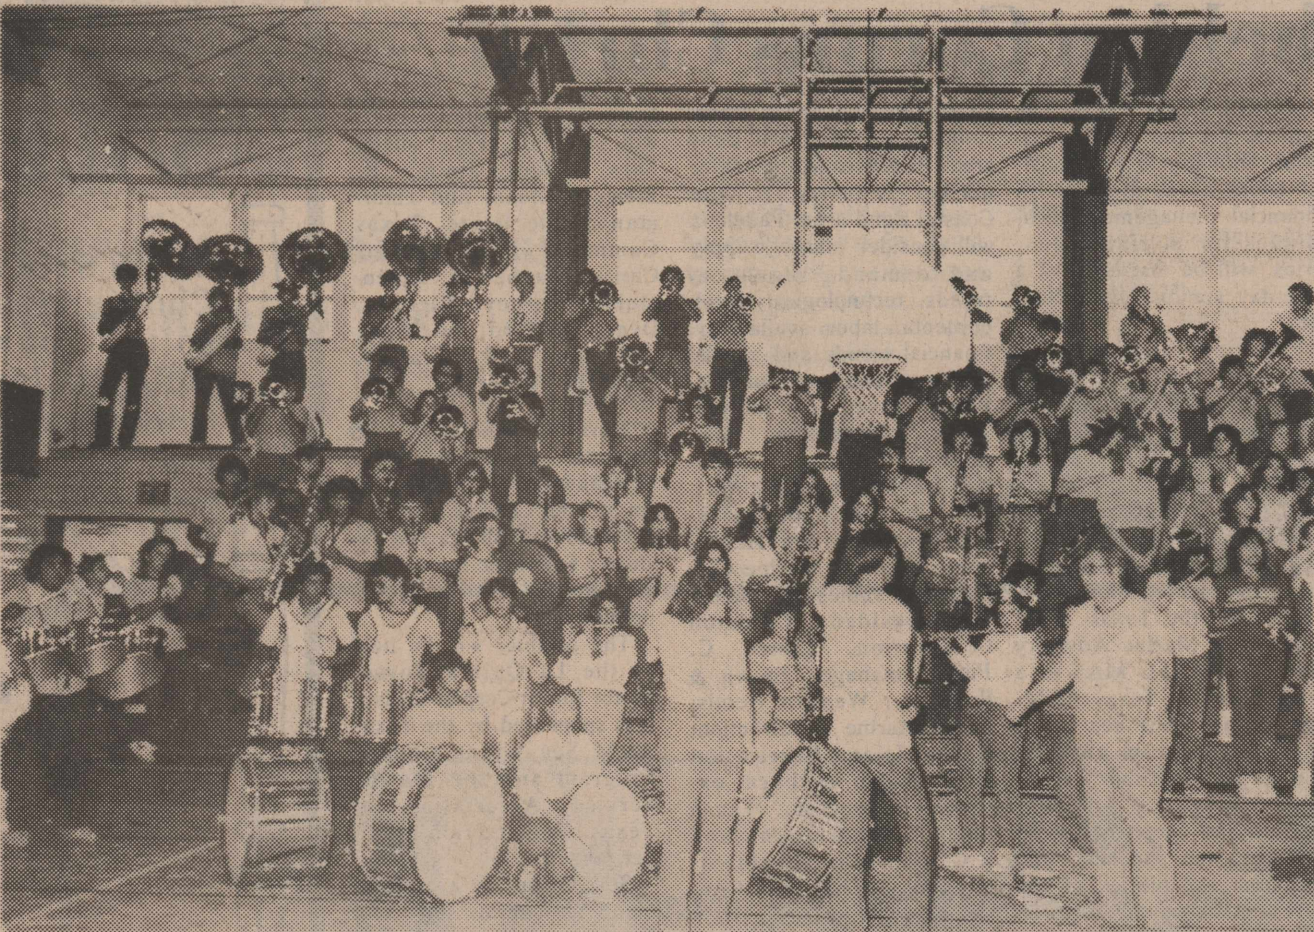

7. Abnormal discharges from the nose, eyes or other body openings.

8. Abnormal behavior (sudden viciousness or lethargy).

If you have any questions concerning the health and care of your pet, send them to The Rockport Pilot, 1002 Wharf St., Rockport, Tex. 78382. Dr. Lutz will answer them in the weekend edition.

County receives bingo payment

Aransas County has received $255.98 from State Comptroller Bob Bullock as the county's share of an optional two percent local tax on charity bingo games.

The announcement came from Bullock last Thursday, Nov. 4, who said a total of $184,796 in tax revenue was sent to 40 Texas counties and 28 cities that have legalized charity bingo and levied the optional tax.

He added the quarterly allocation of bingo tax collected by his office and returned to local governments was more than $68,000 higher this quarter than for the first quarterly payment made in August.

The biggest check went to Nueces County where 40

Corpus Christi area organizations are licensed to conduct bingo games. Taxes there amounted to $19,890.

The biggest check to a city went to Mesquite which received $6,926 in revenue collected from six organizations conducting games there.

As of last Wednesday, Nov. 3, 98 Texas counties, 118 cities and 90 justice precincts had legalized charitable bingo through the Comptroller's Bingo

Regulation Division. The Comptroller had received 1,086 bingo license applications and had issued 1,903 licenses.

Peanuts plentiful this year

COLLEGE STATION — Households won't have to worry about running out of peanut butter and other peanut products for a while.

Peanuts are plentiful due to bountiful crops the past few years, and this year's crop also looks good despite a drop in acreage, says Johnny Feagan, an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

About 213,000 fewer acres of peanuts will be harvested in the U.S. this year compared to 1981 while the Texas crop will be down 22,000 acres.

At the same time, national yields are estimated at 2,668 pounds per acre, about the same as last year, while Texas yields are expected to be down some 200 pounds per acre from 1,625 pounds last year. This is due to the season-long drought and late plantings caused by adverse spring weather, notes Feagan.

This year's crop will add to an already growing supply in commercial storage which stood at almost 600 million pounds on Sept.

1. This was more than double the amount on hand a year ago.

At the same time stocks of shelled peanuts totaled 570 million pounds, also double last year's figure.

According to Feagan, peanut usage has continued to increase but not enough to keep supplies in check. Millings for August were up seven percent over a year ago while use of shelled edible grade peanuts by commercial processors was up 57 percent. This usage was up 31 percent for peanut butter, 60 percent for peanut candy and 99 percent for salted peanuts.

Consumers will find plenty of their favorite peanut products in supermarkets for some time to come.

FIESTA '83 artists sought

AUSTIN — FIESTA '83, at Austin's Laguna Gloria Art Museum, is currently distributing entry applications to artists and craftsmen interested in showing and selling their original works.

All completed applications must be received by the Artist Selection Committee of FIESTA no later than Dec. 1.

Last year FIESTA '82 featured more than 200 exhibiting artists and attracted over 65,000 visitors. The celebration of FIESTA's 33rd year will be one the weekend of May 20, 21 and 22.

FIESTA is the largest arts and crafts show in the Southwest. Sponsored by the Women's Art Guild, the event generates proceeds which are donated to the Museum as the major fund-raising contribution to the yearly operating budget.

The show is held on the 29-acre grounds of Laguna Gloria, a Mediterranean-style villa which was built in 1916 by Hal and Clara Driscoll Sevier and now houses the city art museum. An official historic site, the property overlooking Lake Austin was originally chosen in 1832 by Stephen F. Austin, father of Anglo-American settlement in Texas, as his preferred homestead.

Artists whose work has been reviewed and approved by the Artist Selection Committee will be admitted to FIESTA '83. Artists wanting more details and applications forms should contact Vicki Chapman, 4021 Greenhill Place, Austin, Tex. 78759, or call (512) 346-3987.

Brown & Root promotes two

HOUSTON — Brown & Root President Thomas J. Feehan announced the promotion of two officers, Jack T. Gossett and Bill E. Stallworth.

Both men are being promoted from positions of group vice president to executive vice president, Brown & Root Inc., the world's largest engineering and construction company and a Halliburton Company.

Gossett will be responsible for all land-based operations of Brown & Root, which includes engineering, construction, project management and business development for petroleum and chemical plants; forest products manufacturing facilities; metal products and mining; highway, bridge and dam construction.

Stallworth's responsibilities include engineering, construction, project management and business development for all marine operations — offshore pipelines; platform design, fabrication and installation and marine equipment.

Gossett and Stallworth will join Feehan; W. B.

Pieper, senior executive vice president of operations; executive vice president of finance and administration, Don E. Warfield; and James W. Wilson, senior vice president and general counsel, as a six-man executive committee for the management of the company.

Gossett, a 34-year employee of Brown & Root, began as a pipefitter. He has been an officer of the company the last nine years and previously was project manager.

He has been responsible for all phases of construction, maintenance and administration of projects as diverse as chemical plants, power plants, pipelines and compressor stations, sulphur mines, paper mills and refineries.

He is a native of Norris City, Ill.

Stallworth, an employee of Brown & Root since 1956 when he left the U.S. Air Force, began his career as an estimator. He spent 14 years with Brown & Root on overseas assignments in Venezuela, England and the Middle East and was elected an officer of the company in 1973.

The most independent athletes

When the Longhorn World Championship Rodeo comes to The Summit on Nov. 19-21, it will feature America's most independent athletes. The lifestyle of a professional rodeo cowboy is unlike that of any other professional athlete. Rodeo contestants come from all walks of life; some compete in rodeos as their only job, others rodeo fulltime and run a ranching operation as well, and still others are school teachers, doctors or insurance salesmen who moonlight as rodeo cowboys.

Rodeo cowboys receive no guaranteed salaries; instead, they actually pay an entry fee of $40 to $100 for the privilege of competing in one of the six rodeo contests. If a cowboy like all-around champion Dan Dailey enters four contests at one rodeo, his total entry fees may reach as much as $400.

The only guarantee a rodeo cowboy has is that he will have a fair chance to win part of the prize money, which is shared by only the top four to eight riders in each contest.

Professional rodeo cowboys even differ from athletes in other individual sports. They have no coaches or trainers to advise them or to help plan careers.

Each cowboy chooses the rodeos he wants to enter and the contest events he will work. Most cowboys try to compete in as many rodeos as possible. They map routes of each week's rodeos, trying to work the most rodeos in the fewest miles per week. During the peak rodeo season a cowboy may work as many as six rodeos in five days. He doesn't spend much time in any one town. He may compete at a rodeo in Oklahoma on Wednesday night, Missouri on Thursday, Illinois on Friday, Ohio on Saturday and Tennessee on Sunday.

When a cowboy arrives at a particular rodeo, he does not choose the animals for his competition. Sheer chance determines which animal will test his skill.

Each bronc, bull, calf or steer is branded or tagged with identifying numbers or letters. Prior to the rodeo performance, the judges place all the numbers in a container and draw an animal for each cowboy. A contestant must compete on the animal drawn for him by the judges.

Every cowboy or cowgirl is responsible for maintenance of his equipment. No contestant is given a second chance if his equipment fails, so all gear must be maintained in top condition. Timed event contestants have the added responsibility and expense of transporting and caring for a horse.

An important part of every cowboy's routine is staying in good physical condition. Jogging around the rodeo grounds and doing calisthenics are the rule, rather than the exception. Many also lift weights regularly.

Rodeo cowboys receive no sick leave or workmen's compensation. When a cowboy is injured, an inevitable occurrence for anyone in professional rodeo, he will often continue competing even though he is injured.

Near-fatal injuries or ones requiring surgery are about the only ones that will keep a rodeo hand from competition. As one Colorado sportswriter said, "I am forever amazed at the injuries a professional cowboy can receive and continue competing. An athlete in any other sport would be out for the season."

The Longhorn World Championship Rodeo is scheduled Friday, Nov. 19 at 8 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 20 at 8 p.m.; and Sunday, Nov. 21 at 2 p.m. Tickets are priced at $8.50, $7.50 and $6.50 and are on sale at The Summit Box Office and all Ticketron and Ticketmaster outlets. For group sales information call: (713) 627-9470. To charge tickets on Visa or MasterCard call (713) 627-9452.

tary; and Susan Phillips, historian. James F. Gillis will serve the second year of his two-year term as parliamentarian.

RFJHS holds election

The student body of Rockport-Fulton Junior High School held their own election for important state and national leaders on Tuesday, Nov. 2.

After the votes had been counted, the following returns were announced: for governor, Mark White had won by 11 votes; for lieutenant governor, Bill Hobby by 110 votes; for U.S. senator, Lloyd Bentsen by 27 votes; for U.S. representative, Bill Patman by 91 votes; and for state representative, Bill Harrison by 15 votes.

"This was an excellent and meaningful experience for the students because they were involved in an important democratic process," said John Hodge, junior high principal. The voting was open to all students and took place during the lunch period in the cafeteria. The process of voting followed as closely as was possible the standard voting procedure with three eighth graders acting as judges. They were Barry McKinney, Terry Mason and Frances Rolland, who are on the staff of the Buc Roundup, the RFJH newspaper.

Each voter presented a voter registration form, signed the registration book, picked up a ballot, marked it and dropped the ballot into the ballot box.

In the days prior to the election, students were made aware of the importance of the right to vote, and made to understand some of the issues which were involved in this election. Most had decided that unemployment, inflation and crime were the most important issues. They brought brochures and other information from both the Republican and Democratic headquarters in Rockport to class where they made posters and gave reports on their favorite candidates.

This project took place in the sixth, seventh and eighth grade social studies classes.

contest." The fifth grade class had more parents join to school's parent advisory council than any other class.

Extracurricular activities a way of life for Beard

By Shana Griffin
Contributing writer

Donald Beard, Pirate Log editor, contributes long hours of work not only to the school paper, but also to the Science Club, choir and drama departments.

This senior has accomplished many projects during his high school years. Beard had a part in the plays "Bet Your Boots," "As You Like It," and now the upcoming "Grease." During second semester of this year he will have an opportunity to direct a play.

Beard has made all-district choir for the last three years and has been a member of the all-region choir for the past two. On a scale of one to five with one being the highest, he received a rating of one on the class I solos he has performed each year. Donald also obtained a rating of two at the state competition and a one at the University Interscholastic League competition. He participated in a madrigal performed by the choir, which is a part of a song sung without music.

This year as a senior, Donald is again on the all-district choir. On Nov. 13 he will try out for the regional choir.

"It is more advantageous to you to be more active during your high school years by joining clubs and other projects. It gives you experience and allows you to communicate with others in your later years," stated Beard.

Clardy performed throughout the United States as principal flutist with the U.S. Armed Forces Bicentennial Band. In 1978, she was winner in the Young Artist Competition of the National Flute Association with the finals held in Washington, D.C.

Her recital Monday will include "Sonata IV in F Major, K. 13" by Mozart; "Fantaisie XII in G Minor" by G.P. Telemann; "Air de Ballet d'Ascanio" by C. Saint-Saens; "Acht Stucke" by P. Hindemith and "Carmen Fantaisie" by F. Borne from the opera by G. Bizet.

clinic set for 4-H youth

SINTON — The Agricultural Extension Service will present a sheep fitting and grooming clinic at 1 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 13, at the San Patricio County Fairgrounds, said John Regmund, county extension agent.

This program is designed to help youngsters with 4-H lamb projects, Regmund said. It is also useful for parents and adult leaders. Regmund added that he

HECE class takes field trips

By Cindy Price

Home Economics Cooperative Education (HECE) recently went on two field trips. On Nov. 3 they traveled to the Holiday Lodge and on Nov. 4 to Schrenkeisen's.

The Holiday Lodge is the training station of HECE member Debra Stachowiak. Debra's area of training is housekeeping-management assistant. She demonstrated tasks she performs on her job for the rest of the class.

The class then went to Schrenkeisen's restaurant to observe Kathy Appleward demonstrating the skills required for food service.

HECE provides students an opportunity to determine whether or not they are interested in a specific occupation by experiencing it under working conditions before high school graduation.

Finally, classroom analysis and group discussion of a variety of on-the-job situations permit a better understanding of the hows and whys of the working world from a broader base than one's own single job.

Admission representatives attempt to recruit seniors

By Candy Kalal
Contributing writer

One of the major problems facing Rockport-Fulton High School seniors this year may be the selection of the right college to attend.

College and university representatives are already beginning to visit the school. In fact, Princeton University and Austin College have already sent scouts.

According to Claudia Nelson, school counselor, not many students meet with these people. "The purpose of these visits is to provide the necessary information to help students make their choice in colleges. They hand out catalogs, discuss admission requirements, describe the campus and extracurricular activities and mainly give an overall view of the college and its environment," Nelson said.

Students need not feel committed to attending the first school they interview with, but if they are interested, a card will be provided so they may get in touch with the college admissions office.

RFHS band goes to UIL contest

By Rhonda Miller
Contributing writer

Saturday, Nov. 6 turned out to be a grueling day for the Rockport-Fulton High School Pirate Band. The band met at the high school at 10:15 that morning to practice before traveling to the University Interscholastic League marching contest in Robstown.

The band put on their uniforms and warmed up for their performance at 2:55 p.m.

After waiting five to 10 minutes for the final results of the contest, the band received a rating of two on a one to five scale with one being a high score and five being a low score.

The rating of two was based on an opinion from the judges that the band was overblowing and trying to please the audience instead of the judges. In addition, there were a few marching mistakes.

The RFHS Pirate Band returned to Rockport that evening after the contest was over.

Edens elected to TSTA

By Shana Griffin
Contributing writer

Dwight Edens, former Rockport junior high school and current high school math teacher for nine years, has been elected to the district executive committee of the Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA). His new duties include planning and implementing programs that aid the teaching profession and teachers.

For the last three years Edens has been the TSTA district treasurer and he is currently the president for the local unit of the TSTA.

Being TSTA treasurer kept him busy. From 4 p.m. until 10 p.m. or midnight for three nights each month, Edens works for the TSTA. The job requires plenty of time and patience especially when there are Algebra classes to teach.

Hegen to attend world food show

Annette Reddell Hegen of Rockport has been selected to participate in the U.S. Seafood Sales Exhibit at the 10th Salon International de L'Alimentation (SIAL '82) in Paris, France, Nov. 11-24. This international food exposition is the second largest show of its kind in the world. The U.S. seafood exhibit which Hegen will help monitor is the largest seafood exhibit ever and will occupy 40 percent of the U.S.A. pavilion. Hegen is a seafood consumer education specialist with the state's seafood marketing team, Texas A&M University, Sea Grant College Program. Texas products to be displayed at the food show are black drum, sheepshead, sea catfish, mullet, shark, spot, rock shrimp, shrimp and squid. Reports by the U.S. fishing industry on successes of past overseas seafood trade shows have been very encouraging. Participants in the American Seafood

Exhibit last year report $10 million in orders. America's best European customers last year were the United Kingdom, France and the Netherlands. A special feature of the U.S. pavilion will be a French chef who will prepare recipes of U.S. seafood products for international consumers. The U.S. display will occupy approximately 4,320 square feet, divided into two geographic areas to permit the east and west coasts to present their seafood products. The U.S., once regarded as only an importer of seafood, has dramatically increased its exports in the past several years. In 1981, U.S. fish exports reached the highest level in history with exports valued at $1.16 billion. Fish exports in 1981 were $150 million higher than 1980 exports. Following the show, Hegen will attend the Cordon Bleu and LaVarenne Cooking Schools.

Rural industrial workshop set

COLLEGE STATDN — How to bring industries to rural areas and small towns will be the focus of a Rural Industrial Development Workshop at Texas A&M University Nov. 16-18. The workshop at A&M's Rudder Center will feature speakers who have led successful moves to attract industries to specific areas, says Jack Jones, a community development specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. In addition, various aspects of industrial development will be discussed, including financing, community attitudes toward growth, site location, speculative buildings, prospecting for industries and marketing an industrial site.

The three-day workshop will culminate a 12-week home study course by some 40 individuals interested in learning more about industrial development in rural areas, says Jones. Among featured speakers will be H. D. Davis of Saginaw, who was the 1981 Volunteer Small City Developer of the Year; Q. T. Jones, Westinghouse Electric Co., Pittsburg, Pa.; George McKinney, Texas Power and Light Co., Dallas; R. H. McClellan, Texas Electric Service, Fort Worth; Wendell Fields, Delta Steel Buildings Co., Dallas; Kenneth Burdick, Lone Star Gas Co., Dallas; Webb Cox, Small Business Administration, Greenville; Jack Boyd, Farmers Home Administration, Temple; and Bruce Barton and Charles

Wood, Texas Industrial Commission, Austin. Texas A&M officials on the program in addition to Jones include Dr. James Mallett, state community development leader for the Extension Service; Dr. James Copp, professor of sociology and rural sociology; Dr. Michael Woods, Extension economist; and Larry Burnside, manager of the public works resource center, and Dr. Charles Madden, head of the industrial economic research group, both with the Texas Engineering Experiment Station.

CHECK BUILDER'S CREDENTIALS

As with other consumer items, the quality of a new house varies according to the manufacturer. Before buying a new house, you should determine whether or not it was constructed by a reputable builder.

Good builders often have been in business a number of years under the same name and have customers who can attest to the quality of their houses.

Many reliable builders are members of the registered builder program of the National Association of Home Builders. This program requires members to meet certain professional and financial standards.

Finally, see if the builder is listed in the local telephone directory. Be cautious of builders who can be found only under the name of a recent housing development and not under a permanent business identification.

A quick investigation of your builder can help assure that the house you buy is well built.

KITCHEN STORAGE SPACE IN THE HOME

Before buying a home, examine the amount and configuration of the storage space in the kitchen. For a family of four, experts at the Federal Housing Administration recommend a minimum total shelf area of 50 square feet.

But beware of cabinets designed primarily to make a kitchen look like it contains a lot of storage space. Shelves which are only six inches deep are useless for storing most items.

FHA experts also recommend that a kitchen for the average family contain a minimum of 11 square feet of drawer space. Again, don't just look at the amount, but also the configuration.

Shallow drawers don't hold much, and the rear half of extremely deep drawers is hard to reach and tends simply to accumulate unused junk. Keep these suggestions in mind when shopping for a home — and remember to carry with you that one indispensable item: a measuring tape.

WATCH TRAFFIC FLOW

Here are some tips that will help you select or design a home with good traffic flow patterns.

Experts suggest that your main entrance should lead people directly into the living room and be easily accessible from the driveway or street.

A separate family entrance with a sheltered walkway leading to the driveway also is desirable. This entrance can be used for bringing in groceries and wet or muddy children.

The room arrangement of the house should allow you to go from any room to any other room without passing through a third room, and the living room should be isolated from the normal traffic flow of the house to permit undisturbed conversation or entertainment.

The kitchen is the heart of the house and should be central to all areas. Finally, routes between all rooms in the house and the outdoor areas should be short and direct.

USING HOME SPACE TO GREATEST ADVANTAGE

If you are planning to build a home, plan the interior so you can use the available space to the greatest advantage.

For example, planning dual-purpose rooms can help. By combining the living and family rooms, less square footage is needed, the cost of partition walls is eliminated and the room appears more spacious.

Plan wall areas in relation to doors and windows to accommodate major pieces of furniture. Position doorways to form short traffic patterns and to prevent traffic through activity centers.

Major traffic patterns should be about four feet wide and minor ones one and a half to four feet wide.

Hang doors so they do not interfere with other doors or block light switches. The width of interior doors usually is two feet six inches. Exterior doors usually are three feet wide.

ENERGY BOOKLET FOR MOBILE HOMES

If you live in a manufactured home and want to save on your energy bills, then there is a new booklet available you should send for. It's called "The Energy Efficient Manufactured Home in Texas" and is published by the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council.

The booklet points out that regardless of what kind of home you live in, one good reason for using less energy is that energy costs will continue to rise.

In the last 10 years, average electricity rates in Texas have increased more than 400 percent and natural gas rates by about 700 percent. While these rates affect everyone, owners of manufactured homes have special ways to save energy, and this booklet can show you how.

To get your copy, write the Center for Energy and Mineral Resources, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

NEGATIVES OF SWEAT EQUITY

People who purchase partially completed houses to finish themselves can save $5,000 to $15,000, depending on the amount of work they choose to do. However, consumers first should consider the amount of expertise necessary to complete the project and the length of time it will take.

Home finishing requires patience. All spare time for many months, including weekends and vacations, may have to be devoted to transforming the house into a home.

Also, many builders of unfinished homes normally do not provide professional help for completing the house.

Persons considering this type of project are advised to check with their city's building inspection department to verify the kind of work local codes permit nonprofessional builders to perform.

Remember, the quality of the homeowner's work must satisfy the city's building standards and pass inspection.

AVERAGE TEXAN GETTING OLDER

The average Texan today is eight years older than the average Texan in 1900.

This shifting from a younger to an older population is apparent with each new census. In 1970, the state's median age was 26.4 years old. It was 28.2 years old in 1980.

Just about every age group was found to be increasing in size — except one — 10- to 14-year-olds.

The number of 10- to 14-year-old Texans declined by 3,000 during the latest census period.

The largest increase was reported in the 20 to 24-year-old and 65 and older groups. Young adults — age 20 to 34 — increased by 63 percent during the decade of the '70s. These baby boom adults now constitute 27 percent of the state's population.

The proportionate share of older persons — those age 65 or older — increased to one out of every 10 Texans.

EARTH COOLING TUBES IN YOUR FUTURE

Underground cooling tubes may one day replace your home's conventional air conditioning.

The Southern Solar Energy Center in Atlanta, Ga., is studying a concept of routing air through underground tubes or chambers to achieve a cooling effect. The work is still in the preliminary stage, so it's too early to tell if the problems can be overcome. The use of open-system earth cooling tubes is not as simple as some have said.

A great deal of expertise needs to be developed before earth cooling tubes can be considered a practical cooling technique. Simulations, studies and discussions with designers and system owners indicate that earth cooling tubes do provide a workable method of space cooling.

As electric power rates, materials and labor increase in price, earth cooling tubes appear more feasible economically than before. But for the time being, cooling tubes are still experimental.

AUCTIONING ALTERNATIVE

Have you ever considered auctioning as an alternative for selling your real estate?

There are three potential benefits of the auctioning alternative. First, auctions stimulate competition, and selling at an auction is the only way the seller may receive more for the property than the asking price.

A second advantage of auctioning the property is the same-day consummation — no time is wasted on curiosity seekers or on haggling with insincere buyers. This is particularly beneficial when funds are needed immediately.

Third, an active market for certain types of properties may be only temporary. This condition may require the immediate sale of those properties. For example, market activity for some commercial properties may unexpectedly slow-down in a short time.

Real estate auction sales may provide the seller much more liquidity at a time when the seller needs it most.

HOME SALE: TAX EXEMPTION

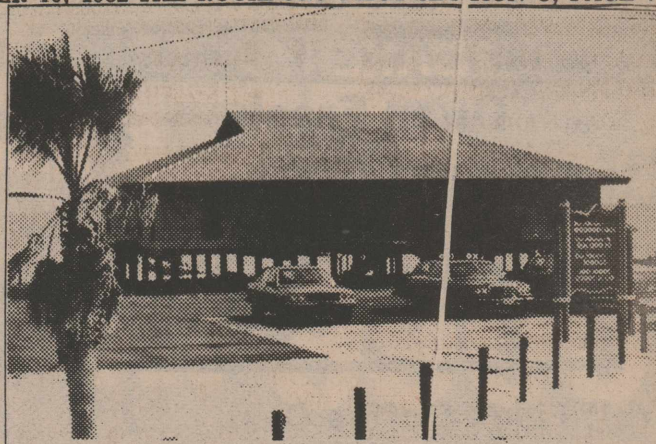

When you sell your principal residence at a gain, you are allowed a certain period of time to buy another one without paying a tax on the gain. That period has been extended to two years by the Economic Recovery Act of 1981.

The two-year period begins upon the signing of the contract to sell your old home. Generally, if the new home costs at least as much as the selling price of the old one, the tax on the gain can be postponed.

Those over age 55 who meet certain requirements can exclude once in a lifetime, up to $125,000 of gain regardless of whether they buy another home.

To qualify, one must be at least 55-years-old on the date of the sale and have used the property as a principal residence for three of the last five years.

New Office building

The developers of Key Allegro have relocated. The new Key Allegro Development & Sales offices are now at 1800 Bayshore, just over the bridge in Key Allegro.

After 20 years in the Key Allegro Sales office, 1809 Bayshore, says Carl Krueger, president of the Key Allegro Development and Sales Co., "we just simply outgrew the space we had there."

The new location, he said, will better accommodate his company's expanding operations — not only a general real estate business but an expanded property management operation.

Sharing space at the new Key Allegro Development and Sales building will be Bay House Construction Company and an attorney, Kirby Roberts Jr., who recently moved to the area from Galion, Ohio.

An open house from 3-6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Nov. 26 and 27, will officially inaugurate the new sales office building and is open to the public, Krueger said.

Other new services at Key Allegro Development, Krueger added, include expanded bookkeeping facilities and a new Key Allegro Real Estate Company Inc. under the presidency of Gary Allen, a real estate sales organization specializing in Key Allegro properties. Del McLain is resident broker at the new location and he and Allen have a "very capable staff of sales personnel" to assist buyers and/or sellers of property, Krueger continued.

Krueger's company moved into its first office on the Island in August, 1982.

Country Club utility construction contract awarded

Heldenfels Brothers Inc., of Corpus Christi has been awarded a $1.4 million utility construction contract by the Board of Directors of Rockport Country Club Inc. Work will begin about Nov. 15.

Work to be done includes construction and installation of water and sewer systems and completion of the drainage system for Units 1 and 1A of Rockport Country Club Estates. These two units comprise Phase I of the 816-home-site, golf-oriented subdivision now under construction on the Live Oak Peninsula in Rockport. Completion of utility work for Phase I is scheduled for summer, 1983.

All utility work is to be done to city specifications, and upon completion, the system will be owned and operated by the City of Rockport.

Rockport Country Club Estates is a $15 million residential subdivision centered around the Rockport Country Club.

Actual development of the property began early this year. All First Unit lots have been staked, and the streets have been cleared. Both the front nine holes of the golf course, and development of Unit One are due to be finished by summer, 1983. To date, sales have passed $7.5 million, and more than half the homesites have been sold.

The Rockport Country Club and Rockport Country Club Estates are being developed by Rockport Country Club Inc., a Texas corporation. General George S. Echardt is chairman of the board, Carl Krueger is president, Gene Rogan is vice president and Gordon Stanley is secretary-treasurer. All of the members of the Board of Directors of the company are residents of Aransas County.
