

95 Persons Feared Dead In Plane Crash

Glenn Gets Rousing Welcome In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—John Glenn, America's hero of outer space, rode up spaceless Manhattan today in a frantic blur of cheers and shouts of "Glenn!"

Up the canyons of lower Broadway—where Lindbergh and Byrd and Ederle had gone before him—came the beaming, freckled Marine. The motorcade began from Bowling Green at 12:10 p.m.

The blue-eyed freckled hero of America's first manned orbit landed at LaGuardia Airport at 11:00, a few minutes after his six fellow astronauts arrived.

The weather was perfect — bright and sunny—but the mood of the city was marred. About an hour before the astronauts landed, a huge American Airlines jet crashed at Idlewild with 95 aboard.

Fortunately for the millions waiting to cheer the astronauts, the bad news did not immediately spread to them.

The space heroes arrived in white and orange planes and were cheered by a waiting crowd of several hundred, many of them carrying signs. There were signs saying, "Remember Lindbergh" and "What's Up John" and "Hello Here."

The loudest cheer erupted when the Marine lieutenant colonel appeared in the doorway of his plane waving and smiling, with his pretty brunette wife, Annie. Glenn was hatless, and his thinning red hair sparkled in the sunlight. He wore a dark grey overcoat and white scarf. His wife was dressed in red.

As they stepped down, followed by astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and Alan B. Shepard Jr. and their families, a band soared into the "Marine Corps Hymn."

Glenn and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson spoke briefly at the airport but their remarks were lost to the crowd when someone got the signals crossed and the band started playing again.

Alternately waving and brandishing a thumbs-up victory sign, Glenn drew another huge roar when he entered an open convertible with his wife for the ride into Manhattan.

In addition to his wife and fellow astronauts, Glenn came to New York with his children, Carolyn and David, and Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of Project Mercury which orbited the first American around the earth.

The space pilots were officially welcomed to the city by Richard C. Patterson Jr., commissioner of the Department of Public Events, who said, "All our hearts are lighter today." At the time, the commissioner did not know about the plane crash an hour earlier.

"Hi, salute—I greet you, I welcome you," Patterson added.

"Thank you very much," answered the beaming Glenn. "We appreciate your welcome. It is always a pleasure to come to New York."

He said he and his family had visited the city many times before. "I'm sure today will be the biggest day."

Johnson called it "a great day for New York and for America." He lauded the Glenn family as "typically American" and said the nation was "proud of the character and confidence of the capabilities" of all its seven astronauts.

A few minutes later the official party headed for Manhattan in 26 cars led by 50 motorcycle police. In one there was Sir Harry Howard, lord mayor of the city of Perth, Australia, whose people turned on their lights for Glenn as he soared overhead in the dark phase of his flight.

Coming down Manhattan along the East River Drive, the procession was cheered by about 20,000 people along an eight-block stretch.

THE WEATHER WAS COLD BUT THE RECEPTION WAS WARM as the City of Snyder welcomed its new manager, Mayor John Hamblen officially welcomes George Patterson as he assumed his duties at City Hall this morning. K. O. Pinner, City Secretary, and Bill Kinzey, City Engineer look on. Patterson, his wife and two sons live at 2113 Sunset. He came to Snyder from Pecos where he served as City Manager for two years. Patterson is a native of Petersburg and is a graduate of Texas Tech.

Big Jet Falls In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—An American Airlines jet liner bound for Los Angeles crashed and burned in a marsh off Long Island's south shore today with apparent loss of all 95 persons aboard.

The airline listed one of the passengers as W. Alton Jones, board chairman of the Cities Service Co., and a golfing and quail shooting companion of former President Eisenhower.

Twenty-four bodies had been recovered shortly before noon.

Ironically, the $5.5 million plane crashed in sparkling clear weather, the first fair day after almost a week of rain and fog that had delayed or canceled hundreds of flights.

Coast Guardsmen said they found no trace of survivors.

The tragedy came just as the city was about to give a joyful welcome to Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., the astronaut who orbited the earth.

The plane, with 87 passengers and 8 crew members aboard, had taken off from Idlewild Airport for Los Angeles at 10:07 a.m. Glenn was due here at nearby LaGuardia Airport at 11:15 a.m.

The aircraft, a modernized Boeing 707 known as an Astrojet, crashed in a swampy area known as Broad Channel in Jamaica Bay off Far Rockaway in Queens. The area is just off the southern shore of Long Island.

The plane was half in the water and half on the marsh.

Huge clouds of smoke rose from the wreckage. The plane's engine climbed to about 700 feet from Idlewild, then turned left and plunged at a steep angle.

Some witnesses said they saw flames coming from the plane before the crash. Others did not, but the plane was in flames immediately after the impact.

The plane was known as "Flight No. 1."

By 11 a.m., the report from Coast Guardsmen at the scene was: "There is now only floating, smoking debris in the water."

Police at Idlewild said at the same time:

"Apparently there were no survivors."

The crash scene was about three miles from the Idlewild control tower.

The crew of a Mohawk Airlines plane that had taken off immediately after the Astrojet witnessed the crash and radioed an alarm back to the airport.

William Martin, a member of the Broad Channel volunteer fire department, said: "There was an awful loud explosion that actually shook the fire house building a half mile from the scene. Then a few minutes later we could see heavy black smoke—a very thick column of it. It went about 150 feet into the air."

The Broad Channel and other fire companies in the area sent ambulances and fire apparatus.

Coast Guard helicopters and a city fireboat converged on the scene.

Puerto Rico Commissioner Michael J. Murphy sent a large detachment of police, including 55 who had been assigned to Manhattan for the Glenn parade.

Also assigned to the crash were 125 detectives who had been at ending a session on narcotics at the Police Academy.

The Civil Aeronautics Board of Lt. Idlewild dispatched its agents.

Three alarms were sounded for the fire erupting from the plane. The fire was reported under control at 10:30 a.m.—but by that time only wreckage remained.

Land Seeks Council Post

City Secretary K. O. Pinner announced this morning that Stanford Land had filed as a candidate for City Councilman, Place 6.

That place is presently held by Rex Fields who has said he will not be a candidate for re-election. Land is the Snyder freight agent for the RSAP Railroad.

Others who have filed for City Council positions are Dr. John Hamblen for mayor; D. D. Starnes for re-election to Place 2; H. A. Johnson, Jr. for Place 4; Place 4 is presently held by Stanley Noah who is not a candidate for re-election.

Holover City Councilmen are Russell Vorsegen, M. L. Broman, and Fred Davis.

Aspermont Is Victor, 63-59

AUSTIN (AP)—All-state John Godfrey came through in the clutch today to lead Aspermont to a 66-59 victory over Quilicura in the Class B Division of the Texas schoolboy basketball tournament.

Aspermont will meet Rowlett, 63-59 victor over Hawley, in the semifinals Friday.

Godfrey's field goals with 2 minutes to go shot Aspermont ahead and then when Aspermont had tied the score at 58-58, Godfrey sank a straight free throw to put the team from the South Plains out front to stay.

Godfrey's great all-around play—shooting, rebounding and wizard ball-handling—showed just why he was picked on the all-state team.

Aspermont scored 26 points.

James Starkey led Quilicura with 21 points.

Jimmy Slayden and Garry Holcomb shot Rowlett to its victory over Hawley.

JKF Urges Land Purchase Program

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy recommended today a vast new land purchase program ranging up to $1 billion to provide more outdoor recreation for millions of Americans. The proposal was part of a broad plan aimed at protecting and expanding the country's natural resources.

In a special conservation message to Congress, Kennedy called for the creation of a land conservation fund to acquire recreational areas across the country.

Administration sources estimated buying would total between $800 million and $1 billion over the next eight years. Costs would be paid by people who use existing federal parks and outdoor facilities, through admission and other fees; by the diversion of unclaimed motorboat fuel tax rebates from the highway trust fund and by receipts from the sale of surplus federal land.

While those funds build up, Kennedy recommended Treasury advances not exceeding $500 million for the eight-year span. He said Congress could make the money available by annual appropriations to the conservation fund and have it replaced by income from the fees and other sources.

Kennedy outlined the plan, fashioned from a study by his Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission, in a lengthy message declaring the nation's conservation effort must cover the entire spectrum of its resources.

The President defined conservation as "the wise use of our natural environment" and said, "It is, in the final analysis, the highest form of national pride."

To evaluate past progress and plan for the future, Kennedy announced he would convene a White House conference on conservation sometime this year.

He promised the United States would continue to cooperate with other countries in scientific and research undertakings and share the techniques it develops—techniques such as making salt water fit to drink.

In the field of recreation, Kennedy asked Congress to establish a system of matching grants to help the states develop outdoor programs. He requested an additional $50 million to assist states and cities to acquire open spaces for the recreation of urban area residents. And for the great outdoors, he urged Congress to pass controversial legislation introduced last year to preserve wilderness areas.

Kennedy again plugged for the program he submitted last summer to plan the most effective use of water resources to meet needs which he estimated will double by 1960 and triple by the end of the century. He said new measures are required to manage public and timber lands and to complete more watershed projects.

Khrushchev Renews Summit Parley Bid

PARIS (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev today again urged an 18-nation summit meeting on disarmament and said that the world's four nuclear powers could easily have special talks within the framework of the larger meeting.

The premier's renewal of a summit call was contained in a letter to French President Charles de Gaulle.

De Gaulle proposed destruction of all nuclear stocks and delivery systems in a letter to Khrushchev late last month and said he would be willing to discuss such matters among the four nuclear powers.

Cold Blast Moves South

By The Associated Press

Winter's late Arctic blast knifed all the way across Texas to the coast Thursday, bringing snow flurries to Corpus Christi and freezing rain to San Antonio and Houston, but spared the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Light snow fell at Corpus Christi between 1:45 a.m. and 2:25 a.m., but flakes the size of a dime melted as they hit the ground. The temperature at the time was 5 degrees. The last recorded snow at Corpus Christi was Jan. 30, 1961.

San Antonio awoke to the rattle of hail and sleet which later turned into freezing drizzle that resulted in the closing of the city's expressway system. The south, east and northwest sections of the city were hardest hit. San Antonio had a low temperature of 30 degrees.

Pleasanton, 32 miles south of San Antonio, had a 15-minute sleet storm Wednesday night.

Freezing rain at Houston also caused the closing of a lane on an expressway in the northern part of the city. This resulted from icing on an overpass.

Further damage was added to the already multi-million-dollar fruit loss. The Kerrville Times reported that 19-degree weather practically destroyed the early peach, pear and plum crops in its section of the Texas hill country.

De Gaulle proposed destruction of all nuclear stocks and delivery systems in a letter to Khrushchev late last month and said he would be willing to discuss such matters among the four nuclear powers.

Khrushchev in his response to De Gaulle, disclosed today, said: "The peoples of other states, among them the neutral states, which constitute an important part of humanity, are not less interested in the realization of a general and complete disarmament."

The premier, in effect, rejected De Gaulle's proposal to limit disarmament talks to the four nuclear powers.

"There is no doubt the nuclear powers are called upon to play an important, even decisive, role in disarmament," Khrushchev said.

"Without the agreement of these powers, it is not possible to resolve the question of the liquidation of nuclear arms as well as the question of the banning of tests. The peoples of the world demand that a quick agreement

WROTE MRS. KHRUSHCHEV — Mrs. Joanne Schield, Liberal, Kan., mother of two, has proposed in a letter to Mrs. Khrushchev that a pancake race, perhaps in the divided Berlin area, might help ease world tension. She wrote the wife of the Russian premier. "It would call the world's attention to a really peaceful, fun-filled relationship between our two countries," Mrs. Schield pointed out that housewives of Liberal and Olney, England, now have an annual pancake race and have found it "a wonderful way to establish goodwill between the two countries." French, Algerians Set For Final Round Of Peace Talks

By ANDREW BOROWICZ

ALGIERS (AP)—The final round of Algerian peace talks is expected to open this weekend, but a bloody step-up of European terrorism promised continuing violence in the North African territory long after France and the Algerian rebels proclaim a ceasefire.

Terrorist attacks, blamed on the Secret Army Organization opposed to Algerian independence, killed 65 persons and wounded 106 Wednesday. It was Algeria's worst day of violence this year.

Seven terrorist attacks were reported before noon today, with three persons killed. In Oran, four persons were shot to death during the morning.

Terrorists mounted in the territory as the Algerian rebel parliament reportedly gave its provisional government a free hand to sign peace terms with France after further talks. Both French and rebel quarters indicated the talks would open Saturday or Sunday somewhere near the French-Swiss border.

Speedy agreement was expected on a cease-fire and political agreements providing for a self-determination referendum. Algeria's Muslim majority is certain to vote overwhelmingly for independence.

But the impending truce in the 7½-year Algerian rebellion against the French still will leave unresolved the battle against the underground secret army, which threatens a major insurrection in its campaign to keep Algeria French.

Secret army bombs killed 30 Muslims and wounded 50 others in Oran's Ville Nouvelle Muslim quarter Wednesday.

The blasts, from bombs hidden under beds, collapsed three houses and left bodies scattered in the streets. French troops quickly sealed off the quarter to prevent Muslim reprisals.

Five more powerful bombs exploded in a Muslim quarter of Oran before dawn today, bringing angry Muslim mobs into the streets shouting nationalist slogans. But the demonstrations ended within three hours, despite two more explosions, and there was no immediate report of casualties from the bombing.

Authorities in Algiers claimed important progress was being made in efforts to break up the European underground. A 10-man secret army commando unit was captured in eastern Algeria and a six-man unit surrendered in Algiers, they said.

Woman's Culture Club Hears Program on 'Land and People'

The Woman's Culture Club met Tuesday afternoon at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. R. L. Terry, vice president acting in the absence of Mrs. Jodie Bynum, president.

Guests for the afternoon were Miss Ruby Butts, Mr. Mel Andreas, Judge J. Ray Martin and Mr. Gerald Johnson, head of the Soil Conservation Service. Mr. Johnson, guest speaker, spoke on the subject "Land and People."

In part he said: "In land, man can destroy something he cannot create. In land, he can alter or modify, for better or for worse, resources upon which he is totally dependent. Land, we know, is all the things and without any of its parts—save possibly man alone—the machinery of life on this earth would come to a stop."

"This is the environmental system of which man is a part and within which he must live. He does not have to accept nature exactly as he finds it, of course. The movement of matter and the flow of energy can be safely directed to better serve his ends. He can concentrate organic materials and minerals in certain places to improve the natural soil many times over."

"He can choose certain plants to be used as crops and multiply their harvests. He can selectively favor certain animals and suppress others. But he must do all these things with a constant awareness of the relation between all the parts of the system that comprises land. He must know the subtle influences which plants and animals exert, one upon the other, that determine whether they thrive or die."

"He must know that what destroys one plant or animal pest may in fact also destroy beneficial species or may favor the burdensome multiplication of other pests."

"Land means many things to many people. For the first 100 years of American history, our

TOP TV TONIGHT

By BUD EVANS

9:00 NBC "Mitch Miller" presents music in a variety of settings: a sports arena, Brooklyn Bridge, a military encampment during the War Between the States and a game of musical chairs. Gloria Lambert and Leslie Uggams will be guest soloists. The closing sing-along segment is made up of "Swanee," "Bless 'em All," "Get Me to the Church" and "Memories."

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS
6:30 ABC "Ozzie and Harriet" are presented with a frustrating problem. Their rain gutter needs to be repaired but a robin has built its nest there and the situation is further complicated by an impending rainstorm. This is a re-broadcast of an eight-year-old show.

6:30 CBS "Bob Cummings." A newspaper item about a millionaire's search for his brother sends Bob on a profitable junket south of the border, although he is forced to face his twin-sonning pangs in unique fashion to find an ambushed plot. Berry Kroeger is featured.

6:30 NBC "Outlaws." An 1898 Holtzman automobile startles the citizens of Stillwater, Oklahoma, but provides each of two men with new ideas about robbing the local bank. Richard Long and Mike Kelin are featured in "No More Horses." This episode stands as a western about as new-fangled and scholarly as any ever presented on television.

7:00 CBS "Frontier Circus." A clairvoyant's forecast is fulfilled when Tony Gentry meets a saloon entertainer who seeks shelter with the circus after killing her husband in a family squabble. Elizabeth Montgomery is guest star and Brian Hutton and Nora Marlowe are featured in "Karina."

7:30 ABC "The Real McCoy's." Grandpa McCoy finds his home turned into a women's community club when he refuses Katie the money to buy a washing machine and she takes other action.

7:30 NBC "Dr. Kildare" tries to persuade a distant relative suffering from arthritis to quit the rodeo circuit. Arch Johnson plays the bane better role of William "Lucky" Elliott.

8:00 ABC "My Three Sons." Chip is discouraged in his efforts to prepare an exhibit for a school open house when other members of his family fail to recognize what he is drawing.

8:30 CBS "Gertrude Berg" with an assist from Professor Craxton, provides her younger friends on campus with a valuable fiscal lesson when a student contemplates quitting college in the face of seemingly insurmountable financial troubles.

9:00 ABC "The Untouchables." Luther Adler and Robert Loggia are guests as father and son, who are battling for the control of the Chicago beer market.

POWER UP!—Radio station KSNV general manager Mel Gilbert stands by as Dr. John Hamblen, Mayor of Snyder, throws the switch that increases the power of the station from 250 to 1000 watts. The increase in power was authorized by the Federal Communications Commission for daytime operation. It will give the station better coverage in the Snyder trade area, Gilbert said.

'Free Time' Well-Filled For Reporters At Cape Canaveral

(EDITOR'S NOTE — For all we know, The Snyder Daily News may be the only newspaper to publish the following article by Hugh A. Mulligan one of the Associated Press team members who covered the Mercury mission at Cape Canaveral. Mulligan wrote it for distribution only to editors of member papers of the Associated Press. We think it should be shared with our readers.)

BY HUGH A. MULLIGAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

A reporter could be forgiven, couldn't he, if on the morning of John Glenn's triple flight around the world he concluded that the whole thing was just a wild dream and went back to bed without filing a word to his paper.

Perhaps his managing editor would never forgive him. Perhaps the publisher and the auditing department would be inconsolable in their grief. Maybe his wife and kids would walk out of his life for passing up the big story of the year. And maybe his sainted old mother would tear up the postcards from Cape Canaveral, turn his grammar school graduation picture to the wall and sob hysterically. But these are only extreme cases.

Surely someone, someday, somewhere (perhaps on an opposition paper) would find it in their hearts to forgive him.

After all, the poor chap had been waiting, waiting, waiting since Dec. 20 for John Glenn to be up and doing. How was he to know that Feb. 20, exactly two months later, was for real?

Even reporters who managed to come to grips with reality as John Glenn's Atlas lifted portentously from its pad face an inquisition back home.

"But what did you fellows do with all that free time down there?"

This question, with varying degrees of suspicion and insinuation, will be repeated in hundreds of newspapers throughout the land. Yes, throughout the world.

Let's see now, what did we do while waiting day after day, week after week, for John Glenn to leave this earth on a mission of glory? As one who spent 28 days in the mangrove swamps and cardboard motels of Cape Canaveral, I can tell you what we did — provided, of course, that the grand jury doesn't insist on a waiver of immunity.

For one thing, we wrote sidebars. All kinds of sidebars. This story had more sidebars than a corner suite at San Quentin. John Glenn's pills, John Glenn's environmental control system, John Glenn's backup pilot, John Glenn's reaction to waiting, John Glenn's lack of reaction to other people's reaction to waiting.

John Glenn gets a haircut (reporters and photographers had the barbershop staked out like a scene in "The Untouchables"). John Glenn goes to the bakery (two autographs, seven loaves of onion pumpernickel). John Glenn goes to church (some of us put in enough time at Riverside Presbyterian to qualify in the next vestrymen's election).

And the whole thing started all over again.

For kicks, of course, there was "The Missile Murder". You mean you haven't heard about that? A fellow walked into the bar of the Starlite Motel, right next to the NASA information office, one night and drilled seven slugs into his ex-wife's head.

The British press called it "the most successful shot at Cape Canaveral this week."

For some reason the miscreant left his car in the parking lot, fled on foot into the mangrove swamps, scrubbed. And the whole thing started all over again.

Passage Is Booked For Wrong Girl

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (AP)—Lan Davey, an immigrant from Jamaica, worked hard and saved his money so his girl friend back home could join him in England.

Finally he sent the fare—$5 pounds ($23)—to Estella Francis with instructions for her to fly over.

Wednesday a stranger knocked on the door of Davey's home. She was 50 years old; Davey's girl friend is only 38.

"Who are you?" he asked.

"Why, I'm Estella Francis," the woman replied. "Who are you?"

She was Estella Francis, all right, but not Davey's Estella. He had handed the money to a bank here with the request they arrange passage to England for Estella Francis of Sandy, River, Jamaica.

The money was picked up at the Sandy River post office by Estella from lower Chapellon, two miles away.

"She thought it was a gift from her uncle who had emigrated to England," Davey said. "She was expecting to see him. She's gone to London now."

Davey said he didn't know whether he would ever get his $5 pounds back. But he was philosophical about it.

Exit Permits Are Canceled

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—President Ngo Dinh Diem's government has canceled all exit permits issued to Vietnamese prior to the attack by two renegade fighter pilots on the presidential palace, informants said today.

The action was believed taken to prevent anyone who might have been in on the assassination plot from fleeing though there was no indication yet that Tuesday's raid involved anyone other than the pilots of the two planes.

One pilot was shot down and captured near Saigon. The other crash-landed in neighboring Cambodia, and the government has asked for his extradition. Officials said the pilot in Vietnamese hands was still being questioned but no word filtered out of what he was telling his questioners.

Diem and his brother and closest adviser, Ngo Dinh Nhu, escaped unhurt from the attack but Nhu's influential wife suffered an arm injury in a fall. The raiding planes wrecked a wing of the palace where the president's relatives lived. The ruling family moved into an alternate palace.

Heavy Death Toll In Storm Reported

LONDON (AP)—At least a score of dead and hundreds of injured were reported today on the Indian Ocean islands of Mauritius and Reunion after a hurricane with winds up to 136 miles an hour.

The British Colonial office said the howling winds and driving rains Wednesday took at least 11 lives on Mauritius, a British-ruled island 530 miles east of Madagascar. Another 125 were injured and 1,300 buildings destroyed.

The Red Cross said special refugee centers were being put up to handle more than 8,000 left homeless on the 720-square mile island of about half a million population.

Reports from Saint Denis, Reunion's capital, said the hurricane, called Jenny, killed nine, injured 250 more and left thousands homeless on that French-ruled island 110 miles southwest of Mauritius.

SAN ANGELO DUBBED FAVORITE

21 Teams Vie For Canyon Reef Crown

The unseating of Midland High's Bulldogs—who have raced to the last three Canyon Reef Relays crowns here—will be foremost in the minds of 20 other schools which are to converge on this city Saturday for that tenth annual track carnival.

Host Snyder copped the championship in 1958—the only time it has managed to turn the trick—but Midland moved in the following season to begin its three-year monopoly.

The entry list, which has swelled to 21 teams in contrast to the 15 entered in 1961, includes the following schools: Big Spring, Borger, Brownwood, Clovis (New Mexico), Colorado City, Abilene Cooper, Dumas, Graham, Kermitt, Lake View, Midland Lee, Lubbock, Midland, Lubbock Monterey, Odessa, Pampa, Odessa Permian, Phillips, San Angelo, Snyder and Sweetwater.

Brownwood, Clovis, Cooper, Graham, Kermitt and Lee are the newcomers who failed to take part in the 1961 meet.

A scant eight points was all that separated the first five finishers last year. Midland, with 43 points, was in the driver's seat, while Monterey, Snyder, Dumas and Permian nipped at the Bulldogs' heels mightily, in that order.

Snyder Coach Dutch Stehley has tabbed San Angelo as the team most likely to take home the bulk of this year's Canyon Reef cookies. Permian and Dumas loom as likely upset possibilities.

A lightning field took part in the 1961 meet here. Though short on quantity, it was long on quality, as seven meet records were established. All of those records were realized in the track events, while the field events remained untouched through it all.

Following is a list of the existing meet records:

100-yard high hurdles—Coburn, Dumas, 14.4, 1961.

200-yard dash—Lester, Big Spring, 27.1, 1961.

400-yard relay—Monterey (Vince Ramsey, Robert Livsey), 1:21.3, 1961.

400-yard dash—Goldfries, Midland, 51.1, 1961.

150-yard high hurdles—Morgan, Snyder, 18.3, 1958.

400-yard relay—Monterey (Vince Ramsey, Robert Livsey), 1:21.3, 1961.

800-yard run—Petry, Permian, 1:36.4, 1961.

Lake View is the defending 3-AAA champion, having capped the 1961 title with an unblemished district mark.

McDermott Noted For Long Hours

By ROBERT A. HUNT
WASHINGTON (AP)—Meet a fellow who carries quite a few of your nuclear-age worries on his mind and often does it up to 80 hours a week.

He is Edward A. McDermott, 41, an Iowa attorney who is acting director of President Kennedy's Office of Emergency Planning. His day begins early and ends late. Weekend work is the rule rather than the exception.

The bespectacled McDermott has been in the $25,000-a-year post only about one month. He was picked by Kennedy to succeed Frank B. Ellis, nominated by Kennedy to be a federal judge in Louisiana.

And the agency, technically speaking, also is new. Kennedy set it up last fall with congressional approval after assigning major defense responsibilities to the Defense Department.

In commenting on OEP's responsibilities, Kennedy said they would deal with investigation, advice, coordination and policy formulation in connection with the nation's preparedness effort.

McDermott, who came here last April from Dubuque as deputy director of the former Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, still has to be confirmed by the Senate for his new post. No problems are expected since he was confirmed for the deputy director's job.

"I would say that I'm at the office for varying periods of time three out of four Sundays and nine Saturdays out of 10," McDermott said in an interview.

"But I think it is the most rewarding, challenging, interesting experience a person could have."

What's a typical day like in McDermott's busy life?

It generally begins with breakfast at home, although a downtown engagement isn't unusual, and a 20-minute ride to his office next door to the White House in a chauffeur-driven car. He generally reaches his office—used by the secretary of state years ago—about an hour before agency business begins.

One day, selected at random out of his office appointment book showed two early morning meetings with Iowa friends (Magr. Maurice S. Sheehy of Cedar Rapids and E. E. Hagstrom of Dubuque), conference with a presidential aide, a 40-minute meeting with Kennedy on emergency planning functions of government agencies, discussions with OEP's director of women's activities and a staff meeting.

After lunch with Brig. Gen. Godfrey T. McHugh, Kennedy's Air Force aide, McDermott reviewed the agency's proposed budget with his staff for two hours and then met with Kennedy.

Another staff conference followed in which he explained a new telecommunications division in the agency which Kennedy authorized. Next came a capitol meeting with Chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., of a Senate Armed Services subcommittee which plans to look into the nation's stockpiling program and a meeting with the deputy secretary of defense, Roswell L. Gispatrie, on a petroleum study.

McDermott's duties pick up even more in the spring since his agency is responsible for administering a natural disaster aid program. OEP also is tied in with the nation's strategic warning system and he takes part in meetings of the National Security Council.

Reports come in both at home and the office, McDermott said, and even on a telephone in his car that's connected directly with the White House switchboard.

"When my wife and I go out in the evenings," he said, "our four children act as a kind of back-up communications system. Things happen at strange hours of the night, not just from nine to five."

McDermott's wife, Naola, has adjusted well to the busy Washington life although she has to drive about 16 miles a day just getting the children to and from school. The biggest adjustment, McDermott said, was finding themselves with four children in three different schools which are scattered out from their four-bedroom brick home in northwest Washington.

Spliced in with McDermott's busy office schedule are frequent trips out of town and abroad. He's a delegate to two NATO committees and has been to Paris three times since last summer. A spring NATO trip is in the works.

Governor's Race Picking Up Steam

By The Associated Press
Business is picking up again in the Texas governor's race after a comparative lull in campaigning the past few days.

Edwin Walker, the former general seeking the office as an avowed arch conservative, moved on to San Antonio after a fuss over being photographed at an Austin news conference late Wednesday.

Marshall Formby, another Democrat in the race, scheduled his first statewide speech over 18 television stations Thursday night.

Gov. Price Daniel, seeking his fourth term, went to Washington for President Kennedy's prayer breakfast.

Walker flew to Austin and answered several questions from newsmen at the airport before holding a closed conference with Central Texas backers.

"I've had enough pictures now," he told the four photographers. "When you are ready to quit, we will go ahead."

As Bill Thompson of Austin aimed a camera from across the room, Walker protested and the two argued briefly.

"I told all of you to stop," the candidate said. "Either leave or stop."

Several persons wearing "Walker for governor" badges moved into space for the news conference between the two men. Reporters started leaving as someone introduced Walker to former Gov. and Mrs. Dan Moody.

"My state platform is based on the rights of the people and protection under the Constitution," Walker replied to one questioner.

At another point Walker was asked what part author-rancher Evetts Haley of Canyon was taking in his campaign.

"He's second corporal in the third platoon—of Friends for Walker," the candidate replied.

Formby said his TV address, taped in advance, would deal with what he considers outside political influences on the governor's contest and would review his views on the state auto insurance law.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson proposed legislation setting forth procedures for removing corrupt public officials in a Wednesday night speech at Georgetown.

Jack Cox, one of two Republicans in the governor's race, campaigned Thursday in Houston. He appeared Wednesday at a fund-raising breakfast in Midland.

Don Yarbrough, a Democrat running for governor, went to Brownsville to spend Thursday taking in El Charro Days festivities.

John Connally, bidding for the Democrats' gubernatorial nomination, disclosed plans for a big homecoming rally Saturday on his South Texas ranch near Floresville. He said 5,000 hales of hay would be available to seat his supporters at a noon barbecue kicking off a tour taking him to nearly every county in the state.

From me to you
A DAILY VIEW
Rev. R. Charles Spivey

"The righteous flourish like the palm tree, and grow like a cedar in Lebanon... They still bring forth fruit in old age; they are ever full of sap and green, to show that the Lord is upright..." Psalm 92:12-15.

To us, who are younger in the faith it is a constant source of strength to see our elders who "still bring forth fruit." So often one finds a sour and embittered person who has fought life and finally comes to the end with nothing to show except defiance of a way of life that has never been accepted. How pitiable such a circumstance is. An how poverty stricken is that person even though he may have grasped much of this world's wealth.

"What profit is there if a man gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

But there are those who have always believed that God is a good and merciful companion and sovereign. They come to the golden sunset years of life with dignity, and full of assurance that they have used their years fulfilling God's purpose for their lives. It is these people who are an inspiration to all men, and a joy to God.

Second Child Is Born At Airport

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Mrs. Thomas Jones, 37, gave birth to a baby girl Wednesday in the same ambulance and at the same place along the highway where her first daughter was born a year and a half ago.

The Queenstown Volunteer Fire Department ambulance was making the 25-mile trip from Mrs. Jones' home to Easton Memorial Hospital when the two-man crew found she wouldn't make it in time.

The driver, Frank Smith, pulled into the Easton Airport about three miles from the hospital, and his partner, Roger Tuel, delivered the baby. The other daughter was born in the ambulance at the airport on Oct. 8, 1960.

Latimer Launches Senate Campaign

TRUETT LATIMER

Truett Latimer of Taylor County, who has served 10 years in the Texas Legislature, has begun his active campaign for State Senator of the 24th District. Latimer is a Democrat and the senior Representative from West Central Texas.

He is a staunch advocate of the free enterprise system, local self government, and states rights with the corresponding burden of state responsibility.

As a member of the Legislature he has held many committee posts, including chairmanships and vice-chairmanships of important committees. He has served on 12 committees including two terms on Appropriations, two on Water, three on Agriculture, and four on Insurance.

In 1955 he helped re-write the Texas Insurance Code. In 1957 he was author of the Texas Water Planning Act, the Texas Feed Control Act, and also sponsored legislation calling for study of the state's constitution.

He was house author of the bill creating the Water District which is now constructing a reservoir on Hubbard Creek for the cities of Albany, Amos, Abilene and Breckenridge. As a member of the Water Committee he has helped many local areas through the creation of water districts.

In 1959 the Departmental Appropriations Subcommittee with Latimer as chairman, cut the departmental budget requests 37 million dollars. He also conducted an investigation of the State Health Department. The information he uncovered caused the Health Commissioner to resign, and the entire department was re-organized to cut out waste and duplication.

He has successfully sponsored many pieces of legislation with local and statewide significance.

During his five terms in the Legislature, Latimer has been a hard worker who has become well-known for taking positive stands on issues confronting the Legislature.

In asking for a promotion to the Senate, Latimer said he believes his broad legislative experience fully qualifies him for the job. He is seeking the office based on his record of legislative accomplishments.

Latimer believes the two per cent sales tax should be reduced to one per cent straight across the board. This plan would simplify matters for the taxpayer, the retail merchant and the Comptroller who collects it.

Latimer said he was for exploring every possible source and orderly development of water supplies and that he would continue to support agricultural research which has meant much to the economy of this area.

He favors an effective soil conservation program, stronger lobby control law, deletion of traffic tickets from the present auto insurance plan, retention of the No. 1 highway system in the nation, and a 70 - miles per hour speed limit on four - lane divided highways.

He is opposed to a city sales tax and a state income tax.

Latimer was born in Albany, Texas at Lueders and received his B. A. degree from Hardin - Simmons University in 1951. He is married to the former Judy Johnson of Morton and they have two children: Jeff, 3 years old, and Laura Gail, 7 months old.

He is a member of the First Baptist Church in Abilene, a Rotarian, and a Jaycee. Latimer operated his own business and since 1955 has directed Ex - Student activities at Hardin - Simmons University.

His widowed mother, Mrs. Zora Latimer, still resides at Lueders.

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway and the Army are still out of step. "General Seeger," a drama about heroes and sinners in the peacetime military, marched onto the Lyceum Theater stage Wednesday night. The fourth khaki offering of this season, its prospects for boxoffice survival seem slender.

Like its predecessors—two comedies and a drama—the new work is awkward and artificial.

Playwright Ira Levin has fashioned a double-barreled script which has the misfortune of pointing in different directions. The technically bright acting skills displayed by Ann Harding, Dolores Sutton, George C. Scott and a squad of uniformed associates are not of much use in the circumstances.

The action, two-thirds of the way, is an investigation of how Seeger's lieutenant-son died while testing hand grenades. Did he sacrifice his life to save a pair of enlistees? Or was he a suicide, fed up with Army life?

Officialdom's verdict is valor, and everything is fine until the day a fancy new recreation hall is to be dedicated to his memory at dad's command post. Then the young man's widow (tense Miss Sutton) turns up to yank skeletons out of the closet.

The ensuing inquiry enables Scott—who directed the show and took over the focal role from Bill Bendix in a last-minute tryout tour shift—to give a solid portrayal of a stern disciplinarian of high integrity. Miss Harding portrays maternal forbearance as Seeger's wife.

The melodramatic sequence builds well—but then turns out to have been needless. Everyone but the general knew it was suicide all along.

Belatedly, Levin discloses his main theme—criticism of the military high command for cynical scheming.

The salute to the lieutenant, it turns out, is nothing but a high-pressure public relations stunt, devised to please a gullible public and ease the path to bigger appropriations.

Because none of the plot ingredients ever becomes completely credible, and the indictment is tirade rather than logic, "General Seeger" falters as significant drama.

The production is the first by the Theater of Michigan Company, an organization set up by Scott and Theodore Mann with the aim of stimulating big-time theatrical enterprise away from Broadway. Financing and preparation were done in Detroit.

The operational shift has failed this time, however, to provide the White Way with anything fresh or substantial.

Sky Travel Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. says the day will come when man will cruise in the skies much as he now maneuvers his automobile on the highways.

To travel in space like that, Glenn said in congressional testimony Wednesday, spacecraft many times more powerful than the Friendship 7 in which he orbited the globe three times will have to be developed.

When they are, Glenn said, a spaceman will be able to steer wherever his curiosity dictates, or go from one orbit to another as if in a sky auto.

Then, the Marine lieutenant colonel said, "Man will really take his rightful place in space."

Glenn said the hydrogen peroxide jets on his space capsule could change only its attitude (roll, pitch or yaw), not its path.

And, he said, the more powerful retro (braking) rockets could only slow him down to take him out of orbit and start his fall to earth.

Snyderites Attend Fete For Jack Cox

Three Snyderites were among some 105 area Republicans who attended a dinner in Sweetwater Tuesday night honoring Jack Cox, candidate for governor.

Cox spoke to the group, emphasizing many points covered in a similar talk recently in Snyder. However, he hit harder at "New Frontier" proposals of Medicare, federal aid to education and farm controls. He said if he were elected governor he would speak out for Texas against further encroachment in these and other areas by the Federal government.

Attending from Snyder were Harrel W. McKinzie, county Republican chairman, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Craft.

Judgment Won By Actress Nullified

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—An appeal court has nullified a $65,700 judgment won by actress Bette Davis for injuries suffered in a fall down the stairs of a Brentwood home.

The District Court of Appeal, reversing a 1958 Superior Court verdict, ruled Wednesday that there was no proof of negligence by the home owners, Ronald L. and Ann M. Buck.

THE HITCHHIKER!

Some Are Free, Unafraid In Century Of The Refugee

BY INEE ROBB

The 20th Century has been called many things, including some that cannot be printed, in a family newspaper. It has been christened everything from the Century of the Common Man to the Age of Astronauts, who are surely among the most extraordinary and uncommon men any era has produced.

However, in some historic footnotes, the 20th Century will surely be known as the age of displaced persons. Millions of innocent and hapless men, women and children have been torn up by their roots and scattered by wars, revolutions and the general savagery of our times.

There have been and still are so many refugees that the world, alas, has become accustomed to their old, sad stories, so much alike, and to their misery and heartbreak. We subscribe—almost automatically—to funds to aid them, and ransack our closets for clothes to cover them.

But in the past four and a half decades, since the Russian Revolution, as wave has followed wave, the displaced have tended to blur, to become another statistic and one more sociological and economic problem. We still reach automatically for our checkbook, but the truth is that time and the magnitude of the problem—and perhaps its constant repetition in our century—have blunted our sensibilities and made our sympathy impersonal.

We have all read about the indigestible clot of Cuban refugees from Castro communism who huddle around Miami. And the problems such a concentration has created for that community.

But the problem took on life, color and personal dimension within the past week when I went into one of New York's big department stores to buy new kitchen equipment. A pretty woman in her early forties, with an accent I could not quite place, waited on me with sweetness, patience and competence that was heartwarming.

I placed an order, left the department, and was back 30 minutes later to add two items I had overlooked on my list. When I walked into the department, the face of my unknown friend with the accent lighted up like a beacon.

"At first, after all day on my feet, I could hardly get home to make myself cook dinner," she said and could smile about it. "I never before had to cook, either," she continued, as if that were a good joke on herself, "and my family suffered at first."

"But now I get more and more used to job, and I get cookbook and learn to cook. So everything gradually get better," she went on. "My youngest boy is thirteen, so I do not have to worry about small children at home. He works as grocery delivery boy after school and on Saturday, and so does his older brother."

"My daughter keeps apartment clean. So we get along. It is only my husband I worry about. He does not say anything. But I know it hard on him not to take care of his family. But this is the United States and someday it will work out. And, in meantime, we are free and not afraid."

Columnist Misplaces Whole Month

(The real April fool in the following tale is the author. Hal Boyle, who recently turned 51, has lost another month. He thought today was April first instead of March 1. His excuse: "You can't trust calendars today like you could in the good old days.")

NEW YORK (AP)—Amos Toggle, president of the Giant Acme Tiddlywinks Corporation, sat in lonely splendor in his office as he puffed on a big dollar cigar.

His secretary entered. "Hector Squiggle to see you, sir," she murmured. "Who's Hector Squiggle?" demanded Mr. Toggle.

"He's in our research and development department," replied the secretary. "Been with us 19 1/2 years."

"That isn't my fault," grumbled Mr. Toggle. "If he's got a complaint, tell him to take it up with somebody in personnel."

Junior Editors Quiz on GROWTH

QUESTION: What makes us grow and what makes us stop growing?

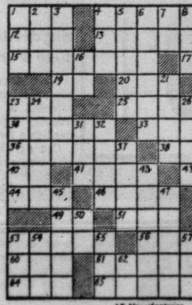

ANSWER: A lot of different things make us grow. What we eat helps the growing process. Some glands in our bodies aid the process too. A gland is an organ which does nothing else but make a fluid or substance that our bodies need. Two of the glands which affect our growth are the pituitary gland and the thyroid gland. They regulate how quickly we will grow, and they decide when it is time for us to stop. One thing the pituitary gland helps along, for example, is the length of our bones. Scientists do not know everything about how we grow. They do know that the speed of our growth has some effect. Usually if our parents are tall, we will be tall, too. However, this is not always so. The scientists believe that if we eat well and have plenty of air and sunshine we will grow better. There are, however, no rules about the speed of growth. The strange thing about growth is that each person grows at his own special rate of speed.

FOR YOU TO DO: Did your family keep a record of your changes in size and weight during your earlier years? What is your special rate of speed? When did you grow the most?

(Neil Pollastek of Linden, New Jersey wins $10 for this question. Mail your question on a postcard to Junior Editors, in care of this newspaper.)

Textbook Panel To Continue Work

AMARILLO, (AP) — The Texas House Study Committee on Textbooks will not be dissolved, three of its members said Wednesday night.

"The committee can not be dissolved except by a vote of its members," Chairman W. T. Dungan of McKinney said. "It must complete its work and make a report to the 58th Legislature when it opens next January."

He said the committee has agreed to hold its next meeting at San Antonio in about three weeks if persons there have new evidence to offer.

Rep. Bob Bass of DeKalb, author of the resolution creating the committee, said his vote "never will be given for such dissolution."

Most Meat Prices Are Appealing

By The Associated Press

Beef up your refrigerator this weekend with roasts and steaks at the appealing prices most meat counters over the nation are offering.

Porkchops and sirloin cuts are lower in the Midwest and, over most of the nation, the best meat buy is beef.

But several pork cuts are attractive several places also, especially in the Northeast.

Pork loins are a good budget bet. Pork roasts, steaks, bacon and ham are other features.

Another economical protein source continues to be eggs, which have dropped yet lower in price almost everywhere.

The poultry line is still led by broiler-fryers, though prices have remained generally steady at recent low levels.

Lamb legs and chops are featured regionally.

On fruit counters, the story is a familiar one: grapefruit, apples and oranges remain the best buys. Avocados, bananas and, regionally, strawberries offer a treat at relatively good prices.

Among vegetables, potatoes, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, lettuce, onions, radishes and spinach are the best buys.

Rising prices for fresh vegetables in coming weeks are foreseen in a new Agriculture Department study citing supplies reduced by freeze damage in Southern producing areas.

Fork Taken From Stomach

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Surgeons removed a dinner fork Wednesday night from the stomach of a pretty blonde.

They said the patient, Athene LaRae Peterson, 21, was in satisfactory condition.

Miss Peterson, an accountant, said she was talking about her tonsils with a friend at a coffee shop Tuesday night.

"I was holding my tongue down with the fork handle," she explained. "I got to laughing and it just went down."

A hospital attendant said the fork was the largest item he ever had heard about anyone swallowing.

"I still don't see how she did it," he said.

"It was easy," blushed Miss Peterson. "No one will ever believe it."

Back Together

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Songwriter Sammy Cahn and his wife, Gloria, are back together after a four-month separation.

The couple, married 16 years, flew here Wednesday after a reconciliation in Los Angeles. They have two children, Steven, 15, and Laurie, 12.

Hearings Continue On Bracero Wages

MIDLAND (AP)—A hearing on the wage scale paid Mexican nationals by farmers and others ended Wednesday with most witnesses agreed that higher pay would be harmful to the U.S. economy.

Vice President C. H. Deane of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation testified with the majority. He is from Coahoma.

One who disagreed was Cris Al-drete of Del Rio, representing the American GI Forum.

About 50 witnesses were heard before a standing room only crowd estimated at 1,400 persons.

The meeting was conducted by Assistant Secretary of Labor Jerry Holleman, former Texas AFL-CIO chief.

Other hearings will be held in Houston, Dallas, and Denver.

Officials with Holleman were Lee Williams, assistant administrator of the Bureau of Economic Security, and Albert Misler, assistant solicitor of the Labor Department.

Holleman said one purpose of the hearing was to afford "the fullest opportunity to all interested parties to give evidence on their views" concerning whether the employment of Mexican nationals in Texas has an adverse effect on domestic labor.

"To determine the rate necessary to avoid an adverse effect we must determine whether or not the secretary of labor should decide if 70 cents an hour is the proper wage to pay the Mexican laborer, or whether it is too low or too high," Holleman added.

Harry Moore, representing the El Paso National Bank, said that in his area farmers have been "fighting severe drought, lowering of farm prices, increased expense of operation, lower return per product and more farmers are in continuing financial difficulty than in many years."

From research in 1958, Moore said he found 5 to 6 per cent "was the typical return on an investment by the farmer... and it is generally known that the cost of operation has increased" since then.

Mrs. Ernest Eiley of Pecos said she represented the National Council of Catholic Women.

Her husband has farmed in the Pecos area of West Texas since 1947 and it is their experience that "domestic labor is just not available even when higher wages are offered," Mrs. Eiley said.

D. L. Willis Midland, president of the Central Labor Union of Odessa and vicinity, listed several reasons for backing a higher hourly wage for braceros.

Williams said employment of braceros affects wages and affect agricultural conditions, there are "no reasonable efforts being made to attract" domestic workers, raising the minimum hourly pay will cause use of more machinery, and Texas' migratory farm laborers have a poor standard of living.

Robert Cuellar of Odessa, also representing the American GI Forum, an organization made up largely of U.S. ex-servicemen of Latin American heritage, said he feels Latin Americans cannot compete with braceros for jobs.

They "must make at least $1 an hour to support their families and pay their taxes," Cuellar said. "I have seen people look for jobs and are turned down because braceros were given the jobs."
