SHOTGUN RAIDERS BLAST DANCE HALL AFTER ALICE MAN SLAIN

Rangers Patrol South Texas Town

(By The Associated Press)

ALICE, July 30.—Shotgun raiders blasted a dance palace here before dawn today, following the slaying of a radio commentator. A husky deputy sheriff, accused of murdering the radio man, stuck nervously to his jail cell some 40 miles away while the armed men struck.

Texas Ranger Ben Krueger said eight shots struck the Rancho Alegro, a place W. H. (Bill) Mason had tartly criticized the day before he was shot to death.

Mason, in a radio broadcast, stated the Rancho Alegro was owned by the 60-year-old Deputy Sheriff Sam Smithwick.

Smithwick placed himself in jail yesterday after Mason was slain.

Officers disclosed tonight that after his arraignment yesterday they had slipped away with Smithwick, taking him to the Nueces county jail in Corpus Christi.

Sheriff H. T. Sain said the deputy was taken to the Nueces county jail for safekeeping and to avoid trouble breaking out here.

He said he and Ranger Joe Bridges took Smithwick to Corpus Christi yesterday at about 5 p.m.

The raid, by five men in two automobiles, occurred about midnight last night, said Krueger. The Rancho Alegro was deserted at the time.

Krueger and Rangers Tully Seay of Carrizo Springs and Joe Bridges of Falfurrias, issued a stern warning this afternoon, calling for public order. The three have been patroling Alice since last night.

District Attorney Sam Reams reported: "There is considerable high feeling in Alice today." He said Smithwick appears "considerably upset."

Rangers and other officers kept a steady patrol in this thriving South Texas city, a metropolis of this colorful oil and cattle country near the great King ranch.

Reams said Smithwick had made no attempt to obtain his freedom. Reams added dryly: "I think if I were Smithwick, I wouldn't mind staying in jail a few days."

Mason, 51, who officers said was unarmed, was shot yesterday as he sat in his automobile on the southwestern edge of Alice, in an industrial section.

In their warning today, the

Slaton Truck Driver Dies Of Burn Injuries

J. T. CHAMBERS, 31, of Slaton died at 10:43 a.m. Saturday in West Texas hospital of severe burns he suffered when a gasoline transport truck he was driving overturned and burned 27 miles east of Post at 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

Sheriff E. M. Bass of Post said the truck, headed west toward Post on the Clairemont-Post highway, apparently hit the shoulder on the left side of the road, then overturned. He surmised that Chambers had fallen asleep at the wheel.

Vehicle Is Burned

The truck's tank contained 44,640 gallons of ethyl gasoline. The vehicle, owned by W. S. Duckworth of Post, was a total loss.

At 6 a. m. Saturday the truck was still burning. Although the blaze was extinguished soon thereafter.

The sheriff said Chambers got out of the cab by himself and was found 20 yards from the blazing truck.

Chambers was brought to West Texas hospital immediately after the accident. An attending physician said he suffered third degree burns over all his body except his feet. Ninety-five per cent of his body was covered by severe thermal burns.

Chambers had started driving for Duckworth about two weeks ago.

The death was the 37th in a traffic accident on the South Plains this year. Texas Highway Patrol officials recently warned that 57 persons would die on the South Plains before the end of the year. Two have been killed since the forecast was made.

Sheriff Bass was assisted in the investigation by T. E. Springer, Texas Highway patrolman stationed at Spur.

Funeral services are scheduled for 5 p.m. today at the First Methodist church, Slaton. The Rev. Ollie Apple will officiate. Burial will be in Slaton cemetery under the direction of the Rix Funeral home.

Survivors include his wife; two daughters, Jeanette and Patricia Ann; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Chambers of Slaton; a sister, Mrs. Frank Fowler of Lubbock; and two brothers, Wilburn Chambers of Ropesville, and M. H. Chambers of Lubbock.

Mahon Believes Curbs On Long Staple Cotton Will Continue

BELIEF that passage will be prevented of cotton control legislation that would give so-called long staples an undue advantage over short staples was expressed in a telegram to the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Saturday from Rep. George Mahon.

The congressman from the 19th (Lubbock) Texas district and officials of the chamber of commerce credited a series of articles in The Morning Avalanche recently with having played an important part in alerting cotton states representatives to the possibility that discriminatory advantages might be sought for alleged long staples.The articles followed a recent visit by a staff member of The Avalanche to cotton producing regions of California and Arizona.

Would Avoid Controls

Information obtained there indicated that interests of those states hoped to obtain exemption from expected production controls during 1950 and future years by having the cotton they produce designated officially as "long

Navy Fighter Plane Chops Liner Apart

By MELVIN J. GRAYSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

FORT DIX, N. J., July 30 — Sixteen persons were killed today as a Memphis-bound airliner was chopped apart in the New Jersey skies by what witnesses described as a stunting Navy fighter plane.

The airliner's left wing and tail were shorn off, and the crippled Eastern Airlines DC-3 whirled into a farm pasture and burst into a wall of flame. The Navy plane burrowed into the ground two miles away.

The charred bodies of twelve passengers and three crew members were strewn throughout the wreckage of the airliner. The pilot of the Navy plane was found dead in a field beside an unopened parachute.

Witnesses Give Reports

State police said they had reports from two witnesses who saw the two planes tangle high in the sky over the Fort Dix military reservation.

One was a pilot of a Piper Cub who said the Navy fighter had buzzed his little craft and "stood me on my right wing for an instant" just before zooming into the airliner.

"The small plane appeared to strike the airliner on the left side just off the left wing," the Piper Cub pilot, George Humphries of Fair Haven, told investigators.

"Parts of the airplane were all over the sky, and I veered to my right. I saw the aircraft strike the ground amid a cloud of dust and flames."

Another witness, farmer Harry Miller, said he saw the fighter plane take the tail off the airliner and send it into a spin.

"The big plane took three turns and then the wing fell off," he said.

Pilots of two other commercial planes complained later at Miami that their airplanes also had been "buzzed" by Navy aircraft while flying over the New Jersey area today.

A National Air Lines pilot said three Navy craft had swerved in front of his plane two-and-a-half hours before the fatal crash. Another Eastern Airlines pilot said his plane had been buzzed at about that same hour some 25 miles from Fort Dix. Both state-

Disputes Halt Money Bills

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30—A determined effort to clip some of the vast powers wielded by the 21-member Senate Appropriations committee appeared underway today.

Some Senators told a reporter privately that is the real cause of perhaps the worst snarl in regular money bills in 25 years or longer.

End Of Dispute Uncertain

Majority leader Lucas (D-Ill) and other Democratic congressional leaders hope to break this legislative logjam next week. But no one now is certain when the disputes will end and Congress can plan to adjourn.

Normally most appropriations are cleared by Congress before July 1 when government agencies need the funds to operate. Two stop-gap measures are providing funds until August 15.

Usually decisions of the Appropriations committee on bills carrying operating funds for all government agencies slide through the Senate without serious challenge.

Provision Being Attacked

But Senators who object to provisions they regard as new legislation, or changes in previous legislation, are attacking them on the Senate floor with increasing success.

Both Democrats and Republicans are following this course, including some appropriations committeemen who differ with the group's majority.

Core of the dispute is disagreement between the powerful appropriations group—which has a tight hold on the treasury purse strings—and the rest of the Senate about what constitutes legislation, in an appropriation bill.

Rules Govern Procedure

Senate and House rules require that Congress first must determine by law the nation's overall policies and then make specific authorization of funds to carry them out. Later definite appropriations come

RECORD OUTLOOK CONTINUES

South Plains Crop Of Over 1,300,000 Bales Foreseen

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

A 1949 South Plains cotton crop of 1,322,000 bales based on conditions prevailing July 27 was forecast Saturday by K. N. Clapp, area observer since 1923 for Anderson, Clayton & Co., Houston firm.

The forecast included the notation that August usually is the "critical month" for the crop and that growing conditions prevailing then may alter present indicated production by 500,000 bales.

The crop never has been better supplied with the subsoil moisture which should enable it to withstand an August drouth, Clapp observed. The lack of such a reserve last year when August was abnormally hot and dry, cut production 40 per cent, he estimated.

Conditions Vary In Area

Cash value of a 1,322,000-bale crop was estimated at $160,000,000 to $240,000,000, including seed, depending upon the quality of the staple. Present conditions were termed favorable to staple of above-normal length and quality.

But Clapp referred to the progress of the crop since June 1 as "poor" due to only about two weeks of favorable weather.

Conditions in the area as a whole, however, were described in the county-by-county survey as ranging from "fair" to "very good."

Clapp's forecast production is far in excess of the ginnings in any previous year on the South Plains. The record was 959,000 bales in 1937. Drouth cut ginnings last year to about 641,000.

Lubbock Estimate Tops

Among individual counties, production of 225,000 bales is forecast for Lubbock and 185,000 for Hockley. Lubbock ginned 126,000 bales and Hockley 71,000 last year.

The all-time record for ginnings in any South Plains county was 181,000 bales in Lubbock in 1947.

Clapp estimated that acreage remaining in cotton approximates 2,779,000, of which 730,000 are irrigated and 2,049,000 are dryland. All of these are record-breaking figures for the area.

Counties with the larger irrigated acreage are listed as including Lubbock, 210,000; Lamb, 125,000; Hockley, 115,000; Hale, 70,000, and Crosby 50,000.

Crop Conditions Given

Those shown with the larger dryland acreages include Dawson 349,000; Lynn 265,000; Hockley 255,000; Lubbock 200,000; Lamb 175,000, and Terry 174,000.

Shown with the larger total acreages are Lubbock 410,000;

Lubbock Man Takes 'Parking' Problem A Little Too Far

At least one Lubbock store did a booming business Saturday.

W. R. Johnson, owner of Johnson's Food store at 1716 Ave. H, was well satisfied with the crowds in his establishment until the place got too crowded about 6:45 p. m.

That was when he saw a car coming in the hard way—through the front wall.

C. M. Gill, of 2209 Twentieth, later told police he was attempting to park his 1948 Frazer sedan when the brakes failed, causing the car to climb the curbing and crash into the store front.

The car came to rest amid debris valued at an estimated $300 to $500 in its original state, a six foot by 7½ foot plate glass window and a section of brick wall.

Officers Seize Truck Load Of Liquor Near San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, July 30. (AP)—State liquor control officers impounded a truck loaded with beer, gin and whisky after an early morning chase on the Robert Lee road near here today.

Charges of illegal transportation of liquor were filed against E. D. Cowsert of Abilene by Gerald Black, control board supervisor.

The men confiscated 4,800 cans of beer, and 160 pints and fifths of gin and whisky on the truck.

Inspectors M. M. Hood and H. W. Hubbard said a 1949 automobile apparently was "running interference" for the truck.

The officers said 47 liquor charges were filed in Abilene Friday following liquor board investigations.

Lubbock Woman Suffers Broken Ribs In Automobile Collision

Mrs. Myrtle Via, 62, of 2406 Avenue U, was admitted to Lubbock Memorial hospital Saturday night after suffering three fractured ribs in a two-car collision at 7:55 p. m. at the intersection of Avenue Q and thirty-fourth.

She was riding with her husband, Arthur, Lubbock realtor, east on Avenue Q when their 1940 Chevrolet coach collided with a 1940 Buick sedan driven by Marvin J. Pollard, truck driver, living at 3542 Avenue Q.

Mrs. Via was taken to Lubbock Memorial hospital by a passing motorist. Hospital officials described her condition early this morning as "good.' No other injuries were reported.

Bus Rider Loses $250 To Thief

A chance acquaintanceship struck up on an Amarillo-to-Lubbock bus cost a Washburn man $250 and his billfold here Saturday morning.

Bill Adair, who was riding the TNM&O line from Amarillo to Odessa told police that a man he had met on the bus had grabbed his billfold about 7:30 a. m., and ran while the two men were waiting for another bus during a "layover" at the station here.

Besides the $250 in bills, Adair said the billfold contained his driver's license, social security card and several other papers. No arrest had been made in the case late Saturday night, officers said.

Negro Is Charged

A 17-year-old Lubbock negro was charged with burglary Saturday in connection with one of two breakins reported to police during the day.

The youth, Robert Edward Oliver, was placed under fotmal charges after he allegedly admitted tearing the screen off a residence at 2311 East Ave. B, entering and taking a $42.50 sportscoat belonging to Raymond Brown, another negro.

Police said Oliver admitted that he pawned the coat at a second-hand place here.

Bond of $1,000 was set by D. W. Robertson, justice of the peace, in binding Oliver over to investigation of a 72nd district grand jury reporting Aug. 8.

Cut In Arms Plan Studied

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30 — The administration was reported working today on a proposal to reduce the size and scope of President Truman's $1,450,000,000 foreign arms program.

This revision may turn up later in the form of a Democratic compromise after congressional committees have completed hearings.

The State department, however, denied there had been any such compromise or that it was considering any.

"The administration feels — as Secretary (of State) Acheson said earlier in the week—that it has a good case for the full amount and believes that when the case has been fully presented to Congress, Congress will approve and vote the full sum," State department press officer Michael F. McDermott said.

Cash Outlay May Be Cut

If it follows suggestions made by influential members of Congress, the compromise may:

1. Reduce the proposed over-all cash outlay to about $700 million.

2. Cut out a provision of the administration bill giving President Truman authority to transfer arms to any nation in the world, restricting such transfers to North Atlantic pact signers, Greece, Turkey, Korea and one or two other nations.

(This might eliminate also the proposed procurement of arms by the government for sale to Latin American countries.)

3. Provide specifically that the

Cottonseed Support Plan Starts Monday

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP)—The government's new cottonseed support program starts Monday with advance predictions that it will go a long way towards helping the farmers.

Inauguration of the price-supporting loans for cottonseed was discussed at a closed meeting today between senators from cotton-growing states and director Ralph Trigg of the Commodity Credit corporation.

Afterwards, Senator Hoey (D-NC) said, "This support program means the farmers don't have to sell at low prices when the cotton is ginned."

Senator Johnson (D-SC) said the loan program "will not entirely take care of a bad cottonseed situation existing now, but it will help a lot."

To fully benefit from the program, Senator Johnson said farmers should have some storage facilities on their farms.

Cottonseed prices will be supported at 90 per cent of parity under the program, and agriculture experts say it will result in a price of about $50 a ton.

B-29 Forces In England To Be Inspected

Military Chiefs To Visit Bomber Bases

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30.— The three top American military strategists will make a first-hand check next week on United States bomber forces based in England.

The inspection of B-29 bases by the joint chiefs of staff is given increasing significance in light of their emphasis on U. S. strategic bombing and use of the atom bomb in event of war.

Their conception of defense strategy if Western Europe is assaulted was given to Congress just before they left for meetings with military chiefs of the Atlantic Pact member nations and visits to U. S. installations in Europe.

Party Has Dual Mission

In that outline, Army General Omar Bradley said the recommendations of the three—Air General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Admiral Louis Denfeld and himself—assumed that priority centered about U. S. ability to deliver the atom bomb.

(The chiefs arrived in Frankfurt, Germany, today in President Truman's plane, the Independence, after a flight from Washington. The party has a dual mission on its 10-day tour:

(To discuss the proposed military organization provided by the 12-nation North Atlantic treaty, and to make a first-hand study of American troops in Europe. The bulk is concentrated in western Germany.

Plan For Tank Attack

(The chiefs will confer in Frankfurt with John J. McCloy, the American military governor; also the Army, Navy and Air Force commanders in Germany, and the Luxembourg and Italian military men. They may make a quick flight to Berlin.

(The flight to England is set next week, along with talks in Paris and Vienna with military leaders of the pact nations.)

Meanwhile, evidence grew that a substantial amount of the defensive planning will be directed at stopping Russia's mighty tank forces should she launch upon a push toward the West.

The joint chiefs plan to be in England on Wednesday and Thursday. They will confer with the British chiefs of staff and representatives of other pact nations who are there and, at the same time, make inspections of U. S. air installations on the island.

The three British bases used by USAF compose the largest

6,681 Cited For Board Hearings

More than 6,000 persons have been cited by publication to appear in August before the county board of equalization—most of them from rural areas.

The equalization board, as a result, has scheduled 11 days in which to listen to those cited, who will appear to show cause why property values should not be changed from figures found in renditions of the year before.

New Classification Used

Areas outside the city of Lubbock have been reappraised. Land that once was rendered for a flat $10 an acre except where close to city limits now is classified in one of three brackets. It is $30 land, $20 land or $10 land, county officials say.

Whereas improvements on rural land earlier had not been taxed, they now will be. Irrigation wells, for instance, may go down on the books for $500.

Almost all landowners are cited to appear before the equalization board. Some of them have been used to paying taxes only on their land. The fact that they may have had tens of thousands of dollars worth of improvements on the land

Warm Weather Seen For Area

A tired, worn-out "cold" front hanging over the Lubbock area almost put the local Weather Bureau station out of the forecasting business early this morning.

The Bureau said the "cold" front, stationary and getting weaker, gave no signs of what it would do or when. So, the forecast called only for partly cloudy skies and slightly warmer temperatures today, although the chance for thunderstorms was not entirely ruled out. Monday's weather is still anybody's guess, the Weatherman said.

Should the front pick up steam, thunderstorms are a good possibility in the area today and Monday. Otherwise, warmer weather would be the menu.

Some Showers Reported

Brief Saturday showers were reported near Floydada, at Estacado, and at the Weather Bureau station five miles north of Lubbock. The mercury hit a high of 93 degrees in Lubbock at 4 p.m.

The front helped keep temperatures down north of Texarkana, Waco and Abilene, the Associated Press said. Meanwhile, Laredo with 102 degrees and Alice, and Junction came up with 97-degree readings.

The eastern states received relief from a two week heat wave

Search Pressed For Resident Of Amherst

LITTLEFIELD, July 30.(Special)—Sheriff's officers here and law enforcement agencies throughout the area were searching Saturday for M. G. Berry, 61-year-old Amherst cafe operator, missing since 11 a. m. Thursday when we was seen entering an "out of town" car driven by an unidentified man.

Officials here have indicated that Berry may have been the victim of foul play. His wife has informed officers that he was carrying from $250 to $275 in cash at the time of his disappearance.

Witnesses who saw Berry step into the car on a downtown Amherst street, said he apparently did so voluntarily, Several of the witnesses told officers they had not seen the car, a late-model yellow sedan, in Amherst prior to the day the cafeman disappeared.

A check with Sudan, where several of Berry's children live, and with relatives in an undisclosed Colorado town have failed to provide a clue to the missing man's whereabouts, the sheriff's department has revealed.

Berry is about five feet in height, weighs 155 pounds and has brown hair turning gray. He is partially bald. When last seen, he was wearing blue trousers, a blue-striped shirt and a brown hat.

MAYOR IS ARRESTED

HOBBS, July 30.(AP)—Mayor J. Paul Heard of Hobbs tonight was arrested on a warrant charging him with accepting a $1,000 bribe for protection against gambling raids at a negro club here. He immediately posted bond and told the Associated Press: "It sounds like more damn politics to me." He said he did not know what it's all about.

AIR FORCE ASKS SUGGESTIONS

Lubbock Committee Will Help In Search For New LAFB Name

THE Army Air Force wants to name Lubbock Air Force base for a "Gold Star" airman who served during World War II.

Can you suggest one?

If so, a special committee announced by the chamber of commerce here Saturday would like to have your suggestion.

The committee, named at the suggestion of the Air Force, is composed of Neil H. Wright, jr. and Edwin Delavan, representing the chamber of commerce; Clifford Hunter, of the Disabled American Veterans; Douglas S. Adams, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and R. D. MacDougall, of the American Legion.

Wright, the chairman, said suggestions as to an appropriate name will be welcomed from anyone. He said, however, that those submitting nominations should bear the following information in mind:

The only names considered will be those of dead veterans of the Air Force who served during World War II. This is in keeping with the Air Force program of making its facilities serve as living memorials to those who have rendered heroic service to their country.

The nominations should include the following information,

JONES CLAIMED TO HAVE 'GOT RELIGION' IN PEN

Preachers Ask Board Of Pardons To Commute Death Sentence Of Floydada Man To Life Term In Prison

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 30—The Board of Pardons and Paroles will decide next week whether W. Fred Jones' death penalty should be commuted to life imprisonment because of a claim he has "got religion" since his conviction on a murder charge.

The Floydada grocer has been sentenced to die in the electric chair at midnight August 7 for the slaying of H. C. Love, jr., 23, outside Jones Floydada grocery store on Sept. 27, 1946.

R. A. (Smoot) Schmid, chairman of the board, said today an unusual number of preachers have written or visited the board in Jones' behalf. Five appeared before the board at one time this week.

The district attorney of Floyd county has opposed any commutation of sentence.

They said they were convinced Jones has become a true religious convert and should not pay with his life for the shotgun murder of Love.

Love, a young combat veteran who wore the purple heart, had worked in Jones store.

Schmid said the Rev. Noel V. Guice of Vernon, the Rev. J. Carl Wright of Electra, Roy C. Ling, an un-ordained preacher from Wichita Falls, and two other ministers, the Rev. Lon Walker and Rev. Marshall (home-towns not recorded) told the board Jones "has found religion since he has been in jail."

Schmid recalled that one had said he "would take Jones home and make a deacon out of him if he were freed."

Jones, 38, was not tried in the county where the crime occurred. District Attorney John B. Stapleton of Floydada said in a letter to the Board of Pardons that Jones was removed from Floyd county to Hale county after the shooting

PERIOD OF TENSION PREDICTED

Arming Of Europe Termed As Part Of Major Defense Plan

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 31. — American planners are looking forward to years of tension between the west and Russia.

General Omar N. Bradley, Army chief of staff, said this clearly in his statement to the House foreign affairs committee yesterday.

He was urging Congress to approve speedily this country's plan to arm western Europe against any Russian attack. And he said:

"With our allies, strong or weak, as they may be, we face a long period of tension.

"Now that the Atlantic pact has been formed we can surely anticipate that any aggressor (he didn't name Russia) will alternately press and quell the crises, hoping to hold the signatory powers in perpetual irresolution."

But how long will it take to arm western Europe Defense Secretary Johnson told the same committee about four or five years.

So, if the plan starts this year, western Europe should be pretty well armed by 1953 or 1954.

This doesn't mean that by then the armies of western Europe would be strong enough to defeat Russia, if she attacked.

It means—according to the American planners—that western Europe would be strong enough to hold off the early stages of an attack until this country could go to its defense.

Bomber Attacks Seen

Bradley said it would be up to the armies of our allies to bear the brunt of the early attacks until we could mobilize.

In the meantime? Bradley said we'd swing into action with the atomic bomb and our long-range bombers.

But, meanwhile, what about the Russians? If Europe were armed and we could bomb Russia with the atomic bomb, would Russia be likely to attack at all unless she too had an atomic bomb?

That raises the question of time and Russia's ability to make the bomb. And it brings back a warning which isn't mentioned often now but was issued only two years ago this month.

In July, 1947 a committee of five men, appointed by President Truman to study this country's aviation needs, issued a report, called "survival in the air age." It said:

Warning Is Given

"We should have an air arm in being capable of dealing with a possible atomic attack on this country by January 1, 1953."

The commission was saying that by 1953 Russia may have enough atomic bombs to attack this country.

An earlier commission appointed by Mr. Truman—called the President's advisory commission on universal training—had warned that other powers (and that meant Russia) would have atomic weapons between 1951 and 1957.

But Secretary Johnson said western Europe, through our arms plan, would be armed by 1953 or 1954.

That would mean it would be ready for an attack somewhere around the time the President's two commissions said Russia might have atomic bombs of its own.

But if, by the middle 1950's, we have atomic bombs, Russia has atomic bombs, western Europe is armed, and Russia's armies are powerful, as they are now, what then?

It's anybody's guess. No wonder Bradley said we "face a long period of tension."

But Mr. Truman, Secretary Johnson and General Bradley argue that there's less chance of Russia attacking at all if western Europe is armed.

New Ballroom Dance Steps To Make August Debut In Chicago

CHICAGO, July 30. (U.P.)—Many new ballroom dance steps, which are expected to set the pace for dancing styles during the coming year, will make their debut here in August.

William J. Ashton, secretary of the Chicago National Association of Dancing Masters, said the steps will be introduced by leaders in all dancing fields at the association's convention opening Aug. 14.

About 350 teachers of ballroom, ballet, tap, acrobatic, and baton-swinging dancing are expected to attend the week-long sessions.

QUESTIONS KEEP POSTMEN BUSY

Growth Of Lubbock Post Office Reflected In Increased Volume

By KENNETH MAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

If a couple of horned toads, or perhaps a swarm of bees, are getting in your way, wrap them up and send them off by mail.

But should Junior's pet cat or dog continually get underfoot, you'll have to find some other means of relief.

Can't Feed Animals

In explaining why toads and bees may be sent through the mails while cats and dogs are barred, Ohnemus declared that any live animal which must be fed and watered en route will not be accepted by the U. S. mails. That is why baby chicks less than 72 hours old can be shipped, but a rooster (one was actually presented for mailing recently) will be rejected by the clerk.

Ohnemus was talking as he plowed his way between three or four full sacks of mail toward a small table where A. P. Ballard sat alternately thumbing a city telephone directory and carefully scrutinizing individual members of a large pile of letters.

Incomplete Addresses Headache

"It takes one man 10 hours a day to sort out incompletely addressed letters received here," Ohnemus explained. "Approximately 2,000 arrive daily with no other address than 'Lubbock, Texas.' We do our best to find the addresses, but a pile of from 50 to 75 are sent daily to the dead letter office in Washington."

The Lubbock post office has been growing rapidly ever since the first mail-by train arrived here around 1910. At present 166 workers, excluding rural and star route carriers, are on its payroll and an average of $2,500 in receipts is taken each day. Eighty thousand letters, 8,000 air mail letters and 1800 parcels come into its doors daily and 60,000 letters, plus 5,000 airmails and 1500 parcel post packages leave through its back door each day.

At the helm of this huge organization is Postmaster Amos H. Howard and Assistant Postmaster Walter T. Clark. The great network of activity under them includes 48 city mail routes, seven rural, and two mounted. Mail arrives and leaves on six trains, 15 airplanes and nine star routes every day of the week. The volume of receipts has increased 21.3 per cent during the last year alone.

Skirting a canceling machine marking over 200 letters a minute, Supt. Ohnemus walked toward where Arch Harper, clerk, stood at the parcel post window. Handing an insufficiently wrapped package back to the would-be sender, Harper turned with a grin.

"You know what one fellow just asked me? He wanted to know what time the 9 a. m. train leaves," he said. Then, with a mop of the brow, he muttered, "I wonder myself."

Asked how a person should prepare a package for mailing, Harper explained that heavy brown paper must wrap the merchandise and, if any glass is inside, it must be cushioned on all sides by at least two inches. String, not wire, should be used to tie the pack and it should be addressed on one side only, he emphasized.

"A lot of people get mad when we refuse to send packages with glass inside," he related. "Sometimes they declare 'I don't care if it does break—it's only a present'." It still isn't accepted for mailing until properly wrapped.

It is perhaps the route man who really carries the brunt of the attack within the postal system, however. The average Lubbock route man lugs an average of 150 pounds of mail each day, between 1500 and 2,000 pieces, B. B. Rogers, a 25-year veteran, estimated.

But not only that—there is often dogs somewhere along the route which are especially opposed to postmen. When one such mail man recently did his best to protect himself, a woman emerged from the house declaring, "Let him alone, he's been vaccinated."

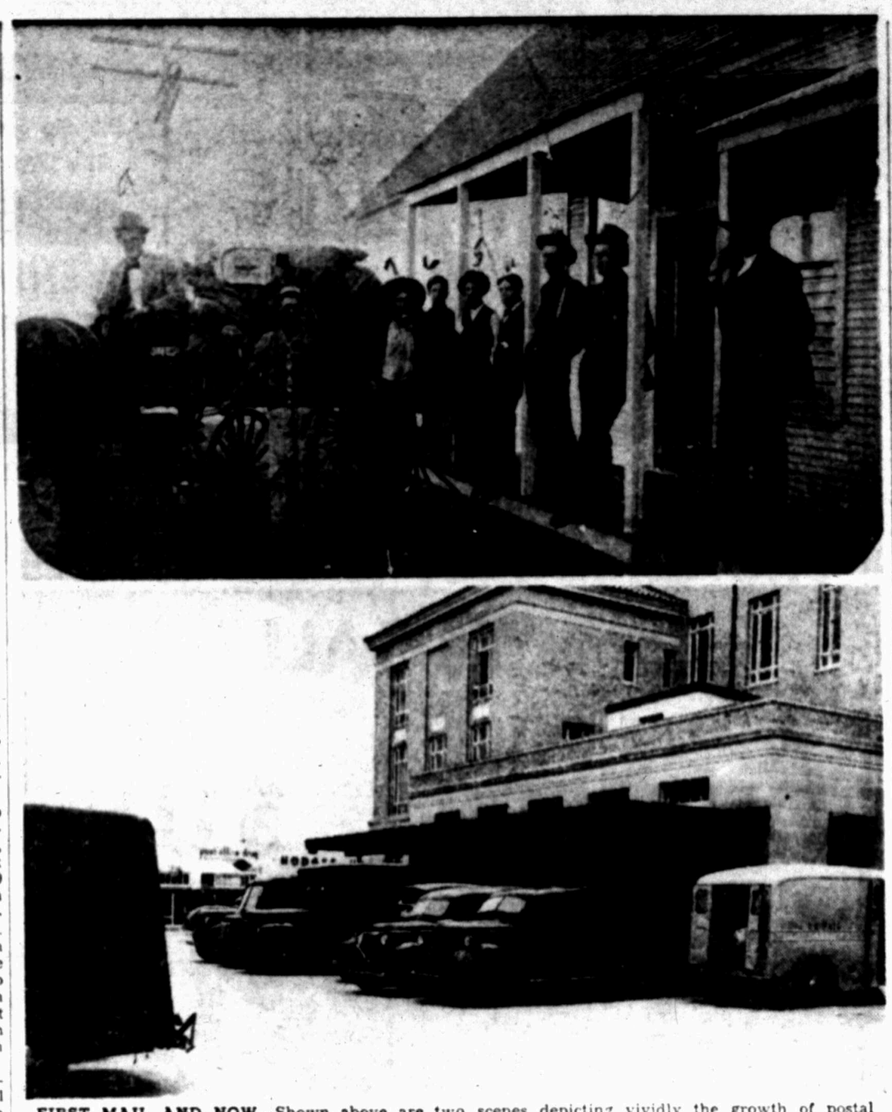

One of the more common "nonsensical" questions asked postal employes is, "How much is a penny postcard?" Supt. Ohnemus declared. Sometimes people say, without offering any particular amount of money, "Give me a bunch of three-cent stamps and the rest in post cards." One person asked "How do you sell stamps?" and, after being told they cost from one-half cent to $5, said, "Give me one of those red ones."

But it remains the parcel post packages which give postal employes their biggest share of the spice of life. According to Ohnemus, persons persist in attempting to send such items as guns, snakes, poisons, inflammables, and liquor, even though they have long been barred from the mails.

"When such attempts are discovered not only is the one who mailed the package subject to extreme penalties, but the one to whom it is being sent is also liable," the mail superintendent pointed out.

There is still one bright side to the mail picture here, however. Ohnemus declared that so far as he knows no dead bodies have as yet gone through the mails.

"Probably due to the 70-pound limit on parcel post," he mused.

Red Paper Raps Vatican Attack

MOSCOW, July 30 (AP)—Pravda asserted today Pope Pius XII has "anathematized about one-third of humanity" in his move to draw a sharp line between Catholicism and Communism.

"According to the exact meaning of the Vatican's order," the Communist party newspaper said, "70,000,000 members of trade unions in the (Communist-led) World Federation of Labor and 600,000,000 persons whose delegates met with Communists in the (Paris) World congress of peace proponents are subject to excommunication.

"Moreover, excommunication threatens every citizen of any country whose government contains Communists, for carrying out the instructions of that government."

(Roman Catholics who are militant Communists were main targets of the Vatican decree. They were ordered cut off from sacraments and the society of faithful members. Support of Communism also was barred. About 50,000,000 of the 330,000,000 Roman Catholics in the world live behind the iron curtain. Pravda's estimate obviously takes in persons of other faiths.)

"The pope desires to participate in politics and to interfere in internal affairs, particularly in those countries where the people have taken over power," Pravda said.

"Scholars of the history of the Catholic church point out," the article continued, "that the 'holy fathers' have not issued such mass maledictions at least since the 12th century. And even the number of heretics to be burnt at the stake did not reach such astronomical figures.

Pope Is Scored

"The open action of the pope on the side of the camp of war and reaction will not add strength to that camp. The crusade against Communism, against Democracy, announced by Pope Pius XII only exposes the Vatican as the agency of imperialist reaction, as an instrument of the warmongers . . . It is doomed to inevitable failure."

The controlled press of neighboring Czechoslovakia continued its attacks on Pope Pius and declared again that "loyal" Catholics are supporting the Communist government in the nation's church-state fight. About three-fourths of the 12,000,000 population are Catholics.

Movie Capital Snubs One Person Too Many

Hollywood Moguls Lose Out On South American Actor

By PATRICIA CLARY
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, July 30.—A new senior genius today swiped, from under the nose of the Hollywood that once snubbed him, a passionate Argentine who's South America's Johnny Weissmuller, Ezio Pinza and James Mason all in one.

The genius is Hugo Fregonese, who produces, directs, writes, photographs and cuts movies. The actor is Fernando Lamas, who swam in the olympics, sang in opera and stars in radio, musical comedy and chest-heaving dramatics.

They're making a movie short almost by themselves.

Lamas, who has more girls chasing him in South America than Sinatra had here, had to bring letters of introduction to Hollywood. Now producers are swarming after him with offers to play everything from a Spanish Tarzan to Rudolph Valentino.

But they'll have to wait. Fregonese nabbed him first to star in a lower California "Grand Hotel." It's from a book called "Whirlpool," but they'll have to change the title. Hollywood is putting out another "Whirlpool," no relation.

The movie moguls are after Fregonese too. He just awed them with a $42,000 opus in which he advanced backwards to silents.

"I shoot pictures without any sound," he explained. "It gives one much more action, more freedom. Then I shut up my cast for two days and dub in the voices.

"Not having to worry about the shadows or camera angles, they give magnificent performances."

He may do a picture with junior genius Mickey Rooney, he added, but he won't sign a contract. The studio kept him on the shelf for a year, then sent him home.

Now having seen what he did at home, they're wooing him back again.

An American studio brought Lamas here for the second lead in a movie, "The Avengers." In the Spanish version, he played the hero.

CLOSED MEETINGS TO BE HELD

Western Powers To Seek Final Atomic Showdown With Reds

By PIERRE J. HUSS
INS Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 31. The United States, Britain, France, China and Canada are going to sit down with Russia behind locked doors at the United Nations and talk about the atom bomb.

These forthcoming chats among the powers which originally sponsored the idea of world-wide control of atomic energy are in the nature of a last and possibly final attempt to establish once and for all what's cooking in the Russian mind on the subject of the atom.

U.S. To Ask $64 Question

The United States, represented in such get-togethers by Frederick Osborn, wants to know from Stalin's man whether or not there is any sense in talking publicly or privately about atom control. The $64 question to be put forward by the United States and the four other representatives bluntly is this:

Will Russia lift the iron curtain to permit U.N. teams to function in accordance with an international plan for the control and inspection of any and all atomic activity within her borders and those of countries under her control?

That is the long and short of the whole story at U.N. as far as atomic energy is concerned. The United States, fully supported by all nations not in the Soviet orbit, will not yield an iota of atomic "know-how" to international control until "fool-proof" machinery has been set in motion which can safely take charge of large and small atomic operations in the depths of Siberia, the Ural mountains, in Tibet, the Himalayas, the European continent or somewhere in Oklahoma.

The secret talks, probably to begin in the coming week, mark the end of the U.N. Atomic Energy commission. This 11-nation group evolved the so-called vetoless Baruch plan for the control and inspection of atomic energy, expanding and revising the scheme over a period of three years into a tremendous blueprint approved by all members of the General Assembly except the Soviet bloc.

This atom control scheme has been the target for terrific and incessant Soviet attack. In the first place, Stalin's men quickly realized that consent to any control plan other than their own iron-clad "national" supervision scheme would perforce open all borders and lay bare the innermost military secrets of all nations. Secondly, the United States obviously does not intend or feel obliged at any time to hand over the atom bomb "know how" or destroy existing stockpiles.

Although Soviet spokesmen have tried to make light of the atom bomb and claimed they have one, too, nothing has rankled Russia so much as America's possession of that precious atomic energy "know how."

At the United Nations, the past three years have shown that Russia fully expected to grab all or part of that secret away from the U.S. or manipulate such pressure against existence of atom bombs that the United States would be compelled to destroy them.

All such maneuvers failed, and now the western group led by the U.S. has called a halt to them and will demand an answer from Russia to the $64 question.

Russians Dislike Secret Talks

The Russians don't like the plan to suspend atomic discussions in the Atomic Energy commission and switch them behind closed doors. But Semen K. Tsarapkin, who is batting this summer for ailing and vacationing Yakov A. Malik, has indicated he will be on hand when the meeting is called to order. Not to give ground, it can be assumed, but primarily to keep his irons in the fire and to pave the way for accusing the West in the General Assembly next September of torpedoing all hopes of an agreement on atomic energy.

In the opinion of western delegates who have sat shoulder to shoulder with the Russians over past years of international conferences, the key policy of the Soviet bloc in all cases is to circumvent an issue by talking it to death. These sources are convinced that consequently American refusal to continue fruitless atomic control discussions in U.N. will be countered by another Soviet talk-marathon in the General Assembly next September.

Soviet Uses Delaying Tactics

In Paris last year, these very same tactics were put to work with good effect by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky. He hinted Russia had tested its own atomic bombs, and that consequently the United States could kiss off its atomic monopoly and reliance on this weapon for national security. A few days ago, the Soviet bloc's shaggy Ukrainian veteran Dimitri Manuilsky tossed out the same hint. In Paris, a newspaper printed purportedly reliable reports that Russia recently tested two atom bombs.

After Manuilsky's hint on the atom bomb, a leading American delegate was heard to say: "The Russians are whistling in the dark so hard that their lips are beginning to crack. They must be talk-atom bombs in their sleep."

New Mexico Official Indicted By Jury On Two Morals Charges

LAS CRUCES, N. M., July 30. (AP)—The head of New Mexico's corporation commission has been indicted by the Dona Ana county grand jury on two morals charges.

The jury, in a partial report yesterday, accused Dan Sedillo of unlawfully detaining a female minor for evil purposes—sexual intercourse, and serving or giving an alcoholic beverage to a female minor.

The female minor was identified by the jury as Ovida Coogler, 18-year-old Las Cruces waitress whose mysterious death the grand jury was called to investigate.

Sedillo has been in state employe since 1931. In 1947 he was appointed by Governor Thomas J. Mabry to the commission to fill a vacancy and later was elected its chairman. He said he has "no comment right now," on the jury action.

The pretty waitress disappeared March 31. Her body was found in a crude grave near here April 16. The jury was called into session May 17. It has investigated other matters.

The indictments charged the offenses allegedly committed by Sedillo took place on Dec. 7, 1948, long before the waitress disappeared.

No charges have been filed in the Coogler death.

The grand jury yesterday also handed down one civil suit seeking removal from office of a county official.

The removal action and five criminal indictments were directed against T. V. Garcia, 46, justice of the peace. The indictments charged embezzling of $182.50 in public funds.

Garcia earlier was indicated by the grand jury on gambling charges. He also has been charged with impersonating a federal judge.

Highway Patrol Stresses Safety In Driver's License Division

By HOUSTON HARTE, JR.
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Processing more than 6,000 applicants a month through the Lubbock driver's license branch of the Texas Department of Public Safety keeps everyone concerned busy from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. six days a week.

A total of 6,513 applied for licenses at the local office here at 1909 Broadway in the month of June. Over 53,000 in the state applied during that period.

The seemingly large number of licenses issued by the Lubbock office is accounted for by the fact that the office covers 57 counties and that numerous renewals are included in the total.

Numerous sub-stations are set up over the area to help handle the issuing of these licenses.

Safety Is Emphasized

But driver's licenses in Texas are not issued for revenue purposes. Their primary function is as a safety measure, which is not the case in some states. The revenue from the licenses is enough to cover the costs of handling them, however, R. L. Castleberry, captain in charge of driver's license division of the Lubbock office pointed out Saturday.

And contrary to some opinion, it's not as easy to walk in and obtain a license to handle a car on the public streets and highways as one might think.

Anyone who has not previously been licensed in this state must pass an examination before he can be licensed. This includes persons who are residents of this state but hold out-of-state licenses.

Rules Are Explained

An applicant must be 18 years of age before he can apply for a license on his own volition. If the applicant is between the ages of 16 and 18, he must have the consent of his parents or guardian before he can become a licensed driver. Applicants between the ages of 14 and 16 must have the authorization of the county judge of the county in which he lives.

There are no maximum age limitations for persons applying for new licenses or renewing their old ones. Ability to drive is the criteria in this case.

After the age requirements are met the applicant must pass a written exam on Texas [illegible] and safe driving rules. This includes ability to read and understand road signs used on Texas highways.

Applicants Fail To Study

In addition to the written tests there are vision tests and actual driving tests. Vision is tested by means of a standard chart. If glasses will improve a person's vision and thus increase the safety of his driving. He will be required to wear them while driving.

The driving test includes such things as parallel parking, backing, turning around in a narrow space, proper hand signals, keeping in the right lane, and the use of the horn.

The biggest problem the license division has is the loss of time incurred by people not preparing for the examinations, Capt. Castleberry said. This is mostly with people who have been driving for some time, and for one reason or another have to take the tests to get their license. These applicants as a rule will pay little or no attention to the driving handbook given them to study before they take the exams. As a result few of them are able to pass the tests at first.

Many Complaints Investigated

The younger applicants, in contrast, are much more serious about the handbook and usually study it well before taking the examinations, Capt. Castleberry said.

The department may revoke anyone's license for several reasons. Heading the list is driving while intoxicated, habitual recklessness, and incompetence to drive.

Many complaints are turned in on drivers. The department must check all of these, Capt. Castleberry said. Sometimes they are maliciously turned in, but usually they are valid complaints. The department has to look into the complaints to see if the driver is competent or not. The captain recalled cases where a husband or wife has reported their spouse as an incompetent driver.

Also Investigate Wrecks

In spite of the general belief, the captain reports that on the average women will do as well as men on the tests.

The captain emphasized that if he could get people to read the handbook and prepare for the exams, and thereby save the time of testing and retesting, his office would be running very satisfactorily.

And, although he did not make a point of it, the captain left the impression that if those persons followed the rules they had to learn to obtain their license in the first place, another duty of the department — investigation of wrecks outside city limits—would be cut materially.

It is this duty which takes up so much of the time of the Highway patrolmen throughout the state. The major wrecks and the smaller ones, the patrol investigates them all, determines negligence, and issues traffic tickets to guilty parties.

The department has investigated 484 wrecks thus far this year in the 21-county South Plains district. Thirty-five of these have involved fatalities. And for what it may mean to careful driving, the department says all figures indicate another 56 persons will die on South Plains highways by the end of this year.

RIGHT TURN — This series of pictures shows the correct hand signals for what officers say are three of the more commonly violated rules of safety. The correct hand signal for a right turn is demonstrated above by a driver as he takes his test under direction of the Texas Highway Patrol office here. As the picture shows the hand and arm extended upward, not halfway up or a half hearted sweep of the arm.

LEFT TURN — Here the driver demonstrates the hand signal for a left turn. The hand and arm are extended horizontally. This maneuver should be executed from the lane nearest the center of the street. The turn should be completed in the lane nearest the center of the right hand side of the street to be entered.

STOP — Shown above is the proper hand signal to give when the driver plans to stop. The signal is properly given with the hand and arm extended at a sharp right angle pointing toward the ground, not hanging limply out of the car. All hand signals should be given at least 100 feet before turning or stopping. Too many drivers, highway patrolmen say, leave their arms hanging out of the car when driving with one hand. This can lead to confusion for the driver following and serious injury to the offender. Numerous such drivers have suffered injuries as a result of driving with their arms hanging out the window.

Clark Choice Is Protested

NEW YORK, July 30. (AP)—The Civil Rights congress today termed the nomination of Attorney General Tom C. Clark as an associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court "a gratuitous insult thrown into the faces of the negro people."

Clark's elevation to the court would constitute a "major threat to the future of American constitutional liberty," the congress declared in a telegram sent jointly to Vice-President Alben Barkley and Sen. McCarran (D-Nev).

It urged Barkley and McCarran to do "everything in your power" to persuade the Senate not to confirm Clark's appointment.

Text of the telegram was released here.

With Hunt Charged

Clark has cited the organization as subversive.

The telegram accused the attorney general of conducting a "witch hunt" in his anti-communist campaign. It also charged, among other things, that he had refused to use the power of his department to "prosecute the Klan or any other group which conspires to lynch or to otherwise discriminate" against negro citizens.

"Instead of furthering these undemocratic policies by appointing Tom Clark," the congress said, "President Truman can advance American democracy by appointing any oneof scores of qualified negro purists to the office formerly held by Justice Murphy, who was a nardent champion of the liberties and the constitution Mr. Clark seeks to destroy."

Texas Youth Killed In Plane Crash While Mother Watches

OBLONG, Ill., July 30. (U.P.)—A nine-year-old boy was killed in a plane crash near here yesterday while his mother watched.

The boy, Michael Taylor, Henderson, Texas, had been taken for a plane ride over his grandparents' farm by his uncle, Kenneth Russell, 29, of Oblong.

Michael's mother, Mrs. Neal Taylor, watched as Russell swooped low over the farm, apparently so Michael could see what it looked like from the air.

Then the monoplane banked steeply and plunged earthward.

Russell escaped with both legs broken and internal injuries. He was in critical condition.

Mrs. Taylor and her husband, a field worker for the Tidewater Oil Co., were vacationing on the farm of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Russell.

Texas Tech Making Plans For Continued Large Enrollment

By JERRY HALL
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Officials at Texas Technological college are expecting a slight drop in enrollment for the fall semester of 1949 as compared with the total number of students in school during the fall of last year.

This announcement was made Saturday at the college where plans for the opening of school this fall are going ahead at full speed. W. P. Clement, registrar, said he expected in the neighborhood of 5,850 students this fall where there were 6,145 enrolled in the fall term last year at Tech.

Clement explained that the twelve grade system in Texas high schools was partly to blame for the drop. Last year's crop of high school graduating students is the first group to finish the complete cycle of the twelve grade plan since it was instituted in Texas high schools. Clement went ahead to say high school graduating classes all over the state were from 10 per cent to 50 per cent smaller this past year than in 1948.

Many Veterans Finish

Another factor in the number of students who will come to Tech this fall is the addition of many junior colleges throughout the State. College officials feel that many students will prefer to obtain their first two years of college education in smaller schools and in many cases right in their own home town.

Junior colleges, which only give students the benefit of freshman and sophomore studies, are now being operated in Odessa, Big Spring, Amarillo and San Angelo in this area.

Of course, another large factor in the decline of enrollment will be the fact that many veteran students attending college are beginning to graduate. Last fall there were 2,700 veterans in Tech and only 1,800 are expected this fall.

Fall Term To Open Sept. 9

At the present time 1,750 reservations for rooms in the men's dorms have been made and 754 future coeds have asked that rooms be held in the dormitories for them. This includes 25 married couples which will live in Women's Dorm 2.

Plans for the fall opening are still being drawn up but actual dates for registration and freshman counseling have been set. The fall term will open officially on Sept. 9 with a general faculty meeting for all teachers. The dorms will be open for occupation at nooh, Sept. 10. The first meal will be breakfast the next morning.

On Monday, Sept. 12, all entering freshmen will meet in the college gymnasium and the freshman counseling program under the direction of Dr. Ernest Wallace, assistant dean of arts and science, will begin. It will last through Wednesday, Sept. 14. Pre-registration for all students will also be held on the 14th.

Faculty Members Added

All students will register for the next two days, Sept. 15 and 16, and classes for the fall semester will begin at 8 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 17. The last day which a student may register for the fall term will be Thursday, Sept. 22.

Pres. D. M. Wiggins, said Saturday addition of new faculty members was being carried on at present and would be until the fall term opened. To date between 35 and 40 new teachers have already been acquired for the fall term. There was a teaching staff of 300 at the college last fall. That figure is expected to be enlarged to around 340 this year.

In academic work more than 40 new courses will be offered this fall. In the Division of Arts and Science, new courses will be taught in speech, history, anthropology, sociology, military science, pure and applied psychology, economics and management, journalism, biblical literature, education, mathematics, geology, physical education for women, English and chemistry.

Space Believed Available

The departments of petroleum engineering, electrical engineering and chemical engineering are among those offering new courses in the Division of Engineering. The Division of Agriculture will offer new courses in poultry husbandry, agriculture economics, horticulture, agronomy and dairy manufacturing.

New courses will also be offered in finance and accounting, secretarial administration, applied arts and clothing and textiles.

In the matter of class room space, officials feel there will be no shortage this fall. Construction of two wings on the Administration building and also added space on the engineering building is scheduled to begin sometime during the fall. The new college museum will be ready for occupation late in November and there will be some class room space there.

To Remodel Buildings

Rooms in the chemistry building and the library have recently been renovated and plans call for new plaster and paint on the walls of almost all of the present class rooms. Lighting and heat facilities will also be improved for the fall term.

One of the most startling changes which students, both new and old, will find on the campus this year when they return to school is the landscaping of the campus. Many of the parking lots have been paved and several of them have been converted into spacious lawns with a nice growth of grass already started.

All of the ground in front of the chemistry and Administration buildings and in front of the men's dorms has been plowed up and replanted in grass. While changes are already evident, it will take some time for a really impressive campus to be seen at the college.

The new landscape artist, Elo Urbanosky, says, given a few more months, he will make the Texas Tech campus one of real beauty and something the college can justly be proud of.

TWO INJURED IN CRASH

TRINIDAD, Colo., July 30 (INS)—A pilot and his passenger narrowly escaped death today when their plane crash-landed in McBride canyon, about 16 miles south of Trinidad. TOKYO ROSE JURY IS RECESSED

Defense Seeks To Withhold Records From Treason Trial

By THOMAS S. PAGE
United Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30 — The treason trial of Tokyo Rose recessed for the weekend today as defense attorneys maneuvered to keep the jury from hearing recordings of her famed "Zero Hour" program over radio Tokyo.

After Judge Michael J. Roche dismissed the jury yesterday, the recordings were played for the attorneys representing the defendant, Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino.

The judge, courtroom attaches, attorneys and the press donned the specially-installed earphones to hear the programs of hot jazz introduced by the disk jockey known on the program as "Orphan Ann" but known to GI's throughout the Pacific as "Tokyo Rose."

Record Played

The 33-year-old defendant smiled at the incongruous picture of headsets perched on bald heads, listening intently to the strains of smooth dance music coming through squealing static.

They heard her honeyed voice speak with professional aplomb as she introduced new musical selections. A typical program introduced was:

"Hello to the fighting orphans of the Pacific. This is your favorite playmate Orphan Ann's invitation to listen to good music... It's been so long since you boneheads have listened to one single orchestra in one single city—let alone dance to one."

Before the records are played to the jury, defense attorney Wayne Collins will recall to the stand two Japanese officials of radio Tokyo. He told the court that he will cross-examine them with regard to their identification of the defendant's voice.

Witness Crossed Up

Earlier in the day, Collins subjected Gilbert Valasquez, 27, of Los Angeles, to a bitter and prolonged cross-examination. Velasquez told the court he had known Mrs. D'Aquino since he was five years old when he first became a patron of her father's market in Los Angeles.

He said he was drafted into the Army and sent to the South Pacific, landing Sept. 5, 1944, on Finchaven, New Guinea. That night he heard radio Tokyo for the first time. On it, he said, he heard the voice of his childhood acquaintance saying:

"Joe Brown was out with Sally Smith last night at home . . . he's a rejectee who's getting the cream of the crop while you Joes are out here knocking yourself out."

He said he later heard her tell the troops to surrender, saying "there's no hope . . . you'll be treated right by the Japanese people."

His testimony was undermined somewhat by a prolonged defense cross-examination, during which Velasquez became confused as to some of his dates. He made statements at direct variance with earlier testimony given by other witnesses.

Judge Free On Bond After Attorney Shot

ATLANTA, July 30 (AP) — An Atlanta civil court judge is free on a $5,000 bond today, charged of assault with intent to murder an attorney who once was his best friend.

A county grand jury indicted the handsome 44-year-old judge, Robert Carpenter, yesterday on two counts—shooting toward and wounding John Lockwood.

Conviction on the latter charge carries a sentence of two to 10 years.

While the jury was in session, both Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Lockwood were at the bedside of the 53-year-old lawyer.

Sues For Divorce

Mrs. Lockwood has filed a suit for divorce but declared Mrs. Carpenter is still a close friend and is not involved in the divorce action.

Mrs. Carpenter also is suing her husband for divorce. In a countersuit, the judge claimed she intended to marry Lockwood.

Early Wednesday morning Lockwood was found injured at the bottom of a 30-foot pit, which had been dug during construction work, on Peachtree street.

Police said the judge was leaning against his car nearby. Lockwood's car had been punctured with bullets.

The attorney was taken to a hospital, where his daughter said he may lose one eye, injured by shattered automobile glass or a bullet fragment.

The shooting culminated a series of nine lawsuits between the judge, his estranged wife and Lockwood.

Pipe line extensions shortly will make Bolivia self-sufficient in motor fuel.

Flying Club Growing In City But New Members Sought

By LONNIE HUDKINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

THE Twentieth Century Flying club is seeking new members, according to club spokesman Jim Cole.

In less than a year, the club has grown from a handful of flying enthusiasts to more than 40 members and now has three planes. New members, who will be taught to fly if they don't know how already, are required to buy shares in a plane on a monthly installment plan but can sell out anytime they get ready. Actual flying costs total $2.50 an hour.

PILOT VISITORS HERE

Pilot visitors here last week were C. A. Kalb, jr., of Tulsa, in a Stanolind Oil company twin engine craft and Wallace Glove of Midland in a Chambers Incorporated plane.

Gaining momentum is the organizing of the Lubbock County Sheriff's Aerial Squadron to aid city, county and state law enforcement officers in preventing crime and catching criminals, according to airport manager Ed Colby.

Colby also reports that work will begin an repairing airport runways as soon as the CAA approves the plans and specifications presented to the city commission Friday. Money for the project will come from the $187,493 awarded by the government for damage Army planes did to the runways. This should be a boom to private flying because maintenance costs will be lower and more nonscheduled flight can be handled.

'BRACEROS' TO WORK IN TEXAS

Texas Officials Praise New Farm Labor Pact With Mexico

AUSTIN, July 30. (AP)—Lifting of the ban on Mexican harvest hands in Texas marks a high point in relations between this state and Mexico, a Good Neighbor commission official said today.

Tom Sutherland, executive secretary of the commission said the agreement signed in Mexico yesterday gives "concrete evidence of the Mexican government's confidence in the good will of the people of Texas."

The commission's function is to improve relations between Texas citizens of Anglo and Latin American extraction, and to foster good relations between Texas and Mexico.

New Treaty Praised

The seventh annual "bracero' pact between Mexico and the United States will permit braceros or farm laborers to work in Texas. They have been banned here because of discrimination which the Mexican government alleged existed in some Texas areas.

The new agreement sets up machinery for negotiating the question of whether or not Mexican workers can be contracted for in areas where there are complaints of discrimination.

"Signing of the bracero treaty by the United States and Mexican governments marks a high point in the good relations between this country and Mexico and especially between Texas and Mexico," Sutherland said in a statement.

"The Good Neighbor commission has been vitally interested in the problem of the large Mexican population in this state, many here illegally and living and working outside the regular protection of the laws of this country."

"Evidence Of Confidence"

R. E. Smith of Houston is chairman of the commission which was established in 1943.

"The bracero treaty will legalize the movement of Mexican labor into the United States and under the treaty Mexicans working here will be afforded the full protection of our laws," Sutherland said.

Sutherland said he believed the treaty is evidence of Mexico's confidence in the good will of the people of Texas.

The people of Texas are to be congratulated that they are earning this confidence," he added.

The elimination of segregation in public schools now underway has been an important step towards better relations with Mexico."

MEXICO MAKES PLANS TO HANDLE NEW PROGRAM

MEXICO CITY, July 30 (AP) — Government machinery was being set up today to handle a surge of thousands of Mexican farm workers to the U. S.

A preliminary agreement for the movement of season labor was signed yesterday. It will be ratified by an exchange of notes between the two governments next week. Meanwhile, U. S. farmers can ask the U. S. Employment service for Mexican workers to be sent when they are available.

Recrditing Centers Planned

In Mexico, plans are under way for establishment of recruiting centers at Hermosillo, Chihuahua and Monterrey. Examining applicants and preparing them for their trip will take at least two weeks. Between 20,000 and 35,000 harvest hands are expected to be covered by the agreement.

Some of these will be Mexicans who slipped into the U. S. illegally, attracted by wages many times higher than they could earn at home. These illegal immigrants will be given the first contracts, to legalize their stay and ensure they are paid as much as Americans doing the same work. Also, their employers must agree to pay the cost of returning them to their homes when their contract is ended.

Basic Science Law Ruling Is Announced

AUSTIN, July 30. (AP)—Persons who have applied for licenses to practice any phase of the healing arts since April 28 must first secure basic science certificates, the attorney general ruled today.

This was the basic decision in an opinion written by Assistant Attorney General Burnett Waldrep and approved by Attorney General Price Daniel.

The ruling was requested by Dr. M. H. Crabb, secretary of the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners to clarify the status of applicants who took examinations for medical licenses in June but whose papers have not yet been graded. Several other questions were also raised.

The opinion held that the basic science law requiring would-be doctors to secure certificates of proficiency in the basic sciences became effective April 28. However, a bill amending certain parts of the act will not become effective until Oct. 5 as it did not receive a two-thirds majority record vote in the House of Representatives. A concurrent resolution adopted by both House and Senate in an effort to make the amending bill immediately effective has no legal effect, the attorney general declared.

The medical examiners board was advised that the examinations given in June will be valid if the board will require basic science certificates of each applicant before proceeding to grade his examination and before issuing his license.

The board can not proceed with the grading of the papers without a basic science certificate.

State Building Contractors Aided By Housing Project In El Paso

AUSTIN, July 30. (AP)—A big military housing project at El Paso gave Texas building contracts an upward boost this week.

Total of contracts awarded was $25,169,082, topped with the $7,500,000 project in the border city.

Last week's total was $18,643,889, and total building tabulated so far this year by the Texas Contractor engineering trade journal, was $591,192,825.

Engineering contracts for the week came to $1,075,528; non-residential building to $12,800,216; residential to $11,293,338.

Existence Of Tunnel Between San Antonio Missions Doubled

SAN ANTONIO, July 30. (AP)—Nobody has ever found the underground passage which legend says once connected the Spanish missions in San Antonio, and it is doubtful that they ever will, local historians decided today.

A party of three local historians, Dr. P. I. Nixon, S. Stanley Banks and Paul Adams inspected what was first believed to have been a passage leading from the Alamo across Menger hotel property, now being excavated, and decided the site was an old wine cellar.

The underground compartment, filled with soft earth, apparently was the cellar under an old part of the hotel at one time.

No possible connection to the Alamo could be found and the only relics on hand were a quantity of hand-blown champagne, beer, bitters and wine bottles—all broken or empty.

"There is no caliche roof to this place," Dr. Nixon said. "It certainly could not have been a passage from the Alamo. All messengers from the Alamo had to go over the wall. Apparently none had it so soft as to get through a tunnel."

Harvey P. Smith, local architect who was in charge of reconstruction of both the Spanish governor's palace and Mission San Jose, was asked for an opinion. Smith said he had looked for passages during excavations at both the palace and San Jose but never found a sign of one. He doubted that they exist.

Fireman, Suspended For Refusal To Wash Dishes For Fire Station, Is Reinstated

IRONTON, O., July 30. (AP)—Wash dishes at the fire station? Not unless he uses them, says city fireman William Sanders.

Fireman Sanders—who cares no more about washing dishes than the next man—first was suspended then reinstated to the city fire department.

Dish-washing duty—as well as other small tasks incident to eating meals in a fire house—was back of the trouble.

Sanders was suspended Wednesday by the city manager on recommendation of Fire Chief John McGerty.

Yesterday he restored the fireman to duty—saying he took the action after making a deeper study of the situation.

It seems Sanders frequently takes his lunch to the station. He maintained that upon these occasions he does not have to wash the dishes.

Sanders admitted to reporters he washes dishes at home—when his wife is ill or otherwise occupied—but that he felt it was not his duty to wash them at the station when he brought his own meals.

NEW FACILITIES TO BE USED

12,000 Students Expected For Fall Term In Lubbock Schools

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

When school bells ring in Lubbock on Tuesday, Sept. 6, as many as 12,000 boys and girls—some 1,200 more than ever before—are expected to answer the call.

This year's students will make use for the first time of newly completed buildings and facilities worth an estimated $1,200,000.

Some plans for this year's opening were revealed by school officials Saturday. Many details are being worked out now.

Increased Enrollment Expected

The districting of schools, for example, will be completed during August and will be announced well in advance of school opening.

It appears virtually certain that enrollment will be in excess of 12,400 this school year, an increase of approximately 1,200 over last year's enrollment.

The estimate results from an annual school census made by A. C. Jackson, business manager of Lubbock Independent school district.

Additions To Be Ready

Scheduled to be ready on opening day of school this year or shortly afterward are these new additions to Lubbock's expanding school system:

A $500,000 addition to Lubbock Senior High school which will include 12 classrooms, a band room, shop, agriculture room and cafeteria. The cafeteria is not expected to be operating on opening day, but will be ready shortly after the school year begins.

A nine-classroom temporary school building at George C. Wolffarth school site, North Sixth and Tyler, which will be used until the permanent building now under construction is completed.

A five-classroom temporary building at Dunbar negro school.

Army Building Used

A six-classroom addition at Cottage school, Second and Vernon avenue, scheduled to be ready not later than Oct. 1. In addition, a cafeteria converted from an Army building will be in operation shortly after school opens. A ten-classroom frame building in Clayton-Carter addition, recently named Sam C. Arnett school. A former Air Corps classroom building, the structure is of semi-permanent construction.

Acompletely renovated Carroll Thompson Junior High school, with new fire escapes and lighting, complete redecoration and painting, and due for completion shortly after school opens, a new library and cafeteria.

Entire Faculty To Meet

These improvements are in addition to the two new junior high schools and Overton and Brown elementary schools which became available last year.

The school calendar officially begins this year with a meeting for new teachers at Senior High school at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, Sept. 3.

In addition to new teachers who will fill existing posts, 15 to 20 new teachers will fill new posts this year.

The entire public school faculty will convene at Senior High school auditorium at 9 o'clock Monday morning, Sept. 5 for a general meeting.

Certificates To Be Required

At 1 o'clock that afternoon school doors will be thrown open for new students to enroll.

Regular classroom work will begin Tuesday, Sept. 6.

Parents of first-grade pupils will be required to have birth certificates and small-pox vaccination certificates for the youngsters entering school for the first time, school officials reminded.

The purpose of the birth certificate is to establish officially the child's age. A state law requires a child to be six years old on or before Sept. 1 in order to enroll for the current school year.

A child whose sixth birthday, for example, is on Sept. 2 would be required to wait another year to begin school.

Districts To Be Set

The task of districting the elementary schools remains to be completed by Supt. R. W. Matthews, but it was indicated that districts will be approximately the same as last year, with the exception of areas surrounding the new schools operating for the first time this year.

The districting plan is ordinarily completed in August, and it will be announced well in advance of the school opening, Jackson said.

School enrollment last year totaled 11,278, as compared with 11,237 pupils between 6 and 18 years of age in last year's scholastic census.

By comparison, it appears likely that this year's scholastic census of 12,402 should see a similar number of students enrolled during the school year.

However, the 12,400 figure probably will not be reached on the opening day of school, it was emphasized.

Caretaker's Home To Be Built At Brownfield Rodeo Grounds

BROWNFIELD, July 30 (AP)— The Terry county commissioners' court has voted to furnish $1,700 toward construction of a care-taker's residence at the Brownfield Junior Chamber of Commerce show barn and rodeo grounds, northwest of town.

The funds provided by the county will be used in the purchase of materials, with Jaycees providing the cost of construction.

In addition to keeping up the rodeo arena and grounds and show barn, the caretaker will also keep up the county park and other county property at the 60-acre site.

Hero Medal Urged For Sergeant Who Saved Child From Cistern

AUSTIN, July 30. (AP)— A 20-year-old Air Force sergeant has been recommended for a Carnegie hero medal for rescuing a child who fell in an abandoned cistern.

The medal is sought for Sgt. Robert W. Bass of Bergstrom Air Force base. His parents live in Symrana, Tenn.

Bass jumped into a dark, 20-foot cistern to save the life of 3-year-old Betty Jane Lewallen Tuesday. The water was only four feet deep but was over the child's head.

Gunplay And Murder Are Still Hazards For Secret Service

BY ALLAN J. FUNCH
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 30—Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman said today that counterfeiting and gunplay still go hand in hand and that murder sometimes is a sideline with criminals who deal in bogus bills.

Baughman's annual report to Treasury Secretary Snyder showed that Secret Service agents during the past year arrested 207 persons for counterfeiting and seized $611,679 in phoney money before it could be circulated.

Arrests Show Hike

Arrests increased 31 per cent over the previous year, but storekeepers and cashiers lost $388,062 to passers of counterfeit bills and coins.

A number of spectacular cases were cited in Baughman's report.

In Chicago on May 3, one man and a second man was arrested, was shot by a Secret Service agent both charged with possession of $100,000 in counterfeit $20 bills.

The wounded man, Dixie Richmond, 42, was shot when he made a move as though reaching for a gun. Arrested with him was Irving Morris, alias Irving Cohen, Chicago night club owner.

Murder Is Revealed

One bond forgery case reported by Baughman included disclosure of a murder and a confessed killer.

James Thomas Nolan, 24, was arrested at Romney, W. Va. Secret Service men questioning Nolan about bond forgeries obtained a confession that he had robbed and murdered wealthy Belmont Woodridge of Arlington, Va., and that he had stolen his victim's car. Nolan was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Baughman said the most unusual case handled by the Secret Service during the year was that of a woman and two men arrested in New York April 4 and charged with possessing 105,400 counterfeit three-cent postage stamps.

Net Too Small

The government said that the three, Lillian Mizell, Philip Bonadonna, and Nicholas Ungano, sold 20,000 of the stamps to an undercover agent and delivered an additional 85,400 at the time of their arrest in a midtown hotel.

Baughman said that comparatively few old offenders are still active in the counterfeiting racket. He explained:

"Gradually the manufacturers will discover that after paying 'commissions' to distributors and other middlemen, their net is too small to risk 15 years in prison."

C-C DIRECTORS CHOSEN

LEVELLAND, July 30. (Special)—The Levelland Chamber of Commerce Friday night elected four new directors to serve three-year terms. They are W. R. Simon, Wilson Copeland, D. L. Cass and Leon Ronson. Election of chamber officers for the next 12 months has been set tentatively Tuesday night.

Israel Proposes To Accept Arabs

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, July 30. (AP)— Israel expressed willingness to take back a number of Arab refugees in an effort to reach a final peace settlement with the Arab nations.

The Israeli proposal was submitted yesterday to Arab representatives in Lausanne where the United Nations Palestine Conciliation commission is trying to work out a permanent peace settlement. A commission spokesman said the exact number of refugees Israel might accept was not contained in the proposal.

Arab Reaction 'Favorable'

It was the first time Israel has said she is prepared to discuss the repatriation of refugees before discussing details of an overall peace settlement.

(In Haifa, Israel, a spokesman said Israel's envoy to the U. S. state department has indicated the Jewish state is prepared to permit some 150,000 Arabs to be repatriated. From the total, 40,000 would be deducted for Arabs who have infiltrated into Israeli territory, the spokesman added.

(This spokesman said that in order to take back this number of the estimated 80,000 Arabs refugees, the monthly quota of Jewish immigrants would be reduced to allow 8,000 Arab repatriates to be admitted each month.)

The commission spokesman said the first Arab reaction to the Israeli proposal was "favorable." He said the commission expects to receive a formal reply from the Arab delegations on Tuesday.

Youth Returned To School After Charges Are Dropped

BROWNFIELD, July 30 — Charges of breaking and entering against C. L. Wilson, 17, have been dismissed here following his return to the Columbia Training school, Columbia, Miss., from which he escaped several weeks ago while serving time for burglary.

The youth was arrested and charged here after being chased from a motor company shop into which he had broken after closing hours.

Sheriff Ocie H. Murry transported Wilson to Fort Worth where he was met by Mississippi authorities who took the youth into custody.

17 Mexicans Dead, 22 Hurt, As Heavy Buses Crash Truck

PUEBLA, Mexico, July 30 (AP) —A truck taking peasants to a weekly fair was caught between two buses last night, killing 17 persons and seriously injuring 22 others. All the dead are Mexicans.

The drivers of all three vehicles were arrested.

Doctor Will Retire To Be President Of A Railroad

DES MOINES, July 30. (INS)— A Des Moines optometrist today announced fulfillment of his boyhood dream to play "Casey Jones" anytime he pleases.

Dr. Arthur P. Wheelock has bought a tiny railroad in the Missouri hills and is the new president and general manager of the Cassville & Exeter Railway Co., of Cassville, Mo.

The rail system, boasting, 4.8 miles of standard gauge main line travels an uphill right-of-way from Cassville to a connection with the Frisco lines at Exeter. It has the distinction of being the shortest standard gauge line in the nation.

Price $18,000

The line reportedly was purchased for $18,000 from Ray Dingler, world war two Navy veteran who inherited it from his father, Dave, who founded it.

The physical property consists of the tracks, Cassville station and one locomotive.

Dingler recently filed an abandonment application with the Missouri Public Service commisison.

Wheelock said he learned of the abandonment plan and conferred with Cassville business men who were searching for other means of transportation or of reorganizing the road and resuming operations.

Truck service had not proved satisfactory, they said.

No Passenger Service

It was estimated the railroad's "potential" was 800 to 1,000 carloads of freight a year. It operates no passenger service.

Dr. Wheelock, now 55, said he had "always been a little bit railroad crazy" and plans to retire as an optometrist and move to Cassville to give his full time to railroad operations.

Before moving to Des Moines, Wheelock practiced optometry in Waverly and Waterloo, Ia.

He was a member of the Des Moines Railfans club whose members used to make train trips for the thrill of it, visit large railroad shops, and just go down to the station "to watch the train come in."

Considerable money will have to be spent to put the Cassville & Exeter in shape for operations, Wheelock said. Service was suspended nearly 19 months ago and weeds have grown lushly over the tracks.

They partly hide the locomotive standing on a siding at Exeter and a farmer has strung barbed wire between cattle guards along the track.

However, he said he would remove the fence if operations are resumed.

Other officers of the reorganized railroad company are P. P. Sizer, vice president; Norman Lecompte, secretary; J. A. Blaclack, treasurer, and Elrv Aaron, auditor, all of Cassville.

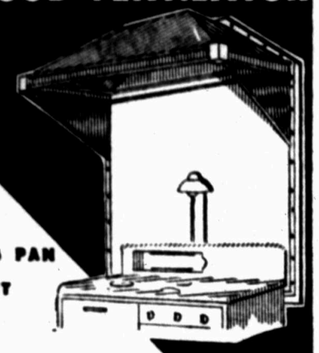

Hyderabad, India, will revive gold mining in the Raichur District, by an expenditure of $1,500,000 for new machinery, Hutto reports.

A MEMORY BOOK OF PROGRESS OF LUBBOCK AND THE SOUTH PLAINS
1873—1949

Events of milestone importance in the agricultural history of the South Plains occurred in 1901 and 1902. They are the years from which the "cotton history" of the area most logically can be dated.

In 1901, W. P. Florence planted 10 acres near Slaton, harvesting three bales which he hauled to a gin near Big Spring. The following year, F. E. Wheelock built a gin near Avenue A and Seventeenth street in Lubbock. This was the answer to the many farmers who often remarked: "We would grow cotton if we had a place to gin it."

From these small beginnings, cotton has grown steadily in importance on the South Plains. The first small gin was the forerunner of the approximately 300 modern plants serving the area today. The first 10 acres have grown to the more than 2,000,000 acres last year and the estimated 3,000,0000 acres plus this year.

Annual crops twice have been close to a million bales—nearly one-third of the total Texas production— with present prospects favorable to a record-breaking yield this year. Many millions of dollars are invested in oil mills, compresses and other businesses which depend upon South Plains cotton.

Yet this is only one of many resources—though one of vast importance—upon which our region confidently relies for security and continuing prosperity.

South Plains Cotton Outlook Continues Bright; Threat Of Insect Damage Believed Controlled

Hockley 370,000; Dawson 350,000; Lamb 300,000, and Lynn 295,000.

Crop conditions in individual counties were reported as follows: Very good — Briscoe, Cochran and Crosby; good — Bailey, Dawson, Floyd, Gaines, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Borden, Castro, Deaf Smith, Parker, Swisher and Yoakum; and fair — Garza, Lynn and Terry.

Insects Almost Controlled

Clapp noted that present damaging insects now are "fairly well under control," but that light bollworms are present generally, are likely to increase and could become a crop factor unless controlled."

"Bollworms once reduced our crop 45 per cent after Sept. 1," he remarked.

Referring to other "present unfavorable conditions," his report said:

"In parts of the territory, the bottom crop is poor due to rank growth, flea hoppers or a combination of these factors. These areas must depend on the middle and top bolls for high production.

"In some areas, plants have rank growth and are shallow-rooted due to excessive rain since planting. Excessive heat could cause abnormal shedding and reduced production despite the excellent subsoil moisture.

But, in most of the territory, he said, the weeds are pretty well under control despite a shortage of labor.

Split Vote Indicated In Cochran County

MORTON, July 30 (Special)—With two of the five boxes Cochran county still out, indications are that the election for a county tax reallocation proposal will carry, and that the vote for a tax levy to purchase and improve county parks will not carry, County Judge G. W. Thompson, said here late tonight.

Though the three boxes which have reported show a majority for both issues, the park proposal must have a two-thirds majority to carry. The reallocation proposal needs only a simple majority to carry.

The vote from the boxes that are in are: reallocation proposal, Morton box, 65 for and 53 against; Bledsoe box, 19 for and 5 against; Neely Ward box, 15 for and 8 against. The park improvement issue, Morton box, 72 for and 52 against; Bledsoe box, 14 for and 8 against; Neely Ward box 10 for and 3 against. Whiteface and Lehman boxes are still out.

LAFB Name Sought

additional to the name:

The military rank of the veteran nominated; his serial number; a brief narrative of his war record, and reasons why the person making the nomination considers its appropriate.

Rank Not Considered

The suggestions must be mailed to LAFB committee of the chamber of commerce, Postoffice Box 561, Lubbock, before Aug. 15.

Air Force officials emphasized that military rank will not be considered when a permanent name is selected for the reactivated base. The name is as likely to be that of a private as of a high-ranking officer.

When all nominations are received, the chamber of commerce committee will study them and probably will recommend several for Air Force consideration.

The Air Force will make the final selection.

While the Air Force will not be limited, in choosing a name, to the recommendations, two facts have been made clear by high officers of that branch of the service:

The committee recommendations will be given first consideration and the Air Force would prefer a name which would serve as an enduring memorial to someone from this area who served in that branch of the service.

Can you suggest anyone for this honor?

Board Hearings

cost them nothing.

That is all changed. Residents of the city of Lubbock grew outspokenly critical of the conceded inequities, which often, imposed more taxation on a wageowner who maintains a house in town than on the farmer owning large acreage, valuable improvements and rich crops.

A political cloud brewed and the county commissioners court reacted by forming a contract with R. C. Hopping and Bob Miller to reappraise the county.

As a result, 6,681 persons have been cited to appear before the court, sitting as an equalization board. From Aug. 9 to 12, inclusive, residents whose names commence with "A" through "H" will appear. On Aug. 15 through 17, those with names beginning with "I" through "R;" on Aug. 18 and 19, "S" through "Z," and Aug. 23 and 24, Slaton residents.

Miller and Hopping will "sit in" on the hearings, County Judge Walter Davies said, to "facilitate" understanding of the reappraisal as it relates to specific properties.

A small percentage of those cited live in the city of Lubbock.

STORE MANAGER NO BILLED

AMARILLO, July 30 (AP)—A Potter county grand jury refused last night to take action against John J. Corbin, charged with robbery of his own store. Corbin, 36, was manager of the White Way food store robbed July 18. He is no longer with the store.

Mahon Believes

staple."

In the past, only cotton with a staple length of 1½ inches or more has been classified as long staple. This has been exempt from marketing quotas.

All the cotton grown in California and most of the Arizona production is the acala variety, with staple length ranging from 1⅛ to 1¼ inches. It is directly competitive in the markets with the short staples produced in this area and most of the South, where staple lengths average ⅞ to 15/16 of an inch.

Plan Is Explained

The indications were that the California-Arizona interests were attempting quietly to obtain an undue advantage in either of several ways, apparently hoping their maneuvering would not be discovered until the discriminatory provisions had been enacted into law.

The efforts in behalf of the California-Arizona producers were said to be as follows, in the order of preference by them:

First—To have all acala cotton labeled as long staple, and exempt from acreage controls. Since a California law forbids the planting of any other variety in that state and nearly all Arizona cotton is acala, such a provision would mean those states could plant all the cotton they desired, regardless of controls in other states.

Second—To designate any cotton of 1⅛ inches or more staple length as "long staple." This would apply to most of the California-Arizona cotton.

Third—To make the long staple label apply to cotton of 1⅛ inches or more staple length. This would take in a substantial portion of the crops of the two far western states.

South Would Have Lost

Cotton authorities agreed that the result of either of these provisions would be to place the short staple cotton growers of the South and Southwest at a serious disadvantage to California and Arizona in the competition on existing markets.

Producing without restriction, the far west cotton would skim the cream of prevailing markets because of its slightly longer staple length. And, because they would not be restricted as to production, they would defeat the entire purpose of acreage controls, which is to prevent the accumulation of dangerous surpluses of short staple.

Congressman Mahon's telegram said he has discussed "this very important matter" with Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco, chairman of the House Agriculture committee, and other cotton states congressmen.

"I believe we will be able to prevent passage of legislation giving so-called long staple states of the west undue advantages," Mahon's telegram continued. "The acreage control bill as now written provides exemptions for staples of 1⅛ inches and above."

Authorities appeared agreed that cotton of that length is true "long staple" and would not be seriously competitive with the product of the South and Southwest.

Disputes Delay Funds

along to provide the money. There is a fixed rule that these must not contain legislation.

Actually both the House and Senate include legislative provisions or riders in nearly every appropriation bill. Normally few lawmakers question them.

It was the legislative question that sent the $5,647,724,000 foreign aid bill back to the Senate Appropriations committee during the week.

The committee had earmarked more than $2 billions of the funds for buying of surplus United States farm products and another $50 million for use as a loan to Spain.

After hours of bitter debate and wrangling over its own rules, the Senate finally decided these and three other appropriations committee provisions were legislation.

But the committee, upon reconsidering, clung to its original intent on most of them. Instead of stating positively how the disputed funds were to be spent, it now has rewritten them in a negative manner, saying they now are limitations upon spending, to get around the ban on legislation.

Thief Takes $250

Pete Hubbard, a police patrolman, before District Attorney Lloyd Croslin.

The suspect had a juvenile record here, officials said.

Theft of $40 in money was reported to police in the other burglary under investigation. E. D. Wheeler, employe of Boyd's service station at 2402 Broadway said he discovered the loss when he opened the station Saturday morning. Wheeler said the money had been removed from a sack where the night attendant, A. C. Stapp, said he had placed a total of $90.

Lubbock Man Fined

Jack D. Fertsch, 21, pleaded guilty of possession of beer for purpose of sale after a truck he drives for a business concern here was searched by police and liquor control board inspectors. Eleven cases of beer were in the truck, it was charged. County Judge Walter Davies fined Fertsch $250 and court costs.

Police said they found two men, each 25, "hanging around" the truck and jailed them under vagrancy charges. The truck, they said, was on the parking lot of a theater here.

Sheriff Roy King of Dawson county said Maximo Garcia Ybarra, a Lubbock Mexican, had been arrested when in possession of seven cases of beer, eight four-fifths quarts of whisky and some gin. The suspect was fined $500 and costs of $23.40.

Speeding Fines Levied

Sheriff King had asked Lubbock county officials for the Mexican's record, and was informed that Ybarra is under $500 bond dated July 24 here. That charge accused him of liquor law violation in Lubbock county.

Although the police had made some arrests and imposed two fines of $100 each, speeding in southwest Lubbock continued. The public was showing cooperation, however, by telephoning to headquarters information that will assist the police in narrowing their search for those responsible.

Paul Hansen, 515 Ave. Q, told police that a diamond engagement ring which he had left in the men's dressing room at the city swimming pool about 3:30 p. m. Saturday had been taken between that time and 7 p. m. Hansen said he had left the ring on a bench in the room when he dressed after swimming and had forgotten to pick it up when he left the pool. Value of the ring was not known.

Fender skirts valued at $15 were reported stolen from Jimmie Morris of 1407 Ave. Q.

A 26-year-old Lubbock man was being held for investigation of burglary after officials arrested him in the residence of Jack Ellis, 1918 Ave. N, about 11:15 last night. Occupants of the house were absent at the time.

Patrolmen were dispatched to Ellis' home following a call by Lofton Burnett, of 1916 Ave. N, who told officers he had seen someone moving about in the house. The man walked out of the house and surrendered at command of police.

Warmer Weather

Saturday as a storm-studded cool front moved in over that area, the Associated Press said. A total of 77 persons had been claimed in the eastern states because of the heat.

Thunderstorms Hit East

At Philadelphia, the mercury dropped from an afternoon high of 96 to 79 at 10 p.m. In some places in Maryland the drop was as much as 18 degrees in 15 minutes.

Thundershowers brought relief to heat-stricken New York City. The temperature in Manhattan dropped 10 degrees to 76 within an hour after the storm struck Manhattan at 8:30 p.m. (EST.)

But Saturday temperatures soared — to 100 at Newark, N. J., 98 at Portland, Me., 94.2 at New York City, 96 at Hartford, Conn., and 94 at Washington, Jacksonville and Tampa, Fla.

The upsurge of heat prostation deaths subsided with at least 77 reported.

It was the hottest day of the year in Maine. Portland's 98 broke the all time record of 91 degrees for the date set in 1909.

Oldtimers Spit And Whittle Club Wins Battle Of Benches

WHITNEY, July 30 (AP)—The Whitney Spit and Whittle club is back at its old stand tonight—on the street corner just across from the town's only clinic.

Today the voters of Whitney—in Hill county near the construction site of Whitney dam—approved the move 124-67.

However, this afternoon long before the balloting was completed the old timers moved their wooden benches and nail kegs from their brief exile in an alley back to the corner of North First and North Brazos.

Recently, a group of citizens got up a petition to remove the sidewalk club from its self-appointed location of many years. Some said the women folk had heard the corner conversationalists drop a cuss word now and then in telling tall tales. Others said it was not befitting a town that was growing by leaps and bounds.

School Consolidation Defeated In Estacado

ESTACADO, July 30 (Special)—Estacado school district residents Saturday defeated a proposal to consolidate with the Lorenzo school district. The vote was 45 against to 16 for.

R. E. Brown, election judge, said the 61 vote total was "very near a 100 per cent vote" for the district which covers 42 sections. The vote was conducted in the Estacado school, with M. A. Bowers serving as presiding judge.

Backers of the proposal had secured more than 40 signatures on the petition asking for a special election on consolidation.

The Estacado school offers the first eight grades for district patrons, with high school students attending the Lorenzo school.

Appeal For Jones

affray for fear of mob violence.

The district attorney opposed commutation on the basis of Jones' criminal record over a long period of years, a record which included several convictions on charges of stomping and kicking people.

Wichita Sheriff Signs Petition

Among requests for clemency received by the board is one carrying signatures of 77 Wichita county citizens, headed with the sheriff's name, Hammet Vance.

The petitioners asked that Jones' sentence be changed to life imprisonment "so he can and we know will do a lot of good in helping other inmates of the prison."

Jones was tried in Hale county in 1946 and given the death penalty. The case was reversed by the court of criminal appeals Nov. 12, 1947, and a second trial was held before 72nd District Judge Dan Blair in Crosby county in April 1948. Again the accused man was found guilty. The appellate court upheld the death sentence and on May 18 denied motion for rehearing.

Jones received a routine 30-day stay of execution from the late Gov. Beauford H. Jester. He is scheduled to die in the electric chair at midnight on Aug. 7, a week from tomorrow.

JONES MOVED FROM CITY AS UNSATISFACTORY PRISONER

Jones was an "unsatisfactory" prisoner when held in Lubbock county jail, Sheriff Grady Harrist of Lubbock said Saturday.

When he failed to "get his way" he would swear and call jailors opprobious names, Sheriff Harrist said.

As a result, Jones was transferred from jail there to Wichita Falls, and later to Vernon.

He was returned to the Lubbock jail only for a brief time before the formal sentencing by Judge Blair in Crosbyton.

He was taken directly to the penitentiary from the Crosby county courthouse.

PREACHER CLAIMS JONES' SENTENCE WAS TOO HARSH

VERNON, July 30 (AP)—A spokesman for a group of West Texas preachers said tonight that the ministers did not want the death sentence of W. Fred Jones commuted to life imprisonment "just because he got religion."

"It's because he got a worse penalty than he deserved and more severe than others have received for like crimes," said the Rev. Noel V. Guice, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church here.

The pastor was one of five ministers who appeared before the board of pardons and paroles in Austin earlier this week in behalf of Jones.

Ministers Show Interest

Guice said all but one of the five ministers were in the Plains area when the murder took place and knew the "local situation."

The ministers also asked commutation of the sentence "because of local prejudice and the change of venue was not far enough away from the scene of the crime."

Their third point of argument was that Jones "would be of more value to society alive than dead." Guice said that Jones "has won all of his seven fellow inmates in death row over to religion... and he also has won to religion many others in the jails where he has been since the crime."

The board of pardons and paroles will make a decision in the case next week.

Schmid said the Rev. Guice, the Rev. J. Carl Wright of Electra, Roy C. Ling, an un-ordained preacher from Wichita Falls, and two other ministers, the Rev. Lon Mont Walker of Lubbock and Rev. Marshall of Sourlake told the board Jones "has found religion since he has been in jail."

Jones was tried in Hale county in 1946 and given the death penalty. The case was reversed by the Court of Criminal Appeals and a second trial was held in Crosby county in April 1948. Again the accused man was found guilty. The appellate court upheld the death sentence.

overseas concentration of strategic bombing power. It is from those bases that the initial retaliatory air strikes presumably would be launched in event of attack.

The World War II bomber fields used by the USAF, through a understanding with Britain's RAF, are at Scampton, Marham and Waddington. The USAF sent a visiting squadron of B-29s to England in 1948 which showed the runways were entirely adequate for use by the superfortresses.

Bradley, in his strategy outline, said it assumed "the hard core of the ground power in being will come from Europe." This remark apparently reflects the idea that the greatest immediate menace in a Russian attack would be the movement of the 60 to 100 Russian divisions, spearheaded by armored forces.

Some official American observers, basing their estimates on information from abroad, think that, in tanks, the Red army may be better off than any in the world.

Rangers Patrol

Rangers said:

"We are not going to tolerate any such situation as developed last night when five men in two cars shot up the place on the outskirts of the city.

"Everything is being done to bring a fair trial to the accused in the Mason shooting.

"There must be no disturbance here in this situation. We represent the state in this investigation and any other officers who have information that will help in clearing it up should volunteer that information."

The Rancho Alegro is a frame structure at the western edge of Alice.

Mason's 22-year-old son, Burton Mason, said he hoped and planned to continue his father's program "Bill Mason Speaks," over some radio station, possibly one in Corpus Christi.

Receives Threats

Young Mason said the program would not be on station KBKI in Alice where his father spoke since the management had said it seemed inadvisable at this time. The son said he was leaving his own program on KBKI, "Duval Doings," to carry on his father's work.

"The good done would be undone if the program is not continued," he said, "then so many people have said they want it."

Mason was the program director of station KBKI and a veteran newspaperman who had worked on newspapers throughout the United States. He had joked often on his daily broadcast about threats he said he received frequently by mail and telephone.

Beaten Slightly

On Thursday, Mason had used his radio program to criticize the moral tone of a dime-a-dance palace. He said the place was owned by Smithwick.

Officers recalled another incident, five months ago, involving Mason and another deputy sheriff.

The radio man, whose broadcasts often were vigorous and personal, had criticized the sheriff's department. One night he was called out of a bowling alley and beaten slightly. Mason laughed it off as a "token beating." The same night Deputy Sheriff Charlie Brand went to a justice of the peace, pleaded guilty to "simple assault" and paid a $5 fine.

Statements Secured

An examining trial for Smithwick is set for 10 a.m. Tuesday. The deputy pleaded innocent at an arraignment yesterday. Funeral services and burial for Mason will be held in Alice tomorrow.

Reams said today, from nearby Falfurrias, that: "I can tell you that we have statements from eyewitnesses."

One statement was made by Avelino Saenz, who was with Mason in an automobile when Mason was shot. Saenz jumped out of the car, narrowly escaping the bullet which tore through the radio man.

Reams said "as far as I can find out, Smithwick put himself in jail after Mason was killed. He had a key to the jail and that's where he was found."

"We are very interested in learning exactly what Bill Mason had to say about Smithwick," Reams stated. "Mason did not make records of his broadcasts.

"But I have learned that Mason wrote out every word he said on the radio, and I am very hopeful that somewhere, in his effects, the texts of the pertinent broadcasts will be found."

Reams said Smithwick, a man about six feet one-inch tall who weighs more than 200 pounds, has made no statement.

Yesterday, Mason drove to the southwestern part of Alice to investigate a report of poor streets. He had received a phone call that the streets were bad and he went to get a report for his broadcast.

"Mason was in his automobile, headed in one direction, and the accused, in a red pickup truck, was headed in another," Reams said.

"As the two cars were meeting, Mason stopped his car. The accused man got out of his truck and came to Mason's car.

Bullet Found In Door

"Mason got out of his car. He crawled across the road and under the pickup truck. Then he kept going. He staggered southward, crossed a vacant lot, managed to climb a fence. After traveling about 200 feet, he reached the porch of the Alice Pipe and Supply company."

The 45 caliber bullet had ripped near Mason's heart. He died in a hospital 30 minutes later.

The bullet was found in the door of Mason's car—the door opposite the driver's side. The bullet had narrowly missed Saenz, who scrambled out of the car just before.

Officers said the man who shot Mason asked only: "Are you Bill Mason?" before firing the shot.

Texas Ranger Ben Krueger, who is stationed here, telephoned Ranger Capt. Alfred Allee of Carrizo Springs immediately.

Allee sent Rangers Seay and Bridges. Both men, along with Krueger, patrolled Alice last night and today.

"Our function is not only to see that the prisoner is protected but to see that he is presented before the court," Krueger said. "As far as I know, no Ranger ever gave up a prisoner."

During the minor beating he took, five months ago, Mason's trousers somehow came off.

Next day, Mason hung the trousers on a pole in the downtown section, with an attached placard. The placard said the trousers belonged to Bill Mason and that if anyone else wanted to meet him he would meet them there.

Mason started his newspaper career in Minnesota on the Minneapolis Journal. He had worked on the New York Times, the San Francisco Examiner, the Oakland, Calif., Times, Oakland Post-Inquirer, and the old San Francisco Call.

He once was an investigator for Earl Warren, governor of California, when Warren was district attorney for Alameda county.

Later Mason was public relations director for the General Tire and Rubber company. In 1938-40 he worked for D. P. Brother advertising agency and General Motors, Detroit.

He came to Alice from the San Antonio Light in 1947 and became managing editor of the Alice Echo. In December, 1948, he went to the radio station as program director.

High U.S. Officials Endangered When Plane Motor Fails

WASHINGTON, July 30 (INS)—Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson today confirmed reports that he donned a parachute and was prepared to leap from a disabled Army plane high over North Carolina a week ago.

The lives of Vinson, Army Secretary Gordon Gray and two members of Congress were endangered when one motor conked out on a two-motor plane while they were enroute to Washington.

At first, it appeared the right motor had caught fire, as smoke poured from its cowling. The plane captain issued parachutes to Vinson, Gray and the other two passengers, Sen. Frank P. Graham and Rep. Harold D. Cooley, both of North Carolina.

All four donned the parachutes and stood by to leap to safety in event they were ordered to do so.

The incident occurred last Saturday while the quartet was returning to Washington from a visit to Lenoir, N. C. The chief justice, Secretary Gray and the congressmen were guests of honor at the dedication of a new American Legion home in Lenoir. Mr. Vinson made the address of the day.

Flying back to Washington after the ceremonies, the right motor of the plane appeared to catch fire. Smoke poured from it and there were signs it might disintegrate.

The crew captain shut off the motor and flew the plane on a single engine. He immediately ordered parachutes issued to his distinguished passengers along with brief instructions on how to "pull the ripcord when they jumped."

The plane made a safe emergency landing at Winston-Salem, N. C., where it was found that the engine had not caught fire but that an engine moulding had come loose and whirled around inside the engine cowling. Repairs were made and the plane continued on to Washington.

Arms Plan Studied

program must be fitted in to a mutual defense plan to be drafted under direction of a defense council to be set up by the North Atlantic treaty signers.

4. Specifically limit the program to one year, thus giving the North Atlantic council about six months to act and Congress about six months to review the situation afterwards.

(As now proposed, the $1,450,000,000 would be available for spending or commitment in one year ending June 30, 1950, for goods to be delivered mostly over a two-year period.)

A compromise in these general terms is known to have been discussed by legislators in conferences with Secretary of state Acheson and Gen. George C. Marshall, former secretary who is taking an active part in efforts to get a program enacted by Congress.

Although President Truman called his $1,450,000,000 proposal a "minimum" program, checks by administration leaders have raised grave doubts in their minds that they can push it through Congress.

One Democratic official, who asked not to be quoted by name, said unless a compromise agreement is reached the administration faces the possibility that it will get no program at all beyond continued help for Greece and Turkey.

About $325 million is earmarked for the latter countries and there seems little disposition in Congress to challenge this outlay.

Neither does there seem any serious objection — among those willing to support an abbreviated arms program—to a $77 million cash outlay to repair and ship $450 million in surplus military supplies.

In addition, most of those willing to go along with a stop-gap proposal say they think $300 million may be needed for new supplies to equip an armored division for France, install radar in Norway and provide for defensive mine laying activities.

Wichita Falls Man Gets Five Years For Murdering Patient

WICHITA FALLS, July 30. (INS)—A former Wichita Falls state hospital attendant today was found guilty of murder and sentenced to five years in prison.

David Beck, 40, was convicted by a district court jury of killing a hospital patient, Thomas H. Gibbons of Sulphur Springs. Gibbons died just 20 minutes after being admitted to the hospital last March 4.

Witnesses testified at the trial that Gibbons was kicked and beaten. Beck denied any intentions of killing the man.

Another former hospital attendant, T. C. Saucier, has been sentenced to death in connection with the same case.

HST TAKES SWIM

THURMONT, Md., July 30 (INS)—President Truman today swam in the cool mountain water at "Shangri La," his Maryland retreat, while Washington sweltered in its worst heat wave in 19 years. Mr. Truman made his escape from the capital's week-long siege of 96-degree heat Friday by driving his own car 65 miles to the secluded retreat in the foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains.

Wife In Texas

The dead were taken from the scattered wreckage tonight and placed in three funeral homes throughout this rural area. State police said that most of the dead were burned beyond recognition.

The Navy in Washington identified the dead flier tonight as Lieut. (jg) Robert Vernon Poe, 26. His wife, the former Mary Elizabeth Muttare, was reported in Corpus Christi, Texas, for her father's funeral.

NAMES OF VICTIMS GIVEN

NEW YORK, July 30. (AP)—Eastern Airlines today released the following revised list of crew members and passengers aboard the DC-3 airliner that crashed near Fort Dix, N. J.

Passengers: Miss Alice Sutherland, New York; Mrs. May H. Smith, Colesville, Md.; Miss Gesina Dehell, Birmingham, Ala.; Richard A. Katsin, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Mrs. Philip A. Katsin and her five-months-old daughter, Susan, of Winston-Salem, N. C., Mrs. Katsin was described as a sister-in-law of Richard Katsin; Howard S. LeRoy, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Jane Margeson, West Hartford, Conn.; Miss June Griswold, East Hartford, Conn.; Mrs. F. Curry, Arlington, Va.; Miss S. Shaw, no address given; W. Andrews, no address given.

The crew members: Captain Leroy Roland Matthews, Jackson Heights, Queens, N. Y.; Co-Pilot Julien B. Dimmons, Jackson Heights, Queens, N. Y.; Flight Attendant Peter Gobleck, Jackson Heights, Queens, N. Y.

The two-engined airliner, bound from Boston to Memphis, plowed open a wide ditch as it ground into a mass.

Farmers who ran to the rescue said an explosion and a wall of flame kept them at a distance for almost half an hour.

Firemen said there wasn't a sound from the burning plane when rescuers reached it.

"The only noise was the crackle of flames," said Fire Chief Stanley Matthis.

Probe Is Begun

Eastern Airlines, Army, Navy and Civil Aeronautics board officials began to investigate.

Army investigators were told by an eyewitness that the fighter plane had approached the airliner from the right rear and had crashed into its top.

Army ambulances went to the crash scene to carry the bodies to morgues.

State police said identification of the dead was made difficult by the 30-minute fire.

The crash scene is a flat pasture in this sparsely populated farm country 25 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

State police established a guard around the wrecked plane. They said several sacks of mail had been recovered. Money and jewelry were found scattered about the crash site.

Reburial Set Today For Spur Veteran

SPUR, July 30. (Special)—Reburial services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist church in Spur for Pfc. Homer G. Thomason, who was killed in action on Luzon island in the Philippines Feb. 11, 1945.

Rev. C. Melvin Ratheal, pastor, will perform the services. Interment will be in Spur cemetery under the direction of the Chandler funeral home. A full military service will be provided by members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, who will also act as pallbearers.

Pfc. Thomason was born Jan. 3, 1912 in Stephens county and had lived in Dickens county since early youth. He is survived by four children, Homer Ray, Wanda Merle, and Violet Thomason, all of 1116 Myrtle drive in Lubbock, and Bobbie of Spur; and three brothers, Gus and Cecil Thomason of Spur and Dave Thomason of California.

Legality Of Further Legislation Doubted

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—Congress goes into extra innings next week, and some members who think it isn't legal are getting ready to blow the whistle.

Some Republicans say a cloud of uncertainty may hang over any bills enacted hereafter.

The claim that action taken after July 31 is invalid grows out of the 1946 congressional reorganization act which says that, except in time of war or national emergency, Congress shall adjourn not later than July 31 unless it orders otherwise.

It hasn't ordered otherwise, but is going ahead with business anyhow, perhaps through August or later.

Congressional leaders have decreed that the 1946 adjournment deadline is not operative this year because the United States legally still is at war and the emergencies proclaimed by the President have not been ended. The war, they hold, technically does not end until the peace treaties are signed, and the wartime emergency periods continue until specifically ended.

Condition Of Abilene Fireman Hurt In Accident Is Serious

FORT WORTH, July 30 (AP)—An Abilene fireman injured in the collision of a fire truck and passenger bus in Abilene last night was in serious condition at a hospital here today.

O. R. Sanders was rushed here for head surgery after the accident. Doctors said he suffered fracture at the skull base and a badly bruised brain.

NEW BUILDING IS DISCUSSED

First Presbyterian Church Is Studying Plans For Expansion

Preliminary steps have been taken by the Board of Deacons and the Session of First Presbyterian church for the erection of a new church sanctuary and the remodeling of the old sanctuary into an educational building.

Ultimate cost of the expansion project has been estimated at between $175,000 and $200,000, church officials said.

Members of the Board of Deacons and of the Session met this past week with Henry Steinbomer, church architect of San Antonio, at which time sketches and drawings were studied and expansion plans discussed.

Committee To Study Plans

At the meeting, the church bodies voted to place the matter into the hands of the building committee, composed of Retha R. Martin, chairman, Robert W. Wright, R. D. Moxley, E. J. Parsons, and R. E. Karper.

The building committee met later last week in the offices of Retha R. Martin. Plans for the building program were discussed further and a contract was drawn up between the committee and Steinbomer. The San Antonio architect now is at work on plans for the proposed new sanctuary and the educational building. As soon as these plans are completed, the entire proposed program of expansion will be presented to the congregation of First Presbyterian church for definite action.

Present plans call for the erection of the new sanctuary west of the present church structure. Church officials said plans at present were still indefinite, but that construction should begin within the next six months.

Unusually Heavy Losses Of Hogs In Midwest Is Probed

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—The Agriculture department is investigating reports of unusually heavy death losses of hogs in parts of the midwestern corn belt.

Dr. B. T. Simms, chief of the department's bureau of animal industry, said representatives of his agency left last night for Iowa and Nebraska to investigate the reports. Heavier than usual losses have been reported in Minnesota also.

Simms said he did not know what was causing the losses. When reports of losses do arise, he said, it usually turns out to be hog cholera.

Charge Accounts In June Break Record

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)—More Americans are saying "charge it" instead of putting out cold cash for purchases.

The Federal Reserve board said yesterday that consumer credit—for the purchase of everything from cars on installments to shoes on the family charge account—topped $16,000,000,000 in June, for the highest figure in history.

March Announces Completion Of 'First Phase' Of Governor's Race

AUSTIN, July 30. (U.P.)— Caso March announced today he had rounded the first turn of his gubernatorial campaign, and was ready to stride into the second stretch of his three-phase race.

March, former Baylor university law professor and twice-defeated candidate for governor, said the just-ended first phase of his campaign carried him 25,000 miles into every section of Texas, "to let the people know I was running."

He announced that he will now begin a tour of 5,200 precincts over Texas, starting in the Panhandle and "working down the backbone of Texas." It will take until next May, he said.

March added that his stretch-drive will be "an intensive speaking campaign," plugging his 'tax-relief program," aimed at reduction of real property taxes and increase of natural resource taxes.

Naval Reserve Unit Demonstrates Use Of Radio Equipment

The air was crackling Saturday afternoon at Broadway and Texas as members of Lubbock's Naval Reserve unit demonstrated how their portable radio equipment can be of service to the South Plains in time of disaster.

Two portable transmitter-receivers were set up on the southwest corner of the courthouse square and passers-by were invited to communicate "just for the fun of it" with the Naval Reserve Training Center at Eighth street and College avenue, with a pickup truck roaming the streets and with a third portable set-up at Abernathy.

More Members Wanted

Young men interested in joining the Naval Reserve and taking part in electronics training here on Wednesday nights were given an opportunity to ask questions over the radio.

The demonstration was part of the unit's program to build up its membership in Lubbock. Membership in the Naval Reserve automatically exempts a man from the draft, as well as giving him an opportunity to advance in rating in time of peace, while he is being paid for it.

Participating in the Saturday afternoon activity were Lt. John Ragland, electronics officer for the unit, J. F. Moncrief, James Maynard, Chuck Collier, Ike Robbins and W. B. Kitts, all of whom were at the courthouse square; Chief Hospitalman W. H. Green, Bill Wylie and Donald Decker, who were at Abernathy; and Jack T. Slover, Clarence L. Smith, Chief Radioman L. M. Bane, Chief Engineman J. D. Armbrester, Chief Electronic Technician J. F. Lee, all of whom were at the Naval Reserve Training center.

TRADE PACT SIGNED

BUENOS AIRES, July 30 (AP)—Argentina and Czechoslovakia signed a bilateral trade agreement today which is expected to amount to bartering of goods valued at 200,000,000 pesos ($40,000,000) yearly.

The Netherlands will collect a fee of about 38 cents a ton on potatoes exported, to raise a fund to advertise Dutch potatoes abroad.

THE FLEET'S IN — Or so it appeared at Broadway and Texas avenue Saturday afternoon when members of Lubbock's Naval Reserve unit demonstrated portable equipment for the public. Here an interested bystander, Harold Carruth, 19, of 1924 Ninth, takes the microphone and talks to Abernathy, a pickup truck and the Naval Reserve Training Center as J. F. Moncrief, standing, and James Maynard, seated, take part in the demonstration. (Staff Photo by Tyler Curtis.)

Nationalists May Open New Front

TAIPEH, Formosa, July 30. (INS)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and acting Chinece president Li Tsung-Jen were reported today to have decided to open a "third front" in China in an attempt to stem the Communist offensive.

Official confirmation and details are lacking but Chinese officials are more optimistic concerning the military situation than at any time since the Communists swarmed across the Yangtze.

(Hong Kong dispatches said 300 Communist raiders attacked a Nationalist headquarters 40 miles from Hong Kong and made off with the garrison's arms.

Rail Link Threatened

(Communist troops were reported menacing Leiyang, strategic rail town 50 miles south of Hengyan. Loss of Leiyang would drive a deep wedge in Nationalist defenses and cut the major rail link between Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces.

(Canton reports said other Communist units were trying to drive on Kanhsien, one of the Nationalist bulwarks standing in the path of the Communist push toward Canton, provisional capital.)

Sources close to Chiang said the decision to open another front, in addition to the central and northwest fronts, was made during Li's three-day talks with the Generalissimo. Li flew back to Canton today and immediately began the task of carrying out the strategy outlined at Taipeh.

She is survived by two sons, Horace L. Roberdeau of Austin and Joe A. Roberdeau of Houston; two brothers, Edwin Booth of Port Arthur and Saunders Booth of Detroit; a sister, Mrs. W. C. Edwards of Edinburg.

TOP DOUBLE PLAY COMBINATIONS—Duplicating their performance of last year, the Lubbock Hubbers have come up with the top team in the West Texas-New Mexico League in double plays. The Hubbers surpass the seven other teams by a comfortable margin at this stage of the season, having turned 125 grounders and flies into twin killings. The ability to cut off opposing team rallies has been invaluable to the Hubbers in their surge into the first division. Curiously enough, only a third of the double killings have been staged by infielders. Five outfielders and five pitchers also have started the Hubbers' double plays, one of the most beautiful plays in baseball to watch. According to the records, Mike Dooley has started 10 of the twin deaths from his catcher's position, several of them on strikeouts when he caught a runner trying to steal. Nelson Davis, shortstop, tops the team in starting the double play, inaugurating 37 so far. He also has taken part in 65. Manager Jackie Sullivan has started 20 and has taken part in 71, while Jim Prince has started four and taken part in 98. Buddy McCallum, no longer with the Hubbers, was in 43 double plays and started 26 of them. Pitchers starting double plays have included John Myers, Don Hensiek, Chris Haskins, Cotton Russell and Royce Mills. Outfielders have been Al Duarte, Bo Dempsey, Pedro Dunabetia, Chick Fowler and Joe Wisniewski. Infielders have included McCallum, Sullivan, Davis, Willis and Prince. And with Ken Peacock taking over third now, he's expected to continue the string. Shown above, in inset pictures, left to right, are Willis, Russell, Dooley, Haskins and Dempsey, two pitchers, an outfielder, an infielder and a catcher who have taken part in double plays. In the main pictures, left to right, are shown the backbone of most Hubber double plays. Ken Peacock is getting his throw off to second to get one runner. In the center, Davis shovels the ball to Sullivan, whose great pivot makes possible most of the twin killings. And stretching for a low one at first is Prince, whose steady work has made completion of the double death possible. (Staff Photos by Tyler Curtis.)

Abilene Squeezes Out 5-4 Win; Hubbers Drop To Fourth

Anthony's Captures District Softball Tournament

Barber College Bows To Plainview Nine, 2-0, In West Texas Thriller

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

PLAINVIEW, July 30—Anthony's of Plainview tonight won the West Texas District Softball tournament, but not until Lubbock Barber college scared the daylights out of the Plainview group before bowing, 2-0, in the finals.

Bill Howton pitched his second no-hit, no-run game of the tournament to beat the Barbers before 1,000 fans, after the Lubbock team had gained the finals by beating Plainview's Murrell Furniture, 3-1, in the opener of tonight's doubleheader.

Anthony's Undefeated

Tonight's victory left Anthony's undefeated in the double elimination tournament, and gave the Plainview club the right to compete in the state tournament early next month at Stamford. In addition, the champions, received $200 cash and a trophy. Lubbock Barber college, as runner-up, got $100, a trophy, and certification to play at Stamford. Murrell Furniture was awarded the third-place trophy.

Howton, however, was wild tonight and was in more trouble than Alger Hiss in the sixth and seventh innings. But on both occasions he settled down to pitch his way out of difficulty via the strikeout route.

Howton Leads Off

Anthony's got two runs in the fifth inning in which Howton led off with a ground single to right-field. Fluff Myers grounded out to short with Howton racing all the way from first to third on the play. He then scored on a passed ball. The second run came when Ralph Gunter reached second on third baseman Curly Allison's double error, then came home on John Long's double down the third base line.

In the last of the sixth the Barbers staged their first big threat. With one away, Arthur Penkert and Charles Vanderventer reached second and third on walks and a wild pitch. After another man went down for the second out chief umpire Curtis Barrett ruled that Jim White's grounder hit Vanderventer for the third out. The call was hotly disputed by Manager Tony Liguori and a number of Barber players, but the decision stuck.

Lubbock Threatens

In the seventh the Lubbock team threatened again. Allison took first when he was hit by a pitched ball. Highley walked. Alton Perry worked the count to 3-2, then fanned. Both runners advanced on a passed ball, but Max Walthall and Penkert went down on called third strikes to end the game.

Howton struck out 16 men while walking eight and hitting one.

Penkert, the losing pitcher, gave up five hits and fanned seven.

John Long, Jack Atkins, Leon Burch, Ralph Gunter, and Howton had one hit each for the winners.

In the first game tonight Cecil Hale pitched a neat three-hitter to advance the Barber college team to the finals.

Dickenson Wins Tri-State Golf

AMARILLO, July 30. (AP)—Paul Dickenson of Ardmore, Okla., won the 15th annual Tri-State Senior Golf tournament today, beating Dr. C. D. Moore of Oklahoma City, 3 and 2, in the 36-hole finals.

The 54-year-old winner was two down after the first three holes, but rallied to win the match.

Lubbock and South Plains golfers were eliminated in the upper brackets before the final rounds, but several stayed in the thick of the tournament in lower brackets.

Sunbeamers Take Second And Deciding Softball Game From Stamford, 5 To 1

Win Pits Locals Against Crane

STAMFORD, July 30 (Special)—The Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers of Lubbock took their second and deciding softball game from Stamford here tonight, defeating the local team by a 5-1 score.

The victory put the Sunbeamers in the finals for the Texas Softball league crown against Crane in a best three-out-of-five series. Crane will be host to the Lubbock team Monday night in a doubleheader beginning at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday Crane invades Lubbock for the final games at Jumbo Webster field. If necessary a tripleheader will be played in Lubbock.

Scott Wins Game

Kenny Scott scattered four Stamford hits to take the victory, and his mates supplied him with the winning margin early in the game. The one run scored by Stamford was unearned. Scott struckout seven batters and walked two. Roy Weeks was the loser, giving up four hits before retiring with two out in the sixth. He fanned five and walked three.

All Lubbock runs were earned, and Stamford committed but one error while the Sunbeamers made two miscues.

Lubbock pushed over three runs in the first inning and was never headed. James Abbott singled between second and shortstop to leadoff and was sacrificed to second by Don Allen. Roy Butler walked, and Willis James was intentionally passed to fill the sacks. G. W. Warden reached first safely on a fielder's choice as Abbott was thrown out at home, but Jim Joe Reiger rattled the boards on the right-centerfield wall with a long triple which scored three runs.

Warden Gets Homer

Stamford came back in the second as Gene Michler got on base on an error, stole second, and spiked the plate on Catcher Red McKinnon's single to leftfield. But the rally died with only one run across.

The Sunbeamers tallied single runs in the fifth and sixth. In the fifth Abbott tripled to rightfield to leadoff, and scored when Allen singled to left.

With two out and no one on base in the sixth Curly Hayes came in to pitch for Stamford, and on the second ball G. W. Warden poled a long 242-foot home run over the centerfield fence. The blow climaxed the Sunbeamer scoring.

CHAPMAN WINS IN CANADA

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 30. (INS)—Former U.S. amateur champion Dick Champion, of Osterville, Mass., staged a sensational late rally today to defeat Phil Farley of Toronto, one up on the 38th hole, for the Canadian Amateur golf championship.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

The next few days will be ones in which the Hubber management—collectively and individually—holds its breath. Letters have, from time to time, caused tremendous excitement and caused international upheavals. But we doubt if one letter that already is in the mail could cause more axiety among so many people than the one Chris Haskins has written to the State Highway Patrol. If Chris gets a favorable answer, he may not be with the Hubbers through the end of the season. No one has to make any pertinent remarks as to what his loss would mean to the Hubbers.

Chris, since joining the club, has won 12 games and lost only four, one of which he lost despite a fine pitching performance. His presence literally helped pull the Hubbers up out of the doldrums and into first place. If he hadn't hurt his arm against Albuquerque, Chris probably would have won three or four games more by this time. He's as dependable as an eight day clock run by the Naval Observatory and his relief roles are nothing short of pure brilliance. It's impossible to say whether the addition of Chris made the Hubbers a first division ball club, but there's no question that his great pitching certainly did much toward getting them out of the second division.

But Chris feels that he's getting nowhere playing baseball. He has a wife and children to think of, to say nothing of a new house that he has built. He predicts his future in baseball at six to eight years at the most. After that, what? He doesn't know and he's at an age where he begins to wonder about the future. Few ball players have the ability to see the situation clearly. They love the game, so they stay with it, trying all the time to delude themselves with the thought that since they've been good to baseball, baseball will be good to them when they finish their playing days. That seldom happens and Chris knows it. He states that he doesn't want to be a washed up ball player six or eight years from now.

By washed up, he means next to penniless and with no future in the game. He doesn't warm up to the idea of managing. He plays the game to the hilt when he's in it. He doesn't complain. If he has a sore arm, he says he has, if asked, but he doesn't alibi, he doesn't moan and groan about it. Recently he made an unprecedented move. He asked to be placed on the disabled list for 10 days because of his sore arm. For Chris, that's like asking to cut off an arm, his right one. There was no question that the arm was bad and other players winced when he went in to pitch. They want him for the playoffs and the extra money the playoffs mean. Pitching certainly would do the' wing no good and possibly, harm that couldn't be shaken off.

We told Chris the other night that, from a selfish standpoint, we were tickled pink to see him resign and return to the game. At the same time, we were sorry to see him leave a business that held out a sound future for him and in which he was happy. We also said that we wished now that he would wait until the end of the season to make application, because the Hubbers needed him. Chris said that he couldn't wait until the end of the season. If he did, he felt that the state officials would think he was the type of man who wanted a winter job only and that he'd repeat next spring, that is, return to baseball. Now he's made up his mind. If his application for reinstatement goes through, he'll accept immediately. We'd hate to see him go now, but we know that he's right to think of the future.

West Texas-New Mexico league ball clubs are making efforts to strengthen their teams for the stretch drive. The game against Abilene tonight marks the 100th game of the year for the Hubbers, which means they have only 40 left. That's about par for the course, except that seven of the eight teams in the loop have a strong chance of gaining the first division before the season ends Sept. 5. From Pampa through Albuquerque, every team is very much in the race—and anything can happen. For instance, as of Friday night Pampa was only six and a half games out of fourth place. What's that many to a team that suddenly gets hot? The Hubbers were nine and a half games out of first when they made their bid for the top spot. Space can be eaten up in a short time when a team's really winning.

At any rate, most of the teams feel that they have a good chance in the stretch to overtake some of the limping, stumbling teams now in the top half of the ladder. Albuquerque hasn't remained in first place because they've been winning so well, but because Lubbock, Abilene and Borger have been losing. Lamesa is in the midst of a hot streak that has brought them well up the rungs and into the top bracket. Amarillo is staging its drive now and Borger can be expected to start surging at any moment. It all adds up to a hot race in the closing month and a week of the season. As evidence that the clubs are panting, Borger went over to Clovis and bought George Matthews, the erratic, but often brilliant, lefthander.

Will Calvino Doubles Home Two Runs In Ninth; Rally Throttled

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

Credit William H. Frank, umpire, with an assist, but give last night's spine-tingling victory to the Abilene Blue Sox, who continued their mastery over the Lubbock Hubbers with a thrilling 5 to 4 victory before 1,815 fans at Rosenthal Field

Frank gets the assist for thumbing Al Duarte from the game in the third inning, when his presence in the lineup might well have given the Hubbers the win. The Blue Sox receive the other credit for coming up with a timely single by Will Calvino that drove in two runs in the top of the ninth.

Hubs Rally Twice

It was a spine-tingling game from start to finish, with the Hubbers staging a pair of rallies to tie the score and then take the lead in the eighth. But Lady Luck smiled on the Gay Caballeros of Manager Stubby Greer and nueva o diez assorted Abileneos took home their ninth victory in 14 games against the Hubbers. The defeat also dropped the locals to fourth place, still four games behind Albuquerque, three behind Abilene and one behind Lamesa.

Tommy Butler, making his debut on the mound for the Hubbers, turned in an impressive performance. He struck out seven, scattered six hits and gave up four walks during his eight inning stint. He gave up one unfortunate pitch to Greer that cost him a three-run lead, but generally kept Abilene hits spaced.

Freddy Rodriguez, the stiff-armed hurler, had the Hubbers buffaloed again, although touched for hits in three of the first four innings. He fanned 10 Hubbers, yielded nine of their dozen safeties and walked only one man.

Greer Sends Two In

Greer caught one of Butler's curves in the third inning and sent one into the Avalanche-Journal scoreboard, sending two runners, both of whom had walked, in ahead of him. That shot Abilene into a 3-0 lead.

But Ken Peacock, looking more like himself, brought the Hubbers up to within one run with a two-run homer in the fourth. That was the inning after Duarte had been thumbed by Frank for violently disagreeing with a called third strike, the second time in succession that Rodriguez slipped one past him.

So the Hubbers, with four pitchers in the lineup, finished the game and did it in thrilling fashion. They tied up the contest in the seventh when Jackie Sullivan singled, stole second, went to third on Boyd Watkins' single and scored on a perfect squeeze bunt by Nelson Davis.

They went ahead in the eighth. Floyd Walker got his third hit of the game and Chris Haskins went in to run for him. Walt Stenborg tried to sacrifice, but the pitcher's throw went through George Sturdivant into rightfield, Haskins moving to third. Stenborg was thrown out at second on Rene Vega's fine throw. Mike Dooley laid down a perfect bunt to plate Haskins, but Peacock ended the rally by fanning, Dooley being thrown out at second.

Then came the ninth for Abilene. Bobby Fernandez led off with a fluke to right. Joe Wessing walked and Royce Mills came on in relief. Ollie Moreno advanced both runners with a clean sacrifice and Calvino broke up the game with a single to centerfield.

The teams conclude their series this afternoon at 5 p.m., with Colton Russell or Walt Stenborg the likely Hubber pitching choices.

Shallowater Leads Cotton Belt League

Games last week in the Cotton-belt league left Shallowater atop the loop standings and put Wolfforth Wolves in a second-place tie with Cooper.

The Wolves-Cooper tilt last week was the feature game of the Sunday schedule, and gave the Wolves the necessary game to climb out of third place into a tie.

Other results last week saw Lubbock down Smyer, 9-7; Meadow defeat the Eagles, 6-0; and Ropesville edge Shallowater, 9-8.

The most decisive game scheduled for this afternoon sends Shallowater against Cooper at Slaton. If Cooper wins the team can move into the lead in the league and move Shallowater out of the position it has held for several weeks.

The Wolves have a home game in Wolfforth against Ropesville, and they too may be sharing the lead in the league before the day is over—provided of course that they win and Shallowater loses.

The standings:

COTTON BELT

Teams	W	L	Pct

Wolves	8	3	.727

Beaumont Beats Fort Worth, 13-7

FORT WORTH, July 30. (AP)—Fene Herbert's grand slam homer in the third inning brought the Beaumont Exporters from behind and sent them on their way to a 13-7 victory over the Fort Worth Cats here tonight.

Herbert put the Exporters back on top, 8-6, after they had blown a 4-0 lead gained in the first inning.

Pitcher Billy Loes' triple in the second accounted for three of the five runs scored in that round off Kent Sterling, the starter, and Ernie Nevel, who relieved him and received credit for the game.

GERHEAUSER HURLS MISSION TO 4-2 WIN OVER TULSA

TULSA, Okla., July 30. (AP) — Southpaw Al Gerheauser was too much for Tulsa in tonight's Texas league game with San Antonio winning behind his slants, 4 to 2.

The Oilers muffed a chance to dig in at second place in loop standings and perhaps gain on Fort Worth.

The Missions scored all of their runs off Jim Avera in the first three innings, then protected the lead with some stellar playing afield which included two double plays run off in critical spots.

DALLAS EAGLES GAIN 7-3 DECISION OVER SHREVEPORT

DALLAS, July 30. (AP)— Four home runs, two by Ben Guintini, gave the Dallas Eagles a 7-3 decision over the Shreveport Sports tonight and tightened their grip on third place in the Texas league standings. Leo Wells and Blas Monaco also hit home runs for Dallas.

HOUSTON RALLIES TO BEAT OKLAHOMA CITY, 7 TO 6

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 30. (AP)—The Houston Buffs rallied for four runs in the ninth inning to beat the Oklahoma City Indians, 7-6, here tonight.

Houston's fast finish kept the Tribe from climbing into fourth place ahead of the Shreveport Sports.

The Indians smacked Clarence Beers for five hits and four runs in the first inning, added two more in the third to hold a 6-1 lead.

The Buffs scored a pair in the seventh after two were out and finished off against a trio of pitchers in the game-winning ninth.

Between The Lines

Clovis has the least hope of making the playoffs and is in a position to drive a shrewd, hard bargain. Lamesa learned this when they tried to raid Clovis for Jess Jacinto and one or two other Pioneer players. Rather than pay the asking price, they turned away. It's common practice to touch up the lower clubs at this time of year, hoping to pick up the one player needed to make a first division club out of a strong second division team, or a stronger first division team out of a leader already. Look for more changes in club's rosters before the next two weeks is up.

Buck Fausett, who's doing a fine job of managing the Amarillo Gold Sox, as usual, even though it's against his wishes, thinks that maybe the Gold Sox are on their way. Buck, one of our favorite people, was talking casually in the dugout prior to Wednesday night's game here. His reasoning was sound. "We're only five games out of the first division," he declared. "And we're the only club that hasn't had an extended hot streak. We're due to hit it, and this may be the trip. When Doug Lewis comes back, we'll be stronger and Ray Faust should help us in the stretch. Lubbock has to play Abilene and Lamesa in successive series, while we should take both Clovis and Albuquerque."

The Sox have been one of the biggest mysteries and disappointments in the league this summer. Actually, most observers picked them for a contending first division ball club. They were for a while, but injuries hit them and they had managerial troubles. The power that appeared to be in the lineup didn't assert itself. The pitching staff didn't jell. Jackie Sullivan thought, at the first of the season, that Amarillo would wind up in first place. He thought it was the strongest club in the league. We thought it was the second strongest. Maybe the Gold Sox will climb into the first division before the season ends. And maybe we'll see another of those stirring Lubbock-Amarillo playoff jousts. At any rate, it will be worth watching.

GONZALES MOVES UP

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 30 (AP)—Richard Gonzales of Los Angeles crashed his way into the final round of the Meadow Club tennis tournament today by defeating Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., 12-14, 10-8, 6-4, 6-0. Tomorrow Gonzales will take on Billy Talbert of New York, Mulloy's partner in the National doubles title, for the best of five sets.

RIGHTHANDER SCATTERS SAFETIES

Upton Hurls Lamesa Loboes To 8-0 Decision Over Pampa Nine

PAMPA, July 30 (AP)—Lamesa righthander Bob Upton sidearmed the Pampa Oilers to an 8-0 defeat tonight in the middle game of the three-game series. Upton hurled six-hit ball and fanned ten as he scattered the Oiler safeties, allowing no more than one per inning.

The two teams meet tomorrow afternoon in the final of the series. George Payte will hurl for the Oilers, shooting for his seventh win. Manager Jay Haney had no idea who would oppose Payte.

It was the gopher ball, the one that the hitters go for and hit over the fence, that spelled defeat for Howard Bass last night. Dan Pinto opened the second by clocking one over the leftfield fence, all the runs that Upton needed to win.

But big D. C. Miller hit one over the top of the light pole in leftfield in the fifth with two teammates ahead of him to make the score 4-0. The blow was the 30th of the year for the big outfielder.

A double by Pinto and a single by Melillo in the sixth brought another run across.

The final onslaught was at the expense of Merlin Hubbard who relieved Bass in the eighth. Pinto drew a walk and Gibbs was hit on the arm by a pitched ball. Melillo forced Gibbs at second and Upton fanned. But Jim Sinovick lined a single to rightfield scoring Pinto and when Parker's throw got away from Everett, Melillo came on in, Sinovick going to second. Haney slashed a single to leftfield plating Sinovick with the final run of the game.

Gold Sox Defeat Pioneers, 9 To 6

CLOVIS, July 30. (AP) — Amarillo's Gold Sox made it two in a row here tonight with a 9-6 win over the Clovis Pioneers.

But it was a wild ninth inning and Clovis nearly pulled it out of the fire. They had three runs in, after Ray Bauer's eighth homer of the year with one on, and a double and a Texas league single by I. B. Palmer and Jess Rogerson.

Starter Ray Faust of the Gold Sox, who has been having arm trouble, was lifted at that point in favor of reliefer Jimmy Reynolds. Reynolds walked the first man, Bob Moniz, to face him.

Then he struck out George Mendoza and there were two away. After careful consultation he issued free transportation to Wiley Moore and the sacks were jammed.

Johnny Waselchuck, the potential winning marker, came up to bat for the Pioneer's third pitcher of the evening, Dick Shelley.

Reynolds three two straight called strikes and struck him out on a slow breaking curve ball over the outside corner.

Faust couldn't get his arm working in top shape although he got his 12th win tonight. He did well at the plate, however. He had a perfect night at the plate with three hits, a single, a double and a home run in three trips.

Ted Clawitter, the other half of the Gold Sox battery, poled one out of the park in the eighth.

early runs by the Barbers spelled the difference. Hale had 13 strikeouts while Kiser notched 14, including 13 in the first five innings.

The Lubbock team scored twice in the second when Jim White doubled, Allison was safe on an error, and Charley Carter beat out an infield hit. Some fancy base-running enabled both White and Allison to score on Carter's hit.

The Barbers added an insurance run in the third when Percy Thedford beat out a bunt, stole second, and came on home on two passed balls.

The lone Murrell run came in the sixth when George Goodson's high fly to short leftfield fell for a hit. Charley Carter's throw to second was into the dirt and Goodson went all the way around on the error.

The Barbers cut short a seven-inning Murrell uprising with a fast Allison to Perry to Leroy Breshears doubleplay.

Goodson of Murrell was the games leading hitter with two safeties.

Australia Wins American Zone Davis Cup Finals Over Mexico

WILMINGTON, Del., July 30. (INS)—Australia won the American zone Davis Cup finals today by whipping Mexico in doubles at the fashionable Wilmington Country club.

Capt. John Bromwich and his 21-year-old partner, Frank Sedgman, encountered no serious opposition in disposing of the Mexican brothers, Armando and Rolando Vega, 6-0, 6-4, and 6-2.

The triumph today, coupled with their victory in the singles yesterday, gives the high-voltage Aussies the right to meet Italy, European zone winner, in the inter-zone finals at Rye, N.Y., on Aug. 12-13-14.

Cleveland Cops 10-6 Victory Over Red Sox

White Sox Defeat Yankee Club, 9-2

BOSTON, July 30 (AP) —Cleveland's world champion Indians crept within three and a half games of the American league leading New York Yankees today by rallying for four runs in the tenth inning and a 10-6 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

Indian chief Lou Boudreau was ejected from the game in the eighth inning after a long argument with umpire Bill Summers who ruled Cleveland outfielder Dale Mitchell had thrown his glove at a ball hit by Sox third baseman Johnny Pesky.

The Indians, who had been blanked by Sox ace left hander Mel Parnell in the ninth, went to town for their four scores in the top half of the extra inning when Ray Boone, subbing at short for Boudreau, poled a two-run homer into the screen in left.

Broyles Captures Three Net Crowns

Jake Broyles continued his hot pace in Lubbock's City Open Tennis tournament here Saturday as he annexed two victories, winning the men's singles and teaming with C. R. Hutcheson for a doubles crown. Earlier he had won the mixed doubles crown with his sister, Virginia, as a partner.

The three championships gave Broyles a repeat of his last year's performance. This is the second straight year he has taken a share in three championships. Virginia was his teammate last year in the mixed doubles, and Joe Wheatley shared his doubles title. He also won the singles title.

In Saturday's singles match, Broyles met stiff competition from hustling Harold Gann before overcoming his young opponent, 6-3 and 6-2. Gann was putting forth his best efforts but could not cope with the champion.

J. L. Burgess, sr., and James Burgess were decisioned by the Broyles-Hutcheson team, 6-0 and 6-4, with Broyles being the deciding factor in this match.

After losing the first set by six straight games, the Burgess duo came back to press the eventual winners in the second, but fell short of the mark after holding the game-count to 4-5.

Only four championships remain to be decided—men's novice singles, men's novice doubles, boys' singles, and women's singles.

In addition to the results already mentioned Donald Lance won the junior singles, Lance and Harold Gann took the boy's doubles, Joan Wallace was the girls'

Morris Williams, Bill Maxwell Gain Glen Garden Golf Finals

FORT WORTH, July 30 (AP)—Morris Williams jr., of Austin and Billy Maxwell of Odessa Saturday gained the finals of the singles winner, and Annabelle Lee and Frances Reid were the women's doubles champions.

Sponsor of the tournament is the City Recreation tournament. All winners receive handsome trophies.

Glen Garden country club invitation golf tournament.

Williams, the tournament medalist with a 68, Saturday morning captured his third straight extra-hole victory, 1-up on 20 holes, over J. H. (Doc) Brinkley, a home club player. In the semifinals the state junior champion tripped another Glen Garden member, Doug Higgins, 4-2.

The Philippines' new social security bill is not expected to pass at this time.

James B. Higgins Signs As Line Coach With Lamar Cards

PORT ARTHUR, July 30 (AP)—James B. Higgins, football line coach at Port Arthur High school for the past three years, today signed as line coach with the Lamar college Cardinals at Beaumont.

He will replace Jess Hawthorne, who resigned last month to return to study at the University of Texas.

Promoter Releases Lesnevich For Cash

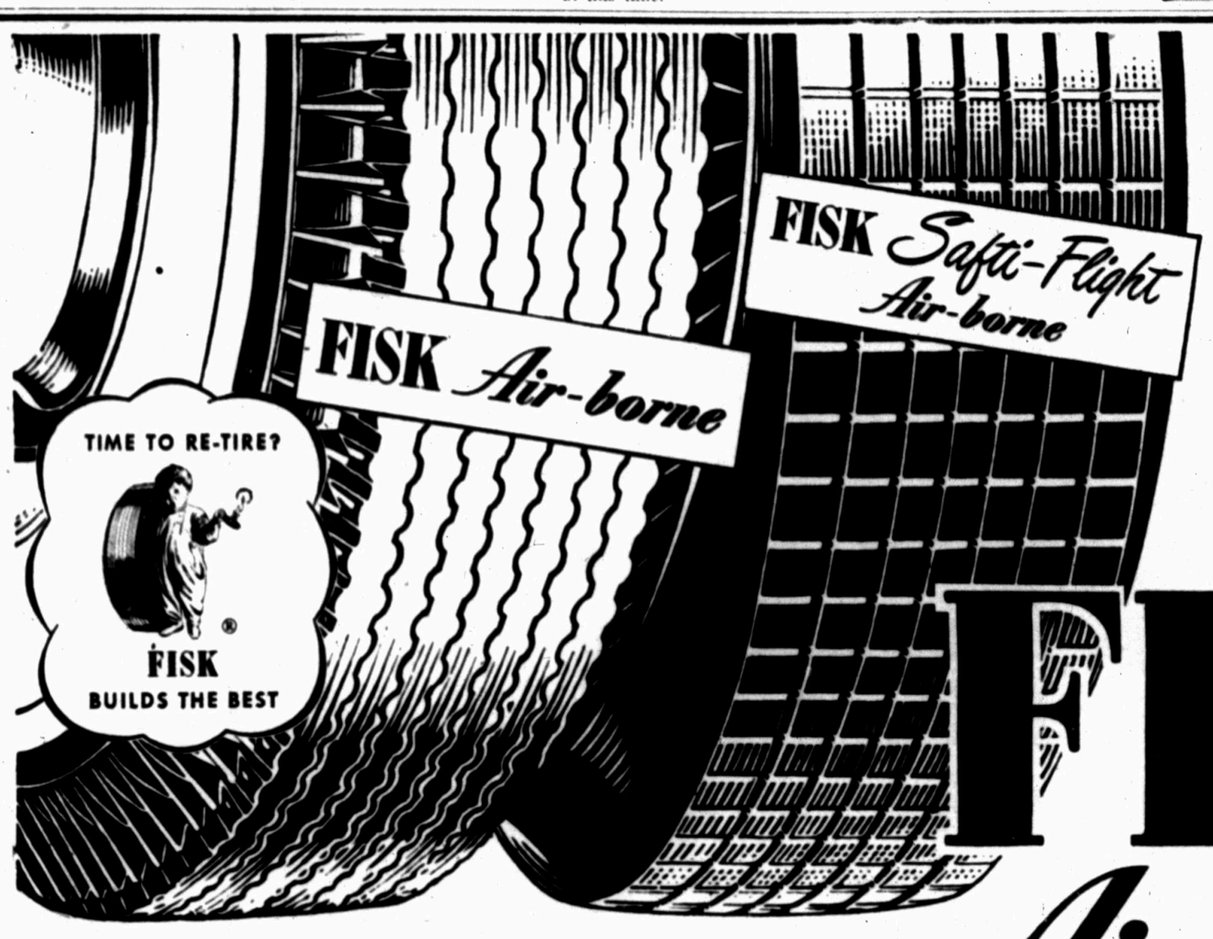

CINCINNATI, O., July 30. (INS) Boxing promoter Sammy Becker admitted tonight that he released Gus Lesnevich from a boxing agreement for "an undisclosed sum."

Lesnevich is slated to fight Ezzard Charles, but according to Becker, the former light heavyweight champion had previously signed a contract for a rematch with Joey Maxim.

Becker said his contract with Lesnevich stipulated that no bout would be permitted before the Sept. 19, when Lesnevich and Maxim were to clash. Now, Becker adds:

"Personally I don't think Gus will be worth two cents when Charles gets through with him, and so I've already made preliminary plans for Archie Moore or Freddie Mills, world's light heavyweight champion, as a possible substitute against Maxim."

BY CHOG HUTCHESON

For years, it has been generally agreed in sports circles that when an athlete passes his physical peak, "the legs go first."

Jack Johnson, the great negro heavyweight, maintained through his lifetime that "heavy legs" cost him the championship in his bout with Jess Willard.

And most major leaguers will tell you "it's the legs that count." Red Ruffing, for example, always devoted more time to conditioning his legs than to his throwing arm. For years, the Yankee pitcher went through only one routine training practice: Each night before retiring he hooked his feet under a rail of his bed and, lying flat on his back, did 100 or more "sit-ups."

But the "aging legs" theory is disputed by an unidentified member of the coroner's staff in the city of New York.

This gent, who should be well qualified to speak on the subject, insists that failing lungs—not legs—cause the decline of thletes.

Here are his exact words:

"In performing more than 4,500 autopsies, I never found a body beyond 30 years of age which did not show a deterioration in the lungs. It is this, I am sure, which explains why athletes begin to slow up after reaching 30. The idea that they are slowed by lessening power of the leg muscles appears to be wrong.

"Their lungs do not function as they did in youth. Therefore, after muscular effort which calls for a high turn of speed, their lungs falter. Consequently, they cannot get the full amount of oxygen they need, and it is this which causes them to slow down in their pace.

"It is to be observed that when athletes have amazing lungs, they can carry on as champions far into the thirties, and in some rare instances until they are beyond the 40-year mark, thus disproving the theory that legs fail an athlete after 30."

Maybe the fellow has something. What do you think?

Figures and facts from the record books: Most big leaguers use 35-inch bats, while the maximum length is 42 inches. Wee Willie Keeler, of "hit 'em where they ain't" fame, used the smallest bat known to the majors—31½ inches . . . The acknowledged record for circling the bases in baseball uniform is 13.3 seconds, set by Evar Swanson of Columbus, O., in 1932 . . . Denton (Cy) Young is the only pitcher ever to win more than 500 big league games. He had 511 victories, while Walter Johnson is runner-up with 414 wins . . . The average major league club travels about 11,000 miles in the course of a season . . . You probably won't believe this, but Frenchman Alfred Letourner, the great cyclist, traveled one mile at the rate of 108.92 miles per hour on his bicycle, which was paced by an automobile with a "wind-breaker" . . . "Count John" Gengler of Chicago, one of history's greatest bowlers, never made a run with the ball. He rolled from a standing position . . . Man O' War was beaten only once in 21 starts—by a hoss named Upset!

Kenny Peacock, the Hubbers' new third baseman, is the fifth of seven brothers to enter the ranks of Organized Baseball. All the Peacock boys were standout athletes at Polytechnic High school in Fort Worth.

Kenny, who last year was the Longhorn league home run leader with 34 circuit swats, says the WT-NM loop has a faster brand of ball—but he doesn't think the WT-NM is up to Big State standards. Which means that the Class C WT-NM league apparently is right where it belongs—between Class B and Class D.

Barbers Still Top City League Play

Although giving up two losses in league play recently, the Barber college continues to lead the City Softball standings with a 15-2 record.

In the Commercial league First Baptist has taken over the number one position held so long by The Avalanche-Journal. The newspaper team slipped to second, ahead of Post Office.

The Baptists have only a slim half-game lead on Avalanche-Journal, and in make-up games to be played this week could easily turn the top position over to the newsmen. First Baptist has a game with Exchange club and two with Avalanche-Journal. The Avalanche also plays two with Lubbock Auto. By the time these games are completed there may be a new leader in the league.

In City league action Economy Mills trails Barber college by three games, and it seems likely that the Barbers will be able to maintain their advantage through the final week of play. Still at the foot of the City standings i. Asbury Methodist with 18 consecutive defeats without a victory.

In games scheduled this week, Pioneer Methodist and Sanders Motor play in the 7:30 game Monday, and Economy Mills and Bennett Motor meet in the nightcap, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., Barber college and Pioneer Methodist tangle in the only game. The week's schedule is closed out Wednesday with two games—Barber college and Economy Mills in the first and Sanders Motor and Bennett in the finale:

Byron O. Currin Named Grid Coach At Kerens High School

CORSICANA, July 30 (AP)—Byron O. Currin has been named coach of the Kerens High school football team.

Currin formerly coached at Quail High school but for the past eight years has worked as a highway patrolman. He has resigned from the patrol, effective Aug. 16.

He was graduated from North Texas State college in 1937.

Junior Jaycee Golf Scheduled

HOUSTON, July 30 (AP)—Survivors of a field of 15,000 compete here next week in the fourth annual Junior Chamber of Commerce National Junior Golf tournament.

Entries now total 180 for the 36-hole qualifying play set for Tuesday and Wednesday on the 6216-yard, par 71 Houston Country club course.

Forty states and the District of Columbia will be represented among the 19-year-old and under golfers from 135 cities.

Heading the group will be the defending champion, chunky, muscular Gene Littler of San Diego, Calif., a wood shot specialist who cleared the age limit for his third consecutive Jaycee tournament by only six days.

Other Champs Entered

Tournament rules limit competitors to those not 19 by July 15.

His competition includes three other 1948 Junior Tournament champions—Don Addington, Houston, National Caddy winner at Columbus, O., Bud Holscher, Santa Monica, Calif., Hearst Tournament champion at Boston, and Dean Lind, Rockford, Ill., last year's United States Golf association junior titlist.

Another pre-tournament favorite expected Monday is Tommy Morrow of Shreveport, La., who lost a 1-up match today in 19 holes in the semi-finals of the National Amateur Junior tournament in Washington, D. C.

Texans To Play

Others who will make another try for the Jaycee title after advancing to late stages of last year's tournament at Lincoln, Neb., include Tom Matey, Warren, O., the 1948 medalist, Bob Jacobs, Bremerton, Wash., Jim Pollock, Westerville, O., Ernie Schneither, jr., Ogden, Utah, and Billy Leigh, Lakeland, Fla.

Other Texas entries besides Addington are Lee Pinkston, jr., Abilene, Glen Gray, Dallas, Don James and William Penn, Austin, and Jim Tom Lynch, Denton.

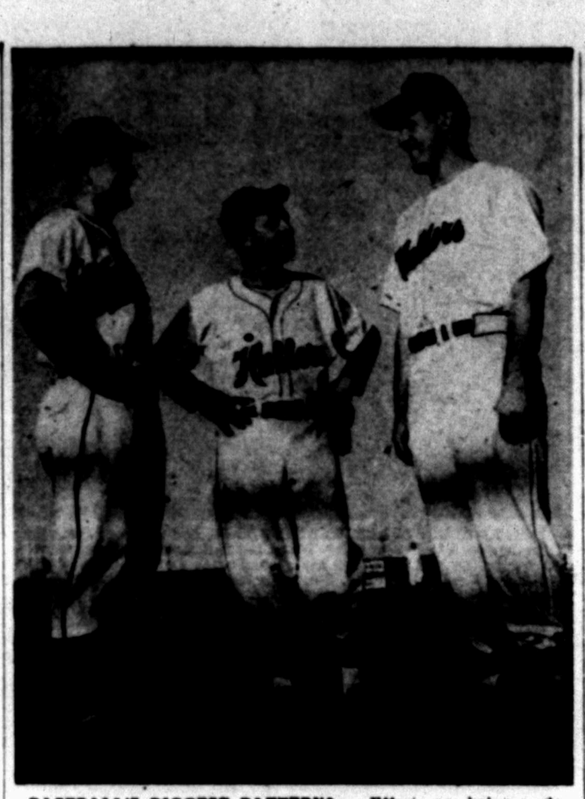

Amarillo Sells Stan Surma To Travelers

AMARILLO, July 30 (AP)—The Amarillo Gold Sox announced the sale of Stan Surma, third baseman, to Little Rock of the Southern Association. Surma will report to the Travelers immediately.

It was a conditional cash deal, the purchase price not announced.

With Doug Lewis, injured a month ago, returning to the lineup at first base, the Sox were over the league limit in class men, a problem overcome by Surma's sale.

The Amarillo club had bought Surma several weeks ago from Anniston of the Southeastern league, to which he had been returned by the Pampa Oilers after being named to the South team for the West Texas-New Mexico league's annual All-Star game.

Ponder Rallies To Win Arlington Race

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP)—From last place came the pounding hoofs of Calumet Farm's Ponder today to gallop to a rousing victory in the $87,750 Arlington classic ending Arlington Park's highly successful 36 day meeting.

Seemingly hopelessly last at the half mile post, sixteen lengths behind, the plodding Ponder charged on to take the lead at the stretch turn in the mile and a quarter race. He flashed under the wire three lengths ahead of Admiral Lea, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice, Chicago. It was the same margin by which Ponder defeated Capot in the Kentucky Derby.

In third place, two lengths back of Admiral Lea, came Isidor Bieber's Palestinian, which finished in the same spot in the derby. Saint Nicholas, Brown Hotel stable entry, was fourth, six lengths behind Palestinian. Green Tree stables's Capot was fifth. John's Joy owned by J. A. Kinard, jr., was sixth and last.

Ponder's victory was cheeringly acclaimed by 32,047 spectators, largest crowd of the Chicago season. The colt went to the post a 6-5 favorite and returned $4.40, $2.80, and $2.20. The race was almost a duplicate of his victory in the Kentucky Derby. His time was 2:03 1/5. Jockey Steve Brooks was aboard Ponder.

Munger, Wright Meet Today In Broadmoor Golf Tourney

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 30 (AP)—Portly Jack Munger of Dallas and Claude Wright of Denver today earned the right to meet tomorrow in the final of the Broadmoor Invitational golf tourney.

Munger gained the final with a two-up win over favored Matt Palacio of Wichita, Kan., two-time winner of the title.

Wright moved into the showdown bracket with a two and one upset victory over Fred Newton, fellow Denverite, who won the Broadmoor title in 1946.

Prince Continues To Lead Batters

The Lubbock Hubbers, well up in the first division, but not in first place, still have produced the mosts fireworks in the hitting department of the West Texas-New Mexico League.

Averages for games through July 25, as released Friday by Troy Kegans of Abilene, official league statistican, show the Hubbers third in hitting and second in fielding. Borger has the most power at the plate with a .306 team average, followed by Albuquerque with a .299 percentage. In fielding, Albuquerque is the top team with a .954 average and Lubbock is only .002 points behind.

But the top man in the league in individual batting is Jim Prince, the slugging Hubber first baseman. Prince continued to slap the horseside for a solid .405 average last week to top all other hitters.

His closest competition came from D. C. Miller, the huge Lamesa outfielder, who was clouting .397. The other three top sluggers in the league were Bobby Fernandez of Abilene, .385; Vernon Gilchrist of Borger, .384; and Dave McClain, Albuquerque, .377.

Prince also topped the league batters in total bases, on 221 and was a close second to Fernandez, the leader in hits with 152. Prince had 142 safeties. Nelson Davis, Hubber teammate, trailed Prince at 219 in total bases. The Hubber first baseman also led the loop in runs batted in with 96, nine more than I. B. Palmer had driven across for second place honors.

Coaching School To Open Monday

BEAUMONT, July 30. (AP)—Possibility for a record-breaking Texas High School Coaches Association coaching school here next week loomed this morning as local hotelmen went scurrying about to fill a last-hour flood of reservation requests.

The clinic, which will be climaxed next Friday night with the fifteenth annual South-North football classic, opens Monday morning with some 900 mentors due to report.

Acording to the most recent word from Association headquarters in the Hotel Beaumont, last year's record of 1051 enrollees at Abilene will be threatened if Howard Hicks and his reservations committee can locate additional rooms.

Business Men Sponsors

Meanwhile, the Association brass already is on hand, and hard at work co-ordinating the program with Beaumont's Young Men's Business League, the sponsoring unit.

Today president Joe Coleman of Odessa and his official group are fishing at the gulf, along with Hank Iba of Oklahoma A. and M. who will instruct in basketball and coach the South's cage All-Stars. Iba slipped through Beaumont last Monday and moved into a beach cabin at Rollover.

THSCA vice-president Maco Stewart of Longview and the nine-man board of directors are testing their talents with the casting rod before official registration for the seventeenth annual clinic begins on Sunday with secretary L. W. McConachie in charge.

Some 40 sportswriters from two states are expected for the week-long session. This year's clinic sets a new mark in attendance by coaches' wives, with nearly 200 of the ladies already enrolled.

The sponsoring unit made it clear that wives would be royally entertained right along with the mentors. The program calls for style shows, yacht trips, bridge parties and free movies.

All-Star football and basketball personnel will arrive Sunday along with instructors. Coaching the South's grid All-Stars will be Don Faurot of Missouri, the split-T tactician. Guiding the Northern destinies will be Mr. Single Wing, Carl Grey Snavely of North Carolina.

Adolph Rupp of Kentucky will head the North's cagers. The fifth annual South-North basketball All-Star contest will be played next Thursday night in the National Guard armory here, which placed alongside a cracker-box, would insult the latter.

Plans for an outdoor hardwood floor fell through, leaving the YMBL with no other alternative except the armory. It seats some 1,000 uncomfortably.

ASSAULT AND BURGLARY — Elmer Valo knocks George Stirnweiss for a loop stealing third in the second inning of a recent night game in Philadelphia, but Snuffy keeps his eye on the ball, dives to retrieve it. The Athletics' outfielder tied the score when Mike Guerra hit a long fly to Joe DiMaggio, but the Yankees beat Lou Brissie, 6-2, lengthening their American League lead.

PLAY WILL BEGIN AUGUST 16

Wrestle Royal To Feature Ginger, The Wrestling Bear

Ginger, the wrestling bear, will make another appearance in Lubbock Wednesday night, taking the lead role in a wrestle royal.

It is questionable whether the bear will aid in the wrestle royal or get in the way, but regardless of doubts a large crowd is expected to jam Sled Allen's arena for a look into the goings-on.

Also appearing in the first of the night's matches is Bill Weidner, Ray "Big Train" Clements, Lester Welch (Ginger's trainer), Bob Cummings, Gust Johnson, and Gene Blackley.

GENE BLACKLEY
To Test Bear

The last two men remaining in the wrestle royal will have the honor of wrestling Ginger in the main event of the evening, a pleasure experienced last week by Clements.

Promoter Allen figured that one man was not a match for Ginger, and he hopes that this week two of the rowdies may be able to stay in the ring with the bear.

All events are expected to be interesting, with such a good lineup of ring performers. With such men as Weidner, Clements, Blackley, Cummings, Welch and Johnson in the ring at the same time the wrestle royal is sure to be a slambang brawl.

Last week Weidner and Blackley fought a rugged battle and kept the fans standing almost constantly.

The first two men to be pinned in the wrestle royal will tangle in the 20-minute preliminary, and the second pair to fall will be seen in the semi-finals, two out of three falls with a 45-minute time limit.

Tickets may be bought at Wylies Drug store Wednesday until 5 p.m., and matches begin at 8:30 p.m.

Denver City Tops Oil Belt League

Denver City's Gassers enjoy a one-game lead in the hectic Oil Belt baseball league chase today, as the loop's eight teams play a full four-game schedule.

The Gassers, who took over undisputed possession of the top spot Thursday night when Slaton upset Seagraves, today are hosts to the up-and-coming Sundown club.

In other tussles, Slaton is at Seagraves, Levelland is at Brownfield and Post at Tahoka.

Four mid-week games are scheduled this week. They are Denver City vs. Levelland, Seagraves at Post, Tahoka at Slaton and Brownfield at Sundown. The Denver City-Levelland contest probably will be played Tuesday night on Sundown's lighted field, while the other tilts will be under the lights Thursday night at the designated towns.

The unofficial standings:

THREE RULINGS RENDERED

New Gilmer-Aikin School Laws Okayed By Attorney General

AUSTIN, July 30 (AP)—First legal interpretations of the new Gilmer-Aikin school laws uncovered no flaw today in the school district consolidation set-up.

The provision of Senate bill 116 on merging dormant districts is mandatory, said the first opinion. All three rulings, by Assistant Attorney General Chester E. Ollison, were approved by Attorney General Price Daniel.

Pending in the supreme court is an El Paso case to determine how military reservations may be assigned to school districts under the Gilmer-Aikin plan. The court has not taken up this case.

Another of today's opinions declared article eight of the bill was intended to expedite the abolition of inactive districts and does not set out an exclusive method for consolidation. A dormant district lying next to an active district may petition for consolidation, and the county judge must call an election.

That ruling was requested by Roy L. Hill, Runnels county attorney of Ballinger. Howard County Attorney Elton Gilliland asked for a ruling on whether or not consolidations are mandatory. The attorney general said:

"The first sentence in the first paragraph of article eight of Senate bill 116, is mandatory in nature. The words 'within 30 days from the effective date of this act' should be regarded as directory and not as a limitation on the power therein given to the county school board."

The third opinion was on whether certain school districts in Young county were dormant. It was requested by County Attorney Tom M. Miller of Graham.

Districts which farmed out their school children to other districts for two successive years are dormant, it is said, even though some pupils were taught by the receiving district in schools in the sending district.

"A school district is dormant if it fails to operate a school for the race having the greatest number of enumerated scholastics for any two successive years subsequent to the end of the school term which began in the fall of 1946 and ended in the spring of 1947," the opinion said.

Survey Of Hotel Needs Here To Be Completed During Week

A survey to determine whether the city of Lubbock needs more hotel space is expected to be completed by the middle of this week, Surveyor John Truempy of the Houston auditor's firm of Harris and Kerr, revealed Saturday.

Results of the study will probably not be known for several weeks, however, Truempy said. He and Paul Hyer, manager of the Houston office, have been conducting the survey since July 15. Included in the study has been a determination on the population, tourist trade, business volume and many other phases of Lubbock activity.

Additional space will probably be provided by the Hotel Hilton should the auditor's survey produce positive results, officials there stated. The new rooms would likely be added to the top of the building, they said.

NEW YOAKUM COUNTY HOSPITAL TO OPEN MONDAY—Yoakum county's first hospital will be opened at Denver City Monday. Dr. C. Robert Branson, formerly of Littlefield, and Dr. Robert E. Pete, The Ringtailed Monkey, Keeps Police Busy In Memphis

MEMPHIS, July 30. (AP)— Life is a gay, mad whirl for Pete, the ringtailed monkey.

He got loose from his chain in a Memphis restaurant yesterday and set off on a lark.

Pete's first stop was the middle of a busy street. A car screeched to a halt and a motorist peered out in confusion. Pete jumped in.

He looked the situation over, grabbed the ignition key, and beat it to the top of the rear seat. The motorist protested, and Pete lost his temper and chased him out of the car.

The motorist called the cops. Pete liked one of them, and rode on his shoulder to the station.

He ate all the cake the station boys had and then started pushing out window screens. The sergeant called the Humane shelter.

Pete rode triumphantly to the shelter, where his owner, C. R. McDonald, bailed him out.

While McDonald was chaining him up again, Pete picked his pocket of $1.50 and stuffed it behind a baseboard.

NLRB Rules Against Phone Companies On Union Issue

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 30. (AP)—The National Labor Relations board regional office yesterday dismissed petitions of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company asking to withdraw recognition of the Communication Workers of America.

The NLRB also dismissed similar petitions of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company, the Mountain States Telephone company, the Lincoln (Nebr.) Telephone and Telegraph company, several Western Electric company units and independent telephone companies in this region.

The dismissals followed a pattern set by the national board in a ruling on a petition of the Michigan Bell Telephone company, said Hugh Sperry, regional director.

Four petitions were dismissed on the grounds the affiliation of the union, formerly independent, with the CIO did not change the character of membership of the union and that the current contract with the union is still valid, a NLRB spokesman said.

Hotel Reforma Owner Sues For Rent

Fabulous American May Have To Give Up Mexico City Hotel

MEXICO CITY, July 30. (U.P.)— E. C. Blumenthal, the fabulous American operator who calls all the Hollywood glamour girls "baby" and who parlayed the Hotel Reforma into what was once Mexico's snootiest hostelry, today said he would leave it if he "could make a deal."

"I'm getting tired of working so hard, anyway," Blumenthal said dolefully. "Besides, I've got a string of restaurants. What do I want to work for?"

Hotel Loses Money

Informed legal quarters thought Blumenthal might have to make a deal. The big swank tourist hotel he has run for nearly nine years has been losing money for years. Ricardo Pani, the owner, yesterday clapped a legal attachment on Blumenthal's administration for non-payment of rent.

Pani, said Blumenthal, is trying to collect his rent in a peso rate set at the new 8.65 peso—in other words, about twice what it was a year ago.

"If they want to make a deal," said Blumenthal, 'they can have it. If they don't, we'll have a long legal fight."

Ran Theater Chain

Blumenthal, once a right-hand man of top Hollywood producers, is one of Mexico's most controversial figures. He has presided over the big, swank hotel on Mexico City's most famous street, the Reforma, since lush war-time years, when European dukes drank champagne with Hollywood stars and wealthy refugees.

Before his hurried departure from the United States, he also built and operated a large theater chain.

If he gives up management of the Hotel Reforma, he still will control the equally-plush Reforma-Casablanca in Pacific coast resort town Acapulco and several Mexico City restaurants.

Ginger Rogers Separated From Husband; Married Six Years

HOLLYWOOD, July 30. (AP)—Ginger Rogers and her husband Jack Briggs have separated after six years of marriage.

Her mother, Mrs. Lela Rogers, disclosed that the breakup came last night.

"After she finishes her picture (Perfect Strangers) she wants to go away for a while," said Mrs. Rogers. "She is taking this pretty hard. There has been no property settlement but any chance of reconciliation is small."

Ginger, born 37 years ago in Harry S. Truman's hometown, Independence, Mo., has been married twice before. Her first in 1929 was to E. J. Culpepper, a vaudeville actor. It lasted two years. Lew Ayres, Des Moines, Ia., actor who now squires Academy award winner Jane Wyman, was Ginger's second husband, but they were divorced in 1940.

Briggs is 29.

"He's everything I've ever dreamed of," Ginger said of Briggs when they were married Jan. 16, 1943 in Pasadena. "He's companionable, intelligent, and has a grand sense of humor."

Texas Youth Seriously Injured By Boy While Playing 'Bandit'

SAN ANTONIO, July 30 (AP)—Russell Golden, 14, a visitor from Port Arthur, was in a critical condition at Baptist Memorial hospital late Saturday after what police said was an accidental shooting which occurred when he and two other boys, both aged 13, were playing "bandits" in the George Ernwein home.

Witnesses said the Golden boy was sleeping on a couch in the hall of the Ernwein home at noon Saturday when the two other boys came, in woke him, and began to tease him by brandishing a .22 rifle and shouting, "Bang! Bang!"

One of the boys then went into another room and took a .38 Colt revolver from a dresser drawer, according to a statement which he gave Det. Fred San Miguel. The boy pulled the trigger, he said, thinking that the hammer was aligned with an empty chamber, although he said he knew there were some cartridges in the weapon.

When the gun went off, the boy said, he saw blood spurt from the wound "like water coming out of a pipe." He said he ran downstairs and went to his home nearby.

Adolfo Alvarez, 19, who had been repairing a fixture in the bathroom of the Ernwein home, told police he had heard the boys shouting "Bang! Bang!" then he heard the shot and dashed out to find blood spurting from Golden's jugular vein.

The CHIROPRACTOR and You

BLINDNESS and PARALYSIS
Case History No. 1953; young girl, age 5, symptoms; Unable to walk or even move legs or feet; almost completely blind.

ACCIDENT

This little girl fell out of a swing a few weeks ago and the next month she went blind. Her parents took her to various specialists to locate the cause of her blindness, without results. Soon she developed paralysis in her legs, and could not move them.

CAME TO STEPHENS CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC

In the meantime, another patient referred her to this Clinic, stating that SPECIFIC CHIROPRACTIC has made it possible for other paralyzed cases to walk again.

After the CHIROPRACTIC EXAMINATION made in the STEPHENS CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC consisting of the X-Ray pictures of the spine and the Neurocalometer (nerve test) analyses, the primary CAUSE of her trouble were located.

WHAT CHIROPRACTIC HAS DONE FOR HER

From the very first specific chiropractic adjustment this child begn to improve rapidly. Her eyes began to improve and then she began moving her legs for the first time since her paralysis developed. In one month she began to stand alone and also to feed herself. In another month she began to walk alone and see things for the first time since her blindness occurred. At the present time she walks into the Clinic alone for her checkups and her parents are so thrilled what scientific chiropractic has done for her that they are spreading the good news to the house-tops, as it were, and other people with whom they come in contact are thrilled for them. It would be rather difficult for anyone to tell this family that it wasn't anything to chirpractic; for they have investigated the merits of the science.

MARAGON TO RETURN TO STAND

Senate Group To Call Reported White House Intimate In Probe

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 30 — Senate probers said today they will quiz John Maragon, reputed White House intimate, as to whether he had deposits totaling $40,000 in a Texas bank.

A Senate investigating committee source said Maragon already has testified he only had accounts in two Washington banks, and that in 1945 his income did not exceed $10,000.

It is not known whether the witness Maragon is the same man who had the Texas bank deposits.

Sensational Testimony Hinted

Maragon appeared again today before committee investigators in the inquiry into Washington's influence-selling "five percenters."

The committee source, who declined to be identified, forecast disclosures in the current investigation that "will be revolting to the taxpayers of the country."

Commenting on the inquiry, Sen. Mundt. (R-SD), a committee member, said:

"Maragon seemes to have some influential friends, seems to have the confidence of the State department, which sent him on a mission to Greece, and says he is a great friend of General Harry Vaughan. "He seems to have access to the White House."

Has No Comment

Another committee source said it would "be a safe guess" that questions about Maragon's bank accounts, business transactions, income taxes and expense accounts were involved.

Maragon talked with newsmen after today's closed session. He refused to either confirm or deny published reports that he tried unsuccessfully to bring valuable perfume essence into the U. S. duty-free by pretending it was champagne for the White House.

The witness said:

"I am not denying anything. I refer you to the government records."

Maragon said he meant the customs records at LaGuardia Field, N. Y., where he allegedly tried to bring the perfume into this country.

Later in the interview, Maragon changed his words to "not saying anything" instead of "not denying anything."

Official Issues Warning

He also declined to comment on reports that customs raised a question about two dresses which he reportedly brought from Europe, supposedly as gifts to Mrs. Truman and daughter, Margaret.

There also were these other developments in the probe of individuals who allegedly sold their "influence" for a five per cent fee to help businessmen obtain federal contracts:

1. Paul V. Betters, executive director of the U. S. conference of mayors, warned 600 municipal housing authorities against hiring "five percenters" to negotiate for government contracts on projects under the new housing law.

2. The army issued a procurement pamphlet telling businessmen "it is not necesary to employ agents, counsellors, advisors, or any agency, on a commercial basis, in order to obtain government business."

One investigating committee source told newsmen:

"We have found irregularities, laxity, personal favoritism and suspicious actions in connection with the awarding of government contracts.

"I believe we will have a little difficulty chasing down kickbacks or payoffs which would cinch criminal liability cases.

"But we may develop, from the course of the hearings, several cases of perjury."

The source intimated that the five-percent inquiry might mushroom spectacularly like the 1947 investigation of Howard Hughes' plane contracts and the wartime activities of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers.

MARKET Reports

Wall Street

MARKET RALLY HALTED

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—The stock market's summer advance broke down this week.

At the weekend Wall Street was none too sure whether the breakdown was temporary or whether the summer advance had come to the end of the road.

Prices moved during the week with scores of corporate earnings reports which were better than expected. A scheduled rise in steel production helped as did the President's request for additional sums to rearm Western Europe.

The market moved up briskly on Monday and on Tuesday reached the peak of its rally and a high since May 19.

On Wednesday the market was taken with an attack of speculative indigestion. U. S. Steel said net income for the first half was the largest for any similar six-month period in twenty years.

Dividends were the largest on record. The stock closed 12¼ cents lower at $39.25 a share.

On Thursday another industrial giant, General Motors, announced its first half results. The company earned more, produced more, sold more than at any other time in its history. The stock closed 12½ cents lower at $61.87½ a share.

The nation's No. 2 steel producer, Bethlehem Steel, reported on Thursday, after the close of the market, that its earnings during the first half were the largest for any six months in its history. On Friday the market weighed this bit of news and the stock closed 12½ cents lower at 637 62½ a share.

The market, of course, is traditionally more concerned with what a given company is going to earn in the future than with what it has earned in the past.

At closing Friday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks stood at 62.9. This compared with 62.6 a week earlier.

At the weekend one wag, looking into the future, said:

"The market may go up next week—if proffit reports are not too high."

Move Of Shipping Company May Bring Hawaii Strike Showdown

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30. (INS)—The Hawaiian longshore strike headed for a showdown today with the San Francisco waterfront becoming a mainland focal point in the bitter labor struggle.

Developments followed in the wake of the disclosure that the Matson Navigation company will place a freighter in a San Francisco loading berth next week to accept cargo for strikebound Hawaii.

Strike strategists of the CIO Longshoremen's union in Honolulu announced they will fly a force of pickets to San Francisco to brand the freighter as "hot."

Union headquarters in San Francisco issued an official statement denouncing Matson's move as "straight-out strikebreaking" and said it would throw "the whole picture back many years to the day-to-day battling we thought had been washed out."

Chiang Resumes Reins Of Chinese Power; Plans All-Out Effort Against Red Forces

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
Far Eastern Director INS

TAIPEH, Formosa, July 30—A grimly-determined Chiang Kai-Shek is back in the driver's seat as leader of Nationalist China today, victor in a classic example of the "Chinese checkers" of oriental politics.

The Generalissimo again holds the reins of power because he pulled an "all or nothing" bid for confidence and authority and won hands down. His technique was peculiarly subtle but left his Nationalist opponents no choice but to recall him.

Now back in command, Chiang is driving himself harder than ever before in a final, all-out effort not only to hold the Chinese Communists but turn them back and defeat them.

His recent visits to the Philippines and the temporary Nationalist capital of Canton illustrate this.

Chiang had hoped his visit to Philippines President Elpidio Quirino would be completely secret until it was over. Even when the news leaked, he refused to attend any social functions. He wanted to show he meant business and was interested only in business.

When the Generalissimo went next to Canton he did not even notify acting President Li Tsung-Jen he was coming. It was hours after he arrived when top Nationalists learned of it.

His days in Canton were spent in furious conferences beginning at 8 a. m. and lasting until late in the evening. Again social amenities were out despite traditional Chinese custom.

Now back on Formosa, Chiang is continuing this rigid schedule to rush a program which can meet the Communists on better than equal terms.

It was only after his return to Taipeh that high aides told of the Generalissimo's strategy in proving to those who believed the Communists wished peace that they were misled.

His associates said that Chiang quit as Nationalist leader because he was angry that men in his government would not believe him that the Communists only wanted peace talks to gain time to improve their situation.

The Generalissimo felt that talk of peace was a major handicap to the military effort. Soldiers would not fight their best when they felt the war might end at any moment. Some generals surrendered their armies believing a peaceful end was in sight.

When President Li and others persisted in saying peace discussions should be tried, Chiang angrily stepped down. He refused to allow his name to be associated with any such action. He "retired" to Formosa.

Peace overtures were made and talks begun. Then they collapsed and the Communists began their most successful offensive of the long war. Peiping, Nanking, Shanghai—China's great cities which tumbled — echoed the successive failures of the Nationalists.

By the time Chiang felt it opportune for him to reappear, the Nationalist waverers were eager for a strong voice and a firm hand such as his to take command again.

DAY CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC

JOHN H. DAY, D. C.
Palmer Graduate

ARE YOU A SLAVE

—to some disease that is slowly but surely sapping your strength? If so, why continue to seek relief with the same methods that you have tried for months and even years without results?

Specific Chiropractic

by correcting the cause of disease restores health often after all other methods have proven to be ineffective.

Below are a few case histories that will demonstrate the scope of specific chiropractic.

Sleeplessness

A woman, age 40, came to the clinic having suffered for a long time from extreme nervousness, gas and bloating, constipation, weak kidneys, spots before her eyes, but her main complaint was that she was unable to sleep well. As a result she was feeling jittery and generally not well.

The Neurocalometer spinal analysis indicated nerve interference and X-rays revealed spinal vertebral misalignment causing the interference. Adjustments to correct the cause were begun and this woman began to show rapid improvement. Today she reports that the above complaints have disappeared.

Prostate Trouble

Elderly man says: "I have suffered constantly from prostate trouble having to be up 12 to 15 times a night . . . Some eleven years ago I had suffered a bad neck injury in a truck wreck. I spent lots of money searching for relief but with no results. Then I went to the Chiropractic Clinic and now I am feeling much better than I have for eleven long years, in spite of my age—73. I am looking forward now, instead of backward.

Deafness

Man, 59, deaf mute since birth came to our clinic with ARTHRITIS. Spinal analysis with Neurocalometer and X-Rays was made which revealed misaligned vertebrae. After adjustments were begun, patient noticed almost immediate relief from Arthritic pains. His hopes for relief hadn't included the great experience of HEARING for the first time in his life! First, train whistles, then human voices and footsteps.

Gall Bladder Trouble

Case No. 2257: This lady was brought to the clinic suffering from a very serious gall bladder disorder (gall bladder removal had been advised). Arthritic rheumatism, nervousness, extreme weakness and an unsteady, dizzy feeling were other symptoms given upon entrance. Neurocalometer and X-ray spinal analysis revealed misaligned vertebrae in the spine. Corrective adjustments were given and in a short time the patient reported she was well and able to do her own work.

Shoulder Pains

Woman, 24, had pain and discomfort between the shoulders. She was bothered with indigestion, felt depressed and nervous, could not sleep nor relax and everything and everybody got on her nerves. Her neck felt tired, she had a constant headache and declared that if something was not done to help her, it would break up her home.

The Chiropractor made an X-ray picture of the neck and located the place of nerve interference. This was adjusted and almost at once there was a marked improvement in her health and disposition.

REMEMBER It is not true to say "WE did everything possible" unless "CHIROPRACTIC" was included.

COHEN HOLES UP IN 'FORTRESS'

New Outbreak Of Gang Violence Feared By Los Angeles Officials

By JAMES PADGITT
INS Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—Mickey Cohen holed up in his fortress-like Brentwood home today as officials expressed concern over a possible new outbreak of gang violence in the Los Angeles-Hollywood area.

Police and sheriff officials said the chubby little gangland leader's muscle men "were looking for someone" and that a new outbreak of gang war might come any time.

New York Trip Abandoned

The gambler defied doctor's orders when he left the Queen of Angels hospital yesterday, his arm in a sling from catching one of the gang bullets that ripped into a Sunset strip night club throng on July 20 and fatally wounded one of his henchmen and injured two other persons.

Mickey, heavily guarded by sheriff's deputies, attended the brief funeral rites for his slain No. 1 lieutenant, Edward Herbert, and then went immediately to his sprawling home in a fashionable residential district.

At the entrance of his home, which Mickey once described as being "just like an arsenal," the sheriff's deputies left him. They told him that he was on his own now, that he would be promptly arrested if he visited his old night club haunts with his gunmen in tow.

Earlier Mickey considered flying east to New York to attend the eastern funeral for Herbert, but he abandoned the idea because, he said, he was "tired of talking to newspaper guys and seeing my name in the papers all the time."

Lights Burn Late

Lights burned late in Cohen's home. Members of his gang came and went at all hours.

The Cohen home is an island among vacant lots in the area. The word is that he bought all the surrounding property to make certain of his safety.

Mickey can press a button inside his home and bathe his house and grounds in blinding light. The front door contains a heavy sheet of bullet-proof lead in it. Steel panels slide down over windows and other doors.

The interior of the house is wired so intricately that when Mickey retires, an invader in his home would set off a burglary alarm system that would have his aides and officers from a private patrol company converging on his property within minutes.

Mayor Sounds Warning

In Mayor Fletcher Bowron's weekly radio broadcast last night he warned the overlord of Los Angeles rackets and vice who twice has escaped a gangland death trap:

"We are coming after you. We are going to stay after you, and we are going to put you out of business if you engage in any form of criminal activity within the city of Los Angeles, regardless of where your base of operations may be or who your cohorts or mobsters may be."

Mickey gave the hospital two $1,000 bills yesterday in payment for services rendered for himself, Herbert, and Dee David, one-time Hollywood starlet who was also injured in the Sunset boulevard shooting.

The gangster wanted to pay the hospital bills of Harry Cooper, an agent of the attorney general's office assigned as his bodyguard who also was wounded in the shooting. The State of California, however, insisted on paying for its own.

Cohen said he was going to take it easy at home. He declared he wouldn't leave the house until next Wednesday for the coroner's inquest into Herbert's death.

Death Expected For Fair Practices Bill

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP)—A lingering, but possibly spectacular death, appeared today to be the almost certain fate of the debate-provoking fair employment practices bill.

It won approval by the House Labor committee 14 to 11 yesterday.

Rep. Powell (D-N.Y.) who wrote the bill, said it would come before the House about Aug. 22.

That is only one week before the date Congress is expected to adjourn.

If it clears the House in those crowded days—which many representatives say is unlikely—it is certain to generate powerful opposition in the Senate. Some opponents have predicted a filibuster death for it if it reaches the Senate floor.

FEPC is part of President Truman's civil rights program and is particularly distasteful to Southern Democrats. It would bar employers from discriminating against employment seekers, or employes for reasons of race, color, religion or national origin. A permanent commission would be created to enforce the rules.

State Attorney General Okays Medical Exams Of 276 Students

AUSTIN, July 30. (U.P.)—Attorney General Price Daniel today ruled that 276 medical students who took an examination last month for medical licenses would not need to submit to a re-examination because they had failed to fulfill the new basic science law.

In an opinion to Dr. M. H. Crabb, Texas state board of medical examiners, Daniel said that the examination, given June 15-17, had not been graded and thus was not completed.

Therefore, he said, the students could still fulfill requirements of the basic science law before the examination is graded and thus completed.

The problem arose when medical board members gave an examination, believing that the basic science law which requires candidates for licenses to receive a certificate of proficiency before taking the tests, was a 90-day bill.

Then someone called it to the board's attention that the measure had received a two-thirds vote of the legislature and thus became effective immediately.

Some 276 students wondered if the examination they had taken was null and void.

Denmark reports good crops.

Hot Summer Weather Results In Heavy Work For Most Employes Of Nation's Ice Plants

BY HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30—The National Association of Ice Industries came out with a blurb saying that the happiest man on earth these torrid days is the iceman.

The dispatch, dictated in an air-cooled office, implied that the ice man walks around carrying his own cooling system—in the form of little buckets of ice which give off puffs of cold air. Doubtless making faces the while at the rest of sweating humanity.

That called for a trip to the biggest plant of its kind in Washington, the Uline Ice company. I shuddered happily at the thought.

Office Not Cool

The vice president and general manager, Bob Foster, turned out to be a pleasant young man with blond hair. He was sitting in an uncooled office, mopping his brow with one hand and fingering a pair of red ice tongs with the other.

He listened to the blurb, frowned, and squeegeed his face again.

"Follow me," he said. "Want you to meet a real, live iceman."

Out on the loading platform 20 or so workmen were sliding ice onto trucks. None of them looked very happy.

"Come here, Herman," he said to a slightly-built helper.

Herman Wampler dumped another 100-pound sack of crushed ice into his wagon and wiped his face with his sleeve. His shirt, wet with something besides ice water, clung to his body and his denim pants were damp clear through.

Man Works Hard

"Happy these hot days, being an iceman?" the boss teased.

"Don't get you, boss," said Herman. "Sure, I make a lot more money when it's hot, but I work for it."

"That fellow there during the past four days of over 91 degree temperature has handled about 16 tons of ice a day," Foster said. "That sounds fantastic, but it's true. Thirty-two thousand pounds. And every pound on his back. He gets a small cut on his deliveries, but he works his head off. He's not cool and I don't know whether he's happy or not."

Foster broke down the plant's daily operations like this: During extremely hot weather the plant produces 240 tons of ice a day. That's not enough to supply the demand. Another 100 tons has to be taken out of storage and 80 tons is shipped in. That's 420 tons a day to supply part of the demands of the steam-heated capital.

Mechanical Aids Used

It goes to restaurants, bars, fish markets, groceries, hotels, etc. It runs in size from a dime's worth of chilled slivers in a sack (and which is warm water when you get home) to 300-pound cakes.

"We have a few men here strong enough to shoulder the 300-pounders," Foster said, "but with modern mechanical lifts that isn't often necessary."

The head iceman reeled off some facts about the history of ice. The ancient Egyptians made ice by filling shallow porous pans with water in the early evening. By morning thin layers of ice would be harvested (on cold mornings, of course.)

Marco Polo on a junket through Asia learned how to make water and milk ice and brought back the recipes to Italy in the latter part of the 13th century.

Actually, this business of cooling things to eat goes back to 50 B. C. when the Romans dug snow from mountainsides and packed it in deep pits, covered with straw and tree prunings, to be cut out later for refrigeration purposes.

FASHIONS OF 20'S

WELL, ALL we have to say about the threat of the return of the styles of the 20's is that we hope that it is a temporary condition. Even the 1949 version of the fashions of those days could not do much to keep them from appearing what they were—ridiculous.

The revival of the Terrific Twenties is threatening to spread to the college campus. Short and sometimes shingled haircuts requisites of those departed days, are already good fashion for today. Campus wrecks will be parked alongside of the shining convertibles and the strum of ukuleles will accompany carefree collegiate voices.

IF THE coed's fall wardrobe is the version predicted in midsummer showings we will once more see the famous raccoon coat, slicker raincoats and that old-time essential, the middy blouse. However, the latter will be worn belted over a slim skirt and will boast a natural waistline. Thank goodness it will not be the sack-like garment that was so popular two decades ago!

Standard accessories of the 20's were the T-strap shoe and long rope of pearls, which were supposed to add a touch of IT when she came out in such a get up as a knee-length pleated dress fashioned with a low neckline and unnatural waistline and topped by a long rope of pearls? And wait, that isn't all, because undoubtedly she wore one of those bucket type hats and rolled her hose in a knot just below the knee, presenting something less than a faltering picture when she sat down or walked in the wind.

College girls are so fickle in their tastes we doubt if they wear these predicted styles to any extent. They do seem consistent about one wardrobe. We refer, of course, to the saddle oxfords and blue jeans for leisure hours.

RECORDING PLAYING is always a pleasant diversion for the college set and Miss Patte Abbott of Durant, Okla., smiles as she selects a favorite. She is the house guest of Miss Anne Tucker of 3311 Twenty-first. The young women are members of Delta Delta Delta sorority at the University of Oklahoma where Patte is majoring in Journalism and Anne is an English major. MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS are always a pleasing combination and two attractive teams are pictured in today's lower photographs. Mrs. Walter T. Clark, jr., and 14-months-old daughter, Cynthia, of Houston have been the guests of Mrs. Clark's parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Clark of 2711 Twenty-first. She is the former Billie Griffin of Lubbock. The picture was taken as Cindy and her mother played on the terrace at the senior Clark's home. They will return to Houston this week end. Mrs. H. J. Steinhoff and her 7-year-old daughter, Jamie, of Abilene have been the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Harlan, sr., 1723 Thirty-first. Mrs. Steinhoff, a violinist, played at the wedding of her brother, O. P. Harlan, jr., and Miss Alyce Marye Howell, which took place Thursday morning at First Baptist church. She is a former member of the Lubbock Symphony orchestra. (Staff photos.)

Miss Alyce Howell Is Bride Of Mr. Harlan

MISS ALYCE MARYE HOWELL became the bride of Oliver Preston Harlan, jr., in a double ring ceremony read at First Baptist church Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. Vester Wolber.

Four large arrangements of white gladioli, backed by woodwardia fern and lighted by candles, were placed at the altar. The bridal aisle was marked with white satin ribbons tying huckleberry.

Gerre Hancock, organist, played as a prelude the following selections: Prelude in E minor (Bach), Traumerei (Schumann), Cranson Trieste (Ravel), At Dawning (Cadman) and accompanied Miss Joyce Watson who sang "I Love Thee" (Grieg) and The Lord's Prayer. Mrs. James Steinhoff of Abilene, sister of the bridegroom, played "Meditation" from Thais as a violin selection.

Traditional marches were used and during the ceremony "Clair de Lune" was played.

Brother Is Escort

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Durwood Howell of Memphis, Tex. Her ballet length gown of imported white organza was complemented with a wide candy-box self sash. It was fashioned with a petite fitted bodice and a very full gathered skirt trimmed with bands of batiste embroidery and imported val lace. The dress was worn over white taffeta. Her picture hat of matching organza was adorned with a slipper satin band and streamers and she wore fingerless opera length gloves of organdy. She carried a white orchid and stephanotis on a white Bible.

Mrs. Eddie Clifton was her sister's matron of honor. She wore navy blue imported French organdy of ballet length. The gown was fashioned with a deep white organdy under-flounce secured at the scalloped skirt border. Her fitted bodice was fastened from the neat Peter Pan collar to the waistline with tiny self covered buttons and the bouffant skirt was lavishly embroidered in white. Her white picture hat of matching organza was trimmed with navy satin streamers and her gloves were white organdy. Mrs. Clifton carried majestic daisies arranged in semi-colonial design.

Mr. Harlan served as his son's best man. Ushers were Harry Mayes of Fort Worth, Douglas Howell of Littlefield, David Johnson, Keaton Brazile, Hoyle Moss of Pecos and Jimmy Steinhoff of Abilene.

Reception Follows Service

Wedding guests attended a reception in Yaqui room of Hilton hotel following the ceremony. They were served from the bride's table which was laid with a white net cloth decorated at the corners with white satin bows. A three-tiered wedding cake and the bride's bouquet centered the table.

Those assisting with hospitalities were Mrs. R. W. Rutherford of Littlefield, Mrs. Douglas Howell of Littlefield, Mrs. Durwood Howell, Miss LaVaughn Bearden, Miss Betty Jenkins, Miss Elizabeth Howard and Mrs. Stanley Huckabay.

Out-of-town guests were from Littlefield, Memphis, El Paso, Abilene, Beaumont and San Antonio.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride wore a promenade brown silk faille two piece tailored suit with brown accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Both the bride and bridegroom attended Lubbock High school and Texas Technological college. The bride was a member of Las Cresas club in high school and Sans Souci social club at Tech. Mr. Harlan, a mechanical engineering graduate, is employed by the West Texas Distributing corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan will be at home at 3201 Thirtieth.

Through The Coral Doors

Howdy Folks!

Now, you folks drop everything you are doing and trot yourselves down to Decorators Studio for a real treat. Already they are getting the results of Fredda's market trip. I really think my visit through the Coral Door this week was one of the most exciting ever, as far as merchandise is concerned.

You antique lovers will certainly see some prizes on display at the Studio—and notice the ad this week. Those sketches are from a really interesting group of antiques. Fredda bought several antiques in red, as it seems to be a problem to find good reds in our modern-made accessories.

For you men "den lovers" and the fortunate owners of country homes there is a pair of lamps—just right for you—and just unpacked too! They are tall and graceful bird-in-flight bases with parchment shades—brown touched with gilt—and made of a composition completely new on the market.

Well, you can imagine that I got pretty excited over all this—then Josie came in with her sly grin and sly remark, "Grandpa, you want to see something to top off all this?" I really didn't think I could take the excitement of any more, but being the curious fellow that I am—my eyes bugged, and I said, "More—where!" Well, ladies, they now have some of the most beautiful place mats and napkins at Decorators Studio that I have ever seen. Handwoven and closewoven of beautiful and fine woolen thread and celophane—napkins made of beautiful cloth to match—in an array of colors that go completely around the color chart. Those mats and napkins would compliment your very best tableware.

I read letters from Anne and James which sounded a lot like my letter to you this week, because they were just as excited over the merchandise they were buying in Paris for the Studio. "Bastille Day" had just past at the time of their writing, and the celebration must have been quite hilarious with Anne and James entering into everything they could, including all the parades and parties. One party they went to had something to do with hats—I never understood just what, anyway James scooped out the middle of a cabbage and wore it on his head and Anne struggled with a fancy bird cage on her head. From their letters I'm afraid those two are going to want to become Parisians by the summer's end.

Goodness! I must close and get busy—Don't neglect seeing all that new merchandise at Decorator's Studio real soon, but remember not to go on Saturday. The Studio will be closed all day Saturday for the month of August and the first two Saturdays in September.

Be seeing ya',

Johnston, sr., of Corpus Christi, were married at 8 o'clock Saturday night at College Avenue Church of Christ. J. D. Thomas, Church of Christ minister of Chicago, officiated at a double ring service.

A white satin-covered archway, lighted with white tapers, formed the bridal scene. It was against a background of western leaves and palms, flanked with baskets of white gladioli.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional wedding gown of slipper satin, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves ending in points, fitted bodice and full skirt extending in a semi-train. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and gardenias, tied with white and blue streamers.

Miss Wynetta McLaughlin, sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore white nylon dotted Swiss made with off shoulder neckline edged with net, fitted bodice and full skirt trimmed with net-edged ruffles. She carried corn flowers and white stock showered with streamers.

Dickie Johnston of Corpus Christi served his brother as best man and Harry Whitlow of Abilene and Pat Ingle were ushers. Alan Barber of Albuquerque, N. M., was ring bearer.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The table was laid with a lace cloth centered with white carnations and fern, flanked by candelabra. The bride's colors of blue and white were carried out in appointments.

SPEAKING OF Furniture

By BILL CASSTEVENS

LIGHTING THE WAY

Only recently has lighting become one of the elements of decoration. In the old days candelabra, chandeliers and lamps were often things of beauty and part of the decorative scheme of the room, but light itself was utilitarian . . . to see by, and not very well at that.

Lighting is still primarily utilitarian, but it has a second function, born of electricity . . . that of dramatic appeal.

A decorator now paints with light as with color. Flood lighting and indirect lights, outline or emphasize architectural features, set off planes or model the curve of a wall. With hidden saucers of light, effects can be produced which were impossible a generation ago.

Light may be concentrated on the background, on the furniture, or focus attention on a picture as shown in the above illustration. At the same time it may be diffused throughout the room, producing the best light for the eyes.

If you have any problems, stop in and discuss them with us.

Summer Is Time To Renew Youth

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Summer is the time to renew your lease on youth.

With fewer "musts" on your social calendar and with a more informal life ahead, you'll have the time to rejuvenate your mental outlook with new hobbies and new books or with making new friends. Spend your time doing the things which you really want to do. Don't, for example, waste precious leisure forcing yourself to read heavy tomes which bore you but which you think will improve your mind. Put those weighty masterpieces back on the shelf and pull down the lighter books which you enjoy reading.

The value of any summer project lies in the pleasure to be derived from it more than from sober benefits that may be gained.

If extra inches around your waistline are detracting from from your youthful appearance, the summer is the best time for figure-trimming. That's when it's easier to discipline your appetite. The season's abundance of tempting fresh fruits and vegetables make a low-caloried diet easier to take.

By simply paying a moderate amount of attention to diet and exercise during warm weather a woman who wants to renew her lease on a youthful figure can see results long before the summer is over.

DUMMY PROVIDES THRILL

EDINBURG, Ind. (U.P.)—Onlookers were horrified as they saw a "paratrooper" plunge to the ground at Camp Atterbury Air Force base when his parachute failed to open. Officials at the base said the 'chutist would jump again, however, since it was a dummy being used to provide practice for C-47 troop carrier pilots.

GOSSIP..

Hollywood, California
July 27, 1949

Dear Buck,

Well, here I am in Hollywood, and what a convention. Lewis and Worley say it is the best one they have ever been to. They are sure getting lots of new dances. Most of the faculty teachers are movie dance directors, and they all bring movie stars with them to class. I couldn't start to name all of the movie stars that I have seen at this convention and it's only half over. There are over 400 dancing teachers from all over the world at this convention. Ten teachers went out to Warner Bros. today to present June Haver with some kind of a trophy. Lewis Walker was selected to represent Texas. He had his picture made with her. You may see it in the papers. It will be in the movie magazines, too. Does he rate out here!

The Larrymore Dance Studio is sure well known out here. Everyone says, "Oh, you are the school that has those wonderful programs." Tommy and June Bragg are here and they are dancing in Hollywood Friday. I'll write you how they get over next week. Keep your fingers crossed—I'm betting they steal the show. For sure they are getting their picture in the magazine—"STARS OF TOMORROW," and here is a chance that they will get it on the cover. Wouldn't it be wonderful if they could get a break out here?

We plan to be here in Hollywood at least another week, then we hope to go to Yellowstone. One thing for sure, we will be back in Lubbock by August 20th to open the Larrymore Dance Studio for our best year.

Ain't nobody ask me to be in the movies yet. Adv.

Choose Sports To Suit Age And Be Fit At Fifty

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

There's something about the combination of summer, sun and sand that makes even oldsters feel like cavorting, indluing in strenuous calesthenics, staging a comeback on the tennis court or having a hearty go at the lawn mower.

This renewed athletic activity sounds like a good health-making idea, but unfortunately sudden, strenuous exercise is potentially dangerous to women who have been out of condition too long.

Year-round, day-in, day-out exercise of one kind or another is excellent for everyone: young, old or middle-age. And women who have kept up this kind of exercise all of their lives can go right ahead with summer athletics, regardless of age. But for most women it's only human to let active sports lose out to spectator sports as family responsibilities get heavier and the body becomes less flexible.

If you're planning to turn over a new leaf this summer—turn it over slowly. At the start it's a wise idea to limit your summer activity to about the same amount as you take during the winter.

You can work up gradually to more muscular activity, but choose your exercises carefully. Swimming and walking are fine for practically everyone. Shuffleboard and bowling are possibilities.

When it comes to extra-strenuous tennis, badminton, or handball, better leave it to the "young things," unless of course you've been just short of champion at those sports all along.

Feeding A Husband

Noted Chef Gives Pointers On Preparing Good Meals

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July—One reason why so many American men have dyspepsia is that their wives feed them a summer diet of boiled ham and potato salad snatched from the corner delicatessen on the way home from the bridge party.

So says Louis Diat, famous chef of the Ritz Carlton Hotel, author of two best selling cook books and a regular contributor to gourmet magazines.

There is nothing wrong with a cold buffet for summer dining, says Mr. Diat, but it should be prepared with care and imagination ,and it should be served with at least one hot dish.

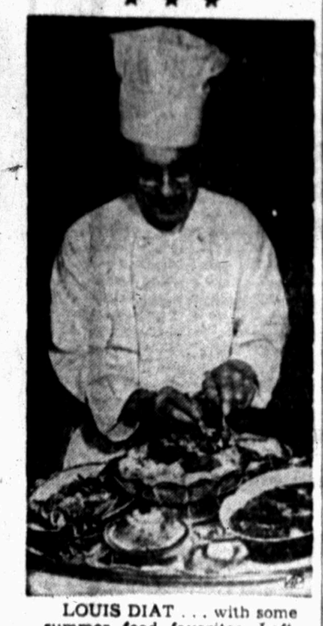

When it's a question of making a cold buffet appealing to both the eye and the palate, the veteran chef is unsurpassed. It was he who invented Vichysoisse, that creamy cold soup now famous all over the world and served in all self-respecting French cafes.

Mr. Dial believes that American women would be better hostesses if they would approach their cooking with imagination, interest and an eye for artistic effects.

A few simple garnishes, for instance, can turn an ordinary cold plate into a gourmet's delight, says he. One of the best tricks to glamorize cold fish or meat is to serve it coated with aspic. This is what gives that beautiful expensive looking glaze to cold dishes served up at gilt-edged eating places. It's simple, says Mr. Diat, if you do it right. First you make your aspic, using a clear bouillon or broth and gelatine. Let it cool until it just begins to jell. Then take your cold salmon, chicken or what-have-you out of the ice box. Be sure it is thoroughly chilled. Quickly pour the aspic over it. The aspic will jell almost instantly as it touches the cold food. Put the whole thing back in the refrigerator until time to serve. Then arrange it tastefully on a platter with appropriate colorful garnishes and listen to the applause of family or guests.

Another simple and effective garnish, nice to add glamour to a stuffed tomato or chicken salad, is grated hard boiled egg mixed with finely minced parsley. (Chefs call this "mimosa.") Sprinkle it over the top of the salad and you have a work of art.

Here are some recipes that Louis has worked out for this summer's menus at the Ritz Gardens, any or all of which could make a reputation for any Main Street cook:

AVOCADO PASADENA (to serve 2): Mix 1 cup crab meat, 1 tablespoon chopped tomato, 1 tablespoon green pepper, 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar ½ teaspoon chopped chives, 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon chili sauce and ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Fill peeled halves of avocado with mixture. Place a slice of tomato and a slice of ripe olive on top.

TOMATO SURPRISE: Peel a ripe tomato, remove center and let juice drain out. Stuff with diced celery and apple mixed with mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce leaves.

COQUILLE A LA RITZ: The "coquille" is a large plastic crab shell now on the market Fill the shell with salmon salad made by your favorite recipe. Coat with creamy salad dressing or mayonnaise. Place slice of hard-boiled egg mixed with finely chopped parsley On each side place the cooked meat of a lobster claw, coated in aspic jelly.

CHEF SALAD CARLTON: Mix chopped lettuce, thin strips of chicken, ham, tongue, and Swiss cheese with water cress and French dressing.

COLD LOBSTER NEW ENGLAND: Boil medium size lobster 20 to 25 minutes in vegetable stock. When cold, split in two lengthwise. Remove meat from tail and claws. Dice and mix with tomalley (greenish liver substance in body of lobster). Put in bowl and add 1 teaspoon each chopped chives, parsley, tarragon and chervil, if available. Mix with one tablespoon chili sauce, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise. Fill the half shell with the lobster meat, decorate with strips of pimiento, anchovy filet and capers. Coat the whole with aspic jelly and serve with mayonnaise.

BRIDE—Mrs. John A. Kahler, former Lubbock resident, was Miss Veora Capps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Capps, 2813 Ruby, before her marriage which took place July 23 at 8 o'clock at San Antonio Woodlawn Methodist church with Rev. Mr. Hart officiating. Mrs. Hermon Patterson of Lubbock was her sister's matron of honor and Roy Kahler served his brother as best man. After a trip to Rockport, the couple will be at home in San Antonio.

Ceremony Performed

Miss Bobbie Lovell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lovell of Plainview, and Frank McEwin, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. McEwin of Denison, were married Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at First Methodist chapel with Rev. E. H. Crandall officiating. Vows were read before an altar arranged with white gladioli and greenery.

A prelude of piano numbers played by Miss Betty Soloman included "I Love You Truly," "Because," "O Promise Me," "Through the Years" and "Always."

For her wedding, the bride wore a dress of white linen designed with a fitted bodice with shirred gathers at the yoke and skirt. She wore a white hat and carried a white Bible topped with red rosebuds. Carrying out tradition, she wore a strand of pearls for something old and put a penny in her shoe for good luck. She borrowed the Bible.

Mrs. W. R. Harral, matron of honor, wore a light blue dress and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

John McEwin of Oklahoma City served as his brother's best man.

Reception Honors Couple

A reception was given in the home of Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe at 1812 Broadway after the ceremony. Mrs. Joe Boyd and Miss Margaret Forrest presided at the bride's table which was laid with lace and centered with an arrangement of daisies.

After August 1, the couple will be at home in Greenville where Mr. McEwin, a graduate of Texas Technological college, is employed by the Lone Star Gas company. Mrs. McEwin was formerly employed by the Inter-City Motor Express in Lubbock.

Out-of-town wedding guests included the bride's parents and the bridegroom's mother.

Hopes High For "Downpour" Next Year

Waynesburg Pays Off Bets On Failure Of July 29 Rain

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 30 (AP)—Waynesburg's citizens ruefully hung up their umbrellas today and started paying off bets they made that it would rain as usual on July 29.

It almost always rains in Waynesburg on July 29. But yesterday, for the six time in 72 years, there was nary a drop of moisture.

Everyone waited for it all day long. And no one waited for a rain cloud more eagerly than Attorney John M. Daily, official "rainmaker" for this little western Pennsylvania community of 8,500.

Daily has a traditional bet with Vince Johnson, Pittsburgh (Post-Gazette) newspaper columnist that when the 29th day of July rolls round, there'll be rain in Waynesburg.

Daily lost his hat to Johnson for the second straight year yesterday. But rainmaker Daily didn't give up through the whole sunny day.

Gained Extra Hour

At nightfall he even talked the city council into ordering daylight saving time suspended for an hour at midnight. That gave him 25 hours to save his hat and an old Waynesburg tradition. But it wasn't enough.

"I'm dog tired and discouraged," said Daily as he began paying off his debts promptly at 12:01 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

"People have been kidding me a lot—why I've had 'phone calls from all over the country."

Daily had plenty of support during his fruitless rain vigil. Some 3,000 persons crowded borough streets in a last minute "rain carnival." But they joined Daily in paying off debts at midnight.

Daily called the rainless day "a temporary bad break." "Sure," he said, "I'll take all comers next year—we'll have a downpour."

Three-Day Terry County Fair Scheduled For October 20-22

BROWNFIELD, July 30—October 20, 21 and 22 have been set as the dates of the annual Terry county fair, according to an announcement from the agricultural committee of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring organization.

The opening day of the fair will follow the Brownfield Rotary club's third annual Harvest Festival and Merchants Jubilee on October 19.

L. M. Lang is chairman of the chamber of commerce agricultural committee, and R. J. Purtell is divisional chairman in charge of plans for the fair.

In 1940, 57 per cent of Americans were living in cities and towns, a 17 per cent increase over the number in 1900.

Cape coats flaunt "cloak and dagger" airs for fall. Fuschia and black checked chinchilla great-coat swashbuckles with pushed up sleeves and chin-swathing collar (left); steamer cape (right) in black and gray plaid tweed, cloaks skirt and sweater ensemble.

Capes Go 'Cloak And Dagger'

NEW YORK, July 30 (NEA)—Any resemblance between the romantic cloaks which the Spanish masters loved to paint and this fall's spectacular cape-coats is not mere coincidence.

From portraits of 17th and 18th century Spanish nobles come ideas for silhouettes which shape up many of this season's smartest coats. From the romantic capes of kings, courtiers and cardinals come push-up sleeves that slope from shoulders, collars that climb up to the tip of a nose.

One of the most outstanding of these portrait-inspired wraps is a Monte-Sano-designed great coat of fuschia and black checked chinchilla which looks like a cape. Its tall collar, deceptively full silhouette, and lively color add a new note to this fall's splendor.

Also ready to cut a swathe on the autumn scene is another romantic style: the steamer cape. Pauline Trigere brings this first cousin of the "duster" up-to-date with sophisticated styling, with highly-textured tweed in shades of gray and black. This designer's talented hand turns the old-time steamer cape into a smart ensemble by combining it with a skirt of solid gray tweed, a chic sweater of black woolknit.

Surgery Saves Baby After Mother Dies

SALINA, Kan., July 30. (U.P.)—A baby boy who was delivered by surgery half an hour after his mother died of polio was reported in good condition today by attendants at Asbury hospital here.

Mrs. Don Allen, 20, Lebanon, Kan., died Thursday night in a respirator. Hospital records showed the child was delivered 30 minutes later, at 10:10 p. m. The boy, who has not yet been named, weighed five pounds ten ounces.

Attendants said Mrs. Allen was known to be in critical condition and advance preparations for saving the baby in event of her death had been made.

Survivors, in addition to the newborn baby, included the husband and a four-year-old son.

Oxford-Educated African Chief's Desire To Bring Home White Wife Causes Furor

LONDON, July 30. (AP)—Should the black chief of an African tribe, proud of its pure blood line, be allowed to bring home a white queen?

The highest responsible officials of the British commonwealth can't figure out an answer to this delicate question in race relations and have asked for a judicial inquiry.

Commonwealth minister Philip Noel-Baker and Sir Evelyn Barin, high commissioner in Africa, have asked Sir Walter Harragin, judge of the high court of Bechuanaland in Africa, to investigate the situation.

The sticky problem is whether Seretse (Heart of the Red Earth) Khama, Oxford-educated heir to the throne of Bamangwato, should be allowed to take his pretty white bride, Ruth Williams, 24, London clerk, home to rule as queen over 100,000 black tribesmen.

Uncle Opposes Idea

The special inquiry will bring together Secretse and his uncle, Tshekedi Khama, who bitterly opposes mingling of the races.

Tshekedi once flogged a white man with a rhinoceros whip for taking up with Bamangwato black women.

The uncle is backed by only about 50 tribesmen, but they are of sufficient influence to have caused London to take note of the obscure African problem.

A huge majority of the tribe voted to accept Ruth is their queen.

Adding complications are race-conscious white residents of South Africa who object to the marriage on the reverse of the grounds offered by Tshekedi.

Pending outcome of the inquiry, for which no time limit has been set, Tshekedi rules as regent over the christianized teetotalling tribe of 100,000.

For a crisp-tasting salad serve thin slices of onion rings and oranges on shredded salad greens with a tangy French dressing; add a ring of green pepper as a garnish.

Tree Grows In Michigan

Middle West To Be Locale For Betty Smith's Book

By SAM SUMMERLIN
Associated Press Newsfeatures

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—"Dem Bums" in Brooklyn may not know it yet, but their most celebrated authoress is deserting Flatbush for the wide open spaces of the Middle West, as a locale for her next novel.

"A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" and "Tomorrow Will Be Better" brought alive to millions of readers the existence of poverty and struggle in Brooklyn, U. S. A.

Now the novelist who created these two tremendous best-sellers is ready to pull up literary stakes and move her new characters elsewhere.

Betty Smith is philosophical about her aesthetic exodus from Brooklyn. Seated on a couch in her modest home here, she spoke softly about the place which she has immortalized for book-lovers the world over:

"You know, I don't rate very highly in Brooklyn. Many people there resent my writing about poverty. Some even say my depictions of poor people in Brooklyn have kept tourists away.

Miss Smith said she had often been asked why she didn't write about the nicer sections of Brooklyn. She sighed:

"They want me to write about fancy homes and rich people, when I know nothing about them. I can only write about the kind of people and life that I myself have lived."

Ann Arbor, Mich., will be the locale of Miss Smith's next novel. As yet untitled, the book will be drawn from the years she spent in the town and at the University of Michigan. She went there after leaving Brooklyn, married a law student and had her two children there during a ten-year stay.

Miss Smith says she wants to write about another place "to prove I'm a novelist and not just a historian of Brooklyn. And too, maybe if I write about another locality, then Brooklyn will claim me."

The new novel will be more cheerful than the two previous books, Miss Smith promises. She said:

"The story will be about a young girl who marries a medical student. Of course, the girl works hard during the strenuous years that her husband is going to school. She raises a family, and tries to make life comfortable in cramped quarters and on little money. But life is hopeful. The two together make it a handful of pretty wonderful years."

She expects to complete the book by the end of the year. The characters are as yet unnamed. She explained:

"Right now I am just getting to know them, the names will come to me. I didn't settle on the name for the girl in 'Tomorrow Will Be Better' until over half the book was written."

The new novel will be laid in the late 1930's and early 1940's. She said:

"People often ask me why I write only in the past. My answer is that I can't write about the present because I am too busy living it."

Miss Smith writes slowly, usually only about two hours a day, explaining:

"I spend the rest of my time living. Some writers work all day, not stopping to live a little. After a while, they don't have anything to write about."

She recently went back to Michigan and the surrounding areas to recapture the life and atmosphere she lived many years ago. She said:

"I walked the old streets, looked at the house I lived in—even visited the skating rink where I used to be cashier. But no one should ever go back. Things change too much."

The new book, she says, will be a tender, nostalgic thing.

"It will show that being poor really means nothing, because it is a temporary thing. And the couple will have hopes for great things ahead."

Miss Smith remarked that the girl in the new novel will probably come out to Michigan from Brooklyn. She added:

"But she will not be any of my previous characters. However, the critics will likely say, 'You can take the girl out of Brooklyn, but you can't take Brooklyn out of the girl'."

BETTY SMITH . . . Transplants her tree . . .

Woman, 53, Rescued By Coast Guardsmen

LOS ANGELES, July 30 (AP)—The Coast Guard reported today the rescue of a 53-year-old woman, who for 18 hours clung to a rock pinnacle off San Clemente island while heavy swells exploded spray over her.

Her husband, Theodore Homer, 56, is missing after their 28-foot fishing boat, "Marjorie Mae," smashed against the rocks of the island 60 miles southwest of here last Thursday evening, the Coast Guard said.

Upon being rescued yesterday by a Coast Guard cutter, Mrs. Mae Homer told Lt. (jg) R. G. Schwind that her husband, who remained aboard the craft, helped her to the rocks. She said she called to him to follow her, but she didn't see him again. He wore a life-preserver.

Lt. Schwind said Mrs. Homer's escape was miraculous, in view of the heavy seas. When rescued, she was semi-conscious. Her shoes were gone and her clothes torn. Mrs. Homer said waves knocked her off the pinnacle several times.

The Homers, of Los Angeles, had been fishing near San Clemente for three weeks.

Italian Sunbather On Beach Struck By Landing Airplane

ROME, July 30 (AP)—Dino Alfani of Rome has achieved a certain distinction. He was run over by an airplane.

Dino was sunbathing on a nearby beach yesterday. A small tourist plane landed on the shore and ran over him.

Hospital authorities said Dino's injuries are not serious.

Mother Held After Taking Girl From Adopted Parents

TULSA, July 30 (AP)—A 29-year-old mother was in jail today because she refused to tell where she had hidden her daughter she had stolen from its adopted parents.

Mrs. Nellie Beshears says she won't tell where her seven-year-old daughter Ona is hidden "if they were fixin' to hang me."

She has been unable to post bond of $1,000 after being charged with taking the child.

Mrs. Beshears said she did not know she was consenting to "give up the child altogether" when it was adopted July 5 by Mr. and Mrs. Luther Whitley.

The woman, who is divorced, told police she took the little girl when informed she could no longer see her.

"They told me I could have the child any time I wanted her and that I could take the child back when I wanted to," she declared.

"I can't have any more children and I'm going to hang onto my little girl as long as I can," Mrs. Beshears said. She works nights as a cotton mill spinner in suburban Sand Springs.

High School Band Practice Will Start At Brownfield

BROWNSFIELD, July 30 — With several engagements to fill during August, the Brownfield High school band will resume activities Monday night with a rehearsal, Richard Young, director, announces.

The 1949-50 school year band will consist of approximately 72 members, only about four having been lost through graduation. New instruments acquired during the summer include a bass clarinet, bass saxophone and bass fiddle.

Junior band activities will begin shortly after the opening of the school term, the director said.

ETSTC Physics Student Gets Fellowship In Atomic Energy

COMMERCE, July 30 (AP) — Lawrence R. Thomas of Greenville has been awarded an atomic energy commission fellowship.

Thomas is a graduate physics student at East Texas State Teachers college here.

Dr. J. H. Clements, head of the college physics department, said he was one of 50 students in the nation to receive the $1,600 one-year fellowship.

Thomas expects to be assigned to an atomic energy institution by Sept. 1.

Conservation Crew Completes Plans For South Plains Farms

BROWNFIELD, July 30 — The Cochran-Yoakum-Terry Soil Conservation crew has completed plans for soil conservation work with H. D. Boone, C. A. Howell and John M. Hill of Terry county, and A. E. Johnson and A. B. Carpenter of Yoakum county.

Boone, Howell, Johnson and Carpenter have irrigated farms and plan to follow good farming practices to maintain soil fertility under irrigation. Hill's plan is to get enlough plant residue on the surface of his land to check blowing and then re-seed part of the farm to grass.

The engineering crew has just completed running irrigation ditches for George P. Evans of Yoakum county, and W. W. Marchbanks, A. A. Miller, C. L. Johnson, Mike Howell, D. R. Smith and Virgil Burnett, all of Terry county.

OFFICER APPOINTED

BROWNFIELD, July 30—Capt. Samuel J. Privitt, commanding officer of Brownfield's National Guard unit, Heavy Motor Co., 142nd Infantry, has been appointed project officer for the fall recruiting campaign of the National Guard in this area. The appointment was made by the adjutant general.

The Peruvian Government now has a monopoly of imported wines and spirits, Lima reports.

Move Underway To Oust Japanese First Family From Royal Palace

By IAN MUTSU
United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, July 30. (U.P.)—Emperor Hirohito and his family may be invited politely in the not too distant future to move out of their big palace grounds in central Tokyo to a newly-built mansion in the remote fringes of the city.

The idea comes from one of Japan's new post-war rich, who has more than a barrel full of yen.

The idea is a sister piece to another plan which, according to the best available information, is much more likely to succeed. This one calls for depriving Hirohito of about one-half of his present palace grounds. The area then would be converted into a park and make room for a transit system to downtown Tokyo, cutting right across the city from the north.

It would expose Hirohito unpleasantly nearer to the din of traffic and the noise of the multitudes. And here's where the promoters of a new palace come in with their project.

Seclusion Offered

It has occurred to them that it might be a becoming gesture to propose to the monarch that he would find life far more comfortable in new imperial quarters. It would be replete with modern furnishings and a laboratory to suit Hirohito's hobby of biological studies and not quite so near to the city's hoi polloi.

It is tentatively suggested that the new palace be constructed somewhere near the impressive tomb of Hirohito's father, former Emperor Taisho. The site would be about 10 miles out of the city.

There is but one commercial motif to the entire plan. Hirohito would receive his new palace as a "gift" from his admirers. In return he would make available to them the remaining half of his old palace grounds. That, in turn, would be thrown open to the public as a popular amusement resort.

Whether Hirohito himself is inclined to go for this idea, or not, at this stage of things is definitely unknown.

"We would like to borrow many features right from Coney Island," said one of the promoters.

In the olden days in Japan this kind of talk would have meant "sacrilege" and instant reprisal, with no mercy, for anyone who dared to be so bold.

Today things are different.

Hirohito's imperial carp dwadling in the same old moats surrounding his palace also are in danger. They are constant prey to urchins and even some grownup anglers armed with line, hook and worm. The palace guards these days no longer pay serious attention to such disrespectful scenes.

Long Vacation Journey For Three Little Orphans Results In Advice For Parents

BY LEO TURNER
United Press Staff Writer

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., July 30 — The three little orphans, who were selected as guinea pigs to find out what children like to do on vacations, are back home again, tired but happy.

"Well," said Dr. John Frenssen, superintendent of the Wartburg Farm School, when he let them in at 11 p. m., "you got home all in one piece."

The three children, Joan Troesche, 12, Eddie Carlson, 9, and Helen Schrull, 6, were selected in an essay and drawing contest. They were taken on a two-week trip to Washington and Williamsburg, Va., by Carol Lane, travel research director for the Shell Oil Co., and Elizabeth Baker.

Neither of the young women had any experience with children when they left. They had plenty of experience by the time they got back.

Need Wiggling Room

"The important thing we learned about children and vacations," Miss Lane said, "is that children like to dawdle at their meals and when going to bed and getting up. They also have to have room to wiggle. They can't be expected to act like grownups, and if they're treated as children, the vacation goes along fine."

The three children couldn't agree on the most impressive thing about the vacation.

Twelve-year-old Joan said "the nation's capital."

Eddie said the FBI.

And blue-eyed Helen couldn't make her mind up between the wooley-worm on the steps of the governor's palace at Williamsburg or the calf she saw beside the road.

"We took plenty of time to let them see whatever attracted their attention," Miss Lane said.

What To Do

She tabulated her findings as follows:

Under "do" she wrote: Have children feel responsible for the success of the trip by assigning each one small tasks such as locking the rear car doors and setting up cots in the evening; take along mosquito dope, sunburn lotion, poison ivy lotion and laxative, as well as standard first aid kit; keep a box of dime-store toys on the back seat floor and let a child take out one toy at a time; make everyone get out and stretch each time the car stops; choose overnight cabins with play space; carry a folding cot and sheets if party makes an odd number; keep a wet washcloth handy; carry brown paper grocery bags for car sickness; keep children on a simple diet; play games to keep them from becoming bored while riding; give them plenty of sleeping time.

What Not To Do

And "don't" jump out of your seat at strange noises or soap bubbles coming out of the back seat while you're driving; let the children pick wild berries and other fruits without knowing what they are; be disappointed when young children get restless during conducted tours; stop the car suddenly and throw the children [illegible] of their seats; [illegible] the day's drive (better eat a big meal at the end [illegible] pect small fry to sit primly [illegible] the luggage to give them a "wiggle platform" in the back seat); don't forget pillows to prop each child up high enough to see; don't encourage candy eating and don't forget that children need extra affection away from home.

Germans Who Insult Officials Face Jail

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 30. (AP)—You've got to be careful what you say about a public official in Germany. You might wind up in jail. Theres a special law which provides a jail sentence for insulting "a person in public life" if the insult makes him "appear unworthy of the trust which he needs in his public activities."

Quite a few Germans have run afoul of that law lately. U. S. military government thinks the law is undemocratic, and may nullify it . . . if the Germans don't do it themselves.

Meanwhile, U. S. officials are trying to discourage abuse of the law. An article in the official "Information Bulletin," sited "many recent examples of resort to the law to silence irate citizens."

Public Forums Sponsored

For instance, a German in Waiblingen learned from relatives in the U. S. that they had sent him many food packages. He had received only two. Investigation showed that neither he nor members of his family had signed the postal receipts for the missing packages.

So he charged the postal clerk with forgery and embezzlement. In the trial, postal officials claimed it was all right for the clerk to sign the receipts because "Farmers usually have dirty hands and deface the official documents while signing them."

The postal clerk was acquitted. He promptly charged his accuser under the insult law. The man was convicted and fined.

Military government is sponsoring public forums to encourage Germans to speak their minds in public. But Hans Struebing, President of the public forum in Kassel, publicly accused Dr. Georg A. Zinn, Hessian minister of justice, of deliberately delaying prosecution of a fellow party member for embezzlement. The state supreme court ruled the charge untrue. And Struebing was sentenced to four months in jail.

Terry County Commissioners' Court Votes Down Pay Raises

BROWNFIELD, July 30 — No salary increases for Terry county officials, deputies, assistants, and clerks will be made under authority of the recently enacted Texas Senate Bill 92, the commissioners' court has decided.

County Judge H. R. Winston said that all Terry county officials, deputies, assistants and clerks were given 25 per cent increases last January 1, and that the county is not financially able at this time to make additional increases.

Section 3 of the bill also provides that all officers now on a fee basis will be transferred over to an annual salary to be paid in 12 equal installments. This, too, Judge Winston said, was done in Terry county the first of the year. "But," he added, "the county may revert to the fee basis the first of the coming year."

Radio Station At Brownfield To Go On Air During August

BROWNFIELD, July 30 — The second week in August has been tentatively set by Conrad Vernon, manager, as the approximate date for Brownfield's radio station KTFY to go on the air.

Installation of equipment is under way at the station by Bob Spear and Larry Chisholm, engineers.

R. C. Norris, program director, and Jim Reed, announcer, arrived this week from Austin and are assisting in preparations for the opening. Mrs. Vera Parker of Brownfield has been employed as bookkeeper and traffic manager.

Carpeting has been laid on the studio floors and construction is under way on an all-weather parkway at the front of the building.

Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland manufacture 80 per cent of all the steel made in this country.

WOMEN PICKETS ARE THREATENED

Vice Fight Turning Into Spat Between Officials, Crusaders

GARY, Ind., July 30 (AP)—Gary's fight on vice settled down today to an exchange of charges between city officials and the anti-vice crusaders.

Dr. M. P. Avery, chairman of the Gary Crime commission, said three members of the women's citibens committee, had been threatened by anonymous telephone callers.

The women had been picketing places suspected of harboring gambling games and prostitutes. The pickets went off duty last night.

"One mother was called by a man who told her she was stepping on a inch of eggs and if she went out to picket she was asking for the undertaker," the dentist reported.

Mayor Needled

He said the calls had been reported to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. B. Howard Caughran, U. S. district attorney at Indianapolis, said no action was planned because the calls were not across state lines.

The doctor also took a rap at Eugene Swartz, mayor of this northern Indiana industrial city.

Swartz, who has been under fire from the crusaders, asked yesterday, "how about picketing the well-known country club frequented by members of the women's citizens committee and the Gary Crime commission, where nearly all the violations complained of within the city of Gary have taken place and continue to take place?

"Witness, for instance, the recent party where the members were edified by a strip tease entertainment of the lowest sort as a prelude to a nevening's activity of $5 limit poker and $200 dice games.

"Let's have no double standards, please."

Club Out Of Town

The doctor's answer to that—and he said he was making it as a personal one and not as chairman of the self-appointed commission—was:

"Mayor Swartz is a member of the country club. I am not a member of the country club. I suggest that the mayor present his views of the affairs he mentioned to his board of directors."

Mrs. Russell Griffith, head of the women's committee, ducked what she said was a "cat fight."

The country club, she said, "is out of town and would not be under the juriadiction of the Gary police." She added that she had been to the club and had seen no gambling.

The pickets were called off last night because they had accomplished their purpose, said Mrs. Griffith.

"The women wanted to prove to the powers that keep the town open or closed that we want a clean town," she said.

Ex-GI Keeps Crime Record

NEW YORK, July 30. (AP)—An Ex-Air Force sergeant, who police said kept his own crime record, was under arrest today.

His detailed accounts of 12 thefts—several of them in tourist-crowded Rockefeller Center—showed proceeds of $2,391.10 since his discharge from the Air Force March 4.

He had a dime when arrested last night.

Harry Lewin, 25, formerly of San Francisco, was seized as he allegedly was about to stage his second holdup in an Eire railroad ticket office in Rockefeller Center.

Ledger Is Found

In his mid-town hotel room, police found a bookkeeper's ledger described by Detective Captain John B. McCarty as "the most careful and complete set of accounts I've seen kept by a criminal in my 31 years on the force." He added:

"I wish all criminals were as methodical in keeping their records."

One section of the ledger, McCarty said, furnished the prisoner's record of holdups: locations, type of victims, amounts taken, dates and times of day.

Other records showed places he intended to rob, with notations as to the best times.

Lewin, who was carrying a .32 caliber automatic when arrested, was booked on charges of assault, robbery and illegal possession of a gun. Asked why he had committed so many reckless robberies, he told police:

"I had to live."

Housewife Tricks Wrens Into Nesting In Old Pants Pocket

VINCENNES, Ind., July 30. (AP) Mrs. Sibyl Hunley sure fooled those wrens.

Everytime she hung her clothes on the line to dry the wrens started to build a nest and filled pockets with sticks, feathers and btis of mud.

She hung a pair of old, worn out pants on the line and left them there.

Circuit Judge Will Receive Top Salary

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP)—Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan probably will be the nation's highest paid jurist when he becomes a member of the U. S. court of appeals on Aug. 12.

Finnegon, appointed by President Truman April 7 and later confirmed by the Senate, will receive a salary of $17,500 on the appeals court. He has spent nearly 20 years on the circuit bench and is eligible for pension at half pay, or $8,500, making his total annual pay $26,000.

His annual salary after he assumes his new duties compares with the $25,500 a year paid the chief justice of the United States and $25,000 salary for associates of the Supreme court.

TEXAS CITIES MUST DECIDE ON PARTICIPATION

Federal Housing Act Provides $14 Billion For Slums Clearance And New Family Units

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Texas cities and towns can gain a good share of help from the government's new housing program, but it's up to them to take the initiative.

On July 15 President Truman signed into law the Housing Act of 1949, which continues and broadens a government program begun in 1937. There were 191,700 dwellings built under the 1937 act; the new law authorizes grants and loans of $14,000,000,000 over the next 40 years for slum clearance and 810,000 family units.

A family unit is the technical description for one to three bedroom dwellings, usually apartments or sections in "row" houses.

Inquiries are beginning to come to Texas members of Congress from municipal and civic leaders for advice as to how they should go about making use of the new law.

Divided In Six Parts

The act is divided into six titles. Those in which there is the most interest are title one, dealing with slum clearance, and title three, providing for low-rent public housing projects.

The other four deal with FHA loans for private home building, research into designing and financing of housing for different situations, farm housing and the taking of a housing census.

It should be clearly understood that the slum clearance and low-rent housing programs are authorized under separate titles and are independent of each other. A city may carry on the two phases hand-in-hand, but they are under separate administrative setups.

Communities interested in the slum clearance should consult Raymond M. Foley, administrator of the housing and home finance agency.

The low-rent housing program is operated on a regional basis. Inquiries from Texas should go to B. F. Vinson, public housing administration office, Texas and Pacific bldg., Fort Worth.

In general, here are the terms and objectives of the 1949 Housing act:

The city itself must determine whether it wants to participate.

The Federal government stands ready to lose up to $500,000,000 to get rid of slums, at the rate of $100,000,000,000 a year for the next five years. Besides these grants, Uncle Sam is prepared to make loans totaling $1,000,000,000 over the same five years. The money is repayable over a 40-year period at 2½ percent interest.

The federal grants are available to help local agencies finance the "net project cost," the difference between costs of acquiring and clearing slums and the capital proceeds from the sale or disposition otherwise of such lands. Cities must pay at least one-third of the total net project cost.

The government will not aid in such projects until there are other low-rent dwellings to which the slum-area residents may move.

Therefore, the low-rent public housing program must precede the slum clearance work in many or most cities.

Rents Will Vary

A city with sufficient need for low-rent homes can apply for a loan of up to 90 percent of the cost of a housing project. It does not have to undertake a slum clearance program.

Many small cities in Texas have no real slum areas, but do need more low-cost housing. These would be interested only in title three.

Only families whose incomes are too low to afford adequate new or old housing are eligible for the new public housing. Rents charged in public housing must be at least 20 per cent less than the lowest private rents in decent dwellings in the area.

The average rent in such units is expected to be about $23 a month, plus $7 for utilities.

Two families living side by side in exactly the same kind of unit may pay different rent. That will depend on their income, which of course affects their ability to pay.

While no definite figure can be stated, for it will vary from community to community as well as among occupants of an individual project, the law provides that each family shall pay not less than 20 percent of its income for rent. A deduction from the net family income of $100 is allowed for each minor dependent.

A man with an income of $1,800 annually with three children would therefore have a net income of $1,500. Twenty percent of this figure would be $300, which, divided by 12, would mean a monthly rental fee of $25.

The maximum wage an occupant will be allowed to earn has not been determined, but the figure set on such projects during 1948 was $1,481.

If the family's income goes above the maximum figure, they have to move out of the development.

The total estimated cost of the housing program is expected to be between $7,000,000,000 and $12,000,000,000 spread over the next 40 years.

Financed By Bonds

The capital costs of low-rent housing projects during the first development will be covered by temporary loans.

These loans generally are obtained through the sale of local housing authority temporary loan notes to private investors. The FHA obligates itself to lend enough to cover the principal and interest on these notes when they mature, so the local housing authorities are expected to encounter little difficulty in selling them at interest rates averaging less than 1 percent per year.

All temporary loans notes are retired as soon as the propect is permanently financed. When the project is far enough along so its costs can be figured accurately, the local authority proceeds with the sale of long-term serial bonds, secured by the government. Under present market conditions, PHA officials say, these should be sold with little trouble at rates of 1½ to 1¾ percent.

VOW TO FIGHT DISEASE FULFILLED

Polio Ward Nurse Stricken With Paralysis Second Time

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 30. (U.P.) — Polio has struck twice at one of its chief opponents, but the fight may still be awarded the challenger.

Miss Virginia Warner, a 22-year-old nurse who has devoted all of her adult life to fight against disease and particularly polio was stricken with the disease for the second time this week.

She was taken ill Wednesday. The illness was definitely diagnosed as polio yesterday.

Stricken When Young

Young Miss Warner is waging her second crucial battle with the disease in Shannon hospital in San Angelo, Texas. Her physicians say she has a favorable chance to come out of this second attack unscarred.

Miss Warner was to have celebrated her eighth birthday when, as a resident of Kansas City, she was stricken with infantile paralysis.

For nearly 18 months she was confined to the children's Mercy hospital here. It was during that time that she vowed to devote all her energies to fight polio.

Worked In Texas

It was nearly four years after she became ill with infantile paralysis that she was able to discard the leg braces that she wore as an aid to the slightly crippled leg that the polio had caused.

At that time she moved to Topeka where she attended Topeka Catholic (now Hayden) high school and resolved to become a nurse to fulfill her vow.

She was graduated six months early in 1942 to enter nurses training at the St. Francis hospital in Topeka and upon the completion of her training was made a staff nurse at Mercy hospital in Kansas City.

Since then she has become a Red Cross nurse with special assignment in polio wards and has served in that capacity at hospitals in Abilene, Texas (Hendriks Memorial hospital) and (at the Shannon hospital) in San Angelo.

It was while she was serving in the polio ward at the San Angelo hospital that she was stricken with infantile paralysis for the second time.

BRITAIN TIGHTENS UP

WELLESLEY, Mass. (U.P.)—The British government allowed only $35 over and above passage for each English delegate to the sixth annual International Council of Congregational Churches here. Additional expenses for the 17-day meeting were furnished by the organization's general council.

CALIFORNIANS LIKE TRAILER

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (U.P.) — A state survey showed that about one out of each 100 Californians is living in a trailer coach parked on a licensed trailer court. The study estimated that 100,000 persons are dwelling in the mobile quarters but it didn't learn how many resided in the trailers by choice and how many because of the housing shortage.

Italy will have a new National Economic and Labor Council, of 60 members drawn from all interested groups to consult with the Government on economic and social laws.

AMARILLO EDITOR HAS BROAD BACKGROUND

Izzard To Speak Thursday

Wes Izzard, editor of the Amarillo Globe-News who brings to Lubbock Thursday a first-hand report of conditions in Europe, has a broad background in both newspaper and radio work.

An Amarillo newspaper executive since 1924, Mr. Izzard also is a pioneer radio commentator—probably the oldest newscaster in point of service in Texas—having begun daily broadcasts in 1928.

Mr. Izzard, who will be presented in a lecture here at 8 p. m. on August 4, by the Lubbock Women's club, recently returned from a tour of Europe which took him into England, France, Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Italy. He will speak in the auditorium of O. L. Slaton Junior High school, Avenue Q and Thirty-second street and will be introduced by Chas. A. Guy, editor of The Avalanche-Journal.

Tickets On Sale

Tickets for the Izzard lecture currently are on sale by members of Lubbock Women's club at 60 cents each, including tax. All funds raised by ticket sales will go into the club's building fund. Mr. Izzard declining to accept any remuneration in connection with his appearance.

Mr. Izzard was born in Chicago but was reared, principally, in Kansas City. A graduate of the University of Illinois in 1923, he previously had served in World War I. Prior to joining Gene Howe in the launching of the Amarillo Globe 25 years ago last Spring, he was on the staff of the Kansas City Journal-Post.

The Amarillo editor is married and is the father of two grown children. His wife has been prominent in women's club circles in the Panhandle area for the past two decades.

Praise Given American Aid

DAYTON, O., July 30. (AP)—Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations ,today praised the voluntary relief work of Americans in "alleviating distress in war-stricken countries."

His praise came in a letter to local headquarters of the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP).

CROP is the nationwide, interchurch program through which gifts are contributed for the needy overseas.

In his letter, Lie said:

"I have been noting with immense satisfaction the work that has been done by private American relief agencies in alleviating distress in war-stricken countries. Among these agencies, I have been watching the work of the Christian Rural Overseas Program with special interest.

"This organization has made it possible for those who actually know the value of food—the producers themselves—to lessen the acute need in other lands."

CROP last year sent 75,000,000 pounds of bulk farm products to the needy in 22 nations.

Sponsors of the program — which will be concentrated in this year's harvest season in the 30 top agricultural states—are church world service (22 Protestant denominations), Catholic rural life and Lutheran world relief.

Harlingen Citizens "Mail" Letters In Trash Baskets

HARLINGEN, July 30 (AP) —The Harlingen junior chamber of commerce decided today to change the color of trash baskets distributed in a city clean-up campaign from green to bright silver.

It seems Harlingen citizens often mistook the green trash cans for mail boxes.

EXHAUSTION, CHILLING SHOULD BE AVOIDED

Parents Urged To Take Simple Measures To Help Protect Children Against Dread Polio

EDITOR'S NOTE — Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, author of the following article discussing the record rise in infantile paralysis cases in the United States this summer, is one of the best-qualified "polio" experts in the country. He has been medical director of the national foundation for infantile paralysis for almost three years. Before that he was the foundation's assistant medical director, and prior to that he was director of the Jacksonville Memorial hospital in Jacksonville, Fla., including its polio wards. Now 45, Dr. Van Riper has devoted virtually all of his adult life to specializing in child diseases.

In this article written for International News Service, Dr. Van Riper emphasizes that while the rise in polio cases is cause for grave concern, there is no reason for panic. He describes the present situation in simple layman terms and tells what may be done by parents and individuals to lessen the chances of polio infection. Above all, he advises "caution, equanimity and faith" during the danger period.

BY DR. HART E. VAN RIPER
Medical Director, National Foundation For Infantile Paralysis
(Written Expressly For INS)

NEW YORK, July 30 — Reports of steadily rising incidence of infantile paralysis are cause for grave concern these days.

The fact that there are 45 percent more new cases as of July 16th than for the same period in 1948, year of highest incidence in a generation, cannot be viewed without apprehension.

But concern need not lead to panic. There are practical reassurances for parents everywhere.

Although August and early September usually see the largest numbers of polio cases recorded, events still may shape themselves so that what seems to be a record year for infantile paralysis will be aborted. Also, it must be remembered that today's improved public health reporting has increased the number of mild, non-crippling cases that are diagnosed as polio and frequently hospitalized.

Prompt Diagnosis Urged

Prompt diagnosis and hospitalization when indicated are the best means of saving lives and minimizing crippling. And the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, through its chapters in more than 2800 counties of the country, will pay for that part of medical care which families cannot pay unaided. This availability of financial assistance to all Americans whose families are struck by the unpredictable and unpreventable disease is itself reassuring.

But there are other facts that should serve to calm one's fears. In the first place, paralytic poliomyelitis even in a bad year is numerically rare. Twenty cases per 100,000 population is considered by health authorities as epidemic incidence. In bad epidemics, 60 per 100,000 may be reported.

And of all those who are stricken, 50 percent will recover without any permanent disability, another 25 percent will recover to the point of being able to lead full and useful lives, and much can be done to rehabilitate even the 15 percent to 20 percent who have lasting weaknesses. Only 8 to 10 percent die.

Precautions Are Simple

Secondly, the observance of some simple precautions during the season of high incidence may prevent development of the most serious forms of the disease. Infantile paralysis is caused by a virus that is passed from person to person by direct and intimate contact. For every diagnosed case, there may be 100 or more persons who carry the virus in their systems, without symptoms. Thus the chances of escaping contact with the virus if it is in your community are relatively slim.

But you may stack the cards against coming down with widespread paralytic symptoms — by avoiding over-fatigue and chilling, by getting extra rest, by observing the rules of cleanliness, including washing your hands before eating, keeping objects that are soiled or have been handled by others out of your mouth, screening your house against flies, keeping food covered.

No one can predict who will get infantile paralysis, but it has been proved by laboratory tests with experimental animals that those who are most severely attacked have over-indulged in strenuous work or play, gone on short rations of sleep and relaxation, become chilled by swimming too long in very cold water or being exposed, when wet, to chilling winds. All these predispose to severe involvement if the virus enters the system.

Cleanliness Is Stressed

It follows as a corollary that when an epidemic is in the making children (the most susceptible group is under 16) should be dissuaded from romping to the point of exhaustion, should have extra rest periods during the long hot days, should swim only in moderation and get into dry clothes as soon as the searing rays of the sun haze departed.

These may seem very simple precautions — but surely all the more worth while for their simplicity.

Thirdly, don't allow an atmosphere of strain or nervousness to pervade your household. Children pick up such an atmosphere quickly— and it is no defense against invasion by the virus, while a happy frame of mind is helpful in attaining recovery if the disease should strike.

The only advisable alteration in your usual summer routine is to see that your children avoid new contacts as far as is possible. If they have been playing with the children in the block, let them continue to do so. But don't take them into new surroundings, crowds or to homes where prolonged and intimate association with new people is necessary.

No Cure Known

The reason for this is twofold: Since the disease is spread mainly by person-to-person contact, intermingling increases the velocity of the spread. Also, your children probably have been exposed to whatever viruses exist in their habitual environment and may already have developed a degree of immunity; but similar protection against other polio viruses that may be associated with new associates may be lacking. (There is more than one virus causing human poliomyelitis and immunity to one does not extend to the others).

Much more is known about infantile paralysis today than ever before in history, although no prevention or cure has yet been discovered.

The availability of more polio units in hospitals, more trained physicians, nurses, physical therapists and others skilled in modern treatment, the provision of more equipment such as respirators and hot pack machines, all make it possible to decrease pain, deformity and helplessness to a greater degree than formerly.

And even while the public health reports show more polio cases, a network of scientific research sponsored by March of Dimes funds is functioning throughout the country, getting closer and closer all the time to a final answer to the riddle of polio. The hope of eventual prevention of infantile paralysis is strong.

As a physician and as a parent, I advise caution, equanimity and faith during the epidemic weeks that lie ahead.

IMPORTANT FACTS ON POLIO ARE STRESSED

NEW YORK, July 30 (INS)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the New York health department issued a series of vital questions and answers concerning poliomyelitis because of the current spread of infantile paralysis.

Included were:

Q. What is the incubation period?

A. Usually seven to 14 days, but it may be as short as three days or as long as 35 days.

Q. What is the period of isolation?

A. The acute stage of the disease, when the patient is confined.

Q. How is polio spread?

Spread By Contact

A. By contact through discharges of the nose and throat. The belief that it is spread by flies is regarded as "insignificant."

Q. Should children be kept out of schools, nurseries, etc., during the polio season?

A. There is no good reason to keep children out of school.

Q. Should children be allowed to go bathing?

A. There is no good evidence that polio is spread by water. Crowding of children, whether in swimming pools, parties, picnics, etc., should be discouraged.

Camps Not Dangerous

Q. Should children be permitted to travel during July and August when polio is prevalent?

A. There is no objection to travel but it is unwise to take children from a community relatively free of polio to one where the polio rate is high.

Q. Should children be permitted to go to camps in the summer?

A. Yes. Outbreaks have occurred in camps, just as in other small or large communities. But, they are not frequent enough to indicate camps are a special hazard.

Three Arrested In Bank Holdup

PEMBROKE, N. C., July 30 (AP) —The FBI hoped today that it has a perfect record in the oft-robbed Scottish Bank of Pembroke.

Four times in the past three years, gunmen have entered the little bank in North Carolina's sandhill Indian country. Four times the FBI has quickly followed through with arrests.

The bank was robbed of $20,667 in the fourth attempt July 21. The FBI reported last night that it has arrested three youths in connection with the crime. The money has not been recovered.

One of the three arrested last night was J. E. Blackwell, 19, a former bank employe who told officers after the holdup that the two bandits pulling the job had kidnaped him at pistol point.

Story Called Phony

Charles W. Brown, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, termed Blackwell's story "a phony." He said Blackwell has admitted planning the holdup with two brothers, Pasquel Rice, about 21, and Clifton Rice, 17.

The Rice brothers, members of a farm family near Lumberton, were arrested late yesterday.

DICTATOR DEFIES REDS ACTION

Marshal Tito Winning Fight To Keep Yugoslavian Liberty

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

One of the great human dramas of our time is the defiance of Russia by Marshal Tito, Yugoslav dictator, who has been outlawed by the Soviet for pursuing nationalism for his country, contrary to the policy of the Kremlin which holds in effect that sovereignty of Communist countries rests in Moscow.

I have an illuminating account of this battle from Alex H. Singleton, AP correspondent in the Yugoslav capital of Belgrade, and I want to present him here as guest columnist. He observes that Tito has turned to the western powers to ease the economic pressure being applied against him by the Communist countries of eastern Europe, and continues:

Trade Ties Cut

For more than a year Tito has withstood Moscow's attempts to bring him to his knees. It is obvious that the Kremlin's order has been to starve him out, and members of the Cominform (Communist Information bureau) have been following instructions.

Trade ties have been cut between Yugoslavia and four Cominform countries—Albania, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland. Yugoslav commerce with Bulgaria and Romania is almost dead. Traffic with Russia has been reduced to a trickle.

Tito's reaction was made clear in a speech. He declared that Yugoslavia would trade with the west for the things she needs, provided no political strings are attached. Said the marshal:

"When we sell copper we buy machines. We do not sell our consciences or our souls, but just copper."

Loans Are Needed

At the same time he announced officially that Yugoslavia is looking for loans. These include $280,000,000 from the International bank. Approval could ease a lot of Yugoslavia's economic growing pains.

Tito also cleared the air a bit on a number of political points. He said Yugoslavia planned to close the Greek border "completely" — an action which would help his country develop friendly relations with the west (and would make the lot of the Communist guerrillas in Greece harder).

But Tito made it clear Yugoslavia never will abandon her claim for a slice of Austria's Carinthia or relinquish its voice in determining the future of independent Triese. On both those points he lined up against objectives of the west.

Tito was denounced as a Communist heretic on June 28, 1948. He was expelled from the Cominform and was accused by Russia and the Soviet satellites of pursuing "trotskyite" policies of nationalism.

To a world impressed by the postwar steamroller tactics of Russia's military minded diplomacy, there seemed at first glance but little chance that Tito could survive as chief of a Communist state. But he is still the head man in a lonely, independent Yugoslavia.

Restrictions Are Lifted

As the economic squeeze has tightened, Tito has looked to the west to find markets for Yugoslavia's exports of food, mineral ore and timber—and to collect dollars and English pounds to buy machinery and finished goods for home use.

The United States hestitated for nearly nine months while trying to decide whether the row between the Comniform and Tito was the real thing, and then removed most restrictions on American trade with Yugoslavia.

Tito's trade officials have negotiated a number of agreements with western European countries.

Naturally, this hasn't pleased the Russians. The Soviet press has blasted away with charges that Tito has been flirting with the "Capitalistic, imperialistic" western world and abandoning principles of Marxism.

Press Returns Blast

Tito's press has blasted back. It has retorted repeatedly that Russia and the satellite countries do not practice what they preach, that their deals with the west have been in far greater volume than those of Yugoslavia.

Through it all, Tito has professed his allegiance to the cause of Communism. His chief complaint has been that, as it works now, Russia wants to run the show and refuses other Communist countries "equal rights" in determining policy.

Put it down, perhaps, to the fact that Tito—lone among the Communist leaders of eastern eastern Europe—won his own way to power. The rest of them rode in on the backs of the Red army.

Clash Is Avoided

No wit looks as though Tito can keep his legs under him so far as trade goes. It probably will mean that Yugoslavs will have to keep their belts tight, but they are a tough race of experienced fighters with centuries of warfare for survival behind them. They are not frightened by the outcries of any of their immediate neighbors.

It's true that some of the people here do not like the administration. It's true, too, that some of them would like to be on close and friendly relations with Russia.

But it is also true that the Yugoslavs resent deeply the interference of their neighbors in their internal affairs.

Incidents have mounted all along the frontier. There have been shootings, on both sides. Any one of them, if picked up as a major affair, might develop into a general shooting fray and generate a war.

Tito, thus far, has steered clear of turning those incidents into war. His diplomatic aides have shunted them into diplomatic channels while protesting that the Cominform countries—not Yugoslavia — have violated the doctrines of Communist cooperation.

Abilene Youth Dies Despite Doctor's Massage Of Heart

ABILENE, July 30 (AP) — A husky Abilene youth died yesterday, several hours after a surgeon massaged his heart back into action.

Denver Austin, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Austin of Abilene, died at 2 p. m.

The youth was placed on the operating table about 8:15 p. m. yesterday for minor surgery. As he was being removed from the operating room afterwards, his heart stopped beating.

The surgeon slit open the boy's chest and massaged the heart. After two hours the heart was beating normally again.

However, the youth's heart failed again in a short while. Efforts of several doctors to revive him failed.

Young Austin was a member of the football and boxing teams of St. Joseph's academy here.

Deep Wildcat Is Scheduled In North Riley Field Of Gaines; Outpost To Spraberry-Deep Field In Dawson County Planned

Locations were staked over the past week for two wildcats on the South Plains, one slated as a deep exploration amidst proven shallow production.

The deep venture is to be drilled in the North Riley field of West-Central Gaines county, adjacent to production from the Clear Fork-Permian, by The Los Nietos company and Honolulu Oil corporation.

It will be the two firms' No. 2-B M. S. Doss, projected to 11,000 feet with rotary tools. The drillsite is 660 feet from west and 760 feet from south lines of the southeast quarter of section 360, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey, about nine miles southwest of Seminole.

The proposed depth is understood to be calculated for a Devonian exploration. Starting date has been set for August 2.

Garza Wildcat Slated

A 3,800-foot, rotary tool wildcat is to be started at once in Northwest Garza county, about 11½ miles northwest of Post, by Herman and George R. Brown of Houston as their No. 1 G. W. Bassinger.

It will be located 5,112.4 feet east, thence 972.2 feet south from the northwest corner of section 726, B. Hall survey, A-893.

Another outpost to production from the Spraberry sand of the Permian in the Spraberry-Deep field of East-Central Dawson county has been staked as Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 7-D A. J. Spraberry.

The drillsite is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 37, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey, about 17½ miles southeast of Lamesa.

With rotary tools, the project is starting immediately toward 7,200 feet.

Test Is Reported

It is an east offset to the same company's No. 6-D Spraberry, which is continuing to explore through the Spraberry after indicating production in the top of the horizon.

Last drillstem test reported for two hours at 7,040-7,240 feet, showing a fair blow of air and recovering 60 feet of drilling mud with a small amount of free oil. It was coring ahead from 7,295.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 38, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

Top of the Glorieta Permian has been picked at Slick-Moorman Oil company and C. W. Chancellor No. 1 Cloud, Northeast Lubbock county wildcat, three miles northwest of Idalou and 660 feet from east, 1,980 feet from south lines of section 22, block D, L&SV survey.

The top was called at 4,723 feet, on an elevation of 3,313 feet. Drilling was continuing from 4,830 feet in lime.

Second Produced Completed

Completion has been made on the second producer in the Flanagan-Clear Fork pool of South-Central Gaines county at Shell Oil company, Inc., No. 2 Hawkins, exploration one-half mile south of the Ellenburger discovery of the pool.

A potential gauge of 89.3 barrels of oil and 62.23 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ration of 470-1, was pumped in a 24-hour period. Gravity of the oil was 37.4 degrees.

Production was from open hole at 7,128-7,260 feet. Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey.

Magnolia Petroleum company was swabbing to test in Clear Fork at No. 2 Flanagan, exploration in the Flanagan area.

On total depth of 7,224 feet, with 7-inch casing set at 7,170 feet, operator swabbed 31 barrels of load oil in five hours and 59 barrels of new oil in 12 hours. A small blow of gas was present at the surface.

Packer was re-set at 7,225 feet and swabbing continued. After swabbing load, the well swabbed 12 barrels of new oil in three hours. Formation was acidized with 500 gallons.

The load was swabbed back and operator was swabbing ahead to test with 5,000 feet of oil in the hole.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 9, block A-23, psl survey.

At Shell No. 3 Hawkins drilling was continuing toward the Clear Fork. It was beyond 6,921 feet and in lime. Location of the well, twin to the field opener, is 560 feet from east and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey.

Operator was continuing toward the Ellenburger at Shell No. 1 Andrews at 10,203 feet in lime and chert. Location is five-eighths of a mile from the deep discovery.

It is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 2, block A-23, psl survey.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 Flanagan, east offset to the Ellenburger discovery of the Flanagan field in South - Central Gaines county about 12 miles south of Seminole, is awaiting test after seven-inch casing was set at 12,240 feet with 450 sacks of cement.

Operator will test open hole, then deepen before attempting completion. No test has been made in the Ellenburger. Total depth is 12,255 feet.

Fishing For Collars

Forrest Oil corporation and Anderson-Prichard Oil corporation were fishing for drill collars at their No. 1-A Parmer County, Southeast Gaines county wildcat, about 15 miles southeast of Seminole.

Total depth is 4,772 feet.

Location is 860 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of labor 12, league 317, Parmer CSL survey.

Drilling was continued at Samedan Oil corporation and Anderson Brothers No. 1-E-A Andrews, Ellenburger wildcat in the Robertson field of South-Central Gaines county, about 15 miles south of Seminole. It was penetrating lime at 4,657 feet.

Drillsite is 660 feet from north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 191, block A-24, psl survey.

Humble Oil & Refining company has spudded and set surface casing at its No. 5 Cunningham, outpost to the recently discovered Doss-Wolfcamp field in Southwest Gaines county, 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 4, block A-24, psl survey.

The company is waiting for cement to cure on 10¾-inch casing set at 272 feet with 210 sacks of cement. Total depth is 282 feet in red beds. Elevation is 3,665 feet.

With rotary tools, drilling will continue to 9,100 feet to attempt Wolfcamp production.

A south offset to the opener, Ralph Lowe No. 1-B Cunningham, was drilling under 4,900 feet in lime.

It is located 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 4, block A-24, psl survey.

Water Is Reported

An unidentified lime formation thought to be Pennsylvanian again has made water for Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Masten, wildcat projected to 12,000 feet in Southwest Cochran county, approximately 14 miles southwest of Morton.

The show was on a 75-minute drillstem test at 10,562-10,650 feet, recovering 1,000-foot water blanket, 450 feet of drilling mud and 6,965 feet of salty sulphur water.

The venture was drilling ahead below the test.

It is 660 feet from north and west lines of labor 18, league 135, Armstrong CSL survey.

A pumping unit was being installed for completion in the San Andres section of the Permian at The Atlantic Refining Company No. 1-C Masten, development well in the Levelland field of Southwest Cochran county.

After indicating production from open hole at 4,985-5,050 feet, which had been acidized with 10,000 gallons, operator drilled ahead to 5,093 feet to take in more pay section.

Test Zone Swabbed

A 1,500-gallon acid treatment was injected at 5,050-93 feet. That zone was swabbed three hours, producing 11½ barrels of fluid, which was 57 per cent oil and 43 per cent basic sediment and water.

This prospect is 694.4 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of labor 18, league 133, Armstrong CSL survey.

Drilling was continuing in search of the Dovonian at two explorations by Stanolind Oil & Gas company flanking the one-producer Landon-Devonian field in South-Central Cochran county.

The concern's No. 2 Holt, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 3, block L, psl survey, was under 11,294 feet in lime.

The other outpost, Stanolind No. 1 Grollman, was past 8,346 feet, penetrating lime.

It is 660 feet from west and 407 feet from south lines of section 4, block L, psl survey.

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware has spudded its No. 2 Hinson, one location due south offset to its Canyon-Pennsylvanian discovery, opening the Mound Lake field in Northeast Terry county, about eight miles northeast of Brownfield.

This prospect, 660 feet from south and west lines of the northwest quarter of section 91, block 4X, EL&RR survey, was making hole from 2,165 feet in redbeds.

In southwest Terry county, about 11 miles southwest of Brownfield, Union Oil Company of California was deepening its No. 1 N. A. Lindsey below 4,952 feet in lime.

This wildcat, projected to 5,000 feet, is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 11, block C-26, psl survey.

Sinclair Oil & Gas company was continuing toward the Northwest Borden county Ellenburger with four outposts to its No. 1 Williams, discovery 11 miles northwest of Gail.

The Company's No. 1 Pratt, about one mile west and slightly south of the discovery, was below 4,612, drilling lime and shale.

It is 660 feet from east and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 44, block 32, T-6-N, TP survey.

One and one-half miles to the north and slightly west of the strike, Sinclair No. 1 Reynolds was 3,885 feet in lime. Drillsite is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 33, block 32, T-6-N, EL&RR survey.

The concern's No. 1 Turner had reached a total depth of 3,650 feet, drilling lime and shale, and was waiting for cement to cure after 9⅝-inch casing had been set at 3,642 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 46, block 32, T-6-N, EL&RR survey.

Drilling on Sinclair No. 1 Bryan, outpost 1,320 feet to the north, was below 2,845 feet in shale and anhydrite. It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 40, block 32, T-6-N, TP survey.

Ryan, Hays & Burke officially have plugged and abandoned their No. 1 Miller, wildcat failure in the Northeast Borden county Ellenburger.

The venture originally was reported preparing to be plugged on total depth 8,500 feet in the deep zone, but orders were changed and more hole was made to 8,550 feet.

A two hour drillstem test was run on that depth with packer at 8,475 feet. Recovery was 450 feet of drilling mud and 8,175 feet of sulphur water.

The dry hole is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 418, block 97, H&TC survey.

Another Borden county failure developed over the past week is Seaboard No. 1 Jerry Clayton, South-Central Borden County wildcat, 662.5 feet from east and 660.3 feet from south lines of the southwest quarter of section 47, block 32, T-4-N, TP survey.

On a two and one-half hour drillstem test in the Canyon reef of the Pennsylvanian, topped at 8,085 feet, on an elevation of 2,460 feet, the venture recovered 60 feet of gas cut mud, 335 feet of clean oil and 3,003 feet of salt water from the section at 8,080-8,110 feet. It was deepened to 8,210 feet and left on that depth.

This dry hole is approximately five miles east of the Good field, where two flankers were being deepened toward the Canyon by Seaboard and Pan American Production company.

The two companies' No. 4 Good, 780 feet from north and 1,980.1 feet from west lines of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey, was making hole from 5,252 feet in shale.

Where Good Gas Service BEGINS

Two New Gas Wells Being Drilled

Before natural gas can be started on its journey to your home or business, wells must be drilled into the gas-bearing strata far beneath the surface of the earth.

Two additional gas wells to serve our customers are now being drilled. In the photograph at the left you see the tall steel derrick and some of the ponderous machinery—worth $100,000 or more—at work on one of these wells.

When these wells are completed, we will build gathering lines to connect them into our transmission network. Thus, still more of nature's perfect fuel will be available to West Texas Gas Company's customers.

Location:

"Miles from Nowhere"

As the crow flies these wells are only three miles from our Panhandle Gas Field Portable Compressor Unit, near Fritch, Texas.

But since these wells are on the opposite side of the treacherous Canadian River, field men must almost daily travel 124 miles round trip to maintain and operate the wells.

Man Jailed In Girl's Slaying

PRESTONSBURG, Ky., July 30 (AP)—A 26-year-old carnival worker was held in an undisclosed jail today charged with murder in one of eastern Kentucky's most baffling slayings.

State police detective Arch Thompson said an eight page statement from a 15-year-old youth implicated William (Bill) Gamble, of near Whitesburg, in Letcher county, Ky., in the slaying of Muriel Baldridge.

The body of the 17-year-old Prestonsburg high school cheerleader was found June 28th under a bridge near her home. Police Judge Joseph D. Harkins, jr., issued the murder warrant.

Thompson said Olen Collins of Duco, Magoffin, county, claimed to have been with Gamble and the girl when she was fatally beaten on the head last June 27. Collins was detained here as a material witness.

The boy was quoted as saying the death weapon was a 14-inch screwdriver.

Arrested on a charge of automobile larceny in Abingdon, Va., several days ago while working with a carnival, Gamble was extradited to Hazard, Perry county, then spirited away by state police to an undisclosed jail.

The Baldridge girl was last seen alive about 10 o'clock on the night of June 27th after leaving three girl friends with whom she had attended a carnival for which Gamble worked.

Elmer The Bull, Trapped In Culvert For Three Weeks, Loses Fight For Recovery

SWOOPE, Va., July 30 (AP)—Folks in this northern Virginia community were downcast today. Elmer the bull is dead.

For a week they had rooted for Elmer in his fight for recovery from the exposure he suffered when he was trapped for 21 days in a railroad culvert pipe.

For those 21 days Elmer stood up to his shanks in water. Railroad workers came along last week and pulled him out. The black angus had shrunk to a mere shadow of himself. Those three weeks had sloughed off 600 pounds.

Elmer died last night after a hearty meal of all the things that were supposed to make him well.

"He'd gained back 150 pounds," said the wife of Elmer's modest owner who consistently declined the use of his name in Elmer's story.

No expense had been spared on Elmer's convalescent diet. Vitamins, eggs, milk, and finally oats were his as body builders.

Elmer appeared to like the diet fine. And fan mail attested folks' interest in his progress toward a normal 900-pounds.

Pioneer Air Lines To Celebrate Its Fourth Anniversary Monday; Growth Of Lines Cited

Pioneer Air Lines will celebrate its fourth anniversary of the inauguration of air service on Monday, Gen. Robert J. Smith, company president, has announced.

In honor of the occasion all passengers on the company's planes Monday will be presented small cakes with four candles to celebrate the anniversary.

Serves 25 Cities

The company inaugurated services over a 683-mile system from Houston to Amarillo via Austin, San Angelo, Abilene and Lubbock four years ago.

Today Pioneer serves 25 Texas and New Mexico cities over 2,200 system miles. During the past four years, Pioneer has flown more than 63,000,000 revenue passenger miles, carrying more than 235,000 persons safely to their destinations, Gen. Smith pointed out in his anniversary statement.

Pioneer started operations with three Lockheed aircraft and today the company has 11 DC-3 luxury liners.

Pioneer flew 4,452 persons to their destinations in 1945; then jumped to 20,687 passengers in 1946. In 1947, some 62,698 persons were carried, and in 1948, 93,855 passengers were transported. More than 55,000 passengers were carried the first seven months of 1949.

First Feeder Line

Pioneer was the nation's first feeder or community air line to inaugurate services, after a temporary certificate of operations was granted by the Civil Aeronautics Board. That certificate is now before the CAB for renewal for an additional five years.

Smith pointed out that Pioneer had done away with downtown ticket offices, added simplified tickets, originated a no-deposit charge plan and many other innovations to accommodate the public. Two and three minute intermediate stops were scheduled to provide a faster and more comfortable service.

New Mexico Cities Added

The company operated over the 683-mile route from August 1, 1945, to February 19, 1947, when service was extended to 1,400 miles and 11 new cities added. In May, 1948, service was started to Albuquerque, New Mexico, via Santa Fe, Las Vegas, Tucumcari, and Clovis and on June 1, service was inaugurated from Amarillo to El Paso via Clovis and Roswell, adding another 770 miles of system for a total of 2,200 route miles.

"We have grown from four flights daily to 22 flights daily; from 683 miles to 2,200 miles; from six cities to 25 cities; from carrying a thousand passengers monthly; from 69 to 450 employes, but we still are a small, family organization," Gen. Smith declared.

He pointed out that of the 450 employes, 84.5 per cent of the men were veterans of World War II and that more than 100 were former Air Force pilots.

Brownwood Grand Jury Indicts Man On Eight Swindling Counts

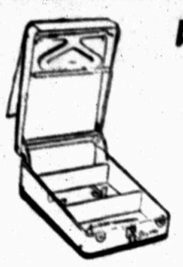

BROWNWOOD, July 30 (AP)—Eight indictments charging swindling were returned today against V. T. Milhollon, accusing him of obtaining $3,799 from three Brown county banks illegally.

Milhollon was accused of obtaining $1,531.60 from the First National Bank of Brownwood, $1,443.05 from the Citizens National bank here and $8,220.50 from the Blanket, Tex., State bank, by mortgaging cattle which he did not own.

MALES SEEM TO BE SUCKERS TOO

Interior Department Thrown Into Lonely Hearts Business

BY MARTHA KEARNEY
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 30—The Interior department, which runs a very respectable wildlife service, is a bit appalled today to find itself catapulted into the lonely hearts business.

What's more, department officials (male) scuff their toes and admit shamefacedly that men seem to be bigger suckers for the lonely hearts racket than women.

At least they are when they suffer from the delusion that they can get themselves government-approved, prime grade wives for the nominal cost of a three-cent stamp.

Silent Treatment Tried

The department, meanwhile, is conspicuously ignoring the mate-by-mail correspondence in the hope that if it doesn't look, the nuisance will go away.

The whole thing started when a group of Whittier, Calif., women wrote the department to ask where in the United States and its territories they would be most likely to find "decent men" suffering from a woman shortage.

Their letter came to the desk of a courtly, white-haired West Virginian named Floyd Dotson, chief clerk of the Interior department, who gulped a few times and framed a politely written brush-off for the girls.

Things got back to normal for a few days then and Mr. Dotson returned to his uncomplicated, legally-constituted duties.

Men Start Writing

Before long, however, his neat desk was littered with anticipatory letters from men all over the United States who allowed as how they would like to get in touch with women who would appreciate kind treatment.

One letter came from a gentleman of 78-summers who admitted that he had nothing but his social security allotment to offer but said he was more than willing to share it with the right girl.

All of the men gave estimates of their financial situation and confided that the women in their own home towns were more interested in their worldly goods than in their own sweet selves.

Limit To Everything

Mr. Dotson, his blue eyes reflecting bewilderment, commented:

"With all of this lonely hearts business in New York and in Virginia you would think these people would have better sense.

"The Interior department can't go around acting as a marriage broker.

"We answered the ladies' letter and told them that, but we're just not going to answer these other ones. After all, we feel a taxpayer deserves an answer when he writes to us but we don't feel that we can waste other taxpayers' money on postage for things like this."

Marriages, obviously, are made in heaven and not in the Interior department's morning mail.

COLLEAGUES IN HOUSE COMPLETELY BAFFLED

Pretty Rep. Katharine St. George (R) N. Y., who looks more like a post-debutante than a two-time grandmother, has her colleagues in the House of Representative baffled.

The congressmen have been most diligent recently, sticking close to their offices on the hill. Only a few have the courage to admit that they are influenced by the Arctic air-conditioning there.

Almost any excuse will go to delay the moment when they have to go home at night to their sweltering apartments or houses.

Mrs. St. George, however, was lucky enough to get herself an air-conditioned apartment when she came to the capital three years ago.

But only recently she electrified her colleagues by saying casually that she had ordered the air-conditioning turned off. Her colleagues, clutching at their wilted collars, demanded to know why.

SEN. MARGARET SMITH IS PIONEERING AGAIN

Gray-haired, friendly, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R) Maine, the only woman now serving in the United States Senate, has proved herself a congressional pioneer again.

Sen. Smith is the first member of either house of Congress to have a television set installed in her office at the capitol.

The lady, who is fortunately of a friendly and sociable disposition, finds that she has more of her colleagues visiting her these days in the Senate office building than any other member of Congress.

Like any owner of a television set, she has discovered that there is nothing like a 10-inch screen to attract friends she never knew she had.

Lubbock Reservists Back In New Orleans After 14-Day Cruise

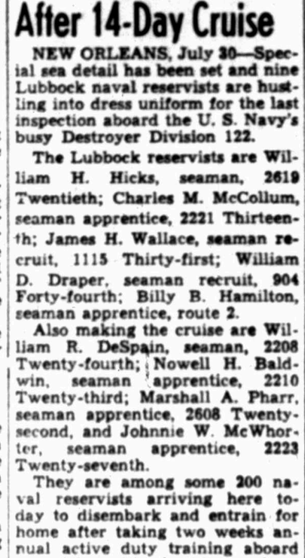

NEW ORLEANS, July 30—Special sea detail has been set and nine Lubbock naval reservists are hustling into dress uniform for the last inspection aboard the U. S. Navy's busy Destroyer Division 122.

The Lubbock reservists are William H. Hicks, seaman, 2619 Twentieth; Charles M. McCollum, seaman apprentice, 2221 Thirteenth; James H. Wallace, seaman recruit, 1115 Thirty-first; William D. Draper, seaman recruit, 904 Forty-fourth; Billy B. Hamilton, seaman apprentice, route 2.

Also making the cruise are William R. DeSpain, seaman, 2208 Twenty-fourth; Nowell H. Baldwin, seaman apprentice, 2210 Twenty-third; Marshall A. Pharr, seaman apprentice, 2608 Twenty-second, and Johnnie W. McWhorter, seaman apprentice, 2223 Twenty-seventh.

The ships, including the USS Purdy, USS Hyman, USS Bristol and USS Beatty, left here July 18 for a training cruise in the Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico. Three days liberty in the Cuban ports came as a rest period after manning battle stations for gunnery drills and anti-submarine maneuvers, during most of the cruise.

POPULATION OF 500 GIRLS IS PLAN FOR THE FUTURE

Huge Expansion Program For Girlstown Is Founder's Goal

By EDWARD WELSH
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

WHITEFACE, July 30—Miss Amelia Anthony, founder and director of Girlstown, has set her goal high. And she has well-made plans to achieve her goal for underprivileged girls.

Two weeks ago Miss Anthony moved to the new and permanent Girlstown, eight miles south of Whiteface. The site is a gift of T. B. Duggan, Lubbock, and encompasses some 1,400 acres of fine grassland. With Miss Anthony came the nine girls who are currently resident of Girlstown and who were with her at the original location at Buffalo Gap.

Already Miss Anthony sees the day when Girlstown will be populated by at least 500 girls and the project self-supporting. This achievement from the humble start in Taylor county on March 13 will not take place overnight, Miss Anthony explains.

"When we have our 10th anniversary on March 13, 1959, I believe our goal and objective will have been reached," the Girlstown founder states.

At the present time the ranch-house group included three principal building. One is used for a dormintory to house the girls. One is home for Miss Anthony and her assistant Helena Clark, formerly of Abilene. The third is a combination kitchen, dining room and parlor.

Each Girl Takes Part

"Our whole aim is to provide a real satisfying home life for girls who might otherwise never have this experience," Miss Anthony said. "We expect each of the girls to take a part in the daily routine of preparing the meals and housekeeping and learn to live happily with each other."

Miss Anthony explained that Girlstown did not intend to isolate the girls from the surrounding area. It is planned that the girls of school age will attend the Whiteface Consolidated School and mingle freely with the people in the area. They will attend the churches in Whiteface also, she says.

At the present time Mrs. M. H. Power, who lives on an adjoining ranch, is supervisor of the housekeeping and cooking. There are two cows and about 30 chickens to furnish fresh milk and eggs. A garden is being prepared for the planting of fall vegetables.

Broad Plans Mapped

The girls share in all the household duties, the care of the livestock and poultry, and the garden. They will also learn to sew and in general be well prepared to become housewives.

Miss Anthony's broad plans include the development of a herd of beef cattle, dairy cattle and a herd of sheep to make the project self-sustaining. She says they will rely on no charities or other welfare agencies for their support. Voluntary contributions will be accepted to help carry on the work which Miss Anthony started with her own money and energy.

Another part of the plan is an extensive building program, some of which will start within a few weeks. It will include a larger residence, a large barn and other housing units.

Share With Public

Sharing Girlstown with the public is Miss Anthony's chief desire. "We want people to feel that it is their project as well as ours. We want them to visit us often and act as a big advisory committee. As time goes on we want to expand our program so that we can give monthly presentations to the public showing what we are doing and the progress we are making in our work."

Miss Anthony says she has application from scores of "worthy people who wish to place a girl in Girlstown. These come from 47 states, she says. Only Georgia is missing in the list of applicants. At least 25 of the applications have come from the immediate area since news of the move from Buffalo Gap was published.

The ages of the nine girls now living in Girlstown range from one year and eight months upward to 15 years. Three of the girls are identical triplets. All nine, together with Misses Anthony and Clark, and Mrs. Powers, make up one big happy family to share in the pleasures as well as the chores of their daily lives.

Idea Has Grown

Miss Anthony was born in Menard and has engaged in social work for a number of years. The idea for Girlstown became dominant in her mind and she has directed all of her efforts toward achieving her idea. It blossomed in March and has grown rapidly since that time.

Miss Clark comes from her home in Ft. Worth by way of Abilene where she was connected with Radio Station KRBC. She will instruct in music and dramatics as well as assist Miss Anthony in the administration of Girlstown.

"We know that we will never achieve our aim by wishing. It will take a lot of hard work and the cooperation of the public," Miss Anthony asserts. "We intend to work hard and we have already had wonderful support from the public. However, if our ambitions needed any sort of stimulant we can find it every day in the pathetic applications which come to us in the mail. We won't fail."

Insurance Group Will Hear Brown

Paul H. Brown, fire insurance commissioner of Texas and former secretary of state, will be speaker at a meeting of Lubbock Insurance Exchange in Hilton hotel ballroom at 12:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, it was announced Saturday.

Mr. Brown's appearance here is expected to create wide interest among the insurance-buying public as well as the insurance men themselves, officers of the exchange said.

The public is invited to attend the luncheon. Tickets for lunch are available through A. C. Sanders, whose office is at Nineteenth and Ave. M., at $1.50 each.

Travels By Air

Brown will arrive on a Pioneer airliner at 11:39 o'clock Thursday morning and plans to return to Austin on an afternoon flight.

The subject of his talk was left wide open, said Marion Sanford, who was instrumental in getting Mr. Brown to speak here in the first such talk known of.

Insurance men speculated, however, that he will touch up on the rtcent "$100 deductible" clause inserted into state property insurance policies, one of the most controversial measures taken by the insurance commission in recent years.

Is University Graduate

It is also expected that he will give those attending the luncheon to ask questions concerning the activities of the insurance commission.

Born Nov. 29, 1891, at Mount Vernon, Mo., Mr. Brown is a graduate of Texas university law school, having practiced at Karnes City and Harlingen. He served in both world wars, having been a first lieutenant in the first war and a full colonel in the second war.

He was appointed Secretary of State of Texas by the late Gov. Beauford H. Jester on Jan. 28, 1947, and served in that capacity until Jan. 20, 1949. He was appointed fire insurance commissioner of Texas by Jester on March 3, 1949.

Russia Denounces British Charge Of Slave Labor Camps

LONDON, July 30 (AP) — The Moscow radio lashed back today at recent British comment on labor conditions in Russia with charges that "slave labor exists in capitalist countries."

The British delegate to the United Nations economic and social council made public in Geneva, Switzerland, July 22 documents he claimed prove forced labor is an established legal policy of the Soviet government.

Britain officially expressed the belief about 10,000,000 Russians, or 10 per cent of the country's working population, are in forced labor camps.

Move Denounced

The economic and social council is investigating alleged Russian slave labor under an American motion of March 7 which calls for a U.N. commission to probe conditions inside Russia. The USSR denounced the move as a British and American plot to get spies into her territory.

Today's Moscow broadcast declared that "the Soviet system corrects criminals, while the capitalist penal system destroys them completely."

The broadcast accused the British foreign office of "incredible destortions of the very nature and essence of the Soviet labor reformative policy."

It said the Russian code, made public by the British, concerns a strictly limited category of lawbreakers doing work intended to reform them and that they are well treated. The commentator said they work eight hours a day for good pay.

WORKS OVERTIME

When Justice Hilbery, Reading, England, was thanked by an attorney for sitting until teatime on a Saturday to finish a case, he remarked: "Judges do not necessarily regard themselves as entitled to a five-day week — they seldom get it anyway."

OPAL DIXON

THE QUESTION

What makes a person popular with his co-workers?

THE ANSWERS

DR. J. J. WILLINGHAM, 2508 Thirty-third, head professor of dairy manufacturing at Texas Technological college: "I think that it is the ability to give and take and compromise. You very seldom find a person who has to have his way all the time who is popular. I think the ability to cooperate with other people is the basic factor; to work with other people and see their point of view."

MISS SUE CASSLE, 1613 Tenth, PBX part-time operator at Montgomery Ward & Co.: "To always be friendly and cooperate with them. Don't ask anyone to do more for you than you are willing to do for them."

FRED HINSON, 1513 Twenty-ninth, chief clerk at Southwestern Public Service Co.: "I think cooperation would be the main thing; the ability to see both sides of a question; being friendly and understanding their home conditions as well as their working conditions."

SAMMIE EDNEY, 1707 King's Place, service manager at McWhorter's: "The sort of disposition he has toward everything; the way he treats the people he works with and the public in general and his attitude toward everything; the cheerful way he goes about his work and doesn't gripe about it. Doing your job cheerfully is a big part of it."

MISS KATHRYNE (Kitty) WITTY, Texas Tech Women's Dormitory No. 3, senior textile engineering student from Hamilton and student assistant in the office of dean of engineering: "I would say an agreeable personality and the desire to do the best you can at any job that you are given. Interest and willingness to do your part in anything that the job entails are necessary to get along with your fellow workers."

MRS. TRAVIS MARTIN, 2107 Twenty-seventh, saleslady at Sears Roebuck & Co.: "Carrying his share of the load, having a pleasant disposition and having a nice personality. One shouldn't have a grudge against any of his co-workers and should always carry a smile."

Oil Producers Hope For Early Settlement Of Industry's Ills

BY MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, July 30—Oilmen are hopeful developments in August will soothe the industry's ailments.

Some believe progress made during the month will determine whether they have won their fight against general reductions in crude oil prices.

Much interest will center late in the month on action taken by state regulatory bodies in determining crude production allowables for September.

Predictions are becoming more numerous of sharp increases in demand during the last three months of the year, thus permitting at least partial recovery from sharp cutbacks in domestic crude production that began last January.

September allowables probably will give the first definite indication.

Washington also will be watched closely during the month, for two reasons:

1. Independent producers are confident they are making progress in their battle against foreign crude oil imports.

2. Congressional leaders say they will press for quick action on the controversial tidelands ownership compromise proposal.

Both problems have been blamed for holding up industry progress—imports hindering domestic economy and the tidelands question slowing development of reserves in the Gulf of Mexico.

No one seems optimistic enough to predict Congress in August will take action to curtail imports but officials of the Independent Petroleum Association of America believe chances of ultimate passage are improving.

American Petroleum Institute reports domestic production of crude oil has declined approximately 900,000 barrels daily since its post-war peak last December.

Except for production from new wells, little change in domestic production can be expected in August.

Texas' allowable will remain the same as in July, with actual production approximating 1,800,000 barrels daily compared to about 2,500,000 in December.

Only minor changes have been ordered by the state regulatory agencies in Oklahoma, Louisiana and Kansas.

The Oil and Gas Journal this week forecast that domestic crude production in the last three months of the year will jump to 5,500,000 barrels daily, compared to 4,990,000 for the April-May-June period.

This fourth quarter output, the industry publication said, will be 8.9 per cent above the same period last year.

The Oil and Gas Journal also predicted a 10 per cent increase in demand for all petroleum products during the next few months as compared with the same period last year.

Barbara Stanwyck Doesn't Think Of Herself As A Star

By PATRICIA CLARY

HOLLYWOOD, July 30—Barbara Stanwyck is a "star" to Hollywood and the rest of the movie-going world, but to herself she's just "a working woman."

"I'm not the fancy type," she said. "Basically I'm just a career woman. Instead of following a job as a model, salesgirl, secretary, librarian or newspaper woman, I earn my living acting."

She's glad it's a successful living, but she doesn't consider it anything for people to get excited about.

"I don't think of myself as a 'star'," she said. "That's too frou-frou for me. It sounds impressive, but if you're a 'star,' you're apt to take yourself too seriously."

Miss Stanwyck, whose current job is with John Lund in Paramount's "The Lie," says she long ago decided that she'd always be a "job holder."

Hoped for Best

"Of course, I hoped for the best of everything and all the success I could get," she said. "But I hope I never overlook the fundamentals of holding a job, or I can kiss everything else a fast goodbye."

The fundamentals, she said, for holding a job as a star or a secretary, are being on time, being conscientious and doing what you are told.

"I just hope to be practical about the day's work," she said. "You make it tough for everyone else, as well as yourself, by showing up on the job not ready to do it."

Miss Stanwyck's co-workers always speak of her promptness, her careful memorizing of her lines and her ability to take direction.

"I simply try to work to the best of my ability," she said. "I believe that's the rule of succeeding at any job.

"It's as simple as that. If I ever get to thinking of myself as a 'star'—well, that will be bad. I might get ideas."

Gold, Silver And Sequins To Be Used

Colorful, Dazzling Designs Keynote Fall Shoe Fashions

By MARGARET WEIL
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 30—A woman will have to have pep in her step to keep up with fashion this fall.

Shoe designers are planning a season in which feet will dazzle with gold and silver in the sunlight and with sequins and rhinestones by the light of the moon.

David Nevins, well-known designer for the well-heeled set, said in New York today:

Nevins predicted a footwear future of catch-eye colors, fancy fabrics and dazzling details.

The color panorama will range from the never-die black and browns to midnight blue and emerald green. But red will overshadow them all.

Velvet Coming Back

"Red," said Nevins, "will be the most important newcomer around. And it won't be the conventional red that splashes in and out every spring."

Instead, it will be a rich, queenly red called "cordovan." The shade borders on mulberry and will blend with and complement the tweeds slated to be high style.

The most dramatic news in shoes, however, will be black velvet. The plush fabric will stage a sudden revival after 20 years on the shelf. And designers are planning a royal "welcome back."

Nevins predicts that black velvet will be played up in every type of shoe from sporty flats to peak-heeled dancing slippers.

"In fact," he said, "black velet will be a vogue in itself."

Along with it, heavily-stiched calf, alligator and lizzard will score with the smart-soled set. But, even these old-time suit-and-coat favorites will have a new twist.

New Fabric Used

Calf will be two-toned with suede, reptile with calf, and patent leather with reptile. The combination will not only be style-worthy, but practical, too. It will bring forbidding price tags in step with popular lines.

Trimmings will also help women put their best foot forward this fall. Gold and silver nailheads will sparkle in casual wear. Evening slippers will be studded with tiny rhinestones and sequins. And, there will be novel iridescent details.

A new fabric—iridescent faille—will step out for the first time. The fabric resembles brocade and will be featured on evening sandals. The most pbpular shades will be black shot with gold and white with silver.

Even the old-fashioned buckle will be used in new-frangled ways. Sometimes, it will be fashioned out of the same fabric as the shoe. But more often, it will glitter in silver, gold and multi-colored rhinestones.

Open-Toed Shoes Out

Buckles will also be featured on a novel Chinese-style slipper with a pointed toe and gold embossing.

But while shoes will shine, they will also be toned down.

To conform with the tailored look in clothes, heels will be modified, toes closed in, and shapes boxed out.

The only exception, according to Nevins, will be evening shoes. They will be "nude."

"If a woman goes dancing in her bare feet, she'll be high-style," he laughed. "As far as shoes are concerned, she won't be able to find anything around with much more than a slip of a strap and a sole."

But even "covered up" casual shoes will have a dressy look.

Engagement Of FDR To Blonde New York Socialite Revealed

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., (D-NY) is engaged to marry Suzanne Perrin, blonde 28-year-old New York socialite.

It will be the second marriage for Roosevelt, 34, and the first for Miss Perrin.

She is a graduate of Westover school, Middlebury, Conn. She served two years during the war as a member of the Marine corps women's reserve.

Announced By Mother

The engagement was announced yesterday by her mother, Mrs. Lee James Perrin.

Roosevelt, third son of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and the late President, has two children, Franklin D., III, 10, and Christopher, 7, by his first marriage to the former Ethel Du Pont. They were divorced last May.

No Date Revealed

Reached at his law offices yesterday, Roosevelt declined to give a wedding date, but it was reported the ceremony has been tentatively set for sometime next month.

Roosevelt, a graduate of Harvard university and the University of Virginia law school, served in the Navy during the war. He was elected to Congress last May from New York's 20th district to fill the seat vacated by the death of Sol Bloom.

Miss Perrin's father, the late Lee J. Perrin, was a New York attorney and chairman of the board of directors of CIBA Pharmaceutical Products corporation, of Summit, N. J.

Mexico's Federal District reports plans to build 15 new schools.

OLD GOLDEN RULE DAYS

NATICK, Mass. (U.P.)—Sentimental citizens paid $1 each for 200 desks in the old Lincoln School, which was built in 1862 and will be razed soon. The buyers searched through the 240 desks up for sale until they found one on which they had carved their initials as school children.

Roz Russell Can't Escape Being Professional Girl

By BOB THOMAS
AP Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, July 30—Rosalind Russell, the public's idea of the professional woman, is "back behind the desk again."

She has been a doctor, lawyer, psychiatrist, advertising executive and newspaperwoman on the screen already. Now she's a college dean in "Woman of Distinction."

"Here I am again," she told me. "I'm always behind a desk lifting phones and inter-office speakers, saying, 'send Johnson in to see me—tell Miss Frobsher to get that story in Philadelphia—come in for dictation."

A few years ago her friends kept telling her: "No, Roz, you're not playing another executive, are you?" So she gave up playing professional women for straight dramatic roles.

"That's when I made a mistake," she said. "Too often in Hollywood we listen to the mistaken advice of friends when we should listen to the public. The public never told me it was tired of my professional roles."

After a few films that won her dramatic but no box-office honors, Roz returned to the professional woman. Her only complaint is that there's no change of pace.

"All these gals talk the same," she said. "I can't talk slowly because I'm the type that gives orders. And the wardrobe is always the same: Two suits, a hostess gown and a negligee.

Real Story Tragic

"The negligee comes in the seventh reel when I break down and cry, 'I'm sorry for what I did'."

The actress tries to vary the wardrobe with things she uses as props. In "His Girl Friday" it was a floppy hat she wore at all angles. In "Woman of Distinction" it's a large handbag with which she whacks Ray Milland.

Roz said she has known and studied many professional women, particularly department store executives.

"Many of them are tragic figures. They often have husbands who are sick or poor. They always claim they are going to quit after the next sale. But they never do.

"Some day I will do the real story of the professional woman. It will be a tragedy."

I supplied her the title for the epic: "Death of a Saleswoman."

Judge Medina Determined Reds' Trial Won't Be Endurance Test

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina, seeking to speed up the Red conspiracy trial, says he wants to hear no more testimony about "peripheral matters," such as negro problems.

"I tell you I'm not going to have any more evidence on what the party did about veterans, housewives or youth," the judge said yesterday. "We've had that over and over."

Medina made the assertion in cutting off testimony of Mrs. Yolandi Hall, a defense witness, as she started to tell about party teachings concerning negro problems.

His ruling brought heated protests from defense attorneys.

Motion Denied

Eugene Dennis, a defendant acting as his own lawyer, moved for a mistrial, saying the judge's ruling "makes it utterly impossible for us to get a fair trial."

"Motion denied," snapped Medina.

"I'm trying to give every consideration to both sides and desire to permit sufficient evidence to make the defendants' position clear," the judge added, "but I'm quite determined this trial shall not become an endurance contest."

The trial in which 11 top Red leaders are accused of conspiring to advocate forcible overthrow of the government, has been going on six and a half months.

The defense goes into its 41st day Monday.

Teachings Related

Mrs. Hall, Chicago party member, is the tenth defense witness. Most of her testimony yesterday centered on what was taught at a Communist party school in Chicago in 1945.

Denying government evidence that violent revolution had been taught at the school, she said that principles laid down there called for "a higher form of democracy."

She quoted the school instructor as saying the United States is ruled by a "minority capitalist class" and that the Communists seek to gain by peaceful means full expression for the majority.

When she began speaking of party aims concerning negroes, Medina stopped her, saying this was a "peripheral matter" and "not part of the charge at all."

Previous defense testimony has been that the party seeks to better conditions for negroes, labor, veterans, youth and minority in general.

NO NIGHT TO HOWL

SMITH'S CREEK, Mich. (U.P.) — Neal Lambers, proprietor of a general store, decided to give his faithful dog "a night off to howl." For more than a year the watchdog had remained in the store overnight. Lambert failed to leave him in the store for one night and thieves took a $125 cash register and $8 in change.

The Weather's Fine Above Heads Of Masses

Tall Gals Have Advantage, Six-Foot Beauty Claims

EDITOR'S NOTE—How does it feel for a pretty young girl to be taller than most men she dates? Take it from Miss Helen Lukacs, 22, of Chicago — it's fun. Miss Lukacs is in New York attending the third annual convention of the American Affiliation of Tall clubs in the United States and has been named the convention's beauty queen.

To qualify for these clubs, members —male or female—must be six feet tall, or more. Miss Lukacs, who is just six feet, is a green-eyed brunette.

BY HELEN LUKACS
1949 Beauty Queen Of The American Affiliation Of Tall Girls
(Written For INS)

NEW YORK, July 30—It's great to be tall. People in the lower hemisphere don't known what they're missing. Why—everywhere I go, everyone looks up to me!

Being tall even landed me my job. Last January I walked into the "Tall Timbers shop" in Chicago. Did they need a tall girl? They just took one long, long look at me and gasped. There weren't any openings for salesgirls either —normal size.

The taller I am, the better I like it. I wear the highest heels, the slinkiest skirts, the biggest hats. It pays off.

Weather Fine

Take parades. People turn around and gape at me. They miss the show, but I see everything that goes on — right over their heads.

And theaters. Someone never fails to ask me to take off my hat. I just turn around and say: "sorry, that's not my hat—it's my head!"

Perfect strangers call me "shorty" and "slats" and ask: "How's the weather up there?" I tell them it's fine.

And it is—at least ten degrees cooler.

Men love to be seen with tall girls. It makes them feel important. Even the shortest men love it, but six feet two's my limit. I tell the short men to pick on someone their own size.

Not that I have anything against them. Some of my best friends are short. But I'd rather look up to my man than have him look up to me.

Never Fits Beds

I do have a hard time getting around.. On buses, there's never enough room for my legs. I have to drape them into the aisles and everyone trips over me.

And beds! I never fit. Either my feet stick out or I sleep diagonally.

Once I went to Mount Vernon and saw the bed George Washington slept in. First thing I thought when I saw that bed was: "Golly! poor George!"

I have to make most of my own clothes too. I have to look nice because everybody looks. People can't miss me.

I came by my height naturally. Everyone in my family's tall. My dad and two of my brothers are way over six feet. My youngest brother hasn't quite made the grade, but he's just 21—give him time, he'll get there.

Some average-sized girls feel sorry for me. I just feel sorry right back. Give her an inch. I say to myself, and she could go a mile.

A tall gal gets up in the world.

THIEVES BIG-HEARTED

CHICAGO (U.P.) — A visit from two robbers cost Mrs. Bertha Bogetka $110 from the till in her tavern but her customers didn't mind. Before they left, the robbers ordered Mrs. Bogetka "to buy a drink on the house."

Man Suspected Of Slaying His Wife

LOS ANGELES, July 30. (AP) — Bennett Rickard, 35-year-old machinist, is held today on suspicion of murdering his wife while driving down a busy street.

Sheriff's Lt. Vic England said Donna Vergene Rickard, 29, estranged from her husband for several months, was stabbed 12 times in the head, neck and back with a butcher knife. Her body was found on the front seat next to Rickard after the car crashed into a parked truck, the officer said.

Rickard said he was taking his wife home from work when he suddenly "blacked out." He admitted owning the knife, England said.

Towns In Indiana Ban All Meetings

MUNCIE, Ind., July 30 (AP) — Health authorities clamped down today in Muncie and Delaware county, banning all public gatherings because of a poliomyelitis epidemic.

The orders apply "during the duration of the epidemic and until further orders are issued."

There have been 25 polio deaths in Indiana and 221 cases have been reported. Of these, 28 cases were in Delaware county. Twenty-two victims are in Muncie hospitals, 15 from the city, two from the county and the other five from other counties.

Portland, 30 miles northeast of Muncie, also has a ban against public meetings. It is in the Indiana area hardest hit and is the only other city in which meetings are forbidden.

Texas Youth Gets Brother's Medals, Then Joins Marines

DALLAS, July 30 (AP) — Donald H. Williams, 18, walked into the Marine office in Dallas today to pick up his brother's medals. He got the medals all right, but the Marines got him.

Young Williams signed up for a one-year hitch while he was in the office.

He hurried back to his home at Mesquite, Tex., to deliver the two medals his brother, Oliver C., had won during 34 months service with the Marines in World War II. Then he rushed back to Dallas to take a night train to San Diego for Marine training there.

WHY HESITATE?

Action Needed Now

THE NEED for the 190 miles of farm to market roads in South Plains counties included in the program announced the other day by State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer is too apparent for discussion.

In fact, agreement is general, even in the Sate Highway department, that a great deal more such construction can be justified and will have to be done eventlly. The program, however, would be a splendid start.

But residents of the 17 counties of this area included in the program must remember that the construction listed by Mr. Greer is dependent upon the provision of right-of-way for the proposed roads.

The sooner the governing bodies of the individual countries take steps to provide them, the surer they will be of the needed roads. Compliance with the condition is likely to be difficult in some instances. If the difficulties result in too much delay, some allocation almost certainly will be transferred to other counties. The demand for such roads is much greater than can be supplied within the next few years.

South Plains residents do not want to lose a mile of the roads included in the program announced by Mr. Greer. They, therefore, cannot procrastinate in the attempt to provide the required rights-of-way.

UN Criticisms

OBJECTIONS of the United Nations to charges and criticisms described by its spokesman as "irresponsible and unfounded" are understandable. The certainty that some criticisms of the past and future have been or will be false and unjust must be acknowledged.

But it is difficult to see what the UN can do about such things except, perhaps, file protests, as was done recently after a witness before the Senate Judiciary committee had characterized UN Secretary-General Lie as a tool of the Soviet Union.

The fact that charges often may be false, and criticism unjust, isn't going to secure immunity for the UN from the expressions of opinions of the organization either by governments or individuals.

The UN personnel will be happier if it becomes reconciled to this certainty, because it is inconceivable that the organization ever will be given the power to compel member nations to gag critics.

About all the UN can do is to try to answer false charges. It never is likely to have the power to silence them, we hope!

Arctic Insurance

THE WISDOM and desirability of establishing air refueling bases deep in the Arctic, as discussed in a recent U. S. Air force report, seem too obvious to allow room for argument.

Certain facts applicable to the case are indisputable.

The shortest distance from Russia to the most vital spots in the United States is across the Polar regions. The United States has planes capable of making the round-trip, non-stop, with full bomb loads. Russia undoubtedly has them, too, or will have them. As a matter of fact, the Soviet had some pretty fair planes years ago, when an entire formation made a non-stop flight across the Arctic to our Pacific coast on a "goodwill" mission.

Our chief hopes of security from attacks across the North Pole appear to be first in the provision of facilities which would increase the probability of detecting, intercepting and repulsing attacking formations before they reach vital centers; and, second, the ability to retaliate so swiftly and with such deadly effect that no potential aggressor will risk the consequences of attack.

Bases, like those mentioned, should serve both security purposes. If established, undoubtedly they would be equipped with every known device which might aid in detecting the approach of any formation, friendly or unfriendly. And fuel for U. S. military craft at such advanced bases would increase their range and/or the destructive cargoes they could carry.

The provision of the suggested safeguards has the sound of the most elementary common sense. It also may serve a further useful purpose to let other nations know the nature of the U. S. Air force's thinking and planning. The suspicion that this type of precaution already may have gone beyond the talking and planning stage might impose additional restraint upon any nation which might contemplate a blow across the Arctic at the United States.

REP. REGAN WARNS IMPORTS THREATEN ECONOMY

Texas Solon Defends Rights Of Texas Oil Industry

By SARAH McCLENDON
(Avalanche-Journal Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 30—Rep. Ken Regan, 16th district, Midland, one of the few experienced oil men in the House, is certain in the future to become a more outspoken defender of the rights of those in the oil industry and other phases of mining. Regan is now being groomed to take over chairmanship of the Mines and Mining sub-committee of the House Public Lands committee. Oil would be included in scope of the subcommittee.

Rep. Clair Engle, D., Calif., is presently head of this sub-committee, but wants to go to the chairmanship of the sub-committee on Public Lands. Rep. J. Hardin Peterson, D., Fla., is chairman of the full committee on Public Lands which also has a sub-committee entitled "public lands" as well as other subordinate groups. It is rather unusual for Peterson to head the full committee and a sub-committee, too, so he may resign the latter post, thus opening the way for Regan to move up. Anyway, Peterson is not coming back to Congress after this session. He is retiring.

Formed Political Charges

Since coming to Congress, Regan has been rather quiet on oil matters. This week he became more articulate on the subject that he ever has before. Charges made by his twice political opponent, Woodrow Bean, during the campaign in which Bean charged that Regan was an oil man and would only look after the oil man's interests in Congress to the exclusion of other interests stung Regan, and ever since he has been extremely sensitive about being known as an oil man. But the situation is different now. It is no longer considered a political sin to be an oil man. Now the man who fights for the oil industry is fighting for Texas' economic life.

Formerly the man every one envied, now the oil man has become the underdog in U. S. business whose interests like those of the copper miner are being exploited for strategic defense and sacrificed on the altar of international relations.

Regan, shocked at the injustices which he finds, is coming fast to the defense of an industry on which hangs so much of the business, employment, and income of Texans.

Knowing his subject, from years of experience, Regan will be in a position to explain the plight of the U. S. oil man alongside of Rep. Ed Gossett, Wichita Falls, lawyer, who has long led the fight for the Texas oil man in the House. Gossett not only has many oil men constituents but is looked to by oil men all over the state as their representative.

Defends Small Oilmen

REGAN this week jumped to the defense of a number of small refiners, none of whom were from Texas, who have government contracts to buy oil nearby their plants from government lands producing oil. They were allotted a portion of this production by law, and then the Interior Department is making them bid to buy the oil, forced them through regulation to buy at 15½ cents a barrel premium above the posted price. Now market conditions as they are, largely caused by imports of foreign crude, the refiners cannot pay the premium. If the law of supply and demand were allowed to operate normally, they'd be paying less than the price posted at time of the contract. They face ruin. They are asking that the government cancel the contracts. A bill to this effect, offered by Congressman Engle, with Regan's support, was approved by the Public Lands committee this week.

As Regan cites, the government is responsible for the imports of foreign crude because it took the pipe from oil men in this country and sent it overseas to develop the oil fields of Saudi Arabia. The plea at the time was national defense and that this country should develop those foreign oil fields so that the U. S. could use the oil as its first line of defense in case of war with Russia.

Regan snorted at the theory 1½ years ago. He saw then its fallacies. Russia, he said, would seize these oil fields before taking over U. S. investments. Today, he points out, the fields of Saudi Arabia are being used against the oil men in Texas and other states. The result is, according to Regan's information, over 1,000 drilling rigs in Texas are now stacked and 15,000 people are unemployed already.

"Texas is going to suffer acutely as 65 to 75 percent of its total income from taxes is derived from oil directly or indirectly," he says.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

SOMETIMES I wonder whether we folks here in America are as democratic as we claim to be.

The thought came to me last night when we were guests at an informal dinner.

BRANDEIS

Yet, informal as it was supposed to be — when we entered the dining room of our hosts we might as well have been in an English manor house.

Being married almost twenty-eight years, I am no longer in the habit of pulling out the chair for my wife to sit down.

But, naturally, when the host did that little thing for his wife, what could I do but join him in the role of the cavalier?

My wife looked at me for a moment as if she thought I was playing a trick on her—probably she thought I pulled out the chair so that she would fall down. (Sometimes I have that kind of sense of humor.) But then I gave her a wink and looked over to where the host was just pushing the chair back under his wife, so she understood.

Then came the complicated array of spoons and knives and forks that I have never been able to unpuzzle, no matter how often I read the tiquette columns.

Butter knives, fish knives, meat knives, they all look the same to me. And when I started to eat the corn-on-cob I immediately reverted from cavalier to drooling slob, just as I always do no matter how often I am told by my better half that I have no manners.

This wondering about our democratic way of life strikes me most forcefully when I read the society items in our local paper.

In a small community such as ours we all know pretty well who everybody is. Ordinarily we are just about all the same. You can't very well live in a little town and be a snob.

But then you read the society news.

The women you know are not "Mrs." or "Miss" any longer. They are "Mesdames" or "Mademoiselles" the moment they join a committee or assemble for a game of bridge.

JUST look at this item. It is from a story reporting the wedding of a nice little girl who works in one of our nearby factories:

GE ASKS PROTECTION

Experiments Staged

BY DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The idea of Congress repealing the law of gravity is an old joke. Nevertheless, the Senate is actually studying what laws may be needed to regulate man-made hurricanes.

PEARSON

The issue was brought up by General Electric which asked Congress to exempt the company from damage suits for any wind, hail or rain storms it may cause.

General Electric is dead serious about this. For it has a contract with the Navy to conduct weather-making experiments in the mountains near Schenectady, N. Y. and wants to make sure it is not held responsible in case a bad storm is brewed.

The Navy appealed to Congress in behalf of General Electric, warning that its experiments "may cause certain weather conditions — rain, snow, hail, and even in some instances may develop hurricanes and other high wind storms."

This worried Senator Harley Kilgore, West Virginia, Democrat, who called a hearing of his judiciary subcommittee, nervously asked about the danger of starting a hurricane.

Earl Dressler, meteorologist for the Office of Naval Research, explained: "We have found that in seeding the cumulous-type cloud that causes tornado or thunderstorms different results have come about. Sometimes the cloud will dissipate from the sky. So it is very possible that one of the things we may come out with is the elimination of the tornado or the elimination of hail from the country."

Relieved at this, Kilgore went on to another problem. He was suspicious that General Electric might learn how to control the weather, then patent the process.

"The next thing you know," he snorted, "General Electric will have this whole thing patented, and we will pay them a royalty every time we turn around. It has been my experience with General Electric, Bell research, Westinghouse . . . that they spend our money and then turn around and patent the results, and they soak us for it."

"If they could break the spell of weather we have just been having, senator, I would be willing to contribute," suggested the Navy's Captain Chester Ward.

"I do not like to pay twice," grunted Kilgore.

Meanwhile, General Electric must go on experimenting with the weather at its own risk. Congress will not pass a law—at this session.

Forgotten Good Neighbors

Despite the North Atlantic pact, ex-Congressman Maury Maverick found President Truman quite Mexican-minded when he called at the White House the other day.

"It looks as if you folks in Washington have your eyes so focused on Europe that you can't see south of the border," Maverick told the President. "In fact, it looks as if Mexico would have to move over to Europe in order to get any attention from the U.S.A."

Mr. Truman listened carefully, took notes copiously. He showed surprising knowledge of things south of the border.

"I certainly agree that we can't neglect our friends in Latin America," he told Maverick, and pointed out that he personally had taken two trips to Brazil and Mexico, whereas he had been to Europe only once.

The President promised to follow up Maverick's ideas for better Mexican-American trade, including the fact that the United States now asks Mexico to kill off part of her beef cattle to control hoof-and-mouth disease, yet won't let the meat be shipped in sealed cars over U. S. soil to a U.S. port of embarkation for Europe. Maverick urged that the United States use Marshall plan money to facilitate the sale of beef from a friendly neighbor, Mexico, rather than from an unfriendly dictatorship, Argentina. At present, U. S. money is financing Argentine meat shipments for Euurope, while Mexican beef piles up in U.S. government warehouses—due to the fact that the U.S. is obligated to buy Mexican beef under the hoof-and-mouth-disease program.

TEMPERS are as hot as the temperatures these days on Capitol Hill, with usual parliamentary politeness broken by flashes of anger.

Two sparring partners, often at each other's throats, are Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas of Illinois and Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, both Democrats. It's got to a point where they don't even take the trouble to expunge their heated remarks from the record.

Latest flareup was over funds for the watchdog committee supposed to keep an eye on the Marshall plan. Created by the Republicans, the committee is now chairmanned by McCarran, and when Lucas argued that the committee was costing too much money, the senator from Nevada flared up.

"I think it would be well," he piped, "for the senator from Illinois to have some conception of the law before he says this committee is trying to branch out all over the world."

"I thank the able senator from Nevada for that last contribution of his," purred Lucas, in a voice as sticky as molasses. "I well know what a distinguished lawyer he is."

"I did not ask the senator from Illinois for that," snapped McCarran.

"I am giving it to him because I like the senator from Nevada, and he is a great lawyer," Lucas replied, sweetly. "I would not, under any circumstances, attempt to compete with the great legal ability he exercises on the floor of the Senate."

At this the Navadan puffed up and exploded: "The sarcasm of the senator from Illinois . . ."

But Lucas cut him off with a sharp: "I did not yield for that!"

"The senator was addressing me personally," squeaked McCarran. "Will he not yield?"

"I decline to yield. I hope the senator understands it!" snapped the majority leader.

"I do understand it!" yelled McCarran.

Finally Wisconsin's Alexander Wiley, leader of the weekly worship hour for spiritual-minded senators, broke in.

"Peace, brethren, peace!" he soothed.

"A MENCKEN CHRESTOMATHY"

Choice Passages Included In Book

"A MENCKEN CHRESTOMATHY," edited by H. L. Mencken; (Knopf).

H. L. MENCKEN, master of the English or, rather, American language, has been expressing himself in print for many years. As editor of the old American Mercury magazine he became an almost legendary figure whose vitriolic scorn or witty barbs were likely to be turned on any public personage or situation that needed attention.

Mencken has now turned his editorial talents loose on his own writings. He believes that he has published more than 5,000,000 words to date, some more choice than others. So he picked out about 250,000 which he would like preserved besides his printed books. His selections were made from out-of-print books, magazine and newspaper articles and bound up into a book called "A Mencken Chrestomathy." "Chrestomathy" he defines as a collection of choice passages from an author.

The book is a curious collection of essays, epigrams and assorted opinions and observations on a myriad of persons and things that have come under Mencken's lively notice over the years. There's not much consistency in evidence, but the pieces abound in the typical Mencken acid humor. Recommended reading for a half hour or so at a time.

"The Deer Stalker"

"THE DEER STALKER," by Zane Grey; (Harper).

FOR ANYONE who wants a wholesome book, this is it. A woman is always a lady, a man is a card, unless he's a cad, and the humor is as innocent as puns on deer and dear.

Thad Eburne is a deer, not a dear, stalker, but a woman fleeing in disdain from the "idle, luxurious, childless, dancing, drinking crowd" of New York after World War I comes into his life. He has charge of great herds of deer near the Grand Canyon. Though he says "I consider forestry as a splendid calling," it is also a lonely one, and Patricia Edgerton is the most beautiful sight he ever laid eyes on. She has been tied to a tree and confronted by a villain named Dyott, whose "big, dirty hand nears her breast" when Thad, warned by brave, true-hearted Sue, gallops to the rescue.

Hero True-Blue

Dyott represents the cattlemen's evil power. Our hero Thad is true-blue from start to finish. Patricia is a convert to the outdoors life. Disillusioned with the effete East, she fled to the Grand Canyon and "on the very rim of one of nature's miracles, she becomes the master of her own destiny."

Quotations give the best idea of the peculiar flavor of this novel which, if my memory is reliable, is much like the better known "The Vanishing American," "The Thundering Herd," "Riders of the Purple Sage," "Desert Gold" and so on. From 1910, when Harper published its first Grey, to last year, it has printed 46 of his novels, and they have sold over 24,000,000 copies in the U. S. alone. Grey has been dead some time; this novel had appeared in serial form, but not as a book.

There's an off-chance your parents might like this; but though it's a perfectly safe gift for your daughter, she wouldn't. The feeling is honest, but the method is naive; the morality is unimpeachable, but the trouble lies in the obvious moralizing. Grey's lesson sticks up like a sore thumb. His good intentions are admirable, but they pave the way to boredom for he's too afraid we'll miss them. The worthwhile novelist also means well, but he's bashful about it.

Another War Story

"DAY WITHOUT END," by Van Van Praag; (William Sloane).

THE 59TH straight unrelieved day spent in the lines in Normandy by Lieut. Paul Roth and his platoon is told with a seering simplicity in this novel.

A dawn patrol of 10 men led by Roth, and later the entire platoon's participation in a general attack are the two central incidents. Roth and his men, too, are tired enough to drop; they're even getting ideas. Isn't a relief due soon, or I was meant to drive a truck, or I'm not an infantryman but an interpreter supposed to be in the Pacific.

Inhuman Command

Well they happen to be in Northern France, and in the infantry, no baths for two months, no shaves, they look and smell dirty, their mothers and sisters wouldn't know them. Their names are Potter, Rodriguez, Saunders, Colucci, Warner, Reilly, Greenberg, Motoya. They dig their faces into the protecting soil, jump up, run, shoot, plunge to the ground again. One by one they lose their lives or blow their tops, which is to say that some guys can't help succumbing to the fear which at moments grips them all. Back of them is an inhuman command and a Col. Nielsen who thinks 10 men able to stand off a platoon, and a platoon provided he isn't with it, able to stop the whole dash-dash, blankety-blank German army.

The author interests us in his hapless characters, but even more in the paces he puts them through. There is little about the girls back home, or politics, this is combat fiction. And the demands made on a man who has become a soldier are, as we see them here, appalling: When he has exerted himself to the utmost, and cries out with exhaustion, and collapses because he can stand no more and do no more, he still has more to stand and do. You may be proud that Americans can endure so much, and shocked that America could ask so much.

If the villain is an officer, so is the hero. Another unusual aspect of this novel is its fidelity to its theme, the actual battle. And still another is its grimness, and the desperation of the poor men, and the unspeakable misery of being a cog in a war machine. These soldiers stick out their necks and lose them; they crawl out on a limb and saw it off.

Guatemalan Guide

"LET'S GO TO GUATEMALA," by Lyman and Ellen Judson; (Harper).

TWO expert tourists from the United States have added Guatemala to their gallery of portraits of Latin American nations. Their previous book is about Colombia.

Although Lyman and Ellen Judson's "Let's Go to Guatemala" is primarily a tourist guide, it is also a searching history of the politics, society, economics and culture of "the land of eternal spring."

The authors personally explored Central America's most northerly country from the lowlands of the Pacific coast to the towering peaks of the Andean Cordillera and the isolated jungles of El Peten in search of material for a complete report on their subject.

The book takes the country section by section, starting in Guatemala City and traveling north, east, south and west to catalogue the natural beauty and the traditions of the nation whose modern history began with its conquest over 400 years ago by the armed horsemen of Don Pedro de Alvarado y Contreras.

chances of the Canadian river dam, but it is offered by Bill Rutherford, Dumas, editor of The Moore County News, for what it is worth. He recalls that about 10 years ago, he and some other civil leaders of the area, among them Fritz Thompson, Borger, formed the Sanford water association to bring about construction of a dam at Sanford on the Canadian river just as is now contemplated. Of course, now, the project is being approached on a much larger scale. For one thing, the need for municipal water for a dozen Panhandle cities is greater.

But as Rutherford said while visiting Rep. Eugene Worley here this week en route home from the Lions club convention in New York City, the Army Engineers have always recommended against the project.

"As Fritz Thompson said, they came down to our section and ate our barbecue and drank our beer and went back to Washington and ruled against us."

This time, with later legislation, placing construction in the West in the hands of the Bureau of Reclamation, Congressmen Worley and George Mahon and Panhandle municipal officials are placing their hopes on the Bureau, rather than Army Engineers.

GETS NEW JOB

NICK Nicastro, former chauffeur for Speaker Rayburn, when he was House Democratic minority leader, is now a doorkeeper at the press gallery of the House.

Nick has been ill for some time and he still can't drive a car for months. While he lay desperately ill at his home and the activities of the busy 81st Congress were in full stride, his fellow workers at the Capitol did not forget him. One day they came with a huge birthday cake and card, and George Donaldson, who is now Rayburn's chauffeur, leaned over and put a $100 bill in Nick's hand. Nick cried when he looked down and saw heading the list of contributions the name of his idol, Speaker Rayburn.

To observe Nick out for an evening driving Mr. Rayburn was always interesting. I always thought Nick had too high an I. Q. to be just the driver. He would stand outside the home where receptions were being held and speak to most of the guests whom he he knew personally. Then if Mr. Rayburn went into a restaurant, Nick would follow and take his place in an adjoining booth--discreetly distant but still close enough to observe "the boss' so Nick could be ready if need be.

Yes, Nick deserves the job he now fills and if he starts driving automobiles again his smile will be missed at the Press Gallery door.

Cotton Interests

When State Rep. Louis J. Ivey, of El Paso, the well known Southwest cotton man, testified before the U. S. Tariff Commission here recently in an effort to keep out greater imports of Egyptian and Peruvian long staple cotton, he was confronted by a Peruvian witness, defending his country's cotton production. Ivey thought that a bit odd in the first place that he should be confronted with a witness from another country when he was testifying before his own United States commission. He tangled with the gentlemen, German Fernandez Concha, who ultimately told the Commission:

"I am here on behalf of the Peruvian government and the overall farmers of Peru that produce long-staple cotton that do not want to fight against the farmers of the great state of Texas."

Colonel R. B. Creager, the venerable and titluar head of the Republican party in Texas, who was once a Democrat, and who elected to become a Republican when a student at the University of Texas, is having considerable to do here with the policies and principles being followed in selection of a new national Republican party chairman. That might easily spell success of failure for the Republicans in the next election.

This past week, Creager, holding jealously to the national committee's right to select a chairman without any outside Republican help, wrote this: "Let us get this chairmanship behind us in the customary time-honored manner and then, in combination with the Senatorial and House Campaign Committees, tear into the Democrats with confidence and true enthusiasm."

Funny thing that turns young men's minds in colleges to their courses in life. Just the opposite of Creager was his roommate, now Federal Judge R. Ewing Thomason of El Paso, who throughout his life has been a Democrat, with a great understanding and generosity of feeling toward all cross-currents of citizenship.

Wright Morrow of Houston, wealthy Texas democratic national committeeman, who is about to be named ambassador to Belgium, will find his new post an expensive one. The State Department's Belgian desk admits that Brussels while being one of the more attractive posts to be assigned to is not an inexpensive one. Of course even then it does not approximate the expenses of London or Rome. Of course, too, all diplomatic posts are costly outside the salary range. But Mr. and Mrs Wright Morrow will need their private income to supplement the salary.

The post by the way has been vacant since Admiral Alan Kirk left last to be assigned to Moscow, so it is probable that the State Department will want it filled as soon as possible. It is never wise to leave these posts open too long. So the chances are that Morrow will be tending his formal resignation as Texas committeemay soon. Then comes the question: will there have to be another state committee meeting to choose his successor, or can Byron Skelton of Temple, twice already chosen, assume the job?

Looking At Life

quisette and Chantilly lace was fashioned with a fitted bodice having a high round neckline and inserted Bertha collar of lace, full bishop sleeves, and a bouffant skirt trimmed with lace inserts and terminating in a long, full train. A cornet of lilies of the valley held her three-tiered, scalloped veil of French illusion, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley, with a cascade of the same blossoms."

I read this to my wife (with proper intonations, of course) and asked: "Isn't this utterly foolish and just a lot of snobbery?"

"Of course not," she replied haughtily. "That sort of thing means a whole lot to a bride, and a lovely wedding makes for a happy marriage."

Whereupon I commented: "Has our marriage been any less happy just because you wore a simple street outfit at our two-dollar wedding, instead of a 'scalloped veil of French illusion'?"

She mumbled something I didn't quite get, but it was something about having no romance in my soul.

Well, perhaps a bit of "French illusion" is part of Democracy, after all.
