Jaycees Set Tax Drive

Perryton Jaycees will conduct a poll tax campaign during the next ten days of January to boost lagging tax payments in Ochiltree County.

Deputy tax collectors have been sworn in and will call upon business houses and also on a poll tax booth on street Saturday, urging them to pay their poll tax.

Of this week there had been only 800 poll taxes paid in the county. This is less than the number paid in 1952.

Deputy collectors sworn in by Ray Phagan are Bob Harlow, Harold Hudson, Elmo Harlow, John May, and Claude Allen, Jr.

Warm Weather Hints Greenbugs, Experts Declare

An unusually mild temperature during the past week have given an important part in the greenbug threat in Texas Panhandle, according to Donald Ashdown and Elmer Cleveland, greenbug researchers and entomologists.

Meetings at a Farm Bureau building Wednesday, Dr. Ashdown said the warm weather kept other insects active and greenbugs, thus keeping down the greenbug population.

Predators and parasites, also "bugs" which survive by eating greenbugs, are active on above 50 degrees while the greenbugs thrive at much lower temperatures. Thus greenbugs have a very distinct advantage as the temperatures are below 50 degrees, the normal temperature at this season of the year in the Panhandle.

Only three days since the greenbug discovery on January 14, temperatures have been unfavorable for predator activity, Ashburn said. The other 14 have been above 50 degrees favorable for the greenbug.

Greenbugs were found in the west of Perryton Wednesday, Jan. 21, by the greenbug experts. A serious threat by greenbugs could still exist if other conditions were favorable, Dr. Ashburn said.

County Receives License Tags

Numbers are AV 5700 to AV 5799 for passenger cars; IC 9900 to IC 9999 and ID 1010 to ID 499 for commercial vehicles; 5C 6150 to 5C 6199 for farm trucks.

The "Mother's March" will begin at 7 o'clock and continue until 9 o'clock. Members of the sorority have been assigned to eight different sections of town and will call at the homes of families wishing to give to the March of Dimes.

If a family desires to make a contribution, they are asked to turn on their porch light that night, and a representative will call at the door.

Progress of the drive will be announced periodically that night over radio station KEYE.

Mrs. Jim Wright is chairman of the "Mother's March" this year. Team captains are: Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Grams, Mrs. Ellis, and Mrs. Wright.

Members are asked to list projects in the order of their importance, and the results will be tabulated and put into the C. of C. program of work.

Similar surveys have been carried out in past years, with the exception of 1952.

Listed on the questionnaire are the following suggested projects with additional projects sought from the members: Extension of star mail route from Perryton to Canadian; Reciprocal registration law on commercial vehicles and automobiles between the neighboring states; Expand the North Plains Fair; Promote a safety campaign in Perryton. Tender Care of Brittle Choppers Saves Repair

AUSTIN, Texas—It's impressive to be able to pry off bottle caps with your teeth, but it's much smarter—from a dental health point of view—to use a bottle opener.

And using a cigarette holder looks dignified, and it helps keep stain off your fingers, but it doesn't do your teeth any good, State Health Officer George W. Cox says.

Dr. Cox can count off some 36 everyday, commonplace habits that the great majority of Americans, including Texans, practice in one degree or another that are injurious to mouth tissue.

Lip biting is one such habit. Others are cleaning or grinding teeth, picking them, chewing on match sticks, tooth holding nails or bobby pins between the teeth, and sucking. Biting on straw, ear loops of eyeglasses, and using pencils can also trouble.

Also said to be detrimental to teeth and gums is the habit of leaning your chin in the palm of your hands. It causes pressure that is sometimes injurious to both teeth and jaw.

"This has to be a persistent habit, though," the officer asserted, "before it is damaging. But it is worth watching."

Ever experience aches, tenderness at the corners of the mouth, or soreness in the face? These might be signs of closure of opposing teeth, which is reflected in the mouth.

The first synthetic tooth was spun in the United States in 1909.

You're Nobody In Germany If Not a 'Doktor'

G. P. Newsfeatures

BONN, Germany—You're virtually nobody in Germany unless you have a doctor's title.

And you're really somebody if you are a double or triple doctor. The title of "Dr." is a badge of distinction that brings you bows instead of a brushoff everywhere from government offices to repair shops.

Only a tiny fraction of Germany's "doctors" are medical men. Many of the nation's political leaders, newspapermen, economists and even industrial barons use this title.

Nearly one-third of the 420 members of parliament call themselves "doctor." Forty German news and radio correspondents who work here also are listed as "doctors."

A German who gets a doctorate degree from a university and passes a special state examination forever calls himself "doctor."

Woe betide the one who fails to address such persons as "Herr Doktor." It's an insult to leave out the "doktor." And you must address the wife of a "Herr Doktor" as "Frau Doktor."

Many young Germans take a cynical view of this old practice. If they persist, the title of doctor may die outside the medical profession.

But doctor titles are still so serious that it's a criminal offense to use it illegally.

A small, super-elite group of Germans are double and triple doctors. They have more than one degree.

The Federal Interior Minister, for example, is "Dr. Dr. Robert Lehr." With a short name that's not so bad. But one member of parliament is "Dr. Dr. Robert Philipp Noell von der Nahmer."

The nation's leading psychologist is "Prof. Dr. Dr. Leopold von Wiese und Kaiserswaldau."

Hits Low Bowling Game

DETROIT (AP)—George Stieber scored the amazingly low game total of nine in the General Post Office League here. He gets some consolation, however, in knowing that he now holds an ABC league scoring record. It is the lowest total ever reported to the ABC. Stieber didn't bowl last year but the previous year he maintained an average of 157. Following that low nine count, George came up with 115 and 131 for a 255 total.

Track Stars Don't Fade At 30 Says Cunningham

Newsfeatures

WACO, Tex.—Age, says Glenn Cunningham, is no bar to good running.

The man who ranks with the greats of trackdom, and who still holds the United States mile record of 4:04.4, says he couldn't outrun his father "until dad was 51 years old."

Stopping off in Waco on the last leg of a tour of speaking engagements, the Kansas rancher-farmer made some pertinent observations on running.

An athlete doesn't necessarily just fade away when he hits the 30-year-old mark, Kansas Glenn observed.

He recalled a day in the 1930's when he was in Hungary. He met a slender little fellow who kept telling about his track career. "What do you run?" Cunningham asked. "Oh," said the little man, "I like the long distances."

Cunningham noticed the man was a little old for a runner by current standards. He asked him if he wasn't. "Why," the man replied, "I'm only 52. But the last race I ran was too short—it was only a 90-mile race. I like the long-distance races better."

Then there was the time in Sweden when the Swedes called a man out of the audience to do some high jumping since they didn't have an entry in that event. The man did 6 feet 4 inches and won the event. "I found out later that the man had been out of competition for 16 years before that day," Cunningham says.

Cunningham, now 43, admits he would like to "run a couple of laps with this Emil Zatopek," star of the last Olympic games.

Glenn quit track in 1940 but was "drafted" to run for the Navy in 1945 and at the age of 37 was turning in the fastest time trials of his career.

Dempsey Praises Rickard in Texas

Newsfeatures

HENRIETTA, Texas — Jack Dempsey says the dreams of Tex Rickard, famed promoter of the "golden era" of boxing, are going to be realized soon.

Rickard predicted that boxing would draw million dollar gates. "People laughed when he said that," asserted Dempsey, "but with television and radio rights as well as admissions we will see million dollar gates in our lifetime."

Dempsey spoke here at the dedication of the $100,000 Tex Rickard Memorial Bowl—a tribute to Henrietta's most illustrious citizen.

Rickard was once the sheriff here and the first day of the Clay County Pioneers Reunion was given over to Tex. That's why Dempsey was invited to make the speech at the dedication.

The former world's heavy-weight champion was the first to draw the million dollar gate under the promotion and direction of Rickard.

World's newest V8

with a million miles behind it

HERE, in literal fact, is the most advanced V8 engine ever placed in a standard-production American automobile.

It is the first such V8 to reach an 8.5 to 1 compression ratio, and the first with a dynamic flow muffler that cuts power loss to zero.

It is the first V8 to utilize vertical valves together with a 12-volt electrical system instead of the usual 6. It is also the first designed with new "T" type intake manifold to replace the "Y" type conventionally used in V8s.

It is, quite simply, the first V8 Fireball Engine—the engine that brings electrifying performance to the greatest Buicks in fifty great years—the engine that powers the 1953 Buick Roadmaster with 188 hp., and the 1953 Buick Super with up to 170.

Naturally, this spectacular new V8 has been proved—by eight years of developing, testing, improving, perfecting—and by more than a million miles of driving through desert, mountains, cities and plains. Only then did Buick engineers mark it: Released for Production.

But these hard-to-please engineers gave these Golden Anniversary Buicks far more than new power.

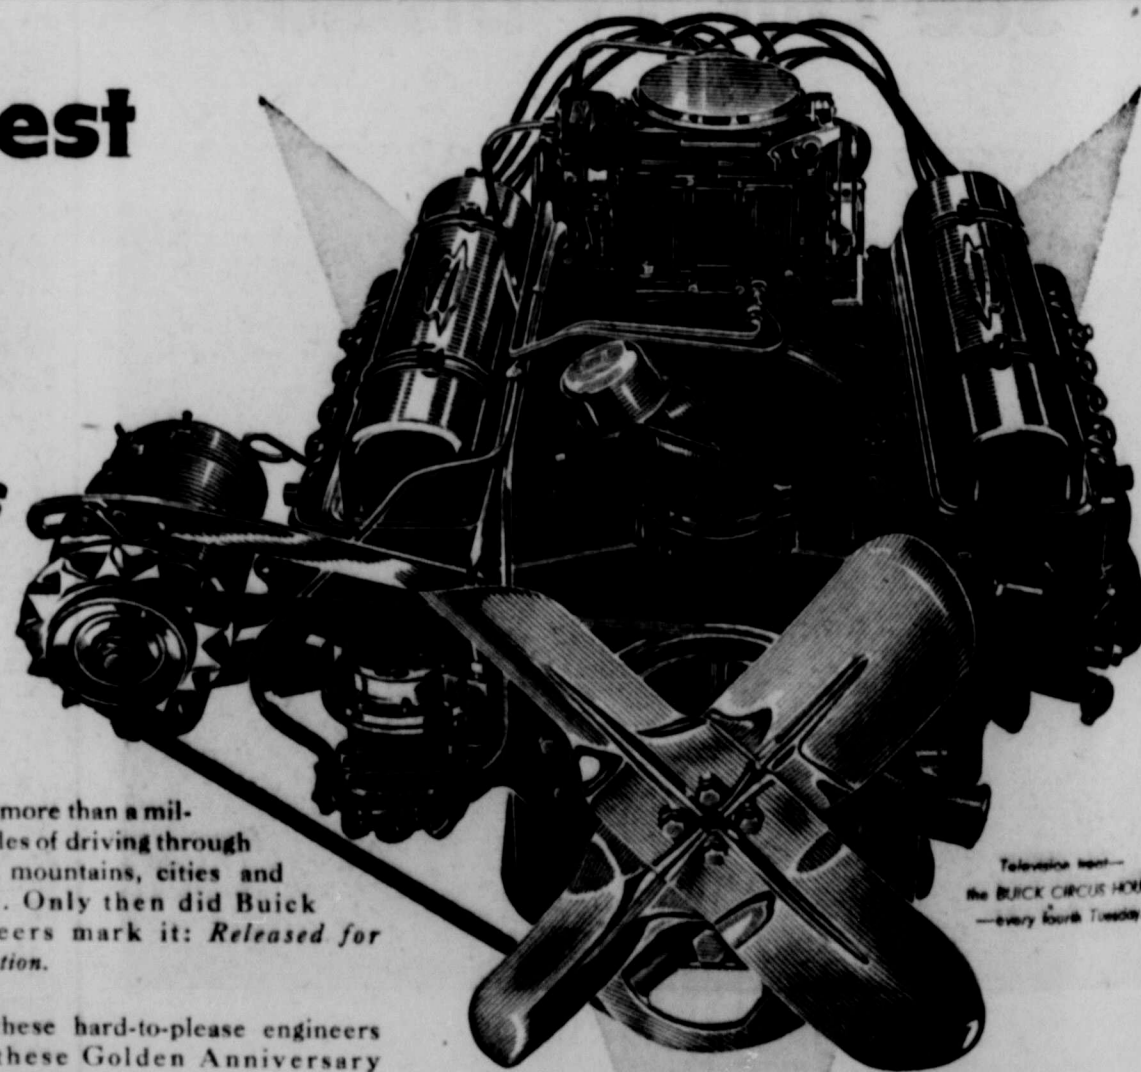

They gave them, too, a still finer ride, more superb comfort, new braking power and handling ease—and a sensational new Twin-Turbine Dynaflo Drive* that adds new quiet and whip-fast getaway to absolute smoothness.

Nothing, we believe, will do more justice to your automobile dollars—or to your love of magnificent motoring—than a visit to us right now.

Involved in the accident were Mrs. Wanda Allen Kreger of Liberal, driving a 1947 Buick, and Raymond W. Clard of Perryton in a 1939 Chevrolet.

City policeman Arlie C. Binion said that Mrs. Kreger was going north on Eton and Clard was going east on SW 3rd avenue, which leads into Brillhart. The collision took place at the intersection, with the Clard car hitting the Kreger car in the side.

Damage to the Kreger car was estimated at $75 and damage to the Clard car was estimated at $25. No one was injured.

Local Red Cross Officials Meet In Amarillo

Several representatives of the Ochiltree Red Cross chapter attended a Panhandle Red Cross meeting in Amarillo January 15 and learned that the Red Cross fund drive quotas would be raised this year.

Reason for the increase is that $7 million has been allocated for gamma globulin, the disease fighting element of the blood now being used to treat polio. Gamma globulin is the part of the human blood which contains antibodies built up in the blood stream as a result of the human body's fight against disease. It is being used in fighting measles as well as polio.

The national goal for the Red Cross fund drive has been set at $93 million. The local fund drives begin the first week in March and no goal has yet been set for Ochiltree county.

Attending the meeting from Perryton were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cox, Virgil Olmstead, Gene Akers and Mrs. R. T. Correll.

Former Pastor Is Promoted by District Baptists

Rev. O. C. Curtis, pastor of the Central Baptist church of Pampa, and pastor of the First Baptist church in Perryton for many years, has been elected District 10 missionary by the Texas Baptist Association.

Rev. A. J. Quinn of Amarillo has resigned as district missionary.

The district missionary serves 56 Baptist churches in the Texas Panhandle, preaching in those churches without pastors, holding revival meetings and assisting in church organization. It is one of the better positions of the Texas Baptist Association.

Rev. Curtis went to Pampa about a year ago. The Perryton church has been without a pastor since his resignation.

Third of Teen Aged Smoke

Newsfeatures
NEW YORK—More than one-third of all American boys between 15 and 19 smoke cigarettes, and make no secret of it. They smoke about 12 a day, according to a national survey of smoking habits made by Alfred Pollitz Research, Inc.

One out of every 10 girls in the same age group also smoke. They average eight cigarettes a day.

The heaviest smokers are the men between 35 and 44. Four out of five smoke, averaging a pack a day. Two out of five women in the 25-34 bracket smoke an average of 13 cigarettes a day.

The Pollitz survey, taken among 5,000 people scattered around the country, showed that smokers more than double their consumption after adolescence and then begin to taper off after middle age.

One man in 16 and one woman in 50 smoke two packs or more a day. Farmers and farmers' wives smoke less than city folk.

ROKs on Their Own

WITH SOUTH KOREAN SECOND DIVISION AT SNIPER RIDGE, Korea (AP)—Re-trained South Korean troops, fighting with renewed determination under the army motto, "Stay and Fight," are valiant to a fault. They won't admit defeat—and sometimes this works to their own disadvantage.

Recently on Sniper Ridge the Chinese struck with a reinforced battalion one morning and drove the outnumbered South Koreans off the entire ridge. But this wasn't reported until five hours later to division headquarters. Instead the ROK (Republic of Korea) regimental command post reported merely that seven Chinese Red companies had attacked, but had withdrawn.

When the truth was learned, an impatient U. S. major said: "If they wouldn't lie, we could help them." However, when the gallant ROKs stormed back up the hill and knocked the Chinese off, the 8th Army was informed of the victory in a matter of minutes.

Cotton Bowl Fans May Keep Kicks Going in Stands

Newsfeatures

DALLAS—The next time a football goes into the stands during the Cotton Bowl game, the person catching it may have the privilege of keeping it.

President Otto Eisele of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association is the fellow who would put a touch of baseball into the post-season gridiron classic.

It happened like this:

In the 1953 Cotton Bowl game between Texas and Tennessee, one of Texas' Gib Dawson's point-after-touchdown kicks went into the north end zone. The fan who caught the ball didn't want to give it up. But under Southwest Conference rules —and the Southwest Conference sponsors the Cotton Bowl—it isn't permissible for the fans to keep a ball that lands in the stands.

There was considerable grumbling when the fan was forced to give the ball back.

Eisele thought it might be a good idea in the case of the Cotton Bowl to make an exception and let the fans keep the footballs that land in the stands. That's the way it is in baseball, although, of course, a baseball costs much less than a football.

So Eisele is going to talk it over with his organization with a view toward putting a touch of baseball into the thing.

Although paper was used in China at a very early date, it became available to the rest of the world about the middle of the 8th Century A. D.

Students Bathe in Prof's Bathroom

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — When something went wrong with the plumbing and left Buxton Hall, one of the two men's dormitories at Indiana Central College here, without hot water the residents had a ready solution to the bathing problem.

Fifteen male students, wearing bathrobes and slippers and with towels and soap in hand, motored a mile to the suburban home of the college business manager. Arriving at 10:30 p. m., they told Prof. and Mrs. Evan R. Kek, both members of the college faculty, that they had come to take baths.

The Kekes turned over their bathroom to the students. Their hospitality included also nearly a bushel of apples which the boys devoured while waiting their turns at tub and shower.

Buxton Hall was assured of hasty plumbing repairs.

Governor Counsels Prudent Financing

Those members of the Texas Legislature who seek reasonable restraints on state spending to avert unduly higher taxes have received sage, conservative support from Governor Shivers in his initial message to the 53rd Legislature.

The comptroller's estimate, as guidance to the Legislature, sets a ceiling of $16 million on additional appropriations for the next biennium, unless there is to be an increase in taxes. The governor cited that limitation imposed on the Legislature. He also pointed to means of meeting reasonable demands from available finances by proper handling under legislative authority.

Specifically, the chief executive anticipated that a needed salary increase for public school teachers could be met by readjustment of funds and by requirement that prosperous districts bear more of the educational burden than now is the case. This critical, though friendly approach to the Gilmer-Aikin plan should strengthen the Minimum Foundation Program in the long run.

As for higher education, Governor Shivers called for co-ordination of its program for "greater effectiveness, greater dollar value and improved conditions for staffs and faculties" with existing income that is deemed enough. This careful stewardship by state colleges and universities is advisable not only in the public interest of holding down taxes but also in the cause of better education, which can not flourish continuously as a rapidly mushrooming, more costly system.

For highways estimated to require $100 million more annually for the next five years, the governor offered only a partial program calling for a minimum gasoline tax increase of 1 cent, from 4 to 5 cents a gallon. It is of particular interest to Fort Worth and Dallas that the chief executive recommended a toll road authority.

Governor Shivers conceded the inadequacy of his road program, but reminded that the Legislature, upon public demand, could provide more money for highways. Another elastic suggestion was that, in event the Legislature should decide to seek more funds for state needs, additional taxes on "long-line" natural gas transmission lines be considered.

Emergency requirements were listed as a new tuberculosis hospital building program, more modern facilities at the state school for the deaf in Austin and a cost of living salary increase for state employees. All of these calls would be met from existing tax rates and surpluses.

Salient, nonpending recommendations to the Legislature included provision of a medical director as executive officer of the state hospital system, congressional and judicial redistricting, authority by constitutional amendment for use of the Confederate pension tax for state buildings, water conservation along the lines initiated by the governor's special committee, and traffic safety. The motor vehicle inspection law, which has been under fire, the governor says should be made workable or repealed. One hopes that the Legislature will heed the first part of that suggestion and revise the law.

Prudent financing, to which Governor Shivers' program adds up, should be an impelling objective of the Legislature since state taxes have risen steadily in recent years and the people already are overburdened by the cost of all government. The beneficiaries of state munificence in the past now should collaborate with the governor and the Legislature in calling a halt to the steady climb in state expenditures, because all would suffer in an ultimate, inevitable day of reckoning against public extravagance.

The reaction already has developed at the national level, and there are signs of the same sentiment at the state level. Spending must be conditioned by consideration of the Texas taxpayer and his ability to pay.

—Ft. Worth Star-Telegram

From the SIDELINE

with HAROLD HUDSON

We attended the annual banquet of the Spearman Chamber of Commerce last Thursday with Charley Whippo, Giltner LaMaster and B. C. Jones to hear what Wes Izzard of the Amarillo Globe-News had to say about the state of the world and instead heard quite a bit about television.

The new KGNC station expects to be on the air around April 1, Wes says, depending upon the wind in March. Explaining that one, he said that the new tower was to be 855 feet high and that steel workers would not get above 200 feet in the air when the wind was 6 miles an hour or more. And we don't blame 'em. Anyway, if the wind is right, the tower will go up, and the station will go on the air.

It's hard to conceive a tower that high. For example, the city water tower here in Perryton is supposed to be 140 feet to the top, and KGNC is going to have a TV tower about six times that high. On second thought, if we were a steel worker, we wouldn't go above 200 feet, period.

Izzard says that "prime reception" from KGNC will be a radius of 60 airline miles around Amarillo. Reception will be good for 75 miles around the transmitter, and it should be pretty good up to 125 miles away. Of course, no one knows exactly how good it will be, and they won't know until they try it out. The station expects to get on the NBC cable about the time it goes on the air, or shortly afterward.

Taking into consideration that the KGNC transmitter is going to be 7 miles north of Amarillo, our map shows Perryton about 92 airline miles away, which should put us in the "pretty good" TV category. Of course, it may be perfect too.

After going over the television outlook, Wes launched into a more serious discussion about the juvenile problem, saying that the number one thing wrong with young people today was the absence of chores. Kids don't get to do chores like they used to, and don't develop work habits that keep them straightened out during their adolescence. Wes pointed out. He says the greatest youth organizations in the world are the FFA, the 4-H Club and the newspaper carrier boys in the cities.

These youngsters learn to work, to do a job regularly and learn business methods, he declares. No delinquency is noted in these groups, and learning to work is given as the reason. Things must be in a bad way in Amarillo, Izzard said there are families on his block with 16 and 17 year old boys whose parents hire a man to mow the family lawn. It isn't "popular" for the youngsters to do it, their parents say.

We get stuff in the mail all the time from outfits that want us to print recipes for "exotic new dishes" and some of them give us the cold chills. Instead, No telling what they would do to readers or to husbands if we printed them and wives actually tried them out.

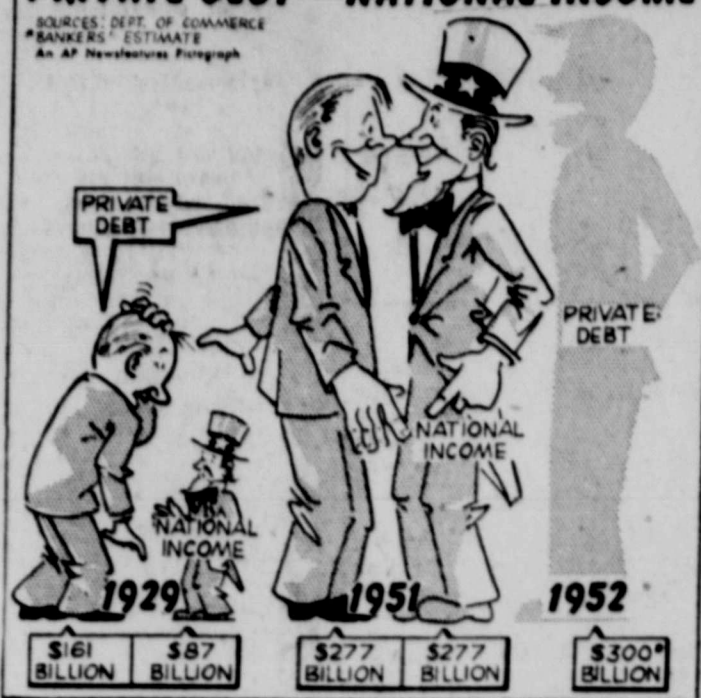

For example, there is a recipe for peanut-butter codfish balls, and a salad made of sauerkraut and fruit. There are recipes calling for cola drinks and soda pop as the liquid in cake mixes; and a ring mold calling for gelatine, cola drink and bologna; also cake made with tomato soup. We had one suggestion that doughnuts be used as the base of chicken a la king.

We pass. Give us meat and potatoes and leave these "exotic" dishes to the New Yorkers or wherever it is they eat this stuff.

The sports pages have been full of comment the past week on the NCAA rule doing away with unlimited substitution and the two platoon system in football and while we may be old fashioned, we are in favor of the change. We can't see where the game will be slowed down, less players get a chance more injuries, or any of the other reasons advanced by the two platoon boys.

The most enjoyable type of football we ever saw was that of the 1947 and 1948 SMU team, which had Doak Walker, Kyle Rote, etc., and these boys were double duty players. And we're tired of the present set-up, where the defensive team comes out of a ball game, and half the time are so disinterested in the game, they don't even watch it until they get the signal to go back in. Likewise with the offensive team.

We may be old fashioned, but so are lots of other folks. The real trouble with the coaches that are moaning, we suspect, is that they are caught with a lot of high priced football scholarships for specialists.

Dr. Krick, the rain maker, appears to be correct in his long range weather forecast which gave warm, dry weather during January for this area. So far, so good. The real test will come when we get to February. He predicts a wetter than usual, colder than usual month. We shall see.

We hope he's right about February. And we'd like to see him predict a wet spring and make it, too. These fields need a lot of soaking yet.

Wolf Creek Philosopher Proposes Plan For Cattlemen

(Ed. note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher has a clearly unworkable plan for rescuing cattlemen caught in the price squeeze, but you can't blame him for trying.)

Dear editor:

Every once in a while I notice in the papers where some farmers who raise wheat, like they used to do here a few years ago, put their wheat in the loan, and while I never have done that, if I had any wheat I'd sell it the minute it came out of the combine, would have to in order to beat the check to the bank I gave the hired hands, but I have been investigatin this system and I'd like to report I like it and have a suggestion to make.

As I understand it, if a wheat grower thinks the price of wheat is going up, he can put his wheat in the government loan and get the loan price right then in cash and if the price goes up he can later sell and make an additional profit which he's entitled to, and even if it doesn't go up, even if it drops below the loan price, he still gets to keep the loan and doesn't have to make up the difference.

This is a system designed to stabilize the price of wheat, to keep wheat growers from dumping all their wheat on the market at one time, and I approve of it.

But I'd like to see the system expanded. Take me. Now I've got a few head of cattle on hand out here, and as everybody but the meat market knows, the price of cattle has been droppin steadily. In fact, in the last eight months it has dropped over 30 per cent. All right. Now I paid a pretty good price for these cattle, bought 'em when they were high, and while they haven't got too much feed in 'em, hay is still higher than it ever was before and they've been eatin and the worst part is they've got to keep on eatin.

What I want to know is why can't I put these cattle in a government loan? Why can't I just turn the cattle over to whoever handles the government's wheat and let them hold 'em for me until the price goes up? I tell you it would take a burden off my mind to hold on to them cattle without sellin and without buyin any more feed for 'em. If I sell now I'll take a big loss, but if I keep on feedin I'll take a bigger loss. But if I could put 'em in a government loan this noon, things would sure be out here.

If you think this plan has merit, I will appreciate your tin word to Eisenhower and him make it the first business the minute he through bein inaugurated, tiemen all over the country be scramblin to get in on it. Yours faithfully, J. A.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Previous columns have dealt with the distribution of the community estate where persons die intestate (without a will); also with division of the separate property of such a person who leaves a surviving husband or wife.

Where there is no surviving spouse, the process of dividing the separate estate among the rightful heirs becomes even more complicated, especially in the case where no children survive.

If there are children or their descendants surviving, they inherit the entire separate estate of the deceased, both personal property and real estate.

Regardless of whether the property involved is considered separate or community property, any portion of an estate going to children and their descendants is divided "per stirpes."

That is, if you should have two children and four grandchildren surviving, the latter four being the offspring of one previously deceased child, any portion of an estate going to such children and descendants would be divided into three equal parts only. Each of the two surviving children would receive one full share, while the four grandchildren would divide the remaining share equally among themselves.

When a person dies intestate and leaves neither spouse nor children surviving the entire separate estate is divided equally between the father and mother of the deceased, if both survive.

MARRIED 80 YEARS (80)—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rose—Uncle Tom and Aunt Esther to everyone in Whitney—celebrated their 80th wedding anniversary Jan. 16. Uncle Tom will be 100 in July; his wife is 97. They had 11 children, two of whom have died, and 123 direct descendants, including 37 grandchildren, 57 great grandchildren and 20 great great grandchildren. Uncle Tom still goes to town Saturdays but Mrs. Rose has not been too well for the last two years. (AP Wirephoto)

CATTLEMEN—These cattle raisers take time out from worrying about lack of rain, government controls and declining cattle prices to look over a magazine between sessions of a meeting of directors of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 12. Left to right they are A. E. Gates, Laredo, Tex.; Dolph Briscoe, Jr., Uvalde, Tex.; Jack Roach, Amarillo president of the association. (AP Wirephoto)

If only one parent survives and there are brothers and sisters of the deceased (or their descendants) also surviving, then the parent inherits one-half of the separate estate and the remaining one-half is divided "per stirpes" among the brothers and sisters and their descendants.

Should one parent survive and there be no brothers and sisters or their descendants, then the parent would be entitled to all of the estate.

Similarly, where there is no surviving parent, but there are surviving brothers and sisters or their descendants, the entire estate would go to such brothers and sisters or their descendants.

If there are no survivors in any of the above categories, the separate property of the deceased is divided into two equal portions, one portion going to paternal grandparents and their descendants and the other going to maternal grandparents and their descendants.

Of course, by making a will a person may select the exact individuals who are to receive his estate upon his death. When he does so, the statutory provisions become inapplicable and the terms of the will govern.

Dali Designs Crucifix With $20,000 Diamonds

SALVADOR DALI'S diamond studded crucifix

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

Salvador Dali has designed, for the museum or for milady, a second collection of glittering jewels... a crucifix which he calls "Light of Christ" and six "mystic medals."

The medals include a Madonna, showing from one angle the face of the Holy Mother and, from another, the face of Christ; a "Bleeding World" and "Veritas Vincit." The others are profane subjects: "Mad Ophelia," "Daphne" and "Tristan and Isolde."

Commissioned by Alemany & Ertman, and now on exhibition in this New York jewelry firm's showrooms, they are the work of the famous ex-surrealist whose paintings in the last couple of years have reflected specifically his Catholic faith.

The crucifix, consisting of a burst of 600 diamonds in the center of the cross, is for sale for $20,000 and the others at $2,750 apiece, and about $32,000 for the collection.

The materials, besides diamonds, are aquamarines, rubies, emeralds, topaz, lapis lazuli, and a softly burnished gold for base. The jewelry pieces were made in New York under Dali's supervision.

Having a just God to turn to, mankind can confidently expect to have safety from evil. This point is brought out in the Golden Text of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon entitled "Truth" which will be read next Sunday: "O Lord God of hosts, who is a strong Lord like unto thee? or to thy faithfulness round about thee?" Justice and judgment are the habitation of thy throne: mercy and truth shall go before thy face" (Psalms 89:8,14).

The Lesson-Sermon stresses that a knowledge of what is true or gained through the material senses, but through spiritual sense, Mary Baker Eddy, the author of the Christian Science textbook, says, "How true it is that whatever is learned through material sense must be lost because such so-called knowledge is reversed by the spiritual facts of being in Science. That which material sense calls intangible, is found to be substance. What to material sense seems substance, becomes nothingness, as the sense-dream vanishes and reality appears" (p. 312).

GOD'S LIVING LETTERS

PERRYTON MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE

Slavery was looked upon as a divine institution when William Lloyd Garrison was born in 1805. From the Bible many texts were quoted to demonstrate that slavery was God's own idea and was given to man as an instrument of mercy for the slave and for the owner. The argument was advanced that Negroes by nature are inferior and need masters to provide for them. An idea often repeated was that slaves were brought as heathen from the jungle and converted to Christianity.

Few words from an editorial have ever been quoted so frequently as those used by Garrison in his first one in "The Liberator," on January 1, 1831: "I will be as harsh as truth, and as uncompromising as justice. On this subject, I do not wish to think, or speak, or write with moderation. I am in earnest—I will not equivocate—I will not excuse—I will not retreat a single inch—and I will be heard." And he was heard. The circulation of his paper was small, but it was widely quoted. It has been said that if a drop of abolitionism fell anywhere in the United States, it was soon flowing through "The Liberator." For three momentous decades, Garrison thundered and "lightning" without cessation.

There is no doubt that Garrison infuriated the South. Equally, there is no doubt that more than any other one man he created a moral revulsion against the buying and selling and holding of human beings as chattel slaves. Contrast could hardly be sharper than the methods of Garrison and John Woolman the Quaker. Instead of loving persuasion of owners to set at liberty their slaves, unrestrained vituperation was the procedure of Garrison. Garrison's rejoinder was that intense heat is required to melt icebergs of indifference and inaction.

Texas Editor Is A Fighter

TEXAS CITY (AP)—The man they call "Rags" wonders if his friends will recognize him from his picture in Time magazine and Time's account of his efforts to clean up Galveston County gambling.

"Rags" is Clyde Ragsdale, editor of the Texas City Sun, a small-city daily newspaper whose campaign was directed principally at a gambling syndicate on the island city of Galveston.

Time Magazine pictures Ragsdale as a hard-bitten newspaperman with sharply etched lines engraved in his face by enemies of justice and fair play.

Ragsdale is a nice, easy-going guy of 37 years, who greets everyone with a smile. He's a fighter, of course.

Members of the gambling syndicate were brought before the Galveston County grand jury and indicted. In the course of achieving this, Ragsdale said and did things which prompted the sheriff to call him a meddler.

"That's one of the most polite things he called me," Ragsdale comments with a smile.

He has no plans for further crusades. Actually, he lost the fight against the syndicate. The indictments were thrown out of court because of "insufficient evidence."

But Ragsdale intends to "take out after anything that needs the light of day thrown on it."

Of the gamblers, he says "They've been pretty quiet lately, and I like it that way."

Ragsdale believes a newspaper, like a church, "should stand for something." He says "a church should sometimes be like a good newspaper. Fight, and let the chips fall where they may."

Guests in the D. R. Galtner home Sunday were her mother, Mrs. Lillie Parham, and a brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Parham, all of Hooker, Oklahoma.

Self-employed persons who come under social security must file an income tax return if their self-employment brought them $400 or more last year. This tax, covering old age and survivors'
insurance, is regarded as income tax. It is computed on separate schedule C, and entered on page 1 of Form 1040.

There are two key sets of figures in preparing your income tax return—your total income from all sources, and allowable deductions. These will determine the type of return form you use, and whether you itemize your non-business deductions or take advantage of the standard deduction of 10 per cent allowed on your income—subject to limitations discussed below.

The government allows deductions for most non-federal taxes, for losses from fire, storm or theft, for contributions to religious, charitable and educational organizations (but NOT to individuals), for interest paid, and for extraordinary medical and dental expenses, subject again to some limitations.

How to Figure Deductions
If your allowable deductions amount to more than 10 per cent of your income, it will pay you to itemize them. Otherwise, use the standard 10 per cent formula.

This gives a single person, or a married couple filing a joint return, a lump deduction of $600 on a $6,000 income, $850 on $8,500 and so on, up to a maximum of $1,000 on $10,000 income. Married persons filing separately are allowed a $500 deduction.
It is wise to make calculations both ways if you have had large medical expenses or have been making heavy interest payments on a mortgage.

Married couples must decide whether to make separate or joint returns. In most cases, joint returns are advantageous,
because the "income splitting" provision of the present law often results in a smaller tax than would be due on separate returns.
When you make out your return, keep an exact copy for yourself. This will save you time and trouble if you later want to make a change or correction in the return.

Q. I'm planning to study law, and also take a bar review course, under the Korean GI Bill. What do I put down on my application form?

A. You should list both your objectives—which probably will be Bachelor of Laws Degree—and the bar review course. You must list both in order to get both.

Q. I want to get a GI loan to buy a house. What is the largest amount of money I may borrow from my bank?

A. The size of the loan depends entirely on the amount of money your bank or any other lender is willing to lend. The only limit is on the amount of guaranty that VA can issue on the loan. That limit is 60% of the loan up to a maximum of $7,500.

Q. I am getting retirement pay from the armed forces. Is it possible to pay premiums on my National Service Life Insurance policy by allotment?

A. Yes, provided proper arrangements are made with the service department from which you are receiving your retirement pay.

Q. Before I went back on active duty, I was going to college under the World War II GI Bill. I'm about to be discharged, and I want to know whether I can continue with my studies under that law.

A. You will be permitted to resume your training under the World War II GI Bill, provided you begin within a reasonable period after your discharge. Also, your conduct and progress must have been satisfactory while you were in school before, and you must have GI entitlement remaining.

"Where do General Electric's engineers come from?" a visitor asked us. "I suppose they all got trained at MIT, or Cornell, or Michigan."

His question set us pondering, so we started plowing through the file cabinet for an answer. And, of course, it turned out as you'd imagine—NO. General Electric engineers don't always come from eastern technical schools. They won their slide rules from colleges in every state.

Maybe you'd like to hear how many of our bright engineers got their engineering education in your home state. Here's part of the list...

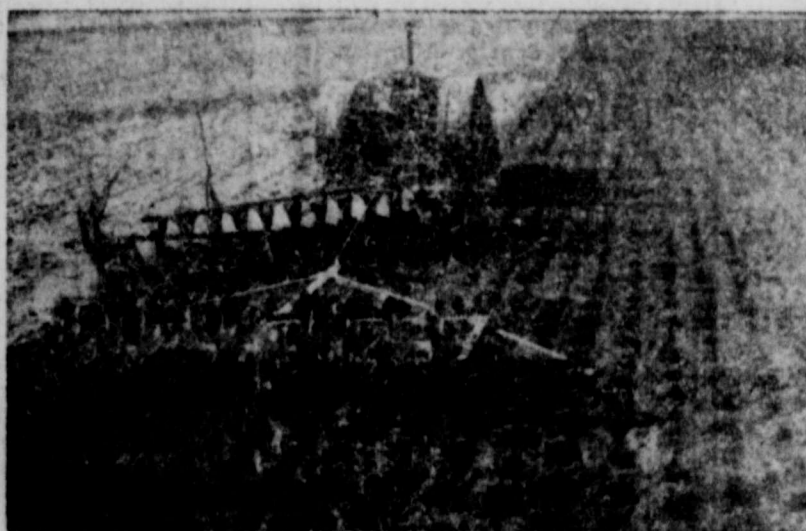

328 came from colleges in Kansas... 207 from Oklahoma... 125 Nebraska... 103 Montana... 97 South Dakota... 87 North Dakota... 47 Arkansas... 41 Wyoming... 411 came from Texas colleges... well, the list includes every state.

One out of every twenty employees at General Electric is an engineer or scientist. You know that a big part of our work is improving products and working out new ideas.

Right now young men from your home state are working on big and important engineering jobs at General Electric. You should be mighty proud of them because—take our word—they're doing a swell job.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Austin's big show—the 53rd Legislature—is now well under way.

The legislators got down to real business this week. Last week the members convened for only one day.

They heard the message of Gov. Allan Shivers. And in the House, Speaker Reuben Senterfitt appointed committees.

Then the House and Senate adjourned until this week.

Even so, progress was ahead of schedule. Usually, House committees cannot be appointed for some time after the election of a speaker.

But, Senterfitt's election was assured in advance. Thus he was able to have his appointments ready on the opening day.

Texas can increase its spending for necessary services without large boosting of taxes.

That was a cheerful note in the governor's address to the members.

More money is coming in from existing revenue sources, so that the governor's recommended $172,529,000 for general revenue appropriations is within the officially estimated state income for the next two years.

The budget is about $6 million higher than the present level of state spending.

Additional money for roads, Governor Shivers believes, should come from another penny-a-gallon tax on gasoline. Otherwise, if the Legislature wants to spend more money, it should increase the natural gas transmission lines "if it can be done in a legal way," the chief executive said.

He recommended salary increases for state workers and teachers, and the construction of a $6,725,000 tubercular hospital plant and buildings at the Texas School for the Deaf.

Freed from the legislative halls after adjournment, the newcomers among the solons were invited to attend an orientation seminar conducted by the University School of Law.

Twenty-five speakers, including public officials, university professors, law-makers, and others told the freshman legislators something about their jobs.

But it was old stuff to Senator George Moffett of Chillicothe. He is in his 23rd year in the legislature and has served longer than any other lawmaker in Texas history.

The runner up is C. E. Nicholson of Port Neches, who has served 22 years in the House.

Another veteran is Rep. S. J. Isaacks, 83, of El Paso. He was sworn in for the first time on January 13, 1903, but he has not served continuously and is now in his ninth term.

Helping the House with its business is Chief Clerk Clarence Jones of Trenton, who was re-elected to that position without a contest. Former Representative Omar Briggs of Denison defeated former Representative W. A. Swindell of Commerce, 74 votes to 71, for sergeant-at-arms. But, Swindell will be chief doorkeeper. Fred Caldwell of Austin was re-elected reading clerk.

A legislator, like anybody else has to look out for himself. Thus it was that both houses finally passed Senate Bill No. 1, which appropriates $750,000 for mileage and per diem pay of members and employees and expenses of the session.

Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg was selected president pro tempore of the upper house. Lieutenant Governor Ben Ramsey of San Augustine, by virtue of his elective office, is the regular presiding officer of the Senate.

As the session moved along, there seemed to be a fair chance that no new taxes would be imposed upon the people.

In his opening speech, Speaker Senterfitt echoed Governor Shivers' sentiments on economy. "Let us demonstrate that economy is truly an essential part of good government," he said.

Then, in his committee appointments, Senterfitt showed that he meant business—economy business. For example, he named a conservative, Representative Max C. Smith of San Marcos, as chairman of the appropriations committee, which passes on legislative spending.

Harmony was also a goal of the legislators, and a plea for this objective was voiced by Representative Bill Daniel of Liberty, brother of Senator Price Daniel.

On the opening day, Rep. Daniel asked to make Speaker Senterfitt's election unanimous so that there may be a mark of harmony, unity, and accord. We should give our support to Mr. Senterfitt. So much must be done."

Rep. Daniel had at one time considered opposing Senterfitt for the speaker's job, but later withdrew.

There was a sad note in the whole procedure for four-year-old Ronnie Senterfitt, who saw his father sworn in as speaker. Ronnie complained that there wasn't any ice cream.

Among the dozens of bills before the legislature is one to outlaw the "Dallas Special," a long-bladed knife frequently employed in cutting and stabbing affairs.

State Health Officer Dr. George Cox, in commenting on the widespread attack of influenza which has hit some 400,000 Texans the past week, says it is "a mild form, but a mixed infection—much more difficult to treat."

Texas' top state officials are more than irked over President Truman's latest move. They are plain mad!

Truman's last-minute act of his administration in turning the tidelands over to the navy was proclaimed by Governor Shivers as sour grapes and an attempt to get back at Texas for choosing Texas-born Ike as President, over Truman's candidate, Adlai Stevenson.

Land Commissioner Bascom Giles termed the action an outrage and Attorney General John Ben Shepperd declared the state might file an injunction.

The President's act did not increase his popularity around the statehouse.

President-Elect Eisenhower has said not once but often that he favored returning the tidelands to Texas and that he would sign such a bill if passed by congress. Truman has twice vetoed such legislation.

Two activities of the 1951 legislature gained considerable attention. One was its decision and determination to re-district the state; the other an equal determination to outlaw gambling. Strange as it may seem, the 1953 legislature had to resort to lottery to decide the length of terms of its members.

Senators filled a jar with capsules and each drew for the number of years he shall serve. Even numbers meant two-year terms; odd numbers four-year terms.

As a result, many of the old-timers will run again come the next election. Among the short-termers are A. M. Aiken, Jr. of Paris, Carlos Ashley of Llano,
