MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

"Looking Backward" was Edward Bellamy's most fascinating book and best seller. Edward Bellamy is dead; his book is dead. A book on a library shelf may be as dead as its author who sleeps in a cemetery. Edward Bellamy was a socialist. His book was a Utopian dream. Utopian dreams never come true. Dreams which are based upon vision and constructive philosophy do come true. Joseph A. Kemp is attaching his signature to the irrigation bonds. He must sign his name forty five hundred times before he has accomplished his task. There are forty five hundred bonds of a denomination of a $1000 each and this calls for forty five hundred rapid strokes of the pen. "Looking Backward" is a pleasant task at times when a dream comes true. Twenty five years ago H. N. F. was the managing editor of perhaps the greatest daily newspaper in Texas and it was twenty five years ago that he first had the pleasure of meeting Joseph A. Kemp. Texas was without irrigation laws. Texas was without irrigation plants. Texas was without lawmakers who had given any thought or study to irrigation possibilities. Wichita Falls was a village, but the man from that village a quarter of a century ago knew the possibilities of irrigation. He had something to sell to his fellow Texans. It was an idea. A splendid idea. He did not wish to sell it for cash. He wished to make converts to the cause of irrigation and the imperative necessity of the lawmakers of Texas submitting to the people a constitutional amendment whose adoption would pave the way for the vast building projects or programs that he had in mind. He sold the idea to H. N. F. and many others. An amendment was submitted to the people but the people had to be educated, they had to be shown, they had to be given object lessons. That amendment went down in defeat, and trachery on the part of a single individual in position to do great harm may have been responsible for its defeat. J. A. Kemp and his partner Frank Kell, did not go down in defeat. Their amendment was defeated but they did not accept defeat. They rallied their forces and they came again and again. They enlisted men of vision the state over. They enlisted the aid and co-operation of newspaper men who did not believe that the earth was flat or that the builders of an empire should ever turn their backs to the rising sun. They had many reserves. The had many rebuffs. There were many obstacles in the way but the dreamer of a quarter of a century ago continued in the saddle at the head of his forces and after more than twenty of years the conservation and reclamation amendment to the constitution of Texas was adopted by the sovereigns of the commonwealth. Amendments go down in defeat every year. Hundreds have gone down since H. N. F. became a resident of the Lone Star Commonwealth. Joseph A. Kemp was the director general of the campaign that witnessed the adoption or success of this particular amendment. There were no other issues or amendments involved and the old politicians of Texas were dumbfounded when the returns came in or the wires flashed the news that the progressives of Texas had carried the election and won a decisive victory. A prohibition amendment to the constitution had been adopted in recent years but that is about all. Many meritorious amendments recommended by former Governor William P. Hobby and other governors were sent to the scrap pile by the ballot wielders of the commonwealth. After this amendment to the organic law of the state enforcement legislation became necessary and the law makers of Texas responded with alacrity—that is a majority responded for even to this day there are men who break into legislative halls at Austin who are ready to swear that the earth is flat and that sun stood still at the command of Joshua. Texas today has a conservation and reclamation organic law and a system of irrigation statutes that may not be perfect but sufficient to meet all emergencies most of the time. It is possible to reclaim the overflow lands of Texas. It is possible to drain the swamps and marshes of Texas. It is possible to reclaim the semi-arid lands of Texas. It is possible to impound and conserve the flood waters of Texas by the building of dams and reservoirs. It is possible to add to the productive lands of Texas millions and millions of acres never touched by plow or hoe. It is possible to make Texas the home of twenty millions of people and raise a surplus from the soil that will feed and clothe fifty millions in addition to the population of the state. Bellamy lost. His dream was Utopian. Kemp won. His dream was practical. Men call him the "father of irrigation in Texas." He is entitled to all the credit and praise that his admiring fellow citizens may bestow but he said to H. N. F. yesterday, "My dream is coming true but if it had not have been for this magnificient community of builders and its undaunted and unrivaled spirit of progress and co-operation I would not be signing these irrigation bonds today." H. N. F. as a chronicler of events or as a writer of sharp comment, has no favorites. He never plays favorites. He believes in flowers for the living if the living are deserving. If a public benefactor is a man who has made two blades of grass grow where but one has grown before, then a benefactor of his kind on a huge scale is this modest American gentlman who launched the program twenty-five years ago for the necessary laws or legislation to bring about conservation of flood waters and the reclamation of vast bodies of land idle for the want of water or idle because subject to overflow during the rainy

SEWELL FIELDS MAY INTRODUCE ALIBI DEFENSE

Jury to Try Wichitan on Charge Robbery of Aged Dean Storekeeper and Wife Is Completed.

Introduction of Evidence Will Start This Morning, the Court Failing to Observe Armistice Day.

Special to the Record News.

HENRIETTA, Nov. 10.—Sewell Fields of Wichita Falls, on trial here in the 30th district court on an indictment which charges that he held up and robbed Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Givens, at their store in Dean, last month, will attempt to prove as a defense that he was in another place at the time the holdup is alleged to have taken place.

The alibi defense of Fields became apparent here today when his attorneys examined prospective jurors. The prospective jurors were asked their attitude toward an alibi defense, their statements indicating that the defense will contend that the accused was at a point "20 miles from the scene of the holdup" at the time it occurred.

The jury of twelve men in whose hands Fields' fate will rest, was completed just before adjournment here today. The jury was obtained after 32 men from the special venire of 75 men had been examined. Three of the venire were excused for cause, the jury being selected from the remainder after the state and defense had exercised their right of preemptory challenge.

The taking of evidence will start this morning, when the state will place J. B. Givens, the aged proprietor of the store at Dean who Fields, with H. T. Scott, is alleged to have held up. The court, of which Judge H. F. Weldon is judge, will not adjourn for Armistice Day.

State's attorneys stated today that they would be able to complete their direct testimony within a couple of hours. A large number of witnesses have been subpoened by the defense and it is expected that their testimony will take at least the remainder of the day.

H. T. "Scotty" Scott, who will be tried Monday, charged by indictment with the same offense, was present in the court room. He talked a short time with Fields. The latter, according to information from one of his attorneys, was married at Wichita Falls on Wednesday. He is said to have married a girl living in that city.

District Attorney H. R. Wilson of Wichita Falls, County Attorney Vincent Stine and J. S. Dickey, special attorney, have charge of the prosecution. John Davenport, of Wichita Falls, and R. E. Taylor, of this city, are the defendant's attorneys.

SINN FEINERS ARE RESPECTING TRUCE PREMIER'S OPINION

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Prime Minister Lloyd George expressed confidence in the house of commons today that the sinn fein negotiators were doing all they could to see that the terms of the truce in Ireland were observed.

Answering questions on the Irish situation, he reiterated his hope that the Irish negotiations would prove successful. With regard to the truce, he said:

"I view with grave concern breaches of the truce that occur in Ireland. They are at once taken up through the machinery established for the purpose and we are satisfied that the representatives of the sinn fein, with whom we are negotiating, are doing their best to secure observance of the terms of the truce."

CITY OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY OF ALLIED VICTORY

Patriotic Exercises, Simple in Keeping With Solemnity of Occasion, to Be Held at Court House.

Practically every office, store, school or industrial plant of such a nature as makes this possible will be closed today in honor of Armistice Day—in keeping with the first nation-wide observance of this anniversary of victory of the Allied Arms and of civilization.

Armisitce Day exercises will be simple, a community exercise at the court house, on the lawn if weather permits, being held under the direction of the Pat Carrigan post, American Legion, of the churches of the city and the civic organizations.

The exercises will begin at 10:00 o'clock and will last approximately an hour and a half. Following the band concert will come an address by Sidney Samuels, Fort Worth attorney, followed by a community singing of patriotic songs, lead by the massed church choirs of the city under the direction of R. E. Shepherd. The Star Spangled Banner, America and Dixie will be on this program. A silent prayer for those who have fallen will be held at 11:00 o'clock.

Armistice Day figured in the program of the Rotary Club Thursday, and will figure in the program of Judge A. H. Carrigan's Sunday school class at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, Judge John C. Kay being the principal speaker on this occasion.

The Kemp Public library will be closed Armistice Day, according to an announcement, books returnable on that day being returnable on November 12. Postponement of the Friday luncheon of the Lions Club, and the Friday evening meeting of the Chamber of Commerce business council until next week by reason of Armistice Day was also announced.

ARMS ADVISORY BODY IS READY TO BEGIN WORK

Committee Will Act as Interpreter Between Public Opinion and American Delegates.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The advisory committee of 21 prepared today to assume its designated role of interpreter between American public opinion and the American big four at the armaments conference.

Through six sub-committees, each charged with a sub-division of the subject matter of the conference, the advisory body expects not only to keep the four principal delegations fully informed about the public reactions developing from the negotiations but also to help the American people grasp the full significance of the highly complicated and technical steps that diplomacy makes necessary.

The first of these two functions will result in a day to day study of editorial opinion throughout the country and of sentiment generally as it finds expression by the accredited spokesmen of labor, agriculture, industry and all of the other specialized interests whose representatives sit as members of the committee.

In the work of interpreting the negotiations to the people, on the other hand, the committee will avail itself of the use of public statements reports and direct communication with those who have questions to ask.

Five of the sub-committees which today's meeting decided to create will specialize respectively in naval armament, land armament, Pacific and Far Eastern questions, new weapons of warfare and general information not falling under any of these heads. The sixth will be named the executive committee and will function as a governing body when meetings of the full membership are impracticable. Each of the six of the sub-committees will have seven members to be chosen by the committee chairman, former Senator Southerland.

In addition to autnorizing the system of sub-committees, the advisory body today paid a short visit of courtesy to President Harding, selected Henry P. Fletcher, under-secretary of state, as its vice chairman and designated Mrs. Eleanor Franklin Egan, a writer on Far Eastern questions, as its secretary. It will meet again on Monday when chairman Sutherland will announce the sub-committee assignments after consultation with all members as to their individual preference.

FT. WORTH & DENVER CITY ROAD IS GIVEN BOND ISSUE PERMIT

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Permission was given the Fort Worth and Denver City railway company by the interstate commerce commission today to extend a bond issue for $8,176,000, due December 1, 1921, to December 1, 1961. The securities now bear a six per cent interest rate but will be extended at the rate of 5 1-2 per cent.

ARMISTICE DAY MESSAGE ADDRESSED BY NATIONAL HEAD AMERICAN LEGION

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—National Commander MacNider of the American Legion, has addressed the following armistice day message to all departments posts and members of the legion:

"In our celebration of armisitce day, it is fitting that we pause and do honor to the heroic dead, those glorious lads of ours who made this day possible; one of rejoicing for the whole world.

"November 11, 1918, should not mean the end of our service to our country, but the beginning. We of the American Legion have pledged ourselves to those buddies of ours who will never come back to carry on the battle for the principles for which they died. We feel that would be their wish, and our inspiration shall be the thought of them andthose of our comrades who are disabled and sick and who must live the war forever.

"If the legion is to be a real power for good in America, we must put behind it the same high, fine, unselfish spirit which characterized these men's service. If we can do that, and we owe it to them to do it, no man need ever fear for the future of America."

TAX REVISION BILL IS SENT TO CONFERENCE

Conferees Advised That House Intends to Vote Separately on House Surtax Amendments.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The house sent the tax revision bill to conference today, without instructions to its managers on any of the 833 senate amendments, but the promise with Republican leaders that opportunity will be given later for a vote on acceptance of the 50 per cent maximum income surtax rate.

The Democrats waged a short but ineffectual fight to force an immediate vote on acceptance of the senate amendment, Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, minority leader, offering a resolution instructing the house managers to accept the 50 per cent rate. The move apparently caught the majority leaders unawares, but after a sharp debate Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, countered with a motion to lay the resolution on the table. That motion prevailed, 200 to 133.

"Insurgent" Republicans favoring the 50 per cent rate over the house maximum of 32 per cent, split on the motion to table. Twenty-five voted against, while one Democrat, Campbell, of Pennsylvania, voted for the motion.

Among the "insurgents" supporting the Mondell motion was Representative Dickinson, of Iowa, a leader of the group who announced yesterday that an agreement had been made with the majority managers to let the bill go to conference without instructions with the understanding that the house would vote separately on the house surtax amendment before the conference reached an agreement on amendment.

FOURTEEN ARE HURT IN WRECK ON SANTA FE

Three Coaches of Kansas City Flyer Roll Down Embankment And Other Cars Leave Rails.

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 10.—Train service has been resumed and trains are running on scheduled time after being discontinued for nearly twelve hours when the Kansas City flyer, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe train number 11 was wrecked two miles south of Mulhall early today. Fourteen persons were injured, one perhaps fatally.

A baggage car, one coach and one chair car rolled down an 18 foot embankment, landing on their sides. Three pullman coaches also left the track but did not turn over.

A special train from Guthrie and one from Oklahoma City were rushed to the scene, carrying doctors and nurses, and equipped with medical supplies. The injured were taken to a Guthrie hospital. Other passengers were brought here by the other special train.

The accident occurred just after the train had passed over Beaver Creek trestle. According to T. W. Roache, engineer, a jolt was felt as the engine struck a broken rail. The engine, a mail car and two baggage cars kept the track, but the remainder of the train left the rails, and all coaches except three Pullmans rolled down the embankment.

Hundreds of yards of track were torn up, but repair work began at once and the first train to get past the wreckage arrived here late today. Railroad officials stated that the accident was the most serious to occur on the company's lines in Oklahoma for many years.

THOUSANDS PAY HOMAGE TO U. S. UNKNOWN HERO

River of Humanity Flows Constantly Past Bier of Soldier Who Symbolizes American Valor.

Floral Tributes of Organization and Individuals Bury Casket Under Canopy of Color.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—A river of humanity, American men, women and children, Americans by heritage, Americans by election, flowed all day today and far into the night, past the bier of the dead soldier under the great dome of the capitol. It flowed as the life blood of the nation itself—a slow but overwhelming human torrent, gathered to attest the valor of America's dead in France.

From early day until long after darkness had shrouded the city, the great stream surged up the eastern front of the rotunda, four abreast, up the granite stairway, in through the huge doorway, to pass solemnly, reverently by the casket and its five guards, motionaless as the statue of Lincoln and Grant at the far doorway, which looked down on the moving spectacle.

Out through that doorway, the stream passed, through the stately corridor and its marble stairway, and down over the wide terraces of the western front to the homes in the city below. Each hour saw thousands make the slow journey of honor to the dead. Each hour saw new thousands pouring up the wide driveways that circled the great building to replenish the living stream.

Son of the People

That was the overshadowing element in the cycle of honors heaped this nameless soldier, this son of the people come home to claim the great reward his valiant heart had earned. And it was his own people, of every nook of the nation, that silently gave this reward, more precious than any jeweled or carved token that governments of the world will place tomorrow above the still breast of the sleeper.

To one side of the throng that rolled ceaselessly by the flag draped casket a second unending ceremonial honors for the dead went on. There great men, gathered in Washington to deal with great affairs, came humbly to place their wreaths and roses at the bier. There came comrades, limping from wounds that brought them down in France. There came gray-haired veterans of old wars, moved to do honor to the young, stricken comrade of the last great

FIREMAN LOSES LIFE IN WRECK NEAR LONGVIEW

Fireman is Killed And Engineer Injured When Two Texas and Pacific Trains Collide.

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 10.—One man was killed and another slightly injured when two trains crashed head-on a few miles from Longview, according to reports reaching here today. Charles A. Smith Jr., fireman on the Texas & Pacific special meat train, is dead, and C. L. Garrett, engineer of a westbound passenger train, is badly bruised. None of the passengers were injured, according to the dispatch received here. The body of Smith was found under the wreckage. He was fireman for his father, who escaped injury.

Reports to the dispacher's office said the wreckage was ignited through the explosion of the gasoline car and eight freight cars were destroyed by fire.

HOUSE VOTES EXTENSION ON TARIFF BILL

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The house concurred today in senate amendments to the bill extending the life of the emergency tariff until it is supplanted by a permanent law. The measure now goes to the president.

The senate changes were accepted by a vote of 223 to 93, democrats voting almost solidly in the negative.

The emergency tariff was to have expired November 27. Advocating the extension, Representative Mondell of Wyoming, republican leader, declared the country and republicans in the house desired speedy enactment of a permanent tariff law. Influence, he added, is being exerted to speed up senate action.

EASTERN ROAD EXECUTIVES TO ASK WAGE CUT

Reductions Sought Approximate Ten Per Cent and Affect About One Million Rail Workers.

Similar Action is Expected to Be Taken by Railroads Operating in the South and West.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Immediate action will be taken to bring about reduction in the wages of train and yard service employes, approximately ten per cent on all lines north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers and east of the Mississippi, it was announced today, after a meeting of the presidents of the lines involved.

Reductions, according to L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, will be in line with the decision reached by the railroad executives in Chicago on October 14. The wage cuts will affect approximately 1,000,000 men.

The executive committee of the association of railway executives will go to Washington Saturday, it was announced, to confer with members of the interstate commerce commission regarding the best means for bringing about a reduction in freight rates.

The railroad executives announced that when the ten per cent additional wage reduction first was proposed, they intend to pass the decreased cost of operation along to the public in rate cuts.

Mr. Loree said the posting of wage reduction notices will be done by the various roads as individual organizations, but he added it was anticipated that it would be done by all within the week.

This action, it was stated, expected to create a technical dispute or controversy with employes, the notices stating the cut will be effective 30 days from date of posting.

If the men do not accede, the matter will then be carried to the railroad labor board with a request for an early hearing. Staticians of the association of railway executives are now engaged in working out detailed statements as to the cost of living and prevailing wages.

Similar action will soon be taken by the southern and western railroads, one of the executives said.

Detailed figures as to the actual number of employes who would be affected in that event were not available, but there are said to be approximately 600,000 in the west and 300,000 in the south. Since July 1, it was said between eighty and ninety thousand employes have been added to the various lines.

EARLY CONSIDERATION BY RAIL BOARD IMPROBABLE

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—If the application for a reduction in the wages of train and yard service employes on eastern roads is placed before the United States railroad labor board, it probably would not be considered for some time, it was indicated today at the board's offices when members were informed by The Associated Press of the intention of such roads to seek a 10 per cent. reducti..

The board's decision not to consider further reductions in pay for any class of employes until disputes involving working rules and agreements for that class have been settled, will be followed, board members said, and asserted there were 40 to 50 such pending cases.

LOUISIANA SEEKS TO HOLD PATENTS ON OIL PROPERTIES

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The state of Louisiana through her attorney-general today filed suit in the Supreme court of the District of Columbia for a writ of injunction to restrain Secretary Fall of the interior department from canceling patents on certain lands near Baton Rouge, said to be underlaid with gas and oil.

The suit is said to be a test case upon the outcome of which will depend the right of many states in the South and Southeast to maintain possession to valuable mineral patents comprised within tracts of lands deeded to them by the federal government. The lands affected by the Louisiana suit were conveyed to that state by federal patent in 1871.

FORMATION OF NEW CABINET SOUGHT BY JAPANESE LEADERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Attempts to induce Prince Saionji to form the new cabinet are being made at Tokio, according to unofficial cables received in Washington by Japanese who have gathered here for the conference.

Prince Saionji is 77 years old, and his health may prevent his acceptance. In that event, it is said, the idea existed at Tokio that the task of naming a new cabinet would fall upon T. Noda, the present minister of communications or upon Viscount Takahashi, the minister of finance, who is well known in the United States through his visit here at the time of the Russo-Japanese war. All three of the above men are prominent in the Seiyukai, or government party.

AMERICA WILL PRESENT ARMS CUT FORMULA

U. S. Proposals for Limitation of Armaments Continue to Remain Closely Guarded Secret.

Cessation of Naval Increases for Given Period of Years Believed to Be Basis of Propositions.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Proposals to be made by the American delegation to the conference on limitation of armament, apparently constitute the only suggestion or reveal in advance as to ways and means of curtailing naval expenditures without sacrifice by any power of its national security. Great Britain is not known to have worked out any formula; Japan is awaiting the American suggestion; France and Italy are more concerned with land forces than navies.

Two days before the conference opens, the American proposals remain a closely guarded secret. It is doubtful if any but President Harding, the four American delegates and possibly the highest officers and officials of the navy department know exactly what the proposals are. This much is known:

A definite formula for agreement on limitation of naval forces has been reached by Secretary Hughes and his colleagues of the American delegation. The formula is an entirely practical one. It does not attempt to state any general rule for establishing equitable relativity of naval forces between the powers. It does not attempt to fix a common denominator by which all navies could be divided and each power assigned by agreement the member of units it could maintain with world approval.

Practical Proposition

The American suggestion will deal with things as they are. It will be a plain proposition of shipbuilt, building or authorized, of naval bases, of the vital element of naval complements, of the potential naval significance of merchant marines and of other concrete, existing or planned weapons and auxiliaries of naval warfare.

Also it is regarded by those who framed the suggestions as a bold stroke for naval reduction; possibly too bold for immediate reduction.

Beyond this limited outline of what is going on behind the scenes, nothing has yet been available.

Washington is filled, however, with conjecture as to what the American delegation will propose. There are almost as many theories as there are men to talk about it, and their name is legion. The explanation given by Admiral Baron Kato, head of the Japanese delegation of Japan's attitude in entering the conference and her willingness to cut down her naval program under agreement has added to the speculation. Lacking the moving factor in the coming deliberations, however, the American proposal it is difficult to say to what extent Admiral Kato's utterance has cleared the air.

There is a feeling in some well informed circles that Baron Kato touched the heart of the matter in stating Japan's willingness to reduce her now famous eight battleship and eight battle cruiser fleet program. To that sequence is to be added a third eight, as under Japanese standards of naval obsolescence a capital ship has a first line life of but eight years and must be replaced by a new ship within that period.

The American navy has no definite objective. It does not represent an ordered program of replacement for maintaining any fixed force on a fixed ratio of battleships and battle cruisers.

The old British two-power standard which governed the building program prior to 1914, went by the board with the German fleet.

Britain is not today building any capital ships. Four new battle cruisers have been authorized in the way of replacements for war losses and to balance that side of the fleet, but they have not been laid down.

Japans' Status Unknown

The exact status of Japan's new craft is not known. It is certain, however, that Japan has not started construction on all the super-war ships her eight and eight program would require. That fleet ratio, Baron Kato said would not be achieved before 1928.

The American program of 1916 reaffirmed by congress in later years, but deferred during the war and greatly slowed down this year by limited appropriations is in much the same status. It includes six battleships and six battle cruisers. Keels of all have been laid. Actual work on construction of one battleship, the Massachusetts, has been stationary at about four per cent for several months. Work on the other five ranges from 19 to 27 per cent. Of the battle cruisers, one is placed at 1.1 per cent, one at 5.9 per cent, one at 6.3 per cent, one at 12.6 per cent, one at 16.5 per cent and the nearest completion at 20 per cent finished. These figures are for work on the ships and do not include material ordered.

There is a growing belief that these figures may plan an important part in the American reduction proposals. It is suggested that a cessation of naval increases for a period of years, perhaps a decade, may be proposed. If that should prove acceptable, it is said, it might be followed by proposals to cancel ships laid down on a ship-for-ship basis.

It is regarded as probable that Great Britain would accept some such proposal affecting her four authorized battle cruisers, but even in the light of Admiral Kato's statement of Japan's willingness to cut her program it is not clear how a ship-for-ship cancellation plan might be viewed by her representatives. Each ship struck off the list would mean a heavier proportionate reduction for Japan, it is said, than for Great Britain or the United States. In any case, naval officers point out, the question of naval replacements must be dealt with and some scheme evolved under which an equitable [illegible] one might be maintained if that were the desire of the conference. Also it is suggested no naval power would be willing to stop all construction because of the factor of advancement of knowledge in naval engineering which can be carried on only by building. That phase, it is said, is certain to be given attention. Many other plans are talked about, but there is nothing to indicate that anybody is in the confidence of the American delegation as to what plans it has to propose. When that it is known and it is to be publicly announced, it has been stated repeatedly, when the conference meets in open session an approximation of the extent to which an agreement to cut down naval forces is possible of realization may be discernable.

Notable among the day's conferences among representatives of the individual nations, was a meeting of those who will comprise the second line of representation for the United States, the advisory committee named by President Harding to "advise and assist" the American delegates. The committee completed its organization by the authorization of six sub-committees to act as interpretative agencies for the American public opinion on the questions before the conference.

By exchanges among the participating nations, final agreement was reached on the program for the opening day, last minute touches were added to physical arrangements in the conference hall and every detail of the preparations was completed so that nothing would remain to be done during tomorrow's session of mourning.

As finally drawn up the plans for the opening session will start the conference with a minimum of frills and diplomatic niceties. Secretary Hughes will bring the delegates to order. There will be a prayer, the president will make a short address, a permanent chairman will be chosen, and the conference will go to work forthwith. President Harding will entertain all the delegates at dinner at the White House Sunday night.

Unless surface indications are deceiving, the United States alone among the powers will be ready to come forward at the outset with a concrete proposal for armament limitation.

STAGE IS SET FOR BEGINNING ARMS PARLEY

All Foreign Delegations Have Arrived With Exception of Portuguese Delegations.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The great powers completed their preparations today for the conference on limitation of armament.

Tonight their representatives, laying by the role of negotiators, set aside as a period of mourning for America's soldier dead the hours remaining before the conference assembled on Saturday.

The last of the major delegations was completed by the day's arrivals, who included Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British group, until the coming of Lloyd George and additional delegates from New Zealand, Australia and Italy.

Welcomed with all the ceremony that can attend the advent of a distinguished spokesman of a great power, Mr. Balfour reached Washington declaring a conviction that the conference would accomplish an historic advance in international amity.

Only the delegation from Portugal, which is to arrive tomorrow, was missing tonight from the roll of those who will sit about the conference table when President Harding makes the opening address Saturday.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

seasons of the year. Irrigation is a science or system as old as civilization. When Cortez invaded Mexico and Pizzaro invaded Peru these daring and unscrupulous adventures found that the Montezumas were irrigators and the Incas of Peru and their subjects in a rude way knew the value of water conservation and practiced it when the sun scorched the fields and droughts came to rob the primitive people who tilled the soil of the fruits of their labor. Away down on the Rio Grande and many miles north of the Rio Grande, almost touching the border lines of the Alamo City centuries ago the Franciscan Fathers taught the Indians how to construct crude reservoir to catch the flood-waters and crude ditches or canals through which could flow the moisture to the corn patches and gardens on the fringe of the mission buildings in those early and primitive days of Texas history. Now the valley of the Wichita is to know the magical flow of impounded flood waters when the occasion calls for it. Now the lower Rio Grande Valley promises to become one of the garden spots of the world. Now the upper Rio Grande Valley, below El Paso, is as productive as the valley of the Nile since Lord Cromer built one of the most gigantic irrigations systems of the world. Montana and Idaho and Washington have been placed on the map by the magical flow of irrigated water. There is an Imperial Valley in California, on the border line of Mexico, where irrigation has achieved results that are astounding. Go to the Pecos River country and marvels of productivity are ever on exhibition. Go where you will the wide world over and the irrigated acre responds to moisture and its yield is from six to ten times as great as the unirrigated acre. And looking backward and [illegible] looking forward, H. N. F. [illegible] Joseph A. For that period in 1920, the railroads lacked $6,662,573 of paying expenses while for the period this year the total net revenue was $23,375,742.

LAWTON, Okla., Nov. 10.—The Security National bank of Lawton, capitalized at $100,000, did not open for business today and an announcement placed in the window and signed by the board of directors, stated that the institution had been closed for liquidation. Such action, the announcement said, was intended to protect depositors who will share equally in liquidation to be affected by the comptroller of currency at Washington.

HAMPTON GETS $500 FINE AS RESULT CRASH

Jury Finds Driver of Car Which Crashed Into Hallowe'en Party, Resulting in Girl's Death, Guilty.

Defense Gives Notice of Intent to Appeal; Negligent Homicide in First Degree Is Jury Verdict.

After deliberating one hour Thursday morning, the jury in the case of J. C. Hampton, local laundry driver, charged with negligent homicide in connection with the death of Miss Oneta White, 16-year-old girl, who died as the result of injuries received when struck by an automobile driven by Hampton, rendered a verdict of guilty in the first degree and assessed a $500 fine.

The case went to the jury late Wednesday evening after being on trial since Monday morning before Judge Guy Rogers of the county court at law. The jury did not take up the consideration of the case until Thursday morning.

Immediately after the verdict had been handed to Judge Rogers by the jury foreman, W. A. Boyd, former chief of the detectives and announced, W. M. Bonner, one of the attorneys for the accused, gave notice of a motion for new trial, the hearing for which was set for Saturday morning. Attorney Bonner asked that all members of the jury be present at the hearing. The reason for the request was not announced.

As the only important case that has been tried in a county court in recent years testing the criminal responsibility of an automobile driver in a fatal accident for which the state alleged the negligence of the driver was directly responsible, the trial attracted considerable attention, the session being largely attended.

According to the testimony introduced by the state, Hampton, accompanied by three friends, was driving the car which, on the night of October 31, drove into a party of young people on the concrete road west of this city, injuring several members of the party, with fatal injuries to Miss Oneta White, local high school girl.

The state alleged that Hampton passed the car on the wrong side of the road and failed to give warning to members of the party who were standing beside a truck while a tire was being repaired preparatory to their returning to this city.

According to the court's charge, Hampton, for first degree negligent homicide, could have been assessed a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine or one year in jail. Second degree negligent homicide provides a maximum penalty of three years in the penitentiary or a $5,000 fine.

Graduate of Hi School's First Class Is Here

Dr. A. C. Pratt, member of the first class graduated from the old brick high school building, in 1891, is a visitor in Wichita Falls and Iowa Park, for the second time since leaving this city in 1894, and the first times inee before the world war.

Dr. Pratt, accompanied by Mrs. Pratt, is visiting his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Crites, at Iowa Park, and is enjoying a brief reunion with some of his old schoolmates before leaving for Long Beach, Cal., where he will spend the winter. His home is now in Gallup, New Mexico.

During the war Major Pratt was stationed at various points in France, and at the close of hostilities he asked for service in Armenia, where he and Mrs. Pratt, who was also in the service, remained in hospital work until about a year ago, when they returned to the United States.

SEYMOUR CITIZENS LAUNCH CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER ROADS

SEYMOUR, Texas, Nov. 10.—The weekly luncheon Wednesday of the Chamber of Commerce was one of the most important and enthusiastic meetings of the body since its organization. Better roads for Baylor county was the topic which had the attention of a large attendance and some very important steps were taken to that end.

A committee composed of F. H. Davis, W. B. Alexander, R. D. Mugg, C. L. Caldwell and J. A. Wheat were appointed to get estimates and circulate petitions for a road bond issue, (the amount to be determined after estimates have been secured for the work in view) asking the commissioners' court to call an election to vote the necessary bonds to finance the contemplated improvement. Surfacing the road west from Seymour to the county line is included in the improvements discussed.

IOWA PARK WOMAN, INJURED WHEN FIRE BURNED HOME, DIES

IOWA PARK, Texas, Nov. 10.—Having failed to regain consciousness since the burns received when the home burned Tuesday evening, Mrs. J. W. Busby died at 11 o'clock last night.

The boy, about fourteen years old, who was burned at the time is still in the sanitarium in a very critical condition. The three children who received less serious burns at the same time are being cared for by neighbors since having been removed from the sanitarium yesterday.

struggle; there in ordered course came the ambassadors and the ministers and the special envoys of governments around the world.

There were formal services, ever always with the shuffling footsteps of the human river beyond merging with the prayers and the chants the spoken tributes to the dead. These were sons, like those wounded boys from France, who stood awed and abashed at the solemn majesty that had come to this comrade.

Floral Tributes.

The loyal legion headed by Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A. retired, with American and Legion flags, held short services at the bier and was followed by representatives of the grand army of the republic. As the veterans of the Civil war, many of them feeble and a few in faded uniforms, concluded a brief service, their place beside the casket was taken by wounded soldiers from Walter Reed hospital, veterans of the world war who placed a large wreath of chrysanthemums as mark of their regard for their unknown buddy.

A group of Knights of Columbus in regalia clustered around the bier and recited their ritual for the dead.

Mrs. Adelaide W. Bagley, mother of Mrs. Josephus Daniels, placed a cluster of palm leaves and roses at the bier in memory of her son, Ensign Worth Bagley, the only American naval officer killed in the war with Spain.

Even Russia was represented in the tributes to the dead, a delegation from the old Russian embassy placing a gift of flowers at the bier. The flowers, in white and red, were in the form of the cross of St. George, Russia's highest military distinction.

Representatives of the American Federation of Labor placed a floral wreath upon the bier with the inscription.

"Live on, 'non spirit of justice, freedom, Democracy and humanity.

"A grateful tribute to our unknown soldier, from the American Federation of Labor."

Many Organizations.

Floral tributes were laid on the casket by many organizations, including the American Legion, the American war mothers, veterans of foreign wars, order of Indian wars, military order of the world war, United States Infantry association, Daughers of Veterans, American Women's legion, 80th division, Sons of Temperance, and National Confederate organizations, including the Daughters of the Confederacy.

After getting word from the outskirts that fully 20,000 people were waiting their turn to enter the rotunda, the military authorities decided to keep the doors open until all in line at 12 o'clock, the hour set for closing, had passed through.

General Pershing stood again tonight before the coffin of the unknown soldier and there were tears in his eyes as he turned away.

At 10:30 o'clock the crowd, which extended ten deep for many blocks, was roped off by the police at a point where it was thought those within the lines would have opportunity to pass into the rotunda by midnight.

Among those to place a wreath at the catafalque tonight was the Salvation Army.

It lacked just fifteen minutes of midnight when the last of the line which had been moving steadily past the catafalque for almost 16 hours had paid their silent respect to the dead and the doors were closed.

The capitol police estimated that from 90,000 to 96,000 people had filed through the rotunda since 8 a. m.

STIMULATED RETAIL BUSINESS FEATURE OF WEEK IN TRADE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Bradstreets this week will say:

"The outstanding features in trade and industry this week, aside from the very general interruption to business by holidays, have been re-livening-up of retail trade, due to cold weather, and the disposition manifested by the railways to come into the market for cars, locomotives and rails.

"The bulk of the improvement in retail buying has been shown in the northern tier of states, the south reflecting little of this and in addition feeling the depressing influences proceedings from a further decline in the price of cotton. For this latter development, growing belief in a larger than predicted cotton crop is mainly responsible.

"While the south's great staple has declined, the reverse has happened in wheat, which, after breaking through the dollar mark has firmed up again. The stock market has shown continued strength, and bond dealings are reported active the country over, the lower earning power of money being the important influence in this direction."

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW $30,000 CHURCH BUILDING, SEYMOUR

SEYMOUR, Texas, Nov. 10.—The contract has been let and work will begin Monday on the erection of the new $30,000 First Presbyterian church here. It will be located in West Seymour on Cedar street and will be modern in every particular. Dark grey face brick and Indiana limestone will give the edifice a very attractive appearance.

The building will have nine Sunday school rooms, kitchen and gymnasium, and the main auditorium will seat about 500 people. The contract was awarded to Chas. Mathis and is to be completed by March 15. Rev. Callan W. Yates is the pastor and J. T. Lively, Geo. S. Plants, O. McDaniel, S. S. Knox and W. S. Scruggs the building committee.

Balfour Looks For Success at Armament Meet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Arthur J. Balfour, acting head of the delegation representing the British empire in the armament and Far Eastern conference, arrived in Washington today with other members of his party which landed at Quebec Tuesday. Simultaneously the delegates from New Zealand and Australia reached the city, completing with the exception of Premier Lloyd George, who has promised to come later, the British representation in the conference.

In a formal statement later, Mr. Balfour referred to the forthcoming armament conference as a "most happy inspiration" of President Harding and expressed the conviction that its objects "will not fail of accomplishment."

"It is more than four years," Mr. Balfour said, "since I left this well remembered scene and said farewell to my many friends in Washington. It was a most critical stage in the great war and notwithstanding that there was nothing more to be feared from the enemy's battleships, the submarine campaign, though its intensity had somewhat diminished, was still most formidable. In the west and in the Atlantic to the Pacific, animated by a single spirit, America was concentrating her vast resources and preparing to throw her whole strength into the world struggle. We all know the result. It came more completely and more quickly than most of us had dared to hope. And exactly three years ago, the greatest of victories concluded the greatest of wars."

Six Months Is Jury Verdict in $10 Theft Case

Accused of the theft of coat valued at approximately $10 John Williams was found guilty of theft by a jury in the county court-at-law Thursday morning and sentenced to six months in the county jail. Williams had no attorney to represent him. He cross examined the state witnesses himself and took the stand in his own defense.

He was alleged to have stolen the coat from Charles Berry, farmer living on the Petrolia road.

The same jury acquitted Frank Marino in the afternoon. He was charged with theft of lumb from a local lumber yard.

Do You All Believe Me?

I have been telling you stuff right off my heart.

I have been talking to you because I knew I had something that would interest you.

For the benefit of some in the crowd, who just came in, I will say I have been talking about a cotton picking machine.

A machine that will crawl out into the field and pick all of the cotton better than a man could pick it, without injury to the blooms, unopened bolls and foliage.

You don't believe it—I am talking to the newcomers—you think I am stringing you.

Well, I ain't.

The Wichita Motors Company of Wichita Falls, Texas, one of the best known truck building concerns on the American continent, headed by Jack Culbertson, is going to build these machines.

It is a big program he has outlined.

It takes a lot of money to put over this gigantic enterprise as it should be put over.

It is a real opportunity.

The Wichita Motors Company is going to put its proposition up to the investing public.

Going to give you a chance to participate in the profits of the cotton picking machine cobined with the profits of the Wichita Motors Company.

Jack Culbertson, the man who made the Wichita truck a world known machine, is going to build this cotton picking machine. He is a practical man. He knows machinery. He knows the manufacturing end of machinery and he knows the selling end.

He has associated with him Theodore H. Price, the heavyweight operator in the cotton market for many years, and to all the recognized authority on everything that pertains to cotton.

He has with him J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls, Texas, a successful banker, manufacturer, capitalist and city builder, who believes implicity in the cotton picking machine.

These three successful men are engaged in launching the cotton picking machine.

These men decided to go to the public and sell stock that in ordinary years would be gobbled up by Eastern financiers.

Here is your opportunity.

Here's your chance.

The Wichita Motors Company will sell you 8% preferred stock of $10.00 per share.

For a limited time it will throw in one share of common stock of the same par value.

If you have any money that isn't working—

If you want to invest your savings in an enterprise that is certain to revolutionize the South—

If you want to place your money in the hands of high grade men who stand at the top on the financial world—

Buy this stock at $10.00 per share.

Get a bonus of $10.00 common stock before it is too late.

It will soar as soon as these picking machines begin to crawl over the fields of this country.

I don't believe any stock ever put out will pay dividends like this stock.

Do you?

Publicity Man for the New Cotton Picker.

3 YEARS AGO

at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month — there was a lull in the activities of the World War, a significant pause that was to last for seventy-two hours or for years to come. The Armistice meant the triumph of all that we hold near and dear; it meant the beginning of the end of terrible struggle and sorrow. In commemoration of this, one of the most tremendous moments in our history.

NOVEMBER 11
ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice Day

November 11th, 1921

This day commemorates the end of German militarism and the death of autocratic ambition.

November 11, 1918, will be remembered as long as our nation endures and our starry flag waves.

Today is a day set aside for heroes—for the men who braved grim war and terrible death that the world might be free from the ruthless heel of the despot.

Eyes dim with tears unashamed when we remember the sublime sacrifice of thousands of young lives so willingly made for home and country.

The world's mightest nation pauses to do honor to the valient living and the heroic dead.

This page is published by the undersigned Banks of Wichita Falls in memory of the men who fell in war and who suffered wounds and mutilation in the great battle for freedom.

No praise, no gratitude, no reverence can be too great for the men who answered the call and freely gave themselves in the time of their country's need.

ARMISTICE DAY

The banks of Wichita Falls, on this, the anniversary of Armistice Day, take this opportunity to pay tribute to the men who fought in the Great War—not alone to those who have returned to us fortunate in their escape from injury, nor yet alone to those who made the supreme sacrifice, but as well to the splendid fellows who were maimed and blinded and for whom the war shall never end.

MEAT AND ITS COST.

As a means of driving down the retail cost of meat, the Washington correspondent of the Kansas City Star says federal government officials have conferred with the big packers as to the possibility of getting them to open retail meat markets in all the large cities of the country to sell direct to the consumer. Cattle and hogs are either down to or below their pre-war levels. Government officials made a survey of the cost of the distribution system on meats, particularly in the retail stores. Paper in which the meat was wrapped for the housewife cost them 70 per cent more; twine is slightly higher; rents are higher and delivery cost is entirely out of proportion. Now how would it be possible for the government to push the big packers into the retail meat business? Of course the retailer has a defense—high taxes and other high expenses. Moreover, he says 67 per cent of the cost of retailing goes in wages and these wages have reached 117 per cent above the pre-war level.

China has promised to pay her foreign obligations. Flowers for the living. China has more than promised to pay. She is to insure prompt payment. This is more than Great Britain or France or other very advanced and very civilized nations have undertaken. China always pays. A Chink always pays. He never breaks his word. He never repudiates an honest obligation. Of course he is a heathen, religiously speaking, but somewhere in the dim past he absorbed the golden rule doctrine of paying as you go or at least paying when you promised to pay or giving a valid reason why.

Attorney General C. M. Cureton will not be a candidate to succeed himself nor for any other political office. This will remove from the politics of the state one of the ablest, most efficient and fairest men honored in recent years by the votes of the people. He will carry with him on retirement this popular plaudit, "Well done thou good and faithful servant."

Kansas is in need of rain.—Northern Exchange. Kansas hasn't anything on Texas. Texas needs rain and then more rain. If it would pour down continuously for seven days and nights it would just about supply the demand in a vast territory lying between the Colorado foothills and the Gulf of Mexico.

Taylor county farmers picked more than 8,000 bales of cotton this year. Taylor conuty farmers have money in their socks and turkeys in the pens for Thanksgiving Day.

"BIG BILL" AND HERBERT HOOVER.

Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson of Chicago was spitted over slow fire by Secretary Herbert Hoover. "Big Bill" said that the measures adopted by the national conference on unemployment was a capitalistic move to crush labor and lower wages. Secretary Hoover blandly reminded "Big Bill" that the recommendations of the conference were the unanimous view of the American labor organizations, railway brotherhoods, chambers of commerce and manufacturers associations. "Big Bill" had refused to initiate the measures of relief recommended. His heart he said bled internally and externally, but it was a capitalistic move and he was agin' it. "Big Bill" is a racous demogogue as well as a big machine boss. He was given a sound political thrashing by the independent voters of Chicago last summer when he attempted to pick hand-made judges for the people. He will be given another walloping when he goes before the people with another hand-picked ticket. Chicago is weary of "Big Bill" and the people of that city later along are going to throw him in the sewer constructed for political charlatans of his type. This is America; this is the dawning day of the twentieth century.

Lest we forget the new tax bill will repeal January 1 taxes on sporting goods, proprietaries, chewing gum, reduce the candy tax from five to three per cent, cut the tax on art goods in half and repeal the tax on admissions of 10 cents; repeal the soda fountain tax and reduces taxes on fountain syrups and carbonated water. It will leave inheritance unchanged except for increases in the levies on the largest estates and eliminate tax on life insurance premiums. Holding companies are exempted for the payment of taxes on subsidiaries. Here is hoping the first of January, 1921, will roll around without unnecessary delay.

There were 1,418,945 persons ten years of age and over in Texas, according to the late census, engaged in gainful occupations, except those of women doing housework in their own homes. If housework is not a gainful occupation then there should be a new classification. Mother certainly does a vast deal of work. If she isn't paid for her labor, then it must be the fault of father.

According to report by the gas and oil committee of the American Gas Association, the United States will face in the future an oil famine whirh will restrict the use of motor cars and increase the cost of gasoline unless immediate steps are taken to increase the supply. There is a million wild catters ready. All they need is water and working capital.

And it has come to pass that the Sheppard-Tower Bill for protection of maternity and infancy has been favorably reported by the house interstate commerce comittee. It already had been passed by the senate. Of course this measure has many opponents, but woman has the ballot now. She knows what she wants. Politicians know what she wants.

Nearly 5,000 teachers are expected to attend the convention of the Texas State Teachers' Association in Dallas, November 24 and 25. Teaching is the most honorable of all the professions. And teaching is the most poverty stricken, speaking of salaries, of all the professions. Why there are thousands of parents or guardians of children who evolve spasms when the teacher demands a living wage. In "the good old days" they taught for almost nothing and "boarded around." They should thank God for the going of "the good old days."

SAMMY TELLS HIS TROUBLES TO REDDY

Sammy Jay could think of nothing but the terrible fright he had had at Farmer Brown's cornerib. He had thrust his bill through a crack for a few grains of corn when something had seized his bill and hung on. Sammy didn't have the least bit of doubt that it was a trap of some kind set by Farmer Brown's boy. He flew down to the Green Forest to think it over and plan some way to get even with Farmer Brown's boy. As he sat there muttering to himself along came Reddy Fox. For a wonder Reddy saw Sammy before Sammy saw him.

Reddy grinned. "Sammy certainly has got something on his mind," thought Reddy. Then he said aloud, "Hello, Sammy! What's the matter? You look as if you had the stomachache and the headache and a few other aches."

"Matter enough, Reddy Fox! Matter enough!" snapped Sammy. Then because he felt that he just had to tell some one he told Reddy all about his terrible fright that morning.

"It was a trap," said Sammy. "It was some kind of a trap set by Farmer Brown's boy. Just as if he couldn't spare a few grains of corn when he has got so much! I—I—I'd like to peck his eyes out! That's what I'd like to do!"

Sammy said that because it was the most dreadful thing he could think of, but he didn't really mean it. Reddy knew it and grinned, for he also knew that Sammy didn't dare go near enough to Farmer Brown's boy to more than scream at him. All the time he had been listening, Reddy had sat with his head cocked on one side, which is a way he has when he's thinking. Inside he was laughing, for Reddy knows a lot about traps and about Farmer Brown's boy and he didn't believe that Farmer Brown's boy would ever set a trap in such a queer place as a crack in the wall of a corn-crib. "He wouldn't bother to try to trap Sammy Jay; he would just watch with his gun and shoot Sammy if he really cared about the few grains of corn Sammy has taken," thought Reddy. "It was some one or something else that frightened Sammy. But it isn't the least bit of use to tell him so. I believe I'll have a look and see what is going on at that corn-crib." Aloud he said,

"That was a terrible experience, Sammy Jay, and I don't wonder you were frightened. Are you going up there to-morrow morning?"

"What?" screamed Sammy. "Going up there again? What do you take me for? I guess I don't need but one lesson of that kind. There's plenty to eat in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows without running any such risk as that. No, sir, you won't catch fe around Farmer Brown's corn-crib again very soon; not if my name is Sammy Jay!"

"You are wise, very wise," replied Reddy gravely. "It is always wise to keep out of danger." And with this Reddy trotted on up the Lone Little Path and inside his red head were busy thoughts. Reddy had made up his mind that there was something very queer about Sammy Jay's fright and he meant to find out about it. He would be on hand at the first peep of day the next morning and see what was going on around Farmer Brown's corn-crib.

And all day long Sammy Jay flew about through the Green Forest telling every one who would listen how Farmer Brown's boy had tried to trap him. Late that afternoon he visited the Old Orchard and told his story all over again to Chatterer, the Red Squirrel, and Chatterer didn't so much as smile until after Sammy had left. Then he threw himself on the ground and rolled over and over and laughed until his sides ached.

"H—mm," said Reddy Fox thoughtfully, as unseen by Chatterer he watched from behind the old stone-wall, "that red-coated busybody knows something about that trap in the corn-crib. Certainly will be on hand early to-morrow morning.

JOLTS

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

You have just experienced a severe business jolt, the harder to bear not only because of being entirely unexpected, but also because of being the latest in a series of jolts that have recently come to you. Reading the letter that gives you its unwelcome tidings, you dazedly feel that you are fated to an ill-fortune that will know no ending.

"I might as well quit," you mutter despairingly to yourself. "Everything is going wrong. I am completely out of luck.

But, come now, Beflect. Are these jolts that have staggered you wholly the product of luck—of conditions quite external to yourself?

Or is it not perhaps the case that you have all unconsciously invited them by exerting yourself in a business way less vigorously than you were want to do?

Certainly this is the explanation of many an unexpected business jolt. And it is the more likely to be the explanation in proportion as unexpected business jolts are multiplied.

Men who have done well in business or professional life are altogether too prone to "let down" as they feel themselves increasingly successful. They can afford, they consciously or subconsciously reason, to take things a bit easier and to rest, so to speak, on their laurels.

But laurels have never been a substantial support for anybody. And the man who lets down is pretty sure to find himself pushed down by more active competitors.

Then, to his dismay, business jolts will indeed multiply for him.

Contract that he had deemed his for the asking will be awarded to somebody else. Sales he had felt certain of making will remain unmade. Customers he had regarded as perpetually bound to him may suddenly display a strange capriciousness.

Possibly this is why you yourself have been so frequently jolted of late.

I am not saying that it is. But you know, as no one else can, whether you have, in the conceit of success, permitted inertia to possess you.

You know whether you have let reputation take the place of effort in your business dealings. You know whether, in a word, you have been becoming more and more slothful.

If such a condition is actually at the bottom of the repeated jolts, you need not be surprised at them. Yet neither need they fill you with despair.

On the contrary, you should see in them only salutary hints bidding you bestir yourself, as you used to do in the days when you were toiling to achieve success.

Thus bestirring yourself, you can "come back." You need have no anxiety on that score.

And though still must reckon with an occasional jolt—every man must—you need no longer look forward to the incessant repetition of jolts such as has been your lot of late.

NOVEMBER

October, cheerful month, is through, and now November has the floor, and doubtless every day or two she'll hint that winter's at the door; she'll wail sad dirges down the flue, and make my spirit tired and sore. November has some nifty days, indorsed by the pulpit and by the press; she sometimes shows some winning ways, and makes the prophets miss their guess, but still the burden of her lays is is always winter and stress. We see November's sun arise, but do not cheer the goodly sight; we say, "You cloudlets in the skies portend a tempest that's a fright, and haply ere the evening dies our whiskers will be frozen tight." November browns the once green earth, and strikes the happy songsters dumb, and sends the groundhog to his berth, convinced that things are out of plumb; she laughs, but in her hollow mirth we hear vague threats of ills to come. Ah, well, it can't always be June, the other months must have their turn; so let us drop the dirge-like tune, and all bleak thoughts and longings spurn; Thanksgiving will be with us soon, when gratitude's our chief concern.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Charles of the well-known Perhapsburg family has been at it again.

Being one of the great army of the unemployed continues to get on his nerves, although it didn't bother him in the old days, and advices from Europe tell of another attempt by his ex-excellency to hang his hat and coat in the old palace and go to work at the old job of emperor.

Again Charlie misunderstood the signals or sumpin and was thrown without again. The officials are now in conference, and there is talk of setting him back over the Swiss border as a penalty for off-side play.

It seems to be all the same with Charles. But the doorkeepers around the Hungarian palace and the attendants around the royal throne are getting rather tired of his persistence and threaten to treat him with violence if he doesn't desist.

"Now looka here, Charlie, old man," said the head doorkeeper when the ex-emp made his appearance around the works the other day, "this is getting to be monotonous. You're a nice feller and I like you. I knew all your folks and all that sort of thing, but you've been fired and you ought to stay fired.

"What would you think if you was boss here and you fired me and I kept coming back every few days? It ain't right Charlie. I'm sorry for you, but the new boss gave me strict orders to knock you for a goal if you showed up. I've given you the bum's rush several times and now you bob up again all dressed up like you was still on the payroll.

"Now, Charlie, I'm warning you it's getting on my nerves. You're carrying a joke too far."

Whereupon at a given signal from the Pathe Weekly movie picture men the Hungarian army rushed out from behind a potted plant and engaged in a fierce battle with a body of zouaves that had been standing behind Charles. Over 200 shots were exchanged at close range, the potted plant being plenced several times.

"If you don't beat it at once, I'll crown you myself," returned the doorkeeper.

"But I insist that I be crowned," insisted Charles.

The result being a draw, Charles was prevailed upon to roll dice to a decision with Admiral Horthy. Charles lost. The dice belonged to the admiral, who always rolls his own.

Charlie then withdrew to his own two-yard line and instructed his secretary to notify the Associated Press that he had atempted to kill himself by swallowing a heavy dose of American whiskey.

At last reports there was talk of sending Charles to some beautiful island far from Hungary, where he will be kept for the rest of his life at government expense. This ought to satisfy any man.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

COMFORT CRAFT

Given one sick woman in an ordinary bed that is inclined to sag in the centre, it is not an easy matter to make the said sick woman comfortable when she must remain in bed without so much as getting her feet out on the floor.

And if, besides caring for the sick woman, one must keep the machinery of an average household clicking merrily along as well, not to mention meals for folks who are well and ravenous, and meals for one who is sick; and not interested in food—the task is infinitely bigger than it sounds.

So, when Mary Taylor, mother of struggled alongshrdluetaoinba shrdlu four young lusty Americans, had ing to take care of her sick mother, she became desperate one day and sent a letter to a distant kinswoman

Melia a Capable Nurse

"Melia is so handy with the sick," she explained wearily, to her mother. "She will be able to make you comfortable, for all she does is look at a sick persons and she knows what's wrong with the pillows or the sheets."

Melia was exactly that kind of a woman. She was middle-aged and partly, but with a surprisingly light step. She wore black silk dresses on Sundays, and little bunches of purple flowers in the hat that always looked the same, summer and winter. But Melia was a power in the sick room.

So it came about that she arrived at the neat little house, entered the sick room, took one look at the sick woman and said:

"Why haven't you a shawl around your shoulders instead of that heavy dressing gown all bundled about you in wrinkles that way?"

"I—I thought the gown would be right comfortable, I get that chilly round my shoulders, sitting up in bed," the old lady in the bed tried to explain.

How Melia Went About It

"And your head is bobbing around there without any support—gives me a pain in the back of my neck to look at you."

Melia's words were almost harsh, but she was a woman with the gentle hands and heart attributed to Florence Nightengales since the world began.

She had a strong arm, and she knew that she had the right of way in her cousin's home.

The first thing she did was to help carry a camp bed into the sick room. With strong arms she lifted the sick woman from her bed to the camp bed and, covering her warmly, proceeded to air the room with the crisp, cold air, turning the mattress, pounding pillows, spreading fresh sheets swiftly. Hot bottles were placed between the sheets, and the patient was returned to her plumped-up bed. Four pillows were piled on a slight incline at the head of the bed, and upon this snowy pile her weight fell evenly. A tiny pillow was tucked into the small of her back, a large pillow under her knees.

Nursing Not a Mystery

A pajama jacket borrowed from the man of the house proved an excellent substitute for a shoulder wrap, being quite warm and comfortable about the shoulders, and covering the arms that are almost always bare when one sits up in bed.

And as warm drinks, half hours of sleep, and quantities of fresh air began to woo the weary woman off to a state of relaxation she had not known before, Melia's reputation as a "born nurse" grew apace.

Her own explanation was that she didn't believe there was any mystery about making a bed-patient comfortable.

"It's a matter of observation and sound common sense, with a little tenderness and gentleness thrown in," she said happily.

WHAT OF IT?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1921, by Frank Crane.)

In the interesting play, "Just Suppose," the heir apparent to the throne of a European monarchy, while on a visit to the United States, gets tired of the endless ceremonies and formality of his entertainment and run away for a few days. He finds his way to a country place in Virginia where he proceeds to fall violently in love with a young lady.

After a few days the old ambassador, who is in charge of the prince and his expidition, discovers him. The seasoned old diplomat, delicately but firmly represents to the young man the folly of his actions. He tells him that he has caused the members of his party great trouble and anxiety because they did not know where he had gone and feared that something might have happened to him. He concludes by asking:

"Why did you do it?" The young prince replies, "Why, I was bored." To which the ambassador replied with a famous line: "Will Your Highness one who has been bored for forty years to inquire: 'What of it?' "

There are some phases that are haunting. They are genetic. This is one of them.

All sorts of mottoes have been printed to hang up in the home and in the office. But it seems to me this would be best of all: "What of it?"

People ought to look at that every day and ask themselves that question in all conjunctions.

If you have had a quarrel with your wife and the tension about the house is very much strained. Why not stop, carefully define the subject of your dispute and ask yourselves: "What of it?"

If you are worrying about something that your children do, perhaps your worries would cease if you would ask yourself, "After all, what of it?"

Somebody's done you a bad turn, some one has betrayed your confidence and shaken your faith in human nature, some one has stolen money from you, some one has lied about you—well, "What of it?"

The art of life is to know what to worry about to worry hard; that is one half; the other half of the art of life is to know what is not worth worrying about, and when such questions come up to ask yourself, "What of it?"

The question might even be extended to your entire life and its contents; for is the thing that you want most with all your heart worth winning?

There are some objects men pursue and think that life will not be worth while unless they obtain them. Yet these objects are wholly trival.

When the man of common sense, hears most of the complaints of whining humanity, most of the grievances of selfpitying souls, most of the heavy discussions in political circles and most of the quarrels among ecclesiastics, he is apt to say to himself what the old diplomats said to the prince:

"What of it?"

The Daily Story

MOTHER FIRST

Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner

Exhausted, pale and with her fair hair damp on her forehead, Lucy Main stood looking down upon her 3-year-old daughter. Alice had fallen asleep, unconquered and rebellious still, even in unconsciousness, for an occasional sob entangled her baby breath and her small hands perked spasmodically.

In the next room Fred and his mother were talking in low tones. Lucy could not hear the words, but she knew what they were saying. The expression of their faces was enough—Fred's sullen and disturbed, his mother's excited, triumphant. She had had her own way about Alice again.

When had she not had her own way about Alice? Lucy asked herself. She had began by giving the child her own name when Lucy had chosen another, that of her own loved mother. She had fed Alice according to her own methods and doctored her in the same way, no matter what Lucy thought or the doctor said, to the contrary. And Lucy had been obliged to submit, because Mrs. Main had the same power over Fred she was trying to establish over Alice. Fred never in his life had said no to his mother, and he could not now, even for his wife's sake, when the worst of all was happening. Alice's temper and disposition were being ruined by her grandmother, who seemed to take a keen delight in seeing that the child had her own way. She would not allow Lucy to attempt to train or punish Alice. Sometimes Lucy felt that it was because her mother-in-law hated her that she took this attitude toward Alice. It was the surest means to torment Lucy, who, having been perfectly brought up herself, suffered to see Alice do without the correction she so much needed.

Ten minutes ago Lucy had attempted to make Alice mind, and Alice had turned on her mother like a young wild animal and bitten Lucy's hand. For a moment Lucy had been astonished. The blue of Alice's little teeth had brought her to a sharp realization of the way things were going. She must get some control of her baby soon. But the interference of Fred and his mother had put a stop to her desire to then and there teach Alice a lesson. In the end they had succeeded in making the child feel herself to be very much abused and she had rebelliously sobbed herself to sleep.

Looking down at her, Lucy underwent such a painful struggle between the next room Fred and his mother love and duty as tore her heart. In continued to whisper. And here lay the next room Fred and his mother Alice, their innocent little victim. It semed to Lucy as if the child's very soul were involved. In the four years she had been Fred's wife and had lived in his mother's house she had lost something of her own identity, but she must find it soon and assert it or Alice would be lost.

Turning, Lucy went out of the room, and through the next, past her husband and mother, who took no heed of her. Food was cooking on the kitchen range and she drew it back from the heat mechanically as she passed. Then she stepped through the door into the evening light.

Before lay the great, unkept orchard. Fred was not a good farmer, and the waste and neglect which she saw everywhere tormented Lucy's soul. But so his mother had brought him up to be and so she would bring up Alice. Lucy turned toward the orchard. She went swiftly along between the trees. Once a twig caught in her hair, and she had to stop to release it. At the farther end was a great strawberry apple, guarled and low spreading an old giant of a tree, typical in a way of paternal strength and protection. To this tree Lucy went. She put her arms about it and laid her cheek to its rugged bark, and leaning there tears came.

Standing thus she felt utterly alone in the world. She had loved her husband when they were married and had felt sure of helping him to guide himself, but she was fast losing him, if she had not already lost him. And it was the same with Alice. That dark, old woman, with the sinister mouth, was robbing her of her own.

"Have I any right to let her?" Lucy asked herself. "Am I not false in my duty to myself as well as to my husband and child? For three years I have borne with her. I've watched her underhanded methods with Fred as she underminded his love for me. And now she lays hands on Alice, my baby, my treasure, that I all but gave my life for. I can endure everything but that. Sometimes I feel as if I am Alice's mother more than I am Fred's wife. She is mine. I earned her and surely I have the right to direct her life. If I were only stronger of mind and body!" Suddenly she hugged the old tree close. "Give me your strength, old tree," she pleaded. "Lend me some of your staunch, robust qualities." Then she lifted her eyes. "Help me, help me!"

A rustling of the grass behind her made her turn. There stood their next-door neighbor, a kindly faced old man whose wife had died a few weeks before.

"I saw your blue dress through the trees, Lucy," he said. "I was going down to the house to talk to you, but I guess we'll be privater here. How you getting along with the old lady?" He hurried on, for by this time he had noticed Lucy's tear stained face. "You better come and keep house for me, Lucy. It's your only chance of freedom. If you come Fred will come, too. And it will be better for the little girl."

Lucy looked at him a long moment. Then she laid her hand on the old tree. "I'll come, Mr. Norris," she said. "I'll come tonight. I'll come now."

Leaving him abruptly, she hurried back through the orchard to the house. Fred and his mother were still talking in the sitting room. She passed them quickly and went to Alice and lifted her from the bed. Then with her "reason" in her arms, she went to comfort her husband and mother-in-law.

"I am taking Alice over to Mr. Norris'," she said quitely. "I am going to keep his house for him. He will pay me and it is the only way I can see to be by myself. I can't stay here any longer—on Alice's account."

She kissed the little flushed face against her shoulder. "Will you come too, Fred."

Old Mrs. Main had started to her feet, her face writhing with anger and surprise. She broke out into a volley of words, but Fred looked after his wife in silence.

Grasping the child in her arms Lucy fairly flew along the path through the orchard. She had not gone far when she heard Fred following her.

Watching the Parade

By JOHN PILGRIM

One of these days I'm going to sit down and rewrite a handful of old adges. They're not up to date enough. They only fit part of the case. A man who governed his life by copybook phrases would land in the ditch sure as eggs is eggs. Take that good old standby, for example:

"Handsome is as handsome does."

Sometimes that is true and sometimes it isn't. It means, if anything, that the rewards of life go to the person whose conduct is irreproachable. Such a person should save all his money, study something dead up to midnight, rise with the lark or before that half-witted bird if possible, put in a few licks in the garden, kiss his widowed mother, and hurry down to the office to get in a half day's work before his millionaire employer gets there. That's doing handsome enough for anybody.

But—my young friend, Jimmy Friend, does all those things and his brother, John, dosn't. They are equally good looking, honest, intelligent and dependable. Jimmy's bean is perhaps a bit more reliable than Johnny's. If I were to go to either for advice I'd pick out Jimmy. But Johnny always has the better jobs. Jimmy goes around just a little long in the back hair and just a trifle over-worn as to clothes and just the wee-est bit to the seedy side on shoes and a trifle less than up-to-date in the matter of hats and collars. Whereas you can set your fashion clock by Johnny. He never overdoes the matter of dress, but he certainly manages to look like ready money.

There isn't a doubt that Jimmy has more money in the bank by several hundred dollars. But Johnny has the better friends by score. The one looks precisely what he is—reliable, conscientious, worried, not absolutely confident of himself. No one would suspect that Johnny ever doubted himself. If he ever did he would never let any one know. He says he finds it pays to care for his physical self. No one but a genius, he says, can afford to run down at the heel. He doesn't believe that even a genius can afford it.

"I know my brother Jimmy is a good a man as I am," he said candidly. "Maybe better. But he doesn't dress the part."

What is the value of that old adage in the case of the Friend brothers?

FAMOUS ARTIST HEARD IN CONCERT THURSDAY.

Proving a rare treat to music lovers of Wichita Falls, Clarence Eddy, dean of American pipe organists, played in concert at the First Baptist church Thursday evening to a large audience.

The program which was given under the auspices of the church choir was unusually well balanced, featuring compositions of both the old and new classics.

Mr. Eddy displayed great executive ability and brought out in a marked degree the capabilities of the fine organ recently installed.

His manual and pedal technique was exceptional, and in the art of registration it would be difficult to find his equal. His performance was a revelation to local musical critics.

The concert was a decided success and greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

A silver free-will offering to pay the expenses of the artist and the remainder to be used to help pay for the new organ was taken.

Mr. Eddy played in a wonderful way the following selections: Hosannah (Theodore Dubois); Sister Monique (Francois Couperin); Gavotte (Pardre Martin) arranged by Alexandre Guilmant; Toccata and Fuque in D Minor (J. S. Bach); Keep Me From Sinking Down (Carl R. Ditson) dedicated to Mr. Eddy; Chorale Fantasie on "Heinlein" and Forty Days and Forty Nights (James E. Wallace); O'er Flowery Meads (Marion Austin Dunn); Rustic March (Andrew J. Broex); Sunset (J. Frank Hrysinger); Afterglow (Frederic Greton) dedicated to Mr. Eddy; Paraphase on Gottschalk's "Last Hope" (Theodore Saul) dedicated to Mr. Eddy; Ava Maria (Schubert) arranged by Clarence Eddy; I Hear You Calling Me (Charles Marshall) arranged by Clarence Lucas; Concert Variations (Joseph Bonnet) dedicated to Mr. Eddy.

Following the concert, Mesdames F. R. Collard and G. Clint Wood honored the artist with an informal reception at the home of Mrs. Wood. The attractive home was prettily decorated for the affair with bronze, pink and gold plume chrysanthemums and about 150 guests were introduced to Mr. Eddy.

Refreshments consisting of hot chocoalte and cake were served.

EXECUTIVE BOARD MEETS AT Y. W. C. A. THURSDAY

Members of the executive board of the Y. W. C. A. voted to observe a week of prayer beginning November 13 to November 19 adopting the national board recommendation, at a meeting held at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday morning. Deciding to bear in mind particularly during the week, the sitting of the international disarmament conference. Noon-day meetings, the places to be announced later, were planned.

The educational committee reported that speakers on vocational guidance in the public schools had been arranged for, and that the first talk would be given by Miss Florence Jackson, president of the Business Women's club, at the high school, November 22, on "Opportunities for Young Women in Business Offices."

Splendid reports were heard from secretaries and committee chairman, especially of the club work among the girls and young women of the organization. Other reports of interest included that of the Travelers Aid and the employment registry secretary.

The Travelers Aid reported that a total of 3,401 cases handled at the station during the past month, and the new schedule for her department, due to the discontinuance of the night aid's work was announced as follows, from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m., and from 7 to 7:30 p. m. all of the important trains arriving between these hours. The employment secretary reported that employment had been found for thirty-four girls during the month.

Mrs. Boggess, residence secretary at Charlotte Kemp Hall, announced that she is making reservations for Sunday dinners at 75 cents, and Thanksgiving dinner at $1 per plate. It was voted to close the cafeteria at the Y. W. C. A. on Thanksgiving day.

The membership meeting was announced to be held early in December, and a nominating committe including Mesdames T. A. Hicks, C. W. Beavers and M. M. Adickes, appointed. The meeting was opened by a talk on "Disarmament" by Mrs. W. W. Silk as part of the devotional, and by the reading of the minutes and treasurers report.

FORMER LOCAL OIL OPERATOR MARRIES.

Martin Lewis Allday, formerly of this city, now at Mexia and senior member of the firm of Allday Brothers, local oil operators, and well known attorney, was married at Waco Tuesday to Miss Bess Kavanaugh, according to a clipping from the Waco Times-Herald given as follows:

The wedding of Miss Bess Kavanaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Kavanaugh and Martin Lewis Allday, son of Judge and Mrs. E. A. Allday of Atlanta, Texas, was an event of Tuesday evening at St. Paul's Episcopal church which was witnessed by a large concourse of friends.

Preceded by numerous courtesies, the wedding day found the church elaborately decorated with southern smilax, stately palms and great clusters of white chrysanthemums.

Preceding the ceremony Prof. Fred E. Eggert rendered on the piano several beautiful selections from Wagner. Miss Eldora Stanford, Waco's golden voiced soprano, sang sweetly "Love's Rhapsody."

The ushers were Lieut. E. A. Magee of New York, John D. Mayfield, Ray McKnight and George McCullough.

The groomsmen were: Claxton Parks of Houston, Ralph Randolph of Dallas, Joe McNamara of Waco, and Fred J. White of Kansas City.

The brides-maids' frock were of lovely shades of pink contrasted with handsome trimmings of silver.

Miss Alleyne Spencer wore a delicate shade of exquisite pink lace with silver tracery.

Miss Katherine Meade wore a pink taffeta gown with the Simple Colonial lines which was most becoming.

Miss Frances Sleeper was stunning a rose taffeta trimmed in handmade roses.

Miss Katherine Wollett wore a charming pink taffeta of bouffant lines combined with silver lace and trimmed with tiny hand-made flowers.

All wore silver evening hats, trimmed according to the wearer's preference and carried long-stemmed white chrysanthemums in arm sheaths which were maline tied in pink.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Robert E. Allday of Mexia, wore a handsome orchid gown of tulle and acquin panels. Her hat was a lovely evening model.

Miss Rubye Lee Carter of Sherman, as maid-of-honor, wore a gown of silver sequins, intricately patterned in delicate orchid tinted irridescents, and at the sides pendant clusters of silver fruits created a charming contrast. Her hat was encircled with vari-toned ostrich plumes. Both carried stately chrysanthemums, with orchid maline streamers.

Manton Hannah Jr., carried the ring in the heart of a white chrysanthemum. He was clad in white broadcloth, and was a handsome little attendant.

Little Eleanor Davis of Waco was dainty in white taffeta frock trimmed with pink chiffon rosebuds, which were maline tied in pink. She carried a flower basket from which pink rose petals were strewn.

The Bride Enters.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, E. F. Kavanaugh was beautiful in a gown of white cut velvet with a pearl and crystal fringe around the hem, draped to disclose a rare pearl ornament. Her long train was of Duchess satin, lined with crepe de chine, and trimmed with satin roses and leaves and attached to the waist line in the back. Her veil was of tuile with orange blossoms becomingly arranged about her face. Silver brocaded slippers completed the outfit.

The bride's shower bouquet was unusually lovely and was composed of lillie of the valley, white roses, and orchids, with valley lily drops on white, brocaded ribbons and maline.

The groom was accomnanied by Robert E. Allday of Mexia, as best man, and Dr. Witsell was the celebrant.

At the conclusion of the ceremony for a moment, all lights were out, save that from the glowing cross above the candle-lit altar and the blessing thus conferred was most impressive.

The Reception

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the beautiful home of the bride. Lovely refreshments were served.

The bride's mother, Mrs. E. F. Kavanaugh, wore a beautiful black sequin gown with a corsage bouquet of crimson buds and valley lilies.

Other than those previously mentioned, out-of-town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Keigwin of Marlin, Mr. and Mrs. Franch Beachum of Cameron, Judge and Mrs. E. A. Allday of Atlanta, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Allday and daughter of Wichita Falls.

The Bride Is Accomplished

Coming to Waco six years ago from Gainesville, Texas, the bride was an honor graduate of Waco high school and a student of Musical Theory and Harmony at Baylor. She attended National Park Seminary at Washington, D. C., when she took a special art and music course and was made a member of the Chi Omicron Pi Sorority. At the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago she received a vocal teacher's certificate and won the gold medal with an average of 97.

She was a member of the Pi Beta Phil Sorority at the University of Texas, and returning to Waco has twice figured as court attendant at the Queen's Ball.

The Groom's Attainments.

He graduated at Castle Heights, Lebanon, Tenn., with first honors in 1908, and graduated at the University of Texas in 191 with an L. L. B. degree. He was a city attorney of Burkburnett five years and was in the oil business and practiced law in Wichita Falls before going to Mexia, Texas. He is now a member of the law firm of Harp, Allday & Allday.

He is a senior member of the firm offices in Wichita Falls, Eldorado, Ark., and Mexia. He has extensive holdings in all of the above three mentioned fields. He is president of the Beucham Dry Goods company of Sherman, Texas, director and large stockholder in Wichita State Bank & Trust company of Wichita Falls, Texas, and is interested in numerous other business enterprises in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Allday after an extensive tour through the east will be at home in Mexia, Texas.

DR. REED TALKS AT CIVIC LEAGUE MEETING

A talk by Dr. J. F. Reed on the recent laying of the sewers on the North Side, and about the park which is planned for that part of town, was an interesting feature of the meeting of the North Side Civic League Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Tom Bobo.

During the short business session, reports were given from standing committees, after which a social hour was enjoyed and a salad plate served.

Mrs. Arch Smith will be hostess to the league at the next meeting.

Women inspectors are said to be more inquisitive, suspicious, and difficult to handle than their male colleagues.

Armistice Day

This store is closed today in honor of our Nation's Immortals, both living and dead.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS.

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.

We are the dead,
Short days ago we lived, felt dawn,
Saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you from falling hands we throw the torch.
Be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

By LIEUT.-COL. JOHN M'CRAE,
Of Montreal, whose body lies in Flanders Fields.

High School Grid Game 3 o'Clock; Get in Line

RED AND BLACK PREPARED TO SEND POWERFUL ELEVEN AGAINST OKLAHOMA STARS

Hey! all you old boys with young Jeagers! Don't forget to be in the grandstand at Athletic park this afternoon at 3:00 o'clock—for at that hour a whistle will blow, and the red and black eleven of the Wichita Falls high school will start to kick the stuffin' outta Devol (Okla.) high. It's a big game this afternoon; every bit as big and important as any grid game that can be scheduled here for Thanksgiving—for if Capt. Leo Haney's men clean up on Devol today, Athletic park will be jammed on Turkey Day; but if the Oklahoma lads smash through to victory, this is the next attendance farewell.

And it's no cinch the local pigskin chasers are stacking up against today, for Devol high has an eleven rated as the second best in southern Oklahoma; a team that has dropped only one game this season, and that to Altus high, recognized as the best in the lower end of the Sooner state. Wichita Falls also has lost only one battle this year, and that to Electra, district champions, wherefore it is reasonable to assume that today's clash should provide thrills in every period of play.

Coach Harry Viner stated last night that he will start, with a few exceptions, the same line-up that trounced Henrietta two weeks ago. Coffee, who was not in the Henrietta game, will hold down the berth at right tackle, while Shaw, who played only a part of the Henrietta game, will start at right end. There is a possibility that Anderson, who reported sick yesterday, may not be able to fill his regular place on the left wing—and in this event, Shaw will play left end, with Hembree switched to the outside flank on the right.

With Anderson in shape to play, the red and black eleven will probably open the game as follows: Anderson, left end; Johnson, left tackle; Bell, left guard; Capt. Leo Haney, center; Walker, right guard; Coffee, right tackle; Shaw, right end; Chewning, quarterback; Hembree, left halfback; Stringer, right halfback; Kenley, fullback. If Hembree is forced to play a wing position because of Anderson's illness, Hembree will fill Hembree's place in the backfield.

Coach Viner is confident his eleven now has an attack that will be hard to stop. Realizing the extreme need of offensive play when he first took charge of the squad a few weeks ago, Viner has given practically all of his coaching time to this phase of the coaching game. The defense of the team has always been good, Electra being the only team this season that has crossed the locals' goal line—and then only once after a heavy penalty had placed them within scoring distance. Even some of the fundamentals have been overlooked intentionally by Viner in view of the imperative need of obtaining a scoring machine. The system has produced results, as an unbroken string of victories since Viner accepted the place as coach will attest.

The Boy Scout band will lead a downtown parade before the game in which high school students will march through the business streets. The advance sale of tickets has been only fair, but it is expected a big crowd will head for the park this afternoon as practically all places of business will be closed and the game will be almost the last big athletic contest of the fall season.

"TAMING A MAN" GOLDBERG'S THEME

"Taming a Man" will be the subject of a sermon to be delivered by Dr. David Goldberg at the Temple Israel this evening at 8 o'clock. Special music will be a feature of the services.

The expression "moon-eyed," as popularly used to describe an advanced stage of intoxication, had its origin in India, where a certain variety of drink taken in excess renders its victims blind from sunset to sunrise, or during the period that the moon is shining. The condition in extreme cases lasts as long as eighteen or nineteen days.

ARMY AND NAVY REJECT PLAN OF OLYMPIC ASS'N

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Secretary Weeks has informed Gustavus Kirby of New York, president of the American Olympic committee, that the war and navy departments are disinclined to affiliate with the movement for organization of an American Olympic association as planned by the committee, but will cordially support a project for a "nationwide federation" for all amateur sport and physical education organizations. Amendments to the constitution for the proposed American Olympic association, designed to expand the scope of the project in line with army and navy thought, were transmitted by Mr. Weeks.

The Olympic committee will meet in New York, November 25 to consider the various proposals looking to sharper control of American participation in the quadrennial Olympic games.

ARMISTICE DAY 1921

BY "NICK" CARTER

Out of the grim, gray mist of the past
The ghastly spectres dance,
Calling and crying aloud they come—
The Yanks who died in France.

"What have ye done?" the dead men cry,
"There is no Armistice Day;
There's a fight for peace that can never cease;
Ye have that debt to pay."

Out of the graves of Flanders' field
The grisly lines advance;
Skeleton lines of pleading souls—
The Yanks who died in France.

"Dust to dust our bodies are."
Hark to the dead men plead!
"Did we give our lives that ye who live Might revel in lust and greed?"

Out of the tangle of Belleau wood
Where they lost life's game of chance,
Staggers a circle of dreadful forms—
The Yanks who died in France.

"What is this joke ye have played on us?
Have ye eyes, yet cannot see?
We died for the cleaner things of life,
And ye live in mockery."

Back through the mist the ghostly line
Fades from our seeking glance;
Yet deep in our heart we hear their cry—
The Yanks who died in France.

"Pay back the debt ye owe the dead;
Cleave to the things that are clean;
Ye cannot face the God we have faced
If ye mock at the Nazarene."

"WILD BILL" HERR HERE FOR BIG "PIGEON" SHOOT

By C. F. C.

Athletic park and the surroundings adjacent thereto (that's a swell start) will be the scene this afternoon of considerable athletics—and what's the use of having an Athletic park if you don't occasionally inundate it with athletics.

Well, to resmue, inside the park itself Wichita and Devol high schools will be pressing one anothers' britches with the gridiron (see detailed story elsewhere on this page), while outside the park, just beyond the center field fence, fancy marksmen from all sections of Texas and Oklahoma will be sniping clay pigeons in the big Armistice Day shoot of the Wichita Falls Gun Club.

A few days ago we mentioned a number of names of gun totin' fools who never have sense enough to miss who had entered this shoot from other towns and cities, and we told also how the local marksmen bravely shrugged their shoulders and told 'em all to come a-running. But yesterday several shudders that would do credit to a shimmy dancer quavered up and down the spines of some of the boys when the dod-gasted news broke that "Wild Bill" Herr, of Guthrie, Okla., was headed this-a-way with his murderous 12-gauge. Wild Bill is a better shot than ever was Wild Bill Hickok; a better shot, we dare say, than the wildest Wild Bill that ever had the monicker of Wild Bill fastened with copper rivets to his surname. This Herr person has a morbid hatred for clay pigeons; he lives only to destroy 'em—and they say, that the shortage of clay pigeons in 1898, when many gun clubs had to go out of business, was due to Bill Herr's campaigns that year against 'em. Bill Herr is to the clay pigeon what Col. William F. Cody was to the buffalo—rough-on-rats.

And that ain't all. Among those present, as the sassiety editor sez, will also be the following eleventh hour entrants:

C. W. Shaffer, Lem Day and Will Howard, of Fort Worth; L. S. Mankin and W. H. Bertrand of Dallas; Adolphus Humbree and L. W. Bear, of Henrietta; W. McDaniels, of Gainesville; the regular "gans from Walters and Waurika, and M. Taylor, of Norman, Okla.

In addition to all the gosh-d cash that the local club has dug up from somewhere to make the lucky shooters happy, the merchants of Wichita Falls have kicked in nobly with various and sundry prizes, to-wit, namely:

Auto Tire Company of West Texas a motor meter; Lewis-Jones Hardware, pocket knife; Art Jewelry Company, silver belt buckle; City Loan Company, wallet; Miller Drug Company, Conklin fountain pen; Little Sporting Goods Company, pair of hip wading boots; Stoecker Brithers, a box of candy; Senate Bar, a carton of cigarettes; Belcher, Brown & Eggleston, hunting hat; Shain Jewelry Company, cuff links; Haltom & Freidly, gold Eversharp pencil; Roberts & Company, tie pin; Saul's, silk shirt; W. B. McClurkan & Company, pair of Hansen driving gloves; North Texas Furniture Company, smoking stand.

Shoot! Or, as Admiral Dewey remarked at Manilla Bay: "When you are ready, Bill Herr, you may fire!" Somebody oughta hit something with all them there prizes lying around loose and careless-like. Attention also should be herewith called to the "revenge event," listed on the program merely as the "optional event." This is a special event wherein you choose your own sucker, and proceed to get revenge for any humiliation you may have suffered earlier in the day. There'll be 12 pairs of doubles in this classic, and someone will probably be killed.

You don't have to belong to the gun club to enter the tournament. Say, you don't even have to have a gun. There will be guns and ammunition a-plenty. Head for the traps, and have a big day with a bunch of good scouts.

REMARKABLE HOW THEY CHANCED TO TO LET THE FANS IN

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Plans for the formation of a state organization of boxing promoters, managers, boxers, seconds and boxing fans were under way here today as the result of a meeting of sport enthusiasts last night. Senator James A. Walker, author of the present state boxing law, made the principal address. The name "Federation of Professional Sports" was suggested for the organization, which its founders hope will eventually develop into a national body.

"ELEVEN MEN IN EVERY PLAY," IS SLOGAN OF CENTRE TEAM AND MEN BEHIND THE GUN WORK FOR THAT END

ELEVEN MEN IN ... ...

Football students the big men the biggest colleges to the victory hungry fans of the tiny colleges that Centre represents are asking:

What is the secret of Centre college's success on the gridiron?

First flash someone answers, "Bo" McMillan.

Others say, "Charlie Moran, wizard coach."

Both these men are contributing greatly to the wonder-record of the little Danville school. But the real secret is the type of play that Moran has instilled into the team. The one and only motto is "Eleven men in every play." And Moran, McMillan and the other members of the team have followed out this plan.

Under Moran's tutelage they have reduced every possible play on the grid down to a scientific basis. They know how each play by the opposition will work out and are set to cover every man.

On the offense they anticipate the same action by their opponents and build a system to handle the interference of the opposition. "Bo" McMillan, star that he is, is not played to as a star. Because he is quarter he is necessarily the pivot man in the majority of plays, but he does not hog the ball or take the lead in furnishing defense for his teammates. Frequently, while apparently out of play McMillan is carrying out his part as one of the "eleven in the play." He is playing the "ace in the hole" should the opposition find a loophole in the Centre defense or offense.

Not that Moran has supernatural powers. He has simply developed this team play to the nth degree.

Centre's success dates back to the time Moran joined the college as coach and Thornhill, who helps with the linemen.

That "Bo" McMillan doesn't crave fame and has the proper "one for all" spirit is shown by his vote for "Bob" Armstrong. Armstrong is not a figurehead captain either. He is one of the ten other stars on the team and has proved himself a real leader by getting the "pep" into the boys.

Altogether, Centre college's football team stands out as a lesson to football coaches and players.

'JOHNNY BUFF BY SLIM MARGIN HOLDS BANTAM TITLE IN FIERCE BATTLE WITH "MIDGET" SHARKEY

Round One

The champion took the offensive and after missing two right swings for the body, they clinched. There were several light exchanges at close quarters.

Round Two

Sharkey landed a left to the stomach, slipped and fell but was up quickly again. Buff landed right and left to the head. There was a fierce interchange of body punching, led by Buff. Both were wild.

Round Three

Round Four

Sharkey took the offensive but was wild. Sharkey sent a right to stomach. Buff landed hard to right on jaw.

Round Five.

Sharkey sent stiff left to the stomach and in a clinch, uppercut Buff with left. Buff was short with right to jaw. Sharkey pounded Buff with rights and lefts to stomach and head.

Round Six.

Sharkey countered a series of right uppercuts with straight lefts to the jaw.

Round Seven.

Sharkey swung hard rights and left hooks to jaw. Sharkey, staggered Buff with rights to the body and a left to the jaw.

Round Eight.

Sharkey hooked twice with left to jaw and dazed Buff with rights to the stomach. They swung hard at close quarters. Sharkey appeared to have the better of the infighting. Sharkey staggered the champion with a left to the jaw.

Round Nine

Sharkey again staggered Buff with left to the jaw. Buff landed light lefts to the head and Sharkey followed with two hard right uppercuts. Both landed hard body blows in Sharkey's corner and then missed and slipped. Both were on their knees at the bell.

Round Ten

Buff landed right to jaw, then a left to stomach. Sharkey sent stiff rights to body and left to head. Buff was bleeding at the mouth. Most of his blows were going wild.

Round Eleven

Sharkey's left played a tatoo on the champion's jaw. A left to the chin sent Buff staggering to the ropes. Buff missed several right swings for the head. Sharkey landed left to jaw at the bell.

MORE MORE MORE

Round Twelve.

Sharkey landed hard rights and lefts to the body. Buff stopped, claiming a foul. The referee ordered the men to resume. Sharkey continued the assault on Buff's head and body. Buff countered with rights and lefts to the head. The fight is now fought desperately. Sharkey landed left to chin at the bell.

Round Thirteen.

Buff missed left uppercut and took a light right to the stomach. They fought lightly at close quarters. Buff sent right to jaw and Sharkey missed swing to head. Buff sent hard rights and left to body. Buff landed right uppercut at the bell.

Round Fourteen.

Sharkey sent light lefts to the face, Buff countering with light body blows. Buff had the better of a battle at close quarters. Buff landed right to body and rights and lefts to jaw.

Round Fifteen.

WILLARD WON'T FIGHT JACK BUT SIEGAL WILL

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Arrangements for a return world's heavyweight championship bout between Champion Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard, former holder of the title, regarded as practically completed a few weeks ago, now appear o the verge of dissolution.

Promoter Tex Rickard, who planned the battle for July 1, next, in his arena in Jersey City has exhibited impatience with Willard's delay in returning a signed contract for the battle. Reports have been received here that Willard has made a "strike" in one of his oil investments and if the reports are true, it is regarded as unlikely that he will devote the necessary time to training for another match with Dempsey.

'SUES JACK FOR $250,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Complaint in the $250,000 alienation suit of Albert S. Siegal against Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, was filed today. Dempsey's denial of the charges was submitted last week in advance of the complaint.

Siegel's complaint said he and Bee Palmer, a dancer, were married last March at Davenport, Iowa. Last September 15, he charged, Dempsey "persuaded Bee Palmer to leave the home of the plaintiff and has ever since harbored her against the will of the plaintiff."

ZBYZSKO TO DEFEND TITLE AGAINST ED LEWIS NOVEMBER 28

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Stanislau Zbyzsko, world's champion wrestler, will defend his title against Ed (Strangler) Lewis at Madison Square Garden on November 28, Tex Rickard, promoter, will present the winner of the match with a diamond studded belt.

COYOTE AND DOG FIGHT FORBIDDEN

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 10.—Richard J. Hopkins, attorney general, today sent a telegram to J. F. Wolfe, of La Crosse, Rush county sheriff, instructing him to prevent a coyote and dog fight scheduled for November 13. The attorney general declares that staging of the fight as advertised would be in violation of the state law relating to cruelty to animals.

CENTRE INVITED TO PLAY FLEET CHAMPS ON CHRISTMAS DAY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—A committee of San Diego business men today invited the Centre college football team to play the all-Pacific fleet eleven here Christmas day. The Pasadena Tournament of Roses association announced it had extended no invitations to any football team to play here New Year's day and would not until after the regular football season closes.

SHOULD BE ABLE TO KEEP STORES OUT, SAYS MANN

Belief that a citizen should be able to buy or build a home in the residence section of a city with the assurance that a commercial house to which he might object will not be established in its very shadow, is declared he motive behind a move of local civic organizations to launch a campaign asking that the constitution of Texas be amended so as to legalize a city zoning law, similar to the one recently made invalid by the supreme court of Texas.

Discussion of this move is to be taken up before the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce business council on November 18, according to an announcement Wednesday.

According to the ruling of the supreme court, which made invalid the recent law, the zoning laws in Texas during the past years were enforced solely through city police power and in violation of the state constitution This enforcement was, according to City Attorney E. M. Mann, declared an unreasonable enforcement in that it prohibited the operation of a business from purely aesthetic reasons of the city, which did not have the support of state law. Under the present constitution provisions of the establishment of business companies can only be prohibited when it is shown that the business is detrimental to the morals, health or welfore of the community.

The only way a zoning law can be obtained, Mr. Mann continued, is through a popular vote, which must be started somewhere and which Wichitians should be the first to launch.

Most of the zoning laws, now practiced in other states, give citizens residing within a few blocks of the place where it is desired to establish a commercial establishment the right to authorize a permit. Seventy-five per cent of the residents are usually required on the petition.

Many declare that a zoning law tends to stabilize resident property, as it gives a man a certain assurance that his home will always be in a residence section, when he pays his money for it.

Another thing that has been pointed out is that the law is more to be desired by small property holders than any other class of people, as it is seldom that concerns in any city cannot be prevented form entering an exclusive residential rection. Often this is precluded through special clauses in deeds to the land, or other requirements which go with exchanges of property, guaranteeing the erection of homes of certain cost on the land sold.

Announce Work Must Be Done by Licensed Plumber

A signed statement giving notice that hereafter any plumbing work done by other than duly licensed and registered journeymen plumbers, who have successfully passed the examination of the board of plumbers for journeymen plumbers will not be approved by the plumbing inspector was issued Thursday by City Engineer Julian Montgomery and City Attorney E. M. Mann.

This action, City Attorney Mann said is the outgrowth of a kick made last Monday night before the city council in which it was asserted that plumbing work has been approved when it had not been done by a bonded and licensed plumber.

Mr. Mann announced that examinations for journeymen plumbers will be held at 9 o'clock on the morning of December 1 on the second floor of the McClurkan building, Seventh and Ohio streets.

Blanks for making application to take the examination can be obtained at the office of the city engineer.

State Press Comment

WATSON THE MAN.

(From Duncan Daily Eagle.)

"The war has brought us a bountiful crop of byplay," editorializes Editor Johnson of the Amarillo Tribune, "but the contribution from the senator from Georgia is about the most revolting effort along that line that the country has been called upon to witness?" Senator Watson is a remarkable combination of scholar, fanatic, orator and fossil. He is as spectacular as Blanton, as vociferous as J. Hamilton Lewis, as warped as a witch burner of the Cotton Mather period of history, and as volcanic as Vesuvius. Men of his type are never constructive; they are without ' se or a sense of justice. Men of his type are neither helpful nor educative. His senate address was an indictment of all the officers of the expeditionary forces in France. He has bitterly assailed Woodrow Wilson and his policies, while claiming to be a democrat. Then why should the republicans worry?—Wichita Falls Record News.

In the language of the street, the senator from Georgia is a "humdinger," as erratic as Texas weather with an ear for scandal that would put the oldest member of the village sewing circle to shame.

What he knows and what he says are sometimes at variance, while he seems minus the capacity to think good of any one not in accord with his own narrow views.

Watson was first a democrat, then a populite, then he hibernated several years politically, after which ' changed shirts and was elected to the senate as a democrat.

BURY THE COTTON STALKS.

(From the Sherman Democrat.)

Wilbrager county farmers are Planning a boll weevil campaign. Wilbarger is a noted producer of cotton with a crop of more than 10,000 bales for the year 1921. Old King Cotton melted the frozen assets in the Vernon banks this year. —Wichita Falls Record News.

And cotton, even at 10 cents, will put the long green in the blue overalls of the farmer if he raises enough of it. Bury the cotton stalks.

Recent investigation of the old problem of the diffusion of tin over eastern Europe and Asia Minor in prehistoric times, leads to the conclusion that about 1,000 years before Christ the tin of the British Isles was carried overland to the Aegean Sea. The invention of the anchor led, about 2,700 years ago, to the opening of a marine route between England and the eastern end of the Mediterranean, and then the Phrygians controlled the tin trade with their ships. The short summer nights of north Britain were among the wonders that Greeks talked of in the days of Homer.

Simplicity of Gospel Subject Of Evangelist

Explanations of how Jesus Christ took examples from the habits and business of different people for driving home the truths of the Scriptures featured the sermon of Rev. Price Billingsley Thursday evening at the Church of Christ, Tenth and Austin streets.

The sermon was preached from the subject "The Simplicity of the Gospel," rather than "Moses or Christ," as announced Thursday evening.

Mr. Billingsley pointed out that in speaking to builders Jesus constructed his parables in terms of their trade, likewise in speaking to merchants or farmers or whatever the nature of heir employment, he used examples from terms they would most easily understand.

"The word of God is the seed of the soil, the human heart is the soil, the planting is done by preaching and the product is the Christian," Mr. Billingsley declared.

A larger crowd than usual was in attendance at the Thursday evening sermon. "Conviction and Conversion" was announced as the subject for the Friday evening sermon.

Constable at Burkurnett Arrests Six

Five men and one woman arrested by Constable Payne and Deputy Constable Brannon in and near Burkburnett during the last few days were brought here Thursday afternoon and charged with various offenses. They were lodged in the county jail Thursday night.

Jim Thompson is charged with theft by bailee and swindling. W. M. Smith, Joe Barron and W. L. Cogle are all charged with theft of oil field machinery.

Luther Hanna and Lena Hanna arrested at Bradley's Cornor by officers are charged with the manufacture of whiskey. According to officers they were operating a still at the time of their arrest. They are said to have made a signed statement at the district atorney's office regarding the charge that was filed against them.

LEST WE FORGET

Three years ago today marked the sullen surrender of ruthless might.

A proud emperor and his haughty, autocratic millions went down to the bitterness of defeat.

Four million American men and women in uniform knew that the greatest war in history had been won.

November 11, 1918, will forever be a sacred day in the memory of Americans.

Today the flush of exultant triumph has abated. But the memory of those brave men who offered their lives in the grim test of war is still fresh. Our gratitude is still vivid. Their glory is still undimmed.

Give a Thought to the Men Who Sleep in Europe's Fields!

Three years ago, when the news of victory and the ending of the war was flashed from across the sea, a tremendous thrill swept over America. Mingled joy and reverence moved us—joy because of the triumph of our forces, and profound reverence and honor for those who would remain on the battlefields.

I join my spirit with the people of Wichita Falls in doing honor to the soldiers of the country. There never were more splendid men than were the sons of America in the recent war. And because some of them gave their lives in that conflict in the defense of their country and its principles, a profound duty now is ours to keep this nation true to the ideal they last held for it. We must not cease to remember them; we must always be quick to honor them. Because of them we must continually strive toward a more splendid America. The memory of our fallen heroes must be forever an inspiration to us and a challenge to a patriotism that is true as was theirs.

WIDE RANGE OF SUBJECTS FOR ROTARY MEET

Topics Range From Automatic Telephones to Founding of First Anglo-Saxon Colony in Texas.

A wide range of subjects, with a demonstration of the automatic telephone on one extremity and a discussion of the founding of the first Anglo-Saxon colony in Texas just 100 years ago, featured the program of the Rotary club at their Thursday luncheon. The other feature of the program, in keeping with Armistice Day tomorrow, was the singing of the moving patriotic song, "The Buddies We Left Behind," by R. E. Shepherd, accompanied by Mrs. Shepherd.

Luther Hoffman, commander of the Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion, who made a brief address, referred to the significance of Texas Founders Day and of Armistice Day, and closed with a plea for sincere support for the local post of the Legion, telling his hearers what it had accomplished in the past, in spite of difficulties, in the way of looking out for the welfare of former soldiers, as well as preparing to help in this way in the future, in addition to the maintenance of a social and fraternal organization among those who had served during the recent war.

Automatic Phone Explained

The working of the automatic telephone was explained by C. C. Kirby, local manager, who illustrated his explanations with a demonstration set which showed the various steps taken by the machinery in handling a call from the time it was first dialed until the instrument whose number was dialed was answered. It showed that the connection could be obtained even more quickly than is possible under present conditions—the instrument at the other end ringing intermittently until it was answered. In case the other number is busy, the instrument makes an easily recognizable buzzing sound.

The automatic service will be instituted some time in December, he said. Before it is started, instructors will visit every telephone to give instruction in the handling of the instrument, he said—starting about November 15.

Mr. Kirby spoke of the conditions which had confronted the telephone company here during the boom period, and of their having to import operators from other places at considerable expense to take care of the rush. The number of telephones here he said, was now about 5500, compared with 2300.

H. J. George of Dallas, commercial manager for the telephone company, preceded Mr. Kirby in a short talk. He called attention to the fact that Wichita Falls was getting the automatic equipment ahead of its turn through the importance attributed to this city by the telephone company.

Telephone Rates

In answer to a question by Judge Martin as to whether the installation of automatic equipment would result in a lowering of rates here, Mr. George said that he did not think that the company would feel justified in doing this right now, as the maintenance of their service here during last year had cost them $100,000 more than the revenue they had received.

In calling attention to the Texas Founders Day Luther Hoffman recounted an incident in connection with the founding of the first colony here by the Austins as told him by a professor of the University of Texas.

Moses Austin, who was the real colonizer, and who projected the colony afterward carried out by Stephen F. Austin, his son, was a native of Connecticut, who went to Virginia to engage in a mining venture, and afterward moved to Missouri, where through a bank failure he lost all of his money, Mr. Hoffman said. It was at this time that he planned the colonization of a part of Texas. In the meantime Moses Austin's son, Stephen F. Austin, then a young man, was engaged in business in New Orleans.

How Hot It Was

As summer came on he wrote his father that it was the hottest place he ever saw, and that he planned to move somewhere else, and suggested that the Spanish colony of Texas seemed to him to offer the best opportunity.

"Why father, to show you how hot it is here," he wrote, "I saw a greyhound chasing a jack rabbit through the streets of New Orleans today, and the heat was such both of them were walking."

MORE PROTECTION FOR AMERICAN HEN FRUIT IS SOUGHT

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Greater protection for the American hen against foreign competitors than that carried in the Fordney tariff bill was sought today by spokesmen who appeared before the senate finance committee to ask an import tax of 8 cents a dozen on her product in the shell. The bill taxes such imports six cents a dozen but representatives of the American poultry association held that the domestic hen could not compete with so small a handicap.

According to the testimony of Knox Bonde, of San Francisco, in behalf of the association, Chinese eggs threaten to break the American market. He argued that congress should not allow this situation to obtain and assured the committee that the Chinese hens were producing millions of dozens of eggs which were laid down in Chicago at 18 cents a dozen, including duty and freight.

Dried eggs from China also are affecting the market for the product of the American hen, according to Harry R. Lewis of Davisville, R. I., who asked for a duty of 24 cents a pound on this product as against a rate of 15 cents in the bill.

This new dawg that B. Frank brought home is an unusually fine specimen of the recently evolved "shimmy hound," he declares, is pedigreed, registered, and all that. It is the first of the breed brought to Wichita Falls, and is Johnson declares, "without fear of contradiction," it to be the finest in the state.

All friends of the firm, and all dog fanciers of the city are invited to call at the office today and view the new prize.

MRS. DUFF, WICHITA FALLS, CHOSEN STATE TREASURER D. A. R.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 10.—Mrs. W. D. Garlington of Dallas was elected state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution at today's session of the twenty-second annual state conference of that organization here. She succeeds Mrs. Ike McFarland of Houston, who was endorsed as vice-president general.

Other officers elected:

Mrs. Samuel Seay, Amarillo, state vice-regent; Mrs. H. C. Bailiff, Beaumont, state recording secretary; Mrs. M. C. Turner, Dallas, state corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. D. Taylor, Weatherford, state registrar; Mrs. E. T. Duff, Wichita Falls, state treasurer; Mrs. C. Y. Early, Brownwood, state historian; Mrs. B. D. Orgain, Bastrop, state chaplain. All officers were elected unanimously, there being no opposition to any of the candidates.

SENATE GROUP ASKS DELAY OF GARMENT WORKERS WALKOUT

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The request that members of the cloak, suit and skirt manufacturers protective association rescind for two weeks wage alterations which have been made the basis for a strike vote in the garment industry, was made in a telegram sent to the association tonight by twelve senators.

A postponement of two weeks in the wage cut order now scheduled for November 14, probably will result in a compromise being reached.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Members of the cloak, skirt and reefer makers unions affiliated with the International Ladies Garment Workers union, have voted overwhelmingly in favor of going on strike November 14, in protest against the piece work plan recently initiated by their employers. The vote was announced today as 38,672 in favor of a strike and 102 opposed.

Marshal Foch Has Busy Day In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 10.—Marshal Foch, guest of Pittsburgh, today broke away from the program laid down for him and in three places expressed appreciation for the cordial welcome he has received.

The special train carrying Marshal Foch and his party arrived from Cleveland in a suburb this morning and they were shown through some departments of the Homestead works of the Carnegie Steel Company. He asked many questions which showed an intimate knowledge of steel manufacture and displayed deep interest in the welfare of men employed in the mills.

Arriving at the soldier Memorial in the Oakland district he was received by the entire student body of the university of Pittsburgh and DeQuesne University. Here each institution conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Laws.

This afternoon Marshal Foch headed a procession of city and county officials and for two hours was driven through streets thronged with people.

Driven past a hospital where a number of wounded soldiers had been brought to the lawn and noting their uniforms, he ordered his car stopped and shook hands with everyone of the men. Marshal Foch and his party left tonight for Washington.

OIL INDUSTRY ABLE TO MEET ALL DEMANDS

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The oil industry can continue to meet all demands made upon it, according to H. G. James, secretary and general manager of the Western Petroleum Refiners' association. It was probably true, said Mr. James, that never before in the sixty-two years of the petroleum industry in this country had there been such demand for petroleum for fuel purposes. This was due to three things: A realization that petroleum was not a fleeting commodity; an unquestioned supply of oil, and its convenience, and safety.

"Until recently alleged authorities have insisted that within a given period crude oil would become exhausted," said Mr. James in the current issue of the Mining Congress Journal. "During the war it seemed necessary, in order to spur the wildcatter to go forth and drill, to carry the impression that oil was likely to become exhausted and that every effort should be made to produce enough to win the war.

"Nothing more forcibly illustrates the adequate supply of oil as a fuel than the luminous story told by the record of stocks. In 1914, when the famous Cushing pool was at its height, stocks of crude oil in the United States amounted to 141,500,000 barrels. Since then we have passed through the greatest war the world has ever known, and today we find in excess of 160,000,000 barrels of crude oil in storage, with more great fields in course of development and greater production in prospect than ever before in the history of the industry."

"It is true," he adds, "people by the thousands are turning to oil as fuel in the home, public buildings and in the shops and factory; the railroads are using oil generally, more battleships are being built to use it. But I am afraid there is more likelihood of a limit to consumption that to the supply.

"The thing the oil industry is worrying over is a market, not a supply. The oil fraternity is afraid of imports from countries where the potential supply of oil is almost unlimited. For a third of a century I have been playing with oil statistics and never have I been more convinced of the ability of the industry to meet every and all demands made upon it than now."

The Anglo-Persian Oil company, which has been prospecting for oil in Papua, New Guinea, under the auspices of the Australian commonwealth government, is about to search in the mandated territory at its own expense. The grant of 50,0000 pounds made by the Australian and British governments to defray the cost of prospecting in Papua will only suffice to carry on the work for two or three months longer.

PLAN NON-PARTISAN DEMONSTRATION AS RESPECT TO WILSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Plans for a non-partisan demonstration tomorrow at the residence of former President Wilson, were announced by a committee of seven women. Democrats, republicans and independents desiring to honor the former chief executive were invited to meet on Connecticut avenue, near Mr. Wilson's home immediately after the Arlington exercises. The demonstration, which will be entirely informal, was declared to be intended by its sponsors as a method of "congratulating Mr. Wilson, a wounded soldier, upon his return to health."

Damage Suit Against Smith Is Withdrawn

The $20,000 damage suit of L. B. Gray, Second street grocer, against Sheriff Fred Smith for alleged false arrest and imprisonment last summer, was dismissed by Judge Ed Napier in the 78th district court Thursday when the plaintiff took a nonsuit.

T. F. Hunter, who as one of the boudsmen of Sheriff Smith, was a joint defendant, acted as attorney for the defendant. Mr. Hunter in asking for the dismissal pointed out that the Gray was tried in county court at law on the charge for which he was arrested and convicted. He also alleged that the plaintiff had failed to show any malice in the arrest.

In a subsequent statement to the Record News, Gray claims that the non-suit was taken by reason of the absence of his attorney from the city, and that the suit will be refiled.

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Nov. 10.—Twenty-five United States marines will arrive here tomorrow from New Orleans to assist the local postoffice in guarding the mails, in conformance with Postmaster General Will Hays' plan of "concerted action" against mail robbers and holdup men, it was announced by postal officials tonight.

Beginning tomorrow night every train bearing valuable mail out of Dallas will carry the soldiers of the sea, armed and ready to shoot to kill if necessary. Plans to place other members of the detachment at points of vantage in the main postoffice and the Jackson street sub-station, also are being worked out, it was said.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A force of 64 United States marines, the vanguard of a force of 265, reported to Postmaster Edward M. Morgan today for duty under Postmaster General Will Hays' plan to prevent incidents such as the $2,000,000 mail truck robbery in Broadway last month.

The sea soldiers, serving under orders of their own officers, were being posted tonight in strategic positions, at mail trains being loaded or unloaded, the postoffice branches and on trucks carrying valuable mail.

GRISWOLD GETS GOOD PRODUCER IN 1800 SAND

Proves Up Deep Sand Area in South Electra Similar to Original Electra Semi-Deep Pool.

Commencing a flow while the bottom was being reamed, to set casing, the Griswold Oil Company's No. 11 Burnett, South Electra, blew in Thursday from an oil sand drilled into at 1815 feet, sending oil high over the derrick top and Thursday afternoon and evening was flowing at an estimated rate of from 300 to 400 barrels.

This well is about a half mile east of the Bridwell and Hendrick discovery well in the 1800-foot sand, and about half way between this well and the Delaney Brothers well, which was the second 1800-foot producer in the pool.

The casing was some distance from the botton of the hole, when the well brought itself in. Preparations are being made to clean out the hole, and complete setting of casing.

This is the first well the Griswold company has completed on this lease, which it recently purchased from the Barr-Davis company. It is the third 1800-foot producer in the South Electra shallo pool.

Three more wells are being started on the Griswold lease, S. M. Griswold, the vice president nd general manager of the company stated Thursday night.

Odd Fellows Confer Degrees On Good Class

The Royal Purple degree was administered by Wichita Falls encampment No. 6, I. O. O. F. to a class of candidates at the Odd Fellows hall, 603 Ohio, Thursday night.

This branch is the youngest branch of the order, it is stated, but already has 3,500 encampments in the United States and has more than a million members over the country. Considerable enthusiasm is being shown in the work here, according to officers of the encampment, in view of the organization of a canton here about January 1.

GIRLS! GROW THICK LONG, HEAVY HAIR WITH "DANDERINE"

Buy a 35-cent bottle of "Danderine." One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and, in a few moments, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant. (Adv.)

High School Students Make Gala Affair of Annual Dress Up Day

Attending in a body the showing of "Way Down East" at the Palace theater and winding up their evening with a special supper at the Olympic confectionary, members of the graduating class of Senior High school Thursday completed what is declared by teachers to be the most successful annual Senior Dress-Up Day program since the custom was inaugurated several years ago. "The Class of '22 Special" a specially prepared dish was announced course served at the supper.

The costumes worn by the seniors were declared the most grotesque and comical yet attempted by any previous class, yet in no instance stepping beyond the proprietors.

In the chapel program staged Thursday morning, the entertainment was divided into four groups. In these, the first group represented the Freshmen, the second the sophomores, the third the juniors and the last the august senior. The Freshmen section members were dressed to represent very small boys and girls and played solely a comic role, while the Sophomore group members were dressed somewhat similarly but to represent students from different foreign countries.

The junior section staged a mimic social function which was brought to a dramatic close when a funereal looking person, bearing a placard indicating him to be a member of the school board, walked in.

The senior group entertained the audience with mock funeral ceremonies which marked the passing of all the various woes and problems so well known to school students. This group were dressed to represent a graduating class from a rural school.

Music for the program was rendered by Miss Jo Betsy Miller. Following the program the class marched out in a body and succumbing the age-old desire for further fun, well known to all who have partaken of class day ceremonies, they marched on into the city in a body.

After several demonstrations the class wended its way back to the school after a special messenger from the superintendent's office had held consultation with a good portion of their numbers.

Students declared that their trip to the city made under the spirit of the moment, was not in any manner meant as a violation of the rules of the school.

Foch Issues An Armistice Day Message

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 10.—Declaring that Armistice Day should be made sacred throughout the civilized world, Marshal Foch here tonight gave out a message to the American Legion, a message which he said, applied to every one who took part in the world war or whose relatives served in it.

"It is out of sacrifice and suffering that the greatest things in life grow," said the message.

"No man ever gave up part of himself in a great cause but that his sacrifice was rewarded a hundredfold in moral and spiritual blessings.

"Our hearts pour out in sympathy to the mothers, wives, fathers, sisters, brothers of those brave soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice in the world war.

"Armistice Day, the eleventh of November, should be made sacred throughout the civilized world. It is the day when we think of the noble sacrifices made by the hero dead, of the brilliant records of duty well performed, left on the field of battle by the wounded; of the spirit of patriotism and bravery shown by those who, fortunately, escaped shot and shell.

"On this day let us think only of the great cause for which the allies fought—a splendid cause, one that led to victory and peace. And thinking of the great cause for which we fought, let us think also of a bond of eternal peace, so that the people of the world may work and rebuild and find happiness in industrial pursuits, with no thoughts of future conflicts.

"God helping, peace will reign throughout the world."

STRANGLER LEWIS IS GIVEN TOUGH BATTLE BY TEXAN

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 10.—After losing the first fall to Dick Daviscourt of Texas in two minutes time, Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion came back and won two straight falls here tonight. Daviscourt threw the former champion with one of Lewis' own headlocks. Lewis obtained the second fall in one hour on a fluke. While attempting to pull Lewis from the ropes, Daviscourt fell backwards pulling Lewis on top of him. Lewis full weight fell on Daviscourt's head stunning him. Lewis then pounced on the Texan and pinned his shoulders to the mat. The ex-champion took the third fall in 17 minutes with a headlock.

The population of the British empire exceeds one-quarter of the world's population.

Record News Readers: Laugh With Us

Some Chest-Nuts

"Perhaps the bitterest moments in the life of a lover of books," says a New Yorker, "is when he finds that his treasures are valued by no one but himself. I once tried to weed out by collection, after I had become convinced that either the surplus volumes or their owner would have to move out of the library. This weeding was a painful process, but at last the second-hand book dealer was invited to name his price for the uprooted weeds."

"'They're no good to me,'" was his disconcerting reply.

"'What, none of them?'

"'No, not one.'

"Some one suggested that as the books had to go the dealer might better have them for nothing. It was a bitter moment, but finally I assented. The man then remarked:

"'That will be half a dollar.'

"'Half a dollar for what?'

"'For taking them away.'"

He entered the breakfast room with a letter in his hand, his face suffused with shame and confusion.

"My dear," he said hesitatingly.

"Well?" snapped his dear.

"I—I'm very sorry, but—"

"You usually are sorry about something, and with good cause. What's the matter now?"

"This letter to your mother. You gave it to me to post about ten days ago, and—and—I"

You've forgotten to post it. Well" —calmly—"we must make the best of it, I suppose. That letter was to ask dearest mother to postpone her visit this year, but, since you've forgotten to post it, I expect she'll be here during the morning."

Ten minutes later a frantic man might have been dimly discerened in the depths of the innermost coal cellar, administering unto himself a sound kicking.

Whenever the Americans try their boasting against a Scotsman they are at once hard pressed to get the best of the cross-talk.

A Scotsman and an American were talking one day on a ship.

"In New York," said the American, "we've certainly got a fine lot of young men!"

Nae doot," said the Scotsman. "A lot of our laddies have been emigratin' lately."

The American frowned and thought a while. Then he said, in a sarcastic voice:

"George Washington was no Scotsman and George Washington could not tell a lie!"

"Ou, ay!" the Scot retorted. "A Scotsman could, but he wouldn't."

An Englishman went to a baseball game, and both sides made one run each during the first inning. The Englishman watched the scoreboard intently as each team failed to make a run inning after inning. The game had gone sixteen innings and the figure one and zeros following had left their impression on the mind of the Englishman. Going down the street after the game a small boy stopped him and asked what the score was. "Oh," said the Englishman, "I lost all track of the game; it's way up in the millions."

A policeman was leading a child along a street in Glascow in the direction of the police station.

On the pavement stood a middle-aged, motherly-looking woman, who gazed at the pair with interest.

As they passed she held up her hand in astonishment and exclaimed, "Eh, the puir, half-starved wee thing. It looks as if it hadna gotten a decent meal for a week, nor been properly washed for a fortnight. Some folks canna bring up dogs, let alone weans! Whaur did ye fin' it?"

The policeman retorted, angrily: "Whaur did I fin' it? Dash your impudence, woman, the wean isna lost at a'; it's ma ain bairn!"

PROBABLY A DRY DISCOURS

Professor (to student)—"You disturbed me yesterday by talking aloud during my lecture."

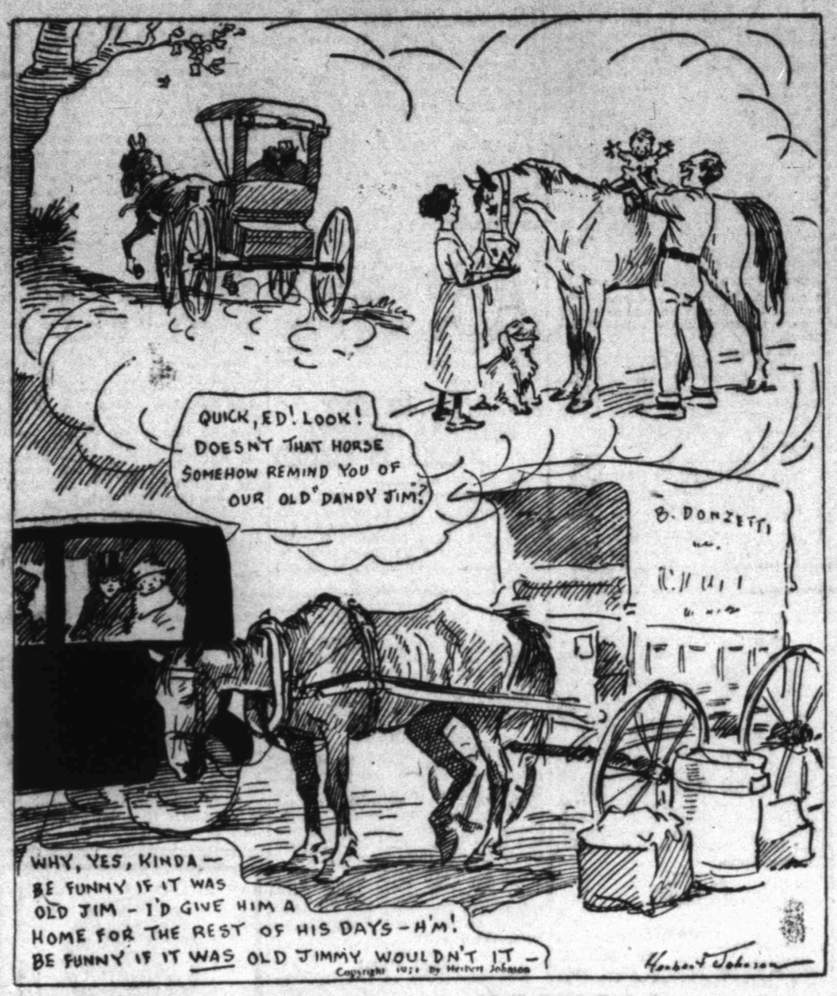

Student—"Impossible, professor! It is possible! I must have been talking in my sleep, then."

It is the day when we think of the noble sacrifices made by the hero dead, of the brilliant records of duty well performed, left on the field of battle by the wounded; of the spirit of patriotism and bravery shown by those who, fortunately, escaped shot and shell.

"On this day let us think only of the great cause for which the allies fought—a splendid cause, one that led to victory and peace. And thinking of the great cause for which we fought, let us think also of a bond of eternal peace, so that the people of the world may work and rebuild and find happiness in industrial pursuits, with no thoughts of future conflicts.

"God helping, peace will reign throughout the world."

STRANGLER LEWIS IS GIVEN TOUGH BATTLE BY TEXAN

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 10.—After losing the first fall to Dick Daviscourt of Texas in two minutes time, Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion came back and won two straight falls here tonight. Daviscourt threw the former champion with one of Lewis' own headlocks. Lewis obtained the second fall in one hour on a fluke. While attempting to pull Lewis from the ropes, Daviscourt fell backwards pulling Lewis on top of him. Lewis full weight fell on Daviscourt's head stunning him. Lewis then pounced on the Texan and pinned his shoulders to the mat. The ex-champion took the third fall in 17 minutes with a headlock.

The population of the British empire exceeds one-quarter of the world's population.

Record News Readers: Laugh With Us

Some Chest-Nuts

"Perhaps the bitterest moments in the life of a lover of books," says a New Yorker, "is when he finds that his treasures are valued by no one but himself. I once tried to weed out by collection, after I had become convinced that either the surplus volumes or their owner would have to move out of the library. This weeding was a painful process, but at last the second-hand book dealer was invited to name his price for the uprooted weeds."

"'They're no good to me,'" was his disconcerting reply.

"'What, none of them?'

"'No, not one.'

"Some one suggested that as the books had to go the dealer might better have them for nothing. It was a bitter moment, but finally I assented. The man then remarked:

"'That will be half a dollar.'

"'Half a dollar for what?'

"'For taking them away.''

He entered the breakfast room with a letter in his hand, his face suffused with shame and confusion.

"My dear," he said hesitatingly.

"Well?" snapped his dear.

"—I'm very sorry, but—"

"You usually are sorry about something, and with good cause. What's the matter now?"

"This letter to your mother. You gave it to me to post about ten days ago, and—and—I"

You've forgotten to post it. Well" —calmly—"we must make the best of it, I suppose. That letter was to ask dearest mother to postpone her visit this year, but, since you've forgotten to post it, I expect she'll be here during the morning."

Ten minutes later a frantic man might have been dimly discerened in the depths of the innermost coal cellar administering unto himself a sound kicking.

Whenever the Americans try their boasting against a Scotsman they are at once hard pressed to get the best of the cross-talk.

A Scotsman and an American were talking one day on a ship.

"In New York," said the American, "we've certainly got a fine lot of young men!"

Nae doot," said the Scotsman. "A lot of oor laddies have been emigratin' lately."

The American frowned and thought a while. Then he said, in a sarcastic voice:

"George Washington was no Scotsman and George Washington could not tell a lie!"

"Ou, ay!" the Scot retorted. "A Scotsman could, but he wouldn't."

An Englishman went to a baseball game, and both sides made one run each during the first inning. The Englishman watched the scoreboard intently as each team failed to make a run inning after inning. The game had gone sixteen innings and the figure one and zeros following had left their impression on the mind of the Englishman. Going down the street after the game a small boy stopped him and asked what the score was. "Oh," said the Englishman, "I lost all track of the game; it's way up in the millions."

A policeman was leading a child along a street in Glascow in the direction of the police station.

On the pavement stood a middle-aged, motherly-looking woman, who gazed at the pair with interest.

As they passed she held up her hand in astonishment and exclaimed, "Eh, the puir, half-starved wee thing. It looks as if it hadna gotten a decent meal for a week, nor been properly washed for a fortnight. Some folks canna bring up dogs, let alone weans! Whaur did ye fin' it?"

The policeman retorted, angrily: "Whaur did I fin' it? Dash your impudence, woman, the wean isna lost at a'; it's ma ain bairn!"

Poultry alive, lower; fowls 15c@22c; turkeys 33c; roosters 16½c.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Raw sugar was unchanged at 4.06 to 4.11 for centrifugal.

Raw sugar futures were irregular and trading was principally in the form of evening up for over the holiday. Early transactions were at advances of 2 to 3 points on some of the active positions on covering, but near the close there was some scattered liquidation and prices eased off, closing 1 to 2 points net lower. December closed at 2.41; March 2.27; May 2.36 and July 2.46.

In refined the arrivals of sugar are increasing so that refiners are gradually catching up on sold orders, although some still are unable to make prompt delivery for which the bulk of the demand is for Prices are unchanged at 5.20 to 5.30 for fine granulated.

There were a few transactions in refined sugar futures and covering by December shorts caused an advance of 8 points in that position. Closing prices were unchanged to 10 points in that position. Closing prices were unchanged to 10 points net higher. December closed at 5.53; March 5.30; and May 5.40.

COFFEE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—After opening at a decline of one to six points, coffee futures worked up a few points on covering for over the holiday and week-end. Otherwise, there appeared to be very little support and after selling at 8.08, or four points net higher, March broke to 8.00 in the late trading, while May sold off from 7.97 to 7.88.

The close was at lowest of the day, showing a net decline of 7 to 15 points. Sales were reported of about 30,000 bags. December 8.43; January 8.28; March 7.97; May 7.87; July 7.77; September 7.65.

Spot coffee quiet: Rio 7s 8 3-4@8 7-8c; Santos 4's 11 3-4@12 1-2.

According to an old belief, it is unlucky for a ... to have to do her hair up twice when preparing for her wedding.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Trading in stocks today was unusually active for a pre-holiday session, but the greater part of the business continued to center in speculative issues, further profit taking causing an irregular to heavy tone.

Oil, secondary steels, coppers and kindred base metals, chemicals and the cheaper motors and their specialties overshadowed all other issues, but grains of variable extent were largely or wholly cancelled later.

Rails manifested occasional restraint as a result of the pressure directed against favorites, including Great Northern and Northern Pacific. Announcement that the railway executives were formulating a lower wage program also reduced interest in that group. Sales amounted to 825,000 shares.

Reversing its usual course, the money market opened with a firm tone, call loans being made at 5½ per cent. This rate was reduced to five per cent before the close and time funds covering 30 to 60 day requirements were in better supply.

Dealings in foreign exchange were small aside from purchases of sterling and Paris bills. The Italian rate continued to decline and German marks lost much of yesterday's recovery, but Scandinavian quotations were higher, notably the Danish rate.

Liberty issues closed at mixed gains and losses, railroad issues were mostly reactionary and internationals again lacked a definite tone. Total sales, par value, $16,875,000.

Grain

GRAIN.

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Material setbacks in the value of grain stock place today, largely as a result of the government report showing a huge supply of old and new corn. The close in wheat, although unsettled, was 1 to 1 7-8c net lower with December 1.04 5-8 to 1.04 3-4 and May 1.09 3-4 to 1.09 7-8. Corn lost 1 3-8 to 1 1-2 and oats 1-4@3-8c to 1-2@5-8c. Provisions finished 10 to 30c down.

With record-breaking farm reserves of corn officially confirmed, bearish sentiment as to all grain appeared to have developed to a considerable degree. This circumstance was so noticeable that in view of five days preceding advance, many longs deemed it prudent to realize on their holdings. Despite continued dry weather in the southwest and general falling off in receipts, buying power dwindled, and the surplus offerings in the pit proved hard to digest.

Enlarged country offerings of corn were reported, and it was predicted that receipts would increase after November 20 when reduced freight rates go into effect. Oats were governed by corn.

Provisions were weak in line with grain.

Oats No. 2 white 34c; No. 2 mixed 31@32c.

Livestock

FORT WORTH, Nov. 10.—Market conditions were more demoralized than ever today regardless of the fact that receipts were materially decreased. Around 1800 head of cattle and 1800 calves appeared, exclusive of a train of cattle that arrived too late to sell Wednesday. Buyers had orders for only a handful of cattle and did not seem to want any calves. Cattle values were generally 25 cents lower and calves dragged at a loss of 50 to 75 cents.

Packers purchased hogs on a steady basis, but shippers took over a few cars at an advance of 5@10c. The packer top was 7.40 and shippers paid 7.50. Bulk sales ranged from 7.25@7.40. Pigs sold 10c lower, the top being 7.50. Hog house receipts amounted to only 1,000 head.

A run of 700 sheep and lambs cleared readily on a good steady basis. Shorn yearlings went at .50. Quotations:

Cattle—Beeves 3.00@5.50; stockers 3.00@4.50; cows 2.25@4.00; canners 1.25@2.25; heifers 3.00@5.00; yearlings 3.50@5.50; bulls 1.75@2.75; calves 1.50@5.50.

Total liabilities, $5,101,868.

DRY GOODS.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Cotton goods were very quiet today and there was a softening in prices on print cloths and sheetings incident to a further decline in raw cotton. Yarns were dull. Wool overcoating sold more freely while burlaps were barely seady. Silks were quiet.

Cotton

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The cotton market showed continued weakness today with a further decline of approximately $3 per bale in prices. January sold off to 16.55, or 60 points below the closing yesterday and more than 160 points below the price ruling before publication of the census report yesterday. This made a decline of over 5 cents per pound as compared with high records of the early autumn, but rallies of 18 or 20 points were not fully maintained and the market closed barely steady at a net decline of 33 to 59 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 5 cents on October, but generally 4 to 12 points lower. There were slight rallies after the call on covering for over the holiday tomorrow and a little trade buying, but the market soon weakened on the report of a local trade authority estimating the crop at 8,000,000 bales.

The ginning figures of the previous day had prepared sentiment for estimates of seven and a half million bales or more, but the increase to 8,000,000 appeared to bring out further old long liquidation. Nearly all commission house brokers had selling orders and the market was very weak and unsettled during mid-day with December breaking to 16.80 and March to 16.55, or about 50 to 70 points net lower on the general list. Offerings then became a little less active and there were rallies on renewed covering, but bulges of 18 or 20 points seemed to meet some Southern selling and the tone was unsettled in late trading. While most of the selling was attributed to commission house liquidation, local brokers reported some hedging, particularly by Eastern belt interests and a little selling was also reported from the Southwest.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—Further declines were made by cotton today under general selling which set in after a steady early session and continued until early afternoon. At lowest of the day, prices were 42 to 65 points under the close of yesterday and last prices were at net losses of 38 to 60 points. December traded down to 15.97 and closed at 16.02 and was the weakest month. July fell to 15.41 and closed at 15.48.

Extremely heavy liquidation of long cotton, new hedge selling in great volume and scattered speculative selling made up the pressure against the market. After losses of 1 to 5 points, around the opening on a poor Liverpool, shorts covered and the purchases were large enough to put prices 18 to 28 points higher than the close yesterday; this hard spot tempted sellers of all kinds and a swift slump followed which was not checked until early afternoon again brought a demand from covering shorts.

The decline appeared to be initiated by a private bureau crop estimate of eight million bales. Little attention was paid to reports from the western belt that farmers were not selling at the decline nor to a private bureau estimate that American consumption during October amounted to 533,000 bales against 485,000 in September and 401,000 in October last year. The decline sent all months to new low levels for the downward movement which set in something over a month ago.

LIVERPOOL SPOT COTTON

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 10.—Spot cotton dull; prices weak. Good middling 11.63; fully fiddling 11.23; middling 10.83; low middling 9.53; good ordinary 7.83; ordinary 7.08. Sales 5,000 bales, including 4,600 American.

MEIN GOTT—LAGER BEER IS GONE AND SAUER KRAUT GOING

CHICAGO, Nov. 10—High rents, unemployment, high taxes and threats of strikes are not the only worries facing the American public.

The nation is confronted with a sauer kraut shortage, it developed today when the National Kraut Packers' association opened its quarterly meeting here. W. H. Knox of Jackson, Mich., the secretary, revealed that the cabbage crop has been attacked by "yellows" and "stump rot" two diseases which prove fatal to the succulent base of the German national dish.

Martin Moeter of Lansing, Ill., read a paper quoting Pasteur, the French scientist, as saying sauer kraut is the "most useful and healthful" dish on earth.

Unemployment is stated by authorities to be one of the ½reatest factors in bringing about diseases of the mind.

to answer a petition filed in said court on the 4th day of November, A. D., 1921, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 11845-A, wherein Bessie Fullerton is plaintiff and Dan Fullerton is defendant and said petition alleging, that on or about the 17th day of July, 1919, plaintiff and defendant were legally married, and continued to live together until on or about the 17th day of October, 1919; that on divers occasions, while plaintiff lived with defendant, he was guilty of excesses, cruel treatment and outrages toward her, of such nature as to render their living together insupportable; that on October 17, 1919, the defendant left their home without telling said plaintiff the truth as to where he was going and since that time said plaintiff has never heard a word from the defendant and has not been able to find out his whereabouts;
Wherefore, plaintiff prays the court that defendant be cited to appear and answer this petition, and that upon final hearing hereof plaintiff have judgment dissolving the marriage contract now existing between plaintiff and defendant, and that her maiden name, to-wit, Bessie Payne, be restored to her; and for all costs of suit, and for such other and further relief, special and general, in law and in equity, that she may be justly entitled to.
Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.
Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 4th day of November, A. D., 1921.

ILLINOIS MINERS FACE BREAK WITH HEAD ORGANIZATION

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 10.—If Illinois miners, now in convention here, approve a resolution tomorrow providing for an assessment of $90,000 to help the striking Kansas workers, it may mean a break with the international organization, it was indicated tonight. It was pointed out at the convention that the Kansas miners have been ordered back to work by Tuesday. If they do not return the action of the Illinois miners would be supporting non-union workers and would cause action by the international organization.

President Farrington warned the delegates to go slow in their decisions. "I hope the convention votes favorably on the resolution," he said. "I hope you unanimously decide to contribute to the support of the Kansas miners. However, be not fooled by the outcome. We are liable to face war with the international organization and in this clash we must go the limit until one side or the other is forced to surrender."

FIRE EATING INTO ROCK ISLAND SHOPS AT SHAWNEE, OKLA.

SHAWNEE, Okla., Nov. 10.—The Choctaw cotton compress has been entirely enveloped in flames which are fast eating into the Rock Island shops here in one of the most spectacular fires in local history. The flames are supposed to have been started by an explosion in a Rock Island oil house.

Firemen have not been able to check the flames which are fast spreading into the residence district. Loss of life is hinted at, but it has not been possible for rescuers to reach the base of the conflagration.

REPORTERS KEEP TAB ON BRIAND

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Premier Briand, called upon former President Wilson today but was informed that Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were out. M. Briand left his card.

M. Briand, M. Sarraut, M. Bertaelot and Dr. Chatin, of the French delegation, drove to Mount Vernon, and M. Briand laid a palm and flowers at the tomb of Washington. Earlier in the day, the French premier had gone to the capitol and laid a wreath of flowers at the bier of the unknown soldier. Tonight M. Briand dined with Henry White, former American ambassador to France, and Mrs. White.

Parliament Is Prorogued With Speech of King

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—Parliament was prorogued tonight until January 30 without ceremony, except the reading of the king's speech by the speaker and the customary procession of members to shake hands with the chair.

There had been some expectation that the prime minister would make a statement on Irish orother matters, but beyond answering a few questions he made no speech and the members had to be content wtih the formal matter of the royal speech with its prayer for the success of the Washington conference and the peaceful outcome of the Irish negotiations.

SHIPPERS ADVOCATE RADICAL CHANGES IN TRANSPORTATION ACT

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Proposed radical changes in the transportation law submitted in a report to members of the national industrial traffic league, which closed its annual convention here today, will be submitted to shippers of the country for consideration and final action at a meeting of the league to be held here not later than February of next year, it was announced.

Changes advocated include reorganization of the railroad labor board to include five public members, allowing shippers to intervene and testify in wage cases before the labor board, submission of all deeds of the labor board to the interstate commerce commission before promulgation and allowing consideration of railroads where it is deemed to the interest of the public.

MEMBERS SUBMARINE CREW ARE INJURED IN FIRE ON BOARD

By Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—The battery compartment of submarine L-6 caught fire while it was maneuvering in Los Angeles harbor late today and six of the crew were so seriously wounded that they were removed to the hospital at the submarine base for treatment.

The crew brought the craft to the surface and submarine chaser No. 309 went to the rescue. Sailors with gas helmets went into the blazing compartment and brought out the injured.

HOWAT APPEALS TO MINERS TO DESERT COLORS OF LEWIS

By Associated Press.
PITTSBURG, Kan., Nov. 10.—Alexander Howat, deposed and imprisoned president of the Kansas Workers, from the Cherokee county jail at Columbus has issued an appeal to the miners of the country to stand against John L. Lewis, the international president, and for Howat and his followers. The statement, published here today, asserts that the "action taken by President Lewis in suspending the autonomy of our district, without the least justification for doing so, is the most cowardly and dastardly outrage that has ever been perpetrated against the labor movement in the history of the country and such action by Lewis at this time should brand him as a traitor to the cause of labor."

IOWA PARK RECEIVES MONEY FROM LATEST ISSUE WATER BONDS

IOWA PARK, Texas, Nov. 10.—The money has been received on the water and sewerage bonds of the last issue voted by the city and the work of installing a pump station and laying pipe from the city to the station will be started at once.

The pump station will be located on the Zink farm, a mile south of town, and the water supply will be from the same sheet of water that is pumped to the refineries here, assuring an unlimited supply.

HOW THE WORK OF IRRIGATION IS WROUGHT

How Irrigation Water Is Handled During Its Course of Distribution Comprehensively Told.

Interesting Facts Concerning the Proposed Reservoir, the Diversion Dams and the Canals.

By FRANK S. REID.

During the past week, interesting developments in connection with the local irrigation project have taken place which should mean much to this section of Texas in years to come. A sale of the four million and half of bonds to a St. Louis bond house, which means money available for an early commencement of the actual construction work.

To those who have had experience in irrigation matters, it will be interesting to follow out the details of construction of the work. And to the novice to see how the ditches are constructed and how they follow out the contour of the land to be irrigated so as to irrigate the greatest area. In other words, the distribution system, the installation of control gates, the installation of farmers head gates and all the little details that go to make up an irrigation system, then the final realization of it all when water is applied to growing crops.

To follow out the course of irrigation water from its source of supply down to the point of distribution on one's land and how it is handled during its course of distribution, is no small matter.

Let us take the source of supply of the local project, the natural reservoir which nature built, in Baylor county, capable of holding 500,000 acre feet of water. At the outlet of this reservoir, or where the Wichita river comes out, a dam will be constructed to impound the flood waters and fill the big reservoir.

To the north of the dam is the spillway. Control gates in this spillway will allow all surplus water to full over and go down the natural course of the river. Twenty miles below the dam will be constructed a diversion dam.

This is a dam thrown across the bed of the river, with necessary control gates, etc., for throwing the water into two canals, which are the main feeders for the distribution system, one to the north and the other to the south.

By means of the control gates in the dam, the required amount of water is always governed, that will flow through the two main canals. Any rush of water causing unnecessary pressure upon the canals that might cause trouble, is governed by the control gates, which are opened wider to allow for this rush of water.

From these two main canals comes the distribution system or the smaller canals that are run in different directions to take care of the largest amount of land. Where these smaller laterals come out of the main canals, headgates are placed, which are so regulated as to control the amount of water necessary to be fed into these smaller laterals in accordance with what is being used, and so from these smaller laterals the farmer takes his water through a headgate.

In well regulated systems, water is measured carefully. In most irrigated systems, one pays for a certain amount of water per acre of ground. Sometimes it is measured in miners inches and others in cubic feet.

In the project I am familiar with a cubic foot of water was allowed for each 80 acres of ground, measured at the headgate by means of a Cippoletti Weir, so that the rancher would always know he was receiving the required amount of water. He could under no circumstances tamper with his headgate, for same was always locked, and it was a penitentiary offense for anyone to wilfully break a headgate lock. This prevented stealing of water upon the part of someone higher upon a ditch.

The farmer has some planning to do to distribute water over his land in the quickest possible time, especially during the extremely hot season. He must arrange his ditches in such a manner that they will not be unsightly and yet cover a large amount of ground.

They must be run on the highest places.

Means must be established for taking care of the water as it flows off the land. This necessitates drain ditches. His land requires the most careful preparation for irrigated farming. Water won't run up hill and if high spots exist in a piece of land to be irrigated, lots of trouble will be encountered. (I once heard a little fellow tell his father, who was having a hard time to get water over a little high place, to carry it up in pails.) Ditches properly made—not unsightly or too large, checks properly placed, land carefully prepared, make irrigation a real pleasure.

As long as the local project is now measured and work will be commenced shortly, the very best talent obtainable for every phase of the work from the construction work down to the actual farming operations that will follow, should be procured for the permanent success of the project and its results. There can be many, many lessons learned from the construction of the wonderful irrigated projects that dot portions of the great west.

MATINEE TODAY OF "THE ACQUITTAL" AT WICHITA THEATER

There will be a special matinee of the "Acquittal" at the Wichita theater today at 2:30. "Acquittal" has been pleasing large audiences all the week. The play will continue for the balance of the week.

Next Week "Scandal."

In securing this comedy for the theater-going pulpit of Wichita Falls Manager Gene Lewis has continued his policy of giving the best at popular prices. Mr. Lewis and his corps of assistants have given particular attention to the scenic side of the production and the three sets promise to be visual entertainments.

As a play, "Scandal" is an offering that defies too excessive a use of superlatives. There isn't a dull moment in it; there isn't a spot in which it is not of the deepest interest. And, with its great comedy there is a genuine lesson that everyone, regardless of age or sex, can well afford to take to heart and learn something from.

In Manager Lewis' opinion "Scandal" is "if not the greatest, one of the biggest comedies we have ever been fortunate enough to secure. I am not at all fearful of what the public verdict will be. I know, as we are going to present it, that it will be as popular as it has been during its career in New York and about the country."

When Manager Lewis breaks loose as emphatically as that, we can rest assured that he is pretty certain of what he is talking about.

BUSINESS HOUSES CLOSED IN CLARENDON ARMISTICE DAY

Special to the Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, Nov. 10.—At the regular Tuesday luncheon of the chamber of commerce, it was voted to ask all business houses to close on Armistice Day and everyone has complied with this request.

W. H. Childers of Amarillo and Coach Burton of Clanedon college spoke at this time.

Coach Burton asked the business houses to close for two hours Friday, November 18th from 3 to 5 o'clock so everyone may have an opportunity of seeing the big football game between Abilene Christian college and Clarendon college.

Each of Germany's blinded former soldiers is provided with an official "caretaker" and a specially trained dog.

EVEN CAREFUL CALOMEL USERS ARE SALIVATED

Next Dose of Treacherous Drug May Start Misery for You.

Calomel is dangerous. It may salivate you and make you suffer fearfully from soreness of gums, tenderness of jaws and teeth, swollen tongue, and excessive saliva dribbling from the mouth. Don't trust calomel. It is mercury; quicksilver.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate. (Adv.)

A DECLARATION—A CHALLENGE!

—The Wichita Falls Church of Christ, corner of Tenth and Austin Streets, now in a great revival with Brother Billingsley, takes this means of sending greeting to the people of the city here, and on this great Armistice Day celebration to make friendly overtures to the city's religous forces.

—We first unequivocally declare for union and against division. We address ourselves to the Methodist and Baptist churches, to the Christian and Presbyterian churches, with their pastors, and say, we would unite with them. And in order to do this, we declare ourselves willing to give up our own church home and meet elsewhere.

—We submit that Jehovah foretold that through Christ he would give the people one heart and one way (Jer. 32:39) and Christ himself prayed that all who believed on Him might be one as he and his Father are one (Jno. 17:21). And when division sprang up in the church in Corinth, the Holy Spirit rebuked them and called them carnal (1 Cor. 3:3.) Through His Son, God has given the same law to all the world, making the same requirements of and proffering the same blessings to all alike. We all have "the same Lord" (Rom. 10:12) we have "the same body" (Eph. 3:6) which is the church (Col. 1:24); we are all commanded to "walk by the same rule and mind the same thing" (Phil 3:16) we are all commanded to "Speak the Same Thing" (1 Cor. 1:10) which is to speak as the oracles of God (1 Pet. 4:11); we are to have "the same spirit and walk the same steps" (2 Cor. 12:18.)

—We thus briefly make out the case why we believe division to be sinful. And speaking for ourselves, we do not say we are all right and everybody else all wrong. Rather, we declare that we unreservedly accept what the Lord says as all right, and believe it to be wrong to do anything in his service but what he says.

—And in proposing the union of our forces with others and in doing everything possible to put away division, we declare ourselves more than willing to give up every item of our faith and practice which is not specifically commanded us of the Lord.

—Thus we propose to give up our own church home, if any object to its use, and meet with the rest in any other building selected, upon the sole condition that we all shall do simply and only what the Master in his own words through his inspired men positively commands.

—Of course this is an extraordinary thing for a religious body to propose. Yet we make the proposal deliberately and with a feeling of the utmost kindness and consideration for others who will not bring themselves to agree hereto.

Submitted in love,

E. L. COCHRAN,
Minister.
