Failure Of President To Recognize Party At Annapolis Draws Bitter Protest

(By The Associated Press)

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 19—A failure of President Hoover to recognize an official welcoming party here Saturday when he passed through on his way to Yorktown, today led to a formal protest to the White House and abandonment of plans for a welcome on his return trip.

The protest was entered in the form of a letter which Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt directed to the president, asking an explanation.

"There will be no welcome when the president passes through tomorrow on his return to Washington from Yorktown," Mayor Quenstedt said. "We went to considerable pains to arrange the reception Saturday and failed to obtain even a nod from the presidential party."

"If a satisfactory explanation is not forthcoming from President Hoover, then I will make public my letter and the answer made to it," he said.

"I made arrangements for the reception with Col G. C. Drescher of the secret service, who said he was the president's civilian aide. He fixed the hour of arrival and the point at which we were to meet the president."

Charity Policies Of County And City Are Endorsed Here By Lubbock Loyalty Council

Sixty New Members Are Taken In Monday At Meeting Held At Hilton; Opportunity For Progress Is Outlined

COMMENDATION of the action of the city and county officials for adopting a policy of refusing charity to those who have failed or refused to work when labor, such as cotton picking, has been offered was given in a resolution passed by the Lubbock Loyalty Council in a meeting Monday afternoon in the Hilton hotel ballroom. About 150 were present.

Besides passing the resolution, reviewing the opportunities offered for the advancement of industrialism here, the council pledged sixty new members.

J. O. Jones, chairman, presided.

Resolution Given

The resolution, read from the floor by John Dalrymple, is as follows:

Whereas, there exists at this time a large amount of unemployment locally, while the farmers of this section are crying for help, and

Whereas, the County and City governments have formed a charitable organization to care for the absolute needs of the helpless, and

Whereas, the best real charity is work rather than doles, but the prospect of charity often lends to willful unemployment, and

Whereas, our County and City officials have announced that charity will not be granted to those who have failed or refused to work when work, even such as cotton picking and other farm work, could be obtained,

Therefore, be it resolved by the members of the Lubbock Loyalty Council, in meeting assembled, that we commend the County and City officials for adopting this policy and pledge them our support in every way possible in putting it into effect.

Workings Explained

After Mr. Jones had explained briefly the purpose of the council, A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, explained the workings of the council further.

W. R. Blake, vice chairman, outlined a few of the possibilities of expansion in Lubbock, citing the

Man's Aching Tooth Boasts Roots Which Date Back To Saloon Fight 29 Years Ago

(By Associated Press)

SIOUX CITY Ia., Oct. 19.—Paul Clark's aching tooth, which bothered him last week, had roots which went way back to a saloon fight at Plymouth, Ohio, 29 years ago.

Unable to get relief from his toothache, even after several extractions, Clark finally had an x-ray made of his jaw.

The picture revealed a knife blade two inches long imbedded in his jaw, removal of which brought him relief.

Then he recalled that a doctor had sewed up a cut in his jaw after a saloon fight in 1902 without probing the wound.

Jap Objection Is Withdrawn

Japan Now Is Willing To Have United States Sit In With League; Hostilities Appear To Be At Minimum

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. Japan now is willing for the United States to sit with the League of Nations council as it tries to solve the Manchurian puzzle.

Understanding more clearly the American position, the Japanese government today withdrew her previous objections. Orders from Tokyo sent Ambassador Debuchi to state department with assurances for Secretary Stimson that Japan no longer would oppose American participation in the league council's sessions.

The objections were withdrawn while the American government was awaiting formal notification of the invocation of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty by five other leading nations. The action by the powers was taken in an atmosphere of encouragement due to continued absence of reports of further hostilities in Manchuria.

Government Begins In Earnest To Try And Collect Sum Of Money Allegedly Owed From Evasion Of Tax

Investigation To Be Started In An Effort To Seize All Personal Possessions; More Fireworks Expected

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—More trouble was brewing in the federal building today for "Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago gang leader and his friends.

Capone's sentence on his conviction for violating income tax laws was delayed at least three more days as Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson granted his attorneys until Friday to perfect their arguments for an arrest of judgment.

Try For Collection

In this procrastination could be considered as favorable to the gang chief it was more than offset by word that the government had begun in earnest its attempt to collect the tax Capone tried to evade. The criminal proceeding which resulted in his conviction Saturday night did not alter the government's claim that he owed some $215,000 in tax, and whatever can be traced to his ownership may be seized.

Johnny Torrio, Capone's friend and predecessor as head man of the city's gangs, went up to the U. S. district attorney's office today and asked to be released from the subpoena that brought him back from New York three weeks ago as a government witness. He did not testify for either side during the trial.

Testimony Checked

But the government officers said "no," and it was subsequently learned that Torrio's grand jury testimony was being checked carefully with the facts brought in the trial. Another former Chicago gangster who came back under federal persuasion and appeared before the grand jury has already been charged with perjury.

Capone's companion and bodyguard, Philip D'Andrea, made another brief appearance in Judge Wilkerson's court as his contempt of court hearings was continued for

Minister Prays At Edison Bier; World Pays Tribute

World Leaders Have Glowing Tributes In Statements

(By The Associated Press)

FROM all corners of the earth has come tribute to Thomas Alva Edison. Hundreds of messages poured into the West Orange home. Some of the tributes follow.

President Hoover — Mr. Edison was as great in his brave fight for life as he was in the achievements which made the whole world his debtor.

Accept His Legacy

Dr. Albert Einstein, German scientist—An inventive spirit has filled his own life and all our existence with bright light. Thankfully we accept his legacy, not only as a gift of his genius, but also as a misison placed in our hands. For the new generation falls the task of finding the way for the right use of the gift given to us.

Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless telepraphy—His inventive genius and passionate love of science contributed so greatly to the marvelous progress made in the field of research and applied science.

Brings Immortality

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, physicist—The phonograph alone entitles Mr. Edison to undying fame. It brought immortality to man and to Mr. Edison himself. It is one of the greatest discoveries of all times.

Henry Ford—Great as an inventor, he was greater as a man. His fame is independent of the fluctuating judgments of history; it is etched in light and sound on the daily and hourly life of the world.

Great Inspiration

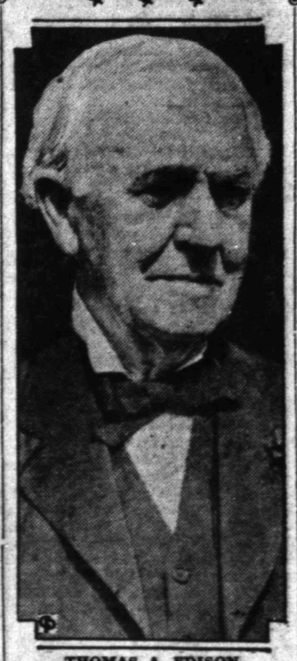

Harvey S. Firestone, manufacturer—To have been recognized by Mr. Edison as his friend, has been one of the most delightful experiences of my life—and a great inspiration.

THOMAS A. EDISON

Long Procession Is Halted For Brief Space At Midday

(By The Associated Press)

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 19.—For a brief moment at midday today mourners stopped a continuous file past the bier of Thomas A. Edison—a minister offer a prayer.

The convocation was uttered by Mrs. Edison's pastor, the Rev. Arthur H. Brown, of the Methodist Episcopal church of Orange, at her request. He repeated it at 5 o'clock and planned to utter it again at 8 a. m., noon and 5 p. m. tomorrow.

Mr. Edison's body lay in a bronze casket in a niche of the high ceilinged library of his laboratory. Autumn leaves covered the bier.

Ott Is Mentioned

Dr. Brown mentioned in his prayer the name of John Ott, 81, who died of shock on learning of Mr. Edison's passing. Mr. Ott had worked in the inventor's laboratory for a half century.

For a second time since Mr. Edison's death early Sunday, Arthur L. Walsh, vice president of Thomas A. Edison Industries, inc., said the inventor was not an atheist, even though he acknowledged no specific creed.

"I can't emphasize too strongly," he said, "that Mr. Edison did believe in a supreme intelligence.

"I have seen him hold up a glass of milk as a chemist might look at a test tube and say, 'the Almighty is a great chemist'."

Private Funeral

Mr. Walsh recalled that once as he sat with Mr. Edison in the laboratory, the latter said: "Sometimes when I've reached the end of my rope in an experiment, suddenly there will come a thought that is the key to the problem. Certainly that supreme intelligence guides the

Twenty Guards Protect Negro From Violence

Seven Jurors Are Selected In Trial Of Alleged Slayer At Wichita Falls; Also Faces Attacking Charge

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 19.—Seven jurors to try Richard Johnson, negro, for the murder of Ted Nodurft, Fort Worth oil company employe, here Sept. 9 were selected Monday afternoon after Judge Allan D. Montgomery had tentatively overruled a defense motion to quash the indictment against Johnson and Richard Brown, jointly charged. The negroes are also accused of assaulting Nodurft's fiancee and of robbery with firearms.

Judge Montgomery announced he would rule before the completion of the jury Tuesday morning as to whether the fourteenth amendment of the United States constitution was violated by the failure to include negroes in the grand jury which indicted the pair.

Was Not Deliberate

The state answered the defense plea with testimony from two jury commissioners who said the omission was not deliberate discrimination; that the question of negroes was not discussed between them; and that failure to include them was due to lack of competence in the race rather than to prejudice.

Judge Montgomery took the motion under advisement, granted a separate trial to the two, and ordered selection of a jury to try Johnson. If the motion is finally overruled Brown's trial will follow Johnson's.

Although the court room was guarded by 20 peace officers, including Ranger Captain Hickman and two deputies, the large crowd was quiet and apparently good humored.

El Paso Seeks Cuts In Rates

Recommendations Of Experts To Be Used As A Basis For Determining Whether Rates Now Are Too High

(By The Associated Press)

EL PASO, Oct. 19. — The City council announced today it would demand reductions in gas and electric light and power rates here in line with recommendations of experts employed to determine whether existing rates were fair both to the utilities and to the public.

Representatives of a Kansas City engineering firm, after an exhaustive survey of investment of the Texas Cities Gas company and the El Paso Electric company, recommended reductions of 13 per cent in electric light and power and two per cent in gas rates.

The council stated if reductions were not made voluntarily by the utilities the next step would be passage of an ordinance putting the reductions into effect.

Bonnie Nell Gordon Is Victim Of "Thrill Dip" Accident; Martin Hamilton Given Bare Hope Of Recovery

Others Are Hurt

Toll Mounts Monday; Frankie Barnhardt And Don Casterlin Slightly Injured; Total Of Day Reaches Ten

MISS BONNIE NELL GORDON, of Miami, Texas, 17-year-old Texas Technological college freshman, was killed and three other Tech students injured, one critically, late Monday afternoon when the light automobile in which they were riding overturned as it was making the first dip at a "thrill dip" driveway, one mile east of Lubbock near the County park.

The injured were:

Martin Hamilton, 18, Lubbock high school graduate; near death as the result of internal injuries and a dislocated vertebra in the lumbar region.

Miss Frankie Barnhardt, 21, of Lubbock; head injuries, possibly a skull fracture, lacerations and bruises.

Donald Casterlin, 18, of Pecos; lacerations and bruises.

All Are Freshmen

All were members of the freshman class. Miss Gordon was a student in the school of liberal arts. Miss Barnhardt and Hamilton also are enrolled in the school of liberal arts. Casterlin is a first year student in the school of engineering.

The accident late yesterday brought a total of one killed and 10 injured in automobile mishaps in the proximity of Lubbock during Monday. Five suffered injuries Monday morning when two automobiles collided four miles east of town and three were hurt at about 3 p. m., when the automobile in which they were riding overturned 12 miles west of Lubbock as the result of a blown out tire.

Occurs At Dip

The accident in which Miss Gordon was killed occurred at the Lubbock Scenic Dip, operated by J. R. Dickerson. The driveway is composed of a number of natural dips, near the edge of Yellowhouse canyon, over which a roadway has been constructed. The automobile, a light cabriolet, was owned and driven by Casterlin.

Tracks on the driveway indicated the machine left the ground at the top of the first dump, landing on the next incline after turning a complete somersault in the air. Miss Gordon and Hamilton, who were riding in the rumble seat, were pinned to the ground by the turtle-shell of the car. Miss Barnhardt and Casterlin, who were the less severely hurt, were riding in the front seat. Neither of the latter two was thrown from the machine.

Rushed To Hospital

The injured were rushed to the West Texas hospital by J. R. Dickerson, who was summoned to the accident by Casterlin. Miss Gordon died en route to town.

Although suffering from shock and a severe laceration on the forehead, Casterlin last night was able to give a clear account of the mishap.

"We were traveling a fair rate of speed," he said. "I have no idea just

Mineral Wells Mayor Declared Not Guilty Of Transporting Liquor To Lubbock; Second Man Also Is Freed

(By The Associated Press)

ROBY, Oct. 19.—Mayor Charlton Brown and T. L. Hemphill, of Mineral Wells, were acquitted by a jury in district court here late today after a joint trial before Judge W. R. Chapman on a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor. The jury deliberated one hour and 30 minutes.

The two were indicted last May as the aftermath of an automobile wreck on the western outskirts of this city while they were enroute to Lubbock for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention. R. L. Wilkins, deputy sheriff, only witness for the state, testified that he found whiskey in the overturned auto.

Brown on the stand today testified he was unaware there was liquor in the car until he reached Roby, and Hemphill testified he had whiskey for medicinal purposes. Two Mineral Wells physicians said on the stand they had prescribed whiskey for Hemphill.

Dismembered Bodies Of Two Women Are Found In Trunks With Heads Crushed Beyond Recognition

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Dismembered bodies of two women of undetermined age and identity were found in trunks tonight by police at the Southern Pacific railroad station. One of the trunks was large, the other small. They had been shipped yesterday morning from Phoenix, Ariz., police said.

The headless torso of one of the women was in a small trunk. The two heads, the other torso and the amputated arms and legs were in the other.

Name Is Refused

The trunks were consigned to a Los Angeles man whose name the police refused to reveal pending an arrest.

A man and a woman called at the baggage room at noon today to claim the trunks, but employes had become suspicious because of a strong odor and refused to yield them. The man and woman departed and several hours later the trunks were opened.

One of the slain women apparently was in the early thirties. Her face had been beaten in and was unrecognizable.

Other Is Younger

The other, whose body had been hacked into pieces, was younger, apparently about 20, and had red hair. She had been shot and her face also had been crushed as though in a deliberate attempt to prevent identification.

Police said the condition of the bodies indicated the women had been slain within the last two days.

In the larger trunk was a long

Hotel De Gink Will Offer Jobless A Good Home For Four Hours Labor

(By The Associated Press)

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 19.—The Hotel De Gink, Spokane's hostelry for the unemployed, opened its doors today under new management, redecorated and ready for 1,000 jobless men. Six courteous clerks were on hand to register the guests.

It has a more elegant name now—"The East Trent Billet"—but to the men who turned Schade's old brewery into a haven for the hungry, it always will be the Hotel De Gink.

The management, under direction of city officials, will furnish food, lodging, barbering, tailoring and shoe repairing with most small necessities of life for four hours work per day. The guests will saw wood, beautify parks and do everything else the city can find for them.

The institution was established one year ago by a group of hungry hoboes who tore the boards from the brewery windows, "bummed" food supplies and discarded furniture and startled the police force by banning booze and boisterousness.

NEWS BRIEFS

Jennie V. Brown, Lubbock negro woman, was returned to the custody of the sheriff Monday following a habeas corpus hearing before Judge Clark M. Mullican. The woman is wanted for robbery of a white man at Carlsbad, N. M. The court ordered that she be held here until the arrival of New Mexico officers, or a period not to exceed 60 days. The sheriff's department said she was arrested upon a warrant from New Mexico.

Attorneys for Pitson Lambert, a negro, charged with murdering J. E. McKnight, 50, also a negro, indicated Monday they probably would ask today for an examining trial and fixing of bond for Lambert. McKnight died late Saturday night at the Lubbock sanitarium. He was wounded in three places when a rifle bullet penetrated an automobile in which he was riding Friday night and was shattered before striking the man.

Reports from church officials Monday showed a total of 4,538 persons attended Sunday schools in Lubbock Sunday. PATENTED PROCESS REMOVES GUESSWORK FROM ROASTING

Automatic Control of Heat Insures Exactness. Hills Bros. Coffee Has Matchless Flavor

There are many risks attached to roasting coffee by ordinary methods. For a man must guess when the roast is right. If he misses his guess, the flavor of the coffee usually suffers.

Hills Bros. eliminated guesswork when they invented and patented Controlled Roasting—an automatic process that develops the fullest flavor in every berry of the blend!

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so the unvarying flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting — the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time. Automatic control of heat and flow of coffee does what ordinary methods often fail to do. Every pound is roasted to the same degree of perfection, and every pound has the same fine flavor.

To preserve this delicious flavor, Hills Bros. pack their coffee in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Many Women Interested In Cooking Class

Matrons And Misses Are To Be Attracted By Lessons Given By Miss Christeen Chitwood Here

The annual free school of cookery, health and charm which is to be held here October 27 to 30 under the auspices of the Avalanche-Journal Publishing company will be of interest to women of all ages. Miss Christeen Chitwood, who will conduct the classes each afternoon, although in her early twenties, is recognized as an authority on problems of the home. The matrons, brides and brides-to-be especially fill the classes of this young woman, who comes to Lubbock direct from the Boston School of Cookery.

Miss Chitwood demonstrates and discusses the latest methods in the scientific world of cookery, foods and nutrition. Miss Chitwood is an example of the modern youth that accomplishes things. She teaches the women her latest scientific methods of cookery and efficiency in the home. She shows in her practical demonstrations, how kitchen work can be made a pleasure instead of drudgery, and how women may finish their work efficiently and have more time for social activities or community building.

Miss Chitwood is an example of the modern youth who has accomplished much at an early age, and who is helping thousands of women to make their home work easier, their foods more fitted to the nutrition of the body, more pleasing to the eye, more palatable and less expensive. Miss Chitwood hopes that the matrons in Lubbock will attend her classes because she believes that she can teach them newer methods of savings in foods and household equipment that up to the present days have not been divulged to the public. She has many delicious and attractive dishes for the creation of which she is famous in the East. She hopes, too, that the younger girls will come to the school and let her teach them how they can best manager their homes, when the time comes for them to wed and take on the responsibilities of the home. A girl who knows little or nothing about the composition of food, the requirements of the body and the preparation of the proper foods to meet these needs has a great problem to face. Her problems can be lessened by attending the school.

Miss Chitwood tells the women how they can do their work with greater ease and efficiency and with less worry and dread, and in this way keep their youth. She tells how to avoid the wrinkles and surplus flesh that come with age. She also tells how a woman may scientifically lose the flesh which has accumulated on her. Many women lose their health by the wrong reducing method, but by the proper method there is no danger. Miss Chitwood is going to tell you how you may eat all you want, but eat foods which are not converted into human flesh and foods which act as a filler to the stomach and which supplies the necessities of the body. In this way health may be kept and the youthful figure attained.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

DANGER! "B.O." KILLS ROMANCE

It may be hurting you, too, because one never knows when one is guilty

PERHAPS you think these warnings about "B.O."—body odor—are meant for the other person, not you. Don't fool yourself! We're all likely to offend now and then unless we take precautions.

Pores are constantly giving off odor-causing waste—a quart daily. A warm room—a little extra physical exertion or nervous strain—and this odor becomes noticeable to others. You yourself won't be aware of it, and nobody will tell you. But they'll think of you as careless . . . undesirable . . . someone to be avoided.

Don't risk offending perhaps the very people you want most to impress. Keep pores clean and deodorized by frequent bathing with Lifebuoy Health Soap.

You'll thoroughly enjoy this delightful toilet soap. You'll quickly learn to love its pleasant, extra-clean scent that vanishes as you rinse. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll be a Lifebuoy fan for life. It gives such quantities of lather—leaves you feeling so genuinely, so satisfyingly clean. No danger of "B. O." now! Lifebuoy's gentle, searching lather purifies pores—removes all odor.

Watch complexions freshen

Every night massage Lifebuoy's bland, creamy lather well into the skin; then rinse. This simple treatment gently frees pores of clogged impurities that make the complexion look dull and cloudy—quickly brings fresh, healthy radiance. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

Lubbock Man Is Facing Charges

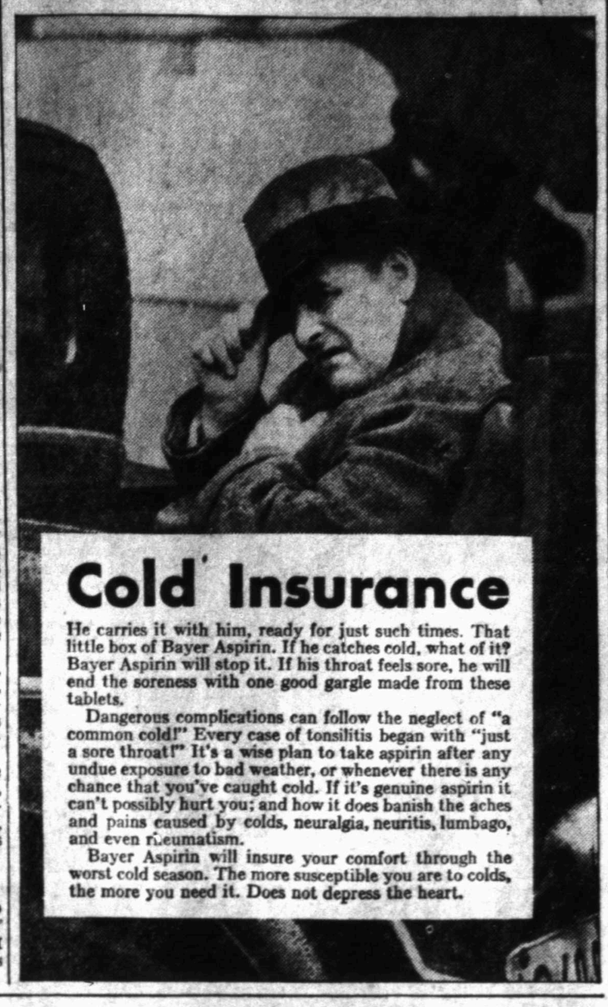

F. W. Newell, Lubbock, was arrested Monday by Jack Reaves, state highway patrolman, and arraigned before Judge E. L. Pitts in county court on a charge of operating a motor bus for compensation without having secured a permit to operate a bus from the state railroad commission.

Mr. Newell made bond in the sum of $100 and his hearing was set for Monday, November 2, in county court.

It was stated that Mr. Newell had several passengers in the car when the highway patrolman arrested him, on state highway No. 7 about two miles southwest of Lubbock.

Cold Insurance

He carries it with him, ready for just such times. That little box of Bayer Aspirin. If he catches cold, what of it? Bayer Aspirin will stop it. If his throat feels sore, he will end the soreness with one good gargle made from these tablets.

Dangerous complications can follow the neglect of "a common cold!" Every case of tonsilitis began with "just a sore throat!" It's a wise plan to take aspirin after any undue exposure to bad weather, or whenever there is any chance that you've caught cold. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you; and how it does banish the aches and pains caused by colds, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, and even rheumatism.

Bayer Aspirin will insure your comfort through the worst cold season. The more susceptible you are to colds, the more you need it. Does not depress the heart.

Tech Makes Plans To Entertain Colorado Mines Team

Westerners Embark On 2 Weeks Training Cruise With Pampa In Mind

Matadors Play Intersectional Game At Night

Collegians Seek To Retain Rep As Winning Club In Friday Night Game With Member Of Rockey Mountain Conference

With their growing reputation as "a winnin' ball club" again at stake, the Texas Tech Matadors are taking seriously this week the game Friday night with the Colorado School of Mines Dynamiters on the local lot. Heavy practice is the routine on Matador Field these days, and the chilly weather is just chilly enough to put an added impetus on the practice work.

While they are going through their rigid workouts, they are changing positions and men this week, and Friday night probably will see a revamped line representing the so-called first team. The major change is at left end, where Yancy Price steps in in an effort to take the place vacated by Bill Teal, who lies at present in a local hospital convalescing from an injury sustained in last week's game with the Haskell Indians.

May Change Tackles

Other changes will be at tackles, and this shift may see Line Coach Dutchey Smith's heretofore aces, Bennie McWilliams and Truett Owens relegated to the second team, or "shock troops," as Elva "Big 'Un" Baker comes to one side and George Langford to the other. Baker has been a sophomore candidate for guard, but his work at tackle against Haskell showed his capabilities at that position. Langford, the only other remaining veteran of the line with the exception of Captain Jack Durham, also showed up well against the Injuns.

Captain Durham, designated as a guard earlier in the season but sent in as center in the Haskell game to relieve Les Tribble, probably will start at guard against the Miners. Tribble's alternate, Whacker Barton, who suffered a broken collar bone last week in practice, should be back in the fray before many more days. Toby Greer and Ross Ayres seem two of the most likely guards.

Matadors Favored, But

The Matadors, for once, are favorites in their next game, but they anticipate a struggle by the Orediggers from Denver. It will be with determination to win their fourth game of the season that Cawthon's men take the field Friday night for the first time in an intersectional game at home. It will be the second intersectional game of the school's history, the first for the home lot. It will also mark the first appearance of the Matadors on the home field since September 25 when they defeated the West Texas State Teachers college Buffaloes.

A large crowd is expected to attend Friday night's game. It is the only football contest scheduled for Lubbock this week and the first of importance in two weeks. Also, it is the last game that will be played here until November 20 when the University of New Mexico comes to Lubbock. Next week the Matadors invade Waco for a game with the Baylor University Bears. The high school team will be in Pampa next week, and has no game scheduled for this week.

Miners Bring Power

George Allen, former star at Dartmouth, is head coach of the Colorado Miners, and Elmer Wynne, Notre Dame's fullback in 1927, is assistant coach. The Miners will arrive here Thursday morning and will work out in the afternoon on the Tech field.

Three seasoned linemen, Michealson, Preston and Martin form the nucleus of the Mines forward wall. McClave, understudy of the all-Rocky Mountain Conference Burell in 1930, is scheduled to hold down the pivot post in the Tech game.

In the Orediger backfield Bond, Harris and Schnars are all letter men and known as three of the best in the section. Of the three, Schnars is considered to be the best. The team is composed of nine seniors playing their third year with the varsity gridsters. Two sophomores alternate in the backfield.

Longhorns Off Tomorrow Carrying Hope Of Texas In Harvard Grid Battle

Thousand Fans Make Trip East For Texas Game

AUSTIN, Oct. 19. (Special) — With the hopes of Texas and the Southwest resting on their shoulders, twenty-six Texas Longhorns will board a special train for Cambridge, Mass., early Wednesday morning where they will battle the crimson sons of Harvard in the Harvard Bowl next Saturday. It is the Steers' first invasion o fthe northeast and one of the most important intercollegiate contests of the 1931 season. Approximately 58,000 grid fans are expected in Cambridge Saturday to see these huskies from the Plains of Texas dare the Big Three aggregation in its own tradition-steeped lair.

By special train, by air, by boat, and, by auto, approximately 1,000 people will make the long trek to Cambridge with the Longhorns. Probably a larger number of University Exes and former Texans will be there before hand.

Chase For Glory

A golden opportunity to bring football fame to themselves and to the section they represent prod the Steers along on their Northern raid. Football in the Southwest has not been accorded the recognition its partisans think it deserves, and a Texas win over the Crimson would be a long stride in the right direction.

As for the probability of such an occurence, leading critics give the Longhorns an outside chance to win. Even in the East, the home of King Football, they are giving the Southwest crew more than casual notice, although running beneath is an undercurrent of supreme confidence in Old John Harvard's ability to quash the ambitions of these upstart Texans.

Steer stock went plunging downward after their 7-0 loss to the Rice Owls, the same team which handed Texas their only defeat of the '30 season. A grim determination to "come back," coupled with the exhilarating prospect of their first big northeastern trip should enable the Lone Star eleven to line up Old Man Psychology on their side.

Texas Aggies, Baylor Renew Relationships

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 19. (Special)—Headlining the Southwest Conference gridiron program for Saturday, Oct. 24, in interest probably will be the Texas Aggie-Baylor University game on Kyle Field at College Station because it will be the only clash between member teams of the conference. The renewal of football rivalry between the two schools after a four-year interval will mark the thirtieth game between the Cadets and the Bears.

Football relations between Baylor and A & M first began in 1899 and continued with only four short interruptions until 1926 when athletic relations between the two schools were severed. The Aggies have won twenty of the twenty-nine games played and the Bears six. Three were deadlocked at the final gun and two of these were scoreless. The Aggies have rolled up a total of 370 points in these encounters and the Bears 163 points. Three games were played in 1901 and 1903 and two games were played in 1902, 1904, 1905. The Aggies and Bears did not play in 1900, 1906, 1907, 1910, 1914 and 1915.

Have Broken Even

Since and including the 1920 season the Aggies and the Bears have broken even in their contests for each team has won three games and one game ended in a tie.

Speed Threat

'SPEED' MOFFETT • HALFBACK

Speed Moffett, above, leaped into no men prominence last year as a sprinter on the gridiron with the varsity Matadors of Tech. This year he promises to be an even greater threat, dividing time at quarter and halfback positions with Jim O'Leary and Shorty France or Slick Close. He's due to get in the lineup against the Colorado Miners Friday night here.

Frog Hurts Are Not So Serious

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19. (AP)—Although injuries to Texas Christian University's three husky linemen—Ben Boswell, Lon Evans and Foster Howell—are not as serious as first thought, none of the trio is likely to be used against Simmons University Friday night at Abilene. At least, Coach Francis Schmidt announced this afternoon that he doesn't plan to insert them into the contest unless absolutely necessary.

Schmidt started filling their positions with today's workout. Jack Shackelford, who starred at Abilene High school several years ago and earned his T. C. U. letter last year will be at one of the tackle positions with Hershel Kinsey, giant sophomore from Marshall at the other.

To fill Evans' guard position, Coach Schmidt has standard Lambert, letterman; Bud Taylor and Lee Bassinger. Lambert is most likely to get the call.

Tribute To Thomas Edison Will Be Paid In Schools

Students in the Lubbock public schools this week will paid tribute to the memory of Thomas Alva Edison by studying his life, inventions, discoveries and by writing themes, making talks and reading Edison's biography, M. H. Duncan, superintendent, announced Monday.

"We are going to try to put over the inspiration from Edison's life to the children," Mr. Duncan said. "I consider him the greatest American."

Chance To Win Seen If Squad Keeps Head Up

Pep Meeting At School Sends Players To Field, Spirited And Ready For Hard Period Of Practice Sessions

With every man in good shape physically and knowing the importance of keeping them that way, Coach Weldon Chapman and Assistant Coach Burl Huffman set about yesterday to get their Lubbock High Westerners in sound shape mentally and morally for the first of the two important gridiron battles of the day.

The Westerners meet the Pampa High Harvesters a week from this Saturday on the Pampa gridiron.

Teams Are Tied

Tied at the top of the standings column, the Harvesters and Westerners go into their game next week undefeated and unstopped, provided no unlooked for upset this week spills one of the teams. Both have won one district game, Lubbock defeating Slaton here more than a week ago in its first championship game and Pampa having defeated Amarillo last Saturday for a big start toward the state title.

Runners up in the Texas school boy race last year, the Amarillo Sandies will be pulling for Lubbock to down Pampa next week. A Lubbock victory will give Amarillo another chance at the title, while a Pampa win would virtually cinch the district rag for the Harvesters.

Spirit On Campus

Spirit appears to be rampant at the local high school. A pep meeting yesterday shortly before noon was attended by every student, the band played, coaches and players made talks and the campaign against Pampa was on. It is possible that a special train will run to Pampa next week, though nothing definite has been announced. The Westerners themselves reported to the practice field yesterday as full of spirit and enthusiasm as on the first day of fall practice.

With possibly one or two exceptions, the entire Westerner squad was on the sidelines Saturday to see Pampa pull two touchdown plays and convert them into points. They got an eyefull, and they're back ready to train according to their best in order to make a showing against the title-hungry Harvesters.

Heavy practice will be the order this week at Fair Park. While he does not announce secret practice sessions, it is likely that Coach Chapman would be grateful for the absence of sideline tacticians this and next week as he runs through plays designed to topple Pampa from the reigning position. Although they are on an equal with the Harvesters so far as standings are concerned, they enter the game next week as the underdogs, not having had occasion to test their full powers until that day and with the strength of Pampa already known.

No Game Scheduled

No game has been scheduled for Lubbock this weekend, though a plan was being formulated yesterday to schedule a game for the Westerners for Friday. The Texas Tech Matadors play here Friday night. It may be that the Westerners shall visit a team in the Oil Belt.

Coming out of the Snyder game unhurt except for scattered minor scratches and bruises, the Westerners were ready yesterday to get back to hard work. Last Friday night's game revealed that certain changes may be made in the line, although Lubbock probably will line up against Pampa as it has against other teams this season. The failure of Will Ed Watson, a star end last year and upon whose shoulders a lot depends this season, to come up to par so far this season has been cause for considerable grief. The big wingman has not been playing the game of which he is capable. His big chance to step into prominence will come against Pampa where a good showing will go a long way toward establishing all-district honors.

Big Bert Williams showed great improvement Friday night at tackle over previous showings, and Captain Bob Crawford at center was showing stuff that is already heading him toward district honors. Melvin Griggs and Cotton Welch at guards find Louis Spears in their midst battling for a starting position. Spears has been playing more at tackle but his work at guard last week was outstanding. Rosser Abbott can play at either tackle or guard, but is most likely to be a tackle. Dalton Blagg at right end failed to show the stuff last week that he showed in two previous games, and Gene Brown and John Bell looked good at the wing posts.

Chapman's five man backfield of Quarterback O. H. Britton, Fullbacks Gene Barnett and Bill Davidson and Halfbacks Mack Scoggin and Cecil Merrill is fast making Lubbock fans forget Henry Frnka's powerful backfield of last year, composed of Dub Lawson. Mina Watkins, Moody Smith and Ovie Teal.

Columbia's Win Over Dartmouth Pays Coach Lou For Broken Back Suffered As He Scrimmaged To Help His Team

Little Is Confined To His Bed But Still Coaches Team

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associatd Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—Lou Little literally broke his back to produce the Columbia varsity that made football history by whipping Dartmouth Saturday.

His home for the past month has been a hospital room because his back is encased in a steel brace and he can not sleep in any other than the raised position of a hospital cot. Around his neck is another brace locking his head in an immovable position. Sandbags are his pillows at night.

Lou Little

But all this doesn't keep him off the football field and it did not prevent him from moulding from the youths who took a 52-0 pasting at Dartmouth's hands last fall the eleven that raced out Saturday to overpower the Hanover Indians, 19-6, conquer an ancient foe for the first time since 1889 and paint the brightest prospect picture modern Columbia football ever has seen.

Filled In At Tackle

Over a month ago because tackles-like all other material at Columbia, were scarce, the big genial fellow who as recently as the early post-war days, was a great lineman at Pennsylvania, filled in against the varsity in an early scrimmage. The youngsters tossed him for a loss. But it wasn't until ten days later, when the injury had been aggravated by neglect, that he discovered that the process of one dorsal vertebrae was fractured and the nerves were badly inflamed.

Little, battling to lift Columbia out of the set-up class, braces, pain, discouragemen and all, stuck to his coaching. He must still spend his nights in the hospital. He's worried because he must report directly to the Cornell hospital when the Lions tackle the big Red wave in their second major game a week from Saturday. He must sit up for eight hours in a day train to get there, because the doctors don't dare let him ride in a sleeper without the incline and his sandbags. But he'd walk to Itaca, if necessary, he's so happy over Columbia's return to the football heights.

Football A B C's

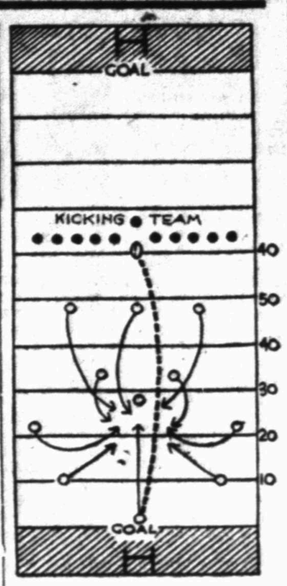

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first article in a series entitled "Football A B C's," designed to give Mr. Average Football Fan a better understanding of the sport he watches from week to week.

There are few plays more spectacular in football than the opening kickoff. It may be compared to the rush of two ring giants from their corners at the starting gong. It is the opening of hostilities—and frequently the game is won or lost with the first offensive jab or defensive measure.

The referee calls the rival captains to midfield and names one to call the toss of a coin. The winner of the toss then may have a choice of goal, or of kicking or receiving the kickoff. The loser may have a choice of the two remaining options, but may have first choice at the start of the second half.

There are many variations of defending and attacking formations on the kickoff, but the most common for both teams are shown in the accompanying diagram. It is to the advantage of the receiver to get quickly behind the wedge-like interference of his 10 teammates. Naturally the kicking team, restrained behind the ball until it is actually kicked, must throw its defense clear across the field to avoid a rush down either sideline.

The receiving team may kick the ball immediately upon receiving it, thus throwing the defending team on the offensive, or it may elect to advance the ball by passinb it backward to a player in more favorable position to run with it. The kicking team also may elect to grab the offensive from the start by trying to recover a short kick beyond the 50-yard line. If successful in this venture, they must put the ball into play from scrimmage at the point of recovery.

The team designated to receive the kickoff may run with the ball, but when stopped must put it in play from scrimmage where it is downed.

TOMORROW: Lining up for scrimmage.

Houston Buff Player Backs Out On Draft

Carey Selph, Drafted By Pale Hose, Says He Will Not Go To Major League Club; Is In Good Business At Houston

HOUSTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—Carey Selph, stellar Houston second baseman drafted three weeks ago by the Chicago White Sox, is slated to confer here Tuesday with Lou Fonseca, new manager of the White Sox, but Selph said today he would not report to the major league club.

Will Play Only In Houston

"I will play baseball only in Houston," Selph said. "This is my positive decision in the matter. I believe that when the White Sox realize I am sincere in this declaration they will make no effort to force me to play with Chicago."

In addition to being a ball player of much ability, Selph is a hustling insurance agent. During the past two years he has built up a thriving business here.

Swede McMurray Returns From Attending Funeral Of Youth

Swede McMurray, teacher of physical education in the Lubbock schools, returned Monday from Whitewright where he attended the funeral Saturday of Thomas McMillan, fifteen-year-old high school senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McMillan who died of a broken neck Friday. The boy was injured Wednesday in a collision with a schoolmate while practicing gymnastics in the school gymnasium.

McMurray was the boy's instructor in physical education classes and had charge of the stunt work on which the youth was practicing at the time of his injury.

"Mr. and Mrs. McMillam asked me to express their thanks, to school officials and citizens for the many kindnesses shown them in their sorrow," McMurry said upon his return.

Wheeler County's taxable valuation exceeded last year's by a half million dollars.

Thomas Edison Leaves Us

THE grand old man of invention and scientific exploration is dead.

Probably more than any of his contemporaries Thomas A. Edison gave his life to his work. His work was his life; he left his laboratory only when death beckoned. He might have prolonged his life by several years had he quit his labors before they undermined his health, but he saw work to be done and applied his waning strength to the job.

Men like Edison are missed when they depart this life. It may be many generations before another Edison appears, and there may never be another. He was not a wizard but he was more than just an inventor.

Most inventions and inventors are accidents. Few inventors are famous for more than one invention and those who achieve distinction in widely separated fields of invention are rare indeed. Edison's genius rested in his versatility. His creations cover many fields of science and industry and none can be said to have been a child of accident.

Edison did not play to the grandstands yet he was constantly the object of world acclaim. Perhaps that was because he repeatedly contributed to the comfort and enjoyment of mankind. He had a genius for sensing real human needs and gratifying them.

Others in the vast Edison organization will carry on his work but there was only one Edison.

THE CASE OF MR. CAPONE

Conviction of our more or less estimable national citizen, Mr. Alphonse Capone apparently means that he will serve something like 17 years in the hoosegow but don't become too excited over the prospects until a cell door clangs behind him. His case has been appealed; "Snorky" still stalks free among men and it is a matter of record that a man with much money to hire smart lawyers is generally a long time about paying a debt to society.

But brushing all these preliminaries aside, let us suppose, just for the sake of supposing, that Capone will "do a stretch." What does that mean? Does it mean that our present methods of dealing with organized crime have been upheld? Or does it mean that we, the people, have merely "gotten a break" because "the big fella," himself, overlooked a small item like paying a true income tax? Look the proposition over.

Capone has been found guilty of trying to cheat the government.

He didn't declare his earnings in their true extent —his earnings gleaned from "alky cooking," beer making booze running, vice, murder, dope and heaven alone knows what else—and now he's apt to go to jail. But does that clear the skirts of the public? Does that fact automatically slap an "o. k." on our methods of upholding the law?

The Morning Avalanche doesn't believe it does.

Smart and aggressive young men, in the employ of the federal government, did a good piece of work in running the gang chieftain down on a charge of income tax violation. They managed to pave the way for Capone to pay his debt to the nation for his high-handed brigandage.

Capone's being convicted, as he has been convicted, is better than no conviction at all—but doesn't the way he is being removed from circulation stand as the most serious of all indictments against our present method of enforcing the statutes?

Although his attempts to cheat the government from its true and fair gain from his operations amount to nothing more or less than treason, do they entail the worst of his activities?

Hasn't Capone always been more dangerous as a killer, a vice and booze baron, than as a tax violator?

It's all very well to cheer the verdict of "guilty," which came from those twelve good men and true in a Chicago courtroom recently, because their action is worthy of cheer.

But if you ask us, Capone—even though apparently beaten—is still ahead of the game. The rest of us are, to quote Texas Guinan, still "just a bunch of suckers" to the czar of crime.

Practical Health Problems

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

IF, following a banquet, most of those who have eaten of the food become ill, it is likely that something was wrong with the food—either it contains some poisonous substance or certain bacteria which bring about intestinal disturbances. If, on the other hand, out of all of the people attending the banquet only one or two become ill, it is quite likely that something is wrong with these individuals. They, as is suggested by Dr. Warren T. Vaughan, are sentitive to something in the food.

Sensitivity to food substance shows itself by a certain series of symptoms. One of these is prompt vomiting and nausea, sometimes accompanied with excessive action of the bowels. Sometimes the reaction takes the form of a generalized irritation of the bowel with the development of internal hives, swelling, and similar disturbance.

When a physician who is familiar with what is called allergy or food sensitivity is asked to study a case, he is likely to pay a great deal of attention to the record of the patient, because frequently the patient remembers that he gets his attacks only when he eats certain foods. It is likely also that other persons in the patient's family will have similar disturbances.

It has become possible to develop skin tests whereby small scratches are made on the skin and small amounts of the suspected substance placed on the scratch, the reaction indicating whether or not the person is sensitive to the particular food that is suspected.

Whether the skin tests are positive or negative, the present technic involves a careful study of the diet. The patient is asked to keep a food dairy. He carefully records everything that he eats, regardless of the amount or the time at which it is eaten, and keeps record of the symptoms and the time when they appear. He is also asked to keep a very careful record on the back of his food diary of the general trend of events during each day.

A case is cited in which a patient was a railroad man whose run would carry him at intervals to a certain large city. It developed from the study of the attacks that they invariably occurred either on the day of his visit to the city or on the following day. It then appeared that he was fond of a certain brand of cheese which he invariably bought when he went to the city in question. This cheese was the substance to which he was sensitive and which brought on his attacks. Other brands of cheese did not arouse sensitivity.

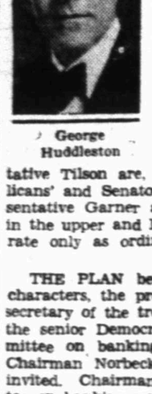

The next step is to put the patient on certain trial diets which are limited in character, gradually adding one meat or one cereal at a time until the patient develops an attack. The response is then checked by eliminating this substance and leading up to it again, and not infrequently such a system results in revealing the specific substance which produces sensitivity.

Unquestionably modern knowledge of sensitization to proteins is one of the greatest advances that has been made in medical science. It has opened the way to understanding of numerous conditions which were formerly not at all understood.

Resent Is Displayed

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Of President Hoover's recent announcement of his plan for the country's economic rehabilitation one thing can be predicted with confidence:

George Huddleston

Bitter will be the resentment expressed at the next session of congress at the presidential selection of 32 out of the two houses' membership of more than 17 times that many to hear the initial outline of the administration's program, as if this small fraction of the legislative body were entitled to pass on the project for their fellow lawmakers.

The situation is not improved by the fact that the 32 have been described as the major parties' congressional "leaders."

Senator Watson and Representative Tilson are, indeed, recognized as the Republicans' and Senator Joseph T. Robinson and Representative Garner as the Democrats' floor managers in the upper and lower houses, but the remaining 28 rate only as ordinary senators and representatives.

THE PLAN being so distinctly financial in its characters, the presence of Senator Glass, a former secretary of the treasury and a member (though not the senior Democratic member) of the senate committee on banking, doubtless was appropriate, but Chairman Norbeck of the same committe was not invited. Chairman McFadden of the house committee on banking was invited and in attendance, however, to make the omission the more noticeable.

Senators Goldsborough of Maryland and Townsend of Delaware perhaps were summoned to the gathering because they live nearby and could reach Washington easily, but Senators Tydings of Maryland and Hastings of Delaware were not on the president's invitation list.

Senators Brookhart, Hale, Hull, Frazier, Gore and La Follette, who actually were in the capital, were ignored.

The representatives at the White House numbered 15. At least twice that many are in town. Yet of those who were requested to attend the meeting several came long distances (Representative Garner from Texas) and remained but a few hours.

"IN SHORT," says Representative George Huddleston of Alabama, "the affair was not a conference; it was a party called together to listen to a message from the president.

"It assuredly was not a recommendation to congress, for a recommendation from the president to congress, to have the slightest weight, must be submitted to congress in formal session. These 32 senators and representatives, at the White House on the night of October 6, had no more official standing than any other 32 citizens.

"The purpose in choosing senators and representatives for the occasion obviously was to improve the show. Congressionally apparelled, they took their places. The president then, in the role of heavy tragedian, read his message and dismissed them to their dressing rooms. They simply were part of the stage setting; pieces of furniture. They were 'supes,' in fact.

"Except for its psychological effect, the performance had no meaning whatever."

"THE $500,000,000 bankers' pool," observed the Alabaman, "requires no congressional sanction.

"Still, we may properly ask, 'What is it for?'

"Why it appears that it is to rediscount the paper of banks which need ready money.

"Well, that is the Federal Reserve system's function also, and one would think it is a function that the Federal Reserve could perform more effectively than the bankers' pool, for the Federal Reserve can issue currency, which the bankers' pool cannot. True, there are classes of securities, perhaps good, that the Federal Reserve is not authorized to accept, but congress can authorize it to do so, and if the case is urgent, congress can be called into special session for the purpose."

"BUT CONGRESSIONAL action will be needed," continued the representative, "to create the $500,000,000 or $1,000,000,000 federal finance corporation which is suggested as the possible next step.

"Now, if a private bankers' pool is unnecessary, as it clearly is, to supplement the Federal Reserve system, surely a federal finance corporation is unnecessary to supplement the unnecessary private bankers' pool.

"This is to say, it is unnecessary if the securities to be rediscounted are sound securities, such as the Federal Reserve system already is or can be authorized to handle. Of course, if the securities have been pledged for more than they are worth, and the bankers desire to get them into the hands of a governmental corporation, and make the general public take the loss, that is a different matter. In such a situation I can see the advantages of a governmental corporation, from the bankers' standpoint—but not from the general public's.

"FURTHER government subscriptions to the stock of federal land banks," said the southern representative, "likewise can be only of limited advantage.

"It will benefit the bondholders, but personally I oppose encouraging investments in tax-exempt securities. Rather, I believe all tax exemptions should be abolished.

"Presidential discussion of the wisdom of a foreign moratorium extension was halted somewhat abruptly, but it is immaterial. All that remains of our war debt problem is to accustom the country to the idea that that moratorium is perpetual, and it is an idea which we have several months to digest before the nominal payment-resumption date."

THE CENTER OF POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES:

During the past century the population of the entire United States has constantly shifted westward from the Atlantic Seaboard. After the Census Bureau completed taking the 1930 census of the country, the center of population was found to be near Linton, Indiana. According to Prof. W. A. Cogshall, Indiana University astronomer, the exact was found to be in a series of mud hills, on a strip of coal mine land owned by the Binkley Coal Company, north east of Linton.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty NORMA KENT, 20-year-old secretary, marries MARK TRAVERS, son of F. M. TRAVERS, millionaire real estate dealer, in spite of the father's opposition and threats to disinherit Mark.

The story opens in Marlboro, middle western metropolis. Mark sells his expensive roadster to get money for the honeymoon and he and Norma go to fashionable Blue Springs. After two weeks their money is gone, partly due to Mark's gambling. With $500, borrowed, the couple return to Marlboro. Mark sets out on a round of pleasure seeking instead of hunting work. When their funds dwindle again he and Norma move to a cheap apartment.

Mark gets one job and loses it. Then he becomes a floorwalker in Blossomdale's department store. In spite of poverty the young couple are happy. After a few weeks Mark's father sends for him, offers to take him back into his business organization if Mark will prove he can make good. His first task involves a business trip to France. Norma is to remain at home. She is frightened and begs him not to go but in spite of her protests he parts.

Norma, treated rudely at her father-in-law's home, slips away leaving no trace of her whereabouts. She takes a room in a cheap lodging house and telephones her former roommate, CHRIS SAUNDERS. When Chris leaves the office in which she works Norma meets her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII

Chris Saunders twisted the ring on her finger. It was an oddly engraved band set with jade. Chris always wore the ring. She had worn it ever since Norma had known her.

When she looked up all Chris said was, "Well—?"

"He—he didn't say anything." Norma went on hurriedly. "Oh, it was terrible that first night when I knew he recognized me! I tried to tell Mark—I'd tried to tell him before but he wouldn't let me! Mark knows, Chris. He and Stone are some sort of cousins. Mark didn't guess that I'd ever seen him before though!

The other girl straightened. Her eyes, meeting Norma's quite levelly, were a mask.

"Listen," Chris said, "you've done nothing to be ashamed of. If I were you I'd save my worrying until I had something to worry about. Something real! Don't lose your head, Norma. Tell me what you expect to do during the next four weeks?"

"I haven't thought it all out. I'll have to get a job somewhere I suppose. The money I have won't last. Anyhow I'd rather be doing something—"

Again Chris was absorbed in the ring. "I understand why you ran away last night," she said slowly, "but it might have been better if you'd stayed."

"Oh, I couldn't! Do you think I'd accept anything from people when I know they hate me? I just couldn't do it, Chris. Mark wouldn't want me to stay there if he knew. I made up my mind before he left that I wouldn't stay in that house. I couldn't tell him because he was counting on the trip so. If he'd known how I felt about it he wouldn't have gone. I wasn't willing to stand in Mark's way!"

"But don't you see, dear, running away like this is going to make trouble?"

Norma's chin lifted but her lips trembled. "I thought you'd be willing to help me, Chris," she said. "I didn't know you'd feel this way about it!"

"See here, infant, of course I want to help you! I'm just trying to think what's the best thing to do, that's all."

"I won't go back to Mark's father's house. I tell you I won't!"

* * *

Chris sighed. "Well," she said, "that settles that! As I said, I don't blame you much. If you won't go back I think you'd better go to work. Why didn't you come to my place last night instead of going to that rooming place?"

"You know you've no room now, Dorothy's with you."

"Always have room. We can double up."

"No. I don't want you to do that. You see things are different now, Chris. I've got to stand on my own feet. It helps to tell you about things, to talk them over and feel there's one person who understands. Oh, I don't know what I'd do without you! But I'm not going to be one more to impose on your generosity—"

"Silly! Why, that's ridiculous!"

"Maybe. Anyway, that's how I feel about it. This place I've moved to is all right. I'll want to see you often, Chris, but I've paid the rent for a week and I think I'll stay there."

"Suit yourself. I suppose you'll come to dinner some time?"

"Love to. Tell me about Dorothy. What's she like?"

"Oh, Dorothy's all right. We don't pal around the way you and I did but she's o.k. as a roommate. Say—" Chris' dark eyes flashed with a sudden inspiration. "Why didn't I think of it? Why didn't I think—!"

"Think of what? What are you talking about?"

"A job for you! Don't know what it pays but it would be a lot better than nothing. Dorothy was telling me about it last night. A girl she

Prison Terms Assessed Men

Three Members Of "Burglary Ring" At Abilene Are Given Sentences On Pleas Entered In Court Monday

ABILENE, Oct. 19. (AP) — Three members of a so-called "burglary ring" drew prison sentences here today, on pleas of guilty to a series of burglaries committed in Taylor county in the fall and winter of 1930.

Hunter Russell was assessed sentences totaling 20 years. He drew a ten year term in each of ten cases charging burglary, the sentences to run concurrently; and other ten-year sentence in a theft case. John Kernes drew ten years, sentences of that duration being assessed ni nine cases to run concurrently. Erwin Spicer's terms also were made concurrent, to give him a total of two years. He was assessed two years in each of eleven cases.

Spicer and Russell are under sentence in a number of other West Texas counties. The three defendants are charged in other burglary cases in this section, involving, officers charge, the operations during the past year of a well-organized band. Other suspected members still are being sought.

Bus Schedule Is Again Operating

Another schedule has been added or rather restored, by the South Plains Coaches, Inc., Joe W. Bowman, manager, announced.

A bus leaves Lubbock for Sweetwater at 12:30 each noon, arriving in Sweetwater at 4:45 p. m. Returning it leaves Sweetwater at 8:30 p. m. with arrival here at 12:30 a. m.

The company formerly operated three schedules a day, but about eight months ago the noon bus was taken off. Increased business between Lubbock and Sweetwater and other points was the cause of the restoration of the bus.

At the same time Mr. Bowman stated that a new fare of $8.05 between Lubbock and Port Worth, was in effect. The three busses leaving here at 7:30 a. m., 12:30 and 5 p. m. make connections at Sweetwater with busses direct into Fort Worth.

Officers Are Elected For New Organization In City

L. Feldman of Lubbock was elected president of Shaareth Isreal congregation at an organization meeting Sunday at the home of H. J. Jarett, 1916 Main street. Plans for a Hebrew school and Sunday school also were perfected.

Other officers named were A. Kessel of Slaton, vice president; Claude Grollman, treasurer; Al Mirsky, secretary, and J. Liberstein, H. J. Jarett and William Levine, trustees.

The school will be taught by Sol Olim, Texas Technological college student. About 20 families in Lubbock and neighboring towns will be members of the congregation.

knows who works for a literary agent on the same floor we're on is married. I don't even remember the girl's name, though I met her once. Lucille something-or-other. She was going to tell her boss about it today. It's ten to one they haven't hired anyone else yet."

"What's a literary agent? What kind of a job is it?"

"Oh, the job wouldn't be hard. Just regular secretarial work. Stuart is the man's name. Frederick Stuart. People who write articles for magazines and stories send them to him. He finds someone to buy them. Dorothy says he's one of the best in the city."

"Do you think he'd hire me?"

"Why not? You're a good secretary. Here—I tell you what I'll do! I'll get Dorothy to go in and see this girl in the morning and if nobody's taken the job I'll call you to come right down. How's that?"

"Fine. Say, that'll be great, Chris! I couldn't very well go to Brooks and Welliver and ask for a recommendation when I left them the way I did."

"We'll get Lucille to recommend you personally. She'd do that for Dorothy, I'm sure.

Ten minutes later they left the restaurant. Each boarded a different street car. Chris urged Norma to spend the evening with her but the younger girl made excuses.

It was nearly eight o'clock when Norma unlocked the door of her newly rented room. The first flash of the electric light was startling. Everything looked strange and different. Shabby in the glow of yellow lamp light. She closed the door behind her and took off her hat.

Across the room, tacked to the faded wallpaper, Norma saw a calendar. She had not noticed it earlier in the day. The calendar bore the name of a coal company printed in large lettering and beneath this the head of a flirtatious young woman dressed in red. The calendar had evidently been added to the room as a decoration. No one had bothered to remove the November sheet from the pad.

Swiftly Norma crossed the room and tore off the ante-dated leaf. Yesterday had been the second of December. She counted down four weeks. That brought her to the 30th. Four weeks—but it might be five! Painstakingly Norma drew a circle about the numeral 30. It occurred to her for the first time that Mark would be away to Christmas.

For a long time she sat and stared at the calendar. Then she arose, drew a large cross over the day that had just ended. There would be 27 more crosses to draw before she could hope to see Mark again. Twenty-seven more crosses!

From childhood and Sunday school Norma remembered a hymn about crosses. No, she told herself vehemently, it was not sacrilegious to think of such things! Every day away from Mark, every 24 hours represented by a cross upon her calendar, was a literal cross to be borne on her shoulders.

Oh, what good could telling herself to be brave do? What good could anything do?

Norma was 20 years old. She was very much in love, desperately unhappy and lonesome. So, as might have been expected of any young girl in a similar situation, she cried herself to sleep.

Morning when it came was gray and dreary. A sunless December day threatening snow which did not fall. Norma did not go out for breakfast. She dallied through the routine of dressing, made her bed and rearranged a bureau drawer.

At 9:45 she was summoned to the telephone. Chris' voice at the other end of the wire said brightly, "Everything's arranged. You're to come down as soon as you can and Dorothy'll take you to Mr. Stuart's office. How soon can you make it?"

"Half an hour, I guess. I'll start right away."

"Then step on it! The job's as good as yours now!"

Chris was a dear. For her sake Norma tried to seem more enthusiastic than she felt riding downtown on the street car later meeting the unknown Dorothy and being led by her to the unknown Frederick Stuart's office.

Half-way down the corridor Dorothy stopped. "Wait a minute!" she said abruptly. "You're not feeling so high this morning. are you? Need a little rouge. Here—let's see what we can do—"

They went into the wash room. From her own vanity case Dorothy produced rouge and a pinkish pad with which to apply it. Five minutes of artful ministrations and Norma emerged, the color in her cheeks notably brightening her appearance.

"It isn't too much," the other girl assured her. "The whole building has artificial light today."

The lettering on the frosted glass before them read, "Frederick J. Stuart, Author's Representative." Dorothy opened the door and they entered.

A slim girl, taller than Norma, with ash blonde hair, rose to meet them. "Hello," she smiled at Dorothy. "Is this Miss Travers?"

"Yes. And this is Miss Fenway, Miss Travers. She's come to see about the job."

"Of course. Mr. Stuart's in now. Shall I ask him if he can see you? I know it will be all right."

Norma said she would like the interview at once. The slim girl disappeared. She returned and with a nod invited Norma to enter her employer's office.

Norma passed through the door marked "private." The man at the desk looked up. "Miss Travers?" he asked.

"Yes, sir. I understand you need a secretary and I've come to apply for the position."

Stuart straightened back. He was a dark man and he wore large, dark-rimmed spectacles. The hair over his temples was rather thin. He looked, Norma thought, exactly like any businessman and this was something of a surprise. Dimly she had envisaged a literary agent as a sort of poetic creature with wavy hair, Windsor tie and affected, slouching garments. Frederick J. Stuart looked essentially practical.

"Sit down, Miss Travers," he said. "Miss Fenway tells me you've had considerable experience. Take dictation, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir. Most of my experience has been in a law office. I've had practice taking letters in shorthand and also on the dictaphone."

"I see. Well, let's have a try at it. Ask Miss Fenway for a notebook—"

Norma went for the notebook. For half an hour she took dictation at high speed and afterward transcribed the notes. Her fingers seemed clumsy as she hit the typewriter keys but her shorthand was accurate. It took longer to write the letters than it should have but when finished they were perfect.

Stuart studied the letters carefully. He chewed the end of a cigar that was not lighted. Presently he broke the silence.

"Report for work Monday morning, please, Miss Travers. Nine o'clock."

Norma hesitated. "About the salary—" she began.

"Yes, yes. Of course. Twenty-five dollars."

"I was earning $30 on my last job."

"Well, we'll make it $27.50. Raise you after the first of the year if your work's satisfactory. Right?"

In a building six blocks away F. M. Travers shifted to a more comfortable position in his comfortable desk chair. He was holding the French telephone to his ear.

"What's that?" Travers exclaimed. "You've found the girl? Yes, of course I want to go through with it. Take a cab and come over here right away!"

Cotton Cotton Is Quite Active In Trade Livestock Cattle Offerings Of Week Decrease Grain Breadstuffs Go Upward Monday

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19. (AP)—Cotton was quite active in today's trading and prices developed an upward trend. Aside from some hesitation at the start due to hedge selling and an easy opening of the stock market, the market soon developed an upward slant in sympathy with a recovery in stocks, good trade buying, price fixing by the mills and active short covering. The close was steady at net gains for the day of 29 to 30 points, equal to $1.30 a bale.

Liverpool is due 16 to 17 penny points up on New Orleans tomorrow.

Liverpool came in 1 to 2 penny points worse than due and private cables stated the trade called and hedge selling was light. Manchester cabled that demand for cloth from India was improving. First trades here showed gains of 4 points.

Financial Markets Return Balance Of Gains With Exception Of Bonds

BY JOHN I. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—With the important exception of bonds, financial markets returned a balance of gains today.

Wheat and corn reached the best prices since late summer and cotton had sharp advance. Stocks refused to be frightened by early heaviness of the rails and advances slowly with coppers showing the way. Net gains were largely fractional and trading was dull.

In bonds several United States government issues touched new lows, while many railroad liens acted as though they had been discouraged by the continued absence of the favorable news so widely predicted last week.

Both women, it was determined at the county morgue, died from bullet wounds.

Mayor's Ire

Charles Francis Adams, wife of the secretary of the navy, went through Annapolis late Saturday on their way to Annapolis Roads to board the U. S. S. Arkansas, which took them to the Yorktown sesqui-centennial celebration where the president spoke today.

When the presidential caravan reached the designated meeting point it slowed down, but before Mayor Quenstedt's party could reach Mr. Hoover the machines gathered speed and went on, the mayor complained.

At the naval academy the presidential party was received by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent, and a salute of 21 guns. It was revealed today that the salute was illegal, the president's party not arriving at the academy until five minutes after official sunset. Regulations forbid salutes after sunset.

President Hoover's schedule calls for his arrival at Annapolis Roads aboard the Arkansas tomorrow morning. Any necessary arrangements will be made in regard to traffic, the mayor said, but no official will take part.

Quenstedt is a Republican.

Prayer At Bier

human mind."

Wednesday there will be a private funeral, and Mr. Edison will be buried in Rosedale cemetery at Orange, not many miles from his hilltop home. President Hoover hopes to attend the services.

The room in which the body of Thomas Edison lay was much as he left it before his last illness. His old rolltop desk, a blue covered couch on which he used to rest, the long shelves of books lining the balcony, the scores of photographs and paintings on the walls—all were undisturbed.

Stands Near Desk

Close to the desk at which Mr. Edison had pored over many of his inventions stood the coffin. Over it were sprinkled red oak leaves from the trees on the Llewellyn Park estate. Around the room were several vases of chrysanthemums, a few sprays of smilax, and bunches of brightly colored autumn leaves.

Directly above the coffin was a big bronze wall clock, its hands strangely stopped at 3:27 a. m. yesterday, three minutes after the inventor sank from a coma into eternal sleep.

The soft amber radiance of the incandescent lamp—considered by Mrs. Edison his greatest invention —filled the room.

It was into this setting that the employes of the Edison plant were ushered at 8 a. m.

Received By Son

Charles Edison, the inventor's son, was there to receive the men and women of all ages. Some were in their Sunday clothes; others, soon to go on duty, were in overalls. Some led their children through the slowly moving line for a glimpse at the figure under the coffin's glass lid.

At 9 a. m. the public was admitted, and until 6 p. m. the room was filled a guard of honor—four Edison employes standing with folded arms at each corner of the coffin—was changed every 15 minutes.

Public mourners numbered thousands and they were polyglot. They were bankers in cut-aways, school children carrying their books, old persons who wept freely, unemployed in threadbare clothing, Salvation Army corps in uniform, mothers with babies in arms.

Appears Serene

In death Mr. Edison appeared serene, showing little of the ravages of his prolonged illness. James Earle Fraser, a sculptor of Westport, Conn., made a death mask of the inventor's face and also an impression of his hands.

"He had a marvelous, powerful face," Fraser said. "The beautiful full forehead, the nose, the mouth, the chin—practically all the great qualities are that face."

Plans are to fashion a likeness in bronze or marble from the mask.

Eight inch water mains were recently installed at Vega.

tration desk on the mezzanine floor of the Hilton today and will receive inquiries there.

Although attendance at this meeting may not be as large as it has been some seasons this convention is expected to be no less enthusiastic in spirit, Mrs. Boyd said yesterday upon her arrival. "The programs are expected to be constructive and educational and we are glad to be here as guests of Lubbock," she added, explaining that she was happy to have one of the meetings in this section of the state rather than in East or Central Texas.

Executives To Be Here

With one exception, members of the executive board are to be here for the meetings today. These women include, in addition to Mrs. Boyd's party, Mrs. J. H. Dunavant of Dallas, first vice-president; Mrs. C. C. Cameron of Dallas, second vice-president; Mrs. E. B. Mathis of Texarkana, treasurer.

Among the other prominent members who had arrived Monday are Mrs. A. L. Ridings of Sherman, historian for the state society; Mrs. Robert F. Bacon of Austin, custodian, and Mrs. W. W. Turner of Webster, recorder of crosses. Mrs. Turner will be in charge of the ceremony this evening in which the military crosses will be given to the veterans.

Two former presidents of the U. D. C. are to be here for the meeting. These are Mrs. Forrest Farley of Austin and Mrs. Oscar Burthold of Weatherford.

Discusses Convention

"Objectives of the U. D. C. are greater than most people believe," Mrs. Boyd said in discussing the convention and telling of the work of the organization. The stated aims of the association are memorial, historical, benevolent, educational and social. In addition to preserving the history of the South, the society erects memorials to the men who fought in the Civil War and takes care of the veterans and their widows, she said. Boys and girls of the South are taught the history of the war and are urged to attend schools within the section.

"We do not want to create bitterness or remember sectional differences, but we do attempt to keep the history of this section," the state president said.

Mrs. Boyd's grandfather, Capt. R. E. Stafford, was a Texan who had a part in the Civil War, going from the town of Columbus. She is the former Sarah Gussie Stafford and for many years lived in the town of Columbus before going to Houston. Her husband is now the criminal court judge of Harris county.

Following the opening session of the convention Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at the American Legion home, there will be public meetings of the state body through Friday. Evening programs will be heard, also.

Asphalt Route Being Planned

State Highway Department Has Plan To Save $60,000 For Lubbock County; Conference Will Be Scheduled

Through the use of asphalt paving on a caliche base on the hard surfacing of highway 7, from Lubbock to the Hockley county line, a saving of about $60,000 to Lubbock county will be effected, highway department officials estimate, according to a communication received by the county commissioners court.

Claude Denton of Lubbock and J. T. Pinkston of Slaton, members of the court will leave today for Austin to confer with members of the state highway department regarding the paving of the highway.

The highway department has notified the County Commissioners that plans have been completed for a nine-inch compacted caliche base 22 feet wide and one and one-half inch asphalt surface 20 feet wide for the highway, stating that the saving of $10,530.34 per mile will be affected. The cost of the caliche and asphalt is placed at $9,117.86 per mile while the cost of concrete per mile is $19,648.20.

The department asked that if the caliche-asphalt type of pavement does not meet the approval of the county court, that representatives be sent to Austin to meet with the State Highway commission Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

"The State Highway department has constructed many miles of the caliche type of pavement in the last few years," the notice from Guy R. Johnston, resident engineer here to the commason stated, "and it has proved highly satisfactory both from maintenance costs and riding qualities. This type of pavement has an additional advantage at this time in that the greater part of its costs is labor; whereas, the larger percentage of costs on other types is railroad transportation."

"These differences in cost are not truly representative of the values represented," the letter stated," but are due to the fact that we have an unlimited supply of very excellent caliche base material available and that labor costs are very low."

"We are attaching hereto a list of caliche material pits which it will be necessary for the Commissioners" court to secure from landowners for base material," the letter continued. "The state will reimburse the county on final estimate. "The usual price paid as royalty for caliche material, including right of egress and ingress is from three to five cents."

Mr. Johnston suggested that the court not pay more than five cents and that satisfactory contracts be prepared with each of the property owners as early as possible so that the department will be ready to award the contract on this project at the November letting.

County Judge E. L. Pitts said yesterday that the court had taken no action on the letter other than send Commissioners Denton and Pinkston to Austin. He explained that, although the majority of voters of the county were of the opinion that the county bond issue called for concrete paving entirely, it really called for any sort of macadamized, graveled or paved road.

He cited the original petition of the bond issue which reads as follows: "whether or not bonds of said county shall be issued in the sum of $991,000 for the following purpose 'the issuance of county bonds for the purchase of district roads and the further construction, maintenance and operation of macadamized, graveled or paved roads and turnpikes, or in aid thereof throughout such county."

It is estimated that the county will save approximately $60,000 on the highway construction through the use of caliche and asphalt. A meeting of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and B. C. D. directors was held on the matter yesterday, but no official action was taken.

the fourth time—this time until Thursday. D'Andrea, who had been with Capone constantly during the latter's income tax trial, was found with a pistol on his person at the end of the first week and he has been in the county jail since. Judge Wilkerson has been ready four times to hear reasons why D'Andrea should not be cited for contempt, but he has refused to hear motions for bail.

From all indications, Capone will be sentenced immediately after his lawyers have gone through the formality of making the arguing motions Friday. Judge Wilkerson stated, soon after the jury had convicted the gang leader Saturday night, that he would deny the motion for arrest of judgment, but he later said the lawyers could argue the point if they desired. "I suppose you will move for a new trial," the court said.

Injured In Car Crashes Monday

James Potts (left) and Martin Hamilton (right) were among victims injured in automobile accidents in and near Lubbock Monday which claimed the life of one student of Texas Tech and resulted in injuries of varying degrees to ten other persons. Both Potts and Hamilton are students at Texas Tech.

Texas Tech Co-Ed Fatally Injured As Car Overturns At "Thrill Dip"

how fast, but I thought I had control of the car. When we came to the first dip I could feel the car rising from the ground and it seemed like the machine turned a flip before it landed. I was dazed for a moment and then recovered my senses. The others were unconscious. I could tell that Hamilton and Miss Gordon were hurt badly. I ran to the house near the entrance of the driveway and got help. I was unable to move the machine off of the boy and girl by myself.

Was First Visit

"The dip fooled me," he continued, "I had never been over anything like it before." Casterlin said it was the first time he had visited the Lubbock scenic dip.

Dickerson said the young people came to his house at about 5:30 p. m., paid their admission and went into the driveway, which leads to the dips, located about 300 yards from the house.

"I took particular pains to warn them about fast driving," he said. "I could tell the automobile was from out-of-town and that the driver probably had never been over the drive before. 'Be careful,' I said, 'for this is a thrill dip rather than a speed dip. Don't throw these young people out of the rear seat,' I said as they drove away.

Covered With Blood

"Presently, one of the young men came running back to the house. His face was covered with blood.

"Quick! Come and help me. We have had an accident. I think one of the girls is dead."

Dickerson described the location of the two young women and man when he reached the car. The rear of the car was pinning Miss Gordon's legs to the ground. Hamilton was behind her, he said.

The operator of the amusement device said thousands of automobiles had passed over the driveway during the three years it has been in operation and yesterday's accident was the first to occur there. He pointed out that numerous warning signs had been posted at the driveway entrance and along the drive. A "slow up" sign was on the top of incline where the accident occurred and was visible at a point a hundred feet or more away, he said.

Physicians at the West Texas hospital said Miss Gordon's death resulted from a crushed chest, and a fractured skull. She also suffered several lacerations and bruises.

Her father, F. W. Gordon, left Miami soon after the accident for Lubbock. Pending the completion of funeral arrangements the body is being held at the Bynum-Morgan Funeral home.

Made Home Here

Miss Gordon made her home here with Mrs. H. F. Barnhardt, mother of Miss Frankie Barnhardt, who also was injured in the mishap.

Hamilton is the son of M. E. Hamilton, of Clovis, N. M., formerly a resident of Lubbock. He left Clovis for Lubbock immediately after the accident. Young Hamilton was making his home at the Tech Tourist camp. He was prominently identified in debating and "Hi-Y" activities at Lubbock high school while a student here.

Dr. J. M. Gordon, dean of the school of liberal arts at Technological college, last night stated the entire college was shocked at the unfortunate accident which claimed the life of one student and injured three others.

Loss Is Regretted

"As far as the officials of the school can tell there was nothing out of the way in regard to the accident," he said. "I do not believe the young people were to blame for the mishap. It was an unfortunate occurrence. The entire student and faculty deeply sympathize with the relatives of the young woman who was killed, and those of the young persons who were injured. The loss of a single student through death is a deep loss to the entire college."

School officials worked until late at night notifying relatives of the four persons of the accident and in making funeral preparations for Miss Gordon.

Mrs. G. B. Knox, her son, Hugh Knox, and Miss Inez Paschal, all of Lehman, suffered minor injuries when the automobile in which they were riding overturned 12 miles west of Lubbock. The accident was caused by a blown out tire, attendants at the Lubbock sanitarium were informed. Mrs. Knox, who was the most seriously injured, suffered a bruised shoulder. Her son and Miss Paschal suffered minor cuts and bruises. Mrs. Knox remained in the sanitarium overnight. The other two were dismissed after receiving treatment.

F. C. Adams, a farmer, and four Texas Technological college students were painfully injured at about 8 o'clock Monday morning when the automobile in which Adams was riding and a light sedan, driven by James Potts, about 21, collided at the intersection near the experiment farm, four miles east of Lubbock. Adams, who was riding alone, was the most seriously hurt of the group. He suffered several fractured ribs and head injuries.

The four students in the other car were: James Potts, who suffered abrasions and bruises; Wade Potts, about 18, his brother, who suffered minor bruises and cuts; Miss Goldie Potts, about 23, sister of the Potts brothers, a fractured clavicle; Miss Luvenia Boyd, about 18, who also suffered a fractured clavicle. All were taken to the Lubbock sanitarium.

Adams, the only one of the victims remaining at the sanitarium was reported to have spent a fair day. His condition was not thought to be serious.

James Potts is a prominent Four-H club worked and recently was listed as one of the 25 most outstanding Four-H club members of the county.

Death Of "Wizard Of Menlo Park" Casts Gloom Upon Ohio; Intimate Glimpses Of Life Revealed

Few Residents Still Recall Incidents Of Early Life

CLEVELAND, Oct. 19. (AP) — The death of Thomas A. Edison cast gloom today upon several communities in Ohio intimately connected with his life.

Milan, the little town in Erie county where Edison was born in 1847, still has a few residents who can recall the time when the youthful experimenter was caught sitting on duck eggs in an effort to hatch them out."

Akron has its "Old Miller Place" on King Drive. There the budding inventor wooed and won Miss Mina Miller, the second Mrs. Edison.

Perfected Voting Machine

At Cincinnati Edison worked in the course of his travels from job to job, each usually lost as the result of some unlucky turn of an experiment. There he perfected his first patented invention—a mechanical voting record machine for use of legislative bodies soon to be adopted by the national house of representatives.

Cleveland had its Captain Alva Bradley for whom Edison was named.

Marion had its President Harding whose burial in Marion Edison attended in company with his two close friends, Harvey S. Firestone of Akron, and Henry Ford.

Milan always has been jealous in upholding its fame as the birthplace of the wizard of invention.

House Still Stands

The "little brick house on the hogback," where Edison was born, still stands. Except for the addition of a small porch on one end and of shutters it is almost as Edison's father, Samuel, built it.

The inventor bought it of his father's gardener in 1884. For many years his cousin, Mrs. Nancy Wadsworth, 13 years his senior, lived there and on each Edison birthday held open house for inspection by the public of various "Edisonia" collected there. She is dead now, but her daughter, Miss Marietta, still occupies the house.

The Edisons moved to Port Huron, Mich., when Edison was only seven years old. But he already had acquired a reputation as a very dull student. There he went swimming in the canal and was almost drowned; there he went exploring in one of the big grain elevators and was almost smothered to death when he fell into a huge pile of shifting grain; there he tried an experiment with fire on the floor of his father's barn and burned the barn.

Involved In Revolt

Samuel Edison, involved in a revolt in Canada, came to Milan in 1842 and became a shingle manufacturer. Soon he was sending love notes across the lake to Canada with Capt. Alva Bradley who soon was to become owner of a famous fleet of vessels. When Miss Nancy Eliot crossed Lake Erie to become Edison's bride she came on Bradley's boat, and when their first born was named they called him Thomas Alva.

Milan residents were almost certain at one time that the great Edison had forgotten his old home town. Because of his many experiments at Menlo Park he was unable to attend a big homecoming celebration planned at the village. A few years later he sent word that he would pay a visit, but at the last moment was forced to change his plans. Old cronies of his father were almost heart-broken.

But in 1923, on the way from the burial of President Harding at Marion, the inventor's party stopped for an afternoon in Milan. There was a big crowd, speeches and a picnic. After that Edison again was in the good graces of the old home town.

The old home was electrically equipped in 1924 for the first time. The high school laboratory was equipped by Edison. A memorial to his mother is one of the village church windows.

Thomas Edison Faced Death With An Open Mind On Immortality Of Soul

Believes That Soul Might Live On After Death

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 19. (AP) Thomas A. Edison went to his death with an open mind on the question of whether the soul is immortal.

Perplexed that he could not fathom the depths of possible life after death, he nevertheless reached the conclusion that the soul might live on.

For many years he had been an avowed disbeliever in immortality, but in his closing years he came to regard the subject from an open viewpoint.

Recalls Conversation

Dr. Hubert S. Howe, his personal physician, recalls a conversation with the inventor in which the latter expressed his ideas.

Dr. Howe quotes him as saying:

"Well, if there is a hereafter, it doesn't matter, and if there isn't a hereafter, it doesn't matter either. I've lived my life and done my best."

Oft-repeated questions about Mr. Edison's religion caused the family to issue a statement on the subject after his death. Denying he was an atheist, the statement said he carried a reverence for a supreme intelligence, even though he subscribed to no orthodox creed.

Contrast Is Seen

His open mindedness on immortality was in direct contrast to the views of his earlier years. In 1910 he told Edward Marshall, a friend:

"Soul? Soul? What do you mean by soul? The brain? There is no more reason to believe that any human brain will be immortal than there is to think one of my phonographic cylinders will be immortal."

If there is a life after death, Mr. Edison said two years ago at Rochester, N. Y., it more probably is on earth rather than in a heaven.

"I think," he commented, "that a man's personality has a chance of surviving — perhaps enters a new cycle—but is still on earth."

Wednesday Funeral Services For Edison Also Is To Mark 52nd Anniversary Of Invention Of Incandescent Lamp

(By Associated Press)

SUGGESTIONS RECEIVED

EVERY electric light in America would be turned off at a time fixed by presidential proclamation as homage to the man who made them possible, if President Hoover should act on numerous suggestions already made to him from various parts of the country.

MARK ANNIVERSARY

When funeral services are held for Mr. Edison Wednesday it will mark the fifty-second anniversary—to the day—of his invention, of the incandescent lamp.

LIFE WAS SAVED

It was two years ago that Mr. Edison collapsed in Detroit during a celebration honoring him for his invention of the electric light. Dr. Joel T. Boone recalls that the administration of adrenalin saved Mr. Edison's life at that time.

A hurried search has revealed that Edison, inventor of the sound recording device, left no permanent record of his own voice.

MESSAGES RECEIVED

Telephagh and telephone to, each of which means of communication the Edison genius contributed, were swamped with messages of condolence yesterday and today.

ORDERS SHUTDOWN

Samuel Insull, who once was in Mr. Edison's employ, has ordered the great electric utilities of which he is head—elevated railroad lines, electric lines and electric power plants—to shut down for one minute during the funeral services.

DIES DICTATING

Dr. Samuel W. Stratton, former president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was asked by newspaper men to comment upon Mr. Edison's career. As he was dictating his tribute, he died.

Four Miles Of Slab To Be Opened On Highway No. 9

Four miles of slab on No. 9 highway from the Lynn county line north to Woodrow, is expected to be opened to traffic this week.

It had been planned by the contractor and the state highway department to open the paving last week but the rain of a week ago Sunday caused a change in plans. Since then no announcement of the date of opening the road has been made.

Good progress is being made by the contractors on the slab since the rain.

Midland Cattleman Claimed By Death Following Illness

He was secretary-treasurer of the Scharbauer Cattle company operating in five Texas counties and in Lea county, New Mexico. Funeral services were planned for tomorrow.

Two Plainview Residences Rapidly Near Completion

Mrs. H. E. Scaggs will have her new $20,000 home turned over to her this week, it was said at the office of Peters, Strange and Bradshaw, local architets.

The home of Judge Charles Clements, of the 64th district court, is to be finished by the last of October or the first of November. Its cost will be in excess of $7,000, it was said.

"Hot Topping" On Road Now Started

"Hot topping" of the Gaines county road between Seagraves and Loop, has been started and shipments of asphalt and gravel have begun to move through Lubbock for Seagraves, Santa Fe officials state.

The Thompson Construction company of San Antonio has the contract for spreading the top. The county, through the commissioners' court and using local labor, built the road with caliche.

Bonds authorized in January at a special bond election, were sold and proceeds used. The bond issue was $250,000, of which $35,000 was for the ten mile road between Seagraves and Loop.

Meantime state highway department officials have started preliminary plans for the paving of No. 137 from Seagraves to the Andrews county line, through Seminole.

Detour For Traffic On 137 Has Not Been Designated

Detour for traffic over highway 137 between Lubbock and the Hockley county line, has not been definitely selected, it was said by state highway department officials Monday. Recently the state highway commission let the contract for grading and drainage on this road.

Tentative selection is understood to be west on No. 24 from the junction of 137 and 24 near Texas Technological college, to the county line and thence south along the county line to No. 137. There is said to be a good county highway along the county line between the two state highways.

Work order to the contractor to start work has not been issued by Austin, it was explained.

Grain Inspection In City Progresses At Rapid Rate

One hundred and ten cars of grain have been received in Lubbock for inspection by the Lubbock Grain Inspection bureau, since October 1, R. R. Stuard, inspector, said Monday.

Four fifths of the receipts were threshed grain sorghums and the rest wheat, he said. "We have had nearly as many cars received for inspection up to Monday, since the first of October, as we had during the entire month last year," he added.

"I believe that our October business will be between 60 and 75 per cent greater than in the same month in 1930."

Periodical Pains Relieved In 3 Minutes

Month after month some women still suffer needless pain, but those who know simply go to a drug store or soda fount, get a package or dose of "B-C" and get perfect relief in 3 minutes, continuing their duties in pain-free, easy comfort.

"B-C" is the formula of two North Carolina druggists, contains several ingredients that function together for the relief of headache, neuralgia and periodical pains, accomplishing in a few minutes what no one drug formula can do under 1 to 3 hours.

"B-C" stops the pain, quiets the nerves, is perfectly harmless. No other preparation like it. Nothing else gives such profound relief. Ask your druggist, he knows. (Adv).
