Prison escapees remain at large

HOUSTON (AP) — A convicted murderer and an armed robber who escaped from a Louisiana prison abducted two women as they fled west into Texas, authorities said.

Police continued their search today for the inmates, who were armed and considered dangerous. The men abducted a woman and forced her to drive to Houston, where they abandoned her and kidnapped another woman, officers said Sunday.

Danny Weeks, 33, and James Colvin, 32, were discovered missing along with a third inmate during a count Saturday night at the Louisiana Pentitentiary at Angola, said Warden Frank Blackburn.

"Both are career offenders with violent backgrounds," Houston homicide Sgt. W.O. Allen said.

2,000-plus killed by toxic gas

YAOUNDE, Cameroon (AP) — At least 2,000 people were killed by toxic gas seeping from a volcanic lake in northwest Cameroon, and the military moved into the remote area to evacuate survivors, the government said today.

There was no word on the number of injured.

A 17-member Israeli army medical team arrived in this West African nation today as part of international relief efforts that the Cameroon government said would also involve the United States, Britain and France.

"As far as we know, volcanic activity is still going on," medical team leader Dr. Michael Weiner told reporters on the plane from Israel, which was carrying Prime Minister Shimon Peres for a state visit. There has been no official government report of volcanic activity.

The Cameroon military took charge of rescue and relief operations in the disaster area.

Cameroon Information Minister Georges Ngango told reporters that military authorities filed a preliminary report of at least 2,000 dead.

But as of this afternoon, the government radio was still reporting that 40 people had died from the fumes. That was the figure provided by the government when it first reported the disaster on Sunday.

Joseph Mokassa, an aide to the provincial governor in Bamenda, capital of the stricken province, said by telephone he had seen many dead, but did not have precise figures.

"I went there on Saturday and it was such a frightful sight because so many people had lost their lives," Mokassa said.

A Western diplomatic source in Yaounde said of the government radio report: "The situation isn't clear. Rather than go with the higher figure, get people upset, clog the roads, they stay conservative." The source spoke on condition of anonymity.

Ngango said villagers from a wide area were being evacuated and others were fleeing.

Morning showers dump 1.4 inches as more expected

From Local, Wire Reports

A brief shower before dawn was followed by heavy downpours during the morning here with 1.43 inches of rain recorded as of 11 a.m.

The rain was accompanied by thunder and lightning for most of the morning.

Many low spots in Snyder filled with water and city crews were dispatched before 10 a.m. to place barricades.

By 11:30 a.m., the rain had stopped in the city although the possibility of scattered thunderstorms remained in the Snyder forecast.

Other parts of the county also received in excess of 1 inch of rain during the morning hours Monday.

At Hermleigh, where it was still raining around 11:30 a.m., just over 1 inch was recorded. Ira residents reported heavy rainfall also.

At Fluvanna, however, the rain total was limited to .10 of an inch.

Rain fell in Snyder during the weekend also with .10 of an inch of precipitation reported. This brought the year-to-date total to 14.62 inches.

The local storm was part of an upper-level disturbance which triggered scattered showers and isolated thundershowers across the Lone Star State early Monday.

Forecasters during the morning were saying they expect the rainfall to continue through the beginning of this week.

Predawn temperatures ranged from the 60s in West Texas to the 70s elsewhere.

The Snyder area forecast calls for a 30 percent chance of evening showers Monday night. Tuesday, morning low clouds and fog are expected, becoming partly cloudy by noon.

The rain chance for Tuesday is now listed at less than 20 percent.

Absentee continuing

Absentee voting for Saturday's called city council election ends Wednesday with 22 votes cast as of Monday morning.

The absentee vote is being conducted at city hall. Voters have until 5 p.m. Wednesday to vote absentee.

The ballot will mark the first city election with council members elected to represent four specific districts in Snyder.

Candidates include:

District 1

Incumbent Councilman Fred Castillo is challenged by Albert Lewis.

District 2

Incumbent Councilman Tommy Davis is challenged by John Johnson and Ralph Williamson.

District 3

Mike Post and Evelyn J. Malone both seek the post.

District 4

Incumbent Councilman Joe Fowler is challenged by Ygnacio Benitez Jr.

GUN SHOW VISITORS — The 1986 Canyon Gun Club show in the Scurry County Coliseum last weekend recorded over 1,000 paid admission visitors to look, talk and trade with dealers and collectors from across the Southwest. Local club member Gene Bowlin is pictured checking out one dealer's offerings Saturday. Charlie Shanks of Big Spring won this year's prize belt buckle for the show's best display. (SDN Staff Photo)

Reception today for new teachers

A new teacher reception is due at 4 p.m. Monday for personnel joining the Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira school districts and Western Texas College staff.

The public is invited to the atrium area at Willow Park Inn to welcome the new teachers.

The event is sponsored by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. New teachers to the respective systems include:

Snyder ISD

New principals Thomas Alvis at North Elementary and L.D. Monroe at Central Elementary; and new teachers Geneva Alvis, math at SHS; Lloyd Bohannon, science teacher and seventh grade coach; Jerry Brem, industrial arts at SHS; Milton Ham, physical education at Central; Brenda Hernandez, prekindergarten at North; Penny Hughes, math at SHS; Troy Lilly, science at SHS; Cathi McFaul, junior high band director; Michael Montgomery, history teacher and eighth and ninth grade coach; and Ruth Reed, second grade bilingual teacher at Central.

Ira ISD

Carla Allen, language arts; David Brown, math teacher; and Lynda Fronenberger, science teacher.

Hermleigh ISD

Jack Vining Jr., junior high and high school science teacher and boys coach; and Elaine Whitfield, social studies and business.

Western Texas College

Charges said doubtful in one of two reports

Both a shooting and a stabbing incident were reported in Snyder during the weekend, but the possibility of charges arising from both cases was in question as of Monday morning.

Police say they are continuing their investigation of a shooting reported in a north Snyder alley just before midnight Sunday.

A resident of an apartment building at 1910 Coleman Ave. called police at 11:53 p.m. and reported two men shooting at each other in the alleyway behind the apartment.

A Snyder man was later taken from the scene to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by private vehicle.

Treated for a gunshot wound to the leg and released from the hospital emergency room was Oscar Martinez of 1910 Coleman Ave.

As of 9 a.m. Monday, detectives were investigating the inci-

Health care, insurance expected on SHL agenda

By VICKI BROWN
SDN Staff Writer

"Health care and insurance will probably be items of major concern when the Silver Haired Legislature meets in September," remarked Delbert Downing, Snyder's representative to the senior body.

Downing's remarks came following a recent training session for SHL representatives in Austin to familiarize participants with legislative procedures and their role in the process.

Formed by the Texas Legislature in April, 1985, the SHL will meet biennially to make recommendations to the state on issues affecting senior adults.

"About 70 percent of the suggestions made by Silver Haired Legislatures in the 22 other states where they exist have been adopted," Downing said. "And that's a pretty good batting average."

During the training session, SHL legislators were appointed to one of 11 committees that will make specific recommendations to the entire body in September.

Downing was named to the employment committee — his third choice. "I really wanted on the community services committee. If I have any expertise at all, it's in that area since I served as a chamber manager (in Midland) and spent a lot of time speaking in small towns," he noted.

Members of the SHL will convene in regular session on Sept. 29, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1. "We will be sworn in, and we are supposed to be addressed by the governor. Then we will go into our respective committees to determine items to be presented to the Texas Legislature in January," he added.

Downing noted two items already suggested for discussion in the employment committee. "There has been some discrimination in allowing senior citizens the opportunity to continue working after reaching the age to qualify for Social Security benefits," he said.

"One suggestion is that the legislature allow corporations to hire seniors but waive the state unemployment insurance assessed against the company," Downing explained. Should the state representatives adopt such a measure, seniors would not qualify for benefits under the state's unemployment compensation plan.

He noted that his committee may also try to influence the

Q. — I have heard pre-1965 coins have greater value since they have more silver content. Is this true?

A. — Yes. Ed Chauncey, a rare coin dealer in Lubbock, explained it this way. He said any dime, quarter, half dollar or silver dollar minted in 1964 or before is 90 percent silver. Nickels don't count since they are made of nickel. From 1965-70, all half dollars are 40 percent silver. Since 1971, all coins which previously used silver, unless they are a special edition, are copper-nickel clad.

In Brief

More trouble

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The escalating rebellion in southern Sudan is adding to the deep economic and social crisis facing an African nation struggling to build democracy after more than a decade and a half of iron-fisted rule.

The 3-year-old revolt has intensified since early last year, especially in the provinces of Bahr el-Ghazal and Upper Nile.

Curtain bid

County commissioners Monday approved a $12,311 bid for new curtains in the Scurry County Coliseum.

On Aug. 11, court members tabled the proposal in order to seek other possible solutions. The bid, the only offer made when bids were originally sought, was made by National Stage and Equipment Co. of Waco.

Due to be replaced are 19-year-old curtains covering storage areas in rooms A and B and the front stage.

WTC seminar

A first-ever Success Seminar for Adults begins at 6:30 p.m. Monday at Western Texas College.

The program is designed for adults entering WTC with plans to seek a degree or a certificate.

Snyder Area Forecast: Tonight, mostly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of evening showers. Low in the upper 60s. Light southeast wind.

Tuesday, morning low clouds and fog, becoming partly cloudy by noon. Isolated late afternoon thunderstorms with a high in the upper 80s. South wind 10 to 15 mph. Rain chance less than 20 percent.

Grandmother opens AIDS hospice in Houston, Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — The duplex features standard home fare — a floral couch, plants, whitewashed bookshelves, wooden tables and chairs.

Only the hospital beds and a wheelchair tip off visitors to what the grandmotherly founder says is the second hospice in the country to admit only dying AIDS patients.

"We want it to be homey, you see," explains Eleanor Munger, who turns 75 this week. She proudly gave a tour of the six-room home in a tree-lined residential Montrose neighborhood during an open house Sunday.

The hospice, called Omega House, will provide medical, spiritual and psychological care for homeless victims in the terminal stages of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, she says.

An average of 15 to 20 AIDS patients in the Houston area need hospice care but can't afford it because the illness has cost them their jobs and depleted their savings, administrator Ken Durham says.

Omega House will take in patients regardless of ability to pay, and will start with three beds and expand to 10 when she and others raise more money, Ms. Munger says.

"We have a religious instruction to care for the sick and castoffs," executive director Michael Shuff says. He calls AIDs patients "20th century lepers."

Omega House will get its first two patients within a week. One man will have a companion care for him in one bedroom, Ms. Munger says.

"The lover needs to work in the daytime but he wants to care for the patient at night," she says.

Dr. Robert Awe, who treats many AIDS patients as chief of pulmonary medicine at Jefferson Davis Hospital, will serve as Omega House's staff physician and will direct a volunteer staff that includes four other doctors.

Working mothers' children do better

WASHINGTON (AP) — Children of working mothers tend to do better in school, are absent for fewer days and have better communications skills, according to a nationwide study by four Ohio researchers.

But women who don't have jobs outside the homes are more likely to be confident they are good mothers, and their children report better relationships with them, the study said.

Overall, the child benefits when the mother works, said the researchers, who presented their findings to the American Psychological Association in Washington over the weekend.

"All significant differences in social and academic criteria favored children of employed mothers," they wrote.

The "traditional" American family — with the father as sole breadwinner and the mother a full-time homemaker — is becoming a rarity, the researchers said.

"By the year 1990, only 14 percent of the households in America will live in this family pattern," they wrote.

The five-year study was based on data gathered by school psychologists on 573 students from 38 states in the first, third and fifth grades.

The researchers said the children of working mothers tended to have higher IQ scores, less school absenteeism, were more self-reliant and rated higher by their teachers on academic achievement.

ATTENTION ANNUAL SUMMER DRAPERY CLEANING SPECIAL

There is a good reason why we have an annual Drapery Sale each year at this time. At the plant we employ a lot of skilled people in our Household Dept. and we run this discount sale on draperies to give these folks full employment. It's your chance to give your draperies the same attention to detail and all at a 20% discount. If you want to get a head start on housecleaning, I can help you take the draperies down today or on my next call.

Your Birthday

Aug. 26, 1986

That ideal relationship you've been yearning for could be established in the year ahead. You'll be luckier than ever in dealing with others on a one-to-one basis.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your independence may be restricted a bit today, owing to demands forced on you by others. Instead of making a big deal about it, try to take things in stride. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, PO Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be realistic in your thinking today; try to see things as they are and not as you wish them to be. If you recognize adverse conditions, you can overcome them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Regardless of what you buy today, check every item carefully to be absolutely sure you're getting what you paid for, or else you might be had.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be well aware of a goal you want to achieve today and you'll know how to go about it. Yet, there's a possibility you might not do anything to make it happen.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Play it safe today and don't be too hasty to agree to something you haven't thought through from every angle. There may be a pitfall lurking in the shadows.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A good idea that you are formulating should not be discussed prematurely with others. An associates's negative input could induce you to make an unwise change.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In a partnership that you're involved in, the other party is taking a more serious view of things than you are. Get your thoughts in harmony.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Only your very best efforts will be acknowledged and rewarded today. If you knowingly perform below your standards, don't look for pats on the back.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Avoid pressing your luck foolishly today. Don't take financial risks, nor encourage others to do so; it's not apt to work well in either instance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It will turn out poorly for all concerned if you promise to do one thing today and then deliver something entirely different. Honor your commitments.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't let it be said of you today that you are more of a talker than a doer. Finish the job first and then yak about it later.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Buyer's remorse is likely to grip you later if you purchase something today for more than you know you should spend. Be budget-minded.

Sunday shopping reviews 'mixed'

DALLAS (AP) — A sagging state economy has made it almost impossible to tell whether the repeal of the Texas blue law almost exactly one year ago has stimulated retail sales, officials say.

Sunday has become the day many families prefer to head to malls to shop together for clothes, electronic products and furniture — major purchases requiring joint decisions, retailers say.

But the state comptroller's office, which is working on a study of the repeal's impact, has found the slumping economy makes the statistics almost meaningless, says Tony Proffitt, the office's director of tax information.

"I don't know that anyone has a handle on it," he said. "We're really unsure."

On Sept. 1, 1985, the 24-year-old blue law prohibiting sale of most goods on Sunday was repealed after the Texas Legislature voted for the change. Measuring the effect is tough; gauging opinions about it isn't.

Retailers' attitudes toward Sunday shopping are almost the same as they were last year, says Mickey Moore, executive vice president of the Texas Retailers Association.

Those who wanted the extra shopping day continue to like it, while those who opposed it still think it is a bad idea.

"Sunday business is good, but a lot of merchants will say it is transferring business from other days of the week," he said.

Sanger Harris spokeswoman Becky Powell said the department store hasn't seen a significant increase in business, but views Sunday as a popular customer service. Less than 10 percent of Sanger's weekly business comes on Sunday, she said.

"Our premise, as it was a year ago, is that people have X amount of dollars to spend, and will spend the same amount over seven days as over six. That is just what has happened."

At J.C. Penney, spokeswoman Ellise Pierce said Sunday sales are from 6 to 9 percent of weekly business — and only 2 percent of that is considered plus business Penney wouldn't have gotten on another day of the week.

But not all stores see Sunday shopping as a wash.

Mervyn's is more positive: Vice President Rick Lodwick said he has seen minor increases, but enough to be beneficial.

"I feel good about Sunday opening," he said. "It gets better and better every week."

And for stores selling popular and more expensive products such as electronic gear, Sunday is second only to Saturday.

"It's a superior day," said Scott Marlow, manager of a Federated Electronics store in Dallas. Sunday sales alone have boosted his store's sales about 18 percent over last year, he said.

But others say the expense of opening on Sundays cancels what they describe as little return.

"It comes out of our Saturday afternoon and evening business. It's not been beneficial, and it has added to our expenses," said George Gray, store manager at Woolf Bros. in NorthPark Center. "It helped during the holiday season, but the rest of the year it's a reduction of our weekday business."

"You can't compare this year to last."

Boy's Christmas comes early

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Conrad Nuckles may not live until Christmas, so a Texas group and a California man delivered Christmas in August.

The 7-year-old Nuckles boy, retarded and suffering from terminal cancer, spent the weekend with Santa Claus at Disneyland and Universal Studios.

Today, he'll join Saint Nick at a party that will also be attended by a 14-foot reindeer at a home blanketed with a ton of artificial snow.

The Greensboro, N.C., youngster arrived in California Wednesday through the efforts of A Wish with Wings, based in Arlington, Texas, which grants the wishes of terminally ill children.

Robert George, 62, of Glendale, is the modern day Santa Claus who made the youngster's dream come true in Southern California — despite 90-degree-plus temperatures.

George, with his curly white hair and long matching beard, was appointed official Santa of the White House by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956.

Mickey and Minnie Mouse greeted the Nuckles boy and George at Disneyland on Saturday. And on Sunday, a Mr. T lookalike welcomed them at Universal Studios, where the boy also sat in "KITT," the talking car featured in the television series "Knight Rider."

"It was fun," the boy said in a telephone interview Sunday afternoon.

The youngster heard about George through a mutual friend. When George found out the child wanted to spend an early Christmas at his red-and-white suburban home, dubbed "Santa's Dream World," he helped arrange the trip with a little help from Rep. Carlos Moorhead, R-Los Angeles, George said.

"We're giving him his Christmas dinner, his Christmas gifts because there's a big chance he won't be here at Christmas time," George said.

The 7 year old's cancer was diagnosed just two months ago, George said. Last month, the boy had a cancerous kidney removed and doctors gave him just months to live.

Despite medication, the Nuckles boy is weak and had to rest frequently during his visit, George said. He returns home Wednesday.

"We don't know if it's three or four months," George said. "He's slipping. He's lost his appetite."

George, a retired barber, dons his red-and-white Santa suit hundreds of times each year. He's been operating Santa's Dream World since October 1984 on donations and the salary of his wife, Stella, an escrow department supervisor at a bank.

George's magical world features 95 Christmas trees (most of them artificial), 22,000 Christmas lights, 5,000 stuffed animals, 8,000 ornaments and a snow machine that generates Styrofoam snow storms in his garage.

"It was a dream," George said.

Nursing Home Thievery Is Cause for National Shame

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure my letter will not command as much attention as Kirk Douglas' because I'm not a movie star, but after reading his letter, I had to write because I also had a mother in a nursing home.

Mr. Douglas' mother was in a nice nursing home. He could afford the best. My mother was in a convalescent hospital that was little better than a pigsty, although it cost a considerable amount of money. The poor souls were kept medicated to keep their demands at a minimum.

My family visited our mother three or four times a week, and we observed that nighties, sweaters, toiletries and slippers kept disappearing.

We give billions of dollars to foreign countries to upgrade their standard of living; we send billions for ammunition so they can slaughter each other. And on the Fourth of July, millions were spent to honor the Statue of Liberty. But where is the money to honor our own fathers and mothers? Shame on all of us for allowing this to happen.

G.K., COSTA MESA, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: My husband spent the last three years of his life in a nursing home. During that time he experienced problems I never would have believed existed. It was shocking, frightening and sad.

When his condition was critical, an employee removed his wedding ring and wristwatch. His walker, hand-knit afghan and wallet also mysteriously disappeared, along with a basket of goodies he had just received for his birthday. My complaints to the administration were ignored. Only after I wrote to the state ombudsman and the editor of The Deseret News did all the missing articles mysteriously turn up! One week to the day, he was buried — with his ring on.

DEAR ABBY: Kirk Douglas advised people to go to their department of public health and demand to see the state inspection reports before deciding on a home. That is a joke.

I worked at a private nursing home that had a superior rating. Now let me tell you about the inspector. He used the side door because we locked up at 9 p.m., and he never arrived before 10 p.m. One night he arrived drunk (as usual) and fell over the nurses' station trying to hug his favorite nurse. He asked her to witness him signing the inspection form. She laughed and said, "Why, you devil, you haven't inspected anything," after which he picked up a wastepaper basket, peered into it, put it down and said, "There! I've made an inspection, and everything is fine!" He signed the form and left. So much for state inspectors.

DEAR ABBY: I could write a book about the thievery that goes on in nursing homes. Would you believe someone came into my mother's room and carried away her TV set? (Police report enclosed.) Her little refrigerator had been unplugged — apparently that had been targeted as well. I took the owner of the home to Small Claims Court and won. I moved my mother to another home where I had to sign a form stating that they were not responsible for anything that was "lost." The help in most homes are paid peanuts. The work is awful. I couldn't do it — not for a million dollars a day.

CATHERINE FAHRINGER, SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: I could write a book about my mother's experiences in a nursing home. Her diamond ring was stolen from her hand, and her antique family Bible disappeared from her nightstand. Once I visited her to find her wearing dentures far too big for her mouth. (They'd lost hers!) Another time I caught an orderly "bathing" her. He had seated her on slats, and turned the overhead shower on full force — no soap.

One Sunday she was physically well and mentally alert. In eight days she was dead. They said, "Pneumonia." How? Why? You may use my name.

MARI VEARRIER, TIGARD, ORE.

DEAR MARI: Tomorrow I'm giving equal time to those who write in defense of nursing homes.

Federal budget process overhaul forthcoming?

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — White House chief of staff Donald T. Regan, faulting the federal budget process as an inefficient, "Mickey Mouse system," says President Reagan is studying plans for a major overhaul of the nation's budget program.

Regan, in California with the vacationing president, said proposals to revamp the system put forward by top White House aides last week "definitely" caught the eye of the president.

The White House has found fault with the budget process for years, but has not put forward a specific reform package because of intense opposition in Congress, which jealously guards its budget-making authority.

The president would put his ideas before Congress in the next State of the Union address and make it one of his top priorities for his remaining two years in office, Reagan told reporters during a weekend meeting.

"We have a crazy hodgepodge of a budget," Regan complained. "No state has a budget system, no other nation has a budget system like we do.

"We do many things in the federal level that would be considered dishonest and illegal if done in the private sector," the chief of staff said.

Regan, the former Secretary of the Treasury, was head of Merrill Lynch, the nation's largest investment firm.

"We say receipts coming into a trust fund are receipts to the federal government and count to the budget or budget deficit. That is not right by any budgeting sense," Regan said.

The chief of staff said concern on Capitol Hill, in the past wary of such proposals, may change because of the $200 billion-plus deficits and the pressures of the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law.

"I think the atmosphere might be changing where people are saying, 'This is a Mickey Mouse system,'" Regan said.

He said the proposals included renewing a push for the balanced budget amendment, creating a separate capital budget for construction projects and eliminating trust fund receipts — such as for Social Security and unemployment benefits — from the general U.S. treasury.

Another possibility would be creating a two-year budget cycle instead of the current single-year system, Regan said.

Fundamentalists hope candidacy won't hurt

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — The Rev. Pat Robertson's move toward a campaign for president is drawing misgivings from some of his colleagues on the religious right.

"We pray for Pat that Pat will have the wisdom to realize that he represents all of us, not just himself," the Rev. Jerry Falwell says.

He says he would advise his fellow evangelist: "Pat, we're not against you running. We like you, believe in you, but be very careful because just as Jerry Falwell can hurt us all, you can hurt us more now that you are running for president."

Jimmy Swaggart, a television evangelist whose World Ministry is headquartered in Baton Rouge, La., said recently that he hopes Robertson, an evangelical Christian who has all but declared his candidacy for the Republican nomination, does not run for president.

"I'm hoping I can talk him out of it," Swaggart said, adding that he doubts Robertson could draw support from beyond the fundamentalist Christian community.

Despite such expressions of concern, Robertson seems determined to press ahead with his campaign for the 1988 Republican presidential nomination.

In an interview last week in an office at Liberty University, which he founded 15 years ago, Falwell, a supporter of Vice President George Bush, said the Robertson candidacy could be helpful to the Republican Party.

"Pat's a party man," said Falwell, who began his involvement in Republican politics in 1979 when he formed the Moral Majority. "He likes the platform and he's going to bring his constituency in behind the candidate. The Republicans ought to be very, very grateful for what Pat Robertson is doing because in 1988, it's all an asset to the candidate."

But Falwell went on to warn that Robertson faces some hard going on a presidential campaign and he expressed concern about the impact on what he called "the evangelical cause at large."

A world of difference

By James Jacoby

When more than 70,000 players are simultaneously competing around the world, there is no way for one person's result to be sole best. In the Epson World Championship held last June 14, each possible result was assigned a score as a percentage and was announced as soon as a hand was over. At the end of the 24-deal tournament, the results were tabulated on a central computer in France, and the worldwide winners and rankings were known within 24 hours. Here is one such deal.

The final contract was almost always three no-trump. When East won the king of clubs at trick one and returned a club, declarer invariably led dummy's spade queen, unblocking his 10. A second successful spade finesse left dummy with the lead, and now declarer played a diamond to his king. A heart to dummy's jack followed by another diamond netted declarer 10 tricks for a score of 66 out of a possible 100.

No doubt someplace in the world a defender started with the club jack. East might now assume declarer to have Q-x-x of clubs and allow declarer to win the club queen at the first trick. If declarer now led a high diamond from his hand, East would win and continue with the club king. Declarer would now have to play carefully just to take nine tricks, working out an end play against West, who must guard both the diamond jack and the heart king. And making three no-trump would be only worth 27 out of 100, a poor score.

Minority school districts closing gap

HOUSTON (AP) — As minority children post rapid gains in math and reading scores, heavily minority school districts are closing the gap in statewide test reults, according to a recent survey.

But although the study still shows those areas score lower than other districts statewide, "we're not frustrated. We're making progress. We're seeing results," said John Sawyer III, superintendent of the predominantly black North Forest school district in Harris County.

His district posted the biggest gain in math and reading scores among Texas' 63 largest districts surveyed by the Texas Education News, a weekly industry newsletter. But it ranked near the bottom among Houston-area schools.

"You can plot it on a map," said Klein Superintendent Donald Collins, who heads a more affluent district. "You take a poorer district that is heavily minority — they just won't do as well, but they may be doing a supremely better job teaching."

Nevertheless, the survey showed dramatic improvements: Only 13 percent of black fifth-graders statewide could distinguish between fact and opinion in reading tests in 1980. Today, 85 percent can.

"We need to increase our expectations for minority kids," said Joe Pitts, superintendent of the Port Arthur district, which is 70 percent minority. "We think all children can learn."

State officials say minority scores have shown the most improvement because the test helped instructors focus on rudimentary skills.

Rangers whip Chicago again

by The Associated Press

The Texas Rangers' ability to manhandle the Chicago White Sox is keeping them in the race for the American League West pennant with just over a month left in the season.

The much-maligned Texas pitching staff held the White Sox to a total of six runs in sweeping a three-game weekend series. Charlie Hough and Mitch Williams combined on a four-hit, 3-2 victory Sunday night that improved the Rangers' record against the White Sox this season to 9-0.

"I sure can't explain why we've done so well against them," Rangers Manager Bobby Valentine said.

In other AL games Sunday, it was California 4, Baltimore 3; Oakland 11, New York 4; Seattle 3, Detroit 1; Cleveland 5, Boston 2; Toronto 7, Minnesota 5 in 10 innings; and Milwaukee 3, Kansas City 2 in 11 innings.

Angels 4, Orioles 3

Kirk McCaskill allowed five hits in 8 2-3 innings and California took advantage of Baltimore mistakes for two runs.

McCaskill, 14-7, who struck out eight batters and walked five, needed ninth-inning relief help from Donnie Moore, who got the last out for his 16th save after giving up an RBI single to John Shelby.

Indians 5, Red Sox 2

Phil Niekro, recovering from a sore elbow, held Boston to five hits for seven innings and Joe Carter and Julio Franco each hit two-run homers for Cleveland.

"The elbow feels fine. I hyperextended a little muscle in the back of it. I felt good after a few minutes in the bullpen," Niekro, 10-9, said after gaining his 310th career victory.

A's 11, Yankees 4

Alfredo Griffin tripled with the bases loaded and Mickey Tettleton finished a five-RBI game with a three-run homer as Oakland scored four runs in both the eighth and ninth innings to beat New York.

Tettleton, who was 1-for-1, walked with the bases loaded twice, the second time to tie the score 4-4 in the eighth. Griffin followed with a triple down the left-field line off losing pitcher Rod Scurry, 1-2.

Pohl wins golf series; nobody else wanted it

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - Dan Pohl was the first to acknowledge that he won the World Series of Golf with an escape act.

"I had a little bit of Houdini in me," Pohl said Sunday after he turned a scrambling, erratic 1-over-par 71 into a one-stroke victory, his second of the season.

Pohl hit only four fairways and seven greens on the revamped Firestone Country Club course, constantly coming out of the woods and weeds, the trees and traps and trouble.

But as he headed down the stretch former World Series champion Lanny Wadkins couldn't get the putts to fall and Donnie Hammond disappeared on a string of five bogeys over the last seven holes.

"I don't know if anybody knew if they wanted to win the golf tournament," Pohl said.

"I was never comfortable out there. I was moving the ball around in my stance. I'd hit it left. I'd do something else, and I'd hit it right."

It was rewarding to the extent of $126,000, the winner's share of the total purse of $700,000, and a 10-year exemption into any PGA Tour event.

"Very rewarding," said Pohl, who was making his first appearance in this elite event and scored his second career victory with a 3-under-par 277 total.

Wadkins, with a 2-over-par 72, eventually finished second at 278, closing to within one only when Pohl made a meaningless bogey on the 18th.

South African Bobby Cole came on with a solid 70 that lifted him to third and made him the only other man to break par. He finished one under at 279. John Mahaffey was next at 71-280.

Hammond's 74 sent him back into a tie for fifth at 281. Also at that figure were Australian Rodger Davis, Andy Bean and Tim Simpson.

Masters champion Jack Nicklaus' hopes for a sixth World Series title disappeared on a string of four consecutive bogeys - three of them on 3-putts - on the front. He shot 73-282.

Ladies get experience in Monahans tourney; play Cooper Tuesday

MONAHANS -- Snyder varsity managed runnerup consolation honors in the Monahans Varsity Volleyball Tournament here over the weekend after an early loss knocked them out of the championship bracket.

The Tigers fell to Denver City, a team which they later came back and defeated.

"Part of it was we scrimmaged them earlier in the week and subconsciously thought we could beat them before we ever got on the court," said Coach Vicki Nelms.

Snyder rallied from the loss to defeat Fort Stockton, Monahans, Midland Lee, and Denver City in a second meeting, before losing to Alpine in the consolation finals. Alpine won the contest 15-6, 15-8.

"Our girls were tired but they (Alpine) had the most valuable hitter (Priscilla Aguilar) and she was very good," said Nelms. "They reminded us a lot of Pecos. Pecos won the tournament."

Snyder, 5-2, got some good experience from the tournament.

"That's the main thing, getting some playing time. We consider this a learning experience for district."

Snyder suffered two casualities in the tourney. Tammy Williamson injured a knee in second match with Denver City and Becky Becerra injured an elbow in the match with Alpine.

Neither injury appears serious, but both were swollen, the coach said.

Shondra Robinson made the all-tournament team.

The Tigers return to action Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. when they host Abilene Cooper at the high school gym.

Below is a quick look at Snyder's matches in the tournament.

-Lost to Denver City, 14-16, 15-7, 12-15. Points: Sharnette Thompson scored 6, Denise Overton 13, Tammy Williamson 5, Donna Clay 6, Allison Adams 5, Shondra Robinson 6.

-Defeated Fort Stockton 15-9, 15-6. Points: Thompson 11, Overton 3, Williamson 8, Adams 7, Robinson 1.

-Defeated Monahans 15-4, 10-15, 15-13. Points: Thompson 7, Overton 4, Williamson 1, Clay 8, Adams 7, Robinson 12.

- Defeated Midland Lee, 15-9, 15-9. Points: Williamson 8, Thompson 5, Overton 3, Clay 3, Adams 9, Robinson 2.

- Defeated Denver City 8-15, 15-1, 15-4. Points: Williams 3, Thompson 10, Overton 11, Clay 3, Adams 9, Robinson 6.

- Lost to Alpine for consolation, 6-15, 8-15. Points: Becky Becerra 1, Leslie Ward 1, Thompson 4, Overton 2, Clay 3, Robinson 3.

JV second

MONAHANS -- Snyder junior varsity took second place in the Monahans JV Volleyball Tournament, held here over the weekend.

The Tiger team defeated Kermit, Andrews and Alpine before falling to Pecos in the finals, 4-15, 16-14, 7-15.

"I was really proud of the girls," said Coach Patty Grimmett. "They played good defense and hit well and even got a few blocks. We served really well. I think we've improved a lot from two-a-days. We're learning how to play together more."

Snyder JV will play again Tuesday, hosting Abilene Cooper at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

Pro football roundup...

Shula, whinin' Ryan clash

by The Associated Press

Buddy Ryan says Don Shula can't count and takes advantage of his status as one of the NFL's most powerful coaches. Shula says Ryan talks too much.

It may have been a preseason game, but Saturday night's 20-15 Dolphins victory over the Eagles certainly sparked strong words from both sides.

Ryan, who was hired as head coach in Philadelphia after masterminding the Chicago Bears' '46' defense, was upset with what he considered a clear violation of the rules by Shula and his Miami team.

"The rules in the National Football League are that you can huddle 11 guys," Ryan said. "He huddled 15. This is crazy what they let him get away with just because he's on the rules committee."

Shula and Pittsburgh's Chuck Noll are the only coaches on that committee.

What disturbed Ryan most was that the game officials didn't do anything. What bothered Shula most was Ryan's comments.

"It seems like Ryan's got something to say about everything," Shula said. "The only difference is going to be that at the end of this season, they're going to be looking at his won-loss record. They didn't do that when he was an assistant coach."

Aside from Miami's victory Saturday, St. Louis beat Chicago 14-7 in a game marred by a fight; the Los Angeles Rams took San Diego 20-17 in overtime; Washington took Tampa Bay 21-13; Cincinnati outscored Green Bay 34-12; Cleveland downed Atlanta 27-21; the New York Giants defeated the New York Jets 20-16; Indianapolis slipped past Detroit 20-13; Buffalo beat Kansas City 13-6; Houston clipped New Orleans 24-13; and Denver defeated San Francisco 14-9.

On Friday, it was Pittsbugh 41, Dallas 28; the Los Angeles Raiders 24, New England 10; and Seattle 27, Minnesota 17.

The exhibition season concludes next week.

Dolphins 20, Eagles 15

Trailing 15-10, Miami took its first lead on Lorenzo Hampton's 19-yard scoring run with 8:22 left in the third quarter. That finished an 80-yard drive led by backup quarterback Don Strock, who played the second half in relief of Dan Marino.

Marino completed 10 of 17 passes for 123 yards and one touchdown.

Cardinals 14, Bears 7

Except for the fighting, all of the action was packed into the first half. The Cardinals went ahead when wide receiver Roy Green took a lateral from quarterback Neil Lomax and hit J.T. Smith with a 31-yard touchdown pass in the first period. Only 30 seconds later, Chicago's Mike Tomczak threw a 23-yard touchdown pass to Willie Gault.

Lomax' tie-breaking nine-yard touchdown pass to Ottis Anderson with 24 seconds left in the half was the winning score.

The brawl began with 4:40 remaining in the third quarter. Keith Van Horne of the Bears, who was ejected, claimed he saw teammate Keith Ortego get kicked.

Chicago tight end Pat Dunsmore came to their aid in front of the St. Louis bench.

Besides Van Horne, those ejected from the nationally televised contest were Cardinals Lionel Washington, Anderson and Charlie Baker.

Rams 20, Chargers 17, OT

Jim Laughlin outfought San Diego's Kellen Winslow for a pass 20 seconds into overtime and returned the interception to the Chargers' 10. Immediately, the Rams went for the field goal and Mike Lansford hit from 27 yards.

Redskins 21, Bucs 13

Washington overcame a 13-0 deficit as rookie safety Todd Bowles returned an interception 26 yards for a touchdown, then Rick Badanjek had a two-yard touchdown run.

A couple of former USFL players spurred the clinching 53-yard drive.

HAS THIS EVER HAPPENED TO YOU?
Auto Accident?
Even a minor fender-bender can cause whiplash, spinal misalignment, pinched nerves, and muscle spasms, which, if undetected and uncorrected, can make your body susceptible to arthritis, joint degeneration, disc degeneration or other serious problems.
Most Insurance Plans Cover Chiropractic.
Following any auto accident, no matter how minor, it is important — and makes good common sense — to get a chiropractic checkup.
We offer free consultation and spinal function test. If x-rays and treatment are indicated, automobile, liability, no-fault, and/or group health insurance usually cover the costs in full.

SOME PEOPLE BUY AIR CONDITIONERS LIKE THERE'S NO TOMORROW.
When it's time to replace your old air conditioner, it'll probably only take you a little while to find a new one that looks pretty good and doesn't cost much. But it'll take a lot longer to realize a quick bargain is likely to cause a slow burn on your wallet every month.

A high-efficiency air conditioner could make a difference in your cooling costs this summer and every summer. A high-efficiency choice means steady savings because you're getting the same amount of cooling using less electricity than with a low-efficiency unit. On top of this, you'll get a valuable rebate from your electric company if your central air conditioner or window unit meets our Energy Action standards.
See your recognized Energy Action air conditioning contractor or dealer for help in choosing a high-efficiency air conditioner or heat pump. Tomorrow, you'll be way ahead of the game.
It pays to choose an Energy Action Unit.

Chernobyl conference now underway

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Nuclear industry experts from more than 50 countries began a five-day meeting today to discuss a Soviet report that says human error caused the Chernobyl disaster.

More than 500 experts were going over the 382-page report on the April 26 accident at a conference sponsored by the International Atomic Energy Agency. The United Nations agency provides expertise and support for peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

"The accident is traced above all to human failures," said Austrian scientist Walter Binner, director of the Institute for Reactor Safety near Vienna.

"The service personnel in Chernobyl could turn off some safety systems manually and that apparently is what happened. So you naturally ask yourself what good are safety systems if they can be blocked by human misjudgment," said Binner, who received the report last week.

The conference is closed to the public, but some of the contents of the report have already been made public by the news media and the Soviets.

"More information will probably come out in dribs and drabs during the course of the week," said an agency official. He spoke on condition of anonymity.

The Soviets have said human error was almost exclusively to blame for the steam and chemical explosions that tore open Chernobyl's No. 4 reactor on April 26, setting off a fire and releasing radiation into the air.

A report in The New York Times last Friday citing the Soviet study said it raised the possibility that 6,500 people will die prematurely because of the accident at the Ukrainian power plant.

Fish, vegetation and buildings near the plant will remain contaminated, according to the newspaper, and topsoil scraped up in parts of the 1,000 square mile evacuation zone was buried elsewhere as contaminated waste.

The accident at the plant 80 miles north of Kiev killed at least 31 people, released radioactivity over much of the world, forced the evacuation of 135,000 people and caused $2.8 billion in damages.

The 28-member Soviet delegation is headed by Professor Valery Legasov, deputy director of the I.V. Kurchatov Institute of Atomic Energy, the nation's leading nuclear power authority.

Western diplomats, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Legasov would likely be asked to elaborate on the report, which was prepared in two parts. The first explains the accident's causes and the second is a supplement describing the reactor design, medical and environmental consequences of the accident and the decontamination project.

The agency official said East-West tensions are unlikely at the conference because it will deal mainly with technical issues.

Legasov told reporters Thursday at a news conference in Moscow that shortly before the accident, workers at Chernobyl were testing how long a turbine could be kept operating during a simulated power failure at a nuclear reactor.

Workers committed six safety violations responsible for the two blasts, he said. For example, they turned off the reactor's automatic shutdown system and the emergency cooling system, he said.

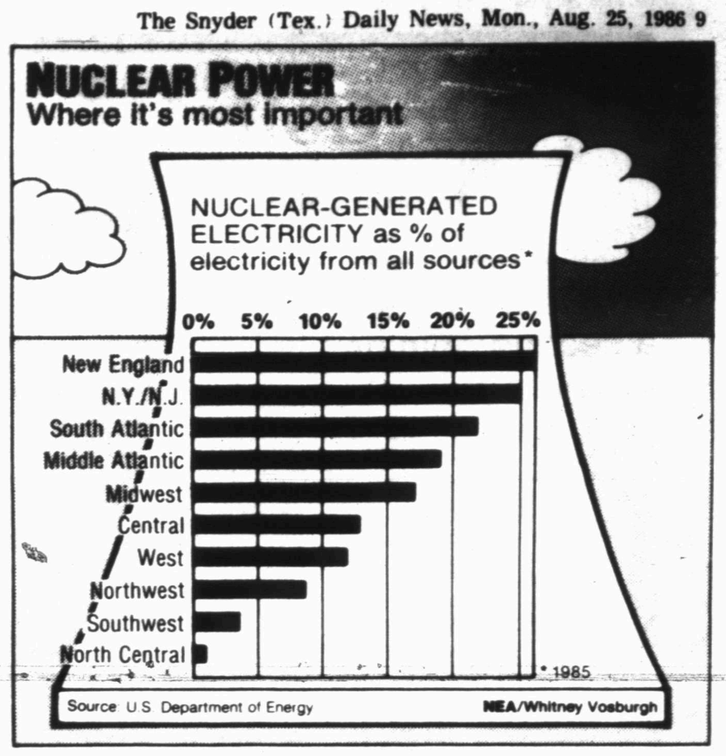

At the news conference, Soviet officials said the disaster dealt a serious blow to the country's nuclear power program.

They said the accident was forcing officials to consider locating reactors outside populated areas and redesigning plants so workers could not override safety systems.

The officials said radiation around reactor No. 4 remains at "several roentgens per hour," hundreds of times the normal background level.

At a separate meeting convened by the International Atomic Energy Agency in response to Chernobyl, 62 nations agreed Aug. 15 on two draft conventions providing for mutual assistance and information in case of most nuclear accidents.

Those documents are to be submitted to all 112 member nations for approval at a three-day conference next month.

In most East Coast areas, nuclear power provides about one-quarter of all electricity generated — more than in any other U.S. regions.

New report claims Soviets thought plane was spying

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence information shows that Soviet military officers believed they were firing at an American reconnaissance plane when they ordered the downing of a South Korean airliner three years ago, according to a magazine article.

The article said President Reagan had "initially rushed to judgement" in concluding — on the basis of preliminary intelligence reports — that the Soviets had knowingly shot down a civilian airliner for intruding into their airspace.

The president and other top officials "chose to look the other way when better information became available about the Soviet confusion of Flight 007 with longstanding American reconnaissance missions," the story said. "Those who ran the American government did not want to learn that the Soviets had been honestly confused and panic-stricken about the enemy intruder."

The article, appearing in the September issue of The Atlantic, was written by journalist Seymour M. Hersh. It will be part of his upcoming book on the incident in which 269 people died on Sept. 1, 1983.

State Department spokeswoman Anita Stockman said Sunday night the department would have no comment on Hersh's article. She said many of the points it raised had been addressed by U.S. officials in the past.

Hersh has been investigating the plane's downing for two years, and was invited to the Soviet Union in May 1984 to interview top Soviet military officials. Hersh received the Pulitzer Prize in 1970 for having exposed the My Lai massacre in Vietnam, and won a National Book Critics Circle award for his book on Henry Kissinger.

The story says the Korean Air Lines 747 was off course due to errors by the crew in programming the jetliner's computerized inertial navigation system, which controlled the automatic pilot.

In fact, the error that led eventually led to the plane's flight path over sensitive Soviet military installations occurred before the plane ever left the ground at Anchorage, Alaska, for its trip to Seoul. The flight engineer entered a single wrong digit into the computer, and the crew somehow failed to catch the error during the flight, according to Hersh.

"The Sea of Okhotsk was not the place for a commercial passenger plane to have lost its way," Hersh wrote. "The sea is the home waters of the Soviet Union's navy in the Far East ... a refuge for ballistic-missile submarines capable of striking targets in the United States."

The article said the Soviet SU-15 interceptor pilot who tracked the airliner from behind and locked his missile system onto the target never visually identified the aircraft as his regulations required.

As he was given the order to fire, the article said, he exclaimed, "Oh, my God! (Yolki palki!)"

SHL agenda is projected

Texas Department on Aging to prepare a teaching manual to be made available to senior citizens' centers to train women to care for patients recuperating from serious illnesses or surgery. "Those who have been in the hospital often need care at home once they have been released. Many women do not want to care for them because they haven't been trained to do so," he added.

Downing noted additional committees that will meet during the regular session include state affairs, long-term care, community services, law enforcement, ways and means, education, housing, utilities, insurance, health and employment.

He added that issues concerning health care, including the Meals on Wheels program, and medical insurance will be the items of major concern facing SHL representatives this fall.

Because the Silver Haired Legislature is new to Texas, its impact on state issues this year is uncertain. But Downing believes that clout from the organization will definitely be felt in the future because "the over-60 age group has become the biggest voting block that is likely to vote alike on the issues."

Regarding issues that will require state funding, Downing noted that SHL participants must "be as tough as they (state lawmakers) are. It will not be wise to go after them with a new program that's going to cost a lot of money. I don't think there will be requests for new money, but I think there will be requests for reinstatement of items that have already been cut."

Each SHL committee will prepare a platform to be discussed by the entire body. Recommendations by the group will then be forwarded to the state representatives for consideration.

He added that the senior legislators will elect their own Speaker of the House when they meet in the House chambers in Austin. "The SHL Speaker will sit through the state legislature's sessions next year," Downing explained. "If an item goes to committee, he will be responsible for securing witnesses from the SHL committee where it originated."

Downing was elected on May 30 to represent the estimated 21,765 senior adults over 60 years of age in District 3 of the West Central Texas Council of Governments. District 3 encompasses 12 counties including Knox, Kent, Stonewall, Haskell, Throckmorton, Fisher, Shackelford, Stephens, Mitchell, Nolan, Callahan and Scurry.

Born in Stephens County, he is a graduate of Breckenridge High School and Rice University. He moved to Snyder in 1973 after a 17-year stint as the chamber of commerce manager in Midland.

An honorary Lion and a life member of the Jaycees, Downing has also been a member of Rotary International for 38 years.

He is married to the former Dorothy Ezell of Snyder.

Tommy Guynes appearance set

Tommy Guynes will be talking about fire prevention and safety when he visits the Senior Center on Tuesday. His program will begin at 11:30 a.m.

Two museums slate closings

The Scurry County Museum and the Diamond M Museum of Fine Art will be closed Aug. 30-Sept. 1 for the Labor Day weekend. Both will resume their regular schedule on Sept. 2.

Soviet spy's contact was 'perfectly legal'

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1983, a Soviet employee of the United Nations chatted up a college student, but the relationship did not become illegal until three years later with an exchange of classified information, the FBI says.

The charges against Gennadiy Fedorovich Zakharov after his arrest on a subway platform Saturday night illustrate how the Soviets often maintain legal contacts with Americans before pumping them for secrets, the FBI says.

"The Soviets and their surrogates have an insatiable appetite for our scientific, technical defense information," Lane Bonner, spokesman for the FBI in Washington, said Sunday night. "Academic contacts are not unusual. Often, they are not outside the law."

The unidentified Queens College computer science student notified the FBI as soon as Zakharov approached him, authorities said.

Zakharov, who authorities said does not have diplomatic immunity, could be sentenced to life in prison if convicted on espionage charges. He's scheduled to be arraigned today in federal court.

Zakharov, assigned to the United Nations Center for Science and Technology for Development, told the student he needed assistance in obtaining material on robotics and computer technology and for two years paid him thousands of dollars for unclassified information stolen from libraries and other sources, the FBI said.

After the student, a U.S. permanent resident, graduated, he went to work in September 1985 for a New York firm that is a subcontractor for defense contractors Bendix and General Electric, something Zakharov allegedly had encouraged him to do.

The company manufactures unclassified precision components for military aircraft engines and in radars.

Disturbance cases noted

Police are investigating two misdemeanor assault complaints filed over the weekend.

Both arose from domestic disturbance calls but no arrests were reported in either case.

In other weekend action, city officers jailed 10 suspects on misdemeanor charges including three suspects each for driving while intoxicated and public intoxication and two for being intoxicated on a premises licensed to sell alcohol.

One man was jailed on a county warrant for misdemeanor assault issued earlier in the week and another was arrested for unlawfully carrying a weapon.

dent as a case of aggravated assault with no arrest made in the case.

In a second case, police say they do not expect charges to be filed in connection with a stabbing incident reported here Saturday night.

Officers were called by Cogdell Memorial Hospital personnel at 12:53 a.m. Sunday when 42-year-old Don A. Salgado of 3802 Muriel Dr. appeared at the emergency room seeking treatment for a stab wound to the left abdomen.

According to police reports, the stabbing apparently occurred during the course of an altercation at a residence in the 1600 Block of 27th St.

Investigation of the incident was continuing Monday but detectives said Salgado had indicated he would not press charges Saturday night.

Girl strangled on 'spur of moment'

WATAUGA, Texas (AP) — The slaying of a 5-year-old girl, whose strangled body was found next to a furniture store's dumpster, apparently happened on the spur of the moment after something angered her killer, police say.

A 20-year-old neighbor, Vicki Lynn Kirkpatrick, was arrested early Sunday and held without bond on an investigative charge of murder in connection with the slaying of Renee Greer, police said.

"It's not something (the killer) planned for a long time," said Hurst police investigator Steve Moore, who added that formal charges are pending. "That's all I can say about it now."

Ms. Kirkpatrick was arrested after authorities questioned her for about 1½ hours at her home across the street from Renee's, police said.

Moore said he knew of no problems between Ms. Kirkpatrick and Renee's family. Although Ms. Kirkpatrick had babysat for other neighborhood children, she never kept Renee.

The arrest came about 11 hours after Renee's body was discovered among some discarded boxes near a dumpster in Hurst, about 10 miles from her home in this Fort Worth suburban city.

The child was last seen shortly after 6 p.m. Friday at Ms. Kirkpatrick's home, where she had been playing with Ms. Kirkpatrick's nieces, neighbors and police said.

Tarrant County Medical Examiner Nizam Peerwani ruled Sunday after completing an autopsy that Renee died of strangulation.

An off-duty Hurst police officer reported Saturday that he saw a 1973 Buick believed to be Ms. Kirkpatrick's driving around the parking lot Friday night at the Hurst furniture store, Moore said.

The off-duty officer also saw the car back up to the dumpster where Renee's body was found, Moore told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The Greer family had no comment, said Karen Golder, a family friend who fielded reporters' questions Sunday at the home of Renee's parents, Michael and Cheryl Greer.

"They're leaving it to the police," Golder said.

A 22-hour search ended Saturday afternoon when Renee's body was found behind the trash bin.

Two women looking for boxes in a dumpster discovered the girl's body about 1:45 p.m. Saturday. She was fully clothed — still wearing the purple shorts and flowered shirt she had on when she disappeared — with no visible marks on her body, police said.

Obituaries

Ike Kimzey

BIG SPRING–Services for Ike Kimzey, 59, were held at 2 p.m. Monday at the Myers and Smith Funeral Home Chapel. Burial was to follow in the Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Born in Scurry County, Kimzey died Friday afternoon in a Big Spring Hospital. He was reared in Hermleigh and moved to Big Spring in 1965.

He was a retired farmer and a member of the Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Margaret, of Big Spring; two sons, W. D. Kimzey and Bud Kimzey, both of Fort Worth; and a daughter, Helen Kimzey of Odessa.

Four teenagers returning to home in Beirut

AUSTIN (AP) — A summer vacation from strife has ended for four teen-agers, two Christian and two Moslem.

"I'm going to miss peace," 18-year-old Gladiss Elias Tannoury said Saturday as she left Texas for her home in Beirut.

The four teen-agers came to Austin for six weeks under a program sponsored by the Children's Committee 10 of California. The program pairs teens of different faiths and arranges for them to stay together away from war to get to know each other in a way they could not at home.

WTC instructor sets counseling hours at WTC

Students planning to enroll in word processing or general business courses at Western Texas College this fall are invited to visit with Joann Snider, office careers instructor, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Snider will be in her office in the Occupational-Technical Building (Building 7A) from 2:30-4:30 p.m. Wednesday to talk with students and help them their schedules.

WTC added a new word processing major in the 1985-86 school year and is one of only six colleges in Texas offering this major. Students interested in that major may consult the college catalog for the complete two-year curriculum.

Other office careers courses on the fall schedule include typing, introduction to business, shorthand, business mathematics, and automated accounting.

Tammy Wesson will also be teaching in office careers courses this semester.

Births

Adrianna Hermosillo would like to announce the birth of her baby sister, Tatiana Ramona, who weighed eight pounds and two ounces born at 6:30 a.m. Thursday at Scenic Mountain Medical Center in Big Spring. The proud parents are Javier and Margie Hermosillo. Grandparents are Ramona Alverez and Bobby and Mary Gutierrez.

M. Anderson on Dean's List

Margaret Anderson, daughter of L. V. and Elsie Anderson of Snyder, was named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at North Texas State University.

Anderson has a 4.0 grade point average for the spring semester. Students on the Dean's List must have a 4.0 GPA while enrolled for at least 15 hours.

Anderson will be enrolling at NTSU as a senior student in the fall semester. She has spent the summer as a Baptist Student Union missionary at the Gana Center in Houston. There she assisted in sorting and distributing food and clothing to needy families and teaching in Vacation Bible School.

Peter Gott, M.D.

Problem merits a second opinion

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — About two years ago, my family doctor found blood in my urine. A urologist found no problems in the kidneys or bladder and treated me for a bladder infection. I still have a constant urge to urinate, but have a burning sensation and can release only a few drops. My gynecologist says that I do not have a dropped bladder. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER — Get a second urological opinion. You may indeed have a chronic urinary infection, despite your treatment; you may have some abnormality of the bladder lining, an obstruction to the outflow of urine (stenosis) or an irritation of the urethra (the tube leading from the bladder). A second — or third — opinion is what you need, as well as a cystoscopy, during which the urologist examines your lower urinary tract with a lighted tube.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 17 and have a small bump near my vagina. It is not an open sore and doesn't bleed, but it's painful at times when touched. Because of an incident with a doctor when I was 12, I am frightened about seeing a physician. What would you do in my situation?

DEAR READER — From your description, I'd say that you have a small cyst or ingrown hair. However, you really do need an examination.

I'm sorry to hear that you had an unpleasant medical incident five years ago. This can happen, particularly to children, but most practicing doctors take great pains to avoid this sort of thing.

I think it's fair to say that you will need medical attention, sooner or later, as you grow older. Since you might eventually have to modify or overcome your fear, why not do it now? In your situation, I would find a caring, sensitive physician whom you can learn to trust. Perhaps you would feel more comfortable with a woman doctor. In any case, you should look for the kind of doctor who will best serve you. Try to put your fears behind you.

To give you some help, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, CHOOSING A PHYSICIAN: MAKE A DECISION FOR GOOD HEALTH. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is celiac disease? Is it curable? Are there any dietary restrictions?

DEAR READER — Celiac disease, also known as sprue or gluten-induced enteropathy, is caused by a chemical defect that is usually present from birth. Patients cannot digest the gluten in certain grains, notably wheat. People with celiac disease also might be intolerant to lactose, the sugar contained in milk products. The disease produces abdominal distension, fatigue, vomiting and diarrhea, and there may be prodigious amounts of gas. The stool is often foul-smelling, pale and so light (because of undigested material) that it floats in the bowl.

Dietary restriction is the most satisfactory treatment. Celiac patients should avoid gluten (found in wheat products) by substituting rice and corn flour, should maintain a high-protein/high-calorie diet and should take vitamin supplements. Followup care by a gastroenterologist, with help from a nutritionist, is appropriate. For more information, contact the Celiac-Sprue Association (P.O. Box 3554, Des Moines, IA 50322).

DEAR READERS: A recent column on CEBV virus contained an error regarding mail-order information.

The column implied that The Tucson CEBV Support Group provided free information — which isn't the case — and failed to mention the envelope-size requirement.

To correct this: Readers who wish to receive the most recent CEBV information must send $2 plus a stamped, self-addressed, legal-sized envelope to The Tucson CEBV Support Group (2509 N. Campbell Ave., Suite 91, Tucson, AZ 85719).

For practical and financial reasons, the Tucson group can only fill orders that meet these requirements. Therefore, if you wrote them earlier, please try again — this time enclosing the $2 and the large SASE. Allow six to eight weeks for delivery, since heavy demand has required reprinting.

Tax bill called 'catastrophe'

AUSTIN (AP) — Higher education officials are attacking the latest federal tax reform bill, saying it could cost the nation's universities hundreds of millions of dollars in donations.

The tax revisions approved in committee this month are the "greatest catastrophe for higher education in 25 years," says Sheldon Steinbach, counsel for the American Council on Education.

"As a matter of public policy it might seem like a good idea, but as a matter of social policy it's just terrible," said Steinbach, whose group represents 1,500 colleges and universities.

Officials also are complaining that the tax bill would impair large private schools' ability to raise money for buildings and put new burdens on students who rely on financial aid.

A provision of the bill that most concerns educators would eliminate the current tax advantages of gifts of appreciated property, such as real estate or stocks that have increased in value since the donor bought them.

"Appreciated property is where many of the biggest gifts are coming from, but the change in the tax law would make it more expensive to give away your property than to sell it," said Patricia Hayes, president of St. Edward's University and chairman of a national tax policy committee for independent colleges and universities.

Steinbach estimated that the change could cut as much as $600 million from the $6.5 billion in donations the nation's colleges receive each year.

In the University of Texas System, the change could affect up to 10 percent of the $100 million in gifts received each year by system institutions, said Don Leverty, who represents UT in Washington.

Higher education officials are also concerned about provisions of the bill that could make charitable gifts less attractive in general.

Taxpayers who don't itemize could no longer deduct charitable contributions, which might deter new alumni from getting into the habit of giving to their schools, officials said.

But Rick Eason, vice president for development at Southwestern University in Georgetown, said the lower tax rates could result in increased donations from some people.

"A lot of people budget their gifts to Southwestern monthly, so if their tax burden is reduced there is a possibility they will have more money to give away," he said. "While I'm really concerned about the proposed bill, I also think it's too early to tell exactly what the net result is going to be."

McDonald's has Welding Machines and Supplies

McDonald Welding Supply has gained a reputation for service, and for good reason. The staff at McDonald Welding Supply comes early and stays late. This is especially important to the area's busy oil fields, and this is why so many companies have depended on McDonald Welding Supply for their supply needs.

The firm serves an area bounded by Sweetwater to Loraine to Colorado City and Big Spring and back to Snyder. The Company has three 18 foot bobtail trucks for delivery to farms, businesses and well locations.

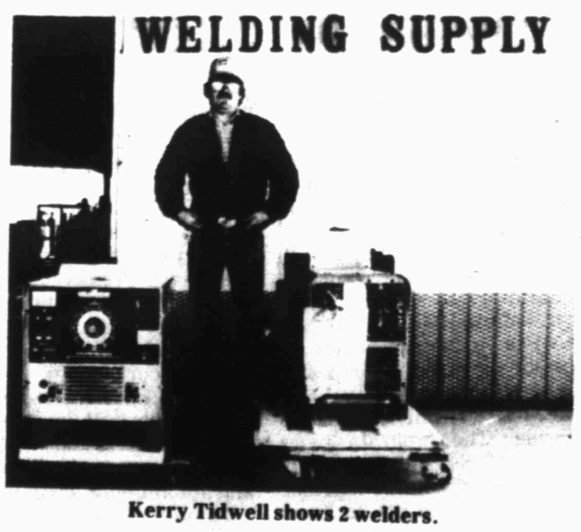

In stock at McDonald Welding Supply is the Miller and Lincolin Welding equipment line, which includes small engine drives and electric machine for farm and home use. They also have a large stock of smaller welders. They vary in size and can fit in the rear of a foreign truck as well as a two-ton truck. In addition, they carry Victor and Uniweld welding and cutting equipment and Walton vises.

If you need steel for oilfield fabrication, you can find exactly what you need at McDonald Welding Supply. The firm has a complete line of Milwaukee heavy duty electric drills and grinders. They have Williams hammer wrenches and heavy tools.

Safety equipment of all types is stocked including goggles, first aid kits and refills, hard hats, liners and fire extinguishers. This popular business also stocks chains, cable, tubing and chain hoists. They have recently added a complete line of Grade "8" Hard Bolts and Nuts in sizes from 5/16 to 1 ¼. Blocks as well as all types of pulleys may be added to the list.

The available list of supplies is almost endless, just ask for it. Stop by and see Gayle or Jack McDonald and the staff at McDonald Welding Supply, 1110 College Ave.
