Allred Dramatically Enters Inquiry

Grant Of $67,000 For Texas Tech Stadium Is Cancelled

Knapp Says That Further Study Of Project Promised

Coach Pete Cawthon Hints At Other Plans If Present Ones Fall Through; Loans And Grants Of Various Proportions In Other Cities Approved While Many Are Being Pared

TERSE announcement late Saturday that cancellations of allotments of Public Works administration, on eve of the deadline for start of work on all PWA projects, would include Texas Technological college stadium plans, was made by the Associated Press at Washington.

The announcement, only indirectly explained, said PWA announced approval of loans and grants totaling $1,679,910 for new Texas projects, saying that financing of the new construction was made possible by cancellation of allotments for work which could not be started immediately. It furthermore was announced that the new adjustment of funds for the state left a balance of $2,083,431 for still other projects.

Hard on the heels of information the $67,000 grant which had been allotted for a great stadium here had been cancelled there came two messages which might be interpreted as somewhat reassuring.

Further Study Promised

President Bradford Knapp, Tech president, was quoted by the Associated Press at Washington as saying that although PWA had announced cancellation of the stadium project here further consideration would be given. Dr. Knapp said he'd conferred with PWA officials in Washington Saturday on the Tech application and had been promised another hearing on Monday.

P. W. Cawthon, head coach and athletic director of Tech, was in Dallas. The Associated Press quoted him as saying if the stadium cancellation is final he will propose that "other plans, which previously had been discussed, be pursued in building the stadium." The coach said he had no idea why the project was cancelled. He said he was "extremely sorry" at hearing the announcement.

Hedrick In Washington

Attempt to reach Wyatt C. Hedrick, Fort Worth architect who drew plans for the proposed stadium, failed. The Associated Press reported he was in Washington. His associates had not been advised of the new situation.

Elaborate preparation for putting all resources into readiness should a supplementary loan of $83,000 asked of PWA have been approved, were made here. Contract for the stadium tentatively was awarded, Field Bros. and W. G. McMillan of Lubbock, low bidders, receiving it.

It was recognized the contract could not definitely be let before approval of the PWA loan.

Two federal PWA representatives, T. R. Vinson and Herm Greenhaw, were in attendance when bids were opened and tabulated.

Specifications Given

Aged Trustee Of Baylor Is Death Victim

George W. Carroll, 80, Dies At Beaumont; Was Once Candidate For Vice President; Great Philanthropist

(By The Associated Press)

BEAUMONT, Dec. 14.—George W. Carroll, sr., philanthropist and trustee of Baylor university, died of pneumonia in a local hospital this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

He was 80 years old and had lived here the last 62 years.

Running on the prohibition ticket, Mr. Carroll was a candidate for vice president of the United States in 1904 and two years prior had been nominated for governor on the same ticket.

Leading Prohibitionist

He was one of the leading prohibitionists of the state, and a large part of his fortune went to aid the prohibition cause. Almost all the rest of it was given to aid Baptist education in Texas.

His largest single gift was $100,000 to Baylor university. It was from this money that the science hall at the college was built. At the same time, his father gave the school a like sum, from which the Baylor chapel was built.

Mr. Carroll was at one time one of the state's wealthiest men, his fortune pouring in from his holdings in the Spindle Top oil field here and from his lumber interests throughout this section of Texas. He gave away practically all of this to aid causes in which he believed.

Always Carried Umbrella

He was a well known figure who made his trips to town and back always on foot, and who was never without an umbrella hooked over his arm. Mr. Carroll's health began failing several weeks ago, and a few days before his death he suffered an attack of pneumonia.

Funeral services will be held here Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Another Puzzle In Tangled Skein Of Career Is Solved

EDMOND, Okla., Dec. 14. (AP)—Officers believed another puzzle in the tangled skein of Chester Comer's mad career was solved tonight with discovery of the charred remains of a young woman's nude body—perhaps that of his long-missing second wife.

The father of Lucille Stevens Comer was en route here from Maysville to view the body found by a farmer and his son clearing underbrush in a gully by a road 3 1-2 miles northwest of here.

Key Witness In Slaying Missing

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 14. (AP)—A mysterious key witness in the machine gun slaying of Publisher Walter Liggett was missing tonight and investigators feared for his safety.

The witness, a man who was believed to have obtained a good look at the assassins as he stood in the alley near the scene of the slaying, has vanished along with a woman he frequently visited in an apartment nearby, authorities said.

Without identifying the man, investigators said they have learned he stood in the alley as the assassins' car slowly moved past him. He narrowly escaped being run down, managing to dodge into an apartment house doorway.

Investigators said they were convinced members of the assassins' gang would attempt to kill the man unless law enforcement authorities could reach him first and place him in hiding.

Great Britain Is On Defense Before World

New Diplomatic Disclosures Bob Up Saturday To Further Embarrass England; Pressure On Selassie Planned

Mussolini Is Cool

Guns On African Front Said Relatively Quiet But Accident Kills American; Italian Bomb Goes Off

(By The Associated Press)

DIPLOMATIC disclosures bobbed up Saturday to embarrass further the British government already on the defensive for its part in the peace plan it worked out with France.

An official foreign office "white paper" disclosed:

1. That Great Britain instructed its minister to Addis Ababa to use strong pressure upon Emperor Haile Selassie to have him accept the peace plan.

2. Britain hinted to Premier Mussolini that if he would negotiate over the formula a threatened League oil sanction would be called off.

Few Friends Found

The plan found few friends except in official London and Paris circles.

Even Premier Mussolini who, League officials estimated, would receive direct control of two-thirds of Ethiopia under it, was cool.

Il Duce asked for "clarification" of the formula and indicated he would give his answer after a midnight meeting of his Fascist grand council next Wednesday.

Guns Are Quiet

Guns on the African front were relatively quiet but a tragic accident killed an American missionary in Ethiopia.

Dr. Robert W. Hockman, 28, formerly of Wheaton, Ill., died when an unexploded Italian bomb he was handling Friday at Daggah Bur

Oklahoma Section Scourged By Dust

Fear Of Recurrence Of Spring Dusters Is Felt As Cold Wind Stirs Loose Topsoil

(By The Associated Press)

GUYMON, Okla., Dec. 14.—Blowing dust scourged the Oklahoma Panhandle again today, but less severely than last spring's daylight blotters.

A cold north wind stirred loose topsoil from barren fields, but the dust found the people of the Panhandle with the preparations to fight it.

Visibility Reduced

The sweeping silt reduced visibility to a quarter-mile striking the countryside with fear of a recurrence of the April and May dusters.

Absence of moisture, even in the subsoil, made the land easy prey to the wind. Texas county has had only 11.05 inches of rain in a year, and only .83 inch in the last two months.

No Moisture Found

"We are not able to find subsoil moisture anywhere," said Herb Cavett, manager of an erosion control project north of Guymon.

Dust prevention plans have been made, but men have not been available for the 25,000-acre project. Cavett said he asked the Works Progress administration for 196 men and got only 60. He said the shortage resulted from higher wage scales in surrounding states and the fact that farmers accepting rural rehabilitation loans were ineligible for the work.

AIR IS CLOUDED

AMARILLO, Dec. 14. (AP)—A 15-mile an hour wind clouded the air with fine dust late today.

Lower temperatures accompanied Amarillo's latest dust storm. The forecast was for fair as well as colder weather, however. A low of 30 degrees was predicted.

Hauptmann Is Calm As News Is Given Him

Spiritual Adviser Claims That Condemned Man Knew What Was Coming But Believes He Is To Be Spared

(By The Associated Press)

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 14.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted murderer of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, learned today that the week of January 13 has been set for his death in the electric chair.

With grave politeness he thanked the unnamed prison guard who brought him the news, and reiterated his conviction that "something will happen so I won't go to the chair."

A short time later he received a visit from his spiritual adviser, the Rev. John Matthiesen, of Trenton, who found him as cool and composed as he had been throughout the six weeks' trial at Flemington.

"He knew what was coming up," the minister said. "The news really made no impression on him. He is full of confidence in the fact that the state of New Jersey does not intend to permit a murder."

Should all of the eleventh hour efforts of his attorneys fail to save him, Hauptmann will probably go to the chair exactly a month from today. Although he may be executed any time during the week designated, the custom at state prison is to have executions on Tuesday night about 8 p. m.

Another minor flurry in the day's events was the published report that Joseph Schag, extradited here from Dallas, Tex., on a six-year-old robbery charge, was in reality a "secret witness" in the Hauptmann-Lindbergh case. The prosecutor's office ridiculed the reports.

New Program For Security Being Offered

Plans Outlined

Good And Steady Wages For Workers And Fair Prices For Produce Of Farmers Are Declared Necessary

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Outlining a new seven-point social security program, Secretary Perkins called tonight for cooperation of labor and management "with the government standing by to aid."

The labor secretary held such "cooperative activity and understanding" not only would consolidate industrial gains since the depression's low point, but also would carry the nation into an era of "greater security."

Profits Important

While citing the "vital importance" of profits in industry, Miss Perkins told the New York County Lawyers association that "good and steady wages for workers and fair prices for the produce of farmers" were necessary for a "sound" prosperity.

In Washington, meanwhile, George L. Berry, President Roosevelt's coordinator for industrial cooperation, postponed the first meeting of his new industrial council scheduled originally to meet "within a few days" after last Monday's turbulent labor-industry conference.

Program Outlined

The seven-point program for "modern social security" outlined by Miss Perkins:

"(1) Regularity and stabilization of industry so that there may be regularity of employment and prevention of unemployment.

"(2) Wage payments and rates on the highest possible levels consistent with keeping prices and financial stability of the industry in a healthy condition.

"(3) Hours short enough to preserve the human values of the workers.

"(4) Thoughtful management with a social consciousness that leads inevitably to these considerations of inter-relationship between wages, profits, dividends and community welfare.

"(5) Expansion of industry in the direction of human needs and stable profits rather than hit or miss extension for quick misleading returns.

"(6) Civilized relations between employers and their workers and a genuine bargaining on conditions of work.

"(7) A systematic method of providing individuals with income against predictable loss of earning power such as old age, unemployment, dependency in families by death or disability of wage earners."

Governor Shouts And Beats Table As Charges Made

Recriminations Echo As Executive Hurls Into Record His Heated Shards Accusing Hickman With Faking Raid And With Giving Tip-Offs To Gambling Establishments

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 14.—Governor James V. Allred told a legislative investigating committee in a tense hearing today that Tom Hickman, ranger captain recently discharged had failed to close gambling establishments as ordered and had staged a fake raid.

The hearing was held immediately after the governor dramatically appeared in the capitol press room, where members of the committee were conversing, and demanded that he be allowed to testify as to events leading up to Hickman's release by the public safety department.

Says Officials Slurred

In a statement read into the record, Governor Allred, in addition to charging that the former ranger captain had been dilatory in moving against gambling resorts, declared politics was behind the investigation and that public officials had been slurred.

He asserted that while he was governor "big shot" gambling could not operate in Texas and the state was not yet ready for the "gross liberalism of Chicago or the big time racketeers of the east."

During cross-examination by Chairman Sam Hanna of Dallas and Rep. John Atchison of Gainesville, he pounded the table with his fists and shouted a denunciation of what he said was the "unfair" manner in which the majority had conducted the investigation. Rep. J. B. Ford of McGregor, the other committeeman, also was present.

Formal Hearing Demanded

The governor's visit to the press room followed a declaration by Atchison that he would not admit Allred's statement into the record unless it was given at a formal hearing.

"I'm ready to testify right now," he shouted, bursting into the room. "Get a court reporter to take the testimony and ask me any questions you want to."

A reporter was hastily summoned from the county courthouse, and a little group of committeemen, the governor, his secretary and newspapermen marched to a house of representatives committee room. They were soon joined by L. G. Phares, chief of the safety department, and Ranger Captain J. W. McCormick, who had figured in previous testimony.

The governor testified that early in his administration he had order-

Achievement Day Program Is Staged At Tech On Saturday

Miss Guyrene Horton, Winner Of Gold Star, Presides At Affair; About 150 Persons Are On Hand

About 150 persons attended a 4-H club "Achievement day" at Texas Technological college Saturday afternoon at which several supporters of the work as well as club leaders were honored. The meeting was held in the livestock pavilion of the division of agriculture, starting at 4:30 o'clock.

Miss Guyrene Horton, Hurlwood, one of the four gold star club winners in the county, presided. Miss Horton, who has competed in Lubbock Quality Meat shows for several years, is a student in the division of home economics at Texas Tech and is training for extension work.

Others Introduced

She introduced the three other winners: C. T. Potts, jr., Barton; Miss Estelle Ayers, Shallowater, and Miss Beatrice Elliott, Grovesville.

Mr. Potts briefly outlined his achievements that resulted in his being awarded the honor. The first year he fed calves he won only $10 in prize money; the second year, $65 and last year $140 with the honor of having the reserve champion of the show.

Miss Horton won several trips to the Dallas State fair and to the short course at Texas A. & M., as a result of her club work, besides prize money. From her four years of work she was able to make enough money to attend Texas Tech last year and the present year.

Talks Are Made

Miss Horton called on several friends of the work, including Commissioner B. O. McWhorter, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jobson and Miss Lida Cooper, district agent leader. Judge E. L. Pitts, on behalf of the commissioner's court, in a short talk, expressed the belief that the work was well worthwhile. The court, he said, was solidly behind the extension work.

Garnet O. Reeves, on behalf of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and A. B. Davis, its manager, said Lubbock business men, "believing the work to be well worth it," were behind its support by the commercial group.

There were a number of club sponsors of both the girls and boys clubs present, as well as parents of members.

The chant of Christmas carols will accompany the movement of students between classes at Texas Technological college this week, as has been the custom of several years.

Old State Fair Park At Dallas Is Being Transformed Into Contractor's Paradise; Centennial Building Speeded Up

BY WILLIAM T. RIVES
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Dec. 14. (AP)—A tremendous surge of activity, prompted by thoughts that opening day at the Texas Centennial exposition is less than six months away, has caught old State Fair park and is transforming it into a contractor's paradise.

Two thousand workmen, slinging rivets and laying bricks at an amazing rate in three-hour shifts each day, speed construction work as the exposition's cash outlay runs into thousands of dollars daily.

About One-Third Complete

The $15,000,000 (millions) dollar building program, slow in getting under way and only about one-third complete, is moving so swiftly officials beam an emphatic "we'll have everything finished—and we mean finished—by the time the gates swing open June 6."

At its peak, shortly after Jan. 1, the plan calls for about five thousand laborers at work on the project.

Offices Nearly Complete

Work on the administration building, where the "white collar" folks attempt to solve administrative problems amid noises resembling the anvil chorus, is 95 per cent complete. The structure—the old State Fair coliseum and agricultural hall—has been remodeled at a cost of $125,000, and a story added.

The $135,000 hall of agriculture is 90 per cent complete; the $230,000 hall of foods, 40 per cent finished; the $225,000 hall of varied industries, ten per cent; storehouses and shop buildings, 50 per cent; work has started on foundations of the $225,000 hall of transportation and the $175,000 hall of petroleum and steel is going up on the $150,000 livestock No. 2 (cattle and horse unit) building.

Hall Of State Begun

Excavating for foundations has been begun on the million dollar Texas Hall of State— the largest unit of the building plan.

All structural work visible as one walks through the 180-acre exposition area—a mile from the front to the rear—must be of the same architectural design—the "classic modern."

George L. Dahl, Centennial architect, designed this style, intended to lighten severe classical lines through a combination with the colonial.

All To Be "Classic Modern"

The architectural vision will bear no discordant note. Even a peanut stand must be of the "classic modern."

As a final, all-inclusive proof of their intention to let nothing interfere, officials have barred practically all sight-seers.

Stunt Night Program Staged By CCC Enrollees In City

Cleveland May Get Convention

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—While Chicago stands out as a popular choice, it was learned today on high authority, political reasons may cause selection of Cleveland as the 1936 Republican convention city when the party's national committee meets in Washington Monday.

"I'd place my bet on Cleveland," one of the most prominent of eastern party leaders said before he left for Washington last midnight. He declined to be quoted by name.

"Kansas City wants the convention and would be an ideal place. But it is regarded politically as the metropolis of Governor Alf Landon of Kansas. Other potential candidates have objections to Kansas City."

Christmas Buying In Oklahoma Area Halted By Illness

HOBART, Okla., Dec. 14. (AP)—The Christmas buying bustle dwindled to an incongruous inanimation in all Kiowa county today through a meningitis quarantine which everyone hoped would last only over the week-end.

Merchants who had planned on a big weekend business shut up shop as all normal activity was banned on the order of Dr. J. L. Adams, county health officer.

Dr. C. M. Pearce, state health commissioner, was due here today from Oklahoma City to make a minute inspection of the situation, which resulted after Adams declared positively six illnesses were meningitis cases.

There were numerous requests to have the county-wide quarantine lifted but these died down when the seriousness of the situation became apparent. Dr. Adams said a number of other cases might be diagnosed as meningitis after spinal punctures are made.

Survey Shows Charity Needs Less; Contributions Hiked

Drives Nearly Are Completed

Novelty Stunts Arranged For Some Cities In Efforts To Raise Funds; Public Rush To Give Assistance

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 14. (AP)—A survey of charity's needs in representative cities shows they are less than for the winter of 1934-35, but better-filled family exchequers already have yielded greater contributions than last year.

Welfare agencies which call on the citizen to contribute to the community chest, dedicated to the aid of those unable to pay the grocer or the doctor, have met a ready response from the public.

Interest Is Sought

In some instances "stunts" were resorted to in order to create interest in the local drive for money. At Pierre, S. D., a turtle race was held. Fredericksburg, Va., inaugurated a "playless play," everybody bought tickets but nobody saw a play.

A survey of 55 representative cities from the country at large disclosed today charitable drives sought a total of some $19,500,000, and nearly $37,000,000 has been pledged although many of the campaigns were incomplete.

MacDowell Club Will Gather At Texas Tech Here Tuesday

MacDowell club will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Texas Technological college engineering auditorium for a musical program which will include:

Group singing of three carols, "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Silent Night," directed by Miss Dollie Clements; selections by a Senior high school chorus; piano solos, Misses Kathleen Crawford, Jeannette Kelley, Margaret Kerne and Marie George, and vocal solos, S. S. Forrest, Larry Taylor, Jack Nannon and Miss Fern Hudson.

Programs For Christmas Planned In Schools; Junior High Students Will Give Pageant; K. Carter Sings Carols

K. Carter school will sponsor a program of Christmas carols, in which three other Lubbock elementary schools will participate, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the First Methodist church.

Central Ward, George M. Hunt and Sanders students will participate. The 1,100 students from the four schools will sing four familiar Christmas songs and choral groups from each school will sing under direction of their music teachers.

Miss Watson Director

Miss Dimple Watson, music teacher at K. Carter school, will direct her choral group and singing by the entire group. Other music teachers are Miss Lois Mangum, Sanders; Mrs. J. T. Shaver, George M. Hunt; Mrs. Willie C. Smith, Central Ward.

Mrs. Mamie I. Neal will present Christmas selections on the organ and will give the organ accompaniment to singing.

K. E. Oberholtzer, superintendent of public schools, will speak and Mrs. Shaver will give the Christmas story.

The four songs which the entire group will sing are: "Silent Night"; "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear"; "O, Little Town of Bethlehem"; "Silent Night".

Approximately 150 Junior High school students will sing in a Christmas pageant, "Let Us Go Up To Bethlehem", in assembly at the school Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, which will be open to parents and others who wish to attend.

The pageant will be directed by the school's three music teachers, Mrs. M. E. Ware, Mrs. O. D. Elliott and Miss Ruth Mildred Rylander.

To Pantomime Story

Shepherds and Joseph and Mary will pantomime the Christmas story as a reader and an angel tell the story.

The characters wil be: Frank Smith, reader; Betty Ward, Mary; Woody Tudor, Joseph; Jo Ann Scott, angel; Marvin Baggett, Frank Witchers and James Strawn, the three wise men; Halsey Lee Hatchett, Maurice Hood and George Field, the shepherds.

The scenery is being painted by Miss Leona Bowlin and Mrs. Charles Thomas, art teachers.

Telephone Man Is Killed As Pole Breaks, Falls On Him

MEXIA, Dec. 14. (AP)—C. B. Bass, jr., 27-year-old telephone company lineman, was killed here today when a power pole on which he was stringing a temporary telephone wire to the football stadium, broke and crushed his skull as it crashed to the ground.

The pole snapped off at the ground and struck Bass as it fell.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Bass of Dallas. His widow survives.

There is no permanent water supply during the dry season in Darfur, Africa, so natives value the watermelon for its thirst-quenching qualities.

Probe Into Crash Is Being Planned

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., Dec. 14. (AP)—The body of Major Arthur K. Ladd of Langley Field, Va., was held at the marine corps base here today pending an investigation of the air crash near Dale late yesterday which took his life.

Major Ladd's body, badly mangled, was found in the wreckage of his single-seater fighting plane.

He was flying to Miami where army and civilian planes are participating in an air racing and exhibition event. No witnesses to the tragedy could be found, but Dale residents said the sound of his motor indicated he was having engine trouble when he flew over the tiny hamlet.

The plane fell into a swamp and did not catch fire. Persons who viewed the wreckage expressed opinions he was killed instantly.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ladd of Sherman, Texas.

More Funds To WPA Released

Total Of $1,068,344,963 Is Released Saturday By Comptroller McCarl To States To Expend On Projects

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Leaders of the relief drive announced today that to date Comptroller General J. R. McCarl has released $1,068,344,963 of the $4,000,000,000 jobs fund for expenditure by state officials of the Works Progress administration.

McCarl is the arbiter of government spending. His approval is necessary before any of the $4,000,000,000 is released. Besides giving the "go ahead" sign on the $1,068,344,963, which is to be expended by states, he also has approved funds for some nation-wide projects under the $4,000,000,000 program, including $40,000,000 for the national youth administration.

To Choose Projects

State WPA administrators will have latitude in choosing projects to prosecute with the $1,068,344,963. McCarl has already approved projects totaling four times that figure, so the administrators may have leeway in adjusting WPA work to employment opportunities created by other agencies.

WPA officials said today a report on the number of persons now employed on work relief will be delayed until Corrington Gill, assistant administrator in charge of statistics, returns Monday from a trip.

Month Since Report

A month has gone by since the last detailed report, although Aubrey Williams, another assistant administrator, asserted on the eve of the Dec. 1 deadline that 3,500,000 would be at work two days ahead of schedule.

The report of McCarl's release showed that New York City had received more than any state. With a WPA quota of about 220,000 jobs, it has been allotted $121,426,872, compared with $50,375,779 for the remainder of New York state. Pennsylvania, with $110,034,104, received the next largest allotment, and the smallest went to Nevada, which received $1,298,416.

Other allotments included: Texas $32,134,976; Oklahoma $17,929,631; New Mexico $4,030,212; Louisiana $11,215,207.

Life Begins Anew

Do you recognize this pretty, smiling young woman? In a New York beauty school she is enrolled as Arlene Wright, but you know her as Norma Millen. Released a few months ago from prison following execution of her husband, Murton Millen, for the murder of a Massachusetts policeman, she starts life anew learning to be a beauty operator.

Downtown Lubbock To Take On Christmas Atmosphere; Lights, Trees To Be Up

Residences To Be In Contest

Strands Of Colored Lights To Be Strung; Large Trees To Be Placed At Intersections Of Business Streets

DOWNTOWN Lubbock will be given its Christmas attire this week to lend the holiday season further atmosphere created by decorations throughout the residential districts.

Beginning tomorrow, strands of colored lights will be placed at intersections of 10 business intersections. In addition, Christmas trees from 12 to 14 feet in height will be placed in the middle of each intersection. The trees have been donated by the American Legion.

Is Annual Affair

Annual decoration of the city is sponsored by the city government and by the Retail Merchants association. The city installs the lighting and furnishes necessary electric current, the retail merchant members provide maintenance of the equipment. All expense of equipping the trees donated by the legion is borne by the city.

In addition to the city decorations, Christmas trees have been placed along the sidewalks in front of numerous stores, display windows of which are appropriately decked for the holiday.

Contest Sponsored

To encourage Christmas decorations in homes and yards throughout the city, the Lubbock Garden club is sponsoring its second annual contest to pick winners in seven classifications. Word from Mrs. R. T. Campbell, club chairman for the contest, indicates that entries will probably be received through Thursday.

Ribbon awards will be given to winners in the following divisions: One, two and three window decorations, doorway or entrance decorations, living tree decoration, Christmas scene, and general display. Anyone may enter the contest, Mrs. Campbell said, the only rule being that the display be visible from the street.

Selection Of Art Exhibit For Centennial Under Way

DALLAS, Dec. 14. (AP)—Selection of the art exhibit which will grace the Dallas Centennial celebration is under way in New York, the Dallas Times-Herald said. Dr. Robert Harshe, director of the Chicago institute, is there taking the first steps towards sending into Texas from five million to ten million dollars worth of the finest old masters, both oils and statuary.

Dr. Harshe said that in assembling the exhibition for the Texas celebration he felt the regional overtone should be respected and while, in certain places, he would emphasize the modern, the showing would not run to that extreme.

The Centennial has appropriated $75,000 for assembling the exhibit. Dr. Harshe assembled the exhibits for the two Chicago Century of Progress shows.

Former Coffee Magnate Is Dead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. Dec. 14 (AP)—Joel Owsley Cheek, 83, who built up a great coffee industry in the United States on the strength of advertising and his belief that "the harder business is to get the easier it is to hold," died today at the home of his son, Leon T. Cheek.

He had been critically ill for four days of pneumonia.

Cheek, whose immense fortune provided liberal contributions to educational, civic and charitable institutions, was a resident of Nashville, Tenn. He was born near Burkesville, Ky.

Started As Salesman

His first job was as a salesman with a Nashville wholesale grocery house at $50 a month. He later became a partner.

In those days coffee was sold "green" and the roasting was done in home ovens. Cheek started roasting it on a small scale and in 1898 formed a company to exploit his product, which he had named for a hotel (Maxwell house), in Nashville noted as a gathering place for southern political and social leaders.

He was joined in the enterprise by J. W. Neal, a Nashville grocer. Branches were opened at intervals in Houston, Tex., Jacksonville, and Richmond, Va.

In 1928 the Cheek-Neal Coffee company was sold for approximately $40,000,000.

The coffee merchant was the father of eleven children, two of whom died in infancy. Eight of his sons and a daughter survived by the eight sons he took into the business with him. He is survived by a daughter.

Direct Relief Activities Will Be Closed In Lubbock District On December 31

Reorganization Is To Be Made

Drastic Reduction In Number Of Relief Administrative Officials Due; Federal Aid Has Been Withdrawn

MANY cases at present on relief records in this district will be closed Dec. 31 and a reorganization will be made in the system of administering aid to clients by Jan. 15.

The announcement was made Saturday by G. E. Garrett, acting director for district 17-B including seven counties in the Lubbock area.

In addition to stopping direct relief, both in the form of money, and surplus commodities and other disbursements, to all employables, others now considered unemployables will be cut off relief rolls Dec. 31, Mr. Garrett said.

To Combine Offices

After Jan. 15, a drastic reduction in the number of administrative officials will be made and offices in this district, one located at Plainview and the other here, will be combined into an area conforming with the 15 counties comprising district 17 of the Works Progress administration. Practically all of the duties performed by those offices, beginning Jan. 1, will be transferred to state Texas Relief commission offices in Austin.

The complete reorganization had been announced this week by TRC officials and was necessitated by withdrawal of federal aid to Texas and other states, and by dwindling relief funds of the state. At the present time, such aid to be given after Jan. 1 will be from funds which probably will be exhausted by April 1.

Unemployables Classed

Only the following classes of unemployables will be eligible for relief after Dec. 31, Mr. Garrett declared: First, to those whose medical rating is in class D, given those unable to do a day's work because of disease ailments; second, to those obviously unable to work because of physical handicaps; third, to widows with dependent children whom she cannot leave because of the necessity of taking care of them; fourth, to others unable to leave their homes because other members of the family suffer permanent ailments or require constant attention.

If in any of the above classes, Mr. Garrett said, one member of the family is considered an employable, that case is not eligible for relief.

To Be Given Semi-Monthly

The form of aid to be given will be semi-monthly payments of cash, to be forwarded from Austin headquarters; and surplus commodities, to be received once a month from commodity quarters, and to be given at a time and place specified to the clients eligible.

Disbursing of medical aid, hospitalization and dental services cannot be tendered after Jan. 1, even to those unemployables eligible for relief after that date.

Other Classifications Made

In addition to stopping present relief to all employables not yet working on WPA projects, and to those working on WPA projects but who have not received their first pay check, the following formerly classed as unemployables will also be ineligible for further relief after Dec. 31: First, those living in places non-accessible to work on WPA projects, even if they are eligible for such work; second, those employables temporarily ill; third, aged persons capable of doing light work and where projects of the WPA permit such types of work; fourth, those cases admitted to relief rolls since Nov. 1.

Mr. Garrett emphasized that the changes will not be made until Dec. 31. Those regularly receiving aid at the present time will get a small budget according to the amount of the second half allotment for December.

Merchants Warned

Merchants holding filled-out disbursing orders issued from relief offices were warned by Mr. Garrett to get such orders in to relief offices in the district before Jan. 5. Orders received later must go to Austin for approval and settlement, and will probably be delayed for a considerable length of time.

The present staff of workers in offices here and at Plainview will be maintained until Jan. 15 to complete all records of the relief cases and to take care of financial obligations from disbursements. After that date, only a skeleton staff will be maintained, to include a district administrator who will serve as commodity supervisor; an assistant; a stenographer; and a minimum sufficiency of case workers in the counties for visiting the unemployables eligible for further relief, for reporting any changes in their status, and for receiving applications from persons qualified as unemployables and eligible for relief offered.

To Cut Staff 75 Per Cent

Staff reduction will be approximately 75 per cent after Jan. 15, Mr. Garrett declared.

"It is regretted that many cases can receive no aid after Dec. 31," Mr. Garrett said, "as it means relief to such classes will fall back on political subdivisions of the counties. The change is beyond our control."

R. A. Metcalfe will assume duties next week as administrator and commodity supervisor. He formerly was commodity supervisor for district 17-B, headquarters here.

Changes will in effect close down the relief office here after a 33-month period of operation which began in May, 1933, to disburse relief assistance from federal and state funds under the TRC set-up.

Police All Set For Annual Ball Saturday Night

Feet that too many times have ached with pavement beating may be dragged in a Dec. 21 respite—when a seventh annual police ball is conducted at the Auditorium.

To police, the affair is the "night of all nights in the year." It marks a chance to dance, relieves them of responsibility of watching while "the others" trip.

And it means financial contribution of the public to nat y, new uniforms for the department.

Expect Big Crowd

More than 1,000 persons from throughout the South Plains are expected, said Police Recorder C. E. Luce, in charge of ticket sales. Tendency for each year to produce a greater crowd than the last confidently is expected to be unbroken. The Auditorium always is packed. Many who do not dance buy tickets merely to support the uniform campaign.

As has become institutional, attempt will be made to allow every member of the police force to attend—whether by working a "shift" or by employing special men for the night had not been decided.

Began in 1929

The custom of holding the dance began in 1929, in the administration of John Lemond, chief of police, and has been continued since. Wiley Metcalfe was chief in 1932 and 1933. The approaching affair will be the second to be held in tenure of H. L. Johnston, present chief. All balls have been financially successful, and every policeman on the city force has been given a new uniform anually.

"They've been asking since September, 'When is the police ball to be given?'" said Mr. Luce. "The department appreciates the friendly interest of the pubic and i s past response. We expect the greatest crowd of the series this year."

Jimmie Thornhill and his orchestra will play, beginning at 8:30 o'clock and ending at midnight, as the department does not wish the dance to ex end into Sunday.

WPA Projects Start Monday

Tech Campus Beautification And Ground Improvements To Begin; Three Other WPA Jobs Also Scheduled

Ground improvements and beautification of the campus at Texas Technological college will be started Monday as a Works Progress administration project, one of four in district 17 which will begin operation that day, L. A. Rodenhiser, WPA engineer, announced Saturday.

The Tech project, including landscaping, street paving, sidewalk and irrigation work, will employ a maximum of 102 men. Although an allocation of $58,060 in federal funds is the original amount called for by the project, at the present time only $10,000 has been allocated, Mr. Rodenhiser said. College funds to supplement the federal aid total $2,760.

Paving Included

Work on the campus includes placing of curbs and gutters on roads leading from the circle north to the engineering and textile engineering buildings and east to College avenue, past the stadium; paving of the road south from the administration building to Nineteenth street, with placing of curbing to the agricultural administration building. Sidewalks will be completed across the central circle, from the engineering to the textile buildings, and at numerous cross paths.

The campus will be beautified by levelling where necessary, and plants, trees, and shrubs will be planted. Ditches will be dug from two new irrigation wells to places on the farm where irrigation will be started.

Other Projects Listed

Other projects to be started Monday, at a total cost of $50,156 and providing employment for 155 persons, are in:

Briscoe county — farm-to-market road in precinct 3 at Gasoline, R. S. Lewis, supervisor; federal aid $13,144, sponsor's funds $5,002; employing 49.

Motley — F-M road from Roaring Springs to Flagg, W. H. Godfrey, supervisor; federal aid $20,290, sponsor's funds $5,308; employing 54.

Hockley — grading and drainage structures on highway from Levelland west to Hockley county line, E. L. Cannon, supervisor; federal aid $4,488, sponsor's $1,924; employing 52.

Allocation of $7,341 federal funds for reworking of several farm-to-market roads in Floyd county, precinct 2, has been received, Mr. Rodenhiser stated. The funds will be supplemented by $4,154 from the county, and employment will be given to 33 persons. Starting date has not been set.

Annual Attempt To Get In Christmas Packages Early For Mailing Now On

Annual attempt to get Christmas presents out of the post-office by Christmas day, is under way for the Lubbock office, with additional clerks and carriers being added as they are needed, Amos Howard, postmaster, said Saturday.

But one concession to previous plans is made this year—gifts of Christmas parcels will be distributed Christmas morning, Mr. Howard explained. Otherwise, only special delivery letters or parcels will be distributed.

Extra Men On

"There will be 15 extra clerks and carriers during the season," Mr. Howard said. "We will have four extra trucks to delivery parcels and gifts.

"Both package windows will be open from now until Christmas. We want to move every package as rapidly as we can.

"We urge every customer of this office to assist us in the prompt mailing of Christmas packages. The earlier the packages are placed in our hands, the earlier they can be delivered. The same is true of cards.

"This office has orders this year to deliver gift packages and special delivery letters and packages on Christmas day. Otherwise there will be no delivery of letters on the holiday."

Requirements Cited

Mr. Howard called attention to several postal requirements that should be observed by all who mail packages. Addresses should be plain, both street number and rural route number; postage should be fully prepaid; weight limits and size should be observed; packages should be properly packed and wrapped; valuable articles should be registered and should be well wrapped; hats, shoes, etc., should be wrapped in corrugated boxes; umbrellas, canes, golf sticks, etc., should be reenforced their full length; fragile articles should be securely packed and wrapped and so marked; valuable merchandise should be insured.

Use of the special delivery stamp or the air mail stamp or both, to have gifts sent long distances quickly, should be used.

Gly-Cas' Action Is Amazing To Local Sufferers

Mr. Broyles Had Not Felt So Well In 25 Years; Lauds Gly-Cas For Regulating Stomach And Kidneys, Every Ache And Pain Eliminated

Amazing things have been accomplished by this new medical discovery Gly-Cas, which is being introduced and explained to crowds of local people everyday at the Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway. A man helped from rheumatism four years suddenly found himself able to work; a lady down in bed near paralysis was up and around before finishing the first box; another lady who had suffered with indigestion after each meal for 28 years is now able to enjoy her food as others with no ill effects afterwards, since giving the Gly-Cas a fair trial. Now another amazing statement from a well known man right here in this section, Mr. W. C. Broyles, 1601 Pearl St., Wichita Falls, Texas, respected Jeweler of that city, who made the following praising statement that his friends might learn of this new remedy:

MR. W. C. BROYLES

"I am feeling like former self once more," said Mr. Broyles. "For years I had suffered with indigestion, gas formed in abundance regardless of what I ate. My heart palpitated and the pains in my chest were unbearable. Many nights I have had to sit up in bed with hot water bottles applied to ease the pain, often got only an hour's sleep. My kidneys gave me trouble also, pains in my back and too frequent action. Was nervous, appetite soon failed me completely. Try as I did I was unable to find anything capable of reaching my case—until I began Gly-Cas and it is wonderful."

"My entire system has been put in order by this new Gly-Cas," continued Mr. Broyles. "My stomach and kidneys are again normal, eat what I wish with no ill effects afterwards, sleep the whole night through and am never disturbed. I no longer have a single ache nor pain and can truthfully say I have not felt so well in 25 years. Anyone who gives Gly-Cas an honest trial will find that results are sure to follow."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Gly-Cas $1.00 per box—6 boxes $5.00. Add 2c postage for each box ordered. Send money orders made payable Mark Halsey Drug Store. Don't send cash. Checks not accepted—No C. O. D. Mail Orders.—Adv.

Amarillo, Wichita Falls And Greenville Advance In High School Grid Race

Sandies Crush San Angelo In 25 To 0 Score

Amarillo Team Comes To Life In Last Half To Put 'Cats Out Of Championship Chase On Butler Field

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Dec. 14.—The Amarillo Golden Sandstorm displayed the fury of a "black duster" to blast the San Angelo Bobcats from the state schoolboy football race, 25 to 0, in a quarter-final game here today.

The victory sent the Sandies, last year's state champions, into the semi-finals of the Texas Interscholastic league race. They will meet Wichita Falls next week for the right to go into the finals.

Running And Plunging

The Sandies uncorked a powerful running and plunging attack that crumpled the touted defense of the invaders. Try as they might the Bobcats were not able to check Amarillo's fast-charging forward wall and hard-blocking backs.

Karl Rice, who accounted for more than half of the Sandies' points, scored first early in the second period from the six-yard line to climax a 90-yard touchdown drive. Twenty yard runs by Rice and White placed the ball in scoring position early in the next quarter and Rice plowed four yards for the counter and then place-kicked the goal.

White circled end for five yards and another touchdown in the same period after a forward and lateral. Clesson to Taylor to Wisely, had netted a 29-yard gain.

Passes Boomerang

A desperate passing attempt, which the Bobcats launched in the final quarter, backfired when Clesson intercepted a toss and raced 33 yards for the last counter of the game.

San Angelo made only three first downs, two on passes and the other as a result of a penalty, and made but 33 yards from scrimmage. Amarillo piled up 26 first downs and gained 436 yards rushing.

About 7,000 fans witnessed the contest.

Line starting line-ups:

SAN ANGELO	Pos.	AMARILLO
Smith	LE	Taylor

Irwin	C	Goodwin
Elwell	RG	Crawford

Score by periods:

Amarillo	0	6	13	6—25

Amarillo scoring: Rice (sub for Denton) 2, White, Clesson. Point after touchdown, Rice (placement).

Officials: Referee, Curtis (Texas); umpire, Minton (Indiana); headlinesman, Fieniken (Geneva); field judge, Payne (Bethany).

Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Greenville and Corpus Christi will compete in games Friday and Saturday of this week for the right to enter the finals of the Texas high school football championship.

The Amarillo - Wichita Falls game will be played in Amarillo at 2:30 p. m. Saturday. The Corpus Christi-Greenville contest will be decided a day earlier at Greenville.

The sites and dates were picked by school officials meeting in Mexia and Amarillo late Saturday.

The second all-star team consisted of Alexander of Frenship, Ward of Meadow, Calley of Shallowater, forwards, and Tucker of Anton, Odell of Meadow and French of Meadow, guards.

Southwest Conference Is Silent On "Pay Athletes" Question At Meeting

Six Teams To Play In Baseball Race Next Spring

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Dec. 14. — The Southwest conference faculty representatives held their annual meeting here today and avoided the question of legalizing athletic scholarships and financial aid to athletes.

President E. W. McDiarmid of Fort Worth, who presided, said there absolutely was no discussion of such a matter as "loosening up" conference rules to make things easier for athletes, and that the Southwest conference would continue to abide by its present constitution and by-laws. It had been rumored that the Southwest would take action similar to that of the Southeastern conference and recognize athletic value, but McDiarmid said the idea was never entertained.

Limited To 10 Games

The adoption of a rule limiting Southwest conference football teams to 10 games a season was one of the highlights of the meeting. The rule has no effect on present contracts. McDiarmid explained that exceptions could be made on post season games such as the Rose and Sugar Bowl affairs.

It was announced that every conference member except Arkansas, would participate in next year's baseball championship race, and that each team would be required to play 15 conference games, two at home and one abroad or vice versa. Baseball practice cannot start before March 1 of each championship year. Southern Methodist and Rice are coming back into the baseball race after an absence of several years.

No Semi-Pro Baseball

It was voted to allow Southwest conference freshmen to play conference basketball games. They will be limited to 8 games each season, 4 of which may be in the conference. The plan is to use freshmen for curtain raisers on the varsity conference games. Coach Jimmy St. Clair of Southern Methodist went before the faculty representatives and urged the adoption of the freshmen basketball system and it met instant approval.

McDiarmid announced that hereafter no Southwest conference athlete would be allowed to compete in any kind of semi-pro baseball league or tournament. "The boys must play strictly sandlot baseball or nothing," he said.

The University of Texas athletic council was requested to bring its membership into conference requirements by having three faculty members on it. The present council is composed of W. E. Metzenthin, faculty; Dr. J. C. Dolley, faculty; H. H. Weinert, regent; W. H. Richardson, ex-student, and Lloyd Davidson, jr., student. Under conference rules at least three members of the council must be faculty members. Under the present Texas setup, the chairman of regents' committee on athletics is automatically a member of the athletic council, which happens to be Weinert. Metzenthin and Dolley were appointed by President H. Y. Benedict, Richardson by the ex-students' association, and Davidson by students through the students' assembly.

Championships Awarded

Basketball: Rice, Southern Methodist and Arkansas tied.
Track: Texas university.
Baseball: Texas university.
Tennis: Singles, Rice institute. Doubles: Texas.
Swimming: Texas university.
Golf: Texas university.
Cross country: Texas university.
Football: Southern Methodist.

It was voted to raise the pay of Southwest conference basketball officials from $15 to $20 a game to become effective the coming season.

Cardinals Stretch "Chain Stores" Of Baseball From Coast To Coast After Buying Sacramento Of Pacific League

* * *

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 14.—The St. Louis Cardinals, whose array of players do a nation-wide baseball business each year, will operate from at least 20 stands next season.

The announced acquisition of Sacramento, Cal. of the Pacific Coast league will extend baseball's most extensive chain store system from coast to coast.

It will round out the Red Birds' representation in the three Class AA leagues, for the Cards have had Rochester, N. Y., of the International league and Columbus, O., in the American Association for years.

All Other Classes

The organization is well represented also in all other league classes, A-1, A, B, C, and D.

In the 20 clubs, including the Cardinals themselves, the St. Louis club will control about 600 players.

When the Sacramento deal is complete the Cards will own outright the three Class AA minor league teams, as well as Houston and several other lower minors, and control the remaining teams through optional agreements.

Major league—St. Louis, National.

Class AA——Columbus, American Association; Rochester, International; Sacramento, Coast.

Class A1—Houston, Texas.

Class A—Cedar Rapids, Ia., Western.

Class B—Bloomington, Ill., Three-I; Asheville, N. C., Piedmont.

Class C—Huntington, W. Va., Middle Atlantic; Jacksonville, Tex., East Texas or West Dixie; Springfield, Mo., Western Association.

Class D—Union City, Tenn., Kitty League; Norfolk, Nebraska, State; Duluth, Northern; Greensburg, Penn State association; Albany, Ga., Georgia-Florida; New Iberia, La., Evangeline; Spartanburg, S. C., Bi-State; Columbus, Ga., South Atlantic, and one team to be named in Arkansas State league.

Already one of the busiest men in baseball, Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinal chain, took on additional duties when the Cards purchased Sacramento of the Pacific Coast league.

McShain, Tex Watkins Meet

Dutch Mantell Is Drafted To Referee Wednesday Night In Main Event As Well-Known Roughsters Clash

From tough to tougher go the local wrestling matches, and one of the largest crowds in Lubbock ring history is due to jam the Auditorium Wednesday night when two of the very toughest of the traveling tinears oppose each other in the main event.

Dapper Danno McShain, wax-moustached, curly haired villain from Portland, finally has been booked for a main event with Terrible Tex Watkins, or vice versa, and they'll meet in a two-out-of-three falls scrap to climax a string of rugged matches which have been the rule, rather than the exception, this winter.

Promoter Sied Allen has been seeking this match for several weeks, or since the Wild Irishman came back to these parts after being driven out of Old Mexico. McShain and Watkins have been sniffing at each other's heels, backing off and sniffing again, for a month, but it has been difficult to get them on the dotted lines.

Watch Your Weak Hearts

It's a main event packed with potential dynamite. The weak at heart and the fastidious are not urged to buy tickets, because almost anything can happen, beginning the moment McShain and Watkins get in the ring and continuing until they're back in the dressing rooms after the match. In the ring, they are expected to be kept under control by Referee Mantell, who has a way with him when it comes to handling tough boys.

It's to be an almost all-star card this week. Billy Hallas, who lost in straight falls to McShain last week, is to meet Joe Bauer in the semi-final. Benny Wilson, here for the third straight week, contests Larry Tillman, the gentleman from Oklahoma, in the curtain raiser.

Unheralded Links Ace Takes Medal

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 14. (AP)—A slender, quiet golfer, Ted Turner of Pine Valley, N. J., came blazing unheralded through the dusk today to post 68, three under par, for the first round of the $10,000 Miami Biltmore open and seize medalist honors.

Racking up four birdies in his brilliant round, which came within one stroke of equalling the course record Willie MacFarlane set in 1933, Turner barely nosed out Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., and Frank Moore, young Chicago professional, who had 69's.

A seven-foot put he ran down at the 18th green, while the gallery scurried to watch, was the 27-year-old Turner's margin of victory.

Smith, playing with him, was 30 feet away. He smacked the ball up to the cup but failed to go down. His two-under-par 69 nevertheless served notice on the field of golfing great gathered for the sport's richest tourney that he was back to the form that won him nearly $30,000 in 1929 and 1930.

Primo Miller, Late Of Rice Institute, Joins Rasslers

HOUSTON, Dec. 14. (AP) — Ralph (Primo) Miller, 220-pound Rice tackle who withdrew from school after his recent marriage will try his hand at wrestling.

The husky athlete has been working out for several weeks with Karl Sarpolis, wrestler, and will be ready to make his debut to fans here within a week or two, Sarpolis says.

Santa Claus Arrives At SMU; Colts To See Game

DALLAS, Dec. 14. (AP)—The Mustang Colts are going to the Rose Bowl—and not in a freight car or a moving van, either.

First class on the train — plush seats, diner and all—will travel 26 of Southern Methodist's freshmen football squad to Pasadena, Calif., there to watch their "big brothers" battle Stanford university on New Year's Day.

Last week the Colts, talking through split lips and walking on bruised legs received in almost daily scrimmage with the varsity team, made the rounds of Dallas in a futile attempt to get to that Rose Bowl game.

Can't Rent Box Car

They pleaded with railroad officials to rent them a box car for the round trip; dickered with an overland freight company to furnish a moving van for the squad and even talked to a man with a big cotton truck about hauling them on the 3,000 mile jaunt.

They failed and hearts were pretty heavy in the freshman football camp.

Playing "Santa Claus" was Wilfred Kurth, New York City philanthropist who knows his Texas, the Southern Methodist football team and Southern Methodist university itself.

Kurth heard of the plight of the freshmen footballers from "Bud" Sprague, his assistant secretary and former University of Texas and West Point gridiron star and All-America tackle.

Sprague had a brother, Howard, who starred at Southern Methodist. Another brother, Johnny, is the Methodist's star blocking halfback and pass defensive man this year. And still another brother, Charley, is a mainstay on the S. M. U. Colts team.

There Is A Santa

Said Kurth:

"I'm going to send those boys out to that game. I believe it will be the finest Christmas present anyone could give them."

McLarry started spreading the news. He telephoned Dr. C. C. Selecman, president of Southern Methodist. Dr. Selecman, overjoyed, telephoned thanks and approval to Kurth. The news spread to the freshmen footballers.

The freshmen footballers went wild; scurried to telegraph offices and sent thanks to Kurth. The telegrams were terse and to the point, because Colts don't have much money to spend on telegrams. But they were filled with gratitude.

So the Colts, who have been banged about all season by their "big brothers" while playing the make believe roles of U. C. L. A., Rice, Texas Christian, and others in bruising scrimmage sessions, are going to the Rose Bowl—first class!

Coyotes Upset Dallas Wolves In Close Game

Late Touchdown Drive Defeats Dallas Tech, 19 To 13, As Coyotes Advance; To Meet Amarillo In Semi-Final

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 14.—Scoring a touchdown in the last 90 seconds of play the Wichita Falls Coyotes defeated Dallas Tech, 19 to 13, here today to advance into the semi-final round of the state championship schoolboy race. Stephens plunged through the left side of his line from one foot away for the deciding touchdown after the invading Dallas eleven had remained in the lead all the way.

The Wolves moved into the lead in the first period when Short passed to Kele for 26 yards and a touchdown. Fite kicked the extra point for a 7 to 0 advantage.

Coyotes Score In Second

In the second Wichita Falls came back with its first touchdown, but failed to kick the extra point. From the 44-yard line Neal passed deep to Stephens on the five yard line and he stepped over the goal line. Tech again went to the air for its second score Short passing to Woomack from the Coyote 40. Fite's kick failed and the Wolves led by 13 to 6. Early in the fourth quarter Kelly passed to Corbell and then to Hill for fifteen and six yard gains and the touchdown. Lyon failed to register the extra point and the Wolves still led by 13 to 12.

Block Tech Punt

Wichita Falls grabbed its final opportunity in the waning minutes of the game when Swain broke through the line and blocked Short's punt to give the Coyotes the ball on the Dallas 38. Hill, taking a double lateral from Stephens to Swain, circled right end to the four yard line and Neal and then Stephens in two plays bucked it over. Kelly counted the extra point to bring the final score to 19 to 13.

Tech rolled up twelve first downs to eight for Wichita Falls.

Tech Opens Cage Season With Two Games This Week

Texas Tech opens its basketball campaign this week with a double header attraction on Thursday night, Dec. 19.

The Cosden Oilers from Big Spring, boasting a squad of former high school and college cage stars of the Southwest and other Texas conferences, will oppose the Matadors in both games.

Under the direction of Beri Huffman, taking the varsity coaching reins for the first time, the Matador cagers have been working out nightly for nearly two weeks, and Huffman reports fair progress. The Tech squad is not overloaded with experienced basketball players, and only two letter men from last year's squad are back, but so far "they're showing a fine attitude, and we hope to be able to represent the school in basketball as successfully as in football," Huffman said.

On Thursday night, the "B" teams of the Tech varsity and the Cosden squad will play a preliminary game which may be as exciting as the contest between the regular teams which follows.

The Oilers, in the last two seasons, have played 64 games, losing only two. They play Southwest and Texas conference teams and bowl them over recklessly. They will be favored to defeat the Matadors, but "It'll be good practice for us, and it ought to be a good program."

Klondike To Be Host Friday And Saturday At Cage Joust

KLONDIKE SCHOOL DISTRICT, LAMESA, Dec. 14. (Special) High school and independent basketball teams are invited to enter the Klondike tournament next Friday and Saturday, it has been announced.

Entries should be addressed to W. C. McKinzie, Route A, Lamesa, Texas.

Baylor And Montana State Dicker For 1936 Grid Tilt

MISSOULA, Mont., Dec. 14. (AP)—Kirk Badgley, athletic manager of Montana State university, said today negotiations were under way for a football game next year with Baylor university of Texas.

Texas Places 4 Gridmen On All-Southern Schoolboy 11

LAKE CITY, Fla., Dec. 14. (AP)—The annual selections for the all-southern high school football team were announced here today by John "Red" Davis, chairman of the all-Southern board.

Texas: Marshall, Greenville; Bryan, Dallas; Cook, Masonic Home, and Bussey, Houston.

Biff Jones Thinks Southeastern Right

DALLAS, Dec. 14. (AP)—Captain Lawrence (Biff) Jones, head coach at the University of Oklahoma at Norman, expressed approval last night of the decision of the Southeastern conference to lend "financial assistance" to athletes.

"I think it's a fine thing," he said. He declined further comment until he had an opportunity to read the resolution adopted.

Time Out Between Olympic Bouts

Schreiner Beats Marshall To Claim State Jr. College Cup

Amarillo Challenge Unheeded As Mountaineers Win From College Of Marshall, 7-0, In Final Game

(By The Associated Press)

KERRVILLE, Dec. 14.—Schreiner institute climbed the Texas Junior college football championship tonight after defeating the College of Marshall 7 to 0 here.

A challenge from Amarillo Junior college, claimant to the right to meet the winner for the title, went unheeded, coaches of Schreiner and Marshall agreeing after a scoreless first half that the game here should be for the state title as far as they were concerned.

Tigers Held On Line

The teams appeared evenly matched as play started, but the tricky and powerful Tigers of Marshall soon had Schreiner in a defensive hole.

Led by their ace, Don Hightower, the Tigers drove to Schreiner's two-yard line but were held there.

Moore's attempt at a field goal for Marshall in the second quarter failed, and the half ended with first downs 5 to 1 in favor of Marshall and penetrations 3 to 0 in favor of Marshall.

In the middle of the final period Nelson passed 42 yards to Jones on the Marshall one-yard stripe. On the next play Reed plunged through to score and then placekicked the extra point.

The College of Marshall entered the game over the protest of Amarillo. Marshall and Amarillo played to a tie in score, penetrations, and first downs in the semi-final round, and Amarillo was awarded the game on the toss of a coin.

When Amarillo failed to get together with Schreiner on the time and place of the final game at a deadline set by Texas Junior College association officials, Marshall was given the right to play.

Mexia Passes From Picture By 7-19 Loss

Frnka's Lions, Led By Little Marshall, Run And Pass To Decisive Victory After Re-Instatement In Race

(By The Associated Press)

MEXIA, Dec. 14.—Greenville High school won a semi-final berth in the Texas schoolboy football championship race today, defeating Mexia 19 to 7 with a brilliant show of line strength and the running and passing ability of Bert Marshall and Bill Easter in the backfield.

From the first it was evident Mexia had met more power than ever before this season as the two powerful little backs, slashing at holes the line made for them, skirted the ends, cut through centers, and passed for consistent yardage.

Lions Score Rapidly

The second period saw the visitors score three touchdowns in quick succession and kick one goal. Easter, McElreath, and Marshall made the counters and were the Greenville ground gainers all afternoon.

Captain Ernest Lain of Mexia had only a few chances to show his passing ability but he gave the fans a few thrills, tossing to E. J. McKnight, Elliott Bowers, and Robert Blackmon. It was a pass that made Mexia's only score, in the third period.

Three times Mexia held for downs in the shadow of the goal posts, but Greenville held possession of the pigskin the greater part of the afternoon.

The first touchdown came when Easter drove one yard through center, and the second on a 30-yard pass, Marshall to McElreath. Marshall made the third on a three-yard cut through center.

Mexia's counter came on a forward pass, Lain to McKnight, who shot a lateral to Bowers.

Pitt Avenges Rose Bowl Defeats; UCLA Trounces Gaels

Panthers Beat Trojans, 12-7 On West Coast

Whitey Randour Finally Gets Over For Touchdown After Season Of Long Gains; Cal Plays Tight Game

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—Pittsburgh had Whitey Randour on its side today and his presence meant the football game won by the Panthers from the University of Southern California, 12 to 7.

The fleet back scored his first touchdown of the season after he had gained more than 750 yards this fall without crossing the goal line and this was the difference in the final accounting.

Southern California gave the crowd of approximately 35,00 its first chance to yell for the house of Troy when the game had less than a minute to go by completing a pass from the Pitt 39 yard line, Dave Davis to Bill Gainsford, who caught the ball on the ten yard line and ran on to score.

Trojans Save Shutout

The Trojans escaped a shutout in the fifty-ninth second of the eleventh hour when it seemed they never would score. The Panthers' great defensive play had stopped the Trojans a minute before when they took the ball on the one yard line, and in the second period the home guards had seen the door shut in its face on the five yard line.

Pitt, too, had its chances but could capitalize on only two. Pittsburgh scored the first touchdown of the game in the middle of the first period when Frank Souchak intercepted a pass in midfield. He found himself surrounded evenly by a mass of Trojans and tossed the ball to Paul Shaw who struggled a few more yards to Southern California's nine yard line. Three plunges left the ball only a yard from the goal and Frank Patrick plunged over on the fourth try.

The second score for the visitors came after a march of 81 yards. With two dashes of 25 yards by Randour helping their cause, the Panthers moved steadily to within seven yards of Southern California's goal. Randour then helped himself to his only touchdown of the year. Homer Beatty blocked the try for extra point.

Dempsey Remains In Doubt About Dusky Joe Louis

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—Joe Louis, the new toast of Harlem, was being hailed as a second Jack Dempsey along Broadway today by almost everybody except the old Manassa Mauler himself.

Still the idol of the fight fans, Jack stopped pumping hands in his eighth avenue restaurant long enough to give an authoritative lowdown on the Brown Bomber, whose fists are making ring history every time he climbs through the ropes.

Dempsey freely admits Louis is the outstanding heavyweight prospect in years, but he goes a bit slow on the super-man stuff.

"We're not going to know if Louis is really great until we throw him in the ring with somebody who will do a little fighting himself," he said.

Louis, with almost $40,000 in his pocket and a new notch in the handle of his knockout gun, spent a day taking bows before leaving tonight for Detroit. Wednesday he starts for Havana to see what can be done about Senor Isidora Gastanaga, now being fattened up as the next sacrifical offering, December 29.

Neyland To Coach Tennessee Eleven

ATLANTA, Dec. 14. (AP) — Major Robert Reese Neyland, 43-year-old Army engineer, will return as head coach of the University of Tennessee, it was learned today from unimpeachable sources.

Only minor negotiations with the war department stand between the successful Tennessee coach of the period of 1926 to 1934 and the placing of his signature to a five-year contract at a remuneration exceeding $10,000.

All-American At Texas Tech

TEXAS TECH got at least part of the recognition it deserves Friday when Alan Gould announced the Associated Press "Little All-America" for 1935. Hershel "Red" Ramsey, sophomore left end, landed that spot on the team. There may have been better players on the Tech team than Ramsey, but none better for that particular position. The knee is bent to the big outfielder from Chillicothe, from whom two more years of fine football is expected.

RAMSEY-END

A widely-scattered team, that "little All-America," but no doubt a good one. We'd like to see it go against the "big" All-America announced a week ago. The players are chosen from small and less prosperous schools. For the benefit of those who missed it Friday let us reproduce the A. P. "Little All-America" football team for 1935:

Position, player, college, weight, class, hometown:

End—Robert Klein, Chattanooga (Tenn), 195, Jr., Blue Island, Ill.

Tackle—Arthur Lewis, Ohio university, 200, Sr., Middleport, O.

Guard—Virgil Baer, Kansas Wesley, 180, Sr., Chapman, Kans.

Center—Woodrow Sponaugle, Franklin & Marshal, (Pa), 195, Hershey, Pa.

Guard—John Butler, San Diego State, (Cal), 170, Sr., San Diego, Cal.

Tackle—Edwin Garland, Catawba, (N. C.), 235, Sr., Utica, N. Y.

End—Hershel Ramsey, Texas Tech, 189, Soph., Chillicothe, Tex.

Q. B.—William Roy, Loyola (New Orleans), 190, Sr., Stuttgart, Ark.

H. B.—John Oravec, Willamette (Ore), 135, Sr., Newark, N. J.

H. B.—Milton Kobrosky, Trinity (Conn), 188, Sr., Springfield, Mass.

F. B.—James Fraley, Emporia (Kans) Teachers, 185, Sr., Hiawatha, Kans.

You Play, We'll Pay

THE SOUTHEASTERN conference is to be commended for voting to publicly recognize football players as white folks, consider them equal in intelligence, respectable enough to be classified with other members of the student body, and to sanction the payment of athletes' expenses through school.

It might seem that we are commending the Southeastern loop, next door neighbor of the Southwest conference, for deciding to be unashamed of its football players and policies. What we really mean is that our southern brethern should be bouqueted for throwing off the veil of hypocrisy and admitting the importance of athletes and athletics.

Of course the practice of paying athletes is nothing new. It is news when a conference as important as the Southeastern breaks down and admits it, and announces it will continue to do so. Southeastern's announcement should not materially affect the standards of football anywhere. Things should rock along as usual, but unless other conferences likewise come out in the open, verbally, the Southeastern will attract more than its quota of first class football ivory.

Differences of opinion flew over the wires Friday and Saturday after the Southeastern action. In some quarters, the news was greeted enthusiastically. In others, staid college heads and officials predicted trouble and explosions.

At this writing, we do not know whether the Southwest conference took official action on the subject last night or not, but it would be wise to do so. From T. C. U. Friday night came a statement from the school head that no good would come of the move, that he opposed "pay for play." At the same time, the University of Texas athletic head said he favored such a policy. Other schools had not been quoted, one way or another, before this column went down.

Rich Schools In Favor

As the movement spreads, you probably will find the wealthier schools in accord with the Southeastern's plan, while the weaker sisters will rebel. The latters' point is that they cannot afford to compete with richer institutions, that they cannot pay the salaries offered by others. Well, the "salaries" won't be any greater than they have been. If they get any larger, coaches' salaries will go lower, and the coaches aren't going to favor that.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS, one of the richest schools in the country, should, of course, favor the move, as Dr. W. R. Metzenthin, chairman of the athletic council, indicated. Texas can afford pretty fair salaries, which makes it all the more difficult to see why Texas doesn't have a winner every year.

Dr. Metzenthin had it down just about right when he said:

"I would rather see a slight lowering of our ideals and a clearing of our consciences than to wink outright at evils in falsely endeavoring to preserve ideals higher than we can expect to maintain."

Southern Methodist officials haven't been quoted, but the Mustangs should get well, financially, before hanging up their suits this season, and be in position to do a lot of spending. T. C. U. has had a good financial season, and the Sugar Bowl profit should account for a lot of new "jobs" around the Fort Worth institution.

Most schools, who play football in the upper stratum, can afford to continue jobs, but with many of them, "it ain't the salaries that worry us, after we get the boys—it's the original investment that runs us screwy."

Remember the charges of proselyting Coach Don Faurot of Missouri made against Jack Chevigny of Texas? . . . . Jack, said Don, was poaching on Missouri's high school athletic preserves . . . it is revealed now Texas had only one Missourian, (a scrub, at that) on its squad . . . . Missouri has two Texans on its first string, Jack Frye, ablest Tiger ball lugger and former Rice star, and Harold (Tex) Bourne, Missouri's best-receiving end . . . . T. C. U. should give Uncle Billy Disch at Texas a football letter . . . if you haven't heard the story, here it is: Sam Baugh really wanted to go to Texas to play baseball for Uncle Billy . . . . but he had to work his way through school and TCU offered the best paying job . . . . Slinging Sam held out until the last minute, then went to Austin for a final conference with Disch . . . . Uncle Billy not only advised him to accept the TCU offer but gave him a five spot to pay his train fare to Fort Worth. . . .

Bruins Defeat St. Mary's By 13 To 7 Score

Even Without Shorty Key In Backfield, Uclans Bear Up To Smack Down Gaels, Wind Up Season In Triple Tie

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—University of California at Los Angeles carved the final chapter of its greatest football season into the turf of Kezar Stadium, today with a 13 to 7 victory over a favored St. Mary's college eleven.

Unable to make a first down on the first half of the game, the Bruins nevertheless romped off the field at the half leading 6 to 0.

Gaels Score In 3rd

St. Mary's opened the third quarter with a touchdown, gained from a smashing 80 yard drive, and converted the extra tally to go into a one-point lead.

The tide turned again in favor of U. C. L. A. as the last period opened. With the ball on St. Mary's 46 yard marker, the Bruins drove down in two plays and an offside penalty to chalk up the points that clinched the game.

Veteran Duke Trammel Booked To Oppose Marlin Owens Monday Night In Main Event Of Ralls Boxing Offering

RALLS, Dec. 14. (Special) — In a minority are the boxing fans of Ralls and vicinity who believe young Marlin Owens, the Wichita Falls knockout king, will meet his match Monday night, that he will have considerable difficulty landing his strong right haymaker.

After running out of company, in this section, good enough to give Owens even half a match, promoters have scoured the state, finally selected the aging but able old socko artist, Duke Trammel of Fort Worth, to meet the blond youngster who has been stretching 'em on the canvas as fast as they were fed to him.

The Duke hasn't been in these parts for a couple of years, and he was getting his share of gray hairs even then. He has been keeping in shape however, doing considerable boxing in Central and South Texas.

Claims Record

Few men have mastered the Duke. He holds what he claims is a world record for knockouts, having blasted 245 opponents into dreamland according to his own admission. He fought in Lubbock a few times two years ago, lost a decision once.

While Owens does not boast and brag, he confides seriously and confidentially that "I can handle him o. k." Trammel is one of the best boxers, one of the hardest hitters ever to face the former Wichita Falls youth, but his rabid supporters believe Marlin can continue on the victory trail.

Supporting Owens and Trammel are Son "Kid" Smyers, Lorenzo lightweight, and Nick Santos, a Latin-American from Fort Worth, in eight rounds, or less, of semi-final fighting, and John D. Walters, Crosbyton middleweight, versus Red McDuff of Ralls in a scheduled six-round preliminary.

The show will be staged at City Auditorium, under auspices of the Ralls fire department, Floyd Parker, promoter for the Ralls Athletic club, announces tickets are on sale at Spencer's drug store in Ralls and Young's confectionery in Crosbyton. Ringside tickets are 75 cents, general admission, 50 cents and children, 25 cents.

Hardin-Simmons Withdraws From Texas Conference At Meeting Saturday; Plans To Seek Bigger Foes

DALLAS, Dec. 14. (AP)—Hardin-Simmons university withdrew from the Texas conference at its annual meeting here today, leaving the league with eight members. The withdrawal, first on the business shelf of the meeting, was accepted, and it was explained that Hardin-Simmons withdrew simply because it did not wish to continue in the conference.

Hardin-Simmons plans to seek bigger and better football games than in the past. The Cowboys boasted one of the best small college teams in the country this season.

The conference voted that each member must play five conference championship games to win championship recognition. All other business was routine.

T. C. U. Players Can't Wait To Start Workouts For Game At New Orleans; Lawrence Due To Be Ready To Go

FORT WORTH, Dec. 14. (AP)—They aren't due to resume training until Wednesday but those love-to-play football Frogs of T. C. U. will, of their own accord, start practice Monday afternoon for their Sugar Bowl game with L. S. U. in New Orleans New Year's Day.

Turned loose after the game with Santa Clara in San Francisco Dec. 7, the Christians enjoyed less than a full week of holiday before they became anxious to start preparing for their final test.

Where Women Urge Their Husbands To Take More Wives

"Before we surrender our religion we'll go to prison," says Mrs. Silvia Allred Spencer, one of the three accused in the polygamy case. She is shown here with her four sons.

"Elizabeth goes into ecstasies over the new spouse. . . . For the two are sister wives, and should treat each other as sisters."

John Y. Barlow, leader of the Short Creek colony which clings to a belief in polygamy.

Not a chapter from Turkish history, but a picture of life today in the pioneer settlement of Short Creek, Ariz., where the last known polygamous cult in the United States is tangling with the law

By Mildred Nixon

WHEN James wants to bring home a new bride, does his wife, Elizabeth, object?

Not at all. Elizabeth goes into ecstasies over the new spouse. She greets her with kisses and embraces. For the two are sister wives and should treat each other as sisters.

A few years go by. James doesn't show any inclination to wed again and his two wives are worried. Saddened that he should be so contented, they have a serious talk with him.

"James, you know the covenant teaches that the more you wed, the greater will be our eternal happiness," Elizabeth reminds him in her most pious manner. "Don't you think you had better look about for another bride?"

James is touched and a few weeks later he brings home his third wife. Now there are three sister wives to do the house work and look after James.

DOES that sound as though it were a chapter from the Ottoman empire of 500 years ago?

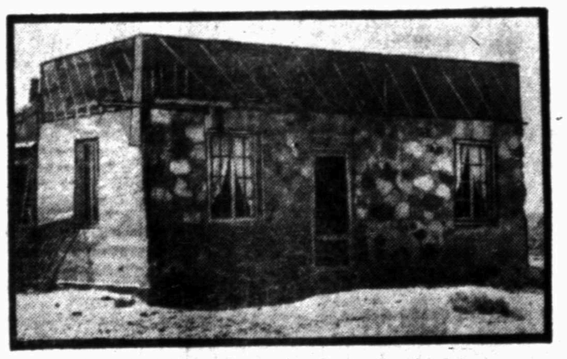

It isn't. It is a snapshot from life in a pioneer settlement of the western badlands. For as fantastic as it may seem in this year of 1935, the women folk of Short Creek, Ariz., not only ask their husbands to take more wives but they insist upon it.

To these rugged women of the last known polygamous cult in the United States, the old Mormon belief in many wives and many children is the only way to heaven. Their sister wives are a part of their religion. Their children are keys to salvation in the next world.

The Mormon church, of course, long ago renounced polygamy. Until an Arizona county attorney, Prosecutor E. Elmo Bollinger, of Mohave county, launched a crusade this fall against the Short Creek sect, few in the nation knew that during the last 45 years a small, determined band of men and women had held fast to their almost fanatical belief in polygamy.

Supported by the Mormon church, Prosecutor Bollinger has been attempting to re-enact in Arizona courts those momentous trials of the early nineties when the federal government sent scores to prisons. The first hearings were interrupted when the three persons accused mysteriously vanished; later, however, they voluntarily returned, new complaints were sworn—the first ones having been held invalid—and the amazing hearings were resumed.

Short Creek, set in a peaceful valley of frosty sagebrush over which tower great jagged mountains, is only a cluster of frame houses and green fields. Guarded by the grotesque gorges of the Colorado river to the south and by rocky desert trails to the north, Short Creek is a lost land which the rest of the world had virtually forgotten before Bollinger filed his sensational charges.

A typical home in barren Short Creek, Ariz.

Short Creek, the remote Arizona frontier village, where the faith in polygamy is still actively held.

AND there among the silver maples, with fervor in her voice and a challenging sparkle in her eyes, Mrs. John Y. Barlow pleads the sincerity of her faith with the few strangers who wander into the outpost. Her husband is leader of the cult's plan to bring several thousand acres under cultivation as the first step in the building of a tiny "kingdom" in this mountainous wilderness.

"The old covenant teaches," she asserts, referring to the first Mormon doctrine, "that unless a man has many wives and many children, he can never find the greatest measure of happiness in eternity.

"You see, we have three heavens. A man with one wife may go to the first but he can never ascend beyond that. At the time of the resurrection, it is the man who will take his family with him to heaven. So if there is only one wife, she too will have to suffer through all eternity with her husband.

"For we believe in everlasting marriage—that the husband and his wife or wives will always be together. Thus a woman can't ascend higher than her husband. That is why the women who believe in polygamy are anxious that their husbands follow the old doctrines and take many wives.

"The reason a man must have several wives is a logical one. The Lord said that we should 'go forth and propagate the earth for Him.' The more wives a man has, the more children he can bring into this world. His boys and girls are his keys to eternal joy. If he has many, he is assured of reaching the third heaven and of becoming a god himself, a ruler, perhaps a creator, of worlds of his own."

A BUXOM, dark-haired motherly woman of 50, Mrs. Barlow works long hours to care for her seven stepchildren, the youngest of Barlow's 19 sons and daughters. Although Short Creek is isolated from the rest of the world, she keeps the six curly-haired girls and the four-year-old boy dressed as attractively as children in the cities. And while the girls are decidedly pretty and the boy is a handsome little fellow, she takes pride only in their intelligence.

Although the Short Creek defendants, facing a term of three years in prison if they are convicted, deny that they have more than one wife at present, admitting only that they are "polygamists at heart," the women are frank to tell of how the wives live in harmony—when there are wives.

"Not one woman in a million in the United States can understand the polygamist wife," points out Mrs. J. M. Lauritzen who is not a member of the faith although she lives in Short Creek. "Most young wives are intensely jealous of their husbands. Each one feels that her husband is all her own, a prize piece of real estate to which she has already bought the deed.

"The polygamy wives, and most of them are of good character and hard workers, believe that to reach heaven their husband must have several brides. So they overcome their natural inclinations toward envy and hatred by plunging all the more deeply into their religion. Most of them actually love their sister wives and would go to any length to help them. The polygamy family, where the religion is actually believed and followed, is a happy one. Despite what the world believes, there is seldom any bickering among the wives.

"I know this to be true. My grandfather had nine wives and they worked together in perfect peace. When he died, they were all grief-stricken, but so fond of each other were they that they lived together for several years after his death.

"Often two sisters will marry the same man. This is always an ideal arrangement since the girls can continue being with each other, just as they have been during childhood.

"THE husband, of course, always asks the consent of his present wife or wives before he takes another one. If they don't like the girl, they tell him, and while he may be a lovesick swain for a time, he eventually forgets about her. That makes for congeniality in the family."

One of those whom Bollinger accused—one of those who fled, but later returned—is a woman. She is Mrs. Silvia Allred Spencer, who has four roly-poly, tow-headed boys. Twenty-five years of age, she works along with her husband in the fields, and takes care of the house tasks at night. She believes fervently in the polygamy faith.

"Despite everyone, we are going to keep faith with our God," she declared, the smile gone from her face, her eyes narrowed in determination. "Before we surrender our religion, we'll go to prison.

Prosecutor E. Elmo Bollinger of Mohave county, Ariz.

"WE trace our faith back to the days of Abraham. The Bible records most definitely that he had many wives. The Bible also tells us about David and Solomon. They were among the first polygamists. So, you see, our religion is one of the oldest in the world."

The older children are also proud that they are the sons and daughters of polygamist believers. Their faith in their parents is expressed by Barlow's dark-haired, winsome, 15-year-old daughter.

"We know that polygamy is the true faith," she says devoutly. "When we grow to maturity, we expect to continue in this religion of our fathers and mothers."

County Attorney Bollinger, though, paints another picture of the Short Creek cult. He maintains that piety is only a cloak for immorality.

"We have evidence from neighbors in Short Creek and from farmers in nearby communities," he reports, "that the polygamy advocates are using religion to disguise their evil practices. Since they are always reaching out for converts and maintain an office in Salt Lake City where they print a good deal of literature on polygamy, we believe that the cult is a serious threat to the morals of our youth.

"We have records to prove that one of the believers in polygamy has preached his doctrines widely over the United States. These people hoped to bring several hundred families to Short Creek and to found a small empire of their own. They thought that since they were so far away from the law—400 miles from the county seat of Kingman—they could live as they please and escape detection. They had hoped that they might develop a large community here and, by gradually expanding, become so powerful that no one could stop them.

"Such a marriage system is contrary to the laws of the United States and is a slap at the decencies of a civilized people who have come to hold marriage in a sacred light.

"The very foundation of our nation is built upon the conception of one man for one woman. Our family life rests upon it, and if we are to allow polygamy once again to become the force that it was in the middle of the 19th century, we will be threatened with a serious social upheaval."

MEANWHILE life flows on in Short Creek much the same as it has since the settlement was founded a quarter of a century ago.

The village has no electricity, no gas, no ice, no radios, no newspapers, no magazines, no plumbing, and only two automobiles.

The homes resemble those of pioneer days. Time-scarred hand organs and decrepit sofas are in staid parlors. Rag carpets are in the making on wooden forms.

The men herd a few cattle and plow in the fields. They take turns at running a sawmill. They share crops and whatever other of worldly goods they have. They believe strongly in common property and common distribution.

The women abhor rouge and powder. They wear long skirts and always long underwear, the better to conceal their legs.

Every Saturday night, the faithful gather for the weekly dance. No jazz orchestra, however, blares forth. A violinist plays old square dance numbers. The youngsters tag each other in hide-and-go-seek games.

Such is the setting for this century's "war on polygamy" as history repeats itself in the west.

Far-Casting Diplomatic Shadows Obstacles To Week-Old Naval Conference

Japan Causing Uncertainties

"Super-Secret" Session Rumor Heard; Fear Exists That A Wreck On Bi-Lateral Rocks May Be Result

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The shadow of secret diplomatic maneuvers fell tonight across the week-old naval conference, struggling to extricate itself from the complications of Japanese parity demands.

Uncertainty hinged on two developments, both originating with the Japanese.

Fear Expressed

Some observers expressed fear that the conference might be turned into a "super-secret" session, coupled with the launching of separate talks. They said this might steer the conference on the rocks of bilateral conversations, which wrecked preliminary negotiations last year.

The Americans were uneasy at this trend from the open round table discussions, which they feel are vital to avoid the playing off of one nation against the other.

Britain Explains

Great Britain's delegation hastened to clear up the status of its private talk last night with the Japanese and said it was purely supplementary to the conference itself. Such talks among the various delegations are continuing from time to time.

Nevertheless, the feeling remained among observers that the Japanese are trying to drive a wedge between the Americans and the British in their opposition to Tokyo's equality proposal.

Tech Stadium

ing capacity of approximately 14,000 was planned, and work would have been completed in an estimated 175 calendar days.

Completed, the stadium would have been ultra-modern, with the latest expression in architectural design and convenience embodied. Overhanging and flanking the gridiron, scooped out to nine feet below the present surface elevation, great earthen wall would have been raised, with the field, all slopes, and ramps to be sodded. The bowl would have been horseshoe shaped, with an opening facing the south.

Provision for additions was included. A quarter-mile circular track was to surround the field.

Details Are Unknown

Because of briefness of time elapsing before Associated Press circuits in the Southwest were closed, further information from those who might have been able to explain chances for further consideration could not be obtained.

Local officials explained they were not at liberty to divulge an alternate plan for construction, mentioned in Coach Cawthon's message.

"We have been informed in confidence of a method for constructing the stadium," said one spokesman who is known authoritatively to be on the "inside." "That would mean to violate a confidence."

A $10,500 grant for erection of a school at Whiteface, Cochran county, and an $11,093 grant for a school at New Home, Lynn county, were included in approvals announced, said the Associated Press. They were classified as new projects.

Great Britain

went off. These bombs were his hobby.

A significant diplomatic development was the disclosure that Great Britain has begun negotiations with Germany for a closer relationship.

Talks instigated in Berlin by the Britain ambassador with Reichsfuehrer Hitler were said to center about the possibilities of limitation of armaments and mutual aid air pact among signers of the Locarno treaty, mainly Germany, France, Italy and Britain.

Widespread criticism in Britain of the peace formula will take concrete form next Thursday when the house of commons debates foreign affairs.

Criticism Is Expected

Informed sources do not expect the government of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin to fall but expect it to be roundly criticized.

The Evening Star, liberal newspaper, headlined the foreign office white paper showing different attitudes toward Rome and Addis Ababa on the peace plan: "Diary of the great Ethiopia 'betrayal.'"

Uncertainty clouded the halls of the League of Nations, where the peace plan was denounced privately in many quarters Friday when it was made public.

The council meets next Wednesday to take up the plan and to act on Emperor Haile Selassie's demand for a session of the assembly because the formula's application would be a violation of the covenant.

R. S. Rodgers Is Elected To Another Term In Loan Bank

R. S. Rodgers, local secretary of the Lubbock National Farm Loan association, and for six years local director of the Federal Land bank of Houston, was elected for another three year term, it was announced Saturday. W. I. Myers, governor of the farm credit administration, made the announcement.

During the past two years, Mr. Rodgers said Saturday, his association has "loaned to farmers of this county, in excess of $3,000,000." The local group is one of the strong ones in the state, in point of number of loans and of total amount loaned.

"I have not missed a single meeting since I have been a director of the Federal Land bank," Mr. Rodgers added.

Appointment as local director carries with it the ex-officio post as director of the Bank of Cooperatives at Houston, the Production Credit bank and the Intermediate Credit bank. All of these groups are a part of the farm credit administration. All directors meetings are held in Houston, once a month.

Public Safety Probe Heated

ed Hickman to raid a resort near Fort Worth and the ranger failed to do so. He said that a little later Ranger Captain Fred McDaniel seized a large quantity of gambling equipment at the place, and that as long as McDaniel was stationed at Fort Worth the resort was closed.

After the safety department was organized and Hickman was made senior captain, the governor continued, Hickman instructed rangers to make no gambling raids except on direct orders from him, and created a "shoestring" district under his charge to include all the big gambling areas in the state.

"After several oral instructions to Tom Hickman to put a stop to these 'big shot' gambling houses, Phares wrote a letter to him giving him written instructions to close these big gambling houses," Allred testified. "Hickman didn't close the gambling houses. He made no effort to do so."

Grilling Related

The governor said that subsequently in his office he asked Hickman why he had not closed the resort and Hickman replied he would try to do so but "it would take time."

"I told him that none of them were operating when he took over his duties as senior captain and that now they had all reopened," the governor testified.

Hickman explained, Allred said, that McDaniel had kept the place closed "during a dull season" and that the operator wanted to open only during the racing season.

He said Hickman made various objections that a search warrant would be needed, that the place was surrounded by a high fence and that fierce dogs kept guard. Hickman raised every suggestion that a good criminal lawyer could raise, he said.

Ineffective Raid Made

Later Hickman made the raid, but seized no equipment, which had been removed to another room. The governor said Assistant Attorney General Letcher King told him he was in the resort at the time for curiosity and was "disgusted" with the way Hickman conducted the raid. He testified that Polk Shelton, Austin attorney, told him Hickman came in with three rangers, made no search, merely looked around and left.

A few days later Captain McCormick and Ranger Private Sid Kelso raided the place, cutting wire entanglements and seized about $8,000 worth of gambling equipment.

The governor said he was informed that on the way from Austin to Fort Worth Hickman told some plain clothes men from the highway patrol "this was going to be the worst slam the public safety commission ever had."

Allred Faces Barrage

"Governor, have you accused Tom Hickman of having tipped off that raid he made?" Rep. Atchison asked.

"He came in after the commission fired him and said he wanted me to intercede with them to keep him," Allred said. "I told him I wouldn't do it, and he wanted to know why.

"I said, 'To be frank with you, Tom, you have been inexcusably negligent. You have fired men off this force for being less negligent than you have been, and to be most charitable you haven't done a thing since you have been a ranger. You have laid down on this job, and I am not going to intercede for you.'

"Disgraced The Force"

"He said, 'Well, I loved the force,' and I said 'Well I think you have disgraced the force'.

"He said, 'Why?'

"I said, 'To go out there and pull a fake raid and have it announced before you come that you are coming, that the rangers are coming, and a bell is pressed before you get there, and then you stay there and don't make any genuine search of the place, and then you leave and five minutes after they haul out the gambling paraphernalia and gamble all night.'"

Atchison asked whether Allred accused Hickman of being the "tip-off man" in that raid.

"From the facts I have enumerated," Allred said, "if it was tipped off—it rather looks like it might have been — I think the evidence points to Tom Hickman more than anyone else."

"Do you actually think he did it?" Atchison queried.

"I Think He Did"

"I told you what I think he did," Allred replied. "I think he saw that day when I talked to him that he was going to have to do something and he thought he would pacify me by going out and staging what purported to be a raid."

"And you say you think he intended to stage a fake raid? Do you mean he tipped them off before he got there?"

"You evidently inferred that from what I said."

"Am I correct in inferring that?"

"Well, I will say the same thing I told him. I wish I didn't think so."

"Do you think so?"

"Embarrassment" Sought

The governor referred repeatedly to incidents during the regular and called sessions of the legislature and asserted Atchison and Hanna desired to embarrass his administration. Several times he slammed the table with his fist and pointed his finger for emphasis.

He charged that every gambler, race track operator and the sulphur companies welcomed the inquiry and said he opposed it because he knew "no good would come from it."

"I knew you were not going to try to get the facts and would get out and smear and besmirch," he said and pointed to failure to consult Ford, member of the committee favorable to the governor, on witnesses and procedure.

"Maybe you didn't think what you were doing," he said. "It would have been just common courtesy and decency to come to me as governor and ask about the facts and not spread the testimony of a disgruntled officer," he said. "You could have found out the facts without slurring the three commissioners I appointed who enjoy as good a reputation as Hickman without killing a couple of bank robbers."

Investigation Said Favored

Atchison said he favored the investigation because it involved Hickman, a fellow townsman, and he wanted to know the facts. Atchison denied he opposed establishment of the safety department and said he supported it on every vote. He accused the governor of hampering the committee by "jumping on us."

The governor referred to Atchison's statement several months ago that he would support another candidate for governor.

"Bring on your candidate and trot out your horses," he said. Allred denied certain testimony given by Hickman at a hearing in Fort Worth, particularly on the necessity of a search warrant before raiding a gambling place.

He testified that Hickman argued with two rangers there was no gambling in a Fort Worth hotel but that the rangers raided the place anyway and seized a huge quantity of equipment.

Protection Is Hinted

Governor Allred related a conversation with a prominent Fort Worth insurance man who said he asked Hickman to raid a place operated by Fred Browning. He said the complainant quoted Hickman as saying Browning was his friend.

The governor testified that on two occasions he heard Hickman say Browning was "a nice fellow" and operated a nice place and only allowed people to gamble who could afford to lose.

Questioned about appointment of a ranger, the governor told Atchison, "That's none of your business."

"Naturally I am interested in the department," he said. "The way it is operated will be charged to me. I appointed the commission and I don't believe there is anything wrong if the commission and director discuss appointments and department affairs with me."

The committee recessed subject to call after defeating Ford's motion that it adjourn permanently.

Program Of Extension Work For Three West Texas Areas For Coming Year To Be Mapped At Sessions

Program of extension work for three West Texas districts, Nos. 1, 2 and 6, for the coming year, will be mapped at a three-day meeting here beginning Monday by county agents, home demonstration agents and extension service executives from College Station. Opening session is set for 9 a. m. in the Hilton hotel.

An attendance of around 125 men and women, headed by H. H. (Bill) Williamson, College Station, director of the state extension service, is expected. Jack Shelton, state agent and vice director and Miss Mildred Horton, vice director, are expected to arrive with Mr. Williamson today.

Conferences Slated

There will be a series of meetings and conferences during the three days. While headquarters will be at the Hilton hotel, there will be meetings in the Hotel Lubbock as well.

District agents expected are: No. 1, Parker D. Hanna, men's agent, and Miss Ruby Washburn, women's agent; No. 2. Otto G. Tumlinson, men's agent, and Miss Lida Cooper, women's agent; No. 6, E. C. Martin, men's agent, and Miss Kate Adele Hill, women's agent.

Specialists of the several lines of work are to be here with the state heads, for conferences. They will discuss schedules of their respective departments for the year.

Sixty to 65 men agents from the three districts are to be here. Each district will arrange for its own conference on the plan for the year. About 40 women agents are also expected. The women will confer with them on work program.

Matters pertaining to AAA and other government programs will be discussed. Washington is expected to have two or three field men in attendance.

Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, extension editor, who took the place of W. H. Darrow, loaned to the AAA, will be here and will talk on publicity work for clubs.

From the Lubbock district, No. 2, will come probably the largest group of men and women. The district has 20 county agents and two assistant county agents and 12 home demonstration agents.

Young Man Pulls Fast Theft Plan

AMARILLO, Dec. 14. (AP)—Unsuspecting Christmas shoppers looked on while a nice-looking young man briskly walked up to the cash drawer of a "five-and-ten" store, took $40 in cash, and quietly walked away.

Customers who saw the coatless, hatless youth with his shirt sleeves rolled up thought he was an employe. Real employes recalled having seen him in the store a short time before wearing a coat and hat. He was lost among sidewalk crowds before store officials realized what had happened.

The robbery occurred yesterday afternoon. Police today had found no trace of the nice-looking young man.

Legion Reiterates Plan To Give Tree Funds To Charity

American Legion cooperation in beautifying the city Christmas with Washington fir Yule trees was advanced Saturday by announcement the organization would furnish trees to Sanders and K. Carter schools, that it is cooperating with the city to decorate the down-town business section, and that a 16-foot tree had been donated to Goodfellows.

Mexican and negro schools already had been furnished trees, said Dr. H. H. Bidwell and W. H. Wright, commander and adjutant, respectively.

Tree sales are decreasing, the officials said.

"Buy a tree from the American Legion and help underprivileged children of Lubbock," they said, pointing out that proceeds from trees will go to Christmas charity.

Federal Probe Being Sought

Investigation By G-Men Asked By Prosecutor In Arizona; He Declares That Surface Is Only Scratched

KINGMAN, Ariz., Dec. 14. (AP)—A drive by the G-men against polygamists was urged today by Prosecutor E. Elmo Bollinger who declared he had only "scratched the surface" in his campaign against "plural wife" cultists.

The Mojave county district attorney's recommendation of a federal investigation followed the conviction of two polygamists from the Short Creek colony on charges of "open and notorious cohabitation."

He termed alarming the number of members of "this cult that teach, believe in and practice polygamy."

Government Feeds Them

"I can name more than a dozen men beyond my jurisdiction who have from two to five wives and many children," he said. "I can name a man who has five wives in three states and the government is feeding all of them."

The Short Creek cult came to light when relief officials discovered women designed as plural wives in applications for relief.

I. C. Spencer and Price Johnson, the two convicted Short Creek colonists, were sentenced to serve from 18 months to two years.

Their attorneys protested that the "inherent rights of freedom of religion" had been violated, and announced they would appeal.

WICHITA FALLS MAN DIES

DENISON, Dec. 14. (AP) — S. C. Sedwick, 77, retired railway mail clerk from Wichita Falls, was injured fatally today when he fell at the entrance to the Katy hospital.

His skull was fractured and he died an hour later.

As a precautionary measure against air races, Germany has ordered a general cleanup of attics and lofts.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14. (AP)—Weekend evening-up operations and poor foreign cables brought minor recessions on the cotton market today as futures closed from 7 to 16 points lower.

There was some profit taking in the early trading on Friday's advance and when Liverpool reported an unsteady market prices began to slip off at New Orleans.

Dec. ended the week at 11.59, March at 11.23, May at 11.11 and Oct. at 10.89. The latter position suffered the sharpest decline, losing 16 points on the day. In the spot markets sales still held well above last year, but the average price of middling at 10 southern markets was 12 points lower at 11.61.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—Cotton prices were lower today under scattered selling and week-end realizing.

March sold down to 11.23 or 13 points net lower and within 9 points of Thursday's low level. The market closed barely steady at net declines of 13 to 16 points.

The report of the census bureau showing domestic consumption of 597,836 bales for November against 480,051 last year was about in line with expectations.

LIVERPOOL CABLES Tone of market steady. Scattered southern and Bombay hedging met limited trade offtake. Speculation cautious pending supreme court decision and AAA announcement regarding liquidation present stocks. Barter deal for 100,000 bales of cotton reported arranged between Brazil and Japan. Public opinion here strongly against peace proposals and government severely criticised in all quarters under circumstances, many here think amicable peace settlement with Italy remote.

NEW YORK WIRES: Oscar Johnson reported to have issued warning to cotton planters not to jeopardize future of AAA program by passing hardships and inconveniences of crop control on to backs of their tenants and share croppers and added cotton ground would be committed regardless of supreme court decisions.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.: Spot cotton entering holiday dullness. There has been a weakness in low grades and however the better qualities are holding firm.

AUGUSTA, Ga.: Offerings in spot cotton decreasing on this market but demand is still good.

NORMAN MAYER & Co. wires: "With evidence of trade support under market purchases look best."

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—Pressure relaxed in today's brief stock market session as a few of the metals, oils, motors and specialties recovered moderately.

There were still plenty of skeptics in the boardrooms, however, and the sidelines continued attractive for many traders. Dullness marked the two-hour proceedings. The close was steady. Transfers approximated 700,000 shares.

Chartists were far from discouraged with the action of the list. It was suggested that the erratic tendencies of leading stocks in the past week may have been due partly to year-end factors and partly to the necessity for a consolidation after a long advance.

The silver mystery was as far from solution as ever, but it apparently had become less conspicuous as a market factor.

Wheat reacted after its yesterday's spurt and cotton pointed lower. Trends in the bond department were indefinite. Some rail liens sagged and Italian obligations were again a bit soft.

Share gainers of fractions to around a point or more included American Smelting, International Nickel, U. S. Smelting, Chrysler, Case, Westinghouse, Atlantic Refining, Houdaille-Hershey, Marlin-Rockwell, American Telephone and Western Union.

Continental Can came back about 2 points and American Can rallied around a point. American Type Founders preferred got up about 6 points on optimism over the company's reorganization plans. The rails and steels were narrow. American Tobacco "B", Public Service of New Jersey and Eastman Kodak were rather heavy.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 14. (AP)—Heavy profit-taking on the part of recent speculative buyers led to wheat price setbacks today that in some cases amounted to nearly 2 cents.

Lowest prices for wheat here were reached near the end of the day. The fact that new export business in Canadian wheat was estimated at but 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 bushels, an aggregate greatly less than yesterday's total, was something of a drag on values.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅝ to 2¼ cents under yesterday's finish, May 98⅞@99, corn ⅝ to 1⅜ down, May 60¾@60⅝, oats ¼ to 1 cent off, and provisions at 5 to 12 cents decline.

America Takes Aviation Lead

French Aeronautical Body Has Approved Recent Records To Allow United States Margin Over French Fliers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (AP)—Five new aviation records, including a landplane speed record established by Howard Hughes of Santa Ana, Calif., put the United States ahead of France today in the race for aerial supremacy.

The National Aeronautical association announced three new records had been approved by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale of Paris. It cited two other figures set for light type seaplanes this week at Miami by Ben King of Washington as giving the United States 39 against 38 for France, as soon as final official approval is forthcoming.

Record May Stand

The Hughes flight of 352.388 miles an hour at Santa Ana Sept. 13 was described by an association representative as "likely to be unbroken for a long time unless somebody wants to spend a million on it, as Hughes did."

The Paris association recognized the flight of Lieutenant Commander Knefler McGinnis with a twin engined navy flying boat from Coco Solo, Panama, to Alameda, Calif., Oct. 14 and 15, as a world long distance record for this type of craft. The 3,700 mile flight was completed in 34 hours 45 minutes.

Major Alexander P. De Seversky, head of the Severesky Aircraft corporation of Farmingdale, L. I., was credited with a new straight line speed record for amphibans by flying 370.814 kilometers an hour.

Negro Is Held For Burglary

Solution Of Burglary Nov. 24 Of Kessel Dry Goods At Slaton Is Solved; Man Is Arrested At Seguin

Solution of a Nov. 24 burglary of Kessel Dry Goods company store at Slaton was announced Saturday morning by Sheriff Tom Abel of Lubbock and Chief of Police R. L. Wicker of Slaton, who telegraphed from Seguin they had arrested a negro man and had recovered all loot.

Details of the burglary, which resulted in loss of several suits, overcoats and a quanity of underwear, shirts, socks and other apparel, were related by Bedford F. Carpenter, deputy sheriff, to whom the telegram was addressed.

Made Through Skylight

Entry to the store was made through a skylight, exit the same way. A silken rope, made of women's hose doubled and knotted, and left on the roof of the store, puzzled officers for several days, until they had checked loot. They concluded the burglar had used the improvised rope to lift two heavy traveling bags filled with merchandise, after mounting to the roof by a hempen rope.

First traces of the suspect were uncovered when another negro noticed a light in a negro church, the night of the burglary. He peered in and saw a negro man and a quantity of merchandise. The suspect was gone when officers were informed. They learned the negro had "caught" a freight and, believing he could not take all the merchandise missing from the store, had express records on Slaton shipments mailed them from Fort Worth. They found two bags had been shipped to Seguin and found that weight corresponded to apparrel missing from the store.

Arrest afterward was merely "routine procedure", deputies said.

A queer quirk of the chase was that it was successful in landing its quarry while only approximately a quarter hour of Black Friday remained.

Mr. Abel and Mr. Wicker conducted searches in both Seguin and Luling, which lie east of San Antonio. They encountered their man before a pool hall at Lulling, dressed immaculately in clothing asserted-ly taken from Slaton.

The officers said the negro had been charged with burglary, the complaint listing him as Johnson Redd.

The officers punctuated straight driving and searching that began Friday morning at 7 o'clock with seven hours' sleep and started their return drive.

Assistant To Be Appointed

Lubbock County Will Get Assistant Home Demonstration Agent; Name Of New Member Not Announced

Lubbock county will have an assistant county home demonstration agent beginning January 1, 1936, the first county west of Fort Worth to have an assistant for the women's extension work, it was announced Saturday.

Announcement was made jointly by Miss Lida Cooper, district home demonstration agent leader and County Judge E. L. Pitts. Decision was made by the commissioner's court to appoint an assistant, the first of the week when Miss Cooper and Miss Norfleet Grimes, demonstration agent, appeared before the commissioner's court.

Name Not Announced

"We cannot announce the name of the young lady at this time, but we will do so before the first of the year," Miss Cooper said. "She has not definitely been selected at this time.

"Personally, I am very well pleased at the action of the commissioner's court in making possible this work. An assistant has been needed in Lubbock county for a long time and when we presented the situation to the court, they were quick to see the need, and to act.

"The assistant will be in charge of the work among the girls in the county. She will also assist Miss Grimes in the women's work."

Action was taken, Judge Pitts said, when the state extension service offered to pay $1,200 a year for the work if the county would put up $420. "The court felt under the circumstances that the offer should be accepted," Judge Pitts said. "There are 18 clubs for women in the county and 11 clubs for girls. At the meeting there were two requests for clubs by women and two by girls. The court is unanimously behind this extension work."

Bride's School Teaches Details Of Housework

* * *

Mrs. K. S. Kirkland's difficulties in learning how to smock a dress led her to found the Brides School, where women can learn to do anything connected with housekeeping.

Courses Designed To Suit Both Maids And Matrons

BY MARY M. McBRIDE
NEA Service Staff

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—Five or six times a day the telephone jingles at Brides' School, and it's actually a bride asking in a plaintive voice whether, if she comes right over, there will be somebody to show her exactly where the forks and things go when you're setting a table for an informal luncheon. Or it may be an obstinate bed, the sheets of which she can't seem to get tucked in properly. Or perhaps it's her new inexpensive and very green maid she'd like to bring over for instruction in answering a telephone.

In short, the Brides' School which, under the supervision of Scientific Housekeeping, Inc., opened a while back with a fine committee of social lights and a great deal of publicity, has settled down to become a genuine boon to the female newly-wed

How It Happened

"YOU see," explains Mrs. K. S. Kirkland, who thought the whole thing up, "brides may take entire courses or they may solve individual problems as they come up. Never before was there a school like this one. In fact, the way I happened to think of the Brides' School was through an experience of my own.

"One winter I wanted to smock a child's dress, and I didn't know how. I found a school, however, which would give me a course in sewing. The trouble was that before I got to smocking, I had to leave town, so the dress never did get smocked. That rankled within me for a long time. Then one day it occurred to me that there ought to be a school that would teach housekeeping, by the piece, so to speak — that is, take up each problem as it arose for the inexperienced."

Apparently a lot of society women had had difficulties similar to that of Mrs. Kirkland with the smocking — or maybe they remembered bride days in new homes when they, too, were very new at the business of home-making. At any rate, when Mrs. Kirkland put the matter to them, a number were enthusiastic, and agreed to go on the board of the proposed institution.

The bride classes are held in an old brownstone house in the East Sixties which has been converted into a complete laboratory. The longest course lasts three months,

From The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Avalanche-Journal Woman's Editor

LITTLE David was in a haze. He had been shopping with his mama for a couple of weeks. Invariably he was dragged to the toy departments and had already shaken hands with four Santa Clauses and had seen a thin one ringing a bell calling attention to a pot that must be kept boiling.

• • •

All stores were decorated with everything from ten-foot trees of white to tissue streamers ranging from silver to red. Street lights in the early dusk were red and green and blue, instead of white. Christmas trees stood in holes in the cement for miles it seemed to David. Houses on the way to town boasted polychrome illuminations and wreaths and bells hung at doors and windows.

• • •

DAVID was tired of answering Uncle Bill's and Aunt Emma's questions about what he wanted Santa Claus to bring him. Hadn't he already said to a hundred people that he wanted a train and sled and a wheelbarrow? His tired little brain began to pound with the possibility that he had not wanted those things in the first place, but had been prompted with the suggestions by grownups. He wasn't sure what he wanted.

• • •

One night as he went to bed he heard his mother say, "Well, I'm through. Christmas cards and everything. Not another thing to be done."

• • •

And as he sank into slumber, David murmured, "I'll almost be glad when Christmas is over, but I hope the store man doesn't forget to send my train. Mom told him to send it out a long time ago."

• • •

WE REMEMBER ANEW

THE birth of a baby in the hills of Judaea long years ago was the beginning of all of this celebration that is often so confusing to the young child. We mean well with our planning and hustling and bustling, but we should remember the preliminaries often are dazzling to him.

• • •

A PALM TO THEM

THE American Legion auxiliary is the first organization in the city to check its list of needy families to be remembered at Christmas with the Goodfellow list.

• • •

PROPHET FROM THE SLUMS

DR. Toyohiko Kagawa, who is called "Wesley of Japan," means to bring Christmas to "Hell America," says a writer in a current issue of The Literary Digest. Several years ago the prophet from the slums of the Orient said that our country was divided into two parts, a "Heaven and a Hell America."

• • •

For hundreds of years churches of the United States have sent missionaries to the mystic East to train those peope in ways of the Christ, and now, paradoxically enough, an Oriental fgure comes to our shores to bring his conception of Christianity. And from what we have been able to gather from his books and articles about Kagawa, he interpreted this religion after life among the poor in Toyko. He has come face to face with the tragic social problems of his country, and in attempting to solve these problems he has applied successfully the teachings of Christ.

• • •

A letter the Rev. W. R. Vivrett, pastor of First Christian church, received from Dr. Kagawa last March read in part: "I hasten to assure you of my real love for America. I pray that you and all pastors in America may join us in Japan, continually, in spreading the spirit of friendliness between the two peoples."

BUYING THE GROCERIES

A weekly grocery order for a family of three or four, according to Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of a national health magazine, should be about as follows:

Milk, 10 to 14 quarts.
Eggs, 6.
Bread, 14 to 18 loaves.
Rice, macaroni and other cereals, 3 to 6 pounds.
Potatoes, 15 to 20 pounds.
Beans and peas, 1 or 2 pounds.
Other vegetables, 4 to 7 pounds.
Fruit, 3 pounds.
Tomatoes (canned), 2 to 3 pounds.
Fresh fruit, prunes, dried fruits, occasionally.
Meat, fish, and cheese, 1 to 5 pounds.
Butter, lard and oleomargarine, 2 pounds.
Sugar, sweets, seasoning, and cocoa, 3 pounds.

Note that there is no allowance for coffee. Coffee and tea are not essential substances in any diet. They are healthful in giving warmth and inspiration. And no one has ever shown that moderate indulgence in tea, coffee, or tobacco appreciably shortened anyone's life.

Oils, Etchings Are Displayed

An exhibition of oil paintings and etchings by Mrs. Chester A. Hubbard is being sponsored this week, through Thursday at Seaman hall by City Federation of Women's club. The showing, which is open to the public daily from 2:30 to 5 p. m. was begun Saturday.

Twenty-five per cent of proceeds from sales of pictures will go to the sponsoring organization, Mrs. W. A. Jackson, president, said.

Mrs. Johnson Is Chairman

Mrs. J. S. Johnson, chairman of hostesses, has announced that the following members of federated clubs will receive callers each day:

Today, Mesdames T. R. Prideaux, O. D. Hargis, J. I. Kilpatrick and Leroy Patton; Monday, Mesdames Roy Riddel and W. L. Bradshaw; Tuesday, Mesdames E. L. Price and R. B. Fairly; Wednesday, Mesdames W. S. McDonald and Marvin McLarty, and Thursday, Mesdames A. C. Jackson and M. L. Moore.

Mesdames Rex Tynes and W. H. Johnston were hostesses the first day.

Pictures Are Listed

Pictures on display are: Oil, "Miss Delia", "My Sister", "My Son", "Dave", "The Model", "The Thinker", "A Bedouin", "Nancy McIlhaney", "Dahlias", "Coreposis", "Blossoms", "Alamogordo", "Sunshine and Sand", "Toward Albuquerque", "Mexico Morning", "Rocks", "Side Street, El Paso", "Arizona", "Evening Shades", "Desert Trail", "Well House of the Half Circle S", "Clouds", "Early June", "Southland", "Profile", "Winter on the Rio Grande", "Harp of the Western Winds", "The Shack", "Evening on the Concho";

Etchings, "Boats, Lake Michigan", "Old Headquarters of the T Bar", "Acquatint", "Tech Tower, Twilight", "Practice House Gate", "Winter, Mrs. Goodman's Doorway", "Adobe", "Yucca", "Taos", "Llano Estacado", "Sands of the West", "Sombrero", "Rail Fence, Oklahoma", "Seventeenth Street, Oklahoma City", "Sundown", and "The Balcony".

Brides' School

and in that time a young matron is taught how to run a home, how to tell if a house has been properly cleaned or how to clean it herself, how to deal with servants if she has them, and if she hasn't how to live and entertain without them.

• • •

In Hot Water

SEVERAL of the brides at the school were brought up without ever before having had to turn the proverbial hand. But when it came to marriage, they picked young men as yet unknown to fame and fortune. So there was nothing to do but try to learn the fundamentals of sweeping, dusting and cooking.

"It's curious how they most often find themselves in hot water over things they think they've known all their lives," Mrs. Kirkland comments. "For instance, our girls have always eaten at tables that were laid properly. If you had asked them about forks and napkins and the like, they would have assured you that of course they knew exactly what to do about such things. But the truth was, they had taken them for granted, never actually noticing how anything was done.

"Now that they have to do everything for themselves, they are in doubt about the simplest items of household arrangements."

• • •

Husbands Learn

AS IS fitting in this year of what one writer has called "the fifty-fifty plan of marriage carried to its ultimate," husbands are being drawn into the Brides' school plan, too. So far they seem less interested in the model kitchen with its pots and pans hung in just the proper location for efficiency than they do in the Wine and Spirit instruction.

These particular classes, conducted in the evening so that if husbands have jobs, they won't have to miss their lessons, attempt to teach both husband and wife what they ought to know about genteel drinking — what wines to serve with what foods, details about vintages that have remained deep, dark mysteries to most Americans, even the proper glasses to use and how to pronounce the foreign names in a way to overawe the most magnificent butler or head waiter.

Lubbock Garden Club Lighting Contest Entries Open

Contest Is To End This Week

Christmas Beautification Is Main Purpose Of Project; Winners For Last Year Are Listed By Chairman

Entries in the second annual Christmas lighting contest, sponsored by Lubbock Garden club, may be made for several more days, Mrs. R. T. Campbell, contest chairman whose telephone number is 2015-W, has announced.

The contest this year has seven sections; single window, double window, triple window, doorway or entrance, living tree, Christmas scene and general display. Lighting effects and decorations may be interior or exterior but all must be placed so they can be judged from the street.

Entries should be made early this week with Mrs. Campbell. The deadline has not been set, but entries probably will not be accepted later than Thursday, the chairman said, because of college folk and others entered who will be leaving Lubbock for the Christmas holidays by the week-end.

Judges will be selected from out-of-town, Mrs. W. P. Clement, president of the club, explained.

To Receive Ribbons

Winners in each section will be presented with blue, red and white ribbons for first, second and third places. Cash or gift awards will not be given this year because the club feels that merchants, who contributed prizes last year, are contributing all they can this Christmas to the Goodfellows, the president said.

"A great deal of interest has been shown in the contest. We have had numerous inquiries as to details," Mrs. Campbell said Saturday.

Last year's winners were as follows:

Living tree—First, K. N. Clapp, and second, Garnet Reeves.

Doorway—First, Mrs. Fred Stahler; second, Mrs. R. L. Fletcher, and third, Mrs. Mae Johnston.

Single medium sized window—First, Mrs. A. W. Evans; second, Mrs. C. M. Chandler, and third, Mrs. T. C. Root.

Christmas lighting effects must be entered in order to compete, the contest chairman said.

Pleats Featured In Frock Of Lame

From its glistening silk lame to the clever simplicity of the pleating and shirring design, this evening frock reeks of smart youthfulness. The shirred top is held by narrow double straps and the decolletage is outlined by a tiny band of pleats.

Tech AWS Will Sponsor All Girls Dance Tuesday Night

The Association of Women Students at Texas Technological college will sponsor an all-girls dance from 7 to 9 p. m. Tuesday in the lounge of the women's residence hall on the campus.

Ko-Shari Club Will Attend Party As Guest Of Pledges

Chatter Box Club Will Be Entertained By Miss Craig

Miss Ruth Craig will be hostess at 9 o'clock this morning at Tree Top Inn for Chatter Box club. Breakfast will be served.

JELLY FOR FROSTING

Jelly makes a wonderful frosting for cake that is to be eaten at once. Use any tart jelly, set it in a bowl over boiling water, add one egg white unbeaten and a little salt. Beat until there are no lumps. Remove bowl from boiling water and continue to beat until mixture is stiff. Spread on cake.

BANANA HAM SANDWICH

Bananas are good in the minced ham sandwich for the children's school lunch. Spread the sandwich bread with butter, then minced ham and finally add a layer of sliced bananas.

From Lou To Louella

Wee Bits Of Gossip Giving Comings, Goings, Doings Of Well Known People

DEAR Louella: Looks like Christmas is swooping down upon us and I haven't begun my shopping. I've been snooping around the shops, though, and have seen some interesting as well as funny sights. You'd be surprised who the woman was who submitted a dozen ten cent handkerchiefs to the wrapping department of the city's largest department store to be wrapped in one dollar looking packages.

I watch those girls who wrap the packages each Christmas with amazement. From now on there will be a waiting line at each counter a block long, and the girls will be wrapping their fingers to the bone from early every morning until late at night. They never sit down, they bend over a table and yards and yards of colored ribbons constantly. You'd think their backs would break, and they'd run out of ideas for fancy and different packages. They don't though, and what's more, at least two of them, Nettie Fay Brown and Beth Wulfman have a smile for every laden customer.

Many Staying For Christmas

People don't seem to be going anywhere much for Christmas, except the Tech faculty and students. Most of them will be pulling out this week, and are planning rather interesting vacations. I will tell you next week about two couples who are leaving Saturday for Monterrey.

Bertha Helen and Wright Kerr are leaving Tuesday for Georgia. They will be back, however, for Christmas.

The Texas university crowd will be rolling homeward next week-end and the youngsters who stayed at hove report that a festive, sleepless ten-day holiday is being anticipated.

• • •

ERNESTEEN Lockhart is to arrive from Stephens college about Thursday. She and the Sub Debs will have a great reunion.

Mrs Ada Whiteside of Dallas is here visiting until after Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson. She has been here a number of times, you know, and her visits always are anticipated by a number of friends.

You should have seen Coach Chapman downtown the other night with Richard Chapman Lowrey, infant son of Pinky. I guess Chap's grin was broader than the baby's because Chap's face is the larger. They certainly were having fun.

Mrs. Drown Back

Mrs. L. M. Drown is home from New York where she has been having a great time the past month with her sister. On the way home she stopped off in Maryland and in Dallas.

Mrs. J. Z. Freeman, she used to be Marian Evans, you know, is here visiting her Papa and Mamma, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Evans, and brother Teeny. She's going back to Houston about Saturday.

When I get to talking about people, I get to admiring someone like E. Omar Griffin, for instance, who knows a lot about people but doesn't talk. He is the night manager in one of our city's open-all-night drug stores. I'll be if he ever retires from night life—and he hasn't missed a night in I've forgotten how many years, but an astounding number considering his age—he can write some human interest stories that would put Katharine Brush in the shade.

CLYDE Elkins says it is no longer the thing to ask a young woman when she's going to marry. One should say "How long have you been married?", on account of the secret marriage fad that seems to have taken the younger set by storm.

A dapper young man breezed into town last week "for his health". He had "plenty of money" but no means of passing the time of day in a strange city. He explained the

Southwest's Richest Girl

Sale of her foster father's oil properties for $46,000,000 nearly quadruples the fortune of 15-year-old Mildred Yount, above, and brings her the title "richest girl in the southwest." But she remains as democratic and unassuming as the oil man—the late M. F. Yount, of Beaumont, Tex.—who adopted her when she was a 6-month-old baby. Her swimming, horses, and school work are occupying more of Mildred's attention these days than the increase in her estate from $3,200,000 to $11,000,000.

Talk On Early American Furniture Will Be Made Before Museum Group

The second lecture program of the season will be sponsored at 3 o'clock this afternoon by the Texas Technological college Art Museum society in the college engineering auditorium. Robert Ivan Lockard, assistant professor in the Tech department of architecture and allied arts, will give the first of a series of three talks on American art and furniture. His remarks will be illustrated with slides.

He will discuss origin of American furniture and influence of art of that period on its development.

Mr. Lockard came here from Kansas City, Mo., where he had charge of the early American period in the Nelson Gallery for two years until last fall. He has a master's degree in architecture from Kansas State Agricultural college at Manhattan.

Admission to the lecture may be by membership cards or student activity tickets. Students without tickets will be admitted for ten cents, and others without membership cards will be charged 25 cents.

F. A. Kleinschmidt, chairman, has announced that membership in the society is open. Charter memberships, as well as others, will be accepted.

Hollywood Is Exposed With Many Pastimes Of Stars Revealed By Harrison

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14 — Short takes: This is a town where everybody is a potential star except the grocer boy. And he has just submitted his seventh scenario.

Hollywood is a place where the brain trusters will pay $80,000 for a successful Broadway play, and then spend $80,000 more changing it around so nobody, including the author, can recognize it.

This is a town where even a title by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow may not pass the censors. They've changed "The Children's Hour" to "These Three" to circumvent associations between the name and the daring, unfilmable play.

New sport of Cinemania's princes—gliding. Jimmy Cagney and Robert Armstrong have taken it up.

One of Mae West's staunchest fans is Marlene Dietrich. The latter always drops around to listen when Klondike Lou records a song. On the comeback list: Lugia Montagna. Or maybe you recall him as Bull Montana. He has an acrobat role in "Song and Dance Man."

Double Pay, Half Work

THERE are more than 100 highly paid screen scriveners in Hollywood, but only half of them did any writing that was translated into celluloid during the last 12 months. It's THAT kind of a town.

Somebody gave Fred Astaire a little tin flute. He tootled so amusingingly that they've written it into "Follow the Fleet."

November, as usual, proved the poorest month for Hollywood fan mail. April always is best. Nobody knows just why, but it probably has something to do with spring.

Each To His Taste

PEOPLE of simple tastes, these Hollywoodsmen: Wallace Beery drives his own flivver. Leslie Howard likes corned beef and cabbage. William Powell won't have a valet. Spencer Tracy prefers to curry and rub down his own horses. Clark Gable's idea of fun is cleaning guns and shining up his hunting equipment.

Kay Francis likes acrobats and onion soup, football and card tricks, popcorn, knitting and tropical fish. But she can't stand complete darkness, the smell of fresh paint, pig Latin, or crossword puzzles.

Claudette Colbert is fond of potato chips and lacy lingerie and antique furniture and dogs—any dogs, big, little, mutts, and thoroughbreds. She doesn't like snobs, parsnips, radios, traffic signals or interference with her private affairs—or the affairs she considers private.

Miriam Hopkins likes reading in bed, crepes Suzette, flying, eggs Benedict, swimming, horses and washing her own hair. Can't bear avocados weepy women, wishy-washy men, cold water (even to drink), and doesn't care much for candy.

Littlefield Is To Vote On Liquor

LITTLEFIELD, Dec. 14. (Special)—Qualified voters residing in the corporate limits of Littlefield will vote Friday, Dec. 20, to determine whether or not the sale of all liquors shall be permitted within the town.

Voting box will be in City hall, in charge of J. T. Bellomy and J. H. Ware, election judges.

The election was called by Lamb county commissioners last Monday at Olton after a petition had been presented. A petition had also been presented from Sudan citizens, but an irregularity necessitated rewriting and presentation to the commissioners at a future date.

HEADS FRUIT PALACE

PALESTINE, Dec. 14. (AP)—C. O. Miller, jr., Palestine banker, Friday was elected secretary-manager of the Texas Fruit palace for 1936. F. H. Eilenberger was re-elected president and C. O. Laumen was named vice president.

Two More Cities Order Nickel Parking Meters For Streets

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 14. (AP)—Carl Magee, parking meter inventor, announced today two new cities, El Paso, Tex., and St. Petersburg, Fla., had ordered the nickel in the slot gadgets. Two other cities, Dallas, Tex., and Oklahoma City, now are using them.

Magee said El Paso ordered 500 and St. Petersburg 150.

Valley Potato Grower Wires Wallace He Will Defy Law

BROWNSVILLE, Dec. 14. (AP)—W. E. McDavitt, veteran potato shipper here, telegraphed Secretary Henry Wallace today he would defy the potato law and ship the tubers without stamps if they are not received "immediately."

"For thirty years these farmers have looked to me to market their potatoes," McDavitt said. "I am not going to sit here and watch their crop be ruined. I am going to market them regardless of consequences, if stamps are not secured immediately."

Stamps on hand cover less than five per cent of the potatoes ready for shipment, he said. Farmers were not cheered by reports from various department of agriculture officials that the "stamps are expected soon."

Highly prized books made for the early kings and popes were so expensive that they actually cost their weight in gold.

The Chessboard

Meeting of Dr. Alan L. Strout and Dr. R. S. Underwood for the fourth time will determine the chess championship of Lubbock. Doctor Underwood won the title first, and Doctor Strout has held it through the last two tournaments.

By dropping a half point in a drawn game with Renford Taylor, Gordon Webb fell below the two leaders in the play-off of the club's semi-annual tournament.

	Won	Lost	Pct
Strout	3	1	.750
Underwood	3	1	.750
Webb	3½	2½	.583
Taylor	1½	5½	.083

Notes on the following game, from the championship playoff, are by J. C. Thompson, chess editor of the Dallas Journal:

DUTCH DEFENSE

Underwood	Webb	Underwood	Webb
White	Black	White	Black
1 P-Q4	P-K3	17 B-K4	P-Q3
2 P-QB4	P-KB4	18 Q-N4?	B-B
3 N-QB3	N-B3	19 Q-K2	B-B6
4 B-Q2	BxN (a)	20 P-K	Q-B3
5 BxB	N-KB3	21 KPxP	NxP (h)
6 P-QN3 (b)	O-O	22 Q-K3	N-N3
7 P-K3, c	P-QN3, d	23 R-KB2	B-N5
8 B-K2	B-N2	24 B-B3	R-B3
9 B-B3	N-K2 (e)	25 P-B4 (f)	PxP
10 B-N2	N-QB3	26 PxP	QxP
11 N-K2	N-K2	27 QxQ	NxQ
12 O-O	R-N (f)	28 B-KN2	QR-KB
13 N-B3	N-N3	29 R-K	N-R6
14 P-Q5	NxN	30 BxN?	BxB
15 BxN	P-K4	31 R(B2)-B	R-B5
16 P-KN3 (g)	P-KB5	32 Resigns (j)

(a) This exchange should not be made until forced; White now has an advantage in time, which he immediately returns, however.
(b) He wishes to keep his two bishops, but simple development is better.
(c) N-B3 is preferable.
(d) For Black now could play N-K5 and P-B5, opening the file for his rook, but the line chosen by Black is strong enough.
(e) Black has a fine position.
(f) He has a healthy respect for his strong opponent, hence this cautious move, which could be omitted.
(g) Seriously weakens the position: P-Q5! gives White a good game.
(h) This sacrifice is not sound: 23 PxN, OxP; 23 Q-K3, Q-N5 ch; 24 Q-N3, but luckily for Black it was not accepted.
(i) P-B3 strengthens White's game; of course Black cannot capture the pawn.
(j) For if K-R, B-B4! and wins at least a pawn.

At the end of the 27th game, and with only three others to be played, Dr. Max Euwe, challenger, was leading Dr. Alexander Alekhine, world chess champion, 14-13 in their match in Holland. Euwe has won nine games, lost 6, and has drawn 15.

W. Jacobs, new problem editor of the Chess Review, is composed of problem No. 72, taken from the Chess Review. The position:

White plays and mates in three moves. Under-promotion is theme of last week's problem, from the New York Post. The solution key-move is 1 P-Q7. The position:

8; 5B2; 3P1k1K; 4Rp2; p4p2; B3pP2; 4P3; 8.

(a) 1 P-Q7, KxR; 2 P-Q8, becomes a bishop, K-Q5; 3 B-KB6 mate.
(b) 1 P-Q7, KxB; 2 P-Q8, becomes knight check, K-B3; 3 R-K5 mate. If 2 . . . K-N1; 3 R-K8 mate.

Pension Funds Not Available

Chairman Of Social Security Board Informs Governor Of Status Of Act; Regulations Are Being Drafted

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 14 — Funds for federal old age pensions, as in Texas, are not immediately available, John G. Winant, chairman of the Social Security board, has reminded Texans in a letter to Gov. Allred.

Taxes for old age benefits, he said, first accrue Jan. 1, 1937. Levies include an income tax on employes and an excise tax on employers, with respect to employment after Dec. 31, 1936.

Laws Must Confirm

Provisions of the Sociti Security act relating to federal grants for states will become operative for old age assistance, he said, "subject to appropriations by congress," and "provided, the state laws conform to the standards set forth in the Social Security act."

Under that law, he reminded, "the state acts must be approved by the Social Security board by Jan. 1, 1936, if appropriatons are made available for the first quarter of the calendar year 1936." Not all of the states, he said, now conform to the federal requirements.

Drafting Regulations

The Social Security board, children s bureau of the department of labor and bureau of internal revenue of the treasury department, he said, "are now working on rules, regulations, forms and procedures for all titles of the act, including the requirements for estimating the amounts to be granted to the states under the secreal sections of the act."

When requirements have been determined for all provisions, he said, "both the federal and state governments will necessarily notify employers, through proper channels, of the forms and returns required in the administration of the Social Security act."

"There need be no haste at present," he said, "for employers to make arrangements regarding the purchase of legal and accounting procedures and new payroll and record forms."

The Texas old age pension act becomes effective in mid-February but the legislature in two special sessions failed to provide revenue for full payments. Only liquor tax income, other than one-fourth set aside by the constitution for school purposes, was allocated to the pension fund.

Gov. Allred has indicated, however, he would reconvene the legislature in January to enact revenue measures for pension payments.

situation to a local merchant who, impressed with the young man's honest face and fastidious dress, hired him. The young man bought a bunch of feminine clothing which his employer charged to him in good faith. Several days later the handsome youth rented an automobile from a local dealer and drove to Amarillo and back, giving the dealer a check for $25 for use of the car. Upon returning he bought a complete outfit of clothing from another merchant, giving the store a check for the amount. That night his employer cashed a $25 check for him, and the lad hasn't been seen or heard of since. The automobile man's check bounced back. The other two victims are waiting until theirs have time to bounce back. Hey, hey!

Another Good Sign

Another sign of the return of prosperity is the fact that a local eating house is buying all new china and silver. Instead of giving the old, which carried the name of the house, to poor people for Christmas or something, the house is destroying the outmoded ware, I understand.

• • •

SOME interesting things happened at parties last week. At the B. and P. W. annual Christmas dinner members were asked to dump contents of their purses out on the table. Mrs. Percy Spencer, displaying 81 articles, captured the prize.

Duane Puqua, a Tech boy who organized a 12-piece dance orchestra several months ago took his lads and played gratis at a benefit dance the Las Leales girls gave Thursday night. He went over big, I heard.

A distinguished Tech-ex who is already home for the holidays is Dr. Leon Havis who is with the Ohio State Experiment station at Wooster. He is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Havis at 2120 Sixteenth street.

I hope you get all your Christmas shopping, wrapping and mailing out of the way without any calamities.

MONDAY EVENING BIBLE CLASS
M. H. Duncan, teacher
Seaman Hall, 2407 Sixteenth st.

"The Budding of the Fig Tree or the Rejuvenation of Israel as Evidence of the Truth of the Scriptures" is the subject for tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock. The revival of the Jewish nation, their going back to their homeland in Palestine by the thousands, the rebuilding of Jerusalem, the British mandate over Palestine, the persecution of the Jews in many countries of the world, their study of the New Testament in increasing numbers, and many other happenings among the Jews is evidence that the dawning of a new day for Israel and the world is near. The Bible tells it all very convincingly to those who earnestly consider its pages. The class is for parents, teachers, students and others who want to know the truth about these things.

Ezra Teaching The Law Of God

Text: Ezra 7: 10; Nehemia 8: 1-3, 5, 6, 8-12

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson For Dec. 15

By Wm. E. Gilroy, D. D., Editor Of Advance

WHEN Nehemiah had accomplished his task of rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem and establishing safety in the new community, there was, naturally, rejoicing among the people.

In our lesson, this rejoicing is expressed in a great social celebration. The people are gathered in the broad place before the water gate, and Ezra, sincere and earnest priest, has brought forth the book of the Law of Moses. There he read from early morning until mid-day, and the people worshiped Jehovah with their faces to the ground, giving thanks for all that had been accomplished.

A great day might have been marred by making it one of sorrow and humiliation. Nehemiah was determined that it should be a day of holiness, not of weeping and mourning. The people, indeed, did weep as they heard the words of the Lord, and their emotion may well have been one of joy as well as of repentance.

• • •

BUT Nehemiah was building a joyful and happy community. He wanted to establish prosperity upon a true basis of righteousness and mutual responsibility.

So he said to the people, in words that are famous, "Go your way, eat the fat and drink the sweet, and send portions unto Him for whom nothing is prepared."

A people may be judged by the spirit of its holidays. Are these days of real rejoicing, or are they days of sordid and vulgar national festivals have been days of indulgence and degradation, rather than days filled with joy.

• • •

THE great contribution that the Jewish Scriptures have made to life, if we would but realize it, is the conception of a prosperity, individual and social, built upon integrity and social righteousness. More and more we have occasion, nationally and in the modern world, to realize the truth of this conception and the need of building it into life.

Our problems are no longer the problems of lack and want; they are the problems of abundance, the problems of utilizing for the good of all the things that nature and man's ingenuity have, in these days of organization, transportation, and machines, provided with such abundance that men are talking constantly of limiting the supply.

But these problems will never be solved except as men meet them in the spirit of Ezra and Nehemiah.

There must be Ezra's sense of regard for law and holiness, there must be Nehemiah's passion to build aright and to establish the safetly and welfare of every individual in the community against the selfish schemes and plans of those who would exploit others for their own enrichment and aggrandizement.

Military Training In U. S.

A Washington correspondent advises The Avalanche-Journal that all over the country there is a growing, organized opposition on the part of college students toward compulsory military training which many of our institutions have during freshman and sophomore years.

But that the opposition is becoming organized is something else, altogether. And there must be something behind that organization.

It is natural for the average college boy to resent having to drill something like five or six hours per week.

Sixteen years ago, when the Editor of this newspaper entered University of Oklahoma, where students in the first two years were forced to take the training, there was much "beefing" against it; grumbling was widespread and few of us enjoyed the work.

But there was no "organized" opposition. We enrolled, as directed, drilled as commanded and at the end of the sophomore year few stayed with the work even to get, should they follow military training for the full four years, a reserve commission in the United States army.

The fact that opposition is being organized indicates that thoughtless people—and those who are not thoughtless but who seek to undermine the defenses of the nation—are getting in their work with American youth, work where it does the most damage.

There is not the slightest doubt that the boys, who 16 years ago at University of Oklahoma groaned over and bewailed the compulsory military training rule, today, as mature men, realize that it was a good thing for them and for the country. Through military training they got good physical exercise they otherwise would not have gotten; they received an insight into military tactics which did not hurt them a bit and which, although heaven forbid, may some day come in handy to themselves and their country. They know that now—as the students who today are opposing military training will know it when they get further down the road of life.

There is opposition on the part of college students to the various campus rules which older, wiser people deem essential to operating an educational institution. There is opposition to other required courses, such as advanced mathematics, certain courses in English, economics and history. But the same youthful students who, to use a West Texas expression, are "kicking against the traces" on these requirements will see the day when they will use knowledge gleaned from those required courses and will realize the wisdom of those who insisted they must be exposed to them.

Instead of stopping compulsory military training in the first two years of male college work, we think every state institution should adopt it. We think it would be good for the boys, good for their country and certainly, since the state is providing education for them at a low cost they should be willing give a few hours a week to the study of a subject which some day might play a leading role in the continuation of the form of government which makes their education possible.

The United States government and the government of the 48 commonwealths which compose it, will do well to watch closely the trend of the opposition to military training in our colleges, to determine just what people are helping crystalize that opposition by organization and why.

Certainly no thinking person wants war. Every good citizen will do everything in his power to prevent it.

But with nearly every other nation on the globe preparing its youth for conquest it certainly behooves the United States to see that its youth is taught the elementary rules of defense.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

He that walketh uprightly walketh surely: but he that perverteth his ways shall be known.

In the lips of him that hath understanding wisdom is found: but a rod is for the back of him that is void of understanding.
—Proverbs, X:9-14.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

ALTHOUGH high officials in the Treasury can't afford to speak their thoughts publicly, they would welcome repeal or modification of the silver purchase act. When even China repudiates the white metal as a monetary base they think it's high time that the United States stop loading up with this alien commodity.

Almost everybody has missed it, but the government's purchases of silver have shown a sensational increase lately. In the five months ending December 1 the Treasury bought more than $400,000,000 worth of silver, increasing its monetary stock from about $1,220,000,000 to $1,600,000,000. We don't need it even as small change—there is plenty of money in circulation already—and it threatens to become a definite liability on our books.

What is happening is that the world is unloading on us and we are holding the bag. Under these circumstances even the Senate silver bloc is said to be weakening. It is understood they may compromise on a basis that guarantees 70-odd cents an ounce to domestic producers. Even at that figure hitherto unprofitables lodes can be mined with profit to the mine-owners and the politicians.

PREVENTION: George Norris played smart personal politics in declaring for FDR before William Edgar Borah decided whether to run for the White House or not.

The Nebraskan won't admit it but he hoped to kill two birds with one stone. He didn't want to be forced into choosing between Roosevelt and his senatorial pal, so he made his choice before the Idahoan offered himself as a candidate. Mr. Borah hasn't taken his Progressive friends into his confidence, and though Mr. Norris read the newspapers, he chose to take it for granted that, as in the past, the Senator from Idaho would not go through.

Mr. Norris' pro-Roosevelt attitude may even deter Mr. Borah from getting into the race. The latter knows only too well the political influence which the Nebraskan swings beyond the Mississippi. Mr. Borah does not crave to fight it out with "Uncle George" for the Progressive vote. Thus it's possible that Mr. Norris may be the man to prevent his old friend from making a pass at another old friend—FDR. If it doesn't turn out that way, Mr. Norris will be disappointed. He had hoped it would.

CONTROL: The administration's various consumers' councils—NRA and AAA—have turned out to be rather ineffective agencies for protection of the housewives. Although they issued volumes of advice, they haven't been able to cushion increases in the price of manufactured or farm products to the ultimate consumer.

Now certain New Dealers propose legislation establishing a consumers' organization which will have real authority to investigate price trends and spreads in all lines. It is tentatively modeled after the provisions of the Guffey Coal Act, which provides for a close check on the rise and fall in coal costs. Instead of being answerable to Cabinet heads, as the NRA and AAA spokesmen were, the Guffey anti-profiteer is an independent official. He can issue summons requiring the presentation of data bearing on production, wholesale and retail costs. He is a consumers' czar in his own field.

Mr. Roosevelt seems to favor the idea. He has told friends that control of distribution of goods is the next great problem to be faced, whereas in the past it has been stimulation of production. The consumers' end of the game will get the important play from now on, for prices are rising too rapidly to suit the White House.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORK coservatives are gratified at a recent development which indicates that FDR means what he says about curtailment of federal expenditures. The incident attracted almost no public attention, but insiders rate it highly significant.

Morris Cooke of the Electric Farm and Home Authority had worked up an extensive plan to promote and finance the large scale instalment sales of electric appliances. It was just the type of semi-social project which would probably have been approved with bells a year ago. But this time the President sided with economy advocates Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Jesse Jones and knocked it quietly but firmly on the head.

New Yorkers in close touch with Washington are confident that Mr. Roosevelt will take a definite stand against the creation of any more federal agencies. They also prophesy that he will work with Secretary Morgenthau for the gradual merging of existing agencies for greater efficiency and less expense. This process must necessarily be slow to avoid a general disruption—but it's a safe bet that it will be well under way by election time.

• • •

NEUTRAL: Financial insiders understand that the administration is preparing a plan for presentation to Congress which would add considerable force to any neutrality policy that may be adopted. The plan involves a system of ship subsidies which would give the government complete control of the merchant marine at such time as the neutrality policy had to be invoked. American ships could then carry only such freight as Washington saw fit to authorize and could be ordered to stay out of war zones entirely.

Recent New York visitors to Washington remark that officials are still groping around for a satisfactory definition of neutrality but are evidently keyed up to the idea that the United States should be ready for extensive economic sacrifices as the price of keeping out of war. Traditional policies such as "freedom of the seas" will be scuttled without a qualm wherever such abandonment would help the cause.

The White House is reported as still determined to demand of Congress the right to name an aggressor in a war and to apply embargoes acordingly. But astute observers will be greatly surprised if Congress yields on that vital point.

• • •

HOOVER: The GOP high command continues to rack its brains overtime for a way to put Herbert Hoover on the shelf and keep him there. This is becoming harder and harder to do. Mr. Hoover's forces are getting well organized behind the scenes and the ex-President himself has apparently just begun to speak.

What's more, the Hoover backers have barely begun to get up steam. They will generate plenty later. Pretty soon now someone will hit the RFC note—point out that this is the only government agency which is an out-and-out success and that it was Mr. Hoover's brain child and his alone. Watch for this theme to be sung in many different keys.

Another factor which will bolster the Hoover cause backstage is the growth of inner sentiment among party leaders that Roosevelt is sure to win anyway so why not name Hoover and get him out of the way permanently. This angle has been mentioned here before—but it's increasing in importance.

• • •

TAXES: The boys with heavy pockets who are raising gooseflesh over the possibility of increased taxes might breathe easier if they knew how many allies they have within the New Deal itself. The "breathing spell" is no private hobby horse of the White House. There's a strong group of administration advisers behind the program of reassurance and restoration of confidence.

This setion of the New Deal believes that FDR will have a substantial lot of relief left over and thus prove that the dificit is less than everybody expected. This should smooth down a lot of ruffled feathers. But talk of fresh tax legislation would ruffle them up again plenty, and the moderates in the administration are dead against any such idea. They have many members of Congress backing them up.

Actually the tax future is highly uncertain. Processing taxes are up to the Supreme court and talk of a "manufaturers' sales tax" as a substitute is only a trial balloon. The House has wallowed the sales tax idea on the head. There's nothing to indicate that members from the hinterland will fail to listen to their masters' voice—"Don't you soak me!"

THE NEW BOOKS

Season's New Books Offer Choice Gifts For Christmas; Best Publications And Their Nature Are Listed For You; John Masefield Goes Down To The Sea Again In His Latest

IF you have nobody else you can give "Anthony Adverse" to, and still feel like a bookish Christmas, try a bigger book still.

This is the Columbia Encyclopedia. Prepared at Columbia university, it will take care of anybody who has even a beer and light wines thirst for knowledge. It's good for college boys and girls especially.

The suitable novel crop is especially good this Christmas. For those who can take their reading roughhewn, there is Vardis Fisher's "We Are Betrayed," in which a man's tattered soul batters against life. These have their place also.

A Whole Shelf

"A House Divided" (Pearl S. Buck); "Lions Starve in Naples" (Johan Fabricius, and one of the good ones which was passed by); "Forgive Adam" (Michael Foster, of which the same is true); "Of Time and the River" (Thomas Wolfe); "A Few Foolish Ones" (Gladys Hasty Carroll); "Europa" (Robert Briffault; a dig at intellectual snobs); "Claudius the God" (Robert Graves); "Roll River" (James Boyd); "It Can't Happen Here" (Sinclair Lewis' best in years); "Vein of Iron" (for Ellen Glasgow's admirers); "The Wind Blew West" (Edwin Lanham; strong novel of Texas); "Honey in the Horn" (H. L. Davis; strong novel of Oregon.

For The More Literary

For the slightly more literary, what could be wiser than Vincent Sheean's "Personal History" or Francis Hackett's "Francis the First," or, south of the Macon-Dixan line, Douglass Southall Freeman's "R. E. Lee"?

Two of the best personal stories, besides Mr. Sheean's, are William Seabrook's "Asylum," and Walter Duranty's "I Write as I Please." Those who delve into the past should be given Will Durant's "The Story of Civilization," volume one, which is about the Orient. Or perhaps Harry Elmer Barnes' "History of Western Civilization." Walter Millis' "Road to War" is a grace to any shelf.

Murder With A Laugh

We may be wrong, but some of the best humor, conscious and unconscious, seems to have been in the blood-and-thrills literature this year. Those who can take murder with a guffaw will delight in Edwin Greenwood's "The Deadly Dowager," or Richard Hull's "The Murder of My Aunt." Intended seriously, but quite funny nevertheless, is "Vidocq, the Personal Memoirs of the First Great Detective."

Gerald Bullett's "The Jury" is a grand crime story; the stories of a number of real life murders may be found in Fletcher Pratt's "The Cunning Mulatto, and Other Cases of Ellis Parker, American Detective."

For your musical friend, "A Musical Companion," edited by John Erskine; for your scientific friend, "Outposts of Science," by Bernard Jaffe; for your literary friend, "The Life of Washington Irving," by Stanley Williams; for the children, "The Turf-Cutter's Donkey," by Patricia Lynch; "The Bear Twins," by Inez Hogan; "Adventures in Puddle Muddle," by Mary Graham Bonner.

Fine, Stirring Book

"VICTORIOUS TROY," by John Masefield; (MacMillan, New York).

"VICTORIOUS Troy" finds John Masefield going down to the sea again—and, as is usually the case, producting a fine, stirring book to delight the heart of any stay-at-home who likes to read of the brave old days of square-rigged ships.

Mr. Masefield's new book is a novel telling about an English ship in the great Australian grain trade. Coming across the southern Pacific the vessel is overtaken by a typhoon. The skipper, bending the elbow a bit too freely, fails to recognize his danger and refuses to take proper precautions.

Captain Knocked About

As a result, when the storm strikes, the ship is immediately dismasted, half a dozen men—including the two mates—are washed overboard, and the captain is knocked about by a wave and given three broken limbs. When the storm at last passes, the ship is utterly helpless and the only person who can take command is an apprentice boy in his mid 'teens.

How this lad takes over, gets the ship under a jury rig, and finally brings her safe to port makes the story—and a swell one, too.

Incidentally, Mr. Masefield's description of this typhoon is one of the most exciting bits of writing in all the literature of the sea. You can fairly feel that storm, as he gives it to you; feel it, and see it, and hear it as well.

Huey's Mantle Falls On Talmadge

Georgia Governor Hates New Deal Like 'Kingfish' Did

By NEA Service.

ATLANTA, Dec. 14—Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia appears to be sole heir to the cloak of Huey Long as chief Democratic opponent of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

For there is little in common between Long and Gene Talmadge except a certain facility at "just folks" politics, a consuming hatred of the New Deal and all its works, and the willingness to fight outspokenly against it.

There is nothing red about Gene Talmadge except his suspenders. Most of his views are poles apart from Long's. Though he always took good care to express personal fondness and admiration for Long, Talmadge's politics are far from the Share-the-Wealth program. Should he become the leading anti-Roosevelt Democrat, it will mean a "back to Cleveland" move rather than a "back to Bryan" one.

Eugene Talmadge may snap his red suspenders, keep cows and chickens in the back yard of the governor's mansion, depend for support on the "back-country" vote, and rule Georgia with near-dictatorial power and occasional flashes of national guard bayonets, but he is no Huey Long.

• • •

Holds To Old Virtues

TALMADGE is conservative-minded, and resents charges that he has "gone radical." He places his faith still in the ancient virtues, in thrift, in spending no more than you have, in hard work and independence of the government, a Democratic "rugged individualist."

He can use "have took" language in speeches to farmers, but it is generally regarded as an affectation in a man who spent five years at the state university.

In fact, opponents point out that Talmadge, though born in the small rural community of Forsyth in 1884, was really city-reared in Atlanta and did not become a farmer until he married a widow who was a farm-owner near McRae. On this 900-acre farm Talmadge delights to shirt-sleeve about in the character of "Georgia's dirt-farmer," his favorite nickname.

The governorship is the second public office the law-trained Talmadge has ever held. In 1927 he was appointed state commissioner of agriculture. In that post he built up great popularity with the farmers and the rudiments of a political machine.

• • •

Calls Out The Militia

IN his first campaign for governor, three years ago, the rural vote pulled Talmadge through in an eight-sided race. He had promised $3 auto license tags. The legislature wouldn't provide them.

So Talmadge set the $3 fee by edict. The highway department objected to reorganization, so he took it over with national guard troops, removing its funds from the banks to the state treasury under machine-gun guard, evicting defiant officials and disregarding their summonses to civil suits.

Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia . . . now arising to national notice as a sort of "Southern Coolidge."

Though not anti-public utility in the general sense, Talmadge forced reductions in power, telephone, and railroad rates. He reduced the state's debt. In a landslide vote last year he was re-elected.

Since then he has lost no opportunity to attack every phase of the New Deal, demanding an end to "NRA-ism" as virtual Communism.

He wrangled with federal relief authorities over expenditure of federal funds in Georgia, and another wrangle is due here soon when an end to federal aid is reached — opponents of Talmadge say his state economy records will not look so good when the state assumes the burden of relief, school, and road expenditures.

• • •

Objective In Doubt

FOREMOST southern opponent of the Bankhead cotton control law, Talmadge is in the center of a suit in the name of the state of Georgia to have it declared unconstitutional.

He has been touring many states with speeches demanding "back to the 1932 Democratic platform," "back to the Constitution," and "back to Jeffersonian democracy."

Talmadge's objective is uncertain. Perhaps he really hears the alluring buzz of the presidential bee, and is trying to line up in his favor state delegations to the national Democratic convention next summer.

Perhaps he is laying wires that lead to 1940. Perhaps he is aspiring merely to the U. S. Senate or another term as governor. Perhaps he simply believes the Democratic party is sacrificing its heritage and seeks to rescue it from what he sees as certain death on the shoals of Socialistic experiments.

Home Ties Not Well Forged By Gold

Common Necessity Lent Solidarity To Pioneer Folk

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

THOSE staunch old Puritans who knelt together on the rockbound coast and thanked God for their privilege of establishing sound and healthy homes in a free and happy land would have recoiled in horror from the Thanksgiving celebration at the California home of Mrs. Dorothy Wendt Livermore.

Helen Welshimer

The Pilgrims and the pioneers believed in the integrity of the family. They recognized it as the most important unit in the social structure. They fought for it, defended it, kept it sacred.

They didn't have much money, either—those forebears of ours. Maybe that was why they put real things first. Husbands and wives and children had to struggle together, sacrifice together, dream together. That is why the bonds that joined them held.

• • •

Money May Be Good or Evil

PERHAPS it is the lessening of personal economic pressure which has caused the disintegration of much family life in America. Certainly we dislike to believe that money is the root of all evil. It can be the heart of all good. Its misuse, however, can cause much harm.

To get back to the Livermore living room on Thanksgiving—16-year-old Jesse L. Livermore, jr., defied his mother by tilting a bottle of whisky to his lips. She announced that she would rather see him dead than a drunkard. With boyish bravado he got out a gun and dared her to shoot him. She was intoxicated, pulled the trigger. His father, celebrating Thanksgiving with his third wife, rushed across the continent to the boy's side. The doctors made a valiant struggle to save the boy's life.

Weakness Leads to Undoing

ALWAYS when a nation has grown soft, its frontiers have been crossed and conquered. Its weakness brings its undoing. Babylon fell. So did Gomorrah and Sodom. The Golden Age passed into a yellow mist in Greece, and there came a day when the last of the Roman Caesars bent his head beneath an iron crown. It is so with families, too. When the sturdy, dependable qualities are put aside an element of steadfastness disappears. Families need united goals at which to aim.

The pioneer women who kissed their fathers and mothers goodbye and tucked a sprig of a favorite bush in the wagon, that it might bear fruit in a new land, knew that they might not come east again to see those they loved. They knew that the flowering bushes of their childhood homes would blossom only in memory for them unless the sprigs stayed green until the wagons reached a distant Canaan.

• • •

Built on Firm Foundation

THEY were not afraid. They loved and stood by and they taught their sons and daughters the value of faithfulness and bravery. Houses did not divide against themselves. Not with such foundations. They stood, though the winds came, and the rains descended and the waters rose.

True, we have no physical frontiers to conquer any more. There are spiritual kingdoms yet unexplored. There are mental adventures in the realm of science as daring as any wilderness. It is time families got together and went somewhere!

Ropesville Resettlement Project Nears Completion; Tenants Move In Soon

Houses, Wells Are Finished

Property To Be Turned Over To Federal Administration Soon; Some Occupants Of Colony Expected In January

WITH completion of 33 houses and 34 water wells on the Ropesville resettlement project, the property is ready to be turned over to the federal administration and by early January it is expected some of the new tenants, at least, will be installed.

All carpenter work was completed last week by M. M. Weaver, contractor. Only the painting of the exterior remains. This is expected to be finished by the holidays, unless weather conditions interfere.

Well On Each Farm

Wells were finished by E. K. Hufstedler and son, local contractors. There were 34 wells, one on each farm unit of 120 acres, and one at the home of the manager.

Each unit will consist of the 120-acre farm, with residence, barn, corrals, fencing and other necessary equipment besides the well, tower and cypress tank.

Harvesting Crop

Meantime Manager R. D. Jones is busy harvesting the cotton, last of the crop planted on the project last spring. The grain sorghums have been gathered but not all of them threshed.

"We have ginned about 75 bales of cotton," Mr. Jones said. "We hope to get about that many more. Lint turnout has been very good, much higher than many farms in that section."

Maize, kafir and cane were the principal crops. There were about 650,000 to 750,000 bundles of maize and kafir cut. Some 1,500 tons of cane also was cut and will be threshed. Mr. Jones said he hoped to have several cars of cane seed to sell down state.

It has not been definitely decided as to threshing of some of the maize and kafir. The bundles all contain a large percentage of heads.

A New Year Look Into The Future

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of four articles written by Dr. Carl C. Taylor, assistant administrator of the Resettlement administration. Reared on a farm in Iowa, he moved to Texas where he was for several years an instructor at the University of Texas. Last year he was elected president of the American Society of Country Life. The administration is making loans to small farmers who are unable in any other way to obtain the means of carrying on farm operations.

* * *

If my topic were—"What kind of rural life ought we to look forward to in the United States?", my task would be easy. Then I would need only to vision the good things of life and declare that such ought to be rural America. But I have not set myself the task of painting a rural Utopia but rather the task of predicting what actually will come to pass.

Will rural life in the United States two, three, or a half dozen generations hence, be using mechanized production almost as completely as industry? Have settled the problems of physical and economic distribution? Captured a material standard of living equal to that of the upper middle class of the cities? Or will it follow more clearly the rural life patterns of older civilizations? Be satisfied with less mechanization than industry? Somewhat side step the difficult problem of distribution by "live-at-home farming? Be satisfied with a lower material standard of living than in other business enterprises?

Only Two Alternatives

I hasten to repeat that these are not the only two alternatives. It is much more likely that some middle position will develop. Because they do mark the extremes of possibility, I want to pursue the patterns of each with two questions in mind: First, which should we choose if we could? And, second, which are we most likely to develop, with or without conscious choice?

Civilizations have not chosen, but rather drifted, into their destinies. Whether they can ever do otherwise may be an open question. But that does not alter the fact that American rural life will probably be very different one hundred years hence from what it is now. The question is, will we attempt to understand and attempt to guide, or will we continue to indulge in wishful thinking, imagine Utopias, and, as in the past, drift into destinies which we had not contemplated? I can easily conceive that we might dream one kind of rural life and our grandchildren be compelled to live another kind, chiefly because we failed to understand history or judge the trends of our own times.

Will Inherit Good Life

One school of thought believes that our children can, should and will inherit the good rural life only by subjecting American agriculture to complete commercialization and other urban techniques. It is this road that American agriculture has steadily traveled for at least one if not for three hundred years—from the ox cart and ox team to the automobile and tractor; from the cradle and flail to the combine; from the tallow candle to the electric light; and from dire isolation to modern socialization.

It is as easy to tend seventy acres of corn today as it was half that acreage twenty-five years ago and we are supremely worried because cotton and tobacco farming seem rather stubbornly to resist mechanization. Once they have yielded, we will probably be able to produce the needs of our domestic markets with half the man power now engaged in agriculture.

Is American rural Utopia to come by this route?

(Dr. Taylor will continue his discussion of the future of American farmer next week.)

To Avoid Onion Tears, Grow Them In Winter, Spring Or Early Summer, Is Advised

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Grow onions in winter, spring and early summer and weep not, says W. R. Beattie of the bureau of plant industry, United States department of agriculture.

Onions bring tears to the eyes of those handling them, he explains, because of the powerful volatile oil they contain, but their "strength" depends somewhat upon where they are grown.

"Onions grown in winter, spring and early summer have a milder odor than those of the same variety grown later in the summer," he reports. "Hot growing temperatures enable the onion to produce more of the tear-producing oil than cooler temperatures."

Discovery that tears from onions are caused by a volatile oil is accredited to a German chemist. He distilled more than a ton of onions to obtain less than one-tenth of a pint of pure oil. A drop of it is said to be enough to make the odor of onions noticeable throughout several large buildings.

Increase Of Ten Per Cent In The Number Of Lambs Fed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (AP)—An increase of ten per cent this year over last year in the number of lambs fed for market in the western states was predicted today by the agriculture department.

Officials reported of feeder lambs shipped into northern Colorado continued relatively large in November to bring the total into that area materially above last year and probably the largest since 1932.

For the state as a whole the increase over last year was expected to be between 10 and 15 per cent.

Farm officials said the total number of lambs fed in the area west of the continental divide would be somewhat larger than a year ago with increases in California, Utah and Nevada, decreases in Washington and Oregon and little change in Idaho.

The number of lambs fed in Texas was expected to be larger than last year but smaller than in other recent years.

Texas Ranges In Good Shape

Conditions Are Termed Best Since 1926; Status Is Said To Be Above Ten-Year Average On December 1

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 14—Winter range and feed prospects in Texas were termed the best since 1926 in a report by the United States department of agriculture.

Cattle entered the winter "in stronger condition than for a number of years," the department stated, estimating the condition at 86 per cent of normal Dec. 1 compared with a 10-year average of 81.8 per cent.

Ranges were estimated at 85 per cent of normal, 6.4 points above the 10-year average. Late November and early December rains "brightened the outlook considerably" in the high plains area, although that section was termed in "still very poor" condition.

Panhandle rains made wheat pasture prospects the best for several years. Although late, the department said it would assist "materially in carrying stock through the winter." Condition in all other districts was reported uniformly good.

Sheep Near Normal

Sheep condition was calculated at 90 per cent of normal compared with 91 per cent a month ago, 62 per cent a year ago and a 10-year average of 83.5 per cent. Ranges and feed conditions were "almost ideal" in the main sheep territory and stock was expected to come through the winter in good shape.

The Dec. 1 condition of goats was 90 per cent in November, 66 per cent a year ago and 84.1 per cent over a 10-year period.

Purchase Of Four Large New Mexico Ranches Announced

AMARILLO, Dec. 14 (AP) — The Badger-Bruner Cattle company of Amarillo, recently purchased four large ranches comprising about 250,000 acres in New Mexico.

The deal, one of the largest ranching transactions in that state in several years, was announced by Harry C. Badger and Hal Bruner, both of Amarillo. The purchase price was not given.

The ranches, each about 50 years old, are the Bear Springs and the Muleshoe, both near Magdalena, the Double Circle, near Datil, and the Largo Valley at Quemado. Headquarters for the ranching operations will be at Magdalena but Badger and Bruner will direct activities from here.

More than 5,000 head of young cows, a number of purebred Hereford bulls, feed, equipment and horses were included in the purchases.

Frost Damage In Florida Is Cause Of Bean Price Boost

BROWNSVILLE, Dec. 14 (AP)—Frost which damaged the fall bean crop in the Everglades section of Florida boosted the price of beans in the valley 50 per cent last week with growers receiving around $1.50 a hamper.

SMALLER CROP

LAREDO, Tex. (AP)—Citrus farmers here are moving into the harvest season with a smaller crop than last year, but with grapefruit, oranges, and tangerines among the largest ever produced. Early freezes reduced the crop but the fruit that came through received the full bearing energy of the trees.

FRUIT OUSTS SPANISH

No Cause For Immediate Alarm Over Farm Belt Land Boom Is Seen Despite Recent Warning By Secretary Wallace

(By The Associated Press)

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 14—No cause for immediate alarm over a farm belt land boom—a prospect which recently evoked a warning from Secretary Wallace — was noted today by land brokers and officials, who contributed their views to a survey.

They agreed midwestern land prices had increased roughly 10 to 30 per cent in the last year and that purchases were more frequent.

Although some of the buyers were investors and even speculators, they said the bulk of the purchases were by farmers.

More Terrible Than Drouth

Secretary Wallace in his statement termed land speculation "a plague more terrible than drouth or insect pests" and advised against allowing the activity of "city folks" to excite farmers into bidding against each other. He suggested the desirability of some measure, such as an income tax law amendment, to take the profit out of land speculation.

Pointing to the rise in the farm price level to 109 per cent of pre-war level in mid-October, there were midwesterners — in view of it reputed significance as a major price lifting influence — who agreed with Wallace.

Sees Wild Boom

One economist went him one better. Oliver R. Johnson, head of economics at the University of Missouri, said he saw the elements in the present price rise, not only a mild, but a wild boom, dead ahead.

Iowa State college economists declared that "though Iowa is not now in a land boom, the present situation might easily develop into a boom if farmers should begin competing with each other for land. Iowa farmers will be wise to remember what happened in 1919 and 1920, and not bid against each other."

The majority of brokers and credit officials saw no reason for raising a warning flag.

Values Have Risen Steadily

James H. Huston, vice-president and treasurer of the Federal Land bank at St. Louis, declared "land values have risen steadily and consistently following farm commodity price rises. However, we are a long way from a land boom, as land prices have not yet reached pre-war normal."

From George S. Gordhammer, executive vice-president and treasurer of the St. Paul Federal Land bank, came the opinion, "there is nothing to indicate a land boom in the making at the present time."

War Would Cause Boom

Theodore Arens, Minnesota rural credits conservator, said "I see no danger of land boom. The improvement in Minnesota is coming gradually as it has in the past 10 months. Only one thing would bring a boom and that would be development of a general European war.

"Ninety-five per cent of the land is going back to bona fide farmers and only a small percentage is being bought for investment."

The improvement in farm prices, a belief that land values have hit bottom and were on the rebound, and investment as protection against possible inflation were assigned as major reasons for the land price increase.

In Self Defense

Negro's Excuse Not Enough

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 14 (AP) —Self-defense was the plea to Police Judge Mike Foster of a negro charged with chicken theft.

"I was walking down an alley," said Gus Robinson, 45, "and the chicken started toward me. I thought it was going to peck me.

Judge Foster fined Robinson $20.

Let Alaska Freeze

Colonization in Alaska's Matanuska Valley may not have been so easy on his elders, but it's apparently "great stuff" to this cheerful young "Eskimo." With his new fur parka, this son of one of the American colonists can pretend he's a real whale-hunting Eskimo, or even Admiral Byrd. And is he thrilled!

Consumption of wine has increased more than 20 per cent in the last five years in France.

Farm Hens Laying More Eggs, Nov. 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Farm hens were laying more eggs per hen Nov. 1, says a statement from the United States department of agriculture, than at any other time on that date since the bureau of agricultural economics began its records 11 years ago.

The average number of eggs laid per hen and pullets of laying age was reported as 19.5 Nov. 1, compared with 17.7 the same date a year ago. The previous high was 19.4 per 100 hens in 1931.

The highest summer and fall eggs prices since 1929," the bureau says, "favored liberal feeding. The present number of hens and pullets of laying age appears to be about two per cent above the number on hand a year ago."

Approximately One-Fourth Of Valley Fruit Crop Is Moved

BROWNSVILLE, Dec. 14 (AP)—Approximately one-fourth of the Lower Grande Valley's 1935-36 citrus crop has been moved.

The gross money return for the 2,320 carloads shipped approximated $1,500,000, based on an average price of $1.75 a box f. o. b. for mixed No. 1 and No. 2 citrus. The price is steady.

Estimates of the total that the valley will move still vary, although government reports indicate a slightly larger crop than last year when about 7,300 cars were shipped and more than 1,000 cars used in canning plants.

TARZAN AND THE FIRE GODS, No. 73

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As Tarzan stumbled backward over the yelping dog, a dozen shiftas piled triumphantly upon him and pinned him to the ground. The mighty ape-man writhed desperately to shake himself free from the clutches of his captors. "Bravo!" cried Garetto. "Now he is at our mercy!"

At the top of the cliff, Tommy Welsh heard the wild shouting below and connected it with the mysterious disappearance of Tarzan from his perch on the mountainside. Looking carefully to his machine gun, Tommy advanced rapidly but warily, toward the brink.

As he looked down upon the brigand village, he murmured "That mob sure has got him on the spot. He's a regular guy, too. I guess here's where I step in." Tommy raised the Thompson to his shoulder and squeezed the trigger. A hail of bullets poured from the muzzle.

The rat-ta-tat-tat of the gun punctuated the screams of the wounded. The others ran for shelter—all except one. That one lifted his musket to club the rising ape-man. Tommy gasped. He dared not risk shooting the attacker, for fear of hitting his friend Tarzan!

Business Activity In United States Reaches Highest Level In Five Years

New Records Are Chalked Up

Automobile Production, Carloadings, Power Consumption And Steel Output Are Highest In November Totals

BY THOMAS FLANNAGAN
(Copyright 1935 by Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 14— Business jammed a heavy foot on the recovery accelerator this week and raced ahead at the speediest clip since June, 1930.

In reaching the highest level in five years the Associated Press adjusted index of industrial activity topped its peak of 86.0 last week to finish at 86.7 compared with 65.0 in the like 1934 week.

New Peak Reached

Records were crowded off the board to make place for new ones—by the automobile production index, which soared to the pinnacle last reached in November, 1929, and by the carloading index, which jumped to the highest mark since November, 1931.

The power industry made history by grinding out the hugest amount of electricity ever generated in one week—1,969,66,000 kilowatt hours, 13 per cent ahead of the corresponding week a year ago.

New Mark Ahead

Power experts, pointing out that the year's top is normally hit the third week of December, said even greater production seems ahead before the curtain is rung on 1935.

Steel mills struck their best mid-December activity since 1929, although some slackening occurred in line with the usual slowing down of operations at the end of each year.

Meanwhile the financial district took cheer from the fact that the average of heavy steel scrap prices had reached the highest point in more than five years at Pittsburgh, Chicago and Philadelphia.

Better Business Seen

Traditionally a sensitive barometer of the industry, the climb of scrap prices was seen as an almost infalliable pledge of better business on the stretch ahead.

Construction—one of the steel industry's pillars of hope—reported the sharpest advance over last year scored in 1935, while home building showed a rise of nearly 100 per cent over 1934.

A famous triple play—industry to payrolls to retail trade—brought a throaty roar from the merchandising division, which turned in the heaviest and most widely spread gains for this season in many years. Estimates of Christmas buying overshot last season's by about half a billion dollars.

Permanent Probe Unit Is Proposed

AUSTIN, Dec. 14 (AP)—A proposal to establish a standing legislative committee on investigations is being advanced as a substitute to the existing practice of appointing separate committees for specific inquiries.

At each session of the legislature several committees are named to investigate some department or phase of law enforcement. Each gains its authority from a separate resolution.

The senate has had a committee in existence since the regular session with blanket power to investigate almost any phase of government.

If a standing committee was created all investigations would be referred to it unless the house specified otherwise. Personnel of the committee would be appointed at the start of the regular session.
