GASOLINE PLANT FIRE—The picture above was made just a few minutes after an explosion touched off a destructive fire at the Snyder Gasoline Plant three miles northwest of Snyder about 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Although four men were working in that part of the plant at the time, none were injured. Damage to the plant was estimated at about $400,000, and the plant's production will be stopped for about a month while repairs are being made. (Lee Watson photograph)

Famine, Epidemic Spread In Hungary

Texan Will Be 114 On Wednesday

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 10 (AP) — Walter W. Williams, lone survivor of Hood's Texas Brigade and one of three surviving Civil War veterans, all Confederates, will celebrate his 114th birthday in Franklin, Tex., Wednesday.

The celebration, said his granddaughter, Mrs. W. L. Gurganus of Houston, will be carried out in the "usual way."

For Williams — who often boasted and made good that he couldn't "whip them Yankees" but would "outlive them" — the usual way means that anywhere up to 100 or more of his children, grandchildren, great and great-great grandchildren and other relatives will gather at the Williams farm outside Franklin.

There will also be a sprinkling of civic dignitaries from around the state, just plain curious folks, and several photographers and newsmen.

However, because the tough old soldier has just weathered a serious illness, people probably won't stay as long as usual.

There will be a birthday cake or two, of course, topped with Confederate flags, and Williams will don his handsome gray uniform, with its yellow sash and glittering braid.

He was recently made an honorary brigadier general by the governor, a promotion from his former rank of colonel and early this month was awarded a special Civil War medal authorized by the 84th Congress.

The general fell asleep during the presentation ceremonies.

"His health has been failing badly in the past two or three years," said Mrs. Gurganus.

However, Williams' birthdays for the past several years have all been predicted as his last. He himself smiles at these pessimistic statements.

"I'll be around when you are gone," he tells younger man. "I'm just sticking around to see what happens."

Heavy Guns Blast City

VIENNA, Nov. 10 (AP) — Russian heavy artillery pounded Budapest today and refugees said battles raged in the suburbs as Hungary's anti-soviet revolt refused to die.

Travelers from Budapest, said more and more workers appeared to have joined student rebels since the Soviet attack Sunday. A general strike paralyzed the nation.

A Yugoslav newsman reaching Belgrade said "several tens of thousands of armed people" still operated in the Hungarian capital.

"Many are dissatisfied because of the Soviet intervention," the Yugoslav said. "People don't trust anybody or anything. They are embittered. So many won't give up arms."

Budapest radio alternately broadcast pleas and threats as the capital still shook from battle after 19 days of bitter fighting.

The radio announced wage increases ranging from 8 to 15 per cent in an effort to get workers to lay down their arms.

Another broadcast by Deputy Premier Ferenc Muenich said that since the rebels ignored the latest ultimatum those still bearing arms must be considered criminals "who endanger public safety."

A group of Hungarian refugees crossing into Austria said fighting was heavy in the suburbs when they fled the capital Saturday afternoon.

They reported the Russians were using new troops, mainly Mongols.

Soviet tanks fired phosphorous ammunition, touching of great fires in several Budapest districts, they reported.

They said the Russians were as hungary as the rebels. Soviet soldiers were seen leaving their tanks to beg for bread.

The once-gay capital was pictured as a city of fire and devastation. Streets were blocked with rubble. Famous hotels were in ruins.

The spectre of epidemics as well as famine stalked in Budapest.

Despite the great needs of the revolt-torn land, the Soviet-sponsored Hungarian government refused to let International Red Cross relief supplies enter from Austria.

It insisted the supplies must come through neighboring Yugoslavia.

The Soviet news agency Tass asserted in a dispatch from Budapest the Red Cross supplies from Austria were barred because some parcels contained arms for "reactionary, antigovernment forces."

A member of a group of Swedish news correspondents and travelers who arrived here tonight said resistance fighters wearing their tricolor armbands and carrying tommy guns patrolled streets openly in daylight, defiant of Russian guns and what remained of the Hungarian state police.

A general strike which has paralyzed the capital for almost three weeks is still in force and the puppet Communist government installed by oviet guns seems utterly powerless, said this

SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

By WACIL McNAIR

The Snyder area has concluded an eventful week, with happenings ranging from a general election to the first killing frost of the season competing for attention.

The election turnout here was nothing to boast about, with 4,943 ballots counted in the presidential race. We had more than that in the primaries last summer.

There'll be another election next Tuesday and it probably will attract only a token interest from electorate.

Amendment No. 9 in the series of proposals to change the state constitution will be submitted to the voters in a special election. It would grant government aid to permantly and totally disabled needy persons.

The reason Amendment No. 9 is being submitted separately and a week later than the other eight proposals is that somebody goofed down in Austin. The working of the resolution calling for the vote on this amendment provides that the proposal be submitted to voters on the second Tuesday in November.

The Snyder week really started with a "bang" before the general election day rolled around. Hoodlums blew the safe at the Sunbeam Grocery either late Sunday or early Monday. It was a smooth job that had earmarks of a "professional" touch.

County Commissioners wasted little time in authorizing a contract for the Scurry County Library when they met to consider revised bids Thursday afternoon. The new proposals were opened shortly after 2 p.m. and the court voted to accept the low bid at 2:25 p.m. Over $8,000 had been shaved from the original proposal, most of it by eliminating "ginger bread," or trimming from the specifications.

Some peddlers ran afoul of the Snyder ordinance prohibiting same from operating within the city. The ordinance here does not allow door-to-door selling. Many itinerant salesman have learned of this ordinance, and they steer clear of Snyder, as they do of other cities and towns which have similar regulations. Occasionally, however, a group shows up here.

That first killing frost of the season made an emphatic appearance Friday morning. There was some frost earlier in the week, and .28 of an inch of rain helped our feelings considerably last Sunday morning. The low thermometer reading Friday morning was 28 degrees.

$400,000 Fire Hits Local Gasoline Plant

An explosion in the Snyder Gasoline Plant about 3 o'clock yesterday morning touched off a fire which was estimated to have done about $400,000 in damages before being put out three hours later.

The explosion was in the heater treater area of the plant on the south side of the main plant area.

Witnesses said that the plant would probably have been completely destroyed had the wind been blowing from the south, but the wind was from the west sweeping heat and flames away from other parts of the large plant.

E. J. Mills, superintendent of the gas-gasoline division of Sunray-Mid Continent Oil Corp., from Tulsa, said yesterday morning that the plant will probably be out of operation for 30 days while repairs are being made.

Construction on repairs will be started as soon as possible, he said.

Four employes of the plant were working in the area of the explosion when it blew out, but none were injured.

Two Snyder fire department trucks and a number of Snyder firemen went immediately to the scene ,and they had the flames under control about an hour and a half after the initial explosion, and had the fire completely put out before 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

D. A. Porter, Snyder fire chief, said that firemen had the fire in the heater almost put out when a second heater exploded, sending the fire raging out of control for the second time.

Porter and Warren Boyd were only a few feet from the second heater when it exploded, but the major force of the explosion went away from them permitting them to run to safety.

In all, three of the large heater treaters burned, each of which cost about $100,000. They were specially fabricated for the plant and replacements will have to be made to plant specifications.

N. C. Hillhouse, plant superintendent, said that a gas residual petroleum product which is treated by heat in the treating units, was the fuel which fed the flames.

The product is circulated through the large treating units for processing. The kerosene-type product flooded the area when the explosion occurred.

Some of the product was stored in the area, but most of the fire was caused from drainage of the product from huge pipelines in the main plant area. Heat from the fire made closing of valves on the feeder pipes impossible, and the fire burned until all the product was consumed.

"We were just lucky that the wind was from the west, or the en-

Ira Man Injured In Oilfield Accident

D. J. Butler, about 60, of Ira, was slightly injured at about 1 a.m. yesterday in an oilfield accident near Cuthbert, south of here.

Butler was reported to have fallen off a tank at a drilling rig operated by Ted Hefner Drilling Co.

He was taken to Battenfield — Jones Hospital here by Bell ambulance. Dr. Wilton Jones said yesterday that Butler had suffered neck and back sprains and had been badly shaken and bruised.

Tabulations On Election Are Released

DALLAS, Nov. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower Tuesday won even a greater victory in his home state than he did four years ago but the number of Texas counties in which he led dropped.

Virtually complete unofficial tabulations by the Texas Election Bureau showed the Republican standard bearer garnered 1,072,832 votes while his Democratic opponent, Adlai Stevenson, received 853,486 in Texas. T. Coleman Andrews, the Constitutional party candidate, got 12,016.

Eisenhower received 53.34 per cent of the vote in 1956, compared to 53.22 per cent in 1952.

The tabulation, the last to be issued by the bureau, showed this year Eisenhower led in 133 counties while Stevenson was favored in 121. Four years ago, the President led in 139 counties and Stevenson in 115. In that year Eisenhower received 1,102,878 and Stevenson 969,228 votes.

The tabulations were virtually complete. Of the state's 254 counties, the results were complete in 232 and were "virtually complete" in the remaining 22.

In the governor's race, Price Daniel, Democrat, polled 1,368,703 votes, his Republican opponent, William R. Bryant, 264,208, and W. Lee O'Daniel, a write-in candidate who made the race after being eliminated in the Democratic primary, received 116,930.

Texas Goes Through Third Rainless Day

By The Associated Press

Thousands of Texans saw football played on sun-bathed gridirons Saturday, as the state went through its third straight day without rain.

No rain was predicted in/ the forecast for Sunday. Mild temperatures—mostly in the low 70s—prevailed in Texas Saturday.

The high was 79 degrees at Childress and the low maximum of 66 was recorded at Galveston and Palacios.

Reds Threaten Use Of Troops

MOSCOW, Nov. 10 (AP) — The U.S.S.R. declared tonight that if Britain, France and Israel do not withdraw from Egypt in compliance with a U. N. resolution it will permit Soviet "volunteers" to go to the Middle East.

A Soviet government statement read at a news conference in the Foreign Ministry contained the implication that if the three powers delay in pulling out their troops Russia will turn the conflict into another Korea.

The statement, without fixing a time limit, set these conditions for departure of Soviet "volunteers". "If Britain, France and Israel, in spite of the U. N. decision, do not withdraw their troops from Egyptian territory, and under some pretext postpone this action and concentrate their forces for new aggression thus creating the danger of renewed military conflict."

(In London, a source close to the Foreign Office called the Soviet announcement a "cheap effort" to pose as protectors to the Arab world. He said the Soviet statements were "threats and blusters . . diplomatic blackmail." In Washington, the United States barred any U. S. volunteers or either side in the Middle East, apparently in an effort to encourage Russia to keep out volunteers.)

Several thousand Soviet reserve officers and other "volunteers" already have been permitted by the Soviet government to offer their services to the Egyptian Embassy here, and enrollment of "volunteers" is still going on, the embassy said today.

The Soviet declaration, labelled a statement by Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said:

"In executive circles of the U.S.S.R. satisfaction is expressed at the statement of the governments of Britain, France and Israel that they have terminated military action against Egypt.

"Such a decision of the governments of these states shows they have at last heeded the voice of sense and given way to the demands of the peoples who resolutely condemned aggression

Daniel Is Ready To Aid In Senate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP) — Texas Gov.-elect Price Daniel made plan today that if his successor in the Senate has not been elected by Jan. 3, he will be here then to help the Democrats organize that legislative body.

The line-up of Democrats and Republicans for the next session is so close that absenteeism could determine control.

Daniel, who becomes governor Jan. 15, said he still hopes and expects a special election will be called soon enough for a successor to take over Jan. 3. Thus, he said, the new senator would not lose seniority to all other freshmen senators taking the oath that day.

On Sept. 26 he submitted his resignation as senator to Gov. Allan Shivers, effective Jan. 15 or on such earlier date as a successor is elected. Shivers has not yet said whether he will call an election. A question has been raised as to whether an election can be called until a Senate vacancy actually exists.

If a Republican senator should be elected from Texas to fill out the last two years of Daniel's term, the result could be a Republican - controlled Senate. The prospective lineup for the Jan. 3 and 47 Republicans.

Election of a Texas Republican would make it 48-48 and Vice President Nixon would have the decisive vote.

Asked if a Republican might win in Texas since half a dozen Democrats may run and split up the Democratic vote, Daniel would say only that he personally had favored primary balloting to cut the field of Democrats down to one. He said this proposal had been turned down because of the expense of holding a primary election.

Texas Republicans already have decided to run Thad Hutcheson of Houston as their candidate.

Daniel said the special election would not be influenced by whether it is held on Jan. 3 or later.

4 Airmen Convicted

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 10 (AP) —Four U.S. airmen were convicted tonight of assault and conspiracy to rape a 14-year-old German girl.

A court-martial imposed sentences ranging from 18 months to 5 years in prison. The four had pleaded innocent.

They were accused of accosting Ingrid Waldbrunn in woods near Munich the night of Sept. 23. They were charged with fondling the girl but not of committing actual rape.

The heaviest sentence, five years, was given Airman 1-C Dewey C. Reagan, 22, Knoxville, Tenn.

Three-year sentences were imposed on Airman 1-C Richard W. Eastman, 22, Binghamton, N.Y., and Airman 2-C Hugh D. Williams, 19, Route 1, Carthage, Tex.

An 18-month term was ordered for Airman 2-C Edward W. Nanis, 19, Ellicott City, MD.

UN Police Force Is Rushing Plans

LONDON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Soviet Union threatened tonight to turn the Middle East into another Korea while a U.N. international police force hastily mustered for an attempt to maintain peace.

Russia announced it would permit Soviet pilots, tankmen and artillery men and officers who served in World War II to join Egypt's armed forces as "volunteers" unless British, French and Israeli forces withdraw from Egyptian soil. No time limit was mentioned.

A source close to the British Foreign Office denounced the statement as a "cheap effort" by the Russians to pose as protectors of the Arab world while intending to exploit the Middle East. The French saw it as propaganda, since withdrawal had already been agreed upon by the British, French and Israelis.

The Soviet statement was issued at about the same time as a U.S. State Department declaration saying the United States would, as far as legally possible, bar its citizens from volunteering on either side in the dispute. Apparently the U.S. statement was issued in an attempt to discourage the Soviet Union from permitting volunteers to enter Egypt.

It was clear that the United States for the time being was counting on action in the United Nations to resolve the Middle East crisis. President Eisenhower turned down a Swiss invitation to attend a summit conference of the Big Four and India saying the United States wants to continue handling current international crises in the United Nations, where the Assembly Saturday ordered the Middle East and Hungary to be given top priority in the regular session beginning Monday. He held the way open for an eventual summit meeting in the future if nothing came of U.N. efforts.

British Prime Minister Eden last night said he welcomed the Swiss proposal.

Saturday's Soviet statement virtually brushed aside the pledge of the British, French and Israelis to quit Egyptian-occupied territory as soon as an effective U.N. international police force takes over. The Russians charged the British and French with refusing "under various pretexts" to withdraw.

First units of the U.N. force were flown to Capodichino Airport near Naples, Italy, preparatory to leaving for Egypt and the task of keeping the Middle East peace. The vanguard of that force will be on Egyptian soil by Tuesday. Egypt has agreed provisionally to acceptance of the patrol.

U.N. Gives Top Priority To Mid East, Hungarian Issues

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 10 (AP)—The U. N. emergency Assembly today approved overwhelmingly twin U. S. moves to put the Middle Eastern and Hungarian crises before the regular Assembly with high priority tags. The regular session begins Monday.

The special meeting first voted 66-0 for a resolution by U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. which made it certain the Middle East will be considered whenever necessary in the regular session. Guatemala and Greece abstained on that vote.

Losing little time, the Assembly voted 53-9 to give the same status to the Hungarian situation in the new Assembly. The nine Soviet bloc countries in the U. N. voted against the move and 8 countries abstained. The eight were India, Greece, Egypt, Guatemala, Yugoslavia, Yemen, Saudi Arabia and Syria.

Two prime ministers and 33 foreign ministers are listed for the regular meeting, making it the greatest collection of high ranking diplomats ever to attend an Assembly. Lodge will head the U. S. delegation in the absence of Secretary of State Dulles who is recovering from an operation.

The emergency Assembly acted as the Soviet build-up of "volunteers" for Egypt continued and President Eisenhower turned a polite thumbs down to a suggestion by Switzerland that the heads of government of the United States, Britain, France, Soviet Union and India meet to avert World War III. Eisenhower made it clear the United States wants to continue handling international crises in the U. N. rather than in a summit conference.

Just before the delegates dispersed Omar Loutfi of Egypt sounded a warning of possible complications in the Middle East. He said there was word from Tel Aviv that Israel does not intend to leave the Gaza Strip and this means Israel has decided not to retire behind the 1949 armistice line. He said also that no withdrawal of any invading force has started and Assembly resolutions have not been carried out even though Egypt has done its best to do so.

Egypt has maintained its acceptance of the Assembly deci-

Ike Turns Down Swiss Proposal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP) — President Eisenhower politely but firmly turned down today a bid from Switzerland for a new summit conference between the Western Powers and Russia to deal with the crises in the Middle East and Eastern Europe.

The problems which threaten world peace, the President messaged Swiss President Markus Feldmann, are now before the United Nations and "I believe that interests of all will best be served by carrying these initiatives through to a successful conclusion."

Eisenhower's response to the invitation received earlier this week did not foreclose the possibility of a summit meeting in the future time but definitely closed the door for now.

There remains a greater possibility of a meeting between Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet to try to repair the damage to relations among the Western Big Three caused by their split over the British-French attack on Egypt. But even this prospective conference is not likely to be held soon because the President and his advisors want to keep world attention focused on the United Nations.

The President's message to Feldmann was released at Gettysburg where Eisenhower spent the day.

In Washington, meanwhile the State Department took action to prohibit—to the limit of its legal power — American "volunteers" from joining the forces of either side in the Middle East conflict. It did this by issuing a warning that American citizens lose their citizenship by serving in a foreign armed force without permission from the secretary of state and the secretary of defense.

"Authorization has not so far been granted in any individual case and there is no intention of departing from this policy," the State Department said.

This statement, officials said, was necessitated by a movement in Europe for volunteers to go to the Middle East and join the armed forces of Israel. U. S. consulates were reported to have received many inquiries about the possibility of American citizens taking such action. In addition, the United States wanted to make clear its own opposition to letting "volunteers" go into the area in the hope that this would discourage action by Russia to send in "volunteers" on the side of Egypt.

The Swiss invitation for a new summit meeting has received "urgent and sympathetic consideration here," the President said in his message.

"I appreciate the sincerity of the Swiss proposal," he said, "and share the concern for the preservation of peace which inspired it.

"However, the United Nations is actively seized (occupied) with the various problems posing a threat to world peace and I believe that the interests of all will best be served by carrying these initiatives through to a successful conclusion."

When the invitation was sent the word from Switzerland was that the government there felt that a new top-level session—comparable to the one held in Geneva in July 1955 but with India added—might be the best means of pulling the world back from the brink of a conflict in the Middle East that would easily expand into World War III.

informant who, because he has relatives in Hungary, cannot be quoted by name.

The government tried desperately to lure workers back to their jobs with offers of food and bonuses. Radio Budapest expressed fear the country now faced the twin menaces of hunger and starvation. But Vienna press reports said the Russians were adopting starvation tactics in attempts to break the rebel resistance, holding up supply transports at the borders.

Budapest is a ravaged city, the informant said. Scarcely a house in the downtown sections has escaped shells or bullets. He estimated at least 20,000 persons have been killed in Budapest since the Russians opened their drive Sunday to crush the Hungarian freedom movement.

"Judging by what I saw," he said, "the fight may go on even for weeks."

Another member of the group of seven returnees said the rebels held the east railway station until yesterday, when Russian fire forced them to abandon it.

The main center of the resistance appeared to be a district of Budapest popularly called "Chicago." Fighting raged in the 7th, 8th and 9th districts of the capital. The Russians have shelled the surgical clinic of udapest University, compelling doctors to perform operations in the cellars. A building of the International Red Cross also was struck.

The Russians apparently intend to shell every house suspected of holding resistance fighters. In most instances, three Russain tanks draw up in the neighborhood of the suspected building and concentrate heavy fire on it.

One of the group expressed astonishment at the ability of the resistance to hold out this long. Some rebels, the informant said, seemed resigned to the idea that they cannot long compete with Russian tanks and heavy guns, and these are bitter that no aid came to them from the West. Others "hope that United Nations forces will still come to help them."

The Soviet-controlled Budapest radio said the Ministry of Armed Forces promised the Hungarian army in cooperation with Soviet units would resotre order, but it seemed obvious many of Hungary's soldiers and police were fighting side by side with the doggedly resisting rebels. Several times the chief of police has broadcast orders to policemen to report for duty, but he seemed to have little success.

Radio Budapest also issued appeals to workers to return to their jobs, but only small numbers reworker who returned a packet of food, bread rations, a bonus and an advance on his wages, and added that by next week there might even be prospects of a hot meal.

The food situation in the capital is critical, the informant said, and lines of people a half-mile long can be seen outside any store which is open and has anything to sell. Many of the capital's streets are impassable for automobiles and street car traffic is nonexistent.

The food ration lure was held out in broadcasts by the Russian-controlled radio Budapest.

At the same time President Istvan Dobi issued an order invoking the death penalty for such crimes as murder, looting and arson. Radio Budapest announced trials can be held at once, without waiting the previously prescribed eight days for presenting bills of indictment.

While rebel fire continued in the capital, Radio Budapest appealed repeatedly to workers to get back on their jobs. But only a tiny proportion of them, even by official estimate, responded.

The Russians, whose military attacks against the Hungarian rebellion have all but crushed armed resistance, now promise medicine to combat what Soviet policy had wrought. The radio said 10 Soviet planes with medicine arrived in the capital.

But in spite of the urgent need for medical supplies, Hungarian and Soviet border guards barred entry from the Austrian frontier town of Klingenbach of an International Red Cross convoy of 15 cars, trucks and ambulances.

Kansas Beat By Nebraska

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 10 (AP)—Halfback Willie Greenlaw spurted six yards off tackle early in the fourth quarter today as Nebraska continued its dominance of Kansas with a 26-20 victory in the Big Seven Conference football battle.

The touchdown climaxed a day of clutch plays for Greenlaw, whose 19-yard pass to halfback Larry Naviaux had put Nebraska ahead 13-7 at the half.

Kansas fought desperately to overcome Nebraska's lead as time ran out, but a penalty on a long punt return and Naviaux's interception of a Jayhawk pass stopped two strong bids for touchdowns.

In defeating the favored Kansas eleven, Nebraska ran its victory string over the Jayhawks to five straight. In 63 games between the teams, Kansas has won only 14.

Mountaineers Get 20th Win

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., Nov. 10 (AP)—West Virginia's Mountaineers rode to their 20th straight Southern Conference football victory, 13-6, over Virginia Military Institude today on the arm of quarterback Alex Szuch and running of fullback Noel Whipkey.

The sparse Mountaineer field gathering of 12,000 sat through the cold, gray afternoon to see West Virginia score a touchdown the second time it got its hands on the ball.

A 25-yard punt return by halfback Vic Rabbits took the ball to the VMI 30. After fullback Larry Krutko carried to the 25, Szuch shot a pass to sophomore end Bruce McClung who got it on the 10 and went over.

Yugoslavian Views Given

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 10 (AP)—A Yugoslav government spokesman has said only time will tell whether Hungary's new government under Premier Janos Kadar can insure peace in that troubled country.

The question came up at a news conference yesterday held by Branko Draskovic at the Foreign Ministry. Asked whether the Kadar government is capable of insuring peace, Draskovic replied: "Let us leave that to time."

Draskovic said also "Yugoslavia is interested in the stability of the people's republic of Hungary."

In reporting Draskovic's news conference yesterday, the Associated Press said Draskovic told newsmen it should be left to time to show whether the Soviet-imposed government of Janos Kadar will be able to insure peace. Draskovic did not describe the Kadar government as "Soviet-imposed."

Wolverines Edge Illini

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 10 (AP)—Michigan's sluggish Wolverines bolted from behind with a pair of second - period touchdowns and held off one Illinois threat after another today for a 17-7 Big Ten football victory that kept alive the Wolverines' flickering Rose Bowl hopes.

End Ron Kramer iced the Wolverines' third Big Ten triumph with a field goal from the 22-yard line in the final four minutes, then quarterback Jim Maddock intercepted a pass to snuff out Illinois' final touchdown bid.

The fighting Illini controlled all the offensive action until the last few minutes of the second half, but four quarterbacks could not instill a scoring punch into their attack.

Houston Whips Tulsa To Win Championship

HOUSTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The University of Houston backed Don Flynn, a clever, 190-pound quarterback, with a strong defense and deadly blocking tonight while winning the Missouri Valley Conference football championship by defeating Tulsa University, 14-0.

Scoring touchdowns in the first and third periods, Houston won its second conference championship in four years by permitting Tulsa to cross midfield only once. The victory gave Houston a 3-0 conference record with only a Dec. 1 game with Detroit remaining.

The defeat dropped Tulsa into a second place tie with Oklahoma A&M, each with a victory, a defeat and a tie.

Iowa Upsets Minnesota In 7-0 Victory

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—Resurgent Iowa sent its Rose Bowl hopes soaring today with a 7-0 upset victory over Minnesota in a jungle - law battle decided by Hawkeye alertness in the face of game-long Gopher fumbling.

The triumph left Iowa in position to march to Pasadena for the first time ever if it beats Ohio State Saturday. And even if it loses, Iowa can still get the bowl bid should Minnesota or Michigan lose again.

Minnesota, previously unbeaten and ranked sixth in the nation, saw its own Rose Bowl ambitions virtually dissolved in a swarm of fumbles and intercepted passes.

One of the bobbles led directly to Iowa's touchdown. Two more stymied Minnesota drives that were headed goalward.

Iowa, all but counted out of the Rose Bowl sweepstakes after losing to Michigan last week, stormed 38 yards to a touchdown in the first quarter behind the line strikes of Don Dobrino and Bill Happel and the clutch passing of quarterback Kenny Ploen. Fullback Fred Harris bucked over from the 1 on first down and Bob Prescott converted.

Pitt Crushes Irish 26-13

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10 (AP) — With quarterback Corney Salvaterra scoring one touchdown and passing for another, Pitt's bowl-hopeful Panthers crushed Notre Dame 26-13 today to hand the Irish their fifth straight defeat — worst losing skein in its history.

The defeat was the sixth in seven games for the Irish who are doomed for their poorest record since they began playing football.

In 1933, their worst year before this season, they had a 3-5-1 record.

Notre Dame tallied one touchdown on a 50-yard run by quarterback Paul Hornung in the second quarter and another on an 84-yard kickof return by Bob Ward in the final period.

The first Ward in the final period.

'Bama Downs Tulane, 13-7

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10 (AP)—Third-string quarterback Bobby Smith's deft passing sparked Alabama to two second-quarter touchdowns and a 13-7 Southeastern Conference football victory over Tulane today.

Both scores came on short plunges through gaping holes opened by the Alabama line. Alabama's speedy backs consistently found running room through the Tulane line.

Auburn Rips Miss. State

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 10 (AP) — Auburn drove 80 yards for a touchdown in the closing minutes of a wild offensive football battle to defeat Mississippi State 27-20 today.

Terrific performances by halfbacks Tommy Lorino and Bobby Hoppe had given Auburn a 20-7 lead, but State rallied in the final quarter for two touchdowns to make it 20-20 with seven minutes left.

Quarterback Jimmy Cook threw a 33-yard pass to end Jerry Elliott for the winning marker.

Lorino, carrying the ball only eight times ran for 82 yards, including a 31-yarder for a score and an 18-yarder to set up another. He cinched the victory with a neat pass interception to cut off another Maroon drive with only minute left.

N. C. State Upsets South Carolina 14-7

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 10 (AP)—North Carolina State rammed 43 yards for a fourth-quarter touchdown on the passing and running of halfback Dick Christy to upset South Carolina 14-7 today to kill any hopes the Gamecocks had of winning the Atlantic Coast Conference crown and with it, a trip to the Orange Bowl.

A partisan crowd of $1,000 saw Christy plunge over from the 2 with the winning touchdown with less than four minutes remaining. A 34-yard pass from Christy to end John Collar that carried to the 7 set up the score. Halfback Dick Hunter converted.

The Wolfpack drive began from South Carolina's 43 when center Jim Oddo recovered a fumble by Gamecock fullback Don Johnson.

Fry Leads ACC To 13-7 Win Over MW

ABILENE, Tex., Nov. 10 (AP)—A 58-yard pass from quarterback Leondus Fry to end Keith Davis gave the Abilene Christian College Wildeats a 13-7 victory over the Midwestern Indians this afternoon.

The pass play broke up a 7-7 tie and enabled ACC to retain its perfect record over Midwestern.

Mrs. Joan Morrow, wife of the ACC sprinter who is currently with the U.S. Olympic team in Melbourne, Australia, was crowned homecoming queen.

Duke's Blue Devils Tie Navy, 7-7

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 10 (AP)—A pass interference penalty on Navy's 1-yard line in the fourth quarter helped Duke pull out a savagely fought 7-7 tie here today, the third in four years between the two schools.

Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen quickly cashed in the big break for Duke by sneaking the yard for a touchdown and halfback Bernie Blaney came in to kick the point that tied the score.

Navy, sparked by its fine quarterback Tom Forrestal, had scored on an 83-yard, 13-play, second-period drive that was climaxed by a 1-yard end sweep by halfback Paul Gober.

The vital seventh point was converted by Chet Burchett.

In the thrill-packed final period that left 25,000 fans limp, each team missed a field goal in the closing minutes. Burchett was wide with his from the 16 with 2:30 left to play and with seven seconds remaining, fullback Jim Harris of Duke was low and wide in an attempt from the 20.

Navy's hard-charging line which entered the game with the nation's best defense against rushing, held Duke to 120 yards on the ground as the Blue Devils, at times stubbornly refusing to pass, were contained by the Navy forwards.

Navy, meanwhile, pounded out 169 yards on the ground and sparked by the fine passing of Forrestal before he was hurt and had to leave the game early in the fourth quarter, added 94 more yards passing.

Navy, the 12th-ranking team in the country, had entered the game a seven-point underdog with a Duke team that had lost four of seven previous starts this season.

New Cattle Buying Plan

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 10 (AP)—An official of the Texas Agricultural Stabilization - Conservation Committee says Mexico may start buying Texas cattle under a new export-import program within two weeks.

Donald Cothran, ASC official in charge of the program, said an estimated 30,000 Texas beef and dairy breeding cattle will be offered Mexican ranchers under a five million dollar plan.

He said more than 500 listings had been submitted by Texas breeders for the program, aimed to help restock Mexican ranches, to build up Mexico's dairy herds and to help drought-zone U.S. breeders. Monday is the deadline for offerings to be submitted to Mexico.

Cothran said buying teams from Mexico may reach Texas "in 10 days or two weeks."

He said three government representatives had just toured Texas, seeing herds in Travis, McLennan, Madison, and Bexar counties. The group, representing the Mexican Agricultural Bank, left yesterday to look at dairy herds in Ohio.

FIRE HITS PLANT

Firemen sprayed water continually on adjoining buildings and plant machinery to keep the extreme heat from spreading the fire to other parts of the plant.

The Snyder Gasoline Plant was constructed during 1950, 1951 and 1952, and several expansions have been made since. One of the three heater treating units was added recently at a reported cost of $105,000.

The plant has recently been processing about 20,000,000 cubic feet of well-head gas daily from oil wells in the Kelley Snyder oil field here. The highly residual gas which comes to the plant is 38 per cent liquid, and the plant was producing about 600,000 gallons of liquid products each day. The products include butane, propane, and natural gasoline.

The natural gas produced by the plant is sold to the Lone Star Gas Co. and to El Paso Natural Gas Co.

Officials of Lone Star's Snyder distribution system here said that gas pressure in Snyder fell about 20 pounds per square inch when the plant's valves were cut off shortly after the explosion, but that sufficient gas for the system came in from other sources, so that there was no disruption of service here.

Plant officials estimate that the major cost of the explosion and fire will be from loss of operation of the plant, which will cost owners of the plant about $25,000 per day, until production can be resumed.

The plant operates on a contract basis with producers which supply gas to it, and most all of the gas which comes to the plant will have to be burned in a huge flare at the plant until the plant is restored to operation.

Officials of Sunray-Mid Continent, including Mills, flew to Snyder early this morning to survey the damages and begin initial steps to repair the plant. Officials of the Fluor Corp., construction company which built the plant for the Sunray Oil Corporation, were in the party.

Mills was superintendent of the plant while it was being constructed and for the first years of its operation. He moved to Tulsa when promoted to his present position.

The huge heater treaters were still too hot yesterday afternoon to permit inspection to determine exact cause of the explosion and fire.

However it was thought at the time of the fire that a pipe carrying the kerosene-like product burst when production was being shut down in one of the heater treating units.

In addition to the three heater units destroyed, two boilers were destroyed and a third less severely damaged. The boilers were valued at about $30,000 each.

Although the plant can not continue production of the same products it has been making, officials say that it is possible that the plant can be kept in partial operation during the repair period.

All families in the plant's housing area were evacuated within minutes after the explosion and did not return to their homes and beds until after the fire was safely under control.

Bell Funeral Home of Snyder sent two ambulances to the scene of the fire to standby during fire fighting operations. The ambulances remained until all the fire was put out.

Heat from the fire was so intense that it melted metal pipes. Heat from the fire also caused temperture expansion in processing towers several hundred feet away in other parts of the plant.

sions for a peace patrol force depended on the other countries abiding by the resolutions of the Assembly on the Middle East.

The emergency Assembly president Rudecindo Ortega of Chile, closed the session with a statement that "Our organization has been strengthened by this trial."

V. K. Krishna Menon of India replied in part to criticism of India and members of the Asian-African group for supporting the resolution assailing the British, French and Israeli invasion of Egypt and later abstaining on the resolution attacking Russia's role in Hungary.

He told the Soviet Union and the Assembly that people of his country and of Asia were deeply grieved and shocked by the fighting in Hungary. He expressed the wish that the Soviet Union and Hungary would conclude quickly their negotiations for a settlement.

He said he approved putting the Hungarian matter before the next Assembly but abstained because the resolution doing so did not refer to a memorandum from Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold reporting on his efforts to investigate the situation in Hungary. Hammarskjold still has to make another report and it is expected to go to the regular session.

Hammarskjold, meanwhile, went ahead with plans to rush the international peace police force to Egypt. He appointed Maj. Gen. Ilmari Armas Eino Martola, retired officer of the Finnish army, as his personal adviser on matters relating to the U.S. emergency force.

against Egypt. Still, two or three days ago the situation in the Near East was such that military action against Egypt could spread to other areas as well.

"Noting as a favorable fact termination of military action against Egypt, apprehension is expressed in executive circles of the U.S.S.R. as to whether these steps taken by circles which unleashed the aggressive war against Egypt are not just a maneuver to gain time, to get a breathing space for still greater accumulation of forces with the aim of renewing the aggressive war against Egypt and the other countries of the Near East on a still larger scale."

The statement cited as reasons for this apprehension alleged British-French bombing of Port Said and landing of airborne troops in that area after their cease-fire statement. It made the claim that "under various pretexts" the British and French governments are refusing to withdraw their troops from Egypt.

It went on to say that numerous Soviet citizens including pilots, tank drivers, artillery specialists with World War II experience and others have asked to go to Egypt as volunteers to fight with the Egyptian people.

It concluded with the assertion that if Britain, France and Israel delay departure of their forces from Egypt then Soviet authorities will not hinder departure of Soviet citizens who want to aid Egypt.

Meanwhile the Soviet press was still waging its propaganda war with thundering words against Britain, France and Israel. The Russians still are anxious to divert attention from Hungary.

East-West Political Alignment Predicted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower's landslide victory over Adlai E. Stevenson and the Democrats' countersurge to retain control of Congress pointed today toward a new East-West political alignment.

At the same time, the first signs cropped up of the beginning struggle within the major parties for favored position in the presidential nomination contests four years away.

Eisenhower's tremendous margin of more than nine million votes over his Democratic rival was piled up largely in the industrial states of the East and Midwest — once considered largely Democratic strongholds.

Democrats went west of the Mississippi to oust Republicans from the House seats that insured their control of that body. They picked up their gain in governors and local officials in the same general area, where Republicans often were strong in the past.

Although Eisenhower cracked the Solid South again as he did in 1952, a great many voters stayed away from the polls in Dixie amid general indications they were not enchanted with either candidate.

Whether this seeming shift in political strength is temporary, it seems likely to have some effect on the parties' selection of their presidential candidates as well as the course they will follow in fashioning policy.

The Eisenhower administration already has undertaken a resurvey of its natural resource and power policies as a result of the shellacking GOP Senate and House candidates took in the Far West.

In the next presidential contest, Republicans have a natural in Vice President Nixon. Nixon has campaigned in almost every state; he has come to know the local party workers and he has been highly praised by Eisenhower.

All of this doesn't mean that Nixon won't face a terrific fight for the GOP nomination in 1960. It is likely to begin right at home for him in California, if Gov. Goodwin J. Knight is re-elected in 1958.

Sen. William Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, has his own ambitions for the presidency. He is not likely to give Nixon California's nominating votes without a fight.

Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois, newly re-elected, may have some thoughts about the GOP nomination. There has been some speculation that former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, twice the party's presidential nominee, might become secretary of state if Secretary Dulles steps out. That would put Dewey in the limelight again.

President Eisenhower, who says he wants to put a "modern Republicanism" stamp on his party, may try to influence the choice of his successor.

Eisenhower is the best vote-getter the Republicans ever had. The fact that he could win so big while other GOP candidates were going down to defeat is regarded as likely to influence the party toward adopting his "moderate progressive" approach.

But most politicians think that Eisenhower will find as his final term lengthens his influence on the choice of a successor will wane.

The strategists have not overlooked the fact that the President couldn't rub his own popularity off on other candidates.

He handpicked former secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay and Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington to run for the Senate. Both lost. GOP Sen. Herman Welker was defeated in Idaho despite display of a "Dear Herman" letter from Eisenhower.

Eisenhower gave only token help to GOP Sen. Alexander Wiley who won in Wisconsin and to Jacob Javits, who took a Senate seat away from the Democrats in New York. On the other hand, Eisenhower's margin apparently helped Republican candidates grab two Senate seats in Kentucky.

On the Democratic side, Stevenson was counted out of the circle likely to influence the choice of that party's 1960 nominee. He ran behind his ticket locally in most states, a cardinal political sin.

The Democratic nomination is up for grabs at this point, with just about everybody who is anybody in the party eyeing his chanees.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, the vice-presidential nominee, has a wide acquaintance with party organization members. He has visited almost every city, town and hamlets in his campaign activities.

But Kefauver bears the stigma of defeat along with Stevenson. He didn't carry his own state and that too, is a cardinal political sin.

So far as the Democrats are concerned, the spotlight seems likely to be directed in the next four years on Congress. Moving conspiciously in that light will be Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate's Democratic leader.

Johnson had a heart attack 15 months ago. But Eisenhower's re-election has removed that as a factor and there is little doubt Johnson would like to be president.

The Democrats have some new members and some holdovers in the Senate who can be said to regard themselves as possible presidential timber.

Among the freshmen is Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, who bears a reputation for being about as nonpartisan as a politician can be an still get elected.

Sen.-elect Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania will have a chance to show his wares. Among the holdovers, Sens. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Humphrey of Minnesota and Gore of Tennessee are tabbed have having higher ambitions.

The Democrat also have a crop of young governors, several of whom might be willing to head the 1960 ticket. Outstanding among these are G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey.

Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky has signified his willingness to try again for the nomination.

Despite Eisenhower's overwhelming victory, Democrats don't look forward to 1960 with any noticeable gloom. They think the results of congressional and gubernatorial races show their's remains the majority party.

All the political indices except the presidential contest seemed to bear this out.

In the 1954 and 1956 elections Democrats elected 29 governors in states which cast a total of 359 presidential electoral votes — far in excess of the necessary 266. The Republicans hold the governorships in 19 states, with a total electoral vote of 172.

Despite Eisenhower's landslide in which he won 457 electoral votes and Stevenson only 74, the Democrats gained a net of two governor ships from the Republicans.

With the exception of Massachusetts, the Democratic overturn of Republicans came in the West. They won Oregon and Washington, as had been expected. Due to local issues and circumstances, they also took Kansas and Iowa.

Republicans ousted Democratic governors in New Mexico, Ohio and West Virginia. In the latter state, the results were attributed to Eisenhower's sweep, as well as to local issues.

Similarly, in House races the trend of Democratic strength was toward the West Republicans seemed to be increasing their strength in the more populous east.

Democrats ousted Republicans from two seats in California, two in Oregon and one seat in each of Iowa, Kansas, Montana, Nevada and South Dakota.

With the exception of Democratic House seat they picked up in Michigan and one in Illinois, Republican gains were in the East. They included three seats in New Jersey, two in West Virginia and one each in Connecticut, Delaware, and Pennsylvania.

To most politicians the eastward trend of Democratic strength appeared to spell some dissatisfaction with the administration's farm and power policies.

If there was farm resentment, however, it was largely taken out by the voters on other candidates and no Eisenhower.

As a result, no one expected the President to feel that he ought to dispense with the services of Secretary of Agriculture Benson or back away from his program for flexible farm price supports.

There was some evidence, however, that Democrats made headway with their contention that the GOP administration was engaged in a "giveaway" of natural resources and was favoring private power intrests.

Two of the President's handpicked candidates for the Senate went down to defeat in the Northwest.

McKay failed in his efforts to unseat Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse, a public power advocate, in Oregon.

Similarly, in Washington Langlie tasted defeat at the hands of Democratic Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, another public power man. Langlie, who keynoted the GOP convention as Eisenhower's choice, had about every assistance the President could give, including a personal visit to the state.

Eisenhower also visited Oregon to help McKay.

Officials Expect Border Outbreak

By ELTON C .FAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—A Defense Department spokesman said today it would not be surprising if "something breaks out" in the Jordan-Israel border area in the next few days.

The spokesman said the border situation there is becoming "potentially dangerous" while the picture in Suez grows brighter.

Jordan, long engaged in raid-type warfare with Israel along their common border, was described as "impetuous," ready to jump off into full war without "thinking through" the possibilities. And Syria is of somewhat similar unpredictable disposition, the spokesman told newsmen.

He declined to be quoted by name.

While United Nations truce forces were on the way to stabilize the Suez situation, the Israeli have been free to begin shifting their forces to face the menace from Jordan, Syria and other Arab nations concentrating troops in Jordan, it was pointed out.

The raiding operations between the Israelis and Arabs quieted down for a time while the war in Suez flared up. But on the night of Nov. 7-8, small raids were launched into Israeli - claimed territory along a 30-mile section of the border.

The spokesman commented that these raids did not penetrate deeply and did not seem to be a concerted, organized campaign but that they did "make for a dangerous situation."

He expressed confidence in the ability of Israeli forces to deal with any organized attack by the Arabs, unless another major power, Russia, should move in with substantial assistance.

Saudi Arabian troops reported to have moved into Jordan are viewed here as little more than token forces to indicate Arab solidarity.

Iraq was seen by the spokesman as "more of a question mark" regarding its capabilities and intentions, although he said that nation could act as a "restraining influence" on its Arab colleagues.

Labor Peace Over Nation Expected

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The extraordinary degree of labor peace that prevailed during President Eisenhower's first four years in office is likely to continue well into his second term.

Most of the big labor union contracts have been signed for periods running several years into the future. These pacts assure relative freedom from major strikes.

Long - term agreements — running two, three and even four years—are in effect in the auto, steel, aircraft, apparel, construction, meat packing and electrical manufacturing industries.

The largest group of railroad worker unions, the 11 non-operating unions, has just signed a three-year contract. There also seems to be progress toward buttoning down the East Coast longshoremen's labor controversy, long a trouble spot on another three-year basis.

All this points to smooth sailing on the collectve bargaining front, at least among the larger groups of organized workers.

There may be a renewal of scattered labor troubles in the South, among smaller worker groups. The big unions, with their northern contracts settled for the next several years, may turn to renewed organizing efforts in Dixie. Many employers there are stoutly resisting union efforts to organize their workers.

Living costs are a record high and appear to be rising. But labor unions generally have taken care of this by providing, in their long term contracts, for pre-arranged annual raises and living cost pay boosts. These latter arrangements gear wage rates to government living cost index changes, both up and down.

Controversy may come on the legislative front, in Congress and state legislatures. The Republican party is pledged to "a complete overhaul" of the Taft-Hartley labor law and the Democratic party to its outright repeal. This almost guarantees some efforts to change the act.

But the forces in Congress one way or the other are so closely balanced, few expect much to be accomplished in altering Taft-Hartley. The unions are equally or even more interested in the perennial congressional issues of federal aid to education, housing and health.

In the legislatures more efforts can be expected to enact "right-to-work" laws or to repeal existing laws on this subject. These statues ban the union shop and other compulsory union membership requirements. But here again forces pro and con are almost at a standoff. Some 17 states have such laws.

Israel Claims Large Store Of Egyptain Arms Captured

By ALLAN JACKS

TEL AVIV, Israel, Nov. 10 (AP)—Israel claimed today its lightning Sinai campaign netted a vast store of Egyptian tanks, vehicles and munitions valued at approximately 50 million dollars.

"The arms we were unable to get after years of pleading we got in four days thanks to the army," Mrs. Golda Meir, the Israeli foreign minister, told a wildly cheering meeting of the Mapai (Labor) party.

Mrs. Meir declared some of the captured equipment "was so secret it has not been displayed even in the countries of origin."

She did not identify the countries of origin, but other officials have said much of the seized material came from the Soviet Union and her satellites.

Mrs. Meir accused Russia of "sowing seeds of hatred and aggression in this part of the world in the hope of reaping the fruits of wrath."

She assailed President Nasser as "the Fascist dictator of Egypt." She added:

"We have said all along that Nasser is a threat to the world—that he is the man who will cause World War III.

"But no one would listen. No one believed us. Others believed it was better to come to terms with Nasser. Some still believe this fiction."

A high Israeli government official gave this preliminary accounting of material seized in the Sinai campaign

Seven thousand tons of ammunition which can be used for small arms, artillery and planes more than 100 tanks; more than 1,000 military vehicles of American, British and Russian make a complete mobile radio station: nearly 200 artillery pieces huge military stores including spare parts for tanks and vehicles tents, uniforms and military housekeeping equipment three fuel depots with 7½ million liters of fuel. A liter is slightly over a quart.

On the debit side Israel lost Col. Assaf Simhoni, commander of the Sinai campaign. Jordan turned over to Israel the bodies of Simhoni, Lt. Col. M. Dromi and pilot Benjamin Gordon—all shot down when their plane, apparently off course, flew over the Jordan town of Aljoun Wednesday.

Israel increased the number of Egyptian planes it claimed shot down to 12, including 8 Soviet MIGs. Israeli losses were listed as one jet plane, one Piper Cub and one Harvard Trainer. Israeli casualties were put at 150 killed, 600 wounded and 20 missing as against 3,000 Egyptians killed and 7,000 taken prisoner.

Military sources in Israel claimed a squadron of Soviet-manned MIG17 jet fighters—between 18 and 24 planes — has moved into Syria. These informants said also that between 10 and 15 Russian built in Ilyushin bombers were flown to Saudi Arabia by Egyptian crews before the British-French air attack wrecked a large part of the Egyptian air force.

Israel was said by one high official to have realized three goals in its Sinai campaign: to dramatize the eight-year state of war with Egypt and to open up the question of a peace settlement to the world to forestall an Egyptian attack on Israel to open the blockaded port of Elath at the head of the Gulf of Aqaba to shipping.

The official said Israel failed to open the Suez Canal to Israeli shipping, or to eliminate attacks by fedayeen, (Arab commando) bands.

The bands were reported active Saturday on Israel's borders for the third day in a row. Israeli officials believe they are Egyptians who fled into other Arab states from the Sinai Peninsula.

ROME, Nov. 10 (AP)—Italy banned today demonstrations "of any kind" in Rome tomorrow. Last weekend student demonstrators, protesting Soviet intervention in Hungary, ended by fighting with police. Scores were injured.

WHERE PLANE HIT—This gaping hole in an apartment house roof in North Bergen, N. J., was made after a light plane clipped an 810-foot radio tower and crashed into the multiple dwelling. At least four persons died in the fire that followed the crash.

Independence Of Labor

One of the obvious conclusions to be drawn from the presidential election is that no class of our people can be expected to vote en bloc when the chips really go down.

When the election is rally free, in the sense that there are no monkeyshines at the polls and a ballot is counted honestly, free of rigging and ballot-box stuffing, people are going to vote their personal preference in spite of the efforts of political bosses to dictate their choice.

Even the big city machines are no longer the models of perfection they used to be. It is becoming increasingly hard for the bosses to "deliver" votes.

In Texas and elsewhere this week it seems to us industrial workers, organized and unorganized, voted exactly as they pleased, as individuals. Some of Ike's biggest majorities were rolled up in areas where organized labor is strongest, not only in Texas but in the great industrial areas of the East and North. If Walter Reuther exerted any particular influence anywhere, except on the local level in behalf of local candidates, it was not visible in New York, in New England, in Michigan or Pennsylvania or in Illinois and Indiana, for Ike ran like a scared antelope in many areas where the union influence was expected to be strongest.

This was Ike's personal triumph, but the point is that labor voted as it pleased in the presidential race, though congressional results indicated labor still considers the Democratic Party its best long-time friend.

There is no brass-collar labor vote as such; labor bosses like Reuther who has come to symbolize labor bossism to a lot of people, can no longer "deliver the vote," if indeed they ever could. In Texas in particular the Eisenhower forces used Reuther's supposed power and influence in the national Democratic high command as an effective stalkinghorse.

This, it seems to us, is a service not only to labor, but to the Democratic Party as well; for the enemies of both have for years used their close alliance, real or imagined, as campaign ammunition. In future this supposed alliance between Democratic national leaders and labor leaders will have less validity, and by 1960 it is quite conceivable that the Walter Reuthers will be less conspicuous at Chicago or wherever the convention is held.

Meantime, as we see it, labor in general has gained stature and should have the congratulations of its fellow-Americans for having demonstrated so forcefully its independence of thought and action. Perhaps it will be a long time before we again see labor leaders pledging their rank and file to the support of any candidate or party.

Better Traffic Laws

In sheer human welfare, no greater chore confronts the upcoming session of the Texas Legislature than a comprehensive and effective program to reduce the shameful traffic situation that has made Texas a dark blot on the map.

J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, told a group of civic leaders from the 13-county area around Abilene Wednesday that "one out of every two youngsters six years of age will be killed or injured in an automobile accident before he reaches the voting age of 21."

If he had said, "one out of every two youngsters six years of age will be shot down on the streets of Texas and killed or wounded before he reaches the voting age of 21" it would shock every Texan to the very bottom of his soul.

But traffic accidents have become so commonplace that people are no longer impressed by statistics, shocking as they are.

The TSA advocates a seven-point program to reduce the state's disgraceful traffic record. It is a well-rounded and sensible program, one calculated to be translated into lives saved and injuries prevented. It calls, among other things, for strengthening the highway patrol and increasing its efficiency by giving the patrolmen a better break economically, for a better county-wide traffic court set up, for prohibiting the sale of fireworks in Texas (many accidents are caused by pranksters throwing firecrackers into automobiles) and for a chemical test to establish the degree of intoxication and to define intoxication.

It is up to the Legislature to give us laws suited to existing conditions. It has been traditionally slow to act on these matters. The pressure of public opinion should be applied in behalf of humanity.

New Flood Of Local, State Dept Issues Heading Toward Tax-Exempt Bond Market

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A new flood of local and state debt issues will be heading for the tax-exempt bond market as a result of this week's election. They will find investors expecting high yields.

The voters notably reversed their stand of a year ago when they took a firm grip on their pocketbooks and defeated two thirds of such proposals at the polls. But that didn't keep a near record amount of tax-exempts from hitting the market in recent months.

Along with tight money in all phases of business, the new issues helped push the yields from such bonds to the highest point since 1939.

Increasing debt is but one sign of increasing prosperity and improving living standards. In many cases the new bond issues are the result of the great growth in population in general and of certain areas in particular that has marked the era of good times and industrial expansion.

Local government are now striving mightily to catch up with the pressing demand in their communities for schools, sewers, water works, hospitals, street improvements or intercity highways.

This time the voter approved all but about $4 out of each $100 asked. They brought the total of issues approved in this election to nearly 2½ billion dollars.

As just one example of the change in mood, voters in New York state in 1955 refused to approve 100 million dollars in state credit for highway building. This week they endorsed a 500-million-dollar bond issue for that purpose.

At present the average yield on such municipal and state bond issues has climbed above 3 per cent. Right after World War II the average was less than 1½ per cent.

In part this yield has simply joined in the upward march of all interest rates. But high income tax rates play a part. With yields from blue chip common stocks often considerably lower now than a year or two ago, while tax rates are rising in many localities, taxpayers in the upper brackets find the tax-exempts alluring.

Bond issues were on local ballots all across the country this year. The voters turned some down. But shortages of classrooms prompted voters in many places to approve bond issues for new schools.

Other local or state propositions that found the voters more receptive this year, in one or more communities, include bond issues to provide funds for:

Hospitals, street lighting and other civic improvements, highways, hospitals, water works, sewer facilities, memorial auditoriums and in at least one instance, a new library.

Six states voted aid in one form or another for veterans, including in some cases bonuses for Korean ar veterans.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Eloise is 6 and lives at the Plaza Hotel in New York with her nanny because her mother is always away seeking the sun somewhere.

Besides being a widgit who lives at the Plaza, "Eloise" is a book and a popular recording — and now she's going to be a television comedy. On Playhouse 90 (CBS-TV) Nov. 22, with 7-year-old Evelyn Rudie playing the title role, and a large cast including Monty Woolley, Ethel Barrymore, Louise Jourdan, Mildren Natwick and Conrad Hilton, the hotel man. And, of course, Kay Thompson.

For Miss Thompson, who has created much music and laughter in night clubs and movies, also created "Eloise." Not on purpose, but accidental like.

Back in 1948 she came into Las Vegas to play a club with the four Williams boys. It was 114 degrees or something in the shade and everybody was either tired or tense when Miss Thompson, who can imitate almost anything, began talking in the high, penetrating voice of a very small girl.

So "Eloise" was born. The Williams boys and others within earshot were so delighted they refused to speak to Miss Thompson. They'd only talk to Eloise.

As the years passed, Eloise grew in popularity. People would ignore Miss Thompson and speak only to Eloise. People took to calling Miss Thompson and asking to speak to Eloise.

Inevitably, she had to put Eloise in a book. She was brilliantly abetted by an artist named Hilary Knight, who drew the illustrations and finally reduced the illusive little girl to a line drawing. They took the child down the street to Simon & Schuster, the publishers, who ran her through the presses almost as fast as you could run through the Plaza lobby.

Hungarian Revolution Was Doomed Early, Because It Sought To Bypass Titoism

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The drama in Hungary is tragic not only in the sense that it is a bitter sorrow to see so brave a people crushed; it is tragic also in the sense that the outcome has been fatally ordained since the Nagy government lost control of the rebellion.

There are, we have reason to believe, two stages in the liberation of a satellite. The first stage is Titoism or national liberty, which is not anti-Communist and which remains within the Soviet sphere of military and political influence. The second stage is complete liberty at home and abroad. No country which has once been within the Soviet orbit — not even Yugoslavia — has ever reached the second stage.

The Hungarian tragedy is that the rebellion tried to by pass the first stage, Titoism, and in doing that, it challenged the whole Russian position in Eastern Europe. In the past ten days it has been all too evident that if the Hungarian rebellion could not be stabilized about where Gomulka has stabilized the Polish rebellion, it was running into terrible danger.

Shortly before the Red army struck, on Tuesday, Oct. 30, the Soviet government made the statement which so impressed President Eisenhower. It outlined a new conception of Eastern Europe — that of a "commonwealth of socialist states." It was in essence a declaration that the Soviet Union would settle for Titoism. By Sunday, Nov. 4, the Red army had crushed the Hungarian rebellion.

The question is whether or not the Russian action on Sunday cancelled the Tuesday declaration of Soviet policy. On the answer to that question may depend the fate of Poland, and the prospect elsewhere in the Soviet orbit. The answer will show whether within the Soviet government there has now been a return to Stalinism, or whether Titoism, but not more than Titoism, is the Soviet policy.

When we turn to the Middle East, we find ourselves in the preliminary and exploratory phases of a new policy. We have not prevented the British, French and Israeli intervention, nor have we been able to stop it, and we have not, as our action in the United Nations implied that we would, been able to restore the status quo ante. A new policy cannot now be adopted until the Anglo-French military operation is concluded and its results known and appraised.

In our planning at this moment we have to assume that the British and French will reach their military objectives and that organized Egyptian resistance will have ceased. It is at this point, but only at this point when there is in fact a cease fire, that a United Nations police force could take over. The United Nations force could not intervene in the battle which is now being fought, and there is no reason to think that Britain and France will break off the battle in the middle.

It is of vital importance to the world that Britain and France should not involve themselves in an indefinite occupation of the canal. It is in avoiding such an occupation that a U.N. force to police the armistice may prove to be very useful.

It is difficult to see into the future as long as the outcome of the military operations is not known. But it would appear that if the operations succeed, the grand strategical result will be to contain Egyptian military power west of the canal, and thus to cut off the Egyptian thrust for the domination of the Arab states of the Middle East.

If that is to happen, it will take not only good management but good luck. But if it were to happen, there would for the first time be the prospect of a negotiated peace in the Middle East.

New Concoction, Miltini, Soothes Jangled Nerves

By INEZ ROBB

Well, sir, before the Hungarian and Middle East crises arose, I filed away an item in the folder reserved for "Decline and Fall of Civilization."

Even as a born optimist who operates with the long view (i.e., an optimist who believes mankind could stand a whale of a lot of improvement even in this best-of-all possible worlds), I judged the item as inflammatory and calculated to spread undue alarm among the general populace.

Now, however, I feel it my duty to record this alcoholic item. It is one woman's opinion that it is a neurotic negus born of the times. This concoction called a Miltini is, I understand, in wide circulation among such sections of the haut monde as have passed beyond the help of psychiatry.

Anyway, this potion — and, believe me, in this case one man's potion is another man's poison — is a six or seven-to-one Martini in which a Miltown is substituted for lemon peel or olive. (Better we should work for the abolition of this than the hydrogen bomb, but let us not get political after what we have just gone through!)

It is also one woman's opinion that here is the perfect panacea for the megrims and the shakes that afflict homo sapiens. Presumably, he drinks the Martini in the first place to brace himself to face another day, to give him the bounce to carry on until the five o'clock whistle and shadow overtake him.

But to this small, economy-size cure-all, he adds a Miltown or tranquilizing drug to soothe his jangled nerves and cool his fevered apprehensions.

In a sad, frightening way, the Miltini must stand forth as a perfect work of art. Here is an elixir that at one and the same time peps a man up so he can lick the world and turns his damper down so he can endure it.

It is doubtful if any other creation of the mid-20th Century so typifies this frantic, uncertain era in which no man can know what the next hour will bring. A hermetically-sealed shaker of Miltinis, or at least the recipe, should be included in every pompous mid-century cornerstone built, filled and laid so that posterity can know what real cool cats we were and how extraordinary the civilization we wrought.

The Miltoni is the next logical development flowing out of the rash of books, published since World War II, whose theme is "How to Live and Like It." And it does not put the illiterate at a disadvantage. From now on out, peace of mind will not be the exclusive property of the man with a library card.

Furthermore, the Miltini is the final answer to that old-folk lieder, "Who Put the Benzedrine in Mrs. Murphy's Ovaltine?" Mrs. Murphy was just ahead of her time.

Well, friends, down the hatch! Or, maybe, the drain.

Couples With Children Are Helped In Finland

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Unlike this country where couples with children have a rough time finding a place to live, the couples with youngsters get first consideration from landlords in Finland, and the more the better.

Mrs. Erkki Salmi, daughter of Finnish Ambassador and Mrs. Johan Nykopp, says most families in Helsinki, the capital, live in apartments. These they have to buy. They are modern, and very expensive, costing from $10,000 up for three rooms.

"They are so expensive that most young couples have to take loans to finance them," Mrs. Salmi told me, "and loans are not easy to get since the general strike in Finland last March. Everyone's afraid of inflation."

Some apartments, built with government loans and costing only about one-third the price of the urban dwellings, are available in Helsinki suburbs, Mrs. Salmi says, but you have to have a child to get into one.

Mrs. Salmi, an attractive brown-eyed young woman, married a Helsinki advertising man in 1954. They have no children. She and her husband rent two rooms and share the kitchen of the apartment owned by the ambassador's mother, Mrs. Anna Nykopp.

"There are some apartments to rent," Mrs. Salmi explained, "but you almost have to have a dozen of children to get one."

Selma Saussuma, Brazilian YWCA director, says working women in her country who stay away from the polls on election days are subject to a fine or imprisonment, or both.

While women in many parts of Brazil do not actively engage in politics, she says, they certainly do vote in every election. Men and women in her native republic can vote at age 18, and the right to cast a ballot is considered so important it is compulsory for women who work and men who can read and write to go to the polls.

Miss Saussuma's father was governor of her state until his assassination in the revolution of 1930. She is here on her first visit.

Noting other differences, Miss Saussuma says Brazilian women do not marry until they are 24 or 25, and only after long engagements; older women seldom have any social life outside the home; business girls do not live alone but stay with their parents until they marry.

Women not only out-number the men in France, but out-vote them at the polls, with 17 women casting their ballots at election-time to every 100 men, according to statistics provided by the French Embassy. More French women are owners of small businesses, too. Almost 52 percent of these enterprises are owned—and operated—by the ladies!

No Winner In Egyptian Conflict In Sight Yet

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — If there's a winner in the Egyptian conflict he is not yet in sight.

The fighting was done by the British, French, Israelis and Egyptians. The United States and Russia are in it up to their necks, trying to stop it and trying to come out looking good.

The United Nations is mixed up for world opinion and moral force over military force.

The Isrealis said they attacked Egypt to put an end to torments by their neighbor, who had been raiding over their border. They also wanted to collect some Egyptian real estate, which they did.

When the shooting stopped they held the Gaza Strip and the Sinai Peninsula and said they wouldn't give up that territory. But under pressure from President Eisenhower, Russia, Britain and the U. N. they said yesterday they'd go back into Israel to let a U. N. police force take over.

The British and French said they went into Egypt to separate the Isrealis and Egyptians and to protect the Suez Canal. But the only ones they shot at were Egyptians. And the canal is now so fouled up from sunken ships it may be out of use for months.

The British and French — under pressure from Eisenhower, the Russians and the U. N. — not only agreed to stop shooting before they had taken over all of the canal area but they agreed to leave the canal.

Eisenhower then had the unpleasant job of trying to bail out the British, French and Western influence in the Middle East by putting all the heat he could on the British and French to back up.

Whether his influence turned the trick is not known. For the Russians, seeing their chance to pose as the only friend the Arabs had and thus move into the Middle East if the West loses out there, got into the act too.

Premier Bulganin wrote to Britain's Prime Minister Eden. Bulganin didn't — in so many words — threaten to get into the Middle East war if the British and French didn't quit. The British and French seemed to think he might mean that. The British began to sound softer.

Meanwhile, Bulganin suggested to Eisenhower that the United States and Russia act together to stop the fighting. That was the last thing Eisenhower wanted. It would put Russian troops into the Middle East and it would have the United States fight its allies. He turned down Bulganin cold.

Bulganin's letter to Eisenhower was a phony. He was suggesting that the United States and Russia cooperate only if the U.N. approved, knowing the U. N. wouldn't. But the Russians sounded so tough, even though making double-talk, that the United States and everyone else was afraid of World War III.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

Off the BOOK BEAT — Guess who's back in town!

As winsome as any author to come out of Paris, she is Francoise Sagan, 21 now, and a big grown-up girl too old, she says very maturely, even to play the 17-year-old heroine of her first runaway best seller, "Bonjour Tristesse," when the movies do it.

What is she doing? "I am working on a big novel." She has been planning something more ambitious and comprehensive than the one-character, two-character or at most three-character books on which she has made her extraordinary, and deserved, reputation. "Bonjour Tristesse" which headed best-seller lists for months, and now "A Certain Smile," which stays high on the same lists.

"This will have six characters. I write by typewriter, in Paris in my apartment on the Left Bank or out in the country. Sometimes I do a page a day, sometimes 10 but never more. I do not rewrite."

She was in New York doing lunches with critics, with autograph hunters on her heels, at least one all-inclusive cocktail party, and reunions with friends remembered from her first visit a season ago. She said she was staying two weeks, and giving three days to the press and cameramen. "Five," said her stern editor from Dutton's. "Three," she said. After that, she planned to drive a sports car, obligingly put at her disposal over here. At home she has a stable of sports cars, which she likes to take out and open up wide at night.

Is she not thinking of getting married? "Well," she answered, with a certain tristesse and a certain smile, "not soon."

Wildcats Set In Stonewall, Nolan Areas

Two West Texas counties—Nolan and Stonewall—gained new wildcat operations.

Hiawatha Oil & Gas Co. of Midland No. 1 N. R. Dodgin will be a 7,300-foot Ellenburger project in West Nolan.

It is seven miles south Roscoe and 2,438 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 89, block 23, T&P survey. The location is 1¼ miles northwest of the one-well Highland (Mississippian) pool.

In West Stonewall, 1½ miles east of Peacock, American Petrofina, Inc., W. B. Omohundro and General Crude Oil Co., operating from Wichita Falls will drill No. 1 E. H. Sieber as a 6,900-foot wildcat to explore the Cambrian.

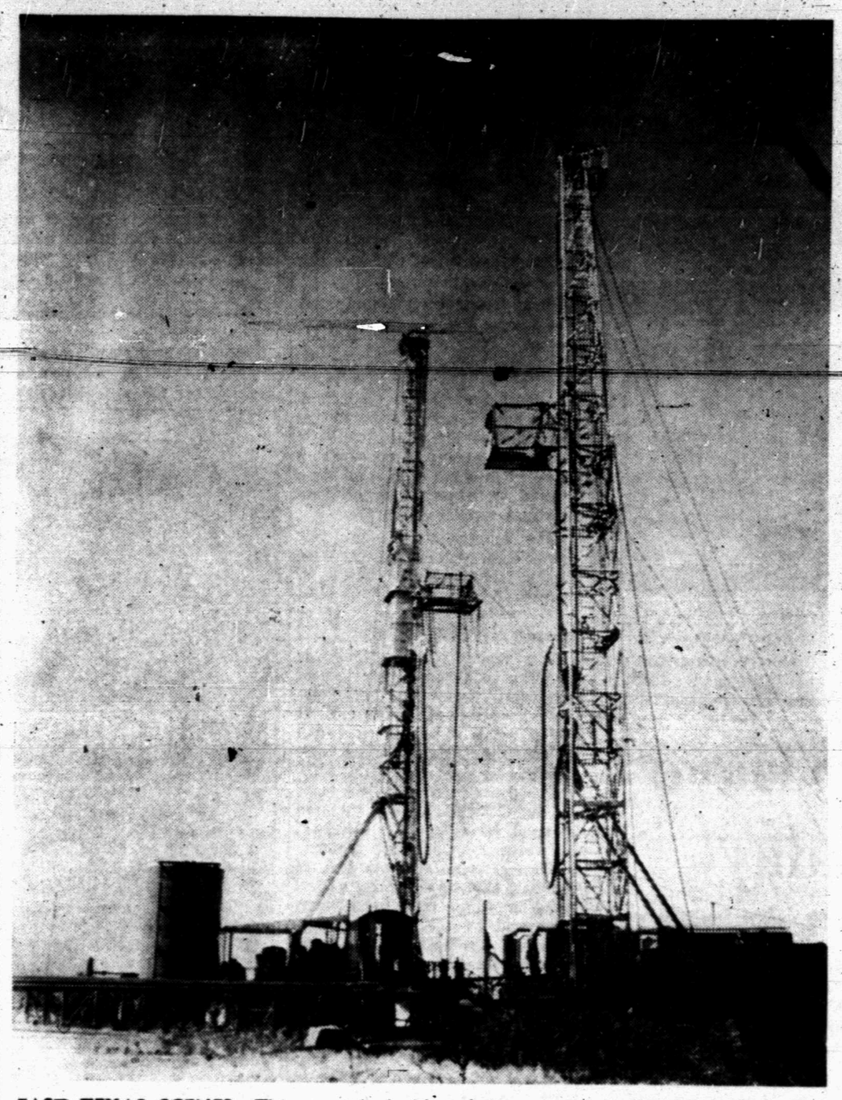
It is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 263, block D, H[illegible]

Outpost To Field In Fisher Staked

Ray Smith Drilling Co. No. 1-A Green-Weatherman is a one-half mile south outpost to the one-well Lona M. Green (Strawn) field in North Fisher County.

It is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 284, block 2, H&TC survey and eight miles northeast of Rotan. Contract depth is 5,800 feet.

The operation is one mile west of another one-well pool, the Lena M. Green, East (Strawn).



EAST TEXAS SCENE?—This may look like what a person would have seen in East Texas a few years ago before a limit was placed on the number of wells which could be drilled per section of land, but it is actually in West Texas, about 21 miles north of Snyder in the J. C. Dorwood field. Twin holes are being drilled for production from two pays, which makes it permissible to have wells this close together. The two rigs are 50 feet apart. (Lee Watson photograph)

Twin Wells Drilled Near Here

Who would have thought it more economical to drill two holes 50 feet apart to produce oil from more than one pay instead of producing from two pays out of one hole?

It is, at least in one case here. In the J. C. Dorwood field, 21 miles north of Snyder, W. M. and A. P. Fuller are carrying on such an operation on the Fuller Ranch.

Calco Drilling Co. of Snyder is digging the two holes at the same time, which makes the operation unusual. There have been at least four twin-well operations in that field, but none of those twins were drilled at the same time.

Now, Calco has two jackknife rigs sitting 50 feet apart, one drilling for the San Andres, the other Glorieta pay with the W. M. and A. P. Fuller Unit A No. 1 and No. 2SA.

At last report, Pat Varner, superintendent for Calco, said the rig looking for Glorieta pay was almost ready to complete at about 2,575 feet after about eight days of drilling. The San Andres hole was already at 1,600 feet and expected to find production somewhere around 2,050 feet.

Twin-well drilling for two-pay production is economical when drilling for shallow pays. Ordinarily, on deep operations, only one hole would do the job.

Paul Callahan, vice-president and general manager for Calco, said Calco has twin-welled in four locations in Fuller leases in the Dorwood filed, but this is the first time two rigs have used at one time. This was done because the two rigs were both in the field and this was the last set of wells to be drilled at this time.

Toolpushers on the operations are Don Aucutt and Kenneth Murdock.

The Dorwood field started out with only Glorieta production. The San Andres was discovered about three months ago in the field, which has been developing rapidly during the past few months. There are 19 wells on Fuller leases in the field.

Borden Well Re-Entry Set

Phillips Petroleum Co. will reenter and plug back for Spraberry sand tests in No. 1-B Clayton, originally completed as discovery well of the Southwest Gail (Canyon) field of Southwest Borden County.

Operator will plug back to 7,900 feet for the Spraberry tests. The project originally was completed through Canyon reef perforations from 8,236 to 8,249 feet.

Location is 662 feet from north and 672 feet from west lines of southeast quarter of section 17, block 32, T&P survey, 12 miles southwest of Gail.

Report On Oil Wells

AUSTIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Railroad Commission said today 253 oil wells had been brought in this week, bringing the year total to 14,126.

This compares with 13,056 a year ago. Thirty gas wells were completed, making 1,535 for the year against 1,012. Wells plugged this year total 10,200 this year, including 224 this week, compared with 8,464.

Ten wildcat oil wells were drilled and 1 gas well. This brought the sum of oil wildcatters for the year to 502 and gas wells to 114 compared to 348 and 76, respectively, a year ago.

The daily crude allowable today was 3,367,449 barrels compared with 3,359,495 a week ago, an increase of 7,954.

Strawn Test Slated In East Scurry Area

American Trading & Production Corp. of Midland No. 1-B Elmer Howell will be a 7,000-foot operation to test the Strawn in East Scurry County, 12 miles east of Snyder.

It is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 62, block 3, H&TC survey and one-half mile west of the lone producer in the Hermleigh (Strawn) pool.

There are more cattle in the United States than in the entire continent of Africa.

South Garza Offset Due

Hole was being made below 7,775 feet in lime at The Superior Oil Co. No. 1-38 Crump, north offset to the discovery well of the South Rocker A (Strawn) field of South Garza County.

Last drillstem test reported was from 7,709 to 7,720 feet in lower Strawn F zone. The two-hour and three-minute test surfaced gas in five minutes and mud in 52. Cleaned into pits 11 minutes and flowed into tanks one hour, it made 25.02 barrels of 39.3 gravity oil. Gas-oil ratio was 197-1.

Reversed out was an additional 24 barrels of oil. Recovery from below the circulating sub was 90 feet of oil.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 38, block B-3, PSL survey.

Southwest Scurry Outpost Is Staked

Weather Ideal For Planting Of Cover

Weather lately has been rather ideal for drilling of winter cover crops on mixed and sandy soils of this area, according to Guy Moore, work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service here.

Moore and other technicians have been checking land throughout the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District, and they say those who have managed to drill their small grain and legumes in between rains can look forward to getting a stand.

The damp, dewey mornings are made to order for the sprouting of small grains. It is not too late yet to seed small grains and vetch for cover, Moore said.

Vetch drilled to the amount of 12 pounds per acre with 15 to 30 pounds of rye or wheat makes a good cover crop mixture, as does a mixture of 12 pounds of vetch with 25 to 30 pounds of winter oats or barley.

A number of farmers in the south half of the district were busy drilling cover crops as soon as the first rains had cased to fall in October, and interest has increased each time more rains fell. Drilling can be done immediately following a rain on coarse, sandy soils, since this type soil sheds off the discs when wet, and the soil will clod better when wet than when dry. The roughness of the soil left when drilling small grains on sandy land when wet gives the small grains added protection from the blowing and shifting of the soil.

Moore cited an example in which irrigation farmers might be interested. A Brownfield man drilled vetch at 40 pounds per acre last fall on wheat stubble land. An application of 300 pounds of 13-39-0 fertilizer was made before drilling. He irrigated two times, applying four inches of water each time. A clipping on a small plot when calculated showed green weight at the top growth at the rate of 25,800 pounds per acre on March 30, and a second sample on April 11 showed 34,600 pounds, or an increase of 8,800 pounds per acre or 733 pounds per day during the 12 days.

The vetch was plowed into the soil in April, and the total cost of the crop was $36 per acre, including seed, fertilizer, plowing, and a second application of fertilizer was applied when the vetch was plowed into the soil. This was done to speed up decomposition. At the rate of 15 pounds of nitrogen per ton of vetch, the 34,600 pounds of green weight would add 255 pounds of nitrogen per acre.

Also, Moore said, there is at least one-third as much root weight as that above ground, so there would be about 11,000 pounds of roots per acre.

Wheat Is Suffering From Lack Of Rain

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Extension Service said today wheat in the Panhandle and South Plains is in danger from lack of rain.

The eastern half of Texas is turning green after rains.

"District agents report farm conditions generally are improving. Stockmen are encouraged as they see green growth for grazing and water in their ponds, and more small grain and winter soil building crops are being planted," G. G. Gibson, extension director, said.

"Sale of livestock has slowed in many areas and the harvest of cotton in the Panhandle, South Plains and West Texas passed the halfway mark. Grain sorghum harvest is about complete."

The citrus is being picked in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Rain has delayed the pecan and late peanut harvest in Central Texas, but has curtailed outbreaks of forest fires in East Texas.

At Amarillo, Knox Parr said "This area missed moisture which fell on much of the state and it is badly needed for wheat and winter pastures. Early sowed wheat needs moisture for growth and late sowed wheat needs moisture. The land needs a cover also to prevent erosion. The harvest of cotton, grain sorghum and vegetables is progressing swiftly. Cattle continue to be marketed."

Some fall-seeded dryland wheat in the South Plains must have moisture soon to survive. The grain sorghum harvest is practically complete, and cotton, estimated at 1,500,000 bales, is more than half harvested.

In northeast and deep East Texas, John Surovik said "For the first time since May 2 we have had more than four inches of rain over the area. Most of it soaked into the soil which will help small grain and winter legumes already planted. Some already are coming up, and if warm weather prevails they'll furnish a limited amount of grazing by Christmas."

Election In Mexico To Be Watched

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 10 (AP)—Who will be the next president of Mexico? The election is over a year away but speculation is rippling the currently placid political waters.

A Mexican president serves a six-year term and may not seek reelection.

It's still anybody's guess who will follow President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines.

Ten names figure prominently in speculation. Six are present cabinet members. Six are also former governors. They come from all corners of Mexico but three are from Veracrus, the state which produces many presidents, including the last two.

They are: Labor Secretary Adolfo Lopez Mateos, Agriculture Secretary Gilberto Flores Munoz, Health Secretary Ignacio Morones Prieto, Economy Minister Gilberto Loyo, Interior Minister Angel Carva Jal Rafael Avila Camacho, governor of Puebla Ernesto Uruchurtu, governor of the Federal District; Finance Minister Antonio Carillo Flores, Marcantonio Munoz, former governor of Veracruz now inactive, and Antonio Bermudez, head of Petroleos Mexicanos.

None has said he seeks office. Apparently there has been little advance buildup for any of them.

The endorsement of Ruis Cortines should be important but not decisive. He has not indicated any preference.

Mamie To Have 60th Birthday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP) — Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower observes her 60th birthday Wednesday in much happier circumstances than last year and ready to start another four years as the nation's First Lady.

The White House has not yet announced any special plans for the day, but there is sure to be some celebration.

Last year, the formal party for Mrs. Eisenhower's birthday was delayed four months because of the President's illness.

Eisenhower, stricken with a heart attack in Denver on Sept. 24, was able to fly back to Gettysburg, Pa., on Nov. 12 and Mamie's birthday, Nov. 14, was spent quietly at their farm home.

Four months later, on March 22, Mrs. Eisenhower had her official birthday party, including a nationally televised program of her favorite tunes entitled: "To Mamie with music."

This birthday—the diamond jubilee 60th—finds Mrs. Eisenhower also observing her 40th year of marriage, with four grandchildren.

Since she married Dwight David Eisenhower at the age of 19, Mamie has come up the ladder as an Army wife, moving her home 25 times.

In the four years she has been mistress of the White House, Washington has gained some impressions of Mrs. Eisenhower, who was born in Boone, Iowa, in 1896.

She has had few meetings with the press, and much of what is known of her comes indirectly from friends, her secretary, other associates and from observations at public functions.

Entertaining at the White House picked up some during Mamie's tenure, and she is credited with injecting a certain informality, sparked by her own "friendly, enthusiastic, bubbling" personality.

Mrs. Eisenhower, acclaimed last March by the New York Fashion Academy as the best dressed woman in public life for the fourth straight year, is reputed to have a remarkable memory for names and faces—even hats and dresses people have worn.

Her taste in food is said to be simple, yet veteran visitors to the White House report the table fare there has improved with the current administration. Mrs. Eisenhower is a gracious hostess and at the smaller luncheons she has had frequently "everything always looks lovely and is tastefully arranged," according to Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, wife of the defense secretary.

Firemen Get Burned, Audience Gets Lesson

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Two firemen underlined the moral of their "you can't be too careful with fire" demonstration.

Gasoline used in the demonstration fired off the cue, raising painful facial blisters on Robert Nelms and Bill Lakey. The burns were not serious.

Fire chief Ruff Coleman, after shipping the men to a hospital for first aid, said he was certain the lesson got through to the audience.

Program Will End

DALLAS, Nov. 10 (AP)—An official of Radio WFAA said yesterday that Facts Form, a nationally distributed radio and television discussion and panel program, will be discontinued. Ralph Weidman, manager of the recording division of WFAA, said a representative of H. L. Hunt, fabulously rich oilman who sponsored the program, told him all operations connected with the program should cease.

DESPITE CONTROLS

Record U.S. Crop Reaped

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—America's farmers produced a total crop this year of virtually record proportions.

In a late harvest time report yesterday, the Agriculture Department estimated crop volume at nearly 106 per cent figure, reached in 1948 when there were no federal curbs on production. This year, farmers operated under acreage limitations on basic crops. The new soil bank program resulted in some crop land being retired from production of commodities already in surplus.

The department said the 1956 corn crop, totaling 3,412,000,000 bushels, is the second largest of record—5 per cent above last year and 11 per cent above average.

The report credited favorable weather in October with helping to boost production totals for corn, sorghum grain, and rice. It noted some decreases in output of cotton, peanuts and some vegetables.

The department said light rains in the Great Plains drought area "raised hope for late seedings" of wheat, rye and other grains.

Corn growers will vote Dec. 11 on what kind of a planting control program they want next year. This will be the first corn referendum ever held, and will come on the same day that cotton and peanut growers will vote on marketing quotas for next year's crops.

In the corn referendum, provided under the new farm law, growers will be given a choice of these two programs:

1. Based on an over-all allotment of 37,288,889 acres to be apportioned among growers in a designated commercial producing area which comprises 894 counties in 24 states of the Midwest, East and Southeast. The 1957 allotment would be about 16 per cent smaller than this year's.

2. Geared to the soil bank plan and providing for a total of 51 million acres to be apportioned among commercial area growers.

The acreage allotment program will go into effect unless there is a two-thirds vote in favor of the 51 million acre plan, which would run through the 1959 crop when the soil bank plan is due to expire.

Under the acreage allotment program, the department is required to support corn prices at between 75 and 90 per cent of parity. Under the soil bank plan, supports may be pegged at between zero and 90 per cent of parity, but participating farmers also are eligible for federal payments for retiring some of their cropland. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

Farmers outside the commercial area will be free to plant whatever corn acreage they wish. However, they will be eligible for a support rate only 75 per cent of that offered in the commercial area.

In preparation for the peanut referendum, the department said the national planting allotment of this crop for 1957 will be 1,610,000 acres—40,342 acres below this year's prescribed acreage. At normal yields, this allotment would produce a 1957 peanut crop of 725,305 tons.

The Texas corn crop was estimated at 28,365,000 bushels compared to 49 million bushels in 1955.

The Texas sorghum crop this year was estimated at 98,534,000 bushels, a drop of about one-third from 1955. The 1955 sorghum crop was 148,309,000 bushels.

The rice crop was indicated at 46,225,000 bags of 100 pounds each compared with 53,532,000 last year.

TELEPHONE COMPANY LOCAL TAXES IN SNYDER ARE ENOUGH TO EDUCATE 47 YOUNGSTERS A YEAR

What the telephone company means to Snyder

EMPLOYER . . . provides good jobs for 64 of your neighbors who earn $239,457 a year — and spend most of it here in Snyder.

TAXPAYER . . . pays $11,722 a year in local taxes alone — enough to cover the cost of educating 47 Texas grade school children for a year.

BUYER . . . buys thousands of dollars worth of supplies and services from Snyder firms.

In just ten years, telephone growth has created 51 good, new jobs for Snyder people — and greatly increased all our contributions to Snyder's welfare and prosperity.

TRUMAN BLACK, Manager

Few people but the tax collector would care that last year the telephone company paid $11,722 in local taxes alone here in Snyder.

But when you realize that this was enough to pay the cost of educating 47 Texas grade school children for a year, the importance of telephone taxes to everyone in the community becomes clear.

Snyder benefits from telephone company activity in other ways, too . . . from the $239,457 payroll which helps keep business rolling in Snyder . . . the many thousands of dollars' worth of goods and services the company buys from local people every year . . . the active interest that our 64 telephone people here take in community, church, and neighborhood affairs.

Most important of all, Snyder can depend on good telephone service. We've increased the number of telephones in Snyder homes and businesses more than seven times in the last ten years — from 823 to 6,022 — to keep pace with the city's growth, and we've added 24,119 miles of wire to tie us all closer together.

These are good examples of the way we can improve the value of your service and contribute more as good citizens when we can have faith that company profits will be fair and reasonable.

Hermleigh Takes 6-B Championship

The Hermleigh Cardinals took another district championship yesterday afternoon in grid District 6-B when they sailed through an easy game, downing Trent 34-6 in the last game of the regular season.

The Cards must wait a week to learn who they will play in the bi-district match. Van Horn is undefeated in District 5-B, and Rankin lost Friday night to Wink 32-31. Van Horn and Rankin will meet this Friday night, and out of that game will come that loop's champ.

This is the seventh district championship in nine years for the Cards. Two years ago, they took their first regional championship. Class B playoffs go only as high as regional.

Hermleigh superintendent O. B. Paty and assistant coach Willie Bigham will go to Rankin Friday to see the Rankni-Van Horn game and to make arrangements with the winner for the playoffs. Head Coach Ray Isaacs will be at the Bronte-Robert Lee game in Robert Lee, where District 6-B is having a meeting to declare the district champ and to pick the all-district team.

Billy Mac Davidson, who has been leading this part of Texas for weeks in scoring, broke an area scoring record for a full season in the game. His 22 points in the Trent game pushed his season total to 205, besting a previous record of 192 set by Jerry Reeves of Lueders last year.

The Hermleigh defense shone throughout yesterday's game, led by Tom Etheredge, Donald Calvert, Eddie McHaney, and Don Vineyard. Trent's Cassady led his team on defense.

Trent drew first blood after they successfully attempted an on-side kick on the first kickoff of the game. After recovering the ball, the team marched on downfield to score, with Hobbs carrying the final four yards.

Hermleigh struck back in the first period, however, when Robby Robinson aerialed to Morris Light 30 yards for a touchdown and Davidson kicked the extra point, putting the Cards ahead 7-6. Davidson followed up in the same period with a 25-yard scoring run and then converted, and the score remained 14-6 at halftime.

In the third quarter, just after play started, Hermleigh moved the ball to the Trent 22, and Light carried from there for another TD, with Davidson kicking the point. Davidson scored later on a four-yard plunge and then again on a 35-yard run, kicking for a conversion on one of those scores.

There was no score in the fourth stanza, although Hermleigh got inside the Trent 20 before fumbling and losing the ball.

Sooners Rap Iowa State Easily, 44-0

AMES, Iowa, Nov. 10 (AP) — Oklahoma's flashing speed swept past Iowa State 44-0 today to give the Sooners an official, all-time national college winning record of 37 consecutive games.

The Sooners owned today's Big Seven Conference victory with less than five minutes played in the first quarter when Tommy McDonald plunged one foot for the first of his two touchdowns.

McDonald's touchdown twin, halfback Clendon Thomas, also accounted for a pair of touchdowns on plunges of less than one yard.

However, the highlight of the one-sided contest was center Jerry Tubbs' 72-yard run for a touchdown in the third quarter. Tubbs, a converted fullback, looked like one all the way as he shed Iowa State tacklers on his spring after intercepting a Cyclone pass.

The victory — running Oklahoma's unbeaten string to 57 in the conference — also gave the Sooners the all-time collegiate record for games won. Oklahoma's publicity director, Harold Keith, said. Keith explained a recheck of the records by the NCAA showed Penn teams of 1896-97-98 won 38 straight but two of the triumphs were over high school elevens.

Iowa State never seriously threatened the Sooners, advancing to the Oklahoma 27 in the third quarter where a 15-yard penalty halted their deepest penetration.

The Sooners' lethal split-T offense carried them to touchdowns six of the first nine times they got the ball. Oklahoma missed an eighth touchdown on the last play of the game when Lonnie Holland was knocked out of bounds just shy of the Iowa State goal line.

The Iowa State crowd of 14,000 had little to cheer about but like all who watch the national champion Sooners, they went away convinced of Oklahom's top rating in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Oregon State Edges Stanford 20-19

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 10 (AP)—Oregon State beat Stanford's John Brodie at his own passing game today, edging the Indians 20-19 and virtually wrapping up its first Pacific Coast title and Rose Bowl bid since 1941.

The Beavers probably would meet Iowa, victor over Minnesota 7-0 today, in a rematch in the Pasadena bowl. Iowa beat Oregon State 14-13 in an early season game.

Trailing 19-14 midway in the fourth quarter today, Oregon State's fullback, Tom Berry, picked off one of Brodie's passes at the OSC 49. Six plays later, tailback Joe Francis passed 21 yards to end Frank Negri in the end zone for the winning score.

UCLA Whips Washington

SEATTLE, Nov. 10 (AP) — The UCLA Bruins parlayed a wayward Washington punt and two sharp passes into a pair of second-quarter touchdowns today, then fought off a last-minute challenge to score a 13-9 Pacific Coast Conference football victory.

The host Huskies, helped by a punt that rolled dead on the UCLA 2, got away to a 9-0 lead on a 6-yard field goal and a touchdown, both by Dean Derby.

Whipped to a frazzle statistically in the first half, the Bruins leaned heavily on brilliant punting to set up their triumph.

Viewed in a drizzle by 27,500 dampened fans, it was a meaningless meeting for two teams in the conference doghouse. Both are on probation for illegal payments to athletes and are banned from the conference title and Rose Bowl.

Kirk Wilson set the stage for UCLA's first score with a punt that died a half foot from the goal. The Huskies' return punt on first down caromed off a Washington player's back and was downed on the 2 by UCLA.

FUMBLE RECOVERED—Two hands go out for the pigskin fumbled by Lake View Chiefs in the Friday night game with the Snyder Tigers, but the Tigers' Bud Morgan successfully wrestled the ball into custody. The Lake View player is Clifford Bly, 155-pound back. Snyder struck early and often to down the Chiefs 46 to 0. (Lee Watson photograph)

Maryland And Clemson Tie Game, 6-6

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 10 (AP)—Maryland converted a fumble into a last-quarter touchdown today to tie Clemson 6-6 in a brutal defensive battle which soured but didn't spoil outright Orange Bowl aspirations of the Tigers from South Carolina.

It was the second tie this season for undefeated Clemson, running in front as representative of the Atlantic Coast Conference for the Orange Bowl. Clemson tied Florida, 20-20, in its second game of the season.

The otherwise frustrating stalemate was somewhat of a boost to Maryland, which had lost six out of seven games. The Terps had 18,000 cold fans heated up when they came within six yards of the winning touchdown in the last minute of play.

The teams fought for every yard throughout. Clemson ground its way 47 yards in 14 plays, barely making first downs twice to keep the ball on the way, to score a minute before the third quarter ended.

Fullback Bob Spooner plunged the last yard on the fourth down and quarterback Charlie Bussey missed the extra-point kick.

Maryland scored a few minutes after the fourth quarter started when guard Jack Davis recovered a fumble by halfback Joel Wells of Clemson on the 4. It took Maryland four plays to get it over, fullback Tom Selep going the last two yards in his first appearance in four games.

Bill Komlo's placekick for the extra point was wide.

Sam Houston Shuts Out SWT 28-0

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Nov. 10 (AP)—An estimated homecoming day crowd of 6,500 here today saw the Sam Houston State Bearcats hand the Southwest Texas Bobcats a 28-0 defeat which assured the Bearcats at least a tie in the Lone Star Conference race.

The Bearcats are the only college team in Texas to remain undefeated and untied with eight wins and no losses.

Sparked by two flashy halfbacks, Bobby Grisham and Gale McGinty, the Bearcats completely baffled the Bobcats, who gained a total of only 141 yards rushing and passing against Sam Houston's 314.

Unbeaten Snyder B Tops Lamesa 32-14

LAMESA, Nov. 10 — Snyder High School's B grid team remained undefeated, tied once, here tonight as they walked through another win, taking Lamesa B 32-14.

The Snyder squad had little trouble with their hosts. After playing a fairly close first half, leading 12-7 at the midway point, Coach Jim Stehley's charges went on to score three more times in the last half.

The first play of the game netted a touchdown for the Snyder lads when Quarterback Richard Mahan lateraled to Dick Hayes, who passed to End Bill Dubose for a play covering 70 yards.

Lamesa moved ahead 7-6 on a sustained drive, scoring on a short plunge.

In the second period, Kenneth Drake put his Snyder team out front again when he crossed tackle and scooted for 80 yards and a TD.

It wasn't long after the third period began that Mahan let loose another pass, with Dubose making a beautiful catch for a touchdown on a play covering 42 yards.

It was Dubose again later in the same quarter, on another pass from Mahan, scoring on a 53-yard play which started from a spread formation.

Mahan got Snyder's last score when he intercepted a Lamesa pass in the fourth and carried it back 30 yards into the end zone. He ran two extra points across on those three touchdowns.

Lamesa scored again before the game ended, making it 32-14.

Harley Merritt, Ronnie Giles, Leon Reed, Terry Lee, Jerry Davis, and others all played top games on defense and on offense on the line. Richard Newman went in for the last two minutes to quarterback the Snyder team and carried the squad for a good long drive before time ran out.

The B team will end its season next Saturday night when it visits Big Spring's B.

Indiana Loses To Ohio State

COLUMBUA, Ohio, Nov. 10 (AP)—Ohio State's relentless infantry attack ground out 465 yards against defensively inadequate Indiana today as the Bucks defeated the Hoosiers, 35-14, for their 17th straight Big Ten conquest.

The one-sided victory left only Iowa and Michigan blocking the Buckeyes' path to an unprecedented third straight eastern Conference crown. Ohio's big guns were fullback Galen Cisco and halfbacks Jimmy Roseboro and Don Clark, who among them rushed for 429 yards. Cisco led the way with 160 in 17 tries. Roseboro had 157 in 23 attempts. Clark had 112 in 18.

The Bucks, in defeating Indiana for the fifth straight time and ending a three-game Hoosier winning streak, completed only one pass in three attempts. The 5-yard aerial, however, was good for the opening touchdown, climaxing a 72-yard, 16-play drive.

The Bucks matched the last-half Indiana scores with drives of 72 yards in 11 plays and 69 in 10, with quarterback Frank Ellwood scoring the markers on a 1-foot plunge and a 4-yard run.

Aggies Get Nod For SW Loop Title

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M took over the undisputed lead in the Southwest Conference football race Saturday with a strapping 33-7 victory over Southern Methodist and now the Aggies are overwhelming favorites to push on through to their first championship since 1941.

A&M is the last unbeaten team in the league both in season and conference play, with only a 14-14 tie with University of Houston to mar its record.

Arkansas tumbled Rice 27-12 to kick the Owls out of the race and as the teams turn into the final three weeks only Southern Methodist and Texas Christian retain a chance at the title. That is mighty slim.

A&M plays Rice at College Station next Saturday and by winning that one could clinch at least a tie for the title. The Aggies close the season Thanksgiving Day against Texas at Austin.

Baylor beat Texas 10-7 Saturday in a so-what conference game. Both teams were already out of the race.

The shocker was a 21-7 defeat of Texas Christian by Texas Tech, a team expected to lose to the veteran Christians by three touchdowns. Tech, a member of the conference but not eligible to compete for the championship, had won only one game and tied one and took a 40-7 thumping from Texas A&M before turning on Texas Christian.

In other games next Saturday Texas Christian plays Texas at Fort Worth and Southern Methodist and Arkansas clash at Little Rock. Baylor plays an intersectional game, meeting Nebraska.

The Conference Standings:

Team—	W	L	T	Pct.	Pts.	OP
Texas A & M	4	0	0	1.000	86	26
Southern Meth.	2	1	0	.667	41	65
Texas Christian	2	1	0	.667	54	19
Arkansas	2	3	0	.400	72	108

North Texas Takes McMurry Tribe 23-7

DENTON, Tex., Nov. 10 (AP)—North Texas State mixed passing and running tonight to topple McMurry College 23-7 in a non-conference game.

Eagle quarterback Ray Toole was in on all the North Texas scoring, psasing for two touchdowns, running for another, and holding the ball on a field goal.

The North Texans moved to a 14-0 halftime lead on a 10-yard scoring pass by Toole to John Darby and a four yard toss by Toole to Dennis Shaw.

Bengals Open Attack Early

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

The Tiger footballers, scoring the first two times they had their hands on the ball, romped to a smashing 46-0 victory over the Lake View Chiefs before a shivering crowd of 3,000 fans at Tiger Stadium Friday night.

The win was the second against no defeats in 3-AAA play for the Tigers and pulled the Bengals even with the Lamesa Tornadoes who also have won two and lost none in loop play.

For the season the Tigers are also unbeaten with eight straight wins under their belts.

There was no question from the outset as to who was the master in Friday night's game. Lake View received the opening kickoff and ran three plays and punted with Bobby Pollard running the punt back 65 yards for a touchdown and the Tigers were off to the races.

Lake View received again and ran two plays before Rex Wilson fumbled and Milton Ham recovered for the Tigers on the Chief 30. Quarterback Powell Berry then faded and hit Ham in the end zone on the first Tiger scrimmage play of the game for another six points. ... was the first of two TD passes Berry threw.

Joe Reaves, whose kick went wide after the first Tiger tally, split the uprights to make it 13-0 for the Tigers after only 5:27 minutes of playing time had elasped.

The Tigers also counted the next time they got the ball. Wilson received Jimmy Allen's kickoff on his own 10 and ran it back to the 22 before he was hit hard and fumbled with James Vincent recovering for the Tigers.

It took the Tigers three plays to score. After Pollard picked up 7, the Tigers drew a 15-yard holding penalty back to the 29. Bill Fowler then got three to the 26 from where Berry tossed his second TD pass of the evening, this time to end Robert Dabbs who caught the ball near the goal line and stepped over easily.

Reeves booted the extra point to give the Tigers a commanding 20-0 lead with 5 minutes still left in the first period.

From then on it was just a matter of how much.

Lake View made only one serious scoring gesture. The Chiefs took over on their own 32 after the third Tiger TD and drove quickly to the Tiger 15. But the Bengal forward wall braced here and finally shoved the Chiefs back to the 28 before taking the ball over on downs. Ham, who played a good defensive game for the Bengals, smeared quarterback Clifford Bly on a fourth down pass attempt for an 11-yard loss.

Lake View never got inside the Tiger 20 after that.

Tiger coach John Conley began clearing his bench in the second quarter and he kept up a stream of subs going in and out of the game the remaining distance.

The Tigers scored again in the opening minutes of the second quarter after recovering a Lake View fumbled on the Chief 17. The Bengals used only three plays to get the ball across. Mickey McGrew, sophomore fullback, picked up 14 of the 17 yards to TD land, including the final five for the touchdown.

The Bengals drove 69 yards for their fifth touchdown of the night with the tally coming with 3:19 minutes left in the first half.

The Tigers used 10 plays to cover the 69 paces, with Bobby Joines diving over left tackle for the final yard. Reaves kicked to send the Tigers ahead, 33-0, at halftime.

The Tigers took the second half kickoff and drove 78 yards to a touchdown without losing possession of the ball.

Reserve quarterback Ronnie Smith featured this extended drive. Smith picked up 21 yards in the drive and completed two passes that covered 40 yards.

Smith's second pass completion on the drive was a perfect toss to Pollard in the end zone for 12 yards and a touchdown. The first TD drive in the second half consumed 14 plays.

The Tigers marched 56 yards for their final touchdown late in the third. Berry climaxed the drive with a 24-yard run on a keeper play.

Ham kicked the point to conclude the scoring for the night.

The nearest scoring threat by the Tigers in the fourth came on a 48-yard march to the Lake View 5. But the Bengals lost possession here on a fumble to kill the threat.

On the next to last play of the game, the Tigers, operating from the Lake View 18, had a pass intercepted on the one-yard line and that's where the game ended after the Chiefs ran a play for no gain.

Guard Gary Hill led the Tiger defense with most tackles with nine while tackle Larry Mullins had six and Ham 5.

The Tigers dominated the offensive statistics, racking up 21 first downs to 9 and 297 yards rushing to 116. In passing, the Tigers completed 6 of 9 for 131 yards to 20 to 10 for 22 yards for the Chiefs.

Fullback Bill Fowler, for the second straight game led the Tigers in rushing with 84 yards in 9 trips. Tommy Prichard followed with 56 in six carries.

Fullback Rex Wilson was the leading ground gainer for the Chiefs with 73 yards in 18 carries, the big fellow gaining well over one-half of Lake View's yardage.

Halfback Don Butts of the Chiefs missed the game with an injury that has sidelined him for the remainder of the season.

HAM TALLIES—The Snyder Tigers' Milton Ham, No. 85, 175-pound senior right end never slacked his long stride to catch the ball in the play pictured above and raced across the Lake View goal line untouched. Snyder won 46-0. The Lake View pass defender above, No. 44, is Lawrence Mixson, a back. The play above was the first of two touchdown passes thrown by quarterback Powell Berry Friday night, and it was the first play Snyder ran from scrimmage, although they had already run a Lake View punt back for a touchdown. Joe Reaves converted to make the score 13-0 with only 5:27 minutes of the game having been played. (Lee Watson photograph)

Mich. State Squeeks By Purdue 12-9

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 10 (AP)—Michigan State hung on to an edge of two first-half touchdowns and fought off persistent, hard-hatting, but hard-luck Purdue today and won a narrow Big Ten football decision 12-9.

Purdue, operating without quarterback Lenny Dawson, the top conference passer, was within a foot of tying or winning the game in the third quarter.

State also just missed two touchdowns — both in the first half — one by a fumble on the Purdue 2 and the other by a valiant four - down Boilermaker stand one foot from the goal.

Dawson, bothered by his aching shoulder, didn't even dress for the game.

Both MSU touchdowns came after short drives. One was on a 27-yard pass by Jim Ninowski to Harold Dukes in the end zone. On the other, Don Arend carried over from the 8. He fumbled but Tony Koloziej jumped on the ball for the score.

Quarterback Ted Krzeczowski, in for Dawson, hit Mel Dillard in the end zone from 9 yards out for the Purdue touchdown made with 45 seconds left in the first half.

The game was typical of the way that Purdue, now with a 2-3-2 over-all record, has looked good losing in the Big Ten.

The Boilermakers lost by one touchdown to Minnesota, by one point to Iowa and tied Wisconsin and Illinois — the last the only team to beat State this season.

Purdue staged a good 55-yard drive when threatening in the third period. The Boilermakers went down to the 1 but were penalized back to the 6.

Purdue was threatening again in the fourth quarter when the Boilermakers picked up their safety. Michigan State's Lance Martin grabbed an end zone pass out of Tom Fletcher's grasp and Fletcher downed him for the two points.

With four seconds to go, Purdue tried a field goal from its 49 but it fell short.

Dartmouth Shuts Out Columbia 14-0

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 10 (AP)—Little Lou Rovero, a speedy senior sidelined with an injury most of the season, sped 68 yards for one touchdown and set up another with some brilliant running today to lead Dartmouth to a 14-0 victory over Columbia in an Ivy League football clash.

Red Raiders Stop Frogs 21-7

By ROBERT E. FORD

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 10 (AP)—A third string Texas Tech fullback, Charlie Dixon, dashed off the bench today to start a rout of Texas Christian University in a shocking upset of the defending Southwest Conference champions. The final score was 21-7.

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 10 (AP)—Statistics of the Texas Christian-Texas Tech football game today:

	TCU	Tech
First downs	18	14
Rushing yardage	258	297
Passing yardage	35	49
Passes	3-17	3-7
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	6-35.2	33
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	74	50

Tech did almost everything right in the first half, then arose with new fury in the final quarter to throw Texas Christian for repeated losses, or hold the Horned Frogs to no gain. A desperate TCU passing attack in the fourth period got nowhere.

Dixon scored on the third play from scrimmage — a lightning strike when the clock had ticked off only 33 seconds. He subbed for Gene Bentley who was injured on the first scrimmage play.

From then on, it was all Red Raider. Hugh Fewin made two more tallies, one on a two-yard plunge and another on a lateral from Don Williams on the Texas Christian 15, a play that covered 21 yards. The second score came in the second period and the third tally in the fourth. Williams converted after each touchdown.

Texas Christian whipped up a storm at the start of the second half; going 60 yards in 10 plays to score with all-America Jim Swink making it from 9 yards out. Harold Pollard converted.

It was a glittering triumph for the member-elect of the Southwest Conference which had suffered one of the worst seasons in its history until today.

The Raiders up to this bright Texas Tech victory had lost 4, won one and lost one. Texas Christian, 17th this week in the Associated Press footbal rankings, had won four and lost two.

The upset came before 23,000 fans, many of them partisan Texas Christian followers—this was a game trip for the TCU student body. It was the biggest home crowd of the season for Tech, and the Raider partisans got their moneys worth.

It was no fluke win. From the opening, shattering score, through the final tally, it was mostly Red Raider, except for the brief Horned Frog struggle as the second half opened.

In final desperation, Charlie Curtis tossed passes all over the field in the last quarter, but they got the Frogs nowhere.

It was that first touchdown by the Raiders that electrified the crowd.

Duke Frisbie took the TCU kickoff on his 12 and flitted to his own 36. Gene Bentley, No. 1 fullback, picked up 4 to the Tech 41 and was injured.

Dixon, a strong offensive man, was picked as Bentley's substitute over Doug Duncan, more noted on defense.

Dixon took a handoff, slashed over right guard, cut to his left to pick up blockers and was gone for the touchdown.

Texas Christian	0	0	7	0—7
Texas Tech	7	7	0	7—2

TCU scoring—touchdown: Swink (4, run). Conversion: Pollard.

Tech scoring—touchdowns: Dixon (60, run), Fewin (2, run), (21, lateral from Don Williams).

Conversions: Don Williams (3).

Majors Leads Vols Over Wrecks 6-0

By MERCER BAILEY

ATLANTA, Nov. 10 (AP) — Tallback Johnny Majors, operating behind a swift, savage line, hit end Buddy Cruze with two big passes today and Tennessee whipped Georgia Tech 6-0 in their football battle of the unbeatens.

Tennessee went into the game a touchdown underdog and ranked third nationally, one notch behind Tech. The victory made the Vols the top choice for a Cotton or Sugar Bowl bid and gave them a good chance of replacing Oklahoma as the nation's No. 1 football team.

Fullback Tommy Bronson actually got the Vols' score midway of the third period on 1-yard plunge, but it was Majors' passes to Cruze — a 19-yarder to Tech's 46 and a 45-yarder to the 1 — that made it possible.

But line play by both teams really was the big show. It's been a long time since such fierce forewall play and thundering tackling has been seen on Grant Field and not since a scoreless tie against Florida in the rain in 1953 had a Tech team been held scoreless.

Center Bucba Howe, tackles Charles Rader and John Gordy, guard Bruce Burnham and end Roger Urbano were defensive stalwarts for Tennessee. Center Don Stephenson, tackle Carl Vereen, and guard Leon Askew were Tech standouts.

An overflow crowd of 40,000 plus saw Tech's desperation passing tack in the final minutes halted at the Tennessee 9 when Bronson intercepted a long throw by Toppy Vann.

Tech's best scoring chance came in the second quarter when the Engineers moved to the Vols' 17 where tackle Jim Smelcher slammed into Tech fullback Ken Owen, knocked him loose from the ball and then recovered for Tennessee.

Army Scoots Past W & M By 34-6

WEST POINT, N. Y. Nov. 10 (AP)—Bob Kyasky, a whirling fullback who started the season as quarterback, scored two touchdowns today in Army's 34-6 victory over a stubborn William and Mary team that harried the Cadets with its passing attack.

Winless in their last 11 games since late in the 1955 season, the visitors from Virginia did themselves proud in the first half until Army's pass defense finally started to close in with a final total of five interceptions.

Kyasky slashed over twice in 7-yard bursts, riding over left guard in the third period and spinning through the middle in the fourth as Army took charge of the underdogs in the second half of its final game.

Gil Roesler put Army out front on a cutback from the 7 early in the first period but William and Mary, fired up for a superior effort, came right back to tie at 6-6 at 1:22 of the second period on a 10-yard pass from Lenny Rubalto Bob Hardage.

THE TIGER FOOTBALL MOTHERS have called a meeting for Monday night at the study hall at the high school.

All mothers of the Tiger, B team and freshman football players are urged to attend the meeting.

The Football Mothers have annually sponsored a banquet for the high school gridsters and that perhaps will be the main topic that will be discussed at Monday's meeting.

This is a chance for the mothers to show their interest in the football players. The dads, of course, have been showing their interest in the football program by attending the Quarterback Club meetings this fall.

Monday's meeting of the Football Mothers club has been called for 7:30.

Tigers Must Win Remaining Games

Regardless of how Lamesa fares with Sweetwater next Friday night, the Tigers will have to win their remaining games to claim a clear-cut title.

Say Sweetwater beats Lamesa, the Tigers would still have to down the Lobos a week from next Friday for a full claim of the title, providing, of course, the Tigers measure Colorado City, too, this week.

In the event Sweetwater beats Lamesa and the Tigers down Colorado City and then lost to Lamesa, the race would end in a three-way tie between the Tigers, Sweetwater and Lamesa. In that case a flip of the coin would determine the title winner.

If both the Tigers and Lamesa go unbeaten until they meet each other, the championship would be decided right then and there when the Tiger and Tornadoes battle on the night of Nov. 23 at Lamesa.

Graham May Be Tiger Foe

It looks like Graham will be the opening foe for the District 3-AAA winner. Graham got by a big hurdle Friday night with a 20-7 victory over the Breckenridge Buckies.

Graham is the only unbeaten team in 4-AAA with only Brownwood and Minerals remaining to be played. Brownwood appears to have the best chance of stopping Graham. If the Lions succeed in doing this, then the 4-AAA race could very well end in a three-way tie between Breckenridge, Brownwood and Graham.

In the other Triple-A district next to us, 1-AAA, the race has also been muddled.

Levelland's 7-0 victory over Phillips Friday knocked the latter out of the running. Now it looks like Littlefield may be the winner of that district but Littlefield must yet play Dumas and Levelland.

If Littlefield loses to Dumas, then Dumas would represent the district because the worse Dumas could do then would be to tie Levelland for the title and the Demons defeated Levelland when they met.

The only way Levelland can win it is for Littlefield to beat Dumas and then the Lobos down Littlefield. Littlefield has only a tie with Phillips to mar an otherwise perfect record at the moment.

So, the football races around us are getting pretty hot.

Right now, the Tigers aren't worried about anything but the Colorado City Wolves.

The Wolves invade Tiger land Friday night.

Eli Pins Penn 40-7

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10 (AP)—Yale, clicking effectively for the first time this season, pulverized Penn 40-7 today as they met for the first time since 1943.

The Elis tallied at least once in every period, including a spectacular 73-yard run by sub Ralph Wisz for the final touchdown. The victory, watched by 25,000 in the bowl in freezing weather, enabled Yale to keep pace with Princeton in the battle for the first formal Ivy League title. Each has won five games and lost none. These ancient rivals meet here next week.

LAKE VIEW CHIEFS GAIN—Rex Wilson, right halfback for the Lake View Chiefs made some yardage, not enough for a first down, on the above play, but the onslaught of the Tigers' Bud Morgan, No. 32, and Milton Ham, No. 85, proved his undoing by driving him out of bounds. By winning the game 46 to 0, the Tigers maintained a perfect district record with two wins, and took their eighth straight victory this season. Only two teams have so far crossed the Tigers' goal line. (Lee Watson photograph)

Aggies Crush Mustangs 33-7

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Nov. 10 (AP) — Texas A&M's scythe-like ground attack featuring mighty John Crow and a defense that rattled Southern Methodist to its cleats swept to a crushing 33-7 victory and first place in the Southwest Conference football race today.

The roughouse Aggies were rolling on undefeated toward the Cotton Bowl and their first championship in 15 years. Two games away are the title they have wanted for so frustratingly long.

It was the worst defeat A&M had administered to the Methodists since 1944 when the Aggies won 39-6.

Crow smashed to two touchdowns on runs of 15 and 13 yards, Little Don Watson raced 23 yards for another, substitute fullback George Gillard skipped 44 yards for a fourth and reserve end Don Smith made the fifth with an 8-yard pass reception.

A crowd of 62,500 watched the talented Aggies do everything right, including the interception of three of SMU quarterback Charley Arnold's passes, two of which set up Aggie touchdowns. An SMU fumble gave the Aggies the opportunity to make another.

The Methodists scored in the last two minutes against Aggie reserves with Arnold's passing carrying them on a 71-yard drive. Charley Jackson got the touchdown with a 6-yard end run.

Southern Methodist never was in the game from the opening whistle to the end. The big, tough Aggie regulars took the kickoff and raced 70 yards for a touchdown and had SMU on the run virtually all the remaining time.

Aggie reserves down to the third team played most of the last half and produced the final touchdown. A&M led 26-0 at the half.

Texas A&M, ranked fifth in the nation, showed it was just that. No team ever dominated another in an important Southwest Conference game more than the Aggies did in this one. They ground through the futile SMU line for a massive 277 yards and they passed for 59 yards, completing four out of four. SMU managed only 83 on the ground but 126 in the air, much of which came on the touchdown drive.

Roddy Osborne, the brilliant Aggie quarterback; Loyd Taylor, a fleet halfback; and the powerful Crow led the vicious A&M ground attack. Osborne made 71 yards, Taylor 66 and Crow 47, the latter playing only half the game, however.

The Aggies took the opening kickoff and swept 70 yards to a touchdown despite 20 yards in penalties. An 11-yard run by Crow got them moving but the key play was a fourth down gamble in which Osborne sped 19 yards on a faked punt to set the ball in SMU territory. A 21-yard run by Taylor figured strongest in the drive. It set the ball on the SMU 15 and from here Crow whirled around right end for the score. Taylor missed the conversion.

Bobby Conrad intercepted a pass to set up another Aggie touchdown just before the first period ended. Conrad took it on the Aggie 47 and scattered to the SMU 35. Richard Gay and Conrad hammered to the SMU 23 and Watson circled left end for the score. Taylor again missed the extra point.

The Aggies were back threatening again, as the second period opened, on a 56-yard punt return by Crow that put the ball on the SMU 29. But SMU braced and through the aid of Aggie penalties took over on its 45. The Methodists rambled down to the Aggie 13 on the passing of Larry Click, subbing for Arnold, but passes failed here and the Aggies took over.

An SMU fumble set up a third Aggie touchdown just before the half ended. Click dropped the ball and guard Jim Stanley recovered on the Southern Methodist 34. Jack Pardee gouged out nine yards in two runs and Osborne made it first down on the 18. Osborne got five in two tries and Crow circled right end to the touchdown. Taylor kicked the extra point.

The 44-yard dash by Gillar brought the Aggies another touchdown midway of the third period. Watson had taken a punt back into SMU territory when, on the first play, Gillar cut over left guard and slanted to the sidelines to fall across for a touchdown at the corner flag. Bobby Conrad

SMU managed to get out of its territory late in the third period, driving to the Aggie 40 but was halted by a tightened Aggie defense. The Aggies romped to the SMU 11 and seemed on the way to another touchdown but Jim Wright, reserve quarterback, fumbled and Ray Masters recovered for SMU.

Gene Stallings intercepted an Arnold pass on the Aggie 40 to set up the final A&M touchdown. Wright's passing swept the Aggies to the SMU eight and here Wright pitched to Smith in the end zone for the score.

Then, in the fading minutes, SMU came to life for its touchdown surge.

Masters was the leading groundgainer for SMU with 30 yards while Jackson had 21. Arnold completed 10 of 24 passes for 97

Ira Finishes Season With 51-28 Win

The Ira Bulldogs rounded out their 1956 football season Friday night with a 51-28 win over Divide in a district contest.

This was the seventh win in eight games for the Bulldogs, who lost only to Hobbs, winner of their six-man district.

The 7-1 record was reportedly the best record an Ira football team ever had, at least as far as the coach, R. C. Taylor, can learn. There were 18 boys on the Ira grid squad this season.

Tom Echols led scorers in the Friday night game for Ira with three touchdowns and four kicked conversions. His touchdowns were on runs of 70, 65, and 30 yards.

Other Ira scorers were Jerry Ford with a touchdown on a three-yard run and one extra point Dwayne Rosser with a touchdown on a pass from Echols, with the play covering 60 yards and Billy Don Farmer, two touchdowns on runs of 50 and 30 yards.

Divide scorers were Don Moore with three touchdowns and Donald Bird with a TD and two conversion kicks.

Ira was leading at halftime 27-6. The Bulldogs finished second in the district.

Syracuse Surprises Holy Cross, 41-20

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Nov. 10 (AP)—Syracuse pulled a surprise passing attack out of a hat today and stirred in a huge dose of defensive alertness to conjure up a 41-20 victory over Holy Cross.

Holy Cross reserve quarterback Tom Greene passed for three touchdowns, one on a spectacular leaping end zone catch by end Dick Arcand.

Hobbs, Norton To Meet In Playoffs

The Hobbs Panthers will meet Norton in the bi-district grid game next Saturday night after winning the title Friday night in six-man district 9-B.

John Comte, Hobbs coach, met with Bill Cope, coach from Norton, at Sweetwater yesterday morning to arrange the playoff.

The game will be at 8 p.m. Saturday at Ballinger.

Norton won the crown in District 10-B Friday night, downing Paint Rock in the final game 52-13. Hobbs finished its regular season and copped the championship in its district by defeating Blackwell 63-19 Friday night.

The winner of the Hobbs-Norton game will meet the winner of the game between champs of Districts 11 and 12 in the regional game. Regional is the limit of playoffs in six-man football.

Hobbs completed the season with a 9-1 season record and was undefeated in district play.

his reserves for a considerable amount of time during the second half. The Panthers were leading Blackwell 35-6 at halftime.

Bernon Etheredge, a leading scorer for the Panthers this season, scored two touchdowns in the first quarter of the Friday game, one on a 20-yard run and the other on a pass from Doyle Hays, with the play covering 30 yards. Mack Etheredge scored on extra point on a pass, and he also scored one TD that period on a five-yard run.

In the second period, Mack Etheredge scored on a 30-yard pass into the end zone from Hays, and George Gantt took another pass from Hays for a TD. Hays kicked two conversions.

During the third period, Joseph Martinez dashed for 30 yards and a touchdown, followed by another score by Gantt on a 40-yard pass in the end zone from Hays. Hayes kicked conversions after those touchdowns.

Jerry Trice gathered in a pass from Mike Soto which had traveled 15 yards in the air, and he took it another 20 yards to score. Hays intercepted a pass and carried it bag 10 yards for the final touchdown of the game.

Berry's Field Goal Gives Bears 10-7 Win Over Texas

By DAVE CHEAVENS

WACO, Nov. 10 (AP)—Baylor reserve halfback Donnell Berry's 19 yard field goal from a tough angle gave the Bears a 10-7 victory over the Texas Longhorns in a Southwest Conference game here today.

Berry, out of play until today because of severe burns suffered in a pre-season fire, came in for the first time this season to give the Bears the necessary margin. Last year Berry's failure to kick an extra point gave Texas a 21-20 victory over Baylor.

Baylor opened and closed the scoring in a game with little sparkle outside of a 55-yard touchdown run by Baylor's feet halfback, Delbert Shofner. Shofner's score came early in the second period. He led the runners with a total of 123 yards on six carries.

Texas came back late in the second period with a series of deceptive draw plays that baffled the usually-good Baylor defense for its only score. The touchdown after the 63 yard drive came on a short pass from quarterback Joe Clements to halfback Clair Branch. Berry was burned in a gasoline fire at a National Guard armory at his home town of Temple in September and returned to practice only two weeks ago.

Berry, a 21-year-old senior, was called in for just one play and it was all that Baylor needed to edge Texas. It was Texas' fourth conference game loss and it gave Baylor a two won, two lost record. Both teams are out of the title race.

Baylor started from its own 25 late in the first quarter on the drive that brought the game's first touchdown on the first play of the second period. Shofner accounted for 69 yard including his 55 yard run for the score. He took a short pitchout from Jones, juggled it and ran for the touchdown, chased but not hard-pressed by Clements and Bob Bryant. Junior Beall's conversion was good and Baylor led 7-0.

The drive for Texas' first score started on the Longhorn 37. Using a draw play liberally, Clements also got off a pretty running pass to Walter Fondren that put the ball on Baylor's 22. Fullback Jimmy Welch did some hard line-punching for Texas on the drive.

The touchdown pass from Clements to Branch was caught in the corner of the end zone, but the gain was statistically from the one yard line. Fondren's place kick was squarely between the goal posts to put the game into a half time tie.

Porks Pass To Win Over Rice, 27-12

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 10 (AP) — Quarterback Don Christian, coming up with the kind of clutch passing Arkansas has needed all season, today led the Razorbacks to a 27-12 Southwest Conference football victory over the youthful Rice Owls.

Christian, a junior, completed a crucial pass in each of Arkansas' first two touchdown drives and scored one of the touchdowns himself on a 12-yard keeper through the middle of the line.

Fullback Gerald Nesbitt, a low-slung powerhouse who went into the game at the top of the Southwest Conference individual rushing list, got two of the Arkansas touchdowns on short punches through the line.

Arkansas tacked on its last touchdown in the fourth quarter. Little Rogers Overbey started the drive by intercepting a Frank Ryan pass on the Arkansas 44 and returning it 24 yards to the Rice 32. Jerry Ferguson went over the goal line from four yards out.

Rice, frustrated once by an interception on the Arkansas 17 and once by a fumble on the Arkansas 27, stuck to the ground for its first six-pointer immediately after Arkansas scored its first touchdown. Dan Shuford, a quick halfback, set up the score with a 31-yard run to the Arkansas four. Howard Hoelscher got the touchdown from the one two plays later.

Ryan sneaked one yard for the second Rice touchdown, capping a 59-yard drive late in the fourth quarter.

The loss was the third and worst of the season for the Owls and was their second loss in the conference.

Arkansas now has a 5-3 over-all record with two victories and three losses in the conference.

Christian's first crucial pass was a running throw to Ronnie Underwood that picked up 16 yards to the 50, made up for a loss on a previous play and kept alive a 65-yard drive to the end zone. Then, turning back to their ground game, the Razorbacks nicked away for short gains that carried to the Rice 12. Needing two yards for a first down, Christian broke through the left side and went all the way. Don Ritschel converted.

Rice took the kickoff and marched 61 yards to the goal. Shuford, on a second and eight situation, zipped around right end. He appeared to have a clear field down the sidelines with teammates building a wall for him. But Ferguson got through the interference to corner him on the four. Then Hoelsher hit the line twice for the score. Jerry Hall's wobbly kick failed to cross the bar and Arkansas held its lead.

Christian lofted a 21-yard pass to halfback Donnie Stone at the 15 and Stone, who started for the first time today, ran to the eight. Three plays later, Nesbitt dived over the line for the touchdown that gave Arkansas breathing room early in the fourth period.

Gail Downs Loop, Stays In Running

The Gail Coyotes have a good chance to take the title in their six-man district when they go to Loop for their final regular season grid game Friday.

The Coyotes Friday night ran over Klondike, one of the district powers, 35-12 to remain in the running for the district.

Only one team remains undefeated in that district. That is Loop, Gail's opponent for Friday. Loop will be a rough one for the Coyotes, since that team downed Dawson 20-16. Dawson was the one team in the district which had defeated Gail.

Klondike kept the Coyotes to a close game during the first half, with Gail having a 13-12 edge at halftime. At the end of the third quarter, however, Gail had gained another touchdown, for a 20-12 lead, and the team scored twice more in the final period.

The first half was one of mistakes for both teams, according to Gail coach Eddie James, who said Gail fumbled three times inside Klondike's fine-yard line during that half.

Should Gail down Loop in the Friday night game, that would throw the district into a three-way tie, with Gail, Loop, and Dawson being the leaders. If that were the case, no team would have downed both others, so the district committee would have to decide which team would represent the district in the playoffs by a coin flip or some similar means.

Eldon Nelson of Glenrose, Okla., led the Maryland jockeys last spring with 51 winners in 73 days of racing at Pimlico, Bowie and Laurel.

Northwestern Whips Wisconsin, 17 To 7

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 10 (AP)—Northwestern capitalized on the breaks provided by Wisconsin errors today to score its first Big Ten football victory of the season, 17-7.

It was the first win for Northwestern over the Badgers since 1948.

Only note of cheer for Wisconsin's record homecoming crowd of 56,645 was a touchdown scored in the closing minutes.

Mid East, Voting Affects Business

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Business news was colored this week by a presidential election here at home and explosive developments on the international front. Both had far-reaching implications.

President Eisenhower's thumping victory at the polls came as no surprise. Similarly, the election of Democratic majorities in the Senate and House was not entirely unexpected.

Congress was expected to push hard for individual income tax reductions, probably by increasing the present $600 exemption for dependents. In granting tax relief, Capitol Hill would be inclined to favor individuals over corporations.

Many felt there was a better than even chance that Congress would broaden the minimum wage law to include retail store employees, now exempt. And it was considered a safe bet that the President would sign any such legislation.

Much greater uncertainties were raised this week by developments in the Middle East. Europe faced the drab prospect of a gasoline famine as the Arab nations halted deliveries of crude oil. Texas and Venezuela had ample reserves to fill the gap, but the oil would first have to be transported to Europe, and tankers were in critically short supply.

For Texan and Venezuelan producers, the European dilemma presented a golden opportunity to boost sales of surplus oil at high Western Hemisphere prices. But, with Europe lacking sufficient dollars, there was every indication that Mr. and Mrs. American Taxpayer might ultimately foot the bill.

On the home front, inflation manifested itself in a second request by Eastern and Western railroads for a major freight rate increase. A month or so ago the carriers asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve a 15 per cent increase to offset higher operating costs. This week they asked for an additional boost of 7 per cent to compensate for a new round of wage increases. If approved, the increases would add a whopping 22 per cent to shippers' freight costs.

The economy's inflationary trend was etched against a background of declining activity in several key fields. Retail trade fell below 1955 levels, with unseasonably warm weather held responsible in some cities; Christmas Club savings were down from a year ago. Merchants who had stocked up heavily for an expected record Christmas season began to wonder if they'd equal last year's Christmas sales.

Majority opinion on this score was optimistic, however. B. Earl Puckett, chairman of the big Allied Stores Corp. department store chain, forecast an increase of 3 to 5 per cent in this year's Christmas business. And a banner Yule season was predicted in a poll of merchants by the American Newspaper Publishers Assn.

Brightest spot in the business picture this week was Detroit. Auto assembly lines were moving faster than at any time since mid-April; Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants across the nation went on overtime.

Auto dealers, after crying the blues for months, had cause for celebration. For the first time in over a year they had more customers than cars. Customers had to wait for delivery of wanted models dealers' profits per car were the highest since 1955.

Meanwhile manufacturers continued to boost their prices. The factory delivered price of a Mercury Monterey two-door sedan was lifted $100 to $2,315 the factory price of Mercury's four-door, nine-passenger hardtop station wagon jumped $358 to $3,340. These prices do not include delivery charges, the dealers' fee for preparing the car, or optional extra equipment.

Consumer demand for the rakish new 1957 models was a tonic to dealers who had found the 1956 models hard to sell. Retailers and manufacturers were confident that if the boom held through March 1, another record sales year might well be in prospect.

Briefly over the business scene: New construction spending declined seasonally in October to $4,126,000,000 from $4,250,000,000 in September but was still well above a year ago. October records were set for construction of factories, roads, office buildings, public schools and churches . . . the "average" U. S. factory worker earned $83.01 in October, a new high . . . the "average" U.S. factory worker earned $83.01 in October, a new high.

Season For Big Game To Open Friday

AUSTIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Game Commission said today deer hunters can expect prime conditions when the big game season opens Friday.

Turkey hunting prospects are almost nil, however.

H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary, said all field reports show that deer, able to withstand recent drought conditions, are generally "getting fat."

He said bountiful rains in the deer country have revived "badly needed green stuff to augment the diet of the animals which had regained pretty good conditions from a substantial acorn crop."

"There's going to be plenty of prime venison on the hoof," Dodgen said, "but our wild turkey population is still far below normal. Turkey simply cannot stand the weather extreme like deer."

He said some ranchers were banning turkey hunting on their leases until the population nears normal again.

Dodgen said about 9,000 permits for anterless deer hunting had been distributed, mainly in the Hill Country area of Medina, Mason, Gillespie and Llano counties. Other anterless deer permits, aimed at reducing overpopulation of deer in certain areas, have been issued for Bosque, Red River, and Culberson counties.

Dodgen said that a recent survey indicated about 750,000 deer are in the state. About 100,000 are expected to be killed this season.

A report from Menard County said that the Hill Country was well populated with deer in good shape. However there had been less interest from hunters than usual.

Man Has To Count Pennies For Fine

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Benny Bowen walked into municipal court carrying a 40-pound sack of pennies to pay a $58 traffic fine.

At the payment window was Judge Donald R. Wright, who had found Bowen, 21, guilty of speeding and drag racing.

"We're not going to count those pennies — you are," Judge Wright told Bowen.

Several hours later, Bowen paid up with the pennies neatly counted in envelopes.

Views Given By Thomason

LUBBOCK, Nov. 10 (AP)—"This is open season on the Supreme Court," Federal Judge Robert Thomason of El Paso told the judicial section of the State Bar last night.

"The nation's courts are being threatened by a tidal wave of hate and prejudice," Thomason asserted.

He said one senator recently called members of the Supreme Court "midgets", and another charged the court has been "indoctrinated and brainwashed by Communists."

"If they do not like the present personnel of the Supreme Court," he said, "they should accept their share of the responsibility of their being there."

Denver City Man Will Go On Trial

Baptist Laymen Here Elected As Trustee

CORPUS CHRISTI — Horace H. Eiland, Snyder Baptist layman, was elected here during the Baptist General Convention of Texas' annual meeting a trustee of the Wayland Baptist College at Plainview.

Eiland is a member of the First Baptist Church here. He will serve a three-year term on the Wayland board.

Wayland is one of 11 institutions of higher learning operated by the convention. The schools have spent more than $5,012,450 for new buildings and renovations during the past 12 months and now have assets totaling $42 million. This is an increase of $10 million during the past three years.

DREAMS SHATTERED

$25,000 Is Counterfeit

WEATHERFORD, Nov. 10 (AP)—Secret Service agents shattered the dreams today of a dairy farmer when they told him the $25,000 he had found were counterfeit bills similar to those discovered in a wrecked plane near Corpus Christi.

Leo Williams, Treasury Department Secret Service agent from Dallas, examined the soiled bills Oscar Womack, 27, had picked up yesterday in weeds along the bank of Willow creek which runs through his farm and said they were bogus.

"It's a sloppy job, too" he added.

Agent Forrest Sorrels said the bills were same kind as the $100 bills found on the body of Robert Keller Jr., 31, Fort Worth lawyer and promoter killed in a plane crash near Corpus Christi in August.

Williams said the bills had an artificial look because they were printed from an engraving of a photograph of a genuine $100 bill. He said they had been looking for bills of that type every since the August plane crash because they didn't believe the counterfeiters would stop after turning out just nine of the bills.

The Womack farm near this West Texas town was visited by a number of neighbors after Womack's mother, Mrs. Annie Womack, about 50, brought the bills wrapped in a yellow scarf to the first national bank yesterday.

Bank officials said there were scorched marks on some of the bills, indicating someone had attempted to burn them.

Womack said he picked up money on his farm until he "just got tired of picking it up."

Womack said he and his mother didn't mind their kinfolk looking for the money but that "people from all over started streaming to the creek."

"I had to run some of them off," he said.

His mother was still searching the creek for more bills when it was learned that the money was counterfeit.

Womack was disappointed but he took the news in stride.

"I thought I wouldn't have to work for a year," he said wistfully.

Recipe For Cooking Wild Fowl Given

AUSTIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Game Commission settled today what it called a "culinary crisis".

Executive Secretary Howard Dodgen said that in answer to many queries how to cook wild fowl and game he was giving his wife's favorite receipes for duck and venison.

"In our business," he said, "we get into about every field of activity. This may make the cycle complete but the hazard could be justified since so much good game is lost because of faulty cooking."

Here are Mrs. Dodgen's recipes.

"Venison—Lard and sprinkle with garlic salt, pepper and flour. For accurate judging of cooking time, insert meat thermometer into center of roast, being careful that it doesn't touch a bone. Roast in preheated 350-heated 350-degree oven until rare or medium-rare which gives the best flavor and most tender meat. Use readings on thermometer for beef or allow 20-25 minutes per pound. Baste frequently with melted bacon fat.

"Roast Duck—Omit a stuffing but place lemon wedges, onion slices, celery tops or parsley sprigs in duck cavity, then discard before serving. When roasting at 350 degrees, allow 15 minutes per pound for small ducks, 20 minutes per pound for larger ducks."

Art Exhibit Sponsored By Alpha Study Club Successful

The art exhibit of local artists, which was planned and sponsored by the Alpha Study Club in observance of National Art Week, proved highly sucessful.

The opening exhibit last Sunday afternoon was well attended by the public and by club groups that met during the week in the Martha Ann Woman's Club.

The show was of high quality with a generous response from the artists. Thirty-one artists exhibited 94 entries, beside the 15 high school students of Mrs. Curtis Wise who sent black and white sketches. Other media of art were oil, water color, tempera, pen, charcoal, lithograph and pastel. There were portraits, landscapes and still life in the collection. A number of the copies and originals were of local scenes portraying ranch scenes and activities and those of the oil field. Most were academic or realistic in style with a few of futuristic or evocative type. Most of the oils were with brush and only a few with palette knife. Copies were exhibited together in the first section, followed by the originals which numbered three times as great.

At least three of the entries had won awards in other exhibits. They included the entries of Mrs. Frank Butler, Adelle Josephson and Mrs. Anna Landrum. Mrs. Butler has studied art in Texas Tech and Stephen F. Austin College in Nacogdoches and was a member of the Art League of Alice, Texas, before moving to Snyder a few years ago. Her portrait of Mary Alice and the two lithographs were very popular in the exhibit. Adelle Josephson has just recently taken her art seriously and studied under Taubes in Ruidosa, New Mexico, and under Radrick Parkinson in Lubbock. Her still life in both modern and realistic styles, were well received. Mrs. Anna Landrum of Fluvanna, who was featured in an article in the Daily News in October when her painting won first place in Lubbock, has been painting only four years. She had entries in three different, distinct styles.

Mrs. Viola Carmichael of Fluvanna, has taught art for a number of years. She exhibited both originals and copies, as did her pupil, Betty Pylant. One original by Mrs. Edith Whatley McKanna, was painted in Japan, where she took her first art lessons a few years ago. Alma Nell Bell entered three oil portraits and brough n-tries from five of her students and her mother. Rosalie McGlaun, her mother, sister and daughter, all had entries ni the exhibit. Only one man made entries in the show and he was W. D. Everett, Jr., who brought two pictures. One was an original still life and the other was a copy of "Roads Through the Trees" by Carot. This copy drew a number of favorable comments from the viewers, as did the copy by Mrs. John Conley of Manet's "Still Life with rioche."

The work of the high school students in black and white medium was well received. Their entries were made with only a month of class instruction under Mrs. Wise. There is no doubt that there are a number of future artists in the group.

The following is a complete list of the artists who participated in the exhibit: Ann Miller, elle Clinton, Rose Armstrong, Alma Nell ell, Leatha Brice, Mrs. Anna Landrum, Mrs. Viola Ca nichael, Betty Pylant, Mrs. S. L. Terry, Mrs. J. E. LeMond, Mrs. Mabel Belsher, Mrs. rank Butler, Mrs. Helen Wadleigh, Mrs. Dwane R. Collins, Verba Logan, Mrs. Jack Gore, Mrs. John Conley, Mrs. R. Wilson Bright, Mr. W. D. Everett, L. Gray, Adelle Josephson, Mrs. Jr., Doris T. Allgood, Mrs. Edith Whatley McKanna, Jo Ann Hirst, Charlotte Etgen, B. Bethel, Mrs. Doris Morris, Mrs. W. R. Milton and Rosalie McGlaun.

The Fine Arts Committee of the Alpha Study Club composed of Mrs. Wayne Boren, Mrs. C. L. Yarbrough and Mrs. R. H. Melton, was in charge of the exhibit. Members of the club and the participating artists were in the house-party that received during the opening of the exhibit on last Sunday afternoon. This was the only time the exhibit was supervised and that it was open to the public. A register was placed at the entrance and at the end of the week, there were 355 who had signed. There were probably other who viewed the exhibit and failed to sign the register. There were out of town visitors from Big Lake, Abilene, Dallas, Sweetwater, San Angelo, Ft. Worth, Boyce and Amarillo. The well known portrait painter, Rene Mazza of Dallas and Midland, who is currently teaching art in Snyder, came to the exhibit.

An eggplant that weighs about a pound, and is often called medium-sized, is good for stuffing when four persons are to be served.

TURKEY TWISTS

2-3 cup milk
½ cup sugar
1¼ teaspoons salt
6 tablespoons shortening
2-3 cup warm, not hot, water (lukewarm for compressed yeast)
3 tablespoons sugar
3 packages or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
3 eggs, beaten
6 cups sifted enriched flour

Scald milk and stir in ½ cup sugar, salt and shortening. Set aside to cool to lukewarm. Measure water and 3 tbs. sugar into large mixing bowl (warm, not hot, water for active dry yeast; lukewarm water for compressed yeast). Sprinkle or crumble in yeast. Stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture and eggs. Add and stir in half the flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour, or enough to make a dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 8 to 10 minutes, or until surface is smooth and satiny. Put dough into greased bowl and brush top with melted shortening. Cover with cloth; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 55 minutes. Punch down dough, pull sides into center, turn out on board. The turkey twist is a reverse S-Shaped roll with curly ends. Start with a rope 14 inches long and 1-3 inch thick made by rolling a piece of dough with palms on board. To shape make a clockwise circle, letting pointed end of dough stick out at the top to form beak. Curve dough up then down to shape neck and continue down to begin body. Now make counter clockwise circle 4 times as big as first, winding dough in spiral toward center. Add a small wedge-shaped piece of dough along upper right of circle to form tail feathers. Brush tops with melted fat. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Bake at 425 degrees F. (hot oven) 12 to 15 minutes or until brown.

Miss Jane DeWald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Logan, Rt. 2, Snyder, has entered the seventh annual South Plains Maid of Cotton Contest which will be held in Lubbock, Nov. 19-20.

The young lady is a senior at Texas Technological College, the second largest state college in Texas, in the heart of the world's largest cotton-producing area. The contest will focus attention on the 1,500,000 bale cotton crop being harvested this year on the South Plains. Lubbock County has consistently led the state in cotton production, expecting a crop of more than 215,000 bales this year.

The South Plains Maid of Cotton Contest offers the winner a $1,000 wardrobe, and an opportunity to compete as a finalist for the National Maid of Cotton title in Memphis, Tenn. Her wardrobe and trip to Memphis will be provided by the South Plains Maid of Cotton Committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Prior to the contest, she will receive modeling, dress and make-up counseling, and will participate in a Maid of Cotton Ball at the Caprock Hotel, and the Maid of Cotton Finals in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

The winner will be the area's official cotton ambassador for the coming year, and as such, she will carry the greetings of the cotton industry throughout the South Plains area.

Last year's South Plains Maid, Miss Revis Jordan, was selected first alternate to the National Maid, the highest ranking ever achieved by a South Plains Maid.

DATE DATA

By BEVERLY BRANDOW

Blind date, anyone? Or are you leery of blind dating? True, you sometimes wind up with some pretty horrible characters, but still we can't deny that some wonderful romances have sprung from the custom.

It's a grab bag system, but maybe you're the lucky type. If you're without a date anyway, what have you got to lose?

Is blind dating really in good taste, you may ask. Well, is going steady in good taste? In both cases the answer is: "sometimes yes; sometimes no," depending on you.

A blind date is not a pick up. Although you have never met your date, he or she comes highly recommended by a mutual friend whom you can trust.

It is not a romantic rendezvous. Usually you go to a party his friends or yours are giving or you double date with the mutual friend who arranged your date.

If you're as nervous as a mother cat, remember that your date isn't exactly at east either. Don't judge your date too harshly. When you've got first date jitters it's easy to goof. You may open your own mouth and put your foot in it, too.

Blind dates place people in awkward situations. You wonder if your partner likes you or is suffering in silence. You wonder if you are automatically being judged as a wallflower or drip simply because you agreed to being a blind date? Conversation comes hard.

Be the best date you know how, yourself. If possible agree to a second date. You can't condemn a person until you know him (or her) and this is impossible on a blind date.

On a second date, you know your partner is out with you of his (or her) own volition and that in itself makes the evening more pleasant.

Blind dates can be fun — for anyone!

Kids Healthier Than Ever

In the deluge of discussion about our older citizens it's possible to overlook the sizable gains that have accrued to young children.

As Dr. Louis I. Dublin, consultant in health and welfare of the Institute of Life Insurance points out, most everyone is aware that today there are some 14 million men and women over the age of 65, in contrast to a few years ago, just before World War II, when there were 9 million persons over 65.

There's been a parallel increase in the number of children. In 1942 the child population in the United States — that is, boys and girls under the age of 18 — was about 40 million. Today there are more than 56 million youngsters in American families. By almost any scale of measurement, this is a spectacular increase.

In these 14 short years there have also been vast improvements in health and child care to make it possible for more children to survive. For example, back in 1942, 40 out of every 1,000 babies born alive, died within the first year. See what is happening today: the growing triumph over infant mortality has pushed the infant mortality rate, as it is called, down to 26 per 1,000.

There have been other gains, in health as well as simple survival. Many diseases that once raised havoc with children's welfare and lives have now either disappeared or have become relatively minor incidents in the course of growing up. Some of these ailments are still familiar, but others are just names to the present generation—typhoid fever, diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough, chicken pox, measles, mumps and pneumonia.

Babies born prematurely, weighing less than five pounds, now have a good chance of living and gaining weight, where once there was deep concern for their survival. Even that menace associated with the use of oxygen during premature birth—the possibility of blindness—now appears to have been neutralized successfully.

For that matter, babies arriving in the world these days are far more likely to be sound in body than a generation ago. Even when a child is born with a physical defect, a good deal more can be done to correct such ailments than was possible in the past.

One of the most heartening developments of the past few years is the strong tendency for most children to live a normal family life, that is, with their fathers and mothers. Although many children live with one parent only—usually their mothers—because of marital discord, they fortunately form a small proportion of all youngsters. The fact is, about 48 million boys and girls under 18—about seven out of eight children of that age—live with both parents. The health of adults has improved to such an extent that most couples are able to bring up their children in a complete family. Today, less than five per cent of all children under 18 have lost one or both parents; of these, extremely few have lost both parents.

It goes without saying that living with one's family has advantages for the children that can hardly be duplicated — love, emotional balance, the sense of belonging. Parents also start their children in some of the correct patterns of future living, such as financial preparation for the future, when the youngsters will themselves be grawn. This is why many boys and girls have savings accounts of their own, and have U.S. Savings Bonds purchased on their behalf. By the same token, the reason why many parents buy life insurance for their children—61 per cent of children in the U.S. are insured—is to start them on a life insurance program that will be well established by the time they are grown.

Oven-Broiler Unit Installed In Wall

The vogue for built-ins continues. The oven-broiler unit is installed in a wall at a convenient height for the homemaker and meets the popular demand for roomy ovens.

The broiler is mounted on quiet-rooling, ball-bearing guides and permits smokeless broiling, since the gas flame consumes smoke and grease particles. The separate top burner units are set in a work counter and incorporate the same features as will be found in most free-standing gas ranges today: the thermostatic top-burner control, instant automatic ignition and super-speed burners which reach cooking heat unbelievably fast, even for gas which is the fastest fuel of all. These same burners, however, may be turned to a low, low "keep warm" setting when needed.

Myrna Loy Caught Again By Filmland Type Casters

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Myrna Loy has come back to town to play a congresswoman, the third example of type casting in her long and distinguished career.

When she came to films as a girl in the mid-'20s, she was typed as an Oriental. This seemed odd for a Helena, Mont., girl, but she could dance and slant her eyes. She recalls that she was always the daughter or damsel of Warner Oland, Boris Karloff and other pseudo-Chinese.

The mid-'30s saw her flowering as the "perfect wife," largely because of her success in "The Thin Man" with William Powell.

Recently she came here to play a congresswoman in a filmed TV show for G. E. Theater. Her latest movie was as an envoy's wife in "The Ambassador's Daughter." She seems destined to be portrayed now as a woman of public affairs.

The casting is a natural. For Myrna has emerged in recent years as one of the most public-minded of film celebrities. She distinguished herself as a delegate to UNESCO. She has been active in Democratic party work, campaigning this year for Adlai Stevenson.

She takes a real interest in the activities of her husband, Howland Sargeant, former State Department official and now head of Radio Liberation, an independent agency that broadcasts news directly into Russia.

I asked her how long she has had this interest in public affairs.

"I guess I always have," she replied. "I didn't realize it myself until I was a subject on Ralph Edwards' This is Your Life. My mother gave them a lot of material and included was a picture of President Wilson I had had. I must have been 12 then, so apparently I started early.

"Our family was politically minded. My father ran for the Montana State Legislature when he was 21 and was defeated by a Democrat — we were Republicans then. My aunt was county treasurer."

She said she continued her political interest as a star at MGM. She deplored the fact that stars have become reluctant to take political stands in recent years.

Nanette Is Cautious

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Nanette Fabray, winner of two TV Academy Emmies, is playing it cool and cautious this season.

The pert Nanette won the awards as best comedienne and best new personality because of her yeoman work on the Sid Caesar hour. This year she was replaced by Janet Blair on the Caesar show, giving Nanette time to assess the future of her career.

She's not riding off in all directions. Last week she made her first TV appearance of the season on the Shower of Stars. On Nov. 26, she'll co-star with Hal March and Don Ameche in an NBC spectacular, "High Button Shoes." She'll play the role she created in the Broadway hit.

"I've done a lot of thinking about the future," she remarked, "and I've come to two conclusions: 1. You cannot continue as a guest star for more than one season you've got to have more exposure to keep an audience 2. If you play the same character in a series, you can expect it to last only two years — three at the most.

"I've had several series offered to me and that is the feeling of all the producers they all say, 'We'll do it for two years, then take the money and run.'"

According to her plan, this will be her guest star year; next season she expects to have her own series. Jess Oppenheimer, one of the creators of "I Love Lucy," is reaming one up for her.

TV Has Two Main Jobs

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The events of the past 10 days will not be forgotten quickly in the course of world affairs. The medium of television has covered them adequately, but without distinction. Radio has done a more thorough job.

Some television executives, questioned as to whether they view their medium as primarily one of entertainment, have replied that its function is both to entertain and to inform. They believe that TV has been fulfilling its function of informing the public during these recent days.

That it was not first pointed out by Jack Gould, the television critic of the New York Times, who hit the major networks hard because they did not give thorough coverage to early sessions of the United Nations Security Council on the Suez crisis.

The view of the networks was expressed by John Daly, vice president in charge of news and public affairs for ABC, who said that the debate, in fairness to both sides, would have had to be carried in its entirety or not at all. He cited the uncertainty of council session scheduling, "the stultifying effect of triple translation, and the involved parliamentary character of the debate itself," as elements which—in effect—made for poor, or at least undramatic, TV programming.

Since last week the TV networks, especially NBC and CBS, have intensified their U.N. coverage. But they have not approached the U.N. coverage accomplished by radio.

The reason for this is obvious. Network television is sponsor-rich; to cut off scheduled sponsored programs means big financial sacrifices. Network radio is sponsor-poor; to switch to the U.N. headquarters is free, heaven-sent programming.

The situation is a classical example of the perpetual struggle between idealism and pragmatism in television programming. The idealists attack and the pragmatists give a little.

AUSTIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—Airman Edward Christian of Kelly AFB at San Antonio, was killed today when the car he was driving collided headon with a truck five miles south of here. Robert Cobbs of Lockhart, his passenger, was injured. The truck driver was not hurt.

Capra Likes Big Pictures To Draw Crowds In Again

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"It seems to me the answer to the movie business' problems is bigger pictures. The studios should take what it costs to make six or eight cheap pictures and put that into one big one. Give Audiences what they can't get on TV."

This was the view of Frank Capra, one of the alltime great creators of films. He has an unusual perspective because he has been absent from the industry for four years.

"All I hear from picture people is gloom," he observed. "It's so thick you can cut it with a knife. The last time I remember it like this was in 1941. That was when Hollywood had lost the foreign market and the studios were about ready to quit.

"Then the war came, of course, and the floodgates opened. Producers could send out six or eight reels of anything and make money."

Capra, who made "It Happened One Night," "Lost Horizon," "You Can't Take It With You" and other classics, is returning to his old stamping grounds, Columbia, for a remake of 'Lady For a Day' was a good picture, and a couple of generations have come along since I made it in 1932." He hopes to get Shirley Booth to play the role created by the late May Robson.

What has he been doing for the last four years?

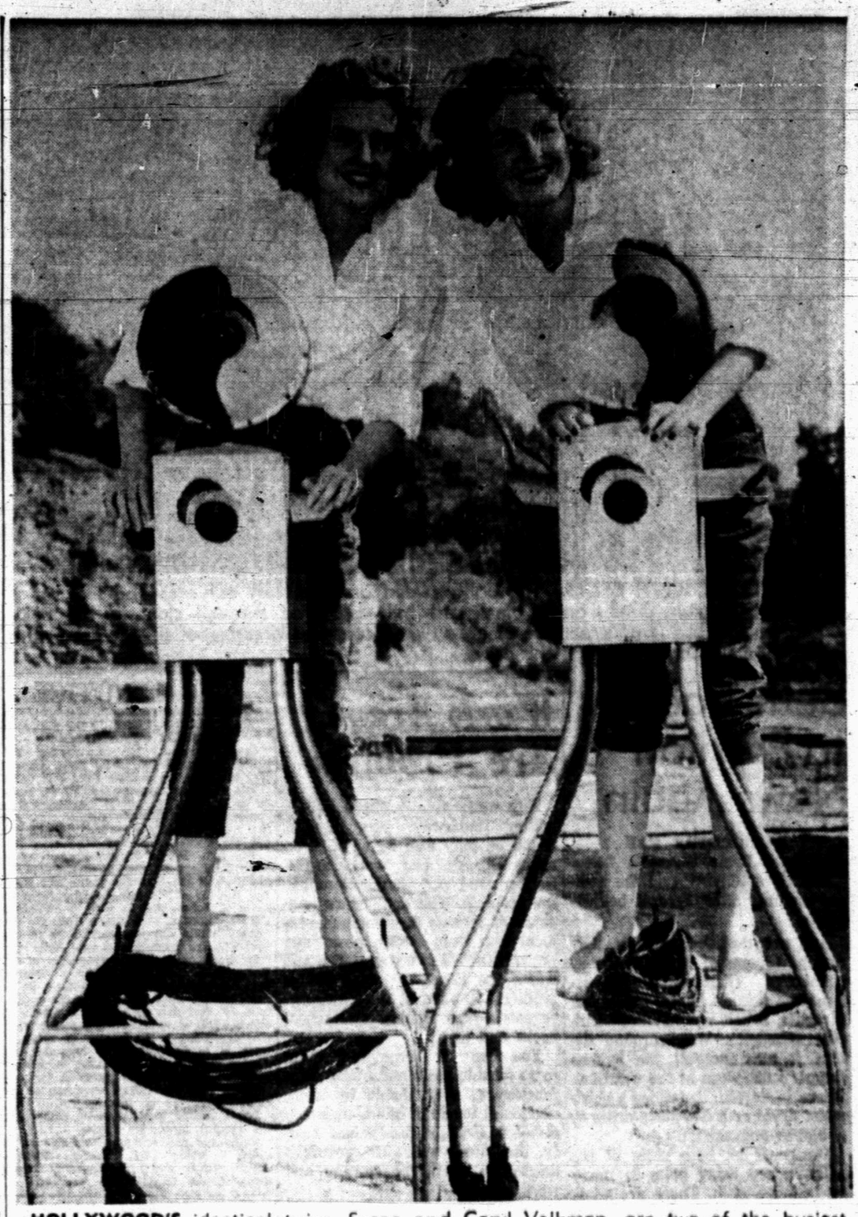
"I've been up to my elbows in work," he explained.

His work has consisted of creating four one-hour TV shows on science for the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. The first one, about the sun, will be seen Nov. 19 on CBS. The others, which concern cosmic rays, weather and the blood system, will appear at three-month intervals.

"I had decided to take a year off and do nothing but travel and relax," Capra recalled. "I had been working hard for 20 years, in pictures and the Army. I thought I would drop out of the picture business for a while and let them decide what size screen they wanted.

"Then they came to me with this project. I guess they figured I was good for it because I was a Caltech graduate. I must say it intrigued me. I have always considered myself a half-baked teacher. It presented a challenge to try to make a science show that was also entertaining."

He was given a free hand on expense. Each will cost a whopping $300,000. Capra said it was a labor of love for him: "They put up the money and I put up the time."



HOLLYWOOD'S identical twins, Susan and Caryl Volkman, are two of the busiest young ladies in America today. Recently placed in the spotlight when appearing on a nationally-known TV quiz show, they have since launched their respective film careers in Universal-International's "Rock, Pretty Baby!" They are also magazine models and majoring in political education at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Aggie Players Score Hit In 'The Trial'

By MARSHALL COMERER
The Associated Press

A salute to the Aggie Players, who scored a triumph in the young Texas Little Theater season last week with Franz Kafka's experimental play "The Trial."

"A capacity audience sat throughout the first night performance, so completely engrossed in the elusive quality of the play they didn't quit their chairs until the house manager tactfully suggested the performance was finished," reported Eleanor Burchard of the Bryan Daily Eagle.

Cited in this play probing the meaning of existance were director Vic Wiening, designer Ara Haswell and John Galdwell, who had the key role of the highly emotional character.

Dallas' Margo Jones Theater '56, true to the ideals of its late founder, opened last week with a new farce, "Stalin Allee" by movie writers Frederick Kohner and Albert Mannheimer. With East Berlin its locale, the play concerns a Randolph Scott-type of American millionaire who falls in love with a blonde. After many a laugh and due fun poking at the Communists he whisks her and her family off to New York by plane one step ahead of the secret police. With polishing, "Stalin Allee" is considered a possibility for Broadway and a movie.

Odessa music lovers have many kind words for their symphony after its first concert. They praised its fine musicianship and smart appearance and gave it close attention and generous applause.

Several weaknesses are apparent in this orchestra which is a hometown enterprise and display-case for area talent. The orchestra needs most of all persons who can play the oboe or bassoon. Several other sections of the basically sound orchestra also need some bolstering.

The Dallas Symphony opened at Texas State College for Women at Denton. The orchestra begins its home subscription concert season Monday in a new home, the Fair Park Auditorium, equipped with a new shell that promises to add to the eye and ear appeal.

The Houston Symphony is also using a new shell, designed by conductor Leopold Stowkoski. Patrons pronounced it a distinct asset.

Bowing on stage last week were...The Baylor Theater's first fall play, Sidney Kingsley's "Darkness at Noon." Directed by graduate student Robert Stecker Jr., it was designed and produced "to portrary through movement, sound, speech and sight the central core of communism x x x the barbaric cruelty and automation-like action of men born under communism...." Little Theater Corpus Christi's "Out of the Frying Pan," will be given Wednesday through Saturday, this week also... Lamar Tech's "Oklahoma" was part of the college's home coming.

Nearly a score of wells hve been staked, are drilling or planned in the triangular area formed by the intersection of old South Main and Main st.

Cagney Does Well Playing Lon Chaney

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 10 (AP)—Jimmy Cagney probably will make more money playing Lon Chaney on the screen than the famed silent star earned in his whole movie career.

Cagney is expected to receive at least a million dollars from his percentage of "Man of a Thousand Faces," the story of Chaney's life.

In the 1914-15 era at Universal, Chaney made 51 pictures for $50 a week. By 1918, he had made more than 100 movies but never earned more than $75 a week. Even at his peak Chaney's salary was only $600 a week. Only in 1923 when he made "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" did Chaney get up to $1,500 a week — his top.

These salary figures are all documented in an old payroll ledger which Cagney found in researching for the Chaney role. The ledger, in beautiful longhand, lists the weekly salaries of some of the biggest silent stars.

Federal government employment in Colorado is 33,200. This is more than the state's mining industry payroll.

Belts Back In Fashion News Again

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

BELTS ARE BACK in the fashion picture, after several beltless years.

And now that they're back, they are the accents of the various new silhouettes. Their placement defines the fashion. Worn just under the bust, a belt proclaims an Empire silhouette. Worn around the hips, it may suggest the bygone flapper look. Worn at the waistline, where it started, it defines a shirtwaist dress or a two-piece dress or a blouse and skirt.

Designers on both sides of the Atlantic are using belts in many ways this season. There are wide, dramatic belts with jeweled buckles used on some of the newest dinner gowns. These accent the waistline almost to the bustline, giving an Empire effect.

Contoured belts narrow in front, wide and dipped in back, give a new line to sheath dresses. Narrow belts sometimes are used just beneath the bust of a slim dress, for a new effect.

With the popular boused silhouette, the belt is worn at the natural waistline, and it may be wide or narrow, in leather or satin, its color matching or contrasting with the dress.

Belted suits are important this year, with the belts worn everywhere from just below the shoulder blades to just above the hips.

Belts may be of fur or jewels, leather or silk, in every width and every color — but whatever their style, belts are back with a bang.

Find 'Blind' Spot

Most of us have been accused at one time or another of having a blind spot and it's true — at least technically. To find yours, simply mark a small dot on a piece of paper and an inch or two away, mark a cross. Now, move the paper slowly back and forth from your eye. You will find that at some point the cross will "disappear"—and you will have found your blind spot.

Work Areas Are Problem

With wintertime family activities getting underway, your biggest headache may well be what to do about storage and work areas. Neither Dad nor Junior simplify the problem. The den bears evidence of zealous do-it-yourself projects with tools strewn about and papers stacked in a way that would warm the hearts of the Collier brothers. A peek at the playroom reveals a floor littered with school books and toys.

You can do something about these trouble spots and make them function as they should by using horizontal venetian blinds as space dividers. If you choose colors wisely, the blinds will also provide a decorative mask for storage and work space.

For the open toy shelves in the nursery or in Junior's playroom, try suspending a horizontal blind from the ceiling in front of the shelves. This will eliminate the eye-sore and still provide a touch of color.

You can use a similar approach for the man in the house. A blind can screen off Dad's cluttered work area from the laundry room or the spot where he relaxes a bit for a game of ping pong.

For each room that you tackle there may be many color possibilities. When using blinds, try to create unusual combinations. Use contrasting slats and tape. For example brown with beige, or white with pink. They will dress up any storage shelves and give neatness and color to your room.

Leftover Turkey

Leftover turkey takes on new appetite appeal in this colorful salad that's ideal for luncheon or Sunday night supper. To prepare, core 3 unpeeled Delicious apples and cut into bite-sized cubes. Slice 1 small Bermuda onion into rings and add to the apples. Add 4 stalks celery, sliced, and 2 cups diced, cooked turkey. Season to taste and toss lightly with your favorite salad dressing. Serve on salad greens Serves 4.

FOR GOOD EATING

Cooler weather steps up appetites so snack suggestions are most appropriate at this time. Our enriched Apple sauce Bread recipe makes nutrition taste mighty good, too, especially when it is served with glasses of chilled liquefied instant nonfat dry milk at snack time.

The nugget of enrichment hidden in this tasty recipe is one-half cup of instant nonfat dry milk powder — the equivalent of more than one pint of nonfat milk — added to the flour and other dry ingredients. Ordinarily, however, a recipe for applesauce bread does not call for any milk.

Another nourishing nibble is a Lemon Bran Bar, also enriched with instant nonfat dry milk powder. The usual recipe for a bar-type cookie does not require milk either.

Instant nonfat dry milk, which is top-quality pasteurized milk with only the fat and water removed, is rich in the important milk nutrients — protein, calcium and riboflavin I and that is why it is known as "the heart of milk." It is a versatile product and is so easy to use for it liquifies immediately, even in ice water. Or it can be used in the powder form in many recipes such as the Applesauce Bread and Lemon Bran Bars. Also, it whips.

Instant nonfat dry milk is most economical as well as nutritious and convenient. The family-size package makes 12 quarts of nonfat milk for as little as seven cents a quart. Instant nonfat dry milk also is available in two other convenient packages — a one-pound package which makes five quarts of nonfat milk and a pre-measured package which contains three individual envelopes, each making one quart of nonfat milk.

APPLESAUCE BREAD
(Makes 1 loaf or 9 inch square)
1¾ cups sifted flour
2-3 sugar
½ cup instant nonfat dry milk powder
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup canned unsweetened applesauce
2 eggs, beaten
3 tablespoons butter, melted

Sift flour, sugar, instant nonfat dry milk powder, baking powder, cinnamon and salt together 3 times. Combine eggs, applesauce and butter; add to dry ingredients, mixing quickly, until just blended. Turn into a greased (9x5x2¾-inch) loaf pan or 9-inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 45 minutes or until top is firm and browned. Cool before cutting. If desired, decorate top of cake by sprinkling powdered sugar through a lace doily.

LEMON BRAN BARS
(Makes about 2½ doz. 1-inch x 3-inches bars)
½ cup shortening
1½ cups brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup instant nonfat dry milk powder
½ cup sifted flour
2 eggs
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups raisin bran flakes
1 cup chopped walnut meats

Cream shortening; add ½ cup of the brown sugar. Blend thoroughly. Sift together instant nonfat dry milk powder and flour; stir into creamed mixture. Pat out evenly in bottom of an ungreased 9-inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven (350F.) 10 minutes. Remove from oven; cool. Beat eggs until fluffy; stir in remaining ingredients. Blend thoroughly. Spread mixture over dough. Return to oven; bake 25 minutes. Cool slightly. Cut into 1 x 3-inch bars.

Election Results Are Surprise To Political Experts

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP) — Political saws involving the Solid South and the farm, labor, Negro and big city vote came out of Tuesday's election battered and bent.

By past standards, this election just didn't make sense: Things happened that looked simply impossible in the light of history. Even by 1956 measuring rods, some of the results were almost unbelievable.

The country just doesn't go in for picking a president of one party without giving him a Senate or House — usually both — of the same party. It hadn't done that but once, back in 1848, until last Tuesday.

Only at rare intervals do chunks of the Solid South break away from the Democrats — when the party nominates a Catholic for president or takes too strong a stand on civil rights and racial questions. Never in history had a Republican taken a quartet of Southern states twice in a row. Until 1956, that is. And this time President Eisenhower added an extra one by pocketing Louisiana along with Florida, Texas, Virginia and Tennessee.

For years, the Democrats counted not only on a Solid South but also on most of the Negro, labor and big city vote. They conceded the bulk of the farm vote to the GOP.

But look what happened this year:

Many Negroes, union members and city folk obviously marched to the polls behind the Eisenhower banner. And Democrats who had figured the pinch of high costs and low prices for crops would bring on a big-scale farm revolt against the Republicans found that nothing of the sort developed.

Eisenhower carried in 1952 all of the dozen farm belt states stretching westward from Ohio to Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas, and this year he lost only Missouri — the one state outside the South to go for Adlai E. Stevenson. True, Eisenhower's margin in some of these states wasn't as hefty as it was four years ago. But in others it was better — including Stevenson's home state of Illinois. And in Ohio, the President's edge was the widest in history.

In the farm states as elsewhere, the crisis in the Middle East unquestionably helped Eisenhower. Even before the crisis developed, farmers and their wives in significant numbers had been saying they thought the chances for peace were better under the Republicans, and that the peace issue weighed more heavily with them than their own prosperity or lack of it.

Also in the farm belt and elsewhere, voters demonstrated they are an independent lot, voting for whom they pleased regardless of party affiliations and splitting their tickets all srts of ways.

Take Iowa, one of the states where farm unrest has been apparent for months. It went for Eisenhower again, re-elected a Republican senator but kicked out a Republican governor and House member.

Or move over into South Dakota. Eisenhower's popularity slumped there, but not enough to cost him the state. He got 57 per cent of the vote this year whereas he gathered in 69.3 per cent in 1952. The state elected a Democrat to Congress for the first time in 18 years and seemed in the fluctuating returns for a while to be toying with the idea of getting rid of a Republican senator and governor.

Southwestern Minnesota and northwestern Wisconsin, once buzzing fairly strongly with anti-administration talk by farmers, went for Eisenhower again, but by smaller margins. Cities and industrial areas helped make up some of that gap.

In St. Paul and Ramsey County the President cut Stevenson's margin in half this time and i Hennepin — Minneapolis — County he boosted his own winning figure substantially. Eisenhower also gained in Wisconsin industrial areas, attested by the fact that he became the first Republican nominee to turn the trick in Milwaukee since Warren G. Harding in 1920.

That points up another fact:

The AFL-CIO Executive Committee endorsed Stevenson for president but Eisenhower carried all the states with heavy concentrations of union members, including such big ones as New York, Pennsylvania, California and Michigan. West Virginia, a stronghold of the independent United Mine Workers, switched from Stevenson to Eisenhower.

Union members evidently split their tickets, too. Their votes were credited with helping Democrats win Senate victories in Pennsylvania, Oregon, Washington, and Idaho. They gave a hand, too, to Foster Furcolo, the Democrat who was elected governor of Massachusetts, and to Democrat G. Mennen Williams in his victorious bid for an unprecedented fifth term as governor of Michigan.

Williams ran far ahead of his 1952 pace, showing enough form to spark talk that he may try for the Senate in 1958 and perhaps the White House in 1960.

It wasn't just the big states that contributed mightily to the Eisenhower landslide. So did some big cities—New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, New Orleans — and urban areas that the Democrats have considered safe and sure for years.

New York City didn't go for Eisenhower. But it pared his deficit from 363,000 four years ago to 63,000 this time, so that the state as a whole rolled out the fattest plurality it ever has given a presidential candidate.

In Hudson County in nearby New Jersey, once a fortress of a Democratic machine, Eisenhower came up with an amazing 75,000-vote bulge over Stevenson.

Eisenhower conquered another Democratic bastion, the Gary-Hammond-East Chicago area in Lake County in northwestern Indiana. He picked off Chicago and Cook County — the first GOP presidential nominee in 28 years to damage that. And he took over New Orleans and Louisiana to become the first Republican since Reconstruction days to carry the Pelican State.

By way of contrast, it was the count from St. Louis that finally put Stevenson ahead in Missouri.

In Chicago, New Orleans and in various other cities there were signs that Negroes re-established a measure of their traditional loyalty to the GOP.

A Louisiana Negro leader said more than half the Negro vote in his state went to Eisenhower whereas Stevenson polled about 98 per cent of it in 1952.

Val Washington, a Negro who heads the Minorities Division of the Republican National Committee, said that reports coming in from all over the country "indicate a definite switch in all heavily populated Negro districts."

Washington contended there has been a Negro shift to Eisenhower compounded in about equal parts of confidence and respect for the President and approval of his position on civil rights. Summing up the current political status of his race, he said:

"I don't think they've bought the Republican party yet. Give us four more years and I think they will."

Texan Practices Hard With Bugle

PARIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—American Legionnaires searched about Paris today seeking some old World War I puttees to complete the costume of Texas bugler Hartley Edwards and help him fulfill his dream.

The veteran from Denison, last played his bugle in France 37 years ago before French Marshal Ferdinand Foch and US. Gen. John J. Pershing. Ever since then he has looked forward to the day when he could answer the invitation Foch gave him on that occasion and play "Taps" at a Paris Armistice Day celebration.

Whether puttees are found or not, he's going to do it tomorrow.

"I've been looking forward to it for a long time," Edwards, 61, said today. "I'm going home early tonight for some more practice to make sure."

On Armistice Day in 1918 Edwards was bugler with H Company, 59th Regiment, 4th Division at the front. Later he was selected for the Pershing Drum and Bugle Corps, which played in victory celebrations in France and Britain in 1919.

"They made us practice eight hours a day for 30 days, Edwards recalls. "But when we were through we were a pretty sharp outfit."

Foch heard the bugle corps at two mammoth ceremonies in Paris on July 4 and July 14, 1919. The marshal told Pershing he hoped the men could come back some day and Pershing passed the invitation proudly on to the corps.

When he returned to France early this month Edwards brought with him the same bugle he played in Pershing's "band." He also has with him his World War I helmet.

With the welcome of the French government and the aid of the Paris American Legion Post, Edwards will play Taps twice tomorrow at the Arch de Triumph. Though he slacked off on his bugling after the war, Edwards has long been a musican and said he is now "pretty good" again with the bugle. He is staying with his son-in-law, Maj. Kenneth Klein, now stationed in Paris. He practices in Klein's basement with his grandson, Jeffrey, 4, listening.
