WILBUR REFUSES TO REVEAL WAR SECRETS OF U. S. NAVY IN DOHENY-FALL TESTIMONY

Doheny's Defense Closes After Oil King Spends Three Hours On Witness Stand Under Grill Of Government's Counsel Thursday

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The defense rested in behalf of Edward L. Doheny in the oil conspiracy trial today after the veteran oil man had withstood a forceful three-hour cross examination and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur appearing under subpoena has firmly refused to disclose the navy department's 1921 war scare secrets of the senate committee.

Postmaster General New, the first witness in the independent presentation of evidence in behalf of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior then testified he knew Fall's reputation for honesty and integrity to be good. He was excused without cross examination.

The Fall attorneys plan to complete their case at tomorrow's half day Saturday session, probably without calling the former cabinet member to the stand in his own defense.

$5000 Loan Told of.

Doheny's cross examination revealed financial transactions between himself and Fall since the latter left the cabinet in 1923, but only a $5000 loan just before the trial began was admitted to the record. Special Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts also drew from Doheny the statement that Fall had acted for him with remuneration, in connection with a $10,000,000 loan to the Obregon government of Mexico three years ago when the De La Huerta revolutionary forces menaced the Obregon regime. The loan in the form of advance payments on tax assessments against Doheny properties has been repaid.

Previous to today's testimony there had been no recital of money transactions between Doheny and Fall since the $100,000 cash loan to the cabinet member on Nov. 30, 1921, when Doheny interests were bidding for naval oil contracts and leases.

Wilbur Refuses Data

Secretary Wilbur, called for questioning as to strategic considerations which impelled the war plan division to decide upon the $100,000,000 Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, naval base more than five years ago, refused to bring to court official communications from Rear Admiral Albert Gleaves, commandant of the senate committee squadron in 1921 and 1922. Other records which he brought were rejected by the defense attorneys and they let the war scare evidence rest with Secretary Wilbur's testimony that disclosure of the contents of the Gleaves' reports would be prejudical to public interest.

Telegrams Wanted

The defense summons specifically called for 45 telegrams and 51 letters from Gleaves between September, 1920 and March, 1921, but Secretary Wilbur said he brought none of them to court.

The prosecution tonight considered the advisability of calling former Secretary of State Hughes as a rebutial witness for examination as to the diplomatic situation in the Pacific at the time the Gleaves' reports which terminated two months before President Harding issued his invitation to the Washington arms conference of 1921.

During a penetrating cross examination Roberts broke through Doheny's direct testimony at only one point. He put into the record the oil man's statement that stock certificates given him by Fall in 1925 for the 1921 loan of $100,000 were valued at $3300 instead of $200,000. Doheny testified yesterday the 19 shares he held represented approximately $200,000 in property.

Refreshed Memory

Questioned as to certain differences between his senate and trial stories the witness admitted frankly he had refreshed his memory as to details since his testimony before the senate oil committee three years ago. He denied ever having had any misgivings about the propriety of his loaning Fall $100,000 and recalled that the senate learned of the transaction only through his own voluntary testimony.

In that connection he added that he was paying all the defense expenses of the present trial.

Through the examination of petroleum technologists and accountants of Doheny's Pan-American companies the defense also put into the record testimony that the net profits of the California subsidiary from the operations of the Elk Hills reserves between December, 1922 and March, 1924, when they went into the hands of a federal administrator, were approximately $220,000.

BISMARCK OF BALKANS DIES

Great Serbian Leader Dies Just at Crisis in Jugo-Slavia

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, Dec. 10. (AP)—Nikola P. Pachitch, the "grand old man" of Jugo Slavian politics, to whom the nation instinctively had turned in its concern over the Italian-Albanian treaty, died suddenly today. He was 80 years old.

The "Serbian Bismarck" was to have formed a cabinet today to replace that of former Premier Ouzounovitch which resigned several days ago. He talked with King Alexander until late last night and public announcement that he had been requested to form a ministry would have been made today.

This morning, however, he was stricken with apoplexy, attributed to high tension over the Italian-Albanian situation and to concern over charges of corruption against his son, Rademir, by the opposition radical leader, Stefan Raditch. M. Pachitch, who for 45 years had played a prominent part in his country's politics, was deeply affected by these charges and had demanded a parliamentary investigation to clear the name of his family.

Flags were half-staffed throughout Jugo Slavia and the population was in mourning today. As premier and minister of foreign affairs, M. Pachitch long had held positions of trust in his country, virtually ruling over a period of 20 years. It was he who in 1914 received the Austrian ultimatum precipitating the World war.

Thousands Jam First Radio Show

FRITZ AFFAIR OPENS EYES OF CURIOUS CROWD

Forum Flower Shows, Play And Auto Exhibits Are Merged in Display

CONTINUES SATURDAY

Musical Programs, Postponed From Friday, to Be Given This Evening

Wichita Falls' first annual radio show was an unqualified success when thousands flocked Friday afternoon and night to the new Fritz Motor company building on Eleventh and Scott. The building was formally opened and a capacity crowd approved the opportunity to see the latest equipment and newest developments in radios. Long before the program was scheduled to begin last night, seats in the huge space allotted this part of the show were taken. Hundreds of persons were standing throughout the evening.

Radios of antique and modern designs were arranged in attractive booths and interested visitors called frequently to take a look and have some explanations.

Flower Show Also Popular

In connection with the radio show and opening of the Fritz building was the Woman's Forum flower show held under the auspices of the Forum. The motor company had on display a $50,000 exhibit of Marmon and Reo automobiles.

The opening number of the evening program was the one act play, "Medicine Show," by Stuart Walker. It was presented by the Sunshine Players and directed by Harold White. Miss Bee Jones gave the prologue; R. L. Jansell impersonated the character, "Luther;" Roy Higganbottam represented "Giz;" and F. M. King was "Dr. Steve Van Dexter."

A second one act play, "When the Whirlwind Blows," was presented by the Readers club under the dramatic department of the Forum with Mesdames J. T. Harrell and O. T. Abernathy directing.

The scene was laid in a European district which was in the throes of political and labor struggles. Mrs. W. F. Pagan played the part of Madame Elizabeth Androva, wife of General Androva, of the army of the regular government; the part of Josef, mother of Owals, a blacksmith and a member of the workman's council set up in the district was played by Mrs. Claude Ruffner; while Miss Dorothy Nolen played the villain's part, that of a maid to Madame Androva.

Ushers for the evening were taken from the Readers club.

Sax Band Plays

Music was furnished at night by the Wichita Falls Electric company's saxophone band, directed by Paul Seeds.

Other music had been arranged which was to be broadcasted through WBAP, Fort Worth, by a special hookup, but this was postponed until Saturday night because of trouble in getting proper connections. The "Sunflower Girl," popular entertainer is scheduled to sing Saturday night. Addresses by J. A. Kemp, Frank Kell and other Wichitans scheduled for Friday night were also postponed. The Wichita Falls Boys' band band sponsored by the Lions club will play at 9 o'clock Saturday night and arrangements are being made to have the program broadcast through WBAP. "The Hired Hand" is also expected to be here.

Santa Is Urged Not to Trade Deer For Auto

Folks who are trying to get Santa Claus to trade his reindeer for the more modern tin lizzie are picking a fight with St. Nick's little friends if the letter selected as today's prize winner in the Wichita Falls Record News Santa Claus letter contest is an indicator. In the letter which wins the $2 prize this morning little Bernice Smith of Burkburnett tells Santa that "reindeer are much safer and faster."

Here's the letter:

Dear St. Nick:
I am writing to ask you for a baby dolly for Christmas. They are the sweetest things other than a real baby and you are the jolliest and best toymaker ever was.
Santa, I've read in the paper that you were thinking of trading your reindeer for a car. Please don't do it as I think reindeer are safer and can bring you here faster. I hope you have toys for all the little boys and girls everywhere. Your friend,
BERNICE SMITH.

BANDIT KILLED IN GUN FIGHT

Two Others Wounded Dying In Hospital At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Dec. 10. (AP)—One robber was killed, another probably shot and their intended victim, N. C. Buchanan, young grocer, was seriously wounded here tonight in a gun fight following their attempt to hold him up while motoring at the west edge of town.

The first robber died at a hospital a few minutes after the shooting and the other was not expected to live until morning. Serious doubt surrounds young Buchanan's chance for recovery. He was shot three times, through the abdomen, arm and leg.

HOBSON SEES DARK DAYS IF BOOZE ENDURES

Prohibition Speaker Paints Damning Picture of Liquor Evil

BIG CROWD HEARS HIM

Says World Is Doomed If Wet Interests Win in Relentless War

The human race is far gone because it has tolerated the liquor evil. France, as a nation, is doomed because it is saturated with alcohol. Enemies of prohibition are waging bitter and relentless warfare against it—and unless America speedily girds itself to fight back for the preservation of its own and the world's welfare, ruin and pestilence will soon be abroad in the land.

Such was the picture painted Friday night by Captain R. P. Hobson, speaking under the auspices of the Texas anti-saloon league of Texas to a packed auditorium at the First Baptist church.

Hobson's address went into considerable detail on the matter of liquor. He discussed it from the moral, economic, financial and political angles and his sketch as a whole was a blackening and damning one for the liquor interests. Narcotics also came in for a healthy flailing at the hands of the speaker. He cited numerous figures which he said represented the devastating effects of hermoin and other drugs on mankind.

Evidences of Progress

"On every hand," the speaker began, "I find evidences of amazing progress but it is not difficult to establish the primary cause. In the past we spent at least two and one-half billion dollars over the bars of 177,000 licensed saloons. Much money is yet being spent for illicit liquor, but then we spent equally as much in the 100,000 blind tigers and 'speak easies' that flourished alongside the 177,000 saloons. The best estimate is that we are now consuming only one-tenth of the alcohol that we were consuming then. We are saving about $2,000,000,000 annualy from our drink bill which in the course of seven and one-half years would amount to about $15,000,000,000.

"Alcoholic insanity is one third of what it was. Accidents have fallen off illue Monday has disappeared. There are 150,000 fewer industrial accidents annually, which for the seven years would have meant about 1,000,000 men either killed or maimed by their fellow workmen.

"It is estimated that annually $200,000,000 is saved from our liquor bill and more than another $5,000,000,000 in increased production, making a total of between $8,000,000,000 and $9,000,000,000 annually, which for seven and one-half years would mean about $60,000,000,000 wealth to the credit of our nation. Since 1917, the last wet year of which we have the record, the wealth of the nation has increased $157,000,000,000. No question! The money is in the banks, the depositors names are on their records. The banks of America show an increase in the number of savings accounts from 10,000,000 to more than 40,000,000. What are the men doing with this money? They are doing just what sober men may be expected to do. They are improving their homes, building new ones. The last wet year the amount spent on homes per month

State To Base Case Against Bonner In Barnes Mail Bomb Murder On Chain of Circumstantial Evidence

Special Prosecutors Will Be Employed To Help State In Trial of Son-in-Law of Slain Man, Corpus Christi Officers Say

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Dec. 10. (AP)—Special prosecutors probably will be obtained to assist District Attorney George Westervelt in prosecuting the state's case against Frank H. Bonner, charged with the murder of J. A. Barnes and his son, Jesse Barnes, in connection with a bomb explosion, officers said today.

Arrangements were being made to employ defense counsel for Bonner. The accused man's brother, F. B. Bonner of San Antonio, arrived here this morning and said that arrangements for defense counsel would be completed Saturday.

Bonner's mother, Mrs. J. S. Bonner, and his sister, Mrs. John Barnes of Waco, arrived today.

STATE WILL RELY UPON CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

HOUSTON, Dec. 10.(AP)—According to a special telegram from a staff man at Corpus Christi to the Houston Post-Dispatch Friday night, the state will rely on evicumstantial evidence in the prosecution of Frank H. Bonner of San Antonio, who is under indictment in Corpus Christi charged with the murder of his young wife's father and brother, J. A. Barnes, 47, and Jessie Barnes, his 7-year-old son.

"An intimate letter, another man's name said to have been used for deception, a certain single day at the University of Texas and a walking cane," the telegram said, "form three of the important links in the chain of circumstances involved in the Barnes investigation, it was said here.

Bonner Is Silent.

"So, Friday," the message continued, "the unsolved Barnes bomb murders in which father and son met death here three years ago, when Barnes opened an express package, which was an infernal machine sent to him from San Antonio by an unknown man.

"Frank Bonner, it appears, refuses to talk.

"My wife has told me not to talk," the telegram quoter Bonner as replying to all questions asked by officers and reporters.

"My wife," it says he adds when pressed, "is my adviser; see her."

Young Mrs. Bonner, who is described as beautiful, insists, that nothing on earth could convince her that Frank Bonner isn't innocent of this ghastly thing.

Sudden Turn Seen.

Reviewing the case, the Post-Dispatch staff man says:

"This is an unusual case, the Barnes bomb murders. Forgotten, almost, save by a few persistent officers of the law, it was jerked with unexpected drama Wednesday with Bonner's arrest at San Antonio, where he and his wife conduct a smart dancing school.

"Since that time, since the indictment of Bonner on two counts of murder, the authorities have made nothing known, and neither has Bonner, his wife, nor their kin. Late Friday it was reported here that Lon Curtis of Temple had been retained as chief counsel for Bonner, and would represent him Monday at his arraignment before Judge A. W. Cunningham of the 28th district court.

"Sheriff Ben D. Lee, the Nueces count yofficers who brought Bonner here to face trial, disclosed Friday that the state would rely on a circumstantial case rather than an attempted identification of the young man charged with the crime.

Circumstantial Evidence.

"Sheriff Lee had been asked if he would take certain vital witnesses before Bonner for the purpose of attempting his identification as the man who shipped the bomb.

"We think a chain of circumstances is stronger than the uncertain memory of human beings," was the sheriff's answer.

Texas Legislator Proposes To Have Two-Choice Ballots

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Dec. 10.—Second primaries for nomination of state officers will be abolished if the election bill, drawn by Rep. A. J. Durham of Sabinal, and which Mr. Durham announced at the capital he will introduce, becomes a law.

This measure, one of a series of election laws Mr. Durham will sponsor, would provide for first and second choices on the single-primary ballot. It would follow closely after the preferential ballot now used by many cities in their nominations and elections.

First Choice Votes

Under its use, the first-choice votes would be counted first. If one candidate had a clear majority of these over all other candidates, then he would be declared the nominee. If not, the second-choice votes would next be counted and these added to the firsts.

In the rare event of a tie between the two high candidates, the decision would revert to the first-choice votes, the man having the highest number of these being declared the nominee.

General Revision

Representative Durham will offer a bill in the 40th legislature entirely revising the general election statute, dealing with the manner in which votes are cast. His measure is aimed to simplify the voting, and at the same time to avoid complaints such as were made in 1924 when many persons who voted the democratic ticket for other offices desired to support Dr. George G. Butte for governor.

Each voter could cast a "straight" ballot by making one "X"; or could vote for candidates of any or all parties; and could also write in the name of any person for any office that he chose.

Tellers could register at one stroke of an adding machine a ballot for each nominee of a party. In counting the vote, without having to tally down the entire list name by name, under the form of ballot Mr. Durham has attached to his proposed law.

Rudy Valentino Home Auctioned

Home of Late Sheik Film Sold For $145,000 At Auction

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 10. (AP)—Falcon Lair, home of the late Rudolph Valentino, screen actor was sold at auction today by Jules Howard of New York City for $145,000. Howard's bid was received by telegraph and came when the bidding reached $120,000.

Valentino's personal and real property which he left behind when death took the screen's foremost lover several months ago, were spread before the public today in the first of a two-day auction sale.

An unimproved tract of 6 8-10 acres located on a hillcrest in Beverely Hills near the homes of many prominent motion picture people was knocked down to Dr. Frank McCoy of Hollywood for $21,000. Hundreds of persons gathered, more to view the late idol's personal treasurers than with any idea of purchase, thronged the grounds of Falcon Lair, Valentino's home, when his dogs, his horses and automobiles were lined up before the auctioneer.

LETTER GOES ROUND

Recipients Notified Their Aid In Gift to Governor Is Desired

AUSTIN, Dec. 10. (AP)—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson and her family are planning to make their home in Austin, Eugene T. Smith, chairman of the state highway commission, and intimate of the Ferguson family announced Friday.

Commissioner Smith and a number of the governor's personal friends are raising a fund to present the governor with a farewell present Jan. 18, 1927, when her term as chief executive expires.

A letter is being circulated by a committee of three, stating that they have been appointed "to solicit the donations to purchase a suitable lot for the permanent home of the first woman governor of Texas in the city of Austin."

$5000 Loan Told Of.

"It will take $5000 dollars to do this, and we are soliciting the governor's very personal friends to give what amount they see fit," the letter reads.

The committee is headed by Eugene Smith and Roy I. Tennant of Temple and Jake Rubolia of San Antonio are the other members of the committee.

The governor thus far has declined to announce her intentions about making her home in Austin but local real estate dealers report that former Gov. James E. Ferguson has made inquiries about certain pieces of property in Austin.

Mr. Smith said that it has been customary for friends of retiring governors to present them with presents.

The governor's home has been in Temple for three decades.

"PA" FERGUSON HAS BUSINESS IN HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Dec. 10.(AP)—Former Gov. James E. Ferguson came to Houston Friday from Temple on a "little personal business," and digressed to make observations on the newspapers of the state.

"Yes, they had a great time talking about me during the past year," he observed, "and I wonder what they're going to write about now."

He was asked about the progress of his libel suit against a Dallas newspaper. He believed, he said, that the case was set for trial in March.

"If I get a judgment against them, I guess I'll sue all the rest of 'em," he declared. "There's no use stopping a good thing once it gets started.

"If my contention about the newspapers of Texas is right, I guess I'll own 'em all before this thing is over with."

Why Ma Didn't Quit.

He chatted genially as he sat in a hotel lobby talking with friends. Every few minutes acquaintances greeted him with "Hello Governor," and "How are you, Jim?"

"I don't know, though," he said coming back to the topic of the conversation, "I don't believe one man could run all the papers in the state, so I don't know whether I want 'em or not."

He was told that 90 per cent of the people in Texas were wondering why his wife, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, did not resign from her office after the first primary election.

"Well," said Mr. Ferguson laughingly, "I guess she just wanted to keep on holding the office."

TEXAS PAPERS BOOST STATE

27 Dailies to Run Series Of Page Ads to Sell Texas To Texans

ABILENE, Texas, Dec. 10.(AP) Driving away the "cotton blues" with one of the largest cooperative advertising campaigns ever undertaken in the country is the plan of members of the Daily Press league of Texas, soon to be put into effect.

Twenty-seven Texas dailies have agreed to run a total of 724 full page advertisements to tell Texas about Texas. The dailies have a combined circulation of 850,000, and the advertisements, if paid for at regular space rates would cost a total of $55,000.

The newspapers are giving their space to tell their readers and the world in general that despite 11 cent cotton, Texas purchasing power was never greater than now.

Each of the 27 dailies will print 27 full page ads. Each advertisement will contain a bristling array of statistics showing exactly the present business status in the vicinity which the ad refers to.

Here's How It's Done.

For instance, the Abilene Reporter, one of the 27 papers, will print an ad telling about conditions in its city. The same ad will run in the 26 other members of the cooperative plan. The Abilene Reporter, in turn will publish advertisements giving similar facts about the other towns in the chain. Every city cooperating will be given free a minimum of 27 pages, and the complete chain will be planned to present a graphic and truthful picture of Texas, industrially, financially and economically.

The advertisements will tell the world that the net returns to Texas for 1926 from the things this state produces such as cotton, corn, wheat, oats, grain sorghums, poultry, peanuts, pecans, lumber, oil, coal, sulphur, and numerous other products, is far greater than in the so-called "good years." The address will state that Texas has more people with more money than ever before in its history.

The Daily Press league of Texas includes most of the dailies outside of Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, El Paso and Beaumont.

Many Papers Join.

The papers collaborating in this unusual campaign are: Abilene Reporter and News, Amarillo Globe and News, Austin Statesman and American, Brownsville Herald, Bryan Eagle, Cleburne Review, Corpus Christi Caller, Corsicana Sun, Denison Herald, Denton Record-Chronicle, Gainesville Register, Greenville Banner, Galveston Tribune, Hillsboro Mirror, Lubbock Journal and Avalanche, Marshall News-Messenger, Mineral Wells Index, Palestine Herald, Paris News, Port Arthur News, Ranger Times, San Angelo Standard, Sherman Democrat, Temple Telegram, Texarkana Gazette, Waco News-Tribune and Wichita Falls Record News.

The date of the opening broadside will be announced soon.

Tennant, two of the three members of the board of control, that they will approve a requisition for $525,825 of road equipment, the highway department will advertise for the opening of bids January 12 by the board of control, Eugene T. Smith, highway commission chairman, said Friday.

REED TO QUIZ OWN ELECTION

Chairman of Senate Probe Committee Receives Charges

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—Subpoenaed witnesses who slipped through the meshes of the senate campaign funds committee during its pre-election investigation will be rounded up and summoned to testify before the inquiry is finally closed.

This decision was reached at a two hour conference today between Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, and his co-investigators. Missing witnesses will be called here from Pennsylvania, Illinois, Oregon and Arizona where they failed to appear before sub-committees.

Although the testimony of these witnesses is not expected to produce anything startling, Chairman Reed declared it was needed to complete the record and was in line with the committee's determination to be thorough.

Vare To Assist

While the committee was in session, Senator-elect Vare, Republican, Pennsylvania, who is a central figure in the committee's investigation, came out of a conference at the capitol with Senator Reed also a Pennsylvania Republican and announced that he would co-operate with senators in carrying out their announced purpose of impounding the ballots cast in the recent Pennsylvania general election.

Agitation for impounding the ballots was started by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska who campaigned for William B. Wilson, the Democratic opponent of Vare who now contemplates contesting the election on the grounds of fraud.

At the committee session Mr. Reed also brought up the refusal of Samuel Insull, of Chicago, F. X. O'Connor, of Philadelphia and others to testify. The committee is disposed to cite them to the senate for contempt but formal action was deferred.

Reed Names Self

In line with his policy of recommending investigation wherever evidence of wrong doing was presented, Senator Reed laid before the committee charges against himself and invited it to go into them. They were filed by H. B. Walmsley, a merchant of Kansas City, Mo., who accused Senator Reed of bias and partiality in conducting his inquiry into reports that Senator Hawes, Democrat, Missouri, had spent too much money in his campaign. Reed told his colleagues that they were welcome to conduct an inquiry but that he would take no part in it. The committee, however, withheld decision.

After brief discussion the committee took under advisement the wisdom of going into Massachusetts to ascertain whether the Republican organization spent huge sums in behalf of Senator Butler and the state ticket, as has been contended.

MODISH MITZI

DAD GIVES UP. WHAT CAN HE DO?

By J. V. JAY

It is Aunt Sophia who ruin's Dad's day at the start. Not that one would think that Aunt Sofia, looking most attractive in a dress with double revers, could ruin anyone's day, but they are bills she hands him.

His secretary hands him more—all for articles of Mitzi has bought, by the way, as she was busy looking for a job to earn money for Christmas presents. Dad doesn't even notice this smart wool crepe and satin gown.

When he reaches home Mitzi blandly presents him with more bills. In a new dress with a blouse of waffle shirred georgette she even dares to say: "Of course, I'm going to earn money for these myself."

It didn't take Dad long to think it over. No longer than Mitzi took to change into an evening dress with a huge side drape. Dad offers a check on the condition that her search for work shall cease immediately.

HOG RECEIPTS IN TEXAS OFF

Fort Worth Reports Decline of 101,115 Head In Eleven Months

FORT WORTH, Dec. 9.(AP)—Hog receipts on the Fort Worth market for the first 11 months of 1926 fell off 101,115 head from the corresponding 1925 total despite conditions said to favor marketing of three head of hogs to one of cattle this year. Total receipts up to December 1, were 194,418 head.

A report today from the Fort Worth stock yards company, however, showed that three head of cattle have arrived for market to every hog this year.

The Star-Telegram quotes "one of the big men in the Texas packing industry" as saying that "no less than $1,000,000 worth" of hogs dressed and on foot, and pork products, are being imported weekly into Texas from northwestern markets.

Regarding lowered hog receipts, the paper continues:

"It is plain that such a condition is adverse to the interests of the cattleman, because packers must ship mixed cars in order to get the business, and if they do not have the pork to pack with the beef, cattle values are almost sure to reflect the lost orders."

The stock yards report showed that this year's sheep receipts so far have surpassed the 1925 corresponding total by 150,030 head. Cattle receipts were 872,232 as compared with 959,239 for the same period of 1925.

Colonel Admits He's Not 'Lily'

California Dry Superintendent Wants Public to See Him as "He-Man"

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.(AP) A man who admitted he drank and wanted the public to know that he was "no lily"—thus was Col. Ned M. Green, deposed prohibition administrator, on trial for embezzlement of government liquor, portrayed in federal court here yesterday.

The picture was sketched by Ivan Johnson, newspaper man and son of Col. Samuel L. Johnson, who formerly was Green's immediate subordinate.

The term "no lily" Johnson said, was a part of the former dry chief's description of himself in an interview about the time of his indictment last July in which he said that he did not want to be known as a "hypocrite."

Details of a dinner party in Green's room to which Johnson took two bottles of champagne at his host's request also were related by the witness.

Johnson's father previously had testified that liquor was served at the dinner, but that nobody drank much.

The Hub Proves Its Superiority In Wichita Falls

MORE FORCIBLY THAN EVER!!

It is a distinction alone to deserve having the largest and finest stock of clothing in the city.

But the greatest distinction lies in this fact: that this great stock of clothing is not "Glomed Up" with "Old Stock" or "Last Season's Goods."

The Hub's merchandising ability proves its strength!!! It's policies trustworthy and expedient—When a garment does not sell in our store it is immediately marked down, regardless of cost, sometimes often until "The Right Price" moves it!!!

We feel, as we hope to drive home this one point—That the garment, no matter what it brought was not worth one cent more than asked for it—because it was "Undesirable" at regular price!!!

You can therefore purchase your clothing needs now "at The Hub" with the double assurance of receiving "up-to-date, stylish, this season's or next season's patterns and models" at "Dollar for Dollar Value."

GERMANY SIGNS

GENEVA, Dec. 10. (AP)—Germany today became a member of the permanent court of international justice when Foreign Minister Stresemann signed the protocol was recently the subject of international conference in connection with the American reservations.

Hobson Sees

averaged $25,000,000. Last year it was $183,000,000 per month, and 54 per cent of these were homes of wage earners."

Education Expands

Here the speaker gave a long list of figures showing the expansion of education in the United States as a result of prohibition. He also touched on the improvement in morals, asserting that arrests for profanity had been reduced 20 per cent in the last seven years; that institutionalized vice is now only 3 per cent of what it was seven years ago. There are 5,000,000 more church members in the country now than seven years ago, he said.

Passing over alcohol, its poisoning effects, its deadening of the brain and impairment of the reproductive organs, Hobson traced the rise and fall of the Roman empire, attributing to liquor a commanding influence on Roman history. He declared that the rise of the Roman empire came when absolute prohibition was a basic clause in the Roman constitution. "Bootleggers and their patrons were given the death penalty in those days," he said.

"Then wet nations around the Romans made contact. Drinking became prevalent and Rome speedily tottered to a downfall.

"The rise of America as a prohibition country menaces the life of the liquor traffic of the world," Hobson went on, "so the liquor traffic of the world with men and $20,000,000,000 invested, has put America under siege with the objective to make it a warning to the nations not to dare go dry. All our frontiers and coasts are under siege The mighty enemy is undertaking to demoralize and discourage America in fighting the world powers for its right to be dry.

"They have brought into their alliance the opium traffic of the world. Rum ships bring narcotic products. The same machinery is used. We grapple with the two death forces of the world.

"There is heroin, a new drug from Germany. It is four times as powerful as morphine. It is a white powder, called 'snow.' It is placed on the wrist and sniffed. One 'snow party' a day and within a week the victim is a heroin addict. The ages of the victims range from 16 to 20. of the 25,000 cures, one physician reports that none remain cured. He is the pitiable slave the balance of his life. They are termed the 'living dead.' Its effect is to make the victim think that he is a hero. He is embodied to become a bandit, and from this to organized banditry.

Narcotics Join

"The traffic in narcotics joins the liquor traffic of the world to hasten the destruction of America, infecting America with this new disease. Our recent researches showed the increase had been about 500 per cent above 1921. Liquor and opium are in league to accomplish the downfall of America. They are working in the line of scientific warfare. They are attempting to drive salients into our east coast."

Hobson then detailed conditions in Maryland and New York states where "a wet governor, the legislature and the wet forces have failed to adopt and enforce prohibition." Then, after giving some more figures, he concluded:

"I have laid before you a mocking challenge. Is there any fighting blood in you? Let it come up.

"Beware! The human race is far gone. If we maintain our dry laws the world will go dry and we will build the kingdom of God upon the earth. But we are not dry. The crisis is now here. America is the last stand. The constitution is the most powerful bulwark of freedom in the world. If America cannot win, no other nation need try. We cannot win this war by 'bushwhacking.' We must have scientific warfare. An army must be formed. Trained troops must form the spear head to drive a salient into the enemy.

"Why do they spend millions abusing the Anti-Saloon league? Because that league represents the church forces in organized warfare against rum. God has blessed it. It has won a thousand victories in a thousand battlefields. Get behind the Anti-Saloon league. Drive it as a spear head into the ranks of the enemy. The Anti-Saloon league is fighting now for the flag. The church of the living God must put its force behind the drive. The league will not fail you. Texas is the key to the southern sisterhood of states. The south is the key to the nation in this battle. America is the key to the world."

Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

12,000 Pecan Trees

Two solid cars of the most superb trees ever seen in the Wichita Valley have just arrived and deliveries will be rapidly made.

They were personally selected and packed under my supervision at the famous Monticello Nursery Company of Monticello, Florida, where packing facilities are the most perfect I have ever seen.

The general run are four year olds, 5 to 7 feet tall, for commercial orchards. The shipment also includes some big, husky five-year-olds, 12 to 15 feet tall for special, or yard planting—the size and varieties that sometimes, under extra care, produce 20 to 25 pounds of nuts per tree the second year after planting, and quickly develop into beautiful shade trees.

All are grown from Texas grown nuts and budded with buds taken from bearing trees, a feature of vital importance in establishing an orchard. Quality and care of selection and handling considered, cheaper trees can positively not be had from any source.

My obligation and responsibility does not cease with delivery of trees. The benefit of my many years of experience in pecan planting and orcharding extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast, is available to my customers at all times.

Common Sense In a Nut Shell

Is it economy to save a dollar or two at the time of purchasing a tree and lose a hundred or two out of the harvests to come?

There is great satisfaction in having done your very best. You will not experience this pleasure if you plant shabby inferior pecan trees.

A stunted, low vitality tree is a mistake that can never be corrected—a mistake that grows bigger and bigger every year—a constant, standing, irritating advertisement of the folly of its master.

There are thousands of pecan trees paying big annual dividends on $1,000 each; other thousands, on $100 each, the only difference being quality of trees planted.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By Blondy Cross.

While the ballyhooers are firing their hue and cry broadsides leading up to a return match between Dempsey and Tunney, Sid Sutherland types a story for Liberty questioning honesty of the "fight" in which the championship changed hands. Sid's yarn is stirring up sportdom to a heat that may rival the Black Sox scandal of 1919.

The story has been printed and re-printed but it is too interesting, if true, to be allowed slip by not read by Wichita Falls sportsmen. An excerpt:

"That leaves Tunney. Now, Dempsey knows, and so does everybody else, that he can name the round and chill Gene. Still, Gene's the only one left to fight. So maybe Dempsey figures this way—and he might talk out loud while he's figuring, so if anybody happens to hear, they can slip the news to Tunney:

MAYBE, MAYBE NOT

"Lissen: I'll fight Tunney, and it'll be on the level. If he can knock me off, all right. If I can trim, all right. But if he should happen to lick me I gotta have 25 percent off what he makes while he's champ. Take it or leave it, skipper.

"Of course, he might not come right out and tell Tunney this. Or maybe he might. Why not? Broadway don't think it's wrong, and it's a swell chance for Tunney to climb in there with the champ. If he loses, he ain't out a dime. If he wins, he'll make so much coin he'll never miss that 25 percent. And the fight's gonna be on the level, ain't it?

"But a few weeks, or maybe a few days before the fight comes off, suppose the knock-'em-dead gamblers get to Jack. Here's about what they would put up to him:

" 'Listen, champ: Why go in there and level? The odds is just right for a mop-up. Tunney and Tex don't know nothing about this; they wouldn't stand for it. But we'll cut the heavy sugar with you. You don't have to flop because for a polooka like Gene to stop you would be too raw. But don't win. Just paw him around and maul him up a bit.

COMING AND GOING

" 'Your end's three-quarters of a million from Tex. You'll be in on the million or so Gene'll make later. And you're in on our plunder right away. Then you'll get a return bout, because no matter how smart you do your stuff, everybody's gonna know he can't whip you, and they'll say you was just stale and that you got a return bout coming.

" 'What happens? Well, meantime they'll be feeding Gene a lotta tramps. He'll stop most of 'em and the sap public'll think he can fight. So the next time you step in there with him, the odds will be right. Well, this time you level. We'll swamp the country again, even if we have to lay it down at even money. And of course you stop Tunney any round you want. You're in on everything, now and next time.'

"Then they make sure. They slip Jack a little hyoscine. Now, you know—some of us got to know—something about dope. And this one, according to a doc I know, is a powerful nerve depressant, mydriatic and hypnotic. In my lingo, it ties a fighter in a bunch and he can't make his muscles do what his stupefied nut's figgering out."

Here is the gist of the story which has the sport world groggy, same being the observation of one of the "wise boys," as related to Sutherland on the night of the fight.

"Tunney's an honest boy. He thinks right now he actually whipped Jack Dempsey. Say, brother, he couldn't carry a water bucket for the real Dempsey!

"Tunney had nothing to do with what happened tonight. Neither did Tex Rickard know anything about it. The dynamite boys wouldn't have to do business with them if they wanted to frame the thing. Tunney's a fair, second rate orthodox boxer. He never had an original idea in his life. He stands up there straight, leads with his left and crosses with his right. He can't hit; he can't box; he can't outgeneral anybody. Just a big, honest, likable, second-rate boob. Little Joe Walcott would stop him quicker'n he did Joe Choynski.

BIG MONEY BET

"Well, let's look at Chicago for an example. On the morning of the fight—by sunrise yesterday—Pope and his gang had more than one-half million dollars bet on Tunney. They maced the odds down from 3 to 3 1-2 to 1 on Dempsey, to 7 to 5. And they laid it all.

"From noon yesterday until the first gong rang there were enough banknotes right here in Philly to place on Tunney that if you'd sewed 'em all together they'da made an numbrella big enough to cover the stadium tonight against that rain. And I happen to know that hundreds and hundreds of thousands of dollars were shot to soft spots all over the country to bet on Tunney — Denver, San Francisco, Boston, Baltimore, Montreal, New Orleans, Atlanta, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Seattle, Dallas and Los Angeles, where they took the movie crowd good.

"That was the money, buddie, surething jack; mazuma that never rides on a loser, any more'n it was on a loser when the White Sox turned black. And if the gamblers 'ud do business with eight or nine lame-brained boobs, in baseball uniforms, any one of whom 'd talk and most of whom did, what reluctance do you 'magine these wise eggs would feel in doing business with a man from their own depths, from the underworld, a man like Dempsey, who never talks?"

MASON KICKS TIGERS INTO STATE FINAL

Three Field Goals in Last Period Gives Waco 9-0 Win

MARSHALL, Dec. 10.(AP)—The trained toe of Weldon Mason of the Waco Tigers kicked his football team into the state interscholastic league finals here today. Marshall was eliminated 9 to 0.

Three times Mason's toe propelled the ball over the cross bars for perfect place kicks, one of each from the 23-yard line, the 17-yard line and the 42-yard line.

Strong Defenses.

For three quarters the game was a kicking duel, and then in the final quarter it became something of a kicking monologue, with Mason doing all the successful kicking.

Both teams put us as stubborn a defense as was ever witnessed in this part of the state. Neither could pierce the other's forward wall to advantage.

Mason, Meadows and Meroney in the backfield and Leyendecker, Pruitt and Henderson on the line, featured for Waco, while Capt. Leonard Clark in the backfield and B. Harris, Woods and Magrill on the line, were the stars for Marshall.

The Tigers registered seven first downs to Marshall's two, both of which were made by Clark, who carried the ball through the line for 11 yards on each try.

TWO-SECOND SHIFT

Southwest Conference Falls in Line With Valley and Big Ten.

The southwest conference Friday adopted a resolution favoring a two-second pause in the football shift play. The Missouri valley and Western conferences have adopted the one-second and a half period.

A general rule was adopted prohibiting the team coach from communicating or interfering in any way with his players except through a substitute, after the team goes on the field. This affects only baseball, as a similar football rule already is in operation.

The faculty members of the conference passed a resolution in favor of allowing institutions of the conference to take out group insurance for athletes to pay hospital fees and medical bills.

REYNOLDS MEETS WINNER OF GORMAN-YAQUI FINISH MATCH

Jack Reynolds, recognized in the east and middle west as the world's welterweight wrestling champion, has agreed to appear in Wichita Falls December 22 against any opponent selected for him, said A. B. Ross, matchmaker, Friday.

Jack Gorman, who has given everything in his weight he has met quite a bit of trouble and who lost on a near-fluke to Yaqui Joe here several weeks ago, will battle the Indian in return match Wednesday, Ross said.

The Gorman-Yaqui affair is to be two falls to a finish. The winner is to tangle with Reynolds.

Trade All But Sisler And O'Neil, Says Dan

New Manager of Browns Ready to Rebuild Team But Intends to Retain Two Veterans

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 10.—Regardless of how Daniel Phillip Howley rearranges the Browns in his first term as a big league manager, he has already decided that George Sisler and Steve O'Neil will serve as the nucleus of his 1927 model.

"I'll consider any other deals for any of the players, but Sisler is going to be my first baseman and O'Neil will be the first string catcher," says the former Toronto pilot, who has signed a three-year contract to handle the destinies of the St. Louis American League club.

Howley, one-time coach for the Detroit Tigers, is the sixth manager to be hired by Magnate P. DeC. Ball since the 1915 season, when Ball transferred his interest from the Federal league to the American league. Fielder Jones, Jimmy Austin, Jimmy Burke, Lee Fohl and Sisler in turn directed the energies of the Browns.

The Fans Want Sisler

"I consider George Sisler one of the greatest of all ball players and certainly see no reason why he should be offered for trade simply because I am succeeding him as manager," says Howley.

"I want Sisler. The club wants Sisler, and the town wants Sisler. He is not on the block.

"Steve O'Neil will be used as a player and not as a coach. Let's get straight on that point. O'Neil caught 136 games with me at Toronto last summer. He was by far the best catcher in the league. Right now I am considering him the first string receiver for the Browns. I am willing to be shown, of course, but I know O'Neil. He is better today than he was with the Indians several years ago. Steve is the greatest of all comebacks in baseball.

O'Neil Refused

"Those two—Sisler and O'Neil —are going to be the foundation of the team. Later I will separate the wheat from the chaff, but the status of Sisler and Steve might as well be established right now."

Sisler, harassed and handicapped by the burden of managerial duties, failed to hit .300 in 1925 for the first time in eight years. His fielding likewise fell off.

When he was relieved of his duties as pilot it was generally expected he would be traded.

But Howley says no. He wants Sisler. What's more, Sisler wants to remain in St. Louis.

O'Neil has turned down the bid of the Toronto owners, who offered him the manager's job to succeed Howley. He also refused an offer from Donie Bush to coach at Pittsburgh.

Hawk Hoopers Stepping Lively

Brewster to Use Four Clubs Against Devol Quintet Tonight

Brewster's Iowa Parkers are stepping spryly these days in preparation for the basketball season drive proper. Coming out of one practice-scrimmage Friday night they go into another Saturday night, playing hosts to the fast Devol quintet that defeated Draughons, 27-11, recently.

Brewster intends to use four teams tonight, so he said Friday. The Hawks have a wealth of material and the coach is finding it a difficult proposition to select a first string five. Six letter men are back in uniform. They are Hal Cheves, guard and co-captain with Filmore, forward; Wigley, center; Enloe, guard and center; Fields, guard; and center and Corder, forward.

F. Doris, at center Spider Cheves, forward; Banks, forward; Sherwood, forward; Smythe and Penn, guards, loom as the class of the new men.

SPORT a la CARTE

BY ROY GROVE

There is no athletic sport today that should receive more praise and mention than soccer. It is a growing game and all the more remarkable in the fact that it has never been ballyhooed over the four corners of the earth.

Soccer is a self-made game, self-interested, and asks for no quarter. Its growth in the past 10 years has been astonishing.

The game is an old sport, originating with the Romans and originally known as associated football. It seems that in this day and age it is something different and a new thrill that calls for the number of fans who turn out for an unsolicited game.

In the days of the Romans the game was primarily designed to see how far one side could get the ball into the next village. There was no limit to the number of players or the casualties. It was just that rough without an ounce of padding.

The English millworkers were the first to design and draw up a certain set of rules governing the sport and as a real game to be played upon certain territory, between goals. This taken the country by storm and now developed into one of the greatest gates counted in any athletic event.

The first real football association to organize on a modern basis was in England in 1885. This was a group planned only for the protection of the amateur.

The soccer attendance in Great Britain is greater than two or sometimes three of our very best best collegiate football games. The soccer crowds for Wemble park, in London, have numbered well over 200,000 while a good crowd in Scotland will add up to 150,000.

Endurance is the success of any sport.

What would we have in the fighting game, track, the modern football game, soccer, if it were not for the staying qualities of the athletes?

Such old men as Thorpe, Cobb, DeMar and Dundee are still active men and one might say they are old, very old, about 40, and still good at the games in which they specialized. Probably all, with the exception of Dundee, and he, although only 30, is about 50 years old wherever the fight age is concerned in boxing.

Several years ago at the London Sporting club the writer had occasion to talk with that little "might of an English champion," Jimmy Wilde. There was a man as foreign to the boxing game as any produced in the old country.

Wilde had no real boxing ability, but he had the staying qualities that made for a champion, and champion he was until he was completely overtaken by old age.

"I can only attribute my boxing career to that advantage of being able to stay right along with the fastest of them," Wilde told the writer.

"If there is an athlete who can take care of himself and work right along without tiring he will be champion of the department in which he specializes.

"The clever and fast man must be content to be clever and fast as long as he can outguess his opponent, but the minute he is slipped into a fast one he becomes confused and cannot take it."

"By endurance I do not only mean the ability to stay a certain length of time with an opponent, but what is really meant is being able to stay up and take a few fast ones on the chin and never notice it.

"Punches are designed to take down the strength of a man whether it is a fast one or a series of continual hitting, will show his endurance to stay up."

The modern collegiate game of football is one of the fastest and greatest tests of endurance outside of boxing. The player receives practically the same treatment as he would in the ring except for a directed punch to the chin.

DOWN ON PROS

Southwest Conferences Turn Down Money-Making Boys.

The Southwest conference Friday adopted a resolution expressing regret that professional football is invading this section.

Another resolution was adopted that no coach or official connected with professional football games for money considerations would be allowed to officiate in any southwest conference games.

KEEP YOUR FEET STILL

Doc Says Pedals Shouldn't Move After Hitting Golf Ball

LONDON, Dec. 10. (AP)—Dr. Robert Blakoe, claims to have developed a scientific method of hitting a golf ball without moving the feet.

He thinks the modern style is all wrong and has developed a theory of play that is revolutionary. Both feet must be planted firmly on the ground throughout a stroke, in his system. All waist and trunk muscles are employed.

FROGS CRACK DOWN

Bell Shoves T. C. U. Goalers Through Stiff Work Session.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 10.(AP)—Texas Christian University's Horned Frogs took their first hard workout on the basket ball court Friday afternoon. Coach Matty Bell driving them through two hours of scrimmage and formation practice. The varsity squad has grown to 15 and 12 of them were in the workout Friday.

The latest addition to the squad is Cicero "Scarry" Easton from Lindale. Easton is a forward with a good eye for the basket. He weighs only 135 pounds but is expected to gain weight before the season begins. He played one year at Lindale and before that was on the high school five at Tyler two years.

Practice at goal shooting and passing today was followed with a session of defenrive and attacking work.

Leopards Ready For Grid Affray

Cliffers Arrive in Ranger On Eve of Semi-Final Battle

RANGER, Dec. 10. (AP)—The Oak Cliff high school football team from Dallas arrived here this afternoon in good shape for their game here tomorrow with the Ranger Bulldogs. The contest will determine which of the two will have the honor of battling the Waco Tigers for the state championship.

Coach Howard Allen said his warriors were in good condition after the trip from Dallas, but he did not plan to give them any workout until just before the game. The team was met at the station by a special committee and escorted to its hotel where it will remain until a short time before the game starts at 2:30 p. m.

Predictions are that Nitro Park, which seats 10,000 will be more than full, as delegations of fans are coming from all nearby cities, and Dallas is expected to send a large crowd tomorrow to see her favorite high school gladiators in action.

Clear, crisp weather was in prospect.

RAGS COPS TROPHY

FORT WORTH, Dec. 10.(AP)—Raymond "Rags" Matthews, fighting end on the T. C. U. Horned Frog football eleven the past season and unanimous selection as all-Southwestern wingman, was awarded the Dan Roger's trophy as the most valuable player on the Frog team in 1926 at a banquet Thursday night.

HOBSON TALKS AT C-C MEET

Prohibition Speaker Tells Of Menace Presented By Alcohol

This country is fighting for its life, and the fight is far more serious than any ever fought with arms. Law is going to prove utterly inadequate, and the great opportunity now is education to make 100 per cent for youth and as much as can be for the adult, declared Capt. Richard Pearson Hobson, hero of the Spanish-American war, who spoke to the joint meeting of the Wichita Falls Ministerial alliance and their guests and the business council of the chamber of commerce at the Kemp Friday at noon. He discussed the tremendous influence of alcohol and narcotics in America today. Rev. S. A. Barnes introduced the speaker.

He showed what had been found out about alcohol in a scientific study of it and then he discussed a new poison. "The herbs behind a commodity is in proportion to its profits. It is figured that alcohol had 100 per cent profits behind it. As for heroin the profit on the drug is 10,000 per cent. Heroin was discovered in Germany in 1898. Ten ounces of alcohol will kill three men, and 10 ounces of heroin will kill 3000 men," the speaker pointed out to show the influence of the drug, and he gave a vivid description of how the youthful addicts become enslaved.

"Scientific men who have studied the youthful heroin addicts say they have a constant urge to create the habit in others. It becomes a galloping disease and America is now in its grip. When any trouble brews the natural impulse of the average man is to turn to the law for protection. In the drug smuggling trade, the profits are so enormous that the law is impotent.

"New York state, which repealed a law upholding the eighteenth amendment recently, also repealed an anti-narcotic law at the same time.

"It is a question of education more than of law, for law is utterly inadequate. It is impossible to cure the heroin addict, and he soon becomes sterile. Sixty per cent of all the inmates in New York City jails are drug addicts, according to official statements. During the five years between 1920-1925, the number of narcotic cases increased 500 per cent.

"The International Narcotic Educational association, of which I am president, will ask congress and the senate to establish a United States college of narcotic education and a corps of men with the pay of army officers who will fight to eliminate the menace of drugs through education."

Speaking of Radio—Look at This! Local Dealers Have Lavish Displays

An inquisitive reporter with a scientific bent for radio, wandering through the Fritz Motor company building last night ran onto a radio line-up that looked about as follows:

Wichita Music

The Wichita Music company has the largest display in point of numbers at the radio show, having 14 sets of three makes and featuring a 10-tube Zenith DeLuxe. This set has several novel features. Wiring is made with gold plated copper wire. The set is equipped with two speakers to handle high and low notes. Operation is controlled with one dial. Outside aerial, Cunningham tubes and battery eliminators are used. A super-Zenith and several smaller models were shown.

Four models of Stewart-Warner one-dial control sets are displayed. They are of either four or five tubes with matched units.

Several late models of Atwater-Kent sets are exhibited, model numbers 35; 20; 30; 16-30, and 19-30, the last two mounted in Pooley cabinets.

The first Atwater Kent set was shipped from the factory in November, 1922, and the one millionth set was assembled December 3, 1926, it was said last night.

Bailey Moline

The Bailey-Moline Hardware company displayed Radiolas and Crosley sets. Showing models 25 with 6 tubes; 28 with 8 tubes; 20 with 5 tubes and 30 using 8 tubes and battery elimnator. All models of Radiolas are controlled with two dials and loop aerial.

A Crosley 5-50 using 5 tubes and controlled with one dial is also displayed. A model 90 will be displayed Saturday night. It is one of the latest in hook-ups using the new R. F. L. circuit. This type is a non-regenerative one.

The Air-Way, a six tube set, was featured by the Auto Spring and Supply company. It is a six tube set using one stage of radio frequency amplification and four stages of resistance coupled amplification and is controlled with two vernier dials.

Five models were on display, 61; 62; 858-61; 206-61, and 207-61. Various styles of cabinets are being shown. Plate and filament voltage may be supplied by either battery or eliminator. Outside aerial is used and all waves between 185 and 550 meters are covered.

Phonograph Shop

Three eight-tube radiolas are shown by the Phonograph shop as well as the Brunskick Panatrope in the radio show. The sets are built in the same cabinet with a Brunswick machine. All three are controlled with two dials and equipped with battery eliminators.

The Radio Corporation of America is the largest manufacturer of radio apparatus in the country and makes every part that goes into the machines, it was said by demonstrators last night. This is one of the few companies that makes all of their own parts.

Landon-Hill

Landon-Hill at the radio show is showing A-C Dayton sets, having three models on display. Five sets of the cabinet and console types are equipped with Perryman tubes and battery eliminator. Models XL-20 and XL-25 are five-tube two-dial sets using outside aerial.

ing two plays to be given at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and another performance in the evening.

Plenty To See

The throngs that jammed the buildings had plenty to see. The structure itself was worth examining. Hundreds were shown through all floors and the various functions of each department of a modern automobile sales and service institution explained. The Marmon and Reo exhibit, also, attracted a large amount of attention. This was a miniature auto show all in itself.

In the main sales room were the booths and concession stands operated by the Forum and at which all manner of delicacies were sold. Refreshments were plentiful and there was even an Egyptian fortune teller on hand to lure away the curious.

D. L. and F. W. Fritz, comprising the Fritz Motor company, Inc., were the recipients of many expressions of congratulation on their enterprise in putting up the handsome new building.

Saturday will bring a renewal of all departments of the show. The radio exhibits will be on hand as will be the automobiles and the extensive floral displays arranged by the Forum.

An attractive program of music and addresses is also on the tapis.

OLD HOMESTEAD SEATS SELLING

Reservations Going Well For Play to Be Given Here Monday

Reservations for "The Old Homestead" are going rapidly, A. K. Presson, president of the City Teachers association, which is sponsoring the performance here Monday night, stated Friday. He expressed the hope that, going on the basis of early interest in seat sales, the project of the city teachers in bringing here numbers of high rank at popular prices would be sufficiently supported to meet with success.

All seats in the Junior college auditorium, where the play is to be presented, have been reserved, thus assuring as high type of order in the audience as in downtown programs. A block of special seats in the center of the first floor and in the first balcony have been set aside as a special section, at general admission plus 25 cents. All other seats in the house are reserved at the general admission prices of 50 and 75 cents.

Orders for reservations may be secured at the college building or may be phoned in to Registrar A. K. Presson at 6116 Saturday morning till 12 o'clock, or Monday all day, or may be secured at the door Monday night beginning at 7 o'clock.

HOBSON TALKS AT C-C MEET

This country is fighting for its life, and the fight is far more serious than any ever fought with arms. Law is going to prove utterly inadequate, and the great opportunity now is education to make 100 per cent for youth and as much as can be for the adult, declared Capt. Richard Pearson Hobson, hero of the Spanish-American war, who spoke to the joint meeting of the Wichita Falls Ministerial alliance and their guests and the business council of the chamber of commerce at the Kemp Friday at noon. He discussed the tremendous influence of alcohol and narcotics in America today. Rev. S. A. Barnes introduced the speaker.

He showed what had been found out about alcohol in a scientific study of it and then he discussed a new poison. "The herbs behind a commodity is in proportion to its profits. It is figured that alcohol had 100 per cent profits behind it. As for heroin the profit on the drug is 10,000 per cent. Heroin was discovered in Germany in 1898. Ten ounces of alcohol will kill three men, and 10 ounces of heroin will kill 3000 men," the speaker pointed out to show the influence of the drug, and he gave a vivid description of how the youthful addicts become enslaved. "Scientific men who have studied the youthful heroin addicts say they have a constant urge to create the habit in others. It becomes a galloping disease and America is now in its grip. When any trouble brews the natural impulse of the average man is to turn to the law for protection. In the drug smuggling trade, the profits are so enormous that the law is impotent.

"New York state, which repealed a law upholding the eighteenth amendment recently, also repealed an anti-narcotic law at the same time.

"It is a question of education more than of law, for law is utterly inadequate. It is impossible to cure the heroin addict, and he soon becomes sterile. Sixty per cent of all the inmates in New York City jails are drug addicts, according to official statements. During the five years between 1920-1925, the number of narcotic cases increased 500 per cent.

"The International Narcotic Educational association, of which I am president, will ask congress and the senate to establish a United States college of narcotic education and a corps of men with the pay of army officers who will fight to eliminate the menace of drugs through education."

Speaking of Radio—Look at This! Local Dealers Have Lavish Displays

An inquisitive reporter with a scientific bent for radio, wandering through the Fritz Motor company building last night ran onto a radio line-up that looked about as follows:

Wichita Music

The Wichita Music company has the largest display in point of numbers at the radio show, having 14 sets of three makes and featuring a 10-tube Zenith DeLuxe. This set has several novel features. Wiring is made with gold plated copper wire. The set is equipped with two speakers to handle high and low notes. Operation is controlled with one dial. Outside aerial, Cunningham tubes and battery eliminators are used. A super-Zenith and several smaller models were shown.

Four models of Stewart-Warner one-dial control sets are displayed. They are of either four or five tubes with matched units.

Several late models of Atwater-Kent sets are exhibited, model numbers 25; 20; 30; 16-30, and 19-30, the last two mounted in Pooley cabinets.

The first Atwater Kent set was shipped from the factory in November, 1922, and the one millionth set was assembled December 3, 1926, it was said last night.

Bailey Moline

The Bailey-Moline Hardware company displayed Radiolas and Crosley sets. Showing models 25 with 6 tubes; 28 with 8 tubes; 20 with 5 tubes and 30 using 8 tubes and battery eliminator. All models of Radiolas are controlled with two dials and loop aerial.

A Crosley 5-50 using 5 tubes and controlled with one dial is also displayed. A model 90 will be displayed Saturday night. It is one of the latest in hook-ups using the new R. F. L. circuit. This type is a non-regenerative one.

The Air-Way, a six tube set, was featured by the Auto Spring and Supply company. It is a six tube set using one stage of radio frequency amplification and four stages of resistance coupled amplification and is controlled with two vernier dials.

Five models were on display, 61; 62; 858-61; 206-61, and 207-61. Various styles of cabinets are being shown. Plate and filament voltage may be supplied by either battery or eliminator. Outside aerial is used and all waves between 185 and 550 meters are covered.

Phonograph Shop

Three eight-tube radiolas are shown by the Phonograph shop as well as the Brunskick Panatrope in the radio show. The sets are built in the same cabinet with a Brunswick machine. All three are controlled with two dials and equipped with battery eliminators.

The Radio Corporation of America is the largest manufacturer of radio apparatus in the country and makes every part that goes into the machines, it was said by demonstrators last night. This is one of the few companies that makes all of their own parts.

Landon-Hill

Landon-Hill at the radio show is showing A-C Dayton sets, having three models on display. Five sets of the cabinet and console types are equipped with Perryman tubes and battery eliminator. Models XL-20 and XL-25 are five-tube two-dial sets using outside aerial.

Model XL-30 used six tubes, two-dial control and outside aerial is shown in two styles of cabinets.

Fritz Fete

ing two plays to be given at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and another performance in the evening.

Plenty To See

The throngs that jammed the buildings had plenty to see. The structure itself was worth examining. Hundreds were shown through all floors and the various functions of each department of a modern automobile sales and service institution explained. The Marmon and Reo exhibit, also, attracted a large amount of attention. This was a miniature auto show all in itself.

In the main sales room were the booths and concession stands operated by the Forum and at which all manner of delicacies were sold. Refreshments were plentiful and there was even an Egyptian fortune teller on hand to lure away the curious.

D. L. and F. W. Fritz, comprising the Fritz Motor company, Inc., were the recipients of many expressions of congratulation on their enterprise in putting up the handsome new building.

Saturday will bring a renewal of all departments of the show. The radio exhibits will be on hand as will be the automobiles and the extensive floral displays arranged by the Forum.

An attractive program of music and addresses is also on the taps.

NEW THEATER OPENS TODAY

Monroe Street Neighborhood House to Be Run By H. N. Roberts

A new neighborhood theater for Wichita Falls opens Saturday at 1519 Monroe street. It is to be known as the Monroe theater.

H. N. Roberts, formerly with the Wichita Falls and Southern railroad, is the owner and will take full management of the house. The place is handsomely appointed and finished with the latest and most modern conveniences. A run of high-class pictures with the usual accompaniment of comedy and news reel pictures will be shown.

The theater is housed in the new Monroe street building at the intersection of Monroe and Avenue H. It becomes an important new unit in the business section that has grown up rapidly at that corner.

LABORER DIES

Ike Perkins, 55, Succumbs To Attack.

The body of Ike Perkins, 55, track worker for the Wichita Falls and Southern railway who died suddenly Friday morning near the Wichita Motors factory is being held at the Merkle undertaking company pending word from a brother at Indianapolis.

Perkins was waiting for a street car when he fell. Passersby found him unconscious and he died without regaining his faculties. An inquest was held by Judge R. V. Gwinn who announced that death was the result of natural causes.

He had been to the Wichita Falls and Southern roundhouse for his pay check and was waiting for the street car to return to town when he was stricken.

ATTORNEYS LEAVE

Britain and Ogle Go To Austin Conference.

A. H. Britain, attorney of Wichita Falls and vice-president of the Texas Bar association and J. R. Ogle, also an attorney and a member of the committee of the commercial law league of America, left Friday for Austin legal associations. The Texas State Bar association, the national conference of commissions on uniform state laws, this being a branch of the American Bar association, and the commercial law league of America will hold join sessions in the capital Saturday.

Legal needs of Texas will be discussed in some detail and it is probable some recommendations will be submittted for changes in the law codes of the state.

A banquet will be given Saturday night at the Austin hotel with the Travis County Bar association as host and all the visitors as guests.

BORGER REBUILDS

BORGER, Texas, Dec. 10. (AP) Workers are today removing debris from the business block laid in ruins by Wednesday night's fire. Rebuilding will start immediately. A rigid ordinance passed at a special meeting of the city commission Thursday will prohibit frame and kindred construction in the flame-swept block.

OLD HOMESTEAD SEATS SELLING

Reservations for "The Old Homestead" are going rapidly, A. K. Presson, president of the City Teachers association, which is sponsoring the performance here Monday night, stated Friday. He expressed the hope that, going on the basis of early interest in seat sales, the project of the city teachers in bringing here numbers of high rank at popular prices would be sufficiently supported to meet with success.

All seats in the Junior college auditorium, where the play is to be presented, have been reserved, thus assuring as high type of order in the audience as in downtown programs. A block of special seats in the center of the first floor and in the first balcony have been set aside as a special section, at general admission plus 25 cents. All other seats in the house are reserved at the general admission prices of 50 and 75 cents.

Orders for reservations may be secured at the college building or may be phoned in to Registrar A. K. Presson at 6116 Saturday morning till 12 o'clock, or Monday all day, or may be secured at the door Monday night beginning at 7 o'clock.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.(AP)—The cotton market was rather quieter today and price fluctuations were narrow and showed a lack of definite trend. After opening six to seven points upon lower cables than due, prices continued to ease off in the early trading until they showed losses of nine to ten points fro mthe previous close, the decline being due to some selling on prospects of better weather in the western belt. Prices rallied later in the morning owing to a demand for near position from spot interests which carried the whole list up in sympathy and prices made highs 11 to 14 points above the early lows and one to five points above the previous close. After easing off about five to six points near noon on disappointing mill takings of only 365,000 bales, the market rallied again in the early afternoon, duplicating the highs of the morning on absence of hedge selling and scarcity of contracts. The market turned easier again in the last hour on selling and prices eased off eight to 10 points from the highs, but closed steady at net declines for the day of four to eight points.

Liverpool was four to six penny points lower than due at the opening and first trades here were six to seven points down. Prices soon eased off further, December dropping to 11.80, January 11.70 and March 11.92, or nine to ten points below the previous close.

Later in the morning prices rallied, December advancing to 11.91, January 11.93 and March 12.06 or 11 to 14 points up from the lows to new highs. Following a recession of five to six points around noon the market again rallied to the highs of the morning in the early afternoon. Later in the afternoon however, prices eased off again, closing a little above the lows.

Exports for the day totalled 49,872 bales, and for the week 217,043 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.(AP)—The cotton market was quiet again today with prices sensitive to comparatively small orders either way. After selling off to 11.77 early, January rallied to 11.87, but eased off again, closing at 11.78, the general market closing steady at net declines of three to nine points.

The opening was easy at a decline of five to 11 points under southern hedging, combined with local selling inspired by relatively easy Liverpool cables. Houses with Liverpool connections also were considerable sellers here, and the market worked off to 11.21 for May contracts in early trading. There was some trade buying and covering on this decline with reports that buying orders were being received from China and Bombay and the market steadied up during midday.

Reports of unfavorable weather in the south, suggesting further damage to grades or increasing apprehensions that some of the cotton yet unpicked would be abandoned in the fields was doubt contributed to the rally. Offerings were very light after the early selling had been absorbed and comparatively small buying orders were sufficient to send prices up to 12.21 for December and 12.38 for May during the early afternoon. This bulge seemed to attract realizing, also a little more southern and Wall Street selling late in the afternoon. Most of the more active positions reached the lowest prices of the day in late trading, January selling off to 11.75.

Private cables said the decline in Liverpool had been due to hedge selling and reported a bearish sentiment in Manchester owing to a poor cloth demand.

The week-end figures came in for some bearish comment as the world's takings of American were placed at only 471,784 bales for the week, against 515,198 last year, but it was pointed out the increase in the world's visible supply of American was smaller than the previous week, and that the into-sight movement was falling off.

Exports today 48,872, making 4,880,724 so far this season. Port receipts 58,385; U. S. port stocks 2,967,228.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.(AP)—With North American export clearances this week the smallest in some time and with estimates of the Argentine exportable surplus enlarged, wheat values dropped today. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 1c to 1¾c net lower, corn ¼@⅝c to ⅝c down, oats ¼@¼ to ¼c up and provisions unchanged to 7c decline.

Colder weather expected to bring about larger receipts of corn tended to weaken the corn market.

Oats met with a good class of buying, and turned strong in the late trading.

Provisions were responsive to weakness both of hog values and of corn.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 10.(AP)—Cash wheat on the Fort Worth market Friday showed a reduction of about one cent in value, largely in sympathy with the contract markets, though demand for export grain was reported very good.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.(AP)—Stock prices continued to move ahead today under the leadership of the high priced industrial specialties. Trading showed a marked expansion involume, but appeared to be dominated largely by professional operators. An unexpectedly large increase of over 122,000 tons in the November unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation, easy money rates and favorable trade news furnished the main impetus for the advance.

Rails as a group, gave an even more impressive demonstration of strength than the industrials with rumors of higher dividends and "buying for control" fanning the speculative flame in those issues. The average of 20 leading railroad shares advanced 1¾ points to within ⅝ points of the year's high, while the average of 20 yeading industrial shares was only slightly more than a point from the record top established in September.

U. S. Steel common changed hands in rather large blocks at times, but closed only fractionally higher at 151½. Baldwin closed 2¾ points higher at 151 after selling nearly a point above that figure.

Spirited biddling for International Harvester carried that issue up over six points to a new record top at 153¼, but it slid back to 153¾ at the close. Among the many other issues to break into new high ground were; Crucible Steel, South Porto Rican Sugar, General Motors 7 per cent preferred, American Railway Express and Owens Bottle.

Revival of strength and activity in the packing company shares, based on reports of steady improvement in that industry was one of the features of the session. Wilson company preferred soared nearly six points to a new top at 78½ and the Armour issues and Cudahy showed substantial fraction net gains.

In the railroad group, Perre Marquette, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, and Lehigh Valley established new high levels for all time.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent, and held steady at that figure all day although concessions below the official rate were reported in the "outside market." Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges displayed a slightly easier tone, with demand sterling and French francs holding fairly steady around $4.84¾ and 3.90, respectively.

DRYS WIN IN HOUSE FIGHT

$30,000,000 Voted to Help Federal Enforcement Of Dry Law

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP)—Prohibition won a runaway fight today with house wets, who sought to check enforcement activities by depriving the prohibition unit of its annual appropriation.

When the fight, led by Massachusetts and New York wets, had died down the house passed the treasury-postoffice appropriation bill with its nearly $30,000,000 for enforcement by various agencies intact.

The wets scored one victory, however, when on a point of order they eliminated a section which would have set aside $500,000 for advances to "'under cover" agents, with no provision for accounting before expenditure. It was offered by Representative LaGuardia, Republican, New York, and was unopposed by Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee.

LaGuardia made the point that such a fund would be contrary to existing law.

War Pensions Bill

With passage of the bill, which appropriates $127,371,000 for the treasury and $755,483,000 for the postoffice department, the house had before it the second supply bill that for the interior department totaling $259,886,000 of which $222,708,000 is for payment of civil and Spanish war pensions, it was reported today.

The first effort to cripple enforcement by the prohibition unit came from Representative Gallivan, Democrat, Massachusetts, who declared the unit was incapable of enforcing the law.

Asserting he had no objection to giving money to other enforcement agencies, Mr. Gallivan offered an amendment to eliminate the nearly $12,000,000 for the prohibition unit. That and two other Gallivan amendments which would have accomplished the same end were snowed under in a vote that brought to their feet only wet members of the Massachusetts and New York delegations to support Gallivan.

Madden Differs

His first amendment was attacked by Chairman Madden as "unworthy" of the Massachusetts member. Mr. Madden explained that he had voted against the prohibition law and the Volstead act, but that so long as they were on the statute books he would continue to vote for funds to enforce them.

The fight drew a number of old combatants in the long prohibition fight in the arena, including Representative Cramton, Republican, Michigan, and Upshaw, Democrat, Georgia, dry spokesmen, and Representative Hill, wet Republican from Maryland. Hill and Gallivan exchanged stinging retorts with the Georgian and Gallivan engaged Cramton in a wordy duel that angered both while it amused the house.

Cramton aroused Mr. Gallivan when he declared the wet advocate's speech of yesterday in which he linked prohibition with religious issues in Mexico had embarrassed his Democratic colleagues, many of whom, he said, had "disavowed it." Immediately Gallivan replied that when two years ago he had asked members who drank, but voted as directed by the Anti-Saloon league, to raise their hands, Mr. Cramton was the only one to respond. The Michigan representative charged Gallivan with misusing a humorous situation that resulted from his misunderstanding of the question and asserted that he did not use liquor.

Smith Mentioned

Mr. Cramton brought Governor Smith of New York into the discussion when he said he wondered if he is a member of the wet board of strategy and whether it is in Tammany hall.

He said he did not believe, however, that Governor Smith is prepared to go before the country, not only as a wet candidate for president, but as the candidate of the wets who are opposed to the enforcement of the law; and the attitude of Tammany on this floor today places him before the court as that kind of a candidate."

GERMANS GAIN IN CONFERENCE

Problem of Allied Military Removal Discussed At Geneva

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 10. (AP)—Satisfactory progress was reported after a conference of leading statesmen today on the problem of replacing interallied control of Germany's armaments with supervision by the League of Nations.

The conference was attended by Dr. Stresemann, German foreign minister; Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary; Foreign Minister Briand of France; Foreign Minister Vandervelde of Belgium; Signor Scialoia, representing Premier Mussolini of Italy, and Viscount Ishii of Japan.

An official communique after reporting progress said the conferees would await a further report from the conference of ambassadors meeting in Paris today, and that they themselves would re-assemble tomorrow morning.

Both M. Briand and Dr. Stresemann voiced optimism upon emerging from the conference room, the French statesman adding: "I hope we finish soon. There is too much wind in this town."

Several points regarding fulfillment of Germany's disarmament obligations remain to be cleared up. Dr. Stresemann gave new assurances, but it remains to be seen whether the conference of ambassadors and especially the allied military experts will be satisfied.

NEW MAJESTIC, CITY'S FINEST THEATRE, OPENS TO PUBLIC TODAY

GALA SHOWING PROMISED FOR INITIAL NIGHT

"Bardleys the Magnificient" To Be Feature Attraction Here Saturday

The newest and finest unit in Wichita Falls' system of theaters will open with a flourish Saturday when the new Majestic, formerly the old Palace, puts on its first de luxe performance. "Bardelys, the Magnificent," will be the cinema attraction.

In rebuilding and refurnishing the old Palace and converting it into the new Majestic at heavy expense, executives of Dent Theaters, Inc., have been actuated by a belief that Wichita Falls can support and is ready for another high-grade theater. They propose in the operation of the Majestic to give the city just that — a play house where only the best of the film world's offerings will be given.

The theater as it has come from the hands of the builders is a thing of beauty. No expense has been spared in making it one of the most handsome and attractive play houses in all North Texas. Tasteful decorating, the most modern and up-to-date equipment and musical arrangements of the best will make it an inviting place from all standpoints.

Officials of the Dent theaters and those attached to other theatrical enterprises of the state will be in Wichita Falls for the gala opening.

No Reservations For First Show

Majestic Policy Will Be Adhered to From Initial Night

"As the house is to be operated, so will it be opened," said Leon H. Grandjean, special representative of the Dent theaters, who is here for the opening of the new Majestic theater which will be formally opened Saturday night. "There will be no reserved seats. The policy of the house will be one of continuous performances whether de luxe motion picture presentations or vaudeville and picture bills are being offered," he said.

The first show will be given at the new Majestic, on the site of the old Palace theater on Scott avenue, this evening. One performance will be given in connection with the dedicatory exercises at 8:30 o'clock.

Tickets for the opening have been on sale during the week, and those left unsold will be at the box-office Saturday, it was announced.

"Bardelys the Magnificent" To Be Open Presentation At New Majestic

"Bardelys, the Magnificent," is the picture that will be shown in the opening performance of the new Majestic theater Saturday night on Scott avenue, where one of the finest theaters of the southwest is just completed. The story is made up of a cast and a theme that is quite worthy to be the feature the opening of the magnificent new theater.

John Gilbert and Eleanor Boardman are the stars in the King Vidor production, and they are assisted in this entertaining Sabatini story by Roy D'Arcy, Karl Dane, Lionel Belmore, George K. Arthur and others.

A synopsis of the story follows:

King Louis XIII of France sends Chatellerault to win Roxalanne de Lavedan, honing thus to keep the girl's fortune within the kingdom, also change her father's political views.

When Chatellerault reports that Roxalanne is independent and unapproachable, Bardelys wagers his entire estate against Chatellerault's that he will capture the girl within three months.

On the way to the de Lavedan home, Bardelys finds a man dying from an assault and is given by him a miniature of a woman and some letters bearing the name of Rene de Lesperon.

Taking the name Lesperon as a disguise, Bardelys finds out at an inn that Lesperon is sought as a traitor.

He rushes away from pursuit, seeks shelter on the de Lavedan estate and enters a room, Roxalanne's. Showing her a wound he received in the chase, he tells her he is Lesperon. She is frightened, but fascinated. He makes love to her.

After another suitor, St. Eustache, warns Roxalanne that Lesperon is engaged to Mlle. Mersac, Bardelys is taken prisoner under the identity of the dead man.

Denied his request to go to Toulouse, where he is known, for trial, Bardelys is brought before Chatellerault, who repudiates him and sentences him to hang. He is led to the scaffold, as King Louis approaches.

At the crucial moment, Bardelys cuts the rope binding his hands and, leaping at the noose, swings himself over the heads of the guards and reaches the king's coach. Louis orders the refugee shot, but when Bardelys prepares to die courageously the king pardons him.

Meanwhile Roxalanne has married Chatellerault in an effort to save Bardelys' life. Bardelys challenges him to a duel. Chatellerault is killed, and Bardelys and Roxalanne receive the blessing of the king.

1927 Budget of $65,000 Is Still Short by About $25,000

An open appeal to Wichita Falls to get behind the 1927 community chest campaign with a will was issued Friday by campaign officials.

With this appeal having gone out, a follow-up committee appointed Thursday to comb the city again in the interests of the campaign will meet at the chamber of commerce offices Saturday to discuss plans for the work. Lists will be supplied the committeemen of all subscribers to the campaign, and those who are deemed to have fallen down thus far will be called on the chest matter presented to them fully in hopes that additional subscriptions can be obtained.

The committee is composed of the most prominent and influential bankers and business men in the city.

Divorce Goes To This Man's Head

Or Maybe It Was Wine He Sipped When He Celebrates

Day Jr., who is a son of a wealthy Chicago insurance man and who only yesterday was granted a divorce from Bernice Lunstrom Day, who threw acid in his face. The young woman is serving a one to 14-year sentence in the San Quentin, Calif., penitentiary.

Day, who was granted a jury trial, said he had been celebrating the legal separation from his wife when he was arrested early today after an argument with a taxicab driver.

THERE IS MONEY IN WHEAT

THERE must be money in wheat. William D. Meyer, who has a farm near Spearman, admits there is money in wheat. He purchased 102 acres of land for $25.50 per acre, with $1.00 down as cash payment, planted it all in wheat and made enough from the crop to pay for the land, a Buick sedan, an overland trip to California and has $622 left in the bank to live on this winter.

He made a contract with the former owner of the land to plant it in wheat for a period of 10 years, and after deducting the expense of operations, he was to pay the remainder on the land, including principal, interest and taxes, and if the land was not paid out in the 10-year period, it was to revert to the original owner.

This land was all in cultivation and Meyer planted it all in what, according to the contract. His harvest yielded an average of 58 bushels to the acre which he sold for an average of $1.00 per bushel. Farmer Meyer threshed 5910 bushels sold for $6447.44.

This happened in the great southwest. It happened in the socalled wheat belt of the southwest. It happened out in what is known as the open spaces. Now why should farmers of the middlewest go to Canada? Why should they go to the mountain states of the northwest?

Why shouldn't they come to Texas. Really what Texas needs is a nation-wide advertising campaign of its resources and possibilities with a million dollars as a starter to tell it to the people of the federal union.

THE SAME OLD QUESTION

THE long debated question as to when a man should remove his hat in an elevator, and when he need not do so, may be solved by the ladies, who are the cause of the masculine dilemma in the first place. Women engaged in business in New York have let it emphatically be known that they neither expect nor want men to remove their hats in the elevators of office buildings, simply because women happen to be passengers with them. The more advanced business women of today are endeavoring to remove every barrier which they consider a handicap to them because of their sex. They have noticed the reluctance with which some men have doffed their chapeaux and prefer that they leave them on.

The modern business woman is asking no favors. All she wants is a fair field. She does not consider it an insult to ride in an elevator with men having their hats on any more than she would consider it an insult to ride in a street car or railroad train in similar circumstances. Men, on their part, always want to be polite but do not want to appear foolish. Therefore if one man removes his hat in a business elevator, practically all of the other men will follow suit.

The custom of hat removing prevails more in the south and far west than in the east or middle west. Therefore it is largely a matter to be dealt with sectionally, although most women everywhere will admit their sisters in New York are on the right track.

Elevators in hotels and apartment houses are a trifle more difficult to deal with. In business elevators meetings are entirely casual and fleeting. In hotel and apartment elevators men and women meet more as friends and neighbors and here the courtesy of removing the hat would seem to be just as appropriate as removing it in the drawing room.

HOW ALABAMA VOTED

GOV. W. W. BRANDON, "Alabama casts 24 votes for the member of our hunting party, who admitted the ownership of the 12 quarts of whiskey in camp which he had carried to the camp without the knowledge of other members of the party and, on a plea of guilty, gracefully accepted a fine of $250. All huntsmen must stand together."

Governor Brandon of Alabama has his enemies. One of the tribe was given a tip there was whiskey concealed in the camp. "I'll get Brandon," he chuckled, "or his black servant." He tipped it off and the raid was made. Well, he didn't get Brandon or his black servant.

There are framers in the political game, and they are ever on the trail. Men continue to be men in these blithesome days. There are hundreds of hunting parties every year in Alabama. There are moonshine stills in the mountains of Alabama, and wherever there is a hunting party there is a moonshiner who is close to some members of the part.

This isn't an item from the school of hypocrisy. It is a bald fact and a vast majority of the hunters of America know it.

LYRICS OF LIFE

BY DOUGLAS MALLOCH

SOMEONE'S GOING AWAY

Someone's going to leave us,
Someone's going away—
Just can't think of anything
But that the livelong day,
Someone's going to journey,
Someone's packed to go—
And that's about as awful news
As anyone could know.

Someone's going to wander,
Someone that we love,
That's the thing the livelong day
That we are thinking of.
Someone's going to travel
Away from us awhile,
And it's hard to say goodbye
And say it with a smile.

Someone's going to leave us,
Someone that we'll miss,
But we hope there'll be a time,
A better time than this.
Someone will be coming
Back to us some day—
That's the only thing that helps
When someone's going away.

TIME AND THE TIDE

"THOSE CRAZY AMERICANS"

"I could be bounded in a nut-shell, and count myself a king of infinite space." No American ever said that. Only the Melancholy Dane, a certain Mr. Hamlet was equal to such mock heroic humanity.

Those that glory in a crust of bread, a glass of water, old clothes, do not live in America. It is not the necessities of life that Americans are after; we demand the luxuries, the diamonds, pearls, palaces, gilded pleasures, world without end.

We are not lashed by our necessities, but by our extravagances. But in the meantime, to indulge our fads and fancies, we are doing great works, building railroads, reclaiming desert lands, fighting germ-diseases, killing rats and other pests, conquering the air, the sea, raising better grades of hogs, turning out faster locomotives, and rebuilding the slums into parks.

All these wonders, and hundreds more keep us very busy, night and day. Ambition drives us to excess, but on top of that a certain softheadedness, such as got us into the war, makes us burden ourselves with every problem under the sun. Not only do we have our own very exacting work at home, but we destroy our peace of mind by worrying over the starving populations of the Far East, the sleeping sickness that seizes the savages in African swamps, the wars in China, not to forget the latest styles of the Prince of Wales.

"Those crazy Americans," the French call us.

And for a fact, "the whole, the boundless universe" claims the immediate, daily and tireless attention of the overburdened American, who thus far has never taken and never will adopt Mr. Hamlet's philosophical advice, "I could be bounded in a nut-shell, and count myself king of infinite space."

SAVING OUR SPEECH

Some day an effective method may be devised to keep college professors silent beyond the walls of their lecture rooms.

One of them addressed the English language conference recently in Philadelphia. His message was: "Murder the king's English at will if 'punch' and conviction in speech result."

He went on to say if one aims at fluency and conviction, "the less attention paid to the rules the better."

That is dangerous philosophy coming from the lips of a college professor in these lawless times.

Hanging on to the rules in everything is our only hope.

There is no doubting the "fluency and conviction" of an enraged fishwife's tongue. There is no gainsaying the potency of a New York truck driver's language; but who wants to attain a verbal "punch" at that cost?

An oath judiciously dropped into the middle of a sentence can ring out like the crack of a revolver, but that is the speaker's sole method of arresting attention he'd better remain silent.

With all respect for Dr. Edward Sapir of the Unisity of Chicago, a man does not have to "disregard the rules of English" to attain dynamic effect. As a matter of fact, the closer he adheres to those rules the more powerful will be his discourse.

Slipshod expression reflects slipshod thinking.

Among certain persons rough language is supposed to convey the impression that the speaker is particularly virile—a devil-may-care chap, too broad-minded and big and impatient for immediate results to peep and peer about and otherwise waste time on method.

In such cases that usually passes for strength in conversation is nothing more than ignorance or laziness on the part of the speaker. Like all spurious procedure, that sort of thing has its limitations. Sooner or later there comes to a time when emphasis and gesture fall inadequate, and then it's either play according to the rules or seek refuge in tacciturnity.

Influence, in a man's social relations, pivots to a great extent on the adroitness with which he conveys his thoughts to the minds of his hearers, making his conviction theirs. Experience counts in that, naturally, but there must be a mechanical groundwork on which experience may operate.

BY SCISSORS

The nominal control of the next senate by the republicans reminded Robert L. Williamson, an Indianapolis real estate dealer, of a widower with three children who had married a widow with the same number.

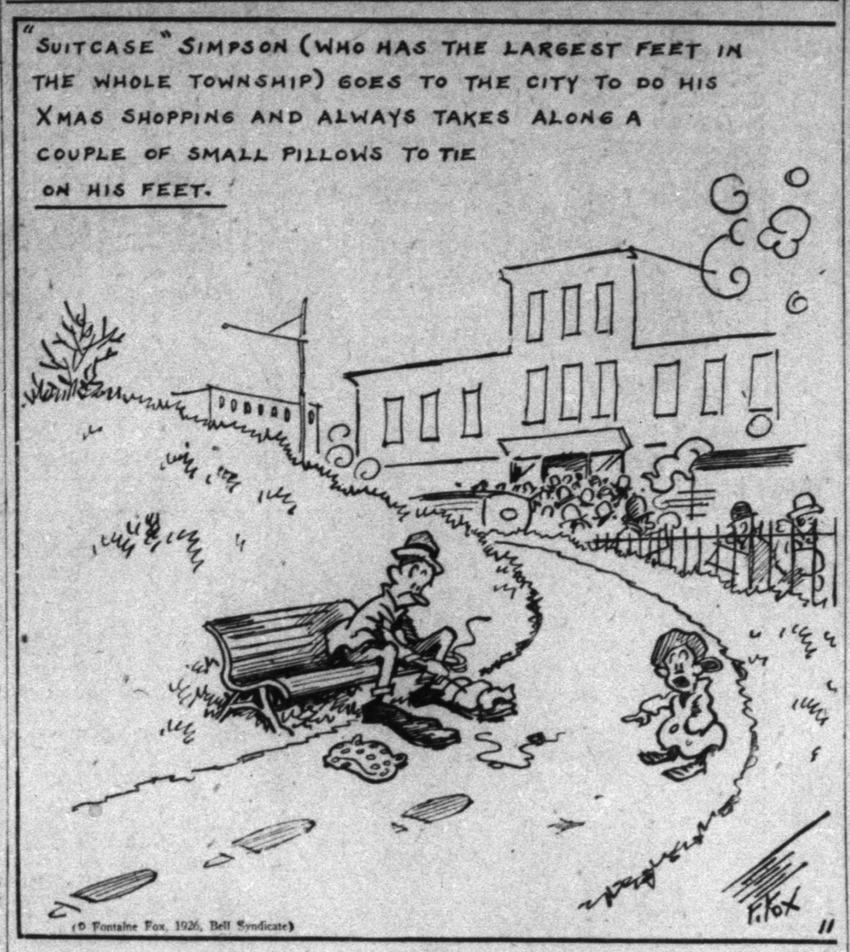

"Who's boss in your home now, Jim?" a friend asked the bride-groom.

"Well, I'm s'posed to be," replied Jim, dubliously. "You see my wife and me agreed that when any trouble comes up in the family, all of us, includin' the kids, 'll take a vote on the question and settle it. I'm figurin' on adoptin' a orphan to break the tie."

Senator Borah takes a horseback ride every morning before breakfast to keep himself fit. Now here's an idea for those senators whose constituents are beginning to think them unfit.

When prohibition flies in at the political window old-time politics flies out at the door.

KELLYGRAMS . . . . . By Fred C. Kelly

WISDOM OF DOING WHAT YOU CAN'T DO

I have just received in the mail a circular from a fellow near where I live who is fixing to open a class to teach grown folks how to use carpenter tools and make all manner of useless little household articles.

And I have a good notion to join his class. Of course I'll dillydally about it and never actually get around to looking him up, but I say I have a notion to do so.

It isn't that I especially crave a knowledge of how to handle a hammer, plane or screw-driver. But stern experience has taught me that every once in a while my morale needs the rigorous discipline of doing something that I'm sure I can't do.

All my life I have been hopelessly clumsy with any kind of tools or mechanical contrivances. If a screw is loose on the front door lock, or a nail must be driven to hang up a new chromo in the parlor, I telephone for a carpenter—simply because it is cheaper, after allowing for damage and loss of temper, than to attempt such chores myself.

When I was first talked into buying me a little old second-hand automobile, I cautiously stipulated that the deal must be declared off if, after three months, I couldn't learn to drive the car. No one was more astonished than I when, after a week or so, I had the temerity to take the car out all by myself. But the strange thing was that the discovery helped me in a dozen directions having nothing to do with mechanical perplexities. Thus encouraged, I began to try various other impossibilities. I even read three or four highbrow books, full of footnotes in fine print, that I had long imagined beyond the comprehension of anybody not equipped with one of the larger-sized intellects.

Last summer I took three or four swimming lessons. I had learned to swim more than 30 years ago, by process of trial and error, in the turgid Little Miami river, but never could go more than about 47 feet without complete exhaustion. Now, after all these years of futile struggle, I suddenly learned the trick of saving one's strength and can swim along indefinitely. Ever since then I have felt so much more sure of myself that I often talk back to traffic policemen who used to terrify me by a mere gesture.

The point I'm trying to make is that you never know what you can do until you try the impossible. If you can accomplish one thing that your kin folk always told you might be beyond your modest abilities, there's no telling what else you can do.

Maybe the old Puritans were right in believing that it is good for one's character to be compelled occasionally to do whatever one most hates.

Who knows but mastering a tack hammer may yet make a man of me!

BO BROADWAY . . . . . By Josef Van Raalte

NEW YORK. (EFS).—The servant question in New York is still the same funny little problem it always was. Professional dish washers and hash constructors evince the old timid and coy reluctance they always have shown when it comes to operating in a two by four apartment kitchen or kitchenette.

While the situation is bad here, in London it is said to be desperate as the following "want" ads from Thames Town newspapers will attest:

"House Parlormaid—Electric in the year; use of car now and then."

"House Parlormaid — Electric light and central heat throughout, also radio; outings is assisted by car, if desired."

"Maid—Good outings; plenty of fresh eggs and bacon."

"Cook, General—Good outings and week-end once a month; no nagging."

"Cook, General—Own bathroom, heat, light and radio."

"Upper Housemaid.—Dress materials and valuable presents given; own room furnished to suit."

Over here we don't believe in coaxing Katie into the kitchen. We notify the world at large that there is an opening for a washer, in a pan garage; and if we get an applicant for the job well and good. If we can't find anyone willing to wrestle with the veal cutlet and dust the bric-a-brac, we pack up our stuff, put it in storage and move to a hotel where everytime a bell hop or a porter says "Good morning" to us we are expected to hand him two bits.

An old-fashioned householder whose wife entertains conservative prejudice against sitting down in the living room and discussing world problems with the Gravy Queen, inserted the following ad in New York's "leading" morning paper, that circulates among "865,000 thoughtful and intelligent readers":

"Is there a girl who doesn't feel sorry for herself because she must work and earn her money? Must do all work in small house near New York. Right salary to cheerful, hard worker."

Such a display of old-fashioned faith, in this topsy-turvy modern day in downright touchin'.

The bootleggers and movie "magots" are responsible for Broadway, as it exists today.

Once upon a time the Press Agents' Paradise used to boast of a certain amount of "class." But that's gone the way of the lobster palace, the first nighter and the handsome cabby in the tan coat with the chrysanthemum.

"Variety," the weekly chronicle of all that "'touches on an' appertains to" Mazda Lane, runs what it calls a "Broadway Guide," in which are listed current plays, special pictures, latest phonograph records and popular songs. Also the outstanding "Sawdust Cabarets."

Following are excerpts from the latest list:

"Small's Paradise, Harlem 'black and tan.' The show place of Harlem's mixed cafes. Whites and blacks rub shoulders and Celestials dance with either race. Very hotsy-totsy. Reasonable."

"Seven-Eleven (former Chummy club)—Newest mid-town colored cafe. Hotsy-totsy and reasonable. Colored female boxers and special novelty."

"Black Bottom club. Harlem transplanted to Broadway. Must be known to get in. No couvert; everything reasonable."

If that sort of thing keeps up they'll have to change the name from "The Great White Way," to the "Great Black Way," or the "Black and Tan Way."

There's something wrong somewhere when they have to drag Senegambian Sadie from the washtubs to provide midnight entertainment for the Out-of-Town-Man-About-Town.

Fort Elliott Site Near Mobeetie To Be Marked As Historic Spot

CANYON, Dec. 11.—In carrying out its work of marking the spots of historic interest in this section of the state, the Panhandle-Plains Historic society is this week sending Prof. L. F. Sheffy and J. Evetts Haley, field secretary, to look into the matter of securing the Fort Elliott site near Mobeetie. It is thought that this spot will be marked by the society, as considerable interest attaches to it because of the fact that it was the only fort established in the Panhandle and one of the last to be maintained on the frontier as an aid in holding the Indians upon the reservations. It was established in 1875 and abandoned in the early 90's.

The two representatives of the society will be joined by Mr. T. D. Hobart of Pampa, who is one of the directors of the organization. Mr. Hobart is one of the most prominent of the Panhandle pioneers who is yet active in a business way, and is noted for his lively interest in local history. Final arrangements for the marking of the Buffalo Wallow battle site, where a sharp fight between government scouts and Indians took place in 1874, will be made by this committee.

UDC CRITICIZES GOVERNOR 'MA'

Holiday Granted On Date of Lincoln's Birthday Is Scored

AUSTIN, Dec. 10.(AP)—At the request of R. B. Walthall and Roy I. Tennant, members of the board of control, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson on February 11, 1926, asked that the anniversary of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, martyred president, be observed at the state house February 12, last.

Thursday the governor said that she had seen where the United Daughters of Confederacy in convention at Dallas had criticized her action, but stated that she had "not" issued a proclamation, proclaiming Lincoln's birth date a holiday.

There is no proclamation on record and none was announced at the time.

The members of the board of control were implored upon by state employees to ask the governor to grant them a holiday on Lincoln's anniversary, which she did without issuing a proclamation.

Some newspapers and news services carried it, stating that the closing of the capitol Feb. 11, 1926, on Lincoln's birthday, was a precedent, but the Associated Press stated, "at the request of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, the anniversary of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, martyred president, will be observed at the Texas capitol. She requested that the departments be closed throughout the day."

R. B. Walthall, member of the board of control, stated Thursday that during the past six years nearly all the state departments had observed Lincoln's birthday anniversary, although no holiday was ever declared.

Governor Ferguson said Thursday, "someone and something had to be criticized and it might as well be that as anything else. I did not issue a proclamation. The employees wanted a holiday and I let them have it on Lincoln's birthday. Lincoln was a great and worthy American."

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 10.(AP)—C. N. Whitehead, 48, president of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, who suffered a nervous breakdown last October, died in a hospital here early today.

MAKING MODERN MENUS

Even in these days when a great deal of preparation is not necessary to get ready for the holidays, it is nice to have a little home-made candy in the house. Usually the younger members of the household will bestir themselves in behalf of the sweet-making.

DIVINITY FUDGE

Put two-thirds cup of sugar and one-third cup of water in a small sauce pan. In another sauce pan put two cups of sugar, two-thirds cup of corn syrup and two-thirds cup of water. Stir second portion until sugar is dissolved, put over fire and boil until mixture forms a soft ball in cold water. Twenty minutes after starting this mixture put the first sauce pan on the stove and cook until it forms a very hard ball when tried in cold water. Beat two egg whites very stiff, add slowly the syrup which was cooked to a soft ball and beat constantly until stiff, using a wooden spoon. Then add slowly syrup which was cooked to hard ball and continue beating as long as possible. Add one-third cup of candied cherries, one-third cup of almonds. Gudges should be molded in a shallow tin.

PRALINES

Combine one cupful of brown sugar, two cupfuls of white sugar, three tablespoons of corn syrup, three-quarters cups of evaporated milk with one-half cup of water, one tablespoon of maple sugar. Boil to soft ball stage, cool before beating, add one and one-half cups of pecans and beat until stiff and creamy. Drop from a spoon onto buttered sheet.

As this is the time when daddy goes a-hunting and occasionally catches a rabbit, perhaps rabbit soup will appeal more to the housewife than any other sort of preparation.

RABBIT SOUP

Clean the joints of the rabbit carefully, crack the bones and put in half a pound of diced salt pork, five stalks of celery cut up, a chopped onion and enough cold water to cover. Bring the mixture to a boil and boil for two hours. Then add three pints of boiling water, some mace, pepper and a bunch of sweet herbs. Cook the soup two hours longer. Remove from the fire, strain and put back on the stove. Thicken with a tablespoon of browned flour moistened to a thin paste with cold water. Add salt and pepper to taste, a tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce and serve.

BROWN RICE HONEY PUDDING

Steam half a cupful of brown rice. Pour six tablespoons of honey into a shallow pan and brown. Add the rice and one-half tablespoon of lemon juice and bake until the mixture is a golden brown. Serve with whipped cream.

ARMY KETTLES STILL BOILING

Good Results Obtained For Annual Christmas Dinner Here

This fund will be used to make a happy Christmas for many poor, needy, youngsters of Wichita Falls. It will provide for them candy, nuts and various kinds of fruits, as well as a little Christmas gift. A program is being arranged for this occasion when the toys and fruits will be distributed. One of the local theaters will be secured for the program, it was said. The Lions club is working in co-operation with the Salvation Army in planning for this party.

Your friends,
ORVILLE LAWSON.

Wichita Falls—I am nine years old and in the third grade. I have been a good boy and worked hard this year. I picked cotton six weeks before I started to school. I am studying hard so I will pass Christmas. I want a ball and bat and roller skates. And don't forget the other little poor boys and girls.

LEROY WADE.

Iowa Park—I am a little girl six years old. Please bring me a rocking chair and mama doll. I have been good. And be sure and send the orphans some nice presents. My little brother wants a chair and a tractor. Please bring us some nuts and fruit so I will close and expect to see you Christmas.

Your little friend,
MILDRED BEAMER.

Wichita Falls—I have tried to be a good girl all year. Sometimes mama says I am bad. I go to school every day and learn all I can. I hope Santa won't forget any of the children. Bring them toys to make them happy. And for me, if you can, bring me a pair of slippers. With lots of love.

ALEENE SENDES.

Wichita Falls — I am six years old. I wanted to go to school this year, but they would not let me go. For Christmas I would like to have a big doll, a doll buggy, some fire crackers, some roman candles and some nuts and oranges. This is all, dear Santa. But first divide with the poor children, then bring me what you have left for me, and I will be happy just the same.

Yours truly,
LEAH TATE.

Memphis—I a a poor little boy, nine years old and in the third grade. Please bring me a cap gun bright red one down there in the and some caps, and some candy, but if you don't have enough toys don't bring me any but please give them to orphan children, and if I don't win any prize, I won't worry at all.

Your friend,
CARL EUDEY.

Wichita Falls—I am writing you to tell you what I want most dearly of all the things you have in your her. Now, dear Santa, I think I have asked for enough. I am afraid if I ask for too much I will not get anything and want some more little boys and girls to have something, too. If I ask for everything I would have to play by myself, but I don't want to do that. I will end my letter now. Answer soon. I am five years old.

FORREST LEVERN FULCHER

Wichita Falls—I am a little girl 9 years old in the third grade at school and Christmas is here again. I will only ask help for the poor. And if you have which I know you have please send me the address of one poor boy or girl, that I may send them a gift myself. Then if you can, you might bring sister and me a raincoat and a pair of boots so we can go to school in bad weather. I have just moved here. Lovingly,

PEARLEE HUDSON.

Iowa Park—Please bring me something my Daddie can't play with and bring little brother a box for his toys, so that he will not use my tool chest. I am in the high first grade in school. I like my teacher so much. Please bring her something nice.

BILL ED HIGHSMITH

Wichita Falls—How are you? Fine I hope. I guess you can see that I am not very fine educated by the way I write. I am a boy 10 years old. We are poor people. I did not get much last Christmas and do not expect to get any more this Christmas. All I am asking for is a football. But if you haven't any footballs left for me, just leave it alone and give it to the orphan children in that have no father and mother. Be sure to go and see all of them. Yours rtuly,

L. M. McKINNEY.

Holliday—I am a little Holliday boy. I want a little wooden wagon that has got brakes on the sides. My playmate says I am a tough boy, and Santa won't bring me anything. But it takes a tough boy to live at Holliday. Your friend,

ALLEN KNOX HOLT.

Burkburnett—How are you this cold morning? Feeling fine I hope. I am proud as proud can be because it is only 16 more days until Christmas. I am hoping you will leave a bicycle for me, also bring me some nuts, sweets and fireworks.

Oh, Boy! What is Christmas without firecrackers? I've heard it said that "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Surely, Santa, you must be blessed forever. I thank you now for whatever you may bring and wish you a merry Christmas. Bye, bye, Santa. See you Christmas. One of your little boys.

CECIL LEE SMITH.

Wichita Falls—I am a boy 12 years old, live out here on the Lake Road. I don't guess you will have many presents left after you get this far. But just candy will be all right. And don't think I will be mad, Dear Santa. If you will only come to see me. Lots of love, ROSCOE BAKER.

Wichita Falls—I don't care if you remember me or not with a Christmas gift, but I do want you to remember my little cousin, Herbert Pitts, who fell out of a pecan tree and broke his back. The only pleasures he will get for months will be toys and other Christmas gifts. I am able to run and do other outdoor sports so I am sure he would enjoy some indoor things. Please be nice to him and I will always be your best friend, JO EUCHANAN.

SALM TO GET ROGERS' CASH

Settlement of Count's Suit For Divorce Expected To Be Made

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.(AP)—Reports of a prospective cash settlement ranging from a half to a million dollars were in circulation today after the sudden adjournment of the separation suit of Count Ludwig Salm Hoogstraeten against his wife, the former Millicent Rogers, Standard Oil heiress.

Official confirmation was lacking and Herman Goodstein, counsel for the count, denied that any rettlement had been made.

"I know nothing of such an offer," he said. "I know nothing of any proposal to settle the suit out of court. I deny that any monetary offer of settlement has been offered either to the count or myself."

Nevertheless, New York newspapers said they had authoritative information that when the case again is called on January 17 announcement would be made that a settlement had been reached out of court.

One report was that Col. H. H. Rogers in making the settlement insists that Count Salm relinquish all claim to his two-year-old son, Peter and that he leave the country never to return.

Members of the Rogers family could not be reached and Albert C. Conway, counsel for the countess, declared he had nothing to say.

Count Salm was smiling at the offices of his attorney a few hours after court had adjourned. Asked whether a settlement had been reached he waved his hands and disappeared into an inner room.

Colonel Rogers' reported offer of settlement is said to have resulted from his annoyance at the publicity resulting from the trial and the reading in court of his daughter's letters to her mother-in-law.
