China Pleads With Top Red For Talks

Flight From Nanking Becomes Panic As Hope Fades For Surrender Deal

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NANKING, Friday, Jan. 28 —Well-informed sources said acting President Li Tsung-Jen today sent a direct appeal to Communist leader Mao-Tze-Tung to name peace negotiators at once. These sources said there were no further details available immediately.

Li's appeal came at a moment when it began to appear a Chinese government effort to make a surrender deal had broken down.

The apparent stalemate, with the Reds drawing ever nearer to Nanking, had turned the flight from this capital into a panic.

U. S. Envoy To Stay

It was learned reliably, however, that U. S. Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart would stay in this Communist-menaced capital, on instructions from Washington.

Only a small party led by Minister Lewis Clark is due to join the government in its transfer to Canton.

All other diplomatic missions except the Soviet bloc are expected to follow the American example.

Reflecting the personal convictions of diplomats that the government no longer represents the Chinese people, their decision to stay in Nanking is a profound diplomatic reverse for the government.

Marines To Be Moved

In Shanghai the commander of the U. S. western Pacific fleet said some Marines soon would be withdrawn from China, but emphasized that enough would remain to meet any emergency.

Vice Adm. Oscar C. Badger told a news conference the present numbers (about 3,000 at Tsingtao and 600 at Shanghai) were more than needed. The admiral also confirmed previous reports that the Marines at Tsingtao "to some degree" were being withdrawn from shore billets to shipboard. He said Navy port facilities in Shanghai also would be drastically reduced.

Peace Hopes Dim

Badger reiterated that Navy policy still was to maintain sufficient forces in China to protect Americans and—"insofar as able"—other foreigners.

Asked what he would do if a Communist government took control and demanded withdrawal of U. S. forces, Badger replied, "I'd probably withdraw them." He quickly amended this by saying such a decision would rest with the U. S. government and "I'd do what my government told me to do."

In Nanking, Gen. Chang Chih-Chung, a leader of the govern-

Tests Near On Truman Plan

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—President Truman's program of social and economic legislation edged closer to its first major tests in Congress today.

Meantime a half-million dollar appropriation flashed through both House and Senate on its way to relieve snow-besieged western areas. Action was completed within a few hours after the President observed that his disaster fund was getting low.

Republicans gave their oratory a workout in a bitter Senate attack on strict limitations voted by Democrats for Taft-Hartley law hearings. They argued in vain. According to the Democratic schedule, the hearings are to end Feb. 10 and be confined to recommendations made by President Truman.

Housing Bills Introduced

The House Banking committee unanimously approved a bill, urged by President Truman, to extend for seven months a voluntary program of allocating scarce materials among industries. The present law expires March 1. Mr. Truman has said he would ask later for mandatory control powers.

Bills to spur home-building continued to drop into the congressional hopper. Democrats introduced an administration-backed bill providing for more liberal government insurance aids to spur private construction of homes "large enough for family life at prices wage earners can afford."

This is intended as a supplement to a previously-offered administration bill providing, among other things, for public housing, slum clearance, farm homes and research to pare building costs.

GOP Submits Substitutes

Republicans introduced in Senate and House their previously announced substitutions for the administration housing program. In many respects the Republican measures are similar to the administration program.

But the measure introduced in the Senate by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and others provides for a smaller public housing program than does the Democratic bill. Taft estimated the overall cost would be half as much under his plan as under the Democratic.

The Republican Senate conference, made up of the minority members, decided to support anti-filibuster legislation. They favor pressing for action on the Senate floor, which probably would mean a filibuster by southerners.

Bigger Army Asked

Senator Chapman (D-Ky) added weight to the forces opposed to amending the rules of debate which make unlimited speeches possible. He said he is against "gagging debate on domestic issues."

Senator Russell (D-Ga), proposed that the government finance a shift of 1,500,000 negro families from south to north, and a similar exodus of northern white

Truman Deplores Landlords' Actions

Administration Acts To Block Evictions

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — The Truman administration today launched a drive against a revolt of landlords who threatened mass evictions of tenants as a protest against rent control legislation.

Soon after President Truman deplored the landlords' action at his news conference, Housing Expediter Tighe Woods announced that he would seek court injunctions against any landlords who refuse to withdraw the eviction notices.

Mr. Truman told reporters he doesn't believe the property owners will get away with their plans.

He termed such efforts a poor approach to the problem.

He made his comment at a news conference when a reporter said landlords in St. Louis are considering giving 60-day notices to renters, as have property owners in other cities.

Bills to extend the federal rent control law and to tighten its enforcement provisions are pending in Congress. The House will take up the question first.

Mr. Truman showed he had been reading about the landlords uprising when he noted that the eviction movement started in Tulsa, which he termed that great oil center.

Other cities reporting similar movements planned or under consideration include Chicago, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Milwaukee, Kansas City and Dallas.

Global Project Studied

In Tulsa, Rep. Patman (R-Tex.) was reported to have told Tulsa and Dallas property owners by telephone that the landlord revolt "will be stopped by the courts."

Stork Wins Race After Ambulance Bogs Up In Snow

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 27 (AP)—The stork tangled with ice here and the ice won during the current storm in north and west Texas.

An ambulance picked up Mrs. J. W. Combs to rush her to the hospital to keep a date with the stork but became stuck in snow and ice.

"We'll get going in a minute," the driver assured Mrs. Combs.

Just then the driver heard a baby cry. "It's already here," the mother exclaimed.

A few minutes later at the hospital, attendants found the baby weighed six pounds and four ounces. She's been named Lulu Elizabeth.

Smuggling Ring Probe Underway

BERLIN, Jan. 27. (INS)—Authoritative informants said tonight Allied personnel is "heavily implicated" in an investigation of rings smuggling goods out of western Germany at a rate of $200 million yearly.

Agents uncovered cases where Americans have smuggled gold and silver and other precious metals out of Germany in painted-over silver automobile fenders and cars equipped with hidden compartments.

The trick of fashioning fenders from silver and disguising them with paint is one of the most unusual devices yet resorted to by smugglers.

Special Force Set Up

A special Anglo-American "task force" of criminal investigators, and counter-intelligence agents working with border guards now is being organized to trap the men and their illegal loot.

It will be headed by Brig.-Gen. Norman Schwartzkopf, former New Jersey state police chief and trainer of the Iranian gendarmerie. He was brought to Germany as deputy provost marshal last August especially for such assignments.

An actual customs system is being considered with border guards

B-29 Carrying 15 Missing On Africa-To-England Flight

LONDON, Jan. 27. (INS) — A U. S. B-29 Superfortress bomber with 15 persons aboard officially was listed as missing tonight on a flight from Dakar in West Africa to the American base at Marham, in Norfolk, England.

American Air Force officials in England and Germany and RAF air and naval authorities in Britain immediately ordered an intensive search with all available equipment.

U. S. Air Force headquarters in Britain said the plane left Dakar at 1:20 p. m. CST yesterday and was due at Marham at 3:30 a. m. CST.

It was last reported 200 miles south of Casablanca on the French Moroccan coast flying at 16,000 feet and headed north. Another message heard late last night was unintelligible.

Another Cold Front Is Forecast To Hit Today

New Blizzards Slow Haylift

(By The Associated Press)

NEW blizzards swirled into sections of the west Thursday complicating the many-sided battle to save half the nation's sheep and thousands of cattle from perishing.

While planes, trucks, bulldozers and Army weasels pushed through new snow and drifts, the Red Cross, Congress and President Truman moved to start a flood of dollars for emergency relief.

The National Wool Growers association estimated that half of the nation's sheep population are in critical condition because of storms and shortage of feed. That number, the association said, are snowbound from the Dakotas and Kansas westward.

New Blows Struck

Winter struck these new blows:

A new blizzard swept into snow-plagued Nebraska, where the Army is working with 57 bulldozers and 29 weasels to cut through old drifts. The storm struck just as the Air Force arranged to send 24 cargo planes to its Kearney, Neb., base to carry supplies into the area and drop hay to starving livestock. The snow intensified the hazards facing snowbound cattle and farmers.

Poor visibility slowed operations of the Nevada haylift by the big Air Force flying boxcars. However, by early afternoon the hay loaded planes were back on schedule dropping feed to stranded cattle and sheep in that state.

Trucks Go Through

Montana, which the National Wool Growers association termed the major "catastrophe area" in new storms slowed the delivery of supplies. However, trucked supplies got to virtually all herds during a lull in the bad weather the two preceding days. Some 1,200,000 sheep and cattle are snowbound in that state.

Heavy snows of four to eight inches moved in on western Kansas and portions of Iowa, Wisconsin, upper Michigan and extreme southeastern Minnesota.

General flood warnings were issued for a 171 mile stretch of the big Ohio river past Cincinnati and new sleet storms slowed highway traffic to a crawl from Texas to lower Michigan.

Crosby Vote On Beer Is Sought

RALLS, Jan. 27. (Special) — Plans to file petitions calling for an election to legalize the sale of beer in Crosby county were announced here today by Ernest Joiner, editor of The Ralls Banner.

Joiner, who said purposes of a campaign to obtain the calling of an election were two-fold, said approximately 500 names already had been placed on petitions. Only about 270 are needed. The petitions will be filed within the next 10 days or two weeks, Joiner said.

Showdown Sought

Joiner said he was sponsoring the petitions in an attempt "to force a showdown on the liquor question in Crosby county" and because there is a doubt among some lawyers of the county that the results of the last election in which the county voted dry ever were properly certified to Austin."

The election would be called within 60 days after filing of the petitions if they are found in order.

Joiner explained that he had no interest in the issue other than to give residents who have moved into the county in recent years an opportunity to voice their opinions on the matter.

The Ralls editor has waged an all-out campaign against what he has charged is more or less wide

Crop Quota To Ignore '49 Cotton Plantings

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—A House agricultural subcommittee voted today to disregard 1949 planting in figuring future cotton production quotas.

Chairman Colley (D-NC) said the full committee will take up tomorrow a resolution approved by the subcommittee. It stipulated this year's crop would not be used in figuring acreage allotments when cotton production controls are re-established.

Rep. Pace (D-Ga), chairman of the cotton subcommittee, said details of the base period would be taken up at later meetings of his group.

Study Of Falling Food Prices Underway

Living Costs Again Show Slight Decline

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. — The government reported a drop in living costs for the third straight month today.

Simultaneously, President Truman disclosed that his economic general staff is making a special study of falling food prices—perhaps for their affect on his request for price control powers.

Cheaper foods again led the way in the cost-of-living decline. But the over-all picture showed prices are still 29 per cent higher than OPA-controlled levels in 1946.

The consumers price index, compiled by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, showed a drop of eight-tenths of one point for the month of December.

The index at that time—the latest official figure—stood at 171.4, compared with a "par" of 100 for the 1935-39 price average. In August and September, the index had reached an all-time peak of 174.5.

Asked for comment on the declining wholesale index, Mr. Truman told his news conference he is waiting for a report from his council of Economic Advisers.

He did say, however, that he felt the price of steel has always been too high. That came in com-

Italian Throngs In Near Riot During Actors' Marriage

By JOHN P. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, Jan. 27. — Tyrone Power and Linda Christian said their marriage vows today while thousands of screaming Italian bobby soxers surged riotously across police lines outside the church of Santa Francesca Romana. It was Hollywood-on-the-Tibers' show of the year.

So great was the din that the words of the marriage ceremony scarcely could be heard in the fifth row of the church. Even the guests were none too orderly.

In the crush outside the church, several women fainted and a man's finger was broken. A number of other persons were bruised. There were reports that Vatical prelates were incensed at the atmosphere.

Bobby-Soxers Charge Doors

The marriage of the film stars gave hundreds of Rome's policemen their busiest day since the rioting that followed an attempt to assassinate Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti last July. Twice during the ceremony groups of determined teen-age girls charged the church doors, trying to get in. There were more than 10,000 in the unruly throng.

Power, 34-year-old veteran of scores of movie mob scenes, was calm throughout the pushing and hauling that attended his arrival and departure at the little church in the heart of ancient Rome. When it was all over, he said:

"This being a moment for a good resounding cliche, you can quote me as saying I'm the happiest man in the world."

His 25-year-old bride, of Dutch and Mexican parentage, said she too "couldn't be any happier."

City Asks Bids In Speedup Of Paving, Water Programs

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

ACTIONS to hasten more than $800,000 in street and water department improvements were taken at the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission Thursday afternoon.

The program includes more than 80 blocks of street paving to cost approximately $223,000 and water main extensions requiring an estimated outlay of about $609,000.

In more detail, the projects are:

Award of contract to L. A. Purtell for somewhat more than a mile of paving on a bid of $38,270.84, the lowest of three submitted.

Bid Calls Issued

Call for bids on 69 additional blocks of paving, to be opened Feb. 24 at 2 p. m.; estimated cost $185,000.

Two calls for bids, to be opened at 2:30 p. m. Feb. 24, for water main extensions of estimated total cost estimated at $609,000.

All three bid calls were issued after approval of plans, specifications and estimtaes for the paving and water line projects prepared under supervision of City Engineer R. L. Oldham.

The streets to be paved under the contract awarded to Purtell are Tyler from Twenty-fourth to Thirty-third; Fillmore from Twenty-eighth to Thirtieth and Twenty-ninth from Jackson to Fillmore. Other bidders for the contract were Curr & Middleton, $44,116.76, and Elliott Taylor, $48,044.03.

Streets Are Listed

Purtell was in an advantageous position in the bidding because he now is constructing approximately 70 blocks of paving under a previous contract and thus has his equipment and personnel on the ground.

The streets included in the paving project on which bids are to be opened Feb. 24 follow:

Sixth street from N to O; Twentieth from Polk to Taylor; Twenty-fourth from K to L; Twenty-fifth from S to Lake; Twenty-sixth from A to H; Twenty-seventh from H to Morning Side addition; Twenty-ninth from N to Q; Thirty-first from Van Buren to Tyler and from U.S. 87 to Railroad row; Thirty-second from Monroe to Tyler.

Ave. E from Seventeenth to Nineteenth; M from Twenty-third to Arnett; O from Twenty-third to Twenty-fourth; P from Twenty-first to Twenty-seventh; S from Fourth to U.S. 84; T from Fourth to Sixth; U from Thirtieth to Thirty-second; V from Seventh to Ninth; W from First to Second;

Scott Holds GOP Post By Four Vote Margin

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 27. (INS)—A slim margin of four votes today kept Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., in his job as chairman of the National Republican committee at the group's stormy meeting in Omaha.

The session ended a short time later after the victorious Scott had appointed a committee of eight to advise him regarding any further revisions of changes in the executive committee.

Scott's appointments to the executive committee had drawn fire of "Old Guard" Republicans who claimed the unit was "Dewey dominated."

Members of the national committee decided 54 votes to 50 to continue Scott in his job as national chairman. The move to unseat him was led by former national committee Chairman Carrol Reece and Harrison E. Spangler.

Damage Over State Hiked

AN unexpected snowstorm, a surprise burst of sunshine and a general thaw Thursday completed the cycle of the South Plains' second ice storm, but the one-day of relatively pleasant weather apparently was just a lull between Arctic blasts.

A mild cool front scooted in from the northwest at 9 p. m. last night. The Weather bureau station north of town said the new front was just a harbinger of a "blue norther" skidding down today from the snowbound Midwest.

Measured precipitation for January at Municipal airport reached 4.05 inches after a snowstorm yesterday morning deposited 1.3 inches of snow upon an already thick covering of ice and sleet. The melted snow measured .11 inch, the Weather station said.

Damage Is Heavy

The sun also started thawing out other sections of the state, harder hit than the South Plains section. Damage from ice that snapped power and communications lines and isolated at least 38 towns was assessed in the millions of dollars, The Associated Press said after a survey.

Much Of Ice Melted Away

A mass of dry air swinging out of the west about daybreak drove away clouds that had covered the South Plains for three days and gave residents bright sunshine.

All but a thin crust of snow and sleet was melted from fields. The sudden thaw poured water into bar ditches, gutters and left dirt roads water logged. Most of the ice storm evidence remained in low and protected places where the sun's rays were unable to reach. Except for water soaked sleet-snow near the curbs most of Lubbock's streets were clear of an ice covering that made driving extremely dangerous Wednesday.

Auto 'Assaults' Its Owner Here

Four persons were injured, none seriously, in three automobile traffic mishaps Thursday, city police and the Texas Highway patrol reported.

Frank Sinclair, 24, of 1922 Ninth, was taken to West Texas hospital by Rix ambulance about 6:30 p. m. Thursday for treatment, after his own automobile committed "aggravated assault" upon his person.

Sinclair's 1933 Ford coupe was parked on the south side of Thirteenth street at Sears Roebuck and Co., and he was unable to back it away from the curbing because of ice on the streets, police said.

Tries To Stop Car

With the car in reverse gear, the throttle pulled out and the back wheels spinning, Sinclair got out and pushed it away from the curb. When the vehicle started, he was unable to get back into the driver's seat and ran around behind the car to try to stop it, it was reported.

The Ford backed him across the street and pinned him against a store front on the opposite side, breaking a plate glass window.

Sinclair suffered a bruised right leg, police said, and was reported to have suffered minor lacerations elsewhere from being pushed backwards through the window.

Accused Soviet Spy Is Arrested

By J. LYNN LEONARD
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—FBI agents today seized Sam Carr, accused key member of a Soviet atomic spy ring, in a raid on a New York rooming house. His arrest ended a search of more than three years throughout North America.

Carr is wanted as an alleged ringleader of the Russian atomic spy group headquarters in Canada and which was smashed by the Canadian government after its discovery late in 1945. He is charged specifically with violation of Canada's official secrets act.

Canada Seeks Custody

In Ottawa, it was learned that Canada will take steps to extradite Carr. Immediate indications are that authorities will seek to place Carr on trial in Toronto.

The Canadian Royal commission responsible for uprooting the spy group charged that Carr, former national organizer of Canada's Labor Progressive party, recruited Soviet agents in the commonwealth.

Agents in his charge were said to have assembled highly secret information for transmission to Moscow.

Announcement of the arrest of Carr, sought since 1945, was made

HST'S CIVIL RIGHTS PROGRAM GETS REPLY

Program To Redistribute South's Negro Population Throughout Nation Proposed By Georgia Senator

By FREDERIC TUTTLE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—A bill to redistribute the South's negro population "equitably" throughout the nation was introduced today in the Senate as a reply by Dixie Democrats to President Truman's civil rights program.

The measure was introduced by Sen. Russell (D., Ga.), a spokesman for southern Senate foes of the President's demand for federal anti-lynch, anti-poll tax and anti-discrimination laws.

Introduction of the bill appeared timed to fit into the southern fight against the pending proposal to curb filibusters. Dixie's Senate weapon heretofore in blocking civil rights legislation.

Russell made clear in a Senate speech that the legislation is the southern bloc's answer to the recommendations of Mr. Truman's Civil Rights commission which formed the basis for his civil rights program.

The Georgia senator's bill would create a "voluntary racial relocation commission," with four and one-half billion dollars to spend.

This money would be used to find new homes for negroes who want to move north, and help them get settled in new communities.

Sen. Sparkman (D., Ala.), another leader of the southern bloc, predicted that the Dixie group would give complete support to the Russell measure.

Sparkman recently proposed that the entire matter of racial discrimination in all sections of the nation be studied before any civil rights legislation is presented to Congress.

Germany Seen As Good Market For Texas Cotton Production

DALLAS, Jan. 27. (INS)—Texas cotton farmers can look toward Germany as an increasingly big market, according to an international authority on the subject.

The authority is Carl F. Bartz, a former Dallas cotton exporter, now general director of the American Cotton Supply corporation in Bremen, Germany.

He said that textile mills in western Germany are using fiber as fast as they can get it.

That announcement was good news to Texas cotton farmers who look to foreign markets for sale of 90 per cent of their crops. Bartz, who is in Dallas conferring with exporters, said the American and British zones of western Germany are now consuming cotton at the rate of 40,000 bales a month.

"When you consider that all of Germany's consumption of cotton before the war was about a million bales a year, you see that there is very substantial recovery," he said.

The American cotton supply corporation was organized in 1947 to help the German cotton industry get on its feet and provide needed markets for the American growers. Bartz, then regional manager for the United States Department of Commerce bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, became its director.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Infantile paralysis made Mack Harrell a success.

When top entertainers pour out their talent in the March of Dimes programs Sunday night, the 67th birthday anniversary of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harrell will be among the group from the Metropolitan opera performing in a memorial concert at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. It's a swank concert with admission by invitation only.

"I had two attacks of polio when I was a child," Harrell said today. "The last one left me with a club foot and a lame leg. It was the determination to overcome my handicap that made me an opera star and whipped my lameness."

The husky, blond baritone squatted on his heels and did a Russian dance.

"Guess which leg," he said.

You couldn't tell, until he explained it was his left one.

Harrell, who at 37 is said to have one of the finest voices in America, was born at Celeste, Texas, a small town near Greenville.

When a year and a half old, he was stricken with spasms and convulsions.

"The old doctor said it was stomach trouble," he said.

The attack left his left leg weak. His parents massaged it until he could walk again. He had a recurrence when he was three and a half, and this time the muscles of the leg drew until he was club footed.

"I wore braces until I was a freshman in high school," he said.

"I took treatments and when I was a junior in high school I could move around enough to play tennis and go to dances."

But he was still a cripple.

"I wanted to do whatever I could to be the most valuable to the public, so I decided to become a great violinist," Harrell said.

He studied three years at Oklahoma City university, then went to the Settlement Music school in Philadelphia. He was selected as a student for the Curtis Institute.

It was there, as a violinist, that he was chosen to sing a sailor chanty in the senior recital because the teacher didn't want to embarrass a voice student by getting him tangled up in the tricky rhythm.

Student Recommends Singing

"A fellow student insisted that I visit a music teacher. He told me he could make a singer out of me in seven years. I said 'why not?' since I had already spent 13 years with a violin."

In a few months he was making money singing in churches and on radio programs. In 1939 he won the Metropolitan opera auditions of the air, but tried to turn down a Met offer because he didn't think he was agile enough to cavort around a stage.

His first roles were adapted to conceal his lameness. Then dancing lessons started. Now he's one of the most active stars on the stage.

So, he asked the student who recommended singing lessons to marry him. She did. They have three children.

She, by the way, is Marjorie Fulton, a well-known concert violinist.

Denver Jury Refuses To Indict Boy, 11, for Father's Slaying

DENVER, Jan. 27. (AP) — The Denver county grand jury refused today to indict Martin Rasnick, 11, for the slaying of his father.

Attorneys said this cleared the way for him to be sent to a special institution for rehabilitation, such as Boys' Ranch in Texas.

Detectives said the boy admitted stabbing his father, Clayton, 48, to death Jan. 2 after an argument over his smoking cigarets and doing household chores.

The grand jury reported to District Judge Francis J. Knauss it concluded the boy "cannot distinguish between good and evil."

It recommended that his case be handled by the juvenile court and that the court supervise "his custody until he is 18."

Army Medics Launch Study To Determine Cure For Mole Cancer

CHICAGO, Jan. 27. (U.P.)—The U. S. Army medical department is beginning a five-year research program to attempt to find a cure for the deadly skin disease, malignant melanoma, according to Fifth Army headquarters.

The fatal disease originates from an apparently harmless black mole that suddenly becomes larger. The growth often starts after the mole has been bruised through contact with a tight collar, belt or shoe.

The only cure at present is early surgery. Death usually occurs two to six years after malignancy sets in.

STAFF FOR DELINQUENTS

SINGAPORE —(AP)—Singapore's juvenile delinquents may be sentenced to a term in the children's theater. It's a new idea for handling wayward children, recently suggested here. The proposed theater would be staffed with voluntary workers and would work with the local government's social welfare organization. Under-age committers of minor offenses would be handed over to the social welfare group to help work or act in the children's playhouse. Then, after their "time" has been served, they could return to the theater voluntarily and help run it.

Germans Give Dark Picture Of Living Standard In Red Zone

By DAVID A. LOEHWING
United Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—Former American prisoners of war arriving here from the Russian zone of occupation describe living conditions there as being little above the starvation level.

From 200 to 300 former German soldiers per day come here to receive payment from the U. S. government for the time they served as prisoners during and after the war. They were given only vouchers when they were discharged and the government is now trying to pay off the obligation.

Most of them are from the Russian zone, since those in the western zones have been paid long since. The correspondent talked to several of them as they went through the line at a military government payment office.

All were furtive and distrustful and would talk only after the most solemn assurances they would not be identified. While being questioned they would occasionally glance suspiciously around at their fellows and lower their voices.

Fear Shown

"There's no sense in my trying to tell you how things are in the Russian zone," one of them, a farmer, said bitterly. "You would not believe it."

He seemed to be the most fearful of the lot. When questioned about the collection of crops by the Russian - controlled German economic police, he proclaimed aloud that it is very effective and that farmers must turn in their entire harvest.

Then, almost in a whisper, he said, "Selling to the black market has become very dangerous, but of course we have to do it or we can't live."

The greatest shortage is of cooking fats, all of the former prisoners said.

Almost No Meat

With their ration coupons they are able to buy a few grains of margerine once a week, but it is of such low quality that it is of little use for cooking. Virtually no meat is available except on the black market, and the meat ration is always fish.

Although Germans in the Russian sector of Berlin receive about 100 pounds of coal per month, as contrasted with the 25 pounds allotted in the western sectors, the ex-POW's said there had been no coal ration at all in the Russian zone.

As elsewhere in Germany, the potato crop has been good. Otherwise, the men said, most people would be starving.

Clothing and shoes are virtually impossible to obtain and most of the men were wearing patched remains of army uniforms.

"I spent weeks trying through friends to get a ration coupon for these shoes," a construction worker from Saxonia recounted, "and then had to pay 60 marks for them at a people's co-operative store. That is a week's salary. You see what they are—paper."

One Dollar A Week

He said he worked from 12 to 14 hours a day putting up barracks for workers in the Saxonia uranium mines and thus made 60 marks a week. That is about one dollar at the black market rate of exchange.

"Most workers only make about 35 marks a week," the Saxonian said. "They spend it all for potatoes."

A farm laborer had just received 800 western marks from the U. S. government, worth nearly 3,200 Soviet zone marks or well over a year's wages. I asked him what he was going to do with it.

"What would you do? I'm going to go over to the French sector and get drunk. And I'm going to stay drunk for a long, long time."

Emergency Medical Service Provides Doctor At Any Time

WORCESTER, Mass, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—The oldest emergency medical service in the nation is maintained jointly by the Worcester district medical society and the city's chamber of commerce.

If a Worcester resident cannot locate his own doctor or does not have a family doctor, he can get one merely by dialing a number published in local newspapers. The number is that of a special switchboard whose operators know where to find physicians 24 hours a day.

The service was founded in 1924 and has been widely copied throughout the nation.

Horse Finally Gets Inning In Standing Feud With Automobile

VESTAL, N. Y., Jan. 27. (U.P.) — Several hundred pounds of vengeful horseflesh rebelled against the machine age, to the regret of Henry J. Bucher.

The front of Bucher's car was smashed in as the runaway saddle horse "ambushed" him while he was driving to work in the half-darkness of early morning.

The animal leaped from a bank overlooking the highway and landed, hoofs down, on Bucher's car. The horse freed itself, he told police, and disappeared down the road with an exultant wave of its tail.

Alabama Governor Says He Missed His Political Honeymoon

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The governor of Alabama planked one big foot on the drawing room sofa, stretched another long leg on the coffee table and said:

"I ain't had my political honeymoon, but 'Im going to get it. The people are going to insist on it.

"The people say, 'why don't they let Big Jim alone?" The people in the streets and the people at the branch heads—they demand a man having his chance. And I ain't had mine."

Easing his six-foot-eight-inch frame deep into the sofa, "Kissing Jim" Folsom said:

"I been in two years now. Morally, essentially and executively speaking, my administration has been a success.

Legislature Records 'Bad'

"But my legislative record is a failure. The legislature hasn't followed what the people endorsed. I haven't had the political honeymoon that any governor is supposed to get. And the people are saying if Big Jim don't get it this year from the legislature, then he'll get it next year in the election."

As he spoke his pretty brown-haired wife, soon to be a mother, played an old tune on a piano in an upstairs room of the executive mansion. It was "The Missouri Waltz."

Big Jim cocked his head and smiled.

"That's my favorite tune," he said. Folsom's current hero in American politics is Harry Truman. He says his state program for Alabama is the same as the Truman national program. And he feels like Truman, he has had an uphill fight.

Governor Divides Population

Kissing Jim divides Alamaba's population into two classes—the "got rocks," who are agin him, and "the people," who are for him. He doesn't include anybody who opposes him in "the people."

All of Folsom's critics— and they are highly vocal about it — concede nobody can teach him anything about the art of getting elected. But they don't think he has shown much talent for governing.

And this riles every one of Big Jim's 265 pounds.

"When you hire a man to mow your lawn, you give him a chance to see whether he can mow it before you start kicking him around," he complained.

"But they started right in kicking me before I had a chance to show them. Even so we've raised school teacher pay from an average of $1200 to $1900 in two years. And the poll tax? I just been bald headed and wide open for repeal of the poll tax."

Big Jim still has two years to serve. Under state law he can't succeed himself."

Reply To WTCC Protests Drawn

AUSTIN, Jan. 27. (AP) — The Texas Water Conservation association is drafting a reply to strong protests from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce over a proposed new surface water priority law.

J. E. Sturrock, manager of the TWCA, said he hopes to have his association's answer ready by tomorrow.

Sturrock said the water law changes probably will be presented to the legislature next week.

"Floor Managers" Named

Last night, West Texas legislators met here under the auspices of the WTCC and elected "floor managers" to keep watch on the bills in the Senate and House.

After a telephone conference with D. A. Bandeen, WTCC manager, Sturrock said the West Texas group has three principal points of objection to the bill. They want a section eliminated which would permit "storage" in a natural channel of a stream. They want a provision restored which would allow cities to regain water rights from manufacturing and industrial users. Third, they ask elimination of a section giving cities the right to appropriate and store water for further use.

Sturrock said any changes in the proposed water code must be made by the water laws committee of the TWCA.

Steel Company's '49 Earnings Set Record

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (AP) — Bethlehem Steel corp. earned $90,347,560 in 1948, highest in its history and nearly 77 percent above its 1947 net income.

Reporting this today, E. G. Grace, chairman of the board, said the company has authorized additions and improvements to its properties, which will cost $90,600,000, bringing the total for postwar construction to around $375 million.

The Bethlehem financial report was issued a few hours after President Truman said he still believed steel prices were too high.

Commenting on this at a news conference following the steel company's directors' meeting, Grace said:

"We've made our record earnings, and I don't consider them too high."

Bostonian Makes Certain Every City Visitor Has Place To Sleep

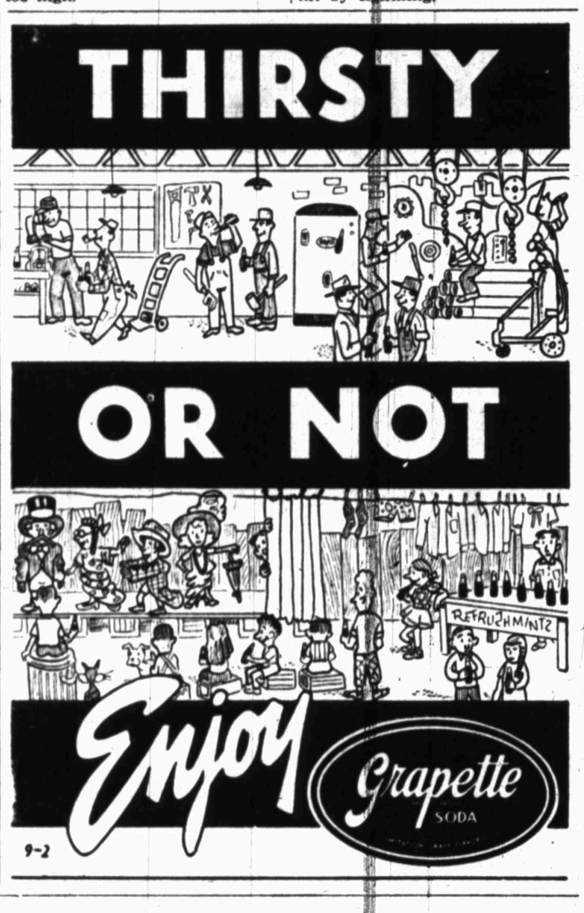

BOSTON, Jan. 27 (U.P.)—Hugh R. Ferguson, 73, has the job of seeing that every visitor to Boston finds a place to sleep.

Ferguson, who believes he operates the only hotel "clearing house" in the nation, works for the Boston Hotel Association from a desk in the lobby of a downtown hostelry.

When visitors are unable to obtain reservations in the downtown area, Ferguson finds them accommodations by telephone at one of the less frequented hotels on the city's outskirts or in the suburbs.

The war-born service also makes advance reservations for clients who have called from as far away as San Francisco.

If you are caught in a thunder storm and cannot get into an automobile or safe building, experts say the best thing to do is to sit down or lie down to avoid being hit by lightning.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

A SURVEY among maunfacturers who will exhibit at the Personal Leather Goods show in Chicago next week indicates that women have not only taken to billfolds and wallets for everyday use, but have made a fashion accessory out of them.

The latest trend is a carry-all case which holds change and folding money, emergency repair tools as comb and lipstick, plus the all important identification and charge account cards. Color will be the theme song for this spring with polka dots introduced along with a rainbow of varied hues designated to match every Easter ensemble.

It so happens that we have about half a dozen wallets but we have yet to find the perfect one. Perhaps it will be manufactured this spring. Our needs require a combination between a desk secretary and a small purse and somehow the designers haven't the idea yet.

It doesn't seem so long ago since a wallet or a billfold was an exclusively made possession. Of course, mother often shared a billfold with dad, but it usually involved going through his trousers pockets in the dead of night to get it. Today, mom has her own billfold to guard and so does daughter.

TREAT IT GENTLY — Homemakers who brew coffee in percolators have an unfortunate tendency to assemble the necessary ingredients, turn on the heat and let the coffee percolate at high speed for an indefinite time. The result is that the coffee often is bitter or too weak.

According to the Pan-American Coffee bureau, to get consistently good results with a percolator, first measure cold water accurately into the pot and place it on heat. When the water boils, remove it from the heat and measure the proper amount of coffee into the basket. Cover, return to heat and allow to percolate gently for six to eight minutes. That's all there is to it.

Today's Town Talk

MRS. JOE N. NISLAR, 2319 Seventeenth, was hostess at a Thursday luncheon in the Lubbock County club honoring Mrs. Otis Taylor, jr., who has recently moved back to Lubbock from Dallas.

Dark green tapers in candlelabra lighted the table, which was centered by an arrangement of rose carnations and blue iris. Floral place cards completed decorations.

Luncheon guests were the honoree and Mesdames Fenner Tubbs, Bud Miller, M. D. Madison, Wright Kerr, R. C. Harvey, C. I. Wall, Cecil Cale, Sam Camp, Oscar Nislar, George Langford, Jimmy Wilson and Morris Davis.

Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Rosebrough, sr., of Sweetwater, are expected to arrive today for a weekend visit in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Rosebrough, jr., 2607 Thirtieth.

Mrs. Mayme Robbins of 2107 Fourteenth can entertain friends for hours with her descriptions of her son's travels abroad.

John studied in London last year at the Royal Theater Guild school, and during the summer he toured Belgium, Switzerland, Austria and Italy with friends. Now a student at the Belitz school in Paris, he is studying French and French drama.

Describing the very old house in which he lives, John says an heirloom lover would "go wild" over the chandeliers, silver, china and furniture there. As an example of the luxury, the fireplace is marble with gold leaf inlay, but firewood is so scarce that a fire is seldom laid on the ornate hearth.

Food in the open markets of the city is very cheap and fresh, especially meats and vegetables. John's Christmas turkey weighed 16 pounds and cost 3,000 francs or about six dollars.

Christmas Eve he attended high mass at Le Catedral de Notre Dame and in his letters to the States describes the service as colorful, beautiful and extremely impressive. Mrs. Robbins talked to John by telephone on Christmas Eve for the first time since he had been in London. She says the reception was very clear from Paris, but in their previous conversations when he was in England she could hardly understand him.

John considers the French "concierge" (combination janitor and business manager of an apartment house) as one of Paris' most interesting institutions. The versatile gentleman sells everything from a bottle of wine to a ton of coal.

One morning after having a little French wine, John and one of his friends visited the Perisian Bird market and went home with half a dozen parakeets and tropical birds. Ever since, John has been playing nursemaid and scavanger for his pets.

Mrs. R. A. Mills, 2627 Twenty-second, is leaving today for Williamsburg, Va., where she will attend the first Antique Forum ever to be held in America. She will be gone about ten days.

At the invitational forum discussion will be given on glass, china, art, silk, furniture and silver. The highlight of the meeting will be a reception in the old governor's mansion.

Demonstration Club Discussed Pruning

Mrs. W. R. Sage was hostess at a meeting of Carlisle Home Demonstration club held in her home recently. The program was on "Shrub Pruning."

Attending were Mesdames Wayne Goodpasture, William Goodpasture, Floyd Hustead, A. E. Newton, and two guests, Mrs. M. J. Hancock and Mrs. J. M. Burman of Idalou.

The club will meet Feb. 8 with Mrs. Hustead.

Supper Is Given As Farewell Courtesy

Mr. and Mrs. Estle Haught and children, Twila and Gary, and Mr. and Mrs. Berlin Haught, Trena and Evonne, who are moving to Shallowater from Smyer were honored with a supper and shower given at the Smyer school Monday night.

The families have lived in Smyer for seven years.

Good Neighbor Group Will Ask Funds To Push Promotion Job

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 27. — The Good Neighbor commission wants to do a more thorough job of promoting better understanding between Anglo and Latin Americans in Texas in 1949.

It will ask the 51st Legislature for an increase in funds to hire one new worker and to give it facilities for publication of literature.

It hopes to relieve Executive Secretary Tom Sutherland — an experienced hand in Latin-American relationships— of some routine duties to give him more time for the job of educating Texans of both racial backgrounds on how to get along better.

Activities Summarized

The commission in reporting on 1948 activities to Gov. Beauford H. Jester gave this summary of what it has done:

1. Assisted in terminating segregation of Latin American children in separate schools in several instances, and in exchange of teachers and students.

2. Assisted in adjusting complaints of other types of discrimination against Latin Americans.

3. Extend its information service to English-speaking and Spanish-speaking people of Texas and Mexico through radio, press, public speeches, meetings and forums.

4. Assisted and co-operated with established community agencies and organizations in promoting better race relationships.

Relations Believed Better

Commission Chairman R. E. Smith of Houston told the governor he believed inter-American relations in the state have been better during 1948, and the commission feels its job is to continue the trend upward.

The Good Neighbor commission was created in 1943 by executive order of then-Governor Coke R. Stevenson. In 1947 it became an official state agency by an act of of 50th Legislature that broadly defined its purpose:

"It shall be the duty of the commission to devise and put into effect methods by which inter-American relations understanding and good will may be promoted and inter-American relations advanced without resort to punitive measures or the application of civil or criminal sanctions."

There is no apparent wish of the commission to amend this, particularly along the lines of increasing legal pressure on cases of discrimination. While many Latin American leaders would like to have such laws enacted, the commission believes it can be most effective over a long period of years by doing the job through processes of education.

All it wants the next legislature to do is give it a little more money to step up its program in communities or areas where it seems better understanding is most needed. It will do this through working with existing organizations — such as service and civic clubs — interested in promoting good will.

Auditor Praises State Highway Department

AUSTIN, Jan. 27. (AP) — The state auditor today called the highway department "one of the state's best organized and operated departments."

Auditor C. H. Cavness, after a thorough study of the huge department's complicated financial operations, said he found everything in good order.

This study covered the fiscal year that ended Aug. 31, 1948.

The report showed a big increase of vehicle fee registration funds, paralleling the increase in the number of new cars available. Registration fees jumped from 22 million dollars plus in 1944 to 39 million plus last year.

Highway department records showed that construction projects totalling more than 83 million dollars were started during the year. Projects completed during the year came to 71 million dollars plus.

Purchases of equipment also showed a big increase, compared with war and immediate post-war years when it was hard to get. In 1944, the department was able to buy equipment of a total value of $187,000. In 1948 this jumped to $4,000,000.

Hunter's Goose Cooked When He Retrieves Goose From Sanctuary

MENDON, Ill., Jan. 27. (U.P.)— Thomas Bastin of Mendon paid $31.85 for a wild goose that belonged to him.

Bastin shot the goose while hunting near a bird sanctuary. The bird flew into the sanctuary before it fell to earth. Bastin climbed into the refuge and took his goose out of a lake.

A conservation officer who arrested him admitted to the judge that the bird was Bastin's but that Bastin should have asked him to get the bird.

The judge charged Bastin the $31.85 for invading the bird refuge.

Man Picks Hard Way To Learn Basic Principle Of Syphon

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 27. (U.P.) — John Mackie bought one of those 3,000 gallon collapsible surplus army water tanks to use as a swimming pool at his farm.

He set the tank up near his house and, using the garden hose, filled it with water. Then he turned off the water and let one end of the hose drop into the cellar, while the other end remained in the water tank.

The next morning, Mackie found the hose had acted as a syphon and had drawn 3,000 gallons of water into his basement cellar.

Ex-Official Says U. S. Far From Socialism

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (INS)—Eric Johnston declared today that the United States is further away from Socialism than any country in the world, because American businessmen have become socialminded.

The president of the Motion Picture association, who has made three separate trips to Europe during the past year, said in an article in Fortune Magazine that European businessmen brought socialization on themselves.

Advances Theory

Johnston, former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, declared:

"The European businessman, by and large, doesn't feel a sense of responsibility to society as a whole; he is not socially minded in the sense that we understand the term. He never has been."

Johnston stated that the anti-trust laws in the U. S. virtually eliminate the chance of geting Socialism in America. He added:

"The American businessman is also learning to regard the worker as a person and a human being instead of just a number on the payroll.

"If business doesn't want more government in business — and I don't — the way out isn't too tough. As business attains greater social - mindedness, there will be less social legislation. The voluntary way is wide open to industry."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—Army Secretary Royall cautioned congressmen today that while war is not imminent, it is "at least a possibility."

Accordingly, he told the House Armed Services committee, the nation must keep its defenses "adequate for each changing situation."

Royall, together with Gen. Omar Bradley, the Army chief of staff, endorsed a proposal pending before the committee to authorize an 837,000-man Army.

70-Group Air Arm

The same bill would authorize a 70-group air force.

Each proposed limit, however, amounts to little more than a figure on a piece of paper, because of budget limitations.

Royall said the Army now has 590,000 officers and men, and plans to go no higher in the next fiscal year which begins July 1. President Truman's 1950 budget would set a 48-group ceiling on the Air Force.

However, if the new authorizations were written into law, all Congress would have to do to make them mean something would be to appropriate more money.

To Keep Draft

Royall also told the committee the Army wants to keep the peacetime draft law on the statute books until its June 24, 1950, expiration date, even though there is no prospect that the drafting of soldiers will be necessary in the immediate future.

"There appears little likelihood that for a number of years to come we will be free of an international situation fraught with danger and subject to marked fluctuations," he said.

Bradley, endorsing the authorization, said it is needed to enable the United States to build up a combat force capable of instant deployment and to provide a foundation upon which the Army can "rapidly create combat capabilities for minimum emergency missions."

Bradley said that an 837,000-man authorization "would not produce an Army capable of anything more than minimum emergency one-shot missions."

(Cong. George Mahon, of Colorado City and Lubbock, chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee On The Armed Services, was among committee members who gathered for the discussion.

(Chiefs of military intelligence, participated in the briefing led by Defense Secretary Forrestal and the other top defense leaders. Some of the report was not made public, Cong. Mahon said later, because of its security nature.)

Great Britain Asks Four-Year International Wheat Agreement

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—Great Britain today asked the International Wheat conference to adopt a four-year pact with reduced prices.

T. Sheed Anderson, chief British delegate, told the assembly that an agreement for four years would be welcomed by the United Kingdom."

"We do not rule out an extension to five years," he added.

The U. S. countered with a demand for $2, last year's maximum, and backing for a five-year deal. Canada took the same position.

Anderson heavily emphasized that "the United Kingdom expects a substantial reduction in the price figures contained in the 1948 agreement — particularly so far as concerns the maxima.

Albert J. Loveland, U. S. undersecretary of agriculture, said the United States "would be willing to agree to a maximum price of $2.00 per bushel as provided in the 1948 agreement provided relatively favorable provisions can be obtained on other points."

Taft Introduces New Labor Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (INS)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) re-introduced in the Senate today major portions of the Taft-Hartley Labor act and charged that Democratic attempts to ram through a repealer are illegal.

Taft said later his purpose in re-introducing the controversial law was to get it before the Senate Labor committee, which opens hearings tomorrow on revision of the old Wagner Labor act.

The committee by a straight party vote of eight to five has gone on record as approving repeal of the "T-H" act and restoration of the Wagner law with possible revisions.

Opposition Forms

Opposition to this action boiled up on the Senate floor. Taft charged the committee acted "arbitrarily." He declared:

"I don't think that can be done legally or otherwise."

Sen. Pepper (D-Fla.), retorted that for the "Democrats repeal of the Taft-Hartley act is a closed question." He said the November elections settled it.

Taft retorted that of the 32 senators elected in November, 17 favored and 14 opposed the "T-H" act. He asked, "How can this be considered a mandate for repeal."

Taft, in re-introducing portions of the law which he co-sponsored, made three important changes.

Communism Clause Omitted

The Ohioan did not re-state his provisions requiring affidavits from union leaders disavowing Communism, but a Labor committee source disclosed that Taft plans to introduce the provision later after making some changes. The senator was said to be considering applying the affidavit section to employers also.

He dropped the provision which now requires a labor relations board election before an employer can grant a union shop. He also eliminated the voting ban on strikers who have been replaced.

Taft's amendment would retain the 80-day injunction against strikes affecting the national health and welfare, restrictions on union welfare funds and practically all of the other provisions of the present law.

Senate Labor committee Chairman Thomas (D-Utah), had expected to introduce today the administration's proposed changes in the Wagner act. His office said that there was a last-minute delay in preparation of the bill. The changes are being drafted by the officials of the executive branch, headed by Labor Secretary Tobin.

Good Language Should Be Heard, Not 'Seen' Is Claim

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Don't say "awnt" for aunt, advises a University of Minnesota professor. And don't say "tomahto" for tomato.

Walter Loban, of the university's humanities division, deplores those pronunciations, and many others, as examples of poor language.

His reason is that they rivit attention to themselves and distract the listener from the sense of what the speaker is saying.

Good language, Loban says, calls as little attention to itself as possible. Good language in his opinion should be as easy and comfortable as an old shoe.

JAPS LIKE COOPERATIVES

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese farmers seem to like the idea of running their own co-operatives. Occupation orders reformed the old government-controlled, compulsory co-ops. Membership is now voluntary. More than 7,250,000 farmers joined 28,000 co-ops and 10,500 mutual relief associations in the first year under the occupation plan.

Lubbock Couple To Finance Boy's Education

Italian Youth Paints Gloomy Picture Of Life In Homeland

"In Italy, there is freedom to die from hunger. That is the only freedom there is," said 17-year-old Mario Veneziano from Rome, Italy, who is visiting in Lubbock.

"You here have the perfect freedom. In Italy, they say it is freedom, but it is not freedom," he said.

Veneziano is visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Johnson of 2903 Twenty-first, who will finance his education in Wayland college in Plainview.

Happy Over Prospects

Veneziano, a smiling boy happy over his prospects of attending Wayland college at Plainview, talked of gloomy aspects of life in Italy.

The boy 17 or 18 years old in Italy is "like the American man of 50 years," he said. The attitude of many boys that age, he said, is, "I am tired to death. The only thing I expect is to die."

Not so much hunger is found in Italy today as existed before the Americans began sending food and other needed items, the boy said.

Has Known Problems

Veneziano has known the problems of food shortage, because during the Mussolini regime his father was unable to obtain work because of he was not a Fascist. "You had to be a Fascist to get a job," the boy said. "They wanted to see your paper to see you were a Fascist. My father didn't have it. He was a Protestant."

The boy's father is director of the G. B. Taylor Memorial orphanage and pastor of a Baptist church. Both the church and orphanage are located in Rome.

During the war, the elder Veneziano's salary as pastor of the church could not be sent from America to Italy, and he was unable to obtain another job. He received his salary from the Foreign Mission board of the Southern Baptist convention. His savings tided the family over during the war years.

Dug For Wild Herbs

"I used to leave Rome at 5 o'clock in the morning by bicycle for a town 18 miles away to get wood and food some kind man gave to us," said the youth. He and his father would take a small knife, with which they would dig wild herbs. Bread was bought for the family to eat with herbs and vegetables.

The boy said he was "very enthusiastic" about America. "My country is a very poor country," he said. "They fight to live." There, they seek something to eat, not the nice homes and automobiles persons in this country seek, he said.

A major problem, he explained, is "there is no work to do. There are many people and little work.

"In Italy, you pass all wour life on a bench in school and when you finish you are nothing. Just a title, but you can't have a job because there is not work.

"If you don't lost any years, you can get your degree when 27. I know a doctor who was 40 years before he received the degree. He's the doctor of our orphanage in Rome."

Must Have A Degree

Many persons in Italy have a degree and "without that piece of paper, we can do nothing," he said.

Veneziano will enrolle next Monday in Wayland college. He has not decided what he wants to do as his life work. He has studied one year in Italy in Dante Adelghieri, called a liceo there and similar to the American university. School work in Italy includes five years of elementary, three years of ginnasio or high schoo land two years of university, or perhaps longer. Four years university training and required before one can be a lawyer, eight years before one can be a doctor and eight years before one can be an engineer.

In Dante Adelghieri, Veneziano said, "I was the only Protestant in my school of 3,000 boys. Others were Catholics."

Many persons in Italy raise vegetables and sometimes livestock on their small plots of land about the size of smaller than a city lot here. The father often supports a son until the son marries.

Frequently Used Gestures

Saying that he frequently used gestures in Italy, the boy raised his hands to different levels, saying the lower hand represents the man and the higher one the woman in America and that he likes America, "because the woman is up." He lowered one hand, placing a greater difference between the two hands and said, in Italy the lower hand represents the status of the woman and the higher hand the status of the man.

Veneziano came here after visiting his sister, Anna Veneziano, a student in East Texas Baptist college at Marshall. Anna came to America in 1947 to study as a Baptist missionary. She spoke in various churches, collecting enough money to make her younger brother's trip to Texas possible. Her studies as sponsored in the college at Marshall by Rev. J. M. Sibley, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church at Beaumont.

Mario was born in Salerno Italy.

Reds Set Quotas For ECMA Plan Countries

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 27. — Russia now has set 1949 trade quotas for all her five fellow members of the economic council of mutual aid (ECMA).

The latest quota was fixed in a trade agreement with Romania, announced today. It calls for a turnover two and a half times that of 1948.

The total was set at 465,000,000 rubles (about $93,000,000), and calls for the "rendering of technical assistance to Romania" in building enterprises and in producing new types of machinery needed by Romanian industry."

The giving of technical assistance was one of the purposes of ECMA, announced earlier this week as an answer to the Marshall plan.

In terms of percentage increases here is how trade between the U.S.S.R. and the other five ECMA countries lines up for this year:

Bulgaria, an increase of 25 per cent, Poland, 35 per cent, Czechoslovakia, 45 per cent, Hungary, 300 per cent, Romania, 250 per cent.

Oil Supply Now Equals Demand

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 27 (U.P.)—Oil supplies have caught up with demand in the U. S., and reserves are at an all-time peak.

The good news came today from the Oil and Gas Journal in its annual review and forecast issue.

The publication said the nation's oil industry made record-breaking gains during 1948 and plans to expand further.

Last year for the first time in history, U. S. crude oil production topped the 2,000,000,000 barrel mark. Output totaled 2,051,433,000 barrels—an increase of 10 per cent or 195,336,000 barrels over 1947 production.

To Emphasize Processing

Production this year will be two to three per cent higher than last year, The Journal predicted, but the industry now will concentrate on increasing its capacity to transport and refine oil.

By the middle of this year, new refineries and additions to old plants will increase the nation's crude-processing capacity by 540,000 barrles per day, or 8.5 per cent over the 1948 figure, The Journal estimated.

Wells drilled in the United States last year totaled 39,778, an all-time high. They had a total footage of 137,392,000 feet, a distance three times the diameter of the earth.

Oil men apparently intend to drill fewer but deeper wells this year, The Journal said plans call for about five per cent fewer wells but slightly more footage drilled.

Proven recoverable reserves of oil in the ground were increased by 1,341,000,000 barrels during 1948 despite heavy production. The Journal estimated reserves at 27,325,000,000 barrels as of Jan. 1, 1949. That is slightly more than 12 times the current annual rate of production.

New oil discoveries were credited to an expanded program of wildcatting. The Journal said even more wildcatting is planned this year, with 7,000 wildcat wells planned for 1949 compared with 6,877 drilled in 1948. Fifteen per cent of the wildcatters drilled last year found oil.

Domestic demand for petroleum products is expected to average 6,213,000 barrles per day during 1949, six per cent greater than the demand last year, which in turn was 7.6 per cent greater than in 1947.

The United States was a net importer of oil last year for the first time in 25 years. During 1949 imports of crude oil and refined petroleum products may average as much as 543,000 barrels daily, or 8.3 per cent more than in 1948, while exports may increase by only 2.4 per cent and reach 387,000 barrels daily, The Journal said.

Former West Point Commander To Take Over Post In Germany

Gen. Taylor, a combat veteran of World War II, will leave aboard the Army transport General Harry Taylor for Bremerhaven. He will make his headquarters at Heidelberg.

Almost $2 Million Paid For Building

HOUSTON, Jan. 27. (AP) — Announcement of sale of the 21-story downtown Sterling building at a reported consideration of about $2,000,000 was announced today.

Sale of 100 percent of capital stock of the Texas and Fanning corporation, owner of the building, occurred December 30. The stock was sold by David C. Bintliff and other Houston residents to an associated group of New York and Houston investors, represented by Paul E. Wise, trustee.

The building was constructed in 1930 by former Governor Ross S. Sterling. It was purchased by Bintliff in 1946 for approximately $1,650,000.

What's This 'Air Age' Talk? Ship And Train Collide In Fog

DRAYTON HALL, S. C., Jan. 27. (U.P.) — A railroad passenger train and a ship collided near here.

The train was on its track and the ship was on the water.

The engineer of the Everglades, an Atlantic Coast Line passenger train, was rattling along in an early morning haze when he saw the bow of a large ship overhanging the track across a trestle over the Ashley River. Before he could stop, the locomotive slammed into it.

The ship was a 175-foot landing craft infantry, which had broken its mooring and drifted 360 feet until it hit the trestle. Ship and train suffered minor damage.

Gall-wasps of both sexes may be produced from unfertilized eggs.

Westerner Cagers To Tangle With Plainview Bulldogs Tonight

Tech's Red Raiders Meet H-SU's Cowboys Here Tonight

Raiders Place Border Record Of Six Wins, One Loss On The Line

Texas Tech's basketball team, with a record of six Border Conference wins against one loss, puts its record on the line tonight at 8:15 in Tech gym against Hardin-Simmons, which has won four and lost two in loop play.

The Red Raiders, perched in second place behind the undefeated Arizona Wildcats, must win tonight to remain in the thick of the fight. The Cowboys, by the same token, also must win to retain third place. And when you remember that these two rivals always have bitter meetings, you can expect anything to happen.

Odds on Raiders

The odds favor the Raiders tonight, not only because of their good records in the Border circuit but also because of the caliber of the opposition they have met outside the loop. They have taken two out of three from SMU beaten Rice and added scalps of Marshall, North Texas and McMurry.

Hardin-Simmons has won two games outside the conference and its losses have not been disgraceful by a long measure. The Phillips "66" Oilers, Marshall and TCU hung losses on them, but they all boast good quintets.

Cowboys Are Mad

Another thing that will make the Cowboys tougher tonight was the loss to Howard Payne this week. The Yellow Jackets had to go into overtime to hand the Cowboys their loss and when two of the Cowboys fouled out, it practically handed the home team a 64-63 victory. The Hardin-Simmons quintet ended the game with only three players on the floor.

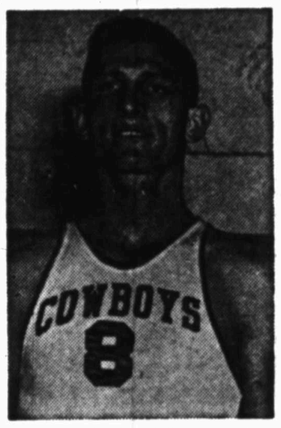

That defeat by Howard Payne Tuesday night may have been all the Cowboys needed to make them rough on Tech. Moreover, Jack Martin is coaching the Cowboys this year and he hasn't forgotten the beatings he took for three years. He definitely will be seeking revenge and nothing would be sweeter than to knock Tech out of the running.

Robison Worried

Coach Polk Robison is worried about this game. He hasn't had his squad together much for the last few days, since semester examinations have had priority on the cagers. As a result, only a few have been able to report for practice at any one time. This layoff may have caused the former smoothe-working machine to become rusty.

The game is open to the public tonight and tickets of admission will cost $1 each, with no reserved seats. The varsity game will follow the freshman tilt.

Probable starting line-up for Tech will be Gene Gibson and Whistle Banks, forwards; Don Grove, center; and Ardis Barton and Jiggs Jackson, guards.

COWBOY CAGER—J. M. "Slats" Stagner is the high scorer on the Hardin-Simmons basketball team that plays Texas Tech tonight. Stagner has paced the Cowboys into third place, just behind the Red Raiders, and tonight's Border Conference game will be a crucial one for both teams.

Raider Frosh To Meet H-SU Fish

The first test of the year for the Texas Tech freshmen will come tonight in Tech gym when the Red Raider yearlins entertain the Hardin-Simmons freshmen in an exhibition game at 6:30 p. m.

Both teams have played some this season, but the Raider first year men have had only one test. They turned back Odessa Junior college cagers, 51-39, for their only official outing. The Cowboy yearlings met and were defeated by the Howard Payne Fish only this week.

May Copy Varsity

Cowboy yearlings are expected to copy the varsity in style, just as the Raider Freshmen will emulate their varsity mates.. And while both teams will be using varsity plays and type of floor action, the outcome won't necessarily indicate how the two varsity teams will fare.

Three first year men are distinguishing themselves for Tech, showing up well both in practice and in the Odessa tilt. Jack Alderson of Lubbock, Jimmy Eddins of Sudan and Monte Roy of Hobbs, N. M., all have looked good so far. They are good ball handlers, play a fine floor game and have shown an eagle eye for the hoops.

Irl Brown of Katonah, N. Y., will be at center for the Fish, after making the all-district five in New York state. New York named no all-state quintet, but Brown probably would have gained it on his play.

The fifth man expected to start for Tech is Ted O'Neal of Wellington or possibly Jim Sharp of Amarillo. Both boys have been showing up well on the court and give promise of causing the Cowboy Fish a tough night.

In reserve will be Don Bagwell, Glen Lucas, Doral Sandlin, Charles Campbell, Carter Page and Archie Campbell.

Sanders Motors Wins Cage League Crown

Sanders Motor's smooth-working quintet clinched the championship of the Industrial Independent basketball league here Thursday night at the O. L. Slaton Junior High school gym by drubbing Crawford Electric, 46-38.

Bobby Layne paced the Motormen to the victory with 10 points, while Dingy Davis topped Crawford with 17 points.

The triumph was the seventh straight win for the Sanders crew in league play, and gave the Motor quint the loop crown.

In the City Independent league, Levelland's Refiners dropped the Texas Lumber Bin, 35-28, as McKee scored 12 points. H. Rhodes led the Lumber Bin with eight points.

Boston Yanks Owner Says He May Hire Luckman As Coach

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (INS)—Ted Collins, owner of the Boston Yanks, said today he may yet land Sid Luckman as coach of his football team.

Collins bitterly denied a story that he already had signed the famous veteran quarterback of the Chicago Bears.

"I haven't even talked to Luckman," said Collins, "but when that story was published, I got in touch with George Halas, owner of the Bears and he said he would not stand in Luckman's way if I wanted him as my coach.

"Now I will try to see Luckman and it may be that I will sign him. But I certainly haven't done so yet and that story was just an irresponsible pipe dream."

Muleshoe Cage Meet Play Opens

MULESHOE, Jan. 27 (Special)—First round play in the Muleshoe Invitational high school basketball tournament was completed here tonight, with five teams chalking up wins over opponents and one team winning by forfeit.

The Levelland boys turned in one of the most impressive wins of the tussles, drubbing the Muleshoe "B" by a 58-14 count. Paul Humphries chalked up 12 points for Levelland and John Whittle scored nine for Muleshoe.

The Spade boys dropped Springlake, 36-22, as Streety hit the loop for 22 points. Smith notched 17 for Springlake. In another boys' clash the Muleshoe "A" took a 23-21 win over Bula. Ed Nickels tallied 12 points for Muleshoe and Cash hit eight for Bula.

The Three-Way boys took a forfeit win over Morton.

In the girls' bracket Texico scored a mild upset by defeating Levelland, 40-36. Pat Ingram paced Texico with 14 points, while Tipton and Shrum each scored 14 for Levelland.

The Sudan girls nosed out Springlake, 29-28, in an overtime setto Williams topped Sudan with 18 points and Clevenger tallied 15 for Springlake.

A clash between the Muleshoe and Bula girls will be replayed Friday, it was announced, as a result of confusion concerning the score. The scorebook showed Muleshoe as the winner at the end of the game, but a later check proved the score to be 20-20.

Second round contests will be completed Friday.

List To Be Closed Monday At 5 P. M.

Deadline Draws Near For Gloves Entries

Time, like sand in an hour glass, is running out for Golden Gloves fighters who have not yet put in their entries, with only two days left.

There still are some boys on the South Plains who intend to enter who have not yet sent in their entry blanks. They must do it not later than Monday night at 5, when the door is closed to entries. Moreover, by 5 p.m. Monday, all boys planning to enter the fights must have reported to Texas Tech gym for weighing in, physical examination and other routine that they must go through.

The most important thing for Golden Glovers is their release card, which must be returned signed at the time they weigh in. Boys over 21 may sign their own names, taking the responsibility, but boys under 21 must have a parent or guardian sign their card. NO BOY WILL BE ALLOWED TO FIGHT UNLESS THIS CARD IS FILLED OUT.

Meanwhile, preparations for the fight card in Texas Tech gym received a boost in the arm last night, when Morley Jennings announced that four nights had been set aside for the bouts. Instead of running three nights as originally scheduled, the Golden Gloves will be Monday through Thursday nights.

Persons holding reserved seat tickets now will be given an opportunity to buy a ticket for the fourth night, if they so desire. Otherwise, the ticket will be put on public sale. General admission tickets are still available and can either be bought in advance, or may be bought the night of each fight.

The entry list was raised by one yesterday when Dwayne Driver of Idalou, a 17-year-old 138-pound fighter sent in his entry. Driver has boxed for eight years, having 37 fights and winning 29. Last year he fought James Forbes of Brownfield in the opening round of the high school division's featherweight class, losing the decision. This year he has entered the open division.

Ray Morrison Gives Up Job At Temple U.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27. (AP)—Ray Morrison, Temple football coach for the last nine years, resigned today in a move that caught university athletic officials by surprise.

"We had no inkling Morrison would resign," said a university spokesman.

The veteran gridiron pilot came here after successful hitches at Vanderbilt and Southern Methodist where he developed the aerial circus brand of football popular in the southwest.

He never was a great success at Temple. In only two of the years he coached here did Morrison field a winning team.

With Andy Tomasic sparking the team, Temple won seven and lost two in 1941. In 1945, the Owls won seven and dropped only one. Overall, Morrison-coached Temple teams won 31, lost 38 and tied nine.

Morrison had little to say about his resignation. He said he intends to remain in football but would say nothing further than "I'm going south."

His remark gave credence to a rumor circulating last week that he intended to take up coaching duties at Austin college, Sherman, Tex. At that time, Morrison laughed off the report.

He began his coaching career at Southern Methodist in 1915, the year the Texas school was founded. He remained at S.M.U. until 1921 when he returned for a year at Vanderbilt.

In 1922 he was back at S.M.U., leading the Mustangs to several Southwest Conference championships before he returned to Vanderbilt again in 1934.

He stayed at Vanderbilt until 1940 when he came to Temple replacing Fred Swan.

Temple took no immediate steps to choose a successor to Morrison.

Boys Club Will Take Road Trip

Four Lubbock Boys club basketball teams and their coaches, Jerry Starkey, Glen White and Assistant Director Vernon L. Jackson, will leave by chartered bus at 7 o'clock Saturday morning for Wichita Falls, where the Lubbock cagers will resume their annual series with the Wichita Falls club.

The Wichita Falls Boys club will return the games here Saturday, Feb. 5.

Boys making the trip on the Senior squad will include Rodger Van Cleave, Gene Tollison, Jackie Cook, Jack McLarty, Billy Bohner, Bobby Nabors, Mackie Lawrence, Dan Adkisson, J. B. Elliott and Davis Hooper. Junior squadmen will be Billy Averitt, Donnie Washington, Allen Rosen, Sammie Adams, Charles Rand, Ray McLarty, Bobby Henley, Gene Seward, Jimmy Johnston and Morris Berger.

Boys competing for the Midgets will include Glen Akin, Douglas Tucker, Don Tucker, Ira Owens, Jerry Shipp, Dennis Calvert, Bill Ray Long, Eugene Ward, Wray Clark and Jerry Martin.

Pee Wee squad members will be Roy Lee Tunnell, Roy Day, George Jones, Paul Sikes, Tinker Carlen, Dean Fawcett, Wendell Hester, Nelson Starr, Kenneth Stevenson, Jay Ledbetter, Jack Easterwood and Glenn Lawson.

RALLS BEATS CROSBYTON

CROSBYTON, Jan. 27. (Special)—Ralls' Jackrabbits nosed out the Crosbyton Chiefs, 19-18, in a District 3-A cage battle here tonight as Lynch tallied six points. Dendy and Simmons each scored six points for Crosbyton.

Lubbock Will Try To Gain Fourth District 1-AA Win In Five Starts

Lubbock High's speedy Westerner cagers will bid for their fourth District 1-AA triumph in five starts at 8 o'clock tonight at the Wayland college gymnasium, in Plainview, where the Hub city quint will tangle with the Plainview High Bulldogs.

The Westerners hold the runner-up spot in the district standings, with three wins and a single defeat, and a victory over the Bulldogs tonight would protect Lubbock's chances for completing the season in the lead position. The game will also be the fourth district game on the road for the Westerners, and leave only one more journey on the Lubbock schedule.

Lubbock Is Favored

Coach Roy Morris' Westerners will enter the tilt tonight as clear favorites, but the veteran mentor has warned his squad members that they must except a terrific battle from the Bulldogs. The Plainview quint has not won a district game, but has looked extremely good at times. The Bulldogs had Amarillo deadlocked at 20-20 just before halftime, then fell victim to a Sandie rally, and the Plainview boys lost a tough overtime tussle with Brownfield.

Coach Morris is expected to start his regular lineup against the Bulldogs, with tall Jimmy Sexton returning to his forward post. Sexton was out of action all last week as a result of illness, but the sharp-shooting junior has been participating in practice sessions during the last two or three days.

Galey Will Start

Other Westerner starters will probably include Charles Galey, stellar Lubbock shot-maker, at a guard slot; Blair Hankins, guard, Bob Rooker, forward; and big Jim Wilson, center. The Westerner offense this season has been built around Wilson and Galey and both boys will probably be closely watched by the Bulldogs.

Plainview's starters will probably include Donnie Roberts at center, Bill Blair and Bobby Kay at guards and H. B. Earthman and Gene Meek, forwards. Most of the regulars were "B" team members last season.

The feature clash will be preceded by two other games. The Carroll Thompson Junior High quint of Lubbock is scheduled to meet the Plainview juniors at 6 o'clock, then the Lubbock and Plainview "B" teams will tangle at 7.

In other District 1-AA contests the Pampa Harvesters will invade Amarillo for a setto with the Golden Sandies, while the Borger Bulldogs will journey to Brownfield to meet the Cubs.

Anton Quintet Defeats Hoyt's

ANTON, Jan. 27 (Special)—Anton's American Legion five drubbed the Hoyt Furniture quint from Lubbock 61-35, in the second round of the independent cage tourney here tonight. Davis scored 20 points for Anton and Downing led Hoyt with 12.

The Plains Gassers trounced Littlefield, 51-25, as Johnson scored 27 points. Brock topped Littlefield with 16 points.

Blue Flame nosed out Primm Drug of Brownfield, 39-37, in a feature clash, as Ennis tallied 17 points, Finley notched 15 for Primm.

Three games will be unreeled here Friday night, with Sanders of Lubbock meeting the Thomas Tinkers at 7 o'clock, Levelland battling Crawford Electric of Lubbock at 8 and Anton Legion testing Shallowater at 9.

Baylor U. Bear, Josephine, Gives Birth To Twin Cubs

WACO, Jan. 27. (AP)— About a year ago, rumor had it that Joe and Josephine, mated bears of Baylor university, were expecting. But no information could be found on the expectancy period of bears.

In a few weeks the matter was forgotten.

Today, Josephine gave birth to twin cubs.

But the father killed one of the cubs and badly maimed the other. A local veterinarian is attempting to save the life of the survivor.

MANGRUM TO ENTER

HOUSTON, Jan. 27. (AP) —Houston Golf Association officials today said Lloyd Mangrum, leading golf money winner last year, definitely will play in the Houston Open February 17-20.

Williams Meets Gavilan Tonight

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (AP) — Lightweight champion Ike Williams, a close winner over Cuban Kid Gavilan last February, is a 5 to 13 favorite to do it again tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden in another 10-round nontitle bout.

If Ike is to be matched with Ray Robinson the welter king, in an outdoor match this summer as planned, he needs to get past Gavilan with a little more to spare. Gavilan, a ranking contender, is pressing Sugar Ray for a shot at that 147-pound crown.

With Gavilan expected to weigh 146 or 147 to Ike's 139, the weight difference will be pronounced. Under private contracts they were only five pounds apart for the first bout when the Cuban Kid hit an unexpected low of 141¼. Perhaps that helped his speed but, more likely it took a little sting from his punches.

It is difficult to figure the odds on the return bout. Gavilan, a cute prancer with a proven ability to take a good punch, made it fairly close while losing to Robinson in a non-title match last September.

Williams carries the heavy artillery. There's no question about that.

Baseball Districts To Be Organized

AUSTIN, Jan. 27. (AP)—The Interscholastic league announced tentative organization of its high school baseball districts here today.

State champions will be decided in AA and City Conference play, and Conference A schools will play to regional championships. Conference B playoffs will go only to the bi-district round.

March 1 is the closing date for assignment to districts, and district champions in AA, A and B Conferences must be certified by May 14. The last day for certifying City Conference winners is May 28.

The state championship AA tournament will be held June 2-4 in Austin, and the City Tournament is scheduled for June 10-11 in Dallas.

DiMaggio And Feller Reject '49 Contracts

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (AP)—Are the lush days in baseball over? Will the attendances which have skyrocketed the past few years begin to level off in 1949?

These questions are being asked today following disclosure that Joe DiMaggio and Bob Feller, two of the game's highest salaried performers, have rejected terms based on bonus arrangements.

The star New York Yankee outfielder and the fireball Cleveland hurler are reluctant to gamble on the attendance clauses providing for extra payments.

It was learned that the Yankees offered DiMaggio a basic salary of $65,000 with a bonus on attendance above 1,500,000. This is an increase of $10,000 in basic salary but the bonus item is the same. Conceivably, it could net him $85,000.

DiMaggio, it is reported, is satisfied with the basic raise but objects to gambling on the attendance. He is not quite willing to accept the theory that the Yankees will attract as many persons as last year when they set a club high of around 2,400,000 paid admissions.

Feller made no mystery about rejecting boss Bill Veeck's offer. Discussing his dissatisfaction with newspapermen, Bob said he was disturbed over the prospect of decreased attendance.

"I think there will be fewer people because I don't think we'll have the breaks with the weather we had last year when we weren't rained out of a single home game," he said. "Also don't forget the race won't be as close."

Texas Discusses Cherry Contract

AUSTIN, Jan. 27. (AP)—A new head football coaching contract for J. Blair Cherry will be considered by the University of Texas board of regents, which meets here tomorrow and Saturday. Terms were not disclosed.

Cherry reportedly has received at least one definite offer from a professional team and has submitted to university officials his terms under which he would be willing to remain at Texas.

There has been speculation the council and athletic committee of the board of regents would recommend a sizeable increase and perhaps a five-year contract.

Cherry has completed one year of a three-year contract and is reportedly receiving $11,000 to $12,000 annually.

Cotton Center High School Beats Witharral Boys, Girls

WHITHARRAL, Jan. 27 (Special)—Cotton Center High school went home with victories over Whithalrral boys and girls basketball teams in games here tonight.

The boys weren't pressed in winning, 43-28, and the girls had little more trouble taking a 38-27 victory to extend their winning mark for the season.

JOCKEY FORGOT TO PULL THE RIPCORD IN THIS PICTURE—Tom Mabbut wasn't getting ready to join the Royal Air Force when he took this header during the running of the Ashdown Handicap Steeplechase at Surrey, Eng. In fact, it wasn't his own idea. Cropper King, the horse he was riding, came a-cropper on one of the jumps and Mabbut let nature take its course. In this case, it was a solo flight over the horse and onto the turf. The game little jockey didn't even let go of his bat. A picture like this might discourage some people from becoming jockeys.

St. Louis Cards Change Hands

Hannegan Sells For Two Million

By GENE ROGUSKI
INS Staff Correspondent

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27. — Robert E. Hannegan tonight placed the destiny of the St. Louis Cardinals in the hands of Fred M. Saigh, Jr., 43-year-old attorney and wealthy real estate man.

Hannegan, former postmaster general and ex-chairman of the Democratic national committee, stepped down from the presidency of the National league baseball club for reasons of health.

He made the announcement as reports circulated that the neighboring American league Browns—occupying offices less than 100 feet away—would change ownership. However, all parties concerned in the case of the Browns denied such a movement is under way.

The retiring Cardinal president issued a statement saying he has sold his interest in the club to Saigh and explained:

"My physician has advised me that the tension and pressure of the work as president of the Cardinals is not conducive to the completion of the health program he has outlined for me."

Saigh To Head Club

Saigh will become president of the club. He also will be chairman of the board of directors. Saigh became vice-president and treasurer when he and Hannegan headed a syndicate which bought the Cardinals and their extensive minor league interests from Sam Breadon.

The syndicate paid Breadon four million dollars and Hannegan acquired 50 per cent of the stock. Hannegan and Saigh did not reveal the price paid for Hannegan's stock. However, it is believed that the consideration was around two million dollars.

Hannegan said he will leave for Florida this week and rest there until June. After that he plans to return to St. Louis and enter the insurance business. He said he wanted to emphasize that he is not ill at present.

"My health," Hannegan stated, "is better now than it has been for the last five or six years. But my mother and father both died of high blood pressure. I'm 45 years old and it's time I took some precautionary measures."

Hannegan disclosed that while he was in Washington for the inauguration of President Truman, the latter's physician, Brig Gen. Wallace Graham, advised him to take a rest "and that is the advice I am following."

Saigh, born at Springfield, Ill., and a practicing attorney in St. Louis since 1927, said:

"There will be no change in the club's policies."

And that meant Eddie Dyer will remain as manager of the Redbirds. Saigh is a strong supporter of Dyer and always attended conferences when the pilot and Hannegan had business to discuss.

"I am a Dyer man," Saigh said in reiterating that he likes the way the club stacks up at present.

Saigh attended Bradley Polytechnic Institute and Northwestern university. He is a member of the American and Missouri Bar associations, head of the Railway Exchange Building, Inc., in St. Louis and an executive officer of a real estate corporation.

Sports Study

By Earl Scudday

Several changes have been made in the coaching setups over the South Plains during the last two or three weeks, with Littlefield making the most recent shift. The Littlefield High officials have signed as an assistant coach R. M. Patterson, all-conference tackle for the 1948 Texas conference football champions—the McMurry Indians. The burly Patterson, who earned his third letter as an Indian last fall, will assist J. Stanley Fikes, Hardin-Simmons grad who has mentored the Littlefield Wildcats for several years. Patterson will assume his duties at Littlefield Aug. 15, when fall training gets underway.

On the subject of football, the schools in the "new" District 3-AA, who will clash for a loop grid title this fall, are already trying to put their opponents on the well-known "hot spot." Several of the sports scribes in the new circuit have tabbed Odessa as the team to beat for the championship, while others have given Lubbock the nod. One of the few schools which have been given a chance to win is Midland, where veteran Tugboat Jones has taken over the reins. Of course Lamesa, aided by a huge school consolidation program, is considered a very dangerous contender. Only Brownfield, faced with a tough rebuilding problem and outmanned, is definitely eliminated in pre-season predictions.

It is our personal opinion that Coach Joe Coleman's Broncos deserve the favorite's spot in the district this fall. Coleman will have the services of such returning regulars as End Paul Erwin, Fullback Howard (Jake) Dye, and Quarterbacks Carl Beard and Charles Clover. Coleman will also have other lettermen who played lots of ball last season, including Halfbacks Joe Howell and T. W. Harvey, Centers Jimmie Bass and Clyde Smith, Guard Bobby Allred and Tackle Roy Heard. In fact, three of the boys who were in the backfield when the Broncs made their best showing against the Sandies in the quarter-final setto—Clover, Dye and Howell—will be available. Coleman will also have the services of the top performers from the Odessa "B" team, which last season was hailed as one of the best reserve groups in the state.

Several months ago schoolboy grid expert George Kellam made the statement that "Odessa, for the next several years, will field the outstanding schoolboy team in the state." And George is supposed to know.

The Westerners are, in our opinion, the chief threat to the Broncs' grid supremacy. Coach Pat Pattison will have only four regulars of the '48 season back, but the boys returning are top-flight performers. The group, which includes Backs Bobby Brown and Malcolm Young, Tackle Joe Brock and Center Douglas Wienke, will give Coach Pattison "something to build on" next season. In 1948, as most Lubbock fans will remember, Pattison had only one returning regular on his squad. Also bidding for starting assignments will be some players who saw considerable action this year, including End Billy Wright, Tackle Freddie Gray and Back Wayne Stroud. They might just give Odessa a run for their money next season.

Midland reportedly will have eight lettermen back, enough to make the Bulldogs a threat, and Lamesa will reportedly field a big, veteran line and a speedy backfield. The Tornadoes are making a rapid climb up the athletic ladder in West Texas, and could prove to be the dark horse of the district race.

Sale Of Browns Is Denied By Owner

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27. (INS)—Richard C. Mukerman expressed surprise today over a report that two of his subordinates are purchasing the St. Louis Browns.

Muckerman is president and majority stockholder of the club. He said emphatically:

"I am still the owner of the controlling interest. Bill and Charlie De Witt have not bought the club. The report is not true."

Bill and Charlie De Witt are vice-president and traveling secretary, respectively, of the Browns.

The De Witts, according to the report of the impending sale of the Browns, were supposed to have the necessary financial backing for such a deal from Col. Sydney M. Shoenberg, Sr., a St. Louis broker and member of a family prominent in the successful development of the May Department Store Company.

Shoenberg could not be reached for comment. However, one of his three sons, Sydney, Jr., told International News Service:

"I am sure my dad is not involved in such a transaction."

Sam Snead Leads In Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 27. (AP)—Sammy Snead found the wet, soggy greens to his liking here today as he took an early lead in the $10,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament with a three-under-par 68.

Others, including Ben Hogan, who started in quest of a third consecutive title this year, found it rougher going. Hogan finished with a one-over-par 72 after carding a six on the par-four 12th hole.

Three golfers had scores of 69 to move into a tie for second place with about half the field still out. Earliest to come in was Tex Consolver of Wichita, Kas. He was followed by Jack Harden of El Paso, Tex., and Jack Burke, jr., of White Plains, N. Y.

Three players were also bracketed at 70—Bill Nary, Phoenix, Leland Gibson, Kansas City, Mo., and Bob Hamilton, Landover, Md.

As he finished his low-scoring round, Snead commented he'd "shed his green trouble for the day."

The longest putt the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., shooter dropped was a 25-footer on the 16th hole.

On hand to challenge Hogan's try for a third consecutive 1949 tournament title were 139 golfers. Hogan already has copped top money in the Bing Crosby and Long Beach events in California.

Besides Harden, the only other Texan in the top 40 today was Iverson Martin, Graham, Tex., with 38-37—75.

Other Texans' scores include Wally Hardin, El Paso, 38-38—76; Chuck Klein, Amarillo, 39-39—78.

Arthur (Otts) Zahn, head basketball coach at George Washington University, was a top star as a player at the school from 1930 to 1933.

Louis Offered $250,000 For Chicago Fight

CHICAGO, Jan. 27. (INS)—Cook County Democratic Committeeman J. T. Plunkett tonight promised heavyweight champion Joe Louis a minimum guarantee of $250,000 for a title defense in Chicago next June.

Plunkett made known his offer in a letter to Truman Gibson, Louis' attorney, on the stationery of Central Committee of the Democratic Party in Cook County.

Plunkett's offer was:

1. $50,000 on the signing of contracts; another $50,000 within 90 days thereafter;

2. Minimum guarantee of $250,000 or 50 per cent of the gross gate less taxes;

3. 45 per cent of radio sales; 45 per cent of motion picture sales; 50 per cent of television sales.

Earlier, Gibson had said Louis would fight in Chicago for a guarantee of $400,000 or 50 per cent of the gate; 50 per cent of movie and radio rights and 100 per cent of television rights.

Gibson said in Chicago today that Louis is not bound by contract to fight in New York.

Plunkett's offer was written on the letterhead of Jacob Arvey, Democratic chairman in Cook County. Arvey had disclaimed any knowledge of a similar previous offer to Louis by Plunkett. It was not immediately known whether Arvey was behind the new offer.

The Canadian amateur golf championship was first held in 1895.

Texas Schools May Have Spring Practice

BEAUMONT, Jan. 27. (AP)—The return of spring football training to the larger schools is seen by Stan Lambert, publicity director of the Texas High School Coaches Association.

A referendum will be submitted by the Texas Interscholastic league in April.

"The coaches have interpreted the re-submission of the question on the recommendation of the advisory council to mean that after a year without spring practice the council now sees the mistake made in the referendum that abolished it from the spring calendar," Lambert said in a publicity release today. "They further feel that the referendum will rectify this mistake in the same manner that the council deserted the 14-district feature of the football plan after it became evident the idea was impractical."

Last fall there were 14 districts in the Class AA division, causing two district champions to draw byes in the opening round of the state play-off.

Lambert said the coaches were pleased that the question of spring training is being submitted by conferences.

"Many of the coaches in the smaller schools are opposed to its return because they want to have a well-rounded spring athletic program and they do not have enough athletes in school to have football, baseball and track at the same time," he declared. "The concensus of a large majority of the AA coaches, however, is that spring football fills a definite need."

Lambert said that the men who have the closest contact with the boys also heartily agree with the opinion expressed in The Interscholastic Leaguer, the official publication of the league, which, speaking editorially, advised the school men to consider the welfare of the boys involved and to vote accordingly. "They point out that in the larger school particularly many of the boys who want to play football find themselves without a spring sport because they are not fast enough to compete in track and are either not interested or not well enough coordinated to play basketball."

Idalou Cagers Roll Up 48-28 District 7-B Win Over Lorenzo

The Idalou girls edged by the Lorenzo girls, 23-20, with Bocanougher scoring eight points. Isom paced Lorenzo with 15 points.

New Cold Front Is Forecast As Sun Thaws Out Much Of State

would be a "little colder" than Thursday, with a low early today of 18 to 20 degrees.

Winds ranging from 15 to 24 miles an hour are predicted for this morning. Velocity is expected to increase up to 35 miles an hour with the arrival of the cold wave this afternoon, with temperatures dropping to a minimum of 10 degrees Saturday morning.

No Precipitation Seen

No precipitation is believed accompanying the new blast, the forecasters said. A low pressure area in the Great Lakes region is expected to pull off the moist air over the Midwest and leave Texas with its first "blue norther" of the winter. It was indicated, however, that if the Great Lakes low failed to drain off the Midwest precipitation, it might shift over the Panhandle-South Plains section of Texas. This remained an unpredictable possibility last night.

If the weather follows through as forecast, the South Plains will have clear to partly cloudy skies today, and partly cloudy skies tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Thursday's sun melted a great frozen section of the state out of bondage The Associated Press reported. Temperatures soared and the Weather bureau reported a definite thaw in the big ice area stretching from Denison and the Red river on the north to Hillsboro on the South and from near Paris on the east to Gainesville on the west.

Two deaths were reported Thursday connected with the weather. Mrs. Alice Wilson, 61, died at Fort Worth from exposure. Roy A. Stinchcomb, a carpenter, was electrocuted at Denton when he came in contact with a power line which had fallen to the ground because of the weight of ice.

The forecast indicated the thawing process may continue for most of the storm area Friday. Then it warned livestock owners:

Temperatures may fall to 10 to 16 degrees in the upper Red river valley by Saturday morning; to five to 10 degrees in the Panhandle, and 10 to 16 in the South Plains by the same time.

The Dallas Weather bureau said a low pressure area had developed in Oklahoma. It said circulation of air to the southern side of the low should bring the colder weather to Texas.

Thirty-eight towns remained isolated from communications and others were without power from the second great ice storm in two weeks. Lines snapped, poles broke, an dthe tree damage was fantastic. The ice killed trees by tens of thousands. Fort Worth alone reported damage to trees and utility installations at $1,000,000. That city still fought power and communications difficulties Thursday night. Streets were blocked in 200 places.

McKinney Hard Hit

George Smith, manager of radio station KMAE, McKinney, said the ice proved a heavier blow to that city's power and communication lines than last year's tornado. Four 60-foot towers collapsed of ice-weight at Waxahachie and that community was entirely without power. Lines of the Texas Power and Light company were iced down in many places from Hillsboro to the Red river.

Five radio stations went off the air at Dallas, due to ice damage. They were WFAA, KRLD, WRR, KLIF, and KSKY. Station KIXL was the sole survivor for many hours.

WFAA and KRLD had power restored by transmitters late in the day. Telephone and power companies fought a tangled mass of broken wires. Light and phones were out in many parts of the city.

At Fort Worth Radio Station WBAP also had power trouble, so did the State Highway patrol station at Arlington.

In West Texas and the Panhandle, Wichita Falls, Abilene, Pampa, Vernon and San Angelo, reported ice had thawed.

At Lubbock, a local forecaster referred to the new cold wave as a "sneak front."

Amarillo, in the Panhandle, looked for a gradual cooling off process—so gradual that when the main front arrived Friday afternoon the immediate effect will scarcely be noticeable. Amarillo expected a Friday high of 25 degrees.

Two inches of snow had fallen there since Wednesday night. Amarillo precipitation for the year was 1.94 inches, or 1.50 above normal.

Highways in the Amarillo section were generally in good shape. There were highway patrol blockades around Dumas north and west to Dalhart and Texline. A few losses of young calves were reported.

Southwestern Bell estimated damage from the present storm at $250,000 in Texas. It put that with more than $2,000,000 damage from the Jan. 10 storm for a January figure of some $3,000,000.

A mobile radio unit of the department of public safety was moved from Dallas to Bonham to furnish emergency communications. That city, and nearby Honey Grove, were completely isolated from wire communications. Electric power went out there at 5 a.m. but hardworking crews hoped to restore it by 7:30 p.m. Friday.

A shortwave radio message to the Associated Press from Bob Cantrell, Bonham newspaperman, said most of the ice had melted. Short wave radio and station KFYN were the town's only emergency means of communication with the outside world. Water was turned on in mains at 5 p.m. for 10 minutes. Business was paralyzed by the storm, but no accidents or injuries were reported.

The Southwestern Bell telephone company reported 1,250 circuits out, 11,000 wire breaks and 3,300 poles broken.

These were cities isolated from communications: served by Bell telephone: Savoy, Gainesville, Celina, Friscoe, McKinney, Italy, Wolfe City, Ladonia, Prosper, Anna, Farmersville, Melissa and Princeton. Served by independent companies: Ponder, Cresson, Argyle, Whitesboro, South Maid, Bonham, Sanger, Valley View, Dodge City, Honey Grove, Ben Franklin, Krum, Slidell, Windom, Alva, Plano, Howe, Van Alstyne, Dorchester, Gunter, Blue Bridge, Frost, Blooming Grove, Covington and Brandon.

While North Texas sagged and glittered under its load of ice, more than 300 Southwestern Bell repairmen and dozens of power company crews worked feverishly to patch broken facilities.

Fall Heavy In Panhandle

The heaviest snowfall of Thursday, was at Spearman, Tex., in the North Plains, where seven inches fell. Other snowfalls were reported in the North Plains area at Perryman, Canadian and Higgins. Amarillo had four inches of snow and there were five and one-half inches of snow on the ground at Borger.

A report from Denton said the ice melted slowly there. All phone lines from Denton were out.

The Denison Herald, without power for two days, and prospects uncertain, changed to a morning newspaper. It published Wednesday at Sherman, but moved to Paris Thursday after power went out at Sherman also. It printed Thursday night in the Paris News plant. The sun shone brightly at Paris. That city was untouched by the ice storm, which stopped short by about 10 miles.

By nightfall most of the ice and sleet was gone from highways in the area around Abilene. Very little stock loss was reported.

Smuggling Probed

given the right to arrest Allied personnel suspected of smuggling. This system would be turned over to the German government when it begins functioning, but the Allies would retain jurisdiction over their own nationals.

Cost Borne By U. S.

U. S. military governor Gen. Lucius D. Clay has implied that most smuggled goods is going to western Europe instead of to the eastern Soviet sphere although 29 cases of ball-bearings believed intended for the Russian zone were confiscated in a Tempelhof warehouse today.

The cost of this leakage is borne by the American taxpayers supporting western Germany.

Four Americans involved in the investigation of goods being smuggled from Munich to Italy have dropped from sight.

American agents identified one as Ettiore Armando Russo, of Philadelphia, and said he drove a car with painted-over silver fenders to Italy.

They said Russo last was seen a week ago at Augsburg, where he was employed as an auditor of the U. S. military government, and where he submitted his resignation before disappearing.

Agents had raided German garages in Munich and confiscated 10 cars fitted with secret compartments. They said at least 15 Americans, including Army officers and highly paid military government personnel, were involved in this one chain which took $2 million worth of goods out of Bavaria in 1948.

Automobiles were equipped with the disguised fenders and radiator grills made up of precious metals, including platinum.

Air Force agents working on a list of more than 70 Americans suspected of working with the ring said the metals are part of Nazi caches overlooked by the Army during the conquest. Some packets still bore the name of "Degussa," the Nazi combine which looted occupied lands.

The agents said cameras, dental tools — even false teeth — were stored in the secret compartments and taken out of the country in the American automobiles.

They said one member of the gang, an American Air Force sergeant, has just taken an expensive car to England loaded with more than 100 cameras with a value of more than $60,000, unaware that agents are on his trail.

Family Of Five Dies In Fire Near Dallas

DALLAS, Jan. 27. (AP)--A family of five burned to death early today when fire destroyed their home near Pleasant Grove, Dallas county.

The dead were B. V. Zuk, 29, war veteran and a mechanic for a Dallas motor compny, his wife. Billie Alberta, 22, and their children, Victor, jr., 4, Loretta, 2, and Joseph, 10 months.

The fire was believed to have resulted from a gasoline stove explosion.

Deputy Sheriff J. W. Faulkner said neighbors heard a blast but by the time they reached the scene the three-room house was an inferno.

by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington. The announcement sent newsmen streaming to the five-story brick rooming house on West 74th street where Carr was taken in custody.

FBI Holds House

Authorities who barred all from admittance stated that the house was in the possession of the FBI. One official declared:

"We have a lot of work to do here."

There was little doubt that a thorough search was being made of the house, particularly the basement quarters in which Carr took occupancy two weeks ago.

Several trunks were observed in a carpeted corridor of the basement but a FBI agent guarding the doorway refused to say whether they belonged to Carr.

Trial Bares Activities

Carr's name in connection with the ring was first brought into the open in March of 1946 during the trial of Fred Rose, then a Communist member of parliament. Rose was convicted for his part in the espionage and now is in prison. Five others also were convicted.

Igor Gouzenko, former code clerk in the military attache's office of the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, asserted at Rose's trial that Rose and Carr were the two principal spy figures.

Information supplied by Gouzenko previously had enabled the Canadian government to break the case and round up most of the ring's members.

structions about the good Christian family." He gave Power a pontificial medallion. U. S. Ambassador and Mrs. James C. Dunn entertained the newlyweds at a luncheon.

Tomorrow they will leave Rome for a wedding trip through northern Italy and Switzerland to Kitzbuehl, Austria.

Power and Miss Christian were married eight hours before a superior court judge in Los Angeles signed a decree making his divorce from French actress Annabella final.

Plan To Raise Family

It was Miss Christian's first marriage. The vivacious starlet, whose real name is Blanca Rosa Welter, formerly was under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, but obtained her release last January so she "could be with Ty more." On the eve of the wedding she told reporters she plans to start having babies right away — "two at first and later three more."

The bride was resplendent in white satin with an eight-yard train. Power wore severely cut morning cloths.

The double ring ceremony was in English. The best man was George Ornstein of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Rome.

The Vatican, after months of investigation, decided the marriage could be celebrated in the Catholic church because Power's first wedding was a civil one.

HOUSTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—Renne Allred, 83, died tonight in the home of his son, former Governor James V. Allred.

Allred, who was a rural mail carrier at Bowie from 1904 to 1930 when he was retired, had been in ill health for some time and had been seriously ill the past 10 days. He was a native of Grayson county.

He lived for two years in the governor's mansion at Austin with his son, who was governor from 1935 to 1939. He came to Houston to live with former Governor Allred when he returned to his law practice.

City Commission Calls For Bids from Third to Fourth and from Twenty-eighth to Thirty-fourth; X from Third to Fourth; Temple from First to Fourth; Ruby from Madison to Van Buren; Jefferson fourth; Waco from First to Second; Wolffarth from U.S. 84 to X, and Van Buren from Twenty-fifth to Thirtieth.

New Main Planned

One of the water improvement projects for which specifications were approved provides for a 30-inch diameter main on Avenue P from Twenty-third to Thirty-fourth street, and on Thirty-fourth westward to the overhead standpipe completed last year. Oldham estimates the cost of this project at $229,000.

The other water project, estimated at $380,000, includes large scale extensions of distributing mains and pipe of various sizes so as to insure an adequate flow to large areas of the city for many years to come.

Many water shortages in Lubbock in the past have been blamed in large degree upon the fact that the pipe was too small to supply demands in areas which had been built up much more rapidly than had been anticipated.

Resignations Submitted

The net result of the expansions authorized, as summarized by Mayor W. H. Rodgers, will be to give further insurance of adequate supplies to thousands of patrons and will be additional protection from fires.

Also departing from the routine of commission meetings was the submission to the session of letters of resignation by Harry Morris, chairman, and George W. McCleskey, member, of the city civil service commission which came into existence in February, 1948.

Both said the duties make more demands upon their time than they can spare from their personal affairs.

Appointed To New Term

Members of the commission acknowledged the duties are exacting and often unpleasant. They warmly praised the work already done by the three-member board in getting the civil service plan off to a successful start in the Lubbock Police and Fire departments. They said that the resignation of two members at the same time might imperil seriously the continuing success of a system which still is in something of an experimental stage in Lubbock.

So they asked Morris, as commission chairman, to reconsider his resignation and, without consulting him, appointed him to a new three-year term starting Feb. 1. They agreed to accept, with expressions of regret and appreciation, the resignation of McCleskey, an attorney.

Marion Sanford, insurance man, is the third member of the civil service board. He and Morris were asked to recommend a successor to McCleskey.

The city commission also transacted a good deal of routine business.

A traffic light was ordered installed at Twenty-sixth street and Jefferson avenue on recommendation of Police Chief Lewis Kittrell.

Payment of $947.04 to Ralph L. Holcombe was approved in settlement of claims arising from the accident in which his young daughter was injured fatally in July, 1948. The child fell from a bicycle beneath a garbage truck, officials were advised.

The commission also authorized payment of $45.50 to Harold Robertson in reimbursement for damages to his car when it ran into a ditch near Thirteenth and Avenue A the night of Jan. 14.

No action was taken on a claim by P. O. Brock to $319 for damages and personal injuries resulting from a collision with a police patrol car at Twenty-fourth and Adams avenue on Dec. 8.

Present at the meeting were Commissioners W. B. Price and Clarence Whiteside. Commissioner E. K. Hufstedler, jr., was out of the city and Commissioner John Spikes is ill.

Meanwhile, news of the impending beer vote has caused a sudden spurt in poll tax sales, it was reported at Crosbyton, county seat. The county has a voting potential of approrximately 4,500, Joiner said. About one-fourth of this number had paid poll taxes by Thursday night, it was estimated.

Lamb County Project Authorized By State

A Lamb county road project was among 22 projects in as many Texas counties which were authorized in Austin Thursday by the State Highway commission, The Associated Press reported last night. The 22 projects totaled $1,232,980.

The Lamb county project which was approved by the commission calls for pavement widening on U. S. Highway 84 from Sudan street to Austin street in Sudan.

The city of Sudan will provide all right-of-way and will provide for the immediate construction of continuous curb and gutter, utility adjustments, and storm sewers.

The Highway department will provide for pavement widening at an estimated cost of $19,500, The Associated Press said.

bock on the Brownfield highway, the highway patrol said.

The McGinty car, which was coming toward Lubbock, left the highway on the left side, traveled approximately 40 yards on the shoulder and slid into the pole, the investigating patrolman said. Cause of the accident was not known, he said, since the road was clear from ice and snow at that point. Mrs. McGinty was alone at the time, and was taken to St. Mary's hospital for treatment.

Two cars collided on the highway about two miles south of Monroe at 5 p. m., badly damaging both vehicles but inflicting no major injuries on the two drivers.

Two Others Injured

A 1946 Mercury sedan, driven by Mrs. Beatrice Clara Vandiver, 35, of Colorado Springs, Colo., was headed north, and a 1939 Buick sedan, driven by Mrs. Jettie Othelia Hall, 22, of Abernathy, was going south toward Lubbock.

The Mercury struck a pile of snow on the highway, the driver lost control temporarily and the light car struck the Buick on the left front.

Mrs. Vandiver was admitted to West Texas hospital with an injured knee cap, it was reported, and Mrs. Hall was treated there for slight bruises and released.

Neither Mr. Vandiver nor Mr. Hall, who were accompanying their respective wives, was injured. A small baby of the Halls was not hurt.

The Buick was damaged "almost beyond repair," the investigating highway patrolman said, and damage to the lighter car was estimated at about $600.

$4,765 Placed In Dimes Fund

The local county-wide March of Dimes apparently still is moving in a slow crawl—and just at a time when it should be "on the march," according to campaign Chairmen Lester Grimes and Warlick Carr.

By late last night, total contributions received at local March of Dimes campaign headquarters stood at approximately $4,765. Of the more than 17,000 letters seeking contributions which were sent out almost two weeks ago, only 591 letters have been returned to headquarters with contributions.

Thursday's receipts were $1,356, and total numbers of letters received at headquarters that day were 95.

Outlook Brighter

However, although the county is still far from reaching its minimum goal of $12,000, the outlook was some brighter Thursday over the preceeding two or three days this week, when bad weather halted operations of the March of Dimes "Wishing Well" at the corner of Broadway and Avenue J. The well was in operation again Thursday, with members of the Optimist club aiding in its operation. A total of $130.21 was raised by Optimists who worked the well. Members of the Lions club will be in charge today.

Members of the Exchange club, sponsors of the local drive, are hopeful that a large number of tickets to the three forthcoming President's Balls here Monday night will be purchased by Lubbockites to further boost the county-wide March of Dimes fund. Tickets are being sold at $1.20 per person.

Campaign chairmen last night urged city and county business houses in which March of Dimes coin collection boxes have been placed to display them in a prominent place where they can be seen. Cashiers, too, were asked to remind customers to aid in the drive by leaving some of their change in the coin collection boxes.

"Very few of the business firms who received letters of solicitation on the March of Dimes campaign have made contributions," Carr and Grimes said last night. They urged prompt donations to the fund from city and county business organizations.

They also stressed that although as up-to-date a mailing list as was possible to obtain was used to addressing and mailing these letters to individuals, many persons were not contacted. They said that contributions from persons who did not receive letters from March of Dimes headquarters are needed if the county quota is to be reached.

Living Costs Drop

menting on the extra dividend announced by U. S. Steel this week.

Economic experts said the declining living cost will probably affect labor's efforts for new wage increases. Already, many unions are talking of concentrating on "fringe demands" such as health and retirement insurance or longer vacations. They are putting less emphasis on a new pay boost this year.

A further index decline in January appears probable to government experts because of the currently lower food prices and January clearance sales expected to be reflected in the next living cost index a month from now.

Today's index for December, while registering a decline, was still 2.8 per cent above a year ago. It was nearly 74 per cent above August 1939 on the eve of the European war.

Retail food prices in December went down for the fifth consecutive month but they still were 41 per cent above the June, 1946, level when OPA controls were abandoned. Besides foods, clothing prices dropped one-half on one per cent in December, and fuel and house furnishings prices also declined.

Rents continued their gradual rise, advancing six-tenths of one per cent from November to December. They rose about three per cent in 1948.

Meadow Man Nabbed On Forgery Charge

A 22-year-old Meadow Mexican, Jessie Lira, was arrested at 2:45 p. m. Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Raymond Land and charged with forgery by false indictment.

He was carrying a pistol when arrested in a downtown department store, officials said.

The charge was filed in the court of D. W. Robertson, justice of peace, by an assistant district attorney, E. G. Pharr.

Check Missed Year Ago

It accused Lira of having endorsed on the back of a $199,30 check issued by J. M. Burleson on a Levelland bank to Ray C. Ayers & Son, "Ray Ayers Son —Box 215."

The check, the sheriff's department was informed, had been stolen or lost approximately a year and payment had been ordered stopped at the bank.

When an attempt was made to cash it here, a suspicious store official called the sheriff's office.

George Brown, 55-year-old negro, who has been sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary for murder of another negro, was placed in county jail Tuesday afternoon to await arrival of a prison transfer agent.

The court of criminal appeals in Austin this week ended his motion of rehearing. The court earlier had affirmed the sentence.

New Blizzards Hit

House and President Truman all called for new funds to combat blizzard conditions. The Red Cross said it was making a $250,000 preliminary allocation blizzard and also flood-threatened areas.

Senate Okays Fund

The Senate voted to grant $3,000,000 for blizzard relief and sent the resolution to the House The money would reimburse federal agencies for funds already spent. Congress also passed a bill appropriating $500,000 for the President's disaster relief fund, virtually exhausted by an allocation of $300,000 for blizzard relief. President Truman, meanwhile, asked Congress for a $1,000,000 emergency disaster appropriation, part of which he would earmark for the blizzard relief.

The U. S. weather bureau at Cincinnati forecast that the Ohio river will reach or top flood stages between Parkersburg, W. Va., and Portsmouth, O., by this week end. The river is expected to exceed flood stage at Cincinnati by Friday afternoon or night.

Although flood stage would merely result in the inundation of lowland areas, a continuation of rain in the area was forecast. The Red Cross said its disaster committee was "prepared to go into action," if necessary.

Flood conditions from Ohio river tributaries continued in Illinois and Indiana where some 1,000 families have been driven from their homes. Many southern Illinois rural schools were closed and highways were blocked by the rising waters. Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois said all state resources had been mobilized to aid flood victims.

Clear, calm and warm weather returned to California, after a month long siege of blustcry conditions. Mild clear weather also prevailed in the southeast. Temperatures were near normal in the Pacific northwest and along the Atlantic seaboard.

Army Secretary Royall and Army Chief of Staff Bradley endorsed a proposal before the House Armed Services committee to increase the authorized Army strength to 837,000. It now is 690,000. The bill also carries authorization for a 70-group Air Force.

The House Labor committee heard a plea of Secretary of Labor Tobin for a national minimum wage of at least 75 cents an hour, compared to the present 40. He termed the latter figure "a sweatshop wage."

The House Veterans committee began a study of pensions for veterans of both world wars.

New York Daily To Close Down

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (INS) — The publisher and editor of the New York Star announced tonight that publication of the newspaper will cease with tomorrow's editions.

The venture began seven months ago when publisher Bartley C. Crum secured backing to take over the interests of the former "PM."

Crum and editor Joseph Barnes said that although the Star had grown both in circulation and advertising the newspaper had not reached a self-supporting basis. Efforts to secure new financing were unsuccessful.

Statement Issued

The publisher and editor prepared a statement which will appear in all editions tomorrow announcing to readers that the Star will halt publication. The statement said:

"To the readers of the Star:

"To our great regret, this will be the last issue of the Star.

"The first issue was published on June 23, 1948. At that time we promised to publish a liberal newspaper in New York with sound professional standards, and to edit it for men and women who believe in the future of America.

"In these seven months, the paper has grown in circulation and in advertising. But it is not yet on a self-supporting basis, and our efforts to secure additional financing to bridge the gap have been unsuccessful."

Crum, a San Francisco attorney, and Barnes, formerly New York Herald Tribune foreign editor, obtained a controlling interest in PM in a sale from Marshall Field 3rd, on April 28, 1948.

Field gave up his interests in PM after having sunk some four million dollars in the tabloid-size paper which originally ran no advertising.

Under Crum and Barnes the name was changed to the Star and the paper opened a campaign for advertising.

Dixie Solons Reply

erners have charged the President with "playing politics" with civil rights. An intra-party revolt over civil rights led four southern states—Louisiana, Alabama, South Carolina and Mississippi—to bolt the Democratic party last November and vote for States Rights presidential candidate, J. Strom Thurmond.

Sparkman said the Russell bill called "for a program that is "an imperative step toward solving our racial problems."

Moves To Be Voluntary

Russell's measure contained a policy statement which declared:

"The purpose of this act is to reduce and eliminate racial tensions and improve the economic status of the American people by equitably distributing throughout the several states whose citizens belonging to the two largest racial groups who may of their own volition desire to change their place of residence."

As worded, the bill would aid white families to move from the North to the South as well as aiding negroes to move from the South to the North.

Russell's explanation indicated, however, that he would expect the measure to serve principally to disperse the South's negro populace northward.

Loans Would Be Made

Under the Russell bill, the proposed relocation commission would pay transportation and subsistence for those willing to go to new homes. The commission also could make loans to set them up in business or obtain land.

For the first fiscal year, a half billion dollars would be allocated to be followed by one billion a year for the next four years.

Russell, chairman of an informal group of 11 Dixie senators, said many civil rights leaders "are frank enough to admit" outlawing segregation eventually will bring "amalgamation and absorption of the minority negro race by the more numerous white race."

He said the South "abhors the idea" as "mongrelization of both races."

SUGAR INDUSTRY NEEDS AID

Cuba Seeking Closer Ties With U. S. To Bolster Defense Setup

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—There are a number of products without which a modern war could not be fought. They run from simple ballbearings up and down the line to sugar and its derivatives.

This is a piece about sugar, the war factor, and what sugar means to a number of things—including our hemispheric defenses.

My informant is not completely impartial, nor should he be. He is Carlos Hevia, Cuba's minister of state, who is making a short trip to this country to familiarize the State department with the situation in his country—which last year sweetened America's tooth to the tune of six and one-half million tons of sugar.

Navy Academy Man

Hevia is a United States Naval academy graduate, class of 1920, and served in our Navy for a time in World War I. During the last war he was Cuba's director of its OPA. He knows war, war defense, and he certainly knows his sugar.

Cuba, this country's second biggest customer for cash-on-the-barrelhead products, has an economy which rises and falls with the production and sale of its sugar.

Hevia hopes to stabilize that economy by a series of measures, based chiefly on plans to keep Cuba's production somewhere around war-time figures.

Would Hit Downgrade

If Cuba's sugar industry is not permitted to go to pot again, as it did after World War I (and toward which it is now being allowed to descend) the standard of living in Cuba can continue to rise.

If the standard of living there rises, Cuba will buy more things from this country, and in dollars. It spent $500,000,000 here last year, can spend more.

Also, if the standard of living rises, the determined efforts of the Communist party of Cuba to grow on poverty will be frustrated—and we won't have a strong Communist movement on what amounts to one of our borders.

The Communists seized control of most Cuban unions before they were tossed out by Cuban workers under the inspiration of the present president of the island, Carlos Prio Socarras. If they regain control, and there is a war with Russia, Cuba, whose sugar provided stimulation and oceans of alcohol for the Allies in World War II, will have to be written off as a source.

"The hemisphere shrinks along with the world," Dr. Hevia told us today. "Cuba is now a part of your country's security, as much of a border as Canada. It is an integral part of the hemispheric defense program, as well as a close ally—historically, geographically and commercially.

"A huge nickel plant which your country erected in Cuba during the war has not been used for two years and was, until recently, considered suitable only for sale as junk. It should, and I believe will, operate again.

"We have manganese, too, if we can interest private capital in the U. S. we are not appealing for government funds, but simply pointing out the potentials of our country."

If Cuba's sugar production is permitted to fall off 50 per cent it will take two or three years after the outbreak of any war to restore production for, unlike wheat, it takes time to grow and be processed into its various by-products.

If, somehow, production can be kept at around 70 per cent of wartime levels, Cuba can quickly build it to the needed level.

At peak production, Cuba could fill the gaps which would be caused by a stoppage of sugar shipments from Europe, the Philippines and Hawaii, and a slowdown of U. S. beet sugar production through lack of manpower. But only if it is kept more or less ready.

Dr. Hevia has told state department officials of many more of President Prio's plans for strengthening Cuba's economy and thus the island and its people.

In line with President Truman's inaugural address, Cuba would like to share in America's engineering and production know-how, and like to see the investment of more American capital there. If we are sending a lot of sugar abroad under the Marshall Plan, Cuba would like to sell some of the stuff to us. The island is now limited, by U. S. law, to supply us with only 28.75 per cent of our needs.

A sounder Cuban economy would result in greater health and educational programs there, enable the average Cuban to become an even greater buyer of U. S. products (he already leads the world in that per capita purchasing field), and make this whole part of the world that much stronger.

"The main point is to keep our sugar industry from going the way it did after the first world war," Dr. Hevia said. "If World War II had not started until, say, this year, the deterioration of our sugar industry might have been such that we never could have supplied your country alone, much less the Allies."

Mexican 'Pygmalion' Teaches Civilization To Indian Girl; Subject Asks New Dress Daily

By CARL KUPFER
INS Staff Correspondent

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 27.—Plucking a wild girl from her mountain home and teaching her civilization seemed an exciting experiment to Dr. Filiberto Gomez—but now he's paying for it!

The modern Pygmalion finds that his primitive Galatea, after two months of Mexico City life, has a "gimme" complex about clothes. She wants a dress a day and an extra pair of stockings for each new shoe.

Dr. Gomez, press attache of the U. S. embassy in Mexico, found the subject for his experiment in a cave dwelling in the wildest part of Mexico, 250 miles south of El Paso.

From Primitive Tribe

The girl, named Crucita Reyes, is of the primitive Tarahumaras, an Indian tribe that is today on the stone age level of human development. Crucita was born and brought up in the cave. She was married and had two children, but lost husband, children and parents to pneumonia—though she now is only 20 years old.

But tragedy apparently hasn't affected her mental attitude toward life.

She's enthusiastic about clothes, baths and hair oil.

"Since her arrival in Mexico City two months ago, Crucita has improved remarkably," Dr. Gomez reports. "She washes, takes baths, combs her hair and even insists on putting brilliantine on it. She never did any of these things before she came.

"And every day she asks for more clothes. She takes excellent care of them too."

Girl Lacks Responsibility

The biggest problem the doctor has with his stone age Galatea is her utter irresponsibility. She doesn't care how she does anything, or when. Time has no meaning for her—nor has the burned food or broken china.

"But she has such an ability to improve remarkably," Dr. Gomez insists. "All she needs now is the idea of responsibility and a feeling of cooperation."

Dr. Gomez plans to keep Crucita in his home for a year. While she's there, she will cook the foods that are available to the Tarahumara, so that in a few years she can go back to her tribe and teach them culinary art.

The second year of her civilization period will be spent in the home of a medical friend of Dr. Gomez, where she will learn first aid, sanitation, child and sick care. After this, she will be sent to school for two years to study applied agriculture and forestry.

Four years from now, Dr. Gomez will urge Crucita to return to her people to help them improve their way of life.

Crucita was born in the municipality of Cusarare, but the term "municipality" is an arbitrary expression of the Mexican government to indicate the general location of this almost unexplored area.

Actually, the "town" consists of a church, school house and six log cabins. The members of Crucita's tribe never come to the center except on Sundays, when the elders and witch - doctors hold weekly councils.

Ninety per cent of the Indians' diet is a preparation known as pinole. It's made of corn roasted and ground to powder. The Tarahumara never travels without a bag of pinole, according to Dr. Gomez. They mix it with water and eat it like soup.

Primitive Diet Simple

For variety in their meals, they eat boiled beans, eggs, and such meat as mice, squirrels and frogs.

He said there's no thought of sanitation in the primitive life where everyone lives like animals, and shows an animal distrust of strangers. When a white man comes into view, they take to the woods and hide until he's gone.

That was one of the reasons it was so hard for Dr. Gomez to start his experiment. He couldn't talk any Tarahumara man into coming back to civilization with him. Parents wouldn't let their children go.

Only Crucita, who had no family, would agree. A council from the entire tribe had to approve her going.

She and the doctor made the first part of the trip by mule back and afoot. At Chihuahua, their first glimpse of civilization, Crucita saw girls wearing "civilized" clothing, and immediately she wanted some.

She's been wanting some ever since!

Hotfoot For Truman Caused President's Snub Of Talmadge

MIAMI, Jan. 27 (INS)—The general chairman for President Truman's inaugauration said today in Miami that if Georgia's Gov. Herman Talmadge was snubbed by the President during the inaugural it was because Mr. Truman got a hot foot.

Melvin D. Hildreth, the Washington attorney who managed the inaugural, told the story this way:

A large electric heating pad had been placed beneath the President's platform for the parade—it was a cold day. Hildreth said the President turned the "very hot" switch. Just as Governor Talmadge was passing the President's stand, the pad shorted and a wooden frame beneath it began smoking.

Firefighter Truman grabbed a cup of coffee to douse the blaze, daughter Margaret yelled at him to recognize Talmadge, and the President looked at his daughter to find out why she was shouting.

In the confusion, Talmadge passed.

Spectators construed the incident as a deliberate snub from the President, but Hildreth claims this is the "inside" story.

T. B. Victim Attemps Suicide In Chicago; Feared Passing Disease

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (INS) — A young tuberculosis victim who tried to take his own life, fearing he would pass the disease on to his wife and any children they might have, was reported "improved" today by Cook County hospital authorities.

He is Joseph J. Vereb, of Columbus, O., who was found unconscious in his Chicago hotel room.

An anaylsis of his stomach showed he had taken an overdose of barbiturate.

Marines In Landing On Kodiak Island

KODIAK ISLAND, Alaska, Jan. 27 (INS)—Two thousand Marines pushed through fields of floating ice in landing craft today and stormed ashore on this bleak, snow-covered island.

Today's heroes of the Navy's Arctic winter maneuvers were the reinforced 7th battalion from Camp Pendleton, Cal. They are testing weapons, clothing and equipment in bitter cold climate under simulated war conditions.

The five-ship amphibious assault group, under the command of Admiral P. F. Fischler, found Kodiak only a skeleton of the huge installation which existed here during World War II.

This is America's only naval base defending seaward approaches to the Alaska territory, but today only a handful of obsolescent fighter and bomber planes are stationed at the airstrip.

The Marines who landed today will live ashore during a 10-day acclimatization period before the expedition is remounted aboard ship for a three-day invasion exercise beginning Feb. 8.

Location of the assault beaches remains a military secret.

New Housing Development Bars Outdoor Washlines, Animals

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (U.P.) — Suburban Park Forest expects to become the largest community in the world without a wash line. The new subdivision's builders hope for a population of 10,000 by the end of 1949 in spite of the fact that outdoor wash lines are banned.

New owners must agree to hang their laundry in the basement summer and winter because it's felt the flapping of clothes would spoil the natural beauty of the area. High voltage lines, dogs and cats also are forbidden.

FORCE KEY TO RED POLICY

Acheson Points Up Communism's Ruthless Oppression Of People

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Secretary of State Dean Acheson calls Communism reactionary.

He said it at a news conference yesterday. And he was right. But why was he, since so many people think of Comunism as "radical?"

Reactionary means going back, not forward. It's a return to the old way of doing things, says the dictionary.

And in its handling of people—disregard for the freedom of the individual — communism has turned the clock back a thousand years.

Radical, in the dictionary, means a sweeping change in laws or government.

Not New Move

And Russian Communism, in the 1917 revolution which put them in power, certainly made sweeping changes in Russia.

So anyone who thinks of Communism as radical in that sense—a sweeping change—is right.

But that doesn't mean because a change has occurred the change is a step forward.

And if you think of the Communist government as radical in the sense of being new, you're wrong.

Kings, dictators, emperors and ruling groups have run the world for most of history.

They trampled on the idea that men are equal, have equal rights, and are entitled to equal freedom and justice.

They looked upon themselves, or the state, as all important, not the individual.

Belongs To People

In their thinking the individual existed for the state, not the state for the benefit of the individual.

Gradually as society grew older, commerce developed, and economic conditions changed—spreading ideas and people—western man finally fought his way to this point:

That a government belongs to the people, not the people to the government, and that all men are free and equal.

Western society developed to its highest point the idea that each human being is a free person.

It wasn't in perfect working order. Western men were trying to make it more perfect. Then came the Russian revolution.

When the Bolsheviks, now called the Communists, seized power in the 1917 revolution, they were only a minority group in Russia.

They still are a minority group there. Only 6,000,000 of Russia's 200,000,000 are permitted to belong to the Communist party.

And that small group—and just because it is so small—runs the country by force.

The Russians had been oppressed by the czars, up to the time of the revolution.

Did the revolution mean a new freedom for the mass of the Russian people, something that would bring them abreast of the political and individual freedom men in the west were getting?

No. It meant a secret police, jail without trial, shooting or exile to Siberia. It meant a control and secret terror as bad as the Czars had used.

(True, the Russian people under Communism may be better off economically than under the Czars but this story—and Dean Acheson—talks of western man's greatest progress: Political freedom.)

Many people in this country have been pro-Communist or sympathetic to Communism for various reasons, such as being muddled.

Being that way they accepted blindly the idea put out by Communists that Communism would lead to a brave new world and a better life.

But if they look at the whole picture clearly and coldly, can they have any real faith in a future promise that starts out with the step backward into the dark ages?

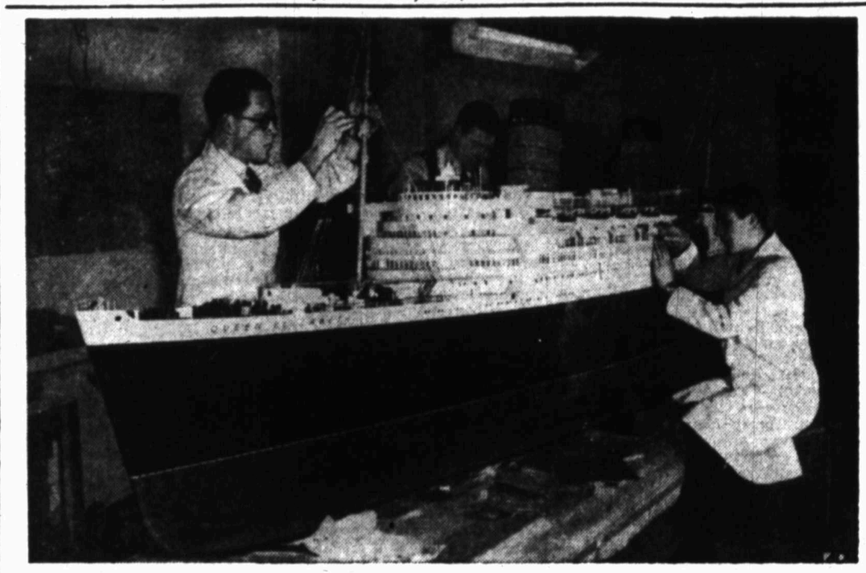

And can they ask themselves whether they think mankind, after its long and bloody struggle to be free, should sacrifice that freedom in a vague hope that someday it will be restored?

Recluse Avoids Poorhouse When Officers Discover Cash Hoard

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Jan. 27 (U.P.) — The order had come down — 67-year-old Esau Cox must go to the Warren County poor farm.

But when officers went to his home, a cardboard and tin shack near the city limits, they found $1,418.78 hidden.

The county judge said the money would keep Cox out of the poorhouse and he was sent home.

GI Trainees To Work 'Live' Projects Without State Pay

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The veterans administration says it will let GI trainees enrolled in building trades classes continue to work on "live" projects after Feb. 1 without state trainee pay pending action by Congress on an adverse opinion by the Attorney General.

VA defines a live project as one on which other people are working and are being paid and which is for sale or future use.

A previous order by Administrator Carl Gray had directed that trainees working on "live" jobs be paid trainee salaries by their respective states after Feb. 1. The salary would be in addition to the government subsistence.

Georgia congressmen had protested, saying southern states could not afford the trainee pay. Gray yesterday told congressmen from Texas, Georgia, and North Carolina that he would allow the trainees now enrolled to continue under their present status "pending action by Congress or adverse opinion by the attorney general, whichever comes sooner."

Red Border Troops Aid Refugees' Flight

VIENNA, Jan. 27, (U.P.)—Russian soldiers along the Austro-Hungarian border have taken over unofficially the operation of the Hungarian underground railway into Austria, refugees report.

The Russian soldiers, the refugees said, demand 10,000 forints per person to lead groups over the border, while the few Hungarian guides still daring to operate get 6,000 forints each.

The refugees said that despite the higher price, most travelers preferred the services of the Russians because there is less danger of interception by Hungarian frontier police.

No reliable check on the numbers now slipping daily over the frontier were available but refugees said traffic still trickled steadily away from the Communist regime, including several persons who held "important government positions" up to the time of their departures.

Americans Give Czarist Silver For Russian Emigrant Relief

MUNICH, Jan. 27. (U.P.) — Russian silverware, evacuated from a St. Petersburg pawnshop during the Russian revolution, has been turned over to representatives of the Russian emigration organization in the U. S. zone by American officials.

The silver, packed in 18 sealed boxes, was the meager remnant of about 200 boxes filled with silver plates, icons, samovars, teapots and other ware which had been stolen from czarist castles in Petersburg by the Reds.

Gold and jewels found in the St. Petersburg imperial castles had been shipped to Moscow by the Soviets, while the silver was transported to a north Russian district.

Taken to Yugoslavia

The White Russian commander, Gen. Denekin, there recaptured the silver and brought the transport to Yugoslavia, where part of the fortune was sold to support the 55,000 emigrants who had fled Russia after the revolution.

Items for which certificates of ownership could be produced have been returned to their claimants, officials said. As late as 1941, still more than 150 boxes were left and when the Soviets approached Yugoslavia, 20 of the boxes were transported to Germany.

Russian emigrant officials here heard no more of the fate of the other 130 boxes which were left behind in Yugoslavia.

Boxes Pillaged

Since the war's end, the silverware had been turned over to American authorities in Munich for safekeeping after one of the boxes had been pillaged and another disappeared.

Sergei Jourieff, ex-master of ceremonies at the Russian czarist court and now chairman of the Russian emigrants committee in the U. S. Zone, estimated the value of the remaining 18 boxes of silver at about 300,000 marks (roughly about $10,000).

The silver is now with Gen. Peter W. Glasenap, former Russian army officer, until the proceeds of the sale of the valuables can be used to support needy Russian emigrants.

LONG LIFE

The last survivor of the Revolutionary War lived until four years after the close of the Civil War. He was Daniel Frederick Baker, who died in Freedom, N. Y., in 1869, at the age of 109 years.

Drivers Pay Fine, Or 'Wait It Out'

WHEATLAND, Ia., Jan. 27. —(U.P.)— Authorities admit their punishment for motorists who fail to stop at a school stop sign is novel but they say it is also effective.

Town Marshal Jack Schadt, 82, waves a big red flag at motorists who go through the stop sign and then gives them a choice of punishments — a fine or a wait in their parked car until the sign is removed. Schadt finds that most of them take it good-naturedly.

Schadt said the wait may last more than 30 minutes, depending on when the motorist runs the stop sign. The sign is up for about an hour three times a day.

Buffalo Herd Roams Ranch En Route To Roasting Pan

CHADDS FORD, Pa., Jan. 27—(U.P.)—There's buffalo in the hills around Chadds Ford.

A herd of the western animals are roaming the hillside of S. B. Davis' 900-acre ranch but they are not there to improve the scenery. These buffalo are destined for the roasting pan.

Davis, who until recently confined his activities to raising Hereford cattle for market, imported one bull and eight heifers from Texas for the start of his buffalo herd.

He hopes it will grow into a real source of meat for eastern dinner tables.

How does buffalo taste- Good, says Davis. "It's a little tougher than steer, but good."

The animals get a lot of attention from motorists on U. S. Route 1 who are accustomed to seeing buffalo only on nickels.

Rabid Cat, An Animal Rarity, Bites Family Of Four In Austin

AUSTIN, Jan. 27. (INS)—A cat went mad in Austin recently and bit four Austin residents.

The rabid cat, a comparative rarity in the animal kingdom, bit an Austin couple and their two children. The four had to take anti-rabies treatment.

Dr. Ben F. Primer, city health officer, says that the city of Austin will take no action to extend its present dog quarantine to cats. Dogs are forbidden to run loose in the capital city in an attempt to stem a rabies epidemic that is entering its ninth month.

Modern Woman Has Same Second-Rate Job Possibilities As Grandmother, Bureau Says

By MARTHA KEARNEY
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 —Modern woman, although she is more likely to hold a job than her grandmother in 1870, is restricted to about the same subordinate and non-professional job opportunities.

The Women's bureau of the Labor department made public tonight a study of women's employment from 1870 to 1940 which indicates that women are still predominantly limited to traditionally feminine and secondary job categories.

Statistics on women workers for 1948, which are not included in the study, bear out this conclusion by recording a further decrease in the number of women in professional and semi-professional jobs, an increase in clerical, farm and factory workers.

Total Shows Boost

Meanwhile, the Women's bureau notes that the number of employed women has risen from less than two million in 1870 to about 13 million in 1940 and about 17 million in 1948.

And it reports that although women workers have infiltrated into a great variety of traditionally masculine jobs since 1870, they have concentrated on the traditionally feminine occupations.

In 1870 the 10 leading occupations for women were these:

Domestic service, agricultural labor, tailoring, dressmaking, teaching, cotton mill labor, laundering, woolen mill labor, farming and nursing.

In 1940 the 10 leading occupations were:

Domestic service, stenography, teaching, office work, selling, factory and textile labor, bookkeeping, waitress work, housekeeping and nursing.

The Women's bureau points out that the increase in the number of women workers from 1870 to 1940 is partially due to the increase in the feminine population and to the 10-year increase in their average age over that time.

The most important factor, however, is listed as the social and economic evolution from the end of the civil war to the period before World War II.

Trends Are Noted

The study noted three trends in women's employment:

1. Infiltration of women into fields closed to them in 1870 and 1910;

2. Their emphasis on holding jobs traditionally open to women; and

3. Continuing segregation in jobs which could be done by men or women.

The study explained:

"It is certain that some specific types of work are more suitable for the average women than others.

"Women's lesser physical strength, their special aptitudes for work requiring particular types of skill and the continuing effects of traditions based on the division of labor between men and women from time immemorial have served to direct women's capabilities into some occupational lines rather than others.

"The lower wage level of women has led, in some areas of employment, to the extension of their opportunities because women were used as a cheap labor supply, and in other areas it has limited their progress as men workers were able to prevent the introduction of women.

"At the same time, the competition of women within those fields open to them is thought to have kept wages at a lower level."

It added more optimistically:

"On the other hand, the growing number of women at work and the wider acceptance of the fact that many women need to work have lessened to a marked degree the suspicion and doubt formerly evoked whenever a woman undertook a new type of work."

Mayor Says Proposed Legislation Would Boost Dallas Expenses

DALLAS, Jan. 27 (AP)—Mayor Jimmie Temple says two bills before the Texas Legislature would boost costs of Dallas' police and fire departments by $533,000 a year.

They would also abolish the city's police and fire civil service, the mayor said yesterday.

One of the bills, introduced by Senator Kyle Vick of Waco, is "so poorly drawn that it amounts to abolishing the efficient operation of our police and fire departments," Temple declared. Vick's bill would make it mandatory that the departments be placed under a state civil service system.

The other bill, by Senator Walter Tynan of San Antonio, would set a minimum pay for Dallas policemen and firemen at $250 a month and limit work hours to 48 a week for policemen and 60 for firemen.

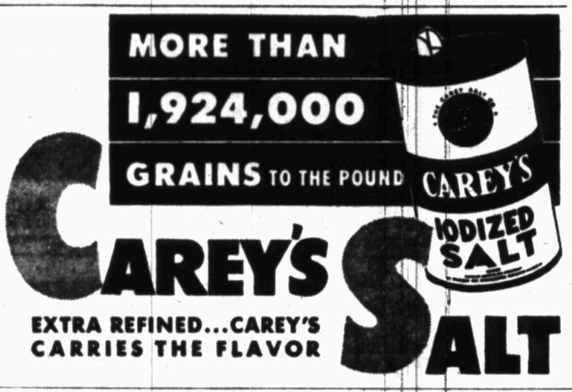

Christmas Greetings Go Up In Smoke At Seattle Postoffice

SEATTLE, Jan. 27.—(U.P.)— The Seattle post office has burned 80,000 Christmas cards.

Postmaster George E. Starr said each card was either incompletely or uncorrectly addressed. He said the law requires such one and one-half cent mail be destroyed.

Two dollars enclosed in one of the envelopes was sent to the dead ltter office in Washington, D. C.

Agricultural Students' Survey Finds Farming Older Men's Job

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 27. (INS)—Farming in Texas is becoming an older man's occupation.

This was one of the conclusions drawn from a survey made by a group of agriculture students from Sam Houston State Teachers college in Huntsville.

The fifty-one students who compiled the information went to 30 different Texas communities for six days each. There they talked to county agents, bankers, prominent citizens and the farmers themselves.

The student reports, compared with reports over the past ten years, show that the average age of the farmer has increased considerably and that today's farmer has fewer children than farmers ten years ago.

Living Standards Studied

Other trends reported were:

1. The size of Texas farms has been increasing steadily for several years.

2. More farms have electricity and running water.

3. Tractors almost completely have supplemented horses on the farm.

4. Farmer's debts have been decreasing steadily in the past ten years.

5. Soil conservation practices are used more widely today.

The thirty communities surveyed were Bogata, Brenham, Brownsboro, Como, Crockett Cushing, Dayton, Garland, Garwood, Groveton, Huntsville, Jasper, Leonard, Livingston, Meridian, Mexia, Mt. Pleasant, Nocona, Plano, Richardson, Rockdale, San Augustine, Sulphur Springs, Timpson, Victoria, Wellington, Willis, Winnsboro, Jacksonville and Iola.

The surveys were taken prior to practice teaching assignments for the agriculture students. Each man is now teaching agriculture for a two-month period in the community which he surveyed.

IF YOU MUST FEED 900—

FALLS CITY, Neb.—(U.P.)—Carl Harrel, a chef, offers this recipe for enough scalloped corn to feed 900 persons: "Use 72 cans of corn, add about five gallons of milk, 15 pounds of egg yolk, five giant boxes of crackers, season and place in oven until a golden brown."

POLLSTERS NOTE

Sure Tip Offered By Oregon Voters

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 27.—(U.P.) Political poll takers who want a sure tip on the 1952 presidential election should concentrate on Crook County, Ore.

Crook County's homesteaders, cowboys, sheepherders, and other folks always back a winner. They have been picking presidents since 1896 and haven't missed yet.

When Oregon went Republican in 1948, Crook County gave a majority to President Truman. The county's record goes back to McKinley.

Man Who Spent 60 Years As Rural Teacher Dies In Houston

HOUSTON, Jan. 27. (U.P.)—Lawrence D. Washington, a rural schoolmaster for 60 years, will be buried here tomorrow.

Washington, who traveled daily to rural areas to teach school until 10 years ago when he resigned, died yesterday at the age of 91.

His book, Confessions of a Schoolmaster," was published shortly after his retirement.

Robert Donat Turns Down Hollywood Offer To Take Starring Role In Broadway Play

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 27.—Congratulations to Richard Aldrich. Where movie producers fail to bring Robert Donat to the U. S. A., this broadway producer has succeeded—and that is a scoop what is a scoop, my friends.

Donat definitely will be in New York to start rehearsals on Maeterlinck's "Pelleas and Melisande" in two months. Listen to this—Jean Parker, currently knocking 'em dead in "Born Yesterday," will be co-starred with him!

You can see why Jean isn't tarrying in Hollywood to listen to movie offers. She will head for Broadway when she finishes her western tour. Jean and Donat worked together previously in "The Ghost Goes West."

Rex Harrison's Broadway hit, "Anne Of A Thousand Days," might have influenced Donat to come to this country. On the other hand, Donat told me last summer that because his mother is living in Connecticut, if anything came up that he was interested in, he would come here.

Beery Rejects Film

The role that broke Wallace Berry's heart to refuse in "Curtain Call At Cactus Creek," goes to Walter Brennan. It's a wonderful story and after Berry read it he was on the point of going against his doctor's orders and accepting Bill Goetz' offer, but he knew he must rest. So Brennan, who has been in Oregon, comes back for this part. Walter will be good, too.

Arlene Dahl, the pretty redhead who is certainly one of the real Hollywood glamour girls, gets the break of a lifetime in "Scene Of The Crime," opposite Van Johnson.

Donna Reed was set for Van's leading lady and Roy Bowland, the director, was ready to go, but today Donna asked for her release, and it was given her.

Goddard Gets Trees

Four years ago, Paulette Goddard made a picture, "Forest Rangers," for the U. S. Forestry department.

At the time, they asked her if there was anything they could do for her. Paulette, being the smart girl she is, said: "Yes, she could use a few trees for her Malibu home.

So, exactly four years later a truck drives up to Columbia and delivers 3,000 seedling trees to Paulette, "compliments of the U. S. Forestry department." Among them are several hundred redwoods that take 2,000 years and heavens know how much space to mature.

Betty Grable was so impressed with the screen possibilities of Keefe Brasselle several months ago that she wrote me a letter asking if I would bring him to the attention of Humphrey Bogart for "Knock On Any Door." As you know, John Derek got it.

Broken Conveyor Belt Has Chain Reaction At Plant

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Jan. 27. (U.P.)—A broken conveyor belt in a mill started this chain reaction.

1. The broken belt wound around a pulley.
2. The pulley belt stuck a sprinkler head.
3. The sprinkler head set off the fire alarm.
4. Fire apparatus from five stations rolled.
5. One pumper and a pickup truck collided at an intersection.
6. Both drivers were booked on reckless driving charges.

Texas Farm Loans In '48 Over $28 Million

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 27. (INS) — Texas farmers received more than 28 million dollars in loans from farmer's cooperatives during 1948.

M. C. Jaynes, marketing specialist of Texas A & M college, says the money was lent to 173 cooperatives serving 114 thousand farm and ranch families.

Cooperative Activities Vary

Jaynes says the farmers use their cooperatives to gin their cotton, handle and market grain, rice, fruit, vegetables, livestock, dairy and poultry products, to crush and market cottonseed, manufacture feed and purchase supplies needed on the modern mechanized farm.

A normal increase was made last year in the number of new farmer's cooperatives in Texas. Eighty-nine new ones were chartered. Fifty-three Texas cooperatives paid back their loans in full last year.

Jaynes says that by helping small and medium sized farms to increase their earnings, these cooperatives benefit the entire state.

Rose Petal Mystery At Convent In Philippines Called "Miracle"

By RODOLFO NAZARENO
United Press Staff Writer

LIPA CITY, Philippines, Jan. 27 (U.P.)—They call it the mystery of the rose petals.

Many of the thousands who have flocked to this old cathedral town in southern Luzon in recent weeks believe a miracle has been wrought. There are many skeptics. The Roman Catholic Church is investigating.

The rose petals first appeared on Sept. 15 in the garden of a little Carmelite convent at the edge of town. Later, rose petals were found in the cells and on the stairs of the convent. They showered upon the convent grounds from Nov. 17 to 21 and that is when Lipa became a boom town for visits of the devout and curious.

No one apparently knows whence the rose petals came. There are no rose bushes on the convent grounds. Experts say the petals are of a size not grown in the Philippines and of a different tint from any previously known here.

Nun Tells Story

The central figure in the mystery is Teresita Castillo, a 21-year-old Carmelite postulant. The daughter of Modesto Castillo, former governor of Batangas province and now a jurist, entered the nunnery only recently.

Sister Teresita, the story goes, was walking in the garden late in the afternoon of Sept. 12, they said. Her attention turned to a vine that was swaying even though there was no breeze. She saw no one but hear a voice say: "Do not be frightened, my child. Kiss the soil and do what I tell you to do. During 15 consecutive days come to visit me in this place. Eat the grass, my daughter."

The next day a beautiful woman dressed in white appeared before the novice, the story goes. Her feet were bare but did not touch the ground. On the third day, the lady requested that the spot where she appeared be blessed on the next day.

On the day of the blessing, the novice was accompanied to the spot by nuns and a priest. Only Sister Teresita saw the lady, who commanded: "Make this a sacred place and respect it. Pick up the petals, my children. I bless you all."

When she disappeared, many rose petals were scattered on the ground, it is said.

Bishop Puzzled

The auxiliary bishop of Lipa, Alfredo Obviar, told the press: "All I can say now is that this is something extraordinary. The matter is at present under study by theologians."

The bishop said he had heard reports of "cures" brought about by the rose petals.

The bishop said he had blessed the convent gardens where the vision is said to have appeared to Sister Teresita and found the petals there just after the ceremony. He said that neither he nor any of the sisters saw the petals before the ceremony. They did not see them fall.

Benjamin Mea, 28, a policeman of Lipa, told this story:

"First there was a wonderful fragrance. Then came the petals swirling in the direction of the convent from the west. I saw the petals."

Irinea Aranda, 23, a country lass, said she saw the shower of petals twice.

'HARD LUCK GUY'
New Charges Face Narcotics Offender

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 27 (U.P.) Realto Robin Ford, 31-year-old co-defendant in the Robert Mitchum marijuana case, was arrested outside a Sunset strip night club last night on new narcotics charges.

Detectives said they found one stick of marijuana in his hip pocket.

Ford, actress Lila Leeds and film star Robert Mitchum were convicted Jan. 10 of conspiracy to possess narcotics and are awaiting probation hearing and sentence. They and dancer Vickie Evans were arrested in a hillside "marijuana den" Sept. 1.

"I hope this doesn't hurt the others' chances," Ford said after his arrest last night.

Police narcotics officers said they found the "stick," wrapped in cellophane, in his pocket Ford said he couldn't understand how it got there.

"I'm not crazy," he declared. "I'm just a hard luck guy."

Soviets Blast MacArthur's Program In Japan As Failure, Ask Greater Share In Shaping Policies

By GEORGE DURNO
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. — Russia's chief Washington spokesman today branded Gen. Douglas MacArthur a failure as Supreme Commander of the occupation forces in Japan.

Soviet Ambassador Alexander Panyushkin, in attacking the American military hero, demanded that the 11-nation Far Eastern commission—of which Russia is a member—be given full and final authority over Japan's economy and future war potential.

Panyushkin charged specifically that a recent directive to MacArthur failed to carry out the commission's policy on findings on demilitarization and democratization of the beaten Pacific enemy.

U. S. Answers Attack

The U. S. replied shortly afterward through the State department by declaring that the directive about which the Russian envoy complained "is not inconsistent with the policy decisions approved by the FEC."

Privately, top government aides argued that the U. S. has sole authority to issue these directives which are made available at once to FEC.

Panyushkin assailed the United States for attempting single-handed control of the former enemy nation's destiny, in alleged violation of an Anglo - American - Soviet agreement reached in Moscow in 1945.

The latest expression of Communist policy in the Orient was made at a Far Eastern Commission meeting.

It came after Gen. MacArthur's announcement from Tokyo on his 69th birthday Wednesday that he intended to remain in Japan until the job of reestablishing a controlled economy in that country has been completed.

Panyushkin, significantly, also spoke immediately following Japanese elections in which the moderates won handily, but the Communists made a relatively considerable gain in voting strength and representation.

The ambassador took sharp exception to the move of the Washington government last December in giving MacArthur a "unilateral directive" to impose rigid fiscal, monetary, banking, trade and industrial controls on the Japanese government.

Say U. S. Program Fails

Specifically, Panyushkin charged that MacArthur's economic measures to date have not achieved results. He quoted from a joint Washington State and War Department directive of Dec. 17 which pointed out that consumer prices and currency issue had gone up 60 per cent in a year and concluded:

"Even the United States government was forced to recognize the existence of inflation."

He insisted that the 1945 Moscow meeting of foreign ministers had agreed that no fundamental changes could be made in a then-agreed upon "regime of control" without full endorsement of the Far Eastern Commission.

Panyushkin announced therefore, that the Soviet delegation insisted the FEC should discuss all forms projected by the U. S. government "and adopt its own decision in this matter."

Sheriff Glad To Solve Mystery Of Citizen's Missing Post-Hole

MANSFIELD, O.—(U.P.)—Sheriff Frank E. Robinson said he was glad to get the mystery of the missing post hole settled so peacefully.

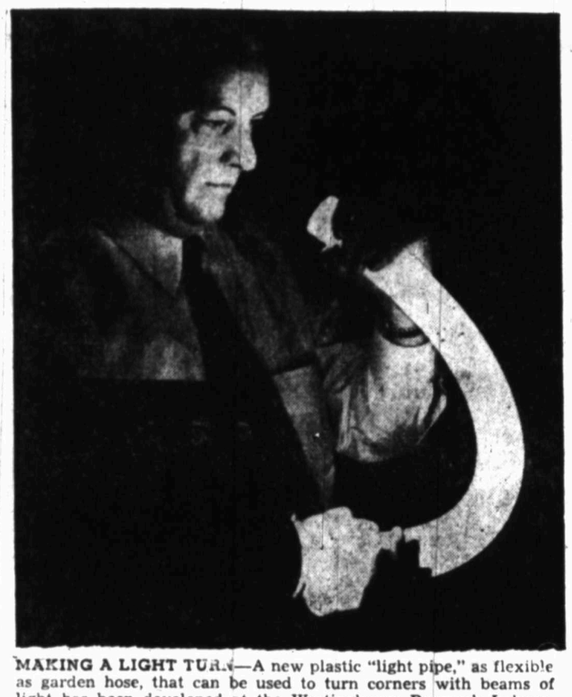

Charles Dennis dug a hole near his home, intending to put up a new mailbox. Then he left to paint the box. When he returned, he told Sheriff Robinson, the hole was gone.

Well, literally gone, he said, since a new post with neighbor Roy Perry's mail box atop it had been planted in the hole he had dug.

But Perry, being an amiable sort of person, agreed to dig a new hole for Dennis.

RUSSIANS TAME ELK, DEER

MOSCOW (AP)—Professor P. A Manteifel, of the Moscow Fur Institute, is reported to be domesticating elk and deer. "Evening Moscow" said the professor was the first person in the USSR to begin taming elk, but now others are following his methods. This autumn experiments are going forward on harnessing elk as well as deer. The elk have become so tame that two of them were recently seen standing near an open field at night watching a tractor crew at work.

MAKING A LIGHT TURN—A new plastic "light pipe," as flexible as garden hose, that can be used to turn corners with beams of light has been developed at the Westinghouse Research Laboratories, Pittsburgh, Pa. Here the plastic tube makes a U-turn to throw a beam of light on Dr. Richard C. Hitchcock's face. The two-inch thick tube can even be twisted into a knot and still conduct light.

Permanent Reserves On Crops Are Asked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—A bill to establish permanent reserves of wheat, corn and cotton was introduced today by Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla).

Thomas, chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee, called it an "ever normal granary" plan. He said it would set "a price floor for farm products" and also protect consumers against "run away prices."

And the stockpiles, he added, will be available for use in case of drought, war or other emergencies.

The bill provides that the permanent reserve of wheat shall be 400,000,000 bushels of corn, 600,000,000 bushels and of cotton 4,500,000 bales.

Commodities placed in these permanent reserves, Thomas explained, would not be counted as part of the total supply in determining acreage allotments, marketing quotas of price support levels.

WAR ASSETS WORK DONE

HONOLULU (AP)—The War Assets Administration's Hawaii office is closing after having sold for $72,000,000 materials which originally cost $360,000,000. Glen Taylor regional director who supplied the figures, said only $750,000 was still owing the WAA for goods sold and that the local offices had taken in $6 for every dollar spent.

COURT CLAMPS DOWN ON 'DELAYING TACTICS'

Judge Blocks Communists' Attempts To Call Petit Jurors For Defense In Conspiracy Trial

By JACK LOTTO
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina today blocked attempts of attorneys defending 11 top Communists against conspiracy charges from continuing to summon prospective jurors as witnesses.

Medina cracked down against what he termed "delaying tactics" and declared he will not permit persons charged with a crime to "take charge of the proceedings" by endless questioning of witnesses.

He explained that if he permits continuance of this "new technique" it would mean that "the whole administration of justice will be at a standstill."

Condemn Jury Selection

The defense contended the federal jury system and the grand jury which returned the indictments is a "rich man's club" and is "illegally constituted" because they exclude the poor, negroes, Jews, manual laborers and members of minority political parties.

Lawyers for the 11 Communists on trial on charges of conspiracy to "advocate and teach" the duty and necessity to overthrow the government by force insist they must call the panel of 525 veniremen and 23 grand jurors to prove their allegations.

Sixteen grand jurors and six prospective trial jurors had paraded to the witness stand in the slow-motion "trial within a trial" when Medina ruled he will allow no more petit jurors to testify.

Accepts Prosecution's Motion

At the same time Medina indicated he will rule in favor of U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey's motion to strike out the defense portion of the challenge relating to the illegality of the grand jury.

Refusing to heed repeated defense objections to his ruling, the judge declared:

"It seems to me that the testimony of the witnesses showed no prejudice has been practiced."

Medina repeatedly told the defense attorneys to "show me some proof of this alleged discrimination."

He defended his ruling against calling more petit jurors and challenged the lawyers:

Judge Asks Precedent

"Find me any case where defendants can legally take over the administration of justice by calling limitless thousands of prospective jurors as witnesses.

"It seems to me that if these new techniques you are developing are allowed, then any one charged with crime and their counsels could take charge of the proceedings by prolonging them indefinitely. I refuse to allow it."

"This procedure can go on and on and on. If you are allowed to do it here, then anyone charged with a crime can do it."

The judge rejected a defense request to be allowed to continue to call petit jurors "for at least another day."

Defense Plan Blocked

Coldly Medina retorted to defense appeals to reconsider:

"I am ruling the defense may not call any more petit jurors. It seems to me the defense plan of procedure in this matter is mere futility.

"It is my judgment that the operation of this court would be paralyzed by the submission of a large number of petit jurors to questioning."

When Louis C. McCabe, of Philadelphia, the attorney for two of the Communists, pleaded for some more time to call up prospective jurors, Medina retorted:

"It's about time I got some proof of these assertions that are being bandied about."

Extradition Waiver Stalls Possible Feud

ORANGE, Jan. 27. (AP)—Police Chief E. L. Nance of Orange said here today that Orange authorities had turned down an opportunity to "retaliate" for what he termed Louisiana Gov. Earl Long's failure to extradite a Louisiana woman to this city.

He referred to seven-months-old extradition proceedings against Mrs. Theresa Weikert of Lake Charles who has been under indictment here since last May. She is charged in connection with an assault made on Mrs. Burton Roan of Orange.

Nance said an opportunity for "retaliation" arose yesterday when two youths wanted in Lake Charles, La., on a safecracking charge were arrested by Orange city police. Nance said he discussed with Orange County Attorney W. E. Lea the possibility of holding the prisoners here "until Governor Long makes up his mind in connection with the Weikert case."

Cites Past Co-operation

Nance added:

"Co-operation between Louisiana and Texas law enforcement officers always has been excellent and the Weikert mess is entirely the fault of Governor Long. The county attorney and I decided, therefore, that nothing would be gained by holding this pair so I got busy and argued the prisoners into waiving extradition and going back to Lake Charles."

The two youths, listed on police records here as Floyd Granville Hall, 21, and Elmo Liston Florence, 17, were returned to Lake Charles by Louisiana authorities late yesterday.

The police chief said Orange law enforcement officials "want to continue to play fair and square and don't want to be a bunch of heels just because some higher-up is slow about doing his duty. Orange does not want to become a harboring place for Louisiana criminals." He said he believed that officers in Louisiana feel the same way.

"We had no difficulty in the Weikert case," said Nance, "until it got into Governor Long's hands and we don't believe there ever would have been any delay if the governor had seen fit to act with the same speed officers in Louisiana used in taking the woman into custody."

'FREEDOM TRADE'

Mother Surrenders Children To State

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27. (INS) — Mrs. Georgette Brucks, 21-year-old mother who traded her children and her right to have children for freedom from prison, carried out the first part of her bargain with the state today.

At juvenile hall she surrendered custody of both her 20-month-old son, Donald, and a baby she is expecting in April.

After the baby is born she will undergo a sterilization operation.

Mrs. Brucks pleaded guilty to the manslaughter death of her seven-month-old son, Howard, and in return for not sending her to prison the court deprived her of all of the rights and responsibilities of motherhood. She was placed on probation for six years. She could have been sent to prison for one to ten years.

Mrs. Brucks beat the baby to death when his constant crying provoked her into a fit of temper.

Denton Carpenter Electrocuted By Storm-Broken Power Line

DENTON, Jan. 27. (AP) — Roy G. Stinchcomb, 43, Denton carpenter, was electrocuted today when he came in contact with a power line which had fallen to the ground because of its weight of ice.

M. C. Monds, who witnessed the accident, said Stinchcomb was backing out of a driveway and became stuck on ice. He got out of the car, slipped on the ice and fell on the wire.

Stinchcomb's wife, who went to his aid, suffered a heart attack, and was under a doctor's treatment tonight.

Foreign Ministers Discussed Proposed European Parliament

LONDON, Jan. 27. (INS) — The foreign ministers of Britain, France, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg began a two-day conference on western union problems today by discussing a proposed European parliament.

British Foreign Secretary Bevin was understood to have urged adoption of his proposal that regular government delegates should be sent to the parliament.

The four other countries took the stand that delegations from the parliaments of participating countries should form the European body.

Several Problems Faced

France also urged that in the formative stage the parliament should be confined to the continental powers, with France taking the initiative in bringing it into being.

In addition to working out a compromise plan for a European parliament, the foreign ministers were faced with these problems:

Conclusion of a North Atlantic pact.

A defense scheme proposed by Viscount Montgomery, chairman of the western union's defense council. This may include an agreement to go ahead with construction of the long projected tunnel underneath the English channel to supply western union powers on the continent with oil.

Recognition of Isreal.

Britain, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg are considering a simultaneous announcement extending de facto recognition to the new Jewish state.

Narrow Margin Given

Bevin decided to attend the foreign ministers' meeting instead of a British cabinet session. The cabinet met to weigh the effects of last night's setback for the Labor government on the Palestine problem in the House of Commons.

The narrow 90-vote margin of approval accorded the government's Palestine policy weakened but did not imperil Bevin's position as foreign minister. Some parliamentary observers recalled however, that the Neville Chamberlain government resigned after a similar vote that reduced the government's majority to 81 on the Norway debate in 1940.

It was revealed today that a number of Laborites went along with the government last night only because Prime Minister Attlee had made the vote a confidence test.

About 60 Laborites abstained, and one, Dr. Samuel Segal, voted against the government.

Pakistan is reported to have bought $500,000 of American jute baling presses.

Health Officer Says Much Of Texas' Disease Preventable

AUSTIN, Jan. 27 (INS)—The 1,246 cases of diptheria, smallpox, and typhoid fever during 1948 in Texas could have been avoided through the simple means of immunization.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, issued a morbidity report Tuesday showing a large reduction in some communicable diseases, but he said that persons can be completely protected from diphtheria, smallpox, or typhoid by immunization.

In 1947 Texas had 1,125 cases of diptheria. That figure dipped to 924 in 1948. The smallpox total dropped from 15 cases to four; malaria dropped from 4,729 to 3,577; and typhus was cut nearly in half, from 610 cases to 344.

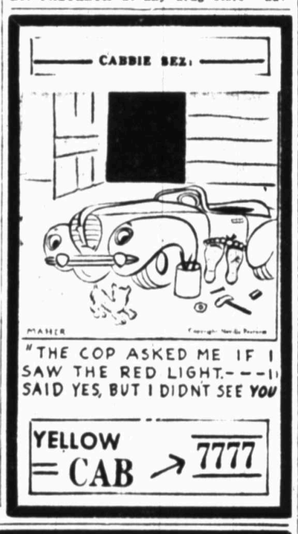

Typhoid fever remained at a comparative standstill with 317 cases in 1947 and 318 in the past year. Influenza plummeted from 116,564 to 76,823 last year, and mumps was reduced to 9,898 in 1948 from 17,202 in 1947.

Only dysentery took a major upswing in frequency last year over 1947, from 15,863 cases to 20,920.

Doctor Cox pointed out that some diseases, such as poliomyelitis, cannot be prevented with certainty. But he said it is a tragic mistake for anyone to be allowed to have diptheria, smallpox, or typhoid fever when immunization provides complete protection.

Supposed Art Copy Is Labeled Masterpiece

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 27 (U.P.)— California state senators are giving new respect to the handsome painting of George Washington which has adorned their senate chamber here for many decades.

Experts who have just restored the full-length Washington portrait are convinced it is an original by the colonial artist Gilbert Stuart, worth about $50,000.

State officials had believed the painting to be a copy of one of Stuart's originals, probably the work of the artist's daughter, Jane Stuart. It was presented to the state of California almost 100 years ago, in 1854.

Charles Muskavitch, conservator of Sacramento's Crocker Art Gallery, became convinced that the painting was an original while he worked at restoring it. He said the free and easy brush strokes and other features are definitely the work of the master and not a copyist.

BRITISH SEEK SMOG RELIEF

LONDON (AP)—The "cheerful open fire" which Britons worship is wilting both the nation's housewives and its choice orchids, the National Smoke Abatement Society reports. The society says, for instance, that the smoking chimneys of Manchester make housewives toil an hour longer over their tubs on every wash day than do the wives at nearby Harrogate, the spa of northern England. One of last winter's smogs made all the orchids and orchid buds in famed Kew Gardens drop off within twenty four hours. The society, long time campaigner for a smoke abatement plan like that used in St. Louis, Mo., estimated smoke and smog damage in Britain costs at least $400,000,000 a year.

Soviets Set Up New Agency To Consolidate Economy In Sphere

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Soviet Russia's new efforts to consolidate the economy of her eastern European sphere is an obvious reaction to the pressure to which she and her satellites are being subjected from all sides.

When the Kremlin decided to use postwar economic chaos as a weapon for political expansion she chose the methods which the western powers could most easily turn against her, and now she is reaping the results.

Sets Up Agency

Just how her new Economic Council for Mutual Aid will develop is still not too clear. But in its first aspects it closely resembles the varius coordinating agencies to which the west has grown accustomed.

There is something satirical in the spectacle of the rough and ready Bolshevists, accustomed to having everything done by decree, adopting an ECMA to combat ERP, ECA, OEEC.

In Washington a good many people appear to accept the ECMA as just another means whereby Russia intends to extend her exploitation of her new colonies. It is true that Russia uses many heavy-handed devices to milk the satellites. She fixes the price of the ruble for import purposes. She fixes the price of goods for export. And then she handles the deal through Soviet-controlled corporations in the "sphere."

Satellites Unhappy

The result is that she exports at her own rates and buys from the satellites at prices which sometimes are only one-tenth of what they could get in the world market.

But these world prices, and the availability in the west of much-needed products which Russia cannot supply at all, make the satellites very unhappy. ECMA, in addition to coordinating the unilateral trade treaties between the members of the sphere, may also be a real effort to salve some of the sorest spots thus created.

Russia also appears to be moving out in a direct effort to meet the challenge of the western idea that peace will come, and Communism can be licked, through promotion of the general welfare. She is developing trade with a great number of countries, especially the underdeveloped countries which the Truman program also recognizes as being on the teeter-totter.

Industrious 4-H Club Girl Earns $10,000 Through Work

WINCHESTER, Ky., Jan. 27.—(U.P.)—Financial success can come early in life to America's farm boys and girls.

Seventeen-year-old Elsa Marie Isaacs earned $10,000 through her 4-H club work before her 17th birthday.

She has been a 4-H member for the past nine years, completing about 50 projects in canning, clothing, foods, room improvement, gardening, poultry, baby beef, sheep and labor service.

In her spare time she has built a fence around the home, put in flowers and shrubbery, and helped her father build a fish pond.

Earth Scoop Turns Up Tons Of Lottery Tickets On Job

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 27. (U.P.)—A shovel operator scooped up several tons of unusual debris—treasury balance lottery tickets.

The tickets were of every hue in the rainbow and were labeled Jackpot, Master, O. K., Star Antler, Lucky, LD Play, Keystone, State and Supreme. The tickets were for months beginning last February throughout 1948.

The shovel, owned by the Kelly Construction Co., Girardville, was operating on Peach Mountain, near Pottsville.

HUGE BOMB REMOVED FROM LONDON BACKYARD—Members of London's 2nd Bomb Disposal Squad look at the 2,750-pound, second largest ever handled by a London disposal unit, as they raise it from a backyard in the East End. Digging for the bomb was begun three weeks earlier. Rail and vehicular traffic were diverted from the district, and many families, whose homes were in the area, were evacuated. The bomb, dropped seven years ago during a raid on London, was removed without mishap. (AP Wirephoto.)

Texas Youth's Steer Wins At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Jan. 27. (AP) — Kilroy Return, a 1,000-pound angus, was named grand champion fat steer today of the 53rd annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show.

The champion was shown by Robert H. Johnson, Goldthwaite, Future Farmers of America member.

Judging at the show began a day before it formally opens its run.

The reserve champion was another angus, "Shorty," a 1,060-pound animal shown by Frank Hermelbracht of Van Croft, Neb.

Won Other Honors

Kilroy Return last week took the grand championship of the Brownwood livestock show. At the exposition here the same steer won the angus show and was grand champion of the boy's show.

The champion hereford steer of the show was J. V., shown by Floy Woodward, Mills county 4-H club girl. Oklahoma A and M college showed the champion shorthorn with its Leader's Triumph.

A southdown wether lamb shown by Glenn Bragg, Talpa, Texas, 4-H club boy was named champion sheep.

The auction sale of champion steers opens tomorrow.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester is scheduled to appear at the opening performance of the rodeo and horse show tomorrow night.

The stock show proper opens officially tomorrow afternoon after a mounted parade through Fort Worth streets. Ten bands will take part and also a float of the B-36, Fort Worth-built superbomber.

Lt. Gov. Allan Shivers is scheduled to appear in the line of march.

Tomorrow will officially be "Sonora day" at the stock show.

Lockney Man Named To Swine Association

R. C. Mitchell, farmer of Lockney, and former teacher of vocational agriculture, has been appointed part-time field representative of The Chester White Swine Record association.

The appointment was made by letter by Levi P. Moore, secretary of the association of Rochester, Ind. The registered swine organization has fieldmen in all the leading hog producing states where large numbers of pure-bred Chester Whites are found. Up to date, Texas has had no field representatives, but because of the increasing popularity of this breed it was felt there was a need for a representative.

Part-Time 'Booster'

Mitchell will take that time necessary from his regular farming operations to act as part-time booster for the breed. His principal duties will be to visit breeders, assist in arranging swine shows, and reporting to the association on the progress. Attractive premiums will be offered at the major shows and fairs in Texas for full classes of the breed and additional prizes for Grand Champions provided they are registered Chester Whites.

Mitchell is establishing a small herd of registered Chester Whites on his farm. He plans to visit the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show in Ft. Worth Jan. 28-Feb. 6, in the interest of the Chester White breed.

Obstinate Pet Goat Saves Owner's Life As Mine Caves In

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 27 (U.P.)—Mrs. Inez Leccese, Keyser Valley, credits her life to her pet goat, Nanny.

Mrs. Leccese was leading the goat to a stake where it was tethered most of the time. Suddenly the goat balked and refused to advance another step.

Mrs. Leccese was attempting to force the goat ahead when the ground collapsed a few feet in front of her, leaving a 35-foot pit, the result of mining operations.

Adventurous Finns Start Rush To Open Lapland Gold Fields

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 27. (U.P.)—The Lemmenjoki River in Lapland, northernmost Finland, is the scene of a gold rush partly resembling that in California many years ago.

In the last months, adventure-longing Finns from all parts of the country have gathered in the area, where there has not been any gold-digging for 43 years.

It is difficult to say whether they have had any good luck. If rumors are true, however, one digger last summer produced more than eight kilograms (17½ pounds) of pure gold worth $44,000.

RELIEF WORKERS KEPT BUSY—The siege of cold weather and accompanying unemployment has overtaxed welfare agencies in Lubbock and they sent out an emergency appeal for volunteer workers, food and clothing. These are typical scenes at Salvation Army headquarters Thursday, where the clothing donations of generous Lubbock residents found eager takers among thinly-clad shivering children and adults. In the upper picture, Salvation Army case worker Bill Robertson assists three shivering girls in finding warmer clothes. "Not bad," the attitude of the girl in the lower picture at left indicates as she tries on a coat just brought in by a woman anxious to help out in a time of emergency. (Staff Photos.)

VETERAN'S DEATH STIRS PROTEST

Probe Of Amarillo VA Hospital Demanded By Vet Organizations

AMARILLO, Jan. 29. (AP)—Top officials at Amarillo veterans hospital said today they would "welcome investigation" after veterans organizations here protested that a former Marine who died Sunday was refused admittance to the hospital.

Col. Paul Clauser, executive officer, and Dr. George S. Littrell, manager of the hospital, said in a joint statement that they "would welcome" an investigation.

The ex-Marine, Billy Gene Smith, 18, died in another hospital. According to an autopsy ordered by District Attorney Lloyd King, he died of "a massive brain hemorrhage of several days duration."

Lewis P. Fields, chairman of the Veterans Affairs commission, said he had made an investigation and that "according to veterans hospitals Billy Gene Smith was pro-

Plan To Change Taxes On Co-Ops Offered

FDR Holiday Is Urged By Senate

By MAC ROY RASOR
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 27.—Call for the same tax treatment for Texas co-ops as is now imposed on private business went to the legislature today.

Senator Keith Kelly of Fort Worth introduced in the Senate a bill calling for equal taxes as the session's third week ended. Both House and Senate quit until Monday.

A 45-minute secret session and passage of a resolution calling on Congress to make the late President Roosevelt's birthday a national holiday occupied most of the Senate's day. The House met for only 22 minutes on minor business matters.

Co-Op Taxes Proposed

Kelly's bill was the second he has introduced this session aimed at co-ops. Earlier he entered a bill to bring electric co-ops onto the same tax line with competing private business.

The new bill covers "every co-operative or fraternal association or corporation authorized to do any business of any kind or nature whatsoever . . . in Texas." It subjects them to payment of the same license fees and taxes "as any other association or corporation, either domestic or foreign, engaged in doing the same or similar business."

Public property, schools churches and the like would retain their present exemption.

Corbin Sponsors Resolution

The Roosevelt resolution was by Senator Kilmer B. Corbin of Lamesa.

The resolution said the nation had been "betrayed and looted by unscrupulous money changers" before Roosevelt "brought the people out of the valley of despair." It referred to the 80th Congress as "derelict in its duty" in not recognizing Roosevelt's birthday, Jan. 30, as a national holiday. It asked the 81st Congress to do the job.

House Speaker Durwood Manford asked all representatives who have not talked to him about committee appointments to see him by tomorrow. House business is stalled, waiting the appointments.

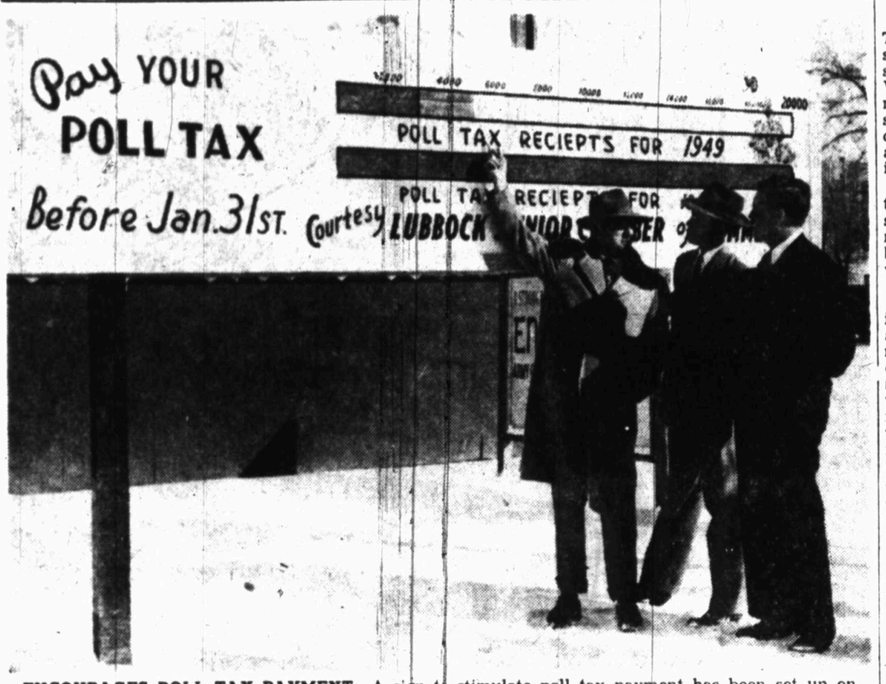

Senator Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo introduced a bill that would amend the firemen's relief and retirement act to require firemen to join the fund within one year after joining a fire department or loose their right to participation.

DEADLY WEAPON

ENCOURAGES POLL TAX PAYMENT—A sign to stimulate poll tax payment has been set up on the north side of the courthouse by the Americanism committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Three Jaycees are shown looking at the sign, which shows approximately 5,000 taxes have been paid thus far and about 20,000 were paid last year. Left to right, the Jaycees are Rolan Simpson, chairman of the Americanism committee, George Atkinson and Homer Wright. Jaycees have been selling poll tax receipts at civic club luncheons. Jaycee-Ettes, wives of Jaycees, will set up booths in four locations today to sell receipts, under direction of Mrs. Ray Blackwell. Thursday night, paid poll taxes in the county totaled 5,539 with 805 exemptions issued to date. Poll tax booths have been set up in Mark Halsey at Nineteenth and Ave. Q, Wylie's Drug at 1106 Texas avenue, Piggly Wiggly No. 15 on North College, in addition to the office at the Courthouse and branch office at Slaton. Government Plays 'Axis Sally' Talks

Jury Hears Records Scoring FDR, Jews At Treason Trial

By JAMES LEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The voice of American-born "Axis Sally" was heard at her treason trial today assailing "Roosevelt and his Jewish friends" and urging GI's to surrender shortly after the Allied invasion of France.

Mildred E. Gillars—the "Axis Sally" of the Nazi wartime radio—made an unexpected appearance on the witness stand shortly before government prosecutors began playing recordings of her propaganda broadcasts.

The treason defendant accused an American counter-intelligence agent of violating her constitutional rights by searching her Berlin apartment without a warrant, but Federal Judge Edward M. Curran quickly ruled that the search was legal.

Miss Gillars testified that in her absence the counter-intelligence man, Capt. Hans Winzen of Detroit, crashed into her apartment at No. 7 Wilhelmstrasse, ransacked it, and later seized recordings he found in a storeroom next door.

Jury Reports In Conversion Suit

A 72nd district petit jury Thursday afternoon answered six special issues in the car conversion action of Jessie Davis and Winnie Hill against Service Finance corporation, and a jury was selected and pleadings read in another case before Judge Dan Blair adjourned court until this morning.

A. W. Salyars and James Denton, counsel for Davis and others, said they would move for judgment approximating $150 on the basis of the answers of a jury of which Cecil White was foreman.

Jury Findings Given

The jury found that the plaintiffs and the defendant had agreed among themselves that the finance corporation would hold the car until the plaintiffs, Slaton negroes, determined between themselves who should receive title to it. It found that the plaintiffs were not in default in payment of ogligations when the finance company took possession, and that they did not voluntarily surrender the car to the defendant for disposition. The defendant finance company, the jury found, had "no reasonable grounds to feel unsafe and insecure, if it did, in collection of this debt at the time the car was placed in its possession."

The jury found the reasonable cash market value of the car when sold was $800, and that $649.87 was owed by the plaintiffs on it to the defendant at the time.

Damage Action Set

Evidence will commence this morning in the damages action of John Francis Brown, a minor, by L. E. Brown individually and as next friend, against the City of Lubbock and others.

The jury is composed of Lee Pierce, J. C. Odom, B. A. McCreary, Earl Bullock, Allen Jones, jr., J. C. Massengale, Claude Key, B. W. Kennedy, J. D. Collier, L. E. Guillot, L. A. Copeland, and Ira Hollingsworth.

The case is outgrowth of a July 22, 1947, truck-motor scooter collision at Twenty-sixth and Washington. Counsel said judgment approximating $14,500 is asked by the plaintiff.

Willis P. Stephenson, driver of the truck, was made a party defendant to the action. The plaintiff pleaded he was an employe of the city. The city pleaded he was an independent contractor—that his truck alone had been hired to haul caliche for street construction purposes.

The firm of Burke and McNeil represents the plaintiff. City Attorney Vaughn E. Wilsono and Assistant City Attorney Syrian E. Marbut appeared for the city. Hugh Anderson, of the firm of Anderson and Howard, for Stephenson.

GILMER-AIKIN BILL

A Plan To Weigh

SURE TO BE one of the most controversial, complex and important proposals before the present session of the Legislature will be the Gilmer-Aikin legislative committee's recommendation on sweeping reorganization of public education in Texas.

Even the severest critics of the plan acknowledge it contains meritorious features. Perhaps the whole thing is good and desirable. If so, these qualities remain to be proved.

The chief question as to the desirability of the plan arises from the fact that so few people appear to know so little about it. It proposes at least 33 major changes in the operations of public schools. Yet the legislative committee has been exceedingly reluctant to disclose the detailed nature of the proposed changes and their probable effects.

TRUE, the committee has handed out gobs of propaganda in support of the adoption of the plan. It has tried to use high-pressure methods to jam it through the Legislature, even urging that a special session be called, without giving people of the State an opportunity to be informed concerning the proposal or to express their wishes about it.

Numerous critics have charged the committee with refusing them access to unbiased and unprejudiced information on the plan. The committee has been reluctant to set the recommendations out where people of Texas could see and study them, and then form their own conclusions.

But, even though few people are familiar with details of the recommendations, one thing is sure and virtually undenied. The plan would centralize in Austin almost dictatorial control of all public schools of Texas. Individual communities would be left with little voice in the operation of their own schools.

However, the fact that the recommendations may include some objectionable features would not mean the whole plan is bad. On the contrary, everyone acknowledges there is plenty of room for improvement in the Texas public school system. It would not be logical to suppose that a committee could devote 18 months to the study of a problem—as the Gilmer-Aikin committee has done—without producing constructive ideas which should be adopted.

IT WOULD be premature, therefore, either to approve or condemn the recommendations until people of Texas have opportunity to know more about them and until they hear and weigh the opinions of those who are qualified to pass judgment on specific proposals submitted to the Legislature.

If the Legislature or the people had to decide the matter immediately on the basis of information now available, we would say with emphasis that it should be rejected.

Fortunately, the danger apparently has been removed that supporters of the plan might be able to high-pressure it through the Legislature.

This should afford ample opportunity to study it thoroughly, to eliminate the objectionable sections and to enact legislation which will mean a better public school system in Texas.

Beware Of Romance

By ROBERTA COURTLAND
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: When sixteen-year-old Merry Carson learns that her dashing father, Kin, has asked her selfish mother, Susan, for a divorce, her whole world turns topsy-turvy. Kin leaves home and Susan goes to pieces. Aunt Jane comes to look after things. The doctor advises a change for Susan and they take her to St. Vincent's an inland resort. Here Susan buys a house from Carter Bagby. Carter treats her gallantly and Susan begins to perk up. Merry goes to spend a couple of days with her father in their home town. In the hotel lobby the first evening, she sees Tip Kennedy.)

XIV

FOR a moment the floor seemed to heave a little under her feet, and the next minute Tip was saying quietly:

"Hi, Merry. You look prettier than ever."

The floor steadied a little and she heard her voice, a little high and unnatural, saying breathlessly, "Thanks, Tip. It's a truly noble sun-tan, isn't it? I'm frantic with pride about it."

"Very becoming," said Tip politely. And then his voice stopped being so quiet and determinedly casual as he said accusingly, "You might have answered one or two of my letters, anyway, Merry."

"I'm terribly sorry, Tip, but you've no idea how busy I've been. I tutored like mad to finish my classes, and then Mother and I bought a house and we've been racing around getting it all slicked up and you should see the garden."

Tip managed a semblance of a polite smile, and with his hand beneath her elbow guided her firmly toward a big sofa set at right angles to the main entrance.

"I want to talk to you, Merry, now that a kind friend who saw you at the airport was good enough to telephone me that you were in town."

Merry was glad to sit down, for somehow, crazily, her knees were shaking and her heart was hammering so hard she was quite sure that he could hear it.

TIP'S lean brown face was hard and set. His tone was so quiet as to be almost expressionless.

"I don't know just what I've done to deserve this brush-off you're giving me, Merry," he said. "I certainly had nothing to do with your parents' break-up, so why make me suffer for it?"

"I'm not, Tip, I'm not," she protested, and set her teeth hard against the tears that threatened her. "I've tried to explain, Tip. If they couldn't make a go of marriage, with all they had to hold them together, how could a couple of kids like you and me hope to?"

"We won't always be a couple of kids, Merry."

"I know, Tip. And I suppose they felt when they were married that it was for always and a couple of days afterwards. Tip, when people have lived together, and loved each other, and then get tired of living together and don't love each other any more, it hurts."

Tip was about to protest when he saw Kin coming toward them. He stood up.

Kin smiled warmly at Merry as he approached.

"Afraid I'm late, chick. A shame, too, when we have so little time to be together," he said, and kissed her cheek, and looked at Tip with recognition. "Oh, hello. It's Tip Kennedy, isn't it?"

"How do you do, sir," said Tip stiffly.

"Glad to see you, boy. How's your father?"

"Fine, sir, thanks. It's good to see you back. I only wish you were coming back to stay, and Merry too."

"I wish so, too, Tip, but I'm afraid it's not possible."

Tip nodded. "Could I see you for a little while, Mr. Carson, while you're in town? I'd like to talk to you."

Merry made a little instinctive gesture of protest, and said through her teeth, "It's no use, Tip."

"How do you know?" Tip was being deliberately rude, and Kin's eyebrows went up just a tiny bit and there was the faintest possible twinkle in his eyes.

"Of course. How about tomorrow morning? About 10? Maybe you'd meet me here and we could ride in town together. Matter of fact, I'd like your assistance and advice about something."

Tip flushed at the unspoken compliment of that and stood a little straighter.

"Thanks, sir. I'd like that." And then he turned to Merry. "The gang would like to give you a party. Merry —they all want to see you. Could you make it tomorrow night?"

And before Merry could voice a negative Kin said heartily, "That's fine, Tip. I am afraid I'm going to be tied up for a couple of hours after dinner tomorrow. I was worried about Merry being on her own for the evening."

"Merry needn't ever be on her own here, Mr. Carson, unless she wants to be," said Tip with an accusing glance at Merry. "I'll see you at 10, sir. Good night."

He went off across the lobby then, holding his tall lanky body rather stiff and straight, and Kin watched him, frowning.

"Seems a likely young lad,' he said then. "Have you been quarreling with him, chick?"

"Of course not— it's just that he's so stubborn," said Merry hotly.

Kin looked down at her sharply and caught the glimmer of tears in her eyes, and suddenly he looked tired and sad. He tucked his hand beneath her elbow and steered her toward the dining room.

"Oh, well, maybe he's hungry. I know I am. Let's see what's on the menu for tonight," he said cheerfully.

Kin exerted himself to be amusing, and Merry forgot everything but the pleasure of being with him again. She had missed him so much. He was such darned good fun!

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

FOR goodness' sakes!

Here I was going to write a learned column telling you all about the sensational fact that scientists have at last been able to see genes, the tiny carriers of heredity in all living things.

BRANDEIS

Then my eye lights on a headline which reads "New French Hats Have Coffee Bean, Flower Pot Shapes."

So I say to myself, "Nine people out of ten certainly are more interested in ladies' hats that look like coffee beans than in genes."

That is what I say to myself and so, naturally, this is going to be a column about ladies' hats.

And, gentlemen, if you think ladies' hats have been crazy heretofore, well—you ain't seen nothing yet, to paraphrase Al Jolson.

The millinery show for Spring is now being held at the Hotel Biltmore in New York.

Here are a few of the exhibits from France which are attracting an enormous amount of interest:

A flower pot, so called, which, as the professional description says, poses a higher, stiffer crown above your forehead. It has a tiny brim and a small harvest of flowers somewhere on the silhouette.

The coffee bean hat is small, flat on top and widened from side to side, often with balancing bows and bouquets. It can be tilted to taste.

And here is something that sounds like a nightmare to me, but, according to my wife, is very chic:

"A realistic flower pot by Maud Roser is a lacquer red straw, with red violets and a green veil. Legroux's flower pot introduces a new pearlized straw, slightly iridescent."

The dramatic moment of the French group, it says here, is in Legroux's black Milam with clover-shaped brim bound in black velvet ribbon. "Paris millionaires, like Americans, think women will take to picture hats this year even before they shed their fur coats."

For travel, Maria Guy's Clown hat is built on wires and springs back fast after the worst beating, according to my newspaper article.

BUT enough of hats.

Let me tell you a little about genes.

After fifty years of research, two University of Southern California professors finally succeeded in photographing those little things that determine your heredity and mine.

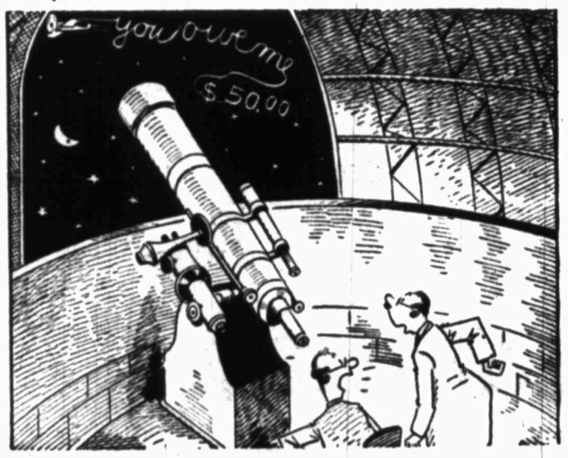

They are spindle-shaped particles about one 100,000th of a centimeter long and one 1,000,000th of a centimeter wide. (A centimeter is almost a half inch.)

So here we are, we mighty human beings, we masters of our destiny, simply the product of millions of almost invisible things.

And, worst of all, in the report from Southern California it didn't even say whether those genes they photographed wore flower pot, coffee bean or clown hats!

Well, maybe in another fifty years they'll know that, too.

GOPs UP IN ARMS

Committee Setup Hit

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—In an attempt to assure favorable action on President Truman's record peacetime budget of almost forty-two billion dollars, Democratic House leaders have manipulated legislative machinery in a way that angry Republicans assail as "revolutionary and dictatorial." They charge that it will not permit any check on presidential spending.

TUCKER

It is the second Democratic coup to weaken the opposition even more seriously than when their Capitol Hill representation was reduced sharply at the polls. The other occurred when Senate Democrats altered the composition of the Foreign Relations committee so as to give them eight members as against only five for the GOP-ers.

THREATENING: But the newer arrangement of Legislative strength and procedure, which occurred at the first behind-the-doors organization meeting of the House Appropriations committee is regarded as even more threatening to Congressional concord.

On such questions as foreign policy in these difficult days, both parties will try to bury differences that might encourage Russia. But there is always an area for argument and dispute on matters of fiscal policy, the budget and taxes.

It is the Appropriations group that the White House's social and economic and welfare program must be implemented by making available the money required.

PROGRAM: Chairman Clarence Cannon of Missouri began proceedings quietly enough. After welcoming the many new members, which include a number of freshman Democrats, he explained that this extremely important committee had always worked in "amity" and "brotherly understanding," and hoped that the same spirit would continue to prevail.

Then he outlined a committee program which led to fiery protests from the minority. First, he explained that the Democrats meant to add two members, giving them forty-five instead of forty-three, as against eighteen for the Republicans. He based that on the membership proportion in the lower body.

He announced that the special staff set up by the Appropriations committee of the last Congress would be abolished, or so revised that it would be under his command. This group has consisted of expert lawyers, accountants and economists serving at relatively small salaries. They have been investigating handling of appropriations and expenditures by the executive departments.

SUSPICIOUS: Its Republican origin had aroused suspicions that it would act in a partisan manner, although its creators insist that it was making a factual and impartial study.

Chairman Cannon also declared that key subcommittees would be cut from seven to five men, making it more difficult for these units to question executive officials on their need for the amounts of money asked for their departments by the White House.

In the past these sub bodies have really done the committee's major work. Therefore, it is essential to keep them under control.

CONSOLIDATION: Mr. Cannon's consolidation of the subcommittees which have been handling national defense appropriations portend no economies in this field, although the funds requested for rearmament total approximately fifteen billion dollars.

In the past there was a separate subcommittee to study the finances and practices of the Army and the Navy and the Air Forces of both agencies—fourteen men. On many occasions certain members of these groups became so expert in these subjects that they forced tremendous savings.

Sometimes they prodded admirals and generals into discarding outmoded weapons for more modern and effective equipment. They rode herd on the "brass," whose training and experience deprives them of any understanding of the value of money.

Now a committee of only five men will supervise the expenditure of the unprecedented sum of fifteen billion or more dollars annually. It may be physically impossible for them to do the job.

STEAM-ROLLERED: When "Dick" Wigglesworth, Bay State Republican, and others of the minority tried to ask questions in protest against what they called the "Cannonading," they were steam-rollered into silence. When Rep. Francis Case of South Dakota declared that "This is revolution," a majority colleague said:

"Well, what do you think the people voted for last November?"

ALLIANCE: Numerous readers ask whether the proposed North Atlantic military alliance would or could bind this nation to becoming involved in a foreign war without a prior declaration by Congress.

Answer: No, it could not under our constitution. I understand that the American officials engaged in framing the document, which is expected to assume the form of a treaty for submission to the Senate for ratification, are having considerable difficulty in agreeing upon the language for any actual commitments we may make.

The basic idea is to build up the armed forces of the five Western European nations, standardize their weapons and supplies with ours and make them better able to withstand possible assault by Russia.

How we can do that without making an implied promise to go to their rescue is a tremendous problem, especially as there is growing sentiment in Congress over such an unprecedented pledge—so far-reaching that John Foster Dulles, who ought to know, refers to the proposed treaty as the most historic and important document since the Monroe Doctrine.

OPPOSITION: Incidentally, despite periodical and optimistic reports of progress, it is known that the proposed military lieup has run into obstacles abroad. The French, Dutch, Belgians and Luxembourgers—the people, that is—do not want to raise taxes so as to expand their military establishments. Holland, for instance, pays only a little more than $200,000,000 a year for this purpose, and Belgium only $115,000,000, as against our estimate of fifteen billion for the 1950 fiscal year.

Their forces are so poorly trained and supplied, especially land units, that experts estimate it will take at least two years to put them into fighting shape, if then. Field Marshal Montgomery, who will command the collective army, is quite concerned over the popular attitude and the state of their national defense system.

Moreover, the Communists in all these countries are conducting a violent campaign against this rearmament, warning that it is likely to produce war rather than peace. Having suffered so heavily from hostilities on their land twice in a generation, this argument has great effect in stimulating opposition.

RUHR AGAIN GROWING STRONG

Change In German Policy Needed

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON,— The German industrial giant, meaning the Rhur, is alive and kicking again. Production is back to three-quarters of what it was before the war when it was the arsenal of Nazi aggression. Some German industrial figures and interests identified with the Nazi war program are back in places of influence and intrigue.

News dispatches relating all this and more, based on first-hand surveys by American correspondents in Germany, come simultaneously with new pressure upon President Truman to take a second look at the revived German giant.

STOKES

The pattern of destored German dominance in Western Europe may be too well fixed already so that nothing can be done now but watch it closely and control it. Control now is in a figurative handful of American and British officials and entirely inadequate, according to the consensus of on-the-scene reports, both press and private. This control is to be transferred eventually to the new international Ruhr authority recently authorized. It will have quite a formidable task.

Interests Are Involved

What has happened may have been foreseen from successive developments that were regularly catalogued by this reporter from time to time beginning immediately after the war with the setting up of technical committees to plan for Germany. Those were infiltrated with representatives of big American finance and industry whose connections with pre-war German industry and finance was spelled out at the time. Their influence continued in the organization that was transposed to Germany. Some had little apparent sympathy with our government's policy of breaking up the German cartels, one of our pledged war aims, and that virtually has been abandoned.

Big-business influence has continued in development of ECA plans for Germany. A striking example was in the commission appointed by Paul G. Hoffman, ECA administrator, to investigate the reparations problem. Represented on that are interests that were formerly involved in the German economy.

The chairman is George Humphrey, president, Mark Hanna company of Cleveland, which has connections with the heavy steel and machine tool industry in the United States. The other members are Charles E. Wilson, president, General Motors, which owned the auto Opel works in Germany; John L. McCaffrey, president, International Harvester, which also has a large subsidiary in Germany; G. A. Price, vice president, Westinghouse Electric, which had tie-ups with German concerns, and Frederick V. Geier, director of Proctor and Gamble.

The commission's report, submitted to the State department, was awaiting action from under Secretary Robert A. Lovett when he resigned recently. It recommends removal from the reparations list of still more steel plants and restoring them for production to Germany, which would still further expand Germany's steel capacity. The level already has been lifted from 10,000,000 to 14,000,000 tons. Now it is being proposed to lift the ceiling entirely.

Change Still Needed

The Humphrey report offers President Truman an opportunity to denote a new direction on German policy. Though not a great many plants proportionately are involved, he is being urged to reject it. Both Britain and France are growing anxious about the scope of German rebuilding which is of concern to them, both from the standpoint of defense and economically in their own struggles for recovery.

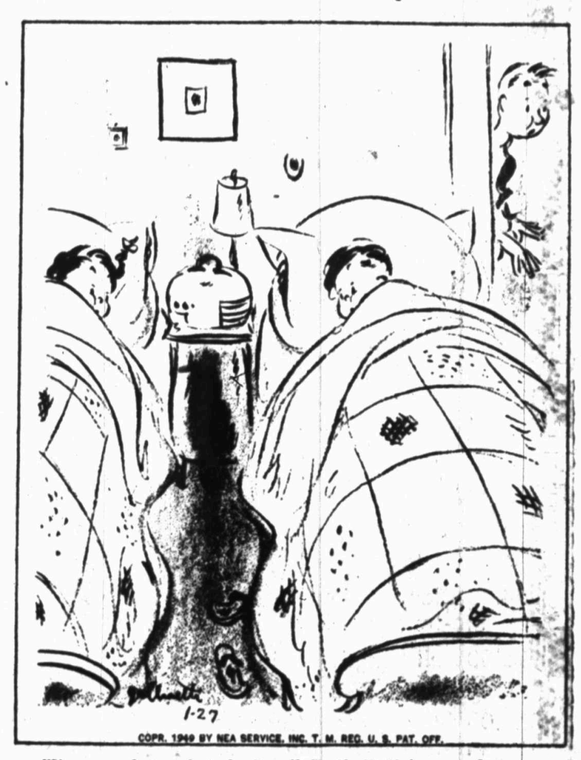

This would seem to be a good time, before it is too late, to review and, if necessary, recast our German policy so that a program to make Germany self-sufficient and helpful to the general European economy does not run wild into something dangerous. Advocates of a "strong Germany," who have been most effective, have been assisted by other developments that also have conveniently diverted public attention.

Foremost, of course, is Russia Her tactics have given ammunition to those who would rebuild Germany as a bulwark against Russia, as was done before World War I, but with no guarantee that a revived Germany will be on the side of the western powers, her traditional enemies.

A diverting factor is the argument that building up Germany "will take her off the American taxpayer's back," which sounds fine until you consider what the American taxpayer might get on his back in exchange, a restored Germany again ready for war. Also, the squabbling among the war allies has been capitalized cleverly by Germany to play them off against each other to her gain.

STOCKS LOSE AGAIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (AP)—The stock market turned in a losing score today for the fourth time in a row.

Losses ranged from fractions to more than a point were partly offset by a liberal sprinkling of modest advances.

The steel group came under selling pressure immediately after the market opened. Offerings widened to include other groups and during the morning a decisive downswing developed. Then the steels began to perk up and a slow rally got under way which cut down morning losses and put some stocks, notably the steels, in the plus column. The rally never did gather any real momentum.

Turnover dropped to 840,000 shares from 1,040,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .1 of one point to 65.2, lowest since Jan. 15. Of the 947 issues traded, 499 declined and 248 advanced.

Wall Street was disappointed over the failure of U. S. Steel's special dividend and stock split-up proposal to stir up public interest in the market.

Bethlehem Steel Corp. reported after the close 1948 profits that were 77 per cent higher than 1947. Glum brokers, though, feared that even those lush earnings would have little immediate effect on prices. "It would take dynamite to lift this market," one financial man commented.

U. S. Steel lost a full point at one time but came back for a closing gain of ¼ point at 77¾. Yesterday big steel raced up 4⅝ a share. Up fractionally were Bethlehem Steel at 33⅜ and Youngstown Sheet 73¾. Still a bit lower at the final bell, but above the day's lows, were Republic Steel at 26, National at 90, and Inland at 40¼.

On the losing side were Chesapeake and Ohio, Standard Oil (NJ), Mission Corp., Standard Oil of California, Pure Oil, Transcontinental and Western Air, Western Union, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott Copper, Phelps Dodge, and American Woolen.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT
CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (AP)—A rally got underway in grains today after prices slumped to new lows on the downturn of the past several weeks. Commission house buying and short-covering sparked the upturn, which was led by wheat.
Traders thought the rally was in part technical, stating the market had apparently been oversold. Buying followed news that the United States wanted a $2.00 bushel wheat maximum in any new international wheat agreement. Earlier, the British delegation had asked for a lower maximum.
Wheat closed ¾-1 ⅝ higher, May $2.20 ⅛-¼, corn was ⅜-1 ⅝ higher, May $1.43-1.42 ⅛, oats were ⅜-1 ¼ higher, May 71-71 ⅛, rye was unchanged, May $1.81¼, soybeans were 1 ¼ to 2 cents higher, March $2.46 ¼-⅜, and lard was 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds higher, March $14.82-14.85.

Drive In Buying System Expands To Automobile Shopping Center

CHICAGO, Jan. 27. (U.P.) — The nation's first automobile shopping center, where customers can buy while seated in their cars, will be started here next spring.

Plans for the center were announced by a real estate firm and an architectural and engineering group.

There will be pick-up windows for packages, sales windows for purchases by motorists, drive-in centers for making telephone calls, and carry-out dinners prepared by the shopping center's restaurant.

The project, to be known as the Lincoln Road Shopping Center, will extend more than 1,000 feet along a main artery on the city's northwest side. It will facilitate shopping by homeward bound suburbanites.

Sidewalks Heated

Two-level construction and one-way drives will eliminate cross-traffic within the center for both automobiles and pedestrians. A projecting canopy along the frontage of each building will shelter pedestrian shoppers from inclement weather, and heated sidewalks will melt snow as fast as it falls.

The architect, Howard T. Fisher, said motorists will be able to cash checks, pick up laundry and dry cleaning, and buy items which do not require selection, all without leaving their cars.

Fisher said a typical woman shopper' tour through the center would be like this:

"First," he said, "she may drive in and, without getting out of her car, cash a check at the currency exchange and leave a pair of shoes to be re-heeled at the shoe repair shop, and a prescription to be filled at the drug store.

Everything Made Easy

"She may then park her car conveniently nearby to choose a scarf at the apparel shop, get a manicure at the beauty shop and do anything else that demands other than a mere quick selection.

"She may, then, if she cares to, select at the super-market all of her purchases for the coming week-end and have them conveyed to a pick-up window on the lower level.

"Her next step, upon returning to her car, is simply to drive through the auto-shopping lanes, pick up the shoes she left, perhaps buy a quart of ice cream and a house plant, and have her purchases at the super-market loaded directly into her car."

SOME CAN HOLD IT

Texas Town Rivals Florida Climate In Current Cold Wave

MARSHALL, Jan. 27. (AP)—Marshall isn't Miami, but it will do until Miami comes along.

This East Texas city has spent January snuggled under a warm cloud blanket which has deactivated six cold fronts that raised Old Ned in other parts of the state.

The temperature has soared as high as 78 degrees and only once, on Jan. 19, has it dropped below 30 degrees.

And the water situation is fine, too. Already 6.28 inches have fallen this month. That's .23 of an inch a day—enough to keep you off the beach if Marshall were Miami—which it isn't.

VA Hospital

nounced an emergency patient and as such was qualified for entry into the Veterans hospital."

Yesterday an official request was telegraphed to the deputy administrator, Branch 10, Veterans administration in Dallas, asking for an official VA probe.

As to charges regarding an alleged statement, "Take him home and let him sleep it off," the two hospital officials said they are conducting an investigation of their own to "see that if such was the case, it will never happen again."

L. A. Pitt, commander of the Hanson Post of the American Legion, said that charges of "indifference and inefficiency" would be aired at a meeting of the American Legion. He said the Legion expected a full report on the case by Feb. 5.

Mrs. Farley Wilson, mother of Smith, said he was denied treatment at the veterans hospital on the grounds that he was not an emergency case.

The ambulance driver who last Thursday night took Smith to the Veterans hospital made affidavits that a physician at the hospital stated he did not consider Smith an emergency patient.

Parking Meter 'Clock' Proves Upset To Tardy Wife's Alibi

GARDNER, Mass. Jan. 27 (U.P.)—Police Chief Cyrille Leblanc says one resident of this chair city is delighted with the newly-installed parking meters.

It seems the man often meets his wife downtown but she's always a few minutes late. Never admits it, though.

So her husband now meets her near a parking meter, dropping in a few pennies when he reaches the rendezvous. When his wife arrives late there's no argument. He merely points to the time ticked off by the meter.

Bevin Rides Out Laborite Revolt

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 27. — Britain's labor cabinet weighed today the revolt within the Labor party against its Palestine policy, amid signs Foreign Secretary Bevin is determined to ride out the storm.

A source close to the cabinet said Britain probably will extend recognition to Israel before the Laborites hold their next Parliamentary meeting next Wednesday and that this may help to kill off the intra-party squabble.

"Will Bevin go?" asked a headline in Lord Beavorbrook's Daily Express, independent and imperialist newspaper. The question was echoed elsewhere in the press and in the lower ranks of the government itself. The answer seemed to be: Not right now, anyway.

Bevin was absent when the cabinet gathered with Prime Minister Attlee at No. 10 Downing street to talk over the foreign secretary's future and the party's future course.

He went instead to a London conference of the five Brussels pact powers—Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—which is expected to help pave the way for Britain to recognize Israel.

Palestine Debate Closed

Prime Minister Attlee closed a Palestine debate in the House of Commons last night with the declaration Britain "accepted in principle" the recognition of Israel. He said she was waiting until after consultations with the dominions and her Brussels allies to announce recognition. Bevin had said somewhat the same thing.

The unfinished state of these two projects is one of the main reasons why few in London expect Bevin to step out of office now.

Jury Hears

jury included a Berlin broadcast on July 27, 1944, in which "Sally" suggested to GI's at the front that surrender was "not a bad idea, really."

German Identifies Voice

Between recordings, Adelbert Houben, former manager of the German Overseas radio, positively identified the voice of Mildred Gillars as the voice of "Axis Sally."

However, Houben supported the defense contention that Miss Gillars refused to work with Martin J. Monti, confessed American deserter who recently pleaded guilty to treason and was sentenced to 25 years imprisonment.

Earlier, defense attorney James J. Laughlin attempted to bar playbacks of the Sally broadcasts recorded by an American listening post, but Curran ruled that the jury should hear the transcriptions.

Stassen Boomed For GOP Party's Lead

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27. (INS)—Nine prominent Missouri Republican leaders left St. Louis today by train for Philadelphia, where they will ask Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, to take over active leadership of the party.

E. W. Bromwich of St. Louis, treasurer of the GOP state committee,, headed the party.

A resolution adopted Nov. 16 by 35 Missouri Republican leaders will be presented to Stassen, who unsuccessfully sought the party's presidential nomination at the July convention and now is president of the University of Pennsylvania.

Some Britons Believe U. S. Is Still A Colony Of The Crown

LONDON, Jan. 27 (U.P.)—America is a British colony, according to three per cent of people interviewed in a British colonial office survey of public opinion.

Some 2,000 adults in Britain were interviewed "to aid the colonial office in framing an information policy of realistic nature."

Twenty-four per cent thought most colonial inhabitants were white; 22 per cent thought the colonies paid taxes to support Britain, and 25 per cent knew no difference between colonies and dominions.

The colonial office commented: "The British people's knowledge is sketchy and inadequate in the extreme."

Mistaking his mother-in-law for a deer, while on a hunting trip, in Mexico, Heraclio Melendez shot her dead, and authorities are investigating reports of disagreements between the two.

Arizona Woman Is Governor For Period Without Knowing It

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 27 (U.P.)—A hunting trip was responsible for Arizona having a woman governor for the first time in its history.

But the state auditor, Mrs. Ana Frohmiller, who held the chief executive's position for about 15 minutes, didn't know about it until several days later.

It happened when Gov. Dan E. Garvey crossed to the Nevada side of the Colorado river on a hunting and fishing trip. Under Arizona's new succession law, Mrs. Frohmiller, as state auditor, became governor while Garvey was outside the state.

According to one source, rheumatic diseases cost the American people about $750,000,000 a year in lost wages, relief payments and doctor bills.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and to aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.
