Here is the new headquarters building of Greenbelt Rural Electric Co-operative, Inc., completed and furnished recently at a cost of $130,000. Formal opening of the building will be held Sunday, August 16, from 1 to 5 p. m., when members of the co-operative from the six counties served, along with friends from a wide area will see the new building, one of the most modern and functional in this part of Texas.

Enrollment Begins for Two Schools Monday Morning

Wellington high school and junior high students will begin enrollment for the 1959-1960 term on Monday, August 17, and continue through Thursday, August 21, Mack Bush, principal, has announced.

Under a new set-up for the coming year, the two schools will be combined under one principal, Bush, who recently was promoted from junior high principal.

Seniors will begin enrolling at 1:30 p. m. Monday, Bush said; Juniors will begin enrolling at 9 a. m. Tuesday; sophomores at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday; and freshmen Wednesday at 9 a. m.

"All students in high school must take four one-hour subjects each semester," Bush said, then outlined requirements for the classes.

Freshmen will be required to take English I, Algebra I, general science and world history, and may take any one of these elective: band, physical education, homemaking, vocational agriculture and typing.

Sophomores must have at least four credits and must take English II, Algebra II and biology. Their electives are the same as freshmen plus speech. Juniors must have 8 credits and must take English III and American History. Their electives are the ones mentioned previously and bookkeeping, plane geometry, physics or chemistry, shorthand.

Seniors, who must have 11 credits, are reminded they must have 16 credits to graduate. Of these, there must be three credits in English, two in math, three in social sciences, two in science and six electives. Seniors must have Texas history and government. Their electives are English IV, speech, typing, solid geometry, trigonometry, bookkeeping, short-hand, physics or chemistry, band and physical education.

In junior high, sixth grade students will take English, reading, spelling, United States history, arithmetic, science, health and physical education; seventh grade: English, Texas history, geography, mathematics, science and spelling; eighth grade: English, math, American history, science, spelling, band and physical education.

High school students will pay an enrollment fee of $2.50 and junior high students $2.00. Bush explained that $1.00 of this is a library fee and $1.00 assembly programs. High school students pay a 50¢ ink fee.

Rev. Claude Roy Returns to Hold Revival Here

The Rev. Claude N. Roy of Battle Creek, Michigan, who was reared at Wellington, will be the visiting evangelist in a revival that opens at Faith Baptist Church Friday, August 14 and continues through Monday August 24.

The Rev. L. C. Conner is pastor. Rev. Roy is the son of H. Lee Roy, who now lives in Athens, Tenn. The family came here in 1919. Rev. Roy was graduated from Wellington high school in 1942 and later was graduated from Howard Payne College, Brownwood, and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth. He is a former member of First Baptist Church here and entered the ministry from that church, was ordained and licensed to preach in it. He is now pastor of First Baptist Church, Springfield-Battle Creek, Michigan. Before going there, he was pastor of a Fort Worth church.

Services will begin Friday evening and will be held at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The church is located at 101 East Avenue. The public is invited to attend, Rev. Conner said.

Fair Boosters a Derbyed Crowd

Wellington boosters of the Collingsworth County Free Fair have put aside their John B. Stetsons and come out in derbies—not brown derbies, but black, red and green ones.

Each of these has a hat-band lettered in red, "Collingsworth County Free Fair." Boosters will wear these on advertising trips to near-by towns, and local business men also will use them.

Anyone wishing a hat may buy one at the Chamber of Commerce office, N. M. Higdon, manager, said.

Public Invited

Greenbelt Electric to Hold Formal Opening on Sunday

Greenbelt Electric Cooperative, Inc., will hold the formal opening of its new headquarters in Wellington Sunday, August 16, from 1 to 5 p. m., when the general public is invited to see the modern new building completed and furnished at a cost of around $130,000.

George Henry, manager, said that Greenbelt personnel will be on hand to show people through the building, explain the nature of the work performed in each section, and operation of the co-operative.

Contractor for the building was Killingsworth Construction Company, owned by a former Wellington man, Woodrow Killingsworth of Dimmitt.

Of red brick construction, the building is of modern, functional design, and is the first building in Wellington to employ the use of brick exterior panels to cut sunlight and give added privacy to the offices. It is a combination office building and warehouse, and with the fenced and surfaced storage yard occupies one-half block on Amarillo Street between 9th and 10th streets, immediately west of the community building.

Inside, much walnut has been employed to finish the rooms, with ceramic tile adding touches of color. The floor is of quarry tile and the building is air conditioned throughout.

Of special interest is the paneled meeting room and electrical demonstration area, which will be available to the public on a limited basis for meetings by small groups.

A series of rooms house the office personnel with one room given over entirely to billing. Adjacent to these is the office of Miss Bessie Rainer, office manager.

Near the front of the building is Henry's office. To the north of these, Horace Small, material clerk and Ted Brock have offices, with adjoining work rooms.

This move into the new headquarters building and the open house come almost 20 years from the time the first electricity was turned on by Greenbelt Rural Electric Co-operative, Inc. Organized in 1938, the lines were energized in 1939.

Orval Couch was Greenbelt manager from the time of its organization until 1954, when he moved to Homer, La. Henry has been manager since then. He became a Greenbelt lineman in May 1945 and later was line superintendent.

Chairmen Named

Floats Urged for Big Free Fair Parade

Mrs. Jimmie Kelso and Mrs. Earl Hunter were named this week to work with merchants and organizations in securing floats for the big parade that will open the second annual Collingsworth County Free Fair.

Dr. Chas. B. Jones, fair director, made the appointments.

The two women this week are contacting merchants asking their co-operation in entering floats.

"This is one of the most important parts of our Fair—the thing that will start it off in a big way," Dr. Jones declared.

Mrs. Kelso and Mrs. Hunter pointed out that every business has something about it that can be featured on a float.

"Those floats need not be expensive or overly elaborate," they said. "The thing is that we want as many business houses and organizations represented as possible."

They hope to have all parts of the county represented in the Fair. Demonstration clubs, schools or youth groups can represent their communities. Services organizations, Scouts, social organizations and study groups are urged to participate.

"There is no limit to the kind or size of the float, just so you have one in the parade," Mrs. Kelso said.

Bill Seaberry Dies July 25

Bill Seaberry, who lived here many years and was a leader in veterans affairs, died at Mineral Wells July 25, after a long illness.

He was county service officer for Palo Pinto County until about a year ago, and while he lived here, he was service officer of the American Legion and held other offices in that organization.

William Cicero Seaberry was born March 28, 1882, in Poolville. He married Elizabeth Hudson in 1912, was in the U.S. Navy 12 years and served in World War I. He is survived by his wife and daughter, Mrs. Eugene H. Copeland of Albuquerque, N. M. and three grandchildren, five brothers and two sisters.

Chapel services were held in Mineral Wells July 27 and military services were held later that day at Poolville. The six pallbearers were all past American Legion Commanders.

Norwood School Completes Plans for Opening

The completed faculty and auxiliary personnel of Samnorwood Schools were announced this week by Supt. Orville Cunningham.

Teacher assignments were announced and include Miss Maudie Coffee, first grade; Mrs. Velma Hiett, second; Mrs. Jack Lowry, third; Mrs. Barney Walker, fourth; Mrs. Charley Hill, fifth; and Roland Jenkins, sixth.

Junior high and high school grades are departmentalized: with Mrs. Selba Rainey teaching commercial work; Mrs. Arva Knight, homemaking; Jim Jacobs, vocational agriculture; Lloyd Hunt, math and science; Mrs. Don Ward, English; Mrs. Robert Dwight, math and science; Robert Dwight, grade school principal, science and social science; Don Ward, high school principal, coach and social science. Mr. Cunningham also will do classroom teaching.

Top Horses Due Here for Show Aug. 28-29

More than a hundred of the tri-state area's finest quarter horses, many of them champions of Southwestern shows, will be seen in the Quarter horse show of the Collingsworth County Free Fair, Horace Small, chairman, announced this week.

Plans have been completed for the show which will be held at Marian Airpark baseball field. The show will start promptly at 1 p. m.

Fourteen classes were listed by Small for this year's show: fillies foaled in 1957; fillies foaled in 1956; fillies foaled in 1955 or before; geldings two years and up; also produce of dam and get of sire.

Grand Champions and reserve champion mares, stallions and geldings will be named and these will receive rosettes and trophies. Ribbons will be awarded to winners of the first six places.

A barrel race will be held, with the first place winner receiving a trophy buckle and ribbon, and the next five places will get ribbons. This will be a time event and will be the official American Quarter Horse Association pattern.

The Wellington show is approved by the American Quarter Horse

Association and winners in the Collingsworth Show will have these credited to their records by the association.

Assisting Small is a committee composed of Polly O'Neil, Frank Anderson and Bruce Hite.

Skyrocket Band Begins Drilling August 24

The Skyrocket marching band will begin practice Monday, August 24, at 8 a. m. and put in a full week of work before the opening of school, Bill Waits, bandmaster, announced this week.

The band will make its first appearance at Spearman when the Rocket football team opens its season against that team.

"We have a lot of new ideas, new music and new plans for the bands this year," Waits said. "Everything is ready to go and we are anxious to get started."

Band members will meet at 8 a. m. and march for two hours and play an hour during the morning. Afternoon sessions will start at 2 p. m. and a similar schedule will be followed.

With the opening of school, the regular band period will be observed.

An all-out effort will be made to enlarge the band. The Skyrocket band had 45 members last year and between 15 and 20 are coming up from junior high this year. Any high school student who would like to play, should contact him, Waits said.

"A limited number of instruments are available for use by those who do not want to buy them," he added.

In preparation for the current year, Waits is now attending the band clinic at West Texas State College, and on August 17, he will go to San Antonio for the meeting of the Texas Band Masters Association.

$90,000 Approved for Study of Salt Fork

Ninety thousand dollars has been approved as a public works appropriation for a study of the feasibility of the development of Salt Fork River and the Prairie Dog Town Fork of Red River, The Wellington Leader was notified late Tuesday, August 11, in a telegram signed jointly by Senators Lyndon Johnson and Ralph Yarborough and Congressman Walter Rogers.

This puts the proposed dam on Salt Fork River northeast of Wellington one step nearer reality for its backer, the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District.

This action followed Senate passage on Friday, August 7, of a bill authorizing study of the development of the water resources on the two rivers. The bill now goes to President Eisenhower for his signature.

It was sponsored by Congressman Walter Rogers in the House, which passed the measure several months ago.

The $90,000 appropriation was given approval by the committee on public works appropriation of the U.S. Senate, and the report must be adopted by the senate and house.

Aerial Maps of the proposed Salt Fork dam and reservoir were received late last month from the U.S. Geodetic Survey and reveal that a reservoir of 195,000 acre feet is possible on salt fork with the dam built at the mouth of OM Creek.

One Injured

Accident at Bowie Kills City Woman

One Wellington woman was killed, another was injured, and two children received minor injuries Tuesday morning August 11, in a one-car accident near Bowie.

Mrs. C. M. Workman, the mother of Mrs. Bernice Welch, was pronounced dead on arrival at a Bowie Hospital. Mrs. J. L. Burt, who retired last year after a long career as a Wellington business woman, is in a Bowie hospital with painful injuries.

Treated released were two of Mrs. Burt's grandchildren, Lanny Ford, 12, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ford of Wellington and Janice Ann Bulloch, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bulloch of Arlington.

According to Frank Lindsey, who returned from Bowie Tuesday night, Mrs. Burt is suffering from three broken ribs, cuts and bruises. Unless something further develops, it is believed her condition is not dangerous, he said.

The children were treated at the hospital for bruises and released.

According to investigating officers, the accident occurred when the car left the road on a curve and hit an embankment. The group was en route to Arlington.

Mr. and Mrs. Welch and Charles Welch, and Mr. and Mrs. Ford left Wellington about noon Tuesday.

Lindsey and Rudy Burquist accompanied the latter couple.

Funeral services for Mrs. Workman are scheduled at Decatur, but other arrangements have not been announced here.

Mrs. Workman moved to Wellington about three years ago, from Decatur, but prior to that, she had often visited here. She soon became active in the work of First Methodist Church and the Wesleyan Service Guild. She frequently assisted her son-in-law in B&B News Stand.

Sr. Mary Olive Dies Friday in Chicago

Sister Mary Olive Vessey, in charge of the business office of St. Joseph's Hospital, died Friday, August 7, at the home of a brother, Alvin Vessey, in Chicago. Her death was due to a heart condition.

She left here August 5 for a short vacation with her family in that city, arriving the following day. She died in her sleep.

Requiem Mass was held Friday at Sacred Heart Convent, Springfield, Illinois, the Mother House of the Illinois Congregation of the Dominican Order. Burial was at Springfield.

Sister Mary Olive was about 55 years of age and had been a member of the Dominican Order 28 years. She was educated as a musician, and taught music and also did classroom teaching in schools operated by the Dominican Nuns. Most of her career was in Chicago and East Moline, Illinois. Carter left the services immediately after the song was finished, without others being aware that he was stricken.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where a member of the family reported early this week he was doing as well as possible, but added that he was not out of danger of another attack.

If Debt's Paid, And If It Isn't

Houston (Tex.) Chronicle

The national debt, currently about $286,000,000,000, is so huge that the average citizen might throw up his hands helplessly is asked how in the world it can ever be paid.

Granting that paying it off would be extremely difficult and necessarily would have to be a long-term project, the alternative is even worse.

For because of the debt's very magnitude, the interest on it has become the second largest charge against the treasury, exceeded only by the costs of defense. And the bill is getting bigger as interest rates rise. This year's budget contemplated interest charges of $8,000,000,000 in fiscal 1960. It already is evident that the figure actually will be nearer $9,000,000,000.

A Tulsa citizen has figured out what the national debt will cost the country if it is paid off at the leisurely rate of 1 per cent a year for a whole century, and what it will cost if it remains static, neither increased nor diminished.

He worked out the problem on the basis of a debt of $280,000,000,000, which actually is $6,000,000,000 less than it stands today, and annual interest payments of $9,800,000,000. The latter figure is not exact either, but interest charges might go that high once the larger part of the debt is refinanced at the higher rates now prevailing. So, his figures are close enough to illustrate what we are up against.

He found that if interest only is paid on the national debt, the total would come to $980,000,000,000 in 100 years and we of course would still owe the $280,000,000,000 principal — a total of $1,260,000,000,000.

That figure is $485,000,000,000 more than would be required to retire the debt completely at 1 per cent, or $2,860,000,000 a year, plus interest payments.

Does that not sound like adequate enough reason to cut every presidential "balanced budget" request by $2,800,000,000 and apply the saving to reduction of the national debt, for the next 100 years?

A Solution: Work

St. Louis Daily Livestock Reporter

A reader wonders why all the hullabaloo over the reason we have inflation and reduced purchasing power of the dollar these days. The explanation, he says, is simple, to wit:

"The reason the dollar won't do as much for people as it once did is that people won't do as much for a dollar as they once did."

In that event, the solution to inflation is readily apparent, isn't it? But we doubt that moderns dislike inflation to that degree.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where Texas taxpayers have raised the gouge on cigarettes again, and put a big bite on cigars and smoking and chewing tobacco, but they left snuff plumb tax-free.

My pipe-sucking neighbor says this is rank class discrimination, and ought to go before the Supreme Court, as soon as some Red writes a book on the subject for the judges to go by.

Says it looks like the legislators boobyied anyhow, letting snuff-duppers get away when their low vote count makes them such prime taxables.

I see where a Connecticut employer fired some of his men for wolfing the girl help, but a Lord High People Runner of the NLRB made him hire them back.

The Federal law-twister said making passes at the ladies in a shop or office is a natural course, and a man can't be fired for same.

My non-adjusted neighbor says he guesses this makes it the law of the land that a boss not only has to put up with a masher pestering his girls, but also has to pay him for it.

I see where some folks are getting afraid Congress will chicken out and let the big labor bosses say what to put in the labor bill that is supposed to reform them.

Which may be all right, on account of who would know better than a labor racketeer himself what kind of reforming he needs?

My tax-cheaters union neighbor says this looks like a good deal, and his organization aims to finance some congressional campaigns next election, so they can write their own loopholes in the law.

I see where Louisiana's Gov. Long has sued a magazine publisher for $6 million on account of he claims this outfit circulated the rumor that he is crazy.

My out-moded neighbor says it appears inflation has hit the libeling businesses, too. Only a while back you never heard of anybody being insulted more than $1 million worth.

Says he also notices that people are much easier to offend these days, since satisfaction can now be had in the form of money instead of having to be collected on a field of honor.

I see where some reactionary people kicked up a little fuss about Pres. Eisenhower giving federal workers Friday off here a while back when a holiday fell on Saturday.

My work-allergic neighbor says somebody is always wishing to downtread the poor laboring man, and begrudging him a little time off from his coffee-break grind.

Says likely some would even like to see paycheck slaves get docked for the week it takes before a holiday to get ready for it, and the week it takes afterward to get over it.

I see where the councilmen in a New York town passed an ordinance against ladies wearing short shorts, but left it up to the judge to decide how short is too short.

Which is a problem that likely would have thrown Solomon if he had been faced with same, and Solomon's are very scarce on our court benches these days.

My shorts expert neighbor says we need to set up some standard to pacify argufiers on this subject, and suggests a good natural rule would be that shorts too short which make menfolks pretend they looking.

Two Chevy middleweights prove their rawhide stamina!

Top hands on high-country hauls!

Ask any trucker who's been over Wolf Creek Pass, 10,850 feet up in the San Juans: a 9-mile pull to the summit and low gear all the way down. Mr. C. H. Phillips of Alamosa, Colorado, has a 6403 and a 6503 Chevrolet truck that are up over this route the year round, taking sheep and beef to pasture, later marketing the stock in Denver. In less than a year, his Chevy middleweights have averaged about 50,000 miles of this kind of treatment—and they're going stronger than ever!

Watch Chevy trucks at work out in range country. It's a sight to see the way they pack into high-up mountain pastures and handle through brush and rock like a cowman's favorite cutting horse. Take any truck work for that matter. Chevy middleweights probably handle a bigger variety of jobs than any trucks alive. About anything you name, including work that used to be reserved strictly for bigger rigs. When a truck's built the way a Chevy is, lean-muscled and rawhide-tough, it takes to ugly trails the same way most trucks roll over the highway. It just keeps going, without a big to-do, but looking good every mile of the way. How they do it is your Chevrolet dealer's department. He'll be glad to supply details and specifications on the type of models you need.

No job's too tough for a Chevrolet truck!

Amarillo Home is Planned by Couple Married Friday Evening at Quail

The First Baptist Church at Quail was the setting for the wedding of Miss Patsy Ruth White and Wendell Eugene Gresham at six-thirty Friday evening, August 7, with the Rev. O. D. Holton performing the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. White of Quail, while Mr. and Mrs. George Gresham of Clarendon are parents of the bridegroom. The bride will receive her degree this month from West Texas State College, and will teach in the Amarillo Schools, while the bridegroom returned recently from service with the armed forces in Germany. Both had graduated from high school in their home towns and from Clarendon Junior College.

A wrought-iron arch entwined with jade leaves and white hearts, with pedestal baskets of white gladioli on either side, provided the background for the wedding. The satin-covered prie dieu completed the arrangement.

Nuptial music was by Miss Judith Ann Wilson, organist, and Mrs. O. D. Holton, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of lace over white bridal satin. The fitted bodice had a bateau neckline, which came to a v in the back and long sleeves. The full floor length skirt was gathered at the back and sides, while the lace overskirt was scalloped down the front. Her tiered veil was attached to a coronet of satin roses and she carried a bouquet of roses. She wore a double strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Elwanda Gresham of Clarendon, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, while the bridesmaids were Miss Glenda Gay Phipps of Lubbock and Miss Betty Whitson of Dalhart. Miss Gresham wore a pink embroidered cotton satin dress, while the other attendants wore silk broadcloth in shades of blue and yellow. They were designed with fitted midriffs, scoop necklines and princess style flared skirts. They carried bouquets of frenched carnations, in colors matching their dresses atop white mauline fans.

Exes Visit City Saturday

Two Wellington exes, Mrs. Chester Philippe and her brother, Bill Foster, stopped here Saturday, August 8, to visit those friends they found downtown and added the wish they might return for the ex-students reunion this week.

Mrs. Philippe has lived at Guymon, Okla., since 1945. The former Maurine Foster, she was graduated in 1943. With her were her husband and son, Donald. The party was en route to Hollis to visit relatives.

Foster attended WHS but graduated at Guymon, and later from the University of Oklahoma. He is with a bank in San Diego.

There are two others in the family, Mozelle Foster, now married, also lives at Guymon, and John Foster is a student in the Oklahoma State University.

Mrs. Philippe reported the address of another Wellington ex who graduated about the same time she did, Billy Lee Burton, now Mrs. Art Churchman of 1112 Robert, Wichita, 13, Kansas.

Fulchers Visit Carlsbad Caverns

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fulcher and sons, James Roy and Lynn, and Mrs. J. C. Ford of Wellington were visitors to the world's largest caverns—Carlsbad Caverns National Park in southeastern New Mexico.

The Caverns are unique among the world's caves, because of the vast size of the spectacular chambers. Carlsbad Caverns National Park has gently sloping paths through the breath-taking tour portions. Four elevators that can accommodate 1,200 persons an hour are in operation between the surface and the 750 foot cave level. An underground lunchroom seats one thousand.

For visitors, who want to photograph the wondrous formations, camera tours are conducted at 11:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the summer, and once daily in the winter.

Carlsbad Caverns National Park is open every day of the year. The first tour starts at 7 a.m. and the last walk-in tour is at 2 p.m. Big room tours start as late as 4:15 p.m. for the summer. Winter tours will start at 8:30 a.m., according to Park Superintendent Oscar Carlson.

Retires After Career in Galveston Schools

By Laura Reesby
Galveston Tribune

A child was never a statistic, a number on a page, to Mrs. Ray Wall director of attendance for the Galveston Independent School District for the past 18 years and a teacher for three.

To her a child has always been a future citizen, his home a part of her life, and his welfare, even his haircuts, a part of her daily routine.

But now Mrs. Wall, who retired June 30, will be doing some other things she has always liked doing. "I'm going to keep garden, read new books and do all the things I've never had time for before," she said. "And, of course, Mr. Wall is quite pleased."

Mrs. Wall's personal love of youngsters actually began its manifestation when she was a fourth grade teacher at San Jacinto school.

"I visited in the home of every child I ever taught," she recalled. "And I never gave up on the unfortunate children, those that had the symbolic two strikes against them before they were born."

Then, 18 years ago when she became director of attendance, her duties changed from teaching to keeping statistical data on the school attendance of children.

When the youngster habitually did not come to school, Mrs. Wall never marked off a figure and let it go at that. She investigated.

During the years she has worked closely with all local welfare agencies through the routine channels of service clubs, child welfare, family service and the police.

But it is her personal interest which made her the endeared friend of the youth and adults of the city.

She has always had the insight to realize that something fundamental was wrong when a child did not get to school in the mornings. Investigation showed a majority of these youngsters came from broken homes.

She recalled a boy who grew up to be one of the most beloved and respected adults.

When he was in elementary school, his absentee list grew and grew. Mrs. Wall investigated. She found a broken home.

On the mornings he did not get to school, she would go to his home, most of the time having to awaken him, dress him and take him to the school cafeteria where she bought his breakfast. When haircut time came around she took him to the barber shop, too.

And there was the family that had been too poor to buy food. Mrs. Wall took over. The family ate. Then a cafe man heard of the family's plight and insisted he take over.

"There also has always been the youngsters who did not come to school because they were too sick—according to overindulgent parents," she recalled. "I always just gave up on those. Those children didn't need me—but I never gave up on the unfortunate ones."

She assembled material for "A Family Named Smith," a story of the "Smith, Tittle, Adams, Coffee, Hicks, Brown and related families."

Many Panhandle people are mentioned in the book, which has a limited number in print, according to reports here.

Seattle Sunday Times, 55c plus 1 cent sales tax.

We arrived at Juneau at noon August 1, and the sky was clear, and we had a good view of the Mendenhall Glacier from the Airport. The afternoon was cloudy and rainy and few pictures were taken.

Being more or less on our own some of us visited the Alaska Historical Library and Museum which is located near the Governor's Palace. Created by an act of Congress in 1900, the Library and Museum has grown steadily and presents a wonderful collection of Indian and Eskimo artifacts, totem poles, as well as natural things of the state, waterfowl, game birds, game animals, as well as collections of the many types of stones and minerals to be found in the state. It turned out to be quite an interesting afternoon.

On the evening of August 1, the visiting editors went to a reception given by Gov. William Egan, and it reminded me of the days when Gov. Allen Shivers received the Texas editors in such good style.

At the reception I met C. L. Anderson, Commissioner of Fish and Game. He told me that the supply of salmon had decreased considerably in the last several years and that his department was making an extensive study of their habits by banding them. There is still a lot about the habits of the salmon that man doesn't know. All return to the stream of their birth to spawn and most die, but there is one species that returns to the sea and spawns more than once. The total value of salmon caught for commercial purposes was over $80,000,000 in 1958.

I also met Phil R. Holdsworth, Commissioner of Natural Resources. He said they had lots of coal in Alaska, but that there was little market for it. The Military uses 800 thousand tons annually. The next biggest user is Japan. The Japanese buy it for cooking coal and that just about sums up the coal industry at the present time. Commissioner Holdsworth said their big hope for more development was for oil. Thousands and thousands of acres are being explored at the present time.

Frank Veil is the Director of Publicity for the State of Alaska. His wife is a native of Beaumont, Texas. I happened to mention her to Mr. Holdsworth and he said he knew Mr. Veil but that he had never met his wife. I said, "That's too odd to be true. Step over here and I will introduce you."

Can you imagine a guy traveling all the way from Texas to introduce a state official to the wife of another?

Bill Tobin is with the AP here in Juneau—he was with the Fort Worth branch of AP until 1939.

I had a nice talk with Gov. William Egan. He said that if Sen. Lyndon Johnson were nominated as a candidate for president, he would support him in every way he could.

August 2. What a wonderful day! We left Juneau this morning to go deep sea fishing in Stephens Passage and Saginaw Channel. Our hosts for the day were Curt Shattuck and his 14 year old son, Roger. They own a 32 foot cabin cruiser which was built to order and costs about $20,000.

Mr. Shattuck is a journalism graduate of Washington University and made good enough grades to be elected to Sigma Delta Chi; but he had the good sense to turn to the insurance business after trying the newspaper business a few years in the late '20's and early '30's. He is a most literate and courteous man and his boy is a combination of a rugged seaman, hunter and skier and also a scholar. They will send him to Seattle for his last three years because the curriculum is not adequate in Juneau, something like Wellington; but the move is making them sad at heart. Besides being a wonderful cook, Mrs. Shattuck writes for magazines and makes about $2,000 a year following her hobby.

Besides Mr. Shattuck and his son, my companions were Richard Robertson of Darien, Connecticut, and Ralph Shannon of Washington, Iowa. On our way to the fishing spots we took pictures of Mendenhall and Limon Glaciers as well as of boats on the beautiful waters. We caught 8 fish and Dick Robertson, who claimed he had never fished before, caught the largest King Salmon. We also saw a bald eagle and a seal. At one place we counted 43 boats of various sizes in eye range. We used herring for bait and the method is similar to trolling on a lake. The difference was that Mr. Shattuck anchored the vessel and the swift running tide kept our lines taut as if we had been going through the water at a moderate speed.

Fishing and the military are Alaska's two leading sources of income at the present time; but Mr. Shattuck believes that if they would advertise enough that the tourist trade would be the leading industry. He says it will take time and capital to develop other resources. He says they have oil and gas; but that no major fields have been proven as yet. He says that changing from territory to a state will not change any of the basic problems they had before.

Small World: One of the last persons to help me get off on the plane at Amarillo was Dorothy King Dees, who used to work for Steve Owens, and thanks to her advice about carrying my own luggage instead of checking it through, I made the connections at Denver, although the flight was late. Without her timely tip, I would not be on this most interesting tour of Alaska.

The first person I met in Fairbanks that I had known before was Donald Nored, who lives at a town named North Pole, which is near Fairbanks. Donald is a civilian employee at the Nike-Hercules Site and is in charge of electrical maintenance at the Nike-Site. They own their own home in North Pole. Three of their children were born in St. Joseph's Hospital in Wellington. It is hard for me to realize that Cherry is now 13, Don 11, and Tina 9. Len is three.

Donald was all excited about the fact that Don Jr. was going to Anchorage in August to pitch in a Little League game. Don Jr. has won eight games and lost none this summer and he is only eleven.

Donald says he and his wife would not mind staying in Alaska the rest of their lives if it were not for their children. They have bought a place near Seguin and plan to return to Texas when his two years are up. He is doing well, but he has some specific advice about coming up here on account of the high wages. Don't come unless you have a guaranteed job for a certain time before you leave the States—they still refer to that part of the U.S. below the Canadian border as the States—even a Major and a Colonel did it in briefing the editors the morning before I was talking to Donald.

Donald took me to see some of the old part of Fairbanks. He took me down to the bridge across the Chena River and showed me the exact spot where they have that famous gambling event about when the ice will break. They hitch a wire to a pole which is attached to an alarm in a saloon across the street. It is something like the Irish Sweepstakes and millions of dollars are bet each spring.

We also went down to the old building that houses the Northern Commercial Co. It is a modern department store today; but there was a time when it was the main business firm of Fairbanks—not counting whiskey and women in other establishments. Its vast rooms were filled with furs and gold to be shipped out and flour and sugar, bacon and coffee to be traded to the sourdoughs.

We went on down and Donald showed me the engine that pulled the first train into Fairbanks. It is preserved as a relic. He took my the throttle of the historic old engine. It was a most pleasant afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Llorente and Mike of Dallas were week end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wells.

lawyers, was recessed by Judge C. C. Bishop until 1 p.m. upon the request of Commissioner Pat O'Hair, who stated he wanted legal advice.

Considerable argument centered around the order of the Commissioners Court Monday, August 10, seeking to remove county attorney Paul Spillman as attorney for the county in this hearing.

Allen Harp of Childress was hired recently by the commissioners and Judge W. T. Link of Clarendon is representing Jenkins.

Judge Link presented a motion that the hearing be held null and void on the grounds that the commissioners court had not complied with the law in giving notice of intention to remove Jenkins as road administrator.

Judge Bishop denied the motion. A resolution was presented, signed by all five members of the court on June 8, wherein they stated Jenkins was a very capable road administrator and they would receive full benefit of any aid that might be received.

District Judge Luther Gribble Wednesday morning issued a temporary restraining order restraining the defendant, Jenkins, and his attorney, from taking the depositions of four members of the court, Judge Bishop and Commissioners Alfred Knoll, Jack Brewer and W. R. Breeding. The order was effective upon the plaintiffs giving bond in the sum of $1,000 and a hearing on the application was set for 1:30 p.m. Monday, August 17. O'Hair had said he would give his deposition.

Former Quail Area Residents Visit in Killingsworth Home

Dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Killingsworth recently were two former residents of the Quail area and their families. They are a niece and nephew of Mr. Killingsworth.

Here from Tustin, Calif., were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Brewer, Beverly and Teresa, while Mr. and Mrs. Herman Melton and children, Eddie, Bill and Jamie, were from Chatham, Va. Mrs. Brewer, a sister of Melton, is the former Willie Marie Melton. Their parents were Mr. and Mrs. Willie Melton. The latter also lives at Tustin, Calif.

Contractor a Former Resident of Wellington

The new Greenbelt Rural Electric Co-operative, Inc. headquarters gave its contractor, Woodrow Killingsworth of Dimmitt, an opportunity to come back to his home town to build one of its finest office buildings.

Killingsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Killingsworth, is owner of the Killingsworth Construction Company in Dimmitt, and much of his work is the construction of public buildings within a 200 mile radius of that town.

His buildings reveal modern functional lines, yet always in keeping with the wishes of the owner, the use to which they will be put, and the surroundings in which it is located.

At the present time, Killingsworth has under construction four churches, a band, a community building, a gas utility office, as well as a number of other smaller structures.

Killingsworth learned much about construction work from his father, also a contractor and the two have done much work together. The latter, however, has been less active recently.

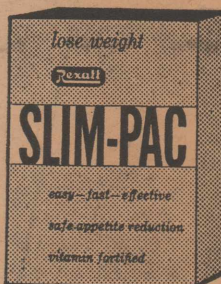

For a short time following World War II, Killingsworth operated a cabinet shop in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Tompkins and three sons of Phoenix, Arizona, and her mother, Mrs. Fletcher Curry of Artesia, N. M., visited recently with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tompkins, and with her grandfather, R. F. Curry, and other relatives.
