Chest Drive Will End Here Today

Teams Face Task Of Raising Half Of $25,750.00 Goal

ALTHOUGH the halfway mark toward the $25,750 goal of the second annual Community Chest campaign was reached Thursday, welfare forces face the task of raising the other half of the quota by tonight.

Completion of such an assignment appeared impossible unless the support of Lubbock's citizenry should be considerably stronger than during either of the first two days of the drive.

$12,531 Obtained
The 34 teams of the campaign corps had obtained subscription totaling $12,531.44, it was announced early Thursday afternoon. A total of $9,802.14 was raised Wednesday and $3,129 Thursday.

The canvassing groups met at noon Thursday with the Kiwanis club at the Hilton hotel and the luncheon-meeting program was devoted to campaign reports.

Cash collected in the campaign totals $12,531.44. Of this amount the second day's solicitation was $912.75 while that of the first day was $2,778.14.

As on the first day, the largest subscriptions were turned in by teams of the men's division, total being $2,792.75 with cash amounting to $606.30. The women's division reported $3,228 in subscriptions and cash to the amount of $1,072.33.

Campaign officials will gather all their forces for the last day of the drive in an effort to reach the goal and citizens who have not been solicited by workers in the drive are being urged to make contributions before close of the campaign.

Woman Under Bail After Man Killed

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Dec. 11. (P) Mrs. Lydia Robinson, 40, was released under $5,000 bond today after Dr. R. M. Payne, 55, dentist, had been shot to death.

Dr. Payne was shot as he ascended the stairs to his office. Mrs. Robinson, a widow, walked across the street to the sheriff's office where she surrendered. She handed the officers a statement, other than to say, "I have killed a man."

Both Dr. Payne and Mrs. Robinson had lived in this section many years. Dr. Payne had a wife and several children.

LOVE FOR MOODY

State Solon Boosts Governor For Presidency

DALLAS, Dec. 11. (P) — State Senator Thomas B. Love today suggested Governor Dan Moody as the man whom the Democratic party should choose as its Presidential candidate in 1932.

"In my opinion, he is better fitted for the place and I believe would stand a better chance of election than any of those who have been suggested thus far from either the wet or dry factions of the party," Senator Love said.

Always Wrong

Meet an old friend! In event you don't remember, he's Captain Strawn, bunting but likeable police detective, whose theories never bring him anything except headaches. Captain Strawn played an active part in those popular mystery stories, "The Avenging Parrot" and "Murder Backstage," which appeared in the Avalanche some time ago. If you enjoyed him in those stories, you'll find him even more entertaining in "Murder at Bridge," a swiftness moving murder mystery novel, which begins December 15 in the Sunday Avalanche-Journal and continues thereafter in the Lubbock Morning Avalanche.

City Dads to Lessen Local Unemployment

Adoption of Three-Day Week in Work on City Projects Authorized by City Commission Here Thursday

Adoption of a three-day working week, providing employment for double the number of laborers ordinarily used in city projects, in an effort to lessen unemployment here, was authorized formally by the city commission Thursday at its bi-weekly meeting at city hall.

One group of laborers will be employed for three days and a second group for the next three days. The scheme already is being applied by the city, it was said at city hall.

To Aid More Families
"While this plan will not bring about any great wage for the laborer," city officials stated, "it will offer employment for men who otherwise would have to depend on charity. It will allow a greater number of families to make their own way and offer a measure of relief through the winter months."

The scale of wages paid by the City of Lubbock for common labor is 40 cents per hour, a total of $3.20 per day. Officials point out that while this amount will not provide any luxuries of life it will at least keep a family from want of the bare necessities.

Several Projects Underway
Several projects are underway at this time which will require common labor, according to city officials. Improvement of one of the city's parks is going forward, further extension of the street lighting system, sanitary sewer and water mains, and some of the planned activities which will fall under the new plan.

SURE OF PASSAGE

Longworth Confident House Will Approve Measure

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11. (P) — Confidence the house will approve a $30,000,000 drought relief bill instead of the $20,000,000 measure passed by the senate was expressed today by Speaker Longworth in announcing the legislation would be called up for action early next week.

Longworth said the $30,000,000 bill previously passed by the house probably would be considered under a procedure barring any amendments. The administration recommended $25,000,000 which was raised to $28,000,000 by the house and $30,000,000 by the senate.

Residents on Proposed Line Testify Here

Representatives of Nearly Every Industry on Route of Texas-Pacific Project Take Stand in Hearing

Rail Needs Cited

I. C. C. Hearing Not Likely to Be Concluded This Week as Three Opposing Railways Yet to Offer Testimony

BY HARRELL E. LEE, Associated Press Staff Writer.

THE PUBLIC had its day today in the Interstate Commerce commission hearing on the application of the Texas and Pacific Northern railway, subsidiary of the Texas and Pacific, to construct 333 miles of line from Big Spring to Lubbock, Amarillo and Vega.

Representatives of nearly every industry along the proposed route crowded the witness stand to tell Examiner Harrell C. Davis why the territory needed a new railroad.

Long Hearing Seen
T. and P. officials had finished their testimony, except for rebuttal and cross examination of one witness, shortly after the morning session opened. With the three railroads fighting the project yet to present their testimony, however, it seemed unlikely that the hearing would be concluded this week.

Farmers, ranchers, milk dealers, lumbermen and bankers came from all up and down the proposed line to plead for additional rail service to speed up their shipments, broaden their markets and develop their country.

E. L. McDonald of Amarillo, who owns land and drills irrigation water wells in the Hereford shallow water belt, said there were 250,000 acres in that belt which would be irrigated. Irrigation of the land would prevent recurrence of the conditions of this summer when thousands of farmers lost their crops because of the drought, the witness said. Sufficient water to irrigate 160 acres is found within 100 feet of the surface in the Hereford belt.

Prefer Dry Cultivation
McDonald admitted most of the farmers around Hereford still preferred dry land cultivation and that irrigation had not been entirely successful because it had not been followed scientifically. The building of a railroad, with the consequent improvement in the freight service to and from the territory, would cause more and better farmers to come, he insisted.

Two Children Are Burned To Death

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 11. (P) — Two children were burned to death and their parents were critically injured today in the destruction of their farm home near Hinton, about 30 miles west of here. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Garrett, were taken to an Oklahoma City hospital.

The children were Georgia, 8, and Olen, 6.

Mrs. Garrett and the children were trapped between the fire and a locked door when a kerosene can used by Garrett in kindling a fire, exploded.

The mother threw herself over the children, trying to protect them from the flames with her body. Garrett broke in the door and rescued Mrs. Garrett, but the fire gained such headway he could not return for the children. He was seriously burned in his attempt to reach them.

Einstein Uses Up-To-Date American "Wisecracking" To Answer Reporters

BY HOWARD W. BLANKS, Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. (P) — Albert Einstein arrived in New York today, and in his greeting the great mathematician showed a new side of his character, courage of an unusual order.

For nearly two hours he maintained a frequent smile, perfect poise and sallies of bubbling good humor in the face of a barrage of publicity so painful that, once he whispered to a friend:

"It seems like wolves hitting into my flesh."

The random questions of 100 press and cameramen he parried with up-to-date American "wisecracking" as keen as their own. Time after time they laughed along with him, yet a moment later his grave, round, brown eyes seemed to be gazing far past the packed circle of auditors as if hunting for escape.

In messages intended for a wider audience he dropped the jesting pose, talking over the radio about suppression of militarism and hitting unemployment in a statement prepared for the press. He told the Uni-

Clandestine Romance Is Bared By Steno on Stand In Shepard Murder Case

Miss Grace Brandon Chief Witness for the Government

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 11. — From love letters and the quivering lips of Miss Grace Brandon, bonde stenographer, the prosecution in the murder trial of Major Charles A. Shepard today drew the story of a clandestine romance intended to show a motive for the alleged fatal poisonings of the army medical officer's wife.

Miss Brandon, the government's star witness, testified Shepard wrote her from Fort Riley, Kas., a few weeks before the prosecution alleged he poisoned his wife, that Mrs. Shepard had refused to divorce him.

Tells Of Affair
Between bursts of tears, the San Antonio girl related details of her love affair with the elderly major and listened to the reading of ardent missives which he had sent her along with a shower of gifts.

It was a story of an affair that began more than seven months before Mrs. Shepard's death and continued afterwards with an engagement and plans for a honeymoon.

Shepard sat through the session watching the witness intently, taking LOVE AFFAIR, Page 11

"Flash" from 66,000 Volt Wire Fatal to Lineman

AMARILLO, Dec. 11. (P) — He by what electrical experts described as a "flash" from a 66,000-volt wire, Wm. Claude Cody, 36, lineman for the Southwestern Public Service company, died from burns and shock in a local hospital Thursday afternoon.

The "flash" knocked Cody from the pole on which he was working, and he fell about 28 feet. He was working on a dead wire beneath the one carrying the high voltage when the accident occurred. The spark is said to have jumped from wire to wire, hitting Cody who stood in its path. The wires were about 48 inches apart.

Southern Oklahoma, Northwest Texas Combed for Colquitt and D. I. Davis; Believed Slayers of Sooner Deputy

(By The Associated Press)

ARMORE, Okla., Dec. 11. — An organized manhunt was on tonight in southern Oklahoma and northwest Texas for D. I. Davis and Colquitt Davis after the slaying of Con Keasey, colorful Carter county deputy sheriff, and Harold McCarrick, Amarillo grocer.

Keasey died this morning from wounds suffered last night when he was attempted to question two men in a house at Wirt, oiltown west of here, about a car theft.

Another Wounded
Vernon Casner, Carter county undersheriff, who also was wounded, was reported in a satisfactory condition tonight.

Katherine and Marie Fox, sisters of Amarillo, were held in jail here tonight. They said they were with the Davis brothers.

D. I. Davis, escaped in June, 1929, from the Eastman prison farm near Huntsville and since has been a fugitive from justice. Colquitt Davis was arrested in Oklahoma City last August as a vagrant and held for a time for investigation.

Pictures of the brothers were being distributed to officers of Oklahoma.

The membership campaign began at the gathering at the Legion home Thursday night but concerted soliciting will not start until Monday.

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Dec. 11. — A movie version of Germany's part in the war, based on a book written by a German, was banned from the screens of the fatherland today.

Following six days of riotous protests by fascists against the film of Erich Maria Remarque's novel, "All Quiet on the Western Front," the supreme film board forbade further showing of the picture in Germany.

The board said the film dwelt too much on German defeat, painted a "false picture of the German soldier and 'endang-

Criminal Caught

ACE PENDLETON

(By The Associated Press)

ODESSA, Okla., Dec. 11. — Ace Pendleton, a long criminal record in three states and much sought as a bank robber, was held by Ector county officers today after his identification had been fixed by finger print records.

Pendleton was taken into custody Monday night after an attempt had been made to burglarize a store here. He and a companion had deposited their guns in the tonneau of their automobile and were trying to start it when officers covered them.

Finger Prints Taken
He gave the name of Harry C. Ward and said he was from El Paso, but when finger prints taken by Clarence Shannon, of Rankin were sent to El Paso they were readily classified as those of Pendleton, who had been arrested there in 1929 and returned to Arkansas to face a bank robbery charge.

Confronted by the finger print record, Pendleton admitted to officers that he was the much-sought robber. He is wanted in Pampa, Puroell, Okla., and other cities of the southwest.

Oklahoma state bureau of criminal identification files showed Pendleton had a criminal record extending back 20 years. He had served sentences for burglary in the Arkansas and Kansas Penitentiaries and was listed as wanted for robbery of a bank at Buffalo, Kans.

Gas Firm Sticks with Price Based on Commercial Rates After Meeting on Thursday Afternoon at City Hall

Amend Franchise

First Reading Gets Approval of Commission; Effort for Industrial Rate Not Given Up, Mayor Clements Says

(By The Associated Press)

THE City of Lubbock and the school board have won the first skirmish in the local gas rates controversy but all is not yet quiet along the utilities battle front.

The West Texas Gas company has announced its willingness to serve the schools of Lubbock, the City of Lubbock and the County of Lubbock on the "one meter" basis for each group and that method of computing the bills will be legally approved by the time another week rolls around. But there's still a try in the oilment. Commercial rates are still in effect as far as the gas company is concerned while city officials and education board members continue to contend for the industrial rates, lowest in the rate schedule of the company.

Meeting is Held
Members of the City commission, municipal officials, school board members and representatives of the gas company held a meeting at the City hall yesterday afternoon in which the "one meter" plan was worked out. Efforts to have the gas billed on industrial rates may yet, however, prove successful.

In order to receive the "one meter" reading benefit it is necessary for the city to pass an ordinance to the rate section of the gas franchise held by the West Texas Gas company and to facilitate the placing of the "one meter" system into operation. First reading of the amendment was made yesterday afternoon. It received unanimous approval on the part of the city and the final reading will be made next week. Mayor J. J. Clements said last night that there was no doubt of its receiving the commission's final approval.

Method Explained
Under the "one meter" system the schools of Lubbock may burn gas in all the buildings, have bills rendered under the commercial rate and applied upon the total amount of gas burned monthly, thus taking advantage of the mass consumption. The system briefly, means the totaling of the meters of all schools using gas and paying for the fuel on the same basis as if it had all been tabulated on one meter.

Gas consumed in the city's buildings, including the City hall, Fire Station No. 2 on 19th street, the city warehouse and the power and light plant will be computed and billed under the same method, as well as gas consumed in buildings operated by the county. The "one meter" system will save the schools, the city and the county appreciable sums compared to what they are now spending.

Many At Session
Present at the meeting, which started at 2:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon, were R. F. Hinchey, vice-president of the gas company and Charles C. Crumshaw, local attorney.

Husband Makes Confession of Slaying Wife

Marital Troubles End in the Death of Austin Woman and Arrest of Husband; Body Found by Father of Victim

AUSTIN, Dec. 11. (AP)—Marital troubles Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carpenter culminated today with the death of Mrs. Carpenter, who was shot in the head with a pistol, and the arrest of Carpenter on a charge of murder.

A few hours after Mrs. Carpenter's body was found by her father, the husband was arrested. In the presence of a newspaper man he made a statement to police and shortly afterwards a charge of murder was filed in justice court.

Hints Self Defense.
The slaying occurred after midnight, Carpenter said. He went to his estranged wife's home about 11 p. m. last night, he said, and they talked "for several hours." The shooting occurred, according to his statement, when Mrs. Carpenter made a movement which he interpreted as "reaching for her pistol."

Both the house of Mrs. Carpenter and her parents' home, next door, were dark and the body was not found until 6 o'clock this morning.

Excited after the shooting, Carpenter was not certain what he did with the gun, he said. It was found in a roadway near by. Matches were strewn over the bedroom floor.

A. W. Bankston, father of the slain woman, who awoke her each morning at 6 o'clock, this morning found her bed empty. In the half darkness he saw a body, slumped in a corner of the room.

Mrs. Carpenter had been shot above the left eye, with a small caliber pistol.

Bankston called police.

Mrs. Carpenter filed suit for divorce, alleging cruel treatment on November 7. She alleged that Carpenter had cursed and abused her and had struck her with his fist. Prior to that time, on October 31, Carpenter filed a complaint in justice court charging his wife with assault. November 12, Mrs. Carpenter filed a complaint against her husband, charging abusive language and two days later Carpenter paid a fine.

Mob Throgs Bank Following Suicide

SPRINGFIELD, Miss., Dec. 11. (AP)—Following discovery of the body of J. Malcolm Warren, treasurer of the West Springfield Trust company, in the bank building this morning, a suicide by shooting, some 200 persons thronged the banking rooms seeking to withdraw deposits. Statements were issued by officers of the bank that the institution was sound and in good condition. Funds were quickly made available by banks in this city to bridge over the emergency.

A note left by Warren said his suicide could be attributed to personal losses, fear that he would lose his position in the bank at the end of the year and the depression engendered by constantly listening to stories of misdeeds by persons who sought loans and those whom he had advised to purchase securities that had since greatly depreciated in value.

As the crowd grew, Horace A. Moses advised the depositors stating that funds were available to meet all demands but that if the run continued the bank doors would be closed temporarily.

Battle Of Rail Millions Halted As Lawyers Cheer "Grandpop" Barwise

The birth of a granddaughter in the home of his son brought J. H. Barwise, counsel for the Fort Worth and Denver lines into the spotlight yesterday as the afternoon session of the ICC hearing came to a close.

Led by H. C. Pipkin, Amarillo, Santa Fe attorney, lawyers for the Rock Island and Texas and Pacific chimed in to "kid" the Fort Worth rail veteran and at the same time pay their respects to his long years of service in Texas rail circles. Speakers were W. P. Peter, of Chicago, and G. O. Bateman, Dallas.

Examiner Haskell C. Davis also entered into the spirit of the occasion of offering congratulations to Judge Barwise and inviting the new "grandpop" to make a few remarks.

Judge Barwise responded nobly, including in his remarks that since "one grandchild has accomplished a miracle in bringing the Santa Fe and Burlington together it is hoped that another will not be needed to keep them together."

"Those whom this child hath joined together, let no man put asunder," was his final parting shot.

The youngster is Miss Ona Barwise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Barwise, of Fort Worth. Both she and the mother are doing nicely.

Girl Held After Admitting Crime

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 11. (AP)—Jean Dayle, 22-year-old blonde was held today on an open charge after police said she had confessed slaying Sam Frank, 45, Memphis jewelry auctioneer in a hotel room here Saturday.

Police were attempting to learn the identity of a man with whom, they said, the girl admitted planning the robbery of the salesman, but whom she refused to name.

Officers said the girl broke down and sobbed her confession only when informed her identity was known.

Frank was found dead in his hotel room Saturday. His skull had been fractured with a bottle and he had been gagged. An 11-carat diamond ring, a stickpin and some money was taken from him. The girl was arrested Tuesday after detectives said they traced her to a residence here through hair dye she purchased. Miss Dayle was quoted by officers as saying no one was with her when she killed Frank. "I didn't think I could hit him that hard, I didn't know he was dead," police say she told them.

According to the alleged confession Miss Dayle, under guise of "having some drinks" in Frank's room, administered several doses of a drug which she feared had not taken effect.

She was quoted as saying she struck him over the head, gagged him with one of her stockings and robbed him.

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THE REASON we had more beautiful roses and other flowers this fall than we usually have is because we had a light frost some time ago and a lot of rain in October and no killing frost until unusually late in the season. That was the reason, too, that the foliage on trees has been exceptionally beautiful in coloring during the last two months.

Don Jones, of the State Experiment station, located here, is my authority for that.

Conditions have been more ideal than usual for producing abnormally lovely flowers, he said. All flowers are not killed yet, even though this is the second week in December, and this is a thing that happens only occasionally. Fortunately, calendars and many other of the summer flowers are blooming if they have been protected to some extent from the cold. Roses and other shrubs are not entirely dormant and they usually are by the first of December.

These conditions are not phenomenal. They have occurred before and they will be this way again. Mr. Jones pointed out, but they are unusual.

The occasion of this discourse was a question I asked Mr. Jones about the time for moving roses. Some people like to do it at this season, when the bushes are dormant. Others like to wait until spring, I learned.

SHARPEN THE GRINDER
TO SHARPEN your meat grinder, run a piece of sandpaper through just as if it were meat.

THIS SHOULD BE GOOD
PERHAPS I'm wrong, but I believe the concert that the high school band and glee clubs is giving Friday evening is going to be good. I've seen a copy of the program and I've heard some of these high school youngsters sing and play at various times and the concert has some earmarks of being worthwhile as far as I am concerned.

There is another thing, too, Mrs. Von Tunig, who is directing the glee club, is going to have 225 boys and girls singing on the stage at one time. That is the largest trained group that has ever been assembled in the Lubbock high school auditorium to sing. Mrs. Von Tunig was telling me last week about having the throng up for a practice and at that time she described the scene as "thrilling" when everyone got in his place and burst into song.

THE SMALL SLEEVE
LITTLE sleeves play a big part in the winter wardrobe, according to a recent fashion hint. There is an advantage in the small sleeve, too, for a dress having short sleeves is good for lunch time through dinner, and even on to the evening, if it is not strictly formal occasion.

SOME MORE CANDY
WITH the approach of Christmas, most people are interested in candies. Next to nuts is a simple confection to make and it is well liked. Peanuts, pecans or other nuts may be used.

One pound of white sugar and one quart of unshelled nuts. Shell the nuts, remove the skins if they are peanuts and chop. Sprinkle with one-fourth teaspoon salt. Put sugar in a smooth granite sauce pan or frying pan, place on the range and stir constantly until all is melted and golden brown in color. Add the nuts. Pour at once into buttered pans and make into squares.

OTHERS ACHIEVE, ALSO
IN CASE you think that only American women are achieving things, just look around a little. Here are some examples of other women who are accomplishing things in other nations and my research lasted for about a half-hour this morning to get the list.

Lily Manching, 24, has been delegated by the Chinese government to seek the friendship of the lama of Tibet and this has grown out of her courage in working for her people and her knowledge of Tibetan affairs.

Rina Alberti Brunati, Italian, conducts a government silk culture experiment station in her country and is so good that the Mexican government has asked her to come there and do something for the silk industry.

Lucila Godoy de Alcazar, whose pen name is Gabriela Mistral, and who comes from some insignificant Chilean village, is lecturing at Barnard college in New York this semester and has been for five years on the committee for intellectual cooperation in the League of Nations. She is credited, also, with the organization of the school system in Mexico.

Mona Lee, Latin-American poet, is now in the United States as a director of activities in the National Women's party. She is director of the bureau of International Relations of the University of Porto Rico.

There is also, Mrs. Keith-Miller, American, of whom we have read so much in the last two weeks.

"Harmonie," published in Paris as Merve's official organ in France, has been forced by financial troubles to accept only three issues a week and to reduce the number of pages from six to four.

Sports Outfits Have Adopted New Sweaters and Hats

BY JOAN SAYOY
Written for NEA Service

The very smart and best sweaters this season have hats to match. And the more lady-like and blouse-like they look—the less like the old-fashioned, unbecoming sweaters—the better.

If you have been wondering just what kind of a costume you should have for that double service of utility and beauty, take a look at the new sweater outfits making their bow at the shrine of winter sports fashion.

Soft as eiderdown, delicately colorful as the fine silks, they weave into their design all the decorative notes that this season demands. They consider the matter of unusual collar lines, yoke effects, boleros, what to do about belt lines, and best of all, what kind of a skirt and what material goes best with them. Each in itself is a complete outfit, turban included.

Three charming sweater outfits illustrate the wide diversity in the mode. Left: Seven shades of gray, from the palest and most delicate to a rich deep gray, weave an unusual modernistic yoke and deep cuffs into a sweater suit of the finest wool. The waistline is perked and the sweater can be worn bloused over it or pulled flat against the skirt of the darkest tone.

The little hat looks like a baby's bonnet, with the same striping in the different tones making it modern indeed. Then it puts a little band of the palest tone under the chin, in an old-fashioned manner.

The bolero sweater suit (center) sponsors that charming color combination of beige, red, brown and a touch of black. The bolero is sleeveless, with stripes running diagonally and can be slipped off to show a long-sleeved sweater with stripes around neck, waistline and cuffs. The skirt is fine French wool crepe in exact beige of sweater and the beret is of the beige with stripes around the face.

Unusually smart for winter days is the old blue flecked with lighter blue cardigan sweater suit (right) that has its cute little collar, deep cuffs and its insignia of airplane motif in several shades of blue. The cap it made of the medium tone, with the material of the suit decorating it intricately.

Tech Debaters Meet English Team Tonight

Resolved, That the Principle of Democracy Has Been Tried and Found Wanting to Be Debate Subject

Sons of West Texas and old England will meet in debate here tonight when Texas Technological college and the English university teams tangle on the question, "Resolved, that the principle of democracy has been tried and found wanting."

The debate, the only one on the state college's fall-term schedule, will begin at 8:15 in the college gymnasium. Dr. Paul W. Horn, Technological college president, will preside.

William Sewell and Wayne Castleberry, veteran forensic performers of Technological college, will defend the negative of the democracy question against a crack English team composed of B. J. Crehan and D. Hope Elkinton.

The Englishmen during their present tour have debated teams at California, Oregon, Nebraska, Denver, Oklahoma, and Simmons universities, and Texas State College for Women, in addition to college and university teams in several other American cities.

Technological college's representatives in tonight's platform clash will be bolstered by experience in high school and college debating circles. This is Sewell's fourth and Castleberry's third year on the forensic squad at the Matador school.

Crehan, of the English team, is from the University of Liverpool. At present he is working toward a B. A. degree in social science and economics. He is active in political work for the Socialist party.

Young Elkinton at the time is studying in Oxford. The two will close their American tour in a debate with the University of Texas on December 15.

General admission for the debate will be 50 cents, according to Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, director of debate at Tech and acting head of the speech department. Students will be admitted for 25 cents.

Used Ebony, Mahogany Railway Ties

Railroad Official Here for I.C.C. Hearing Recalls Work on Old Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Rail Line

Most railroad construction men like to brag about their fine creosoted ties used in road building. But Lubbock this week is entertaining a railroad man who built a road with ebony and mahogany ties. He is E. H. Shaulier, Wichita, Kansas, assistant general manager of the western lines of the Santa Fe and former general manager of the old Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad, now a part of the Santa Fe. All of the former Orient is under the jurisdiction of the Santa Fe.

MacDonald Would Prevent Deadlock

LONDON, Dec. 11. (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's efforts to break the deadlock between the Moslem and Hindu leaders of the Indian conference were carried on today to the accompaniment of a violent bombardment of criticism in another part of the city.

Speaking under auspices of the Indian Empire society, Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, described the round-table conference as raising "false hopes which may lead to strife and suffering." He declared the British nation "has no intention of relinquishing effectual control of Indian life and property."

"Withdrawal or suspension of British control" Mr. Churchill said, "means either a Hindu despotism or a renewal of those ferocious internal wars which tortured the Indian masses for thousands of years before the British flag was hoisted in Calcutta."

Railway service is being cut down in many areas of Northern Ireland and bus service is being substituted as a measure of economy by the railroad companies.

Used Drill

"We used to have to use a drill to get holes in the ties for the spikes. We never could have driven a spike into them."

"Besides ebony, we used mahogany, a hard cedar and a lignum-vitae. The lignum-vitae is used in making billiard balls and it is very hard."

"Those ties will be there forever. They do not seem to show any signs now of wear and tear and I guess they will be there always."

The Mexico lines of the Orient were sold by the Santa Fe after its purchase of the system from W. T. Kemper and associates, to a group of El Paso and New York capital-

Murder at Bridge

THEY called it the "death hand." And well they might—for a few minutes after vivacious Juanita Selim was dealt this hand of cards she was murdered, struck down by an audacious criminal while her society friends laughed and chatted over a bridge game.

The slayer was clever, but so was Bonnie Dundee, keen-witted young detective, once an apprentice in Scotland Yard and now special investigator assigned to the district attorney's office in the city of Hamilton.

About this murder and its solution, Annie Austin, America's most popular author of newspaper fiction, has woven a powerful, swift-moving mystery novel called "Murder at Bridge."

Miss Austin will be remembered for her widely acclaimed mystery serial successes, "The Black Pigeon," "The Avenging Parrot" and "Murder Backstairs." It was in the last two that Bonnie Dundee made a name for himself.

Thrills . . . action . . . suspense . . . horror—and a dash of romance all have been combined in this clever story by a clever author.

Let's Do That Job Today!

Within today was originally planned as the last of the three-day Community chest drive it won't be the last day unless Lubbock puts the campaign over the top.

Yesterday at noon, the halfway mark of the drive, workers had secured only slightly more, in cash and pledges, than half the total requested. They looked at the $12,921.14 they had been paid and promised, and the total asked, $25,750. They saw that another $12,828.86 was needed and they felt a little blue. Then they made up their minds to "stay with it" until the job is done so the public is advised that if it isn't done today other days will be consumed in work until the $25,750 is paid in or pledged.

The Morning Avalanche is certain that the total will be reached before the drive is ended. It is not certain that the total will be reached today—probably it will not be. But it should be finished today—and will be finished today—if those who can subscribe and have not subscribed will only do their duty.

You may search through the budgets of Community chests throughout the United States this year and you will find the budget for Lubbock is lower than any other city of its size.

You may search through business records and you will find that business conditions in Lubbock for the areas are better than in any other city.

You may apply any yardstick you see fit to apply and all you will learn in the end is that Lubbock should meet its budget gladly—and do the job with generosity and dispatch.

People who should have contributed to the chest and who have not contributed don't think they're "over the hump" if they're missed in the work today. They'll be called upon and called upon and called upon—until the job is done and the agencies included in the chest receive a guaranty that they will continue to function throughout another year. At least that is the information emanating from the headquarters of the drive.

The Morning Avalanche urges every citizen who can donate to donate today. The Community chest is a community enterprise which must be put across. We may as well finish the job, wash up and quit now as later.

Today's the day! Let's get it over with!

Practical Health Problems

RHEUMATIC ILLS ON INCREASE AS SCIENCE FAILS TO FIND REMEDY

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Chronic inflammation of the joints has been found in the skeletons of reptiles that lived long before the days of man.

The tissue of the cave bear and saber-toothed tiger show the marks of this infection. It was prevalent in the prehistoric dwellers of upper Egypt as among the first inhabitants of Great Britain.

It represents today one of the most serious of the complaints that attack human beings and which science is as yet resisting with but indifferent success. The number of deaths attributed to rheumatic diseases and their complications rises steadily.

Out, for a while an apparently declining disease, begins to show an increased rate in recent years. In a review of the subject for the ministry of health in Great Britain, Dr. J. Allison Glover emphasizes the importance of the condition in London hospitals, pointing out that as many as 40 per cent of patients seen in watering courses are sufferers from this chronic form of disorder.

In a great American clinic, seven per cent of the patients treated are sufferers from chronic arthritis, as were also seven per cent of the patients in a municipal hospital in Berlin. Eleven per cent of the patients reported by Boston hospitals as suffering from chronic and incurable diseases were the victims of chronic arthritis, whereas 18 per cent had heart disease, which is not infrequently a related condition.

In the attempt to reach the cause of the chronic rheumatic complaints, it has been found that they tend to attack families and there seems to be some evidence that the constitution of the human being is related to his susceptibility to this disorder.

Several investigators have found that 80 per cent of the patients are members of rheumatic families. Women seem to be much more susceptible to the disease than do men, the various authorities finding the incidence in women some three to six times that in men.

In addition to the family influence there is the associated effect of occupation. Thus one investigator has pointed out that the occupation indicates the joints that will be involved. Women doing sewing and knitting are affected in the fingers. Painters and workers with lead seem to be particularly susceptible to the disease, and drill and exposure are associated with the frequency of its occurrence among painters, mechanics, workers, and the personnel of railway locomotives.

Dr. Glover is inclined to emphasize particularly the importance of prevention of dampness in dwellings and the importance of free circulation of air and of sunlight in the prevention of arthritis.

Much has been said of the importance of removing the focus of infection in the teeth and tonsils, as well as elsewhere about the body in the attack on arthritis. Treatment without such removal does not in any way control the condition for the simple reason that the focus continues to feed the infectious material to the blood and by the blood to the joints, so that new infections are set up.

Income Tax Again An Issue

By CHARLES F. STEWART, Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Representative Wright Patman of Texas (Tex.) will renew the fight for income tax publicity early in the present session of congress.

Huge rebates to big taxpayers are largely responsible for the persistency of the effort.

Congressman John N. Garner (Democratic leader in the house of representatives) senior Democratic member of the house ways and means committee, which deals with revenue-raising problems, and a Texan, like Patman, asserted some time ago that Secretary Mellon, during his term as treasury head, had handed back three billions of dollars in rebates to some of the country's richest corporations into Uncle Sam's strong box.

It is true that this statement was disputed by the treasury secretary, on the ground that a billion and a half was returned in cash, the remainder having taken the form of credits on subsequent payments.

"WHICH SEEMS to be, however," says Congressman Patman, "to be a distinction with no essential difference.

"What does it matter whether the treasury refunds three billions in spot cash or refunds only part of it in cash, allows another part of it in abatement on current payments and gives credit for a third part on payments to fall due in future?"

"In the long run it means three billions less in the government's pocket, whichever way it is managed."

YET IS IT not so much to the large amount of the refunds, abatements and credits that the Texas representative objects as to the fashion in which a great proportion of them are made.

Appeals from treasury demands on the theory that they are excessive, he does not criticize, provided they are tried in open court.

His complaint is of the internal revenue bureau's system of effecting secret adjustments and carrying them out with no judicial sanction whatever. The system is legal, to be sure, and secrecy by treasury officials is required, under severe penalties, by the existing law.

The law itself, with the secrecy it prescribes, is the object of the Texas' attack; but the treasury officials, except in that they quite generally are defenders of the law.

TO ILLUSTRATE his point Congressman Patman directs attention to United States Steel corporation refunds, abatements and credits to a total valued by him at $95,000,000 to $100,000,000, some of which, at least, he expresses confidence that the courts never would have authorized.

An instance specifically mentioned by him involves a contrast in the treasury's attitude toward a rebate claim by the steel corporation for elimination of inventory from its 1924 inventory, and its attitude toward a claim represented as having been exactly identical with it, preferred by the Packard Motor company.

The steel corporation's claim was conceded by the revenue bureau and it got two refunds under it, to a total paid by Congressman Garner at $25,000,000 in principal alone, not counting interest running into the millions.

The motor company's claim evidently was refused, for it took its case to the United States court of claims, which ruled against the company.

"Obviously," comments Representative Patman, "if the treasury had seen fit to make a judicial test of the steel claim, that could have been turned down also, but in the meantime the steel folk had received their millions and the government was out just that much money—to be made up by other taxpayers."

INCOME TAX publicity was, as a matter of fact, required under the revenue act of 1924, but it was repealed after a brief trial, and perhaps it did overdo matters.

Such, as any fact is the opinion of Senator James Couzens of Michigan, who has demanded, throughout his entire term in Washington, the opening of all treasury records to examination upon proper request by any responsible person. The 1924 act, however, enjoined each revenue collector to keep a complete list, actually on his desk, available to any chance caller, of all income taxpayers in his district with their respective addresses, and the amount of their individual payments respectively.

The senator holds that this simply was an invitation to "curious shoppers" to make nuisances of themselves, and calls it a "stilly provision."

Nevertheless, he not only strenuously favors opening income tax returns "to examination and inspection as other public records" under the same rules and regulations as may govern the examination of public documents generally, but adds, "Secrecy in government affairs is usually a badge of fraud, an inspiration or inducement to commit fraud."

REPERCUSSION England, wishing to establish a gold standard in India, dumps large quantities of silver into China. China gives currency depreciates in value as a result. And American exports to China fall off from one-third to one-half because Chinese dollars will buy only from a third to a half as much as formerly.

So when Senator Pittman, of Nevada, calls upon Washington to do something to stabilize the silver market he is not moved by compassion for the "heavenly China." He has found on the other side of the world one of the causes of the American depression, more particularly Nevada's depression.

There is no such thing as economic isolation on this troubled globe. A gold rush in darkest Africa or too much silver in China, or a revolution in South America, can affect the fortunes of peoples living thousands of miles away. All the world depends to a large extent upon the United States for its economic well-being. The American people are the largest consumers of the world's products and when they stop buying the rest of the world stops selling and eating.

Realization of these facts causes us to refrain from blaming ourselves for all our woes and to strive toward greater economic independence.

Heart Hungry

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN AUTHOR OF "RASH ROMANCE" © 1930 by NEA SERVICE INC

BEGIN HERE TODAY Celia Mitchell, 17, leaves Baltimore where she has lived with her seamstress mother, Margaret Rogers, to join her wealthy father, John Mitchell, in New York. The parents are divorced and Mrs. Rogers is a widow following a second marriage. Barney Shields, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl. Mitchell asks Evelyn Parsons, beautiful widow, to introduce his daughter to other young people. Mrs. Parsons agrees, considering Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections. She schemes to get rid of Celia by encouraging a romance between her and TOD JORDAN, fascinating but of dubious character. Mitchell has forbidden his daughter to see Jordan.

Shields comes to New York to work and meets Celia. She tells him she cares for Jordan but later realizes it is Shields whom she loves. Mrs. Parsons accuses Mitchell's antagonism toward Shields and the father and daughter quarrel. Celia departs for Baltimore only to find that her mother has disappeared. Mitchell arrives, affects a revulsion, and takes Celia back to New York. Meanwhile Mrs. Parsons has informed Shields that Celia is to marry Jordan. When Celia meets the young man each misunderstands the other and the trio-view ends with the affair between them broken off. No word comes of Celia's mother. The girl is miserable and lonely and when Jordan begs her to elope she goes away with him. Mitchell appeals to Shields to help find Celia. They call on Jordan, who denies knowing where she is. Mitchell learns of Mrs. Parsons' deceit and trickery. Professional detectives are unable to locate Celia, who is at LESLIE DUNCAN'S home. Last telephone call Jordan and Celia have driven away, together and detectives report that Jordan has booked passage to Cuba.

with an evening paper to tell them the name of the ship sailing for Havana at 10 p. m. and the number of the pier. Shields had posted himself at the door. "The car's here!" he cried, raising his voice in keeping with the general hubbub. He opened the door and ran down the steps, Mitchell following. "Drive to pier—" Mitchell told the chauffeur. "And hurry!" The big motor car pulled away from the curb. Almost immediately it seemed they were in the midst of traffic, detained by a red street signal. The father cursed. His feverish eyes darted to left and right. They were off again. The driver chose a less congested street. They were making better time now. Barney Shields consulted his watch and saw that it was after 8:30. "I can't believe she'd do it!" Mitchell moaned. "I can't believe she'd do it!" Shields said nothing. His eyes were glued on the street ahead. The 30 minutes' trip seemed endless. He did not hear what John Mitchell was saying. If Celia had gone aboard that boat with Tod Jordan it could mean only one thing. It meant that Celia loved Jordan. She must love him enough to marry him. There was a lump in Barney's throat and his lips were dry. A constant chorus droned over and over in his mind: "If she's on the boat it means she loves Jordan."

Side Glances

By George Clark

In a few frenzied moments John Mitchell had the full story. Celia had been at Lesli Duncan's home for three days. The girl had arrived there with Jordan. Celia had been worried and unhappy but she had demanded—at the price of friendship—that no one should know of her whereabouts. Lesli and her father were the only members of the household who were at home. On this particular evening Mr. Duncan was somewhere in town. "I saw Celia and Tod get into his car," Lesli went on excitedly. "I was in the living room right behind them and when I heard the car I looked out the window. I heard that Celia loved Jordan. She said 'I do' and he said 'I do' and then I called but they started. It was four o'clock then and now it's after eight! I'm afraid there's been an accident. Mr. Mitchell, what can we do?" "You stay where you are," Mitchell ordered, "and if either of them comes telephone me immediately." "But don't you think we should do something?" "I do, indeed, and I'm going to do it! You'll hear from me later, Goody!" Barney had heard the entire conversation. As Mitchell put down the telephone the young man caught his arm. "The boat?" he cried. "You think she's with him?" John Mitchell did not answer. He was ordering the car, rummaging his hat, shouting orders at the butler. Edwards hurried forward

Youthful Hunter, Lost And Freezing In Wintry Storm, Cuts Wires So That Telephone Men Would Come To Rescue

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. (AP)—Last Friday evening the telephone men of which raps out Associated Press dispatches in a ticking stream in the news room of the Boise, Idaho, Statehouse stopped suddenly and they slept. Here is the routine report of what happened, as it was made to the plant department of the long line department of the American Telephone & Telegraph company from which the lines are leased. Wires Cut "A P. teletype circuit test detached 7:30-8:45 to Stateman, Boise, Idaho, account total line failure Boise and Pocatello caused by youthful hunter who was lost, cutting the wires." And here is the story behind that report: A fifteen-year-old boy lives with his father and five motherless brothers and sisters in Boise. The father, a day laborer, has been jobless for weeks. The boy helps support the family by trapping fur-bearing animals in the woods and selling the pelts. Once he read in a telephone advertisement that the company always runs down line trouble, night or day, the instant a wire ceases to function. Car Wouldn't Start Last Friday night it was dark when he finished setting his traps in the woods, 30 miles from Boise. The night was bitterly cold and when the boy got to his rickety second-hand car, parked in the road nearby, the engine wouldn't start. For two hours he worked to turn the motor. Then, freezing and desperate, he saw the wires overhead beside the road and remembered that advertisement. He climbed up a pole, cut all the wires, and waited. Linnemen hastened to find the break came upon the last line from an hour and a half later. They did more than fix the wires. They repaired the boy's car and brought him back to Boise. There is a federal law against tampering with wires, but nothing will be done so long as the responsible integrity discommoded the Boise Stateman for an hour or so, but it saved his life.

Frau Einstein Is Bank Bookkeeper

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. (AP)—Professor Albert Einstein may be the world's foremost mathematician, but Frau Einstein keeps the bank books balanced. If he tried to do it himself, she said today, he would get lost. The professor himself had already admitted this fact to Hendrik Willem Van Loon, Dutch historian, a fellow passenger on the Belgenland which brought the Einsteins to New York today on their way to California. Professor Einstein thought it was a good joke. "Bankbooks? Ah! He knows nothing of bankbooks," said Frau Einstein with an expression half amused and half dismayed. "He is sure to make a hash of the bankbooks!" To strangers Frau Einstein always refers to her distinguished husband as "the professor." But when she speaks to him directly, she distinguishes him with her friends, he is "papa."

Texas Conference Defers Action On Tech Application

Texas, TIAA, Will Observe Frosh Ruling

Southwest Conference Waives Rule That Makes Gridsters Ineligible After Playing Post Season Games

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR., Associated Press Sports Writer. DALLAS, Dec. 11.—After having listened to an urgent plea by Joe Ulay, president of the Dixie Classic, the faculty committee of the Southwest Conference voted today to waive for one year its rule forbidding seniors to participate in post-season football bouts.

The ruling committee had a few minutes previously voted to stand by its edict of last year, but consented to make a concession to Mr. Ulay when he pointed out that all plans had been made for that game January 1 between all-stars of the Southwest and Midwest. The faculty members declared, however, that the rule would be enforced after the current season.

Will Enforce In 1931

Under the ruling of the committee, any senior participating in a post-season football game was to become automatically ineligible for basketball track and baseball the remainder of this month, as well as in the big game here New Year's day. After this year, Mr. Ulay promised, officials of the Dixie Classic will draw on the Southern Conference for talent and permit the Southwest Conference to enforce its "non-interference" rule to its heart's content.

After receiving the committee's concession, president Ulay announced that Coach Morley Jennings of Baylor university would tutor the Southwest eleven in the Dixie Classic.

Application of Texas Tech of Lubbock for Membership in the Conference was shelved until the next meeting of the organization in May, when it will be considered. An application by St. Mary's university of San Antonio for membership in the conference was also shelved until the next meeting of the organization in May, when it will be considered.

Members of the Southwest conference faculty committee are Dr. C. E. Priddy of Texas A. & M. College; H. Trantham, Baylor; T. T. McCants, Rice Institute; Dr. J. S. McIntosh, Southern Methodist University; Dr. E. W. McDermid, Texas Christian University; B. M. Willard, Arkansas University; and W. E. Metzinger, University of Texas.

Investigation Results Shelved

A report by J. A. Butler, private investigator from the Big Ten conference, on subsidizing of Centenary by members of the Association of Texas Colleges was shelved until April. It was explained that the report was too voluminous for reading before today's meeting. Mr. Butler, employed to investigate some 60 Texas colleges and universities from today to tomorrow, was understood to have done the job in very thorough fashion, but there was no intimation as to the text of his report.

Centenary is Rejected

An effort by Centenary of Shreveport to gain admittance to the Southwest Conference died abruptly. The faculty committee, even before receiving Centenary's application, voted not to expand its membership at this time. The move was most disappointing to Centenary, which had prepared to give fifty-nine reasons why it should be admitted to the select circle. The committee gave no explanation of its summary action.

New Baseball Ruling

The most significant bit of legislation passed by the Southwest conference body during the day was its action in cutting the baseball season exactly in half. It was voted that conference clubs hereafter will play but 10 championship games, instead of 20, as formerly. It will be mandatory that each conference member play two games with each of five rivals for the title. It further was ruled that there will be no coaching from the sidelines during conference games.

T. I. A. A. Is Split
Officials of the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association, meeting in conjunction with the Southwest Conference, voted to sectionize their sport schedule, dividing the body in half. The "west" division will be composed of Daniel Baker, Sul Ross, West Texas Teachers, McMurry College and Abilene Christian College. The "east" division will consist of the North Texas Teachers, Southeast Texas Teachers, East Texas Teachers, Sam Houston Kingsville A. & I., and Southwest Texas Teachers. The winners in the two divisions will play for the championship. The T. I. A. A., incidentally, will observe the freshman rule after October and will make no contracts with schools that do not.

Service Gridders Converge At New York For Classic

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—For the first time in three years, the athletes and supporters of the naval and military academies converged on New York tonight for the most colorful football show on earth.

Amid a barrage of ballyhoo worthy of the occasion, more and more of the football public of this and other cities dug into the bank-roll to boom the ticket sale, and the unemployed and gain admission to a game that promises to take rank with the best in Army-Navy history.

Although business conditions somewhat slowed the sale of the higher priced seats, the Salvation Army-Citizens committee headed by Grover Whalen announced there would be no reduction in the rates which range up to $50.

Indications today were the net gate would exceed $500,000 with a possibility of realizing a total of $750,000 when additional funds received from various other sources such as concessions, programs and voluntary contributions from radio listeners are added.

Tech Science Group Meets

Dr. R. C. Goodwin and Prof. H. F. Godeke speak Thursday night at meeting of College Organization Here

"Regardless of the price of rubber, the demand for it seems to be almost the same," said Dr. R. C. Goodwin, head of the department of chemistry at Texas Technological college, at a meeting of the science club Thursday night.

Prof. H. F. Godeke, head of the mechanical engineering department, who spoke on "The Advance Made in Steam Power Engineering in the Present Century," was the other principal speaker.

Citing the unusual stability of rubber demand, Doctor Goodwin said that "the supply of rubber at the present time is such that the wholesale price, delivered in the rubber centers of the world, is under 11 cents, whereas the cost of producing and shipping the rubber to these markets is in the neighborhood of 13 cents."

"Until additional uses of rubber are found, the obvious cure for the situation is to allow a large part of the rubber acreage to revert to the jungle."

"In the meantime, the world, and especially the United States, is beneficiaries from the savings of hundreds of millions of dollars in the price of rubber."

Professor Godeke traced the development of steam power from 1900 to 1930 and asserted that "more advancement has been made in the last 10 years than in all time preceding this period."

The science club meeting began at 7:30 o'clock in the college home economics building. Members of the home economics faculty served refreshments.

Devoting all her spare time in the last 15 years, Miss M. Bridges, of Sevenoaks, England, constructed a nine-foot model of a battleship, correct to scale in every detail, its searchlights being lit by tiny bulbs and its chart room having a miniature engine-room telegraph apparatus.

Teams Battle For Regional Championship

Wright and Men Arrive for Game Day Ahead of Time; Slaton Fans Go Today to Scene of Battle

(Special To The Avalanche) OLNEY, Dec. 11.—At 2:30 tomorrow afternoon the high school grid teams of Olney and Slaton will clash on the local field for the championship of the Class B region made up of Districts 1, 2, 3 and 4. It will be the final game for the B.

OLNEY, Dec. 11. (AP)—For the first time this season, Albert Acher's Olney Cubs will enter a game rated as "underdogs" when they meet the Slaton Tigers here Friday in a contest to decide the regional high school football championship. The Cubs will be at a disadvantage of 12 pounds per man in weight to the Tigers.

Slaton Tigers in Class B competition, since they were admitted to Class A last week and will become associated with District 1 teams in the race for state schoolboy honors.

Coach Paul Wright and 23 of his championship Tigers arrived here shortly after noon today and after a rest went through a light workout on the Olney field. Coach Wright reported that all of his regulars were in shape and that he could start his strongest combination tomorrow. The trip was made by automobiles furnished by Slaton business men.

Slaton Fans Expected.

Plans are being made to care for a large crowd of Slaton fans here tomorrow. Reports have it that at least 100 Slaton fans will arrive here in the morning to see the game.

Snyder Tigers Play Albany Today for Regional Trophy

"Football Classic of West Texas Today" Involves Powerful Teams of Section South of Here

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. (Special) — The football classic of West Texas Friday will be staged at Tiger Stadium here when the Albany High School Lions, winners of Class B districts 5 and 10, will lock horns with the Snyder Tigers, winners in Districts 8 and 9, for the regional championship.

The number of ticket reservations reached the 1,400 mark this morning with phone calls and telegrams arriving hourly from all points of the four districts comprising the largest regional football territory in the state.

Large Albany Delegation.

Coach Red Moore of the Tigers will have his complete strength on the field, since not a player is on the injured list. Coach Downing of Albany is bringing his full squad of 35 players. The Albany delegation of fans will be led by Col. Dick McCarty, widely known editor.

Bulldogs Meet Post All-Star Team at Spur

Coach Taylor to Start Best Team Against Regional '11 of 1928; Bulldogs Plan Big for Benefit Game Here

SPUR, Dec. 11. (Special) — The Spur High School Bulldogs will clash with the Post All-Stars, former high school gridsters, on the local field tomorrow. Coach Gene Taylor will start his strongest lineup, consisting of C. W. Barrett and Hubert Carr at ends; Nig Emert and Morrison Ragsdale at tackles; Buster Morgan and Andy Rhodes at guards; Eugene McCormick at center; Jimmie Hahn, Joe Hahn, Capt. Brode Puckett and Adrian Rickles in the backfield.

The Bulldogs will meet the Lubbock ex-Westerners next Wednesday on the Texas Tech Field at Lubbock in a post-season benefit game, and Coach Taylor suggests that the above lineup, barring possible injuries in the Post game, will start against Lubbock. Many of the men are all-district players and are popular where football is discussed in West Texas.

Spur's Best Lineup.

The Spur starting lineup probably will consist of the following: Cross and Rodgers, ends; Ankings and Mathis, tackles; Benton and Williams, guards; Thaxton, center; D. Williams, quarterback; Chaney, Parr, halfbacks, and Floyd, fullback. Quite an imposing array of gridiron talent is thus gathered.

Seven men on the starting lineup for Post were members of the 1928 champion Antelope team, which won the championship of Districts 1 and 2 and defeated Mineral Wells in a regional championship. Coached by Harry Taylor, brother of Gene Taylor, Spur coach, the 1928 Post machine was considered as one of the most powerful football teams in the state.

Four Conference Games On Westerner Schedule

Opening Game Oct. 9 With Plainview At Home

Four conference games, perhaps five, will be played by the Lubbock High school Westerner gridsters next fall. The four will appear on the regular schedule. Ten teams will make desperate efforts to play a fifth, but eight of them will be disappointed.

This is according to the 1931 schedule for Class A teams of District 1, suggested and affirmed at the recent meeting of the executive committee in Amarillo. The district was divided into two sections, with five teams in each, and a round robin schedule will be played in each section, the winners to clash on Thanksgiving day for the championship of the district.

Slaton Is New Member

Heretofore, nine teams have played each other, the team winning the most games out of eight surviving as the champion and the representative of the loop in bi-district competition for the state championship. Slaton High school has been added to Class A, after a number of successful seasons in Class B circles, to make the tenth member of the district, and the schedule was arranged so that each team will play four conference games.

The Westerners will be at home for two games, playing two away. They open the conference season on October with Slaton here, and entertain Plainview on October 16 at the local field. On October 21, the Westerners take to the road and clash with the Pampa Harvesters at Pampa, after which they rest nearly a month, or until November 26 before invading Amarillo.

Rest Before Amarillo

One week intervenes between the Slaton and Plainview game, getting the home season over in a hurry. After that is a rest of two weeks before the Pampa game, then three weeks wait before Amarillo. Amarillo, by the way, has the same length of time to prepare for the Westerners, playing the Plainview Bulldogs on October 31 at Amarillo. The Sandies play three games at home.

Lubbock, Amarillo, Pampa, Slaton and Plainview constitute the western section of the district with Childress, Quanah, Vernon, Electra and Wichita Falls making up the eastern division.

Stribling Meets Griffiths Tonight

CHICAGO, Dec. 11. (AP)—Just how much business Gerald Ambrose Griffiths, the tough youth from Sioux City, Iowa, has in the heavy-weight championship scheme will be determined tomorrow night when he meets W. L. Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., in the Chicago stadium.

Stribling by his quick triumph over Otto Von Forst, and Phil Scott, has built himself a position among the heavies that only a good sound licking can destroy. Griffiths, however, has been an inner outer, going well against some good fighters, and going into reverse against some not so good.

The national boxing association has limited the winner will be its choice for a heavyweight championship fight with Max Schmeling, and both Stribling and Griffiths are eager to be first in line, in case it goes through.

down the board staircase and finally reached the purser's office. It was some time before an attendant listened to their request.

"Jordan?" he asked. "You say the name's Tod Jordan?" A moment later he was nodding and gave the number of a stateroom which Jordan had engaged.

The two men turned away. A youth in immaculate uniform was passing and Mitchell touched his arm.

"Can you show us to —?" he asked, mentioning the number of the stateroom.

"Yes, sir." The boy touched his cap and led the way down a corridor. They made a turn to the right. At the far end of the passageway a steward was sitting. He rose as he saw them.

"Is Mr. Jordan in his stateroom?" the youth asked.

"He came in but I think he's gone." The steward walked a few steps and knocked at a door. There was no response.

"Not in?" the steward announced. "I expect you'll find him on deck."

"You're sure he isn't in here?" Mitchell persisted.

For answer the man in uniform turned the latch and threw back the door. Mitchell and Shields surveyed the compartment. There was baggage on the floor and an overcoat thrown across the bed. Otherwise the stateroom had been untouched. Certainly it was unoccupied.

"Thank you very much," Mitchell said. "We'll look for him upstairs." He started away and then turned. "Oh—did you happen to notice if Mr. Jordan was alone when he came in?"

"Yes, sir," the steward answered. "He was alone."

They retraced their steps. As they reached the purser's office the youth who had led the way asked: "Is there anything further I can do for you?"

Mitchell placed a coin in the boy's hand. "No," he said. "I believe we'll go outside and see if we can find the gentleman we're looking for."

They reached the deck. Passengers and farewell parties were still crowding about. Barney stepped forward, shouldering a path through the throng, and Mitchell followed.

"How could we ever find anyone in this mix-up?" Shields asked when they reached a slight clearing.

John Mitchell's jaw was set squarely. "If Jordan's on this boat," he said, "I'm going to have a talk with him!"

They circled the deck, both eyeing the changing crowd. Then Shields suggested trying the upper deck. He noticed as they went up the stairs that the hands of his watch pointed to 9:15. Forty-five minutes more than the boat would sail.

There were not so many people on the second deck but there was no sign of Jordan. Shields was beginning to feel the search was hopeless when his companion stopped short.

"Look!" John Mitchell demanded.

Not a dozen yards away a man and girl were leaning against the railing. The man's back was toward them but the girl had turned and her profile was revealed white and clear-cut against the black sky. It was Celia.

For an instant Celia gazed up at the man beside her. Then she turned and looked out across the water.

Barney Shields closed his eyes, trying to shut out the sight. Celia! There was no doubt about it. She was there and the man beside her was Tod Jordan. Shields had recognized her instantly.

"Wait!" Mitchell said. "I'll get her!"

Barney was concealed in the shadows. He watched the father stride the short distance and touch Celia's arm. A startled exclamation fell from the girl's lips as she faced about. Jordan straightened, but before he could speak Mitchell had begun:

"Celia, what's the meaning of this?" he demanded. "Have you lost your senses? You're coming home with me—at once! This is outrageous!"

"Oh, no, she's not going with you!" Jordan cut in. His foot and toe were both angry. "She's going to my right here!"

"Celia, I tell you come at once!" Mitchell spoke as though he had not heard the young man. He had taken Celia's arm and now he urged at it, urging her from the railing.

The girl did not move. Her brown eyes held Mitchell's steadily. Her cheeks were flushed but otherwise she showed no sign of excitement.

"I'm not going with you, father," she said slowly.

Mitchell seemed speechless. Then he burst forth violently.

"But I tell you you will! Good God, Celia—do you know what you are saying? Do you know what this means? You'll go with me now and no more nonsense about it. Do as I tell you!"

The girl drew back, leaning both arms against the deck railing. She seemed completely sure of herself. Barney Shields, watching from the shadows, caught himself marveling at the fine white line of her throat.

Her lips looked very red and her eyes had never been more lustrous.

"I am not going," Celia repeated. "and there is nothing that you can do about it. I have my own life to live and I intend to live it in my own way. I don't want to quarrel with you, father, but don't you see it was a mistake to expect me to fit into the life that suits you? I'm sorry but it couldn't be done, that's all! Tod understands me. We're going to be happy together. Won't you give us your blessing?"

"I'll not have it. I tell you! I won't stand for it!" Jordan had placed his arm about Celia protectively. "Barney's we had about enough of this?" he asked menacingly. "You've no right to interfere; you know Celia's 18 and we love each other—"

Barney Shields acted on impulse. Seeing Celia in Jordan's embrace was more than he could endure. Without realizing what he was doing, Shields sprang toward the little group.

"Celia," he cried, "please come away! You can't really mean what you're saying. Won't you let us take you home? Please, Celia!"

The girl was startled. Her pale cheeks became a shade whiter and for the barest instant her gaze faltered. Then she laughed.

"Well, there's quite a party to see me off! No thanks, Barney. It's too late now to change my plans. Wish me a pleasant voyage, won't you?"

Their eyes met. Then without a word Shields turned and walked away. As he went downstairs he heard a booming voice call:

"All ashore—'who's going ashore!'"

Are MOTOR BUS Companies REGULATED?

YES

They are under the constant supervision and control of the Motor Transportation Division of the Texas Railroad Commission with headquarters in the State Capitol at Austin.

Four inspectors travel over the State continually checking up on motor bus operators and reporting violations of the law to the proper authorities, who prosecute these cases like any other offense.

Special permits must be obtained by bus companies before they can legally operate; insurance must be provided by the company and other requirements designed to promote the convenience and security of the traveling public are required of all legal operators.

Two Men Who Wandered Two Months On Foot In Yukon Saved By Plane

WHITE HORSE, Y. T. Dec. 11. (Sp.)—Two men who wandered about two months in the frozen Yukon wilderness have been saved by an airplane. Bob Marten of Wrangell, Alaska, a prospector, and Emil Kading, an airplane mechanic, yesterday were brought to White Horse from the wilds where their pilot, E. J. A. Burke, died of exposure after their plane became disabled. Their rescue was effected by Everett Wasson, pilot, and Joe Walsh, a prospector, who sighted their signal fire last Saturday, after repeated flights over the site of their camp. They were 40 miles from their plane. Burke and his companions left Lead post, October 11 to fly back to Atlin, B. C., after delivering some shoe boxes. Marten and Kading said they flew into a snow storm and turned back, hoping to reach Wolfe lake, but were forced to land on the Lead river. The portions of the plane struck a rock and were damaged. They camped near the spot for six days, then set out for Wolfe lake on foot. Wasson and Walsh, who were seeking the missing party, sighted the plane late in November but could find no place to land nearby. Carved Note Burke and his companions, meantime, struggled through the snow toward Wolfe lake, hunting game for food on the way. Before leaving the plane they carved a note on a tree, "October 17, leaving for Wolfe lake. Need food badly." The rigors of the march with scant food proved too much for Burke's strength. On November 8 he made the last entry in his log and wrote a message for his wife at Atlin. On November 15 Kading shot a caribou, and while the fresh meat restored him and Marten, Burke was too weak to eat. He died November 20 and his companions prepared a grave. On November 25 they saw Wasson's plane overhead, but it flew away without sighting them. The plane passed again and then Marten and Kading prepared a signal fire. When the plane passed over a third time Wasson and Walsh sighted the signal smoke. They landed 10 miles away and after some difficulty located the camp of the stranded men. When they were able to travel the four made their way to the

Plane and After Waiting for Storms to Clear Flew off Yesterday

Plans Another Flight
Wasson plans to make another flight to bring Burke's body out. The search for Burke and his companions cost three lives when a plane carrying Pilot Robin Benson and two Seattle men disappeared. It was believed to have plunged in the sea near Prince Rupert, B. C.

SHOTGUN STOLEN
A 20-gauge shotgun was taken from a display case at Sherrod Bros. hardware store Wednesday night after a lock on the case had been sprung. Although other articles were in the case, only the shotgun was taken and the "jimmied" case was closed.
