JUST HERE and THERE

Just had a release of three publicity mats from OPA district information executive at Lubbock. Figured at our regular display advertising rates, the cost of publishing the three releases would be $62.84.

In the first place, we have neither the space or the manpower to give this much space to any government agency. In the second place, why should newspapers be called on to give space to the government?

They travel around over the country at the taxpayers expense and at every stop attempt to "mooch" newspaper space in an attempt to build still larger their particular agency and job.

When we considered this latest space-grabbing material of the OPA to the waste basket we dropped a note to the OPA "big shot" at Lubbock, informing him of our action and telling him that when he became patriotic enough to work for nothing, our patriotism would match his and we'd publish his propaganda for nothing.

Members of local OPA boards and panels give of their time at a sacrifice to their own personal interests but this doesn't mean that the OPA is not loaded down with thousands of highly paid employees.

Again we say, speed the day when Roosevelt and his bureaucratic, autocratic, dictator government becomes one of those things of the past that representative government will look back on with a dark brown taste in the mouth.

Just had a letter from our friend of yours, Ecton Lawrence. He is now living at 4207 W. 101st St., Inglewood, Calif. Ecton says they are enjoying the sunshine now but have had lots of rain this winter.

Journalists High School Press Meeting

Three members of the El Sombrero staff: Opal Murray, Anne Herndon, and Pauline Cotner, attended the Panhandle High School Press Association held in Amarillo, March 17.

The meeting opened with Mary Neil Gibson of Amarillo presiding. Highlights of the meeting were an address by Jerry Malin, editor of the Amarillo Times on "Journalism in the Future," round table discussion on "How We Fight the War in Our Paper" with each school participating, and an address by Wes Izard, editor-in-chief of the Amarillo News Globe on "Journalism Today." Mrs. T. V. Reeves of West Texas State College was presented to the group as the new sponsor of the P.H.S. P.A., taking the place of O. E. Hinkle who is now in military service.

This very interesting and instructive meeting adjourned after a short business session with the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Amarillo Speech Festival

The Annual Amarillo Speech Festival was held on March 11 this year. All schools in the Panhandle were invited to participate. Mrs. C. L. Craig and twenty-four of her most outstanding pupils represented Perryton. Miss A. J. Pendleton, who is head of the speech department at Texas Tech, judged the contest.

Six of the Perryton pupils rated superior: Connie Mae Edwards, Denna Marie McLarty, Ann Wedgeworth, Harold Malone, Zona Mabel Donley, and Mary Jo Craig. The remaining eighteen were graded as good and excellent.

Ray McWilliams, three year Ranger letterman in football, is the future Ranger's model for a great ball player. One of the fastest men ever to carry the pigskin for the Rangers, he joined with Granville Lilly to lead that great Ranger team of 1936 through a great season. Glenn McWilliams sparkplugged the Rangers to the Regional Championship in 1939. Lindsey McWilliams, youngest of the McWilliams brothers, was a capable football player and an outstanding basketball player on the 1941 squad. Maybe there is something in the idea of heritage.

During the last three weeks Norma Flowers has been in the hospital. She expects to return home Thursday.

Gilbert Rodriguez and Helen Paige were absent from school last week due to illness.

Marilyn Richardson visited with her parents in Old Mexico last week.

Shirley Wiebe and Joan Howard were new students in 3A last week.

El Juego

Several inter-squad games by the 1945 Ranger cagers were the highlights of the week in the world of sports on the Perryton campus. The members of the Ranger squad were divided into three teams. Delos Pugh, Cecil Bartell, and Bob Schell acted as captains.

The first game was very exciting between the Schell Cagers and the Bartell Basketeers. With both teams fighting with all they had, it was a tussle all the way. The final score was 22 to 21 in favor of the team captained by Bartell. Bartell, Robert Slaughter, and R. A. Flowers showed up good for the winners, while Kenneth Pearson and Schell played outstanding for the losers.

The Bartell team played the Pugh Cagers in the final contest. This game ended in a one point victory for Pugh, 18 to 17. Pugh, Calvin Schroeder, and Dewayne Trooper led the winners to victory. It looks as though the Ranger cagers have a great chance for a winning team next year.

Thinking on the line of brother combinations in football and basketball, we can't find any greater combination than the Lilly and McWilliams brothers. Granville Lilly was one of the most outstanding athletes that ever attended P. H. S. His great ability on the football field and basketball court will never be forgotten. Irvin Lilly was a star on the Ranger's 1937 basketball and football team. Playing end on the football team he showed up outstanding in every game. The youngest and smallest of the Lilly brothers was Willis Neal. Despite his size, Willis Neal was one of the outstanding players on the 1939 Ranger undefeated squad. On the basketball court he was always a star.

Ray McWilliams, three year Ranger letterman in football, is the future Ranger's model for a great ball player. One of the fastest men ever to carry the pigskin for the Rangers, he joined with Granville Lilly to lead that great Ranger team of 1936 through a great season. EDITORIAL

IT ALL COMES BACK TO ME NOW

"And the slight breeze gently blowing, the fields in a great mass of ripe wheat, yes, that last fourth of July that was spent at home. Our hero's mind runs on and on until suddenly these pleasing thoughts are interrupted by a harsh command. Quickly he realizes where he is and hears a loud droning of planes, the fierce mess of shells and after a few minutes that seem like hours he is quietly thinking again, thinking of the past.

"And those many hours spent in school learning? Maybe, but mostly playing, we had so many opportunities; why didn't I make use of them? What will become of me after this is over? Why couldn't I have thought of this before?"

As our comrade continues his thinking, let us glance at his neighbors. They, too, are thinking of various things, but it is plain to see that things of the past are running through their minds.

Thinking back is something that we all shall do regardless of the places where we are. Will our thoughts be pleasant or will it be otherwise? That depends entirely upon each of us, as an individual, if we do things as we see fit the chances are that we will always see them thus.

Pertaining to school work, some of the people who were students of P.H.S. before us have visited some of our classes and very few of these have failed to tell us that they could have done better in high school and wish they had. Things of this nature will probably always be said, but when we have to say, "It all comes Back To Me Now," can't we say it with memories both pleasing and respectable and that it all seemed right then?

Meet the Seniors

The favorite of the Senior Class was born near Perryton, May 20, 1927. She has long blond hair and twinkling blue eyes. For those who haven't guessed, she is Mayne Nitschke, Senior Class favorite for girls.

She doesn't have a pet peeve, so that sums up her personality as a congenial person. When food was mentioned, Anne said, "Everything tastes good," but she decided potatoes and chicken-fried steak ranks first. She thinks Bette Davis and Kathryn Hepburn are good actresses. Tyrone Power

"Oh, I guess Dagwood sandwiches are pretty good. Those real big ones." She prefers Greer Garson and Bette Davis for actresses, and Cary Grant and Tyrone Power are her favorite actors. She thinks "Gone With the Wind" is as good as any show. Mayne doesn't especially care for any book, but she likes to read. A worthwhile hobby occupies her spare time. She works on scrap books and collects music. Music is tops with her any time. That accounts for her being a member of the high school Swing Band.

Like most others, Mayne plans to go to college.

The big little man about school was born in Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 29, 1927. He has lived around Perryton for several years. Yes, that is right, the person is Jack Igou.

Jack has brown hair, very short at present, and changeable green eyes. Without a doubt, Jack said that watermelon preserves are tops as food. His favorite subject is English. His choice movie stars are Alan Ladd and Dorothy Lamour. Jack is easy to please because he has no favorite movie or book. For a hobby, Jack does woodworking. After some thought, he decided that his pet peeve is "That is hard to believe!"

Jack is going to attend Texas University and become an aeronautical engineer.

Financial Aid for Disabled Servicemen Awaiting Federal Compensation is Now Available

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Service men, returning from combat duty in the war zones, are thanking their lucky stars that the American Red Cross Home Service has a post-war plan.

The plan, already in operation, for service men discharged for disabilities, is expected to continue well into the post-war period. It assures temporary financial aid to men and their families if that aid is needed during the period pending settlement of claims for government benefits and offers assistance with applications for benefits.

In March, 1943, Red Cross filed over 4,000 claims for veteran's pensions. Six months later the number had jumped to 25,000 a month. Requests for Red Cross assistance in filing claims for government benefits continue to increase in proportion to the number of men discharged from military service.

At present the bulk of cases handled by Red Cross are filed for service men by Red Cross field directors attached to Army and Navy hospitals in this country where over 3,000 Red Cross workers are on the job to take care of the details involved.

Chapters Take Over

When men are discharged from the hospitals, and returned to their homes, Red Cross chapters take over the responsibility of aiding veterans and their families.

Any service man or his dependents, faced with hardship resulting from financial problems involving his service in the armed forces, or needing consultation service in connection with compensation, pensions, government insurance and other benefits, may now turn to Red Cross Home Service for assistance.

Information regarding the latest legislation affecting the service man and his family also is available through Red Cross chapters Home Service workers who are kept advised.

Because the Red Cross does not ordinarily supplement benefits provided by the government, financial assistance from chapters will end as soon as government compensation or pensions begin.

Recognized by Law

Red Cross is recognized by law and authorized by the Veterans Administration in the presentation of claims. Any service man wishing representation in connection with his claim may designate the American Red Cross to act for him in this capacity.

Many service men will need Red Cross financial assistance while waiting for their claims to be settled. To meet the needs promptly, and to improve service families from being dependent upon the community, Home Service budgets must be greatly expanded.

Your Red Cross War Fund contribution will help this community to see its own service men through.

It's The Breeding That Counts

Successful poultry raisers always buy chicks on the basis of breeding quality. After all, chicks that don't grow into good producers are expensive even if you could get them free. What you want is a flock that will lay dozens of eggs above the average. You measure your profits by the extra eggs laid, the number of chicks and pullets that live and by the quantity and quality of chickens you sell. These are the benefits you get when you buy Winborn's better-bred chicks. Started chicks available at Perryton Hatchery. 12-21-c

First Aid for Trees and Shrubs

COLLEGE STATION — First aid for thousands of trees and shrubs damaged by recent ice storms over the state is necessary if these plantings are to regain their natural shape and beauty.

Broken branches, split limbs, bent branches, and wounds all require different treatment, according to the horticulturist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. Where the weight of ice and snow causes branches to break several feet from

Then select a side branch between the break and the body of the tree and cut the stub off at this point. Authorities say usually split branches will not "grow back" even though they are tied in place. These should be removed at the body of the tree, and no stubs should be left. Splintered and rough edges should be smoothed off before wound paint is applied. White or orange shellac makes good wound paint. Or a mixture made by heating together eight parts (by weight) of resin and three parts of boiled linseed oil may be used. The paint should be applied to the

FSA Stresses Dangers of One Crop Farming

A plea that small farmers not abandon diversified farming in favor of the old, dangerous, one-crop system was voiced here this week by Arthur R. Turner, Ochiltree County Supervisor for the Farm Security Administration.

"Some farmers are being tempted by especially high prices for certain crops and livestock items to specialize in those products at the expense of their other farming enterprises," Mr. Turner pointed out. "Diversified farming, which means a well-rounded program of small farming enterprises, is the only safe way for little farmers to follow," the FSA Supervisor emphasized.

FSA since its inception has advocated diversification. It charges the one-crop system with responsibility for many of the ills of southern agriculture in depression and pre-depression years. FSA families, according to Mr. Turner, are shown the advantages of having many, rather than one, enterprise. Cows, bark ring and hardwood area. Less serious damage may include bent branches which do not return to their original position. These may be pulled back into place and held by wire to other branches. Or, horticulturists say, a portion may be pruned.

Shrubs such as arborvitae which have been disfigured by the weight of ice may be sheared. That is, two to six inches of outside growth may be removed from the entire surface. This usually is a February operation. —SACRIFICI BUY WAR BONDS— Let Co-Op serve you better. 9-11c poultry, hogs, feed, cash crops and vegetable gardens are part of every FSA family's inventory.

"The only way the small farmers, the family-type farmer who is the true backbone of our democracy, will survive and make a contribution to the nation's food needs is through diversification," the supervisor said. "Let the big industrialized farm do the specializing. By diversifying, the little farmer has protection should one or two of his crops fail in a certain year."

"I wonder how they're making out on my allotment?"

PRICES ARE BEING KEPT DOWN, SOLDIER —BECAUSE 15,000,000 AMERICANS HAVE MADE THIS PLEDGE

★ I pay no more than ceiling prices
★ I pay my points in full

We can say—"Don't worry soldier, living costs won't go up!"—if every one of us works to win a victory against inflation of food prices—if we promise to keep costs down by paying only ceiling prices—by paying for rationed foods only with our quota of legal points.

By breaking ration rules—we can deprive our soldier's families of the full purchasing power of their home allotments... If we follow our ration rules, there's enough in American abundance to keep all of us at home healthy and well-fed, yet supply our armed forces and our fighting allies. And we can still prevent artificial price rises.

So isn't it selfish to complain even a little—or to help the black market even once? Let's all ask ourselves honestly: "Have I been playing square?" Better still, observe ceiling prices and point quotas as posted at all food stores and your local rationing board. Keep the Home Front Pledge!

Who Are Deferred?

President Roosevelt took a back-handed slap at Selective Service Boards Saturday and demanded that single boys, who are now being deferred for farm work, be inducted in the army. The President stated that older men could do this work.

The President is again unjust in his criticism. Local boards are forced to work under iron-clad rules which are made by Selective Service in Washington. Every Board knows of plenty of farm boys who should be in the army, but they are safe under the rules which local boards must observe. Until the War Department changes its regulations few boards will be able to induct many of these boys.

Every board is confronted with the plea of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, but as a matter of fact there should be some stringent regulations regarding pre-Pearl Harbor farmers owing to the large number of men who have rushed to the farms and claim exemptions on that score.

Every Selective Service board is confronted with another absurd situation—absentee farmers, professional men who live in town, operating their farm with hired labor, while the owners never pretend to do any work on the farm. Most of these fellows are using their farms as play things, which they will drop like hot cakes when the going gets tough. Randall county is rapidly being taken over by absentee farmers, and this is not good for the future development of the county.

So far as older men being inducted to work on the farm, this is a joke which the President should realize. When men can make absurd wages working in war plants on jobs of which they know nothing and for which they have never been trained, you cannot induce them to return to the farms at prevailing wages and the long hours necessary on farms.—Canyon News.

Good, Clean Fun for Youngsters

One Saturday very recently my wife and I went to a dance. We didn't dance, we just visited. There must have been three hundred people there. The hall was beautifully decorated; the music was good. No rowdies were present, and there wasn't any liquor to be smelled. Only soft drinks were for sale on the premises.

Nobody left the dance to go to parked cars outside. The men folks acted as gentlemen always do. The lady folks were charming, young, and vivacious, in addition to being ladylike.

This dance was held at Amarillo High School Gymnasium and the people there were high school boys and girls.

Young folks will go somewhere to have a good time, as young folks always have and always will. It's squarely up to the good people of Amarillo to provide these places where our youngsters can go for recreation. If the good people don't do this, the bad people will.

We must have places that have drawing power for our young people. There are excellent places where they may go, now, but many of these places draw only a very small group. This matter is being studied now in Amarillo, by our school people and others, and we believe they're going to come up with something good. More power to them.—Amarillo Globe.

Methodists Pledge Rededication To Wartime Program of Service

At the altars of 42,000 Methodist churches during the Week of Dedication, February 27 to March 5, men, women and children will respond to calls from their bishops and pastors for rededication of "self, service and substance" to the wartime emergency program of the Church. Nearly eight million members will contribute to a sacrificial offering which will be used to continue and expand the denomination's ministry to members of the armed forces, dislocated families in war industry centers and refugees in war-torn areas. Foreign missionaries in 46 countries, the Pan-American Institute in Panama, and church extension activities at home and abroad also will receive support from the Week of Dedication offering.

Black Market Uses 2,500,000 Gallons of Gasoline Daily

Gasoline rationing as a means to an end has been abused by the car driver to the extent that it has become necessary to incorporate additional measures into the program of rationing of this essential commodity.

Because the public has not been compliant with the unprecedented need for gasoline in the execution of an all-out war on a world-wide scale, a national enforcement program had to be launched. Every person who holds a gasoline ration book is asked to endorse each coupon with the state and license number of the car for which the coupon was issued. OPA investigators, in a spot check throughout the country, will ask to see all coupons in the possession of the gasoline buyer who comes to the service station. Any person holding coupons not endorsed will be requested to visit his Local Board within ten days to show that all coupons have been endorsed. Failure to report to the Board will result in a hearing to revoke his ration.

This enforcement is necessary because of the almost unbelievable number of gallons of gasoline going daily into the black market—estimated to be 2 1/2 million gallons each day, or five per cent of the civilian supply. One-third of all the gasoline produced in this country is used for strictly military purposes. Another 14 per cent is used directly in the production of war materials, including food. Another 43 per cent is used for essential transportation services and for essential driving.

These heavy demands are making an acute drain on the known crude oil reserves. Gasoline production, however, has fallen off in the last two years because the cream of the crude oil, which contains many important components of automobile gasoline, must go into the making of "fighting fuels"—high-octane aviation gasoline, the toluene for TNT, and the butadiene for synthetic rubber.

On a single six-hour flight, 1000 four-motor Army bombers use 1,850,000 gallons of high-octane fuel—that is much more than the amount used daily in the entire United States for all civilian purposes.

Many Texans are inclined to feel that it isn't fair to ration gasoline "in the land of plenty"—but there is an actual shortage of gasoline throughout the country because of the urgent needs overseas and in war centers. It is no more fair for drivers in gasoline-producing areas to get more gasoline than it would be for people in shoe-producing areas to get more shoes.

To insure an even distribution of the gasoline available for civilian consumption—that is the purpose of the coupon endorsement campaign and enforcement program. Defeat of the Black Marketeers will result in 2 1/2 million gallons daily turned back to civilian consumption. Enough for instance, to increase "A" rations by 25 per cent or about 45 miles a month.

Army Air Base is Locale of Airfilm

Film goers will have the opportunity to "see" one of America's busiest military air bases in action, because most of the picture "Ladies Courageous," produced by Walter Wanger, was filmed there.

The film, playing this Thursday and Friday at the Ellis theatre, tells a thrilling and daring story of the WAFPS—Women's Auxiliary Ferrying Squadron—and of the twenty-five young American women flyers who originally formed this organization in 1942, so that Army pilots could be released for overseas combat duty.

Woven into an authentic story of the WAFPS are appealing and emotional threads from the lives of the individual girls in the service. Practically the entire picture centers at the Army Air port, from which huge transport planes roar forth over the Pacific to the combat zones.

"Ladies Courageous," human and heart-warming, is a film revealing the courageous and spectacular contributions of young women serving as ferrying pilots on the home front.

Christian Science

"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 26.
The Golden Text is: "The counsel of the Lord standeth for ever, the thoughts of his heart to all generations" (Psalms 33:11).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God" (I Corinthians 2:12).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals must look beyond fading, finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things. Where shall the gaze rest but in the unsearchable realm of Mind?" (page 264).

"Congregations in China have grown more rapidly during the war than at any other time," declares Protestant Episcopal Bishop Lloyd R. Craighill, of Shanghai, recently released from a Japanese prison camp. "The Chinese Christians are carrying on nobly. Confirmation classes and communion services are held regularly, and even in occupied territory, the Christian work goes on 'under cover.' . . . Missionaries have established goodwill among the Chinese, and they have done such good ground work that Christianity will carry on although most of the British and American missionaries have had to leave their people."

Some Children's Shoes Released From Rationing

Retailers may if they wish sell low-priced children's shoes in certain sizes ration-free during the period from May 1 through May 20.
Shoes to be released are children's shoes in sizes 8 1/2 through 12, and misses' and little boys' shoes in sizes 12 1/2 through 3, and may be sold for no more than $1.50.
It is pointed out that this is only a temporary measure and that dealers are not compelled to release these shoes, ration-free, but they may if they wish.
At the same time, the Rationing Executive announced that another ration stamp will become good for one pair of shoes May 1. No. 18 stamp in Book I will expire April 30, and airplane stamp No. 1 in Book III will continue to be good indefinitely.

Chaplin Building

NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION by W.W. REID

Chaplain Harry F. Coder, "on an island in the South Pacific and in constant touch with the enemy" is proud of the chapel his men have built in the jungle to seat 115. "We constructed it by building a framework over which we stretched two pyramidal tents," he writes. "Pews were constructed of logs. Our altar and pulpit are made of logs set into a long section. Our thirty-inch cross was made from two rough-hewn logs. Two large shell cases were polished to a brilliant finish to make altar vases. There are no flowers in the jungle, so we plan to use ferns that grow abundantly. We plan to sand the floor and plant young coconut palms and banana plants as a background for the altar. . . . If interest and painstaking labor and fervor of worship have any meaning, our little jungle chapel is surely worthy to be among those erected to the glory of God."

"Our chief worry—in addition to high prices and the food problem—is bubonic plague," writes John A. Pilley, Methodist missionary in Yankow, Fukien Province, China. "Because of the late and persistent rain, the 'flea season' is hanging on, making the spread of plague very easy. Many have died. We're lucky to be on the side of a hill above the town. The non-Christians tried to get rid of the plague devils by enticing them by the frantic beatings of gongs into expensive and elaborate paper boats, then sending the boats down river. . . . But we got the town doctors and health bureau together, and they are at last giving compulsory plague vaccine, and having the rats killed."

The Rev. Riccardo Santi, superintendent of Casa Materna—the famous orphanage and school of the Methodist Church near Naples, Italy—together with Mrs. Santi, their two younger sons, and the children of the orphanage are safe and well despite the recent bombing in that region. Word to that effect has reached America through a chaplain who recently visited Dr. Santi and the orphans. He adds that the buildings are damaged but not beyond repair; that none of the children were injured in the bombing of Naples; and that they are now taking refuge in a "nearby town" with Mrs. Santi.

An American soldier, who wanted his family to know that he was located in the Mesopotamia valley, but knew the censor would not permit such word to pass, gambled on the ignorance of that officer concerning Bible knowledge—and won. Perryton, Texas
March 20, 1944
Dear Editor:
I'd like to say a few words through your paper to the two men who drove past our house Sunday morning and upon being chased by my small son's pet dog, deliberately stopped their car and got out and walked back up the street and shot the pet twice.
Have you any children? Do you know what it is to have something and spend hours petting, training and playing with it? To have your pet wait for you to play each day; to sit up by your chair each meal-time waiting for his food? And, as a parent, to feel confident when the little dog is by your child's side that no harm will befall him?
Don't you realize that if you had stopped by and asked us to tie the dog up or get him out of town that we would gladly have done so rather than give him up so brutally and abruptly. You must feel good over such "splendid Sunday sport." Was that your good deed for the day? Couldn't you and your animal-hating friend have waited one more day? Maybe you'd like to tell us just what your motive was. I'm sure no one here knows.
It's hard for a three-year-old child to understand why he can't play with "Penny" any more; even worse when the parents have to listen to "please" all day for "Penny"—and now the year-old baby is calling him.
Just stop to think how you or your child might feel if someone killed yours or the child's most loved pet—if ever you felt such a sensation.
Mrs. John Thompson

BUT...
OIL-PLATING YOUR ENGINE is like outdoing the future—today

"A bird in the hand" is worth a whole flock of 1950 cars with wings—or even more moderate 1945 models that aren't here yet either. Better grasp the big advancement that's ready now. . . . Better have your engine OIL-PLATED!
Conoco Nth motor oil, for your needed Spring change, at once brings your engine internal OIL-PLATING—the foe of cursed engine acids. These unavoidable "leftovers" of combustion were a menace even when partly driven off by the steady heat of long trips. But rationing brought short jumps, with overcool operation that magnified acid attacks. It's high time now—in any car, under any conditions—to check rampant acids. And you'll succeed with Conoco Nth oil, containing an advanced synthetic. This acts "magnet-like" . . . makes metals attract and hold their acid-resistant shield of OIL-PLATING.
Though your engine's cool or hot—running or not—the OIL-PLATING doesn't all promptly drain down to the crankcase. And where there's OIL-PLATING, the acids that want to destroy are told to "Keep Off!" That's how Conoco Nth oil can advance your car's chance to keep going. Change for Spring today at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

MEANS MORE FIGHTING POWER HERE

One Kilowatt-hour Out of Every Two We Deliver Helps Back the Attack

REFLECTING the stepped-up production tempo of a nation geared for war, 52% of all the electricity distributed by this company goes to industries essential to the war effort and to military establishments.
Since June, 1940, when the national defense program got underway, our industrial power sales have more than doubled. Today, we are supplying almost as much electricity for wartime industrial and military use alone as we supplied for all purposes as recently as 1938.

And although this tremendous increase in the use of electricity for war purposes has been piled on top of record residential consumption, the demand has been met with a minimum use of vital war materials for additional facilities and despite a heavy loss of skilled employees to the armed services. There has been no loss of production by any industry on our lines due to shortage of electricity, and there has been no curtailment of essential electric service on the home front.

Our Defenders Speak!

The Herald asks that men and women from this community serving in the armed forces write letters to this department for publication. Letters to relatives that would be of interest to the public will be published under this heading.

Dear Van:
Wednesday night, March 15, 1944

I've been intending to write but I never quite have the time or else I just haven't the energy, maybe.

I'm leading a life of leisure and when I say leisure—I mean leisure. I have to report every day to the flying line. One day it's in the morning and the next in the afternoon. All I do is go look on the assignment sheet and see if I'm scheduled for flying. If I'm not, I leave and don't have to be back till bed check at 11:00 each night. I've been back here 23 days now and I've only been scheduled seven times. We do have to get in three hours of P. T. a week but that can be done anytime.

I've had quite an exciting time of it though. First, I had my first forced landing in an airplane, and then in a couple of days I got married but I'll tell you in the order of occurrence. First, my forced landing. I was up on a routine transition flight on March 1 (Wednesday, two weeks ago) and feeling like a little excitement would do me good I proceeded to do a few simple acrobatics in my P40 Warhawk. I did a loop and a couple of Immelman's to warm up and then I did a slow roll and a barrel roll. I started to do another Immelman then, and just as I started to roll out of it everything went black. I didn't know what happened at first but then I saw that my windshield was covered with oil! I looked down at my wings and both wings were now black instead of army gray! Then I knew that my oil line had broken. I looked down at my oil pressure gauge and it read 0 so I turned off all my switches in order to save the engine. They don't last long without any oil. My first impulse was to bail out but I had 14,000 ft. altitude so I decided to see just what was the matter and see just where I was.

Well, when I located myself I found I was over Port Lavaca which is about 30 miles from Foster Field. I knew if I bailed out it would be best to do so at the home field or as close as possible and also if I made a forced landing the same would be true. I reduced my gliding speed to 110 m. p. h. in order to obtain the greatest gliding distance possible. I also pulled my prop control back as far as it would go in order to streamline the prop as much as possible and thus cut down drag. I also closed my cowl flaps for the same reason. I started calling Foster tower, and could get no answer. My radio was dead so I was on my own. I had to make my own decision as to what to do. I knew that bailing out was the safest thing to do but then I thought of the loss of the airplane and changed my mind. I would stick it out and save my plane. As I approached Foster Field I had to fly on instruments and continue letting down as the field was overcast at about 6,000 ft. with a 1,000 ft. cloud layer. I was very glad then of all my time spent under the hood. It had proven good life insurance.

I was down to about 4,500 ft. when I was about five miles or more from the field. I thought I was going to make the field. I had no radio to clear the runway so I knew I would just have to take my chances against a mid-air collision.

At 3,000 ft. I let my landing gear down, and picked a field to land if I didn't reach the runway. My landing gear increased the drag so much that at 2,000 feet I saw I wouldn't make it and that I would have to land elsewhere. I headed for the field I had picked and pulled the flap handle to lower my flaps—nothing happened. I was too low to use my auxiliary hand pump. I didn't have time I was now at about 500 ft. and coming down.

I set it down in a pasture at about 95 m. p. h. I made the smoothest landing I've ever made in a P40. I had to keep going straight ahead and didn't dare use my brakes as the ground was very soft and I could have nosed up very easily. I saw a fence run in front of me. I looked for a post that was down but I found the fence was in good repair so I had to run right through it. When I did, a left post caught the very tip of my left aileron and tore a little fabric off. I continued straight ahead and there came another fence. This time I saw a post that was down so I guided my plane for it. This time I made it through the hole in the fence and there wasn't a scratch on the plane from this one.

The plane rolled to a stop just on the outside and I got out. I was never so glad to put my feet on the ground before in my life. All I had to do then was wait for the jeep to pick me up. I had landed in a pasture about a mile from the field and I must have been reported immediately for it was only about 5 minutes before the crash truck, two jeeps and an ambulance was on the spot.

We got a report the next morning from the engineering office and what happened was this—the oil line had broken yes, but also the oil coolant line and as a result the engine had been without liquid coolant all during my glide and had been completely burnt up. It's on the scrap heap now. They put a new engine in the plane and fixed the left aileron and it's as good as new.

I feel pretty proud of myself for my landing and I think God was riding in my cockpit with me when I landed. I couldn't have done it by myself. I should have bailed out but I didn't and as a result of my foolishness I saved the government about $30,000 even if the engine did have to be replaced.

I'm enclosing a story of my wedding which was in the Victoria Advocate, also the facts as written by my wife.

Well, I guess you now have my history as an officer so I'll sign off. As ever,
Lefty

Dear Sis and family:

It has been some time since I have been able to write but now it seems that time is all I have or will have for a few days yet anyway.

I presume that you know that I recently made a social call on a few Japs out here in the Pacific. We had a fairly nice time until I was greeted with a mortar shell that shook me up a little and my left shoulder was penetrated slightly with fragments. Nothing serious, in fact I have been up running around almost ever since it happened and I expect to be back to duty soon now.

It's been some time now since I have received any mail but will get a big pile of it any time now, so when it gets here I will attempt to write a little more. In the meantime I am enjoying wonderful quarters and food and actually plan to enjoy my stay here to the fullest extent.

Sugar Rationing Change Announced

Changes in the details of the sugar rationing program were announced this week.

Sugar Stamp No. 30 in Book IV, previously announced to expire March 31, and Stamp 31, which becomes valid April 1, will be good indefinitely. Removal of the expiration on two sugar stamps will permit consumers to buy sugar as it is needed, and should relieve the heavy demand on retailers, customary at the end of each ration period.

Stamp No. 40 in Book IV has been validated for five pounds of sugar for home canning purposes until February 28, 1945. For any sugar over and above this amount, application must be made to the local board. A new and simple form, which the ration board will mail upon request, is to be used. More than one application may be made during the year for home canning sugar, but the total allowance cannot exceed 20 pounds per person. Consumers should apply for sugar only as it is needed.

When sending an application for sugar for home canning to the local board, spare stamp No. 37 from Book IV should be attached to the application form for each person applying for sugar. The OPA has asked applicants not to send their ration books. If the ration board approves the request, it will mail coupons or certificates for sugar and keep the application on file at the ration board. If more sugar is needed later, a second application may be made, but it must be made to the board where the first application is on file.

As yet, I haven't met any fellow whom I knew at home but, I'm still hoping I'd like to hear from some of the fellows and anyone else who can find time to drop me a line. I'll do my best to answer. Let me hear from you, and thanks a lot for the paper.
