Financial Aid Being Sought In Program

Advice For President To Be Offered; Shouted Protests Heard In Session Today

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Delegates of "little business" adopted today over many shouted protests a program of advice to the Roosevelt administration which included a recommendation that the government supply financial aid by stimulating private credit.

Without formal debate, a standing vote was taken by Chairman Fred Roth of Cleveland, despite insistence by some of the small businessmen from the floor that minority reports be heard and the insistence by others that any contradictions between the various recommendations should be composed.

One Man Tossed Out

During the temporary tumult, A. S. Shafer, Philadelphia, was tossed out of the conference for the second time.

Shafer was ejected from yesterday's meeting by commerce department guards. Today a group of businessmen themselves did the job. Departmental officers said they had told Shafer that he ought to be quiet.

He was insisting on the right to speak when angry members of the conference dragged and pushed him through the door. His trousers were almost torn off.

Unusual Calm Falls

An unusual calm smoothed the disorderly confusion immediately after adjournment. Businessmen who had been talking and shouting a moment before sat back in their chairs to pose for photographers.

Two men ejected a few moments earlier had wanted to address the conference before it closed.

Robert Kempfer, who termed himself the forgotten man of New York, was thrown out by a squad of plainclothes policemen, after he became involved in an argument over demands that he be heard.

Meeting Is In Chaos

The uproar attendant on the two ejections threw the whole meeting into a noisy chaos with most of the 1,000 present jamming the aisles, standing on chairs, and yelling for order. Cries of "throw him out" were directed at both

Dirigibles For U. S. Navy To Be Proposed

Fund Of $6,000,000 To Build Two New Airships Will Be Asked In House Bill

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—A proposal to revive dirigible construction as a part of the national defense program developed today in the house naval committee.

Rep. O'Connell (D-RI) said he would offer an amendment to the $800,000,000 naval expansion bill to set aside at least $6,000,000 to build two lighter-than-air cruisers.

Be Built In America

He said he would stipulate that the ships be built in this country by American engineers and would advocate that they be of a different type of design than the skeleton hull used in the ill-fated Akron and Macon, whose destruction halted experiments with dirigibles in this country.

While the naval committee went ahead with hearings on the bill to authorize construction of 47 new warships and 22 auxiliaries, Chairman May (D-Ky) of the house military committee said he would proceed with another legislative phase of President Roosevelt's national defense program—a measure to take the profits out of war.

To Ask Precedence

The Kentuckian said he would ask the house rules committee Monday to give the bill precedence so that it could be voted on before Feb. 15.

Admiral William D. Leahy testified yesterday before the house naval committee that, ship for ship, the American navy is equal to any in the world.

The proposed expansion, he said, was predicated solely on the idea it would be well to maintain the old 5-5-3 ratio of naval armaments established for Great Britain, the United States and Japan in treaties that now have expired.

Every Cent You've Earned Is Recorded By Security Board

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two stories taking you to the scene of the vast bookkeeping job in which the government is keeping wage records on 37,000,000 social security clients.

BY WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—If you are one of the 37,000,000 people who pays for and eventually hopes to receive social security benefits, you may have moments when you have wondered whether they were really keeping all those records straight, so you could "retire" at 65.

You may have wondered if they are really keeping a record of all your wage payments, and if they are, whether they can ever find it among all those 37,000,000.

I wondered, too. So I went to find out.

Figures All Correct

Well, I'm convinced. When I saw my own index record pulled out of 37,000,000 others just like it in exactly 35 seconds, my eyes popped out. Three minutes afterward, when an elevator had carried me to another floor of the building the ledger record of the wages paid me last year were in my hand. It was correct, too.

So I think the 37,000,000 people who have been given Social Security numbers may feel that the government knows what it is doing. When you become eligible for the old-age insurance benefits, the record on which they will be based should be complete and accessible.

Take A Little Trip

No bookkeeping and filing job in the history of the world ever approached this one. The records of 5,000,000 World war veterans kept by the Veterans' Bureau is child's play; even the largest life insurance companies never tackled such a task.

Without the most up-to-date machinery, much of it specially designed for the purpose, it would have been quite impossible even today to keep a running record of the wages paid to 37,000,000 people over a period of years.

But it is being done today. Perhaps you'd like to go with me into Aisle after aisle of indexes like this, covering almost an acre of floor space, keep straight the records of 37,000,000 federal social security clients. These clerks, keeping the index up to date, are among the 4000 employes of the old age insurance division.

Speedy Action On Farm Bill Is Predicted

Compromise Plan Is Completed Last Night; Control Of Five Crops Is Being Provided

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Administration leaders predicted today congress would enact the compromise farm bill next week.

The measure, designed to stabilize agriculture along lines of the ever-normal granary advocated by Secretary Wallace, was completed last night by a dozen senators and representatives, assigned the task five weeks ago of combining separate farm bills.

Control Is Provided

The legislation provides for control of wheat, corn, cotton, rice and tobacco.

The bill will have priority when it is submitted to the senate and house.

Just before the conferees reached their agreement, they approved a provision which Senator Smith (D-SC) said would hasten payment of part of the $130,000,000 bonus voted by congress on the 1937 cotton crop for growers who complied with the 1938 program.

To Turn Over Cotton

Smith said cotton growers could turn over some 5,000,000 bales of cotton on which the government has made loans and collect 2 cents a pound, or about $10 a bale, of the 1937 bonus.

The government, he said, must hold this cotton off the market unless prices climb before July 31, 1939, when it can be released gradually over a three-year period.

Otherwise, conferees said, they left unchanged provisions previously accepted for the five major crops.

Divided Among States

The secretary of agriculture would estimate production of any of the

Giant Naval Bombers Fall In Ocean After Crash In Mid-Air

(By The Associated Press)

SAN PEDRO, Feb. 3—The death toll of a mid-air collision of two giant bombers—worst plane disaster in American naval history—rose to eleven today as search by sea and air was made for the missing bodies of ten airmen.

Rescued from the water after the bomber 11-P-4 fell in a splintering impact last night, J. H. Hester, radioman first class of San Diego, died aboard the hospital ship Relief at San Clemente island early this morning.

Three of his companions were safe, seriously injured but expected to recover.

Three more of the 11-P-4's crew and the seven men in its sister bomber, the 11-P-3, were hunted by the United States fleet, as navy sources here admitted unofficially there was no hope they had survived.

The bombers, scouting for a theoretical enemy, collided during a sudden rain squall, within view of maneuvering surface ships.

Falls In Flames

The 11-P-3 fell in flames. The 11-P-4 smashed into a hundred pieces on the choppy sea.

Searchlights suddenly illuminated the scene and warship launches put out to rescue the men, while the entire war game of the fleet came to a halt.

The disaster overtook the bombers, attached to squadron VP-11 of the North Island naval air base at San Diego, just 26 days after a sister plane, of the VP-7 squadron, vanished off the California coast with seven men.

The full strength of the fleet was deployed for swift tactical tests 70 miles at sea, directly south of San Clemente island, when the collision occurred.

The survivors were rushed to the hospital ship Relief, lying in Pyramid cove at the island.

Rigid Silence Lifted

As the concerted rescue attempt began, Admiral Claude C. Bloch lifted a rigid wartime "radio silence" to relay news of the tragedy to the navy department at Washington and to the press.

Cause of the crash, beyond bad weather, was not announced immediately, but naval officers ashore said the bombers, flying near each other, may have been crushed together by a sudden downdraft.

They were cruising at about 140 miles an hour, close above four battleships and 20 destroyers.

Only yesterday morning, they had taken off from San Diego to join the fleet, which sailed out of Los Angeles harbor Tuesday after a record concentration of ships there. Each was a twin-engined seaplane type.

The Missing Airmen

The ten missing airmen, listed by the navy simply as "unaccounted for," were:

Warnings For Foreigners In China Given

Japan's Armed Forces Mark Out Huge Area And Request All Foreigners To Leave

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 3—Japan's armed forces marked out a huge area of east central China as a new war zone today and asked Americans and other foreigners there to leave.

The Japanese embassy spokesman announced the decision under which it was indicated many points would be subjected to bombardment in Nippon's drive to crush Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese armies.

Issued At Peiping

The request was issued, he said, by the Japanese embassy at Peiping, the "new capital" where Japan has installed its provisional North China government.

American and other foreign embassies there received a note that, in view of the spread of warfare, neutral foreigners in the zone should evacuate and mark their properties so Japanese airmen would not bomb them.

Maps Are Recommended

It was recommended that Japanese authorities be given maps showing the location of such properties—most of which are missions—and that the Japanese be notified of the nature of protective markings.

Roughly, the area specified in the warning extends from the winding Yangtze river on the south to a line running from the southern coast of Shantung province to Taiyuan, Shansi province capital, on the north.

The zone encompasses about 376,000 square miles, including about 20 towns in which American missions are located and 32 which are the sites of other foreign missions.

Drouth Reigns In Dust Bowl

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Weather bureau reports of continued drouth conditions and dust storms in the southwestern plains and the resulting damage to the winter wheat crop received the attention today of Secretary Wallace and other agriculture department officials.

The moisture deficiency was described as "acute" in the so-called "dust bowl," a region centering in western Kansas, southwestern Oklahoma, southeastern Colorado, northeastern New Mexico, the Texas Panhandle and western Nebraska.

No Shortage Seen

Wheat experts saw no reason yet to anticipate a shortage of wheat. They said as long as the drouth condition was confined to the present area, the 1938 crop together with an anticipated surplus of 200,000,000 bushels from last year's harvest should be more than sufficient to meet all requirements.

Agricultural Adjustment administration officials said they did not expect the drouth to reduce the winter wheat yield below 600,000,000 bushels, compared with 685,000,000 bushels last year.

NOVELIST IS DEAD

MADRID, Feb. 3. (AP)—Armando Palacio Valdes, 84, ranked among Spain's greatest novelists, died yesterday.

Longer Waists With Shorter Skirts Feature New Styles

PARIS, Feb. 3 (AP)—Longer waists and shorter skirts are the striking changes greeting newly arrived stylists and buyers viewing the latest collections in foremost Paris houses.

The new feather hats take the form of white hens or black ducks with red beaks and tails in the air. Patou's new collection stresses the Moyen age in form-hugging bodices extending below the hips to meet short, pleated skirts just covering the knees.

Many two-piece dresses and suits also follow this design. There is a pronounced masculine note in strictly tailored three quarter jackets for day wear and a similar styling for evening coats.

Japan Is Greatly Concerned Over U. S. Navy Program

TOKYO, Feb. 3 (AP)—A Japanese United States' proposed $800,000,000 forth Japan's concern over the United States' $800,000,000 naval expansion.

"The United States naval building program," the spokesman said, "must be taken into serious consideration.

"America and Britain presently are the greatest navies in the world, but no country menaces them."

Blast Blamed On Gas Leak

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — The bureau of mines today officially blamed the New London, Tex., school explosion last March 18 that claimed 297 lives on a gas leak.

The bureau concluded after lengthy investigation, officials said, that the explosion resulted when a large volume of natural gas and air mixture which had accumulated "in an inadequately ventilated space under the building" was ignited by an arc or spark from an electric switch.

Heating Units Not Blamed

"The heating units in the school did not contribute to the ignition," the report said.

The report added it was quite possible that leakage had developed from a broken service connection in the north portion of the space which was filled with gas.

"The dangerous gas accumulation was not caused by seepage from the ground or from surrounding wells or lines," the report stated, and added the gas had accumulated from a leak, possibly through a broken service connection, in a gas line in the building.

The mines report covered 29 typewritten pages and was prepared by a board consisting of D. J. Parker, G. W. Jones, H. B. Hill and Gustav Wade.

Methodists Of Nation Happy

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Chicago became the capital of Methodism today when bishops and laymen, ministers and executives assembled amid jubilation over the forthcoming union of the church's thrice divided house.

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of Chicago said "the whole range of religion's stake in modern civilization" would be discussed during the three day meeting of the United Methodist council on the future of faith and service.

Represents Millions

The council represented 8,000,000 communicants and 12,000,000 additional adherents of the Methodist Episcopal church, Methodist Episcopal church south and the Methodist Protestant church, divided more than 100 years ago but which have voted to reunite.

Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre, one of many prominent laymen scheduled as speakers, said in an address prepared for delivery today "the age in which we live constitutes a terrible challenge to Christianity."

The council meeting also launched world wide celebration of the 200th anniversary of the conversion of John Wesley, founder of Methodism, in London on May 24, 1738.

Mail Theft Trials Likely Are To Be Conducted In Lubbock

DALLAS, Feb. 3. (AP)—Sidney A. Miller and his wife Helen were in jail today awaiting arraignment on charges in connection with the theft of $28,500 and a mail pouch near O'Donnell, Lynn county, recently.

Federal authorities have questioned them since their arrival yesterday from Atlanta, where they were taken in custody 10 minutes before boarding a plane for Dallas.

If indictments are returned, the trials on the mail theft charges probably will be held in Lubbock.

Seven Men Are Missing After Winter Storm In California

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3. (AP)—Seven men were missing today, possibly frozen to death, as a prolonged midwinter storm brought additional snow and rain and threats of flood to northern and central California.

The missing men were being sought by two rescue parties in the snow-piled Butte valley wilderness.

American-French Ambulance Train Bombed In Spain

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 3 (AP)—An American-French train of ambulances and food trucks was bombed today by insurgent planes in Spain with a loss of three lives, Spanish government border authorities reported.

Twelve persons were reported seriously injured in the attack at Figueras, 15 miles below the French border.

Skeptical Willis Thornton doubted they could ever fish his social security record out of the 37,000,000. He was quickly convinced. Here he is, pointing to his index record, which it took a clerk just 35 seconds to find. Incidentally, Reporter Thornton counted 17 other Willis Thorntons in the file right next to his own, from which his record was readily selected by birth date and other data.

Board Of Arbitration Looming As Possibility In Fight For Opening Of Texas Avenue

A board of arbitration loomed this morning as the final possibility of keeping the fight to open the southern end of Texas avenue out of the courts. That prospect seemed remote.

Durwood H. Bradley, city attorney, disclosed that he is completing preparations to file condemnation proceedings in an effort to open the thoroughfare if other means of accomplishing that end should fail.

Smith Owns Property

The proceedings, if filed, will be against George E. Smith, implement dealer who is the owner of the strip of property which has blocked the opening of Texas from its present dead end at Twenty-sixth street to a juncture with Avenue H at Thirtieth, the city attorney said. Avenue H is the designated north and south highway through the city.

Decision to rest the case with an unofficial board of arbitration or the necessity of condemnation proceedings will bring to a final climax several months of negotiation to open Texas, which would provide another through artery across Lubbock and would open an important residential section.

Cash Is Offered

Officials disclosed that Bradley, proceeding in accordance with specific instructions from the city council, had offered Smith $200 for a right-of-way across his property.

That was done, it was explained, because it was necessary that the city make a counter-offer to a proposition from Smith so that the city, if its offer was rejected, could proceed with condemnation.

Smith, according to a typewritten proposition submitted to the coun-

Papa Almost Explodes As Betty Comes Home With Eight Teeth Gone; "Horrible Mistake"

ASHWAY, R. I., Feb. 3 (AP)—Seven-year-old Betty Champlin was eating soft foods today after her eight extracted teeth excited her father, mother, several school executives and a school dentist.

It all started when Betty came home and pointed to her almost toothless mouth, explaining the dentist pulled eight.

"Of all things!" her father exploded.

Champlin telephoned the school executives and the dentist. All agreed it was a "horrible mistake."

Investigation disclosed there was another Champlin girl in Betty's class. Her father's name is George. Betty's father's name also is George. When the dentist sent for George Champlin's daughter it was Betty who went.

The explanations, along with apologies, mollified Papa Champlin.

"We all make mistakes," he said. "The teeth are gone. They were only the first teeth anyway. There'll be more coming."

20,000 JAPS KILLED

TOKYO, Feb. 3. (AP)—General Gen Sugiyama, minister of war, told a parliamentary committee today about 20,000 Japanese soldiers had been killed in the seven-months-old Chinese-Japanese war.

Stock Market Shares Slump

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. — Leading industrial shares fell $1 to $5 or more on the stock exchange today in wake of a further active selling movement in shares of American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Telephone, one of the most widely held share issues, was pushed down more than $7 in morning trading, to the lowest level in more than two years. The break climaxed a steady flow of selling in the stock for a week or more.

Gossip Is Heard

Wall street boardroom gossip attributed pressure on the communications issue partly to rumors regarding the federal communication commission's forthcoming report on the company, based on its two-year investigation of the Bell telephone system. However, sources close to the company indicated the officials were not looking for an adverse report, and added there was nothing inside the company to explain the stock's weakness.

Toward noon losses ranged from $2 to around $5.75 in Eastman Kodak, Bethlehem Steel, Allis-Chalmers, Westinghouse Electric, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, U. S. Steel, General Electric and Sears-Roebuck.

Man Marooned In River Since Midnight Is Saved Today

LOWELL, Mass., Feb. 3 (AP)—Coast guardsmen in a breeches buoy today brought to shore a man marooned since midnight on a jagged rock in the Merrimack river basin below Pawtucket falls.

He was identified as Edward Giblin, 33, of Lowell. His father, John J. Giblin, director of the Lowell high school band and prominent in musical circles, said Edward had gone for a walk last evening.

So serious was Giblin's condition, he was unable to tell hospital authorities how he fell into the water.

Mothers! Penetro Helps To Ease Baby's Cold

Penetro is fine to help relieve baby's chest colds—It has an entire base of mutton suet—and 113% to 227% more medication—than any other nationally sold salve for colds. You do not have to use or rub so much with Penetro.

Penetro melts swiftly as you rub it in—quickly it creates that warm counter-irritant action—bringing more blood to the congested area. How soothing the pleasing vapors are to the irritated membranes. No wonder Penetro is the favorite of millions in 37 Nations.

Penetro relieves local congestion—eases tightness of chest muscles—relieves night coughing and loosens phlegm due to colds.

Stainless Penetro is guaranteed. Money back if not satisfied. 35c jar contains twice as much as the 25c size. There's even greater economy in larger sizes. Sold by dealers everywhere. Demand and get Penetro. Take nothing else.

Racket Chiefs Are Captured

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3. (AP)—Detectives, following the trail of a red-haired showgirl, captured in a smashing raid today two men described as heirs to the $100,000,000 lottery racket of New York's Dutch Schultz.

Led by Charles P. Grimes, assistant to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, a squad broke down the door in an apartment occupied by Hope Dare and arrested J. Richard (Dixie) Davis and George Weinberg. Davis was attorney for Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer who was shot down in a Newark restaurant two years ago.

Bail Is Set

The men were held in $300,000 bail each after Grimes described them as "the two highest remaining members of the Dutch Schultz mob who carried on Schultz' activities after his death."

"Davis has already testified," Grimes said, "they have been doing $100,000,000 a year." He asked Magistrate Nathan Beifel to fix bail at $500,000.

The girl, described as Davis' "sweetheart," was released in $2,500 bail on a charge of being a suspicious person.

Churchill Will Be Sent To Harlingen

Capt. John G. Churchill, officer in charge of the Salvation Army here the last four years, will be transferred to Harlingen, according to announcement late Wednesday.

Major William George Gilks of Dallas, division commander, notified Capt. Churchill of the switch, which will be effected Feb. 23. He will take command of the posts at Harlingen and McAllen, with "prospects of others," he said.

Came Here Feb. 2, 1934.

Capt. Churchill will hold farewell services here Sunday Feb. 20. He came to Lubbock Feb. 2, 1934, and has served two terms of two years here. It is customary for officers to transfer after one or two terms, he explained.

Through efforts of Capt. Churchill a new $5,200 citadel was constructed last summer by the Lubbock post at 1112 Seventeenth street. The building was dedicated Nov. 26.

MONTGOMERY WARD

Relief Rolls Are Boosted

AUSTIN, Feb. 3. (AP)—Unemployed veterans actively seeking jobs in Texas increased 1,581 between Dec. 31, 1937, and Jan. 22, the U. S. employment service reported today.

Officials attributed the increase to the possibility many who received temporary work over the holiday period were unemployed and others registered for the first time to qualify for unemployment compensation benefits.

9,246 Are Registered

On Jan. 22, last date for which files are complete, 9,246 former soldiers had registered with the Texas state employment service compared with 7,665 on Dec. 31, 1937. Last year, 6,322 new applications were received and 16,124 jobs obtained, including temporary placements of which one applicant may have filled several. A temporary placement is one that lasts no more than 30 days.

In 1937, 9,256 placements were made in private industry and 6,868 in public works projects.

T. L. Ward, veterans' placement representative for Texas, reported active applicants Jan. 22 in some of the 112 employment offices as follows:

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Three Charges Filed After Youth Tells Of Burglaries

DICKENS, Feb. 3 (Special)—Three charges were filed here Wednesday against Raymond Fitzpatrick, 19, after he had confessed the burglary of two Spur stores and the theft of an automobile, according to County Judge Marshall Formby.

Bond of $750 in each case was set by Justice of Peace G. B. Jopling.

Fitzpatrick signed a confession before Sheriff J. L. Koonsman and County Attorney L. D. Ratliff, jr.

Approximately $100 in merchandise was taken from Fair dry goods store Jan. 29 and $30 in money from Speer's Variety store Jan. 14. An automobile owned by Charlie Lambert, Jayton ginner, had been stolen Jan. 29. It later was found abandoned and returned to the owner.

Fitzpatrick remained in jail here late today in lieu of bond. He had been arrested Monday. City and county officials worked together to solve the case, said Judge Formby.

Local officers were aided in their investigation by Chief of Police Don Reeder of Lubbock, who made a number of finger prints.

It has been found that about 88 per cent of a toad's food consists of insect pests, and in a period of 3 months, about 10,000 injurious insects will be destroyed by each toad.

Does Bladder Irregularity WAKE YOU UP?

It's not normal. It's nature's danger signal. Do 2 things. 1. Alkalize excess kidney acids. 2 Gently flush waste from kidneys. This helps nature relieve the irritation that wakes you up. Get 25c worth of Juniper oil, buchu leaves, etc., made into green tablets. Just say Bukets, the kidney evacuant, to any druggist and get a good night's sleep. Locally at Bowen's Drug. —Adv.

Leo Carrillo Is Really Serious In His Political Plans; He Talks Of Slogans

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3 (AP)—Leo Carrillo is so serious about this governorship business that he's talking in campaign slogans and stump phrases while waiting for the voice of the poo-pul to gather strength. . . . Says Leo: "The script of state government needs rewriting, the cast needs changing . . . and the direction . . . We must balance the human budget . . . The politicians may say I do not know politics—but I have made my career by knowing people, what would make them laugh and cry, what they think about, what they need. . . . Why should I care about politics? . . . We must preserve California's first and almost forgotten asset; her romance and tradition. . . ."

Leo would be "so honored" by a nomination that he would cheerfully give up the money he makes in pictures, which is as much in two weeks as he would get in a year as governor—$10,000 . . . But he'd have to be coaxed. . . .

In 1887, a few skylarks imported from England made an effort to establish themselves on Long Island, in what now is the city of Brooklyn. One nest containing young was found there, and another was found almost 10 years later.

In the early 19th century, the decks of Britain's East India merchantmen featured small vegetable gardens in boxes. Daily increasing temperatures caused the seed to shoot up surprisingly fast, making the crop turnover more rapid than in any place on land.

Phares Speaks At Gathering

"Common horse sense" on the part of the motorist was recommended by L. G. Phares, chief of the state highway patrol, as the best method of reducing the huge traffic accident toll as he addressed a safety mass meeting in Senior High school auditorium here Wednesday night.

The event, first of its kind to be held in Lubbock, was sponsored by Lubbock Safety council.

Plenty Of Officers Needed

"There is a need for plenty of officers to enforce any traffic ordinance," Chief Phares pointed out. He cited the lack of sufficient enforcement officers in Lubbock.

"Citizens need to be educated in the necessity for obeying laws in the interest of public safety, and to educate the public it is necessary to advertise, much as it is necessary for commodities to be advertised if they are to be sold," he said.

To Make Suggestions

Chief Phares is working with a traffic survey committee, and will make suggestions to the committee during his visit in Lubbock. He addressed school children at Senior High school Wednesday afternoon.

Fred Wemple of Midland, member of the state traffic safety committee, stressed the fact that cooperation of the public with law enforcement officers is necessary for welfare of the former. There is a need for unified demand for enforcement, he said.

Wemple commended Lubbock for its endeavor to promote safety measures in the present campaign. A meeting similar to that of Wednesday night will be held in Midland in March, Wemple said.

An explanation of the newly instituted traffic ordinances was given by Durwood Bradley, city attorney. He especially stressed those relating to children. The council plans to print abridged copies of the ordinance to distribute to motorists, Bradley said.

O. B. Conley, president of the Lubbock Safety council, discussed the recent agreement reached between taxicab and bus companies and the council. He introduced members of the council.

Capt. W. W. Legge of the state highway patrol introduced patrolmen of the Lubbock district office.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college, presided at the meeting.

Tigers And Yanks Digging In The Sticks For Rookie Gold

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP)—Manager Mickey Cochrane said today his Detroit Tigers and the New York Yankees had corralled the best rookies coming up into the American league this year.

A close pennant fight may be decided, he predicted, by the way the new men turn out.

Good Pitchers For Yanks

"New York got two or three promising pitchers from Newark," Cochrane declared, "and also this boy Flash Gordon, who is slated to take Tony Lazzeri's place at second base. The Yanks also are counting heavily on Tom Henrich, the outfielder who was one of the best rookie finds in 1937.

"We're digging for rookie gold, too, and have several fine prospects."

Cochrane, his wife, and their two children, Gordon Stanley, jr., and Joan, came from Detroit and plan to stay until the Tigers break their training camp about April 10.

The erstwhile catcher lists two pitchers with previous major league experience among Detroit's "A-1 prospects."

"They are Al Benton, who used to be with the Athletics, and Harry Eisenstat, former Brooklyn Dodger," he said.

Cochrane, who broke up his infield that won the World series in 1935 when he sent Marvin Owen to Chicago along with Gerald Walker in a trade for Pitcher Vernon Kennedy and Outfielder Dixie Walker, has high hopes a 21-year-old youngster, Mark Christman of Beaumont, will fill the third bast gap.

"Christman has the highest recommendations of the Tiger scouts, and his record is very impressive," the manager said. "He hit well and ran the catchers of the Texas league ragged stealing bases. Why, he had a record of 47 stolen bases in 50 tries.

"If he can make good, it looks as if the infield will be set with Hank Greenberg at first, Charley Gehringer on second and Bill Rogell at short."

Max Baer Gets His Face Shoved Around; But Wrestler Too Busy Watching Him And Buck Weaver Steps In For Win

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 3 (AP)—Max Baer got his face shoved around last night as he refereed a wrestle royal but the guy who did the shoving around was so busy watching Max his opponent pinned him.

During the earlier part of the modern mayhem match, one of the nine battlers royal, Danny Savich, Salt Lake City, grabbed the former heavyweight champion of the world by the hair, tripped him and pulled him across the ring.

Max countered with a right cross to the jaw, the heel of his hand catching Savich.

Then the rasslers went back to battling each other.

After preliminary eliminations, Savich returned to the ring to tackle Buck Weaver in the finals. During the tussle, Savich stuck his foot in Max's face, skinning the bridge of his nose.

The shove also left Maxie flat on his back. Savich pounced. But Maxie met him with a sharp kick.

Weaver stood by, waited for Savich to fall, climbed aboard and was declared the winner.

Cardinals To Try Out Rookie Crop

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Looks like old home week for Columbus on the Cardinals' new roster . . . The gas house gang is trying out four pitchers, three infielders and outfielder "Socko" Slaughter from the American association champs this spring . . . Seems like the state boxing commission can't see art for art's sake . . . Putting thumbs down on those pictures of Tony Galento wrapping himself around a schooner of suds . . . Oklahoma's kid basketball team has averaged better than 50 points per start this season . . . Oakmont Country club is getting its face lifted for this year's National Amateur . . . Nap Lajoie is spending most of his time shooting golf just south of Palm Beach . . . When he's not deep sea fishing . . . Lots of basketball coaches fearing their hair about the zone defense this year . . . Getting as bad as the row over five-man football defense . . . Notre Dame's George Keoghan says he'd rather not schedule teams using it . . . Frankie Parker may decide not to defend the national indoor tennis title this year.

Bill Brandt's new National league green book tells you Dizzy Dean has the percentage edge over every club in the National league, Carl Hubbell is in the red only against Brooklyn, and Van Mungo is on the short end against the Boston Bees and Giants in their big league careers.

McCluskey Is Out To Win

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—Veteran Joe McCluskey of the New York A. C. issued a warning today to Don Lash, Indiana iron man, and other "running fools" who try to pack too much competition into the annual indoor track campaign.

McCluskey, who will face Lash and three other national champions in the two-mile race of the Millrose games at Madison Square Garden Saturday night, has been campaigning for nine years, and just now is running the fastest races of his career. Lash, Joe believes, already is slowing up, although he hasn't been around half as long.

"Don's trying to do too much," McCluskey said. "Saturday night, besides running the two-mile, he'll be in the mile against Glenn Cunningham, Archie San Romani and Gene Venzke. He did the same thing in Boston last week end, when he beat me in the two-mile in 9:04.6 and ran last in the mile.

"Coming on top of the appendicitis operation he had last year, that sort of program is hurting him. Sure, that Boston two-mile was fast, the second fastest ever run there. But if Don were running as well as last year, I believe he could have bettered that by two or three seconds."

Joe's own running policy is to do it for fun, and that's what he'll be out for Saturday night.

Basketball Ace Is Ruled Out

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—Revelation that Louis Boudreau, University of Illinois basketball captain, had been suspended from athletics for verbally agreeing to sign with the Cleveland baseball club and for permitting the club to send $100 monthly checks to his mother, struck Western conference athletic officials like a bombshell today.

The suspension prompted John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the conference, to make a sharply worded protest against major league clubs "enticing" college players before their graduation, and led other Big Ten officials to speculate as to the existence of similar cases.

Campus Is Stunned

Boudreau's ineligibility ruling by the Western conference faculty committee stunned the Illinois campus at Champaign. The ruling, however, provided that he might be reinstated next fall provided he severs connection with professional athletics. Boudreau was reported to have directed the Cleveland club to stop remitting money to his mother who lives in Harvey, Ill. Being a junior, he has another year of competition.

The 20-year old athlete professed not knowing he was violating any conference rule and declared the committee's ruling was a shock to him.

Umpire Gives His Opinions On Quesfions

BY RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—The New York Yankees are World series champions but in the opinion of Ralph "Babe" Pinelli better baseball is played in the National league than in the American league year in and year out.

Pinelli, who umpires in the National league, says that fact does not influence his opinion. He played in both leagues, with the White Sox and Detroit of the American and Cincinnati of the senior circuit.

Plays Tighter Ball

As Pinelli sees it the National loop plays tighter ball; is superior defensively and has the better pitching as a whole. The American league provides more hitting and has more long distance swatsmiths. But eliminate the Yankees and he gives the edge to the National league.

For a comparison of pitching strength, Pinelli points to the staffs of the last three clubs in each league in 1937.

"In the National it was Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Cincinnati. Brooklyn had Mungo, Frankhouse and Butcher. Philadelphia had Walters, La Master and Passeau. Cincinnati had Grissom, Derringer, Hollingsworth and Schott. Some of those fellows are great pitchers; the rest are above average.

"The last three clubs in the American league race, Washington, Philadelphia and St. Louis, couldn't muster a pitching force to compare favorably with that National league bunch."

Here's His Eye-Views

Fans will be interested in the following umpire's-eye views of the National league:

Carl Hubbell of the Giants is the easiest pitcher to work with. He's always within a few inches of the plate and as cool as ice. Pinelli has umpired in the league for three years. Only once has Hubbell questioned one of his decisions. He walked up and said: "That looked like a pretty good ball, didn't it Babe?" that was all.

The toughest batters for any pitcher to fool are Joe Medwick of the Cardinals, Paul Waner of Pittsburgh, Mel Ott of the Giants and Billy Herman and Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, in that order. Pinelli says these five absolutely will not chase a bad ball. The horsehide comes over the plate or they ignore it.

Clingman Is Victor In Wrestle Battle

Otis Clingman, himself all but "out," fell across the fallen figure of Andy Tremaine last night to end the third fall and be declared the winner of the main event in Sled Allen's weekly wrestling card at the Auditorium.

But even as the referee, a substitute for the regular Big Train Clements, raised Clingman's hand in token of victory, after raising the Amarillo star from the canvas, Otis raised objection, chimed in with the crowd who chorused: "Call it a draw!"

"If I didn't win it, please don't give it to me," Clingman pleaded of the referee.

But Clingman had won, fairly and squarely, as wrestling rules go.

Just before the finish, the Tucson Thunderbolt was apparently getting the best of the argument with a torturous headlock that would be a credit to any grappler. He had used the headlock nearly all evening, much to Clingman's discomfiture. Several times, Otis had eluded it, but toward the last, Andy wouldn't be broken. Otis lifted him in a crotch hold, staggered with his burden to the ropes, and dropped Andy on them. Andy fell astride the top rope, and with such force as to sustain a painful groin injury. He tumbled to the floor, inside the ropes, and the groggy Clingman crawled atop of him to win the fall, technically, legally and actually.

A 30-minute no-fall semi-final bout passed quickly for the fans, Dick Sampson taking Sailor Moran for a spin all around the ring but never quite able to put on a pin hold. Moran found himself strictly on the defensive for at least 28 minutes of the 30. Only once did he carry the fight, lashing out with his fists to drop the Denton, Texas, boy a time or two, and for the rest of the time he was either outside the ring or in the clutches of the business-like Sampson, who apparently fears no man and who stalks his prey like a panther.

Bulldog Bill Venable of Alabama needed a dozen minutes to pin Otto Ludwig in the preliminary. Venable did not have a great deal of trouble, and Ludwig was a chastised man when he reached the dressing room.

Tech Is Tied With Arizona In Cage Race

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 3—Texas Tech and University of Arizona were tied today in the Border conference basketball race with three victories and two defeats apiece.

The Wildcats of Arizona rallied in the last half last night and won a conference series opener from the Red Raiders, 45 to 33.

Score at the half was tied 19-19, and Arizona went into the last half of the final stanza on the short end of a 28 to 29 count.

At that point forward Lorry Di Grazia went into the game and slipped a pass to Walt Helm, who sank a long shot. Di Grazia and Johnson followed with enough baskets to clinch the game.

Sachse, Tech forward, was high scorer with 21 points, dropping in several baskets from mid-court.

The teams continue the series here tonight, after which the Raiders spend Friday journeying to Flagstaff for a series with Arizona State Teachers college. The series will start Saturday night, and end Monday night. From Flagstaff, the Raiders journey back to Socorro, N. M., for a single game with New Mexico Mines, then to Albuquerque for a conference series on Feb. 9 and 10.

Patty Berg Meeting Dorothy Kirby In Semi-Final Play

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 3. (AP)—Patty Berg encountered the stellar Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta in the semi-finals of the Miami Biltmore women's golf tournament today.

Their meeting overshadowed in gallery interest the other match between Kathryn Hemphill of Columbia, S. C., and Mrs. Jane Cothran Jameson of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Prep School Football Star Will Attend Northwestern

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. (AP)—Northwestern university's football prospects for 1939 to 1941 shot into the stratosphere today and a lot of coaches all over the country sighed.

Bill De Correvont, the prep school gridiron ace that every college coach wanted, caused it all by announcing he would enter Northwestern next fall.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

PADUA, Italy, Feb. 3 (AP)—Primo Carnera, former world's heavyweight champion, was reported resting satisfactorily today after undergoing a major operation for relief of a kidney ailment.

Schubert Dyche Is Chosen As Montana State Head Coach

BOZEMAN, Mont., Feb. 3 (AP)—Schubert Dyche, director of athletics at Montana State college, has been named to succeed Jack Croft as head football coach, Dr. A. L. Strand, president, announced last night.

Dyche, varsity coach from 1928 to 1935, will continue as athletic director.

Although motorcycles did not attain the peak of their popularity until 1912, first examples of them existed in France and Germany as early as 1885.

Left Jabs And Headlocks

By Collier Parris

WANTED: A HEAVYWEIGHT boxer (amateur) or two for the Lubbock District Golden Gloves tournament.

Not that the Golden Gloves sponsors are short on boxers, or even heavyweights, but they could use a few more of the later variety.

To be perfectly frank, the Golden Gloves directors want somebody who can stay with Babe Ritchie for at least two rounds.

We have asked several persons, including Babe himself, for information that might lead to the arrest and sentencing of a heavyweight contender next week. We have had several "leads" on heavyweights, but they (1) already are booked for some other Golden Gloves tournament, or (2) are too far away to consider coming to Lubbock for "no pay," or (3) are not anxious to enter the same ring with the Babe.

The shortage of heavyweights in this section is something!

Considering the number of big football teams, it would seem that heavyweight boxers would be in the majority. Such is anything but the case.

Of course, Texas Tech has its share of big boys, but they are "signed" to football contracts, or something, and their coaches discourage boxing. "They get punchy enough on the football field, and we can't take any risks," explains Line Coach Dutchy Smith.

Of course the fact that Ritchie knocked out two popular Tech heavyweight footballers in last year's District Golden Gloves tournament has nothing to do with the quiet attitude out on the Avenue. Red Ramsey, no less, and Jesse Browning, even bigger than Ramsey, felt Babe's knockout punch.

Ritchie, however, is due to have some competition in the tournament Monday and Tuesday night. Three other heavyweights, including Bob Bryant, the Olton flash who fought Babe in the City tournament, have indicated they will enter. One of them is Johnny Fryar from Clovis, winner of a lot of amateur fights in New Mexico and eligible to compete for the Texas title. Another is "Fats" Mitchell, a Lockney youngster whom we saw knock out a big light heavyweight the other night.

Mitchell says he'll be here, along with nine or ten other nifty scrappers from the Lockney-Floydada-Silverton section, but that he isn't particularly anxious to fight Ritchie. Mitchell weighs 195 pounds.

Bob Bryant, who stacks up well with Ritchie in size, looks and reach, has opined that he'd like to fight Ritchie again, only next time he won't be stooping over looking for his mouthpiece until the gong rings. Until that fatal moment when Bob stooped to recover his mouthpiece, he was doing very well against Ritchie. Fans will come back to see a re-match of these two, we are inclined to believe.

As for the other divisions, there'll be rough competition in each one. The welterweight division should produce some of the greatest scraps ever seen here, because welters are coming in from all around. There will be some nice middleweights and light heavies, and the lighter divisions are quite full except for flyweight and featherweight groups. There are several bantams and lightweights.

Oh, there'll be some great goings on at the Auditorium Monday and Tuesday night, and if you haven't reserved a ticket, better do it right away or we won't be responsible.

ALAN PLUMMER GOING GOOD IN RASSLING

Wrestling managers and promoters feel fortunate when they sign a college man to wrestle for them. The industry prospers because of the presence of ex-collegians. There's Jumping Joe Savoldi from Notre Dame, Bronko Nagurski of Minnesota, who rated world championship honors, for what they were worth, in the heavyweight division. There have been, and are, a lot of other collegians, including a couple of Texas Tech footballers.

Lester "Terrible" Tribble was a middleweight and light heavy of considerable consideration, and still is. Latest Texas Tech product to join the grunters and groaners is Alan Plummer, fullback from Beaumont who "resigned" from Tech after the second game of the 1937 schedule.

Plummer, for two years pestered by wrestling managers and promoters before he tumbled, writes us an interesting letter from Beaumont. Parts of the letter follow:

". . . Until recently I wrestled in Florida for three months, and, believe it or not, I won most of my matches. I hurt my ribs again and came home for a rest, expecting to go back as soon as I was able, but I am getting all the matches I can handle around here so I have decided to stay in Texas and go back to Florida later.

"I've wrestled some of the best boys in the game while in Florida and I was very fortunate in winning most of my matches, thanks to the training I received from Coacher Cawthon. Man Mountain Dean has been trying to send me to the West Coast to work under Toots Mondt, who is the papa of the wrestling game, but from all reports the boys are starving to death out there, especially the heavyweights, so I think it best to stick around these parts for a while, any-

Star Football Players Will Be Ineligible

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Feb. 3—Scholastic hurdles are taking a heavier toll than usual in Southwest conference schools. . . Arkansas, its ambitious 1938 grid card just announced, has lost 12 prospective footballers. . . Coach Fred Thomsen formally announced two varsity lettermen, one varsity squadman and nine freshmen failed to make the grade. . . Strong rumors from Austin are that Texas, struggling in a revival, will be dealt stinging blows by mid-term grades.

Reports are that Elwin Ricketts, great Amarillo tackle D. X. Bible had expected to throw in the varsity line, fell short of the required grades. . . And Carroll Foust, fancy forward on Carry High school's state championship cage team, has shifted from Texas to a teacher's college . . . . But Glenn Jackson, burly Texas grid center who was dropped from the squad as a disciplinary measure, will be back better than ever.

Briton Is Invited

Houston country club golf tournament officials telegraphed an invitation to Robert Sweeny, jr., British amateur champion, who just landed on American shores. . . Young Bussey, great Louisiana State footballer who once was Houston's outstanding basketball player, quit the cage game recently "to concentrate on football."

George (Dutch) Kline, former Texas Christian backfield great of a few years ago, has signed a New York Giant professional contract. . . They landed him after his great showing against the Washington Redskins down at Houston. . . . Officials of the West Texas-New Mexico baseball league, a class D loop, have the right idea. . . . They unanimously voiced the opinion their's would be "a kid league," thus giving rising young players a chance and the fans a break.

Jelly Sorelle, former Baylor athlete and listed as a Dallas pitcher, will travel with Olson's Terrible Swedes cage team before jumping into spring training. . . .

Morrow Is Released

And Johnny Morrow, the old Aggie gridder, has been released by the Chicago White Sox but signed by the St. Louis Cards for a tryout with their Rochester club.

They're packing 'em in at Fort Worth for the Star-Telegram Golden Gloves tourney. . . . Better than 2,000 attend all the amateur bouts. . . The Fred Perry-Ellsworth Vines pro tennis troupe has good booking in Texas. . . . Start their aging feud in the state within two weeks. . . And

The Spanish civil war is now presumably surrounded by foreign warships, but even at that it has a good chance of slopping over.

IT must be pretty discouraging at times when a college professor considers the trials and tribulations surrounding the art of beating some sense into the domes of the lads and lassies in his classroom.

Consider this:

Last Monday a total of 1,854 students—freshmen on up—enrolled during the first day's registration for Tech's second term.

Each enrollee was given a library card to fill out; each library card had three lines to be filled by each enrollee; and directly in front of the enrollee, at the eyeline, there appeared a model to go by.

Registration workers checking the cards discovered that 50 per cent of the enrollees had erred one way or another in filling out the three-line library card!

Considering that the local collegians are at least on a par with those of other institutions the nation over, maybe there is more need of higher education than most of us realize!

An old West Texas boy ambled into one of Dallas' swanky eating joints, seated himself at a table and tied a napkin around his neck.

The manager, horrified, called a waiter.

"Go to that man," he ordered, "and as tactfully as possible indicate to him his breach of etiquet."

The waiter took a position behind the innocent violator of Missus Post's Rule No. 1.

"What shall it be, sir?" he asked. "Shave or a haircut?"

A lady dropped into the police station the other day with a picture in her hand.

"My husband has disappeared," she sobbed. "This is his picture. I want you to find him."

The desk sergeant studied the picture and then looked up.

"Why?" he asked.

IF you ask The Plainsman President Roosevelt is likely to learn more about what the country really wants and needs from the "small" business men now gathered in Washington than he did from the "big shots" with whom he already has conferred.

It is too bad that more time cannot be taken in discussions with the "small" business group. About 800 men in that classification are gathered in Washington and it is impossible for their views to be heard and correlated in a two-day period.

Somebody once remarked that "a fellow can be so close to a fire that he can't see it for the smoke."

It is entirely possible that our captains of industry are so close to the broad scale of national business that they cannot see the basic problems for those under their very noses.

The "little fellow" isn't handicapped that way.

THE gatherers of statistics and the operators of surveys long ago learned that the best way to gauge public opinion is to "go to the grass roots where the people are."

With that in mind, it occurs to this column that the business man of Lubbock, Texas, and the business man of Albany, Ore., and the business man of Columbus, Miss., might be able to offer testimony which would fit more of the country than could the giants of commerce in New York, Detroit, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The economic life of this nation originally was nurtured by small businesses from border to border and coast to coast.

To a large extent, the nation still depends more on Main Street than it does on Wall Street or State Street.

Ten scattered businesses doing a total of a hundred million dollars per year are more important to the country as a whole than one business which does a hundred million—and they will, on the average, employ more people.

If the government will give sufficient time and a careful ear to the so-called "small" business men, it will be doing both the Roosevelt administration and the nation a big, big favor.

L. G. Phares, chief of the Texas Highway patrol who was here yesterday and last night in connection with the Lubbock Safety council's drive, has spent 35 years of his serviceable life as a law enforcement officer of one kind or another. But of all the work he has done, Chief Phares prefers his present labors.

The reason:

He's working now to prevent trouble, where here-to-fore he has always worked to clear up trouble after it had happened.

More than 2,000 persons last year were killed in traffic accidents on streets and highways in Texas.

Chief Phares and his group are hard at work to apply the "ounce of prevention" throughout the present year in the hope that the number of victims can be decreased during 1938.

That's a terrific task, with more and more people driving cars and with cars being built to go faster and faster.

Yet all and sundry will agree that the goal is a laudable one.

DOWN at Lamesa Monday the citizens voted, by 115 to 6, an $8,000 bond issue for construction of a new sewage disposal plant.

"So what?" may remark the average reader who does not live in Lamesa.

Well, here's "what":

Action of voters in the Dawson county capital indicates more than anything in a long time that they are thinking about the needs of their community and that they do not think more of the few dollars involved than they do of the future of their town.

Passage of a bond issue, large or small, is never easy in any community.

At least, it isn't any more.

All the bond issue proposals The Plainsman knows of in the Southwest during the past six or eight years have been roundly defeated—except the one at Lamesa.

To vote for bonds now, a citizen first has to be assured of the need for which the bonds are proposed, and second, he has to believe that his town is worth gambling that much more on.

Maybe the citizens of Lamesa didn't realize it the other day, but their action at the polls was probably the finest compliment their city has had in many a moon.

It was the compliment of confidence.

Richest Girl In The World

CAST OF CHARACTERS

CONSTANCE CORBY—heroine; richest girl in the world.

BRET HARDESTY — hero; bridge builder.

RODNEY BRANDON — Connie's fiance.

KATIE BLYN — Connie's "double."

Yesterday: Bret and Katie arrive at the construction camp and immediately Katie realizes the reason for the coldness in Eloise's welcome.

CHAPTER X

Several weeks had passed, the snow had long since melted, the men were back once more at work on Bret's bridge, and Connie was now an integral part of her surroundings.

Each morning Bret called for her to drive the three miles to the camp; each evening drove her back. Connie loved the excitement and bustle, the mule teams with their burly drivers, the husky mountaineers with their sturdy muscles and soft drawling talk, the whistle of the freight train, unloading steel and materials, the log-cabin office with its old-fashioned wood stove, Pop Walters with his shining gray hair and invariable package of snuff. Most of all she loved the sense of being a part of the job, the feeling that she, too, was helping to "build things," to create. She could understand Bret's enthusiasm, why he felt that this was his work.

She marveled now at that girl who had laid in the big Marie Antoinette bed, missing all the fresh loveliness of early morning, not caring enough about anything to want to get up, bored with life, sick of the endless round of social activity. That girl, this new Katie Blyn felt, had been a "softie"; she had never really lived at all. There had been so little justification for her existence.

Of course there was a reason for these conclusions, for this feeling of being so alive, so deliriously happy. The age-old reason that is always the same whether a girl be the Colonel's Lady or Judy O'Grady, the richest girl in the world, or plain Katie Blyn. For the whole world takes on new meaning when a girl loses her heart to a man.

Connie was not sure just when she had fallen in love with Bret Hardesty. It might have been that first moment when he had handed her her glasses and she had looked into his dark eyes. Or perhaps it had happened when he had tackled the bandit in the bus, and she had been afraid for him. Again this miracle may have taken place during that long night, driving over the mountains, sharing its beauty and silence.

It did not matter. All she knew was that he was the man she loved. The only one she ever had loved. The only one she would ever love.

She was glad that she had met him while she was Katie Blyn. Bret would never have looked at her, let alone offered to help her, brought her into his own country, given her work, accepted her as a companion and friend, had she been the beautiful, spoiled heiress to $70,000,000.

Hadn't he said that he knew he would not like that sort of girl? That he would have no use for her at all?

He liked Katie Blyn. Connie was confident of that. He had told her she was a gallant lady, a good little sport. If he fell in love with her it would be because of things like that, because of herself. It would have nothing to do with dollars and cents.

If he fell in love with her . . .

"All that women think of is romance," Bret had said.

But Connie had predicted that the day would come when he would find time to think of romance too. She saw the first signs, already. A new look in his dark eyes when they met hers, the way he helped her over rough places, as though she were something fragile and precious. The grim set of his nice mouth that day when one of the men had spoken roughly to her over a difference as to the number of loads he had checked in. The flush of deep crimson stealing up into his face at sight of Tim Randy, the state policeman, pompous and important in his handsome uniform, hanging about Connie's desk and trying to make a "date."

Oh, yes, Connie saw all the signs—and her heart quickened, her own blue eyes grew brighter, her pulses raced.

There was only one flaw in this happiness, one person who had refused to accept Connie as one of them, make her "at home": Eloise with her flaming hair, worn in a coronet of thick braids, her reticent manner, her eyes, watchful and wounded. For Eloise, too, saw these signs in Bret, recognized them.

She, alone, recognized other things as well. She saw that Connie's black dress, which she wore on special occasions, was entirely different from the navy suit that had been Katie Blyn's. The black dress had an air. It shouted Paris, even though Connie had ripped the label out. It made her look like a princess.

Eloise, cleaning Connie's room one day, came across something else. The dinner ring and the emerald brooch and the strand of matched pearls.

She gave a gasp of amazement, examined them more carefully, slipped them back under the fine hand-sewn linen undergarments where they had been hidden. That night when she had a moment alone with Bret in the big cheerful kitchen, where they often gathered, suddenly she asked an abrupt question:

"Do you know who Katie Blyn really is, Bret?"

"Do I know who she is?" Bret looked up from the stove at which he had been poking. "Why of course. At least I know all that's necessary. Why do you ask?"

"It doesn't matter," Eloise said in her quiet way. "I—just wondered."

"You must have had some reason for asking." Bret looked puzzled. "See here, Eloise," he got to his feet, stood in front of her. "You don't like Katie, do you? You haven't made friends with her."

* * *

Eloise's eyes would not meet his. "I don't make friends easily. You know that, Bret. You are perhaps the only real friend I have."

"But you need a friend like Katie, a girl. She's tried to be friends with you; she likes you, Eloise. She's told me so."

The girl did not say anything; she was looking into the fire, rocking back and forth slowly. Then, "Why did you bring her here?" she asked. "I don't believe she's what she pretends to be. She'll never be one of us. I wish she'd go back where she belongs. I hate her!"

"Eloise!" His face was distressed; he dropped on one knee beside her chair, took both her hands in his. "You shouldn't say that . . . You must have some reason. You must tell me what it is."

"I haven't anything to tell you." She withdrew her hands from his, her underlip trembled painfully; she would not meet his eyes. "I just know that I wish she'd never come here. And that there is something about her that is secret, something she does not want us to find out."

"But that's ridiculous!" Bret declared. His tone was almost angry. Perhaps he realized that, for the next moment he put an arm around her shoulders. "You mustn't feel that way," he murmured against the shining crown of her coppery hair. "You have no right."

Eloise wrenched herself free, pushed him fiercely away. She realized now—too late—that she had done the last thing she had wished to do; awakened Bret to his true feeling toward this girl he had brought home with him. "I suppose I have no right," she said bitterly. "But just the same I'm going to tell you my reasons now. I think your fine young friend is masquerading, maybe under an assumed name. I think she's hiding more than the jewels I came across, accidentally, in her room. I think she's a pretender—worse—a thief. . . ."

"How dare you say that?" Connie asked from the doorway. Her head was flung back, defiant and proud, her tone contemptuous, her blue eyes cold as an icy blue lake. Now they met Bret's:

"And you," she asked, "do you think that about me, too?"

WORLD WAR PENSION ON THE HORIZON

Few will voice opposition to pensions for widows and orphans of World war veterans, as provided in a measure approved by the Pensions committee of the national House of Representatives.

But the measure will provide a disturbing thought to a good many thinking citizens who, for the most part, may choose to remain silent. They will wonder, regardless whether they suggest it: How long now until general pensions for World war veterans will be asked?

Those most likely to take the lead in advocating pensions have, thus far, had nothing to say. They realize the time is not opportune. Economic conditions are not favorable. Too little time has elapsed since bonus payments were made long ahead of schedule. Defeat for general pensions now would be certain and might be fatal to future prospects.

But the fact of silence now does not mean the subject has been forgotten. The Journal has predicted before—and predicts again—that if the time ever is judged to be "ripe," the faxpayers once more will be asked to dig billions for pensions out of its nearly empty pockets.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3.—All over the lot: John Blystone, the director, has seemed to prize above anything else a meerschaum pipe. It was large, beautifully colored, and carefully protected by a handsome plush case. On the set of "Swiss Miss," he always laid it in a safe place.

Stanley Laurel opened the case the other day and was admiring the pipe when Oliver Hardy approached. Right away a violent argument developed. Laurel, gesticulating heatedly, dropped the pipe, which broke. Not only did it break, but the massive Hardy stepped on it.

You never saw a madder man than Blystone, but his rage melted when Hardy gave him his cherished meerschaum, unharmed. The whole incident was a rib; the broken pipe a replica painstakingly made several days before by the property department.

Knows His Boats

In a hand-made swamp on the shore of a little lake, Bette Davis floundered for some scenes in "Jezebel."

The wet and muddy actress was accompanied by a negro, Eddie Anderson, who plays a slave helping the heroine to reach New Orleans.

Reaching the lake, the two are supposed to clamber into a tiny boat which Anderson rows. Miss Davis looked at it nervously. "You know anything about boats?" she asked.

"Why, Miss Davis," said Anderson reassuringly, "Ah played Noah in 'The Green Pastures'!"

Nail It Down?

The Cafe de Paris, smart restaurant on the 20th-Fox lot, never has operated at a profit and requires a studio subsidy. But Nick, the maitre d'hotel, found an unexpected deficit during inventory. At least $1200 worth of silver and dishes had been spirited out of the place by souvenir hunters.

The restaurant isn't open to the public, but it might as well be for all the privileged visitors who crowd it daily at lunch time. Some of them make off with monogrammed spoons and saucers from their own places, but one woman actually dashed to an adjoining table and snatched up a full-sized dinner plate from which Loretta Young had eaten. She placed it, unwrapped, inside her costly fur coat and walked out.

Nick was too surprised to say anything. Now, though, he's thinking of offering china and silver for sale at the desk—each item guaranteed to have been used by movie stars.

Star Swears By Stars

You'd hardly believe the number of Hollywood people whose decisions are made for them by astrologers, numerologists, palmists, and other mumbo-jumbo mystics. Take Betty Compson, who's playing in "A Slight Case of Murder." She is almost complacently sure that this picture will be the turning point in her career—the pivot that leads to a comeback. An astrologer said so.

Nineteen years ago the same starcharter told Miss Compson what to do about two jobs which were offered her. One was a $30-a-week role under the direction of George Loane Tucker, who had organized Mayflower Pictures. The other was a $45 job with Jesse Lasky.

At the astrologer's insistence, Miss Compson took the $30 assignment and went into the lead of "The Miracle Man." That film made her and Lon Chaney and Thomas Meighan famous. In a short time she was getting 20 times her original wage.

Joan Blondell has been borrowed by Columbia for "There's Always a Woman" and is enjoying it because, for one reason, she can wear her hair in a way that the Brothers Warner forbade. It's all piled on the top of her head, with neck and ears showing.

Several of the sequences take place in a night club, which is all done in white and grays. Because of the light background, and because Miss Blondell is blond, Director Alexander Hall has made sure there are no rival blond distractions. All the customers in the place, by cinematic coincidence, are brunets and redheads.

There is a bit of unseen contrast in the identities of two waiters who work in this swingy atmosphere. They're opera singers—Marek Windheim, the tenor, and Gennaro Curci, brother-in-law and voice coach of Galli Curci.

'Now, About Wage Cuts And Price Boosts--'

Business-New Deal Fight Sees Both Winning Occasional Jousts, Rodney Dutcher Finds

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Despite all the confusions and contradictions which continue to afflict everyone concerned with the recent White House conferences and utterances, it is possible to brush enough debris out of the eyes to see certain elements of change in the government-business situation.

Rodney Dutcher

In trying to peer into the future, which has become increasingly difficult, most observers fail to assay developments of the immediate past.

The conflict between the administration and "Big Business," which will continue regardless of conferences and co-operative gestures, has produced victories or gains on both sides. The most notable business gains has been in the field of taxation. The house bill modifying the corporate surplus and capital gains taxes is painful to Roosevelt's less conservative advisers, and it is likely that the senate will lean even further toward demands for drastic modification or repeal.

But most of the uppermost and innermost New Dealers, although chagrined by the tie-up of the Roosevelt program in congress and recognizing the seriousness of the depression, insist that on the whole they are well pleased by events and trends of the first weeks of 1938.

The vociferous demand of "Balance the Budget!"—which was a potent slogan for Roosevelt's opponents—has not been heard at all during the recent White House conferences with business men. Secretly, the president feels he has convinced certain captains of industry and finance that he can beat them in any name-calling contest, and that his popular following supports him in any attack on big business.

"Death Sentence" Awe Dies

Notable progress is claimed for the New Deal power policy. Despite all the furore over the president's subsequently modified suggestion that all holding companies should be abolished, the net result is a rather striking change of attitudes.

The celebrated "death sentence" in the public utilities holding company act now seems relatively mild to the business community. The TVA issue has shifted to a question of how the government will buy private power facilities. The drive to shoot down TVA has sagged, in other words, and now the question is simply one of expanding TVA.

Since most of the simon-pure New Dealers believe that the "power fight" is more important than ever, these developments and recent court decisions favoring administration power policies elate them considerably.

Like Reed's Appointment

Two liberals have replaced two conservatives on the supreme court and a definitely liberal majority holds sway.

That it is easier to appease conservative anti-New Dealers than it was late last year was indicated by this group's gratification over the appointment of Stanley Reed "instead of some radical." Reed, for all practical purposes, was just as New Dealish as anyone the president could have appointed.

Furthermore, the New Dealers are convinced that the price cut in steel for which they have been driving is now inevitable, and Roosevelt has joined in the cry that there must be no wage cut when that comes.

New Deal optimism such as that rests mostly on the belief or hope that the country will climb out of the depression. Some officials are more hopeful than others, believing that the administration will spend as much money as may be necessary to do the trick.

Lewis Backs Up

There are signs that the recent rapprochement between John L. Lewis and the house of Morgan through the person of Thomas W. Lamont is not flourishing.

Lewis has been told by friends in the administration that an effort has been made to "use" him by persuading him to declare against a steel price reduction because of its possible effect on steel wages. Lewis is now advised that this places him in a weak position to battle against wage cuts when the steel price slash, which New Dealers regard as inevitable, comes to pass. Much better his position, he is told, if he stands with the administration and insists there must be no wage cut regardless of what happens to prices.

This advice has impressed Lewis, according to some reports. But much remains to be seen.

Mrs. Freeman Says New Herbal Remedy Gave Her A New Lease On Life; Kidney Trouble, Constipation Had "Wrecked" Her Health

"Words cannot express what a remarkable change Gly-Cas brought about in my stubborn condition," said Mrs. W. A. Freeman, General Delivery, Hot Springs, Arkansas.

MRS. W. A. FREEMAN

"Judging from the difference in the way it has made me feel I am not exaggerating when I say 'it brought me out of the grave.' For five years I had been so sick, my kidneys refused to function properly, was badly constipated and could not eat anything, without awful suffering afterwards. Two years ago I was paralyzed, unable to walk a step, was an invalid confined to bed. The poisons over my body had the best of me . . . but there was nothing I could do about it . . . everywhere I turned I met only with repeated failure until I began Gly-Cas.

"Gly-Cas gave me a new lease on life," continued Mrs. Freeman. "I now get up and do all my work and enjoy doing it I feel so well. Gly-Cas is all that brought me out of my bed. My kidneys are now regulated, stomach and bowels are fine, eat and enjoy my meals and cannot help but praise this remedy that has meant so much to me. Suffering people everywhere should learn of this new remedy as it does not disappoint with the results it gives."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by all the leading drug stores in surrounding towns.—Adv.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—So-called "high grade" stocks broke sharply in today's market and pulled props from under the rest of the list.

Losses of 1 to 5 or more points were plentiful at the worst, but extreme setbacks were reduced subsequently in many instances. Dealings were much livelier than yesterday, although there were numerous slow periods. The ticker tape loitered near the fourth hour.

Further weakness of American Telephone unsettled sentiment in the early proceedings. This issue was about 12 minutes late in opening because of wide variations between bids and offers. Its initial appearance was on a block of 1,500 shares, off 2¾ at a new low since 1935. It eventually was down more than 7 before receiving some support.

United American Telephone bonds, contrarily, were up a shade. Other bonds were uneven, along with major commodities.

Prominent share sufferers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Curtsler, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, Homestake, Dome, Union Pacific, Anaconda, Kennecott, U. S. Rubber and Allis Chalmers.

Rails and utilities were a bit more resistant than other groups.

Bylaws Will Be Adopted At Meeting Set For Tonight

Bylaws are scheduled for adoption at the second meeting of the newly organized South Plains Tractor and Implement Dealers association at a dinner at Hilton hotel at 7:30 o'clock tonight, according to Vernice Ford, president.

He extended an invitation to dealers who did not affiliate with the association at the organization meeting to be present.

The association includes dealers from Plainview to Lamesa north and south, and from Spur to the New Mexico line east and west.

Senior Class Is To Sponsor Concert Tonight At Slaton

SLATON, Feb. 3 (Special)—Concert sponsored by the senior class will be presented in Slaton High school auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight by Dorothy Ellen Ford, widely known pianist, and Ruth Howell, dramatic soprano.

Miss Ford has been interested in piano since childhood. In her early teens she gave a series of recitals, doing melologues with the noted composer and pianist, Louis Victor Saar. She has traveled widely both in America and abroad, and has studied under Rudolph Ganz and Glenn Dillard Gunn.

Miss Howell has made appearances in the operas of Wagner and Beethoven. She enjoys singing Debussy and Marx' compositions, or the romantic pieces of Victor Herbert and Friml.

Lubbock Men Plan To Attend Olton C Of C Gathering

Half a dozen or more Lubbock men had indicated their intentions of attending an annual Olton Chamber of Commerce banquet there tonight, it was said at the chamber of commerce.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college, is to deliver the principal address. Others from Lubbock probably will be Chas. A. Whitacre, chairman of the good will committee of the chamber of commerce, A. C. Jackson, J. A. Raley, jr., Ray Farmer and George Meiser and J. H. Brock of the chamber of commerce.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—Cotton futures opened unchanged to 1 higher. Lower cables were offset by trade and foreign buying. March 8.42; May 8.51; July 8.60; Oct. 8.71; Dec. 8.75; Jan. 8.78.

Interest again centered in commission house liquidation of March, taken by the trade and spot houses, but these transactions were largely exchanges to later deliveries.

May fluctuated between 8.51 and 8.53 and shortly after the first half hour the list was unchanged to 2 points net higher.

Cotton prices worked up a few points further during the morning on a little trade buying which found contracts limited to a little liquidation and hedging.

May advanced to 8.56 and was quoted at 8.55 by midday, when the market was 2 to 5 points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3. (AP) — Cotton futures showed little net change in early dealings today and trading continued in a narrow groove.

Initial transactions were unchanged to 1 point up, with March at 8.55, May at 8.64, July at 8.70, Oct. at 8.81 and Dec. at 8.85.

A few buying orders were executed after the start and towards the end of the first half hour the central market was selling 1 to 4 points above the previous close.

Washington dispatches indicating that conferees on the farm bill had agreed on all major points supported the market during the morning, particularly new crop months.

Near mid-session March contracts sold at 8.55, May at 8.64, July at 8.70, Oct. at 8.85 and Dec. at 8.86, or unchanged to 6 points above the previous close.

Formal announcement as candidate for county commissioner from precinct 3 was made Wednesday by H. W. Lasater, pioneer resident of Idalou.

Lasater, making his second race for the place, will oppose T. L. Holt who is running for re-election.

A formal announcement will be made in "two or three" weeks, the candidate said.

Business Parley

Kempfer and Shafer.

In the midst of this racket and confusion cries of "adjournment" caught the attention of Chairman Fred Roth of Cleveland, O. He put the question and an echoing "aye" ended the conference.

After Shafer had been removed from the auditorium, Charles P. Bloome, executive vice president of the Wearing Apparel Board of Trade of Pennsylvania, fought his way to the platform shouting at the top of his voice:

"This man does not represent Philadelphia business men."

Shafer, who wore a sign saying "we want a Roosevelt chairman not a Hoover chairman," was only pitched out of the auditorium, but Kempfer was accompanied to the sidewalk outside the columned commerce department building.

Three Members Are Initiated By VFW Chapter In City

J. F. Richardson of Tahoka and Charles Snell and James C. Pharr of Lubbock were initiated into membership of Lubbock post of Veterans of Foreign Wars at the regular meeting Wednesday night.

Frank McPherson, commander of dist. 7 of the VFW, reported on the district convention here Jan. 22. It was voted that the VFW will cooperate with reserve officers here in observance of National Defense week Feb. 12 to 22, said Commander Robert J. Allen.

A social meeting will be held at the next meeting Feb. 16 with the losers in a membership drive furnishing refreshments. Chairman of the membership committee also made a report.

Members of a committee appointed to obtain signatures on resolutions to be sent to Washington relative to the nation's foreign policy reported names were being secured and said the campaign was progressing satisfactorily.

Approximately 35 members attended.

When Henry Wants Something He Goes Right Out For It

Jackson, who claims his sister and Williams owe him money on a radio, went to 1902 Sixteenth street for the instrument.

His sister tried to bar his entrance.

Jackson stuck a knife through the door and into his sister's hand, police were informed.

the place that is keeping your account with the government.

All 37,000,000 of us can't go, certainly, or they couldn't get any work done. Even the way it is, they are answering between five and six thousand inquiries a day from people who want to know about some phase of their social insurance.

No Place In Washington

Down on the Baltimore waterfront, looking out over the harbor, is a huge, blank-looking building that used to be a soft-drink warehouse. The Bureau of Old Age Insurance moved here from Washington a little more than a year ago. Space enough in a suitable building simply was not available in Washington.

Today, on eight floors of this vast building, 4000 employes of the Social Security Board keep its records. Here are the master indexes that enable clerks to find instantly the record of any one of 37,000,000 persons.

Not all the Social Security files are here. Public assistance, like that to the blind, is elsewhere. Unemployment insurance, largely a state matter, is elsewhere. But the master records, and the federally administered old-age insurance system, center here.

Here They Are

Here, amid the clatter of 680 major-size accounting machines, the records are kept.

Here, in a vast room as long as a city block, are the cabinets of "flexoline" indexes which are the master key. They cover nearly an acre of floor space.

Here are 12 separate but similar "accounting factories," each keeping posted the wage records of the workers of one of 12 "regions" into which the country is divided. They occupy four acres of space.

Here are machines that punch, tabulate, assort, post, check, and redistribute cards with a more-than-human accuracy and speed. Here 300 million separate cards and record sheets pass each year through the tireless machines.

Here are micro-filming departments photographing records on 16-millimeter films which will soon compress the contents of 600 filing cabinets into 10—a duplicate basic record which will be filed in the Archives Building in Washington just in case of unforseen destruction of the Baltimore building.

Here is a humming bee-hive working day and night shifts to get caught up with a tidal wave of data which is nearing its crest. Unless the law is changed to admit groups now not included in Social Security, the top is expected to be reached soon at about 40,000,000.

Will Be Up To Date

By next June the record is expected to be about up to date. That is, the bureau will be able to give any client at a glance his balance and status at the end of the previous quarter. That is as close to current as the file is apt to get, as employers have a month's leeway in filing reports, and the job of posting up 40,000,000 separate records is colossal.

Though regular old-age annuities will not be paid until 1942, some 53,000 payoffs of lump-sum settlements have already been made to those reaching 65 before the annuity date. The average payment has been $27, ranging from a few cents to $358 top.

Many felt the sum due them was too small to bother to collect it. The bureau is holding it for them, just as any private insurance company would do.

NEXT: The Social Security files are "strictly private."

five crops needed in a season and divide this figure among states, counties and individual farmers with the aid of farmer communities.

Growers who stayed within their quotas would receive benefit payments and be eligible for loans. If stored supplies became large, farmers in a referendum could place a limit on sales of all producers, providing two-thirds of those voting in a referendum approved.

Conferees said granary provisions for the separate crops included:

Cotton—Growers would vote on imposing marketing quotas whenever the indicated supply reached 7 per cent above normal. Then a penalty of 2 cents this year, and 3 cents hereafter, would apply on each pound grown on land outside allotted acreage.

Wheat—When the supply reached 35 per cent above normal, growers could apply sales limits on each grower. A penalty of 15 cents a bushel would follow on excess sales.

Rice—Quotas could be voted when supply was 10 per cent above normal, excess sales subjected to a penalty of one-fourth cent a pound.

Enrollment Figure At Tech Reaches 2,953 Wednesday

Enrollment figure at the end of the first day of classes at Texas Technological college Wednesday was 2,953, and registration continued slowly this morning.

The number Wednesday afternoon exceeded by 362 the enrollment for the entire spring semester last year.

Of that number, 208 students were not in school the fall semester. Number of individuals for the two semesters had reached 3,362 Wednesday, while the former record total was 3,010 for a long session.

Figures for this semester, announced by President Bradford Knapp, represented the number who had obtained permits to register. All had not completed the procedure.

cil, demanded $2,500 cash and several other concessions, one of them being that the city pave without cost to him the thoroughfare bordering on his property.

Proposition Is Refused

Commissioners refused that proposition flatly. They recalled that other property owners situated similarly to Smith have given rights-of-way for the opening. Commissioners also contend that the opening of the street will greatly enhance the value of affected property which now is worthless for many purposes for lack of outlet.

The city attorney said that when he proposed the city's counter-proposition and it was refused, the proposal was made to him that the issue be submitted to a board of arbitration composed of one member named by the city, one by Smith and the third by the other two members. Bradley was not authorized to accept the proposal immediately but after consultation with some of the members of the city council was informed that they probably would be favorable to that solution.

When he reported that belief to Smith's attorney, he said this morning, he was told that the plan probably is no longer favored.

Bradley added that unless that or some other solution is adopted, he will file condemnation proceedings as quickly as papers can be prepared. The completion of that petition, he added, is awaiting field notes on the property which now are being prepared by the city engineer's department.

Conference Is Opened Here

BY MARY BYNUM COBB

A welcome address and two lectures were given this morning to the 297 men from all parts of the state who had registered for the third biennial two-day welding conference held on Texas Technological college campus under the supervision of the mechanical engineering department.

Registration began in the engineering building at 8 o'clock. The group gathered in the engineering auditorium at 9:30 for the welcome address by Dr. Bradford Knapp.

Exhibits Are Placed

Eighteen manufacturers have secured space for exhibits and expressed their intention of cooperating with the users of welding equipment and the mechanical engineering department by giving demonstrations during the conference. A representative of each company made a statement to the group this morning concerning their exhibit.

"Welding—The Major Tool of Industry", was discussed by L. C. Monroe, advertising manager of the Welding Engineer, national welding publication. His talk was illustrated with slides. Following a discussion of Monroe's talk, W. S. Hiler, representative of Hiler and company, El Paso, spoke on "Hard-facing in the Agriculture Industry".

Photographs Are Taken

Photographs of the entire assembly were taken at noon. Pictures are to be shown and demonstrations given during the afternoon.

A feature exhibit of the meet is an old-fashioned blacksmith shop which has been transported from New Mexico by the Magnolia company to show the comparison between the older and newer methods of welding. According to H. F. Godeke, head of the mechanical engineering department and chairman of today's activities, the conference will give "a greater application of Ideas of welding than have ever been used before."

Prizes To Be Given

The conference alternates with the school for welders that was held the first summer semester last year. Dean O. V. Adams will act as chairman for Friday's program. Various companies exhibiting plan to give prizes at the close of the conference tomorrow at 6 p. m.

An address on condemnation of welded boilers in Texas due to a law passed by the last legislature will be a feature at the conference and will be presented by R. E. Hiller, metallurgist and development engineer of the Babcock and Wilcox company of Barberton, O., at a banquet which will begin at 6:30 o'clock tonight at Lubbock hotel.

Anyone Interested Invited

The subject is of timely interest not only to welders but to all operators of boilers in this part of the country, and anyone interested may attend, said Godeke. Reservations may be made with Godeke or J. C. Hardgrave, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, or at the registration desk.

Hiller will explain what can be and cannot be done under the new code and the reasons why. He worked with authors of the bill several years. He was in charge of welding at Boulder dam three years.

eastern neck, a half million Japanese and Chinese troops are struggling for possession of the Lunghai "lifeline" railway.

Japanese have told of puncturing the southern defenses of the Lunghai corridor by capture of Pengpu.

This advance came after a month in which Japan's war machine was stalled by snow, sleet, blizzards and fierce Chinese resistance. Chinese were said to be digging in for a new stand in the face of air and artillery bombardment.

From the corridor's northern fringe, however, Chinese sent word of successful resistance. They said a Chinese force had driven back a Japanese field army with the reorganized Chinese air force aiding ground troops.

"Although I have been making fair money and having a good time, I regret leaving Coach Cawthon very much. He is absolutely the greatest fellow I have ever had the pleasure of knowing. His friendship is true, and he is the squarest shooter I have ever seen. He knows his football from A to Z and believe me he has done wonders with the material he has had to work with. I shall always remember him as a friend and he shall always have my most loyal respect.

". . . Please give Sled Allen and his boys my very best regards."

WE ARE PLEASED to hear from Plummer, who always meant well and tried to do his best, but who just wasn't cut out for the type of existence laid out for college football players. A physical defect—lack of wide and distant vision—was his greatest drawback. He denied this a lot during his Texas Tech days, led his coach to believe he was sound. But when he didn't come through, every time, as expected, he quite naturally drew criticism from the mentor. He was, in other words, "ridden," but he kept hanging on until the last minute.

That Plummer holds his coach in such high regard, considering the criticism he got, indicates that both men "have got something there."

The best of luck and good fortune to Plummer, who knows when he's well off.
