BOY TELLS HIS PARENTS TO PRAY, SHOOTS BOTH

Young Alcohol Runner Shot And Burned On Pyre Of Liquor Cans By Rivals

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

A new dance is sure to follow the new feminine styles in dress says M. Chalif, founder of the Chalif school of Russian dancing in New York, writing in the Outlook.

He hopes that people will now dance "with erect and noble bearing." Clothes vitally effect the dance—no one "could dance like a goddess in rompers," he points out and suggests that short skirts were almost as bad.

The slow waltz and the two step were the popular dances when long, voluminous, heavily trained skirts were the mode. Then came the hobble skirt and the turkey trot "for if a lady's feet are tied so that they (the feet) cannot dance, other parts of her will dance."

Then came the split skirt and another change in dancing bringing complicated steps and athletic feats such as the maxixe, the tango, the canter waltz and many others.

It was after skirts became shorter that "the toddle" came in and when skirts were shorter still, the Charleston. Now, it seems to Mr. Chalif, that the dance is already yielding to the increased sweep of the skirts and is slowing down and there is lanorous swing in harmony with the skirt.

A radically different dance comes every 20 years or so, this authority says, and one is due now.

It's going to be difficult for some of us who are older to learn a new dance—harder even than some of those we have attempted to learn in the periods of changing styles in woman's dress. But there are many of the old boys who will be found trying.

Congratulations to the people of Frederick, Okla., on their fine new hotel just opened. One of the best advertisements any town can have is a fine hotel and its a fine thing for the people of a town or city to join in building one. The new hotel at Frederick is rated class A and is said to be as fine as any in the entire state of Oklahoma.

The Wichita Valley poultry show is now open at 618 Scott avenue. This show, we are told, is always one of the best in Texas. Breeders of this section are exhibiting their best and to a layman these look plenty good. The poultry industry grows in importance from year to year. The Wichita Valley poultry show merits your support and interest.

This will be an important political year in Texas—important not only in election of officers, state, district, county and precinct but in reuniting the Hooverites and regulars within the Democratic party or in making permanent the rift and starting a coalition between the bolters and the Republicans. We would say that 1930 will be the most important year in a political sense the people of Texas have faced in a long while.

Maybe there are some folks who, right now, are not thinking of politics and are not concerned much one way or another. But as the year advances everyone will become interested, and long before November or even before the primaries in July everyone will become interested. A vote is the thing that counts in the ballot box and in the precinct mass meetings. Of course, to have a vote you must have a poll tax receipt. The month is slipping along and the last day for paying poll tax will be here before you know it.

For the first year in 20 years, we are told, savings accounts in the United States in 1929 showed a decrease over the preceding year. For 20 years, each succeeding year has shown a gain in such accounts over the preceding. The decrease in 1929 was not large enough to be

OPPOSING GANG CREMATES BOY AS INTRUDER

Police Find Seared Body of Young Man Near Steger, Ill.

VICTIM SHOT FIRST

Remains of Youth Unidentified Because of Severe Nature of Burns

STEGER, Ill., Jan. 5. (AP)—The body of a youth about 18 years old was found by police today on a pyre of flaming alcohol cans in an automobile near here.

Police believe the lad was slain for encroaching on the precincts of a gang of bootleggers who hit on the bizarre cremation as a method of terrifying other trespassers.

Officers Hear Blast

Sergeant Henry Siegel of the Homewood county police said he was attracted by an explosion and flare of flame while patrolling a highway two miles from the scene. With a companion officer he sped to a wooded lane known as Devil's Paradise to find the automobile a veritable vessel of fire.

The sergeant said that inside the machine were eight cans of blazing alcohol on which sprawled the body of the youth. Rivers of fire trickled from the holocaust and flowed into a nearby ditch.

The police took the body, burned beyond recognition, from the car as quickly as approach was possible.

Shot in Back

Sergeant Siegel, reconstructing the crime, said he believed the youth had been slain in the neighborhood, near the palatial Hawewood, the estate of James E. Hawe, wealthy Chicago manufacturer. The slayers then rolled a decrepit automobile into the center of the road, placed the body upon the alcohol cans in the tonneau, and saturating the whole with gasoline, set it ablaze.

A post mortem later showed that the youth had been shot from behind, the bullet entering the back of the head and emerging through the forehead.

Police believe the boy was transporting the alcohol from Chicago to some point along the road, which touched Dyer, Ind., and leads to Hammond, Ind.

Universal Pilot Beats 'Flying' Hawk's Record

CHICAGO, Jan. 5. (US)—Bobby Jewell, Universal Airline system pilot, today beat Frank (Flying) Hawks' year-old flight record between St. Louis and Chicago, making the 268-mile flight in 86 minutes, an average of 185 miles an hour.

Jewell left Lambert-St. Louis field at 12:45 o'clock carrying six passengers and a cargo of mail and set his Super-Universal Fokker down at the Municipal airport here at 1:30 p. m. Hawks' record was 90 minutes between East St. Louis and Chicago in a Lockheed Vega plane without passengers or cargo.

Son, Reaching Manhood, Spanks His Father

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 5. (UP)—Federico Guerrero, Juarez, Mexico, celebrated his attainment to manhood by spanking his father, but he still claims the score is far from being even.

"Papa, I whippa you now," said Federico, "Many times you make eet hard for me to sitta down when I was keed. I don't like that. You don' ever need whip me. I was good boy."

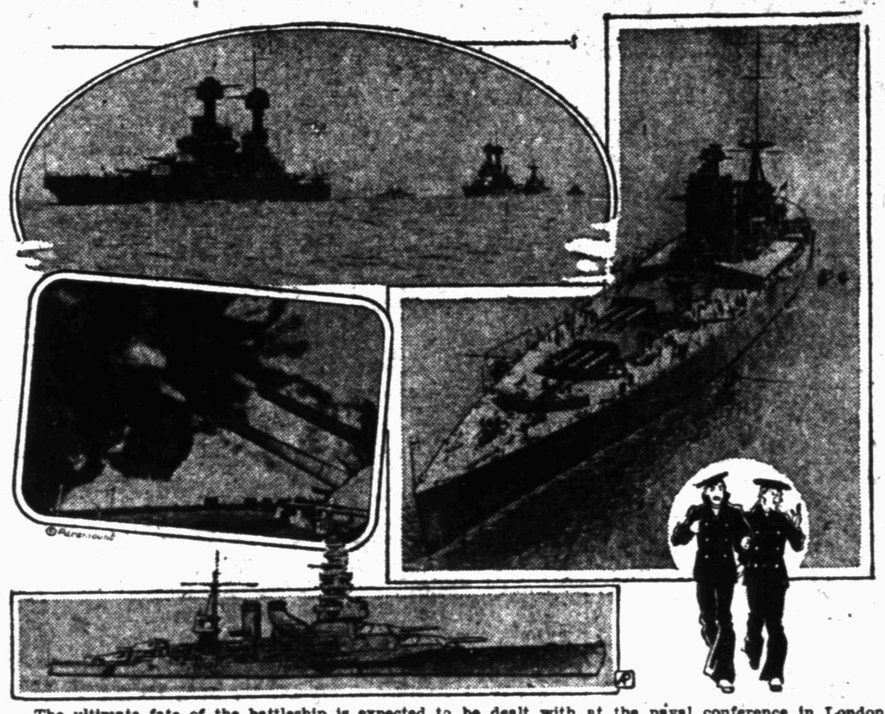

With those words Federico picked up his father and spanked him.

Guerrero Sr. had his son arrested on a charge of assault.

Accused Slayers Taken Back to Scene of Crime

GUNTERSVILLE, Ala., Jan. 5. (AP)—Mrs. Dovie Hicks, 23, and H. G. Culbreath, each of whom accused the other of slaying Gilbert Ayers, mountaineer, as he lay asleep in the woman's home near Double Springs, Ala., Thursday night, left here today in custody of Winston county officers for Double Springs, where they will be held without bond on charges of first degree murder.

Fate of Huge 'War Wagons' at Stake in Coming Conference

The ultimate fate of the battleship is expected to be dealt with at the naval conference in London Jan. 21. Only two such vessels have been designed and built in the world since the Washington parley in 1921, of which H. M. S. Rodney (right center) is one. Among the four other 16-inch gun ships completed since that conference are the U. S. S. West Virginia and U. S. S. Colorado, shown in line (above), and the Japanese Mutsui (below). The inset is of big American guns in action.

Sunny Smile of Royal Bride-to-Be Instantly Wins Rome's Thousands

Princess Marie Jose of Belgium Arrives in Italian Capital for Marriage to Prince Humbert in Few Days

ROME, Jan. 5. (AP)—Princess Marie Jose, fiancee of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, came smiling today to a Rome bright with winter sunshine, and made a quick conquest of thousands who hailed her as their future queen.

The princess' royal train drew into the station at 10 a. m., and she found her future parents-in-law and other illustrious personages waiting there to pay her military honors. An enormous crowd cheered as the royal couple exchanged greetings, and continued acclamations as the party drove toward the Quirinal palace.

Crowds Roused

The smiling Belgian girl, with curly chestnut hair, and the radiant healthy complexion for which her countrywomen are noted, took this ancient capital by storm. Her simple graciousness roused packed crowds of citizens to a high pitch of enthusiasm as she drove down lanes kept open by smartly attired troops.

Facing her in the open carirage, drawn by prancing blacks, was Humbert, Prince of Piedmont, the bridegroom-to-be, regalian of a colonel of infantry.

Beside Marie Jose was her sister-in-law, the Duchess of Brabant, born the Princess Astrid of Sweden. With Humbert sat Prince Charles of Belgium, known as the count of Flanders.

White Moire Dress

Marie Jose wore a white dress, trimmed with white fox fur, and over it a fur-bordered beige coat. A hat of white texture with a silver ornament, crowned her chestnut curls. She had a magnificent string of pearls around her throat, and carried a big bouquet of white lilacs.

The day was sparklingly sunny, with weather unusually mild for Roman January.

Marie Jose seemed pleased with everything. Her face brightened in a smile when she saw the glit-

CHICAGO, Jan. 5. (AP)—President-Elect Pascual Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico, spent the major portion of his time today at the plant and proving grounds of a large road machinery manufacturing company at Harvey, Illinois.

Having declared highway buildings, especially completion of the Meridian highway from Canada south through Central America, an important factor in his administration's program, the Mexican president-elect evinced keen interest in the production demonstration of road building equipment.

LASTING PEACE AIM OF PARLEY

World Hopes Third Meet Will Hold 'Charm'

By L. A. BROPHY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The mind of the world today was occupied more busily than ever with the subject of fighting ships.

The delegates of the five powers are all chosen for the London naval conference Jan. 21.

It is then statesmen will determine how much closer to its ideal of a lasting peace humanity will be brought.

The parley will be a case, it is hoped, of the third time being a charm, for, fundamentally, it must do what two others failed to do if it is to achieve its purpose.

Limitation Is Aim

Cruisers, destroyers, submarines—around those objects discussion will turn. The primary aim of the conference is to limit, and, if possible, to reduce tonnage in such classes of craft.

In addition, the tentative agenda outlined in the British invitation calls for a further holiday in battleship replacement—that is, building new ships to replace old ones as they wear out.

Great Britain, the United States, and Japan face battleship replacement expenditures by Dec. 31, 1936, under terms of the agreement reached in 1921 at the Washington conference.

France and Italy, on the other hand, have not even started replacement of their existing pre-world war capital ship fleets. Nor have they indicated any plans for doing so.

Two Battleships Built

If battleship replacement is postponed, undoubtedly the theory that battleships have been made obsolete by aviation and submarine development will have a bearing upon that decision. So far, no nation has objected to the postponement.

Only two battleships have been designed and built in the world since the Washington naval con-

Proprietor Shot, Bandit Wounded in Holdup

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 5. (AP)—Two men held up a drug store here late last night and shot and wounded H. C. Wolfe, 26, proprietor, after Wolf's brother-in-law, Frank Bell, 24, opened fire with a shotgun. Physicians said Wolf probably would recover.

One of the robbers was struck in the abdomen. Police later arrested Tilman Van Acker, whom they found critically wounded in a hospital. He was identified by Bell and Miss Betty Goman, soda fountain attendant and charged with robbery with firearms.

Breta Cass, 27, who accompanied him to the hospital, was held without bond as an accomplice.

Bar Association Head Predicts Modification

DALLAS, Jan. 5. (UP)—Modification of the eighteenth amendment was predicted last night by Henry Upson Sims, president of the American Bar association, in an address before the Dallas Bar association.

While he did not expect repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Sims said he believed some other means would be taken of promoting temperance.

Sims classified himself as an anti-prohibitionist, declaring that he would not have voted for the Volstead law.

VAST HUBERT WEALTH GIVEN INSTITUTIONS

Coolidge, Smith and Rosenwald Announce Award Of Bequests

33 DISTINCT GIFTS

Each Award Accompanied By Request for Doubling Of Amount

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith and Julius Rosenwald today made public a list of 33 religious, charitable and educational institutions they have selected to share the millions left for them to distribute under the will of the late Conrad Hubert, inventor of the electric flashlight.

Work among the negroes will receive support totaling approximately three-quarters of a million dollars; the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts will get half a million dollars each; and various schools and colleges, not including negro institutions will receive approximately $700,000.

$1,300,000 for Hospitals

One million, three hundred thousand dollars will go to hospitals and welfare projects of lower Manhattan, New York, half a million dollars is given to two organizations for mental hygiene. Jewish institutions receive $625,000.

Among the interesting donations is one of indefinite amount to the Warm Springs, Ga., foundation, in which Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York is interested because of benefits it has yielded to sufferers from infantile paralysis. Another is a gift, also of indefinite amount, to the Clarke school for the deaf at Northampton, Mass., where Mrs. Coolidge was a teacher at the time of her marriage.

Gifts to Be Matched

In every instance the gift is accompanied by what Governor Smith described as "an urgent request" that the beneficiary raise an equal or greater sum immediately to go to the same purpose. The report of the three committeemen explains that this is done so that the $6,000,000 or more left by Hubert will actually turn perhaps as much as $15,000,000 into the channels of philanthropy.

The views of Rosenwald on the methods of philanthropy are clearly reflected in the report. Gifts are of a specific project involving capital expenditure for extension of equipment and facilities and in no instance is a contribution made to an endowment fund. Rosenwald is strongly opposed, in his philanthropic work, to continuing endowments.

Much Time Given

Coolidge, Smith and Rosenwald have devoted a vast amount of time and effort to the work of determining the disposition of the Hubert estate. They organized last June. Since they have met twice each month in the offices of the Bankers Trust company on Wall street. Sometimes their meetings have lasted throughout a full day.

Strange as it may seem these three public men, whose pictures are familiar everywhere, have constantly come and gone through the crowded financial district of New York without being recognized.

No Fears Held For Missing Arctic Fliers

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 5. (UP)—Forced down by fog, Maj. P. G. Deckard, representing the Aviation corporation in an expedition to search for Lieut. Carl Ben Eielson, Arctic explorer, reported today he would continue here as soon as weather permits.

Latest information received here indicated location of another plane in the expedition, which had been separated from Major Deckard's craft during the fog, was unknown. No fears were felt for the missing airmen, however, as they were over territory fairly well populated and were experienced.

RAIDERS RAIDED

Liquor Found Aboard Six Coast Guard Ships, Report Says

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 5. (US)—Surprise search of six coast guard destroyers on the high seas has resulted in the finding of more contraband liquor, it was disclosed here tonight.

The total of whisky seized aboard the destroyers as they cruised about, seeking rum runners, is tentatively placed at 24 bottles. It is said final figures may be higher.

Some of the 24 or more bottles were discovered aboard each of the six vessels comprising the division commanded by Commander G. T. Finley.

LEAHY'S AIDE FOUND GUILTY

Martinez Given Five Years In Ramsey Slaying

GEORGE WEST, Texas, Jan. 5. (AP)—Roberto Martinez, whose confession of his part in the murder of Dr. J. A. Ramsey, Mathis physician, three years ago was largely responsible for the conviction and subsequent electrocution of Harry J. Leahy, was convicted and a sentence of five year's imprisonment fixed by a jury here which reported this morning.

Martinez has been in jail since 1926. His confession alleged that he enticed Dr. Ramsey from his home on the night on the pretext the physician was to visit a sick woman. He drove the doctor in his automobile to the place where Leahy waited. After Leahy forced Dr. Ramsey to sign several papers, Leahy struck Dr. Ramsey over the head with an iron bar. When Ramsey showed signs of life Leahy cut his throat, dumped the body into a shallow grave and covered it with rats' nests, the confession alleged.

Martinez claims that he did not know Leahy intended to kill Dr. Ramsey and that after the murder had been committed he became frightened and left, being arrested at Laredo several days later. He then led officers to the grave.

Leahy was tried first here and given 50 years. A new trial was granted and the case transferred to Georgetown where he was given the death penalty and electrocuted several months ago after an insanity trial had failed to free him from the penalty.

Suspect Maintains Denial of Bombing

SEAT PLEASANT, Md., Jan. 5. (AP)—Continued questioning by detectives today failed to shake denials of Clarence W. Brady, dairy farmer, that he knew anything of the bomb which on New Year's day took the life of Mrs. Naomi Brady, his niece by marriage, and two other persons.

With his persistent denials and the paucity of clues to the identity of the person who prepared and sent the gaily wrapped bomb package, the impression grew that Brady probably would be freed.

Suspected Aliens Are Held for Investigations

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5. (AP)—The 11 Chinese arrested here by immigration authorities on suspicion of being aliens smuggled into the United States by an international syndicate were being held today awaiting further investigation at Houston, New York and San Francisco.

Immigration officals at Galveston have been ordered to make a thorough investigation of the Norwegian steamship Toluma, which landed the aliens at Houston from Iquique, South America.

Man With Broken Wooden Leg Accosts Judge

CHICAGO, Jan. 5. (UP)—Court attaches here were startled when Harry Eaken tossed a piece of wood upon Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen's desk with the words:

"That's part of my leg. I came to Chicago from Indiana Harber, Ind., and a truck bumped into me and broke my leg in two. I think that since my leg was broken in Chicago, Chicago ought to pay for getting it fixed."

Judge Immenhausen gave him $4 and told him where he could find a carpenter to get the leg repaired.

STUDENT HOME FOR HOLIDAYS KILLS FATHER

Boy's Mother, Shot Thrice, Tells of Affair From Hospital Bed

SLAYER SURRENDERS

University of Illinois Scholar Placed Under Observation

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 5. (AP)—Allan Schumm, 17, student at the University of Illinois, shot and killed his father and seriously wounded his mother in their home here today after asking them if they believed in God and requesting them to pray.

Immediately after the shooting Schumm telephoned a friend and surrendered to police. He made no coherent statement to authorities and was placed under guard in the observation ward at City hospital.

Schumm was home for the holidays. He attended a party last night and returned home about 2 a. m., his mother said. She said he had not been drinking, but had bee reading a great deal and recently had acted queer. Instead of going to bed when he came home the mother said, he sat up and read a while and then called his parents into the living room and asked them if they believed in God. When they replied in the affirmative, he asked them to pray, and then, without warning, drew a revolver and began shooting.

The father, William Schumm, was shot to death. The mother was shot three times through the hips and lower part of the body.

Another son, Arthur also is a student at the Illinois university. He was visiting relatives at Decatur, Ill., at the time of the shooting.

YOUNG HUSBAND MURDERS THREE

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 5. (AP)—Arrested in his bed at his home in Ogden, Utah, today, Delbert Green, 20, confessed to officers he had slain his young wife, her mother, and her stepfather, James Green, who also was his uncle.

The triple slayings occurred about midnight at the home of the uncle in Davis county, about 30 miles north of here, where Mrs. Delbert Green had gone yesterday after a family quarrel.

The slayer told officers he had followed his wife to her mother's home "determined to settle matters."

"I figured I would bump them off and then bump myself off," he added. "I would have killed myself but the gun jammed."

Denver Court Comments On Husband's Obligations

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 5. (UP)—A husband's obligations to his wife involve more than invitations to dances, County Judge George Luxford ruled in refusing to grant a divorce to David W. Gray.

Gray charged his wife ordered him from their home and eat in the back seat when he took her for an automobile drive.

"Well, what have you done to get together with your wife," Judge Luxford asked.

"I've asked her to go to dances with me," Gray replied.

"Case dismissed," said the court.

Pupils of Modern 'Fagan' Held in Robbery Wave

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 5. (UP)—Four youths, who said they learned the art of safe-cracking from a modern "Fagan" in the Buena Vista, Colo., reformatory, were under arrest here tonight, charged with more than 100 robberies and burglaries.

Police said the quartet had been operating in Denver and other large Colorado cities for several months, and made away with loot estimated at $10,000, including $3,000 in stamps and bonds of the Colorado Public Service company.

"Good Cooking" First Essential Of Marriage Bliss, Man Writes Editor

Answers to Beatrice Burton's question: "What Makes a Happy Marriage?" are already piling up in the office of The Record News whose readers have been invited to write 200-word letters in response to the query. Prizes have been offered for the best letters, written by men and women, offering solutions to the problem.

Beatrice Burton, widely known newspaper writer and novelist, has put the question in connection with her new novel, "Lovejoy," which is to start in serial form in the Jan. 8 issue of The Record News. Readers over Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma have been asked to help her find the answer, and already dozens of them have sent in their solutions.

One of the contestants, a man, was very prompt and definite in his suggestions. "Let the wife be a good cook and you have no marriage problem," he asserts. "No man can be happy with canned fruit and scorched steak, and no sane man would be willing to leave three real meals a day."

In the same mail came another letter which calls for more flowers and fewer hip flasks as a sound foundation for a happy home life. Others have ideas about the budget system, allowances for wives, and

Pastor Says Limitation of Babies, Not Navies, Will Assure Peace

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. (UP)—The stork, not the eagle, is the real bird of war; and the London naval limitation conference must be followed by a limitation of babies conference if peace is to endure, Charles Francis Potter, pastor of the New Humanist church, argued today in his sermon.

"Since over-population is one of the primary causes of war, it is evident that peace lovers are advocates of birth control, that is, if they are consistent," said Potter.

"It is not only Mussolini's belligerency which makes him one of the greatest menaces to world peace: It is his opposition to birth control in his already over-populated country.

"In Mussolini's country, and in some others, it is the stork, not the eagle, which is the real bird of war. The limitation of armaments conference in London this month should be supplemented by a limitation of population conference.

"Strange as it may seen, babies are more dangerous than battleships when there are too many of them."

Potter, though only 44, has had a distinguished career as a clergyman, first as a Baptist, later as a Unitarian pastor. He was an expert Bible witness for the defense in the Stopes evolution trial—the famous "monkey trial"—at Dayton, Tenn., in 1925. He no longer uses his former title of "Reverend."

NEW LIFE ON SOUTH PLAINS

800 Families Buy Homes In Section

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Jan. 5.—Two million dollars of new money has been brought into the South Plains section by new farmers since Aug. 1, a check with real estate dealers, lumber yards and other sources, reveals.

This figure represents initial expenditures of some 800 new farmers who have purchased new homes on the South Plains this fall.

Land Sales Increase

The fact that land sales are far above what they have been since the busy days of 1925 is conclusive proof that the advertising being carried in farm journals by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce under the name of South Plains, Inc., is bringing the desired results to an even greater extent than was anticipated.

A check with leading land agents of Lubbock and a number of South Plains towns shows a total of approximately 800 new farms sold to newcomers since Aug. 1. These farmers paid at least $800 cash on a quarter section of land and many have paid cash for the entire tract. The minimum on that number of farms is $640,000. They are spending an average of $1,000 for their initial improvements which totals $800,000. Necessary tools, furniture and other supplies will easily bring the figure to the two-million-dollar mark. The grocery bill for these new families this year will be approximately $160,000.

Population Grows

Eight hundred farms may not sound like a big number but taking the average family of five, this means an increase of population on the South Plains of 4,000, which is the same as the total population of the entire city of Lubbock 10 years ago when the last federal census was taken.

While the marketing of farm lands has been remarkably brisk during August, September, October, November and the first part of December, land dealers say that the latter part of December, January, February and March are the best months for selling land, so many, many more families are expected to move in on the South Plains land before planting time.

Over 5,000 inquiries have been received from every state in the nation and from foreign countries in response to the advertising and many visitors have called at the chamber of commerce office personally when they came to see this section. Land dealers say that there are from 50 to 100 per cent more prospectors visiting here this fall to see the South Plains section than ever before.

After approximately two years of study and planning, the advertising committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce started the colonization campaign about a year ago with actual advertisements appearing in such publications as the The Country Gentleman, the Dairy Farmer, the Progressive Farmer, the Farm and Ranch, the Farm, Stock and Home, and other publications.

New Campaign

Just recently new advertisements have started appearing in these publications again, after an absence during the period when farmers were most busy with harvesting their crops.

The committee expects to see the South Plains of Texas settled and developed to a greater extent in the next five years than it would have progressed in the next 15 without the stimulus of the publicity campaign.

The results obtained already are remarkable, however they are nominal as compared to the results that will be obtained in the next several years when the campaign has had time to gain additional momentum. The longer the campaign runs, the better the South Plains will be known and the more people over the nation will know and appreciate the agricultural advantages that await them here.

Members of the committee are: R. J. Murray, chairman; S. A. Wells, Charles F. O'Neall, R. C. Hopping, W. P. Soash, Jed Rix, I. C. Enochs, W. A. Myrick Sr., and H. L. Allen.

Newly Married Memphis Coach Is Prank Victim

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 5.—Coach Nolan Walter, recently married, received rather rough treatment upon his return to Memphis from his honeymoon last Wednesday. Upon the arrival of the newlyweds they went to the home of Rev. E. T. Miller and just as they were sitting down to a turkey dinner about 6 o'clock, the coach was abducted by a mob and placed in the city bastille.

After many citizens of the city had visited the city lockup and viewed the newly married coach, his confederates assisted him to escape from his imprisonment, which release was brought about by breaking down the jail door.

In answer to a question asked the coach by an interviewer if he had anything to say about his imprisonment he replied: "I am for better and cleaner jails."

Coach Walter was married Dec. 24 to Miss Virginia Hockenhull of Clovis, N. M.

Sheriff Aids Jury In Probe of Forgeries

The assistance of the sheriff's department here in presenting the circumstances of an alleged series of forgeries all over Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma to the Baylor county grand jury next week was sought Sunday in a conference between Sheriff Arch Holmes of Seymour, and W. G. Bralley.

Two of four men arrested last week in Quanah and charged with passing forged instruments in at least nine towns are being held in Seymour where the first of the indictments are being sought. The other two are still in jail in Quanah, awaiting grand jury action.

Sheriff Bralley and his deputies recently seized a check protector, stamps and pads in a raid on a local home, completing what is believed to be a chain of evidence tracing operations of a forgery gang throughout this section of the state.

Odd Fellows Honor Barry Miller At Banquet and Lodge Ceremonies

Plans for the reception of Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller, who will arrive in Wichita Falls at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon to attend the special ceremonies of the local Odd Fellows lodge, had been completed Sunday evening, according to J. B. Marlow, in charge of arrangements.

A reception committee will meet the lieutenant governor at the train and escort him to Mr. Marlow's office at 205 Perkins-Snider building, where a short conference will be held. The vistor will then be taken for a drive over the city in which members of the committee will point out to him the show places of Wichita Falls and give him a picture of the development of this vicinity.

At 6 o'clock Monday evening a banquet in honor of Lieutenant Governor Miller and other visiting dignitaries of the Odd Fellows lodge will be given at the Wichita club. Following the banquet the gathering will meet at the Odd Fellows hall to begin the special ceremonies in which a class of 33 candidates will receive the initiatory degree of the order.

The degree team for the ceremonies will be composed of representatives from a great number of the lodges in this section of the state. Word had been received by Mr. Marlow Sunday that large groups from Grandfield, Electra and Crowell would attend the ceremonies. Other towns will also send delegations. In addition to Lieutenant Govenor Miller, who is Texas grand master of the I. O. O. F., the grand secretary, E. Q. Vestal, and other grand officers will be in Wichita Falls for the meeting.

Man Held in Minor Auto Crash Accused of Car Theft

By the mere chance of having seated a man in the office of the chief of police instead of taking him into the room where sat the desk sergeant, police Sunday captured a man who had been driving an automobile which had been stolen several days ago from Memphis, Tenn.

The car and its driver had been in a minor accident here a few days ago and Plainclothes Officer F. E. Summers and Motorcycle Officer John Lowry sought out the man Sunday to bring him to the station in order to settle damages involved in the accident. On the way to the station, the man explained he had already settled for the damage. Officers asked him to wait in the chief's office while they ascertained settlement of the crash.

While there, the man was asked a few questions. Not satisfied with his answers, officers glanced through the stack of cards from other cities on which descriptions of stolen cars were given. The top card was the one notifying of the theft of the car from Memphis.

COUNT'S REVUE PROVES HIT

Unit Vaudeville Scores at Majestic

By W. L. UNDERWOOD
The Record News Staff

Regardless of the details of just how one gets to be a count, or just how a count emerges from the war as an impressario on a limited scale, the fact remains that Count Berni Vici and his 24 hits of feminine personality presented a program Sunday afternoon at the Majestic which the folks liked, and liked unusually.

Count Berni Vici visited the Majestic two years ago, and has not discarded all the patterns used in the very acceptable bit of vaudeville structure given at that time. But the garment has many new flounces now, elaborate new trims and profuse adornment that the count had not corraled for his earlier performance here.

The girl revue now being offered is conspicuous in that it contains a sufficient number of girls to afford special talent for a variety of numbers. Let it be said that the songs are assigned to singers, and conversely, that the dancers are not asked to sing. And each, according to his lights, performs commendably. The fact that some of the girls may have to glance over their shoulders to greet the succulent age of 20 does not reflect on their billing as a bevy of beauties. Ample finesse of face and figure is enhanced also by truly extravagant sets in Broadway revue style.

The show halted only to give Hilton & Almy's "gab-fest" opportunity to resume, for the spontaneous line of chatter quick took a toe-hold on popular acclaim. Another feature was the "River Suite," given by the symphonic band and pointed by Miss Ted Leslie's "Ole Man River." Miss Leslie, by the way, presents one of the few real tenor voices possessed by women, and wields it with a virile dramatic punch. The orchestral instrumentation contains all the gadgets, gewgaws, and toys ever conceived for the typical stage band of the present era, and they find ways to use most of them.

The rhythmic quaking of the count's knees, moved by the power of his music, might cause some little distress during the early moments of the revue. The engaging smile which reaches its prime later under the prodding of Hilton and Almy leaves the knees quite free to do what they wish, however, with little fear of detection.

Lenore Ulric in "Frozen Justice," and a wide-swinging Paramount news reel, complete the show, which continues through Monday.

Cut in Vernon Fire Rate Is Announced

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 5.—Notice of a reduction of five cents in the fire insurance key rate of Vernon was received here Saturday by Mayor H. D. Hockersmith from the state insurance commission. The rate is now 24 cents, having dropped from 36 cents in the past three years. The latest reduction resulted from the installation of the new 500,000-gallon storage tank. It is estimated the latest cut will effect a saving of almost $5,000 annually for Vernon property owners.

Injured Mechanic Clings to Life

Although the condition of W. R. McSpadden, mechanic for the Dixon Motor company who was critically injured when crushed beneath an automobile in the shop Friday, was reported unchanged Sunday night, physicians still held little hope for his recovery.

With a serious fracture of the spine and several ribs crushed by the terrific impact, McSpadden has gripped the slender thread of life since the day of the accident, although his condition has neither improved nor become more serious. With such injuries, it would be difficult to determine what the eventual result will be, physicians said.

McSpadden has a wife and two boys, Thurmond, 12, and Albert, 10. The family lives at 2506 Avenue G. The family has lived in Wichita Falls for the past 11 years, Mr. McSpadden having been connected with the Dixon Motor company for the past two years. The cause of the acident has never been determined, the hoist by which the car was suspended having given way to crush McSpadden underneath.

Fire Officials Seek Source of False Alarms

Officials of the fire department Sunday afternoon launched an investigation following the ringing of there alarm boxes in widely separated sections of the city during a period of a few hours. The first alarm came if shortly after 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Trucks from central station speeded to the location of the box near the ball park, but found no fire. Questioning of bystanders led to the arrest of four Mexican boys, who were lodged in the city jail and held for investigation Monday.

A second alarm came in from the box at Sixth street and Brook avenue about 6:45 p. m. and trucks again failed to find a blaze. The identity of the persons who broke into the box could not be learned. The last false alarm came in from the box at Fourth and Lee streets about 7:15 o'clock Sunday evening.

Bloomers are named after Ann Bloomer, who was the first woman to wear this type of dress.

The temperature of molten lava is estimated from about 2,200 degrees to 3,600 degrees Fahrenheit.

NAVAL PARLEY TO OPEN SOON

Reduction of Armaments Is Object of Conclave

ference. They are the British super-dreadnaughts, Rodney and Nelson.

Four other 16-inch gun ships have been completed since that conference—the American Maryland, West Virginia and Colorado, and the Japanese Mutsui.

Those six ships are the only major naval vessels afloat designed and built after the battle of Jutland gave all designers a chance to know from actual combat what future fleet engagements would be like.

Ratio Set in 1921

The 1921 conference set the ratio for heavy ships—battleships and airplane carriers—at 5-5-3-1.75-1.75. The United States and Great Britain thus have five capital ships to Japan's three. France and Italy have the technical comparative strength of one and three-quarters.

The United States now has 18 capital ships, totaling 525,850 tons. Great Britain has 20 of 556,350 tons. Japan has 10 of 301,320 tons. The latest available figures—as of Oct. 1, 1928—show that France has nine capital ships of 194,556 tons. The same statistics give Italy's capital ships at five of 109,220 tons.

France and Italy have not seen the strategic need of great capital fleets. Their point is that they require submarines as an offensive weapon. As defensive weapons against sub-sea craft, they demand vessels which cleave the water fast enough to guarantee maximum efficiency in tracking down the slipping gray hulls of submarines.

At the 1921 conference, the primary object was to set some comparative ratio between the five nations for the lesser craft. The maximum advanced were not considered to give the ultimate for national protection.

Geneva Conference

President Coolidge's ambition was to do the same thing at the Geneva conference. Great Britain, the United States and Japan adjourned their ensuing three-power conference—after France and Italy, seeing no common ground, refused to enter—when the United States would not consider, as too high, the English figures for cruiser tonnage.

In 1921, France set her submarine requirements at 90,000 tons. And, as the Anglo-American proposition to abolish the submarine as an instrument of warfare was promulgated, France had 40,656 tons of submarines afloat, and 40,331 tons in process of construction, according to the 1928 figures, which are the latest available.

The compilation of French navy strength, now being revised, also shows that 2,480 tons of submarines have been appropriated for.

The same figures show Italy's existent submarine tonnage to be 15,243 tons; 17,000 tons in construction, and 4,368 tons appropriated for.

Submarine Tonnage

The actual submarine tonnage of the United States is 77,062; two submarines, totaling 5,520 tons, are under construction and three more of 4,650 tons have been authorized.

The British empire has 50 submarines in existence, of 42,061 tons; 14 of 21,860 tons, under construction, and six of 9,420 tons authorized.

Japan's submarines afloat total 61,257 tons—61 vessels. Six submarines of 10,220 tons are under construction and four of 6,920 tons have been authorized.

In cruiser strength, Great Britain leads. She has 52 in commission, five times as many as the United States. Ten more are in process of construction or authorized. The construction of two, the Surrey and Northumberland, have been held up due to the pending conversations.

The United States has an existent cruiser tonnage of 70,500 tons, consisting of 10 vessels. In addition, she has 179,000 tons of obsolete cruisers which are to be scrapped. The British tonnage is 311,991.

However, 23 additional American cruisers fall in the categories of "under construction" and "authorized." Japan has 28 cruisers in existence and five under construction.

The 1928 figures show that France has 12 first line, or effective cruisers; three are being built and one has been appropriated for. Italy has 12 first-line cruisers; six are being built and two have been appropriated for.

In destroyers, the United States has 284 vessels, 55 of which are ready for the scrap heap at some relatively close future date. The total is 290,304 tons. No additional destroyers are planned.

The existent British tonnage in destroyers is 150,280—153 vessels. Twenty-nine additional are under construction or are authorized.

Japan has 99 destroyers afloat and 16 under construction or authorized.

France has 60 effective destroyers and 18 more in construction. Italy's destroyer strength consists of 73 vessels; 12 are being built and four have been authorized.

Heavy Ticket Sale Indicates Good Crowd for Lauder Program Here

Continued heavy reservation of seats Sunday for Harry Lauder's appearance at the Memorial auditorium Tuesday night, Jan. 7, indicate that citizens of the Wichita Falls community will turn out in great numbers to hear the famous Scotchman's program of wit and music.

There is a feeling that Tuesday's concert will afford residents of this section probably the last opportunity for hearing the voice and humor which have carried on for many decades before innumerable hearers in all parts of the world. Lauder is a veteran in point of years as well as in number of performances given, and it will be surprising if another tour of the United States brings Sir Harry to the Southwest.

Much of the charm which Harry Lauder's singing holds originates in the pure Scotch dialect which he has retained, and which is in itself fraught with genuine humor to the average listener. Irrepressible good nature, and the faculty for finding a funny side to any situation, are his greatest graces, however. The bouyant spirit which served to combat the depressing ennui of trench life among British soldiers in France, and which endured the loss of a son in the great war without faltering, has endured to make Sir Harry one of the most refreshing entertainers of the present day.

With almost 4,000 desirable seats available in the Memorial auditorium, it is anticipated that one of the largest concert crowds ever assembled in that building will be on hand Tuesday night for the Lauder program. Tickets are on sale at the Renfro drug store, Eighth and Scott.

HOME-TOWN TALK

alarming and is doubtless due to the attraction of the stock market to so many people.

Now that they have lost their savings in the stock market they can turn again to the slower but less hazardous means of accumulation. After so painful a lesson in the stock market, we can expect to see savings again increase in 1930.

A writer in the North American Review points out that there are always more people in a stock market boom at its apex—the point where the crash comes—than are in the market at the start of the boom. As a bull market goes along it constantly attracts more people and the greatest number are in the market when the elevator cuts loose. It sounds plausible and it is a fact.

H. C. Cheshire who is sponsoring the appearance here Tuesday night of Harry Lauder reports that orders for tickets have been received from Breckenridge, Archer City, Olney, Megargel, Henrietta, Vernon, Burkburnett, Electra, Iowa Park, Petrolia, Byers, Dundee, Seymour, Crowell, Quanah and Walters, Duncan and Frederick, Okla., and other towns. More than a hundred dollars worth of orders have come from a single town.

The time was when every good show that came to Wichita Falls brought people in from these towns. This was before the day of paved and macadamized roads over which those who come in Tuesday night will travel were built.

The response that the coming of Harry Lauder has met indicates that there is still plenty of patronage for the right kind of an attraction here. Mr. Cheshire has another good attraction coming in January, The Connecticut Yankees.

It may not be generally known that Christmas has not always been observed on the 25th of December. There was no celebration of the Nativity until nearly 100 years after the death of Jesus. Since then it has been observed on the first and sixth of January, the 29th of March, the 29th of September, the 19th of April and the 20th of May.

Claude Grows Without Boom

By IDA M. THOMAS
Record News Correspondent

CLAUDE, Texas, Jan. 5.—Claude is not on a "boom" but it is developing with each year. This is due to a great extent to the wide acreage of rich and fertile fields that surround the city on every side. The greater portion of these fields produce bountiful crops of golden wheat almost every year. Other crops, corn, cotton, maize, kaffir, cane, many different kinds of garden, truck and orchard products do well around Claude, and large herds of cattle are still to be found on some of the ranches and farms.

The cattle industry is not decreasing. It is true there has been a great reduction in the number of cattle roaming the plains around Claude and other parts of the Texas Panhandle, but the increase in quality makes up for and perhaps exceeds the decrease in quantity. Many of the large ranches have been cut up and dotted here and there with farm houses, and many of the pastures have been broken up and changed into golden wheat and waving corn fields.

Another industry that is proving very satisfactory in this section of the state is dairying. Many farmers make more than their living with their milk, cream and butter. With a good market for these products, which is found in Amarillo, 35 miles west of Claude, this business has proven successful. Cream separators are used on many of the farms, where the pure cream alone is marketed, and the skimmed milk is used in fattening hogs for the market or for home consumption.

The poultry industry also has proven successful. Each year there may be seen large flocks of chickens and turkeys on almost every farm throughout the county. Some of the chicken raisers order several hundred baby chicks each spring, from the hatcheries, giving them an earlier start in their work and brings on early laying pullets for the next season. A good market for the large production of chickens and hogs is also found in Amarillo.

Farmers and citizens of Armstrong county have learned by the best of teachers, experience, that it is by far the wisest plan to practice the art of diversification. This practice has aided greatly in solving financial problems.

Owing to the great rainfall in the early fall months, the wheat fields are looking fine in this section. Cattle are wintering well on wheat, and good grass that still remains in some of the pastures. About all the cotton has been brought in to market, and farmers are making preparations for their 1930 row crops.

Two large granaries, one of which was erected in the past year, are waiting for the big grain crops that are predicted for another season.

Choppy Seas Halt Hunt For Plane Crash Victims

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 5. (UP)—Choppy seas today prevented renewed efforts to recover from the Pacific ocean the bodies of seven of 10 men who perished when two movie camera planes collided head-on off Point Vicente.

One of the planes had been hooked by a mine sweeper and dragged to within a mile and a half of shore late Saturday and it remained there today, its position told by a bobbing marker.

STRESS PLACED ON TERRACING

Jackson County Farmers Show Progress in This Line

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Jan. 5.—The most outstanding work of farmers in Jackson county during the year of 1929 has been the development of farm terracing, according to the annual government report of agricultural activity submitted recently by W. B. Forrester, Jackson county agricultural agent.

Extensive work has been carried out in the past year in terracing farms, as a part of agricultural engineering, one of the four major farm projects of the year in Jackson county, according to reports. A large number of terracing demonstrations were held on farms in different parts of the county, which with farm meetings, and regular terracing schools, have helped to promote interest in methods of terracing, and have as the main result, increased the production of Jackson county farm products to a considerable degree.

Farmers Instructed

Demonstrations on terracing conducted by Forrester throughout the year have aided in instructing farmers in the county on laying terrace lines, use of farm level, and on the advantage of terracing farms, particularly those which are on level land. Examples of a great number of Jackson county farmers, who have terraced their farms recently, and of the outstanding results they have had in large increased production of crops, in saving time, labor and soil, are given in the report.

Other phases of county farm projects include the development of building ditches for farm drainage, and installation of septic tanks.

Hatheries Established

The establishment of four county hatcheries, with community hatching for farmers' poultry crops, and the instruction in a county poultry school held duing the year are listed as chief among the steps gained in the development of poultry raising in Jackson county in 1929.

The interest of county farmers during the year in poultry treating in housing and culling problems and in building of better poultry houses is a definite factor showing the increase in interest among farmers in this section.

Plans for more extensive development of poultry raising in 1930 are made, with the holding of such shows in many of the community school buildings, by means of funds provided this year by Jackson county.

Four dairy judging schools have been held in different communities the past year and the membership in the county dairy clubs has been increased greatly during the year. This has led to the increase of dairying on a large number of Jackson county farms, and in a greater effort to improve breeding stock.

Account School

One farm account school was held in the county, which aided many farmers in learning more definitely the methods of accounting to be followed on the farm.

Plans for intensive work for riddance of farm rodents and other agricultural pests are given in the report, as one of the minor projects for 1929 and 1930. This is being partly accomplished through the aid of funds for destroying rodents, provided by the county commissioners.

The activities of 19 local 4-H club organizations, including a membership of 952 farm boys, and a record of 1,077 demonstrations, are further listed in the annual government report.

Crowd Delirious

Amid the booming of cannon and shouts of greeting, the couple arrived at the palace. The crowd was delirious with excitement, having acclaimed the Italian and Belgian sovereigns when they appeared on the palace balcony.

John W. Garrett of Baltimore, United States ambassador to Italy, and Mrs. Garrett, who live nearby in the Rospigliosi palace, deserted points of vantage offered them, and stood behind the rank of soldiers in order to see better.

At the palace, the prince and princess came out on the balcony. At Marie Jose's right stood her father, and at left the queen of Italy. Humbert had the queen of Belgium and his father to his left. The royal party retired, but was drawn back by the crowd's plaudits. Finally the young couple alone came out on the balcony in answer to the renewed demonstration. They made three more appearances before the crowd was satisfied.

Prince Joins Fiancee

Nearly 20,000 picked troops lined the route followed by the royal party from the railroad station to the palace.

The princess' day began with a reception at Civita Vecchia at 8:30 a. m. An hour later, when the royal train slowed at the Trastevere station, on the right bank of the Tiber, Prince Humbert climbed aboard and rode with the Belgian party to the central terminus. This surprise visit added perceptibly to the princess' pleasure. She fairly beamed when she alighted in Rome, where she was fondly embraced by her future father-in-law and mother-in-law.

D. A. R. Chapter Entertains With Luncheon Program

A New Year's luncheon at the country club Saturday more than fulfilled the traditions established by the Major Francis Grice chapter D. A. R. for beauty of setting and interest in program. Mesdames Jasper Ferguson, Dudley Golding, C. L. Granberry, Louis Gold, S. Y. Ferguson, Fred T. Couper, and Miss Catherine Garrett were hostesses.

White and green were the new year colors observed and the table was particularly attractive with baskets of narcissi and ferns, and white candles in crystal holders. Ivy and fern trailed the length of the table and the place cards, marked "Happy New Year" were made and hand painted by Miss Mary Dean Smith of San Jacinto school.

When the guests were seated, Mrs. Couper announced that at the first meeting in the new year, she wished two toasts to be given, one to the year that has been and one to the coming year. She gave a toast in Scotch to the year that had passed:

"Here's to the year that's awa'
That has fil baith the bin and the sta';
An' in leavin' sic fouth abund
We can slaken our drouth
Wi' the gifts o' the year that's awa!"

Mrs. A. H. Carrigan gave the toast for the coming year. She expressed the wish that in the new year, the D. A. R. organization would do many worthwhile things as it has been doing in the past and closed her toast with Tennyson's "Ring, Bells, Ring."

In the routine business, a report was given by Mrs. Sterling Crumpler for the children of the American Revolution who sent a splendid box to the Tamassee school supported by the D. A. R. in South Carolina. The flag committee reported they had voted to present a flag to San Jacinto school.

Mrs. W. H. Sanford was leader in the program and introduced Mrs. E. C. de Montel, who gave a paper on the national defense policies of the D. A. R. organization. The D. A. R.'s, Mrs. de Montel said, want peace, talk peace and teach peace, but they believe in the policy of preparedness for peace and the prevention of war by being prepared.

Mrs. W. F. Fischer gave the general views on national defense of the D. A. R. sent out through their literature. She said they were fighting communism and those forces which, originating outside of America, creep in and tear down national ideals. She told of organized forces at work in the United States to spread and break down the home life of America and stated these forces must be fought by all patriotic citizens' organizations.

Vistors introduced were Mesdames Thomas Burns from Illinois; W. S. Potts, Clarinda, Ohio; E. A. Sterling, I. C. Brown, Oklahoma City; Charles Howe, Kansas City, Mo.; W. E. Parshall, V. C. Calvin, D. R. Nelson, Titusville, Pa.; and M. C. Garrett. Mesdames John Hampton, Dewey Copelin, Gug Rogers and Miss Mary Dean Smith were introduced as new members.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

You must be careful what methods you use to teach children. We know of two small youngsters in Oklahoma who were cautioned never to put their knives in their mouths. "Look out," their father would say, "or you'll cut your tongue off." One day a prominent farmer came to the house for dinner—a man who had accumulated money but one who had not accumulated table manners. Little Betty watched him with awe. "Look out, Mr. Ellis," she finally said warningly, "or you'll cut your tongue off." Her mother pinched her beneath the table, but she continued her admonition to the distress of the family.

One of the most vaunted of clubhouses is that of the American Woman's association in Manhattan, where the wealthy women of the country are directors and hold officer hours. Every convenience and many luxuries wait there for business women who can afford to use the building as a home. Miss Anne Morgan is one of the directors, observing her office hours like any ordinary business woman. And here we read that attending a meeting there, she hung her $3,000 baby lamb coat in the hall and returned to find a shabby fur garment in its place.

Temptation met some one and they succumbed. But our pity doesn't go out to the loser—who could afford to lose—nor to the thief—who will probably be caught—but to the "baby lambs."

◆ ◆ ◆

One cannot help feeling sympathy with most of the "little" things though our sympathy has not been expressed so far as one Wichita man's. He said he had a tender feeling for anything young, even young cars. He had no sympathy at all for old cars.

◆ ◆ ◆

If we go to picture shows and see with what hoots and howls the villain is received by young America and the intense admiration shown for virtue, we'd believe that our country is decidedly inclined toward morality. Yet that same little boy that hisses when the villain is about to succeed in his wickedness, will go out and kill a defenseless kitten in cold blood.

◆ ◆ ◆

Speaking of shows makes us think of a news item that tells us "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," or "Ruined by Drink," has now had its first presentation in England. Its poignant lines were received with thunderous roars of laughter.

◆ ◆ ◆

England has no Eighteenth amendment to make buying and selling or taking a drink a serious thing. She can afford to laugh at "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." She could not laugh at "stills" and "bootleg liquor," or "bootleg prescription," whisky that's bought as medicine and acts sometimes as a poisonous potion.

◆ ◆ ◆

Yet to us, the most serious thing confronting the world is not the question of prohibition. It is that of communism.

◆ ◆ ◆

We believe in freedom of opinion. But when we read of numbers of Russian farmers being executed because as "men of wealth"—owning more than one horse or two oxen, they objected to having their land taken by the state to be divided among many, we feel that communism has robbed a people of freedom of opinion. The state cannot think for every man.

And worse still, to read that Russia is planning to separate mothers and their babies. Can it be done? Never in America. And we question if mothers in any land would be willing to give up their children to the state—to break up the family and rob life of almost the only sweetness left to the routine driven workers. Home in America is a national ideal.

Leap year is omitted every concluding year of the centuries except when the number of the year is divisible by 400.

France now has the largest army in the world—about 6,700,000 men. Russia, with about half a million, comes second.

She Can't tell the Truth

It happens every month, but its very regularity makes excuses the more embarrassing. What a pity all women harassed by painful periods have not learned to depend on Midol!

A tiny tablet of Midol ends menstrual pain in five to seven minutes. Not even discomfort need now be experienced at such times. Your first trial of this marvelous product of specialists will prove the truth of this glorious news. Midol is not a narcotic and is perfectly harmless to use, but it acts directly on the organs affected and relieves completely and immediately in even severest cases. And Midol costs but fifty cents! You will find it at any drug store in handy little carrying case of aluminum that will tuck away in the smallest purse or pocket.—Adv.

Floral Heights League Has Large Attendance

Thomas C. Scott, incoming president of the Epworth young people of Floral Heights Methodist church, made a splendid talk on "The Young People's Pledge to the Council," when the league met at the church Sunday evening.

A song service opened the meeting and Mrs. George W. Truitt gave the devotional. Sentence prayers followed, led by Mary C. Boone and closed by Mildred Johnson.

Emmaline Lewis read a poem, "A Way to a Happy New Year," and Durwood Park, accompanied by Martha Johnson, gave two lovely violin numbers, "Mazurka de Concert," by Musen, and "The Song of India," as an encore.

Thomas Scott explained in his talk where the money given by the young people goes to serve the missionary work. Out of the appropriation of $1,086,546 for the promotion of missionary work in seven foreign fields and at home, made each year by the Woman's Missionary council of the M. E. Church, South, $50,000 has been assumed for the past four years by the young people.

Helen Ruth Connelley talked on the "Young People's Specials for the Quadrennium." For the past four years, she said, they have had as their foreign special, the Hiroshima girls' school at Hirashima, Japan, and as their home special, rural work in the homeland. For the next four years the home special will be "Social Settlement Work," and the foreign special, "Social Evangelistic Work in the Foreign Fields." She explained in an interesting way how these two types of missionary work grew to what they are today.

Several visitors were introduced and the Lord's prayer in unison dismissed the meeting. About 46 members were present.

Dix Advises Young Newlyweds to Buy Their Own Home

Is It Better for a Young Married Couple to Rent or to Own Their Own Home?—Strange Wife Who Wants to Get Rid of a Too-Generous Husband

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married less than ten years, have a small family, a working man's car—and a pile of rent receipts. All of my people are home owners and tell me that the time to buy a house is when the family is small and not later, and the great desire of my heart has always been to own my own home. But my wife's people are all rent payers and tell my wife that we are crazy to think and worry about a home. They enumerate the repairs, the taxes, the insurance, neighbors selling to undesirables and a hundred and one other reasons why it is folly to own your own home. But they have absolutely nothing to show for their years of effort. My wife is afraid of the "I-told-you-sos" of her family if we bought a house and flopped on the payment, and for the sake of some peace I shut up and give up the idea, but I still want my own home. What is your advice in the matter?

—STILL HOPEFUL.

Answer—My advice is to buy your home so that in a few years you may have something tangible to show for your labor and economies instead of just a few worthless scraps of paper. I regard the associations that make it possible to buy a home on the installment plan as nothing less than the guardian angels of poor young couples.

Of course there are drawbacks to owning a home, as your in-laws suggest. So there are to everything else in the world. Of course you will have to pay the repairs and the insurance and the taxes and the upkeep on a house if you own it, but you pay all of these on the house you rent, for the landlord figures them in on your rent. Somebody has to pay these bills and the landlord isn't in business for his health. He must get a profit out of owning and renting houses. So why not you?

One of the finest things that any young couple can do is to go intelligently in debt because that gives them something concrete to save for, and the best thing they can go in debt for is a home. Of course theoretically they can practice thrift by putting their money in the savings bank, but it takes more strength of mind than most people possess to do without the new car, the new radio, or the new dress, or taking a trip, or spending more than they should on running around, if they have the money lying idle in the bank.

But if indulging themselves in an extravagance means that they are likely to lose their home, they will cheerfully do without all the frills and scrimp on the actual necessities to meet their payments. Since the beginning of time men have fought and died for their homes and they will still work their fingers to the bone to protect them.

And there are just as many ethical reasons for owning your own home as there are financial ones. To begin with, you can't make a real home in a house that belongs to somebody else.

To really love a home so that it becomes a part of your life you have to do a lot of the work of making it with your own hands. You have to putter around it with nails and shelves and paint cans. You have to plant flowers and trees and shrubs and watch them grow. You can't have any feeling about a house where you don't live long enough even to remember the street number, or learn to find your way around in the dark.

Women are always complaining that they can't keep their husbands and children at-home. Undoubtedly it is because they never get to feel at home in a place before they pack up and move somewhere else. A child who is born in a hospital and migrates from apartment to apartment every year of its life couldn't possibly have any local attachments. Home isn't even a sentiment to it. It is just a place to come to eat and sleep and change your clothes on the way to somewhere else.

In one of Dickens' stories he tells about a couple of gay young bachelors who set up a kitchen for the moral effect the pots and pans would have upon them, and there is more than a little truth in this whimsy. Certainly owning their own home gives every young married couple a sense of responsibility that they do not feel if they are mere transients flitting from rented house to rented house. They feel themselves to be a part of the community in which they live, interested in its government, its improvements, its schools, its moral tone. And they have a standing in the community that the renters never have.

So I earnestly advise you to buy your own home. The best proof that it is a good thing to do is to be found in the fact that young couples who buy their homes on the partial-payment plan nearly always have a home of their own in the course of a few years' time, whereas those who do not buy homes have nothing.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—You are always telling wives what to do to keep their husbands. I am coming to you for advice on how to get rid of one. He is a wonderful young man, works every day, gives me his pay check, never says an unkind word to me. But I don't care for him and have told him so and asked him to leave me. I will not go to any place with him and half the time I will not even talk to him, he gets on my nerves so. Some times I think of leaving him, but I have a nice home, well furnished. I have a nice position, not because I have to work, but I dislike housework and like to work in an office. I save all my wages, so have a nice bank account. What shall I do?

—DOWNHEARTED.

Answer—I should say your technique for alienating a husband's affections couldn't be improved upon. If a cold, peevish, glum wife who won't go out with him or chum with him at home doesn't drive a man off in search of an affinity, nothing will.

Your husband must have the adhesive qualities of a mustard plaster if he still sticks to you after the way you treat him. The only thing left for you to do is to elope with another man, but probably he would come after you and take you back and forgive you even for that. So your case seems hopeless unless you pry him loose with a divorce.

Certainly your case is a sad one, as it is an unusual one. It is sad because it is pitiful to think of a woman flouting her blessings and having all the material for happiness in her hands and recklessly throwing them away.

Why, there are millions of women who are breaking their hearts over husbands who never give them one proof of love; over husbands who abuse and insult and beat them; over unfaithful husbands who are philandering after other women, who would give their very souls for a husband such as you have. And there are millions of women who would ask nothing better of heaven than to have a beautiful home like yours.

And you throw them all into the discard. You have no appreciation of your good, kind husband, no gratitude for his tenderness and generosity toward you, and you are downhearted because he loves you.

Can you beat it?

—DOROTHY DIX.

ROAD GAPS FILLED

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 5.—Two gaps in the pavement, one on Main street and the other on Avenue C, were filled in recently with concrete, thus relieving a very hazardous condition to motorists. Both these gaps are on highway 24. The filling in of these gaps was authorized a few weeks ago when a committee from the local chamber of commerce appeared before the commissioners court and requested that the gaps be included as a part of the highway program.

Reinald Werrenrath Will Sing January 27

Reinald Werrenrath, the popular American baritone, has done more, it is said, to foster and champion the cause of the American song writer and of American music in general than any musician now before the public. Any American song with real merit, he does his best to make popular.

Many singers cling to the tradition that it is more artistic to sing in French, German or Italian than to use their native tongue. But Mr. Werrenrath's sobriquet, is "An American Institution," and it seems to become more applicable yearly.

Wherever he is heard, he endears himself to his audience and he probably sings as many concerts annually as any other concert artist in the country.

He will be heard Jan. 27 at the Memorial auditorium under the auspicies of the Musicians club.

Scout Committee To Name Officers

A meeting of the new executive committee of the Wichita Falls Boy Scouts will be held at 12:15 p. m. Tuesday at the First Christian church, it was announced Sunday by scout officials. A luncheon will be served and members of the committee will outline plans for 1930. Election of permanent officers and heads of various subcommittees will occupy the remainder of the session, it was said.

Among the plans which will be discussed will be those for the quarterly jamboree to be held at the Memorial auditorium Friday, Feb. 14. Every scout troop in Archer, Clay and Wichita county will participate in the jamboree and a crowd of about 2,000 persons is expected to attend. The contests, games and discussions at the quarterly meet will be open to the public.

The date for the next board of review has been advanced to Monday night, Feb. 10.

The next session of the Scoutmaster's Training school will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at scout headquarters in the Memorial auditorium. Study for the night will be on first aid. Troop 20 will have charge of the opening and closing exercises.

Scout officials also announced Sunday the formation of plans for organizing a troop of sea scouts, composed of the older boys in scouting. All Boy Scouts, 16 years of age or older, interested in taking up such work have been asked to communicate with headquarters.

HOSPITAL DOCTORS ADVISE QUICK WAY TO END COLDS

Many Here Use Pleasant Way at Home to End Head Colds, Coughs, Chest Colds

By choosing a method that not only removes congestion but helps restore the breathing passages to a strong, healthy condition, P. C. Adams—like hundreds of people—has found the quickest and surest way to get rid of a disagreeable cold.

Mr. Adams had neglected his cold, hoping each day it would "cure itself." Instead it got worse, spreading down into his chest. Then he sought advice from the clinic, where doctors gave him double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. In a few hours he felt greatly relieved, and that night he could breathe freely through both nostrils and coughed very little. The next morning he felt like a different person—rid of the "feverish, grippy" feeling—and in another day or so, doctors report, he was completely free from the cold.

Note: See other cases being reported daily in this paper—all certified by the attending physician.

Ayer's Pectoral was hospital qualified to the best of different widely used methods tested for head colds, coughs and chest colds because it gave the quickest, surest relief—with absolute safety. It is now featured by all leading druggists.

WHAT THE WINDS SANG

Daily Editorial

TO A RUT-JOGGER:

If you're jogging along in a crowded way,
Stepping the same slow pace each day;
Like an old car-horse with his movements tracked,
It is time, my friend, you were soundly whacked
'Til your eyes are open to the fact,
That the land on either side of the road
Is a virgin field that may yet be sowed.

If you need more space in which to do
There's plenty of waiting room for you.
In farming, in business, in art, there are still Enormous deserts for wit to till.
What the world most needs are the magic seeds
That are spread as dreams and are reaped as deeds.

But the beaten paths where so many pant,
And jostle and rant, is no place to plant
For high endeavor. Nobody ever
Achieved distinction within a rut.
Or by following patterns the past had cut.
And the posted score declares you can't
Secure success at a bargain rate,
Or snare it with stale and borrowed bait.
You must force a gap through the throttling throng
If you really expect to come along.
But the man who pines, and the man who whines,
Who skulks away from the skirmish lines—
He isn't worth bothering over a minute;
He's out of the game, and he never was in it.

Early Frederick, Okla. Printer Visits Home

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Jan. 5.—Latham Denny, one of the first if not the first person to work in a printing plant in Frederick is now visiting his mother, Mrs. L. B. Denny, and recuperating from a nine week's siege of sickness. Denny, then a boy in his teens, began working as an apprentice on the Enterprise, first paper published in what is now Tillman county, in 1902. When R. H. Wessel bought the Enterprise in November, 1902, Denny began working for him, and was employed by him at various times, the last being about 15 years ago.

When Denny first began working on the Etnerprise he rode a bicycle to and from Frederick from his father's farm, about three miles southwest of this place. The paper was printed on a 10 by 15 job press, one page at a time, and the only power was foot power. After the paper was thus printed, a page at a time, it had to be assembled and folded by hand. Type was all set by hand. The only paper cutter was a butcher knife.

For the past 13 years Denny has been operating one of the linotypes on the Daily Oklahoman.

He was accompanied to this place by Mrs. Denny and their youngest son, Austin.

Under the Big Dome

GOVERNOR MOODY has let it be known that the legislature will be convened in special session on Jan. 20 and on that day the legislative hopper will begin its grinding.

Subjects submitted: First, to locate a prison within 20 miles of Austin. Second to limit fees of county officers to $12,500 maximum.

According to the members of the capitol press gang, whether other subjects may be laid before the session has not been disclosed but they quote the governor as having said he had made a New Year resolution to limit the work of the session.

A maximum salary of $12,500 "including fees" should be acceptable to office holders in the larger counties. Texans pay their governor $4,000 a year. They pay their high court judges $8,000.

Mayor James J. Walker of New York had his salary increased from $25,000 a year to $40,000. Knowing how to play the game he handed the $15,000 increase to seven charitable organizations of the city of New York.

Texans who are county officers would make themselves popular with taxpayers by handing the difference between $4,000 and $12,500 a year to the worthy charities in their respective communities.

If a Texas governor is expected to exist on $4,000 a year, why not a sheriff or a clerk or a prosecuting attorney, etc. Why the rank discrimination in the matter of salary between that of the chief executive of a commonwealth like Texas and the holder of a county office regardless of the population of the country or its wealth.

Perhaps some day the voters of Texas may come out of their trance and do justice to all concerned.

Get in Line for Community Progress

THE WICHITA FALLS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE and the Junior chamber of commerce are preparing for membership campaigns.

There are doubtless many business men and property owners in Wichita Falls who for one reason or another do not belong to either of these organizations.

The Junior chamber of commerce is a comparatively new organization and has not yet had opportunity to invite all the young men eligible to membership to join. The Junior chamber of commerce comprises a fine lot of enthusiastic and forward looking young men with which any young man could be proud to associate. It is no deprecation of the senior body to say that the Junior chamber of commerce has done more to sustain morale and stir up enthusiasm in recent months than any other organization in the city.

The people of Wichita Falls must realize the day is past when Wichita Falls will grow and improve without concerted community effort. The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce through which community effort must function. That organization has a new general manager now who brings seasoned experience and new ideas to Wichita Falls. There ought to be no reason why every business man and every owner of considerable property should not be a member and contribute to the support of the chamber of commerce.

Let's all get together within the coming weeks and support the constructive and forward looking program that we confidently expect will be developed. If the people of Wichita Falls do this no untoward circumstances can prevent progress and advancement.

SCIENCE service furnishes the following information: Some 60 lives lost in a coal mine explosion at McAlester, Okla., are part of the price the country pays to have fossil carbon to burn for industries and homes.

Every million tons of coal extracted from the ground in the United States, cost about three and a half human lives, a cheap price when viewed from the national and industrial standpoint and compared with other countries, but dear to the victims and their families.

It is said the McAlester disaster is the seventh major mine explosion in this country this year, compared with a total of 13 for last year.

Only 8 to 12 per cent of the coal mine fatalities are due to explosions, while over half of the 2,500 lives lost on the average each year are due to rock and coal falls in the mines. Human life is cheap, to say the least.

Sixty miners died at McAlester. There were many widows and many orphans. But the heart of humanity is not only sound but generous. To date, more than $40,000 has been contributed to relieve some of the distressed of those who are sorrowing.

Colonel Brisbane and Colonel House

COLONEL ARTHUR BRISBANE and Col. E. M. House are in the picture, Colonel Brisbane every day and Colonel House now and then. This reflection from the pen of Colonel Brisbane is interesting: "Colonel House, who once helped President Wilson pull the strings and now watching others pull them, says Great Britain must grant freedom of the seas and 'there might have been no world war if Britain had agreed to freedom of the seas.'"

Freedom of the seas is not an issue and will not be discussed at the London conference this month. President Hoover made the solemn announcement when Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald was a visitor to these hospitable shores and the prime minister made the same announcement on his return to the tight little isle.

For four centuries Great Britain has asserted its right or prerogative to be the sole mistress of the seven seas and has never abandoned the contention. Americans fought three wars with Great Britain to destroy the right or the claim of the so-called Mother of Christendom. Until the prerogative so-called is surrendered by Great Britain the navies of the world will not be dismantled.

Marriage for Two-- By Arthur Somers Roche

Burton Renews His Vengeance

The tale was only half told when they arrived at the house on West Thirty-eighth street. Hogan, grinning with joy, admitted them. Yes, his niece was still here, and only too anxious to serve her mistress. Luncheon would be ready at once. . . .

"How can I eat?" whispered Aunt Martha. "You mean to say, my child, that you were hungry?"

"Starving," said Joyce calmly. But she looked about the dainty table where Hogan hovered, and it seemed to her that she was reciting some memorized lesson. Could it be that she, Mrs. Lawrence Tracy, had been at her wits' end only—how long ago was it? Years, centuries?

"You poor dear," cried Mrs. Walton.

Then luncheon, and afterward the continuation of the tale.

"I din't think Larry had it in him. You know, my child, he is a bit of a stick."

"He is nothing of the sort," Joyce defended him.

"Well, I mean—he never was expelled from college—never gave his parents or guardians a bit of trouble—and to think—that cat, that Helen Wilson, did you know that she arrived yesterday?"

Joyce shook her head. "Came on the Paris. Frank Burton also. Impudent hussy! Came right to Biarritz, eh? Well, what happened there?"

But Joyce became vague from now on. She would not tell Aunt Martha of Larry's momentary defection. But Aunt Martha found great interest in the murder of Paul Weedon.

"Good family, too," she commented. "Knew his grandmother. Well, blood will tell, only you never can be sure what it will tell, can you? And this Billy Valdemagara—I want to know all about him. Was he in love with you?"

"Of course not," exclaimed Joyce.

"Then he was," said Mrs. Walton. "How did Larry like that?"

"I tell you he wasn't," insisted Joyce, "so naturally Larry—"

"And how long have you been in love with my nephew?"

"Now," said Joyce, "let's talk about you."

"Rubber's Down"

Aunt Martha smiled and launched into an outline of the plans she had tentatively made for the introduction of Joyce into the circles in which she belonged. Larry's arrival interrupted this. He responded half-heartedly to Hogan's greetings.

"Customs too much for you?" asked his aunt.

He shook his head. He held up an afternoon paper.

"Rubber's down 15 points," he said.

"Well, what of it?" asked his aunt. "It will come back, won't it?"

He shrugged. "I don't like it. The dividend was passed this morning. Meeting of the board. New officers elected. Frank Burton made chairman. Statement issued to press. Pessimistic. Oversupply. Retrenchment. If I get no dividends—" He turned to Joyce. "Lucky you sold."

"Sold what?" asked Aunt Martha.

"Larry gave me, oh, millions in stock and bonds of American and International Rubber Consolidated," Joyce told her. "I—I had a feeling—well, I sold it all by cable."

"A feeling?" Aunt Martha emphasized the words.

Joyce nodded. The elderly woman turned to her nephew.

"Frank Burton, eh? Engaged to Helen Wilson. I don't like it, Larry."

"Neither do I," he said.

"Still, when you own a stock outright—"

"If you own a stock outright," amended Larry.

"What do you mean?" his aunt demanded.

He shrugged. "I—well, I thought that if Joyce foolishly got rid of her rubber—well, I felt certain it would go up. So—I called instructions to margin 50,000 shares and put up my own stock as collateral—but Burton's a sound business man. He'll see to it that the company's stock doesn't drop too far."

"You're sure of that?" asked his aunt.

"Why would he want to depress the stock?" demanded her nephew.

His words were simple enough, but in his voice was apprehension.

"Did you see him when you were abroad? In Biarritz?"

"Of course," replied Larry. "Helen, too. Why?"

His aunt shrugged. "I don't know. Not important. Now—when will you children dine with me? Tomorrow night?"

Larry looked a Joyce. She spoke. "We'd love it," she said.

"Then it's settled. I thought you would, and I've invited a dozen people. Well, it's good to see my nephew and even better to see his wife."

She kissed Joyce enthusiastically and departed.

"She told me some of the talk that's been going on," said Joyce.

"What sort of talk?" Larry asked.

"They've given a name to the—the man that's reported to—to have kept me," said Joyce. "Dragon, the theatrical manager."

"Well?" said Larry.

"It—makes it hard—I thought you'd want to know."

"I would—if you had any idea.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Dablyn Crymes Probes a Big Robbery

Dablyn Crymes, the great detective, has been investigating that New York banquet holdup in which, according to the police, seven gunmen invaded a restaurant and robbed all the guests for no other reason than to get from a Chicago underworld character a murder contract carried on his person. The Chicago man was a guest at the banquet and, according to the strange story, the contract he carried guaranteed the killing of two men for $20,000 and was signed by a certain "vegetable king."

"I have found," reports Dablyn, "that the Chicago man carried not only a contract but a diary and some 11 pounds of other incriminating documents." He then produced the following copy of the diary:

Monday—Called on international carrot king and had jolly chat. He was in his best mood and wanted four men killed. I tried to get him to let the contract at my price, but he insisted on competitive bids.

Tuesday—Lunched with leek and lima bean baron, who had written in asking me to quote prices on bumping off six adults whose faces they did not like. I bid $10,000 each. He wanted them killed at the rate of three for $25,000. Finally compromised to do the entire six killings within 10 days for $52,000 or money refunded.

Wednesday—Nothing important. Killed a couple of onion merchants for scallion czar under contract 4578-B.

Thursday—Busy all day on contract 6786-B with cucumber magnate and contract 4578-C with well known yellow turnip and mashed potato potentate.

Friday—Very dull. Seven murders under old contract. No new business.

Saturday—In court on suit against cauliflower king for violation of contract. He accepted flat rate for taking rival for a ride, but refused to pay unless given a discount for cash.

The following postal, taken from a visiting gunman, was also shown by the great detective. It was to a big banana fritter magnate:

Dear Sir:

Your kind letter of the 11th inst. ordering two gross of killings at the rates quoted has been received and we are proceeding to fill same. Hoping to have your continued patronage, we are,

Yours truly,

Colds—Most Common Ailment

Colds are not restricted like mumps and measles to the younger generation, nor are they exclusively for people past 40, like apoplexy and cancer. Everyone is born with the free and equal privilege of contracting colds at any age.

It is estimated that every adult worker in the world loses an average of one to three weeks' work each year from the ordinary cold in the head, and there is undoubtedly an average of two or three weeks of inefficiency from this very plebian disease. It is said that colds cost the city of Chicago more than $20,000,000 a year from loss of work in industries.

Although probably the most common of all the diseases, very little is known by doctors about what causes a cold, since they have never been able to discover that it has any specific bacteria. Everyone, however, is familiar with the symptoms of having the head stopped up, the eyes throbbing and hurting, with a hoarseness in the throat, difficulty in breathing through the nose, then the hot burning sensation as the nose begins to run.

Colds may really prove serious by weakening the constitution so that dangerous diseases may develop. Chronic catarrh and sinus infection are the most frequent hangovers from colds, although influenza, pneumonia and tuberculosis are sometimes developed.

The number of people in civilized countries who have never had a cold, if put together, would probably not number more than a small sized community. Probably 99.9 per cent have felt that sudden and undignified need of a handkerchief at some time or another.

There are a number of contributing causes of colds, among which may be mentioned; firstly, overeating, especially of rich foods; secondly, enervation and low resistance from lack of sleep, over-excitement, worry or depression; thirdly, constipation and poor skin elimination; fourthly, unequalized circulation from lack of exercise, wearing too many clothes, or being exposed to wet feet, drafts, and sudden changes of temperature.

Colds can undoubtedly be prevented by the use of a well balanced diet, daily exercise in the fresh air to keep the blood circulating properly, regular habits of sleep, and occasional sun-baths.

Not every cold is contagious but some are that are associated with fever. The non-contagious colds are of two kinds: first, deficiency colds, the result of acidosis or a lack of calcium in the diet; second, irritation colds, caused by dust, pollen, irritating gases, etc.

It is possible for you to build up your health so that you will never have another cold, but since there are very few people who will actually take the pains to do this, I will tell you in tomorrow's article about the best treatment for colds after they do occur.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Pyorrhea

Question—A. L. asks: "Can pyorrhea be cured by treatments from a dentist, or would it only save the teeth for a while? Does pyorrhea cause nervousness? I have been very nervous for the last year."

Answer—It is possible to completely cure pyorrhea if it has not advanced too far. Your dentist should be able to help you, but it is also necessary to use the right diet which will increase the alkalinity of your blood stream and reduce your tendency to acidity. Such over-acidity, or acidosis, is a common cause of nervousness, so you should be helped in overcoming your nervousness if you use the right diet to stop the acidosis.

Singing and Eating

Question—T. T. writes: "Kindly tell me what foods I should eat before going to the singing choir. I am taking also voice, and find it is a little hard for me."

Answer—It is much better for you to eat your dinner after you have had your choir practice. Most famous singers eat very lightly before a concert, and many do not eat anything after breakfast on that day, finding they have better voice control and clearer tones when singing while their stomachs are empty.

Change of Climate

Question—H. G. S. asks: "Is it dangerous for a person born and bred in the sub-arctic or cold zone to leap out and settle down in a South Sea island?"

Answer—It does not seem to make much difference whether one moves from the arctics to the tropics providing the diet is regulated accordingly.

Limit on School Tuition Invalid

DALLAS, Jan. 5. (AP)—School districts lawfully may not be limited to $7.50, the amount fixed by the legislature, in tuition fees for non-resident students, the fifth court of civil appeals ruled here in reversing a case prosecuted by State Senator Thomas B. Love, sponsor of the state law containing the limitation.

The court found fault only with that part of Love's educational law restricting fee collection to $7.50, and suggested that the objectionable sections might be severed without defeating other objects sought in the bill.

In its decision the court held that to limit a district to an amount less than the actual cost of tuition for a student—which facts disclosed was the case in Dallas—would be unconstitutional, in that the district from which the non-resident student came would benefit at the expense of the high school district.

Judge of the court characterized the decision as of far reaching importance to Texas school districts. Should Senator Love seek to carry the case further, a rehearing will be asked, and, in the event it is denied, the case might be taken to the supreme court.

Football's Valhalla

In the halls of Old Valhalla
Where dead heroes win again
All the battles that they fought in.
And their wounds are healed of pain—
There's a place of special honor
For the men who played The Game,
Who tackled hard and tackled clean—
It's Football's Hall of Fame.

And I like to think, each season,
When the opening whistle shrills,
That all the old-time football stars
Give all the old-time thrills
To heaven's crowded stadia,
Where spectral sunlight beams,
And forgotten sporting writers
Pick All-Celestial Teams.

—Edward A. Walsh.

The Hardest Hunting

In pot-hunting for the Golden Fleece a party by the name of Jason faced a set-up compared to the modern job of locating a pair of heavyweights who can make up a show fancy enough to draw in the money. Madison Square garden has Jack Sharkey all set and there have been a lot worse heavyweights than Sharkey. But with Schmeling out of the picture for the midwinter season, the matter of locating the party of the second part—meaning a suitable opponent—was not so simple. Tuffy Griffith got by Risko, but hardly with enough margin to make him looke like a fellow able to beat Sharkey or give the Boston fighter an even argument. Von Porat was the best bet, but his foul in the Scott blow-up didn't help his case or prove anything. Campolo's last start was a defeat by Scott, who is not part of a ring tornado. The garden needed a knockout by one of the challengers, but there was no one around good enough to hand out that much class.

If the Sharkey-Stribling meeting had been a good show last winter it would be much easier to get by this winter. But a large number of the non-combatants are now waiting to see how the next Miami scrimmage shapes up and it will have to shape up quite well before there will be any rush for expensive or fairly expensive seats. Von Porat would probably give Sharkey the best fight of the lot, with Schmeling missing. But just how Sharkey and Von Porat would draw is another guess. And this happens to be an important detail, with Sharkey guaranteed $100,000 as the first item on the bill.

The Big Drop

Dempsey first, and then Dempsey and Tunney, set the pace at a million and two-million-dollar houses.

They could knock over from a half million to a million dollars in prize money because they could draw it in.

Today there is only one heavyweight fight that can draw in over $200,000 and that is a Sharkey-Schmeling meeting. None of the others have proved their class or their place. Not yet, anyway.

Griffith's Chance

Tuffy Griffith isn't much past 21. He is three years younger than Jeffries and Dempsey were when they took over the title. He is one of the best prospects, a rough and ready young battler who has been improving steadily.

But he isn't ready for Jack Sharkey yet. Sharkey has it on him in weight, speed, skill and punching power. He has it on him in experience and ring generalship. Sharkey has been around too long for a young fellow of 21 to 22, who has done well and come far, but who still has some distance left before he is set for a volley at the main crown. Experience counts more than a mere trifle in this trade. It is often pointed out that Jeffries, after 11 fights, beat Fitzsimmons, but Jeffries was 13 years younger and Jeffries had a weight advantage of 30 or 40 pounds. This combination can cover up a number of deficits in other departments.

Material—or Coach?

Isn't most of this talk about great football coaches all bunk?" asks L. H. "Isn't it usually the material that tells the story?"

There are great football coaches, at least very fine ones, but even they need the material.

There are few, if any, coaches good enough to take weaker material and beat better material, for the simple reason that the game is full of good coaching now, where one can name a long parade of instructors who can build up high-class teams if only given the manpower.

The coach plays a big part still, but it is the manpower that counts. Alexander of Georgia Tech won every game in 1928 and lost five games in 1929; Rockne lost four games in 1928 and won every game in 1929. There's part of your answer concerning the worth of manpower.

Ralls Basketeers Win Three in Row

Special to The Record News.

RALLS, Jan. 5.—The Ralls Jackrabbits won their third consecutive basket ball game of the season here Friday night by defeating the Panhandle High school team by a score of 17 to 14. The two other teams defeated were Plainview and Floydada High schools.

Friday night's game was featured by a fast finish of the last half. At the half the score stood 11 to 4 in favor of Ralls. But early in the fourth quarter a tie of 14 to 14 was had, which lasted until the last few minutes of play.

Walker played his usual good game for Ralls and Blan, a new man on the team, at guard, showed up well. Upham and Weaver were the outstanding players on the Panhandle team. These two teams play again tonight.

Monday and Tuesday nights of next week the Jackrabbits play Tahoka in this city.

The Ralls High school girls defeated Lorenzo High school team by a score of 22 to 8 here yesterday afternoon, making the second time they have defeated this team this season.

Twenty teams have been invited to play here on Jan. 24 and 25 in an invitation tournament for girls teams. And most of the teams have announced their expectation of being here.

SHIRES TRYING TO CLEAR SELF

Charges Made That His Bouts Were 'Fixed'

By WILLIAM WEEKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Charles "Arthur the Great" Shires, Chicago White Sox baseman, who recently essayed the role of a pugilist, tonight faced the possibility of ostracism of organized boxing.

Not only was Charles Arthur in danger of being forever barred by the Illinois commission and 31 other states holding membership in the National Boxing association, but his manager, Nessie Blumenthal; Promoter Jim Mullen, Dangerous Dan Daly of Cleveland, and the latter's manager, were in a like predicament.

While Shires was endeavoring to extricate himself from charges that his manager had asked a Detroit opponent to "go into the tank," or "take a dive," for him last week which resulted in him being suspended by the Michigan State Boxing commission and the National Boxing association, Jim Gerry, alias James Gary, alias Dangerous Dan Daly of Cleveland, Shires' first opponent as a professional heavyweight boxer was reported to have told in detail how he had voluntarily folded for Shires in less than one round.

To Investigate

When this charge reached Major General John W. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic commission, the latter immediately ordered an investigation and tomorrow will summon Promoter Mullen, Shires, Blumenthal, Daly and the latter's manager, before the commission.

General Clinnin said life suspension would result if the charge is proved.

In an interview printed in the Ohio State Journal of Columbus, Ohio, today, Daly outlined how he had been offered the match for Shires' premiere in Chicago, Dec. 9, and had gone to Chicago where he was told to forget his real name for a few days. The interview states Daly was treated "like a king," given new clothes and taken on a sight-seeing trip.

It was on this sight-seeing trip, according to the interview, that Daly said he was taken to the hospital ward of the Cook county jail, where he saw several battered men, whom he said, looked as though they had been taken for a ride and slugged.

Dangerous Dan Talks

Then, Daly is quoted as saying, he was told he was to "take a dive," and that he would be given $150 insteead of $100, as he had been promised for the fight.

Shires won the fight in 21 seconds by a knockout.

Promoter Mullen pointed out the Shires-George Trafton fight, as his answer to the charges. Trafton gave Shires a thorough beating in a five-round engagement at White City. This was Shires' second battle.

"If I had been arranging diving acts for Shires would I have matched him with Trafton?" Mullen asked.

DAN DALY'S MANAGER DENIES 'LAY DOWN' STORY

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5. (AP)—Eddie Meade of Cleviand, who handled Jim Gerry, alias Dangerous Dan Daly, in the now famous one-round battle with Arthur "The Great" Shires in Chicago, was voluble in his denials tonight that Daly "took a dive" for the great one.

"Gerry or Daly," said Meaded, "was picked by me for that fight because promoter Jim Mullen told me he wanted a 'ham' to go in the ring with Shires to guarantee that the bout would last the scheduled four rounds. Gerry can't fight and neither can Shires. They haven't had enough experience.

Gerry's Talk Blah

"As for Gerry's statement in Columbus about his being taken around in Chicago and shown the sights that is boloney to me. Gerry told me he had been out looking at the elevates by himself. He said he had never been in Chicago before and was taking in the sights. I don't think any one approached him before I got to Chicago and I know they didn't after I arrived.

"And that knockout. Gerry was out so bad he didn't come to for five minutes after four of us dragged him to his corner. If he was faking and did 'take the tank' he's the best actor I've ever seen and he sure fooled the best referee, in Chicago, Eddue Purdy.

"I haven't heard anything from Chicago about the disbarment proceedings of the Illinois State Athletic commission. I haven't the slightest doubt that Gerry was really out. Why I heard just the other day that he was knocked cold by the first punch in a fight at Logan, W. Va., and that they almost lynched him. Gerry's just looking for publicity and maybe another crack at Shires."

Estelline Cagers Whip Dallas, 30-22

Special to The Record News.

ESTELLINE, Texas, Jan. 5.—The Estelline Bear Cubs took the second game from the Terrell Prep school of Dallas here Saturday night in one of the fastest basket ball games ever played on the local court. The Cubs took the lead early in the game and only one time did Terrell get the lead for one point. The final score of 30 to 22 in the Cub's favor ended with thousands of fans yelling with all their might. Baccus starred for the Cubs. Taylor for Dallas.

Ray Morrison Will Assist Track Team

DALLAS, Jan. 5. (AP)—Ray Morrison, director of athletics and head football coach at Southern Methodist university, plans to take a hand in coaching the track and field teams this year, he announced. He said Jimmy Stewart will continue as head track coach and he will assist him.

Jerry Mann again will act as varsity baseball coach with Jimmie St. Clair in charge of the freshman nine.

Joe McCarthy and Cubs Have Learned Baseball Lesson and Will Take Heed

(This is the second of a series of stories on 1930 prospects of major league baseball clubs.)

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Joe McCarthy and his Cubs learned a first class baseball lesson from the Athletics in last fall's world series and learned it so well they promise to make another victorious drive for the National league championship in 1930.

The lesson was the necessity of a better pitching staff and the necessity of a third baseman, who could hit as well as field. With Owner William Wrigley dangling a fat purse before major and minor league magnates, the Cubs probably have done more shopping for 1930 than any major league club, meanwhile keeping their 1929 lineup almost intact.

To strengthen their pitching staff they have acquired nine recruits, including two of the best prospects ever to come out of the American association. They are Malcolm Moss, youthful Louisville southpaw, and Lynn Nelson, pitching ace of Kansas City's championship club last season. At third base they will have Lester Bell, a natural hitter, who was obtained from the Braves for a big bundle of cash.

Good Pitchers Secured

"We are almost certain to get two or three good pitchers out of that group," President William Veeck said, "and they will be Charlie Root, Pat Maloney, Guy Bush, Fred Blake, Hal Carlson, and the other pitching veterans of the staff immeasurably."

Another item of cheer for the Cubs is the promised return of Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, who failed to catch a game last season because of a lame throwing arm. Hartnett and his physician have pronounced the salary wing in perfect condition again. Zach Taylor and Fred Schulte will be back behind the plate and Earl Grace, a promising backstop, who was farmed out to Reading, Pa., last season, will get another chance.

Schalk Helps Pilot

Another addition is Ray Schalk former White Sox catcher, who will help Manager McCarthy along the coaching lines, and catch if necessary. Schalk is expected to prove of great help to the big crop of rookie pitchers the Cubs will take with them to Catalina Island.

Seven right handers and two port siders comprise the rookie hurling staff. In addition to Moss and Nelson, they are George Bell, right hander, from Mobile, of the Southern association; Albert Shealey, veteran right hander, who was drafted from St. Paul, of the American association; Arthur Teachout, left hander from Indianapolis of the American association; L. Werneke, right hander from Shreveport, La., and August Walsh, who toiled for the Philadelphia Nationals in 1928, and who had a great season with Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast league last season.

Promising Prospect

Another promising prospect for the infield is Bill Burgess of Reading. Jurgess is a shortstop and was voted the most valuable player in the New England league in 1928.

Rogers Hornsby, keystone man of the Cubs, expects a better season in 1930, too. The "Rajah" was hindered by a growth on his right heel during the closing days of the 1929 season but has had it removed and he reports he is ready for his annual collection of home runs, base hits and double plays assists.

Dutra Leading In California Golf

LONG BEACH, Calif., Jan. 5. (UP)—The only golfer under par, Olin Dutra, of Los Angeles, led the field in the Long Beach $3,500 open tournament today at the end of 36 holes of play in the 54-hole event.

He was only a stroke better than par with 143.

Three players were tied for second place with scores of 145. They were C. E. Clark, of Tulsa, Okla., Johnny Farrell, of St. Augustine, Fla., and Henry Cuici, of Bridgeport, Conn.

Next in line, with 146's, was a quartet composed of Jim Foulis, of Hillsdale, Ill., Johnny Rogers, of Denver, Dallas Jeffers, of Long Beach, and Joe Kirkwood, unattached.

The final 18 holes was played in the afternoon.

Clark was low among the early finishers for the 54 holes. His card of 218 was two strokes over par. Foulis was next best at that time with 223. Dutra had not finished.

Aviators Win Polo Honors in Santone

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 5. (AP)—It took nine chukkers of hard playing to decide the championship of the San Antonio early winter polo tournament here today when the air corps training center defeated the third infantry brigade, 8 to 7, with Lieutenant Beal driving through the deciding goal in the last 20 seconds of play.

Next Saturday will start the low goal event of the seventh annual Southwestern Mid-Winter tournament, for which 17 teams are entered, with Wichita Falls the defending champion in three events—low goal, Southwestern circuit cup and elimination cup.

Duluth on Top Of Hockey Loop Now

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 5. (UP)—Another week of jockeying among clubs of the American Hockey association found Duluth at the top of the heap when the seven-day period had ended, with Tulsa, 1929 champion and early season leader, reduced to fourth place in standing.

Play, at least partially, returns to the southern end of the circuit this week, when Kansas City in a crucial series, after Tulsa has finished with Duluth.

Six points only separate the leader from the bottom place club, a condition which has been maintained since before the Christmas holidays, and the evenness of the race thus far has put fans all over the loop on edge with excitement over the prospects of a hairline finish for the season, as well as a thrilling final play-off.

Seven games are on the cards for the week, with the Tulsa-Kansas City series prominent because of natural rivalry.

District Court Opens In Silverton Today

Special to The Record News.

SILVERTON, Texas, Jan. 5.—The winter term of district court for Briscoe county, in judicial district No. 110 created last year, convenes in Silverton Monday with Judge Kenneth Bain of Floydada on the bench. State's Attorney Jack Folley will present matters for investigation before the new grand jury which will be organized and charged Monday morning. A venire of 36 petit jurymen have been summoned to be on hand Tuesday morning for jury cases.

HEAVIES FIGHT IN THE GARDEN

Jackie Fields to Fight Non-Title Bout

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. (AP)—Jackie Fields will make two starts this week in Philadelphia and Chicago, but the heavyweight fracas in Madison Square garden Friday night between Otto von Porat and Paulino Uzcudun will stir up more public interest than the welterweight champion's pair of nontitle bouts.

Fields meets Alf Ros, Spanish welterweight, in the headliner of the weekly Philadelphia arena show tomorrow night, and will battle Tony Vacarelli of New York at the Chicago stadium Friday night.

Supporting the Fields-Ros go, will be two 10-rounders, one involving Danny Kramer, Philadelphia southpaw, and Pete Zivic of Pittsburgh, and the other matching Harry Kid Brown of Philadelphia against Gaston Lecadre of France.

At the Chicago stadium, the Fields-Vacarelli match is supported by a 10-rounder between King Tut, Minneapolis lightweight, and Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle, N. Y., negro, and another between Benny Bass, Philadelphia junior lightweight, and Danny Delmont of Chicago.

Madison Square garden's heavyweight show may mark the end of Paulino's career among the front rank contenders for Gene Tunney's vacated crown. The Basque woodchopper has shown signs of going back on his recent starts while Von Porat, a terrific hitter, seems to be on the upgrade.

Marty Gallagher, Washington heavyweight, meets Johnny Grosso, New York, in the 10-round semi-final and Phil Mercurio, New York, battles Fred Lonhart of Spokane, Wash., in the first 10.

Dennis Denies Big Rumor of Playoff

FORT WORTH, Jan. 5. (AP)—Report that Tom Dennis, Port Arthur coach, would visit Breckenridge in an attempt to arrange a playoff of the Port Arthur-Breckenridge high school football tie was denied here today by Dennis.

"I'm up here on personal business," he declared. "As far as I know, there are no efforts being made to have the tie game played over. All I know is what I saw in the papers Sunday morning. Haven't any idea how that story got out."

The Port Arthur and Breckenridge teams, finalists in the state high grid race, played a scoreless tie before Christmas and Port Arthur declined to play off the tie. There is no provision in the rules of the Texas interscholastic league regarding a tie in the final game, so the two schools were termed co-champions and the teams disbanded.

Coach Makes Good But Never Played Game in His Life

CANYON, Jan. 5.—S. D. Burton, athletic director and basket ball coach at West Texas State Teachers' college, never played basket ball as a high school or university student; yet he has made a record as a basket ball coach that is believed to be a national record, covering a period of eight years.

During that time his teams have been in third place in the conference twice, second place twice and champions three times. They have won a total of 143 games of 170 played.

No team in Texas can boast as many games won as they have lost against Coach Burton's Buffaloes. Needless to say Canyon is a wonderful basket ball town. Many visitors and officials declare that the West Texas crowds are the best educated fans in basket ball they have ever seen. The 1930 team gives promise of another championship.

Silverton Basket Ball Team Wins Unique Game

SILVERTON, Texas, Jan. 5.—Astonishing in results was the basket ball game here Wednesday night between the two Lions clubs of Silverton and Quitaque. Quitaque was overwhelmed by the decisive score of 59 to 0. The local quintet proved to be able basket ringers, but the visiting Lions probably made a world's record for basket ball by playing the entire period with a zero.

French Tennis Players Win Over Chilean Stars

PARIS, Jan. 5. (AP)—Jean Borotra and Andre Glasser of France won the men's doubles title in the French covered courts tennis championships today by defeating the Chileans, Luis and Domingo Torralva, 8-6, 6-4.

GRAND JURY MEETS TODAY

30 Felony Charges Ready For Investigation

Around 30 formal felony charges will be laid before the 30th district grand jury when it is impaneled and charged by Judge Allan D. Montgomery Monday morning, according to information coming from Sam B. Spence, district attorney, Sunday. The work of the investigating body is expected to be complete late Wednesday.

Mr. Spence said Sunday that he would lay the facts surrounding the fatal shooting on Christmas night of Cleve Sams, negro, after an attack upon H. L. White, deputy sheriff, before the grand jurors. Sams was killed after the deputy had struggled free from an attack from two of a crowd of 30 negroes celebrating Christmas in a negro rooming house. Mr. White spent 10 days in a local hospital recovering from a severe blow on the head and a strain to the back suffered in the course of the affray.

Judge Montgomery is expected to give only a regular charge when the jurors assembled Monday morning. No special investigations or capital cases are under consideration, the district attorney said.

I've Never Seen a Medicine Equal It

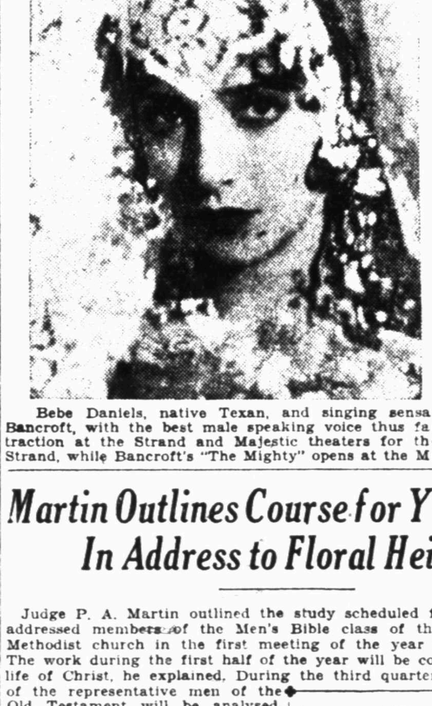

Lubbock Real Estate Man Says Wife Is Gaining On Orgatone and Is Well for the First Time in Two Years

"Orgatone is nothing short of a wonder" says W. C. Curry who resides at 2001 Twenty-Sixth street, Lubbock, Texas. "I've never seen anything in the way of medicine to equal it. It has not only gotten my wife over serious trouble, but she actually feels better and stronger than in the past two years. She lost her health about two years ago, and in spite of all we did, she ept getting worse. Her stomach got so weak and out of order there was very few things she could eat at all and what she did eat seemed to do her harm instead of good. She had sharp pains up and down her back from gas and she was constantly belching up sour undigested food. She was very nervous and rundown, and never got very much sleep at night. She had a bad case of constipation, and was just getting worse in every way, every day.

She had the very best treatment and I bought every kind of medicine anyone would suggest, but nothing did her any good. I had been reading so much about and everywhere we went Orgatone was being praised for its fine work, so I bought a bottle and my wife began taking it. Well, it proved to be what she needed, and in a few days she began to get better. She has just taken one bottle and she looks, acts, and feels better than she has in two whole years. She has gained in strength and eats anything she wants. She sleeps well every night and has the color that she had before she got sick. I am glad for anybody to knew what we think of Orgatone and I am sure glad to give this statement."

Martin Outlines Course for Year In Address to Floral Heights Men

Judge P. A. Martin outlined the study scheduled for 1930 when he addressed members of the Men's Bible class of the Floral Heights Methodist church in the first meeting of the year Sunday morning. The work during the first half of the year will be concerned with the life of Christ, he explained. During the third quarter the biographies of the representative men of the Old Testament will be analysed, and the last quarter will be centered in a study of the leaders in the New Testament.

The speaker laid the basis for the reading to come with a review of the life of Matthew and of his conversion. His address is quoted below:

"On this, the first Sunday of the year 1930, it will be of interest to present to the class a preview of the work of the year. The first half will be devoted to a study of the life and teaching of Christ, as recorded by Matthew; the third quarter to a biographical study of representative men and women of the Old Testament and the last quarter to a like study of the men and women of the New Testament. So you see that if we get the work of the entire year, we will have something of interest all the time and will approach the next mile post of our lives with a store of very useful knowledge of the dealing of God with the people of the earth.

Study of Matthew

"As the first half of the year is to be concerning the writings of Matthew, we will first consider who and what he was. He was a man of two names; he was Levi, the publican and Matthew, the apostle. He was an educated Jew, probably belonging to one of the very best families of Israel. The name Levi, and his splendid education in the sacred writings of the Jews indicate that he was probably educated for the priesthood. But like many a finely educated young man, he threw away his chances and became a hated publican, an outcast among the outcasts of the country, for there was no class of people more hated and with better reason, by the loyal Jews than the publicans. These men were the tax gatherers of Rome and Rome at this era of her history farmed out the right to tax the people to the highest bidder; so young Levi became a successful bidder for the right to tax his friends and neighbors. And it was the custom of the tax gatherer to take from the subject people just as much as they could get.

"It is quite probable that Matthew was a rich man, as riches went in that day, when Jesus came to the city of Capernaum. He was probably a very powerful but much hated man. As he 'sat at the receipt of custom' in the gate of the city, scores of people passed by. Many of them were telling of the wonderful works of the great propoet who had just come up out of Nazareth and established a sort of headquarters in Capernaum. From here he had gone across the sea of Galilee to the country of the Gadarenes and had put some swine herders out of business by infecting them with the madness of a madman so that they all ran down into the sea and were drowned. Then coming back to Capernaum, he had raised a paralytic from his bed in the presence of assembled multitudes and these multitudes had glorified God who had given such power unto men. And then this Jesus came out by and saw this man, Matthew, sitting at the receipt of custom; he paused and glanced at the tax-gatherer. His great heart warmed towards the wasted talents of the man. His mind recognized his great ability; so he said two words to him; 'follow me' and the record written by himself says 'he arose and followed him.' And in that hour Matthew, the hated publican, became Matthew the great apostle who many years later should become the special messenger who should write the gospel of the kingdom, for the special perusal of the Jews and prove to them the divinity of the son of man by quotation after quotation from their own prophets. He does not tell of his experience in that hour; perhaps his innate modesty prevented a relation of his sacrifice, but we can well imagine that he left behind him all the insignia of his rank, his ill-gotten wealth, his sins and his hatreds and made a full and complete surrender of himself and all he had to the savior of men.

"There are indications that Matthew was a sort of a 'key-man' among the publicans and sinners, for it is immediately recorded that just after he joined the apostolic company 'many publicans and sinners sat down at meat with the Christ' so that the Pharisees questioned the disciples 'why doth your master eat with publicans and sinners?' And when he heard of it he said 'they that be whole need not a physician but they that are sick' and 'I am not come to call the righteous but sinners to repentance.' So it is quite probable that the conversion of Matthew led to the conversion of many others of his outcast class in the city of Capernaum and surrounding country.

Shows Humility

"It is also quite probable that the choice of Matthew as an apostle served to rip in the hate of the leading Jews for the Christ for the very reason that he chose one of this class to follow him. Matthew himself shows his own humility by calling himself 'the Publican' in more than one instance.

"Such is the man who wrote the chronicle we shall study for the next six months and a wonderful chronicle it is. He began with a statement of the 42 generations from Abraham to Christ, to show to his Jewish brethren that the babe of Bethlehem was indeed and in truth the fruit of the promise given to Abraham that in his seed all the nations of the earth shall be blessed; he brought his genealogy down through David, the king, to Bethlehem, the city of David, where he was born of a virgin 'that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet' which was Matthew's pet phrase.

"So we open our six-months' study with the story of the wise men of the East who came up to Jerusalem, following the light of the strange star and inquiring where the new king should be born; of how they were informed by the wise men of Jerusalem that Bethlehem was to be the place and how Herod, the king, laid his plans to kill the infant king and was miraculously circumvented by the wise men. Then we have the record of how he was taken by his parents into Egypt to escape the murderous Herod and remained there until Herod died and then, coming back, settled in Nazareth 'that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophets he was called a Nazarene.'

"I would like to dwell upon these 'wise men of the East' and tell you of the recent discoveries of ancient civilization in old Ur, the city of the Chaldees, the birthplace of Abraham, as I learned them from the National Geographic magazine for the month of January and indulge the fancy, if it be fancy, that the Godly wisdom of Father Abraham existed throughout the centuries and the 42 generations from Abraham to Christ in a land beyond the burning sands of the Arabian desert. I like to believe, as I verily do, that the Master always had 'other sheep, not of this fold' ready to obey his call, and other peoples in the world who were watching and waiting patiently and faithfully for the coming of the hope of Israel and able to hear his voice and recognize his star when it appeared in the heavens.

"But time will only permit me to introduce today the Child Christ; the babe of Bethlehem. Read carefully the intensely interesting account of his conception and birth and the vicissitudes of his early life. See how the shadow of death swept across his cradle. Hear the voice of Rachael weeping for her children, put to death by the murderous Herod, while the infant redeemer was sheltered in the land of the pyramids, safe for the great work he was later to do. Read the sacred story carefully and prayerfully and your faith will mount towards a Heavenly Father who did all this for you and for me."

Man Returns Goods Secured by Forgery

Admitting that he had paid for an $18 Sears-Roebuck order with a forged check, a Seymour man Sunday led officers to the still-unopened package of goods in Wichita Falls and returned the articles before being taken back to jail in Seymour. The prisoner was in the custody of Sheriff Arch Holmes, who said that charges of using the mails to defraud would probably be filed Monday.

It is calculated that the Mississippi river carries into the Gulf of Mexico more than a million tons of sediment every day, and that it would require 1,000 trains, each made up of 45 cars of 25 tons capacity, to transport an equal amount of silt and sand.

DAIRY STOCK PAYS

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 5.—S. P. Crawford, living six miles northwest of Olney has been proving to other farmers throughout this territory that dairy stock can pay a good dividend in this section. During the past year Mr. Crawford has sold 2,600 pounds of butter and 4,711 gallons of buttermilk for a total of $2,530. During the year he has been milking form four to 10 cows and his total feed bill for all amounted to $1,000, leaving a net profit of $1,530.

Figuring an average of seven cows milking throughout the year, each cow has netted him more than $220 during the year above feed costs.
