DENBY DEFENDS SELF IN TEAPOT DOME DEAL

Wilson Impressively Laid to Last Long Sleep

THOUSANDS LINE PATH FROM HOME TO BURIAL PLACE

Endless Streams of Flowers Sent to Home And Cathedral

BUGLES SOUNDED

Mrs. Wilson and Dr. Grayson Last to Leave Resting Place

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—A bugle, calling softly in the fading day, told that Woodrow Wilson had passed today down the way of peace to his earned and honored rest.

It sang the same soldier requiem that once before, at the lips of the same loyal comrade, it sank to lull America's Unknown Soldier to sleep in glory.

Tonight the sombre casket of black steel lies in the western niche of the great vault below Bethlehem chapel. Above, towering from the hillside, looms the gray mass of the cathedral. Below the lights of the city that has turned back from its day of sorrow to the crowding cares of life twinkle through the dark of an overcast night.

And on that casket, where the great dead lies alone at last for his endless sleep, beside the plate that sets forth only his name and the days of his birth and death, there still lies the handful of soft hued blossoms that were the last touching gift of the grief-worn widow.

Distant rumbling of saluting guns in the cloud darkened dawn ushered in the day when the nation would pay to Woodrow Wilson the simple tribute that he had claimed of it. The busy life of the capital surged on for a few hours before its course was checked in the last moments of silent respect for the dead. But to the door of the stricken home and into the dim chapel where the last rites would be said poured an endless stream of flowers that banked and overflowed every space with tender beauty. The names of kings and the great of the earth were on these tributes and the names of loyal, humble friends and comrades.

DOUBLE SERVICE

As the hour of the double services drew on, thousands took their places along the way from house to chapel to stand long in the chill air, unmindful of the flurries of snow and rain that

Inventor Takes Own Life Rather Than Enter Asylum

By The Associated Press.

CAMDEN, N. J. Feb. 6.—Professor E. J. Christie of Marion, Iowa, inventor of a gyroscopic unicycle which he hoped could attain a speed of 230 miles an hour, committed suicide in a hotel here today.

Christie's body was found on the floor fully dressed with a pistol in his hand. On the bureau was a note addressed to Coroner Robert G. Schroeder of Camden, which read:

"I have taken my own life because I would rather die now than spend the rest of my life in an insane asylum. Kindly prepare my body and notify my brother, Hon. John T. Christie, Marion, Iowa."

He was about 58 years old.

Professor Christie had been at the hotel since September. He lived quietly and seemed to be possessed of funds.

He was a graduate of Iowa university and was a friend of the late Charles P. Steinmetz, electrical wizard. He served as an instructor in mathematics, astronomy and chemistry in Indiana Normal university and later was on the faculty of St. John's college, Annapolis, Md., and Hastings college, Hastings, Nebraska. He was also for a short time president of Garfield university, Wichita, Kansas. During the war he did experimental work for the government.

Sick

Chief Justice Taft was yesterday too ill to attend the funeral of Woodrow Wilson, thought he was to be an honorary pall bearer. He is the only living ex-president now.

Dr. Clayton said he did not consider that Mr. Taft was seriously ill and added that it probably would not be necessary for him to remain in bed.

"The chief justice had a little gastral indigestional upset today," Dr. Clayton said, "but he has had no fever and will be fully restored to his usual good health in a day or two."

IOWA PARK LAD DIES FROM SHOT

Seven-Yer-Old Accidentally Shot By Father Dec. 17 Succumbs Tuesday

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Feb. 6.—Chester Smith, age seven, who was accidentally shot by his father last December 17, died at his home in Iowa Park late Tuesday night.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the First Baptist church the Reverend R. C. Hopper officiating.

At the time he was shot young Smith and his brother were watching their father clean his .22 rifle preparatory to butchering some hogs. The gun was accidentally discharged, the bullet striking the boy in the chest, going through his left lung and out under his boulder blade. He was rushed to the General hospital at Wichita Falls where every effort was made to save his life. For a while it was thought success might reward the work of the doctors, but the last week saw his condition grow steadily worse until last night, when death came.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, of this city.

OIL FIRE RESULTS IN $100,000 DAMAGES

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 6.—The local distributing plant of the Victory Oil company, just outside the city limits in St. Bernard parish, was destroyed by fire today with a loss of approximately $100,000 which officials said was fully covered by insurance.

GREEN AGAINST CUTTING SURTAX MAXIMUM HALF

Will Vote Today With Republican On Bill Containing Provision

WRITES A LETTER

Says Other Nations Make High Surtax Charges and They Can Here

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee came out tonight in opposition to Secretary Mellon's recommendation that the present 50 per cent maximum surtax be cut in half. He has agreed, however, to vote tomorrow with other republicans on the committee to report the treasury tax bill which contains this provision.

Mr. Green outlined his views in a letter to Dr. T. S. Adams professor of political economy at Yale university who had written on various phases of the tax problem.

"It is unnecessary to say," he continued, that the political party which proclaims such a doctrine will seal its doom with the announcement. You say that they will not pay and we cannot make them. But Canada makes them pay a much higher tax than we have now and England makes them pay a higher tax than any which now is proposed for the new bill so far as I know—certainly very much higher than any I would advocate. If any other nations can do this what reason can we give for not doing it.

"You say that in effect that they will not pay 35 per cent, which I have advocated. I say that the man with immense wealth who will evade taxes at 35 per cent will do so at 25 per cent. In neither case has he any need for the money which he keeps from the government.

"I agree with you in your criticism of legislators who champion the extremely high surtaxes and at the same time fail to favor tax free bonds but here again I make the assertion that a reduction from 35 per cent to 25 per cent as the maximum surtax will have little effect on the investments of the extremely wealthy in tax free securities and it will still be largely to their advantage to invest in them. It would require a still lower rate to make them unattractive to the multimillionaires."

DEMOCRATS BUSY

The announcement of Mr. Green as to his stand on surtaxes and the decision today of democrats on the house ways and means committee to stand pat on their demand that the surtax maximum be reduced no lower than 44 per cent on incomes in excess of $62,000 insures a lively fight on the floor when a vote comes on this phase of the tax bill. Mr. Green and other republican members of the committee out of sympathy with Mr. Mellon on one or more provisions of the bill, however, reserved the right, after voting to report it, to swing away from the administration position on the measure.

A meeting of the ways and means committee has been called for tomorrow for the express purpose of voting to report the bill. Immediately after the session committee members will hurry to the floor to take part in the fight that will develop tomorrow with the calling up of a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to prohibit issuance of tax exempt securities. Eight hours will be alloted for general debate with a vote probably Friday. A two-thirds is necessary for passage.

Lashing of Prisoners May Again Be Used In Alabama Following Convict Wars

"Dog House" Mode of Punishment Not Severe Enough and Old Method Recommended.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBIANA, Ala., Feb. 6.—Seven convicts were indicted for alleged conspiracy to kill wardens and restoration of the lash in extreme cases was recommended in the report of the Shelby county grand jury today on the mutiny of state prisoners at Aldrich mines on January 12.

The immediate cause of the mutiny, according to the report, was the "dog house" punishment administered to a certain convict who wrote a "false and baseless" letter to two state officials.

In defense of the lash the grand jury recalls that two serious mutinies of convicts, one at Banner mines on September 10, 1923, and the other at Aldrich, have occurred since the abolition of corporal punishment.

The "dog house" is described by the grand jury as "a small enclosure built next to the wall in a room on the lower floor of the stockade at Aldrich which enclosure is only large enough to accommodate a man standing, there being no room for him to sit or rest his body in any way except in the one upright position."

"Every convict," continued the report, "prefers the 'dog house' mode of punishment to the lash, which has been generally used until the executive order of Governor Kilby abolishing the lash from all convict camps within the bounds of the state. We do not care to be understood to mean that we recommend the lash when other modes of punishment would be effective."

Warden J. T. Jernigan in charge of Aldrich mines, the scene of mutiny, was given a clean bill of health as a man "well qualified to fill the position he holds."

Woman Politician's Career Ends In Own Death and of Political Foe; Daughter Is Also Wounded

Former Woman Mayor Attempts to Settle Old Scores With Bullets Instead of Ballots.

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6.—Louis Meyers, who shot and killed Mrs. Roland Clark during a pistol battle last night at Palmetto, La., after he had been wounded by the woman, died at a local hospital late tonight. Meyer, a merchant of Palmetto, was brought her early today for treatment.

According to advices received here the trouble was the outgrowth of a political controversy of several years standing. Mrs. Clark some years ago was elected mayor of Palmetto over a candidate supported by Meyers. In this year's election, held recently, Mrs. Clark was defeated by Meyers candidate, a man named Isaacson, by one vote, and it was charged by the woman Meyers had sent for his brother in Port Arthur, Texas, to come to Palmetto and vote for Isaacson. The controversy caused bitter feeling and Mrs. Clark and her daughter were reported to have started out late yesterday to find Meyers and hold him to account for alleged disparaging remarks he was reported to have uttered concerning the daughter.

A witness at the coroner's inquest today testified Mrs. Clark and her daughter appeared at the railroad station late yesterday, encountered Meyers and that Mrs. Clark entered into conversation with him. Both Mrs. Clark and Meyers indulged in profane language, the witness said, and Mrs. Clark suddenly drew a pistol and shot Meyers twice. Meyers threw his arms around Mrs. Clark and the daughter, according to the testimony, struck the wounded man as Mrs. Clark threw him from her. Meyers drew a pistol, backed away and the woman and he exchanged shots until Mrs. Clark fell mortally wounded. Then, according to the witness, Meyers turned the pistol on Miss Clark, a bullet striking her in the hip. In the meantime Cleon Clark, it was testified, fired on Meyers with a shotgun from a place of concealment behind a freight car, striking Meyers in the leg. Mrs. Clark was said to have been struck by five bullets, two in the arm, and one each in the side, chest and abdomen.

Mutilated Woman Clutching Butcher Knife Found Dead

By The Associated Press

VICKSBURG, Miss. Feb. 6.—The body of Mrs. L. Meyers, who conducted a small grocery store at Smith Station, 15 miles east of here was found by neighbors in the store tonight where she had been killed with a large butcher knife which was found clutched in her hand. The body had been mutilated and it was the theory of authorities that the slayer had placed the knife in her hand.

A squad of police have gone to Smith Station and a possee is being formed there to hunt for the assailant.

DOESN'T BELIEVES DINES VERY ILL

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—Anonymous letters received by Judge J. W. Hanby, according to his announcement in court today, have led him to doubt reports of the seriousness of the condition which is keeping Courtland S. Dines, Denver oil man, out of court as a material witness in the hearing of Horace A. Greer, the ex-chauffeur for Mabel Normand, film actress. Greer is charged with shooting Dines on New Year's night while the Denver oil man was entertaining Miss Normand and Edna Purviance, another film actress.

In Dines' absence today the hearing was further postponed to February 28. The court ordered an expert report on Dines' physical conditions to be delivered February 26, two days before the date set for the new hearing.

BURY CONVICTS KILLED IN ATTEMPTED ESCAPE

By The Associated Press

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. Feb. 6.—Emery Connell and Eulos Sullivan, escaped convicts, shot to death yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the penitentiary burial ground here today. Wallace Jackson, secretary to Governor McRae, announced they were given the regular prison burial given electrocuted prisoners, but said he did not know of a chaplain or minister conducted the burial service.

CONVICT, 19, GIVEN 48 HOURS TO PLEAD GUILTY TO MURDER

By The Associated Press.

NEWPORT, Ark., Feb. 6.—Charles O'Keith, 19, who with Benny Casey, another prisoner, escaped from a train near here several weeks ago after David Burns, a Kansas patrol officer, had been shot and fatally wounded, was indicted here today on a charge of murder. O'Keith was given 48 hours within which to enter a plea.

Casey and O'Keith, who escaped form the Kansas state penitentiary at Lansing, were captured at Texarkana, and were being returned to the Kansas prison when one of the men drew a pistol and shot Burns. They stopped the train and escaped but O'Keith was later recaptured. Casey is still at liberty.

FRANCE RESENTS GEORGE CHARGE OF WILSON-CLEMENCEAU PACT

Says George Action "Stupid" and Challenges Him For Proof

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—Declaring that no secret pact between M. Clemenceau and Woodrow Wilson had been concluded as alleged by Mr. Lloyd-George, the former premier of Great Britain, the French foreign office issued a brief statement tonight setting forth the French government reserved its reply to the allegation of Mr. Lloyd-George until it was in possession of the exact text of the former prime minister's utterance.

In the meantime part of the text of Mr. Lloyd-George's interview, declaring that Mr. Wilson and M. Clemenceau had made a secret agreement for the occupation of the Rhineland in the face of his opposition, reached Paris just when the chamber of deputies was adopting resolutions of condolence on the death of the former president.

The report created a sensation in the lobbies of the chamber, where the news was received through the Associated Press. Andre Tardieu, for many years closely associated with Clemenceau, absented himself from the chamber proceedings long enough to declare that Lloyd-George's assertions were "stupid."

The foreign office comunication was as follows:

"The French government reserves its reply to the allegations of Mr. Lloyd-George until it is in possession of the exact text. For the moment its contents itself with the declaration that it did not wait for the death of ex-President Wilson to ask consent of the British government for the publication of a blue book containing documents relative to the deliberations on the conditions of the treaty concerning the security of France as well as treaty guarantees.

"On December 24 instructions to Count St. Claire (French ambassador to Great Britain) were signed to this effect and he made the necessary demand on January 8, 1924. The French government, moreover, knows not of any document to which the insinuation of Mr. Lloyd-George might apply. There was concluded no secret pact between M. Clemenceau and Mr. Wilson and if there were conversations between them during the absence of Mr. Lloyd-George, the latter knew of the result as soon as he re-

KILLED WIFE WITH POCKET KNIFE; CLAIM

By The Associated Press.

FLORENCE, Ala. Feb. 6.—Bayne Robertson, of Hardin county, Tennessee, charged with slaying his wife with a pocket knife was arrested yesterday afternoon and lodged in the Savannah, Tennessee, jail, according to reports received here. His wife was whom he was separated, was slain in the presence of her children, according to officers.

S. M. U. RECEIVES AUDITORIUM GIFT

By The Associated Press

DALLAS, Feb. 6.—Gift of an auditorium having a seating capacity of 3,500 persons and a pipe organ to Southern Methodist university here will be made by Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McFarlin of San Antonio, Bishop John M. Moore of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, announced today. Bishop Moore said he was advised by the couple of their intention to build, furnish and equip the auditorium while he was on a trip to San Antonio. The amount of the gift is estimated at $325,000, he said.

DENBY BALKS AT RESIGNING POST

Last night Edwin Denby, secretary of navy, stated he was right in leasing the government oil reserves. Today the Teapot Dome matter will be renewed. Denby says he will not resign despite this demand of democratic congressmen.

TAFT IS ILL; ORDERED REST

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. — Chief Justice Taft, by direction of his physician, Dr. Thomas A. Clayton, has cancelled all engagements for the immediate future and entered upon a period of complete rest. This course was determined upon after the chief justice had suffered an attack of indigestion today. Although the attack was yielding to treatment, he followed his physician's instructions and went to bed.

Because of his illness Mr. Taft was unable to attend the funeral of Woodrow Wilson, for which he had been named an honorary pall bearer. At the same time he decided to abandon a trip to New York and New Haven which he had planned for tomorrow.

Although the supreme court is in a three week's recess, he had been working intensely in preparing opinions for delivery upon reassembling of the court February 18. It is believed that too close application to this duty is responsible in part for his condition.

GRAND JURY PROBES VETERAN BUREAU

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—A grand jury inquiry into the affairs of the United States Veterans bureau under former Director Charles R. Forbes, was opened today to determine if criminal liability was incurred by those formerly in charge of the bureau activities.

The special grand jury is to delve into much the same situation that was investigated by a special senate committee.

The Day In Washington

Secretary Denby in a statement defended his course in assenting to the lease of the naval oil reserves.

Chief Justice Taft was directed to take a complete rest after he had suffered an attack of indigestion.

President Coolidge directed the tariff commission to proceed with an investigation of the entire vegetable oils tariff schedule.

Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee came out in opposition to Secretary Mellon's stand for a 25 per cent maximum surtax rate declaring for 35 per cent.

Charles B. Brewer exhibited securities to a number of members of congress in effort to prove duplication of bonds at the bureau of engraving and printing.

The McNary-Haugen farm aid bill was opposed before the house agriculture committee by L. V. Gates, former president of the Chicago board of trade, and F. E. Watkins of the National Grain Dealers' association.

The state department was notified by consul officials that Vera Cruz had been entirely evacuated by the De la Huerta forces and that the crusier Richmond was now in the harbor.

An American flag was placed by unknown persons before the German embassy when the latter decided not to fly its own flag at half staff in tribute to Woodrow Wilson before 12:30 o'clock.

German Embassy Refusal to Respect Wilson Causes Stir

German Officials Said They Would "Dispense With" Condolence Expression; Ambassador Could Do As He Saw Fit.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—An irate band of Americans early today nailed the Stars and Stripes to the German embassy which, under instructions from Berlin, had failed to half-mast its colors for Woodrow Wilson.

Two dozen taxicab drivers who had checked out from work at 3 o'clock this morning started to perform the job with a worn flag picked up at the home of one of the group. By the time they reached the embassy on fashionable Massachusetts avenue the crowd included 50.

Quietly but determinedly the leader proceeded with their business. One of the group was picked to shin the tall counter column of the portico at the main entrance. The flag, about four feet by seven feet in size, attached to a wooden staff, was tossed up and wound about the column and then securely tacked.

The band of workers gathered on the terrace above the street attracted attention and before the job was completed the wide thoroughfare was clogged with interest and bareheaded spectators including late travelers home, as well as milk wagon drivers and newsboys whose duties brought them around at that hour.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—The attitude of the foreign office in refusing to extend official condolences on the death of Woodrow Wilson has resulted in a revival of newspaper comment regarding the late president in which the government action meets with approval in some quarters while rebuked by others.

The following official statement was issued today:

"In response to an inquiry from the German ambassador in Washington on whether the condolences of the German government on the death of Mr. Wilson shall be given official expression, the German government informed Mr. Wiedfeldt that an official expression of condolence by the German government is to be dispensed with but that the ambassador may decide for himself whether and in what manner he may personally participate in the national ceremonies of mourning."

FOLLOWED WILL OF CONGRESS IN TRADE, HE SAYS

Says Only Three Questions Involved and Answers All Affirmatively

IS A DEVELOPMENT

Says Deal Saved Millions And Increased Power Of Navy Defense

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The eve of the renewal in the senate of the demands for his removal from the cabinet, Secretary Denby made public tonight an extended statement explaining and defending his course in the lease of the naval oil reserves.

Asserting that there were involved three basic questions, the naval secretary answered them all in the affirmative that the transfer of administration from his department to the interior department was legal; that the leases themselves were legal and carried out the expressed will of congress; that they were beneficial to the government, preventing the further loss of millions of dollars worth of oil and greatly increasing the power of the navy to defend the country.

With the senate and its oil committee in recess Mr. Denby's statement was the only concrete development in the oil situation.

With new leads developing in apparently unending succession, the end of the senate inquiry seems nowhere in sight. Many witnesses prominent in political and business life are to be examined and there is no telling how many others will be called after experts have gone through the books of stock brokerage firms, banks and quasi-business associations in search of transactions related to the oil leases.

After the senate has renewed the authority of the committee to meet the objections raised by Albert B. Fall, central figure in the oil muddle in his refusal to testify, it will plunge into the fight over the resolution by Democratic Leader Robinson calling for Mr. Denby's resignation.

POPE IS OUT FOR GOVERNOR

By The Associated Press.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Feb. 6. State Representative W. E. Pope of Corpus Christi, who has announced his candidacy for the governorship of Texas subject to the democratic primary, made public his platform today, in which he stated that the people's taxes are high enough and is ample money to pay the present treasury deficit and operate the state government if the money is judiciously expended.

INVESTIGATING MINE TRAGEDY WHERE 42 LOST THEIR LIVES

By The Associated Press

CROSBY, Minn., Feb. 6.—Official investigation to determine the cause and fix responsibility for the disaster at the Milford mine near here yesterday which caused the death of 41 men, went ahead tonight, with the state of Minnesota represented, under orders of Governor Preus, by Adjutant General W. F. Rhinow. August Swanson of Brainard, mine inspector, said he inspected the Milford mine last week and found it "in apparently good shape."

Work was rushed to place additional pumps in operation at he mine but as time wore on the problem became more baffling and tonight the engineer could not say just what proceedure will be followed in the efforts to recover the bodies of the miners.

Even if the mine is drained, it is held unlikely that workers will be permitted to enter the shaft for several days.

Clinton Harris, skip tender, gave his life, in a vain attempt to warn his fellow workers of the approach of doom by ringing the skip bell. With two other men Harris had as good a chance to get out as the seven who escaped but instead of springing up the stairs Harris stuck to his post. The two men with Harris hesitated to run and also died.

Captain Tran Crellin, youthful chief of the flooded mine, gave his life in a vain attempt to rescue three of the 10 other victims, according to first official information on the disaster given newspapermen tonight by George H. Crosby, president of the Whitmarsh company.

Emil Kaling, one of the last men to leave the shaft, told Mr. Crosby, that Captain Crellen, dashing ahead of the rushing waters, had gained the stairway, when he turned back in an attempt to save the stricken miner. A moment later he was crushed by the flood of mud and water.

Mr. Rhinow said he would report to Governor Preus the accident was unavoidable and that everything possible was being done to rush work of freeing the imprisoned bodies.

Wilson Memorial Held Wednesday

PACKED HOUSE GIVES TRIBUTE

Dr. Grafton and Major Hatchitt Are Principal Speakers

Calm and quiet were the hundreds of citizens of Wichita Falls who crowded the auditorium and balconies of the First Methodist church, south, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to pay tribute to the memory of ex-president Woodrow Wilson. Long before the time for the service to begin, the seating capacity of the church was filled, and by 2:30 o'clock all the available standing space was taken. The doors of the vestibules were open, and many who could not enter the church stood there and listened to the rites paid to the late ex-president.

School boys and girls, old men and staunch admirers of Woodrow Wilson, mothers who had lost their sons in the world war during the reign of the war president, small children who wondered what it was all about, and who did not understand the quiet sobs and the tears that were dashed hastily away, those from every station in life were present at the memorial service.

The proclamations of the mayor and governor were complied with to the fullest extent, and the industrial world ceased activities during the hour for the memorial service, and it is estimated that 2,000 citizens attended the meeting at the church.

Tributes were paid to the former chief executive of our country in addresses by the Rev. Nat F. Grafton and by Major Joe B. Hatchitt. The service opened with the singing of "America" led by R. E. Shepherd, song leader. The invocation was said by the Rev. Claude M. Simpson, and the scripture taken from the eighth chapter of Romans and the fourteenth chapter of John was read by the Rev. Fred T. Datson.

"Nearer My God to Thee" was sung by the Shrine quartett.

"How Firm a Foundation," one of the favorite hymns of Mr. Wilson, and "Rock of Ages" were sung by the congregation. The meeting was closed with the benediction said by Mr. Datson.

Judge A. H. Holbein presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers.

DR. GRAFTON.

"With noiseless tread death comes on man,
No visa, no prayer, delivers him;
From amidst busy life's unfinished plan,
With sudden hand it severes him;
And 'ready', or not ready, no delay,
Foe to his judge's bar he must away."

quoted Dr. Grafton in the beginning of his address.

"And thus it came to Woodrow Wilson, twenty-eighth president of the United States of America, and found him 'ready'.

"Today our nation, bowed with grief, is joined by other nations in paying tribute to a peerless leader. With muffled drum and shrouded ensign, soldiers and citizens in sacred songs, fervent prayer and solemn ceremony are laying away another Moses, who would have led his nation into the promised land of a better and richer civilization."

Woodrow Wilson was the twenty-eighth president of the United States. He served during the most terrific storm that ever rocked civilization. He was commander-in-chief of what was potentially the greatest military power on earth. He launched the most stupendous crossing of the sea ever conceived in the history of the world. He sat in the most momentous peace council ever assembled. He sketched the outlines of an international creed—a creed that will challenge the best thoughts of men after things which now seem momentous have become dust. He gave his life in trying to "sell" that creed to his own America.

Of the thirty presidents of the United States many have been good men, a few have been great men and a very few have been both great and good. Woodrow Wilson was one of the very few.

In his address, Dr. Grafton enumerated the reasons that made Woodrow Wilson a great and good man. "No president saw greater accomplishments than Woodrow Wilson during his administrations," and he named the following facts connected with his administrations:

The World War.

Refusal of senate to ratify treaty of Versailles and League of Nations covenant.

Negotiations of arbitration treaties with Great Britain, Japan and many other countries.

Military occupation of Haiti, Santo Domingo and Vera Cruz.

Purchase of the Danish West Indies.

Refusal to recognize the Russian soviet government.

Establishment of: Federal Reserve banking system, Rural Credit Banking system, Federal Trade commission, tariff commission, shipping board and emergency fleet corporation, War Risk bureau, Federal Water Power commission, Employes' Compensation commission, and Alien property custodian.

Construction of great government-owned merchant marine and government railroad in Alaska.

Enactment of: Constitutional amendments providing for direct election of senators, national prohibition and equal suffrage; selective service act, a war measure; Clayton anti-trust law; eight hour day for railroad employes; workmen's compensation law; law for federal aid in state highway construction; LaFollette seamen act; immigration law with literacy test; revenue law with increases in income and other taxes; repeal of the clause in Panama Canal law exempting American ships from toll; government operation of railroads and telegraph and telephone lines as war measure, together with food and fuel control; sale of seized enemy dye and chemical patents to chemical foundation; passage of the Esch-Cummins transportation act and creation of railroad labor board; creation of [illegible] transfer to Pacific of bulk of naval forces.

Where Other Presidents Are Buried

"I am ready," and there closed one of the noblest careers in the history of America. "I am ready," and in the evening of life the silver cloud rested sweetly and invitingly upon the mountains and the light of heaven streamed down through the mists of death and he had a peaceful entrance into the world of heavedness, where the great riddle of life, whose meaning we can only guess, was unfolded to him in the quick consciousness of a soul redeemed and purified.

The American Legion members marched in a body to the church, and V. N. Armstrong and W. M. Huey, members of that body, carried the United States' flag and the banner of the local post, number 120, to the platform where they remained during the service.

Major Joe B. Hatchitt, representative of the ex-service men spoke at the memorial service saying:

MAJOR HATCHITT.

"A short time since, the men and women of America stood with bowed heads and aching hearts at the bier of their unknown dead. In that receptacle lay the broken body of a nameless soldier—and although selected at random from the gruesome salvage of the battlefield, it was exalted by the nation because it typified the true spirit of American patriotism and the unflinching fortitude with which any challenge to her cherished institutions is met. By those tokens the republic expressed the fulness of its gratitude to those men—known and unknown—who made the supreme sacrifice during the late war in defense of country and that liberty and justice might not perish on earth.

"Today the men and women of America stand again with bowed heads and aching hearts at another bier—in which rests another broken relic of war's ghastly work. As we upon that other occasion met to acknowledge the undying fame of the most gallant heroes of our race, we come now to pay like tribute to the great commander-in-chief who led them to their deathless glory.

"The unknown soldier may have lived to see the battle won. Perhaps the cheers of his comrades as they stormed the opposing ramparts, gladdened his heart as he set his feet to that long, long trail, which leads out into the valley of the shadow of death. But not so with his commander-in-chief. No exultant shout of victory ever sent its warming echoes to that weary soul. Woodrow Wilson went out on that long, long trail with the battle raging and the issue still in doubt.

"In 1917, the world lay prostrate, locked in a death struggle over the boundaries of kingdoms and in the unleashed exercise of racial hatred and national jealousies — all produced by former wars. Civilization tottered. Human hope was dead. No earthly power seemed able to avert the final catastrophe.

"Then it was that a man appeared upon the scene, with a vision broad enough to embrace the full horror of that war—and of all wars. A man with the God-given intellect, character and power to calm all the furies of that storm and to harness its unbridled passion to a work of redemption. To the end that the age old crime of legalized violence and murder.

"Sick, weary and faint hearted the ears of the world were dulled and deadened to the cry of the orphan and the widow's wail. The world was satisfied with a truce. But Woodrow Wilson could not forget his vows to the motherhood of humanity. He could not admit that that war had been fought in vain.

"At no far distant time will there be tenderly laid upon the bier about which men and women of America now reverently stand, a wreath of victory, fashioned from the fabric of God's eternal truth—when the grave of Woodrow Wilson will be the common shrine of all humanity and the mother may nurse her infant son without fear that he is to be torn from her breast and flung a useless sacrifice to propitiate the angry gods of battle—when no more will humanity drink the poison hemlock of sorrow from the cup of war."

15-Year-Old Girl Makes Dangerous Journey From Childhood to Motherhood Safely With Welfare Aid

By WINNIE D. JACKSON

She lay in a heap of rags in a wrecked bedroom of a hovel on the other side of town.

Two filthy straw mattresses, ragged and ugly, piled on the bare floor formed the beds for the five members of the family who lived in the squalor of the enclosure.

Clothed in her rags, her hair tousled, her eyes large and shadowed, and her little body grimy and dirty, the 15 year old child-wife who was soon to be a mother in the dingy filth of the crowded, noisy hut, looked in astonishment upon the visitor who had come to see her.

A worker of the Salvation Army was making an investigation of the poorer section of the city, and on seeing this hovel and signs of human life, entered to be confronted with this scene. The shanty consisted of a tiny kitchen, and this bed room, its only furnishings a trunk and two mattresses filled with husks. The quilts were few in number and black with grime and dirt. There were no sheets, or pillows.

Seeing the condition of the young woman, the Salvation Army worker took her to the dormitory of the citadel to care for her. Soap and water had its effects on the girl's appearance, but the first scrubbing was not enough to remove the scurf from her body. She was given clean clothing and made comfortable in a clean white bed, given proper food and medical attention. She was cared for during the night, and in the next afternoon, plans were being made to buy the layette for the infant that was to come into the world, when the little woman said she was going back home. No persuasion or reason could be used to induce her to stay in comfortable surroundings, and at the first opportunity she ran away, going back to the home to which she was accustomed.

Two days later news reached the Salvation Army that the girl's baby was born dead in the hovel on the other side of town. Fate was kind to the little infant in keeping it from the surroundings that would have been its lot.

A local doctor was called some time after the birth of the child, and Red Cross nurses were summoned and they probably saved the girl's life. The girl-wife was sent to the local hospital, and she is reported doing well.

Welfare workers have been interested in this case, since it has involved several of the organizations. They report that not all their cases are cases for relief in the manner of clothes or food, but a number of similar cases have been called to their attention this year.

"The work of the welfare organizations is not valued by many who receive the aid given by the workers," said one of the workers in connection

COMMANDERY IN DEGREE WORK TONIGHT

Wichita Commandery No. 59 will convene Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Masonic Temple to confer the Knights of Malta, and Knights of the Red Cross degrees upon candidates.

Dinner will be served at 6:30, and at 7:30 work will be resumed. Eminent Commander James R. Bachman, Generalissimo Robert Nolan, Captain-General Leslie R. Stringer, and the degree team will have charge of the work.

DEMOLAYS TO USHER AT MINSTREL

Eight boys, members of the Hope Chapter, Order of De Molay, have been chosen to act as ushers at the two performances of the Shrine Minstrel, Thursday and Friday nights. Announcement was made of this arrangement at the chapter meeting Tuesday night in the Masonic Temple.

The remainder of the meeting Tuesday evening was given to a brief discussion of business matters, several important items coming up for consideration. The business session was followed with a rehearsal by the degree team.

NEW KIND OF STORM HITS WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Storm-demoralized wire service cut off Wall Street commission houses from direct connection with Chicago and many other western cities today. Brokers reported a material reduction from the normal volume of out-of-town business, although market activity was at a high ebb.

Thousands of stock, bond and cotton orders were routed through St. Louis, Kansas City and New Orleans, with which point several houses established connections. Other orders were obtained through round-about channels, but all firms reported service interrupted generally throughout the west.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over

RHEUMATISM

Has Proven Remarkably Successful in Severe Cases of Rheumatic Neuritis.

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed the Palace Drug Co. and Central Drug Co. to dispense Allenrhu with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.—Adv.

MABLAND STOCK HOLDERS MERGE TWO COMPANIES

Parent Company Takes Over Two Mexican Subsidiaries

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 6—The merger of the Marland Oil company of Mexico, a subsidiary organization, with the Marland Oil company of Delaware, in which state the parent company is chartered, has been consumated through the acceptance of sufficient stockholders of the proposition offered by Marland Oil company to effect the merger. It is learned that the parent company through the Kay County Gas company, another subsidiary, already owned approximately 73 per cent of the Marland of Mexico. Announcement that the merger was being sought was made last December.

The merger takes with it also the Consolidated Oil of Mexico, an associated company of Marland Oil of Mexico. The rate of exchange, whereby the merger was effected, was that of eight shares of Marland of Mexico or twenty-three and one-half shares of Consolidated Oil of Mexico for one of Marland Oil. The purpose of the merger was to bring all the companies under the parental wing, thus eliminating all unnecessary expenses and making development of properties easier. It is understood that a sufficient exchange was made to place the parent organization in control of approximately 90 per cent of the Mexican firms.

Laredo Shipped 506 Carloads Of Oil in January

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 6.—The oil shipments for the month of January according to announcement made by Superintendent M. M. Leyendecker of the Texas-Mexican Railway company from his Laredo headquarters, amounted to 506 carloads, of which 222 carloads moved to the westward from Mirando City and 284 carloads to the eastward. The shipments for the month of December reached the low mark of 425 carloads.

However, with the advance in price of oil and many operators now putting their wells on full production again after pinching them down to the minimum or shutting them off entirely, and a number of new producers being added to the fields almost daily, it is expected that the shipments for the month of February will exceed 700 carloads.

RIGGING UP

By SUMMERS

The Kingwood and Casden Oil companies have abandoned a test near Holdenville, Hughes county, Oklahoma, at depth of 5,281 feet. ....

The Ohio Oil company is planning to enter the midcontinent district as a purchaser of crude, according to an announcement made at Tulsa. The company is said to have approximately 33,000,000 barrel of storage in the midlikewest, a large portion of which is unfilled.

Greyburg, Pioneer and Southern Refining companies are now paying $2 per barrel for the Somerset crude.

Practically all the independent purchasers of crude in California are paying a 25-cent premium, according to reports from Los Angeles.

The Mellon Tax Bill, according to petroleum authorities, is to receive protests from oil operators and producers in all districts and is a direct blow against the petroleum industry.

Since the discovery of oil at Craig, Moffet county, Colorado, more than 400,000 acres have been leased by major and independent companies.

Refined products are strong in the Atlantic seaboard markets and some products are beginning to be exhausted, according to reports from New York.

The Ohio Oil company has 35 producing wells in the Sunburst field in Montana, and control one-half the total production of the field.

Sinclair Lines To Handle West Columbia Crude

Special to The Record News.

HOUSTON, Feb. 6—Nearly all the royalty oil produced in the West Columbia field will flow through the Sinclair six-inch line to Damon Mound, thence through the same company's eight-inch line to the Sinco refinery on the Houston ship channel.

Terms of the contract between the Sinclair interests and the royalty owners covering around 75,000 barrels monthly specify a price, or premium, of 25 cents above the posted pipe line quotation for West Columbia crude.

JANUARY QUIET MEXICAN AREAS

Reports Show Few Large Completions in Fields Of Republic

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 6.—According to information reaching this city, the secretary of industry, Mexican senate, has released the following information concerning the oil industry:

The principal producer is the Cacalilao No. 50, of the International Petroleum company which was recently completed at Panuco, Vera Cruz. It is flowing nearly 4,000 cubic meters of oil per day from a depth of 518 meters.

Next in the line of production is the Cacalilao No. 7, situated in the same district and owned by the Mexican Sinclair Petroleum corporation. It is producing 2,782 cubic meters every 24 hours. The depth is 587 meters.

Then comes the Empire Pipeline company with its well No. 23, which is flowing 1,113 cubic meters of oil daily.

Other wells of smaller production were brought in by the New England Fuel Oil company, the Richmex Oil company, Mexican Petroleum company, La Corona and the Mexican Gulf Oil company.

Drilling continues active in the camps near Tampico regardless of the revolutionary disturbances being near.

FEDERATION MEETS

The City Federation of Women's clubs met Monday afternoon at the chamber of commerce with 11 members present. Although few in number the meeting proved to be lively one and much work was accomplished. At the request of the president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, the city federation donated $5 to the great fund for the replacement of the famous Belgium library at Louvain. Mrs. Harry McMillam was appointed chairman of public welfare, health and sanitation, to be assisted by members of the Parent-Teachers' association selected from each ward. The nurse from the state department that the federation had planned to have come to examine the school children throughout the county was unable to come at this time. Plans to bring one here at the opening of the next school year are being made. The club is planning to sponsor in Bowie the national oratorical contest, which stands for better citizens and a knowledge of our country constitution and our state constitution. At the request of the citizenship chairman, the federation will donate a copy of "The Shorter Constitution" and the booklet, "Know Your County" to each school in Bowie. A day for memorial services for former President Wilson is to be observed. A clean-up campaign and a home beautiful contest for the town is planned, also a Fourth of July celebration at the park in which the county is asked to help celebrate. The club endorsed the celebration of Arbor Day on February 22, at which time it is hoped that many trees will be set out, another step in making Bowie one of the most attractive towns in north Texas. A cook stove and other needed utensils are to be added to the federation supply and cup towels are to be donated by the members. Supt. Kuhn of the Bowie schools thanked the federation for the $25 worth of books donated to the high school library through the senior class for the best themes written on "The Observance of Education Week." The list of books included (several copies of each): "Selections from English Literature," "Private Life of the Romans," "Classic Myths," "Southern Life and Southern Literature," "Latin Dictionaries" and "Making of An American." The federation is planning to do big things and each meeting is proving to be more interesting than the last one.

Mrs. Conway Garlington delightfully surprised her husband Saturday evening with a progressive "42" party, honoring his birthday. Delicious refreshments consisting of the beautiful birthday cake decorated with the many pretty pink birthday candles, chicken sandwiches and fruit punch were served to the following guests: Messrs. and Mesdames C. C. Culp, C. A. Pruden, W. J. Bridges, T. R. Pierce, Jr., C. M. Dickey, Conway Garlington and the hostess.

FINDS SURPRISE

On returning home from a little visit with her friend, Mrs. Higgens, on Saturday afternoon, Mrs. S. J. Chancellor found a lovely surprise awaiting her at her home on East Pecan street. At the invitation of Mrs. Horace Wright, a daughter of Mrs. Chancellor, Mrs. Cobbs Sunday school class of the First Baptist church of which Mrs. Chancellor is a member, gathered to celebrate Mrs. Chancellor's 77th birthday. Miss Myrtle Shelton delighted the guests with many beautiful readings. Games and contests were greatly enjoyed. In the dining room the table was decorated with blooming bulbs and centered with a beautiful angel food cake with the word "Mother" inscribed daintily across the top with pink confections. The favors were dainty lace flower valentines. Mrs. Wright assisted by Misses Myrtle Shelton and Grace Wright served delicious refreshments of angel food and sunrise cake and fruit punch to the following guests: Mesdames S. J. Chancellor, the honoree; J. H. Swanson, M. E. McCright; W. J. Turner, Ashlock, Julia Cree, A. J. Higgens, G. M. Chapman, T. P. Evans, Sr., J. N. Garrett; Misses Myrtle Shelton, Grace Wright and the hostess, Mrs. Horrace Wright.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

In celebration of her seventh birthday, little Miss Margaret Eleanor Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Evans, entertained a few of her little playmates Saturday afternoon. The children were invited to play in the lovely basement of the home where they enjoyed many jolly games. The birthday cake aglow with the seven beautiful candles was brought in and after birthday wishes were made the children blew out the candles and Mrs. Evans served the delicious cake with fruit punch to the following little playmates: Margaret Louise Cofield, Bess Waltman, Sibyl Ryan, William Baits Tucker, Lindley and Robert Latham, Margaret Eleanor and Thomas Evans.

Miss Ruth Robinson entertained a number of her friends at a lovely 6 o'clock dinner Saturday evening at her home on North Sanders street. The table was pretty with its center piece of cut flowers. A delicious menu consisting of turkey, dressing, cranberry sauce, green peas, creamed potatoes, olives, hot rolls, combination salad, banana pudding and whipped cream was served to eight guests. The place cards and favors were dainty lacey valentines. Covers were laid for: Misses Mary Warren Shoemaker, Catherine Custis, Elizabeth Davis, Countess Cofield, Lillian Causey, Myrtle Shelton, Sarah Speer, and the hostess.

MRS. LAMB ENTERTAINS

Mrs. W. R. Lamb entertained a number of friends at a thimble party Friday afternoon at her home on East Wise street honoring Mrs. W. J. Linnen on her birthday. After a little time spent on needle work, Mrs. Lamb passed a basket filled with blank cards and asked each guest to take one and write a birthday wish for the honoree. Mrs. Linnen then had the pleasure of reading each one and the many good wishes from her friends made her very happy. Mrs. C. Y. Cosby, next passed around slips of paper asking the guests to write some one thing they wished would not exist 50 years hence; after the wishes were written the slips of paper were exchanged and the guests were told to write a substitute for the one thing that they had wished would not exist after 50 years. The reading of the wishes afforded much merriment. Personal reminiscences and humorous stories were then told which also proved a delight to the guests.

At the close of the afternoon the hostess served a delicious two-course luncheon. The menu consisted of chicken salad on lettuce leaf, olives, crackers, sandwiches, pickles, coffee, tea, white loaf cake, fruit cake, English plum pudding with whipped cream and mints. Those enjoying the delightful afternoon were the honoree, Mrs. W. J. Linnen; Mesdames Robert Meyer, Harry Karlsberg, C. M. Sigmon, Walt Worley, Julia Cree, Elisabeth Givens, C. L. Altfather, W. B. Rollin, C. Y. Cosby, Miss Ida Worley, Dr. Jessie Givens and the hostess, Mrs. W. R. Lamb.

WEEK-END GUESTS

Mrs. C. H. Boedeker had as her guests for the week-end her sisters, Mesdames H. Gelhausen and F. W. Boedeker and daughter, Agnes, of Dallas, and Mrs. George Boedeker and three children, Ruth, George and Billy, Mrs. H. Boedeker and daughter, Florence. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mills and daughter, Carrie, of Dallas. The party motored here from Dallas Saturday afternoon and returned to their homes Sunday evening.

Problems In Oil

by R. VAN. A. MILLS
By courtesy of Dr. F. G. Lewis, Resident Geologist

USE OF SOLVENTS

The introduction of one to three drums of gasoline to dissolve the paraffin has given only partial success because the paraffin is not readily dissolved in gasoline. Benzol is a more effective solvent than gasoline for some of the so-called paraffins, both crude oil and kerosene also exert a solvent action on the paraffin, but none of these solvents have the cleansing action that is desired. Generally, these solvents are most effective when hot, especially if they are hot enough to melt the paraffin, but they are apt to deposit paraffin back in the productive sand when slightly cooled, thus complicating the trouble. A hot solvent, saturated with paraffin (dissolved), will deposit some of this paraffin as soon as the solvent begins to cool. Hot solvents, with their dissolved paraffin, should therefore, be bailed or pumped from a well before cooling causes the redeposition of the paraffin.

Some common methods of introducing a solvent are:

1. Run down through tubing.
2. Run down between tubing and casing.
3. Run down open casing from which tubing has been pulled.
4. Lower in dump bailer.

The dump bailer should be especially useful for introducing hot solvents and for introducing chemicals to heat the solvents according to the methods described in the succeeding paragraphs.

The washing of a well with gasoline once every three or four years has been tried at Bradford, Pennsylvania, with moderate success, but to wash a well with gasoline or benzol more often than that may be profitable, particularly if the well is relatively small. The use of solvents by present methods is costly to apply on a large scale at frequent intervals, and the results are not commensurate with the cost.

STEAMING

Steaming to remove paraffin from the faces of the productive sands has been attempted in many fields. Steam has commonly been introduced through a single string of tubing. Probably the best arrangement for steaming is to use two-inch tubing inside of three-inch tubing, the three-inch tubing being open at the bottom and extending down to a point just above the working barrel on the two inch tubing. Steam can then be put down the well between the two-inch and three-inch tubings and allowed to rise freely between the three-inch tubing and the casing. In this way, it may be possible to heat a well sufficiently to melt and pump off the paraffin without interrupting production. The ideal condition is afforded where there is sufficient pressure in the sand to cause a fluid movement into the well while it is being steamed. The melted paraffin is then washed from the sand into the well and pumped out. In steaming a well it is imperative not to confine the steam under pressure in the well, because that tends to melt the paraffin and drive it back into the sand where it will congeal again to form a so-called "paraffin ring," plugging the sand around the well. This damages the sand worse than before. In general, steam treatment is costly and the results are not uniformly satisfactory.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years, and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by parcel post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose 10 cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

A Story of Success

How Studebaker Cars became leaders

145,000 people last year paid $200,000,000 for them

THE most talked-about cars among fine cars are the Studebaker Sixes—at $975 and up.

Sales have almost trebled in the past three years. The demand for these cars, growing by leaps and bounds, has been Motordom's chief sensation.

Over $200,000,000 was last year spent for Studebaker models.

Now we wish to explain, to all who are interested, the reasons for that success.

Studebaker has always led

For 72 years the name Studebaker has stood for quality and class.

Studebaker equipages, in the carriage days, held premier place. The White House owned them in the days of Grant and Harrison.

Now we make motor cars only. But the Studebaker name, in this modern field, simply had to maintain its prestige.

* * *

We had the money, we had the incentive — we who now control. And our one ambition has been to maintain the Studebaker place.

$90,000,000 assets behind us

Studebaker assets are $90,000,000. We have $50,000,000 in modern plants and equipment.

Not old plants re-adapted. We have spent $32,000,000 in new plants in five years. We have equipped them with 12,500 up-to-date machines.

Over $8,000,000 was spent on drop forge plants alone. Another $10,000,000 on body plants, to maintain our prestige in coach building.

We believe that no other plant in the country is so well equipped to build quality cars as Studebaker.

Engineering—$500,000 yearly

We created an engineering department which costs $500,000 yearly.

There are 125 skilled men there who devote their time to studying betterments in cars. They make 500,000 tests yearly.

There is a department of Methods and Standards. They decide and fix every standard in these cars.

Our factories employ 1,200 inspectors, to make 30,000 inspections on all Studebakers cars. Few flaws, few mistakes can escape them. That, we believe, is the finest organization ever devoted to motor car building.

The price of quality

On some steel alloys for vital parts we pay 15% extra to get them exact.

We spend $600,000 yearly to machine all surfaces of crank shafts, just as in Liberty Airplane Motors. That is the reason for that perfect balance, that absence of vibration.

Every Studebaker car is Timken-equipped. The Special-Six and the Big-Six have more Timken bearings than any car selling under $5,600 in America. The Light-Six more than any competitive car within $1,000 of its price.

Open cars have real leather upholstery. They cost $25 more per car than imitation leather.

Our closed cars have Chase Mohair upholstery. This is made from the soft fleece of Angora goats. And a Sedan requires from 15 to 18 yards.

Velour for this upholstery would save us up to $100 per car.

Note the finish of every detail. Mark the infinite care. They add 25% to labor cost on luxurious closed bodies.

Note the completeness of our larger closed cars. The nickel-plated bumpers, the extra disc wheels and cord tires, the steel trunk, the courtesy light, etc. Think what they would cost you, bought as extras.

Thus we have made the Studebaker the leader of quality cars. We have built a demand exceeding 145,000 cars per year.

Learn the results of these efforts, in fairness to yourself. Don't buy a car at $1,000 or over without knowing what we offer.

Compare the parts and details. Mark the advantages we offer — scores on scores. Our experience is that 95% of those who do that buy a Studebaker car.

THE POULTRY SPECIAL.

An earnest effort is being made to awaken interest in Wichita county to the possibilities in poultry-raising. In line with this idea, the Fort Worth and Denver railroad will operate a special poultry train, stopping at all points on this railroad, and will conduct a poultry school at various towns. Friday is the day set for Wichita Falls.

Railroads generally have adopted this custom of preparing special trains with the purpose of educating the people of their sections along agricultural lines. This plan has worked untold good for the communities which are rivileged to share in these benefits.

Poultry raising is not a pastime. It is becoming an industry throughout the country and the wise farmer is the man who includes poultry raising among the other industries on his land. The more diversified are the activities of the farmer—within the range of what soil and climate permit—the more chances he has for prosperity. The busy farmer should not have to go elsewhere for the things which he eats, and there is no one who does not consume poultry and eggs.

Nor should he go at chicken raising in a hap-hazard way. It is far too important than that, for chickens and eggs are a constant source of revenue to the man who knows how to produce them. It is these things that the "poultry special" is teaching. Aside from the train, which arrives here Friday, and which will carry poultry experts from the Agricultural and Mechanical school, with many interesting exhibits, there will be held a "poultry school" at the Mission theatre, beginning at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

Poultry raisers and those who are interested in the subject should not fail to attend this school. It is worth while, not only to the farmer, but to the city man who has discovered the advantages of providing himself with chickens and eggs through this means. The folk who are in charge of this train and the school are not working by guess. They know what they are doing and are willing to impart their knowledge to others.

AN IMPORTANT STEP.

Every day irrigation for Wichita county is becoming more of an established fact. This is realized as plans progress for the working out of the irrigation project.

Important action was taken by the chamber of commerce directors in its approval of plans for a demonstration and experimental farm in the irrigation district. Irrigation is a thing into which no one cannot rush blindly. Having a water supply does not guarantee success.

The demonstration farm will serve a great purpose from the standpoint of experiment and in making it possibly to show prospective irrigation farmers what can be accomplished. The money for the purchase of the farm will be raised, one-third from the general business public, co-operating with the Wichita Valley Landowners' association in raising the other two-thirds.

It is a big step forward in the development of the irrigation system.

NO LONGER CUSTOMARY.

Testifying in his own behalf in regard to some oil advertising he had written for a syndicate now under fire in federal court at Dallas, Gordon Ingall said:

"I didn't think anybody would take that literally. It was the spirit of the business and the customary form of oil advertising. I did not intend to lie."

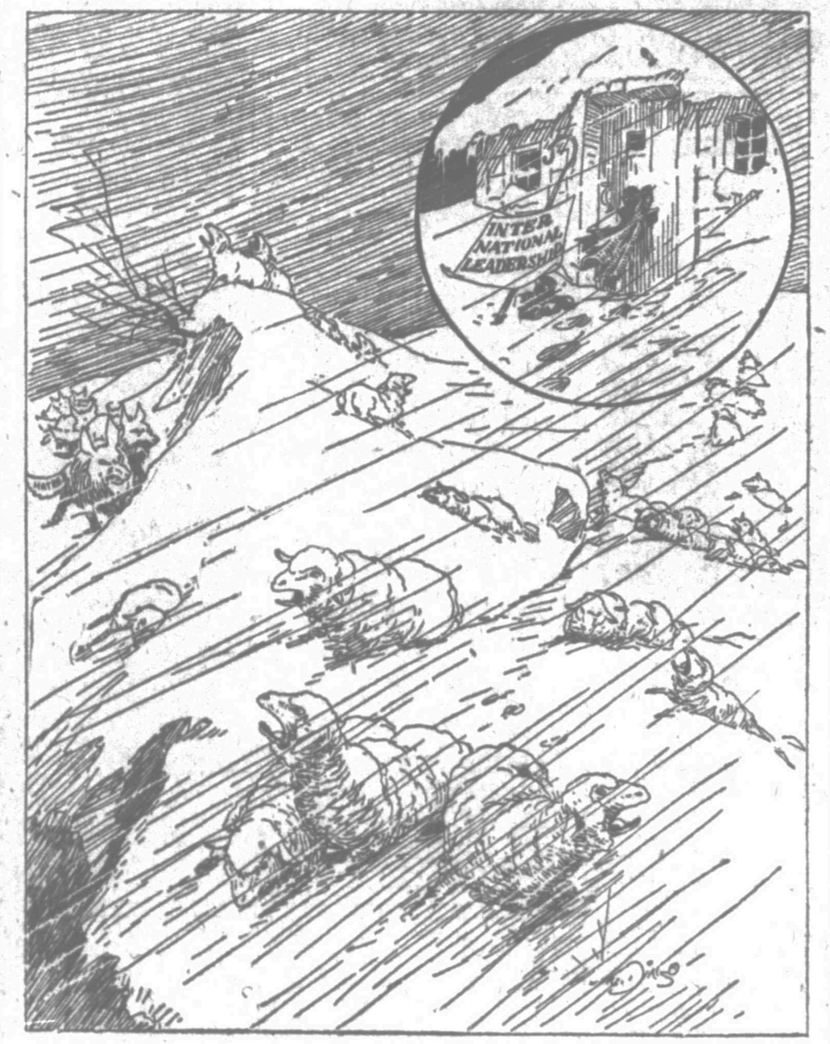

In other words the "spirit" of the oil promotion business was to "kid the public" and paint glowing pictures of riches that were beyond the range of reasonable possibilities. It is consoling to know that those days are gone forever, and no one frows on these fraudulent methods of procedure more than the legitimate oil man, who regards the production of oil as a business and not a means of bilking a gullible public.

And No Shepherd Has Since Come Forth to Take His Place Since He Went Away

The Middle Of Things

"No. He said it would possibly lead to legal proceedings. In that case it would be one of the most celebrated cases ever known. Celebrated and romantic—those were the words."

"Last week we saw Ashton for just a few minutes, down in the city. I asked him sort of jokingly, how the secret was. And he said it was just about to come out, and we must watch the papers. He said it would be of just as much interest to our colonial papers as to the English."

"We're as wise as ever," exclaimed Pawle despairingly

"No," said Fosdick emphatically, "wiser! The man had a secret, affecting powerful interests. Many a man's been put away for having a secret."

"Well, there's a good deal in that," Pawle said. "Now, while you're here, tell me how long you have known Ashton."

"Ever since we were lads," answered Fosdick readily.

"Did you ever know of his having a friend named Wickham?"

"No," answered Fosdick, "but a good many years ago, I remember that Ashton was away up country for some time—as that cablegram says. Most likely he knew this Wickham then."

"Well," announced Mr. Pawle, "I want to know who Wickman was. In the meantime, gentlemen, there is a service you can do for us. The coroner's inquest is to be held tomorrow. Go there and volunteer the evidence you've just told us! It mayn't do a scrap of good—but it will introduce an element of doubt into the case against Hyde, and that will benefit him."

"Tomorrow?" said Fosdick. "We'll do it. I see your point, sir—to introduce the idea that there's more to this than the police think."

When the two callers had gone, Mr. Pawle turned to Viner.

"Now, my friend," he said, "you've already sent your own solicitor to Hyde, haven't you? Who is he, by the way?"

"Felpham, of Chancery Lane," replied Viner.

"Excellent man! Now," said Pawle, "you go to Felpham and tell him what these two Australians have just told us, and insist on Hyde's being present at the inquest tomorrow to give evidence. That must be done, and I'll wager things will go better for the prisoner at this inquest!"

When Viner walked out of the coroner's court next day, he felt that things had indede gone well for Hyde. He had seen that people were impressed by Hyde's evidence: they had been impressed too, by the evidence volunteered by the two Australians. And when the coroner announced that he should adjourn the inquiry for a week, the folk who had crowded the court went away asking each other not if Hyde was guilty, but what was this secret of which Ashton had boasted the possession?

Late in the afternoon of that day, Mr. Pawle rang Viner upon the telephone.

"Run down!" said Mr. Pawle cheerily. "There's a new development!"

CHAPTER VIII.
News From Arcadia.

When Viner walked into the waiting-room at Crawle, Pawle and Rattenbury's, he was aware of a modestly attired young woman, who sat shyly turning over the pages of an illustrated paper. And as soon as he got into Pawle's private room, the old solicitor jerked his thumb at the door by which Viner had entered and smiled significantly.

"See that girl outside?" he asked. "She turned up here about an hour ago, and said that her grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Summers, who keeps an inn at Marketstoke, in Buckinghamshire, had seen the paragraph in the papers this morning, asking for information about Mr. John Ashton's movements, and had immediately sent her off to me with the message that a gentleman by that name stayed at their house for a few days some weeks since, and that if I would send somebody over she, the grandmother, could give some particulars about him."

"Do you think this is the same Ashton?" asked Viner.

"We'll soon decide that," answered Mr. Pawle as he touched the bell on his desk.

"Now, my dear," he continued as a clerk brought the girl into the room, "take a chair and tell me what your message is, more particularly. Your grandmother keeps an inn called Ellingham Arms?"

"Yes, sir," replied the girl.

"Now, I suppose you were at the Ellingham Arms when this Mr. Ashton came there?"

"Oh, yes, sir; I live there!"

"To be sure! Now, what sort of man was he—in appearance?"

"A tall, big gentleman, sir, with a beard, going a little grey."

Mr. Pawle nodded at Viner.

"Seems like our man," he remarked. "Now," he went on, turning again to Lucy Summers, "what did he do with himself while he was there?"

"He spent a good deal of time about the church, sir," answered the girl, "and he was at Ellingham Park a good deal. At night he talked a great deal with my grandmother. I think that's what she wanst to tell about."

"Very well," said Mr. Pawle. "Now, then, you run away home to Marketstoke my dear, and tell your grandmother that I'm obliged to her, and that I am coming down this evening, with this gentleman, Mr. Viner."

"Viner," Pawle continued when he had taken the girl into the outer office, "we can easily run down to Marketstoke in under two hours. I'll call for you at your house at half-past five. And then—we'll hear what this old lady has to tell."

Viner nodded, went out, into the afternoon calm of Bedford Row.

He jumped into a cab and hastened back to Markendale Square to pack a bag and prepare for his journey.

Miss Penkridge called to him from the drawing-room as he was running upstairs; he turned into the room to find her in company with two ladies—dismal, pathetic figures both in tears and evident distress, who, as Viner walked in, rose from their chairs and gazed at him sadly and wistfully.

CHAPTER IX.
Looking Backward.

Before either he or Miss Penkridge could speak, the elder of the two broke into an eager exclamation.

"Oh, Mr. Viner, we are Langton's sisters! We learned this dreadful news last night in the evening paper and we have been to Mr. Felpham's office this afternoon. He told us how kind you had been in engaging his services for our unfortunate brother. But now that we have found Langton, we must stand by him. We must find some quiet lodging, and settle down to help. We cannot let all the burden fall on you, Mr. Viner."

Viner glanced at Miss Penkridge. They were quick to understand each other, these two, and he knew at once that his aunt saw what was in his mind.

"Listen!" said Viner. "I have to go away tonight, on a matter closely connected with this affair. Let me leave you in my aunt's charge. You'll be much more comfortable here than in any lodgings or hotel and—and I should like to do something for Hyde; we're old school fellows, you know."

Then he escaped from the room and made ready for his journey; and at half-past five came Mr. Pawle in his private car and carried him off into the dark.

An hour and a half later, they drew up at the Ellingham Arms where an excellent dinner awaited them.

Dinner over they sat before the fire awaiting the appearance of Mrs. Summers.

Finally a light tap at the door heralded her approach.

"Come in, ma'am," Mr. Pawle cried, throwing open the door. "We are very eager indeed to hear what you can tell us."

"Well sir," the landlady answered, "I have a good deal to tell. Mr. Ashton came here one Monday afternoon and he stayed here until Thursday. And he hand't been in the house an hour, gentlemen, before I wondered if he hadn't been here before.

"After he'd seen his room upstairs, he went out to the front door, and I overheard him talking to himself as he looked about.

"'Aye!' he was saying as he looked this way and that, 'there's the old church, and the old moot-hall, they haven't changed a bit, I reckon, in all these years!'

"'You've known Marketstoke before,' I said to myself."

"During the time he was here, he went about in it in a fashion that convinced me that my ideas were right. He was in and around the church a great deal and he visited Ellingham Park twice, and was shown over the house. And before he'd been here two days I came to a certain conclusion about him."

"Yes!" exclaimed Mr. Pawle. "And that, ma'am was—"

"That he was somebody who disappeared from Marketstoke thirty-five years ago," answered the landlady, "disappeared completely, and has never been heard of from that day to this!"

"And that somebody?" Mr. Pawle asked in hushed accents. "Who was he?"

Magnus Johnson at least knows how to strike a popular cord now and then. His latest: "There are too dawg-goned many laws."

We are only sorry that we cannot give Mag credit for being original. We have known that for a long time.

The only danger at present in the Teapot Dome thing is that they may string it out until everyone loses interest in it.

One nice thing about it is, that it gives everyone who wasn't mixed up in it—and the list is growing daily—an opportunity to "point with pride and view with alarm."

One of the things that is cutting down the efficiency of the country is the effieiency expert who doesn't know anything except that.

Tut's coffin is now exposed to the eyes of the world. It's none of our business, but we would feel a lot better if they would get the old boy dug up and have it over with.

Judging from the extent of the emotions the excavators are said to be experiencing, it is doubtful whether all of them will be able to hold out until the mummy is revealed. Opening King Tut's tomb is almost as difficult as opening Hi Johnson's campaign.

And not altogether unlike it, in that those in charge keep everlastingly at it.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

A Growing Record.

One Mother Says:

On the inside of my white-painted closet door is a visible evidence of how my children grow. I let them back up against the door and I make a black line to show their height marking down the name and date. They have great fun out of watching these records, and obey rules of health more rapidly when I remind them that they will make their growing marks go up higher.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

By MARY BLAKE

AQUARIUS

Planetary conditions are of a doubtful nature which makes speculative investments unusually uncertain. There is danger of fires and accidents and general misjudgment. The evening aspects are very good, making all endeavrors almost certain of success.

A child born today will be sturdy in body and spirit, a genial but dominant leader of other children.

You move and think with surety, if today is your birthday, and you gradually accomplish whatever you wish. Your success will never be brilliant nor sudden, but likewise you will never suffer even a temporary loss. You are carefully foresighted and cautious, so much so in fact that you will be outdistanced in competition all your life by various people at various times but seldom by one person all the time.

You are magnetic because you are solid and reliable, but others of finer minds but weaker morals will depend upon your resolution and your colossal homely sanity. There are moments, however, when even you have your aberrations—moments of wild riotous dissipation, when you sneak off to solitary indulgence and attend the movies or even a concert of classical music.

In such moments of abandonment you are charmingly natural and wholesome—altogether a lovable person until you are caught at it and covered with the shame of being seen while actually enjoying life.

You have an easy mastery over others because your thoughts are simple and communicable. You could not fool anybody if you tried, much less yourself.

You are genuinely affectionate and surprisingly demonstrative when you really love. But you are more of a friend than a lover as it is much more natural to your character.

The great need of your life is play. You are inhibited in all impulses as you will never feel completely yourself until you have lived fully and dangerously.

Successful people born on this date are:

Charles Fordney, congressman.
Cyrus Wakefield, philanthropist.
Abiel Abbott Low, N. Y., merchant.
N. M. Hill, linguist.
George P. Putnam, publisher.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

WHAT MEETS THE EYE

Said Euclid: "I'll be no poor clerk,
For I'm a lad of brains,
I'll write a monumental work
On angles, spheres and planes,
And with my fame the world will wake
And in a few years hence,
My royalty receipts will make
A goodly competence."

But though of course he knew his stuff,
And wrote extremely well,
The book had not appeal enough,
He shortly found, to sell.
The reason earnestly and long
He inwardly debated,
And then he found out what was wrong:
It wasn't illustrated!

So Euclid with a knowing grin,
Took out his fountain pen;
Put some three hundred pictures in
And got it out again.
And when the finished work he took
To good live publishers,
He got more money from his book
Than Sappho got from hers.

Thus Euclid was the first to see
That there's a mental kink
In common folks, like you and me
Which makes us hate to think.
So, writers, if you aim to win
The popular regard,
Put lots of illustrations in;
Folks fall for pictures, hard!

TIMELY VIEWS on WORLD TOPICS

YALE PRESIDENT DISCUSSES MAIN EDUCATIONAL NEEDS OF COUNTRY

Discussing "American Education Today," Dr. James R. Angell, president of Yale, stated recently that the three great educational questions to be solved are proper schools for the rural district, elementary education for the children of the large cities and the need for the proper kind of teachers.

"We are in the midst of the most unparalleled educational development the world has ever seen," said Dr. Angell. "Education is one of the foundation stones upon which our nation rests. The war deepened our interest in education. That is one of the few good things that came from the conflict.

"One of the most interesting things is the extraordinary development of the public high schools. They have multiplied considerably more than 700 per cent in the last three decades. There are now more than 2,000,000 pupils in high schools, as against 700,000 thirty years ago.

"There are from 600,000 to 700,000 students in the colleges, and the number is rapidly increasing. In a state like Iowa the number of students is increasing in leaps and bounds, while the population has not increased at any such rate. The increase may go on until every boy and girl in that state will receive the education that the institutions can give. That is a condition we hope will be arrived at everywhere."

SOILS AND SOIL PHYSICS.
Aluminum in the Soil.

Aluminum as a metal is known to all of us. It is in common use. The housewife has many cooking utensils made of this light lustrous metal. The automobile manufacturers use aluminum liberally in the manufacture of the better grade of cars.

Aluminum cables or wires are often used in place of copper in electric power transmission. Such wires have a high factor of conductivity and are very light.

The transmission line between Wichita Falls and Lake Kemp was of aluminum cables. All the power that the great dredge used in the building of the storage dam which forms the lake was carried over these aluminum cables.

Aluminum is a common and universal element in soils. It is estimated that soils on the average contain about 8 per cent of aluminum in various combinations. It is generally combined with silica or lime. Clays contain on the average about 17 per cent of aluminum.

If we only knew how to extract this metal from the clays it would be the most plentiful of all metals and probably the cheapest. As it is aluminum is practically all obtained from a mineral called Beaxzite which is found mainly in the state of Georgia. This mineral is subject to electrolysis and the aluminum extracted.

Aluminum, despite its universal occurence in all clays and soils is not used by plants. Very rarely indeed is a trace of aluminum found in the ashes of plants.

Favors of red satin boxes filled with candy, with a larger one for the honoree, were given.

In the party besides Mrs. W. H. Sammons, were Mesdames J. M. Sammons, H. A. Allen, Nat L. Inge, and F. E. Thornburgh.

Mrs. Sammons will be honored with a bridge luncheon at the home of Mrs. R. T. Crawford today.

Ladies' Aid Meeting Friday Afternoon.

The meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Yale Avenue Evangelical church which was announced for Tuesday afternoon, is postponed on account of the memorial services for the former president, Woodrow Wilson, and will be held instead on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. D. Cook.

Highland Heights League With Mrs. Brunson.

The Highland Heights Civic league will meet with Mrs. T. R. Brunson at her home, 2205 Grant street Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. West Hostess To Kill Kare Club.

Mrs. A. W. West was hostess to a delightful meeting of the Kill Kare club when departing from their usual game of "42" four tables were arranged for bridge.

In the games, Mrs. C. E. Naylor won the high score of the club members, an embroidered vanity set, while Mrs. Dan Blackburn was consoled for low with a potted maidenhair fern. Mrs. C. C. Randle won high among the guests and was presented with a potted hyacinth. Mrs. I. W. Karrenbrock was consoled for low with an embroidered serving apron.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Terrell, R. H. Patterson, R. B. Parker, O. W. Wilson, Dan Blackburn, C. C. Randle, E. E. Scannell, John Barker, Charlie Morgan, E. J. Bartell, George Coleman, Verne Harrell, I. W. Karrenbrock, C. E. Naylor and Misses Alice Murray of Wills Point and Helen Hill of Vernon.

Community Little Theatre Secures Galveston Director.

The receipt of a signed contract from Peter Amos Vincent of Galveston which secures him as a director for the play to be put on by the club in April was the chief announcement of interest at the Community Little theatre luncheon Wednesday noon at the Kemp hotel.

Mr. Vincent is a director of standing in the southwest and the club expressed much pleasure at securing him for the presentation of the April play.

The March offering, it was decided at the meeting, would be directed by some member of the club, allowing Oliver Hinsdale, director of the Little theatre in Dallas, to come here the day before the performance for a final working out, and the application of a "finishing touch."

Reports were heard from Mrs. Porter Oakes as to the condition of the two one-act plays, one under her direction, and the other under the direction of Milton Silberman, which are to be presented at the First Baptist church basement on Tuesday evening, February 19. It was voted to present two plays with musical numbers before and after the program and between acts, instead of three one-act plays.

A discussion of club plans and the adoption of a system of tickets and membership cards which is being donated by Mrs. Jouette Bonner, president of the club, were other features of the meeting.

Several new active and associate members were present at the luncheon as were several guests.

Huisache "500" Club to Meet.

The Huisache "500" club will meet with Mrs. F. W. Ramsey, 1075 Eighth street this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Girl's Circle Holds Meeting And Program.

Members and friends of the Girl's Circle of the First Christian church were delightfully entertained by Misses Harriette and Georgia B. Leath at the home of the former, 2400 Ninth street Sunday afternoon.

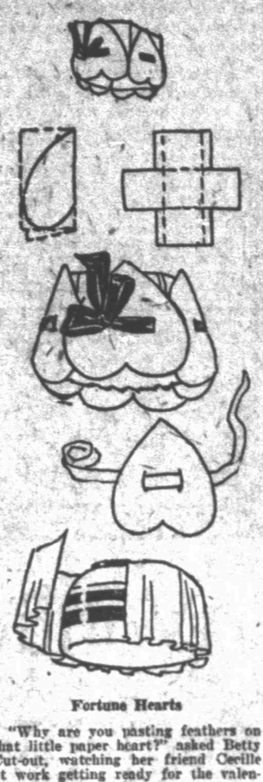

After an unsually splendid missionary program, a social hour was enjoyed during which a dainty refreshment plate was served.

Mrs. E. F. Freuchte is ill at her home.

Miss Alice Murray of Wills Point, Texas, is the guest of Mrs. Arch Dawson.

Miss Helen Hill of Vernon is the house guest of Mrs. John Barker.

COLOR CUT-OUTS

Fortune Hearts

"Why are you pasting feathers on that little paper heart?" asked Betty Cut-out, watching her friend Cecille at work getting ready for the valentine party.

"It's a light heart to put in the fortune bowl," was the odd answer. "I'll cut a red flannel heart for a warm one, a torn heart for a broken one, a blue paper one will be for a sad heart and a green one for a jealous person. They'll all go in the bowl I'm fixing. Each guest will draw to see what kind of a heart his is."

"I'll help you and make a soft heart of cotton," chuckled Betty.

You may make a fortune bowl like Cecille's by covering any round china dish with red crepe or tissue paper, then cutting four big red hearts a little higher than the dish, and tying them around by running red ribbon in and out, as in the picture. Following the diagram, make also a box for heart candies for the table. The cross is six inches square. It is covered with hearts cut on a fold, all held together by a ribbon.

DOROTHY DIX'S LETTER BOX

The Young Wife Who Wants to Have Her Fun Now Instead of Saving for a Rainy Day—Which Is More Unselfish and Self-Sacrificing, Mother Love or Sweetheart Love?—Shall He Marry on $150 a Month?

Dear Miss Dix—I am only twenty-one years old and am married to a man nine years older than myself. I love pleasures and pretty clothes, but when I want some of the things I feel I ought to have my husband wishes to save the money to buy a home. I realize that it is good to save, especially for old age, but we haven't any too much money, so our saving will be slow and we will be denied almost all of the joys of life. I am afraid that by the time we save, so that we can have things, I will be too old to enjoy the pleasures that I want so badly at twenty-one.

Do you not think that we might enjoy ourselves for about a year or two and then start to save?

DISCONTENTED WIFE.

Answer:

Thrift is one of the virtures that, if overdone, may become a vice. And certainly it is not wise to deny oneself every pleasure and comfort as one goes along in order to lay up money to be enjoyed in the future. Moderation in all things is the golden rule, and any sensible young couple should budget their income, and decide what is a fair percentage of it to save, and what to spend on pleasure.

Your idea, Discontented Wife, of blowing in all that you make on pleasure for a few years and then beginning to save is one that has been adopted by millions of people before you. And it has led every one of them to the poorhouse. For the time to begin to save is right now, this very day and hour, not in the future. Those who put it off until tomorrow never lay up a dollar for a rainy day. There is always something alluring to buy or to do on which they spend it.

Your theory is that people should spend their money when they are young in enjoying themselves. Wrong. Youth is the time to save, because youth of itself is joy enough, and finds amusement in everything. When you are young you do not need much money, but when you are old you need it desperately. You need it to buy physical comforts. You need it to buy politeness and consideration from other people. No fate is so desolate as that of poor old men and women who are dependent on people who do not want them about.

A very wise old man once told me that a year after the marriage of any young couple he could foretell their destiny. He said that if, in that first year, they had saved up even as little as a hundred dollars and had started a savings account, that they would go on to prosperity, and by the time they were middle-aged they would be among the substantial people of their community. If, however, on the anniversary of their wedding day they had saved nothing, they would be one of the couples who live from hand to mouth all of their lives, and in their old age are dependent on their children.

So, Discontented Wife, I entreat you to see how wise your husband is, and to join him cheerfully in trying to save and get ahead. It pays to do without a few things you want now in order to have luxuries later on.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Will you please settle an argument we have had on this subject: Which love is more beautiful, more sacrificing, most unselfish—mother love or sweetheart love?

MOTHER AND SWEETHEART.

Answer:

Mother love. No arguing about that. Mother love is the only unselfish love in the world. It is the only love that puts the happiness of the beloved one above its own; that gives all and asks nothing.

To prove that, Sweetheart you have only to realize that a mother is going to give the one who is the very heart of her heart to you, and is rejoicing in the sacrifice because it will be for his good and make him happier. You couldn't do that. You couldn't give him to another woman if he happened to love her better than he does you.

You may say that the man will love his mother none the less after he marries you. But the mother will have given him up, just the same. He will go away from her to live. Another woman will be first in his heart and thoughts. He will no longer depend on his mother. She will not be necessary to him any more. To a degree, every mother loses her son when he marries, and yet every mother who truly loves her son gladly makes the sacrifice of giving him up so that he may establish his own home, because she knows that it is best for him.

Mother love endures all things, and forgives all things. Wives divorce husbands who are unkind to them, who are immoral, drunken, who commit crimes and disgrace them, but the mother clings to the prodigal son, no matter what he does, nor how cruelly he misuses her. And there are more mothers than wives that wait outside of penitentiary doors to welcome home the criminals who have served their terms.

Even in those wives who love their husbands best, who are most patient and self-sacrificing and faithful, there is more of the material love than there is the wife love. It is the mother love that has outlasted the sweetheart love.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Am contemplating a little trip upon the matrimonial seas, but, considering my present salary, am uncertain as to the advisability of such an act. I have given the matter careful consideration of late—wondering and wondering whether or not a young man receiving $150 per month should make such a contract, and if advisable, whether or not he should rent an apartment, board or rent a room and eat in restaurants.

UNDECIDED.

Answer:

Unless the girl has money or a good job at which she will continue to work after marriage, you will certainly do a foolhardy thing to undertake matrimony on $150 a month.

Write to one of the housekeeping magazines or ask a bank for a budget showing the least that two persons can live upon, how much for rent, how much for food, etc. And when you figure it out you will find that you could barely exist on that income.

There would be no happiness for you in an existence in which you were hounded by the bill collector and lived in perpetual fear of losing your job. So I earnestly entreat you not to get married until you can afford it. It does not take riches to marry on, but it does take enough money to get a decent place to live in and enough food to eat.

A young couple should board if the wife keeps on at her job. Otherwise, they should keep house.

DOROTHY DIX.

Household Hints

USE MORE SALT.

Keep a receptable full of salt in your medicine cupboard in the bathroom. Use it occasionally on your toothbrush in place of regular tooth paste or powder. It is one of the best mouth and throat washes in existence. Put a teaspoon of salt in a tumblerful of lukewarm water and rinse your mouth before retiring and gargle your throat when it feels sore. You can do nothing better for either.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Griddle Cakes — Three cups sour milk, two eggs, beaten separately, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon baking power, one tablespoon melted butter, flour enough to make a good batter. Add the whites of the eggs last; fold in lightly. If you wish to use sweet milk, put in one cupful bread crumbs soaked in milk and use two teaspoons baking powder and no soda.

Ham and Escalloped Potatoes—Wash, peel and dice potatoes to fill casserole. Place a layer of potatoes in bottom of casserole, season with pepper and butter. Repeat this until casserole is over half full. Then place a slice of ham and cover with potatoes with bread or cracker crumbs and pour milk until it comes up to the top of the potatoes. Use salt very sparingly as the ham is salty enough to nearly season the potatoes. Bake in a slow oven until potatoes are done.

Butterscotch Cookies — Two cups brown sugar, three-quarter cup shortening, two eggs, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup nut meats, four cups flour. Mix all ingredients in the order named. Form into a roll about the size of the wrist and lay on floured bake board overnight. In the morning slice with a knife, about one-half inch thick and bake slowly. These are delicious and can be varied with raisins, figs and dates.

I seldom advocate meat twice a day as I think that once is unusually enough, but in today's menu you may buy a good sized piece of ham, have a thin slice cut off to flavor the potatoes for lunch. The remaining piece is parboiled in cold water, then boiled until tender when it is browned in the oven. Or, parboiled and baked slowly in the oven either using sweet cider or ham liquor to baste.

SUGGESTIONS.

Don't use rubber hose to connect your gas appliances. Many serious accidents occur each year through this practice. In a short time rubber hose deteriorates and becomes porous, allowing the gas to escape and endanger lives and property. The only safe method of connecting gas appliances is to use iron piping with solid joints.

An electric fan is a help in drying clothes that are hung in the house in the winter months. Stand it on a box so that the air will blow directly on the clothes.

When your soup is too rich it contains too much fat. If it is poured through a cloth wet with cold water the superfluous fat will be strained off.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Waffles—Baltimore waffles are a popular variety, simply and quickly made. Sift one cup flour with a pinch of salt, a pinch of sugar and two teaspoons baking powder. Mix with two eggs and one-quarter cup melted butter. Thin with about one cup milk and beat well. Another waffle you will like includes rice to its ingredients. Use one and three-quarter cups wheat flour, two-thirds cup cold cooked rice, one and one-half cupfulls milk, two tablespoons sugar, four teaspoonfuls baking powder, one-quarter teaspoonful salt, one tablespoonful melted butter and one egg. Sour cream waffles are among the most tempting of all waffle iron products. Mix and sift four cups flour and one-half teaspoon salt together, add one pint sour cream with one teaspoon soda dissolved in it, the yolks of three eggs well beaten, three tablespoons melted fat and the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs.

Meat Pie—When baking chicken or meat-pie invert a teacup in the center of the pan and place the chicken around it. The gravy will never fall in the middle and become heavy.

Apple, Onion Salad—Take a slice or two of Spanish onion, chop fine and add to half a dozen finely diced apples and a cupful of minced dates. Season with salt and dress with any good boiled dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves or garnish with a bit of parsley.

Mock Cherry Pie—Chop together cup of large, seeded raisins. Add two cups of sugar and one cup boiling water, a teaspoon of vanilla flavoring and two teaspoons of flour. Mix all well and pour into a pie plate lined with a good crust, put on the top crust and bake.

SUGGESTIONS

Make your stepladder safe by nailing some pieces of rubber on the ends to prevent slipping.

A tasty luncheon that can be prepared from what is in the house when unexpected guests arrive is: tuna fish creamed or au gratin, baked potatoes, hot biscuits or muffins, home-made preserves and tea, chocolate or coffee.

SICK WOMAN MADE HAPPY

Entirely Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mart, Texas.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build me up as was all run-down, nervous and sick. I ached and hurt all over so that I was often compelled to go to bed, and I had to have most of my work done. No medicine seemed to help me until one of my neighbors who was taking the Vegetable Compound insisted on me trying a bottle of it. The medicine helped me from the first, and the best of all is that I can even sew again without that awful, nervous feeling I was used to having. And I used to take crying spells, with such a blue feeling that I cannot explain. Now all that has left me. I feel so cheerful, and I have gained in weight, sleep well and eat hearty. Oh! I wish I had words to express what this medicine has done for me! I am a housekeeper and do every thing from the sewing to the washing now and it doesn't hurt me. You may use my letter in any way you wish. I will be glad to help any suffering woman to the road of health and happiness."—Mrs. B. F. BRANNON, 404 Travis Ave., Mart, Texas

Why Mothers no longer fear Child-birth

AN eminent physician has shown why there is so much suffering on the part of many expectant mothers, for months before baby comes, as well as when baby actually arrives.

This same great doctor found the way to avoid much of this suffering. Mother, your baby's nerves, its whole structure should be free from any influence caused by your months of useless misery and pain. You yourself can be free from much of it. Here is a little message to all expectant mothers:

Mrs. Ida Milton, 120 N. Tremont St., Kansas, Ill., says: "I am forced to say something in regard to your wonderful 'Mother's Friend.' Just one application gave me such relief I could hardly realize I was in pregnancy. Before I used it I was suffering with pains all over, and today, I am able to do my housework with all ease and without pain."

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally, and enables the muscles, nerves and tissues to relax and readjust themselves with the growing changes during pregnancy, and at child-birth. It should be used for some time before baby comes—the sooner the better.

"Mother's Friend" contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is safe. For three generations "Mother's Friend" has relieved expectant mothers of much useless suffering. Mother! you must avoid more greases and useless substitutes. Begin using "Mother's Friend" today. It is sold at drug stores—everywhere.

Man Seized With Fit Falls To Pavement; Hurt

A badly bruised head was the injury sustained by [illegible] Greek, when he fell on the pavement at Ninth and Ohio corner about 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The fall was evidently caused by an epileptic fit, according to Dr. L. D. Parnell, who attended the case soon after the injured man was rushed to the hospital in a Hines ambulance.

Kotska was unconscious for some time, both from the effects of the fall and the epileptic attack, it was reported. He was resting well at the General hospital last night, attendants announced.

C. OF C. AT IOWA PARK GROWING

Pace Announces New Committee Appointments

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Feb. 6.—The office of the chamber of commerce has been a very busy place for the past few days outlining the year's work, and making preparations for the big community drive for membership for the year 1924. The new board of directors are mapping out a large program for the next 12 months, and are realizing that many things are to be done around "Iowa Park, the Gateway to the Big Irrigated Valley." President Pace has announced the following standing committees: Good roads committee—L. L. Kunta, chairman; J. C. Searl, George Hoge, W. F. Hiesermann, W. F. George; mercantile bureau committee—J. A. Tanner, chairman; S. D. Jacks, D. O. Smith, Scott Ralston, H. R. Overbey; oil activities committee—J. S. Owen, chairman, J. H. Turner, J. C. Ralston, T. L. Burnett, H. B. Blanton; farm bureau activities—C. E. Birk, chairman, W. L. Hodges, W. C. Williams, Mamie Dale Brown, Geo. M. Dorris; irrigation committee—J. D. Overbey, chairman, J. W. Yarbro, J. F. Boyd, J. N. George, A. C. Golden; new industry committee—H. T. Danner, Jr., chairman, M. B. Cain, Tom Corridon, Jr., Walter R. Golden, R. L. Curry; civic improvements committee—Dr. Frank Clark, chairman, R. L. Brubaker, Jno. C. Murphree, Mrs. Gordon G. Clark, E. C. Knox. These committees will have charge of their lines of activities, and prospects point to a busy year for the local chamber, and city and community activities are much in evidence, even at this time. The budget committee has made its report, and calls for an expenditure of $3,011.68, for all purposes.

The membership committee, composed of six teams of four each, will meet this afternoon for final instructions for their drive, and will make their report at a luncheon for this committee at the Helten hotel, at noon, February 13.

Community wide interest is being manifested in the work of the chamber of commerce for the year, on account of the many things of importance that will come up, both in civic and community progress. Possibly the irrigation problem will be one of the biggest that will confront the citizenship, and preparations are being made to carry this work on to a successful culmination. Many farmers are to be located on these valley lands within the next few years, which will in turn necessitate factories, storage, shipping facilities, etc.

Due to the recent rise in prices of crude oil, many new drilling locations are being made around Iowa Park, and prospects point to a very busy year in the oil activities. Beside the increased drilling activities south of town, three new locations have been made close in to the north, and many oil men are predicting a new pool in this section around the 2,000 foot depth. Leasing is looking up, and considerable acreage is changing hands immediately around Iowa Park.

Much city improvement is being planned. Among which is the building of a new city hall, securing permanent water supply, beautifying city parks, and many other things.

Centennial To Get Aid Of Luncheon Clubs

Austin Bureau,
Record News.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 5.—The active interest of every Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and other civic and luncheon club in Texas has been invited for the Texas Centennial celebration convention called to meet in the Texas state senate chamber next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Invitation to all of the clubs to send delegations to Austin to take part in the deliberations have been sent out by Lowry Martin of Corsicana, secretary of the executive committee along with copies of Governor Pat M. Neff's proclamation printed on illustrated art folders prepared for the centennial committee. Request has been made that this proclamation be read to all of the clubs at their regular meetings during this week.

Progress of organizing "on to Austin" delegations has been splendid during the past week according to letters received from Mr. Martin. From Corsicana a solid pullman load already has been signed up and Mr. Martin wrote that there probably would be two loads before Monday night, February 11, when the delegation entrains.

The program to be followed at the convention is being worked out by Judge Cato Sells of Fort Worth, chairman of the executive committee. Judge Sells and his associates on the committee have repeatedly declared that they are entertaining no preconceived notions as to what sort of a centennial celebration should be held and that the meeting here Tuesday will make its own free and untrammeled choice.

Prepare Program Lynch Davidson Campaign Start

Austin Bureau
Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 6.—A mass meeting of Limestone county citizens, and visitors from other points will be held at Groesbeck next Saturday, it was announced by J. E. Farrow, secretary of the Groesbeck chamber of commerce, who was here Tuesday, to mark the formal opening of Lynch Davidson's candidacy for governor.

A dinner and "homecoming" will be arranged, in honor of the aged friends of Neal Davidson, father of the candidate for governor, with hundreds of the pioneer residents of the county invited as guests, it was stated by Mr. Farrow.

Former Lieutenant Governor Davidson will make the first speech of his campaign for nomination. Judge James Kimbell, district attorney, will introduce him. L. L. Brown, chairman of the first "Lynch Davidson for Governor" club will preside.

Delegations will be present, Mr. Farrow said, from Dallas, Kosse, Thornton, Coolidge, Mexia, Corsicana, and points in the county.

A. H. Sanger and W. V. Crawford of Waco and Mr. Farrow conferred with Lynch Davidson here Tuesday, and with Dudley K. Woodward, chairman of the Travis county Lynch Davidson organization.

ASK COUNTY SCHOOL HEADS TO REPORT

Austin Bureau
Record News.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 6.—County superintendents of education, and superintendents of smaller independent districts, have been asked by the state educational survey commission to make detailed reports of their activities over a period of several weeks.

"Such a record is not intended to serve as a basis for criticism of the efficiency of the superintendents," Dr. G. A. Works, director of the survey said, "but merely to give data from a large number of cases to determine the demands of the positions. "From the entire list he expects to get an accurate view of the usual supervisory conditions in rural schools.

Further than this, the survey has named county superintendents or other persons in 16 counties, to list building and equipment in their counties for guidance of the survey group.

DALLAS OIL FRAUD CASES BEING ARGUED

DALLAS, Feb. 6.—Arguments in the cases of Richard Rader, Robert Ingalls and Gordon Ingalls, charged with misuse of the mails in connection with oil and mineral promotions, began in federal court here late today. Two hours was allotted to each side for argument. The case was expected to go to the jury tomorrow afternon.

Robert Edmond Ingalls, the last witness for the defense, testified today to his relationship with the Rader syndicate, saying he was in charge of the Dallas office of the concern. His brother, Gordon Ingall, was cross-examined regarding organization of several concerns or in which he holds an interest, especially the Richard Rader Mineral Deeds syndicate.

STATE TAX COLLECTIONS HIGH

Austin Bureau,
Record News.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 5.—Gross receipts taxes for the quarter ending December 31 will reach about $1,250,000, according to records of Comptroller Lon A. Smith's office. The department has collected $604,801.68, estimated to be one-half the quarterly tax.

Comptroller Smith has so far collected $215,232.75 gasoline tax for the month of December, and $32,876 sulphur tax for the quarter ending with December. Some of the large remittances in the December gasoline tax payments were: Gulf Refining company, $55,562; Texas company, $44,437; Magnolia company, $43,403; Pierce Oil corporation, $20,093.

What Do You Think of This Woman?

She stepped into one of the leading big stores down town on the first of the month to pay her account, and, in the conversation with the cashier, she admitted that her home life hadn't been running any too smooth until her husband had finally consented to contract the debt she had just paid.

Now she says, she is supremely happy and her household duties are now more of a pleasure than a dreaded druggery. She doesn't dread wash days now because she doesn't have to put her hands in the water nor does she have to use the old clothes wringer or go out in the cold muddy weather to hang up the clothes; nor rewash those pieces that blow off the line; or sew buttons back on that the old wringer used to tear off. Wash day doesn't mess up the whole house now, because her new Laun-Dry-Ette doesn't require a battery of galvanized tubs to do the washing. Instead of working hard constantly as she did with the old wash machine, she can now start the Laun-Dry-Ette and go about other work while it is doing the work for her; but best of all she doesn't need to fear the children getting hurt in the wringer any more. She said she was very thankful to the Wichita Hardware Company for all the comfort and happiness the Laun-Dry-Ette brought her because it was their advice in the paper that got her in the notion of buying.—Adv.

To Make Medical Examination All Texas Prisoners

Austin Bureau
Record News.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 6.—Dr. A. C. Scott of Temple, who will head a group of 40 Texas physicians, in making physical examination of every inmate of Texas prisons, as a part of the penitentiary survey of the Texas committee on "Prisons and Prison Labor," Tuesday asked co-operation of the governor and the prison system in the survey. He reported to Governor Neff that the volunteer physicians will be ready to begin the medical examinations within the next 30 days.

Governor Neff gave assurance that the state and prison system will co-operate in every detail with the physicians and the Texas public in conducting the examinations.

Bands of five or six doctors wil visit each of the prison farms, Dr. Scott said. In each group will be a specialist along every particular medical line, and the examination of prison inmates will exhaustively deal with each deficiency or disease found.

Besides the medical examination of men already in prison, it is expected mental and physical examination will be given in future to all prisoners when brought into the prison system.

The committee on prisons and prison labor will also make a scientific survey of the prison along industrial lines, and with respect to giving all inmates vocational training, and will survey manufacturing possibilities of the prison, toward making articles and growing foodstuffs required in state institutions. The committee will avoid placing prison labor in competition with free labor, it has been announced.

DARKENS HAIR SO NATURALLY NO ONE KNOWS

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring, faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing t home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Adv.

CAMPUS CHATTER

All high school students were dismissed at 2:00 o'clock yesterday afternoon so that they could attend the Wilson memorial services at the First Baptist church.

Dr. J. W. Cantwell, city superintendent of schools, made an address for the memorial services for Woodrow Wilson in Byers, Texas, yesterday. He was accompanied by Burl Bryant, county superintendent of schools.

Alamo school observed the memorial service of Wilson's death Tuesday afternoon by assembling 800 strong in front of the building at 2 o'clock.

"America" was sung by the group after which J. W. Parks, principal delivered the invocation.

The students then stood at attention while Mrs. Mary B. Adams played on the piano several of Wilson's favorite hymns, among them "How Firm a Foundation," "Day is Dyng in the West," and "The Son of God Goes Forth to War." Group singing was led by Miss Nan B. Scott.

Sam Bashara of the junior class of Wichita Falls High school, a former Alamo student, delivered a eulogy on Wilson, and the service closed by the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

The Mother's club of Fannin school met Tuesday afternoon for a Wilson memorial meeting.

Several more students have dropped from their classes in the second grade at Fannin school for a few weeks because of measles.

The football team of the Junior High school celebrated the arrival of the football sweaters for the team with a hike and a weiner roast at which they entertained their ladies Wednesday afternoon at 5:30.

The sweaters were issued at that time by Coach T .B. Montgomery to Carl Delaney, captain; Frank McKee, manager; Walter Pinn, Clyde Hicks, Huron Horton, Tabby Levine, Roy Neal, Gene Nesbett, Jewel Sisk Wilkes Dobson, Keoth Sloan, Coyall Frances, Frank Ray, Harvey Herndon, Raymond Tollett, Rufus Neal and Ray Walker.

Teachers at San Jacinto school read Governor Neff's proclamation concerning the memorial of Wilson's death and reviewed high lights in Wilson's life in their various rooms Wednesday afternoon.

Lawson Ferguson of Barwise school is absent because of the death of his brother, Jack Ferguson, which occurred Tuesday evening, from measles and pneumonia.

Luther Braker, James Finley, Georgia Spanger and Carl Hall were absent from Barwise school Wednesday because of illness.

The mother's of the third grade at Fannin school were awarded the prize picture for having the largest attendance at Mother's club Tuesday afternoon.

An Editorial

TIME was when every house had its yard full of scratching chickens. As a food supply for the family, they helped.

With the passing of time and the subsequent development of the country, cities grew where communities had existed. Quite naturally neither time nor room could be spared for the tending of chickens. On the other hand, the farmers, in their efforts to appease the ravenous appetites of the busy cities, turned their attention and labor to producing preferable provisions. Poultry raising as a paying business was unthought of, or carried out on a small scale.

With the advent of the poultry fancier—generally some rich man with a hobby and some knowledge of chickens—came the first step in the recognition of the farmyard fowl as a possible source of profit.

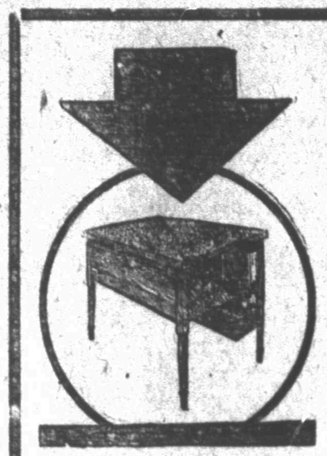

As the fancier took to breeding and cross-breeding, gradually he produced a stronger and better chicken, better layers, better flesh, better feathers and better breeders.

Close on his heels came the business man—eyes wide open for a paying proposition. His shrewd intellect saw a great future in poultry—and he stepped in.

The breeder and the business man combined. The former donated his knowledge of breeding and raising, the latter his commercial instincts to marketing. The result was inevitable.

Interest has grown to the extent where national and state organizations have begun to co-operate with breeders in an effort to produce a better breed and higher type of chicken for both the market and for show purposes.

Colleges have established poultry farms where science is applied to the culture of chickens. Texas A. & M. has one of the foremost corps of poultry experts in the entire southwest. They know poultry. They know the best breeds. They know the particular hen that produces more eggs, more meat, more feathers in this section of the country. It is the duty of every man, woman and child, interested in poultry, to attend this poultry exhibition tomorrow and get the inside information on chickens, for POULTRY RAISING HAS COME TO ITS OWN.

JUNIOR COLLEGE BEATS PETROLIA

Locals Win in Cage Contest By Long Score 34 to 14.

Special to The Record News.

PETROLIA, Texas, Feb. 6.—Wichita Junior college Indians made it two in a row over the Petrolia Hi Greyhounds, taking the game here tonight by the good count of 34 to 14.

The Wichita Falls game was duplicated in that the Indians piled up a big lead in the first half which the comeback of the Greyhounds in the second was not strong enough to overcome. It was a pitched battle, during the fourth quarter, when little scoring was done by either quint. Coach Moore's collegiates retained their heavy lead the remainder of the contest, while Coach Russell's eager, played hard basket ball for a last chance at a win.

For the night, Captain Rawls of the Indians lead in scoring, registering six field goals. He was closely followed by Haney, college center, with five field goals and a foul pitch.

Line-up:

Wichita, 34.	Position	Petrolia, 14.
Rawls (c)	Forward	Roberson
Rack	Forward	Huffman
Haney	Center	Mebrey
Quakey	Guard	Nolen (c)
Pardo	Guard	McDonald

Substitutes: For Wichita, Bolin, Ferguson, Wrenil, Daniels, Ellis; for Petrolia, Rice.

TWO BIG CAGE TILTS FOR TONIGHT

Series number two, half number two, the city basket ball league, will be played tonight at Legion hall between Landon-Hill and the Knights of Columbus, American Legion and Iowa Park Hi.

At present writing, Iowa Park stands the leader of the league, by virtue of their win over Landon-Hill in the play-off for the first half of the season.

In the second half, Landon-Hill and the American Legion are of perfect standing ... and the Knights of Columbus. Landon-Hill ... wild against Iowa Park, taking sweet revenge for their previous defeat.

Tonight ... half, with one game won, will play for ... the Legion has shown much improvement ... hard run for retention of first place. Since the ... Park crew ... to show ... pace with them. The Knights will have a hard battle with Landon-Hill.

SIMMONS TO ENLARGE TRACK FIELD

By the Associated Press.

ABILENE, Texas, Feb. 6.—Parramore field, the Simmons college athletic ground will be enlarged and extensive improvements made immediately, to afford the best track facilities in this part of the state, according to an announcement of Coach A. B. Hays, of Simmons. The action was taken by the board of trustees of the college in preparation for the annual meet of the T. I. A. A. which will be held in Abilene, May 8 and 9 with Simmons college and Abilene Christian college, the newest member of the association, as hosts. Work will begin at once on a regulation quarter-mile cinder track and new bleachers.

LEADING GOLFERS ARRIVE IN SANTONE

By The Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 6.—Bobby Cruikshank, runner up in the national open last year; Jim Barnes former open title holder; MacDonald Smith, winner of the California open championship, are the leaders of the advance company of golfers who arrived here today to compete in the Texas open championship, which will be held over the Brackenridge Park municipal course, February 14, 15 and 16.

FATE OF GIANTS' MAY REST WITH VETERAN EDDIE

Eddie Ainsmith.

By Central Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Eddie Ainsmith's name may not break into the Giants' lineup very often next summer but the veteran backstop will play an important part in deciding the fate of the three-time champions. For John McGraw and Hughie Jennings, his chief aide, are looking to Ainsmith to develop one or two good young pitchers out of the nine young hurlers who are awaiting the word to join the team at Sarasota, Fla., next month and show their stuff.

Ainsmith, past his days as a backstop in all probability, was signed by McGraw for but one purpose, that named. No one will say he isn't a good man at the task. Walter Johnson, whose shoots Ainsmith handled for years, will tell you Eddie is one of the brainiest catchers and keenest students of pitchers and pitching in the game. And, judging by the sad condition of the Giant hurling staff, Eddie will have plenty to do.

The regulars who will go south—unless one or two get bumped off to the minors or traded before the time comes, are Nehf, McQuillan, Ryan, Gearin, Virgil Barnes, Bentley, Watson and Oescheger.

Along with these McGraw will dispatch the following youngsters—untried and unknown generally:

Walter Huntzinger, former Penn star; Kent Greenfield, from Portsmouth in the Virginia league; Ernie Maun, of the Wichita club; Perse Malone, Earl Webb, from the Memphis team; Al Stoner, from the Knoxville Southern Association club; Walter Rosner, a semi-pro star of the Brooklyn sandlots; Wayland Dean, Louisville star, and Joe Leete.

And they'll be turned over to Ainsmith. Kindergarten sessions will be held daily. The rest will be up to Eddie.

S. M. U. SPORTS IN GOOD SHAPE

Baseball Practice Starts Soon and Prospects Good

DALLAS—Baseball practice at Southern Methodist university will get under way on February 20, Coach Ewing Freeland has announced. He has issued a call for all candidates for the squad to be ready on that date to begin the practice preparatory to selecting the regular team.

Coach Freeland has a wealth of veteran material to choose from and with the new material from the freshman team of last year he expects to develop a winning combination. It was the Mustangs who gave the Baylor Bears, conference champions, such a decided setback last year, the Bears wining out only at the last of the season.

Freeland will have 13 men from last year's squad out again this year, 12 of them letter men. With an array of players, like that, he said he was preparing for a great season.

The Mustangs have wired Nebraska university authorities for a game with that team when it swings through the southwestern conference this season. As yet nothing has been heard from the Nebraska officials.

Reisor, captain and fullback of the mythical all-southwestern football team of the past season, is considered Freeland's most versatile player. During the 1923 season he started in the outfield was shifted to second base and later went to third base when the regular player was declared ineligible. He received a sprained ankle in the A. & M. college game and was again shifted to right field, where he finished the season. It is considered possibly that he will play first base this year as Ike Sanders, regular last year, has been declared ineligible.

Gene Bedford, second baseman, is considered one of the best players in the conference. He was almost the unanimous choice of sport writers last year as the stellar player in that position. Bedford batted .337 He also excels at base-running.

Novic Thompson, catcher, is another star returning this year. He ranks with the best as a receiver and though small in stature is one of the leading hitters of the conference. He led the Mustangs squad last year in batting with a percentage of .367.

In Payne, Irby, Boone, Stollenwerck he of foot ball fame, and Pearson, Freeland has a wealth of infield material. All are veterans of last year's team.

In Bishop and Leonard the Mustangs have two of the fastest outfielders in the conference. Both will be on hand this year. Both are considered formidable men at the bat, especially Bishop because of his keen eye coupled with his small stature; which makes him a hard man to pitch to. Leonard batted .335 last year.

Three veterans will compose the nucleus of the pitching staff. These are Runnels, most effective pitcher in the conference last year, Bassinger and Matthews. Bassinger was held back last year after he sustained a broken leg but was going good until the accident. He is also a hard hitter.

Matthews, the real veteran of the squad, will don an S. M. U. uniform for the last time. He has for the past three seasons been one of the best pitchers of the conference and a mainstay in the Mustang staff.

Coach Freeland is elated over the 1924 prospects. He feels that with the veterans and promising new material the Mustang prospects were never brighter.

The S. M. U. diamond is being put in shape for the year. Clay is being packed on the infield and drains placed on the outfield.

The University of Iowa has adopted the slogan, "Every Man an Athlete," to boost physical development in that institution. There is meat for a sermon in that slogan. More school, high school and college students would enter the world better prepared physically for life's battle if that motto were to be adopted by all such institutions. There is too much of a tendency in the average institution of learning these days to produce a few champions instead of numbers of well developed, healthy students.

Forty-Two Years Ago Today

John L. Sullivan won the heavyweight championship of the world On February 7th, 1882, in front of the Barnes Hotel in Mississippi City.
He knocked out Paddy Ryan in ten and one-half minutes of fierce fighting;
Nine rounds, the records say, but each knockdown constituted a round.
London prize ring rules, bare knuckles and $5,000 side bet.
Sullivan toured the country in 1883, knocking out about 50 men.
Until Gentleman Jim came along, "John L." was the idol of the multitudes.
Losing to Corbett was hard to take, but John L. was a game loser.
Liquor nearly scored a knockout over Sullivan, also—he was down and out.
Instead of giving up, he took a new lease on life.
Volstead's victory over John Barleycorn was not so complete as John L's.
A real champoin—a generous friend —Sullivan was the "noblest Roman of them all."
Now John L. is dead, but his name will live forever in pugilistic history.

20 Big Dog Events At Burk Sunday

Burkburnett Coursing association will hold another race program at the Burkburnett course Sunday afternoon the card of 20 races to be started at 2:30 o'clock.

Officials say the races this Sunday will be of a fast class, dogs entered including some from Fort Worth Dallas, and Grand Island, Nebraska, besides old favorites from Aubrey and Burkburnett.

Drawing will take place as usual at the City hotel, Burkburnett at 7:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Besides the regular Sunday racing program being held, the coursing association is planning a big two-day derby, bigger than the meet held there some weeks ago. Several states will be represented by dogs from well known kennels, it is said, although no official announcement of definite plans and program has been issued.

NURSERY RHYMES TRACED 400 YEARS

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 6.—The origin and history of nursery rhymes can be traced back for hundreds of years, according to Dr. W. Y. Payne, professor of English at the University of Texas. There are 36 or 37 slightly different versions and 12 different tunes of "The Frog's Courting," an old English nursery song, according to Dr. Payne. This song had its origin in 1549 and is familiar to every family in the south.

The earliest surviving version that we now have was found in Thomas Ravenscroft's "Melismata," a book of songs, in 1611. This nursery song was later included in the Mother Goose songs under the title "The Marriage of the Frog and the Mouse." The old song has been many times reprinted, but has had only a slight influence on the traditional version which has been found in Texas.

Of the 37 Texas versions, Dr. Payne has made six classes, based on the choruses. Several of these versions are incomplete or fragmentary, while others are full, containing more than 20 stanzas. One version is particularly interesting in that it is purely a dialect version with adapted negro music. There is no end to a collection, such as Dr. Payne has begun, and he desires to get other versions from various sections of the state.

WOMEN SWIMMERS BREAK RECORDS

By The Associated Press.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 6.—Three more records broken and a fourth lost because of a mixup on the part of the timers was the toll taken by the woman's association swimmers on the second day of their meet in the Roman pools of the Miami Beach casino here.

Sibyl Bauer, Illinois A. C. star, made her first record breaking trip today when she won the 100 meters back stroke in 1.22 2.5. Her former world's record was 1:26 1.5; Gertrude Ederle, Aileen Riggin, Adelia Lambert and Helen Wainwright swimming 11 metres each, broke the world's 400 metre relay record, finishing in five minutes flat, nine and one-fifth seconds under the record.

Agnes Geraghty of New York set her second American breast stroke mark in the meet when she swam the 200-metre event in 3:34 2.5.

Dorris O'Mara won the 50 metres in 32 seconds but lost a record through a mistake in the timing. No record had ever been officially recognized in America at this distance so the winner today would have held the mark.

GUN CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

Important business in the election of officers and arrangements for the date of the Texas State Shoot to be held here in May or June will come up for consideration at a meeting to be held tonight by the Wichita Falls Gun club at Little Sporting Goods company.

The meeting tonight will be the annual session of the club for election of officers the rest of the year and for discussion of plans to be undertaken.

All persons interested are invited to come, members being urged to be on hand, at 7:30 o'clock.

Junior College To Meet Decatur Indians Tuesday

"Bootjack" Moore's Junior college Indians are slated to meet the fast Decatur Baptist college Indians at Legion hall Tuesday night it was officially announced last night. The game will be called at 8 o'clock.

This tie-up will be the first game of the season for the Wichita quint in their class. They have had no trouble disposing of high schools and city teams in this vicinity, showing themselves up as a likely combination. Their real test will come Tuesday.

Coach Dickson's Decatur quint has this year followed an established tradition at Decatur college that of being a winning cage team. Last week in two night's play the Baptists defeated both Wesley and Burleson colleges at Greenville. They have some men on their lineup who know the game from good experience, and should present a tough team.

BASKET BALL.

At Waco: Southern Methodist university 13; Baylor 15.

LITTLE LESSONS IN BIG SPORTS

BASKET BALL

How should a team modify its play if its center is being consistently outjumped?

Answered by "MAURY" KENT

This is the way Coach Kent explained it verbally to his team in practice: "Forwards A and B on line with center C and well out to sides of floor. Two guards, D and E, keep two yards back and a little outside opposing forwards.

"On toss-up A and B start just before ball reaches highest point so as to have a running start and go after the ball boldly. You're responsible for getting it if batted to your side of floor. If unsuccessful in getting ball at point 1, 2 or 3, each forward swings back to one of points 4, 5 or 6 to cover opposing guard down floor. If ball is recovered at one of points 1, 2 or 3, it can be carried further down floor by some prearranged plan.

"Center C, make it as hard as possible for opposing center to get the jump on the tip-off and then drop back to take first opponent down center of floor. Guards D and E keep back to protect basket.

"If center is being consistently outjumped, don't try tip-off plays. Concentrate on regaining ball or covering opponents after tip-off."

Lions Club Observes Wilson Memorial Hour

At the weekly luncheon of the Lions club Wednesday at noon at the Kemp hotel, the scheduled program was dispensed with at the suggestion of the president, S. A. L. Morgan, and the entire hour was devoted to a brief memorial of Woodrow Wilson.

In opening the program, Judge Morgan spoke of Wilson's work in attaining world peace. Wilson brought to the nations of the earth the teachings which the Christ gave to humanity," he said, and added that although the Messiah died out of favor, his teachings were generally accepted and that the principles for which Woodrow Wilson stood would eventually be recognized as essential.

C. A. Rogers, president of the University club; P. B. Curd, Frank Cripliver, and H. J. Bruce of the Lions club offered tributes to the ex-president, and told of his brilliant career.

Adjutant D. G. Swanson of the Salvation Army offered the benediction asking for the divine guidance of the nation and for the final acceptance by the nations of the principles for which Woodrow Wilson gave his life.

TO PAVE SEVENTH STREET LEADING TO BALL PARK

At a joint meeting of city and county officials in the directors room at the chamber of commerce Wednesday morning action was taken to insure paving and laying of sidewalks on Seventh street from Michigan Avenue to the ball park, according to information given out after the meeting.

Burnett street will be paved from Seventh street to the bridge, at which point the county will take over the work and pave it to the Iowa Park highway.

The road to the ball park is in very bad condition. It was pointed out in the meeting that with the opening of the baseball season increase in traffic will make it much worse. During the baseball season a large percentage of the travel over this route is out of town traffic, this thoroughfare being used more, possibly, by visitors than any other in the city.

The laying of sidewalks will begin immediately so as to have them ready for the opening of the season on April 16.

Paving Burnett street from Seventh to the bridge and from the bridge to the Iowa Park highway will relieve the old bridge of much dangerous traffic and afford Electra and Iowa Park people a more direct route to Wichita Falls.

Those attending the meeting were County Judge B. D. Sartin, County Commissioner J. P. Jackson, County Engineer J. M. Isbell, City Street Commissioner N. M. Clifford, Mayor Frank Collier, City Engineer F. M. Rugeley, R. O. Harvey, C. H. Clark and Hubert Harrison.

FRANCE RESENTS

turned and he gave his approval on the morning of April 22, 1919."

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The London newspapers are making a sensation out of Mr. Lloyd-George's statement in an interview with the Associated Press Sunday last that an agreement existed between Mr. Wilson and M. Clemenceau, regarding the French occupation of the Rhineland, of which the then English premier was unaware until the French government sought permission to publish the memorandum.

The Evening Standard, in a double column story refers to Mr. Lloyd-George's statement as "A disclosure which could not easily have been made public during Mr. Wilson's life-time."

The British foreign office, which is preparing an explanation, throws cold water on the story by sayng that the so-called secret agreement was nothing more than a routine memorandum which the French government was seeking to publish in ordinary course.

Officials expressed the belief that Mr. Lloyd-George's statement has become greatly exaggerated since it was first made to the Associated Press. They pointed out that the document to which he referred as having been secret is only one of many memorandums exchanged among the "Big Four" during the protracted negotiations regarding the Rhineland. Each of the allied premiers outlined his views on the Rhineland issue at the time and exchanged memoranda with their colleagues.

Through the hour's conversation with the Associated Press Sunday, the former premier did not appear to desire that a sensation be made of the Wilson-Clemenceau memorandum. The subject arose while he was discussing Mr. Wilson's character, his difficulties in Paris and how events transpired to cause him at times to sacrifice idealism for allied agreement on various clauses of the treaty.

REMMER ADDRESSES RAILROAD MEN

Harry Remmer, noted evangelist and ex-prize fighter of Los Angeles, California, delivered an address last night to a large group of railroad men at the office of Mr. D. C. Dobbins, local superintendent for the Katy Mr. Remmer spoke on "Faith." His address was of an inspirational nature.

Mr. Remmer has been in Wichita Falls by arrangement of local Katy officials and railroad Y. M. C. A. workers.

NO ONE PURCHASES LARGE SIZE PAINTINGS

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Large canvases painted by old masters to hang upon the spacious walls of the rich man's mansion are hard to sell in these days of apartments and small houses. Bond street dealers say the demand is almost entirely for small pictures, so that prices frequently are in inverse ratio to size.

Post-war social changes are held responsible for the poor market accorded huge masterpieces with their many yards of canvas. Scores of country mansions have been closed or sold to the newly rich, who have been too occupied with money-making to care about art, and most town-houses are already overfilled with furniture and ornamentations.

Storms Prostrate Wire Service and Hold Up News

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Widespread prostration of telegraph and telephone wires in the middle west and elsewhere as the result of severe storms necessitated today an unusual routing of the vast wire service of The Associated Press.

Chicago has been cut off from direct communication with New York since Monday night and news has been sent circuitous through Canada to Winnipeg, from which place it has been relayed to St. Paul and thence to Chicago. Pacific coast points have been reached through St. Louis, Denver and points in the dominion.

Veteran telegraph operators pronounced the storm the most disastrous to telephone and telegraph service since the famous sleet storm of 1908, when Washington was completely isolated on President Taft's inaugural day. It will be weeks before the service can be returned to normal, as hundreds of miles of poles have gone down under the weight of snow and sleet driven before high winds.

The loss will run into millions of dollars.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S.S.S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 57 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it."

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

REAL ESTATE IS THE BEST AND SAFEST INVESTMENT IN THE WORLD

Supply and demand make real estate values.
The supply of real estate in this city is limited
The supply of vacant lots accessable to modern conveniences is very limited, numbering about 1,000 The number for sale is still more limited.

DO YOU KNOW that the ground you are now standing on was once pasture land?

DO YOU KNOW of a single piece of property in this city that has not increased enormously in value since the day you were born?

DON'T YOU KNOW that Wichita Falls is going to make a large city and that population makes the demand for real estate.

DO YOU KNOW that Scotland addition with all conveniences is only ten blocks from the heart of the business district?

DO YOU KNOW that lots in this addition can be purchased for $400 on easy terms?

HAVE YOU made any plans?

DO YOU KNOW anybody who ever did get rich on a salary?

DON'T YOU KNOW that investment is your only hope?

AND DON'T YOU KNOW that land investment is your only certainty?

PROPERTY IS THE THING.

GET A LOT. Get a lot of lots. Get them in a fast growing city like Wichita Falls. All wealth comes from property. Every rich man has his.

MAKE UP YOUR MIND to own a piece of this old earth—make up your mind now—today is the opportune time. Have some ground of your own. Stand on it. Point it out to your neighbors. Experience the manhood of ownership.

OLYMPIC SHOW PROVES POPULAR

"Flaming Pasion" Shows To Large Crowds First Day

"Flaming Passion," adapted from Kathleen Norris' story "Lucretia Lombard," opened yesterday at the Olympic theatre for a four days' engagement and was instantly acclaimed a success by the packed and representative audience which sat enthralled by the story.

The photoplay faithfully follows the sequence of the novel, and vividly gives the spectator a wonderful visualization of the plot.

The role of Lucretia Lombard is played with much feeling by Irene Rich, giving a performance that further endeared her in the hearts of local picture goers. The part of the young attorney was handled by Monte Blue in it's usual masterful style while Norma Shearer, Alec B. Francis and Marc MacDermo had the other principal roles.

To those of us who read the novel it seems that the author must certainly have had Irene Rich in mind, when describing Lucretia Lombard as the mature woman of the world, gifted, patient and lovely still after ten years of hard suffering as the wife of an old nagging invalid. And Monte Blue could not have been given a more fitting role than that of Stephen Winship, the young district attorney, who finds himself enmeshed in a loveless marriage just when he responds to the love of the now free Lucretia.

"Lucretia Lombard" is a wonderful example of the faithful treatment with which a story can be transposed to the silver screen, without losing any of the values that made it such a success with the reading public. The picture is highly recommended to all who have been waiting for a really good picture,—the kind they would care to see over and over again. Such high praise could be given to very few pictures, but "Lucretia Lombard" deserves it. Whether viewed dramatically, or for the ravishing scenes of natural beauty amid which it was filmed, it is a success.

A two reel educational comedy, "Ride 'Em Cowboy" starring Bobby Vernon was a big laugh maker as an added bit of entertainment.

"County Progress" For February Is Now Off Press

"County Progress" for February has just been issued to members of the County Judges' and Commissioners' association of Texas. "County Progress" is the official organ of the association, the present issue being the fourth that has been published.

County Judge B. D. Sartin of Wichita Falls, and president of the association, is editor of the magazine which is attractively out and has attracted much favorable comment.

The cover carries an artotone photograph of the dam at Lake Kemp. Inside are articles by some of the judges of the association, among them being "Denton County, Cultured and Progressive," by Judge Brent D. Jackson, of Denton, and "The Dispatch of Trial Court Business," by Judge Ben Rogers of the Wichita county court-at-law.

The article by Judge Rogers outlines a method for securing expedition in the dispatch of court trials. An editorial by Judge Sartin on the railroad crossing hazard carries some timely advice for the treatment of an important problem.

Other articles are "A Plea for Additional Room for the Insane in Texas," by Dr. F. S. White, superintendent of the Northwest Texas Insane Asylum at Wichita Falls, and "Investments in Texas' Highways," by H. M. Hubbard, chairman of the state highway commission.

A feature of the magazine is a Texas political calendar for 1924 in which the important political dates for the year are set down and the significance of each noted.

LOST CASING IS RETURNED TO OWNER

The big casing and rim brought in to police headquarters Tuesday, was identified as his own by J. V. Henley Wednesday. Henley told police they had been taken from his Pierce Arrow car while parked at the Texan Monday night.

City Detectives Boon and Hart found the tire and rim on a city street Tuesday several small boys being said to have previously had them in their possession.

AT THE THEATRES.

PALACE — Maskat Minstrels.

OLYMPIC — "Flaming Passion" from "Lucretia Lombard" starring Irene Rich and Monte Blue.

MISSION — Jackie Coogan in "Circus Days."

STRAND — Viola Dana in "The Heart Bandit."

GEM — Wyndham Standing in "The Inner Man."

About Home Talent.

The Maskat Minstrels promise to be one of the most popular of recent home talent productions. The program looks fine and if Maskat puts the minstrel over in the usual Maskat style, Wichita Falls will have a corking good show.

We heard a traveling man say yesterday that Wichita Falls was one of the finest towns for home talent he had seen anywhere. He mentioned the annual musical comedy put on by the Business and Professional Women's club, the current work of the Community Little theatre and the Travel Players club, and the various home talent shows put on by organizations during the season, remarking on the high standard of the shows, the dramatic and musical talent of the people participating and the remarkable lack of the "amateur" impression on the audience.

All of which goes to show, we think, that the old town has some fine directors residing hereabouts, who know how to hunt talent, and handle it after they get it.

Jackie Rides Bareback in Circus Story.

"How do they do it?"

This expression oftimes bursts forth from the lips of movie patrons as they sit in the theatre and see somebody climb the outer ledge of a skyscraper or dive off a cliff several hundred feet high.

There are tricks in all trades and the movies are not excluded. But in the case of "Circus Days" the circus story starring little Jackie Coogan, there are some real hair-raising stunts pulled off. And Jackie does them.

Everybody has read "Toby Tyler," from which "Circus Days" was adapted. Everybody remembers how little Toby enters the circus ring dressed up in girl's clothes and rides bareback at a terrific pace for the first time, in order to save the job of the little girl that has injured her leg.

When somebody started to rig up piano wires to balance Jackie on the great white steed he was to ride, the starlet put his foot down.

"I can ride him without wires," he cried. Jackie has been taking riding lessons for over a year and is one of the best child riders in the film world—and that's going some.

So when you visit the Mission theatre shortly this Associated First National release this week, and when you see little Jackie Coogan tearing about the ring atop a mighty white horse, don't think he is "propped" on the horse's back with invisible wires, for he is not. And don't think "the kid" enacted these scenes without a fall. He had several, but American youth is strong and heaps of sawdust helped break any fall the youngster might take.

"It was great fun," laughed Jackie as cameras ceased their clicking. "Gee, that's a fine horse. Will you buy him, dad?" Daddy Coogan did not buy the horse, and between curtains, he was glad when that particular episode was completed.

Fate Motive in Picture.

Two shall be born the whole wide world apart,
And speak in different tongues, and have no thought,
Each of the other's being, and no heed;
And these, o'er unknown seas to unknown lands
Shall cross, escaping wreck, defying death,
And all unconsciously shape every act
And bend each wandering step to this one end,—
That one day out of darkness they shall meet,
And read life's meaning in each other's life.

With these words, Kathleen Norris prefaces the remarkable story of lovers in the power of fate in her novel, "Lucretia Lombard." This "best seller" has been adapted to the silver screen, where, in vivid dramatic scenes, the words of the above poem are driven home with stark power and unforgettable beauty.

Heading the cast are Irene Rich and Monte Blue. Both are remembered for their brilliant performances, intelligent understanding and team work in "Bruss." Each is gifted with sympathetic insight into the roles they are cast for, and their work in this picture is said to be no exception to their previous achievements.

It is the story of a woman who marries a man older than herself to gratify her mother's vanity and ambitions for a titled daughter. After seven years of loveless and forlorn marriage, catering to the whims of a crochety invalid, death comes and frees Lucretia Lombard. She meets a family group composed of Judge Winship, his wife, his pretty ward, Mimi; his two sons, Fred and Stephen, the latter a district attorney. Mimi loves Stephen, but he merely harbors a fond affection for her. Stephen is irresistibly drawn to Lucretia, and she to him. But he marries Mimi suddenly, when his jealousy feeds on a chance conversation between Lucretia and Fred.

The scene showing how fate takes the matter into her own hands, arranging, disarranging and finally rearranging matters, are said to be extremely dramatic and strong.

What a Distinguished Chicago Cleric Says of "The Fool."

In a letter to Channing Pollock, author of "The Fool," the Rev. J. G. Brabner Smith of the Chicago Ethnical federation says of the play: "This is the biggest, best, most brotherly and blessed play I have ever seen."

Los Angeles where "The Fool" had its tryout originally and by a local stock company last summer, is again responding to the strong influence of this drama. One of the New York companies—every member of every one of the five companies having appeared in the play for some time during its year's run in New York—is now there and drawing phenomenally large business, and is in its second week. "The Fool" appears Saturday night at the Palace theatre.

Leatrice Now a Star.

After a little more than two years as a featured player Leatrice Joy is to be made a star in Paramount pictures, according to announcement by Jesse L. Lasky. Her first stellar vehicle will be "Worldly Goods," a Sophie Kerr story now running in the Ladies' Home Journal.

Joseph Hensbery has been chosen as director and Lucien Hubbard is to supervise the production.

"Miss Joy's promotion to stardom comes as a result of popular demand," according to Mr. Lasky's announcement. Her work in Cecil B. DeMille productions and other Paramount pictures has won for her an enthusiastic personal following which has been increased by "The Ten Commandments."

Miss Joy attracted the attention of Cecil B. DeMille about two years ago and he gave her a role as leading woman in "Saturday Night". Later she was featured with Thomas Meighan in "Manslaughter" and in a number of other casts, including "Java Head." She is now playing one of the featured roles in Mr. DeMille's current productions, "Triumph."

Her work in this will probably be finished so that she can start in her new picture about February 25.

Commenting upon Miss Joy's advancement, Mr. DeMille says: "In an amazingly short time Miss Joy has developed her artistic capabilities until she is one of the most versatile and talented of our present day screen players. She has that rare quality of naturalness which endears her instantly to the play-going public."

PICTURE PARAGRAPHS.

Nita Naldi has begun work at the Paramount West Coast studio in Herbert Brenon's latest Paramount production, "The Breaking Point". For some weeks before going west she had been on the vaudeville stage. She will share honors in the new picture with Patsy Ruth Miller, Matt Moore, George Fawcett and Theodore von Elts.

Mitchell Leisen, nationally known as an expert in costuming and interior decorating, has been signed by Cecil B. DeMille as an assistant to Paul Iribe. He will handle art details in connection with the new Paramount picture, "Triumph," which was adapted by Jeanie Macpherson from May Edington's story. Mr. Leisen designed the costumes for "Robin Hood," "The Chief of Bagdad," and "Dorothy Vernon of Hadden Hall." For three years prior to these he was art director for William de Mille.

James Crealman, who will write the adaptation of the novel, "Sinners in Heaven," for the screen has gone to Florida to confer with Alan Crosland on the treatment of the story. The picture will be made at the Paramount Long Island studio as soon as Mr. Crosland completes the picture he is now making with Betty Compson.

So far only one member of the cast has been chosen, Richard Dix.

Sidney Olcott, who will direct Rudolph Valentino in "Monsieur Beaucaire" at the Paramount Long Island studio, is in Indianapolis conferring with Booth Tarkington, the author of the story. Since Mr. Tarkington has taken an active interest in motion pictures, having worked in the studio during the filming of "Pied Piper Malone," a Thomas Meighan picture, his ideas on the filming of "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be of great value to the producers.

Bebe Daniels and her mother have just arrived in New York where Miss Daniels will play the role of the Princess de Bourbon-Conti in Rudolph Valentino's Paramount picture, "Monsieur Beaucaire." Production is scheduled to start this week with a supporting cast including Lois Wilson, Helen Chadwick and Lowell Sherman.

William de Mille has finished the interior scenes of his Paramount production, "Icebound," at the Long Island studio and has taken his company on location in northern New York state for the purpose of getting snow scenes.

Major General Robert L. Bullard and members of his staff from the Second Corps area, Governor's Island, were guests recently of Forrest Halsey at a performance of "The Humming Bird." Gloria Swanson's latest picture, at the Rivoli theatre, New York. Later Mr. Halsey received the following note from General Bullard: "Let me thank you very heartily for the great treat given us last night at the Rivoli in 'The Humming Bird'. It is excellent. I remember no picture show that I ever enjoyed so much."

Frank Tuttle, former member of the Paramount scenario staff at the Long Island studio and more recently of the Film Guild, has rejoined the staff temporarily and will write the scenario for Gloria Swanson's next Paramount picture, "Manhandled." He is in Havana conferring with Miss Swanson and Allan Dwan, who will direct the story, on its treatment.

Allan Dwan reproduced a corner of the room of the New York World for a scene in "A Society Scandal," which has just been completed with Gloria Swanson in the stellar role at the Paramount Long Island studio. The studio art department made a study of the real room before beginning work on the set.

Rainbow Shoes To Be Vogue, Katz Says On Leaving

Forecasts for feminine footwear for spring is indeed within the keeping of the meaning of the word, according to Harry Katz who will leave for market today to stock the downstairs shoe store with the latest creations in hose for spring.

Advance patterns prove that the prevailing style will be fancy colors in blue, red and green, daintily trimmed and bespangled with buckles and straps galore, while the predominating style will find the cleverly shod lady in shoes to match her particular dress for the occasion, according to Mr. Katz.

Mr. Katz will attend the National Shoe Retailers' association convention in Chicago, February 11, 12, 13 and 14, connected with which is one of the middle west's foremost style shows, given particularly for the shoe men. From Chicago he will buy shoes in New York, Boston, Brooklyn and return by the way of St. Louis in order to make his shoe store a rendevous for perfect shod feet. He expects to return within three or four weeks, he said.

Says Piles Heal up and Disappear Forever

Seldom Fails to Give Absolute Relief From All Pain and Suffering. Guaranteed by Palace Drug Store and Central Drug Store and All Good Druggists.

Many sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES." One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allay the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the tissue and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's simply wonderful how speedily they act. Blessed relief often comes in two days. Even in cases that have steadily resisted all known treatments, marvelous results have been obtained. MOAVA is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and any sufferer from Piles or Hemorrhoids who is disappointed with the use can have their money refunded. New Treatment For Varicose Or Swollen Veins

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get a two-ounce original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength), at any pharmacist and start to reduce the veins and bunches at once.

Physicians recommend Emerald Oil; it is used in hospital practice and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated and a little goes a long way. Apply night and morning with a soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal. It is guaranteed.

So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that enlarged glands, veins and even goitre disappear when used steadily.—Adv.

MASKAT MINSTRELS MAKE MERRY IN FIRST PERFORMANCE TONIGHT

Seats For First Show About Sold Out; To Be Held At Wichita Theatre

Tonight will be "Potentate's night" at the opening of the Maskat Minstrel, the production being presented by members of Maskat Temple at the Wichita theatre.

Potentate Hawkins has signified his intention of attending tonight's performance, as will members of the divan and their wives. According to Horace Robbins, chairman of the ticket committee, a steady line of ticket holders kept him and his assistants busy at Tipton's Drug store yesterday, making reservations for seats.

Mr. Robbins announces that a capacity house is now assured for both nights and advises everyone wishing to attend to make their reservations as early as possible this morning, if they would be sure of seeing the performance.

The actors went through the final rehearsals last night and from the comments of Charles Nolen and George Hodging, directing the production, they did it like professionals.

Every penny of the proceeds from the production will go to the uniformed body fund, to defray the expenses of the band, patrol and Chanters to the next Imperial Council session, to be held at Kansas City in June. The advertising that will result to Wichita Falls by this pilgrimage is well realized by Wichita Falls citizens and their response in the purchase of tickets is evidence of their hearty approval. Regardless of this, those attending the performances are promised a real dollar's worth in the way of a minstrel show, a show certain to please everyone who appreciates real fun, lilting melodies and good comedy.

One of the features of the program will be the stage settings for the minstrel. Through the courtesy of the Community Little theatre of Wichita Falls, the nobles have been permitted to use the new blue and gold cyclorama recently purchased by the club. The new curtain was made expressly for the local dramatic organization and will be exhibited at tonight's performance for the first time.

A scenic artist from Kansas City painted the curtain and designed it and it is said to rival in beauty and richness those seen in many professional productions out of New York. The directors for the minstrel feel deeply indebted to the Community theatre for the use of the curtain and assure the audience at tonight's performance a stage setting of beauty and attractiveness.

Reserved seats may be obtained again today at Tipton's Drug store, or at the Wichita theatre, tonight after 7:00 p. m. The show will start promptly the directors assert, and it is desired that everyone be seated for the opening chorus at 8:15 p. m.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germs.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.
