NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin.—Utilizing the existing party machinery, built around the state Democratic executive committee and the county Democratic chairman, the national Democratic campaign organization recently named in Washington, has opened headquarters in the Austin hotel, and begun a vigorous drive to get voters out to precinct conventions, May 2.

Headed by Roy Miller, of Corpus Christi, the campaign organization will concentrate on turning out a record vote for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, after the national convention is held at Philadelphia, in June.

"Meanwhile, we are working thru the organized party machinery," said Miller, "to turn out an impressive attendance of Texas Democrats at the precinct and county conventions. We will also seek to raise sufficient funds to finance a suitable campaign headquarters in Philadelphia for the vice president, Mr. Garner, feeling that Texas will want to do the honors suitably for its only vice president in history. We anticipate a tremendous Democratic majority in Texas, and a strong Roosevelt-Garner delegation to the Philadelphia convention."

After the national convention, Miller's organization will begin its real job of raising funds in Texas for the Democratic war chest.

GAS RATE CASE

A sweeping victory for the Texas railroad commission and the gas consumers of Wichita Falls marked the decision of Judge Ralph W. Yarbrough of 53rd district court here in the celebrated Wichita Falls gas rate case, but prolongation of the litigation was indicated when the Community Natural Gas Co., a Lone Star subsidiary, filed a motion for a new trial and indicated it will appeal. Despite the finding of a jury, favorable to the company, after eight weeks of testimony, the court ordered refunds amounting to about $4 per year to Wichita consumers from Dec. 1, 1933, and reduction of the gas rate from 67 1/2 cents to 61 cents per 1000 cubic feet, the rates ordered by the railroad commission. Atty. Gen. Bill McCraw promised to expedite the appeal, in order to hasten the effectiveness of the reduction, if it is sustained. The Wichita Falls rate case, when finally decided, probably will set a legal precedent for many other Texas cities seeking lower gas rates.

PENSION FACTS

Posturing office-seekers, who glibly promise "$30 a month pensions for all of the old folks" an carp at the restrictions set up under the state law which require applicants to show need for a pension, might well examine the constitutional amendment, the state law itself, and the regulations of the federal social security act, states qualifying for the federal constitution must meet the regulations of the board, which limits its aid to "aged, needy individuals." Any blanket pensioning of all persons over 65 by Texas or any other state would immediately deprive the pensioners of $15 per month each, the federal contribution. Investigation of applicants, required by Texas law, is also a requirement of the social security board. The existing setup for pension administration in Texas was submitted by Director Orville Carpenter to the board in Washington, and its approval obtained, before it was organized, fulfilling another requirement for federal funds. Total applications for pensions have reached 145,000. Federal census figures indicate far fewer persons in Texas over 65, indicating that many of those who have applied for pensions will be found ineligible.

Trustee Election Held Saturday

Four new trustees were elected for the Lorraine Independent School District last Saturday in an election in which more interest was shown than in recent elections. The four trustees elected are J. W. Roberts, 170 votes; J. B. Mahon, 145; L. L. Jarratt, 120 votes; T. J. Riden, 116 votes. Other names that appeared on the ticket were Roy Baird, A. Callahan, and O. C. Lucas. Hold-over members of the board are W. F. James, R. W. Hall and T. C. Wilson.

The board met Monday night of this week and organized. T. J. Riden was elected president, and J. B. Mahon secretary of the board.

Following the organization Ed. E. Williams, present principal and coach, was elected superintendent of the school for next year.

SOUTH CHAMPION NEWS

Health has not been so good in our community of late, most every family having one or more cases of flu, and one case of scarlet fever is reported at Monroe Green's. The flu, however, is not so serious, most patients remaining in bed only a few days.

We are hoping now for health to improve as the weather seems to be clearing and conditions generally appear better.

Reporter

Announcement of the appointment of Marvin Hall, young Brownsville attorney, as state campaign manager for Gov. James V. Allred in his race for re-election, is expected by insiders here to be made within the next ten days. Hall, an attorney for the state tax commission, is regarded as an able political strategist with a wide acquaintance throughout the state among politically important folks.

GAME SAVERS

"If Sam Houston had lived in an air-conditioned apartment, eaten at a delicatessen and played pingpong, he would have been a different sort of citizen," declared Ding Darling, famed wildlife conservationist, to 1000 Texas sportsmen gathered in Austin to organize a state wildlife federation. "The conservation of wildlife, the development of hunting, fishing and outdoor recreation contribute an important factor in citizen self-reliance." Senor Juan F. Trevine, game administrator of Chihuahua, Mexico, drew cheers when he said his government will adopt closed game seasons corresponding to Texas' and other border states, and would stop the slaughter of Mexican game by "game hogs." Henry W. Flagg, Galveston, was named president, Phil Sanders of Nacogdoches, vice president; Dr. G. Potter, Waco, treasurer; Will Tucker, Austin, temporary secretary. All groups concerned with game conservation and wildlife protection in Texas will be eligible for membership in the federation.

OIL NOTES

Texas oil men this week were watching the outcome of the protraction controversy in the Rodessa field, following action of the Louisiana conservation department in granting a 20,000 barrel allowable to certain Louisiana wells in that field, while Texas wells are held to 400 barrels each. The oil is being sold to the East Texas Pipeline Co., of Dallas, owned by Freeman Buford. Sen Tom Connally has protested to Sec. Ickes, urging action by the federal authorities. Rep. Sidney Latham, member of the house hot oil investigating committee, has won himself a $5000 job, it is reported, as attorney for the Texas Petroleum Council, as a result of his work with the probe body, and will not offer for re-election to the house from Longview, his home town, it is said.

Abilene, April, 6.—Pictured here is Dr. J. D. Sandefer, president of Hardin-Simmons University, and Dr. Julius Olson, dean of the college of arts and science at the university. They are standing behind a large birthday cake given to Dr. Sandefer by students and faculty members on his sixty-eighth birthday, March 13. Dr. Sandefer has been head of Hardin-Simmons for 27 years while Dr. Olson has been connected with the institution for 33 years and is the oldest faculty member in point of service. Dr. Sandefer is on the left.

BRUCE BIBLE CLASS TO HAVE ANNUAL FEED

The Bruce Bible class of the Methodist Church will hold its annual feed and get-together meeting on Tuesday night, April 14, at six o'clock at the tabernacle. Every member of the class, and all those who have been members, is urged to attend this meeting. These feeds have been an annual affair of the class for several years and those who have attended one of the meetings have really enjoyed it. In addition to the feed a splendid program will be rendered.

The news reporter for the class reports that he expects this feed to be the biggest and best ever held and he urges that every member, and those who have ever been a member, to be present for the occasion.

RATTLESNAKES ARE FEWER IN COUNTY

The rattlesnake population in Mitchell County has been reduced by 2,342, according to County Clerk James Herrington. That number of reptiles was accounted for during the period of March 9 to 31, inclusive, when a bounty of ten cents was paid on each snake killed in the county.

J. L. Bird returned last week from a visit with his son at Ft. Worth.

W. T. RICHBURG TO BE BURIED HERE

Funeral services for W. T. Richburg, 50, are to be held at the Methodist Church here Thursday afternoon at 3:30 following the arrival of the body on the afternoon train from Fort Worth, with Rev. Hamilton Wright, pastor, officiating. Burial is to be made in the Lorraine cemetery under the direction of G. W. Hendrick.

Mr. Richburg died in Fort Worth Wednesday morning following an operation. He has not been in good health since he was hurt in the tornado here some thirteen years ago. He never married and has made his home here and in Fort Worth for several years.

Mr. Richburg was born in Madison County, Texas, April 16, 1886, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Richburg.

The deceased is survived by two brothers are J. W. Richburg of Lorraine and M. A. Richburg of Inadale, and the sister is Mr. C. J. Martin of Lorraine. He was preceded in death by one brother and one sister.

August B. Hackfeld, L. B. Walker, W. E. Wimberley, Geo. Lee and Oscar Baumann attended the ginners convention at Fort Worth last week.

Mahon Addressed Rally In Virginia

Washington, April 4.—The Democratic National Committee called on Congressman George Mahon last week in its program of supplying speakers for Democratic Party Organization meetings. Friday Night, April 3, he addressed a Democratic Rally held at Danville, Virginia. The meeting was sponsored by the Roosevelt Club of the Fifth District of Virginia, and was under the direction of Mr. E. J. Wyatt, Chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee for the Fifth Congressional District and Mr. Robert Anderson, President of the Roosevelt Clubs of the State of Virginia.

Congressman Mahon contrasted the status of the farmer, the home-owner, and the average citizen during the Hoover Administration with their status during the Roosevelt Administration and confidently predicted victory for the Democratic Party in the November elections.

City Election Held Tuesday

O. I. Griffin and Claude Spikes were elected city aldermen here Tuesday from a file of seven candidates. A total of 83 votes were cast. The vote was as follows: O. I. Griffin 49, Claude Spikes 36, G. A. Hutchins 24, Woodrow Pratt 18, August Hackfeld 11, G. B. Tartt 15, L. B. Walker, 9.

Aldermen who continue in office for another year are K. L. Taylor, W. W. Rowland and J. N. Narrell. J. C. Hall is mayor.

NEED NOT BE PAUPER TO GET OLD AGE PENSION

Austin April 7, No "paupers' oath" is required to obtain assistance under the new law, Orville S. Carpenter, executive director of the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission, declared this week.

"It is unfair to consider a man or woman a pauper when he or she has 15,000 or $7,500 worth of property and has $500 or $1,000 in the bank. These are the maximum amounts of property and cash an applicant may have and still qualify for assistance. The larger amounts are for married applicants," he explained.

"Broader qualifications would keep us from receiving federal aid. If our law were changed to make everyone past the age of property and has $15,000 or $7,500 eligible, we could not obtain funds from Washington. Cooperation of the Federal Government is limited to only those states giving aid to the needy.

"The National Social Security by the Social Security Board. Act reads that it was passed for the purpose of giving financial assistance to states for helping aged needy individuals (Section 1, line 3)," Mr. Carpenter stated. "Our old age assistance set-up for administering the new law was created only after I had conferred with the Social Security Board in Washington.

State legislators passed the Texas law in such form as to agree with the national one. The Texas Old Age Assistance Commission and our entire plan are based on the State law and upon rules and regulations made by the Federal Government," he added.

"We have formulated our plan in such a way to be acceptable by the Social Security Board, which must pass upon our law and plans before matching our payments dollar for dollar," the Executive Director said.

Hear Lloyd George News From the Cosmos Statesmen and Politicians Sloan's Fine Figures

Lloyd George, who ran the big war for England and with the help of old Clemenceau, not sympathetic with France this time, says England is dangerously involved and "we shall send our young men to die, this time on German soil, to punish these arrogant and aggressive Teutons for daring to make preparations for the defense of their own soil against a foreign invader."

Arthur Brisbane

Lloyd George is bitter in his denunciation of the suggestion that England be dragged into another war. "France," says he, "can spend $500,000,000 on the erection of huge fortifications. We can vote plans which involve expenditure of an extra fifteen hundred million dollars for protection. But if the Germans propose to throw up even a pill-box to guard their famous cities and their greatest industrial area . . . then 'measures must be concerted' between the general army staffs of Britain and France."

The "fastest" double star is found, and that is the big news. "Twin stars" close together, in the constellation of Ophiuchus, revolve completely around each other in twenty months. The shortest period of revolution for any other "binary" star is five years. Some revolve only once in a hundred years.

Nature is both fast and slow; the electron in the atom revolves around the proton thousands of millions of times in a second. The lens-shaped Milky Way above your head, in which our sun is one of thirty thousand million specks of light, revolves once in 225,000,000 years. No limit to bigness, no limit to smallness, apparently.

That naval conference in London ends, quite to the satisfaction of England, with the situation about as it was when Hiram Johnson of California put the situation in these few words: "Great Britain builds as she prefers; the United States builds as Great Britain permits."

England actually says to the United States: "You must build no more cruisers with eight-inch guns; we do not like them." And the United States humbly says: "All right, then we shall not build any."

It is the old story: England has statesmen, we have politicians—and some of them are Anglomaniac snobs.

Big business, like little business, has had its trouble, but here and there it is still big business. In his annual report for General Motors, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., reports net sales last year amounting to $1,155,641,511, against $982,872,670 the year before; a gain of more than two hundred and ninety-two million dollars. That means many new cars, and families made happier. The company paid out in wages more than three hundred and twenty-three million dollars, not including wages paid indirectly to thousands of workers producing materials of which automobiles are made.

Sixty of Mussolini's planes have wiped out Harar, Ethiopia's second biggest city, one of 40,000 inhabitants. "Civilized" Europe, England leading, bemoans the fact that a Mohammedan mosque, the Coptic cathedral and a Catholic church were blasted. They forget what happened in the big war, at Rheims, Louvain and elsewhere, and the German cannon "Big Bertha" throwing at Paris shells that might well have wrecked Notre Dame, the Madeleine or the Sainte Chapelle. War is as ruthless as was nature in the earthquake that destroyed the great cathedral of Lisbon, killing thousands that had gathered there seeking divine protection.

When Pittsburgh is through with the disaster that has almost overwhelmed the city, a monument should be erected in a park, or on the mountainside, in honor of the courage and recuperative energy of the great industrial city. With lights turned off, water flooding the streets, many men and women calmly continued their work, wearing cool miners' light-bearing caps, like so many gigantic glow worms. Americans still possess resourcefulness and can do what they must do.

"To him that hath shall be given," even in Wall street speculation.

Beginning May 1, if you buy $100 worth of stocks, you must put $55 of your own into the deal. This will compel small fish to operate on a small scale and get rich slowly, if at all.

It has been suggested here often that airplanes might fight forest fires, possibly by laying down from overhead a soapy layer to shut out oxygen. Utah's officials have planned a new parachute, instantaneously opening, that would land from one to six fire-fighters and apparatus from planes, wherever desired.

Hitler's Peace Proposals Scouted by France—Big Italian Victory May End Ethiopian War—Lowden for Republican Key-Noter.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

A DOLF HITLER'S proposals for peace in Europe, together with his flat rejection of the plan of the other four Locarno powers for settlement of the Rhineland situation, were handed to British Foreign Minister Eden by Joachim von Ribbentrop, and passed on by Eden to the French and Belgian ambassadors in London. The British cabinet thought the German scheme worthy of consideration, but the French government looked upon it as a "cunning plan" to split the Locarno powers and make Hitler the virtual dictator of Europe. Premier Sarraut and Foreign Minister Flandin were consulting on steps for frustrating the reichsfuehrer and preserving a united front of the Locarno nations.

Adolf Hitler

Hitler's note made these proposals: 1. A "standstill" agreement to exist on both sides of the German border for four months during which Germany, France, and Belgium would make no troop movements. This "armistice" would be guaranteed by a neutral commission.

2. A 25-year nonaggression pact between Germany, France, and Belgium, guaranteed by an international arbitration court, to be negotiated immediately after the French elections.

3. Negotiation for nonaggression pacts between Germany and her other neighbors.

4. Germany to return to the League of Nations as an equal if the league covenant is separated from the Versailles treaty and with the understanding that colonial concessions will be made.

5. When a general settlement is in sight conferences to be held to secure the prohibition in warfare of gas, poison and incendiary bombs, bombing of civilians, bombing of towns more than 12 miles from the battle zone, and the abolition of heavy tanks and heavy artillery.

6. A general economic and disarmament conference.

FOLLOWING the example of Germany, the Austrian diet has repudiated that nation's military obligations under the St. Germain treaty. By unanimous vote it approved a bill introduced by Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg, providing for general national military service "with or without arms." Every male from his eighteenth to his forty-second year is liable to conscription. This move, which has the support of Premier Mussolini of Italy, was not unexpected, and though it aroused the little entente nations to anger, probably their formal protests will bring no result.

The new law is not likely to bring any great change at present in Austrian armaments, for Austria already had disregarded both the treaty of St. Germain's disarmament provision and its restriction of armaments without serious objection from other countries. Tanks, forbidden to Austria under the treaty, were actually paraded around the Ringstrasse some months ago under the eyes of foreign military attaches whom she had invited.

Hungary may now be expected to violate the treaties and react, that too, being a part of Mussolini's policy.

PEACE negotiations between Italy and Ethiopia, outside the League of Nations, seem imminent, for emissaries of Emperor Haile Selassie already have been received by Marshal Pietro Badoglio, and the Italian undersecretary of colonies is in east Africa to conduct the preliminaries. This news followed closely the dispatches telling of a great victory won by Badoglio's northern troops over 20,000 fresh and picked Ethiopian soldiers whose fight was directed and watched by the emperor himself. The battle, at Mal Ceu, lasted all day and the Ethiopians left 7,000 dead on the field as they fled to join the main body of 50,000 troops south of Lake Ashangi eight miles away. Italian fatalities included 16 officers and about 1,000 soldiers, most of the latter being Eritrean Askaris. It was believed Marshal Badoglio would follow up this victory with a smashing blow at Dessye, main concentration point of the Ethiopians, unless peace negotiations stop him.

Marshal Badoglio

Just before this battle the Italian air bombers attacked and practically razed Harar, second city of Ethiopia. Most of the populace had fled when scouting planes gave a warning of what was to come, so the casualties were few.

GERMANY'S men and women to the number of 44,380,140 declared by their votes in the Reichstag elections that they supported the policies of Hitler. Only 542,386 had the nerve to vote against the reichsfuehrer, and a still smaller fraction refused to go to the polls. Hitler's victory was thus extraordinarily complete, and the Nazis celebrated it with wild rejoicings in Berlin and other cities. It was the culmination of a three years' campaign in which the leaders sought to persuade the population of the reich that only Hitler could save the country from great danger.

WHILE a house committee is delving into the financial operations of the Townsend plan organization, its founder, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, announced in Washington a complete reorganization of "Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd." The shake-up followed a split between Representative John S. McGroarty of California, who has pushed the Townsend plan in the house, and the California doctor. Doctor Townsend accused McGroarty of conniving to convert Townsendites in California to the Democratic party.

Townsend said that henceforth the movement would be managed by a board and that he would present to it 50 per cent of the profits of the Townsend National Weekly. The national headquarters of the movement will be moved from Washington to Chicago, which was chosen for its central location and accessibility.

Another new policy of the movement will be the selection of an auditing firm to regularly audit finances and report to the directors of each of the Townsend clubs.

Townsend will remain as president. His board of directors was named as follows: Gomer Smith, Oklahoma City, vice president; Gilmore Young, San Francisco, national secretary; Dr. Clinton Wunder, New York; J. B. Kiefer, Chicago, Frank Arbuckle, Los Angeles, and Nathan J. Roberts, Jacksonville, regional directors; and Alfred Wright, Cleveland, Ohio, manager.

LEADERS of both major parties are perfecting the arrangements for the national conventions and picking out the chief orators for those occasions. The Republicans have tentatively selected Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, as temporary chairman and keynoter of the gathering in Cleveland. If this choice stands it is presumed the permanent chairman will be an Easterner, possibly Walter Edge of New Jersey, former ambassador and senator.

F. O. Lowden

Some Western governor is wanted by the Democrats as their keynoter and the honor may be given to Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, C. Ben Ross of Idaho or Clyde C. Herring of Iowa. For permanent chairman at Philadelphia Senator Robinson of Arkansas is likely to be picked. The speech putting President Roosevelt in nomination for a second term may be delivered by Senator Warner of New York.

New York Republicans of the Old Guard persuasion scored a decisive victory over Senator Borah in the primaries, and the Empire state delegation to Cleveland will be unpledged to any candidate. The triumph of the conservatives was complete. Not only were the Borah candidates defeated in nine congressional districts in which they made contests, but the organization candidates for delegates defeated independent candidates not pledged to Borah in three other districts.

Maine Democrats in their primary pledged their ten convention votes to the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt. The Kentucky state Republican convention instructed the four state delegates at large to vote for Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas for the Presidential nomination. This, with previous developments, assured Landon of 18 of the state's votes.

WILLIAM M. McNAIR, the Democratic mayor of Pittsburgh, appeared as a witness before the house ways and means committee and was almost thrown out on his ear.

Unable to halt McNair's biting trade against wasteful spending on the one hand and the proposed new punitive tax on corporation earnings on the other, Chairman Robert L. Doughton threatened to call a policeman bodily to evict the mayor.

"Why all this dignity?" shouted McNair. "Good night!" A committee clerk brought a policeman to the front of the room as the congressman quickly passed a motion to excuse the witness. McNair said he would leave "gladly" and departed.

UNABLE to raise $3,200,000 to redeem two bond issues reaching maturity, the province of Alberta, Canada, defaulted. Premier William Aberhart, leader of the Social Credit party, admitted he could not get the necessary funds. In last fall's election the Social Credit party won a big victory. One of the planks in its platform advocated the payment of $25 of social credit "dividends" monthly to every citizen. None of these dividends has been forthcoming as yet.

Lesson for April 12

JESUS TRIUMPHS OVER DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:1-15. GOLDEN TEXT—Because I live, ye shall live also.—John 14:19. PRIMARY TOPIC—The Glad Surprise. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Conqueror. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus is Alive. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Living Lord.

The supreme test of Christianity is the fact of the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. It matters little what Jesus said and did while alive if his body remained in the grave. If he did not come forth in triumph from the tomb, then all his claims are false. On the other hand, if he did arise, all his claims are true. Fortunately, there is no better authenticated fact in all history than that of the resurrection of the body of Jesus Christ.

1. The Empty Sepulchre (vv. 1-3). I. The coming of the women (v. 1). As an expression of affectionate regard for the Master, they came with spices for his body. This was a beautiful expression of sentiment but showed their lack of faith. If they had believed his words, they would have known that his body could not be found in the sepulchre.

2. What they found (vv. 2, 3). When they came to the sepulchre, they found the stone had been removed. How the stone was to be removed greatly perplexed them on their way, but on their arrival they discovered that their difficulty had already been met. They found the stone rolled away, but they found not the body of Jesus. For them to have found his body in the sepulchre would have been the world's greatest tragedy. The empty tomb spoke most eloquently of the deity and power of the Son of God (Rom. 1:4).

II. The Message of the Men in Shining Garments (vv. 4-8). 1. "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" (v. 5). This question has been reverberating through the centuries since it was uttered by the angels.

2. "He is not here, but is risen." Jesus had made all these matters quite plain. He had told them that the Lord must be betrayed and crucified and that on the third day he would arise again. If they had given heed to his words, they would have been relieved of their perplexities.

III. The Women Witnessing to the Eleven (vv. 9-11). Their thrilling testimony concerning the empty tomb and the words of the angels appeared to the disciples as idle tales and they refused to believe.

IV. Peter Investigating (v. 12). While the testimony of the women seemed as idle tales, Peter was not of the temperament to dismiss the matter from his mind. Therefore, he ran to the sepulchre. Upon close investigation he found the linen clothes lying in such a way as to prove the reality of the resurrection.

V. The Convinced Disciples (vv. 13-35). 1. The walk of two discouraged disciples (vv. 13-15). Emmaus was seven and a half miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why the disciples were walking this way we may not surely know. The topic of conversation as they walked miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why the disciples were walking this way we may not surely know. The topic of conversation as they walked was the tragedy of the cross and the resurrection rumors. If they had believed what Jesus said about his coming forth from the grave, they would have expected to hear such reports.

2. The unrecognized companion (vv. 16-24). a. Who he was (v. 16). While they reasoned together on the wonderful events of the past few days, Jesus joined them on the journey. b. His question (v. 17). Perceiving their sadness and perplexity, he sought to help them by calling forth a statement of their grief. This question surprised them and caused them to jump at the conclusion that he was a stranger in Jerusalem, for the condemnation and crucifixion of the great Prophet of Nazareth were so recent and notorious that no one who had lived in Jerusalem could be ignorant of them.

3. The Scriptures opened (vv. 25-31). a. His rebuke (vv. 25-30). He rebuked them not for their unbelief of the strange stories that they had heard, but for ignorance and lack of confidence in the Old Testament. b. Jesus recognized (v. 31). While sitting at meat with the disciples their eyes were opened as they saw him bless the bread and distribute to them.

4. The effect upon the disciples (vv. 32-35). They were so filled with joy over this revelation of the Saviour that they hastened back to Jerusalem to tell the other disciples of his resurrection.

God's Love God's love gives in such a way that it flows from a father's heart, the well-spring of all good. The heart of the giver makes the gift dear and precious; as among ourselves we say of even a trifling gift, "It comes from a hand we love," and look not so much at the gift as at the heart.—Luther.

Laugh From the Heart A laugh to be joyous must flow from a joyous heart, for without kindness there can be no true joy.—Carlyle.

Hugh Bradley Says.

Box Score Is Mum on Cards Wanting Reserve Infielder

THE Cards would like to trade a pitcher (preferably Walker or Halahan) for a reserve infielder (Jimmy Jordan or Woody English). Such a deal would strengthen the Gas House gangsters at the one point where they now are woefully weak. . . . Although he claims he is happy, Al Lopez looks thin and peaked and his friends insist the former Dodger catcher would love to be traded to some club with a chance. . . . Charley Roman, the umpire, has a 391-acre farm in Kentucky. His quarters 30 to 500 horses and mules as well as 50 to 60 milch cows on it.

Cy Perkins, the Tiger coach, is the best piano player among the athletes now stationed in this state. Ethan Allen and Pitcher Pete Appleton (nee Jablonowski) are the runners-up. Braves Field (or whatever they call the present Boston Beehive) is the toughest of all big-time parks in which to catch foul balls. That is because the wind plays queer tricks while whistling through the high stands. . . . Fred Leach, who once outfielded for the Phils and the Giants, now is a Idaho bank director. He also has a farm on which he specializes in eggs.

Some of his pals insist that Hank Greenburg's holdout was partly inspired by the rule which prevents first basemen from attaching those oversize nets to their gloves this season. They say that Hank never was a good fielder until this gadget was invented and that he knows he will slump without it now. So he asked a pretty penny in order that he might be in good bargaining position in case his fielding was held against him. . . . Harry Geisel, the American league umpire, and Mel Harder, the Cleveland pitcher, can (and love to) do card tricks.

Otto Miller probably is fixing to get himself tossed out of the "them was the days" union. The Dodger coach says that it is much harder to hit now than when he was a star. Claims that the pitchers mix in to many curves, screwballs and knucklers along with the fast ones. . . . Gabby Hartnett is the favorite ball player of F. K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs. Angie Galan ranks second and Billy Herman third.

Lee Ballafant, the newest of National league umpires, is a snappy young fellow but players are complaining. They say he passes judgment on curve balls too quickly. . . . During his catching days Tom Clarke, Giants' scout, had one finger broken 22 times. It looks as good as ever now, though, while a digit damaged during batting practice two years ago resembles Pearl street. . . . Ed Brandt has more trouble pitching to little Lloyd Waner than to any other batter.

Greenburg

Incidentally, owners flatly deny the widespread story that a greyhound which has caught the rabbit no longer is any good for racing and, in fact, is practically broken-hearted at the deception that has been practiced upon him.

Not in the box score. Take it or leave it, but there are people who insist that Pete Bostwick, the millionaire steeplechase rider, wants to buy Brooklyn's Dodgers. . . . Francis Albertant, recently retired Madison Square Garden pugilistic publicist, once was a world's champion. He won the title in a typewriting speed contest at the old Garden thirty-five years ago. . . . After Jack Johnson knocked out Stanley Ketchell, two of Ketchell's teeth were found imbedded in Johnson's glove.

Even the ultra-careful New York Jockey club sometimes makes mistakes. Recently a two-year-old was registered as Sophia Tucker when it should have been Sophie. Similarly another thoroughbred was officially set down as Ruby Keller when the owner meant the name to be Keeler. . . . Jorge Bresca, the heavyweight; Louis Sorel, his manager, and Billy DeFoe, his trainer, all were born in the same month, March. . . . Jimmy Fox, who held open house for New York friends on Sunday, forgot to sign his name to the invitation sent to one sports writer. Then sent the invitation to the wrong paper. . . . Washington may get a franchise in the Eastern Amateur Hockey league next season. One of the big-time clubs is planning to operate a farm there. . . . Wilfred Barnes, past president of the British War Veterans F. C. (soccer) and chairman of the N. Y. S. F. A. cup committee, also is an authority on rugby. He played as a schoolboy international for England in 1900, was with the famous Salford club in the Northern Union league and represented the British navy for five years against the best European teams. . . .

Breadon, Card Prexy, Has a Menagerie

In addition to owning the Cards, Sam Breadon also has title to half a dozen saddle horses, 12 dogs, a flock of guinea pigs and a six-foot snake. . . . The Brooklyn training camp score card lists eleven club officials, starting off with Prexy Steve McKeever and winding up with a scout named Melville G. Logan. . . . Ben Geraghty, the Villanova basketball captain who is one of the most promising of Dodger rookies, studied journalism at college. . . . Bookies, several of whom operate in the New York rings, are still being shoved around by the Miami Pinks. . . . There is some little discontent at the Babe Ruth homestead because so few photographers drop around this year.

Torchy Koda, the very good Japanese golf pro who has been so popular with the galleries during his present tour, is only five feet tall and weighs only 125 pounds. . . . Charlie O'Hearn, the Yale back who now operates on Wall street, is the closest pal of Tom Yawkey.

Joe Dimaggio, the most talked about (and probably the best) ball player in the South this spring, has found something to worry about. This is the first time he has been far away from the family fireside and although he has noted no symptoms as yet he fears that he eventually will become homesick. . . . The Phils turned down Burgess Whitehead before the Cards traded him to the Giants. . . . Although there are people who speak critically of his speed, Harry Danning is willing to bet that if all the big-time catchers were lined up for a 100-yard dash he would finish no better than third. . . . Ripple, the outfielder, has the daintiest dogs among the Giants. He wears only a size 6 1/2 shoe. The National league and Della Stark will soon make up.

THE following is what a reporter gets for going to the dogs: There are four states in which dog racing is legal—Florida, Arkansas, Massachusetts and Oregon. . . . Tracks also are permitted to operate in 14 other states by—let us call it—special arrangement with local authorities. . . . It is estimated that more than 15,000,000 witnessed the races last year. . . . Greyhounds, generally considered the fastest of all animals at any distance up to 550 yards, naturally are preferred to whippets. . . . A greyhound in full flight averages 35 miles an hour.

They are not raced until they are fourteen months old. . . . Females usually continue in competition for three years, while males usually campaign a year or more. . . . Then, even though they still retain their speed, they are retired for breeding purposes.

Blood lines are as important as among race horses. . . . War Cry, owned by W. R. Burnett, the author, is the Man of War of the dogs. . . . Aside from starring in a movie, he won 44 races in one year and was out of the money only four times. . . . Other great sires are Traffic Officer, who goes back three dog generations (12 years), Meadows and Playgoer.

Greyhound's Dinner Will Cost You a Quarter When in training the dogs are fed only once a day. . . . On days when they are not racing they dine at six o'clock. . . . On working days (Florida has matinees as well as evening performances) they must wait until after the races. . . . If you have a greyhound to dinner you should give him raw hamburger, ground coarsely but with all the fat removed, pearl barley, spinach, tomatoes, oatmeal, dog biscuit and hominy grits. . . . You mix all this together and, if it is a very special occasion, you add a few spoonfuls of cod liver oil. . . . The ordinary portion weighs a pound and a quarter, although some owners dish out rations as heavy as two pounds. . . . The average daily cost for a dog's board is 25 cents.

Sixty to sixty-four pounds is the ideal racing weight for a dog, but there have been winners all the way from forty-seven to seventy-four. . . . At the start of the season the weight of each dog is recorded. . . . When competing in a race his weight must not vary by more than two pounds from these recorded figures. . . . Similarly only a pound and a half weight variation is permitted from his last weight.

This is to prevent cheating. . . . There was a day (it still exists in too many places, as most dog racing experts will admit) when unscrupulous owners would fill their favorites full of food or water before a race. . . . Other owners used to celebrate "Be Kind to Animals Week" by sandpapering the pads of a popular dog's feet. It was a very fine means of winning bets on long shots, as you will discover if you try the trick on your own tootsies and then attempt to sprint a hundred.

Owen P. Smith invented the mechanical rabbit whereby dog racing was made possible as a public (and big betting) spectacle. . . . That was in 1920 and the first events were held at Emeryville, Calif. . . . The biggest of all betting nights was at Springfield, Ohio, an outlaw track near Cincinnati. More than $325,000 was wagered.

Incidentally, owners flatly deny the widespread story that a greyhound which has caught the rabbit no longer is any good for racing and, in fact, is practically broken-hearted at the deception that has been practiced upon him.

Recalling When Johnson Kayoed Stanley Ketchell Not in the box score. Take it or leave it, but there are people who insist that Pete Bostwick, the millionaire steeplechase rider, wants to buy Brooklyn's Dodgers. . . . CHAPTER XI—Continued

Shielding his palms with a torn page he lifted from its resting place a worn and shining crowbar.

"What's the idea . . ." Ezra began. "What'd you see there?" Young demanded triumphantly. "Look at the end, Ezra!"

The old man peered closely. "Dirty," he muttered. "Dirt stickin' to it."

"And what kind of dirt? Don't you get it? It's the same color and kind as that under the floor, there! Scrape a little of it off in a clean paper. . . . There! That's right. . . . He used this bar to bust up that hard clay and make a hole for the box and he used it to pry up those floor-boards. . . . Here. . . . Give me one! . . . See? The mark on the board fits exactly!"

"But I don't see yet why—"

Young gave an excited laugh. "Good Lud, Ezra! This old bar's as smooth and bright as if it'd been polished! Finger prints will be all over it. Inside the cover of that box, big as life and twice as natural, is a man's thumb print and Tod West stood in there for ten minutes fooling with a bright tin cup!"

A light of understanding dawned in Ezra's old eyes.

"Spread out that newspaper," Young said. "Lay it on the ground. . . . So. . . . Now we'll roll up this bar so the prints won't get rubbed away and . . . What the devil!"

He had put the bar down and started to lift away the paper which had shielded his hands. It stuck, peeled off slowly and he held it up to the level rays of a sun setting behind the timber.

Young sniffed the smear on the paper, frowning; touched it tentatively with his tongue and gave a grunt.

"Honey! . . . What's honey doing on that bar, Ezra? And something sticky on the box, too." They peered at one another. "And Tod West," he said loudly, "all swollen up. Notice that?"

"I did. What you make of that?"

Kerry puzzled, stared blankly at the ground and scratched a temple.

"Nothing yet," he muttered. "Nothing. . . . But we've got a mess of stuff to make something of."

Carefully they gathered up their evidence: the box, the bar, the floor boards and, lastly, also carefully wrapped in paper, the tin cup, with which Tod West had brushed his trembling hands.

CHAPTER XII

They drove slowly back toward Nan's headquarters, talking intently.

To save Holt Stuart the ignominy of arrest, to tie together the evidence they had accumulated, to weave a net around Tod West and to discover the remainder of the money that rightfully belonged to Nan were their major objectives.

In the car which preceded them had been intent talk, as well. West had had little enough to say at the cabin but on the homeward way, with new fears, fresh doubts, even greater misgivings stirring within him, he had talked. Talked into Bridger's ear, playing on the man's vanity, his jealousy of his authority, his regard for his political fences. . . .

And after those first minutes at Downer's, with their confusion and excitement and triumph, Tod West, drawing Bridger aside, talked further. What had transpired in Mel Knight's store between Young and Bluejay had come to his ears and he passed it on to Bridger and made deductions and, in a fever of relief, let his suggestions run into demands. . . .

As they rounded the bend and came into view of the Downer buildings, Ezra leaned suddenly forward.

"What goes on here?" he asked, staring at the group clustered before headquarters. "That's Nat's car. . . . Do you s'pose. . . ."

Kerry speeded up and when he drew close to the cluster of men about the sheriff's car it gave way and there, white of face, his hands manacled before him, they saw Holt Stuart!

Bridger pushed his way toward Young as he opened the door of Ezra's car. The sheriff bore himself with a new importance.

"Well, I guess you'll have to admit I was lookin' a little further ahead 'n you were, Young!" he cried, waving a sheet of paper triumphantly.

"I guess, mebbe, the sheriff's office can still be depended on to follow its best judgment for the people of this county!"

"Yeah? Just what do you mean?" Kerry asked, evenly.

"Mean? I mean I was right all along! This lad Stuart is the man we want, Young, and I wasn't a second too soon, either. I guess mebbe there's be'n things goin' on about this case that nobody but you 'nd him understood! I'll count Ezra out because he's. . . . he's an old man."

"I don't s'pose you knew he was packed up, ready to haul, did you?" "Holt, you mean?"

"Yes, Holt!" Tod West was edging up behind Bridger, frowning, nudging the sheriff. "Yes, Holt Stuart! Pack sack 'nd suit cases all strapped up. 'Nd I come on him writin' this. . . . writin' it to Nan Downer, who's be'n away today. Listen to this!"

He read: "Dear Nan: It looks as if I'd stayed on here too long, now, and, by staying, risked all kinds of disaster. . . ."

"He'd got just that far when I busted in on him. Now, you got any cock-'nd-bull story to explain that?"

"Why should I have an explanation?" "I wondered!"—edging closer with an expression of craft which Kerry, in that moment of confused thought, did not detect—"I wondered, Young, after I heard you done your best to drive the state's chief witness out of the country this—"

"Here! What the devil!" Young grunted as he began to struggle. Butch, the deputy, had him from behind. Bridger had grasped one wrist in both his hands; Tod West stepped in to secure him, to help hold him despite his first amazed struggles.

"What comes off?" Kerry demanded. "What's the big idea, Bridger?" The sheriff was reaching for handcuffs. A leer came about his mouth.

"I've got Stuart as a suspect in a murder case," he said loudly, "nd I'm takin' you, Young, for interferin' with a witness in that very self-same case!" Cool steel encircled Kerry's wrists; the ratchets clicked.

"Why, this is the damndest, most far fetched outrage—"

"You tell all that to the judge!" snapped Bridger. "Here, you boys, get back, now! Stand away. Butch 'nd me, we got to get these two 'nd a cell. . . . Stand back, boys!"

He whirled to Kerry. "You got th' guts to deny that you drove Frank Bluejay out of town this afternoon? Have you even got th' brass to explain that?"

Young was breathing hard. Confusion and dismay lay heavily upon him. He looked from Bridger to Tod West and his lip curled. The man, with his swollen face, was glaring at him, triumphant for the moment, because his agile mind had turned events off that course which, had it been followed, might have overwhelmed him.

"Yes, try to explain that, if you can!" West growled.

Kerry squared his shoulders. "Perhaps I can, Tod West," he said lowly. "Perhaps I can! Tomorrow's another day, remember."

And handcuffed, with Bridger jerking him toward the open touring car in which he was to ride, a prisoner, in to the county seat, he laughed bitterly, defiantly. . . .

Old Ezra, nervous fingers twisting strands of beard, came close as Stuart was helped into the back seat, and Young ordered in bedside the driver.

"Hold everything, Ezra!" Kerry said. "You sleep on that stuff! Understand? Guard it with your life, if necessary. See me in the morning and . . . and take care of Nan!"

His voice dropped on this last and he averted his eyes from the doctor's face.

Tip, still sitting on the seat of Ezra's car, watched with stiff ears as this other automobile moved away. The crowd, after that departure, began to buzz loudly. Doctor Adams carefully gathered the pieces of material evidence they had found and carried them into Nan's office.

The dog whined a little, staring at the way his master had taken. Slowly, almost tentatively at first, he took the road; stopped once and sniffed the air. Then, at a rolling lope, he disappeared beyond the sawmill, headed for Shoe-string.

The ride into town was one long succession of unsuccessful attempts on the part of Bridger to make one or the other of his prisoners talk.

"Just where were you all day Thursday, Holt?" he asked in a patent attempt at ingratiating.

"Go to blazes!" "Now, that ain't no way. Mebbe it'll be best for you to tell me. I could do a lot of good if—"

"Oh, shut up!" Bridger shrugged and smiled to himself. Car tools, loose on the floorboards at Kerry's feet, clanked and rattled as they took the bumps.

"Now, Young, you'd ought to come clean for Holt's sake, about why you run this 'breed—"

"Tell him to go to hell, Holt," Kerry chuckled.

Again and again as they progressed through the dusk, Nat made his inept attempts to worm information from the two. After a time whenever he opened his lips, the two chanted in solemn measure:

"Go to hell!"

"Well then," Bridger finally snapped,

"if there's any goin' to hell to be done by this gang I'll leave it to anybody with eyes to see who's on the road!"

They swung through town, around to the rear of the jail and entered by a side door.

Butch and Bridger took their possessions from the prisoners and ushered them into the bull-pen.

"Pick out your own beds," the sheriff jeered unpleasantly.

"You'll have the place to yourselves, likely. And I hope you like it, both of you!"

It was not long before excited citizens commenced to arrive. They clomped up the front steps and through the corridor and cast self-conscious glances into the dimly lit apartment behind the bars; went into the sheriff's office and congratulated him boisterously and came out more boldly and hung against the steel door of the bull-pen and peered through.

Butch and Bridger, who's be'n away today. Listen to this!"

He read: "Dear Nan: It looks as if I'd stayed on here too long, now, and, by staying, risked all kinds of disaster. . . ."

"Tell him to go to hell, Holt," Kerry chuckled.

Again and again as they progressed through the dusk, Nat made his inept attempts to worm information from the two. After a time whenever he opened his lips, the two chanted in solemn measure:

told me that her heart would be broken if anything happened to me because of my loyalty to her. . . . I lost my head again and begged her to let me love her. Then she told me that such a thing was impossible; she didn't say more. I put it to her. 'Do you love Kerry Young?' I asked her and she . . . she just nodded. . . . That . . . that's all there is to tell you, Young."

He turned away. "I guess, Kerry, you're as blind as I thought you were. All along, ever since I first saw you and Nan together, I'd been afraid of it. . . . I'd loved her a long time, you see."

Strength drained from Kerry's body. One knee shook spasmodically. His throat swelled and a chill like that induced by fog enveloped him.

"You mean . . . she said . . . Holt, and you're telling me this!"

The other turned away sullenly as if in collapse. He leaned on one elbow, looking away from his fellow prisoner.

"All right," he muttered when Young moved toward him impetuously. "It's all right. I was jealous of you at first but . . . it's got to be all right! You're her kind. I . . . I'm over . . . everything, now. I . . . I'd just like to be alone for a minute, please."

That is how it happened that Young stood alone at a rear window of the jail, hanging weakly to the bars, head pressed against the cold steel, eyes closed, with a sweet agony surging through and through his veins. . . .

No his heart had found a home . . . unoccupied! So this was the way love had come to him! So Nan Downer had been so sure of it that she would tell another. . . .

"I'm Too Young and Not Big Enough for a Girl Like That."

Little things that had been said between them; looks Nan had given him; gestures . . . All these details now, in memory, returned with their full significance.

She did not love Holt Stuart. She loved him, Kerry Young! And she was out there, now, distressed, awaiting him, and here he was, jalled, helpless to help her, with Tod West in the saddle. And if West could keep him out of the way and hot-headed, impulsive Holt Stuart out of the way . . .

He straightened. Nan Downer, tonight and tomorrow and until he was at liberty, was virtually at West's mercy. Old Ezra was her only counsel, her only protector. . . . An ague shook him.

Tod West, with his swollen face . . . Young stood back from the window, then, one eye half closed. A hornet sting, had not somebody said, somewhere, some time? The casual word, making no impression at the time, came back now, looming into tremendous importance. . . . Hornet? Or a bee? And honey?

He coked his head to listen. No sound from Stuart. He wet his dry lips to speak and checked himself. . . . From beyond the circle of light thrown by the incandescent above the jail's side door, he saw movement. A vague, tawny blotch moving toward him, and then a light, light snuffling. . . .

It was Tip, tall, thin, coming faster now, coming toward the sheriff's car standing there where it had been left; putting his paws on the running board, sniffing at the front seat cushion, staring about and panting from his long run.

"Tip!" he called lowly. "Oh, Tip!" The dog whirled. Young spoke the name again. The retriever threshed his tail and, running to the wall, placed his front feet against it, stretching to his full height.

"Drop, boy!" whispered Kerry cautiously. "Drop! Good dog!"

Hastily, he ran along the cells until he reached Stuart's.

"Listen, chum!" he whispered, grasping the other's arm as he lay on his side. "What you've said . . . Well maybe you can imagine how I feel. I don't know what to think or to say except this: you're . . . you're something better than pure gold. You're all man, son!"

He swallowed. "And after this is over maybe the feeling of . . . of the worst embarrassment I've ever known'll wear off and I can talk."

"But tonight we've things to think about. A lot of 'em; and we'll have to think damned awful fast!"

He paused to listen. No sound came from the front part of the building.

"I've been working for two weeks on this thing. It's a dead certainty that Tod West killed Cash. . . . No! Don't you talk! Time for that later!"

Cross Stitch Kitchen Towels That Are Fun to Embroider—or Give Away

Pattern 787

Just a bit—but a telling bit—of decoration is all that's needed today to make our household linens smart. And so, simple cross stitch brings color and life to humble tea-towels which make dish doing a pleasure rather than a duty. These motifs of glassware and china—in cross stitch—are easy to embroider. This half dozen makes fine pick-up work, and also a grand prize for a bridge party—or most acceptable for a fair donation.

Pattern 787 comes to you with a transfer pattern of six motifs averaging 4 1/4 by 9 1/4 inches; details of all stitches used; and material requirements.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Lard used in deep fat frying should be strained through cheesecloth after use to remove the food particles which accumulate in the kettle.

Oysters have a better flavor if not overcooked. They may be rolled in fine cracker crumbs, dipped in egg, rolled again in crumbs and fried in deep fat at 350 Fahrenheit.

Tie a little bow of bright colored ribbon on the handles of the scissors and they can be quickly found in the sewing basket.

Dressing tables, like little girls' dresses, are now flounced from top to bottom. For a young girl's room five crisp, sheer flounces of white organdie make a most attractive table.

If the paint on the outside of your house has blistered it may be necessary to take off all old paint. No paint will bond well with poor old paint.

When scouring with wire wool use a snap clothespin to hold wool, this saving your hands.

Peroxide will remove perfume stains from linen bureau scarfs. Keep a blotting pad under scarf to protect dressing table or bureau top when perfume is spilled on it.

A tablespoon of borax placed in the water in the tea kettle will remove the coating that forms on inside of kettle.

To bring out the brilliancy of cut glass, add ammonia to the water in which it is to be rinsed.

Cut flowers will keep fresh much longer if removed from the table after each meal and placed in the refrigerator. Cover stems with water.

No Depression at United States Mints Last Year

The Philadelphia and the Denver mints have reported a prosperous year. In fact the federal mint and depository at Denver had its most prosperous year since 1928.

During the year it handled more than $15,000,000 worth of gold and silver. More money was manufactured at the Philadelphia mint than in the previous two years. It produced more than 20,000,000 coins valued at some $68,000,000 and nearly 10,000,000 coins for foreign countries.

Truth's Side It is one thing to want Truth to be on our side, but quite another to want to be on the side of Truth.

This story will interest many Men and Women

NOT long ago I was like some friends I have. . . low in spirits. . . run-down. . . out of sorts. . . tired easily and looked terrible. I knew I had no serious organic trouble so I reasoned sensibly. . . as my experience has since proven. . . that work, worry, colds and whatnot had just worn me down.

The confidence mother has always had in S.S.S. Tonic. . . which is still her stand-by when she feels run-down. . . convinced me I ought to try this Treatment. . . I started a course. . . the color began to come back to my skin. . . I felt better. . . I no longer tired easily and soon I felt that those red-blood-cells were back to so-called fighting strength. . . it is great to feel strong again and like my old self.

Man's Friends Glad He Told Them About Black-Draught

Writing from Texarkana, Texas, Mr. W. T. Bentley, of that city, says: "I have been using Black-Draught for fully forty years. I would have a bad taste in my mouth and headache. I knew I needed a laxative—something to cleanse the system. I would hunt up the Black-Draught and take a dose. I would be relieved in a few hours. In Black-Draught I have found a simple remedy—one that does not have any after-effects. I do not know of anything better to take for a dull, tired, listless feeling. I have recommended Black-Draught to many friends and neighbors. I know they have been glad that I did, for they have said so."

In the crucial months before baby arrives it is vitally important that the body be rid of waste matter. Your intestines must function—regularly, completely without gripping.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35¢ and 60¢ respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20¢. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

This is Centennial year, you know, and the form of entertainment we choose could take the form of a Centennial celebration which would add to its attractiveness and value.

This is Centennial year in Texas and since Loraine is situated on the main highway of the nation there will be thousands of visitors passing through our little city this summer. We will want our town to look as attractive as possible to these visitors. A clean town is an attractive town. Lets clean up and stay cleaned up.

The public school is the center of activity for the community, and the more the school offers the pupils who attend it the more attractive the school will be.

The Loraine school has been, and is doing excellent work in all subjects taught. There are some subjects, however, that could be added that would make the school even more attractive to pupils. We have in mind home economics and vocational training. These subjects are worth a great deal to pupils who take them and we feel sure there are many students who would be delighted to have an opportunity to take these subjects here.

If our school is to continue to attract students from surrounding communities it will be necessary for us to offer them everything they can get in nearby schools. They can get these subjects in some nearby schools and we believe it behooves us to get them started in our school at the earliest possible moment.

Wouldn't it be a fine thing if we could open our school next fall with the announcement that home economics and vocational training, along with band and other regular subjects, were available to students.

NEW TEXAS ALMANAC
The book of 100,000 facts—the 1936 edition of the Texas Almanac—is just off the press. It is the largest volume in the history of this publication—a total of 512 pages, on better grade of paper and more profusely illustrated. The 1936 book, although designated as the "Centennial Edition" and compiled in tribute to the grand celebration in Texas this year, misses only twenty-one years of reaching its own centennial year, having first been issued in 1857 by the Galveston News, the parent organization of The Dallas News, its present publishers.

While much new material of historical nature is included in the new issue, none of the chapters that has made The Texas Almanac the standard reference book of Texas in the past has been omitted. The names of several thousand individuals appear in its pages.

Features of the current issue include an extensive description of the Texas Centennial, including celebrations at Dallas and other points in the State, an outline of the history of Texas from its beginnings to the present, an illustrated chapter on the wild flowers of Texas, lists of the different kinds of trees and wild animals found in Texas, extensive lists of historic old towns and origins of names of Texas towns, a text of the State Constitution with all its amendments and brief account of submission of all adopted amendments, since adoption of the Constitution, and the new farm census figures of 1935. There is much of interest for the coming political campaign including the current poll tax payments by counties. All figures on State, county and city bonded debt are brought up to date. There are several chapters devoted to points of interest for the Centennial tourist in Texas, and a new map made in four colors especially for this edition of the Texas Almanac, entitled "Texas for Tourists" is folded between the leaves of each volume.

There are more than 100,000 facts about the history, natural resources, crops, livestock, industries, commerce, transportation, finance, government, politics, educational system, cultural institutions and other phases of Texas economic, political and social development.

The Texas Almanac, always in demand by business and professional men and women and students in the Lone Star State, will be more in demand this year than ever before. Texas history is more glamorous and richly appealing on the State's 100th birthday. Thousands of out-of-State visitors and newcomers will find this birthday edition particularly acceptable. No individual or organization is so thoroughly equipped to present in book form a compendium of Texas data. Facts and figures come from all parts of the State to find, in well edited form, their niche in this widely demanded handbook on Texas—its past, present and future.

Little Louise had been out in the yard investigating the wonders of nature and she came running in to her mother, all excitement. "I ate a worm," said she.

Her mother, thinking that it was probably a case of imagination, decided to appeal to the child's finer feelings and she said: "Oh, that wasn't kind, was it? Just think how sad the mamma worm felt to have her little baby swallowed up."

The little girl hastened to reply: "I ate she's mamma, too."—Pathfinder Magazine.

General Has Considered Wedlock; Therefore Single

People who dislike "petticoat government" will be hard put to it to explain the way the Salvation Army is forging ahead under General Evangeline Booth.

Missionary work has been extended, and the Army is now operating in 88 different countries, and teaching and preaching in 88 different languages. In India alone it treats about 200,000 people a year in its own hospitals.

Asked the other day by an interviewer if she had ever considered matrimony, General Evangeline replied: "Yes, I have considered it very carefully. That is why I remain single."—London Answers.

Each year he sells $7,000,000 worth of discarded things no one here will wear to subjects of Africa and Asia potentates.—Los Angeles Tribune.

EASTER BUNNIES

Coloring Easter Eggs

The First EASTER Lily

IN HOMES where there are small children, it usually is the task of the mother to prepare colored eggs for an Easter egg hunt. This is an important occasion, and the eggs should be cooked and colored so they may be eaten afterward, observes Edith Shuck in the Chicago Daily News.

It doesn't detract from the fun of the occasion or beauty of the eggs to prepare them according to the correct cooking rules. Put them on to cook in plenty of cold water. Place the pan over a low flame and bring the water to the simmering temperature slowly. This keeps the shells from cracking. Cook the eggs at simmering temperature 20 to 25 minutes. Cool the eggs gradually so the shock of putting cold water on them will not break the shells.

When the eggs are partially cooled, place them on a soft towel and dry them so they will not have water circles on them. Keep the eggs away from any grease. Most commercial dyes are best dissolved in hot water, but follow whatever directions are given on the package of dye you use. Stir the dye until it is dissolved, with a well-polished silver spoon, so the dye is not discolored. Dip the warm eggs into the hot dye and then drain them on cake racks. When they are cool, rub them with a buttered cloth to add a high gloss.

Fancy eggs for Easter place-cards may be made if you paint initials on eggs. Give the eggs a very light tint, and have a different colored egg for each guest if possible. Do not polish the eggs. Put the names or initials on the eggs with a fine paint brush, dipped into the liquid vegetable coloring that is used for coloring foods. If you are very ambitious you can draw an Easter lily or daffodils on the eggs. Use egg yolk coloring for the flowers and grape green coloring for the leaves.

A number of customs and superstitions have been woven round the festival of Easter. One old custom, that of Pace-egging, is still carried out in Germany and in parts of the eastern counties.

An Easter custom, originated 800 years ago, still survives in the village of Biddenden, Kent. Two sisters, Mary and Elizabeth Chalkhurst, lived there. They were joined at the hips and shoulders like Siamese twins, and when they died they left a considerable annuity to be expended in the purchase on Easter Monday of bread and cakes for the poor of their village forever. The cakes, which are called Biddenden Maids, are made in their image and given to strangers.

Florist Was Successful in "Forcing" the Easter Lily.

Since Easter comes at varying times, it was impossible to "force" this lily in order to have it bloom at a specified time. Therefore, the Dutch lilies were not popular as Easter flowers.

The florist propagated the lily from Bermuda until in three years she had about 100 bulbs. It was then that a Philadelphia florist purchased the bulbs and experimented with "forcing" the lily, in order to have it bloom when wanted. This florist was successful in his experiments, and the lily harrisi resulted. Since it was possible to cultivate this lily so that it would be in flower exactly at Easter time, it became the Easter flower.

The growing of Easter lilies is today a giant industry, but strangely enough the lily used now—the lily giganteum—was propagated and improved in Japan from the lily first developed in Philadelphia. It was taken to Japan, where conditions for its cultivation were ideal, developed, and brought back to America. The present-day lily has a larger flower, with more sturdy foliage than the original Easter lily.

When Eggs Are Cool Rub With a Buttered Cloth.

Bacon, Eggs, Easter Dish

According to Brand's Popular Antiquities, the custom of eating a gammon of bacon at Easter, still kept up in many parts of England, was designed to show their abhorrence to Judaism at that solemn commemoration of the resurrection. There is also mention, in the same authority, of eggs and bacon composing a usual dish on that day in the sixteenth century.

Well Proved Fact

Taking all the evidence together, it is not too much to say that there is no single historic incident better or more variously supported than the resurrection of Christ.—Westcott.

WEEKLY HEALTH LETTER

Austin, Texas, April 6.—Recommendation to children and their parents to get together for some sessions of plan making in preparation for warm weather recreational activities was made this week by Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer.

"Texas has done a pretty good job in awakening health consciousness in the home and school," Dr. Brown said, "and it is an excellent idea to carry it into our out of door life. Texas is essentially an out of door State. From early spring until late fall weather conditions make the countryside inviting. The warm weather comes on with a rush and there are dangers alike to children and

"One excellent bit of advice, particularly for the grown-ups, to heed is to avoid over exertion at the outset. Too much haste in everything is a constant menace to the health of the people, and the eager father who attempts to keep pace with his school boy

Where Houston Celebrates Winning of Texas Freedom

Houston will be host to thousands April 12-21 when the San Jacinto Centennial Celebrations hold forth for ten gala days. Visitors will witness colorful parades and pageants, and an entertainment highlight will be a public ball on Main Street in front of the site of the old capital of the Republic of Texas. On San Jacinto Day 100,000 will participate in a pontifical field mass and other ceremonies to be broadcast nationally over both major networks. At the right is the gigantic shaft to be erected on the battlefield in honor of the heroes of Texas' struggle for liberty.

sons and daughters on the first spring outing may be laying up trouble. Over-exposure to the sun is a danger that confronts all of the members of the family in their eagerness for the benefits of sunlight.

"For the whole family there can be no better practice in advance of spring and summer outings than to take a check list and obey a few simple rules. It is well to look to the source of water and milk, and to be wary of poison ivy and poisonous insects. A first aid kit is always a satisfying reliance. Watchful care should be taken of the youngsters who cannot resist the temptation to go barefoot, and immediate treatment should be given bruises and cuts. When wounds are inflicted by rusty nails or similar objects the child should be taken immediately to a physician."

While in town Saturday for Trade Day don't forget to call at Leggett's Tailor Shop and see some bargains.

TEXAS CENTENNIAL WILL RUN ONLY DURING 1936

Dallas, Texas, April 6.—The $25,000,000 Texas Centennial Exposition which opens here June 6 will run only during 1936, Manager William A. Webb declared today. Rumors to the effect that this Southwestern World's Fair would carry over into 1937 were declared without foundation by its management.

"The year 1936 is Texas Centennial year in which the Texas Centennial Exposition commemorates a hundred years of Texas independence and progress," Mr. Webb says. "This anniversary of freedom is observed only once in a hundred years and we have not even considered extending the Exposition period into 1937. We will close our show November 29 as scheduled."

Recent national expositions have been extended into second year events as in the case of A Century of Progress at Chicago and the San Diego Exposition. Since the Texas Centennial Exposition commemorates a definite historical happening of one hundred years ago, it could not logically be continued as Centennial observance beyond Centennial year, those in charge point out.
