Owens Wins Suit on Beautification Law

In what is believed to be the first suit filed by the state Attorney General's Office under the Lady Bird Johnson Highway Beautification Act, an 8-woman, four man jury found in favor of the defendant, Robert Owens, Tuesday afternoon, January 16.

At stake in the case was whether Owens, owner and operator of Owens Auto Salvage on Highway 83 south would have to build a solid fence, 8 to 10 feet tall, across the front of a 9.2 acre addition to his salvage business which opened in 1977.

The Department of Highways and Public Transportation, which requested the Attorney General's office to file the suit, contended that Owens was in violation of the federal Highway Beautification Act of 1972. This is popularly known as the Lady Bird Johnson Highway act.

Owens claimed that erecting and maintaining the fence would interfere with the operation of his business, many of his sales are made to people who see the salvaged automobile items from the highway.

Judge Robert Montgomery, presiding in the 100th District Court case, submitted three questions for the jury to determine: whether or not Owens was operating a junk yard or an automobile grave yard as defined in the Highway Beautification Act. There was the third issue as to whether or not the Owens property was located in a zoned industrial area.

The jury found that this is not a junk yard. It is not an auto grave yard. It is located in a zoned industrial area.

The jury was unanimous in answering all three questions.

This is part of a 19 acre tract belonging to Owens which the City Council zoned into an industrial area and is operated as the Owens Industrial Park.

In addition to that part used by Robert Owens in his business, several other firms with no connection to the Owens family are considering locations in the industrial park.

Only that part of Owens auto salvage yard opened in 1977 was involved in the suit, styled The State of Texas vs. Robert Owens, DBA Owens Auto Salvage, et al.

This is the first suit filed by the Attorney General's office under the Highway Beautification Act according to Owens' attorney, Richard Bird of Childress. Representing that office were Assistants Charles Lind and Scott Jenkins.

Bird argued that if his client was forced to place a fence in front of the tract, he would lose a large part of his business, because people could not see what he had to sell.

Bird told The Wellington Leader that this is the first case filed by the Attorney General's office and came at the request of the department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Both Judge Montgomery and Bird said they believe that each case tried under the

Reduce Fare On Tractorcade Flights Due

Two Collingsworth County groups have reduced air fare flights to Washington, D.C. scheduled for the week of February 4, the week tractors in the American Agriculture Movement's tractorcade will be in the nation's capitol. Both flights are open to anyone who is interested.

Collingsworth County American Agriculture's flight will leave Sunday, February 4 and return Friday, February 9. Cost of the round-trip group fare is $200. Anyone wanting to go with the American Agriculture group should call the local American Ag office, 447-5012.

Texas Farmers Union is also scheduling its annual "Fly-In" to Washington, D.C. for that week. That group will leave Sunday, February 4 and return Thursday, February 8. Cost of the round-trip group fare is $179 from Dallas or $204 from Amarillo. Anyone wanting to go with the Collingsworth County Farmers

American Ag Tractors Roll Toward D.C.

Ninety tractors and as many support vehicles rolled eastward down I-40 Monday, January 15, the first leg of the American Agriculture Movement's tractorcade to Washington, D.C. to protest low farm prices.

Three Collingsworth County men and three local tractors were in the line that stretched 12 to 15 miles down one lane of the interstate highway as it passed through Shamrock.

The local group started at 8:00 a.m. that morning from Bushland, west of Amarillo, and their destination that night was Sayre, Oklahoma.

The I-40 group is just one of many tractor caravans that have started toward Washington from as far away as California. All groups plan to converge on the nation's capitol the week of February 4.

Local citizens and businesses donated approximately $3,800 toward helping pay for the cost of the trip. Many others have donated time and equipment.

Danny Davis furnished a Farmall M tractor and Jim Wood donated a 1954 Minneapolis Moline UB tractor to American Ag. Johnny Mote supplied a cab for the Wood tractor, and American Ag supporters got it in running condition.

James Masten also donated a 1954 Minneapolis Moline UB which was being towed to Washington. The Wellington group pulled out of the tractorcade momentarily near Shamrock to hitch up Masten's tractor.

Driving on the first leg of the trip from Collingsworth County are Dale Lockhart, Joe Fickling and Danny Davis. Also driving with the Collingsworth County group are Stevie Altman, Dell Graham and Michael Altman, all of Memphis.

Two tractors were furnished by Rusty Wood and Joe Cook of Childress and the Wellington/Memphis group is driving those tractors also.

The group's support vehicle is a rented Winnebago motor home with a trailer attached.

A Shamrock farm supply house filled up the Collingsworth County group's butane tanks free of charge on Monday.

Other local farmers are scheduled to meet the convoy in Arkansas and drive on the second leg of the trip.

The group did not stop for lunch on the first day and by the time they pulled into Sayre everyone was ready for a big supper. But a generator had gone out on one tractor, and that had to be repaired before the crew went to bed.

The tractorcade is expected to make about 100 miles per day at approximately 15 miles per hour. They will not drive on Sundays.

Eighty more tractors joined the I-40 group at El Reno, Oklahoma on Tuesday night.

1800 MILES AT 15 MILES PER HOUR

Hereford farmer and national tractorcade coordinator Gerald McCathern leads 90 tractors in the American Agriculture Movement tractorcade on Interstate 40 at Shamrock, Monday, Jan. 15. The I-40 group started Monday morning at Bushland, west of Amarillo, and spent their first night on the road at Sayre, Oklahoma.

Garcia on First All-State Team

The Skyrockets' Richard Garcia has been named to the 1978 Class A All-State Football Team by the Texas Sports Writers Association. The list, which included 5 Panhandle area athletes, was released Sunday.

Garcia, 6-1, 190 senior was named to the first team as an offensive tackle. Just weeks earlier he was named to the Panhandle Super-Team as a defensive tackle. He is equally effective in either position, says his coach, James Williams.

Garcia was a second-team all-state offensive tackle last year.

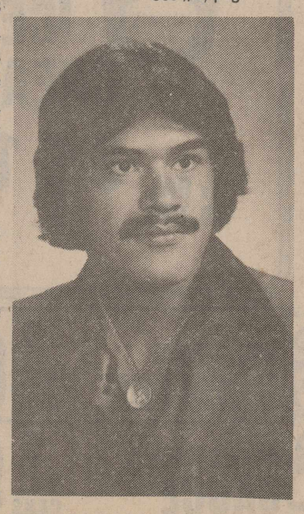

He is the third all-stater the Rockets have had in the last five years, the others being Richard Sanders and Allen Sanders, brothers. Coach Williams reminded.

"Richard is of all-state calibre and is deserving of the honor," said the coach.

"Looking back this year, he will be the first to say it took a team effort plus his effort, I am proud of Richard and all the other kids who participated in the football program.

The young all-stater is the son of Richard Garcia, Sr., and

City to Apply for Third Development Grant

A third Community Development Block Grant will be sought by the City of Wellington to continue upgrading areas of Wellington north of 8th Street and in the southeast part of town. By a majority vote Monday night, the city council authorized City Manager Glen Taylor to make application for the grant.

The action came a few minutes after Taylor told the council a second grant in the amount of $51,500 has been approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development for renovation and demolition in the northwest and southeast parts of town.

The first grant for $98,000 went principally for surfacing streets in the northeast and north parts of Wellington.

Councilman Tom Wilkins made the motion that the city seek a third grant, with Willie Gragson seconding it. Lyndon Crelia and Ralph Owens concurred. Wayne Cudd voted against the measure.

Asked when work under the third grant would be done it it is approved, Taylor replied they "were looking at a year from now."

Selection of Mrs. Hubert Bowen to represent the city on the Panhandle Emergency Medical Services Systems board won unanimous approval on a motion by Owens and second by Wilkins.

The city election was set for Saturday, April 7, when a mayor and two council members will be named. Mayor Bill Hatch selected Bessie Rainer and Mrs. Cicero Gulley as election judges.

The contract which the city has with those owning hangars at Marian Airpark was reviewed at the request of Jerry Nix, R.T. Savage and Ernest Maxwell.

At one place, the language was simplified to say that those leasing hangar space shall keep the hangars in a good state of repair.

Another section was deleted that required the lessee to notify the city by December 15 if he intended to rent the space the next year.

The city retained the right to have the final voice in who shall buy a hangar if the present owner or owners want to sell. This is to insure that the hangars are used for airport related purposes. Hangar space rents for $3.00 per front foot.

Mayor Hatch read a letter from Lewis White, district engineer for the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation, answering the city's request for traffic lights requiring motorists to stop at the intersections of 1st Street and Highway 83, and 15th Street and the same highway. A traffic survey will be made White said.

Mrs. Mary Neeley, formerly employed as maintenance person for the community building, including the city offices, appeared to ask the council why her employment was terminated by the city

NEW YEAR'S BABY

Rob Eldon Barjenbruch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Barjenbruch, is the first baby born in 1979 in the county. He arrived Saturday, January 13, in Collingsworth General Hospital.

Mrs. LouAnnRankin, CountyPioneer, Dies

Mrs. Lou Ann Rankin, one of the first to live in Collingsworth County, died in Thomas Nursing Center ar 6:00 p.m. Sunday, January 14. She was 97 years of age.

She was one of the few still living who had first-hand information of the famous "Indian Raid" a part of the early history of the southeast Panhandle and Collingsworth County.

Mrs. Rankin was the widow of E.L. Rankin and was an early teacher in Collingsworth County.

She had lived at the nursing center since January 22, 1963.

Born March 7, 1881, on a farm near Mansfield, Tarrant County, she came with her parents, the late I.T. and Grace Cowans Goodnight "after hog-killing time," about the middle of December 1890, only a few months after the county was organized. They settled in a part of the county later known as Buck Creek, one of the three families living there. Their first home was a dug-out.

A number of years ago, Mrs. Rankin recalled for The Wellington Leader the famous "Indian Raid" of the southeast Panhandle. Here is her account:

"The most exciting thing I can remember in the early days was an Indian scare. Mother sent me to the home of J.W. McIntush to borrow something. When I got there, they told me the Indians were on the war path and all the women and children were being sent to Salsberry (Salisbury near Memphis) for protection, and men were gathering to meet the Indians. I was so excited I forgot what I went to borrow. Mother didn't send me back, for she wasn't sure there was no truth in the story. However, Daddy said we would stay put and see what happened. In a few days, we heard that some woman who was alone became frightened at hearing the cowboys shot a beef and later saw the fire they built to cook their supper. That was in the fall of 1891, I think."

Lou Ann Goodnight Rankin attended the Buck Creek Schools, and later Goodnight College at Goodnight, center of learning for much of the Panhandle. Later she studied at North Texas State Normal College, Denton, and West Texas State Normal College now WTSU, Canyon, where she received her life teaching certificate in 1913.

She taught her first school in the home of Earl Hunter's grandparents at Elida, N.M. Most of her teaching career was in Collingsworth County rural schools, but she also taught at Mobeetie and Erick, Oklahoma.

She became a member of Friendship Baptist Church at Buck Creek in 1909.

On September 13, 1924, she was married to E.L. Rankin at Buck Creek, and they left the same day for their ranch home near Lance Creek, Wyoming, where they lived many years.

Upon returning to Collingsworth County, they lived at Dozier, Mr. Rankin's former home. He died December 25, 1959.

For several years, Mrs. Rankin wrote the Dozier News for The Wellington Leader.

Funeral services for Mrs. Rankin were held at 2:00 p.m. Tuesday, January 16, in First Baptist Church. Officiating were two long-time friends, the Rev. Elvis Pitts and the Rev. Roland Jenkins. Burial was in Shamrock Cemetery under the direction of Guy Owens Funeral Home.

Pall bearers were Paul Schaub, Earl Patterson, Mickey Breedlove, Bobo Castleberry, J.C. Hartman and J.L. Souder.

Members of that sturdy pioneer family who survive Mrs. Rankin are a sister, Mrs. Palo C. Cummings, 1611 Graham Street, and a brother, Hayden Goodnight of Amarillo. There are a number of nieces and nephews.

highway beautification act will have to stand on its own merits.

"I think possibly community standards will be different in parts of the country as to what juries will consider to be junk yards and auto grave yards," Judge Montgomery said Wednesday morning.

Owens said he was first contacted in the spring of 1977 by Howard Preston of the right of way department, the district office of the Department of Highways and Public Transportation. This was shortly after the 9.2 acre addition to the business was opened.

The suit against Owens was not filed until November 1978.

"I am thrilled with the way the people of Wellington stood behind me in this. It makes me proud to be from a town where people will stand up for you," Owens said after the case ended.

The Wellington office of the highway department was not involved in this suit.

The older portion of Owens Auto Salvage is exempt from the Highway Beautification Act under the grandfather clause.

Judge Montgomery said the state had 10 days in which to file a motion for a new trial.

manager.

"I don't know why I was fired," she told the council.

"When I called you down here, I said I had to have more time and more maintenance on this building, "Taylor replied. Mayor Hatch said there had been complaints about the condition of the building.

Mrs. Neeley, who has been living in one of the fire department apartments, is employed full time as tax collector for Quail School District and attends night classes at Clarendon College.

She was given permission to continue living rent free in the apartment until April 1. A council member said the city pays the utility bills for these apartments.

With Mrs. Neeley were her sister, Mrs. Sandy Morris, and Mrs. Katherine Mote. At one point Mrs. Mote asked if Mrs. Neeley was fired because of her association with the Quail School. Council members replied that had nothing to do with it. It was also pointed out that Taylor, not the city council, has the authority to hire and fire city employees.

Administrator Post At Hospital Declined

Collingsworth General Hospital Board at a special meeting Tuesday, Jan. 16 read a telegram from William Watts of Gonzales, Texas declining their offer of the position of hospital administrator.

The board had hired Watts, a C.P.A. with several years hospital experience, on November 28 and he was scheduled to begin work January 1.

Watts' telegram stated: "After review of all factors including certain legal problems that have happened within your area, specifically Dimmit, I have decided to decline your offer as administrator of the hospital. I will be entering private practice. Sorry for any inconvenience."

The board decided to advertise in area daily newspapers, and to begin taking new applications for the position which has been vacant since last August.

Firewood Taken From White Truck

The old saying is "Cut your own wood and it warms you twice." Apparently some thieves wanted to be warmed only once during last week's bad weather.

Approximately $300 worth of firewood and some log chains were stolen from Chub White's truck sometime last week.

White said bad weather prevented him from moving the truck for several days from its parking spot just off Highway 83. He found that the wood was gone when he was able to move the truck again.

Show Winners Named

Blizzard conditions that blew in Saturday morning, Jan. 13 brought the cancellation of the annual Youth Livestock Show, and when it was held Monday, it was the first time the county has had a stock show at 8:00 in the morning. The temperature remained in the teens, but there was only a light breeze.

Paul Estes exhibited the Grand Champion and Lynn Tate the Reserve Champion. Tate also received the showmanship award.

The champion lamb, a medium wool entry, was shown by Jimmy Morgan, and the Reserve Champion, also from the medium wool class, belonged to Mike Myrick.

The exhibitors included older veterans of top shows such as Estes, Tate and his brother, Stan Tate, and Mark Fourmentin. At the bottom of the age bracket was Brad Long, just as tall as his steer's ear, who stood in the bitter cold with the others to show his first calf.

As soon as the judging ended, calves and sheep were loaded into trailers to go to the Amarillo Livestock Show. After that, for some, are the Fort Worth and Houston Shows.

Estes, showed a Hereford-Angus cross which placed first in the heavy weight class. Tate's Angus was from the same class.

Third place in the heavy weight division went to Stan Tate with an Angus, while Mark Fourmentin showed the fourth and fifth place winners. His sister, Patricia showed the latter. These were a Main Anjou-Angus Cross and a shorthorn.

In the medium weight division, an Angus exhibited by Barry Long placed first; Stan Tate's Hereford was second, Lynn Tate's Shorthorn third; Brad Long's Angus fourth and Patricia Fourmentin a Hereford.

Stacy Weatherly, another first-time exhibitor had the first and second place winners, a Hereford-Angus Cross and Semintal-Hereford Cross. Darvin Nix Charolais-Hereford Cross placed third Lisa Nix' calves, a Hereford and Hereford-Angus cross, placed fourth and fifth.

Morgan's lamb placed first and Myrick's second in the medium wool class, with lambs shown by Cody Anglin third; Gary Isaacs, fourth; and Harold McKinney, fifth.

Leigh Myrick was owner of the first place fine wool lamb, which was shown by Isaacs; McKinney's lamb was second; another of Leigh's lambs, third, and a second lamb belonging to Mike was fourth.

Paul Simmons, assistant extension agent of Randall County, judged the show and praised the quality of the animals, as well as the quality of those the county has had for several years.

Some of the calves, it was brought out, have not reached their peak, which will come about the time of the Houston Show in late February.

Skunk Control Slated Thurs.

A representative of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will be in Wellington Thursday, Jan. 18, to instruct city employees in the safe handling of skunks caught in traps that are to be set out.

County Judge Bob Watson also announced that a skunk which became involved in a fight with a dog was found to be rabid. This occurred on the C.L. Myers farm in the Abra community. The family took their dog to a McLean veterinarian , Dr. David Woods, in McLean and it was found it had been bitten by a rabid animal, Judge Watson was told.

John D. Galbreaith of Canyon, regional veterinarian for the Texas Department of Health came here to discuss the incident with Judge Watson and to set up a meeting with the commissioners at a later date.

RESERVE CHAMPION

Lynn Tate exhibits the reserve champion of the winter Youth Livestock Show, an Angus. Lynn's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Rudie Tate of Abra.

What Is a Chamber of Commerce?

(This article appeared in the Canadian Record, published by Ben and Nan Ezzell. Mrs. Ezzell is this year's president of the Chamber of Commerce. Her article, published as an editorial, applies specifically to Canadian, but much of what it says would apply to Wellington and other small towns as well.

What is a Chamber of Commerce? What services can it offer? What functions should it perform? Does it serve any useful purpose in this community, or is it really a waste of time, money and effort?

These are questions which we believe need to be explored, seriously and in depth, at a time when the Chamber of Commerce board itself appears to be in doubt as to the purpose or importance of the organization.

So what does a Chamber of Commerce do...or what can such an organization do...to justify its existence?

First, it can and should be a forum for the business community...an organization in which representatives of member businesses can get together to discuss problems, make plans for concerted action, and develop programs which will serve their needs...and it should not be apologetic about this. A Chamber of Commerce is an organization of the business community.

But because it is always in the best interests of business to promote the growth and development of the community which it serves, the services of a Chamber of Commerce are not restricted to the membership, but are available to the entire community, and should benefit the entire community.

A Chamber of Commerce should provide leadership for all kinds of community projects and activities. Among those activities in which the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has traditionally been involved in past years are the annual FFA-4H livestock shows, the Fall Foliage Tours and Hobby Shows, the annual Easter Egg Hunts, the Fourth of July celebration parades and Old-Timers reunions, and the Community Christmas Tree party and Santa Day...all worthwhile activities. There should be more.

A Chamber of Commerce should concern itself with promoting its community. It should be active in helping to attract and assist new businesses and industries to locate in the community, and in creating welcoming atmosphere for newcomers. It should provide assistance in locating housing and assisting with many of the problems involved in re-locations of businesses and individuals.

A Chamber of Commerce should be a service institution...providing a clearing house for information, for example, for community activities; maintaining a community calendar to help in avoiding conflicting dates for events; providing a service for helping employers find help and workers find employment ...all of these services which the Chamber of Commerce office in Canadian has, in the past, provided. Its services should be available to other community organizations to help with planning and publicizing activities in the community interest.

The Chamber of Commerce should provide a liaison between its business firm members and government agencies at all levels...as in matters of freight rates and services, for example; or utility rates and services; or in countless other instances in which the business community needs representation.

And perhaps most important of all, the Chamber of Commerce, through its boards and committees, should be a planning agency . . . looking ahead and coordinating efforts of its own and other community organizations in planning for orderly growth of the community, in promoting all kinds of activities and facilities to improve the quality of life in the community, from libraries and arts and crafts centers to sports and recreational facilities.

Areas in which a Chamber of Commerce organization can work for the benefit of its community and its membership are limited only by the energy and imagination of its leadership and the enthusiasm and cooperation of its membership. But nothing is automatic . . . everything requires planning, direction and management... and action.

Now having cited many of the things which we believe a Chamber of Commerce should be we'd like to point out a few of the things which we believe it should not be:

It should not be a profit-making organization. The funds which it has or controls should be expended for the benefit of its membership and the community which it serves.

It should not be a banking institution, nor an investment firm whose funds need to be carefully conserved to look good on a balance sheet. It should use its current income for current needs. The Canadian Chamber of Commerce is financed primarily by annual dues contributed by member business firms to finance its annual programs of work. It is fortunate at this time in having substantial supplementary income from industrial park rentals which the Chamber of Commerce manages, and it currently has on hand, and in prospect in the next few months ample funds (about $30,000) to finance the transition to a full-time office which was in the plans a couple of months ago, even if income from memberships does not grow with our growing business community as we believe that it will.

We pay dues to the Chamber of Commerce to be used, not to be hoarded, because we believe our Chamber of Commerce should take the lead in reflecting Canadian's growth, not trail behind it...and because we believe the full-time services of this organization are urgently needed now.

We hope that the Chamber's board will at least get on with the business too-long delayed of formulating a program, setting up a budget, and soliciting memberships for 1979.

This newspaper will continue to support Chamber of Commerce activities to the best of its ability, financially and in other ways, while continuing to urge that its services and activities be expanded to meet and lead the growth of Canadian.

Pamela Vines, Joel Sherwood Wed in Early January Ceremony

The sanctuary of First Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Pamela Ann Vines and Joel Eugene Sherwood on Friday, January 5, seven in the evening.

The Reverend Stanley Hughes, pastor, performed the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Vines, 1505 Graham Street, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Sherwood, 1011 Childress Street.

At each side of the altar were candelabras holding lighted tapers and baskets of pink gladioli and carnations, with bridal foliage. Pink bows marked the pews along the aisles.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Truman Estes, organist, and Mrs. Billy Wilkerson, vocalist.

Mr. Vines gave his daughter in marriage.

She wore a gown of white polyester knit, designed with a fitted bodice, accented with floral lace applique and standup neckline. The soft A-line skirt fell to floor length and swept into a chapel train. Long fitted sleeves were edged in applique. Her fingertip illusion veil was attached to a coif accented with lace appliques. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and carnations, tipped with burgundy, atop a white Bible. Burgundy and pink streamers were tied in love knots.

MRS. JOEL EUGENE SHERWOOD

As she neared the altar, the bride lifted a red rose from her bouquet and presented it to her mother. At the end of the service, as the couple left the altar, she presented another red rose to the mother of the bridegroom. Carrying out a tradition, she wore gold earrings, a diamond necklace, which was a gift from the bridegroom, and a white Bible borrowed from her sister.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. James Parker of Shamrock, matron of honor; and Mrs. Reese Bowen, bridesmaid. Their floor length dresses, of burgundy and pink, respectively, were styled with empire waists, V necklines and long fitted sleeves. Their sheer braid picture hats were burgundy with pink ribbon streamers. Each carried a single pink rose, with matchine streamers.

Ernest Moody was the best man and grooms men and ushers were James Parker of Shamrock, the bride's brother-in-law; Bobby Sherwood, and Joe Aguirre of Childress, brother and brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Robby Murdock lighted the candles.

The bride's parents honored the couple with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church following the ceremony. The table was laid with white lace over pink, and centered with the bouquets of the bride and her attendants. Crystal and silver appointments were used. Miss LaDonna Jones and Mrs. Monte Ferguson served the guests.

Presiding at the registry was Miss DeAnna Sherwood, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride graduated from Wellington High School and attended Clarendon College. She is employed at Vernell's Jewelry. The bridegroom also attended Wellington High School and is now employed by Clark Chevrolet.

Upon returning from a short wedding trip, the couple is at home at 1001 Bowie Street.

REHEARSAL

After the rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. Vines served chips, dips and soft drinks in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride and groom presented gifts to their attendants.

Those present were the bridal couple also Mr. and Mrs. James Parker and Wendy of Shamrock; Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Sherwood; Mrs. Robert Sherwood and DeAnne; Joe Aguirre of Childress; Robby Murdock; Rev. Stanley Hughes; Ernest Moody, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Vines.

One of the oldest household apliances is the waffle iron or baker, reports Linda McCormack, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Mrs. Tate reared 10 children, three daughters and 7 sons. Eight of her children were present for her birthday, although two sons in California were unable to attend.

The honoree was presented with gifts, and birthday cake and punch were served.

Hot Dog! It's Nutritious

Hot dog lovers can say "hot dog" with complete enthusiasm, according to a foods and nutrition specialist.

Hot dogs, wieners or franks, are a nutritious, economical and convenient food, says Marilyn Haggard.

Miss Haggard is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Taste and variety are other factors in the hot dog's popularity--as proven by the 14 billion hot dogs that Americans eat every year, the specialist says.

Whether the franks are beef and pork, all beef or chicken, each one provides as much protein as an egg. Calorie-wise, one frank has 150.

And even more taste is available in the newest type--coarsely ground wieners Miss Haggard adds.

Wieners are a good buy since there is little loss during cooking, she says.

To cook wieners, cover them with boiling water and let them stand just long enough to heat them thoroughly--or eat them right from the package since they are fully cooked by the manufacturer.

Of their content, Miss Haggard says wieners are about 85 percent meat, 5-10 percent added water and about 5 percent seasonings and cure.

By law, they can be 30 percent fat--an amount slightly less than that in a broiled T-bone steak.

Motivate to Lose Weight

For a person to achieve success in weight control, he must be highly motivated to succeed--the motivation to succeed is of prime importance in changing eating habits.

Hypnosis has even been useful for helping this type of person make permanent eating habit changes, reports Mary K. Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

As long as children with imaginary friends are able to establish meaningful relationships with people and prefer people to their imaginary friends, there is no cause for concern, the specialist continues.

The child who uses imaginary friends to help solve problems is a child who works on his own mental health.

When purchasing a new car, keep in mind that "extras" can add a lot to the price, operating expenses and repair bill, cautions Claudia Kerbel, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Invite A Bunch To Brunch

Brunch represents a change from the usual breakfast routine that all your friends can enjoy—especially when you serve it South Sea Islands style.

Our new menu idea changes plain old pancakes into an enchanting late-morning meal with the addition of two succulent fruits straight from paradise: kiwifruit and papaya.

One associated only with Hawaiian and New Zealand vacations, both kiwifruit and papaya are being touted as "fruits with a future," according to Calavo Growers of California, because of their versatility and year round availability.

No need to worry about weight gain when you serve these low-calorie fruits, or about selection and storage techniques. You can gauge their ripeness with finger pressure. If they yield, they are ripe.

Papayas and kiwifruit can be purchased while still firm and ripened at room temperature. Then you can store them in the refrigerator for up to a week. Unripe kiwifruit will keep in the refrigerator for several months.

PAPAYA-KIWI OVEN PANCAKES

1/2 cup butter or margarine
5 eggs
1 1/4 cups milk
1 1/4 cups flour
2 ripe Calavo papayas, seeds removed, peeled and sliced lengthwise
2 ripe Calavo kiwifruit, peeled and sliced
Juice of 1/2 lemon
Powdered sugar

Melt 1/4 cup butter in each of two 9-inch pie pans in 425° oven. Meanwhile, whir eggs in blender for 1 minute; add milk and flour, blending until smooth. Pour batter into pie pans, dividing equally. Bake 20-25 minutes, or until pancakes are fluffy and lightly browned.

While pancakes are baking, toss papaya and kiwifruit slices in bowl with lemon juice.

To serve, spoon fruit over pancakes and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Cut pancakes into pie-shaped wedges. Makes 8 servings.

Kitchen Design for Older Adults Requires Four Basics

A kitchen design for the older adult needs four "basics," says a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Pay attention to storage areas, counters, the range and the table, advises Sue Young.

Mrs. Young is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Make these four areas easy-to-see and reach, and that will make storage, preparation and serving more convenient, she says.

It will also help insure safety, Mrs. Young adds.

Eliminate difficult-to-reach storage areas--including space over the range.

Store supplies and equipment at the point of first use. Get rid of not-needed gadgets.

Make sure there is counter space next to the range and the refrigerator. Have the counter built low enough for working in a sitting position.

If that isn't possible, install pull-out boards.

Use an electric range, if possible. They pose no threat of escaping gas from a "barely-on" burner, which an older adult might overlook.

Also, have burner controls at the front or side of the range, if possible--to prevent reaching over a hot burner to make adjustments.

Place the dining table in the kitchen for convenience, if there is space. Then it can serve as work space--and the "worker" can be seated.

Also, place it by a window, if possible, since a pleasant view can enhance the appetite, especially for an older adult eating alone.

Rolling East

The American Agriculture Movement's tractorcade to Washington, D.C. which began this week will draw more national media attention to farmers and the farm economy than ever before.

The attention will not all be favorable. Many will say that farmers should be home plowing, rather than rolling their expensive equipment down interstate highways.

But one has to look back only as far as the late 1960's to see that protest movements and rallies in the nation's capitol have had a large part in producing dramatic political change.

And politics in Washington is what the tractorcade is all about. Much of this nation's political debate revolves around how the economic pie will be sliced. Farmers in the American Agriculture Movement are saying that the slice that goes to the farmer has been cut too thin. They say, in fact, that they're being starved out of existence.

Many people in rural areas do not agree with the tactics of AAM. They say that traditional means of lobbying through established farm organizations and political parties should be utilized. And they say that demonstrations and rallies are ineffective, counterproductive and silly.

And some are opposed to government loan rates that would guarantee higher prices for farm commodities. We saw a press release last week from a farm organization that was opposed to the 90% parity formula that AAM is asking Congress to mandate.

It could not be a more inappropriate time for farmers to show disunity. We can be sure that the farmers' political foes will try to make the most of any internal disagreement in the farm community.

Rather than disparaging their fellow rural residents, though, critics should put their shoulder to whatever wheel they prefer during the next few weeks, use the media attention that will be available, and pull in the same direction.

Rural prosperity should be the goal of every rural resident, and the next few weeks will provide a unique opportunity to make a contribution toward achieving that goal.

A New National Mood

The national mood has shifted.

A plurality of the public now favors less government regulation of business, so reports pollster Louis Harris.

In 1976, 31 percent of those polled wanted more government regulation, 27 percent wanted less, and 30 percent opted for the status quo. Now, only 24 percent wants more, while 30 percent wants less, and 40 percent thinks we have about the right amount.

The Harris survey finds a sharp fallout of confidence in all government institutions over the last nine months, while the private sector has held its own. Americans today simply don't want to give government a mandate for further control of the private sector. Indeed, by 44 percent to 32 percent, people feel that "businessmen's complaints about excessive government regulation of business" are justified.

However, it's not easy pickings for entrepreneurs. The poll also finds that Americans don't trust self-regulation by industry. Only 13 percent feels industry would do a satisfactory job. Another 54 percent believes self-regulation would be "only somewhat effective", and 26 percent feels it would be quite useless.

On the other hand, 27 percent of respondents believes that consumer activists would be more effective in monitoring business and enforcing standards of product quality and reliability. And almost as many — 23 percent — would leave the job to individual consumers.

Harris sees this as an omen. He says results imply that people are becoming increasingly convinced that business will maintain high standards only "when a process of bargaining begins to take place between consumers and business."

That day for such collective bargaining may not be far off.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas lawmakers, in their first week on the job, waded through rules and committee appointment preliminaries—and heard outgoing Gov. Dolph Briscoe recommend a $1 billion tax cut.

What they were really interested in, however, was the message they would get later after new Republican Gov. Bill Clements' inauguration January 16.

Briscoe handed lawmakers in joint session a $19.8 billion proposed budget for 1980-81.

The legislators already had the Legislative Budget Board version of the new budget—a billion dollars higher—or $20.8 billion. Hearings were scheduled to begin on it this week.

Clements, like Briscoe, also will push for a tax cut in the neighborhood of $1 billion.

Both also urged legislators to adopt a constitutional amendment to allow Texans to initiate or veto major tax legislation.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, moving out the first day of the 66th session, named a full roster of standing committees which process legislation.

The budget-writing finance committee is headed by Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene. Hobby switched Sen. A. R. "Babe" Schwartz from chairmanship of jurisprudence to natural resources, and named Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls chairman of jurisprudence. The latter committee will hold hearings on the controversial initiative and referendum legislation.

Senate Opens Up

In a surprise move, the Texas Senate voted to alter drastically its historic rule permitting secret sessions to consider appointments by the governor.

Senators voted 18-13 for a rules amendment by Sen. Schwartz to abolish a directive that the appointments be debated behind closed doors.

Actually, they went along with Schwartz a decade ago and permitted suspension of the closed session rule by majority vote. They have frequently suspended the rule and gone into open consideration of nominations.

Schwartz has been pushing for 18 years to get rid of all closed sessions.

"All I want to do is switch the emphasis from closed sessions to open sessions on nominations," said Schwartz. "We can still hold an executive session if senators will stand up and vote for one."

Under the old rule, senators had to stand up and vote for an open session when an appointment was under consideration.

Contest Heard

A House committee Wednesday recommended rejection of a contest of the election of Rep. Don Cartwright, San Antonio.

The committee, refereeing the first such challenge brought before the House in four decades, heard testimony for two days.

Kae T. Patrick, a Republican defeated by Cartwright, brought the challenge, alleging election irregularities, improper campaign tactics and unconstitutional boundaries in the House district. He also pointed to charges brought against the lawmaker long ago; but the committee did not consider them, and held there was no showing enough votes were changed by the matters complained of by Patrick to change the election outcome.

Courts Speak

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals rejected the appeal of a former Houston district judge from an eight-year sentence for taking a bribe.

The court also upheld the murder conviction of a Corpus Christi man in the death of sportsman Randy Farenthold.

In another murder case, the court affirmed the capital conviction of a Lufkin man.

The State Supreme Court held penalties for violation of consumer protection laws could be collected in Dallas County on basis of a Washington state judgment.

The high court set arguments January 31 in a stock controversy among radio station owners.

66th District

NEWS FROM THE CAPITOL
BY Foster Whaley
State Representative

A lot of history is being made in the 66th Legislature. One member, Richard Slack, Pecos, has completed 26 years in the House. This sets a record for the longest continuous service. This will be the first time the legislature will serve with a Republican Governor in 105 years. The Honorable Bill Clayton was elected to an unprecedented third term. As for me, I have the distinction of serving in the 66th. Legislature for the 66th. District. A new electronic voting machine was completed just one day before the session opened. However, the bugs are not out of the machine yet. While the Governor was giving his address in the joint session on Tuesday he accidentally put pressure on the desk and it set off a short that lighted up a button on my desk that says "FRONT". This signal means you are wanted at the Speaker's stand. I froze in position hoping it was a short. Can you imagine my embarrassment had I acted on the command of a light that was shorted out. Yesterday someone hit the wrong button after a vote had been taken that changed all votes to yes. A recount had to be taken.

Another precedent is being set in that a contest has been made on seating one of the recently elected Representatives. This trial is to be held in the House on Monday, January 15. This is the first time this has occurred in thirty-four years.

Two tractors from Childress, three drivers and three tractors from Wellington, and two drivers from Memphis make up the area's contingent in the American Agriculture Movement's enroute this week to Washington, D.C.

Texas FU Convention Reaffirms Parity Stand

LUBBOCK TX--Delegates and members of the Texas Farmers Union have again given full support to re-adoption of 100 percent of parity farm prices and have urged all farmers and ranchers in the state to unite their numbers and harmonize their opinions in the coming months' efforts in Washington.

The convention was filled with little controversy even though coincidently timed with the caravan of tractors which left the convention center parking lot on their way to Washington.

In fact, the most heated session was not one of internal issues but rather one in which a top economist from the Carter Administration spoke. Dr. J.B. Penn, Dpty. Administrator of ESCS in the Dept. of Agriculture, was booed loudly and repeatedly in a question session after a speech in which he rather unsympathetically told the farmers that 1979 farm income would be little above last year's, "or down slightly."

As one official stated, "Our sole interest at present is to change the poor and inadequate federal farm law. When we witness an unconcerned attitude like this from one of Carter's chief brain trusts in charge of farm policy, we're disposed to raise cain. I think it's important that large numbers of farmers follow Penn back to Washington and dedicate themselves to bringing lawmakers to pass emergency legislation that even the Administration couldn't water down. I'd predict from the viewpoint here that President Carter couldn't carry enough farm votes in Texas to sneeze at."

Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Reagan Brown, Attorney General Mark White and North Dakota Farmers Union President Stanley Moore and Texas Observer Editor Jim Hightower also addressed the three-day convention. Moore was especially received with serious attention as he delineated the serious problems farmers face in the areas of inflation, energy, transportation, and representation.

Attending the convention from Collingsworth County were Andy Henard, Dennis Cudd, Troy Gene Thomason, Carroll Nunnelley, Dan Henard, Jr. and Henry Wells.

Gas Franchise Renewal Requested

Mike Naylor, Lone Star Gas Company manager, appeared before the Dodson City Council Monday night, January 15, to request a renewal of the company's franchise to operate in that town.

Naylor said the franchise expires at the end of 1979 and requested that it be renewed for a 25-year period.

The present and proposed franchises were compared. The gas company manager pointed out that neither rates nor gas cost adjustment are involved in this request, only the franchise to serve the city of Dodson with gas.

In other business, the city council discussed the upcoming city election, which will be held Saturday, April 7, according to Lonnie G. Roberson, mayor.

The meeting was held at 7:30 p.m. in the Dodson Cafe.

USDA Economist Says Farm Outlook Poor

A high-ranking USDA economist told Texas Farmers Union members Friday, Jan. 12 that "there is a growing awareness in Congress and in the administration that there are still serious problems in farm income."

Dr. J.B. Penn, a deputy administrator in the U.S. Department of Agriculture said that events in the early 1970's fundamentally changed agricultural economics for the next 20 to 30 years. He said that the assumptions of the '50's and '60's were no longer valid in this new era.

Penn spoke before Texas FU's annual convention in Lubbock.

He said that beginning in 1971 seven changes occurred that put U.S. agriculture into the world market: 1) '71-floating of the dollar against other currencies and against gold; 2) '72-poor crops worldwide; 3) rising world incomes resulting in increased worldwide food consumption; 4) '73-Soviet policy change that brought the USSR into the world grain market; 5) '73-Arab oil embargo; 6) '74 poor Russian crop; 7) '75-poor U.S. crop. The result of all of these events has been a 4-fold increase in U.S. agricultural exports, Penn said.

Penn said that the outlook for '79 for farmers was no better than '78 because rising costs will eat up all higher receipts.

Penn also spoke about the political environment in Washington. "Farm organizations and the trip to Washington (American Ag's tractorcade) will influence the political climate," Penn said. "But it will be very, very difficult to get any changes in target prices and loan rates from this Congress."

Penn also said that the administration would not do anything to depress current high cattle market prices. He said the administration "received so much flak last summer (when they increased cattle imports) that they've done all they're going to do."

All the grandparents in the county, or those who ever lived here, and who like to show pictures of their grandchildren, will have the opportunity to show them to an audience of around 10,000 readers of the Wellington Leader.

This will be through the 7th annual Valentine section to be published Thursday, Feb. 8. Children from one day through six years will be featured.

This is a special event for grandparents only, and it has grown in popularity each year since it started.

Here is what you do:

Bring a picture, preferably billfold size, to The Wellington Leader no later than Friday, Feb. 2. The grandparents should also bring the youngster's name, names of the parents and as many living grandparents and great grandparents as the child may have.

The child's face will appear on a special valentine on the greeting page.

The children featured may live anywhere in the world and so may the grandparents sending the pictures. But they must reach the newspaper by the deadline.

There is a charge of $6.00 for each child and the picture of only one youngster will appear in each valentine. The pictures may be picked up after they are published.

Mrs. Childress was the former Etta Lee Rankin, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R.R. Rankin, early settlers in the Rolla and Quail areas.

She was married to Clarence Childress who died several years ago. They moved to Hemphill County in about 1930.

Tech Students See Hog Killing

David Null and fourteen young men from Texas Tech in Lubbock were weekend visitors of, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Null.

The young men are with Navigators, a Christian group which works on college campuses. They have a retreat two or three times during the year.

Friday night they braved the weather and pitched their tent on the Null farm. However, Saturday night they decided to stay in town.

During the weekend they observed as Raymond Horton, Eddie Riley, Lee Levy of Memphis, Donnie Barnett and Wes Ammons killed four hogs.
