HENDERSON, N. C. (UPI)—

Rifle shots, a fire bomb and a hail of bottles marked the worst outbreak of violence Tuesday night in the more than five-month-old strike against the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills.

No injuries were reported. Authorities feared new outbreaks today by angered union members who found a lack of jobs despite an apparent week-end settlement of the strike.

Gov. Luther H. Hodges was to meet with company and Textile Workers Union of America officials in Raleigh later today in another effort to settle the dispute.

Non-strikers leaving the mills at the end of Tuesday night's second shift were greeted by rifle fire and thrown bottles.

Police and highway patrolmen, on hand to protect the workers and escort them from the mill, were powerless to control the strikers who gathered in the rain and darkness outside the mills.

Officers attempted to light the area but street lights were knocked out with shots or rocks as fast as they were lit.

A fire bomb, apparently a gas-filled bottle, which greeted patrolmen as they arrived at the mill, had burned itself out before the mill gates opened.

Hidden marksmen peppered departing cars of non-strikers with shots from a .22 caliber rifle or a high-powered air rifle.

Similar shots Monday night had kept second-shift workers penned in the mill until rescued by patrol reinforcements early Tuesday.

Governor Hodges first called the union-management meeting for Tuesday afternoon but company president John D. Cooper Jr. was unable to attend. It was the third time Hodges had intervened in an effort to settle the strike.

Chinese Turn Tibet Into One Big Prison

By A. K. GUPTA
United Press International

KATHMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—Communist Chinese troops have turned Tibet into a vast prison with thousands of Tibetans being whipped each day in the streets and Buddhist monks sent to army camps for the pleasure of the troops, refugees fleeing to Nepal reported today.

They said nearly 2,500 Tibetan monasteries were damaged or destroyed by Communist artillery in the past month and nearly 8,000 monks killed, 12,000 arrested and about 800,000 lamas forced to flee homeless and hungry into the mountains.

This correspondent traveled through the snow-covered 17,000-foot mountain passes to reach the border of Tibet and interview the refugees. At the Nepal-Tibet border a few miles north of the village of Tarke, I met some 20 refugees who said some of 30 well-armed Chinese divisions in Tibet were led by Russians.

All Are Prisoners
One English-speaking Tibetan named Thote, a 27-year-old graduate of Peiping University, said the Chinese killed 165 members of his clan in the village of Ghetumba in Kham Province. He said he saw his father machine-gunned for refusing to betray other Tibetan patriots.

Thote said that during his flight to Nepal he passed through 45 villages that had been known as good trading centers and that every one was destroyed by the Communists with not a sign of life visible anywhere.

"Every Tibetan was a prisoner," he said. "The whole country was turned into a vast prison. Dusk to dawn curfews were imposed all over Tibet and did not allow normal living."

"Thousands of peaceful, innocent Tibetans were being whipped daily in open places in the course of questioning and inhuman treatment."

CHIEF FOR A DAY

DeMolay Day Police Chief Norman McElrath tried Jim Conner's cap on for size Tuesday, the day that Pampa DeMolays assumed city and county offices for what was called a "first-hand observation of grass-roots democracy in action." Much to McElrath's chagrin, there was little excitement Tuesday at the police department.

Big Value Days Kick Off Thursday

Pampa Value Days, an annual event of the Chamber of Commerce Merchants Activities Committee, begins Thursday in 74 retail stores. Big doings are set for Saturday in the form of 74 individual drawings and a grand prize drawing for four hundred silver dollars.

Persons will have a free opportunity to register for drawings in all participating stores and in that way will become eligible for the jackpot prize. Individual drawings will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday in all Value Day stores. Winning notices will be posted near the cash register so that winners can come in any time during the following week to claim their prize. Stores will remain open until 8 p.m.

The $400 drawing will begin at 8 p.m. in front of the LaNora Theatre building. The drawing will continue until the prize is claimed and ticket holders must be present to win, according to Lucian Young, MAC chairman.

Methods were being applied for confession. Mostly the people preferred to confess as desired by the Chinese than stand tortures any longer.

Markets are closed; essential consumer goods have disappeared; trade is finished, resulting in numberless deaths inside houses from artificial starvation caused by the Chinese. Any mention of devotion to the Dalai Lama was a serious crime and people were being forced to show their entire devotion to the Panchen Lama.

Large numbers of monks, who locally are called "lamas," have been forced to live in army camps at the pleasure of the Chinese. Several monks reportedly committed suicide to escape Chinese brutality.

Lithon, another refugee, said 20,000 Chinese troops were searching each house and every person along the southwestern border of Tibet and that most of the people had fled to the barren plateaus and now were dying of hunger and cold.

The Chinese have confiscated every ounce of corn available in the area and have scorched-earthed all the standing crops in the field, turning the entire vegetation into ashes," he said.

Show Open Defiance
"Every person must beg food from the Chinese officer at the nearest camp, waiting hours in long unending lines, and only those who could satisfy the Chinese of their loyalty managed to get one meal."

Anlani, who lost his wife and three children while escaping, said he saw Russians with the Chinese and believed they were helping the Communists build a big concentration camp at the 17,000-foot level at the northern base of Mt. Everest.

Despite this campaign of terror, the refugees said the Tibetans still were continuing their fight against the Communists and showing open defiance of their Red rulers.

State Department Head Herter Takes Over Today

Gets Fast Okay From U.S. Senate

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Christian Herter, with the unanimous and enthusiastic endorsement of the Senate, takes office today as secretary of state to succeed John Foster Dulles.

Herter will be sworn in at a White House ceremony attended by President Eisenhower.

The 64-year-old Massachusetts Republican, who won ringing tributes from members of his own party and Democrats alike, was confirmed Tuesday by a Senate vote of 93-0 within four hours after the Foreign Relations committee took his nomination. The committee approved him 17-0.

The swift and overwhelming approval of Herter was designed to serve notice on Russia that he will have united congressional backing at the Big Four Foreign Ministers' conference which begins May 11 in Geneva.

It also was intended to eliminate any doubts that Britain and other Allies might have concerning the support enjoyed by Herter, who heretofore has worked in the shadow of Dulles.

Herter, who describes himself as a "strong team worker," immediately made it clear he intended to cooperate closely with members of the Foreign Relations Committee.

A complete list of participating stores follows:
KHHH, Radio Station, First National Bank, C. R. Anthony Co., before the new secretary leaves Field's Men's Wear, Falcic Center, Tip-Top Cleaners, Foxworth Galbraith Lumber Co., Hawkins-Schaefer Appliances, IGA Food Liner, Bentley's, Pampa Lumber Co., Montgomery Ward, Hobby Shop, B & G Hosiery, J. C. Penney, B & B Pharmacy, Bob Clements.

Lad & Lassie Shop, Parker's Blossom Shop, Pampa Hardware, Tarpley Music Co., Whittington's Furniture Mart, Sherwin Williams Co., Your Laundry & Dry Cleaners, Coston's Bakery, Ideal Food Stores, C & M Television, Smith's Quality Shoes, Kyle's Shoe Store, Garden Lanes, Dunlap's, Pampa News.

White's Auto Store, Furr Food, Kari's Shoe Store, Bryce Transfer and Storage, Malgotha Hinkle, Tom Rose Motor Co., Johnson's Cafe, Davis Electric, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Parsley's Sheet Metal and Roofing, Hom & Gee Grocery, Suttie's Grocery and Market, B. F. Goodrich, Texas Furniture, West Texas Auto Store, Smith's Studio, Service Cleaners, Neal (See VALUE, Page 2).

Draws Praise

Herter won congressional plaudits for his testimony before the committee, where he said he did not believe the United States should use nuclear weapons in the "initial stages" of any shooting war that might break out over Berlin.

He said the United States would have to "think very carefully" about using nuclear weapons if it appeared Russia was willing "to carry it to the point of all-out war."

One committee member, Sen. George Aiken (R-Vt.) said of Herter's appearance: "I never saw a man handle himself better." He lauded the new secretary as one who "can be firm without being belligerent."

CITY MANAGERS

Castro Slated To Visit UN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fidel Castro, the wooliest and most wildly welcomed statesman to visit New York in years, steps over the border into United Nations territory today. Security-harassed city police were grateful for the breather.

Cuba's prime minister was scheduled to meet with U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld at noon and to lunch with the United Nations Correspondents Association—unless he takes it into his head to do something else first.

"I want to see the people," Castro kept saying Tuesday. And see them he did from 11 a.m. when he tried to join a crowd of 5,000 cheering friends in Pennsylvania Station until midnight, when he submitted to the good night embraces of 10 young women in bright red sweaters outside the door of his hotel room.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, on his return from Korea, drew bigger crowds, but he didn't try to get out of the parade.

Castro was in and out of it all day and into the night. He charged up to police barricades to shake hands with Vivashouting, flag-waving admirers. The last 100 or so of them were pushed bodily into elevators by police at midnight when it appeared the bearded rebel hero otherwise would be holding court all night in a 17th floor hotel corridor.

Many of the greeters were old friends, members of New York's large Spanish-speaking colony, who had known him when he was preparing in exile here for his successful revolution.

Prison Escapees Release Woman

By ROBERT STRAND
United Press International

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI)—A woman held for six terror-filled hours by two escaped convicts who threatened to slash her throat, holds no grudge.

"I don't think they would really have killed me," Mrs. Louise Gschwend, 35, said Tuesday night. She described the escapees from San Quentin Prison, who snatched her to the jail, as "just scared kids."

"I hope they get a break," she said. Mrs. Gschwend and a fishing companion, Douglas Harrison, 39, were grabbed as hostages Tuesday morning as the prisoners ran over a low hill and onto a T-shaped pier with guards in close pursuit.

The convicts, Billy Joe Wright, 26, and William D. Werner, 24, lured Mrs. Gschwend's fish boat into the pier, threatened to kill them if the guards came, and held the hostages for five hours.

A battle of nerves developed, said "They sure will stay in prison, police, prison guards, and Coast on for much longer terms."

Guard vessels surrounded the pier but held their ground to protect the hostages.

Finally the convicts released Harrison to act as a go-between with the guards. The break in the stalemate came when authorities agreed to permit the prisoners to talk to newsmen in return for a promise of surrender.

Three newsmen were authorized to meet with Wright and Werner on the pier. During a brief interview, the convicts complained about the California parole system. Then Werner tossed the knife into the water and the two men walked to the guards with hands up.

Werner and Wright were convicted burglars. Wright was serving six months to 15 years. Werner five years to life.

Martin County Dist. Atty. Wilbur O. Weissich promised the convicts he would not prosecute them if they came out later he could be overruled by the state attorney general, and several women are needed to live in employer's homes and do housework.

Unemployment Light In Pampa

For the first time in several years the Pampa employment office has more jobs than applicants, Bill Ragadale, manager, told the Daily News today. All persons on certain job lists have been called and several positions still have not been filled.

The office is looking for construction workers, route men, a watch maker, an experienced housekeeper, an experienced painter, farm workers, housekeepers, an experienced presser, waitresses and car hops. There are also a few temporary jobs in construction and unloading.

The construction workers must pass rigid physicals. Two farm jobs are listed for married couples with no children, and several women are needed to live in employer's homes and do housework.

Texas House Faces 'Tough' Part of Tax Measure Today

By LLOYD LARRABEE
United Press International

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas House faces the most controversial part of the tax bill today, the section with the bulk of new taxes drafted by a blue-ribbon subcommittee.

The lower chamber raced its way through the first part of the money measure Tuesday, whacking about 30 million dollars out of it to keep farmers, housewives, business firms and corporations happy.

Meanwhile, the Senate torpedoed hopes that Texas teachers might get a pay raise this year. The solons refused to consider a bill raising salaries of classroom teachers $500 a year. They said they wanted to see the money to pay it with first.

The upper chamber cleared a bill which supporters said would keep Texas health officials from being on "kissing terms" with every cow in Wisconsin. It proposed that imported milk must be certified it has been produced under health standards equivalent to those of Texas.

The House started work on the complicated tax bill Monday. The lawmakers hope that it will raise enough additional revenue in new tax and increased taxes in deep Texas as operating for the next two years.

Oil Storage Tax

The legislators added a 15 per cent barrel tax on storage of imported foreign oil, expected to bring in $821,000 per year. It exports a 1 per cent increase on nitrates oil produced in other states, and proposes levies on construction, restaurant meals and other previously untaxed items.

Spurred by Sen. R. A. Weiner of Seguin, the upper chamber argued non-highway users should pay part of the tax dedicated to schools.

Highway users now pay the full tax with 75 per cent going to the highway fund and 25 per cent going to schools.

The House also chopped out a provision for higher taxes on milk imported from Wisconsin. It proposed that imported milk must be certified it has been produced under health standards equivalent to those of Texas.

of levies on radio and television sets and called a proposed revision of the chain store tax and revised the method of computing the corporation franchise tax. It was levied on corporations some six million dollars annually.

Hot Part of Bill

Today the House digs into the part of the tax bill written by the blue-ribbon sub-group of the Revenue and Taxation Committee that brings in $221,000 per year. It exports a 1 per cent increase on nitrates oil produced in other states, and proposes levies on construction, restaurant meals and other previously untaxed items.

ToT Kiwanians Hear Talk On Credit Work

W. L. Veale, vice president elect of the Pampa Lions Club, spoke at the Top of Texas Kiwanis Club at their weekly dinner Tuesday night. Speaking in the capacity of manager of the Retail Credit Bureau in conjunction with National Retail Credit Week in Pampa, Veale stressed the value of good credit to each individual.

Good credit is not only used in purchasing some needed item. Many employers use the credit bureau when checking on an employee when a promotion is being considered, the opinion being that a good citizen, protects and guards his credit as one of his most-valued possessions.

Veale says that credit is no modern day means of business but dates back to Shakespeare's time. Credit has developed into the modern way of doing business. It was also pointed out that without credit many people would never have a new car, home or many household goods.

The few that would be able to pay cash for these items would have to pay about eight times the price, owing to no mass production. In closing, Veale suggested that any person who finds that he cannot meet his obligation should go and talk to his creditor. In this way a solution can be worked out and save his credit rating from being hurt.

He also said that the local Retail Credit Bureau is affiliated with some three thousand other Credit Bureaus in the United States and Canada. In this way one's credit record follows him wherever he may go.

Gadding About, Still Women's Prime Interest

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new study of what we girls want out of life shows that gadding about is our No. 1 interest.

But relax, fellows. We're also planning to keep home fires burning. Cooking and sewing run high in the interest ratings.

A long look at what today's woman looks ahead to was made by the national Young Women's Christian Assn. to help observe this, the 12th annual YW week. Miss Mildred H. Esgar, general secretary, said results of the study would be used to shape future programs of the organization for its three-million members.

Nearly 10,000 females, from age 12 to 60-plus, answered questionnaires on "What would you most like to add to your life?" Fifty-eight per cent checked travel from a list of 18 choices. Under-stand other people ran second, with 37 per cent.

Marriage was not among the 18 categories. But one teen-ager, in answer to the question, "Any activity you would like to include which is not in the above list- ing?" wrote simply: "Boys."

However, a little more than half of the participants already are wed. The majority, some 6,400, were under 35.

Other choices among all ages included: Personal appearance and grooming, 53 per cent; more friends, 48 per cent; dancing, 42 per cent; cooking skills, 41 per cent; sewing, 40 per cent.

Miss Esgar interpreted the interest in getting around as a good sign. "The fact that so many of the travel and to understand other participants said they want to people better shows that women more and more are feeling the need to communicate with their neighbors around the world," she said.

When the Romans built a town, they left a level rectangular space in the middle for the forum. Small towns had only one forum, large towns several. The famous forum of Rome, the Forum Romanum, was an oblong, flat space about 200 yards long and 50 to 60 yards wide between the Palatine and Capitoline hills. Hay grows today in the Forum Romanum.

Mamie Doesn't Claim Suite; Hotel Man Loses Money

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Back stairs at the White House, sadness, like the man says in the newsreels, as it must to all men came recently to two Georgia annual convention of the National Association of Airport Executives. President Eisenhower, who didn't know a thing about it.

There was the case of the De Soto Hotel in Savannah, Ga., some 130 miles from the vacation White House at the Augusta National Golf Club.

The De Soto is a noble, internationally famous inn and the manager, Don Grady, was beside himself with activity Sunday before last, getting ready to receive the hundreds of delegates to the

Pages Are Paid More Than Teachers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—No case was cited wherein a high school physics or chemistry teacher has quit his job to run errands for Congress. But there did seem to be a connection somewhere.

The witnesses said most states have lifted the starting salaries for such teachers to maybe $3,600 or even $3,800 a year. Though they didn't say so, a congressional page is paid at the rate of with secret entourage, was about to arrive at the De-Soto for a visit of a day or two.

The manager, more than willing to accommodate the nation's first family, bravely cast aside a few more reservations and sealed off an end of the third floor for the President's wife, including one of the hotel's best suites and nearby accommodations for the Secret Service.

The maids dusted furiously and the rooms were polished to a sparkling sheen.

Came Monday. No Mrs. Eisenhower. Same Tuesday. Same Wednesday. By midweek, the De Soto was rather well convinced that the First Lady was not coming, but by this time the convention was coming to an end and the heavy spenders were leaving town.

The explanation is simple: Mrs. Eisenhower didn't reserve the rooms. This was done by friends who had talked with her and hoped she would be able to visit their historic city while the President was busy on the golf course.

The other case is a bit sadder. For 20 Eisenhower trips to Augusta, the presidential staff and press party based at the Bon Air Hotel, a large resort establishment on the outskirts of Augusta's home-away-from-home at the Augusta National.

The management hoped trip after trip that some day the President, himself, would drop in to see the reporters as had Secretary of State Dulles and a host of other administration bigwigs. On the President's just-concluding trip to Augusta, the Bon Air was booked far in advance by a state bankers convention and the White House establishment was forced to shift to downtown Augusta and the Richmond Hotel.

So, what happens? Eisenhower for the first time since he has been coming to Augusta, decided to hold a news conference. And where? The Richmond Hotel.

Robert Trier, the manager of the Bon Air, heard nothing on the radio or read nothing in the newspapers for 24 hours but Richmond Hotel.

Maybe Managers Grady and Trier should get together for a good cry.

As everybody knows, there is a shortage of scientists. The only way to get more is to teach them. Unfortunately there also is a shortage of science teachers and the testimony was that maybe half of those now on the job don't know their business.

The House Space Committee was exploring this problem with Dr. Herbert A. Smith, president of the National Science Teachers Association, and Robert H. Carleton, the association's executive secretary.

Besides the low starting pay, they listed a number of current headaches in the teaching game. Included in Dr. Smith's qualified view, was a possible need for occasional use of the paddle on students who don't get paddled at home.

But the talk kept returning to money.

Carleton said good science teachers ought to get, eventually, $10,000 or $12,000 a year. He didn't say specifically what's the most they now can hope for. But he said the average pay of all high school teachers hit $5,000 for the first time last year.

"You gentlemen know how much you have to pay to hire secretaries," said Carleton, putting his finger, however innocently, on a very sore spot.

Not only did the space committee members know, so did just about everybody else in the country who can read. It's been in all the papers for days how hard it is for congressmen to get adequate help.

Wives On Payroll
Rep. Leonard G. Wolf (D-Iowa), one of the space men, had found it necessary, for instance to pay $13,244 a year to get a qualified helper. In the person of Mrs. Leonard G. Wolf, his wife.

Rep. George P. Miller (D-Calif.), another member of the space group, had got out a little lighter than Wolf. His wife, Mrs. Esther P. Miller, agreed to work for $10,042.

Plenty of House members have to pay their chief assistants $13-$44, the maximum allowed in the House, and a bill is in the works now to raise the top pay to $14,162. A senator can pay as much as $16,300.

No doubt Carleton has been too busy trying to scare up new science teachers to read much about such things as this in the papers. Otherwise, I'm sure he wouldn't have brought up the subject.

Mussolini Dreams Becoming Reality

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press International

ROME (UPI)—A new marvel of Rome is emerging like a phoenix from the ashes of a good dream of Mussolini.

A little more than five miles south of the city, but still part of this proud and ancient commune, a new, vast and breathtaking complex of marble building and stately avenues is already in being.

Romans themselves who have not been out to the former sheep pastures for years are amazed at what they see.

This is "EUR," the Universal Exposition of Rome.

In 1935, Mussolini announced that he would build an historic complex of permanent marble-facaded buildings for an "olympiad of civilization" which was to be opened in 1942.

Ground was broken and the gigantic task begun.

Plans called for exposition buildings as large as railroad stations; not "jerry-built" to last one season, but built like the colosseum to last for ages.

Marble columns as long as 26 feet and as thick as a work horse were hauled from quarries.

An obelisk was found of the many in Rome to grace the central square. Massive statues were brought in.

Then came the war.

The great olympiad of culture was forgotten while the world bled.

Only a few curious German and then Allied soldiers ever wandered out to the weed-grown site to stare at the abandoned massive statue heads and slabs of marble, great foundations and debris.

Resumed Work In 1955

Italy had no time to think of the place in the difficult days after the war.

But in 1952 a plan was elaborated to finish the work and turn the quarter into a permanent world exposition center, museums, government offices and restful gardens.

Most people smiled when the Rome government also decided to finish another Mussolini dream—a subway.

It was finished in 1954, a marble-lined gem of construction running under the historic ruins of Rome from the central station out to the "EUR"—which was then nowhere and nothing but sheep still grazed. It was a pleasant ride into the country. Today EUR is practically completed.

Show Window Of The World

It looks like a movie set until you see that solid marble.

A Swiss corporation, entirely privately financed, for the development of international trade has taken over four of dozens of magnificent palaces and is making it a "show window of the world."

ELECTRIC HEATING

HIGH IN COMFORT

Luxurious warming comfort—the kind an electric blanket gives you—is what you get from electric heating—a gentle warmth that makes you feel, oh, so cozy.

It's rather amazing to some people that you can get such gentle, safe warmth from electric heating for so little cost—but, it's true. A typical electric wall heater, for example, operates for less than 3¢ an hour and for completely electric house heating there's a new, even lower, heating rate.

Commercial paper rates were marked up by both dealers and sales finance companies in increases reflecting higher yields prevailing in the money market generally. Finance companies hiked rates 1/4 point on short-term notes and 1/2 point on longer maturities.

Copper prices were marked up 1/2-cent to 3/4-cent a pound by custom smelters. They said their present copper supplies are "quite limited" dependent on how much scrap they can buy to process into refined copper.

American Motors Corp. President George Romney predicted the compact car will represent 50 per cent of the American auto market in the "next few years." At the interim dinner of the New York Financial Writers Assn. he also blasted economic concentration in labor and management and said that a division of power should be a primary principle of economic growth.

MEN OF VISION—Not diapers, but how well a newborn baby can see is the concern of these two physicians at the Boston University School of Medicine. Dr. Sydney S. Gellis, left, who invented the vision-measuring device, and Dr. John Gorman prepare to test an infant's sight. The baby's eyes follow black lines moving across the arc above its head. By gradually reducing the width of the lines and watching the baby's eye movements, the doctors can calculate the child's ability to see.

DAR Still Hasn't Forgiven the UN

The Lighter Side
By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It turns out that the Daughters of the American Revolution haven't forgiven the United Nations after all. It's more that the DAR ladies have put the U.N. on probation for a year.

According to Mrs. John H. Pace of Columbus, Ohio, chairman of the resolutions committee, we reporters had it all wrong. When her committee came in without a resolution like last year's, which called for withdrawal of this country from the U.N., we figured the DAR had decided to let up on the international statesmen.

"Not at all," says Mrs. Pace. "A resolution once enacted remains in full force and effect until repealed. We haven't proposed to repeal it."

Some of the other ladies hinted discreetly that maybe there was a little more to it than this. After all, some resolutions, like the one commending J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI, get re-enacted yearly.

Gets Off Light
Any way you figure it, the U.N. this year is getting off light. Only its children's fund (UNICEF) gets a rap on the knuckles, on the ground it spends a lot of its money on kiddies in Communist countries, promotes a world welfare state, and (through the greeting cards it sells) tries to take Christ out of Christmas.

So I guess they can rest a little easier at the U.N. headquarters now, as long as they don't do anything rash like letting Red China in as a member. The DAR ladies of course are still against that.

They are still dead against world government too, but the resolution on this doesn't even mention the United Nations.

Mrs. Pace laid her resolutions before the DAR's 68th Continental Congress at Constitution Hall with a warning that propagandists and disruptive influences threaten our society and nation. But she said the 62 members on her resolutions committee were on to this danger.

She said they considered 457 proposed resolutions, as submitted by members and chapters, and came in with 20 "based on proved facts, not opinions." The delegates seemed to like them. They interrupted Mrs. Pace 11 times with applause as she read them.

Some Old Standbys
There were some old standbys among the resolutions and some surprises too.

Efforts to promote metropolitan government — in some places they call it "metro" — were deplored as a step toward world government. Personality tests in the schools were viewed with suspicion. The ladies were asked to come out against the farm program, for right-to-work legislation, against double jeopardy, for internal security and immigration and passport controls, and against so much federal spending.

I'll say this for the Daughters. Of the more than 2,000 here this week, there were a larger proportion on hand at 9:30 a.m. to hear reports like Mrs. Pace's, than at any other convention I ever saw.

Maybe the punch they served at their parties the night before had something to do with this. Pure juice.

Lighten Load! Get Rid of Husbands!

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—One way to keep down spring cleaning is to eliminate husbands, children and pets.

Together, they manage to account for 35 per cent of the Hicks the average homemaker cleans up each day, says the head of the nation's largest home-care organization. Kenneth N. Hansen, of ServiceMaster says that on the basis of clean-up statistics in the average household, here is where all that dirt comes from:

Atmospheric soilers (smokestacks, auto exhausts, etc.), 40 per cent.

Husbands (with such habits as eating sandwiches in the living room and scattering cigar butts beyond the ash trays), 18 per cent.

Children, 12 per cent; the foot parade of the family, 10; bad weather, 8; entertaining, 7; and pets, 6.

Just to discourage further all us heat-as-pin types, Hansen said that the dirt-fall is on the increase, varying from two to 25 pounds per room per year—depending on the city.

It is only natural that a "pro" like Hansen would be critical of the cleaning job we amateurs do. He listed 11 "most common oversights" by the amateur cleaner. We fail to:

Wipe off lamp cords; polish the glass on pictures; to wash lighting fixtures and change light bulbs; dust bed rails that are usually covered up;

Wash ornaments that stand around all year and collect dust in crevices; keep rags for cleaning (old bath towels and sheets have a useful second life); clean out radiators in between all the coils.

Wash out waste baskets; clean the dust which collects on the rims of dresser drawers; vacuum with an edge tool the sides of all carpets, where moths have a tendency to breed;

And clean out magazine and newspaper baskets and decide to part with old issues that never will be read.

Autos Draw Much Attention in Russia

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI)—Next to the American ice show and Lenin's tomb, the biggest attraction in Moscow these days appears to be my automobile.

It's the first sports car to live in Russia, a racy, white, little MGA.

And a female behind the wheel brings even more astonishment in this land where women drivers are rather rare.

If admission could be charged, I'd be rich from the sidewalk spectators who have laughed at, ogled, patted, stared into and under and even jokingly tried to lift my little machine. I can't edge through the crowded shopping streets without an audience of Soviet citizens literally tying up traffic by crowding around the MGA.

Driving a car in the Soviet Union is a wild adventure in other ways despite advance fears. Getting it into the country is a cinch. Ship it to Moscow like a piece of baggage, and the Soviet customs doesn't charge one kopek taxes, unlike other countries.

From then on it's not so easy. Russia doesn't have many automobiles yet, so you can't find a filling station on every other corner. There are two stations for foreigners.

You can buy all the gasoline you want at only 25 cents a gallon—with coupons obtainable via red tape. The gasoline is fine for Soviet trucks but gives a delicate sports car indigestion.

Garages to keep your car in are rare. So are repair garages. You bring a do-it-yourself kit and make your own repairs.

There are 150 driving rules. One orders you to keep the car washed. Once a policeman threatened to take away the driver's license of a UPI correspondent who was driving a dusty auto and thus detracting from the neatness of the city. Another journalist was stopped because his front bumper was rusty.

The police examine your car for two hours before selling a license plate. And to get a driver's license is a major seven-year plan. You have to be able to take the engine apart. (But I can't get mine back together again). One American diplomat's wife who still can't find the carburetor has flunked the test five times.

Country Must Have Positive Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chris-tian A. Herter, new secretary of state, is a Paris-born Bostonian with a bow tie who believes the United States must pursue "a positive approach which accepts competition and danger as elements of survival."

The 44-year-old successor to John Foster Dulles sounded this theme at West Point, N.Y., on Dec. 3 in his last major speech before taking over in February as acting secretary for cancer-stricken Dulles.

Herter, a lanky six and a half-footer who is hobbled by arthritis, has been accumulating stature for his new job since he began a successful diplomatic-political career at age 22 in World War I.

In the 43 years since he became an attaché at the U.S. Embassy in Berlin in 1916, Herter was accused momentarily by German officers in World War I of being an American spy. He diplomatically talked his way out of the misunderstanding.

At age 22, served as acting U.S. minister to Belgium when illness in embassy ranks left him top man on the spot in 1917.

After the 1918 armistice, detected and relayed to the State Department evidence that beaten Germany was on the verge of going Communist. His report opened the door for emergency shipments of food to the German people that ended that danger.

Helped Herbert Hoover as secretary of the American peace mission; later served as Hoover's personal assistant when the ex-president was commerce secretary in the Coolidge cabinet.

Was speaker of the Massachusetts Legislature, then served in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1944 through 1952.

Served two terms as governor of Massachusetts.

Became the embarrased subject of an unwanted "Stop Nixon" vice presidential boom launched in 1956 by Harold E. Stassen before the Republican National Convention. Herter, disavowed Stassen's drive to win him the vice presidential nomination and personally nominated Nixon as Eisenhower's running mate.

For all his Bostonian background and bearing, Herter is not a Beantown Brahmin.

He was born in Paris on March 28, 1895, just next to the Luxembourg Gardens in Paris. His parents were expatriate artists of the Henry James type with backgrounds of wealth. His German immigrant grandfather who came here in 1848 and had established himself in Texas and New York.

low ratio of labor cost and lists ten companies which spend less than 25 per cent of sales on wages and salaries: Armour & Co., Associated Dry Goods, General Oil (N.J.), Union Bag-Camp, United Carbon, Wilson & Co.

Francis L. Du Pont & Co., in its market microscope, discusses the historical pattern of odd lot trading which, it says, has provided good technical indications for the stock market and concludes "the return of the odd lot to the buy side in 1959 adds an indication of technical weakness, reversing the pattern in effect for the majority of 1958."

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

The depths of the reservoir of ill-will which the Red Chinese have succeeded in building for themselves in Asia may take years to measure.

Just as ruthless suppression of the Hungarian revolt caused irreparable damage to the Communist cause in the Western world, so Red Chinese attacks on Tibet are causing the same damage in heretofore unconquered areas of the Asian world.

The Dalai Lama, deposed by the Red Chinese as temporal ruler of Tibet, remains a spiritual leader to millions of Asians who worship him as the reincarnation of the great Buddha.

Buddhism is the predominant religion in Asia, and so it was a body blow to Communist propaganda in Peking when he accused them of lies and treachery and knocked the props from their claims that he had been kidnapped by Tibetan "rebels."

Traces Broken Promises
The Dalai Lama would like to state categorically that he left Lhasa and Tibet and came to India of his own free will and not under duress," his statement said. His statement traced the record of broken Communist promises.

This was not the first time the Dalai Lama had been forced to flee his capital. The first time was in 1951 when he got as far as the Tibetan border with India but turned back on the strength of Red Chinese promises that there would be no interference with the Tibetan religion and customs and her internal affairs.

But, his statement noted: "In fact, after the occupation of Tibet by the Chinese armies, the Tibetan government did not enjoy any measure of autonomy even in international matters and the Chinese government exercised full powers in Tibet's affairs." Reds' Actions Unexplained Then came the slaughter of the Lamas and the destruction of the sacred monasteries.

Just why the Red Chinese chose to act as they did at this particular time may never be fully explained.

It might be that the spirit of revolt is contagious and the Reds felt they had to act to prevent the contagion spreading to adjoining Chinese provinces. Or they may have wearied of the war of attrition which Tibetan tribesmen have been waging against them since 1953 with heavy loss to the Reds in both manpower and supplies. Those losses may have become so high they felt they had to act regardless of other consequences.

Or it may be a measure of their confidence in their timetable of conquest.

Danger Flags Raised
Whatever their reasons, they have made it clear to an ever-increasing number of Asians that the Communist plan has no place for a way of life different than the Communists' own.

And as result, the danger flags have gone up in Indonesia, Burma, Ceylon, South Viet Nam and India.

Buddhists, and many non-Buddhists, in each of those countries have protested the treatment of the Dalai Lama. India's great neutral, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, has been forced to speak out.

Little hope for relief is in prospect for the Tibetans, but harm has come to the Red Chinese. Red Chinese maps which encroach upon the lands of India, Burma and other Asiatic neighbors were not the result of a mapmaker's error. And Red China's neighbors are beginning to realize it.

'Father's Girl' Becomes Sexy

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Elinor Donahue, sweet-faced teenager of TV's "Father Knows Best" series, has bleached her hair and jazzed up her sex appeal to play a killer in her first movie role since the series began.

A best supporting nominee for her video role, Elinor's transformation into a teen-age floozy will come as a shock to her TV fans. "Girls' Town."

Her television bosses aren't happy about the situation, and even Elinor has misgivings. "I'm hoping audiences won't recognize me as the Betty Anderson of television," the youthful actress said nervously. "Besides bleaching my hair, I wear cheap clothes and talk tougher than I do on TV."

"The girl I'm playing is younger than Betty, but she knows more about life. She doesn't have Betty's self-assured poise, and she's not as well educated. It's a complete switch for me."

"I really don't know if the people who do recognize me will ever believe in Betty again. We'll just have to wait and see."

Elinor, a well-mannered, soft-spoken 22-year-old, behaves almost as if she were caught committing a crime on the set of MGM's "Girls' Town."

"Maybe, if I'm lucky, the folks who watch 'Father Knows Best' won't see the picture," she hoped. "I'm playing to two different audiences. Our TV show is mostly seen by married people with younger children, and by older couples whose kids have already grown up."

"The picture is sort of slanted for teenagers. Not many of them stay home to watch television with the family."

Elinor looks and acts younger than she is. Throughout the five-year run of the series she has played Betty Anderson two years younger than her real age.

JOHNSON SURVIVES LEFT-WING ATTACKS

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson is surviving the thunder on the left to remain boss man of the U.S. Senate. Johnson is a tall, smiling Texan with a knack for getting along with people and for getting things done. When the 85th Congress adjourned last summer there were cheers for Johnson from just about all over except from the politicians of the left.

The cheers were for the job Johnson had done as leader of the Democratic majority in the U.S. Senate. It was not much of a majority, 48 Democrats to 47 Republicans. Johnson made it work, however. He made it work so well that national attention came to focus on the Senator as an able, alert, middle-of-the-road Democrat.

Series of Complaints
And that was a boost for the Lyndon B. Johnson-for-president boom. It has been a quiet but consistent boom, notable for Johnson's occasional public statements that he is not a candidate for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination. The boom persists, however, and that seems to be what all the thunder on the left is about.

The thunder on the left has been a series of complaints by left wing Democratic senators against Johnson and his leadership. The complaints are directed at Johnson's leadership of the Senate but actually seem to be more intended to derail the Johnson-for-president movement.

If that is not the purpose, then they do not make much sense, collectively.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) sounded off first early in the new Congress. He raked Johnson on charges of one-man rule of the Democratic majority which had zoomed to 62 after the 1958 election. Too much leadership and not enough democracy.

Dallas Preps For Visit By Metropolitan
DALLAS (UPI)—The Dallas Grand Opera Assn. is getting ready for its annual musical blow-out—the visit of the Metropolitan Opera Co.

This year, the Metropolitan will present four performances in Dallas on May 8, 9 and 10. The Metropolitan began its annual visits 20 years ago.

Dallas society uses the annual visit to throw a Mardi Gras-type weekend with an elaborate opera ball. Visitors flock to Dallas every year from more than 500 cities and towns in 26 states and Mexico to attend the performances.

It takes two special trains to bring to Dallas the 325 members of the celebrated company, scenery, costumes and musical instruments.

The opera's annual visit is a non-profit enterprise, sponsored by community leaders.

The 1959 season will open with "Fledermaus" the night of May 8, with Blanche Thebom, Laure Hurley, Theodor Uppman and Frank Guirera in leading roles. "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" are scheduled for a matinee May 9, with Zinka Milanov, Daniele Barioni, Lucine Amara and Carlo Bergonzi singing the main roles.

"Rigoletto" will be the attraction the night of May 9, with Robert Peters, Eugenio Fernandez, Leonard Warren and Giorgio Tozzi.

A matinee performance of "Carmen" May 10, with Jean Madra and Richard Tucker will wind up this year's performances.

GRUNDS FOR PROTEST
HASTINGS, England (UPI)—John Palfrey, general secretary of the Motor Schools Association, protested to a trade conference today that there is at least one licensed teacher of automobile driving who has lost his own driver's license for drunken driving.

NEW PRIMATE—Archbishop James is the new primate of the Greek Orthodox Church of North and South America. The 48-year-old primate is spiritual leader of over 1,250,000 people.

merely as Senate Democratic leader, but as a Democratic statesman who properly should be considered in connection with the 1960 presidential nomination. All of this is taking the shape of a stop-Johnson movement—a series of coordinated maneuvers by party left-wingers to kill off early the only middle-of-the-road Democrat about whom there is much serious presidential speculation.

The non-congressional left wing-ers of Americans for Democratic Action may be expected to get into the act before long. Back in 1957, ADA was complaining that Congress lacked leadership. The stop-Johnson movement had begun.

Castro Has More Box Office Appeal Than Vice President

There was a behind-the-scenes controversial Prime Minister of our country fight between the three di-

Finally, the newspaper group agreed to permit the television networks to film the Castro speech for the American Society of Newspaper

Editors, which was in convention in Washington. The newspaper in the Nation's Capital in-diver Editors Society had placed a ban on the telecasting of the Castro speech. Radio and television people immediately charged the society of Newspaper Editors with an inconsistency, claiming that the ban was in direct conflict with the campaign being carried on by the newspapers for free access to the news.

This was somewhat embarrassing, because the newspapers have been waging a very splendid campaign against the suppression of news and information by many governmental agencies. It was obvious that something had to be done, so, according to the newspapers, radio broadcasters were offered an opportunity to air the speech. But none of them wanted to do it by radio; they wanted to do it by television so the American people could see and hear the that Castro's box office appeal has no association with his abilities or accomplishments. It is the pure result of the free advertising he has received through the advertising media in the United States, which seems to prove once more that it pays to advertise.

In any event, let us hope that news sources in this country, governmental and otherwise, will not be suppressed, nor will the media of bringing that information to the American public.

John Foster Dulles

The entire world was saddened last week by the announcement of the resignation of John Foster Du-lies, our Secretary of State. Although Dulles has pursued some foreign policies in many instances with which many Americans did not agree, his sincerity of purpose was never doubted by even the most skeptical. His loss to the Administration at this time will prove a heavy blow, but it is not expected that the foreign policy of this country will be changed because he has stepped down.

Those with whom Dulles has surrounded himself subscribe to the same school of thought as the Secretary, which is one of the main reasons they were appointed in the first place. Unless Eisenhower reaches outside of that circle to fill the job, it can be expected that our position with relation to international problems will continue as in the past.

The Mail Man

The mail man continues to bring heavy loads of letters complaining about government spending. Many of these are the result of campaigns which are being mounted

The English language dates from the middle of the fifth century. A member of the West

Teutonic branch of the Indo-

European family of languages,

English owes its beginning to the North Sea invaders who conquered the native Celts and settled on the island now called

England. As early as the ninth century it was called Engisc.

During the following centuries, vast changes in the language came about, including dropping of inflected endings in favor of simpler spellings.

by numerous organizations, telling the people to write their Congressman and express their views against too much public spending.

Whether the letters are prompted by suggestions on the part of an organization or by the individual thinking on the part of the person who feels that his voice should be heard, I am glad they are coming in. This is supposed to be a government that belongs to the people, and I sincerely hope it will continue to be just that. When it ceases to belong to the people, it will fall.

In order to keep the record straight, I would again point out as I have many times before, that as a long-time advocate of sharp reduction in government spending,

I am especially thankful for the grass roots uprising. It is only by this method that we can finally get the desired result.

Recently, a poem on the subject composed by a State Representative in Iowa came to my attention.

It was so appropriate that I want to pass it on to you.

"Blessings on thee, little man,

Barefoot boy with cheek of tan,

Trudging down a dusty lane.

With no thought of future pain.

You're our one and only bet

To help absorb the national debt.

Little man with cares so few,

We've a lot of faith in you.

Have your fun now while you can;

You may also be a barefoot

man."

Visitors

We were honored last week by a visit from two of the outstanding newspaper people of the country. 51st

Year

Wes Izzard and Tommy Thompson, who are known to all of you, came to Washington to attend the American Society of Newspaper

Editors meeting. Wes was accompanied by Mrs. Izzard. It was certainly nice to see them, and we are sure you will get a full report on the activities of that meeting when they return.

Mrs. Leland Diamond Hostess To Goodwill Home Demonstration Club

"Teas and Coffees" was the topic discussed at the Tuesday morning meeting of the Goodwill Home Demonstration Club held in the home of Mrs. Leland Diamond, 404 Lefors.

Mrs. Ray Frazier and Mrs. George M. Perkins were in charge of the program on serving of informal or semi-formal teas and coffees.

Their program brought out that all entertaining should be done to share the home and family hospitality and should be enjoyed by the hostesses, too. Do not attempt a more elaborate service than you can manage by yourself or with the help of friends, unless you have servants. Morning coffees are usually from ten until 12; are usually informal with invitations either oral or written.

It was further discussed that "Teas are usually served between four and five, but may be from three o'clock until five. A tea may be a very informal gathering of a few friends, or it may be an elaborate affair with a large number of guests. The latter is a semi-formal affair, which may take the place of a reception. The success of a tea depends upon the hospitality extended by the hostess. The personality of the hostess is expressed by the tea table. Everything pertaining to the tea table should be attractive and appropriate. The food served should be colorful and dainty rather than substantial.

To open the business meeting, the club prayer was led by the president, Mrs. Boyd Maule. It was announced that the next meeting will be with Mrs. Harry Dulany, Hoover, on April 21 at 9:30 a.m. Members are asked to meet at Mrs. A. P. Coombes' home at 9 a.m. and bring a craft to work on.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. A. P. Coombes, Boyd Maule, W. E. Autry, James Smith, Mrs. Leland Diamond, Gerald Walters, and a visitor Mrs. Jimmie Dulaney.

Mrs. Marshall Hardin Named To Head Up VFW Auxiliary Activities

New auxiliary officers of the VFW were installed by Mrs. Helen Mose, of Borger, president of District 9, at a meeting held in the VFW Hall. To serve during the coming year are Mrs. Marshall Hardin, President; D. A. Stuart, junior vice president; Bennie Carter, treasurer; Jess Beard, secretary; George Benham, conductor; Frank Yates, guard; Frank Hudgel, Veron Stuckey and Carl Wright, trustees; William Leonard, musician; Elijah Savage, historian; John Brandon, patriotic instructor; O. M. Tigart, flag bearer; O. F. Kreimeyer, banner bearer; Larry Parsley, Stuckey and Wright, color bearers. Mrs. D. A. Stuart, auxiliary conductress, assisted Mrs. Mose with the installation.

Mrs. William Leonard, current VFW president, presided during the business meeting at Honor 833 E. Albert on April 21 at 8 p.m. Roll requirements were met by p.m.

LITTLE LIZ

A smart girl never shows her hand until she has a man ready to eat out of it.

Having guests this weekend? It can be relaxing or a rat race. It all depends on the hostess' attitude toward help from her guests. Most expect to lend a hand. Let them. Everyone will be happier.

Family servings of food may encourage a child to eat more. A tiny tot may be overwhelmed by an adult-size portion. Let him eat the small portions first, then ask for more.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is I married a man with too many sisters. I held a good position before I was married, and didn't exactly come out of the hills, but my husband's sisters think they know everything and are very free with their advice. One tells me how to dress, another one tells me how to wear my hair, and another tells me how to arrange my furniture. I have heard from all of them that I am not "the type" they expected. They mean by this? Is there any way I can be friendly with them without letting them run my life?

TOO MUCH ADVICE
Dear Abby: Be friendly, agreeable and willing to listen to their advice — and then do exactly as you please.

DEAR ABBY: I am a housekeeper in a Catholic Rectory. I have always spoken of the kitchen there as "my" kitchen and when I speak to others I always refer to the parish as "my" parish. I was told by a friend that I should not refer to the kitchen as "my" kitchen or the parish as "my" parish. Am I right or wrong?

Dear Criticized: You certainly have a right to refer to the kitchen

Matter of FACT

From the time of the discovery of America to the end of 1944, the world produced about 1,536,000,000 ounces of gold—the equivalent of 61,000 short tons. This quantity of metal would make a cube 45 feet on each side. About one-half of this gold is now being held by the United States Treasury.

I'M SO POPULAR THIS YEAR I'M WRITING MY DIARY IN SHORTHAND

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago I married a widow. I bought a home, furnished it completely with new gas furnace, automatic washer, dryer, electric range, refrigerator and TV. I have to give her my check uncashed or she storms. On my day off I scrub and wax the floors and woodwork. I wash the Venetian blinds, vacuum rugs and polish furniture. I take care of the lawn and garden. I own a car, but she never lets me drive it. I carry my lunch and walk to work. I get $3 a week allowance for gum and cigarettes. You hear about rights for women. Are there no rights for men? I wish you could help me.

NO RIGHTS
Dear Abby: There are "rights" for men — but only for those who are man enough to demand them. A little less "wishbone" and a little more backbone.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem with my boyfriend. We go to the same school and he brings me home when school is out. I like him a lot but when we get home, I have trouble getting him to leave. I'm afraid people will start talking about us if he keeps coming in and staying so long. Please tell me how to tell him to leave without making him mad.

WHAT TO SAY
Dear Abby: It isn't necessary to tell him to go — simply say, "I wish you could stay longer but I have so much to do that I must start now."

CONFIDENTIAL TO M. J.: People are usually "down on" the things they aren't "up on." Study the subjects from all angles.

Are you getting along with your parents? Get ABBY's booklet, "What Every Teenager Wants to Know." Send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, care of this newspaper.

ROCKET MAN TO BE LAUNCHED FROM ATLANTIC MISSILE RANGE

By RICHARD F. ROPER
United Press International
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—When America's first human rocket passenger blasts off in about a year, the international spotlight will focus on what missile men here call "the world's most expensive laboratory."

This is the 485-million-dollar Atlantic Missile Range, which begins with this once-barren sandpit on the mid-Florida East Coast and extends 5,000 miles southeast to the British crown colony of Ascension Island.

The rocket passenger, one of the seven astronauts named recently, will be hurtled about 200 miles over the ocean in a prelude to Project Mercury, the nation's plan to put a man into orbit around the earth.

But although he will be highly trained for his momentous trip, the rocket voyager will play a relatively inactive part. After the blastoff, the experiment will be entirely in the hands of the men who operate the Atlantic Missile range.

Plans Are Secret

Their job can be divided roughly into three phases: determining where the speeding rocket is during every second it is in flight, retrieving its nose cone from the ocean, and interpreting data on what happened to the passenger and the nose cone in flight.

The Air Force disclosed to United Press International that preparations already have started for the first man's flight aboard a rocket. The plans are secret, but a rundown on the range as it is now being operated should give some idea of the enormity of the job.

Between the Cape and Ascension are 11 other stations in the intricate tracking and data-receiving network.

These are Jupiter, Fla., about 80 miles north of Miami; Grand Bahama, Eleuthera, San Salvador, Mayaguana, and Grand Turk, islands in the Bahamas; the Dominican Republic; Puerto Rico; St. Lucia and Antigua in the British West Indies; and Fernando de Noronha, 250 miles off the coast of Brazil, which owns the island.

Ships Are Used

A glance at the map will show two big gaps in this chain of data-gathering stations: the 2,236-mile span from St. Lucia to Fernando de Noronha, and the 1,225-mile jump from Fernando to Ascension. To plug these gaps, the Air Force uses specially-instrumented "ocean range vessels."

Manning the thousands of "little black boxes"—the tracking and data-gathering instruments at each station—are nearly 2,000 men all but a handful of them civilians employed by the government.

The Eleuthera station in the Bahamas is typical of others in the group. About 140 full-time technicians and maintenance personnel are assigned there. These men work for the Radio Corp. of America (RCA), which is in charge of all instrumentation on the range, and Pan American World Airways, the range "housekeeper."

All aspects of a missile's flight performance must be measured. The Air Force does this job with high-speed cameras, theodolites (instruments which measure horizontal and vertical angles), and a highly complex device known as the azusa system. The azusa is used to measure the position of a ballistic missile traveling 15,000 miles an hour at an altitude of several hundred miles.

However, the Air Force relies primarily on telemetry for information on what is happening inside a missile during flight. The telemetry devices are "black boxes" with probes extending to all parts of the missile. Similar boxes presumably will be attached to the rocket passenger.

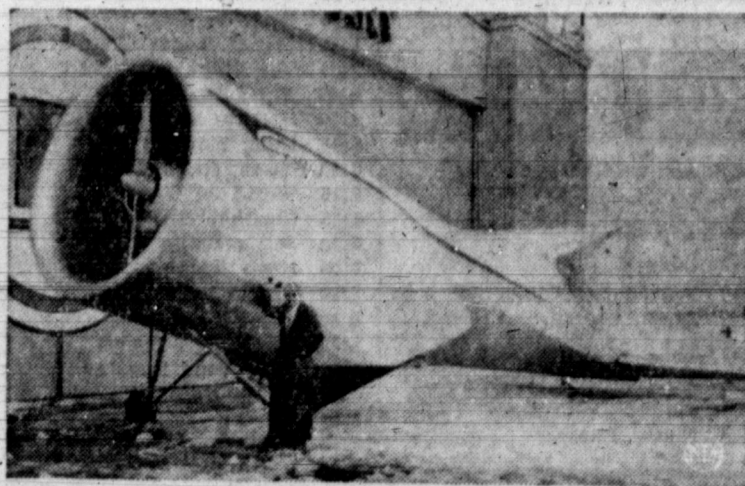

When the missile men wish to recover a nose cone hurled over the ocean, the operation becomes even more complex. Several C-54 airplanes are dispatched from Patrick Air Force Base, just south of the Cape, to the impact area where they rendezvous with ocean range vessels before the shoot.

The idea is for the ships and planes to spot the cone, glowing fiery red with atmospheric friction, as it plunges back to earth from space. The planes then guide the ships to the area where the cone fell. This plan, or a variation of it, is expected to be used to recover the first human rocket passenger.

The radioed telemetry information, which continues through impact of the missile's nose cone, is taken down on tape recorders through huge antennas at the downrange stations by ships and in some cases by specially-instrumented airplanes.

FAMED TREE FALLS

FAIRHOPE, Ala. (UPI) — An old magnolia tree which legend says was used as a post office by Andrew Jackson was blown down by high winds Monday. Jackson supposedly used the tree during his campaigns of the War of 1812.

THE GAUNTLET IS DOWN — Eighteen members of Tau Delta Phi fraternity at New York University, having outgrown telephone-booth stuffing, cram themselves into a small European car. They immediately issued a challenge to their fraternity brothers at 29 schools across the nation to try to beat their mark.Adrenal Glands May Hold Secret Of Health, HappinessScience Today
By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new theoretical basis for making people healthy and happy has been broached to medical science. The brochure said the secrets of how to bring about that desirable end may lie in exercises for both mind and body which build up the adrenal glands.

Dr. Kurt Schutz, a long-time student of what physical exertions can do for the whole body, reminded a medical audience that Greek physicians 2,000 years ago evidently did what no present-day physician can do. They made athletic champions out of sickly people by prescribing gymnastics.

Those Greeks had no idea of adrenal glands which look a little like mushrooms as they perch above the kidneys, but they apparently stumbled upon something useful. Modern medical science should find out how today's people can also stimulate their own adrenals in a healthful way.

Increase Secretions
Schutz continued by reminding of how the adrenals protect the body against stress—and illness is stress, too. When stress appears, they increase their secretions of hormones and those potent chemical substances prepare the body's chemistry to deal with stress without any harm coming to the body.

Extreme stress can produce shock in the adrenals. The chemical balances among their secreted hormones are threatened which, in turn, threaten the body's defenses. In that case, "counter-shock" secretions are set off and all is well although the glands are weakened in the process. From this, Schutz said, can stem all manner of diseases.

Muscular exercises, he continued, causes very little shock to the adrenals—but does set off the "counter-shock" chemistry. The result is that chemical balances are restored to adrenals which had become unbalanced by too much shocking stress and too little counter-shocking stress such as exercise and feeling emotions of anger.

Anger Relieves Asthma Schutz was precise in pointing out that emotions are stressors to the adrenals, as well as disease processes. He said one of his asthmatic patients noticed that whenever he angered, his asthma was relieved. Presumably anger increased the secretions of the particular adrenal hormones which supervise the body's production and utilization of energy and for a short time restored lost balances.

Hydrocortisone is the principal one of these hormones. It is given from the outside to relieve many ailments, such as arthritis, often with spectacular results. But the results never last. Schutz suggested the good results came because the outside hydrocortisone restored the lost balances, but meanwhile the glands shut down their own production of hydrocortisone, and the balances were again lost.

Now, if medical science could find out what physical exercises and what emotions were "opimal" for perfect function of the adrenals, people could be taught to "train" their adrenals by exercising correctly and conditioning their emotions into channels that would build up rather than tear down those glands.

SECURE FUTURE FOR KISSING BUG—The "kissing bug" (Rhodnius prolixus), a small blood-sucking South American insect, right, has little to fear from atomic radiation. Two Atomic Energy of Canada scientists, Dr. W. F. Baldwin, left, and T. N. Salthouse, report that the bug can withstand 200 to 300 times the amount of radiation sufficient to kill a man. "Bugs like these would be good candidates to inherit the earth after an atomic war," Dr. Baldwin says. The biologists are experimenting with the insects at Chalk River, Ontario.

Matter of FACT

Not until 1865 did coal mining become an important industry in the United States, but today the U.S. is the world's largest coal producer. The amount of coal used per capita rose from less than a ton in 1870 to about four tons in 1946. Some of the biggest cities — Pittsburgh, Birmingham and Cleveland in particular — have developed because of enormous coal deposits in nearby regions.

Pampa Stops District Leader

Yager Bats in Winning Run In 4-3 Victory Over Borger

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

Keith Yager is a real believer in the do-it-yourself method. In the last two games he's pitched, the Pampa Harvester southpaw has done everything but umpire and sell peanuts.

Last Friday against Lubbock, he hurled a four-hitter shutout and scored the only run of the game. Then Tuesday, against Borger, he allowed no earned runs in eight innings, and got the only two Pampa RBI's of the game, as the Harvester defeated the Bulldogs, 4-3.

By winning, Pampa moved into a four-way tie for second place, only a half-game behind Borger. The two teams which had been tied for second, Amarillo and Lubbock, both lost Tuesday. Monterey defeated Lubbock, 11-9, and Palo Duro stopped the Sandies, 5-1. In the other district game, Tascosa routed Plainview, 12-2.

Borger now has a 4-2 mark, while Pampa, Amarillo, Lubbock, and Monterey are all 4-3. Palo Duro is 3-3, Tascosa 3-4, and Plainview 1-6.

Yager drove in Keith Gregory from third base in the sixth inning with the tying run, then pushed Terry Haralson across from third with the winning run in the eighth frame, of a game which had been scheduled to go seven innings. And he did it all while going 0-for-3 at the plate.

Pampa loaded the bases in the sixth inning when Gary Willis hit a ground single to center. Gary Hill got an infield hit to the right of first base, and DeWayne Glover walked. Wendell Ridgway hit a hard grounder to pitcher Dick Guthrie, and Guthrie bobbled the ball, allowing Willis to score.

Yager then slapped a grounder to shortstop Isaac Robinson. Robinson's only play was to second base, and Keith Gregory—who had gone in to run for Hill—scored from third.

Pampa Scoring

In the eighth, Terry Joe Haralson singled, stole second, and went to third on an error by Robinson. Yager tapped a roller 20 feet or so in front of the plate, and Haralson raced into tally the deciding run.

Haralson also scored the first Pampa run, without any help from anyone—except a couple of Borger players. He singled down the third base line, stole second and went to third when the catcher overthrew the base, and came in home when the third baseman allowed the throw from center field to go into the Pampa dugout.

Pampa threatened seriously in two other innings, the first and seventh. They loaded the bases in the first as Ruben Strickland was hit by the pitcher, Bobby Stephens, and Hill reached first on a boot by Robinson. But DeWayne Glover fled out to end the threat. In the seventh, Larry Stroud singled with none out; then Bobby Stephens beat out a bunt, despite the fact that everyone in the ball park knew he would probably lay one down in an attempt to sacrifice Stroud to second. However, Guthrie bore down to get the next three hitters.

Borger Scoring
Borger scored two unearned runs in the fourth on a single by Robinson, a walk to third baseman Joe Kidd, a sacrifice grounder by first baseman Bob McMurry, an overthrow of second by Haralson, and a single by right fielder Larry Dyke.

The 'Dons got their third run in the fourth on two errors by Ridgway, a sacrifice, and a miscue by Stroud.

Yager worked himself out of trouble in the first, second, and eighth innings. In the first, Tom Lindsay doubled and went to third on a passed ball, with no one out. In the second, Bill Rash doubled, with no one out, and went to third on a wild pitch. Yager got the next three hitters on files or strikeouts, in both cases.

In the eighth, Rash reached second on a two-base throwing error, then moved to third on an infield single, with two out. But Yager forced Dyke to pop up, ending the inning.

Tuesday's game was played in very chilly weather, which apparently numbed the reflexes of players on both teams. Each squad made five errors afield, but the mental mistakes by members of both squads were worse than the physical miscues.

Among the mental mistakes made in Tuesday's game were holding a hit ball, with three runners going, and failing to make any play; throwing to the wrong base; and stepping off second base after being called safe.

Cleveland Indians On Hitting Warpath

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

Frank Lane does a lot of shouting for the Cleveland Indians but even he's drowned out by the thunder of the Tribe's booming offense.

And you'll have to excuse Manager Joe Gordon, the ex-Yankee great, if he's confused because nobody told him his Indians would remind him of the old "Murdere's Row" teams for which he played. For that's exactly what they're doing with seven victories in eight games and a whopping average of 6.6 runs scored per game.

The Indians piled up their biggest score of the season Tuesday night when they crushed the Detroit Tigers, 14-1, and retained a two-game grip on first place in the American League. Minnie Mi-noso paced the 16-hit assault by driving in six runs, with two homers and three singles and Cal McLish pitched a steady six-hitter for his second straight win.

Mantle Hits 25th
Mickey Mantle hit the 25th homer of his career as the Yankees whipped the Washington Senators, 11-4, the Kansas City Athletics beat the Chicago White Sox, 8-3, and the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Boston Red Sox, 5-2, in other AL activity. The Milwaukee Braves made it five wins in six decisions with a 7-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Glen Hobbie pitched a one-hitter as the Chicago Cubs topped the St. Louis Cardinals, 1-0, and Don Demeter's three two-run homers gave the Los Angeles Dodgers an 11-inning 9-7 win over the San Francisco Giants in National League games. Mantle hit a booming triple in addition to his first homer of the season, Hank Bauer homered and Bill Skowron walloped a two-run triple for the big blows in the Yankees' 18-hit attack.

Bob Grim pitched a four-hitter for the Athletics who dealt the White Sox their fourth loss in their last five games.

Storm Spills No-Hitter
Batterymates Hoyt Wilhelm and Gus Triandos were the whole show for the Orioles, Wilhelm stopping the Red Sox on eight hits with his dazzling "knuckler" and Triandos driving in all five Baltimore runs with a grand slam and a solo homer.

Warren Spahn chalked up the 24th victory of his career and beat the Reds for the 51st time despite a brilliant performance by rookie Vada Pinson who drove in all Cincinnati's runs with a homer, double and single. Hank Aaron raised his league-leading batting average to .567 with a triple, double and single.

Hobbie, a 6-3, 200-pound right-hander who'll celebrate his 23rd birthday on Friday, retired the first 20 Cardinals before pinch-hitter Stan Musial broke up the bid for a perfect game with a two-out single in the seventh.

Demeter hit two-run homers in the third, fourth and 11th innings and Don Zimmer walloped a three-run homer to account for all the Dodgers' runs in their three-hour and 47-minute marathon with the Giants.

COMPETES IN RACE
MILAN, Italy (UPI)—Juan Manuel Borde, described by former world champion racing driver Juan Manuel Fangio as his own "fear apparent," will compete in the Junior Grand Prix of Monaco May 8.

Holladay to Coach Colorado City

OTIS HOLLADAY
... to leave White Deer

Otis Holladay, who coached the White Deer Bucks to their first Texas class A football championship last season, has resigned to take the position of athletic director and football coach at Colorado City.

Holladay won the 1956 state championship with a squad which wasn't even favored to get out of its own district. Later was favored to win District 2-A, but the Bucks demolished the Pirates, 36-6, then breezed on to the state title, with stiff opposition from only McLean and Mason.

Holladay's Bucks won 14 of 15 games on the way to their state crown. The only blemish on their record was a 6-8 early season tie with the powerful Stinson Rattlers, in a non-district contest.

Holladay is the second White Deer coach to resign this year. Sam Christy, basketball coach and football line coach, quit earlier this year, and is considering several offers from other schools.

Bob Moore, football B. I. A. A. coach and pilot of the district champion girls' basketball team, is the only remaining holdover from the staff which shaped the 1956 state champion grid squad.

"I have quite a rebuilding job to do at Colorado City," Holladay told the Daily News in an interview Tuesday. "They had a 1-8-1 record in football last year."

The fans there seem to be solidly behind me. They want to have a good football program."

The former White Deer mentor said that the thing which impressed him most about Colorado City was the football tradition. "When a team has a winning tradition, it usually isn't too hard to bring them out of a slump," Holladay declared.

Rivers, Webb In TV Fight

CHICAGO (UPI)—Nearl Rivers, an unranked middleweight, will meet "the best fighter I've ever faced" for a second time on television tonight and he was a 5 to 2 underdog against Spider Webb.

Webb, the third-ranked 160-pounder, will be trying for his 37th win in 41 fights.

"He never hurt me when we fought before," Rivers said. "But he punches fast and he's about the best I've ever fought. Better than Gene Fulmer or anybody else."

The fight had major importance for Rivers since he believed that by winning he would replace Webb as No. 3 among the middleweights.

Webb handed Rivers one of his nine losses with a 10-round decision in their first fight in New York on Feb. 15, 1957.

Rivers has knocked out 27 opponents in earning 45 decisions. Webb has finished 18 opponents for exactly half of his victories.

Mantle Gets 250

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Slugger Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees is the 26th player in major league history to reach the 250-homer mark during his career.

Dad Can't Read

They say we need more scientists and engineers in our competition with the Russians. Maybe we just need more people who can read.

This year one of our most popular states decided not to issue new metal automobile license plates, but simply to send out small paper tabs backed with a plastic cement. Once attached, they can't be removed without ruining them.

The state gave the whole idea plenty of publicity. And its instructions to motorists were simple. Clean the license plate, peel off a thin layer of paper covering adhesive, don't use water, press the tab hard against the plate on the left hand side just below the hole. Well, now, let's see what's happened.

A few thousand people threw the tabs away, thinking they were of no value. Hundreds of others sent them back and wrote asking for their "new plates."

Untold numbers wrote or telephoned saying the tabs "curled up when the water was applied." Many others attached them in the wrong place and then destroyed them trying to get them off.

What's this about keeping abreast of the Russians?

The Twig Is Bent

One of the unhappy commonplaces of this time is to walk through a lovely city park and see here and there young trees sawed off at waist height by juvenile vandals.

But a project is now under way in Philadelphia (which incidentally does a very good job of catching criminals young and old) to put some of these misdirected youthful energies to more constructive purpose.

Ironically, the thing got started in the backwash of a particularly shocking crime in which a group of young hoodlums assaulted and killed a Korean student last year at the University of Pennsylvania.

The compassionate attitude of the victim's parents toward the culprits stirred others. At length some people who felt that play and more play was not the answer to youthful idleness came up with a plan.

It is merely to put sizable numbers of young offenders to work in the city's biggest park, not hacking mischievously at trees but sensibly pruning and trimming and otherwise helping to beautify the park grounds. Although some 250 youths may be enlisted.

Not a totally new idea, but one that deserves more trials like Philadelphia is about to give. Boys who are steadily busy don't have much time for malicious mischief.

Now, National Tea

We'd like to climb aboard and state our position. We are taking the side of the National Tea Company in its current legal battle with the Federal Trade Commission.

It seems that in the latter days of March, the Federal Trade Commission unrolled its lengthy "sophisticated" protocol and slapped the National Tea Company, with a complaint, in which it accused the grocery firm of violating the Clayton Act. The charge springs from the fact that the NTC has been expanding in the last seven years by picking up various independent or small chain groceries and adding them to the NTC chain.

Another charge made by the Federal Trade Commission is that National Tea is controlled by three Canadian corporations. The company's annual proxy statement as of January 26 this year, reveals that Loblaw Groceries Co., a Canadian firm, did own 34.54 percent of the outstanding common shares of stock. This is a major interest but it most certainly does not represent control.

And since when was it a crime for a Canadian company to invest in American enterprises? If such a practice is a crime, then what of the enormous investments in Canadian enterprises made by Americans? Actually, this exchange of capital across the border is one of the main reasons why Canada and America have always been good neighbors.

Actually, the firm is owned by 7,500 stockholders, including a Canadian firm. It employs gainfully some 22,000 people and serves approximately 4,000,000 customers. None of these facts warrants either a criminal or a civil action.

The Federal Trade Commission and similar governmental agencies have been making it rough on successful businesses ever since the socialist cabal took control of the federal government back in the 30's.

Let's cite one more fact to refute this nefarious charge of monopoly.

In 1958, NTC was operating 922 stores in 18 states, primarily in the mid-West. That same year there were operating in the nation 296,100 food stores. Therefore, NTC actually has 3.10 of 1 percent of the total food outlets in the nation. And this is monopoly?

We now know that one of the National Tea Company's principal operations of some of our government agencies, including the Federal Trade Commission, scattered thru six states, is to spend our money in lavish legal actions designed to injure the taxpayers and the producers.

We are certainly in the corner with the National Tea Company and we wish it every success as it fights the iniquitous action taken against it.

The National Tea Company president has a right to be upset. The practices of his firm are the identical practices employed by 36 other major food chains, yet only his firm was singled out for legal action. Additionally, NTC has met the "antitrust" laws during the years it is accused of breaking the laws, as always.

So let's take a closer look at the crimes NTC is alleged to have committed.

From 1954 thru 1957, National Tea Company acquired six small regional food chains totaling 165 stores scattered thru six states. During this same period of time, the 36 major competitors of NTC acquired a total of 88 grocery firms with their more numerous outlets.

National Tea is charged with being a monopoly. This is, of course, totally untrue. Monopolies against it.

As a matter of fact, the legal brief which was placed on the desk of National Tea Company President H. V. McNamara, was so lengthy and filled with such obfuscations that McNamara commented: "These charges are nothing short of ridiculous. The NTC complaint of six pages reads like a publicity release instead of a legal government document, and it contained considerable information, allegations, and statements, which were completely unfounded and untrue, and which could be construed as unfavorable and damaging publicity emanating from the FTC offices."

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOLMES

Property Rights Are Absolute, Not Relative

In the last issue I was quoting from Murray N. Rothbard's article "Human Rights Are Property Rights" as published in the April "Freeman" magazine.

He closes his article under the heading of "Property Rights Are Clear."

I think he does a splendid job in showing the error of Justice Holmes' famous dictum that there is no right to cry "fire" in a crowded theater, implying by that that there are no eternal rights. But here is the way Rothbard explains it:

Property Rights Are Clear

"In short, there are no human rights that are separable from property rights. The human right of free speech is only the property right to hire an assembly hall from the owners, to speak to those who are willing to listen, to buy materials and then print leaflets or books and sell them to those who are willing to buy. There is no extra right of free speech beyond the property rights that we can enumerate in any given case. In all seeming cases of human rights, then, the proper course is to find and identify the property rights involved. And this procedure will resolve any apparent conflicts of right; for property rights are always precise and legally recognizable."

"Consider the classic case where 'freedom of speech' is supposed to be curbed in 'the public interest': Justice Holmes' famous dictum that there is no right to cry 'fire' in a crowded theater. Holmes and his followers have used this illustration over and over to proclaim the supposed necessity for rights to be relative and tentative rather than absolute and eternal."

"But let us further analyze this problem. The fellow who brings on a riot by falsely shouting 'fire' in a crowded theater is, necessarily, either the owner of the theater or a paying patron. If he is the owner, then he has committed fraud on his customers. He has taken their money in exchange for a promise to put on a movie; and now, instead, he disrupts the movie by falsely shouting 'fire' and breaking up the performance. He has thus violated this contractual obligation, in violation of the property rights of his patrons."

"Suppose, on the other hand, that the shouter is a patron and not the owner. In that case, he is violating the owner's property right. As a guest, he has access to the property on certain terms, including an obligation not to violate the owner's property or disrupt the performance that the owner is putting on for his guests. His malicious act, therefore, violates the property rights of the theater owner and of all other patrons."

"If we consider the problem in terms of property rights instead of the vague and woolly human right of free speech, we see that there is no conflict and no necessity of limiting or abridging rights in any way. The rights of the individual are still eternal and absolute; but they are property rights. The fellow who maliciously cries 'fire' in a crowded theater is a criminal, not because his so-called right of free speech must be pragmatically restricted on behalf of the 'public good'; he is a criminal because he has clearly and obviously violated the property right of another person."

'GOOD' SOCIETY CANNOT BE WITHOUT 'GOOD' MEN

Frank Chodorov, on the last page of the "Freeman" magazine, explains very clearly that we can never get a good society by running the government to get it. It will come from the individual. This is the way he puts it:

"Reform invariably rests its case on the good will, intelligence, and selflessness of men who, invested with the power to do so, will put the reform into operation. And the lesson of history is that power is never so used. Never. I am convinced, on the other hand, that all of the evils of which these honest people complain can be traced to the misuse of power, and are therefore inclined to distrust political power of any kind. The only 'constructive' idea that I can in all conscience advance, then, is that the individual put his trust in himself, not in power; that he seek to better his understanding and lift his values to a higher and still higher level; that he assume responsibility for his behavior and not shift his responsibility to committees, organizations, and above all, a super-personal State. Such reforms as are necessary will come of themselves when, or if, men act as intelligent and responsible human beings. There cannot be a 'good' society until there are 'good' men."

NEW FALLOUT DANGER

You will soon be hearing a lot about another radioactive menace - Strontium-90. Its slightly bigger brother, strontium-90, is a fallout consequence of nuclear explosions. But because S-90 dissipates more quickly, it has been deemed less dangerous than S-90, and little has been said about it outside of scientific circles.

But it is now to receive official attention from the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee. At its public hearings, starting May 5, on the fallout problem, there will be considerable testimony about the heretofore little-noticed S-90.

Reasons for this significant change in official attitude are: -Scientist have now definitely established that while Strontium-90 has a "half life" of only 54 days, it has a hemisphere-wide fallout in far heavier concentrations than longer-lived Strontium-90.

Nuclear explosions produce 160 times as much Strontium-90 as S-90. Concentrations of S-90 in milk have been found to be as much as 25 times greater than Strontium-90. While S-89 and S-90 are chemically identical, the latter has a "half life" of more than 25 years. But because of the more rapid descent to earth of S-89, scientists now consider it a serious new fallout danger.

In order to get the full picture on this, the Joint Committee is preparing to ask experts numerous questions about this grave problem.

The two chambers would probably send the issue to conference, between committees appointed for this purpose. The usual practice of such conferences is to compromise by "splitting the difference." Whether that will be done in this instance remains to be seen.

Chief reason for this uncertainty is that President Eisenhower, against any more low-cost housing.

Low Cost Housing Program Headed For Skids In House

WASHINGTON — The ten-year, old low-cost housing program is headed for the skids in the House this week.

Two separate backstage polls, in the last several days, indicate that a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats has the votes to kill the low-cost portion of the $2.125 billion housing bill which the House is about to consider.

This threatened defeat would throw the House into a head-on clash with the Senate, which passed a new low-cost housing program in February.

Final outcome of such a political-loaded wrangle is conjectural. The two chambers would probably send the issue to conference, between committees appointed for this purpose. The usual practice of such conferences is to compromise by "splitting the difference."

Whether that will be done in this instance remains to be seen. Chief reason for this uncertainty is that President Eisenhower, against any more low-cost housing.

In the $1.6 billion housing plan he recommended to Congress, no low-cost housing was included. And the President has let it be known he will veto such legislation if Congress enacts it.

Despite this warning, top Democratic leaders of the House and Senate not only approved more low-cost housing, but greatly increased his overall housing total. In the Senate they put through a bill providing for $2.675 billion in housing expenditures, with 81,000 low-cost units, 35,000 new ones, and extended authorization of 16,000 units voted last year but not yet committed. This Democratic measure was adopted by a straight party vote of 60 to 28, with 10 senators abstaining.

When this Senate bill, exceeding the President's proposals by $1.075 billion, reached the House, Democratic leaders there decided it was advisable to take a different tack.

Under this strategy, the House Banking Committee reported out a $2.125 billion measure, with 35,000 low-cost housing units a year for four years - 140,000 in all.

That's the bill the House is slated to act on this week. House Democratic leaders are aware they have their work cut out for them putting this measure through the chamber.

House Leader John McCormack, is sternly enjoining all Democratic members to be present when the heavily-embattled legislation is voted on.

McCormack is warning that unless all its supporters are on hand it is certain to be drastically slashed by the powerful Republican-Southern coalition.

Approximately 30,000 low-cost housing units have been built since Congress passed the first bill in 1949. Another 100,000 are in process of construction. The original measure was sponsored by Senator Allen Ellender (D., La.) and the late Senator Robert Taft (R., O.) and Robert Wagner (D., N.Y.).

You will soon be hearing a lot about another radioactive menace - Strontium-90. Its slightly bigger brother, strontium-90, is a fallout consequence of nuclear explosions. But because S-90 dissipates more quickly, it has been deemed less dangerous than S-90, and little has been said about it outside of scientific circles.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK—There is only one title for this true story: The Old Salt. As you will see.

Our bays, inlets and estuaries in and around New York are dotted with small, modest and unpretentious yacht clubs. Boat clubs would be better. Most of them cannot claim to have a yachting membership. But the members are ardent boatmen, fierce in their allegiance to the ways of the sea. Their boats are kept polished and immaculate, the engines on the powered models clean and wiped. No oily bludge in these boats. Pride is the instrument that moves all.

Each year, as spring comes burgeoning, the men and women flock to the yards and prepare their boats and in every club there is always one who knows all there is to know. Did you hear of a new anti-fouling paint for a boat bottom? He has the information. He knows. He may never even have heard of this new paint, but he can tell you all about it, inventing as he goes. Is there a discussion at the bar over relative merits of nylon as against cotton or hemp lines? He is the arbiter, the judge. He has the facts. They may be a little awry, if examined closely, but he speaks with such authority. His boat clothes are the newest and most resplendent. His jackets are proper Navy blue with beautifully braided buttons. His caps have a rake to them, a rake denied all other men no matter how they try to achieve this visual flow in headgear. His work pants are nicely blued out, never look new and pressed. They have a salty, seaworthy look of age and use. He is Mr. Perfection.

Such a one has been the harassment and delight of a club I know which sends its vanished little fleet out onto the Sound each weekend. He knew all about types of spark plugs, what was the best fire extinguisher, how to prepare a boat for minute Coast Guard inspection and licensing. He knew everything. He has a sea-going walk, sea-going talk and sea-going manner, belying a city man who boated weekends.

Naturally, in a closely knit organization like a small yacht club, almost everyone knew about almost everyone else. What did they for a living, what commuting train they habitually took, how much mortgage they were carrying and how soon they paid the plumber. What work a man did always was known. But not our boy. We knew next to nothing about him and he always was open about himself.

"Jack, what's your line?" someone would say, while scraping paint, and Jack wouldn't even look up from his sandpaper, as he answered easily and without effort: "I write for a few magazines." Or someone at the bar would say, "Jack, what's your business?" And Jack wouldn't even have to put down his glass as he glibly said: "I have a little thing in the entertainment line going for me."

Once, a visitor from New Jersey, a warm-hearted, open-hearted sort of stranger, said: "Jack, you know a lot about the market, you in the Street? Brokerage?" And Jack, looking rope on a deck, didn't even look up as he chuckled: "Something like that."

For Jack you could always say that he had an unimpeachable hand in the money department. His boat wasn't the costliest, its equipment not the newest. But it represented a fair investment and, at the bar, he always came to law when his round was due. He'd sign the bill for his round without hesitation or flourish. Just a natural, easy thing to do. When a sum was put together at Christmas to give gratuities to the help, Jack always reached down for his share without even talking about it. He'd put out his $10 bill and say, "If things are a little short at addition time, let me know."

Nine members were on the train the other morning. We had just got on and hadn't opened our papers yet. They were folded, commuter fashion, under our right arms. We got into the smoker and found seats and nodded the ancient sign of "Don't bother me, I want to read." And then we read.

Good old Jack was in the papers. Every one of them. And he'd been almost truthful when he said he was in the entertainment line. There he was, some even had his picture. He had been indicted by a grand jury as the chief operator in a nation-wide ring publishing and selling printed and photographic pornography. Dirty books, dirty pictures—salty stuff.

The Old Salt finally was found out.

attention. It is therefore up to anyone who has pus in the urine, or any other suspicious symptom, to act promptly.

The lining of the wall of the urinary bladder becomes inflamed, swollen and red. If this is allowed to go on too long the wall of the bladder may become thickened, its capacity lessened, and a state of chronic difficulty may go on for years.

Most cases of cystitis are caused by germs, though chemicals or other irritating substances can also bring it on. Now, however, thanks to the many preparations which attack germs, the treatment of most forms of cystitis (if found early) is more effective and more rapid than it used to be.

Moreover, the use of an ingenious instrument, called the cystoscope, makes it possible to look into the bladder and tell quite accurately what is wrong and just what part of the bladder is involved.
