Prosperous New Year For Nation Is Forecast By Experts

Marked Trend To Recovery Being Noted

More Than Half Of Ground Lost In Recession Years Now Has Been Regained

BY FRED BAILEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 —The government's chief economists forecast a prosperous new year for the nation today in a year-end survey of business conditions.

The bureau of agricultural economics, which charts trends in industrial as well as agricultural production and consumption, said prospects were good for continued recovery. The fall pick-up in industrial production and consumer demand recovered more than half of the ground lost in the 1937-38 recession, its survey said.

Building Shows Gain

The bureau reported a "marked pickup" in building activity and substantial increases in steel, automobile and textile production. Factory payrolls have increased and unemployment has decreased according to Works Progress administration and American Federation of Labor reports.

"Consumer purchasing power increased materially in recent months," the bureau said, "and some additional improvement is in prospect. However, no sensationally rapid advance should be expected in the near future.

Lost Ground Recovered

"The rise in industrial production that began last summer has continued for six months, and considerably more than half of the ground lost during the recession has been recovered."

Industrial production in November was above the 1923-25 average, according to latest reports. The increase from the low point of last summer was said to be due principally to increases in consumer goods.

The bureau said that steel inventories have been built up and that the volume of output in iron and steel may decline some, although a resumption of purchases by automobile manufacturers and new buying by railroads and the construction industry should prevent any sharp drop.

Demand To Improve

"It is probable that there will be continued improvement in consumer demand during the next few months, even if there is no additional increase in industrial activity," the bureau said.

"General improvement in business will result in the gradual resumption of plans for the rehabilitation of industrial plants and equipment, with a consequent increase in employment.

"Further increases in spending for

Attorneys To Have Biggest Voice In New Legislature

BY WILLIAM E. KEYS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Dec. 29.—As usual, lawyers will have the biggest voice—at least physically—in both branches of the 46th legislature which convenes Jan. 10.

Of the total membership of 181 far more than half are attorneys. Lawyers hold a big majority in the senate, 27 out of a total membership of 31, and there are 69 among the house's 150 members.

Directory Is Compiled

This and other tidbits of information, such as the fact the house will include a blacksmith, a minister and a chiropractor, is gleaned from a directory compiled by James Wiginton, assistant chief clerk of the house.

Pretty nearly everyone learned it soon after the elections but it might be added here two women will have a hand in making the state's new laws.

Both members of the house, they are Mrs. Neveille H. Colson of Navasota, a student, and Margaret Harris Gordon of Waco, a lawyer. They are the first women members since the 44th legislature.

Others Are Included

Wiginton's booklet reveals the senate, outside of its 27 lawyers, will include a ranchman, an oil man, a publisher and a banker.

In the house there are many more professions, trades and businesses represented. However, some member have none. They simply listed themselves as "retired."

Farmers and ranchmen, whose combined forces number 23, compose the second biggest group.

There are eight teachers and as many students, most of the latter law students. Salesmen rank next at five but are hard pressed by the

Dramatic Effort Is Made To Save Man's Life But He Just Didn't Need Help

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 29. (U.P.)—Police made a dramatic effort to save the life of an intoxicated transient last night, when he admitted he had consumed a pint of wood alcohol. They rushed him to the emergency room of the general hospital where internes prepared antidotes. The transient protested.

"That was a week ago when I drank the wood alcohol," he said. "Today I've had nothing but whisky."

The internes returned him to police headquarters.

ICY BLASTS DUE TONIGHT

Frigid Winds Are Blowing Over Rockies

Cold Expected To Be More Severe Than Recent Wave; Low Readings Predicted

(By The Associated Press)

Another severe cold wave, more frigid than the first this week, rolled into the northwest from Canada today.

It followed the path of the first, sweeping across the western Canadian plains and crossing the border in the region of the Rockies.

To Hit Texas Tonight

The bitter chill was felt today in Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Idaho, Montana, the Dakotas, Kansas and western Wisconsin. Weather observers said the Arctic blasts would reach the eastern states by tonight or tomorrow.

The U. S. weather bureau at Dallas predicted that the new cold wave would reach West Texas and the Panhandle Thursday night and other sections of the state by Friday. Most of the state was given a respite from chilling weather Wednesday night and forecasts of rain and heavy fog were given for North and Central Texas.

To Be More Severe

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd at Chicago said the new wave was really a "second section" of the first and that there was no indication of warmer weather for the balance of the week. The new wave, he said, would be more intense because the first has already cooled the atmosphere.

Shippers were told to prepare for temperatures of zero to 25 below in the northwest, zero to 15 below in the west and north, and zero to 10 above in the east and south.

"Much colder" weather was the forecast for virtually every state east of the Rockies.

At least 28 persons were victims of exposure or accidents attributed

Jerry Sadler Declares He Means Business; Will Recommend Ouster Of 116 Employes

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 29—Dismissal of 116 employes of the state railroad commission will be recommended to the commissioners today by G. A. Jerry Sadler, commissioner-elect, he announced.

"I have been looking over the forces here and through the state," Sadler said. "The department can operate efficiently with a fourth less employes. In private business I have demanded efficiency and I am going to be for it in public business. The work is being done with half the force loafing. It can be done efficiently with a reduced force all working."

Sadler estimated that the proposed staff reductions will decrease the salary roll $225,000 a year. Commission employes are paid from a tax of three-sixteenths of a cent on a barrel of oil. Sadler does not recommend a reduction in the tax but proposes to take the money saved in salaries to erect a commission building and save rent now being paid in Austin. He said he did not advocate reduced pay for the employes who are retained.

"I have 15,000 applicants for jobs. I am not going to create jobs. I am going to reduce them. I campaigned for economy in government and I mean it."

New Deal Expected To Ask $900,000,000 For Next Year's Farm Program; Outlay Might Come From Processing Taxes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Farm-state senators predicted today the administration would seek about $900,000,000 for next year's agricultural program, with part of the outlay coming from new processing taxes.

New Deal farm authorities were said by reliable informants to be considering the appropriation of $500,000,000 from regular treasury funds and the imposition of processing levies to raise an additional $350,000,000 to $400,000,000.

These taxes probably would be placed on the processing of wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco and rice.

About $750,000,000 was appropriated for farm benefits in the last session, but only about $50,000,000 of sugar payments was provided from processing taxes.

Senator Capper (R-Kans) said today he would work for a new program guaranteeing farmers the cost of production plus a reasonable profit on that portion of their crops sold domestically. Any surpluses would be sold abroad for whatever they would bring.

From Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) came a statement that farmers should be "free to exercise their own judgment" about crops.

Safe Missing From Telford Lumber Firm

Cash Loot About $100 With $9,000 In Negotiable Notes; Trailer Used To Take Safe

(Special To The Journal)

ANTON, Dec. 29—Burglars Wednesday night entered the Telford Lumber company office here and took the company's safe containing approximately $1[illegible] in currency and $9,000 in negotiable notes.

It was believed that the safe was hauled away in a trailer, also missing from the yard. No trace of the safe or loot had been found at noon today and investigating officers were without clues.

Door Is Prized Open

Entrance to the yard was gained by breaking a chain on a front gate. A south side door had been pried open.

Tracks in front of the office building indicated the burglars backed the trailer to the front door which had been opened from within. Tracks were lost near the street, giving officers little information as to direction taken by the yeggs in their escape.

All Are Negotiable

A. L. Atkinson, manager, estimated the loss of notes at $9,000 and said all were negotiable. The safe was small, weighing possibly no more than 400 pounds, he said.

Ed Hofacket, sheriff of Hockley county, is conducting the investigation, assisted by Bill Mabry, identifications officer of the Lubbock police department, and W. Alder of the Texas Highway patrol.

Officers of the entire area were informed of the burglary.

Tech's Cotton Girl Arrives

(By The United Press)

DALLAS, Dec. 29—Miss [illegible] Hill, "the Cotton Girl of the Nation," arrived from Lubbock today to preside over the Cotton Jubilee which has been arranged in connection with the Cotton bowl football game next Monday between Texas Technological college and St. Mary's university of Moraga, Cal.

She was met at the station by a crowd of official greeters, and was taken on a parade through the downtown district, riding in a cotton-covered car and escorted by Mayor George M. Sprague.

Met By Students

The parade led by police motorcycles with sirens screeching, ended at the hotel where Miss Hill will live while in Dallas, and where she was met by a group of Texas Tech students.

The "Cotton Girl" and her chaperon, Mrs. Edna Anderson Lyle, a member of the Texas Tech faculty, immediately were rushed into a full program that will give her little rest between now and Monday night.

Miss Hill was a guest of the Salesmanship club at luncheon today, and during the afternoon was to visit two fashion shows arranged

Boys Break Into U. S. Mint For Fun Of It; They Tell Officers That It Was A Simple Matter

(By The United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Two 15-year-old boys, who "just wanted to see if it could be done," last night broke into the United States mint at Buchanan and Market streets—a structure generally considered to be the most impregnable government building in the country.

Avoiding tear gas equipment, impenetrable, attack-proof steel, heavy bars, intricate burglar alarms and a small army of guards, the boys easily got into the building.

They told government men who found them just after they had tossed a large sheet of copper from the window of the room where pennies are made, that it had been "simple."

"We went around to the Octavia street side of the building," they said. "We found the windows nearest to the ground barred. So we climbed up a pipe to the second story and crept along a ledge until we came to a window that was partially open."

The boys, Paul Francis and William Gallagher, pushed open the window and climbed into the building which the government completed two years ago to house and protect millions of dollars.

A guard on his rounds found the boys, blinked his eyes in surprise and sounded an alarm. In a moment the boys were surrounded by machine guns, guards and mint officials.

"We just wanted to see if it could be done," they said. "It was easy. We didn't mean any harm. It was all in fun."

They were turned over to police and sent to the juvenile detention home.

Deadlock Seen In Fight On Liquor

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 29—The end of 1938 finds the battle between Texas wets and drys in a deadlock, neither side having achieved anything spectacular during the year.

While local option elections were being run off at a rate of almost two a week, liquor and beer guzzling fell off somewhat, state liquor board statistics show.

Here's The Standing

The drys picked up four precincts and lost one county in the final score on 90 local elections. Sixty-seven elections resulted in no change of status. Six wet counties and seven wet precincts voted dry while seven dry counties and three dry precincts voted wet. One election was voided and two contested.

Liquor consumption declined about 227,000 gallons to a total of 3,700,000 while beer dropped more than 1,500,000 gallons to 45,500,000. Liquor drinking amounted to .61 of a gallon per capita and beer figured 7.67 gallons. Nearly 1,400,000 gallons of wine were consumed during the year.

Newness Wears Off

Administrator Bert Ford attributed the decline in drinking to a "wearing off" of the newness which stimulated consumption during the period following repeal. He said the local option elections seemed to indicate "there has been little change

Sutton Trial Called Today

(Special To The Journal)

LAMESA, Dec. 29.—Defense attorneys were granted until this afternoon to announce whether they are ready to proceed with the trial of M. B. (Red) Sutton, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Maxie Woodroof in the hold-up of a haberdashery here the night of Dec. 11, 1937.

The case was called in 106th district court before Judge Louis B. Reed this morning.

Witness Is Missing

Carl Caden, county-attorney elect of Dawson county, and George Thomas of Big Spring, who are defending Sutton by appointment of the court, told Judge Reed that an important defense witness is missing, but that they hoped to have a report concerning him this afternoon.

Truett Smith of Tahoka, district attorney, and Vernon Adcock, Dawson county attorney, are prosecuting the case.

Although no formal announcement of Sutton's plea had been called, it undoubtedly will be not guilty,

Demand To Abolish WPA Is Predicted

Odd Story Is Told By Girl

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29—The odd case of 18-year-old Rose Marston and her imaginary baby astounded alike today her husband, her mother and the police.

Authorities said Mrs. Marston deceived her husband for months into a belief she was approaching motherhood, then disappeared Tuesday for a number of hours, and returned home with a story that she had had a child which was born dead.

Police Inspectors Jack O'Connell and Ed Wiskotchill walked into the case after her husband, Harvey, 21, had become alarmed over his wife's absence.

Had Invented Story

The officers said Mrs. Marston told them she had invented a story that she stumbled in the street near her home, was carried away by a couple in an automobile to a small house in Oakland, that she gave birth to a still-born child, and then returned home.

The Marstons weer married last August. Rose wanted a child. She thought she was going to have one, she said, then found out she was not and was "just too embarrassed at my ignorance last March to admit my mistake."

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A congressional demand for gradual abandonment of the WPA was forecast today by some legislators in discussing a proposal to make the Public Works administration a semi-permanent agency.

Although they expected little opposition to an emergency appropriation to carry WPA until July 1, several senators said they believed the next congress must decide whether there is to be a long-time planning for relief needs.

Draft Plans In Advance

In this connection there have been proposals that congress draft a PWA construction program at least a year in advance, tentatively set aside the money to carry it out, and permit the PWA to take applications for projects.

Then, whenever private industry slackened, the president could set the PWA machinery into action immediately. Sponsors of the plan argued that it would supplant some emergency WPA work and that eventually WPA might be abandoned.

Asserting that he favored a permanent PWA to take up the slack in unemployment, Senator Hayden (D-Ariz) predicted congress would

Pete Brands Slip's Charge As Just A Big Bear Story

DALLAS, Dec. 29. (U.P.)—Pete Cawthon, coach at Texas Tech, today termed as a "bear story" reports that his team had seen moving pictures of St. Mary's in action.

"Slip Madigan probably brought up the question in an effort to get his Gaels to thinking seriously about their game against us here Monday in the Cotton bowl," Cawthon said.

Cawthon said he had attempted to secure films showing the Loyola-St. Mary's game, but they were taken by an oil company in California and could not be obtained.

"I sure would like to see them," the Red Raiders' coach said.

Newsboy Crushed To Death When Caught In Elevator

DENTON, Dec. 29. (U.P.)—Earl Hudson, 16, was crushed to death in a business building elevator here today when a companion accidentally worked the controls causing the car to ascend.

The high school youth, with several others, was in the lobby of the building preparing their morning newspapers for delivery. The boys were playing in the elevator when one youth released the control. Hudson's head was crushed.

Vernon Girl Dies In Auto Accident

VERNON, Dec. 29. (AP)—Miss [illegible]ine Nicholson, 24, of Vernon, killed and three other persons injured today when a car turned over on the Vernon-Wichita highway a mile from Harrold.

Miss Doris Orr and Richard Pitman were taken to a hospital. Ernest Streit suffered minor injuries. A tire blow-out was blamed for the crash.

Despondency Over Death Of Mother Cause Of Suicide

GREENVILLE, Dec. 29 (U.P.)—Despondency over the death of aged invalid mother who was buried to death in her bedroom last week, today was believed to have caused Curry Truss, 47, to end his own life with poison last night. A verdict of suicide was returned.

Truss, who was absent from home at the time of the fire which killed his mother, was found with an empty poison bottle beside him.

The mother, paralyzed except the use of her hands and voice, died Dec. 18 as she tired to direct firemen by telephone to her home. No screams were heard by the firemen but her directions were quick and they had to trace the call through the telephone company. The invalid woman was dead when they arrived.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

SALLY BLAIR—heroine. She had everything that popularity could win her, except

DAN REYNOLDS—hero. He might have had Sally but while he was king on skis

COREY PORTER was king of the social whirl. So . . . But go on with the story.

CHAPTER I

There was really no doubt as to who would be chosen Queen of the Ice Carnival. All bets were on Sally Blair. Sally was the prettiest, the most popular girl to be invited to the winter festival. Sally, herself, would have been more surprised if she had not been chosen than she was when the committee informed her she had been.

"As if anyone else could be Queen!" Corey Porter said with smug gratification. For Sally was Corey's girl. For the next few days, anyway.

It was no small feather in Sally's pretty cap to have been invited by Corey, either. Corey was president of his senior class, best fraternity on the campus, keyman. He was the only son of Peterson Porter, the steel magnate, no mean accomplishment in itself.

They made a handsome couple, Sally and Corey, swinging along, hand in hand, toward the practice hill where contestants would be getting in trim for the big meet the next day. Sally was as small and dark and sparkling as Corey was big and smooth and fair. More than one head turned to look at them, more than one remark signaled them out. "There goes Corey Porter, senior president, swell guy!" and, "That's Sally Blair. She was voted the most popular girl in her school and now she's to be Queen of the carnival!"

"Remember," Corey said, "you're my girl this week-end, Sally. Anyone who tries to break that up had just better watch his neck!" His look was so fierce, so possessive that Sally laughed.

"I guess no one will dare try," she said. "That is if he values his neck." But she knew that Corey would find plenty of competition. Wherever she went Sally always held court.

Rounding the bend they came upon a dazzlingly beautiful sight, wind-rippled snow, sparkling with myriad tiny diamonds, dark sentinels of pines marching up the mountain sides, a blue, blue sky spread like a canopy overhead, and crowds and crowds of brightly costumed people.

"Isn't it lovely?" Sally exclaimed, and then "Oh, Corey—look at that!" She caught his arm, standing breathless, watching a dark figure poised high above their heads, a figure that vorlaged now with one swift graceful forward movement, poised for the gelande-sprung, or jump, rose like a bird silhouetted against the sky, then skimmed down the trail of the slick steep slope, a cloud of snow like silvery smoke billowing behind, to come to a smooth, perfect stop with an elaborately executed "Christie."

"That was worth looking at," Corey admitted. "Perfect co-ordination and judgment, marvelous tempo and control."

"Who is he?" Sally demanded, still wide-eyed and breathless. Nev-

Seven Resolutions For Successful Beauty Year Suggested By Betty Clarke

List These On Makeup Glass

BY BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

Careful grooming will be your biggest 1939 beauty asset. Hair that gleams because the scalp is clean and healthy, skin that is smooth and blemish-free, well-cared-for fingernails—all of these are any woman's, just for a little time and trouble.

Seven Health Rules

Here are seven commandments to paste above your make-up mirror:

1—Watch your diet. If you're inclined to be much over or under weight have your family doctor give you a diet chart; then abide by that chart, but don't talk about it.

2—Get plenty of sleep. Establish a regular bedtime and observe it as religiously as a child does his. And get up in the morning at a regular hour. If your doctor insists on additional rest for you take a nap just after the lunch hour or—if you're a business woman—just before dinner in the evening.

3—Take a bath or shower once a day. If you're a housewife you may find that the best time for it is after the noon dishes are put away. If you work, the chances are you'll bathe before you leave in the morning and perhaps again after you get home in the evening.

4—Shampoo and set your hair once every week or ten days. (Hair specialists now say that the old two weeks' rule for shampoos is out-of-date.) Don't go in for elaborate hair styles, tints or rinses unless you can keep them up. The main thing is to keep your scalp clean, your hair well-brushed.

At Least Once A Week

5—Manicure your fingernails twice a week if possible, once without fail. Rub hand cream into the cuticle often enough to keep it soft and pliable. Wear gloves whenever you go out—no matter how short your trip is to be.

6—Plan regular exercise—daily if possible. Look at yourself critically. If you tend to be "hippy" or your stomach muscles are getting flabby or your posture isn't what it used to be, work out a fifteen-minute program of corrective exercises. It will be only a few months before even your best friends will notice a decided change.

7—Check your make-up supply. Simplify your make-up routine. Stick to one brand of cosmetics unless you're a master blender.

Joan Bennett's hair—up or down, blonde or brunette—is neatly brushed and held in place, her complexion smooth and blemish-free.

Wife Sues Laurel For Large Sum

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29. (AP)—Dead pan Stan Laurel's third wife, Vera Illeana, blonde stage dancer, sued him Wednesday for $1,500 a month separate maintenance charging their honeymoon was crammed with nightmares of his former wives rather than being an interlude of romantic bliss.

She said the film comedian's ex-wives not only troubled her immediately after she and Laurel eloped to Yuma, Ariz., last New Year's day, but that they have caused her contant annoyance ever since.

Mrs. Laurel No. 3 stated that the former wives caused the police to call on her, caused the fire department to burst into her home at night and induced others to write anonymous letters and telephone her false messages about her husband.

Pythian Temple Meeting Held Wednesday Night

Pythian Sister Temple attended a regular meeting at the Knights of Pythias hall Wednesday night. Mrs. Elmo Payne, who has been living in Seymour for the last six months, was welcomed back to the organization.

It was announced the temple will be guests for a party and dance the Knights of Pythias are to give next Wednesday night at Hotel Lubbock.

Marriage Of Local Pair Is Read In Plainview

The marriage of Miss Jean Dover of Lubbock, daughter of W. H. Dover of Commerce, and Alvan Hunt, son of A. G. Hunt of 1718 Avenue O, took place last Friday in Plainview with Rev. Fred S. Rogers, Presbyterian minister, officiating.

Mrs. Hunt, a graduate of Draughon's Business college, has been employed as secretary to Dewitt Knapp, an architect. Mr. Hunt is a native resident of Lubbock.

The couple plans to build.

COCOA
(Serves 4 to 6)

Four tablespoons breakfast cocoa, 2 to 4 tablespoons sugar, dash of salt, 1 cup water, 3 cups milk.

Mix cocoa, sugar, salt, and water in saucepan. Place over low flame bring to a boil, and boil 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add milk and heat over slow fire. Do not boil. If desired, beat before serving. Serve at once.

STORING CODLIVER OIL

Store codliver oil in dark bottles or in bottles well wrapped in dark paper, in the refrigerator.

Meeting Of School Board Is Delayed

At least two or three weeks longer must elapse before the city board of trustees can begin giving consideration to calling for bids for new school buildings to be erected in Lubbock, according to information given this morning by school officials.

Monthly meeting of the board was scheduled to have been held last Tuesday night, but was postponed until a date yet to be set early in January, officials explained.

Although architects are working on plans for the proposed structures, officials added, time will be required for their examination and approval and an additional several weeks then must elapse before bids can be called and opened.

It still is uncertain, too, just what the building program will include, although contemplated at this time are grade school buildings on sites recently acquired in the south and southwest portions of the city. Expressed intent of members of the school board is to approve buildings of such agricultural design that sightly additions can be built when enrollment requires.

The building program will be financed with a $150,000 bond issue voted last September.

Family Reunion Staged In Kessel Residence

SLATON, Dec. 29. (Special)—In anticipation of their silver wedding anniversary today, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kessel recently gave a family dinner party at their home.

The long dining table was laid with white linen and sterling silver, a gift of Mr. Kessel to his wife. A centerpiece of white carnations was flanked by white candles in silver candelabra.

Attending were the couple's three sons, Julian of Roswell, N. M.; Bertram, University of Texas, Austin, student, and Milton, a Texas Technological college, Lubbock, student, and Dr. Harry Jacobson, Benjamin Arthur and little Thelma Janis of Roswell.

Special WTCC Meeting Being Conducted In Abilene Today

Campaign of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for organization of a "Freight Rates Equality federation" will be discussed at a special meeting in Abilene this afternoon of the secretaries advisory board of the WTCC, according to notification received at the Lubbock Chamber this morning.

A. B. Davis, manager of the chamber here, also was notified of his appointment as a member of the board and left this morning to attend the conference.

The announcement of the meeting declared that it has important bearing on the fight now in progress against railway freight rates which discriminate against West Texas.

Other members of the advisory board, according to the announcement, are William Holden, general manager of Fort Worth Chamber; Chester Harrison, Brownwood; Garnet Reeves, Pampa; Wilburn Page, Wichita Falls; Hunter Jones, Breckenridge; H. J. Tanner, Eastland; Bill Collyns, Midland; Claude Simpson, Roswell, N. M.; J. D. Motley, Ballinger; J. C. Netts, Del Rio; and R. L. McConnell, San Saba.

CARE FOR PAINT BRUSHES

As soon as you are through using paint brushes soak them in gasoline or turpentine for an hour. Then wipe them with a soft cloth and wash them well in warm water and soap suds. Wipe each one dry and wrap it in a cloth or paper.

Remove all old varnish from furniture before trying to revarnish it. A cup of sal soda to two quarts of hot water will help. Scrub each piece with a stiff brush. Wear rubber gloves to protect your hands.

Fliers, En Route From Lubbock To San Antonio, Desert Plane

(By The Associated Press)

WACO, Dec. 29.—Two United States army airmen, their supply of gasoline exhausted were forced to desert their plane in parachutes near here Wednesday night, but each drifted safely through foul weather to the earth, 7000 feet below.

For each of the men—Sgt. George Holmes, pilot, and Pvt. C. L. Wesley, 21-year-old student flier—it was his first jump.

"And I hope it's my last," grinned Wesley as he nervously sipped a cup of coffee after he reached Waco.

The men were flying from Lubbock, where Holmes had picked up Wesley at the end of the latter's furlough, to Randolph field, their station, near San Antonio.

Near Fredericksburg, Holmes said he was notified by the field to turn back to Waco, as conditions were not suited for landing at the air base.

He was not lost, Holmes said, and was flying on the radio beam at 7,000 feet when his fuel ran out.

"I immediately radioed the Waco field that I was bailing out," he said, "and didn't know my exact position."

Wesley was the first man to drop off into the murky darkness, Holmes said.

The men fell in fields near Lorena, 18 miles southwest of here. Wesley, stil clutching the parachute rip cord in his hand, and wearing the headphones of the airplane's radio, reached a residence near the spot.

Holmes was forced to walk, the parachute slung over his shoulder, to another residence about five miles from where he fell. He telephoned the airport and searchers found both men.

No search was made for the plane because of the weather.

Holmes said altogether he had been in numerous crashes during his 17 years of service, he never had bailed out before.

Holmes said he had climbed to a high altitude after receiving the word to turn back because he was uncertain of the height of mountains in the Fredricksburg section. He was flying blind at the time he turned back, he said, but later got above the overcast on the radio beam.

SCALD ICEBOX DRAIN

A weekly dose of boiling water effectively keeps clear the drain which leads from the ice compartment to the drip pan of your ice refrigerator.

How to Ease CHEST COLD MISERY

FIRST—massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. The relieves the distress.

THEN—to make its long-continued action last even longer, spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

LONG AFTER sleep comes, VapoRub keeps working—loosens phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air-passages—eases coughing—relieves local congestion.

Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over. VICKS VAPORUB

Paving Here Is Approved

The city commission required less than three minutes to pass on first reading an ordinance providing for paving blocks of residence street paving at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon.

It was the second paving ordinance to be adopted by the commission in anticipation of the surfacing program which will be started in the latter part of March. Together the two ordinances provide for approximately 10 miles of paving.

Program Listed

Streets listed in the new ordinance, which will come up for second and final reading at the commission meeting Jan. 12, are: Avenue W from Sixth to Nineteenth; S from Seventh to Nineteenth; Twentieth from R to G; Thirteenth from C to G; Fourth from J to O; and O from Sixth to Seventh.

The paving of Avenues S and W is regarded by officials as being of relief they are expected to give on Avenue Q where congestion is becoming a serious problem.

Wednesday's business before the commission was expedited by the fact that members already were familiar with the ordinance. Action could not be taken on previous occasions, however, because of the requirement that at least 10 days published notice must be given before such an ordinance can be passed.

City Manager W. H. Rodgers read the ordinance, Commissioner W. G. McMillan moved its adoption, Commissioner J. A. Fortenberry gave the second and Mayor Carl E. Slaton called for the vote, which was unanimously in favor. Commissioners W. H. Price and Hub Jones were absent.

Nephew Of Exile Denying Charges

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29 (AP) — Romano Nicholas Trotsky, who claims to be the 41-year-old nephew of Leon Trotsky, exiled Soviet leader, appeared in federal court Wednesday and denied he ade false statements in applying for American citizenship.

Trotsky was indicted by the federal grand jury last month on charges of filing application for citizenship July 16, 1937, under the name of Romano Lukiancguk.

Judge Ralph Jenney ordered Trotsky held under $10,000 bail pending trial February 3.

Norman Neukom, assistant United States attorney, produced FBI records to show that Romano Trotsky, under several names, had been arrested in this country 12 times from 1923 to 1938; that he was acquitted of murder; that he was accused several times of violating medical laws and was arrested for violation of the Dyer act, forgery and petty theft.

Neukom said Trotsky's last arrest was in El Paso, Tex., where a federal court ordered him deported to Russia on the charge he entered this country illegally at Detroit, April 18, 1919. While this case was being heard the grand jury here indicted him and he was brought from El Paso to face the charges.

Lubbock Men Are Chosen To Aid In Jackson Day Plans

Appointment of State Sen. G. H. Nelson and Homer L. Pharr, both of Lubbock, to arrangements committee for the "plain peoples" Jackson Day dinner in the Baker hotel in Dallas the night of Jan. 7 was announced here Wednesday.

The announcement came from Howard Daley of Dallas, general chairman.

Both Nelson and Pharr said they would serve on the committee.

Jerry Sadler, new member of the Texas railroad commission, will be principal speaker at the dinner. The letter from Dailey said that more than 1,000 reservations have been made and that an attendance of 2,500 is expected. The charge will be $2 per plate.

The U. S. bureau of public roads improved 15,000 miles of highway in its 1938 program.

Russell Funeral Services Will Be Held At Ralls

RALLS, Dec. 29. (Special)—Funeral services for Mrs. Callie Russell, 64, resident of Crosby county many years, were to be held from the home at 4 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. W. R. Derr, pastor of Ralls First Baptist church, officiating. Burial will be in Ralls cemetery under direction of Marr Funeral home.

Mrs. Russell died at her home late Wednesday after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Russell, wife of "Uncle Tom" Russell, was born Feb. 7, 1874, in Redland parish, La., and has been a Crosby county resident 32 years.

She is survived, in addition to her husband, by the following nephews and nieces: Ellis, Everet, and Leslie McCauley of Lorenzo, Dennis McCauley of Ralls, Claude McCauley of Kingsbury, Calif., Mrs. Herbert Smith of Los Angeles, Calif., Jim and Alva Russell of Dallas, Edna Morris of Dallas, Bertha Duggan of Seattle, Wash., Lisha and Tom Chambers of Dallas, and George Chambers of McKinney. No children survive.

Because the four leading railway companies in England showed a decline of 25 million dollars in gross revenue for 43 weeks this year the managers may apply for relief in regard to labor costs.

Webster, Nash And Pytell Are Selected On 1938 All-State Eleven

Corpus Also Places Trio Upon Squad

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Dec. 29—Corpus Christi's Buccaneers and Lubbock's Westerners who climaxed a stirring schoolboy football race with a championship game as thrilling as any ever staged, placed three players each on the All-State selection made by sport writers and coaches from every section in the Associated Press' annual poll.

Walter Webster, Lubbock's great line-plunger and defensive star, led in the voting with Tom Pickett, Temple's elusive "climax runner", taking down second honors. Corpus Christi's Pat Hall, an end who did everything, including punting, led all the lineman and was third in individual votes in the team selection.

Made Before Title Game

The selections were made before the state championship game in which Corpus Christi came through 20-6 and in which Webster was outshone by smashing Bill Dolan and lithe Emory Nix of the Buccaneers, but the team was picked over the season's play and Webster was consistently a star all the way. In the title game he stood out for Lubbock with his plunging and running, his punting and vicious tackling. Dolan and Nix were also consistent but little was heard of them until recently.

Amarillo's one-man gang, Blazing Bill Thompson, and Masonic Home's pass-pitching Gene Keel won out over Dolan, Nix and Battering Bill Ramsey of Breckenridge for the other two backfield posts. Howard Corbett of Lufkin and Dick Dwelle of Highland Park also ranked high, with Walton Roberts of Tyler, William Coleman of Kerrville and Hugh Munnell of Highland Park just a shade behind Corbett and Dwelle.

Winter On Second

Wally Scott of Tyler, around whom an eligibility squabble arose but which was settled amicably, was named as the end on the other side of the line from Hall with Ernest Winter of Lubbock, Drummond Slover of Lufkin and J. B. Hendricks of Corpus Christi staging a close finish for the second team berths which went to Winter and Slover with Hendricks pairing with Joe Skelton of Temple on the third team.

Jeff Brown, the Masonic Home lightweight, led the tackles with Jerry Nash, the great Lubbock forward, close behind. John Swanner of Wichita Falls and Avon Sewalt of Lubbock captured the second team posts with Bob Tulis of North Side (Fort Worth) up close. Tony Ditta of San Jacinto (Houston), Zuehl Conoly of Corpus Christi, Pat Farris of Lubbock and Sherman Sullivan of Borger were near Tulis with Ditta getting the edge for the other third team position.

Pytell Placed At Guard

The guard positions went to Charles Fowler of Corpus Christi and Joe Pytell of Lubbock, who got an equal number of votes, with Joe Roberts of Tyler and Jack West of Waco making the second team just a jump ahead of Roy Goad of Temple, Bunky Waters of Highland Park and Jug Bennett of Graham.

There was quite a battle for the centerpost between Jack Hinnant of Corpus Christi, Buddy Gatewood of Waco, Wayne Pipes of Lubbock, A. J. Mercer of Temple and Irvin Brightwell of Gainesville with Hinnant coming through, Gatewood second and Pipes and Mercer close behind, Mercer just a step ahead of Brightwell.

Others Receive Votes

Others who received votes were: Ends — Clifton Hill, Lubbock; Humphries, Amarillo; Rodriquez, Bowie (El Paso); Miller Moseley, Masonic Home; Tom McKeehan, Reagan (Houston); Ervin Boren, Temple; Norman Strange, Masonic Home. Incidentally Ramsey got one vote for an end position.

Tackles—Jack Swank, Highland Park; A. D. Chester, Dallas Tech; Alfred Temple, Tyler; John Vrazel, Corpus Christi; Jack Harris, Breckenridge; Huffman, Temple; Weldon Humble, Brackenridge (San Antonio); Jack Heinman, Pampa; Arch Schrum, Galveston; Jack Bates, Masonic Home. Hinnant got a vote for tackle in addition to being named center on the first team.

Guards—Mack McLain, Plainview; Collins, Breckenridge; Dub Sibley, Abilene; J. D. Griffin, Austin; Jack Salyers, Corpus Christi; Mike Kazilas, Reagan; Bill Wright, Vernon; Armanante Torres, Masonic Home; Pat Knight, Vernon; Stanley Mauldin, Amarillo; Frank Parmagus, Port Arthur. Brown got a vote for guard in addition to being named first team tackle.

Centers—Stanley Mauldin, Amarillo; Derwood Mumford, Tyler.

Quarterbacks—Ben Collins, Wichita Falls; Morris Southall, Vernon.

Halfbacks — Jerry Templeton, Hillsboro; Jack Judd, Vernon; Milton Crain, Brackenridge; Harmon Hightower, Paschal (Fort Worth).

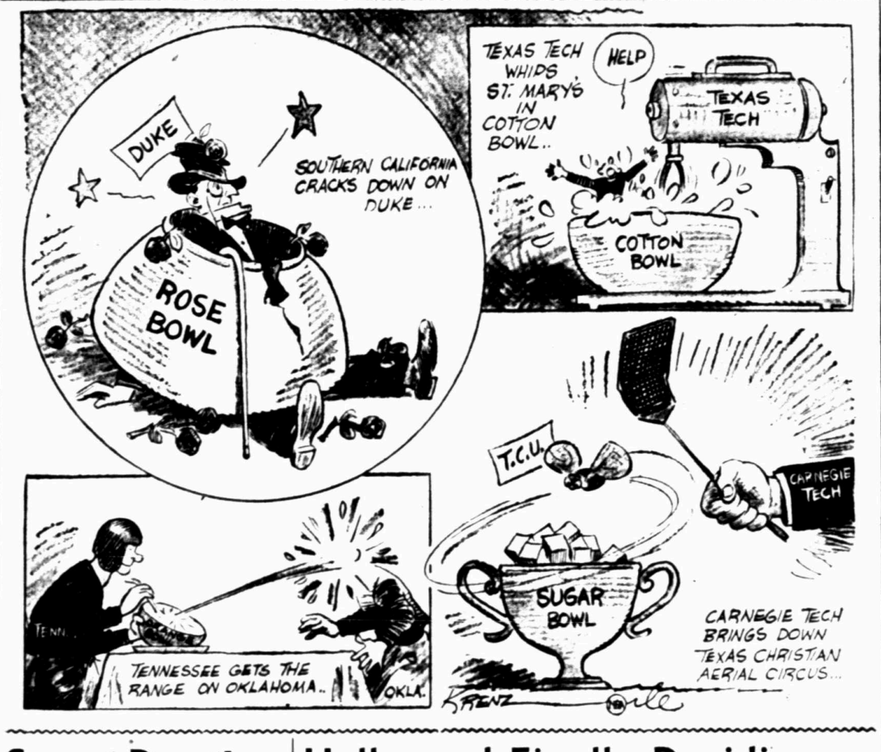

Fullbacks — Melvin Jones, Tyler; Kenneth Purcell, Gainesville; Don Stephens, Masonic Home; Bull Johnson, Bryan; Guy Nunnelly, Port Arthur.

Fail To Get Vote

The only district failing to get a vote was the Rio Grande valley which had a fine guard in Abel Morales, Weslaco. Others who stood out during the season but did not get ballots for the all-state team were such boys as James Callan of Goose Creek and Buddy Moore of Brackenridge, centers; and Floyd Berg, Galveston; Howard Waldie, Conroe; James Pennell, Athens; Leon Pelly, Sherman; Charlie Manicha, Reagan; Sonny Grost and Ken Robbins, Sunset (Dallas); Don Fambrough and Hardy Miller, Longview; Joel Bonner, Waco; Forest Lee, Gladewater; Fish, Brownwood, and Jake Webster, Sweetwater, backs.

However, the balloting was only on players for the first team with the boys making the first three clubs on the basis of number of votes received. It is quite difficult to select 11 players out of more than 3,000 who perform in class A ranks in a season.

Secret Practice Set For Dukes

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 29. (AP)—Duke's gridiron followers turned to the lighter side of the Rose Bowl conflict today, leaving the Blue Devil team to finish unattended its training for the coming encounter with the Trojans of the University of Southern California.

Wallace Wade escorted his Duke outfit through a Hollywood movie studio Wednesday and announced it was the last sightseeing expedition until after the game Monday.

He barred the gates to the practice field to everyone, permitting his journalistic advisors, among others, to plunge into the usual round of Rose Bowl social activities, and said he and his staff would worry alone with the business of preparing the team for the game.

Howard Jones of U. S. C. similarly accommodated his camp followers and so the two rival factions were left free of the actual training problems and can haggle, hogpile, hope and pray without interruption.

Little official anxiety was expressed over the "crick" in the back developed yesterday by Tiger Dan Hill, co-captain and center of the Dukes, or the strange ailment contracted by Speedy Mickey Anderson, Trojan reserve quarterback, who was thrown for a loss by too much Christmas turkey. Both players, said their coaches, will be ready for the battle.

Hollywood Finally Deciding That Horse Is Here To Stay

BY HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 29—Hollywood finally has decided that the horse is here to stay.

For years the film folk looked on the horse as just something used in western movies or something one sat on uncomfortably in order to show off one's new riding clothes.

Stamp Of Approval

Now that horse racing has taken such a hold on the state of California, the movie celebrities have placed their stamp of approval on this noble beast and scores of them own stables. Silkworms are working overtime to provide sufficient material for their silks, and studio talk is studded with such words as hocks, withers, workouts, furlong, and handicap. When the stars speak of the camera it is just as likely to be one that takes a photo finish as the one that records their acting.

One of Hollywood's biggest men, Louis B. Mayer, production chief of M-G-M, has gone plum wild wild over horses. The sight of anything carrying the standard horse equipment of mane, tail, and ears is enough to make him whip out his check book and ask about the price. If he continues to buy horses at the present clip, it won't be many years before he will have cornered the entire horse market. Mayer paid $300,000 for horseflesh at the Saratoga sales and has been buying right and left ever since. He has named no fewer than seven horses for the Santa Anita handicap, and has signed Georgie Woolf to ride the important stakes.

Prominent Thoroughbreds

Among his more prominent thoroughbreds are Perifox, an American bred horse who won four stakes in England; Magic Hour, Lawrence realization winner; Quick Devil, Main Man, Ossabaw, Sweet Patrice, Brooklyn, Mask and Wig, and Flying Bonny. Hardly a day passes but what Mayer signs a new trainer. He has three now and is on the lookout for more.

Harry M. Warner, president of Warner brothers; Harry Cohn, president of Columbia, and William Lebaron, Paramount's production head, are other executives with competent stables.

Among the actors and directors, owner's badges are almost as common as driver' licenses. Barbara Stanwyck is mistress of Maruyck ranch and her partner is Chico Marx. Joe E. Brown is another who will bid as high as a cat's back for a horse he likes. His biggest hope is Cascabelot, a South American winner that cost him in the neighborhood of $40,000.

Drops To His Knees

Al Jolson drops to his knees in supplication, not song, every time his Totem Pole goes to the post, and Mae West backs a stable that runs in the name of her brother, Jack.

Bing Crosby is sole owner of one stable and part owner of two others, and has such horses as Lizaroti, second choice for the $100,000 handicap, and High Strike, favorite for the rich California state championship. Among the directors Raoul Walsh, Dave Butler, and John Cromwell are the most prominent owners. Walsh recently brought over Courtil from France for a shot at the handicap. Cromwell's 2-year-old, Valley Lass, is favored to win the California breeders stake on opening day, and Butler has such useful runners as Manner's Man, Alice Faye, Range, Bulwark, Enchanted, and Playback.

Among the other movie folk who own horses are Mervyn Leroy, Myron Selznick, Pat O'Brien, Oliver Hardy, Walter Connelly, Howard Hawks, Frank Lloyd, John Considine, Spencer Tracy and Robert Taylor.

It won't be long before they'll have to have pony races at Santa Anita so that the younger stars can race their silks.

Champion Bowler To Appear Here; Tricks To Be Shown

From pin-boy to one of the best bowlers in the nation is the Horatio Alger life career of Gene Gagliardi, 1937 world's American Bowling Congress champion, who appears here this afternoon and tonight for demonstrations and instruction for local maple enthusiasts.

He will demonstrate his trick of making two strikes with one ball and will toss in some of the game's most difficult splits. The afternoon show starts at 4 o'clock and the night performance begins at 8 o'clock.

Gene, born of Italian parents, started his bowling career as a pinboy setting up pins in a Yonkers, N. Y., bowling alley. Now he is making a nation-wide tour and is ranked among the foremost authorities in the game.

Final Drills For Raiders Are Secret

DALLAS, Dec. 29, (Special)—Texas Tech's colorful Red Raiders went "on parade" here Wednesday afternoon with a display of gridiron wizardry that left the fans gasping.

Coach Pete Cawthon "opened the gates" at Southern Methodist's Ownby stadium and approximately 1,000 Dallas enthusiasts braved wintry blasts for a glimpse of their Cotton Bowl host team in action.

Everything from smashing, crashing tackling and blocking to the old "hidden ball" trick was brought into the open in the 45-minute session. Jimmy Stewart, Southern Methodist university's athletic business manager and Cotton Bowl ticket manager, "broadcast" the affair over the public address system.

The "hidden ball" trick was the concluding stunt of the afternoon. One team had received the kickoff and before any of the fans and few of the players knew it Dudley Akins pulled it from under his Jersey, and it was deflated.

Tech Passes Praised

Drawing the attention of the crowd was the number of fine passers on the Raider squad. Gene Barnett, back in customary form, Woodrow Ramsey, Billy Dodd, C. L. Storrs and Akins were tossing the pigskin around in a manner that would rival even the Frogs' famous Davey O'Brien.

But the aerials were not the only offensive weapons drawing sideline comment. The "coffin corner" kicking of Storrs, Charley Calhoun, Jodie Marek Dodd, Bobby Holmes and Ty Bain thrilled the crowd. Several punts traveled from 50 to 70 yards aided by a slight wind.

The whole demonstration was colorful from more than one standpoint, the Raiders having diked themselves out in their flashy scarlet suits that they will wear in the Cotton Bowl classic Monday. And to climax the big show Coach Cawthon invited the spectators to come down out of the stands and mix and mingle with the spirited West Texans from Lubbock. The fans accepted with delight and for some time the center of the field resembled a reunion as introductions and hand shaking ruled supreme.

Two Regulars Out

While all this was going on there were two important Red Raiders who remained in their expensive hotel rooms—Raymond Flusche, starting quarterback, and George L. Webb, regular left end—sniffing and wheezing with bad colds. They are expected to be ready to go against the Gaels next Monday afternoon, however, Coach Cawthon believed.

"After the "get together" was over Coach Cawthon informed his Cotton Bowl aggregation that the public entertainment business was to be forgotten and immediately proceeded to get down to serious work with the backfield, ends and centers. Line Coach Dutchy Smith took the rest of the squad and the real workout started.

Secret workouts will be the order each day now until the Cotton Bowl game, sports writers and special friends being admitted to the field by cards only. Coach Cawthon does the card signing and does not limit it, welcomes the scribes to the workouts, but desires a certain amount of privacy.

Practically the same hysterical reception which the Red Raiders received upon their arrival here will be given the St. Mary's team and 500 rooters Saturday. Bombs will be exploded, cotton confetti will be showered down from Main street office buildings during the St. Mary's parade, and all respect will be paid Slip Madigan and his colorful Galloping Gaels.

The life of automobile tire chains is reduced considerably by sudden braking.

Ki Aldrich Is Given Hope Of Playing Despite Eye Injury

FORT WORTH, Dec. 29. (AP)—Ki Aldrich, Texas Christian university's all-American center, was accorded an even chance today of playing against Carnegie Tech in the Sugar bowl game despite an ulcer on the cornea of the left eye.

For Aldrich, a rugged young man who never once during his college football career has taken time out for an injury, that was enough over which to be optimistic.

An Even Chance

"I think he has an even chance to play," Dr. Webb Walker, specialist who is treating the ailment, said. "It is definitely serious and doesn't look too good. However, Ki is young and his resistance is fine. He may come around surprisingly.

Aldrich is not expected to be permitted to practice any more this week even should the eye respond more rapidly than expected to treatment.

Dr. Walker flatly vetoed any idea of Aldrich playing with "one eye" and Coach Dutch Meyer agreed.

Should the Temple veteran not be able to enter the game, Clarence Alexander, a sophomore from McKinney, will get the call at center, Myer said.

Gaels Depart Early Today

MORAGA, Calif., Dec. 29. (AP)—Slip Madigan, observing that his St. Mary's Gaels were in "fine physical shape" for the Cotton bowl football game with Texas Tech Monday, banded his 38 gridmen together for their 10 a. m. PST (12 noon CST) departure today for Dallas.

The Moragans wound up training here with a long drill. Madigan named two separate teams which he would use in the Cotton bowl.

The starting lineup announced by Madigan: Jack Crampton, LE; George Cantwell, LT; Dick Mesak, LG; Jerry Dowd, C; Ralph Jack, RG; Nick Katzmeyer, RT; Lavine Bettencourt, RE; Mike Perrie, QB; Heffernan, LH; Lou Rimassa, RH, and Herb Smith, FB.

The second squad: Joe Aguerre, LE; Dick Jones, LT; Ray Ruddell, LG; Milo Millicivich, C; Vic Martinelli, RG; Wally Garard, RT; Frank Maderas, RE; Jack Guthrie, QB; Klotovich, LH; Harry Aronson, RH, and Andy Marefos, FB.

Two Teams Ready For Their Battle

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 29. (Special)—Coach Vernon Hilliard's Bulldogs and Coach Engel May's Biloxi, Miss., Indians were pronounced "ready" today for their big intersectional clash at the Junior High school stadium here tomorrow afternoon.

The Redskins arrived late yesterday and conducted a short workout. Pacing the Tribe's attack will be Captain James Stevens, brilliant quarterback, and the All-Big Eight Conference halfback, Joe Mattina.

Those two lads will lead one of the most colorful schoolboy elevens in the south against the West Texans. The Indians will be carrying a fine season's record into the tussle and Coach Hilliard's boys will have to make use of all gridiron strategy to come out victors.

Wide smiles have been noted on the Bulldog mentor's face, however, and there is some speculation as to whether they intend springing some surprise on the Biloxi eleven as well as the fans. Strength and poise has been added to the regular squad by several recruits that came up from the Junior high team. Coach Hilliard indicated that he might start some of the "newcomers" against the flashy Mississippi squad.

Slip Is Angry Because Tech Sees Films

MORAGA, Cal., Dec. 29. (U.P.)—Coach Slip Madigan of the St. Mary's football team, today protested angrily that the Texas Tech squad had no right to view motion pictures of the California eleven and that such a method of scouting placed the Gaels at a disadvantage for the Cotton bowl game in Dallas, between the teams Jan. 2.

Madigan said Pete Cawthon, coach of the Tech team, showed pictures of the game between St. Mary's and Loyola.

Threatens To Sue

"There were only two prints of those pictures and neither of them was intended for public release," Madigan said. He was so incensed that he threatened to sue the person or persons who placed the pictures in Cawthon's hands.

Scouting by movies is not permitted by Pacific coast teams.

The St. Mary's eleven left this morning for Dallas. Madigan planned to stop at Lubbock, Tex., home of the Tech Red Raiders, for a workout Friday.

Joe Banaski Is Winner Over John Nemanic Last Night

Wanted: One good wrestler who can break Joe Banaski's "alligator clutch".

Promoter Sled Allen has not posted that sign as yet but might as well for last night the southern lad took two straight falls over John Nemanic via the peculiar hold with which he has climbed to the top of the torso twisters' ratings in this circuit.

Frankie Hill, the Kansas City, Mo., boy had to run all over the ring for five minutes before catching up with Otto Ludwig, the mad German in the semi-final. And when he did catch the growling Otto and had punished him with a head lock for some time his only reward was several punishing blows in the back. However, when Hill had sufficiently recovered from the low blows he grabbed Ludwig by the hair and beat his head into the mat until his shoulders were flattened and the match was his. The fall lasted 25 minutes.

In the curtain raiser Russ Riley came through with another good performance to fight a draw with Bill Cazzell.

Duce's Boasts Annoy British

LONDON, Dec. 29. (AP) — Persons close to the government indicated that when Prime Minister Chamberlain goes to Rome Jan. 11 he personally will ask Premier Mussolini to stop boasting about Italian intervention in the Spanish civil war.

The sudden and effective reappearance of Italian Blackshirts in the van of Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Catalonian offensive and glorification of their exploits by the controlled Italian press have annoyed British officials.

Therefore, it was said in informed quarters, the prime minister will tell il duce that these events, together with his recent crescendo of agitation in the Mediterranean, are contrary to the letter and spirit of both the European agreement for nonintervention in Spain and the Anglo-Italian accord on Mediterranean and Spanish questions which came into force Nov. 16.

Grove, Ruffing Top American Pitching

CHICAGO, Dec. 29. (AP)—Southpaw Bob Grove's pitching arm may have gone dead late last season, but not until he had compiled a record sufficient to share the American league's major mound honors with Big Charlie Ruffing of the New York Yankees.

The Red Sox veteran, before retiring to the sidelines with a lame arm, won 14 and lost 4 for a .778 percentage and recorded a 3.07 earned run average, top marks in both departments, according to official league averages released Wednesday.

Ruffing, working in 31 games over the full season, led the loop in victories with 21 while losing seven and ranked next to Grove in the earned runs column with a 3.32 mark.

Technically, Ivy Paul Andrews, another Yankee, led in earned run performances with a 3.00 mark, but worked only 46 innings and won only one game.

Heavy hitting of the World Champion Yankees undoubtedly accounted to some extent for the presence of five New Yorkers among the first 14 regular pitchers. Ruffing and the other four — Vernon Gomez, Monte Pearson, Spurgeon Chandler and Irving Hadley—accounted for 78 of the Yankees' 99 victories last season.

Six Star Texas Tennis Players Enter Meet In Mexico City

AUSTIN, Dec. 29. (AP)—A team of six ranking Texas tennis players will start play today in the annual Texas-Mexico matches in Mexico City, D. F., Dr. D. A. Penick, University of Texas net coach, announced Wednesday.

The team, sponsored by the Texas Tennis association, consists of Bobby Kamrath, Bob Curtis, Warren Christner, Karl Kamrath, Reuben Riskind and Maurice Fincher.

Western All-Stars 'Bear Down' While Eastern Eleven Rests

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29. (AP) — While Western football stars, training for the Shrine charity game here Jan. 2, headed into a scrimmage session today, the Eastern coaches held their lads to a strictly take-it-easy program.

Alarmed by injuries and ailments to six of their 22 Eastern players, Co-Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota have ruled out scrimmage until East meets West in Kezar stadium.

The British government will increase its $21,600 annual contribution to the Travel and Industrial Development of Great Britain and Ireland which deals with advertising Britain as a holiday center.

Utah Football Squad Working For Bowl

EL PASO, Dec. 29. (U.P.)—Thirty members of the University of Utah football squad arrived Wednesday, and Coach Ike Armstrong ordered almost immediate practice for their Sun Bowl engagement with New Mexico on Jan. 2.

Drills at Kidd field will be held every day except Sunday until the game, Armstrong said. They will be closed to the public.

"The boys are in pretty good shape, but they are a little travel-weary, and we can't waste much time."

The Utah squad has traveled 4,000 miles since the last game, a tilt with the University of Hawaii in Honolulu on Dec. 17. Utah won 14 to 13. Since then they had only brief workouts on the tennis deck of the liner, a light drill at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles and another at Tempe, Ariz., yesterday.

Armstrong said the boys were seasick for several days, and that the ship deck workouts were not very successful.

Morton High Football Team To See Tech-Gaels Game

MORTON, Dec. 29 (Special)—Morton High school's football team will see the Cotton bowl game in Dallas Monday as guests of F. O. Masten and the Morton volunteer fire department.

Masten, who operates a 6,000-acre ranch west of here, said he would provide transportation for the players.

The volunteer fire department has arranged for funds to pay for the meals and for hotel rooms on the trip.

Maston said he was making the same offer for Wellington, where he has other extensive farm interests.

Heads Or Tails! Explanation For Your Guess Made

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 29—No wonder man suffers so many disappointments, for his mind is not nearly so accurate as the simple laws of chance at making correct guesses.

The reason is that men, women, boys and girls all misuse the laws of chance, without realizing it, when they try to predict.

These findings were explained to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here. If a coin is flipped mechanically the probability of heads or tails is the well known 50-50.

But, said Dr. Louis D. Goodfellow, of Northwestern university, when humans guess the flip of a coin the chances are from 76 to 79 per cent that they will call heads.

On the second call they will still call heads oftener than the laws of chance allow, in an excess of 7 per cent.

Then on third call humans will average too low, 44 per cent in favor of heads.

The reasons, Dr. Goodfellow said, are probably subconscious. They may be due merely to the construction of the phrase "heads-tails" used to describe this little game. Heads is always spoken first. Therefore, without knowing it, people call heads too often.

With this study as his text Dr. Goodfellow pointed out that human judgments are not necessarily distributed according to the laws of chance. Their opinions about what is going to happen are altered by what has already happened. Most persons are prone to think that preceding events also alter the purely mathematical chances, such as those of the flip of a coin.

But that is not true of chance, said Dr. Goodfellow.

Eire's Premier Accepts Bid To Visit White House In May

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. (AP) — Eamon de Valera, prime minister of Ireland, now officially called Eire, has accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to be an overnight guest at the White House May 7.

De Valera will go on to New York May 10 to open the Irish exhibit at the World's fair. Later he will visit several cities, probably including Chicago and San Francisco, during a four weeks stay in the United States.

Legation attaches said they knew of no political significance in the visit.

Laredo Official Sets Bonds Totaling $2,500 In Cases

LAREDO, Dec. 29. (AP)—Justice of the Peace Manuel Cruz set bonds totaling $2,500 for J. P. Wycoff and Pedro Hernandez on charges of cattle theft.

The two failed to make bond and were held for the Webb county grand jury.

They are charged with stealing calves from the ranches of State Senator Jim Neal and David and Marshall and selling the veal in Laredo.

New Mexican Has Plan For Hunting "Walkawampuses"

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Dec. 29 (AP)—Include in your holiday indigestion nightmares the "walkawampus"—allegedly a cross between a beaver and a pack rat.

This strange inhabitant of the White Sands National monument, west of here, according to Walter H. Gardner, who once conducted a chemical laboratory at the sands, refuses to cross a track made by a human being, hence can be trapped by a hunter walking in a steadily narrowing circle.

Gardner admits, however, his method of "walkawampus" hunting is theoretical. He has no "walkawampus" specimens.

Tickets For Cotton Bowl Game Are Still On Sale

Tickets for the Cotton bowl football game can be obtained at the Santa Fe ticket office where 100 were placed on sale Wednesday, according to Ralph Trollinger, traveling passenger agent.

"Tickets are the regular $3.30 kind and are on the 35-yard-line," Trollinger added. "They will be sold only to persons who buy tickets on the Avalanche-Journal special train. First come, first served."

The special is to leave at 9:45 o'clock Sunday night.

Florence Lawrence, Known In Silent Pictures, Is Suicide

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Dec. 29. (AP) — Florence Lawrence, star of silent films, committed suicide yesterday by swallowing poison in her home here, police reported.

Miss Lawrence was found by neighbors and taken to Beverly Hills emergency hospital where physicians tried vainly to save her life.

For the last three years the actress has been working at a stock company on the M-G-M lot. In earlier day films she was co-starred with such notables as Mary Pickford, Maurice Costello and Clara Kimball Young.

Federal Government Could Show Surplus, Is Belief

DETROIT, Dec. 29. (AP)—If the federal government used the bookkeeping methods of private business it might show a surplus for 1938, the American Economic association was told.

Morris A. Copeland, executive secretary of the central statistical board, Washington, D. C., pointed out in an address that under such methods capital investments by the government would be on the balance sheet.

"There is an important residual equity in spite of the recent growth of the public debt," he said. The central board is a federal agency for co-ordinance statistics.

Warning Noted In Conference

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 29 (AP)—A onsiderable portion of the public nd press of leading South Ameri-an capitals has expressed belief hat the eighth Pan-American con-erence, which closed at Lima Tuesday, served an unmistakeable arning on Germany, Italy, and apan to keep out of the western emisphere.

Many representative newspapers nd public figures have indicated, owever, that they fail to see any hreat of armed invasion from those uarters.

Therefore, they are not inclined o favor a military alliance with he United States which they fear ight drag them into a major war.

Important newspapers like La Nacion, La Prensa and Critica of Buenos Aires, A Noite of Rio De aneiro, and others of Santiago and Montevideo, despite a few discord-nt notes, agreed on the principle f continental solidarity against ggression as reached at Lima.

Hitler Hypnotizes, Professor Says

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29. (AP)—A old, calsulating scientific experi-ment shows that the words of Adolf Hitler reduce his listeners to a submissive state bordering closely on hypnotism, Professor M. D. Steer of Purdue university told the con-ventions of American speech teach-ers.

Dr. Steer, director of the Pur-due speech clinic, disclosed results of a partial analysis of recorded Hit-ler speeches.

The frequency of the nazi lead-er's voice in a typical sentence, he explained, is 228 vibrations per sec-ond as compared with the 220 vi-brations cited by one authority as the "usual frequency" for anger.

"It is this high pitch and its ac-companying emotion that puts the German people in a passive state," the Indiana scientist said. "He stuns them with his words in much the same fashion as we are stunned by an auto horn.

"When persons talk like this it becomes obvious that emotion rather than the mind directs what they are saying. From these voice studies I have come to the conclusion Hitler frequently reaches a condition bor-dering on hysteria during the course of his talks."

Trick Of Music Is Told To Teachers

BY JOHN SELBY
Associated Press Arts Editor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Music's latest and neatest trick — a lone musician in Walla Walla, Wash., or some other distant community, playing under the baton of Arturo Toscanini in New York—was ex-plained at the Music Teachers' Na-tional association convention.

It's quite simple, said Ernest La Prade, director of music research or the National Broadcasting com-pany. All you need is a flute or some other instrument tuned properly, and the music.

Then you set up your music rack, put the score on it, and wait for your entrance. Toscanini goes blithe-ly along in New York; your loud speaker brings in the music, and you fit your part to the whole and have a grand time—if Toscanini doesn't go too fast or you don't lose your place.

Thousands of people are doing this, La Prade said, and hardly any of them are out of their heads, no matter what the neighbors think. In fact, La Prade has developed a whole radio program based on the idea, and more than 10,000 persons are on his list and receive regular-ly the materials and advance pro-grams for his so-called "home sym-phony."

"One fanatical flute-player," said La Prade, "reported last season that he played five different symphonies under five different conductors dur-ing a single week end."

All Members Of Present Staff Will Be Retained By Bryan

Announcement that all members of the office's present personnel will be retained when he enters upon his first elective term as county tax assessor-collector Sunday was made by H. B. Bryan.

Bryan's assistants are Harvey Austin, formerly of Slaton, chief deputy; and Joe Marlow, Clayton Mallett, Bedford Carpenter and Emerson A. Shepard, deputies.

Although the term of the office theoretically ends Jan. 1, the offi-cial said, he will defer the taking of oath to a full term in the position until Monday.

Practice On Live Targets Had Made Japanese Fliers Dangerous Bombers

BY LLOYD LEHRBAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Japanese aviators have developed from among the world's worst to among the best bombers through daily practice during 18 months of the Chinese-Japanese war, neutral observers say.

There is general agreement among military experts who have watched Japanese aerial progress up the Yangtze valley that the Japanese have chang-ed from third-rate neophytes—as shown by their record in the early fighting around Shanghai—to destructive marksmen from the air.

Military observers say that in addition to improving their marksmanship and technique through continual practice on "live targets," Japanese have:

1. Developed a greatly im-proved bomb sight;

2. Improved plane construc-tion to provide greater maneu-verability and increased the speed of their engines;

3. Improved the manufacture of their aerial bombs, reducing the number of duds from an es-timated 30 per cent in Shanghai operations to less than one per cent in recent bombings along the Canton-Hankow railroad.

In the final days of the Shan-hai fighting aviation cadets from the air schools in Japan were brought over in force and given practice in bombing Cha-pei. By the time the Japanese reached Nanking they showed some improvement over their Shanghai bombing record and scored a number of direct hits. Blasting their way up the Yang-tze river the Japanese showed further gains in technique and marksmanship. Squadrons of bombers pulverize Chinese de-fense positions, clearing the way for the infantry.

At Hankow, which fell on Oct. 26, 1938, the Japanese repeated-ly struck at military objectives from high altitudes with des-tructive results.

Japanese bombing practice was obtained at a minimum of risk because of the vastly in-ferior Chinese air force.

'Counterfeit' $10,000 Bank Note May Turn Out Genuine, Its Owner Has Been Told

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., Dec. 29 (AP)—For a year Jack Brickley has been pretending to "set 'em up" in his saloon with a worn $10,000 treasury note he thought counterfeit.

Hearing a similar "counter-feit" had been found good at Centralia, Ill., he had his bill inspected. State's Attorney R. W. Griffith declared it appar-ently genuine, though payable only to the Federal Reserve bank.

Brickley sent the note to the Springfield office of the U. S. secret service at Griffith's sug-gestion. He said the bill had been tendered "as a joke" in payment for a drink.

Ten Women And Two Men Are Held In Marijuana Sales

HOUSTON, Dec. 29. (U.P)—Police questioned 10 women and two men today about reported sales of mari-juana cigarettes to school children as federal and city officers cam-paigned against a $500,000-a-year narcotics ring here.

The men and women were held in jail and will be charged today with sale and possession of narco-tics. City Detective Bob Davidson said that some of them were known to be narcotics retailers.

Department Of Agriculture Lists High Feed Stocks

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. (AP)—The Agriculture department has report-ed that feed grain and hay sup-plies for the winter and spring feeding season were the largest in 10 to 12 years in relation to the number of livestock on farms.

The supply of feed grains on farms on October 1, was estimated at 103,-000,000 tons—about 6,000,000 tons more than a year earlier. The hay supply was estimated at 104,000,000 tons, or about 16 per cent larger than last year and 14 per cent above the 1928-32 average.

in opinion."

Through liquor, wine and beer taxation the sate netted slightly over $6,500,000 reflecting a decline of more than $400,000 from 1937. Nearly $1,000,000 in license fees went to cities and counties over the state. Old age pensions received over $4,500,000 and the available school fund $1,200,000 from the total revenues. Counties profited by ap-proximately $230,000 in fines as-sessed law violators.

Enforcement Pushed

An increase of more than 300 to a total of 2,350 hearings on cancel-lation or suspensions of licenses in-dicated consistant efforts at en-forcement. Cancellations numbered 779, a drop of 520 from the previous year, while suspensions increased by 650 to total more than 700.

"We want to make good dealers out of bad ones," Ford said, ex-plaining the change in tactics. "Can-cellations formerly were mandatory in many instances but a change in the law has given us more discre-tion. I think dealers are realizing more and more their salvation de-pends on how well they observe the law."

Pronounce It Hewston Or Houseton, They're Lucky It Isn't Milwaukee

BY E. C. DANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—You say Hew-ston (Tex.) and I say Houseton (street in New York)—but practically nobody says El Pueblo de Nuestra Senora la Reina de Las Angeles.

That was the old Spanish name for Los Angeles, Calif., and Villa Real de Santa Fe de San Francisco was the moniker the long-winded dons gave Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Blunt-spoken, unromantic Americans shortened them both, and when it came to naming places themselves, they called them something short and snap-py like Hot Coffee, Social Circle (Ga.), Matrimony and Wide-mouth (W. Va.).

So the Modern Language as-sociation was told by Harold W. Bentley, managing editor of "American Speech."

He also cited some startling changes Americans have made in French place-names. L'eau Frais river in Arkansas became the Low Freight. Purgatoire and Funneleur in Louisiana became Picketwire and Funny Louis.

And Indian names were al-tered, too. Ouemessourit became Missouri; Mauwauwaming; Wy-oming; Uneaukara, Niagara; and Potowanmeac, Potomac.

Still, among the 25 states and more than 1,200 lakes and streams with Indian names, many of the original tongue-twisters have been retained. Maine has towns named Anasa-gunticook, Oquossoc and Wyto-pitlock.

Many Dutch names survive, too, mainly in New York, though some have been changed, with Breuckelen becoming Brooklyn and De Kromme Zee becoming Gramercy.

Those changes are nothing, however, when compared with the 10 ways of spelling Milwau-kee—Melleoki, Millioki, Meleki, Milwarik, Milwacky, Milwakie, Millewackie, Milwalky, and Mil-waukie.

Monday Is Lubbock Day On Radio Program At Dallas

The city of Lubbock has been cho-sen to lead the list of cities in Tex-as, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisi-ana, Arkansas and Kansas, the six states comprising the coverage area of WFAA, Dallas, to receive sa-lutes on the Early Bird program over that station.

Monday, January 2, will be "Lub-bock Day" on the program, when Eddie Dunn, master of ceremonies, and the Early Bird Orchestra, di-rected by Wilbur Ard, will salute the home of Texas Tech and the prin-cipal commercial center of the south plains of Texas.

The Monday broadcast, the 2,733rd consecutive original Early Bird pro-gram, goes on WFAA at 7 a. m., continuing for forty-two minutes.

Dallas Trippers Advised To Dodge Bad Stretch Of Road

A 35-mile stretch of highway 24 in Dickens and King counties is in bad shape, due to highway construction, said H. Field of Field Bros. Con-struction Co., this morning, in ad-vising persons planning to go to Dal-las to take another route.

"We are working about 100 trucks on this section," he added. "The road is not good for heavy travel and persons who plan to drive to Dallas, either for the Cotton bowl bame or otherwise, are urged to take another route."

The general outlook, it conclud-ed, is for additional improvement in consumer purchasing power and de-mand for farm products in the near future. Prices for farm products were said to have declined less than seasonally in November.

The bureau predicted that cash farm income this year would total $7,625,000,000, a decline of $975,000,-000 from last year. This year's total will include $3,100,000,000 from crops, $4,025,000,000 from livestock and $500,000,000 from government bene-fit payments.

Christmas Celebrated By Palestine Churches From December To March

BETHLEHEM, (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Note to lit-tle boys and girls who are sorry that Christmas in America comes but once a year: Palestine has 11 Christmas days, the only country in the world to have so many.

They extend from the Latin ser-vices on Dec. 25 to the Abyssinian liturgy on March 25 and result from a fourth century dispute within the Christian church over adoption of a unified calendar.

Some Christians adopted the Gre-gorian calendar which puts Christ-mas on Dec. 25. Others retained the Julian calendar while still others chose their own dates for christen-dom's great festivals.

The Abyssinian church celebrates the birth of Christ on the 25th of every month, but the greatest cele-bration is the solemn liturgy on March 25.

On Jan. 6, under the Julian cal-endar, comes the Greek orthodox celebration. As Latin Christians did on Dec. 25, members of the Greek orthodox community will make a pilgrimage to the Bethlehem shrine and reenact the drama of Christ's birth.

The British mandate government of Palestine has recognized all these denominations and has given them equal rights and privileges in all Christian shrines throughout the holy land.

THIS IS A GREAT PICTURE, YES, BUT IT IS MORE THAN THAT. IT IS A DRAMATIC REMINDER OF WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE; A VIVID EXPRESSION OF AMERICA'S HOPE FOR PEACE. A PICTURE YOU WILL LONG REMEMBER.

AS in the recent case of Mary Martin, Weatherford, Tex., star of "Leave It To Me," who must go on singing her smash hit, "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" even after his death, we frequently hear of how show people continue to work despite heartbreaks—so the "show will go on."

The "Pagliacci" theme long has been carried out behind the scenes of the theater and for generations has been the proud saga of the trouper.

Show folks frequently carry on, too, when the basis of their self-denial is not quite so melodramatic.

Consider the case of the great Katherine Cornell, probably the greatest woman actor to grace an American stage since Bernhardt.

SEVERAL years ago, Miss Cornell was on a tour of the United States and while her special train was careening around bends in Colorado and toward her destination a blizzard rose abruptly.

She was due to appear in a small Colorado city at 8:30 that same night, but the tracks became snowbound and the special was stalled while a relief train plowed through from the opposite direction.

Finally her train crawled through the storm and arrived in the city at three o'clock in the morning. Half the audience was at the station to greet the exhausted actress. She made her decision.

Ordering the van men to move the scenery to the theater, she commanded her cast to prepare for a performance. At 4 a. m. the show began, and when it was over at 7 o'clock in the morning, the audience detained the actress until night with repeated ovations. She was due in another city that night, but she had promised this one a show and she was not going to disappoint it.

Thus, if there ever was any doubt about Miss Cornell's greatness, this incident proves it.

A COUPLE of men were talking the other day about filling an important executive position in the business they own.

They were discussing men whom they might employ and on the list was a brilliant and able young man generally considered to be a sure-fire comer.

"He's got everything," one partner said to the other.

"Yes," was the reply, "as far as appears on the surface. But can we trust him?"

"If we can't trust him," continued the first, "what kind of man can we trust?"

"I'll tell you," said the other partner. "The kind of a man you can trust is the man who is simple, direct and sincere. When he undertakes a responsible task, he is fully and deeply conscious of his responsibility. He is intent upon fairness and justness to all, even to those who oppose him.

"To him, the insincerity of the demagogue is as dishonest as the trickery of the con man or the embezzler. To him, honor is dearer than power, and a clear conscience more precious than wealth or fame. He is suspicious of mere brilliance and he is not easily fascinated by the plausibility of quacks, or misled by the enthusiasm of cranks, for good judgment, good character and ripe experience are what he most respects. He does not waver like a leaf in the winds of popular approval or disapproval.

"When he makes a pledge he can be relied upon to keep it, at whatever cost to himself, for he acts on principles of right and wrong, not on the convenience or expediency of the moment. He is not all things to all men. When he says yes, he means yes, and, when he says no, means no.

"In short, the man you can trust, in the long run, is not necessarily the clever man or the charming man, but the man who keeps his word."

You might apply this yardstick to the next man whose honesty and sincerity you may wish to measure.

WE'VE all heard about the scope of dictatorships in Russia, Italy and Germany, but over in Japan they seem to have gone J. Stalin, B. Mussolini and A. Hitler one better.

Over there the boys in the saddle even dictate as to the length and intensity of osculation!

Since Miss Greta Garbo and Mr. Robert (Bobbie) Taylor became flanking movie stars in Japan, the lads and lasses over there have been ordered to limit their kissing to three seconds.

Worried over the possibilities, the Japanese high command has divided the art of kissing into three departments. They are:

1. The "swabium", or amorous kiss as demonstrated by Miss Garbo and Mr. Taylor.
2. The "bium," or friendly kiss. And,
3. The "osculum," or parental smack.

Japanese bosses frown on the "swabium," are not hilarious about the use of the "bium," but countenance, whenever necessary, the "osculum."

Evidently they fear too much "swabium" might prove detrimental to the prestige of "bushido," which is the name given the jolly Japanese custom of dying for dear old Japan with a great big smile!

er had she seen anything to equal that performance in sheer grace and beauty.

"Don't you know? That's Reynolds. He's out for the Olympics. He'll make it, too, if he keeps up that form. He'll probably walk away with most of the honors tomorrow. At least, as one of his fraternity brothers, I can say he'd just better, since we're backing him to stack up joints for dear old Dartmouth."

"I'd like to meet him," Sally said. It suddenly seemed imperative that she should meet this young man. He was the center now of a noisy, enthusiastic crowd as Sally and Corey drew near.

Corey glanced at her, sidewise; his blue eyes narrowed. "That wouldn't do you any good," he informed her, crisply. "Reynolds hasn't any time for women. Not even one as de-lovely and desirable as you, my sweet. Especially one of your kind, I might add."

"Are you afraid you couldn't wring his neck?" Sally laughed at him. "What do you mean by 'one of my kind'? I can't say I exactly relish that!"

There was not time for Corey to answer this, even with one of his ever-ready wise-cracks. Several of the young people, gathered about Dan Reynolds, recognized Sally and Corey and called out to them.

"Hi, there!"

"Alley-cop! It's about time you joined us!"

"Here comes the Queen, everybody! Make way! Let's have a royal welcome!"

Three long loud cheers rang out from lusty young throats as Sally responed with a mocking bow, flashing her smiles to the right and left. However, her dark eyes did not leave the figure of the tall, bare-headed boy, remaining silent and apart.

He, alone, had not raised his voice in welcome.

"Isn't someone going to introduce us?" Sally inquired. Her smile was just for him now. The Queen singling out a humble subject, bestowing a special favor. She would show Corey that he was mistaken. Sally had yet to meet the young man who would not have any time for her.

Someone hastened to go through the formality of introductions. Sally extended her hand. Another gracious gesture. But one that this boy Reynolds accepted coldly. Then he inclined his head briefly, mumbled some small amenity, swung on his skis, glided away.

"What did I tell you?" Corey said at Sally's side. His handsome face wore a wide grin.

"Why, he's the rudest person I ever saw!" Sally's face was flushed, her dark eyes dangerously bright. Then she shrugged her dainty shoulders beneath the bulky warmth of her plaid parka, the hooded, wind-proof jacket of her smart skiing outfit, turned toward the others. "Imagine anyone who's so courageous on top of a mountain, running away at the foot of one! What a great big he-man our would-be Olympic champion is, after all! Did he think I would bite?"

This got a laugh, as she had hoped it would. Someone explained that Reynolds actually was afraid of "anything in skirts" for all his bravery and skill. "Though I'll bet Sally could tame him," Pudge Wylie, another of Corey's fraternity brothers, and another ardent admirer of Sally's, claimed.

"I'll take you up on that," Sally said coolly, with a little proud toss of her head. Her heart beat hard with anger and determination. "It's a double dare, Pudge. For Corey's in on it, too, I'm sure." She turned to him, her dark eyes dancing now. "Check, Corey, my lad?"

"Check." He nodded solemnly. That was their phrase to seal a bargain.

"Well then," Sally said, "if we're going to get started for the two-hour climb up that hill, suppose you fasten my ski-bindings a bit tighter and we'll get going."

But Sally was not thinking of skiing. Her pretty head already was outlining a campaign that promised more thrill and excitement than conquering a mountain.

CHAPTER II

The Ski-Rest, perched high like a crow's nest on top of the mountain, was packed with red-cheeked bright-eyed youngsters dressed in sweaters and knickers and snow suits, wooly mittens and heavy boots. A big fire roared at each end of the long, log room in the huge stone fireplaces. The smell of smoke and wax mingled with the more tantalizing fragrance of coffee and hamburgers. The record machine sang out one gay dance tune after another in rapid succession challenging the chaff and chatter that rose all around. Outside the thermometer registered fifteen below and there was a bitter wind, but within was warmth and coziness and laughter.

"How come you're not entering any of the women's events, Sally?" Babe Fairchild, a plump, doll-faced blond whose nickname suited perfectly, asked the question that all of the "gang" had been hesitating to put. "Everyone thought, as Queen of the Carnival, you'd put the rest of us gals in our places on skiis and skates."

"Why should you think that?" Sally asked. Her dark eyes, beneath long curling lashes, were searching covertly for one particular person among all the close-knit groups. "I'm not that good. Not nearly good enough, in fact." She had her reasons, but she did not mean to divulge them.

"Maybe Sally's satisfied just to be Queen this year," Pudge remarked, coming gallantly to her rescue. Sally might not be able to see him for dust, which was no small wonder with Corey paying her such open homage, but Pudge wouldn't give up hope until the last gun. "What'd you mean not-good-enough? You're plenty super when it comes to any sport, my love."

"Don't you wish she were your love?" Corey taunted, winking broadly. He pulled his chair a bit closer to Sally's, bent his fair head near her dark one. "A penny for your thoughts," he murmured, just for Sally's ears. "Why don't you keep your mind on your work—which is me—why this life-is-real, life-is-earnest attitude, my sweet?"

Sally's eyes smiled back into his. "They're worth much more than that!" she informed him loftily, adding quickly, "How about showing me a bit of shagging?" For Corey prided himself on knowing all the newest, most intricate dance steps. Besides, Sally knew she never was expected to be quiet or serious. That was part of the price paid for maintaining the status of popularity.

"You're a wow for punishment," Corey said with grudging admira-

STATE JUST CATCHING UP

A comparatively few among the citizenship will read with some misgiving the stories that 16 "key" cities in Texas were scenes of new construction costing around $70,000,000 the past year, and that Lubbock's total is in the neighborhood of $3,500,000.

They are apt to ask themselves if these figures are not evidence of over-building. They may be inclined to wonder whether the construction is not in excess of needs.

The best authorities are of the opinion that this is not the case and the facts support their belief. They point to the records of the several years back to and including 1930 and 1931. During that long span until about two years ago, building was as close to paralysis in Texas and over the nation as a whole as at any time in our history. Lubbock was more fortunate than most of the others because this city began to emerge from its lethargy a little more than three years ago.

In spite of the building which has been done in the more recent period, it can be said of the state and Lubbock that they merely have been "catching up". The average for the years since and including 1931 still is substantially below that for a "normal" year in the decade preceding 1930.

The New Boy

Coster Swindle Was Evil Enough But Legal Robberies Are Worse; Some In Disguise

BY JOHN T. FLYNN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Almost everything has been said about the amazing episode of McKesson and Robbins, but there remains one important observation.

Fabulous, rascally as the whole adventure seems as it takes form, it is not one of the things we have really to be greatly disturbed about.

The McKesson & Robbins looting was different wholly from all of the great financial disasters of the last 10 years. It was quite an old-fashioned crime.

FLYNN

In its essential features it was just plain stealing. The criminals merely looted the great drug company of its physical stocks—took them out like any burglar and carried them away.

About that kind of crime we do not have to trouble so greatly. The public is absolutely opposed to it. The laws denouncing it are plain and there is a district attorney's office and a police force which goes to work on it sooner or later with inevitable vigor.

Harder For Safe Robbers

There will be demands for this reform and that one, this amendment and that to the law. And the laws will be slightly improved and the way of the burglar—the fellow who steals physical assets or who actually rifles a safe—will be made a little harder, which is as it should be, in spite of the fact that it is already quite hard.

But when all is said and done the McKesson & Robbins crime amounted in the end to 10 or 15 or 20 million dollars—yet to be determined—but merely a flea bite.

What really is serious are those far more intricate, more subtle forms of stealing which are not against the law, which are, indeed, more or less respectable and which run the national loss into perhaps billions of dollars each year.

It is all the difference between the fellow who breaks into a bank at night and makes off with the cash and the insider who, by clever, legal but deadly devices, manages to permit the bank's assets to trickle slowly into his hands.

The disturbing feature of this is that there are no laws against much of this kind of crime, which is loosely included under the head of exploitation, even after all the skullduggery of the '20s and there is little demand for doing anything about it.

Robberies Ithout A Gun

It is still unlawful and messy and rude to go into a store, hold up the owner at the point of a gun and loot his cash register.

But there are ways of going into a store, pointing a stock certificate at the owner and making him hand over the cash with a smile, but which deprives the owner of his cash as effectively—and essentially as criminally—as if it were done with a black-jack.

The McKesson & Robbins thriller cost no lives, save Coster's, made perfectly thrilling reading and cost only a few millions. But it filled us with a fever for reform—although not for reform of the cute schemes by which less interesting but infinitely more costly burglaries are committed.

tion, pulling himself to his feet. "After the strenuous hours we've put in these last two days and nights, and if anyone questions the strenuousness just let him look how my poor knees are beginning to cave in!" He took a circle around the table, making his knees wobble comically, turning his feet on edge, bringing a laugh from everyone at his clowning. Then he whirled Sally out onto the tiny square of polished floor in a dizzy, wild tango that caused the few other couples to shy into corners to watch the exhibition. For among all her other accomplishments, Sally was the slickest dancing partner any fellow ever had.

"Just what is the big idea?" Corey asked, after the applause had died down and they had taken a breathdown and they had taken a breathless bow before they wandered back toward their table again. "Why aren't you entering the women's events, Sally?" He had expected Sally to come off with top honors as she had last year. Incidentally, as his girl, he felt she owed it to him. Just as now he felt she owed him an explanation for not entering.

"I told you, I'm not good enough," Sally answered lightly. The color in her cheeks deepened, her heartbeat quickened. Not because she still was breathless from the dance, but because—at last—her bright roving glance had been rewarded. In a far corner, all by himself, his attention completely absorbed in the task of waxing his skis with infinite patience and loving care, sat the person she had been searching for. Apparently he had not even taken time out to observe Sally and Corey's exhibition. Apparently he did not know they were on earth.

"This way!" Sally tugged at Corey's sweater sleeve. She gave him a knowing look. "Remember our 'check,' Corey? Be a good boy and keep quiet. And watch the fun."

She walked straight over to that corner, Corey following, his handsome face a bit puzzled, a bit sulky.

"Greetings!" Sally said in her calm, clear voice. She tossed back her dark curls; her eyes held their bright, dangerous look. "We know we're interrupting. A thousand pardons for that. But Corey wants to ask a favor, as one brother to another. Isn't that right, Corey, my lad?" She threw him a laughing look that bound him in intimate understanding.

Corey prided himself on being a good sport. She knew she could rely on him not to let her down.

Dan looked up reluctantly, running one hand absentmindedly, in a sort of caress, down the smoothly-polished ski. He said, "Hello," none too cordially. His eyes—Sally had taken note before that they were gray, and very grave, as well—met hers squarely.

"Don't bother to get up!" Sally said quickly, significantly. Usually men could not get to their feet swiftly enough when Sally stood before them. She wondered if he was being rude purposely, or if he did not know any better.

The slow flush that crept up the high planes of his dark cheek-bones answered this. He knew better, all right. For some reason he was determined to snub Sally. His gray eyes still were direct. "I wasn't going to," he answered. "I couldn't risk dropping these." He nodded toward the skis balanced across his knees. "What can I do for you, Corey?" His tone held the tinge of politeness due an upper-classman.

"Corey wants to ask you if you'll give me a lesson in skiing tomorrow morning," Sally put in before her escort could say anything. She slipped an arm through Corey's, gave him a little warning pressure. "Corey says he knows you could teach me better than anyone else. I'll meet you at whatever time you name."

The gray eyes never wavered. If he was taken by surprise, if he wanted to refuse, but felt he could not, Dan Reynolds did not give any sign. "Make it six o'clock," he said. "That's the only possible time I could manage."

"Six o'clock—in the morning!" Sally gasped.

Dan nodded. Briefly, decisively. He bent his head over his skis again, dipped the rag in the wax.

"Serves you right!" Corey's sulkiness vanished. He took Sally's arm to lead her back where she belonged. "I can picture you rising at that unholy hour to win any dare, my sweet! I suppose that's what you're up to. You're usually up to something. But—and this time I'll lay any odds you ask for—you might as well give up before you commence."

"I'll name them," Sally agreed. "And match them with any you care to mention."

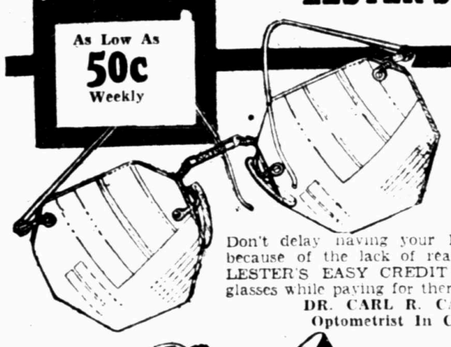

She wished she felt as confident as she sounded!

TRADE AT CLARK'S

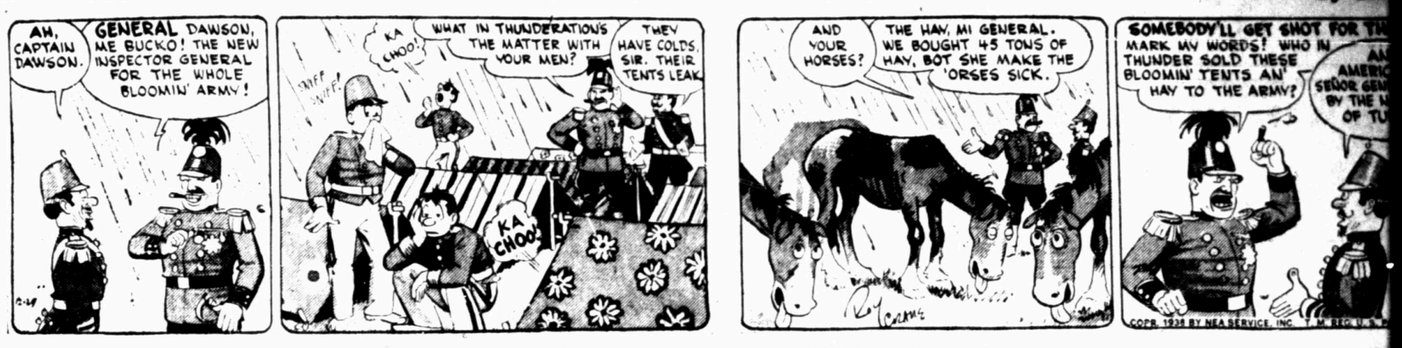

THE WOMAN WHO SHOPPED BY PHONE . . . .

One morning last week, when the Christmas Shopping Rush was on, she realized how pleasant it was at home instead of shopping for groceries. But how could she stay in, when there was a grocery order to be filled? She decided to place the order over the phone, something she had never done before. So she stayed at home . . . and her order was sent over immediately, selected as carefully as if she had shopped herself. (When YOU would rather stay at home, shop by phone!)

Condition Improved—Dr. James M. Gordon of Texas Technological college was reported improved in condition when his daughter, Miss Betty Alice Gordon, returned Wednesday from Temple. Dr. Gordon underwent surgery in Temple last Thursday. His condition is considered satisfactory, said Miss Gordon.

Daughter Born—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burrus of Levelland are parents of a daughter born at 6:40 o'clock this morning at Plains hospital. The infant weighed 7 pounds. Burrus is a farmer.

Spend Holidays Here—J. F. Hute and Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Honea and daughter of Anson have returned to their home after spending the Christmas holidays here with Mr. and Mrs. Riley F. Hute 3008 Twentieth street.

Fine Is Assessed—A fine of $50 was assessed Wednesday afternoon against a 26-year-old negro, who pleaded guilty before B. P. Millsap, city recorder, in corporation court to assault of a white boy. The negro had been arrested that morning at Seventeenth street and Avenue E by Ralph Goldwater and Silas Anderson of the police department.

Bond Is Set—Bond of $1,000 was set for Margaret Childress, 20-year-old negro woman, Wednesday in connection with murder charges filed against her for fatal stabbing Monday of Sidney Childress, her brother-in-law. Bond was set by Walter Davies, justice of peace, with whom the complaint was filed. The man died Wednesday afternoon. Complaint was signed by Jas. P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff, and prepared by Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney. The woman had not executed bond at noon.

Youths' Bonds Set—Walter Davies, justice of peace, Wednesday set bonds of $1,000 each for four Fort Worth youths, charged with burglary and held for investigation into crashing of King's Jewelry store show window Monday morning. None had posted bond at noon. Charged in complaints were Jack Morgan, about 17, Otto Seaton, about 18, Coleman Paris, jr., about 20, and Aude Vee Dorris Harmon, about 19.

Man Is Sought—Police here were asked to be on look out for a man suspected of stealing a large Navajo blanket this morning in Hale Center. Sheriff Kelly Hooper of Plainview told police the man, about 45, was last seen coming toward Lubbock. He was described as about 6 feet tall, wearing a corduroy cap, a blue jumper and brown pants.

MORTGAGE AWAITS PAY DIRT

PORTLAND, Ore. (U.P.) — Both W. R. Mascall, veteran rancher, and Federal Judge McColloch seem convinced that "there's gold in them thar hills." The judge extended the foreclosure of a mortgage on Mascall's 4,000 acre ranch for one year in which to give him time to find enough gold in a 148-acre gravel bed to pay the mortgage.

Sutton Trial

attorneys said. He will base his defense, they added, on the contention that witnesses who have identified him as the hijacker-slayer are mistaken.

Should the judge order the trial to proceed, the questioning of members of a special venire will begin immediately. Ninety veniremen were called, but a considerable portion were excused from service this morning.

Relatives Under Charge

W. P. Brown and D. C. Brown brothers-in-law of Sutton, Smith said, were indicted as accessories at the same time Sutton was indicted on a charge of murder. It was indicated their trials probably would be called upon completion of Sutton's trial.

Sutton was charged with murder in Dawson county after an investigation by Frank Mills and other Texas rangers, Smith, Dawson county officers and Lubbock county authorities about the middle of October. Sworn statements were taken from witnesses.

Sutton was transferred to the Lubbock county jail after he was convicted on a felony charge in South Texas. He has served three penitentiary sentences, Smith said.

Sutton, when faced by investigators in Lubbock, staunchly denied any connection with the shooting and contended suspicion of him was a case of mistaken identity.

He talked freely to investigators, telling them continued investigations would clear him. He welcomed further investigations, he said.

"I didn't do it," Sutton told questioners. "You have arrested the wrong man."

The 33-year-old suspect told Smith he was at Lamesa at the time of the shooting, but on the night of the holdup he said he was at a gin with a bale of cotton.

Admits Pen Terms

He told authorities he served two penitentiary terms in Texas and one in New Mexico, all on car theft convictions.

The Brown men were transferred here from the state penitentiary for trial, Smith said.

After a lone unmasked bandit on the night of Dec. 11, 1937, had taken the money from the Lamesa haberdashery when he held Woodroof at gun's point, the clerk 27, followed him out of the place and gave chase.

After a block, Woodroof overtook the bandit and they wrestled. A shot was fired, wounding Woodroof. He was rushed to a hospital here and died the next morning. The hijacker escaped.

Officers, in the midst of investigations about two months ago declined to release for publication details which they said led to belief Sutton was connected with the killing, but admitted it was "in a round-about-way."

In the United States, there are about 50,000 fewer babies born every year than the year preceding.

Young Doctor Gets Medical Award

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 29. (AP)—Award of a $1,000 medical prize to Charles F. Code, M. D., 28, of Minneapolis, for discovery of a "mechanism" in the blood which may explain asthma, hay fever and the allergies such as food sensitivity was announced here.

The prize is the Theobald Smith award, given to young men, by the medical section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Dr. Code is working for the Mayo foundation of the University of Minnesota.

He reported today discovery that one type of white blood cell, called an eosinophile, is the carrier of histamine. The latter is a very powerful chemical, always present in humans and animals, whose means of transport through the body has been somewhat of a mystery.

Discovery of the "carrier" links histamine not only with the sensitivity troubles but also with one of the forms of leukemia, the wild increase in white blood cells which frequently causes death.

Women Are Rescued From Fire In New York Apartment House

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)—Two women—one blind and crippled and the other 103 years old—were rescued today when a fire spread from a Brooklyn junkyard to a four-story apartment house and routed 26 families into cold.

Mrs. Rose Moskowitz, blind and with only one leg, was carried out from a first floor apartment by Max Solowitz, after the woman's daughter had made an unsuccessful effort to save her.

From another first-floor apartment, elderly Samuel Sellinger carried his 103-year-old mother, Mrs. Rose Sellinger, to the street.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

Quakes Shake All Earth's Surface

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 29. (AP)—Earthquakes are not merely local disturbances which upset the people, buildings and life of a local community, but disturb the entire crust of the earth, Dr. W. D. Cairns of Oberlin college, Oberlin, O., told the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The phenomenon of a portion of the upper rocks of the earth slipping downward or being forced upward is never a simple local disturbance, he declared. It may slip along a so-called "fault" but other portions of the earth are affected by the movement.

For example, he said, when the San Francisco earthquake of 1906 accurred the land to the northeast moved to the southeast and the area southwest moved toward the northwest. Boundary lines moved as much as 20 feet in different directions. When the earth shook any particular spot moved forward and backward, sideways, and up and down at the same time until the rocks underneath readjusted themselves.

Meteoric Increase In Number Of Fliers Made In Britain

LONDON, Dec. 29. (AP)—Royal air force personnel has been expanded until it is expected to total 100,000 active airmen by next June — a growth faster than ever attained in peacetime by either of Britain's other two fighting services.

Between March and November personnel increased from 69,000 to 85,000. The flow of recruits was steady but hardly sufficient for needs of the hastened plane-building program.

To increase recruiting the air ministry has done much to make service with the R. A. F. attractive to young men. The life has been varied and training has been arranged to assist airmen of finding civilian employment on leaving the service.

Fateful Finding Recorded In Probe Into Man's Shooting

ELYRIA, O., Dec. 29. (AP)—Surveyors found today that the Christmas tree which William Rousseau, 37, was alleged to have been taking for his children when he was shot to death by William Case, 84, was not on Case's farm.

County Engineer Harry L. Dunham said the tree was in the right of way of a Township road, eight feet from Case's property.

The white-bearded farmer is under $1,000 bond on a manslaughter charge. Prosecutor Howard Butler said he would not change the charge but that the grand jury might make it murder.

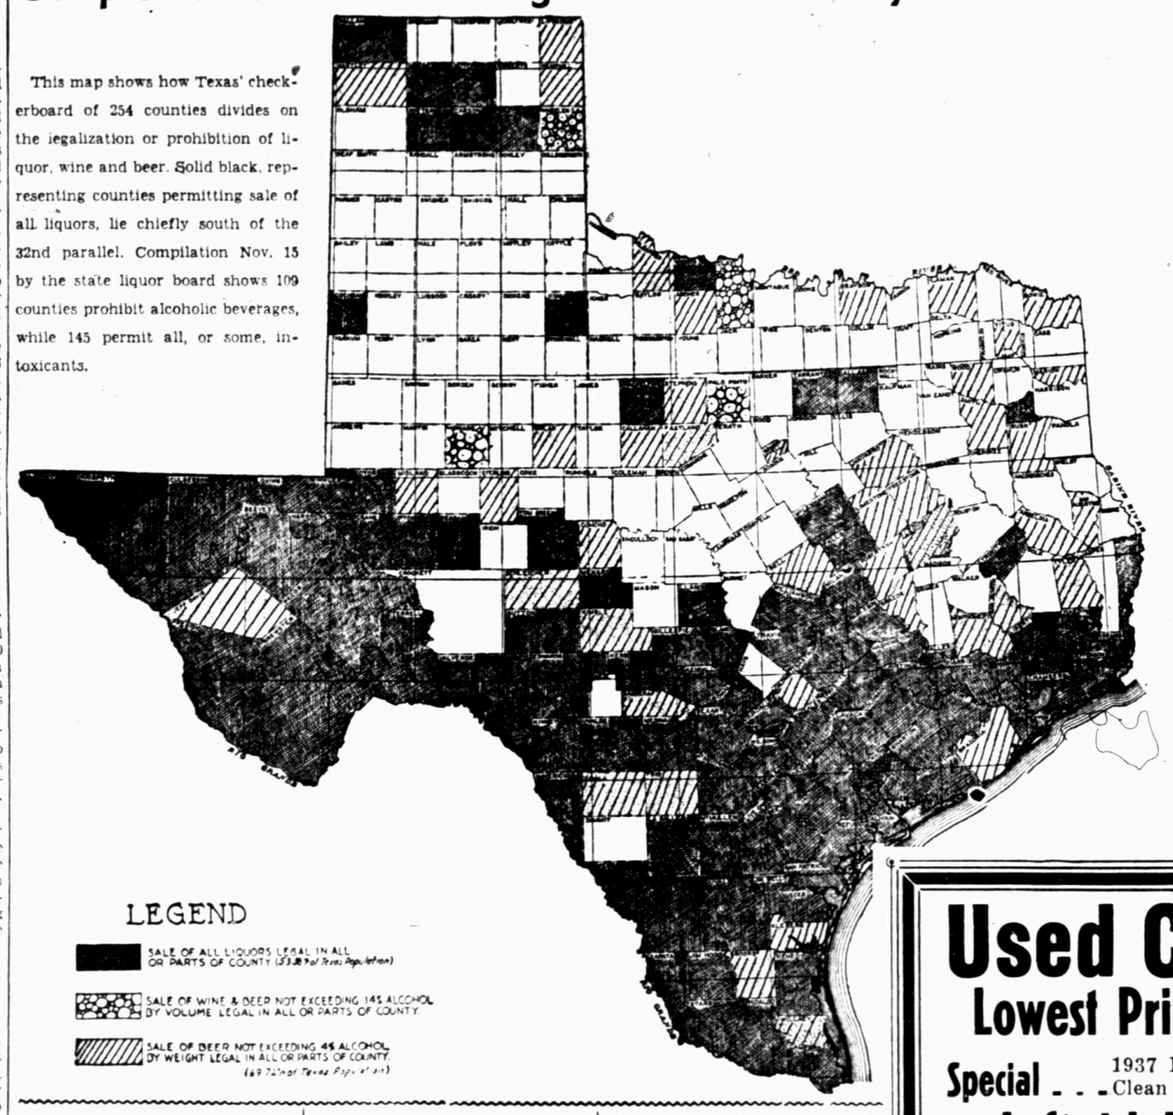

AGED ACTOR DIES

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29. (AP)—Albert Christian Henderson von Tornow, noted as a Shakespearean actor under the name of Albert Henderson died at his home today. He was 71.

The guitar, which is traceable back to 1700 B. C., is one of the world's oldest musical instruments.

Complexion Of Texas As Regards 'Wet' And 'Dry' Areas

This map shows how Texas' checkerboard of 254 counties divides on the legalization or prohibition of liquor, wine and beer. Solid black, representing counties permitting sale of all liquors, lie chiefly south of the 32nd parallel. Compilation Nov. 15 by the state liquor board shows 109 counties prohibit alcoholic beverages, while 145 permit all, or some, intoxicants.

Grace Moore Swept By Surges Of Indecision; She Curtsied

CANNES, France, Dec. 29. (AP)—Grace Moore sailed for New York today amid a controversy she stimulated by giving the Duchess of Windsor a deep curtsy in public.

The curtsy is reserved for royalty, and the American opera singer and movie actress had come face to face with an increasingly puzzling question, whether the American-born duchess who married an abdicated king is or is not royalty.

Buenos Aires motorists are compelled by the municipal authorities to keep their cars free from mud.

Tire mileages have increased 76 percent in the last 10 years, according to studies made by the Rubber Manufacturers association. In the last year the average mileage per tire increased 6 1-2 percent.

New Iowa Official Finds Egg Good For Cuite A Surprise

CEDAR SPRINGS, Iowa, Dec. 29. (AP)—In a manner somewhat appropriate to his office, Harry Linn, newly appointed state assistant secretary of agriculture, received a greeting laid by a genuine Iowa hen.

At a testimonial dinner last night his hosts asked him to break open an egg. Inside was a message on thin paper signed by all the men present.

Prof. P. E. Phillips, jr., of Iowa State college explained to the amazed official that three such messages had been inserted in the egg sacs of three hens. Three were used to insure having at least one egg in time for the dinner.

One biddy did her part.
