Japanese Troops Are in Severe Fighting With Chinese

JAPAN STAYS FIRM ON HER PROPOSITION

She Demands Conditions Which China Is Believed to Be Unwilling to Make at This Time.

U. S. IS CRITICIZED

American Representative Is Not Backing Program, But Lone Hand Played at Important Parley.

TOKYO, Oct. 22. (Thursday). (AP)—A Mukden dispatch today said Japanese garrisons were fighting under difficulty with 2,000 Chinese soldiers near Tiehling on the South Manchurian railway south of Mukden.

The dispatch added reinforcements were rushing from Mukden to aid the garrisons. Tiehling is about 45 miles north of Mukden. A train from Changchun, about the same distance north of Tiehling, was halted.

GENEVA, Oct. 21. (AP)—There was a distinct note of pessimism this evening among persons in a position to know the trend of debate regarding Manchuria in the League of Nations council, and the belief was widespread that the United States, represented by Prentiss B. Gilbert, was not backing up the league's program of ratification.

Reports of conversations at Washington between Secretary of State Stimson and Atsuji Debuchi, the Japanese ambassador, appeared to have aroused fears that the United States was playing a lone hand and short-circuiting the council's efforts to induce withdrawal of Japanese troops from Manchuria.

At the same time, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's representative on the council, remained adamant in his refusal to promise recall of Japanese troops without certain guarantees, which it is believed China is unwilling to undertake.

End Is Forecast

It was understood members of the council were very much discouraged and that they were considering adjourning this extraordinary session before the end of the week without taking any definite action on the Manchurian problem. There were no arrangements announced for the next council session and it was uncertain what the next step would be.

GENEVA, Oct. 21. (AP)—Japan renewed her insistence today that she cannot take her troops out of Manchuria until China provides definite assurance that Japanese in Manchuria will be protected.

The principal members of the League of Nations council could not shake the determination of Kenkichi Yoshizawa, the Japanese representative, at a long meeting this afternoon, and Lord Reading of Great Britain said there probably would be an open meeting of the full council tomorrow.

It was during today's session that the Japanese distributed to the press another long memorandum setting forth their position.

"Something will have to be done," the memorandum concluded, "to re-establish an atmosphere of relative security in order that living conditions in Manchuria may get back to normal."

Cites Hostile Acts

"Japan considers it essential that China give assurance that she wishes to put an end to illegal, hostile acts by the military and civil authorities toward the Japanese population, and that China guarantee that Japanese in Manchuria may continue operation of their business without molestation."

Japan has no territorial designs in Manchuria, the note asserts, but "wishes that China shall observe the engagements which she has undertaken toward Japan."

SHANGHAI, Oct. 21. (AP) The Sino-Japanese dispute over Manchuria will be given an airing at two different conferences here this week.

Leaders of the Institute of Pacific relations, which convened today, said although the Manchurian controversy was not specifically included in its program, a discussion of the present imbroglio will not be evaded when the problem appears as it inevitably will.

The Manchurian question also is expected to have an important bearing on the approaching peace conferences between delegates of the South China insurgent government, who arrived here today, and representatives of the Central Nationalist government.

A definite time for the commencement of the peace missions, which leaders of both factions hope will mend the breach between the Nanking and Canton governments, has not been set but they are expected to bgin soon after the arrival here of President Chiang Kai-Shek of the Nationalist regime.

As Al Heard Guilty Verdict

You can guess what is running through his mind! Al Capone, Chicago gang lord, is shown above as he emerged from court after having heard the guilty verdict returned by a federal court jury in Chicago which heard charges of income tax frauds against him. Capone was found guilty on five counts and now faces the penitentiary. Note the dazed expression.

PAMPA AND PANHANDLE GET MUCH RAIN DURING NIGHT

Damage to Cotton Areas of This Section Is Heavy—Traffic Hindered.

By the Associated Press.

Heavy rains fell throughout a large area of the Panhandle-Plains country last night.

Damage to crops, particularly cotton, little of which had been gathered, was believed extensive.

In several other sectors traffic was disrupted. Near Quitaque one-half mile of railway tracks was washed out, halting service. Highway traffic east and west of Lubbock was disrupted. Intermittent showers fell throughout the day and were augmented by downpours at night. Lubbock received more than two inches of rain. Quitaque and environs had more than an inch and a half.

The Santa Fe station at Lubbock reported the rainfall extended as far south as Post where .25 inch was registered.

The North Panhandle area from Plainview to the Oklahoma line received one-half inch. Precipitation at Crosbyton Slaton, and Ralls measured about two inches.

More than 15 other points reported rainfall.

Electrical storms and high winds were reported in many sections.

Rainfall amounting to 2.50 inches drenched Brownfield last night. In some portions of the country precipitation was estimated as high as nine inches. Hail fell in places.

The precipitation in the Pampa area averaged about an inch. A warm sun today was drying roads rapidly.

Slayer Is Given 5-Year Sentence

HOUSTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—George F. Conklin, 25, was convicted by a jury today of the murder of Adolph Kolesnikevic, 20, and was assessed a five-year suspended sentence. Kolesnikevic was slain outside a dance hall last October.

The state offered Kolesnikevic's dying statement in which the boy was quoted by the district attorney's investigator as saying he was shot even as he begged Conklin not to shoot.

The defense offered a hypothesis that the shooting was accidental and that Conklin pursued the youth under the impression he was a "hijacker."

The condition of Judge Clifford Braly, who suffered a heart attack yesterday while at his rooms in the Stinnett courthouse, was slightly improved today.

Another Man Is Shot By Negro

FORT WORTH, Oct. 21. (AP)—Floyd Culton, farmer, was wounded at his home near here last night by a charge from a shotgun in the hands of a negro he had never seen.

The charge was fired through a kitchen window, striking Culton in the face. His assailant then entered the room, striking him over the head with the gun.

The shotgun, which was left in the Culton home, was believed to have been the one taken from the home of D. L. Reed, 60, and used in his slaying by a negro late Monday.

Culton was not considered in a critical condition last night. A squad of deputy sheriffs, 50 policemen and more than 100 armed citizens began a thorough search of the neighborhood.

Culton was the third victim of a negro's bullet in Tarrant county within 26 hours. E. L. Zay was wounded yesterday in a duel in which the negro was killed.

POISONED MAN IS WEAKENING

BORGERITE IS GIVEN LITTLE CHANCE NOW

A. B. Alspach, Superintendent of Prairie Production, Sinks While Physicians Search for Anti-Toxin.

AUTOPSY IS MADE

Botulism, Perhaps Induced by Improperly Canned Food Believed to Have Caused Trouble.

AMARILLO, Oct. 21. (AP)—A. B. Alspach, who was stricken yesterday with what physicians believe may be botulism, a rare type of food poisoning, was growing weaker today and attendants expressed the belief that he could not recover.

Alspach, who is superintendent of production of the Prairie Oil and Gas company in the Panhandle field, and whose home is in Borger, was stricken at the bedside of his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Alspach, who died from the strange poisoning early yesterday.

A thorough autopsy was performed on Mrs. Alspach's body by seven Amarillo and Borger physicians, and the result of the chemical analyses will be known late today, physicians said.

"Although we believe the malady to be botulism," said Dr. R. A. Duncan, attending physician, "we can not be positive of the diagnoses until the laboratory has announced the result of the various tests. We have an anti-toxin ready to administer if our present diagnosis is correct, but it may be too late now."

If the malady is botulism, it was probably caused from eating home-canned foods, the physician said. Neighbors of the Alspachs in Borger have been warned, doctors fearing that some of the food might have been eaten by others.

GOLD DIGGER IS HELD AFTER FLIGHT

DALLAS, Oct. 21. (AP)—Officers returned Fritzi Staples, 20, a pretty blonde waitress, to Big Spring today for prosecution on a charge of theft from person. She was accused of taking a large sum of money from a prominent Big Spring business man while on a drinking party.

She was arrested here yesterday shortly after her arrival in a specially charatered airplane in which she had flown from Big Spring before daybreak. Officers found $2,300 in her purse.

Miss Staples explained the business man had become intoxicated. "He just handed me his bankroll and said, 'take this, baby, and have a good time'," she told officers. "Of course, I took it."

The business man informed officers he might have given the money to the girl, but didn't remember all that had occurred during the party.

Edison's Lamps in Tribute to Inventor

By The Associated Press

Americans made Thomas Edison's electric lamp today a beacon of tribute to his memory.

One minute of darkness at 10 o'clock, eastern standard time, tonight—an hour when night will have enfolded all America between the two oceans—was suggested by President Hoover as "a solemn tribute to the memory of Thomas Alva Edison."

"I suggest," the president said, "that all individuals should extinguish their lights for one minute Wednesday evening, Oct. 21, at 10 o'clock eastern standard time. It is my understanding that the broadcasting companies will undertake a brief program in respect to Mr. Edison's memory at this moment."

Mr. Hoover said the turning off of electrical current at generating plants, as had been suggested, "would constitute a great peril to life throughout the country."

"This demonstration of the dependence of the country upon electrical current for its life and health," the president concluded, "is in itself a monument to Mr. Edison's genius."

Augmenting the presidential suggestion were gubernatorial proclamations, mayoral calls on the people and announcements by great public utilities of special tributes.

Major Doolittle Rests For Return Trip Tomorrow

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21. (AP)—Maj. James H. Doolittle, noted American flyer, was taking a day off today after having hung up a new mark for air speedsters yesterday by flying from Ottawa, Canada, to Mexico City, by way of Washington, D. C., in 12 hours and 36 minutes, linking three capitals.

Major Doolittle landed his swift plane, which he called his "Baby Fowerhouse," at Valbuena field, at 3:16 p. m., mountain standard time. He took off from Ottawa at 4:40 a. m., eastern standard time, and made stops at Washington, Birmingham, Ala., and Corpus Christi, Texas.

He calculated his average speed for the flight at 204 miles an hour and said he was making 235 miles an hour some of the time. The last 225 miles of the flight, from Tampico, were covered in 54 minutes.

A ground fog delayed him 40 minutes at Washington, he said. The fog kept him from landing at Bolling field, where his supplies were waiting, and he was forced to land at another flying field and make emergency arrangements. If it had not been for this incident, he said, his time would have been about 11½ hours.

The weather was fine, and he saw no storms. He was made a bit "groggy," he said, by a leaking exhaust pipe which admitted some carbon monoxide into the cabin of the plane and this, coupled with the fact he had not been able to sleep the night before, had eaten nothing all day, made it a "hard trip."

He said he planned to return to St. Louis tomorrow, after a rest.

The Diary of a Deb

This evening outfit is one of the fall costumes worn by Jean Woodson, Washington debutante. The coat is of black velvet with white fur collar.

(Editor's Note: Following is the third of a series of eight articles written by Jean Woodson, Washington society girl, describing the life of a debutante).

(For the Associated Press)

3—MY HOUSTON WHIRL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Right now I want to forget Washington and tell you about my visit in Houston, Texas, for I had such a wonderful time there.

Everyone treated me so nicely and there was something to do every minute.

I visited Virginia Eagle, and she gave a wonderful luncheon in my honor the very day I arrived. I was so thrilled when we drove out to the country club and met all the girls.

After the luncheon we drove around the city in Virginia's new car.

We went to the first football game played this season by Rice Institute and that night we attended the first Rice dance.

During my visit we went some place every night. Most of the time though it was to a roof garden. The orchestra was very good and the dance floor was fixed up so cute with colored lights that made the girls' dresses most attractive.

It reminded me a lot of a roof garden in Washington.

The Texas girls are beautiful and their complexions are exquisite. One girl I met down there has been going to West Point for the dances for two years, so of course we got together and talked it all over.

Texas boys, I found, are handsome, and I was fascinated by their southern drawls.

We went to lunch one day with Lillian Lloyd. I surely was glad to see her. We had a lot to talk over about boarding school, and of course we reminisced.

We saw a style show, too, the models walking around us while we ate luncheon. The clothes were stunning. Quite a few models of black velvet were shown.

Another day we went to the San Jacinto Inn for luncheon. It's quite an historic battlefield and I was glad to see it.

One Sunday a whole crowd of us drove down to Galveston and went swimming in the Gulf of Mexico. The water wasn't very cold but the waves were quite high. We had lots of fun jumping them. We stayed in the water for quite awhile, then came out and had a picnic supper on the beach.

The food was delicious. We had the best fried chicken and lots of pickles and sandwiches. The sunset was beautiful, red and gold against a background of fluffy white clouds.

Right after supper we drove back to Houston, and when Virginia and I said goodnight we both felt that it was the end of a perfect day.

But now I'm back in Washington and with so many preparations to make for my debut, I have a lot of other things to think and write about.

Tomorrow: Miss Woodson tells of her deb friends.

Experiments on himself with a new form of rubber mask for administering oxygen and gas are believed to have caused the death of Dr. Gilbert Blurton, who recently was found dead in his room in West Bridgford, England, with the mask over his face.

Robert Ray Lantz Favored at Party

Robert Ray Lantz was complimented on his sixth birthday with a party given by his mother, Mrs. R. E. Lantz. The Lantz home was prettily decorated in pink and white.

Favors were given the children, and ice cream and cake were served at the close of the afternoon.

Those present were Miss Mabel Van Sickle, Mrs. Orvil Drake, Miss Ruth Henry, Dorothy Ray Harris, Lois Tanner, Billie Jean Contz, Geraldine Jones, Virginia Lee Atwood, Ethel Worden, Jimmie Bill Devers, Valda Mann, Otis Beaty, Jr., Philip Anderson, George and Russel Neif, Oscar Brothers, and Charles Fenoglio.

In keeping the opposing football team, the Rangers, from making a goal during a close game at Glasgow, England, recently, John Thompson, 22, of the Celtics was knocked down by a player and killed.

PURSE FOUND BY WOMAN ON TOP OF CAR

"I found the purse on top of my car."

Thus came an answer by telephone this morning to a LOST AND FOUND advertisement in The NEWS-POST.

It was not so much the money it contained as it was a pair of glasses that fit her eyes perfectly that was worrying an Amarillo woman who lost her purse at the Pampa depot recently. She telephoned from Amarillo to put an advertisement in the local newspapers.

The Amarillo woman, standing on the running board of the car here, had placed the purse on top of the car and had forgotten it when she left.

No doubt about it—Classified ads in The NEWS-POST get results.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Hollyce Sellers Hinkle

"I'm an optimist. . .

* * * *

"And I never spend any time looking backward. A lot of fellows get all fussed up comparing figures of what used to be and trying to SEE how it compares with NOW!

* * * *

"And worrying about a lot things that never happen. I feel that right now is the time for you and me to do some real two-fisted SELLING.

* * * *

"There has never been a time in the history of this country when things could be bought at such a low price . . . and instead of gluing our eyes on every report there is about people out of work, let us consider this . . .

* * * *

"There are right now 35 million whose incomes have not been impaired. These people can and are buying everything they need . . . wearing apparel, new homes, new furniture, new office appliances, and new automobiles."

* * * *

Just a letter from one salesman to another—but aren't we all salesmen? Maybe we do not sell furniture—but perhaps we sell our services. Maybe we don't sell clothing—but we must all sell our personalities. We must recognize any evil that may be with us and do what we can to remedy it—but we can do that without making it a primary topic of conversation. It is the optimist who sells his goods, whether it be merchandise, services, or personalities. Be happy! Be successful! Be an optimist!

Hooray! The new telephone directories are out. Now when we telephone the high school, we won't hear "The number has been changed to 70," etc., etc.

The cost of food is decreasing, which is fine for those in town and not so fine for those who raise their own food. "But figure the value of your pantry," Miss Myrtle Miller is telling members of the home demonstration clubs, "you'll find its not so small after all."

* * * *

Home demonstration agents of Texas received from College Station valuations of home-canned food this year and last year. Last year's prices are given first in the following figures: 1 quart canned fruit, 50 cents, 20 cents; 1 pound dried fruit, 12½ cents, 12½cents; 1 quart canned vegetables, 35 cents, 20 cents; 1 pound dried vegetables, 12½ cents, 12½ cents; 1 glass jelly, 20 cents, 12 cents; 1 quart preserves, 9c cents, 60 cents; 1 quart pickle or relish, 50 cents, 35 cents; 1 quart fruit juice, 40 cents, 40 cents; 1 quart vinegar, 15 cents, 15 cents, 1 quart canned meat, 75 cents, 60 cents; one pound cured meat, 15 cents, 15 cents.

Richard Dix and Grocer's Daughter On Honeymoon

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. Oct. 21 (AP)—Forsaking a pretentious Hollywood ceremony for one in the small desert town of Yuma, Ariz., Richard Dix, film actor, yesterday married Miss Winifred Coe, daughter of a retired San Francisco wholesale grocer.

MERTEN P.-T.A. HAS MEETING HERE TUESDAY

E. O. Barrett spoke on Safety From a Spiritual Standpoint and Mrs. Tom Alford spoke on Safety From a Mother's Standpoint at a meeting of Merten Parent-Teacher association Tuesday afternoon at the school. Safety From the Standpoint of Fire was the subject discussed by Fire Chief Clyde Gold at the same meeting.

America was sung in opening the meeting, and prayer was led by Mr. Barrett. A playlet, Fire Drill, was presented by a group of pupils.

Miss Madeline Tarpley favored the association with a piano selection, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Alford, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. B. Haney, sang a duet, Haven of Rest.

During a business session, it was decided that a meeting of the Merten Child Study club in two weeks should replace the meeting of the association.

Without stopping to remove his clothing, 70-year-old Charles L. Thompson jumped into the sea at Southsea, England, and saved a 12-year-old boy, swimming ashore with the lad under one arm.

PAMPA JUNIOR HIGH WILL PLAY PANHANDLE TOMORROW

O ADMISSION CHARGED FOR NEXT GAME

tle Future Harvesters To Play First Contest At 4 O'clock.

lthough the Harvesters will be this week, the Gorillas and the nior high squads will play Bor- and Panhandle junior high ool. Coach W. B. Weatherred nounced the game for the juniors s morning, to be played here to- rrow at 4 o'clock. The Gorilla- rger game will be on Friday.

Weatherred has about 50 boys for football at Junior high, ny of them tiny tots. The first ing has 18 boys. Both Pampa d Panhandle juniors have won games played. But— and here's e rub—the Pampanh have not yet ayed a game! Panhandle has won o games. No admission will be arged.

Meanwhile, the Harvesters will in momentum today in their aining for the Lubbock contest of t. 31. With the exception of Joe reeman, linesman, they are in irly good condition. Freeman in- red a knee in the Amarillo game. Lubbock's Westerners are drilling rd for their first big game of the ason. They do not have last ar's backfield, but they have bril- ant newcomers in Quarterback O. Britton, Fullbacks Gene Barnett d Bill Davis, and Halfbacks Mack oggin and Cecil Merrill. With ese worthies turning in tremen- ous scores, Lubbockites are for- etting Dub Lawson, Mina Watkins, oody Smith, and Ovie Teal of last ear's team. Lubbock is the under- og, but mighty confident of a win.

PLAYER FAILS TO LIVE UP TO DAD'S NAME

So Willie Heston Jr. Will Give Up Football at Michigan U.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 21. (AP)—Willie Heston Jr., who wishes sometimes his name were Smith, is said by his friends to have given up football.

Willie Heston has been a name to conjure with at Michigan since a stalwart of that name plunged his way into the headlines and onto Walter Camp's all-American football team a quarter of a century ago.

A lot of fans joined Willie Sr., in hoping that Willie Jr., (they call him Bill) would carve the name anew on the football annals of this generation. Bill came to Michigan in 1929 after a much publicized prep-school gridiron career in Detroit and at Manlius Academy, New York state.

Last year he played with the varsity in enough games to win his letter. This year he was assigned to the "B" squad. He didn't accompany the "B" team to Ohio state last Saturday and when he didn't appear for practice this week, someone asked him why.

His friends believe the responsibilities his name carried have ruined whatever chances he had to become a football star because coaches and fans expected too much of him.

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN — Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

©1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty Norma Kent, 20-year-old secretary, marries Mark Travers, millionaire's son, in spite of the opposition of Mark's father.

The story takes place in Marlboro, middlewestern metropolis. After an extravagant honeymoon the couple soon face poverty. Mark secures a job, loses it and then becomes floorwalker in a department store. The young couple are beginning to master their problems when Mark's father sends for him and offers him a place in his own business organization if the son will prove he can make good. Mark's first assignment involves a business trip to France. He goes, leaving Norma at home.

She is rudely treated at her father-in-law's home and runs away, leaving no trace of her whereabouts. Chris Saunders, her former roommate, helps Norma find a job. Mark's father employs detectives who unearth records showing that three years before Norma had been convicted on a vice charge. In spite of evidence that the charge was framed, Travers sends his lawyer to Paris to engineer a divorce. Weeks later Norma learns that the decree has been granted.

In August Norma's son is born. When the baby is six months old Norma returns to her former job. Mark's mother sees her with the child and a few days later a public health nurse comes while Norma is away and takes the baby, explaining that a complaint has been made that he is neglected. Bob Farrell, young lawyer, discovers that Mr. and Mrs. Travers are seeking to get custody of the child. Farrell persuades Norma to go to LaFayette Flynn, district attorney, and tell how the charges against her were framed. Flynn exposes these facts and an investigation is ordered. Norma receives a threatening letter and is sent to stay with Mrs. Everett, employe in the district attorney's office, until after the trial. Farrell call to see her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII

Norma and Mrs. Everett had just left the table when Bob Farrell arrived. He came in smiling.

"Did you think you'd been kidnaped, Norma?" he asked. "I just dropped in to assure you that you haven't. Well—I should say you're going to be very comfortable here!"

His glance took in the pleasantly furnished living room.

Mrs. Everett held forward an open box of cigarets. "Oh, I think we'll be comfortable," she said. "Norma and I've been discovering that we have several interests in common. We both like Kathleen Norris' books and I have her newest one. I'm going to send down for some more books tomorrow so we'll have plenty of reading material. Then Norma's offered to help me with some curtains—"

Her voice trailed on. Mrs. Everett evidently enjoyed talking. A cheerful, comfortable person herself, she was anxious that others should feel the same. She stayed with the young couple for 15 minutes, suddenly remembered some task and disappeared.

Norma sat on the davenport, the glow of the lamp light turning her hair to pure gold. Her face was in shadow, and the care-worn look, the lines that had appeared in that young face during recent months seemed to disappear almost by magic.

Bob watched her for a moment, crossed the room and dropped to a seat beside her. When he spoke the young man's eyes were leveled directly ahead.

"Norma," he said, "there's something I've been wanting to talk to you about. I don't know just how to begin—"

The girl gave him a quick glance. "If there's anything at all I can do," she said. "I hope you'll tell me. I'll never be able to repay all the kind things you've done for me."

"Nonsense. I haven't done anything and there's nothing for you to repay. I don't want you to feel that way. There's a question I want to ask you, Norma, and your answer is going to mean a lot to me. It's going to help me decide something—something terribly important! Oh, I know this is no time to talk about such things but it's the first chance I've had to see you alone in weeks. I hope you'll understand—"

There was a step in the doorway. Mrs. Everett stood there, smiling as usual.

She came forward, carrying a letter. "I wonder, Mr. Farrell," she said, "if you would drop this letter in the mail box when you go out? I'm anxious for it to get off tonight. The box is just in front of the entrance in case you didn't notice it. They make the next collection at 9:30."

Bob said he would be glad to post the letter, took it and slipped it in his coat pocket. Mrs. Everett settled herself and began talking about the Spring Music Festival to begin the following week.

Norma understood the woman was trying to keep the conversation from drifting to the ordeal of the coming trial but Bob appeared restless.

Presently he looked at his wrist watch. "Time for me to be going," he announced. "I won't forget the letter, Mrs. Everett." With a hand on the door knob he paused to say to Norma, "I'll try to get out another evening soon. Take good care of yourself. Well, good night!"

Alone in her room a little later Norma puzzled over the interrupted conversation. Another proposal? Was that what Bob had meant when he said, "There's a question I want to ask you." Another proposal from Bob?

Norma slipped out of her garments and into the borrowed night gown. She sat on the edge of the bed and considered this possibility. Could Bob Farrell whom she had three times refused to marry, whom she had treated so shamefully when she eloped with Mark, still care for her enough to want to marry her? Could Bob love her that way?

"He's the best person I've ever known," Norma told herself. "No—one of the best. Bob isn't any better than Chris. They're both wonderful. Nobody ever had finer friends than I have."

But could she marry Bob Farrell?

It was a long while before Norma dropped to sleep. She awoke in surprise to find herself in strange surroundings. Then she remembered where she was. When Mrs. Everett tapped on the bedroom door to announce that breakfast was ready Norma had finished dressing.

The day that followed and the ones that came after it were curious. Neither Norma or Mrs. Everett left the apartment. Morning and evening newspapers were delivered at their door. Every day Mrs. Everett telephoned orders to the grocery and meat stores. Sometimes they played the radio and it brought them the only voices they heard except their own.

It was a curious existence, being in the world and not being in it. Sunday passed exactly as the week days except that Chris and Bob arrived together for a brief visit. There was no chance for Norma to talk to either of them alone.

Monday passed slowly and Tuesday dragged. A package arrived, sent by Chris. It contained Norma's suit and some other clothing. The suit had long since lost its elegance. It was the one Norma had worn on her honeymoon journey a year and a half before. She was to wear it in the courtroom next day.

It was curious that the girl scarcely gave a thought to the threat against her life. She had never taken that anonymous letter seriously.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Everett coached Norma about the trial. She explained the proceedings, told the girl what to expect. If Mrs. Everett had seemed a pleasant, talkative housewife previously now Norma understood that she was far more than that. She knew the facts of the Wellington investigation as well as the district attorney himself—or appeared to.

"I'll be right with you, child," she told the girl repeatedly. "There's nothing for you to be afraid of and I'll be right behind you."

Norma strove to conceal her nervousness. She was nervous—no use to deny it!

"Remember," Mrs. Everett's calm voice went on. "You're doing this as much for others as yourself. Oh, I'm sure you'll be brave. And 24 hours from now the whole thing will be over."

Before Norma's eyes there arose a blurred vision of staring faces—men and women craning their necks to look at her, whispering voices, cameras clicking, alert, determined reporters. Twenty-four hours- Oh, could she go through all that nightmare again? Twenty-four hours—!

A policeman was at Norma's elbow. "Stand back!" he roared. "D'you hear me?—Stand back!"

The crowd on the sidewalk edged backward. Through the narrow passageway the girl felt herself being pushed and pulled forward. The door of the waiting taxi opened. Norma stumbled inside, sank back against the leather cushions.

"Chris!" she moaned. "Oh, Chris—!"

The older girl's arms were around her. "But it's all over, honey! There's nothing to cry

BEARS TO BE STRONGER FOR AGGIE GAME

Captain Neeley of S. M. U. Is Disabled For Two Weeks of Play.

By the Associated Press

The Southwest conference football program this week-end has been re-arranged. At the request of the University of Arizona, the Rice Institute and Arizona game will be played Saturday night at Tuscon instead of Friday as originally scheduled.

Southwest elevens started bearing down yesterday in preparation for games Friday and Saturday. With the University of Texas Longhorns on their way to Cambridge to play Harvard, the stay-at-homes turned attention to their interconference and close by intersectional games.

An afternoon ironing out defects which developed last week against Arkansas featured Baylor's practice yesterday. The Bears battle Texas A. and M. Saturday in the only Southwest conference championship game. Lack of reserves had Baylor coaches handling the Bears with care. Texas A. and M. spent the afternoon perfecting an offense to use against Baylor.

Southern Methodist practiced yesterday minus the services of Captain Alfred Neeley who is suffering from internal injuries. He may be out of the line-up for two weeks. Southern Methodist plays Centenary Saturday. Joe Prince probably will replace Neeley.

At Fort Worth, Texas Christian, scheduled to play Simmons Friday night, held a workout under the flood lights. Coach Schmidt plans to use a number of reserves against Simmons.

A long scrimmage against freshmen occupied the University of Arkansas Razorbacks time yesterday. The Razorbacks play Louisiana State Saturday at Shreveport.

Step-Ladder Bout Is Frowned Upon

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—The New York state athletic commission has turned thumbs down on a heavyweight bout between Primo Carnera and Paulino Uzcudun on grounds it would be a "step-ladder" match.

Listen to William Muldoon on the subject:

"In the future we will insist that heavyweights must be well matched physically as well as in other respects. Carnera should fight men his own size like Victorio Campolo, Arthur de Kuh, and Jose Santa. We don't want any more step-ladder matches, where one of the principals needs a soap box to reach the other's chin. I was against the Walker-Sharkey match for that matter and only approved it against my better judgment."

Carnera and Uzcudun were matched for a ten rounder at Madison Square Garden Nov. 13 for a theatrical charity sponsored by Daniel Frchman. Uzcudun, despite his lack of height, gave Primo a close battle when they met at Barcelona months ago.

Sport Slants

BY ALAN GOULD

The persistent stories that Connie Mack will scrap his beaten world's champions because of their "rout" by the Cardinals come under the supervision of the heigh-ho department.

Mack himself has already spiked the idea. For one thing the A's were not routed. They lost mainly because of over-confidence in their two ace pitchers and the feeling that all they had to do was slug their runners around the bases.

The Cards won by playing smarter, faster, more aggressive baseball, forcing the "breaks" at critcal moments and saving themselves at others by the most spectacular sort of defensive play.

Mack probably will make some adjustments. The boys knew last spring that his infield was slipping. Dib Williams has already replaced Joe Boley. The major league days of Max Bishop and Jimmie Dykes also are numbered.

But the Athletics were good enough to win the American league pennant for the third straight year—by the lopsided margin of 13 1-2 games over the Yankees and 16 games over the Senators.

They lost two big ninth innings chances to upset the Cardinals and win the series.

It was so close that the tying run was on first base in the final frame of the final game when the Red Birds flew off with the spoils.

As the series closed, there was no particular evidence, on which to base a prediction Grove and Earnshaw will not win 50 games again for the Athletics. Or that Simmons and Foxx have lost their punch.

Cochrane was not at his best, but the backstop played throughout the series under physical handicaps. Day in and out, he is still the best catcher in baseball and should be for a number of years.

Cards Grasp Trend

Give the Cardinals all the credit for adapting themselves so successfully to baseball's shift from the slugging era to the style of play where tight pitching, good base running and smartness predominate.

John McGraw was among those who foresaw the trends clearly, but he could not muster the pitching strength to match that possesed by Gabby Street.

The Cardinals and Giants, however, finished 1-2 in the National league, whereas teams that were built around a collection of heavyweight sluggers, Chicago and rookLyn, wound up 3-4 in the pennant gallop.

The Cards were the fastest club in either major league last season and they probably will be faster in 1932. They will have as good or better pitching, with youngsters like Dean and Carleton of Houston, Starr of Rochester, coming up for spring examinations.

Grimes and Haines, who were unable to start in the series, are near the end of their great careers, but they still have a lot of effectiveness in their right arms.

Revenge Is Grimes'

No player got so much satisfaction out of beating the Athletics as Burleigh Grimes. Pepper Martin got the biggest thrill of his life, coming through as a world's series hero in his first regular major league year, but Grimes tasted the sweets of triumph at the age of 38 and after 10 big league campaigns, at a time when he was supposed to be on the downgrade.

He had lost two tough games the year before, in between verbal tilts with his foes. This time Burleigh attended strictly to business and twice held the A's helpless for eight innings.

Grimes wiggled no ears, tossed no "bean" balls and addressed no derisive remarks to the venerable Mr. Mack, but he won two sensational ball games from Grove and Earnshaw.

Walker's Aide Refuses Service

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21. (AP)—The plans of Russell T. Sherwood, personal accountant to Mayor Walker of New York, are indefinite, he said, although two process servers handed him a subpoena yesterday afternoon calling on him to testify before the legislative committe conducting a municipal investigation in New York.

Sherwood was served with the subpoena in the Ritz hotel, where he has been staying during a honeymoon sojourn. He refused to accept the service.

Lubbock Has High Scoring Machine

AMARILLO, Oct. 21. (AP)—District 1 has its high-scoring football teams this year.

In six games, the Lubbock Westerners and the Pampa Harvesters, both rated as among the strong clubs of the state, have scored 250 and 217 points respectively this season. One conference game is included in both teams' records.

Mrs. Catherine McGinley has died aa East Maitland. N. S. W., at the age of 111.

LONGHORNS IN PRACTICE FOR AIR ATTACKS

Special Train of Fans to Follow Texans for Harvard Game.

DALLAS, Oct. 21. (AP)—Stopping off here en route to Cambridge to play Harvard Saturday, Coach Clyde Littlefield of the University of Texas team indicated his players will fill the air with passes Saturday. The Longhorns are reputed to have a passing game designed especially for this occasion.

Every member of the squad, except Blanton, was in good condition today. Blanton is nursing an ankle injury but is expected to start against Harvard.

The Longhorns, after a short workout here, embarked for Indianapolis, Ind., where they will hold a practice session Thursday afternoon. Following this, they go into Cambridge for a workout Friday afternoon in the Harvard stadium. Approximately 500 supporters will trail the Texans to Cambridge on special trains, the first due to leave here late this evening.

The Texans have worked long and hard on a defense for Barry Wood's passing, and at the same time, prepared an offense through the air they hope will conquer their eastern opponent.

In his starting lineup, Coach Littlefield will use only bona-fide sons of Texas. All are strapping fellows who know how to block, tackle, plunge and pass. And in Blanton, Littlefield carries into Cambridge, a deadly place-kicker.

Mrs. J. B. Townsend is ill at her home here today.

Jess Haines May Not Pitch Again

CARTHAGE, Mo., Oct. 21. (AP)—"Gabby" Street, Cardinal pilot, speaking at a dinner in his honor here last night, expressed fear that Jess Haines, veteran ace of the St. Louis Staff, would never be able to pitch again because of the arm injury he suffered toward the close of the season.

Asked about the prospects of the Cardinals next year, the manager said:

"They couldn't stop us in 1931 and I don't see how they're going to do so next season."

Mexican Embassay Will Stay Wet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Reports that the Mexican embassy was to come under the pale of prohibition were all wrong.

Assurances that the embassy's guests would find alcoholic beverages still available after the arrival of Jose Manuel Puig Casauranic are given in his own magagine, "Resumen," copies of which have reached Washington.

Much discussion was caused in diolomatic circles when the report reached this capital the new ambassador would be absolutely dry. "Resumen," published by La Razon company, of which Ambassador Puig is president, has this to say:

"Some American newspapers — making it appear as a statement of Dr. Puig Casauranic—have said the embassy of Mexico in Washington, during his term as ambassador, would be absolutely dry. That is to say, that the prohibition law would govern, by the desire of Dr. Puig, in the embassy of Mexico.

"It is not true. To Puig, personally, there is little or no interest in the question of drinking; but he does not feel it right to impose on any guest of the embassy of Mexico a forced attitude of anti-alcoholic puritanism.

"At least Mexico will not lose any friend, if it is possible or true, which we do not believe, that someone would desert a "dry" embassy, for the single reason of not finding wine therein."

Less Paving Will Be Done In 132

AUSTIN, Oct. 21. (AP)—Highway contracts aggregating $1,478,000 for projects in 28 counties were let by the highway commission at its October meeting which terminated yesterday.

About 240 miles of new construction and seven bridge jobs were contracted, the bids in almost each instance being far below the estimated costs compiled by state highway engineers.

Yesterday's lettings aggregated $779,913, the projects being distributed to 14 counties as follows: Van Zandt, Brazoria, Waller, Pecos, Wheeler, Uvalde, Brown, Stonewall, Reagan, Cherokee, Nueces, San Patricio, Upton, and Andrews.

W. R. Ely, of Abilene, chairman of the commission, and Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, estimated that the state would contract for approximately $40,000,000 construction in 1932 against about $50,000,000 this year. A falling off will result from the fact counties are not issuing bonds as rapidly as formerly on account of the disturbed market, they said.

PUBLIC FORUM

Editor, The NEWS:

In a Public Forum letter, Commissioner Lewis O. Cox made the statement that he had earnestly tried in every respect to get the cheapest price possible for every job that had been done in Gray county where it pertained to county business.

I want to challenge that statement. I can show you Mr. Cox where there was spent about $13,203 without any effort to get competitive bids. I can show where there was a payment of $1.75 for sand and gravel where you could have gotten sand and gravel for $1.25 per yard. I call attention to the kind of buying the county has been doing, sometimes with no one on the job to officially check the materials.

Now, Mr. Cox, when Mr. Taxpayer goes into the tax collector's office to pay his taxes, the collector tells him that it is so many dollars and so many cents, and he has to dig up that much before he gets a receipt showing that he has paid his taxes. I think that Mr. Barnes told me that he had to make bond for $178,000 as tax collector of Gray county. So what is the use of his having to go to all of that trouble if the commissioners can order the money out of the treasury as has been done in the last year.

I am glad that you invited an answer to your letter, for I think the taxpayers of Gray county would like to learn something about the county's business. It might be if we discused it more openly things would not be in the shape they are now in.

Humbly yours,

J. L. NOEL

TO EASE BORROWING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Senator Nye announces President Hoover had assured him he would recommend to congress the appropriation of sufficient capital to enable federal land banks to persue a more lenient policy toward borrowers.

Norman "Wizard" Smith, Australian auto driver, expects to attain 300 miles an hour in his new machine.

Ford Sees Good in Business Slump

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—Henry Ford thinks the economic slump "has done less harm to the people of our country that a continuance of our previous false prosperity would have done."

In an interview in today's issue of the American Automobile, Mr. Ford says, "the depression is a wholesome thing, in general.

"The condition will be broken when people cease to believe that something can be obtained for nothing and when people get back their self-dependence; that is, when they cease to lean on the initiative of a few either to provide work or charity."

He said lower wages hurt business, while increased wages increased business.

Bridge War Will Be Resumed Monday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 21. (AP) The "Red River bridge war," somnolent since last July, stirred with fresh interest today with a renewal of legal skirmishing.

Federal Judge John C. Pollock of Kansas City is to rule Monday on an injunction petition, filed yesterday at Muskogee by the receiver for the Red River Bridge company, owner of a toll span, paralleling the free bridge, which Gov. W. H. Murray opened with troops last summer.

The injunction plea asks that the free bridge be blocked and that further Oklahoma interference with toll span traffic be prohibited.

Governor Murray refused to commit himself pending the ruling but pointed out that martial law still is in effect in the bridge area. He said he wouldn't interfere with toll bridge traffic, but said an injunction blocking the free span would be in violation of his military order, and that troops can be put back on the bridge "mighty quick."

Longshoremen and Shipmen Agree to New Wage Scale

GALVESTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—The gulf coast longshoremen strike was believed terminated early today as steamship and labor interests, after hours of conference, compromised on basic wages.

The 4,000 longshoremen at Galveston, Houston, Texas City, and Corpus Christi who went on strike Oct. 1 were expected to return to their work tomorrow.

The tentative agreemnt indicated a basic wage of 70 cents an hour and 13 cents a bale for cotton. The basic wage scale, prior to the strike, was 80 cents an hour and 18 cents a bale for cotton.

Steamship interests marshaled teir forces for the conference yesterday, a parade of striking union longshoremen and their families was held in Houston. It was orderly and was held under a permit from the city. Banners decrying "imported labor," and urging the employment of local workers, were exhibited.

France imported more than 300,000,000 pounds of raw wool in the first half of this year.

Mexico May Stop Gambling Practices

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21. (AP) — Commercial organizations of Mexico, acting through the medium of the confederated chambers of commerce, will ask President Ortiz Rubio to put an absolute stop to all gambling in Mexico, it was announced today.

They will tell the president that in addition to affecting the nation's commerce, especially along the border, gambling does not benefit Mexico, because the principal concessions are held by foreigners, who remove the profits from the country.

It was said that gambling recently has increased in Ciudad Juarez, Nuevo Laredo, Piedras Negras, and Matamoros.

Co-operative societies of Denmark handled nearly $500,000,000 worth of products in the last 12 months.

Are they as good as when the ruffles came down to the ankles?

GOOD?... You bet they are! Maybe the girls are even better. Anyhow, cigarettes are a whole lot better. No doubt about that.

They used to be made by hand—
Now it's machines; no hand but yours ever touches them.

They used to be packed in expensive, highfalutin' cardboard boxes—
Now the quality is in the cigarettes.

The U. S. Revenue Tax used to be a penny a package of twenty—
Now it's six cents a package of twenty.

Tobacco used to be dried by air—
Now Liggett & Myers alone has thirty-five drying machines of the latest type, with a daily capacity of over 2,000,000 pounds—and over four miles of warehouses for tobacco storage.

BETTER—they're miles better! Everything used in the manufacture of Chesterfield cigarettes is the best that money can buy or that Science knows about.

CHESTERFIELD TOBACCOS—both Turkish and Domestic—are mild and ripe, the best that money can buy.

AND THE WAY Chesterfield tobaccos are blended and cross-blended is like making a new and better-tasting kind of tobacco, with greater smoothness, more mildness and a more pleasing aroma—a fragrance and flavor not to be found in any other cigarette.

CHESTERFIELD gives you the benefit of all the world knows about the production of better cigarettes. Nobody smokes a better cigarette than Chesterfield.

WORLD TOO MUCH WITH US

That Florida chap who set out to spend a year on his own in the wilderness—accompanied, so to speak, only by a set of false teeth and a pair of glasses—must be thinking things these days about the encroachments of civilization on the great open spaces.

This man, as you may remember, built a little hut in the wilds and tried to prove that a civilized man could go back to nature and make a go of it. For about a year everything went fine; but at last he landed in jail, because he had dined on pelican eggs from a federally-protected rookery somewhere along the beach.

His exploit may prove that a man can do very well without any of the tools or comforts of modern society. But it also proves that it is almost impossible for the ordinary man to get out of touch with civilization, no matter how hard he may try or how far he may go; and that fact may help to explain a good part of the subconscious discontent with which all of us, now and then, look around on our enviroment.

For there is in the land a growing feeling that the world is too much with us. Like Wadsworth, people are wondering if the eternal round of getting and spending isn't a ltle bit more exacting than it need be. The lot of the untutored savage in his primitive hut looks, occasionally, like something rather good.

But there isn't, really, any escape. The Florida man made a very good stab at it, but even the birds' nests that supplied him with food were under the care of Uncle Sam, and to feed himself wtih his bare hands in a remote solitude he had to break a federal law; and the rest of us may get what comfort we can out of the thought that we knew it all along.

So it seems, we have to make the best of it where we are. We cannot get away. We, and our children, and our children's children shall have to put up with the crowds, and the noise of the crowds, and confusion, and the unceasing activity of millions of energetic neighbors; and somehow, from our own resources, we must find those values which other men used to find in solitude, along the lonely trails that led through silent forests to empty beaches along the sea.

GRAINS ADVANCE

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. (AP)—Grains advanced early today despite stock market weakness. Liverpool wheat quotations higher than expected had a bullish influence. Great Britain was reported as continuing to accumulate wheat and corn in preparation for a protective tariff. Opening at 1-4 cent off to 1-8 up, wheat later gained all around. Corn started unchanged to 3-8 higher and held near the initial limits.

"I want to go home, Chris!" she moaned. "Home!"

The cab had pulled away from the curb. "Mrs. Everett said you were to go to her apartment—" Chris began but Norma shook her head.

"I want to go home!" she repeated. "Away from all those people. Don't make me go back there again! Please take me home!"

"Why, of course—of course if you feel that way about it! You don't have to go any place you don't want to!" Chris leaned forward, gave the driver the address of the apartment the girls shared.

Norma's sobbing continued for several moments. Presently she was quiet, rubbed her eyes with a handkerchief.

"Everyone thought you were wonderful," Chris said in a low voice. "You didn't see the newspapers, did you? They say its only the beginning of a tremendous cleanup. They say the investigation is going on until it reaches the men who've been making all the graft. 'Whitey' Black's going to go on the stand tomorrow—"

She stopped, catching sight of the other girl's face. Norma said unsteadily, "Please don't talk about it! I—I don't want to even think of this afternoon. Do you know what I'm going to do, Chris? I made up my mind while I was waiting in that room in the courthouse."

"What are you going to do?"

"I'm going away!" Norma said the words almost fiercely. "I'm going away where people won't know me. Here—oh, I'd never be able to look at anyone again—"

"You need a good rest. That's what you need," Chris said gently.

The cab left them before the familiar brick building. Norma and Chris went inside and climbed the two flights of stairs. The door opened to reveal the shabby, homelike room.

Norma dropped into the big chair. She leaned back, sighing. "Every time anything important has happened in my life," she said, "I've come back to this place. I thought when I married Mark I was leaving it for good. I came back though when he went away and I came back the night I heard about the divorce. After the baby was born we came here from the hospital. It seems I'm always coming back to this room. That's why I wanted to be here tonight! It's sort of a comforting place. Don't you think so?"

"It is to me," Chris agreed. "Do you know it's almost four years since that afternoon we looked at it and agreed to take it?"

Norma said idly, "A lot can happen in four years." She arose and took off her hat and coat.

The older girl was watching her. "You don't mind being alone for a little while, do you?" she asked carelessly. "We'll need things from the delicatessen for dinner. Then I think I should telephone Mrs. Everett that you've decided to stay here tonight. If you don't mind I'll run out and do it now."

"Why, no. I don't mind."

Chris picked up her pocketbook. "I won't be long," she said as she turned and opened the door.

It seemed to Norma that Chris took a long time for those errands. The delicatessen was in the same block, the telephone, on the first floor of the building. Ten minutes should have been enough for both errands but when 10 minutes had passed Chris had not returned.

Norma moved about restlessly. She slipped out of her suit, bathed her face and freshened it with powder. Then she got into a house frock. She was lying on the davenport, eyes closed but wide awake, when there was a knock at the door.

Norma arose to answer it. She thought, "It's Chris. She must have forgotten her key."

Adding Machine Is Potent Weapon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—The power of the government's adding machines has been impressed by recent events on Al Capone and others in similar lines of business.

Gangster financing and gangster strength have depended largely upon such spectacular agencies as the automatic gun.

By contrast, government agents went about their conviction in the prosaic fashion of accountants giving a bank its customary audit. They wanted to know how much money criminal leaders made and how they spent it.

This ability of internal revenue agents to trace the sources of bank accounts of taxpayers has troubled the well-known criminals more than all the sidearms issued in recent years of government, state and county officers.

The conviction of Capone, symbol of organized crime, and of many others of his empire has depended largely on the skill of men trained in bookkeeping and accountancy.

They ferreted out gangster deals with all the persistence of a slow footed, keen nosed hound tracing the meanderings of a wandering racoon. At the end of one trail was Capone.

Idle Men Moved Off Clovis Streets

CLOVIS, N. M., Oct. 21. (AP) — Persons without jobs or money are not allowed to spend the night on the streets of Clovis, although the city has a transient population of this class of 300 or 400 a week.

At this time of the year, "drifters" overrun the city. Many of them are en route to and from the cotton fields of Texas, and others are headed for California and a warmer climate for the winter.

Every train is met at the station by officers, who order men to move on. A room is provided at the city jail for those who have to spend the night, and none is allowed to roam the streets.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 21. (AP) — Three charges of swindling by check were filed against County Judge W. O. Fitch of Maverick county here Tuesday growing out of three checks totaling $2,000 cashed by a hotel here.
