

House Approves Spending Plan

To Iran Crisis

Two Senators Don't See End

WASHINGTON (AP) - The senators from Texas are settling in for a long wait before American hostages are released from Iran.

In separate interviews after the half-year anniversary of the American Embassy's takeover in Tehran, Sens. John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen saw few signs that any change can be expected in the 6-month deadlock.

Bentsen said the state's Democratic senator, said there can be no solution until the Iranian government resolves its internal difficulties.

"Politically, each faction is afraid to release the hostages," he said.

Tower, a Republican quick to blast the Democratic administration of President Carter, characterized the handling of the crisis as inept from the outset last November.

"By making the hostage situation the top priority of American foreign policy, they vastly enhanced the value of the hostages to their captors, therefore insuring further delay in their release," Tower said.

Bentsen said the support other nations have provided during the Iranian crisis indicates that the U.S. no longer dominates the world as its allies have grown increasingly strong.

"They don't have to be as dependent," he said.

Tower said the allies had to consider the domestic political implications of supporting the U.S. as the events in Iran unfolded.

He said that the support was better than could be expected under the circumstances, absent firm and decisive leadership on the part of the United States.

Bentsen predicted that a year from now the Soviet Union's intervention in Afghanistan will appear more significant than the holding of American hostages in Iran, because it represented a turning point in the administration's foreign policy.

"I think it made us again very aware of the expansionist policies of Russia. It also gave us a feel of who our real friends are," the senator said. "It taught us once more we have to remain strong; we have to build our strength."

Tower said American foreign policy under the Carter administration was spurred the international perception that the Soviet Union is emerging as the preeminent superpower.

"I think it's a perception that's unavoidable under the circumstances," he said.

Tower said it was created by "the incoherence, the naïveté, the acillation of U.S. foreign policy, coupled with the

Farmers' Income Picture Worsens

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farmers are being financially crunched more severely than government experts have been saying until now, according to new figures compiled by the Agriculture Department.

The figures, issued Wednesday, showed net farm income in the second quarter of this year at an annual rate of $20.8 billion, meaning that would be the net income of farmers in 1980 if the rate held steady over 12 months.

At $20.8 billion, the new estimate for the second quarter was down 8.4 percent from the $22.7 billion projected only a month ago in a similar report. Previous to that, in early March, the projection for the April-June period was an annual rate of $26 billion.

Department officials have predicted since last fall that 1980 net income of farmers - the amount left after paying production costs - would decline by around 20 percent from last year's near-record of $33 billion.

That would put 1980 net farm income at around $26 billion. But Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland told the House Agriculture Committee a week ago that this year's slide "could be" about 25 percent, meaning a net of about $24.8 billion for the year.

Although the brief text of the report treated the outlook for farm income superficially and did not mention numbers, a chart on the back of the sheet included the latest projected figures. Those backed up what Bergland told the House panel.

No projections for farm income were made beyond midyear.

The figures showed the crunch on farm income has been most severe this spring. For example, the annual rate in the first quarter was $27.4 billion, compared to the $20.8 billion in the second.

"Commodity prices are expected to strengthen in coming

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is well on its way to writing the first balanced federal budget in 12 years, but a skidding economy threatens to throw it out of whack before the ink is dry.

The House approved a $611.8 billion balanced spending plan Wednesday and the Senate is expected to follow suit soon with its own defense-oriented version, perhaps today.

But the action comes amid growing concern that the deepening recession and rising unemployment could force the 1981 budget out of balance not long after the fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

The House version passed 225-193, largely on Democratic votes. Most Republicans opposed it, apparently out concern its spending level is too high and will result in a deficit.

The Senate hoped to complete work today on the $612.9 billion spending plan submitted by its Budget Committee. Differences between the House and Senate proposals then would be worked out in a conference committee.

Whatever compromise emerges, the much-discussed plan to balance the budget could be upset if the recession now settling over the land proves longer and deeper than the relatively mild downturn congressional economists have predicted.

Some economists now fear the recession could push unemployment to 9 percent - the high-water mark of the 1974-75 recession - and turn the $2 billion surplus in the House budget into a $40 billion deficit.

Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., claimed that last month's sharp increase in unemployment - from 6.2 percent in March to 7 percent in April - was proof "we're just kidding ourselves" in projecting a balanced budget.

However, House leaders

Identifying Bodies Continues

DOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Del. (AP) - Officials at this Delaware air base aren't saying when a special civilian Defense Department team might finish identifying the remains of American commandos killed in an aborted rescue attempt in Iran.

"We're not speculating on how long the identifications will take or when the bodies will leave. We're not even speculating on any number (of bodies)," Sgt. Ed Hainey, a base spokesman, said Wednesday.

The Carter administration has said eight American servicemen lost their lives when a helicopter and transport plane collided in the Iranian desert two weeks ago as the mission to rescue the hostages held at the U.S.

Officials Hope To Keep Grants

LEAA Funding Among Cuts

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Area law-enforcement programs, projects and positions are in danger of being eliminated with the House's $611.8 billion balanced spending plan approved Wednesday.

The plan included the elimination of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration's grants program, which provided $420,000 in funds to fight crime in the Texas Panhandle last year.

Melanie Kenderdine of Amarillo, criminal justice coordinator for the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, which administers federal funds in the area, told The Brand today that PRPC had expected $500,000 in LEAA grant money in 1980.

"I am very disappointed that LEAA has been cut. There are a lot of good projects we're working on in the Panhandle, and this will effect those projects. And, 35 to 40 people could lose their jobs because they receive grant money," Ms. Kenderdine said.

"I'm one of those 35 to 40 people," she added.

The House did not propose elimination of LEAA, only the agency's $89 million grants program. Although that figure represents actual funding, LEAA was authorized to spend up to $520 million, should more than $89 million be required by law - enforcement agencies throughout the country.

In Hereford, LEAA funds have been used in the district attorney's office, sheriff's office and Hereford Independent School District.

Presently, a portion of the salaries of an assistant district attorney, investigator and DA office manager are funded through LEAA, along with an alternative-education program in the Hereford Independent School District.

Throughout the Panhandle, LEAA either completely or partially funds juvenile offices, jail equipment, police department community-relations programs and crime-fighting agencies, such as the Potter-Randall Metro-Intelligence Agency.

Ms. Kenderdine said she is "optimistic" that funding for juvenile programs will be maintained.

"The Senate and president have said juvenile funds may be kept because it's a national priority," she said.

The House Appropriations Committee will have the final say on how much LEAA money will be cut in the House's version of the

Senate Confirms Colleague

WASHINGTON (AP) - Edmund S. Muskie's Senate colleagues are signaling President Carter that they want Muskie to be the unchallenged voice of American foreign policy once he is sworn in tonight as secretary of state.

Before voting 94-2 to confirm Muskie's nomination Wednesday, many senators said U.S. foreign policy has been severely damaged by the open, highly publicized conflict between former Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security adviser.

Muskie said he will approach his new duties positively, asserting his office's once traditional primacy in foreign affairs rather than challenging Brzezinski to battle.

Muskie told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that as he enters his new office his first and most important priority is to establish the fact that "the secretary of state is the principal adviser to the president on foreign policy issues.

"He must have the primary responsibility for recommending our foreign policy course and seeing that the president's decisions are implemented," he said. "President Carter has made clear he expects to play this role and I intend to do so."

Muskie told reporters later that his determination to be the principal foreign policy architect "has not been challenged" by Brzezinski or anyone else on the White House staff and that there "seems to be agreement" on his role.

At the confirmation hearings, senators made clear that they believe the Vance-Brzezinski conflict damaged American interests and that a Muskie-Brzezinski struggle would equally destructive.

During the first three years of the Carter administration,

Refugees Now Total 24,000

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) - While Fidel Castro apparently manipulates his end of the Cuban boatlift, U.S. officials trying to cope with the record flood of arrivals say things on their side are out of control.

More than 4,000 refugees came ashore here Wednesday, the fourth day of record immigration, swelling the 17-day total past 24,000. More than half arrived this week, prompting Wednesday's announcement that another processing center will be opened at Fort Chaffee Army Reserve Base near Fort Smith, Ark.

The continually increasing pace defeated efforts to keep order. Federal coordinator Thom Casey said the day-today changes in the "Freedom Flotilla" made it difficult to cope.

"It seems Castro is jiggling us. He is playing games with us, is trying to embarrass us. One day no one can come; the next day there is a flood."

The FBI, meanwhile, said it has identified and is catching a number of Cuban spies among the refugees. FBI agent Arthur F. Nehrbass would not say how many suspected spies had been picked out, but The Miami Herald quoted sources who said there were at least 20.

"An extremely small percentage of refugees have been identified as Cuban

Cold Front Sets Off Heavy Rainfall

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

A strong cold front moving southward into the Texas Panhandle set off heavy thunderstorm activity across the area last night with a 46 county area of western Texas placed under a severe thunderstorm watch due to turbulent conditions aloft.

Hail up to baseball size fell in isolated regions of the local area, but for the most part all the storm left were some widespread and substantial moisture accumulations greatly appreciated by the farmers in most areas where the moisture fell.

Possibly the best news for a segment of local agriculture was the fact that some heavy rains fell in the far western "wheat country" portions of the county.

The Clint Homfeld farm recorded one inch of rainfall from shower activity last night at the site of that operation 47 miles northwest of Hereford.

A light shower had also fallen at the Homfeld farm early Wednesday, and a small amount of hail was reported at that location.

A rainfall total of .50 inches was reported from the J.F. Martin farm three miles north and one mile west of Walcott.

Half inch reports also came from the Bootleg Corner area and the Eldred Brown farm 28 miles west of Hereford.

West of that area weather conditions more turbulent last night and some large hail was reported.

According to Mrs. Brown the highway was covered with hail about 31 miles west of Hereford with the stones ranging up to golfball size.

Large hail was also reported 34 miles west and four miles south of Hereford, and farmers in the area of the hailstorm were examining crops for damage this morning.

There were some reports of baseball size hail in the Parmer County area last night and weather observers were keeping a close watch on the heavy clouds that brought the storm to the area. Rain totaling .40 inches was recorded at Westway Fertilizer, west of Hereford.

High intensity electrical activity was also evident aloft as the edge of the storm which swept over Hereford sent brilliant lightning bolts hurtling earthward in abundance.

Good rainfall was also reported from the north and west of Hereford, with Northwest Grain west of Farmer's Corner recording an impressive one inch rain accumulation that will help to add some moisture to the soil profile.

No hail was reported from

Bail Wühheld

On Iranian Arab

LONDON (AP) — A 23-year-old Iranian dock worker, heavily guarded and handcuffed to a policeman, appeared in court today charged with murdering two hostages at the end of London's six-day Iranian Embassy siege.

Police said the defendant, Fowzi Badavi Nejad, was the sole survivor of six terrorists after a commando assault freed 19 hostages in the embassy Monday night.

In a three-minute court appearance Nejad was ordered held without bail for one week after Commander Peter Duffy, heads of Scotland Yard's Anti-Terrorist Squad, testified that "numerous threats have been made against him."

Duffy asked for an adjournment and Nejad was not required in today's appearance to plead to the charges of murder and other offenses connected with the takeover.

Soviets Suffer

Numerous Casualties

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Soviet troops have suffered numerous casualties in recent rebel encounters in Afghanistan, a reliable source said today.

He said witnesses in Kabul, the Afghan capital, saw a number of helicopters land at the city's airport with dead Russian soldiers Monday.

The number of bodies was not given, and no official confirmation was available.

However, the Kabul regime's official media has announced that military exercises have been taking place east and west of the mile-high capital for the past three days.

The broadcasts by the state-run radio immediately triggered speculation of rebel fighting outside Kabul, said the source, who requested anonymity.

Other sources said student-led protests against Soviet troops in Kabul erupted into violence Monday and Afghan security forces have launched a series of midnight sweeps to round up young men for military conscription and check for rebel arms.

Arrest of Woman

In Iran Witnessed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A hotel clerk in Tehran says he was on duty Monday night when Iranian guards arrested Cynthia Dwyer, a free-lance writer from New York state, the same night Iranian authorities said they arrested an unidentified American woman as a CIA spy, according to the Buffalo Courier-Express.

In a telephone interview from Tehran, Hilton Hotel clerk I. Kaveh said two or three revolutionary guards took the 48-year-old Mrs. Dwyer away about 9 p.m. Monday, the newspaper said.

A Tehran newspaper has reported that an American woman was arrested Monday night and accused of being a CIA spy. Informed sources in Tehran told Western reporters Tuesday that the woman was in the custody of the Iranian Foreign Ministry.

In Washington, the State Department said it has yet to confirm whether Cynthia Dwyer — or any American — has been arrested in Iran.

John F. Dwyer, an English professor at Buffalo State College, said he had been unable to reach his wife in Tehran since he became alarmed over reports of the arrest of the unidentified woman.

IOC President

To Meet with Carter

MOSCOW (AP) — After urging Soviet leaders to ease international tension, for the sake of the Moscow Olympics, the president of the International Olympic Committee is hoping to talk President Carter into dropping the U.S. boycott, sources say.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Wednesday night that Lord Killanin had requested a meeting with the president to discuss the Games and the request was under consideration.

Killanin reportedly expects to see Carter on May 15. He indicated he had told Carter in advance about his meeting with Soviet leaders.

In talks Tuesday and Wednesday with Soviet officials including President Leonid I. Brezhnev, Killanin presented a plan for scaling down some of the nationalistic ceremonies accompanying the Olympics and raised the issue of Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, according to sources familiar with the Olympic games.

The Soviet military move prompted Carter's call for the boycott, which has been taken up by several other nations and threatens to embarrass the Soviets and dim the prestige of the Olympics.

diminished U.S. military capability vis a vis that of the Soviet Union."

The senator said there is no limit to Soviet intentions and objectives in increasing global influence.

"The only questions with the Soviets are ones of timing and opportunity," Tower said.

Differences in opinion between the administration's top foreign policy officials have strengthened the impression of vacillation, according to Bentsen.

He said Carter should require national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski to keep a low profile when the next secretary of state takes office.

"I do think it's terribly important that our foreign policy not be stated by the security adviser as one thing and by the secretary of state as something else," Bentsen said.

Both senators planned to support Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, for secretary of state. The Senate confirmed his nomination Wednesday by a vote of 94-2.

Tower is reluctant, however, to make predictions about any changes to be expected after Muskie replaces resigned Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

"I'm not aware of any sharp policy differences between Muskie and Vance," he said. "There may be some, but there's not enough of a Muskie record on foreign policy for me to make much of a judgment."

Bentsen said he doubts there will be much difference between Vance and Muskie policies.

Both senators say there are bright spots for the U.S. on the international scene despite recent setbacks, although Tower maintained there are very few.

Bentsen said parts of the Middle East appear more receptive to western influence than previously, and he described the Far East as solidly friendly.

Tower pointed to recent reports that Mozambique in Africa is opening to the West as an example of a bright spot.

"I can't seem to think of any others right now. Believe me, I'm trying," he concluded.

months in response to expanding crop markets, movement of grain into reserve stocks and a slowing in the expansion of meat production," the report said. "However, production expenses will continue to advance rapidly, reducing net farm income."

Retail food prices were estimated to rise 7 percent to 11 percent this year, unchanged from earlier forecasts, probably "in the middle" of that range.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill, the House Agriculture Committee approved a hefty boost in federal price support loan rates for wheat and feed grains.

The measure included a boost in wheat loans to $3.30 from the current rate of $2.50 a bushel, and corn to $2.50 from $2.10 a bushel at the present time.

Price support loan rates are the amounts farmers can borrow from USDA by using their crops as collateral. Traditionally, they also act as a floor on the cash market.

Although approved by the committee, the legislation faces an uncertain future because of efforts by Congress and the administration to hold down the federal budget.

budget. However, it is likely that the entire $89 million in outlays and $520 in budget authority will fall under the appropriations committee's axe.

The Senate is expected to leave $120 million in budget authority for the grants program, only to leave the door open for resumption of the program in the future, according to a spokeswoman in Congressman Kent Hance's office.

"Right now, as far as the House is concerned, it's in the hands of appropriations to determine the actual dollars to be cut," the spokeswoman said.

She said that Hance has received numerous inquiries from his 19th District, which includes Deaf Smith County, about the proposed LEAA cut.

"We heard a lot from both sides. We conducted a poll last year, and one of the questions we asked was whether you favored a balanced budget, even if it means cutting some of your favorite programs. The response was 94 percent 'yes,'" the spokeswoman said. Deaf Smith County District Attorney Roland Saul said he is "disappointed for my office as well as law enforcement in general" because of the House's intent to cut LEAA funds.

"Law enforcement needs all the help it can get," Saul said. "There were some very good programs being assisted by LEAA grants."

Saul said that eliminating law enforcement grants "doesn't make sense in a recession."

"Sure, they're trying to balance the budget, fight inflation and overcome recession. But, historically, when economic times are bad, the crime rate goes up. People steal more, that sort of thing," the district attorney said.

Saul said he will recommend to the county commission that the positions of assistant DA, investigator and office manager be maintained through totally local funding when LEAA grants are finally eliminated. "I think those positions are necessary," he said.

that location. Pioneer Fertilizer at Milo Center reported .40 inches of rainfall with a scattering of small hail that did no damage.

H.L. Hershey reported .50 inches of rain at his farm 13 miles northeast of Hereford with some light hail as well.

To the east of Hereford Dawn Co-Op at the Dawn community logged .25 inches of rainfall and Farmer's Elevator, north of Dawn recorded .60 inches of rainfall in addition to some small and scattered hail.

South of Hereford, Easter Grain recorded another good rainfall total of .70 inches from an early morning shower, but the city of Hereford missed out on the heavy rainfall when KPNB radio logging only .15 inches of precipitation for the city.

Rains spawned minor flooding in parts of the Texas Hill Country, North and Central Texas, where in some areas as much as five inches of rain fell.

A small tornado was reported at Comanche late Wednesday.

The twister was hidden in the middle of a thunderstorm

and heavy rain prevented

Civil Defense officials from spotting it.

Only minor property damage reports were received in the wake of the twister, and no injuries were recorded.

Mostly cloudy skies prevailed across most of the state today as the cold front slowly pushed southward.

say they are holding to their relatively optimistic economic forecasts and were encouraged by recent declines in interest rates, a development that could help the construction industry.

Higher unemployment hurts the federal budget by reducing tax revenues and by raising spending for social programs, such as unemployment benefits and food stamps.

After approving the balanced 1981 budget, the House voted 241-174 to raise the 1980 spending ceiling by $24 billion to accommodate higher than expected spending in the current year. The change would increase the projected 1980 deficit from $29.8 billion to $42.8 billion.

Also Wednesday, the Senate handily defeated two liberal attempts to trim the Budget Committee's proposed huge increases in defense spending while restoring some money cut from social programs.

One plan sponsored by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., to reduce defense by $2.5 billion and add $6.4 billion for domestic programs lost a second proposal by Sens. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to lower defense spending by $2 billion and raise domestic spending by $2.4 billion was tabled on a 54-30 vote.

The defeat of the two major liberal alternatives means the House and Senate almost certainly will go into conference later this week with wide differences over defense and social spending.

The House favors $147.9 billion for defense while the Senate Budget Committee wants $155.7 billion, or $5.2 billion more than the $150.5 billion President Carter requested. The House and Carter also favor more modest domestic spending cuts.

The House list of cuts and savings includes hospital cost containment, elimination of Saturday mail delivery, loss of 50,000 public service jobs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, food stamp reductions, and an end to the $1.7 billion revenue-sharing program for states.

Texas Briefs

GALVESTON, Texas (AP)

— The widow of a man killed when an offshore oil rig collapsed last year has filed a $10 million damage suit in federal court.

The suit was filed Wednesday on behalf of Mrs. Josefina Torres Smith, a resident of Louisiana. Named in the action were six private companies and the U.S. government.

Dennis Ray Smith died last summer after the three-legged rig collapsed in the Gulf of Mexico. His body was not recovered.

A Coast Guard investigation showed one of the platform legs broke because of metal fatigue.

CRYSTAL BEACH, Texas (AP) — Bolivar Peninsula Water Supply Co. officials have hit a snag in their efforts to repair a broken line that supplies drinking water to the peninsula's 3,000 residents.

Office manager Pat Rollins said Wednesday efforts to place a temporary patch on the 12-inch line were unsuccessful, but added that a team of divers have worked on another method to restore the area's water supply.

The line ruptured last weekend after a boat apparently hit it.

Ms. Rollins said residents have been getting drinking water from a local well, National Guard trucks and a fire truck and packaged drinking water.

Schools and commercial food handling businesses in the area have been closed since Monday.

HOUSTON (AP) — A

Tennessee man has been charged in federal court after he allegedly sold offshore drilling data to an undercover FBI agent posing as an oil company representative.

William M. Dunn Jr., 27, was charged with transporting stolen property Wednesday in federal court. He was released after posting $20,000 bond set by U.S. Magistrate Calvin Botley.

Agents said Dunn approached a Tenneco oil company official and offered to sell him data concerning oil leases held by Exxon U.S.A. in the Gulf of Mexico.

The offer was reported to the FBI and Dunn was arrested Tuesday at Houston's Intercontinental Airport after he allegedly sold the documents to an FBI agent for $20,000.

An Exxon official said the information in the documents was worth much more than the $20,000 asking price.

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff International Airways will scale back its operations further than planned this year because of spiraling fuel price and a deeper than expected recession, the airline's chief executive officer says.

Harding L. Lawrence, chairman and chief executive officer, said Wednesday that Braniff would omit its common stock dividend because a poor first quarter performance. He said the airline's first quarter net loss was $22 million.

He said the loss coupled with uncertain prospects for getting adequate fare increases to offset skyrocketing fuel prices prompted the board to omit the dividend that would have been paid at the beginning of the third quarter.

Lawrence told stockholders meeting in Dallas that Braniff had planned to reduce its capacity 1.3 percent in 1980, but now the prospect of a deep recession probably would force a 5.5 percent decrease.

DALLAS (AP) — Reduced buyer demand could prompt company officials to close the General Motors assembly plant in Arlington for a week this month and idle 4,500 workers, a company spokesman says.

The spokesman said the layoff probably would begin May 19 and effect both shifts, at the plant.

However, he said, company officials in Detroit may postpone a final decision until May 15.

He said workers have been notified there is a possibility of a shutdown.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Fort Worth police struggled today to retrace the steps of two Monahan women stabbed and left to bleed to death.

Officers discovered the body of Rebecca Hampton, 20, just before noon Wednesday in a ravine in east Fort Worth.

The body of the other woman, Penny Chere Dale, 25, was found Tuesday. Police said she had been stabbed at least seven times in the back and chest.

Tommy Harris of the medical examiners office said the two women appeared to have been killed about 24 hours apart.

Police believe the two women traveled to Fort Worth together to look for a job.

Police Searching For Bike

Hereford police are investigating the theft of an $800 bicycle which occurred between sometime in April and Wednesday night.

Richard Lee Clark, 315 Union, told police he had left the bicycle at 122 Ave. B. The bicycle was not there, he said, at 8:05 p.m. Wednesday.

The bicycle was described as a green Schwinn Continental Limited Edition.

Police Wednesday assisted on an ambulance call and wrote nine traffic citations.

Townpeople Attempt Community 'Fat-Off'

By JUDY DAUBENMIER
Associated Press Writer

STRATFORD, Iowa (AP) — Farmer John Bergquist says he's eaten so much lettuce his ears are growing and Kaylen Leeds can be heard mumbling to herself: "I'm not hungry. I'm not hungry."

Bergquist, Ms. Leeds and more than 300 of their neighbors in this central Iowa town of 870 have enlisted in a 4½-month diet called "The Great Stratford Fat-Off."

Begun as a publicity stunt for the community's centennial celebration, it's turned into serious business. Pride is all that's at stake, as the men and women compete to see which sex loses the most.

And all over town, people are tightening their belts and pinning on buttons that plead, "Don't Feed Me."

The "Fat-Off" waddled off the ground March 1 when the groups of men and women climbed on the truck scales at the Stratford grain elevator. It will end with a weigh-in during the town's July 12 centennial celebration, when both the "before" and "after" figures will be announced.

That means the participants are only about halfway through, and to some it seems like the diet will never end.

"I'm starting to sprout gills and my ears are growing longer from all the rabbit food and fish I've been eating," said Bergquist, who intelligence officers," said Nehrbaas, head of the Miami office.

The Herald said CIA agents also were helping screen refugees at the processing centers around Florida, reportedly seeking a wide range of information about events in Cuba and people left on the communist island who might be willing to serve as U.S. spies.

Meanwhile, exhausted National Guardsmen said they couldn't move refugees has already shed 55 of his 357 pounds.

"I'm good for another 30," he said, then moaned, "I've only had two drinks and one steak since 'the first of March.'"

Bergquist, who farms near Stratford, has a dieting companion, his hired man Ed Berry.

The Fat-Off "comes at a convenient time for me. My doctor said I had to lose some weight," said Berry, who says he weighed 265 pounds "naked as a jaybird" at the start of the competition. Berry has lost 30 pounds.

The 85 pounds lost by the Bergquist and Berry duo is a comfortable cushion for their side, one that the women doubt they can overcome.

"I think the men are doing a little better," said Ms. Leeds, who at 155 is 20 pounds lighter than two months ago.

"I haven't heard too many of the women say they are really working at it. Not like the guys. But they have an advantage. Some of them have a lot more to lose."

LuAnn Garvey, who at 137 pounds is 10 pounds lighter than at the start, agrees. "If I lost 55 pounds like John, I'd blow away."

Ms. Leeds has joined a diet club and taken up jogging and bicycling to help her meet her goal of a 10-pound loss per month.

She vows to stick with it even after the weigh-in.

"I like to eat," said Ms. Leeds. "I just keep telling myself I'm not hungry."

West Expected To Go Republican

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The West will vote Republican in the 1980 presidential election but the party should promise to reverse Carter administration policies on western issues just to make sure, GOP platform writers were told today.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, in remarks prepared for a GOP platform hearing, predicted the party would do as well in the West as in 1976, when former President Gerald R. Ford carried every western state but Texas and Hawaii.

But Stevens, the assistant GOP leader in the Senate, went on to say it was "imperative" that the Republican platform contain a pledge that "basic rights of citizens of the West will be preserved."

refugees remained in Key West, most jammed into a former Navy hangar where overflowing portable toilets fouled the air.

But Gen. K.C. Bullard said the refugees had been very patient.

"They just seem to be happy to be here, and they're willing to put up with the bad conditions," he said. "We're trying to keep the people moving, so they don't get too restless."

Muskie

Brzezinski often took positions that were perceived as "hard line," especially regarding the Soviet Union. Vance was deemed to be more moderate and conciliatory and resigned after his opposition to the attempt to rescue the hostages in Iran by military force was overruled.

"I think we have developed a mischievous system that often leads to two secretaries of state," said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the committee chairman. "I think we sound a very uncertain trumpet when foreign countries see public disputes between the secretary of state and the president's national security adviser in the White House. I just hope we can change our procedures. It is damaging our foreign policy and spreading confusion abroad."

Muskie bade farewell to his life as a senator in a short and emotion filled speech immediately before the vote.

Bodies

Embassy in Tehran was aborted. The Iranians say nine or 10 bodies were recovered at the scene.

Nine coffins were returned to the United States on Tuesday. Sources said mortuary officials were investigating whether the ninth coffin contained the remains of an Iranian civilian.

But Maj. Sam Floca, a Defense Department spokesman, said "The Iranians returned nine caskets. We have nine caskets and our mission is to identify our eight servicemen."

American flags were to remain at half staff through sunset Friday, by presidential order, in mourning for the commandos. A national memorial service will be held in Washington on Friday.

The bodies were taken to this Delaware air base because its mortuary, built to handle Vietnam war casualties, is among the largest and best equipped in the world. It can process 100 bodies a day.

Names in the News

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The baby sitter was alarmed when she saw a scruffy, unshaven man pull up on a motorcycle and start walking toward the house.

The high school sophomore slammed the front door and locked it. She ran to lock the side door as well, then closed the curtains and was thinking about calling the police.

But after a few seconds, the man got back on his motorcycle and drove off. Al McGuire wasn't going to get a chance to see his grandson this time.

McGuire, a former Marquette University basketball coach who's now a sports commentator for NBC-TV, said he didn't approach the house because he knew the babysitter was frightened. And he said he couldn't blame her.

"I do get pretty speedy looking this time of year," he said. "I don't get my hair cut until November, when I have to do it for TV."

Said his son, Allie, of last week's incident: "He was just mad she didn't recognize his face."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Feminist Gloria Steinem, denouncing "sexist" mental therapy, is urging the nation's psychiatrists to support the Equal Rights Amendment or prepare to deal with economic rejection.

Ms. Steinem said Wednesday the refusal by the American Psychiatric Association to boycott meetings in states that have not voted to ratify the ERA amounts to accepting the "oppression" of women. She said she supports attempts by psychiatrists to mount a vote to force an APA boycott of a meeting scheduled next year in Louisiana.

"If the APA refuses to boycott the New Orleans meeting in 1981, patients must bring the economic boycott to the pocketbooks of their therapists," she said in an address prepared for a meeting of the predominantly male, 25,000-member organization.

NEW YORK (AP)—Michael Morris didn't fool around when he was assigned to interview someone famous. The teenager headed straight for Richard Nixon—and got the first interview with the former president since Nixon moved here earlier this year.

The 14-year-old eighth grader, who attends a Harlem junior high school, said the scoop came about when he delivered a letter to Nixon's home on East 65th Street and Nixon called to tell him to come by.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

With the "Woody McDermitt Memorial Opry" being staged Saturday, sponsored by the Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228, many are asking what the proceeds of the show are used for.

The Rebekah Lodge is basically a benevolent organization. Our benevolence starts at home by administering to the sick and distressed, which includes food and flowers for families who are in bereavement and food for sick and needy people who just need a little extra help during times of illness.

Donations are also made to some who have had extra large hospital and doctor bills due to prolonged illness.

We support the local Camp Fire Lodge.

Cash donations are made annually to the Heart Association, Lung Association, Kidney Foundation, World Eye Bank and World Hunger Program.

We also support the Odd Fellow Home for the Aged and the Children's Home.

I hope this will answer the questions satisfactorily. Thank you for your support in the past and for the show coming this week, May 10, at IOOF Hall, 205 E. 6th Street at 8 p.m.

Your dollar will go a long way in our projects and I believe you will get even more than $1 worth of entertainment.

In Friendship,
Love & Truth,

such a joy to welcome them.

I pray that God will bless each and every one of them and guide and direct their footsteps all of their lives.

I'd like to also thank those who received these young people into their homes and gave so generously to this worthy cause.

God bless you all - I love you sincerely.

Dear Editor:

Last week I had the privilege of accompanying our high school choir to Dallas for the Six-Flags Festival as one of the parent sponsors.

Choirs from all over Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Louisiana and other states were there. Also, bands from as far away as Tennessee, Minnesota and Wisconsin were there for the festival.

Our high school choir, under the direction of Mr. Devers, both received "I" ratings.

The most outstanding part, however, was the excellent way our young people conducted themselves. There was not an unpleasant incident on the whole trip. They are to be commended on the fine way in which they represented our school and our town.

And, a special "thanks" to Mr. Devers for his efforts for our young people.

Sincerely,
Carole Byers

Nothing To Gripe About

The plain truth of the matter was, there just wasn't a whole lot to gripe about.

Of course there was the continuing prospect of rain in the forecast which has been known to hamper play on the grid practice field -- but worse things had happened in Hereford. It was a Wednesday -- no that wouldn't work either because it was the middle of the week and better than a Monday.

Then there was the fact that the Lone Ranger was stripped of his mask and had to don sunglasses instead. Naw! The coach had lost interest in that topic following an after he tried unsuccessfully attempt to say "Kimo Sabe."

And after the third day of spring training had passed, head

The Grid General

Head football coach

Don Cumpston watches his squad's progress

football coach Don Cumpston had to face the grim facts -- try as he might he couldn't complain about anything "For Crying Out Loud!"

"Everything looks great!" Cumpston said regarding the completion of Wednesday's practice session. "We spent a lot of time trying to establish our throwing game and it has improved a bunch if I say so myself."

"Our passing game is coming on better than we had anticipated and our quarterbacks are getting their timing down so that particular segment of our training is looking exceptionally good," he said.

And if that unbreakable optimism failed to make any full fledged pessimists a little sick, then Cumpston bolstered a few more eloquent appraisals of his squad.

"We think we'll be able to throw pretty well by the time the season floats around and that throwing game is going to be complemented with some receivers who have the ability to catch too," said Cumpston.

"But I still maintain that our strongest point so far in spring training is that there is an awful lot of competitiveness going on for positions, and that is crucial to a successful team," he commented. We've got a big team coming up through the ranks this year -- bigger than most -- but there's still some smaller individuals that are making a bid for some of those positions. And at this stage -- we're not looking at size in regard to positions, but rather how much a particular player wants that spot."

Actually the Whitefaces are fielding a team averaging 195-200 pounds in the trenches offensive and defensive lines -- and that figure pushes the scales to a full 18 pounds per man over last year's lineup. Not bad for for one year's time at the table.

"We've done real well so far in our effort and I personally believe that it (our progress) will continue as each day passes."

It is a little known fact that a recording sometimes graces listeners in the corridor outside the coaches' office, from time to time.

The disc says over and over again in a Knute Rockne monotone "I believe, I believe, I believe....."

Sounds good coach -- now let's hear you say "Kimo Sabe."

76ers Slip Past Lakers 107-104

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Darryl Dawkins scored 25 points Wednesday night as the Philadelphia 76ers raced to a 23-point third-quarter lead and held off a Los Angeles comeback to record a 107-104 victory over the Lakers and even the National Basketball Association championship series at one victory apiece.

Maurice Cheeks and Julius

Erving added 23 points apiece as the 76ers erased the Lakers' home court advantage in the best-of-seven playoff finals. The next two games will be played in Philadelphia Saturday and Sunday.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar poured in 38 points for the Lakers, including 22 in the second half, when Los Angeles closed within one point but failed to draw even. Abdul-Jabbar also had 14 rebounds.

Dawkins was limited to 18 minutes of action in the first game, when he was in almost constant foul trouble -- scored 12 points. He was the dominant force in the first half of Game Two, scoring 17 points by working inside effectively and hitting jump shots from the perimeter as the 76ers took a 59-41 lead.

Two free throws by Lionel Hollins gave Philadelphia its largest lead of the game at 68-45 with 8:13 to go in the third quarter.

Julius Erving's basket to open the final period made it 91-71 before the Lakers finally broke loose.

La Plata Wins Tourney In Both A, B Divisions

The La Plata Junior High golf team added up 318 points to take first place in the Hereford Junior High golf tournament here recently with Stanton's A squad trailing the Mavericks for second place with a tally of 399.

Canyon landed a third place berth after bringing in a team total of 373 while Berger grasped fourth with 362, and Dumas brought up the end of the pack after jolting down a score of 426.

Maverick golfer Kerry Beard drove in a score of 37-38 for a total of 75 to lead La Plata in the low shooting category. Teammate Steve Barrett rounded out the day's play right behind Beard after he capped a 37-42 for 79 while Greg Goebel shot an SEATTLE (AP) — Joe Simpson's two-out single scored pinch runner Rodney Craig in the 10th inning, giving the Seattle Mariners a 7-6 victory over the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night.

Loser Pat Underwood, 0-2, walked Tom Paciorek leading off the bottom of the 10th and Craig was sacrificed to second. Larry Milbourne was walked intentionally and Bill Stein flied out before Simpson's game-winning.

Seattle's Jim Anderson smacked his third home run of the season with one out in the ninth to tie the game 6-6 and sent it into extra innings.

Oakland, Toronto Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

No, it's not April Fool's Day, but if the American League season ended right now you could see the Oakland A's and the Toronto Blue Jays in the playoffs.

Oh, the Blue Jays would first have to win a one-game East Division shootout with the New York Yankees, but why quibble when two last-place teams that combined for a 107-217 record a year ago (Oakland 54-108, Toronto 53-109) are enjoying the rarefied atmosphere of first place.

Dave Stieb scattered 10 hits — he was backed by five double plays — and Al Woods and Otto Velez hit two-run homers as the Blue Jays whipped the California Angels 7-3 Wednesday night. That gave the Jays a club record-tying fifth consecutive victory and they remained deadlocked for first place in the AL East with the Yankees, who beat the Milwaukee Brewers 4-1.

The 4-year-old Blue Jays' only other five-game winning streak was Aug. 20-23, 1978.

The A's dropped a 2-1 squeaker to the Cleveland Indians but still hold a one-game lead in the West over the Chicago White Sox, who were routed by the Kansas City Royals 12-5.

Elsewhere, the Baltimore Orioles downed the Minnesota Twins 8-6, the Boston Red Sox beat the Texas Rangers 7-4 in 11 innings and the Seattle Mariners nipped the Detroit Tigers 7-6 in 10.

Yankees 4, Brewers 1

The Yankees turned four double plays in support of unbeaten Tommy John's seven-hit pitching for their fifth consecutive victory and John's fifth. Eric Soderholm homered for New York while Graig Nettles had an RBI single and shortstop Bucky Dent contributed two sacrifice flies along with a fielding gem that kept the Brewers from tying the score in the eighth inning.

Indians 2, A's 1

Cleveland's Mike Hargrove extended his hitting streak to 18 games with a two-run single in the sixth inning and Rick Waits pitched a four-hitter, allowing only an unearned run on first baseman Hargrove's throwing error in the third. With one out in the Cleveland sixth, Jorge Orta got an infield hit, Duane Kuiper doubled and Hargrove delivered his two-run single. He has driven in 18 runs during his streak and 19 for the season.

Royals 12, White Sox 5

Rookie Bobby Detherage smashed his first major league home run, a three-run shot in the fifth inning, and Willie Wilson and Hal McRae delivered two-run doubles in an eight-run fourth to power Kansas City. In the top of the fourth, the Royals erased a 3-1 deficit and took a 9-3 lead by pounding out a club record nine straight hits after loser Ken Kravec retired the first two batters.

Orleans 8, Twins 6

Al Bumbry raced home with the tie-breaking run on Ken Singleton's infield tapper in the eighth inning and Terry Crowley, who homered earlier, added a sacrifice fly after Baltimore blew a 6-1 lead. Bumbry opened the eighth with a walk off loser Mike Marshall, 0-3, and raced to third when third baseman John Castino fielded Mark Belanger's bunt single and overthrew first base. Bumbry scored as shortstop Roy Smalley had difficulty fielding Singleton's chopper.

Red Sox 7, Rangers 4

Boston scored three unearned runs in the 11th inning with the help of two Texas errors, one by newly acquired glove man Bud Harrelson. Jack Brohamer started things when Texas pitcher Adrian Devine slipped on the soggy infield while trying to field a slow roller. Carl Yastrzemski grounded to second but shortstop Harrelson, making his first American League appearance after being signed for infield insurance, missed the bag after taking second baseman Bump Wills' throw.

In the confusion, Brohamer went to third. He was trapped on Rick Burleson's grounder back to the mound but scored the go-ahead run when catcher Jim Sundberg's throw hit him as he scampered back to third.

Mariners 7, Tigers 6

Joe Simpson's two-out single delivered the winning run. Loser Pat Underwood walked Tom Paciorek leading off the 10th and pinch runner Rodney Craig was sacrificed to second. Larry Milbourne was walked intentionally and Bill Stein flied out before Simpson's game-winning. Seattle's Jim Anderson smacked his third home run of the season with one out in the ninth to tie the game 6-6. The Tigers had taken a 6-5 lead in the top of the ninth on Dave Stegman's RBI double.

Pensions To Be Discussed in Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — The major issues of pensions and compensation for free agent signings were expected to be discussed at today's session of negotiations between the Major League Players Association and the owners' Player Relations Committee.

Progress was minimal at the talks Wednesday and even federal mediator Kenneth Moffett was beginning to sound pessimistic about the situation.

"We're getting closer to the deadline and there are still a lot of unresolved issues," he said.

The players have set a May 22 strike deadline, threatening to walk out the following day, just before the Memorial Day weekend unless a new basic agreement is reached by then.

Moffett said no progress was made Wednesday with most of the day spent discussing health and safety, the definition of a salary and other administrative matters.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the union, said management representatives suggested discussing the difficult compensation question near the end of Thursday's meeting.

"Why should I bring up something that would be subtracting from what the players have?" he said. "As far as compensation, it's their issue."

Management wants teams signing top free agents to make replacement players from their rosters available to the teams losing those players.

Asked to characterize the talks so far, Miller said: "The overall flavor is more of disagreement than agreement."

Blocking Assignments

Boston Beats Rangers 7-4

Brohamer Scores Freak Run

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Players in both dressing rooms agreed that Jack Brohamer's latest trip around the base paths was about the wackiest thing they've ever seen.

But it provided Boston with a 7-4 victory in 11 innings over the Texas Rangers Wednesday night, enabling the Red Sox to salvage the final game of a three-game series.

"We couldn't get that guy out, and we had three chances at him," said Texas catcher Jim Sundberg, whose throw in a rundown hit Brohamer in the hip, allowing him to score.

Rick Burleson had hit a solo homer in the first inning, and Carlton Fisk hit a two-run clout in the seventh for Boston, and the Red Sox led 4-2 going into the bottom of the eighth.

But a fielding error, followed by two walks, set up Buddy Bell's bases-loaded single to tie the game.

A rain that began falling in the seventh was still coming down when Brohamer came to the plate with one out in the 11th and the score still deadlocked at 4-4.

He hit an innocent-looking tap between the mound and first base, and almost fell down as he left the batter's box. But Adrian Devine, the Rangers' fourth pitcher of the evening, did fall down as he was trying to field the grounder, and Brohamer was safe at first with a single.

Then Carl Yastrzemski hit a grounder to second, where Bump Wills grabbed the ball, tossed to newly acquired shortstop Bud Harrelson at second, and Harrelson threw to Pat Putnam at first, just too late to complete the double play.

Brohamer says he was about halfway to third, trotting back to the Red Sox dugout, when he heard somebody yelling that he was safe. Second base umpire Bill Deegan was saying Harrelson had his foot off the bag when he got Wills' throw.

"I looked up and saw Putnam standing there with the ball, so I started running to third. I'd already been to second," Brohamer smiled.

Burleson then hit a grounder to Devine, who saw he had Brohamer trapped between third base and home. Brohamer also realized he was a goner, but stopped, forcing a rundown so the other runners could advance.

Devine threw to Sundberg, but the ball slipped and the Texas catcher hit Brohamer in the right hip as the Red Sox player ran toward third. As the ball caromed toward the middle of the infield, Brohamer raced in with what proved to be the winning run. The Rangers had to walk pinch hitter Jim Dwyer on purpose to load the bases then, and Jim Rice's sacrifice fly and Tony Perez' third single of the night brought in Boston's final two runs.

Texas got five hits and two runs off starter Mike Torrez in the first two innings, but Torrez retired the next 14 batters, and Bell's hit off reliever Dick Drago, 2-1, the winner, was the only other hit Texas got all night.

Gold Sox Win 3-1 Over Leading San Antonio

By The Associated Press

Tom Vessey belted a solo home run and a run-producing double to lead Amarillo to a 3-1 Texas League victory Wednesday over Western Division-leading San Antonio.

In other Texas League action Wednesday, Midland and El Paso split a double-header, Shreveport beat Tulsa and Arkansas at Jackson was postponed because of rain.

Amarillo grabbed an early lead on Vessey's second inning homer, got a run in the fifth when Gary Ashby scored from third on an infield out and added an insurance run in the ninth when John Alvarez singled and scored on Vessey's double.

Mark Bradley scored San Antonio's only run with an eighth-inning homer.

Mark Thurmond got the win for Amarillo and Randy Miller earned a save. Fernando Valenzuela was tagged with the loss.

At Midland, Randy Lavigne scored from third on a sacrifice fly in the sixth to give Midland a 3-2 win over El Paso in the first game of a double-header.

Mike Bishop drove in two runs with a first-inning double and it was all the runs El Paso needed to posted a 3-1 win in the nightcap.

Midland took an early lead in the opener on a two-run homer by Tom Grant in the first inning. But El Paso tied it in the fourth on Brian Harper's two-run homer.

Randy Clark, 1-1, earned the win and Steve Brown, 3-3, absorbed the loss for El Paso. In the second game, Mart Wardlow, 3-2, got the win for El Paso and Tom Spino, 0-2, drew the loss for Midland.

In Shreveport, Tom Rannels drove in two runs with a single that broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth, ignited a five-run rally and led the way to Shreveport's 6-3 win over Tulsa.

Pirates Squeak By Los Angeles After Bad Pitch

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

When your knuckleball isn't knuckling, Dave Parker is not the man you want up at the plate.

Charlie Hough was in that paralyzing situation Wednesday night.

The Los Angeles Dodger relief pitcher served up what he called "the worst pitch I think I've ever thrown."

And Parker gave it a ride into the right field at Three Rivers Stadium, leading the Pirates to a 7-6 victory over the Dodgers.

"I threw it right over the plate," said Hough, "and he hit it like you're supposed to."

While Parker was supplying the punch, newcomer Pascual Perez was supplying the pitching. Just brought up from the minors this week, the Dominican Republic native held a 6-2 lead over the Dodgers before leaving in the seventh inning. He was deprived of the victory when the Dodgers later tied the game.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds edged the New York Mets 3-2 in 12 innings; the Chicago Cubs whipped the San Diego Padres 7-4; the Montreal Expos trimmed the Houston Astros 3-2 and the St. Louis Cardinals routed the San Francisco Giants 12-2. The Atlanta-Philadelphia game was rained out.

Parker's homer was the Pirates' fourth of the night. Shots by Willie Stargell, Bill Madlock and Ed Ott had staked Perez to a 6-0 lead through five innings.

Reds 3, Mets 2

Junior Kennedy's 12th-inning single drove home Ken Griffey from second with the winning run as Cincinnati nipped New York in the third straight extra-inning game played between the two.

Griffey opened the 12th with his third hit of the game and moved up on an infield out. After Dan Driessen was walked intentionally, Kennedy singled to left, scoring the winning run.

John Stearns' pinch RBI single had tied the game for the Mets in the bottom of the ninth.

Cubs 7, Padres 4

Jerry Martin broke a fifth-inning tie with a home run, triggering Chicago past San Diego. Martin's shot put the Cubs ahead 3-2 against Rick Wise, 2-2. Then Scot Thompson lined a one-out double and scored on Mike Tyson's second hit of the game, a single.

Cub starter Mike Krukow,

3-1, worked 5 2/3 innings, giving up three Padre runs on eight hits. Chicago used three pitchers in relief, including Bruce Sutter, who gained his eighth save.

Expos 3, Astros 0

Scott Sanderson combined with Woodie Fryman on a six-hitter and Rodney Scott and Ken Macha each drove in a run to lead Montreal over Houston.

The Expos took a 1-0 lead off Nolan Ryan, 1-2, in the first inning without a hit, Scott driving the run home with a grounder. Macha brought home another run for the Expos with an RBI single in a two-run second inning.

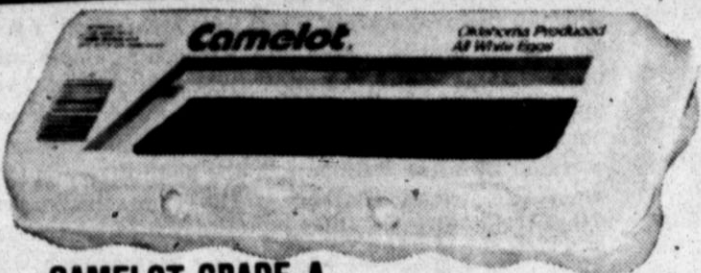

Cardinals 12, Giants 2

Bob Forsch pitched seven innings of three-hit ball and contributed a three-run homer, pacing St. Louis over San Francisco.

Yugoslavia Bids Farewell to President Tito

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia bade farewell today to President Josip Broz Tito in a funeral marked by military pageantry and vows to protect his legacy of independent communism.

Guns fired salvoes in salute as an honor guard of generals, miners and metalworkers carried Tito's oak casket from the rotunda of the Parliament to a gun carriage for the procession to his grave in a garden overlooking the city.

Before the procession began, Stevan Doronjski, chief of the collective leadership that succeeds Tito as Communist Party chief, described Yugoslavia's break with the Soviet Bloc in 1948 as "one of the turning points in the history of our movement."

"At that time, it was a question of relations between socialist and communist parties, a question of independence, equality, respect for sovereignty and an independent path in the development of socialism."

Doronjski said it was "alien to the spirit of socialist Yugoslavia to tie itself to any power bloc. Tito saw this quite clearly and he deeply believed that the very existence of the blocs increased threats to the world."

His speech was heard by Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, who with scores of other foreign leaders came to join hundreds of thousands of Yugoslavs for the ceremony and procession to the gravesite.

The tombstone was to bear the inscription "Josip Broz Tito, 1892-1980."

The funeral procession also was to include the presidents of the six Yugoslav republics and two autonomous regions who form the collective leadership to whom Tito bequeathed his presidency, and the 24-man collective, similarly drawn from the eight regions, he devised to run the Yugoslav Communist Party.

Tito, who led his Partisan guerrillas to victory over the Nazis in World War II, turned Yugoslavia into a communist nation and successfully defied Soviet dictator Josef Stalin, died Sunday after a long illness. His funeral came the day after the 88th anniversary of his birth.

Hordes of Yugoslavs, including veterans of Tito's wartime Partisan forces and young people who knew no other national chieftain, poured into Belgrade to jam the broad Knez Milosa Avenue as the cortege took the three-mile route to the gravesite. The same street was used for the procession of assassinated King Alexander in 1934, the last big state funeral in the Balkan capital.

Early this morning, thousands of Yugoslavs still stood in long lines waiting for a chance to file past Tito's coffin in a hall of the Parliament.

The foreign mourners included three kings, 34 prime ministers, 31 heads of state and scores of ministers, diplomats and political leaders.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale headed the American delegation, sharing the limelight with Brezhnev and Chinese Chairman Hua Guofeng. British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt were present, but French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, like President Carter, stayed home.

DO THIS...AND NEVER BE IN THE DARK

12 Later, in one of His talks, Jesus said to the people, "I am the Light of the world. So if you follow Me, you won't be stumbling through the darkness, for living light will flood your path."

13 The Pharisees replied, "You are boasting -- and lying!"

14 Jesus told them, "These claims are true even though I make them concerning Myself. For I know where I came from and where I am going, but you don't know this about Me."

15 You pass judgment on Me without knowing the facts. I am not judging you now.

16 But if I were, it would be an absolutely correct judgment in every respect, for I have with Me the Father who sent Me.

17 Your laws say that if two men agree on something that has happened, their witness is accepted as fact.

18 Well, I am one witness, and My Father who sent Me is the other."

19 "Where is your father?" they asked.

Jesus answered, "You don't know who I am, so you don't know who My Father is. If you knew Me, then you would know Him too."

20 Jesus made these statements while in the section of the Temple known as the Treasury. But He was not arrested, for His time had not yet run out.

Medical Doctors Discover Nutrition

Jealousies among scientists are altogether as pernicious as among Hollywood starlets.

Medical specialists are tenacious in defending their specialties -- and have closed ranks only against "outside practitioners."

While doctors condemned (CQ) chiropractors and osteopaths they, the doctors, nonetheless adopted and adapted some of their techniques under the heading of "physical therapy."

Now, at long last, doctors are making friends with nutritionists.

We are what we eat. Our food intake contributes the chemical balance that generates the electricity to make inert tissue alert.

Yet until very recently the subject of nutrition has been neglected by medical schools and largely ignored in the practice of medicine.

True, some doctors were "closet nutritionists," daring to prescribe for their patients specific diets for specific ills. But the closet door was flung open at this year's unprecedented conference on nutrition sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The co-chairman of that conference, Dr. Orville Levander, proclaimed "iron deficiency the number one public health nutrition problem in the United States."

He said, "Important in combatting this deficiency is new data on interaction between vitamin C and iron."

There's more to it than that, however.

Kansas University Medical Center researchers discovered that "while C boosts the absorption of iron, it interferes with the absorption of copper."

But there was a consensus among conference speakers that vitamins are the biochemical sparkplugs of the body -- that essential vitamins help the body turn food into useful energy, help nerves, muscles and organs work properly -- and promote growth of body tissue.

For the medical profession to relate vitamins and minerals to the prevention and cure of disease -- and for medical schools now to teach that relationship -- exonerates some daring pioneers.

Dr. Linus Pauling, for one. He has promoted the health benefits of vitamin C for a quarter-century. He is convinced that proper nutrition can add 25 years to the average American life.

Recent research at the University of Illinois seems to confirm a relationship between proper diet and intestinal cancer, our nation's second most common form of cancer.

From this research, a high-fiber diet -- such as bran -- appears beneficial.

Anyway, as I say, the diet faddists can come out of the closet now; they have won the interest and some support from medical professionals.

Next, because of physiological variables among individuals, the professionals must discipline themselves to qualify pronouncements relating to their new enthusiasm. What's source for the goose may be something else for the gander.

The Annual Report of the U.S. Commissioner of Pensions for 1874 notes that "With the death of Daniel T. Bakeman, of Freedom, Cattaraugus County, New York, April 5, 1869, the last of the pensioned soldiers of the Revolution passed away."

Presenting Donation

On behalf of the Roy Wederbrook VFW post, Commander Tommy Goheen presented a check for $1,150 this week to Kody Ruland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ruland. The donation will be used to defray medical expenses of the 13-year-old youngster who is suffering from kidney disease. [Brand photo by Jim Steiert]

Little Is a Midgett Now

MARION, Ill. (AP) — Lana Jo used to be Little until she became a Midgett.

In a short ceremony at the Williamson County Courthouse Wednesday morning, Lana Jo Little, 24, became the bride of Larry D. Midgett, 24. The couple plans to live in this Southern Illinois city.

Said the new Mrs. Midgett, "I feel a little taller now."

The Job Stinks

MENOMINEE, Mich. (AP) — The main reason Yvonne Pennington resigned as Menominee's animal warden were the money and commuting time. But the skunks didn't help.

She was "a good dog catcher and she was doing more than her job," said Mayor Bill Plemel. "She rounded up those dogs with love and understanding. But with the skunks, it was different."

When a skunk complaint came in, Mrs. Pennington would trap it alive and take it to a city landfill where it was shot, he said.

And that's what the stink was all about.

"They wouldn't let her shoot them in the city, nor would they let officers shoot them on site," said veterinarian Roger Seidl. "That posed a danger for her" from rabies while transporting the skunks.

Mrs. Pennington said she was nearly bit twice. But Police Chief Ralph Soffredine said she didn't seem to mind when she took the job.

"An animal control officer doesn't only deal with skunks. They deal with just about any animal you can think of and they all can give you rabies," he said.

Mrs. Pennington's replacement, he said, still traps the skunks and shoots them himself -- at the dump.

Teacher Loves His Profession

Editor's note: The following was written by Hereford High teacher Ronnie Wood and explains his love for his profession and the hardships that go with it.

LET ME BE A TEACHER

From the beginning of man's existence on this planet, education of offspring has been a very important part of man's life.

Education in its earliest stage was for the purpose of survival. The child was taught what to fear and what to reverence. There were many occurrences that were mysterious and could not be explained, so primitive man in his ignorance created his gods to explain the unexplainable.

As time continued its forward movement into recorded history, man developed the ability to communicate through the written language. Where once he was limited in his travel he developed the wheel, the use of boats, and the domestication of animals to make travel to distant lands possible. In his travels, early man came in contact with many new and exciting experiences.

All of this added to his ever mounting source of knowledge, and education moved from the realms of survival into areas of mathematics, medicine, philosophy, sciences, and technology. The unexplainable became explainable.

For the wealthy, there was time to pursue hobbies, pleasure, and knowledge. Education continued its forward movement into a new era that now required the presence of men of learning who had the ability to help quench their thirst of knowledge. Young men would set at the feet of great teachers such as Socrates and Plato who related to them information concerning the sciences and philosophies.

Even though some of this information has proved to be erroneous, they represented the best that the world at that time had to offer. During the Roman period of influence the Master Teacher entered with an understanding and knowledge that changed the world for all time. He taught of a love for mankind and a consideration for others first.

It was education that allowed men to be freed from superstitions and fears that had enslaved them. It was education that helped man to make life more enjoyable and worthwhile. It was education that planted in the minds of man the seeds of democracy that would arise in a distant time in the development of the United States of America.

Education brought to our world the good things of life, but there are those who misuse this knowledge to gain power and wealth. We have seen that knowledge can also bring about evil if it is not properly used. It was during the Dark Ages that men of power and wealth misused their power to enslave others. Slavery has been common throughout history usually in the form of physical bondage, but slavery can exist in many forms.

The leaders of this period of time sought to enslave the minds of man. They prohibited the possession and use of books with the only information that could be received was that given by those in power. It was thought that if one could enslave the minds of man, one could enslave man. In their attempt to make mental slaves of the people, they failed to control that most important part of man -- the heart. For it was in the heart of man that existed a spark that would burst into flames of open rebellion, because of the desire to understand the mysteries of the universe.

These men rose up and threw off their chains of bondage and walked across the land as individuals, free to search for those answers to the mysteries of the universe. This led to one of the greatest periods of history known as the Renaissance. It was a time of rebirth of the arts, sciences, and religions that has continued to this day.

Knowledge through education has brought about an unbelievable amount of understanding and discovery that would astound the great teachers of the past. At the center of it all is the many times forgotten teacher. In the earliest beginning it was the parent who had the responsibility of teaching and this should never change. As time progressed this responsibility was shared with individuals of learning who had the ability to explain. It was the teacher who held a position of respect and admiration in the eyes of the students, parents, and society. As time has progressed, the role and position of the teacher has changed.

Today, the teacher is an individual who is expected to have a special kind of love, a love that overcomes barriers of ignorance, pride, and prejudice. The teacher is expected to provide a love and understanding that is in some cases not experienced at home.

The teacher today must be able to instill into his students a desire to learn, the desire to be a good citizen, and a respect for peers, parents, and property. When all of these things do not come about, someone must be held responsible for this failure.

Today this failure is being placed upon the classroom teacher because of his direct dealings with the students.

The courts of our land that send down mandates to be followed are not willing to share in this failure. The government agencies, state legislatures, and state departments of education who set up rules and regulations that must be followed do not want to share in this failure.

The dissatisfied groups within the community who continually criticize and demand special consideration from the school boards do not want to share in this failure.

There seems to be no thought given to the facts of overcrowded classrooms, large amounts of paperwork, seeing after health needs, and lack of time to spend with students concerning individual problems.

I love my profession and I love being a teacher. I love the people with whom I work and I love the students who come into my classroom. From the parents of my students I ask but one thing. Give me a chance to earn the respect and admiration that was enjoyed by the teachers of the past. From the government agencies, courts, and community groups, I ask but one thing also. Let me be a teacher!

LSA Recognizes 'Boss of Year'

Hereford attorney, Schalan Atkinson, was honored as "Boss of the Year" by the Deaf Smith - Castro Counties Legal Secretaries Association recently during a dinner at the Caison Bar-B Q Restaurant. Her secretary, Edwina Thomas, presented Ms. Atkinson with an engraved plaque.

Ms. Atkinson practices general law in Hereford. She came from Amarillo to Hereford and was first associated with the District Attorney's office. Her secretary, in her nominating letter, stated: "I have the greatest admiration for her ability, intelligence, mature judgment, and the always honorable and professional way she conducts her business. I am always proud to say that she is my boss, the very best boss in the world!" The event was a joint bosses' night and officer installation. Entertainment was by the Frio Trio Plus Two. Thirty-five employers and secretaries from Hereford, Dimmitt and Friona enjoyed the evening.

Barbara Wheat, PLS, Dimmitt, installing officer, inducted the newly elected officers for 1980-81 as follows: president, Jeannie Tucker, PLS, Hereford; vice president, Martha Isaacs, Dimmitt; secretary, Edwina Thomas, Hereford; treasurer, Mildred Sheffy, PLS, CPS, Dimmitt; governor, Clark Vick, Dimmitt; and NALS representative, Sherry Hoover, Hereford.

Reception Sunday To Honor Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur David Moore of 822 Ave. K will be repeating their nuptial vows Sunday, May 11, in Temple Baptist Church 70 years after their marriage at Seymour. The couple will be honored afterwards at a reception in the church Fellowship Hall from 2:30 - 4:30 p.m.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Moore are invited to attend the reception; it is respectfully asked that no gifts be brought. Hosting the anniversary party will be the couple's children, including Jim Moore of Denver, Colo., Richard Moore of San Antonio and Mrs. L.W. (Glenna) Tooley of Dawn.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore will repeat their wedding vows in a ceremony to be performed by Temple Baptist pastor, the Rev. J.L. Bozeman. The Moore's grandson, David Combs, will be offering special music during the service.

Lucy Finney and Arthur David Moore were married May 1, 1910 at Seymour. They lived at Red Springs for approximately three years before settling at Running Water (Edmondson), where they made their home for 15 years. In 1928, the Moores moved north of Dawn community, farming there for seven years.

From 1935-76, the Moores resided at Kress, where she was active in the Women's Missionary Union and Extension Homemakers and clubwork. They were longtime members of the Baptist church at Kress, where she was a Sunday School teacher and he was a deacon.

The couple returned to Deaf Smith County four years ago. They are members of Temple Baptist Church and the Senior Citizens Association. They have eight grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Fund Drive Set By Church Youth

The youth of First Christian Church will be conducting a door-to-door fund-raising drive Sunday afternoon - on behalf of the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation.

Members of the Christian Youth Fellowship and Chi-Rho (the church's junior high and high school youth) will be canvassing the residential sector of the community from 2-4 p.m. for donations to MSF. Youth participating in the drive will bear identification as MS volunteers. The community is asked to support this cause.

Spears to Perform In Funfest Shows

Local high school magician Richard Spears will appear with puppet characters "Biff and Bonk" during the Funfest in Amarillo's Thompson Park over the Memorial weekend, May 24-26. The teenage performer is scheduled to appear on the Fantasyland Stage at 5:40 p.m. on each of the three days.

Funfest is returning to Thompson Park for the third consecutive year and promises entertainment for all ages. Among the attractions this year will be 35 different foods, 24 games and continuous live entertainment on four stages. Also to be featured at the family festival will be a children's petting zoo and Fantasyland, the free area offering 17 different activities for youngsters.

A special event at Funfest '80 will be the Fundeo Rodeo, offering three afternoons of country games. Primarily for children under the age of 12, Fundeo will offer such events as "Get a Greased Pig," "Calf Scramble," and "Barrel Race on a Stick Horse."

Adults will be allowed to participate in the latter two events. Slated from 2-5 p.m. each day of Funfest, Fundeo will open each day's events with a "Celebrity Chip Throw."

On Saturday, May 24, the Funfest marathon and half-marathon will begin at 7 a.m. The 26-mile marathon course begins on the grounds of Amarillo Medical Center and ends at Thompson Park, just off the Funfest grounds. On Monday, the 26th, the 2-mile Fun Run will begin at 11:30. Those wishing to pre-register for the Fundeo Rodeo or the Funfest marathon and half-marathon may obtain registration forms by writing Funfest, 1700 S. Polk, Amarillo, Texas 79102.

Free Energy

World production of geothermal power, in which the earth's heat is used to produce steam that drives generators, now totals about a million kilowatts. Geologists believe this could be increased tenfold, a pollution-free source of power that would be equivalent to burning a billion tons of coal.

Chamber Women Plan Pageants

Reports of two upcoming local pageants were the main items of business considered by the executive board of the Chamber Women's Division Tuesday during a meeting at the Chamber office.

Carolyn Canon, chairman of the Little Miss Hereford Pageant, announced that the contest for 4-15 year-olds will be presented Saturday, May 17 in the high school auditorium. Deadline for entry will be Friday, May 9. Winners will be named in four age divisions.

Frances Berry, president of the Women's Division, gave a progress report concerning the June 14th Miss Hereford Pageant. She stated that Sharon Hodges and Carrell Ann Simmons will direct the pageant, which will crown a new Miss Hereford and Miss Teen Hereford. Scholarships totaling $1,850 will be presented to the winners, who will be selected on the basis of evening dress, swimsuit and personality. Entry forms are now available at the Chamber office, Mrs. Berry said.

In old business, a final financial report from the recent Women's Tennis Tournament was approved.

It was announced that the Beauty Spots for the month of May are the Orbie Bledsoe home at 1401 S. 1st.

Other board members attending Tuesday's meeting were Mary Herring, Mary Thomas, Marcia Snyder, Olivia Denning and Betty Gilbert.

Co-Op Students Return From State Competition

The CVAE Co-op class of Hereford High School traveled to San Antonio this past weekend to attend the Vocational Opportunities Clubs of Texas State Contest.

The students were accompanied by their advisor, Jackie Cabiness, and the Vocational Counselor John Matthews. Two Junior High school students and their advisor Tommy Saul also attended the conference.

The students arrived in San Antonio in time to take a few tours prior to the meetings. They visited such places as the zoo, Sunken Gardens, the Chinese Tea Garden, the River Walk and of course, The Alamo. A dance was held on Friday night for all students attending the conference.

A breakfast was held on Saturday morning for the State Officers. Those attending were Dora Garcia - state president from Hereford; Robin Hermisen - vice president, Beaumont; Kerry Dromgoole - secretary from Ingleside; Mike Ulloa - treasurer from El Paso;

Diana Garcia - reporter from Lamar; Bobby Thacker - parliamentarian from Arlington; and Richard Lewis - sergeant-at-arms from Abilene.

The students participating in contest placed as follows: Jimmy Carrasco - Individual job project, 1st place; Ernestine Barcala - Individual job project, 1st place; Ninfa Elejandre - Photo Project, 1st place; Notebook Division - Dora Garcia - 1st place; Greg Bradford - 1st; Juan Martinez - 1st; Bernie Dominguez - 2nd; Grace Tijerina - 2nd; Ninfa Alejandre - 2nd. Dora Garcia also participated in the Leadership Contest in which she placed 5th in Job Interview and 4th in Prepared Speech. A chapter display was also entered and placed 5th in the State Competition. The Hereford students had more entries from District VI than any other school in the district.

Amarillo Visit Slated by LAPM

Plans for a May 16th visit to Amarillo were discussed Friday evening by Canton #36 of Ladies Auxiliary of Patriarchs Militant (LAPM) who met in regular session in IOOF Temple. Lady president Susie Cutsinger presided.

Purpose of the May 16th trip will be to hear State Departmental President of LAPM, Lady Willie Garth, who will be making her official visit to Amarillo. Members of the Hereford canton will assist at the meeting, which will include a covered dish supper.

Canton members were complimented for their good attendance at the recent Panhandle Association meeting in Amarillo.

Members present for the meeting and supper Friday evening were Ladies Cutsinger, Wilma Wise, Ursalee Jacobsen, Lydia Hopson, Ruth Rogers, Ada Hollabaugh and Bessie Lawrence, plus Cheveliers Guy Lawrence and Charlie Wise.

Entry Closes Tomorrow In Little Miss Pageant

Tomorrow is the final day for participants in the Little Miss Hereford Pageant to return their completed entry forms to the Chamber of Commerce office.

Entry blanks are still available at the Chamber and both city banks. A registration fee of $5 per entrant will be charged.

The junior pageant is an annual project of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division and this year's contest is being

Stanton Dogie Roundup

Compiled By
Stanton Journalism Class

Stanton Junior High freshmen left the school campus at 11:25 today to attend the annual freshman picnic. The festivities began with a catered lunch at the park. After lunch, the students went to various locations for the activity they had chosen for the afternoon. These activities included skating, golf, tennis, bicycling, motorcycleing, bowling, horseback riding, or remaining at the park for softball, frisbee, visiting, etc. Freshmen homeroom teachers helped sponsor the activities.

The 1980 Stanton-Dogie yearbook was presented to the students last week. Students enjoyed the annual directed by Carolyn Canon. The event will be staged at 7 p.m. Saturday, May 17, in the high school auditorium with KPAN radio personality Tom Simons serving as master of ceremonies.

Winners will be named in four age divisions: Cutest Miss, ages 4-5; Miss Petite, ages 6-8; Little Princess, ages 9-12; and Miss Junior High, grades 7-9. The four winners will make a special appearance in the Miss signing party. Six hundred yearbooks had been sold which means that nearly every student had purchased one. The Dogie Staff sold cold drinks during the afternoon.

The last issue of the Dogie newspaper will be sold during the last week of school. The staff is working to have the largest issue of the year, and hopefully the largest sale of the year.

Eighth grade history students are involved in a study of America's Civil War. Those students in Mrs. Waters' class will be reading a Civil War novel, "Across Five Aprils," to give them a view of the war era through a teenager's experience. They will spend the last week of the school year on a preview of the history of America from reconstruction to the present, which they will study when they take the second half of American history in high school.

Stanton band students set a new record at solo and ensemble contest last week, in that 67 of the students received medals for their presentations. Congratulations to those students.

Spring football practice began this week. Twenty or more of Stanton's football players are involved in this training. David Ruiz, who served as manager for the freshman team this year, is working with the team during this period in the manager capacity.

Good to Eat Gifts

America's favorite meat makes an ideal Christmas gift. Frozen beef roasts or steaks are warmly welcomed. Roasts and steaks, especially selected to give the utmost satisfaction, can be wrapped and frozen, then gift wrapped and delivered with a "Keep Frozen Until Christmas" label prominently displayed. Boneless roasts such as beef rib eye, tip, cross rib, chuck eye and tenderloin are ideal for giving and are freezer space-savers, points out the National Live Stock and Meat Board. So too do rib eye, top loin, tenderloin and boneless sirloin steaks make especially fine gifts.

Garden Beauties

Each of these four lasses was a winner in last year's Little Miss Hereford Pageant and will crown the new title-holder in her division at the upcoming pageant. Girls planning to compete in the May 17th contest are reminded that the entry deadline is tomorrow. Entry forms are available at both local banks and the Chamber office. Shown from left are Mindy Rowton, Miss Petite; Mandy Rogers, Miss Junior High; Stacy Culpepper, Cutest Miss; and Penny Tubb, Miss Princess. (Brand photo by Denise Smith)

Ann Landers

Suit-Happy Lawyers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As president of the American Bar Association, I would like to respond, on behalf of our 263,433 members, to the letter from "Quo Vadis" who complained about suit-happy lawyers.

Mr. Vadis' letter focuses on the increase in the number of lawsuits and the high cost of litigation. It is true that more people are suing these days, but this is, primarily due to the growth awareness of the average American citizen of his or her legal rights.

The ABA has encouraged such diversionary programs as neighborhood justice centers, arbitration and small claims courts that handle various disputes in a more efficient manner.

The increasing costs and delays of lawsuits are being addressed by a five-year program I instituted during my year as ABA president-elect. The Commission to Reduce Court Cost and Delay is designed to implement existing blueprints for judicial reform, which will significantly reduce the cost of litigation to the consumer and shorten the long delays, currently associated with civil lawsuits. The ABA has also set into motion several exciting programs to improve lawyer competence, both in the courtroom and in the office.

Mr. Vadis' anger and frustration are understandable, but the increasingly important role of the lawyer is the result of the ever-growing complexities in today's society. The American Bar Association and responsible lawyers recognize this unique role and are working hard to solve the problems of the American legal system. -- Cordially, Leonard S. Janofsky

DEAR LEONARD JANOFSKY: Thank you for an enlightening and encouraging letter. If I ever get into trouble, you'll hear from me. I want you on my side.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several days ago my husband confessed that he had a "meaningless fling" with my sister. I went completely to pieces and have been a nervous wreck ever since.

Now he swears he made up the story just to see how I'd take it, but I know my sister and my husband. I am certain the story is true. When he saw what a devastating effect it had on me, he tried to convince me that he was only kidding.

I seriously considered asking for a divorce, but I realize I love my husband too much to break up our marriage. He says he loves me, and I believe him. Everything was lovely until this ugly cloud came over my life.

Now I can't stand to look at my sister. I feel as if my whole world has fallen apart. What should I do? -- Oakland Wreck

DEAR OAKLAND: Rage, frustration and the inability to forgive are deadly poisons. You must get rid of them or they will destroy you. I recommend counseling with a therapist or clergyman. You need a professional who will help you dissipate your anger and put this ugly incident in the proper perspective. I urge you to get going.

DEAR ANN: How does a couple make sure they want children? We have been married six years and can't make up our minds. Please help us. -- Torn In Tulsa

DEAR TULSA: If you really wanted children, you would not have written such a letter to Ann Landers. The answer appears somewhere between these lines. Look hard and you'll find it.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex -- Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Medical Convenience

The cranberry is a native North American fruit. Long before the Pilgrims arrived in 1620, the Indians combined crushed cranberries with dried deer meat and melted fat to make pemmican -- a convenience food that would keep for a long time. The Indians attributed the cranberry with medicinal properties; medicine men brewed cranberry poultices to draw poison from arrow wounds.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

I'm waiting for someone to boycott the "Spending Olympics" being held this year in the United States. Somehow the president's message just hasn't filtered down to the people yet. A couple of us were in the supermarket the other day when Mayva threw a couple of lawn chairs in her basket.

"Mayva," I said, "you don't need those lawn chairs. Didn't you hear the president a few weeks ago invite you to a recession?"

"I know, and we can't go," she said, then added brightly, "But Herb and I are sending a check!"

Peggy pursed her lips into a pout and said, "Spoilsport! Spending money is the only adventure left that hasn't killed research rats."

Adventure! Peggy had put her finger on it. Spending in this country has become one big game. You buy a car and bands play, balloons fly and someone hands you a $500 rebate.

You buy a water bed and get a free pair of cowboy boots. You purchase a freezer and get a three-months' supply of hamburger. You purchase a subscription to Reader's Digest and you get a shot at the big sweepstakes. Inside every bag of dog snacks is a coupon for 1/2 off the next one you buy. Send in three soap labels and win a trip to Europe.

Spending is fun. Have a hamburger at McDonald's and while you're there, if your ticket stubs match up you may win $10,000. Baseball players on strike? Who cares? Play baseball while you're flying American airlines and you may be the big winner and fly free for a whole month.

For awhile, banks entered the Spending Olympics, but they were rank amateurs compared to manufacturers. If you opened a savings account for $10,000 and left your money in for three years, they gave you a rain bonnet in a plastic carrying case and gave you a choice of suckers from the Lollipop Tree.

If you took the same $10,000 and made a down payment on a condominium, you got a microwave oven, a chance on a cabin cruiser, a weekend with the Royal Family in Monaco, and a part in a Burt Reynolds movie.

The only way I can see it is the government is just going to have to "sell" a recession to the people with a Recession Sweepstakes. Make a game out of it. The first one to end up at the end of the week without spending more than he makes will be given a free ticket to pass IRS audit, collect $200 tax-free and have a chance to live in the greatest financially-sound country in the world...Switzerland!

Health Fair Set Here Next Tuesday

The Deaf Smith Family Living Committee of the County Agricultural Extension Office is sponsoring a health fair on Tuesday, May 13, at the Hereford Community Center from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The committee is inviting all health related agencies and organizations to have an educational exhibit at no charge. Exhibitors may distribute literature, show films, or conduct screenings.

If an organization would like an exhibit, members are asked to contact Louise Walker, County Extension agent, at Room 304 of the Courthouse, or call 364-3573.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Real Estate Tips

by Tommy Bowling

Previous owners of our house received tax credit for insulating the roof and ceiling. Can we receive any tax credit for installing storm windows and insulating the walls and floors?

Yes. Of course, you must satisfy the requirements to claim a tax credit for the monies you spend making your home more energy efficient. 1) The conservation components must be put in a house built before April 20, 1977. 2) The items that you install must be on the approved list. 3) The life expectancy of the conservation components must be 3 years or more. When these specifics are met, a homeowner is entitled to a tax credit of 15% of the first $2,000 spent, up to a maximum credit of $2,000, when installation is completed.

Memorial Opry To Be Saturday

Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 will be presenting the annual Woody McDermitt Memorial Opry on Saturday evening at 8 p.m. in IOOR Temple, 205 E. 6th St. The public is invited to attend the event at a cost of $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

In 1973, the Rebekah Lodge staged the first Country-Western music show under the name of "Li'l Grand Ole Opry." With help from the late Mr. McDermitt, a show featuring amateur musicians was presented for the pleasure of the audience and participants alike.

The Opry shows were held here periodically with Mr.

McDermitt acting as co-ordinator of musical talent, emphasizing the abilities of young people who would not have the opportunity to perform otherwise.

In honor of McDermitt and as a gesture of appreciation for his support, the Woody McDermitt Memorial Day is to be proclaimed in conjunction with this year's show.

Musicians wishing to perform in the show are asked to contact Judge Glen Nelson, this year's music coordinator. All Country-Western musicians are welcome to participate.

Public Invited To Flower Show

The public will be invited to view entries in Hereford Garden Club's annual Spring Flower Show from 2-5 p.m. Friday in the E.B. Black Historical House. Admission will be free of charge.

Theme of the placement show will be "Beautiful Springtime" with Mrs. Ed Lemons serving as chairman.

Entry will be for club members only. A sweepstakes winner will be named in the artistic and horticulture classes.

Mrs. Ray Johnson, a longtime member of the club, will be providing an educational exhibit, entitled "Onward and Upward in the Garden."

Youth Employment Program Scheduled

The Deaf Smith County Summer Youth Employment Program will begin June 2. Lower income youth between the ages of 14 and 22 will be eligible to participate according to guidelines as established by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, as amended.

The purpose of this program is to develop work skills in all youth and to give in-school youth the opportunity to earn money for school expenses.

Jobs will be available at various county and community work sites. Length of employment may average 10 weeks.

Information regarding applications may be obtained through May 23 at the following locations: CETA office, Deaf Smith County Courthouse, Room 301 Telephone 364-5722; and VAC office, (Gene Brock), Hereford High School, 200 Avenue F, Room 122.

Home Health Agency To Present Program

"The Spirit of the Lord is Upon Me" is the theme for May Fellowship Day to be celebrated on Friday, May 9 by Church Women United with a worship service at First United Methodist Church. The celebration will begin with a covered dish luncheon at 12 noon.

The Panhandle Home Health Agency, a service ministry of MBFA (Many Benefits For the Aged) will present the program.

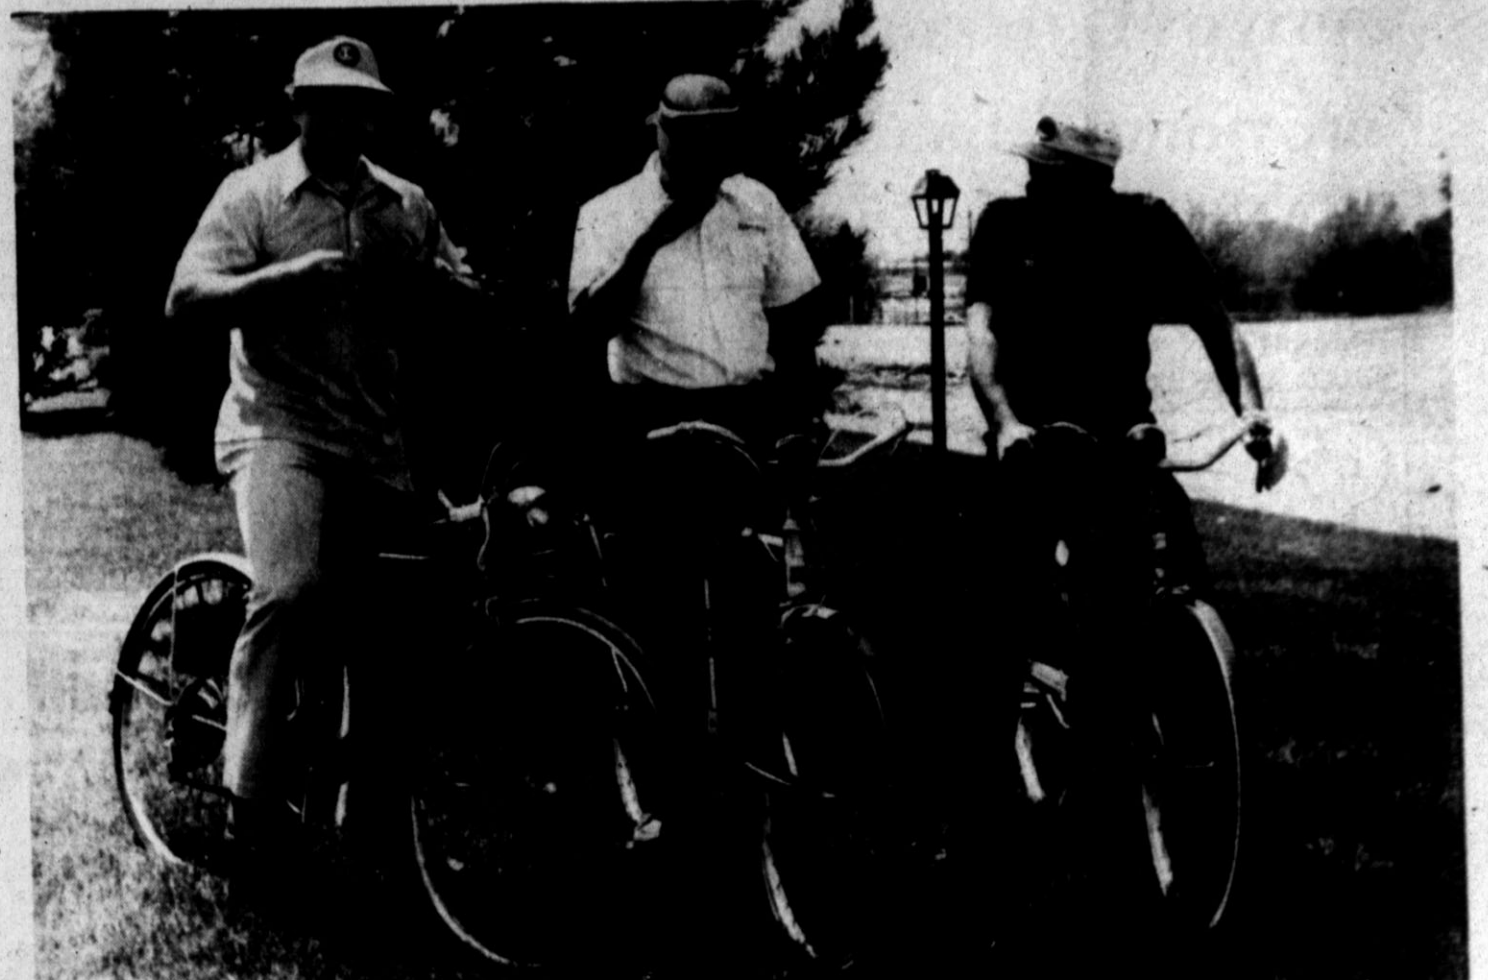

Annette Poe, RN and Shirley Cook, RN from the branch office in Amarillo will explain the services available to local patients needing Home Health services. Lucille Lindeman and Minnie Gillen are the attending nurses in the Hereford area.

Also on the agenda will be a short business meeting, including the election and installation of officers. A nursery is to be provided and mothers are asked to bring sack lunches for their children.

All women in Hereford are cordially invited to bring a covered dish and their husband or another guest.

The Church Women United in Hereford, is an ecumenical expression of the national movement of Church Women United in the USA through which Protestant, Orthodox, and Roman Catholic women may express the ecumenical dimensions of their faith and work.

The advice to shop early is appropriate not only for gifts, but for the roast for the holiday table as well. Wise shoppers keep alert well in advance for that especially attractive beef roast for the feast. With a fine rib, rib eye, tip or top round roast in the freezer, the first step has been taken to assure a successful holiday meal. Chances are you'll save money if you shop now, taking time to compare prices and determine just which beef roast best fits your holiday plans.

Supporting Bike-A-Thon

These three bicyclists, who represent three of the city's civic clubs, will be among those who will be participating in the American Cancer Society Bike-A-Thon on Saturday. The escorted bike-a-thon will begin at 8 a.m. at Sugarland Mall and end 20 miles later at TG&Y. Interested

News From The Lodge

By SUSAN OWENS
Community Relations Chairman

Camp Lani Wa Day Camp for Bluebirds - Blue Jays will be conducted the week of May 26th - 30th in Veteran's Park from 8:30 until 11:30 a.m. The theme for this outdoor program is "Wings." The campers will play, develop an awareness of nature and build outdoor skills. Campers will learn the importance of communication with each other, to talk and to listen. The "Wings" project is designed to focus on the world around each camper through family and friends. The importance of creative expression will be stressed through projects involving nature and the world around us.

Camp Lani Wa Adventure Camp and Outdoor Training will be held the same week from 1:30 until 4 p.m. These campers will be working on their Outdoor Progression Skills, how to build fires, mark trails, outdoor cooking, etc.

The Hereford Council is adding a new concept to Camp Lani Wa this year. For the first time, we are offering day camp for pre-schoolers, ages 5 and 6. We are calling it K-CAMP. These youngsters will meet the week of May 26-30 also, from 8:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. For more information regarding K-Camp, call the lodge 364-0395.

All three Lani Was Camps will be coordinated by Cindy Norvell, Council Field Director, under the direction of the Executive Director. On Friday, the Bluebirds, Blue Jays and K-Campers are asked to return to the park at 2 p.m. to prepare for the joint ceremonial at 5:30 p.m. Parents are invited to attend.

We want the campers to have fun, but there is a deeper, more important reason for having Camp Fire Day Camp. Day Camp helps to develop, in each child, a feeling of self-worth-to be outdoors among God's world and His creation and to know each individual is important. It is a time of worship. It is a feeling of belonging.

Day Camp is learning to love, to share, a time of self discovery and a time to explore. We try to help the campers develop individual creative expression, to realize each camper's own value. We want these youngsters to expand their circle of friends, to grow together, to share, to explore, to become aware of the world around them.

 The response to El Tesoro has been overwhelming. There is still time to get your registration in if you want to join. For information call your group leader or the Camp Fire office, 364-0395.

The Camp Fire Council will have a booth set up at the Health Fair May 13 at the Community Center. Come by and see us.

Battling for control

HARRISBURG, Pa. (NEA) — In this city and approximately a dozen other state capitals throughout the country, one of the most important but least understood political struggles of the 1980s is now under way.

It is the battle for control of the legislatures in states where major population shifts during the past decade soon will require the elimination, addition or realignment of scores of congressional districts.

The contest pits not only Republicans against Democrats but also conservatives against liberals, city dwellers against rural residents, blacks against whites and political "regulars" against mavericks and independents.

The outcome of the struggle will have a profound influence on the development of public policy at all levels of government — local, state and federal — throughout the next decade.

Although the official results of the 1980 census of population will not be available until early next year, the state legislatures elected this autumn will be responsible for the 1981-82 task of congressional reapportionment.

Preliminary estimates from the Census Bureau indicate that eight states — all in the Northeast and Midwest — will lose seats in Congress, while 10 other states — all in the South and West — will gain representation in the House.

New York probably will lose four seats; Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania two each; and Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey and South Dakota one apiece.

Florida is expected to gain three seats; California and Texas two each; and Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Oregon, Tennessee, Utah and Washington one apiece.

But a recent analysis prepared by the Conference on Alternative State and Local Policies notes that there also have been major population shifts within some states.

During the past decade, "all but one of New York City's congressional districts lost population, as did seven districts in both Chicago and Los Angeles and five each in Philadelphia and Detroit," says the report issued by the Washington-based group.

Those losses probably will heighten the tensions between urban and rural interests that have played a major role in past reapportionment struggles in many state legislatures.

In some states, rural lawmakers who control the legislature, have been able to gerrymander district lines to dilute the political power of voters in major cities.

Other forms of gerrymandering have been used to fragment the votes of blacks and other minorities, to punish maverick politicians and — perhaps most important — to advance the cause of the political party that controls the legislature.

William E. Brock III, chairman of the Republican National Committee, has noted repeatedly that throughout the 1970s the number of House seats won by GOP candidates has fallen approximately 10 percent behind the number of popular votes cast for Republican congressional candidates nationally.

That phenomenon is, in part, the product of gerrymandering by Democratic-controlled state legislatures following the 1970 census — but the Republicans now are determined not to suffer the same fate again.

Of the country's 98 partisan state legislative chambers, Democrats currently enjoy majorities in 69 while Republicans control only 28. (Nebraska has a unicameral, nonpartisan legislature and Washington's state house has a 49-49 deadlock.)

But in Delaware and Illinois, for example, a Democratic loss of only one seat in the house and three seats in the senate would transfer control of both chambers to the Republicans.

Similarly, a switch of five or fewer seats in the elections this fall would switch control of one house from Democratic to Republican in Washington, Minnesota, Oregon, New Hampshire, Ohio, Pennsylvania and California.

Nationally, a Democratic loss of only 26 selected legislative seats would bring 12 more chambers under Republican control in time to influence the reapportionment process. That's why the legislative races have become a major battleground.

Spring Luncheon Concludes Year

La Afflatus Estudio Club members concluded their year Tuesday with their annual spring luncheon in the E.B. Black House, where the slate of officers for 1980-81 was installed.

Argen Draper served as installing officer during the induction ceremony, involving Aileen Montgomery, president; Lydia Hopson, vice president; Lucile Hughes, secretary/treasurer; Alberta Higgins, parliamentarian; and Mary Williamson, reporter.

After the installation, the new president appointed her committees for next year. They are: yearbook -- Mmes. Higgins, Hopson, Opal Elliston, Mary Leland White-side and Allyne Johnson; social -- Pet Ott, Mrs. Williamson, Emily Suggs, Jennie Terrell and Irene Markham; finance -- Della Stagner, Mrs. Hughes and Ora Morgan; courtesy -- Eva Gilliland, Tresa Hale, and Madeline Bell.

In other business, the policy committee announced revisions, effective with the new club year. Also, a letter of thanks was read from Esther Springer, expressing gratitude for the club's sponsorship of her at the Distinguished Service Award Distinguished Service Awards luncheon April 19 in Canyon.

The club adjourned for the summer months and will not meet again until a morning coffee on the first Tuesday in September.

Attending the installation luncheon were Miss Bell and Mmes. Elliston, Terrell, Markham, Johnson, Montgomery, Hopson, Hughes, Higgins, Williamson, Morgan, Gilliland, Ott, Suggs and Hale.

Lodge Finalizes Plans for Opry

The Woody McDermitt Memorial Opry was the over-riding topic of discussion for Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 Tuesday evening during a business meeting at IOOF Hall.

Plans for the country-western music show, which will be presented Saturday night in the IOOF Hall, have been completed and, according to a lodge spokesman, "a great show is anticipated." The public is invited to attend the opry, which will begin at 8 p.m. Admission at the door will cost $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Noble Grand Martha Bridges presided at the lodge's weekly business session, which included reports of visits and cards to sick members and friends.

Migrant Parents To Meet Tuesday

There will be a regular monthly meeting of the Hereford ISD Title I /Migrant Parent Advisory Committee on Tuesday, May 13, at 7 p.m. in the lounge at the Community Center.

Ruben Saenz from the National Council of La Raza will be present at this meeting.

All district members and interested parents are urged to attend this meeting.

Transportation can be made available by contacting Corinne Briones, Director of the Parental Involvement office, 364-4541.
