At The Cherokee Inn

Paintings of Max Courtney to Be Exhibited Here March 25-26

An artist who was reared in Wellington will hold his first one-man show in his home town this week end. He is Max Courtney, who will show 24 of his paintings at the Cherokee Inn Saturday and Sunday, March 25 and 26.

Twenty-four years old, Courtney is curator of exhibits for the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon.

All of the paintings in this exhibit will be in oils, yet there will be examples of each type of subject matter Courtney favors—still life, snow scenes, landscapes and western. There will be one Collingsworth County painting, a pasture scene near Salt Fork River. There will be others painted along the Canadian River and in Donley County.

Besides the large paintings, there will be a number of sketches from which these paintings were made, Courtney said.

The young artist is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Courtney of Wellington and during his high school years he worked as an apprentice at The Wellington Leader.

He has been painting and sketching since 1953, except for two or three years while he was in high school. Until he entered college Courtney worked on his own. Since then he has studied under Olive Vandruff Mrs. Harold Bugbee) and Dr. Emillo Caballero of West Texas State University, where he was graduated a year ago.

Drivers License School Planned April 10-12

A Driver's License School will be held Monday through Wednesday, April 10 through 12 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in Bura Handley Community Center.

The course is free and open to all ages.

The school, sponsored by the Sheriff's Department and the Police Department, will be conducted by Safety Officer Chester Fant of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The three-night program is designed to enable an unlicensed driver to obtain his license, and to give those who already have licenses a chance to brush up on driving rules and regulations.

Safety Officer Fant pointed out that pending legislative action may require older drivers to be re-examined and that this would be an opportune time for them to review safety rules and other factors covered in the written part of the driver's license test.

"We certainly don't intend to embarrass anyone," Fant said. "We want to help unlicensed drivers obtain their licenses because we feel licensed drivers, who know the rules and regulations, make driving safer for everyone."

Visual aids will be used in the program so that those who cannot read or write will be able to gain information necessary in passing the written examination.

Eighteen members of the Wellington high school band have qualified to compete in the stage band contest as a result of their performances in the annual Region I University Interscholastic League band, solo and ensemble contest Saturday, March 18, at West Texas State University, Canyon.

This is the largest number this band has qualified for the state event, which will be held in Austin May 1 and 2, said James Larson, band director.

The students competed in three classes, determined by the difficulty of the music they played, and only those who received a Division 1 or superior rating in Class I, the most difficult, qualified for state competition.

From Wellington, these were:

Flute quartet: Jane Thompson, Carey Lewis, Cathy Singley and Adelle Burquist; clarinet quartet: Jan Bowen, Cheryl Needham, Patti Lacy and Debbie Lewis; saxophone quartet: Nancy Holton, Lynn Derryberry, Jan Earnest and Carol Burba; and cornet quartet: David Groves, Dwight Bowen, Billy McAlister and Kathy Tyler.

Dodson Ex-Students to Hold Reunion Saturday

The Dodson Ex-Students Association will hold its annual reunion and banquet Saturday evening, March 25 at 7:30 p.m.

A new location has been set for this year's reunion.

It will be in the American Legion Hall on Dodson's Main Street. The banquet will be served here.

Visiting and reminiscing is expected to draw many of the visitors well before the dinner hour, and these will gather at the Legion Hall and at the dining room of the Dodson Cafe, immediately across the street, said Jo McKinney Hunt, Association secretary.

Those planning to attend are urged to make reservations as soon as possible.

The program will be informal, as it is the desire of the officers each year to give as much opportunity as possible for those coming from a distance to visit.

Kiwanis Easter Egg Hunt Set for Sunday

The Wellington Kiwanis Club will sponsor its annual Easter Egg Hunt for the children of Collingsworth County and the Wellington trade area lying outside the county on Sunday afternoon, March 26 at 3 p.m.

It will be held in Ellison Park, and all children 11 years of age and under are eligible to participate.

There will be three age groups, so that smaller children will have a better opportunity to find eggs, said Jake Leach, one of those helping with the event.

Kiwanians will hide the eggs earlier in the day.

This traditional event has been held each Easter for more than 30 years.

Tiny Tots Hold Spotlight on Thursday Night

The Tiny Tot Revue, held each year just before Easter, is slated for Thursday, March 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The 1954 Study Club is the sponsor.

This is an opportunity for children of the community to show their new Easter frocks and suits, explained Mrs. James Richardson, one of those working with the show.

There will be three age groups, and a winning boy and girl will be chosen from each. These include one- and two-year-olds; three- and four-year-olds, and five- and six-year-olds.

Mrs. Paul Spillman will be mistress of ceremonies.

Admission will be 50¢ and 25¢, and reserved seats are 75¢. Proceeds will go to the club's civic projects.

Between 40 and 50 children are expected to participate.

County Precincts Redistricted on Basis of Equal Population

Redistricting of the four precincts of Collingsworth County to get as nearly as possible the same number of people in each precinct was completed by the Commissioners' Court in a special meeting Friday, March 17.

There will be approximately 1440 people in each precinct.

Boundaries of the four precincts were set up so that part of the city of Wellington will be in each.

The action was announced following the Friday meeting, by County Judge Zook Thomas.

According to the minutes of the special meeting in the office of Lorene Jenkins, district-county clerk, a motion was made by Woody Wood, commissioner of Precinct 1, and seconded by J. C. Emmert, commissioner of precinct 3, that Collingsworth County be re-districted on an equal population basis in accordance with the law, for the convenience of the people.

A motion was then made by W. R. Breeding, commissioner of Precinct 4 that the original motion be tabled and this was seconded by Melvin Seale, commissioner of Precinct 2.

The vote was two and two.

Upon placing the first motion before the court, Commissioners Wood and Emmert and Judge Thomas voted for the motion to re-district, and Commissioners Seale and Breeding voted against it. The motion carried.

"This redistricting is for the purpose of trying to get the same number in each precinct as near as practical," Judge Thomas said. "By each commissioner having the same support and representing the same number of people we can have a real fine county government."

To arrive at a near-equal distribution of population among the four precincts, the commissioners used a house count in the City of Wellington coming from meters per block. The house count in Dodson was estimated at 67. The house count in the rural area of Collingsworth County was from a map showing the occupied houses.

A generally accepted figure of 3.11 persons per meter or house was used to determine the total.

The population breakdown by precincts as figured by the court was:

Commissioner Wood: 262 houses in town, for a population of 814; 67 houses in Dodson with 208 population; and 137 rural houses with 426 population, or a total of 1,448 population for Precinct 1.

Commissioner Seale, Precinct 2: 361 houses in town for a population of 1123 and 110 rural houses with 342 population or a total of 1,465.

Commissioner Emmert, Precinct 3: 313 houses in town with 973 population and 127 rural houses with 395 population, or a total of 1,368.

SUBSTITUTE FOR NEW TAXES: A SPENDING CUT

The extremely costly Great Society programs such as the "War on Poverty," would become even more expensive and expansive if Congress approves the $135 billion "bookkeeping" budget recommended by President Johnson.

Inflation, caused in substantial part by Government deficit spending called for by the President, would speed up and the purchasing power of every dollar of income of the families of America would be further undermined.

The President's proposed new 6% surtax on everybodys' income would, of course, add to the financial woes of every US household.

The Vice President asserts that the call for this substantial tax rise is a "courageous" Presidential act. He says it would make everybody "share in the burdens" of the Vietnam war, and would help continue "the forward movement" of Governmental programs of all kinds.

This echoes the declaration of the President that the Federal Government must finance an increasingly-costly war in Vietnam, expand the other phases of our national defense against World Communism and, at the same time, carry on a vast hodge-podge of terribly expensive "Great Society" programs.

This is the Yes-We-Can-Have-Guns-and-Butter-Too philosophy, and it is contrary to the lessons of history.

It endangers our national security and our economic progress. As Congress studies and debates the new Federal Budget, there are some facts that should be studied and acted upon by the American people—facts that show the major expansion in Governmental cost is not for war and national defense but for the expansion of Federal bureaucracy and "social reform" programs.

A fact to remember is that the "bookkeeping" budget does not reflect the true tax take and spending figures. The cash budget does. The public sees the "bookkeeping" budget figures and rarely sees the whole of the bad news in the "cash" budget. Budget Bureau figures indicate that when we have a $135 billion "bookkeeping" budget the total "cash" Federal Government outgo (spending) reaches about $175 billion.

It is important for every etx paying citizen to know and for their Congressmen and Senators to recognize that the greatest and most significant rise in Federal spending is for non-military, non-defense programs and services. This means that, using the last eight years as an example, the Federal bureaucracy will continue to grow and grow—with or without war—out of all proportions to the growth of our population and citizen produced wealth (the only kind of wealth there is).

Fiscal Year	Income	Outgo	Deficit
1961	$ 97.2	$ 99.5	$ 2.3
1962	101.9	107.7	5.8
1963	109.7	113.8	4.0
1964	115.5	120.3	4.8
1965	119.7	122.4	2.7
1966	134.5	137.9	3.3
1967	152.0	159.0	7.0
1968 (est.)	156.0	167.0	11.0

The significance and frightening fact showing through the above table is that in spite of the big tax-take increase each year ($18 billion increase in fiscal 1966-67), Federal spending increases outpaced it, leaving a deficit to feed destructive inflation.

The second significant and frightening fact is that thru the eight years shown, while military spending was rising from $27 billion to $71.9 billion, non-military spending was soaring from $40.5 billion to $94.1 billion.

As we have repeatedly said, in our columns: with our nation engaged in a bloody, costly war in Vietnam and in vast national defense activities against the advance of World Communism, the non-military budget could and should be cut by $30 billion. This would shore up the foundations of our financial structure (now very shaky), permit a reduction of our national debt, safeguard our future prosperity and freedom, and permit all of us to share in whatever burden of war may come—with a little less Government services at home—and no new taxes!

Rules Given to Use Spray Starch

Here are four "rules of thumb" for using spray starch:

1. Shake the can each time before you use it.

2. Tilt the can only slightly—not over a 45 degree angle while spraying. If the can is tilted too far, the pressure in the can is reduced and the starch has no way to come out.

3. Hold the nozzle of the can 6 to 12 inches away from the fabric, and press the button firmly to produce a fine, even spray.

4. Clean the soleplate of your iron often so the starch will not scorch on the iron.

Don't Hand Down Children's Shoes

DON'T HAND DOWN CHILDREN'S SHOES- -Don't be tempted to hand children's shoes down to the next child. Each child's foot is different. A good leather shoe, when, new, will conform to a child's foot. Once the shoe is molded to the foot, it will not change shape. If the shoe is worn by another child, the foot will have to fit into the shoe shape. The second child's foot could be permanently damaged.

Washington Report

From Congressman

BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS

1323 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C. • 225-3706

The cost in dollars as well as loss of lives in the Viet Nam War continues to rise. Since my last report the Congress has approved an additional 12 billion dollars to carry on the war. This brings the total supplemental appropriations this session to 16.5 billion dollars.

Even with this additional burden on the American taxpayer, the President wants to continue pouring more money into domestic programs of doubtful value.

If next year's budget were frozen at this year's level the taxpayer would be saved quite a lot of money—and a tax increase would be unnecessary.

For example, if twelve recently-started programs such as the poverty war, Peace Corps, National Teachers Corps, and Demonstration Cities were held at present levels 1.2 billion dollars could be saved. In addition, a 10% cut in foreign aid, which has two years' money supply already in the pipeline, would save 253 million dollars. These cuts would not curtail these programs because both have huge amounts of unspent dollars on hand.

These figures make it clear that LBJ is making no effort to trim spending to the realities of a war-time economy. They reveal a disregard for fiscal responsibility, and exploitation of the taxpayer while domestic spending goes up and up. If everyone must sacrifice, the government should, too.

Since my last report I have had the opportunity to attend a briefing by the Defense Intelligence Agency at the invitation of Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the Committee on Armed Services.

It is quite evident from the information received at this briefing that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were tremendously effective in their efforts to resupply their troops during the recent Lunar New Year truce.

It is also quite evident that the President must be backed fully in his determination NOT to halt the bombing every time someone thinks there "might be a chance" of peace talks if the bombing is stopped. The bombing has been stopped five times during the last two years, and all the communists have done is to build up their supplies.

In the continuing battle with the bureaucracy, I have asked the Post Office Department to reconsider plans to discontinue railway post office service between Denver and Amarillo. I do not see how service can be improved, as the Post Office Department claims, by discontinuing the use of these cars which allow mail to be sorted en route to its destination.

I have received many letters recently in regard to the President's proposals for overhauling the draft. The Committee on Armed Services expects to hold extensive hearings in the weeks to come. I will be studying the record of these hearings closely in an effort to determine the most fair and equitable means of choosing young men to serve in the armed forces.

Track Season Takes Team to Relay Series

Sixteen Wellington high school athletes make up the 1967 track team, which has a series of four invitational meets on its schedule before going into district competition.

The team already has participated in the Shamrock relays, which Wellington won, and the Panhandle relays, which took place Friday and Saturday, March 17 and 18.

The team will go to Iowa Park for that school's invitational relays Friday, March 24, according to Coach Bill Beene, and to the Amarillo Relays on March 31 and April 1.

The schedule after that includes the District 2-AA meet April 6 at Wichita Falls; the Olton relays for regional qualifiers April 15; and the regional meet at Lubbock April 22.

Coach Beene has praised the effort and spirit of the 1967 team, and their improvement as seen in the first two relays.

Weather hampered the performance of the athletes at Panhandle, then two Wellington team members, James Smith and Marvin Roland, pulled muscles during competition. Steve Trapp, who was leading the 880 in the preliminaries, took the flu.

Results in the Panhandle finals were:

Sprint relay: sixth, 46.4 seconds, Tommy Yarbrough, Herman Moore, Marvin Roland and James Smith.

120 yard high hurdles: second, Yarbrough, 16.

220 yard dash: fourth, Smith, 24.4.

Pole vault: fifth, Moore, 11'.

High jump: fourth, Andy Henard, 5'8".

Shot put: second, Larry Pipins, 49'; fifth, Johnny Harris, 46'.

Discus: first, Wesley Ward, 148'; second, Mike Gilmore, 139'.

Shamrock

Results of the Shamrock relays, which Wellington won with 107 points, were:

120 yard high hurdles: first, Tommy Yarbrough, 15.8; 100 yard dash: second, James Smith, 10.4; 440 yard dash: sixth, Steve Trapp, 55.4.

330 yard intermediate hurdles: second, Yarbrough.

220 yard dash: first, Smith, 24.6. Poul vault: fifth, Herman Moore, 11'. High jump: first, Andy Henard, 5'11". Shot put: second, Larry Pipins, 49'; 4th, Johnny Harris, 46'; 5th, Wesley Ward, 41'.

Broad jump: second, Smith, 19'4½". Discus: first, Ward, 139'; second, Gilmore, 133'.

Bull Beef: Not so Tough

COLLEGE STATION.— Agricultural scientists are finding young bull beef is just as "eatable" as meat from steers or heifers.

And what's more, say researchers at Texas A&M University, bull beef is leaner and has less fat trim—both qualities demanded by consumers.

They says with beef consumption at an all-time high, cattlemen are looking for more efficient beef production practices to meet the predicted 25 percent increase needed by 1980.

The researchers at A&M did mechanical tenderness tests on bull, steer, and heifer beef. The machine scored steers slightly over bulls and heifers in tenderness. But all three were above average and entirely satisfactory, they say.

DRAFT QUOTA FOR TEXAS IS SET

Texas' draft quota for May will be 885 men, according to Col. Morris S. Schwartz, Selective Service Director.

No quotas will be set for physical and mental pre-induction examinations in April, continuing the examination halt started early this year due to limit on travel funds.

Schwartz said Texas has enough men already examined and acceptable to fill current quotas. Army quotas ranged as high as 2,700 a month last fall.

"Stonewall" Jackson, the Confederate general, was accidentally killed by his own men in a battle in 1863.

Children's Allowances

Giving children allowances may be an investment in common sense training. The youngsters not only get a feeling of sharing in the family income, but allowances give them some practical lessons in handling money, and they will be doing that all their lives.

Many child guidance experts recommend starting a child's allowance fairly young, around five or six years old. It doesn't have to be a large amount. Ten or fifteen cents a week will meet their small requirements. Once the precedent is established, of course, you must stay with it and the obligation grows with the kids.

At the age of ten, for example, allowances may range from 50¢ to $1 a week. When the youngster becomes teenage, the range goes higher. From $2 up, depending on how much of their personal expenses are the responsibility of the child.

Every child has his own pace but don't be surprised to find your youngster planning, saving and making consumer choices.

Cleaning Stretches Life of Carpet

The beauty and durability of rugs and carpets depend on their basic structure and regular care.

Dirt is the greatest enemy of rugs and carpets. Fortunately, most of it can be removed by home methods as long as it remains on or near the surface. However, when the dirt has worked down into the pile, professional carpet cleaners are necessary.

A daily once-over-lightly with the vacuum cleaner, using around three storkes over each area, will remove loose dirt, lint and litter. Thorough vacuuming at least once (preferably twice) a week not only brushes and freshens carpets and rugs but prevents dirt from sifting into the pile. When dirt filters down, it chops and cuts the pile and backing. Seven strokes over each area should prevent this. You cannot over-vacuum your carpets.

Even though the vacuum cleaner is used regularly, the surface of carpets and rugs often becomes soiled and dull. Two methods of cleaning help to correct this condition, but even these cannot replace professional cleaning at regular intervals.

Dry cleaning is the use of solvent-saturated, inert material sprinkled liberally over a large area and brushed in slightly. Directions should be carefully followed. Avoid letting the cleaner get down to the backing if it is made of latex because solvents degrade rubber.

Wet cleaning is suitable for all carpets and rugs. A non-alkaline synthetic detergent with water is a safe cleaning solution. It should be applied sparingly with a sponge or a cloth, wetting the surface with a gentle motion. Then remove as much of the solution as possible with a shampoo machine, cloth or sponge rinsed in clear water. Always allow the carpet to dry quickly. Too frequent use of the solution may cause more rapid soiling since carpets cannot be rinsed thoroughly on the floor.

→For an inexpensive hanging basket, cut off the top of a good sized carrot. Hollow out the center, put a small stick through and hang it in a sunny window. Keep the hollow part filled with water and in a short time beautiful leaves will appear and grow up over the carrot.

Launder Durable Press Properly

COLLEGE STATION,--It is important to know the proper laundering methods for durable press garments, says Mrs. Doris Myers, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University.

The durable press "cure" and its subsequent care are compatible processes which work together to assure memory-retaining shape, flat seams, and smooth appearance even after repeated washings. Because high temperatures are required to set the shape of durable press garments, cool wash and dry temperatures are necessary to retain it.

Automatic washers and dryers with special cycles, or wash-wear settings, offer the best answers to durable press laundering needs. They provide correct, control-led, cool temperatures; slow speeds, and tumble-drying to insure wrinkle-free clothes.

Durable press garments should be washed frequently to avoid stain-setting. Stains should be pre-treated with a concentrated soap or detergent solution or by rubbing with thick suds. Turn pleated or creased garments inside out to reduce abrasion. Keep loads smaller than normal, because crowding can cause unnecessary wrinkles.

Check the directions on garments' hangtags before using chlorine bleach. Wash water should be cooled down gradually before any spinning action, and rinse water should be cold. Slow spinning action minimizes wrinkles, and adding a fabric softener helps to remove the "cling" from synthetics.

Tumble-action dryers, with automatic time and temperature controls, are best for durable fabrics. It is urgent to remove them just as soon as dry because they develop wrinkles if left wadded in the dryer.

Solid State Takes Age

COLLEGE STATION.— Can you imagine a television set that turns on and off, is tuned and adjusted, by a wave of the hand?

Or a temperature sensitive oven that cooks to perfection? How about a washer-dryer combination that cleans the clothes, discards the water/ dries the clothes, and turns off when the correct dryness is reached?

And a home computer that keeps your bank account and household budget up to date, works out your tax return, keeps stock of household supplies, and decides the best way to store food in the refrigerator—all automatically.

Sound impossible? Not according to Miss Joy Arrington, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University, who says Space Age solid state electronics will bring these conveniences in the near future.

In 1967 appliance lines, solid state systems are providing washing machines and small appliances with variable speed controls, clothes dryers that turn off when the right dryness is reached, dishwashers with devices that adjust time and cleaning power according to the job size, and gas ranges with ignition devices that make the pilot light obsolete.

In solid state systems, which are similar to transistorized ones, many electric and mechanical operations are combined into electrical circuits.-These circuits are joined into one solid chip of silicon. The chips are usually no larger than the head of a pin, but each can perform work previously done by many vacuum tubes or transistors.

These systems make it possible to reduce size and weight of equipment and appliance controls, while increasing reliability and ease of operation. Deterioration with age is almost eliminated and repair requirements are low. Some warranties on solid state products are for as long as three years.

Store Important Family Papers

COLLEGE STATION, -- Insurance companies, banks, attorneys and government agencies report that a staggering number of important family papers are lost each year.

For example, an estimated 300,000 life insurance policies are lost annually, says Miss Joy Arrington, Extension home management specialist. Fortunately, these policies can be renewed in about 30 days, but sometimes even this delay can be upsetting.

To help avoid the difficulties and actual money loss that can occur because important papers are lost or destroyed, it is advisable to review regularly where and how you should safeguard them.

According to Miss Arrington, a bank safe-deposit box provides the best security for vital records, particularly those which might not be replaceable in their original form or would reguire considerable time and expense for replacement. These include birth, baptismal, marriage and death certificates, divorce and adoption papers, property deeds, military discharges, stocks and bonds (if not left with a broker), mortgages, automobile bills of sale and titles, household and personal property inventories, and passports.

Other important papers should be kept at home in a suitable fire-resistant container. These include equipment and appliance warranties, guarantees and instruction books, medical records, Social Security records and insurance policies.

The original copy of your will should be left with your attorney. In Texas, the safe deposit box is sealed upon death of the renter and is not opened until the will is probated.

In both safe-deposit box and home storage container, have a list of what is kept in each place. Also list the names and address of persons, companies and agencies who can help replace particular records or provide copies in case of loss or damage.

Half Million Vets Seek to Attend College

Over one-half million veterans had applied for certificates to attend college or take some other form of training under the new GI Bill up to Jan. 1 of this year, Jack Coker, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office said in Waco recently.

In a report to President Johnson, William J. Driver, administrator of Veterans Affairs, said that 288,000 were actually in training on that date, mostly at the college level. Over 49,000 of these also attended summer school under the new law and enrolled for the fall semester. The educational benefits of the new GI Bill became effective last June.

As a comparison, Driver reported to the President that under the Korean GI Bill only 65,000 veterans took advantage of educational benefits within five months of the effective date of that law.

"Recalling the gratifying results of the World War II and Korean GI Bills, the good early response to the new GI Bill promises vast benefits for the entire nation as the educational and economic status of our veteran-citizens increases," he said.

One-fourth of the remaining two million eligible veterans having already applied for educational benefits, it is expected that well over one-half million more veterans will be enrolled in colleges and other training soon.

Veterans are also taking advantage of the home loan guaranty provisions of the new GI Bill in large numbers. Over 220,000 veterans had requested eligibility certificates at the time of Driver's report, and 77,500 applications for approval had already been received.

WACO.—The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department cautions outdoor folks using "instant picture" cameras that the discarded negatives are poisonous to animals.

The Department said tests have shown that such negatives have killed deer.

It urged persons using this type of camera to keep the exposed negatives while afield and later dispose of them in a place inaccessible to both domestic animals and wildlife.

Electric Motors Do Big Jobs

COLLEGE STATION, - New developments in electric power are setting the stage for wider use of electric motors on jobs usually handled by tractors or stationery engines.

One of these developments, says W. E. McCune of the Texas A&M University Agricultural Engineering Department, is the use of capacitors in both the starting and running windings of motors.

A capicitor's purpose is to help the motor start under load.

"So we now have single phase motors of 10, 15, and even 20-horsepower sizes whose starting characteristics approach those of the old 5 and 7.5 horsepower single phase motors. In other words, these larger motors don't draw any more current when they start," McCune explained.

Another important advance, the engineer said, is use of phase convertors which allow three-phase motors to be used on single-phase rural distribution power lines. Ordinarily, three-phase motors require three electric lines and three transformers for operation.

"A recent survey indicates a wide variation in power supplier policies regarding the size of motors allowed on single-phase lines, but it also showed that 30, 40, 50 and even 75 - horsepower three - phase motors are now being operated successfully on 7,200-volt single - phase rural lines," McCune pointed out.

Reunions at Quail, Dodson and Vinson Highlight Week

The former students of three area schools will hold their alumni reunions and banquets Saturday night, March 25. These are at Quail, Dodson and Vinson.

If you have attended any of these schools, we hope you will be present. These reunions are fun, as those who are there can tell you. They are the one big opportunity each year to relive student days. They are the means of keeping in contact by men and women who are now scattered over the face of the country —of the world.

These reunions reveal the quality of leadership and the fine minds that have gone out from Quail and Dodson and Vinson to make their valuable contribu tions in so many fields.

We congratulate the men and women who are responsible for each of these reunions. Much work lies behind the entertainment you will enjoy Saturday night.

OTHER EDITORS SAY . . .

Smaller Towns Have Advantage

One of the bills to appear before the Texas Senate with predictions of good chance for passage is that generally known as the City Sales tax bill. In it's present form, the bill would allow cities the option to assess and collect a sales tax of 1 per cent on all purchases with proceeds supplementing operations costs of the involved.

Those who have familiarized themselves with the bill—and quite a few have—appear to all hold different interpretations of what it would mean, depending primarily on the viewpoint of the person involved.

Many people from the smaller cities (the size of Hereford and downward) tell us that they wish the bill was 5 per cent, instead of 1 per cent. The reason: they feel that Amarillo will pass the tax, and this in turn, would keep many of the present shoppers in their home towns.

Although they have yet to declare themselves, we have a feeling that Hereford's city officials would likely recommend passage of the optional tax along with the cities. This would present the same type of challenge to Vega, Friona, Dimmitt and other adjoining towns from where Hereford draws at least some business.

Whether this is a factor remains to be seen, since many observers feel that people are going to shop where they find merchandise and values, regardless of sales tax — and more especially the 1 per cent variety.

On a general scale it seems to us that most of the larger cities will, like Amarillo, take the option and approve the tax. We say that because cities are rapidly finding themselves with their backs to the wall. Costs are spiraling, whereas the real estate tax is no longer adequate to offset the demands for additional funds. This is especially true in the police, judicial and garbage disposal departments.

With as few as one out of each 10 families paying any real taxes at all, it is obvious that additional revenues will have to arrive from some other source. Already the property owner is often finding investment a burden, rather than an asset—and to further asses him could well parallel killing the goose that laid the golden egg.

Even more burdensome than city costs, probably, are school costs. Some change along this line, too, is logical within the next decade. While city costs are spiraling, school costs are soaring with every indication that the situation will become far, far worse before it gets any better. —The Sunday Brand

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN.—First big public debate over the Legislature's spot light issue — sale of liquor by the drink — was scheduled this week.

House Revenue and Taxation Committee set Tuesday afternoon hearing on the proposal to legalize mixed drink sales under 5-cents-a-shot tax, stiff retailers' fees and strict regulation.

One of the session's biggest crowds was on hand for the House Committee session. Dry forces were lined up in depth for opposition testimony. Citizens Committee for Tourism and the Regulated Sale of Mixed Drinks announced formation of a key support group—an advisory board of 37.

Liquor legislation already has been subject of these actions:

—House passed a bill setting 10 a.m.-9 p.m. hours (instead of present 9 a.m.-10 p.m.) for liquor package stores and ordering the stores to close on Christmas but permitting them to remain open on primary and general election days.

—Representatives killed a bill to permit private clubs in areas voted "wet" for any purpose (beer, wine or whiskey sales) to operate under the "pool" instead of the old "locker" system by which each member must replenish his own supply.

—Bill allowing beer distributors to continue supplying legal retailers although areas in which warehouses are located vote "dry" was signed into law effective next August.

Rep. J. M. Simpson of Amarillo introduced a bill to put in all the strong enforcement measures advocated in the liquor-by-the-drink bill, plus a $5,000 annual tax on private clubs, but not to legalize "liquor by the jigger." It's being called the "jigger without the liquor" bill.

REDISTRICTING STUDY BEGINS

All state representatives and some of their constituents will be called on for advice as to how to draw new Federal court-directed state House and congressional district boundaries.

Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham, chairman of House District Committee, said sub-committee will conduct an intensive four-week study in an effort to produce bills acceptable to the lawmakers which also meet the court's one-man-one-vote yardstick.

Two principal congressional apportionments heard by the committee were offered by Republicans and liberal Democrats at its first hearing. The GOP-backed measure would pit only one pair of incumbent congressmen against each other—Reps. Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls and Omar Burleson of Anson.

Bill backed by Reps. Jake Johnson and R. L. Vale of San Antonio would throw Cong. Abraham Kazen of Laredo into the same Rio Grande Valley district with Congressman Eligio de la Garza of Mission; and Congressman John Dowdy of Athens into the district with Congressman Olin Teague of College Station.

TAX ISSUE NEAR SHOWDOWN

Optional 1% city sales tax measure was tentatively passed by the Senate last week after weathering filibuster attack. It is expected to pass after one more filibuster this week.

Proposed tax package picked up more opposition in House Committee on Revenue and Taxation hearing. Opponents of the penny boost in gasoline tax, which would channel more funds into the farm-to-market project, said the raise should be accompanied by a ceiling on FM road building and a proportional raise in diesel fuel used by trucks.

Committee sent to sub-committee the section of the tax bill by Rep. Ben Atwell of Dallas to stop the automatic $15,000,000-per-year appropriation to farm-to-market roads.

Good Roads Association insists that FM outlays should be held to about $70,000,000 a year.

Meanwhile, a bill to transfer all the funds now being given for new FM road projects to improve city streets was introduced.

In other action on the tax front, House overwhelmingly passed a resolution calling on Congress to begin steps toward constitutional change to rebate 5% of federal income taxes collected to states. Minimum of two-thirds of states will have to join in request and four-fifths must ratify any constitutional change.

TAX CUT?

Sen. Wayne Connally of Floresville and Reps. James E. Nugent of Kerrville and Ralph Wayne of Plainview are backing a proposed constitutional amendment to do away with the state property tax, thus leaving it for use by the cities, counties and school districts.

Since bonds have been issued by the colleges for buildings, to be retired out of part of the property tax, they propose to make it gradually effective, with the final lifting of the state property tax coming in 1978, when present college bonds are paid out.

VETS LAND PROGRAM REVIVAL PLANNED

Chances of a state constitution-amendment to revive the veterans' land program appear favorable. House passed the resolution and sent it to the Senate.

Only four representatives voted against the re-submission of an additional $200,000,000 bond issue, with eligibility for long-term, low-interest land purchase loans broadened to include Vietnam veterans.

WATER RIGHTS

A bill by Sen. George Parkhouse for adjudication of water rights has passed the Senate and is being considered by the House Conservation and Reclamation Committee.

As things stand now, rights to use more river water than actually exists are claimed by Texans. Some have used them. Some have not.

Parkhouse's bill would set up a procedure for those who claim water rights to file their claims. Hearings will be held in each river basin. Then the Texas Water Rights Commission will decide who really is entitled to the water.

Those who don't like the decision will have their day in court automatically, for trial under regular procedures.

TRAFFIC TOLL MOUNTS IN STATE

Texas traffic deaths last year totalled an all-time high of 3,406, reports Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Department of Public Safety director. This is a 12% increase over 1965.

Only one day of the year—Thursday, Jan. 27—was free of a traffic death. Week end of Oct. 29-30, when 51 persons were killed, was the worst of the year.

Garrison estimated total accidents at 524,972, traffic injuries at 208,310 and economic loss at $557,414,000. He said there was one death in traffic every two hours and 36 minutes, an injury every two and a half minutes, and an accident every 60 seconds of 1966.

TERRACE HELP

Over 5,000 miles of terraces were built by Texas farmers last year with SCS help. Terraces save soil and water. Much of the food eaten in the U.S. each year is grown on terraced land.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

My sub-senior neighbor says Uncle's 1040 form has just deprived him of a little nestegg of toil-fruit which he sure could have used for a new set of synthetic teeth.

And he deplores that a lot of what was formerly his money will now go for the care and feeding of various foreign and domestic bums, and the affluencing of a mob of people-weevils, who probably all have good teeth.

Says the morals may differ slightly but it hurts about the same, whether you get financially ravaged by an armed robber or by Congress.

Word has just leaked down to some of us rabble that Washington is fixing to spend $15,000 of our money to get up a book on folklore, magic and witchcraft.

Could be some high official has been watching that beauteous witch on TV who solves problems by twitching her nose, and hopes to find out how she does it.

He may figure it would make his life richer if he could just wiggle his nose or brew up a kettle of bat-wing tea and witch away such woes as screaming taxpayers, Ho Chi Minh, and ex-attorney generals.

I see where New English has been thought up for the New Generation, which enjoys many New things, such as New Math and Remedial Reading.

And a New History is gradually being written by New Thinkers who can see that the old historians didn't have an enlighted social attitude toward pre-New Think happenings.

It appears that the fine-tuned folks who think up all of the New stuff are aware that old-fashioned teaching is what made them what they are today, and they are trying to keep the same thing from happening to another generation.

My philosophoggy neighbor says he's heard how itchy feet make a man want to travel, and now the itchy mind may also cause travel, via a drug nicknamed LSD.

Seems this dope transports the brain into realms of fantasy and beyond the borders of commonsense realities of daily living.

Which he reckons explains some things that have heretofore mystified him. Now he says we had ought to up-date one more thing by addressing our communications to the nation's capital to "Washington, LSD."

The rule of driving on the right originated with pioneers of the West. As Conestoga wagons traveled west along the National Road, the teamster sat astride the left wheelhorse. On meeting another wagon, he passed to the right in order to watch the space between the wheel hubs.

Arnett Holds Annual Easter Parade Thurs.

Arnett School presented its annual Easter program Thursday evening, March 16.

More than 30 tiny tots under school age presented this fashion part of the program. The 11-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sikes wore a tiny red frock. Lana Richardson and Kay West were in charge of this part of the program.

The Easter Parade by class favorites and the crowning of Mr. and Miss Arnett were directed by Wayne Muckleroy.

The stage was an outdoor garden scene with red roses climbing white pillars. A fountain and silhouettes completed the decorations.

The Easter program was presented by the music department of the high school, directed by Maurice Moore.

This is considered the outstanding program presented each year and is attended by former students and teachers.

NEW COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY PRECINCT LINES

Shown here are the new Collingsworth County Precinct lines, as approved by the Commissioners' Court in a special meeting Friday, Mar. 17. These were drawn so that the county will be divided equally according to population, and all of the four precincts include a part of Wellington. Precinct 1 extends straight across the south part of the county with the exception of a jog within the city of Wellington. Precinct 2, the largest because it is the least densely populated, includes a part of Wellington, then jogs to the northeast corner of town, follows Highway 83 to Salt Fork River, extends west along the course of the river then goes due north to the county line, again following Highway 83 a few miles at the north edge of the county. Salt Fork River forms the dividing line between Precincts 3 and 4, from the west edge of the county to almost midway across. It then extends south, again east along FM 1981, and south to Wellington. The narrow corridor is part of Precinct 4 and links that part of the precinct north of the river to Wellington. A map on another page shows the precinct lines within the city of Wellington.

Shift Noted to Production of Heavy Beef

COLLEGE STATION. — Today's consumers, with more money to spend, are demanding higher grades of meat. To meet this demand, commercial feedlots in Texas are growing rapidly, and with them, certain economic trends are evolving.

Increased production of heavy beef along with further gains in slaughter calf feeding have met this demand, says Dr. Edward Uvacek, Jr. Extension livestock marketing specialist and assistant professor, Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology, Texas A&M University. Texans, for the most part ,still prefer fed calf, however; but their tastes are rapidly shifting to heavy beef. Further growth in Texas cattle feeding may emphasize the tremendous demands for fed calf in the Gulf Coast states.

With the economics of transportation favoring shipment of feeder animals rather than fat cattle, feeding in this state will become more oriented to local market demands. Furthermore, emphasis should be forthcoming on carcass yields and the ability of an animal to reach the Choice grade at a light weight.

Market demands, contends Uvacek, will dictate the types and classes of cattle produced in the future. A shift in the Southwest has been toward a heavier weight slaughter calf producing a 400-500 pound carcass, while other areas of the country are moving toward a lighter weight heavy beef carcass in the 600-700 pound range. Both trends are, however, for Good and Choice grade carcasses.

The animal of the future will be the meat-type steer. It will be efficient in the feedlot and will produce the desirable type of carcass at least possible cost, says Uvacek. This animal may not belong to any particular breed or type of beef animal known today and might very well be a mixture.

The revolution that is occurring within the Texas cattle feeding industry will result in a future which will bear little resemblance to the cattle industry of yesterday. Further details and a more adept explanation of this revolution can be found in the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station bulletin, B-1055, "Economic Trends in Texas Cattle Feeding."

WTCC Seeks More Mexican Tourists

Increased travel from Old Mexico into West Texas is one of the tourist development objectives of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, according to Harlan Bridwell, Bridgeport, chairman of the Tourist and Travel committee of the organization.

Hugh White of Alpine, subcommittee chairman of the Old Mexico-West Texas tourist idea said that this is a prime source of additional tourist revenue and that more emphasis will be placed on it during the coming tourist season.

Bridwell also told of the support of the WTCC in restoration of old forts and missions in West Texas. Many of the sites are presently being considered by historical societies and other interested groups for restoration, he reported. This activity, too, will generate more tourists in the area and will provide a year-round attraction, according to Bridwell.

Official Texas Historic Marker Guide Available

AUSTIN—The new 1967 Guide to Official Texas Historical Markers compiled by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee is now available for distribution, TSHSC President Charles Woodburn of Amarillo, has announced.

The guide was published by Humble Oil & Refining Co. of Houston. Individuals or organizations may write Humble Touring Service, P.O. Box 2180, Houston 77001)to request copies.

Reflecting the recent emphasis of the official marking of Texas heritage, the third edition of the guide lists 3,946 Official Texas Historical Markers. The guide it replaced listed 2,200 markers.

"The Official Texas Historical Marker program is Texas' only way of bringing to tourists and Texans the rich heritage of the Lone Star State," said Woodburn.

"Throughout the marker guide are the names and locations of these short history lessons told in granite and aluminum.

"Historical markers not only help preserve the state's heritage; they also contribute to the state's tourist industry," he said.

"In a joint survey conducted by the Texas Highway Department and the Texas State Historical Survey Committee, it was determined that each marker earns an average of $17.55 a day, $526 a month, and $6,405 a year, in increased tourist revenue to the state."

Careless Weed Control Tried

HALFWAY, Tex. - A combination of Ramrod-65, a short residual herbicide, and two flame weedings, kept grain sorghum plots free from careless weeds (pigweeds) without residual limitations on suceeding crops in 1965.

Chemical control of careless weeds in grain sorghum has been studied at the High Plains Research Foundation for several years. Studies during the last two years have been with the Monsato Chemical Company's Ramrod-65 herbicide. This herbicide should give weed control for four to six weeks and the late weeds being controlled by other means such as flame weeding. The 1965 experimental area was reasonably free of weeds so that the check plot, receiving no herbicide application, had very few weeds and therefore no large difference in early weed growth due to treatment occurred.

Weathermaster 66 grain sorghum was used in this test on Olton clay loam soil that was previously planted to cotton. Immediately following seeding, Ramrod-65 was sprayed in a twenty inch band over the seed row using zero, three four and five pounds active ingredient per sprayed acre in forty gallons of water. Plots received two summer irrigations and were sidedressed with eighty pounds of nitrogen from anhydrous ammonia. In addition to plowing water furrows prior to the first irrigation, the plots were flame weeded on August 11 and again on September 2.

Queens Take Third in AAU

The Wayland College Flying Queens, sparked by the fine shooting of Wellington's Betty Courtney and Linda Pickens, defeated Anamill 55-37 to place third in the National Women's AAU basketball tournament in Gallup, N.M. Saturday night, March 18.

NBS won its sixth straight championship, defeating the Raytown Piperettes 47-39.

Betty, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Courtney, and played for the Wellington Skyrockettes, made 20 points in the game—7 field goals and 6 free throws. The Queens had a 15-7 first quarter lead and they hiked it to 30-17 at the half.

They built their lead to 21 points four minutes before the game ended when Coach Harley Redin began substituting freely.

The National AAU tournament boosted Betty's points for the season to more than 300, her father said this week.

Franks Works in Amino Acid Research at OU

NORMAN, Okla.—A project concerned with determining the structure of one of the materials essential to the life of man or any other living animal is the current research endeavor of an associate professor of chemistry at the University of Oklahoma.

Dr. Dick van der Helm is investigating the structure of amino acids which can join to form peptides and ultimately form proteins, necessary constituents of human and animal diets.

The project, now in its fifth year, is supported by a grant totaling $93,730 from the National Institute of Health. The funds for Van der Helm's research are administered by the OU Research Institute.

Graduate students assisting Van der Helm in his work are Thomas V. Willoughby of Chelsea, Okla.; Joyce M. Sims of Fort Adams, Miss.; Ann Fisher Nicholas and her husband, Hugh B. Nicholas, Jr., both of Tulsa; William A. Franks of Wellington; and C. Eugene Tatsch of Westerville, O. Dr. Mohammed B. Hossain, research associate in chemistry, also is working on the project.

Franks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Franks of Wellington.

Amino acids, the first area of Van der Helm's research, are simple combinations of carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, oxygen and sometimes other atoms. These may be joined in certain ways to form a type of structure called a peptide. Two amino acids joined form a dipeptide; three joined form a tripeptide.

When a great number of amino acids are joined, perhaps as many as 10,000 in some instances, proteins and enzymes, materials necessary to man's survival, are formed.

Van der Helm explained that amino acids can also be bound to metallic ions (charged particles). If metallic ions are introduced into peptides the resulting structure is called a peptide chelate.

At the recent winter meeting of the American Crystallographic Association in Atlanta, Ga., Van der Helm and a group of his students presented papers concerning his work with peptide chelates.

Assisting on the papers were Franks, Mrs. Nicholas, Charles Fisher, graduate student from Tulsa, now studying at Columbia University, and Hossain.

The technique by which Van der Helm analyzes the structure of the chelates is that of X ray diffraction. The OU professor takes a single crystal of a chelate, about three-tenths of a millimeter in diameter, and subjects it to X rays which are diffracted in thousands of directions by planes within the crystal. The intensities of the X rays are measured and can be analyzed and used to locate the relative positions of the atoms within a molecule of the chelate. This enables Van der Helm to determine the compound's molecular structure.

Colorado Men Visit Van Pelts

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Van Pelt Friday night and Saturday morning were their son, Dr. Newell Van Pelt, dean of men, and Dr. Lloyd G. Swenson, dean of student affairs, of Adams State College, Alamosa, Colo.

They were going to the American Personnel and Guidance Association national convention.

This was Dr. Swenson's first trip to Texas, and he also tasted his first quail at the Van Pelt home.

They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Don Van Pelt.

FLOOD STOPPERS

One hundred five flood prevention dams were built last year by the SCS. These dams catch floodwater when it rains, then release it slowly to prevent floods.

New Irrigation Found at Quail

An irrigation well, estimated to flow between 500 and 600 gallons per minute, was brought in on the Paul Bell farm three miles northeast of Quail last week.

Buddy Carter of Carter Drilling Company said the well is 175 feet deep and about two miles from the nearest well.

Bell said this week he plans to use this well to irrigate alfalfa and grass.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

In redistricting the four precincts of the county on a "one man one vote" basis, the Commissioners Court seems to have beaten the U.S. Supreme Court to the punch. The highest court in the land has what is called the Midland case on the docket. In Midland one commissioner represents 97 percent of the population and three commissioners represent 3 percent of the people. The Supreme Court is expected to rule in favor of the "one man one vote" yardstick and if it does this county has taken appropriate action in advance.

★ ★ ★

The new districts will look peculiar as you can see by the county map which is reproduced in this issue; but the change does mean that approximately the same number of people will be living and voting in each of the precincts. This should prove beneficial to the county in future years. Until the change was made in Precincts 3 and 1, the county had a situation in which three fourths of the population was represented by one commissioner and one fourth of the population was represented by three commissioners.

★ ★ ★

Even though the move is a good one, it does give you a queer feeling to realize that your precinct has receded like the tide on a beach. For 64 years I have lived in Precinct 1, and overnight I am in Precinct 2. Oh well, I have been friends with Melvin Seale for about as long or longer than Woody Wood so I can't see this change will make any difference; but there will be a number of little adjustments that people will have to make. In all probability I will continue to vote in the courthouse; but my box will move from the west side to the east side. However some voters who have been voting in the courthouse may find their box in the elementary school building and others will vote in the high school building. Jimmie Kelso and I live a block apart: but he will vote for one commissioner and I will vote for another.

★ ★ ★

On Dalhart Street, C. T. Hubbard will vote in Precinct 4 while his neighbor across the street, Lorene Jenkins, will be in Precinct 3. Sam Adams will vote in W. R. Breeding's precinct and Hook Elliott will vote in Clyde Emmert's precinct. Last year all four of these citizens voted in Precinct 1. Out on Highway 83, Mack Willis will be in Precinct 2 and his neighbor across the road, V. H. Lindsey, will be in Precinct 4 and it was only last week that both of them lived in Precinct 3.

It will take some time for each voter to become adjusted in his thinking as to which one is his new commissioner; but it will work out in good order and I believe quite satisfactorily. It is possible that the commissioners will learn who their new constituents are more quickly than the voters learn about their new commissioner.

Last week Louise and I were in Houston and stopped by the Shamrock-Hilton where the Texas Cattlemens Association was holding a convention. Two weather-beaten gentlemen who evidently raise cattle in West Texas and not on the coastal plain were standing at the newsstand. One asked for a Fort Worth Star-Telegram and was informed that they had sold out that morning. His companion said: "You will have to read one of the Houston papers." "No I won't," the other replied. "I wouldn't know what they were talking about."

★ ★ ★

We found the people of Houston complaining about the long dry spell. We strolled from Rice University back to the area of the Texas Medical Center and the grass and shrubs and other vegetation looked very green to us: but when we came to an unwatered spot we could tell that it has been dry for that part of the state. This time we stayed at the White House Motel which also runs a free bus service over to the Medical Center at any time you may want it. The White House like the Surrey and other nice motels is located on South Main and is less than a mile from the Astrodome. All of these places are convenient to reach if you enter Houston from the south by way of Rosenberg. It is also easy to get out from this location if you have your car for South Main leads right into Highway 90 so with about two or three minutes of driving you are on your way to Rosenberg, LaGrange and Austin.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Carter Holcomb loves oysters as well or better than the next person. I was telling him what I had for lunch, six raw oysters with cocktail sauce, and a platter of cooked oysters on the halfshell consisting of 3 baked oysters, 3 en brouchette, 3 oysters a la Rockefeller and three fried. The doctor was taking stitches out of my face at the time and I was chatting away: but he stopped to say: "If you don't shut up I am going to sew your mouth shut."

★ ★ ★

It is nice to be in an interesting place like Houston; but there is also a deep pleasure in returning home especially if you get back only a short time before the first rain of spring. It is not what we need but the moisture is enough to keep the wheat alive, permit plowing and keep hope alive for more moisture to come.

Red Cross Drive Will Continue Through March

The 1967 Red Cross fund-raising campaign will continue through March, Mrs. R. H. Isbell, home service chairman, announced this week.

The county was assigned a quota of $2,000 which also includes the amount required to set up the Red Cross Blood Bank at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Of the $2,000 total, $935.85 has been raised, according to Mrs. Isbell.

"An effort is being made to contact all people of the county through organizations of which they are members, and by door to door solicitation in Wellington," she explained.

Commissioner Breeding, Precinct 4: 293 houses in town for a population of 911 and 160 rural houses with a population of 497, or a total of 1,408.

The legal description of the boundaries of each precinct are to be furnished by County Attorney R. L. Templeton, according to minutes of the commissioners court meeting.

Precinct 1

Precinct 1 is seven miles deep and extends completely across the south side of the county.

In Wellington, the Precinct 1 boundary comes to the southeast corner of the town section, runs north two blocks to 13th Street, west to the alley between East and West Avenues, south to 15th Street and west to the southwest corner of town. All of Wellington south of 15th Street is in Precinct 1, with the exception of the block in which the elementary school is located.

Precinct 2

Precinct 2, largest in area, because it is most thinly populated, begins at the north edge of the county on the boundary between sections 16 and 17 in block 17 and extends south to Salt Fork River, then follows the river to the intersection of Highway 83 at the bridge, and follows the highway to the northwest edge of Wellington.

Inside Wellington, Precinct 2 runs along First Street from the northeast corner of town to the alley line between East and West Avenues, then south to the intersection with Precinct 1.

Precinct 3

Precinct 3 has Precinct 1 on its south and Salt Fork River as the north boundary. It follows the river to a point just east of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad bridge, jogs south then east along FM Road 1981, south and east again, then directly south to the norhtwest corner of town.

Inside Wellington, Precinct 3 follows Haskell Street to Third, turns east at Dalhart, then runs south to intersect with 15th Street and Precinct 1. The elementary school block corners with the southwest point of the precinct.

Precinct 4

Precinct 4 is bounded by Salt Fork River and Precinct 3 on the south, Precinct 2 on the east, and includes the corridor west of Highway 83 which brings it to Wellington.

Inside town, the boundary extends from the northwest corner of Wellington south to Third Street, east to Dalhart, then south to 15th, east to the alley between East and West Avenues, north along that line to the north edge of town, then east to Highway 83.

display space available and one display is already in.

The Sagebrush Arts and Crafts Association upon completion of its organization will have branches in other near-by towns, featuring the works of artists and craftsmen of those counties. There will be an exchange of works, so that the creations of Collingsworth members will also be featured in the other area towns.

Plans call for distinctive display signs to direct tourists to the points of sale.

"We feel that we have a new industry for Collingsworth County," said a spokesman for the association. "Our artists and craftsmen are producing a marketable product that we believe will be unique to this part of the country and which will appeal to the pubic."

Individual results have been compiled and will be mailed out later this week, Coach John Bond of Shamrock Junior High told The Wellington Leader on Wednesday morning.

Two other meet records were broken by Wellington boys.

Men in Service

Mrs. William Earl Anders, whose husband, A/1c Anders is stationed on Guam, talked with him by short wave and telephone Monday evening, March 20.

A member of the 461st Bomb Wing, he went to Guam about a month ago from Amarillo Air Force Base.

Mrs. Anders, the former Cheryl Wilson, and their two-months-old son, Jay Clint, are staying here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Wilson.

Max Courtney

He works with the George Turner art group in Amarillo.

Already well known among Panhandle artists, Courtney presently is showing in the Annual Invitational Western Art Show in San Antonio.

He has pictures in the Canyon Art Gallery, the Palais Rouge and the Colony in Amarillo.

While Courtney's style will be liked generally by both the artists and those who "know what they like to look at," his paintings also will appeal to those of high school age.

The artist himself attended Wellington high school not so long ago and he will be remembered more for the 6'7" height that made him an outstanding Skyrocket basketball player than for his artistic output at that period.

The public is invited to view his work, which may be seen at all hours the Cherokee Inn is open.

CAR-WINDOW SCENERY

Ninety percent of all recreational travelers see Texas thru their car windows. More leisure and higher living standards put more Texans and out-of-state visitors on the road to pleasure. Highways are a mainstay of the growing tourist industry of Texas.
