New Stop-Gap Farm Bill Is Drafted

House Thunders Disapproval Of Roosevelt's Bonus Veto

Final Chapter In Long Fight Nearing Close

Equally Hostile Reception In Senate Forecast; Followers Of President Declare They Will Vote To Override

New Taxes Loom

Executive Says His Convictions Are As Impelling As They Were Before And Refuses To Change Them

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — The house thundered a 324 to 61 disapproval of President Roosevelt's hand-penned veto of the immediate payment bonus bill today and rushed it to the senate, where an equally hostile reception awaited it.

Even senators who almost unvaryingly support the administration announced they would vote to override when the veto is taken up on Monday. Not a single leader ventured a prediction that the president would be sustained.

Would Close Chapter

Thus a final chapter in the legislative history of the bonus—a congressional storm signal for nearly two decades; a subject for veto by every president since Harding—would be closed.

But even as the house swiftly scuttled the veto disregarding the president's principal assertion that his "convictions" were as "impelling" as when he vetoed the inflationary Patman bonus bill last year, the possibility of new taxes to finance the baby bond cash payment plan took the stage. It became a principal topic of off the record congressional discussion.

No Definite Views

Mr. Roosevelt gave no definite inkling of his present views on that touchy issue in his 200-word veto message. In fact, he said little in it beyond advising senators and representatives to look up his last disapproval of payment of the bonus. But from the White House came indications that the chief executive intended to do some writing tomorrow night, and there was speculation that the subject matter might be new levies.

Some congressmen said privately they believed he was almost certain to ask for additional taxation to raise the payment money; others were just as emphatic in declaring enactment of a tax bill would be out of the question in an election year.

Precedent Is Broken

The president's terse message, penned in his own handwriting to break a precedent of a quarter century, sent some congressmen scurrying after copies of the veto message he delivered in person eight months ago.

Much note was taken of one significant paragraph. It said:

"I invite your attention to the fact that solely from the point of view of good credit of the United States, the complete failure of the congress to provide additional taxes for an additional expenditure of this

Minnesota Farmer Dies When In Texas; Compact Is Made With His Driver That Holds Over Long, Dreary Miles

(By The Associated Press)

MINNESOTA LAKE, Minn., Jan. 24. — A frost-bitten motorist drove into Minnesota Lake with the frozen body of a 63-year-old man and told a tragic story of a three-day automobile ride with the body of his friend who died a day after they left Texas.

The dead man was Henry Radtke, Amboy farmer. A week ago he set out from Minnesota Lake for Del Rio, Texas, where he hoped to obtain relief from a malignant disease. He was accompanied by Arthur Groskreuts of Minnesota Lake, driver of the car.

Nothing Done For Him

Groskreuts said today Radtke had been advised by the Texas physician he had gone to consult that nothing could be done for him and he ought to get home as quickly as possible. Monday evening the pair started on the return trip.

Near Waco, Texas, still 1,100 miles from Minnesota Lake, Groskreuts said, Radtke turned to him and said:

"I am going to die. I want you to promise me you'll drive straight back to Minnesota."

Fights Cold, Fatigue

A short time later said Groskreutz, Radtke died. For two days, with the body of his dead friend in the car, Groskreuts pushed on toward Minnesota. As he approached the state line Tuesday night, he said, he hit sub-zero cold. Twelve hours later he reached Minnesota Lake, suffering from exposure and fatigue. The body of his friend lay in the back seat—frozen.

Radtke is survived by his widow and three children, all of Amboy.

Coalition Of Forces To Fight Renomination Of President Roosevelt Is Made Public By Leaders Friday

Tangled Political Situation More Complicated; Al Smith Expected To Deliver Merciless Attack Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 24.—A coalition of the forces of the late Huey P. Long with those of Gov. Eugene Talmadge to fight renomination of President Roosevelt was announced today by the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, national organizer of share our wealth clubs.

"We are going to have a unified front in the presence of an emergency that threatens the south," Smith said.

No Actual Joining

He emphasized, however, that there has been no actual "amalgamation of Talmadge and Huey Long forces."

The preacher, an ardent follower of the late Louisiana senator, made his announcement in the presence of Governor Talmadge, a persistent and outspoken critic of President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Talmadge had few words on the announcement. "Just quote him," he said.

Smith, who some time after Long was slain announced he might be a candidate for president, said he would be on the program of the "grass roots" convention of anti-Roosevelt leaders at Macon, Ga., January 29.

Sponsored By Talmadge

The Macon assembly, styled a gathering of "Jeffersonian" Democrats, is sponsored by Talmadge, who also has announced as conditional candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, and John H. Kirby, Texas lumberman, who heads the southern committee to uphold the constitution.

Smith said his subject at the Macon meeting would be "an interpretation of the anti-Roosevelt victory in the Louisiana primary," in which the faction of the late Senator Long triumphed over the anti-Long forces.

Wheelock Elected Association Head

Turkey Growers Of Plains Area Gather In Muleshoe For Annual Session On Friday

(By Staff Correspondent)

MULESHOE, Jan. 24. — J. E. Wheelock, Silverton, a Briscoe county turkey grower, was elevated to the presidency of the Hi-Plains Turkey Improvement association by growers of this section, in the annual meeting in the Bailey county district courtroom today. He succeeds J. T. Hoggins, Kress, who has served the past year. Mr. Wheelock presided in Mr. Hoggins' absence.

A woman turkey grower, Mrs. Joe McDuff, Crosbyton, who has taken high honors at the annual dressed turkey show at Plainview, was named vice president. Clayton Eiring, Plainview, was reelected secretary. Roy Hickman, Plainview, was acting secretary.

Dinner Is Staged

Muleshoe business men entertained the visitors with a dinner in the American Legion hall at noon, with a business session following in the afternoon in the district courtroom. In the morning an inspection was had of the turkey farm of Levi Churchill, first president of the association, who operates a farm north of town.

At the business session plans were made for another show to be held late in the year, probably mid-December, at Plainview. It was decided to ask for a turkey grading school at the same time. A show committee is to be named later by the directors.

Reports On Shipment

Roy B. Davis, Plainview, manager of Plains Cooperative, Inc., reported on shipment of dressed birds after the second annual show in December.

Hatchery directors were given instructions on their problem, of starting up the hatchery. An incubator has been purchased and will be used to hatch eggs of members. Four hundred seventy-five birds have been signed up by producers to furnish the hatchery with eggs.

George P. McCarthy, College Station, assistant poultry husbandman, spoke several times, answered numerous questions about methods and discussed poultry diseases.

In the American Legion hall at noon, K. K. Smith presided as toastmaster for the "second annual turkey gobble." Following invocation by Rev. R. S. Watkins, the meal

Margin Boost On Market Is Being Ordered

Federal Reserve Board Issues Order Effective Feb. 1 Requiring Over 20 Per Cent Hike In Requirements

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — The federal reserve board tonight issued an order, effective February 1, requiring more than a 20 per cent increase in margin requirements on most securities.

The board gave no explanation, one official said privately, however, that it obviously was intended to slow down any incipient stock market boom.

Credit Reduced

Effective February 1, under the board's orders, the amount of credit which can be extended against stocks will be reduced to 45 per cent of the current market value instead of the present 55 per cent.

This means that the man buying stocks will have to put up 55 instead of 45 per cent of the purchase price.

The action brought expressions of surprise in many official quarters.

One member of the federal reserve board itself first said he did not think the action had been taken. It was "news to me," he said, that the board actually had acted. He explained, however, that he had left the board meeting half an hour before it broke up.

Surprise Expressed

Wife Branded As Unfaithful

Defense Opens Its Testimony In Case Of George Hamlin; Neighbors Say Parties Were Given At Home

(By The Associated Press)

FARWELL, Jan. 24.—Defense attorneys presented testimony in the murder trial of George S. Hamlin today in an effort to show that his wife was unfaithful.

Hamlin is charged with killing his wife with a hammer at Amarillo January 4, 1935.

E. H. Atkinson said he overheard a conversation between the Hamlins as the defendant prepared to leave for California several weeks prior to the slaying.

Mrs. Hamlin Quoted

He quoted Mrs. Hamlin as saying: "If that's all the money you're going to give me I wouldn't kiss you at all—you don't have to give me money. I've a doctor dentist friend who'll give me money."

The witness said Mrs. Hamlin told her husband that she would be with other men while he was away. Atkinson, former Amarillo special officer, said he didn't divulge this information previously because he "didn't want to get mixed up in the case."

Parties Were Given

Neighbors testified that frequent parties were given at the Hamlin home during the husband's absence.

Defense attorneys introduced a deposition from an Oakland, Calif., hotel manager which said that Mrs. Hamlin, prior to her marriage to the defendant, had registered at the hotel under the name of "Mrs. Billie Alerod" and that she was accompanied by a man who posed as her husband. The deposition said she was asked to leave the hotel because of her conduct.

Both Ethiops And Italians Claim Victory

League Adjourns Without Any Constructive Plan Offered; Sanctions Outline Will Be Discussed Later

(By The Associated Press)

Italian newspaper dispatches said Friday night 8,000 Ethiopians were killed and 4,000 captured in a great battle on the Ethiopian northern front.

An official Ethiopian announcement, however, said the Italians had lost 1,700 soldiers while 3,000 had been taken prisoner.

League Adjourns

The League of Nations council adjourned at Geneva without offering any plan to terminate hostilities. Experts, however, will consider the effectiveness of present sanctions against Italy next Wednesday, and oil experts will meet February 3 to discuss possible application of an official embargo.

Premier Mussolini warned league members that they must be individually responsible for their actions against Italy. The agreement by which Britain, France, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia decided to join forces in the event of an unprovoked Italian attack was called by Il Duce "a danger to European peace."

Village Seized

Delayed dispatches from an Associated Press correspondent with the Italian southern army said Gen. Rudolf Graziani's forces had driven through the Ethiopian army and seized the undefended village of Neghelli, capital of the Galla Borana region. The Italians thus gained control of all water holes within 250 miles of Dolo, in far southern Ethiopia.

Previous dispatches from the same correspondent, also brought out by courier, said the Ethiopian southern army was reported by high Italian officials to be completely disbanded.

Leaders Keep Provisions Of Plan In Dark

Roosevelt Says That His Ultimate Goal Is To Make Agriculture As Productive As It Was 100 Years Ago

Funds Are Voted

House Passes Amendment Carrying $296,185,000 To Pay Farmers For Their Part In Reduction Contracts

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — A new stop-gap farm bill, described as retaining the principle of individual subsidies for soil conservation as a stepping stone to a permanent federal-state cooperative plan, emerged today from another round of fast-moving congressional developments.

While President Roosevelt was telling his press conference his ultimate goal was to make agriculture "as productive as it was 100 years ago," the all-Democratic senate agriculture sub-committee, which yesterday rebelled against the original Jones-Bankhead bill, unanimously agreed on a redraft prepared overnight at the agriculture department.

Details Withheld

Its details were withheld by Chairman Smith (D-SC) until after its presentation tomorrow to the full committee.

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala), whose original draft Smith opposed vigorously on constitutional grounds, told newsmen:

"It is satisfactory to me? Draw your own conclusions."

Chairman Jones (D-Tex) of the house agriculture committee, after going over the redraft with Smith, said:

"The modifications suggested in the main, in my personal judgment, would be helpful."

The house committee also will consider the new draft tomorrow.

Changes Said Minor

While Bankhead insisted the changes were minor, other than the major addition providing that after two years grants would be made only to states cooperating in a permanent farm plan yet to be worked out, Smith commented:

"Wait till you see the revision."

Secretary Wallace, who appeared before both senate and house groups, merely said:

"Everybody's happy."

The committee activity was accompanied by these other developments on the farm question:

1. President Roosevelt coupled his long time objective of making agriculture as productive as it was a century ago with a hope that farm legislation to replace the AAA would be possible without a constitutional amendment.

Invited To Dinner

2. Louis B. Ward, an adviser of Father Charles E. Coughlin, invited a score of inflation minded senators to a hotel dinner tonight to discuss informally what some described as ways to maintain farm

New Chapter In 'Scottsboro Case' Is Written As Negroes Attack Officers

(By The Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 24.—A new and sensational chapter in the five-year-old "Scottsboro case" was written today as two of the negroes attacked officers with knives as they were being brought to jail here.

One of the pair, Ozie Powell, was in serious condition in county hospital here, and one of the officers, Deputy Sheriff Edgar Blalock, was cut on the neck. The officer's wound was treated at a Cullman, Ala., hospital and he was allowed to go home.

Fifty national guardsmen were ordered to patrol the hospital ares by Adjutant General John C. Coleman, sent here by Governor Bibb Graves to "survey the situation."

The men were gathered in the armory here and sent in details to the hospital. They were members of Co. K., 167th infantry.

Powell was shot in the head by Sheriff J. Street Sandlin of Morgan county, who sat beside Blalock at the time of the attack. Dr. W. S. Littlejohn, brain surgeon, removed the bullet, in two portions, tonight.

The surgeon said the bullet entered Powell's head at the hairline on the forehead, ranged backward and downward and passed through a small section of the brain, bringing partial paralysis of the right side.

Powell's chances for recovery were described as "good" after

MONTH OF BENEFITS

THESE are the days of benefits. Granting that the causes are needy, we were wondering just now if a united charities organization or community fund wouldn't be a welcome substitute for nerve-wracking committee work and after office hour labor. You see the thing about it, the persons who are made committee chairmen to arrange for the benefit dances and shows and revues are the ones who buy the tickets and donate to the causes.

Within a week Lubbock will have been asked to support benefits for crippled children, children with defective eyesight, children and others with infantile paralysis, an orphan's home, not to mention the regular welfare work that is a part of study and civic clubs and the church schools.

THEY'VE BEEN GENEROUS

IT'S no new thing. Last fall when Governor Allred was here, business men of Lubbock contributed approximately $800 to be used in support of Opportunity Home, managed by Mrs. W. T. Milam. We are not belittling that; it was a splendid gesture. During Christmas a Goodfellow drive netted at least $700 that was spent in helping poor people of the city to have a more cheerful Christmas. Daily almost we were asked to give to this and to give to that. There were annual Red Cross and Salvation Army drives and the customary beggars with their haggard faces and heart-rending complaints. A Will Rogers memorial drive met instant response here.

We think that Lubbock has responded in a commendable manner to these drives, but we wonder how long these people who are asked for contributions day after day are going to continue to open their checkbooks. You have no idea of the numbers of times merchants are asked to contribute goods to carnivals and to benefits to be used as prizes.

Jesus Declares His Purpose

Text: Luke 4:16-30

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 26

By Wm. E. Gilroy, D. D., Editor Of Advance

THE actual ministry of Jesus began fittingly in His home town. Following His baptism and the 40 days of retirement and of temptation in the wilderness, He came to Nazareth, where He had been brought up. Here He entered the synagog, where we may suppose He had been again and again, for we are told that it was His custom to worship in the synagog on the Sabbath day.

Jewish worship found its most intimate expression in the synagog. We might think of it, if we sought a modern comparison, in terms of the small village church in contrast to the temple or to the great city cathedral. It meant for Jesus coming into the circle of His friends and fellow townsmen.

But that is not always the friendliest and easiest circle for a man entering on a prophetic ministry. Jesus said later, not without a touch of bitterness, that a man's foes should be those of his own household.

IT must have been a strange scene as this young man, known among them as a carpenter, who had evidently given little public anticipation of his ministry, suddenly stood up in the synagog, and, reading from the book of the prophet Isaiah the description of the servant of the Lord manifesting the divine anointing by preaching good tidings to the poor and other beneficient acts, closed the book and publicly declared that these things were to be fulfilled in himself.

The effect, apparently, was at first startling. The company of people were so surprised that they were swept away at first by His gracious words. They marveled, and they said, "Is not this the carpenter? Is not this Joseph's son?"

But the after-effect was that voiced protest that so often rises in human life against one who presumes to rise above his own environment.

"Who is this man that he should talk thus? Why has he set himself up as a prophet?"

WITH that swiftness with which popular sentiment can change, those who had listened at first with wonderment were now filled with wrath. Here was one who seemed to be setting himself up as a religious teacher with presumption and without authority.

The defenders of authority in Nazareth were outraged; they rose in wrath, seized Jesus, and brought Him forth to the brow of the high hill, or cliff, on which their village was situated. Here they would have thrown Him down headlong, but the record is that Jesus mysteriously passed through the midst of them and went His way.

What strange and deplorable things men have done, and continue to do, in the name of zeal for religion! With what violence men dare to defend the authority of the conventional in institutions and teachings against the authority of truth and the prophet who dares to proclaim its new forms and its new applications!

Lubbock Westerners Nose Out Sandie Cagers, 30-28; Clovis Here Tonight

Amarillo Club Rallies Fierce In Final Half

Sandies Spurt Dangerously In Closing Quarters To Slash Lubbock Lead; Game Is Fast And Hard All The Way

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

The pot of Lubbock-Amarillo athletic rivalry boiled again last night, almost spilled over, only to be clamped down by the Westerners who stood off a desperate last half-minute offensive and won a hectic basketball game from the Sandies, 30 to 28.

The Sandies, left far behind at the half-way turn, sprinted forward in the third quarter and again in the fourth, meanwhile pushing the Westerners, who momentarily forgot to hustle, against the rail with a fine passing and goal shooting attack.

PLAY CLOVIS TONIGHT

The Wildcats of Clovis High school are Lubbock's basketball opponents tonight at the Lubbock High gymnasium.

Said to be one of the best high school aggregations in New Mexico, the Wildcats are expected to give the Westerners quite a battle on the local boards.

The game starts at 7:30 o'clock.

Lubbock nipped the rally not a second too soon, and managed to twist the thumbscrews barely in time to save a tie, or possible defeat. As it was, they protected their unbroken string of Panhandle Basketball league victories and added a fourth, to stand head and shoulders above the District 1, Class A pack.

Pampa Bars Path

It should be thus until Lubbock and Pampa meet. Pampa, they say, boasts a tall, powerful outfit, one which licked the Sandies rather fiercely last week.

One of the biggest crowds in modern history attended the game.

Amarillo played its best game of the season last night, after it got started. Coach Howard Lynch, who looks after the Amarillo High basketball interests because nobody else will, was despondent before the game, and acknowledged defeat "as a matter of form" before the game started. But even he came alive in the closing minutes, railed against the official, took part in an argument over the status of the score. Three scorekeepers had it alike, but the boys in the balcony whose duty is to keep the fans posted had credited Amarillo with one too many points. It was rubbed out and the game proceeded, after a two-minute recess, with 23 seconds to play. There was no more scoring.

The game opened briskly. Bruce Chant took the opening tip-off and raced for a field goal in two strides. McClendon, Sandie forward, took the next tip-off and raced for another in three strides. The game was barely 15 seconds old and each team had two points.

Upton Fires Away

The score was tied again, in the second period, but to get on with the first: Captain Othie Upton took charge after the opening exchange of field goals, plopped in a gratis show, then two field goals in rapid succession. McClendon made another for Amarillo. He was the fair-haired lad that Lubbock had to worry about later in the game.

Chant stuck in a field goal to end Lubbock's scoring for the first quarter, and at that time the Westerners were ahead, 8 to 4. But Hargrove scored a free one for the visitors and White canned a field goal. Ralph Letsinger went in at center for Lubbock, replacing Storrs, and bucketed a two-pointer as the second quarter opened. Hargrove and White made three points right quick for Amarillo to tie the score at 10-all.

The Westerners got going, clickety-click, with successive field goals, two by Earl Ince, a substitute forward, one by Letsinger, one by Murray Venable, two by Upton. As a final gesture in the first half and to show the folks the Sandies were still in the game, Wilkinson, sub guard, dropped in a field goal for Amarillo.

McClendon Returns

The score was 22 to 12 in favor of Lubbock as the third quarter opened, and when it was over, the score was 25 to 17, Lubbock. The Westerners didn't score at all until there remained one minute in the period. Venable finally got a field goal, after Rice, Hargrove and White had scored five points for the visitors, and Upton made a gift shot.

Then McClendon went into action again, scored two quick field goals as the fourth period opened, and Amarillo was four points behind. Chant made one for Lubbock, after 5 of the 8 minutes had elapsed, but McClendon scored a long one from the side for the invaders. Venable, with two minutes to play, scored two points, but Miller got one of them back with a free throw. Upton made Lubbock's last count, a field goal from down under, and the game looked safe. But there was a minute or less to go, and Wilkinson and Cochran made it count for four points.

The box score:

Or Niagara Falls In A Barrel, Or Danny McShain, Or King Kong—And You May Have Your Grabbling And Meccasins

By DAVID A CHEAVENS.
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Jan. 24. — Grabbling, a winter diversion that combines some of the finer points of water polo, alligator wrestling, deep sea fishing and pig-sticking, is finding new devotees among the more foolhardy East Texas sportsmen.

Your equipment for grabbling is your hide, unless you lost it, your wits and a well-sharpened hay hook.

To grabble, you peel off your clothes, wade into almost any sluggish stream, and feel with your toes along rocks and submerged logs on the bottom for giant catfish. The deal prospecting, however, is not the sport. That comes when you have found your fish, dived for him, and engaged him with the hay hook.

The issues become a matter of whether the fish pulls you in or whether you pull him out. A first-class grabbler will not fritter his time and talent away on anything under a fifty-pound cat and very often the fish wins. One man who made the tactical mistake of tying the hay hook to his wrist tackled a cat too big to be handled had to be pulled out by his companions along with the fish which dragged him into a deep hole in the Navasota river.

The big cats, fishermen explain, become somewhat sluggish in the winter and during that season especially like to nestle on the bottom of a muddy river. Often they will scarcely move when the grabbler's toe gives them a tentative push, but this gives the fisherman time to dive and set the hook, preferably in the gills. One good feel of the hay hook makes the fish forget his laziness and come out fighting.

Among the hazards of grabbling are pneumonia, cotton mouth moccasins, alligators, and ordinary drowning.

Aggies And Bears Clash In Conference Cage Tilt

Only One Game Is Slated In Loop This Weekend

WACO, Jan. 24. (AP)—The Texas A. and M. Aggies and Baylor Bruins clash here tomorrow night in the only Southwest conference basketball game scheduled this week-end.

It is the first meeting this year between these two teams, and the loser will become sole possessor of the conference cellar. Baylor went through a fast practice today, and hopes to come through with a victory after losing to Rice and Texas.

All other conference teams will be idle because of examinations.

West Texas Buffs Rout ACC, 41-19

ABILENE, Jan. 24. (AP)—The best basketball of which the Abilene Christians are capable would not have been good enough tonight, but the Wildcats were at their worst, and the West Texas State Teachers college Buffs from Canyon staged a rmuaway of 41 to 19. The Buffs, who came here to play only Hardin-Simmons and A. C. C. have scheduled a contest with McMurry also, to be played tomorrow night.

For nearly a half the Wildcats battled Canyon point for point, and the visitors led only 16 to 12 at the intermission. With the tall Captain Boedeker on a rampage as the second period began, however, the Buffaloes ran the score to 28-12 before letting the Wildcats into the game again. Stone and Hill counted the Christians' only field goals of the second half in the last two minutes.

Davis of Canyon with eleven points, all made in the last half, was the scoring leader, but Colvin and Boedeker, giant West Texas players who controlled the ball off both backboards, were the brightest stars of the game.

Lamesa Noses Out Tuscola, 23 To 18

LAMESA, Jan. 24. (Special) — In a game marked by the Golden Tornado quint's repeated repulse of opponents' efforts to take the scoring lead, Lamesa tonight defeated Tuscola, 23 to 18, on the hardwood here.

Bristo, Lamesa center, and Beard, Tuscola, guard, were chased when they amassed four personal fouls each.

Lamesa started Ross and Sandel at forwards, Bristo at center, and Hilburn and Walker at guards; Tuscola sent in Powell and Reddell at forwards, Howard at center, and Beard and Fogle at guard. Boswell and Nowell later broke into the lineup for Lamesa, Stevenson for Tuscola.

Lamesa plays Sweetwater here Saturday night in the second meeting of the clubs this season. Lamesa won the other joust by a margin of six points.

Lamesa emerged on the long end of a thrilling 27 to 26 game at Forsan earlier in the week.

Blair Cherry, Henry Frnka Included In List Of Prospects For Aggie Job

Oklahoma A. & M. To Name Mentor Soon; Vic Hurt Ranks

(By The Associated Press)

STILLWATER, Okla., Jan. 24. — Announcing the field of prospects has narrowed to four, Dr. H. G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A. & M. college, said tonight the selection of a football coach to succeed A. A. Exendine probably will be made next week.

The four favored applicants were not made known tonight.

One of the most frequently mentioned prospects for the post is Victor Hurt, assistant football coach at Southern Methodist university.

Lookabaugh Mentioned

President Bennett indicated the athletic board, athletic director and administration are agreed on hiring a young coach at the present salary range below $4,000, or stepping up the price to not more than $5,000 for an established mentor. Waldorf was obtained as head football coach here when yet under 30 and comparatively unknown.

Although official confirmation was lacking in each instance, other names heard frequently in discussion of the football berth are E. M. Lookabaugh, former Aggie star, Blair Cherry, Amarillo, Tex., and Henry Frnka, Greenville, Tex., all outstanding high school mentors; Larry Mullins, St. Benedict of Kansas; "Runt" Ramsey, formerly of Southeastern Oklahoma teachers; Fred Thompson, Arkansas; Elmer C. Henderson, Tulsa university, and John Mason, assistant coach at Colorado.

Hurt Not Anxious To Take Aggie Post

DALLAS, Jan. 24. (AP) — Victor Hurt, first assistant football coach and head track mentor at Southern Methodist university, admitted tonight he had been approached about a football coaching post at Oklahoma A. and M.

Hurt said he had been approached "unofficially," and would not amplify his statement.

"The only comment I feel I can make at this time," he said, "is that I have not made application for any coaching position away from here and now have no intention of doing so. I'm very, very well pleased right where I am at S. M. U."

He is now serving his first year on a three-year contract.

Matty Bell, head football coach, said he "would hate the worst way" to lose Hurt, but would not stand in the way of a promotion if he has a chance to get a desirable head coaching position. Bell said he was hoping something happens to keep Hurt at S. M. U.

Daffy Dean To Compete In Dallas Tenison Park Joust

DALLAS, Jan. 24. (AP)—Paul Dean, who won 19 and lost 12 games last season for the St. Louis Cardinals, will compete here Monday in the one-day golf tournament at Tenison Park.

Paul, brother to "Dizzy" Dean, also of the Cardinals, will be playing in his first tournament and will compete against some of the best professional and amateur shotmakers in Texas.

Frankie Battaglia Knocks Out Quaill In Round Six

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 24. (AP) — Frankie Battaglia, veteran Winnipeg slugger, knocked out Al Quaill, of Pittsburgh, tonight in the sixth of their scheduled ten round bout.

Only a stout heart and ability to take pile-driving swings and hooks saved the Pittsburgh fighter from an earlier count of ten. He weighed 159 to 161 for Battaglia.

Rice Sweeps L. S. U. Series In 38 To 30 Final Victory

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 24. (AP) Rice made a sweep of two basketball games with Louisiana State university by winning a roughly played encounter tonight 38 to 30.

The game was closely played and few points separated the teams at any time. Personal fouls were plentiful.

Defends Title

Frisco Joust Begins Today

Entry Field Held To 75 By Fee; Harold McSpaden On Hand To Defend Title In Match Play Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24. (AP)—The smallest field in the history of the event—held to 75 by a $25 entry fee—will tee off tomorrow in the sixth San Francisco match play open golf tournament.

The entry fee was imposed to hold the field down to a point where play can be completed in three days.

Only eight will qualify in the 36 holes of medal play, compared with the customary 32.

Most of the country's leading professional shotmakers will test their skill on the Lake Merced course, shooting at a $5,625 purse. The winner's share will be nearly $1700. Only a few amateurs entered.

Harold "Jug" McSpaden, formerly of Kansas City, present title holder, will be after it again.

Lawson Little, British and American amateur champion, is too busy preparing for his marriage to Miss Dorothy Hurd in Chicago Feb. 8, to compete.

Practice rounds forecast low scores.

Andre Lenglet In Win Over Birkie

NEW YORK, Jan. 24. (AP)—Andre Lenglet, French heavyweight star, got off to an auspicious start in his American campaign tonight by banging out a victory over Hans Birkie of Germany in their ten round fight in Madison Square Garden. Lenglet weighed 208; Birkie, 189.

It wasn't much of a fight, but the big French youngster, who has won 48 of his 50 professional starts, showed the small gallery of customers he is a real prospect who may be heard from later against the best of the heavyweight big shots.

The decision was unanimous. The Associated Press score card credited Lenglet with eight of the ten rounds, Birkie with one and called one even.

The smallest crowd of the indoor season turned out, only 2,238 fans paying less than $7,000 to watch the festivities.

Cubs Won't Brag About That Flag

CHICAGO, Jan. 24. (AP)—Charlie Grimm, manager of the Chicago Cubs, believes in the old theory that actions speak louder than words.

Consequently, Grimm decided today that the Cubs, National League champions, would not flaunt their title this year.

In keeping with an old Cub custom, followed after previous pennant winnings in 1929 and 1932, no championship insignia will appear on their uniforms in 1936.

Dallas Spring Race Meet Off For This Year

Centennial Interferes, Track At Fair Park To Be Closed; Arlington Meet May Extend To April 25

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Jan. 24. — The Dallas Fair Park race track, on the site of the Texas Centennial exposition, will not operate during the Centennial celebration. A decision to keep the 2-year-old track closed resulted from a conference today between fair association directors and R. B. George, owner of the racing plant.

The suspension of thoroughbred racing was requested by exposition executives in order to make additional room for other Centennial attractions. The spring racing dates of April 20 through May 16 have been cancelled.

Centennial Pays Off

In return for his suspension of the spring and fall races, George will receive a sum from the Centennial to be determined from average receipts during the past race meets since the track was opened. It was estimated by George and Centennial officials that this sum would approximate $85,000.

There is a strong possibility that the spring racing dates of March 26 through April 18 will be extended at Arlington Downs, located a few miles from the Dallas Fair Park plant.

At San Antonio today, Trav Daniel, resident manager of Arlington Downs, said he was unauthorized to speak on the Arlington-Dallas race affair, but that he understood that the Arlington Downs meeting would be extended to April 25. Daniel said he did not believe it advisable to extend the Arlington Downs meeting too long because it would conflict with the Kentucky Derby in May, and other Eastern racing.

Commission To Meet

At Austin, R. B. Anderson, tax commissioner and member of the Texas Racing commission, said:

"The racing commission will meet Monday and I am sure if there is anything in the air that the matter will be officially presented to the commission then."

Centennial officials said that should the exposition be held in 1937, George would be reimbursed on a similar basis.

Arlington Downs To Stretch Spring Meet

FORT WORTH, Jan. 24. (AP) — Arlington Down's spring race meeting will be extended from 21 to 27 days, it was learned today from Guy L. Waggoner. The meeting will open March 26 as originally planned, closing one week later, April 25 instead of April 18.

Waggoner revealed the extension after it had been announced that the Dallas Fair Park track had reached an agreement with the Texas Centennial exposition whereby no racing would be held there this spring and next fall.

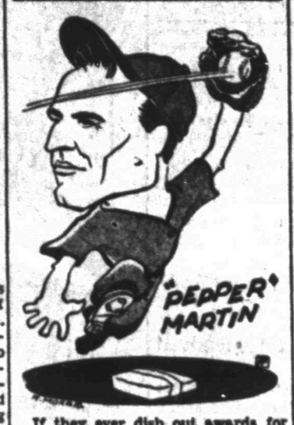

"Dates already have been granted Arlington Downs for 27 day spring meeting", said Waggoner, who is chairman of the Texas racing commission as well as co-owner of the Texas Jockey club along with his brother, Paul Waggoner.

An 'All-Rounder'

If they ever dish out awards for extra-curricular versatility in big league baseball circles, Pepper Martin of the St. Louis Cardinals can put in a well-backed bid for the championship. . . . The "Wild Horse of the Osage," recently named vice-president and general manager of the Oklahoma City club in the American Hockey association, has tried just about every sport in the books. . . . In addition to playing baseball, he hunts, plays football and basketball in season and goes in a big way for midget automobile racing. . . . His outside activities at times alarm the Cardinal management, which is primarily interested in keeping Pepper in shape to play baseball. . . . Master Farmer Branch Rickey of the far-flung Cardinal farm system had to put his foot down on Pepper's football activities. . . . And Frankie Frisch was fit to be tied the day Pepper showed up late at the ball park, disheveled and dirty, with the explanation that he had been racing a neighbor in his midget auto, with a gallon of ice-cream at stake. . . . Martin formerly was an amateur boxer.

Four Dead In Fire At Home

Ten-Year-Old Boy Escapes By Jumping Out Window After Attempts To Rouse Others In Family Fail

KNOXVILLE, Md., Jan. 24. (AP)—With ice-coated, snow-blocked roads cutting off rescuers, four members of a family of five were burned to death early today when fire destroyed their isolated frame house on South mountain near here.

A 10-year-old boy, the only survivor, escaped with severe burns and bruises by leaping from a second floor window after his heroic attempts to rouse the family had failed.

The dead:

Arthur Swope, 40 year-old widower.

His daughters, Vaugnetta, 23, and Mary, 13.

Dori Swope, 20, a son.

The fourth child, Charles, 10, told firemen he was awakened some time after midnight by the crackle of flames, and found his bedroom ablaze. He said he shouted to his father but received no answer, and was forced to jump from the window to save himself.

Cunningham On Spot In Prout Races

Boston Boards To Creak Under Mile Runners; McCluskey To Be After Big Glenn In Main Event Of Memorials

By BILL KING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—A pair of crack two-milers, gunning for Glenn Cunningham, are expected to force the world record holder into one of his amazing performances when he defends his title honors here tomorrow night in the Prout Memorial games.

Those distance runners, Ray Sears, of Butler, and the New York A. C.'s Joe McCluskey, will have more at stake than the victor's trophy when they report to the starter, along with Cunningham, Joe Mangan, Billy Ray and Frank Crowley.

May Be Forced

The 125-pound Sears is determined to do something about the two defeats Cunningham has pinned on him and McCluskey whose decision to turn miler was not taken seriously by many track followers, has high hopes of changing jeers into cheers.

The barrel-chested Kansan, who has no great fondness for the Boston Garden track, refused to extend himself last year when he romped to a 4:16.4 victory over a fairly impressive field. Although few admit that Cunningham is risking defeat, most of Boston's track followers agree he will be forced to turn in at least a 4:12 performance.

New And Better Weather Stories Being Predicted

BURLINGTON, Wis., Jan. 24. (AP) O. C. (You're Another) Hulett expressed confidence today the world's best liars, emboldened by the knowledge Hell (Mich.) froze over in the current cold wave, would produce new and better weather in the classics for the Burlington Liars' club contest of 1936.

"The news that the hot place has cooled off was a break," Hulett said, disregarding the fact Hell was a Michigan village. "Our members will get a lot of consolation out of that and give their imaginations more freedom.

"But say, some of the true stories coming out of this 20 below weather have been pretty good. Imagine, those Racine farm tots helping out at their brother's birth when a doctor couldn't get through the snow. Now if a known liar had told that one—"

Hulett, club president, warned that many of the old weather classics were so good only the best talent can match them.

"The Paul Bunyan yarns about the mercury dropping feet instead of degrees and the lumber camp's biscuits freezing in the oven are nothing to sneeze at," he said.

"At Sault Ste. Marie a chap said that when he threw boiling water outdoors it froze so fast the ice was warm."

Mr. Smith Speaks Tonight

UNLESS all signs fail, Alfred E. Smith's speech tonight at the American Liberty league's Washington dinner will be the most important and far-reaching public address of the year thus far—not excepting Mr. Roosevelt's precedent smashing speech to Congress on "the state of the Union."

For tonight Mr. Smith will, in all probabilities, show his political hand, 1936 model.

His course doubtless will be mapped in one of three ways.

From his remarks listeners will learn: 1. That Mr. Smith will attempt to capture the Philadelphia convention and keep the nomination from the man he once called "Old Potato" and who once called him "The Happy Warrior". 2. That Mr. Smith will take a leading role in the formation of a third party. 3. That he will, like the great Rustum, retire to his tent and pursue a policy of sulky silence through the presidential campaign to come.

Listeners likewise will learn tonight whether Mr. Smith will turn the vitriol on Mr. Roosevelt personally, or whether he will vent his opposition on the New Deal as a governmental agency. There is a great deal of difference there and Mr. Smith's decision on the method of his opposition will have an effect which will be lasting in the campaign to come.

Down here in this country Mr. Smith has only a remnant of the small following he had in 1928, when people preferred to vote Republican rather than for him. Hence we do not realize that in other sections—and especially in populous New York and Chicago—the former governor of the Empire state is still politically potent. Loss of New York and Illinois—or either of them—would seriously cripple Mr. Roosevelt's chances for re-election, and for that reason Mr. Smith's opposition and the type of his opposition is gravely important to the nation.

A QUEER SITUATION

The South hating, arch Republican Chicago Tribune features daily on its front page an excellent cartoon by Carey Orr, lampooning the New Deal and every effort of the President to correct the errors made by his predecessors.

Sometimes a big black headline is further featured and the editorial page reeks with criticisms of the present administration and with charges that everything it has done or is trying to do is wrong.

So the other day, after looking at one of Mr. Orr's clever cartoons, the Editor of the Morning Avalanche turned to the Tribune's business page to see what was going on there.

Here are some of the headlines telling of the state of business under the "business wrecking New Deal government:"

"Chicago Mail Order Co. Reports $806,298 Profits"; "Spaulding Head Sees Upturn for Athletic Goods"; "Chicago's Trade Volume Larger Than Year Ago"; "Detroit Edison Co. Reports Sharp Gain In Profit During 1935"; "New National Bank To Open Next Saturday."

That must be a bitter pill for Publisher Robert R. "Bertie" McCormick to swallow.

Here he and his editors are busily engaged in showing the readers how terrible the New Deal is by generous use of the editorial and front pages; over on the business page the story is entirely different!

Just how long Col. McCormick will attempt to fool all of the people all of the time is pretty hard to say, since he is a determined fellow from his spats to his moustache.

It is safe to say, however, that he won't be successful in fooling the people who know what is going on and who persist in thinking for themselves.

WITH OUR CONTEMPORARIES

"Why have a fit over the $9,550,000 profit the Morgan estate made off the $500,000,000 loan for the world war?" asks W. J. Hale in the Ropes Plainsman. "Did the government think that the money lenders were in the game for fun?"

Today's One-Minute Sermon

Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbour and hate thine enemy.

But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you;

That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.

For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same?—St. Matthew V: 43-47.

SUBMARINE FREIGHT CAR

At Lake George, New York, a short siding goes down from the Delaware & Hudson tracks right into the Lake, purposely built there to unload freight consigned to the lake. The freight consists of highly polished motor boats, which may be marred and scratched if unloaded on the station platform. Consequently the freight car, with end door, is lowered into the lake by cable until submerged, and the cargo floats out the end. Then the car is pulled back onto the main line by means of an air operated winch, with compressed air supplied by the locomotive of the train. In this way the work of unloading the boats is accomplished in a few minutes, work which would otherwise require many hours and many more men.

With All My Love

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Forces are at work that threaten the happiness of lovely DANA STANLEY and her attractive husband, DR. SCOTT STANLEY, a struggling young physician.

Dana's grandmother, who had hoped she would marry rich RONALD MOORE, is eager for the marriage to go on the rocks. PAULA LONG, who has been hopelessly in love with Scott for years, also hopes the marriage will fail.

Dana's half-sister, NANCY, is deeply in love with Ronald. Knowing he loves Dana, she masks her feeling behind an antagonistic attitude.

Paula goes to Scott's office and asks him to prescribe for a severe headache. Scott is puzzled by Paula's hysterical description of her suffering.

Paula tells Dana about having luncheon with Scott, and Dana and Scott almost quarrel when she questions him later.

Scott attends a convention. Returning unexpectedly, he finds that Dana has gone to a dinner party. He accepts Paula's invitation to bridge. The game is prolonged and he and Dana quarrel when he comes in late. After he is asleep, Dana drops a repentant kiss on Scott's forehead.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

Neither Scott nor Dana referred to the quarrel—their first serious one—next evening. Both were secretly ashamed of it.

A week later it was as though the episode had never taken place. But a slight film of doubt had settled over the faith that had been like shining armor, protecting Dana. Scott, too, had received a jolt in the realization that Dana was not the one perfect person in a world of imperfect beings.

For almost a month Paula left them entirely alone. Paula was spending most of her time with the Richardsons these days. They were seen constantly together.

Dana believed Paula had finally given up her attempt to make Scott and Dana more "social-minded," had realized it was impossible for them to keep pace with a crowd that spent money as though it grew on bushes.

Most of the other couples in their crowd generally played bridge for not less than a twentieth. When Dana and Scott were present stakes were automatically lowered. Paula played bridge a great deal, lost consistently. Yet she was one of those who were bored when playing for low stakes.

Scott agreed this must be the reason that Paula had ignored them lately. "You mustn't worry if some of our friends desert," Scott said. "As a matter of fact, I'm turning into such a family man that I'm bored outside these four walls. Look what you've done to me in less than a year, Dana."

"Perhaps I should call Paula and ask her to drop in some night this week," Dana said. "Maybe she's offended over something."

"Suit yourself," Scott spoke shortly, "but I should think you would know there's no reason for her to be offended."

"Well, I won't then," Dana said. And was relieved over the decision, for some reason.

Ronnie's father died during the month. Dana and Scott sent flowers, and Dana wrote a note of condolence, receiving one from Ronnie in reply. Not long afterward, newspapers carried a story about the will.

Scott read the report. "It's hard to realize there's that much money in the world," he said. "Here we are stretching dollar bills and wondering where the rent is coming from, and Ronnie inherits $10,000,000."

He added thoughtfully, "Ronnie was pretty gone on you for a while, wasn't he?"

"For a while," Dana said lightly. "Ronnie fancied he had an awful crush, but you know how rich boys are. Some other girl comes along—"

"Or some man comes along," Scott said slowly, "and messes things up—"

"Scott, will you stop being an idiot!" Dana seated herself on the arm of his chair and rumpled his hair.

"I'm thinking what a different kind of life you would have had if you had married Ronnie," Scott answered thoughtfully. "No budgets. No computing living costs and wondering where you can cut some more. Just one long, luxurious fling!"

"You think that would be living?" There was scorn in Dana's voice. She added lightly, "Don't forget Ronnie didn't ask me. I'd have been an old maid, probably, if you hadn't come along."

"Yes you would!" Scott pulled her down into his arms, kissing her fiercely. Dana could feel his heart pounding.

"Why, Scott!" she whispered, with a shaky little laugh.

"I swear to you, honey, we'll come through," he said. "I'll prove to you I'm not just a big bust. Though, God knows, I feel that way at times."

"If you'll only just love me always," Dana said. "I'm a silly, sentimental girl. But I'm telling you the truth. That's all I want, darling."

In the days that followed Dr. Osborne dropped into Scott's office frequently. It happened often enough for the other doctors in the building to "perk up," as the shrewd young woman at the desk remarked to another physician's assistant.

"And, I'm here to tell you it means something when that self-sufficient medical king gets down from his throne and goes visiting another doctor."

"They do seem friendly," the other girl admitted.

"Friendly isn't the word. Dr. Osborne's positively chummy. If I know my onion soup, he suspects Dr. Stanley has something some of these other doctors don't have—and that's brains!"

Scott was pleased by the older doctor's visits, but refused to believe it held any significance beyond a spirit of friendliness.

Dr. Osborne had said, on his last visit, "There's a small room that's practically empty adjoining my suite, Stanley. If the time comes when you feel cramped for space, I'd be glad to open it up for you."

Scott realized the offer was being made gratis. He expressed his appreciation, but refused. The time wouldn't come when he wanted to be under obligations to anyone. Scott wanted to be a free man and you couldn't do that and be accepting favors.

On another occasion they met outside the building, and the older physician stood for a moment talking pleasantly before climbing into his car. He was discussing the case of a nationally known physician who had died recently.

"That's the trouble with this profession," Dr. Osborne said. "Day in and out we drive ourselves, as though we were made of iron. Thinking there's no end to our vitality and endurance. Though, heaven knows, we say plenty to the other fellow. And then, finally, we come down with one of the wear-and-tear diseases and pass out of the picture."

He added thoughtfully, "Every physician should have an able man associated with him to share the responsibilities and burdens. But lots of us go it alone with disastrous results."

Scott watched him walk away. Dr. Osborne's shoulders sagged slightly, as though he were weary. The old chap must be all of 60. And it must be true that his enormous practice was proving a strain.

Of course Dr. Osborne was still a good man, a brilliant man. But the day must come when his surgical skill must fail. That was life. Lessened vitality takes a toll from even the best of men.

It was a gloomy thought. Scott didn't like to think the time would ever come when he would be counted out and have to take a back seat in the profession. But then when one person dropped out it made room for some other fellow who was entitled to have his inning in the game.

Suddenly a feeling of pure elation surged through Scott.

Perhaps it didn't mean anything. He wouldn't allow himself to believe it did. But what a break for some fellow if Dr. Osborne should take him into partnership. What a break for himself and Dana if that fellow should be Scott Stanley! It was, of course, a pipe dream, but the thought kept coming back. If only it should happen—

The summer days waned, and no part of Scott's dream came true.

Dr. Osborne and his wife went for an ocean cruise. Other doctors and their wives took vacations in the mountains or at the seaside. Paula and most of her crowd departed during the worst part of the heat and came back looking tanned from weeks of outdoor life.

But, though Paula had a deep coat of tan and chatted expansively about thrilling times, there had been no lifting of the shadows in her eyes.

Then came the day Dana was to remember as the blackest of her life—the day Scott was to remember as his most dismal. It was a day accompanied, appropriately, with hard, driving rain and ominous rumblings of thunder.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE New York reunion of the Hyde Park and Oyster Bay Roosevelts didn't promote pesce in the family.

Alice and Teddy resented the suggestions of the President and Mayor LaGuardia that their father would bless the new philosophy if he were still alive. Teddy grumbled that "most of them now praising him (T. R.) were on the other side during his fights." Teddy showed how he felt when he arose to speak. He failed to include "Mister President" in his opening salutation. Then he spoke with his back toward the nation's head man. A deep flush suffused the presidential countenance.

A secret feud has existed between the families for years—social as well as political. It began long before T. R. laid the family's claim to fame. As landed proprietors, the President's family looked down on the Oyster Bay branch, who made their money in trade. Political warfare has sharpened the feelings all around. Friends say FDR's deepest ambition is to leave a more permanent imprint on history than T. R. did.

IRKSOME: The two political generalissimos—Jim Farley and Henry Fletcher—have teamed up in a quiet move to keep the 1936 campaign free of the back-stage whispers which have marked so many presidential contests in recent years.

Chairman Fletcher acted immediately when he learned that the "Republican National council" of New York was distributing envelope stickers defaming President and Mrs. Roosevelt. He asked New York National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles to investigate the sponsors. Mr. Hilles reported that none of the names listed on the council's literature was known to responsible Republicans. They didn't have bona fide addresses or telephone listings.

Then Reps. Bolton and Bacon of the G.O.P. Congressional committee disavowed the "council." Two days later Mr. Farley's solicitor general ruled that three of the stickers were clearly objectionable and unmailable under the law. But in his official opinion he made no reference to the "Republican National council." What irks Mr. Fletcher is that a certain press association first attributed distribution of the stickers to the "Republican National committee."

PENSIONS: If World War veterans launch a drive for pensions-for-all when and if the bonus is paid they will be begging in astronomical figures—from $3,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000.

Veterans' Administration mathematicians' studies reveal that peak demands are always voiced in times of depression, that peak costs come under Democratic Presidents Monroe, Jackson, Cleveland, Wilson, and perhaps FDR. They attribute the phenomenon to the fact that depression always follows a war, and Democratic presidents are usually elected in days of depression.

They also learn that the veterans have cut down the waiting time for pensions war by war. The years which elapsed between the year's ending and the grant of general pensions for the various conflicts follow: Revolutionary, 35; War of 1812, 59; Civil war, 25; Spanish-American, 21; World war—bonus payment in 1936, or 18 years. If the bonus could be staved off till 1945, it is figured the move for further liberalization would not begin until 1950. Payment now may mean the movement for permanent monthly allowances will start 10 years earlier.

PRECAUTIONS: Only once before has President Roosevelt been so well protected by the secret service and local police as he was on his recent Newark-New York trip. The previous occasion was his return to New York after the Miami shooting which cost the life of Mayor Cermak of Chicago.

Mounted policemen rode closely and slowly along the sidewalks as the President was driven through Newark. They were so painstaking that several times their horses reared in the faces of reporters in the White House party. New York's finest were lined up in striking formation as the Chief Executive was escorted down Eighth Avenue. Twelve to a block from the Roosevelt Memorial to Pennsylvania Avenue Station, they stood at the curb with their backs to the procession. Their eyes roamed the sidewalks and the windows.

The threatening letters from a prominent New York who blamed his losses on the New Deal accounted for the unusual methods. Secret service always resort to extraordinary precautions in a period of economic turbulence. The White House detachment—police and S. S. men—keep a sharp lookout these days on strangers dropping into the executive offices.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORK Republican backstagers have been making a careful survey of Borah's chances. Their best estimates indicate that the Idahoan will come to Cleveland with between 150 and 200 delegates sewed up. That isn't a very high percentage of the total convention vote — but it might easily represent a troublesome balance of power. Inside opinion is divided as to whether to try to freeze out the Borah influence or to reach an understanding with Bill in advance.

Meanwhile the GOP ears-to-the-ground department learns that Tammany sentiment for a revolt against FDR is subsiding. Boss Dooling has just about persuaded the die-hards there's no percentage in it. Unless the Tiger undertakes at least passive resistance at the polls next November, Republican prospects for carrying New York State are not so hot.

Party strategists are currently planning to lay down their heaviest barrage—outside of New York—in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. The feeling is that these three must be captured if the elephant is to come home in front.

TOUGHEST: New York sharps were not surprised to find Anthony Eden—British foreign minister—toning down his former belligerent roar to a delicate coo at Geneva a few days ago. Comment runs that the situation is so bad even Anthony had to turn realist.

Insiders get word that the most vital Anglo-French problem at present is how to save Mussolini—not how to punish him. His agents have talked up the red menace so skillfully that conservatives in London and Paris are badly jittered and insistent that a quick solution to protect his regime must be found.

Our prophecy that Italy will get a substantial slice of Ethiopia plus credits with which to cure her economic anaemia at home and to exploit her new possessions abroad still holds good. Britain and France are likely to find their toughest chore—not in getting Il Duce or even Haile Selassie to agree to a settlement — but in persuading indignant and nervous smaller powers that Italy is entitled to the League's blessing on her acquisition of another nation's property.

SIDELIGHTS: Mayor LaGuardia made a much stronger pro-New Deal speech at the dedication of the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial in New York than did FDR himself. . . . Republicans will pointedly ask—in view of balanced budget talk—why there are no reductions whatever in the appropriations for regular departments. . . . Appointment of William O. Douglas to the SEC was very popular inside the organization.

Trimble Services Are This Morning

Funeral services will be read at 10:30 o'clock this morning at Broadway Church of Christ for Isaac G. Trimble, 85, who died Friday morning at his 1947 Texas avenue residence. John T. Smith and Liff Sanders will officiate, and burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery, directed by Sanders Funeral home.

A Confederate veteran, Mr. Trimble died on his birthday of pneumonia and a heart complication.

Became Ill Tuesday

Mr. Trimble, who followed his trade as an interior decorator as recently as within the past month, became ill Tuesday night.

Born in Arkansas and named for Issac Trimble who later was a Confederate officer, Mr. Trimble was a son of a federal judge. Too young to enter the Confederate army through the usual channels, he stole away to enter the army during the last year of the war.

Mr. Trimble had lived in Lockney and in Canyon, going from Canyon to Portales, N. M., in 1902. He came here Sept. 13, 1913.

Survivors are Mrs. Trimble, who has been a victim of paralysis about a year; two daughters, Miss Thelma Trimble of Lubbock and Mrs. Estelle Reagon, Santa Ana, Calif., and one son, R. M. Trimble, Los Angeles, and three step-daughters, Mrs. J. E. Brown, Abernathy; Mrs. Maud Smith of Portales, and Mrs. Minnie Harper of Dallas. A son, W. W. Trimble, died last May.

Mr. and Mrs. Trimble observed their golden wedding anniversary Feb. 11, 1929. Mr. Trimble was a member of the Church of Christ.

TARZAN AND THE FIRE GODS. No. 108 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Weary, hungry, and fearing that they might be pursued by the fanatic Baalites, the three fugitives trudged on in their vain search for the exit from the crater. Suddenly Jerry stopped. "Look! Down there is the forest! Now we can eat. They're deer!"

"Goats," Arbela corrected. "The South Canaanites have goats." "South Canaanites," Lady Beth repeated; "are they the warrior tribe you told me about?" Arbela nodded. "Yes; and their men are brave and very beautiful, even if they are a bit rough."

"Anyway, we have to eat," Jerry declared firmly; "so I'll go down and shoot a goat." "Perhaps," thought Lady Beth, having already seen a sample of Jerry's uncertain marksmanship. But the geologist set out confidently on the hunt, which was to lead to new perils.

While he crept awkwardly toward his quarry, a man roamed the opposite side of the forest in search of his goats which had strayed from their accustomed pastures. The man was Ekbal, South Canaanite warrior, stalwart and stern, to whom all strangers were enemies!

Woods In Post For Addresses

State Superintendent Speaks Three Times Friday; County Student Convocation Held; Lubbock Men Attend

POST, Jan. 24. (Special) — An address before 150 teachers and trustees of several counties tonight in the gymnasium of Post High school concluded a series of three talks made here today by State Superintendent of Public Instruction L. A. Woods.

At a county-wide gathering of Garza county students at 2:30 o'clock and after Texas songs had been sung by the assemblage, the superintendent spoke. Later he addressed teachers and trustees.

Banquet Is Served

The night program included music by the high school band and introduction by Ivy Witt, Post superintendent, of County Superintendent Dean Robinson, who introduced school principals who, in turn, presented members of their faculties and school boards. A banquet was served by the home economics department of the school.

Woods spoke on "Essentials of Education," explaining education's dual purpose should be to teach students "how to live and how to make a living."

LUBBOCK MEN ATTEND

G. D. Holbrook, deputy state superintendent for this district of 16 counties, and Joseph R. Griggs, Lubbock county school superintendent, both of Lubbock, attended the banquet program.

Talmadge

Mr. Roosevelt. By an unusual coincidence, the showdown was reached on the eve of the dinner in which league spokesmen are to blast away at the New Deal.

No Effect On Speeches

There was little or no expectation tonight, however, that the fact of another veto in the face of a defiant congress would have any substantial effect on the speeches.

Alfred E. Smith was believed here to be planning a merciless criticism of Roosevelt policies as un-American and un-Democratic, possibly making a declaration of political independence.

The Smith speech is to be broadcast over all Columbia stations from 10 to 11 p. m., Eastern standard time. League headquarters estimated applications for dinner seats exceeded 9,000. Only 2,000 can be accommodated.

CHILD RECOVERS

Margent Hurst, about 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hurst of Muleshoe, will be dismissed today from West Texas hospital, where he was admitted nine days before for treatment of pneumonia.

Due to the fact that the legs of an elephant are like supporting columns, there is no stress when the animal stands.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 24. (AP)—Foreign exchanges furnished the principal inflationary excitement in today's financial markets.

While stocks milled about in irregular areas, and bonds, grains and cotton were mixed or lower, the British pound jumped above the $5 mark for the first time since the fall of 1934. The French franc and other gold currencies exhibited equal strength.

Securities and commodities traders apparently were highly confused by conflicting rumors regarding the government's monetary intentions.

So far as gold and silver rumblings were concerned, Wall street noted that President Roosevelt, at his press conference, had no comment to make that would throw light on the question. Also he would say nothing about the gossip having to do with the return to a "free gold" market.

The stock market turnover of 2,557,932 shares was some 400,000 under yesterday's total. The Associated Press average of 60 selected issues registered a decline of .3 of a point to 56.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 24. (AP) — Cotton broke from 50 cents to a dollar a bale at the opening of trading on the market today, a loss that was only partially recovered by the end of dealings.

The opening decline was attributed to the over-night announcement from Washington that the substitute bill for the AAA had run into a snag in the senate agricultural committee and been sent back to the agricultural department.

Near months sagged in sympathy. In late dealings profit taking and short covering on the drop brought options up a little from their lows, but the market ended from 7 to 18 points lower. March finished at 11.32, May at 11.02, July at 10.71, and Oct. at 10.28. Spots followed futures lower with middling at New Orleans losing 13 points on sales of 2,130 bales.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 24. (AP)—Unsettled by uncertainty over the agricultural adjustment program, cotton broke sharply early today, particularly on new crop months.

Later rallies of 4 to 7 points left the market steady at the close at net declines of 7 to 24 points.

Active months were off 11 to 28 points at the lowest under liquidation, local and foreign selling on overnight reports that the senate agricultural subcommittee had decided to have proposed farm legislation re-drafted.

Trading in the current January position ended at noon with the last sale of 11.75, or about 40 points over March.

NEW ORLEANS—Cotton News Bureau Observer: The cotton trade is far out at sea because of the tangle in farm legislation. It is difficult for even the best informed to forecast the next development. To all appearances Washington is divided into two camps, that is those who want a new farm measure regardless of its constitutionality and those who want only a measure which will stand before the courts. One of the latest advises is that the farm conservation act is being revised so as to provide for 48 little triple A's as that is one for each state. Those who know the south know that the human mind is not capable of devising a legislative measure controlling the production of cotton which would be acceptable to the people of all of the cotton states. What one state might accept another would reject. This was the case when acreage reduction was before the legislatures of the cotton states.

LIVERPOOL cables: General selling in the cotton market on the rejection of substitute AAA plan weakness of the dollar and poor offtake. Market very unsettled.

Norman Mayer and Co. wires: Senate committee action on acreage control bill makes it questionable as to whether there will be controlled acreage this coming session but believe any setback will be temporary unless there are unfavorable developments on 12 cent loan cotton.

Men Pave Back Relief Cash From Works Progress Wages

CHICAGO, Jan. 24. (AP) — Anton Rodney is working now, but that's only half the story.

From his Works Progress administration wages of $55 a month he announced he would pay in full the $131.18 he received intermittently during a two year period from Illinois emergency relief commission.

"I was treated swell when I was on relief," he wrote Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the commission, "so now I want to give something every pay day.

"I know that no one owes me a living."

Farm Bill

parity prices through a further cheapening of the dollar.

3. The house, without a dissenting vote, declined to appropriate funds to enforce the potato control act.

4. The house passed the deficiency appropriation bill with an amendment carrying $296,185,000 to pay farmers as a "moral obligation" for carrying out acreage reduction contracts entered into prior to the supreme court decision invalidating the AAA.

5. Senator Smith said southern senators had agreed to draft legislation calling for systematic feeding of government-controlled cotton into trade channels, with proceeds in excess of the 12-cent loans and clearing charges going to producers.

No Recommendations

6. The agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, met with farm organization leaders, but made no recommendations. The committee will report to chamber directors next week.

7. Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, after appearing before the house agriculture committee, said the permanent farm plan yet to be mapped out should not be called "48 little AAA's" because "we already have the machinery out there for cooperative action."

Davis said he had "never seen anything in the Hoosac mills (AAA) decision that says to prevent soil erosion and build up the soil is unconstitutional. There is no question in my mind of the constitutionality of the soil erosion act." It is this act which the Jones-Bankhead bill would amend by tacking on the two-year subsidy plan.

Representatives Dockweiler (D-Calif) and Pettengill (D-Ind) objected to appropriating so large a sum as $296,185,000 to discharge existing AAA contracts with only five minutes time permitted for consideration under the five-minute rule governing action on amendments, but this had no effect. Chairman Jones of the agriculture committee, who offered the amendment, said speed was essential and some checks already had been made out.

Program Is Given

Miss Madalene Ely, music teacher in the Muleshoe school system, sang two numbers. Glenn Rockey, Tech student, was her accompanist.

William G. Kennedy, member of county farm association, welcomed the visitors to Muleshoe, expressing the hope that as guests they would feel at home. J. E. Wheelock, Silverton, responded.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech, Lubbock, gave the principal address of the day.

Pointing out the advantages of a standard type of bird for the market, he suggested a smaller weight bird for the average working family. He praised the association's program and its progress, which he termed sound.

A. B. Tarwater, Runningwater, state representative, spoke on the advantages of marketing of turkeys, and other farm products, cooperatively.

Representatives Introduced

Roy B. Davis, Plainview, regent of Texas A. & M. spoke briefly as did Ray C. Mowery, acting animal husbandry department head at Texas Tech; George P. McCarty; H. M. Bainer, Amarillo, Santa Fe general agricultural agent; J. E. Adams, Bailey county judge; Cliff H. Day, Plainview, cotton advisory board member and Mrs. W. G. Kennedy, president of the county council.

From Lubbock county besides the speakers were: Mr. and Mrs. William Yoxtheimer, Idalou, and Mrs. John Harris, Idalou; County Agent C. C. Jobson and Charles A. King, assistant.

Cold Wave

had died in 16 states from causes traceable directly or indirectly to three days of abnormal frigidity.

Snow was forecast all the way to the Atlantic seaboard. Meteorologists said it would be followed by "unusual cold" in the north central states no later than Sunday.

Portions of six major Pennsylvania highways were still blocked. Rescuers cut through mountainous drifts to reach 16 pupils who had been imprisoned in a farm house near Jennerstown for two days.

Fires brought death to 18 persons in Maryland, New York, West Virginia, Kansas, Missouri and Newfoundland.

THIS WAS SURPRISE!

Mayor Ross Edwards' 1935 light coupe was stolen from his garage at 1319 Fourteenth street Friday night—but the mayor and the Lubbock police knew nothing about it until Gus White, Dawson county sheriff, telephoned he had the automobile and had jailed a man suspected of taking it.

"Lelanda Jayne" Mast's Curves Are Adjudged Best In Revue Last Night

The judges—an audience full of 'em—couldn't get around the built-up curves of a delicate platinum blonde, "Lelanda Jayne" Mast, and Miss Avalanche-Journal won first honor and a cup of sorts Friday night in one of the most fantastic bathing revues ever conducted.

The billing—which provided for an all-male revue—gave bare indication of what the startled audience was to see.

Trim As A Canoe

There was Miss Mast, for instance, trim as an outrigger canoe, in curls, brassiere and step-ins; Morris Burchfield of Tech, representing Hilton hotel, presumably wore shorts under what must have been designed to be one of the seven veils; Riley Hule and J. A. Stinson were twin laughs under bonnets and parasols.

One guy came out in a barrel. Several bedecked their loins in odds and ends, leaving a Smith brothers aspect to their genuine chests. Cotton packing and pillows more generously were used than covering.

Burchfield won second place, the twins third. Forty-eight entries were in the revue, which showed at Palace theater twice during the evening as a benefit for the defective eyesight committee of the Lions club.

Veto History Of Bonus Given

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP) — Here is a "veto" history of bonus legislation:

1922—Warren G. Harding:
"Though undying gratitude is the meed . . . it is not to be said that a material bestowal is an obligation."

1924—Calvin Coolidge:
"There is no moral justification for it."

1931—Herbert Hoover:
"The bonus act (for payment in 1945) was passed . . . upon the explicit understanding . . . that the matter was closed."

1935—Franklin D. Roosevelt.
"The (nation's) credit is safe but it can not ultimately be safe if we engage in a policy of yielding to each and all . . . groups."

1936—Franklin D. Roosevelt:
"I respectfully refer the members of the senate and of the house . . . to every word of what I said then (in 1935)."

Last Respects Paid To King

British People March Through Cold, Fog And Darkness To Bier; Royal Family Also Pays Visit Friday

LONDON, Jan. 24. (AP)—The British people marched through cold, fog and darkness tonight to keep their last respects to King George.

Despite a chilling wind they came in throngs to Westminster hall where the dead monarch lies in state to walk swiftly past the catafalque.

Rare Scene

The late king's subjects presented a scene rare in British history. It appeared that the entire nation was moving like pilgrims towards a single spot.

Sorrowing citizens came through the streets in solid phalanxes, sometimes filling the roadway from curb to curb.

The only break in the continuous public pilgrimage to the catafalque was at 6 p. m., then the hall was cleared as King Edward, the widowed Queen Mother Mary and other members of the royal family came for 15 minutes of silent tribute. Their visit, to gaze upon the face of the dead king, was unexpected.

It was officially announced that a two minute silence is to be observed throughout the kingdom beginning at 1:30 p. m. (7:30 a. m. Central standard time) Tuesday, the day the king will be buried at Windsor.

To Synchronize Clocks

Local authorities were asked to arrange beforehand to synchronize all public clocks with the Greenwich signal.

Outside the houses of parliament tonight the mourners formed a waiting line 10 deep.

They waited patiently, although it was obvious that thousands of them had no chance of entering the hall before closing time.

House Thunders Disapproval Of President's Veto; Senate Likewise Is Expected To Override Monday

magnitude would in itself and by itself alone warrant disapproval of this measure."

Vote To Override

In the senate, Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the finance committee who plays a key role in the bonus dramas, said flatly:

"It is my opinion that the veto will not be sustained. I shall vote to sustain the veto."

Senator Clark (D-Mo) added that no more than a score of senators would vote to sustain.

This statement came from Senator Steiwer (R-Ore), one of the authors of the bill:

"This colorless message is not in keeping with the vigorous effort which the president puts forth when he earnestly desires to influence the actions of congress. By its absence of appealing force it is an invitation to Democrats to go ahead and vote for the bill."

The house action today was taken almost literally in a matter of minutes.

Only 257 Needed

With a two thirds vote of members necessary to defeat the veto, only 257 tallies would have been needed. Democratic chieftains made no attempt to keep the total below that figure in the face of what appeared an overwhelming demand for giving former soldiers the full value of their adjusted service certificates now—five years ahead of the maturity date.

Word that the veto was on the way reached the capitol only 15 minutes before the house convened at noon.

So secretive had the president been about his intentions that hardly an hour before the message actually was sent to the house he smilingly parried all queries at his press conference as to his intended course.

Shout For Vote

As enthusiastic as a bunch of school boys at a picnic, the house received the veto. "Vote, vote," members shouted at the conclusion of its reading.

A chorus of "noes" rang out as the Democratic leader, Representative Bankhead of Alabama, sought to stay the balloting until Monday. His motion was downed by a 189 to 131 standing vote.

The vote to override compared with that of 322 to 98 by which the house turned back the veto of the Patman bonus bill last spring almost before the president had left the capitol.

Today the president told the house that the new bonus bill differed from last session's in two important respects only:

Unsecured Paper Eliminated

"First, it eliminates the issuance of unsecured paper currency to make the payments required and substitutes interest bearing bonds, which, however, may be converted into cash for face value at any time; second, it adds $263,000,000 to the total payments by fortifying interest after Oct. 1, 1931, on amounts borrowed."

In all other phases, he added, "the circumstances, arguments and facts" remained "essentially the same as those fully covered and explained by me only eight months ago."

Then the president referred congress "to every word of what I said then."

"My convictions are as impelling today as they were then," he said. "Therefore I cannot change them."

Margin Boost

securities exchange act, said he had not been informed of the action, and professed complete surprise.

The act gives no responsibility to the securities commission relative to margins, but it was said that previously such regulations had been discussed with its members.

It was only a little over two months ago that Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the reserve board, said publicly the stock market was in a sound condition because the bulk of stock purchases were cash transactions.

Speculation Caused

Some financial observers wondered whether the board felt developments since that time, with an increase of some $200,000,000 in brokers' loans, might have had implications unwelcomed by officials here and that steps should be taken to stop a potential boom.

The board's statement had nothing to say relative to the reason for its action.

It simply disclosed that regulation, the board's label for the margin rules, had been amended, and a supplement to it issued.

"The supplement approved today provides that the maximum loan value of registered securities," the board said, "(other than exempted securities) shall be 45 per cent (instead of 55 per cent) of the current market value of the security in those cases in which this amount is greater than the lowest market price of the security during the prescribed base period."

Delbert Green Lives Again After Reprieve Is Granted

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 24. (AP)— Delbert Green lived today — upon his fourth respite from death before a firing squad, for the slaying of three persons, his young wife, his mother-in-law and an uncle, six years ago.

Green was granted a reprieve until Feb. 15 by Gov. Henry H. Blood only a few hours before he was to face the firing squad at dawn.

"This reprieve is granted," said the governor, "because an appeal is pending before the state supreme court involving the constitutional rights of the condemned man."

Jurors Study Play Effects

Even The Judge Chuckled As Mae West's Business Manager Offered His Play Before Court Officials

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (AP) — Jurors who laughed at the courtroom premiere of "Ladies By Request," a farce presented by James A. Timony, Mae West's business manager, listened today to opposing critics of the play.

"Indecent," charged the prosecution. "Those kisses," asserted Deputy City Attorney Robert Anderson, "were much too long."

"Amusing," countered the defense. "Not naughty."

FOUND INNOCENT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24. (AP)—Puffy Jim Timony, Mae West's business manager and 11 players were found innocent late today by a municipal court jury of charges that they presented an indecent show.

Four hours were required by the 11 housewives and one man to reach a verdict on the play, "Ladies By Request," of which Timony was author-producer.

In the jury room, stage No. 8, for the farce, the jurors studied its lines carefully.

Jury To Decide

The jury of 11 housewives and one man will decide after completion of final arguments today.

All three acts of the bedroom comedy were presented line by line and kiss by kiss while the jury and Judge Leo Aggeler chuckled. The dialogue drew only silence the day before when read by a court stenographer.

Timony insisted the jury should see for itself the scenes that allegedly made police vice raiders blush.

Capacity Audience

There was a capacity audience and scores of would-be spectators had to be content with hearing through the transom what they could of such quips as:

"So you're my husband's grand passion.

"Well, I certainly am not his grand piano."

"No, but you like the way he plays."

"That type of man can't give you anything but love."

"Well, that's plenty."

"I thought your husband was here."

"He is, if he hasn't already made a bee line for his train."

"When a man makes a bee line, you may be sure he's after a little honey."

Timony told the jury the play was presented at a benefit before Christmas for members of the Hollywood Lutheran church, next door to the Hollytown theater where it was raided Dec. 30.

Judge Ponders Case Of Girl

Jurist Compliments Ann Cooper Hewitt On Bearing As Witness; Says Decision Will Be Given Tuesday

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24. (AP)—A judge who complimented Ann Cooper Hewitt on her bearing as a witness pondered today whether to issue criminal complaints against her mother and two doctors, accused by the 21-year-old heiress of duping her into a sterilization operation.

She testified she thought it was an appendectomy.

Asked if she would have consented to be sterilized had she been consulted, she retorted:

"Most certainly not!"

On Stand For Hour

The girl, rated at 11 years mentally by a psychiatrist, testified for almost an hour concerning the operation in 1934, the basis of her $500,000 damage suit against her mother, Mrs. Maryon Hewitt McCarter; the psychiatrist, Mrs. Mary Scally; the diagnostician, Dr. Tilton E. Tillman, and the surgeon, Dr. Samuel G. Boyd.

At the close of the hearing, Municipal Judge Sylvain J. Lazarus told Miss Hewitt:

"You are a wonderful witness. It isn't often we have people here who testify as clearly and intelligently as you have."

He said he would announce his decision next Tuesday.

Effectiveness Of Police Radio Demonstrated Here

Effectiveness of Lubbock's municipal short wave radio station in the capture of criminals was demonstrated yesterday.

C. L. Minor of Floydada at 2:30 p. m. Thursday reported to Police Recorder C. E. Luce that his automobile had been stolen at Floydada.

At 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, police received a telegram reporting that Minor's automobile had been recovered in Oklahoma City and a suspected thief arrested.

Clarence Rollo, chief operator, said the radio report of the theft either was picked up directly in Oklahoma City or had been delayed there.

"Your commissioners court will welcome a public hearing on this or any other matter pertaining to their duties. Although petitions have not been presented to the court yet, we are presuming they will be and a public hearing will be had by your court on this matter at its next regular meeting on Monday morning, Jan. 27, at 10 o'clock in the county court room."

All signers of the petition, and others, were invited by Judge Pitts to attend the meeting.

Fifty petitions asking the court to place Justices of the Peace J. T. Trigg and J. J. Dillard and Constable J. C. Roberts on salaries, rather than on fees as the court ordered Jan. 13, began circulation here last week. Soon afterward, petitions were offered at Slaton asking the same consideration for Justice of the Peace Horace Smith and Constable Ragan Reed.

Gas Chamber Claims First

Young Negro Protests Innocence Before Walking Into North Carolina's New Lethal Gas Chamber

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 24. (AP)—A stocky young negro protested his innocence today before walking into North Carolina's new lethal gas execution chamber to become its first human victim.

The youth, Allen Foster, 20, was convicted of criminally attacking a white woman a few months ago.

Aware that his death was scheduled before noon today, Foster insisted:

"There ain't no use of my talking to a preacher. I can tell the Lord I ain't guilty as good as I can tell it to a preacher."

The death chamber, a hermetically sealed room of spotless white, was completed only a few months ago. It is a septangular structure with a long glass window to permit witnesses to view the executions.

Whether the chamber, with its hydro-cyannic gas, provides a painless death was doubted today by Warden H. H. Honeycutt. Two dogs which were killed in it during a test let out loud yelps before they died. Medical authorities, however, said the dogs barked from fright.

Martin Dies Declares He Is To Seek Same Congress Seat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP) — Representative Martin Dies of Orange, Texas, announced today he had decided to seek re-election from the second Texas congressional district instead of entering the senatorial race against Senator Morris Sheppard of Texarkana.

"I simply do not have enough money to make the other race and I won't campaign on other people's money," the Texan said. "My platform will include more strict regulations on immigration and some form of a domestic allotment system combined with soil conservation as a remedy for the farm situation created by the invalidation of AAA."

Dies had been considering for more than a year an attempts to unseat Texas' senior senator and other Texas house members had considered him one of Sheppard's most formidable likely opponents.

The red racer, fastest of all American snakes, can go only 3.6 miles an hour.
