Hall Expresses Keen Sorrow In Spoils Plan

Republican Party Faithfuls Advised Of Serious Effort

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 - UP - Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall expressed keen disappointment Friday at being unable to find more government jobs for the party faithful.

But he assured members of the Republican national committee, who are meeting here to lay the groundwork for the 1954 congressional campaign, that he would go on doing his best to replace Democrat holdovers with good Republicans.

He said President Eisenhower is aware of the problem and "keenly wants more and more loyal Republicans in the policy-making posts of the federal service."

"I am at liberty to give you every assurance of my wholehearted co-operation in this," Hall said in a speech prepared for delivery at a morning session of the committee.

He urged committee members to shed "as little heat and as much light" as possible in explaining to Republican job-seekers that every effort is being exerted to rid the federal service of "bad Deal politicians and scoundrels."

Except for a speech and pep talks, the committee had only routine business to transact Friday. The climax will come Friday when the Republicans will stage their $1.50 Lincoln Day box supper at Uline arena with the President and Mrs. Eisenhower as guests of honor.

Mr. Eisenhower will make a brief informal speech, as will several other Republican dignitaries. President Richard M. Nixon was listed as the principal speaker at a luncheon meeting of the national committee.

Thursday, the finance committee approved a record-breaking budget of $1.2 million for the 1954 congressional campaign. This compares with $1,000,000 budgeted in 1953, the last off-year election, and $2.5 million in the presidential election year of 1952.

Probe Opens On Schools

SAN DIEGO, Tex., Feb. 5 - UP - A Duval county grand jury resumes an apparent investigation into one of the county's two independent school districts at 3 p. m. Friday, and District Attorney R. E. Burns said "six or eight" witnesses have been called.

Norris said he had heard "rumors" for some time about the district, the Bendix independent district. But Norris said no one had approached him about investigating it until state officials met with him earlier this week.

Assistant Attorney General Frank Pinesco, who was in the district, said the Bendix district had been in the grand jury. Another assistant attorney general, Willis Gresham, said some 100 vouchers totalling $87,464 have apparently been issued to persons who did not exist.

State officials have been investigating the use of public money in Duval county for a year, but the investigation was not made public until this week.

Passions Soid Pushing Frontier Toward Rhine

Woman Would Let Mad Dog Bite Her

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 - UP - Animal lover Irene Castle, onetime darling of the Broadway stage, Friday offered to let a mad dog bite her to save her four-footed friends from the pain and danger of a hypodermic needle.

The State of Illinois ordered every dog and cat in Chicago inoculated against rabies in an unprecedented step to halt an epidemic of the disease that has killed one child and seen several mass attacks by slavering dogs.

Meanwhile, dog pounds were filling up like Yale Bowl on an autumn Saturday and officials said they may have to start destroying strays in wholesale lots to make room for newcomers.

As humane society officials called for "calmness rather than hysteria," a farmer near Chicago telephoned the sheriff's office to report that he had shot both his dog and cat because of fear of rabies.

Miss Castle, who is now Mrs. George Ensinger and operates the famous "Orphans of the Storm" animal shelter at nearby Deerfield, Ill., said "inoculations would paralyze the hind legs of dogs."

She offered to put up $5,000 and challenged, "no one can prove that a person bitten by a rabid dog ever died as a result."

"She would most certainly die," said Chicago Health Board President Dr. Herman Bundesen.

"Well, why don't they let me do it, then," she answered.

Her statements about rabies were not supported by medical opinion. It is considered one of the most virulent of diseases, is always fatal after incubation and is accompanied by incredible suffering.

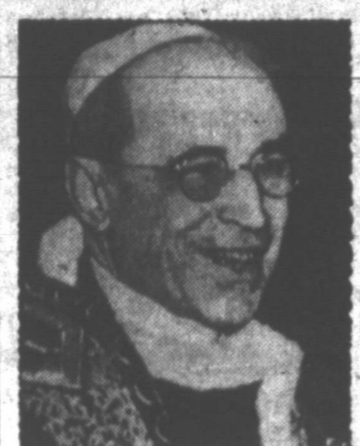

The international dancing favorite of past decades said she had been bitten about "three times a week" at her animal shelter, which she said took in average of 14,000 homeless dogs a year.

Ex-Con Admits Killing Male One Week Ago

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 5 - UP - The murder of a Riverside, Calif., woman was discovered Thursday night when a state trooper questioned an ex-convict in Ouachita national forest here about his automobile license plate.

William Caldwell, 32, told Trooper Glen Minton that he murdered his wife a week ago. A check with California officers failed at first to reveal the murder, but later they found the woman's body.

Minton became suspicious when he saw a license plate wired on a car in which two men were parked on the outskirts of this resort city.

POPE PIUS XII ... hiccupps gone

Pope's Condition Reported Weaker

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 5 - UP - The general condition of Pope Pius XII has weakened, the first official medical bulletin by his physician said Friday.

Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi - Lisi said the 77-year-old pontiff was suffering from the "symptoms of gastritis" and had a slight fever. He said the pope's condition was weakened because he has difficulty in taking nourishment.

The sources said the pope, weakened by a 12-day attack of gastritis, was suffering little pain. His nervous tension also was reported to have eased.

Vatican doctors said the pope's recovery had progressed at a rate beyond their expectations but they ordered the liquid diet continued for the sixth straight day.

An accident in the papal apartment Thursday led to a mushrooming of rumors that the pope's condition was deteriorating.

Sister Pasqualina, Lehnert, the pope's housekeeper, broke her leg in a fall and a physician outside the Vatican was summoned to the papal apartment.

Outsiders saw the doctor enter the Vatican.

It was not until Friday that authorities made a public announcement of Sister Pasqualina's misfortune.

The devoted nun, who has served the pope's meals throughout his 14-year reign, had been attending him night and day during the present illness.

Appears Slightly Weaker Vatican sources said the pope appeared slightly weaker Friday because of his confinement and long stays without food but they added there was "absolutely no cause for new alarm."

Newlyweds Think Cupid Is Jinxed

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Feb. 5 - UP - When their car broke down as Herman and Virginia Woodie drove from the church at Winters, Tex., where they were married last Nov. 4, they attached no particular significance to the incident.

DEFIES RABIES

Malabar Trial To Open Next Monday

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Feb. 5 - UP - The Malabar Farm trial will start Monday in Wichita Falls, Texas, after two postponements, but author Louis Bromfield probably will not be present.

Bromfield said he had to be in Sao Paulo, Brazil from Feb. 10 to March 10 for agricultural experiments in which he has an interest.

His attorneys, Roy Callahan and Larry Taylor, Thursday asked Judge Alan B. Haley for another continuance which was denied.

McCormack Flays Four-Cent Stamp

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 - UP - House Democratic whip John R. McCormack (Mass.) protested Friday that the Republican-sponsored four-cent stamp is "just another tax on the people."

He predicted that a "great majority" of Democrats will oppose it when it comes up for a vote in the House.

Republican leaders concede that there is "considerable opposition" among their own members and are wary of any attempts to predict the outcome.

The four-cent plan, a key provision of President Eisenhower's politically explosive request for a $250 million boost in postal rates, was approved by the House Post Office committee Thursday under intense administration pressure.

The vote was 13 to 2.

It provides for a penny increase - from three to four cents - on the first ounce of first class mail for out-of-town delivery. There would be no change in the 3-cent charge for "local mail."

Labor Heads Eye Lay-Offs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 - UP - The Labor Department disclosed Friday that 186,000 factory workers were laid off between mid-December and mid-January, the sharpest seasonal employment to 18,100,000, or 711,000 below January, 1953. Nevertheless, except for a year ago, it still was the highest level for January in the entire post-World War II period.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, made the disclosure to a Senate-House committee which is exploring economic prospects. The Census Bureau last week reported January unemployment at 3,389,000. However, Clague's report was the first statistical breakdown of manufacturing employment.

Called to Explain Figures Clague and officials of two other agencies were called to explain their methods of computing labor statistics.

Three committee Democrats challenged the administration's latest unemployment figures in advance of the hearing, hinting they think the total may be too low.

Pampans' House Destroyed By Blaze

Mrs. Rebecca Posey, 70, and her blind brother, Fred Lee Wilson, 69, were reported staying with neighbors today after their home at 301 S. Barnes was destroyed by fire late Thursday afternoon.

The couple lost all their clothes, furniture and other possessions in the blaze. Property damage resulting from the fire was estimated at $1,500 to $2,000. Both Mrs. Posey and Wilson escaped without serious injury.

Firemen, who received the alarm at 5:25 p. m., battled the flames for about an hour before the fire was brought under control, Chief Ernest Winborne stated.

British Vessel Aground On Reef

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 5 - UP - A 5,000-ton British freighter ran aground on a reef in the treacherous South China sea Friday and the 40-man crew abandoned ship in lifeboats.

The S. S. Fernmore reported to Globe Wireless by ship radio that it hit the jagged reef in uncharted waters about 50 miles west of Palawan island and north of Borneo.

"We are abandoning ship almost immediately," the Fernmore's master said. "Send planes. We are going off. We are taking to our lifeboats. Please keep a sharp lookout."

Kremlin Proposal Brings Reaction

BERLIN, Feb. 5 - UP - The United States Friday accused Russia of attempting, in the Big Four foreign ministers' conference, to push the Soviet-sphere frontier westward from the Elbe to the Rhine River.

That Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was told, was the West's reaction to the Kremlin blue print he presented Thursday for reuniting Germany.

Molotov, in Thursday's discouraging conference session, rejected the West's proposals for free all-German elections as a first step toward reuniting the divided country.

Instead, Molotov proposed formation of a provisional all-German government, before elections are held and withdrawal of all occupation troops prior to the elections.

This, the West said, would be the equivalent of an invitation to the Communists to gobble up all Germany.

The Western Big Three foreign ministers agreed, prior to the opening of Friday's formal conference session, to reject the Soviet "peace" and elections plan.

The three western foreign ministers held a noon meeting at the British high commissioner's residence to prepare their reply to Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov's German proposals.

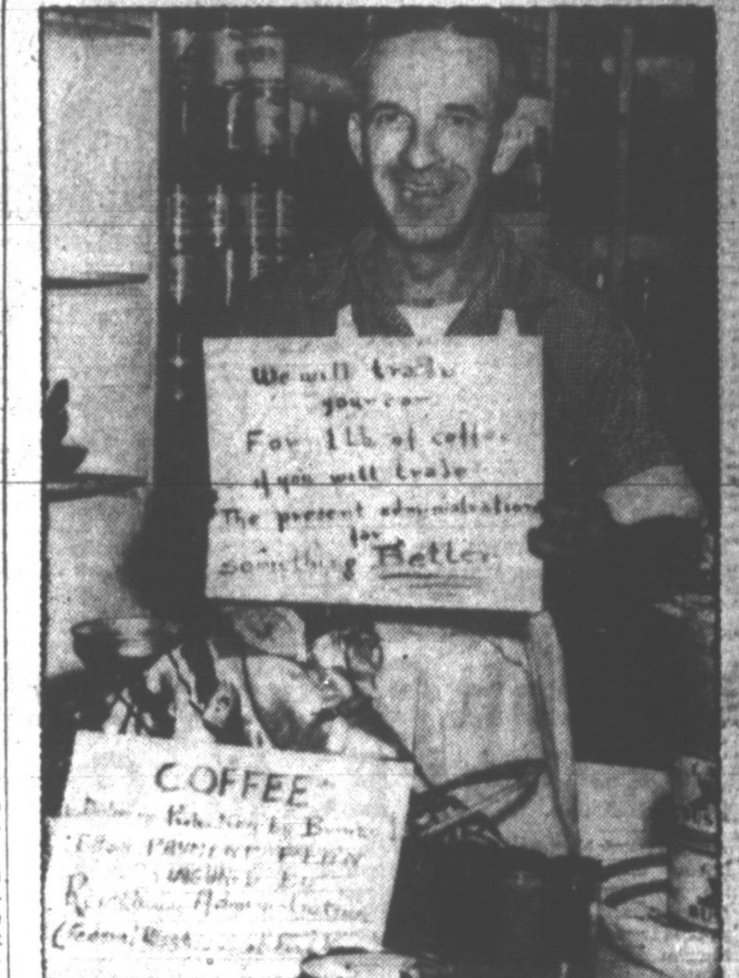

They agreed that: 1. The five-point plan put forward by Molotov Thursday is unacceptable in every way and must be rejected outright.

2. The East-West deadlock on Germany is so complete that there no longer is any hope of reaching agreement in the present conference on German unity or a peace treaty.

3. The West will refuse any face-saving device such as turning over the Molotov plan to experts for further discussion, if the Russians should make such a proposal.

Molotov's impossible demands and the West's refusal to consider them meant that the Big Four Foreign ministers' conference was all but dead.

A high conference source said the time had come for finding a graceful way to tell Molotov that further debate on German unification was useless at this time.

COFFEE FEUD - Washington grocer Carlos Garcia displays signs which are causing feud between him and law enforcement agencies. Law says signs are derogatory and illegal under local regulation, but Garcia demands to see regulation "in black and white."

Yank Flees Communists

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 5 - UP - John Hvasa, 26, American who fled a Czechoslovakian prison and eluded capture by the Communists for 21 months, left by plane Friday for London.

In London he will transfer to a plane bound for the United States, where he will rejoin his family in Hillsdale, N. J.

Hvasa came to Munich from Nuerberg Friday morning in a car with two State Department officials.

He was kept hidden here until plane time.

The two U.S. officials who accompanied Hvasa were identified as Nat King, counselor of the Prague embassy, and John D. Iama, first secretary.

Hvasa, born in Czechoslovakia and naturalized American, returned to Czechoslovakia in 1948 as a student. He worked for the U.S. consulate general in Bratislava for a brief period.

Arrested As 'Spy' He was arrested by the Czechs a short time afterwards, charged with espionage, and sentenced to three years imprisonment. Later this was extended to 10 years.

The youth escaped from Leopoldov prison near Bratislava Jan. 2, 1952, and evaded Czech security police for 21 months. He reached the U.S. embassy in Prague on Oct. 2, 1953.

"There are always secret police around the place," King said. "He waited until guard went up the street, then slipped in. We never asked him where he spent the previous 21 months. I personally thought he was dead, and no one in the embassy had ever expected to see him again."

MOD Drive Funds Nearing $12,000

With the contribution of $1,180.00 from McLean, turned in by L. K. Fuller, drive chairman there, the Gray County March of Dimes fund total had reached $11,796.47 today.

However, Mack Hiatt, finance chairman, stated that $11.75 more had been received during the campaign, but had been used for expenses. Fred Brook, city chairman, stated that the total drive expenses would reach $180.

A final campaign report will be made to the county association this month, "sometime after the 15th," Brook advised. Anything coming in after that will go directly to the county chapter. The drive is expected to top $12,000 this year, but "we don't know how much we will go over that figure," Brook stated.

Ol' Santa Receives A Valentine

Here's one for the book: A couple of Pampa kids sent Santa Claus St. Valentine's Day cards and enclosed a letter expressing their thanks for the "nice presents we got for Christmas."

"We picked out this Valentine ourselves especially for you because you are so nice. Be sure and don't forget the poor little boys and girls next year and if you can bring us a paint set please."

The grateful youngsters are Ricky and Larry Tarrant who live at 421 N. Dwight. The letter to Santa, mailed in care of The Pampa Daily News, said: "We want to thank you for all the nice presents we got for Christmas and Ricky Lee, the little boy across the street, got lots of presents too and so did our sister, Judy."

Panhandle's Oil Production Told

A total of 27,274,337 barrels of oil was produced from 8,387 oil wells in the Texas Panhandle during 1953.

There were 5,751 gas wells located in the Panhandle during the year and they produced a total of 981,822,608 million cubic feet of gas.

And a total of 82,077,978 million cubic feet came from 6,240 other wells producing unassigned gas.

Strict Curfew Laws Ordered

GALVESTON, Tex., Feb. 5 - UP - City commissioners ordered the drafting Friday of an ordinance establishing stricter curfews, after Police Commissioner Walter Johnson told them something had to be done to combat a wave of juvenile delinquency.

Johnson proposed a midnight curfew he made binding to all teenagers up to 18 years old.

He promised strict enforcement of the new ordinance, once it becomes law. The present Galveston curfew prohibits youths under 15 years of age on the streets after 11 p. m.

DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Feb. 5 - UP - A jolt of electricity ended the lives of a convicted murderer who died in Mississippi's portable electric chair early Friday while singing, "Jesus, Hold My Hand."

For two minutes after executioners placed a hood over the smiling face of the contrite gunman, Luther Carlyle Wheeler, the muffled words of the refrain arose wondrously from his figure strappd in the electric chair.

A first burst of current at 12:07 a. m. cut, silenced the words smiting from Wheeler's grotesque hood and five minutes later, after a long-er jolt, the 26-year-old typewriter repairman was pronounced dead.

Doomed Man Goes To Death With Fervent Hymn On Lips

Supreme Court justices to intervene delayed his own death with a long harangue of execution witnesses with his claim of innocence.

"May we all walk closer to God," Wheeler cried. "Regardless of when you die, whether a baby or an older person, don't die without God."

After his speech had extended four minutes beyond midnight a sheriff's deputy thrust the hood over Wheeler's face and the voice behind this mask broke into the tearful song.

Doomed Man Goes To Death With Fervent Hymn On Lips

Justice Hugo Black and Felix Frankfurter of the U.S. Supreme Court had refused one hour and 40 minutes earlier to order a stay of Wheeler's execution of the murder of two Hattiesburg policemen.

As Wheeler was led from a cell by a guard, he sang an enormous chicken dinner he spurned the shucked piece of Miss Elaine Foreman, his convicted girl friend accomplice, that he confess his crime.

"Baby, don't testify to people, testify to God," he shouted back to the pudgy Salt Lake City, Utah, woman, who was in another cell awaiting an appeal of her life sentence.

Doomed Man Goes To Death With Fervent Hymn On Lips

Miss Foreman testified as a state's witness that she witnessed eye-gum battle between Wheeler and the slain policeman, Jesse Everett and M. W. Vinson Jr., who had interrupted a burglary attempt.

Wheeler of Jacksonville, Fla., willed his personal effects to Miss Foreman.

News in Balance

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign News Editor

The week's balance sheet between the good and bad news in the hot and cold wars.

THE GOOD

1. Second secretary of the outlawed Soviet mission in Tokyo Yuri Rastvorov was disclosed to have asked and received asylum from United States forces in Japan on whom he formerly had spied. His surrender to democracy was regarded as particularly important because it is known that the post of second secretary in Russian embassies frequently is a disguise for a member of the Russian secret police of much higher rank than that which appears on the surface. U.S. officials preserved a strict silence, but it was believed Rastvorov could give a picture of the whole Red spy network in the Orient.

2. Yugoslavia brusquely rejected a "come home" plea from the Russian Cominform and said she would retain her ties of friendship with the West.

3. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault emerged as the Western hero of the Big Four conference. French public reaction to the progress of the conference had been watched closely by both East and West because on the French hangs the future of the European Defense Community. But Bidault, acting decisively and with apparent confidence in the strength of his position, has quashed all East attempts to woo him from his place of solidarity with the United States and Britain.

THE BAD

1. Russia lived up to expectations at the Big Four meeting. Molotov refused even to discuss the Western plan for all-German free elections and instead made the propaganda-laden proposal that Germans be asked to vote on whether they want a united Germany or permanent division and West German membership in the European Defense Community. Western delegations abandoned hope of settling the German problem at this session and were not much more hopeful of any good results when they finally got around to discussing the question of a peace treaty for Austria.

2. Despite earlier French announcements that they were launching the war's biggest offensive in Indochina, the facts seemed to be that the situation, from the Allied standpoint, was deteriorating. The Communist-led Viet Minh rebels retained the initiative and moved against the twin southern capitals of Luang Prabang and Vientiane against only rear-guard resistance. Of further concern were reports that some outposts were falling without a fight. Washington reports said Red China had stepped up its flow of supplies to the rebels.

3. Guatemala has been described as "the bridgehead of communism in Latin America." Last week the Communist-ruled general labor confederation held its second national congress at which its leader called for "international labor solidarity" — Moscow brand. Other causes for alarm have been secret arrests of opposition political leaders, threats to the free press and ouster of foreign newsmen on vague charges they had "defamed" Guatemala.

Veteran Correspondent Eyes Work At Berlin Conference

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the following dispatch, Henry Shapiro, veteran correspondent in Moscow and for many years manager of the United Press bureau in the Soviet capital, analyzes the work of the Berlin conference at the 10-day mark, and the outlook for the future sessions.

By HENRY SHAPIRO
BERLIN, Feb. 5 — UP — Although the decisive stage of the foreign ministers conference is still in process of development, it is already clear that it cannot immediately succeed in its major objective — settlement in Germany.

After 10 days and about forty hours of discussion there is little hope that agreement can be reached on any of the substantive proposals thus far submitted by either side.

Most observers here have reached the following tentative conclusions:

Big Five Meeting Unlikely

1. There will be no meeting of the big five, with participation of Communist China, to discuss world tensions. But such a conference, for limited discussion of the Korean and Indo-Chinese problems is still a possibility.

2. The three Western powers will not compromise in their opposition to Molotov's proposal to summon a world disarmament conference, independently of the United Nations.

3. No referendum on the Bonn and Paris agreement will be held in Germany, as the Russians proposed, nor will the Russians accept Anthony Eden's plan for free elections in all Germany to precede the formation of an all-German government.

Gulf Unchanged

The conference has failed to narrow the gulf that divides East and West. It has confirmed the pessimists' view that there has been no basic change in world power alignment which would compel compromise on vital issues or serious modification of strategy.

The "surprises" that some of the optimists have been expecting from the Russians have not been forthcoming. The fundamental issues have been so clearly defined by now, at least with respect to Germany, that there can no longer be any "surprise," short of capitulation.

It is only on the tactical and procedural aspects of the conference that a measure of success has been achieved. The prompt Western acceptance of Molotov's agenda enabled the ministers to get down to the core of the German problem with minimum delay.

Beds Favor Status Quo

It will be recalled that Moscow was not anxious to come to Berlin. A continuation of the status quo from the Elbe to the Yalu River would have been suited to the Kremlin's policy after Stalin's death. The primary concern of the Malenkov regime for the past year has been with internal development. The domestic economic program and the consolidation of political power could best be assured without international involvement.

The Western powers, however, were anxious to push Soviet intentions, to examine the possibilities that had arisen in connection with Russia's domestic "new look," and to get on with the organization of the European Defense Community. Their diplomacy was successful enough to get Molotov to the conference table.

They found Molotov much changed in manner and in self-assurance. His sense of humor has developed considerably.

He Decides Quicker

He is quicker in making decisions and more flexible in tactics in spite of the hard disagreements on practically everything that has come up at the conference so far, except for procedural matters. The nerves of the participants are probably better than they have been at any post-war conference.

The last word on Germany at this conference has, of course, not been heard.

But it appears now that the Soviet objective of perpetuating the status quo in Europe, will be in effect achieved. Germany will remain divided and Bidault will try his best, if he remains in office, to achieve ratification of the EDC.

New Glamour Girl Signed

By ALINE MOSSBY
HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5 — UP — It's the season for Hollywood studios to sign Audrey Hepburn-type beauties, and MGM came up with its version Friday, Finnish Dancer Taina Eiga.

Last year it was open hunting for Marilyn Monroe. But this year the film factories are following a recent Paris fashion for glamour girls to be "young, boyish and hot-eyed."

Like Audrey, Taina hails from Europe and started her career as a ballerina. And, also like the willowy Miss Hepburn, Taina was behind the door when the Jane Russell curves were passed out.

"Oooh, I get self-conscious when people talk about bosom," gurgled Taina as she wrapped a tent-like coat around her stilet figure.

"Sometimes I wear those pads when I dance ballet but otherwise, no."

It's been 30 years since MGM signed a Scandinavian, and the last one was the great Garbo. The studio press agents say Taina may be another Garbo, but the 23-year-old dancer still looks to me like another Hepburn.

Taina, born in Helsinki, danced with ballet companies and won a scholarship to Sadler Wells Ballet Company in London. Last year she was at a theatrical party in London when she met MGM producer Ed Knopf, and the rest, the studio hopes, will be cinema history.

Eight months ago she married a shipping company executive in Helsinki. He is coming to Hollywood soon and "is still a little bewildered about my going into the movies. I hope he can get a job here."

In Hollywood she has been taking dancing and acting lessons at MGM, sipping milkshakes, learning how to drive a car and assuring everybody that Taina Eiga is a name and her own, too.

"I will not change it," she said. "I am so used to it I can't imagine being called anything else. Everyone asks me how to pronounce it."

Maggie MacNamara, a star in "The Moon is Blue," is another actress that falls into the Taina category.

But before this new fashion the studios looked for over-stuffed beauties like Mrs. DeMaggio. MGM signed sultry Elaine Stewart, RKO signed England's Sara Lane and independent movie-makers hired, Clio Moore. Personal introduction to the girls, however, a Marlboro-Morris named Marie Van De-Home looks like Marilyn.

Macal Defense To Wind Up

EDINBURG, Tex., Feb. 5 — UP — Defense attorneys indicated they would wind up the case Friday in the trial of Jose Macal, 34, on charges of murdering Romaldo Garza.

Macal is a member of Starr county's "new party," and Garza was indicted by a Jim Wells county grand jury at Alice Wednesday on a charge of assault with intent to murder political boss George Parr.

The state wound up its case Thursday. The final state witness was Texas Ranger Joe Bridge, who was indicted by a Jim Wells county grand jury at Alice Wednesday on a charge of assault with intent to murder political boss George Parr.

Requesens said he was forced outside, where Macal fired two shots at him point-blank, but said that Macal was trembling so much that one bullet merely creased his trousers and the other passed between his arm and ribs without hitting him. He said Macal continued to pull the trigger after the two shots were fired, but no more bullets came from the gun.

The witness said a bystander told him, "You must be made of steel," and that Macal then drove away in an automobile.

Another witness testified late yesterday he was hiding behind a tree and saw Macal shoot Garza following the tavern argument.

The trial was transferred to Edinburg on a change of venue from Starr county.

The letter, Clapp said, came from the Santa Cruz street and a sewer superintendent and threatened to disconnect his sewer if he didn't pay a delinquent bill for $5.50.

Safety Award Is Given To Local New Car Dealer

The Culberson Chevrolet, Inc. of Pampa has received a Highway Safety Award in recognition of the part the firm is playing in the current school year by lending an automobile for high school driver training purposes.

The award was made by the Texas Automotive Dealers Association, the State's organization of factory authorized new car dealers.

Loan of the training car was to Pampa Independent School District in a program that each year is helping to turn out a constantly increasing number of high school students who are thoroughly versed in all phases of safe and courteous driving.

C. B. Smith, Austin, Safety Chairman, and E. J. Pennington, Galveston, President of the State Dealers Association, termed the driver training program one of the most significant developments in the field of safety in recent years.

"Our youths form the reservoir from which drivers of the future are drawn," they said, "and if we are to have safe highways it will be through their education in the proper handling of motor vehicles."

Nearly 300 members of the factory authorized new car dealers group received Safety Awards, according to Tom J. Crooks, Austin, Manager of the Association. Their participation in the driver training activity represents a loan of equipment each year valued at approximately $600,000, he said.

Tour Of FBI Shows Crime Doesn't Pay

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 —UP— Did you ever see a hair from your head under glass—magnified 17,500 times?
It's quite a sight. I subjected one of my best hairs to the performance during a visitor's tour of Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters.
The hair looked like a rope big enough to tie up the U.S. United States. It was a short hair, too.
A stroll through J. Edgar Hoover's workshop convinces most people that crime doesn't pay. Identification of hair is important in police work.
1500 Guns on Display
There are enough guns on display (1500) to start a small war, except they mostly are old ones.
Interesting to me was the death mask of John Dillinger and the hat he was wearing when FBI agents moved him down in Chicago over 20 years ago. Also his glasses and the gun he carried as he ducked down an alley after leaving the Biograph Theatre in Chicago one hot July night.
I saw the remains of the gangster lying still and harmless on a morgue slab that night, five slugs in his body.
Fingerprint Card Filed
There are copies of Dillinger's fingerprint card showing scars from the acid he poured on his hands in an effort to defy identification.
Maybe you will remember the awful saga of "Ma" Barker and her unholy brood of four sons she fetched up in sin. The sun she and her boys toted are there to be seen.
The guide on our tour said that the FBI has an awesome total of 125 million fingerprints filed. But these, he said, are so carefully indexed that in a jiffy a wanted criminal can be identified. Say the sheriff of Polk county, Iowa has a racial in tow. He can sit down at a telephone machine and "wire" the prints to Washington. The sheriff will know within the hour if he's holding the right character.
Tour Part of Training Week
The young men who point out things of interest during the walk down the long corridors are employees of the department. They go to night-school and one day may be government agents themselves. The tour is part of their training, too.
"It's even better than book-learning," one guide told me. "Even though we memorize a spiel, we learn something new every time we herd a crowd of visitors about the place."

Former Pampan's Funeral Today

Funeral services were scheduled for 3 p.m. today in Electra for R. G. (Dick) Donnelly, a former Pampan, who died Wednesday in Electra following a long illness. Mr. Donnelly and his family lived in Pampa from 1922 to 1944. He was a retired superintendent for the Texas Company. He is survived by two daughters, one of which is Mrs. Martell Peters of Ashland, Ore., who was a recent guest of Mrs. Frank Clegg in Pampa; another daughter in Hominy, Okla.; and one grandchild.

TMTS Members See Two Films

Two films — on biological warfare and protection against atomic attack — provided the featured part of the program for the February meeting of the Texas Medical Technological Society.
Get-together was held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Amarillo's Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, according to Emmett H. (Red) Mays, past society secretary.
Six of the 21 persons on hand for the affair — a business meeting, too — were from Pampa. They were Mays, Miss Ellen Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Cutting, Mrs. Naomi Bridges and Mrs. Payne Jackson. Two guests were Eddie Cleason and Carl Jenkins, both of Amarillo.
The society was formed more than a year ago in Pampa and is designed to include X-ray and laboratory technicians from over the state, though actually most of the members are from the Texas Panhandle.
Next meeting of the group is scheduled for March 4 in Pampa.

Guard Unit Gains Two Enlisted Men

Pampa's National Guard unit has two new men in its enlisted ranks. They are Pfc. Hershel L. Williams and Pvt. David L. Schaffer, both of Pampa.
The unit is also making plans for the visit of a communications officer from the 36th division who will lead a class in communications March 4 in the Court House.
At this week's drill meeting, during a special meeting of the section chiefs, headed by 2nd Lt. E. J. Roberts, it was decided to draw up a proposed plan of governing promotions and advancement of enlisted personnel.
During the meeting, the wire and motor sections were briefed in a course of map reading by WOJG Robert Wilson, and the radio section participated in code training under the supervision of Cpl. Thomas Battirel. Basic trainees were given a class in close order drill under the direction of M-Sgt. W. L. Williams.

Entries Complete For Spelling Bee

County Schools Superintendent E. R. Nuckols late this morning had all the entries for the county spelling bee that he expected to have. Latest to submit their entries were Junior High School and McLean. Nuckols said, pointing out that the annual Gray County Spelling Bee will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Kenneth Walters' English room (Room 102) in the Pampa High School.
Martha Gordon (eighth grade) and Linda Skewes (seventh grade) will be the entrants of the junior high school. From McLean will be Margie Rallsback (fourth grade), Julia Day (fifth), Barbara Croxton (sixth), Lester Sitter (seventh) and Molly Miller (eighth).
That completes the roster of county private and public schools that are expected to send entrants to the annual spell-down. Nuckols continued, adding that Grandview and Alameda have never entered the meet.
Other schools in the contest are Holy Souls Catholic School, Hopkins, Lefors and Pampa's five elementary schools.
Winner of the county spell-down will go to Amarillo for the High Plains Spelling Bee, scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Feb. 17 in the high school.

Bridge Project Is Progressing

The three contractors now on the job at the site of the proposed Canadian River bridge are progressing at a good pace.
And the bids on the bridge itself are scheduled to be opened Feb. 16 or 17 in the Austin office of the Texas Highway Department.
G. K. Reading, senior resident highway engineer, late this morning reported that the jetties are expected to be completed sometime next week.
As for the roadway leading up to the bridge, the base was finished Tuesday. Reading said, pointing out that the approaches job — grading, rip-rap protection, West Dugout Creek — could not be finished till April 1 because of the asphalt deadline.

Pump Station Fence Erected

That new fence around Pampa's Pump Station No. 2 in the southwest corner of Hobart St. Park today was up.
Street and park department personnel did the actual erecting, according to James Cowan, city director of public works, who added that the fence itself was purchased several months ago from the Cyclone Fence Company, Lubbock.
The City of Pampa could have had Cyclone put up the fence, but city officials saved money by having city employees do the work themselves.

Four Held For Forgery

Charges of forgery have been filed here against two of four men who have been arrested and similar charges expected to be filed today against the other two.
A fifth man was being held in the county jail here facing charges of swindling with a worthless check.
The forgery suspects are Bill Wells, 21; Guy Wells, 24; Robert Bradshaw, 26, and Thomas E. Cox, 29. Clio Prather, 28, is being held on the worthless check charge. Charges already have been filed against Bradshaw and Thomas.
The two Wells brothers and Prather were arrested Wednesday in Dumas and were taken to Amarillo, from where they were brought back to Pampa. The brothers are alleged to have forged checks here in the amount of $38.50.
Bradshaw, who already has been sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary in a trial in Memphis, was brought back to Pampa Thursday afternoon to stand trial on charges of forgery. Sheriff Rufe Jordan said that the suspect had forged two checks here for $60 each.
Cox, who is alleged to have forged five checks here, totaling about $450, was arrested Wednesday in Cassville, Mo., and probably will be returned here soon.

Baptists To Honor Boy Scout Week

Pampa's First Baptist Church will be host to the Boy Scouts of the congregation at the morning service Sunday in observance of National Boy Scout Week.
Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor, will preach the morning message after a week's absence. Special music will be provided by the choir, featuring Mrs. Floyd Hatchery as soloist. By special request of the congregation, Paul Biggs will present a vocal solo, "The Peary White City."
Monday the church will fetes its Boy Scout troops at a banquet at 7 p.m. The church troops include Boy Scout Troop 22, Cub Pack 20 and Explorer Ship 22.
Leaders of the groups include Willard Henderson, cub pack leader; Jack Stafford, scout leader; and Gordon Bayless Jr., explorer skipper.

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 5 —UP— The U.S. Immigration Service deported this week 69 Mexican aliens, all first offenders, who pleaded guilty in Federal Judge James V. Allred's court to illegal entry.
Four to six months imprisonment was levied against six other web-backs who were second offenders, and nine others got 30 to 90 days in jail.

The Cabot team, turned in the high team game and series and swept all four points in match play from Cabot Bowlers. The Carbon team had 740 for high game and 2,131 for high series.
Two other clean sweeps were made in last night's play. C. A. Husted blanked Malone's Pharmacy, 4-0, and Team No. 8 whitewashed Voss Cleaners, 4-0. In the other game, Eloise Beauty Shop won over Clyde's Pharmacy, 3-1.
Individual honors were divided. Mary Crocker of Team No. 8 rolled the high game, 177, and Betty Brake of Cabot Carbon had high series, 468.

Special Council Meet Possible

Mayor Tom Rose late this morning said that he "would like to have a special meeting" of the Pampa City Commission before Tuesday to discuss what to do about a successor for City Manager B. H. Cruce.
"There have been no applications" received yet for Cruce's post, Rose said, pointing out that at present no applications were being solicited.
It's a question of getting five men (the mayor and the four city commissioners) together at the same time, Rose continued.
Cruce resigned his post near noon Wednesday — effective Feb. 20 — to take the city manager's post in Greeley, Colo. He will begin work March 1.
Next regular meeting of the city commission is 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Mutual Driveway

AURICH, Minn., Feb. 5 —UP— The Burton Chandlers have discovered the disadvantage of being a two-car family with a one-car driveway.
Mr. and Mrs. Chandler collided Tuesday as they drove their autos out of the driveway. Damage—$85.

KIWANIS VISIT GUYMON

Several members of the Pampa Kiwanis club and their wives boarded a bus Thursday afternoon for a trip to Guymon, Okla., to attend an inter-club meeting. Among those who were shown above as he and his wife boarded the big bus, Rev. Lyle Albright, pastor of the Church of the Brethren here, was the speaker at the banquet. (News Photo)

Suspect Arrested In Burglary Act

A 27-year-old Pampa man was in the city jail today facing charges of burglary.
Police received a report from a resident of that area that someone was breaking into the store and all officers on duty went to the scene and surrounded the store. Two of the officers entered the place of business and arrested the man.
He had entered the store building by breaking the glass in the front door and crawling through the hole.
Police were investigating another burglary this morning. They received a report that the Truck Stop service station, 803 W. Brown, was broken into Thursday night. The burglar, or burglars, broke open a cigarette vending machine and took money and cigarets in the amount of about $17.50. Chief Conner said.

Boy Scout Week

The approach of the 44th annual Boy Scouts of America week which will be observed Feb. 6-13, serves to remind us of the splendid and constant work being done by this great organization.

It's all too easy to take good things for granted. It's all too easy to take the achievements of and the services of the Scouts as a matter of course. But this ought not to be.

We know that Scout training has made millions of boys better men. We know that countless communities have benefited by the vigor and enthusiasm of local Boy Scout groups which have initiated or assisted in carrying out worthwhile civic projects. We know that our national strength both in peace and war has been made greater by the aims and activities of the Boy Scouts of America.

It is fair, then, that we not only give the Boy Scouts a word of thanks or praise during their annual week, but that we do all we can to support the Scout activities throughout the year.

Restore U.S. Honor

Seven Senators in Washington have just filed a report which blows the lid off a scandal that insiders have known about for years. This report tells the full story, for the first time, of how Communists successfully sabotaged America in 1945, and how that Communist plan is still in operation today.

In 1945 Harry Dexter White, Frank Coe and other Treasury officials later identified as Russian accomplices in Senate hearings, helped concoct a scheme to confiscate all German and Japanese property in the United States. This big grab was something new in American foreign policy. Up to 1945 the United States had always returned the property of enemy aliens which had been seized during wartime.

At the close of the war, the State Department wanted to return these properties, in accordance with international law and custom. A small group of determined men in the Treasury Department, by appealing to anti-German feelings, managed to push the big grab through.

Today, this short-sighted action is turning thousands of people against us in the very countries which we need for defense against Soviet expansion. Although we consider Western Germany, under the leadership of Chancellor Adenauer, to be a valued ally, we are giving her citizens reason to resent and even hate us, by our high-handed taking-over of their savings and investments in the United States.

A Senate Judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has made a seven-month investigation of this whole sorry situation. They turned up story after story of individual suffering. They found mismanagement and shoddy accounting methods in the Office of Alien Property, which handles confiscated properties. And most alarming, they discovered that confiscation was working against American interests abroad, not only by creating ill-will toward us, but also by setting a highly dangerous precedent which could, in the future, jeopardize American investments in foreign countries.

These gentlemen have done a great service to their country by investigating fully and putting the blame where it belongs, on a Communist conspiracy which succeeded in fooling many well-meaning Americans. It is now up to Congress to set things right by passing legislation which will abolish the big grab.

Such legislation will do more than restore German and Japanese property. It will restore American honor, and that is a commodity we cannot do without in these dark days of cold war and international suspicion.

Bureau For Labor

The Temple University survey on federal reorganization recommends that the Labor Department be revamped so it will serve the entire American public instead of merely the labor segment. The proposal makes sense.

The existing law charges the department with fostering the special interests of labor. Thus it is not surprising that organized labor has wished to view the agency as its particular beachhead in the federal establishment. That notion was held, too, by Martin Durkin, President Eisenhower's first secretary of labor, who seemed to regard himself as labor's envoy to the Republican administration.

As the survey suggests, the department ought to deal in labor problems in the larger frame of the whole public interest. As should every other federal agency which sets its sights on a special segment of the American society.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

"Union Monopoly"

In the last issue I was quoting from Dr. V. Orval Watts' book "Union Monopoly" under the heading of "Wage Earners Are Choosers." He told of the great number of workers who voluntarily quit their jobs in order to get better jobs. In this article he stated: "The fact is that no person takes any job in private industry unless he feels it is the best job he can get for the time being and all things considered."

Then he goes on in this manner: "Employers are keenly aware of this choosiness of jobseekers in private enterprise. They know that they are competing with other employers and with opportunities for self-employment, in their own lines and in other lines as well. They know that individuals are sensitive to differences in treatment and that they quickly resent what they believe to be unfair treatment."

"Every employer, therefore, knows that he must give his employees as good wages and as good treatment, all things considered, as other employers are offering for that particular kind of work if he wants to stay in business. He must strive to attract and keep good workers just as he strives to attract and hold good customers. If he fails to do this, his 'rate of turnover' goes up, output falls off, and his costs rise.

"If he lets this go on, he must eventually close up shop. This comes about, not through a strike or general exodus, but as employees individually, in twos or threes, or in dozens at a time, leave to take jobs elsewhere.

"As a result of this shifting and changing, most workers of every grade and occupation get into jobs in which they are relatively well satisfied. They are where they are because they really believe or—whatever they may say— that they are doing as well as they could in any other job now open to them.

"Not that they necessarily 'love their work.' Not that they want nothing better or hope for nothing better. But they do like what they have better than any other job they know about.

"Consequently, for the time being, they don't want to quit or leave the job they now hold. Strikers Want To Keep Their Jobs."

"For this reason a strike is not at all a case of any employees suddenly and at the same time deciding to quit their jobs. For strikers don't quit their jobs. They have no intention of doing so. They quit working, but they want to keep their jobs and return to them after the strike. They quit work, but not in order to look for other jobs. They quit work only to cause sufficient loss to the employer that he may give them more than they think they could get by quitting individually and looking for other jobs.

"Since they want their jobs back, they try to keep other workers from taking those jobs during the strike. Since they want to cause loss to the employer, they must close down his operations as completely as possible. These are the aims of picketing.

"The right to strike, therefore, is quite different from the right to quit work. The right to strike is the right to hold a job without working at it. It is the right, not only to quit working, but to keep others from working in one's place.

"This is why a successful strike generally depends on use of a certain amount of coercion.

"First, if free to do so, some workers would stay on the job. They would rather work than strike because they think their jobs are the best they can get, all things considered, and they don't want to endanger those jobs in a strike or even risk the ill will of the employer. In other words, some employees are round pegs in round holes, and they want to stay there.

"Second, if free to do so, many strikers would soon go back to work because they need the wages and don't want to dip into their savings.

"Third, if free to do so, new workers would usually come in, attracted from poorer-paying jobs elsewhere. Few strikes occur in companies or occupations that are paying bottom wages or offering the worst working conditions for all jobs and all grades of employees.

"For these reasons a successful strike without coercion is like a two-headed cow. One can't say it never happened. One hears of strikes that begin peacefully, just as one hears of reads now and then of a two-headed calf. But the rule is that a calf or cow has one head, and that a strike is won only by some use of violence and intimidation to close down a business and keep it closed."

Little Nellie — Mama, I've got a stomach ache.
Mother — That's because you've been without lunch. Your stomach is empty. You would feel better if you had something to eat.

National Whirligig... Cole Predicts Widespread Use Of Atomic Power In Ten Years

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's plan for international atomic energy cooperation, which now gives the federal government a monopoly of fissionable materials and facilities for manufacture. Legislative revision is necessary to permit development of a private atomic industry that will furnish heat, light and power to cities and factories at reasonable cost. The AEC's recommendations also include the so-called "NATO amendment," which will authorize our military experts to instruct allied commanders on the use and effect of atomic weapons in war. It will not empower them to divulge any secrets of manufacture.

When these proposed changes reach Capitol Hill, Representative W. Sterling Cole of New York, chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee, will hold public hearings on them. It is expected that they will win prompt approval in order that the U.S. may take the lead in civilian development from Russia, England, France and Canada.

HAFFLING PROBLEM — Eisenhower's world pooling idea, however, will not be incorporated in this first batch of amendments. For one thing, his sensational suggestion before the United Nations several weeks ago was a complete surprise to all but a few AEC members.

More importantly, atomic experts find it difficult to write a law giving Communist Russia and its satellites access to fissionable materials and machinery without endangering the free world's security. How to erect proper safeguards without nullifying the President's plan is a baffling problem.

REDS MUST CHANGE THEIR TUNE — But submission of the pooling proposition as a separate amendment at a later date will make it easier for Congress to reject it without blocking or delaying action on the domestic phases.

BID FOR A SMILE

When a diner complained that he couldn't eat the soup that had been brought him, the waiter called the manager.

Manager — I'm very sorry, sir. I'll call the chef.

When the chef arrived, the diner still insisted that he couldn't eat his soup.

Chef — What's wrong with it?
Diner — Nothing. I just don't have a spoon.

Woman — Excuse me, but do some tation marks on your arm, please.
Sailor — I can't read, lady. I never tried it.

Little Nellie — Mama, I've got a stomach ache.
Mother — That's because you've been without lunch. Your stomach is empty. You would feel better if you had something to eat.

That afternoon the minister called, and in the course of the conversation remarked that he had been suffering all day with a severe headache.

Little Nellie — That's because it's empty. You'd feel better if you had something to eat.

What a crazy world. It wonders never cease. All the civilized at war. All the savages at peace.

SECURITY RISK PROBLEM UNNECESSARY FUROR:

It has always been the purpose of this column to point out and criticize proposals and activities which appear to constitute a danger to the American people, no matter where the chips might fall. It has also been the purpose of this column to point out and defend proposals and activities, regardless of their source, which appear to be in the best interests of the American people.

Today we have something of a furor over the discharge of some 2,200 federal employees on the grounds that these individuals were "security risks." This furor was started by Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S.C.).

We have long been familiar with the efforts of known left-wingers, both in congress and out, to hamper internal security measures. The purposes of these people have been so obvious that their danger has been lessened; they have neither surprised nor fooled the majority of the American people. But when such a senator as Olin D. Johnston attempts to throw sand in our eyes, as he has done in his recent attack upon the efforts of Attorney General Brownell to rid the government of security risks, it comes as a considerable shock and surprise.

They've Got It Coming! Dickenson and Schwable Get Little Sympathy From Henry

By HENRY McLEMORE

Try as I may, I can't bring myself to utter a moan, sigh, or a sigh or wringing so much, as one hand over the Army's filly of court martial charges against Cpl. Edward B. Dickenson, and the Marine Corps' decision to have a court of inquiry look into the past performance chart of Col. Frank H. Schwable.

The corporal admittedly was a "pro" in prison camp, then accepted Communism and, finally, took it all back and came home to Big Stone Gap, Va.

The colonel while a POW, had employed gung-ho warriors and, as if to make sure that those in China and North Korea who didn't have radios would get the news, he signed a statement to that effect.

The hue and cry against the Army and the Marine Corps for their actions already has started, and can be expected to grow more vociferous with the passing of each day. Those who believe the non-com and the officer are being mistreated base their arguments on youth, lack of education, and environment for Dickenson, and fear for his life with Schwable.

Forceful grounds in everyday life—but life in the Army and the Marine Corps in time of war isn't everyday life. The arguments would stand up pretty well if it weren't for one stand-out fact, that fact being that thousands of the corporals' and the colonel's fellows in arms chose the hard way. Many survived, but thousands didn't.

I would like to get it straight right here that I am not implying that if I had been in the shoes of either Dickenson or Schwable I would be begging for the noble, or shown more heroic spirit. Facing starvation or death, I might well have admitted that the U. S. was not only dropping germs, but was increasing the horror by dropping tons of those ancient movies that TV owners have been airing through.

And if I had I don't see how in the world I could have expected the Army or the Marine Corps to take anything but a mighty dim view of my actions. Not only the Army and the Marine Corps, but the men who stood alongside during the war, the families and loved ones, and the thousands who gave their lives on the field of battle.

What kind of a fighting force would this country have if it started letting its members bring such "security risks" as these two, and all such, be excused. That's rough, but it makes sense.

Perhaps I would feel more sympathetic toward the corporal and the colonel if I hadn't recently read articles by General Dean, and hadn't had the privilege of meeting this solid citizen and talking with him several times. Deep down in General Dean is a feeling that he let his country down. Ri-

Justice has said that all these 2,200 individuals were "disloyal," or that they were discharged on the grounds of disloyalty or subversion. There is considerable difference in being just a security risk and being disloyal or subversive.

Yet we have the curious, and even ridiculous, demand by Senator Johnston that the Department of Justice seek indictments for disloyalty against each of the 2,200 discharged "security risks." From this it would appear that the senator wishes to prevent the Attorney General from performing the security duties of his office, for, obviously, it would be unjust, undesirable, and impossible to secure an indictment in each of these 2,200 cases.

PARTISAN MOTIVE: Senator Johnston's real motive, undoubtedly, is not the impairment of our internal security, nor is it really an overwhelming sympathy for the discharged security risks. It is, I suspect, a partisan political motive. But he is handling a leaded gun in an extremely reckless and dangerous manner, and I would like to point out that we are just as dead whether killed by simple accident or intentional homicide. Through his deliberate misinterpretation of the term "security risk," Senator Johnston is pointing a loaded gun at the American people.

There is no excuse for such misinterpretation. The Department of Justice has clearly explained, it is not necessary a disloyal person, a subversive, a communist, a fellow traveler, or even a sympathizer. It is entirely possible for an honest and loyal citizen to become a security risk if he is placed in a position where he becomes the possessor of information which would be of benefit to our enemies and which could, through some personal weakness or situation, be extracted from him.

Such a person could, for instance, become a security risk simply by drinking too much, a not uncommon weakness which often loosens tongues and destroys the individual's judgment, discretion, and determination with respect to the disclosure of information. An individual also could become a security risk through the concealment of some event, activity, or habit which, though totally unrelated to disloyalty or subversion, could cause him to co-operate with the enemy under threat of disclosure. Drug addicts and homosexuals furnish examples of this type of security risk.

RESPONSIBILITY: The responsibility for weighing the applications and determining placement of individuals in the light of their possible vulnerability to enemy agents rests primarily with government agencies. It is the responsibility of these agencies to make careful and thorough investigations before placing any employee in a position where he has access to classified or secret information.

delicious, yes, but that's the way a feels about it, despite the fact that he endured just about all a man could for his country.

Let those who feel sorry for the corporal and the colonel go right ahead being sorry for them. But they should be sure to have a little sympathy for those Marines and soldiers who have already gone one before the Final Board of Inquiry.

THE BRICKER AMENDMENT

This column deeply regrets President Eisenhower's determined and even bitter — opposition to the Bricker Amendment, over which the first major battle of this session of Congress will be waged. As happened so tragically often in the last session, this controversy will again pit the President against most leaders of his own party, as proved by the fact that of the 64 Senators (over two-thirds) who sponsored this amendment last year, 45 of them were Republicans, an almost unanimous expression of Republican conviction.

Yet, against this overwhelming Republican sentiment, President Eisenhower is in vehement opposition, so much so, that he has privately declared that if the amendment passes Congress, he will personally fight it in every one of the 48 states!

We find this not only unfortunate, but tragic, — for the Bricker Amendment cannot become law except by a two-thirds vote of each house, plus the approval of three-fourths of our State legislatures, — in other words, except by the overwhelming approval of the American people as a whole. But the President can block its becoming law by a mere Congressional minority. For a Republican President, after twenty-years of Republican objection to White House expansion of power, — to be pitting all his prestige and popularity in favor of it, — is a strange and unhappy circumstance.

Furthermore, the arguments being against the Bricker Amendment by the Administration, seem weak and peculiar. It is well-known for example, that Secretary of State, Dulles, was a public supporter of Senator Bricker's arguments about the dangers to our Constitutional rights and liberties via treaties, before he assumed his present office, but since then, he has completely reversed himself on the ground that "all danger is now passed because President Eisenhower can be trusted not to abuse his power."

The best answer to this argument that Americans should put their trust in "men" rather than in "law," was made long ago by Thomas Jefferson when he said: "Confidence is everywhere the parent of despotism — free government is founded in jealousy and not in confidence; it is jealousy and not confidence that prescribes limited constitutions to bind those whom we are obliged to trust with power. . . . in questions of power, let no more be heard about conscience in man but tunc him down from mischief by the chains of the constitution."

Another strange argument comes from Assistant Secretary of State, Thurston B. Morton, who derides any such danger because: "the Senate and House of Representatives can erase a treaty of any kind by passing a bill to that effect." Even if Congress didn't do this, he adds, the American people can still control the whole business, because on Election Day, they "can vote in those whom they want to conduct their foreign affairs. As well as vote out those with whom they are dissatisfied. No ill-advised treaty — could for long withstand the wrath of the people."

Just what has the "wrath of the people" been able to do about Yalta, Teheran and Potsdam? Soviet Russia still possesses every acre, every human being, and every advantage which two former American Presidents conceded to her — and just what, short of war, can "erase" these Soviet fruits? Is it not simple common-sense to see "ill-advised treaties" in advance, rather than to rely upon some vague and nebulous power to erase them afterwards?

Two-thirds of our Senators sponsored this Bricker Amendment last year. Out of 48 Republican Senators, 45 of them — or all except 3 — were sponsors. It is difficult to recall many occasions when Republican conviction in the Senate ever came so close to being unanimous. Yet, President Eisenhower has chosen to ally himself with the one-third Senate minority, mostly anti-Republican Democrats, who were opposed to this amendment.

It also seems odd that President Eisenhower, who has had no training or experience in this complex field of international and constitutional law, should feel so confident that his single judgment in this field is superior to that of the 45 Republican and 19 Democratic Senators who proposed the Amendment, as well as all the American Bar Association, which spent years studying this very issue before recommending that an amendment of this kind was both desirable and necessary.

Great Prayers Of The Bible Studied At Wesleyan Guild Meet

Mrs. Al Lawson taught a lesson on "The Great Prayers of the Bible" recently for the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church. Her main talk was on "Jeremiah, the Man of Prayer." The meeting was in the home of Mrs. Ray Willis. Music was a song "The Christian Life" by the group and a recording of the Lord's Prayer. Miss La Pool, president, was in charge of the business meeting. The group was saddened over the news of the death of Mrs. Ray Willis. Every member has visited the Guild in 1949 while she was in the United States on furlough. Members of the Guild have contributed to the support of two girls in the mission school where Mrs. Willis taught. This has been their project for many years and through letters from the missionary she has become like a personal friend. She had been in India for 30 years and died on her 49th birthday and was buried there. She was a native of Hutchinson, Kans., having taught school after receiving her Master's degree from Columbia University, New York.

The next meeting of the Guild will be March 1. In the home of Mrs. Harold Wright. The hostess served refreshments to 10 members and Mrs. Lawson.

Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Still bothering a reader is the case of the violent four-year-old boy recently discussed in this column. He injured his sister, you may recall; got spanked and then went calling on a neighbor who slammed her door in his face.

A Mrs. E. sympathizes with the neighbor. "I am tired of other people's untrained children," she writes. "I have known many of these neighborhood hoodlums who menace decent children, and I see no reason why I should welcome one into my home."

We don't wish to entertain violence, no matter what age it is. That's an understandable position—but why the slamming of the door in his face? Why the violence in response to violence?

If we fear danger to Patsy from a small hoodlum next door, why don't we say so to his parents? Why don't we say to them, "Until Billy's temper comes under control, we feel that he and Patsy better stop playing together?"

Perhaps we don't say this because it is usually hard to say. For the parents of uncontrolled Billy are apt to be uncontrolled themselves. Like him, they may be so uncertain of themselves that they react with belligerence to any suggestion that their behavior is imperfect.

They may be so frightened by the disapproval implicit in our wish to keep Patsy from playing with Billy that they may make a most unpleasant scene.

Because they may not be able to take the idea that they may be at fault, they will place the blame for Billy's violence upon us. And we may find ourselves the target of abuse about everything from our church attendance to the way we comb Patsy's hair.

We usually sense such unpleasant emotional possibilities in these people without quite knowing that we do. And because we do not like to know that we are afraid of their irrational attack, we like to think of our fear as our desire to maintain neighborly peace.

It's our resistance to knowledge of this fear that slams the door in Billy's face. For his behavior has impressively dramatized his parents' deficiencies to us.

Standing on our doorstep, he is the living embodiment of his parents, and since we don't dare show our rage at them lest they hurt our own sensitive feelings, we

PICTURE NEWS AROUND THE WORLD

JAPAN CALLING—Here's the answer to what switchboard operators look like in Tokyo. These Japanese girls are wearing their hair in an ancient style and are garbed in traditional kimonos. However, the telephone apparatus they're working with looks familiar.

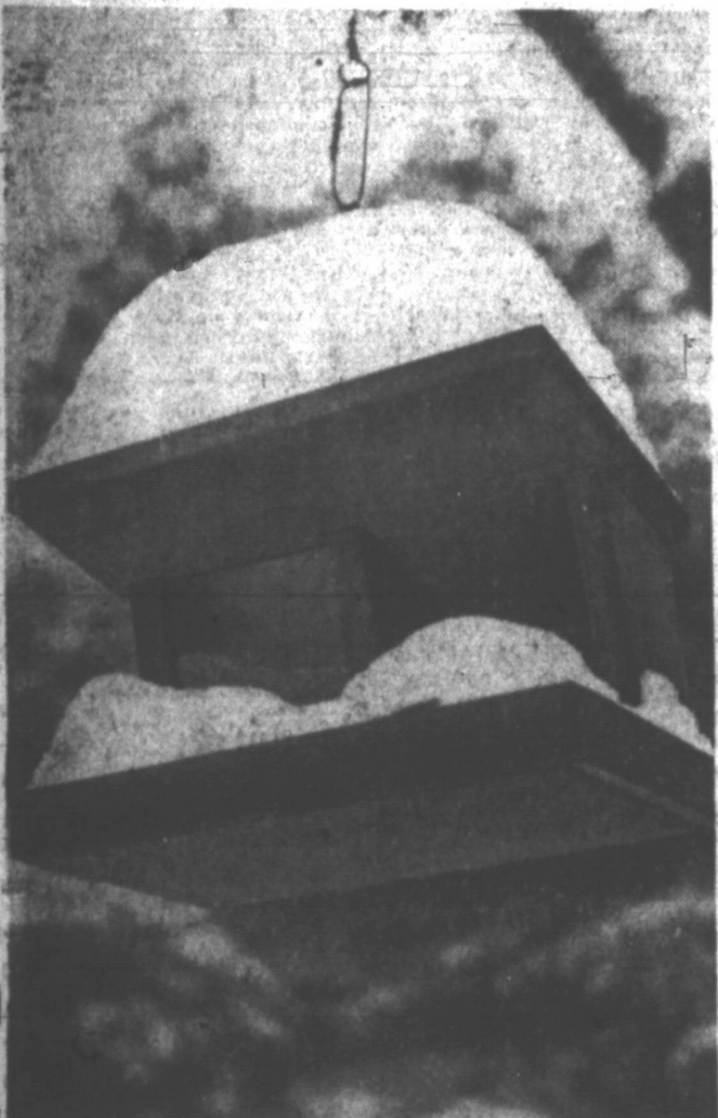

SOMETHING FOR HIS PAINS—Boy Scout Larry Copeland, of Union, Mo., is showing fellow Scouts the bat he caught in the 100,000,000-year-old Meramec Caverns, in Stanton, Mo. A troop of the Scouts was exploring new passages when Larry made his interesting catch.

THREE DIED IN THIS—A small private plane crashed near Messapequa, N. Y., killing two women and one man. Residents of the area are shown near the smoldering wreckage which caught fire and plunged to earth, burning the occupants beyond recognition.

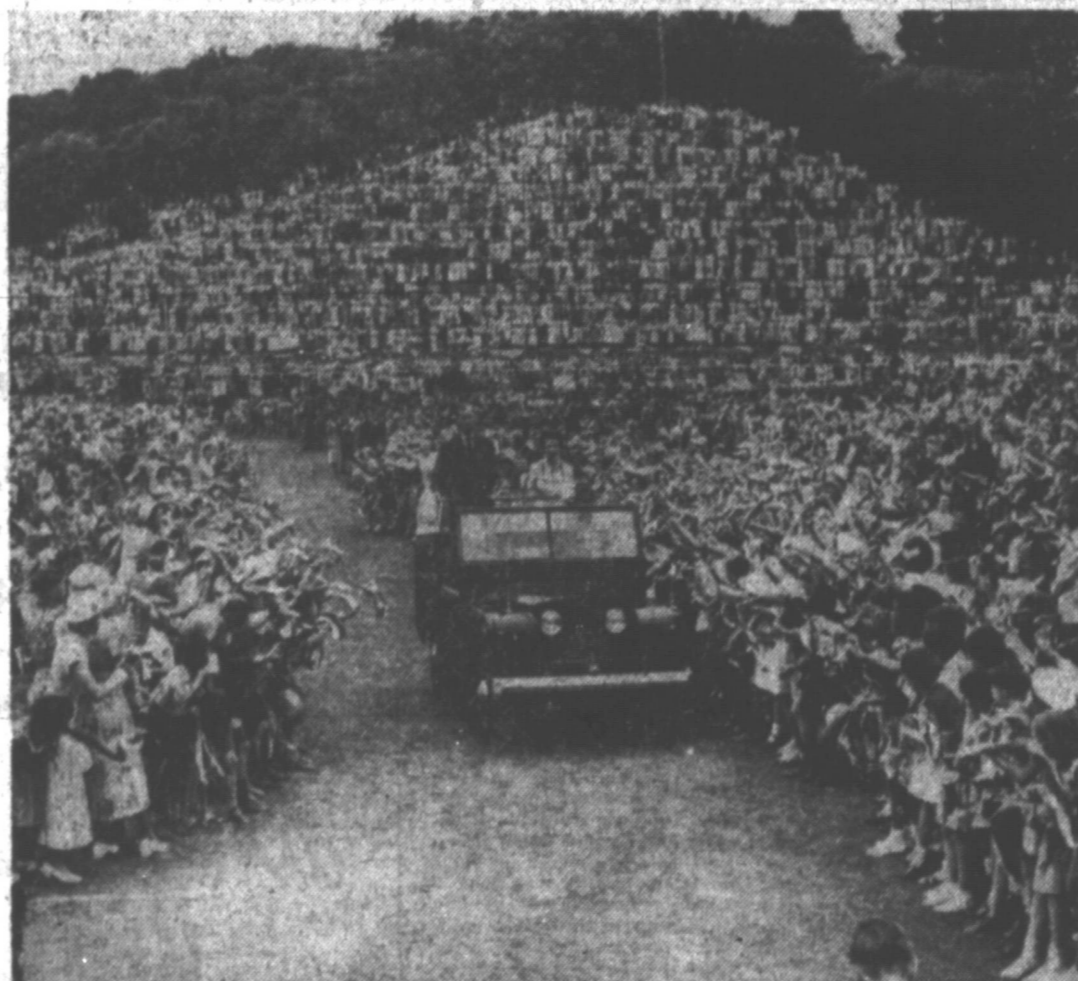

THEY MEAN BUSINESS—These mature ladies are members of the Women's Rowing Club in Oakland, Calif., and they pull those heavy 12-foot oars in their 28-foot whaleboat. The spry grandmothers, most of them in their 80s and 70s, take their rowing seriously. Seven of the 80 members are great-grandmothers and two 83-year-old ladies still get out for regular rowing sessions on Lake Merritt. The organization was founded in 1917.

WHY BIRDS LEAVE HOME—Everyone knows they do it, particularly in winter when the weather does this sort of thing to their dwellings. The chirper who resides in this house in Larchmont, N. Y., has gone south until things warm up around there. A heavy snowstorm, and cold weather, caused the bird and its neighbors to take to some more southern exposures.

SUN SPOTS—And it's shapely Elaine Sterna who can show them off to good advantage. She's perched—for the moment—on the limb of a tree in Miami, and the purpose of the precarious stance is to give you a look at her stunning leopard skin swim suit. It's not the thing to wear in a jungle where wild beasts might resent it.

ROYAL GREETING—Hundreds of school children lined up to greet Britain's Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, as they drove through a park in New Plymouth, N. Z. While the queen has met thousands of her subjects, they don't always turn out in such great numbers.

ITALIAN HILLBILLYS—Dressed in sheepskins and typical shoes, two mountaineers from the nearby Abruzzi region are playing bagpipes outside a building on Capitol Hill in Rome. It is a tradition of long standing with the hillmen to come down once a year to play those pipes in the city.

WINK ON DOG—It's no wonder that Gypsy, a television performing dog in Hollywood is sitting up to take notice. What woman wouldn't dash to a mirror to admire her reflection if she were wearing a new mink coat? The $500 garment was a gift to Gypsy from an admirer and Gypsy can see for herself that the mink coat is dog-gone becoming to her.

BACK TALK—The conversation runs mostly to superlatives and exclamations of delight when Leo Ritter's "conversation piece" stole bows onto the evening scene. Done in rich gunmetal mink, the straight stole falls gracefully into a heart shape across back.

IT'S THE REAL THING—Tears shed as Italian Army Sergeant Pasquale de-Nunzio embraces his wife and two children at Rome's Terminal Station were ones of joy and relief. The soldier was reunited with his family after spending 11 years in a Russian POW camp. He had just been released and was tasting freedom for the first time since before World War II.

DANCE DEBIT—In this country, that is. French dancer Leslie Caron came to Hollywood two years ago to make some movies. Now she's in New York with the Ballet de Paris and is shown here in her dressing room after the opening night performance. Then she goes on tour.

Midland, Odessa To Meet Harvesters Here This Weekend

PHS Seeking 48th Win In Row Tonight

Pampa's Hustlin' Harvesters will be seeking their 20th and 21st wins of the season over the weekend when they host the Midland Bulldogs tonight and the Odessa Bronco tomorrow in a pair of District 1-AAAA contests.

Should the Harvesters succeed in outpunching their foes from the south, it will run their win streak to 48 and keep them atop the District 1-AAA standings.

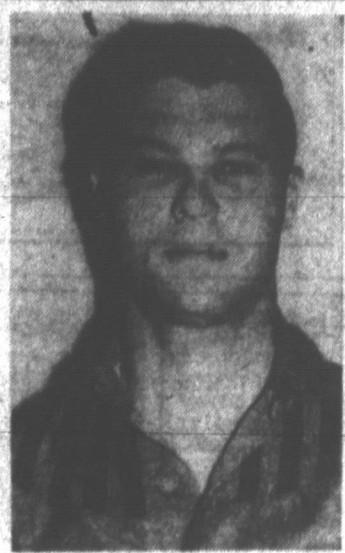

The Harvesters will be heavy favorites to down the Bulldogs and Bronco since the Green and Golders recorded convincing wins over both teams already. Coach Cliff McNeely's lads took the measure of Midland, 70-32, at Midland and won over the Bronco, 49-32, at Odessa.

But McNeely is aware that a "bad night" on the part of his charges might prove disastrous. Odessa, in particular, is a dangerous foe anytime it takes the court. Only last Saturday night, the Bronco upset the favored Lubbock Westerners, 62-59.

Five of the 12 players in District 1-AAAA with 100 points or more will be seen in action here in the two games this weekend. Three Harvesters are in the 100-point bracket with Jimmy Bond topping the entire district with 187 points.

Gary Griffin with 117 and E. Jay McIlvain with 108 are the other 8-figure scorers for the Pampans. Carl Schlemeyer of football fame heads the Bronco scorers with 106 points in eight district games, the same number Tom Dyer of the Midland quint has compiled.

Schlemeyer, however, had a hard time in the game with the Harvesters at Odessa, scoring only one point. Dyer, though, found the nets for 14 points in the Bulldog tilt with the Harvesters in the first game at Midland.

KEN SEWELL
... new Midland member

But both Dyer and Schlemeyer are dangerous scorers and could cause trouble. Schlemeyer bucketed 22 points against Lubbock last week.

The Harvesters will take the floor in good physical condition. The usual starting lineup for the Green and Golders will likely start tonight. Gary Griffin and E. Jay McIlvain will be at the forwards; Jimmy Bond at center; and Ken Hinkle and George Dejes or Harold Lewis at the guards.

Midland is winless in eight 1-4A starts this season while Odessa has won two and lost six in conference action. The Odessa wins have been over Abilene, 50-42, and Lubbock, 63-59.

Both games here this week will begin at 8:00 at Harvester Fieldhouse.

Elsewhere in the 1-4A circles tonight, Amarillo will be at Abilene, Lubbock at San Angelo and Odessa at Borger. Tomorrow night it will be Amarillo at San Angelo, Lubbock at Abilene and Midland and Borger.

Pampa, with a 9-0 slate leads the race. Amarillo is close behind with 8-1 and Borger is one notch back with 7-2.

Reapers Bow To Dumas 5

The Pampa Junior High Reapers, after leading most of the way, dropped a 40-38 decision to Dumas at the Junior High Gym yesterday in a Panhandle Conference game.

The Reapers led at the end of the first three quarters, 7-4, 16-15 and 31-26 but faltered in the final minutes and Dumas snatched the victory.

Dickie Mauldin with 15 and Larry McWilliams with 14 led the Reapers. Fidler was high for Dumas with nine.

The Reaper B team also was defeated, the Dumas B winning by a 48-37 tally.

The Reapers will participate in a Junior High Tournament at Cactus tomorrow.

Wichita Bows, 59-51 Sooner Ags Finish Strong For Victory

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 —UP—A whirlwind finish put the Oklahoma Aggies in the driver's seat in the tough Missouri Valley Conference Friday while those two marvels from the bluegrass country, Kentucky and Western Kentucky, kept their unbeaten records rolling along.

The ball-bogging Aggies have won or shared the title in their league an amazing 15 times in the last 18 seasons, but their rule was in grave danger Thursday night before they rallied in the last three minutes to down second-place Wichita, 59-51, on Wichita's home court.

Wichita, beaten only twice in 30 previous games, could have taken over first place by winning and it seemed the Shockers would when they rallied from a five-point deficit to take a 51-50 lead with 2:30 left to play.

Free throws turn tide
Tom Matlock came through with two clutch free throws to put the Aggies back ahead and Clayton Carter's layup made it 54-51.

From there the Aggies pulled away to record their 18th win in 18 games.

Stage Set For Year's Best Boxing Show Here Tomorrow

Top Mittmen Of Southwest To Fight

The stage is all set for tomorrow night's streamlined boxing show at the Junior High Gym where the Pampa Boys Club will host a combined outfit from Roswell and New Mexico Military Institute.

One of the largest boxing crowds in Pampa's history is expected to be on hand for the inter-sectional match that will pit some of the best boxers in the southwest.

Four of Pampa's Open winners in the regional tournament at Amarillo will see action on the action-packed card. This group consists of Bobby Wilhelm, Dugie Jameson, Kenneth Wood and Elmo Sams. The fifth member of the Pampa team winning at the regional meet, Floyd Hood, will be unable to take part.

Hood, now in the service, reports back to duty today and will be unavailable.

The headliner of tomorrow's card will be the Wilhelm-Homer Cleees 147-pound match. Cleees has already won national fame by advancing to the finals in the National Golden Gloves tournament in Chicago in 1952.

Cleees is expected to reach the national tournament for the third straight year this year. The New Mexico State tourney hasn't been held yet but Cleees is an odd-on favorite to repeat as the New Mexico champ.

Wilhelm will be bidding for his first trip to Chicago only because he has been fighting in the high school division the past three years. The schoolboy champs do not go past the regional in Texas.

But Wilhelm entered the Open division this year and outpointed last year's state welterweight champ, Johnny Hernandez of Amarillo, in the regional tournament at Amarillo last week. Wilhelm, as will the other four Open champs of the Pampa team in the regional tournament, will be fighting in the state tournament at Fort Worth, Feb. 17-22.

Who knows that Wilhelm and Cleees may not run on to each other again further down the Golden Gloves path which would be the National tourney in Chicago.

Another match that virtually shares the leading role with the Wilhelm-Cleees battle will be Dugie Jameson versus N. L. Akin of Roswell. Akin also has National GG Tournament experience. He advanced to the semi-finals in 1952.

Jameson, like Wilhelm, is competing in the Open division this year for the first time after several years of winning titles in the high school division. This will be a 118-pound duel.

Kenneth Wood will be pitted against Sam Wood of New Mexico in another fine attraction. Sam Wood is the state schoolboy champ of New Mexico in the 135-pound division while Kenneth Wood will be representing Pampa in the state GG tourney at Fort Worth.

L. K. Metzger of Roswell, another state champ, will take on Pampa's Elmo Sams in a 112-pound Open division clash. Sams won the regional GG tourney in Amarillo for the second straight year last week. Following is the complete card for tomorrow night's outstanding show:

High School
128 pounds — Billy Fortye, New Mexico State Schoolboy champ vs. Jesse Ring, Regional High School Champ of the Pampa Boys Club
135 pounds — T. D. Roff, New Mexico state schoolboy champion vs. Russell Morrow of the Pampa Boys Club

135 pounds — Jim Skidmore, who holds two wins over Scotty Davey of the 1953 Pampa Boys Club team, vs. Fred Blackwell of Lefors.
147 pounds — Frank Coates, New Mexico state schoolboy champion vs. Don Fagan of the Pampa Boys Club, regional high school runner-up
160 pounds — Dale Laverty of Roswell vs. Tommy Richardson, regional high school champion of the Pampa Boys Club

OPEN
112 pounds — N. L. Akins, semifinalist in the national Golden Gloves tournament of Roswell vs. Dugie Jameson, regional champion

147 pounds — Homer Cleees vs. Bobby Wilhelm, state champion of New Mexico vs. Elmo Sams, regional champion of New Mexico, vs. Freddie Clemmons of Lefors.
135 pounds — Sam Wood, state champion of New Mexico, vs. Kenneth Wood, regional champion from Shamrock and the Pampa Boys Club.
160 pounds — Wayne Laverty, district champion of Roswell vs. J. N. Wright, regional high school champion of the Pampa Boys Club.
Heavyweight — Charley Geary, Open division heavyweight champion of New Mexico, vs. Bob Edmore, regional high school champion of the Pampa Boys Club.

Advance tickets for this outstanding card will go on sale tomorrow at Richard Drug and B&B Pharmacy.

The time of the Saturday match has been set back to 8:30 to avoid conflict with the Harvester-Odessa basketball game, also scheduled for Saturday night.

Shamrock Fan Calls Pampa's Hand On Abb Curtis Rhubarb Here In 1945

THROUGH THE MAIL comes a letter from a Shamrock fan regarding our comments on the Bobby Wilhelm-Johnny Hernandez fight in the Regional Golden Gloves finals at Amarillo Saturday night.

The letter, dated Feb. 2, follows: Dear Sir:

I have been reading with interest the comment in your paper and that in the Amarillo News in regard to the Wilhelm-Hernandez fight last week at the Golden Gloves.

I agree with you completely that Wilhelm won the fight and that the conduct of Hernandez et al was very unsportsmanlike.

Maybe this happened before your time up here, but you should be able to verify it, albeit reluctantly, from any Pampa fan.

I don't recall the year, but after a game with Amarillo, Curtis was literally chased by a mob of Pampa fans from the stadium, and was later given police protection just as Wilhelm. For weeks Pampa fans howled about Curtis being crooked, and all that.

This must not have been true, because he was soon appointed head of all Southwest Conference officials, which post he held for 30 years. So, don't throw that first rock, son. We are all guilty regardless of where we live. No one has a monopoly on it.

Yours truly,
J. O. Miller
Shamrock, Texas

Yes, the above story was before our time up here.

However, after conferring with several old timers here, we found that Mr. Miller's story is true to a certain extent. The incident occurred following the 1945 Amarillo-Pampa game which was won by the Sandies, 24-10.

But it wasn't a "mob" of fans who chased Curtis from the stadium as stated in the report, according to a certain extent. The incident occurred following the 1945 Amarillo-Pampa game which was won by the Sandies, 24-10.

It seems that a former Harvester footballer, who was in the service at the time and was home on leave, was the one who took it out on Curtis. The rhubarb attracted a large audience as most rhubarbs such as this always do, but it was only the ex-Harvester grudge that did the "mobbing." And Curtis did receive a police escort upon leaving town.

But an incident such as the one here still isn't near as bad as last Saturday's uproar at Amarillo.

In the case of Amarillo, it was a coach, who is supposed to be a leader of boys in teaching them fair play and good sportsmanship as well as teaching them the game, who started Saturday's brawl. A coach is supposed to gain respect of his students. When they lose this touch then they're in the wrong business.

What respect Mario Guana might have had from his followers before last Saturday, he certainly lost it after his demonstration in the ring following the Wilhelm-Hernandez match.

Regarding the incident that Mr. Miller is bringing to light here, you can't judge a community of 20,000 for an unsportsmanlike act by an enraged fan at an athletic contest. Oh, there might have been many more who voiced their disapproval of Curtis' refereeing but none caused any harm.

But a community is sorta held responsible for putting someone in charge of a group of boys or girls that will give the right kind of leadership.

Pampa has done well in this respect. T. J. Watt, one of the finest fellows you'll ever meet, has established an amazing record with the local boxers. And you never see him or any of his pupils throwing any tantrums over losing a match.

The same holds true for all of our coaches in the school system.

The more we learn about Saturday's affair, the less we are blaming Hernandez, who lost the fight to Wilhelm, for the incident.

Wilhelm said Hernandez, immediately following the match and before the decision was announced, "came over and shook hands with me and said 'you gave me the toughest fight I've ever had and I guess I lost'" and then returned to his corner.

After the decision was announced, Hernandez calmly advanced to receive his runner-up trophy and upon his return to his corner again, he noticed Guana was throwing a "tantrum" over the decision and that set Hernandez off. It was then that Hernandez turned and tossed his trophy across the ring that eventually wound up in the lap of a lady fan at ringside and the rhubarb was on.

What makes it even worse, Guana, by this demonstration in the ring and for the many threats he made at Wilhelm, he hasn't yet offered an apology. Had Guana done so, he might have been able to smooth his actions over somewhat.

But by him not offering an apology, it sorta leaves an impression that he (Guana) thought he was in the right. Guana was, of course, in the wrong.

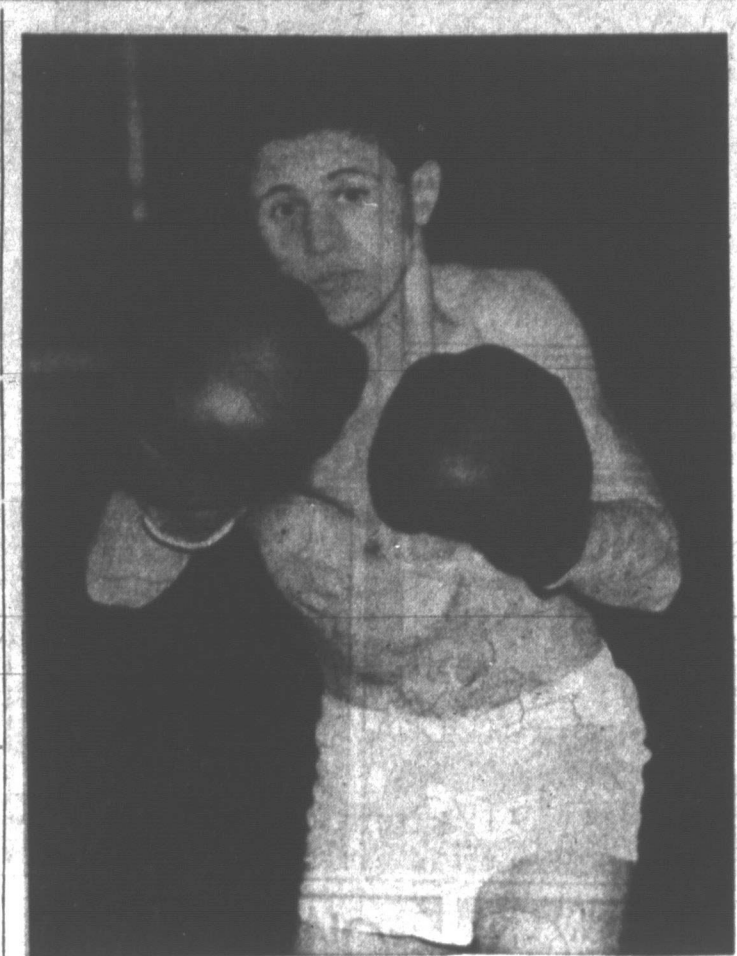

Sometimes you have to overlook to a certain extent, a player, manager or coach of a team losing his temper on the spur of the moment but in most cases the offender is sorry for his actions later and if he has done harm to anyone, then an apology is usually made.

Well, it was nice hearing from you, Mr. Miller. We'll agree with your statement that we're not all perfect. But we still believe the Amarillo incident was much worse than the incident you have brought out concerning Pampa.

For you boxing fans who missed the regional Golden Gloves tournament, you can see all of our own champs of the regional tourney (we had nine) in action tomorrow night when the Boys Club hosts Roswell. It will be your last chance to see Bbby Wilhelm in the ring unless you take in the state tournament.

Wilhelm will be going off to college somewhere next year and tomorrow's match could be his last here.

Tomorrow's starting time has been set back to 8:30 to allow all fans who will be attending the Harvester-Odessa basketball game to see most of the show. The "Open" bouts will be unreel last. There will be 12 matches on the program and the 8 Open matches will likely get underway around 9:30.

Bear Bryant Accepts Job Challenge Faces New Aggie Coach

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 5 —UP—Paul (Bear) Bryant, whose coaching helped lift Kentucky out of the football shadows into national prominence, said Friday his new job as head coach of Texas A&M has "certain opportunities and challenges which appeal to me."

The challenge Bryant will face with the Aggies will be virtually the same one he faced when he came here eight years ago, for the Aggies' football fortunes also have fallen on evil days.

Bryant wired Thursday night his acceptance of the Aggies' $15,000-a-year, six-year contract to be both head football coach and athletic director. As coach, he succeeds Ray George, who resigned after the 1953 season when his team won four games, lost five and tied one. As athletic director, he succeeds Barlow (Bones) Irvin. No difficulties expected. Bryant will submit his resignation to Kentucky Friday and, although his current Wildcat contract still has nine years to run, says he doesn't expect any difficulties in being released.

There was this puzzle to Bryant's change: Only a year ago he had remarked, "I hope to remain in Kentucky forever" and there was a "gentleman's understanding" that he could have the job for that long if he wanted it. Also Kentucky was believed to be paying him $15,000 a year for coaching alone.

He did not offer any other reason for switching besides his statement about "challenges" and the observation that "I liked Texas A&M when we played down there last fall."

Incidentally, Bryant couldn't have been blamed much for if he had not liked Texas A&M, for the Aggies' football coach and athletic director, as coach, he succeeds Ray George, who resigned after the 1953 season when his team won four games, lost five and tied

SHE'S SICK OF BEING TO DECIDE WHAT TO HAVE FOR SLIPPER!

OUT OUR WAY By J. R. Williams OUR BOARDING HOUSE with MAJOR HOOPLE

WHEN A GUY'S LATE EVERYBODY STARTS BANGIN' ON SOMETHIN' TO HUMILIATE HIM! HE'S LETTIN' ON HE'S BEEN OUT. AFTER SOMETHIN' AN' PLANS TO PICK UP HIS HAT LATER— BUT THEY'RE HARD TO FOOL!

THAT'S EASY! YOU DON'T SWEAT THIS EARLY ON FROM RINNIN' AND YOU DON'T PUFF FROM WHAT HE'S CARRYIN'!

BOOM! BANG! BAM! BLAM!

AWNF! SPUTT-TT! WHAT IN THE NAME OF JEHOASHAPHAT WENT AMISS?

HAT! GO YOU! GRUUKING JACKALS WERE HIDING— LIKE PEEPING TOMS— OR SPIES BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN, EAGER TO INFORM ON A KINGMAN— FAP!

NOW, WE JUST HAPPENED TO BE IN THE FRONT CLOSET CIRCULATED— TESTING THE MARMALADE WHEN YOU AND YOUR COAT-CHAIR WENT DOWN LIKE STILTS IN A SWAMP!

NOW THAT YOUR INVENTION HAS SHORT-CIRCUITED— WILL YOU FALL BACK ON YOUR OLD ACT OF TILTING THE CHECKER-BOARD?

ONE OF HIS WORST MOMENTS!

THE SLICKER JR. WILLIAMS 2-5

Steve Canyon

MADAME MULDON, YOU MUST SEE ME!

YOU GO! MADAME SAY--

I TOLD YOU YOUR HUSBAND WAS SUSPENDED AS A PILOT FOR INDIANA AIRL. NOW STOP BOTHERING ME!

BUT HE HAS WORRIED HIMSELF SICK OVER THIS! PLEASE TAKE BOB BACK!

HE MADE A GOOD SALARY!— USE THE MONEY FOR RETURN TICKETS TO THE UNITED STATES!

BUT HE WANTS TO FLY FOR YOU— IT'S ALL HE TALKS ABOUT... PLEASE, MADAME!

YOUR HUSBAND DID A STUPID THING— AND I CANNOT AFFORD TO HAVE STUPIDITY IN THIS ORGANIZATION! I HAVE ALREADY Hired A REPLACEMENT! THROW HER OUT!

Vic Flint

LOOKS LIKE THE CIRCUS HAS COME TO TOWN, LOUIE... A HANDSOME HERD OF PACHYDERMS!

YEAH! WELL, OY LOOKS MORE LIKE ELEPHANTS TO ME!

HEY, WHERE ARE YOU GOIN' TO ME?

SEEN AS HOW DA CIRCUS HAS COME TO TOWN, I'M GONNA SEE IF DEY NEED A REFRIGERATOR OR SLUMPIN'!

AS LOUIE MAKES HIS WAY TO CIRCUS HEAD-QUARTERS, THE OLD ADAGE "THREE'S A CROWD" IS ABOUT TO BE DEMONSTRATED UNDER THE BIG TOP!

Little Doc

THERE IS A WASTE OF ENERGY!

BET HE WAGS HIS TAIL A MILLYUN TIMES A DAY

LET'S UTILIZE HIS ENERGY!

HOW?

Wash Tubbs

MIRACULOUSLY LILY READS THRU A FEW PARAGRAPHS.

THAT'LL DO, KID! I DON'T KNOW, EARL— DO, KID! FRANKLY, I DON'T KNOW I GET WHAT YOU SEE IN HER VOICE, BUT--

BUT SHE SAYS NEVER, LEARN TO USE IT, WE'D HATE TO START FROM SCRATCH!

THAT IS A GAMBLE I AM WILLING TO TAKE, WALLY! I HAD A HUNCH WE MAY DEVELOP HER INTO A FRESH NEW TYPE!

SHE CAN'T WALK— OR GET DOWN— OR ACT— AND THIS TOWN IS CRANKING UP PRETTIER— LOOK, KID! JUST HOW MUCH DO YOU WANT TO BE AN ACTOR?

I—I WANT TO BE ANYTHING!

Boots

ROD, PLEASE! REMEMBER YOU WERE YOUNG ONCE— JUST LIKE PUG! IT'S NO LAUGHING MATTER!

WHO'S LAUGHING?

Mickey Finn

THE GOVERNOR WOULDN'T EVEN CONSIDER THE CHARGES? HE CLAIMS FINN IS IN MIAMI CHASING SOME CROOK?

YES! THAT'S WHERE HE WENT TO REST— AND HE MET FINN DOWN THERE! HE HAD ALL OUR TROUBLE FOR NOTHING!

HEADQUARTERS OF THE OPPOSITION PARTY

THEN THIS MUST BE HIM PLAYING WITH FINN AND TUTTLE!

I DIDN'T RECOGNIZE HIM ON ACCOUNT OF THE DARK GLASSES!— THAT HE HAD ENOUGH PICTURES ARRIVED FROM YOURS THIS MORNING!

YOKUS IS STILL DOWN THERE? I THOUGHT YOU'D BRING HIM BACK TO COME BACK TO THE DARK GLASSES!

I DID— BUT HE CAN'T GET A PLANE RESERVATION UNTIL GUNDY!

THEN TRY TO REACH HIM RIGHT NOW! WE'LL HAVE HIM STAY THERE— AND WATCH EVERY MOVE FINN MAKES!

AND IF HE CONTINUES TO DO NOTHING BUT LOAF AND PLAY GOLF, THE GOVERNOR WILL HAVE TO ACT ON OUR CHARGES!

I GET IT! OKAY!

Freckles

CAN YOU USE SOME PIPE CLEANERS, DADDY? TWO CENTS EACH!

NO, THANK YOU, DEAR!

I WASHED YOUR NEW ARSYLES, DADDY! THAT'LL COST YOU A DIME!

I'M CHARGING A PENNY A LIGHT— YOU OWE ME 12 CENTS SO FAR!

OKAY, I KNOW WHEN I'M LICKED!

I CAN'T LAST THROUGH YOUR EARNING A NEW FORMAL! HOW MUCH DO YOU NEED?

Susie Q. Smith

SUCCESS IS TERRIBLY IMPORTANT, ISN'T IT, MOM.

YES, DEAR.

WELL, I'VE DECIDED TO BE MORE SUCCESSFUL.

THAT'S NICE, DEAR.

I'M GOING TO PERFORM SOME BIG SERVICE FOR ALL MANKIND!

OH, WELL... I SUPPOSE YOU COULD CALL THIS A START.

Lions Club Hears Celanese Official

"Industry is interested in any community which can offer good municipal government — efficiently operated."

That was the wind-up phrase for Cliff Whitney, personnel superintendent of Pampa's Celanese plant, after telling members of the Pampa Lions Club "what industry expects of its community" and how Celanese picked Pampa for its new plant.

Get-together, as usual, was held at noon Thursday in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

Armed with a stack of statistics in chart form, Whitney stated flatly that there were four basic reasons Celanese located in Pampa: (1) water, (2) fuel, (3) raw materials and (4) the community itself.

Tracing back through the recent history of industrial development, the personnelman said that before World War II, 60 per cent of American industry was located north of the Mason-Dixon line and east of the Mississippi River; 25 per cent in the South; and the other 15 per cent in the West.

But the coming of World War II caused a shift from the North to the South and the West, he pointed out. It was a question of climate, improved manpower sources and a need for industry on both coasts that made for it.

"The South has definitely dropped" now in the national over-all picture, Whitney said, adding that the general trend toward the small city "is definitely stopped." The North Central States "have increased again in importance."

At the same time, the Panpan continued, industry is now too large to be able to operate and "must get out" — to a location like Pampa. When industry does move out, it has six considerations: (1) nearness to manpower, (2) nearness to raw materials, (3) transportation facilities, (4) adequate public services, (5) climate and (6) the community.

In the last category, Whitney mentioned the item of adequate hotel facilities, "a more important item than you think."

Lion Ed Myatt reported that $486.50 was collected in last week-end "Points for Polio" campaign in connection with the Pampa Harvester basketball team, then went on to tell Lions other things that the club has been doing "that is like having a year-old operated on for free, buying a child who needed them some glasses and contributing $1,200 to the Texas Crippled Children's Home in Kerrville."

Ess Lion Ralph Thomas read a letter from Mrs. P. E. Leech, widow of Gray County's long-time tax assessor — collector, in which she thanked the club and

Hearing Set On Injunction

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 — UP — A hearing was scheduled Saturday on the state's application for a temporary injunction against two El Paso insurance companies it charges are improperly organized to do business in Texas.

The insurance firms are United Lloyd's and the United World Life Insurance Co.

Restraining orders preventing the two firms, their officers, employees, agents and stockholders from disposing of any assets pending further action were granted the state by District Judge Charles O. Betts Jan. 28.

Papers were served the following day, when the attorney general's office announced that it had instituted suit against the El Paso insurance companies.

The attorney general's office said it undertook legal action against the firms in co-operation with the State Board of Insurance Examiners to "protect the interests of policyholders and potential investors."

Prisoner Admits Killing His Wife

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 5 — UP — State police Friday held for California authorities two men picked up on a routine violation, but one of whom volunteered the information he had "killed his wife."

Field in the county jail were Johnson William Caldwell, 32, of Riverside, Calif., and Joe C. Dodd, 32. Authorities said both were recently discharged from the Texas state penitentiary in Huntsville, Tex.

State Trooper Glenn Minton stopped the pair in Hot Springs Thursday afternoon on a routine check, and he said Caldwell told him he had killed his 52-year-old wife 23 days ago in Riverside, and the 1951 Studebaker automobile he was driving belonged to the wife.

Officers said California authorities were notified and later sent a message that the woman's body had been located.

Dodd was held on an open charge pending completion of the investigation. The state police said Caldwell had signed a statement about the slaying.

Church Census Ready To Roll

Everything is about ready to roll Sunday for the city-wide church census, sponsored by Pampa's Ministerial Alliance, according to Rev. Robert Strohle, census chairman.

Between 400 and 500 men have been enlisted as census-takers, he stated, and six new churches have joined the census rolls, swelling the number to 27. The new churches include the Lighthouse Mission, the Emmanuel Temple, the Progressive Baptist, St. Mark Methodist, the Macedonia Baptist and the Church of God and Christ.

The census will begin Sunday with each man assigned 10 to 12 houses to canvass. Those persons not at home Sunday, will be called on during the week by the church women. Preceding the event, a dinner will be held for the men in the First Methodist Church at 12 noon Sunday during which they will be briefed on census taking.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Robert Merrill tells of his first meeting with Arturo Toscanini, when the Maestro auditioned him for the part of a father for an opera recording. Toscanini was planning Toscanini took one look at Merrill and, obviously expecting a more paternal - looking baritone, said, "But you are not a father. Ah, well, we will sing one thing anyway."

The one thing led to two hours of Merrill arias, accompanied by Toscanini at the piano, and punctuated by the Maestro's frequent amazed queries about Merrill's lack of offspring. Finally, the old man got to his feet. "Never mind," he said, "we will make you a father anyway."

And the recording — "La Traviata" — was made. Merrill won an award for his portrayal of the elder Germont. Without so much as a baby.

Want to get on the Broadway stage? The newest way is to invent a stopwatch. That's how Lorne Greene did it, and he's now happily and profitably employed as Katherine Cornell's leading man in "The Precourt Proposal."

Greene is a tall, handsome, graying Canadian, with a big, deep voice. He was using the voice to tell all Toronto the latest news, 12 times a week, when he took six weeks in Montreal in 1950 to New York and take a peek at television.

Everywhere he went, he found technicians in control booths worrying about time. Not time gone by — "that's dead in radio or TV," but the time left. So Greene went back to Toronto and NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 4 — UP — A letter from the office of Sen. George Malone (R-Nev.) puzzled postal clerks until they checked their radio dials.

Union Shop Ruling Scheduled Saturday

AMARILLO, Tex., Feb. 5 — UP — An Amarillo district judge rules Saturday in an unusual law suit challenging national union shop agreements by railroads.

His ruling, in whose favor will signal the start of a legal battle that attorneys predict will be resolved only by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The judge, E. C. Nelson of 108th District Court, heard the suit brought by 13 Amarillo employees of the Santa Fe railway for a permanent injunction, forbidding the Santa Fe system from entering into a union shop agreement with 14 non-operating rail unions.

A jury on Jan. 29 decided 15 points of fact — 13 for the employees and two for the unions.

Two Points to be Decided

Nelson will rule at 10 a.m. (est) Saturday on two points of law involved in the legal controversy: (1) Whether a 1951 amendment to the Railway Labor Act, permitting union shop agreements, is constitutional; (2) Whether the so-called Texas "right to work" law, which says membership or non-membership in a union can not be made a condition of employment, has precedence over the federal statute.

The 1951 amendment to the Railway Labor Act specifically says it shall be lawful for railroads and unions to make contracts which require union membership as a condition of employment, "a state law to the contrary notwithstanding."

Right to Work Feels

The Amarillo law suit is the first test of the Texas "right to work" law. This suit, attorneys already have announced, will be appealed.

after two years of "furious stubborn" work plus cooperation from a Swiss watchmaker, he had a top-watch that measured time left, instead of time gone by.

Last Spring he came down to New York to sell watches. He saw Fletcher Markle, then Studio One producer and an old Canadian friend. Quicker than you can say "Backward Stop Watch," Greene was playing a lead on Studio One. This fall he was in the unforgettable Studio One version of "1984."

One thing led to another, and he had a chance to read for Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse for their new play, "The Precourt Proposal." He says he didn't expect anything to come out of that, but it did just for kicks. He got kicked right into the part.

Richard Barstow, who stages intimate shows like the Ringling Brothers circus and the GM Motorama, tells of high adventure in a lawyer's office. He went with a friend while a contract-signing took place. It was a complicated deal, and all the parties and the lawyers were mutually suspicious.

Finally, there was a moment of silence. Everyone could hear one client whisper to his lawyer: "Hey don't forget to leave a loophole."
