Mrs. S. B. Haynes Of Lubbock Killed In Auto Accident

Husband Suffers Leg Fracture; Daughter Hurt

Funeral Services Are Scheduled To Be Held Today

MRS. S. B. HAYNES, about 34, wife of a Lubbock architect, was killed almost instantly in an automobile accident near Woodville, Texas, Thursday afternoon, relatives informed friends here.

The husband and a daughter, Betty Mae, 13, also were injured. Haynes suffered a broken leg but the daughter was not seriously hurt. Haynes was taken to a Woodville hospital.

Funeral To Be Today

Haynes is associated with W. T. Strange, jr., in the architect firm bearing their names here. The family had gone to Beaumont and Woodville to visit relatives during the Thanksgiving holidays. They live at 1912 Broadway.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Woodville, with burial there.

Mrs. Haynes was the former Miss Edwina Cress, having married Haynes in 1925. Other survivors were not immediately available when word of the death was received here at midnight. Details of the mishap were lacking here.

Strange left early today to attend rites.

Food Is Dropped From Planes To Grecian Army

By MAX HARRELSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 21. — British and Greek planes were declared to night to have dropped sacks of canned meat and bread to Greek troop units which had advanced so far into the Albanian mountains behind the retreating Italians that truck transport could not be operated effectively.

The Greeks reported from the front that they had first thought they were being bombed since the food sacks were dropped without parachutes.

Greeks Hold Back

While spectacular Greek advances were thus reported the spokesman declared by inference that even greater progress might have been made had the Greek army not been

Missing Canadian Airman Found Alive

EAST LAKE, Que., Nov. 21. (AP)—Searching parties tonight reached one of five Royal Canadian air force men missing since the crew of an Atlantic patrol plane bailed out when their craft ran out of fuel last Saturday night in the wilderness southeast of here.

They reported the airman was alive.

Four were still missing out of the crew of six, one having made his way out to civilization soon after the plane crashed to prompt a wide search by both United States army and Canadian fliers.

French Vessel Said To Have Surrendered

ALGECIRAS, Spain, Nov. 21. (AP)—A French battleship of the same type as the Paris was reported tonight to have entered Gibraltar and surrendered to the British authorities. The battleship was anchored at the entrance of the port.

(France at the outbreak of war had two battleships of the Paris class, each of 22,189 tons—the Paris itself and the Courbet.)

LOS ANGELES PICKED

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 21. (AP)—United Daughters of the Confederacy selected Los Angeles today for the 1941 convention and re-elected their president-general, Mrs. Charles E. Bolling, Richmond, Va., and all other officers eligible for additional terms.

Lubbock Gives Up State Crown In Rocking Game

By COLLIER BARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

THE demolition division of Amarillo is back on the march, boys, and from the way that wrecking crew acted yesterday it must think the drafting and training season is over and that they've already joined the Greeks and Britishers.

Shades of the middle thirties? Shades like heck! The Amarillo Sandstorm which blew down on Lubbock yesterday, leaving a trail of busted hopes and wrecked championships, probably could have spotted the Amarillo 'storm of yester years a couple of tornadoes and a dozen zephyrs and still made wrecks of 'em.

The storm that blew through here yesterday not only ended Lubbock High school's reign as king of Texas schoolboy football, but indicated quite forcefully to a crowd of 18,000 fans—largest crowd ever to attend a sporting event in this part of West Texas—that it would blow with gusto on down through the state and into the hinterlands, if necessary, to resume its place as head of the class, a place it held for three years in a row.

Better Than Score.

It really was a football game, as you have probably deduced by now, and the score was: Amarillo 14, Lubbock nothing.

The score, big as it looks, might have been greater and Lubbock's team and fans wouldn't have felt much worse, because Amarillo's team was better than the score indicates.

It's to the credit of the plugging, hard-fighting charges of Coaches Goober Reyes and Walker Nichols that the Golden Sandies didn't score more frequently, because the Sandies, coached by Howard "Bull" Lynch, yesterday were a great high school ball team.

The Sandies struck with a terrifying drive after taking the kick-off opening the second half, carried the ball 88 yards, without losing it, to a touchdown. They struck back in the fourth quarter for another.

Beautiful Defense

The Sandstorm defense, possibly the most beautiful thing about Amarillo's fine team, never permitted the Westerners inside their 25-yard line.

Leste Jackson, burly bulwark of the Lubbock backfield, twice carried punt returns to that point. Both times he "almost got away" for the distance, once running better than 20 yards, again for a flat 40 yards. But when it came to a matter of pounding the Amarillo line or passing over the Amarillo secondary, Lubbock was helpless and unprovided for.

The big crowd, said by Business Manager of Athletics E. J. Pinkey Lowrey of Lubbock High to number well over 17,500 persons, jammed every nook and cranny of Tech Stadium, filling all the available seats, including the 4,500 "extra" spaces and a "jammed up" situation in the permanent general admission sections. Standing room space was sold, at general admission prices, until the saturation point was reached, after which officials refused admission to nearly 2,000 would-be spectators.

Lowrey, other school officials, gatemen and the officers of the law were all agreed that, although it was the largest crowd ever "handled" here, it was also the best be-

Texas Teachers Meet; Irvin To Be Nominated

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Nov. 21.—Texas teachers here for the opening today of their state association convention heard the association executive committee's endorsement of renewed efforts to bring about functioning of the teacher retirement plan.

Formal notice that the committee had given unanimous approval to such efforts and to the federal child labor amendment, was high in order of opening business.

Opinion Given

The committee, which met yesterday, had received many letters and telegrams from teachers and organizations urging that something be done to effectuate the retirement plan, now inoperative through failure of the Legislature to provide matching funds for $6,500,000 already contributed by teachers.

Only yesterday in Austin Attorney General Gerald Mann delivered an opinion that the Legislature could appropriate directly from the general revenue fund to provide the state's contribution to the teacher retirement financing.

Headquarters of the association estimated last night 3,000 visitors had arrived and predicted there would be 10,000 as sessions progressed.

To Nominate Irvin

Association members said W. B. Irvin, superintendent of public schools at Lubbock, would be placed in nomination for the presidency tomorrow by O. J. Lass of Plainview, representing the West Texas association, and should be a strong candidate.

Charles H. Tennyson of Wichita Falls was not eligible for reelection as president. Three vice presidents are to be chosen.

Governor O'Daniel's 168-member educational commission held an open meeting yesterday and saw controversy develop over proposed consolidation of small rural school districts in the state by reducing the number from 4,000 to 600.

H. W. Stillwell of Texarkana, commission head, said that at the request of the governor the 90-page report of recommendations, providing for complete reorganization of the Texas public school system, had not been made public.

Plainview Man Is Named For Position

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 21. (AP)—President Joseph Bowes of the Oklahoma Natural Gas company announced today appointment of Aiden Coffey, jr., of Plainview, Tex., as sales promotion and advertising manager.

Coffey, who succeeds H. Vinton Potter, formerly held the same position with the Texas-New Mexico utilities company. Potter resigned to accept a position in Fall River, Mass.

New Administration For Defense Urged

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) proposed today that a war resources administration be created under a single administrator empowered "to cut across red tape and give his undivided attention to the one vast problem of industrial teamwork for defense."

Taft announced that he would introduce a bill to create the administration, whose functions would be to coordinate all industrial and procurement phases of the defense program.

Mrs. Knapp Weaker, Hospital Reports Say

An attending physician said Mrs. Bradford Knapp continued to grow weaker in condition late Thursday night in West Texas hospital.

Mrs. Knapp, wife of the second president of Texas Technological college, is suffering a heart ailment. Her home is at 2508 Twentieth street.

A son, Bradford Knapp, jr., arrived by plane at Municipal airport Thursday night, coming here by way of Amarillo from Washington, D. C. Two other sons and two daughters already were at the bedside.

Mrs. Knapp's critical condition had improved several days ago but her condition became worse Tuesday night.

Saturday mostly cloudy with snow in northeast portion and over higher elevations of north central and northwest portions. Colder north portion Friday night and over north and east portions Saturday.

America Observes Peaceful Holiday

(By The Associated Press)

GRATITUDE for the blessings of peace formed the theme of many a holiday sermon yesterday as 32 states of the union celebrated Thanksgiving day with prayer and feasting.

Foregoing his annual trip to Warm Springs, Ga., because of the international situation, President Roosevelt went instead to Hyde Park, N. Y., where he attended divine services and heard the Rev. Frank R. Wilson say:

Work To Do.

"This great country enjoys so much. The grandest thing of all it enjoys is peace, and a great amount of security.

"But we cannot just sit back and gloat on that. We have an opportunity, a work to do. We must pass these blessings on to others."

Later, in the big stone and stucco house that was his birthplace, the president sat down to a turkey dinner with the first lady, his mother and other relatives.

In Washington, meanwhile, diplomats and notables of the United

City Celebrates Thanksgiving

Numerous vehicular accidents Thursday accluated the mad pace at which Lubbockites and thousands of visitors to the city celebrated Thanksgiving.

Fair weather, however, lent more than a fair hand in minimizing seriousness of mishaps.

No Traffic Trouble

The banshee cry of all Lubbock's sirens would have been ineffective against the hour-long din of automobile horns that followed Amarillo High school's conquest of Lubbock's Westerners.

Demobilization of more than a thousand automobiles from the Texas Technological college campus was effected without a hitch, although city traffic was thrown into a whirl.

Peace officers were quick to compliment the behavior of Amarillo fans, who had seen their football team satiate its thirst for victory against the Westerners after a two-year lapse.

"There was nothing untoward in action of any of the out of town visitors," Capt. W. W. Legge commented.

Newspaperman And Wife Slain

(By The Associated Press)

MIDLAND, Nov. 21—James P. Harrison, 38, business manager of the Midland Reporter Telegram, and his wife, Mrs. Lilyan Harrison, 24, were found fatally shot at 1 p. m. today.

The bodies were in the Harrison coupe in the driveway at their new home. An automatic pistol also was in the automobile. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Neighbors said they heard the automobile drive in about midnight, but none heard any shots.

Bodies Are Found

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison ate at a restaurant last night, after which they visited in a friend's home until 11 o'clock.

Harrison's body was slumped under the wheel of the automobile. That of Mrs. Harrison was on the seat beside him.

They were married July 10. It was Harrison's third marriage and his wife's second.

Mrs. Harrison's mother, Mrs. Lucy Fuller, lives at Colorado City.

NEWSPAPERMAN DIES

Mysterious SOS Signals Are Heard, But Vessel Is Safe

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21. Mackay radio and the coast guard heard an unexplained SOS late today, supposedly from the German liner Orinoco, which was reported later to be safely at anchor in the harbor at Tampico, Mexico.

The distress signal was the first of three flashed within less than an hour by at least two different ships. It was picked up at 3:57 p.m. (CST) on the 24-meter short wave band.

At 4:28, the British freighter Cree, 4,791 tons, messaged that she had been torpedoed and was "sinking fast" at latitude 54.39 north, longitude 18.50 west, about 500 miles west of Ireland.

A few minutes later, Atlantic coast stations heard a report from the coast guard patrol boat Frederick Lee, stationed about 1,000 miles east of Boston, that

Fist Fights Break Out At AFL Meet

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—A triple fist fight punctuated the American Federation of Labor's annual convention tonight and thrust to the forefront the scorching issue of anti-racketeering.

David Dubinsky, author of an anti-racketeering resolution, said he was attacked thrice because of the measure. He requested police protection after the early morning hotel lobby fight.

The Dubinsky resolution would enable the AFL to take into its own hands the power—now lacking—to drive racketeers and labor gangsters from the unions. Dubinsky is president of the International Ladies Garment Workers.

To Fight For Measure.

Dubinsky said that twice in the Roosevelt hotel bar and once in the lobby he was attacked by an "unknown red-headed man" and Joseph Fay of New York, vice president of the Operating Engineers union who denounced his resolution as "lousy."

The unknown man and Fred Umhey, executive secretary of Dubinsky's union both were knocked to the floor, Dubinsky said.

"I'm more determined than ever to fight for the measure," Dubinsky declared and added he would take his battle to the convention floor if there seemed danger the resolution would not be approved.

No Statement Given.

Fay could not be reached for a statement. Dubinsky requested police protection "not for myself but for my family." A uniformed officer was stationed outside his hotel room door.

AFL President William Green said the fight was just a "personal mat-

CIO Says It Is Against "Isms"

By TOM COMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 21. The Congress of Industrial Organizations today declared itself against Nazism, communism and Fascism "as inimical to the welfare of labor and destructive of our form of government."

The CIO asserted that it was an American institution," which would carry on its work in "the labor movement in the spirit of real American trade unionism."

One Dissenting Vote

The climax of long agitation among groups in the organization for a declaration against foreign "isms" came in CIO's third annual convention with the adoption of a resolutions committee report which declared "the Congress of Industrial Organizations condemns the dictatorships and the totalitarianism of Nazism, communism and Fascism as inimical to the welfare of labor and destructive of our form of government."

There was no debate and the lone dissenting vote from the rear of

Hamlet's Two Mayors Are Checker Cronies; Highway Divides Twin Administration

SAND SPRINGS, S. C. Nov. 21. (U.P.)—Sandy Springs is a one-horse town with two men in the driver's seat.

But Sam Smith, mayor of the east side of U. S. Highway 29, and W. K. Moore, mayor of the other side, pull together. As a matter of fact there is only one problem facing the town, and both mayors worry over that during their afternoon checker games.

It seems that the town policeman (who also serves as magistrate and constable) is owed $14 by the city, with no prospects of getting paid. He collects all the taxes and fees due the city, but this year they failed to meet his salary.

Smith and Moore say he gets along all right, but the mayors don't get a cent. They are supposed to divide what is left over.

The two men, Moore, 42, and invalid, and Smith, 70, short and fat, tied with 100 votes each in the mayoralty election in August. So rather than take the chance of either's losing a few friends, they decided to act as co-mayors and each direct affairs of his side of the road.

The mayors spend most of their time sitting by the two springs behind the postoffice, playing checkers and wondering if Republicans are gaining any strength.

Outside of one-sided political discussions and the police problem, the main thing they worry about is the fire hazard. But Moore says the town's inhabitants carry too little insurance.

"When we do have one the first mayor there shoots a pistol and everybody comes running with buckets. We get the water out of the springs. Luckily, everything in town is right close to them and there's not much chance for a fire to get started.

"It's just a little huck town, with four stores, eight or ten filling stations and a couple of telephones. Most of the people—I reckon about 500 in all—work in the cotton mills down the road. There's no industry here to speak of, everybody just lives and talks and works a little."

Fast Driving Is Overlooked

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21. (U.P.)—The legal technicality which officially imposes a 50-mile speed limit on Pennsylvania's new $70,000,000 super-highway, covering 160 miles between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, has not been tested.

One motorist covered the 160-mile, seven-tunned route in one hour and 59 minutes, and other motorists are reported driving from 55 to 85 miles an hour without reprimand from the 50 special State Motor Police detailed to the highway.

The official 50-mile speed limit was set before the road was opened by Gov. Arthur H. James. The governor, Attorney General Claude T. Reno, Col. Lynn G. Adams, state motor police commissioner, agreed the road was a part of the state highway system and subject to the speed restrictions of the Motor Code.

State Police officials say their duty is to stop careless or reckless driving rather than speeders. Turnpike officials make no mention of the speed limit, but privately advise "speed within reason" is permissible.

On the super-highway there are few signs reminding of the 50-mile limit and the "rules of the road" printed on through tickets do not mention speeding.

It is expected the legislators will raise the limit on the highway at the January session.

Inactive Marts To Be Removed

(By The United Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—The board of managers of the New York Cotton Exchange has approved recommendations of a special committee for the revision of methods whereby cotton is classified and the price of tendered staple determined.

The committee suggested:

1. That relatively inactive markets be eliminated from the list of "designated markets" on the average quotations of which prices of tendered cotton are based.

Changes Are Undisclosed

2. That certain undisclosed changes be made in the government procedure of classing cotton.

3. That classification be immediately reviewed, with but a single fee for both classification and review.

Through the elimination of inactive markets from the list of "designated markets" it is hoped to bring the price of cotton tendered on contracts more into line with actual spot market conditions than is the case now. It was recommended that only markets handling 75,000 bales per annum be termed "designated markets."

Four Markets Named

The committee named Memphis, New Orleans, Galveston and Houston as satisfactory "designated markets" with the inclusion of Little Rock, Ark., "provided that it handles a sufficient volume of these grades to quote true values." Savannah, Norfolk, Montgomery and Augusta would be eliminated.

The committee's report will be presented to other cotton exchanges and to merchants exchanges throughout the country for their study and approval. It also will be sent the department of agriculture for final approval.

New World Order Seen

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 21 (U.P.)—Three great world empires will emerge from the present World war, and German-dominated Europe will not be one of them, according to Dr. Clinton Howard, professor of history at the University of California.

The three empires, which are already in the making, he said, will be as follows:

1. An Anglo-American empire which is federal in structure, and essentially maritime in culture, having sea power as its great means of communications and weapon of defense and offense.

2. A Russo-Siberian empire of as yet largely undeveloped resources and personalities.

3. Some type of a Sino-Japanese empire with either group predominating, but just which is uncertain at the present time.

Dr. Howard believes an Anglo-American empire may emerge in one of two ways:

1. Through closer co-operation of the British Empire and the United States.

2. In the event the British Empire should go down, through the reorganization of the English-speaking parts of the empire around the United States.

"The results of the present war," Dr. Howard stated, "will leave Europe broken economically and exhausted spiritually. Some parts of it may come under German control, but what is more likely, it may fall under the hegemony of the Anglo-American and Russo-Siberian empires.

"In any event, Europe's control of the overseas world is probably broken and done. She may continue as a cultural center, but her political and industrial importance will be destroyed.

"German industrial capitalism will be crushed by the powerful neighbors which flank her, the Anglo-American group and the Russo-Siberian."

Many Of Nation's New Citizen-Soldiers May Be Disappointed On Sartorial Side Of Army Life; Old Clothing Preserved

By SANDOR S. KLEIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 — Many of the nation's new citizen-soldiers may be disappointed with the sartorial side of army life.

But, military officials said today, time and mass production will assuage their hurt feelings.

It seems that there are not enough modern roll-collar type of uniforms to supply the new army of trainees. There are thousands of them on order but it may be months before deliveries begin on a grand scale.

Hence, Army officials are reaching into the World war left-over stocks of standing-collar uniforms and overcoats that went out of style with hobble-skirts. A large number of the 800,000 trainees due to be mustered into the service between now and next June will have to wear them until the more stylish ones become available.

The old type woolen breeches, with spur leggings—the kind that turned many a doughboy into a ravin' maniac—will be used temporarily as substitute for the present-day trousers and canvas leggings.

Virtually all of this old clothing has been preserved well, Army officers says, adding that the boys ought to feel proud to wear the uniform that thrilled their mothers 23 years ago.

The Army figures it will cost about $87 a year to clothe the average infantryman. This figure includes the maintenance cost.

Generally, these are the major items of clothing issued to the recruit:

Two olive drab serge blouses (uniform coats); and olive drab service cap; seven pairs of cotton drawers; nine undershirts; an overcoat and a raincoat; an olive drab service hat and an a denim working hat; two pairs of wool trousers; three pairs of khaki cotton trousers and two pairs of denim working trousers; two pairs of service shoes and one pair of garrison shoes; two wool and two cotton shirts; eight pairs of socks; two neckties; six handkerchiefs; a pair of woolen gloves and denim working jumpers.

And here's a tip from an old service man on army shoes if they happen to be just a bit too large: it's for you, recruit. When you first put on your shoes, soak them—feet included—in a tub of water. Then take the shoe for a walk. This molds the shoes to your feet and avoids those vicious heel blisters. Once the shoes are dried, smear them with neatsfoot oil to keep the leather soft.

Field Enlarged For Douglases

BY ROBERT W. LEACH
United Press Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Nov. 21.—The world's largest airplane—the Douglas B-19—contains among other things indicative of its size, a power plant and generator capable of supplying the electrical needs of Santa Monica's largest department store.

The huge bomber is nearing completion and will soon undergo test flights. The Douglas plant airport was enlarged to accomodate the big ship.

A power plant that would drive two generators of 15 kilowatts capacity was necessary because of the many electrical needs aboard the craft. Among these was the installation of power steering—something never before used in any airplane.

Like ocean liners that use motors to turn the rudder, the B-19's rudder, elevators and ailerons will be moved by electric motors controlled by the pilot. This was necessary because the control surfaces—larger than the entire wing area of most airplanes—would be virtually impossible to move by manual controls.

Has Inter-Plane 'Phone System

The radio equipment also will use a large portion of the electrical output of the generators. It consists of four sending and receiving sets carried for different purposes. The equipment is as large as that of a medium sized commercial broadcasting station.

In flight the crew will be stationed at various posts on both decks inside the hull. The captain will issue orders and instructions to the pilots, navigator, flight engineers, mechanics, radio operator, gunners and bombardiers over a 24-station telephone system.

The electrical wiring for all installations total upwards of 10 miles if stretched in a single strand.

The building of the landing gear for the plane required construction by an eastern tool company of special machines before the struts were built.

The landing wheels are more than eight feet high and weigh 1,000 pounds each. The tire casings and tubes were specially designed and built to take the shock of landing the 164,000 pound plane. The tires will carry 70 pounds of air pressure.

The four motors which will drive the plane at an estimated maximum speed of 210 miles per hour are Wright duplex cyclone engines developing more than 2,000 horsepower each.

The B-19 is about twice as large as the biggest clipper ships, and represents an enlarged version of airliners already in existence.

VARGAS INVITED — With hemisphere cooperation increasingly important to American defense, President Roosevelt has invited President Getulio Vargas, above, of Brazil, to pay an official visit to the U. S. Vargas accepted "in principle," but did not set a date for his visit.

DIES ON WEDDING DAY

CLEVELAND, O. (U.P.)—When a newspaper photographer called at the home of John and Anna Schneider here recently to take their golden wedding anniversary picture for his paper, Mr. Schneider became so excited that he suffered a fatal heart attack.

Ports of Hong Kong and Macao, China, have been declared cholera infected.

MODELS FORM AGENCY

MIAMI, Fla. (U.P.)—Miami's models—the girls who pose in bathing suits and otherwise to advertise the charms of this resort area—have organized their own agency — the Miami Fashion Club—and will operate it on a non-profit basis. They claim it is the only club of its kind in the nation.

Why 666 relieves HEADACHE and NEURALGIA so Quickly

The "BC" formula is a special combination of several quick-acting ingredients widely recognized for their relief-giving effectiveness. These ingredients dissolve, promptly and go right after such discomforts as headaches, neuralgia, muscular aches and functional periodic pains.

Keep a 10c or 25c package of "BC" handy. When used for the relief of these aches and pains for which it is recommended, and according to directions indicated on each package, we think you'll agree that it works fast and relieves in a hurry. Always consult a physician when pains persist or recur frequently.

The Woman's Angle
Margaret Hubert

"A BERLIN editor says German will soon be the universal language, but foreign statesmen who deal with Hitler needn't bother much on that account. All they will need in their talks is the Nazi equivalent for 'Yes'."

THE REAL DEFENSE

WOMAN'S contribution to national defense is the "strengthening of the ties of home, school and church," Mrs. LaFell Dickinson, first vice-president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, told Texas clubwomen assembled in Austin last week. At present women do not need to be mobilized, the speaker, who is from Keene, N. H., said. They need to keep on doing what they are doing—studying national defense so that they can be on call to respond when the time comes.

Women should spend more time in their homes, the charming visitor said. There may be fifth columnists in the community but head G-man J. Edgar Hoover gets paid a handsome salary for catching them. It's up to the women to get rid of "witches" that may be invading their homes, she said. The "witches" of ignorance, gossip, or greed and hatred work against union in homes, in communities, in states, said Mrs. Dickinson.

How can we expect to have world peace if we can not get along in our own lives, our homes, our country? she asked.

The speaker told of a life-long habit Cole Porter, composer of musical comedies and best know for his song, "Night and Day," observes in going to see his mother when he cannot think of the particular word he needs for a script or a song. He flies from his home in Hollywood to her home in Gary, Ind., and after a few hours in her company he is able to think clearly and to write better. Mothers should be in their homes when children come to them, "seeking for the right word," she cautioned.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR MISS TURNER: Referring to your column of November 12, I would like to substantiate the points which "Mother" brought to light about Lubbock.

One of the first occasions to which we were invited was a wedding shower for a couple my husband had just met and I had never seen. Since then there have been similar occasions.

About the honking of horns—to me this is a matter to be handled by course of law. It is intolerable. For instance, a church service which we attended in a down town church was brutally interrupted by the blast of horns. I do not feel that this could be blamed on the college students but rather a group of prominent citizens' children who are allowed the car for riding during church hours.

A labor organization. I wonder if the wives and mothers of Lubbock realize how valuable organized labor would be to the happiness of their families. Men as a whole in Lubbock are forced by employers to work longer hours than in any city of its size I have ever seen or heard of. My husband is forced to work such hours that he has no time for spiritual, educational or recreational participation. He always works 17 hours and has worked as many as 21—yes, 21—hours on Saturday. On Sundays it is necessary for him to rest all day. Incidentally, he is not paid overtime. I know that I am speaking for more than a few similar cases in Lubbock. Wouldn't organized labor offer better living conditions than this? Why are all cities the size of Lubbock organized? Could the women of Lubbock aid in forming such an organization?

Lubbock has a Detail Merchants association. It decided to make labor day a "day of labor." This is a national holiday for laboring people. All businesses could have been closed all day with no particular loss or injury to anyone. Couldn't there be a labor organization to counterbalance such action?

Why hasn't Lubbock, a city of almost 40,000 people, one united labor organization? Our husbands need better working hours. Other cities have them—so can Lubbock! I am voicing the opinions of many Lubbock families when I say we would like for our husbands and fathers to live more with us and be able to participate in spiritual, educational and recreational activities of our city and homes.

This is not giving Lubbock a black eye because I can name any number of advocates and desirable qualities which Lubbock has and of course we want "A Mother" to move to our city, but these are mere suggestions for improvement in order that more people may be attracted to Lubbock and it may become one of the leading cities of the southwest.

What is your opinion?

A Lubbock Resident.

DEAR LUBBOCK RESIDENT: With some shame we confess we know comparatively little about labor in Lubbock. We know so little of unions we do not know whether they would be an answer to your problem or not. Certainly 17 hours a day is too much for anyone to work. We'd like for readers to comment on this letter.

Color Is Added To Blacks And Browns

By AMY PORTER
Associated Press Feature Service Writer

The majority rules, even in fashion. Now, with the winter season well under way, the public that wears 'em has passed judgment on the many fashions launched last September. You, and some millions of other women, have decided which trends you'll accept and which you won't, and the stores bow to your verdict.

Remember the fashion chant in the early fall? "Tight skirts, tight skirts," was the way it went. But now there are no tight skirts, or very few. You wouldn't have them.

So the stores told the manufacturers, and the manufacturers added gores and pleats and strips of cloth, and widened skirts to your taste. Now the ads say, "Skirts look slim, but they have hidden fullness."

Jewelry Gets O. K.

Costume jewelry you like, apparently; the more the bigger, the better the merrier.

Color pleases you. It seems you are tired of wintry black and brown, and you're glad to relieve it with shrill reds and greens, and muted pastels, and white—lots of white. You like white hats for dressy occasions. You like white coats, fur or cloth, for football games and evening.

You are tired of pinafores, though college girls still wear them. And you will have none of the dirndl skirt except in housecoats and playclothes.

You love glitter for evening. Using a simple black dinner dress as a basis, you've learned to build a whole dress-up wardrobe around it. For rather formal dining, you wear it with a sequin splattered jacket, a tiny evening hat. For less formal occasions, you wear it with a bright red jacket, buttoned up high at the neckline.

Dancing means full skirts to you, no matter what the silhouette trend may be, and designers are preparing full skirts for the holidays.

Umbrella Hats

Shoes and hats were crazy enough a year ago, but they're crazier still this winter. That seems to be the way you like it. Next you'll be buying the "floppy umbrella" hat, two feet in diameter, to wear with your furs, or the new sequin trimmed turban which has a beaded band that drops down under your chin to form a necklace. Transparent plastic shoes made such a hit with you that they've gone into mass production, and the price is way, way down.

You like your gloves varied and colorful, but your oversize handbag still is either black or brown.

They tried to put you into knee-length skirts this fall, but because short sleeves weren't flattering, you insisted on an extra inch or two of length.

You've accepted long suit jackets, whether they're becoming or not.

Is there something else you'd like to have? Just ask for it often enough at your local store, and soon they'll produce it for you. It was so last year, and the year before, and it will be so again.

Lubbock Persons To Attend CMA Program

World-famed Fritz Kreisler, violinist, is to appear in concert at Amarillo High school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock under the sponsorship of the Panhandle Civic Music association. A number of Lubbockites who are members of the South Plains Civic Music association are planning to attend.

Since no seats are reserved under the CMA setup, those who arrive early will get the best seats. While reciprocity is offered, members of the sponsor association are usually seated first.

The program will consist of numbers by Handel, Bruch, Bach and Schubert and Kreisler's arrangements of selections from Brahms, Dvorak and Cyril Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Leva have returned from Kansas City where they were married Nov. 17. Mrs. Leva is the former Miss Leah Wedlan. Mr. Leva is a son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Leva of 2606 Twenty-first street.

NEW NOTE—Mrs. William C. Cavanagh's shoulder cape and round muff are of paradise fox—the intriguing fur that has been making fashion headlines. It is white with long black hairs spaced far apart all over it.

Officers Are Named By Posey H-D Club

"Lean pork is rich in vitamin B, without which one may suffer from poor appetite and nervous irritability," Miss Clara Pratt told members of the Posey Home Demonstration club when she was demonstrating preparing pork products. The club met recently at the home of the foods demonstrator, Mrs. Benton Patterson, for an all-day meeting and covered dish luncheon. Mrs. Patterson showed her improved kitchen and pantry.

Mrs. Patterson reported that four cooperators had completed their goals for the year. Mrs. L. K. Hart gave a talk on "Folks Before Farms." Plans were made for a turkey dinner to be held Dec. 3 at the Slaton club house. Families and friends of the club members will be guests.

In a business meeting the following officers were elected: president, Mrs. O. R. Patterson; vice-president, Mrs. E. W. Brown; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. O. E. Patterson; council delegates, Mrs. C. Z. Pine, Mrs. Brown and alternate, Mrs. Hart; reporter, Mrs. Pine; yard demonstrator, Mrs. W. S. Grinstead and W. A. Wilke; foods supply demonstrator, Mrs. R. Patterson and Mrs. M. P. Gentry.

Mrs. Gus Viveol was also present.

Forty-Two Club Has Meeting Wednesday

Pia-Mor Forty-Two club members were the guests of Mrs. B. E. Needles, 1811 Eighth street, Wednesday afternoon. A Thanksgiving motif featured appointments and giant chrysanthemums centered the refreshment table.

Special guests were Mesdames Roscoe Webster, J. C. Stansell, C. A. Nowlin, Beiverd Needles and Charles Ross. Members attending were Mesdames Mark Halsey, T. H. Barnard, John Morrison, Rufus Bundy, John R. Hall, J. P. Posey and J. D. Nelson.

ELEGANCE IS THEME—Elegance in the Renaissance manner is a strong theme in winter fashions. Carried out here in the Medici collar of hand-carved transparent plastic which crowns a bag of panther-black suede. Designed by Josef.

Ace-Trey-Club Holds Dinner For Husbands

Husbands of members of the Ace-Trey club were honored at a Thanksgiving turkey dinner Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hankins, 2909 Twenty-third street.

An arrangement of autumn fruits centered the table which was lighted with tapers in double candelabra.

H. P. Maner won the traveling prize in games of forty-two enjoyed after the meal.

Attending were Messrs. and Mesdames Hugh Hines, Ed and J. D. Corcorran, Stanton Rhea, H. L. Burgess, J. T. Langford, Ray Allen, B. R. Cantrell, Clifford and J. H. Williams, Leete Jackson and Maner.

Club Member Given Shower On Birthday

L'Aiquillee club members met with Mrs. R. E. Ellison, 2304 Twentieth street, Wednesday afternoon to plan for a Christmas party. This will be Dec. 18 at the home of Mrs. H. T. Wilkins, 2314 Fourteenth street.

Mrs. Wilkins, who was observing her birthday, was presented with a club gift shower.

Old Motorists Flunk Traffic Law Exam

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21. (U.P.)—Inexperienced motorists are more familiar with traffic rules than veteran drivers, the Pittsburgh Better Traffic committee has discovered.

The committee conducted a quiz at the Pittsburgh Automobile Show, in which novice drivers generally made better scores in answering questions on safe driving rules than motorists who have been driving cars for a long time.

Horse Cavalry Will Never Surrender Its Military Function, Commandant Of Fort Bliss, Historic Cavalry Post, Declares

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

FORT BLISS, Nov. 21 — Horse cavalry which paved the way for the development of the great west will never surrender its military function, despite the development of mechanized warfare, Major General Robert C. Richardson, jr., commandant of this historic cavalry post said today.

Richardson planned to prove his contention with exercises later but he argued his point heatedly after pointing to the desert terrain which surrounds his post.

Depends On Location.

"We do not know where the next war is to be fought," he said. "In certain terrain mechanized equipment cannot move as fast as horses. Horses are not confined to a road map. It all depends on where you are going to use them.

"We have an entirely different situation in this country than in Europe. The distance is shorter between Berlin and Brussels than between towns in one state in this country. We have to create our own units. We must be able to get off the road.

Far Different In Present Times.

Contending that mechanization has captured the popular imagination because of recent European war developments, Richardson asserted that there is an ability on the part of cavalry to move striking power more quickly over difficult terrain than is possible with motorized or mechanized units. His command, he said, carries 3,749 rifles, 174 .30-caliber machine guns, and 518 .30-caliber machine guns, as well as anti-tank guns and 75-millimeter Howitzers. These functions he contended make cavalry far different from the days when it amounted to a man with a lance on a horse.

In recent maneuvers over terrain favorable to cavalry, Richardson said, horse units moved into and occupied strategic positions well ahead of enemy motorized units.

"A modern cavalry regiment has more machine guns now than a whole regiment of infantry in the World war," Richardson concluded. "In the matter of cost, one scout car costs around $9,500, while we can get horses for $165 each and they take care of themselves.

"I personally believe that we can justify all the faith people put in us."

WANTS TO SELL OUT

MT. AIRY, N. C., Nov. 21 (U.P.) — For sale: one deluxe steel vault and large tomb. Apply James Watson.

It isn't that Watson, 60-year-old janitor, doesn't think that he'll need such equipment someday but he's decided that he wants to be buried with relatives elsewhere. So he's offering his cemetery lot, tomb and trimmings, all carefully prepared ten years ago, to the highest bidder.

HE WANTS TO BE DRAFTED

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. (U.P.) — Woodrow Wilson Todd, 34, hopes he will be drafted into the army, the sooner the better. Fined $100 for drunken driving, he said, he is paying it on the installment plan. If he is drafted, Judge C. A. Gale said, he would cancel the fine.

Slaton Youngsters Do Their Bit For Red Cross; Sell Toys

Three Slaton youngsters meant business Wednesday when they donated to the annual Red Cross drive for funds.

A total of sixty-five cents was brought to school by Marilyn Jane Stotts, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Stotts, Martha Lou Loveless, 9, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Loveless, and Mary Harral, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Harral.

Without consulting their parents they had gathered their toys and sold them to obtain the cash.

New Comet Is Nearing Sun

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 21 (U.P.) — Astronomers at Louisiana State University are observing the newly-discovered Cunningham's Comet, which is predicted to become the most spectacular since Halley's Comet in 1910.

"The comet is rapidly increasing in brightness," said Dr. David C. Guthrie, head of the L.S.U. physics department, and by Christmas it will be plain to the naked eye.

Cunningham's Comet is expected to reach its peak of brilliance next Jan. 14, when it approaches the sun, Guthrie said.

"Then it will be the brightest nocturnal body in the sky," he added. "Few persons by the use of photographic plates, because of the dimness. After another month it will be discerned easily through the telescope."

Directly overhead by late October, Cunningham's Comet will have moved into the western sky by the end of the year and will be visible best soon after sunset.

Guthrie has reported his observations of the comet to Harvard University, where the body was discovered a few weeks ago.

Canadians Disappointed Because Britain's War Refugee Children Not Sent

Dominion Eager To Aid Needy

By NORMAN MACLEOD
United Press Staff Correspondent

OTTAWA, Nov. 22. — Canada today, according to the testimony of statistics and a flood of eloquent correspondence in the possession of the Federal authorities, is a land of disappointed homes.

Households throughout the Dominion that had signified their willingness to extend sanctuary to British children exiled by the war are being notified, in response to hundreds of inquiries every day, that their plans of hospitality have been frustrated.

From more than 100,000 offers of homes for little British evacuees, government officials state, the supply of children has been sufficient to accept fewer than 7,500.

Of this total only between 1,500 and 1,600 have reached the Dominion under the auspices of the combined government of the United Kingdom and Canada. The balance have arrived as a result of private arrangements between their parents and individual Canadian families.

It is characteristic of the spirit that has enveloped the whole movement that the young evacuees, even in the official language used in government administration, are referred to as "guest children," not as refugees.

Disappointment Is Wide

Few Federal projects that have ever been discoutinued have occasioned the widespread disappointment that has been manifested from coast to coast in Canada over the sudden cessation of the influx of British children due to the dangers of ocean travel. Each day's mail brings to the government here hundreds of letters from families who cling to the hope that the children whom they were expecting to receive have left the mother country before the British government halted the movement. Federal authorities have no alternative but to announce to these homes the disappointment of their hopes—temporarily at least.

Canadians began offering to provide homes for British children even before the war started, and the offers increased rapidly as the threat to England grew greater.

Up to the moment of its discontinuance, the movement of British children to Canada had been proceeding with high success.

Careful Plans Laid

An elaborate and careful organization had been created to look after the children brought out under the government-sponsored scheme. The British government delivered them to some Canadian port of entry. There the Canadian government took charge of them, divided them into small parties suitably escorted, allocated them to different provinces on the basis either of the proportion of applications from each or in accordance with arrangements made with the British parents for some definite destination, and dispatched them for a brief waiting period to the several provincial capitals.

There the children were kept for a few days' rest from their travels. While a close medical watch was kept upon them to see that no communicable disease had been contracted on their ocean voyage, community groups co-operated in welcoming and entertaining them and accustoming them to their new environment.

After their period of waiting in the provincial capitals the children were dispersed to their new homes, which previously had been carefully inspected and approved by provincial authorities.

Rare Front Door Is Taken On Long Tour

When Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jorgenson left here by car for Yakima, Wash., they took the front door of their home with them.

Nearly a century old, the door, heavily carved and with an oval glass insert, was the property of Mrs. Jorgenson's mother, who saved pennies for its purchase.

ASSURES U. S.—French Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye pictured at the State Department, where he delivered Marshal Petain's reply to President Roosevelt's recent demand for clarification of the status of French colonies under a Franco-German peace treaty. The Vichy government's reply was reported to have contained assurances that Germany would get no French bases in the Western Hemisphere.

Oklahoman's Plan Studied

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 21. (U.P.)—The suggestion of an Oklahoma City man that smudgepot smokescreens would be a simple defense weapon for Great Britain has brought a letter of thanks from the British Air ministry.

George J. Heuser, 41, an accountant, got the idea two months ago after reading a newspaper account of the difficulty German pilots were having in finding their objects in London because of the pall of smoke from fires started by incendiary bombs.

Heuser remembered that while he lived in Florida farmers burned pine needles for a warm smoke-screen when frost threatened citrus crops. The more he thought about it, the stronger he felt the urge to tell the British.

Heuser cabled British Prime Minister Winston Churchill saying, "Continuous smudgepot smokescreen every building suggested defense enemy aircraft." He signed the $4 cablegram, "Friend."

Later Heuser discussed his idea with an army officer who advised him to write Churchill giving additional details.

Heuser wrote the British could build good smudges from wornout motor oils, refuge and old rubber tires. He suggested the slogan: "Keep the Home Fires Burning." The letter from the British Air ministry said in part:

"Your letter addressed to Mr. Churchill has been passed by him to Sir Archibald Sinclair, Secretary of State for Air, to consider your suggestion that London should be hidden from enemy raiding aircraft by a smokescreen which could be created by suitable material.

". . . Thank you for your contribution towards our success in the present struggle . . . Your proposal has been passed to the technical people who are concerned with this problem."

Germany has banned sales of industrial diamonds in Belgium.

Pre-Glacial River Bed May Give Rochester New Water Supply; Will Try To Tap Wells

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 22. (U.P.)—Man-made earthquakes have enabled geologists to locate a subterranean valley carved by the Genesee river in pre-glacial times, and which may produce a new water supply for this city.

When mapping of the valley is completed, attempts will be made to tap artesian wells and pipe the water into the Rush reservoir, city water reserve.

In searching for the "lost valley," scientists used dynamite and a seismograph, a sound-wave recording instrument better known for its ability to detect earthquakes.

Under direction of Dr. Frederick W. Lee, geophysical branch head of the United States Geological Survey, and his assistants, Dr. Joel Swartz, dynamite charges were prepared in holes drilled into the ground. The seismograph was set 100 feet from the hole in which the charge was to be fired.

The dynamite blast sent sound waves in all directions. The seismograph measured the length of time it took for the surface wave to reach the instrument, and also the time required for the downward bound sound wave to strike bedrock below and rebound to the instrument. By comparing the measurements—in thousandths of seconds—the geologists calculated the depth of the bedrock below the surface.

By repeated tests, Dr. Fairchild reported that bedrock lies from 450 to 600 feet below the surface.

Search for the underground river bed was undertaken at the suggestion of City Manager Louis B. Cartright and Prof. J. Edward Hoffmeister, Rochester University geologist.

Own Capsules Used In World War Draft

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21. (U.P.)—Among the souvenirs of Mayme Long are several capsules which were among those used in the World war draft lottery drawing.

Miss Long, who was an employe of the selective service bureau at the time, was a witness to the ceremony in which President Woodrow Wilson, blindfolded, drew capsules from a fishbowl.

Girls Will Sing At First Baptist Church

Three girls who won first place in a Better Music contest in Dallas Wednesday night will sing at evening services at First Baptist church Sunday night.

The trio, known as the First Baptist Anonma Girls trio, is composed of Melba Riek, Jane Rogers and Anita Seay, won first place in statewide competition. They had previously won first place in a district convention in Tahoka last spring.

CONFESSES, THEN DIES
SEBASTAPOL, Cal. (U.P.)—Al Burbank, 58, auto camp operator, rose in his pew at the tabernacle of the Assembly of God, and said: "The Lord has saved me from sin. I am ready to go if He should call me home." Then he slumped back in his seat. He was dead when a physician examined him.

King George Opens Session Of Parliament; Aid From United States Praised

Final Victory Is Assured

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 21.—In a sombre war-time ceremony shorn of its usual brilliance, King George opened a new session of Parliament in the bomb-scarred House of Lords today and informed the members that aid from the United States, in the form of munitions and supplies is arriving in "ever increasing volume."

The British empire, he said, will continue to fight "until freedom is made secure."

Little Formality

The king, in naval uniform, and the queen, wearing a gown and coat of deep purple, occupied twin thrones at the ceremony, but there was no state drive to Westminster in the Gilden coach, no scarlet and ermine robes worn by the press, nor brilliant dresses of peeresses. There were no diplomats present and the public was barred.

In both his four-minute address opening the new session and in another, read by Lord Simon, the lord chancellor, proroguing the old session yesterday, the king referred with satisfaction to increased supplies from the United States, and said relations "could not be more cordial."

Messages Of Optimism

Optimistic messages also were given by Prime Minister Winston Churchill in the House of Commons and Lord Halifax, foreign secretary, in the House of Lords.

Lord Halifax said Britain had made "certain proposals" for a trade agreement with Russia which she had "some reason to believe" would be acceptable, and had made other proposals of a "general character," particularly with reference to the Baltic states, to "establish greater confidence" in political relations between the two countries.

Churchill said the "valiant and sudden uprising" of the Greeks had "almost purged" their country of an Italian invader bent on "pure and unmitigated brigandage," and expressed confidence in Britain's ability to defend "the vital artery of the Suez canal."

He Pays Tribute

He said he was confident also that Britain eventually will be "as well armed as our antagonists" and that the "arsenals and training grounds and science of the British empire" eventually will "bring victory and deliverance to all mankind."

Britain's resources, already strained, will be given in "helpful measure" to the Greeks, he added.

The king not only paid tribute to "the prowess of the armed forces of my empire and those of my allies, but also by the devotion of the civil defense forces and the tenacity and industry of my peoples."

Lord Halifax referred to proposals to Soviet Russia as a "compromise" settlement arising out of Soviet annexations of territory.

British freezing of credits of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, annexed by Russia, and requisition of ships of these nations lately has been a stumbling block to closer relations with Russia.

Christmas Mail Rush Is Near

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. (U.P.) — The Postoffice department announced it is time Christmas greetings were being mailed to friends and relatives who live in distant foreign countries.

In fact, persons who intended to have a letter or a parcel in Thailand, Netherlands East Indies or the Straits Settlements on Christmas day are already too late. The last sailing from a Pacific coast port was Nov. 11 for those countries. Atlantic schedules have been sent topsy-turvy by the European war and all deliveries are uncertain, the department said.

"Last sailings from other Pacific coast ports," were listed as Nov. 26 for Australia and New Zealand, Nov. 29 for China and The Philippines, and Dec. 6 for Japan and Manchuria.

The steamships President Taft and Luriline will carry the last Christmas mails, Dec. 14, to the Territory of Hawaii. The S.S. Monterey leaves for Hawaii Dec. 10 and the S.S. President Pierce and S.S. Mastonia will sail for the islands Dec. 6, the department said.

"Last dates of dispatch from New York for destinations in the western hemisphere, are Dec. 19 for Haiti, Cuba, Bermuda, The Dominican Republic and the Virgin islands. Mail for Christmas delivery in Argentina, Uruguary and Paraguay will leave New York Nov. 30.

"Owing to the long sea travel frequently involved and to customs inspections abroad, parcels for foreign countries should ordinarily be mailed at the earliest date in November to assure delivery by Christmas day," the department said.

The postoffice department announced the parcel-post service to the following countries has been suspended:

Aden, Albania, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Belgium, British Somaliland, Bulgaria, Channel Islands, Cyprus, Czechoslovakia, Danzig, Denmark, Egypt, Estonia, Finland, French Somaliland, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Iran, Iraq, Italy and her colonies, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Netherlands, Norway, Palestine, Poland, Rumania, Saudi Arabia, Sweden, Syria, Trans-Jordan, Turkey, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Vatican City State and Yugoslovia.

Draftees Will Leave Tonight

Fifteen Lubbock county men will be inducted this morning into military service under provisions of the selective service act, and two "send-off programs" will be held for them today.

The seven men who will report for service to draft board No. 1 are Wilbert Anson Sewalt, Ewell Clifton Brown, Earle Elwood Williams, Woodrow Maurice Powers, Thomas Nelson Hutchinson, David Person Payne and John Pat Bowen. According to J. W. Tarlton, clerk of that board, the men will report to the offices at 601-602 Myrick building at 9 o'clock this morning. Then they will be sent to the induction in room 215 of federal building. Substitutes to replace men who may be rejected at the induction station will be Alva Dee Jackson and Earl Newman Trimble.

Program Planned

Douglas Founds, chairman of draft board No. 2 and only person who had access to the list of eight registrants to be inducted from the board, could not be reached Thursday night.

The inductees and members of Lubbock's draft organization will be guests at a weekly meeting of American Business club at noon today in Hilton hotel. Durwood H. Bradley, appeal board member, will be principal speaker.

A special program arranged by Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, chairman of draft board No. 1, and Pounds will be held shortly before 10:10 o'clock tonight at Santa Fe station, where the men are to entrain for El Paso. Former Judges Clark M. Mullican and Homer Pharr will speak. Lubbock High school band under direction of C. S. Eskridge will play.

Others To Go

Draftees from the following counties will leave with the Lubbock men tonight: Bailey, three; Briscoe, one; Castro, one; Cochran, one; Floyd, three; Hale, five; Hockley, seven; Parmer, two; Swisher, one.

Saturday additional draftees from the following counties will leave: Childress, three; Collingsworth, three; Cottle, three; Dickens, two; Donley, two; Gray, seven; Hall, four; Hemphill, one; Lipscomb, one; Motley, two; Ochiltree, one; Wheeler, three.

Nurse Switches Charts And Youth Flunks His Eyesight Examination

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 21. (AP)—Fred Lee Howard really wanted to get in the army.

He was rattling off letters on a sight chart so fast that the examining nurse suspected he had memorized them.

She switched charts. Howard flunked the test.

HOME VISITS RECOMMENDED

OMAHA, Neb. (U.P.)—Dr. Howard A. Wawson, director of rural service of the National Education association believes school teachers should visit homes and become familiar with out-of-school environments of pupils in order to find out all they need to know about students.

Reserves Given New Lessons

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. (U.P.) — Army reserve officers are having a hard time keeping up with their military schooling. War Department officials disclosed that courses are revised constantly to keep abreast with the European military tactics.

Each year the army specialized training schools issue revised courses to keep reserve officers studying for high rank abreast of military developments. Since the World War these courses have not changed fundamentally from year to year.

Within the last month, however, announcements of the 1940-41 adjutant general's office and hardly a branch of the service has been spared the job of learning a lot of things all over again.

Greatest influence in the revision of tactical courses is the use to which Germany has put motor vehicles in warfare.

For example, the first course for reserve lieutenants studying to be captains formerly was, "The Solution of Map Problems." Now it's "Tank, Tank Weapons and Tank Maintenance."

Study Invasion Of Poland

Two new courses have appeared —"Care and Operation of Motor Vehicles" and "Hasty Field Fortifications."

The infantry school announced a total of 12 new courses, most of them developed around German tactics in the invasion of Poland and France.

The air corps schools have added seven new courses, built around the use of aircraft to prepare the way for infantry advances. Germany used this strategy to an advantage, hurling dive bombers on French fixed fortifications which previously would have been attacked by the much slower process of moving artillery into position.

New Artillery Courses

Artillerymen also have a lot of new wrinkles to learn. The field artillery school has issued 12 new courses; coast artillery officers have 12 new courses in their curriculum.

Cavalry courses are full of references to mechanization. One of the 14 new cavalry courses is entitled the "Cavarly Horse Division and the Mechanized Regiment in Combined Action" another is "Mechanized Cavalry." Germans coordinated mounted and mechanized troops with a high degrees of efficiency in the battle of France.

Family Relations Experts Give 'Don'ts' For Couples

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Nov. 21. (U.P.)—Four rules have been formulated by the San Francisco Family Relations center that are virtually guaranteed to lead up to an unhappy marriage, a broken home, divorce or general marital collapse.

They are as follows:

1—Marry young, preferably under the age of 21.

2—Have a lot of beautiful romantic illusions.

3—Let the wife support her husband while he goes on to college and studies law, medicine or some other profession.

4—Don't bother learning anything about the basis of marriage until yours has started to crack.

The four rules are part of a report on the center's activities and experience prepared by Dr. Noel Keyes of the University of California, and Dr. J. V. Berreman of Stanford university. Both are experts in family relations.

They have ascertained the chances for unhappiness in marriage are infinitely greater when the young people wed at 21 than when they marry at 25.

Marriages under 25, under present social and economic conditions, they regard as "hazardous."

The ideal age, claims Dr. Keyes, is 29 for the woman and 28 for the man.

According to the most recent census figures available, the report finds 29 per cent of all marriages are made when the woman is under 20.

The ideal age for child-bearing is placed at between 25 and 34.

Dr. Berreman assails the current custom of wives supporting husbands who are finishing a professional training in college. At the end of such a training, Dr. Berreman has found, the husband often finds he has "outgrown" his wife.

He also decries romantic illusions. "They are particularly hazardous to marital success, and are one of the chief factors in the early failure of marriages," he declared.

Both urge that courses in marriage be included in all high school programs.

Most Bountiful Year-End Dividend Disbursements Since 1937 Are In Prospect

Many Companies Plan Payments

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Corporate directors spread before shareholders today a Thanksgiving menu of increased and resumed dividends as a forecast of what financial circles said probably would be the most bountiful year-end disbursement by American enterprise since 1937.

Despite the war-time boost in federal taxes to help pay the defense bill, many companies have had sufficient increase in profits to make generous payments in the usual Thanksgiving and pre-Christmas plum-cutting.

Many Industries Busy

Steel, machine-making, aviation and other industries working at record or near-record speed arm the fighting men of the United States and England have been conspicuously represented in recent dividend actions.

For the heavy industries, fortune had swung from the depression famine phase to the comparative feast of busy times.

Profits, however, have lagged relatively in the return of industrial production to the highest levels since 1929, a big year for dividend recipients.

A. T. And T. Dividend Declared

In the final rush of dividend declarations before Thanksgiving, America's No. 1 corporate giant, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., ordered payable to some 632,000 shareholders the regular quarterly disbursement of $2.25 a share on the common stock.

The action called for distribution of approximately $42,000,000 on Jan. 15 to shareholders of record Dec. 16.

Paper Firm's Earnings Are 17 Times Greater

NEW YORK, Nov. 21. (AP)—Earnings of International Paper and Power Co. were nearly 17 times greater in the nine months ended Sept. 30 than in the same period last year, the report showed today.

Net income of $12,214,551 compared with $725,301 in the like nine months of 1939. This was equal, after charges, taxes and depreciation, to $4.79 a share on the common stock after allowing for only regular preferred dividend requirements in the record. A year ago earnings were equal to 78 cents a preferred share. There is an accumulation of $12.50 a share on the preferred.

New All-Time High Is Set By Braniff Line

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 21. (UP)—Braniff Airways announced today that passenger traffic over its lines reached an all-time high during October.

Charles E. Beard, vice-president, said that passenger revenue for October, 1940 amounted to $184,554.62, which represented a 21.12 per cent increase over September, and a 93.50 per cent gain over October a year ago.

Tuberculars Given Treatment In Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 21. (UP)—Tuberculosis victims in Georgia not only will get modern methods of treatment but also may be placed in jobs after they're cured.

All this is contemplated in a new three-year program just launched, in which the state health department has asked the Georgia Tuberculosis Association to add a social service program for victims and their families and also to undertake vocational rehabilitation of recuperating patients.

The association has completed a three-year program of experimental pneumothorax treatment for victims. The health department described it as "highly successful" and has taken it over as a part of the regular state program.

Pneumothorax involves special treatments for patients whose lungs have been collapsed to facilitate healing. Air is propelled into the pleural cavity to collapse the affected lung, while the remaining stronger lung carries on respiratory work for the body.

The state board of health's division of tuberculosis control and the state tuberculosis sanitorium at Alto are cooperating with the association in the new twin program of social service and job placements for victims.

Republican's FDR Collection Unique

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21. (UP)—Ollie Merriman, who says he has been a staunch Republican for 35 years, has 12 scrapbooks of clippings about President Roosevelt.

Merriman, who voted the Republican ticket in the November presidential election, has collected newspaper items about Mr. Roosevelt that appear in local papers. He has been clipping news stories since 1933, and now has 12 large wallpaper sample books stored in his home here.

The 65-year-old painter says he will give his collection to the President if the chief executive will place the books in his Hyde Park library.

But Merriman, discussing the anti-New Deal tone of his collection, remarked:

"I don't think he'll want it."

The word "realtor" was coined by the National Association of Real Estate boards as a name by which to designate its members.

Detective's Manual Reminder Of Error

DALLAS, Nov. 21. (UP)—Detective Elmer Gatty parked his automobile in a 20-minute zone and dashed into the central police station to get his mail.

He found a book of "rules and regulations' being distributed to all policemen, and spent 30 minutes studying it.

Suddenly he groaned. He pointed to Article 7, Section 6, page 43, which read: "A policeman may be discharged for conviction of violation of any city ordinance."

He rushed to his car. It had a ticket for over-parking.

Roger Smith's Extra Point Is Victory Margin

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21.—Texas Tech's undefeated, once-tied Red Raiders ran into surprisingly strong opposition from St. Louis university's injury-riddled team today but managed to eke out a 7 to 6 victory on Roger Smith's successful conversion after a first-period touchdown.

With Tom Douglass, Glenn Lowe and Smith lugging the ball on straight ground plays, Tech marched 66 yards to a score three minutes after taking the opening kickoff.

Pfuhl Scores For St. Louis

Midway in the second quarter the Billikens launched a counter attack after a short punt gave them possession of the ball on the Raiders' 44-yard line.

Dick Weber started the St. Louisians' touchdown march with a 13-yard pass to Bob Osterholt and then alternated with Dick Pfuhl in toting the ball the remaining 31 yards. Pfuhl went over for the tally standing up on a 4-yard sweep around Tech's right end, but Weber's try for placement for the extra point was wide.

Techans Start Fast

The Billikens, minus their triple-threat backfield ace, Mel Aussieker, and John Sexton, All-Missouri Valley confe.ence end, matched the high-geared Tech attack in first downs, 10-10, and rolled up a net gain of 176 yards to 204 for the Texans, one of the nation's greatest ground-gaining college elevens.

Tech started out to make the game a rout. Bob Duncan returned the opening kickoff to Tech's 34 and after two plays, good for five yards, Douglass broke into the clear but was brought down from behind on the St. Louis 43.

Lowe picked up four at guard, then Smith made it a first down on the 27. Lowe, Smith and Douglass carried the ball in that order to the 13 and another first down. Lowe then made eight yards on two spinners before Douglass went over from the five.

Raiders Come To Life

Coach Pete Cawthon replaced Douglass and Smith in the Tech backfield and the two teams fought to a draw between midfield and Tech's 35-yard line for the remainder of the period.

The teams engaged in frequent exchanges of punts during the early part of the period with Weber's quick kicks giving St. Louis an advantage in the duel before Hill's poor effort went out of bounds after traveling 11 yards. This break sent St. Louis on the way to its touchdown.

Stalled for 20 minutes the Techsans came to life shortly before the half-time intermission.

Driv. Bogs On Six

Douglass took Weber's kickoff on Tech's 21 and ran it back to the 40. A pass, Smith to Bingham, was good for 44 yards to the St. Louis 25 and a penalty moved the ball to the 20.

Smith then passed to Douglass for a first down on the six, but three successive aerials were batted down and Smith was tossed for a six-yard loss on the fourth down just as the half ended.

Tech received the second-half kickoff but was forced to punt after three plays failed to gain. A 35-yard pass, Weber to Pfuhl, put the ball on the Texans' 25 where the threat was stopped cold.

The Raiders found a stone-wall in front of them but Douglass' fine kick, good for 45 yards, returned play to the St. Louis half of the field.

Neither team was able to advance during the remainder of the period and Tech started the last quarter in possession of the ball on its own 20 after Weber's 57-yard punt rolled over the goal line.

Douglass made ten yards through the line, but Tech was soon forced to punt and that was the story through the final period. Each team would pick up a first down now and then, but neither could get started on a sustained drive. Tech got to the St. Louis 40 once during the period and the Billikens reached the Raiders 41.

Douglass and Weber easily were the standouts of the game, but the Texas back was accorded fine block-

HERE'S WHY AND HOW IT HAPPENED—In one flash of the camera the story of Lubbock's defeat by Amarillo's Golden Sandies is told. Through 17 consecutive triumphs it has been the Westerners' smooth offense that paid off. But the Sandstorm had an answer—a demolishing defense that shattered practically every Lubbock move. Here, Left Half Leete Jackson, still recognized as one of the greatest gridders in schoolboy football, is being jolted clear off the ground by Myrle Greathouse, Sandie quarterback, such as the Lubbock star has seldom been jolted. It was such a stonewall defense that allowed scenes like this that decided the issue, as many as seven Amarillo players on their feet in this play. From left to right they are: No. 51, Right Guard Fred Page; No. 88, Fullback M. T. Johnson; No. 29; Quarterback and Co-Captain Max Walthall for Lubbock; No. 68, Guard Moss; No. 77, Fullback Bob McKinnon for Lubbock; No. 38, Right Half Howard Lanford; No. 83, Center Charles Green.

Fordham Passing Tumbles Porkers

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The Fordham Rams met fire with fire today, stealing the aerial play from air-minded Arkansas to turn in a 27 to 7 victory in an intersectional grid battle before 12,500 fans.

Twice in the first period, once in the second, and again in the third the Rams rambled over the Razorbacks goal. Three of the scores came via passes. Arkansas, after a fine kickoff return by Bob Forte to the Fordham 35, scored in the third period and the rest of the time saw its embryo offenses killed by its own futile, fumbling attack and an alert Fordham defense.

Midway in the first period, after luring the Razorback secondary up close, the Rams opend up. From the Fordham 31, Steve Filipowicz dropped far back and shot the ball to Jim Noble, who caught it on the Arkansas 31 and went the rest of the way for the score.

On the final play of the period the Rams climaxed a 38-yard march as Filipowicz passed five yards into the end zone to Jim Lansing, and in the second period, after Harold Schmidt had got away a wobbly punt which went outside on the Arkansas 24, Filipowicz again passed, again to Lansing, and the play was good for 18 yards and a touchdown.

In the third quarter, Leonard Eshmont intercepted Schmidt's pass and returned it to the Arkansas 13. He then picked up three through the line, and Vincent Dennery skipped around from his end position to take the ball the rest of the way.

Fordham's ability to rush the passer was a major factor in the victory.

Wichita Falls Nears 2-AA Championship

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 21. (Special)—The Wichita Falls Coyotes moved to the threshold of their first District 2-AA title since 1937 when they bombarded the Quanah Indians for an easy 26 to 6 victory here this afternoon.

Wichita Falls broke the scoring ice in the second period when Gene Hill, 136-pound quarterback, opened up with a barrage of passes that counted twice in quick succession. The Coyotes completed five passes without a hitch during the period.

The victory gave the Coyotes a virtual cinch on the title, having only to defeat oft-beaten Burkburnett next week. The worst the Coyotes can do is tie for the title with Graham whom they defeated last week, 21-7, in the event of a loss next week.

The Coyotes scored twice in the last h[illegible], once after Hill raced 61 yards [illegible] place the ball in scoring position. Three Coyote teams saw action and Quanah scored only after a mixture of third and fourth stringers were in the game.

IS THIS PROPHETIC?

AUSTIN, Nov. 21. (AP) — Blazing speed and superior blocking enabled the University of Texas freshman football team to defeat the Texas A. & M. freshmen here today, 18-7.

The triumph was the third straight for the Yearlings over their No. 1 rivals, the fish not having won since Jim Thomas on, John Kimbrough, Marshall Robnett and other senior members of the great Aggie varsity were in their freshman season.

Tech Game Sidelights
Smith's Boot Is Surprise To Coaches

By BILL PARKER
Special Correspondent

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 21—Sidelights on this afternoon's Texas Tech-St. Louis university football game:

After taking the kickoff on their own 15-yard line the Red Raiders marched straight for a touchdown without losing the ball. Roger Smith, Glenn Lowe and Tom Douglass turned in all the ball-carrying on this long drive and Coaches Cawthon and Smith almost fainted when Roger Smith booted the conversion.

Charlie Casper, former Texas Christian university halfback, was one of the Raiders' loyal rooters at the game. Charlie ran in the Horned Frog backfield when the Christians were among the nation's best teams. He is now connected with radio station KNOX in St. Louis. Charlie was particularly impressed with the Raiders' terrific blocking on their first touchdown drive.

Left half Weber pulled one of the game's best plays when he booted 58 yards out of bounds on Tech's four-yard line. It put the Raiders in a tough spot. They tried three plunges without gaining and then Milton Hill punted out to the Raiders' 45-yard line. Weber's kick was exceptional because of the heavy, muddy ball.

After being completely bottled up in the first period with their attempted runs, the Billikins opened up with aerials about midway of the second period, and don't think they haven't got a dangerous passing attack. They had the Raiders jumping around the field like a bunch of cats batting down Weber's passes. The Billikens moved to Tech's 25-yard line on successful aerials but the bombing failed there.

Thayne "Red" Amonett had a tough time trying to gain the first five times he carried the ball. The Billikens know all about him and he had a minus two average on his first five attempts. But the red-head from Plomot stayed in there and finally shook himself loose for some substantial gains.

Cubs Stop Olton, 25-6, In 5-A

By EDGAR HEALD

OLTON, Nov. 21. — Brownfield was holder of the District 5-A title after driving to a 25-6 victory over Olton here today. The entire Olton team, the first to score, fought every minute of play. The game was highlighted by plays of the Hedges twins, Willard and Willis, a pair of backs that are a credit to anybody's gridiron; but the Olton Mustangs were unable to buck against the power of the Cubs of Brownfield.

Brownfield, loser of the district last year to Olton, has won the championship three years out of four. The Cubs will play a bi-district game tentatively slated for Friday, November 28, with Colorado City, who took the District 6-A title in a game with Snyder today. Place of the game has not been decided.

Cubs Start Drive

The Mustangs made their only score in the first period on a running play by Willis Hedges from the Brownfield 40-yard line, but failed to convert.

Soon after receiving from the Mustangs the Cubs started their offensive drive by scoring on a pass from W. D. Warren to Gene Hill, good for 45 yards. The kick for point was no good.

Olton came back in the second part of the scramble with Willard and Willis Hedges carrying the ball in two plays for their 46 down to the Cub 13, but the Cubs held for downs. From there the victors passed and plunged the 86 paces for a second score. The kick was blocked.

Moore Intercepts Pass

In the third quarter Billy Moore, Brownfield end, intercepted a pass and made a 55-yard lope for goal. Again the Cubs failed to convert.

Still in the third stanza the Hedges once more started their long gallopes, made possible by excellent blocking. In one play each Willard and Willis picked up 29 and 22 yards

Lew Jenkins Defends Title In Madison Square Tonight

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Lew Jenkins, out of Sweetwater, Texas, and Pete Lello from Chicago tangle for the world's lightweight championship tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden in an honest-to-gosh grudge fight.

From a ballyhoo angle, the "grudge" idea in the fight game is as old as the record books. So, when it developed that these two fellows really had it in for each other and weren't just acting up to give the ticket office a little action, it was as pleasant for the folks running the show as the drumstick off the turkey.

First Defense Of Crown

Jenkins, making the first defense of that portion of the title he won by knocking out game Lou Ambers last winter, has been waiting for his chance at the Chicago belter for a year and a half. Lello has been after Jenkins ever since he won the crown, just to prove that when he knocked out the Sweetwater swatter in seven rounds in March, 1939, he didn't do it with mirrors, as Lew has implied from time to time. Lello admits he's not the greatest fighter in the world, but he insists he has the "whammy" on Texas Lew.

As a result, each fighter is betting his own money that he'll flatten the other tomorrow long before the 15-round route is completed. Promoter Mike Jacobs figures some 12,000 to 15,000 customers will be willing to chip in between $30,000 and $35,000 to see it happen.

At the moment, Jenkins is a 5 to 8

Dons To Work Out On Tech Field Today

The San Francisco university Dons, whom Texas Tech's Red Raiders meet in the California metropolis on December 7, will be visitors in Lubbock this afternoon.

The Dons, coached by George L. "Duke" Malley, former Santa Clara star, are enroute to Abilene where they play the Hardin-Simmons university Cowboys Saturday. In their game at San Francisco last year, the teams battled to a 6-all tie.

The Dons are expected here this afternoon at 4:10 o'clock. The party of 34, in charge of Rodney Chisholm, athletic manager and former Don star, is traveling by Santa Fe railroad. The team's special car will be side-tracked here and the Dons will work out at Texas Tech field this afternoon. They will remain here until the night train leaves for Abilene.

It will be San Francisco university's first visit here, and the game at Kezar Stadium, home field of the Dons and the St. Mary's Gaels, on December 7, will be the first between S. F. U. and Texas Tech. That game will mark the finish of the regular season for both clubs.

Dragons Wallop Matador, 25-6

(Special To The Avalanche)

PADUCAH, Nov. 21. — Scoring in every quarter, the Paducah Dragons crushed the Matador Bullfighters, 25-6, on Dragon Field this afternoon before a holiday crowd of 2,500, to win the district 4-A championship and finish the season undefeated.

Rudolph Mobley, Paducah right halfback, scored two touchdowns and ran across one extra point for 13, to boost his season's total to 155 and remain at the top of Texas high school football scorers.

Dragons Score Early

The Dragons drew first blood in the opening period, on a 47 yard drive, with Mobley going off his own right tackle from the Matador 15 for the counter. Paducah came back in the second quarter to score on a 75-yard sustained march, culminated by a nine-yard pass from Mobley to Biddy for the touch. Mobley passed to Sandlin for the extra point and Paducah led 13-0.

The Dragons continued their scoring early in the third with a 76-yard touchdown drive, Sandlin passed 35 yards to Biddy for the score after Mobley had set up the play with a 29-yard off tackle thrust.

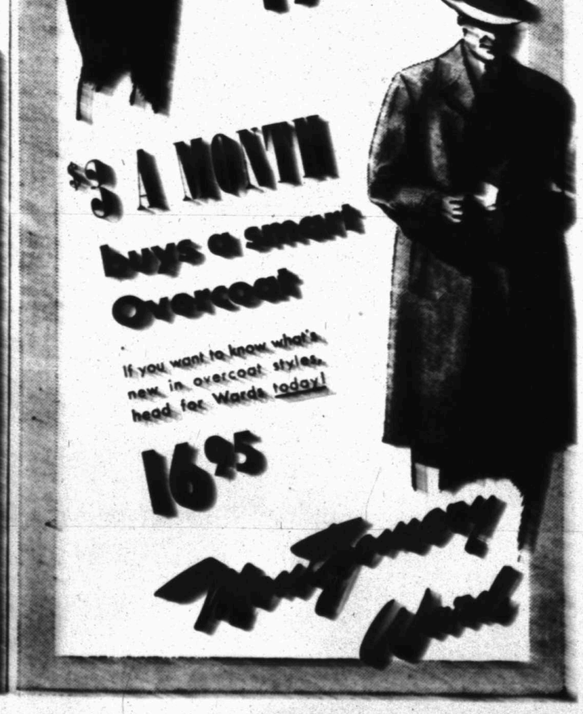

Matador scored its only touchdown in the third quarter with an aerial attack. A 36-yard pass from Leroy Nelson to Kennedy placed the ball on the Paducah one and Berryman cracked enter for the score. Mobley climaxed the day's scoring late in the fourth period on a 34-yard dash through his own right haved, the most sportsmanlike and the easiest to control. Drunkeness was at a low mark, for such a crowd, and the fans cooperated "in every way."

Getting back to the game itself, it was merely a matter of good BIG men, and lots of 'em, demonstrating the often-proved superiority over good LITTLE men, and fewer of 'em.

For the first half, the battling Westerners all but fought the big Sandies off their feet. They brought the opening kick-off back to mid-field from the goal line, and they stopped the Amarillo offense dead stiff in a fine ten-yard line "stand" late in the first period.

Second Quarter Threat.

In the second quarter, the Westerners made their biggest threats. Leete Jackson punted over the goal line from mid-field, the Westerners held the Sandies deep in the field, then Jackson took a punt back from the 44 to the 25. A bit later, Jackson returned a punt 40 yards to the Sandie 25, almost got away.

But the power of the Sandies, already projected defensively when they refused a scoring permit, came out in a big way as the second half started.

Lubbock kicked off, and M. T. Johnson, the highly advertised welterweight fullback of the Sandies, returned it from the Amarillo 12 to the 31. Big Otto Payne, 190-pound halfback, then got loose through a large hole the heavy Amarillo line had opened through the Lubbock line, and was finally brought down on the Lubbock 32 by McKinnon, Lubbock fullback.

Boone Baker, whose blocking, along with that of Quarterback Myrle Greathouse would have done credit to a college team, then slipped off for 16 yards. This play was called back and Amarillo drew one of its frequent off-side penalties, but Johnson made it all up with a 22-yard dash to the Lubbock 16-yard line. Baker then traveled to the 4-yard line. A couple of line plays and a penalty later, Amarillo was back on the 10, but Otto Payne crashed through to the 2, and in two tries made a touchdown. Baker booted the extra point.

The weary Lubbock team made a comeback, but couldn't get past the Amarillo 40. Leete Jackson laid down a punt that was killed on the Amarillo 3-yard line, sort of making up for a punt by Johnson that went out of bounds on Lubbock's 2-yard line in the first period.

Johnson, however, got off a fine return punt, to midfield, and the Sandies started back on the first play of the fourth period when Myrle Greathouse intercepted McKinnon's pass on the Amarillo 30 and ran it back 24 yards.

Rally Is Short.

They didn't score that time, nor the next, after McKinnon got off a 60-yard boot, although Johnson ran once for 22 yards. They had to kick again, and it went over.

For a little while it seemed that Lubbock might rally. Jackson, who had been pretty well covered, although he hadn't done the expected amount of ball toting, got off a couple of fine dashes back to his 40.

McKinnon started passing again, when the running game was stopped, and Johnson intercepted one of his heaves on the Amarillo 37. He ran it back five yards, then copped a sneak over tackle on a razzle-dazzle play and ran no less than 48 yards, after which Johnson passed to Dub Wooten on the 1-yard line, after which Payne crowded over for the second and final touchdown. Again Baker kicked goal.

Lubbock passed desperately in the fading minutes, but Amarillo has a pass defense the like of which hasn't been seen around here in years.

Sixteen times the Lubbock passing attack tried to find its goal. Once a pass was completed—for a gain of one yard! That's how tough it is to pass against the Sandies.

The game had its stars on both sides.

For the Lubbocks, Roland Nabors came in for a lot of press box comment on account of his fine work at center. There were others, Carl Sanders, J. A. Blackwell, Franklin Butler, DeWitt Moore, Captain Francis Bearden—all of them did nobie work, but they just didn't have the weight and the power.

Amarillo, with all its power, also had finesse. The Sandies worked smoothly all the way, pulling offensive tricks that deceived the eye, fixing themselves in the right defensive places.

Biggest disappointment was Lubbock's inability to complete passes. It has been one of their strong points, with McKinnon and Max Walthall throwing the ball, but the passes didn't click at all.

McKinnon, Jackson, Walthall and little Howard Lanford, now a regular in the place of the sorely-missed Billy Wright, who was one of the best blockers on the club until he went down with a busted arm in the El Paso game, played their best, no doubt, but their best was not enough to surmount the obstacles placed in their way by the beefy, bull-necked Sandies.

Johnson, the Amarillo back who had been so widely advertised, was kept well in hand for the first half, which was scoreless, but he got going in the second half to join Payne in a double hero role.

Will Go Far.

In the Amarillo line, the ends, Dub Wooten and Scud Redus, were probably outstanding in the matter of making tackles, catching passes and blocking for runners around the ends, and big Jim Warner, all 205 pounds of him, at left tackle, was strictly an old meanie so far as the Lubbock cause was concerned.

Amarillo had it, and they put it out, and they won. They'll go far in the state race, possibly to the unbitter end.

A lot of things happened that might not have happened, a lot of things didn't happen that might have happened. There were some breaks, but mostly there were some very large and very eager Amarillo Sandies out there and they made the most of their size, ability and eagerness. And power to 'em!

favorite to reverse the affair with Lello—or, as his manager, hilarious Hymie Caplin, puts it, "Lew is gonna reverse the reverse." Besides the crude angle, there's also a matter of pride between the rival managers. Caplin insists that since he has handled Jenkins, the ex-army horseshoer is so far improved he looks like two other guys.

Utah Wins Big Seven Crown As Denver Ties Colorado

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Football made a fleeting curtsy today to those sections of the country celebrating Thanksgiving and settled one major conference championship.

Utah gained the title in the Rocky Mountains' Big Seven when Colorado and Denver, each of which had a chance to tie the Utes, played a 3-3 deadlock and eliminated each other.

By way of keeping their minds off what was going on in the game at Denver, the Utes downed Idaho 13-6 in a non-conference engagement. Utah State whipped Wyoming 16-0 in another Big Seven feud.

Fordham Lells Over Foshaw.

None of the nation's gridiron giants was in action, but the holiday menu contained its share of delicacies, nevertheless.

In the east once-beaten Fordham frolicked over Arkansas 27-7 with there of the rams' four touchdowns resulting from passes. Maryland, which had won only one game all season and scored but two touchdowns, upset a highly reputed Rutgers eleven 14-7. The Scarlet had been beaten only by Princeton and Lafayette, but was smothered by the Terrapins until the last 10 seconds.

Christman Pitches Final Game.

William and Mary knocked the University of Richmond Spiders out of a chance at the Southern conference championship and earned the mythical Virginia State crown with a 16-0 victory while Virginia Military shutout Virginia Tech 14-0 in their annual clash.

Paul Christman pitched himself to undying glory in Missouri by leading the Tigers to a 45-20 triumph over Kansas in a sizzling Big Six struggle that highlighted the program in the Midwest. Playing his last college football game, Christman passed for one touchdown, ran for two, and set up all but one of the Tigers' others. Kansas salved its wounds by scoring touchdowns for the first time in more than a year against a conference foe.

Ohio Has Busy Day.

Undefeated but once-tied Texas Tech had a narrow escape, but edged past St. Louis university 7-6 by parading 66 yards in the first four minutes of the game for a touchdown and Roger Smith's successful place-kick for the extra point.

Ohio had the busiest football day, with Xavier bumping over Ohio university 6-0, Dayton walloping Ohio Wesleyan 27-0, Western Reserve squeezing out Case 15-14, Cincinnati crushing Miami (O) university 44-0 and Akron battering John Carroll 47-0.

Floydada Ends Season By Beating Spur, 19-0

FLOYDADA, Nov. 21 (Special)—Floydada's Whirlwind closed the books on the 1940 football season here tonight with a convincing 19-0 victory.

R. E. Golightly, the Whirlwind's outstanding candidate for all-district honors, scored the first touchdown in the first quarter with an off-tackle dash, Turner adding the point.

Bruce Foster added another touchdown in the second and Joe Rushing finished the scoring with a marker in the fourth.

Plainview Hands 38-0 Lacing To Borger

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 21 (Special)—Plainview's Bulldogs scored almost at will on a hapless Borger team here tonight, winning 38 to 0. Mack Mason stretched his District One scoring lead by crossing for three touchdowns and kicking two extra points.

F. G. Hoefer scored twice and Dawson Malone once to complete the Plainview scoring. Plainview ran up a 19-3 lead in first downs and made 398 to 34 yards from scrimmage.

The Walsh stadium turf was spongy after a morning rain, but skies cleared before noon and the game was played under a bright sun and comfortable temperature.

respectively, for a penetration which ended on the opposing 13-yard line. There Willard Hedges tossed a pass that was intercepted by M. J. Akers, Cub co-captain, who started a downfield march that was to mean the final score of the game. Brownfield lost the ball in mid-field, but Olton failed to pick up any yardage. The Cubs retrieved and in a second play W. D. Warren got away on a 36-yard jaunt for goal after which the only conversion of the game was made. Neither team scored in the last, although W. D. Warren, of the Cubs, dashed 55 yards for a touchdown which was called back on account of a penalty.

Olton Leads In Figures.

Olton made 10 first downs to 8 for Brownfield. Olton gained 231 yards rushing to 180 for the Cubs. The Mustangs only made 75 yards passing to 122 for Brownfield.

Olton, winner of District 5-A north half this year, has a team to watch next year since practically all of the boys will be back.

Olton—Lester Jackson, end; Pegley Myers, tackle; Dwain Lyon, guard; W. C. Sanders, center; J. L. Boyce, guard; Elmer McGill, tackle; Wilbur Seirreier, end; John Dunnbery, quarter; Willis Hedges, half; W. H. Jackson, half; Willard Hedges, full.

The Dragons will play the District 3-A winner for the bi-district championship. Wheeler, Clarendon and McLean are still in the running for the 3-A title, with the winner not likely to be decided until next Thursday.

Litkenhous Lists Gophers As Top Team

By DR. E. E. LITKENHOUS

We knew it was likely to come before the end of the season and it has. Cornell, which for so long has been riding the crest of an all-conquering, crushing campaign among the Nation's college football teams, has been brought back to earth.

The Big Red this week is not the leader of the hundreds of grid squads in the United States. Carl Snavely's crew ran into a tartar in Dartmouth last week and was knocked from its 101.6 rating in the Litkenhous Difference by Score System into fourth place with a reading of 98.1.

Whenever a team builds up a rating of more than 100, it's a dead certainty that before long it is going to be thrown for a loss. Cornell was figured to defeat Dartmouth by 22 points last week, but only through the well-known "fifth-down play" was able to come through with a 7-3 victory in the final few seconds. The result hurt the Big Red rating almost as much as a defeat would have.

Minnesota, which has clinched the Big Ten championship and remains the only undefeated, untied team among the major Midwestern teams, now is the tentative champion of the Nation with a rating of a flat 100.0.

Tennessee rules the South, Cornell the East, Texas Aggies the Southwest and Stanford the Coast. Among the ten top teams, however, the power of numbers lies in the East for it has four representatives in the group. The Midwest has three, the South two and the Southwest one. However, it holds first, third and fifth places. The South has second and a tie for seventh, the East fourth, a tie for seventh, ninth and tenth and the Southwest sixth.

With Thanksgiving Day this week, traditional battles come up and some of them are closer than from here to there. Mississippi is favored by only eight-tenths of a point over Mississippi State; Rice only 1.05 over Texas Christian; Purdue only four-tenths of a point over Indiana; Temple only 2.5 over Oklahoma; Penn State only six-tenths of a point over Pittsburgh and Duquesne only 2.2 over Villanova.

Minnesota ought to have no trouble at all with Wisconsin, although the Badgers looked mighty strong against Indiana last week. Tennessee is favored by 19.7 points over Kentucky, but the Vols have been that way before and were held to ties by the Wildcats. Michigan has a safe margin over Ohio State and Cornell meets its strongest foe of the year in Pennsylvania. Northwestern is a 12-point favorite over Notre Dame.

After this week's battles most of the football will be over, except for a comparatively small number of high-class games, so the teams are about to their final level.

Probable winners are set in blackface type. The ratings are used that Minnesota, the rating of which is 100.0, plays Wisconsin, 82.1. If Minnesota isn't hampered by injuries and other misfortunes and Wisconsin isn't mighty keyed up to play better than its average type of football, Minnesota will win by two, three or four touchdowns, the difference being 17.2 points.

| Home Team | Rank | Rating | Opponents | Rank | Rating | Diff. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Tennessee | 2 | 99.8 | Kentucky | 37 | 80.1 | 19.7 |

London Picked As Next Target

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—Informed German sources announced that the Luftwaffe had selected London, and especially its "administrative center," as the target area for German bombers tonight.

London's "administrative center" presumably would be Whitehall, where government offices are closely bunched, Downing street, where the prime minister's residence is situated, and the houses of Parliament, where King George opened a new session of Parliament earlier today.)

The Germans described last night's attack on British cities and harbors as a "large scale attack on the broadest front," and Tuesday night's attack on Birmingham as having been "worse than Coventry." As a result, they said, Birmingham had been knocked out of the war.

Record Announced.

Pilots flying over Birmingham today on reconnaissance reported three big fires and eight smaller ones still blazing in that workshop of Britain.

The high command credited its little torpedo speedboats with sinking 223,200 tons of British merchant and naval ships since the war began.

That record was announced by the high command in acknowledging that "now for the first time, one German speedboat was lost in a fight with several English destroyers during an operation against the English coast."

Officials Pleased.

And from the heap that had been Lubbock's largest football crowd in history came a salute from all hands of the law to an unusually well-behaved crowd—both homefolk and visitors.

Attendance at the ball game was estimated at 18,000, with Amarillo's contribution ranging from 4,000 to 5,000. Two special trains brought many Sandstorm rooters here and returned them home almost immediately after conclusion of the contest. Hundreds of others, from Amarillo and from every neck of the South Plains, came by automobile.

The scare of scalping, sounded loudly this week, found no credence, authorities reported. Utmost protection of fans had been taken to avert the holding up of persons who had been unable to obtain tickets before game time.

A Deathless Day.

Authorities did, however, suspect certain persons and said their names would be turned over to "proper authorities." Those proper authorities may include agents of the federal department of internal revenue whose duty it is to see that amusement taxes are paid.

Rev. Carl G. Durbin, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, was speaker at a city-wide union Thanksgiving service in the Asbury church. Other religious observances were conducted in the First Church of Christ, Scientist; Redeemer Lutheran church, and Foursquare church, either morning or night, or both.

Despite the numerous accidents, Lubbock had for thankfulness more than a half million man days passed without a fatality. It was the 160th deathless day.

Three persons were in serious condition as the result of traffic collisions.

Carl Maxey, lumberman of 2515 Twenty-first street, and Mrs. Clay V. Knox of 2507 Avenue J remained in St. Mary's hospital. Mrs. Knox, wife of an employe of Texas-New Mexico & Oklahoma coaches, had a back fracture.

Other Accidents.

Further x-ray examination will be made today to determine extent of Maxey's injuries, an authority said. George Simmons, jr., Henry Roberts and Vernon Thompson were riding with Maxey when his car was in collision with that driven by Mrs. Knox at Thirty-fourth street and College avenue at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

Hubert M. Fields suffered a skull fracture a half hour later when his car and another driven by S. E. Attaway, 46, of Amarillo, collided at Twenty-eighth street and Avenue T. Fields, 45, was in Lubbock sanitarium for treatment. He lives at 1907 Twenty-sixth street.

Police investigated other mishaps at Washington avenue and Twenty-sixth street, Ninth street and Avenue H, Sixteenth street and Avenue M, and 2100-block Fifteenth street. None was injured in those accidents.

Cooper High Students Give Food To Orphans

Cooper Rural High school patrons and students made possible a complete Thanksgiving for Miami Opportunity home children.

What's more, there's food in Thanksgiving food in the larder for remainder of the week.

Following the suggestion of members of the school board of trustees, parents sent turkeys, chickens, a ham, fruits and vegetables to the school by their children.

"It all added up to one of our most bountiful Thanksgiving and there is food remaining for the rest of the week," Mrs. W. T. Miami said.

Canada Bares Number Of War Prisoners

OTTAWA, Nov. 21. (AP)—Canada's official silence on the number of Empire war prisoners behind barbed wire in the Dominion was broken today when an official declared there were "many thousands—between 8,000 and 12,000."

Most are soldiers, sailors and airmen captured in the fighting overseas and civilians arrested in the United Kingdom.

Canada's peak internment figure in the last war was 8,000.

Mysterious SOS

she had intercepted an SOS from an unidentified belligerent ship which was "torpedoed and sinking."

Whether the third call was a duplication of either of the two previous messages could not be ascertained by the coast guard. No further details were sent by any of the vessels.

The coast guard said the message "SOS—Orinoco" was very weak, leading to the belief that it had come from a great distance. They said the 24-meter band on which it was sent was not the usual wavelength for international shipping but that it was sometimes used by European ships.

Returned Before

Before sending the distress signal, Mackay said, the German ship called the Nazi station at Norddeich, but was unanswered.

A 9,660-ton passenger liner, the Orinoco was one of four German ships which left Tampico, before dawn Nov. 16. Sighting flares, which it was reported later might have been sent up by U. S. destroyers on neutrality patrol, she and two other ships, the 6,031-ton Rhein and the 5,033-ton Idarwald turned back to port.

A fourth ship, the Phrygia of 4,137 tons was scuttled by her German crew, which was under the impression the ship was being raided by British warships.

Preacher Talks Of Defense

DALLAS, Nov. 21. (AP)—National defense and the government of man would be a much simpler proposition today if the supremacy of Christ were admitted, M. E. Dodd of Shreveport, La., said today in the keynote speech before the annual Texas Baptist training union convention.

"Man's conduct," the Rev. Mr. Dodd said, "is controlled either by inward restraint or outward force. One who accepts Christ as savior and lord is controlled by inward restraint."

He spoke before a crowd that filled to overflowing the 7,000 capacity First Baptist church auditorium. So large was the attendance at this convention dedicated to Christ above all, that the facilities of five other churches were turned over to the Baptists, and the convention met in ten groups.

Before the afternoon sessions drew incoming convention visitors away from registration headquarters, 19,352 had paid registration fees.

Living Link.

A living link between all fifty years of the existence of the training union and its forebears was present at the first day's sessions. He was J. M. Corley, Breckenridge, 1890 president of the Christian colaborers society, forerunner of the present union. With Corley was his sister, Miss Florence Corley of El Paso.

Fort Worth is conducting a campaign to have the first meeting of the convention's second half century of service held there next year.

"Ours is a faith which seems to be peculiarly at home in crisis," Dr. W. R. White, president of Hardin-Simmons university, told the night gathering of the adult department. "Every crisis has added to religious creativeness. Man has always surmounted great crisis when he has fallen back on spiritual resources. Ever so often he fails—and away goes another civilization."

The speaker's answer to the question of who shall deliver us from that terrible fact of the past was Christ.

America Grateful

Across the land, and aboard American ships on the broad oceans, the day was observed with all the traditional religious ceremonies and gay festivities, although the holiday spirit was tinged everywhere with thoughts of the suffering of people abroad.

Hollywood stars celebrated on their yachts, at swank cafes and in their homes. CCC boys sat down to 25-pound turkeys—some 28,000 of the big birds were necessary to satisfy the appetites of these outdoor boys.

Others To Celebrate.

At army posts—which have been bustling with feverish activity to receive the nation's new citizen-soldiers—and on the ships of the expanding navy, chefs exerted themselves to provide the men with fine feast aplenty.

And in a number of cities, English children—refugees from the war at home—enjoyed their first Thanksgiving dinners in America.

The 16 States which did not fall in line with President Roosevelt's proclamation of an early Thanksgiving date will celebrate the holiday next Thursday. The states are: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and Nevada.

Planes Built For Chinese

By G. TAFFS McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

PAWLEYVILLE, (Loiwing, China-Burma Border, Nov. 22 (Friday) — Japanese bombs have checked but not ended a seven-year successful American effort to build warplanes in China for the nationalists of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Japanese planes flew 600 miles across the mountains of French Indo-China, and trespassed British Burma, Oct. 25 to blast China's only aircraft manufacturers from their plant. They killed or wounded 70 Chinese workers and drove from their homes 40 Americans and 3,500 Chinese from this modern town, which the American Intercontinent corporation created in this remote valley in the southwestern most corner of China.

Work Day And Night.

Plant Manager C. W. Hunter, of Enid, Oklahoma, and his staff—working day and night under the constant fear that bombers would return—have progressed so far toward salvaging the unreplaceable American equipment and materials from the battered buildings that they are prepared to reassemble again in mat sheds scattered among the bamboo groves to avoid again presenting an easy target.

American staff men are rushing the building of straw shacks to house their families on the hillsides across the Burma border, where the disassembled plant machinery is sheltered beneath the trees.

These American plane builders are veterans at makeshifts to meet the fortunes of war.

When they were bombed from their first plant at Hangchow in the early days of the Sino-Japanese war they moved 450 miles up the Yangtse to Hankow and there manufactured new planes and patched air casualties that helped the Chinese slow the Japanese westward drive until Chiang Kai-Shek stabilized his base at Chungking.

Retreat Found.

Before the Japanese captured Hankow the Americans packed plant and personnel and started a 1,200-mile rail and water and road trip that ended in this valley near the Burma-China border.

Here the Americans won the good will of the Aboriginal tribesmen, enabling the erection of a model American community for themselves and their Chinese workers in a place so remote that few Chinese have penetrated or been welcomed.

While their doctors fought malaria—which first sickened 35 per cent of the personnel—and then bubonic plague, the plant engineers set up the equipment which produced several score American warplanes for China before the Japanese planes found their Central Asian retreat.

CIO Against "Isms"

the hall apparently went unheard by CIO Vice President Philip Murray. He declared the motion for adoption had carried "by what the chair believes to be the unanimous vote of the convention."

Speculation Aroused.

The condemnation of Nazism, Fascism, and Communism, quickened delegate speculation that Murray might agree to become the candidate for CIO presidency from which John L. Lewis is retiring. Murray is reported to have wanted a declaration on the Communism issue.

Passage of the resolution was sandwiched in between the customary grinding out of convention resolutions on labor policies and took the apparent tension off the delegates before they settled down to hear Lewis turn his guns once again upon the Roosevelt administration.

In a prolonged discussion of CIO's demands that the government deny defense contracts to firms held to have violated the labor laws, Lewis rose to say that President Roosevelt had declined to implement such a policy with an executive order. Lewis contended the chief executive had the power to do so.

British Air Executive Is Held Prisoner

(By The Associated Press)

ROME, Nov. 21. One of Britain's most brilliant air force executives, 51-year-old air Marshal Owen Tudor Boyd, was an Italian prisoner of war today through an airplane mishap which broke his journey to the Middle East and landed him, helpless, on the island of Sicily.

The Italian high command announcing the capture of Boyd, whose appointment as vice commander of the air forces in the Middle East was announced last Sunday, said four other officers and two men also were taken prisoner when their plane made a forced landing.

The British air ministry at first reported Boyd missing while crossing the Mediterranean by air, then added later it had learned he was a prisoner of war.)

The Italian high command, meanwhile, said Fascist troops still were resisting continual attack of the Greeks along their entire front, especially in the sector of Koritza, key base in Albania.

In Egypt further air fighting was reported along with the intensive bombardment of railroads, airfields and encampments within the British lines.

Virginio Gayda, noted Fascist editor, writing in Il Giornale d'Italia, said the German-Italian naval blockade was systematically sinking ships carrying arms and munitions from the United States and the dominions, thus weakening British resistance.

HARNESS FARM

Greeks In Pursuit

cautious to prevent drawing out its forces too far.

The nightly communique of the Greek high command claimed the capture of 15 Italian guns—seven of them heavy artillery pieces—; four anti-aircraft guns, many howitzers, dozens of machine guns, and materials, foodstuffs and fuel depots.

Greek bombers were declared to have participated in attacks along the battle line.

The Greeks had reported earlier that they had placed both of Italy's main Albanian bases under threat of capture and that they were fighting almost entirely on Albanian soil.

A Greek column in the coastal sector of the front was reported to be within six miles of Argirocastro, and, to the northeast, the Greeks said their armies were at the outskirts of Koritza.

Bases Are Important.

(Dispatches from Bitoli, Yugoslavia, said the advance guard of Greeks were reported entering Koritza tonight after a hard day's battle, and that one 12-mile-long column of Italians could be seen retreating northward on the Pogradetz-Elbasani road toward Tirana, Albanian capital.)

These are the fifth and third cities of Albania, in population, and they are equally important in military value. It was on Argirocastro, a town of 10,836 population, and on Koritza, 22,787 population, that the Italians based their drive into Greece three and a half weeks ago. There they assembled huge stores of war materials to supply their armies.

Now the Greeks say they are menacing these stores.

Military dispatches related almost total collapse of Italian resistance before Argirocastro, some thirty miles from the sea at Porto Edda.

Pilots brought back stories of Italians fleeing in such haste that there were almost none in the immediate fore of the advancing Greeks.

At the other end of the front, the aerial observers said the Italian garrisons were evacuating Koritza, but that all roads were under the fire of Greek mountain guns and that the escape of the evacuees was problematical.

Advance Hastened.

Nine Italian tanks tried to counter-attack in the Koritza sector, the Greeks reported, but five of them were destroyed and two others captured.

Another report said a whole battery of heavy guns had been snatched away from the Italians.

From the sea to the Aoos river, north of the Greek town of Konitza the Italian southern front collapsed as the result of a number of breaks in the line, the Greek account said. This demoralized the enemy forces, it was stated, and permitted the rapid advance on Argirocastro.

Axis Air Force Hits At Midland Factories

LONDON, Nov. 21. (AP)—The Axis air force smashed heavily tonight at the Midlands factory area—where hard-hit Coventry and Birmingham are situated—for the third straight night, and struck as well at a great port of western Britain.

At least two towns in the Midlands were under attack.

Here in London, the raiders loosed the customary assault by flying in singly. Wherever they were heard in the thick darkness a mighty barrage went up and apparently turned them aside. There were no early reports of bomb damage here.

(The British port raided probably was Liverpool, although the censorship did not permit a specific location.)

Other hostile fliers also struck at a town in the southwest.

RAF's Offensive Is Given New Spirit

LONDON, Nov. 21. (AP)—The Royal Air force's offensive spirit flamed higher today as its bomber striking force, soon to be strengthened by the release of 26 of the United States Army's big four-motored bombers, prepared for bolder and harder strokes against their powerful foe across the channel.

RAF officers left little doubts the long-range Consolidated bombers now to come to Britain will be in the van of the attacks which they intend to extend to eastern Germany and more completely into Italy.

Equipped with the Sperry or gyroscopic bombing sight, these gigantic planes also may be used for the nightly bombing "ferry service" to Berlin, they said.

RAF officers said their large fuel capacity, bomb load and altitude keeping abilities made them "ideal for sustained attacks over important targets."

Other officers, who said every sign points to an early opening of a widespread air war on Italy, declared the American-made planes "are the babies to do it with."

Vultee Plant Strike Reaches Deadlock

DOWNEY, Calif., Nov. 21. (AP)—Negotiations looking to an end of the seven-day United Automobile Workers' strike at the Vultee Aircraft plant collapsed this afternoon when conferees reached a deadlock over a no-strike clause in a proposed union agreement.

Major Stuney Simpson, war department labor adviser who participated in the conferences that began last Monday, said all other features of a settlement had been agreed upon by representatives of the CIO union and the Vultee company.

"It included a two-year contract as to wages and working conditions, except the company wanted an agreement there would be no strikes," he stated.

Aluminum Plant Strike Staged

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Nov. 21. (AP)—A walkout of several hundred CIO union members today shut down operations of the Aluminum company's sheet mill, a key division to the vast aluminum works, most of which is operating 24 hours a day on defense orders.

John Haser, business agent of the International Union of Aluminum Workers, said approximately 350 unionists quit because they were "extremely irritated" over the failure of other workers in the division to pay their union dues.

The Aluminus company is engaged in turning out numerous orders for airplanes concerns and in addition its cooking utensil subsidiary here is busy on a recently placed $1,200,000 army order for 25,500 full sets of field kitchens.

WILLKIE GROUP DISBANDS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21. (AP)—The National Committee for Democrats-for-Willkie has disbanded its campaign organization.

99 per cent paid up union members." The entire works employs 7,500 men and women.

The company said it could make no statement since it was not directly involved in the controversy. Some observers, however, thought the move was a step toward obtaining a change in the union contract to provic for a "check-off" of union dues by the employer.

Ratner Is Winner In Unofficial Figure

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 21. (AP)—Gov. Payne H. Ratner, Republican seeking re-election, emerged a photo-finish leader tonight in the complete unofficial count of ballots cast 16 days ago.

His lead over William H. Burke, Democrat, was 427 votes, approximately one-twentieth of one per cent of the total vote cast in the general election Nov. 5. The unofficial tabulation gave Ratner 425,925; Burke 425,498.

The 44-year-old governor, who had proclaimed Nov. 28 as Thanksgiving day for Kansas, considered the result conclusive enough that he ate turkey in private celebration and said he would go quail hunting tomorrow.

Frank J. Ryan, secretary of state, said it would be "several days at least" before official figures would be known.

Snow Is Predicted In North Central States

(By The Associated Press)

Snow was indicated for the North Central states today due to the spreading of a low pressure area which caused unsettled weather in large sections of the nation.

The storm area Thursday spread over the western portion of the Middle West, carrying with it forecasts of snow for most western sections and rain over the eastern group of states.

Another disturbance moved from Texas to western Iowa yesterday while another moving southeastward to northwestern Nebraska created a condition which brought rain and snow to the Rocky Mountain states and the upper Mississippi valley.

Network Of German Propaganda And Possible Espionage In U. S. Is Charged

Dies Publishes "White Paper"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Dies committee charged today that a widespread network of Nazi propaganda and possible espionage exists in the United States, and that plans have been carefully drawn for organizing German post-war business here.

The committee made public what Chairman Dies (D-Tex) called a "white paper," containing evidence collected in a long investigation. It is a 500-page document liberally sprinkled with letters from one German representative to another, most of them ending with "Heil Hitler."

Other Disclosures.

Later, the committee plans to make similar disclosures on individuals and organizations active in disseminating Italian, Japanese, Communist and other propaganda. In fact, almost simultaneously with the publication of today's report, the committee announced that agents had been sent into Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Cleveland, New Orleans and St. Louis, seeking data. Raids, it was said, had already been made on several suspected organizations in New York and Chicago.

Dies himself was in St. Louis, where he issued a statement saying that today's report was "unique in American history" and that as a consequence of it the "effectiveness of Nazi activity in the United States would be destroyed."

The committee found several organizations allegedly active in spreading Nazi propaganda here:

News Service Displayed.

(1) The Trans-Ocean News service was the first exhibit. The committee found that the purpose of this organization, which is not connected with any United States news service, was to send German information to newspapers and individuals both here and in Latin America; that its officers kept in close touch with the German embassy and with officials in Berlin; that when pressed for funds it consulted the embassy; that it received $135,956 from Jan. 1, 1939 to Aug. 1, 1940, only $7,706 of which came from the sale of its service, and most of the remainder coming from the embassy and from Berlin.

(2) The foreign division of the National Socialist party, information on which had not previously been available, the committee said, because its activities were "shrouded in diplomatic immunity." The committee called it a "well-organized, secret party, the membership of which was under the control of officials of the German government."

Expenditures Boosted.

(3) The German library of information, in New York, which spent $841,604 from May, 1936, to Aug., 1940, sending information to a mailing list of 70,000, with a sharp increase in the rate of expenditure after the war began.

(4) The German railroads information office, ostensibly formed to encourage prospective visitors to Germany, but actually, the committee charged, a disseminator of propaganda. The committee thought it significant that after the war had virtually stopped travel in Germany, the agency was still spending $10,000 monthly. From Jan., 1933 to Aug., 1940, the report said, the agency disbursed $1,339,759.

(5) The American Fellowship Forum, formed by German nationals, the report said, "for the purpose of propagandizing on behalf of Nazi Germany." Its effort, the report said, was to get American businessmen to thinking of post war foreign trade problems.

Not All-Conclusive.

(6) The Chemical Marketing company, from which were seized the so-called business plans. These involved the establishment of a German bank in New York, with branches in cities of large German population, and the consolidation of all industrial activities in any way related to Germany, particularly through patent rights and cross-patenting licenses.

"As a result of these investigations," the committee said in summarization, "it became apparent that the activities of the German government in this country were not devoted solely toward propaganda and so-called military espionage, but also reflect the fact that the German government over a period of years has been engaged in the far-sighted policy of penetrating into the economic structure of this country and those of Central and South America. It is true that the evidence before the committee up until the present time is not all-conclusive."

Japanese Line Asks Stop In Pacific

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21 (AP)—Reports circulated today that the Japanese Nyk line was trying to obtain permission for a stop of its combination freight-passenger vessels at Acapulco, on the Pacific, in addition to the call already being made at Manzanillo.

Increased business between Mexico and Germany and Japan via the Pacific was believed responsible. Germany now ships some cargo and mail via Russia to Vladivostok where it is picked up by Japanese boats and brought to Mexico. Germans, many of whom have come to Mexico in the past year, travel by the same route.

EX-PREMIER NABBED.

Correspondent Rides On Royal Air Force Bomber Into Albanian Territory

By JAN INGLESBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

An R.A.F. Airdrome, Somewhere in Greece, Nov. 21.—

I have just flown over Albania with the Royal Air force, riding in a bomber assigned to bomb an important military objective—one of the three ports Italy is using to disembark troops and supplies for her campaign against Greece.

I was driven to the take-off point in brilliant moonlight, over winding, tree-lined roads through the blue Greek mountains.

Once there, beside a bare, white-washed shed where the crews receive their final instructions and plot their courses, I pulled on a pair of thick riding-breeches, two pairs of socks, one pair of stockings, thick leather knee-boots, a fleece-lined waist-coast, a teddy-bear like lined Irving jacket and a "Mae West" jacket.

Dons Flying Clothes.

The "Mae West" jacket, resembling children's water wings and designed to keep the wearer afloat in case he is downed at sea, is so named because of the rather voluptuous curves it adds to one's figure.

Donning a flying helmet with ear phones and microphone, and tucking the yards of attached wire inside the jacket, I stood while the parachute harness was draped over me and buckled into position. The crew and I then awaited instructions which soon were issued.

Preparations Completed.

"Follow me and I'll show you your bed."

With a bit of a struggle I squeezed through the fuselage, completely blocking the narrow passage. I struggled along until I reached the "bed," clutching a block of chocolate, scribbling pad, and pencil in one hand and the parachute back in the other. I sat down, feeling somewhat like an Arctic explorer.

The captain plugged me in on the plane's telephone to enable me to follow the instructions and conversation among the pilot, the navigator and other members of the crew.

The two motors burst into life with a roar, all lights were extinguished and I sat in darkness as the engines warmed up. Only shafts of silver moonlight poured in through the Mica observation dome—a huge "bluster" in the middle of the fuselage.

My earphones crackled as the captain asked each member of the crew if everything was "okay," then:

"Captain calling passenger. We are about to take off. Are you ready?"

"Passenger Okay."

Above the din of the engines I bawled back through the mouthpiece.

"Passenger okay."

The roar of the engines rose to a crescendo as the huge machine raced across the flying field which lay in a valley, completely surrounded by mountains. Within two minutes we were off and over the mountains, heading for our targets.

The whole countryside was bathed in moonlight as I peered through the windows, but not a single light was visible, so efficient was Greece's blackout.

I stood on the raised step and peered through the dome. The scene made me feel like the man in the moon. Brilliant stars flashed out of a cloudless sky, seeming to reflect the cold light of the moon. The moonlight threw into bold relief ridge after ridge of blue mountains, around the foot of which a slight groundmist made the blue plain look like a sullen sea.

In Perfect Weather.

The tail of the plane stuck into the air like a huge shark's fin as we bored steadily through the air.

The roar of the motors gradually deadened my sense of hearing until I was unable to pick out from the ear-phones the occasional remarks between the captain and the navigator.

In perfect weather, we flew on in silence, without a buffet or tremor from "air-pockets." The navigator stood at his table, plotting our course and taking bearings for the pilot by the light of a tiny electric desk lamp.

I chatted with the navigator by writing notes on my pad, discovering our position and also that we were flying into a 60 miles-per-hour headwind.

Rise By Moonlight.

A ribbon of water appeared beneath us. Then as we got out to sea, we went above banks of white clouds.

Then suddenly, while we were over a break in the clouds, the bombsighter, lying flat on the floor and peering through a glass panel, shouted into the microphone:

"We're over the target."

The port lay beneath us on a bay sheltered on the south by a small peninsula, not suspecting what was in store for it for not a single anti-aircraft shell was fired at us.

Not a light twinkled in the town to give away its position, but the moon showed us the target clearly.

"Stick" Is Released.

"There's an airdome runway as big as the Great West Road" (one of London's great arterial roads, the bomb sighter exclaimed as he released his first stick of bombs.

The bombs slithered away into the darkness, but the roar of the engines drowned the sound of their explosion.

The second stick started another blaze.

We had hit a huge building that looked like a hangar. We had also damaged the runway and started two fires as well. But this was a ghost raid, because the town gave no sign it was aware of our presence.

Not Ready For Defense.

It had been stealing myself for a cascade of tracer shells, anti-aircraft shells and strings of flaming onions. But apparently they just were not ready for us.

The actual bombing was a matter of minutes; then back we came.

I saw the blaze from the fires we had set lighting up the mountains for 40 miles.

As he started back I sat in the co-pilot's chair, watching great spurts of flame shooting from the exhausts while the engine cowlings glowed ruddily.

The observer kept a watchful eye out for any fighters which might have started after us, but our homeward journey was as undisturbed as a flight in a passenger plane.

As we neared home I failed entirely to pick out the landing field until the lights went up to show its boundaries, but the pilot had come down over the mountains into the hollow unerringly, and made a perfect landing.

The captain and crew were full of apologies because I had not had more excitement. That they said was just our luck. Those who bombed the same target shortly after us reported that they were fired at by anti-aircraft guns and at least one fighter was seen to take off, but when he gained altitude he found his prey gone.

Bulgaria Wonders About Axis Stand

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 21 (AP)—Sofia went under partial blackout tonight while its political leaders conferred with one of the highest of German diplomats and the Bulgarian public began frankly to ask whether this country had promised to cooperate with the German army against Greece.

In Parliament, Deputy Peter Doumanoff denounced England bitterly as "Bulgaria's greatest enemy," the press spoke of Bulgaria's "trust in Germany's friendship" and recalled Bulgaria's territorial claims against Greece.

The conference between Premier Bogdan Philoff, Foreign Minister Ivan Popoff and Franz Von Papen, the German ambassador to Turkey, was made possible by the fact that von Papen ostensibly missed the train which was to take him back to his Turkish post from Berlin, where he had talked with Adolf Hitler.

Mercury Prices In Mexico Are Boosted

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21 (AP)—A lively demand by Japan for Mexican mercury has sharply boosted the price of this prime war material and increased production in Mexico.

Dealers said today the price had gone as high as $230 U. S. For a 76-pound flask and now was around $175, or a shade higher than New York prices.

POSTMASTER DIES.

AUSTIN, Nov. 21 (AP)—J. Lynn Hunter, 71, Austin postmaster during the Coolidge and Hoover administrations, died today after an extended illness.

Negro Held On Threat Charge

A negro man, about 38, was held Thursday night in county jail after Coy Ford told the sheriff's department the negro had threatened his life.

Ford said he ordered the negro and his half-brother, about 28, to leave his property late Thursday afternoon. They had been hunting rabbits on the Ford property about a mile east of Municipal airport.

Ordered Off Again.

Discovered that the negroes continued to hunt he drove near them, accompanied by his wife and child. He repeated his order for the blacks to leave, he said.

The older negro answered with profanity and when requested to refrain from cursing, put a shell into the chamber of the shotgun, Ford told officials.

"I'll blow your brains all over this pasture," the negro was quoted as saying, again interspersing his speech with profanity. The younger negro verified the threat in an oral statement to authorities.

Threat Repeated.

Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney, said there had been no felonious action by the negro. Aggravated assault charges likely will be filed, however, members of the sheriff's department said.

Ford said the younger negro attempted to avert trouble and strong-armed the brother, a 200-pound 6-footer, into their car. The older man jumped out of the car and repeated the threat.

Loser Of 2 Turkeys Thankful This Year

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP)—James Phelps, rancher, was mad when someone stole two turkeys from him a year ago today.

When he awoke this morning the odor of roast fowl guided him to his front porch where he found a roast turkey still simmering and a side dish of cranberry sauce.

Crediting a conscience-stricken thief with the gift, Phelps told Chief of Police J. N. Black to cross theft complaint from his books, and said "I'm not mad anymore."

Brief Bits Of Local News

A wallet containing $10 in cash, a registration card and valuable car and truck ownership papers was lost at the Amarillo-Lubbock High school football game Thursday by J. Roy Crutchfield. The wallet was stamped with "American National bank." Person finding the wallet was requested to get in touch with Crutchfield at his address, 1013 West Eleventh street in Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hatheny and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Patterson of Amarillo, and Miss Elizabeth Champion of Austin were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Pauley, 1516 Twenty-eighth street, Thursday. They attended the football game.

Release of Mrs. G. W. Leonard Cole of 2106 Sixteenth street from Lubbock sanitarium was announced Thursday. Mrs. Cole suffered fractures of both legs in a Nov. 11 automobile mishap near Sweetwater.

W. L. Stangel, president, said Kiwanis directors would meet at noon today in Lubbock hotel for a scheduled monthly session.

Bob Gee, president, said American Business club would have its luncheon at noon today in Hilton hotel.

Move of the district farm security administration offices was announced Thursday, effective Saturday. A federal grand jury Monday will need office space used by the government agency. Marvin C. Wilson and Earl Wise will have temporary offices with John E. Key, rural rehabilitation supervisor.

Body of Edward Berndt, 22, of 4202 Avenue J was sent to Caldwell for burial after services read Thursday afternoon in Rix chapel. He died Wednesday of infantile paralysis.

Mrs. M. Rhoades of Lubbock route 6 is recovering in a Beeville hospital a fractured leg she suffered at her mother's home in Beeville. The husband has gone to the bedside. Mrs. Rhoades was visiting a sister who is ill.

Four additions Thursday night brought the total of conversions and additions to 23 for the week in a revival at the Tabernacle Baptist church, Fifteenth street and Avenue N, where Rev. Louis Wunneburger is preaching. His topic at 7:15 o'clock tonight will be "Does Youth Have Its Price?" He will continue his sermons on the book of Revelations at the 10 o'clock morning service and will talk over KFYO at 5:05 o'clock this afternoon.

Police Thursday night were informed by the Terry county sheriff's department that a blue 1937 Dodge sedan, license F23-010, had been stolen at Brownfield. Charles Ralph Galbraith of 2811 Twenty-third street reported theft of his bicycle.

A middle-aged Mexican man, apparently inebriated and certainly the victim of assault, had more than usual compassion on his adversary. He appeared at the police station early Thursday night, covered with blood and bearing a scalp wound. He further gave the name of another Mexican who had struck him. "But," he said, "I don't want to get him in trouble because he has served time," he told officials.

Robert Oliver, 22-year-old negro man, was stabbed in the shoulder and right arm late Thursday night by a young negro woman. He was admitted to Lubbock sanitarium, where authorities said his condition was not serious at midnight. The woman was held in city jail after investigation by Raymond Land and Earl Horton, police patrolmen.

PLANE FOR ARMY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21. (AP)—United Air Lines announced today that in the interests of national defense it was diverting to the army air corps one of the 10 Douglas 21-passenger planes scheduled for delivery this month. The air line will get its tenth plane in June.

Manganese Ore Fields Tested

By MURRAY M. MOSER
United Press Staff Correspondent

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 21. (U.P.)—The United States Bureau of Mines is on the trail of new domestic sources and industrial and defense uses of manganese, the most abundant nonferrous heavy metal in the earth's crust, Dr. R. S. Dean, chief engineer of the metallurgical division, has revealed.

Dean said manganese someday may rank as one of the most important of metals.

Experiments have shown that manganese alone—not an alloy with steel as it now is mainly used—has many desirable and peculiar industrial qualities, the engineer disclosed.

"We have found that manganese with a slight addition of copper and after a suitable heat treatment, has a unique vibration dampening capacity," Dean said.

"When struck, it produces less noise than steel or even lead," he added. "This is a valuable property in gears and many machines where vibration absorption is a factor."

Dean said all present uses of pure or nearly-pure manganese are "projected"—not definitely established. He believed that with development "uses will be found that will develop a market for electrolytic manganese, independent of its use by the steel industry."

Most experiments are concerned with development of electrolytic manganese instead of the more common ferro-manganese, that is used in an impure form to harden steel.

Dean said the war has reduced the importation of manganese ore from Russia and India, formerly the two principal sources of supply, leaving only Brazilian and Cuban ore available for American needs.

"We hope to develop the domestic sources through the electrolytic process," Dean said. "And at the same time find new uses for the metal."

Manganese is nearly 10 times as plentiful as copper, lead and zinc combined, the mining engineer said, but the amount and purity produced "up to the present have been controlled entirely by the requirements of the steel industry."

To develop methods of producing electrolytic manganese, the Bureau of mines is constructing a $300,000 experimental plant at Boulder City, Nev. It is near Boulder Dam and the "Las Vegas Wash", one of the largest known deposits of manganese in America.

Other large known deposits, now being explored by the bureau's mining division, are at Drum Mountain, Utah; Artillery Peak, Ariz.; Chamberlain, S. D., and at Valmy, Nev.

Rumanian Iron Guard Leader To Be Welcomed By Nazis

New Nation May Join Alliance

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Budget

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—The German foreign office prepared a welcome for Rumania's Iron Guard premier, Gen. Ion Antonescu, today as the Axis roundup of Balkan nations into a solid alliance pledged to a German-Italian order in Europe drove ahead.

The Rumanian is due in Berlin tomorrow morning, informed sources said, and will be received by Adolf Hitler in the afternoon.

Foreign diplomatic circles were of the opinion Rumania's entry into the German-Italian-Japanese alliance, expanded yesterday by the adherence of Hungary, was assured and that only the formal signing of the papers remained.

Others To Follow.

Still to follow suit next week, they believed, was Bulgaria and the little German-protected state of Slovakia.

The well-informed commentary Diensat Aus Deutschland said Rumania's imminent joining of the Axis showed how any state in Europe which desires order at home automatically becomes a partner of the Axis.

Accompanied by his foreign minister, Prince Costin Sturza, and the German minister to Rumania, Wilhelm Fabricius, Antonescu was greeted at the Austrian border town of Bruck by Baron Alexander von Doernberg, protocol chief of the German foreign office, and other officials.

Purpose Is Served.

Observers pointed out that adherence of Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria would pave the way for Nazi troops to march to the Turkish and Greek borders to strike at the eastern Mediterranean bastions of Britain.

(German troops already are stationed in unannounced numbers in Rumania, where they are engaged, according to official announcements, in training Rumania troops and protecting Rumania's oil wells.)

The opinion of diplomats that Bulgaria is about to follow Hungary into the alliance was supported by informed comment that the visit of King Boris of Bulgaria to Hitler last Sunday "served the new political order in Europe."

Co-Eds Pledged Not To Take Air Course

FULLERTON, Cal. (U.P.) — When the Army Air corps said it needed more "manpower," Fullerton Junior college authorities took it literally and passed a regulation to discourage co-eds from enrolling in the school's civilian flight training program.

All prospective enrollees had to pledge themselves to seek further flight training with the Army or Navy air corps—thus eliminating women. Military authorities claim women are "of no military value" as pilots.

TESTING MOBILIZATION.—Members of the Houston American Legion Defense Corps check charts on the city before testing out a manpower mobilization plan. The public was warned in advance against becoming panicky when the orders were sent out over the radio. (NEA Telephoto).

Girl, 18, Is Toast Of Old Mexico's Bullfight Fans

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mex. (U.P.)—Mexican bullfight fans have a new hero — rather, heroine — a pretty young American girl of 18.

Blue-eyed Conchita Cintron, born of American parents but who has spent most of her life in Lima, Peru, is the latest sensation of the bull ring circuit of Mexico. When she appeared in the bull ring of this northern border town, throngs greeted her.

The 110-pound "bonita Peruviana" is a strange looking figure in the arena as she pits her skill against a 1,200-pound bull. Her very appearance before the fight never fails to bring the crowd to its feet, cheering her.

Conchita has combined two types of bullfighting — the Spanish and Portuguese. She can ride a horse in the ring with the skill of a Portuguese and place the long, barbed darts — banderillas — behind the bull's shoulders with equal facility. Or, she can perform equally as well on the ground and make the kill in the style of the Spanish bullfighter, or matador.

Miss Cintron, who said she could not kill a fly if she had to, learned to kill bulls in Lima, where her father, Frank Cintron, a graduate of West Point Military academy, is in business. Ruy da Camara, Portuguese consul in the Peruvian capital, taught her the principles of fighting bulls. Da Camara had been a noted bullfighter in Portugal.

When she was 13, Miss Cintron appeared in the Lima ring as an amateur. The next year, she made her professional debut in Lisbon. And, in 1938, she fought her first bull in Peru, on foot.

Jesus (Chucho) Solorzano, top ranking Mexican fighter, saw her in Lima and brought her to Mexico City. She captured the imaginative Mexican spectators and since has gained popularity throughout the country.

Conchita spends hours training. She accepts no social engagements. Her mother always accompanies her on her tours.

"So no day," she said, "I shall not be able to fight bulls. Then I will have time for beaux.

"It doesn't take great strength to kill a bull," she said. "You must be cool and sure. If the sword strikes the proper spot, it penetrates easily. If it doesn't, you've failed, and failure may mean injury or death."

A single examination is not enough for healthy eyes. Even if glasses be fitted, they should be changed occasionally.

Venezuela Has New Sport, But Correspondent Finds It Has Its Faults, Too

EDITOR'S NOTE: Associated Press Correspondent John Lake, on a roving assignment in South America, found Venezuelans engaging in a strenuous pastime. Here's his colorful description.

By JOHN LEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

CARACAS, Venezuela — (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—They throw the bull by the tail down here in Venezuela.

They do it, futhermore, in Main street.

They rope off the street first, by way of precaution, and after that it's every man for himself.

There is no such thing as an innocent bystander. To the bull, everyone looks guilty. And a bull which has been having its tail yanked by men galloping around on horseback is in no mood for peaceful discussion.

Looking Other Way.

I can say this with conviction because, at the first bull throwing show I witnessed, in a village south of here, the bull bashed its way through the barrier at one end of the street and headed for me.

I would like to describe how fearful he looked as he charged. But I can't. I was looking the other way.

For a while after that, the narrow mountain road on which all this took place looked like part of a wild west movie thriller. There was only one bull, but there was noise enough for a Texas roundup. Horses reared on sloping curves of the little dirt highway. White-garbed riders waved their arms and yelled and banged away with pistols. The chase continued for a half mile before someone looped a lasso a couple of hundred feet and caught the runaway by its one remaining horn.

Had To Stay.

Everyone who wanted to cross that particular mountain ridge that day had to stay and watch the fun. The village, a typical one with a half dozen houses on one side of the road and a statue of Simon Bolivar on the other, was enjoying fiesta. Rough log fencing barricaded the street at each end. On one side, the mountain rose precipitately; on the other, a steep valley dropped. In the short, narrow space between, the bulls were loosed one at a time.

From one end of the street to the other, the bull raced with horsemen behind and beside him, grabbing at his tail.

Once the rider grabbed the tail, the idea was to throw the bull to its knees.

Other Business.

When the bull failed to show sufficient interest, men on foot jumped into the arena and fluttered red capes in front of its nose.

When it showed too much interest, the horsemen disappeared into the front doors of the village houses.

It looked like a pretty innocent pastime at first. The bulls obviously were tired, and wished only to be let alone. But before the afternoon was over, one of the men with the fluttering capes was a second too slow. His thigh was ripped open and his ribs trampled.

I didn't see much more, because soon after that the bull crashed through the barrier in front of where I was standing, and I remembered that I had an appointment elsewhere.

Burglaries Here Investigated

Three burglaries and another unsuccessful attempt had police looking for one or more intruders Thursday, because of similarity of the offenses.

In each case windows were broken to effect entrance and, in all, burglars netted only $3.90 and a small radio.

Windows Are Broken.

As in others, Fred Hodges service station, where entry was not effected, windows were broken.

Other reports were;

J. H. Lindsey of 2122 Seventh street reported theft of a 22-caliber rifle and deeds executed to C. C. Cook, from an automobile parked in front of his residence.

Police, continuing to hear of a negro house of prostitution, arrested a negro woman after a man who lives at route 2, O'Donnell claimed to have lost $45 there.

A. L. Rose of 2303 Fifteenth street telephoned the Slaton chief of police the license number of an automobile suspected of having struck him here. Rose was not badly injured.

Lamesa authorities telephoned that a 1934 Ford sedan, license 332-988, had been stolen there.

Barnerdo Enreste of Whiteface claimed his .380 pistol had been stolen from his car. A suspect was arrested by police and lodged overnight in county jail for being named in charges today.

A VACATION IDEA.

PARIS, O. (U.P.)—Here's a suggestion for next year's vacation: Mr. and Mrs. Chester Heavner drove a friend's automobile to California and had no way to return. They bought French-made racing bicycles and made a vacation trip of it — traveling 3,000 miles through 20 states in less than two months. They averaged 100 miles a day.

Social Security Britain's Aim

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 21—Ernest Bevin, the new minister of labor, told a gathering of London Rotarians today that his war aim was social security.

In the first public declaration by a cabinet minister of this aspect of the war's objectives, the labor party chieftain asserted that at the end of the war, "and indeed during it," social security should be "the main motive of our natural life."

Called "Next Prime Minister"

Called by his laborite admirers "the next prime minister," Bevin said:

"Begin now. That doesn't mean that all profit and surpluses must be wiped out, but it means that the whole economic life should be devoted to giving security, not to the small middle class, but to the community as a whole."

Bevin blamed as one of the main contributing factors to the war the failure, after the last conflict, to erect an economic structure based on humanity.

Must Satisfy One

He told the story of one British public employment office where the largest room was devoted to paying out of the dole and the smallest to the finding of jobs.

That, he said, or public education must stop.

"It is better to leave the masses untaught than to give them a double appetite, both of stomach and head, and then not to satisfy either," he asserted.

Morever, said Bevin, it is no use for Britain to speak to the millions in Europe and elsewhere in the terms of "Gladstone liberty," they must, he declared, be given a new feeling of hope.

"Things can never be as they were," he said. "The old age has passed. A new age has to be built."

Allowance Of $150 A Month And Turning The Radio Down Would Cure Lot Of Nerve Patients, Mayo Nerve Specialist Says

(By The United Press)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 21—Don't blame that tired feeling on your wife or your job because, about nine times out of ten, they aren't responsible.

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, nerve specialist at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., said today that usually the man who blamed his fatigue on his wife or his boss had nothing wrong except that he was traveling at too fast a gait for his own good. Such men, Alvarez said, would find life much more pleasant if they'd stop long enough to let life catch up with them.

A lot of nerve patients, he said, can be cured if they are given an allowance of $150 a month.

The radio, the doctor said, "is playing hell with the nerves." The trouble is not particularly the war news or even the jitterbug music, but just that the radio is there making a lot of noise, keeping the mind going a little faster than it otherwise would go.

Peanuts With Oomph Is Latest "Find"

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 (AP)—Goobers with more oomph!

That was the promise offered peanut lovers today as the result of experiments conducted by Oscar N. Allen and Ethel K. Allen, botanists at the University of Hawaii.

The Botanical Gazette, published at the University of Chicago, reported the Allens had found that inoculation of peanut seeds with rhizobia, a nitrogen-giving bacteria, resulted in not only larger plants but increased quality as well.

Negro Waiter's Tea Was Whisky By Drink

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 21 (AP)—From a distance, it looked like tea, and it was being poured from a tea pot into tea cups.

A policeman, suspicious of so many straight tea drinkers, investigated.

He arrested a negro waiter, who was charged with selling whisky by the drink in violation of state laws.

Average American Sailor Is Land-Lubber At Heart, 19½ Years Old And A Volunteer

[EDITORS' NOTE: In doubling the size of its navy, the United States is increasing the personnel by three times. Here, in the third of a series of six daily stories on the Navy, are revealed many little known and interesting facts about the men who compose our first line of defense. Tomorrow, Navy's guns carry threat to all within eighteen miles].

By W. B. RAGSDALE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. — The American sailor is a land-lubber at heart.

His background is not the wave-washed coastal cities, but the uplands of the South and Middle West, the rolling prairies and the High Rockies.

For these are the regions that furnish the best physical specimens, have the lowest percentage of rejected applicants. Such stations as Des Moines and Dallas are among the Navy's most important recruiting points.

Never A Mutiny

Take a look at the average sailor in the United States Navy. He's well worth looking at. In these long years since the Continental Congress bought six merchantmen and made them men-of-war in 1775, he has built up an enviable record.

He sweated and bled with John Paul Jones, with Oliver Hazard Perry, with Lawrence and Evans. And in the whole history of the Navy, there has never been a mutiny of any ship or squadron.

He has pride and a sense of ownership in his ship, be it the lowliest puffing tug or the mightiest, new man-of-war. His spirit is that of the man working for his own team, his own gun crew, his own ship—and his own fleet.

Has Three Years Of High School.

The average American sailor is 19½ years old; 5 feet 8½ inches tall; weighs between 145 and 146 pounds, and has had three years of high school. He is a volunteer, every stitch of him.

To enlist, he must have been either native born or fully naturalized, between 17 and 25 years old, at least 64 inches tall, without dependents and unmarried. He had to furnish a list of employers or teachers, to have the proper consent if under 21, and be clear of any police or juvenile court record.

Three of every four applicants go out in the first rigorous physical test, some for such things as stiff joints, or eyeballs that bulge too much. One of every ten fails out in the intelligence test.

If he passes all points of these first tests, he is put on the waiting list. Rarely does the Navy fail to have men waiting to get in.

Gets Three Physical Examinations.

Called up for service, he gets a second physical examination.

Next he gets a third physical examination, a uniform and a rigorous three months of physical, infantry and small boat drills mixed well with lectures and lessons in naval etiquette and customs. Next he goes to the fleet for a month to round out his kindergarten training aboard ship.

Now he gets a pay raise, is lifted to seaman, second class, or fireman, third class, according to whether he is to work above or below decks.

Opportunities To Learn.

He becomes a member of a division, is allotted mess, battle and emergency drill stations and drops into the routine of navy life.

Around him are ample opportunities to learn. Study courses of all sorts are available, with officer teachers, correspondence pamphlets, and movies to illustrate the technical points.

From top to bottom, the Navy, in addition to being an ever ready fighting machine, is a widely diversified and highly practical university, a place where men learn by doing, and study that they may do more.

Schools are being enlarged to keep pace with the shipbuilding program.

To Require More Men.

For the doubling of the fleet will require about three times as many men. Eighty million dollar battleships can't be stored away on pantry shelves to be kept until needed.

The 165,000 men and 11,000 officers now in the Navy will have to become 460,000 men and 40,000 officers.

The officers ranks are open to enlisted men through the naval preparatory schools which train 100 men each year to join the men the congressmen send to the naval academy at Annapolis.

With the navy, a part of it, but with such valorous traditions of its own that is usually thought of as a wholly separate organization, is the Marine corps. Marines do guard duty on every battle ship or cruiser, handle anti-aircraft and broadside guns in battle, provide landing crews.

The corps now has 37,500 men at its three stations at Quantico, Va., Parris island, S. C. San Diego, Calif., or on duty at the hot and dangerous spots around the world; at Shanghai and in North China; at Naval stations in the Hawaiian islands, Guam, the Canal zone and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and in small detachments guarding the billion dollars worth of property the Navy has in its dozens of shore establishments.

They are the soldiers of the sea, a tough, highly seasoned, tightly organized band of fighters that always manages to show up when there is hard fighting to be done. It is a closely knit unit of its own, an army inside the Navy.

A FLAVOR TREAT FOR CHILDREN...

PLUS THE BENEFIT OF IRON-RICHNESS!

IT'S A DELIGHT—that unforgettable old-time flavor that comes from the juice of freshly crushed sugar cane! And in this juice there is also a substantial amount of iron to enrich the goodness of Brer Rabbit Syrup.

New scientific tests prove that Brer Rabbit Syrup not only is rich in iron, but the iron is in a form almost completely available for use by the body. So eat plenty of this syrup that tastes so good. It is good for you and your family. Buy a can from your grocer tomorrow. Made by Penick & Ford, Ltd., Inc., New Orleans, La.

Why not serve this Iron-Rich syrup several times daily?

Children need an abundance of iron daily . . . and they love to get it from delicious Brer Rabbit Syrup. Give them plenty every day—in any form they enjoy:

AS A SPREAD—For pancakes, waffles, biscuits and other hot breads. On on plain or buttered bread for between-meal snacks.

IN MILK—For a delicious Brer Rabbit Milk Shake, mix one or more tablespoons of Brer Rabbit Syrup with a glass of milk.

ON CEREAL—In place of other sweetening.

FOR DESSERT—As a sauce for ice cream or in luscious gingerbread or cookies. All of Brer Rabbit's iron richness is retained in cooking.

Naval Bases Not To Be Given Up

EDITOR'S NOTE: Wallace Carroll, manager of the United Press London bureau, in Dublin for a brief respite from aerial bombings, was received by Premier Eamon de Valera for what de Valera called the fullest and most forceful interview he had given in years.

By WALLACE CARROLL
(Copyright 1940 By United Press)

In a frank talk across a green-topped desk, he explained to me why he could not surrender to Britain naval bases on the south and west coast of Ireland which Britain restored to Ireland in 1938.

He made it clear at the outset that he did not wish to say anything which might foster ill feeling between Ireland and Britain. His consistent aim, he said, has been to secure understanding and good will. But he made it equally clear that Ireland will not change her attitude about the bases.

Was Act Of Restitution.

"It must be remembered," he said, that these Irish ports had been held by Britain against the will of the Irish People. In giving them back Britain was only restoring to Ireland what was her own. It was an act of restitution.

"I am not denying if one had been using something that belongs to another, to give it back to the rightful owner is sacrifice, and a repression of selfishness which is difficult. But if there is to be justice in the world at all such sacrifices must be made.

"To give us back the ports only on condition they would be returned to Britain when she wanted them would in fact be not to restore them at all. And at the time of the agreement in 1938 it was made quite clear, both by British parliament and ours, that restoration was absolute and without conditions, expressed or implied.

Involves Safety Of People.

"This question is one which involves our national sovereignty and our people's will. It also is one which involves the safety of our people.

"You in the United States are 3,000 miles away from immediate bombing. If we handed over the ports to Britain we would thereby invoive ourselves directly in the war with all its consequences.

"You have seen what happened to London, notwithstanding its defenses. Ireland is not a nation which can spend 10,000,000 pounds a day for armaments and if London is suffering as it is, what would happen to Dublin, Cork and other Irish cities relatively unprotected? No doubt we have to face these dangers but no nation can be asked to court them.

Understands British Position.

"I can understand Britian's position and if I could do anything to relieve the suffering of the British people I would do so. All our international efforts of years past have had as their principal purpose the saving of the peoples of Europe from their present plight.

"Our principal purpose now must be to save our people. We think of the world as a whole because we are part of it. But it is primarily with the welfare of our own people that the Irish government must concern itself."

I drew de Valera's attention to press statements that it would be just as feasible for Ireland to lease ports to Britain as it was for Britain to lease bases to the United States.

But Ireland Is Small.

"But there is no analogy at all," he replied. "In one case it is leasing territory to a neutral. The other case it is leasing a neutral's territory to one belligerent to attack another.

"There is in this matter of course another difference between the United States and Ireland that should be noted, a great power like the United States is sufficiently strong if it became involved in war to influence the course of the war. But Ireland is a small nation and cannot hope to do that.

"Moreover, a great power even if it is defeated may retain its liberty although it may lose some of its possessions. But a small state like Ireland, if it involves itself in war, risks the loss of everything, even its liberty. It should accordingly avoid war if at all possible."

Not To Allow Use Of Bases.

I remarked that Britain recently seemed anxious lest Germany invade Ireland. Could Ireland defend herself if Germany attacked?

"I don't think Britain need have any anxiety on that score," replied de Valera. "We have pledged ourselves not to allow our territory to be used as a base of attack.

"We have at present in men and material a stronger defensive force than ever existed on this island before and we are constantly strengthening it. With added equipment we are trying to get we could make this island at least as difficult a proposition to invade as Britain is and it is not our fault if our equipment is not more complete.

Will War Any Attacker

"We were getting special equipment from Czechoslovakia and Sweden before the war. endeavored also to secure arms from Britain and the United States. Our purpose is to buy arms and secure full equipment for a force of a quarter-million men. In any case, we could always if need be, look for aid."

"You said in your speech in the dail, there can be no question of handing over the ports as long as ireland remains neutral. Under what circumstances would Ireland relinquish her neutrality?" I asked.

"If attacked we are at war with whomever attacks us," he answered.

In reply to further questions de Valera indicated clearly that Ireland would not enter the war under any other circumstances.

Man Thought Dead 12 Years Gets Estate

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 21. (AP)—The Lancaster county orphans court, custodians of Albert Gingrich's estate since he was declared legally dead 12 years ago, has ordered the fund turned over to him.

Gingrich returned home this fall after a 20-years' absence. He appeared in court to offer conclusive proof that he is still alive.

Church Gets Funds To Care For Burial Lot

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21. (AP)—A $1,000 legacy for the perpetual care of the Revolutionary war General "Mad Anthony" Wayne's burial lot has been awarded by the court to Old St. Davids' church in Radnor, Pa.

The money was bequeathed in the will of Mrs. Mary Atlo Wayne Wiseman, a direct descendant of Gen. Wayne.

Long-Talked-Of Project In Mexico Finally Is Begun

ANGOSTURA DAM PROJECT, Sonora, Mexico, Nov. 21. (U.P.)—Over a century of efforts have been made to make the Angostura Dam project in this northwestern Mexican state on the Bavispe river a reality, but it was not until the Cardenas administration was inaugurated six years ago that the project was begun.

When the huge dam is completed in the near future, it will form a lake about 26 miles long and 10 miles wide. Water for irrigation and other purposes will be assured the vast, arid wastes of the state of Sonora and for the rich Yaqui valley over 200 miles south of Angostura. Water will be stored through the rainy seasons and distributed during the dry months.

The dam is being constructed by American engineers under John L. Frazier, who recently completed the Rodriguez dam in lower California.

The structure is of a mass concrete, gravity arch type with a 300-foot arch. The dam is 748 feet long. A power house, mixing plant, shops and warehouses have been built. The equipment and construction methods are as modern as those used on any American project.

The dam is being erected by the Mexican irrigation commission. Approximately 1,000 workers are employed. As a result, a community of 4,500 has sprung up near the dam.

The community has its own police force, sanitation regulations and hospital.

Survey Shows Co-Eds Outspending Boys

MANHATTAN, Kas., Nov. 21. (U.P.)—Although the college man pays the courtin' bills, the college co-ed spends more money.

At least a recent survey taken by the business staff of the Kansas State Collegian shows the average woman student here spends approximately $538.72, while her male counterpart averages $521.64.

It revealed the average Kansas State university student spends $530.18 during the school year and that the total buying power of the 4,000,000 students is $2,066,309.

The greatest part of the $2,066,309 is amount spent for food, totaling $620,184.65 per year. Candy, ice cream and chewing gum purchases amounted to $27,271.94, and $91,570.24 is spent for drinks.

Other expenditures, in order, include general supplies, men's clothing, women's clothing and transportation.

Expenses for individual students were found to vary from $200 to $1,500 for the school year.

Corn Loan Rate For 1940 Fixed

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—The Agriculture department today fixed 1940 corn loans to farmers at 61 cents a bushel—four cents per bushel—four cents per bushel more than last year's loan rate.

The period during which the loans will be available was extended from four to 10 months and the term of the loan was increased from one to three years.

The loan is mandatory under the agricultural adjustment act of 1938 which proves that a loan shall be made at 75 per cent of parity in a year when the crop is less than a normal year's domestic consumption plus exports and the price on Nov. 15 or thereafter is less than 75 per cent of parity.

The 1940 crop on Nov. 1 was estimated at 2,434,000,000 bushels against the domestic consumption plus export figure of 2,490,000,000 bushels. The price on Nov. 15 was estimated at 56.9 cents, or approximately 70 per cent of the parity price of 81.5 cents.

No Time For Adjournment

MEMBERS of the House of Representatives would have invited the nation's resentment had they done other than they did in refusing to adjourn at this time. Those who voted for adjournment are likely to discover they will have some explaining to do to the folks back home.

If ever there was a time when Congress should remain on the job, that time is now. Never since its founding has the nation been in worse peril.

To adjourn would mean that all the power normally exercised by Congress would be concentrated during its absence in the hands of one man—the President. There would be no check-rein upon him. Theoretically, of course, he would be answerable to the next Congressional session, but that might be too late to remedy abuses of power or errors in judgment.

Furthermore, no purpose would be served even to the congressmen by adjournment. If individual members need to return to their homes, they can arrange to do so. If all want to leave Washington at the same time, they can recess for a period of time, thereby setting their own time for reconvening. If they adjourn, they are out of session until the next regular meeting date unless the President should choose to call them back sooner.

Perhaps no harm would have been done had they adjourned. Probably nothing will happen to require immediate attention. But the international picture is changing so rapidly that no one can foretell with certainty what the next hour may bring. There is no wisdom in taking any chance that a sudden vital need for Congress might find the membership scattered all over the country.

Even though the presence of most of the members in Washington may be nothing more than precautionary insurance, it is the kind of insurance which the nation has every right to expect and demand.

Be On The Safe Side!

THE expected has happened in connection with the building of huge camps where men called into service under the draft will be trained.

The building of those camps obviously has required large numbers of skilled and inskilled workmen. Wages have been high—although not nearly so high as rumors have reported. The result has been that job hunters have flocked to those centers from all points of the compass.

From all the camps the story is the same. Many more workmen are available than possibly can be employed. Many reached their destination entirely without cash reserves. Large numbers were accompanied by their families. They were confronted by the necessity of obtaining work immediately, or being faced instantly by destitution. They found prices extraordinarily high, housing shortages acute. The inevitable result has been a serious problem of charity and of health. They have created the perfect conditions for the outbreak of disease and crime epidemics.

So, if you happen to be one who hopes for a job in connection with the construction of a training center—or any other national defense projects—you had better make some inquiries before you start. Furthermore, you had better have the means of getting back home if you find the conditions likely to be found in the place where you are hoping for a job. Otherwise you may discover too late you have jumped out of a frying pan into a very hot fire.

Congress Loses A Good Man

IT IS WITH regret that most of those who follow the workings of Congress look toward retirement of Marvin Jones of Amarillo from the House of Representatives to become a judge of the federal Court of Claims.

His is, of course, fully deserving of the honor of appointment to this high judicial position. He will be a distinguished addition to the bench.

But it is extremely doubtful whether the value of the service he can render there to the nation will be nearly so great as if he had chosen to remain in Congress. Certainly he will be a very difficult man to replace, as the Amarillo district in particular is likely to realize for a long time to come.

YESTERDAY: Adam introduces his wife, Pat, 20 years younger than himself. Matra makes a brilliant entrance, and the tension eases. Coffee is served in Adam's basement trophy room. Neila hears footsteps in the hall. She tries the door, fails to open it. Hugh also tries, then announces, "We're locked in."

CHAPTER III
A SHOT IN THE DARK

Adam jerked at the door. "It's locked, all right."

"Locked in!" Patricia Langdon breathed, eyes half ironical, half afraid. "What a climax to the evening!"

"Climax? Say beginning, Pat," Gundrum corrected. "Probably a gang of thieves are upstairs, looting the place."

"Then we are as helpless as rats in a trap," Neila began to cry.

"Stop that, Neila!" Hugh commanded. "With five able-bodied men and a gun rack to protect you, what have you to fear?"

"Were all the windows closed on the upper floor, Togi?" Adam asked.

"Closed because of storm. Maybe thief could get in by using penknife at window latch," the valet replied.

"Someone may be playing a joke on us," Marta suggested.

"Who that we know would be out in this storm, breaking into a house just for a joke?" Sidney demanded.

A low rumble of thunder followed by a gust of wind and a torrent of rain gave point to his words.

"The sooner we get upstairs, the less we'll find missing," Hugh said. "Shall I shoot the lock, Adam?"

"Yes, but stand as far as possible from the door so as not to splinter the oak," Adam Langdon told him.

"Don't shoot until all of us are armed, Hugh," Sidney suggested. "There may be a gang up there. Never can tell, and it's best to play safe."

Acting immediately on his own suggestion, Braitwood led the way to the gun racks. While most of Langdon's guns were antiques, they were all in working order—Adam insisted upon that. Insisted, too, that each derringer and dueling pistol be kept loaded.

"A gun is no good if it can't be used," he had explained. "I like to see just how well they shoot, anyway."

In a few seconds each man had selected a weapon. Hugh squared before the door.

"If anyone is in the hall trying to play a joke on us, get out of the way," he called. "I'm shooting the lock."

The ticking of the clock above the fireplace was the only sound while they waited for the sound of retreating steps. Then another gust of wind and a loud peal of thunder wiped out the silence.

A second terrific detonation followed. It rocked the house with such loud violence that none knew whether or not Hugh had actually fired. Instantly the lights went out.

Terror swept through the blackness of the room. A pinpoint of light flickered beneath the coffee urn. Vivid flashes of lightning revealed frightened faces. A woman screamed. Then thunder crashed about them, as the full fury of the storm seemed concentrated on this single isolated house.

A brilliant flash illuminated the room for a fraction of a second. Almost instantly, the explosion of thunder shook the house again. Outside, a tree crashed to the ground.

Stillness followed. A match flickered momentarily in the blackness, went out. Then the storm unleashed a new barrage. No one spoke. All stood tense, half afraid the house might be struck.

Braitwood, at Hugh's right, moved toward the door. It swung open at his pull. He struck a match, held it high, as he peered out into the hall. The draft from the open door extinguished the light.

"Stay here and guard the women, Adam!" Hugh's voice rang out. "Sid and I will go upstairs. Gundrum, you'd better look in the storeroom. Togi, you search the furnace room. If you get in a corner, call us and we'll come running back."

The men grouped about the door, heard the directions, but over at the table where the women remained, his words were not audible above the storm, as it later appeared. At the foot of the stairs leading up from the hall outside the Jungle, the four men separated, Sidney following Hugh, gun in hand, Gundrum and Togi turned to nearby doors.

Hugh and Sidney found the door at the top of the stairs unlocked, and, to their surprise, the upper floors fully lighted.

"By Jove," Hugh exclaimed. "I thought the entire lighting plant had been crippled. Must have been a fuse that blew out in the Jungle."

They moved cautiously forward to the front door. It was locked. There were no wet footprints to suggest that anyone had come in that way. Back and side doors also were locked.

"Somehow, I don't have that uncanny feeling that I always get when I'm stalking big game, Sid," Hugh whispered in a puzzled tone.

Gundrum, followed by Togi, joined them, neither having found the lower rooms disturbed. They, too, were surprised at finding the upper part of the house still lighted, and Togi agreed that a fuse must have blown out in the Jungle.

"I take candles down to ladies. They afraid in the darkness," he said.

Hugh nodded and Togi snatched candles from the dinner table. As he disappeared down the basement stairway, the three men moved toward the drawing room.

An agonized cry — a woman's scream of terror — came from the Jungle.

Sidney was the first to reach the doorway of the Jungle. Togi was trying to light a candle, but his hands shook so that the match went out. The valet had been out of sight only an instant.

Braitwood grabbed the candle, lighted it, held the flickering light high above his head. He knew Hugh and Gundrum had rushed down the stairs at his heels; he heard Craig call out to Pat.

"Marta! Marta!" Sidney shouted. She did not answer. Nor did Adam.

Togi finally succeeded in lighting another candle, moved cautiously forward.

"Mr. Langdon!" The valet's voice was shrill as the light revealed the new lioness.

Adam Langdon leaned against the head of his trophy in an odd, unnatural manner. His head slumped forward. At his feet lay Marta.

Not two feet from her outstretched hand was the pistol with which Adam had armed himself when they had discovered that the door was locked.

Industrial School's Inmates Are Drilled

HUNTINGTON, Pa., Nov. 21. (U.P.)—The youthful inmates of the Pennsylvania Industrial school here are training for the part they may have to play in national defense.

A battalion of "honor boys"—comprising one-third of the population of the state reformatory—has been organized. The boys, 400 strong, drill and parade outside the institution's walls every Sunday afternoon before crowds.

Membership in the battalion is limited to those who are awarded a "bond of honor" for good conduct inside the walls. The boys range from 18 to 25 years.

Chief drillmaster is Lieut.-Commander John D. Pennington, retired naval officer and former federal prohibition enforcement officer, who has been superintendent of the reformatory since 1935.

Although members of the drill group wear bright military uniforms, the outfitting of the company has cost the taxpayers of the state nothing. The uniforms used originally were purchased for the Pennsylvania State Police, who later junked the outfits in favor of an older style of uniform.

The uniforms are blue and gold, complete with overseas caps. They are worn every week, and often before such reviewers as C. R. Sterling, national vice-commander of the American Legion and others who have shown interest in Pennington's battalion.

WOULD REDEEM OLD BONDS

HARTFORD, Conn. (U.P.)—A sum of $100 is waiting at the State Treasurer's office for anyone who submits a bond certificate which matured in 1885. The $100 has been in the state treasury since then waiting for someone to claim it.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PROSPECTS of a final and friendly settlement of the Mexican oil controversy will probably sidetrack demands for a Senate investigation. Quiet arrangements for straightening out all major difficulties have coincided with plans for the Wallace-Camacho exchange of visits and inclusion of Mexico in a three-nation, hemispheric defense alliance.

Several Senators with long ears think the affair should be aired from start to finish. Capitol Hill cloakrooms have buzzed with tales that a prominent American labor leader and a friendly Senator first assured Mexican officials that Washington would not resent expropriation of the oil properties. They set the stage, perhaps innocently, for a quarrel that brought the two nations to diplomatic blows at a troublesome time in world affairs. It is also understood that two first-flight politicos (Democratic) conducted preliminary negotiations for the expected agreement. It appears that interfering outsiders had a larger finger in the petroleum pie than the lawyers or diplomats.

Tentative talks do not contemplate outright return of the lands to their American owners. It is probable that a corporation with a Mexican name and connections will be organized to administer the properties, but with the Americans getting a full return. Such a move is necessary to save President-elect Camacho's face and stave off any threat of an Almazan revolt against the new administration.

REVAL: Canada's war efforts—and the effects—have many lessons for the rearming United States. Our experts—economic, industrial, military—are keeping a close eye on events up north, where they swung into fast tempo almost a year earlier than the United States.

Unemployment has virtually disappeared except for obvious unemployables, although there were 400,000 jobless—or about 4,500,000 on the basis of American population. Key activities—steel and mining—have hit new highs. New factories are sprouting like mushrooms. Shortages of skilled labor have appeared, especially in machine tools. Building has returned to pre-depression levels, although chiefly in the industrial field. A control board has been given larger powers over certain industries. As here, firms making munitions and weapons are financed privately or by Government agencies, with the latter type operating as non-profit, private organizations. There has been a minimum disruption or normal economic and democratic processes.

Numerous industries have suffered, forecasting a pattern which this country may have to follow. Production of passenger cars has dwindled in favor of mechanized war equipment. Loss of foreign markets has aggravated the problem of farm surpluses. Canada, in short, is turning towarn an economy more closely resembling our own system. It may become a more profitable customer than it has been in the past, but the Dominion may also become a threatening rival after—and because of—the European war.

PORTENTS: Harry Alvin Mills' appointment to the National Labor Relations Board—the first major act since election—buoys the belief that the President will pursue a moderate course in his third term. The 67-year-old Chicago professor is no radical in his economic slant.

His friends characterize him as the Brandeis type. He feels that vast concentrations of power—whether of capital or labor—invite danger when utilized for pressure purposes against society. Therefore he believes that they should be rigidly controlled. With respect to labor he is considered a middle-roader in that he does not lean toward the CIO or the AFL. He and Member Leiserson will probably stand together against the more radical Edwin S. Smith. The tuming of the appointment to coincide with the Lewis and Green conventions suggests that FDR feels fairly confident of labor peace. Otherwise, the President would probably have waited a while longer.

Former Chairman Madden would have been renamed had his big backer, John L. Lewis, been more responsive to preelection peace offers from the White House. But when the CIO boss told a Presidential emissary that not even Mr. Madden's reappointment would placate him, and when he declared for Wendell Willkie—all bets were off. It would have been branded as a political dicker for campaign purposes.

NEW YORK

CENSORED from all dispatches is a shrewd bit of gerrymandering of war zones by which the Nazis have limited RAF operations in occupied France. Officially the entire coast of northern France, and parts of the coasts of Belgium and Holland, are military zones, therefore legitimate targets for British bombing wherever the Germans may be entrenched.

Actually the German bases—marine, air and artillery—are spotted so close to population centers that bianket attacks would mow down more Dutch, Belgians and Frenchmen than Nazi occupation troops. The situation is not a proper propaganda tonic on either side of the Channel for a common reason: Berlin does not want to advertise the fact that bases were located where civilian French can be hostages to the shelling. London must play down the fact that misdirected bombs falling wide of German encampments will strike purely French centers.

This shuffling of civilian and military areas is one of the unsolved problems which is a constant subject of negotiations between Berlin and Vichy. The armistice terms carried a German reassurance that all Frenchmen living in that part of occupied France to be used in the British assault would be evacuated. A partial evacuation of certain coastal strips and inland areas was in fact accomplished. But transfers of villages were limited by plans calling for a blitzkrieg that did not visualize four months of hearty retaliation. In the meantime all of occupied France has been used at various times as a military zone, making the first delimitations absurd from the British point of view. As it stands, the Germans will broaden the military role of all occupied France in proportion as Britain prepares for the offensive. In doing so Berlin will plead the manifest impossibility of moving ten million natives out of harm's way.

CHINK: So far as facilities go any American with the right background and modest connections can elect to visit any of the war capitals of Europe which business or curiosity may suggest. Here are the limitations:

The State department which must first be satisfied the traveler has legitimate reasons for the trip, is not unreasonably rigid about passports. He then tries his luck with one of the Clippers and finds that space must be booked months ahead, passage subject to postponement according to the number of officials rating priority. If he is not in the good graces of London he is subject to arrest or reparation at B da. Arrived in Lisbon the principal obstacles are over and the red tape begins.

In order to clear Bermuda, a traveler to any of the Toto countries, Spain and all of France included, must have had the foresight to travel without incriminating visas. If these have been arranged telegraphically by the New York officials of the countries concerned, he visits the corresponding Lisbon consulate and finds that Portugal is more of a neutral clearing center than Switzerland. By tipping judiciously he can arrange an itinerary drawing on any of these services; a non-stop flight to Madrid, a two-stop flight to Marseilles, four stops to Rome, Paris or Berlin. Bankers who have recently completed extensive tours of Europe have a strong word of caution—the traveler should stick to the air where passage is costly, efficient and fairly free of bureaucratic delays. If he takes to the rails he is bogged for weeks, and if to the highway he is through traveling at the end of his first tankful of gas.

"Tune Up That Git-tar Again', Willie! Kinnie Wagner's On The Outlaw Trail"

By NEA Service

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 21.—Kinnie Wagner, one of those killers who inspire men in mountain cabins to tune the old guitar and make up songs, is at large again.

Somewhere around northwestern Mississippi and Arkansas, the bushy-haired, beetle-browed gunman who has killed at least five men has the authorities once more on his trail. Before they find him there ought to be several more stanzas added to the hillbilly near-classic "Kinnie Wagner Was His Name."

WAGNER first earned immortality in song among the Tennessee hillbillies by shooting two peace officers. He had practiced for this feat by running away from his Virginia home and joining a circus, where he became a crack shot. He left the circus at Meridian, Miss., in 1924, and while working at lumbering found himself in the Lucedale jail for petty larceny.

He obtained a saw, cut his cell bars, slugged the jailer who was bringing him his breakfast, and escaped. For nearly a month he was a fugitive but on Christmas Eve, 1924, he mowed down with shotguns two deputy sheriffs who knocked on the door of his hideout. He got away.

For four months Wagner was a shadow, appearing briefly in this city or that, then vanishing. But on April 13, 1925, a deputy and a policeman were shot to death, and a second policeman badly wounded in answering a complaint of a disturbance near Kingsport, Tenn. Wagner's arrest followed next day at Blountville, and he was promptly sentenced to be electrocuted. An appeal to the Tennessee supreme court saved him this time, and while awaiting a new trial, Wagner improved his time by escaping from a new jail at Knoxville.

Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Mexico passed under Wagner's elusive feet, but he was run to earth in the Red River bottoms near Texarkana in the summer of 1926. The posse, led by a Mrs. Lillie Barker, who had succeeded to the sheriff's race after her husband had been killed by bootleggers, closed in on Wagner. He came out of a clump of bushes, hands up, and surrendered.

"I gave up because I was tired of being hounded like a dog," Wagner said, possibly thinking of another verse for the ballad. "When I saw that a woman was leading the posse, I threw in the sponge. I don't fight against women." You could almost hear the chords of the guitar. Wagner being fresh from the murder of two friends in a fight the night before.

Became A Trusty

THAT October, Wagner went on trial again for murder, but the jury could not bear to give the death penalty to so heroic a figure, and the judge imposed a life sentence.

Kinnie Wagner was his name.

On the way to Parchman, Miss., penitentiary, Wagner tried again to escape, but missed, and the following year tried again to escape by beating a guard, grabbing his rifle and shooting another guard. Confronted by a third guard with a fine bead on his forehead, Wagner surrendered.

This record qualified Wagner to become a trusty, which status he enjoyed for several years. He justified his jailers' leniency and confidence the other day. Forcing a convict camp driver to take him out of the prison camp in a prison car, he stole the driver's clothes and the car, set him afoot, and vanished.

Flood May Oust Last Indians

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 21. (U.P.)—Pennsylvania's last remaining Indians, descendants of Chief Complanter, who gave the state its "chimney corner" outlet on Lake Erie, may be forced from the ancestral lands deeded them in perpetuity by a grateful legislature.

When and if the proposed Kinzua dam, part of the Allegheny river flood control program, is erected, backwater will inundate the homes and ancient burial grounds which the Complanters have more than once refused to vacate. A tourist-minded administration fears if the Indians do leave, they will cross the nearby New York state line and live with their fellows of the Six Nations near Salamanca.

In an effort to smooth over the situation, Gov. Arthur H. James made a trip to the reservation near Warren, Pa., and was inducted into the brotherhood of Complanter's descendants. He was the first of a long line of governors to accept the Indians' invitations and one of the few white men ever inducted into the old chief's clan.

Lands Are Isolated

A group actively working to keep the Indians within the commonwealth, points out three tracts were deeded Complanter's descendants—one, that on which they now live, a narrow, cramped site squeezed between the turbulent Allegheny, which floods them out once a year anyway and an impassible bluff. Few Pennsylvanians know the Indians exist, even fewer could get into the reservation through the wilderness, if they tried.

The other two tracts are in nearby Venango county. Never lived on by the Indians, they were used as hunting and fishing grounds until the Civil war, when oil promoters talked them into giving up their rights "for the good of the union." The Indians were prevented from selling their lands by the deed. Since they relinquished them, the tracts have been made part of the Allegheny National Forest, and Federal government permission has been obtained for the Complanters to live there.

White friends of the Indians argue that in the Venango county sites, they could use their ancient skills and handicrafts to good advantage in locations where tourists will be able to penetrate. At present, they point out, only about 60 of the 500-odd descendants of the chieftain are able to sustain themselves on the reservation by skimpy agriculture, hunting and fishing. The rest are forced to become circus attractions, sideshow men or medicine barkers.

In many ways the Indians lead a primeval life. Squaws still do much of the work, while the braves who live on the reservation hunt and fish, exempt from the state's rigid game laws. Citizens of the state, they pay no taxes, and debts may not legally be collected from them against their will.

Education has penetrated the reservation. About 16 children attend a state-supported school and are taught by a white woman. All are Christians and attend services at a small chapel administered by an Indian missionary who visits them each week.

Kitchen Police Duty No Bugaboo Now

CAMP BLANDING, Fla., Nov. 21. (AP)—Potato peeling and other kitchen police duty, bugaboo of many soldier generations, is "out" for National Guardsmen and draftees assigned to combat branches in the national military training program, an executive officer emphasized here today.

Principal stress will be put on the technique of fighting, and the "K. P." tasks will be performed by men regularly assigned to them instead of being rotated, as has been customary in the past.

Authorization Given On 34 WPA Projects

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 21. (AP)—Authorization to begin work on 34 WPA projects, involving expenditures of $697,206 in Work Projects administration funds and $640,357 in funds supplied by local governmental agencies, has been given Texas district managers, Stearns S. Tucker, deputy state administrator, announced here today.

Authorized projects by counties included:

Denton—Construct physical education and recreation building at Texas State College for Women, Denton; WPA $43,456; school $102,447; workers 74.

Dynamite Safer Than Gasoline In Home

AUSTIN, Nov. 21 (U.P.)—Dynamite in the home can be much safer than gasoline, Fire Insurance Commissioner Marvin Hall said today, because a majority of the people have learned to fear dynamite, while they treat gasoline less carefully.

Hall said statistics for the first 10 months of the year show a death toll of 50 persons from improper use of gasoline. Twenty-five deaths were charged to improper care in using kerosene.

Good Samaritan Left Holding Empty Bag

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 (AP)—A good Samaritan was left holding the bag today—an empty bag, at that.

A customer in a south side liquor store suddenly doubled up with stomach pains. The clerk, John Damato, graciously mixed him a glass of medicine. The patron gulped it, straightened up, downed two bottles of beer—then produced a revolver, snatched $438 and fled.

Nearly 9,000,000 cows, pigs and chickens have been slaughtered in Denmark for shipment to Germany this year.
