German Lines To Italy Are Badly Battered

Two Other Rail Centers Blasted In Air Assaults

LONDON, Nov. 12 (U.P.) — Allied bombers tightening an aerial stranglehold on Germany's battered communications with Italy have cut the coastal railroad through the French Riviera in attacks from Britain and the Mediterranean theater, communiques announced today.

Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz's Liberators smashed by daylight yesterday at the coastal line in the Antheor area near Cannes, the third rail bottleneck to Italy to be bombed in 24 hours.

The Royal Air force sent its bombers down from Britain last night to insure the rupture of the line with a bombardment of the Cannes yards and other key railroad targets.

Two Other Areas Hit

The trip hammer aerial blows followed crippling assaults by American and British heavy bombers on the Lyon-Turin line at the Mont Cenis tunnel and the Brenner Pass road at Bolzano.

The two-way offensive against Nazi Europe was rounded out by Royal Air force Mosquito bombers which attacked Berlin, Hanover and the Ruhr.

While one flight of Liberators from the Mediterranean area hit Antheor, another bounded over the Alps to attack Annecy, the deepest point in France yet attacked from that theater.

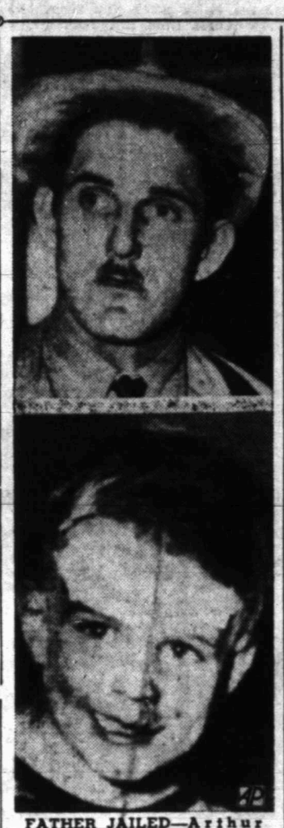

It was the third straight day that American heavy bombers had attacked two targets simultaneously in the Mediterranean zone.

Two Main Lines Cut

The raids not only severed the two main lines between Italy and France at least temporarily, but also probably all but cut off Germany from railway communication with northern Italy at a time when the Nazi command was in the midst of frantic preparations to meet possible Allied landings in northern Italy and possibly southern France.

Northwest African Air force bombers were believed to have shattered the main railway link between Germany and Italy Wednesday with a raid on the Bolzano bottleneck on the Brenner Pass railway. This railway alone was inadequate to meet German demands in northern Italy and the Germans had been diverting an

FATHER JAILED—Arthur Haselton (top) was booked by police at Chicago on a charge of cruelty to children after his son, Arthur, jr., (below) told a grocer who had befriended him that "my father is going to kill me." The thinly-clad five-year-old boy was given food and on one occasion clothes by the grocer, Everett Cree, when the lad came to the store to get warm. Cree reported the case to police when the boy appeared, his face bruised and two of his front teeth missing. (AP Wirephoto).

Anti-Poll Tax Bill Approved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (U.P.)—The Senate judiciary committee today approved the anti-poll tax bill by a vote of 12 to 6, and Sen. Theodore Bilbo, (D., Miss.), announced on the floor it would be filibustered when it came up for debate.

The bill, passed by the House last spring, would abolish payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite to voting for president, vice president, and members of Congress. It would nullify these levies in eight southern states.

Vote Is Listed

Committee Chairman Frederick Van Nuys, (D., Ind.) reported the roll call vote showed:

For: Pat McCarran, (D., Nev.); A. B. Chandler, (D., Ky.); Harley M. Kilgore, (D., W. Va.); Abe Murdock, (D., Utah); Ernest McFarland, (D., Ariz.); Burton K. Wheeler, (D., Mont.); John A. Danaher, (R., Conn.); Alexander Wiley, (R., Wis.); William Langer, (R., N. D.); Homer Ferguson, (R., Mich.); Kenneth Wherry, (R., Neb.); and Van Nuys.

Against: Carl A. Hatch, (D., N. M.); Tom Connally, (D., Tex.); Charles O. Andrews, (D., Fla.); Warren Austin, (R., Vt.); Chapman Revercomb, (R., W. Va.); and Joseph C. O'Mahoney, (D., Wyo.).

Connally is the only member of the committee who represents a poll tax state. Besides Texas, other states which have a poll tax are Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee.

Wilson Resigns As WPB Vice Chairman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — The resignation of Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the War Production board, has been accepted by Chairman Donald M. Nelson, informed sources reported today.

The resignation, not officially confirmed, probably will become effective within a few weeks, or as soon as a continued rise in aircraft production establishes that October's nine per cent gain was not a mere production fluke.

U. S. Destroyer Sunk By Nazis

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (U.P.) — The 1700-ton U. S. destroyer Beatty was sunk in the Mediterranean by German planes last Saturday, the Navy announced today.

This was the fourth destroyer loss announced in recent days by the Navy.

Casualties Not Revealed

The skipper of the Beatty, Lieut. Cmdr. William Outerson, Hollywood, Calif., was a survivor, the Navy reported.

The Navy did not say how many casualties were suffered. Ships of the Beatty type normally carry from 175 to 200 men.

The Beatty's loss raised to 129 the total of American naval vessels lost in this war. It was the 12th American naval vessel lost in the Mediterranean.

German Footholds On Lero Admitted

CAIRO, Nov. 12. (U.P.)—A communique announced today that the Germans had gained footholds on the Dodecanese island of Lero.

German forces attacked the island this morning the communique said, and were engaged by British occupation troops who landed on Lero at the time of the Italian armistice early in September.

The German landing forces "are being dealt with," the communique said.

Lero is about 60 miles northwest of Rhodes, main German-held island in the Dodecanese, and 30 miles south of Allied-controlled Samos.

NORWEGIAN EXECUTED

LONDON, Nov. 12. (AP)—The Norwegian telegraph agency said today that eight Norwegians had been executed by the Germans at Tromsoe on Oct. 23 following their conviction on charges of "espionage and assisting espionage for the benefit of an enemy country."

Weather Report

WEST TEXAS: Continued fair; cooler in Panhandle and South Plains this afternoon and tonight; slightly warmer Saturday in Del Rio-Eagle Pass area and Big Bend country.

EAST TEXAS: Continued fair; slightly warmer near the upper coast and in extreme east portion this afternoon; slightly warmer in south, slightly cooler in northwest and extreme north portions tonight; little temperature change Saturday.

Food Promised For People Of Occupied Areas

Minimum Diet Of 2,000 Calories A Day Is Set

(By The United Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 12. — United Nations Relief Director Herbert H. Lehman today promised the starving people of occupied Europe and the Far East a diet of 2,000 calories a day as soon as the Allied armies have liberated them from the Axis.

At his first news conference since a meeting of the council of the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration yesterday elected him UNRRA's executive director, Lehman also described the task of repatriating 20,000,000 European refugees as "one of the most important and difficult" facing UNRRA.

The 2,000-calory target, he asserted, will not have to be supplied from the pantries of the United States and other Allied nations. A large part of it will be supplied, he said, from domestic production, which will be brought to its fullest effectiveness as soon as possible, as was done in North Africa.

Considered Minimum

Two thousand calories a day is considered by nutrition experts as the minimum amount of nourishment needed for a healthful diet.

It has not yet been decided whether this same degree of relief will be provided for Germany and her allies.

UNRRA could supply some relief if the Axis were to collapse soon, Lehman asserted, but not in sufficient quantities. He urged that this made stockpiling of supplies imperative.

Lehman achieved this position by being elected unanimously director general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration at a plenary session of the 43 delegates to the present conference yesterday. He assumed office last night at ceremonies in the Claridge hotel, whose broad red brick facade looks across the Atlantic to the Europe where first relief problems will arise.

Won With Little Effort

His new position, capping a long career in public service, was won with little effort by the United States, which will contribute an estimated $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 to the humanitarian project. He was supported for the office by President Roosevelt, a

Nov. 25 Is Set For Texas Thanksgiving

AUSTIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—In his Thanksgiving proclamation declaring Nov. 25 a legal holiday, Gov. Coke Stevenson today invited Texans to observe the event in such manner as to show appreciation for their "bountiful blessings."

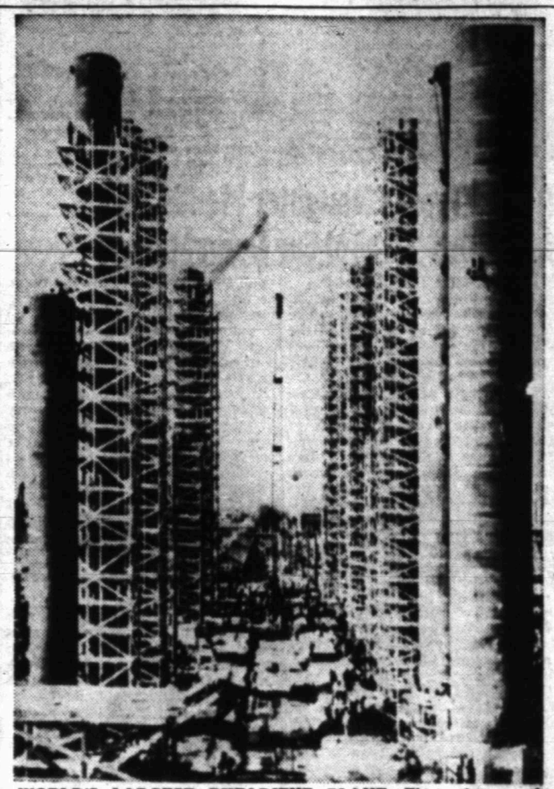

"Divine providence has looked with special favor on us during the past year, nothwithstanding the sorrows caused by the scourge of war," Stevenson declared. "There is none among us so poor that he has not something for which to be thankful."

Public display of American and Texas flags was recommended "to signify our gratefulness for the privilege of living in this land of freedom and opportunity."

PRESIDENT PROCLAIMS TRADITIONAL DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP) — President Roosevelt, who once experimented with an earlier Thanksgiving day—on which many states declined to go along—today proclaimed the traditional last Thursday, November 25, as the day "for expressing our thanks to God for his blessings" in 1943.

These, he said, have been many, including the biggest food crop year in American history.

This plant will produce 100,000-tons of butadiene per year, enough to fill 1/7th U. S. total wartime needs. Participating are five major oil companies. (Passed by censors). (NEA Telephoto).

Ability To Produce Weapons Allied Ace

Army Intelligence Says Production Of Arms Is Main Advantage Over Enemy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — Army intelligence, whose business it is to get all the information obtainable about the enemy, today blueprinted for Congressional examination the reasons why many military authorities do not share recent public optimism over prospects for winding up the war in a hurry.

And Maj. Gen. George V. Strong, acting chief of the military intelligence division, after an exhaustive review of what the United Nations are still up against, made this grave observation:

"Our main advantage in the struggle is our ability to produce weapons. If, through unwillingness to face facts, we give up this advantage, if through over optimism we slow production and relax our efforts, we may find that our opportunity for victory has escaped us permanently."

Review Of Recent Address

The blueprint consisted of a review of a recent address before House members in secret session by Strong in which he presented data indicating the Germans are stronger now than in 1939 when they invaded Poland and that the real fight against Japan in the Pacific has only started. It was sent by the War department to all congressmen, and was made public by Rep. Outland (D-Calif.), who had previously quoted some of Strong's statements.

The report as to Germany made these points:

Germany has more than 300 well-trained divisions.

United Nations optimism is based almost entirely on the ability of Russia to keep nearly three-quarters of the German army occupied and the ability of British and American aviators to continue tremendous raids on Germany's European fortress.

German manpower increased from 23,000,000 employed in essential war industries in 1939 to 35,000,000 now.

Included in German armament are many new models of tanks, self-propelled guns, rocket guns and other equipment which is in some cases better than anything the Allied armies have.

German Air Force Weakest

The German air force has become the weakest point of the German forces in Europe, but even this weakness should not be overemphasized. Germans have lost many of their best pilots since 1939. Until last July their produc-

Gas Fumes Kill Two At Houston Plant

HOUSTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — Gas fumes today killed two workmen and overcame two others at the $12,000,000 plant of the Goodyear Synthetic Rubber corporation.

The dead are Ed M. Leeder, 31, and John W. Reynolds, 42, both employes of the Keghan and Hughes contracting firm.

F. S. Priem, 48, and W. A. MacPherson, 24, employed by the Brooker Engineering company, were revived by an inhalator.

W. D. McKethrick, chief engineer for Keghan and Hughes, said Leeder and Reynolds entered a 30,000 gallon capacity tank to repair gauges. When they did not return, Priem went to investigate and likewise was overcome.

WLB Asking More Authority To Cope With Possible New Crisis

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — A majority of the War Labor board believes another coal crisis is possible and, in effect, pleaded poverty of authority today to deal with it.

Industry members of the board addressed themselves directly to Congress in a statement strongly urging immediate consideration of amendments to the War Labor disputes act "to require responsibility of unions and to provide additional protection for workers, employers and the public against those who misuse the power presently permitted."

The three public members who approved the Ickes-Lewis agreement a week ago said in their formal opinion in the case that the possibility of new labor troubles "together with the shock experienced by the whole country as a result of the United Mine Workers' defiance of the no-strike pledge, must of necessity bring into the fore-front of consideration and discussion the whole question of the responsibility of unions for anti-social acts and of the capacity of government as at present constituted to pre-

Administration Ignored In New Tax Legislation

House Group O. K.'s Bill Calling For $2,142,900,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Given a new slogan by Chairman Doughton (D-NC)—"You can shear a sheep every year but you can skin him but once"—the ways and the means committee headed toward the House floor today with a $2,142,900,000 tax bill.

Rep. Carlson (R-Kans), committee member, predicted "the House and the country" would accept this

TAX BILL EFFECTS GIVEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP) — Here is how the new tax bill approved by the House ways and means committee affects individual incomes:

1. Repeals victory tax.
2. Increases the normal tax rate from 6 per cent to 10.
3. Retains present personal exemptions and credits for dependents.
4. Adopts a readjusted surtax schedule calculated to help facilitate merger of the victory and income levies.
5. Suspends for the duration the earned income credit.
6. Requires married persons filing separate returns to take a single person's exemption.
7. Provides that the tax shall not be less than 3 per cent of the net income in excess of a personal exemption of $500 for a single person, $700 for married persons and $100 as credit for each dependent. This is to retain 9,000,000 victory taxpayers not now subject to regular income levies.
8. Retains existing overall tax limit of 90 per cent on the largest incomes.

second wartime revenue measure, which is about one-fifth the $10,500,000,000 asked by the administration.

Changes Slight On Incomes

The bill, formally approved by the committee last night, calls principally for higher postal rates, higher excises on so-called luxuries—liquor, horse racing, amusements, furs, jewelry, lipstick and other consumer items—and an increase in the wartime levy on corporation "excess profits."

It alters but little the taxes on individual incomes and makes no change in the normal and surtax levies on corporate earnings.

The 20 per cent withholding rate against the taxable portions of wages and salaries would remain the same. There is no retail sales tax plan, and present rates on estates and gifts would not be disturbed.

Major Provisions

Major provisions of the bill include:

1. Merger of the Victory tax with the individual income levy, picking up $12,000,000 in the process by repealing the Victory levy and raising the normal personal income rate from 6 to 10 per cent, and

Painful Arrests! Fighting Sisters Finally Jailed

EL PASO, Nov. 12. (U.P.)—There was peace in the El Paso jail on Armistice day and things remained relatively quiet today while "the three fighting MacArthur sisters" waited to see if their father C. R. MacArthur of Glencoe, Ill., could get them out of jail.

The three girls, Marilyn MacArthur and Mrs. Marjorie M. Erpeldine, 18-year-old twins, and Mrs. Jean Kettner, 22, were serving out $150 fines for the cumulative results of a police attempt to arrest them last week for vagrancy.

The girls, who kicked and bit policemen, detectives and military police, threw water on other officials and slammed a steel cell door on a jailer's fingers—were fined for disturbing the peace, using abusive language and simple assault.

Must Have Aroused Them

Papa MacArthur, who arrived in El Paso, remarked:

"The people must have done something to arouse their ire."

One detective was a victim of misguided gallantry. Mrs. Erpeldine escaped at one juncture and ran to a city bus. The detective pulled her off while she screamed "he's assaulting me." Outraged male bus passengers, ignoring the detective's plea that he was only upholding the law, pounced upon him. During the scuffle, Mrs. Erpeldine placed a kick in the detective's stomach.

Papa MacArthur said he couldn't understand it. "My girls," he said, "are good girls."

Russian Army's Onrush Sets Off Great Exodus

Important Military Roads Are Jammed By Tens Of Thousands Of Peasants In Flight; Arrests Fail To Halt Exodus

(By The United Press)

BERN, Switzerland, Nov. 12.—Tens of thousands of Rumanian peasants were reported evacuating eastern Rumania in the path of the onrushing Russian army today, jamming the important military highways over which the Germans are trying to hasten reinforcements to the front.

With the Red army now in striking distance of the Rumanian frontier, throngs of panic-stricken refugees abandoned their farms in Bessarabia, Bucovina and Moldavia in a mass flight toward the relative safety of the interior, these reports said.

Nazi garrisons in the menaced provinces were understood to have been given orders to halt the evacuation at all costs, in order to clear the roads for military traffic. Hundreds of refugees have been arrested.

Arrests Don't Stop Exodus

Swiss sources said the arrests had failed to halt the exodus, however, and that practically every highway leading westward from the frontier was jammed with farm buggies and slow-moving ox carts loaded with refugees and their household possessions.

Alarm over the possibility of Russian air raids apparently touched off the mass flight. The concern of the people also was said to have been heightened by reports that the Germans had ordered their troops to abandon Odessa and that Bucharest itself was to be evacuated.

RAIL CENTER IS UNDER FIRE OF RUSSIANS

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—Russian armored spearheads drove within artillery range of the great rail center of Zhitomir astride the Leningrad-Odessa trunk line today, bringing under fire the German defense line only 65 miles short of the old Polish frontier.

Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin's flying columns stepped up their onrush to a rate of 20 miles a day in the wake of German rear guard action despite snow and slush which clogged the treads of Soviet armor.

(A Columbia broadcasting system report from Moscow said the Russians were within 10 miles of Zhitomir. The German high command acknowledged that the "battle in depth in the breach area" west of Kiev "continues with undiminished fierceness.")

While Vatutin's central column plunged straight westward for a frontal assault on Zhitomir, the hub of railroad radiating through-

Lie Is Given To Jap Claims

Not One Warship Of Allies Sunk

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 12 (AP)—General MacArthur and Admiral Halsey gave the lie today to Japanese claims of sinking battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers during the current Allied drive in the northern Solomons toward Rabaul.

Not one Allied warship has gone down, the two leaders said through their spokesmen.

Naval Score Given

The Naval score since the Marines landed Nov. 1 on the now firmly secured Empress Augusta bay beachhead on Bougainville's west-central coast thus reads:

Against Japan—three cruisers and eight destroyers sunk; at least 11 cruisers and four destroyers damaged; and two cruisers probably damaged.

Against the Allies—damage to an undisclosed number of warships.

Claims Without Basis

"Japanese claims of sinking warships and of a naval battle subsequent to the naval action reported off Bougainville the night of Nov. 1-2 are without any basis whatsoever," General MacArthur's spokesman said.

The Nov. 1-2 battle was the one in which American warships, intercepting an enemy task force of 12 heading for the Bougainville beachhead, sank a cruiser and four destroyers and damaged two cruisers and two destroyers without loss to themselves.

Didn't Sink Chevalier

Admiral Halsey's spokesman was even more to the point. He said the Japanese had not sunk a single Allied warship since the United States destroyer Chevalier went down on Oct. 6.

Even in the Chevalier's case, the Japanese claim was clouded. For that destroyer sustained only damage during a battle in the Vella gulf which resulted in the sinking of a Japanese cruiser and two de-

Counteroffensive Is Opened By Chinese

CHUNGKING, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Chinese high command announced tonight that it had launched a counteroffensive in central China after falling back for the past 12 days according to plan before 30,000 Japanese driving through the "rice bowl" between the Yangtze river and Tungting lake.

The Chinese were said to have broken into the Japanese defense ring around Ichang, farthest point of enemy penetration in central China, in the face of heavy gunfire, taken more than 10 strategic points, inflicted heavy casualties and captured considerable supplies.

The Chinese also asserted they were attacking in Hunan, Hupeh and Kiangsi provinces, named in order from west to east, to the south of the Yangtze, and also to the north of the river.

The Japanese were unable to progress beyond a point south of Itu, a Yangtze port 25 miles below Ichang. A large number of the invaders were killed in a trap in the mountains south of the Yangtze, which they reached after their sweep through the rice bowl.

Northwest of Sokow the Chinese said they scored a similar success, reaching Japanese strongholds.

Real 'Underground' Is Active In Rome

BERN, Switzerland, Nov. 12. (AP) —An underground in the true sense of the word, whose members dart from Rome's gloomy catacombs to assassinate and kidnap the German invaders, was described today by eye-witnesses recently returned from the Italian capital.

Interviewed by the Tribune De Lausanne, the traveler said Nazi authorities were doing their utmost to run down the patriots who strike swiftly in the darkness and then disappear into the endless labyrinth.

Describing Rome today, the article said the only automobiles running are those of the German army. Windows and doors of most stores are sealed because there is little in the city to sell.

As in other occupied countries, German occupation troops were supplied with great quantities of money brought in with them and, together with the Romans who have been buying recklessly to unload the lire they fear will be worthless after the war, have practically stripped the stores.

Bad Weather Is Slowing Allies

BY EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 12 — Extremely bad weather and difficult terrain in front of the Germans' winter defense line slowed the Allied drive in Italy to limited gains, Allied headquarters announced today.

A one-mile advance by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Americans of the Fifth army and the capture of one more commanding feature on the slopes of Mount Camino near Mignano at the western end of the Allied line were announced. Gen. Sir. Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army engaged in sharp patrol skirmishing near Acquaviva in the central sector and exchanged artillery fire with the Germans across the Sangro river in the east.

Counterattack Repulsed

A sharp German counterattack at Calabritto near Mignano was beaten back by Clark's Fifth army and prisoners were taken.

With little change in the past 24 hours along the whole length of the front, Allied air forces opened a new offensive on the supply lines of the fortress of Europe. Liberators of the 15th air force reached across the Alps into southern France for two smashing blows at railways and war industries at Annecy and near Cannes in cooperation with similar assaults by the RAF in Britain. RAF Wellingtons struck by night at the

Nazi Gasoline Convoy Wiped Out By British

A SOUTHERN ITALIAN PORT, Nov. 12. (AP)—Self-styled "Adriatic rats" of the British navy wiped out a blockade-running German gasoline convoy of four ships early Wednesday some 600 yards off the Albanian coast.

The ships, one large and three small, were hugging the Nazi-dominated coast and headed south toward Corfu when intercepted by destroyers.

Tech Homecoming Celebration To Open With Bonfire Tonight

Joint celebration of homecoming and parents day by Texas Technological college will open with the traditional bonfire and pep rally tonight to be followed by a round of activities highlighted by the Tech-North Texas Aggies football game at Tech stadium Saturday afternoon.

An awards convocation Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the gymnasium will honor parents and students.

Social clubs will begin with the Socii dance tonight at 9 o'clock and continue through Sunday morning honoring ex-members of the clubs.

The pep rally tonight will be broadcast over KFYO from 7 o'clock until 7:30 o'clock. Following this broadcast, the tenth annual bonfire will be lit. Freshmen have gathered the material for the fire and have guarded it since Thursday night to prevent its being destroyed prematurely. Senior class officers Frank Vernon and Lehmer Graham are in charge for arrangements of the fire.

Outstanding occasion of the homecoming and parent's day fetes will be the awards convocation to

Explain War To Children

BY ANNA W. M. WOLF
Author and Lecturer on Child Care

Everybody's talking about democracy. "We are fighting for democracy" . . . "Democracy is better than fascism." Do we mean what we say? Can we make our words come alive for our children?

Democracy, if it means anything, means a belief in the dignity of every individual and equal chances for all, to the good things of life. Though justice and fair play are fundamental to these things a working democracy must go further; it requires an active kind of interest in the lives of others including people who are different from ourselves. It means a willingness to lend a hand now and then and to give help when help is needed.

With the father of the family fighting or working to save an America that has stood before the whole world for these things, the least we can do on the home front is to help our children understand what the fight is all about.

There is no use in winning the war if we are to lose the peace, and it is today's children on whom will fall the responsibility for understanding what we have won and insisting on holding fast to it.

Children do not learn much about democracy from formal lessons, but they learn a great deal from the day by day practices of the people with whom they live. The first step toward understanding democracy comes when children discover that each member of his family has a right to consideration equal to any other.

There's no use teaching children at school that America is proud to be descended from many varieties of people, when parents at home persistently display prejudice toward other citizens different from themselves.

"I don't want any colored children playing in our yard," a mother may say. "It's bad enough that you have to go to school with them!" or—

"You've got to watch out for those Jews, or real Americans will never get a chance!"

No schools, radio programs or churches can educate children to love the deeper values of American life, unless our homes too are very clear what these values really are. Parents must find ways of making it plain to young minds that this is a war to stop not only Hitler but Hitlerism, not merely to "slap the Jap" but to make an end to the notion that no one race or nation, not even our own, is entitled to dominate the earth.

In this fight for democracy that must be fought on the home front, the mothers of America should be the first to enlist.

Needle Clubs Planning Thanksgiving Parties

Mrs. Elmer Haass had as her guests Wednesday afternoon members of Betsy Ross Needle club and is to be hostess to the group again on Nov. 23 serving a Thanksgiving dinner at 7:30 p. m.

Members present were Mesdames C. L. Dickson, E. L. Rabun, E. E. Rodgers, T. F. Rodgers, W. G. Tarrance, C. W. Trippe, Watson Wilson, Carl Owens.

1911 Needle club members met in the home of Mrs. Allan Carter, 3102 Twentieth street, Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Carden Green as assistant hostess.

Plans were made to sponsor a Christmas party Dec. 9 along with a luncheon at 1 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Fred Snyder with Mrs. F. R. Friend as co-hostess.

Members calling were Mesdames A. B. Conley, G. H. Nelson, J. O. Ellsworth, R. T. Bucy, Floyd Beall, W. T. Gaston, J. B. Jackson, T. R. Prideaux, W. O. Stevens, A. B. Cunningham, W. H. Bledsoe, T. W. Stoneroad and an associate member, Mrs. R. Q. Pierce.

Christine White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. White of 2315 Fifteenth street, is listed on the honor roll at Abilene Christian college for the first six weeks of the second semester.

Lesley Frost, daughter of the famed Poet Robert Frost, on the job as a member of an airplane maintenance crew.

Robert Frost's Daughter Mends Planes And Runs "School For Open Minds"

By BETTY MacDONALD
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The boys on the graveyard shift at the TWA maintenance hangar here are unanimous in their approval:

"Lesley Frost? She's tops!"

They are referring to the lithe, blue-eyed lady in coveralls, precariously a-straddle the nose of a huge four-engine Army transport. Maybe she's checking wires that must be perfectly attuned, maybe she's changing some of the 28 giant spark plugs in a 2000-H. P. engine. Whatever she's doing, she's doing it well.

At the hangar, she's No. J-10291 on the maintenance crew, only woman on the graveyard shift; a skillful team member getting a man's salary, doing a man's job. She knows the work. In World War I she carved mahogany propellers for wooden planes. In this war, she worked up from trainee ranks, cutting props with steel blades; riveting bolts in plane parts; weighing propellers with a skillful eye and a "good feel"; inspecting precision instruments. Now, she's an electrical "man."

Out of her working clothes, you meet a different Lesley Frot. You meet the daughter of one of America's foremost poets, Robert Frost. You see imagination, vitality, a woman with an interesting past, an intellectual present, a cynical future.

Out of her coveralls, off the graveyard shift, Lesley runs a "pension" that is unique in the busy annals of Washington life. With 10 girls from all parts of the world, Robert Frost's daughter conducts a "school for the open mind" where college graduates continue their education by informal, round-table discussions.

The school is run as a sort of home. All the girls work during the day at war jobs, return at night for seminars. Sometimes Robert Frost drops in for a few days; sometimes his crony, Padraic Colum, holds forth on Irish mysticism; about every two weeks Warren Mullin, the news commentator, drifts in to discuss current affairs; exciting visitors from all parts of the world—Painter Init Kaufman from Vienna — a Wellesley professor who fought in the Spanish war—a Mexican political hero—all mingle in discussions at Lesley's school.

But her career dates back, beyond the school—beyond the plane factory job. Miss Frost was a member of an eight-man crew on a motorless, radioless sloop from New York to the Baltic Sea; she sold books around the world on a cruise. She toured New England for five summers with a caravan bookshop. She raised two pretty daughters, and taught them in the same informal, progressive way she teaches at her school. She's written many books, including "Not Really," a juvenile best seller. She was a professor of English at Rockford College, Rockford, Ill. She's been an editor, author, press agent and reporter.

Miss Frost has no post-war plans. In her estimation, the war won't end in this century. It may have a brief armistice, but the social and religious and race upheavels will go on and on through our generation, she believes.

Her one post World War II ambition, however, is to learn to fly. She also wants to travel again, between wars, with the money she's making now.

Scientists in India who worked on the problem of warm clothing for the growing Indian Army discovered a process of treating cotton cloth with the seeds of two natives trees, and have produced a finished product that is warm, soft, and durable.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

If you sometimes wonder how you have been able to take on so many extra jobs both inside and outside your home since the war started, ask yourself these questions:

How long has it been since I had to spend half an hour trying to get rid of a door-to-door salesman?

How long has it been since I have been to a bridge luncheon, playing cards until 4 or 5 in the afternoon?

How long has it been since I've given the kind of party that required two days of hard work in preparation?

How long has it been since I had a letter from a friend or relative saying, "We'll be driving within a hundred miles of your place next week, and if it's convenient we would like to stop off and spend a few days with you?"

How long has it been since I was the family chauffeur, driving every member of the family to work, to school, to music lessons?

WINDOW-SHOPPING OUT

How long has it been since I've met a friend in town for lunch and spent the afternoon window-shopping?

How long has it been since I've done anything "just to kill time?"

How long has it been since I have done anything to keep up with the Joneses?

Well, how long? For just about as long as you've been able to do all the extra work you seem to have found time for. Isn't that right?

Needlers Meet Thursday With Mrs. Sandidge

A regular business meeting and social hour were conducted for the 1941 Needle club Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. B. Sandidge. The club's next meeting will be Nov. 18 at 3 p. m. with Mrs. E. R. Trego, 2605 Twenty-third street.

Attending the meeting were Mesdames J. O. Pope, J. A. Jackson, C. F. Henry, A. E. Dietering, Trego, A. J. Holtkort and W. A. Pettey.

Holiday Season Is Near At Hand

JUST around the corner and a frostbite away is the busy holiday season—a time that calls for tempting baked products that literally melt in the mouth!

Of all baked desserts, the one having more "melt in the mouth" appeal for most of us is old fashioned pumpkin pie! Good, spicy pumpkin filling and tender, flaky crust recalling grandma's busy Thanksgiving kitchen! And, if you remember, lard was the shortening always used in grandma's for turning out her good cakes, cookies and pastry for rich pies of all kinds.

Try Using Lard

The factor that affects most of success stories is the use of smooth, creamy lard which has such superior plasticity that even an inexperienced cook can turn out expert pastries! Try using lard for pie crusts that are tender and flaky, for cookies crisp and crunchy, for cakes that are "light as feathers" and for tender, moist breads.

Be sure to buy branded packaged lard so you'll get the kind that has been so perfected through increased production that it is ideal for your baking. Not only has the processing of branded lard been perfected to the extent that extra smooth texture is developed and every carton meets exactly the same high standards, but the keeping quality is improved so the lard will keep better under home refrigeration.

Make Up Surplus

It matters little whether you buy steam rendered lard or leaf lard (kettle rendered), because both kinds of lard have higher shortening power for pastry and similar products than any other shortening on the market.

When you use lard for pie crusts, it's wise to make enough pastry for more than one pie at a time. It will keep well wrapped in waxed paper in the refrigerator, then that old fashioned pumpkin pie will be easy to make when you plan your holiday meals. Another little trick is to bake the pie in a hotter oven right at first in order to set the crust, then baking it more slowly so the filling will neither crack nor blister. This higher heat at the start prevents the filling from soaking into the crust and making a soggy pie.

Lard More Digestible

Not only is lard excellent to use for baking, but it has been found to be highly important in nutritional aspects. Because it is an animal fat, it has constituents, not found in vegetable fats, which are necessary for normal growth and well being, and it is also more digestible than other shortenings.

Getting back to the baking ability of economical lard, here are tested recipes to help make every holiday season complete.

STANDARD PASTRY
(for 3 single or 1 double and 1 single crust pie)

2 cups all purpose flour
1 cup lard (½ lb.)
1½ teaspoons salt
8-9 tablespoons water

Sift flour, measure and resift with salt. Add lard and cut in with 2 knives or pastry blender until mixture looks like very coarse cornmeal. Add water, a few drops at a time, blending with 1 knife. Press dough together. Add just enough water to make the dry ingredients cling together. Chill, divide and roll out. Roll a circle that is approximately 1 inch wider than the pie pan all around. This allows for a good fluted edge. Use as little flour as possible on the board when rolling.

OLD FASHIONED PUMPKIN PIE FILLING

1½ cups pumpkin (mashed)
1 cup evaporated milk
¾ cup water
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs
2-3 cup brown sugar
½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon salt

Mix sugar and spices. Add pumpkin and water. Add eggs, well beaten, 1 tablespoon butter, melted. Pour into crust and bake at 450°F. for 20 minutes followed by 30 minutes in a 350°F. oven.

MINCE-MEAT FILLED COOKIES

9 oz. package mince meat
1 cup water
1-3 cup lard
1-3 cup butter
½ cup brown sugar
1 beaten egg
¼ cup evaporated milk
3 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Cook package of mince meat in 1 cup water until thick and smooth. Cool. For cookie dough cream lard, butter with brown sugar and egg. Add evaporated milk and then stir in flour, baking powder, salt sifted together. Roll out ⅛ inch thick and cut with a 2½ inch cookie cutter. Arrange half the cookies on a baking sheet and one each one place a small spoon of mince meat, cover with a second cookie and crimp the edges of the two together with a fork. Bake for 20 minutes in a 350°F. oven.

FOOD NUTRITION and Point Rationing NEWS

EDITOR'S NOTE: This feature is presented each Friday with hope that it will be of benefit to Avalanche-Journal readers in these days of rationing and nutrition problems.

LOW-POINT SAUSAGE MEALS — Two or three slices of cold cuts will flavor any of many main dishes. For sausage-potato salad: Mix together 1 cup diced luncheon loaf, 3 cups diced cooked potatoes, 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs, ½ cup diced cucumbers, ½ cup diced celery, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons vinegar, and ½ cup mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing. Chill. For potatoes scalloped with cervelat: Pare 6 medium-sized potatoes and slice thin; cube 1 cup cervelat, put ½ potatoes and meat in buttered baking dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Repeat. Add 2 tablespoons fat to 3 cups hot milk and pour over potatoes. Bake, covered, in 375° F. oven for ½ hour. Uncover and bake until brown. One tablespoon chopped onion may be added to milk for flavor. Serves 6.

Spareribs Offer Saving On Points

If your point budget has been failing to provide your family with its traditional roast on Sunday, you can still "beat the book" and keep within your alloted meat portions by serving a lowpoint roast occassionally.

Any cut of lamb or pork is tender, so it is easy to understand that there are many low-point cuts from either of these meats that could be roasted.

Because spareribs are so often barbecued or cooked by other moist heat methods, the possibility of roasting them may have been overlooked. Moist heat is frequently used for pork because it must be cooked well-done to develop fully its rich flavor. However, it is easy to roast pork to the well done stage and, as such, it is recognized as one of the most delicious roast meats.

Roast spareribs with apple stuffing make a satisfying meat course for Sunday dinner that will keep traditions alive in spite of difficulties.

Roast Spareribs With Apple Stuffing

2 sections spareribs, apple stuffing
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Spread inside of one section of spareribs with apple stuffing. Cover with the other section. Sew or skewer the two sections together. Sprinkle the outside with salt and pepper. Lay spareribs on a rack in an open roasting pan and roast in a moderate oven (350 degree F.) for 1½ hours, or until the meat is done. Remove the strings or skewers before serving.

Apple Stuffing

½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped onion
4 tablespoons drippings
3 tart apples
1-3 cup sugar
1 cup dry bread or cracker crumbs
1 cup shredded bran
¼ cup chopped parsley
¾ cup milk
Salt and pepper

Cook celery and onion in melted drippings for 3 minutes. Core and slice apples. Add apples to celery mixture, sprinkle with sugar and cover. Cook slowly until tender. Add crumbs, shredded bran, parsley, milk and seasonings. Mix well

The Rationing Calendar

RATION BOOKS—War Ration Book No. 1, used for sugar, and shoes; War Ration Book No. 2, blue stamps in which are used for processed foods and red stamps for meats, edible fats and oils, cheese and canned fish; Milage Ration books, books A, B, and C used for passenger car gasoline, E and R for non-highway, D for motorcycles, T for trucks and commercial vehicles; and War Ration Book No. 3, brown point stamps in which came into use Sept. 12 for foods for which red stamps in Book No. 2 were used.

RATIONED COMMODITIES

MEAT, edible fats and oils, including butter, and cheese and canned fish—Brown stamp G became valid Oct. 24 and H became valid Oct. 31, both remaining good through Dec. 4.

PROCESSED FOOD—X, Y, and Z became valid Oct. 1 and remain good through Nov. 20. Green stamps A, B and C in Book 4 became valid Nov. 1 and will remain good through Dec. 20.

SUGAR—Stamp No. 29 in the new war ration book 4 became valid Nov. 1 and will be good for 5 pounds of sugar through Jan. 15, 1944. Housewives may apply at local boards for supplementary home canning rations, if essential.

STOVES—A consumer needing a stove for use may apply to his war price and rationing board by filing an application for a stove purchase certificate.

SHOES—Stamp 18 valid for one pair indefinitely. It overlaps Stamp 1 on airplane sheet of Book 3, valid Nov. 1.

MILEAGE RATIONING

GASOLINE—No. 8 coupons in new "A" books are valid through Nov. 21 for three gallons; "B" and "C" coupons good for two gallons each; "D" for one and one-half gallons each: "E" for one gallon each; "R" and "TT" for five gallons each.

TIRE INSPECTION—'A' book holders required to have third official inspection by March 31, 1944; "B" book holders, third inspection, Oct. 31; "C" book holders fourth inspection by Nov. 30; and "T" book holders must obtain second inspection within six months from last date of inspection or every 5,000 miles, which ever comes first.

TIRES—If official tire inspector recommends tire replacement, applications may be made to ration board for tire ration certificate. Tires rationed on basis of tire inspections and county quotas available, with most essential mileage coming first. Passenger recaps may be secured without certificates.

OTHER RATIONING—Eligible purchasers needing new automobiles, bicycles, typewriters, rubber footwear, new domestic heating and cooking stoves and other commodities (except farm machinery and pressure cookers) on which sales might be restriced may see their local ration board.

Seventh largest city in the United States, Baltimore, Md., has 854,144 inhabitants as compared to 804,874 in 1930.

Baruch's New Adjustment Job To Affect Every One In U. S.

By JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—The new job handed to Bernard M. Baruch—development of a unified government policy for war and post-war adjustment—will affect everybody in this country.

While the principal problems may be grouped under the headings of industrial shifts in wartime and conversion of industry to peace, any decision taken will reach out to touch every home.

Specifically, the main problems are these:

1. Revision and termination of war contracts.
2. Disposition and reconversion of war plants.
3. Disposal of surplus war materials.

Each of these has a bearing on employment, on wages and prices, on taxes to pay the cost.

Requirements Are Changing

War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, in whose office the adjustment unit is established, points out that the immediate problem is produced by the changing requirements of war strategy.

This involves the question of weapons and materials needed, and—of major importance—those not needed.

Where certain weapons no longer are required, what is to be done with the plants which have produced them? Can they be shifted to other war production? What delays—and consequent unemployment—would result from such a change? Should these plants be permitted to return during wartime to production of civilian items? And what delays and unemployment would be involved?

Deferment Question Raised

Just to show the extent of factors tied up in the whole problem, take this question: if a plant is permitted to return to manufacture of civilian items, what shall be the status of its skilled workers deferred from military service by reason of their occupation? Would they get continued deferment?

The extent of post war unemployment is at stake in the handling of the conversion process.

More than half of American production workers and machines are in war production or aligned toward the purposes of war, a report of a national planning association committee states. In some lines, present capacity of output is far greater than any peacetime demand in the past.

Jones Suggests Plan

Some plants may be useless for peace; some the government may wish to keep intact. Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones has suggested a plan to permit manufacturers to buy government-owned plants on an installment basis.

Disposal of surplus war materials is a subject of much present discussion. Orderly sale with a minimum disruption of normal channels of trade and distribution is the goal of industry, concerned over possible loss of markets.

Termination of war contracts will find plants with raw materials and semi-finished products on hand. Industry points out that termination may leave a company with most of its working capital tied up in work in progress and in inventories. The question, then, is one of financing reconversion.

This will be a continuing problem. The first crisis may come with the defeat of Germany and her satellites. That will bring up the question: how many plants are needed to turn out the weapons and other materials for the war against Japan and for occupation of defeated nations.

Germany Said Facing Railroad Emergency

DALLAS, Nov. 12. (AP)—Railway passenger traffic in Germany has been curtailed four times with the result that "there is not more than a sort of emergency service, resulting in appalling conditions," Capt. William N. McKinney, Camp Wallace transportation officer, today told the Southwest Warehouse and Transfermen's association annual convention.

"It is Hitler's responsibility for the present crisis, as he neglected railway development in pre-war years in favor of highways and air power," Capt. McKinney said in an address prepared for delivery.

There are more than 450,000 species of insects.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the fit is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Methodists Make Two Changes Here

Changes in Methodist pastoral appointments of the Northwest Texas Methodist conference Thursday afternoon were featured by naming of Rev. L. N. Lipscomb, former pastor of the First Methodist church here, as district superintendent of the Lubbock district and Rev. C. A. Bickley, former superintendent here and at Abilene, as pastor of the Asbury Methodist church here.

Rev. Lipscomb, who served as superintendent of the Plainview district last year, replaces Dr. O. P. Clark, who had served his required time as a superintendent.

Clark To Stamford

Dr. Clark was sent to St. John's Methodist church at Stamford.

Rev. W. C. Hinds, pastor last year at the Asbury church was made district superintendent of the Plainview district.

Duane Bruce former pastor at Westover was appointed as associate pastor at Lubbock First Church and will serve under Dr. H. I. Robinson who was returned to serve his fourth year as pastor of the church.

Rev. Alsie H. Carleton, pastor of the St. John's Methodist church here was returned for his third year.

Three Are Retired

Three ministers of the conference were placed on the retired list. They were: J. A. Scoggins, Garland, 25 years of service; E. C. Raney, Lorraine, 25 years service and J. M. Cochran, Anson, 30 years in the ministry.

Rev. J. S. Manning of Perryton was given a sabbatical leave to do evangelistic work.

The site for the thirty-fifth annual conference was not decided upon by the conference and will be announced later by Bishop Holt.

Bishop Holt announced before the reading of the appointments that there had been more changes made in the Northwest Texas conference than any other in Texas this year.

Former Bishop Speaks

Former Bishop H. A. Boaz, now connected with Southern Methodist university, spoke to the conference on the activities of S.M.U. and McMurry college and asked the laymen present to support these two Methodist institutions.

Bishop Boaz introduced several of the older members of the conference and told of his experiences in the Northwest Texas conference during his long years in the ministry. He joined this conference in 1889.

Bishop Ivan Lee Holt announced the following appointments at the closing session of the Northwest Texas Methodist conference here Thursday night:

FLIER REACHES SAFETY

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12 (AP) — Pilot Officer Dennis A. Newman, 28, of the Royal Canadian Air forces, shot down over Libya in July, 1942, and held prisoner in Italy, has reached the American lines in Italy safely, he advised in a radiogram today to his brother, George J. Newman, manager of the Fort Worth division of Consolidated Aircraft Corp. The flier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Newman of Fort Worth.

Congressional Medal Of Honor Is Awarded Private For Leadership In Attu Victory

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—An Army private formerly a Colorado farm laborer, who led an American battalion to victory in the high, snow-bound mountains of Attu island and almost singlehandedly broke final Japanese resistance there, was awarded the nation's highest decoration posthumously today.

The award of the Congressional Medal of Honor was announced at Secretary Stimson's press conference as the war department told of the heroic and gallant action of Joe P. Martinez, 23, of Ault, Colorado, who fell under a hail of Japanese bullets with his rifle still at his shoulder.

Key Position Held

The action occurred last May as American forces were battling in one of the bitterest engagements of the Pacific war to smash the enemy's hold on strategic Attu at the tip of the Aleutian chain.

For several days, Martinez' citation disclosed, persistent effort had failed to drive the Japanese from a key defensive position in the precipitous mountains between the east arm of Holtz bay, where American troops had established forward positions, and Chichagof harbor, where the enemy was based.

Faced Terrific Fire

On May 26 a reinforced battalion was thrown into the drive and gradually moved forward in the face of intense machinegun, rifle and mortar fire. Then that advance too bogged down before the enemy's lead.

"Private Martinez arose to his feet and alone resumed his advance," the citation said. "Occasionally he stopped to urge his comrades on and his example inspired the others to follow."

Cleared Out Japs

Martinez inched steadily up the slope with the battalion behind him and the hell of Japanese fire ahead and all around. Finally he reached a bench-like plateau. Several Japanese positions had been established there in fox holes, but they could not stop the Colorado farm boy. He cleared them out with his automatic rifle and hand grenades.

But the battalion's advance again bogged down under a withering fire from the flank, from trenches ahead, and from high ground above.

"Then one lone figure arose and started up the snow slope that led from the bench to the pass," the battalion commander reported. "Again, it was Martinez. Again the other men followed.

Again He Moved Forward

"Again he was forced to move across open ground under heavy fire until he came upon the first of two trenches. Jumping in, he quickly cleaned it out with a few bursts from his automatic rifle and some more well-thrown grenades. Five Japs were found there.

"Without hesitation, he moved forward up the slope to the second trench. He accounted for two Japs in this position. He reached the pass, still under fire from surrounding ridges. Standing up on the ridge overlooking the pass leading into Chichagof harbor, he emptied his rifle into the Japanese positions just below and beyond the pass.

"He was mortally wounded with his rifle still at his shoulder, absorbing all enemy fire and permitting all units to move up behind him and successfully take and hold the pass."

Capture of the pass was described as "an important preliminary to the end of organized hostile resistance on the island."

Food Shipments To Europe Are Urged

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Dr. Howard E. Kershner, who directed relief in Europe for the Quakers from 1939 to 1942, declared today that the Nazis would reap no advantage if the British lifted their blockade of Europe partly and allowed food to be shipped, under proper guarantees, to undernourished children of occupied countries.

"The children of Europe are dying," Dr. Kershner warned a Senate foreign relations subcommittee considering a resolution calling on the United States to take the leadership in establishing a definite plan for feeding European children and their mothers.

(In London yesterday, the Churchill government flatly turned down suggestions for breaking the blockade. Dingle M. Foot, parliamentary secretary of the Ministry of Economic warfare, said that if food were shipped in, the Germans would merely "create more starvation and shortages." He also said the impression that the "whole of occupied Europe is in a condition of famine is entirely misleading.")

PANIC IN BUCHAREST

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Radio France of Algiers said last night panic had broken out in Bucharest, that civilians were leaving the Rumanian capital and that government offices were moving to Braila, a grain export port 103 miles to the northeast near the mouth of the Danube.

Lucite, from which airplane turrets are built, is a coal-derived plastic.

Carrier-Based Raids Lauded

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Ralph Bard, assistant secretary of the Navy, declared today that in the "two-day plastering of the Japs on Wake island" Oct. 5 and 6 there were more aircraft carriers "than ever were assembled in one place in naval history."

"And," he continued, "you can draw your own partial conclusions from the fact that the Japs are known to have sent four carriers against Midway in June, 1942. Wake is just a curtain-raiser for what will come later."

Bard spoke of the air-sea armada in an address to the American Petroleum institute in which he discussed the importance of petroleum in fueling and lubricating such a force, and of oil's part in the war.

New Type Operation

The raid on Wake, Bard said, represented something new in military operations—the complicated handling of a huge force of sea and air craft with maximum offensive and defensive efficiency. Bard said the raid also refuted arguments of "armchair strategists not in the armed service." He continued:

"Perhaps you have read that carrier-based aircraft can never be effective unless they catch the enemy completely off guard, because unless they do, they will have to pull in their aircraft to protect themselves against destruction by land-based planes and thus give up their own attack.

"That line of reasoning has been expounded and its exponents have thereby dismissed carrier-based aircraft from all military consideration. I think these gentlemen should be more cautious.

"They can be very articulate and logical in proving that the Army cannot do certain things, but the men in our Navy may do them anyway."

Russia Is Becoming Industrial Power

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Russia, in one generation torn by revolution and invasion, has shifted completely from peasant farming to an economy of industrial skill that in some respects outdoes even mechanically-minded America.

Donald M. Nelson, the U. S. number one war production man, brought this impression back with him from an extended tour of the European and African war fronts.

The chief of the War Production board declared that the Russians have built a "great industrial nation" which will be even greater in peacetime.

The Soviet factories perform their munitions tasks in some ways better than Americans, said Nelson. He cited as notable the way they keep materiel flowing into and out of plants — "much better than we have."

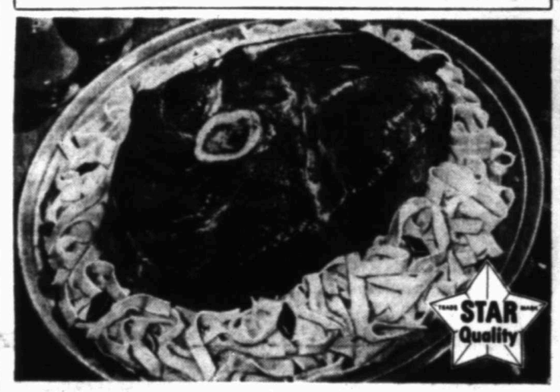

Though the Army transports 39 men in a standard Pullman car, the U. S. Navy only loads 26 to a car.

Armour Ideas Make the Most of Meat

Plan Meals Ahead With Beef Pot Roast!
Wondering how some women manage such big meat meals on their ration allowance? Well, a lot of them start with a big, basic meat cut and use the leftovers for delicious follow-up meals.
Beef Pot Roast is a grand "basic" dinner. For with what's left you can fix meat pies, stews and other interesting meals later on.
Get a 3-4 lb. round-bone or bladebone chuck roast. Try to get Armour's branded beef. For it's rich and fine flavored . . . a meat packed with essential proteins. Heat pot roast kettle 5 minutes. Place roast in kettle, cut side down, and brown very slowly all sides for 20 minutes. Add 1 onion, sliced, during last 10 minutes. Turn heat low, add 3 tsps. salt, ¼ tsp. pepper and 1½ cups boiling water.
Cover tightly and simmer 3½ hours or until tender. Remove roast, skim any excess fat from broth. Thicken gravy with 2 tbsps. flour mixed smooth with ½ cup cold water. Serve surrounded by noodles.

U. S. Doughboys Are Interested More In Immediate Problems Than Far-Reaching Policies

BY HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 3 (Delayed)—What's on the American doughboy's mind?

While I was writing yesterday about John Welsh, 3rd., Baylor university graduate and Harvard student who edits "Mail Call" in Stars and Stripes, I began to figure he might come nearer knowing the answer than anyone else around here.

Here it is, just as he puts it:

"The soldier in North Africa and Italy is not primarily concerned with the future results of the war.

"He is only interested in the things at hand and in the past. Perhaps more than any other factor, the remoteness of peace governs the thinking of the average 'GI.'

Far-Reaching Policies Out

"Very few of the letters received by the Mail Call section of the daily and weekly Stars and Stripes, the troops' paper in North Africa, deal with the far-reaching policies of government or the post-war reconstructive period when the real peace for the next decades will be determined.

"Of course there are exceptions to all rules. Only recently I received a letter from a T4, which is a certain type of sergeant who is a guard at a prisoner of war camp. He proposed that we start right now to formulate terms for dealing with Germany after her defeat.

"The sergeant believes that the plans should be carried out by the revolutionaries of various occupied countries, for it is they who in his opinion will be responsible for the overthrow of Quislings in national and local governments.

"As rebels they should be given preference over established governments in exile where disagreements exist, since the revolutionaries will be closer to the people," he wrote.

Deal With Minor Things

"As I pointed out the letter is only a rare exception, for the general run of letters written to the paper deal with minor or insignificant things only of interest to soldiers in one area or one city. The least imagined injustice brings forth a deluge.

"The temperament of the writer can be judged accurately by the amount of passion expressed through his writing. A very good example of this occurred when military police suddenly initiated a drive to clear the streets of Algiers of wandering soldiers after 11 p. m. It was a precautionary measure, designed by the authorities primarily to protect the soldier in the blackout. However, our soldier public resented the MP's and their efforts. Each letter received explained in detail a particular case, colored to make the MP appear the villian and the soldier a mistreated saviour of democracy. The outcry was so intense that the MP's abandoned the drive.

Senators Aroused Soldiers

"No single factor in recent weeks has aroused the soldier public in the African theater as did the five senators who visited the dark continent. Upon their return to Washington a statement was issued to the effect that Congress should govern limited service overseas.

"A great portion of the men in this theater served in England, Scotland, and Ireland before coming to North Africa with the invasion. They had been overseas 16 months or more when the statement was issued. They were most jubilant. Some were ready to start cramming spuvenirs into barracks bags and shove off for the state. And then, when they found it to be mere talk for the "home front" the whole scheme became evident to Johnny Doughboy. His resentment took unbridled possession, as one 38 year old private wrote. 'They should have spent their time helping the ladies at the defense factory.'

Two Types Write Letters

"What the average soldier thinks is hard to determine, for I find that only two types of individuals write letters to the editors—the 'genius' type and the dullard. Very seldom is the middle-mind represented. It is easy to see why the other two types of soldiers write long plaintive letters to their paper. The first type wants to educate the 'imbecilic' Stars and Stripes staff members. The second type writes with the hope of seeing his name and letter in print. Most letter writers are attempting to satisfy an ego.

"Foremost in soldier thought is the day when he can return home to his family and friends, to take up his life where he left it. Of course there will be a few broken hearts, since some of the girls they left behind are finding someone closer and are getting 'hitched up' but the mere fact that a soldier is home safely occupying his old status in the community will make up for a dozen Marys and the 4F's they married."

Mother Of Snyder Man To Get Award

Posthumous award of the Soldier's medal will be made to Mrs. Faye Lee Roger of Snyder, mother of Sgt. John Y. Stewart, who was killed by a bomb explosion while trying to rescue comrades in Liberia, at ceremonies on the parade ground of Lubbock Army Air field at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

As related here, young Stewart saw a crippled bomber return to its base and crash in landing. The ship ingnited. Knowing that the plane contained bombs the young Texan was attempting to rescue members of the crew when an explosion took his life.

The medal will be presented to the soldier's mother by Col. Ralph E. Holmes, commanding officer at LAAF. A formal retreat and presentation of such an award is deemed one of the highest tributes to be paid to American war heroes. The soldier's medal is presented to enlisted men for outstanding courage and heroism.

Banquet Will Close Scout Financial Drive

Annual Boy Scout financial campaign will be brought to a close at a "victory" banquet in Lubbock hotel tonight at 6:30 o'clock, according to Roy Furr, general chairman.

Contributions totaling $7,164 have been reported, Furr said. He predicted that the goal of $8,000 will be exceeded when final reports are made at the banquet.

Squadrons headed by Earl Collins and R. P. Fuller held a lead of less than 300 points over those led by Jack M. Randal and J. Ray Dickey Thursday night. The difference is small and may be overcome when final reports are made, Furr said.

Tech Set For NTAC Homecoming Game

Aggies Planning Aerial Attack

Texas Tech's students and exes will "turn on the heat" for Saturday afternoon's Homecoming and Parents Day game against North Texas Agricultural college with a big pep rally and bonfire tonight on the campus.

The Red Raiders will be resting up after tapering off in their final session this afternoon.

With indications pointing toward one of the biggest crowds of the season for the city's only strictly inter-college game this year, the downstate experts were placing the Red Raiders in the role of slight favorites against the Naval trainees. The main reason for the decision—which finds no sympathy in the Tech camp—is the Techsans' convincing 40 to 20 decision over Texas Christian last week.

To Broadcast Pep Rally

The pep rally, in the Texas Tech gymnasium, will be broadcast over Station KFYO, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The game will get under way at 2:30 o'clock. A crowd of 11,000 is expected, according to advance notices.

From Arlington comes word that the North Texas Aggies are planning to launch a sustained aerial attack on the Crimsons come Saturday afternoon.

Techsank Bear Down

Although weakened by recent naval transfers, NTAC still has three of the finest passers in Texas College football in Don Hughes and Sam Weatherford, both transfers from TCU, and James Batchelor, former East Texas Teachers College star.

In addition, all are handy punters.

Thursday afternoon, Coach Dell Morgan and his boys observed Armistice Day with a tough session on the gridiron, the Techs polishing up on their own offensive tactics for the game.

Twenty-Four Games On Schoolboy Slate Scheduled Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

Twenty-four games are scheduled in Texas schoolboy football tonight but they are not likely to produce the fireworks of Armistice day clashes which saw Longview's Lobos tumbled from the state's undefeated, untied ranks.

Tyler's low-rated Lions rose up to beat the Lobos 2-0 and pitch them from a tie for the top in district 11.

Amarillo's Sandies virtually sewed up honors in district 1 by smashing Lubbock 47-0 and Breckenridge did the same thing in district 9—the old oil belt—with a 52-6 trouncing of Brownwood.

The major battle tonight sends Galveston against Goose Creek, the winner to take a strangle-hold on the district 14 championship.

Five Remain Undefeated

While Longview fell out of the select list yesterday, five other of the state's undefeated, untied teams plowed ahead. Along with Amarillo, San Angelo, Sweetwater, Highland Park (Dallas) and Lufkin won their games. Two others — Goose Creek and McAllen—play tonight while the eighth team with a perfect record—Ysleta—is idle this week.

The Armistice day results included: Pampa 35, Plainview 0; Vernon 33, Graham 0; Abilene 50, Lamesa 9; Sweetwater 26, Odessa 7; San Angelo 45, Big Spring 14; El Paso High 42, Cathedral (El Paso) 0; Denison 21, Gainesville 0; Highland Park 72, McKinney 0; Poly (Fort Worth) 26, Arlington Heights (Fort Worth) 0; Ranger 13, Cisco 6; Cleburne 12, Corsicana 6; Waxahachie 25, Hillsboro 6; Athens 25, Palestine 14; Marshall 59, Texarakana 0; Lufkin 20, Nacogdoches 0; Austin (Houston) 40, Sam Houston (Houston) 0; Austin 33, San Antonio Tech 6.

T.C.U., Rice Get Shot At Glory

Shocking Upsets Appear Unlikely

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Tomorrow Texas Christian and Rice can win unsurpassed football glory if they do these two things:

Beat Texas.

Beat Texas A. and M.

It's the fag end of a dismal season for both T. C. U. and Rice. Together they have won a total of four games. Now they are meeting the teams expected to reach Thanksgiving day without even a point scored against them in Southwest conference play.

T. C. U. Squad Riddled

Texas Christian goes to Austin to meet Texas with the smallest squad in T. C. U. history. For two years the Horned Frogs have upset the Longhorns but if they do it this time it will be the biggest shock Southwestern fans have ever received.

Rice appears to have a better chance of staging a reversal than T. C. U. The Owls are moving up after experiencing nothing except defeats until two weeks ago. They catch A. and M. below standard due to injuries to keymen. And the contest will be played in the Owls' own ballwick at Houston.

S. M. U., Arkansas Clash

While these games are going on Southern Methodist will be attempting to extend Arkansas' losing streak in conference play to 21 games. The Methodists and Razorbacks clash at San Antonio.

Having missed two of three games last week, we bravely predict this week as follows with the knowledge that our record can't be hurt much (anticipated attendance in parentheses):

Texas vs. Texas Christian at Austin, 2:30 p. m. (12,000)—Texas ought to win by not less than four touchdowns.

Texas A. and M. vs. Rice at Houston, 3 p. m. (20,000) — The Aggies won't find it easy but should be in no particular danger.

Southern Methodist vs. Arkansas at San Antonio, 2:30 p. m. (12,000) — Taking S. M. U. but won't be surprised.

Cooper Wins 38-6 To Remain Undefeated

Cooper High kept its undefeated football record intact Thursday afternoon with a 38 to 6 decision over Frenship.

Coach E. E. Pierce's lads had the situation in hand all the way.

J. B. Morris led his Cooper mates with two touchdowns, Shepherd, Barrett and Johnson each adding one counter for the winners. For Coach Bishop's Frenship squad, Milford Arthur chalked up the only touchdown, racing 60 yards on a pass completion in the second stanza.

Golden Sandies Roaring Toward State Title, Westerners Think After Absorbing 47-0 Licking

Those Golden Sandies are roaring down the schoolboy championship path again, folks, and by Christmastime the mighty Amarillo juggernaut has a very good chance to be knocking on the door to their fifth Texas Interscholastic league crown in the past 10 years.

At least, Lubbock High's injury-riddled Westerners are ready to concede the Sandies the title today.

Westerners Outclassed

Coaches Mule Davis' and Dixie White's game but completely outclassed youngsters went down before the smooth clicking Amarillo machine on tradition-steeped Butler Field Thursday afternoon, 47 to 0, to suffer one of the worst defeats in the history of Lubbock High football.

Not in the past 13 years, at least, has a Lubbock team been on the short end of so large a score in championship play. And title play it was, because with the victory Coach Bull Lynch's boys firmly established themselves as top heavy favorites to roll to another District 1 title and on into the schoolboy playoffs.

Pampa Smothers Bulldogs

The Lubbock shellacking wasn't the only high scoring melee on the day on the schoolboy front, however, and the setback suffered by the Westerners was not as bad as that handed other teams by downstate championship contenders.

Pampa's Harvesters, bouncing back from the 12 to 0 defeat at the hands of Lubbock last week, Thursday afternoon smothered Plainview, 33 to 0, with a sudden scoring spree in the second and fourth quarters. Feature of the game was Charlie Boyles' passing for Pampa and a 100-yard touchdown dash by Pampa's Billy Washington after he intercepted a Plainview fourth down pass in the fourth period.

Lamesa 9, Abilene 50

Lamesa's Tornadoes also tasted bitter defeat, losing to a rejuvenated Abilene Eagle team, 50 to 9.

In Amarillo, it was a case of a good big team running over, around and through a small and weaker team, a team whose ranks had been filled with holes as key men fell ill or were injured on the eve of their biggest test of the year.

The Sandies struck early in the game, the first time they got their hands on the ball and from then on there was very little doubt about the outcome of the game. Only against the fourth string in the fading moments of the game were the gallant Westerners able to make any headway, and then a late drive bogged down on the 13 after Fullback Roy Grimes, suffering from a stomach illness, had sparked the attack for a few brief minutes.

Lubbock Outweighed

The heavier Sandies punched holes in the Lubbock forward wall at will and turned two Lubbock passes into interceptions and touchdowns.

Standout for the Westerners was little Johnny Davis, who was left almost alone among the veterans in the Westerner backfield as Grimes went out and Jim Joe Reiger, co-caption and end, was left at home with pneumonia.

Amarillo struck in the first five minutes of play, taking over on Lubbock's 48 after the Westerners were forced to punt after the first series of downs following the kickoff. The Sandies, with Irwin and Mixon and Taylor carrying the ball, drove to the 26, lost 15 on a penalty. Then on the first play, Mixon cut over his right tackle, reversed his field and romped for the first touchdown. Irwin's try for point was low and wide.

Strike In Second

Midway the second period, after the Westerners had stalled a late first period Amarillo drive on the one-yard line, Amarillo struck again. Irwin furnished the touchdown, racing 76 yards to cross the goal standing up. He added the extra point. Before halftime, the Sandies had added a third counter, marching 82 yards the next time they got possession of the ball.

McGee started the drive with a 12-yard gallop. Mixon flipped a pass to Bauman for 13 yards to the Sandie 43. After an incomplete pass, Mixon passed to Bauman, who flipped off a lateral to Collins who romped 47 yards to the Lubbock 10 before N. W. Elston brought him down. Irwin picked up three. Mixon hit McGee then in the right flat to score. Irwin kicked the point and Amarillo led, 20 to 0, at the half.

Open Up In Third

In the third, the Sandies really went to town and over the goal line.

The first touchdown of the period came on a 70-yard drive with Dale Collins, Amarillo blocking back, paving the way, picking up the final 10 yards for the touchdown. The kick was no good. Lubbock tried to take to the air and on the first play, Collins intercepted a pass and romped 42 yards to paydirt. McGee kicked the extra point to make it 33 to 0.

The Sandie second team went in and a few minutes later Hughes intercepted a pass and raced 56 yards to count, McGee again kicking the point to make it 40 to 0 as the quarter ended.

Billy Lynch returned to action in the fourth after a session on the bench because of injuries and promptly set up and scored the Sandies final touchdown of the game. He intercepted a pass late in the fourth on his own 40 and raced to the Lubbock 15. McGinley lost two then passed to Lynch in the end zone for the score. McGinley then kicked the extra point to make it 47 to 0. The game ended a few minutes later.

Zivic-Lamotta Bout Scheduled Tonight

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (U.P.)—Veteran Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight champion, meets up and coming Jake Lamotta, leading middleweight contender, in a 10-round "rubber" match at Madison Square garden tonight in what may be one of his last fights in civilian life.

Zivic has been called up for a draft classification at Pittsburgh Sunday and if put in 1-A, hopes to get at least one more fight before going into the service.

Lamotta, who at 22 is nine years younger than pug-nosed Fritzie, was favored at 3-1 to take the third match between them. In two previous meetings each won a disputed decision.

Four Games Slated For Service Teams

ABILENE, Nov. 12 (AP) — The first of four games for Texas service football teams is scheduled here tonight when the Abilene Army Air Base-First Military Police training center outfit tackles Southwestern university.

Two games will be played Saturday—Randolph Field meeting the Ward Island Marines at Corpus Christi and 51st General Hospital of Fort Bliss playing the El Paso all-stars at El Paso in a night engagement.

Sunday Bryan Air field engages Hearne Internment camp at Hearne.

Wildcats Face Unwanted Job

Clash With Irish Tops Grid Slate

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP) — Otto Graham and assorted Wildcats from Northwestern face the unenviable task of trying to stop Notre Dame's potential national champions in the main event of tomorrow's national football show that makes up in evenly matched battles what it may lack in class.

Although Coach Frank Leahy tearfully moans that "a lot of people will be surprised if Northwestern wins but I won't be one," the Irish rate as strong favorites to make it eight in a row at Evanston.

Strange as it may seem to eastern-bred fans, the Northwestern-Notre Dame rivalry outranks the series with Army on the South Bend campus. To say that the Wildcats have been pointing for this one is trite but true.

Tarheels Meet Penn

One of the rare intersectional games of the year being North Carolina to Philadelphia to play the Penn Quarters who had visions of an eastern crown until bumped off by Navy, 24-7. The Tarheels have lost two but look best off their 19-0 win over Penn State, a club that gave Navy the willies.

Coach Mal Stevens may have the sleeper of the year at Sampson Naval Training station but admits he won't know until the game with Army at West Point tomorrow.

Purdue's second ranking team will be idle but the midwest bristles with the likes of Indiana-Great Lakes, Camp Grant-Iowa Navy, Illinois-Ohio State, Iowa-Minnesota, Wisconsin-Michigan, and Oklahoma-Missouri.

Duke's Blue Devils face revitalized Virginia in a southern tilt that shares top billing with Georgia Tech-Tulane and VMI-Georgia. Southern California will attempt to get back on the win path after its upset by San Diego Naval when the Trojans take the field against the March Field fliers.

In the East Cornell and Dartmouth have transplanted their annual tilt to Fenway park in Boston.

The Ivy will be knee deep in New Haven as Yale takes on Princeton. Navy plays its last game before Army when the Middies face weak Columbia.

Two of the nation's 11 perfect record teams will be in action when Bainbridge Navy and Franklin and Marshall meet Maryland and Willow Grove respectively. RPI winds up its season against Colgate, Temple grapples with Penn State, Rutgers plays Lehigh and Tufts faces Harvard in other top eastern games.

Villanova and Holy Cross collide Sunday at Worcester and St. Mary's takes on San Francisco.

Notre Dame, Texas, Navy, Texas Ags, S.M.U. And Georgia Given Nod In Saturday Games

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Heading into the home stretch with a season's record of 181 victories, 42 setbacks and eight ties we give you the following winners (we hope) on tomorrow's football program:

Notre Dame-Northwestern—"go you Northwestern, break right through that line." Having given a cheer for the Wildcats, will the secretary please cast the usual ballot for Notre Dame, but look out, Otto Graham may make it tough.

North Carolina-Penn—We can't see the Tarheels emerging victorious.

Cornell-Dartmouth — A tough one. Dartmouth has the experience; Cornell has Howie Blose. On the hit-and-run play, Cornell.

Georgia Tech Gets Nod

Georgia Tech-Tulane—Georgia Tech.

Texas Christian-Texas — The Longhorns, rolling along toward their Thanksgiving day title clash with the Texas Aggies, aren't going to be stopped by a weak TCU eleven.

March Field-Southern California—Southern Cal.

Virginia-Duke — The Cavaliers have been on the upgrade but not enough to stop the high-scoring Blue Devils from Durham.

Wisconsin-Michigan — The Wolverines haven't been the same since Bill left, but Elroy Hirsch still is around and his presence spells another step toward the Big Ten title for Michigan.

Navy-Columbia—A Navy show from start to finish.

Sooners To Win Title

Oklahoma-Missouri—The Sooners to win the Big Six title in this one.

Princeton-Yale—A free scoring affair with Yale on the long end.

Illinois-Ohio State—Ohio State.

Iowa-Minnesota—Minnesota.

Texas Aggies-Rice—Rice has showed decided improvement but the Owls aren't going to spoil the Aggies title quest.

UCLA—Calif—The Uclans to take a weak Berkeley outfit.

VMI-Georgia—Wally Butts' boys should have a nice workout. Georgia.

Arkansas-Southern Methodist—Honest, we flipped a dime and it came S.M.U.

And here we go over the chalk lines: North Carolina State over Davidson; Colgate over R.P.I.; Harvard over Tufts; Penn State over Temple; Rutgers over Lehigh and on Sunday, Holy Cross over Villanova.

How many times do you use a razor blade? for 1? 3? 5? 9? shaves?
It varies of course with the man, his whiskers, his shaving habits AND his blade. We can't say exactly how many shaves you'll get with a Pal, but you will get more. Reason—Pals are Hollow Ground so as to be flexible in the razor. You shave lightly, with just a "Feather Touch". Because you don't "bear down", keen Pal edges last longer—give you more and better shaves per blade. Try a pack today.

Oakes Slaying Still Mystery

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 12 (AP)—Alfred de Marigny is a free man today, and the mystery which surrounds the slaying of Sir Henry Oakes is more baffling than ever.

A Bahamas Supreme court jury decided by a nine to three vote last night that it was not the handsome De Marigny, who beat the aged multi-millionaire on the head last July 8 and set fire to his bedroom and bed in an apparent effort to hide the crime.

But in acquitting the husband of Oakes' daughter Nancy, jurors recommended that he be deported—a suggestion which apparently has no legal standing. The 12 picked men were unanimous in saying that they did not want him to remain in this colony.

Spectators Cheer Verdict

Once the "not guilty" verdict was announced to cheering spectators who jammed the tiny courtroom, police officials again were confronted by an unsolved killing with clues which have grown colder during the four months while De Marigny was under arrest on a murder charge.

A reporter asked Attorney General Eric Hallinan whether a new investigation would be started.

"Nothing as far as I am concerned," he replied. "It's completely closed, call it a day."

Police Commissioner Frederick Lancaster echoed his statement.

Spectacular Ending

The end of Nassau's widely-discussed murder trial was as spectacular as were the 22 days of testimony and arguments.

The jury had retired after hearing a long charge by Chief Justice Sir Oscar Bedford Daly, who set the stage for the acquittal by pointing to weaknesses and flaws in the prosecution's evidence.

Crowds gathered outside. De Marigny smoked cigarets chain fashion at the police station. Nancy, who from the beginning had stuck to her faith in her husband's innocence and testified for him as the final witness, fidgeted in a nearby office while friends tried to calm her.

Crown Testimony Hit

He had brightened perceptibly as the stern chief justice proceeded with his five and one-half hour charge, because Sir Oscar was taking apart the crown testimony.

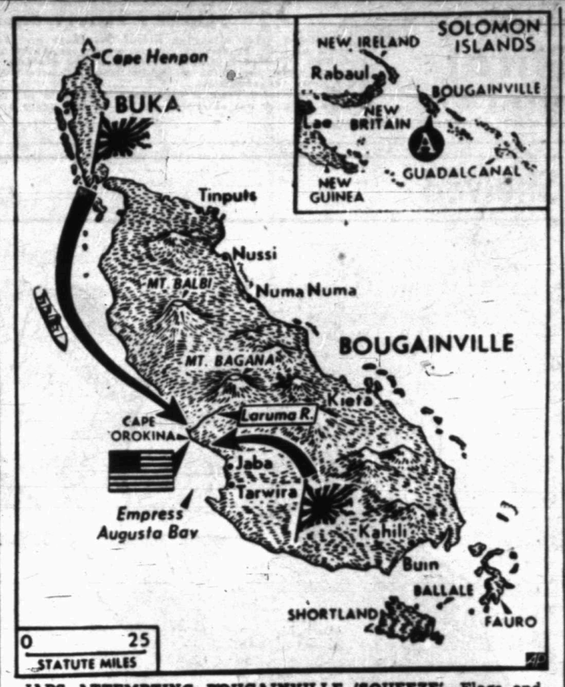

The justice was particularly critical of the fingerprint evidence introduced by Capt. James O. Barker of the Miami police, one of the American detectives called in by the Duke of Windsor, governor of Bahamas, to help solve the slaying.

Barker said he found the print—an impression of De Marigny's right little finger—on a bedscreen in the death room, but Sir Oscar made it clear that he did not consider the evidence proper.

While the justice still was giving his charge, the most tragic figure in the case was en route away from Nassau. Lady Eunice Oakes, the widow, took a plane for Miami. She testified last week against the son-in-law she blamed for her troubles.

PIONEER DIES

RANGER, Nov. 12. (AP)—Mrs. Nannie Walker, 81, pioneer ranchwoman and Baptist leader, died here today.

JAPS ATTEMPTING BOUGAINVILLE 'SQUEEZE'—Flags and arrows indicate attempted Japanese 'squeeze play' against U. S. Cape Torokina area on Bougainville Island. Marines were reported to be battling several hundred Japanese from Buka who landed near the Laruma river, north of the American beachhead. Another Japanese force was attempting to push from south against American positions. Inset map locates Bougainville (A). (AP Wirephoto).

Baptist Leader Urges Program Of Sex Education By Churches

DALLAS, Nov. 12 (AP) — Dr. T. C. Gardner, state director of the Baptist training union, has recommended that churches remain open seven nights a week and provide sex education for children and adults.

Addressing 5,000 Texas Baptists, who closed a three-day convention here last night, Dr. Gardner asserted "while the churches are dark, the places of vice and evil such as the honky tonk and the beer tavern and so forth have glaring and alluring lights turned on most of the night."

As a counter-attraction, Dr. Gardner would have nightly programs of education and recreation in the churches — book reviews on Monday night; Bible study and personal witnessing, Tuesday; midweek prayer, Wednesday; music, Thursday; study, Friday, and mission and visitation on Saturday night, followed by evangelism and training on Sunday.

Recreational Period Nightly

The church library would remain open seven nights a week and after each of the nightly programs there would be a recreational period.

Dr. Gardner told the convention that a system of sex education should be instituted in the church as well as in the schools "under the proper guidance and direction." Both parents and children should be encompassed by the program, he added.

Only last year, he said, 75 per cent of the venereal infection in the armed forces was traced to professional prostitutes while today 80 per cent of the infection comes from teen-age girls.

While he contended that "90 per cent of the juvenile delinquents are not church-going young people," he declared that "unless we do something about it, they will contaminate those within our churches."

KELLY IS NAMED

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Mayor Edward J. Kelly's position as boss of the Chicago Democratic organization has been affirmed. The party's Cook county committee yesterday named him chairman of a 13-man advisory committee. The group will determine political policies and strategy.

The American Red Cross has shipped 20,000 fishing kits for use of American soldiers.

Delinquent Tax Plan Launched

AUSTIN, Nov. 12. (U.P.)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today took a preliminary step to calling on county officials to collect an estimated $16,000,000 of solvent delinquent state taxes.

The governor in conference with Comptroller George Sheppard and Treasurer Jesse James, co-members of the state tax board, obtained the $16,000,000 estimate on the amount of delinquent state tax that is collectible.

In collecting the $16,000,000 the counties could collect also an equal or greater amount of delinquent county taxes. In some counties such collection would wipe out county deficits.

Letter To Be First

First part of the campaign will be a letter to county commissioners courts asking them to put on a campaign for payment of back taxes. Present times are favorable for such campaigns, Stevenson said.

"It is discrimination against the property owner who has paid his taxes to let delinquents go," the governor added. "I believe public sentiment will support strongly a campaign to make all pay alike."

The $16,000,000, if collected, will go into three funds—the confederate pension fund, the state school fund and the state general revenue fund. Proportion to each will depend upon the relative tax rates for the years taxes are delinquent.

Ten-Year-Old New Jersey Youngster Gets His Ride In Jeep, Thanks To President

VERONA, N. J., Nov. 12. (U.P.)—For a time, 10-year-old Carl J. Buehler, jr., didn't think too highly of the U. S. Army, but all his doubts were removed today, thanks to President Roosevelt.

For two months, Carl had waited for a ride in a jeep which an Army officer promised him after he sold $5,450 worth of war bonds. Then in indignation, he wrote a letter to Mr. Roosevelt, complaining that the Army let him down.

Postscript Gets Job Done

"I am sending you newspaper clippings of my bond drive which I held the last two weeks," Carl wrote. "As you see in the clippings, I was promised a ride in a jeep. One paper even said I had a ride in a jeep, but I didn't. Somebody in the Army is slipping. I know that you are very busy, but will you please see what you can do for me. Thank you very much."

He added this postscript: "P.S. I will vote for you when I am 21."

Sits Beside Major

The president sent the letter to the War department, which forwarded it to the Newark air base with a note to take appropriate action.

Yesterday, a jeep pulled up in front of Carl's school, where he and his parents and a 15-year-old sister were waiting. While the student body of 300 children and teachers watched, Carl escorted his sister and parents into the back seat and climbed in the front beside a major.

Sitting proudly with a trace of a smirk on his face, Carl directed a tour around the town, especially past the high school where his older friends were watching.

Carl hopes to raise $50,000 in war bonds in the Fourth War Loan drive next January and possibly win an airplane ride.

Funeral Set Today For Olaf Anderson

Funeral services were scheduled this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Sanders Funeral chapel for Olaf Anderson, 30, of Clovis, N. M., who died at 10:15 o'clock Thursday night in Lubbock General hospital where he had been ill several days. Rev. George Dale was named as officiating minister.

Anderson was a field engineer for the Rural Electrification association, a graduate of Oregon State college, and a member of the Odd Fellows lodge.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Anderson of Stillwater, Okla., and a brother, Lt. Darwin K. Anderson, stationed somewhere in the South Pacific.

The body will be sent to Stillwater, Okla. for burial.

Officer Loses Seat Of Pants In Invasion

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12. (AP)—A New Orleans Coast Guard officer lost the seat of his pants in the Allied invasion of Sicily but was unscratched otherwise.

Coast Guard headquarters here said Lt. (jg) Thomas H. Walsh was aboard a landing vessel whose guns brought down an enemy plane. As the plane crashed part of the wing flew through the air and ripped off the seat of the officer's trousers.

YOU ARE UNFORTUNATE ENOUGH TO LOSE ONE OF YOUR RATIONING COUPON BOOKS

If You Lose Your Rationing Coupons—

Board Outlines Procedure In Getting Duplicate Book

Persons who lose their ration books henceforth will be required to advertise their loss three times in the press, before they can obtain new books.

This requirement was announced Wednesday following a conference of Lubbock county rationing board officials, and applies to gasoline and sugar-coffee rationing books and to other rationing books which may be issued in the future.

They explained the procedure as follows: When a book is lost, the first thing the owner should do is to insert a newspaper advertisement. After the ad has run three times, the newspaper supplies the owner with an affidavit attesting to proof of publication. He should take this with a clipping of the ad to the rationing board office, 1215 Texas Avenue, where he must make application and a sworn statement that the book has been lost.

Officials emphasized that it will be needless to go first to the rationing board, that the initial act should be the insertion of the newspaper advertisement.

The plan is designed, they said, to aid the holder in locating his book and to protect him from use of the book by some unauthorized person.

INSERT A "3 DAY AD" IN THE LOST & FOUND COLUMN

A Small INEXPENSIVE "10 Word Ad" in the Lost and Found Column of the Avalanche-Journal, published for three days, will comply with the ruling now in force. Here is all it will cost to place such an ad in the Avalanche-Journal—

10 WORD AD PUBLISHED FOR— 3 Days WILL COST YOU ONLY— $1.10

IF Within THREE DAYS your RATION BOOK is not returned, the Avalanche-Journal will furnish you with an "Affidavit of Publication" This signed and notorized statement contains a copy of the ad, and certifies that you have complied with the Rationing Board's advertising regulation. Just attach it to your application for replacement.

SOMETHING over 20 years ago (that's a long time, by golly!) there was a quiet, sort of long-haired young man numbered among the students at the University of Oklahoma.

He was majoring in English; somewhat bookish, and quite serious of mien. He wrote essays and poetry for the college magazine and the self-adjudged wise guys on the campus used to call him "J. Gin Jiggs, the Sooner poet." They were very superior (they thought) to him, because they slicked down their hair and went to all the dances; engaged in athletics and assorted pranks, while he spent his time laying the groundwork for a career.

A few years later, a lot of this fellow's former classmates were mildly surprised to learn that he had written a couple of successful New York plays and at least one very well received book. Being older by then, they weren't surprised that the onetime scholarly young man was doing well.

Time rocked along and still the erstwhile Sooner poet continued to make good money out of the theater, both as a writer and a "doctor" of sick plays.

But now, that young man has to his credit—along with a colleague named Oscar Hammerstein 3rd—one of the biggest smash hits in the history of Broadway musicals. Even with the help of the mayor, the average citizen can't get within blocks of the theater. The movie rights have sold—or will sell—for a stupendous sum and the legitimate show is a cinch to last three years on the Main Stem.

In case you're interested, the guy the smarty-pants used to call "J. Gin Jiggs, the Sooner poet," is none other than J. Lynn Riggs and the smash hit he has recently authored is "Oklahoma."

If you'll flip on your radio, the chances are you'll find on the board somewhere one of the songs from that show: "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top," "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," "People Will Think We're in Love," or any one of several others including the title piece, "Oklahoma!"

Some of the half-baked clowns who were in the university with Lynn Riggs used to say he was dumb.

Yeah, he was—and is. Dumb like a fox!

ALTHOUGH we Americans are frequently running into shortages of one thing or another, due to the demands of a war economy, we still are getting along better than our British cousins. They really know what it means to be "all out" of items which we continue to have in at least some abundance.

For instance, in England:

Only half the pre-war quantity of matches is being produced and most of those put on the market go to registered customers.

Approximately one unbrella is manufactured for each 100 persons and they sell at from $16 to $21 apiece. (That wouldn't bother us in West Texas, but in London there's an old saying that "it never rains more than 300 days out of each year!")

Only nine-carat gold "utility" wedding rings are being manufactured—and much fewer in number than the demand for them.

Output of saucepans is one-third the pre-war figure and those of current manufacture rust and blacken very quickly.

Ribbon is practically unobtainable and there is a 100 per cent purchase tax on all cosmetics and perfumery. Brown shoe polish is hard to get because British and American service men have priorities on it.

Only 8,000,000 bobby pins are made annually, against 10 times that number prior to the war.

Football shoes (rugby is a great sport in England) are made only in small quantities and the greater part goes to men in the service. To one well known English school 100 pairs of the shoes were alloted to 1,000 boys. Rugby, incidentally, cannot be played in ordinary shoes, so if regulation footgear is not available, the boys are out of luck.

Trains and depots are heated only in the bitterest weather, leaving many spring and fall months for passengers to shiver through.

Maybe we haven't been hit so hard after all!

The Office Grouch said this morning:

"I'd like to know where the women get those hats they're wearing, but I suppose that's a millinery secret!"

ALTHOUGH there is a general shortage of paper of all kinds, and people even now are urged to save what they can and turn it in for re-use, the Office of War Information—along with thousands of other government bureaus—still operates as if we had an over-supply.

Currently being issued by the Overseas branch of the government propaganda agency is a 40-page booklet, covering the period of Nov. 1-15, called "Calendar of Significant Events." Among the "significant events" listed are:

Nov. 1, 1500—Birth of Benvenuto Cellini.

Nov. 3, 1852—Birth of Emperor Meiji (Mutsuhito) of Japan.

Nov. 3, 1879—Birth of Vilhajalmar Stefasson.

Nov. 3, 1918—German fleet mutinied at Keil.

Nov. 4, 1847—Death of Felix Mendelssohn.

It certainly will be a great day when some semblance of efficiency is returned to the national government—if ever!

NEWS OF BILL STEWART

CHAPTER VI

Vaughan Dunbar spoke slowly and earnestly, in a very low tone, with just the faintest memory of the Scotch Highlands in his phrases. He lounged back in the half-light, his fingertips together, his smooth black hair catching a gleam now and again from the electric bulbs which shone upon the swimming pool hard by.

Cynthia liked him. She thought to herself that for some absurd reason she was pleased that he had not thought to apologize for the rather elaborate formality of his white tie and tailcoat. That was, she thought, the way things were done in Europe — and why should those ways be changed merely because the country night was warm?

"Bill told me," he said, "of the wonderful things you did for him—that time."

"I did little enough. The darling. . . ."

"Yes. That is really the word for old Bill. He is a darling chap—whether in the savage heat of North Africa or the wretchedness of a bistro in Sofia. But a tough one, too. I can tell you that, Miss Merriwether."

"Go on. Please do. What does he say? Does he ever get ill? Is he drinking very much? Is there enough to eat?"

Vaughan Dunbar's low voice launched out. He chose his phrases with care and with great deliberation, and drew the portrait of Bill Stewart's life in Europe and Africa and the Near East. Cynthia listened, enthralled—until Vaughan Dunbar seemed hardly a presence at all, but a mirror reflecting Old Bill, as he wound his strong, devil-may-care way through the bitter mazes of pain and death.

She was startled when Fred West spoke to her. And she was not pleased.

"What goes?" Fred West inquired. "I have some weird memory that this was supposed to be a celebration."

"Oh, Fred," she said. "You startled me."

"Happy indeed to learn I can make some sort of impression on you."

Vaughan Dunbar was standing. "I really did not mean to monopolize Miss Merriwether."

Fred looked at him. The look was not that of a friend. Fred said to Cynthia, "Colonel Merriwether would like to see Mr. Dunbar. Something about getting the lowdown on the European situation."

They walked toward the house, and Vaughan Dunbar sat down beside Colonel Merriwether's desk, and lighted one of the Colonel's cigars, and Fred took a not altogether willing Cynthia off to the dance floor. The musicians had warmed by now and were giving out more lively tunes, and the wine had sown the seeds of merriment.

For something beyond an hour, Vaughan Dunbar conversed with Colonel Merriwether, as others of the guests came in and listened a while and moved out again — telling the tale of European anguish: of veiled hopes in Vichy and Norway and Holland, of fear in the lands whose cities bear such queer and juicy names, of incredible strength in Germany and incredible valor in England.

But despite the fact that certain of the guests found seats and remained in the library, there was no general discussion. For that was not the manner of the Colonel's library at Stone House.

Toward midnight, Vaughan Dunbar arose to go, and Penny Hunter (who saw this happen) told Mitchell Grace to fetch Cynthia (her word being "pronto") and Cynthia came hurrying.

"But Mr. Dunbar will stay with us—mustn't he, Colonel?"

But before the Colonel could give his measured answer, Dunbar hastened to say that he could not think of remaining as house guest. Delightful hospitality, profoundly appreciated—but he had his quarters in the city and certain work which would . . .

"Then you will come back very soon?" a most disappointed Cynthia answered. And Colonel Merriwether spoke also, saying that he would be grateful for further opportunity to share Mr. Dunbar's company and to receive more enlightenment upon the confused events abroad — that Mr. Dunbar was more than welcome to make himself at home at Stone House.

"You are most kind," said Vaughan Dunbar. He seemed, for an astonishing moment, to be confused, or taken aback. But that was for only the most fleeting breath of time.

"If you like any sort of riding, next time you come, we're fresh in with horses," Cynthia said.

Dunbar said, without smiling, "I am afraid I should cut a rather sorry figure. My early education was neglected in that direction."

"But we shall expect you back again."

"Delighted—if I may. You have been so very kind, Miss Merriwether."

"Even a creditor, if he's Bill Stewart's pal, is a friend around here."

"Then I am happy to believe that Bill's debtors are welcome also."

"Sunday is the polo final. You'll be with us then—and no arguments. Please."

"I will be most happy."

AN EXAMPLE OF BUREAUCRACY

Illustrative of why the whole structure of governmental bureaucracy is in such widespread disfavor is such widespread disfavor is R. V. Gilbert, the man selected by the administration to devise a system of price control over cattle.

Mr. Gilbert is an economist. Friends tell him, he says, he is a good economist. Doubtless this is true. He was sufficiently outstanding as a student in dear old Harvard—the President's alma mater—that he has been teaching economics ever since.

But, even before members of a congressional group could ask, he admitted he is totally without practical experience in anything that pertains to the cattle business.

Yet he was entrusted with the job of designing a formula which meant life or death to the cattle business. He drafted a formula—a "simple formula," as he termed it. Veteran cattlemen examined it, blinked their eyes in puzzled astonishment and asked what it meant. When a vague understanding began to dawn upon them, they let out a roar which still reverberates in Washington. They understood it well enough to agree with virtual unanimity that it would mean their ruin, as well as discomfort to meat-eaters.

That was to be expected. It is to be expected in everything on which the government, or anyone else, lays its hands so long as it persists in entrusting vital jobs to theorists without practical experience.

"Don't you trust me any more, Jocko?"

Cynthia walked with him to his car, which stood in the driveway. She shook hands with him and thanked him for coming with such wonderful news of Bill Stewart. He said that he would have the wit to telephone before doing such a thing again. She said it would not be all that formal, unless he insisted upon making it so. And he got into his roadster and drove away toward the city.

Cynthia Merriwether was to be forgiven, perhaps, for the relish with which she told Henry Prentiss of Vaughan Dunbar's arrival upon the scene at Gull Point. The idea of stirring a twinge of jealousy within the breast of that cavalier soul was, of course, beside the point. But he had run out on the party—the pig. And he had been downright abrupt concerning the reasons for that running out. If only he had used a little diplomacy—like business duties, or seeing the doctor, or even an old college chum.

Judge 'Sees' 30 Days For Fortuneteller

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—When Charles Mattucci, 30, who dispenses dope on destiny in a flowing Chinese robe without the formality of a city license, appeared before Municipal Judge Edwin L. Jefferson, the latter, even without a city license himself, dispensed a little dope on destiny in language which he felt sure the soothsayer could not fail to understand::

"I see 30 days in jail ahead of you," the judge forecast. "I' see 150 days of a 180-day sentence suspended. I see you placed on probation for two years and I see you refraining for all that time from telling fortunes."

"Gosh," said the victim.

German Bombers "Laid Off" Until Ernie Got Settled In London

A British Blackout Is Black, Pyle Discovers

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column, written in December 1940, is one of the past Ernie Pyle dispatches we are reprinting during Ernie's vacation.

By ERNIE PYLE

LONDON—The first words I heard spoken in the great city of London were, "Well, he hasn't come yet, sir, he's more than a bit late tonight."

They were spoken by an aged station porter who opened our compartment door and started reaching for our bags. The station was lighted so dimly that I could barely see the man, but his voice was old—though it had gayness in it too.

ERNIE PYLE

What the porter meant was that the Germans had not yet appeared over London this night. They usually arrive like the hands of a clock. Apparently they take off from fields across the Channel a few minutes before dark and arrive over London a few minutes after dark.

But on this night the darkness had already been over London for three hours and still there were no planes. The usual greeting on nights like this, it seems, is not "It's a bad night" or "How is Aunt Tessie's gout?" but "They're late tonight. What could be up?"

Porter A Congenial Soul

Our porter talked constantly as he carried our bags through the station and to the street. We dogged his heels, for we could barely see and we didn't want to get completely lost in our first few minutes in London.

The porter said: "I had a gentleman a bit ago and he said, 'Could I speak with you for a second?' I said, 'Yes indeed you may. Time's up.' The gentleman didn't get it at first, and then he thought it was pretty good. You might as well have a bit of a laugh, I guess."

Our train came into a station right in the center of London. This station has been hit at least three times, and once a German plane fell right through the roof. Yet they clean up damage so quickly that we saw no sign of wreckage in the half-light, and trains were coming and going just as at home.

MAYBE I can give you an idea of how thoroughly London is blacked out at night. George Lait and I had a compartment alone coming from the coast. We were running late, and consequently couldn't tell exactly where we were or how close we were getting to London. The train would stop frequently for several minutes at a time. At these stops we would turn out all lights, then pull the blind and look out, trying to see something familiar. George had lived in London for years and he knows practically every landmark for miles around.

We could never see anything at all. The sky was clear, but we seemed to be out in the country. "We're apparently still a long way off," George said. Then on the next peek, not two minutes later, he said, "Hey, we're here! We're coming into the station!"

We had arrived in the very heart of London before we knew we had even approached the suburbs.

In my first night here not a bomb was dropped on London. In fact, not a single German plane appeared over any part of the British Isles.

Perhaps it was just as well, for if I had arrived in the middle of an inferno of explosion and fire they might have had a berserk American on their hands. But even as it was, those first few minutes in London will be a panorama running before my memory's eye for a lifetime—a panorama more of impressions than of things actually seen.

Shapes Move In The Night

The night was not entirely black. The moon was up, and you could dimly distinguish shapes if not details. You could see the black outline of a car a few yards away, and buildings stood out against the faint hint of light in the sky.

At the porter's shout a taxi pulled up at the curb and we rumbled off into the darkness. There was very little traffic. Maybe two cars to a block. Now and then there was a bus. You could see tiny pinpoints of light moving down the street, but you could get no perspective on them. They were like slowly moving stars in the sky. Then as they came near they would be surrounded by a great black shape and it would be a bus. But you couldn't tell until you were abreast.

AS the moon came out fuller it shone on the sides of the buildings and made them appear snow-covered. The city was ghostly silent. Only the low sound of our motor and the small purr of a passing car. That was all. There was no other sound in the streets of London.

Yet it wasn't like a graveyard. That wasn't the feeling at all. It was like something mysterious, darkly seen in a dream—shapes here, shadows there, tiny lights swimming toward you, dark bulks moving noiselessly away. And where I had expected to see block after block of vacant spaces and jumbled wreckage, there stood block after block of whole buildings.

I thought to myself, Is this nonsense? Or is London really still here? And I realized there in the dark, with a kind of incredulous excitement, that London was still here and very much so.

British Girls Joining RCAF Must Marry

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP) — First British women to join the Canadian Air Force under the new enlistment scheme for the United Kingdom have begun to receive the uniform issue, including the new-style streamlined hat, officials here revealed.

Before these British women, between the ages of 18 and 41, can join up, however, they must marry Canadians.

There are 10,000 British girls married to Canadian servicemen, 7,000 in Sussex alone, and many of them have begun to apply to the London headquarters of the RCAF.

Most of the vacancies in the Canadian air force are in the clerical division, although women are needed in many of the other branches.

The recruits receive Canadian rates of pay—basic minimum of four shillings a day, with extra pay for special duties.

The combined pay of a Canadian soldier and his British-Canadian airwoman wife puts them on "Easy Street," with passage to Canada and retiring allowances after the war.

History Set Ceiling Price On Herring

HINGHAM, Mass., Nov. 12 (U.P.)—You can buy herring in Hingham three times a week for only 25 cents a dozen—regardless of the market price.

An ancient town law provides that a committee must gather and sell the fish on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays to anyone who wants to buy fresh-run herring at the stream side.

Before the war, more than 30 nations had sent accredited representatives to the Vatican.

Ex-Texas Missionary Dies In South India

BOSTON, Nov. 11. (U.P.)—Miss Eva May Swift of Texas, who retired in 1931 after serving 47 years as a missionary, is dead in Banglore, South India, at the age of 80, according to a cablegram received here today by the American Board of Foreign Missions (congregational).

Miss Swift, a native of Huntsville, Ala., held the silver Kaiser-I-Hind medal from the Indian government as a tribute to her work. Among other things, Miss Swift founded the Lucy Perry Noble institute in Madura, India, an institution for the practical training of Indian women and girls.

French Leaders Engage In Row

CAIRO, Nov. 12 (AP)—The recently elected Lebanese parliament was dissolved today by proclamation of French Commissioner Jean Helleu amid a mounting storm of protest, over his dismissal and arrest of high officials of the tiny eastern Mediterranean republic.

At the same time, Helleu, acting with the approval of the French Committee of National Liberation at Algiers, asked former President Emile Eddeh to form a new government and ordered new elections. French troops occupied the government chambers.

As reports of shooting and violence came from several sections of Lebanon, protests piling in upon Helleu reached a vitriolic high in the Egyptian newspaper Almisri.

"Imitate Germans"

"Free French Imitate Germans," cried Almisri's headline over an article that asserted "we don't think the Allies could have been rendered any worse service than by the French. The Germans could not have done more."

The Arab Federation association in Cairo messaged Helleu that "a wave of contempt has swept the Arab world, the results of which can only be bad and the responsibility whereof you will have to bear."

Sir Edwards Spears, British minister to Lebanon and Syria, objected in the name of the British government. Alexander Kirk and Terrence Shone, American and British ministers to Egypt, were received in audience here yesterday by King Farouk, presumably in reference to the situation.

Egypt lodged a protest in strong terms with the French committee at Algiers. Premier Mustapha Nahas Pasha declared that unless French policy was "re-established logically" Egypt "would be bound to consider her position vis-a-vis France in the light of events."

Intelligence Report

tion more than made up for their material losses in combat. During the first six months of this year German aircraft production rose approximately 25 per cent. During that time, despite losses, the Germans were building up a surplus of planes. Since July their losses have exceeded production, but unless this high attrition rate is maintained their losses will be quickly recuperated and in order to feed this recuperation the German air force has refused combat wherever possible.

Steel Position Excellent

Germany's steel position is excellent. In 1938 she had a production of 25,600,000 tons. She now controls resources with a total steel production of 42,000,000 tons.

Germany maintains tremendous coal production. In 1942 she produced 186,000,000 tons. Axis Europe as a whole produced almost double that figure.

Oil Stocks Decreased

German synthetic rubber production will soon meet almost all her requirements for 202,000 tons a year.

Although her oil stocks have decreased, Germany can produce or import more than enough oil to meet her requirements. She has sufficient high-octane gasoline for her air forces.

The attack on the Ploesti oil refineries caused a loss of irreplacable equipment but did not reduce German supplies to a danger point.

The present German production of locomotives is ahead of American production.

Sub Effectiveness Decreased

The effectiveness of submarines against Allied shipping has substantially decreased in recent months but it should be kept in mind that submarines, new or modified, are provided with new weapons and equipment, may reappear in numbers to attack our long supply lines.

This was the picture drawn in the Pacific:

We have yet to reach any main Japanese line of resistance or any point at which they are determined to hold at all costs.

Japan's geography gives her defensive positions great added strength.

Concentrate Air Power

The task of destroying or neutralizing the Japanese fleet is still to be accomplished.

Numerous well-located air bases give the Japanese control of a chain of airdromes running from their homeland to Singapore in the west and the Solomons in the east, so that they are able to concentrate air power at any given point in the Southwest Pacific without delay.

Japanese manpower: In addition to the 75,000,000 Japanese in the homeland, the military machine is supported by labor of nearly 400,000,000 subject peoples. The Japanese still have about 2,000,000 military aged men not yet called for service. In addition they have 1,500,000 men aged 17 to 20 not subject to the draft. She now has more than 60 divisions in service. Some 9,000,000 workers are now employed in war industries as compared with 3,000,000 when she began her campaign in China.

It is estimated Japan has at least 500 more first line planes than at the outbreak of the war. The pilot training program is keeping pace for increased production.

The morale of the Japanese soldier is excellent. They are now on the defensive and they know it, and their idea is to make the war so costly for us that we will give up before the job is done.

Japan has sufficient supplies of all but a few commodities to carry on a long war. She has enough high-octane gasoline for nearly three years. In addition, she has about one and one-half year's supply of lubricating oils. Due to Allied attrition Japan's shipping situation is getting worse.

ORDINANCE INVALID

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12. (AP)—A Wichita county district court decision holding invalid a Wichita Falls city ordinance taxing Bowen Bus company operations between that city and nearby Army installations was upheld here today by the second court of civil appeals.

Slavs On Offensive In Widespread Area

LONDON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Partisan forces of Gen. Josip Broz (Tito) are smashing at the Germans in successful offensive in Matedonia, Dalmatia, Montenegro, Hercegovina and esatern Boshnia, today's war bulletin said.

According to the communique, only in Slovenia were the partisans on the defensive, while in Serbia heavy fighting was reported in progress against Germans and units of Serb Chetniks.

Near Uzice in western Serbia 60 Bulgarians were reported killed in fighting with occupation troops.

The Germans in radio broadcasts, however, declared that they had thrown additional motorized formations into the northwest Balkans, and that "large-scale operations" already had smashed guerrilla resistance in the Majevica mountains.

Striking at German transports on the Sava river, the Yugoslavs said they sank one motorship and damaged another, repulsing a force of 1,000 Ustachis and six tanks dispatched to save the ships and their cargo.

Allied Drive Slowed

freight yards at Prato near Florence.

Liberators Return Safely

The Liberators were unescorted and all returned safely.

Despite the slow Allied march, the Germans apparently had little hope of holding Gaeta very long. Aerial reconnaissance showed they had blown up the oil tanks at that west coast port nine miles behind the present lines.

Reconnaissance also brought back evidence that they had carried out new demolitions at Leghorn, sinking two more ships in Leghorn harbor in an effort to close its northern entrance. The Germans apparently had decided to dispense with the use of Leghorn even for coastal shipping and sealed the harbor to impede any Allied raids or coastal-supporting landings.

Widespread Air Activity

There also was widespread Allied air activity over the front and behind the lines.

American invaders blew up an ammunition dump, attacked a bridge, strafed a locomotive and destroyed four trucks near Cassino, eight miles beyond Mignano. Warhawks attacked several strong points. Bostons and Baltimores blew up a chemical works at Bussi, 23 miles northeast of Avezzano, and South African and British fighter-bombers plastered numerous gun positions.

Boys, 6 And 3, Found Living In Dog House

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Six-year old Robert Kritsa and his brother, Larry John, 3, were found by county police yesterday living in a dog house on the suburban summit town dump with five dogs and a goat.

Police Lt. Max Ramelow said Robert told him his mother had left the boys several months ago with a family living in a shack near the drainage canal along with pigs, dogs and goats.

The boys ran away two days ago, Robert related, because "the pigs, dogs and goats crowded the house." They told police they took the five dogs and one goat for companions.

Robert said he had not seen his mother in more than two months.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Turkish Shipments To Nazis May End

ANKARA, Nov. 12 (AP)—Turkey was asked by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at the recent Cairo conferences to eliminate shipments to Germany of certain important war materials which might prove useful in the arms industries, it was reported today.

Few authentic details of the talks between Turkish and British officials, however, have leaked out since Turkish Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu and British Ambassador Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Huglessen returned to Ankara.

Sir Hughe has declined to see the press and has forbidden embassy officials to discuss any points of the conference which may come to their knowledge.

This action was reported to have been taken on orders from British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, apparently for the purpose of keeping the intensely interested Germans and their satellite states guessing.

Turkish officials are maintaining a similar closed-mouth attitude.

New Tax Program

adjusting some surtaxes.

2. Boost some postal rates and hike excises, to bring in about $1,375,000,000 additional revenue —around $479,000,000 of which would come from consumers of liquor, beer and wine.

Liquor Taxes Raised

After about-facing four times, the committee decided to put the liquor tax at $9 a gallon, compared with the present $6 rate. The beer tax would be jumped from $7 to $8 a barrel and wine increased all along the line. There are no increases in cigarette or other tobacco excises.

The bill would raise the in-town letter rate from 2 cents to 3, leaving the out-of-town charge at 3 cents; jump the airmail rate from 6 cents to 8, double 3rd class mail rates, insured and COD mail, and increase charges for registered mail and money orders. No change is made in 2nd class rates or in special delivery charges.

Raises Excess Profits Tax

3. It would raise the excess profits tax on corporations and readjust the method of computing excess profits.

4. It would add $140,000,000 by disallowing as deductions in personal income tax returns sums paid on excises, such as gasoline, cigaret and liquor taxes.

5. The law governing renegotiation of war contracts for recovery of excessive profits would be revised drastically.

Although the committee approved the $2,142,900,000 bill in detail, there still is a possibility it may make some changes before tossing it on the House floor. Moreover there is a chance it may be rewritten in the Senate, when the administration may present its case for still higher taxes again.

WLB Authority

vent such acts."

WLB spokesmen said this was an expression of the board's feeling that it may need additional powers if another crisis arises.

Legislative Sanctions Asked

"Legislative sanctions more thorough-going than now exist," the opinion added, "may be required unless organized labor itself demonstrates from now on its determination to accept the bitter with the sweet, and to comply with the orderly processes of government which have been set up to cope with war-time conditions."

The opinion was signed by Chairman William H. Davis, vice chairman George W. Taylor and Dr. Frank P. Graham. The fourth public member, Wayne L. Morse, dissented. The industry statement was signed by George Mead, Reuben Robertson, James Tanham, and Walter Margetts.

The three public members saw the possibility of an issue arising over travel time figures when the time comes for restoration of private operation of the mines.

A mixed chorus from Lubbock Senior High school, under the direction of Mrs. Mary A. Ware, instructor of music in junior and senior high schools, presented a variety program at today's meeting of the American Business club in Hilton hotel. The program was composed of spirituals and patriotic songs. Nora McMurry was vocalist and Winston Redwine was accompanist. An added highlight was two humorous readings by Wanda Massey. Alton Taylor, vice president, presidede.

Seventeen-year-old Floyd Bennett was named this morning in a theft over $50 complaint filed by District Attorney Burton S. Burks in the court of Walter Davies, justice of peace. Bennett and two other Lubbock youths, it was alleged by officials, rode in a stolen car to Amarillo Thursday, to see the Sandies-Westerners ball game. They were arrested in Amarillo city limits. The other youths, both juveniles, were absolved of blame by Bennett, who elected to face trial alone. The other two were released by order of Burks.

Byrnes To Hear Plea For Texas Steel Mill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Representative Patman (D-Tex) and his backers turned to the Office of War Mobilization today in their plea for a $40,000,000 steel plant at Daingerfield, Texas.

Patman, who said yesterday that a conference was being arranged with President Roosevelt, disclosed that the question of priorities on building materials for the mill would be taken instead to James F. Byrnes, head of the mobilization office, inasmuch as only domestic policies were involved.

Coal Production Is Back To Normalcy

(By The United Press)

Coal production returned to normal today except in scattered mines where workers, who failed to join the Armistice day walkout to protest the government's refusal to pay time and a half, decided to take today as a holiday.

An estimated 3,500 miners remained out in eight western and central Pennsylvania mines. Production returned to normal in Alabama, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP) — Ray Atherton, now serving as minister to Canada, was nominated by President Roosevelt today for advancement to the rank of ambassador.

Tech Homecoming

be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Three awards to parents will be made by Maxine Craddock, student body president. These awards include: the parent having traveled the greatest distance, the parent having the most children enrolled in Tech at the present and the parent present who has had the most children enrolled in Tech since its beginning.

Texas Tech Matador band will play at the convocation, followed by the invocation to be given by Rev. A. H. Carleton of St. John's Methodist church. President Clifford B. Jones will give the opening address.

Following the awards given to parents, honors and awards to students and presentation of donors will be observed. Donors of awards have been invited to attend the convocation. All students to be recognized may not be present; however, their parents have been notified by mail. Special recognition of students who have achieved scholastic merit will be given by divisions of the college. This recognition will be given by Dean Margaret Weeks, division of Home Economics; Dean A. H. Leidigh, division of Agriculture; Dean J. M. Gordon, division of Arts and Sciences; Dean J. O. Ellsworth, division of Commerce; Dean O. V. Adams, division of Engineering and Major Frank Hangs, division of Military Science and Tactics. President Jones will give recognition to the honor societies.

Closing the convocation, Rev. William F. Blankeslee of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church will give the benediction followed by music from the Tech band.

To Be Seated Together

Members of the special honor societies to be presented will be seated together. These societies include Alpha Chi, Kappa Mu Epsilon, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Sigma Tau Delta, Tau Beta Pi and Freshman Honor society.

Faculty committee of the scholarship awards to be presented include C. V. Bullen, chairman, Miss Lucile Gill, E. L. Mader, W. M. Craig and Dr. Eunice Gates. Students of committees assisting in parent's day recognition are Bernice Cocanougher, Elbert Rankin, Bob Slater, Betty Jo Morgan and Rowena McKinley.

Dean James G. Allen is chairman of the convocation committee.

This, the fifteenth Tech Homecoming, has abandoned its annual parade usually held on Saturday morning.

Another major event of the celebration is the Texas Tech-NTAC football game which is begin at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Admission prices are $1.65 for end zone seats and $2.20 for others. Tickets may be secured in the gym.

Between halves of the game, the annual freshman scramble for shoes will be held.

Also, at the half of the game the Texas Tech Matador band will salute North Texas Agriculture college by playing their school song as they form the letters NTAC. Following this, the band will form the words MOM and POP in recognition of Parent's day. The band will conclude with the forming of the double T and playing of the Matador song.

Parents of football boys will be seated together at the game and will wear corresponding numbers to those worn on the playing field.

During the entire time of the festivities, the Administration building will be aglow — having both towers lighted with traditional red lights. A lighted V will adorn the entrance of the building.

Negro's Voting Right Studied

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — The Supreme court took under advisement today litigation to determine whether negroes have the constitutional right to vote in a Texas Democratic primary to nominate members of Congress.

William H. Hastie, Washington, D. C., attorney, argued that "the primary election scheme in Texas was created by statutes" and hence a 1932 resolution by the Democratic party of Texas excluding negroes from voting in primaries was ineffective.

He added that all of the justices of the Untied States Supreme court, in a 1941 case from Louisiana, "agreed that the right to vote in a direct primary election which the state has made an integral part of the procedure of choice among candidates for Congress or which in fact effectively controls such choice, is secured by the constitution as fully as is the right to vote in a general election."

Exclusion Upheld In 1935

The litigation involved whether the tribunal should overrule its 1935 opinion sustaining the exclusion of negroes from voting in Texas primaries. The exclusion was upheld then on the ground that the action was taken by the Democratic party and not by the state.

Hastie and Thurgood Marshall, New York attorney who argued Wednesday, represented Lonnie E. Smith, Houston negro who was barred from voting in a 1940 primary by the election judges of the 48th precinct of Harris county, Texas.

Both the federal district court at Houston and the 5th federal circuit court ruled against Smith.

Farmers Assured Of Sufficient Prices

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 12. (AP)—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones today assured farmers they will receive prices high enough to enable them to continue record production of food, feed and fiber for the war program.

Speaking at the annual convention of the National Grange, Jones said the problem of 1944 prices will not be ignored by the administration because farmers must be assured of sufficient income to keep up production.

"Food production we must have, and it, too, can result from a wise and equitable sharing of responsibilities and rewards," he said. "The nation and the consumer should be willing to share that responsibility and enable the support of prices that are necessary."

Asking for the fullest cooperation of farm organizations, Jones indirectly appealed to the grange to support the administration's farm program despite the Grange's strong opposition to the use of subsidies—an integral part of that program.

Stock Market

LATE TRADING STUMBLES

NEW YORK Nov. 12 (AP) — The stock market stumbled in the latter part of today's session after getting off to a fairly good start on an extension of the recovery move.

Transfers were around 800,000 shares.

International Telephone stocks and bonds weakened as belated recognition was given steps taken by the Argentine government to put stricter regulations on communications companies in the republic. The I. T. & T. has important holdings there.

American Distilling again was a spectacular jumper. Resistant were N. Y. Central Pennsylvania, Chesapeake & Ohio, American Telephone, Texas Co., J. I. Case, Pepsi-Cola, Schenley and American Can.

Commonwealth & Southern preferred got up more than 3 on a relatively large turnover.

Laggards included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Western Union, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, U. S. Gypsum, Anaconda and Allied Chemical.

out the western Ukraine, his right and left wings methodically consolidated their gains and rolled forward on a steadily widening arc to mop up small German gaps between the last German-held lateral line and the Dnieper.

(Stockholm quoted Berlin advices that the Germans had ordered the evacuation of civilians from the Ukraine adjacent to Poland and the Polish cities of Lwow and Cracow, together with Minsk in White Russia.)

After smashing the formidable German defenses in the greater Kiev area, Vatutin swiftly maneuvered his vanguards, striking Nazi communications in an attempt to encircle the survivors of what was called the "Kiev massacre."

Fighting Delaying Action

Fighting what now was described as only a delaying action, the Germans abandoned scores of towns and villages on the northwest Ukrainian plans, leaving rich stores of armaments and supplies.

Front dispatches said the Nazi flight had become a "debacle" which could be gauged from the fact that the Russians were able to knock out 42 German tanks in a single battle in the Zhitomir area.

Violent fighting flared up in southern White Russia, in the Rechitsa area west of Gomel. Gen. Ivan Popov's forces pressed the foe back toward the Pripet river, at the same time fanning out southward for an eventual junction with Vatutin's men northwest of Kiev.

The latest front reports went beyond the official announcement that Russian tanks and motorised infantry had swept through Berezovka, 63 miles west of Kiev and 16 miles east of the Zhmerinka-Zhitomir-Korosten railroad.

With the capture of Berezovka, the Russians already were within 20 miles of Zhitomir, terminus of a concrete highway from Kiev and key junction on the longitudinal railroad. A thrust due west from Berezovka might cut the railroad north of Zhitomir and outflank the town itself.

In beating down fierce German rear guard resistance in one sector east of Zhitomir, the Soviets killed 800 Germans and knocked out 42 tanks.

More than 100 towns and villages were overrun yesterday by Russian columns fanning out from Kiev, including Velikayarachya, 38 miles northeast of Korosten, Zarude, 39 miles southeast of Korosten, and Kornin, 43 miles northeast of Berdichev.

Some 80 miles to the north, the Russians attacked German defenses between Rechitsa and Ruchayevka, 45 miles northwest of Chernigov and 28 miles from the Gomel-Pinsk railroad, one of the last two escape routes to the east for the Gomel garrison. At least five other villages were seized and 2,000 Germans killed.

increasing proportion of troops and supplies to the lines that passed through eastern France and entered Italy east of Modane and Cannes.

Only Branch Lines Remain

Only a few inadequate, roundabout branch lines, some of which pass through Switzerland, remained undamaged between Germany and Italy.

To top off the offensive against German communications, a small formation of unescorted Liberators from the Northwest African Air forces crossed the Alps and bombed railroad yards at Annecy, a junction on two branch lines linking Geneva, Aix-Les-Bains and Chambery.

A ball bearing factory also was bombed at Annecy, which lies in eastern France 35 miles south of Geneva. It was the deepest penetration of France ever made by the Northwest African Air forces.

British-based Mosquito bombers which hit Berlin, Hanover and the Ruhr last night were believed engaged mainly in a diversionary effort to keep German night fighters and anti-aircraft crews on edge. Other British-based planes from the RAF fighter command attacked an airfield and railway targets in France, Belgium and Holland during the night.

The attack on Berlin was the 6th of the war and the 14th recorded Mosquito raid on the German capital since mid-August.

Seven bombers and one fighter were lost in the RAF night raids from Britain. The Northwest African bombers returned to their bases without loss.

longtime friend.

The task confronting him was regarded as having more intricate responsibilities than Herbert Hoover's job as relief administrator of World War I. Many observers said, he will work for all the 43 United associated nations where Hoover worked only for the United States—with one boss instead of a multiplicity. This will complicate his job.

In addition, he will have less to work with. A much larger part of the world has been occupied and exploited by the Axis than by the central powers. Less supplies are available. He must bring speedy relief to an estimated 200,000,000 of the world population in Europe and the Far East. He must supervise the repatriation of an estimated 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 conquered people who have been driven from their homelands or taken away to concentration camps and enforced labor.

GOP Planning For Annual Convention

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The Republican national committee today recognized a grass roots desire for more participation in party affairs by inviting state leaders to meet with committeemen to select the time and place for the 1944 Republican convention.

Chairman Harrison E. Spangler summoned the national committee to meet in Chicago Jan. 10 and 11 to select the convention site.

"At the same time," the announcement read, "Mr. Spangler called the state chairmen and vice chairmen of the Republican party to meet."

Spangler, an Iowan, is sold on the idea of increasing the activity and participation of local party organizations from coast to coast. He plans shortly to make a radio address to precinct workers urging them to put the party machine in order.

ODT Request Considered

Committee men will have before them a request from the Office of Defense transportation that both Republican and Democratic national conventions be at Chicago this year. The ODT feels that delegates could go there with the least strain on transportation.

Both Cleveland and Philadelphia have indicated interest in the conventions and Cleveland, perhaps other cities, probably would offer a larger cash guarantee as an inducement than would Chicago.

Supporters of Wendell L. Willkie for the Republican nomination might prefer Cleveland or Philadelphia to Chicago. Some persons regard Illinois, and notably Chicago, as territory hostile to his foreign policy ideas.

Late Convention Talked

There has been some talk of a late convention and short campaign but equally there seems to be sentiment for the traditional June convention date.

Through the years of Republican domination of national politics, Democrats obtained such advantage as may have existed in holding their convention a week or 10 days after the GOP meeting, although both met in June. President Roosevelt suggested before his third term nomination that presidential campaigns should be shortened. The 1940 Democratic national convention, accordingly, met in July. Mr. Roosevelt travelled little, never went west of Dayton, O., and designated such speaking trips as he made as inspections of national defense plants.

Republicans met in June in 1940 and Willkie opened his campaikn with an Elwood, Ind., acceptance speech in August, thereafter stumping the country thoroughly, including parts of the Solid South.

Democrats probably will meet in July or later next year and surely will if Mr. Roosevelt is to be a fourth term candidate.

Fifty Decorated For Malaria Experiment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — Fifty soldiers who risked their lives in a deliberate exposure to malaria in the New Guinea jungles as part of a medical experiment have been decorated with the Legion of Merit, the War department announced today.

The test, reminiscent of the action of a group under Major Walter Reed who exposed themselves to yellow fever in Cuba in 1900-1901 to prove that disease was transmitted by mosquitoes, covered a period of six weeks.

The men, all privates, were quartered in a swampy cocoanut grove near a native village where the inhabitants showed a high percentage of malarial infection. They spent their working hours at hard physical labor, and no steps were taken to protect them. An undisclosed number contracted malaria, and received prompt treatment — but only after they became victims.

Among those who volunteered to expose themselves without any protection and who received the decorations were:

Carroll A. Hermanson, San Antonio, and Van Carlton, Groveton, Tex.

Liberalized Rules On Tires Are Announced

Liberalized regulations under which passenger and truck tires of sizes smaller than 7.50-20 can be obtained were reported at Lubbock district offices of the Office of Defense Transportation Thursday. Officials added that the regulation probably will increase the difficulties of obtaining used passenger car tires.

The three types of vehicles are those carrying: (1) Bakery goods, groceries, meats, fish, poultry, fresh fruits, vegetables and dairy products; (2) laundry and dry cleaning (apparel only); (3) drugs, medicines and medical supplies.

Heretofore, commercial delivery vehicles were ineligible for tires unless they were used exclusively for handling ice, fuel, milk or as common carriers, it was recalled by Richard E. Wood, district ODT director.

Smith was returning from San Angelo where he participated in yesterday afternoon's football game between San Angelo and Big Spring.

Germany's Fantastic Rocket Bomb Said Mechanical Marvel

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story on Germany's mysterious "rocket bomb" is a composite of information obtained by Associated Press correspondents in the actual fighting areas and elsewhere).

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Germany's fantastic new rocket bomb, employed against Allied ships in several theaters of war recently, is an engineering and mechanical marvel that flies through the air with the greatest of ease, chases its targets and often behaves as if it had a built-in brain.

Definite announcement that such a weapon existed was first made by Prime Minister Churchill in a speech on September 21. Details of the bomb's operation were not given, but persons who have seen the bomb in action give the following weird but true data on its performance:

Actually there are two types of rocket bomb. One apparently is a straight-away rocket fired directly from the aircraft simply to give it greater accuracy and speed than the usual gravity-propelled bomb.

"Buck Rogers" Type

The other is a real "Buck Rogers" sort of device. It is armor-piercing with a delayed-action fuse and it is estimated to weigh 3,000 to 3,500 pounds.

Its body is like a torpedo, about 25 inches in diameter and a dozen feet long. It has an eight-foot wing-span and a tail assembly which make it look like a midget airplane.

In flight it emits whitish smoke from its tail, and a fiery glow. Seagoing lookouts who saw the first ones identified them as burning aircraft.

Released From High Plane

The bomb is released from a high-flying plane. Ten thousand feet is the lowest reported level, and many have been detected above 20,000. This seemingly is in order to give the releasing plane greater safety from anti-aircraft fire and to allow the bomb-aimer more time to line up his target. Apparently the aimer must have both bomb and target ship in clear view if he is to succeed.

Once released, the bomb glides in the same direction as the parent aircraft at a speed estimated in the neighborhood of 400 miles per hour.

Its flight is almost horizontal, with a slight downward glide Over the target it suddenly dips into a vertical dive and hurtles downward with the aid both of gravity and rocket impetus. Its force and penetrating power are gigantic.

Partly Shatters

On striking a hard object, the wings, tail fins and sometimes the rocket's rear section shatter off.

The vertical dive apparently is controlled by the operator via radio, although magnetic attraction may also play a part in the latter stages of its descent.

So far as is known it has been used only against ships.

While on the horizontal the bomb can alter course to any point of the compass, pursuing an evasive target ship. However, once it goes into its dive it cannot apparently be controlled further.

Sgt. Earlon Brewer Is Killed In Italy

Official notification that Sgt. Earlon A. Brewer, 24, of near Levelland, was killed in action in Italy Sept. 22 has been received by his widow, who resides in Levelland, friends of the family reported while visiting in Lubbock today.

Sgt. Brewer was farming in Hockley county, near Levelland, when he entered army service in July, 1942.

Fugitive From Jail At Conroe Caught

HOUSTON, Nov. 12. (U.P.) — Arlice Huffman, 20-year-old fugitive from the Montgomery county jail at Conroe, was captured today by an auxiliary policeman who recognized the prisoner from a police bulletin picture.

Bobby May, the other half of the will o'the wisp duo of jail breakers, was still at large.

Huffman charged that May "robdowntown street corner by auxiliary policeman Marvin Zindler, claimed he had been robbed by May.

He was not armed.

Huffman charged that May 'robbed me of $35 out of $37 Thursday night as I slept. He's a rat."

The fugitive, charged with burglary, joined with May, 21, in making good a second escape from the Conroe jail Tuesday night They dug tiles from their cell wall with the handle of a tin cup, made their way into the prison runway, ambushed Jailer W. C. Thomas, took his keys and locked him in a cell.

Twenty-four hours later the pair reportedly hijacked a Conroe taxicab driver, ousting him from his cab and leaving him standing by a country cemetery.

The two escaped Oct. 17 from the Conroe jail and were captured three days later in Houston.

Damage Is $100,000 In Ft. Worth Fire

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12. (AP)—Fire and smoke damage that may approximate $100,000 was caused early this morning when flames broke out in a rear store room of the Clover Grill cafe, 701 Main street, and spread to five nearby places of business.

Firemen operating 15 pieces of equipment battled the flames for nearly an hour before the three-alarm fire was brought under control.

Odell Allen, manager of the grill, estimated that loss at his place of business may amount to $40,000. An employe of the cafe discovered the flames, and Allen attempted to extinguish them with a hand extinguisher before calling the fire department at 12:45 a. m.

The flame spread rapidly up an elevator shaft to the roof of the building and spread to the adjoining building.

Boy Recovers From 'Lost Dog' Fever

DALLAS, Nov. 12. (U.P.)—Nine-year-old Pat McDowell of Dallas was up and about today, completely cured of the fever which beset him when he lost his dog.

Pat found a mongrel dog and brought it home, but his mother gave it to the Dallas humane society because the McDowells already had one dog.

Then Pat was taken ill and had a high fever. A doctor was called in, but the doctor said the only thing that would cure Pat was the return of the dog.

So, after several day's search, the dog was found, and Pat got well.

Local Guard Units Hold 'Open House'

Lubbock units of the Texas State Guard demonstrated equipment and explained their work Thursday in an "open house" at the fairgrounds as a part of the observance of State Guard Week. A "fair" crowd was reported.

Over three-fourths of the personnel of companies of the South Plains' 39th battalion responded at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning to a mobilization order issued by Gov. Coke Stevenson.

Company A, commanded by Capt. Walter F. Smith, and the headquarters detachment, commanded by Lt. C. M. (Chick) Trout, demonstrated riot control, which included dispersal of a mob and rescue of a prisoner in danger, the use of tear gas, guns and other weapons furnished the guard by the federal government.

Principal address was by Maj. B. C. McCasland, commander of the 39th battalion. A brief address also was delivered by the battalion chaplain, Capt. Jeff D. Welch.

Guard officers announced that a series of programs will be given by squads of the local units before Lubbock luncheon clubs next week. The programs orginally were scheduled to be given this week but were postponed because of a conflict with programs arranged by local schools in connection with National Education week.

Approximately 100 men have enlisted this week in the various South Plains units of the guard, it was learned here.

Announcement also was made that the headquarters detachment ranked third in the state in October in attendance at drill periods.

Restraint Of AP Is Asked

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP) — The government asked the United States district court today perpetually to enjoin and restrain the Associated Press from observing by-laws which "permit newspapers desiring AP service to be denied such service because they offer competition to existing AP members."

A proposed form of judgment in the government's civil anti-trust suit against the AP also would restrain the news-gathering cooperative from withholding its services from non-AP newspapers, from carrying out its exclusive news contract with the Canadian Press and from observing by-laws regarding exclusiveness of local spontaneous news furnished by its members. On these, however, the AP could apply for modification if it amended its by-laws regarding admission of members.

146 Findings Of Fact

The Department of Justice disclosed its proposed judgment and 146 findings of fact which it said would be filed at 9:30 a. m. (EWT). The government was directed to submit its proposals when a special court ruled October 6 in a 2-to-1 decision that the AP had the right to pass upon admission of applicants but that the by-laws "in their present form" violated the anti-trust laws.

The court had directed that the by-laws be changed to prevent a member in the same publishing field (morning, evening or Sunday) in the same city as a competing applicant from imposing any conditions for admission.

The court left to the AP the adoption of "substitutes which will restrict admission" but indicated that if "admission to AP were properly liberalized" the by-laws providing for the exclusiveness of local news, the confining of AP dispatches to its own members, and the contract between AP and the Canadian Press would be within the law.

The AP now has 30 days to file counter-proposals to the government's proposed findings of fact and judgment. The final form will then be decided by the court, after which appeal may be taken to the Supreme court.

War Sets Off Many Related Impressions

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

It's taking a mighty lot of different materials to win the war and build our brave new world, and often in studying the current news in preparation for writing this column I feel like breaking away from the formal article and just setting down some of the medley of impressions which one gets from this humanized daily history of mankind—and today we'll mix it up a bit.

What first—the war or the murder case in British Nassau? All right, I'll concede the mystery story. Red-robed and bewigged Chief Justice Sir Oscar Bedford Daly declared in charging the jury:

"No man in the empire, even in time of war, can be found guilty except on verdict of a jury."

Law Applies In America

Impression: That law applies in America, too. One of the things this war is being fought for is to sustain such rights. You have that driven home when you recall Hitler's savage threat in his Munich beer-hall speech last week:

"What happened in 1918 will not happen a second time. When many thousands must fall in battle, I will not hesitate to put a few hundred criminals (people advocating peace) to death at home."

The Red forces thundering southwestward from Kiev are a hundred miles or so from the Rumanian frontier. That border is Hitler's lid which is keeping all hell from breaking loose in the Balkans.

Impression: the moment the fuehrer is forced to withdraw his control from this cockpit of southeastern Europe, the Balkans will blow up in his face. No wonder the Allies and the Turks are whispering animatedly.

Nelson Lauds Reds

War Production Board Donald Nelson, in telling a press conference about his recent trip to the Soviet Union, said the Russians had perfected the flow of materials in war industry—"I mean the flow of material into a plant, and the flow of material out, much better than we have."

Impression: when you're fighting the greatest battles ever waged and are consuming more war material then ever before has been poured into conflict, you have no alternative but to perfect your flow of supplies. There can be no consideration in Russian industry of anything but to move supplies as fast as human strength and skill permit. That's a home-front job, and Russian civilians are a lot nearer the actualities of war than we in America.

Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, gave the House of Commons an accounting of his stewardship at the Moscow tripartite conference. He didn't make many disclosures, but he did say that the major success of the parley was in "the basis of good-will and confidence" with it established among the big three.

Impression: that's the foundation of all peace. Also, it does seem like a good idea for a foreign minister, or other members of cabinet, to appear before parliament and talk direct to the members. Do I hear someone paging "that gallant American eagle," Mr. Cordell Hull?

American and British bombers yesterday made heavy attacks on Brenner Pass and the Mont Cenis tunnel.

Impression: these are Nazi bottlenecks into northern Italy. They're at once the routes for supplies and reinforcements into Italy, and the mountain gateways for escape of Hitler's forces from the peninsula. Cork up these bottlenecks and Marshal Rommel's expeditionary force in Italy will be in a nasty position.

Seven Turkish Fliers At Texas School

MOORE FIELD, Nov. 12. (AP) — All the way from Istanbul to the Rio Grande valley, seven Turkish army aviators have come to this advanced single engine fighter school to take their advanced training—and they're liking it.

Heading the contingent is Capt. Ferit Goksel, a veteran of 10 years in the air. With him are first Lts. Orham Akis, Selcuk Okyay, Nevzat Akue, Muzaffer Sanal, Selahattin Oktus and Rauf Ersoy. They wear flashy uniforms—dark blue trousers with a thin red stripe along the seams, dark blue shirts and overseas caps to match. On their shoulders they wear gold stars which, under U. S. Army regulations, would mean generals. The first lieutenants wear two stars and the captain three, in addition to bars similar to those worn by U. S. lieutenants.

The men have had only 100 lessons in English, yet they seem to be getting onto the hang of its pretty well. They are keenly interested in U. S. aviation lingo and are picking up those words faster than any others.

Armistice Observance Is Quiet In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 12. (UP) — Armistice day went virtually unobserved in Mexico, although the Anglo-American and French colonies held services commemorating their war dead.

The largest service was at the French cemetery, where Maurice Garreau-Dombasle, a member of the committee for French national liberation, promised that the sons of those soldiers who fell at Valmy, the Marne and Verdun would "again restore liberty, equality and fraternity to mother France."

The Anglo-American colony held services in the British cemetery.
